FORT WORTH WINS PENNANT IN BITTER GAME

Temple, Okla., Kidnaper-Burglars Sought In River Bottoms Near Burkburnett

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Ross Sterling, Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, will not have to worry any over his election for that is a foregone conclusion. But if he doesn't have to worry about his election, he will doubtless be worried by persons seeking appointment to office.

Those who attended the Democratic state convention at Galveston recently got the impression that there was an unusually large number of patriots in that convention who would be willing to sacrifice themselves upon the altar of service for their state, more particularly service that would be rewarded with salaries or political favors.

We hope that Ross Sterling will disappoint a large number of such patriots, and if he follows his practice as highway commissioner these political syncophants will have to look elsewhere for sustenance, for appointments in the highway service have been generally made on merit and those who have been appointed have kept their jobs by giving honest value in work.

The new governor will be called upon to name 152 officials for the state of Texas ranging from a highway commissioner who will be responsible for the expenditure of more money than all the rest of the state government combined and multiplied several times, down to those who receive $5 for an occasional day's work.

Governor Moody will probably make the first appointment for the new governor and that appointment will be a chairman of the state highway commission to succeed Mr. Sterling himself. Mr. Sterling has not indicated when he will resign but doubtless he will resign in the near future. And while Governor Moody will likely make the appointment of Mr. Sterling's successor doubtless it will be someone who has Mr. Sterling's approval and whom Mr. Sterling will continue in office after he becomes governor.

The new governor will appoint four officials who will receive a larger salary than the governor himself. These officials are: State banking commissioner, board of control member, state health officer and industrial accident board member. The state banking commissioner receives a salary of $6,000 per annum.

There comes to Talker's desk a brochure on the Morgan horse. The breed of Morgan horses sprang from a horse owned by Justin Morgan who moved from West Springfield, Mass., to Randolph, Vt., in 1788. Mr. Morgan returned to West Springfield in 1795 to collect some money owing him and brought back with him to Randolph a 3-year-old stallion which he had taken in on a debt. The dam and sire of this horse are unknown but it sired a breed of horses that carried pioneers across the mountains into Kentucky, Tennessee and Ohio and Indiana and thence throughout the West and Southwest.

The Morgan horse quickly became noted, as it continues to this day, for its intelligence, its beauty, its carriage, action and animation and for its power and smoothness and endurance. The pioneers rode incredible distances upon these horses and the breed of horses seemed to match the breed of men in courage and endurance and in ability to subsist upon the untamed land.

Later when improved roads made possible the use of buggies and larger clearings made practical the use of larger and heavier plows, horses of heavier breed largely supplanted the Morgans. Now the motor car and the tractor are supplanting these heavier horses and more and more horses are now being owned for pleasure and recreation rather than for work in the fields and on the road. For such uses the Morgan horse has a deserved popularity.

GANG TRAILED ACROSS BRIDGE TO FARM HOME

Automobile Stolen by Band In Raid at Temple Is Discovered

TWO MEN ABDUCTED

City Marshal and Watchman Forced to Accompany Bandits on Ride

Four men who slugged and kidnaped the city marshal and a bakery employe of Temple, Okla., Sunday night, after robbing a hardware store there, had been traced across the Burkburnett railroad bridge early Monday morning, the chief of police's office at Burkburnett reported Monday night.

Officers at that place, in Wichita Falls and other Northwest Texas towns spent the entire day keeping a close watch for the quartet of bandits who threw B. L. Taylor, Temple city marshal, and Granville Thurman, bakery watchman, from their car near Burkburnett, after a wild ride from Temple. The automobile was abandoned on the Oklahoma side of the river, where it was found Monday morning by officers.

Tracks Discovered

Tracks from the car led from the spot where the four crossed the river, straight to a farm house about three-quarters of a mile from town where four strange men asked for a drink of water this morning at 7:30.

After securing entrance to the Tandy Hardware company at Temple and taking ammunition and guns, the men were seen by City Marshal Taylor near the Howell bakery. Taylor approached the men and while questioning one of them, was slugged from the rear by another. Hearing the disturbance, Granville Thurman, watchman at the bakery rushed to the front of the store and gave an alarm. He then slammed and locked the door of the place. One of the men knocked the glass from the door, entered and pursued Thurman. As Thurman fled through the rear door of the bakery he was met by another of the robbers and was also slugged, he told police.

Automobile Stolen

After taking a small sum of money from the bakery cash register, the men left one of their members to guard Taylor and Thurman and made their way to the Campbell Motor company, where they forced an entrance, took a new Ford touring car, returned to the bakery and forced their two captives into the machine, officers were informed.

As the robbers were making their escape, J. M. Simpson, a blacksmith of Temple, was awakened and fired several shots at the car.

Bound and gagged, Thurman and Taylor were thrown from the car near Burkburnett. The car was abandoned at Devol, Okla. They were uninjured and were able to return to Temple Monday.

Ruth Charges Impending Wire Tapping Disclosure Causes Nye To Rest Quiz

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (AP)—Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for the United States senate, tonight issued a statement charging that Senator Gerald P. Nye adjourned the session of his senate investigating committee abruptly today because he feared that sensational disclosures reflecting on the committee were impending.

Mrs. McCormick said she was ready to prove investigators for the Nye committee had tapped her telephone wires and added:

"I say that if Senator Nye had knowledge of wire tapping by his employes, he is unfit to be a United States senator and unfit to be chairman of a senatorial committee."

ATTORNEY GENERAL ENTERS SCENE

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (US)—Appearance of Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom in behalf of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, a suspected double kidnaping and the apprehension of one of Mrs. McCormick's detectives who had shadowed Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, were incidents marking today's brief session of the campaign funds investigating committee of which Nye is chairman.

Carlstrom was not allowed to speak but it was reported that, as attorney general of Illinois, he proposes to contest the right of the committee to investigate a state primary.

Agents Disappear

Attorney Harry Meyers announced the strange disappearance of Frank Ortlepp, an investigator for the committee, and George Cole, said to be his assistant, when he applied for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of the investigators.

He said the writ merely was for the purpose of tracing the two men who, he said, had been spirited away from their apartment by men professing to be operatives from the state's attorney's office but whom he suspected of being gangsters.

R. F. Bashford, one of the two detectives employed by the W. C. Dannenberg Detective agency to trail Senator Nye, was taken into custody by department of justice agents. He had skipped out when Nye sought to question him in Fargo, N. D., last month. He was released on $1,000 bonds and was to be questioned by the committee later.

Actor Drops Dead

Milton Sills, for years prominent as a screen star dropped dead in Los Angeles Monday night. Physicians attributed his death to heart disease.

DEATH CLAIMS MILTON SILLS

Famous Actor Drops Dead In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15. (UP)—Within an hour after he completed a strenuous tennis match with his daughter at his Brentwood Heights estate, Milton Sills, a noted screen actor, died of heart disease tonight.

Sills, apparently in excellent spirits and health when he went to the court in the later afternoon with his daughter, Dorothy, 18, became ill while playing.

Wife Sees Collapse

His present wife, Doris Kenyon, former screen actress, was watching the game from a window when she saw her husband suddenly drop his racket and motion to Dorothy. With his daughter, Sills entered the house and complained of violent heart pains and nausea.

Dorothy ran next door for Dr. Edward Jones, the family physician who was not at home. Another physician, Dr. Jack Steele, was summoned by Miss Kenyon.

Dr. Steele arrived at the home with a police pulmotor squad while Sills still was alive. Pulmotor and adrenalin treatments were given but failed to aid the actor, who died within a few minutes.

Miss Kenyon, Dorothy, Sills' small son, Kenyon, Mrs. James B. Kenyon, his mother-in-law, and Jack Goodrich, family friend, were present.

Sills and Miss Kenyon were married in October, 1926, a short time after he was divorced by Gwladys Edith Wynne, whom he wed in London in 1910. Dorothy was a child of the first marriage.

Studious Interests

Most of Sills' fame came as a result of his work in silent pictures. His health began to fail about the time that talking pictures came to Hollywood. At one time both he and Miss Kenyon were ill in the East at the same time.

The actor was a student of art and literature and, in addition to

Orchestra Plays Softly as Farmer Receives Rejuvenating Goat Glands

MILFORD, Kan., Sept. 15. (UP)—Members of the Kansas state medical board, seeking to revoke the practicing license of Dr. John R. Brinkley, self-admitted restorer of health and youth, today saw the Milford physician peform his three goat gland transplantation operations all at the same time.

Dr. Brinkley, charged with quackery, fraud and unprofessional conduct by the Kansas medical fraternity, drafted the glands of two goats into Claude Pierce, Red Cloud, Neb., 41, and P. M. Krager, Minneapolis, Kan., 58, both farmers.

Instead of performing his three operations separately, Dr. Brinkley took a short cut, doing his two-phase, four-phase, and four-phase compound treatments, on Pierce. Dr. Brinkley also demonstrated to the witnesses the manner in which he took the glands from young goats.

The operations were performed to the soft strains of music, played by the orchestra of Dr. Brinkley's radio broadcasting station. Each step in the operation was explained by Brinkley who declared both Pierce and Krager would find themselves rejuvenated.

Dr. J. F. Hassig, chairman of the state medical board, refused to discuss either Dr. Brinkley's method or procedure. An official report will be made at Topeka tomorrow when the Milford physician's hearing is reopened.

Dr. Brinkley was aided in his demonstration by a full corps of nurses and assistants. Talking and working at the same time, the doctor said he usually charged from $350 to $750 for the treatments Pierce received.

Government Wins Suit To Break Up Alleged Oil Price Fixing Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. (US)—Entry of a consent decree disrupting a huge combination of oil companies, charged with fixing and controlling gasoline prices in five Pacific coast states, was announced by the department of justice tonight.

The decree, entered by United States District Judge St. Sure at San Francisco, terminated the Sherman law action brought by Attorney General Mitchell last February against the Standard Oil company of California and 17 other oil companies.

The government charged that big companies—Standard of California, Texas, General Petroleum, Richfield Union and Associated—controlled the supply of gasoline, fixed the retail price and obtained the support of independents in maintaining this price by purchasing from the independents all their unsold gasoline.

Price-cutting by filling station operators was punished by withholding supplies of gasoline, it was alleged.

Contracts for repurchase of gasoline from the independents were declared illegal in the decree. All defendants were enjoined from "carrying out the conspiracy charged or any other conspiracy of like character," the department said. Any "common understanding" to fix prices also was banned, as well as any collective refusal to sell to price-cutting dealers.

ARCHER WINS ROAD PERMIT

State Authorizes Drainage On Highway 25

Archer county was authorized to proceed with partial construction of highway 25 from Archer City to the Wichita county line by the action of the state highway commission in Austin Monday, according to Associated Press dispatches received here. The county was given leave to improve three miles of the Archer City end and four and one-half miles of the Wichita county end.

The project is to be financed by Archer county, the state to give additional aid next year and complete the road on a 50-50 basis.

The proposed road runs from Archer City through Mankins and on to connect with the Electra highway at the Wichita county line, a stretch of approximately 22 miles. County Judge Harry Pearston and members of the commissioners court were in Austin Monday in behalf of the project, asking that the drainage and grading be authorized at once. The improvements sought by the court would involve an outlay of $150,000, it was estimated. The road has already been designated and most of the right-of-way obtained, it was explained.

Commissioners C. L. Abercrombie, J. H. Rayburn of Dundee and A. M. Carter of Holliday accompanied Judge Pearston to Austin.

West Texas Group Urges Special Session to Hasten Drouth Relief

HASKELL, Texas, Sept. 15. (AP)—Plans for setting up drouth relief machinery in certain sections of West Texas moved forward another slow step here today in a conference attended by about 250 persons. The meeting was of Governor Moody's state relief committee with Red Cross officers, county agents, members of county relief committees and bankers.

Nearly a hundred bankers were on hand to consider the statement of M. H. Gossett that federal relief in drouth sections must come through the formation of local production loan associations organized under auspices of and working with the federal intermediate credit bank of Houston, of which Gossett is president.

Plans were launched to organize a series of these corporations, either one per county, with a capital stock of $25,000 or about 10 for the defined territory as a whole, each with capital of $50,000.

Chairmen were appointed to go back to the various counties and sound out business interests as to raising the capital stock.

The commitee recommended to the governor that he immediately call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of passing such legislation as will enable the state, through the counties, to render financial aid to its citizens in the drouth stricken areas.

DECIDING TILT BORDERS UPON FISTIC BATTLE

Four Players Injured As Teams Strive Hard For Top Honors

TOO MUCH LIL STONER

Panther Ace Holds Spudders To Six Hits as Mates Win by 3 to 2

By FRED D. THOMPSON
Record News Sports Editor

FORT WORTH, Sept. 15.—The first half champion Wichita Falls Spudders went down to defeat today in a battle of crunching bones, and the defeat lost for them the championship of the Texas league.

In one of the bitterest contests the league has ever known, in which battles with fists threatened to supersede the battle on the diamond, and in which the Fort Worth Cats threw to the howling winds that shriek over cowtown one of the most venerable of Texas league traditions, the Spudders lost 3 to 2, and left the battle ground just another ball club instead of with banners flying.

COMMENCEMENT

FORT WORTH, Sept. 15.—Spudder President William E. Huff announced here tonight that Jim Levey, shortstop; Jack Burns, first baseman; Jack Crouch, catcher; and Lin Storti, second baseman on the Spudder team, will report at once for duty with the St. Louis Browns. The quartet is expected to leave Wichita Falls on the earliest train Tuesday.

It had been arranged, Prexy Huff said, that in case the Spudders lost the Texas league championship the four men should report immediately to the Browns. Had the team defeated Fort Worth Monday the players would have remained with the Wichita Falls club through the Dixie series. The players were sold to the Browns about a month ago.

Precedent Broken

For the first time in the history of the modern Texas league a second half winner tonight was enthroned as the championship club of the Texas league with the right to meet the Memphis Chicks in the annual Dixie series. Never before in the modern history of the loop has a second half winner come through to beat out the first half champions in the last stretch.

But the Cats did it today, in a manner that was heart-breaking to all of 1,500 Wichitans who came here longing to see the old precedent hold water once again. They beat out the first half champions not only in the last stretch, but in the last ditch, in the fifth game of the series, after the Spudders, by the pitching of Hal Wiltse and timely swats by his mates, had won two of the preceding play-off games to deadlock the series.

Pitching Aplenty

The Spudders had the pitching today—plenty of it. Big Milton Steengrafe, calm headed in the heat of the fray, limited the Cowtowners to 10 scattered hits—a job of pitching good enough to win any game, even a championship game such as this was, but his mates failed, his slugging mates failed horribly.

Here is the reason the Spudders lost: Lil Stoner allowed them only six hits. That tells the whole story. Any other day they would have bounced him out with a barrage. But this was not the sluggers day. Sluggers are like that. They have

TWO HARDWARE CONCERNS JOIN

Penick-Hughes and Ed S. Hughes Merge

A consolidation of the Penick-Hughes company of Wichita Falls and Stamford, wholesale hardware concern and the Ed S. Hughes company of Abilene, has been approved by directors of both companies and will become effective upon the sanction of the stockholders, meetings of which have been called for an early date, according to R. E. Penick, manager of the Wichita Falls branch of the Penick-Hughes company. The combined capital of the two companies exceeds $1,000,000.

The result of this consolidation, according to Mr. Penick, is that the Penick-Hughes company will continue in the retail hardware business at Stamford and will assign its wholesale business at Wichita Falls and Stamford to the Ed S. Hughes company. The Ed S. Hughes company will conduc the wholesale business in the territory that was formerly covered by both concerns, giving the E. S. Hughes company jobbing houses a. Wichita Falls, San Angelo and Lubbock. The consolidation is being made to effect savings in operating expenses, Mr. Penick said.

The Ed S. Hughes company was established in Abilene in 1882 by Ed S. Hughes, with R. L. Penick starting a hardware business in Anson in 1884. In 1900 R. L. Penick became associated with Mr. Hughes, the two forming the Penick-Hughes company at Anson and opening a branch at Stamford in the same year. The store in Stamford was the first business house in that city. The Wichita Falls branch was established in 1919.

Nye Adjourns Ballot Inquiry

before the committee, as he said, "in behalf of the state and Mrs. McCormick."

"The committee stands adjourned—we cannot change our program at this time," said Nye.

Carlstrom walked to Nye's chair and the two engaged in a whispered conversation for a few moments. Nye then stated that Carlstrom would be given time to make the statement when the committee reconvenes tomorrow morning.

Senator Roscoe P. Patterson of Missouri and C. C. Dill of Washington accompanied Nye when the committee met at 2 p. m. Nye at once announced that the committee had obtained a large number of telegrams from the Western Union and that all of them had been returned with the exception of 47 which the committee was having copied.

Telegrams Seized

Some of these were telegrams exchanged between the Dannenberg detective agency, engaged by Mrs. McCormick to trail Senator Nye, and agencies in Washington, D. C. and other cities.

C. O. Rundall, attorney for Dannenberg, protested the seizure of the confidential messages and was promised a hearing tomorrow.

Nye said that the committee would conduct simultaneously its investigation into Mrs. McCormick's primary fund expenditures and her employment of detectives to shadow the committee.

Goodrich Maintains Old Salary Scale

In the face of drastic salary, wage and employment reduction by major companies of the rubber industry in the last two weeks, affecting rubber company employes throughout the United States, the B. F. Goodrich company of Akron, Ohio, has just announced that there will be no general cut in salaries or wages.

This announcement was made by Lawrence Russell, manager of the local Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., station at Eighth and Austin, which is a branch of the retail division of the B. F. Goodrich company.

At the time other companies announced production slashes for September Goodrich set up a full month's working schedule with practically no change over the August output.

This statement of Mr. Russell came as a break in the gloomy news that has hovered over the rubber industry during the present depression.

Posse Trails Pair Who Robbed Bank of $8,000

MOUNT BELVIEU, Texas, Sept. 15. (UP)—Posses patrolled roads in this vicinity tonight searching for two robbers who held up the Mount Belvieu State bank today and escaped with approximately $8,000.

The bandits forced G. C. Banks, cashier and his wife and a bookkeeper to lie on the floor while they loted the tills. Both men were unmasked and were about 25 years of age.

The car used by the bandits was held here tonight after it had crashed into another machine in the escape from town. The robbers forced the occupants of the car which they struck to give up their machine, which was less damaged, and continued in it.

Comrades United in Death When Admiral's Son Takes Own Life

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. (US)—A Damon-Pythias friendship, stronger even than love for his wife, was believed responsible tonight for the suicide of Lieutenant Woodward Phelps, U. S. N., eldest son of Rear Admiral William Woodward Phelps.

A few hours after he had left his wife, former society beauty, Sunday night, it became known today, Lieutenant Phelps sent a bullet through his brain in his quarters on the cruiser Northampton, in dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Last Friday, Lieutenant Commander Benjamin Franklin Staud was found dead in his cabin of the cruiser Houston at Southampton, England. A coroner's jury found that he had committed suicide with an automatic pistol.

A naval board of inquiry, headed by Commander William Keer, returned a similar verdict of suicide this evening in the case of Lieutenant Phelps.

The two men had seen service together in China in 1927 when they worked together to save 155 Americans besieged by Chinese Nationalists at Nanking. They were declared to be inseparable companions. Their friendship is understood to have commenced at Annapolis.

Although happily married and with a brilliant career before him, it is believed that Lieutenant Phelps was so heartbroken by the suicide of his brother officer that he decided to join him in death. A newspaper clipping telling of Lieutenant Commander Staud's death was found beside the body of Phelps.

Arlington Funeral

The lieutenant's father, Rear Admiral Phelps, in command of the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard, was on his way to New York tonight as was also Phelp's young wife, the former Miss Janet Bell Whitall, society girl of Baltimore and Boston.

Lieutenant Phelps was 29 and was graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis in 1924. He was sent to the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla., where he received his wings.

The body will be taken to Washington tomorrow. It will be given an official funeral and buried Thursday in the naval cemetery at Arlington.

board, to contact land owners along the proposed Davis mountains state park highway to ascertain the amount of land that will be donated for park purposes if the highway is constructed.

Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas predicted that at least 300 one-half sections of land would be presented the state. Senator Love presented the proposal to the commission, declaring it would afford Texans one of the finest parks and tourist grounds in the country.

Survey Complete

The survey of the proposed route has been completed by the highway department in accordance with an act passed at the last session of the legislature. The proposed route would be 75 miles long and would be constructed with labor furnished by the state prison system. Senator Love stated it would furnish an ideal opportunity for the state to ascertain the value of convict labor on public works and that the proposal to proceed immediately with the work had the recommendation of Gov. Dan Moody.

Members of the commission indicated that in the event the necessary land is donated to the state for park purposes, that work on the road would be started this winter.

Designations Denied

In response to numerous requests for designation of county roads as state highways, Commissioner Cone Johnson of Tyler stated the commission would make no further designations this year and that all applications would be turned down.

State Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist was ordered to make a survey of the old military road from Brownsville to the Hidalgo county line provided the county agree to pay 50 per cent of the cost of construction when the work was started.

The commission voted to pay three-fifths of the cost of paving the continuation of F street from the Harlingen city limits to the Arroyo Colorado, and engineers were authorized to proceed with the preparation of plans for the work, to cost $24,000.

Gilchrist was ordered to make a survey of a proposed designation from Harlingen to San Benito and Cameron county was authorized to proceed with the construction of the road if given his approval.

Request for a designation in Brooks and Jim Hogg counties, connecting Falfurrias with Hebbronville, was delayed until the commission has more funds.

FIVE STATES LIST TICKETS

Prohibition Chief Issue In Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. (AP)—Five states wound up their primary campaigns today and tomorrow will select the candidates who will be arrayed against each other in the general election seven weeks hence.

With the exception of New Mexico, which will choose its party candidates later in the week, the primaries in New York, Massachusetts and Wisconsin and the nominating conventions in Connecticut and Delaware will conclude the party selections.

Prohibition has marked the primary campaigns in Massachusetts, and Delaware where senatorial candidates are to be chosen. Chain stores, chain banking and the Hoover administration have been debated in the Wisconsin gubernatorial contest. Connecticut and New York campaigns have developed little of interest. The former will choose a Republican candidate for governor and the latter, like all other states, will nominate house members. Massachusetts also will nominate gubernatorial condidates.

Butler, former chairman of the Republican national commitee, a dry; Eben S. Draper, a former state senator, a wet; and Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, ((Moist)) mayor of Newburyport. The Democrats are Marcus A. Coolidge, a wet, former Fitchburg mayor; Eugene N. Foss, a dry, former governor; Peter J. Joyce, a manufacturer; Thomas C. O'Brien, a former district attorney and Joseph F. O'Connell, a former house member.

The Delaware Democrats will nominate to oppose Senator Daniel O. Hastings, who has been redesignated by the Republicans. Their choice will lay between former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, a wet, and Josiah Marvel, national committeeman who was supported by drys.

La Follette In Race

In Wisconsin Philip F. LaFollette was seeking the governorship his father, the late Robert M. LaFollette, held for three years. Philip had the backing of his brother Senator Robert M. LaFollette Jr., who like his father is a Progressive, and the campaign has brought criticism of the Hoover administration. Walter J. Kohler, the incumbent, a millionaire manufacturer, is running for renomination.

Kiwanis Club Carnival Indefinitely Postponed

The Kiwanis club carnival which was scheduled to open Monday night has been postponed for several weeks, according to Henry Wolff, who has been handling plans for the affair.

The postponement was made necessary by the uncertainty of securing grounds for the carnival. It had been intended to use the ball park for the purpose but the possibility of that place being used for the Dixie series games made the definite completion of plans impossible.

Although the definite date of the carnival has not been determined, Mr. Wolff stated that the Wortham Shows had been secured and would be used instead of the Haynes Shows as originally planned.

"No repairs in 22 years," says home owner

"Visitors are delighted with the noiseless operation of my doors," says a home owner of Monongah, West Virginia. "The locks and hinges have been in active service 22 years, and during this time I haven't spent a cent for repairs. I've never used anything but 3-in-One Oil."

Many housewives who pride themselves on the spotless appearance of their homes are careless about the lubrication of hinges and locks. Try a few drops of 3-in-One Oil today and see how quickly it brings out rust, dirt and squeaks. For 3-in-One, a blend of animal, mineral and vegetable oils, is distinctly different from ordinary oil: it cleans and protects as well as lubricates.

For 35 years 3-in-One has been recognized as the best oil for sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, hinges and general household lubrication. Insist on 3-in-One Oil. At good stores everywhere, in 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.—Adv.

Japan May Issue Bromley Hop Ban

Officials at the capital were believed tonight to be contemplating a ban on transpacific flights unless made by stages, because of the danger involved. Bromley and Gatty have yet received no official advice, however.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15. (UP)—A questionnaire was sent by State Labor Commissioner W. A. (Pat) Murphy today to all chambers of commerce and county farm agents in Southwest Oklahoma, relative to needs for cotton pickers.

The questionnaire was sent out following reports from the federal-state employment bureau at Fort Worth, Texas, showing that cotton farmers of Southwest Oklahoma are daily hauling truck loads of cotton pickers from Fort Worth to Oklahoma fields.

Murphy sent the questionnaire in the hopes of being permitted to furnish Oklahoma labor for this work, he said.

WOMAN THIEF RAIDS HOMES

Burglars Sought After Three Robberies

Two homes were entered here over the week-end by burglars, one of whom is believed to be a woman, according to police. Objects in both instances were taken from within a few feet of beds in which persons were sleeping.

The home of T. D. Humphrey, 1717 Eleventh street, was entered and a wallet containing about $3, a new fall hat, and a comb belonging to a dresser set were taken. The wallet containing the money was taken from Mr. Humphrey's trousers which were hanging on the bed in which he was sleeping. The burglars made their entrance through a window and left papers from the wallet which were of no value to them in the living room.

At the home of H. C. Cheshire, 1806 McGregor street, the intruders entered a rear screen by unlatching it and carefully removing a kitchen stool which had been placed in front of it. It had been Mr. Cheshire's habit to place the stool in that position expecting any one entering to fall over it. About $15 was obtained from trousers which were on a chair within a few feet of the bed on which Mr. Cheshire was sleeping.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

While we were in Tennessee in midsummer, we saw in an aunt's corner cupboard a real relic of the mauve decade—a mustache cup. It reposed in all the freshness of its pristine glory with "Papa" in shining gold letters on its side, against the backgrounds of a gleaming castor with vinegar, mustard, salt and other cruets intact.

Out of place as a mustache cup would look upon a modern table, (think of the toothbrush mustaches of this day), its relegation to the cupboard had somehow a tinge of sadness. A hint of those vanished flowers and snows of yesteryear.

Mustache cups flourished in the early days of H. M. T.'s which to the uninitiated may be explained as the narrow seated buggies they called "Hug Me Tights." They gleamed on tables where fringed fly paper brushes were valiantly waved by small pickaninnies with splendidly wrapped locks of hair. We remember the rhythmic swinging of the long fringes that either frightened flies away or disposed of them in one's food.

And mustaches were certainly used in those days when certain stores had swinging slatted doors at their entrances where not even a wee girl would look sidewise to see if she could recognize a pair of trouser legs. One could not help at times, seeing a man emerge using a large handkerchief to wipe suspicious froth from a long mustache. The days of free lunch—unknown in the drouth of 1930.

Boiled custard was a concomitant of mustache cup days. And who ever heard of anyone buying ice cream? It was always made at home and usually the children had to turn the freezer. Cooks were over busy on Sunday.

The men of the time of mustache cups paid 25 cents for a beef roast that lasted days. How tired one grew of cold sliced beef and hash and how one wishes in 1930, that a dollar roast would last—well longer than one meal.

The mustache cup recalls other features of the pantry. Quarters of mutton and beef in cold weather; 50-pound pails of lard freshly rendered; barrels of flour and great wooden buckets of sugar. Store shelves in the pantries had jars and glasses of quince and damson plum jellies; watermelon rind preserves—stone jars filled with all sorts of sweets put away for the winter.

Calico dresses were the mode; calico came in sweet little sprigged patterns. One wore sateen in lovely designs, and silk was reserved for very special occasions.

Ah well, it is perhaps just as fortunate mustache cups stand on corner shelves. They would be terribly lonely in 1930.

BURNING UP MONEY

YOU might as well throw dollar bills in the fire as wash fine silks and fluffy woolens in hot water. Perhaps you wonder how to get them clean any other way. Here's the answer:

White King Granulated Soap, made from the same sort of fine vegetable and nut oils that form the basis of good salad dressing, will yield quick, rich suds, thorough cleansing, and swift rinsing in the lukewarm water that delicate ginghams and prints demand. And it cannot injure anything that water won't harm. Its purity makes it safe.

White King solves every household washing problem—fabrics, dishes, silver, glass, floors, woodwork. And it's economical. A teaspoonful for the wash basin, a cupful for the washing machine—plenty. Put it on your list for today. Sold by your grocer.

Argentina's Excitement Takes Graft Seriously Watch the DO-X

By EMILE GAUVREAU

An old-fashioned revolution, with riots, bombs, sirens, arrests, barricades, clashes between the police, soldiery and citizens, breaks out in Buenos Aires. The government of Argentina is overthrown. President Irigoyen is confined in military barracks, and a general becomes ruler. Enough excitement for one country.

The pamphlets issued by the revolutionists explain the cause of the revolt. "Comrades," one of them reads, "the confidence of the people has been betrayed. The flag of rebellion has been raised, to intimidate those who did not fulfill their duty but, instead, took good care of their own personal interests."

Such language sounds familiar, and peculiarly applicable to our own situation. The grafting politicians in Argentina were doing what powerful politicians do every day in New York — feathering their own nests. Here we read that judges have to buy their places on the bench and that one or two may have been "bumped" off because they didn't pay up. All this is so amusing to us that we re-elect the politicians into office.

The largest plane in the world, the DO-X, with accommodations for 170 passengers, will soon take off from Lisbon, Portugal, for New York. It will be the first practical attempt to inaugurate a passenger and mail service across the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air craft.

The DO-X is built like a ship, with three decks, 12 American motors, and the comforts of a New York hotel. The builder is Dr. Claude Dornier, famous seaplane designer.

The fastest liners now afloat will be outdistanced and in time superseded by this new leviathan of the air in the same manner that the sailing vessel was outdistanced and displaced by the steamboat, and the steamboat by the motor ship. Nor is the DO-X the last word in transportation. Something greater will supersede it in less than half a century.

The hurricane that caused 10,000 casualties and untold suffering in Santa Domingo is a catastrophe that should enlist the sympathies and help of the world. Santo Domingo was the first city established in the new world by citizens of the old. It was the first "promised land" of the great sea adventurer and sublime theorist, Christopher Columbus. Today it lies in ruins, the smoke of a hundred funeral pyres rising in great clouds over the bereaved and desolate city.

A calamity of this kind, reveals "the general heart of man." Instances of succor are many. But one that is as interesting as any is the helping hand that primitive Polynesians, in the remote island of Raivavae, reached out to afflicted Guatemalans. The news of the distress in Guatemala, 4,000 miles away, came to the natives of Raivavae a year late, but the appeal for help stirred them to instant philanthropy. A fund of 300 francs, the equivalent of $12, was raised. It represented most of the liquid capital of the island!

The best kind of internationalism is when one nation helps another in fighting diseases. That is what Belgium has just done in lending us one gram of radium, worth $70,000, for cancer control.

The loan is absolutely without cost. People, remembering the war, will say that Belgium owes us one hundred times a gram's worth of radium. Perhaps. But this is not a case of gratitude. It is a case of helping suffering mankind.

Abe Martin

(Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

Woman suffrage wuz ten years ole in August, but it's barely possible things might be worse. "Oh, boy, I'd like to be a member o' the commission he sends," said Tell Binkley, when he heard that President Hoover couldn' git off fer a Yellowstone park vacation.

News that the Briitsh polo players sold their mounts after losing to the American team, should occasion no surprise. That was probably their retaliation for being taken for a ride.

Another Cure for 'Depression'

THERE is another Moses lifting his voice for "courage and activity on the part of the people." Richard Whitney, president of the New York exchange, in an address before the Merchants Association of the Metropolis of America discussed trade depressions and stock panics. He asserted that the decline in security values last fall was not a cause of the business slump, but th atit was, on the contrary, the general of the business slump, but that it was, on the contrary, the general realization of the downward trend in trade conditions which initiated

His cure in his own words, "Courage and activity of the people alone can cure depression in business." His argument, "Our natural resources are as great today as they were last year. Our great business organizations are in strong financial condition and our industrial plants are at the highest state of efficient development. Credit is abundant. With the exception of the difficulties that have arisen as the result of the drastic deflation of commodity prices, the business horizon is clear." His advice to the American people, "What is needed therefore is courageous and intelligent effort and confidence in the future of our country."

He blamed overproduction. He said the breaking point was reached in the summer of 1929 when consumption could no longer keep pace with the enormous output of goods. All this is a reminder that the distinguished chieftains of the Republican party from the president down to the most humble officeholder in the year 1928 predicted that Republican prosperity would continue through all the years to come.

Green and the Dole

PRESIDENT WILLIAM GREEN of the American Federation of Labor is responsible for this statement: "It is only one step from compulsory unemployment insurance to the dole. The best, the real remedy, for unemployment is employment. The obligation rests upon industry to provide employment for men and women willing to work. The dole system embodies a vicious principle, in that it attempts to provide relief by supplying only the minimum of subsistence. Besides, the dole system develops a paternalism that is demoralizing and destructive. It stiffens ambition, destroys initiative and blasts hope."

Of course the real remedy for unemployment is employment, but there is the rub. It has been the rub since man began to work with his hands instead of his brains—or a combination of both hand and brain. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York has committed himself to the compulsory unemployment insurance plan. The New York State Federation of Labor adopted the plan. Now the labor chieftains and their followers will go to the bat on Oct. 6 in the city of Boston, the date of the meeting of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Canadian lawmakers are to raise the customs tariff of Canada as a cure for unemployment. A dead congress provided the same remedy or, rather, cure for the American people. It is the age-old story. It is a problem that has never been solved and the many will be compelled to grin and bear their share of depression until good times come again. This has been the record of all the years.

Our Newest National Park

GREAT SMOKY MOUNTAINS NATIONAL PARK is at last formally in existence, title to the land donated by North Carolina and Tennessee having been accepted by the federal government. With this acceptance, a new and magnificent playground for the people of the United States is available.

This whole national park idea, when you stop to think of it, is one of the finest things our government has done. Year after year, tourists by the thousands travel across the country to visit these great stretches of unspoiled natural beauty. The Great Smoky region fully deserves its inclusion in the list, and because of its proximity to the great eastern centers of population can be counted on to draw enormous crowds during the next few years.

Texas School Named for News Boy

IN THE ALAMO CITY a new $200,000 Thomas A. Edison senior high school has been dedicated by a board of education. After this came enrollment of 200 students. Thomas A. Edison, living or dead, is an immortal and will continue until the art of printing shall be listed among the lost arts. His inventions made him an immortal. He is one of the world benefactors. And think of it, at the age of 11 he was a wage earner peddling newspapers in the streets of Detroit. There were miracle workers 2,000 years ago. There are miracle workers and miracle makers on earth today.

Prayers for Rain

PRAYERS for rain are futile in the opinion of a majority of prominent American clergymen who took part in a symposium conducted by the Christian Clergy Magazine. Indeed, a famous minister of the West called praying for rain an attempt to "involve God in a cooperative scheme to maintain present American living standards." There was a minority. A Chicago minister declared "that God made the weather and could change it." Regardless of the majority verdict millions of people will continue to pray to the Lord when they need assistance or are facing a crisis here below.

A New Use for the Telephoto

THE telephoto process, by which pictures are transmitted over long distance by wire, has been widely used by newspapers and by advertising agencies; and now a real estate salesman also has found it valuable.

This salesman was in Los Angeles, selling a $50,000 house to Burton Holmes, the well-known lecturer. But Mrs. Holmes was in New York; and any householder can see that no man could buy a house that his wife had never seen.

But it didn't stump the salesman. He telephotoed a picture of the house to Mrs. Holmes, and followed it, on her request, with a telephoto of the kitchen. She approved, and the sale was made.

Quotations Worth Noting

Prophecy

Now I am through with taverns and their wines,
And, better still, my dear, I'm through with you;
The game was sweet—but then a youngster finds
The world holds better things for him to do;
No longer will you sit across from me
And flirt discreetly over either shoulder,
For neither wine nor love with me agree—
I'm growing saintly, or I'm growing older.

With fervent vows I shed my vagrant ways,
And swear I'll take the straight and narrow path;
Although I miss the zest of former days,
I'm hardly keen about their aftermath;
Right now for any angel I could double,
But let a month go by—I'll be in trouble! —DON WAHN.

The Retort Terrible

Eugene Conrad would have you believe that he was that near to the mayor to be able to hear his conversation with Coste and Bellonte.

Conrad reports that Jimmy Walker wanted to make the Frenchmen feel as much t'hum as possible. So before he greeted them he hurriedly looked over his book on French. As the mayor shook paws with them he said: "Mongseers—eel et avec playzoor quell jay avez cette plaisoor quand—"

At this point Coste looked up a bit apologetically and chirped: "Excuse, please, but we no spik Eengleesh."

Nifty

Writing about thunderstorms in Liberty, Robert (Cutie) Benchley says among other things: "It has been a couple of years now since I really had a scare. (I am now knocking on wood so hard that the man next door said: 'Come in!')"

Golly

The Sunday N. Y. American gay page offers, among other quips: "Hen Lays Egg on Phonograph and Brakes Record."

The Hellinger influence.

Tee, Hee

Because Mr. Frank Hawks, the distinguished flier, stated that he thought the Coste-Bellonte flight in a land plane was risky and foolish, Mr. Arthur Brisbane paragraphed: "A hundred different kinds of little birds, migrating, cross the oceans every year. They could not swim nor survive if they should alight on water. They don't light on the water. And what small birds can do, men will do."

That is, of course, except lay eggs.

Chasing Rainbows

The newspapers, you might say, are giving the skeptics another reason to believe the credo: "You can't believe everything you read in the papers!"

Mons. Coste's pajamas, frixample. The World reported: ". . . the two fliers were in bed, Coste sitting up in red, white and blue striped pajamas . . ."

The Journal's version: ". . . 'the flight eastward has already been done, so I am not interested,' Coste explained as, resplendent in pink striped pajamas, he received newspapermen . . ."

Not to be outsmarted, the Daily Mirror raced to press with: ". . . Coste, clad in golden brown pajamas, looked very weary."

It Valleed and Thundered

The Scranton Republican's Joseph A. Foster interviewed Mrs. Vallee's little boy, Rudolph, the other one-night-stand, and his interview, in part, follows: "An interview with Rudy Vallee," says Mr. Foster, "would not be complete without a little Winchell atmosphere. And Rudy was asked what he thought of Walter, New York's premier columnist. (Oh, Mr. Foster)!

"His response was fair enough, and he did not take advantage of the opportunity to return the puns with which Winchell apparently has tried to antagonize him. A Sharon, Pa., reporter quoted Rudy as saying that he and Winchell were good friends. 'I am glad,' replied Rudy, 'that I was quoted correctly.'

"'Then you are friendly with him?' we asked. 'Why certainly,' replied Rudy. 'His paragraphs directed at me mean nothing to me. He is only one man. And what is one out of a million? I am not supposed to curl up and die because he says those things.'

"Then Rudy recalled one of Winchell's happy quips for the small gathering and enjoyed a hearty laugh as he repeated it. 'You know,' Rudy added, 'the human voice is more powerful than the printed word. You can put it in big, black type, but it never attains the power of the spoken word. My medium is the voice and song.'"

What you should have reminded Rudy of, Mr. Foster, was that the voices of Homer, Shakespeare, Goethe, Heine and Voltaire (not Winchell) are hushed, but that their words still breathe, and very likely will forever.

For Such a Reason!

Variety tells of a Belgrade, Jugoslavia critic, who was fined and sentenced to 10 days in the hoosegow for stating in his review of a show that it should have been called "Without Brains" instead of "Without Love."

When Funk & Wagnall's Standard Dickish defines "brain" in this wise: It is the organ of consciousness.

Rebuttal

In reply to the charge by numerous readers that the Art Landry orchestra borrowed or thefted that clever curtain speech: "Thanks for your applause, which I assure you goes to our hearts and not to our heads," Mr. Landry has this to say: "Thanks very much for your kindness in mentioning my curtain speech in your column. I am very sorry that it caused a flurry of controversy over its originality."

However, we have not heard from Mr. George Washington Dewey, to whom its origin is attributed by the ready protestors.

"But I am certain that if he is anything like his first two namesake, he will say: 'My dear Mr. Winchell. I cannot tell a lie. I took my little hatchet and chopped my speech from Mr. Landry's.'—Most cordially yours. Art Landry."

Incidentally, a large army of subscribers point out that Helen Kane originated it. What they apparently meant to say was that Miss Kane was the first they heard use it. However, Mr. Dewey may now have the floor.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Randolph Granby—distinguished, wealthy, one of the most sought-after bachelors in New York looks over his mail and finds the following letter:

"My dear Mr. Granby: I have tried the stage, but have no talent. I have tried stenography and being a salesgirl. I hate work. I can't write or paint or sing. But I could get a rich husband if I had the proper setting. It would cost a thousand a month and I'd need two years to get the proper man. Will you give it to me? Yours truly, Donna Gaynor."

Granby notes the address, tears the letter up, throws it away . . . but he doesn't forget Donna Raynor. Acting on impulse a few days later, he is shown to Miss Raynor's room. Ran is amazed. The girl is adorable.

Frankly they discuss Donna's idea and make a bargain. Merely to test the girl, Ran takes her in his arms and kisses her. She is furious and asks him to "please leave." Granby replies: "I shall give you a thousand a month for two years. And I shall never make any effort to see you unless you send for me."

Through brokers Donna receives $25,000.

Now Continue the Story

To Bury Her Past

Donna was seated on the floor trying to find something in her shabby wardrobe worth taking with her.

Now that Granby had definitely committed himself to a course of action that only a few hours ago he would have considered impossible, his heart was suddenly light.

"I'm not sure," he went on, "that the amount is enough."

"I've calculated rather carefully," she said. "Two hundred a month for an apartment. One hundred for a good maid. Two hundred more for food, lights and household incidentals. The other $500 for clothes and—campaign expenses."

"Six thousand a year for fripperies?" he asked.

"Fripperies are the most important items in the assets of the marriageable maiden," she replied.

"What sort of an apartment can you get for $200 a month—furnished?" he asked.

"An extremely nice one on East 57th street. I've seen it."

"And what are the campaign expenses?" he inquired.

"There are places a girl must go, where she must be seen. I'll spend the money wisely."

"I'm not questioning that. It is none of my business. My connection with the affair has ceased already. Tomorrow you will receive a check from your brokers and—that's that."

He stood up briskly and looked down upon her.

"I'm going abroad in a day or so," he said. "But suppose we say—regarding that table at which I was to meet you in six months—suppose I say Mrs. Fred Fairleigh's? All right?"

"Mrs. Fred Fairleigh's it is," she smiled.

He held out his hand.

"Just a moment." She walked to the worn desk, sat down before it, and began writing rapidly.

"Will this do?" she asked.

He took the ink-damp paper she offered and read it. It was as tersely to the point as the letter that had brought him here.

"This is to certify that I, Donna Raynor, have no claim of any sort whatsoever upon Randolph Granby. Any demands made upon him by myself or any one acting in my behalf I hereby declare and admit to be blackmail." Her name was signed to the document. It was dated.

Gravely he folded it and placed it carefully in his pocketbook. She smiled at him.

"I was afraid," she said, "that you'd tear it up."

"Why afraid?" he asked.

"Because it would have been a mock-heroic gesture, and—would have meant nothing. Because—we both know that that paper isn't worth anything. It—protects you up to today but—that's all."

"Then why give it to me?" he asked.

"Simply to see if you'd accept it; if you'd pretend that it did mean something." For a moment her amazing composure wavered. The generous, sweetly formed mouth quivered faintly. "But," she went on, "even if it means nothing, perhaps my word. . . . If I don't make good, I—won't bother you."

"What will you do? Suppose you don't find the rich husband that seems to be your idea of success?"

"Then you will have trained and backed an entry that finishes in the ruck," she laughed. "How many of your friends have won the Kentucky Derby, or the Preakness, or the Withers?"

"But a horse good enough to enter such races can usually be sold for something," he said.

She eyed him through the curling smoke of her cigaret.

"Just exactly what is in your mind?" she asked.

"I'll come to that in a moment. But first answer my question. Suppose, at the end of two years, you fail?"

The hazel eyes were suddenly tragic.

"I'd rather not talk about it," she said.

"But I want to talk about it," he said. "You're confident; you're more than that: you're certain. You say that you can find what you want and, finding it, can possess it. Somehow or other, I'm inclined to believe you. I certainly wouldn't give you $25,000 unless I thought you could succeed. Even my racing friends don't spend small fortunes on hopeless nags."

"Are you asking some guaranty that I'll return your money if I succeed?"

He shook his head.

"Any winner of the Kentucky Derby would gladly forfeit the purse to be certain of the victory. No, my dear, I don't want back my money. But—I'm risking something. You're risking nothing."

Her brows drew nearer in a tiny frown.

"But I thought—you said—"

He interrupted her.

"What I've said I stand by. You put the idea in my head with your promise not to blackmail. And you made me promise not to blackmail you, not to tell any one of our—arrangement. You talk of racing, of backing horses. . . . I ask nothing—for two years."

"And then?"

"My dear, if you are married, or if your engagement to the sort of man we both understand you intend to marry is announced — nothing then. But if you're not married, not engaged—then I want you."

"Then, after all, there is a string tied to your gift?" For a fleeting second, sneering, she was not lovely.

"A long string," he said. "Twenty-four months, 104 weeks long. I'm giving you the money you asked for; I'm giving you the time you allowed yourself. You're confident; you're certain. Well, bet something on your confidence, your certainty."

"Myself?" she asked.

"Have you anything else to wager?" he inquired.

"Nothing," she admitted.

For a moment their eyes seemed to lock. Then his gave way.

"Sorry," he said.

He held out his hand again, but she ignored it.

"I can't lose," she said thoughtfully.

"Yes, you can," he said quickly. His face was burning and his eyes could not settle upon her. He, Randolph Granby, to make a bargain with a girl!

"All right, then I can," she said. "And if I do—"

"Please," he pleaded. "I—I'm sorry. I—wouldn't want you that way. I—"

"Yes, you would," she said. Quite without consciousness that perhaps she rated her charms higher than modesty should have permitted, she went on. "Any man would. And, after all, something for nothing just doesn't exist."

"It isn't for nothing," he cried. "You said yourself the excitement of the race—"

"That isn't anything," she broke in. "I want you to be impersonal. I wanted to be impersonal myself. But—people can't be that way. And I—I see that I can't take something without the slightest possibility of loss myself. There'd have to be some risk or—it would be charity and—I don't want that. If I don't succeed, then—I shall expect you to—take payment."

She held up her hand to still his protest.

"I know—you're ashamed. So am

Q.—What are sinuses?—E. C.

A.—The cells or cavities contained in certain bones, as the frontal, ethmoid, sphenoid, and superior maxillary, are called sinuses. The frontal sinuses are two irregular cavities extending upward and outward, from their openings on each side of the nasal spine, between the inner and outer layers of the skull, and separated from one another by a thin bony septum. They give rise to the prominences above the root of the nose called the nasal eminences.

Q.—How long has SOS been the universal distress call?—M. G.

A.—It replaced CQD in 1911.

Q.—What nation has the largest coast trade?—N. E.

A.—The great length of our sea and lake coasts, the number of good harbors and the fact that most of the coast region of the United States has been settled, makes the coasting trade of this country the most extensive in the world.

Q.—Does starching keep textiles clean longer?—R. S. D.

A.—It does because it covers and holds down the tiny surface hairs that catch the dust and dirt.

Q.—Did the society of friends do relief work during and after the war?—S. M.

A.—The structure was begun as a private enterprise but the corporation was unable to carry on so the bridge became the property of the two cities, Brooklyn paying two-thirds and New York, one-third of the cost.

Q.—Do some animals hibernate in summer?—J. J.

Q.—Please tell me what Samvat means.—B. S.

How Emotions Affect Involuntary Muscles

It used to be thought that food simply fell down the esophagus like a ball falling down an elevator shaft. Now it is known, through watching the esophagus under the X-ray, that the walls contract just behind the food as it is being swallowed, and expand just in front of it in such a way that the food is pushed along. The involuntary muscles squeeze food before them just as a housewife squeezes cream down a pastry tube. For this reason it is possible for you to swallow while standing on your head just as easily as otherwise, since the food does not drop down, but is pushed ahead. Vomiting is simply this swallowing process in reverse.

While most of these actions of the involuntary muscles are not under control, it is known that they are affected more or less by the emotions. A strong emotion, such as fear or anger, will cause the peristaltic waves of the stomach and intestines to cease for a long time afterwards. All of you have noticed that after a strong emotional scene you have indigestion and your food lies heavily in your stomach. Anger increases the beat of the heart, and fear inhibits easy breathing. By avoiding over-excitement, you may keep the involuntary muscles, which rule over the vital processes of your body, working more smoothly.

Some of the results of poor tone in the involuntary muscles may be: Indigestion, due to a lack of tone in the stomach; constipation, due to poor tone in the bowels, and high or low blood pressure; due to poor tone in the blood vessels. Exercise is usually beneficial to the involuntary muscles, for while exercising you force the muscles to bring an extra supply of blood to the place where it is being used. When the blood stream flows rapidly, like any other swiftly flowing stream, it washes away and removes toxins which may have stalled in that region. In this way the blood washes the muscles during the exercises and flushes away their waste.

Exercises which use the voluntary muscles of the abdomen also benefit the involuntary muscles, since the exercise improves the circulation of the blood to the abdomen and pelvic region, and gives them more blood for nourishment, or removes toxins which may have accumulated.

Destructive emotions undoubtedly have the most severe effect upon health through upsetting the normal functioning of the involuntary muscles. Any system of mental treatment will be beneficial to the patient if such treatment is one which teaches the patient to so control the emotions that neither great joy nor great sorrow takes possession sufficiently to dangerously upset the normal order of the natural functions. In the emotional life as in other things, it is well to travel the middle path of temperance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Whooping Cough

Question—M. K. S. asks: "Will you please tell me how to treat a child with whooping cough, and how long a time he should be kept out of school? How can these children's diseases be prevented?"

Answer—All children's diseases are preventable if the child is brought up with the proper habits. Once whooping cough has been well developed, it is a serious disorder and needs the diligent personal care of a physician. In my practice I have found the most effective treatment to be with a series of short fasts of three or four days each, with the child eating a light diet in between each fast. It will sometimes take several weeks to produce a complete cure. Hot applications over the chest are helpful, and also deep manipulation of the spine and muscles of the upper back. A physician's certificate is usually necessary before a child will be allowed to return to school.

Alfalfa Tea

Question—E. J. asks: "What do you think of alfalfa as a drink? What food value has it? I am drinking it three times a day with my meals in place of tea or coffee. I like it, and it seems to agree with me."

Answer—There is little food value in alfalfa tea or any other similar hot drink with meals. I do not advise my patients to take these drinks, but I am sure the alfalfa is an improvement over the drinks ordinarily used.

That "Tired Feeling"

Question—H. K. L. writes: "I seem to have that tired feeling physically and mentally. It seems rather difficult for me to concentrate. Do you think I have an inactive thyroid?"

Answer—If you are very overweight, it may be that you have a sluggish thyroid, but enervation can be produced from many other things, such as overeating, lack of exercise and not being interested in constructive activities.

DEARTH OF BASE HITS COSTS SPUDDERS GAME AND PENNANT

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

COWTOWN, Sept. 14. (By Mail)—Everybody knows now who the winner of the Texas league pennant is. I don't—at this writing. This is being written Sunday night, high up above Cowtown, in a hotel. Down below, parading around the streets blaring forth triumphal music, is Paul Seeds' accomplished bunch of musicians from my home town. They are blowing their heads off, cheering Messrs. Storti, Burns, Levey, Euller, Fitzgerald, Bettencourt, Wiltse and everybody else on the Spudder team—cheering them for whipping the Cats' ear down Sunday.

But what I started to say was this—the Texas league's championship club is going to be in sad shape for the Dixie series, owing to the length of the play-off.

Such a sensational battle for the championship of this league has not been seen in years. Every pitcher on both teams has been worked to death. Let us say the Wichita Falls Spudders won Monday's game, and the right to play Memphis. Who will we pitch Wednesday? Certainly it won't be Wiltse, for he did his little bit (for the second time in the series) Sunday. Certainly it won't be Steengrafe, for it was his job to carry the mound work Monday. Maybe Carl will run Wiltse in with only two days of rest. It's a problem.

On the other hand, suppose the Fort Worth Cats by the time you are reading this are champions of the league. Who on earth will they pitch Wednesday in Memphis? McCabe is certainly more eligible than anyone else, for he has done very little work since last Wednesday. He lasted only three innings Sunday, remember. But the point is, will Frank Snyder want to use him? He has looked terrible in this series. Lil Stoner won't work, unless he is thrown in with only two days of rest. And Whitworth is likely to be an uncertain pitcher owing to his hand, injured in Saturday's game when Vincent hit him on the flinging finger with a pitched ball.

This long series has been a strain on both teams. Every member on both squads has been bearing down. It will be worth a thousand bucks apiece to the Texas league winners to enter the Dixie series. They will deserve every penny of it.

But on the other hand—to get back to our subject—it was pointed out to us by an expert that even if the pitching of the Texas league champions will be handicapped, Southern association pitching is hardly likely to be so hot. The experts choose the Texas league champions to whip Memphis, good and proper. Of course they are going only on precedent. It is a precedent, of course, for the Texas league champions to whip any Southern association crowd. The latter loop has won only two Dixie series titles since the intersectional warfare was started years ago. Birmingham won from Dallas last year—and some other S. A. club whipped some other Texas league outfit a few years before that. I can't remember the names of the latter teams off hand, and I'm away from the Rambler's corner, where I keep all my records.

If anyone ever intimates to you that Lin Storti isn't the greatest second baseman the Texas league has ever seen, then turn up your nose and walk away in disgust.

Fifty thousands words, even at the rate of ten bucks a word, could not describe the way Mr. Lin Storti saved the game for Wichita Falls in the ninth inning of Sunday's game here. Bettencourt had smashed in the winning run for the Spudders. The Cats came to bat in the last half of the ninth, confident that the great Hal Wiltse had at last weakened, confident they could get to him again and put over a tying and a winning run. The first two men were retired. Then Wiltse walked Moore, one of the derndest hitters that ever lived. Mallon came to bat. He hit that ball. And boy, he hit it. With any other second baseman in the United States in the field, it would have been a base hit. Cripes, how that ball was hit. It took a course half way between first and second. It was out of Burns' territory. It was out of Storti's. It was in "hit" territory—for any other second baseman but Lin Storti. As soon as that ball was socked, Storti started running. The ball zipped into the dust and gave a bounce. Storti made a great lunge, his body facing right field—but his gloved right hand was opened facing the infield. In that position he caught the ball on the bounce. A backhanded catch. It was entirely unexpected by 12,388 people. When Mallon hit that ball, everybody in the grandstands, except the Spudder section, was standing up howling. But when Storti recovered his poise and chunked that batter out at first, there were never so many crestfallen people in one spot on earth, unless it was the dual monarchy bunch after the recent election.

There is an interesting sidelight in connection with that catch. In the last of the eighth, remember, Stuart Clarke—and I hope I never hear of him again—hit a home run with two aboard to tie the score and make Hal Wiltse almost break into tears. Well, there was a rabid bozo up in the Cat rooting section who went plumb Koo-Koo. He pulled off his hat and started yelling to the people to pitch in their dollars, that he was taking up a collection to present to Clarke, for "winning the game for the Cats." Well, the people responded. In poured dollar after dollar. The ninth inning started. The Spudders scored. The Cats came up. This guy kept collecting. Moore walked. More dollars poured in. Mallon cut loose with his would-be hit. The collector yelled "THERE IT GOES, BOYS!"

And then Storti stopped it.

And the colector emitted a groan audible for blocks. He got as silent as a W. C. T. U. worker in a speakeasy. What he did with those dollars he collected I never learned.

When they bunched those four runs off Hal Wiltse in the eighth inning, there was never anything so pathetic in baseball as the great southhander's countenance. Gentlemen, that pitcher had braved one of the game's worst storms. They had threatened continually for-their days. Today they were not hitting worth shucks, and even if they did have some of the most brilliant pitching this series has known, they couldn't hit, and consequently they couldn't win.

CATS TO PLAY IN BIG SERIES

Steengrafe Bested in Hot 3-2 Battle

Muff Opportunities

Time and again they were in scoring position. Once they had the bases loaded. Again they had men on second and third. Several times a runner was on second waiting for a single, one little single, but it never came. In the fourth Bettencourt was on third and Crouch on second and Euller was on first, and Steengrafe hit into a double play. In the first, Fitzgerald was on second and Kloza grounded out, in the second Crouch was on third and Euller struck out. And so on. The great sluggers were not hitting today. It cost them the championship.

The Cats got off to a lead in the fourth inning, when, after Fowler had singled, Larry Cox came through with a smash that took the ball over the right field pavilion. The Spudders lagged on until the sixth before putting a run over. Then Jack Kloza delivered, and delivered well, sending the pill over that same right field pavilion. They scored again that inning, but it was not the fault of the Spudders. It was on account of a bonehead play by Chet Fowler, Cat third baseman. After Kloza hit his home run, Burns fouled out to first. Bettencourt singled to center and so did Crouch, sending Bettencourt to third. Euller came to bat. He grounded one to Fowler, who had a sure double play in front of him. But he threw wild to Mallon at second, jerking the latter off the bag. Bettencourt scampered home, as the Cats trapped Crouch between second and third. They finally tagged Crouch out. And that was all of that frame that was interesting for the Spudders.

Two Bingles do It

In the last of the sixth the Cats put over what proved to be the winning run. It was done on two singles—little singles the Spudders prayed for but couldn't get. They were smote by Fowler and Tavener.

It was a battle of crunching bones and gritting teeth, mates. In the second inning, with two out and two on base, Steengrafe hurled a ball that hit Stoner on his right hand—his throwing hand. Naturally ever Cat rooter in the stands—and there were some 6,500 of them—figured their great Lil Stoner had been hit on purpose. Booes roared at Steengrafe. Cat players crowded around the plate and fists were upraised. It was decidedly not an intentional throw.

Steengrafe was the first to rush up and say that. The managers came up too, and words grew heated. The Cats remembered Vincent had accidentally hit Whitworth on the throwing finger last Saturday. They screamed for vengeance. But ultimately everything quieted down.

Fists Displayed

But not for long. In the next inning, Eddie Brown, tall demon hitter, stabbed Burns in the foot trying to beat out an infield hit. Burns hit the dirt, writhing in pain. Again fists were upraised. Spider Levey charged over from his side of the diamond and started after Eddie in no uncertain manner, and Carl Williams had to use all the force in his two strong arms to keep the little short stopper from tackling the big first baseman. Meanwhile the stands were in an uproar. But this also quieted down.

Thereafter, between innings, Stoner was being treated by a physician in the Cat dug out, and Burns was being treated for his injured foot in the Spudder dugout. And a Spudder couldn't come close to a Cat, whether while playing or on the sidelines, but what the atmosphere seemed to grow suddenly torrid.

It rocked along then until the next inning, the fourth. Stoner cut down on one and smashed Euller on the elbow. Euller managed to last the next few innings but went out for a pinch hitter in the ninth. The blow apparently had much to do with his hitting, or lack of hitting, thereafter.

Fourth Injury

And now for the fourth man injured. It was the Cat catcher, O'Connell. Kloza tipped his right hand while swinging at one in the seventh. O'Connell was painfully injured. It was a bloody day mates, full of blood and crunching bones.

And so the Cats, and not the Spudders, will meet the Memphis Chicks in the Dixie series. The intersectional war will start next Wednesday—in Memphis, and not Wichita Falls.

But it wasn't Milton Steengrafe that took the Texas league championship from the Spudders. It wasn't Milton's fault that the Cats and not the Spudders, are playing Memphis this week. Milton pitched a good game, every body agreed. The hitters failed to come through.

The number of Wichitans present for the series was swelled early Monday afternoon to over 1,500 by the arrival of about 500 more fans who toured over from Wichita Falls to see the closing game of the series. Paul Seeds' band was on hand again. The band made such a good showing at Sunday's game that Cat officials got busy and had a jazz orchestra on the spot Monday.

Tonight Wichitans were piling out of Cowtown. They had witnessed the conclusion of one of the toughest championship series the league has ever known. Despite the fact the Spudders were on the losing end, there was some satisfaction in knowing they had seen some of the best baseball this state has ever witnessed.

The game in detail:

First Inning

Wichita Falls—Levey flied out to left on the first ball Stoner pitched. Storti flied out to left. Fitzgerald doubled to left and Kloza grounded out third to first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fort Worth—Moore singled to center on the first ball Steengrafe pitched. Mallon flied out to Kloza. Bonowitz flied out to Bettencourt against the right field grandstand. Brown flied out to Bettencourt in right center. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning

Wichita Falls—Burns fanned. Bettencourt grounded out, second to first. Crouch singled off the pitcher's foot, the ball bouncing towards third. Crouch stole second and continued to third when the catcher threw the ball into center field. Euller fanned. No runs, one hit, one error.

Fort Worth—Fowler grounded out, Steengrafe to Burns. Cox singled past first. Tavener walked, Cox taking second. O'Connell was automatically out on an infield fly. Burns caught the ball. Stoner was hit on the right wrist by a hard pitched ball. The crowd booed Steengrafe. The players grouped around the plate, arguing, and the crowd still yelling, the game continued. With the bases full, Moore grounded out, Storti to Burns. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Inning

Wichita Falls—The Fort Worth crowd cheered when Stoner returned to the box despite the injury. Steengrafe was the first man up. Steengrafe walked, Stoner being unable to find the plate, but one in five pitched balls. Levey walked, Steengrafe taking second. Storti sacrificed, pitcher to first, advancing Steengrafe to third and Levey to second. Fitzgerald grounded out to first unassisted. Kloza flied out to right. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fort Worth—The crowd booed incessantly as the Spudders took the field. Mallon singled over Euller's head. Bonowitz hit into a double play, Steengrafe to Levey to Burns. Levey made a sensational stop of Brown's grounder and threw him out at first. Brown, in dashing to first, apparently spiked Burns, who fell to the ground in pain. Members of both teams again congregated, this time around first base. Levey wanted to fight, and Carl Williams had to hold him off with brute force. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Inning

Wichita Falls—Burns grounded out to first unassisted. Bettencourt singled to center. Bettencourt stole second. Crouch walked. Euller was hit on the left elbow by a pitched ball. He took first, loading the bases. Steengrafe hit into a double play, short to second to first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fort Worth—Fowler singled to right. Cox hit a home run over the right field pavilion scoring Fowler and himself. Tavener grounded out, Storti to Burns. O'Connell popped out to Storti. Stoner flied out to Kloza. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning

Wichita Falls—Levey grounded out to first unassisted. Storti's foul tipped the first unassisted. Storti foul tipped the before the catcher caught it, but Umpire Barr ruled it did not hit the ground and called Storti out. Fitzgerald grounded out to first unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fort Worth—Moore singled to center. Mallon sacrificed out, Euller to Burns, Moore taking second. Bonowitz hit to Levey and Moore was run down between second and third. Levey to Euller to Levey. Brown forced Bonowitz at second, Euller to Storti. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Inning

Wichita Falls—Kloza hit a home run over the right field pavilion. Burns fouled out to first. Bettencourt singled to center. Crouch singled to center, sending Bettencourt to third. Euller hit to Fowler at third. Fowler, attempting to start a double play, threw wild to second trying to get Crouch. Crouch, however, was off the bag and was run down between second and third, Tavener ultimately making the putout. Bettencourt scored on the play, and Euller took second. Steengrafe grounded out short to first. Two runs, three hits, one error.

Fort Worth—Fowler singled to center. Bettencourt caught Cox's high foul to right field while flat on his stomach. He having fallen in the chase. Fowler stole second. Tavener singled to right, scoring Fowler, and took second on the throw-in. O'Connell grounded out, Levey to Burns. Steengrafe knocked down Stoner's drive to the box and threw him out at first. One run, two hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning

Wichita Falls—Levey struck out. Storti walked. Storti went to second on a wild pitch. Fitzgerald grounded out, second to first, Storti taking third. Kloza struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fort Worth—Moore singled to right. Mallon bunted out, Burns to Storti, who covered first, Moore taking second. Bonowitz sacrificed to Fitzgerald, Moore taking third. Brown was called out on strikes. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning

Wichita Falls—Burns grounded out second to first. Bettencourt was called out on strikes. Crouch walked. Crouch was out stealing, catcher to short. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fort Worth—Fowler grounded out, Storti to Burns. Cox popped out to Euller. Tavener singled to left. Tavener was out stealing, Crouch to Storti. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning

Wichita Falls—Geygan batting for Euller, flied out to left. Bradbury, batting for Steengrafe, fanned. Levey grounded out, third to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ex-Dish Washer Boosted to Take Scott's Position

By T. C. WATSON
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Jack Pettifer, ex-kitchen hand at a west end restaurant, is being touted in these regions as the successor to the somewhat dubious heavyweight prestige of Phil Scott.

It is Pettifer, sporting experts declare, who will eventually take Phil's place as champion heavyweight boxer of Britain and as a new star in the international galaxy now clustered at the foot of "Maxie" Schmelling's world throne.

London sports writers describe Pettifer as having "the ring ferocity of a Dempsey," and British boxing fans, disgusted at the ease with which Scott is so often technically and actually dropped to the resin, are taking with enthusiasm to their new "hope."

George McDonald, who lays claim to having "discovered" Jim Corbett, now has Pettifer going through the daily round of rope skipping, bag punching, and shadow boxing, that are supposed to nurture a boxer into "big time" potentialities.

George admits that a heavyweight champion is not made in three months, but he says that Jack is "not clumsy" and that he—George—is not wasting his time managing anyone who isn't worth while.

WILTSE BOUGHT BY PHILLIES

Milwaukee Sells Wichita Pitching Ace

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. (AP)—The Philadelphia National league club today anounced the purchase of Harold Wiltse of the Wichita Falls clubs of the Texas league. Wiltse was obtained from the Milwaukee club of the American association which had acquired title to his services after the completion of the Texas league season.

The Phillies also have purchased Pitcher Lil Stoner and Second Baseman Leo Mallon from the Fort Worth club.

RED SOX BUY WACO FIELDER

BOSTON, Sept. 15. (AP)—The Red Sox management today reported the purchase of Outfielders MacSwain of Mobile, Southern league, and Rye of Waco, Texas league. Cash was given for MacSwain and cash and one player for Rye.

MacSwain is 21 years old, a righthander and hit for .325. Rye batted for .371 and is said to be fast and have a good arm. Both will report in the spring.

Lord Derby Cuts Down On Racing Activities

LONDON, Sept. 15. (INS)—Because of the heavy taxation which is draining England's well-to-do, Lord Derby, the country's most prominent and successful racehorse breeder and owner, has decided not to race on the same lavish scale as hitherto.

The announcement has stunned horseracing circles and it is generally believed the effect will be disastrous to the English turf.

The early will dispense with the services of his trainer, Frank Butters, will sell most of his yearlings and a number of his brood mares, and will reduce the horses in training at the famous Stanley House stables.

Memphis Man Plans Marathon—Must Pick 200 Pounds or Pay

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 15.—"Sore, well, yes, sore." These are the words that will best describe the feelings of Lyman E. Robbins, manager of the Memphis Democrat, when he attempts to arise from his bed on Saturday morning Sept. 20, after his efforts to pick 200 pounds of cotton on Friday, Sept. 19.

This has all come about by a wager between Robbins and Jess Rosenwasser, local dry goods merchant. Rosenwasser claims that Robbins can't pick 200 pounds of cotton in one day because of the condition of this year's crop. In case Robbins picks the 200 pounds Rosenwaaser is to buy a full page advertisement in the Memphis Democrat, and in case he does not win, Robbins must buy the page ad for Rosenwasser.

Robbins has issued a blanket invitation to the citizens of Hall county to come and watch him pick the 200 pounds of cotton which he says will be picked in either the field of Charlie Stout, Ott Bevers or Grover Moss, the definite field to be announced in the next week's issue of The Democrat. He will begin picking at 6 o'clock in the morning and will pick till 7 o'clock (that is, if he can hold out) that evening.

It has been suggested that Robbins would show much more judgment just to pay off and never attempt to pick the 200 pounds of cotton, but he is fully determined to pick the cotton.

BROOKLYN HOLDS THIN MARGIN WHILE CUBS SPLIT TWO GAMES

The Rambler's Corner

seven innings, and he had smiled, gritted his teeth and said "They shal not score." And then all at once it seemed the old ball park was Flanders fields, with the Huns making the last stand in the Alamo as the Spanish-American war vets clung to the portholes of the Lusitania.

But as we were saying, there was never a sadder face than Hal Wiltse's.

Now it is the usual custom of ball players to leave a pitcher alone when he's in trouble. In most cases, with a hard inning like that eighth over, the boys would have left Wiltse alone, both on the field and in the dugout—left him alone to brood and meditate and figure out whether the next batter up would whiff at a high inside one, or a curve breaking in.

But they fell on Hal's shoulders when that inning was over. One after the other they came around him as they were walking to the dugout. They put their arms around his shoulders and poured words of consolation into his ears. Probably they were telling him they'd make up for it, and slam the next ball pitched out of the lot.

Friends, Hal Wiltse is absolutely reverenced by that bunch of Spudders. They look on him as their guiding star.

I don't know what effect that demonstration after the eighth inning had on Wiltse's pitching in the ninth, but it must have been tremendous. I started to throw down my typewriter and go hug the boy myself.

Especially since these howling Cowtowners all around the press box had been mouthing some hot stuff against Wiltse. They have all the respect in the world for Wiltse as a pitcher—but boy they sure despise to see him work against the Cats. Every time somebody got a hit off him they went nuts.

It just proved they admitted down deep in their hearts that anyone capable of getting a base hit off Wiltse was some hitter. They would rather have seen three hits bunched off Wiltse in that ninth inning Sunday than to watch Swell-Head Fowler knock a hundred home runs off any other pitcher on the Spudder staff.

But to get back to the noise they make. These Cowtowners have a habit of starting a steady tattoo with their feet the minute a Cat batter comes to the plate. Of course they are trying to worry the pitcher. But it is our humble opinion the din worries the batter as much, if not more, than the pitcher. Yet it's a basebal game, and a guy at a baseball game simply is not in his right mind.

They pulled a good one down in the lobby of the Texas hotel Sunday night. Pat Monohan, scout for the Boston Red Sox, who was in Wichita Falls a few days ago, was here for the series. The biggest talker in baseball—that's what Ned C. Record, brilliant sports editor of The Record-Telegram down here, calls him. It is a good name for him. He's got a line of chatter longer than a home run.

Well, to get to the story. Pat had been talking with the boys down in the lobby continually since Friday, with time out only for the games. His conversation was heard, and enjoyed, over every foot of the first floor. Thinking it a wonderful idea, the manager of the hotel came up to a group in the center of which was none other than Pat, orating at the rate of a mile a split second. The manager had a soap box with him.

"Here," said he, "get on this, Pat. We can hear you better."

Pat obliged, to the satisfaction of quite a crowd which gathered near as Pat went on with "Now when I was in such-and-such a place, so-and-so was the sensation of the league. He was my find. Picked him up as a sandlotter, and now look at him . . ."

The hotel manager did not neglect to assign two bell boys, armed with mops, to steadily scour the floor adjoining Pat's soap box as the great scout talked.

By the way, I received a good letter the other day, from the Electra gentleman who ran me out of the park for telling J. Alvin how to run his league. Mr. W. C. Rushing is his name. He wrote me several days ago taking up for Beaumont in the late lamented protest. I answered him, and told him the rules should have been observed even if some of them were raw as the devil, pointing out that Hal Wiltse didn't receive credit for his twentieth victory on account of just such a rule.

Here's Mr. Rushing's letter:

"Dear Rambler:

"I am after you agin. Sure Hal won his game, worked hard and won it fair. But he lost it just like Beaumont lost, or as the rules says they should lose. But you are raving about Hal getting such a raw deal. Will you admit that the rules were as unjust to Beaumont. As for it being raw as the devil I am not that well acquainted with the old gentleman. Assuming that he is raw it is his own fault for I am informed he has plenty of fire. Possibly there is a rule by which he can't get stewed.

"In a late issue of The Record News you started your column by saying here goes fifty thousand words at twenty dollars per. Now Rambler if you will compare that wage with Cal's thousand dollar a word articles you will find that the gray matter you referred to in tons is not equally distributed, so why bring that up. You did not explain what the per was, whether it was per minute, hour, day, week, month, year, or for your whole natural life. I suppose you will get twenty dollars per-haps.

"Now Mr. Rambler the rules says that I must stamp my letters and this being my last stamp this correspondence is over."

If you'll keep on writing such entertaining letters, Mr. Rushing, I'll send you a bale of stamps.

Heart Attack May Prove Fatal to Tipton Farmer

After being in bad health since last spring he was stricken with a severe heart attack Sunday, since which time he has been gradually growing weaker.

ROBINS ADD TO NARROW LEAD

Brooklyn Clan Takes Game From Cincinnati

BROOKLYN, Sept. 15. (AP)—The Brooklyn Robins increased their hold on first place in the hot National league pennant race to a full game over the idle Cardinals and a game and a half over the Cubs today, when they won their 11th straight victory at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds. Many of the Cardnals, who open an all important three game series at Ebbett's field tomorrow, sat in the stands while the Brooklyn sluggers hit four Cincinnati pitchers hard to win a 13 to 5 decision.

For the second day in succession, the Reds scored three runs in the first inning, knocking the Robins' starting pitcher out of the box. Moss was the victim today. But, as in Sunday's game, a Brooklyn southpaw stepped to the rescue and won, Watson Clark allowing the Reds only two runs for the remainder of the game. Score:

CUBS 11-6, PHILS 12-4

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, fighting to regain the National league lead which they lost through two defeats at the hands of the tail-end Phillies, split even with the Phils in a double-header today. The Cubs lost the first game, 12 to 11, but won the second, 6 to 4.

The Phils gave the Cubs another scare in the ninth inning by a batting rally which the western team managed to stop after the Phils had scored three runs. Score:

Steve Swetonic, Pirate hurler, was hit hard in the first two innings but after the shaky start settled down and locked with Fitzsimmons in a pitchers' duel, holding the Giants to three hits for the remaining six sessions. Score:

Lawton Will Have $100,000 Hospital

LAWTON, Okla., Sept. 15.—Plans will be completed within the week for a $100,000 hospital to be constructed in the north addition of the city by Dr. J. M. Thompson of Walters, and E. L. Kibble of Chickasha. A modern, fireproof, four-story structure which will compare favorably with any modern institution of its kind within this section of the state will be built.

The hospital is being financed by Dr. Thompson and Mr. Kibble with the assistance of a number of Walters citizens, it is stated. There will be a total of 18 rooms to a story, with 60 beds and four wards, according to plans. An electric elevator and an automatic heating and cooling system will be installed.

Construction is expected to start within two weeks. Dr. Thompson will continue the operation of the Walters hospital, he states.

Sunset Pecan Crop Remains Uncertain

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Sept. 15.—An exact estimate of the pecan crop here this year would be hard to make. Some of the trees are well loaded with pecans and others near them have but few pecans on them. Most of the pecan trees here are native trees growin gin Sandy and Brushy creek valleys. Many individual farms have less than 25 trees to the farm, but some have a larger number than that. A. J. Mathews and others have grafted some of their native trees with papershell pecan buds but have been unable to get as good results as they had desired.

ENTERPRISE IN EASY VICTORY

Vanderbilt Yacht Two Up On Shamrock

By SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE ...
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 15.—Harold S. Vanderbilt sailed his yacht Enterprise to victory by a margin of nine minutes and 34 seconds today over Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock and with the victory had established an impressive margin in favor of the American boat.

Enterprise now has won two races. It needs but two more to send the Shamrock back to England in defeat without the historic America's cup for which it challenged.

Yacht's Speed Shown

The margin of two races to none in favor of the Enterprise was only a portion of the advantage, for Vanderbilt demonstrated today that he was capable of meeting and defeating the challenging yacht and crew at almost any branch of racing.

On the start he out-jockeyed the green boat from the Royal Ulster Yacht club and its master, Capt. Edward Heard, getting such a start across the line that in 10 minutes he was in position to cross the Shamrock's bows at any time he chose.

When he finally did cross the bows and Shamrock went to the opposite tack to escape the disadvantage of having the Enterprise on the windward, Vanderbilt followed and it didn't take long for him to demonstrate that he did not propose to let Shamrock get away for a moment.

When the windward beat of the 30-mile triangular course off Brenton's Reef had been completed, Vanderbilt outsailed Heard and the green yacht again in rounding the marking buoy and from then on the race was as good as over. The American skipper set great billows of sail and scudded before the wind, opening yard after yard of water between himself and the Britisher and on the final run home, despite difficulty in holding a light breeze for a time, the story was the same.

Shamrock Poor Second

When the American boat sailed over the finish line amid the throaty blasts of a hundred yachts and power boats, the Shamrock could just barely be seen, almost two miles behind, her white sails all but merging invisibly into the gray band of fog which slowly was creeping in.

The windward, supposedly a big advantage, Enterprise had such headway that it drew perhaps a quarter of a mile from the Shamrock in the first 10 minutes.

Association Gives Stribling Heavy Lead and Carnera Clean Slate

OMAHA, Neb., Sept 15. (UP)—W. L. "Young" Stribling, of Georgia, today was named leading contender for the heavyweight boxing championship and Primo Carnera, giant Italian, was purged of participating in "fixed" fights by the National Boxing association in annual convention here.

The convention passed a ruling holding that Carnera never had been guilty of fraud as far as he himself knew the quality of fighters with whom he was matched. He was reinstated as a "ranking contender for the heavyweight championship of the world."

The association recognized the following division champions and named one leading contender for each weight:

Flyweight: Frank Genaro, Midget Wolgast.

Bantam Weight: Vacant, Al Brown.

Featherweight: Bat Battalino, Kid Chocolate.

Junior Lightweight: Benny Bass, Pete Nebo.

Lightweight: Al Singer, Ted Kaplan.

Junior Welterweight: Ted Berg, Baby Joe Gans.

Middleweight: Vacant, Dave Shade.

Light heavyweight: Maxie Rosenbloom, Jimmy Slattery.

Heavyweight: Max Schmeling, W. L. Stribling.

The convention adopted the report of Stanley Isaacs, president. It also ruled that when a boxer is suspended the suspension will not go into effect until the fighter has filled all pending contracts already signed.

Young Amazons Decline Surrender In School Strike

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 15. (INS)—With several score modern "Joan of Arcs" refusing to retire from the field of battle, even though several of their boy-compatriots had given up the fort, and with many irate parents rising up in favor of their children, the high school strike by 500 students, protesting the addition of 75 minutes to the school day, was no nearer a peaceful settlement today.

Following a secret meeting by the school committee last night, to which nearly 2,500 parents were refused admission, a parents' meeting was called at Saltonstall park for tonight.

Several boy leaders of the strike, following a conference with officials of the Watertown Chamber of Commerce, agreed to return to school and use their influence to get the others to return. The girls, however, repudiated the boys for "deserting the cause," and declared they had no authority to act for the 500 strikers.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. (AP)—Advances from rather an irregular trading in cotton here today was attributed to covering and trade buying, but after selling up from 11.02 to 11.18, or about 15 or 16 points net higher, the market eased off again under realizing and southern selling. New December sold back to about the opening price, closing at 11.03, with the general market closing barely steady net 3 points lower to 2 points higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 2 points. New October sold up from 10.85 to 11.00 and March from 11.26 to 11.40; during the middle of the day. The demand seemed to taper off at these figures however, and the market eased later under liquidation or reselling by early buyers and some increase in the offerings from the South.

The factor chiefly discussed in connection with the day's fluctuations, however, was the comparative absence of southern selling during the early trading and the increased offerings from that source in the afternoon.

Liverpool cables said hedging and liquidation there had been absorbed by continental buying and reported a broadening demand for cloths and yarns. Exports today 44,135 making 702,400 so far this season. Port receipts 72,979. U. S. port stocks, 2,189,795.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15. (AP)—Although the cotton market was disappointing at the opening today it soon rallied and was on the upgrade nearly all morning due to continued rains in the eastern belt and rather heavy trade buying in the market here. Before this demand was satisfied prices had advanced 18 to 20 points from the early lows. Although the market eased off 6 to 7 points on realizing around mid-session the undertone remained firm.

The market gradually eased off during the period after mid-session owing to profit taking and more or less hedge selling but prices kept within the earlier range but somewhat nearer the lows. October closed at 10.90 and December at 11.08 showing net declines on those months of 4 to 5 points. The general market closed steady at net gains of 1 to 5 points.

Liverpool came in 4 points up and first trades here showed no change to 2 points decline. The opening figures proved the lows of the day however, with October at 10.84 and December at 11.03. Prices soon started to rally and by the end of the first hour October traded at 10.90 and December at 11.07 or 4 to 6 points up from the lows.

The market had a sharp rally later in the morning on continued rains in the eastern belt and rather heavy trade buying here and October advanced to 11.04 and December to 11.21 or 18 to 20 points above the early lows. Around mid-session prices reacted 6 to 7 points on realizing.

The market ruled easier in the afternoon mainly on realizing and hedge selling and prices kept within the earlier range but nearer the lows than the highs. And the close was within 5 to 6 points of the lows but 1 to 5 points net higher for the day.

Port receipts 64,841, for week 125,857, for season 1,386,096, last season 1,034,298. Exports 37,005, for week 45,035, for season 869,680, last season 535,194. Port stock 2,193,770, last year 871,169. Market Retreats Under Unfavorable Developments in World Conditions

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. (US)—Stocks continued under pressure today, although volume of offerings continued relatively small, little over a million and a half shares changing hands.

There were too many unfavorable developments in world wide conditions to encourage extensive support and this was reflected in a steady tendency toward lower levels, with closing prices virtually the lowest of the day and among most of the leaders the lowest on the present setback. At no time were there signs of more than an orderly retreat of quotations. The weakness evidenced more than anything else the disinclination of bullishly-inclined factors to attempt stemming the tide at any particular level. Whatever buying was evident took place on recessions.

From the opening, the market was chilled by the German news detailing the election results. With wheat breaking into new low territory under 80 cents a bushel, the commodity situation held little cheer for the market, and evidence that Copper prices have weakened further served only to emphasize that further adjustments are necessary in various directions. Under the weight of the depressing factors, cheaper money at 2 per cent was overlooked as an influence on prices.

Orderliness of the market was its only redeeming feature, although absence of large-scale liquidation likewise emphasized the professional character of the pressure. Nevertheless, failure of more active support to develop was highly disappointing, particularly to those who had been led to believe underlying conditions have improved. The market is getting very close to that period where concrete evidence will have to be forthcoming if actual betterment in business if prices are to hold. Disappointment over failure of general business to show more than the most modest rally is finding expression in stock prices. In this respect there was a report that one of the most reliable trade indices has been revised to a somewhat less encouraging prospect. The bull contingent in the market, however, continues to express belief that the steady demand for stocks, even if it appears only a setback in prices, evidences a backlog of buying which must soon exert influence on the price structure.

There were a few outstanding firm spots, General Refractories gained over a point on demand which was attributed to other than speculative interests, although a strong group is actively interested in the stock. This company is favored by prevailing low rate of operations in the steel industry, permitting extensive repair and building work, in which refractories is a leading factor. Gillette also held firm despite the general weakness. It is understood the Gillette management has reached some sort of agreement with the Auto-Strop company with respect to their patent litigation. Considerable buying of Gillette was traced to interests who formerly were active bears on the stock. It is not known yet whether the settlement involves a merger of the companies or possibly a substantial cash payment, in which connection recent reports of Gillette financing may be significant.

Another development of the week-end which had repercussion market-wise was the disclosure that stock exchange and New York state authorities were actively pursuing their campaign against stock racketeers. In this connection, it was stated that Dunhill International at one stage had no nearby bids, until a leading stock exchange house identified with its management supplied bids. This stock has been run by a pool whose participants have attracted attention from the attorney general's office. It was also stated that another stock has been under investigation for "wash sales." The revival of stock racketeering has been very noticeable, particularly among the low-priced stocks. The more aggressive investigations, however, have influenced even some of the legitimate operators in the market to curtail activities until the pending investigations are concluded, for fear of possible influence on various operations.

American Smelting was under steady pressure and affected the other copper shares, all of which were responding to disclosures that another downward adjustment in copper is a near-future possibility. The smelters selling, to which attention had already been directed here as significant, was unsettling to the entire list since the company is recognized as probably the soundest in the industry. Utilities yielded with the general list. Public Service was off over a point. The company may issue new $5 preferred stock. Railroad stocks as a group were inactive, but Baltimore & Ohio held firm. The dividend action on which is due Wednesday appears safe for this quarter at least. Warner Bros. was favored by expiration of its rights.

Oil stocks were in supply. Steel common closed off 2⅜, American Can 2⅞, American Telephone and Telegraph 1½, Westinghouse 2⅜, General Motors ½, Consolidated Gas 1⅞.

It was reported that toward the close a better grade of buying developed for the leading issues, but the buying is extremely discriminating.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (AP)—In a deluge of selling, wheat prices today plunged below 80c a bushel, touching the bottommost level since 1907, barring only 1914. Word that a big increase of the United States wheat visible supply had brought the total up to a new high record did much to pull the market down. Selling also was induced by an official statement that $30,000,000 bank credit which the grain stabilization corporation had obtained would be used to refinance the corporation's present holdings of wheat and not for new purchasing.

Despite early upturns in quotations wheat closed unsettled at nearly the day's lowest point, ¼@¾c under Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅜@1⅛c off, oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Downturns of wheat prices today not only resulted in fresh bottom records for wheat but for rye and oats as well. The pressure on the wheat market was chiefly manifest after advices indicated the domestic visible supply total today would be heavily enlarged. Even so, few traders were prepared for the final announcement near the end of the day that domestic stocks had augmented 7,585,000 bushels during the last week, more than double the increase of the week preceding and almost seven times as much as was the case at this juncture a year ago.

Corn averaged lower sympathizing with wheat toward the last, although earlier the corn market displayed firmness at times as a result of spreaders buying corn against sales of wheat. New investment buying helped to steady the oats market.

Provisions rose on account of scattered demand from previous sellers.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (US)—Speculative buying power being obviously insufficient to absorb the pressure of marketing notwithstanding statistical outlook, the trade looks for nothing but further declines until foreign demand appears to help absorb the pressure or the movement drops to a point where buying power is strong enough to offset it.

Declines of around 15c from the high points at which corn futures sold finds friends of this market looking for the time to purchase. But the weakness of wheat continues the most bearish factor.

Broomhall points out that with the coming of freezing weather, Canada should have the advantage over Russia in selling wheat in the foreign markets. This is due to the fact that Canada has heavy stocks at the seaboard, while Russia will be unable to use either rivers or canals.

Canadian country deliveries of wheat Saturday were 2,809,000 bushels compared with 3,715,000 bushels a year ago.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15. Newcastle District Draws Major Interest With Many Wells Busy

NEWCASTLE, Texas, Sept. 15.—With practically the entire portion of the county north and east of Newcastle either under lease or with one or more wells drilling on each section, attention of operators and others has turned in the past week to the territory south of the Brazos river, and in a southwest direction from this city a few miles and several locations have been staked out while a number of tests have already spudded.

In the vicinity of the old Manhattan well which was drilled a few years ago and which encountered a gas sand making 6,000,000 feet, Rubsam and associates made location for No. 1 T. J. Routon in section 736. Hamilton and associates staked location for No. 1 Johnson in the east half of section 2946, T. E. & L. survey, a short distance east of the old Manhattan gasser.

East of the Hamilton location, in section 2950, Weaver land, Grubbs and others have made location for a 1100-foot test. Fort Worth parties will put down three tests at once on their leases in section 2929, 2927 and 2926 T. E. & L. survey, Johnson ranch.

Malone and others of Dallas have spudded in on their lease on the west 40 acres of the east 120 acres of block 16, T. E. & L. survey, east of the Hamilton test.

Willett and others have spudded in on the C. C. Mills tract in the Rebecca Edwards survey, abstract 90, west of the Malone test.

The Amarada company has drilled several core tests on its two blocks out of the Johnson ranch. Several of the bigger companies, the Panhandle, Texas and Prairie, have acquired tracts both in lease and fee, and other tests are expected to be drilling in the near future.

EAST OF PADGETT

H. D. Egger & Brazelton Brothers-Williams staked out location for No. 1 J. W. Bullock to be drilled 1500 feet from the west, and 150 feet from the south line of section 327, T. E. & L. survey, east of the townsite of Padgett in Young county, and are moving on.

SOUTHWEST OF ORTH

Maer & Hamilton No. 1 S. R. Jeffery, located in southwest quarter of section 53, T. E. & L. survey, which came in Sunday estimated at 650 barrels, continues to flow with no diminishment. The well, a wildcat, drilled 14 feet of sand topped at 812 feet. Additional tankage is being erected in order to handle the output.

NEWCASTLE PRODUCER

J. H. Kleiner and others No. 1 J G. Graham, located in section 2249, T. E. & L. survey, north of Newcastle in Young county, is completed and on the pump as a 300 barreler from the pay at 679 feet. No. 2 is drilling at 650 feet and is feeling for the sand.

ARCHER COUNTY LOCATION

C. S. Coll and associates No. 1 Barry, located 1170 feet from the north line and 1170 feet from the west line of block 8, A. Nunelly survey, abstract 320, in Archer county, is spudded in.

KING ROYALTY COMPANY

King Royalty-Bullington No. 5 J. G. Graham in section 2249, T. E. & L. survey, Newcastle pool, of Young county, is making 175 barrels on the pump from a sand at 683-694 feet.

EAST OF OLNEY

Painter & Knox No. 1 Groves, located in section 1491, T. E. & L. survey, and about four miles east of the Benson pool in northeast Young county has set eight-inch pipe at 610 feet.

W. HAMMON LOCATION

Wayne Hammon has staked out location for a test to be drilled in the center of the south half of section 315, T. E. & L. survey, Johnson land, four miles east of Padgett in Young county.

TEST PROVES BIGGEST WELL

Oklahoma City Gusher May Make 65,000 Barrels

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15. (AP)—Claimed to be the greatest high gravity, sweet oil producing well of history, the number 5 Holmes in the South Oklahoma City field flowed 3,712 barrels of oil in an hour and 20 minutes on a production test Monday morning. The well, owned by Hall-Briscoe and the British-American Oil company, was completed last week but shut in to build new saparators.

Flowing at the initial rate the well would make more than 65,000 barrels a day. The largest well completed previously in the Oklahoma City field was the I. T. I. O. No. 1 Thomas-Fuzzell, which did 53,000 barrels on a 24-hour gauge, producing from siliceous lime.

The number 5 Holmes was forced to shut in Monday morning after the test because of its large volume. It gauged 35,000,999 feet of gas. Total depth is 6,540 feet in the Wilcox sand. It is on the west side of the field.

More than 16,000,000 Americans visited Canada last year.

FOUR HELD IN SOONER DEATH

Shooting Follows Fistic Encounter

CHICKASHA, Okla., Sept. 15. (UP)—Sheriff Matt Sankey of Grady county said today that murder charges would be filed against four men in the fatal shooting yesterday of Bill Isabel, Chandler, Okla., farmer.

Isabel died in an Oklahoma City hospital today from wounds he received in a gun battle said to have followed a fist fight at a dance east of Chickasha.

Otis Hale and Jim Parker were also wounded in the affray.

Milton Sills Dies Of Heart Attack

his film work, took part in a number of scholarly enterprises.

He frequently lectured at colleges and universities on screen art, literature and religion. One of his lectures was delivered at the Harvard school of business administration in 1927.

Sills was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon at Chicago university, the Lambs and Players' clubs of New York, and a number of other organizations there and in Los Angeles. He was counted one of the most brilliant men on the screen.

Born in 1882

He was born in Chicago on Jan. 12, 1882, and received his education in that city. He was graduated from the University of Chicago in the class of 1903, and held a fellowship in philosophy there for two years.

Although Sills' education had not pointed him toward a stage career, he decided two years after he left college that the drama was to be his life work.

His debut as a professional player was made in New Palestine, Ohio, when he played the leading male role in "Dora Thorne." Later he was leading man in Belasco, Shubert, Frohman & Brady productions on New York and other eastern stages.

Brilliant Career

He entered motion pictures in 1914, first playing a part in a screen play called "The Pit." He rapidly became a star and at one time was the highest paid man on the screen.

"The Sea Hawk" and "Men of Steel" were two of his leading screen works. In addition to starring in the latter production he was the author.

Sills was under long term contract to First National pictures for years, playing opposite Dorothy Mackaill, Alice White and others. At one time his salary was reported at $7,500 per week. His final screen work was in "The Barker."

Famous Romance

The Sills-Kenyon romance was much in the headlines due to the fact that the actor and his first wife were being divorced at the time Miss Kenyon was working at the First National lot.

Shortly after the marriage Miss Kenyon was ill for months and Sills found it necessary to take her by special train to the Adirondacks, as she was recovering Sills became ill and was forced to retire temporarily from pictures.

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

Illustrated by Jay Hyde Barnum Copyrighted by Public Ledger

I. But—you'll get over your shame. Men do. And I—goodby."

She uttered the farewell abruptly, rising as she spoke. She held out her hand and Granby took it. He had never met any one so completely mistress of herself and her emotions. The palm that his fingers touched was cool and steady. He noticed how firmly strong it was.

"Mrs. Fairleigh's, then, in six months." she smiled.

Almost without knowing how he got there, he was outside her door, was in the mean lobby of the Mercat hotel, had passed the curious eyes of the clerk and the colored bell boy, and was on West Forty-seventh street.

Not until he reached Fifth avenue did he take stock of himself.

"Ran Granby," he said then, "you're a fool."

He had reached Fiftieth street when his thoughts became coherent again.

"Ran Granby," he said this time, "you're a dirty cad."

As he turned into his apartment, he addressed himself once more:

"I've made a decent girl believe that I'm like every other rotter she's met. If I had to be insane enough to give her that amount of money, why couldn't I carry on my insanity and be decent? Well, I'll show her. I'll never see her again. And that's that."

But a still small voice inside of him told him that "that" was not "that."

Jinny Loan knocked on the door of Donna Raynor's room. A stifled "come in" made her enter. Donna was seated on the floor amid a heap of shabby garments. A battered wardrobe trunk, virtually empty, stood beside her.

"What's the big idea? Moving?" inquired Jinny.

Donna nodded.

"I'm trying to find something in this bunch worth taking with me," she said.

She made an elaborate effort to seem casual, but she avoided Jinny's eyes. Her own eyes were red.

"Inherited a fortune?" asked Jinny.

Donna nodded.

"And I suppose it consists of a flat on West End avenue and a charge account at Black's, eh?" Jinny sat down on the arm of a chair, lighted a cigaret and looked scornfully down at the other girl.

"Well," she went on, "I certainly never woulda picked you for the kind to fall as easy as that."

"Wouldn't you?" asked Donna.

"No, I wouldn't. And what's more I've a mind to take you over my knee and use a slipper like no shoemaker ever intended. And I'm husky enough to do it, too."

Her wrath suddenly dissolved into anguish.

"Aw, Donna, be your age. Be the swell girl I know you are. What the h—? Suppose you ain't getting a break? Lots of girls don't get breaks, but they don't have to be kept by some old codger with a bank roll. There's other shows besides the Frivols. Listen, girlie, I got a stand-in with the head waiter at the Biarritz club. He'd get the management to stick you right in the chorus. What the h——, kid? You might get a chance to sing a number. And you'd see all the Johns in town. And they'd see you, close up, where they could tell right off what a pip you are. A smart girl like you could dig up a husband—"

"That's what I'm going to dig up, Jinny," said Donna.

"You're going about it right," sneered Jinny. "Letting this Granby bird put up—"

"I don't expect to see Mr. Granby for—well, for months," said Donna. "He's going abroad."

"And you're moving?" Jinny's eyes widened. "Donna, you don't mean to tell me that he fell for that letter?"

"You saw him here, didn't you?" said Donna.

"And he came through? Donna you're lying."

"Am I?" asked Donna.

"A grand a month? And you ain't moving in with him? Well, what on earth is he getting out of it?"

"Nothing," said Donna.

"Didn't he ask for nothing?" demanded Jinny.

"He said he wouldn't take anything," evaded Donna. Somehow she felt protective toward Granby, didn't want Jinny to think ill of him.

"Well, the poor tramp," cried Jinny. "Where does he think he'll see a sweller girl than you?"

"He—he's interested in me as a—problem," said Donna. "He wants to see if I can do as I said I'd do in the letter I wrote him."

"Well, all I can say is I'm interested in him as a problem, the poor fish," said Jinny.

Donna giggled.

"Where are you going to move to?" asked Jinny.

The girl on the floor rose slowly to her feet.

"Jinny, do you need any money?" she asked.

"Who? Me? Certainly not. Why?"

"Because I can lend you $300 that I have in the bank," said Donna.

"Why are you offering it to me?" asked Jinny.

"Because I want you to know that I'm fond of you, that I like you. So that you won't think too meanly of me for what I'm about to say to you."

"I know what you're going to say," said Jinny. "You're going to tell me that you won't give me your new address. You're going to tell me that I'd be no good to you in the new racket you're headed for. Well, I know I wouldn't. I don't blame you. I couldn't pass up a good friend myself, but you're different, Donna."

"I'm hard," said Donna.

"Sure you are," agreed Jinny. "Me, I'm a soft mutt, and my husband will probably get stewed and beat me up, and I'll forgive him when he sobers off—I'm crazy about you, Donna. You're straight and you're white. You got class. I haven't. Girlie, when you are married to that millionaire you're aiming for—and I can't queer you with my East Side accent, will you come around and say, 'Hello'? Donna, I want to cry."

"So do I, Jinny," said Donna.

And both of them did.

Warehouse Damaged $7,500 by Blaze

Fire which supposedly originated by spontaneous combustion early Monday morning caused damage between $7,500 and $10,000 to the warehouse and office of the Moore & Richolt Lumber company, 1301 Scott avenue, according to estimates of members of the firm.

The fire which apparently started in the paint warehouse had gained considerable headway when discovered by a passerby who turned in the alarm. The flames were confined to a very small portion of the yards, doing damage to only the office and store rooms, leaving the larger lumber stock unharmed.

Business will be transacted as usual, it was announced with work on the repairs to be started at once.

Keeney was arrested last night after officers traced footprints from the place where W. H. Folwell, 75, was found beaten to death to a street car station where Keeney was standing.

When the farmers congregated at the Folwell home, Sheriff Rogers secreted the prisoner back to Oklahoma City.

RAILS MEET TRUCK RATES

Freight Charges Lowered To Fight Competition

DALLAS, Sept. 15. (AP)—Reduction in freight rates on cotton in territory about 200 to 225 miles from Houston was agreed on here today by representatives of Texas railroads.

The reduction was necessary to fight competition from trucks, it was said, and to assist in maintaining interior cotton concentration markets.

Application will be filed within a few days with the railroad commission at Austin for authority to make the reduction, and a request for an early hearing will be made.

Reduced Rates Set

The reduced rates were set at about 75 cents to $1 a bale below the old regular rates and from 50 cents to 75 cents a bale below the present rates established recently to meet truck competition.

In an effort to control truck competition, it was pointed out, the railroad commission recently ordered trucks operating on regular rates to secure class A certificates and prescribed rates to be applied to such truck service. Nevertheless, the railroad men said, the rates and regulations were disregarded, and cotton continued to be handled to Houston and Galveston at rates lower than those prescribed for truck lines and lower than those applicable to rail lines.

Trucking Extended

Whereas until recently trucking of cotton was heaviest within a radius of 150 miles of Houston, speakers said, it has been extended to points as far as 200 and 225 miles and has seriously affected railroads' revenues. It was further said that while cotton traders advocated compression and concentration of cotton at interior points as best for the trade as a whole the trucks had threatened the existence of interior towns as cotton markets.

Haskell to Make Talk On European Irrigation

A comparison of the systems of irrigation in Europe and America was the subject of an address given by Fred Haskett of Dallas at the weekly luncheon of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board Monday noon.

Mr. Haskett returned recently from a European tour on which he observed the systems of irrigation in use there.

The meeting was the first held in several months, activities during the summer months having been suspended.

Negress Fined $15 For Causing Girl to Steal

Charged with having induced a 9-year-old negro girl to take a purse in a downtown store, a negro woman was fined $15 in corporation court here Monday.

The woman was arrested Saturday night by Homer Bentley, motorcycle squad captain.

Other fines totaling $75 were assessed for violations of traffic regulations, one of $30 being imposed on a man for speeding in a school zone.

Death, Damage Follow Wake of Violent Storms

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15. (UP)—Damage from a severe wind and electrical storm which swept over Eastern Oklahoma last night and injured 10 persons today was set at $200,000.

Most of the damage was centered at Maud and Tulsa. Lightning struck a 55,000-barrel oil tank at Maud and exploded it. Four persons were injured, none seriously.

The storm ripped across the state fair grounds at Tulsa. Three persons attending the exposition were injured.

KGKO TO HOLD AUDITION TEST

Atwater Kent Competition Scheduled Sept. 29

Amateur singers of the Wichita Falls district will be given another opportunity to compete for large cash prizes and scholarships in outstanding conservatories when the fourth annual Atwater Kent audition will be held at radio station KGKO on Sept. 29 at 9 p. m., under the direction of Mrs. Lois Parker.

Announcement of plans for the annual radio contest was made Monday by Mrs. Parker. All singers desiring to enter the local audition will request application blanks from station KGKO either by phone or letter. Each entrant will be required to submit a list of three songs, from which the judges will select one which the contestant will use.

More than 150,000 young singers in this country have participated in the Atwater Kent contests during the past three years, and the incentive provided for the development of talent has been regarded as a result fully as valuable as the prizes awarded winners in the contests.

Contestants must be 18 years of age and not more than 24, according to the rules of the contest. Each community selects its winners among the young men and young women, the two representing that city in the state contest. Winners of state competition go to a district contest, of which there are five in the nation.

In the national finals the prizes awarded are:

Winners of first place (one boy and one girl), $5,000 each and two years' tuition in an American conservatory.

Winners of second place, $3,000 each and one year's tuition.

Winners of third place, $2,000 each and one year's tuition.

Winners of fourth place, $1,500 each and one year's tuition.

Winners of fifth place, $1,000 each and one year's tuition.

'Human Projectle' Saves Income to Study Art in Italian Homeland

"Are you ready, Zacchini?" Boom! And Hugo Zacchini, "the human projectile," who knows how it is to act as a human shell for a monster cannon, is blown from the muzzle of a monster siege cannon to alight more or less gracefully in a huge net some 100 feet away. This Zacchini accomplishes afternoon and night beneath the monster main tent of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus, coming to Wichita Falls for a single day, with afternoon and night performances, Saturday, Sept. 20.

Zacchini's ambition is to become an artist and he doesn't intend to go on forever being blown from a big Bertha; only until the bankroll will permit him to return to his native Italy and take up art studies without fear of the wolf at the door.

Other attractions at this year's circus of the Ringling boys will include the widely heralded village of black worriors and their awesome women folk with enormous distended upper and lower lips, from the Ubangi district in the French Congo; Goliath, monster sea elephant; Yasso, the pachyderm who swalows the head of her trainer and totes him about; Lillian Leitzel, the sweetheart of circus fans the world over; Alfredo Codona, only living performer to throw a triple somersault in mid-air; the dare devil Wallendas troupe in suicidal stunts on the high wire; 250 equines in a single act; five herds of wise old elephants in a new bag of tricks; four groups of seals who applaud their own stuff with fat, black flippers, and more and more of everything than was ever before put together and labeled a circus. Five score clowns furnish a riotous avalanche of howling hilarity, and for almost three hours there is kaleidoscopic activity all over the place. The main tent seats 15,000 people and the grand stands are equipped with electric fans.

'Dry' Amendment Called Greatest Mistake in U. S. Constitution

Effect of Legislation to Control Personal Rights Deplored By Judge J. T. Montgomery Here

Commending prohibition but deploring the extension of the United States constitution by amendment to the control of personal rights, Judge J. T. Montgomery declared before members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon that passage of the eighteenth amendment was "the greatest mistake ever made in the construction or interpretation of the American constitution."

Speaking in connection with the local club's observance of "Constitution Week" sponsored by Kiwanis International, Judge Montgomery stated that not until the prohibition amendment was enacted had the constitution extended beyond the control of state and federal rights. Its framers, he declared, were particularly careful to avoid any suggestion of regulation of presonal rights in the document.

"I voted for prohibition in Texas," continued Judge Montgomery, "and I would do so again, but I believe that the state government should handle this question. The 18th amendment is the worst mistake in the constitution—not in purpose, but in effect. Since its passage, the public has been so concerned with this one matter that there has been no other issue in any political campaign.

The speaker described in some detail various situations and methods pertaining to the writing of the original constitution, and commended its framers for their capacity to compromise when disagreements arose.

W. E. Young was named by the club to serve as a judge in the annual Atwater-Kent amateur radio audition to be held at radio station KGKO on Sept. 24-29 under the direction of Mrs. Lois Parker. M. A. Ellis was named as alternate.

Announcement of a miniature golf tournament now being carried on by the club at the Indian Heights course was made by Dr. R. H. Peterson, president, who also introduced the guests present. J. M. Williams introduced Judge Montgomery.

New Cotton Plan Introduced Here

A new plan for advancing money to farmers on their cotton will be put into operation in Wichita Falls by D. W. Wiley, cotton buyer, through the co-operation of a large cotton firm, Mr. Wiley announced Monday.

Advances will be made by Mr. Wiley to the producer for the actual value of his cotton, less one and one-half cent per pound margin. Cotton will have a definite value of as many points off the future months as the day on which the advance is made. Cotton will be taken on any month up to and including July. The producer may fix the price of his cotton on the close of any day he may select.

There will be no handling charges whatever in connection with the transaction and no storage or insurance costs, Mr. Wiley explained. Farmers participating in the plan may do so without committing their production over a long period of years.

Interest Grows in Memphis Rail Plan

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 15.—According to J. Henry Read, secretary of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, interest is growing daily in the project being sponsored by the chamber to induce the Santa Fe to consider extension of its lines from Canadian through Memphis to Sweetwater.

The proposed line, as Col. C. T. Matkin, chairman of the railroad committee of the chamber of commerce, sees it, would likely run from Canadian through Mobeetie, McLean, McKnight, Memphis, Hulver or Parnell, Matador, Roaring Springs, Dickens, Spur, Clairemont, Rotan and Roby to Longworth, on the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railway, about 15 miles north of Sweetwater. By building to Longworth, trackage into Sweetwater would be provided, since the Orient is now owned by the Santa Fe. The total construction would be approximately 270 miles.
