U.S. searches for mines in Red Sea

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The U.S. transport ship Shreveport, with four mine-hunting helicopters aboard, sailed into the Gulf of Suez today and joined an international force seeking to clear the Red Sea of explosives.

The U.S. ship made the trip fromgh the 100-mile-long Suez Canal in eight hours, about four hours faster than normal, and joined the American ship Harkness and four British minesweepers and a British support vessel in the gulf, the northwestern fork of the Red Sea.

About 200 American personnel are reported to be involved in the effort to clear the huge sea — 1,450 miles long and up to 225 miles wide — of the explosives that have damaged at least 16 ships since July 9.

The British ships were anchored at a small Egyptian naval base at Adabiya, a few miles south of the city of Suez, while crews worked on some last-minute steering and sonar problems.

Officers aboard one of the ships said they expected to begin operations this evening or Friday and to continue searching for two weeks to two months.

Egyptian naval sources said the 9,000-ton Shreveport did not dock at Adabiya because the harbor was too small to accommodate it. They declined to pinpoint the ship's location.

U.S., British and Egyptian officials said they want to determine who sowed them.

Heart 'stress' tested

Cogdell Memorial Hospital has now added a machine noted for its ability to predict the potential for heart attack in an individual.

The medical facility has added a Mac System-3 "computerized stress-test monitor system." In laymen terms, it is a treadmill device that gets the heart pumping to a maximum level, then measures this "under stress" heartbeat.

The device is part of the facility's upgraded Intensive Care Cardiac Unit (ICCU). Barbara Davis, a registered nurse at Cogdell since 1978, is the ICCU coordinator.

News reports at the time of his death noted that if Jim Fixx, the author and proponent of running and exercise, had undergone such a stress test, it is possible he might have avoided the heart attack which caused his death.

Medical professionals have long used an electrocardiograph (EKG) to diagnose heart disease by measuring the patient's heart rate. The "plus" of the new Cogdell system is that it tests the heart "under stress."

This stress is created by the treadmill device — a piece of equipment which Davis notes "gives the patient a pretty good workout."

Because of this physical exercise, the test is conducted only in the presense of the doctor who has ordered it. Davis is also on hand to monitor the patient's condition.

Some 10 electrodes are applied to the patient's upper torso. These then monitor both heart rate as well as the amount of oxygen being used by the cardiovascular system.

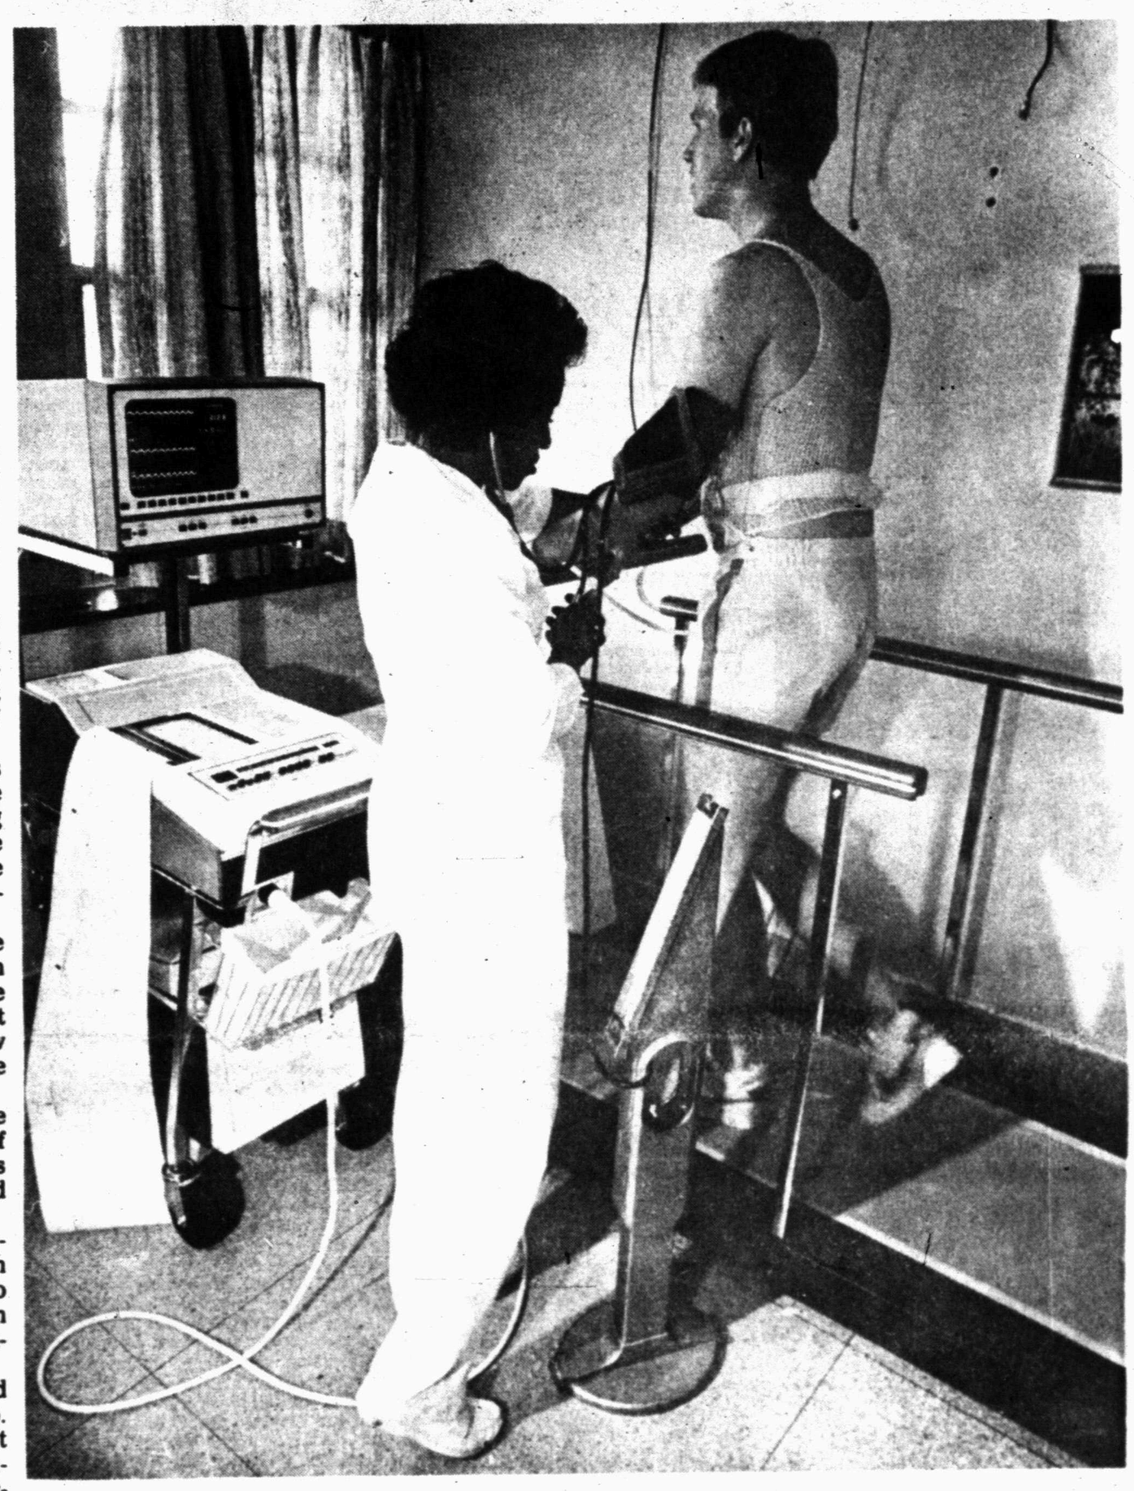

These readings are then transmitted both to a computer screen and a "hard copy" printout device. The physician is then able to analyze the data to determine the patient's heart diagnosis.

Davis said the patient is normally kept on the treadmill as long as thought safe. At the first sign of any chest pain, the test is terminated, she noted.

The average person stays on the treadmill about 9-10 minutes, she said.

Cogdell has purchased the equipment to make it available to local physicians. Any use of the machine should be scheduled through a doctor, it was noted.

The system has been in full operation for two weeks now.

HEART'S WORKOUT — A Mac System-3 "computerized stress-test monitor system" is now available through Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The system measures the cardiovascular system "under stress" by monitoring the patient while he "works out" on this treadmill device. The system is part of Cogdell's upgraded Intensive Care Cardiac Unit (ICCU). Barbara Davis, ICCU coordinator, is shown demonstrating the test along with John Johnson, director of pharmacy at Cogdell. Leaders change at AJRA

Jim Smith of Del Rio and David Jones of Llano took over the top spot in boy's 16-19 tiedown calf roping at the American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals, here Wednesday.

Both cowboys clocked times of 9.26 to take over the lead - just one of numerous leadership changes that went on Wednesday's performances.

The annual rodeo, sponsored by both Barq's Root Beer and Wrangler, continues will evening performances at 8 through Saturday. There are also several daytime and nighttime slack shows.

Gail cowboy Cody Newton got in on the act, posting a 4.96 in the boy's 16-19 ribbon roping.

Irran's Bubba Flores set a new time in the 13-15 tiedown event with his 10.31; Mike Carrillo of Kingsville posted a 68 to lead the 16-19 bareback; Cody Darby of Alvarado staged a 65 to lead the boy's 12-under steer riding; and Ross Helton, Keller, set a new 5.65 pace in the 16-19 steer wrestling.

Second-go action got underway also, with Mitzi Mayes of Manor setting a 14.81 pace in the 12-and-under division. Mayes had placed second in the first-go with a time of 15.23, behind Gail's Kelly Jo Ogden (14.82).

Snyder cowboy Adam Brewster, who scored a 72 in the bull riding earlier in the week, found himself tied with Rick Kieschnick of Vernon this morning. Robert Mitchell of Vernon posted a 71.

Goat-tying got underway Wednesday as Leisha Wardlaw of Bracketville turned the best time of 9.48 to lead the girl's 16-19 division.

Aruba airport incident...

Plane's hijacking interrupts holiday

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

If not for a traveling companion who decided to forgo a plane trip to Venezuela, Mary Tucker of Snyder would have been on a DC 9 which was hijacked July 29 by two terrorists.

Tucker was on vacation at Aruba, a Dutch Island located 15 miles off the coast of South America.

She and three friends from Bryan had all arranged to take the tour to Aruba together. Included in the group were Tucker's longtime friend Nona Hartsell, her son Chuck, and a neighbor of the Hartsell's, Georgie Crocker.

They were scheduled to leave Aruba at 10 p.m. Sunday (July 29) for the next leg of their tour. Unknown to them at that time, hijackers had forced the DC 9 to land at the Aruba airport at 9:25 p.m.

In addition, the three travelers would not learn the final irony of the incident until it was all over. They had almost scheduled a flight on the hijacked aircraft.

Tucker and her friends were enjoying a meal at the top level of the building when officials told

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some get-well cards are so humorous, it's almost worthwhile to get sick."

Noticed in some of the area papers that local chambers of commerce are offering some nice prizes for the first bale of cotton.

The Lubbock A-J indicated last week, following those nice rains, that the cotton crop looked the brightest in three years.

Here in Scurry County, it's difficult to be that optimistic about the cotton crop. Instead of a prize for the first bale, Max von Roeder suggested we might just offer a prize for any bale.

Skipper Joyce and Speedy Moffett are perhaps the two most ardent baseball fans in Snyder. They attend lots of games, and the duo likes to drink coffee early each morning and discuss some of the local talent.

Speedy and Skipper this summer stopped to watch a Farm League tilt. Skipper asked one of the youngsters what the score was.

"We're behind 9-0," was the answer.

"Well," suggested Skipper, "You don't look all that discouraged."

"Naw," said the youngster. "Why should we be discouraged? We haven't had our time at bat yet."

Everybody is getting acquainted with computers. When they work, they're wonderful. Otherwise, they have caused more than one to lose their religion.

We heard about a publication, which at great expense, installed a computer to print form letters to notify subscribers that their subscription was about to expire.

The computer automatically printed names and addresses at the top of the letter, sealed and stamped the envelopes. One day, the computer went on the blink, and before the problem was corrected, a baffled farmer in Iowa received 11,834 letters telling him his subscription was about to expire.

The local postmaster had to hire a special truck to deliver the letters. Realizing all the letters were exactly alike, he sat down and wrote a check with the following notation:

"I give up. My check is enclosed."

Lake lodge burglarized

The Lake Thomas Lodge, plagued earlier in the week by a fire which damaged its kitchen-cafe area, was apparently also burglarized sometime Tuesday night.

Scurry County sheriff's officers were notified of the theft Wednesday.

George Kirkpatrick, owner of the lodge located on the south side of Lake Thomas, told authorities the building had apparently been entered sometime Tuesday night. A window was said pried open to gain entry.

The fire which partially damaged the lodge occurred in the early morning hours Tuesday.

Listed as taken in the burglary were three fishing rods, numerous lures and several bottles of soft drinks.

Fire at house

A residence still under construction caught fire here early Thursday morning with extensive damage said caused to the kitchen area.

Firefighters were dispatched to the 3709 Ave. U address around 1:15 a.m. They remained at the scene for almost two hours before declaring the fire out.

Owner of the property was listed as David Gist of Snyder. Cause of the fire, which also reportedly caused heavy smoke damage through the rest of the structure, was undetermined Thursday.

Lodge to open

Owners of the Lake Thomas Lodge, damaged by an early morning fire Tuesday, plan to reopen the facility Saturday.

George and Shirley Kirkpatrick say all services normally offered through the business will be open except for the cafe and grill area.

The kitchen area is in the process of being repaired due to fire damage. Sandwiches will still be available, however.

The grocery portion of the store plus fishing tackle and bait operations will be unchanged. Fishing permits are offered also.

Use of test-tube skin saves 2 brothers

BOSTON (AP) — The use of sheets of skin grown from postage-stamp size scraps to save the lives of two critically burned young boys offers new hope for the 15,000 Americans who suffer extensive burns each year, a report published today said.

The skin grown in test tubes from skin cells taken from the two brothers allowed them to survive burns as extensive as any ever described in medical literature, researchers said.

The treatment culminates years of research to find a substitute for natural skin that can be used when people are burned so badly that their own skin cannot be used for grafts.

"This is the first real evidence that it works," said Dr. G. Gregory Gallico, a plastic surgeon at Massachusetts General Hospital and the Shriners Burns Institute in Boston.

The doctors decided to try the test-tube skin last summer after two youngsters were burned over 97 percent of their bodies. The skin was applied in repeated operations over a period of months. Without the experimental therapy, Gallico said, the boys had little chance of survival.

The substitute is living skin that the doctors hope will be as durable as nature's own.

"To me, it looks wonderful, absolutely gorgeous," Gallico said in an interview. "To a lay person, it would appear like a very thin, tight sort of scarred skin that might heal over a burn. It's shiny and pink and smooth."

Ordinary grafts often leave a patchwork appearance because of the seams between them.

A report on the boys' treatment appears in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The burn victims who received the successful test-tube skin grafts — Jamie Selby, 5, and his brother, Glen, 6 — were hurt while visiting their mother a year ago in Casper, Wyo. The boys had daubed themselves with paint. Then, naked, they tried to take it off with a solvent, and the chemical caught fire.

At Wit's End

by Erma Bombeck

Reprinted by Request:

A woman after my own heart was cleaning out her piano bench recently and came across a newspaper dated Jan. 9, 1938.

I was amazed to find a two-page marriage quiz. Maybe it's because we tend to think that divorce became a problem of the '70s and '80s. Yet, 45 years ago men and women were listing the "merits and demerits of their life partners in a test to gain the attention of all intelligent men and women who aspire to make their marriages both permanent and happy."

The plan was to tally up your mate's merits and hopefully have a total left after you subtracted the demerits.

Now you can talk all you want about the big four causes of divorce — money, kids, sex, and in-laws — but take a look at these complaints that bothered their partners. Marriage comes down to a lot of little things that with time become intolerable. They also are very familiar.

Women found these things to be unacceptable in a partner. Men who belch without apology or blow nose at table ... leave shoes in living room ... stare at or flirt with other women while out with wife ... tease wife regarding fatness ... roll in bedcovers and pull them off ... eat onions, radishes or garlic on going to bed ... defer too much to mother; a mama's boy ... publicly praise bachelor days and regret having married ... leave dresser drawers open ... blame wife for everything that goes wrong; rarely admit they are wrong ... dislike to dress or to shave on Sundays ... call, "Where is...?" without first hunting object ... don't talk at home. Any one of those is enough to put the cork on a bottle of honeymoon champagne.

Now, about the women's "demerits." Even 45 years ago, men deplored women who are slow in coming to bed and delay it until husband was asleep ... don't like children ... put their cold feet on husband at night to warm them .. smoke, drink, gamble or use dope ... remind husband it is her money they're living off of ... wear pajamas while cooking ... serve dinner but fail to sit down till meal is half over and then want husband to wait on them ... make evening arrangements without consulting husband ... have shoulder slip strap hanging over arms ... slow up card games with chatter ... walk around in stocking feet ... are suspicious and jealous ... leave stockings in wash basin ... smoke in bed ... tell lies, whine and complain ... talk about former boyfriend or first husband.

It was interesting. Whoever stored the quiz in the piano bench took the test and the only fault the wife marked was "dislike to dress or shave on Sunday" and the only thing the husband marked was "wear pajamas while cooking."

My conclusion: If they're both wandering around the house in night clothes on weekends the odds are good that the marriage worked.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Until the first of the year, I worked as a secretary to a very sweet man, several years older than myself. He told me his wife didn't appreciate him and he found me very comforting to talk to. One thing led to another, and we became intimate.

His wife found out about us and he laid me off, but continued seeing me whenever he could. He called me every day and we'd talk on the phone. He continued my salary although I was no longer working for him, and he also paid off all my debts and made me many promises.

When he and his wife went on a vacation, he arranged for me to stay in a motel nearby so he could spend some time with me. Well, his wife must have had him tailed because she found out about it, and he told me we'd have to "cool it" for a while.

His telephone calls have been tapering off and he seldom gets away to see me anymore. Things are not like they used to be, and I'm beginning to worry. He made many promises.

Do I have any legal rights? This is the second time this has happened to me with a married man.

FOOLED AGAIN

DEAR FOOLED: Since I am not a lawyer, I'm not qualified to tell you what your legal rights are, but if I may offer a bit of advice: Stay away from married men! As my sainted father used to say, "Every once in a while the hog kills the butcher, but most of the time, the butcher kills the hog."

DEAR ABBY: I'm getting married soon and was going to ask my favorite uncle ("Jim") to give me away because my father is dead. Now I'm wondering if I should.

You see, Uncle Jim is now a devoted family man, but he used to be a Catholic priest and he may not feel comfortable participating in a non-Catholic wedding.

Should I leave him out of my wedding? If I do, I'm afraid my mother (his sister) would be deeply hurt. My mother and all her relatives are devout Catholics.

I was raised Catholic, but now I'm a born-again Christian and so is my fiance. Should I play it safe and not invite my mother or any of her relatives?

Hurry your answer. I need to get married soon before this guy changes his mind again.

GETTING MARRIED IN FLORIDA

DEAR GETTING: Ask your uncle if he wants to give you away, and don't try to second-guess his feelings. Invite your mother and the relatives you want and let them decide whether they want to accept or not.

Your closing sentence causes me to question your maturity. If the guy you want to marry might "change his mind" (again, yet!), perhaps you should slow down and rethink the whole thing.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the frustrated couple who were unable to marry because the man's wife had left him and he couldn't find her in order to obtain a divorce. The wife had not been heard of for over four years and all efforts to find her had failed. Obviously the man couldn't marry again without divorcing his wife, so they turned to you for advice.

You suggested that they retain a lawyer. Abby, why spend money on lawyers? I had the same problem—only I couldn't find the husband who had left me.

I went to three lawyers before one told me that all I needed was my husband's Social Security number. I found it, gave it to the lawyer, and he located my husband in no time at all.

JUST HELPING OUT

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELS FOOLISH FOR ASKING": Foolish? No way. Take it from the sage and quotable Malcolm Forbes, who said: "One who never asks either knows everything—or nothing."

Short on points, long on skill

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Over the years, the perennial Canadian pair in the World Team Olympiad has been Eric Murray and Sammy Kehela, both of Toronto. When this event took place at Valkenburg, the Netherlands, in 1980, these two faced an Egyptian pair in a match crucial to Canada's chances of advancing further.

The Egyptian East bid one club in second seat, South and West passed, and Eric Murray, a passed hand, reopened with a takeout double. Kehela, trading on the fact that the auction would help him to locate any key cards, bid three no-trump immediately.

The queen of hearts held the first trick. Next, a heart was played to East's king. Although East's play of the club king now would be the best defense, a third heart was in fact continued and won by dummy's ace. Now the concept was simple — Kehela must develop his long suit without allowing West to gain the lead. The spade 10 was led from dummy, queen from East, and South ducked. East played a diamond, won by dummy's jack, and another spade was led. When East ducked, declarer won the king and cleared the suit. Now nine tricks were made.

Cowboys test Steelers in preseason tonight

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Things just won't be the same tonight when old foes Pittsburgh and Dallas collide in a National Football League preseason game without running back Franco Harris of the Steelers and defensive tackle Randy White of the Cowboys on the field.

The unbeaten teams, both 2-0, are having contract problems with their two stars. Both shied away from training camp while their contracts are being renegotiated.

The nationally televised game (ABC-TV) at 8 p.m. CDT will be blacked out locally and feature a halftime appearance of the United States Olympic medal winners who on a "Victory Tour" after winning 83 gold medals in Los Angeles.

Dallas was rated a four-point favorite by the oddsmakers over the Steelers, who downed the Philadelphia Eagles 20-17 in overtime last week.

Pittsburgh is 6-3 against Dallas in exhibition games.

The Danny White-led Cowboys beat the San Diego Chargers after knocking off Green Bay in their first preseason game.

The Steelers have been getting good quarterbacking by Dave Woodley, who came over from Miami.

White was in a struggle to retain his starting status until challenger Gary Hogeboom hurt his right shoulder while making a tackle following a blocked San Diego field goal.

Hogeboom is hopeful of playing in Dallas' final preseason game Aug. 28 against Houston.

Other Cowboys who may not play against the Steelers with assorted injuries are middle linebacker Bob Breunig, wide receiver Doug Donley, guards Kurt Petersen, guard Herb Scott, and strong safety Bill Bates.

The defensive spotlight for the Cowboys has been falling on Randy White's replacement, Don Smerek, who has drawn Coach Tom Landry's praise.

However, Smerek said the Cowboys have to have White if they expect a successful season.

"We need him back," said Smerek. "I don't know how we're going to the Super Bowl without him. We should have had him back a long time ago."

White is asking some $800,000 a season, some $200,000 short of what the Cowboy front office has offered.

The Cowboys arrived in Dallas Wednesday afternoon after breaking their Thousand Oaks, Calif. training camp.

The Steelers own a 12-10 regular season series edge over the Cowboys, incuding a 21-17 victory in Super Bowl X and a 35-31 triumph in Super Bowl XIII.

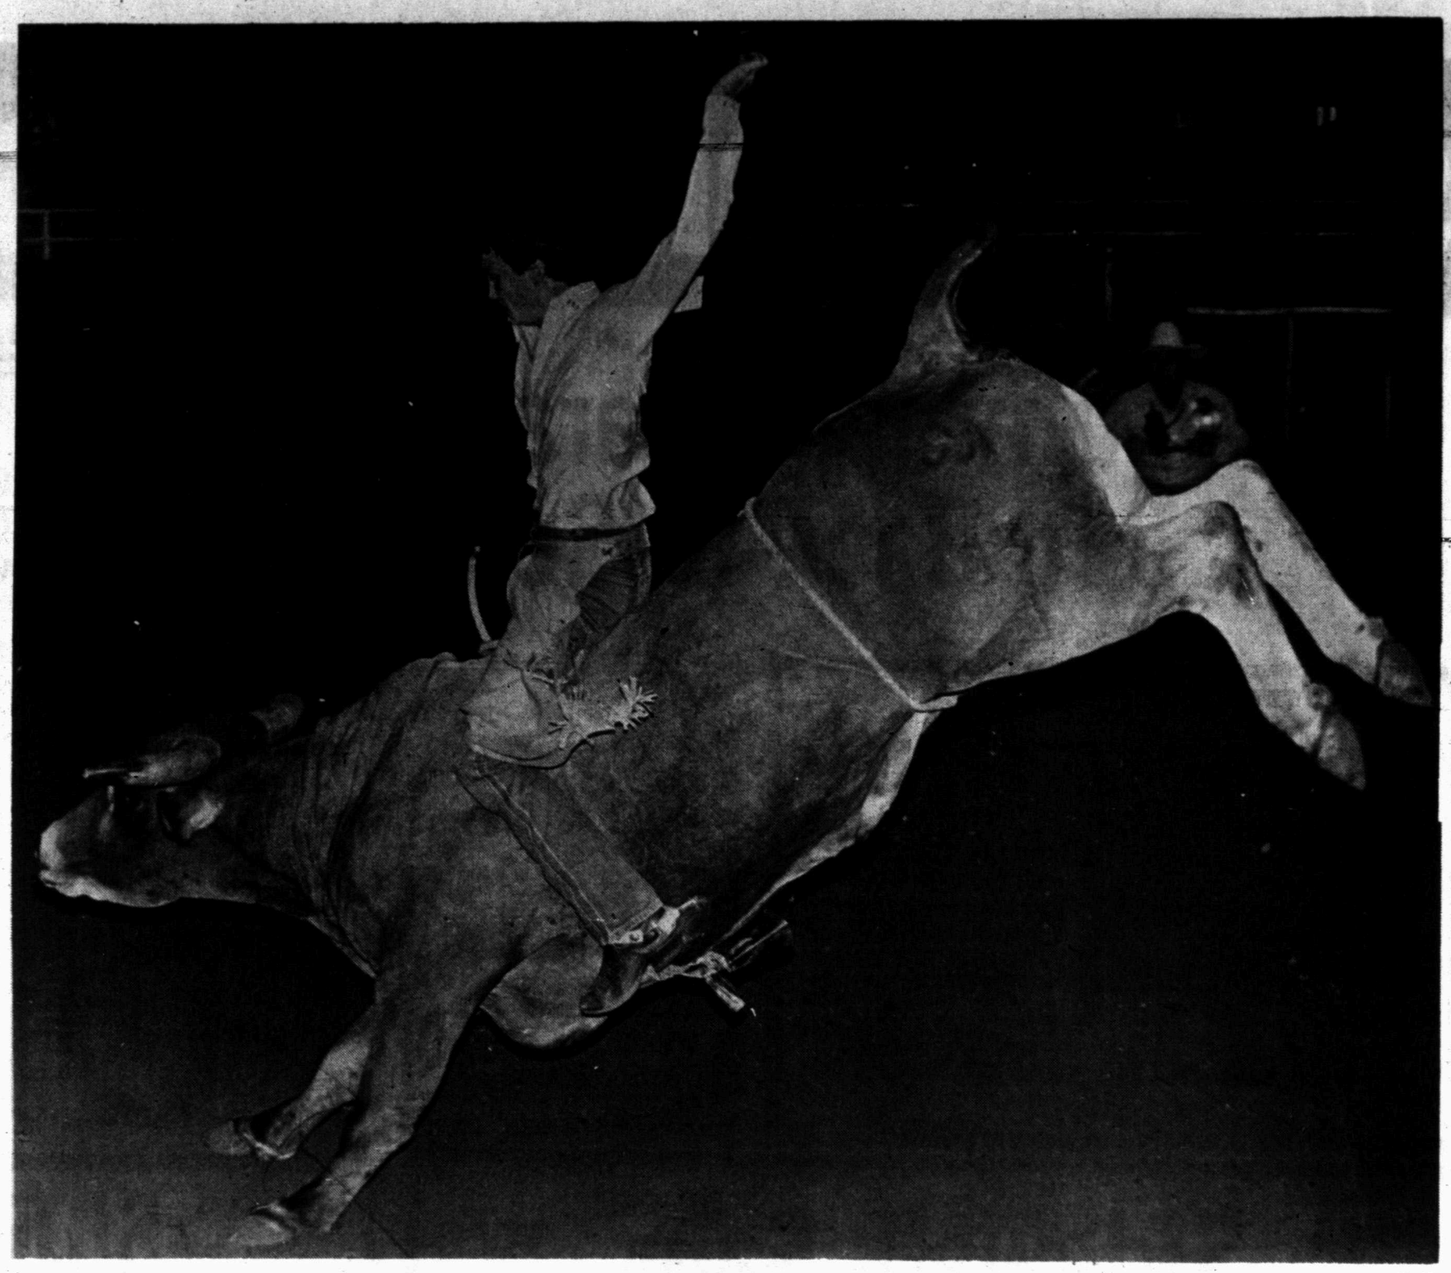

Terry Bradshaw was the star for the Steelers in the two Super Bowls against Dallas but he retired this year and Woodley and Mark Malone have been dueling for the No. 1 quarterbacking job.

Ragin' Tiger staff stresses teaching over conditioning

By Bill McClellan
SDN Sports Editor

Probably the first thing you've noticed after spending a few minutes at the football practice field this year - other than the number of athletes out - is the lack of conditioning drills.

The 1984 Ragin' Tigers don't take seven to 10 laps around the field before and after practice. They don't do 45 minutes of calisthenics twice a day.

Sure, these kids are tired after the end of a four-hour workout. But they aren't dragging. Most of them don't go straight home, collapse in bed and turn off the world until time for workouts against the next morning.

"The conditioning will come in time, a little every day," said Head Coach Dennis Tomlin. "If you notice, the kids hustle all the time. They don't walk from one place to another. When they do something, they go all out. But we're not interested in having a bunch of sore, worn-out kids out there either. We want them to learn something and have fun doing it. We're interested in teaching them something.

"They are going to be even more surprised Friday when we get pads because we're not going to have that much contact. But when it comes time for a game, we'll have 50 healthy kids that are ready and eager to play. We won't have a group of sore, dragging kids who are angry at the coach."

Having 50 on the varsity is another reason more emphasis hasn't been placed on conditioning.

"Conditioning is more important if you've got the same 11 kids on the field all the time. We don't intend to do that. We're going to play as many kids as we can."

For the skeptics, the real test won't come until Snyder squares off against an opponent. But the system Tomlin has brought to Snyder has worked well at other schools. In theory, when the lights at Tiger Stadium are turned on for the Sept. 7 game against Big Spring, the athletes will be in shape, eager to play, and make fewer mental mistakes because they've spent more time learning the system.

Meanwhile, Coach Tomlin is pleased with the way workouts are progressing.

"We're real enthused about the kids and the personal commitment they've made to the program. It's a happy bunch of kids. They've got a lot of energy. They want things to be good for themselves and they are willing to pay the price. We're going to take it one day at a time and do the best we can."

Indians take two from Jays

by The Associated Press

What had seemed so easy just the night before suddenly became difficult, and left the Blue Jays with a half-game profit to show for all their effort.

The Jays swept a doubleheader from the Indians on Tuesday, but lost a pair Wednesday night in Cleveland - one an embarrasing 16-1 defeat and another an agonizing 4-3, 13-inning affair.

Like a spendthrift on payday, the Blue Jays lost 1½ of the two games they had gained on Detroit, which dropped a twin bill one Tuesday. The Tigers beat California 8-3 Wednesday night.

Cleveland's 19-hit barrage was overpowering in the first game. George Vukovich drove in four runs and Andre Thornton slapped three run-scoring singles to back the eight-hit pitching of Don Schulze.

After taking a 3-2 lead in the top of the 10th, losing it in the bottom of the inning and getting the first two outs in the 13th, the Blue Jays lost the nightcap when George Bell dropped - or did he? - Joe Carter's sinking liner.

"I saw him catch it," Carter said. He had stopped going down the first base line. "Then (Coach) Ed Napoleon was telling me to touch first base. I didn't see the ball come out of his glove."

"Bell came up with the catch," Toronto Manager Bobby Cox said. "He raised his arm and showed the ball. Then the ball popped out when he hit his elbow on the ground. To me, it's a catch."

The ball at first stuck in the end of Bell's glove. But when Bell rolled to show the ball to the umpires, it popped out, allowing Mike Fischlin to score the winning run.

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas beat the Chicago 6-5 in 10 innings, Oakland downed Baltimore 6-1, New York topped Seattle 3-2, Kansas City outscored Boston 13-8, and Milwaukee defeated Minnesota 8-4.

Cleveland's Mike Jeffcoat, 4-1, gave up two hits in three innings for the victory. Jimmy Key, 3-5, took the loss.

In the opener, Schulze, 2-4, a rookie obtained from the Chicago Cubs in June, pitched his first major-league complete game.

Luis Leal, 12-3, picked up the loss.

Tigers 8, Angels 3

The Tigers rebounded from their double-header loss Tuesday night as Dan Petry improved his record to 15-5, tying him with teammate Jack Morris as the winningest pitcher in the AL.

It was the first time since Aug. 2 that a Tiger pitcher held the opposition to fewer than four runs.

Doug DeCinces hit his 15th home run for the Angels, his second in as many nights. Fred Lynn also hit his 15th for California.

Rangers 6, White Sox 5

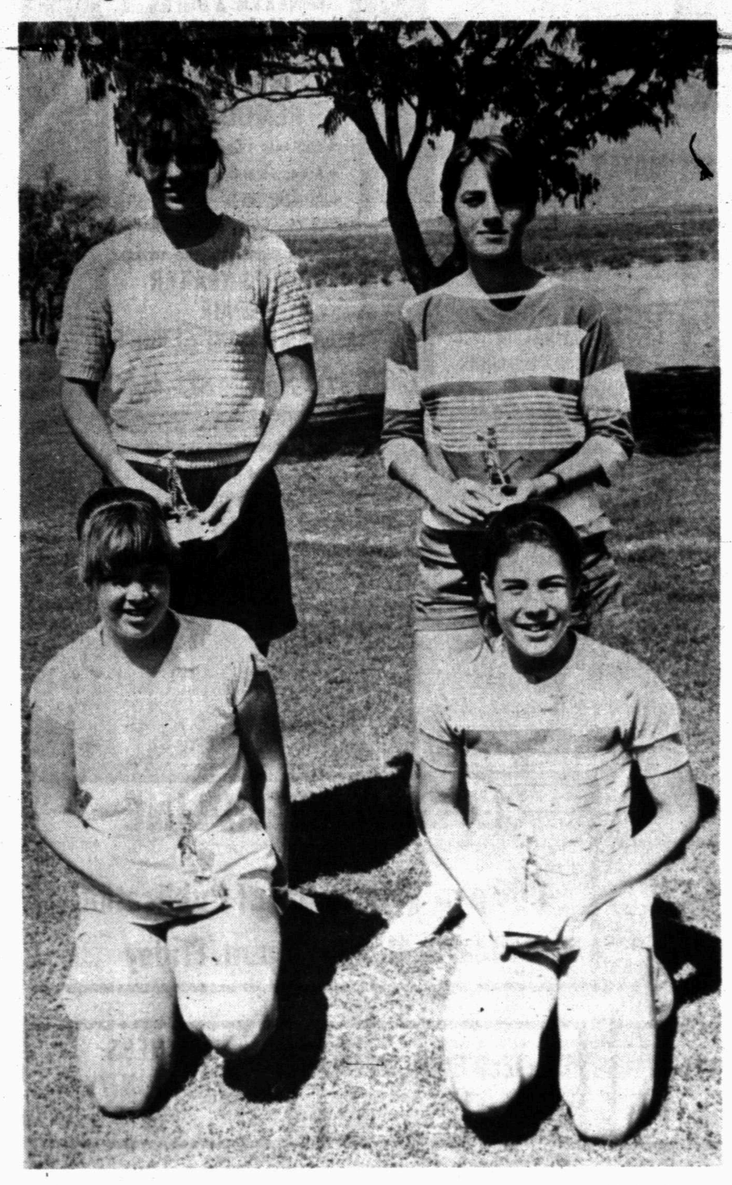

Larry Parrish led off the 10th inning with his 20th home run off Richard Dotson, 12-10, who lost his sixth of seven decisions since the All-Star break.

Charlie Hough, 13-10, threw 145 pitches and gave up homers to Harold Baines, Carlton Fisk and Greg Walker, but pitched into the tenth for the victory. Dave Schimdt got the last three outs for his eighth save.

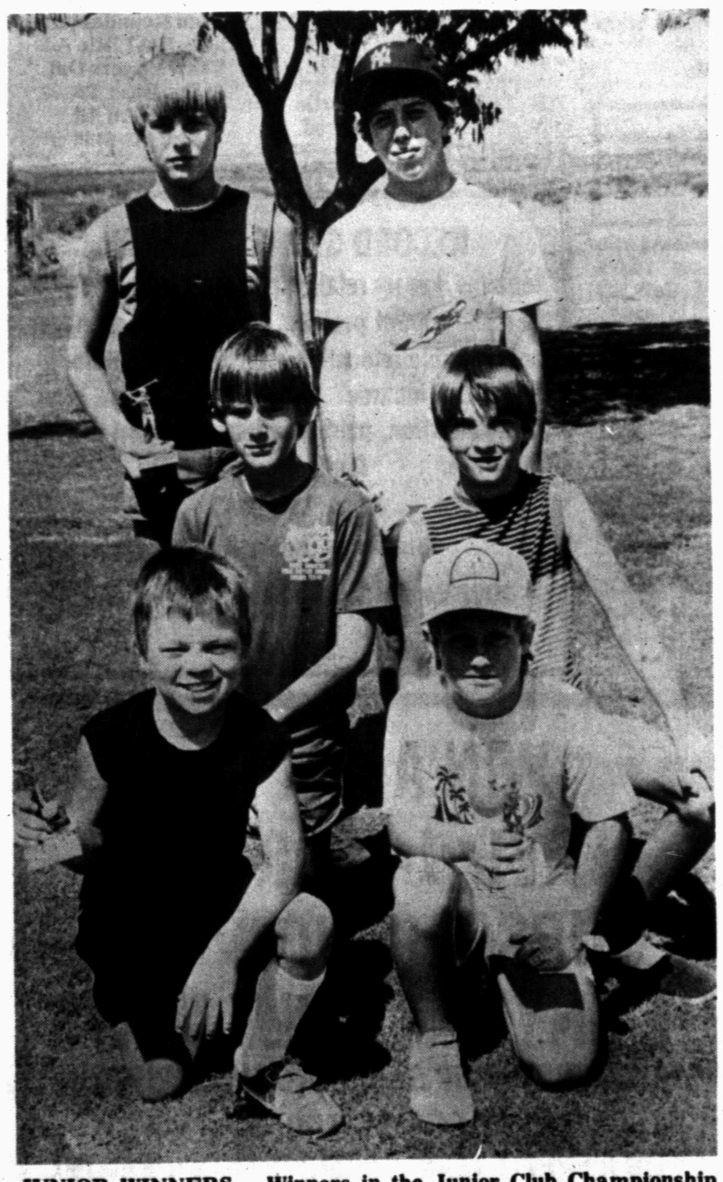

Six people were slightly injured when fireworks went off in the right field stands after Walker's homer.

A's 6, Orioles 1

Carney Lansford had a home run and two singles while extending his hitting streak to 18 games.

JUNIOR WINNERS – Winners in the Junior Club Championship Tournament held at Snyder Country Club on Wednesday were, front row, 7-9 division, Toby Evans, first, and Wes Everett, second; second row, 10-11 division, David Patrick, first, and Shelby Bufkin, second; and third row, 12-14 division, Terry Hildreth, first, and Kevin Holt, second. Cincinnati Reds hire Rose as manager from Montreal

CINCINNATI (AP) - Visions of the Big Red Machine of the 1970s were dancing in the minds of the Cincinnati Reds owners when they decided to hire Pete Rose as a player-manager for the struggling ball club.

"He and Tony Perez remind the people of the times when the Reds were big winners," said Marge Schott, a minority shareholder, who believes the fans will turn out despite the team's next-to-last position in the National League West.

"Pete is history. If he gets close to the record (Ty Cobb's all-time career hit record), the people will pack the stadium," Schott said.

Reds spokesman Jim Ferguson said Wednesday in St. Louis that Rose had been acquired as a player from the Montreal Expos and would replace Manager Vern Rapp starting Friday night when the Reds host the Chicago Cubs. The Reds, who were off today following an 11-inning, 3-2 victory over St. Louis in Rapp's final game, have to move someone to make room for Rose on the roster.

Ferguson said Rose, who had not been a regular with the Expos, would be primarily a manager but would be available for some games and as a pinch hitter.

Rose, who earlier Wednesday in San Francisco denied he was taking the job, could not be reached for comment early today. The Reds scheduled a news conference for 4 p.m. EDT.

The announcement was well received by veteran players. Team captain and shortstop Dave Concepcion, who played with Rose, said: "Pete will be a good manager and he will make a difference in the attitude here."

Second baseman Ron Oester, another Cincinnati native who grew up watching Rose: "If anybody can motivate this team, Pete can. I can tell you this, he won't put up with anything less than an all-out performance."

Pryor to Texas Tech

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Judson high school running back Chris Pryor, who propelled his team to a 5A state championship last year, has finished his high school diploma requirements and is bound for Texas Tech.

Pryor graduated from high school last week after completing the lone English course required for a diploma.

He signed with Tech in February, but had to give up his athletic scholarship and the chance to play ball this fall when he failed to graduate.

He had been considering going to Texas A&I, where he would have been eligible to play football this year. But Tuesday, he told the San Antonio Light, "I'm 100 percent sure I'm going to Tech. Nothing is going to change my mind."

Pryor said he planned to leave for Lubbock Wednesday. Sports Information Director Joe Hornaday said officials were expecting him Wednesday, but he could not confirm Pryor had arrived.

Pryor's parents Betty and Patrick Pryor could not be reached to confirm his departure.

Pryor broke Craig James' Class 5A rushing record of 2,804 yards last year to propel Judson to the state championship.

"Everyone's saying, 'Can you make it in the SWC with a year off?' I say, 'If I keep the right attitude,'" he said.

Country club awards junior event champs

Snyder Country Club staged its Junior Club Championship tournament Wednesday, posting winners in five different groups.

Leslie Light won the girls age 15-18 class. Christine Pointeau was second.

Winner of the girl's 7-11 division was Amy Armstrong. Karrie Billingsley took second place.

In boy's play, Toby Evans took top honors in the 7-9 group with Wes Everett placing second. David Patrick won first in the 10-11 group while Shelby Bufkin was second. And in the age 12-14 group, Terry Hildreth placed first and Kevin Holt won second.

Twenty-two participated.

No more balanced budget talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's last budget report before Election Day holds no promise for the balanced federal budget that he pledged when campaigning for the presidency four years ago.

Rather, the report, released Wednesday by the Office of Management and Budget, foresees little change in the red ink over the next few years.

It does show that the budget deficit could be whittled down to about $21 billion by the end of the decade — but only if the economy grew at a robust clip and Congress adopted deficit-snipping proposals pushed by the White House.

Otherwise, the budget office expects the deficit to run at $161.7 billion in 1989.

It hit a record $194.5 billion in the last fiscal year, which ended on Sept. 30, 1983.

It's expected to be $174.3 billion in the current fiscal year.

Reagan, who has made no similar promises for a balanced budget so far in this campaign, has blamed the sharp 1981-82 recession for contributing to the high deficit.

But Democrats are pointing the finger at the president and the big tax cuts he pushed early in his term.

Bush can't disclose his taxes

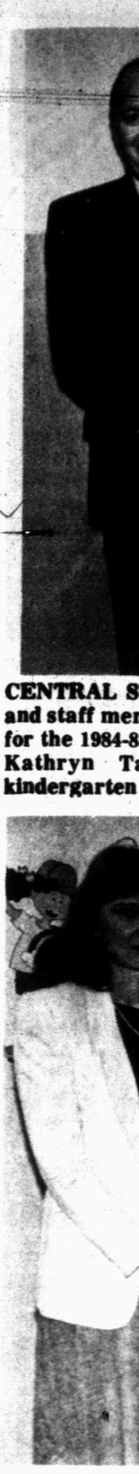

DALLAS (AP) — Vice President George Bush says the husband of Democratic vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro should make his tax returns public, but Bush says "I see no need" to reveal his own tax documents.

The Republican vice president said he released tax returns dating back six years during the 1980 campaign and after taking office put his assets into "the most stringent blind trust established."

"Obviously, if I have conducted myself that way I think others ought to do it for this job," Bush said. "I'm saying, this is what I've done and I'm saying others ought to do it this way."

In a telephone interview with The Associated Press from his vacation home in Maine, Bush also underscored his willingness to debate Ms. Ferraro but said there likely would be no more than one such meeting. As to who will decide whether he debates Ms. Ferraro, the vice president said it would be "my decision."

Republicans gathering for next week's GOP convention have been heaping criticism on Ms. Ferraro over her husband's refusal to release his tax returns.

Volunteers needed for Teen Center

The Teen Center is in need of volunteers, according to Steve Babcock, manager and president of the Teen Center board.

The only criteria is to be interested and want to become involved with helping Snyder's children.

The Teen Center was opened several months ago in order to provide Snyder's youth with a clean, healthy atmosphere for recreation and socializing away from the influence of drugs and alcohol.

Volunteers are needed to help with the activities at the Teen Center which includes dances, video games, pool tables, disco, juke box, and snack bar.

Volunteers are also needed to help with promotions and fund raising projects for the Teen Center.

Volunteers may be couples or single persons, but Babcock stresses that men are also needed to help out with the Teen Center.

Those interested are asked to contact Steve or Linda Babcock at 573-2366 or 573-7292.

Minor wrecks here Tuesday

Four minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Tuesday.

The day's first accident was logged at 8:59 a.m. in the 500 Block of 33rd St.

According to reports, a parked 1983 Pontiac owned by Charles Lee Scott of 2005 42nd St. was struck by a 1983 Ford driven by Shana Randolph of 509 33rd St.

Tuesday's second mishap was reported at 2:12 p.m. in the 2200 Block of 40th St.

Involved in it were a 1979 Ford driven by Don Clark Forbis of Post which reportedly struck a parked 1983 Pontiac owned by Lawrence Hartley of 2801 35th St.

The 1900 Block of College Ave. was the scene of the day's third mishap at 5:39 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1981 Ford driven by David Allan Lipsey of Rt. 2, Snyder and a 1984 Ford driven by Penny Dennis of Rt. 1, Snyder.

No injuries were reported in any of Tuesday's first three mishaps.

Antonio Peralez of 2807 Ave. E was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle for treatment of possible minor injuries following the day's fourth mishap at 6:25 p.m. at the intersection of 28th St. and Ave. E.

According to reports, Peralez was driving a 1973 GMC which was in collision with a 1977 Volkswagen driven by Lisa Johnston. The Peralez vehicle then struck a Texas Electric Co. utility pole.

Peralez was not seriously injured and was treated and released from the local hospital.

Damage to the utility pole was also rated minor.

Gabon, about as big in size as Colorado, is located on the Atlantic coast of Central Africa. France established control of the country in the latter part of the 19th century, but Gabon gained its independence on Aug. 17, 1960. It is one of the most prosperous of the Black African nations, thanks to foreign investment, natural resources and government programs.

Scaffold falls, 101 are injured

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was the end of the world," a bleeding victim said after a construction scaffold loaded with revelers collapsed, injuring 101 people as heavy plywood sheets and bodies toppled onto spectators at a ticker tape parade for U.S. Olympic athletes.

Just moments after the 221 Olympians began marching at noon Wednesday, the platform designed to protect pedestrians from falling debris at a building renovation site gave way. About 40 people and plywood sheets cascaded onto the crowd below.

Seven people were admitted to hospitals with head, back and bone injuries, four of them in serious condition. Seven more were given first aid on the spot and 87 were treated and released, according to spokemen for the Emergency Medical Service.

"I thought it was the end of the world," said Frank Thomas, 23, of Brooklyn, who was struck on the head by a sheet of plywood. "I didn't know what happened. It was very fast."

BIG PROJECT

Hijacking interrupts trip

everyone to clear the building.

When the Dutch militia arrived everyone was told to "get out and hug the ground."

"We did exactly that," Tucker said, "it seemed like we lay there for hours, but it was probably only about 15 minutes."

They were then loaded onto buses and taken to a hotel where they stayed for two extra days.

The scare and resulting extra stay made Tucker one day late getting back to work. She is a bookkeeper/dispatcher for CRC Source Service, Inc.

The hijackers initially demanded $5 million, a helicopter and arms. Dutch officials refused their demands, but eventually allowed the plane to be fueled for a flight to Caruso, a nearby island and the next planned stop for Tucker and the others participating in the tour.

During the crisis the airport was closed for 12 hours. About seven to nine planes had been backed up before the airport was closed, Tucker said.

"Those hijackers were serious," Tucker said. "You didn't mess with them." She said they could see the hijacked plane at the airport and the passengers inside.

As more facts became known, Tucker said she and her companions realized the hijacked flight headed for Venezuela was one they had considered taking.

"Georgie wasn't used to flying and she decided she didn't want to fly to Venezuela," Tucker explained. "Since we had decided to all stay together we decided not to take that particular trip."

Tucker said they were never in any real danger, but that the whole incident could have turned into a serious situation very easily.

The worst shock was at the beginning, when they weren't sure what was going on and the Dutch Militia drove up in unmarked cars, carrying weapons and telling people to get out of the building and get on the ground, Tucker said.

They also had moments when they wondered if they would get home at all.

Enroute back to Houston, she said they were treated to a champagne flight. Tucker isn't sure who paid for the champagne, but the company that arranged for the tour paid for the extra days lodging which the hijacking incident caused.

Tucker and her party were finally able to leave at 2 p.m. July 31.

Some 6,500 tourists were visiting Aruba the weekend of the hijacking — the first such incident for that small island, Tucker said.

Otherwise, "the trip was fantastic," and Tucker said she is already "saving her pennies" for a return visit next year.

"You couldn't find a prettier place. I just loved it," she said.

Perhaps it was a harbinger of things to come, but Tucker said leaving Houston their first plane failed to pressurize so they returned to the airport there and waited seven hours for another plane.

That unsettling experience is what prompted Georgie Crocker to decide against flying to Venezuela, she said.

Hives indicate form of allergy

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you give me some information about hives? I have seen an allergist and he put me on a very strict diet — no sweets, no soft drinks, no nuts and no breads. He said this was to find out what I am allergic to.

These hives are very irritating. They sometimes appear all over my body and other times only on my arms and legs. The only medicine that seems to help is Prednisone, but the doctor told me it was not safe to continue taking it. Is there anything you can recommend?

DEAR READER — Hives are allergic reactions, and you were wise to see an allergist. Hives themselves are caused by an interaction between the offending substance that you are allergic to and a special immune antibody produced by your own body, called IgE. If the IgE is in your skin, that is where the reaction takes place, and it causes the hives.

The substance you are allergic to (allergen) can be in your food or can result from contact. It can also be inhaled. Food is a common source of an allergen that results in hives. If the IgE is in your intestinal wall, it can produce severe abdominal complaints and digestive symptoms.

There is almost no limit to the symptoms that can be caused by an allergy. It depends almost entirely on which tissues contain IgE. The lungs, nervous system and even the heart can be affected by allergies.

To help you understand this problem, I am sending you The Health Letter 19-12, Food Allergies. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been taking two lecithin capsules a day for more than a year. I have cholesterol and I would like to know if this could make it any worse. I also take vitamin B-15 and vitamin C and garlic capsules. Is there anything in any of these that can harm my health? I have high blood pressure and my potassium is low. I'm taking one potassium tablet a day for that.

DEAR READER — You are a victim of the modern-day equivalent of the old-time medicine-show sales of snake oil. You need a doctor, not a lot of high-priced, do-it-yourself preparations someone has talked you into taking.

Lecithin is nothing more than fatty acids, the main component of fat, and choline. The lecithin you swallow is digested in your intestine, breaking it down into its component parts. It's no longer lecithin when it gets into your bloodstream. The lecithin in your bloodstream is manufactured by your liver, and that is the only lecithin that will help you. I doubt if the amount you are taking will raise your cholesterol or do you any harm, but don't expect a miracle.

B-15, as it has been called, is not a vitamin, and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has forbidden it to be labeled as a vitamin.

I'd like to see you get your vitamin C from fresh orange juice or oranges and other fruit. That will also provide the potassium you need. The garlic capsules won't harm you unless you are one of these people who have indigestion from strong spices.

Locals may audition after Continental performance

Local auditions for next summer's tour of the "Continental Singers and the Continental Brass," will immediately follow their performance of contemporary Christian music at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Worsham Ausitorium.

Various editions of the "Continental Singers and Orchestra" appear in 1,000 local churches and other locations on their 75-day international tour covering the United States as well as numerous foreign countries.

Qualifications to audition include being between 16 and 25 years of age and an accomplished instrumentalist or vocalist. Interviews are also held for technicians to operate sound and lighting systems.

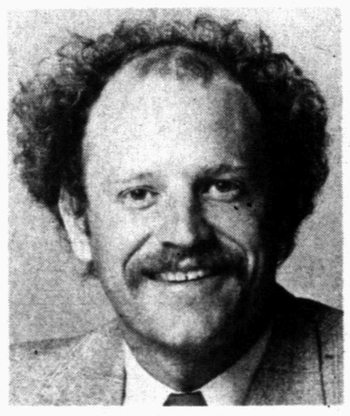

The "Continental Singers with the Continental Brass" are directed by Jeff Moore. Now in his fourth year with Continental Ministries, he served as assistant director on the 1978 tour to western Europe and Yugoslavia, and the 1982 tour to Israel, Egypt and Italy. He directed the spring tour to western Europe in 1983, and a United States tour during the summer.

Moore will direct this year's presentation entitled "Come Love The Lord." In addition to featuring medleys from that album, the program will also contain selections from "O Come All Ye Faithful" (the first Continental Christmas album) and "Dreamer" (1984 Dove Award winner--best musical).

Songs in this year's program include "Majesty," "By Our Love," "Great is the Lord," "He Will Carry You," and a special children's number....a variety of Christian songs and hymns for the whole family.

The group's local appearance is being sponsored by Colonial Hill Baptist Church, Trinity United Methodist Church, First Christian Church and the First Assembly of God.

No admission will be charged but a love offering will be taken.
