Gov. Allred Orders Probe Of San Antonio Labor Trouble

Order Is Issued From National Capital Friday

Investigation Is Ordered After Conference With Maverick And National CIO Leader

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—The State Industrial commission was ordered today by Governor James V. Allred to conduct an investigation and hearing on the issues involved in San Antonio's pecan workers controversy.

The governor, issuing the order from Washington where he and Mrs. Allred are visiting, informed officials here the action was taken in view of many telegrams, communications and personal appeals received by his office.

Looney Is Chairman

Everett L. Looney of Austin is chairman of the commission.

Col. H. H. Carmichael, public safety department director, said state police were taking no active part in the situation arising from a shellers' strike and added they would cooperate if men were needed.

He expressed opinion local police had things in hand and said the department recognized the right to picket peacefully.

Picketers Had Complained To Leaders At Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP) — Governor James V. Allred ordered the Texas Industrial commission today to investigate charges civil liberties were being violated in connection with a strike of pecan shellers in San Antonio.

Picketers had complained to national labor leaders here San Antonio police were interfering with their activities. Allred's order followed a conference in the office of Representative Maverick (D-Tex.) attended by John Brophy, national director of the Committee for In-

Green Points To Common Cause

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. — President William Green of the American Federation of Labor asserted tonight "labor and capital have a common cause to protect against autocratic usurpation of power over their destiny by governmental agency."

They must be alert against such "fettering of freedom," he said, "whether it be the National Labor Relations board in administering the National Labor Relations act, or any proposed board to substitute itself for the parties in determining the wages for labor's hire and the terms and conditions under which labor and capital shall function together."

Addresses Wisconsin Alumni

Green came from a meeting at Miami, Fla., at which the A. F. of L. expelled three large unions for desertion to the Committee for Industrial Organization. He addressed a University of Wisconsin alumni dinner.

"Industry is now in a state of convalescence," he said in his prepared address. "It needs no severe

Federal Judge James C. Wilson Pays $61 Fine Rather Than Put Up Fight In Game Law Violation

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11. (AP) — Federal Judge James C. Wilson, charged in justice of the peace court here at noon with illegal possession of wild water fowl, answered the filing of the complaint two hours later by paying a fine of $61 rather than fight the case.

The charge was filed in the court of Hal P. Hughes by an agent of the U. S. Biological survey who reported that when he investigated space reversed for Judge Wilson at a cold storage company here, he found a spoon bill duck and several mourning doves.

After paying the fine, Judge Wilson said "I have not stored wild ducks or doves any place for five or six years. The storage space was never locked and several of my friends used it."

First Check In Farm Tenant Aid Act To Be Given Today

(By The Associated Press)

JASPER, Ala., Feb. 11.—The first step in the federal government's nation-wide campaign to stem the rising tide of farm tenancy will be taken tomorrow when a $3,800 check is handed to Wiley J. Langley, 58-year-old father of 12.

Langley, a tenant-cotton grower, will use the money to buy and improve a 180-acre farm, the first such purchase under the Bankhead-Jones act which provided $10,000,000 to begin a long range battle against the tenant system that students of rural America blame for a host of economic and social ills.

For Langley and his family, the step will not mean drastic revision in work, since the land to be purchased is the same as they rented last year.

Repayment to the Farm Security administration, however, will be less than the rent costs under the tenant arrangement. Interest will be 3 per cent, with repayments divided over 40 years.

Langley's farm is just outside Jasper, home of Senator John H. Bankhead (D.-Ala.) who introduced the legislation under which the loan will be made.

While Alabama ranks third in percentage of farm tenancy, with only 35 per cent of its farms owner-operated, this community is not one of tenants. Walker county's farms, federal figures show, are 65 per cent owner-operated.

The Langley farm plan for 1938 provides for beginning a program of diversification to end the "one crop" system formerly practiced.

Farm Bill Vote Set Monday

Measure Runs Into A Flurry Of Criticism

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Senate leaders agreed late today to delay a final vote on the farm bill until Monday after the measure ran into a flurry of criticism.

This decision was reached several hours after the chamber refused to send the compromise measure back to a conference with the house, which already had approved the bill.

Agreement Is Reached

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) after asserting the measure would win "overwhelming support," said

TO PERMIT 26,827,000 ACRES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—Senator Hatch (D-NM) told the senate today cotton sections of the new farm bill would permit planting of 26,827,000 acres to cotton in 1938.

He produced the following table, prepared by the Agricultural Adjustment administration, showing how this acreage would be allotted to the states. It included: Texas 9,739,000; Arizona 186,000; New Mexico 97,000.

an agreement had been reached to vote on the bill finally by 3:30 p. m. Monday.

Minority Leader McNary (R-Ore) had served notice that half a dozen opponents of the bill still desired to speak.

Earler Senator Vandenberg (R-Mach) denounced the bill, as a "legislative jig saw puzzle" today while the senate approached final action on the measure.

Not five senators can explain it to their colleagues, Vandenberg said.

Assails Regimentation

"Compulsory restriction of crops will be matched by a compulsory increase in agricultural headaches," he asserted. "The country will swarm with a new army of officious payrolls bureaucrats enforcing the most gigantic regimentation ever attempted this side of Russia."

Before the senate, after nearly three months of vigorous argument, was a conference report on the bill, which reconciled into one mea-

American Tanker's Skipper Is Beaten With Rubber Hose Every Day In Palma Prison

Army's Trust In Hitler Growing After Shakeup

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—The German army's feeling of trust in its new high command seems to be growing despite uneasiness caused by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's centralization of control over the armed forces.

The general attitude of the army, as it recovered from the first shock of the purge of high-ranking officers, apparently was one of watchful waiting rather than any immediate worry over further shakeups.

Radicals Not Overlooked

At the same time, however, army circles have not overlooked the fact that radicals in the Nazi party have been seeking to impress Hitler with the need for continued weeding out of reactionary commanders.

Almost as though sensing this attitude, the propaganda ministry issued a statement that no changes were contemplated, apparently to allay whatever unrest may exist in the army.

Wholesale Denial Issued

Alfred Ingemar Berndt, vice-chief of the government press department, issued a wholesale denial today of foreign reports growing out of the reorganization. He said Polish Jewish circles were responsible for the reports of garrison uprisings, impending army changes and the closing of Germany's frontiers.

Foreign military observers are inclined to the view that some shuffling of officers automatically must continue. German army men reason, however, that while there may have been some regrettable victims of Hitler's unprecedented action the

Tick Eradication Aid Is Asked By Texans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—A Texas delegation and an agriculture department agent asked a house appropriations subcommittee today to increase to $600,000 the proposed federal expenditure for tick eradication in Texas in the 1939 fiscal year.

The group asked that the $503,000 tick eradication item in the agriculture department's appropriation bill be increased to $903,000. The increase would be used exclusively in Texas in addition to $200,000 already earmarked for the state.

Chairman L. J. Wardlaw, of the Texas Livestock Sanitary commission, declared the increased appropriation was imperative to eliminate tick infestation in 21 affected counties.

Dr. Howard L. Darby of the bureau of animal industry also stressed the need for expanded work in the state.

Other witnesses included Ira Butler, of the state sanitary commission, and Texas Representatives Kleberg, West, Lanham, South, Garrett, Mahon, Luther Johnson and McFarlane.

GIBRALTER, Feb. 11. — Captain J. E. Lewis, skipper of the American tanker Nantucket Chief, said tonight he was beaten with a rubber hose every day of the 16 days he and his crew were held prisoners by Spanish insurgents at Palma, Mallorca.

The Nantucket Chief arrived here today and prepared to sail for the United States.

Body Mass Of Bruises

"My body was a mass of bruises," Lewis said in an interview after making a full report of his experiences to the American consul. The commander of the American destroyer Manley accompanied him to the consulate.

In an emaciated condition after the ordeal, the skipper said:

"I am the happiest person in the world. I am lucky to have escaped a firing squad."

Told He Was Sentenced

He said he had been told while in jail that he had been sentenced to 17 years and four months imprisonment "for trading with Spanish reds."

"Meals in the prison consisted of a plate of soup, a few beans, a jar of water and a bit of bread daily," he stated.

Lewis said he suspected a German member of his crew of giving the insurgents details of the Nantucket Chief's sailing plans. Most of the crew of 34 were Americans.

Bound For Russia

When captured, the tanker was bound from a Russian port with a cargo of oil for Barcelona. The skipper said the capture was made by three ships flying insurgent flags

Tax Collections In Texas Set Record

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP) — Texas started off the year with record payments in almost every tax collected by his office, Comptroller George H. Sheppard said today.

Sheppard said collections were up more than $3,600,000 the first five months of the fiscal year over a similar period a year previous.

The increases were shown in cigaret, gasoline, gross receipts and production taxes, Sheppard said, with ad valorem levies since Sept. 1, 1937, amounting to $11,117,274, a decrease of $1,561,635.

The comptroller said revenue from coin-operated machines was off since many counties had closed them down in recent months.

Coin machines taxes declined $76,690 to $122,980 last month and fell $86,690 short of the five-month total reached in 1936-37.

Dallas Reporters Unable To Get In Touch With Madame Perkins

DALLAS, Feb. 11. (AP)—The Dallas Times Herald said today its reporters had been unable to get in touch with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins at a hotel here.

The newspaper said a voice answering the telephone at her suite in the Adolphus reported the secretary to be "conferring" during her stop here. Later, the newspaper said, telephone operators at the hotel were forbidden to ring the suite.

Secretary Perkins was in the Southwest to fill speaking engagements.

HOUSTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—A robber last night stopped Edward O'Neill, 70, bartender, and demanded his money.

"I've got only 55 cents," O'Neil said. "I'll give you half of that."

The robber took 25 cents.

Army Flier Killed As Planes Collide

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 11. (AP) — Lieut. Richard D. McCloskey, Kelly Field flying instructor, was killed today when two army P-12 pursuit planes collided in the air above the field.

The pilot of the other plane, Lieut. Marvin F. Stalder, escaped uninjured when his ship was damaged as it nosed over in landing.

McCloskey's ship tore apart in the air and Kelly Field officers said they believed he was killed by the impact.

McCloskey, native of Lock Haven, Pa., was 27. He came to Kelly Field as a flying cadet in 1936 after he was graduated from Franklin and Marshall college in 1934.

Stalder's home is in Riverside, Calif.

Russia Refuses To Increase Aid For Chinese

Fear Of Becoming Involved In War With Japan Directly Is Cited; Munitions Flow In

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12. (Saturday) —The Soviet Union has refused to increase her aid to China, according to reliable information, because of fear of becoming involved directly in the war with Japan.

Well-informed foreign sources said Russia had taken the stand she was in no position to take the risk of war with Japan singlehandedly.

U. S. Ship Brings Supplies

Munitions of war are flowing into China, however. Dispatches from Hongkong Friday said the United States freigter Michigan had unloaded an arms cargo that included bombs, ammunition and 12,000 cases of high explosive.

The majority of freighters at Hongkong from American ports bring cargoes, partly made up of ammunition, guns and explosives for the Chinese government.

Loaded At Tacoma

The Michigan was loaded at Tacoma, Washington, and sailed for Hongkong Jan. 9. Her crew was reported to have received bonuses of from $150 to $300.

Previous estimates of customs officials at the British crown colony in South China said that enough munitions to last China for a year of war had been received at Hongkong and transhipped to Hankow, one of the temporary capitals in the interior.

Russia's assistance to China cannot be determined accurately. Authoritative foreign observers, however, believe the Soviet Union is utilizing the Chinese-Japanese was as a laboratory for testing planes and

Wright's Fate In Hands Of Jury

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull today told the jury trying Paul A. Wright for killing his wife and best friend that if it finds he "was unconscious at the time of the act, you must acquit him."

He completed his instructions at 5:35 p. m., after which the jurors went to dinner to begin deliberations at 8 p. m.

One Of Defense Contentions

It was one of the chief defense contentions that from the time Wright came upon his wife and John Kimmel in what he testified was an abnormal embrace on the piano bench in their home last November 9 until he found himself standing over his fatally wounded victims with a pistol in his hand, he was in the state of an amnesia victim or a sleepwalker.

Judge Bull said if the jury found indications Wright might have forgotten details after the shooting that "any lapse of memory since the commission of the crime is no de-

At Any Rate Baltimore Police On The Job; Halt G-Men's Car

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11. (AP)—State and county police, notified by a filling station operator that one of five men riding in a New York car carried a pistol, captured the five today at the end of a three-mile automobile chase on Washington boulevard.

Then they learned the five men were three G-Men, led by Joseph A. Petrina, and two prisoners being taken to Washington. The police stammered apologies, the G-Men complimented their alertness and proceeded.

Glider Enthusiasts To Seek 'Thermals' In Plains Area

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Sailplane experts decided to night to show the country that motorless flight is as feasible over the level areas of the Great Plains as in the uplands of the United States and Germany.

Lewis B. Barringer, Philadelphia, general manager of the Soaring Society of America, announced at least two pilots would try for records at Wichita Falls, Tex., between April 10 and May 8.

At a meeting of the society here, Barringer said:

"If we can prove that sailplane flight is as easy in plains country as it is in hilly areas, it will go a long way toward spreading the use of gliders in this country."

Sailplanes are refined gliders, capable of soaring to great heights on upward current of air called "thermals."

Encouragement of gliding and soaring was voted last month at Cleveland by the National Aeronautic association as part of a general plan to increase flying in this country. At present more motorless flying is done in

Vinson Would Bind U. S. On Sea Plans

REP. CARL VINSON

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—A movement to bind the United States to a policy of "non-aggression" but to maintain a navy big enough to defend both coasts and all American possessions developed today in the house naval committee.

Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) informed the committee he would attempt to write this policy into the pending $800,000,000 fleet expansion bill. Vinson had conferred yesterday with Secretary of State Hull, and earlier in the week with President Roosevelt.

Based On Aggression

The representative said his proposal was an answer to those who charged the naval expansion program was based on a policy of aggression. He insisted his declaration of policy would not authorize any greater increase in the navy than the one under consideration, although high-ranking navy officers have testified the fleet would be incapable, even with the projected 20 per cent increase, of defending both coast lines simultaneously.

President Roosevelt intimated at his press conference today he had nothing to tell congress now about foreign affairs. He declined to answer a reporter's question as to whether he intended to "gratify" the request of Senator Johnson (R.-Calif.) for more information on foreign policy.

The Californian has expressed doubt the country is entirely free from links with a foreign power. His inquiries recently drew an emphatic denial from Secretary Hull that this country has any understanding with Great Britain concerning joint naval action.

Johnson said today "continued evidences" of some sort of agreement with Britain had prompted him to observe in the senate yesterday that possibly he and Hull had been "taken for a ride."

Vinson thrust his proposed naval policy into the picture while Johnson Hagood, retired army major-general, who once got into the bad graces of his superiors for criticizing

Fugitives From East Texas Are Sought In Area

Lubbock's law enforcement officers and attaches of the Lubbock office of the Texas Highway control were on guard Friday afternoon and night for two desperadoes who have been at large since the escape of five prisoners from the Hopkins county jail at Sulphur Springs late Tuesday.

Two men who assertedly stole an automobile from a Seymour man Thursday night and later abandoned it at Colorado early Friday afternoon were believed by officers to be W. E. (Rabbit) Burnett, convicted robber, and Roy Johnson, convicted forger.

Described As "Dangerous"

The men were described by Hopkins county authorities as "dangerous" and authorities were warned to take all precautions.

A 1936 Chevrolet black sedan which was taken by the five men at the point of a gun from a Sulphur Springs attendant at an automobile storage plant was found Friday abandoned at Seymour. The machine belonged to Ben Weiss of Dallas.

The hunt for the escaped prisoners was renewed with vigor Friday after discovery of the Weiss machine at Seymour and the looting of a Vernon tailor shop.

Car Is Abandoned

The car stolen at Seymour was described by police here as being a 1936 Lincolyn Zephyr black coach, license number 24-675, motor number H11705, according to information from Capt. W. W. Legge of the Texas Highway patrol and a report broadcast over police radio station KGZW by Lewis Kittrell. It belonged to O. T. Temple.

The car was recovered at Colorado

Leroy Kelley To Die In Chair March 15

HUNTSVILLE, Feb. 11. (AP)—The negro population of death row at Huntsville prison grew to two with the arrival today of Leroy Kelley, 38, convicted of murder of Sheriff A. F. Loyd of Lamb county.

The other negro occupant of the row is Virgil Terrill, convicted in Gregg county January 18 on a charge of rape and received here Feb. 8.

Kelley is scheduled for electrocution March 15; Terrill March 31.

Kelley was convicted April 5, last year, the first man to be given the death penalty in Lamb county.

Old Age Pension Session To Be Held In Courthouse At 2:30

Inertia that assertedly has prevented governmental cognizance of the needs of the aged will be probed at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when those favoring more liberal benefits for the aged will meet in 99th district courtroom to map a concerted plan of action.

Judge J. J. Dillard of county court said it is expected that a permanent organization with strong political significance will be organized—"one that will reasonably demand amelioration of conditions that have discriminated against widows and others not properly supported. Radio time has been contracted, or will be contracted."

Wide attendance is expected said Judge Dillard.

Garners Hosts To Roosevelts

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Vice President Garner donned his hated tailcoat and stiff-bosomed shirt tonight.

The occasion was the traditional dinner of the vice president and his wife for President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Garner got out of it last year, under an agreement whereby he and the president cancelled their dinners for each other, but he failed to make such arrangements this year.

Others Are Invited

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt called one of the White House cars to take them over slushy streets to the hotel where the Garners reside, a short distance from the executive mansion.

Others invited included Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, cabinet members and their wives, Governor James V. Allred of Texas, and Mrs. Allred; Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and his sister, Mrs. William Teahan; majority and minority leaders of senate and house; James Roosevelt, son of the president, and Mrs. Roosevelt and Howard Chandler Christy, who recently painted the vice-president, and Mrs. Christy.

The list also included Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Authors and Composers, who has

Thousand Persons Driven From Homes In One Town; Storm Expands Into Southern Area

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11. — Floodwaters, spreading steadily over California lowlands, drove 1,000 persons from their homes in one town today as damage mounted from a record-breaking 16-day rain.

The town of Pajaro, agricultural community across the Pajaro river from Watsonville in central California, was inundated by the swollen stream and almost the entire population forced temporarily to leave residences.

Five Miles Wide

The southern, and lower, end of Watsonville was also under water, and low-lying areas nearby were inundated as the Pajaro river, assuming the appearance of a lake, swelled to a width of five miles in some places.

River bottom areas along a 40-mile stretch from Red Bluff, northern California, to Fresno were inundated or subject to flood conditions.

Southern California Struck

High winds and rain torrents struck southern California as the storm area expanded.

Virtually all of the little town of Pajaro and 20 square blocks of adjacent Watsonville were inundated as the Pajaro river left its banks. Sixty families fled their homes.

A tense situation prevailed along the Sacramento river in the 40-mile stretch between Colusa and Sacramento. Flood gates were used in the capitol to divert threateningly highwater into a by-pass area.

Assist 300 Families

R. C. Schaffer, regional director of the Red Cross, announced his rescue crews had assisted 300 families subjected to danger in the Hagginwood area, near Sacramento. Red Cross field workers, manning boats, helped move six families at Watsonville.

Reaching the 27-foot level, 12 inches below flood stage, the Sacramento began rising at Solusa during the afternoon when water began backing up in the overtaxed by-passes there.

Farmers, WPA and CCC workers worked strenuously to strengthen levees and patrolled the bulwarks.

Flood conditions prevailed in low

Club Dances And Parties For Brides-Elect Given

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

ONE HUNDRED twenty-nine years ago today there was born in Hardin county, Ky., in a miserable cabin a baby boy who was destined to be forever glorified as savior of the Union. Looking around for something to write of this man, who now belongs to the ages, we came across the replica of a letter he wrote to J. W. Fell in 1859.

Imagining some of our readers either haven't learned what they'd like to of this sixteenth president of the United States or who, like we, have forgotten, we are re-printing part of the letter. Guess that's all right with the publishers:

"My parents were both born in Virginia, of undistinguished families—second families, perhaps I should say. My mother, who died in my tenth year, was of a family by the name of Hanks, some of whom now reside in Adams, and others in Mason county, Ill. My paternal grandfather, Abraham Lincoln, emigrated from Rockingham county, Va., to Kentucky about 1781, where a year or two later he was killed by Indians, not in battle, but by stealth when he was labouring to open a forest in the forest.

"My father, at the death of his father, was but six years of age, and he grew up literally without education. He removed from Kentucky to Indiana in my eighth year. We reached our new home about the time the state came into the union. It was a wild region, with many bears and other wild animals still in the woods. There I grew up.

"There were some schools, so called, but no qualification was ever required of a teacher beyond 'readin', 'rithin', and cipherin' to the rule of three. If a straggler supposed to understand Latin happened to sojourn in the neighborhood he was looked upon as a wizard. There was absolutely nothing to excite ambition for education.

"When I came of age I could read, write and cipher to the rule of three, but that was all. I have not been to school since. The little advance I now have upon this store of information I have picked up from time to time under the pressure of necessity.

"I was elected a captain of volunteers during the Black Hawk war, a success which gave me more pleasure than I have had since. I went the campaign, was elated, ran for legislation the same year (1832), and was beaten—the only time I ever have been beaten by the people.

"I was losing interest in politics when the repeal of the Missouri compromise aroused me again. What I have done since then is pretty well known.

"If any personal description of me is thought desirable, it may be said I am, in height, six feet four inches, nearly; lean in flesh, weighing on an average one hundred and eighty pounds; dark complexion, with coarse black hair and gray eyes. No other marks or brands recollected."

GOLD TASSELS TO WEAR

FOR PERSONAL adornment, heavy antique gold is one of the most important fashion items of the season. One Fifth Avenue shop introduces solid gold old-fashioned tassels on heavy gold chains. Wear them with your tailored suit, a cluster of tassels fastened on the lapel of your jacket. Or wrap the chain about your wrist with the tassels hanging in a group or at intervals. Long gold tassel earrings are new, too, and tiny gold tassels to attach to your charm bracelet.

TABLE ETIQUETTE

THERE ARE some general rules for serving a meal which everyone should know:

1. Place, serve, and remove the dishes from the left, using left hand, all except beverages which are poured and placed from the right.
2. Work from left to right.
3. The place in front of guest should never be left bare until after the salad.
4. Glasses are never lifted from the table.

Mrs. Woods Married To Sergeant Jones

Mrs. Cecil Boatner Woods of 1906 Fifteenth street was married to Sgt. Samuel D. Jones of Ft. Logan, Colo., at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Vickers on Plainview highway.

A ring ceremony was read by Walter E. Davies, friend of the bridegroom in former post days.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Wilda Stewart, accompanied by Mrs. W. O. Stevens, sang "Because." (D'Hardelot). Mrs. Stevens played the Wedding Chorus from Lohengrin (Wagner). The bride entered with Mrs. Vickers.

Sgt. Leonard Day was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple, centered the refreshment table. Acacia blossoms and cornflowers were floral decorations.

Bride Cuts Cake

The bride cut the first slice of cake and Mrs. Ruth Taylor presided later. Mrs. M. G. Abernathy presided at the coffee table.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. John Herd of Post, Mr. and Mrs. Abernathy, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Maedgen, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Howard, Mr. and Mrs. George Dougherty, Mesdames Clara Abney, Sue McMurry, Stevens, Stewart, Lon Mullican, J. S. Johnson, A. B. Conley, U. W. Baze, Fredda Hunt, Frank Winn, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Wagner, Misses Effie Roe, Lorena Brown of Post, Frances Conley, Margaret Mallard, Margaret Turner, Messrs. James Vickers and Charles Maedgen.

Sergeant Jones has been in army service for 23 years, 18 of which were spent in foreign service. He is with the Second Engineers.

The couple will be at home at Fort Logan for a while after March 15 and later plan to go to Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been living in this section 14 years. They have three other children.

Gov. Allred Admits He Has Been Out-Talked By Gov. Tingley Of New Mexico Over Riding Event

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 11. (AP)—Governor James Allred of Texas admitted today he had been out-talked by Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico.

Conceding defeat in the remote control clash which began when Tingley "invited" Allred to ride with him at the Amarillo (Texas) Mother-in-law day parade March 9, Allred wrote:

"I just had to quit the contest. You were getting the best of the wordy battle, and all I can do is to ride in the parade."

At one point, Allred offered to bring a surcingle to help Tingley stay on his horse. The New Mexicon executive countered that he would ride—bareback—the 16-hands high horse that a Tucumcari admirer offered to place at his disposal.

Tingley said today he had bought a cowboy hat for Allred to wear in the parade.

"Imagine it," he muttered. "That Texan wears a size seven and a half."

High School Physical Education Department Gets Equipment

Addition of recreational equipment including ping pong tables, two sets of gym horseshoes, two sets of aerial darts, four paddles and four shuttle cocks recently has been made to the physical education department of Senior High school.

Equipment will be used in physical education classes, at noon, and in recreational tournaments which likely will be sponsored by the physical education classes later in the year.

Two ping pong tables were made in the wood-work department by E. E. Key, woodwork instructor. They were bought, along with nets, balls and paddles, with money made by the girls' physicil education department selling tags. Two more tables are to be added to the equipment with money made during the recent Drollery night sponsored by the department. The other new equipment was purchased by the school.

San Diego polled 390 for the bonds. Two voters dissented.

Benavides a solid vote of 501 was cast.

New Safety Regulations Being Enforced Near Dupre School

Eight boy and girl patrolmen are assisting in enforcng new safety regulations about parking in front of Dupre school between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. They direct students in crossing only at intersections on Avenue T and Twentieth street and at Avenue T and Nineteenth street.

Patrol students are: Charles Bratcher, Leroy Harris, Ed Richardson, Conrad Ward, Ruth Taylor, Loretta Joyce Maner, Juana Lee Perry, and Eloise Hughes. These students represent the fourth grades of Dupre school. They must be the best students of the rooms in order to qualify, and if a student proves himself unworthy of the responsibility someone is selected to replace him. They have been instructed to help boys and girls to be more watchful in crossing the street, but they are not to take hold of any child and lead him.

Patrols for the first semester were: Billy Slagle, Dennis Patterson, G. W. Hensley, Crawford Barrier, Jo Dean Payne, Clifford Dean, John Donald Stone, Ed Bledsoe, Jane Robin Lawson, Norma Grace Reid, Anne Wharton, Nell Anthony, Marjorie Moore, Billie Nell Pipkin, Ruth Cowart, and Joanne Forbes.

The card game of rummy is said to have originated in Texas.

Seed--Not Weather And Soil--Is "Big Factor" In Determining Cotton Quality

Results Of Tests Cited By Experts

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Agriculture department cotton specialists reported today experiments showed that seed—not the weather and soil, as commonly supposed—is the "big factor" in determining cotton quality.

Their findings were based on experiments with 16 varieities of cotton planted at experiment stations in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas during the past three years.

Contrary To Opinion

"Contrary to popular opinion," the department said, "none of the 16 varieties varied more than an eighth, and in many instances as little as one-sixteenth, of an inch in staple length whether it was grown in the Mississippi delta under the most satisfactory moisture and soil conservation conditions or on the western fringe of the cotton belt where farmers long have planted short staple cotton for the simple reason that they believed they could not grow longer staple varieties."

Architects Chosen On Eleemosynary Jobs

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—The board of control has chosen architects to design improvements costing an estimated $790,600 at eleemosynary institutions in the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1, 1938.

Officials said contracts for the work probably would be awarded just before the new fiscal period began.

Improvements by institutions, types, costs and architects were:

State Tuberculosis sanitorium (Sanitorium, Tex.) building and equipment, $110,000, Phelps, Dewees and Simmons, San Antonio. Enlarging kitchen, dining room, children's hospital, $25,000, Leonard R. Mauldin, San Angelo.

January Proved Dark Month In Steel Industry, 'Steel' Says

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11. (AP)—January proved a dark month for the steel industry, the magazine Steel reports.

Steel's survey showed pig iron output fell off to the lowest level since December, 1934 while active stacks at the end of the month numbered 91, the lowest since June, 1935. In January 1937 a total of 169 stacks were producing.

"With all important consumers of steel remaining out of the market except for imperative needs, the situation shows no improvement and little change from the conditions of several weeks, ago," the magazine said with reference to conditions last week.

SMU Athletes Are 'Punished'; Must Stay In Campus Bounds

DALLAS, Feb. 11. (AP) — Thirty Southern Methodist university athletes and students have been ordered to stay within the bounds of the campus for periods of from one to three weeks for a mustache-shaving episode last month.

Freshmen whittled the mustache of Nolan Jackson, a football player, and upper classmen came to his aid. The freshmen were subjected to certain "punishments."

The discipline committee of the university ended its investigation today with the announcement of its decision.

State Department Of Agriculture Believes Texas Youth Could Benefit Pecan Industry

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—The state department of agriculture believes the youth of Texas might do something to lift the pecan industry out of the doldrums.

To that end it is organizing vocational education classes, Boy Scouts, Future Farmers of America and 4-H club members into units for reclaiming virgin forests into paying pecan orchards.

About 15 groups have been organized and others are in the process.

Could Transform Acres

J. T. Kelly, pecan specialist, believes non-revenue river bottoms and overflow lands containing pecan trees can be transformed into the best paying acres of the farm and at the same time boost the quality of the state's pecan production.

There's nothing wanting in quantity but, Kelly and other specialists say, there is need of a well organized program for developing the industry.

The experts stress the importance of demonstration projects conducted by the youth groups with department assistance and supervision. A drive is underway to organize projects in Brown, San Saba, Kerr, Bexar, Gonzales, Wharton and other counties having numerous native trees in need of careful cultivation.

Could Clear Underbrush

The process consists of clearing all underbrush and timber except the pecans from a wild forest. (Native plum, persimmon, red haws, black haws and mulberry may be left to produce feed for livestock). A record of production is kept and the trees bearing only "pee-wees" are improved by grafting and budding. Fencing the orchard and pasturing livestock within it are recommended.

W. D. Sims, director of pecan work for the department, hopes youth will point the way for their elders.

The specialists say they found one native orchard whose owner was surprised to find the crop had a potential market value of $300. Some farmers did not know they had pecan trees on their property.

Indifference about prices—except when harvesting time nears—reflect the ennui of a large portion of the pecan industry, the specialists think. With proper development they say the Texas producer can forget prices for he'll always get good ones when nuts have the right quality.

Railroad traffic is heavier between New York and Philadelphia than between any other cities in the world.

Woodul Feted By Home Town

(Special To The Avalanche)

HOUSTON, Feb. 11.—Six hundred Houstonians, joined in spirit through telegrams by high figures in the national government here Friday gave Lieutenant-Governor Walter Woodul an "appreciation luncheon" which amounted to an unofficial sendoff of his unannounced candidacy for attorney general.

The feast was staged by the Houston Salesmanship club of gridiron dinner fame. Woodul is one of its founders. He was acting governor at the time, Governor Allred being out of the state.

Messages Received

Significant among the messages received from absent friends were those from Democratic leaders in Washington, which Woodul's friends accepted as evidence of the national administration's friendship toward his candidacy. They brought warm felicitations from Vice President John N. Garner, Sam Rayburn, Democratic house majority leader; Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC; United States Senators—Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard, and Houston's congressman, Albert Thomas.

Woodul's public service was praised and his candidacy for attorney general endorsed by former Governor Ross Sterling, A. J. Bannon, president of the Houston Labor council; George Strake, representing the oil industry; Dr. Charles N. Shaver, president of Sam Houston State Teachers college at Huntsville, representing education, and others.

"I am passing up a wonderful opportunity to make an announcement for public office," Woodul smiled in acknowledging the tributes "but I'm still looking over the situation."

Two Recent Developments Add Zest To Texas Observance Of Lincoln's Birthday; Attack On Polk Over Mexican War Is Re-Told

EDITOR' NOTE: The following was written by Ernest G. Fischer, Associated Press writer who has made a special study of Texas history.

Two recent devclopments add zest to the observance in Texas Saturday of Abraham Lincoln's birthday.

Wednesday, Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) quoted Lincoln as having called James K. Polk, president of the Mexican war period, "a bewildered, confounded and miserably perplexed man." Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas came to the defense of President Roosevelt, the implication having been that Roosevelt found himself in much the same situation as Polk was in during the Mexican war.

Quoted Milder Portions

Wolcott quoted the milder portions of Lincoln's first printed speech in congress, delivered Jan. 12, 1848. Lincoln said the president's war message was "the half-insane mumbling of a fever dream."

Polk had said, in defense of Gen. Zachary Taylor's crossing of the Nueces river into what Mexico contended was her territory, that there had been shed "the blood of our fellow-citizens on our own soil." Lincoln, along with other Whigs, wanted to know just where this blood was shed. He had introduced the "spot" resolutions, calling upon the president to inform the house just where on American soil this bloodshed occurred.

Would Be Convinced

If Polk failed to explain, Lincoln continued "then I shall be fully convinced of what I more than suspect already—that he is deeply conscious of being in the wrong; that he feels the blood of this war, like the blood of Abel, is crying to Heaven against him."

Lincoln intimated that the blood that had been shed was that of refugees from Mexican territory.

The record shows that Lincoln, in congress, supported the army in the field, joined in a vote of thanks to the officers and then voted for the Ashmun amendment. This amendment described the Mexican was as "unnecessarily and unconstitutionally begun by the president of the United States."

The "spot" resolution and the Ashmun amendment, the latter of which carried by a vote of 82-81, with most of the Whigs voting "aye," put Lincoln "on the spot" politically in his home district back in Illinois. Newspapers quoted speakers back home who called Lincoln's attack on Polk "base, dastardly and treasonable."

Naturally, the slavery question, as well as the Oregon question, was mixed up with the Texas problem. Polk did not lay great stress on the slavery issue in connection with Texas nor did Lincoln.

In fact, in the immediate territory in dispute, Southwest Texas, between the Nueces and the Rio Grande, slavery was not an extensive institution. It was primarily ranching area, where slaves were a doubtful asset, and many of the settlers were anti-slavery in sentiment.

Lincoln Supported Taylor

Lincoln, who opposed slavery as "unjust and bad policy" but believed that the abolition doctrine aggravated the situation, supported Taylor, a slave-holder, for the presidency. In Lincoln's eulogy after the death of Taylor in 1850, Lincoln took pains to remind the audience that Taylor's invasion of Mexico was under orders.

Another statment by Lincoln might be refreshing to Texans this year. Recently there was a proposal for the secession of four counties at the southernmost tip of Texas and for the formation of a new state.

Not Taken Seriously

While the proposal brought wide publicity, it was not taken seriously by many residents of that section.

However, the secession proposal did serve to recall a statement by Lincoln, early in his career, which proved a boomerang when he was charged with the responsibilities of the chief executive's office.

The statement which caused him almost as much trouble as the "spot" resoultions was that it was "a sacred right of any people anywhere" who were not satisfied with their form of government to organize a government more "suitable." That called for a lot of explaining when the secession of the Southern states brought war.

However, Lincoln had left one loophole in his statement about "a sacred right." He added "if they (the people desiring a change of government) "have the power" to carry out their wishes.

Pampa Cagers Finish Fast For 21 To 20 Win; Teams End Big 5 Season Tonight

Harvesters Cop Overtime Game By Free Shot

A brace of free pitches by Andis and Dunaway in an overtime period meant the difference between Pampa's Harvesters and Lubbock's Westerners last night in a Big Five Basketball league game at the local high school gymn.

Andis and Dunaway play for Pampa, so Pampa won the game. The score was 21 to 20, and the game was just as close as, if not closer than, the score indicates.

The teams meet again tonight at 8 o'clock to conclude the series and end the league schedule. Pampa, by winning again tonight, might finish first, but Plainview, playing Amarillo last night and tonight, appeared headed for the Big Five championship.

Fouls Are Important

Deadlocked at 19-all at the expiration of the customary 32 minutes of play, the teams entered a three-minute extra period. The players were just as excited as the fans, and they forgot to play it careful. Bob Allen brushed Andis, and it was a foul. Andis made good on the throw. Henry P. Ford bumped into Dunaway, and the latter made his free throw, giving Pampa a two-point advantage.

Then Dunaway brushed Ernest Winter, Lubbock reserve, and Winter made good. The score was 21 to 20. Each side had two more chances at free shots but missed, and that was the ball game.

Lubbock, playing one of its best games of the season and hustling as hard as they know how in an effort to break the Pampa jinx, carried the fight practically all the way, and led the score more than half the time.

Lead At Half 10-9

From the start, the Westerners were ahead, then the count was knotted. At the end of the first period, Lubbock led, 8 to 6. At the half, the Westerners had a 10-9 lead, and the the end of the third period, the Westerners exercised a 16-13 lead, one of the longest leads of the evening for either side.

Pampa went ahead, 13-12, soon after the second half started when Heiskell bucketed a pair of field goals, Wear, Cawthon and Ford scored successive field goals for Westerners, however, for the 16-13 lead. Cunningham scored for Pampa, but Cawthon's free shot kept Lubbock ahead for the time being, but not for long. Free shots by Reynolds and Cunningham tied the score at 17-all, and Pampa went ahead by two points when Miller made a field goal. Ford tied it for Lubbock 30 seconds before the game ended.

The box score

PAMPA	FG	FT	TP
Heiskell, f	3	1	7
Andis, f	1	1	3
Miller, f	2	0	4

Katherine Hemphill Wins At Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11. (AP)—Katherine Hemphill, Columbia, S. C., won the Palm Beach Women's Golf championship today in a 19-hole match with Mrs. Helen Hockejos, Lake Hopatcong, N. J.

Miss Hemphill frittered away a three-hole lead down the homestretch and had to go an extra green to defeat Mrs. Hockenjos.

Mrs. Hockenjos, former New Jersey champion, missed winning the tournament by the margin of a two-foot putt that failed to drop on the 17th green.

Miss Hemphill succeeds Patty Berg of Minneapolis, who passed up the tournament this year.

Marian McDougall of Portland, Ore., won the consolation flight by trimming Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., 4 and 3. Diana Fishwick, one-time British champion, took the second division honors with a two-below-par pace that defeated Katherine MacCloskey of Pittsburgh, 6 and 5.

Aggie Tackle To Challenge Babe Ritchie In "Gloves"

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11. (AP)—Roy Young, Texas A. and M.'s all-conference football tackle and intramural heavyweight boxing champion, along with three other lighter fighting Farmers have entered the State Golden Gloves championships which will be staged at the mammoth new Will Rogers Memorial coliseum here next week.

The 215-pound Young will challenge Babe Ritchie, defending state champion from Lubbock High school, and all of the other heavyweights from 13 district centers.

Between 100 and 120 bouts will be offered during the three days of action

Tech Football Men To Be Honored At 'Fun Night' Program Tuesday Night

Texas Tech's annual "fun night" honoring varsity and freshman football players has been set for next Tuesday night at the Tech gymnasium.

One of the best attended programs in Lubbock each year, as indoor shows go, next week's event should be no exception.

A program of movies, music and Matadors has been arranged, with the possibility of an added attraction in the form of boxing.

The program, however, may be long enough without boxing, and if that's the case, the ring division will be left out.

Present Grid Awards

Coaches Pete Cawthon and Berl Huffman will introduce varsity and freshman footballers, respectively, and present them with letter awards and numerals for outstanding jobs done during the 1937 season.

In addition, a large number of special awards will be given, including Sun Bowl trophies.

Motion pictures of professional football, featuring the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears, will be projected, and there will be other entertainment scores.

Music By Two Bands

The football pictures are provided through the courtesy of the New York Giants and one of their backfield men, Jim Neill, former Tech star. Neill, the Brownfield ace, has received a "copy" of the film, said to be about 800 feet, and is offering it as a special attraction Tuesday night.

Special music by the Texas Tech band and by Elbert Overton's string band, "a la dishpan, straight from a long engagement at La Fonda dormitory," will be included on the program.

Jim Ten Eyck Of Crew Coaching Fame Is Dead

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 11. (AP)—James A. Ten Eyck, the 86-year-old rowing coach at Syracuse university whose name has been synonymous with rowing since the turn of the century, died today in Miami, Fla.

A veteran of 74 years, Ten Eyck was born at Tompkins Cove on the Hudson River, not far from the scene of the annual intercollegiate regatta. To the end a salty and sturdy character, Ten Eyck recently told one of his old oarsmen he did not expect to survive the severe strain which coronary thrombosis had put on his heart.

James A. Ten Eyck

For 35 years Ten Eyck coached rowing at Syracuse. Last June at Poughkeepsie he was the last of the old order of professional oarsmen still in command. Pop Courtney, Jim Wray and Dick Glendon had all passed from the fraternity of head coaches.

He began rowing in his early teens. His racing career took him to every section of the United States and to England where he was a famous figure in the now-gone days of single sculls.

Coached Navy Boatmen

His early coaching days in the '80's were spent with boat clubs and in 1889 and 1901 he coached the U. S. Naval academy crews at Annapolis.

He came to Syracuse in 1903 and began a reign as a crew coach, marked throughout by the affection he showed for his oarsmen and which he received in turn from them.

In 1904, only a year after he took charge, both his varsity and freshman crews won at Poughkeepsie. The varsity won again in 1908, 1913, 1916 and 1920 and his yearling boat repeated in 1906, 1915, 1922, 1925, 1929, 1930 and 1932. His Jayvee boats won five Poughkeepsie races.

Ten Eyck chewed tobacco, loved old baggy clothing and would wrap himself in cold-stiffened oilskins to stand in his boat, icicles hanging from his moustache, and bark orders to husky young oarsman.

Once he said "If I had to go ten miles, I'd rather row than walk." In recent years at his West Southport, Maine, summer camp the "old man" thought nothing of a seven to ten mile row.

Both Jim's sons, James, jr., and Ned, are crew coaches and both have been aides on his staff.

James, jr., is now at Princeton and Ned, former Rutgers coach, for the past several years has helped at Syracuse with winter and early spring conditioning work. He is the number one choice to take over the main coaching task for the Orange.

Mule Haas Signs With Mackmen

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11. (AP)—Mule Haas, a member of the championship Philadelphia Athletics eight years ago, today signed to again play with the A's.

Connie Mack, manager, said Haas, recently released by the Chicago Whitesox, was signed "solely to help in the outfield and act as pinch-hitter. We have no idea of making him a coach."

'Two-Ton' Tony Is Given Suspension

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—"Two-Ton" Tony Galento, fat and colorful New Jersey heavyweight, drew an indefinite suspension from the New York State Athletic commission today for failing to train for a fight with Harry Thomas from which Galento recently withdrew pleading an injured hand.

The commission clapped a similar suspension on Joe Jacobs, who manages Galento everywhere except in New York. He holds only a second's license in this state.

Action was deferred in the investigation of the one-round knockout of Bob Turner of Newport News, Va., by Middleweight Champion Freddie Steele in Rochester Tuesday night. Turner has been summoned to New York for questioning.

Phelan held up Turner's purse after Steele had floored the Southerner four times.

Joe Louis and Nathan Mann formally signed contracts for their February 23 heavyweight title fight in Madison Square Garden and each posted a $5,000 forfeit check.

Pettit, Whitharral Leading Hockley County Cage Joust

(Special To The Avalanche)

LEVELLAND, Feb. 11. — Pettit and Whitharral were tied for the lead in boys division of Hockley County basketball tournament at the end of first days play here this afternoon.

Pettit beat Ropes 24-21 and Levelland 15-11. Whitharral beat Levelland 25-15 and Anton 25-21. In Class B division Smyer won over Clauene 32-23.

In girls division Petit won over Whitharral 31-14; Ropes beat Anton 21-13; Anton in turn beat Whitharral 22-7; and Clauene beat Sundown 10-7.

Championships in all divisions will be determined by round robin schedules with percentage basis. Play will continue Saturday morning, afternoon, and night, according to Billie Keys, Ropes coach and athletic director of the county. Jack Hackler, Abernathy, is official referee for the games. Capacity crowds are watching the play.

British Boycott Against Tokyo Games Starts

By SCOTTY RESTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The British Amateur Athletic association today launched a boycott against holding the 1940 Olympic games in Tokyo but there was no indication the movement would draw much support from other European countries.

After the British A.A.A.'s general committee had adopted, unanimously, a resolution against British participation in the 1940 games if they are held, as scheduled, in Tokyo, H. F. Pash, a member of the committee, expressed the hope other nations would follow the British lead.

Other Nations Hopeful

But an Associated Press survey revealed no evidence of widespread inclination toward the boycott movement.

In detail, the survey revealed that:

1—Italy, France, Austria and Yugoslavia definitely have decided to send teams to Tokyo;

2—Norway expects trouble raising sufficient funds to send a team while the present undeclared war between China and Japan continues;

3—Germany is waiting to see how her athletes perform in the Nazi games at Nuremberg Sept. 4;

4—Finland and Denmark are undecided about participation.

Japan removed all doubt as to her intention of holding the games by issuing today detailed rules for the winter and summer Olympics.

No Direct Influence

The British Olympic committee will hold its annual meeting Tuesday but Lord Aberdare, great Britain representative, said he doubted whether any action would be taken then on the British A.A.A. resolution.

Partial support for the British A.A.A. attitude came from the British Empire Games federation, meeting at Sydney, which adopted a resolution against participation in Olympic games proposed to be held in any country at war. The federation's resolution made no specific mention of the far eastern conflict.

Neither the Empire Games federation nor the British A.A.A. has any but an indirect effect on British Olympic policy.

American Olympic Official Decries Politics In Games

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Whatever feeling might exist in America or England against Japan's military operations in China, it does not constitute grounds for canceling the Olympic games or refusing to participate in them, Avery Brundage, Chicago, president of the United States Olympic committee, said tonight.

Brundage refused to share the view of the general committee of the British A.A.A., which today unanimously adopted a resolution against Britain attending the 1940 Olympics in Tokyo, in the interest of "humanity and fairplay."

Said Brundage:

"The United States Olympic committee has consistently held to the position that politics has no place in amateur sport, which must always be kept free from distinctions of color, creed or class.

Japan Won't Rule Olympics

"Athletes should not consider race, religion, economic or political views of the people who are host to the Olympics. All that the host does is provide the track, the field, ushers, seats, etc. It has no more to do with the judges, referees, timers or with the conduct of the events than any of the visiting nations. Japan will have no more voice than the United States in the 1940 Olympics."

Japan's ability to hold the Olympics two years hence, in face of its military affairs, will be determined by the International Olympic committee meeting in Cairo, Egypt next month. If the Chinese situation prevents Japan from making the proper preparations, the games may not be held anywhere in 1940 unless another country steps quickly into the situation to save the event. This never before has been necessary.

Brundage expressed his belief that Japan, already going ahead with its plans, would carry them out.

Cooks After Same Thing--To Beat Other

Bun

Bill

(By The Associated Press)

The battle between the Brothers Cook—Bill, coach of the Cleveland Barons, and Bun, coach of the Providence Reds—has become one of the highlights of the International-American hockey league.

Both played for years with the New York Rangers before taking up their present coaching posts, and nothing pleases either so much as victory over his brother.

Their younger brother, Bud, who plays with Cleveland, pointed out the difference between his coaching brothers—a difference borne out by the accompanying pictures which were taken in the coaching boxes as Cleveland scored a 1-0 victory over Providence.

"Bill and I are just naturally given to worry," Bud declared. "If everyt' g doesn't so smoothly we fret about it. Bun doesn't seem to take is hockey so seriously as we do. He's the light-hearted member of the family."

Even though his team won, Bill was doing the worrying when these pictures were taken. And the next day Bun was more light-hearted than ever as Providence won to even the score.

Crisler Faces Big Problem With His Michigan Grads

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Commentary on football head coaching security: during last six years only two coaches in Big Ten conference (Zuppke of Illinois, Kizer of Purdue) and one in eastern "Ivy" league (Little of Columbia) survived turn-over.

One of Fritz Crisler's first and most productive moves when he took charge of Princeton's football revival six years ago was to invite all old grads to "join the huddle" . . . He will have fun at Michigan if he issues the same rallying call to 37,000 Wolverine graduates, 39,000 of whom reside in the home state . . .

Cotton Not Coming

Britain's Henry Cotton, world's No. 1 professional golfer, hasn't responded to invitation to make his U. S. debut in this year's Augusta national (Bob Jones) tournament . . . Which probably means Henry was serious when he told friends he had no intention of invading this country's courses . . . What's become of that golfing "comeback" by John Montague? . . .

Following example of Kentucky, which voted Alvin (Bo) McMillin as its outstanding athletic product of all time, Minnesota is casting its ballots via poll conducted by St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press . . . Bronko Nagurski leads early returns, with Mike Gibbons, the old fistic phantom, running close second . . . Others getting support include Pudge Heffelfinger, all-time All-America guard at Yale; Earl Martineau, Minnesota All-America back, who's been assistant to Crisler on Princeton coaching staff; Bullet Joe Bush, ex-big league pitcher; Bernie Bierman, current Gopher head grid coach; Robin Lee, figure skating star; Bert Baston and Arnie Oss, ex-Minnesota footballers.

EAST TEXANS WIN

ABILENE, Feb. 11. (AP)—East Texas State Teachers college swept a two-game series with Hardin-Simmons by walloping the Cowboys here tonight, 59-33. Last night's score was 54-47 for the Lions.

Porkers Paddle Steers, 74-38

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 11. (AP)—Texas university, given a chance to halt the Southwest conference runaway of the Arkansas Razorbacks, proved tonight to be nothing but a willing sparring partner and fell 74 to 38.

Utterly befuddled, the Texans never solved the intricate passing attack of the Razorbacks, and were behind from the first goal.

The victory was Arkansas' seventh straight and preserved the only spotless record in the league.

Benton, Robbins Lead

Texas, out to ensnare high-scoring Don Lockard, Arkansas forward, seemed to forget about James Benton. While Lockard was drawing guards out of position, the tall forward pumped in 10 field goals to lead the scoring with 20 points.

The Longhorns tried to stop Jack Robbins, too, but it was no use. Enjoying his usual fine work, Robbins netted 18 points from his guard post. Lockard came next with 12, which put him abreast of Hubert Kirkpatrick, Baylor center, in league scoring with 110.

LOCALS DROP DECISION

WOLFFORTH, Feb. 11. (Special) Breaking a halftime 10-10 deadlock, Wolfforth independents outplayed Kerr Bros. of Lubbock in the second half to gain a 30-25 victory here tonight. Earl Ince of the visitors led scoring with 10 points. Phillips and Locke bagged eight each for the locals.

Barth-Steele Bout Not To Be 'Title'; Where Is Hagen?

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—The forthcoming middleweight "title" bout at Cleveland between Carmen Barth and Freddie Steele is not recognized as such in New York . . . Reason: Barth, the challenger, once was whipped by Bob Turner, who was on the short end of that one-round affair with Steele in Rochester the other night . . . Whether he likes it or not, Johnny Rossi, the Worcester middle, is about through in New York after that exhibition Wednesday night . . .

Jack Kearns gets in today with Jimmy Adamick . . . By the by, where is good old Walter Hagen these days? . . . Twice weekly Ancil Hoffman has a crate of oranges from his California groves flown to Lakewood, N. J., where the Messrs. Baer are in training . . . Latest Broadway reports say the Yanks will sign DiMaggio for $30,000 with everybody happy, most of all DiMaggio . . .

Jimmy Braddock will open his restaurant within a month . . . Originally, the spot was a German feedery; then it became strictly kosher . . . Now an Irishman has it . . . Our football clearing house is getting out of bounds . . . Seems every kid in the country wants a job . . . We'll summarize it briefly in a day or so, then abdicate . . . Odds on Joe Louis to trim Nathan Mann may reach 4 to 1, which are rather inviting . . . Max Baer has switched from cigarettes to a pipe until after the Farr fight . . . Well, he did that before meeting Joe Louis, too.

Upsets Feature Frisco Match Play Open

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Defeat of the medalist, a series of long distance battles and some rousing upsets marked the first and second rounds of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament today:

The upsets started with the opening round when Charles Congdon, of Tacoma, Wash., who set the pace for the qualifiers with a two-day score of 143, was knocked out of competition by Leonard Ott, of Denver, one up.

Ousted In Second Round

Ott had no sooner eliminated the tall Tacoma boy than he was ousted from the running himself by Emile Mashie, of Fitchburg, Mass., 2 and 1, in the second round.

Other second round winners: Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Tex.; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa.; Lawson Little, San Francisco; Tony Penna, Dayton, O.; Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Craig Wood, Rumson, N. J.

Demaret Downs Ghezzi

Demaret advanced with a 2 and 1 victory over Vic Ghezzi, of Deal, N. J. Runyan walloped Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., 4 and 3, and Picard edged out Mark Fry, Oakland, on the 20th.

Little, one-time amateur champion and winner of the San Francisco open a year ago, smeared Jimmy Hines, of Garden City, N. Y., 5 and 3, after a narrow escape in the first round when he was carried to the 19th hole by Paul Jopes, registered from La Habra, Calif. and completely unknown to major tournament golf.

Penna moved up in the pay with a 3 and 2 win over Willie Hunter, of Pacific Palisades, Calif.; Snead defeated Neil Christian of Yakima, Wash. 3 and 2 and Wood put out Benny Coltrin, San Francisco, 4 and 3.

Fireworks In Morning

The second round bouts saw the elimination of two former tournament winners here — McSpaden in 1935, and Hunter in 1936.

Aside from the extra hole match engaged in by defending champion Little, the main fireworks exploded in the morning round. At that time Demaret trimmed Olin Dutra, of Los Angeles, former national open title holder 1 up; Hines gave Harry Cooper, Chicopee, Mass., his walking papers to the tune of 3 and 2, and Christian eliminated John Revolta at Evanston, Ill., on the 20th. Revolta is the leading money winner of the current winter tournament swing.

Tomorrow third round pairings: Mashie vs. Demaret; Runyan vs. Picard; Little vs. Penna; Snead vs. Wood.

Paul Revere became a lieutenant-colonel in the Massachusetts militia.

Seed Breeders Meet At Tech

With a registration of 40 breeders and farmers, an opening session of the annual meeting of the Certified Seed Growers association and state seed and plant board got off to a good start Friday at Texas Technological college. Sessions were held in room A-123, administration building of the division of agriculture.

Today's high point will be a talk by J. F. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, at 11 o'clock. He will be introduced by President Bradford Knapp. The public is invited to this session.

R. V. Miller To Speak

R. V. Miller, secretary of the state seed and plant board, is to speak at 9 o'clock, on field seed certification in Texas. Dr. E. P. Humbert, head of the department of genetics, Texas A. & M., and chairman of the board, will follow and Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station will speak also.

In the afternoon at 1:30 a business meeting of the state certified seed growers association will be held, followed by a meeting of the board.

Film Is To Be Shown

Dr. A. W. Young of the division of agriculture, whose department is sponsoring the sessions, announced a film giving a history of fencing, will be shown at the college in the engineering auditorium at 1 o'clock.

W. M. Pool, jr., Sudan, president of the grain sorghum breeders association, presided yesterday afternoon. President (elect) Oran C. Client of the certified group was unable to speak and Dr. Humbert brought the greetings of the association to the meeting.

Agronomist Is Heard

J. M. Atkins, Denton, an assistant agronomist of the U. S. D. A. and in charge of wheat experimental work in North and Northwest Texas, discussed possibilities of the production of small grains. County Agent D. F. Bredthauer, Floyd county, gave experiences in that county. O. B. Howell, horticulturist at Texas Tech, spoke on growing seed potatoes for certification. Dean A. H. Leidigh discussed the production of certified alfalfa seed in the state and R. E. Dickson, Spur experiment station head, spoke on water conservation.

Besides breeders and farmers, a number of division of agriculture students who did not register, attended.

P. C. (Happy) Colgin, county agent at Swisher county, told of a pasture experiment in his county this year.

Among those present were: W. A. Goeth, Abernathy, a plant board inspector; J. I. Brawley, Littlefield; A. B. Brown, Anton; Lynn West, Wilson; C. G. Howell and A. H. Howell, jr., Bula; G. C. Beakley, Levelland; W. H. Cunningham, Littlefield; James G. Dunn, Lamesa and Harvey Love, Anton, all breeders; County Agent D. W. Sherrill, Levelland and Glenn Burgess, Littlefield Chamber of Commerce secretary were present also.

Feller Family Goes Touring In Bob's Southbound Auto

VAN METER, Iowa, Feb. 11. (AP)—The Feller family is going south Sunday in Bob's big sedan.

The 19-year-old Cleveland pitching star is taking his father and mother and nine-year-old sister, Marguerite, on an automobile trip through the South before he reports at New Orleans, where the Indians begin training February 28.

Bob doesn't hesitate in making a prediction.

"Of course we have a chance to beat the Yankees. If everything goes all right, we'll have the best pitching staff in the league. To me it looks like the Yankees, Tigers and Indians in a hot scrap.

"I wouldn't say how many I'll win, but just put it down that I'm going to be in there pitching and win all I can."

SMU Mustangs Leave For Two Southwest Cage Contests

DALLAS, Feb. 11. (AP) — Coach Forrest (Whitey) Baccus and ten Southern Methodist university varsity basketball players left today for two Southwest conference engagements.

The Methodists meet Rice institute in Houston tomorrow night and play the Texas Aggies at College Station Monday.

Both the Owls and the Cadets have turned in unexpectedly impressive performances of late.

J. D. Coppedge, former Kilgore Junior college athlete, who entered school here this semester, was among those making the road trip. The five-foot-nine-inch transfer, who plays at guard, may see service both games.

Frisco's Bike Riders Could Be In San Angelo By Now

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Sixteen six-day bike riders would catch an early morning snack at a lunch counter in San Angelo, Texas, today, if they were going any place. But they aren't.

They are going around in circles at San Francisco's Dreamland. They've been doing it since Sunday, long enough for the leaders to cover 1,639 miles, which, if laid end to end, would reach from San Francisco to San Angelo.

The leaders, as usual, were the Peden brothers of Vancouver, B. C., the Rodman-Debaets combination from Belgium and Chicago, and the O'Brien-Allen California team.

The city of Venice, Italy, has 175 canals.

Economic Reasons Principal Explanation Of Enlisted Men Seeking Discharge From Army By Purchase; Data On Transactions Given

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. — Economic reasons, war department officials said are the principal explanation of enlisted men seeking to obtain their discharge from the army by purchase.

Many other factors, however, enter into determining the number who take advantage of the plan from year to year, so that the number varies greatly and the trend affords no index to economic conditions.

Re-enlist In Other Branches

Many enlisted men, for example, dissatisfied with conditions and opportunities for advancement or transfer in their stations, obtain discharges by purchase and immediately re-enlist in some other branch of the service.

Officials said figures on re-enlistment of enlisted men discharged by purchase were not available, but the percentage was comparatively high.

Department records show separations from the service by purchase, not including Philippine scouts, totaled 2,285 in 1933, 5,703 in 1934, 3,572 in 1935 and 4,302 in 1936. The available figure for 1937 included Philippine scouts, and totals 8,892.

Only In Peace Time

The regulations authorizing discharge by purchase apply only to enlisted men, and are effective in peace time only.

"All bets are off in wartme," a department official said.

To obtain discharge by purchase, the enlisted man must have served at least one year, must not be undergoing punishment or under charges, and must give a satisfactory reason.

The enlisted man makes his application through regular military channels. Commanders of departments and corps areas are authorized to order the discharge when all conditions are met.

Cost Of Discharge Varies

The cost of discharge by purchase varies according to length of service and the station of the organization to which the applicant belongs. In the United States and Puerto Rico, the price ranges from $120 after one year to $30 after 11 years. In the Philippines and China, from $170 after one year to $80 after 11 years; in Hawaii, from $140 after one year to $50 after 11 years; in Alaska from $165 after one year to $75 after 11 years; and in the Canal Zone from $150 after one year to $60 after 11 years.

The discharge purchase price for Philippine scouts ranges from $60 after one year to $15 after 11 years.

Recompense In Part

Department officials explained the theory of the discharge purchase price was to recompense the army in part for the additional expense involved, but added that actually little money is realized because of various allowances with which the men are credited such as clothing, which are charged off against the discharge purchase price.

Furthermore, it was explained, a part of the purchase price may be remitted when the applicant gives as the reason dependency of near relatives and shows that actual destitution exists and that he has contributed to their support to the extent of his opportunities and abilities. Remission of the entire amount, however, is never authorized.

No Figures Available

Department officials said no figures were available on the actual amount of cash received under the plan. Such money is paid to a finance officer of the army and deposited in the treasury to the credit of one or more of the current appropriations for the support of the army, to be indicated by the secretary of war, to be available for payment of expenses incurred during the year in which the discharge by purchase was made.

It is not the policy of the department, officials said, to permit discharge by purchase where there is a special reason to the contrary, where the applicant offers a trifling reason or no reason, or when he desires his discharge for the purpose of reenlisting in some other organization.

The regular first enlistment period is for three years.

Sixteen Senior High Students Qualify For Quill And Scroll

Sixteen students of Senior High school were notified by letter Thursday that they had qualified for membership in Quill and Scoll, international honorary society for high school journalists, through their work on school publications.

To qualify for the organization a student must make at least a C average grade and accomplish satisfactory work on The Westerner World or the 1938 Westerner.

February 28 has been set as the banquet date when pledges will be initiated. Sycily Roberts, Bill Clark and Robert Castle are in charge of banquet arrangements. Bill Clark is president.

Pledges are: Mary Clare Barnett, Marcella Buster, Doris Stoneham, W. C. Estes, Betty Jean Jones, Marian Hope Read, Adah Love Lubbes, Mary Jim Block, Watson Carlock, Jean Clapp, Arnette Halsey, Marguerite Harris, Shirley Parsons, Dorothy Myers, Onita Bell Hufstedler, Mabel Pruitt, Walter Studhalter, and Alva Wise.

Only juniors and seniors are allowed to be full fledged members of the organization but Lucille Hall and Leon Hughes have qualified as sophomores and will be made neophytes to be taken into the society next year.

Dougg Taitt, Former Nashville Outfielder, To Manage Tyler

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 11. (AP)—Dougg Taitt, hard-hitting former Nashville Vol outfielder, said tonight he had accepted the post of playing manager of the Tyler, Tex., baseball team in the East Texas league.

Taitt, who has been in baseball 15 years, was with the Nashville club in 1934, 1935 and 1936. He was with Memphis last season before joining Williamsport in the New York-Penn. league.

Range Prospects In Texas Improving

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP) — Range prospects are improving rapidly due to early spring weather, the U. S. bureau of agriculture economics reported today.

It said conditions generally were favorable with the exception of a portion of the North Plains area.

"The entire western area has received sufficient moisture to assure spring grass, and range prospects are good in the previously dry south plateau and South Texas areas," the report said.

In the summer dreuth areas ranchers were burning "pear" and pulling mistletoe to carry cattle until spring but other supplemental feeding was light.

The condition of all ranges was 74 per cent of normal Feb. 1, an improvement of three points since January 1. Cattle were 76 per cent of normal, an increase of one per cent, and ewes were coming out of winter in good flesh with prospects for a large spring lamb crop.

Amarillo Men Pay Visit Here Friday At A. B. C. Luncheon

American Business club members yesterday received first hand information about the coming national convention, to be held June 20-22 in Amarillo, from Charles H. Young, club president there, at the luncheon in the Hilton hotel. Young said committees had been named to handle details of the meeting. All clubs in the sixth district, comprising Texas and Oklahoma, will be invited, he added.

President William M. Collins introduced Burton Elliott, B. A. Borum and Harry Dumbell of the Amarillo club.

Clyde Brown, program chairman for the day, presented Howard Green, Bedford Raley, Carol Claiborne, Jack Abbott and A. D. Brown, Sea Scouts and Boy Scouts, who presented a National Scout Week number. Mrs. Jess McIlhaney played two numbers on a vibraharp.

B. B. Williams, of a sub-committee named to decide on sponsoring a Boy Scout troop in the Mexican center, reported favorably. The report was adopted. Earl Hunt and Bruce Craig were other members.

Mayor LaGuardia Of New York Invited To Address W. T. C. C.

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 11. (AP)—Fiorello H. LaGuardia, mayor of New York City, has been invited to speak here April 26, second day of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, but his acceptance was uncertain.

His office in New York said he had not yet decided whether he could make the trip to Texas, but it was understood here that LaGuardia would be on the program.

W. D. Cline, Wichita Falls oil man and West Texas Chamber of Commerce executive committeeman, estimated there would be 5,000 delegates and 25,000 guests at the convention.

B. M. WADE HURT

BROWNFIELD, (Special)—B. M. Wade, of the Tokio community, was injured while he and a hired hand were preparing to butcher a hog. The first shot at the hog, fired by the employe, failed to down the animal, so he started to fire again. The gun was discharged and the charge entered the top of Wade's foot near the ankle. Wade will be able to walk in a short time.

Guarding The City's Health

MEMBERS of the City commission announce plans for an early meeting to consider the sewage disposal problem in connection with increased numbers of "trailer type" houses which have been the regrettable though natural result of Lubbock's growth.

The Morning Avalanche need not remind gentlemen of the commission that in their studies they will deal with the most precious possession any city may have—its public health. Our suggestion that they proceed with utmost caution is, of course, unnecessary.

Anyone who observes the problem is one of growing seriousness. Any observer knows—including the commissioners—there are violations of present ordinances which require a sewage connection for any place of abode within 100 feet of a sewer line. They know that most of the violators are occupants of huts, shacks and other small structures, many of excellent construction, falling within the general category of "trailer type" houses.

It is the fact of those violations which once more has brought the jubject of sewage connections to the fore of official consideration. The commission has been asked to permit the placement of a number of trailer type houses on residential property to be served by a common water closet where facilities also would be provided for disposal of dishwater and similar waste. The promoters argue that although it would be violating the law, the violations would not be as aggravated as many now existing. The Morning Avalanche grants that fact to be true.

HOWEVER, we are vigorously opposed to the granting of the concession asked. If our present sewage connection ordinance has any major fault, it is in being insufficiently rigid. If there are violations—which there are—they would not be reasons to excuse others even of lesser degree.

Furthermore we do not believe a common sewage center for several trailer house families would be used. Too often the dish water and other more extreme hazards to health would merely be flung out the back door, from there to seep into the strata from which Lubbock derives its drinking water.

Likewise those to whom the commission might grant the inch are apt to attempt to take the proverbial mile. Most of the beneficiaries of any concession would be transient or semi-transient type. Few of them have any real interest in the welfare of the city. Why should they be granted any privilege which might endanger the family whose entire welfare is intertwined with that of the city?

The Avalanche recognizes, of course, that some provision should be made for trailer camps. But it should be a place where a time limit on residence would be limited. Likewise it should be a place where health regulations would be under more constant observation and be more rigorously enforced than any other spot in the city. We like visitors, of course, but we don't want them to bring pestilence or leave contamination.

But giving approval to grouped habitations of semi-permanent nature about a common privy is an entirely different proposition. Any neighborhood, no matter how modest, should rise on its hind legs and howl, so to speak, against the location of any such arrangement in its midst. And if their howling isn't loud enough, we'll be glad to lend voice to the chorus.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

ROYAL ROMANCE

Royal romance came very late in life to King William I of Holland (1772-1843). He came to the throne in 1815 and ruled his country for 25 years. Then at the age of 68 (1840), he fell in love with a commoner Henriette d'Oultremont, who was 48 years old. For the love of this 48 year-old woman, the 68 year-old King gave up his throne and country to go to live as an exile in Prussia with the "woman he loved." He only survived his abdication for 3 years, but he never regretted this step, which deeply affected his Dutch subjects and caused as big a furore as the abdication of Edward VIII in our own time.

Empire For A Lady

By Alan LeMay
C. By The Associated Press

SYNOPSIS: A widespread revolt of savage Dyak tribes makes it impossible for my uncle, James Clyde, to run guns to the besieged rajah, his client. A further complication is the presence of the Forresters' yawl, the Avon, in tropical Balingong bay. Christine and her brother, Robert, blankly refuse to leave because they are completing a "plan" of their dead father. Unwilling to quit the island with the young English girl in danger, we are attempting to reach Rajah Mantusen up-river.

Chapter Six
Up The Siderong

That first slow, unearthly approach into the mouth of the Siderong was like nothing in my past experience in the islands.

Since I had been with James Clyde we had felt a few breaths of action. There had been a couple of dark nights in uncertain anchorage when I waited on watch, suspecting every shadow on the water—with good reason. There can be a great tensity in that, while you wait, trying to make your eyes do more than they were able to do in the heavy, hot dark. A few random shots had come of those nights, followed by a great flurry of defense out of proportion to the actual danger. Or was it out of proportion? We never knew how many enemies there had been; or how easily they might have taken the Linkang. But never before anything like this.

Out here at the anchorage the water was deep and blue, with the living, electric blue that you never see anywhere except in the tropics. But the mouth of the Siderlong—it slid brown and heavy into the bay, faintly discoloring the water all about it. It was like the river laid of polished teak.

Its first reach was broad and lake-like, ending in a blank turn. After that the river belonged to the jungle. There was something terribly still and empty—something weirdly bleak and unwholesome, like the sad, empty anteroom to a tomb, about that vast first reach.

We moved with a steady, even rhythm, workmanlike and unhurried. Nondescript scum though they might be called, those men had a firm deep grip unon the essentials of the work that they did. Methodically, they put the whaleboat toward the mouth of that unfriendly river—simply because James Clyde told them to do it, and it was James Clyde who paid their wage.

Hundreds Of Eyes

When I was not watching my course, my eyes were upon James Clyde's face. He was looking at the Avon. I wanted to turn that way too; but I stiffened, and would not permit it. Watching my uncle's face, I could all but sense the moment when Christine Forrester came to the rail of the Avon. I could not entirely read the veiling of James Clyde's eyes, and his mouth; but I knew that she was there. So did the rest; every oar in the boat was inevitably very much aware of her. They stroked more cleanly and pulled harder because they knew that a girl was looking on.

Clyde said. "Keep to the middle of the stream, Mr. Thorne. No man will lay hand on a weapon unless I give the word. Cut down your stroke; I want no hurry."

We pulled across Siderong bar, and up that first long lake-like reach; and gradually, as we did this, the insistent clamor of the agongs died away. We saw no one yet, but we knew that hundreds of eyes must be watching us nevertheless.

I kept calculating what we could do to defend ourselves if the Dyaks should close upon us. In actual effect our weapons could not accomplish much. At stern and bow, where Clyde and I could reach them, lay three rifles apiece, muzzle-loading cap-lock guns, good for only a single shot. Once they were fired there would never be time to load them again. With these we could hope to pick off three or four of the chiefs.

There were also a couple of double-barreled shotguns, loaded with enough lead to blow them up, and eight pairs of the new cap-and-ball six-shooters, slotted in racks under the thwarts so as not to disturb the caps. Most of the Dyaks were getting used to firearms by this time, but a lot of their first dread of them remained, and some of them could be counted on to break and flee before the explosion of the guns.

If they did not break and flee, then we were through. A hundred shots will not clear a river that is suddenly swarming with 100 war praus. Each of our men had between his feet a parang, or a hanger, or a kris, but these were only for that queer comfort which comes from feeling that at least you are not completely helpless as the finish comes. If the Dyak praus closed, bristling with the long barbed, rod-pointed spears, our blades would be no more use than a bunch of mops.

Something Queer And Wrong

The first open reach was three-quarters of a mile, though it seemed much more. We reached the end of it at last, and wheeled slowly through the deep turn. After the first bend, the river twisted continuously; and in its second winding we made our first actual contact with the Dyaks.

A 20 paddle prau, about three quarters manned, was drifting along about half way out from shore. They must have known of our approach while we were a long way off; but they appeared to have no plan. At sight of us they turned and shot the canoe against the barricading roots of the pagapat, where they hung on, watching sullenly.

I studied the prau, for it had a queer type of figure-head, never seen in the river Siderong; obviously that prau had come from many days away.

As I saw that, I was overwhelmed by an awful sense of the magnitude of this revolt. I was just beginning to realize why the towering jungle held so many drums. Here was a Dyak conspiracy more widespread than any of us would have conceived possible. Nothing short of a miracle can bring even two or three Dyak pangirans together; yet here were fighting men from all the north coast of Sumantang.

Once more it was forced in upon me that something was queer and wrong about this whole situation. It was all very well for Clyde to say that what was wrong was that the Avon did not know its business. There was something else.

There was something else—and the people of the Avon knew what it was. Perhaps they did not know their business, and perhaps they did not even understand what they knew. Yet the conviction was firm in my mind that Christine Forrester possessed some all-important information that we did not.

"Hold it," my uncle said.

The eight oars lifted clear of the water and hung there, while he listened. The uncanny silence that had come over the jungle continued.

Clyde said. "Pull on a little more."

The oars dipped and the boat moved slowly up-stream again, tentative and uncertain.

Will the silence of the jungle be broken. Tuesday.

Monahans And Barstow Must Start From Scratch Again

PECOS, Feb. 11. (AP)—The cities of Monahans and Barstow, which have been wrangling for months over the location of the Ward county seat, must start from scratch again.

Judge J. A. Drane has voided the November election upon the agreement of opposing council, in which the county voted 1149 to 467 for removing the courthouse to Monahans.

The election was challenged on the grounds it violated a statute requiring that ten years elapse between county seat elections, and that there had been misconduct at the polls.

Barstow attempted to disqualify sufficent votes to give a victory.

The judgment left the courthouse at Barstow and gave Monahans the priviledge of calling another election if it desires.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S utilization of so-called experts has brought to the capital a cabinet that was neither elected nor appointed to office. It has virtually supplanted his regular staff of advisers.

Though his name rarely appears in the news columns as a White House guest, Roving Ambassador Norman H. Davis is F.D.R.'s foreign affairs expert; he slips into the mansion after dark. Edward F. McGrady is the President's liaison man with important labor groups, while Messrs. Richberg, Tugwell and Berle perform the same chores on the other side of the street. Ex-Counsel Samuel Roseman of Albany advises on legal matters, and Son James handles the personal politicking.

Cabinet meetings, as a result, have become humdrum affairs. They last only an hour or so, and no serious business is discussed. On both the foreign and domestic front the President frequently enunciates policies which his special adviser in that field first hears of when he reads his morning newspaper.

BUILDUP: The Kennedy-for-President boom has been launched in a big but silent way.

The suggestion that F.D.R. was grooming the Boston boy for 1940 by sending him to London, with the Treasury cabinet job in the offing, provoked howls of laughter when it was first broached on Capitol Hill. The obvious political reply was that a Roman Catholic from Massachusetts could not become President of the United States. The same objection, incidentally, has been raised against National Chairman Farley. It is chiefly based on Al Smith's unhappy experience in 1928.

But Western and Southern Democrats friendly to "Joe" and "Jim" insist that their religion would be no bar these days. They argue that Al was defeated, not because of his Catholicism, but because of his avowed wetness, his Tammany connections, his accent and appearance. They contend that a non-drinking, non-Tammany fellow like Kennedy might make it. And the quiet buildup for "Joe" as a rival to Robert H. Jackson has been started. They are talking already of a "business man's ticket," with a man named Jones for V. P. The Mister Jones they're whispering about comes from Texas.

BLUEPRINTS: The Anglo-French-American note to Japan fooled nobody in the diplomatic know at Washington. It was a threat rather than a request for official or unofficial information on Japan's naval program.

If the three notes meant what they said, they would imply that the naval intelligence services of the trio of western powers had collapsed—that they hadn't been able to ferret out Japanese naval secrets—what kind of ships Tokyo is building and how many. The fact is, of course, that we have blueprint information on the vessels now laid down and under discussion in the Far East. We know that Japan is building war vessels above the treaty limits.

The inside reason for the questionnaire is that it will place the blame for the impending naval race directly on Tokyo. Mr. Roosevelt, for instance, can inform the American Congress that the Japs have forced his hand—that his $300,000,000 naval program is a result rather than a cause.

PREPARING: American naval officers have clamped down a rigid system of secrecy and censorship since the bombing of the Panay. It reflects their grave concern over world affairs.

In former years the navy welcomed—even begged for—the presence of reporters and photographers at the annual war games in the Pacific. But this year it is still doubtful whether news and camera men will be permitted to accompany the fleet. Their requests were submitted weeks ago, but so far no reply has been forthcoming. No longer will navy press officers permit visitors, including reporters, to interview members of the high command. They must be accredited and introduced beforehand. A stranger who gets lost in the corridors of the intelligence, communications or operations sections is immediately accosted by an orderly, and asked to give an account of himself.

Not since 1917 has such an atmosphere of suspicion darkened the capital. Even more than belligerent notes and building programs for the army and navy, these chip-on-the-shoulder regulations substantiate private reports that war is just around the corner. When the navy fights the press, it means that it's preparing to fight somebody more important.

300: President Roosevelt may not appreciate "Jim" Farley's popularity with the party rank and file, but a score of Democratic gubernatorial candidates know how much his backing means. Their off-the-record dickerings with "Jim" may sew up the next convention—for him. Here's what is happening behind important backs:

In various states—California, Ohio, Kentucky, New York, Massachusetts—there are rival candidates for the gubernatorial nomination who figure that Mr. F.'s blessing might provide the margin they need. So, through emissaries, they have let him know that if he backs them in their hour of political need—1938—they will line up in his corner in 1940. And nobody can dominate delegates to a national convention so completely as the governor of a state.

If "Jim" is smart—if he happens to pick winners in these various contests for local honors—and if the beneficiaries keep their promises—he may easily enter the 1940 convention as the outstanding favorite—with at least 300 delegates for him on the first ballot. Anybody who discounts the big boy's chances next time doesn't know American politics—or "Jim."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

WE have all the essentials of home-building recovery except buyers." So says a national authority, and informed New Yorkers echo a loud amen. Careful scouting in various sections of the country discloses no eager demand for new homes, except in the case of subsidized slum clearance projects which will not attract the investment of private capital.

There is strong circumstantial evidence that the average American, even in the lower income brackets, prefers an automobile to better living quarters. The badly frozen condition of both new and used car markets attests that even our voracious appetite for personal transportation is sated for the present. The slash in mass purchasing power due to the recession is a factor in that—and likely to be a much greater factor in discouraging the purchase of new homes.

Passage of the housing bill didn't raise a ripple in Wall Street, because literally no one with any knowledge of the situation expects even a half-pint "boom" to result. At best it can only encourage building of the most speculative kind—real estate promotions in suburban districts.

BENEFITS: Federal Housing Administrator Nathan Straus announces that his office will seek to foster the construction of two and four-family dwellings in outlying areas, grouped in community patterns, to which present slum dwellers can be moved. He prefers this to large new apartment buildings in city slum districts.

That's good news to owners of undeveloped suburban property. On Long Island, for instance, there are indications that quite a few smart lawyers and shrewd speculators have picked up large plots of real estate for the proverbial song. They hope to unload it—at a fat profit—on the New York City housing program, which will be aided by federal funds.

Apart from cagy speculators and subsidized tenants, the chief beneficiaries of the H.A. program will be the suppliers of cement, lumber, plumbing, etc. The latter did their bit in promoting the ballyhoo that helped to put the plan over. Insiders understand such companies were quietly tipped off that they would be highly regarded when it came to awarding contracts if they cooperated in this way, whereas they would be out of luck if they did not.

Side Glances---By George Clark

"Last time I tried on a dress I had to take it—I couldn't get it off."

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says all people feel the same pride and shame. The trouble comes when they are proud of the wrong things and ashamed of the wrong things.

ALWAYS interested in the hotel business, albeit not in an academic way, The Plainsman the other day cornered Mr. George Zarafonitis in conversation and came up with several interesting items.

According to Mr. Zarafonitis, who is maitre de hotel (coffee shop boss, in plain West Texas) at Mr. Connie Hilton's big boarding house, the people who run hotels know pretty much what the score is regarding each and every guest. The guy who thinks he can flimflam the innkeeper, 99 times out of 100 is kidding himself.

Today's hostelry has an espionage system of such scope and efficiency as to make the Russian OGPU turn green with envy. By the time everybody from the chambermaid to the manager apply the professional eye to the guest, the auditor has a pretty fair idea of how long to let him remain without presenting a bill; whether or not he is slipping somebody in to share his room registered for as a "single"; from his baggage and belongings his general economic state, and a lot of other points which need not be mentioned in the paper.

According to what we wormed out of the darkly handsome Mr. Zarafonitis, there is a surprisingly large percentage of eating customers—especially young smarts of both sexes—who delight in swiping pieces of silverware for "souvenirs". That habit worries maitres de hotel no end.

Another thing that interested The Plainsman no little was Mr. Z's solemn assurance that while it may look easy to walk nonchalantly out of a hotel without paying up, it is no cinch—even in the big joints. The lads and lassies who work for hotels seemingly have a sixth sense and can tell at 40 paces if the guest is a gypper.

ALSO cleared up for The Plainsman was something about hotels which has been puzzling him for years. It's how a smiling bellhop is always waiting at the elevator when you try to bring your own bag down to check out.

Male guests in a hurry frequently decide to tote their own grips from their rooms to the cashier's desk. Accordingly, they enter the elevator, with bag in hand, on the trip down.

The elevator operator, unknown to the grip-toting guest, pokes a button just under the elevator lever and the call is recorded on a hootus adjacent to the bellhops' bench. As a result, a bellhop is always on hand when the elevator hits the ground floor level and the door is slid open.

Darned clever, those hotel folks.

MAYBE he is overly suspicious, but The Plainsman smells a rat—a great, big well fed rat—in connection with the March of Time's latest movie release.

Currently showing at the Palace, the edition of Time magazine's news reel deals with Nazi Germany. It is interesting, all right, but nothing in it is new. It is merely a photographic conglomeration of regimentation under Hitler, of which everyone who knows what time it is has thoroughly realized and understood for a long, long time.

The odor of rodents which The Plainsman believes he detects is in connection with a great hullabaloo which was raised when the film first was released a couple of weeks ago.

Claiming that the film was propaganda for Nazism and for Adolf Hitler, a Jewish owner of scores of theaters waxed wrathy—in the public prints and in Time magazine—claiming that the release would be barred in all his houses.

Henry Luce, president of Time, Life and the March of Time, was quoted in defense of the film as being "merely pictorial news and a factual presentation of what is going on in Germany."

Another Jewish owner of another big string of movie houses leaped into the verbal fray in support of Luce and with the contention that the film, if propaganda in any form, is detrimental to Nazism and to fascism in general.

And the gullible public, smacking its lips over the controversy, dug down into its jeans to take a peek at the picture so one and all might form an opinion, one way or another.

AS The Plainsman sees it, the current March of Time treatment of Nazi Germany is entirely innocuous.

Certainly there is nothing in the film to recommend Nazism to the American movie public; nothing more is said about the persecution of Jews than is said about the hand-in-hand persecution of Christian religions which also is a popular pastime with the fanatics of the Hitler regime.

And not a single new point concerning Nazism is brought out in the picture; it is simply a repetition of what every informed person has known for several years.

It looks to us like the movie people and Mr. Luce pulled a fast one on the newspapers and their readers.

Some smart press agent had his head up!

That Man on Avenue Q says a new night photo of the Department of Interior building shows all the windows lighted. It seems the boys have an extra CCC camp left over in a trial balance.

THE Texas department of the American legion is considerably upset over the unemployed man of over 40.

As a result, every legion post in the state is to be active in a campaign to find jobs for unemployed veterans who, while in the prime of life, are unable to compete for jobs against the younger generation.

That is a worthy undertaking but one likely to come to naught, unless legionnaire employers set an example for the rest of the business men of the state.

The Plainsman, neither 40 nor unemployed, never-the-less has sympathy for the unemployed citizen on the other side of that age.

Like a great many others, he believes that the man in the 40-to-50 age bracket is a good risk for the employer in many lines of work—often a better risk than his young rival of a more skittish age.

But unless the man in the 40-50 period has a specialty for which he is trained and experienced, he is in a bad way, legion campaign or no legion campaign. His opportunities of landing a job are thus so decreased that he is bound to have tough sledding.

AMONG the many employers of all kinds in Texas there are many ex-service men—many of whom also are members of the legion.

If the Department of Texas is going to be successful in its laudable effort to help the forgotten man of more than 40, those ex-service and legionnaire employers are going to have to take the lead and to set the example.

If they will do that—if they will do no more than simply give the man of over 40 an even break with the younger applicant—the campaign can be successful and many worthy men will be given a hand up.

But if they do not, there is no incentive for the other employer to play ball.

Isn't that right, Commander Jackson of the Lubbock post?

OFFERS BURIAL PLAN

Editor, The Avalanche: After studying the needs of our old people of Texas for the past several years, and their needs and the great need of our old age pension checks is going for us aged who are needy, I have worked out a plan that I believe would help every recepient of old age assistance in Texas. I am submitting an old age pension burial association, operated through the county office.

Every aged person in Texas who draws a pension is needy and most of them practically all of them, are without funds to pay their burial expenses if they were to suddenly pass on. Few have children able to meet these funeral expenses. In fact, in a number of cases, either friends of the deceased or the county or state is called on to pay their last expenses. Why not let the state of Texas set aside about 50 cents each month to start a burial association and accumulate money to put away for aged of this county? This small amount could be held out of each monthly check, would hardly be missed and every old person could be sure that he will be taken care of in his last hours without working a great a hardship on his relatives and friends. I have been receiving assistance for about 17 months, and I certainly would not object to paying out 50 cents each month toward a fund for my burial expenses.

I wish the old people of Texas would get behind this plan and get the legislature, at its next session, to enact it. The state can operate this burial fund at a small cost and in a manner which will mean no financial embarassment to our children or friends when we have been called on to pay our last Great Debt. Speak to me on this plan.

To Decide On Rail Rates Increase Demands On March 1

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission probably will decide the railroads' demand for higher rates about March 1, informed observers predicted today.

The roads contended, in hearings which closed yesterday, that only a 15 per cent raise in freight rates to meet increased costs would solve their financial problems.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 24 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Just how we do it doesn't matter, but I'm raring to get out of here before next month." Troll exclaimed; "that's when they draw lots for the human sacrifice to that big diamond they worship. And after the sacrifice—well, one of us will just be missing."

. . . . The plotting captives would have been dismayed had they known what was happening even at this moment to one who sought freedom from the land of the Kaji. Stanley Wood was struggling, fighting heroically to keep himself advancing toward the outer world.

No physical handicaps impeded him; but there was in his mind that terrific urge to turn back. Was it the enchantment of the beautiful Queen? Or was it the mystic powers of Mafka operating on him like a powerful magnet? At any rate, his footsteps grew slower.

He summoned the full force of his will to counteract the malign influence. But finally he dropped, as though dragged down by an invisible weight. He crawled an inch by inch, fighting desperately. . . Then, with a gasp, he fell full length—and lay still!

MASTER PSYCHOLOGIST

To obtain your heart's desire, see the World's greatest Psychologist, Reader and Healer—gives advice on business and personal affairs. Tells what business or profession best adapted for; teaches mental science, personal magnetism, how to control, fascinate and get the desire of your heart; how to make a person at a distance think of you. Tells you when and whom you will marry and how to win the man or woman you love even though miles away. Settles lovers quarrels, reunites the separated. Has brought about more marriages, reunited more separated, than any other Psychologist in America.

SMALL VOLUME CRAWLS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—Stock market leaders crawled through the slowest session in three years today and most were moderately lower at the close.

Transfers totalled 387,210 shares, the smallest volume for a 5-hour day since Feb. 15, 1935. It compared with 613,760 shares yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .2 of a point at 43.8.

With tomorrow a holiday for the stock exchange, most traders remained in neutral territory.

There was little from Washington to sharpen either the buying or selling appetite and news from the business front, while not especially disturbing, lacked speculative inspiration.

Steels and rails led the list on a forward tilt at the opening. Early advances running to a point or so, though, were soon reduced or cancelled.

Cotton . .

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11. (AP) — After fluctuating narrowly cotton rallied in late trading today under increased trade demand and last prices were steady at net advances of 2 to 5 points.

Advices from Washington indicating that an attempt to send the farm bill back to conference had been defeated and that a final vote was likely later in the day, bolstered sentiment towards the close.

The trade furnished most of the demand by fixing prices at the start and on the scale-down. Shorts covered for over the week-end and in advance of the holiday tomorrow in most American markets. The local market, however, will be open as usual.

March contracts closed at 8.86, May at 8.93, July at 9.00, Oct. at 9.06-bid, Dec. at 9.09-bid and Jan. at 9.11.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—Cotton ruled steady today as the trade awaited senate action on the farm bill. May recovered from 8.77@8.83 and closed at 8.81, with final prices 2 to 6 points net higher.

Prices moved over a narrow range during the greater part of the day. This inaction was regarded as indicating the previous rally of about $1.50 a bale had discounted the status of the farm bill to date.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.82 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.63 cents a pound.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—With a double holiday starting tomorrow, wheat traders showed a pronounced disposition to keep to the sidelines today, and the market went fractionally downhill.

About the sole supporting influence for wheat values here was export purchasing of 400,000 bushels of North American wheat, partly Canadian. There was sharp notice taken that Australian shipments to overseas were much larger than either last week or a year ago.

Possibilities of moisture relief for dry districts of United States winter crop territory were a factor that as well as increased supplies from Australia tended to bring about wheat price setbacks. One estimate figured Australia could export 17,500,000 bushels more wheat than at this time last year.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ¼ to ⅝ under yesterday's finish, May 94⅝@94¾, July 90½@90⅝, corn unchanged to ¼ up, May 59⅞@60, July 61, oats unchanged to ⅛ off, rye ½ to ¾ down, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents lower.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11. (AP)—Demand was fair for wheat here today but slow for other light offerings. Estimated receipts: wheat 14 cars, corn 11, oats 1, and sorghums 9.

Hundred-Ton Dead Whale Is Washed Up On Beach

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11. (AP)—A 100-ton dead whale drifted ashore on San Francisco's No. 1 scenic beach today, apparently the victim of its own wanderings during a prolonged storm.

Its appearance near the south head of the Golden Gate, traditional graveyard of ships, relieved coast guardsmen who had been cruising the bay for a week with orders to destroy the errant monster as a menace to navigation.

Whaling Expert Consulted

By washing ashore, the whale moved from federal to municipal jurisdiction, to the disgust of the city administration. The city health director, Dr. J. C. Geiger, consulted a whaling expert with a view to having the body cut into sections and "reduced."

The bluish-gray carcass of the California gray whale, about 50 feet long, showed signs of a battering. Maritime men said it might have collided with a big ship, thus receiving mortal wounds.

May Not Be Same

Whether the whale was the same one reported sighted in various parts of San Francisco bay the past week remained in doubt. Capt. L. L. Lane, who first reported sighting the bay monster, said it was not the dead one. Coast guardsmen searched the East Bay area without result this afternoon after a whale had been reported sighted there, several hours after the carcass had washed ashore near the Golden Gate.

Assuming the carcass to be that of the whale which had been worrying small craft in the harbor, mariners said it probably sought and found the channel leading to the open sea after being stricken.

Several years ago the city, confronted with a dead whale on another beach, assigned the fire department to destroy it by burning. The resultant odor was so offensive that the fire had to be extinguished and the carcass carried away piecemeal.

Purpose of Monday night's banquet, as outlined by officials, is to "get acquainted."

Vote On Bill Is Set

sure the conflicting bill passed earlier by the two houses. The report had been approved by the house.

Controversy Is Settled

Preliminary to final action, the senate settled a controversy that has run throughout the history of the bill: whether to prevent farmers from going into the dairying or cattle raising business on land retired from the production of major crops. Members from cattle and dairy states had clamored for such a provision.

The restriction was included in the original bills passed by both houses, but was missing when the conference report came in. In its place was a provision that farmers could engage in "normal" dairying. The report was immediately challenged on the ground the conferees had violated rules of congress by the exclusion of language approved by both branches.

Schwellenbach Enters Point

Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash) entered a point of order against the conference report. Vice President Garner overruled it. Senator Duffy (D-Wis) appealed the decision, and the senate voted down the dairy and cattle state senators.

In the debate which preceded the ballot, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) charged that the conferees "never intended" to retain the original provision, despite the fact, he added, that "it was the purpose of congress not to create a surplus on livestock by reducing the surplus in other crops." Lands "now devoted to wheat, cotton, corn, rice and tobacco would be devoted to livestock production," he said.

McNary Expresses View

Senator McNary (R-Ore), the Republican leader, asserted that if the point of order were overruled, congress might as well turn the writing of legislation over to conference committees in the first place.

Administration leaders, urging that the point of order be defeated, argued that otherwise the bill would have to be sent back to conference, and that there would be more delay before it could be finally enacted. The vote in their favor encouraged them to believe the conference report would be approved by a sizeable majority.

Predicting the measure would "plague first its intended beneficiaries and then its authors," Vandenberg said it had been "condemned by the farmes themselves speaking through America's oldest farm organization," the National Grange.

East Texas Fugitives

and late Friday night officers had been unable to determine if the suspects had left there or not. They had not received reports of any more stolen cars.

Descriptions Broadcast

Descriptions of Burnett, 41, and Johnson, 33, who were believed to be the fugitives, were broadcast to all law enforcement officers of this area, said Bill Mabray, police identifications officer.

Burnett is five feet nine inches tall, weighs between 145 and 155 pounds, and has a red complexion. Johnson weighs approximately 225 pounds and is about six feet three inches tall. He is blond.

Burnett is a convicted robber and Johnson has been convicted of forgery at Sulphur Springs and Mt. Pleasant, according to Hopkins County Attorney William J. Fanning.

Others In Break Listed

Others who broke when Constable C. F. Withers was feeding prisoners in the jail and was knocked in the head by the prisoners were Nowell Baker alias J. S. Brooks, convicted burglar at Sulphur Springs and Abilene; Harold Franklin Kerns, about 22, convicted burglar at Sulphur Springs and Abilene; and Paul Sloan, about 18, charged with burglary.

Sheriff Dick Gregory of Colorado, Mitchell county sheriff, said the Seymour automobile was abandoned on the outskirts of Colorado by two men whose descriptions given by a youth there coincided with those of the two fugitives from Sulphur Springs. The youth had been asked by the men to watch the car when they left it. They started walking west toward the city, he said. The automobile was out of gasoline.

Gregory said an exhaustive search had revealed no trace of the men, and he expressed belief they had caught a ride west.

Officers here were of the opinion the men would continue west on the Bankhead highway but saw possibility of their coming toward Lubbock.

Fog Blankets Galveston Harbor And Keeps Ships Outside Port

GALVESTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—Fog blanketed Galveston harbor during most of the past three or four days had an estimated 30 or 35 ships anchored outside the harbor and in Bolivar Roads today, waiting for clear weather.

This afternoon Galveston-Texas City pilots were waiting for six overdue ships believed anchored in the fog, and Houston was waiting for 15 vessels. In addition, there were a large number of other ships which do not take pilots waiting to enter the harbor.

Today ships moved fairly freely between Galveston and Houston.

The delay caused by fog here this week has been made especially serious by the large number of grain ships now coming to Galveston and Texas City to load.

"Boss" was 80 today but he was so busy reading proof and cutting copy for the Times Herald, where he has been employed more than a half century, he didn't have time to say much except to report everything under control.

State's Workers Protected Now

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Although none welcomes an accident, 6,500 highway department workers are now protected against injury while on the job by a new workman's compensation law.

The new statute, effective Jan. 1, permits the department to use up to three and one-half per cent of its labor pay roll for reimbursing workmen who lose time due to accidents on the job and pay dependents of those killed accidentally.

Could Not Pay Before

E. M. Belcher, director of the insurance division, says prior to effectiveness of the law the state could not pay a cent to a highway worker who lost a finger or received an injury, minor or serious.

One of the chief duties of the division is that of safety education or accident prevention and to that end it instructs all workers how to eliminate risk from their duties. Compensation is payable only to those who met physical qualities demanded by their type of work. Only 2 per cent of those on the payroll failed to meet eligibility requirements, Belcher reports.

Age No Barrier

None were discharged for age—and some are more than 60. The attorney general ruled that although workers had to meet certain physical standards for each job there was no prohibition against switching a man to another type of work if he failed to measure up to requirements of that at which he was working when the law became effective.

Belcher says the most difficult part of his work is notifying an employe he must be dropped from the payroll because he can not meet stipulations of the law but, on the other hand, his conscience is calmed in the realization that such a worker, if continued as any employe, would be a first-chance victim of an accident, perhaps fatal.

nostrums. It needs the common sense of good nursing.

"It needs the joint help of labor, of management, of capital, of consumers, of all citizens, and of the government, that is our government, if we are to go ahead for the common good."

He warned labor and capital to "guard against a fettering of freedom even when friendly hands offer a kindly bondage."

"Labor recognizes," Green declared, "that unless capital is allowed the opportunity to make reasonable profits, collective bargaining will be rendered useless and of no avail.

"Labor no less than capital demands that every sound endeavor which has economic utility be allowed to function and not be stifled or destroyed by government fiat, whether given through the taxing power, through restrictive legislation, or through discrimination."

Discussing labor relations, Green indicted "certain self-constituted leaders of labor" for "misrepresentations."

He did not mention by name either the C. I. O. or its chieftain, John L. Lewis.

He asserted crews of the other boats boarded the Nantucket and "the first thing they did was to smash the wireless aerial. Then they arrested me and took control of the ship, taking her to Palma. At Palma we were forced to discharge the oil cargo."

After he was put in jail, Lewis said, he did not see any of the crew again until the sixteenth day when he was freed. The insurgents took him to Cadiz by seaplane where he was told the Nantucket Chief was waiting for him at Malaga.

When he boarded the tanker at Malaga, he said, he found the same crew and proceeded to Gibraltar. The vessel was scheduled to sail for Texas tonight.

Former Senator Watson Says There Must Be Indivilualism

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 11. (AP)—Former Senator James A. Watson of Indiana declared tonight a nation of "kept and coddled" people cannot long remain a nation.

"If the human race is to survive," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at a celebration of the 129th birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, "there must be individualism and competition."

Sharing the platform with Watson, former Governor Pat M. Neff of Texas spoke on the Civil war president's personality. An American Legion parade to Lincoln's tomb, under leadership of National Commander Daniel J. Doherty, will highlight the ceremonies tomorrow.

Denver Zoo Official Plans To Restore Pete's Self-Respect; To Provide Him With Mate

DENVER, Feb. 11 (AP)—City Zoo Superintendent Clyde Hull bustled around today trying to restore the self-respect of Pete the Pelican.

Pete's rugged individualism crumbled yesterday.

Pete, who all winter had rustled enough fish to fill his bill—it holds as much as they say—didn't catch a single fish. The ice had been cleared from his fishing spot on city park lake, but Pete just ran around looking stupid. Then he showed up with the ducks and the swans for a handout, ending the example of self-reliance he long had set for the flock.

Hill and Keeper J. C. Mason speculated that the unseasonable spring-like weather had made Pete lonesome, and they resolved to obtain a mate for him, possibly from the Salt Lake City Zoo. Then, maybe, he will go back to fishing, they said.

January sales to consumers in the United States amounted to 63,069 units, compared with 89,682 in December, and 92,998 in January a year ago.

MORE SEED CRUSHED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—The census bureau reported today that cottonseed crushed in the six-month period, Aug. 1 to Jan. 31, totaled 4,322,085 tons, compared with 3,364,155 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Cottonseed on hand at mills January 31 totaled 1,439,194 tons, compared with 880,640 a year ago.

Linters produced 982,887 running bales, compared with 817,595, and on hand, 461,494 running bales, compared with 209,475.

Plans Of Allred Are No Factor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Ernest O. Thompson, Texas Railroad commissioner and chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact commission, gave fresh evidence today that he is in the governor's race to stay regardless of Governor James V. Allred's decision on running for a third term.

While Allred was on a Washington trip to which political significance has ben attached despite his denial, Thompson handed the state Democratic executive committee the $100 necessary to get his name on the ballot in the party primary July 23.

First To File Fee

He thus became the first gubernatorial aspirant to make official filing. Attorney Generall William McCraw is a certain candidate and Rep. Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth has announced on a liberal old age pension platform.

"I asked no one's permission to enter the governor's race," Thompson said. "No one asked me to run. Many of my friends tried to dissuade me. I made up my mind to fight for the office and will be in there to the finish."

Opinion remained divided on whether Allred would try to shatter precedent and obtain a third term. His jousts with McCraw in recent weeks have led some persons to speculate he may run if he concludes he would be the hardest candidate for McCraw to beat.

Thompson said he had not arranged any political conference with Allred.

Modern Airport Is Planned For Nuevo Laredo, General Reports

LAREDO, Feb. 11. (AP)—A modern airport with two hangars and a modern lighting system to accommodate night flying will be established at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, opposite Laredo, General Manuel Avila Camacho, Mexico's secretary of war, announced after a visit to Nuevo Laredo recently.

He also visited the Mexican military garrison in Nuevo Laredo in company with General Leopold Dorantes, the commander, and announced he would immediately arrange for the construction of two large additional barracks.

These improvements by the Mexican war department will be in addition to others planned for Nuevo Laredo by the Mexican government to provide better facilities for handling tourists and also for civic improvements in the city.

More Than Quarter-Million Crows Killed In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11. (AP)—More than a quarter-million crows have been killed by dynamite bombs exploded in their roosts this year by the state game and fish department, Ranger Bill Gaines of Darlington estimated today.

Gaines was assigned by Warden K. D. Turner to take charge of loading the bombs and rigging them in the blackjack thickets where the birds gather at night.

Date On Silver Cup Given At Birth Taken As Pensions Data

MONTPELIER, Vt., Feb. 11. (AP)—Most persons, when asked to prove their age, rely on birth certificates, affidavits or the family Bible—but here's a new one, a silver cup presented at birth. The state department in charge of old age assistance, said today it accepted such an article, bearing the date, April 10, 1867, from a woman who applied for aid but could not find ner birth record.
