HOGS AND FANCY STOCK

ANOTHER McCULLOCH PROGRESSIVE FARMER.

R. B. McCarty No Longer Claims Allegiance to King Cotton. Stock Pays Much Better.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McCarty were here last Friday on a visit and attending to business. Mr. McCarty was in the hail storm belt and was one of the heaviest sufferers by reason of the storm. He had 700 acres in cotton, which promised at least 300 bales; now he estimates that he will gather between 100 and 120. He reports that in some places in his neighborhood not only was the cotton knocked out, but the stalks were literally stripped of leaves, bolls and branches. The hail in his orchard fell thick but was not nearly so large as that in his cotton field. Many apples were knocked from the trees, but he was able to gather up these and dispose of them at fair prices.

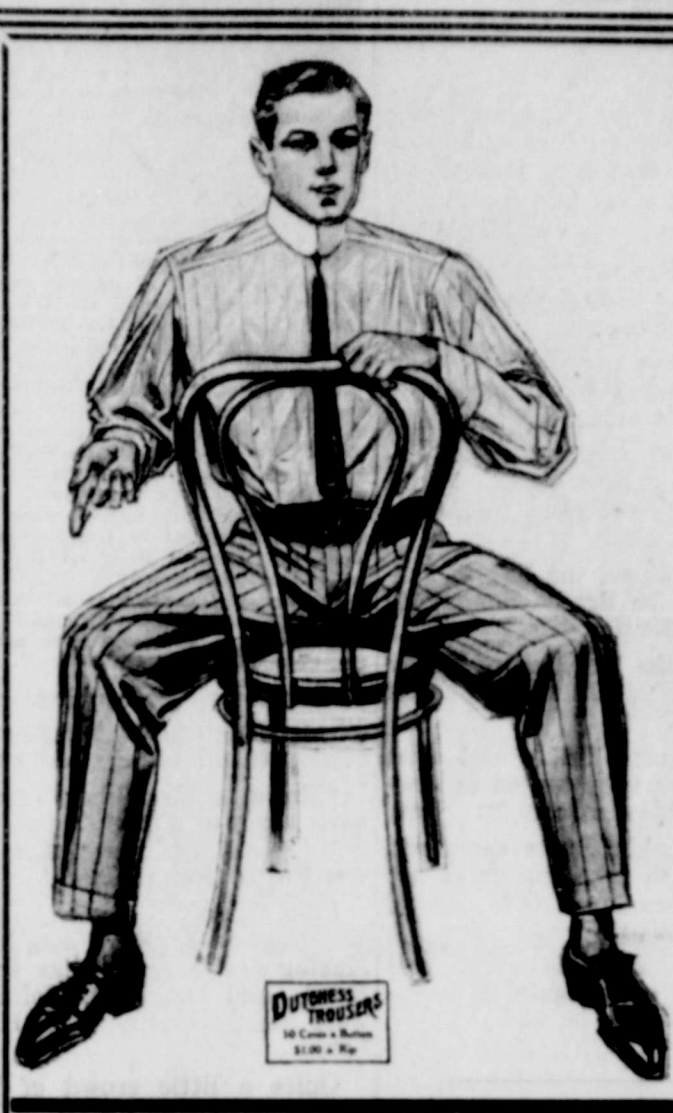

Mr. McCarty says he expects to quit cotton raising—not all at once, but gradually—and is going to devote his time to raising fine registered Jersey cattle, hogs, chickens and turkeys. He has found out that these products pay, and pay big. He will go in for hog raising on a big scale. At present he has about 65 head of hogs, but will start off with 100 brood sows. He has been experimenting with pearl millet as a hog feed, and is highly gratified with the results obtained, declaring it one of the best feeds to be had. He found no difficulty in feeding twenty head of hogs for four months on an acre and a half of millet.

Mr. McCarty is also enthusiastic over peanuts as a crop, and says they have cotton beat too bad to talk about when it comes to a paying crop. He finds that he can raise 60 bushels of peanuts to the acre, worth 60c a bushel or $36 for the acre. The hay is worth $16 a ton, and an acre will produce about three-fourths of a ton, making an additional value of $12, or $48 per acre for the peanuts and hay. Two cuttings can be made in a year, and the total production will approximate $80 per acre. He is trying to interest some of his neighbors in the purchase of a peanut thresher, and can see big returns from the investment.

Another crop with which he has experimented has been alfalfa. He finds land with a clay subsoil especially adapted to alfalfa and has made a pleasing success with the experiment.

Mr. McCarty's orchard is known far and wide, and he is so firmly established in the fruit growing business that he would not think of giving it up.

Cows will also claim a big share of Mr. McCarty's time. He has had as many as 45 head, but sold a number, and now regrets that he did so. He has kept a record of the earnings of six cows which he uses regularly, and finds that in addition to supplying all his family needs in the way of milk and butter, they each netted him about $1.00 a week. He has equipped himself with a cream separator, and ships the cream to Brownwood, his sales averaging from $24 to $27 per month. This leaves him something like 300 gallons of skim milk to feed to his hogs. Looking at the proposition

WARNING TO FARMERS.

Do Not Mix Damaged With Clean Cotton.

The recent rain has washed out a vast amount of ripe cotton; this is stained and dirty. Warn your pickers not to mix this damaged cotton with what they pick from the bolls, as all cotton will be graded and the price determined from the worst sample in a given bale. Ignorant pickers and children are apt to overlook this very important point in their desire to fill their sacks, and to take from the ground this damaged cotton, resulting in great loss, not only to the cotton raiser, but to the country at large.

TEXAS INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS.

The Melvin gin, which is but a short distance over the Concho county line in McCulloch, has ginned more than 1300 bales of cotton. They will get about 2000 bales this season and the bulk of it comes from Concho county.—Paint Rock Herald.

from every standpoint, Mr. McCarty believes cotton cannot begin to compare with cattle and hogs as a money making product, and will accordingly leave the cotton to be looked after by the boys, while he will devote all his time and energies to the latter.

A Correction.

It seems that The Standard was misinformed as to the purpose of the invitation by the faculty to the patrons to visit the Brady school Wednesday from 4:30 to 5:30; the invitation being merely to give opportunity to arouse a spirit of mutual interest in the schools and the school work between the faculty and patrons. The matter of transferring the high school department did not come up for discussion at all, this matter being entirely in the hands of the trustees, and any action in the matter being left solely with them.

O. P. Deering was in from the Lohn community yesterday with the last of his cotton, and states that the fleecy staple is nearly all out in his community. Mr. Deering says his crop was mighty sorry, making but nine bales off of 100 acres. He says the drizzling rain of last week was not near so good there as at Brady, but was nevertheless sufficient to bring up the oats that had been planted.

Right now is overcoat season. Get the best. Get it at Kirk's. Suf Sed.

Oil Prospects Encouraging.

The two wells that are being drilled, one at W. O. Schultz's and one on Bill Coffey's place, show considerable signs of oil. The Schultz well is down several hundred feet and stands considerably in salt water and in drawing the drill, oil can be scraped off the bit. Oil signs are also plentiful in the slush of the Coffey well.

We will, no doubt, strike oil in paying quantities in this section as all, or many of the wells on the north side of the Brady mountains show more or less signs of oil. The same is true of many of the wells on the south side of the Brady mountains.—Paint Rock Herald.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE

ROCHELLE RUMBLINGS.

Rochelle, Texas, Oct. 19.

Editor Brady Standard:

After a considerable lapse of time I will try to give you the news around this little burg, and the first thing is to tell the people that we have had the long-needed rain. It came very slowly, but about two inches fell and has certainly wet old Mother Earth once more. The rain made it fine on the grain that is up and will bring up what was planted.

The people have just about wound up the cotton gathering of 1912; that is, what the hail left. This hail was certainly destructive, and I believe did more harm than did the continued drought.

Mr. Bud Young has been planting wheat all this week.

Mrs. Frank Wicker and daughter, Miss Katie, visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Hardin, one day this week.

Mr. Albert Jones of the Deep Creek community came to Rochelle Friday after his niece, Miss Arabella Kimbrough, who is again attending school at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith visited the old home and son, Tobe, and family last Friday.

Mrs. J. N. Baxter, who has been seriously ill is now, to the joy of all friends, convalescent and we hope will soon be herself again.

Orr school opened last Monday, the 14th, with a very fair attendance.

Bro. Wilsford, the Baptist pastor from Mercury, is now very comfortably domiciled in Bro. Vinson's Rochelle home.

Miss Lillie Cole, a niece of Mrs. C. W. Carr, has returned to Rochelle for the benefit of the school again this year.

Mrs. Bud Rogers moved to town last week and put her children in our school. Just see how a good school will attract the people.

Fred McCormick, who attended school here last season, has returned and will enter school here again this morning.

The Home Mission society met with Mrs. J. P. Waddill last week and had an interesting meeting.

Bro. Hull and family, Robert Sellman and Miss Lillie Cole and Vernon Waddill and Miss Berta Bell attended the box supper at Live Oak Friday night and report an enjoyable time, with lots of good things to eat.

Tom Rogers and Mr. Coble of Round Mountain came to Rochelle today and made a purchase of a small bill of lumber.

Sip Cates and Joe Cottle are off on quite an extended cotton picking tour.

Magus Lark and Wood Young were home last week from Brownwood, where they are attending Howard Payne.

The box supper at Live Oak was quite a success, netting the Methodist ladies something over $40. The cake which was prepared for the prettiest and most popular young lady, was won by Miss Agnes Baird and the one for second best was won by Miss Naomi Burk, and the one for the most homely man was won by W. R. Pence. Everyone had a most interesting time over the raffling off of both the cakes and the boxes.

The oyster dinner and supper had at this place Saturday, conducted by the Methodist ladies, brought something like $80, which was highly appreciated. We feel very thankful for the patronage tendered us by the good people of Rochelle.

Bud Rogers, who works at the Sellman ranch, visited his family in town Saturday night and Sunday.

Will ring off and give room for a better writer. Will try to do better next time.

Miss Pinkie Jones came out Saturday to take charge of her music class for the coming school session.

Pe-ru-na and Ka-tar-no

S. B. Hartman, M.D.

I have received a letter from a young lady, who asks me: "Is the old Pe-ru-na (Ka-tar-no) better than the revised Pe-ru-na?" Either medicine has its place. One is adapted for one condition, another for another. Ka-tar-no is a better remedy for some conditions than the revised Pe-ru-na. On the other hand, the revised Pe-ru-na is a better remedy for some conditions than Ka-tar-no. They are both intended as catarrh remedies. They have both done a great work in relieving catarrh, chronic and acute. Many hundreds of cases of chronic catarrh have recovered while taking Ka-tar-no and the same is true of the revised Pe-ru-na during the last six years since its revision.

There is a difference, however, in the two remedies. Whenever catarrh is associated with constipation then the revised Pe-ru-na is the best. Indeed, this is exactly why the revision was made, to meet such cases. But where no laxative is needed, where the bowels are regular or inclined to be loose, then the old Pe-ru-na (Ka-tar-no) is the better remedy.

The revised Pe-ru-na is for sale at all drug stores. Those wishing to obtain Ka-tar-no, address The Ka-tar-no Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Quite a little crowd of Rochellers attended Christian Endeavor here last Sunday night. We are always glad to have these estimable people pay us a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hurd are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine baby girl. The young lady made her arrival last Friday, October 11.

Old Col. Jupiter Pluvius pulled the right string this time and the result was we got rain. Most of our good farmers have the most of their cotton picked out and a few oats in the ground; so you see the rain didn't damage us much.

Mr. G. P. Moore, Rochelle's able tinner, was out doing some work for Mr. S. L. Hurd last week.

Mr. Andrew Turn left last Monday for Oklahoma, where he expects to stay until Christmas. After then he will go to California. We regret very much to lose Mr. Turn from our midst, as he has always loaned a helping hand to us at any and all times. We wish for him a bright and happy future. May Heaven bless him in all his undertakings.

On account of bad weather last week, Dr. W. M. Burgess and Rev. T. W. Davidson postponed their revival.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson dined at the C. O. Johnson home last Sunday.

A number of our young people attended the show at Brownwood last week.

Success and best wishes to all.

"You must send him a telegram of apology and ask him to read his meter. He was such a nice man—the kindest eyes—for a chauffeur."

"But how can I telegraph him? I don't know his name, or his number, or his company, or anything."

"It's too bad. He'll go through life hating us and thinking we cheated him."

"Well, he doesn't know our names either."

And then they forgot him temporarily for the more immediate need of clothes. All the passengers knew that they had left behind what baggage they had not sent ahead, and much sympathy had been expressed. But most people would rather give you their sympathy than lend you their clothes. Mallory did not mind the men, but Marjorie dreaded the women. She was afraid of all of them but Mrs. Temple.

She threw herself on the little lady's mercy and was asked to help herself. She borrowed a nightgown of extraordinary simplicity, a shirt waist of an ancient mode, and a number of other things.

If there had been anyone there to see she would have made a most anachronistic bride.

Mallory canvassed the men and obtained a shockingly purple shirt from Wedgewood, who meant to put him at his ease, but somehow failed when he said in answer to Mallory's thanks:

"God bless my soul, old top, don't you think of thanking me. I ought to thank you. You see, the idiot who makes my shirts, made that by mistake, and I'd be no end grateful if you'd jolly well take the loathsome thing off my hands. I mean to say, I shouldn't dream of being seen in it myself. You quite understand, don't you?"

Ashton contributed a maroon atrocity in hosiery, with equal tact:

"If they fit you, keep 'em. I got stung on that batch of socks. That pair was originally lavender, but they washed like that. Keep 'em. I wouldn't be found dead in 'em."

The mysterious Fosdick, who lived a lonely life in the Observation car and slept in the other sleeper, lent Mallory a pair of pyjamas evidently intended for a bridegroom of romantic disposition. Mallory blushed as he accepted them and when he found himself in them, he was so ashamed of himself.

Once more the whole car gaped at the unheard of behavior of its newly wedded pair. The poor porter had been hungry for a bridal couple, but as he went about gathering up the cast-off footwear of his large family and found Mallory's shoes at number three and Marjorie's tiny boots at number five, he shook his head and groaned.

"Times has suitably changed for the wuss. If this is a bridal couple, gimme divorcees."

CHAPTER XXI.

Matrimony to and Fro.

And the next morning they were in Wyoming—well toward the center of that State. They had left behind the same levels and the truly rural towns and they were among foothills and mountains, passing cities of wildly picturesque repute, like Cheyenne, and Laramie, Bowie, and Medicine Bow, and Bitter Creek, whose very names imply literature and war whoops, cowboy yelps, barking revolvers, another redskin biting the dust, cattle stampedes, town-paintings, humorous lynchings and bronchos in epileptic frenzy.

But the talk of this train was concerned with none of these wonders, which the novelists and the magazine editors have perhaps a trifle over-published. The talk of this train was concerned with the eighth wonder of the world, a semi-detached bridal couple.

Mrs. Whitcomb was eager enough to voice the sentiment of the whole populace, when she looked up from her novel in the observation room and, nudging Mrs. Temple, drawled: "By the way, my dear, has that bridal couple made up its second night's quarrel yet?"

"The Mallorys?" Mrs. Temple flushed as she answered, mercifully. "Oh, yes, they were very friendly again this morning."

Mrs. Whitcomb's countenance was cynical: "My dear, I've been married twice and I ought to know something about honeymoons, but this honeymoons honeymoon—she cast up her eyes and her hands in despair."

The women were so concerned about Mr. and Mrs. Mallory, that they hardly noticed the uncomfortable plight of the Wellingtons, or the curious behavior of the lady from the stateroom who seemed to be afraid of something and never spoke to anybody. The strange behavior of Anne Gattie and Mrs. Lathrop even escaped such comment, though they were forever being stumbled on when anybody went out to the observation platform. When they were dislodged from there, they sat playing checkers and talking very little, but making eyes at one another and sighing like furnaces.

They had evidently concocted some secret of their own, for Mrs. Lathrop, looking at Anne, murmured sentimentally to Anne: "Only a few hours more, Anne."

And Anne turned geranium-color and dropped a handful of checkers. "I don't know how I can face it."

Ira growled like a lovesick lion: "Aw, what do you care?"

"But I was never married before, Mrs. Lathrop," Anne protested, "and on a train, too."

"Why, all the bridal couples take to the railroads."

"I should think it would be the last place they'd go," said Anne—a sensible woman, Anne! "Look at the Mallorys—how miserable they are."

"I thought they were happy," said Mrs. Lathrop, whose great virtue it was to pay little heed to what was none of his business.

"Oh, Mrs. Lathrop," cried Anne, "I hope we shan't begin to quarrel as soon as we are married."

"As if anybody could quarrel with you, Anne," he said.

"Do you think I'll be so monotonous as that?" she retorted.

Her spunk delighted him beyond words. He whispered: "Anne, you're so gold-darned sweet if I don't get a chance to kiss you, I'll bust."

"Why, Mrs. Lathrop, we're on the train."

"Da—darn the train! Who ever heard of a fellow proposing and getting engaged to a girl and not even kissing her?"

"But our engagement is so short."

"Well, I'm not going to marry you until I get a kiss."

Perhaps innocent old Anne really believed this blood-curdling threat. It brought her instantly to terms, though she blushed: "But everybody's always looking."

"Come out on the observation platform."

"Oh, Mrs. Lathrop, again?"

"I dare you."

"I take you—but seeing that Mrs. Whitcomb was trying to overhear, she whispered: 'Let's pretend it's the scenery.'"

So Mrs. Lathrop, pushed the checkers aside, and said in an unusually positive tone: "Ah, Mrs. Gattie, won't you have a look at the landscape?"

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Lathrop," said Anne, "I just love scenery."

They wandered forth like the Sleeping Beauty and her princely awakener, and never dreamed what giggles and nudgings and wise head-noddings went on back of them. Mrs. Wellington laughed loudest of all at the lovers whose heads had grown gray while their hearts were still so green.

It was shortly after this that the Wellingtons themselves came into prominence in the train life.

As the train approached Green River, and its copper-basined stream, the engineer began to set the air-brakes for the stop. Jimmie Wellington, boozily half-awake in the smoking room, wanted to know what the name of the station was. Everybody is always eager to oblige a drunken man, so Ashton and Fosdick tried to get a window open to look out.

The first one they labored at, they could not budge after a biceps-breaking tug. The second flew up with such ease that they went over backward. Ashton put his head out and announced that the approaching depot was labelled "Green River." Wellington burred: "What a beautiful name for a station."

Ashton announced that there was something beautiful still on the platform—"Oh, a peach!—a nectarine! and she's getting on this train."

Even Doctor Temple declared that she was a dear little thing, wasn't she?

Wellington pushed him aside, saying: "Stand back Doc, and let me see; I have a keen sense of beautiful."

"Be careful," cried the doctor, "he'll fall out of the window."

"Not out of that window," Ashton sagely observed, seeing the bulk of Wellington. As the train started off again, Little Jimmie distributed alcoholic smiles to the Green Riverers on the platform and called out:

"Good-bye, everybody. You're all absolutely—ow—ow!" He clapped his hand to his eye and crawled back into the car, groaning with pain.

"What's the matter?" said Wedgewood. "Got something in your eye?"

"No, you blamed fool. I'm trying to look through my thumb."

"Poor fellow!" sympathized Doctor Temple. "It's a cinder!"

"A cinder! It's at least a ton of coal."

"I say, old boy, let me have a peek," said Wedgewood, screwing in his monocle and peering into the depths of Wellington's eye. "I can't see a bally thing."

"Of course not, with that blinder on," growled the miserable wretch, weeping in spite of himself and rubbing his smarting orb.

"Don't rub that eye," Ashton counseled, "rub the other eye."

"It's my eye; I'll rub it if I want to. Get me a doctor, somebody. I'm dying."

"Here's Doctor Temple," said Ashton, "right on the job." Wellington turned to the old clergyman with pathetic trust, and the doctor writhed in his disguise. The best he could think of was: "Will somebody lend me a lead pencil?"

"What for?" said Wellington, uneasily.

"I am going to roll your upper lid up on it," said the doctor.

"Oh, no, you're not," said the patient. "You can roll your own lids!"

Then the conductor, still another conductor, wandered on the scene and asked as if it were not a world-important matter: "What's the matter—pick up a cinder?"

"Yes. Perhaps you can get it out," the alleged doctor appealed.

The conductor nodded: "The best way is this—take hold of the winkers."

"The what?" mumbled Wellington.

"Grab the winkers of your upper eyelid in your right hand—"

"I've got 'em."

"Now grab the winkers of your lower eyelid in your left hand. Now raise the right hand, push the under lid under the overlid and haul the overlid over the underlid; when you have the overlid well over the underlid—"

Wellington waved him away: "Say, what do you think I'm trying to do? I want a mattress! Get out of my way, I stuff my wife—lead me to my wife."

"An excellent idea," said Dr. Temple, who had been praying for a reconciliation.

He guided Wellington with difficulty to the observation room and, finding Mrs. Wellington at the desk as usual, he began: "Oh, Mrs. Wellington, may I introduce you to your husband?"

Mrs. Wellington rose haughtily, caught a sight of her suffering consort and ran to him with a cry of "Jimmie!"

"Lucretia!"

"What's happened—are you killed?"

"I'm far from well. But don't worry. My life insurance is paid up."

"Oh, my poor little darling," Mrs. Jimmie fluttered. "What on earth ails you?" She turned to the doctor. "Is he going to die?"

"I think not," said the doctor. "It's only a bad case of cinder-in-the-eye."

Thus reassured, Mrs. Wellington went into the patient's eye with her handkerchief. "Is that the eye?" she asked.

"No!" he howled, "the other one."

She went into that and came out with the cinder.

"There! It's just a tiny speck."

Wellington regarded the mote with amazement. "Is that all? It felt as if I had Pike's Peak in my eye." Then he waxed tender. "Oh, Lucretia, how can I ever—"

But she drew away with a disdainful: "Give me back my hand, please."

"Now, Lucretia," he protested, "don't you think you're carrying this pretty far?"

"Only as far as Reno," she answered grimly, which stung him to retort: "You'd better take the beam out of your own eye, now that you've taken the cinder out of mine," but she, noting that they were the center of interest, observed: "All the passengers are enjoying this, my dear. You'd better go back to the cafe."

Wellington regarded her with a revulsion to wrath. He thundered at her: "I will go back, but allow me to inform you, my dear madam, that I'll not drink another drop—just to surprise you."

Mrs. Wellington shrugged her shoulders at this ancient threat and Jimmie stumbled back to his lair, whither the men followed him. Feeling sympathy in the atmosphere, Little Jimmie felt impelled to pour out his grief:

"Jellmen, I'm a brok'n-hearted man. Mrs. Wellington is a queen among women, but she has temper of tarant—"

Wedgewood broke in: "I say, old boy, you've carried this ballast for three days now, wherever did you get it?"

Wellington drew himself up proudly for a moment before he slumped back into himself. "Well, you see, when I announced to a few friends that I was about to leave Mrs. Wellington forever and that I was going out to—you know."

"Reno. We know. Well?"

"Well, a crowd of my friends got up a farewell sort of divorce breakfast—and some of 'em felt so very sad about my divorce that they drank a little too much, and the rest of my friends felt so very glad about my divorce, that they drank a little too much. And, of course, I had to join both parties."

"And that breakfast," said Ashton, "lasted till the train started, eh?"

Wellington glowered back triumphantly. "Lasted till the train started! Jellmen, that breakfast is going yet!"

CHAPTER XXII.

In the Smoking Room.

Wellington's divorce breakfast reminded Ashton of a story. Ashton was one of the great That-Reminds-Me family. Perhaps it was to the credit of the Englishman that he missed the point of this story, even though Jimmie Wellington saw it through his fog, and Dr. Temple turned red and buried his eyes in the eminently respectable pages of the Scientific American.

Ashton and Wellington and Fosdick exchanged winks over the Britisher's stare of incomprehension, and Ashton Finally a gleam of understanding broke over Wedgewood's face and he tried to justify his delay.

"Oh, yes, of course I see it now. Yes, I rather fancy I get it. It's awfully good, isn't it? I think I should have got it before but I'm not really myself; for two mawnings I haven't had my tub."

Wellington shook with laughter: "If you're like this now, what will you be when you get to Sin san frasco—I mean Frinsansisco—well, you know what I mean."

Ashton reached round for the electric button as if he were conferring a favor: "The drinks are on you, Wedgewood. I'll ring." And he rang.

CALF CREEK PICKUPS.

Nine, Texas, Oct. 22.

Editor Brady Standard:

Here I come again with a little handful of news from the Creek.

School at this place is progressing nicely. Hope it will progress further on.

The union Sunday school at this place has been dead for quite awhile, but we are going to reorganize and have a Baptist Sunday school.

Mrs. Minerva McCoy and little son, J. C., and sister, Ethel Attaway, made a flying trip to the city last Saturday.

Mr. Louis and Miss Maggie Williams have been off at Nine picking cotton for Mr. Mason.

Mr. J. T. Stewart of Hext is teaching a music class at the school house. It will go on ten nights. Started last night. Was a small crowd, but will be better after awhile.

Masters John and Frank Hansard, who have been at work on the public road ever since last school, are at their grandfather and mother's, J. W. Attaway. They seemed to be glad to stop.

Mrs. Bertha Gressett, who has been on the sick list some time, is improving some now.

Well, as this kid has to go and finish picking cotton, I'll ring off for this week. Best wishes to the editor and all the readers.

AN APPEAL.

To Editor Brady Standard:

Knowing your kindly disposed feeling for Confederate soldiers, as evidenced on many occasions past, I beg to trespass again upon your valuable columns by requesting, upon the earnest appeal of my comrades, that in view of the near approach of our general election you will reproduce for the benefit of your many readers and the voters of McCulloch county, that able and patriotic appeal of the Fort Worth Sunday Record of October 20th, as well as the letter of Judge C. C. Cummings pertaining to the proposed amendment of Section 51 of the Constitution of Texas in our behalf, and in so doing you will greatly oblige many friends and subscribers.

L. BALLOU.

In answer to the above request we are publishing in another column the article, "An Appeal to Manhood" as contained in Sunday's Record, and which so ably sets forth the reasons why the proposed amendment should be voted upon favorably. The article by Judge Cummings will appear in a future issue.

Marriages are getting to be such common occurrences hereabouts that we have decided not to marry at present. When we marry, we want it to be something unusual—for us at least.

If you can't say a good word for McCulloch after attending the exhibit tomorrow, earth is not good enough for you and you had better go elsewhere.

Some folks have threatened to "tell Claude Callan" on us, but it's been a long time since we were scared by "boogers".

This cool, refreshing weather just makes us feel like accepting your dollar for a renewal of your subscription. Bring it in.

If you fail to receive your paper promptly, we will appreciate your notifying us promptly.

All subscriptions are stopped promptly at expiration unless we are notified to the contrary.

The poultry department is a sure indication that the exhibit will be a bird of a show.

Just think! Today will be yesterday tomorrow. Come to the exhibit.

Come to Brady and see McCulloch's big, brag show.

AN APPEAL TO MANHOOD.

On this page today will be found a concise article by Judge C. C. Cummings briefing the provisions of the pending constitutional amendment relating to the maintenance of indigent Confederate soldiers and their wives.

This measure is an appeal to all that is noble, generous, appreciative and grateful in Southern manhood. It will be adopted, beyond question, if the attention of voters is addressed to it and if they take the pains to understand it.

Those are formidable "ifs." As Judge Cummings reminds us, the home for Confederate widows was established only after two efforts had failed; once the voters of Texas actually defeated the constitutional amendment authorizing it, not because they were ungallant or unjust, but because they did not know the amendment was pending or did not understand its provisions. This amendment is in danger of defeat for the same reasons.

The new provision advances the limitation of residence from 1880 to 1900; includes among the beneficiaries those who gave sacrificial aid in organizing for the protection of the frontier against Indian raids or Mexican marauders; includes militiamen who served six months, and their widows, and permits husband and wife to reside together in the Confederate home. For these purposes a tax of 5c on the $100 is authorized by the legislature in lieu of a limited appropriation now permitted under a constitutional amendment formerly adopted.

The federal government properly sustains all indigent or disabled soldiers of the republic—and favor-seeking politicians in congress have extended pension provisions to include thousands of men who have no just claim upon the government's bounty—but, of course, cannot in sound public policy grant pensions or other aid to Confederate soldiers because technically they fought the union—literally, they fought to maintain constitutional rights. This obligation falls upon the Southern states, and it should not be rated as an obligation, but as a precious privilege.

No man who gave his efforts to such a worthy cause should be an object of charity; he should be sustained by the state in a decent manner and the stipend paid to him by the month or quarter should be regarded as belated compensation which he may accept without the sense of obligation.

In the day when duty called these men did not hesitate. They offered fortune and life without asking reward. For four years they gave the utmost of their strength and faculty; they went hungry, barefoot and almost naked, and with many of them the effort left them so spent of strength and resource that they were never again able to compete successfully in the contests of civil life, and so they have come limping and tottering at this hour in the midst of material abundance that no man can measure and at the floodtide of civic development which their love of country, their conception of constitutional right and their devotion to fundamental law alone can keep from ebbing backward into the seas of discontent and chaos.

Nowhere in the imperial commonwealth should there be a confederate soldier lacking in creature comfort, for nowhere should there be evidence of the ingratitude of republics.

What is the pitiful tax of 5c on the $100 or 50c on the $1000 compared with the satisfaction of duty done by the payment of a debt long overdue? For it is a debt, not a bounty, and if we fail to pay it when we are able, we are wilful defaulters. There are many obligations falling upon the citizen, but most of them are obligations of immediate personal concern; most of them bring a direct compensation in good government, in protection to life, liberty; most of them are obviously selfish or plainly necessary for the orderly and efficient conduct of society. This is another kind of obligation; it partakes of that sweetly sacred nature that moves the strong son to sustain the infirm father, and it should be discharged with the eagerness and in the fullness of spirit that runs out to anticipate wants before they are expressed, that makes every act of assistance a tender ministrations of love and that reckons self-denial as a privilege.

No state is more able to discharge this obligation; none has a prouder record of confederate bravery. Where the battle raged the thickest, there Texans strove to be; and wherever they were, there was military daring exemplified. It was the immortal Lee himself at the Wilderness who paid tribute to the superior prowess of "my Texans," as he fondly called them, and who wished that his ragged regiments might be reinforced by more such fighting men.

His Texans are now our Texans, and we should not be less appreciative of them than he was. We honor ourselves in honoring the scanty few who remain to remind us of the many soldiers that made Confederates in general and Texas Confederates in particular the flower of war in all the annals of history.

THE GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

"During the past five years the public health workers have set aside one day each year for the consideration of matters pertaining to the public health. This day has been variously known as 'Tuberculosis Sunday,' 'Health Sunday,' and by other names. This year Sunday, October 27, has been designated as the day when the people of America are asked to give consideration to the condition of their own health, and the health of their families, and the health of the public health of the cities in which they live, and to consider means for the prevention of disease. In Texas this day will be known as 'Health and Hospital Sunday,' and it is designed to attract public attention to the fact that hospital facilities for the care of the sick, and the prevention of communicable diseases are woefully inadequate. Tuberculosis and other communicable diseases should be treated in hospitals for the protection of the community, and every county in the state should have a general hospital for the care of the indigent sick and injured with separate provisions for tuberculosis and other communicable diseases.

"Now, therefore, I, O. B. Colquitt, Governor of Texas, by virtue of the authority vested in me, under the laws of this state, do hereby designate Sunday, October 27, as 'Health and Hospital Sunday,' and call upon the people of Texas to attend divine service on that day for the purpose of hearing discourses on this subject. I ask the clergy to preach to the people on this day on the importance of good health. If the ritual of the church forbids consideration of this matter on Sunday, I ask that the subject be considered on some day preceding or following Sunday, October 27. I urge upon the county commissioners of the various counties of Texas serious consideration of the needs of their county in the matter of hospital provision for the sick, both as a matter of common humanity and for the prevention of disease.

"O. B. COLQUITT,
Governor of Texas.

"By the Governor:
"C. C. McDONALD,
"Secretary of State."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. The cause of deafness is caused by catarrh, which is forbidden by an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One-Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sold by Druggists.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Matthews came in Wednesday from Peg Leg, the metropolis of Menard county. As has become customary with him, Mr. Matthews brought with him a heaping load of potatoes, with a side line of nice large pecans, which he exchanged for some of Brady's superabundant coin. He was so pleased with the tow sack full of real money obtained in the transaction that he threatens to come again next week.

FUNNYGRAPHS IN THE STATE PRESS.

A French physician has replaced the wornout stomach of a man with the stomach of an ape. Presumably the stomach of a hog would have been regarded as too extravagant. Incidentally, it may be remarked that the man is doing better than the ape.—Bonham Favorite.

Yes, of course the man is doing better than the ape. But don't you imagine that often the man is moved by some inward impulse to climb a tree and get an apeseye view of things in general.—Dallas News.

Longview's new electric street car is now in operation and we understand Editor Johnson's time is now divided between getting out a live wire daily and showing Longview citizens how to get on and off a street car.—Kilgore Chronicle.

Does Editor Johnson get off the car properly like a gentleman or improperly like a lady? Does he look toward the motor-man as he leaves the car steps, or does he seize the hand-hold with his right hand, grasp the slack of his pantaloons with his left and swing off facing the tailboard of the vehicle—like the ladies (heaven preserve them) invariably do?—Dallas News.

Will the Wellesley college girls, who have organized a fire brigade, with a chief and captains and all that sort of thing, object if they are called fire-belles, asks the Boston Globe. Unless the Wellesley college girls have beautified materially since the editor's time, they would not object to being called any kind of belles. Or even to wearing fire hose.—Waco News.

Well, of all things! Where are your manners, man? What do you mean by insinuating that the Wellesley girls could wear fire hose? State Press doesn't know anything at all about the Wellesley girls, but he doesn't for a moment believe that they are spindled like a Chippendale chair.—Dallas News.

Face the Sun.

"Don't hunt after trouble, but look for success, You'll find what you look for; don't look for distress. If you see but your shadow, remember, I pray, That the sun is still shining, but you're in the way. Don't grumble, don't bluster, don't dream and don't shirk, Don't think of your worries, but think of your work. The worries will vanish, the work will be done, No man sees his shadow who faces the sun." —EX.

Reception.

The faculty of our city schools entertained on Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 5:30 with an informal reception at the high school building and had the pleasure of meeting the patrons of the school.

The hall on the first floor of the building was made beautiful for the occasion. The large columns in this apartment were entwined with vines, a selection of college pennants added their bright colors, while the doorways were girded by trailing vines and wild flowers. Embankments of autumn leaves, together with potted ferns, palms and plants lent their glorious shades for a setting for the profusions of roses, chrysanthemums and golden rod that were used. Deficient fruit punch was served by Mrs. F. A. Knox and Miss Overall throughout the afternoon at a pretty punch table banked high in ferns and flowers.

Some one hundred guests called and expressed themselves as being delighted with the work that is being accomplished this term, and especially pleased with the teachers in charge.

Mrs. Jarvis Honoree.

Mrs. F. W. Henderson entertained with cards on Wednesday afternoon complimentary to Mrs. A. B. Jarvis of Henderson, Ky.

Five tables of players participated in a number of spirited games of "500" and "42."

At the close of the party delicious refreshments consisting of a combined salad course with accompanying dainties, were served.

Those accepting the hospitality of Mrs. Henderson were Mesdames Stone, Hughes, Beckham, Donnell, McCall, Wall, White, Crothers, McKnight, Mann, Davidson, Graham, Gansel, Turner, Brannum of Fort Worth, Jarvis; Misses Mary Anderson, Chase Crothers.

Miss Schaeg Hostess.

Miss Olga Schaeg entertained the "Beau-Nots" Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30. The afternoon passed most pleasantly over the needle work until a late hour, when refreshments of hot tea, sandwiches and salad were served by the hostess, who was graciously assisted by her sister, Miss Ruth Schaeg.

The out-of-town guest was Miss Lena Carroll of Lohn.

Miss Ruth Wood will entertain the club on next Wednesday afternoon with a "Spook" party.

Hall-Smiley.

On Saturday evening, at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Richards, Miss Sidney Genobia Smiley was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest Clyde Hall, Rev. King, pastor of the Methodist church, read the ceremony.

The happy couple left on the 9:00 o'clock train for Dallas, where they spent a few days, returning here on Tuesday.

The bride wore a smart tailored suit of blue with hat and gloves to harmonize.

What's The Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its cry does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been removed the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartic pills or nasty waters, for these will not act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. J. H. Rowders, Morgan, Texas, and Mrs. B. B. Rosser, 1011 34th St., Galveston, Texas, the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative, and its very mildness and freedom from gripping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks generally—people who need a gentle bowel stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 485 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

McShan-Christianus.

At the Presbyterian parsonage on Tuesday evening the solemn words were spoken which joined in marriage Miss Alma Bertha Christianus and Mr. Judge McShan. Rev. Grant officiating.

Those witnessing the ceremony were Mrs. T. P. Grant, Miss Vera King and Mr. Ben Moffatt. Mr. and Mrs. McShan are at home to their friends in their home on Crothers avenue.

The Woman's Missionary society will entertain its members at the home of Mrs. Jim Mann on Nov. 21st. The following program will be rendered:

RURAL SCHOOL REPORT.

Annual Statement Filed by J. K. Baze, County Superintendent.

An expenditure of $21,336.40 upon 2,488 pupils enrolled in the rural schools of McCulloch county during the scholastic year of 1911-1912 is shown in the annual report of County Superintendent J. K. Baze, completed last week. There is a surplus of $4,178.50 remaining in the county treasury with which to begin the new year.

Each county superintendent is required by law to file a report of the work of the schools of his county annually with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Mr. Baze's report was prepared for transmission to the department at Austin and gives detailed information as to the work of the schools of McCulloch county.

The report shows there were 2,307 children of scholastic age enrolled in the schools and 181 children of non-scholastic age.

For the instruction of these children 63 teachers were employed, all of them teaching the entire term designated as term teachers of 1911-12 session.

Eighteen of these teachers were men and forty-five were women.

Physical Assets.

According to the report, there are forty-five school buildings in the county which are owned by the county. Forty-one of these buildings are wooden and four are stone. Twenty-one of these buildings are reported in good condition, nineteen in fair condition and four in bad condition.

Only $16,000 of bonds were voted in the year for new school buildings, Melvin voting $7000; Placid, $5000; Waldrip, $2000; Nine, $2000. The total value of all school property in the county is estimated at $58,336.00.

There were in use in these buildings 627 single desks, 1024 double desks, or a total of 1679. There were 64 rooms supplied with desks and four had none. There are five school libraries with 256 volumes, valued at $455.00.

Three School Grades.

The schools of the county are divided by the report into three grades—primary, intermediate and high schools. In the primary schools are 646 boys, 697 girls. In the intermediate schools there were 391 boys and 497 girls. In the high schools there were 27 boys and 49 girls.

The teachers of the country schools are shown to be made up as follows: Ten are high school graduates; twenty-six hold second grade certificates; eighteen, first grade certificates and five hold permanent certificates.

These teachers received as salaries, $28,332.70. The length of the school term in days is 121.7 for all schools.

The Love Letters of a Confederate General

We begin in the November issue a series of real love-letters written over fifty years ago by one of our national heroes to his sweetheart during the period of '61 to '63. This great general will go down to posterity as having accomplished one of the most brilliant feats of arms in the history of the world. He was as great a lover as he was a general, therefore these letters combine authentic history and exquisite romance. They sound a human note that no other work of literature has done in a decade; it is war, it is romance, it is history, it is literature. You simply can't afford to miss this wonderful series—an inside story of the Civil War now published for the first time and containing all the freshness of a contemporary happening. These letters will grip you hard, and hold your interest from first to last. Fill out the coupon and send it now before you forget it.

HISTORY OF TEXAS. BRING YOUR FOLKS.

L. E. Daniell of Austin Here to Get Data on Indian Wars. Great McCulloch County Exhibit Now On in Full Blast.

L. E. Daniell has been here this week from Austin obtaining data upon the last of the Indian wars in this section for a revised edition of John Henry Brown's History of Texas of which he is publisher. Mr. Daniell was successful in obtaining much valuable data while in Brady. He leaves on tonight's train for Menard to continue his research.

Mr. Daniell speaks very entertainingly of his work. John Henry Brown, who compiled the history which Mr. Daniell is revising was one of Texas' greatest patriots, and our neighbor, Brown county, was named for him. He was a bosom friend of and shared the glory of many battles with Henry and Ben McCulloch in the war on the frontier, the latter being in charge of the Trans-Mississippi army for the Confederacy.

Mr. Daniell stated that inasmuch as McCulloch county had been named for Ben McCulloch, no more fitting tribute could be paid to the gallant warrior who met death in the battle of Elk horn while operating against Gen. Bangs, than by the erection of his statue in the courthouse yard, or by the hanging of his portrait in the court house. Mr. Daniell mentioned the matter to several of our prominent citizens, all of whom were much taken, by the suggestion, and Mr. Daniell's friendly interest will have its result in the tardy recognition by McCulloch county citizens of its distinguished namesake.

There is something about Hunt's Lightning Oil that no other liniment possesses. Others may be good, but it is surely the best. It does all you recommend it for, and more. For sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, aches and pains it has no equal on earth. It stands head on my medicine shelf. Very truly yours, T. J. Brownlow, Livingston, Tenn.
