Rabies Fight Continues

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP)—City officials are confident a door-to-door pet vaccination drive can turn the tide of battle in Eagle Pass' war with rabies - the deadly disease that has killed one resident and left another hospitalized in "very critical condition."

"I don't see anything else but this. I don't think it can fail," said City Manager Robert Gonzalez, who indicated the program could start late today.

Decontrol Endorsed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The nation's governors today strongly endorsed President Carter's plan to deregulate the price of crude oil and use the "windfall" profits to help solve the country's energy problems.

By a vote of 19-9 at the closing session of its annual convention, the National Governors Association adopted a resolution supporting the president's embattled policy in virtually every detail.

"Deregulation is necessary to provide industry the incentive to produce more energy and move toward full replacement cost," the resolution said.

Resignation Rumored

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—President Anastasio Somoza's resignation was again rumored to be imminent today as a knowledgeable military source said the national guard's situation was "hopeless."

Managua residents, who depend mostly on government broadcasts and publications and rebel radio stations for their news, flagged down foreign correspondents' cars Monday to ask: "Is he gone?"

"He's leaving at midnight," a boy of 12 volunteered. "Everybody is saying it. He's going to Miami."

Begin Goes To Egypt

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Prime Minister Menachem Begin arrived in Egypt today for a three-day summit with President Anwar Sadat at this Mediterranean coastal resort, but both sides said they expect no major advance toward agreement on Palestinian autonomy.

TWISTER REPORTED--T.E. Gideon (top photo) of Ira stands behind where his carport was the day before. He says he heard a roaring noise about 8:45 last night, looked out the window and saw a small tornado rip the carport off the side of the house. "It lifted it up in the air spinning and you can see where it landed," he said pointing to debris scattered across a field behind his home. His car, which was in the carport at the time was unscratched. Ralph Lindsey (below) of Ira also lost a building to the storm. A storage shed in his back yard toppled and ended up in his garden about 20 feet away. (SDN Staff Photos)

Thunderstorm Activity Has Residents On Edge

Heavy thunderstorm activity kept Snyder area residents on edge for a time Monday night, but produced little rainfall.

High winds and brilliant displays of lightning erupted from heavy clouds which moved through the area mostly between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

At least two reports of twisting winds were logged in Scurry County, one resulting in considerable damage to some outbuildings.

A small twister was blamed for destroying a carport at the T.E. Gideon residence at Ira. The carport was lifted over the house and then debris was scattered over a field. In the same immediate area, a storage shed at the Ralph Lindsey residence was picked up by the wind and moved several yards.

There was another report of a twister at the Plainview community east of town, but it apparently did not touch down.

Electric power was interrupted, but outages were only temporary. Texas Electric Service Co. report some brief interruptions in Snyder because of the lightning and high winds.

Snyder had .22 inch of rain in the official gauge at the city water plant. Rainfall totalling up to .70 was reported in the Fluvanna area, and half an inch fell at Ira.

However, no rain was reported at Hermleigh and only a sprinkle fell at Lake J.B. Thomas. Also, Gail had only a sprinkle.

The thunderstorm activity served to cool off the area. The official thermometer had recorded a high of 98 degrees Monday afternoon, which followed a reading of 100 degrees on Sunday. Following storms, the mercury dipped to a low of 60 degrees.

The winds in and around Snyder caused some damage to trees and shrubbery, ripping off limbs and leaves.

Lightning was blamed for two fires. The Snyder fire department was called at 7:40 p.m. to put out a hay fire 14 miles north of town on the Polar Road, and at 9:05 p.m. to a tank battery fire 19 miles southwest of town.

TOPPLED TREE---A mulberry tree was split by the force of Monday night's storm at the Joe Sanchez residence at 1805 28th St. For all the intensity of wind and lightning, however, only .22 of an inch of rain was recorded. Mrs. Sanchez is shown beside the tree. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

We knew it was coming sooner or later, but you're never ready for these things. Our first 100-degree day finally appeared, but this year it waited till after the July 4th celebration was over.

And when the mercury soars, the talk usually turns to rain because that is the No. 1 source of relief and usually is the No. 1 agricultural need at this season of the year.

And, true to the season, someone dropped this note off at the newspaper office and it wound up on our desk: "J.D. Patterson drove to Lubbock the other day and stopped at a station for gas. He asked the old man who was servicing his car if they'd had any rain. The old man said, 'We had some 16 miles out but I didn't get to go.'"

That sounds like a Hondo Crouch story, and the little grey-haired bearded one undoubtedly would appreciate it if he still lived.

Weather jokes are another example of how Texans are able to laugh at their adversities. Now we have the energy jokes, especially those dealing with gasoline, to test our sense of humor.

But mostly the energy comments are loaded with irony rather than levity.

The Texas Office of Traffic Safety collects little items involving highway travel and recently came up with this one:

"This year, America will send $60 billion overseas to buy foreign oil. Over half of all the oil we use goes for transportation. We're petroleum junkies, and we may become the first people in history to drive ourselves to the poorhouse."

The Doug Flynns just returned from a vacation in Europe, and he reports that they had no trouble finding gasoline. You could get all you wanted for $2.15 per gallon. Now we are beginning to understand why they build little cars over there.

The cactus patch philosopher says we should think twice before complaining about the weather. Just think how it might be if the government was controlling it instead of predicting it.

Skylab Countdown Ticks Toward End

WASHINGTON (AP)-Skylab's "countdown to crash" ticked relentlessly on today, and a space agency official said there is a good chance all the debris from the faltering hulk will plunk harmlessly into the south Atlantic or Indian oceans on Wednesday.

"Right now, it looks like it's going to come down in the south Atlantic Ocean or in the Indian Ocean," said Richard G. Smith, head of the space agency's Skylab task force.

The North American Air Defense Command said today in its 6:55 a.m. EDT forecast that the 77.5-ton station will fall out of orbit in a 12½-hour period, between 5:54 a.m. and 6:24 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

The midpoint of that period was set at 12:09 p.m.

But Smith cautioned that predictions at this point are imprecise, and if the station "flies a little longer, pieces could hit Australia. Or if it flies even longer, or backs up, parts of it could fall in the United States."

The midpoint prediction has remained fairly steady - within a range of 12 minutes - for three straight forecasts, making it likely that Skylab will re-enter at mid-day EDT Wednesday.

If the Skylab entry does begin at 12:09 p.m., the spacecraft would begin to break up over the South Atlantic and scatter hundreds of molten debris over that body of water, off the coast of South Africa, and in the Indian Ocean. The debris, with chunks weighing from 1 pound to 2½ tons, is expected to scatter over an area 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide.

On the previous forecast, issued six hours earlier, some of the debris would have dropped over west central Australia, a sparsely populated area, but under the latest forecast that area would be spared.

However, later forecasts could put Australia back into the picture. And if Skylab should stay up another hour beyond that point, the debris would fall in the United States and Canada.

Doty Named WTC Ag Instructor

Bob Doty, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Big Spring High School, has been named instructor in agriculture at Western Texas College for the coming fall semester.

A graduate of Lueders-Avoca High School and Abilene Christian University, Doty received the master of education degree from Sam Houston State University. He taught at Lueders-Avoca High School and the Fort Davis Achievement Center before joining the Big Spring High School faculty.

Doty will be replacing Van Rigby as agriculture instructor and as sponsor of the WTC rodeo teams. Doty began participating in rodeos as a member of the American Junior Rodeo Association and was president of the ACU rodeo team. He also participated in NIRA rodeos at Sam Houston when that university won the Southern Region NIRA championship.

A former member of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, Doty competed in all standard events and has also served as a rodeo judge.

Doty earned the bachelor of science in General Agriculture Business at ACU. His master's degree was earned with a major in Vocational Education and a minor in Agriculture Science.

Doty and his wife, Darla, will move to Snyder soon.

No Indictment In Drug Case

Seven indictments were returned yesterday afternoon by a Scurry County grand jury, but none of them dealt with the overdose death of a 20-year-old Snyder woman.

The woman, Virginia Womack, died of an overdose of a morphine derivative May 21, an autopsy showed. Investigators presented the evidence they had linking the woman's death with what was believed to be the source of the drugs, but the grand jury did not issue any indictments at this time.

Among the indictments returned by the grand jury, however, was one against David Lee James for the Independence Day shooting of Donna Lee Byrom.

Ms. Byrom was shot once in the stomach, police officers said, by a 30-30 rifle. Lee's indictment charged him with aggravated assault in the July 4 shooting on Coleman St.

Erasmo R. Rubio was named in an indictment charging him with theft. The indictment alleges he passed a $300 check to Don Adams that was not backed by sufficient funds. The incident occurred May 18.

A theft indictment was also returned against Truman Harris Prestridge for alleged theft of goods valued at $409 from Lynn Smith. That incident occurred May 31.

For allegedly stealing a $4,100 gold and diamond ring from Cora Smith, David Lynn Tovar was indicted on a theft charge. Tovar is alleged to have taken the ring June 14. Police officers said it was recovered.

Three indictments for allegedly driving while intoxicated were also returned by the grand jury. Named in them were Juan Villanueva, Asencion Rios Jr., and Lawrence T. Thamez.

The members of the grand jury also no-billed (refused to indict) one man charged with aggravated assault. Police investigators said the man, who was never formally charged with the offense, allegedly struck a 16-year-old youth in the mouth during the late evening of June 29.

Serving on the grand jury were Mrs. C.D. Gray Jr., Mrs. Leon Huddleston, Ray Max Grimmett, Charles Collins, Freddie Castillo, J.O. Morrison, Joyce Reaves, Elouise Lambert, Alvin Lee Selmon, Max von Roeder, Thomas C. Echols, and E.D. Loyd.

Tax Rate Decreases...

WTC Budget Okayed

The board of trustees of Western Texas College last night approved a $3,167,845 budget for the 1979-80 school year, a 9 percent increase over the previous year's budget.

The increase was accomplished despite an overall lowering of the local tax rate, and local monies funding the operation of WTC are at their lowest level in four years.

Money raised through taxes in Scurry County amount to $1.1 million, or about 35 percent of the total budget for WTC during the 1979-80 school year. During the 1976-77 school year, however, local monies came to $1.3 million, or about 49 percent of the total budget.

Dr. Robert L. Clinton, WTC president, said the difference between the money raised locally for the college and the total sum of money needed for the college's operation is being made up in state monies.

State monies, he explained, are granted on an enrollment basis, and as the student population increases, so does state aid. For the 1976-77 budget, state aid financed about 38 percent of the WTC's operations. In the budget adopted last night, state aid finances 45.7 percent of the college's operations.

Overall, the local tax rate was lowered from 51 cents to 49.5 cents per $100 assessed value.

In other action last night, the trustees granted an across-the-board 7 percent salary hike for faculty members.

The board also accepted the resignations of Melvin Branch, assistant professor of Art, and Jeanne Kobuszewski, instructor of drama and speech.

Hired last night were Bob Doty, instructor of agriculture, and Jan Blassingame, a part-time instructor of cosmetology. A leave of absence was granted Lynn Dyer for a period of one year.

Still in the realm of personnel policy, the board adopted a vacation plan granting faculty members with the most seniorty the most time off.

The meeting was also marked by a 15-minute executive session in which board members discussed personnel matters. No action, however, was taken in the executive session.

The board also awarded a depository contract to Snyder National Bank.

In discussions last night, board members talked about re-establishing occupational-technical programs at the college for local high school students, talked about installing carpet in several classrooms, and mentioned purchasing typewriters for office occupations training. No vote was taken on any of these items.

a taste of freedom

We have often said that there is no such thing as a little bit of socialism: it will continue to grow until it becomes the complete authoritarian state. Now we have cause to wonder if, within an authoritarian state, the same thing can be said of capitalism?

Perhaps a recent story in The Wall Street Journal sheds light on the question. It begins with: "The 240 workers at the First of May factory here in Communist Hungary are satisfying a very capitalist demand these days, each producing one pair of Levi's every 13.8 minutes."

The story tells of Levi Strauss & Co.'s first plant behind the Iron Curtain. The business was financed by the Hungarian government. An official said, "We wanted to meet the demands of our youth for American jeans. From our point of view it is a complete success."

The most productive workers receive more than twice the salary of other First of May employees. This is not the only way Hungarian Communist leaders seek to satisfy the expanding middle class desires of their 10.7 million people. They plan to introduce other free market ideas in many state businesses. Privately owned shops and enterprises are also being encouraged.

The long-standing second, or "black," economy is growing with officials tending to wink at the activity. In this, private transactions occur without government approval or, in many cases, without government knowledge.

Many people earn nearly twice as much from activity in undercover enterprise as they could from sanctioned or state jobs. This is giving a heavy boost to consumer buying power and since such enterprise escapes all taxation, there is added thrust toward a healthy economy. (U.S. officials who would solve all problems with more taxes, please note).

The success of this private enterprise approach is viewed as a solidifying element of control for the Communist regime. Officials believe that it helps to keep people content and makes their own jobs easier.

All is not completely rosy in Hungary, however: the heavy authoritarian hand can and does fall hard on those who incur official antipathy. And there are many who resent the people who gain so much from the second economy.

The taste of the rewards for extra enterprise is strong medicine. Choices which give people a glimpse of the benefits from private enterprise might easily develop into a strong move away from the socialist authoritarian state. There could be stronger motivation for the Hugarian people to dump communism and embrace capitalism than that which is moving us toward socialism.

The good life under private enterprise is never fully appreciated while we still have most of it. We continue to put our heads in the noose while we reach for some seeming immediate gain.

If the people of Communist Hungary get much more of the taste of individual freedom, only the controlling officials will lose. All our people, save the few officials, will lose if we continue the course toward socialism and the authoritarian state.

Britain's problems are similar enough to ours so that Maggie Thatcher may teach us a thing or two about what to do---or not to do.

The previous Labor government recognized most of the problems but proved powerless to correct them.

Maybe the Iron Lady can.

Why did socialism fail so miserably in Britain? Over the past five years that country's industrial production increased only 3.5 percent---while production in Germany and France was increasing 30 percent.

This past winter the British people suffered the usual problems of snow and cold plus a cacophony of problems which they created for themselves--strikes by hospital workers and garbage collectors and others.

And with labor continuing to demand more without producing more Britain's cost of living increased last year altogether as fast as our own.

Simplistically, the difference between capitalism and socialism is this: Socialists want the poor to have more by slicing the pie into more equal portions. Capitalists want everybody to have more by taking a bigger pie.

In Britain under James Callaghan the government reached the practical limits for redistributing the pie.

People of talent deserted the country--fled to Canada, Australia or the United States.

Meanwhile, poor people found themselves with an equal portion of the pie--but paying more for it.

Along comes this no-nonsense lady, compaigning on a platform that would reduce labor union power, reduce government spending.

And the promises which a decade ago might have caused her to be lynched got her elected.

Now what?

The Tories in the early Seventies tried to repeal socialism and could not.

But Mrs. Thatcher with one eye in the rear-view mirror is not likely to make the same mistakes.

She will cut taxes at both the high and the low ends of the scale thus to encourage worker efficiency.

She will resist printing more money. The Heath government of the early Seventies could not resist doing that, hoping to bring inflation under control.

The British government under Thatcher will unload its awful burdens of public housing and nationalized industries--assuming there are buyers.

Labor unions will be required to hold secret-ballot elections, reducing labor anarchy. British workers have to be aware now that socialism does not keep its promises.

Work stoppages have meant less take-home pay.

Tax cuts will mean more take-home pay.

These are the objectives. Between where Britain is and where Britain needs to go is "work, sweat and sacrifice..."

If will take a female Churchill to sell that.

commentary

donald f. graff

The ayatollah himself wasn't present and just as well. It wasn't his sort of crowd.

Nevertheless, there is truth as well as sarcasm in referring to the event as the "Khomeini summit", as the press and other camp followers were doing by the close of the Tokyo conference of the leaders of the industrial democracies.

The oil crisis may not be all the ayatollah's doing, although there is reason to doubt his capability of bringing it about singlehandedly given the opportunity.

It has, however, been accelerated dramatically by the revolution he brought about in Iran. First, in temporarily shutting off a vital portion of the industrial world's oil supply, and then in shifting the balance of power among Mideast producers to the radicals at the expense of the so-called moderates, the Saudis and their Persian Gulf satellites.

Oil, as a consequence, dominated deliberations in Tokyo. And yet, rubbing it in, the final word was delivered a half a world away in Geneva, where OPEC gave another firm twist to the price screw. That demonstrated who's really on top.

The situation is now serious, so serious that Jimmy Carter is angry. He has denounced OPEC for the worldwide dislocation that oil at more than $20 a barrel will produce.

At a preliminary guess and just as it affects the United States, the economists are saying that it will boost the cost of oil imports from $43 billion last year to more than $70 billion by 1980, add a percentage point or more to the inflation rate and eliminate half a million jobs or more by 1980 as the economy slides into recession.

Put that way, it would appear that the oil cartel has progressed in less than a decade from a policy of price squeeze to a declaration of economic war on the industrial nations.

If so, it is a war in which the oil producers present a formidable front line but lack depth. They possess the current economic super weapon, but they lack reserves - the industrial infrastructure, the technology and scientific resources to advance it, the large, educated and skilled populations that in a prolonged contest are likely to determine the outcome.

The democracies possess all this in abundance. And it may be that history will look back at Geneva and see its real significance not in the extraction of more billions of tribute but in finally provoking the democracies to a war footing themselves, the mobilization of their resources to regain control of their economies.

They have the means to develop alternatives to their overdependence on oil of the last several decades. Geneva may have given them the will to do so. Particularly Americans, who after the experiences of the last months are not likely to return to consumption as usual as was the case after the 1973 crisis.

If so, Jimmy Carter in the end should have less cause for anger than for gratitude. They laughed, if they paid any attention at all, when he called upon the country to see in its energy problems the moral equivalent of war.

OPEC in Geneva may now have put sufficient meaning into that advise to at last convince country and Congress.

borrowers sought

NEW YORK (AP)— Americans owe at least $288 billion of installment loans, an increase of about $45 billion in a year, to say nothing of more than $1 trillion of residential, commercial and farm mortgages.

They owe the money to commercial banks, savings banks, savings and loans association, retailers, finance companies, insurance companies, credit unions, and private parties, including parents and employers.

They continue to add to it, with the aid of lenders. Lenders like the high interst rates they receive. Borrowers like the idea of deducting that interest on their tax returns, and paying back in cheaper dollars.

Once upon a time, borrower proached lender hat in hand. Times have changed. Some lenders now try to drop money in the hat; they solicit customers, they offer credit cards with automatic lines of credit.

Is it unwise to use credit? No. It may be unwise not to use it. Credit in itself is neither good nor bad; what gives it such designations is the use to which it is put. That use can be wise, or unwise.

Families that use credit to pay routine, recurring bills, such as for groceries, are misusing credit. So are those who use credit for items of little permanence. And those who use it to finance whims.

Those who pay for durable, big ticket items such as houses, furniture, home repairs, automobiles and appliances are generally thought to have used credit wisely.

Depending on the way in which it is used, credit can be the salvation as well as the economic death of a family, and millions of homebuyers have attested to this in the past decade of rising home prices.

Although they put up only 25 percent of the purchase price, these buyers have enjoyed the same dollar return as the person who paid the full 100 percent. And based on percentage, four times as much.

Is the current level of debt dangerous? To individual households, it obviously is. Personal bankruptcies have risen and credit counselors have files filled with horror stories.

Credit authorities are divided, however, in their concern for the national economy. In a downturn, some fear, the credit that at one time might have seemed like a life preserver might become a lead weight.

The more optimistic of them believe that the system is flexible enough to accommodate borrowers with easier repayment terms, for a limited time, if the burden becomes too great during a recession.

While that question might still be debated, there is little argument that credit can indeed be an enormous force for economic good, or evil. It depends on the people who use it, and use to which they put it.

a surprising move

Some good news from Capitol Hill: The chairman of an obscure congressional panel, the Joint Committee on Printing, wants to abolish not only his job but also the entire committee.

The committee's principal job has been to oversee the work of the Government Printing Office, which prints the Congressional Record, Federal Register, agency and departmental reports, bills, hearing records and thousands of other documents.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D.N.J., has proposed legislation replacing his House-Senate committee with a seven-member board of directors to supervise the work of the printing office. The bill is co-sponsored by the committee's vice chairman, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

The board would be composed of three public members and one representative apiece from the printing industry, information industry, library community and labor unions. All members would be appointed by the president and paid only for work done on meeting days.

The board, in turn, would appoint the public printer and the superintendent of documents, who are responsible for production and distribution of government documents.

Women waited 144 years to acquire the right to vote in the United States and now, 203 years after the Declaration of Independence, there is even the image of a woman on U.S. currency -- the Susan B. Anthony dollar.

Beginning with its statehood, Texas produced its own unsung heroines in the women's movement. Despite their location below the Mason-Dixon line, Texas women displayed a remarkable amount of independence in their early struggle for equal rights.

The state's female population organized and campaigned to become the first Southern state (and ninth state in the Union) to vote for full enfranchisement of American women in 1919. Only three other Southern states (Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee) voted to accept the Nineteenth Amendment, giving women the vote.

Women like Mrs. Henry Hayes of Galveston, who organized the Texas Equal Rights Association, devoted time and energy to the suffrage movement. Mrs. Hayes traveled 9,000 miles to further her cause from 1893 to 1895.

Later, Annette Finnigan and her sisters Elizabeth Finnigan and Katherine Finnigan Anderson organized an Equal Suffrage League in Houston that eventually became the Texas Equal Suffrage Association.

By 1916 the Finnigans' suffrage group had grown to 98 local clubs, each of which campaigned for suffrage with speeches, letters and petitions.

Of course, Texas women had their enemies, and not just a few.

In 1905, President Grover Cleveland stated: "Sensible and responsible women do not want to vote. The relative positions to be assumed by men and women in the working out of our civilization were assigned long ago by a higher intelligence than ours."

After Texas voters failed to pass a constitutional amendment giving state women the vote in May, 1919, ex-Governor James E. Ferguson, a known antisuffragist, expressed his satisfaction: "My crops are fine, my cattle are fat and my crowd beat woman suffrage."

Typical arguments against woman enfranchisement included the ideas that giving women the vote was contrary to the Bible and allied to socialism. In true Southern form, Texas' antisuffragists mixed politics with racism, claiming that enfranchising women would add to the Negro vote.

In order to gain the privilege of voting, Texas women overcame a conservative and prejudiced environment in the early 1900s. They deserve their share of the recognition given women on the newly minted Susan B. Anthony curreney.

Disco Lyrics Praise Pope

ROME (AP)-The Vatican Radio's pop division hasn't played it yet, but it appears the "Wojtyla Disco Dance" - a lively tune about Pope John Paul II - is the hit of the summer in Italy.

"He's the groove, he's the man, the new pope in the Vatican," said the lyrics. The record has been out for only two weeks, but is reported to have sold about 30,000 copies.

"I don't know if the pope has heard of it," said promoter Freddie van Stegeren, "but we are applying for a private audience to present the record."

Vatican prelates are aware of the record and say they prefer not to talk about it, since any comment can be seen as aiding a commercial enterprise cashing in on the popularity of the 59-year-old Polish-born pope.

A Wisconsin reader sent us today's hand with these comments: "I made what I consider the automatic lead of the ten of spades against South's three-notrump contract. It certainly was a safe lead. Declarer now proceeded to make four notrump. My partner claims that I should have opened my fourth-best heart. This lead would have led to defeat of the contract assuming that my partner would lead a heart back after taking his ace of clubs. I have always been taught not to lead from a tenace into a notrump contract. What do you think?"

We think that our correspondent has been taught incorrectly.

The man who sits on a park bench never falls down, but he never gets anywhere. This West hand cries out for a heart lead. Sometimes it will cost the leader a trick. On lots of occasions it will break even. But once in a while as with today's layout it will pay real dividends. The difference between game and no game with both sides vulnerable is 700 points plus. One 700 point swing will pay off a lot of 30-point overtricks.

Ms. Thompson Tells Of Experience With Elvis

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Linda Thompson says the four years she spent with Elvis Presley at his Graceland Mansion in Memphis showed her what it takes to be a star.

From 1972 to 1976, Miss Thompson lived with Presley. Except for Presley's six-year marriage, his relationship with Miss Thompson was his longest. Insiders say he and Miss Thompson were very close.

"I believe my experiences with Elvis taught me not to be a star," Miss Thompson said in an interview. "I don't want to sacrifice my private life and live the reclusive existence he did.

"You can make so much money that after a while it doesn't mean anything any more," she said.

This fall will mark Miss Thompson's third year on the syndicated television show "Hee Haw." She'll be given more airtime this year, appearing in a new segment as a "farmer's daughter." Kenny Price plays her father.

Speaking to a reporter between takes on the "Hee Haw" set, she said she remembers Presley "as a good human soul."

"When you live with someone that long, he's not just a name on a marquee," she said. "He was special, with a good heart and a good soul. And he had a sense of humor."

Presley abused sleeping pills, she said, because he was an insomniac.

"But in no way was he a drug addict," she said. "He never used cocaine and everybody uses it."

Presley was offered the male lead in the movie "A Star is Born" opposite Barbra Streisand, Miss Thompson said, but the role was rejected by Presley's long-time manager, Col. Tom Parker. Kris Kristofferson got it.

"He wanted to prove himself as an actor," she recalled. "He used to laugh at the scripts he got where he sang to cows and things. He did the best he could with the roles he got."

She said they discussed marriage.

We aired it out but decided we werecomfortable being together as we were. We discussed children and so forth but we just never set a wedding date."

She and Presley broke up in December 1976 - eight months before he died. At the heart of the breakup, she said, was his reclusive existence. "It was very confining. There was nothing conducive to personal growth.'

Laverne & Shirley Thought Wacky

NEW YORK (AP)-"Laverne & Shirley" is almost as popular in the Orient as it is in America, says Garry Marshall, the show's producer.

But Marshall says it took some ingenuity to bridge the cultural gap between Milwaukee of the 1950s and Bangkok of the 1970s, according to this week's People magazine.

It seems, Marshall says, that the "Thais don't like women who are fresh." So before the show comes on, he said, "they run a blurb that says: 'These two women are from an insane asylum."

If you'd like to watch the greatest performers doing the same acts that have dazzled audiences in the nightclub capitals of the world. If you'd like to spend an evening with the biggest of the big-name entertainers—but they never seem to be playing your neighborhood.

If you're a sports fan who wants more than the usual fare. If you'd like to see really important contests, and sports that regular television neglects. If you're interested in action from all over the world.

Then you need something else—Home Box Office!

Gas Lines Improve As Americans Drive Less

By STEPHEN BROWN
Associated Press Writer

Rising prices, closing service stations and growing limits on fuel sales are starting to change the way Americans drive. And that, experts say, has helped shorten long waiting lines at gas stations.

But that could change again quickly, officials warn, as July fuel allocations start to run out - an end-of-the-month pattern that has plagued motorists in many areas since this spring.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press has found marked improvement in many areas of the Northeast, the Mid-Atlantic states and the Midwest, where drivers had been simmering in long lines.

Many recreation and tourist areas reported traffic was heavier - and business better - last weekend than on previous weekends, but still below last year's levels. Because many stations close on weekends, motorists appear to be driving less, easing the crush on supplies, some officials say.

Dan Lundberg, publisher of an oil industry newsletter, said shorter lines do not mean the problem of gasoline shortages has been solved.

"Overwhelmingly, what we are seeing is an accommodation of the public to the amount of gasoline available," Lundberg said Monday. "There certainly isn't any surplus."

However, President Carter announced that Saudi Arabia, which sells more fuel than any other member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, would increase crude oil output.

Meanwhile, the Sun Co. in Philadelphia said its refining and marketing units increased their July gasoline allocation, retroactive to July 1, to 75 percent from 70 percent of July 1978 deliveries. Sun, which markets Sunoco and DX gasoline, said the increase was made possible by purchases on the spot market.

Meanwhile, a Utah State University survey of residents in six cities shows that as gasoline prices continue to soar, Americans will be less likely to make travel part of their vacation plans.

The survey by the school's Institute of Outdoor Recreation and Tourism said a third of the people planning vacations will not travel if the price of gasoline climbs to $1.25 a gallon.

Forty-five percent of those polled said they would forget about travel if the price rose to $1.50 a gallon.

In other developments Monday:

-Police in Rhode Island, which adopted odd-even rationing last week, said weekend traffic was heavy in beach and tourist areas.

-The Georgia State Patrol says traffic heading for Florida is below normal. Some motel operators on Interstate 75, which runs through the middle of Georgia, report occupancy rates sharply off.

-In Connecticut, more stations were open over the weekend and the crowds at beaches were larger than previous weekends. State officials attributed the change to more plentiful supplies and better conservation efforts by motorists.

-New York City and its northern suburbs, afflicted with very long lines and very high prices, had shorter lines Monday.

-Officials in Oregon reported only short lines at stations, but tourism was about half of last year's levels. Tennessee also reported no lines and fewer tourists.

License Plates Stolen In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) - If the energy crunch and long gas lines in 100-plus degree heat aren't enough for motorists, some thieves are adding insult to injury.

They're ripping off license plates.

Dallas police report a "definite, significant increase" in the number of license plates stolen since Gov. Bill Clements' odd-even gas rationing plan went into effect here June 29.

"There is no other logical explanation," said Sgt. James Lusk of the police planning and research department. "We didn't have it - the increase in stolen plates - before the gas shortage. We rarely had any plate thefts at all."

Lusk said at least 12 plates were stolen in the first five days of July, coincidentally, the days gas lines were the longest as the rationing plan went into effect.

There seem to be as many odd-numbered plates as even-numbered ones missing, he said.

"Before, we would only get a few reports (of stolen plates) and most of them would end up being lost plates," he said. "But now, it's apparent they are being stolen."

Drop the Grudge, Even Grudgingly

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man who will be married soon. A problem has come up. I have an aunt and uncle (I'll call Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe) who were my favorite relatives while I was growing up and they always treated me as if I were their own son. They are my god parents.

Well, some time ago, something happened between my parents and Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe. They haven't spoken since. I still don't know what was behind the quarrel.

I would like to send Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe an invitation to my wedding.

My parents may be hurt if I do, but I feel that if my parents want to hold a grudge, it is THEIR grudge, not mine. I am not sure my aunt and uncle would accept even if they were invited, but I think they'll appreciate being asked. What do you think?

C. IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR C.: Your attitude shows great understanding and maturity. Children should not be expected to "inherit" and perpetuate the grudges of their parents. (P.S. If you decide to invite them, advise your parents in advance.)

DEAR ABBY: When I am looking at merchandise in a store and a salesperson inquires in an almost-menacing, authoritative manner, "May I help you?" I always say, "No, thanks, I'm just looking." Then I invariably move on.

Perhaps if I had been left alone to look a little longer, I'd have decided to buy something. But when help is offered while I am trying to make a decision, I am forced to make an instant decision which is almost always negative.

Please tell salespeople that, if they want to make a sale, they should let the customer look around until he makes up his mind to buy.

INTIMIDATED BY SALESPEOPLE

DEAR INTIMIDATED: Where do you shop? In most places these days you have to beg a salesperson to write up your sale. I agree that a salesperson who intimidates the customer loses the sale, but an offer to help need not be "menacing and authoritative." How about a friendly, casual, non-intimidating, "If you need any help, please let me know."

DEAR ABBY: Over the weekend I attended a friend's wedding. When I got home, I told my mother that the best man collected money for those who wanted to dance with the bride or groom for a two-minute period. Mother thought this was cheap. She said she attended one wedding where this was done and everyone at her table thought it was disgusting. Others say this is a tradition and can benefit the couple by paying for their honeymoon hotel room, for example. I am getting married soon and would like your opinion.

DEE

DEAR DEE: Unless this is an accepted custom in your social group, don't dance for dollars.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused to read about the man who wanted his ashes scattered over the grounds of the country club that wouldn't have him as a member.

Perhaps his motives are the same as my sister's. An ardent fan of the Chicago Cubs, she wants her ashes scattered over Comiskey Park, hoping the ashes will be blown into the eyes of a White Sox player during a crucial play!

Probation Is Revoked

A probation revocation Monday in 132nd District Court resulted in Benito Rodriquez Jr. receiving a three-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Rodriquez was placed on probation, court records show, because of a Feb. 16 arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated. That probation was revoked because of a May 26 arrest on another charge of driving while intoxicated.

Launchers Resume Trip From Florida To Texas

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Three anti-aircraft missile launchers have resumed their trip from Key West to Fort Bliss, Texas., after a long layover here.

The launchers sat on a flatbed truck for more than three weeks in an open, unprotected parking lot by an office complex here.

Police learned of them Friday and had them hauled to an impoundment lot over the weekend, then began a search for someone who knew who left them and why.

The answer came Monday, police said, from a representative of the Lightning Trucking Co., who described them as victims of the independent truckers' strike.

By Monday evening, the trucking company had claimed the load and had left town - presumably for Texas, said police.

The truck and three launchers had been parked in the unprotected lot because the trucking firm's regular lot was full, police said they were told.

The FBI said the launchers had been at Key West and were on the way to their home base, Fort Bliss, in El Paso.

Identifying marks on the launchers - valued at $100,000 each - indicated they belonged to C Battery at Fort Bliss.

They were identified as Zero Link Guided Missile Launcher XM192E1, used for launching Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

No missiles were in the shipment.

Special Session Set For January

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Bill Clements will call the Legislature into special session in January to have another go at approving an initiative and referendum proposal, a source on the Governor's staff said Monday.

The source said a January session would have the advantage of putting legislators on the spot shortly before their deadline for filing as candidates for re-election.

Clements has stated often that Texas voters want initiative and referendum, the right of the people to pass and repeal laws without going through the Legislature.

House Speaker Bill Clayton recently said he hoped Clements would realize that lawmakers are unlikely to change their opposition to initiative and referendum and would, therefore, give up on calling a special session.

But the governor's aide said that opposition might weaken next year as legislators near the time when they must face the voters in the May primary elections.

Highway Troopers Quit; Complain Of Poor Pay

KAUFMAN, Texas (AP) —Angry over what they consider paltry salaries, seven Department of Public Safety troopers have quit, leaving one man to cover all of Kaufman County.

The resulting chaos caused by multiple highway accidents across the county is getting to be a pain - both for motorists, Dallas-based troopers and the lone man stationed in Kaufman County.

"It's a traveler's nightmare," said Bill Crossland, one of the seven troopers who have sought employment elsewhere.

One official said several drivers have been forced to wait 1½ hours for a trooper from Dallas to drive up just to untangle traffic and make out reports. Speed limits, some officials said, had not been checked since the pay dispute began.

And judges are worried about the outcome of traffic tickets issued by the former officers - tickets that will be meaningless without the backup testimony of the officer.

When operating at full staff there are four troopers stationed in Kaufman, two in Forney and one in Terrell. The Terrell officer, David Bullard, is the only one of the seven still on duty.

"There's very little we can do when we have a problem," said John McMullen, one of the ex-deputies.

"We're hoping that if the county doesn't have enough troopers, maybe they'll raise a stink." A stink, deputies hope, will ease their financial burdens since the legislature voted not to grant a pay raise this year.

McMullen quit Monday, just three years shy of retirement, to take a job that will earn him $300 per month more than what he earned as a trooper. He and Bullard worked the Fourth of July weekend alone. That day, McMullen said, he decided to throw in the towel.

"...When it gets to where you cannot feed your family anymore, you have to take some action," he said. "Before I quit, I could qualify for food stamps because I have four children."

Crossland, a 9-year veteran when he quit last month, said the former troopers don't feel their action is irresponsible.

"We have warned the state and warned the state to help us and they didn't," he said. "What's happening is their own fault."

Lightning can be as important ecologically as rainfall or temperature. The death of a tree struck by lightning can mean life for other things such as insects and birds which are dependent on dead trees.

Three Mishaps Reported Here

Three traffic accidents have been investigated by city police.

The first occurred Monday about 7:55 a.m. at the city barn. It involved a vehicle which struck a chain link fence and fled the scene. Damage to the fence was set at $200.

The next wreck was at 2:35 p.m. Monday at 2600 College Ave. At that location, a 1970 Oldsmobile driven by Alama Salinas Ramirez and a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Texa Meyers Jones were in collision. Moderate to heavy damage was reported to each vehicle.

The final report of a car accident came in this morning at 1700 25th St. It involved a 1979 GMC pickup driven by Talley Griffin of Coahoma and a 1975 GMC pickup driven by Cecil Carroll. It was reported at 1:40 a.m. today and resulted in moderate damages to the vehicles.

BIRTHS

Ruban and Delia Ruiz of Rt. 3 are parents of a 9 lb. 10 oz. son born at Cogdell Hospital Monday, July 9 at 8 a.m.

Arthur Fiedler Dies At Age 84

BOSTON (AP)-Arthur Fiedler, the zesty showman who brought classical music to millions as conductor of the Boston Pops, died today at his Brooklin home, a Boston Pops spokesman said.

The 84-year-old maestro, who had remained vigorously active until the past year, died at 7 p.m. at his home, Pops spokesman Larry Murray said.

On June 9, Fiedler suffered a heart attack, his fifth since age 44.

The hospitalization was the latest in a series of illnesses that began with surgery to relieve pressure on his brain in December, 1978.

Fiedler opened his 50th season with the Pops in May. But a few days later, he collapsed backstage and spent several days in the hospital suffering from exhaustion.

In November, he was hospitalized for exhaustion, and on Dec. 11, he underwent brain surgery at Tufts New England Medical Center to correct difficulty walking.

The illness had forced Fiedler to cancel a planned televised celebration Dec. 17 on his 84th birthday.

Fiedler became conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra in 1930, and in the years that followed, he molded it into a Boston institution that lovingly fed classical music to people who swore they did not like classical music.

For 10 weeks each spring, he channeled the sometimes forbidding virtuosity of the Boston Symphony into the musical tastes of the "average guy." For most people, he was the Pops.

With his stern military mustache and flowing white hair, he led the orchestra through bouncy mixtures of light classics, show tunes and Top 10 hits.

Probably the biggest audience of his long career was on the night of the bicentennial Fourth of July. He led violins, horns, a row of cannons and the bells of a nearby church in a rousing version of "The 1812 Overture" before a brimming crowd of 400,000 people on the banks of the Charles River. The performance was such a success that 325,000 showed up for an encore on Independence Day, 1977.

When not conducting Pops concerts in Boston, Fiedler traveled throughout world leading local orchestras. His schedules would have been numblingly exhausting for most men half his age. For instance, in 1976, at age 82, he made 164 appearances outside of Boston.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

B-12 shots needed

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a portion of my stomach removed because of a bleeding ulcer. Due to my operation I have been told to take B-12 pills and to get B-12 injections to prevent or correct a type of anemia that develops when people have had this stomach operation. My question is, are the B-12 pills alone sufficient?

DEAR READER — You're talking about pernicious anemia which results from a vitamin B-12 deficiency. The anemia is only part of the picture. You can also have changes in the spinal cord causing permanent paralysis if your body doesn't get enough B-12.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia, to give you more information on this subject. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As The Health Letter I'm sending you explains, B-12 is absorbed into your bloodstream through the small intestine. First, though, it has to be acted on by a substance from your stomach called the intrinsic factor. Without this substance the B-12 cannot be absorbed. After surgical removal of a major portion of your stomach, it may not produce enough intrinsic factor. That same thing can happen to the stomach without surgery causing pernicious anemia.

Obviously, if you swallow vitamin B-12 you still won't replace the intrinsic factor provided by your stomach. The way doctors get around this problem is by injecting the vitamin B-12. Once it's injected, it can be picked up directly by your bloodstream and you don't have to depend on intrinsic factor or your digestive system to provide it to your circulation.

So the answer to your question is that you do need B-12 injections, not just pills.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have noticed that you suggest using corn oil to lower one's cholesterol level. I'd like to know if taking the same amount of safflower oil has the same effect. I'm not quarreling with your opinion, but since I use safflower oil, I'd like to know if it's doing more harm than good. I am taking two tablespoons daily.

DEAR READER — Apparently you have misunderstood my remarks. I do not recommend taking either corn oil, safflower oil or any other oil to lower one's cholesterol. I do recommend that you use one of the polyunsaturated oils for cooking and salads rather than saturated fats.

That doesn't mean I think you should add a lot of fat to your diet. Quite the contrary. The prevailing opinion among heart specialists is that you should limit your total intake of fat of all types, saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated.

You do need some polyunsaturated oils in your diet and safflower oil is a good source for this. It's relatively low in saturated fat and high in polyunsaturated fat. Corn oil has a little bit more saturated fat than safflower oil.

The fat in fish contains some of the most unsaturated fats in our food.

2 Tabbed For Budget Board

AUSTIN (AP)—Speaker Bill Clayton announced the reappointments Monday of Reps. W.S. "Bill" Heatly of Paducah and Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline to the Legislative Budget Board.

Reps. Bill Presnal of Bryan, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Bob Davis of Irving, chairman of the ways and means committee, will automatically serve on the board as a result of their chairmanships.

The two-year appointment will mark 22 years on the board for Heatly. It is the second term for Hollowell.

"We would like to express our sincere appreciation to those of you that contributed to the successful blood drive that was held for my mother, Dorothy Benton. Sixty-eight pints were collected and our gratitude to each of you, especially the Halliburton employees, cannot be put into words.
A special thanks to Joe & Pam Fowler for organizing the blood drive and being there to help things run smoothly all afternoon.
Thanks also go to Dr. and Mrs. J.W. Hicklin and their daughter, Holly, who volunteered their time and came from Colorado City to collect the blood, and Terry Duncan of Halliburton who assisted.

K.S.N.Y. and The Snyder Daily News are also due thanks for their publicity.

We owe a debt to each of you that cannot be repaid in any way except to say "Thank You".

Despite More Controversy

Robinson Grabs 800 Meters Gold

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)-The United States once again failed to complete a day at the VIII Pan American Games without controversy.

It took nearly three hours of appeals and deliberations to settle a controversy arising from James Robinson's scintillating victory over the legendary Cuban half-miler Alberto Juantorena, the highlight of Monday's activities in these hemispheric Olympics.

Robinson bumped into Jamaican Owen Hamilton, who was running second, en route to a tenth-of-a-second victory over Juantorena in the 800 meters. Hamilton filed a protest after dropping off and finishing fourth in the event. The referee and a Jury of Appeals finally upheld Robinson's victory.

Robinson did not deny he bumped the Jamaican.

The United States reaped a big gold medal harvest Monday in the final day of weightlifting. Mark Cameron of North Bergen, N.H., who boasted that he would outlift the super heavy-weights, failed - by just 23 pounds - but did collect all three gold medals in the regular heavyweight category.

Thomas Stock, Belleville, Ill., finished up with 847 pounds to win the jerk, snatch and total in the super heavyweight division.

America's Greco-Roman wrestlers closed out their competition by winning a medal in every category, including four golds. The winners were Bruce Thompson, Rosemont, Minn., in 52 kilograms; Dan Chandler, Anoka, Minn., 82 kilograms; John Mathews, Flint, Mich. 74 kilograms, and Brad Rheingaus, Appleton, Minn., 100 kilograms.

The 12th gold medal of the day for the U.S. athletes went to Essie Kelly, Prairie View, Texas, in the women's 800.

The U.S. softball squads also kept on track toward gold medals.

The amazing Kathy Arendsen, Zeeland, Mich., stretched her string of scoreless innings to 29 with a one-hit victory over Belize, 1-0. She lost her no-hitter with one out to go in the game. In her last outing, she pitched a perfect game, preceded by a 15-innings two-hit shut-out.

Though the competition is only two-thirds over, the field was depleted with the withdrawal of the Dominican Republic in a squabble over having to play two games in one day.

The U.S. women were to play twice today, in games starting only four hours apart.

Area Schools Send Queen Hopefuls, Player To Clinic

STEPHENVILLE—Julie Roemisch, Hermleigh High School senior, and Ira High School sophomore Marla Phillips will participate in the Texas All-Star Games Queen Contest here July 21.

The contest is part of the scheduled activities in the second annual Texas Six-Man Coaches Association Clinic and All-Star Games held at Tarleton State University, July 15-21.

Judging in the Queen Contest will take place at intermission of the All-Basketball game, July 21 at 4 p.m. in Tarleton's Wisdom Gym. The Queen will be announced at halftime of the annual football game, 8 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

Four Hermleigh athletes will be participating in the All-Star games. Clayton Riley, an all-district performer the last two years, will be competing for the West squad in the basketball game. Riley averaged 16 points per game and finished his senior year with 380 total points.

Wesley Kruger, Stan Warren and James Williamson will be playing for the West team in the football All-Star game. Kruger played quarterback his first two years before switching to offensive end and linebacker the last two years. In his senior year he scored nine touchdowns receiving and six points after attempts. Warren, an all-around player, averaged 11 tackles, 18 points and 196 yards rushing per game, and scored 552 career points.

Williamson was an all-district selection in both football and basketball and made All-State in football.

Tickets for the games will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12 on the day of the games. Adult tickets can be purchased in advance from the chamber of commerce, 153 E. Washington St. for the $2.50 pre-sale price as well as children's tickets at the regular price.

Oiler Practice Best One Yet

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Houston Oiler rookies and free agents completed their most successful drills of training camp Monday and that surprised Coach Bum Phillips.

"That says a lot for this group after having a day off," Phillips said. "The first day at work after a day off isn't usually too good but we had the best workout of camp so far."

Eighteen veterans also have reported to the Angelo State University training site although veterans are not required to be in camp until July 18.

Dallas Cowboys

Camp Does In Six Rookies

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)-One day of double practices in pads was enough to convince six free agent rookies they should head for the showers at the Dallas Cowboy training camp here.

Three other players probably will be out of practice for a while from injuries sustained on the field Monday.

Leaving camp were Kevin Hill, a wide receiver from Texas-El Paso; Marschell Brumfield, a running back from Youngstown State; Frank Foxx, a running back from Tennessee; Stan Mitchell, a running back from Eastern Kentucky; John Schramm, an offensive lineman from Arizona; and Fred Snell, a linebacker from Houston.

Among those injured today was defensive back Tim Lavender, the Cowboys' sixth-round draft choice from Southern California. Lavender suffered a bruised shoulder, and trainers began treatment immediately.

Free agent Al Pitts, an offensive lineman from Michigan State, twisted his knee. Norman Robinson, a free agent defensive lineman from Maryland-Eastern Shore, left the practice field with pain in his lower back.

Snyder Leagues

Rains called a halt to Monday night baseball action at Towle Park, but not before a couple of games were at least near-decided.

The adverse weather also pre-empted announcing of the Farm and Little League All-Stars.

All-Stars will be named after tonight's 7 p.m. Little League Yankees vs Indians playoff game. The ceremonies should begin about 9 o'clock.

FARM LEAGUE

Cubs 25, Braves 3

Rains forced this "exhibition" game to a halt after three innings last night, but the Cubs had built up a solid lead. Ray McDonald knocked an over-the-fence homer (playing at the Little League Field) and a single, while Toby Obando and Jeff Featherston hit two singles each and Michael Browning added one.

For the Braves, Brian Warren, John Burcham, Clint Glaze, Jay Burcham and Charlie McCormick hit a single each.

TEENAGE LEAGUE

Braves 4, Bullets 3

The Braves knocked open the floodgates in the second inning, scoring all four of their runs, then hung on until flooding of another kind - mother nature - took over to stop the game.

David Gutierrez, Ralph Hernandez, Gordon Gonzales and Vance [illegible] collected a single each - three of the four in the second inning - for the Braves, while Britt Vincent was the winning pitcher.

Scott Warren knocked a triple and a single for the Bullets and James Caldwell and Chad Peterson grabbed one each.

RAIN SWEPT--Rains forced spectators to seek shelter - and later players themselves - when thunderstorms hit the area last night. Despite threatening skies, this Teenage League game continued on a touch-and-go basis for a couple of innings, then shut down when the weather got too bad to play. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Rangers Lose 'Player Duel'

CHICAGO (AP)-"That's what both of us were trying to do," said Don Kessinger, "both of us were trying to win."

Kessinger, player-manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Manager Pat Corrales of the Texas Rangers went 1-on-1 in player changes Monday night. But Kessinger came out on top and the White Sox protected a 5-4 victory which knocked the Rangers out of first place in the American League West.

Corrales used seven straight pinch batters in the eighth and ninth innings, while Kessinger employed four different pitchers in the eighth before Randy Scarbery finally held on to earn his fourth save.

Chet Lemon's run-scoring double keyed a three-run sixth inning against loser Fergie Jenkins, 9-5, and gave winner Ross Baumgarten, 8-5, the 5-4 lead.

But the drama began when Buddy Bell, who earlier figured in a rarity by driving in two runs on a sacrifice fly, led off the eighth with a single and Ed Farmer relieved Baumgarten.

Farmer retired pinch-batter Oscar Gamble on a grounder as Bell took second. Ed Putman batted for John Ellis and Guy Hoffman replaced Farmer. Hoffman walked Bell to third but retired Jim Sundberg who had batted for Putman.

Scarbery replaced Hoffman and walked pinch-batter Mike Jorgensen, to end the eighth.

TGCC Star Game Set For Friday

The Texas High School Girl's Coaches Clinic Annual East-West All-Star Volleyball Game will be held at 8:15 p.m. Friday in Abilene's Moody Coliseum on the Abilene Christian University campus.

From Snyder, SHS volleyball coach, Joyce Elrod, and her daughter, all-stater Dana Elrod, will compete on the West squad. Mrs. Elrod, who led Snyder High School to a state AAA championship last season, will direct the team. Among the players will be Dana, a setter.

Snyder cheerleaders will serve as yell leaders for the West team.

Some 1,500 coaches are expected to attend the clinic, which begins Wednesday and continues through Saturday.

An All-Star Basketball Game will be held in conjunction with the clinic also.

In a 1947 football game, Penn State held Syracuse to minus 107 yards in rushing.

Girls League Sets Meeting For Elections

The Girl's Softball League will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today in Snyder Savings and Loan Community Room.

Officers for the 1980 year will be elected. All parents are urged to participate.

Lasorda Selects All-Star Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP)—Steve Rogers and Steve Carlton, who both flirted with no-hitters last week, were among those named Tuesday by Manager Tom Lasorda to an eight-man National League pitching staff for next week's All-Star game.

Rogers, of the NL East Division-leading Montreal Expos, hurled 7 1-3 innings of no-hit ball Saturday in Montreal against Lasorda's Los Angeles Dodgers before finishing with a four-hit victory. He also leads the league's starting pitchers in shutouts (five) and earned run average (2.39) through Sunday.

Carlton, 10-8, allowed only one hit - a leadoff double in the seventh-inning by Elliot Maddox - and retired the first 18 batters in his 1-0 victory over the New York Mets at Philadelphia last Wednesday. The left-hander has two one-hitters this season and 103 strikeouts.

The two will join pitchers Joe Niekro, Joaquin Andujar and reliever Joe Sambito of the NL West Division-leading Houston Astros when the All-Stars meet next Tuesday for the golden anniversary All-Star Game in Seattle's Kingdome.

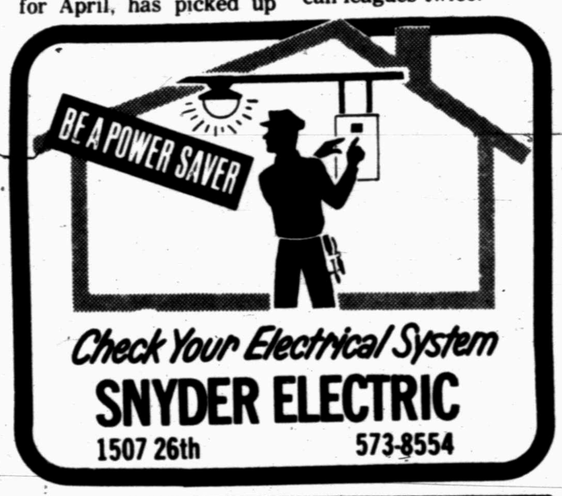

Also picked for the NL mound staff Tuesday were Gaylord Perry of the San Diego Padres, Mike LaCoss of the Cincinnati Reds and reliever Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs.

Niekro, Andujar and Sambito all have played vital roles for the surprising Astros, who are off to the best start by far in the club's 18-year history.

Niekro, 13-3, won eight consecutive starts from May 13 through June 13, earning him NL Pitcher of the Month honors for May, while Andujar, who received the same award for April, has picked up three of his 10 victories in relief.

Sambito, the league's hottest pitcher out of the bullpen recently, has 10 saves and four wins. The left-hander currently is on a streak of 35 1-3 consecutive scoreless innings covering his last 23 appearances, and his ERA has dropped to 1.08.

It will mark the first All-Star appearance for LaCoss, Niekro, Sambito and Andujar, who was selected to the 1977 team, but missed the game due to an injury. It will be the fifth apperance for Perry, who has represented both the National and American leagues twice.

Your Birthday

July 11, 1979

This coming year an opportune situation may develop where you'll be called on to manage something for another, and you'll be able to do yourself a lot of good in the process. Be alert for sound joint ventures.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Normally you're quite astute in matters relating to dollars and cents, but today this could be your major weakness. Be doubly cautious. How you can get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter that begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to speciy birth time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Situations may develop in a unique manner today and you may find yourself being pressured to make some concessions against your best interests. Be firm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23- Sept. 22) Take care of your duties and responsibilities as they arise today. Sweeping things under the rug will cause you problems later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you conduct yourself admirably socially, but today, unless you're very careful, your tact could desert you and cause you some embarrassment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be content with who you are and what you have today. Envying others because you feel they may have more is only a waste of mental energy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your memory may not be up to par today, so if important facts or data are passed on to you, jot the information down.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Accept no financial advice today from persons who lack the expertise to guide you wisely. Poor counsel could cost you a pretty penny.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be your own person today, instead of letting others make major decisions for you. They may be looking out for their interests rather than ours.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is not an especially good day to request favors, even from person you've helped in the past. Paddle your own canoe.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Approach what you do optimistically today, but by the same token don't build your hopes on unrealistic premises. Delusions lead to disappointments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 10) Beware of a tendency today to treat important challenges too lightly. Miscalculations could be your downfall.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It could be a bit difficult to keep secrets today because of your gregarious personality. Try not to blurt out something that's best kept to yourself.

Skate-A-Thon Set For C-F Foundation

Skate World in Snyder will hold a Cystic Fibrosis Skate-A-Thon on Saturday, July 28, from noon until midnight. The event will be organized by Mr. and Mrs. John Salmon, managers of the Center.

Participants will get sponsors to pledge an amount of money for each hour skated in the 12-hour period.

Prizes to be awarded include a 12-inch black and white television, an AM-FM digital clock radio and T-shirts.

All proceeds will go to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Cystic Fibrosis is one of the most life-threatening diseases of children. A little known entity 25 years ago, it occurs in approximately one of every 1,600 live births in this country.

An estimated 10-million Americans unknowingly carry the C-F gene. A baby who inherits two C-F genes, one from each of its carrier parents, has Cystic Fibrosis.

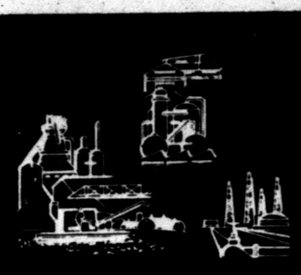

For more information about the Skate-A-Thon, call 573-6872.

K-Bob's Steak House Strives For Top Quality And Service

K-Bob's Steak House is under new ownership, has a new manager, and, thus has a totally new atmosphere.

According to Larry Ward, K-Bob's manager of two months, any restaurant should strive for service and quality, and at K-Bob's this is their number one goal.

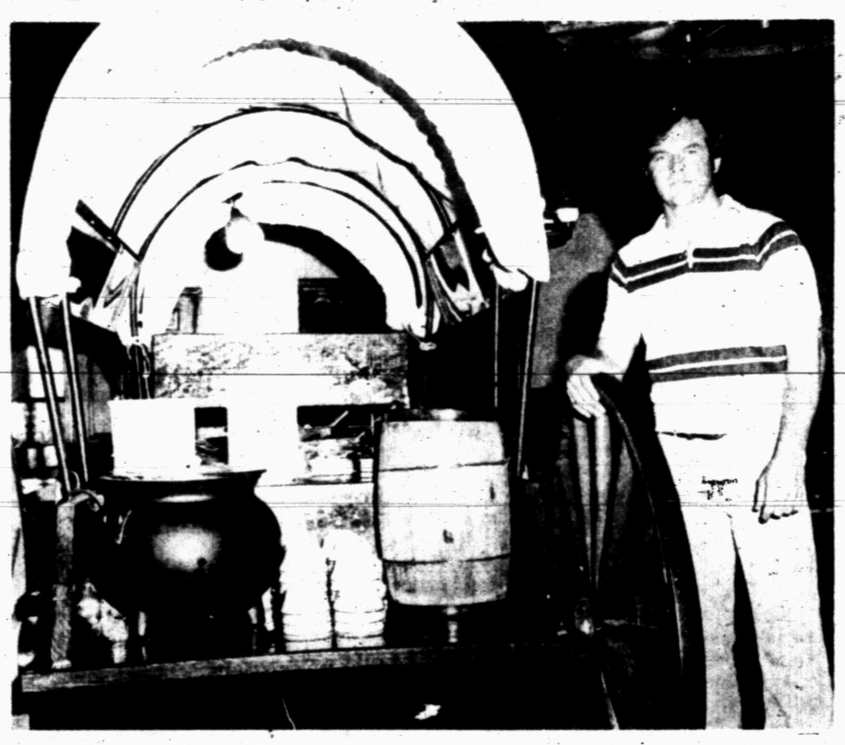

K-Bob's Steak House has five separate dining rooms with a spacious and casual atmosphere that makes the restaurant ideal for family dining. Their reasonable prices make it easy to afford family dining too.

Buffet facilities are available at K-Bob's, and a lot of parties find their way to the restaurant where they know the food will be excellent, the service fast and friendly, and the atmosphere comfortable.

Although K-Bob's is famous for their mouth-watering, juicy steaks, their salad bar has become their trademark.

They feature their salads in an attractive covered wagon which displays a large variety of salads to eat alone or to accompany one of K-Bob's steaks.

But the really special thing about K-Bob's salad bar is that you can have your own special salad featured in it. Ward welcomes any suggestions or recipes for the salad bar in order to make K-Bob's your restaurant, with your own favorite salads. Simply mail recipes or suggestions to the restaurant, or drop them by the next time you dine out.

NEW MANAGER--K-Bob's new manager, Larry Ward, shows off the restaurant's covered wagon salad bar. K-Bob's salad bar features the best and the largest variety of salads anywhere. Ward welcomes any suggestions or recipies for the salad bar. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ward got his training as a K-Bob's manager in Hobbs, N.M., at the biggest K-Bob's there is. He and his wife Mary Jane and their three-year-old son Brian Matthew, lived in Big Spring for a year prior to coming to Snyder. He opened up the Big Spring K-Bob's in November of 1978, and it is doing very well.

The Wards are expecting another child in two weeks.

Ward welcomes any suggestions or complaints and invites you to try K-Bob's Steak House if you haven't already. He thinks you'll like the restaurant's new atmosphere.

K-Bob's Steak House, 4604 College Ave., 573-2832, is open Monday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. and on Sunday 11 a.m. to 2:30.
