

East Germans Launch Recruiting Drive

Latin Charter Signed

By ROMAN JIMENEZ
PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The United States and 19 Latin American nations today signed the 8,000-word charter of Punta del Este, thus officially launching President Kennedy's $3-billion Alliance for Progress.

Cuba abstained.

Secretary of Treasury Douglas Dillon signed for the United States. The 18th to sign, he was warmly applauded.

There was no mention made at the ceremony of Cuba's announcement that she would not be a signatory.

Venezuela, following an order of precedence decided by lot at the start of the 13-day conference, signed first.

Uruguay, the host country, was last.

"Now our destiny is the work of all and every one of us," said Uruguayan Foreign Minister Horacio Martinez Montero. "We have opened wide the doors to an immense hope."

The Alliance for Progress is intended to get the jump on the spread of communism in Latin America.

In the closing hours Dillon and Cuban economic czar Ernesto Guevara exchanged bitter words after the United States and 19 of the 20 Latin American participants approved the charter and a 1,000-word summary to explain the program to Latin America's 200 million people.

Dillon received prolonged applause, the most extended the delegates had given any speaker.

Guevara, after abstaining on the vote, said the conference had established the "first link for real peaceful coexistence in America."

He asserted the United States had voted for all parts of the charter and that this was an admission "that there can exist regimes which are not committed to free enterprise."

"Those governments which are against our system shall recognize the irreversibility of the Cuban revolution," Guevara declared.

Accusing Guevara of "untruths and falsehoods... to give the impression that the United States somehow recognizes the permanence of the present regime in Cuba," Dillon said: "This we do not do and never will do because to do so would be to betray the thousands of patriotic Cubans who are still waiting and struggling for the freedom of their country."

The chief of the U.S. delegation said the United States had extended the hand of friendship to the Cuban revolution but Prime Minister Fidel Castro spurned it.

The alliance plan provides for financial aid and self-help over the next 10 years to improve the lot of Latin America's 200 million citizens and reduce the region's glaring gap between poverty and wealth.

The other Western notes used the same language except that the British note, for instance, said "Her Majesty's government cannot admit" etc.

The wording of the text was restrained and free of any threat by the West or any phrasing designed to express anger or indignation.

The note was drafted jointly by representatives of the three Western powers and apparently reflected a decision on their part to handle the Berlin situation at this point with a gentle touch.

The action paragraph of the note, which State Department officials said was designed as a "strong" call for removal of the Communist barricades, said:

"The United States government solemnly protests against the measures referred to above, for which it holds the Soviet government responsible. The United States government expects the Soviet government to put an end to these illegal measures. This unilateral infringement of the quadripartite status of Berlin can only increase existing tensions and dangers."

State Department press officer Lincoln White was asked why the U.S. government "expects" the U.S.S.R. to lift a barrier which officials have been saying privately will undoubtedly remain in force for a long time.

White said the U.S. government's expectation was based on the "solemn obligation" of the Soviet Union to treat Berlin as a city under four-power control with free travel guaranteed within its borders.

No sooner had Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, introduced this compromise, Indiana Rep. D. S. Sand, D-Calif., introduced a substitute to authorize only $1.2 billion in appropriations for a single year.

The Republican leadership quickly swung behind him, and Southern Democrats took the floor to support Sand's move.

The Democratic coalition carried in the Senate, amendments were adopted to cut $800 million off the five-year development loan fund and to slash $250 million from the $1.8-billion Kennedy proposed as part of this year's grant for foreign military buildup.

Both amendments were sponsored by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., a long-time foreign aid critic.

He added: "When Asia and Africa are poised between economic development and chaos, when Mr. Khrushchev is probing the West for any sign that our resolve is weakening, I cannot believe that the bipartisan support always given this (foreign aid) program is at this crucial moment to be abandoned."

Kennedy noted that Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon was about to sign the United States' long-range pledge to Latin American nations at the Punta del Este, Uruguay, economic conference.

Barricades Are Illegal, Say Big 3

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France protested to the Soviet Union today that the Communist barricade in Berlin is "illegal."

They declared they expect the Soviet government to "put an end to these illegal measures."

Identical notes were delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office by embassies of the three Western powers in Moscow this morning and then were made public in Paris, London and Washington.

The Western powers complained that the closing of the border "is a flagrant, and particularly serious, violation" of the four-power status of Berlin. They rejected the Red argument that East Berlin is part of the territory of East Germany.

Moreover, the United States government cannot admit the right of the East German authorities to authorize their armed forces to enter the Soviet sector of Berlin," the U.S. note said.

The other Western notes used the same language except that the British note, for instance, said "Her Majesty's government cannot admit" etc.

Youths Told To Volunteer

BERLIN (AP)—East German Communist leaders launched a gigantic military recruiting drive today. They called on the 17 million members of their youth organization to volunteer for the army.

The effort to swell the ranks of the troops—now estimated by Western authorities to number 110,000—came as the Western Allies protested to the Soviet Union against the Red barricade that has refugees and other East Germans from West Berlin.

The United States, Britain, and France, charged that Communist restrictions in Berlin were completely illegal and violate the city's special four-power status. They held the Soviet Union responsible for East Germany's sealing of the sector border and demanded "an end to these illegal measures."

The notes, described as identical, took direct issue with the East

German contention that the new barricades in Berlin mark an international boundary.

The sharp Western reaction was illustrated by an acid paragraph in France's protest:

"The French government has never agreed that any limitations can be imposed on the liberty of movement within the city. The line of demarcation between the Soviet sector and the Western sectors of Berlin is not a state frontier. The French government considers as illegal the measures which the East German authorities have just taken."

All members of the Red youth organization were called to special meetings Friday at dawn in schools, factories and collective farms to hear the appeal to volunteer. The orders were issued by Horst Schumann, 37, first secretary of the youth organization.

The young people were told that Sunday's ban on the flight of refugees to West Berlin was "a victory for peace and socialism."

The appeal said "panic and confusion reign among our enemies," and "now it is necessary to secure our success and win new victories over the warmongers."

The Communist youth daily Junge Welt — Young World — carried the appeal in headlines: "The Fatherland calls! Protect the Socialist Republic!"

The East German Communist regime so far has not required compulsory military service. But young men often are put under pressure to enlist with the promise that it will help their chances for later education and advancement.

The U.S., British and French embassies in Moscow handed the Soviet Foreign Ministry notes charging that the barricades violate the postwar four-power status of Berlin and the four-power agreement for free movement throughout the former German capital.

The U.S., British and French commanders in West Berlin presented similar protests Tuesday to Col. Andrei I. Solov'yev, the Soviet commandant. Solov'yev gave no immediate reply.

The Soviet commandant had however, rejected Wednesday a protest entered by the Western officers about two weeks ago against harassment of refugees then streaming to West Berlin at the rate of several thousand a day.

BEN RAMSEY ... changing jobs

Ramsey Gets Post On RRC

AUSTIN (AP)—Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, veteran Texas high official, became the third member of the powerful Texas Railroad Commission.

Ramsey, serving his sixth elective term as lieutenant governor, succeeds the late Olin Culberson.

He was one of at least half a dozen candidates considered.

The appointment by Gov. Price Daniel of Ramsey gave Sen. Bruce Regan of Corpus Christi, president pro tempore of the Senate, the job of performing the duties of the lieutenant governor. If another Senate president is named at the special session announced for this fall, then the new president will perform the duties until another lieutenant governor is elected in the 1962 general election.

The appointment is effective at once.

Ramsey, 57, who was the first man in Texas history to serve six elective terms as lieutenant governor, also served four years in the state House of Representatives and eight years as a state senator from his East Texas district. He is a native of San Augustine.

Ben Ramsey is an able, experienced state official, and is well qualified for this important assignment," Gov. Price Daniel said in making the appointment.

The Railroad Commission is one of the most vital agencies in the state government, and with its broad legal, legislative and administrative knowledge and experience, governor Ramsey will make an outstanding member."

Ramsey was secretary of state under former Govs. Beauford Lewis and Allan Shivers, resigning in 1950 to run for lieutenant governor.

In 1955-1956, Ramsey was Democratic national committeeman from Texas.

He and Mrs. Ramsey have three daughters, Rita Rhea, 11, Ann Hankla, 8, and Maribeth, 2.

The two present commissioners are Ernest O. Thompson and William Murray Jr. A vacancy occurred June 22 with the death of Olin Culberson, a member since 1941. The job pays $12,500 and will be good until Jan. 1, 1963.

Daniel said on July 14 it would be some time before he was ready to appoint a successor to Culberson.

Ramsey reportedly had support as a candidate by oil and gas interests who favored enactment of a sales tax and opposed a natural gas tax, both of which were in the general tax bill filed with the comptroller. However, most legislators consider the $3 million natural gas tax item in the bill merely a token tax to test its legality.

Other candidates have been Joe Laird, Houston, petroleum engineer; French Robertson, Abilene oil man; Charles Crenshaw and Jake Jacobson, Austin lawyer. Carl Phinney, Dallas business man and commander of the 36th National Guard Division; State Adj. Gen. James Taylor; Everett Hutchinson of Washington, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Rep. George Hinson of Mineola; Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro and Speaker James Turman of Gober.

Reversal On Aid Urged

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy urged the House today to reverse itself and approve long-term authorization of foreign aid loans "in this crucial hour of the nation's history."

Kennedy said Democrats had helped former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's foreign aid program, and "it is urgent that this bipartisan principle be maintained."

A coalition of House Republicans and conservative Democrats Wednesday struck at the heart of Kennedy's foreign aid program—and dealt him a severe rebuff—by slashing the long-range development loan feature from the house bill.

Helping to make the day a doomy one for the White House, the Senate whittled more than $1 billion from the over-all program.

But the House blow hit the White House hardest. Without mentioning the Senate action, Kennedy asked a House reversal as a demonstration "that this nation is still united in its determination to meet its responsibilities and halt the spread of communism and Castroism by every available means."

The House setback was tentative. The 197-185 vote to scuttle the loan plan was on a teller count without a record vote. Administration forces have at least two chances to recoup:

1. The scuttling amendment may still go to a roll call vote in the House where 55 members were unaccounted for in Wednesday's head count.

2. The bill eventually will go to conference with a Senate version more in tune with Kennedy's original plan for power to lend $8.8 billion at no or low interest to underdeveloped countries over the next five years.

Italian Caprice Campus Bound

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Latin may not be a favorite subject among the college crowd, but sportswear spelled out the modern Italian way.
Not many can afford originals from Florence, Rome or Milan and still pay tuition. Nevertheless, students with high fashion I.Q.s are keeping their eyes on this year's innovations, knowing full well that many will be next year's campus fads, and at American ready-to-wear prices.
Italian high spiritedness, whimsy, and love of vivid hues appeal to uninhibited coeds on the nation's campuses.
For example, Italian beachwear is bare basically. But cover-ups such as Roman striped knit shirts that reach the ankles are outrageous enough to stop the ships at sea.
And ski clothes with fringe, saucer-like buttons, pompons, fur ankle rings, and bat wings, all in bright colors of course, are ridiculous enough to warm the heart of a snowman.
Italian shoes with eyes and teeth like alligators, or with the eyes and feathers of a chicken; hoods shaggy like a lion's mane, and hats with giant wings are not to be worn by the faint but the young in heart.
This next year campus belles will be wearing versions of these titillating styles down to the sea shore, up the ski slope, to the football rally or on the hay ride. Kookiness is now in part an Italian import.

SNOW GIRL... Fashion-conscious coeds may eye this orlon side-buttoned poncho with stove pipe collar by Simonetta of Rome. It's worn over fitted baby blue slacks.

WINGED LADY... A style idea zany enough to appeal to the college crowd is this purple poncho strung with green pom-poms. It was designed by Noka of Milan.

Future Citizens In Line For 4-H Awards

CHICAGO—The best 4-H citizens in the state and nation will soon be stepping up to claim well-deserved honors and the plaudits of their fellow 4-H'ers for having demonstrated praiseworthy participation in public affairs, civic welfare, community events and club responsibilities.
The 1961 award recipients will include a pair of national winners who will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress next fall, a $400 college scholarship and a handsome, engraved silver tray.
The award announcement is made by the National 4-H Service Committee which cooperates with the Extension Service in the national 4-H citizenship program.
The top-rated girl and boy in the state receive a certificate of honor usually presented to them during a special 4-H recognition event, according to the 4-H Service Committee.
The awards are given in honor of the late Thos. E. Wilson of Chicago through a fund set aside

Camera Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
More than 5,000 photographically minded individuals gathered in New York recently to register for the 70th exposition sponsored by the Professional Photographers of America, Inc.
One of the most interesting sessions which I attended was a panel discussion on "Portraiture" moderated by a successful London specialist, Desmond Groves. Others on the panel were: Philippe Halsman and Bert Stern, noted American magazine photographers; Bradford Bachrach, head of a chain of portrait studios in Boston, New York and Washington; and Douglas Paisley, master photographer of Canada.
Halsman charged that, on the whole, the portraits on display in the windows of this country's portrait studios are old fashioned. The public compares them with the dramatic, vital pictures which are seen in magazines and they are still, old hat. Besides, they are retouched too much, destroying the character in people's faces. He recalled a session with Anna Magnani, the fiery Italian actress. "Don't take any of my wrinkles out," she admonished. "I suffered too much to get them."
"Of course," Halsman admitted, "not many are like Magnani." Paisley pointed out that Halsman's subjects are not ordinary people but famous personalities who could appreciate such pictures "We learn from Halsman's type of portraiture," he said, "and we adapt what we can but we can't go to extremes with our average subject."

"Men might accept a new approach in portraiture," Bachrach added, "but not most women. These people are our clients, must be pleased with the results or they will not order portraits. We are therefore most sympathetic, look for their best features and eliminate some that are unkind. I don't believe a photograph need be critical or unkind to the sitter in order to be classed as an honest portrait."
"Portraits sell a product," Bert Stern pointed out. "The ones that are different, however, are the ones that reveal the photographer's personality. It is a more creative type of portraiture and it becomes a mark of honor to be photographed by a personality."
"Unfortunately a career in normal portrait photography no longer seems to attract young, energetic, creative minds," Halsman conceded. "The fields of advertising and illustration seem more lucrative and glamorous."
Moderator Groves wondered if European portraits are freer and have more feeling. "American pictures probably are better technically," he said, "but those abroad have more spirit."
"Too many photographers here learn by the same set of rules and follow them too closely," Halsman stressed. "That's why so many portraits look alike though by different photographers. More imagination and independence will make better pictures."
"What about amateur photographers?" Groves asked. "Are they a threat to professionals?"
"They can be our friends," Bachrach answered. "They understand our photographic problems and are sympathetic."
Think of them as individuals who spend money on photography. They can be our good clients," Paisley added.
"If a professional is not better than a good amateur photographer," Halsman commented, "he should get better or he will be in jeopardy."

Shields Stars For Senators

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some heroes by Billy Shields were all that kept Austin hot on the trail of a Texas League play-off berth Wednesday night.
This young fellow drove in the tying run in the ninth then batted in the winning tally in the thirteenth to give the Senators a 5-4 victory over Victoria and a split in a double-header.
Victoria won the first game 5-1 as Jerry Robinson and Johnny Weekly hit home runs.
The result left Austin a half-game back of Victoria in the fight for fourth place.
Amarillo, the leader, gained a half-game on runner-up Tulsa by splitting a twin-bill with San Antonio, while Tulsa dropped a 6-2 decision to last-place Ardmore.
Amarillo showed over three runs in the sixth to beat San Antonio 4-1 in the opening game. In the nightcap Harvey Branch pitched a two-hitter and San Antonio won 5-1.
George Gaffney spaced eight hits in pitching Ardmore to its triumph over Tulsa.

Reds Rock Dodgers In Own Back Yard

BY ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Cincinnati Reds, knocked down and brushed off by the Los Angeles Dodgers as contenders in that National League pennant race, are back on top again after giving the Dodgers a public flogging that may have wiped anything since the witch trials of Salem.
Right in the Dodgers' own ball yard, and in front of the largest (72,140) night crowd in NL history, the Reds made off with a sweep of the three-game show-down by drubbing Los Angeles 6-0 and 8-0 Wednesday night.
The Dodgers, who have been firing knockdown pitches at the Reds all season and making pointed talk of the pennant threat from San Francisco and Milwaukee, hadn't suffered a double-header shutout in 26 years. That was when they were a Brooklyn bunch, back on July 28, 1933, and Carl Hubbell and Clyde Siskie-Castellano pitched shutouts for the New York Giants.

Right-hander Bob Purkey, allowing just four hits in the first game, and left-hander Jim O'Toole, giving up just two hits in the nightcap, paired for the Reds' pitching job on the Dodgers, who now have lost four in a row for the first time this year.
San Francisco, in third place 7½ games behind, defeated St. Louis 4-3, Milwaukee, nine games back in fourth, beat Pittsburgh 2-1 as Warren Spahn won No. 301. The Philadelphia Phils went down to their 19th consecutive defeat, tying the modern NL record, in a 9-5 loss to the Chicago Cubs.
In the American League, Roger Maris hit two home runs, for a total of 48, as the New York Yankees defeated Chicago's White Sox 5-4 and moved three games ahead of Detroit. The second-place Tigers lost 8-2 to Baltimore. Cleveland defeated Boston 6-4, Washington beat the Los Angeles Angels 3-2, and Kansas City walloped Minnesota 12-7.
The Reds, back on top after a 10-day stay in second, made it in a breeze as their top Dodger killers, Frank Robinson and Gene Freese, went to work at the plate while Purkey (14-7) and O'Toole (12-9) extended Los Angeles' shutout slump through 26 innings.
Robinson hit his 34th home run of the season, sixth, against the Dodgers, in the opener and drove in four runs in the doubleheader for a season total of 24 RBI against Los Angeles. Freese then drove in four runs in the second game with a pair of home runs. He's hit eight against the Dodgers while the Reds have piled up a 10-8 edge in the season series.
Two-run homers by Orlando Cepeda and Felipe Alou did it for the Giants against Ray Sadecki (10-6). Jack Sanford (9-6) checked the Cards on seven hits and had a shutout until the eighth inning. Spahn (13-12), the top winner among living major league pitchers, gave up 10 hits but had it in the clutch against the Pirates as the Braves won their sixth in a row on a home run by Frank Thomas and an RBI double by Ed Mathews off Bob Friend (12-11).
A wild pitch gave the Chicago Cubs in a three-run sixth inning that made Don Cardwell (10-10) the winning pitcher. Chris Short (4-9) was the loser for the Phils, who tied the losing strings run-up by Boston in 1960 and Cincinnati in 1914.

Lamar Junior High Gridders Meet Saturday

Coach Ace Amos, athletic director at Lamar Junior High School, has issued the annual call for all prospective football players who will be taking the coming season for the Texas eleven.
Each seventh, eighth, and ninth grade boy planning to go out for the sport is reminded of the meeting of this Saturday morning at the Lamar Gymnasium, when physical examinations for all prospects will be made.
Those boys concerned are to meet there at 7:45 Saturday morning, reports Coach Amos.

Between You And Me

BY JERRY JACKSON
The following letter — Brief and concise, but clear and sincere — was received here this morning:

"I wish to sincerely express my thanks and gratitude to everyone who has made my job so pleasant, and it is with deep regret that I can no longer serve as your County Park Superintendent."

It was signed, "Gratefully Yours, Russell Jones, Jr." Jones, of course, is the affable and congenial superintendent who earlier this week was removed from his post by action of the commissioners court. The thanks he extends, however, should be a reciprocal thing, as he has served the community and served it well during his tenure. You and I are the ones who should reflect, take note, and then bundle up all those laurels and send them his way instead.

Never have I personally been associated with a more cooperative individual than Jones, and thus look on his removal as a personal loss. Going out of his way to be of help is not the exception with him, but rather the rule. Under his guidance, Towle Park has progressed from merely "so-so" to "splendid."

A good luck wish, an editorial put on the back, and a heartfelt feeling of gratitude from this particular corner will be going with him.

Maris Clobbers Two As Yanks Nip Sox

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
When Babe Ruth won the American League home-run title in 1908, he did it with a total of seven. And among the other dead hall champs, Nap Lajoie became the AL's first home-run king in 1901 with 13.

Now Roger Maris, gunning for gold, glory and Babe Ruth's 60, suddenly has spurred his pursuit with seven home runs—matching Crawford's season total—in six consecutive games, and needs just 3 more — Lajoie's title total — to crack the Babe's long elusive record of 1907.

With his pair of two-run shots off southpaw Billy Pierce as the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 5-4 Wednesday on the 13th anniversary of Ruth's death, Maris now has hit 48 and has moved 15 games ahead of the Babe's record pace.

While the Yankees have played 119 games, one was a tie and doesn't count toward the 154-game limit on an unchallenged home-run record set by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. The ruling was made to equalize the AL's present 162-game schedule with the 154-game schedule that was in use until this year's expansion to 10 teams.

That means Maris has 36 games (decisions) in which to hit his record-busting 13. That averages out to one every 2.5 games.

As for the almost forgotten pennant race, New York moved three games ahead of second-place Detroit when the Tigers lost 8-2 to Baltimore. Cleveland defeated Boston 4-4, Washington beat Los Angeles 3-2, and Kansas City thumped Minnesota 12-7.

In the National League, Cincinnati shot past Los Angeles into a one-game lead by sweeping a two-night pair from the Dodgers 6-0 and 8-0. San Francisco defeated St. Louis 4-3, Milwaukee kept past Pittsburgh 2-1, and the Chicago Cubs handed the Philadelphia Phillies their 19th consecutive loss, 9-5, tying the modern NL record.

Despite Maris' slugging, it was by a hit batter with the bases loaded in the ninth that the Yankees beat the White Sox.

Maris' most satisfying games, not so much because he slammed two homers to give him the record-tying seven in six games, but because both of his four-baggers came off a left-hander, Billy Pierce of Chicago.

Up to now most experts have leaned toward Mantle as having the better chance for Ruth's record, largely because Maris' inability to hit southpaw pitching. Maris does not agree with that thinking.

"I was always able to hit left-handed pitching," said the left-handed slugger, "that is, until last year. That was because I didn't see enough of that kind of pitching. Now that they're using more southpaws against us, I'm getting used to it."

In general, the public would not like to see Ruth's record broken. Most people, however, feel that if someone must break it, the fellow most entitled is Mantle because of his greater stature as a slugger and home run hitter. Maris, however, is no Johnny come lately as a home run producer. He slammed 39 last year, to finish second to Mantle's 40. In three previous years, with Cleveland and Kansas City, he walloped 14, 28 and 16.

Of Austrian-German extraction, Maris was born in Hibbing, Minn. Sept. 10, 1934. Heavily-muscled, six feet and 190 pounds, Roger originally hoped to play professional football. In fact, he was offered a football scholarship at Oklahoma University after he graduated high school, but the lure of a baseball bonus by the Cleveland organization was too strong. He began his professional career with Fargo-Moorhead of the Northern League in 1952 and advanced to the major leagues, with the Indians, in four years.

The Marises make their home in Raytown, Mo.

For the record, Maris' 1961 salary is $32,500. Next year, it is expected, he will demand around $75,000. Maris' estimated earnings this year.

Maris currently is three homers ahead of Mantle. He slammed two Wednesday to boost his total to 48 in 119 Yankee games, including a tie. That puts him 15 games ahead of Ruth's 1927 pace. Maris has 36 games left in which to top Ruth's mark for 154 games. Roger will have the advantage, however, of eight more contests because of the expansion of the American League schedule to 162 games.

He began his professional career with Fargo-Moorhead of the Northern League in 1952 and advanced to the major leagues, with the Indians, in four years.

The Marises make their home in Raytown, Mo.

For the record, Maris' 1961 salary is $32,500. Next year, it is expected, he will demand around $75,000. Maris' estimated earnings this year.

Maris currently is three homers ahead of Mantle. He slammed two Wednesday to boost his total to 48 in 119 Yankee games, including a tie. That puts him 15 games ahead of Ruth's 1927 pace. Maris has 36 games left in which to top Ruth's mark for 154 games. Roger will have the advantage, however, of eight more contests because of the expansion of the American League schedule to 162 games.

Maris' 1961 season was a record-tying seven in six games, but because both of his four-baggers came off a left-hander, Billy Pierce of Chicago.

Up to now most experts have leaned toward Mantle as having the better chance for Ruth's record, largely because Maris' inability to hit southpaw pitching. Maris does not agree with that thinking.

"I was always able to hit left-handed pitching," said the left-handed slugger, "that is, until last year. That was because I didn't see enough of that kind of pitching. Now that they're using more southpaws against us, I'm getting used to it."

In general, the public would not like to see Ruth's record broken. Most people, however, feel that if someone must break it, the fellow most entitled is Mantle because of his greater stature as a slugger and home run hitter. Maris, however, is no Johnny come lately as a home run producer. He slammed 39 last year, to finish second to Mantle's 40. In three previous years, with Cleveland and Kansas City, he walloped 14, 28 and 16.

Of Austrian-German extraction, Maris was born in Hibbing, Minn. Sept. 10, 1934. Heavily-muscled, six feet and 190 pounds, Roger originally hoped to play professional football. In fact, he was offered a football scholarship at Oklahoma University after he graduated high school, but the lure of a baseball bonus by the Cleveland organization was too strong. He began his professional career with Fargo-Moorhead of the Northern League in 1952 and advanced to the major leagues, with the Indians, in four years.

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG BAD WOLF?

Electronics Move Golf Into Home; Big Savings Foreseen

BY INEZ ROBB

As Labor Day approaches and the number of shopping days till Christmas shrinks like a punctured balloon, it is lovely to know peace of mind about society's problem child, the man who has everything.

I have been resting on my oars and piggy bank ever since a certain advertisement appeared in New York newspapers. The man who has everything is no longer a problem. Hark to the following ad and know that salvation for this tricky situation is at hand:

"Enjoy Year 'Round Golf."

"Electronic Golf Computer."

"No longer need you wait for warm and dry days to practice driving for distance and accuracy. Now it is possible, indoors or out, in fair weather or foul, using only a space 9 x 14 feet. With the Electronic Golf Computer, a golfer taking a full swing at the ball from the tee is told immediately how far his drive has gone and whether the ball has hooked, sliced or traveled true. Quickly the results are flashed on the face of the computer. It can be installed in basement, backyard, garage or spare room, for your convenience. Drives up to 340 yards are registered; the control panel can be adjusted for fast or heavy fairways. AC By Electronic Recreation, $1,595.00."

"F.O.B. St. Charles, Illinois."

Surely no one is going to boggle at $1,595 for peace of mind and an adult toy. My husband, a golfer, eyed the ad and the illustration accompanying it with all the poignancy of little Neil causing a 24-hour delirium. I could see him mentally refurbishing the guest room. "They, what are hotels for, anyway?" or, if too much opposi-

Two Greek Cypriots Are Shot To Death

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two Greek Cypriots who were prominent in the pre-independence underground (EOKA) Wednesday were shot to death by unknown gunmen on the first independence anniversary.

Interior Minister Polykarpos Yiofakadis, himself a former EOKA leader, appealed for public cooperation in finding the slayers of Neocles Panayiotou, 24, and Euripides Nourou, 21. The bodies were found riddled with bullets in a car 10 miles outside Limassol.

Merchandising Data Put In Capsule Form

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A big New York department store is using an electronic brain to cut down on data for the boss. It tells him not how all items are moving each day, but what merchandise is moving faster than expected and what is selling more slowly than it should. That's what he really needs to know to manage stocks and promotions.

A Dayton, Ohio, doctor uses a computer service center to prepare automatically statement accounts for patients along with records for himself of all services performed, all fees, payments made, and a list of patients to be seen again next month.

Schools in Cleveland, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Boston get from service centers a quick rundown on student registration, course scheduling, grade reporting, credit accumulation and student records. It leaves more time for teaching.

Taxpayers of an Illinois county have, thanks to an independent computer service center, itemized statements of their tax bills involving as many as 304 different taxing bodies. The statements show which ones a taxpayer contributes to and just how much of his total bill went for schools, water supply, roads, etc.

A Minneapolis company will get, in 11 minutes a monthly production control computation, a process that formerly took three weeks.

These are some of the things the centers with their big machines point to when boasting they can profitably serve small as well as big enterprises.

Many service centers are run by the makers of the electronic wonders. Some are independent, buying or leasing their machines from the big makers. Most offer both the use of the machines and of programmers. These take the raw material—the facts and figures—from a company and turn it into data the computers can handle to produce the desired information.

One of the independents, Statistical Tabulating Corp., Chicago, with 14 centers from New York to Los Angeles, reports that a medium-sized insurance company which had expected to take 60 days to prepare a rate schedule for a new policy turned the problem over to STC programmers who did the job from scratch in 10 days.

STC says a manufacturer with five plants was able to cut transportation costs by $20,000 a year when computer took over. An investment counseling firm bought four hours of computer time and three hours of programming service to prepare client status reports. It thereby eliminated 25 hours of sorting, 15 hours of collating, 8 hours of computing, 5 hours of reproducing and 20 hours of clerical work.

Problems don't have to be left to the nearest center. International Business Machines, with centers across the country, says it has sent 15,000 characters, a second between widely spaced computers by using telephone cable, a Bell System microwave radio network, and IBM magnetic tape transmission units.

The big mechanical brains can work on a business problem here, check it with data elsewhere and tell management about it somewhere else.

Latin Program To Face Obstacles

By THOMAS J. STONE
PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The United States has gone a long way at the conference table here in Uruguay toward winning back prestige lost on the invasion beaches of Cuba.

It has done this by offering an entire hemisphere of 200 million people a tremendous opportunity for a better way of life.

It is called the "Alliance for Progress," a 10-year, $20-billion aid program conceived by President Kennedy.

There is one big string attached: Latin American nations do not part by breaking down age-old barriers against economic and social progress. It will not be easy.

Some observers at the Inter-American Economic Conference feel that the program, although it is a flying start, may drop to the ground with a sickening thud. They point to the obstacles—corrupt administrations, lethargy, greedy landowners unwilling to relinquish their favored position, and tax evaders.

But the urgency of the challenge was underlined for many by the presence of Cuba's pro-Communist economic czar, Ernesto Guevara.

Although he lost no opportunity to take a poke at the United States, Guevara charmed fellow Latin Americans, especially the powerful Brazilians, the Bolivians, the Ecuadorians and even the Chileans.

His aim here was to demonstrate with a surprising display of warmth that Cuba wants to stay in the family of democratic Latin American nations, although Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime has cast its economic lot with the Communist system and the Communist bloc of nations.

It was a plea for coexistence, and Guevara assured the delegates the Castro regime is not exporting revolution. But he said his government "cannot promise that our example is not followed elsewhere" and that the first condition for economic improvement in Latin America is to put "political power in the hands of the working class."

It was a warning that was not lost on many of the delegates.

The U.S. delegation bent over backward not to offend the sensitive Latins and won respect by offering them a chance to help themselves with dignity.

The U.S. Treasury Secretary, C. Douglas Dillon, diplomatically set out the objectives of the Alliance for Progress. He did not rise to his feet, raise his voice or pound the table as Guevara had done. Instead he quietly explained what the United States is willing to do.

Only after the work of the conference was over, the final vote cast for the plan of action, did Dillon reply to Guevara. He said his purpose was to set the record straight.

The American Cabinet officer said the Cuban had attacked the United States with a "flood of untruths and falsehoods." He singled out one, Guevara, said Dillon, had "tried to give the impression that the United States somehow recognizes the permanence of the present regime in Cuba."

"This we do not do and never will do," Dillon declared, "because to do so would be to betray the thousands of patriotic Cubans who are still waiting and struggling for the freedom of their country."

East German Churchmen In Struggle

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Christians of Communist East Germany are struggling today with a tough issue of theology. Should they resist the government or obey?

Some church leaders have advocated defiance.

Others have counseled abedience to a point.

The question has been smoldering in German church life for two years. With tensions mounting over Berlin, it has become a blazing undercurrent, recent events show.

Also at issue is whether the East German Christians should stay where they are, avoid open political resistance, but not support the regime.

Merger Of Two Firms Protested

DALLAS (AP)—An anti-trust suit filed by the Department of Justice Wednesday asked the merger of two space industry giants, Ling-Temco Electronics, Inc., and Chance Vought Corp., be dissolved.

The suit claimed such a merger violates the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

Combination of the two Dallas-based companies, which together employ 20,000 workers, became effective Wednesday following ratification by the boards of the two companies in separate meetings.

The suit came some five hours later.

Dist. Judge Joe E. Estes denied a motion by the government asking for a temporary restraining order holding up the merger.

He set Sept. 11 as a hearing date on a preliminary injunction.

The suit charges Ling-Temco violated the anti-trust act in acquiring all the property and assets of Vought and also said the merger will lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in the aerospace industry, which bid on government contracts.

Company officials said in a statement that "this last-minute action by the Justice Department is an unwarranted attack on the free enterprise system and shows no apparent regard for the interests of the employees, stockholders, customers, suppliers and thousands of other people who may be adversely affected by this move."

The company will have diversified activities in seven major categories: aerospace systems, electronics, communications and test systems, commercial and industrial products, sound systems, aera systems, and information handling systems.

Combined Ling-Temco and Chance Vought sales for the first half of 1961 totaled $162,128,152.

Mrs. Bermea Dies Here
Mrs. Amelia M. Bermea, of Route 1, Converse, Tex., was pronounced dead on arrival at Cogdell Hospital at 4:30 this morning where she was taken by a Bolger ambulance. She had been visiting here for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Bermea was born April 25, 1913, in Elmendorf, Tex. She is survived by her husband, Ed Bermea, two daughters Misses Idolina and Delma Bermea, both of Snyder, four brothers and four sisters.

The body will be taken from here to San Antonio. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at Chilo, Tex.

Bolger Funeral Home is in charge of local arrangements.

Snyderite Has Surgery At Alpine
Sandra Forbes, daughter of Snyder Fire Chief, and Mrs. Warren Boyd, underwent major surgery Monday morning in Alpine, where she and her husband, David, are attending Sul Ross College.

She is reported fine and would like to hear from friends that would care to write. Letters or cards may be addressed to Mrs. David Forbes, Alpine, Texas.

Her mother is with her during the recuperation period.

The church includes congregations on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

"Romans 13:1," of St. Paul's epistles, was cited as prescribing civil law-abiding, even in a police state. The verse says, "Let every person be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and those that exist have been instituted by God. Therefore he who resists the authorities resists what God has appointed."

It is this passage that has stirred the theological soul searching, as well as some sharp conflicts among German Christian leaders.

Bishop Otto Dibelius of Berlin, the doctory Christian warrior who retired last spring as head of the Evangelical Church in Germany, previously ignited the fuse by saying the East German regime didn't qualify as a God-ordained authority.

It is "blasphemy to regard the rulers of a totalitarian state as powers," in a Biblical sense, he said. "Paul's words are set aside."

Even an East German traffic sign has "no turning power for Christians," said the bishop, who had hurled similar challenges at nazism. To him such regimes are in the class of the "beast" government of Revelations 13.

A church furor erupted about the matter.

The bishop, since barred from the Communist Eastern Sector of his Berlin diocese, was disputed even by the managing board of his own church, which said: "The obedience required of us by Holy Writ in respect to governmental authority applies also to the governments presently existing today."

Dr. Kurt Scharf, an East Berlin theologian who succeeded Bishop Dibelius as head of the Evangelical Council, had taken a similar approach but says the church faces a critical situation, which must be solved.

Germany's United Lutheran Church, in trying to give some stabilizing guidance, said the Eastern Christian "can only accept the fact that he lives in an atheistic state and put up with it; but he must never approve or support it."

In all cases of conflict between the state's demands and God's orders, God's word remains valid that one must obey God rather than men," the statement said.

This mandate, to "obey God rather than men," was St. Peter's reply when hailed before the Sanhedrin and ordered to quit preaching about Jesus Christ.

Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, head of the United Lutheran Church, at first took a more moderate position than Bishop Dibelius but recently has indicated he sees no room for getting along with the East regime.

Asked on a recent television show if Christians in the East Zone of his church should actively oppose their government, he said: "I do not wish to endanger my brothers over there by simply saying 'yes'. But that is what I think."

Bishop Dibelius, expected to retire from his diocesan post this fall and whose departure from his churchwide leadership apparently was hastened by the clash communism, said as he stepped down: "I beg the church never to surrender to the powers of this world. I pray for all who hold office in the church that their courage may not fail."

MIKOYAN VISITS DEPARTMENT STORE— Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, right, and Russian Ambassador Nicolai Fedorenko eye Japanese wedding kimonoes during a visit to a department store in Tokyo. Woman between them is unidentified. Mikoyan warned the Japanese government that Japan would be dragged into war if the Berlin issue touched off a general conflagration because Japan is tied to the United States by the Japanese-American security pact. False Calls Plague Firemen; Warning Issued By Officials

In the past month, the Snyder Fire Dept. has made a number of trips that were not at all necessary. Most of these trips, officials believe are due to the fact that some off beat character, or characters, has an off beat sense of humor. Someone has been calling in false alarms.

The person or persons involved in this bit of malicious play just do not realize the danger or the cost involved in just one of those false trips, fire and police Dept. officials declared.

Snyder Fire Chief Warren Boyd, sums it up this way, "When an alarm comes in, 15 to 20 volunteer firemen have to leave their jobs or place of business to answer it."

Or at night, they have to get out of bed. All off duty regular firemen have to come to the station to act as standby crew while the present crew is on the trip. This is time and a half for the off duty men. Then, a pumper, booster, and car are dispatched to the scene of the alarm.

"But, again the most important thing is the danger to life, limb, and property of both the Fire Dept. and private citizens alike."

Word of Warning
Police Chief Chester Simons said:

1,300 Fires Hit Northwest Forests

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—About 1,300 forest fires—all small—have broken out in the Pacific Northwest in recent days, touched off by lightning, the Forest Service reported Wednesday.

It said there undoubtedly are additional "sleeper" fires—which cannot be detected immediately but which might take off if wind comes.

The rash of fires is the worst of the season, it reported. Some 1,000 of the fires are in Washington, Oregon and California, the Forest Service said, while there are 300 in Idaho and Western Montana.

so has something to say on the subject of false alarms.

He warns that anyone caught turning in a false alarm on purpose, could receive up to a $200 fine in the City Court.

Chief Simons also asks that parents warn their children against such things.

"The Fire Dept. is and should be, a respected and experienced servant to us all. Its purpose is to protect the life and property of others and it is our duty and privilege to call them when they are needed."

"Please, let's not abuse that privilege. Let's stick to the old saying of 'Looking before we leap.'"
