20 DROWN; LEVEE DYNAMITED

DEMAND DEATH PLOT PROBE IN STRICKEN TEXAS TOWN AFTER BLAST IS REPORTED

Levee Board Chief Says Dynamite Was Used

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 25.—John J. McCain, Fort Worth chairman of the levee board, issued a statement tonight in which he declared the levees around rivers, which broke early this morning and flooded the lowlands of the city, were dynamited by unknown parties and that an investigation by the grand jury would be demanded immeditaely.

"It is our opinion that the levee did not break of its own accord, but was dynamited and, as soon as the situation is relieved, we are going to place the facts before the grand jury and demand an investigation," Mr. McCain declared.

To Demand Probe

"This opinion is based on a report made to me at 8:15 o'clock by John I. Lyden, field supervisor and member of the levee board for the last 12 years, in which he declared that he had men patrolling the levee all Monday and Monday night and all day Tuesday and that it was his opinion that the levee was dynamited," McCain declared.

"We are not placing the blame upon anyone but we are going to place the facts before the grand jury and demand an investigation," McCain concluded.

By H. N. F.

"ON ACCOUNT OF NEEDING rest after five years continuous work" the lower house of congress granted Thomas L. Blanton an indefinite leave of absence. Loading himself with a hundred thousand copies of a recent speech delivered by himself T. L. B. journeyed from Washington to Abilene, Texas and the Daily Reporter of that city following his arrival printed a list of his speaking engagements in his district. Now if he is worn out and hasn't the strength to represent his people in the hall of legislation where will he gather the strength for his political campaign? Judge J. W. Cunningham is a candidate for the nomination and his candidacy called Blanton home. Cunningham is a star campaigner and a rough and tumble debater second to none. He is as game as a bull dog and never turns his back on a foeman. There is going to be interesting sport in the Abilene district this year. In the winter time Blanton said that he would be a candidate for the senate. This made an opening for Cunningham and he jumped in. In springtime Blanton changed his mind and announced for renomination. Cunningham did not change his mind; he says he is in the race until the votes are counted. There is going to be a bear fight in the district once represented in congress by the distinguished pioneer and soldier and lawyer and statesman, Rugged Old Vard Cockrell. He was a man.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW OF NEW York says prohibition has just about killed the banquet business. It has. And prohibition has just about killed the pauper business. When this old world comes back again there will be prosperity in the cottage as well as the mansion and little children will not go ragged and hungry because their fathers gave their wages to John Barleycorn and his agents. If the rich men of America are deprived of their liquor it will do them no harm. When toilers are deprived of liquor it keeps money in their pockets and happiness in their homes.

FRANK H. SIMONDS HAS made a tour of the war devastated countries of Europe. He says France is back to 90 per cent normal. A wonderful people. With a birthrate lower than the deathrate these sons of France faced the future and their militarists some day hope for a Napoleon to come who will conquer half the world. It is in the blood.

MILLION ACRES OF COTTON LAND TURNS INTO SEA

Plows Can't be Used For 30 Days on Broad Tract

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, April 25.—Twenty-three deaths had been reported late tonight as the result of a rainstorm and resultant floods, together with a tornado which swept over north and central and southwest Texas today.

Seventeen deaths were reported at Fort Worth, where the Trinity river inundated lower sections of the city; a negro man was drowned at Waco; a negro man and woman were drowned at Palmer; a Mexican was reported drowned at Sonora, 150 miles west of San Antonio; a woman was drowned when she was swept off a bridge near Belton; and a man was reported killed in a tornado which struck a neighborhood on Mountain Creek, five miles north of Venus.

Secretary Prather of the Dallas chapter of the American Red Cross, received word late today that Henry Baker would arrive in Fort Worth tomorrow morning to take charge of the situation in behalf of the Red Cross, which offered help to other cities in need also. Millions of acres of Texas farm land, particularly cotton land are under water and cannot be plowed before 30 days, John T. Orr, president of the Texas Farm Loan Federation, said.

Reports received miscellaneously indicated many cities were more or less flooded within a 100-mile radius from Dallas except to the north of here, where, however, rising waters were predicted.

Oil field operations in the storm area were suspended.

HALF INCH RAIN AT SEYMOUR.

Special to the Record News.

SEYMOUR, April 25.—Rain began falling here at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and it was estimated that more than a half inch has fallen soon after nightfall. A quarter of an inch rain fell Monday night and Tuesday morning.

FORT WORTH BECOMES VENICE FOR A DAY

Fort Worth today is likened to this picture of Beardstown, Ill., where flood waters recently routed residents to housetops. In the lower part of Fort Worth, around the creeks, water is reported to be even as high as some of the housetops. Water stands three feet deep in the stockyards. Hundreds of refugees are housed in the fire station and others are scattered about the city. At a late hour tonight the water was reported to be receding.

WATER SWIRLS ANGRY OVER ROOF OF HOMES AS REFUGEES DROWN

Boats Rushed to People Caught by Rising Sea of Waters, Breaking Upon Low Lands Without Moment of Warning

FORT WORTH, April 25.—The Trinity river was reported as rising at the rate of fourteen inches an hour here at 11 o'clock tonight and a rise of eleven inches an hour was reported in Clear-fork creek. Renewed efforts are being made to rescue all families from bottom lands. The rate at which the river is now rising indicates that the big rise expected from the north will hit the city within a few hours.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 25.—Seventeen probably dead and property damage estimated at approximately $1,000,000 is the toll of a flood which struck Fort Worth early Tuesday morning, sweeping before it scores of residences and small buildings, overflowing hundreds of acres of land and inundating several city streets.

Word reaching here early Tuesday night from points north of Fort Worth indicate that a further rise is expected and every effort is being made to prevent further loss of life and property in the event of another rise.

FLOOD FACTS

Seventeen dead at Fort Worth.
Two dead at Palmer.
One dead at Waco, after cloudburst.
Million-dollar damage at Fort Worth.
Fifty thousand dollars toll at Dallas.
Oil operations blocked at Mexia.
Dynamite plot charged in Fort Worth. Levee board head says levees were blasted.
Three thousand, five hundred homeless at Fort Worth.
One thousand, five hundred houses under water.
Katy flyer flood-bound at Waxahachie, where there is thousands of dollars damage. ... ... ...
Tornado kills one, injures two at Venus.

City In Darkness.

Rescue workers are laboring tirelessly in bringing relief to flood sufferers and attempting to rescue the flood stricken from their homes. The entire city has united in this work.

With the boiler rooms of the city power and light company flooded, residential Fort Worth is spending a night in darkness. No water has been available since early this morning, it is believed that the entire city will be without lights and power within a few hours.

The estimate of dead was placed by Major L. G. White, in charge of Red Cross relief workers. However, none of the local undertaking establishments has received a body. Rescue workers are of the belief that many now unaccounted for will be found when the water subsides.

The flood was confined chiefly to the lowlands adjoining the tributaries of the Trinity river and the disaster is far from city wide. Marine, Sycamore, Clearforks and the Trinity river were swollen, overflowing the bottoms nearby. Water stands three feet deep in the stock yards and is but a foot from the livestock exchange building, reports received at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon stated. However, no property loss is expected as these waters are expected to subside hourly.

With the city facing a night of darkness, 500 members of the American Legion are patrolling the streets, augmenting the police force, which is working full time in the flooded areas. The Southwestern Bell Telephone company and the Northern Texas Traction company were heavy losers from the flood and storm.

Roads Flooded

Telephone service is crippled and street car service has been suspended in parts of the city. Tracks of the interurban lines to Dallas and Cleburne were twisted mases of steel for hundreds of yards. On both lines the road bed is washed away. Parts of the Cleburne tracks were under 10 feet of water Tuesday morning.

Many of the cardinal roads were covered with water, cutting off traffic. The road to the nine-mile bridge at Lake Worth was flooded for three and a half miles. Water is running five feet over the Silver creek bridge and the Live Oak Creek bridge is in a precarious condition.

The flood is the most severe in the history of the city, according to old time residents. Trinity river stood at 30.7 feet at noon and was still rising. The gauge measured only seven feet yesterday.

Nine-Inch Rain

With the break of the East First street levee at 3 o'clock it was believed the water, on being released, would spread out, thereby losing some of its force.

Coming on the heels of a nine-inch rain, the heaviest in the history of Fort Worth, a wind and electrical storm, the flood took scores of people by surprise early Tuesday morning. The lowlands adjoining Sycamore creek, were the first to suffer and at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning water was standing level with the roofs of residences.

Men, women and children were rescued from tree tops and the roofs of houses by police in boats. An aged couple was taken from the uppermost branches of a tree. One family was saved when police sawed a hole in the roof of a residence in which the family was caged.

As the flood water spread, people living in the lowlands were forced to vacate their homes, seeking refuge in

WAXAHACHIE IN DAMAGED AREA

Property Loss Runs Into Big Figure

By Associated Press.

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, April 25.—Property damage totalling hundreds of thousands of dollars was caused in Ellis county last night and this morning by heavy rains and high waters which broke all previous records. All streams in the county were converted into raging torrents and Waxahachie creek registered the highest mark in its history.

The north bound Katy flyer was caught at the station here by the flood and was unable to proceed for several hours. When the water began running over the drive wheels of the locomotive and lapping against the sides of the coaches firemen let ladders from the interurban viaduct down on top of the coaches and assisted in removing all the passengers.

The Trinity and Brazos Valley passenger train was marooned in the yards and was delayed several hours in starting on its regular run.

The Houston & Texas Central train reached here en route to Fort Worth but was held at the station several hours because of washouts between Waxahachie and Midlothian.

A search through the file cards bearing the name of each refugee, disclosed that the man's children were safe under medical care at St. Joseph's Infirmary.

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS POINCARE DISCORDANT

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 25.—Prime Minister Lloyd George addressing a number of press representatives at Genoa, authorized them to transmit an appeal from him to the British public asking it not to accept statements appearing in some of the English papers, regarding the Genoa conference until he had had an opportunity of dealing with them in parliament, says a Central News despatch from Genoa today. The despatch quotes him as continuing:

"Premier Poincare's speech was a very serious declaration, made without any consultation with the allies and is not calculated to improve cooperation among the allies. It has nothing to do with Genoa, but French opinion is undoubtedly being inflamed by misstatements alleging that the British are pursuing a policy of secret talks.

"It is untrue that I saw Leonid Krassin on Friday, as has been stated. Our policy is that we have no quarrel with the Russian people and do not fear a German-Russian menace but we are determined to prevent Europe from again becoming in shambres.

"We want to adopt an open, humane policy but the attitude of delegates towards a settlement makes our work difficult. We cannot continue to bargain."

FLOOD—

tree tops and high points. Drenched and chilled, many clung feebly to their places of safety for hours awaiting the arrival of rescuers. Every ambulance in the city and many private automobiles were pressed into service to rush the weakened flood sufferers to the hospitals. Women, with small babies in their arms, many clad only in thin night clothing, were severely chilled when found.

Business was practically suspended downtown all day. Many business men residing in Arlington Heights and Northside were unable to reach their places of business.

At the east end of the Van Zandt viaduct a relief tent has been established and the flood victims and rescue workers are served hot food and coffee.

The office of Police Commissioner John Alderman has been converted into Red Cross headquarters. Relief headquarters are being established in various portions of the city. Subscription lists have been started for the hundreds of homeless families.

Tales of thrilling and daring rescues abound, as workers tell of their narrow escapes. A boat containing Starr Williams, captain of the Fort Worth Dokey drill team; Patrolman Smith and a civilian named Smith, capsized in the whirling current near Seventh street. Both Smiths were saved, but the last they saw of Williams, he was sinking in the muddy waters, and it is believed he was drowned. Williams, however, showed up a few hours later, after battling with the swift current and rescuing a number of chickens.

Five hundred citizens were appointed this evening as special officers to aid the police in preventing looting and to guard approaches to the levees and low lands. In anticipation of another rise, which will arrive about midnight, according to dispatches from Bridgeport, the special police are assisting in warning residents of the Trinity river valley, not yet flooded by the early rise.

Flood in Seperate Areas

The disptach from Bridgeport said a rise of between eight to ten feet was coming down the east fork of the Trinity. Allowing for the curve in the stream and natural spreading out of the water, it is expected the rise when it reaches will be diminished to about five feet.

The flood was in two separate areas, the largest being that on the west fork of the Trinity which spread out from the Stove Foundry road to several miles beyond the Paddock viaduct, a distance of more than ten miles. In places, the river was more than two miles wide, covering a large section of the Trinity valley. The second flood occurred in the lowlands of Sycamore creek and flooded an area of approximately two miles. The rise of this creek covered areas several miles wide at places and it was here that several negroes lost their lives.

$40,000 Asked

In a joint appeal issued tonight by Hub Diggs of the local Red Cross and Mayor E. R. Cockrell, $40,000 was asked immediately to care for the flood sufferers.

Mr. Diggs said that it would be necessary to feed the many homeless for at least ten days and clothing also is badly needed.

A mayor's emergency fund has been started with $1,500 donated by the Y. M. C. A. and $100 from the Typographical union. Other relief funds have been started by various organiastions.

Traffic Paralyzed

The relief work is in full swing and the hundreds of people who were driven from their homes by the rising waters are being taken care of.

Traffic on the Texas & Pacific Railway out of Fort Worth is paralyzed and all rail outlets are either many feet under water or washed out, except the track of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe.

HOW IT WORKED OUT.

Neverwed—I see your wife's learned to drive the car in spite of you. Did you tell her her skirts would be in the way and might cause a serious accident?

Justwed—Yes. I pulled that on her and she went and bought a $90 suit of knickers.

ing else matters," sobbed one little mother, as she clung to a three months old babe."

Babe Goes Down Twice.

"We live out in Westwood addition, near the Seventh street viaduct. The water struck us about 6 o'clock this morning. My husband got out the team and wagon and we started out but we had just got into the wagon when the horses broke loose and we were left floating with the current. We came near a house and swam to its door. There were three people already there. My husband took my baby and crawled upon the kitchen safe after I had climbed on a ladder. It wasn't long until we went to the attic and then onto the roof where boats rescued us. The boat turned over and my husband went down twice with my precious baby in his arms, but, thank God the baby was wrapped in a quilt and the little think kept crying so that I knew she was alive."

Wife Drowns; Doesn't Want to Live

She finished her story and one of the workers came with an old man who was completely exhausted. For hours rescuers had tried to get him from the top of a floating house, where he was perched armed with a gun. According to the relief worker, he kept on saying:

"My wife has already gone down, and I don't want to be saved—I'll kill anyone that comes near me."

"I cry everytime I think about 74 little chickens that were wrapped up in an old kimona. The little things are gone now. But, Oh, how happy I am to be safe with my three little children and husband," said one woman who is one of the refugees from the district just east of the Paddock viaduct.

"One more payment and I would have owned my home and truck farm," said R. D. Smith who with his family, reached the Seventh street viaduct just before the dam broke. His little farm is in the New Evans addition. "If I could just find my trunk, I could find the deeds to my land for I don't expect to ever locate my house, as I saw it float away."

In another section of the flood district, a man took refuge in a tree during the early hours of the day. He cried for help several times, but officers and rescue workers were unable to locate him. Shots were fired several times during the night, but the man was not located until dawn. When he asked who was firing the shots, the rescue workers told him they were shooting in an effort to locate him. He told them that a limb of the treen, in which he took refuge, was shot off and he narrowly escaped being struck by the charge of the gun.

MORGAN ATTACKS WILLIAMS' RECORD

Special to the Record News.

SEYMOUR, April 25.—Morgan again attacked the record of Guinn Williams as head of the Texas senate's penitentiary committee in the joint debate between the two congressional aspirants at Seymour today, heard by several hundred people. Morgan said that his opponents action had largely blocked a sufficient appropriation for the support of the penitentiary system, necessitating the borrowing of large sums, outside Texas, when state money, unappropriated, lay idle in the banks.

Williams had little to say of his opponent, confining himself in main to discussion of his own platform and record.

The talks here were largely along the same line as in other places. The two left to speak at Bomarton tonight.

MANY MILLIONS BOND PROJECT

New Dominion Issue Is Floated

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Impetus was given to today's active and comprehensive bond market by the successful flotation of two large and important underwritings—the new Dominion of Canada $100,000,000 loan and the New York City $45,000,000 offering.

The sentimental effect of these sales was evident throughout the list but especially in the liberty series, most of which closed at gains after showing early irregularity. Other strong government issues embraced Dominion of Canada fives of 1931, Untied Kingdom 5 1-2's of 1937, Mexican fours, Brazil eights and Queensland sevens.

Many local utilities extended recent sharp advances, notably Interborough, Rapid Transit, Hudson and Manhattan, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Third Avenue and New York-Boston and Westchester.

Further strength of New Haven issues was one of the features of the railway list, together with Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Seaboard Airline, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Illinois Central, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, and Minneapolis and St. Louis issues. Total sales par value aggregated $20,583,000.

CITY PAYROLL CUT OVER $1000

$617 More Lopped Off by Council

Reductions in the salaries of city employes approximating $617 and force reductions which will bring a cut of $670 more in the city's monthly payroll have been agreed upon by the city councilmen, according to statements made Tuesday morning in the city secretary's office.

With the suggestions and decisions made by the council, the total wage reduction in the monthly payroll will aggreate $1,287.

Including the reductions made in the city engineering department, which were announced at the meeting Monday night, the council made cuts in the following departments:

Electrical inspector reduced from $225 to $175.

Gas and plumbing inspector, reduced from $175 to $150.

Tax assessor cut from $290 to $250.

City clerk reduced from $290 to $250.

Clerk in city secretary's office reduced from $125 to $100.

Street superintendent's salary cut from $290 to $250.

Chief sanitary officer's salary cut from $400 to $325.

Sanitary officer reduced from $125 to $100.

Quarantine officer cut from $165 to $150.

Park superintendent reduced from $250 to $200.

Chief clerk of the water department reduced from $240 to $200.

Superintendent of the water department reduced from $250 to $200.

Store keeper of the water department reduced from $130 to $125.

Among the changes incorporated in the action of the council, only one employe received a raise in salary, that being a clerk in the tax collector's office, whose wages were raised from $125 to $140. No intimation of resignations following the reduction announcements has been made, according to city officials, who assert that there is little possibility of vacancies occurring as a result of the cuts.

Included in the report of the council are reductions of five men in the forces of city employe ranks. These include a sanitary officer in the health department, an assistant sexton-superintendent and a bookkeeper of the cemetery department, a stenographer and a pipe fitter in the water department.

WHITE TO PULL OUT OF HOLE

Assets Reported at $300,000

Belief that the White Produce company, operating around 60 branches in Texas, nine of them in the Wichita Falls territory and under the Wichita Falls house, would soon be able to lift the receivership they are now operating under is current among produce dealers in this section.

One of the principal reasons expressed for this belief is the fact that W. R. White, head of the company, has on previous occasions been in jeopardy and pulled the company out and into a larger field of business. The company is now in the hands of a receiver, requested by Mr. White recently in order that the affairs of the company might pull out of the tangle they are in.

The company is reported to be solvent, their assets reported at approximately $300,000, with $225,000 outstanding liabilities, largely to North Texas banks, which have backed the White concern and which are expected to continue to do so. Denison banks have already arranged, it is understood, to extend necessary credit to the receiver.

The receivership is in the hands of B. W. Grimmet, auditor of the company, and is of course, a friendly one.

The concern has run largely on its nerve the past year, it is understood. It is also understood to have stood nearly a quarter of a million dollar loss in the egg market last year, having had 21 carloads of eggs rolling when the famous single day 9-cent drop came last year. The company has, however, in spite of this, reduced its obligations around $1,000,000 the last year, straining every nerve to pay the banks who have extended them credit. Necessity of immediate payment of a loan of $27,000 to a Denison bank which closed at an inconvenient time, is reported as one of the items which lead up to the receivership.

The company handles produce to a value running well into seven figures through the Wichita Falls house and its branches each year.

FOUR LOCAL FLIERS IN LEGION SHOW

Four local flyers will compete with the nearly two score of pilots from various parts of the United States who will take part in the Pat Carrigan post's big air circus to be held on Saturday and Sunday, according to information from legion officials.

Harold Hanes, a crack military flyer during the war, and since the war in the oil and insurance business in Wichita Falls will be one of the flyers. Although he has done little flying since the war until the last few weeks, almost daily flying since the meet here has been under way, has brought back all the flying skill which distinguished his work in the army, according to aviators who have already arrived for the meet.

Additional flyers are arriving daily for the meet. The larger number are expected Friday, when at least a score of places are expected to make their appearance.

Judge Huff Joins Redistricting War In Behalf of City

Intervention in the interest of West Texas in the legal fight to establish the validity of the redistricting law, and approval of the plan to organize a joint stock farm loan bank, workings and advantages of which were discussed by C. H. Clark in an interview in the Record News of Sunday, marked a special meeting of the chamber of commerce directors Tuesday morning.

The intervention in the redistricting fight was suggested to the board by Judge R. E. Huff, for many years president of the organization. The directors approved the plan, and named Judge Huff as director of its part in the fight. Judge Huff will get in touch with the West Texas chamber of commerce in an effort to secure co-operation by that organization. He expressed the opinion that the clause in the senatorial redistricting measure delaying its effect until 1924 could be knocked out as unconstitutional, but no definite decision was reached on this score.

C. H. Clark and Frank Kell were placed in charge of the movement for the organization of the land bank, which will have a capital stock of $250,000, according to Mr. Clark's plan.

TWO WELLS IN ELECTRA SAND

New Producers Are 3 Miles Apart

Two exceptionally good wells from the 1930 foot south Electra sand, three miles apart, featured the developments in the oil fields Tuesday.

The Planet Petroleum's first deep test, the No. 37 Burnet, in the original "shallow pool" in section 5, was swabbing at the rate of 450 or 500 barrels Tuesday.

The Harvey-Cullum No. 2 Rio Bravo, section 31, was showing up for between 200 and 300 barrels production Tuesday, making several flows, while cleaning out was in progress. This well also got the sand around 1930 feet. This well is 75 feet west of the discovery well on the lease, which is in the 1600-foot sand.

The two wells are three wiles apart the Harvey-Cullum being a new sand discovery for this newly opened pool west of the Gladiolus, Planet, Griswold and Bridewell and Heydrick and neighboring leases, where there has been production at various depths for some time.

The Planet well is a short distance southwest of the McDaniel et al well, on the Burnett, which was the first to get the deeper sand in this immediate pool.

PIANIST WINS APPLAUSE HERE

Godowsky Heard by Music Lovers

Wichita Falls' music lovers and many from surrounding towns were given a rare treat Tuesday evening when Leopold Godowsky, well known composer and conceded to be one of the best pianists now playing in concert, appeared in recital at the Wichita theater.

Despite the inclement weather, the artist was greeted with an exceptionally large representative audience who gave him rapt attention throughout his rendition of a well balanced program composed of numbers by the great masters.

Clarity of tone and splendid technique characterized his playing throughout, and difficult runs executed with the greatest ease. He received hearty applause, and many encores.

In presenting Godowsky, Ernest Katz, local musician, who was instrumental in bringing him here said that the success of this concert would mean that many more of the very best musicians both instrumental and vocalists would be brought here in the near future. Wichita Falls was one of the four Texas cities in which the artist will appear.

The program included: Thirty-two Variations C minor (Beethoven) Rhapsody 9 p. 119, No. 4 E flat (Brahms), My Joys (Chopin-Liszt) Maiden's Wish, and a group of his own compositions, Nocturnal Tongier, Sylvan Tyrol, Memories, Watteau Paysage, Old Vienna, The Music Box and Quixotic Errantry Chopin numbers included: Ballade, G minor, Nocturne G major, Andante Spianoto and Polonaise, op. 63. The last group included: Peux d'Eaux (Ravel,) Reflects dans Peau d'Eaux ss), Berceuse (Liodow), Poeme, op. 32 No. 1 F sharp (Scriabine), and Syphonic Metamorphoses on Artists Life" of Johann Strauss (Godowsky)

Box parties for the affair were given by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Clark, for Mrs. Clark's music pupils, by Mr. and Mrs. Saul Lebenson for teachers of the Alamo school, by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cline and Ernest Katz.

FIVE AMARILLO MEN HELD FOR MURDER

By Associated Press.

AMARILLO, April 25.—J. T. Williams, manager of the Williams Mercantile company, at Wilson, eight miles southwest of Slaton, is seriously wounded as a result of a shooting at Slaton last night, when a load of buckshot was fired into his face and a load of bird shot into his shoulder. Lloyd Crouch, Charley Richards, Dick Hendrix, Jim Harrison and a man named Smith are in jail in connection with the shooting.

Judge Miller Dies At Fort Worth

Judge George E. Miller, thirty years ago district judge in Wichita Falls, and before that time district attorney, and one of the most brilliant and promising lawyers in the state of Texas, died Tuesday at his home in Fort Worth, according to a message received Tuesday evening by Judge Edgar Scurry, from Judge J. H. Barwise, Jr.

The body will probably be brought to Wichita Falls, the old home, for interment, according to the telegram. Plans are expected to be perfected today.

Judge Miller is known to all the older citizens of Wichita Falls, and also to the more recent additions to legal circles in the city. As district attorney and district judge later, he occupied a prominent part in the town and the community.

He is survived by his wife, a son, George E., Jr., and a daughter, Miss Elizabeth. He was about 60 years of age.

VETS DISCUSS BIG AERIAL CIRCUS

Plans for a home for the Pat Carrigan post and final preparations for the great air circus to be staged Saturday and Sunday, and which is expected to clear the "nest egg" for the building of this home, will be discussed at a special meeting of the post tonight at 8 o'clock.

An urgent call to every former service man in Wichita Falls, whether a member of the post or not, to be present at the meeting, and aid in the putting over of the ambitious plan for a club building, is issued by post officials.

IRRIGATION GOES ALONG DESPITE RAIN

Rains of the past several days have not interfered with work on the irrigation project to date, nor will they except temporarily unless something of the nature of the Fort Worth flood visits the Wichita Valley. This was the statement of E. S. Heyser, vice president of the W. E. Callahan Construction company and in charge of the project, Tuesday night.

Temporary halts may occur from the rains in the Wichita Valley Tuesday night, although this was not certain as the rains had just started when reports from the project were received, and the amount of precipitation could not be estimated.

COLLEGE EXAMS TO BE HELD DURING MAY

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, April 25.—College entrance examinations will be held at the small, unaffiliated schools throughout the state during the week of May 8-13, for convenience of students who will wish to enter the university and colleges, the state department of education announced.

The examinations have no connection with examinations for teachers' certificates, it was announced.

DALTON WELL'S RUN IS 1,250

High Water Breaks Sinclair Line

The initial 24-hour run of the Dalton well, Palo Pinto county's sensation, amounted to 1,250 barrels, according to pipeline figures. The well is flowing steadily, according to Tuesday reports.

High water caused a break at two places in the Sinclair's line to the Dalton well, and a quantity of oil escaped into creeks and ravines, according to the reports, before the break became known.

Tuesday's developments in Young county were of much importance. The Raleo's discovery well in the 3,800-foot lime was drilled deeper and a pleasing increase in production resulted, according to the reports. The guaged production was not available Tuesday.

The Miller et al., on the Herron, drilled into a new sand for the East Bunger extension, at 2,500 feet last week, is producing better than 400 barrels daily, according to latest reports.

The North American No. 2 Burgess, a South Bend townsite test, is also reported in the 3,500-foot lime, with a nice showing, and expected to show important developments within the next day or so, when it is possible to test.

TWO KILLED FIGHTING FOR DRY LAW; THIRD TAKES UP BATTEL

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 25.—Colonel F. W. Wood, grandfather of William Wood, city editor of the Durango Herald, slain in Durango yesterday by Rod S. Day, editor of the Durango Democrat, lost his life prohibition as a result of his defense of prohibition in that state, John Wood, a brother of the Durango editor said today. Colonel Wood was slain while a member of the Kansas legislature, Wood said. He was speaker of the Kansas house of representatives and a leader in the fight for prohibition in Kansas, Wood said.

William Wood, too, was slain as an outgrowth of a controversy that began when the Herald, the newspaper on which he was employed at Durango, criticised the Durango Democrat's opposition to the prohibition amendment. And John Wood, a sophomore at Colorado College, announced here today he would take up the fight of his brother and his grandfather for prohibition.

First to establish the $10.90 price—"Usco"

THE makers of U. S. Tires made this announcement last November—

"Hereafter the price of the 30x3½ 'Usco' is $10.90."

The lowest price ever quoted on a tire of quality reputation and standard performance.

And now, with the opening of Spring, there seem to be quite a number of "New and Special tires" coming into the market in the $10.90 price range.

Perhaps you are wondering just what there can be either "new" or "special" about these tires.

It can't be the $10.90 price—"Usco" established that five months ago.

Nor quality reputation and standard performance—for it takes more than one full season for any new tire to demonstrate where it stands in quality and value

With so many tires rushing into this $10.90 price field (now that the season promises business from the American car-owner), it is worth remembering that "Usco" showed its good faith by announcing this price last fall.

The same intent to serve that has made "Usco" a standard value for years.

The "Usco" Tire was never better than it is today—with its established quality, its time-tested performance, and its price closely figured in tune with the times.

$10.90 and even better than the price

DO THEY SLEEP?

Secretaries Fall and Denby have leased naval reserves to oil companies and Senator Lafollette wants to know the reason why. Josephus Daniels, formerly secretary of the navy, refused to lease the naval reserves and Daniels says in his letter of protest that when the first claims for lease rights on naval reserves were examined by the navy department it was found that they were asked for by parties working in the stockyards of Chicago, who thought that they were signing a petition for an election. There are thousands of foreigners in these stockyards. Now what interest had they in the naval oil reserves of this country? Why should petitions of the like be circulated in the stockyards of Chicago or any other city? Senators and congressmen are said to be the servants of the people. Do they sleep on their rights some of the time or most of the time?

APPOINT GUARDIANS.

Former Vice-President Thomas Riley Marshall declared at Sherman that the fathers never intended that this Republic should be a pure democracy but a representative one and the longer he considers the old constitution the more he is convinced that the worse you make it by amending it. A wonderful maker of platitudes is the former vice-president. Would he recall the Eighteenth amendment? Would he recall the Nineteenth amendment? He declared the biggest fraud ever devised was the referendum vote for the people to decide what laws they should live under. Thomas Jefferson declared this to be a government of and for and by the people. Thomas Riley Marshall professes to be a follower of Jefferson. Jefferson believed in the people and this follower of his says the people should rule if they take time to reason out the questions of government but they should not rule if they do not take the time. Thomas Riley Marshall is a lawyer. And to say the least he is a fine old hair-splitter. Americans are either capable or incapable of self-government. If they are incapable then guardians should be appointed for them.

STRONG'S PROGRAM

Sterling P. Strong, champion of the Ku Klux Klan and running as a Democrat for United States Senator, has a program all his own. He is opposed to electing nine-tenth of public officials from any class, he says nine-tenths of the men in congress are lawyers and he is the only candidate for senator from Texas who is not a lawyer. Thomas Jefferson was a lawyer. Anything the matter with Thomas or his principles of government, his record as a statesman or the Declaration of American Independence or the constitution of the United States? Thomas was on the ground in those ancient days and he bossed the job.

Sterling P. Strong has announced for collective bargaining for both capital and labor for the reason that organized labor has brought the children out of the sweat shops and put them into the schools and has made happier homes for the working men of our nation. There appears to be a campaign on in Texas and vote hunting is the order of the day. Jim Ferguson is for organized labor and moisture; Sterling P. Strong is for organized labor and Sahara dryness. Great old world.

Misfortunes are often blessings in disguise. Many of us have been hired, fired and inspired by an unappreciative employer.

Danny Looks for Little Miss Nanny

Danny Meadow Mouse never before in all his life had felt so bashful as when at last he stood on the doorstep of the house of little Miss Nanny Meadow Mouse. He hoped she would be glad to see him and he was afraid she wouldn't. He just knew that he wouldn't be able to thing of a thing to say. Te truth is Danny was in love. He had been in love ever since he first saw little Miss Nanny a day or two before. But she might not fall in love with him. It was a dreadful thought because he felt that he could never be happy again if she didn't. Perhaps there was some one else she cared for. The very idea made Danny grind his teeth and long to fight again as he had just been fighting.

How still it was inside! Danny fidgeted about uneasily. Then he peeped inside, which is a perfectly proper thing to do in Meadow Mouse society. The house was empty! Little Miss Nanny wasn't there at all! Danny walked right in and looked everywhere. It was queer, very queer, for he had been quite certain that he had seen her peeping out at him as he started up her private little path. Could she be hiding from him? Or could it be that while he had been so long in coming some one else had stolen her away? Instantly he grew bold. The thought that he might have lost her through his own bashfulness made him doubly anxious to find her.

Danny looked out of the back door. As she hadn't come out the front way she must have gone out this way. Of course! There was just a little faint Mouse scent. It tickled Danny's nose. He knew it was the scent of little Miss Nanny. He followed it eagerly, for that is the way of little meadow people. It led him straight to a big grassy tussock. The long grass hung way over all around. Danny peeped under. It seemed to him that he saw just the tip of a fascinating little tail disappear on the other side of the tussock. Danny started after it eagerly and as fast as he could run. Sometimes he thought he heard little footsteps ahead of him. Round and round that grassy tussock he ran, but though he could run pretty fast for a Meadow Mouse he didn't even catch another glimpse of that fascinating tail. It was quite plain to see that little Miss Nanny could run quite as fas as he could.

Then he had a bright idea. Anyway it seemed like a bright idea to him. He would run the other way, and then he would be sure to meet her. So Danny turned around and started round the grassy tussock just the opposite way from which he had been going and his heart beat very fast with excitement, for now surely he must catch little Miss Nanny. But he didn't! No, sir, he didn't! He went clear around that grassy tussock without seeing a sign of little Miss Nanny. He was so disappointed and vexed that he could have cried but for the fhact that he had outgrown his cry-baby days. It was very plain to be seen that little Miss Nanny was quite as clever and smart as he, and the more he realized this the more he knew that he just must have her.

This time he walked around very slowly, sniffing, and sniffing. Ha! There was that faint scent and it led off down a private little path. Danny began to run once more. This time it led to an old brush pile and under this were little galleries in all directions. Danny heard a faint rustle in one of them and off he started in that direction. Then began such a game of hide-and-seek as he never had played in all his life. Dozens of times he was sure that at last he had caught up with little Miss Nanny, only to be disappointed. He began to almost hate that brush pile. And then, just when he was quite tired out and almost discouraged, he saw little Miss Nanny sitting with her back to him looking out under the old brush pile as if she didn't know that he was anywhere about.

If Your Child Is Lazy

By H. ADDING BRUCE

Some day all parents and teachers will appreciate—as, quite evidently, many still do not—that laziness in children as regards their school work is usually something more than a bad habit. Comparatively few are the children who can be rescued from laziness by exhortation or punishment.

Usually what lazy children most need is medical attention. This because:

Laziness often is a product of malnutrition, unfavorably affecting the quality of the blood circulating through the brain. And it may be a product of malnutrition even when the diet is adequate to the child's needs.

If the child does not exercise enough in the open air it will be poorly nourished. And malnutrition may result if it is permitted to sleep in underventilated rooms, to play too much, to stay up too late at night, to become overexcitable and overemotional.

Overemtotional children are pretty sure to be children subject to brooding or worry or panicky fears. These react to disturb their digestion, besides directly depleting their energy. Then their food is poorly assimilated, they become malnourished, and as a symptom of their malnutrition may develop laziness.

Overemotionality, still further, may have an adverse influence on the workings of the glands of internal secretion. In these function poorly from any cause laziness is a possible consequence. So that it happens that lazy children sometimes need treatment by glandular therapy to be cured of their laziness.

Sometimes, on the other hand, they may need only treatment to correct imparied vision or defective hearing, or treatment for the removal of infected tonsils, adenoid growths, abscessed teeth. All these physical imperfections have been known to contribute to the development of laziness.

So, it may be added, have physical imperfections in a child's surroundings and in the circumstances of its life.

Faulty home conditions—especially constant bickering and quarreling of parents, or the failure of parents to set an example of industrious activity—may give rise to laziness in children. And not infrequently the blame chiefly rests with late entrance into school, frequent change of schools, and irregular attendance at school.

Finally, through happily not frequently, the laziness may be a sign of some degree of inborn weak-mindedness. In which case it obviously is important to ascertain as soon as possible what that degree is and what specially corrective treatment may most hopefully be undertaken.

And even when the most searching medical and psychological inquiry fails to disclose any adequate cause for laziness treatment by threats and punishment should still be avoided. Wiser far is it to try to persuade, since always it remains true that in the words of one who has given much thought to this problem of laziness in school children:

"The driven child is more likely to be seized by a distaste for work than is the child whose inspired or spontaneous interests impel him to activity. The rational course is to offer an external stimulus that will tend to create an inner urge."

WHAT EVERY HUSBAND KNOWS. —By Herbert Johnson

THE ONCE OVER

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND HIS INDIAN TRAVELS.

The world's greatest travelling man, the Prince of Wales, is quitting India after a pleasant winter knocking around with the Maharajahs, Maharajahesses, Ameers, Kurkhas, Gherkins and other grades of select pickles.

o o o

Not that the prince hasn't been enjoying himself. The fact is, old thing, that the tigers were beginning to get dreadfully bored "playing dead" for the movie men while the prince sat high up on the forward compartment of a disinterested elephant and shook a gold-headed gun.

o o o

These tigers they use in India are very accommodating and will do a lot for his majesty the king and any of his relatives or friends, but there's a limit to all things, and the tigers were giving pointed hints that the moving picture hunts were beginning to pall on them.

o o o

The elephants, too, felt they had carted the king's best-dressed son around India on top of their heads long enough.

o o o

An elephant in India has a tough time of it. In this country when a visitor wishes to go any place he calls a Black-and-White or Yellow taxi, but in India he calls a Gray & Gray elephant.

o o o

The Indian government keeps an amazing number of elephants on call. Then, too, there are many public elephant stands about the country. The rates are 20 cents for the first mile for one person, 30 for two or more, and 10 cents a mile for each mile thereafter.

o o o

Short haul trips do not tax the elephant in the least, but long trips in search of tigers are quite another matter. Depreciation and wear and tear have to be considered by the elephant. They are seldom considered by the visitor, especially a royal visitor. One of the first things he does is to hail an elephant taxi and demand:

"Drive me to the nearest tiger, James!"

"Tiger?" asks the chauffeur, who always dreads long trips.

"Yes," replies the visitor. "You see, I told the folks back home I'd go tiger hunting and I'd like to keep my word."

o o o

Whereupon the chauffeur pulls his turban over his eyes, spits over the side of the elephant, steps on the tusk, and is off in quest of a tiger.

o o o

His greatest fear is that he may find one.

o o o

With a royal visitor like a prince it is a bit different. It would never do for a king's offspring to dash off abruptly after a tiger, meet one, and lose the decision. For this to happen would ruin the prince, greatly anger the king and queen, and rather upset the plans of the moving picture men.

o o o

So the Indian government reserves a particularly high elephant for a prince, one too high for any tiger to leap over. It also takes care to see this this elephant is too slow to keep up with the elephants that will be sent out loaded with Indian W. S. Harts to stir up the tiger and take the first crack at it.

o o o

Everything is timed so the prince will arrive only after the tiger has become discouraged or worse.

o o o

Prince Edward did so much tiger hunting that the tigers got to know him and his advance guard personally and to know what was expected of them. They would lie down and play dead at once, registering complete loss of life at the word of the camera men.

o o o

The prince would then ride up on his "slower-moving-vehicles-keep-to-the-right" elephant, stand up in his basket and point a Sears-Roebuck 40,000 coupon gun at the tiger while Johnny turned the crank.

The pictures having been properly taken the party would file back to town, the movie men leaving last after whispering in the tiger's ear. "That's all for to-day. Report on the same lot Tuesday at 2:30 and we'll film the second scene."

o o o

As a matter of fact the tigers regarded the prince simply as a Boy Scout in a white suit, and eventually the whole game got on their nerves.

o o o

All in all, though, the prince had a good time. He studied Indian conditions and customs thoroughly and will carry back a detailed report on why the Indians wear cold towels around their Mohammedan heads day after day and how the cracked ice stands the heat.

The Gist of the Strike Trouble

By DR. FRANK CRANE
(Copyright, 1922, by Frank Crane.)

The business of striking seems to grow in strength and favor with every year.

Almost every strike is for just one thing—more wages. The laborers have discovered that there is just one way which is surest to get more wages, and that is the strike.

Strikes do not fail as a rule. On the contrary, and in the long run, they succeed.

We have only to carry the strike idea, however, to its logical conclusion to discover that it has in itself the seed of destruction, and that it contains that same spirit of tyranny and class privilege which is the most ancient enemy of democracy.

It may be true that the worker needs a larger share of the profits, and also that the strike is the only means by which he can secure this.

But if that is to continue to be true it means that the only way in which men can get justice under our free institutions is to form some kind of private organization which shall hold a pistol at the head of government.

It means that government has collapsed and can no longer secure justice for its subjects.

It means that democracy is played out.

It means that we must go back to the system of a former age and each class organize itself into a hostile band and fight every other class, to see which shall get the most of the spoils.

It makes no difference who is to blame. It may be the capitalist. It may be our capitalistic system. It may be the labor agitator. But the question that presents itself to the law-abiding citizen is not who is to blame, but how are we going to stop a condition of things that is sure to land us in anarchy, sure to create a fruitful field for the germs of mad Bolshevism, and sure in the end unless it be checked to destroy all those fruits of civilizations which our institutions have grown through the years.

In all this we do not blame the laborers nor their unions, for it is not any morally destructive motive that actuates them, but simply a normal and legitimate desire to get the most possible for their work.

Neither do we blame the employers and owners, because they also have no wicked and cruel impulse, but, like the laborers, want to get the most profit possible.

It is an enonomic conflict, not a moral one.

The gist of the whole matter is simply this: What share of the products of human activity ought to go to labor and what share ought to go to capital?

And that question, we submit, is not a question that is going to be settled by violence, destruction, and oratory, but is the kind of an issue that can only be adjusted by competent experts working under a public opinion which exercises a constant force upon them to compel them to be strictly just.

Sir Auckland Geddes said the other day that the average government official was below the level of intelligence of the average official in business. It is only too more that the electoral methods of democracy tend to produce second rate lawmakers and governors.

GUNS.

Oh, the shootings every day! Some one's always being shot, and the dead are borne away to the shady churchyard lot. Some are shot for fifteen cents, some are stricken down for fun; the most frivolous of gents may with ease acquire a gun. There are laws forbidding this, there are laws forbidding that; but no law forbids the bliss of the tough who'd pack a gat. He may have a murder face, he may have a record bad, but he seeks the busy place where revolvers may be had; and if he can show the men, foolish questions are not plied; he may bear away his gun, ripe for carefree homicide. Shooting, shootings all the time, voters killed, with no excuse; and the carnical of crime still is ramping, raging loose. If you'd buy a dish of beer, a prescription you must gain, from some learned physician near, who has found you have a pain. If you'd buy a poison dire to deplete the rodent swarms, then the druggist will require that you sign some drastic forms. But if you desire a gat, with manslaughter in your mind, there'll be no ordeal like that, no obstructions will you find.—(Copyright. 192. George Matthew Adams.)

THE EVENING TUREEN

Richard Sands took a $2 bill out of his pay envelope and handed the rest to his wife, Ellen. It was a thing he did every Saturday night. Ellen kissed him, smiled, and locked the money away in the drawer of her little desk. Her husband watched her movement with interest and amusement and she knew it. Though they had been married four years they were still where they had started—sweethearts of the good, old-fashioned sort.

There was one think about Ellen, though, that Richard could never quite get used to, and this was a certain reservation in her nature. He told her everything, but she always stopped when she had told him what she thought to be enough. Take this matter of his weekly pay envelope, for instance. He knew that she did not use all the money that it represented, yet there was apparently never anything left over. And she did not explain what became of it.

It is true he never asked her to explain. He had an idea that between a man and his wife money in any quantity should occasion no barrier. What he earned should be hers as it was his—hers most, perhaps, for it was her part to attend to the commissary department and that entailed the biggest expense of their household.

But now as he watched her putting the money away he half unconsciously made certain mental calculations which set him to wondering where all the money went to, anyhow. Ellen attended to all the bills and made all the purchases, and he never inquired into them. Beyond the $2 weekly which he took out for occasional carfare or the like, he actually handled very little of his salary. "Where does all the money go to, anyway?" he asked suddenly.

Ellen turned round from the desk in her little chair and looked at him with a note of surprise. "Why, it takes a lot to live nowadays, Rich. You know what prices are. But I'm not a bit extravagant, really."

"No, I know you're not. You're a wonderful little manager."

She smiled. "Of course when it comes down to our real comfort, I sacrifice nothing. A man who works as hard as you do must be fed. Dad used to say no engine could make a grade without plenty of stoking. It's just that way with a worker's body. You see, I've figured it all out. And then warmth and light are prime necessities, of course. They keep a man from wanting to go to lodge five nights in the seven." The smile became a mischievous laugh. "You didn't know I was such a diplomat, did you?"

"So that's what you call it," Richard returned admiringly.

"And then," Ellen seemed bent on confidences, "my clothes only need a little repairing and the like. Clothes can be made to go such a long way when they have to. Of course, I always mean to look nice."

"You look very nice," mused Richard.

"The rent is a big item," mused Ellen soberly. "I wish we could afford to have a bungalow out somewhere. I've a perfect hankering for a few chickens and an asparagus bed. So what ever is left over from the weekly expenses I put in the old blue tureen."

"The old blue tureen, eh? Oh, I know that old dish of your grandmother's. I guess you don't have much to put into it."

"More than you think. Then there's the rainy-day fund besides. All told, I do quite a bit of saving."

Richard flung his head back and laughed. "The old blue tureen and the rainy-day fund! Now, I understand what occasions margarine sauce instead of butter for the puddings and oodles of gravy at all seasons," he replied.

"Gravy is nourishing," Ellen pouted a little. "You don't have the 'lean and hungry' look that distinguished Cassius by any means."

"Get out the book and let's read that scene," suggested Richard. So the session ended in an appreciation of Shakespeare.

After that Ellen spoke more and more often of the bungalow and the chickens and the asparagus bed. She even got out paper and pencil and made Richard help her draw plans.

"All right, love, but I never heard of a bungalow coming out of an old blue tureen before," he joked. Ellen was serious. "Dad used to say that hope doubled the dollars. I'm hoping immensely."

"It takes a hundred cents, you knaw, sweet, to make a dollar."

"Yes, but hope is a mighty agent."

Two days later Richard came home sick. He grew worse so rapidly that within twenty-four hours the little apartment was turned into a private hospital. A summer cold, at first disregarded, had become a violent bronchial affection. Ellen constituted herself nurse and hung over him day and night. Then as soon as he was strong enough she took him out of the city to a little mountain village, where they stayed six weeks. By that time Richard had recuperated completely and Ellen was completely rested from her long siege of anxiety and nursing. So they went back to the city "to begin over again" Richard said, sighing. "One thing's certain, my job's waiting. I'm thankful for that."

"There's lots more than that to be thankful for," Ellen returned.

"I suppose so, but you must remember, that I've been out of work and earned nothing for almost three months. Neither did I have any insurance. We've got a lot of bills to pay—the doctor, the druggist, grocer, all mighty kind, but they can't wait forever. It's going to take a pull to catch up, eh?"

Ellen laid her hand on his. They were sitting on the couch in their little living room.

"Eh?" inquired Richard, startled out of abstraction and looking at her.

"You forgot the old blue tureen," said Ellen.

"That's so. Did you find a fortune in it when you lifted the cover?"

"Please don't make fun of me, Dick. I found enough to help out wonderfully. You see, when the tureen got full I emptied it into the savings bank. Anyway, I paid up everything as we went along. Why, how do you suppose we lived at Mrs. Ketcham's out there at Mountaindale for six weeks, the two of us, if I didn't pay? That took a lot of money but there's quite a little left. You'd be surprised." She got up and went into the next room and came back and sat down beside him again with the tureen in her lap. Tenderly she lifted the cover and ran the contents through her fingers.

Richard watched her wonderingly. "Just nickels, dimes and pennies," he breathed.

Ellen lifted a radiant face. "But they count up faster than you'd think. I've walked many a mile just to save two cents on something. The walk did me good and the two cents—well there were enough of them to save the situation when you got sick, and there's going to be more. This——" Ellen patted down the bungalow fund. It'll succeed, to. See if it doesn't."

"I believe it will," said Richard in a rather queer voice. He put his arm about her and drew her close. "But how—what started it all?"

"Oh, it was grandmother's way. She always saved money in this old blue tureen. And she didn't have half as much to save as I did, but she made it all count. They lived on a little farm, you know, and once when the best cow lay down and died and grandfather was almost discouraged, she brought the price of another cow out of the old tureen. I guess that must have been one of the happiest moments of her life. I know, just how she felt."

Richard could add nothing to that. But he drew her close and laid his cheek to hers. By and by, when the lump was out of his throat and he could speak manfully, he would tell her something of what was in his heart for her. If she didn't already guess, wise little wife that she was.

Nature is a most wonderful doctor. Men who have had years of medical training are, after all, only her very poor assistants.

EAT ORANGES FOR HEALTH

There's a Difference In Fruits

The elderly gentleman who regarded with disfavor the dish of fruit which centred the breakfast table, said tartly:

"I can get used to a lot of these new-fangled notions, but I think, Joan, that your children eat altogether too many oranges."

"But, grandfather——" began the grown-up Joan, while her small Joan looked up attentively and John scowled and rubbed his eye hurried as juice spurted from his sister's orange.

"Teacher says——" began Ted, who was older, but his mother shook her head at him.

"Fresh fruits are much easier to get nowadays, dad, than when we were youngsters," said the man who sat at the head of the table. And they are recognized today as necessary to a balanced diet——"

Like Old-Fashioned Diet

"There's another thing I don't believe in," the old gentleman said, argumentatively. "Balanced tommy-rot! All this talk of new inventions makes me impatient. Lots of good oatmeal, porridge, and meat, and potatoes, and gravy, and doughnuts, and pies like your mother used to make! We had no time to talk of balance foods in the old days, and we were all healthy, except for rheumatism and neuralgia, and a few such ailments that one must expect as one grows older."

"That's just where we were wrong, dad. I agree with you about the oatmeal. Nothing like well-cooked oatmeals to supply the food principles. But speaking of fruit," and the son tactfully guided the subject away from fried foods and rich gravies.

"Fresh fruits contain a high percentage of water. From 75 per cent to 95 per cent water. Those containing more than 80 per cent water are classed as flavor fruits, those having less than 80 per cent water as food fruits.

Bananas, grapes, and figs are, I suppose, the best examples of food fruits. Dried fruits fall into the food fruit class, too, because in drying fruits by evaporation the water percentage falls to about 30 per cent.

There isn't much protein in fruit. I grant you that. But there are carbohydrates."

"Don't take any stock in carbohydrates, myself," began the old gentleman, but his son continued:

Converted to Orange Diet

"Take very ripe fruits, for instance. They contain, variously, cane and grape sugar in high percentages. If you can't take uch sugar, there are fruit like plums, raspberries, peaches and apricots which have a low sugar content.

"The orange is a mine of food value. The juice allays thirst, contains mineral salts, is only a little less in calories than the apple and is easily digested."

"Of course apples are extremely good," began the mother of the little flock, knowing that the gentleman approved of apples, because he had always known them—approval being largely a matter of knowledge.

"Apples and cherries have more sugar than other fruits. "And I heard one of the profs say in a lecture that while fresh fruits were chiefly of value because of their minerals and carbohydrates, their acids formed carbonates in the body and by their alkalinity helped regulate the body processes."

The old gentleman regarded his grandson for a minute, then reached for an orange.

The Modern Mother

faces problems far beyond those of her forbears. She herself must be a much more competent person, combining in one individual the duties of nurse, cook, teacher and moral instructor. It is no wonder that many conscientious women break under the strain, and that others drag out a miserable existence; always tired, and yet unable to take a day's vacation. Such women will find themselves benefited and their burdens made easier by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which was made for suffering women, and does not fail to relieve them.—Adv.

CALOMEL IS A DANGEROUS DRUG

Next Dose May Salivate You, Loosen Teeth or Start Rheumatism.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. (Adv.)

FASHIONS FOR AMERICANS

The Unusual Color Combination Is a Feature of This Frock.

Linens are being very much featured in frocks for children and young girls, and the one shown in the sketch, designed for a girl of twelve or fourteen years, is especially charming because of its color combination and interesting trimming. The dress was shown in a light, dull green piped in henna, and the blocks of embroidery on sleeves and skirt, both back and front, were done in several shades of green, dull red, yellow, etc., touches of black also appearing.

The dress is a perfectly straight, smock-like affair, and could be made by any home dressmaker at a fraction of the price asked for it in the shops. Any garments that are handmade or hand-embroidered must of necessity be expensive if bought ready-to-wear. The woman who is skillful with her needle is fortunate when hand-made and hand-decorated garments are the vogue, because simplicity is almost always the dominant note in the designing of these garments, so that time and patience are her major requirements, with a handsome and exclusive wardrobe as her reward.

Another little tailored linen frock, somewhat on the style of the one shown here, featured a straight front and back panel with little strap belts at either side, holding the dress in a trifle and giving a slight side flare below the waist line. Plain, heavy linen in a dull blue was used for the frock, and it was piped in rose, blocks of embroidery on skirt and sleeves being multi-colored. The dress was a slip-over, but the slight opening was at the back instead of the side front as on the garment shown in today's sketch.

Brown chambray fashioned another dainty little frock recently seen, cuffs, collar, and pockets being of white organdy embroidered in brown and red wool yarn. The pockets were crisscrossed all over, while a mere line of embroidery finished collar and cuffs.

A Wife or a Profession?

BY CAROLYN BEECHER

(Copyright, 1922, by Carolyn Beecher)

CHAPTER LX

Claire Gordon had not intended to let her feelings so carry her away, never had expected to let Howard Blake know that she cared for him. He stood as if petrified by the confession. Claire Gordon, the best woman, the keenest mind he knew, cared for him. He turned pale, then bowed his head with something very like shame.

"I never dreamed."

"Of course you didn't! And I never intended you should know, but I get so angry at you, so out of patience, and am so disappointed that I don't wonder I forgot myself. But don't think I am weak enough to allow any feeling I have for you to affect me, my life. As I told you, I am ashamed of you. Love for a man worthy of it never hurts any woman. It is caring for one unworthy that hurts."

She turned and walked rapidly away, leaving him looking after her, a dazed look still on his face.

"Ashamed of me," he muttered as he strode along, his head down, his shoulders slumped. He did not for a moment think Claire's love had been anything except the love she would bear a brother, or Annette's husband. There was nothing of sex, nothing physical about it. She, he recalled, always had urged him to carry on always tried to encourage him. Now she was ashamed of him and ashamed of herself for caring.

Were there others who were ashamed of him—Dr. Campbell? His old uncle—he had almost forgotten to consider him now, but unconsciously he lifted his eyes. Was Mortimer Blake up there somewhere in the great beyond, and was he, too, ashamed of Howard Blake? Nadine Norwell and her sweet disappointment when she learned he had left the hospital, her tears—in spite of her affection for him, was she, too, ashamed of his actions, his lack of courage to carry on? The old words came easily to his mind—"to carry on."

Long ago Claire Gordon had said that some day Howard Blake would get a jolt. Perhaps she had given him that jolt when she confessed that although she cared for him she was ashamed of him.

He called up the house. "I shall be late tonight, Annette, don't wait dinner." And she, recognizing a note she dreaded to hear in his voice, had simply said:

"All right dear, don't be late."

As he had that night when he resigned from the hospital two years before, he walked unseeing, unknowing where he went. But he was stouter now, tired more easily. So he sat down on a sheltered bench in the park elbows on knees, his head in his hands. How long he sat there he did not know. Suddenly something light as a feather touched his sleeve. A soft voice said:

"You are in trouble—too?"

It was a girl about eighteen, poorly, yet neatly, clad just such a sweet-faced girl as we see by the hundreds in New York.

"Yes—no—whta made you think I was in trouble?"

"You have sat still so long, and once or twice you mumbled something about being ashamed. Are you—ashamed—too?"

That 'too,' what did the girl mean? He roused himself.

"So you are in trouble?"

'Why else does one come to the park alone at night?"

"Of course," he thought dully, 'a pretty young thing like her would naturally walk in the park with her sweetheart." Then to her: "Can you tell me your trouble?"

"Oh, no—" in a frightened tone, as she moved a little away from him —"I can tell no one," and he knew she was crying.

"Don't cry." He laid his hand on her arm. 'I am a physician. Is there anything I can do?"

"No, I tell you no one can help me! No one but God, and he don't care! I used to think he did," she went on with a childlike frankness, "I used to think He answered people's prayers. But now I know he don't. I've prayed until I ached, but it didn't do me any good, and I've always been a good girl, too—and now I can't go home any more, and there's no other place only—there." She pointed to the lake in the distance, black, and forbidding in spite of the silvery moon that cast occasional lights on its surface.

"No, my child, not that!" For the first time he realised he was talking to one of the deceived ones of earth —one of the ashamed ones.

"He promised to marry me, and then—he—went—away. I didn't know, and——" She broke down and sobbed bitterly.

"Come with me. I will see you are cared for until you are able to look out for yourself." He called a passing cab and while driving to a hospital that received such as she, he heard her pitiful story as old as the world. She was a clerk in a store. He, attracted by her pretty face and dainty dress, had won her affections. She had lived in a cheap boarding house until she could work no longer and her money was gone. Tonight had been the end. Then her symptahy for a fellow being in trouble had brought her a friend. It had also been the beginning of the regeneration of Howard Blake.

Rev. Lowery has already proven himself a man of power in the pulpit and interest is being manifested by the large attending audiences.

Birthday Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Lowery was the scene of a happy gathering Friday afternoon when Mrs. Lowery entertained a number of children in honor of the eleventh birthday of the little daughter of the home, Miss Ruby.

The guests delighted the hearts of the honoree by many pretty and appreciated gifts. The afternoon was filled with jolly out-door games that girls and boys always enjoy most of all.

As the sun was near setting they were called indors to view the beautiful white birthday cake with its eleven pink candles, which were blown out by the honoree. With the cake each guest had a cone of delicious ice cream. In cutting the cake the nickel fell to Mattie Marie Elker, and the thimble to Mary Louise George.

After this more games were enjoyed, until a late hour when the guests reluctantly departed, leaving many good wishes for Ruby.

Those present were: Emojane Williams, Mary Katherine Jones, Gladys Smith, Aylene Fisher, Mary Louise George, Mary Modell Estes, Thalia Smith, Mattie Marie Kiker, Nancy Elizabeth Faver, William Audrey Smith, Truett Majors, Ruby Clarence and Thomas Lowery. Assisting Mrs. Lowery in the entertainment of the boys and girls were Mrs. M. W. Majors and Miss Lilla Majors.

Shreveport Series Opens Today; Exporters Trailing

SPUDDERS GET ANOTHER REST

Giants Take Lead. Indians Go to Third

Due to the flood which swept Fort Worth yesterday, inundating the playing field on Panther Park, the Spudders were forced to another idle day. While the team was taking its day off, Beaumont stepped out and poured it on Hub Northen's Bears for another game, making a total of three out of four in the present series. By virtue of their win, the Exporters went into second place, and assumed a threatening attitude to the lead now held by the Salmites.

Gassers Also Rest.

Shreveport and Dallas also had another rainy day and when the home nine meets Billy Smith's Gassers today in Shreveport, both teams will have enjoyed two full days of relaxation and be fit for bloody battle.

Galveston journeys up to Beaumont for a series and should the Mathis crew take a game it will bring them within less than half a game of the Spudders. Whether the flood area will stop the game in Louisiana is not known, but it is beginning to look that Beaumont is going to crowd into the front ring to do battle with all of them.

Dallas and Fort Worth will not likely play today, and only a loss by Houston can effect their standing. Should the Buffs drop their game to San Antonio, then Dallas will inherit the fourth position.

Indians Drop To Third.

The rain cost the Cleveland Indians a notch in the ladder when the Browns whaled Ty Cobb's Tigers for a 5-3 win yesterday. The Yankees further fortified their position by giving the Senators a genuine walloping 10-0.

The National league entry from Gotham forged ahead when they beat the Phillies 9-3, passing the Cubs who were tied with them for the top due to the fact that rain halted the Chicago-Pittsburgh game.

Most notable in the scores of yesterday's game was the pitching of "Cy" Young, the newly acquired Exporter who flopped the San Antonio Bears with a two-hit contest. Joe Mathis crew went through the full nine frames without a bobble and the Bears accumulated only one run.

Williams Gets Another.

Kenneth Williams, left fielder for Lee Fohl's Browns continued his circuit clouting with another yesterday, his sixth in four days, and gave him a lead on the former record for this season of the year, set by the mighty Babe last year.

DeMaggio, also a left fielder, but drawing his stipend from the Exporter management hammered out a single, a double and a homer in three trips in the Exporter-Bear game.

May See New Faces Here.

Just what changes may be undergone in the Spudder line-up while the team is away on the road trip can not be surmised at the present, but when the deadline falls on both the majors and minors May 1, many changes will take place. There is some excess baggage on the Spudder nine, and in case a couple of hurlers who are on the string are secured, then still more room must be made. The staff is none too strong at the present, and the services of a couple of real winners will practically cinch the pennant.

Of course pennants are not won during the first month of a season, and it has lately been demonstrated that one can be lost after practically won, even in a very few days, viz Pittsburgh, but the Spudder prospects seem to indicate the most formidable array of sluggers in the loop. And sluggin will win lots of ball games.

DETROIT BOSS EARNED HIS REWARD

Many Predict Great Future for Cobb

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

While the score of rookies getting their first trials in the big leagues are looking into the future with hopeful glances and hoping that the season just started is marking the be the veterans of the game—the men who have trekked along in the big show for years—have a different view of it.

To many of them only the lure of the sport holds them in it. The yearly training period and the long road jaunts which keeps them away from their families for weeks at a time have grown monotonous. Their years in the limelight and their salaries have placed them in a position to quit the game and enter a business which will give them more time with their growing children and their wives. The call of the home hits many before their legs and arms begin to warn them the end is near.

New Duty Called Him.

Had not the Tiger owners pointed out to Ty Cobb the need for his services as manager two years ago when Hughie Jennings resigned it is probable that Cobb would have been lost to the game in two or three seasons.

Cobb had reached the pinnacle of his fame. The strain to a person of Cobb's temperament was severe and had begun to tell on him. Even now Cobb is torn between the call of his wife and family of youngsters and his desire to lead a championship team.

Cobb is a lover of children. He is daddy of five, including Ty Jr., who hopes some day to be a star like his father. When the Tigers hit the rails for the spring training trip or a swing around the American league circuit Cobb must leave his family behind for three or four weeks.

And Cobb has made many spring and road trips since he went to the plate the first time in a big league game at Detroit, August 30, 1905. In passing, it might be interesting to recall that Tyrus got a smashing double in three times up that day against the Yankees. He collected the hit in the first inning off Jack Chesbro and drove in two runs. Matty McIntyre and Chris Lindsay were the two men who scored. Bill Armour was bossing the Tigers then.

His First Appearance.

Cobb has been a member of the Tigers ever since that eventful day in 1905. For twelve years he was the champion batter of the league. He is the brainest and most brilliant player in the game today. He has excelled for years in hitting, base running and other departments of the game. Fame has become an old story to him.

This is Cobb's second year as manager. He assumed the duties December 18, 1920. He faced the task of building up a new team. His greatest problem lay in collecting a pitching staff—something Jennings failed to produce in recent years.

Experts agree that so far Cobb has done well. There is no doubt as to his ability as a manager. He may well become as great a pilot as a player. But there's the old call of home to resist.

Higher Taxes at Greater Saving

Raising the county rate from 75 cents to between 85 and 90 cents, and reducing the tax renditions 15 per cent will net Wichita county tax payers over $75,000, according to statements and figures made Tuesday by J. P. Jones, judge of the county court, who is fostering a movement to reduce the tax renditions and raise the rates.

Judge Jones stated that he will attempt to secure approval of his proposals before the county equalization board when it meets in August.

Basing his figures on an estimated value of properties in the county this year at about $70,000,000—about $2,000,000 less than in 1921—Judge Jones said that the $75,000 saving will be effected through the smaller amount of state taxes which will be paid.

Cops Kept Busy Chasing Autos

City police were kept busy Monday night tracing down stolen automobiles and returning them to their proper owners.

Receiving a call early in the evening to the effect that a Ford touring car had been found in front of T. J. Dorough's residence at 223 Flood street, the car was soon claimed by R. T. Robertson of 1707 Collins, while a Ford touring vehicle stolen from its parking place in front of the First Baptist church was claimed by A. E. Wenger of 1402 Scott, after the authorities had located it parked on Broad street between Sixth and Seventh.

Mr. Dorough, who was formerly connected with the city police department, discovered the touring car in front of his residence and reported the find to the officers. Dorough said that he had seen a Ford roadster and a Ford touring car stop in front of his home, and that the passengers of both cars stripped the touring automobile of two tires and the windshield, driving away in the roadster.

No clue as to the identity of the person or persons participating in the thefts has been found.

NEW TRAFFIC SIGNS FOR BUSINESS AREA

New "turn to the right" markers are to be placed in the business sections of Wichita Falls, it become known yesterday.

The city council has arranged with I. H. Roberts to furnish the city with 12 markers, which are to be painted red and which will rise only a few inches from the ground. The new markers will be much smaller than the present ones, and while they will be small enough to allow any automobile to pass over them, drivers will be expected to turn to the right unless in trying to avoid accidents.

It was because the council felt that the smaller markers would decrease accidents and possibly prove a life saver in some future case that they have been agreed upon, it is said.

RHODE ISLAND HAS ITS OWN CHAMP

Tilden Is Defeated in Smallest State

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 19.—Conceded to be champion of the world, yet a second runner in one of its tiniest crevices; undisputed champion of the United States, yet merely a beaten finalist for the title of its most meagre Commonwealth.

William T. Tilden, of Philadelphia, indubitably is the greatest tennis player of all time. They will tell you so at Wimbledon, England, where he has won the all-comers' singles title two years hand running without particular ado; they will shout it from the house tops of any American community with the lone exception of Rhode Island, where they have house tops, if nothing else.

And there you have all the dirt in one dust pan: William T. Tilden is tennis champion of America, England, Australia, Japan, the Isle of Yap and South Bend, Ind., but not of Rhode Island, although he essayed to annex that worthy title also.

Mention of Rhode Island is best made in connection with the historic reply of Senator Tillman to an interruption while speaking on the floor of the senate.

"Gentlemen," quoth the good senator, "the objection comes from the sovereign State of Rhode Island. I am constrained to make this announcement in view of the fact that Rhode Island consists of two counties at high tide and four counties at low tide."

So much for the one community this side of the hereafter where Tilden is not recognized as the champion. It all dates back to last summer when, in a moment of weakness, the lean Philadelphian deigned to honor the Rhode Island state championship tournament with his presence. He lived to regret it.

Junior High Goes Down Under 8-5 Count

By "HANK" HAYES

The North Methodist baseball nint visited the Junior High diamond and in a snappy five-inning contest nosed out on the Juniors by a count of 8 to 5. Pearson, starting for the schoolboys, was mauled hard the first canto and another bad inning gave the Methodists a big lead that could not be overcome.

Stovall of the winners, was wild and had much difficulty in locating the platter. The youngsters made a racetrack of his offerings, until Gordon was shifted from the center garden and held them in check, till darkness stopped the game.

Porch, of the winners, was in the game with his club, and poled out a roundtrip for his crew, bringing in another run. Glidwell and Carrington of the losing nine did most of the heavy clouting for their team, but poor support in pinches lost a hard played contest.

The Methodists seem to be on a rampage. They have been winning consistently for the past week, and toppling the Shriners from the lead of the Twilight circuit last week.

REUTHER HITS HIS WAY TO VICTORY

Ruddy Drops Second Game in Fight to Come Back

BOSTON, April 25.—Reuther's pitching and hitting were largely responsible for Brooklyn defeating Boston 5 to 2 today. He made a single in the second, when his team made three runs off the Veteran Rudolph, and knocked the ball into the right field bleachers on the fly for a home run in the fourth. It was the first time Rudolph had pitched here since 1920.

RIVAL LEADERS ARE BUSINESS PARTNERS

Tristram Speaker is manager of the Cleveland Indians and plays center field. Ty Cobb is manager of the Detroit Tigers and plays center field. Both Speaker and Cobb spend many of their off months hunting big game and fishing.

Now they have another thing in common. They are both stockholders in the Oorang kennels at Larue, O., an organization that specializes in fighting and hunting Airdale dogs.

Walter Johnson, pitcher for the Washington Nationals, and Jimmy Thorpe, football star and hunter, also are stockholders.

Fellow stockholders of Speaker were to have presented him with a prize Airdale from the kennels at the opening day game Wednesday, but the dog got into an argument with his kennel mate and the ceremony will be performed later in the season.

The dog had no objection to being presented to the Cleveland manager, but Walter Lingo, manager of the kennels, figured that it wouldn't be nice to show the dog before a big crowd because he received a black eye and a few scratches in the battle and didn't look nice and pretty.

Both Cobb and Speaker have planned hunting trips this fall in which they will use packs of Airdale hunters.

Indoor Picnic at Methodist, South

Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First Methodist Church, South, corner of Tenth and Lamar, issues the following announcement concerning affairs at his church:

"Tonight we are going to have another unique entertainment at our church. It is a big indoor picnic especially in honor of the 275 new members that have joined our church in the last six months and, also, a number of others whom we hope to receive in the immediate future.

"There will be in round numbers a hundred baskets of old-fashioned picnic goodies brought by a hundred families of the members who have been members for a longer period than six months, and these will have as their honor guests, individually and collectively, nearly 100 families and then a number of unattached individuals. There are going to be great pans of chicken, stacks of pies, cords of cake, barrels of ice cream, pecks of salad, bushels of stuffed eggs and pickles, etc. Everybody in the church is invited and all the friends of the church.

"The eating will come off promptly at 7:00 o'clock. This will be followed by a delightful program of music and stunts and contests. Then there will be social communion and fellowship, a meeting of the board of stewards, a session of the fourth quarterly conference, a council of the Sunday school teachers, a pow pow of the Epworth league, a jubilee of the winning circle of the missionary society, etc.

"All these 'doins' will take place weather or no weather. Not like an outdoor picnic, not matter if it rains cats and dogs, the cakes and pies and puddings and things will be protected."

DAVIS SIGNS HIM.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 25.—Bartlett McMellon, pitcher for the University of Texas, left here several days ago to join the Philadelphia Athletics. He is 21 years and received his early pitching experience at a San Antonio high school. He is a right hander and was a Sophomore at the University of Texas and failed to put in a sufficient amount of work during the wnter term to be eligible for intercollegiate competition this spring.

CLEVER GIRL RIDERS COMING TO BIG RODEO

Those who enjoy seeing the daring work of the cowgirls in bronc riding, trick riding and wild steer riding will have an opportunity to see a bevy of the cleverest cowgirls of the entire west at the Round-Up here May 3, 4 and 5.

The entries to date in the cowgirl contests include Florence Hughes, Bea Kirnan, Fox Hastings, Ruth Roach, Mabel Strickland, Rose Smith, Bonnie McCarroll, Rose Henderson, Alice Adair and Nan J. Aspinwall. There will probably be several other entries in the cowgirl classes before the entries close May 2, but those already entered are capable of producing thrills enough to hold the interest of the spectator.

Miss Nan J. Aspinwall, the cowgirl who is riding horseback from Laredo on the Mexicon border, to this city, for the Round-Up is averaging 40 miles per day. She is reported to have lunched in San Antonio Sunday noon and in Austin Tuesday noon; at this rate she should arrive here about Monday night, May 1, or 24 hours ahead of the schedule.

Another Leonard

Joey Leonard, younger brother of Benny, lightweight champion is about ready to enter the cruel fistic world in search of fame. He is the fourth member of the family to take up the gloves, but if he delivers will be the second one to get anywhere. Willie and Charlie, older brothers of the king, became fairly clever but never got anywhere. Joey has had valuable coaching from Benny for a couple of years as Benny's sparring partner in the gym. Benny sanctions the move of the kid in entering the pro game, so the lad must have some stuff.

CONAN DOYLE IS BASE BALL FAN

Psychic Phenomena Is Explained

NEW YORK, April 24—Sir Author Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes and general authority on things supernatural, saw the big leaguers in action at the Polo Grounds last week. Today after due consideration of the psychic phenomena of the diamond he announced he had made a number of deductions concerning the greatest American pastime.

No. 1.—The average fan is not satisfied with the spiritual presence of Babe Ruth. The game lacks excitement unless the King of Swat is there in person.

No. 2.—Baseball didn't originate in America. It is simply a reincarnation of the old Egyptian game of Rounders, considerably elevated and glorified.

"No. 3.—Sir Arthur will henceforth be a baseball fan, instead of a cricket enthusiast.

"No 4.—The way the Giants followed the ground balls was wonderful. The way they judged the flies was remarkable. Outfielders are more impressive than infielders."

Continuing his deductions, Sir Arthur said there really wasn't any thing to prevent him from spiritualizing in professional baseball as he had been taught the game two years ago by his American author friend, Hamlin Garland. Anyone who could star at cricket could star at baseball, he decided. And, since he enjoyed somewhat of a reputation as a cricket tiger in his youth, equal fame as a "baseballer" should be easily attained with a little practice he thought.

The principal merits of the American game, as seen by Sir Arthur, are that it is livelier and quicker than cricket and does not require such an expensive outfield.

On the demerit side he places the tendency of baseball to become a sport for specialized professionals, played almost entirely by the young, while in England most men continue their cricketing until they are well past middle age.

Ford Owner Pays Thousand Bucks As Reward For Recovery of Car And Capture of Alleged Thieves

Over $100 an hour is what officers participating in the arrest of George C. Croston and F. Simmons received Tuesday for their services in capturing the two men, who were returned to Lawton, Okla., yesterday in custody of W. M. Moulden, deputy sheriff of Oklahoma, to answer charges of theft in connection with stealing a Ford sedan.

The Wichita Falls police who participated in the arrest and capture—Jim Glenn, W. P. Belcher, Bob Smart and N. Davis—each received $275 yesterday as their part of a reward of $1,100, $100 of which was offered for the recovery of the car and $1,000 of which was offered for the capture of the alleged thieves.

W. R. Slover of Lawton, Okla., who accompanied Deputy Sheriff Moulden to this city Tuesday, identified the Ford sedan as his property and handed over to J. W. McCormick, chief of police, the $1,100 reward. Slover is a mechanic and is employed in the Palace garage at Lawton.

Slover said that his Ford had been parked on D avenue in front of the Met theater at Lawton but a short while Sunday night when it was stolen. He said he missed the car at 10 o'clock, and that he immediately notified the authorities, offering the reward for its recovery. Nothing was missing on the car when he received it yesterday, he said, except the tank of gasoline which it had contained when taken from Oklahoma.

The kit of auto tools found in the vehicle when the officers took possession of the car on the Wichita river bridge early Monday morning was carried back to Lawton by Deputy Sheriff Moulden to be used as evidence against Croston and Simon, who are charged with a federal offense in connection with the alleged theft.

WEAVER TRIAL ON

Trial of the case of J. K. Kepley vs D. D. Weaver et al began in the 78th district court before Judge E. W. Napier and will probably be completed today.

The litigation contests the ownership of certain oil and gas leases located in Cowhead Brothers' subdivision of the Palo Pinto school land survey, the plaintiff asking for damages amounting to $55,000.

PROHI SLEUTHS SAY WILL SMASH BOOZE RING'S 'RUM NAVY'

NEW YORK, April 24.—Custom officials announced today that they were working to smash a rich bootlegger ring which they charged had mobilized a fleet of former submarine chasers to meet America's "dry navy."

The federal agents are working on the theory that the swift craft that once pursued German U-Boats and were sold after the war, now are posing as naval vessels and commanded by officers in the uniform of the United States, already have succeeded in running $3,000,000 worth of rum into the United States from Bermuda and Havana.

Although a large force of men have been at work day and night patrolling the river constantly for miles since Sunday, no trace of the body has yet been discovered.

WHEAT PRICES IN SHARP DROP

Smaller Holders Hit by Losses

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Persistent selling on the part of houses with eastern counections resulted in a decided drop in wheat prices today, and was accompanied by reports that private settlements had been effected on large contracts calling for delivery of wheat here during May. The market closed unsettled, ¼ to 5 cents net lower, with May at 1.40⅞ tto 1.41 and July 1.27¼ to 1.27⅜. Corn lost ⅝@1c to 1¼c, and oats ¼@⅝ to ⅝@¾. In provisions, the outcome was unchanged to 10c lower.

Smeller holders of May wheat have not been able to realize or to avoid losses as the case might be, with the market descending rapidly at times and showing at one stage an extreme fall of 5¼c as compared with yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats declined in sympathy with wheat. Besides, there was considerable talk of larger receipts of corn after planting is over. Provisions were easier, owing to downturns in the values of hogs and grain.

COAL OPERATORS ASK SUPPORT OF SOLONS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 25.—An appeal, not only to the moral support, but to the active and constant support of Illinois members of congress, was made in a letter to senators and congressmen from this state forwarded today by the Illinois coal operator's association.

The letter, which was signed by F. C. Honnold, secretary of the association, declared that unless state negotiations were taken up and a regular flow of coal resumed, the Illinois coal industry would be seriously damaged.

With no definite information available, Mr. Honnold declined to express any opinion on the renewed government efforts to end the strike, announced in the process of formation today at the White House.

Market Steady at End of Day

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—An early decline in cotton, under near month liquidation and bearish private acreage figures, was followed by recoveries with October selling up from 17.49 to 17.47 and closing at 17.73.

The general market closed strong at a net advance of 3 to 16 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 13 points, with May selling up to 18.12, on buying against trade calling and covering by shorts, while later months were influenced by complaints of too much rain in the northwest. Notices representing about 25,000 bales were said to have been issued against May contracts, however, and their circulation in the street brought the considerable commission house liquidation of the near months. There was also scattered selling of new crop months on the report of a local trade authority, estimating that the acreage would show an increase of 19 per cent over last year. This weakened the market during the middle of the morning with May selling off to 17.81, July 17.51 and December to 17.47 or 13 to 18 points net lower. Offerings then became less active and the market steadied early in the afternoon on reports that prominent trade interests were taking up the May notices and unfavorable weather or crop reports from the southwest. The detailed weather report for the day confirmed the private advice of heavy rains in some parts of Texas and Oklahoma and there were complaints that cotton would have to be replanted in some sections of Texas. Reports that the Lancashire wage dispute had been settled also helped the afternoon rally, which carried July up to 17.74 and December 17.73, or eight to ten points net higher. Private cables reported some American selling in Liverpool on increased acreage figures but said there was a good spot demand and that Manchester was improving. Exports today 11,886 bales making 4,669,516 so far this season. Port receipts 17,790. U. S. Port stocks 945,186.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—Alternating periods of strength and weakness featured the trading in cotton today, the market being depressed by first May notice day developments for a while, but in the late trading it was supported by the action of leading spot interests that were said to have stopped all notives circulating. Weather news was considered highly unfavorable and was the cause of heavy buying for a while. In the late trading the market was at its best with May at 17.05 and the list at net gains of 14 to 24 points, the old crop being stronger than the new. The close was at net gains on the session of 8 to 23 points, May closing at 17.04, October traded as high as 17.12 and closed at 17.09. The events of the day lessened the premium on the new crop.

In the early trading prices rose 12 to 14 points on better cables than due, private messages to brokers here from Liverpool that the Lancashire wage dispute had at last been settled and extremely heavy rains in the western belt, precipitatin of from five to seven and a half inches being reported in some sections of Texas.

The market lost its strength after notices commenced circulating. According to local brokers, notices calling for the tender of one thousand bales were issued in this market, while it was estimated that notices in New York called for 35,000 bales. The market gradually sagged until it stood, toward mid-session, 6 to 10 points under the close of yesterday, May selling down to 16.71 and October down 16.87. It was a brisk market in the late trading and a rapid rise occurred when New York wired to local brokers that large spot interests had taken charge of the May situation. There was also considerable buying on reports from Texas that the rains were continuing and on the fear that they would extend into the central belt.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, April 25.—Cottonseed oil declined early under May liquidation and local selling on the poor showing in lard and grains, but prices steadier near the close on demand from commission houses and room covering. Final bids were unchanged to one point net lower. Sales 2,300 barrels. The census bureau made a downward decision in the March 31 stocks of crude oil, equivalent to about 12,000 barrels. Prime crude 9.75 sales; prime summer yellow spot 11.50; May 11.43; July 11.40; September 11.31; all bid.

HIGHER PRICE ON O I L PRODUCTS

Local Tractions Are Strong Features

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Trading in the stock market today followed the irregular course set by yesterday's movement. Seasoned shares, including most of the recent favorites, were under further pressure, while bull pools continued their aggressive tactics in specialties and miscellaneous issues.

Much of the selling of high grade stocks was attributed to advices indicating that the coal strike, if prolonged, would exert an increasingly adverse influence on industrial revival.

This was not reflected, however, in the leading commodities, higher prices being quoted for oil products and the base metals, but in the food stuffs markets, quotations, including those on refined sugar, were inclined to ease.

Stock market operations were subordinated to more important happenings in other branches of the financial markets. Speedy sale of the new Dominion of Canada $100,000,000 issue and the pronounced success which accompanied the New York City $45,000,000 offering testified to the insatiable investment demand for good gilt edged securities.

Local tractions were among the strongest features in the stock list, Manhattan elevated making an early gain of five points. Third Avenue, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Consolidated gas were among the other strong utilitated issues. Numerous junior rails were one to three points up at their best, but New Haven forfeited part of yesterday's gain.

Oils, motors, equipments and the independent steels represented the market in more reactionary side at declines of one to two points, these in some instances being partially recovered at the close. Sales amounted to 1,325,000 shares.

The quarterly statement of the United States Steel Corporation, issued after the market's close, showed total earnings slightly under those of the final quarter of last year, not all of the preferred dividend having been earned.

The money market also followed the trend of the previous day, call loans holding at 3 1-2 per cent until the final hour, when four per cent was demanded. Time funds were unaltered but offerings of that description were on a diminishing scale.

The entire foreign exchange market was lower as a result of cables which indictaed a breach between England and France at Genoa. Sterling reacted half a cent, Allied bills lost five to seven points and the German mark forfeited most of yesterday's gain.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Foreign exchange easy; Great Britain demand 4.42 1-2; cables 9.31. Italian, demand 5.39; cables 5.39 1-2. Belgium demand 8.53; cables 8.53 1-2. German demand 37 3-8; cables 37 1-2 Holland demand 37.93. Norway demand 18.80. Denmark demand 21.22 Switzerland demand 19.74. Spain demand 15.57. Greece demand 4.53 Poland demand .02 5-8. Argentine demand 35.75. Brazil demand 14.00. Montreal 85 5-8.

NEW ORLEANS SPOTS.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—Spot cotton steady and unchanged; sales on the spot 440 bales; to arrive 506; middling 17.00; good middling 18.00; receipts 3,204; stock 251,018.

RED RIVER LINE FIGHT BEGINS

Dyar Presents Facts for Government

By B. N. TIMMONS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 25.—Argument on the Red river boundary line case between Oklahoma and Texas was begun at 4 o'clock this afternoon. W. W. Dyar, special assistant to the attorney general presented the facts in the case in behalf of the Federal government.

Dyar will conclude his argument tomorrow and will be followed by T. W. Gregory, former United States attorney general and W. A. Keeling, attorney general of Texas. Thursday, Senator Bailey of Texas and S. P. Freeling, special counsel for Oklahoma, will close the argument.

Under the time agreement Oklahoma and the United States will get three hours; Texas three hours and the patentees under Texas, one hour.

The interstate commerce commission today granted authority to the Fort Worth & Denver railroad to assume obligation and liability in respect of $750,000 worth of 5 1-2 per cent certificates to be issued by the First National Bank of New York city. The certificates are to be sold and the proceeds to buy 500 box cars and 100 refrigerator cars.

134 MILLIONS FOR IRRIGATION

Over Million for This Territory

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The expenditure of $134,000,000 on reclamation projects throughout the country has been recommended to congress by the department of the interior. Of this enormous sum $16,200,000 is allocated to completion of eleven projects in eleven western and southwestern states. Work on all of them is now under way.

The sum of $28,000,000 is set aside, under the department's recommendations for immediate use on four proposed projects in Arizona and California. It would also take $90,000,000 more to complete these projects, the department estimated.

The projects which the department desired completed and the amount recommended to each follows.

$1,400,000 For This District.

Grand Valley, Colo., $1,200,000; Boise, Idaho, $1,200,000; Minidoka, Idaho $2,000,000; Sun River, Mont., $800,000; North Platte, Neb., and Wyoming $2,000,000; Newlands, Nev. $1,000,000; Rio Grande, New Mexico and Texas, $1,400,000; Klamath, Oregon and California, $1,000,000; Yakima, Washington, $3,600,000; Riverton, Wyoming, $1,250,000, and Shoshone, Wyoming $750,000.

Dam Cost Is Enormous.

The expenditure of $5,000,000 on the Boulder Canyon Dam in Arizona, was also recommended. The department estimated that this project would cost $50,000,000 more to complete. An estimate of $15,000,000 was set aside for the all-American Canal, in California with an additional estimate of $20,000,000 to complete the project.

The department urged the expenditure of $4,000,000 on the Parker project in Arizona, for which $10,000,000 additional would be needed to complete. In the same state $4,000,000 was also suggested for the San Carlos project, which would need $10,000,000 more to finish.

No Objection.

An amendment to the second deficiency bill, calling for an appropriation of $16,000,000 to begin work on the projects recommended by the department, was recently voted down through a technicality. There was actually no objection to the appropriation of money for this work, but democratic senators objected to the manner in which the amendment was added to the bill and refused to sanction it because of the precedent thus established.

Where ten bottles of medicine are taken, one is actually needed.

RAT RETAILED AFTER BOY SHEDS TEARS IN PRESENCE OF SURGEON

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Jerbo, a pet rat belonging to Donald Myatt, 13, has a tail today that is virtually as good as new, thanks to a surgeon at the emergency hospital.

Late yesterday Donald went to the hospital and pleaded tearfully that his Egyptian jumping rat be given treatment. The tears finally won.

The boy's version is: "I had my rat at a pet show. A cat sized at him while I was holding the tip of his tail; he jumped so that the skin peeled off."

The skin was sewed back on. The record reads: "One rat—retailed."

The employment of 5,000 to 10,000 more men is planned. This schedule means a new car will be made every six and a half seconds for the twenty-seven eight-hour work days.

600 EX-SERVICE MEN NOW POSTMASTERS

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Postmaster General Hubert Work has announced that 600 former service men had been commissioned as postmasters since President Harding issued his executive order of May 10, 1921.

ALBION, Mich., April 23.—Jacob Clancy, better known as "Father" Clancy, died here last night at the age of 91. He was stricken with apoplexy last Friday and never regained consciousness. He was one of the oldest Methodist Episcopal churchmen in the state and was well known as a religious singer. He was the father of twelve children, three of whom were missionaries to India. # THOSE "JAZZY" CHINKS

WASHINGTON, April 25—Bright lights, joy rides and the movies have made a hit in China, Trade Commissioner Lynn W. Meekins reported from Shanghai today.

"The Chinese," he said, "are just as fond of the white lights as the most exuberant Broadway crowd. The joy ride, too, made an immediate hit in China, and motor cars are being multiplied. The Chinese are so enthusiastic over motion pictures that they have begun producing films themselves."

PRESBYTERY TO CLOSE TONIGHT

President's Message Feature of Day

The presidents' message, delivered by Mrs. J. C. Erwin of McKinney, was a feature of the Tuesday morning session of the Dallas Presbytery convening at the Central Presbyterian church. Miss Lillian Fain and Mrs. D. B. Read, both of Wichita Falls, gave greetings from the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor, and Mrs. J. P. Windle gave the response.

During the business session, committees were appointed and reports given by officers. Devotionals were led by Mrs. T. A. Wharton. Luncheon was served at the noon hour at the church for the visitors.

Following a short session in the afternoon in which Mrs. J. L. Brock, the synodical president, and Miss Eleanora Berry of Atlanta Ga., made short talks, the guests were motored to Iowa Park, where they were entertained at the new church recently completed there and served refreshments.

A pageant in which 10 little girls, dressed in white carrying lighted candles representing the tenth anniversary of the synodical, with Miss Frances Jones representing the church, and a connection with which Mesdames E. S. Goodner and D. B. Read made interesting talks, was a feature of the evening session.

Miss Esther B. Mathews, a missionary from Mokpo, Korea, made the address for the evening, talking on the subject of "Home Missions." Miss Vivian Railey gave a violin solo; Miss Hazelle Dean, a vocal number and other music was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra.

The meeting will close after the evening session today at which installation of officers will take place. Talks will be given by Mrs. C. C. Parks, R. L. Ezell, Miss Esther Mathews and Mrs. J. L. Bowling.

SHRINE SHOW HEAD TELLS OF COMEDY

Among the arrivals at the Kemp Hotel yesterday was Lewis L. Lacey, under whose personal direction the Shriners show, "Shrine Minstrels" will be staged. It will be recalled that this same man very successfully staged a show for the Shriners last October, and expressions of regret at having missed this performance are still heard among the people of the city.

In describing the new show, Mr. Lacey says that it is a combination farce comedy, and musical revue, and he promises that it is an absolute novelty, and is surprisingly entertaining. Seventy-five or eighty local people will compose the cast, and rehearsals are to begin at once.

The production as it will be staged in Wichita Falls was put on in Austin two weeks ago, and press reports and individuals were unanimous in proclaiming it the biggest hit in the history of the city. Austin is reputed to be one of the "hardest" and most critical audiences in the southwest.

Chickens Pay Texans Two Dollars Per Hen; Average Farm Clearing Over Hundred a Year on 83 Fowls

"The average farm flock of chickens in northwest Texas brings $2 per hen," stated M. B. Oats, agricultural agent of the Wichita Valley railroad, in speaking of the statistics gathered by the railroad in its recent poultry campaign. Mr. Oats took his estimate from 1,015 records compiled in the campaign, which showed that the average farm has 83 hens, with sales averaging $161 per year.

"The sales would be larger if more farmers kept standard bred chickens," Mr. Oats declared, stating, however, that "the amount of sales on each farm are perhaps more convincing of the value of chickens on the farm, that if that particular place raised standard bred chickens," because, he said, "many persons would think that their scrub stocks would not bring as large a revenue as higher grade chickens."

Mr. Oats said that over two-thirds of the sales listed in the Wichita Valley campaign came from mixed or scrub flocks, this being true because of the fact that 63 per cent of all the farms in northwest Texas have either mixed or scrub flocks of chickens.

"No wonder peoople do not give their chickens much attention," he said in this connection. "No one cares much for scrub stock of any kind, and naturally the farmers do not expect much from scrub flocks of chickens."

But despite the attention which the chickens receive from their fanciers, he said, total sales of chickens and eggs amounted to $161, $132 of which the farmers reported as net profit.

The railway agent ascribed the reasons for numerous scrub flocks to the fact that the majority of people purchase their hatching eggs from mixed flocks. The agent said that it was hard to believe that people would pay out "hard earned money for scrub settings," but that the reports compiled in the poultry campaign indicated that 16 per cent of the farmers in northwest Texas are selling stocks of eggs from mixed breeds.

"Some people reported that they have nothing but scrub stocks, but that they sold both breeding and hatching eggs from them," Mr. Oats said, declaring that "such transactions ought to constitute a misdemeanor, punishable by fine for the first offense and including a jail sentence for succeeding offenses."

About $1.60 of the $2 which Mr. Oats said each hen would bring is profit. It was his statement, however, that with a flock of 20 or 30 hens, no profit should be expected, as it takes approximately that amount of hens to supply the demands of the average farm.

"But if the good sized flock of 125 hens is kept, the profits will total up to $200—that's with the flock including two-thirds scrubs," he said.

According to Mr. Oats, the county agents of this section of the country report much greater interest than ever before in the standardization of their chickens flocks, and it was his opinion that increased interest means increased results the coming winter.

MAYFIELD TO TALK IN CITY

Candidate to Address University Club

Earle Mayfield, at present member of the Texas railroad commission, will be the next senatorial aspirant to address the University club, speaking at next Tuesday's luncheon, it was announced at the club luncheon Tuesday.

He will come as a result of invitations extended by the club to all candidates for the position to address them, and will be the fourth to address them.

Arrangements for a speech to the general public on the same date will also be made at that time, it is expected.

Two of the changes recently proposed in the club work were adopted Tuesday—one for setting aside a fifth of all the club's revenue for a student's loan fund, and one for holding one night meeting each month in lieu of a noon-day luncheon, being adopted. Edgar P. Haney, F. G. Swanson and W. J. Townsend were named by Norris Ewing, president, to formulate a plan for handling this fund.

Two other proposals—for the admission of women to membership and for compulsory attendance at 60 per cent of the meetings, were defeated.

Following a suggestion that three lawyer members of the club be asked to assist, without compensation, in preparing the brief in connection with Wichita Falls' intervention in the redistricting fight, the chair named W. J. Townsend, F. G. Swanson and B. D. Sartin.

FONTAINE GOES RUNG HIGHER UP

Quits Road for Big Job in Kansas

C. L. Fontaine, traffic manager of the Wichita Falls & Southern since the line was taken back from the Katy by Frank Kell and associates, and general freight and passenger agent of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern and the Wichita Falls & Southern from their inception and for years following their sale by Kemp & Kell to the Katy system, is leaving the railroad to enter a general commission firm in Kansas City. This announcement was made in a bulletin issued by Mr. Fontaine's office Tuesday. It is effective May 1.

H. N. Roberts, at present general freight and passenger agent of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth (the Humon line) will succeed Mr. Fontaine here.

During his many years residence here—practically constant since 1907—Mr. Fontaine has gained a great number of friends in Wichita Falls and the Wichita Falls trade territory. His acquaintance among railroad men in the United States is one of the widest of any railroad man in the country.

Mr. Fontaine has for a number of years been recognized as an expert railroad traffic man. It is this knowledge which is primarily responsible for his going with the Kansas City firm, which handles a general commission business in grain and grain products—a business in which rates and traffic problems, plays a big part. His son, C. L. Fontaine Jr., for a number of years connected with the Kell mills in this territory, has been with the Kansas City firm for the past five years.

CAPT. BURNETT'S CONDITION IS SAME

Mrs. J. M. Barkley and Mrs. T. W. Roberts returned Tuesday from Fort Worth where they were recently called as a result of the critical illness of their brother, Capt. S. Burk Burnett. Although Capt. Burnett's condition has shown practically no change since the turn which alarmed relatives last week, it is not expected that there will be any further change in the immediate future.

Bogus Ad Plans Won't Work Here

Authorization of the appointment of a secret vigilance committee to investigate and protect members of the organization from bogus advertising schemes, and decision to resume publication of the organization's organ, the "Better City," marked a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce publicity committee Tuesday afternoon.

The vigilance committee, the members of which will be known only to Hubert Harrison, secretary, will function in the same manner as the vigilance committee of the Ad club, dormant for the past several months. Resumption of the publication of the Better City was decided upon as a result of a request from the Business Council of the organization.

Decision to purchase 1,000 road maps, showing Wichita Falls advantages as a distributing location, and to be used in connection with publicity directed to sales managers of concerns likely to locate branches here, was also taken.

Members of the committee present included T. P. Duncan, chairman; Al Ellis, C. Cabiness, T. A. Bradley, N. R. Buckley, Norris Ewing and V. N. Armstrong.

FATHER GETS CHILD

Writ of habeas corpus was granted to L. Taylor, Monday, giving Mr. Taylor the right to secure a 5-year-old child from Clarence Cox, who lives near Petrolia.

The petition set forth that Cox, who is the father of the child, and the child's mother, the daughter of Mr. Taylor, are separated, the terms of the divorce granted to them declaring that the father shall be allowed to keep the child 30 days out of each year. It was alleged that the father had kept his child the allotted limit, and had refused to give up its custody.

Attorneys in the case, however, declare that Mr. Cox released the child before the writ was served.

RAIN FAILS TO DAMAGE HERE

Road Projects Going Right Along

Although a half inch of rain fell throughout this section Monday and Monday night, no report of damage had been made from any source up to a late hour Tuesday night.

Heavy clouds which veiled the skies yesterday, threatened rain throughout the day, however, none fell in Wichita Falls.

Road work has been temporarily suspended for the past two days, according to officials of the Potts & Prentice company and employes of the county engineering department. It was said in this connection that the work will necessarily be suspended 24 hours in addition when the weather clears again, as rains and damp weather make highway work impossible and dangerous.

So far, none of the several roadway projects under construction has been harmed by the rains, but should continued wet weather set in, highway work would be affected materially.

Railway offices in Wichita Falls reported yesterday that light rains had fallen from Fort Worth to Amarillo and from Dallas to Atlus, Okla., but that no trackage washouts had been encountered.

MISS FRANDESEN IN NARROW ESCAPE

Miss Annie Frandesen of 1909 Buchanan narrowly escaped death early Tuesday morning, when almost overcome by smoke and flames of her burning house, she groped through the building and effected an escape through a bedroom window.

Damage estimated at $1,000 was entailed, which is covered by insurance of $5,000, which she carried on the building and contents.

The boys will be required to bring their own cooking "tins," food for the length of time gone, and bedding for the night.

Games for all kinds will be scheduled for Saturday morning.

Announcement of the affair was made last night by Douglas Pipes, manager of the Knot-Holers.

VISITORS EXPECTED AT ROTARY MEETING

Reservations filed by members with John Gould, secretary, indicate a large number of visitors in addition to the wives and friends of Rotarians at the club's annual meeting Thursday night.

At this time the officers for the coming year, as yet unknown to the club members, will be made known.

With spicy programs each year, and with the presence of the "Rotary women" on this occasion, the Rotary meetings have become quite an event on the men's club calendar each year.

EXPERT YEGGS CARRY OFF CASH

$1,400 Taken From South Bend Safe

Unknown yeggmen are responsible for the looting Monday night of a safe of the Wichita Falls & Southern railway station at South Bend, according to reports reaching here Tuesday. The thieves obtained $200 in currency and about $1,200 in checks, the report to local railway officials stated, and have not yet been apprehended.

The robbery is believed to have been done by expert yeggmen, no one having been aroused by the explosion necessary to get the safe open.

The theft is the second time that the South Bend station has been visited by robbers within a short period of time. Recently the station agent was held up and robbed by a masked man, who also effected an untraced escape.
