SHRINERS OPEN ANNUAL FALL MEET TODAY

Fireworks and Parade At 7 P. M. to Feature First Day

2000 TO MARCH

Nobles of All Northwest Texas Expected At Ceremonial

Shriners from more than a score of towns in Northwest Texas will gather in Wichita Falls Wednesday for the annual Thanksgiving Shrine ceremonial of Maskat Temple.

The opening feature of the activities will be the fire works-parade to be held in the downtown district at 7 p. m. following the assembly of all nobles at Twelfth and Scott streets at 6:30 o'clock.

2,000 to March

Flares and fireworks will illuminate the entire line of march which will be participated in by 2000 nobles, half of whom will be from neighboring towns.

Each city in the Maskat jurisdiction will have its own feature stunt and to add to the day's frolic, 150 novices for the ceremonial will be used as "goats" in the stunt features.

Throughout the earlier part of the day the candidates for the coveted Shrine ring will electioneer on the streets, employing all known and unknown methods of gaining followings.

Many Entertainments

Members of the temple will officiate at the initation of the novices at the ceremonial session which is to be held at the Palace theater at 8 o'clock. At the same hour wives and women friends of the nobles and novices will be entertained in the Kemp hotel ballroom.

Thursday will be devoted to a series of entertainments for the new and old nobles.

The order of the parade Wednesday evening follows:

Motorcycle police squad.
Color bearers and mounted patrol in platoon formation.
Henrietta drum corps.
Members of the potentate's divan in new model cars displayed by local automobile firms.
Shrine band and foot patrol.
Decorated floats and stunts.
Special band.
Two thousand nobles, wearing red fezes, marching in column.

"The most spectacular parade that ever marched through the streets of Wichita Falls—".

That was the promise of officials of Maskat Shrine temple on the eve of the opening of the annual Thanksgiving Shrine ceremonial. The parade is to be an illuminated one, virtually ablaze with brilliant fireworks displays.

Noted Characters

Impersonations of such characters as Lindbergh, Ruth Elder, Harry Sinclair and Albert Fall, movie queens and kings, in addition to unique marches of the various uniformed bodies promise to make the parade one of the most colorful ever witnessed here, officials announced Tuesday night.

Tuesday night Forrest Edward Shoop, mudologist, loomed as one of the strongest candidates for the shrine ring. Shoop had already started his campaign with the announcement of the following platform:

"I believe in marriage—(for the other fellow.)

"I am a man of few words, quick action and shoot from the hip.

"In my opinion the patrol is the bunk. If they want to vote for me I can't help it.

"In my opinion the bandmen are

Zundelowitz Eleven Wins City Junior Grid Title

Where Is the Old Spirit?

We talk a lot about the Wichita Falls spirit. But where is it in the community chest campaign?

We brag about Wichita Falls—meaning ourselves. We tell how enterprising we are, how our postal receipts and our bank clearings and the rest are out of all proportion to the size of the city. Then we drop a dime in the collection box for charity.

What is the matter? Why is the drive so far behind what it should be?

It isn't because we haven't the money. We are prosperous compared to other cities at this time. It isn't because we fail to recognize the need. We know the allied charities and the men and women who pass on them. We know every dollar of the budget will be needed. We know there are families that will go hungry, children that won't have clothing to keep warm, babies that will die for want of proper care, if the money isn't raised.

Why is it then that we are falling down?

We all know. It is because so many of us aren't doing our share. We are passing the buck. We are waiting for the other fellow to contribute what we ought to give. So many in the $5,000 class are giving only $1,000; so many in the $1,000 class are giving only $100; so many in the $100 class are giving only $10; so many in the $10 class are giving only $1.

That isn't the Wichita Falls spirit. Wichita Falls got where it is because every man, woman and child was eager to pull his share of the load.

The community chest campaign need not fail—must not fail. This city cannot afford to neglect those who need help. It cannot afford to have the word go out to the country that it cannot make the grade. If the old spirit flags in this splendid enterprise, it will flag in other things.

Let's have a rebirth of the old spirit that put Wichita Falls on the map. Let's increase our subscriptions if we have fallen short. Let's each do his part. Let's go over the top. Let's make ourselves proud of Wichita Falls!

GAME PACKED WITH THRILLS

Reagan Goes Down, 12-7, Before Flashing Attack

By A. W. VON STRUVE

For many years we've heard the song that's called "The Campbells Are Coming."

Well sir, one of the Campbells arrived Tuesday afternoon and the whole Zundelowitz Junior High school football team came right along with him. It was that little red-topped Jack Campbell, Zundy's left end, whose playing typified the team's 12 to seven victory drive over the larger and heavier Reagan Junior High school eleven.

Flashing across the field, rushing into every play, trampled by his heavier foes who finally learned to respect his frail form, the red-headed midget of the Campbell clan was easily the outstanding star of the annual contest for the junior high school football championship of Wichita Falls.

Clayton Scores Twice

Bob Clayton, hefty Zundy halfback, scored both the Zundelowitz touchdowns. One of these came in the third quarter when a short lateral pass with clayton at the receiving end worked prettily and Bob hauled his way over the goal for the first mark. Bill Clarke, Zundy left half, tried a drop kick was blocked.

The second touchdown came to Zundelowitz in the fourth quarter, after Ed Clarke received a forward pass for 31 yards from Shorty Hicks and raced to the Reagan five-yard line before he was stop-

Persons of Moderate Means Carrying Burden of Early Gifts To Chest

Persons of moderate means, many of them among those least able to give, were setting the pace for Wichita Falls in contributions to the Community Chest in the preliminary reports of the campaign made Tuesday noon at the luncheon at the Wichita club.

Reports made at the meeting showed a total of $23,593.84 in subscriptions, and members of teams reported that the most willing contributors, and the heaviest in point of ability to pay, were to be found among residents of moderate means.

One example of this was revealed Tuesday afternoon by W. D. Cline, general chairman, when a salesgirl at the W. T. Grant store gave and entire week's salary to the cause, despite protests of leaders of the chest movement. The Grant store was also listed Tuesday as one of the organizations contributing 100 per cent to the campaign.

"This spirit indicates that the Community Chest has been well

TWO MAYORS TO OFFICIATE AT CONTEST

Kincaid of Burk And Shepherd of Wichita At Each End

33 ENTRIES FILED

Spectacular Event Looms As Racers Practice Over Course

"——young folks, old folks, everybody come."

One can't help but be reminded of that long forgotten nursery rhyme when scanning over the entry list for the Thanksgiving Day roller skating marathon on the 12-mile paved course from Burkburnett to Wichita Falls.

George H. Hamilton, who resides at 1322 North Fourth street, admits he is only 86 years old but that's not going to keep him from taking part in the Thanksgiving Day skating derby. Mr. Hamilton announced his entry for the skating race, which is to be staged under the joint auspices of The Wichita Falls Record News and the Wichita Falls Athletic club, to a representative of The Record News Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Hamilton has led an active life, weighs 175 pounds and is in good physical condition. He served four years during the Civil war as a courier, was with General Stonewall Jackson when the noted leader was fatally wounded, and also fought at Gettysburg.

Women Enter.

Enlistments for the roller marathon Tuesday also brought three more women entries. They are Miss Mabel Albert, Miss Margaret Anderson and Miss Olive Slaton. The first woman to enter for the roller marathon was Miss Helena Workman, 207 Seymour street, who enlisted Monday. Other feminine skaters are expected to enter the marathon also, now that the ice has been broken.

ENTRIES CLOSE AT 6

Entries in the Burkburnett-Wichita Falls marathon skating contest close this Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. All prospective entrants must have filed their names either with the sporting editor of The Record News, or with A. B. Ross at the men's gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning for final instructions, and for transportation to Burkburnett for those desiring transportation.

Outside of the entries listed above, others who enrolled for the derby Tuesday were Jo Witherspoon, Jr., Oscar Thomas, W. A. Walker, Jack Skeen, Walter Chambers, Lee Groves, Carl (Buster) Brewer and Morris Hobbs. This brings the total entries to 29 men and boys and four young women.

Proof of the fact that the roller marathon is arousing real interest was to be seen Tuesday when Motorists going along the Burkburnett highway reported seeing several skaters rolling over the paved course in a practice race. Another skater, a boy, was seen trying his speed on the paved highway leading to Lake Wichita.

Route Ready Thursday

Full and final instructions for the race will be detailed Thursday morning in The Record News, giving the complete rout to be fol-

Coolidge Rebukes Attempt To Force His Nomination by Party

President's Latest Stand Causes Stir in Capital Circles; Many Now Believe He Will Step Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. (AP)—In unqualified terms President Coolidge let it be known today that the first specific attempt to force the Republican convention to nominate him as its candidate next year had incurred his displeasure.

Breaking a silence of nearly four months, the White House disclosed the president's views in a sharp criticism of the movement started by a Boston broker to circularize the country by a chain letter system in an endeavor to build up such a dominant sentiment for Mr. Coolidge that his nomination by the Republicans would amount to a nation-wide demand.

In a direct and positive manner it was made known that the president disapproved the circulation of the petitions, that he failed to see that any good could come from the move and that he hoped that their circulation would be discontinued.

The manner in which this first amplification of what Mr. Coolidge is thinking in connection with his political future since his famous Black Hills "do not choose" statement of August 2, brought forth a situation of constants and contrasts. Like his pronouncement last summer, today's statement was made to newspaper correspondents and, again, it caused a stir such as only something of the first importance can do.

But, unlike the statement of August 2, which was neatly typed on small, plain white slips of paper and handed to the correspondents personally by the president, today's announcement was made verbally and without the authority of a direct quotation.

Even as the first broadside was received with a mixture of feelings as to just what Mr. Coolidge meant, the amplification caused similar speculation but, it seems, with a tendency to gather force for that group which believes the president intends to leave the White House on March 4, 1929.

MOODY DESIRES PLANS UPHOLDING PROHIBITION

AUSTIN, Nov. 22. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody again disclaimed any definite future political plans today and reiterated his stand for a democratic prohibition plank, when confronted with published reports quoting two anonymous sources as confirming rumors that he is "looking favorably" at the democratic vice presidential nomination.

Persons considered reliably in touch with the governor's plans, but refusing to be quoted, upheld rumors that he has replied favorably to a "sounding out" by a confidential emissary of Senator Royal S. Copeland, New York, supporter of Governor Al Smith. Those quoted declared the representative was here to learn Governor Moody's availability as the "dry" running mate of Governor Smith.

"The report that I had been approached to become a candidate for a national office can be discounted by the public at just exactly 100 per cent," Governor Moody said.

Governor Johnston Refuses To Call Any Extra Session Now

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 22. (AP) A positive refusal to call an extraordinary session of the state legislature was made in a letter addressed by Governor Henry S. Johnston here tonight to four state representatives who yesterday requested that he issue the call.

"I can see no reason at this time for calling the legislature in extraordinary session," the letter states, "for the purpose you suggest or any other purpose. You have not furnished any evidence whatever for the purpose of changing this opinion."

"On the contrary," the governor's letter says, "the policy of concealment, mystery and innuendo which has characterized the operations of yourselves and your associates in promoting a special session, extending over a period of several months and evidently entailing large expenditure of funds, argues finally against calling such a session for any reason of state."

PACIFIC TRIP HALTED WHEN AIR HOLE HIT

Mystery of Erwin And Other Flyers Said Solved By Giles

"2 MINUTES OF HELL"

After Ship Tossed About Pilot Returns And Lands On Ranch

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—Captain Frederick A. Giles' attempted San Francisco to Hawaii flight ended at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon at San Simeon, Calif., 275 miles north of Los Angeles.

The British war ace said he had covered 500 miles on his flight westward across the Pacific when his airplane went wild and turned upside down, spilling charts, instruments and food supplies into the ocean. He got control again after a desperate effort and headed back blindly for the continent.

For two minutes, the flyer said, he went through "hell" in his little biplane, 500 miles out at sea.

His plane, utterly beyond control, spun into a rain-drenched airpocket and turned completely upside down. All his supplies were lost.

Fought Certain Doom.

For two minutes the flyer fought almost certain doom, and finally, in what must have been a tremendous exhibition of airmanship, got his damaged plane right side up again.

Wildly guessing his directions, he headed his plane back toward the California coast, which he had left for Hawaii at 7:24 a. m.

He made a perfect landing, emerging unhurt a mile south of the Hearst ranch at San Simeon, 50 miles from San Luis Obispo.

Talking over the long distance telephone from the ranch tonight, Giles declared his intention of trying for Hawaii again.

"I'm going to fix the ship and fly her back to San Francisco," he said. "And then as soon as the moon is full and I can get new charts, I'll be off again. I've started to fly to Australia and, by George, I'm going to do it.

Thought Chances Zero.

"Hell, I never expected to make it," he said, referring to his forced return journey. "My center section bracing wires had snapped, I had dumped my main gas tanks to lighten the strain on the broken plane and the chances were about zero.

"But luck stayed with me. I hit the coast about sixty miles north of where I landed, and had to keep my ship in the air for all that distance, before I finally found a landing place at San Simeon."

Giles asserted the belief that his own experience solves definitely the fate of the lost planes in the Dole Hawaiian flight.

"I had a biplane, and it was only by the sheerest luck that I survived what I went through. A monoplane is much less stable than a biplane. It wouldn't have had a chance in the weather that turned me over."

Explains Others' Fate.

"The weather was fine until I got about 300 miles out, when it started getting bad," Giles said. "Cloudy with rain squalls. And I began to feel those air pockets they have out there over the Pacific—the same things that must have spelled curtains for Jack Frost and Bill Erwin and Augy Peddlar and Miss Doran, you know.

"It wasn't bad enough to stop me though, I figured I'd get through. But my luck was out—or maybe it's 'in.' Four hundred and eighty miles out, I ran into utterly foul weather. The clouds were very thick and low and there were incessant rain squalls. There wasn't much wind, but the pockets were awful.

"Finally my ship dropped into one of these and before I knew it, she was upside down. The ship was utterly uncontrollable, and turned completely onto her back. The gas in the main tanks was then overloaded, you know. Even for normal flying, it was a strain on the ship, but in the inverted position, the strain was tripled. So, whilst we were flying thus inverted, the center section bracing wires snapped.

Radio of No Use.

"I managed to right the ship at the critical moment, although whilst we were inverted, I lost all my charts, food and signal flares. I dumped my gas now, with the bracing wires gone, so as to relieve the load."

Giles' plane, named the "Wanda," after the sister of the designer, carried no radio. He said tonight that a radio would have been no help.

SEVEN CITED IN SINCLAIR CASE

District Attorney Prefers Serious Charges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and five other principals in the oil trial jury scandal ran afoul of the law anew today with the filing of criminal contempt proceedings against them in the district of Columbia supreme court.

A rule was issued requiring them to appear before Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons on December 5 to show cause why they should not be punished for their part in the survillance of the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome jury, which has been under investigation by a grand jury for three weeks.

In praying for the order, District Attorney Peyton Gordon charged on behalf of the United States of America that the purpose of bringing the Burns detectives to Washington was "to spy upon, to bribe, intimidate and influence" the trial jurors, and "to do anything calculated" to "impede, prevent, and prevent the due administration of justice" either by corruptly influence the jurors, or by "concocting false charges" against one or more of them with a view to bringing about a mistrial.

"Besides the wealthy oil operator and the internationally known detective, those named in the petition are Henry Mason Day, of New York City, and Sheldon Clark of Chicago, close associates of Sinclair; W. Sherman Burns, directing head of the Burns detective agency, and Charles L. Veitsch, manager of the Baltimore bureau of the Burns organization.

By direction of Justice Siddons a separate petition and rule were filed against Edward J. Kidwell Jr., juror number 11, who is under charges of having freely discussed the criminal oil conspiracy case while the trial was in progress and with having expressed the hope of obtaining an automobile "as long as this block."

Honolulu is preparing to erect a new city hall and a number of schools.

Deny New Trial Snyder and Gray

By Universal Service.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder wept aloud today when she was informed that the court of appeals had refused to grant a new trial for her and Judd Gray, who have been sentenced to death for the murder of her husband.

News of the decision was given to her by Keeper John J. Sheehey.

"What does it mean?" she cried. "What does it mean?"

"It means you will probably have to go to the electric chair within six weeks," he replied.

Then in order to give what consolation he could, he added:

"Of course, the governor can intervene if he will."

and favorably sold to our laboring and small-salaried classes," said Mr. Cline.

"Those who seem least able to give, are responding most generously. Those who are not giving as they should are those who are more than able to make contributions."

The luncheon meeting was brief, with Mr. Cline frankly telling workers that this "campaign is not a one day job," and urging that all put their best efforts into the work. He pointed out that a failure of a Community Chest drive receives as much attention in other towns as the failure of any other movement.

Campaign workers will meet again at the Wichita club this Wednesday at noon to hear additional reports in the drive. Division, leaders and reports of subscriptions at 1 o'clock Tuesday indicated:

City, R. E. Shepherd, $362; county, Guy Raley, $335; general, Harry Hines, $9,476; districts, J. H. Allison, $3,496.75; buildings, $8,-825; ladies, Mrs. C. W. Hartsook, $234.15; merchants, R. D. Shepherd of Wichita Falls will award the prizes to the winners at this end.

Manager Ross Tuesday announced that he will complete Wednesday a program of tug-o'-war matches to be staged in front of the Wichita Falls Athletic club at 605 Scott street for the entertainment of spectators awaiting the arrival of the marathon skaters. The feature tug-o'-war, best two out of three tugs, will be between teams representing the Wichita Falls police and fire departments.

Personnel of the fire department tug-o'-war team announced Tuesday is as follows:

R. E. James, captain, C. D. Johnson, Harry Stripling, Bill Long, Dick Phillips, George Osteen, Joe Moore and Thurston Hanrick.

Cup On Display

The silver loving cup which will be presented to the winner of the event as the champion of this section, is now on display at the Art Jewelry company. The contest is open to all persons and ages, although The Record News does not assume responsibility for any accident to person or property. Skaters of Burkburnett are eligible to join the contest, as is any person, barring professionals, in this district.

Each contestant will be required to sign a pledge card promising to observe the rules of the race, as it will be impossible to have officials pace each of the contestants as they string out over the 12-mile course. The pledge follows:

PLEDGE

"As a contestant in the Burkburnett-Wichita Falls marathon skating contest, I promise on my honor to receive no assistance from any person or vehicle as long as I am in the race.

"I promise to foul or interfere with no other contestant in the course of the contest, and to abide by the rules of officials.

"I am entering this contest in a spirit of good sportsmanship and fair play, with the understanding that I accept as my own responsibility any accident or mishap, should any occur to my person or property during the contest.

(Signed) ....."

Dorothy Dix— A Daily Feature Of Interest To Women

Women Told What They Have Right To Expect of Husbands

Every Wife Has the Right to Expect Faithfulness and a Decent Living From Her Husband. She Also Has the Right to Expect Courtesy, Companionship, Tenderness, Appreciation and Above All, Fair Dealing in Finances.

What has a wife the right to expect from her husband?

Faithfulness. A decent living. No man has a right to marry a woman unless he intends to be loyal to her, and unless he prefers her to every other woman in the world and feels that he can be satisfied with her alone. A wife has the right to expect her husband to be just as true to her as she is to him.

Nor has any man the right to marry until he has some sure and settled way of supporting a family in modest comfort.

This doesn't mean motorcars and strings of pearls and fine houses, but it does mean a secure roof over her head and plenty of bread and butter. When a woman marries a man she automatically cuts herself off from making a better marriage, and curtails her earning powers in whatever occupation she was following, so she has a right to expect her husband to do his best to provide an equivalent for what she has given up for him.

A wife has a right to expect courtesy from her husband. Few wives get it. Most men seem to consider that marriage gives them the privilege of treating their wives with a rudeness that they would not show to a scrub woman, and saying things to them that they would not dare to say to any woman who had an able-bodied brother to defend her.

There are plenty of men who check their good manners on their doorsteps, and who consider that politeness is not a commodity intended for home consumption.

They habitually address their wives as, "Say, you." They do not hesitate to tell their wives that they are fools and don't know what they are talking about when they venture to express an opinion. They scoff at their wives' jokes and tell them that they have heard them before. They never even say "thank you" for any service their wives do for them, or show the slightest appreciation of all the work their wives do that makes them comfortable and saves their money.

A wife has a right to expect companionship from her husband. That is what a woman marries for. She marries to get a cheerful, affectionate, sympathetic chum who will have the same interests she has, who will like to do the things she likes to do, and who will enjoy her society as she will his.

She doesn't marry to be taken away from her old home, her old friends and her old amusements, and dumped down into a home that she cannot leave without creating a scandal, and left alone while her husband is diverting himself somewhere else.

A woman has a right to expect her husband to be a friendly companion and to be willing to spend his evenings in his own home with her.

Also, she has the right to expect him to continue after marriage the nifty line of conversation that he handed out in the days of courtship and that led her to believe that she was getting a spell-binder for a husband.

A wife has the right to expect her husband to make some specific effort to make her happy. Most husbands seem to consider that just being married to them is pain enough for any woman, and that their wives should not crave any greater amusement than cooking up something good for them to eat when they get home, and seeing that everything is made pleasant and comfy for them.

They never take their wives to any place of amusement unless they are bulldozed into it. They never surprise their wives with any little treat. They never remember an anniversary. They never make their wives a present. They never give the slightest indication that they care whether their wives are happy or unhappy, or whether they have found marriage a success or failure.

A wife has a right to expect more of her husband than just her food and clothes.

She earns them over and over again by her own work in the home. When she married, her husband took her life into his hands and she has a right to expect him to make it as pleasant as possible, and to do the little things that break the monotony of household drudgery and put pep and joy into her days.

A wife has the right to expect tenderness from her husband, and that he will, at least, give her a sign every now and then that he still hates her and does not regard her as merely a useful household convenience.

Undoubtedly, the great majority of men are fond of their wives, and never regret their pick, but go on from the altar to the grave thinking their Mazies the best-looking, the smartest and the most competent wives in the world.

Unfortunately, however, few women are mind-readers, and wives have no way of telling what their husbands think of them except by what they say. And so they miss the joy of knowing they are still beloved, because they are married to dumb brutes who never mention the state of their affections.

Every wife has the right to expect her husband to keep up the face-making with which he won her heart after marriage, and to notice what she wears, and when she does her hair a new way, and to pay her a few compliments, and to give her a kiss once a month, anyway, that has some real thrill and passion in it instead of being merely a dry peck on the cheek.

Every wife has the right to expect her husband to show her some appreciation.

The woman who does her duty as wife and mother, who bears a man's children, who shares to help him get a start in the world, who pinches and economizes, who sacrifices herself daily and hourly for her family, has all that she has at a man's feet and he might, at least, say "thank you."

Finally, a wife has a right to expect her husband to deal fairly with her about money. She has a right to expect him to give her an allowance for running her house and for her own personal use, as a matter of square play, because she is a partner in the matrimonial firm and entitled to her part of the profits. Her work is as valuable as his. She has put just as much into the business as he has, and she has the right to her share of the earnings.

These are some of the things that every wife has a right to expect of her husband, and if wives could only cash in on their expectations, there would be more happy women than there are at present.

President Asked To Intervene in Strike

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—President Coolidge was asked today by a delegation of labor leaders to intervene in the bituminous coal strike in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, but he left with them clearly the advice that he saw little desirability in calling a conference between miners and operators unless both were agreed some good might come from it.

Storks Are Dying Out

THE stork is dying out in Germany. In twenty years the number of occupied nests has decreased by approximately 70 per cent. This is regarded as a bad omen by the peasantry, who think themselves twice blessed if a stork builds on their roof.

THE DANCE HALL QUESTION

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Distinct Dangers Face Unescorted Young Girls

By Beatrice Fairfax,
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

ABOUT once in so often the dance hall problem comes bobbing up through letters written to this column.

Without doubt some "nice" girls do go to public dance halls unescorted, as well as to showy cabarets, and dance with unknown men. But a girl whose enthusiasm for a good time leads her to such places alone usually assumes either an apologetic or defiant manner in admitting she does so. And she is always careful to state that she pays for her own "refreshments" and goes home alone.

Peggy and Bobby bring up the old discussion in the following letter, taking opposite views of the question:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"A friend and I have argued very often on a certain subject and now we leave it to you to decide for us.

"Is it proper for a girl sixteen years old to attend public dances unescorted? Peggy says it is, because she meets many young men she knows at these dances. I say it isn't, because she doesn't know what kind of a crowd she gets into, and when she is once there she will naturally dance with anyone who asks her. Will you please decide this question for us?

"PEGGY AND BOBBY."

Dear Peggy and Bobbie, that's just the one thing I'm not willing to do—settle the question for you. In the long run you will have to settle this and all the other questions that come along according to your own conscience and convictions.

But I will gladly tell you what I think about girls going to public dance halls. And if my line of reasoning happens to clarify the question for you I shall be very glad.

A nice girl—like Peggy, for instance—may go to public dance halls and escape from harm. She may be clever enough to be able to distinguish between decent young men who attend and those who are cads.

PUBLIC DANCE HALLS ARE FREQUENTLY DANGEROUS

But she faces distinct dangers in going to such a place. A girl who deliberately rushes up to dangers will most likely have to face the consequences sooner or later. And she is not apt to receive much sympathy when she does.

Custom and convention alike declare that "nice" girls shall not go unescorted to cabarets and dance halls. As a result when a nice girl does go, some if not all the men she meets there are likely to take her for a girl who is not nice, not particular, and treat her and talk about her accordingly. Why should a self-respecting girl care to run such a chance?

I know a woman who is thoroughly good, although uneducated. She permitted her three daughters to go to public dance halls, declaring that, because they behaved themselves properly they were quite safe anywhere. Only a few days after she had given me her opinion of the dance halls as safe this good woman received a shock which sent her to her bed. Two of her daughters suddenly disappeared. For weeks the girls were listed by the Bureau of Missing Persons.

Finally they returned home. One had eloped without marriage and was in dreadful trouble. The other had married a member of another race. They had met these men at dance halls.

SAFE AND JOLLY GOOD TIMES ARE JUST AS MUCH FUN

Even though a girl may escape actual harm in attending cheap dances and cabarets, yet she lowers her standard of values by doing so. And just to that extent she loses her respect for herself and cheapens herself in the eyes of others.

Isn't it better, under all the circumstances, girls, to choose some other form of good time, even though it may lack the thrill that comes from skirting the brink of danger?

I can't decide the question for you. Nor would I care to. Your own cleverness and sense of values will decide for you.

I agree with the policy of a well-known American, who said to his nineteen-year-old daughter: "I do not forbid you to go to public dance halls. But I would rather not have you go, because public dance halls are no place for a young girl."

His daughter went once or twice, then came to her father, saying:

"You're right, Dad; they are no place to go."

A wise philosopher has said, in substance, there are two things each of us can do: choose the best for ourselves and help others to choose the best.

Here's hoping, dear girls, you will one and all choose the best company, the best standards, the best kind of good times, and eventually the best man in the world for a husband.

Good Times May Be Just as Thrilling When Safe

HER HUSBAND'S SECRETARY

—By William Almon Wolff—

A Crisis for John

BUT, if John MacVeagh and Marcia Lovewell thought the care they now proceeded to exercise was enough to still the talk that had begun about them they were mistaken. They still saw one another and there were few to believe in the accidental nature of many of their meetings. Certainly Eileen Randall, though she said nothing, had her own views.

Of her, John found himself seeing quite a good deal. It happened that her mother was a holder of certain shares he wanted and he paid several visits to the house to discuss their purchase. Eileen's father had died, not long since, leaving her mother to administer his estate and he had held a hundred shares of the capital stock of the local power company, of which John was, by now, vice-president.

Not a wealthy man, Mark Randall had still been comfortably off, and his estate, together with the insurance money, had been enough to make his wife and daughter independent. Not, perhaps, in New York or in Chicago, but in that small town an income of between four and five thousand dollars a year meant solid comfort and security.

John was not a bargain hunter when he tried to buy the Randall power stock. Mrs. Randall could hold it; the shares were safe, they paid good dividends, there was no real need for her to sell. But John offered her the full market price.

"If I were investing your funds, Mrs. Randall, I'd buy no stocks at all—nothing but bonds," he said. "The yield isn't quite so high, but you do get absolute security. We're doing well with this property now, and there's no reason to suppose we won't go on paying dividends right along.

"But we've been singularly fortunate. We've had an abundance of rain for the last three Summers and the rivers we have dammed for our water powers have been full. If we had to buy power from a distance, or use our reserve steam plant, it would eat into our surplus. In the same way we've had good, open Winters, and we've kept down maintenance and repair costs. Two or three bad ice storms next Winter would make a whole lot of difference, I can tell you."

"What do you think, honey?" Mrs. Randall asked Eileen.

Eileen looked at John and nodded.

"I think John's right," she said. "The bonds are safer. Only I think we ought to see that we get enough for the stock so that the bonds we can buy with the money will give us just as much income as we've been getting from the stock dividends."

John laughed, a little ruefully.

"That would mean more than the market price!" he said. "But I tell you what I'll do. I'll pay you in approved bonds instead of in cash. How's that? As it happens I have some bonds that have gone up in value since I bought them, so I can afford to do it."

"I think that would be all right," said Eileen. "Don't you, mother?"

Mrs. Randall agreed. And John, rather to his surprise, found himself staying, after Mrs. Randall had gone upstairs, to talk to Eileen. He had always thought of her as too young to be worthy of his serious notice—pretty, of course, and nice to dance with at the country club, but altogether too much of a flapper for real conversation.

Now, however, he found himself talking about his plans for consolidating the public service corporations of the region, and, to his surprise, she listened with intelligent understanding, as some of her questions and comments showed. He never talked of business with Marcia; she always said she had enough of that at home. Eileen seemed to like it.

"How is it that no one has done that before, if it's been done everywhere else?" she asked.

"It's hard to say," said John. "I think it's probably because they haven't happened to make a power survey around here and haven't seen how important a link these companies would make in a super-power project.

"You see, we've got to depend more and more hereafter on water power. For one thing our coal isn't going to last forever, and, for another, power from steam is costing more and more every year. The miners get higher wages and it costs more to haul the coal from the mines to the power plants. Once you've got a water power established, got your dam and your power house built and your machinery installed and your transmission lines laid out, you're practically through spending money and you've got fifty years to get your money back and make your profit."

"And it's a good thing for the community, too, having cheap power, isn't it?" she asked. "Doesn't it make it better for factories of all kinds?"

He gave her a keen, interested look.

"Of course!" he said. "And that—well, that's a thing I always keep in mind. Power's the very life blood of industry, and the man who understands the distribution of power, and knows where power is available, and, most of all where it's going to be cheaply available next year, is in a position to invest his money pretty safely—with a certainty of big profits."

"Yes," said Eileen, thoughtfully, "I can see how that would be. I wish, sometimes, that I'd been a man instead of a girl. I'd like to be a business man. I'd like to make deals."

He laughed.

"I think it's just as well things are as they are," he said. "There are plenty of business men—there aren't many girls as pretty as you."

She flushed with pleasure.

"Do you really think I'm pretty?" she said.

"Of course I do!" He laughed again. "You're a funny child, Eileen!"

"I'm not a child," she said—not petulantly, at all, but as one stating a simple fact. "I was twenty years old my last birthday."

"My, my—quite the grown-up young lady!" he said.

"You're laughing at me," she said.

"Maybe—but don't you care," he said. "No one needs to worry about being laughed at because they're young, Eileen. We all get old soon enough—altogether too soon to suit most of us."

"You!" she said—and now it was her turn to laugh. "I know how old you are, John MacVeagh, even if you are a successful business man and everyone says you're going to be right! You're only five years older than I am—and what's that? A woman of the same age is years older than a man. Everyone says that."

He got up, laughing, then.

"Are you coming to the party at the Blair's tomorrow night?" he asked.

She nodded.

"Good," he said. "I'll see you, then."

He did. But he paid no attention to her. Marcia kept him occupied. Henry Lovewell had gone away, unexpectedly, on a business trip, and Marcia was minded to make the most of his absence. And she had an idea, daring for those times—all this was some few years ago, and the world has moved swiftly in the interval. It was a hot night; they were near Clegg's Pond.

"Let's slip away and cool off in the pond," she whispered to John.

It was he who thought of bathing suits.

"Oh, we can keep something on!" she said.

They didn't know anyone had seen them slip away. Nor did they know something else—that Henry Lovewell had kept something back about that business trip of his, which was that he was coming home that night, and had arranged for the Limited to make a special stop for him.

But their departure had been seen—by two people. One was already enlisted in Henry Lovewell's service; the other was Eileen.

And so it was that, as the two of them stood, in the moonlight, shivering a little, on the banks of Clegg's Pond, a slim white figure flashed past them and into the water, darting from the woods behind them. And the next moment Eileen, dripping, clad only in a now shapeless pink garment, stood beside them. But, before they could cry out, Henry Lovewell's angry voice rang out behind them.

To Be Continued.

TIRED MOTHERS

By L. Lamar Matthews.

MRS. FLAPPER was stuffing her baby boy into one of those little push-cart affairs that you see on sidewalks near homes. There was the suggestion of a scowl upon her face and a peculiar mixture of resignation, impatience, affection and boredom in her voice and manner. Mrs. Middle-Age, across the street, watched her with a sympathetic smile. Then she came over in neighborly fashion to offer a word of consolation.

L.LAMAR MATTHEWS

"That's an all-time job you have," she ventured.

"I'll say it is," answered Mrs. Flapper, and her eyes flashed.

"But he is worth it," declared the older woman.

"I sometimes wonder," was Mrs. Flapper's reply.

"Some day you will know for sure," said Mrs. Middle-Age to herself as she went on down the street.

As she turned the next corner she met a red-haired young mother with a baby in her arms.

Red-Head carried her youngster as though it might have been a pillow. She was tired. Her mouth drooped and her eyes were a little sad. All day long she had nursed that six-months-old. And any woman who has tended a child that age, day after day, knows the wearisomeness and the aggravation of the task.

Red-Head, with pouting lips and the sullen eyes, acknowledged the older woman's greeting and went disconsolately into her pretty bungalow.

"Poor little tired mothers," said Mrs. Middle-Age.

"I wish I could swap my heartache for their back-ache. They could throw off the heart-ache and I wouldn't mind the hurting of mere muscles."

Before she could get her eyes clear again, there came to her ears the voice of a woman a half-block away.

"Put that down. Don't you touch it! Ach! Ach! I'll spank you. Do you hear me?"

Looking in the direction of the voice, Mrs. Middle-Age saw a half-clad toddler running away from the water-hose that had proved his undoing. His irate mother was also behind him. Shortly thereafter she carried him into the house kicking and screaming.

"You'll drive me crazy yet!" she said loud enough for Mrs. Middle-Age to hear.

"If he does, it will be after he is out of your reach," said the older woman who had a way of talking to herself.

"These pitiful young mothers," she continued. "I feel sorry for them; but you can't tell them anything. They think they are having trouble—and they could be happy if they tried. When their daughters are gone and their sons are here, there and everywhere they will wish their children were back under their feet and in their way. When they are little they are on your toes; when they grow up they are on your heart. It isn't half as bad to be bored to tears with nursing as it is to be lonely—wondering where and how the children are."

So it goes. Each mother has to learn her own hard lessons. Though it is a pity that the young ones can't see that there is real joy and contentment in just having the children around.

Household Hints

To Remove Iron Mould.

Pour into a basin some boiling water and stretch the stained article above it. With a pad of rag on the end of a short stick rub in salts of lemon, then pour over more boiling water. Rinse in water to which carbonate of soda has been added in the proportion of two teaspoonfuls to a pint of water. This safeguards the fabric from the effect of the salts of lemon, which is a deadly poison. Do not allow it to touch the hands.

Leather Upholstery.

First wash thoroughly with petrol or benzine, but this must be done in the open air. Then purchase an ounce each of lacquer and lacquer-thinner from the oil shop, mixing well together, spread it on the leather with a smooth brush, or, better still, spray it on. Care should be exercised not to go over the same place twice. Leave the upholstery in a room that is free from dust and wait till thoroughly dry.

To Remove Fruit Stains

Fruit stains that do not yield to cold water are difficult to remove from silk without injuring the material. The safest remedy is warm water and borax.

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

—By Mildred Ash—

SMOCKS mock at maps using their queer, small ships, lines of latitude and longitude, vague outlines of the different countries, as designs for interesting print on washable fabrics. To add local color, the pattern often includes whales and walruses.

"Seeing green" has always been significant of jealousy, but the least envious person cannot help noticing the amount of jade and of emerald green being used for evening gowns. Merging onto the green tone is "duck's egg blue"—one of the very latest shades.

Gloves grow gayer appearing in pastel shades to match the color of the gown with which they are worn. Short, slip-on gloves of glace kidskin are trimmed at the top with three or four tiny pipings of gold or silver leather

According to their lights shall the new jeweled fobs be judged, for they are destined to enliven afternoon frocks of the best types. Set in rhinestones, crystals or colored stones, fobs are made both with and without pins, and frequently they are matched by belt buckles and sleeve links.

When the Children Cook

By Hannah Wing

WHEN there is a cold, stormy Saturday afternoon there is no game more exciting for the children than that of playing cook. Incidentally, the experience and knowledge gained will be helpful some time.

Menus that children can cook should be simple and should also be so planned that they learn some simple lesson in cookery, such as making a custard or a simple cake.

For youngsters from ten to fourteen who are somewhat kitchen-wise the following menu should not be too difficult:

Baked corn and egg pudding, cabbage and green pepper slaw, stewed pears, ginger bread.

Soft Molasses Gingerbread.

One-quarter cup fat, one cup molasses, one tablespoon vinegar, one egg, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon ginger, one cup sour milk, two cups flour.

Melt the fat, add the molasses, vinegar and beaten egg. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Pour into a greased pan and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Batter should be just thin enough so that the track left by the spoon in stirring disappears at once

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Afternoon Reception.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My sister is having an engagement reception at a hotel in the afternoon.

I would appreciate knowing the proper attire to be worn on such an occasion. Can a Tuxedo be worn?

2. Is it proper for the ladies to wear hats? PAUL J.

TO be "perfectly attired" the gentlemen should wear cutaway coats and dark striped trousers. Or—what is often worn now and is very becoming to most men—the short dark coat, black or oxford gray, and striped trousers. Or, informally dark business suits (which probably, most of the men guests will wear).

Tuxedo suits are not worn before six-thirty or seven o'clock. They would certainly look "queer" at an afternoon reception!

2. Yes.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

BOARDING SCHOOLS

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR children may be among the great and increasing number who are Winter residents in some of our numerous and excellent boarding schools. These institutions are, for the most part, run on highly satisfactory hygienic principles and ample provisions are made for the care of children who become ill, especially of infectious diseases. It is in the management of this latter class of cases that special facilities are required not only for the welfare of the actually ill, but for the protection of those who are well. Special hospital facilities are required; discipline must be exercised with respect to visitors; care must be used when it comes to convalescence of cases and their final discharge.

CHARLES A.L. REED, M.D.

The school hospital should have good, airy wards of a suitable size, with proper up-to-date lavatories, sick rooms and bathrooms. There should also be an adequate number of day and night nurses who, besides being skilled at their profession, must be capable of maintaining a strict but kindly discipline. It is not necessary to be brutal to be firm. The nurses should have their own dayroom and bedrooms so placed that those at rest from night duty may be undisturbed. The wards must be so arranged that two separate infections may be kept quite apart from one another and also from the non-infectious wards.

It is very difficult to suggest rules of universal application with regard to visitors. So long as the number of cases of any infectious disease is small, i. e., in the case of the first patient and of those infected by him, it is better that no visitors should be admitted, although it is most improbable that they will carry infection on their clothes. Boys must not, of course, visit their infectious friends. A housemaster, or supervisor, or his deputy, provided that he has had the disease himself, should be allowed to pay a short visit once a day at a time suitable to the matron.

It is important that either she or her second should be asked for permission to admit a visitor, for it is important that they at all times shall be in control of the situation. Visitors should not sit down nor come near to the patient, and they should only stay a very short time.

During convalescence each patient should be allowed one or two daily walks and at least one bath a day. Special attention should be given to the scalp. He may then be safely discharged without further disinfection, of his clothes or belongings, except books. In scarlet fever and diphtheria, his clothes and bedding must be disinfected by steam and his other belongings by antiseptics in solution—spray—or smoke. Any regulations which make it legal for a convalescent from scarlet fever and diptheria to walk out into the country should be modified. The places that he is most likely to have infected are his dormitory, his classrooms, his study, the chapel and other premises which he visits whilst going down with the disease, and it is quite impossible to disinfect all these.

The ordinary fumigation by formalin vapor does practically nothing more than create a sanitary smell and a false sense of security. Fresh air, wind and sunlight, supplemented by the work of a good muscular scrubwoman, are more efficacious. Soap, water and elbow grease, combined under these circumstances, make the very best disinfectant when supplemented with abundant fresh air.

As a rule, though not always, the patient of a mild, uncomplicated infection is safe for discharge when he is clinically fit to return to school. Although six weeks' isolation is usually demanded for scarlet fever, many cases can be discharged after four. It is, however difficult to say which cases. A few are infectious for no apparent reason long after the usual six weeks.

DO YOU KNOW

Some of the employes of a chair company near Owensboro, Ky., had a feast of catfish at their homes, after a thirty-pound fish was found swimming about in a small pool of water in a hollow log taken from Green River to the chair factory to be sawed into chair stock. The fish was discovered just as the timber was about to be cut up?

Grasse, France, the perfume centre of Europe, with twenty-nine distilleries, will run short of 600,000 pounds of petals this year as a result of the late frost and inclement weather which destroyed a fifth of the Riviera flower crop. Manufacturers say this shortage will cause at least a 25 per cent increase in the cost of French perfumes?

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis.—

EACH being has his part to play upon this whirling sphere; serene or troubled, grave or gay, find place and purpose here. For those who reap earth's great rewards the hours of toil are long; but work is sweet to mighty bards who sing a deathless song. The builders and the statesmen go on weighty tasks intent, and by their fruitage all men know not vain the toil they spent. But there are those who have no share in glory's heady cup, for them no hours of anxious care, the folks who don't grow up! They add no grandeur to this earth, seek no immortal truth, and yet they have a boundless worth, these folks of endless youth! Girt round with happiness they go, they drain joy's brimming cup, and all life's rarest pleasures blow for folks who don't grow up!

Drama Department Presents Two Clever Plays at Forum Tuesday

Entertaining before one of the largest crowds of the season, the drama department of the Womans Forum presented two entertaining and diversified plays, "Will O' the Wisp" by Doris Halman and "The Man in the Bowler Hat," anonymous, in both matinee and evening performances at the clubhouse Tuesday.

"Will O' the Wisp," directed by Mrs. E. L. Fulton, was of double interest because of the previously veiled identity of "Will-of-the-Wisp." It was announced that one of the best players in the city would enact this character, and Mrs. E. L. Fulton as "Will O' the Wisp" richly deserves such praise. Others who took part in the play, all of whom gave splendid portrayal, were Mrs. John Rhea, as the countrywoman; Mrs. Claude Ruffner as the poet's wife; and Mrs. Charlie Reid as the serving girl.

"The Man in the Bowler Hat," directed by Miss Ella Merle Mathis, was a highly colorful comedy from start to finish. The play was particularly enjoyable because it was extremely realistic and human, expressing the oft repeated craving for excitement and something different from the ordinary run of every day life.

Among the cast were several practically new actors, and others were old favorites; Baldwin Montgomery, as John; Miss Ella Merle Mathis as Mary; Raymond Strong as He; Eloise Hawkins as She; Trent Hill, Chief Villian; Harold Hamlin as the Bad Man; and Bruce Greenwood as the man in the bowler hat. All together presented an enjoyable half hour of entertainment.

Mrs. Charles Hutchens entertained the guests before the presentation of the first play and between the plays with several beautiful selections on the harp. Mrs. Hutchens also gave vocal selections, accompaning herself on the harp.

Following the conclusion of the plays tea was served in the dining room with the following ladies acting as hostess for the occasion; matinee: Mmes. D. J. Carithers, Jasper Ferguson, J. L. Elliott, R. D. Bone, A. W. Burnside, W. J. Nolen, B. G. Dutton, C. H. Evans, and Miss Georgia Humphrey; evening: Mmes. W. W. Fraser, Robert Brown, C. P. Burton, Harry Davis, O. T. Alles, W. P. Ferguson, Edilee Fitzhugh, W. A. Fraser, T. P. Lynch, J. L. Shipley, H. E. Bass, Annie Barker and Miss Frances Brooks.

IN THE GLOW OF THE CAMP FIRE

The Taweya Camp Fire Girls of Sam Houston school met Friday for a business session. A candy sale was planned for Saturday, to raise money for materials to make count books for each member. Those attending the meeting were Rubena Nelson, Lucile and Linnie Mae Baggett, Myrtle Gray, Edith Haynes, Elizabeth Morgan, Anna Bell Palmer, Eva Jo Howard, Geneva McCurdy, Audra Skelton, Wilene Hackley, and the guardian Miss Elizabeth Ramsdell.

* * *

The Yakoma Camp Fire group met as usual at the K. C. hall Friday afternoon. The girls worked on requirements for the wood-gatherers rank. Several girls worked on honors. Those present: Mary Teresa Boyle, Mary Pastusek, Alma Nicholas, Katherine Segal, Jennie Marie Walsh, Roberta Hayes, Grace Hall, Evelyn van Emden, Rose Mary Gannaway, Dorothy Hatcher, Margaret Davis and the guardian, Mrs. Hyland.

* * *

The Camp Fire guardians' training course met Monday evening in the basement of the First Presbyterian church. The members worked on leather work. Loom bead work was demonstrated in the handcraft class preceding the discussion period, which centered on handcraft and health.

The handcraft program was voted valuable in that it satisfies the desire to create as a means of expression, directs the activity drive in useful channels, permits the development of known skills and acquirements of new skills, directs the imagination toward concrete forms, establishes an appreciation of beauty in object relative to things being made by the girl, makes possible the possession of useful and often beautiful objects which are the products of their own skill, it is the learning by doing and establishes experiences upon which to base all future learning.

The use of symbols in the Camp Fire program offers opportunity for originality in handcraft. The value of beauty i nthe girl's life was discussed. The change from the dark, in convenient kitchens of generations ago to the modern kitchens with dainty curtains and modern equipment shows the realization that beauty is essential to real happiness.

Tie-dyeing, count book, stenciling and wood-blocking were mentioned as some of the types of inexpensive handcraft. Handcraft that necessitates long hours of tiresome,tedious work was to be discouraged in preference to the type that develops the above named characteristics.

In the discussion of health the distinction between being healthy and "just being about" was made. The tremendous value in keeping the health chart was stressed. Several Wichita Falls girls and guardians are keeping the health chart for the national honor for one year. One girl kept one month 100 per cent.

The next classes will meet on Monday, Nov. 28, as no class will be held on Thanksgiving. All members who want instruction in tied-dye work are to bring their own cloth to dye.

Miss Phillips has a mezzo soprano voice which record well, while Miss Tucker accompanied Miss Phillips in a duet selection and played the piano accompaniment for Miss Phillips.

The entire program given Sunday follws:

Young Wichita Falls

Gwendolen had difficulty in deciding whether to have her picture made with her toy dog or her books and magazines, and was forced to call mother in to help her decide. While a love for animals is natural with children, most two-year-old girls aren't particularly interested in books and magazines.

A new magazine coming in the morning mail, and big brother's school books are always eagerly perused by Gwendolen before any one else can lay hands on them. C. A. Jr. and Gwendolen then study those books together which association of literary minds is mutually beneficial.

Lest any should confuse the dog of the picture with the purses carried by the slightly older flappers of the present day, The Record News wants to state that the puppy in the photo is "Molly", a plain toy dog, and a prime favorite with Miss Gwendolen. Gwendolen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rogers of 1409 Buchanan.

Mrs. Cahoon to Entertain Unity Junior Club

Mrs. Wilbur Cahoon will be hostess to the Unity Junior club at her home at 2410 Eighth street at 3 o'clock Wednesday. The change in hostesses for the various meetings of the year was made since the arrangement of the yearbook.

Spread the Light—In Mexico

AND now the supreme court in Mexico by unanimous decision granted the appeal of the Mexican Petroleum company, an American concern, restraining the Mexican department of industry and commerce and labor from cancelling certain of the drilling permits of the company.

Furthermore, the court also declared unconstitutional the important section 14 and 15 of the new laws as far as this suit was concerned. Section 14 in effect substitutes 50-year concessions for oil and titles acquired before 1917 and section 15 forfeits titles to oil land for which no application for confirmatory concessions had been made within one year from the effectiveness of the new law.

Bear in mind the decision is not one declaring the entire petroleum law constitutional or unconstitutional. Five such decisions are needed to kill the law. Similar appeals from the new petroleum law have been filed by a majority of the leading foreign oil companies operating in Mexico. This law became effective January 1, 1927, and is based on the theory of the Mexican constitution of 1917 that natural resources belong to the state.

In its last analysis it is confiscatory in nature and destructive of the treaty rights and legitimate concessions held by nationals of other countries in the republic of Mexico.

Caught For Custom Officials

THERE are smugglers who are not professionals. There are smugglers who show their faces in high society. There are smugglers who are wealthy, some of the tribe immensely wealthy.

Madame Busch and her two daughters are among the elect socially in the city of St. Louis.

They came from Europe late in the fall. They carried 34 pieces of luggage or trunks. A fine of $57,000 was imposed by a treasury department agent for bringing undeclared clothing and jewelry into the country.

It is safe to wager $100 to $1 that Madame Busch and her daughters will vote for free trade in the coming years. A secret service agent whispered the story in the ears of the customs officials. And thus it was that the fashionable personages were compelled to stand and deliver.

Innocent of course. They were unaware that it was a violation of the laws of the land.

American Labor Given a Warning

JAMES A. EMERY, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, has advised the congress of the United States to emulate "Great Britain in curbing labor organizations or combination."

He is calling for drastic penalties against strikes. He is calling for the curbing of organization tendencies on the part of public service employes, and he is for the British law or rather its provision "establishing the open shop in public employment."

Law Advisor Emory is a Republican, and a vast majority of the members of his association are Republicans and beneficiaries of Republican tariff laws. He will be asking for the ballots of the American wage workers in the campaign of 1928. All this is of interest to the growers of things. What will they do in the campaigning of 1928?

Flayed by Buckeye Farmers

AND now comes the National Farmers' union in session at Des Moines, branding Herbert Hoover as "the arch enemy of the farmer" and likewise placing the union on record as unqualifiedly in favor of the McNary-Haugen relief bill.

Furthermore the National Farmers union declared Hoover guilty of sponsoring and promoting the government administration during the war "through which the wheat farmers were robbed of at least $1 a bushel on their wheat, both in 1917 and 1918."

Adoption of the Des Moines resolution must have made Lowden smile and spread over the sharp face of Dawes a pleasing grin of satisfaction.

Calvin Coolidge let loose for the Republicans a Pandora box of plagues when he penned his famous message to the party leaders from the summer white house in the Black hills country.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Having been recently handed a check in a night club, which asked 47 dollars for four bottles of ginger ale and orders of chop suey, this story does not sound so good. Turkey, a noble fowl, is very popular in Broadway eating places and the other night I ordered a hot sandwich. Upon receiving the same, I found two slices of alleged turkey barely separating the two slices of bread. It must have taken years to invent the machine that carved it. Without exaggeration, I was unable to pick the meat up with a fork, unless the former was supported by a piece of bread. My own quite plausible explanation for this is that the meat was thin enough to let the fork touch the hard plate before is touched the meat. That sounds complicated I know, but if you stop to figure it out, you'll admit it's a pretty fair gag for me. Anyway, I later paid a dollar for my sandwich.

We know some people who moved to the suburbs to secure a little peace and quiet. The husband is an artist who requires an extra room at home to use as a studio, the wife has a job which takes her into the city daily. They had a car which was expensive to keep in town, so they decided the ideal arrangement for them was to live in an apartment in a Westchester suburb about 15 miles out, an apartment in a building within a stone's throw from the station. A public garage faced this building directly across the street. They congratulated each other on the seeming convenience of their new living quarters, moved out, bought commutation tickets—and then began to suffer. They discovered the various noises made life unbearable. They had not minded greatly the incessant hum of town, the sound compounded of far off subway rumblings, elevated train ditto, the vast inarticulate and incessant din of the metropolitan street in which they had lived. But they could not endure the ever present noise of passing suburban trains, nor the hullabaloo set up early each morning by the village taxi men in the garage just below their windows. Then the town began some street improvements, and an electric drill to bore through the old pavement was set in motion. Some blasting had to be done for new telephone cables. The young couple in complete despair paid the landlord $300 to let them out of their lease; they sold their car, because they determined to move back to town. And now they are packing up their goods, after one month's tenacy, to move back to the comparative quietude of the East Fifties. They moved out of New York seeking peace and quiet. They are moving back for the same reason.

Among other things New York seems to be a good place for the breeding of prodigies. It is the home of Nathalia Crane and of Elizabeth Benson, as well as of many musical geniuses. Elizabeth Benson is the 12-year-old student at Barnard college whose treatise on "The Younger Generation" has just been published and was released on the same day that her mother's first novel, "Jackson Street" was placed on the stands. Elizabeth's mother is Anne Austin, the dissimilarity of the names being due to a divorce of the prodigy's parents. It will be remembered that Elizabeth "broke the scale" of an intelligence test contrived for superior adults.

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, works in the mailing room of a printing and book-binding establishment. A former fellow employe,

LUCILLE OVERMAN, takes her to the Earthwide Picture studio, where she is seen by

ARMAND DE BRISSAC, famous director. He makes a screen test of Hattie and takes her to California with him to make a picture. With her go

GRANDMA, old and lame, and

ALICE, Hattie's married sister and her baby, all dependent on Hattie. Hattie becomes engaged to

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. De Brissac makes love to her and wants her to go with him for a vacation on his yacht, but she refuses. She leaves his company and works at another studio, but is not successful away from De Brissac. Lucille advises her to go back to him. Alice's husband,

ARTHUR, who had deserted her, comes back, making another for Hattie to support. The De Brissac picture is a success and he offers Hattie a new contract at a much higher salary. She wants to give up pictures and be married and keep house for Henry, and when she finds he has no idea of this she breaks her engagement and goes back to De Brissac. It is decided that Hattie and the director will to to New York and make personal appearances together at the showing of their latest picture. Then

JULIAN DEMPSTER, a young magazine writer comes to interview her.

She is much attracted to Julian and he to her. They go east on the same train, falling more and more in love. Hattie finally tells him all about her life and her relations with De Brissac.

CHAPTER FORTY

After a restful time he made her go in to bed. They next day they passed richly in wandering about the brinks of the Canyon; and all day he was thoughtful and quiet, and she was wistful and watchful. After dinner they wandered out again. There remained to them a few hours of the awful beauty of this wonderland. And when the dusk came down, feeling very small, little creeping things, two out of hundreds of millions of little creeping things on one of hundreds of millions of little planets, their hearts softened and drew close. When he took her in his arms, at last, he didn't speak, but just quietly gathered her in close to him and bent down as she drew up to give him her lips.

Later he said—"We must get back to the train." And then, solemnly. "Evidently we're in for it. Will you be my wife, Harriet?"

"Yes," she replied, and then sobbed.

And still, though she was fairly out of herself, was utterly his, he but kissed her again and in that same hush of solemnity led her back along the trail. And that night, during the long wild waking hours, she worshipped him as she had never worshipped the God of her grandmother. For she knew that whatever he might know or think he would protect her even from themselves. Over and over again, as she lay there in her curtained berth longing for him, aching for him, she sobbed into her pillow in an abandon that appeared to be, strangely, the state called happiness.

The Canyon car is merely dropped for a day. Each night, at Williams, on the main line, the Limited picks up the car that was left the day before.

Hattie was awake with the sun, resting on an elbow and gazing out at the desert with its mountainous rocks that were red and yellow and blue. She wondered if he too would be awake. And she thought about princesses. Did they have to be unhappy, always? Of course it wasn't so. She wasn't a princess. She could still give everything up. No matter what any of them said. No matter what confusion might result in the councils of De Brissac Incorporated . . . She wanted him to wake up. A peep down the aisle showed his curtains tightly drawn . . . What would he think when he found she was a woman? But though her nerves fluttered she found that now she hardly cared. She was so utterly, happily his. Somehow he would understand. He could understand anything. His kiss had brought to life, out of a troubled sleep, the real princess within her that had been waiting for him.

She dressed. None of the berths were made up yet. The porter wasn't about. She stood out in the vestibule. A brakeman, she thought, looked curiously at her . . . She scribbled a note on a card and walked back through the aisle. His curtains moved! She thrust in her hand with the card; held it there until he took it, and then walked deliberately back to the vestibule. She didn't care who might have seen. She was his. . . . Soon he joined her. As a matter of course, all soft happiness, she kissed him. She didn't know how long they stood there awaiting the breakfast call.

She was timid, not of her love, but of her inadequate little self. He knew so much and she so little. She wanted him to tell her what she should eat for breakfast. She couldn't keep her eyes from him. She hardly saw the other passengers as they came straggling into the car. They would be strangers anyway, most of them, who had come through from Los Angeles on yesterday's train.

Someone spoke her name. Startled, she glanced up. It was Mr. Henderson of the De Brissac publicity department. He was a pleasant young man with big spectacles. She felt her color rising. He was standing by the table looking, very quietly, from her to Julian and back. She introduced them. They shook hands . . . . He had seen this new softness in her face, of course. But she didn't care. Soon the whole world would know all about it. Even de Brissac . . . . .

"We've been wiring everywhere for you," said Mr. Henderson. "The newspapers picked up a story that you had disappeared, and got after us about it."

"We changed to the Canyon car," said Hattie. "I'd never seen the Canyon."

"Oh," remarked the puzzled young man. "I see."

Hattie wondered if he knew about De Brissac. Probably. You couldn't keep secrets on a picture lot.

He went on—"They've planned a big public reception for you in Chicago for Friday. It'll have to be Saturday now. I'll wire them."

She sensed that he was trying to speak casually, as if her little excursion to the Canyon with a new young man had no significance. And she knew that he would be sending more than one telegram. Indeed, later in the day, at Albuquerque, she saw him hurrying into the station with a sheaf of the yellow papers in his hand. But she let this make no difference. Julian was troubled. She knew from his silences that he felt the machine reaching out for her. She must make him see how she was through with it. She said—

"I'm not going to have any reception at Chicago."

"I'm wondering just how you can help it, dear."

"I will help it. They have no right to make plans without consulting me."

"I wonder. After all, they're sending you East as part of the exploitation of the picture. They must be going to a good deal of expense. There's a lot at stake, of course."

"I won't do it. I'll make the New York appearance, but that's all. Not one other thing."

Perhaps he felt that she was almost defensively vehement about this. And she was not to escape the discomfort of recalling, out of all the gossip of the lot in Beverly, stories of girls who had made trouble for this or that management by falling in love. It was a world, this of the pictures, in which little outbursts of temperament were understood and in a business way discounted. Shrewd men watched over that sort of thing and handled it as all in the day's work. Something of this atmosphere she felt about the young Mr. Henderson and it made her uncomfortable.

"I'll tell you what," she said to Julian, in a manner not altogether convincing. "We'll just slip away in the Chicago station and change our New York tickets." Soberly, thoughtfully, he acquiesced.

But as the train drew near Chicago yards Mr. Henderson joined them. Plainly she was not to be permitted to give him the slip. At a suburban stop a committee of local exhibitors boarded the train. Everything, it appeared, was arranged. It had been on the front page of the Chicago morning paper that she was coming. She had wanted to keep that from Julian, but knew that he had read it. They didn't speak of it.

There was no slipping away. A great crowd stormed the train gates. Hundreds of girls were there, struggling to get near her. And men. It was astonishing. She couldn't believe at first that it was all aimed at her little self. And it was strange to have a rather stern and silent Julian at her side, making a way for her through the crowd. Mr. Henderson was just ahead. The committee of exhibitors crowded just behind, with Hedwig. Other hundreds swarmed about them in the station. Outside policemen were driving the crowd off the sidewalk. Julian grew white as he helped her along. And Hattie was utterly bewildered.

They drove in a limousine to a hotel on the Lake Front. Still another crowd waited there. Reporters had followed them in taxicabs, and cameras were set up on the steps of the hotel. Photographers had even climbed to window sills and were aiming down at them.

Julian whispered that he would drop out of sight and meet her later on the New York train, but she clung to him. She didn't know what to say. Mr. Henderson made it evident that he was in the way. The friendly exhibitors stared at him. Already the reporters were trying to find his precise relationship to the party . . . . Someone remarked that the Mayor was to preside at the luncheon. Other dignitaries were already waiting within the hotel. And all this in honor of Hattie Johnson who by a miracle of photography and publicity had been turned into Harriet John.

She whispered, in a sort of despair—

"I'm going to tell the reporters."

To which he replied, firmly—

"No. Absolutely not. We've got to think before we act."

She was trying to say—"But I have thought—" when he disappeared in the crowd.

Several of the exhibitors appeared on the New York train. And a Mr. Rosenwald appeared; he had dashed out to Chicago to meet Hattie. He was manager of the New York theater. And now the entire party was drawn into the atmosphere of the great occasion on Monday. Mr. Henderson had written the little speech which Hattie was to deliver. Mr. Rosenwald and others of the party edited it. And now Hattie, whispering mournfully to Dempster that she knew she'd forget every word, was laboriously committing it to memory. In the morning, as they drew near the city, they saw, everywhere along the right of way, huge twenty-four-sheet posters advertising Harriet John in Armand De Brissac's masterpiece of masterpieces. "The Soul of Angel Blaine." And the morning papers—Mr. Henderson picked them all up at Albany—gave a column on the front page to the exquisite Miss John, her remarkable reception in Chicago and whispers of a greater reception in New York. And these were big advertisements. . . There was no escaping the situation. Even Dempster, as he struggled mentally with it, found it exciting. The girl, it seemed, more and more convincingly, belonged to the public, to her own amazing success, to these queer men who crowded constantly about her, not to himself. He winced at the thought of the hullabaloo awaiting them at the station. But he had to brace himself and go through it at her side. He scribbled his address and telephone number on an envelope and thrust it into her hand; then she was swept away from him. Both, now, were helpless. They were taking her to a picturesque little hotel in Forty-fourth Street where much of the life of the theater world and filmdom finds a convenient center.

MODISH MITZI — And They Call This The Country! — By JAY V. JAY

Polly and Mitzi started out with their two newly discovered cousins to take a walk in the country and that's all right because that's what the country is for. The effect is slightly spoiled when one of the girls says: "This is where we're planning to put in a private golf course next year" . . . that isn't the sort of thing one expects a country cousin to say! Mitzi is wearing a leather coat and a hat of felt with a tassel pointed design. The cousin next to her has on a three-piece cardigan suit of knitted tweed. The next cousin wears a homespun frock with a studio jacket that has a flaring collar. Polly's dressed in a jersey three-piece suit with a long coat.

The music will be furnished by a band 100 miles away, but there's nothing wrong about that! It's a jolly lunch, anyway. The dancing frock to the left belongs to one of the cousins and she fits it very nicely—a dozen of children velvet with a scalloped waistline and flaring skirt and perfectly huge vests from shoulder to hem. Polly's dress is black taffeta with an overlayer of black net sprinkled with little rhinestones and a girdle ornament of straw. All you can see of Mitzi's costume is one fashionable earring (of all gold with four dangles) and that is because she was too interested talking to Uncle Bill about bridge rules to get in the picture.

Coach Ludgate Whips Junior Indians Into Shape For Simmons Frosh Game

AND—

A Column of Et Ceteras in Sport

BY VON

Word comes from Amarillo to the effect that not a single first string player will be missing from the Golden Sandstorm's lineup on the occasion of the Thanksgiving day encounter with the Wichita Falls Coyotes for the district championship. The Sandies are reported trained to a razor-edge finness for the titular fray and fully recovered from the effects of the stress of their victorious combats with Vernon and Electra on the last two week-ends.

* * *

The boys in Amarillo are still as cocky as ever concerning the vaunted Sandstorm's chances to pull a hurricane attack on the Coyotes. They class the Sandies as a team rating one touchdown better than the Wichita Falls Pack and then one Amarillo sports scribe proceeds to prove this by showing the Wolf Pack's record as the more formidable one to date. Says the scribe: "In some ways Amarillo is a one-touchdown better team on paper than Wichita Falls, but Plainview suffered its worst defeat of the season at the hands of the Pack. Amarillo downed the Bulldogs 18 to 6 while Wichita Falls overwhelmed them 25 to 0, making 24 first downs and 305 yards at scrimmage. Black was absent from the backfield after the first half. The Coyotes trampled on the Quanah Indians, 64 to 2, while Amarillo downed this same team, 33 to 0, and was held scoreless by them for the entire first half of the game. Wichita Falls beat Vernon 8 to 6, barely nosing them out, while Amarillo won from the Lions, 7 to 0, and whipped them decisively. Amarillo beat Lubbock 12 to 0, and this same team battled the Coyotes to 12-to-12 tie, and Plainview held Lubbock to a 6-to-6 tie.

This roller skating marathon race from Burkburnett to Wichita Falls on Thanksgiving day is probably the first event of its kind ever to be staged in Texas outside of competitions on wooden-floored rinks. At least we haven't read or heard of such an event. In any case, the stunt is rare enough that it should draw quite a number of entries to swell the total of those already enrolled, who number 24 to date. Among the list of entrants so far is one woman skater. She is Miss Helena Workman who resides at 207 Seymour street. She turned in her name for the contest Monday and declares that she hopes to capture the $15 cash prize posted for the first woman skater to complete the race. Miss Workman is an experienced skater and has won a number of prizes in rink competition. Her record shows that out of more than a dozen races she has won all but one. Which, we'll say, is no mean average.

* * *

If you're going to compete in the skating contest, be sure to carry along a spare skate. Each contestant will be permitted to carry an extra pair of skates to resort to in case of a flat. Wear and tear on skates even on wooden rinks are pretty heavy and on the comparatively rougher pavement this will even be greater. Any type of wheels, wooden, composition, rubber or steel will be permitted, just so the skates are of the regulation roller type. Skaters will have to supply their own footwagons—this in answer to several prospective entrants who have wanted to know where they would get their skates for the race.

* * *

The marathoners should make the 12-mile distance from Burkburnett to Wichita Falls in something less than an hour. As there are no records available here on the matter of marathon skating speeds we can't be very definite as to the approximate time required to make the distance but our estimate is that the winner should make the 12 miles in about 40 minutes. And that's pretty fair traveling considering some of the hills to be climbed along the course of the Wichita Falls-Burkburnett highway.

RITTICISMS ..... By Bill Ritt

The football season is nearly over and the 'coon skin coats will lose all value except that of keeping a fellow warm.

Another big question bothering the stenogs is how a football star can be a half and an All-American at the same time.

Cornell newspaper says "lounge lizards'" lack of school spirit and desire to help the squad caused that school's grid troubles this year. And all the time we had been thinking it was the touchdowns scored by other teams!

Secret practice is all right but some of the teams we saw this fall must have practiced so secretly that the players themselves didn't find out what it was about.

ONE GOOD REASON WHY THE FOOTBALL SEASON WILL NEVER BE EXTENDED BEYOND THANKSGIVING IS BECAUSE THE TRAINING TABLE NEVER SERVES TURKEY AND MINCE PIE.

Now that the non-scouting agreement is abut to be ditched in top-notch pigskin circles, why not substitute it with a non-losing arrangement?

THE HIDDEN BALL TRICK IS A GREAT STUNT UNLESS IT WORKS SO WELL THAT EVEN THE OFFENSIVE CAN'T FIND THE PIGSKIN.

Minnesota Gets Clear Claim to Championship

By Universal Service.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—The University of Minnesota today gave the University of Illinois a clear claim to the Big Ten conference football championship.

Under the rules of the Big Ten, Minnesota is entitled to a tie with Illinois, because neither team was defeated by a conference opponent. Inasmuch, however, as Minnesota was tied by Indiana and Illinois won every game, the Gopher officials declared Illinois should have a clear title.

JUNIORS GIVEN EVEN CHANCE

Four Gridmen Play Last Battle Thursday

Whipping into final form in encouraging fashion, members of Coach Ludgate's Wicita Falls Junior College Indian squad Tuesday afternoon took their last stiff workout in preparation for the contest here Thanksgiving afternoon with the fast Simmons university freshman eleven.

Local gridiron fans are of the opinion that the Junior college Tribe has a neven chance to win over the Simmons university first-year men despite the fact that among th eyoung Cowboys are to be found several brilliant former high school gridiron stars. The Indians probably have an edge on the offensive as they have played more games than have the Simmons frosh gridders ad have had a better chance to develop their team play. It will be interesting to watch the contest between the well organized Indian team and the Simmons freshman team of stars of great individual ability and more picked material.

Thursday's game will see four Indians appearing in their last game for the Junior college. The graduating stars are Captain Jimmy Boyd, Baxter Scoggin, J. I. Keller and Pinky McConnell. Scoggin will be playing his 21st game, having played in every game during his two years service on the Indian squad. If he recovers fully from injuries sustained last Friday in the game with Wesley college and attains his usual form, Scoggin will be certain to play a great game Thursday against Simmons.

"Junior college need make no apology for its team as is evidenced by the game the team played last Friday against Wesley college," Coach Ludgate told the students.

The gold football presented to Junior college by Joseph Huckins II, to be given to the man who blocked a punt in the Wesley game, will be offered again on Thursday as no punts were blocked in the Wesley contest.

ROAMING AT LARGE—And invited—at Topeka, Kan.,—to journey to Lincoln, Neb., Thanksgiving day, to witness the spectacle of Griffith Bonner, western alumni secretary of New York university, self between two emotions all afternoon.

Bonner is an easterner by birth. His father, the late Robert E., Princeton '76, served as a member of the graduate athletic advisory board for 25 years.

Griffith attended New York university—was varsity lineman in 1914-15.

Six years ago he journey west.

This fall finds his son Roger Young Bonner, a freshman at Nebraska, with the house standing loyally behind him.

Chick Mehan leads his N. Y. U. eleven to Lincoln Turkey day to play Nebraska.

Bonner anticipates some mighty joyful hours shaking hands and meeting the younger generation of football brothers. After the game there'll be big doings for Meehan and his men.

But during the game Bonner will feel like cheering old New York U. for old times' sake and Nebraska, the new love—and the west.

And Myles McLain, at Ohio State university.

Both men won their football spurs at Haskell Indian school. The Missouri conference, as I understand it, has rated Haskell as a college and Elkins' career on the gridiron there therefore makes him ineligible at Nebraska.

McLain played just as brilliantly for Haskell. The Western college conference, however, rates Haskell as a preparatory school, which makes McLain eligible for the usual period at Ohio state. Which cases are held up as a reasonable argument for some concerted effort to unify eligibility rules in general throughout the country.

New York Commission Sanctions Two Bouts

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. (AP)—The New York state boxing commission Tuesday sanctioned two championship bouts for December 16 at Madison Square Garden which will find Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., defending his junior lightweight crown against Joe Glick of New York in the main 15-round clash.

The added title affair will bring together Newsboy Brown of Sioux City, Iowa, and Corporal Izzy Schwartz of New York in a 15-round go for the flyweight championship.

Horned Frogs Prepare For Big Battle With Fighting Ponies

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22.—With railroads in Texas offering fare-and-one-half rates for fans who plan to see the Thanksgiving day football game here Thursday between the T. C. U. Horned Frogs and the S. M. U. Mustangs, Fort Worth and T. C. U. are ready to receive what is expected to be the largest crowd ever to attend an athletic event here with the probable exception of a Dixie Series baseball game.

The game will start at 2 o'clock, Athletic Director L. C. ("Pete") Wright, has announced, and all out-of-town fans are urged to start in plenty of time to arrive at the stadium early at it will be a huge task to seat the big crowd before game time.

HOME COMING GAME

Additional distinction is given the T. C. U.-S. M. U. annual tilt this year inasmuch as it has been designated as T. C. U.'s first home-coming game, an event to be celebrated annually hereafter. Hundreds of the university's alumni already have made reservations for the game. The program of entertainment for the visitors includes a parade, luncheons, class reunions and banquets and many other group entertainments.

After a week's work on new signals and formations especially designed for the Mustangs the Frogs Monday resumed practice for their final game. They will finish their workouts today, only light practice being scheduled for Wednesday.

MATTY AND KU READY

Coaches Bell and Kubale are confident that their men will put up a great battle Thursday as the squad is in the best condition it has enjoyed all season. Every crippel, with the exception of Acker and Clark who were put out for the season with broken and dislocated shoulders, respectively, in the game with Centenary, has recovered and the team will have its full strength for the first time this year.

Reports from Dallas indicate that the Mustangs also are in good condition and ready for a supreme test against the Frogs. The Ponies still have a chance to win the conference title provided they beat T. C. U. and the Texas University downs the Aggies. The Frogs can finish in a tie for third by downing the Ponies.

THE PROBABLE LINEUP

The Frogs probable starting lineup will be as follows: Matthews and Steadman, ends; Jake Williams and Felix Reynolds, tackles; Brumbelow and Fain Williams, guards; Melton, center; B. Williams, quarterback; Toler and Morgan, halves, and Thompson, fullback.

STANFORD AND PITT TO MEET

Penn State Only Hurdle Before Panthers

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22. — It looks like Stanford and Pittsburgh for the annual gridiron classic which will be staged at the Pasedena Rose bowl on January 2.

That Stanford is already the western choice, the only hurdle remaining for Pittsburgh is the Penn state game on Thanksgiving. Official announcement of the team selection for the new year's game will be made Thursday, and it is expected the invitation will be sent out immediately.

Stanford became a certainty through the defeat of the University of California last Saturday. The worst Stanford can get in the Pacific conference is a tie with University of Southern California, in the event the Southland boys defeat the University of Washington, Dec. 3.

University of Southern California already has announced it would not play in the Pasadena tournament of roses contest.

Minnesota, Washington and Jefferson, and Georgia all have been considered as eastern possibilities. Pittsburgh, however, has the inside track, and, barring an upset in its Thanksgiving game, is practically sure of being chosen.

MUSTANGVILLE READY TO GO

S. M. U. Students Plan For Turkey Day Game

DALLAS, Nov. 22.—Every person in Mustangville is preparing for the Turkey Day invasion of Horned Frogland where the S. M. U. and T. C. U. elevens are scheduled for a big setto.

The steam trains, the electric lines and the bus companies will all have a banner day, to say nothing of the halfwrecked Lizzies and the fine sedans that will pack the Fort Worth pike from early until late. There may even be some unfortunates that will walk. Such is the feeling at Mustangville. Everybody, and his dog, must be there.

The Mustangs know that they will be going up against a real team, probably the best defensive team that has graced the Southwest in years. Their supporters realize the same thing and are determined to give the Mustangs the best cheering section to back them this year. The members of the S. M. U. band have taken on a new number or two, have pressed their uniforms, and shined their instruments and are all ready to swing into "Varsity."

With a tremendous advance seat sale it now appears that the S. M. U.-T. C. U. game this year will draw the largest crowd ever to see these two teams play. The kick-off is scheduled for 2 p. m.

LAST OF KEYS ENDS CAREER

Clois Closes Chapter In Friday Game

VERNON, Nov. 22.—Friday's game with the Lubbock Westerners here will not only end the 1927 football season fo rthe Vernon Lions, but it will ring down the curtain on one of the most colorful chapters in Vernon football history—the story of the Keys on the local gridiron. Five Keys which have unlocked many stubborn doors to gridiron victories have uassed in procession across the gridiron history of Vernon and this colorful page of history nears its close.

Clois Key, charging 160-pound fullback, who like the Keys of former years, is one of the outstanding men on the Vernon eleven, will write the closing chapter in the Key football history of Vernon Thursday when the Lions clash with the Lubbock Westerners. For many years there has been a Key on the Vernon squad to menace other teams of this section, but next year there will be none.

Back in Shape

Clois, who is much better known her eas "Shorty," is expected to close his family gridiron history here in great style. Although handicapped by injuries most of this season, he has stood out on the Lion squad and is in good physical condition for his final game with Vernon. He, like the others of his line, has a reputation for fighting and hard tackling on the football field. The Keys have all displayed a habit of snatching the ball out of the air, off the ground and running almost the length of the field for a touchdown.

A review of the Key gridiron experiences reveals the brothers are perhaps the most notable collection of players of any single family in the state.

Family Record

Earl "Ox" Key won national notice and All-Southwestern honors by his stellar work at S. M. U. He played with S. B. U. in 1924, '25, and was selected All-Southwestern end in 1926.

Otis Key starred on the Austin college team in '22 and '23.

Ted Key, who played with the Lions in '24, '25 and '26, was one of the outstanding ends this district has produced, has never entered college.

Roy Key, now playing with Terrell School of Dallas, was with the Lions in '23, '24 and '25. He is one of the mainstays in the Terrell eleven which claims the State academy championship.

AMATEUR GOLF PLAY TO COAST

Pebble Beach to Be Scene of 1929 Play

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. (AP)—The first amateur golf championship to be decided on the Pacific coast will be played over the Pebble Beach course at Del Monte, Calif., in September, 1929. The dates will be determined later.

Announcement of the selection of the California course was made today by H. H. Ramsay, secretary of the United States Golf association, who announced at the same time the dates for the national competitions of 1928.

Definite assignment of the 1929 amateur to California carries out a policy announced some time ago of a wilder geographical distribution of the classic.

The annual meeting of the United States Golf association will be held in New York, January 7.

The executive committee fixed June 11 for the qualifying round in the various districts for the next open championship which will be played June 21, 22 and 23, at Olympia fields, Chicago.

The public links championship, to be played at the Brae Burn Country club, West Newton, Mass., has been fixed for September 10 to 15.

COYOTES DETERMINED TO BATTLE DESPITE ODDS AGAINST THEM

Mitchell and Black Both Out Of Thanksgiving Day Contest

Odds against them with both Captain Mitchell, left halfback, and Harvey Black, first string quarterback, definitely out of the lineup, 28 members of the Wichita Falls Coyote football squad left early Tuesday afternoon for Amarillo, where on Thanksgiving Day the Pack will engage the Golden Sandstorm for the grid championship of District No. 1.

Mitchell Speaks

"The boys go up to Amarillo confident but not overly so that if they fight they will win."

"And they're going to fight," the Coyote captain said.

Arriving in Amarillo Tuesday night, the Coyotes were scheduled for a good rest and Wednesday afternoon were to take their final workout before the game Turkey day. The extra day in Amarillo before the contest with the Sandies is calculated to give the Pack some chance to become acclimated to the higher altitude in which they will play.

Harvey to Quarter

Just before the train's departure for Amarillo, Coach Alvaro McCallum announced that James Harvey, substitute quarterback, will start the game Thursday in place of the injured Black. Harvey is but a half pint size, weighing 122 pounds, but he fights hard and may be well able to fill the missing Black's shoes.

The probable starting lineup for the engagement with the Sandstorm was outlined as follows by McCallum.

COYOTE FANS' SPECIAL TO CARRY UP 200

Railroad fare on the special which will take Wichita Falls football fans to Amarillo for the Thanksgiving game between the high school teams of the two cities will be $6 for the round trip.

That became certain Tuesday when the 150th ticket for the special train was sold. The Fort Worth and Denver railroad had agreed to make a $6 rate if as many as 150 tickets were sold.

Several tickets above the required number had been sold late Tuesday afternoon, and the demand appeared to be increasing as the time for departure draws near. It was pointed out that no high school students had purchased tickets to date, and as many of them are expected to go to Amarillo, it is believed the ticket sale will run well above 200.

Tickets Still On Sale

Train tickets may be obtained at the chamber of commerce as late as 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. They will be on sale at the Union station Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, before the departure of the train. Those who desire Pullman reservations may also make them at the chamber of commerce.

Tickets for the game in Amarillo were received Monday and are on sale at the chamber of commerce.

The following schedule for the special train was announced Tuesday by J. W. Chatham, industrial and traffic director of the chamber of commerce:

Leave Wichita Falls at 6 a. m., arrive Vernon 7:15, leave 7:20, arrive Quanah 8:05, leave 8:08; arrive Childress 9:10, leave 9:20; arrive Memphis 9:40, leave 9:45; arrive Amarillo 12:50. Returning, the special will leave Amarillo at 7 p. m.

Saints Planning Two Post Season Contests

ped. Bob Clayton then swept around left end for the touchdown. Bill Clark's pass to Red Campbell for the extra point was incomplete.

Reagan's touchdown came late in the fourth quarter when a pass which Shorty Hicks meant for Red Campbell fell right into the arms of "Peanut" Williams, Reagan back, who raced 40 yards to annex his touchdown. Reagan's place kick for extra point hit the cross bar but Reagan got the extra point due to a Zundelowitz player's being offside.

Heartened by their touchdown, the Reaganites started a powerful last minute drive in the hope of scoring another and taking the game, but fighting desperately the Zundies checked their rivals quite enough to prevent it. Just as Reagan had been held for three downs at about midfield and then punted, the game ended, and little Red and his pals raced across the field and gathering in a group they gave three rousing cheers for their beaten foes, tears of joy streaming their faces.

Reagan Threatens

At the very start of the game, Reagan looked to be the most powerful eleven and after receiving the kickoff started a fast drive which eventually took them to Zundy's 16-yard line before a desperate stand of Zundelowitz' line was able to check it. On the very first play, Zundy was penalized five yards. Peanut Williams made six yards at right end on the next formation. The Reagan drive was temporarily halted here when Logan fumbled and Howell recovered for Zundelowitz. A number of fumbles marred the early part of the game. On their first play, the Zundelowitz players were again penalized, this time five yards because the backfield got in motion before the ball was snapped. Then coupled with a pretty 13-yard gain via the forward pass route, Hicks to Quarterback Ray, came the blow that brought a sinking feeling into the Zundelowitz crowd. Ray tackled by Nichols suffered an injury to his leg which a few minutes later forced his retirement form the game. Zundy was penalized another 15 yards at this moment because an over-eager Zundy fan, concerned over Ray's injury, rushed on the field.

After resuming play, Zundy attempted a pass but the toss was intercepted by Williams on Reagan's 34-yard line and returned by him to Zundy's 34-yard line for 28 yards gain. At this point Bill Clarke, who was to stop Reagan's first drive for a touchdown a minute later, rushed on the field to replace Bob Clayton at left halfback, the latter later returning to the field, when Harlan Ray was finally forced to yield to his leg injury. Continuing the Reagan drive, Peanut Williams made 19 yards around right end. On three more plays Reagan failed to gain and a pass by Williams was intercepted by Bill Clarke on Zundy's six-yard line. The little Zundy left halfback returned the ball to the 16-yard line before he was stopped.

Zundy Kicks

Unable to gain after a few plays, Zundy kicked to Reagan the ball going in play on Reagan's 43-yard line. Then Reagan began another dash, its last serious one before the touchdown in the final quarter. This drive was halted however when Hicks of Zundy intercepted a Reagan pass on his 20-yard line. Early in the second quarter after Zundy had been forced to punt, Reagan attempted another pass which was intercepted by Barrett on Zunday's 15-yard line. That ended Reagan's playing in Zundelowitz territory until late in the game, and Zundelowitz began its first drive which finally ended in victory.

SEYMOUR AND STRAWN READY

Class B Title of District At Stake

SEYMOUR, Nov. 22.—After winning the semi-finals of class B district four from the undefeated Olney cubs, here last Friday, the Seymour panthers will meet the Grayhounds on Thanksgiving day for the district championship.

Strawn has one of the fastest and strongest class B elevens in the state and Coach Bates has all his men in splendid shape for the Turkey day game, which will be played in the new $15,000 Grayland park recently completed at Strawn.

The Seymour Boosters will make the trip to Strawn by special train and it is believed that two or three hundred citizens and school children will board the "Panther Special" that will leave Seymour early Thursday. Word comes from Olney that at least 100 citizens will join the Seymour Boosters at that place.

CORRECTING FLAT FEET

The one suffering from flat foot often does not feel any local discomfort in the foot, itself, yet an endless list of aches and pains are caused by this weakness. What appears to be rheumatism in the calves of the legs or the knees is many times due solely to fallen arches. Even sciatica and disorders in the lower back can be traced to this deformity.

I recently examined the case of a lady who had been treated by many doctors for rheumatism of the lower limbs. Every medical method had been tried, even to blistering the knees with the cautery, but the pain and swelling of both legs continued. I tried strapping up the insteps with adhesive plaster, and all symptoms in the legs disappeared in a few days. The strain upon the nerves and ligaments in the legs due to the faulty position of the arches of the foot had caused all of the trouble.

Flat feet are often caused simply because the muscles of the foot and calves are too weak to support a body which is overweight. When obesity is cured, the feet are again restored to their normal shape. When one picks up and lays down two hundred or two hundred and fifty pounds every step, of course a great strain is exerted on the bones and tendons of the foot. If the person weighs 250 pounds, it only takes eight steps to raise and lower a ton of weight.

The ordinary size foot is equal in strength to its task but there is a certain limit of endurance, and too much weight will eventually make the foot collapse, and the natural spring of the arch will be lost. Until the weight is reduced to normal, not much success can be hoped for in the correction of foot trouble. For a time, arch supports will help to relieve the burden, but these only serve as crutches and do not strengthen the feet.

The most effective means for the correction of flat feet is to take certain systematic exercises to increase the tone and strength of the foot and calf muscles. One of the best exercises can be taken at the time of your daily walk. Learn to walk at least part of the time with the toes pointing in and out. This is the way primitive people walk who do not use shoes with stiff soles. In this way the toes are used to grip the ground, and the foot is arched more naturally. Walk "pigeon-toed" every other block, and wear lighter shoes.

Another good exercise is to stand barefoot on a thick book and attempt to grasp the edge of the book with all of the toes.

An excellent exercise can be taken when standing with the feet crossed: Pass the right foot over in front of the left until the toes of the right foot touch the side of the left heel. Point the toes as far back as possible and then, placing the hands on the hips, sway slightly to one side and then the other, catching your weight on the big toe of each foot as you throw your weight first to one side and then the other.

These exercises, if persisted in, will gradually bring the muscular power in the necessary muscles, and your arches will soon return to their normal strength. You can then discard the arch supports, and your feet will be strong enough to wear shoes with lower heels. At least wear those low-heeled shoes when walking, and continue strong as nature intended them to be.

QUESTION: K. O. K. writes: "Sometime ago I saw advertised in the paper a new electrical device to cure sleeplessness. As I have been suffering from insomnia for quite a while, I would like to know what you think of this, and where I could find it."

ANSWER: Many experimental machines have been devised for use in attempting to induce sleep, but I do not know where any such appartus is obtainable on the market. The main object is to produce a sort of hypnosis, but you can do this just as well, yourself, by completely relaxing, and mentally repeating the word "sleep" over and over again. As long as you have no physical irritation which keeps you awake, the repeated suggestion of the word "sleep" or "Sleepy" will always get results, and is a sure cure for insomnia.

"Cutten Stocks" Lead Rally in Stock Market, While Motor Issues Gain Stronger Positions

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—"Cutten Stocks" stood out in a rally in the stock market today that proved rather a surprise to the trading community. Montgomery Ward and Westinghouse Electric soared to new high levels while strength in other specialties was sufficient to put the average net higher for the session despite irregularity elsewhere. While the street generally was satisfied with the tax developments at Washington the news in reality had little effect on the market. Individual developments in the affairs of the respective companies were the main influences. Advice that the president frowned upon petitions for his renomination had little effect.

Foreign exchange was fiarly firm but quiet. Call money remained unchanged at 3 1-2 per cent. Cotton options were quiet but ruled steady.

Exclusive announcement here that Chicago interests were planning to bring suit to stop what they term "intimidation" by the government, caused a spurt in wheat options and the liveliest grain market in several weeks. Former big traders will not trade in grain any more because of the "reports" of government agents as to the exact position, etc. These "reports," they assert, make it impossible for them to trade. Therefore, certain Chicago folks plan to bring suit for a permanent injunction against the "supervision."

Operations attributed to Durant were responsible for Hupp taking the leading role in the market from the standpoint of activity. Considerable liquidation was encountered, however, and the gain was not as large as that in stocks of lesser turnover. General Motors encountered considerable selling also but gained slightly for the session. Dodge, Hudson and others of the automobile group met the "competition selling" in good style and closed higher.

Radio soared to a new high on continued group work which has given the bears their worst licking of the year. Group work was resumed ir more active manner in combustion also with widespread reports of "important developments" as to extension of activity in use of the company's patented distillation process. American Druggists Syndicate climbed among the leaders following report of group activity based on the expansion conducted by the new Schulte management.

WHEAT CLOSES TWO CENTS UP

Corn Shows Sympathy As Do Feeds

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Wheat closed higher and at the top prices of the session today on the strength of Winnipeg and reports that the Canadian pool has done a large volume of export business under cover. Much trading took place in the last hour, with buying by commission firms for shorts.

Corn was up in sympathy with wheat though to a very slight extent. Trade was fair in the feed grain, but without any real feature of its own. New oats were bullish and rye was up on the increased export demand.

Wheat was 2¼@2½c higher at the close. Corn showed gains of ½@¾c, oats rose ¾@⅞c and rye closed 2@2¼c higher.

Corn shared in the upturn only to a very moderate degree. Trade was light on the lack of any strong features, and the rise in prices toward the close was plainly brought about by the influence of the lif eshown in the wheat pit.

Weather over the belt was more favorable for husking, but the forecast is for rain or snow in several sections.

Oats rose when local bulls became more aggressive.

Rye was in good demand and prices bulged sharply shortly after the session began.

GASOLINE TAXES TOP $100,000,000 IN U. S. DURING HALF YEAR

19.2 PER CENT GAIN SHOWN

Nearly Five Billion Gallons Consumed

Gasoline taxes yielded a total revenue of $101,250,841 in the first six months of 1927 according to information collected from the states by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. This represents an increase of 19.2 per cent over the same period of 1926.

A tax was imposed in all but four states and two of these have since adopted a tax so that only two states, New York and Massachusetts, do not now tax gasoline. The rate of tax on June 30, ranged from two to five cents per gallon and averaged 2.55 cents.

The revenue derived constituted an important item in financing highway programs and was used very largely for that purpose. State highway funds received the largest portion, being credited with $69,616,088; County and local road funds received $22,243,566, payments on road bonds amounted to $4,598,751 and the remainder was used to defray collection costs and for miscellaneous purposes.

Vehicles Used More.

The revenue derived indicates that 4,919,000,000 gallons of gasoline were consumed by motor vehicles including estimated amounts for those states not imposing the tax. This is 11.4 per cent more than was reported fo rthe first six months of 1926, while the increase in motor vehicle registration was only 7 per cent. This seems to indicate an increased use of the motor vehicles.

The rate of taxation and revenue derived in the various states were as follows:

	Rate	Revenue
Alabama	4	$ 2,683,437
Arizona	3	518,599
Arkansas	5	1,560,659
California	2	9,035,924

Two Wells Drill Into Each Other And Both Ruined

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 22. (AP)—Deep sand wells in the greater Seminole oil area have long been noted for their "corkscrew turns" and divergencies from a plumb line into the earth, but the record is believed to have been broken at Little River where two wells, located 660 feet apart, drilled into each other.

The Magnolia Petroleum corporation, drilling in the northeast corner of the northeast of the southeast of the northeast of 35-8-6 on No. 4 Petty was at a depth of 829 feet when it drilled into the Carter Oil company's hole located in the northwest corner of the southwest of the northwest of 36-8-6. The Carter well was drilling at 2193 feet.

Both holes will have to be abandoned, the rigs skidded and new tests started. A loss of about $10,000 resulted.

Marion Talley Writes Her Own Story

Girl Star Tells of Early Life as Singer

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of stories of America's youngest prima donna, who is to appear in concert in Wichita Falls. In this series, Marion Talley writes her own life history for Wichita Falls readers of The Record News. The second article will appear Thursday morning.)

BY MARION TALLEY.

To speak quite frankly, I'd rather sing a difficult leading soprano role in a New York Metropolitan Opera company performance, before a throng of people, than to undertake to write down the high lights of my life—as far as I've gone. At 20 (my most recent birthday anniversary was only a few weeks ago) there really isn't much to say.

I believe it is customary in articles of a biographical character to begin with the date and place of the subject's birth. Dec. 10, 1906, marked that event. The town was, and still is, Nevada, Mo. Papa was employed by the Missouri Pacific railroad, and stationed at the time in that community. It had a population of about 10,000 and lay about 100 miles south of Kansas City.

Sang Little Tunes of Her Own.

But I never came to know much about Nevada, in spite of being named for the little place; I was taken by my parents, when only 6 years old to Kansas City. My real home being there, and continued until I was 15. It was in November, 1922, that my life began to show evidences of carrying me to other places. During that month I made my rather well remembered visit to New York and sang for Ootto H. Kahn, general manager Gatti-Casazza and his associates of the Metropolitan opera.

To go back, however (since my rather recent Metropolitan opera debut and subsequent appearances there as a regular principal will be touched upon at the timely moments), I began life, so to speak, in Kansas City.

When I began first to walk and to talk, I am told by my mother, that I began to sing. At 3, according to maternal accounts, I began to make up simple tunes all my own: childish little things, of course. Apparently, though, there was in me a craving for vocal expression.

Sang Instead of Crying.

Definite impressions of the earliest moments of my home-singing place them at a time when I was about four and a half or five. I wanted, I recall, to sing much of the time. Inasmuch as it was a physically unforced tone, such indulgences must have been beneficial. Instead of crying, which is one way some children have of developing their lungs, I seem naturally to have chosen to sing.

My early upbringing was properly strict, but tempered with gentleness. Mamma recognized what was best for me; and as far back as I can recall there was in our home proper discipline. My only sister, Florence—who is three years my senior—was very loving and attentive to me. To this day, I couldn't manage well without her. She acts as an aide and sort of secretary and most efficiently.

Mamma is quiet and calm. In all probability, I inherit from her that poise which has been so widely discussed in the newspapers.

Thus you see my routine was more or less similar to that of most little girls who have good homes and environment. My father was not a man of any considerable means. His income, however, was enough for our needs. We lived simply, yet we were never stinted in things which are called essentials.

School World Looked Bright.

When I was old enough to start going to school the world looked very bright. I had a capacity for study and took a keen delight in learning thoroughly every lesson given me. I am thankful for having that attribute; it has helped me in my professional career.

I made friends easily with my little school companions, and played in some of their games. But I seemed to have a serious side, for I can remember tiring of some of those pastimes and trudging home where I could sing—in my natural, amateurish way.

One day—I was about 11 at the time—Mamma and I agreed that I would be happy if it were possible for me to sing in some church choir. And that night I had an experience which perhaps may be termed as the first one to have a bearing on the unusual events which have since come to me in grand opera.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR THANKSGIVING GAMES

Seldon Hale, college cheer leader, said that the last game of the season like the last note of a piece of music is the most important and for that reason the student body should all be on hand Thursday and back the Indians to win the game. He also said that the Junior college would not be without a band even if the high school band is going to Amarillo for the Coyote game. Instead of being without, the college will have one of the best and largest bands in the state, according to Seldon's announcement. Play by play reports of the Coyote-Sandy game will be made over a loud speaker at the Spudder park while the Indian game is in progress. Every five minutes reports on all of the important games will be made over the leased wire. This is for the benefit of those who cannot go to Amarillo on the special train Thursday morning.

Jimmy Hale, high school cheer leader, told all of the members of the pep squad who had paid for their tickets to get their tickets Wednesday afternoon after school.

Both cheer leaders led the assembly in three snappy yells.

Pansy Mills gave an original one-act play that she wrote.

Mary Louise Staley, Catherine Michaellas, and Seldon Hale presented an impromptu skit to the club.

PEP SQUAD PRACTICE

Because of the fact that many of the members of the Junior college pep squad will be out of town during the Thanksgiving holidays, it will be necessary to hold a reorganization meeting of the pep squad Tuesday afternoon. The formation of the W was practiced.

Bus line competition is bothering railways and electric lines of Hawaii.

NOTICE OF ELECTION.

ORDINANCE NO. 933.

An ordinance providing for the holding of an election in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said city a proposition to encumber the water works system, the franchise, and income thereof, to secure the payment of water works bonds of said city in the amount of $1,300,000 for the purpose of refunding the existing indebtedness of said water works system and to purchase additional water powers, riparian rights and to build, improve, enlarge, extend and repair said system and declaring an emergency.

Whereas, the Board of Aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the waterworks system of the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, in the sum of $1,300,000, and to secure the payment thereof by encumbering the said waterworks system, the franchise and income thereof, and everything pertaining thereto, acquired or to be acquired, for the purpose of refunding the existing indebtedness of said water system, and to purchase additional water powers, riparian rights, and to build, improve, enlarge, extend and repair such system.

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls, Texas:

SECTION 1: That an election be held in the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, on the Tenth day of December, A. D., 1927, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted:

Shall the Board of Aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, be authorized to encumber the waterworks system of said city and the franchise and income thereof, and everything pertaining thereto, acquired or to be acquired, to secure the payment of bonds to refund the existing indebtedness of said waterworks system, to purchase additional powers, riparian rights, to build, improve, enlarge and extend and repair such system, such bonds to be in the sum of $1,300,000, to mature serially from one to forty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of 4 3-4 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually.

SECTION 2: The said election shall be held at the city hall in the Wichita County Courthouse in the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, and shall be conducted by the following named persons:

WALTER ROBBINS,
Presiding Judge, Courthouse box.
HOMER KARRENBROCK,
CLARENCE DODGE,
MERLE WAGGONER,
Clerks.

NAT L. INGE.
Presiding Judge, City Hall box.
L. B. JENNE,
C. B. DOOLEY,
ADOLPH FRIEDMAN,
Clerks.

Voters living east of Lamar Street and northeast of Wichita River, and southeast of Wichita Valley Railroad tracks, in said city, shall vote at the City Hall box. All voters living west of Lamar Street in said city, shall vote at the courthouse box.

SECTION 3: The said election shall be held in accordance with the general election laws and only qualified voters in said city shall be allowed to vote.

SECTION 4: The ballots to be used at said election shall contain the proposition as above set forth followed by the words: "For the encumbrance of the waterworks system" and "Against the encumbrance of the waterworks system."

SECTION 5: Notice of said election shall be given for at least thirty days by the mayor, by publishing in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper of general circulation in Wichita County, Texas, published in the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, and such notice shall be made by publishing a copy of this ordinance with the words "Notice of Election" prefixed thereto, once a week for three consecutive weeks in said newspaper, and the first publication to be made at least thirty days preceding said election.

SECTION 6: That because the present waterworks system is inadequate to furnish a proper supply of pure water to the citizens of Wichita Falls, thus endangering the health of said citizens, creates an urgent necessity demanding and requiring that the provisions of the city charter providing for the reading of ordinances on three separate days and providing that ordinances shall not go into effect until thirty days after passage, be suspended, and this ordinance is passed as an emergency measure and shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so ordained.

Passed and Approved, this 8th day of November, A. D., 1927.

R. B. SHEPHERD,
Mayor.
W. E. McBROOM,
City Clerk.

WICHITA FALLS "BACKGROUND" FOR GROWTH BEST IN STATE

POWER HEAD VISITS CITY

Energetic Leadership Praised By Carpenter

Wichita Falls has the best background upon which to successfully build a large city of any community in Texas, in the opinion of this resource which many Texas cities do not have — energetic leaders with vision.

John W. Carpenter, of Dallas, president of the Texas Electric Service company and of the Texas Power and Light company, multi-line companies, Tuesday night after he had spent two days in visiting this city and the surrounding territory.

Texas Valley

Mr. Carpenter spent Tuesday afternoon on a tour of the Wichita irrigated valley in company with J. A. Kemp, Anderson Kemp and A. E. Kelly, manager of the Texas Electric Service company.

"This irrigation system will not only be of immeasurable benefit to Wichita Falls and the area in its immediate vicinity, but its benefit to the entire state will be felt for many years to come. The local project is an example to the remainder of West Texas and its success is no longer a matter of doubt," declared Mr. Carpenter.

"Such leaders as Mr. Kemp and others by their great cooperative spirit have set an example here in Wichita Falls of which the entire state is proud. Wichita Falls has a wonderful future to which its citizens can look forward and offers opportunities superior to any in Texas."

Steady Development

Mr. Carpenter cited oil and industrial developments as other contributing factors to Wichita Falls' continued growth. This city, he said, has become one of the important oil headquarters points for the great West Texas development now getting under way.

Impressed with the advancement which he saw on the tour of the irrigated section, Mr. Carpenter declared that any local citizen who has not seen the valley cannot appreciate the advantages this city has.

The Texas Electric Service company, he said, is carrying out its program of expansion throughout the valley which will eventually make electric power available to all farmers of the section. The Johnson poultry ranch, which was visited Tuesday, will be electrically equipped.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, ends the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness. A large jar costs but a few cents at any drug store—but test it first! Clip the coupon.

PALACE: Coming Thursday, "Kid Boots," Ziegfeld's musical comedy hit with New York cast.

That stupendous production, Ziegfeld's "Kid Boots" will be seen here for the first time in all its glory at the Palace theater, Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24, with one performance only.

"Kid Boots" will be presented in its wealth of colorful costumes, scenic and electrical effects which captivated the theatergoers of both cities, London and New York. Every setting an enhancement to the sumptuous, with real distinction, beauty and harmony.

The music by Harry Tierney has been pronounced the finest score in years—he is also the composer of "Rio Rita," playing to capacity audiences at the Ziegfeld theater, New York. The book is by William Anthony McGuire, and Gitz Randolph and the lyrics by Joseph McCarthy.

"Kid Boots" will hold up the great reputation and keep on playing for many seasons to come. In the company of eighty are: Eunice Hale, Charles Williams, Burnett V. Miller, Howard Quigley, Frances King, James Donnelly, Chona Paulo, Charles Prince, Agnes Scott, Gladys Rogers, Patsy Clark, Fred Sibley, John Faber and Bill Dare.

The new version of "Ben Hur," which was recently purchased by Universal for the entire world, the Continent excepted, promises to be one of the most stupendous films ever shown, judging from the reports of the press on its premieres in Paris, London and New York. It is coming to the Strand theater Sunday.

"Ben Hur" is regarded by many people as by far the greatest work of Victor Hugo, and the film, according to the critics, "soars with the human generosity, with charity, with moment pity and magnificent revolt against brutal domination"—all that makes Victor Hugo's novel a masterpiece. Humanity is behind the essence of the film, which will engrave itself on the screens throughout the world—an outstanding fact in our national film production.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

W. B. Caldwell, M.D. AT AGE 83

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

This prescription for constipation that he used every day in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild and safe gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who would it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write, "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Ill., and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

4-H CLUB BOY WINS HONORS

Oklahoma Youth Takes Chicago Trip

WAURIKA, Okla., Nov. 22.—Robert Kirby who lives near Terral in the southern part of Jefferson county has been declared winner of the free trip to the International Live Stock Show and Exposition and 4-H Club congress of which will be held in Chicago November 26 to 30 inclusive. This free trip is awarded by the Rock Island Railroad company to the outstanding 4-H Club boys and girls living in the counties through which their lines run.

Robert has been in club work only two years but has always taken active part in all club activities and has made exhibits and won premiums each year in both the district and county fairs. He has served as vice president of his club which last year was the winning club in the County Model Club Program contest which won the honor of representing the Jefferson county 4-H Clubs at Stillwater in the state contest. This year Robert's outstanding work and creditable exhibits at the fairs won him a trip to the State Fair at Oklahoma City and he was given the responsibility of helping to arrange the Jefferson county 4-H Club Exhibit.

His main club projects have been poultry, corn, kafir, and peanuts although he says he is going to join the pig club next year and show the other boys how a real pig should look at fair time. At the last regular club meeting Robert was elected president for the year 1928 and is going to maintain the high standard of work for which the Blue Grove Club is noted. Upon his return from Chicago he plans to visit the other clubs of the county in company with the county agents and tell them all about the things he saw and learned while on the trip.

Liquor Trials Crowd Docket Of Federal District Court Here

Violations of the national prohibition act took all of the time of the United States District court Tuesday. The fines ranged from one of ten cents assessed by a jury to one of $400 inflicted by the court. Jail sentences also began to show up and a few jury trials were had.

Straight fines were the general rule in beer possession cases while in the manufacture of either whiskey or beer the court used the jail sentence. Possession of whiskey generally brought forth a term in jail. No penitentiary sentences were meted out as the "third offenders" faced the court.

Two or three of the cases were hotly contested but for the most part pleas of guilty were entered. In some cases where there was more than one defendant the government would dismiss as to one and the other would plead guilty.
