Local Methodist will have camp meeting July 1

The combined Spearman-Gruver Methodist Church Choir is practicing for the big Methodist Camp Meeting to be held at Old

Hansford July 1st.

Hansford County Methodist, who will be observing the Bicentennial of Methodism in America with a 6:30 P.M. Camp Meeting, Sunday, July 1, have a heritage dating from December 1784.

It was in that year that John Wesley sent Dr. Thomas Coke to the United States to organize the Methodists in this country. Dr. Coke met with Francis Asbury on 14 November and they agreed to call a conference of the preachers to meet Christmas Eve in Baltimore. Sixty three of the eighty Methodist preachers in the United States gathered in Lovely Lane Chapel in Baltimore (then only ten years old) at ten o'clock in the morning 24 December.

The preachers who attended the conference were young--most of them in their twenties. Thomas Coke was thirty-seven and Francis Asbury was thirty-nine. They voted that day to establish the Methodist Episcopal Church.

When the Christmas Conference was over, the preachers returned to their appointments. They and their successors did their work well for within seventy-five years Methodism was the number one Protestant denomination in the country.

The Camp Meeting was used for three generations by these the Methodist ancestors. From 1790 to 1810 Camp Meetings were widely held in frontier areas. People came to a site in wagons with families bringing their own provisions and staying for days and sometimes weeks. Crude pulpits were erected and services were held several times a day. The Camp Meeting was a great factor in the spread of the Methodist Church.

The heroes of early United Methodism in this country were

HARVEST REPORT

Harvest began this week in Hansford County. Equity Elevator reported that Bob Stewart brought in the first load of wheat from the Gus Renner Farm. It is estimated that dry land fields are yielding 32 1/2 bushels per acre. Peter Vernon and Bernice Brown brought in the first loads of wheat to the Speartex Elevator.

Agco reports that Ray Martin brought the first wheat in to their elevator. The wheat had a test weight of 60 and a moisture content of 13.5. The field is yielding approximately 30 bushels per acres.

Beulah Burger brought the first load of wheat to Oles Grain Co. The grain had a test weight of 60.

Farmers have also begun harvesting their irrigated wheat, but we have not yet had any reports on what these fields are yielding.

Survivors include his wife, Eileen. Eileen is the former Eileen Davis of Spearman. She is a sister of J.W. and Willard Davis of Spearman. A son, Joe D. of Grandview, Mo.; a daughter, Suzanne Reznik of Waco; his mother, Olive Mack of Springfield, Mo.; and a brother Gerald A. of Oklahoma City.

A Tribute to Methodist Volunteers

the circuit rider preachers. They did not stay long in one place and their home was their horse as they traveled from community to community. At the Christmas conference in 1784, the annual salary approved for the preachers was sixty-four dollars. No minister made more than any other. In 1800, the salary was raised to eighty dollars per year "and their traveling expenses." A horse usually cost a year's salary, but it was necessary for a circuit rider.

'Tis now time for present day Methodists to honor these first American Methodists and to realize the wonderful heritage which is now ours to enjoy. Be sure you are in attendance at the Hansford County Methodist Camp Meeting at 6:30 P.M. Sunday, 1st July at the site of Old Hansford to enjoy a review of the past and a preview of the future for Methodists everywhere.

Ever wondered what it would be like to attend Cub Scout Day Camp? This year Spearman hosted day camp at Ft. Zulu on the Hawkins Ranch. It lasted 4 days with some ninety boys and twenty five adult leaders in attendance. It came to a close on Saturday with a watermelon seed spitting contest, 80 ft. long banana split, airplane egg drop, a kite contest and a weiner roast followed by indian dances at dusk. The pictures speak for themselves at what a goodtime was enjoyed by all. Towns participating were; Borger, Stinnett, Fritch, Gruver and Spearman.

All Scout pictures were made by Ernest Newcomb, professional photographer, Spearman, Texas.

We, the Adobe District Day Camp Directors would like to thank the following individuals and businesses for contributing to our day camp and making it such a success: White House Lumber Co.-Tim Woodington, Butch Schaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Vernon, Jeff and JoAnn Hawkins, Cuttrate Grocery- Pete Fisher, Pride Mart, Ideal Grocery, Alsup's, Dennis Brooks, Dairy Queen, Hansford Implement, R.L. McClellan Grain, First State Bank Spearman, Hansford County Parts-Gruver, Farm Bureau, Orin Burton, Roscoe Nelson, Harry Stumpf Agco, Dwight Sumner, Jim Beeson, Boy Scout Troop 551, Loyall Turner, Jim McMahan.

We would also like to thank our day camp staff: Marshp Pipkin, Kaye Loomis, Sharron Swan, Wanda McMahan, Letha Brooks, Sharon Knudson, Logan Hudson, Kevin Tindell, James Tindell,

John Antelek, and Lance Swan. I'm sure we've left someone out, not intentionally. We want everyone to know how much we appreciate your help and support of our Cub Scout Organization. Thanks again! Carolyn Babitzke Glenda Morgan

R.L. McClellan Grain Co. is having a close-out sale on their merchandise. They are giving a 20 percent discount on all feed, seed, garden supplies, chemicals and fertilizers and 30 percent discount of bridles, halters and feeders.

If you need any of these items this would be a good time to purchase them at a savings.

Keeping one's cool is what happens when you manage to make the payments on the whole-house air conditioning systems.

Considering how much trouble he has keeping it running, our neighbor says he's going to call his bike a "muttercycle."

Dismissed were Toby Thompson, Terrye Womble, D'Anda Widener and son, Jack Giblin, Myrtle Henderson and James Haskin.

Camping Family Style

BY ANGELA AND FORD BOTHWELL

If you've never camped in one of the 154 national forests in the United States, you're missing out on some spectacular scenery, not to mention one of the best camping bargains you'll find anywhere.

Each year, more than 40 million people camp in national forest campgrounds, while many others stay at near-by privately owned campgrounds during their visits to forest areas. They camp in the wilderness and explore the world about them while enjoying all types of outdoor recreation.

The National Forest System is made up of more than 200 million acres of land, 100,000 miles of trails, 70,000 miles of streams and rivers, and about 7,000 developed campgrounds. In fact, Forest Service officials say there's at least one national forest within a day's drive of almost anywhere in the U.S., making them ideal for short, weekend camping trips, as well as for longer, family vacations.

The national forests offer some of the most breathtaking natural wonders to be seen, ranging from the giant Sequoia trees in Sequoia National Forest in California to the crystal caves, waterfalls and canyons of Black Hills National Forest in South Dakota.

In addition to camping, many forests offer such things as canoeing, skin diving, swimming, fishing, hunting, hiking, mountain climbing and horseback riding. In some areas, there's snowmobiling, skiing and other winter sports.

The camping season in the national forests generally runs from Memorial Day through Labor Day, although some campgrounds remain open year round.

Most charge a small entrance fee. Reservations aren't required because campsites are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.

A 55-page booklet titled "National Forest Vacations," which includes data and the address of each forest, is available for $4.75 from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402. For specific camping information, maps and other details, write the Forest Supervisor of the individual forests.

For a free list of national forests and field offices, including their addresses, write to the Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, P.O. Box 2417, Washington, D.C. 20013

Mr. Fix

SHADE YOUR AIR CONDITIONER

There is no point in making any air conditioner work harder than it has to — yet that is exactly what happens to both window and whole-house units which are mounted so they receive the full blast of the summer sun. Since you have no choice, as a rule, as to where the air conditioner will be located, you doom it to working double duty, overcoming the heat inside the house and the heat of the sun as well.

You can increase the efficiency of the unit — which means you'll get more cooling per unit of electricity used — by providing shade for the exposed parts of the unit. To do this, you can use canvas awnings, fiber glass awnings, even trees or bushes. The important thing is to keep the direct sunlight off the compressor unit.

Caution: Be sure that, whatever you use, there is ample room for air circulation around the compressor unit.

SHADE FOR WINDOW UNITS

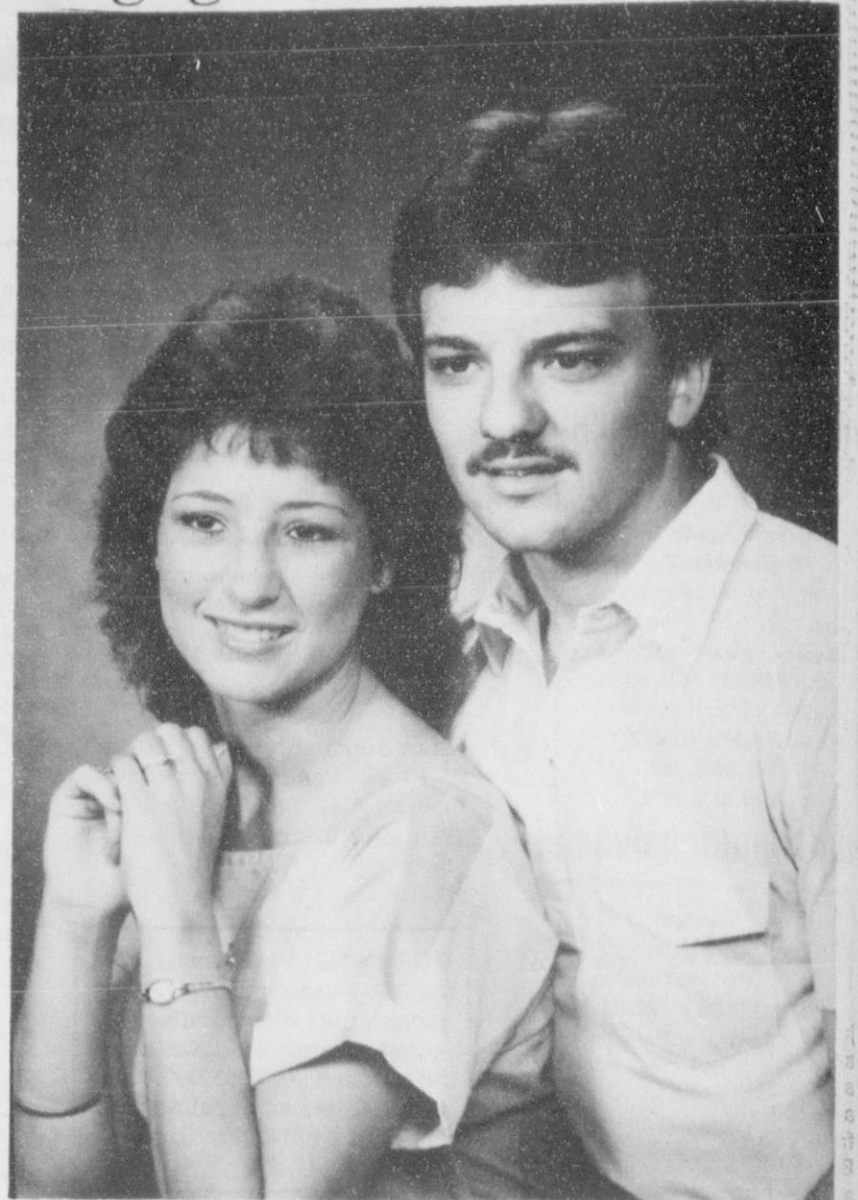

Use a standard canvas awning, an aluminum awning, a fiber glass awning.

SHADE FOR OUTDOOR COMPRESSORS

You can use awning-type shelters, a fence built to shade the unit, bushes planted far enough from the unit to allow air circulation. DO NOT use an enclosure such as a small shed, which will inhibit air circulation.

IN THE OPINION OF THE COURT

Crime, drug abuse, sexual license, contempt for society — on all counts the situation is worse, not better. Why do we no longer hear much about juvenile and parental delinquency?

First, the more common evil becomes, the less it is called delinquency. Lower standards enough and there are no delinquents!

Second, it wasn't juvenile or parental delinquency that caused our plight. It was spiritual delinquency. Millions in our society set their spiritual standards at a level where such delinquency became custom.

The thing to do with an opinion like this is to REVERSE it. That can be done by a Higher Court — such as an aroused citizenry, seeking every spiritual opportunity and fulfilling every religious responsibility that its churches provide and teach.

Upon stopping the subject, the officer observed that the subject was unsteady on his feet and his eyes were bloodshot. He also had a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage on his breath. The officer then placed the subject under arrest for Public Intoxication. The subject was transported to the Spearman Police Department where he was processed. The subject was first very cooperative and then refused to sign anything or answer anything also. The subject was then transported to the Hansford County Sheriff's Office where he was turned over to them.

Two-Bit Sermons

-Honour-

Psalm 91:15, Honour has always been sought by man. To be honored is to be held in high esteem, or to be regarded above others. Many people have achieved this very goal in life. Our country has produced many great men. These men with a desire for freedom and justice have altered the world with their efforts. Yet should we offer Jesus less?

As the psalmist wrote I will honour Him, so must we honor our Savior. The moving of the Holy Spirit of God so common in our fathers day is also available in our own lives. Imagine if you would, Moses in a different life than the one he chose. Commander Moses of the entire Egyptian army. He would lead his armies to victory after victory. Eventually many legends would arise about Him in Egypt. The children would speak of him in awe. Adults would look to him as the leader of their nation.

As life always ends Moses would die. In honour the people would mummify his body and place it in a great tomb. Centuries later it is unearthed and his achievements are made known. This has happened to many famous and honoured men in history.

Yet would it be more honouring to have the honour that God placed upon Him. The Evangelist D.L. Moody has said, "The honour of this world doesn't last, it is transient, it passes away; and I don't believe any man or woman is fit for God's service that is looking for worldly preferment, worldly honors, and worldly fame. Let us get it under our feet, let us rise above it, and seek the honour that comes from above." I believe today that this, still is good advice.

Steer Validation June 25

Hansford County 4-H and FFA Steer Validation will be held Monday, June 25, 1984. Validation will be held at Val Winger's pens located approximately 1 mile west of Gruver from 7 to 10:00 a.m. All steers that will be shown at major shows in Texas must be validated. Steers will be nose printed, tagged, photographed, and weighed at this time. The cost of the tag and photograph will be $2.00.

Steer exhibitors for Hansford County only have until September 29, 1984 to purchase steers. These steers will be validated on this date. It is suggested that all county steers already on feed be validated on June 25 in case the exhibitor decides to enter a major show later on in the year.

Caring For Children

BY ANDREA PAUL

Dear Andrea:

My child is eighteen months old. I know that sometime I will have to start potty training him. How do I begin? What do I do? How do I know if he is ready?

Sincerely, Sue

Dear Sue:

Some children are ready for potty training at eighteen months. Most are not. If you start to potty train too soon, both you and your child will become frustrated and feel like failures.

Using a potty takes more than training and a desire to please. It takes having control over bowels and bladder. This control comes at different ages in different children. You won't know for sure if he has the control he needs until you try to potty train him, but here are some clues to help you know if he is ready: Does he stay dry during naps? Does he take off his own diaper when wet and hand you a dry one? Does he tell you he is having a movement when he has one?

When you think your child may be ready for potty training, wait until you have one week with no other distractions. That week, potty training will take up most of your time and concentration. You will not be able to consistently put him of the pot if you are not home, or if you are to busy to pay him enough attention.

When potty training commences, make sure his clothing is easy for him to handle — elastic waist shorts or a dress. Training pants are great, but regular pants aren't bad since neither type is completely absorbant, and you will want to change them when wet or soiled anyway. Make sure the potty is always convenient, even taking it outside with you if you go play in the yard.

Let him know you expect him to sit on the potty whenever he needs to, and help him to sit whenever he asks. In addition, place him on the potty when he first wakes up, immediately after each meal, after snacks or juice, and before going down for a nap or to sleep at night. These are the times he is most likely to be successful.

Don't make too much fuss when he is successful. Don't get too upset when he has accidents, but let him help you clean up the mess.

If he hasn't caught on in a week, he is probably just not ready. Give him another three months and try again. Ignore all comments by friends or relatives who insist their child was potty trained at six months. They have just forgotten, and besides, all children are different, and they all eventually become potty trained.

SOME TIPS FOR THE KITCHEN

A lot of folks, who assumed that weight control meant staying out of the kitchen, are pleasantly surprised to discover themselves spending more, rather than less, time there. Losing weight often means learning new ways of preparing foods: broiling, steaming, poaching, and stir frying, for example. In addition, trying out new recipes and incorporating new foods, such as exotic herbs and spices, into your cooking adds zip and interest to your food plan. And so even folks who never had an interest in food preparation before may find themselves becoming competent closet chefs. With this in mind, then, we offer below an even dozen tips for use around the kitchen:

1. When poaching an egg, add a few drops of vinegar to the water. It will help the egg hold its shape without altering the flavor.

2. If you miss that dollop of sour cream on your baked potato, try topping with buttermilk instead.

3. If you miss cream in your coffee, try a splash of evaporated skimmed milk.

4. For a tasty side dish, bake whole large mushroom caps, open side up, at 300°F for half an hour. Sprinkle with seasoned salt before serving.

5. For that extra special flavor, make your own celery salt: dry celery leaves, then crush to a powder. Mix with salt in a shaker.

6. The end slice of a loaf of bread placed on top of cooking cabbage, broccoli, or Brussels sprouts before covering will absorb most of the cooking odor.

7. Lime juice will remove the odor of fish, garlic, onions, and other pungent foods from hands, cutting boards, and containers.

8. For softer skin and juicier fruit, leave lemons out of the refrigerator for a few days before using.

9. Avoid salting meat before cooking. It will shrink, and lose vital juices. Season, if necessary, at the table.

10. A bay leaf in flour, corn meal, or other staples will keep away weevils. Flour can also be stored in a plastic bag in the freezer.

11. Peeling and slicing onions under running water will save many a tear for the cook!

12. For that very special table setting, put candles in the freezer for one day before using, to make them burn longer.

Family Physician

BY DR. JAMES G. PRICE

I have just undergone an experience which many of my readers undergo from time to time — having a family member in the hospital. I'd like to devote this column to reflecting a little about this, and making a few suggestions to my colleagues. Those of us who are on the "providing" end of hospital care get a different perspective when we're on the patient end of it. My wife got excellent medical care, but a few little changes could have improved her attitude about possible future hospitalizations.

First of all, sick people need rest, and a hospital may not provide much opportunity for it. There are of course reasons why people have to come into the room — giving scheduled medicines, etc. But there are many other "room entries" which aren't directly connected with medical care and which disturb any efforts to sleep. Checking the ice water supply, emptying the wastebasket (no less than four times a day), checking the towel supply, cleaning the floor and picking up the meal trays a couple of hours after mealtime all interrupt efforts to rest, especially if you're trying to get used to a bed that's different from home. Could these things be grouped to all happen within a short time? My wife counted 27 such visits one day between eight A.M. and 6 P.M., all occurring at times that kept her from catching up on the sleep she'd missed the night before.

Some patients are lonesome when hospitalized and welcome any interruption to the tedium of long hours. Perhaps there is some way in which these two types of patients could be made known to the support personnel and visits timed accordingly.

And a word to the doctors who are all superbly trained and genuinely wanting to help alleviate physical problems. Don't forget to try to find out how a person feels about being a patient. Many people, because they know you're interested in helping them, are reluctant to mention items like lost sleep, anxiety about their condition, or a poor understanding of the "why's" and "what's" of their treatment. Get to know enough about them that you understand the reason they are anxious about themselves, about treatment, about going home, etc. Maybe good medicine won't allow you to change anything, but perhaps you can alleviate some anxiety and at least the patient will know that you're aware of their feelings and trying to design a treatment program with them in mind. This sounds like a little thing, but it can result in your patients not dreading being hospitalized, should the need arise.

Joan Crosby's TV PARADE

NEW FACE IN TOWN — If all goes as expected — and in television not much is ever sure — there will be a new series on ABC-TV next season called Three's A Crowd.

It will be a continuation of Three's Company with John Ritter's character living with a girl introduced in the final two episodes of Three's Company.

The search for the young woman to play Vicki Bradford, the airline stewardess who moves in with John — alias Jack Tripper — covered two coasts and something like 500 to 600 actresses.

May Cadarette is the name of the lady who won the role. She is very pretty, with a dancer's lithe body. But instead of looking like a blonde bombshell, top-heavy sexpot, she looks like the All-American girl next door with sex appeal.

She is from East Hartford, Connecticut and began training as a dancer when she was seven. She studied ballet, jazz and tap. She made it to Broadway as a dancer.

"My first Broadway show was Promises, Promises with Jerry Ohrbach and I thought he was great."

"Then I got cast as the understudy to the lead in 42nd Street and she has a love scene with Jerry Ohrbach, who stars in it. Well, I went on and as I was doing that scene a little voice inside of me was saying 'You're standing opposite Jerry Ohrbach and playing a love scene with him.'"

PERSONAL LIFE — No romance there, however. Mary is married to an advertising executive named Michael Eisen. And timing is working in their favor.

"He is opening a Los Angeles office for a New York-based production company and he'll be an account executive for them. He is actually more interested in producing than advertising and this is his first step."

Big steps for both of them, relocating to the West Coast, which Mary has learned to love.

"I found an apartment in West Hollywood and it is lovely. When we met in New York, I had a counter-top dish-washer which he thought was great. And Michael had an eat-in kitchen which I thought was great. When we got married, I took my dish-washer and moved into his eat-in kitchen apartment," she smiles.

It's an exciting time for Mary, waiting to see if the show is picked up. And she is philosophical about it: "I figure I got this far. It's much further than I was before."

Hollywood Marquee

by James S. Leach

HOLLYWOOD — Tidbits from Tinseltown . . .

Just got back from Dallas where I spent a few days on the set of "He's Not Your Son," a new motion picture-for-television slated to air next season on CBS.

The movie which stars Donna Mills, Ken Howard, John James and bright newcomer Ann Dusenberry, is about two couples who must face the fact that their infant sons were switched at the hospital following their birth. The subject material is pretty heavy as it deals with something all new parents fear, but are hesitant to talk about.

Now that Diahann Carroll is a regular on "Dynasty" watch for more and more music added to the top-rated show's story lines. Miss Carroll is first and foremost a singer, then an actress. The writers have not decided just what to do with her character, but one thing for sure, you can bet you'll see some real battles between her and arch-villainess Joan Collins.

In a very sad commentary on the state of our society, former Beatle George Harrison recently announced he'll no longer perform live in concert. Friends of Harrison say he still suffers from the shock of John Lennon's death. As a result of the senseless murder, George is very paranoid of the public.

Watch for veteran game show host Bill Cullen to take over MC duties on the syndicated game show "The Joker's Wild." Cullen will replace Jack Berry who recently suffered a fatal heart attack.

How about that deal recently cut between Julio Iglesias and Coca-Cola? Insiders tell me Iglesias could reap nearly $30 million from telling the world how things go better with Coke.

Richard Burton will make his American television mini-series debut, and his daughter, actress Kate Burton, will portray his on-screen daughter, in "Ellis Island," a seven-hour drama based on the best-selling novel by Fred Mustard Stewart that chronicles the lives of several European immigrants who come to New York at the turn of the century in search of the American dream. The series will be broadcast on CBS during the 1984-85 season.

Paul Rodriguez, star of the recently axed comedy series, "a.k.a. Pablo," has been signed for a major role in "Miracles," a Steve Roth Production for Orion Productions. Also starring in the film are Tom Conti and Teri Garr.

Word is out that the first single from the Jacksons "Victory" album will be Michael's duet with Rolling Stone Mick Jagger called, "State of Shock."

Remember, everyman has his dream . . . don't sleep through yours.

Senior Update

BY VIVIENNE BODEAU

CONGREGATE HOUSING Part I

The word is congregate, not communal. A way of life that many senior citizens are choosing in their later years.

There comes a time for many when living in the old home or with family is no longer good or feasible. A choice has to be made as to where and when a new lifestyle is begun.

And it should be looked upon as a beginning. An opportunity for new friends, for lesser household chores, for more security, for the establishment of a supportive environment with people of like interests, for a chance to participate, if desired, in community activities and hobbies, for access to medical and nursing care within the building or area.

What is congregate housing? Vivian F. Carlin, Ph.D. and Ruth Mansberg, free lance writer, have written a rather comprehensive and interesting book on congregate housing. Their definition is that, though it covers a variety of living arrangements, it generally means a housing complex structured so that each individual has a self-contained living unit. It may be a studio apartment, but it will have a plug-in kitchenette, a bathroom and a living room-bedroom. It could be a one or two bedroom apartment with kitchen and bath and living room. The resident's own furnishings are used although carpeting and draperies and appliances are usually furnished by management.

There are services provided that can vary from one to three meals a day, housekeeping help, linen service, 24-hour security, and possibly a medical clinic, intermediate care, or nursing care facility.

In the book entitled IF I LIVE TO BE A HUNDRED, there is a further definition of congregate housing phrased by gerontologists (members of the interdisciplinary field that deals with the study of aging) that says congregate housing is a residential environment which incorporates shelter and services needed by impaired, but not ill, elderly to maintain or to return to a semi-independent lifestyle and to avoid premature institutionalization as they grow older.

Within such housing, under the supervision and help of the paid staff, recreational activities and group trips are available for those who are interested. Some offer garden plots, worship services, discussion groups, musical diversions and craft work.

Present congregate housing for the elderly is a far cry from the so called "poor houses or poor farms" of long ago. In next week's column we will write of ways to choose such a home and of the advantages of such a lifestyle.

Save Time & Money

BY ANN FRANCIS DOLAN

GREEN TIPS — If your lawn is showing signs of mid-summer doldrums, get good (free) advice on the telephone from the experts at Scott Lawn Care centers. Call them on their own turf (tsk!), for help with such problems as brown spots, yellowing, etc. Their toll free number — 9 to 5 Monday through Friday — is 800 543-8873.

DO OR DIET — Make a diet "soda" by blending two ounces of plain lowfat yogurt with diet root beer or any low cal soda. Cooling and refreshing. Another version is made by blending a frozen, chunked banana with a half cup of yogurt and any fresh fruit or berries you have available.

BATH LINENS — Put old tablecloths and other linens you have relegated to the back of the closet to use as bathroom curtains. Wash and starch tablecloths; split them into window curtains and tie them back with ribbon. Large cloths, lined with plastic, make elegant shower curtains. Frame lacy doilies and use as decorations for a fresh, feminine touch.

STAIN STUFF — Fast action can save summer's bright clothes from permanent stains when you have an accident. Don't let stains set, if possible. Soak fresh blood stains in cold water immediately; rub with yellow bar soap and wash in detergent and warm water. Oil based stains usually respond to a rub with liquid detergent, followed by washing in more of the same. It may be necessary to use a commercial "degreaser" product. Grass stains also take liquid detergent. If color remains, try soaking garment in milk.

Reverend John Witherspoon, the only active clergyman among the signers of the Declaration of Independence, achieved a greater reputation as a religious leader and educator than as a politician. Emigrating from Scotland to America, Witherspoon took part in the Revolution, and signed the Articles of Confederation as well as the Declaration. He is better known, The World Almanac notes, for this distinguished presidency of the College of New Jersey (later Princeton University).

Jolly Green Thumb

It's halfway through the growing season and if the vegetable plot is not looking as lush as you'd like, it could be nutritional deficiency in the soil. When you've ruled out such problems as poor location, insect damage, lack of water, then look to the ground, and do some detecting.

You can save the day with such Sherlocking. You need to identify the problem; then you need to find the right fertilizer or soil food (or soil food) and apply this correctly. Hindsight is . . . but a soil test early on could have prevented problems by revealing deficiencies. That is water over the rows, but do remember it for next time. You need fast action to save the plants, and careful is the watchword. Too much of a good and correctional thing and the plants could be further damaged. The poor things already show signs of wilting, yellowing and stunted growth. You must be sure the conditions are caused by nutritional lack, though this is sometimes confused with other problems like drought, disease and hidden insect damage. Imbalances of nitrogen, phosphorous, potassium, sulphur, calcium, magnesium, iron, copper, zinc, manganese, boron and molybdenum (the 12 essential soil nutrients) must be the cause of sickly veggies. Then you can act.

You can almost see the problem if you check the vegetation. Deficiencies show easily on such usually-dependable plants as corn. Obviously, yellow veins, separations between veins and green areas are not the normal appearance of corn. Iron, or lack of it, is the culprit. Your next step is to apply iron-rich fertilizer; watch and wait, and perhaps reapply. Your county extension agent or university is a good source of information, charts and other means of detecting and treating soil nutritional problems that can be corrected.

Misbaha beads — known to the West as "worry beads" — are carried in hand by both Lebanese Christians and Moslems. The beads help count the number of prayers, and by the rhythm of their clicking tell the mood of the holder: boredom, nervousness, impatience or hostility.

Transferred to a map of the United States, the 1,500-mile Great Wall of China would reach south and westward from Washington, D.C. past Chattanooga and Memphis, Tenn., and Shreveport, La., and all the way across Texas into New Mexico.

Here are two delicious summertime favorites. Easy to prepare and perfect for any outdoor venture.

MARINATED BEAN SALAD
1 package (10 ounces) frozen cut green beans, thawed
1 cup canned chick peas, drained
½ cup thinly sliced sweet red pepper
1 small red onion, thinly sliced
¼ cup olive oil
¼ cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon crushed dried mint leaves
¼ teaspoon pepper

In a medium bowl, combine green beans, chick peas, red pepper and onion. In a small bowl or cup, combine oil, vinegar, mustard, flavor enhancer, sugar, salt, mint and pepper; mix well. Pour over vegetables and toss lightly. Cover. Chill 1 hour before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

NO-COOK APPLE RELISH
1 tablespoon Dijon-type mustard or seeded mustard
3 tablespoons olive oil
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar, or more to taste
Juice of 1 medium (3 ounces) lemon
1½ teaspoons cider vinegar
3 to 4 tart apples, peeled and grated

Place mustard in a 3-cup mixing bowl. Gradually beat in olive oil with fork or wire whisk. Stir in remaining ingredients. Taste and adjust seasoning.

Refrigerate in a tightly covered container if relish will not be served at once, but bring to room temperature before serving. It will keep at least 2 months in the refrigerator, but the flavor is best when used within 1 month. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 2 cups, depending on size of apples used.

A large immigration to Louisiana occurred in the early 18th century after exaggerated stories of gold discoveries in the New World territory reached France. The stories were also responsible for the "Mississippi Bubble," when the comptroller of finance issued paper currency without the security to back commercial development of Louisiana. The shares reached $4,000 before the scheme collapsed.

This 'n That

They never give up: The Hong Kong tax assessor, Yeung Kwai Cheong, tried to collect payment from four foreign musicians, all dead. The musicians included Johann Sebastian Bach, who died in 1750; Camille Saint-Saens, who died in 1907; Jacques Ibert, who died in 1934; and Giovanni Bottesini, who died in 1889. The assessor was apparently confused by a concert poster, advertising music by Bach and other long-dead composers. "You can't squeeze money out of bones," said Cynthia Hydes, spokeswoman for the Hong Kong Philharmonic Society. Those tax people will tax you to death.

Do you remember ole what's his name? A vice president whose name has been forgotten is Thomas R. Marshall, who was Woodrow Wilson's running mate from 1913 to 1921. This saddens Lannie Maloney, of Columbia City, Ind., a tour guide at the home of Marshall. As governor of Indiana from 1908 to 1912, Marshall helped pass an employers' liability law, a pure food law and a law requiring the medical examination of school children. Marshall is remembered for saying: "What this country really needs is a good five-cent cigar." Now I remember.

Gone with the wind Ara Sadakian forgot about the envelope contained $800 she placed on the roof of her car while searching for her keys in San Carlos, Calif. As she drove off, the money disappeared into the wind. Motorists got out of their cars and scooped up the bills. Ms. Sadakian retrieved $600. Hannalore Herd, one of those who returned the money, said, "I couldn't have kept it. I've got to sleep at night." Sweet dreams.

Unmarked confusion: When Miami detective Pete Murphy stopped at a pizzeria for lunch, he saw a man drop four packages into his unmarked police car. The package-dropper and three others were arrested and charged with drug trafficking when cocaine worth $80,000 was found inside the parcels. The drug drop should have been made in an identical car parked three spaces away from Murphy's car. The luck of the Irish.

Dining out: A young man handed Feng Xia, 26, a waitress at the takeout counter of a Chinese restaurant in Mesa, Ariz., a note. It said the man wanted all the money in the cash register. Ms. Xia doesn't read English, so she took the note to another waitress. By the time they returned, the man had fled. His takeout order wasn't filled.

Sitting up one's "vine and fig tree" indicates safety and contentment. "But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid." — Micah 4:4

The size of a typical American household has decreased steadily in the 20th century. The Conference Board notes. In 1890, the average home contained five people. That figure fell to four and half by 1920 and was down to three and a half by 1940. After remaining at that level for 20 years, household size has since shrunk to under three persons per residence. Today, only a third of all homes are occupied by a family of four or more.
