Q. — What is the purpose of the Texas State Labor Board?

A. — There is no Texas State Labor Board. The Texas Commissioner of Labor and Standards is an appointed position, but he does not serve under any appointed board. His office is designed to assist employees in wage disputes with their employers. The Austin telephone number for the commissioner is (512) 463-5527.

Proposed oil hike won't help much

HOUSTON (AP) — The proposed $18-per-barrel standard being considered by OPEC oil ministers meeting in Geneva will do little to improve the plight of the domestic energy producers, a recent survey by Arthur Andersen & Co. says.

"At $18 per barrel, you do not have high enough prices to stave off higher levels of imports," said Richard Adkerson, managing director of oil and gas services for the accounting firm. "It appears the goal of Saudi Arabia is to shut off exploration, particularly in the United States."

The accounting firm's annual survey of domestic oil companies released Monday shows sharp drops in capital expenditures and re-investment and deteriorating replacement of reserves, with independent producers taking the hardest hits.

"The lower level of expenditures will result in lower addition of reserves in 1986, 1987 and 1988," Adkerson said.

In 1985, according to the survey, less than 65 percent of the nation's oil was replaced. In prior years, it was more than 100 percent.

"The excessive supply of oil worldwide, the depressed demand for energy, and the challenges caused by deregulation have let to this situation," he said.

In Nicaragua...

Hasenfus is on trial

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Eugene Hasenfus is on trial in a one-room courthouse that barely holds the scores of foreign reporters attracted by Nicaragua's first prosecution of an American in the U.S.-backed Contra war.

Hasenfus, 45, was one of the few in the room who appeared unaffected by the heat Monday as he sat for more than two hours at a 20-foot-long conference table and heard the charges read against him, first in Spanish, then in English.

With him at the table were attorney Reynaldo Monterrey, president of the People's Anti-Somocista Tribunal, and an interpreter and a court clerk.

Occasionally, Hasenfus turned to smile at his wife, Sally, who stood about 15 feet behind him surrounded by about 100 journalists.

The tribunals were formed in 1983 to try individuals suspected of counterrevolutionary activity. The word "Somocista" in their name refers to the late dictator Anastasio Somoza, who was ousted in the 1979 revolution.

On the front wall of the courtroom, a mural shows a group of women carrying a banner that reads, "For the dead, our dead, we swear to defend the victory."

Monterrey, wiping his face with a handkerchief, read a 14-page document stating the charges against Hasenfus. By the fifth page, Hasenfus, who is not known to understand much, if any, Spanish, began impatiently tapping the arm of his chair.

Besides Monterrey, the panel trying Hasenfus has two lay members, identified by tribunal administrators as Luis Perez and Domingo Matute. Nothing more is known about the two men and, in the crush of reporters, it could not be determined if they were in the courtroom.

Outside the building, which stands behind a wire fence on Managua's western outskirts, curious Nicaraguans waited with journalists throughout the day for Hasenfus' late-afternoon arrival.

One bystander approached the reporters and began shouting, "Think about all of the widows in Nicaragua. Think about all the orphans. That gringo should be executed." A few people applauded the suggestion.

2 jurors selected Monday

Two jurors were chosen Monday out of six interviewed as the jury selection process in the capital murder trial of Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr. continues in 132nd District Court.

Both jurors selected — the first of 14 to be seated for the trial — are women. They were dismissed Monday to await recall to duty when the selection process is complete.

District Judge Gene Dulaney said Tuesday morning the court would not release the names of jurors selected until the jury is seated to hear testimony.

The pair was chosen following interviews with defense attorney Frank Conard of Sweetwater, assisted by local attorney James Clark, and District Attorney Ernie Armstrong.

Following the interview, each side may ask that the prospective juror be dismissed if they feel the individual might have already formed an opinion about the case.

In addition, each side is allowed 16 "strikes" to eliminate a prospective juror. This may be used to eliminate a prospective juror without showing cause through the interview process.

None of those strikes were used in disqualifying the four not taken Monday.

Dulaney said Tuesday that he was pleased with the progress made Monday even though only half the expected number of jurors were interviewed.

The court began the process Monday expecting to call and interview 12 prospective jurors each day.

One hundred and seventeen prospective jurors filled out questionnaires Oct. 13.

Jury selection resumed Tuesday shortly after 9 a.m. with the interview of the seventh prospective juror.

The 19-year-old Johnson of Colorado City is charged with the murder of convenience store clerk Jack Huddleston during the course of a robbery of the Allsup's store here March 23.

SJHS no-pass total similar to last year

At the conclusion of the first six weeks, some 179 of the 569 students enrolled at Snyder Junior High School scored below 70 on one or more subjects--32 percent of the student body.

But, the percentage of students lost for extracurricular activities was not thought to be that high, although exact percentages were not known.

Using band as an example, some 31 students were listed as failing one or more grade--20 from the seventh grade and 11 from the eighth.

For football, the total was approximately the same. Those lost for the next six-weeks period were reported as 14 from the seventh grade and 16 from the eighth.

For choir, the totals were seven from the seventh and 16 from the eighth; and for volleyball, three from the seventh and only one from the eighth.

By grade level, there are 298 students enrolled in the seventh grade. The number failing at least one grade was reported as 88 or approximately 30 percent.

At the eighth grade level, there are 271 enrolled with 91 said failing one subject or more. This equals 34 percent.

These figures compare with the no-pass, no-play percentages reported at the junior high last year--the first year that the controversial new rule was implemented in Texas schools.

For the first six-weeks at the junior high last year, 31 percent of the student body failed at least one subject.

In actual numbers, this equaled 165 from the total of 529 students.

This year's eighth grade class, which had a 34 percent failing rate, had a 28 percent rate for the same time period last year as seventh graders.

Last year, 86 out of the total 306 failed one grade or more. The same figures for comparison this year are 91 out of the total 271.

The first six-weeks period ended here Oct. 10.

Rain chances return for city, West Texas

Showers were being noted in Snyder Tuesday morning, part of a storm system created by the arrival of Hurricane Roslyn.

By 11:30 a.m., the city had experienced close to .25 of an inch of rain. The year's total is now approaching 28 inches.

Hurricane Roslyn was expected to make landfall along the western coast of Mexico late Tuesday or Tuesday night, forecasters say.

This storm plus an upper level disturbance were to combine to create partly cloudy to cloudy skies with a chance of showers and thunderstorms over West Texas.

Included in the outlook for rainy weather into Wednesday were South Central Texas and portions of North Texas.

The Snyder area forecast called for a 50 percent chance of showers and thundershowers Tuesday and Tuesday night. Overnight temperatures were expected to dip into the mid 50s.

The change for moisture Wednesday was to be 40 percent.

For West Texas, decreasing cloudiness was expected Wednesday afternoon except in the southeast, where continued scattered showers were forecast.

With lows Tuesday night to be mostly in the 50s and 60s, the highs Wednesday were to be mostly in the 70s and 80s.

Ron Shaw, a postal employee and owner of the Tub Club, recently returned from vacation in Kentucky.

Most parts of the country, especially Texas, would celebrate at the possibility of new industry to broaden the tax base and to provide new jobs.

Kentucky had the highest bid to lure Toyota to build a new car plant to be located in Scott County. Some folks were not elated with the announcement.

Reported Shaw, a citizens group filed suit in district court saying it was a misuse of tax funds to offer incentives to Toyota. Also the local trade unions are mad because the Japanese construction company is using non-union labor.

Last Friday the federal government ran out of money and non-essential employees were sent home.

Emmett Askins, who helps out at the funeral home when he isn't traveling, has come up with a novel idea to balance the bloating federal deficit.

On a recent trip to view Mt. Rushmore, Emmett noticed the millions of rock chips below the monument. He suggested the federal government bag the chips, sell them for $2 each as a souvenir, and balance the budget.

Askins for President! It has a nice ring to it.

A guest preacher last week told about the couple who appeared before the judge in court. They announced the reason they wanted a divorce was incompatibility.

The judge insisted on more information.

Incompatibility means the husband has lost his income and the wife her patability.

In Brief

IBM to sell

NEW YORK (AP) — IBM said today it will sell its South African subsidiary because of the "deteriorating political and economic situation" in the racially divided country.

The announcement came a day after General Motors Corp., the second-largest U.S.-based employer in South Africa after Mobil Corp., said it would sell its South African operations to local interests.

Local

Near perfect

The Atlanta-San Francisco tie in the pro ranks was all that stood between William S. Forbes and a perfect score in last week's SDN Football Contest.

Forbes, of 4104 Midland Ave., picked Atlanta to win. However, the rules state a tie counts as a miss.

Second place was determined by the tie-breaker with that money going to Ron Pyburn of Rt. 2, Box 475. Pyburn guessed 38 points on the tie-breaker, with the actual points being 41.

Another contest appears in this issue.

Airport class

An aviation safety seminar is scheduled Tuesday night at the local airport. It has been planned through the Snyder Airport Safety Committee.

At 7 p.m. at the airport terminal building, Bill Robinson of Lubbock will discuss air traffic control procedures and "back to basics" in aircraft fuel.

Attendance at the clinic will qualify as one of the requirements in the Pilot Proficiency Wings program.

Local accident prevention officers include Darrell Mize, airport manager, and Bob Stanfield.

All interested flyers are invited to attend.

Vets to meet

The Scurry County Vietnam Veterans will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Clark's Country Kitchen.

Results of last Saturday's bake sale will be discussed. An invitation to all Vietnam veterans is extended.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Monday, 65 degrees; low, 54 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Tuesday, 58 degrees; .05 of an inch precipitation; total precipitation for 1986 to date, 27.29 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight mostly cloudy with a 50 percent chance of showers and thundershowers. Lows mid 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Wednesday cloudy with a 40 percent chance of showers and thundershowers. Highs mid 70s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph.

Red tide expected to remain

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A toxic red tide that invaded the Texas coast in August could linger through December if temperatures do not drop below 60 degrees, officials said.

"It may be later than that, depending on the season," said Pat Patterson, a forecaster at the National Weather Service in Corpus Christi.

The red tide, an explosion of microscopic organisms, appeared in late August near Galveston and has moved into Mexican waters, leaving behind millions of dead fish.

Officials in this city of 250,000 closed area beaches to swimmers and state officials have suspended oyster harvesting, which was scheduled to begin Nov. 1.

Biologists and state officials said the red tide's existence along the coast depends on the concentration of organisms, wind direction and speed and the water temperature.

For now, they're hoping for a cold front.

The water temperature has been in the upper 70s and a temperature of 60 degrees or below is needed for the red tide to diminish, but that may not occur until mid-December, officials said.

Dr. Frank Judd, director of the Pan American University Coastal Studies Laboratory at South Padre Island, said the water temperature in far south Texas is still in the 80s.

"It needs to get below 60 degrees Fahrenheit and it also depends on what kind of cold front we get," Judd said. "We don't get any persistent cold weather until late November or December."

A pigmy sperm whale, about 9 feet long and weighing 500 pounds, was stranded on Mustang Island early Monday, but Dr. Tony Amos of the University of Texas Marine Science Institute said he doesn't know if it was caused by the red tide.

The whale died and will be sent to Texas A&M University for analysis, Amos said.

Hal Osburn, harvest program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's marine laboratory in Rockport, said Monday the red tide was about 1 to 4 miles wide from Port O'Connor to the Mexican border, a distance of about 170 miles.

"It could be up to 3,000 square miles of the Gulf of Mexico that has some red tide in it," Osburn said.

It has killed pinheads, hardheads, catfish, mullets and some large redfish, Judd said.

The red tide has stabilized off the coast, he said, but officials are concerned that it will enter the Laguna Madre, a nursery for shrimp, oysters and other fish located between Port Isabel and South Padre Island.

"There's really nothing to prevent it from moving in there," Judd said.

GM sites economic reasons for selling its subsidiary

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' decision to sell its assembly subsidiary in South Africa follows several years of losses that Chairman Roger Smith said were unlikely to reverse under worldwide pressure against apartheid.

General Motors South African Ltd., the car and truck assembly subsidiary that General Motors Corp. said Monday would be sold to a group headed by South African management, is the No. 2 U.S.-based employer in South Africa.

No. 1, according to the Investor Responsibility Research Center, a private watchdog group in Washington, D.C., is Mobil Corp.

"GMSA has been losing money for several years in a very difficult South African business climate and, with the current structure, we could not see our operations turning around in the near future," Smith said Monday.

"They like to avoid resistance by consumers and investors in the United States to their continued involvement in South Africa. The decision was simply helped by the poor market conditions," said Gary Glaser, an auto industry analyst with First Boston Corp. in New York.

A GM engine plant in South Africa that has been idle for years is not part of the deal, said company spokesman Ron Theis, adding that the sale should be completed by year's end, but no information would be released about the price or who makes up the group purchasing the Port Elizabeth subsidiary.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I met a really neat guy at the beginning of the summer. (We're both 20.) We were immediately attracted to each other and spent every moment we could together — laughing, talking and having fun. I hadn't had such a fulfilling relationship with a guy in years, and I knew his feelings were as strong as mine.

He went away to college, and we agreed to phone when we could afford it and to write often.

To date I have written five very long letters and called him six times, but he has made no effort to contact me. When I called him, he didn't seem the least bit excited and acted like he was in a hurry to get off the phone. He said he'd call me back that night, but he never did. I was in tears. I called him the next day to find out what was wrong, and he said, "Nothing," but didn't give me a reason why he didn't call back. (Again he was in a hurry.) Everything was wonderful before he left; I can't understand his lack of communication. This isn't the same guy who left in August. Or is it?

IN THE DARK IN IOWA

DEAR IN: Yes, it's the same guy, but his feelings have changed. Don't hassle him. If you put him on the spot, he'll be forced to tell you it was just a summer romance. (So far he hasn't had the guts.) Save your pride and forget him. What was, was. This happens to every young woman at least once. My heart aches for you.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I never in a million years thought I'd be writing to you, let alone thanking you for possibly saving my life, but here goes:

You had a piece in your column (Vancouver Province) warning readers that old grenades, shells and other potentially explosive war souvenirs could possibly still be dangerous and to call their local police department and ask that they be picked up and disposed of properly.

Well, years ago we inherited a "brassy looking" object, heavy as a dumbbell, about a foot long — just the thing to use as a doorstop! After reading your column I recalled that my doorstop was an old cannon shell, so on the chance that it could be dangerous, I called the authorities and had it removed.

To make a long story short, the shell was taken to the Explosive Ordinance Disposal Unit at a Canadian Army base and was identified as a 57mm anti-tank cannon shell — the type used by the Allied Forces in World War II. The shell was wisely taken to a gravel pit and exploded by remote control. We later learned that the TNT charge in that shell had a killing radius of 23 meters or 76 feet! Another thing about TNT, the older it gets, the more skittish it becomes. The slightest jar may set it off! Thanks, Abby!

JEAN M. BUZAN,
GRATEFUL CANADIAN

DEAR JEAN: Some folks say they get a charge out of my column, but this was really dynamite!

• • •

DEAR ABBY: You have had several letters about junk mail, so I thought you might get a chuckle out of the way my mother handled hers.

Mother, who has been a widow since 1953, had been receiving letters from a credit card corporation addressed to her late husband (who had never lived at her current address), congratulating him on how well he had managed his finances over the last few years and inviting him to apply for their "gold card."

After discarding several of these letters, Mother received another one. This time she decided to fill out the attached application and return it.

She gave Dad's full name and date of birth. For "Current address?" she wrote "Highland Memorial Cemetery." For "How long at that address?" ... "33 years." "Current employer?" ... "St. Peter." On the line designated for signature of applicant, she wrote, "Unobtainable."

Patchwork Squares hear county extension agent

The Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club met Oct. 14 in the home of Freida Dever with nine members present; Mary Jacoby was a guest of the meeting.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Ruby Clark, and the minutes were read by Peggy Robertson. Kathy Roberts, county extension agent, presented the program, "Little Visitors in the Home."

Report of the Council meeting related the newly elected Council officers for 1987. They include June Greenway, president; Ruby Clark, vice-president; Shirley Bullard, secretary; Joyce McCoy, treasurer and Peggy Robertson as County Texas Extension Homemakers (TEHA) chairman.

It was announced that the Plainview club would host the Christmas party. Members were encouraged to attend the 4-H banquet Oct. 25 to show support for their program. Details of the Craft Day on Oct. 28 were explained. A nominating committee was named to secure club officers for next year.

Atheneum club meets

The Atheneum Study Club met Oct. 14 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with club president Dolly Hollis presiding.

A special program, "Xero Mammography," was presented by Dr. Buerk Williams of Big Springs. On staff at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, Dr. Williams explained the equipment and procedures to be used in the mammography program for Snyder. He pointed out that breast cancer is the most prevalent cancer in women and that it is on the increase. Mammograms can detect cancer at an early stage offering a greater chance of recovery.

At the business session, members heard a report on the White Buffalo Days food booth. The club agreed to make a significant contribution toward the purchase of the mammography equipment for Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Hostesses for the meeting were Dolly Hollis and Wilma Dillard.

When the contract is no-trump and dummy has a threatening suit, a defender's discard in that suit is usually from five. With only four cards, a defender will usually hold on to all of them for dear life. Let's see how knowing this fact helped declarer to bring in three no-trump on today's deal.

When East won the spade ace and returned the nine, declarer grabbed the king. He knew that he might want to throw West in with the 10 later in the play. Now four rounds of diamonds were played. On the third diamond, East chucked the jack of hearts, and he next threw a low club. West followed to three diamonds and then casually played the club deuce. Declarer now had choices. He could try the club finesse for his ninth trick. He could also play the A-K of hearts and then throw West on lead with the third spade. If West at that point had no more hearts, he would be compelled to lead into declarer's A-Q of clubs after taking his spade tricks.

Declarer did play the top hearts and put West on lead with a spade to make his contract. East would have served his interests better if he had held all his hearts and let go of two clubs. That way declarer would not have had any indication that East had started with five hearts, and so might have chosen to simply take the club finesse as his best chance.

Amities learn exercises

The Amitie Study Club met Oct. 14 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room. The meeting was called to order by Pete Haley, president.

A special program was given by Gayle Kubena who teaches "Funtastics" at Kellye's School of Dance. She gave pointers on diet and demonstrated exercises done to various types of music. She stressed quality, not quantity, of exercise and invited members to attend her classes.

Business items included the appointment of Temi Matthies as treasurer due to the resignation of Jamie Early. Members were asked to bring donated items for Christmas gifts for the State Hospital.

Further plans were made for the annual "Country Christmas Dance" to be held on Dec. 6 in the National Guard Armory. Jody Nix and his band will provide the music. Due to the economy, ticket prices were cut to $12.50 per couple in advance and $15 at the door.

The Nov. 11 club meeting will be held at Willow Park Inn with Harley Bynum providing the program. Members should RSVP to Temi Matthies or Maria Patterson one week in advance.

Red tide expected to remain

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A toxic red tide that invaded the Texas coast in August could linger through December if temperatures do not drop below 60 degrees, officials said.

"It may be later than that, depending on the season," said Pat Patterson, a forecaster at the National Weather Service in Corpus Christi.

The red tide, an explosion of microscopic organisms, appeared in late August near Galveston and has moved into Mexican waters, leaving behind millions of dead fish.

Officials in this city of 250,000 closed area beaches to swimmers and state officials have suspended oyster harvesting, which was scheduled to begin Nov. 1.

Biologists and state officials said the red tide's existence along the coast depends on the concentration of organisms, wind direction and speed and the water temperature.

For now, they're hoping for a cold front.

The water temperature has been in the upper 70s and a temperature of 60 degrees or below is needed for the red tide to diminish, but that may not occur until mid-December, officials said.

Dr. Frank Judd, director of the Pan American University Coastal Studies Laboratory at South Padre Island, said the water temperature in far south Texas is still in the 80s.

"It needs to get below 60 degrees Fahrenheit and it also depends on what kind of cold front we get," Judd said. "We don't get any persistent cold weather until late November or December."

A pigmy sperm whale, about 9 feet long and weighing 500 pounds, was stranded on Mustang Island early Monday, but Dr. Tony Amos of the University of Texas Marine Science Institute said he doesn't know if it was caused by the red tide.

The whale died and will be sent to Texas A&M University for analysis, Amos said.

Hal Osburn, harvest program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's marine laboratory in Rockport, said Monday the red tide was about 1 to 4 miles wide from Port O'Connor to the Mexican border, a distance of about 170 miles.

"It could be up to 3,000 square miles of the Gulf of Mexico that has some red tide in it," Osburn said.

It has killed pinheads, hardheads, catfish, mullets and some large redfish, Judd said.

The red tide has stabilized off the coast, he said, but officials are concerned that it will enter the Laguna Madre, a nursery for shrimp, oysters and other fish located between Port Isabel and South Padre Island.

"There's really nothing to prevent it from moving in there," Judd said.

GM sites economic reasons for selling its subsidiary

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' decision to sell its assembly subsidiary in South Africa follows several years of losses that Chairman Roger Smith said were unlikely to reverse under worldwide pressure against apartheid.

General Motors South African Ltd., the car and truck assembly subsidiary that General Motors Corp. said Monday would be sold to a group headed by South African management, is the No. 2 U.S.-based employer in South Africa.

No. 1, according to the Investor Responsibility Research Center, a private watchdog group in Washington, D.C., is Mobil Corp.

"GMSA has been losing money for several years in a very difficult South African business climate and, with the current structure, we could not see our operations turning around in the near future," Smith said Monday.

"They like to avoid resistance by consumers and investors in the United States to their continued involvement in South Africa. The decision was simply helped by the poor market conditions," said Gary Glaser, an auto industry analyst with First Boston Corp. in New York.

A GM engine plant in South Africa that has been idle for years is not part of the deal, said company spokesman Ron Theis, adding that the sale should be completed by year's end, but no information would be released about the price or who makes up the group purchasing the Port Elizabeth subsidiary.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I met a really neat guy at the beginning of the summer. (We're both 20.) We were immediately attracted to each other and spent every moment we could together — laughing, talking and having fun. I hadn't had such a fulfilling relationship with a guy in years, and I knew his feelings were as strong as mine.

He went away to college, and we agreed to phone when we could afford it and to write often.

To date I have written five very long letters and called him six times, but he has made no effort to contact me. When I called him, he didn't seem the least bit excited and acted like he was in a hurry to get off the phone. He said he'd call me back that night, but he never did. I was in tears. I called him the next day to find out what was wrong, and he said, "Nothing," but didn't give me a reason why he didn't call back. (Again he was in a hurry.) Everything was wonderful before he left; I can't understand his lack of communication. This isn't the same guy who left in August. Or is it?

IN THE DARK IN IOWA

DEAR IN: Yes, it's the same guy, but his feelings have changed. Don't hassle him. If you put him on the spot, he'll be forced to tell you it was just a summer romance. (So far he hasn't had the guts.) Save your pride and forget him. What was, was. This happens to every young woman at least once. My heart aches for you.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I never in a million years thought I'd be writing to you, let alone thanking you for possibly saving my life, but here goes:

You had a piece in your column (Vancouver Province) warning readers that old grenades, shells and other potentially explosive war souvenirs could possibly still be dangerous and to call their local police department and ask that they be picked up and disposed of properly.

Well, years ago we inherited a "brassy looking" object, heavy as a dumbbell, about a foot long — just the thing to use as a doorstop! After reading your column I recalled that my doorstop was an old cannon shell, so on the chance that it could be dangerous, I called the authorities and had it removed.

To make a long story short, the shell was taken to the Explosive Ordinance Disposal Unit at a Canadian Army base and was identified as a 57mm anti-tank cannon shell — the type used by the Allied Forces in World War II. The shell was wisely taken to a gravel pit and exploded by remote control. We later learned that the TNT charge in that shell had a killing radius of 23 meters or 76 feet! Another thing about TNT, the older it gets, the more skittish it becomes. The slightest jar may set it off! Thanks, Abby!

JEAN M. BUZAN,
GRATEFUL CANADIAN

DEAR JEAN: Some folks say they get a charge out of my column, but this was really dynamite!

• • •

DEAR ABBY: You have had several letters about junk mail, so I thought you might get a chuckle out of the way my mother handled hers.

Mother, who has been a widow since 1953, had been receiving letters from a credit card corporation addressed to her late husband (who had never lived at her current address), congratulating him on how well he had managed his finances over the last few years and inviting him to apply for their "gold card."

After discarding several of these letters, Mother received another one. This time she decided to fill out the attached application and return it.

She gave Dad's full name and date of birth. For "Current address?" she wrote "Highland Memorial Cemetery." For "How long at that address?" ... "33 years." "Current employer?" ... "St. Peter." On the line designated for signature of applicant, she wrote, "Unobtainable."

Your Birthday

Oct. 22, 1986

Situations and conditions that have restrained your life will be alleviated in the year ahead. You'll be free to do the things you want to do, the way you want to do them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extra attentive today if you are exposed to some type of inspirational message. It will contain information that could profoundly improve your life. Major changes are ahead for Libra in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In the commercial arena today, things will be stirring that you may not be aware of. When they come to light, you'll be happy to discover they were on your behalf.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your cooperative attitude will prove to be your greatest asset today. The more you appreciate others, the more they will appreciate you in return.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not be timid where your ambitions are concerned today. Success will come if you pursue your objectives with all the gusto that's in you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even if things appear to be a bit uncertain at the moment, maintain a positive attitude today. If you think right, you'll make the right moves.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might have to contend with some changes today that are not of your making. However, the aspects indicate they'll turn out better than the ones you planned yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you feel restricted today, try to get out and run around a bit. Mobility improves your attitude, and you won't have to put too many miles on your car.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your possibilities for personal gain are very strong today, especially if you are involved in something where you are performing a service for others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An enterprise you are in charge of can be successfully promoted today, provided you proceed in a positive, bold fashion. Believe in your cause.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Associating with people with whom you have close, personal bonds will yield you the greatest enjoyment today. Spend time with those you love.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions in general look quite favorable for you today. Something for which you've been hoping may work out exactly as you wish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Devote as much effort as possible today to situations that can improve your financial position. You could be luckier than usual in this area at this time.

When the contract is no-trump and dummy has a threatening suit, a defender's discard in that suit is usually from five. With only four cards, a defender will usually hold on to all of them for dear life. Let's see how knowing this fact helped declarer to bring in three no-trump on today's deal.

When East won the spade ace and returned the nine, declarer grabbed the king. He knew that he might want to throw West in with the 10 later in the play. Now four rounds of diamonds were played. On the third diamond, East chucked the jack of hearts, and he next threw a low club. West followed to three diamonds and then casually played the club deuce. Declarer now had choices. He could try the club finesse for his ninth trick. He could also play the A-K of hearts and then throw West on lead with the third spade. If West at that point had no more hearts, he would be compelled to lead into declarer's A-Q of clubs after taking his spade tricks.

Declarer did play the top hearts and put West on lead with a spade to make his contract. East would have served his interests better if he had held all his hearts and let go of two clubs. Patchwork Squares hear county extension agent

The Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club met Oct. 14 in the home of Freida Dever with nine members present; Mary Jacoby was a guest of the meeting.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Ruby Clark, and the minutes were read by Peggy Robertson. Kathy Roberts, county extension agent, presented the program, "Little Visitors in the Home."

Report of the Council meeting related the newly elected Council officers for 1987. They include June Greenway, president; Ruby Clark, vice-president; Shirley Bullard, secretary; Joyce McCoy, treasurer and Peggy Robertson as County Texas Extension Homemakers (TEHA) chairman.

It was announced that the Plainview club would host the Christmas party. Members were encouraged to attend the 4-H banquet Oct. 25 to show support for their program. Details of the Craft Day on Oct. 28 were explained. A nominating committee was named to secure club officers for next year.

Atheneum club meets

The Atheneum Study Club met Oct. 14 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with club president Dolly Hollis presiding.

A special program, "Xero Mammography," was presented by Dr. Buerk Williams of Big Springs. On staff at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, Dr. Williams explained the equipment and procedures to be used in the mammography program for Snyder. He pointed out that breast cancer is the most prevalent cancer in women and that it is on the increase. Mammograms can detect cancer at an early stage offering a greater chance of recovery.

At the business session, members heard a report on the White Buffalo Days food booth. The club agreed to make a significant contribution toward the purchase of the mammography equipment for Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Hostesses for the meeting were Dolly Hollis and Wilma Dillard.

Pain after mammography

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am in the so-called "high-risk" group for breast cancer, since I'm past 50 and have had two relatives die of it. During my latest mammogram, my breasts were compressed until they were flattened. It was extremely painful. My right breast has had a gnawing pain ever since. I can't believe that abusing the breast tissue to the point of excruciating pain is not harmful. I am reluctant to return to that clinic. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Breast compression is used to increase the accuracy of detecting tumors during mammography. When mammography is properly performed, a woman might feel moderate discomfort, followed by some breast soreness or tenderness for a couple of days. From your description, I'd say that your test was performed too roughly. Either complain to the clinic so that they will alter their technique, or seek another facility that performs mammography without causing pain and possible injury.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had cataract surgery in which the implant was not done. Can I have the implant made at a later time, or am I doomed to wear Coke-bottle glasses?

DEAR READER — You can have a later implant done or you can wear contact lenses.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Ten years ago I took radioactive iodine to treat an overactive thyroid. It dissolved too much, and I've been taking 0.015 Synthroid to counteract a thyroid deficiency caused by the iodine treatment. My original doctor passed away, and the new young doctor requests more and more intricate tests every year. This is multiplying my lab bill to the point where I am considering finding a new doctor. Neither my sister (on Synthroid for 26 years) nor I have ever had any problems with our medicine, so why the tests?

DEAR READER — Radioactive iodine can cause an underactive thyroid condition, which is easily treated with oral replacement of thyroid hormone. Once you have been diagnosed as having hypothyroidism, the only tests necessary are those to assess, from time to time, whether you are receiving the proper replacement dose. Your new doctor may simply be insecure. In my opinion, one or two blood tests should suffice.

More bogus documents likely

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Applications for amnesty by Mexican aliens living in the United States will not be taken until six months after the new immigration bill becomes law, a federal official said.

"I need to be emphatic that we'll not be receiving applications tomorrow," said Richard Casillas, a spokesman for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in San Antonio. "We need to educate employers and train personnel first. But we also need to emphasize that no one should be afraid to come forward. We won't be making arrests even if in the process of checking some applicant's background we discover a criminal wanted elsewhere."

Casillas said the city will need a "supermarket-sized facility" to process people seeking amnesty under the new law.

The immigration service will also open processing centers in Corpus Christi, Laredo and Austin, Casillas said.

An estimated 2.5 million to 5 million people could qualify for amnesty, but Casillas said he did not know how many in South Texas would take advantage of the program.

Officials say they expect a huge market in bogus documents to emerge to help people living illegally in the United States take advantage of the immigration bill passed Friday by Congress.

Fake documents are already being tailored to the requirements in the legislation. The documents include fake rent receipts, utility bills, income tax forms, driver's licenses and birth certificates.

The immigration bill would offer amnesty to millions of immigrants who arrived illegally if they can prove they lived in the United States since 1982, except for "brief, casual and innocent absences."

The White House says President Reagan is expected to sign the legislation.

In the past, fake documents could make someone appear to be a legal resident. But the new measure will probably create more demand because aliens could use the documents to become legal residents and eventually, citizenship.

"Probably what we'll be seeing now is a switch from just fraudulent immigration documents to documents indicating that you have been here since whatever date," said Vincent Henderson, an immigration investigator in Houston.

The bill imposes criminal penalties on employees who knowingly hire workers who do not have proper documents.

"We are going to have a new group of individuals creating documents," said Michael McMahon, deputy assistant regional commissioner for investigations at the Immigration and Naturalization Service office in Dallas. "There will be a lot more vendors, a lot more printing of documents."

Students take over president's office

AUSTIN (AP) - Sixteen young people protesting the University of Texas' business relations with South Africa took over President William Cunningham's office briefly.

The group, including 12 students, chained shut a glass door and held the office for about 20 minutes, officials said.

UT police broke in and arrested all 16, including two former students and two non-students.

Joyce Pole, UT spokeswoman, said misdemeanor charges of disruptive activity were filed against the invaders by university police.

Campus officials said that in addition to the criminal charges, which are misdemeanors, administrative disciplinary penalties will be sought against students who were arrested. Fourteen were identified as students, two as former students and two as non-students.

"We do think that what they did was an extremely serious thing and ought not to be taken lightly, either in the disciplinary or the criminal proceedings," said Ronald Brown, UT vice president for student affairs. The disciplinary penalties could include expulsion.

The Daily Texan, the student daily newspaper, said one officer was treated for a cut on the leg, received when he kicked in the glass door.

Cunningham was not in the office at the time.

"It was all very non-violent," Ms. Pole said.

After the arrests, other students continued demonstrations at several places on the campus.

Several persons dipped their hands in red paint and placed their palm prints on the UT main building of white stone.

The university issued a statement saying: "Demands were issued (by those in the office) for the UT System of Regents to take action by Wednesday Oct. 22 to divest investments in South Africa."

Joe Roddy, spokesman for the University of Texas System, said later that the market value of UT System stock invested in companies doing business in South Africa totals $871 million.

Student spokesmen have appeared before the UT regents several times asking divestment of stocks by companies with the South African investments. Regents have said the university funds have no direct business interests in South Africa.

Natural causes said ruled out in loss of ozone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever is causing protective ozone to disappear over the South Pole, it probably isn't the sun and the wind, according to scientists on the frozen continent.

They said Monday they believe a chemical process is behind the puzzling, recently discovered drop in ozone concentrations every October. But they are not ready to blame man-made chemicals yet.

The Antarctic discoveries, confirmed earlier this year, set off a flurry of scientific and governmental activity because ozone is necessary to support life as we know it, and the "hole" was the first concrete evidence of damage to the ozone layer despite more than a decade of warnings from some scientists.

The ozone drop is occuring over the North Pole, another study has shown.

The formation of ozone — a pollutant at ground level — by ultra-violet rays high in the atmosphere keeps most of those rays from reaching the surface of the Earth, where they could be deadly to some life forms. The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that each one percent decline in ozone at high altitudes means 200,000 more skin cancers around the globe every year.

In a telephone hookup from the U.S. base at McMurdo Sound to a news conference sponsored by the National Science Foundation, Susan Solomon, leader of a special expedition to study the October ozone drop in Antarctica, said she was "more concerned" than she had been before the expedition, because science has been "unable to come up with an explanation."

But she said her group believes it can rule out two theories put forward to compete with the chemical theory.

One of those two theories proposes that the 11-year solar cycle is somehow responsible, through triggering chemical reactions that have a cumulative effect. This would explain why the Antarctic "hole" did not appear before the mid-1970s.

The other postulates that slight changes in wind patterns resulting in an upward movement of air masses could be responsible.

The leading competitor of these two theories states that chlorofluorocarbon compounds used as refrigeration fluids are deleting ozone around the globe, through the release of chlorine from these long-lived molecules when they reach high altitudes.

One problem is that none of the several computer models used by scientists who believe this theory predicted the October Antarctic "hole" — which is actually about a 40 percent decline in ozone concentration over much of the continent.

If the solar cycle were driving ozone down, large amounts of nitrogen dioxide should be found at altitudes where the ozone is disappearing — but "the nitrogen dioxide abundances inside the ozone hole are the lowest we have observed anywhere in the world," said Ms. Solomon, a chemist at the Boulder, Colo., lab of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

If changed wind patterns and rising air masses were the cause, nitrous oxide should be found in abundance. But that substance also is "extremely low inside the ozone hole."

In addition, tracking of fine particles in the atmosphere by a University of Wyoming team on the expedition shows no evidence of the upward movement of air that would support the wind theory.

An American force under Gen. John Pershing was ordered into Mexico in 1916 to capture the revolutionary leader Pancho Villa.

In 1963, the United States proposed a "hot line" communication system between Washington and Moscow in an effort to prevent war.

Congress rules on array of items affecting military

WASHINGTON (AP) — From major actions such as a pay raise to narrower details such as wearing a yarmulke, Congress' new fiscal 1987 spending plan rules on a variety of issues affecting military personnel.

On the more sweeping side, Congress approved an across-the-board 3 percent pay hike starting Jan. 1, authorized the start of voluntary dental insurance coverage for dependents and ordered a change in regulations that will allow soldiers leaving active duty to join the National Guard and Reserves even though they are single parents.

It also ordered a 1 percent cut in the number of officers in the armed services and slashed by half the president's request to increase overall active-duty strength.

On the other hand, Congress weighed in with decisions on what day of the month soldiers should be paid, whether they can escape jury duty and whether they can wear religious items while in uniform.

The legislative branch also agreed to repeal a fiscal 1986 law governing the manner in which the Pentagon purchases alcohol for resale in military liquor stores. The Pentagon maintains repeal will increase the level of store profits used for military recreation programs.

These decisions are contained in the Defense Department's budget authorization bill or in the Pentagon's section of a massive $576 billion catchall government spending bill that provides money for the next year's operations.

Congress agreed to provide the Pentagon with budget authority totaling $291.9 billion in fiscal 1987, significantly below the $320.3 billion sought by President Reagan. But in scrutinizing big-ticket items to reduce the president's budget, the House and Senate also immersed themselves in a variety of personnel issues.

Tigers chose top players of week

Cotton Merritt and junior quarterback Roland Romo were among those selected for top honors on the Ragin' Tiger football team this week.

Merritt, a senior defensive end, recovered two fumbles, had nine tackles and graded 94 percent in Snyder's 28-13 victory over Andrews. He was also named honorable mention Big Country Player of the Week by the Abilene Reporter News.

Romo, who shared time behind center with regular Brad Gartman, was chosen as the Tigers' Big Play individual with passes of 16 yards to Chris Garrett and 33 yards to Dennis Martinez.

Other standouts included:

Offensive MVP- David Martinez, who graded 94 at offensive center.

Best Blocker- Chris Garrett. He graded 92 percent and had four knockdowns.

Big Hit- Safety, running back Troy Burton.

Special Teams MVP- Troy Menix, for deep snaps on punts and coverage on punts.

Ladies play tonight

LAMESA – Snyder volleyball teams will play here tonight, taking on the Golden Tornadoes in the Lamesa High School Gym.

Action begins at 5 o'clock with a freshman match. Junior varsity teams take the floor at 6:30, followed by varsity squads at 7:30.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Snyder girls are 14-12 for the season and 5-7 in District 2-4A competition. Lamesa, 20-8 overall, is battling for a runnerup spot with a 9-3 district mark.

Public to meet players

The public is invited to meet with players and coaches of the Western Texas College basketball teams tonight at 6:30 in the WTC Student Center.

Refreshments will be served.

After the reception, fans are invited to a 7:30 p.m. intrasquad scrimmage in the college gym.

He's still on the team...

Septien's kick a reminder

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Rafael Septien says he occasionally likes to remind the Dallas Cowboys he's still on the team.

Septien, whose job was in jeopardy in the off-season, kicked a game-winning 38-yard field goal with two seconds left on the clock on Sunday as the Dallas Cowboys defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 17-14 in an NFC Eastern division clash.

"I'm glad, in a way, things happened this way and this was a reminder to them that I'm still here," Septien said. "And that I can still do the job."

Septien had to compete with fourth-round draft pick Max Zendejas in summer camp. Zendejas was released and recently landed a job with the Washington Redskins.

Although the Dallas Cowboys had 10 quarterback sacks they still allowed the Eagles to move the ball, particularly on the ground.

"It wasn't a very pretty game for us," said Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry.

The Cowboys marched to a touchdown the first time they had the ball then struggled the rest of the way.

"I always hate to see us move down the field precisely as we did for the first touchdown because it usually means you don't do anything the rest of the day," Landry said.

The Cowboys gave up 217 yards rushing to the Eagles but managed to hang on to increase their record to 5-2.

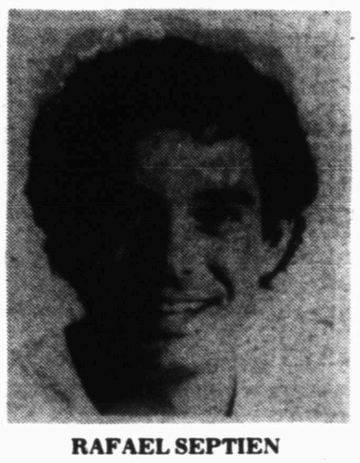

Eagles' quarterback Randall Cunningham wore out the Dallas defensive line with his scrambles.

"Randall can be a problem," Landry said. "He's quick and agile. Give him a lot of credit for keeping them in the game."

Landry praised Septien, saying "Rafael certainly did his job. It was a pressure situation."

Septien had physical problems last season.

He has a birth defect along his spinal cord which occasionally causes a bone to slip out of place and pinch a nerve in his lower back, causing his right leg to go numb.

RAFAEL SEPTIEN

It happened last season at halftime of the Cowboys' 20-0 playoff loss to the Los Angeles Rams and Septien couldn't kick at all.

Septien has hit seven of eight field goal attempts this year and hasn't missed on his last 18 attempts from inside 40 yards.

"I enjoy situations like the one I had against the Eagles," Septien said. "But you know what happens if I miss."

The Cowboys play St. Louis again on Sunday in Texas Stadium. They defeated the Cardinals 31-7 in St. Louis earlier this year.

Dallas was rated an 11-point favorite for the 3 p.m. kickoff.

Jets hand 1st loss to Denver Broncos

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - From the very beginning, it was clear that the New York Jets were ready to do something special.

What they did was shut down the NFL's highest-scoring team, ram the ball forward on the ground against the league's best rushing defense, and generally dominate the Denver Broncos in a 22-10 victory Monday night.

The win upped the Jets' record to 6-1 for the first time ever and kept them two games ahead of New England in the AFC East. It was the first loss for Denver, the NFL's last unbeaten team, which leads the AFC West by one game over Seattle. The Broncos host the Seahawks Sunday.

"You get out quick and get some points and you can control the game," Jets quarterback Pat Ryan said. "It makes a great difference."

So does an unyielding defense. The Jets struck for all of their points in the first half and allowed the Broncos a mere 24 yards of total offense and two first downs in the first 30 minutes.

"It was awfully close to perfect," defensive end Barry Bennett said of the opening half. "We'd get them 1-2-3 and punt, then our offense took it and scored."

Denver ran nine plays, including two punts, in the first quarter. The Jets marched 65 yards in 12 plays to a 1-yard touchdown dive by Johnny Hector and 56 yards in 10 plays to a 27-yard field goal by Pat Leahy in the opening period.

"I've got to take my hat off to the Jets," Broncos Coach Dan Reeves said. "They did a great job."

The second quarter wasn't much better for Denver, which fell behind 22-0 when Leahy added a 25-yard field goal following a 14-play, 49-yard march. Ken O'Brien replaced an injured Ryan and hit Wesley Walker with a 23-yard scoring pass, and Bobby Humphery sacked Denver quarterback John Elway in the end zone for a safety. Elway left the game in the fourth quarter after being hit on a scramble and suffering a possible concussion. He finished 13-for-28 for 145 yards and was sacked five times.

Denver also finished with five sacks, the most damaging of which was by Karl Mecklenburg on Ryan late in the second period. Ryan suffered bruised ribs and did not play again, winding up 9-for-10 for 73 yards.

Denver's only touchdown came in the fourth period on a 20-yard pass from backup quarterback QB Gary Kubiak to Sammy Winder that Winder caught after tight end Clarence Kay had tipped it.

UIL council says yes...

Girls can play junior high football

AUSTIN (AP) - The Legislative Council of the University Interscholastic League has voted to allow girls to play junior high school football in Texas but no widespread participation is expected this year.

The council's emergency amendment to UIL rules was approved 12-6 but still must be approved by the State Board of Education.

The board meets next on Nov. 8 but spokeswoman Terri Anderson said the proposal would not come before the board until January at the earliest, after football season is over.

The UIL Policy Committee recommended the rules change to the 20-member council Monday. The only comments were brief remarks by UIL Director Bailey Marshall.

The rule would make 7th and 8th grade girls eligible to play football but would not affect participation in high school football.

Marshall said two years ago when the council considered the question, the "medical evidence quite strongly indicated there were physical differences great enough" to prohibit girls from playing junior high school football.

"Now then, since that time there has been some change at that age level as regards to medical evidence," he said.

"I realize there are practical problems. However, considering all factors - safety, cost, inconveniences and legal considerations - I recommend we delete that section" that would allow only boys to play junior high football.

The council's action was prompted by a recent lawsuit challenging the 38-year-old UIL rule that has banned girls from playing football.

The suit was filed Sept. 26 by the Texas Civil Liberties Union and the parents of Tina Trejo, an 8th grader who tried out for her Bedichek Junior High football team this year. The suit claimed the UIL and Austin Independent School District violated the 14-year-old girl's constitutional rights.

Trejo, who is 5-foot-3 and weighs 162 pounds, made the team and has been playing under a judge's restraining order.

UIL Legislative Council votes to ease restrictions on coaches

AUSTIN (AP) - A council of school superintendents has voted to ease up on restrictions against baseball and basketball coaches.

A minority of the 20-member Legislative Council of the University Interscholastic League also sent a warning that it is not happy with what they said were constant demands for changes in soccer rules.

The council voted Monday to allow high school basketball coaches to stand in front of the team's bench to instruct players.

UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney said "this is not a great deal different than what officials are allowing coaches to do now." Nevertheless, the recommendation of the Athletic Committee only cleared the council by a 11-6 vote.

UIL rules now allow boys' and girls' basketball coaches to stand to call a time out or cheer on their team, and opponents of the proposed rule change said they felt it would lead to unruly crowds.

UIL Director Bailey Marshall said the current rule might have been "overkill" but had resulted in "better bench decorum this year than in the last eight to 10 years."

Killeen Superintendent Clarence Ham, a council member, said a crowd "takes its cue from a coach, and all the coach has to do is stand up with his hands on his hips to excite the crowd."

The council unanimously approved an emergency proposal to give baseball umpires the option of restricting a coach to the dugout rather than ejecting the coach from the game.

Farney said both football and basketball have interim penalties for unsportsmanlike conduct - a 15-yard penalty or technical foul - but baseball only has the ejection rule.

He said assessing a baseball team one out for unsportsmanlike conduct had once been considered but that seemed "kind of artificial" and the council felt "fans wouldn't understand."

The council rejected a recommendation by the Athletic Committee to let UIL member schools vote on deleting soccer as a UIL-sponsored sport.

A motion to table the proposal was approved but five council members voted against the motion, indicating they favored getting rid of soccer as a UIL sport.

San Antonio Superintendent Victor Rodriguez favored tabling the motion, saying soccer

Cannon sues NFL; claims negligence

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Former Dallas Cowboys linebacker Billy Cannon Jr. has filed a $9.6 million lawsuit, claiming that the career-ending back injury he suffered eight games into his rookie season was the result of negligence by the National Football League team.

Cannon, the Cowboys' No. 1 draft pick in 1984, played collegiate football at Texas A&M and is the son of Billy Cannon Sr., who won the Heisman Trophy while playing football at Louisiana State University. He later played professionally for the Houston Oilers and the then-Oakland Raiders.

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said he was not aware of the suit, but said he was not surprised.

"It's the typical plaintiff lawsuit that is causing all our insurance rates to soar," Schramm told the Dallas Morning News. "It comes out of nowhere, as far as I'm concerned. It doesn't surprise me; it's typical of our times."

Cannon's attorney claims the suit, filed in U.S. District Court here Monday, is the first of its kind in the nation and could change player-safety rules.

"There's going to be a lot of intriguing legal questions that have to be hurdled," Ross Brupbacher of Lafayette, La., said. "It could set some standards on duty and care concerning the health of players."

The lawyer acknowledged football is a dangerous sport, but he said more should be done to protect players.

"Everyone that plays knows it's a dangerous game, but there are significant numbers of players who are playing with risk of injury they need to be made aware of," he said.

The suit says Cannon was signed in May 1984 to a series of six one-year contracts worth $1.9 million, excluding performance bonuses.

Cannon aggravated a spinal condition known spinal stenosis when he tackled New Orleans Saints running back Wayne Wilson during a game on Oct. 28, 1984, the suit alleges.

After doctors told Cannon that if he continued to play football, he risked permanent paralysis, Cannon retired from football and returned to Baton Rouge.

A Dallas Cowboys spokesman said Monday that Joe Bailey, vice president for administration, who is handling the Cannon case, was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Cannon claims in the suit that he complained to the Cowboys before the Saints game of numbness in his upper body and upper extremities after making tackles.

Dr. Pat Evans, a member of the team's medical staff, said he did not recall Cannon having any complaints at all before the injury. He would not comment on the suit.

The suit also claims the Cowboys failed to diagnose the risk that Cannon was taking, failed to coach him properly in tackling methods that would have minimized his risk of injury, and failed to provide equipment that would have reduced the injury risk.

The lawyer said Cannon underwent several physical exams by the Cowboys and the NFL scouting combine and that the spinal condition should have been discovered.

Cannon was later diagnosed as having a spinal column that is too narrow and pinches against his vertebrae. Cannon was not aware of the condition before his injury, the lawyer said.

Cannon, who recently returned to Texas A&M to resume classes, could not be reached for comment.

Errors killing Oilers, says coach Glanville

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Coach Jerry Glanville spent a restless night following Sunday's 31-28 loss to Cincinnati counting up errors.

"I added up all the errors and it added up to 24 points for them and 21 points for us," Glanville said Monday.

But there was a difference in the errors made by the two teams.

"They (Cincinnati) probably aren't talking about their mistakes today because they won," Glanville said. "When you win, you tend to forget the mistakes you made."

The Oilers continued to play the opposition close until the final minutes and they continued to make mistakes, including nine penalties for 90 yards in losses.

Glanville is tired of the mistakes.

"If we have a grade sheet on you at the end of each game and the same guy makes mistakes week after week, it's fair to assume we owe it to the other players to find someone else," Glanville said.

"Sooner or later, the responsibility has to fall on people to get their jobs done and carry out their assignments and that includes me."

The Oilers appeared ready to break their five-game losing string when linebacker Robert Lyles scooped up a Cincinnati fumble and ran 93 yards for a touchdown with 1:06 left in the game.

But the Bengals drove back downfield for the winning touchdown on a 21-yard run by James Brooks on a perfectly executed trap play.

"We had two people in position to make the tackle and they missed him," Glanville said. "To his credit, Brooks seems to play better with age. He is their team right now."

The Oilers, 1-6 with six straight losses, now must prepare for Sunday's game in the Astrodome against the Los Angeles Raiders, who are on a four-game winning streak after Sunday's 30-28 victory over Miami.

"On the plus side, no one surrendered in a situation where you started to wonder what was going on," Glanville said. "They all kept playing hard and got back into the game.

"I felt bad for the defense because they played so hard for so long but couldn't get out of it in the last drive."

Even after Brooks' touchdown, the Oilers had one more chance to recover but Warren Moon was intercepted for the second time by rookie Daid Fulcher.

"For everything to turn around that quickly was emotionally draining on everyone," Glanville said.

UIL

"reaches youngsters that don't participate in other programs."

Superintendent Glenn Pearson of Bridge City, chairman of the Athletic Committee, stated that proponents of soccer had said "please let us in" but since soccer had been accepted as a UIL sport, there had been almost continuous efforts, including court cases, to change soccer rules.

Farney said eliminating soccer as a UIL sport "is not the answer."

"Some of you may not have been the best children but your family chose to keep you anyway," Farney said.

It was estimated that 12,000 Texas high school students now play varsity soccer.

The Legislative Council agreed to allow UIL member schools to vote on proposals that would:

- Prohibit a student from attending an athletic training camp during the school year and then competing on the varsity in that sport.

- Prohibit a baseball player from playing on a non-school baseball team from the start of school to the opening of the season.

All the proposals approved by the council, including those placed on the referendum, would have to be approved by the State Board of Education.

Mets have backs against wall as series resumes in Boston

BOSTON (AP) - The New York Mets have their backs against the wall and they hope to hit some balls over it.

After losing two games at home, the Mets send left-hander Bob Ojeda against the Boston Red Sox tonight in Game 3 of the World Series in Fenway Park, the stadium famous for the 37-foot high "Green Monster" in left field.

"Right now, we're not worried about how to pitch here," Ojeda, who was 18-5 for New York during the regular season after being traded by the Red Sox in the offseason, said. "We're worried about winning a game. You can't change your style (because of the wall). You've got to pitch your game.

"After a while, the wall can be intimidating. But, it's there. You have to do what you have to do. You have to throw strikes. If you walk people and somebody hits a wall-ball, it can add up in a hurry."

The Mets have to hope that some "wall-balls" will add up to a victory. Only the 1985 Kansas City Royals lost the first two games at home and rallied to win the World Series. Only nine of the 37 teams to fall behind 2-0 have rebounded to become world champions.

The Mets, who were given the day off Monday by Manager Dave Johnson, have to begin to come alive offensively against Boston right-hander Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd. New York is the first team not to have at least one extra-base hit in the first two games of a World Series since the 1939 Cincinnati Reds, who were swept by the New York Yankees.

"I think our bats have to be the key now," pitching coach Mel Stottlemyre, at Fenway Monday to supervise a workout by Game 4 pitcher Ron Darling, said. "Especially now that we're in their ballpark. If we get some runs, we'll be OK.

"I think it's not so much a matter of Bob Ojeda and Ron Darling holding them down. We're on the road now, where we don't have last crack at them. I think that's important that we get on the board early.

"Hitting is contagious. It's not unusual when one guy gets hot that everybody gets hot, too."

Then the other end of the spectrum must hold true as well because the Mets, who led the National League in hitting and runs scored during the regular season, hit just .189 against the Houston Astros in the playoffs.

Stottlemyre noted that the Mets won 53 of 82 road games this year.

"You still have to have a sense that if we get our game going, we have a chance to get back to Shea. That's all we can hope for now," Stottlemyre said of Games 6 and 7, which would be played in New York.

"We're going to throw a good pitcher out there every game. We're committed to coming back with Dwight (Gooden) in Game 5."

"I don't think we're feeling upset and we're not scared," Darling, a right-hander, said. "But, I don't think anybody who's watched the last two games doesn't think we have to turn it on.

"Whether the Red Sox will allow us to, remains to be seen. But, you have to say our backs are to the wall. I hope we'll turn it on again."

Texas man keeps Billy the Kid legend alive

HICO, Texas (AP) — Forget the legend. Billy the Kid died in 1950 of a heart attack.

Downed not by bullets, but by old age, right in front of the old Hico News Review in downtown Hico.

Bob Hefner, the justice of the peace in this Hamilton County town of 1,375, will tell you so.

Ollie L. "Brushy Bill" Roberts dropped dead on Dec. 28, 1950, three days shy of his 92nd birthday. Some Hico residents remember his claims that he was Billy the Kid, Hefner says, but most just wrote it off at the time as "talk."

Hefner, who returned to his roots in Hico nine years ago to escape the Dallas bustle and become the only elected Republican in the county, said his curiosity piqued the more he heard talk around town about the man who claimed to be the Kid.

He talked to Hico folks who had known "Brushy Bill" and pored over newspaper clippings and the few documents he could find. The result is a booklet Hefner published in his tiny print shop entitled "The Hico Legend of Billy the Kid" just in time for Hico's 100th Old Settlers Reunion earlier this year.

"They preach to you (in JP school) to decide a case on the preponderence of the evidence," Hefner said. "At this point, if all the evidence is in, it's in 'Brushy Bill's' favor. I believe the old boy's who's he said he was."

He said the Kid's granddaughter in Missouri wrote him after receiving his booklet and asked "What's the big deal? We knew this all along."

The legend of Billy the Kid's death goes like this: Billy escaped from a Lincoln. N.M., jail in April 1881, killing two deputies. The Kid's former friend, Pat Garrett, sheriff of Lincoln County, N.M., and two deputies tracked him to the home of Pete Maxwell in Fort Sumner, N.M.

On July 14, 1881, legend says, Garrett shot Billy the Kid dead in Maxwell's bedroom. But Hefner quotes one of the deputies as saying, "Pat Garrett, you have killed the wrong man."

Billy was buried in Fort Sumner cemetery the next day, ultimately bringing a tourist goldmine to the New Mexico town. But is it really Billy the Kid, buried in that grave?

Hefner believes not. He's more inclined to believe that the death was a ruse, designed to allow Billy to escape from the public eye. It's more likely, he says, that a derelict was buried in the Kid's place.

No birth certificate for Billy the Kid has been found.

Within a year after his "death" at the age of 21, the Kid was romanticized into an outlaw hero who had killed at least 21 men, Hefner said.

He says the legend of the Billy the Kid was just a romantic farce designed to sell dime novels and movies.

"The Kid was not an outlaw. He didn't rob banks or stagecoaches," Hefner contends. "He never had a stand-up shootout. He didn't fast draw his gun. In the biggest shoot-out he ever had, he stood behind an adobe wall."

Hefner said his research shows the Kid may have been guilty of cattle rustling and the slayings of two deputies as he escaped from jail in Lincoln, but little more.

Whether or not "Brushy Bill" was Billy the Kid, Hefner acknowledges that he wants the Kid's mystique to turn a spotlight on this tiny community 180 miles northwest of Waco which relies on ranching and dairy farming.

"I'm practical enough that I'd like to bring this around to where Hico could enjoy a little tourism off this," he said. "I kind of daydream about a museum and maybe a statue in the park."

Hefner also envisions a local play about the life of Billy the Kid and-or "Brushy Bill," as an annual event to help celebrate the town's history. "That's what tourism is all about — each town telling its own story in its own way."

Gov. White, Clements debate paroles

AUSTIN (AP) — Responsibility for paroling too many criminals is the latest point of contention between Gov. Mark White and his Repubilcan opponent, Bill Clements.

White, campaigning for reelection in Palestine on Monday, said Clements is misleading voters with a television commercial that suggests White is to blame for the mugging of a woman featured in the ad.

In the commercial, a woman tells of the incident and suggests that policies of the White administration might be responsible.

"It's a shame Susan Key was the victim of a crime. What is also a shame is the hypocriscy of Bill Clements. It's a shame Bill Clements failed to tell Susan Key, and fails to tell the people of Texas, that he vetoed prisons — prisons that could have held criminals like the one who attacked Susan Key," White said.

"It's a shame Bill Clements didn't tell her about the 28,000 inmates he personally paroled, including 19 criminals who committed murder and are now sitting on death row," the Democrat added.

Responding, Clements said Ms. Key volunteered to appear in the commercial because of her strong feelings that something needed to be done "to help bring attention to an unjust criminal justice system."

Clements said he wasn't surprised by White's reaction.

"Because Susan Key's story is not an isolated incident. Unfortunately, her plight has become an all-too-familiar occurrence as our citizens are plagued by an increasing number of felons as the result of Mark White's early release program," Clements said.

White said that under his administration, prison capacity has been expanded by nearly 10,000 beds and that plans for another 6,500 have been approved.

"We're doing something about criminal justice and the problems Bill Clements left us. Bill Clements' approach was to cut — to veto needed prison space. Our approach is to build more prisons," White said.

Clements said White is trying to "dodge the facts" about paroles.

"White's administration has paroled 42,656 inmates since becoming governor, an increase of 54 percent more than when I was governor," Clements said.

Nuclear power money goes to county

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Matagorda County and the Palacios Independent School District aren't too worried about the current oil slump hurting most of Texas since they have taxes from the South Texas Nuclear Project to lean on.

George Holst, county tax-assessor-collector, said he was aware of the plant's benefits since the 1973 announcement that it was going to be built near Bay City.

Only a small portion of the plant has been taxed. State law exempts two of the four owners, the cities of Austin and San Antonio, from taxation.

Only 63.5 percent of the shares owned by Central Power & Light and Houston Lighting & Power have been placed on the tax rolls because the plant is under construction, O'Connell said. The two utility companies own 56 percent of the plant.

But that still leaves a tax base of $1.22 billion, plus about a $25 million base generated by equipment at the site owned by 20 independent contractors, said Jim Carpenter, district manager for Prichard and Abbott, the firm contracted to appraise property in the county.

"The entire plant will go on the tax rolls once it's completed," O'Connell said.

"We know that we're in a fortunate situation, but we still have problems that we need to take of," County Judge Burt O'Connell said.

The problems — rapid population growth, road wear and an increased need for law enforcement — seem routine during a time when many other taxing agencies in Texas are considering raising taxes and reducing services. Taxes haven't been increased in years in this rural county about 80 miles southwest of Houston.

Matagorda County's tax rate is 28 cents, while the school district rate is expected to remain at 46 cents per $100 of assessed value, officials said.

Palacios, near the Gulf of Mexico in the southern part of the county, has been building on a cash basis.

SUSAN KOLB

Memorial scholarship is presented

The Lynn Palmer Memorial Scholarship, which honors the 1962 graduate of Snyder High School, was awarded this year to a Houston girl, Susan Kolb.

The scholarship was begun in 1983 by friends and family of Lynn Palmer, a school teacher up until his death. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Haney of 411 32nd St.

This year's recipient is a beginning freshman at Sul Ross State University, where Palmer earned a masters degree in education in 1967. He also held a bachelor of science degree in education received from North Texas State University.

During his educational career, he taught school in Farris, Ira, Big Bend National Park and Grandfalls-Royalty.

Local due at POW reunion

John W. Kimzey of Hermleigh, who survived 4½ years as a prisoner of war in Manchuria, China during World War II, will join a small group of his fellow survivors in Dallas this weekend for a reunion.

His wife will join him on the Dallas trip.

Of some 1,600 U.S. troops originally imprisoned in the Phillippines and sent to Manchuria, only some 400 survived the journey there by sea.

Of these 400, only approximately 100 survived the 4½ years of captivity. Some 30 of these remain, Kimzey said.

Senior citizens photographs are slated this week

Senior citizens are reminded that photographs for permanent identification cards will be made in the Senior Center Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Hours on Wednesday will be 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Thursday hours will be 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4:30 p.m. Friday hours will be 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m.

There is no charge for the ID cards, which carry important information about the bearer and also entitle the bearer to discounts at numerous local businesses and to free admission to Western Texas College basketball games.

Meat inspection plans streamlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat processors say new federal inspection procedures that will be allowed under a bill passed in the final hours of the 99th Congress are a major victory for the industry.

The American Meat Institute, a national trade association representing meat packers and processors, expects President Reagan to sign the legislation, which cleared the Senate last Friday night.

One consumer advocate said her group wanted the legislation to have stricter safeguards but did not oppose the bill's passage.

Under the measure, federal inspection regulations will be amended so that processors who meet Agriculture Department standards would not be bound to the traditional requirement calling for continuous inspection of every animal carcass or bird that moves along the processing line.

Instead, approved plants would have greater control and responsibility for day-to-day operations, with less direct supervision by federal inspectors. Only those plants meeting USDA criteria would be allowed the new flexibility.

"The change will enhance USDA's ability to assure consumers a safe and wholesome meat supply while, at the same time, reducing the cost of the inspection program," C. Manly Molpus, AMI president, said Monday.

Federal officials estimate the new program, subject to USDA regulations to be issued once the measure officially becomes law, will save about $27 million a year in inspection costs.

Molpus said the bill was in line with recommendations by the National Academy of Sciences and the USDA's office of inspector general.

The USDA will use three basic criteria for determining the level of inspection at a particular plant, Molpus said: the nature and frequency of the company's processing operations; the adequacy and reliability of its processing controls and sanitary procedures; and the plant's history of compliance with federal inspection requirements.

Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng, who once served as president of AMI, led administration support for the legislation, which had been advocated in one form or another since the late 1970s in the Carter administration. In 1979, for example, USDA began a voluntary pilot program allowing a small number of processors to handle their own quality control.

The Reagan administration advocated early on that continuous inspection of meat and poultry be modified so the industry could take advantage of new techniques and streamline procedures. However, many consumer groups had reservations about allowing more flexibility unless stiff penalties and other safeguards were included.

Ellen Haas, executive director of Public Voice, a private, nonprofit consumer advocacy group, said she did not oppose the bill that passed Congress but still held some reservations about its content.

"The bill does contain some very important provisions to increase the monitoring of chemical residues and microbiological problems," Ms. Haas said in an interview. "The pressure is going to be increased on the department (USDA) to provide needed inspection where they had not been doing it before."

Moreover, she said, the bill included a sunset provision so that if the new system fails to prove itself within six years the old system of continuous federal inspection will resume.

"We have to realize that this is a precedent and that, above all, the meat inspection program is a public health program ... The responsibility is now on the department" to maintain that standard, Ms. Haas said.

For more than 80 years, she said, amendments to the federal meat inspection act have been directed at the protection of consumers, adding that "this is the first time the law has been changed for reasons of cost efficiency and modernization."

Who are the people who write letters to the editor?

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Peggy McCrary likely wrote her first letter to a newspaper editor 30 years ago when she was a bride in her native Albuquerque, N.M. But, she said, she's long forgotten what it was about.

Since then she's taken pen in hand to protest traffic near her family's corner house in El Paso, and the practice of starting parades with sirens in Carlsbad, N.M.

Mrs. McCrary, who moved to Odessa in 1979, first wrote to The Odessa American more than three years ago, when she decried a syndicated column by Dr. George W. Crane.

"Oh, I thought it was terrible," said Mrs. McCrary. "He thought women should be barefoot and pregnant and stay at home."

A regular contributor to The American's letters-to-the-editor columns, Mrs. McCrary recently took exception with an area school system's hair code and newspaper print that rubs off on hands.

"Just one little thing will tick me off, and I will decide to spout off about it," said the mother of four, who considers herself "just a housewife."

Mrs. McCrary, who has a degree in advertising and worked briefly as a copywriter, also hasn't hesitated to telephone the paper to point out a misspelling.

And she remembers coming in one day with a dayglow orange and green sign with the correct spelling of "florescent."

"They probably said, 'that kook,'" she said.

Mrs. McCrary, a golfer and bowler who considers herself a liberal, insists she writes about "pretty frivolous" topics — she has a scrapbook of her calligraphy that includes the pithy plea, "Lord fill my mouth with worthwhile stuff — and nudge me when I've said enough."

In contrast to Mrs. McCrary, Malcolm Tweedy's correspondence centers on world affairs: the need for "peaceful negotiations" despite the Soviet arrest of a U.S. journalist or concern that this country is planning to expand military commitments in Nicaragua.

"I feel I follow a policy that is common sense," said Tweedy, who with his wife owns the Stone Village Motel in Alpine. "You might say I'm an enlightened person."

Born to Americans living in London, the 64-year-old Tweedy boasts a "complex background."

His father was a native of San Angelo who headed an American brokerage company in England. Tweedy served in the U.S. military in World War II and majored in French and German at Princeton University.

In the 1940s, he wrote for The San Angelo Standard Times and later taught at a private elementary school in Pennsylvania for 25 years.

"I'm a historian by trade," said Tweedy, who returned in 1978 to Alpine, where he and his wife once operated old Fort Davis as a tourist attraction for about two years.

He scribes his concerns every couple of weeks, often sending them to publications worldwide.

"I just have a lot of fun in life," said Tweedy, who puts on a melodrama every year and reports weather for a Midland television station. "I haven't had an unhappy moment in a long, long while."

T.S. Nettleton, retired office manager for Gulf Pipeline who has lived in Odessa since 1936, also is a familiar name in The American's letters-to-the editor columns.

The 85-year-old Nettleton said he first wrote about nine years ago after he read someone else's comments about the area's history.

"I thought, 'Shucks, he don't know nothing,'" he said.

Nettleton, who terms himself a "conservative," remembers the most disturbing topic that prompted him to write was city parking meters. "I just thought there was more space than there were parking meters," he said. "I just couldn't see any use in them."

One who compiles a scrapbook of his printed letters, he speculates "just ego" keeps his letters flowing. People he meets around town often inquire, "When are you going to write another letter?" he said.

He routinely asks his wife of 52 years to pass judgment on his missives before they're mailed. He notes she nixed only one, about making cigarettes from loose tobacco.

"I'm not very articulate," Nettleton said. "I wouldn't know a dangling participle from some of those other terms."

Another longtime writer is Joe Seay, insurance agency owner and president of Odessans for Decency.

Seay said he began his letter-writing campaign about 10 years ago, prompted into action by a proposal to sell liquor by the drink.

The 52-year-old Seay, who's raised four kids and lived in Odessa for 30 years, said he's "a straight arrow" who hails from a sheltered, Baptist background in Arkansas.

He said his recent letters have sought to educate the public that Odessans for Decency is a "peaceful, prayerful" group and that obscenity isn't protected by the U.S. Constitution's First Amendment.

Seay, who estimated he's written letters to newspapers 50 times, said he believes he recently swayed some citizens to his way of thinking.

"There are always those negative calls, but more recently they've been fewer and fewer," he said.

Former Department of Public Safety Trooper Ray E. Garnett is among the newspaper's newer contributors.

The 53-year-old Garnett, who quit the DPS after 13 years and moved to Odessa 13 years ago to become a self-employed carpenter, wrote first in September to defend pari-mutuel betting.

"I guess I'm reaching the golden age where I sit around and don't have anything better to do than write letters to the editor," he said. "The Baptist preachers got me riled when they started calling all the race track people sleazy."

Garnett said he's written a second letter, as yet unpublished, and has more pressing issues on his mind.

"I been smittened by the bug, I think," he said, noting he has an inclination to "tackle the untouchables" — like ministers and judges.

Couple went on spree

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A teen-age couple accused of slaying two Harlingen winter residents went on a spending spree with the dead couple's credit cards about the time they were reported missing last spring, witnesses testified in a murder trial.

Merchants from Brownsville and Harlingen testified Monday the couple charged hundreds of dollars in merchandise on the credit cards of Jean and Keith Nordyke.

The testimony came in the first day of the trial of Federico Rivera, 19, who is charged with capital murder in the deaths of the Raytown, Mo., couple. Rivera's wife, Tammi, 18, is to be tried next month.

Rivera accompanied his wife on all of the shopping trips, which included the Sunrise Mall Sears store and an Exxon service station in Harlingen, and did most of the talking, according to the testimony. Charges included four new tires for $294, an AM-FM radio for $150, shock absorbers and stereo speakers.

The local purchases reportedly took place March 27-31.

The Nordykes, who maintained homes in Harlingen and Raytown, Mo., were discovered with their hands bound floating in the Rio Grande April 3, a week after they were reported missing. They had been stabbed repeatedly.

Earlier Monday, the son of the Nordykes testified that he believed something "drastic" had happened when his parents disappeared mysteriously.

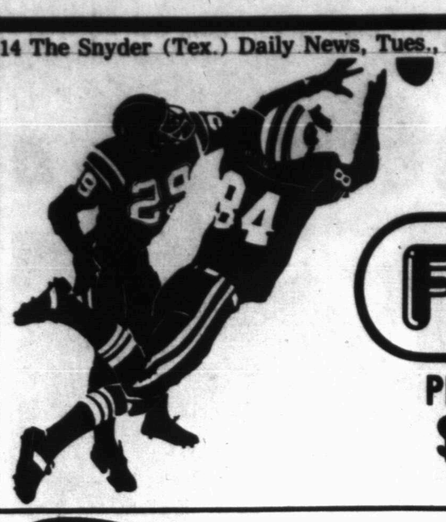

Steve Nordyke, a 33-year-old Raytown lawyer, said he flew into nearby Harlingen the afternoon after he was notified their winter home had been found empty by guests arriving at a scheduled dinner party.

"I had never known them to ever miss such an engagement before," Nordyke said. "I thought something drastic had happened."

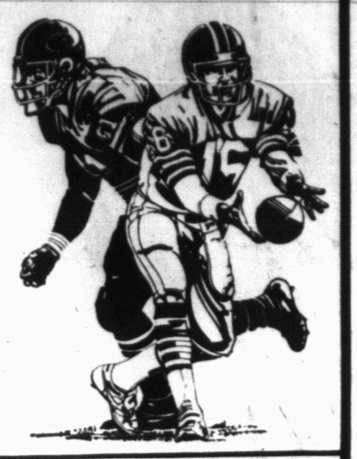

John B. Carey Jr. testified he had known the Nordykes about three years. He said he and his wife went to their Harlingen home at about 6:30 p.m. on March 28 for the party. He filed a missing persons report that night and called their son the next morning.

Nordyke said he checked on his parents' bank accounts and found no unusual withdrawals and then called a Kansas City bank that issued his parents their Visa credit cards. He said he authorized credit card companies to honor any credit purchases, but to stall anyone using the cards until police could arrive to question them.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

PERFECT SCORE $100.00

FIRST PRIZE $12.50

SECOND PRIZE $5.00

Entries Must Be In By NOON FRIDAY

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, SNYDER DAILY NEWS, BOX 949, or bring your entry by the News Office. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 12 o'clock noon, Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the score for that game only and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second prize winners. In case of a tie for a perfect score, the same formula would apply.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all the person's entries. Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the Snyder Daily News and their families are not eligible to enter.
