Ector Draws Holt Strike

A. W. Dillard, Midland, No. 1 Steakley has been completed as a Holt oil discovery in Ector County, seven miles north of Odessa.

The 24-hour potential test gauged 216 barrels of 32.3-gravity oil with a trace of water, flowing on a 15-64-inch choke, through perforations at 5,440-5,473 feet, which had been treated with 500 gallons of acid.

Drilled to 5,800 feet, it has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 5,604 feet, the plugged-back depth.

Well site is 550 feet from south and 1,970 feet from east lines of section 29, block 42, T-1-S, T&P survey, 3 1/4 miles northeast of Holt production in a multiphase sector of the Johnson field.

Two Counties Get Locations For Searchers

Wildcats have been planned in Reeves and Tom Green counties.

C&K Petroleum, Inc. will drill No. 1 Caldwell State as an 11,500-foot searcher in Reeves, 3 1/4 miles southwest of Toyahvale.

Drill site is 1,174 feet from north and 1,186 feet from east lines of section 33, block 71, PSL survey, five miles north of the San Martine (Fusselman) gas field, but separated by an 11,410-foot failure.

Tom Green Probe
Gas Producing Enterprises, Inc., Midland, intends to drill a 6,500-foot venture in Tom Green County, four miles south of Tankersley. It is No. 1 M. D. Bryant Estate.

Drill site is 850 feet from north and 1,700 feet from east lines of J. J. Cockburn survey 4, (AB&M survey on some maps) 7/8 mile south of the two-well Palo Pinto area and 1 1/4 mile south of the lone current reef well in the Kenker field. It also is a southeast offset to the depleted one-well Kenker, South (Strawn) field.

San Andres Strike Finals In Crockett

James L. Lamb of Midland has completed a San Andres oil strike in Crockett County, his No. 1-17 Todd-ARCO, previously reported abandoned re-entry operation, 20 miles northwest of Ozona.

It gauged a 24-hour pumping potential of three barrels of 28.4-gravity oil, through perforations at 1,494-1,503 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid, and treated with 1,500 gallons of acid.

It originally was drilled by Southland Royalty Co., and plugged and abandoned in April, 1972, at 7,114 feet. The cleaned-out depth is 1,700 feet, and it is plugged back to 1,571 feet, in 5 1/2-inch casing seated at 1,567 feet.

Well site is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 17, block WC, GC&SF survey.

Third Pay Opened In Eddy Gas Area

Morrow production was opened 1/4 mile northeast of the dual Canyon and Aloka opener of the one-well Richard Knob field (Continued On Page 7B)

Turks Seize East Cyprus Port

Mrs. Chung Hee Park

Assassin Kills Korean First Lady

SEOUL (AP) — President Chang Hee Park escaped an assassination attempt today, but his wife was killed, a presidential spokesman announced.

He said she died after a six-hour operation at the Seoul National University hospital of a gunshot wound she suffered during the assassination attempt.

The attempt took place as Park was making an Independence Day address to about 1,000 persons in the National Theater to observe South Korea's 20th anniversary.

Witnesses said the man ran toward the stage and opened fire from about the third row. The government statement said the man's revolver misfired, then he fired twice. One bullet struck the desk that protected Park. Another hit Mrs. Park, who was sitting behind her husband. The young girl was a member of a 200-voice girls' choir that was to perform for the celebration. She was sitting in the front row.

After Mrs. Park and the girl were carried bleeding from the auditorium and the wounded gunman was removed, Park said: "I will resume my statement." He talked for five minutes, then the girls' choir sang for a few minutes. The president received a standing ovation as he left the theater for the university hospital to be with his wife.

Park, who is 56, and his wife have a 14-year-old son and two daughters, 22 and 20. Mrs. Park was a former school teacher. The shooting was the first known direct attempt on Park's life. He became president in a bloodless coup in May 1961, but opposition has grown as his rule became more authoritarian.

Late in 1972, Park amended the constitution to give himself virtually unlimited powers and permitting him to stay in office indefinitely. When demonstrations demanding a return to democracy mushroomed last winter, he banned all antigovernment activities and made them punishable by death or prison terms.

Military courts have convicted 135 opponents of the government this year and sentenced most of them to prison. Some death sentences have been handed out, but several were commuted.

The Turkish Cypriot radio said Turkish forces captured the eastern Cypriot port city of Famagusta today and the Greek Cypriot naval base in the Bosphorus area 10 miles to the north.

It also said a Turkish assault for Lefka began on the western part of Cyprus, and Turkish forces launched attacks on the eastern and western approaches of Nicosia, the capital.

The moves against Famagusta, Nicosia and Lefka seemed to be further confirmation that Turkish invasion forces were trying to bisect Cyprus along an east-west line that would slice off the northern third of the island to create a Turkish autonomous region.

Famagusta, the second largest city on Cyprus and its most important port, is 35 miles east of Nicosia. Lefka is 20 miles west of the capital.

"We are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can," a senior Cyprus government official said.

Tanks Enter City
Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Famagusta that Turkish tanks rolled into the outskirts of the city at mid-afternoon, firing a few salvos at a British outpost as they passed by.

He said the British evacuated the outpost without casualties. Arnett said the news of the Turkish approach apparently had gone ahead because many Greek soldiers were running through the streets, away from the advance.

The Turkish Cypriot broadcast said Turkish warships and jets joined the battle for Famagusta earlier in the day.

Cease-Fire Shattered
The renewed fighting on Cyprus, which started at dawn, shattered a cease-fire agreed to by both sides Wednesday night. The lull lasted only through the hours of darkness.

The camp of the 950-strong Greek army contingent, permanently based on Cyprus, was one of the main targets of the assault.

The camp, known as the Eldyk, is on the main western highway to Morphou. It lies two miles outside the capital, about a mile from the perimeter of Cyprus airport, still in Greek hands.

Another area heavily hit was a five-mile string of factories on the east side of Nicosia, stretching between the main roads to Famagusta in the east and Larnaca to the south.

Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides called a conference of Greek Cypriot leaders to probe their reactions on concessions the Turks are expected to demand because of their overwhelming military presence on Cyprus.

A senior Cyprus government official who declined to be identified said: "Since the big powers and the U.N. Security Council (See TURKISH Page 6A)

Judge Spears Tours New Court Building

By GEORGE MASSEY
Chief Judge of the Western District of Texas Adrian A. Spears was in Midland today, and took a first-look tour of the federal court facilities here.

The judge was hosted by a contingent of Midland attorneys and Sharon Hollis, deputy clerk of the Midland-Odessa Division of the Western District.

Judge Spears praised the excellent federal court facilities, and made several comments on the attempts to get an in-residence judge for the Midland court. He noted that a recommendation had passed the Senate Judiciary Committee that would allow two additional judges in the Western District—one in Midland and one in El Paso.

But the judge also said, "There is no telling just who those judges will be. No one from the President's office has made any comment to me as to who will be named to the judgeships."

"I have never heard of a committee recommendation being cut down after it goes before Congress for approval, and I can assure you that Midland will get one of the judgeships when they are appointed," Judge Spears said.

He said that one of the main advantages of being the chief judge, however, is that he can allow himself to sit on the bench here in Midland some of the time and enjoy the excellent facilities.

The judge expressed an opinion that the present Congress would not be able to take action on the proposed judgeships even though the Senate will not have the Watergate trial to contend with. He said, however, that the next Congress should come up with the decisions on the positions.

The judge said that presently, 28 out of 52 judgeship requests that went to committee are in contention for appointment.

And, according to Judge Spears, it was the assistance of Congressman George Mahon that got the two proposed bench movement," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

"We're getting off dead center," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said they agreed the role of the President was a decisive one in the situation and predicted the negotiations now under way will be successful and a trade bill "can be passed."

The three senators emerged from an hour-long breakfast meeting with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to tell reporters that Ford's "direct participation... and intervention" in the matter had given them new hope that the Jewish emigration issue, which has stalemated the trade reform bill, may now be resolved.

Jackson said there is now movement to give President Ford certain discretionary authority in the trade bill, presumably to grant the Soviets most-favored-nation treatment and tariff improvements in return for some assurances of freer Jewish emigration and an end to what he described as harassment of Soviet Jews and the limitation of the numbers permitted to leave their homeland.

These provisions will be included in the bill, Jackson said.

In his speech Monday night to a joint session of Congress, Ford stressed the importance he places on passage of a trade reform bill in the interest of world peace and U.S. economic prosperity.

The three senators have led opposition to passage of the bill without the Jewish emigration safeguards and a human rights provision.

Coal Mine Closure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coal industry organization says the five-day work stoppage called for next week by the United Mine Workers will rob the nation of 9 million tons of coal and cost miners $25 million in lost wages.

The Bituminous Coal Operators' Association, the industry's bargaining arm, also accused the union of unfair labor practices in a petition filed with the National Labor Relations Board Wednesday.

It was the coal industry's first official reaction to the Monday-Friday work stoppage announced earlier this week by Miller, who said the walkout was a "memorial period" to commemorate miners who lost their lives working in mines.

In so doing, UMW officials said they were exercising a clause in their expiring contract with the coal operators.

Ford Gains Ground In Bid For Trade Bill Passage

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three senators who have opposed passage of a trade bill to insist on free emigration for Soviet Jews said today after meeting with President Ford that there are indications the problem can be solved and the bill passed.

"We're moving in the direction of an agreement and there has been significant Soviet movement," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

"We're getting off dead center," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said they agreed the role of the President was a decisive one in the situation and predicted the negotiations now under way will be successful and a trade bill "can be passed."

Massive Heroin Seizure Said Repeat Of 'French Connection'

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal narcotics officials described their seizure of a $112-million transatlantic heroin shipment as an ominous portent of what may happen if Turkish farmers resume full-scale opium poppy growing this fall.

"Normally, a seizure of this kind would be a happy event," John R. Bartels, administrator of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, said Wednesday. "This is not a happy event. . . . The epidemic might resume."

Packed In Furniture

Federal narcotics agents last week located a shipment of 75 kilograms of French-processed heroin packed in the hollowed-out recesses of $7,000 worth of Louis XIII furniture. Officials estimated the heroin could have supplied 4,800 users for a month.

Four French citizens and an Argentinian were arrested after one of them tried to sell information about the smuggling scheme to narcotics agents for $400,000.

On Wednesday, announcing the arrests at a news conference, U.S. Atty. David Trager of Brooklyn drew a parallel with the celebrated "French Connection" seizure in 1962 of $98 million worth of heroin, a case on which a book and popular movie were based.

He said the new seizure shows the traditional heroin smuggling route from Turkey through processing plants in the south of France is still viable, although it was supposed-

Reduced Grain Crop May Force Milk Output Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reduced prospects for 1974 harvests of corn and other livestock feed will put further squeezes on dairy farm profits and may force another round of cutbacks in milking herds.

The Agriculture Department already has predicted milk production this year will decline about 1.5 per cent from 1973. It dropped 3.6 per cent last year to 115.6 billion pounds.

Dairy farmer representatives have warned USDA that even larger reductions may occur unless government price supports for milk are increased from their present levels. So far, at least Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has rejected this proposal.

The department's crop report on Monday showed that the corn crop will be about 4.97 billion bushels, much smaller than earlier expected and 12 per cent below the 1973 harvest. Soybean output also will be down from previous indications. Both are prime ingredients for dairy rations.

Thus, it appears whatever relief from rising costs dairy producers might have expected a few months ago has been wiped out by drought and indications that feed expenses will continue high through the coming year. That means further tightening of profits.

Meantime, in another report, USDA says total milk output in July was nearly 10.06 billion pounds.

Clay L. Shaw, Once Accused In Kennedy Death Plot, Dies

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Clay L. Shaw died today at his home, 5½ years after a state court jury acquitted him of a charge that he conspired in the murder of President John F. Kennedy.

The 60-year-old Shaw, former director of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans, had been ill since February, when he was stricken while driving his car and underwent surgery for removal of a blood clot.

His death was announced by a funeral home.

Although Shaw retired in 1965, with plans to travel and rest, he had to go back to work when his legal fight against then Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's charges used up his modest fortune.

He resigned May 31 as manager of the renovation of the French Quarter's French Market, a tourist mecca project he had guided from inception in 1971 to actual construction.

"An outstanding citizen of the City of New Orleans and an outstanding public servant," the directors of the French Market Corp. said in accepting Shaw's resignation.

It was sharp contrast to the 1969 trial, where Shaw impassively chain-smoked at the defense table as prosecution witnesses described him as a flamboyant homosexual.

Shaw was snatched from retirement into the limelight when Garrison summoned him to his office on March 1, 1967, and charged him with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others in the presidential assassination.

Gaps and conflicts eventually tarnished the Garrison investigation.

"After a couple of months it became quite clear that the case had no real relationship to the assassination," Shaw said.

On March 1, 1969, he was acquitted. The jury deliberated less than an hour after a trial that lasted a month in Criminal District Court.

"I often wonder what would have happened to me had I been penniless and without friends," Shaw said. "Justice can be a costly process."

At the time of his death, Shaw had a $5-million U.S. District Court damage suit pending against Garrison and a group of men who had financed the investigation.

Outmanned U.N. Peacekeepers Can't End Fighting In Cyprus

By GENE KRAMER (An AP News Analyst)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — They're called peacekeeping troops, so why don't the United Nations forces on Cyprus stop the fighting?

The most obvious reason is that the blue-helmeted U.N. army from eight countries is heavily outnumbered and outgunned.

The U.N. force has been doubled since the Cyprus crisis erupted a month ago, but it still numbers only 4,400 men. An estimated 40,000 Turkish soldiers have landed on the Mediterranean island, and there are 12,000 Greek Cypriots in the Cyprus national guard.

The U.N. troops' basic weapon is the rifle, and they have some machine guns. The Turkish invaders have planes, tanks, artillery and warships.

There are other practical and legal obstacles to U.N. peacekeeping and peacemaking.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim stresses that a basic condition for U.N. peacekeeping is acceptance of it by all sides in a conflict.

U.N. forces have been accepted by Egypt, Israel and Syria in the Middle East, he points out. But on Cyprus, with cease-fire lines not yet firm, many U.N. positions are being challenged by the Turkish army.

Peacekeeping experts say the U.N. flag and troops provide an effective deterrent against flareups of local fighting once cease-fire lines are drawn. But if one command or the other is determined to seize territory, the U.N. position becomes untenable.

The U.N. force was set up on Cyprus a decade ago, not as a buffer between national armies but to curb fighting between the Greek Cypriots and the Turkish Cypriots. Cypriots of Turkish origin, outnumbered 4 to 1 by the Greeks, were living in about 75 towns and villages across the island.

The July 30 agreement that Greece, Turkey and Britain signed in Geneva gave U.N. forces the additional task of setting up buffer zones around the territory occupied by the Turkish invasion forces.

Waldheim says this required specific Security Council authorization. The fighting erupted before this was arranged and before cease-fire lines could be fixed.

Some diplomats say the secretary-general is being overly cautious about the additional duty for the U.N. troops.

On July 31, the Soviet Union vetoed a Security Council resolution authorizing Waldheim to evaluate the new role proposed for U.N. troops on Cyprus. The next day it allowed a similar resolution to pass by abstaining instead of using its veto.

Miss Overby, Joe Crawford Wed In Baptist Church

Sally Kathleen Overby, who wore a formal princess gown fashioned of green Chantilly lace over white tulle, became the bride of Joe Eugene Crawford at 4:30 p.m. Saturday in Cotton Flat Baptist Church with the Rev. Ross Payne officiating for the double ring ceremony. Columns entwined with white lilies decorated each side of the church altar.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Overby, 1708 S. Loraine St., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Crawford of Route 1, Midland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal princess gown of white Chantilly lace over white tulle with lace trimming. The dress was designed with an Empire waistline enhanced with a ribbon belt, and a shoulder-length veil accented with tulle roses. She carried a nosegay of white carnations, baby's breath and white daisies.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Dorothy Dunman, Best man was Jerry Crawford, brother of the bridegroom. Tootie Thompson and Mike Pool served as ushers. A reception was held at the church following the ceremony.

The bride is a junior at Midland High School. The bridegroom, a 1971 graduate of MHS, is a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and Ironworkers Local Union No. 789. He is employed by J. W. Cooper Construction Co.

They are at home in Midland after a weekend trip to Colorado City.

Miss Glover Shower Honoree

Judy Glover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Harmon, 1801 McDonald St. was complimented recently with a wedding shower in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Glenn Weed, Mrs. Glen Cain, Mrs. James T. Crumley, Charnian Foster and Mrs. Bill N. Prude.

A bouquet of pink carnations and baby's breath centered the serving table overlaid with a white linen cloth featuring pink bows. Patti Harmon presided at the registry table.

Special guest was the bride-elect's mother. Approximately 25 attended.

Miss Glover and her fiancé, Steven Lyle Tucker of Clovis, N.M., will be married Saturday in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church.

Barbara Bobo Honored At Party

Mrs. Joan Boone and Mrs. Michelle Gandy were hostesses to a kitchen shower recently for Barbara Lynn Bobo, bride-elect of Joe Michael Feagan, in the home of Mrs. Boone, 2412 W. Dengar St.

Miss Bobo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bobo, Oklahoma City, Okla., formerly of Midland, and Feagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Feagan of 3615 W. Shandon St., will be married at 2 p.m. Saturday in St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

The party decorations featured the honoree's chosen colors of pink and white.

Arrangements of vegetables and flowers decorated the front door of the home and the serving table.

Courtesy Fetes Miss Reynolds

A lingerie shower in the home of Terri Newton, No. 2 Fairfax Court, honored Terri Reynolds recently. Miss Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Reynolds, is the bride-elect of Richard Koenig, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Koenig.

Co-hostess with Miss Newton was Anna Vick. Approximately 25 guests attended the pre-nuptial party.

The colors of blue and white were used in decorations and an arrangement of daisies centered the serving table. (She has a closetful of lovely dresses.)

Kittenish Vitamins Raises Her Hackles

By BETTY CANARY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — After giving my kitten his vitamin drops he jumped on the table and knocked the bottle over on the living room rug. I used spray rug cleaners on it but the fishy odor persists. I will appreciate any help. Have used lots of the Pointers in the past. — GAY.

DEAR POLLY — Undoubtedly you are aware of the scarcity of clothes for larger women. Also, many sizes are higher priced but clothing firms do not deduct for the same design in small sizes. My pet peeve is that I think they overcharge unfairly for sizes 18 and over and I really resent this. — LAURA.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. H.P. who wants to know if it will hurt her sewing machine to sew fiberglass valances to match her draperies. I have made many fiberglass curtains on my machine. When I am finished I vacuum the machine very well with the soft brush and then use a soft moist cloth to clean it more carefully. Then wipe it dry. — MRS. D. A. P.

DEAR POLLY — After many years in the sewing machine business our advice is NOT to sew fiberglass on your sewing machine. It gets into the mechanism, acts like a grinding compound and causes excessive wear that makes trouble. — B.S.

Courtesy Honors Miss McCullough

Mary Kay McCullough was honored with a pre-nuptial party Tuesday in the Garden Room of the Midland Country Club.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. William B. Browder Jr. and daughter, Vicki, and Mrs. Charles R. Ervin and daughter, Mrs. David J. Hurta of Austin.

Serving in the house party were Mrs. E. A. McCullough, aunt of the honoree, Mrs. James E. Borron, Nancy Lynch and Mrs. David T. Clark of Lubbock.

The round serving table was covered with a yellow satin cloth and centered with an arrangement of lime and yellow spider mums and dried eucalyptus in a tall silver epergne.

Special guests were Heidi Hoyer of Houston, formerly of Midland, and Mrs. Hugh D. McCullough and Mrs. Elmer W. Barnett, mothers of the prospective bride and bridegroom.

Miss McCullough and her fiancé, Geoffrey L. Barnett, plan to marry Aug. 31 in St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Should He Use HER Kids At HIS Wedding?

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband, Jess, is getting married again. Jess and I have three children—a girl, 8, and two boys, 16 and 17.

The little dummy who Jess is marrying evidently has never heard that when a person has already had one big wedding (and Jess has), the second wedding should be small and simple. At least that's the way it is in Louisville, Ky.

Anyway, Jess wants to use my kids in a big church wedding. He's asked my daughter to be the flower girl, and the boys to be ushers. He never mentioned inviting me, which is just as well, because if I get invited I will not come.

Three questions: Does Jess have the right to use my kids at his wedding? Should he even be having a wedding like this? Should I send a gift?

COURIER-JOURNAL FAN

DEAR FAN: Of course Jess has the right to "use" your kids at his wedding. They're his kids, too. A bride who has been married before usually has a quiet, simple wedding, regardless of how many times the bridegroom has been up to bat, so if this is her first, she's entitled. And if your sincere good wishes go along with a gift, send one. Otherwise, don't.

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old daughter wears practically nothing but jeans. She spends hours on her hair, nails and makeup before going on a date, then she puts on jeans! (She has a closetful of lovely dresses.)

I keep telling her that I think boys like to see girls in dresses

Stamp Firm Attacks S&L Premium Edict

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Texas regulation that would forbid the offering of trading stamps in return for opening or adding to a savings account has come under attack by the Sperry-Hutchinson Co., (S&H) a trading stamp firm.

Named as defendants in a suit filed in 20th District Court by S&H are Texas Savings and Loan Commissioner W. Sale Lewis and The Saving and Loan Section of the Texas Finance Commission. The firm is asking Dist. Judge Charles Mathews to declare the regulation "null and void" and that a temporary injunction be issued to stop enforcement of the rule.

The commission adopted the regulation July 15 and set Sept. 15 as the day the rule would take effect.

The New York firm alleges in its petition that the commission overstepped its bounds in adopting the regulation which reads: "No association shall offer or give as an attraction or inducement for opening or adding to a savings account certificate savings or deposit or maintaining a minimum balance . . . any merchandise, premiums or other item of value . . ."

The firm argues that "licensing contracts and agreements which the plaintiff has with (33) savings and loans associations located within the State of Texas are valid and legal contracts." The contracts, the firm argues, "have created and vested in the plaintiff a valuable right . . . which is entitled to protection."

The firm further argues that the commission is depriving it of constitutional rights through "denial of due process" and "equal protection."

When the regulation was adopted, members of the commission said 80 Texas savings associations petitioned for the

Panama Students Stone United States Embassy

PANAMA (AP) — Panamanian students stoned the United States Embassy here, smashing 80 windows as Panamanian national guard troops stood nearby directing traffic around the demonstrators.

Officials said the protest, which included banana peels thrown on the embassy's front steps, was against the refusal of an American banana company, United Brands, to pay the export tax levied by Panama, Costa Rica and Honduras.

An Embassy spokesman said a formal protest would be filed with the Panamanian government because of the demonstration Wednesday.

An estimated 300 high school students gathered in front of the embassy and for 45 minutes protested peacefully. But as most of the students began to leave, some of the group tried to haul down the American flag in front of the building.

Dental Insurance May Revolutionize Dentistry Field

By SANDRA GETTENS

NEW YORK (AP) — Dentistry is probably where health care was in the '30s, just beginning to break through as a recognized responsibility beyond individuals, claims Martin Dubilier, chairman of the board for a dental products and services group.

According to his statistics, 50 per cent of all Americans never go to the dentist and half of those have severe tooth problems. This is particularly true of people over 40. Once teeth deteriorate, he says, a person would have to spend anywhere between $1,000 to $2,000 putting his mouth back into decent shape. "Most people," he explained, "don't have that kind of money, so their teeth get worse."

Revolution In Dentistry

"But the thing is, dental insurance is going to cause a revolution in the field of dentistry. Right now there are some 22 million Americans covered with some form of insurance. And this is giving the older person a chance to get work done in his mouth."

Dental procedures are simple, Dubilier declares. Yet for a sophisticated job requiring coloring, matching, the use of attachments and bridge work, he says only 20 per cent of dentists are well qualified to carry out those procedures, along with perhaps 10 per cent of the lab people. He notes it takes a good ceramacist approximately five hours to build a bridge, depending on how many teeth he's constructing. So it's labor that brings about high costs.

"But if people start getting coverage from a dental plan they're going to get the work done. In the future," he says, "this is going to be a major problem."

Dentists More Occupied

"Dentists up until five years ago were only 60 per cent occupied. Because of dental plans, this has changed, with most dentists being between 80 to 90 per cent occupied. Dentists have reached a point where they're just about used up their capacity. Although there's a 2 per cent increase in dental population a year, that doesn't even come close to satisfying what's happening in terms of demand."

His statistics also forecast that between 80 and 100 million people will be covered by 1980 owing to recent trends for unions to negotiate dental plans in their packages. Within the next five years almost everyone can expect some form of dental coverage, he says.

"But assuming," he continues, "80 million new patients are added to the roster, and of the 60 million some 25 million need major work done, that means something like five visits per person. So you're adding 125 million visits over and above what dentists now have, just for people having major work done. The dental population can't handle it. There's no way they can take 125 million new chair patients. That's

Plan To Allow Art Exhibitions

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A plan which will enable a small but important art museum in Southeast Florida to import six outstanding exhibitions of world-famous art, was announced here.

The plan was developed by J. James Akston, who serves on the boards of museums in New York, Washington and Palm Beach. He is also a trustee of the Norton Gallery and School of Art in West Palm Beach.

He formed a group, the Palm Beach Sponsors Committee Inc., recruited from prominent local art patrons and collectors, businessmen and socialites. They are providing funds for a three-year program of exhibitions, to be capped by a giant sculpture show in 1978. Akston donated $100,000 through the Zitta and Joseph James Akston Foundation. He expects to raise an additional $400,000 through 40 more pledges of $10,000 each.

The committee pays all expenses, including organizational work. The museum hangs the show. The first to be seen is American Pioneer Color Abstractionists, owned by Vincent Melzac of Washington, in two parts — Washington Color Painters and New York School Painters.

Prolific President

President John Tyler was the father of 14 children, eight of them boys. There was a 37-year-old span between the birth of the eldest son and the youngest — and 117 years elapsed between the birth of the first child and the death of the last one.

really a problem and no one's come up with solutions yet." For those seeking insurance, Dubilier does not recommend the majority of existing private companies. His reason — cost. He says the primary need for insurance is in case of a catastrophe. But in the event a serious accident should happen requiring dentistry, one's medical insurance would cover it. So the purpose of dental insurance has to be different.

"Most of the individual plans I've seen are not worthwhile," says the Sterndent executive. "Usually these companies call for an individual to join the plan getting so much per procedure. But the amount he gets is so small, leaving him with 30 to 40 per cent of the costs.

"The good ones are where companies pay a piece of the action and negotiate a rate that's reasonable. Basically, it's like health insurance. You can get health insurance reasonably or unreasonably; some are state regulated, some aren't. The same holds true for dental insurance, only they are newer so there isn't as much regulation. But there will be."

Preventive dentistry is still the best effort, according to Dubilier. And there are devices on the market now which drastically reduce the rate of deterioration, particularly for youngsters. Fluoride, he says, is just one.

The dental industry is working on a number of new products to reduce the time factor involved in dental procedures.

For example, he says, it takes an orthodontist 12 hours on the average to treat a young patient and it requires three years of his time thereafter before he's completed the mouth.

Now there are methods available which allow him to do the same thing in four hours and gives the dentist a clear view of the total mouth without having to look in the mouth. Another, under study, will allow teeth to be drilled without the use of a rotating device.

"All this will cut down on patient-dentist time," Dubilier says. "Finally, there's beginning to be a lot of money spent on dental research."

Nixon Subpoenaed In Trial

without prior court approval. However, the recipient may ask the court to dismiss a subpoena.

Ehrlichman is one of six defendants scheduled to go on trial Sept. 9 on charges of obstructing justice by attempting to thwart the investigation of the Watergate break-in at the Democratic party's national headquarters in 1972.

The other defendants are former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman; former Atty.

Gen. John N. Mitchell; former Haldeman aide Gordon Strachan; former Nixon re-election committee aide and one-time assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian; and Kenneth Wells Parkinson, a re-election committee lawyer.

Ehrlichman had attempted to subpoena Nixon while he was still president.

That was in connection with California state charges against Ehrlichman, most of which since have been dismissed.

growing out of the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding of Beverly Hills.

A California judge issued a subpoena in that case but before the Washington, D.C., Superior Court could act on it, the issue was made moot by dismissal of the charges.

Ehrlichman was convicted July 12 in U.S. district court on one count of conspiring to violate Fielding's civil rights and two counts of lying to a Watergate grand jury. He was sentenced to serve 30 months to 3 years in prison, but is free while appealing the sentence.

Before that trial began, Ehrlichman was in a subpoena fight with the White House over access to personal notes he had left there when he resigned April 30, 1973.

That dispute was settled in a compromise with the White House after U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell threatened to dismiss the case if the White House withheld evidence.

promises to give their problems his personal attention.

Contrasting the sessions with those under former President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Milton J. Shapp, D-Pa., called it "the difference between the sun shining and a dark day."

Ford was touching base from the cities to the Congress.

He also had faced continuance of his first international crisis, brought on by the renewal of fighting in Cyprus. After day-long conferences with Kissinger and a transatlantic phone call to British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in the diplomatic maneuverings, Ford concluded as the crisis eased at day's end: "I think we handled it all right."

At lunchtime, Ford held a working session with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy of Egypt, who came away with assurances that the United States is anxious to help strengthen relations with his country.

Ford had started out his administration with word that he had no plans for domestic or foreign travel. But it didn't last long.

An invitation, previously extended to Nixon to visit Japan by the end of this year, was offered to Ford and accepted

Wednesday. White House officials said the visit probably would not come until late November or early December.

Ford also told the governors he had "no magic formula to turn off a spigot and stop double digit inflation," according to Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, D-Utah, chairman of the National Governors Conference.

There also was an expression of "serious disappointment" from Ford when he learned that the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee cut $5.6 billion from the defense budget, a move he said could have "an adverse effect on the nation's security."

Stuttgart's Lord Mayor Dies At 69

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — Stuttgart's Lord Mayor Arndt Klett, 69, died Wednesday of a heart attack while vacationing in the Black Forest.

Klett, a liberal-leaning independent, was named to the lord mayor post in 1945 by French troops occupying the bomb-demolished city. During the last 29 years — the longest reign of any West German mayor — he helped rebuild Stuttgart into the industrial and cultural hub of southwest Germany. His current term was to last until 1978.

Turkish Soldiers Capture Cyprus Port City Of Famagusta

will appear unwilling to take any practical step to defend the very existence, let alone the territorial integrity of an independent Cyprus, we are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can."

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said after a meeting with U.S. Ambassador William Macomber in Ankara the United States felt "the most satisfactory and enduring solution to the Cyprus problem would be for the establishment of two separate autonomous regions" for the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus.

But he said Washington believes such a solution should be obtained at the conference table and not by military action.

The British government said there was virtually no chance of a diplomatic breakthrough to resolve the Cyprus crisis until Turkish troops stopped advancing on the island.

There was an air of unreality in Athens as Greeks streamed to the beaches, although their country was under military mobilization for possible war with Turkey. Shops were shuttered and most government ministries were closed for Assumption Day.

At the Geneva negotiations, Turkey first demanded that Cyprus become a federation of two autonomous states, with the 120,000 Turkish Cypriots occupying the territory north of the Lefka-Nicosia-Famagusta line and the 520,000 Greek Cypriots getting the rest.

The Greek Cypriots rejected that and along with the Greeks, another Turkish proposal to create six autonomous Turkish Cypriot enclaves scattered about the island. These would have totaled about as much territory as originally demanded. Turkey then quit the negotiations and renewed the attack Wednesday.

After another cease-fire call from the United Nations Security Council, U.N. representatives arranged a local cease-fire for the Nicosia area effective early Wednesday night. About an hour after the deadline, the firing and Turkish air attacks subsided.

A U.N. spokesman said three Austrian troops of the peace-keeping force were killed and 22 U.N. soldiers were wounded Wednesday. But there were no comprehensive casualty reports from either the Turkish or Greek Cypriot sides.

The Security Council scheduled another meeting today.

Despite Greece's withdrawal Wednesday from military participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the large Greek and Turkish forces massed on the border between NATO's two southeast members, there was no word of any trouble at the Greek-Turkish border.

In Athens, Foreign Minister George Mavros said U.S. military bases in Greece are protected by bilateral agreements and expressed doubt that such agreements can be broken.

The United States government, chief military supplier of both Greece and Turkey, warned the two that it would cut off all supplies to them if they went to war.

Marijuana, Hashish, Drugs Confiscated In Raid Today

An early morning raid today at a Midland home produced a large quantity of marijuana, some hashish and amphetamines and resulted in the arrest of two Midland men.

Arrested were John Dee Conder and Robert Mitchell Burton, both of 100 Ridgely St. Bonds of $5,000 each were set by Justice of the Peace R. H. Pine. Midland police said they found 92 marijuana plants growing in the backyard of the residence. There also were two bags of marijuana, two bags of hashish and 19 amphetamines in the house.

Officers also were investigating the forgery and passing of two checks which had been written on Mrs. Ricky Martin's checking account after the checkbook had been taken from her residence.

One of the checks was for $25 and was passed at Gibson's Discount Center, while the other was a $35.5 check passed at Conners Grocery. The checks were taken from Mrs. Martin's purse in her home at 3311 Park Lane.

Apparently the victims of a house burglary arrived only shortly after cuprits had raided their home Wednesday. Robert Dean, 3200 MaMar St., told officers that five six packs of beer, a fifth of tequila, some fudge bars, ice cream and coats from a collection were taken.

Three bicycles were found in the backyard of the residence. Entry had been made into the house by removing a window from a west bedroom.

When Dean arrived, he found cigarettes still smoking in the ashtray in the den, several glasses that contained liquor and ice, evidence that someone had been cooking, a ruffled bed and the stereo playing.

A steel bar with a chain attached to it was found in the den.

Officers also are looking into a stolen vehicle report in which Danny Runyan, 4405 Pleasant St., said a 1962 brown Chevrolet pickup truck was stolen from him while it was parked at 3704 W. Wall St.

The offense occurred at 2 a.m. today. The truck was valued at $600. Officers said the keys were left in the truck.

A 10-key adding machine, valued at $150, was reported missing from the Family Counseling Center, 2101 W. Wall St.

What appeared to be an attempted burglary at the Alta Taylor residence, 2408 W. Golf Course Road, also was investigated.

Watergaters To Construct House Project

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglars Bernard Barker, Eugenio Martinez and Virgilio Gonzalez, along with a Florida builder, plan a new housing project in Central Florida.

The $7 million development will be called "Watergate Hills."

"There's a lot of water and a lot of hills there," said builder John Priestess, who met Martinez and Gonzalez while all three were in the federal prison at Eglin Air Force Base. Barker was released from the prison on bond the same day Priestess arrived.

Priestess, who served time for bribing a federal housing official, said Wednesday that he purchased the Lake Wales site before his conviction last year. He said he will direct land development and construction and his partners will handle sales.

Pre-School Registration Continues

Registration is continuing for pre-school classes for 4- and 5-year-old children to be offered in a series of five sessions by the Midland Parks and Recreation Department.

Classes will begin Sept. 9, with each session lasting five weeks. Parents may register their children for one or all five sessions at a cost of $8 per session.

Each phase is different, and since classes are limited to 15 children, parents intending for their children to attend all the sessions should sign up now for the remaining four.

The purpose of the pre-school class is to create a "happy and secure feeling in your children towards his first encounter with a school situation." The ages are purposely mixed in the classes to give each child the advantage of working and playing with both older and younger children.

The pre-school classes will have the full use of the department's gymnasium, where classes are to be held, for games, dancing, exercises and free play.

The classroom program, designed so that each child can work on his own level and achieve success, will include a kindergarten newspaper, reading readiness workbook, phonics, alphabet, number, readiness, writing, watercolors, storytelling and movies.

An experienced teacher is being hired by the Parks and Recreation Department to instruct the pre-schoolers.

Classes will be 9-11:30 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays or Tuesdays and Thursdays. The five sessions are scheduled as follows: first session, Sept. 9-Oct. 16; second session, Oct. 21-Nov. 21; third session, Dec. 2-19 and Jan. 6-18; fourth session, Jan. 27-Feb. 27, and fifth session, March 10-27 and April 7-17.

GM Lawyer Urges Penalty On Electric Air Conditioning

AUSTIN (AP) — A General Motors Inc. lawyer has suggested that a penalty be levied on private citizens who use electricity for air conditioning.

Attorney Richard Nolan made the suggestion Wednesday while cross examining a San Antonio city official during Texas Railroad Commission hearing on Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.'s plan to curtail natural gas deliveries to electric power generators in order to give more to big industrial customers.

R. M. Jolly, assistant general manager of the San Antonio Public Service Board, said he did not think a surcharge on monthly bills of consumers with electric air conditioners would work. Jolly said the city would have no means of enforcing such a surcharge and he predicted many people would go ahead and pay the penalty in order to get air conditioning.

General Motors is one of several large industries supporting Lo-Vaca's curtailment plan of putting industries ahead of electric utilities in allocating Lo-Vaca's short supplies of natural gas. General Motors said it is an indirect customer since the gas it uses at its Arlington manufacturing plant is purchased from Lone Star Gas Co., one of Lo-Vaca's customers.

Grants Heatedly Debated

Members of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday approved with favorable comment a seven-item agenda of grant applications, but ran into a heated debate on the merits of a proposed 1975 Criminal Justice Council plan of program priorities.

The criminal justice division continuation projects totaling $260,500 received questioning from board member Jim Kent of Midland. Kent argued that $37,000 being requested from the state CJC office for the Permian Basin's 1975 planning grant was excessive and inflationary. He said the total application, including six items, would create additional reams of paperwork which no one would read.

Kent asked the board, "Are we just a rubber stamp committee?" He asked if it was the policy of the PBRPC to give approval of all projects, "just in order to pad our budget on the state level."

Kent then questioned several of the items listed for approval under New Projects for the criminal justice division of the PBRPC, and noted that a proposed $95,000 major crime task force for the city of Kermit in Winkler County was not much more than a "joke."

Kent also noted that Kermit and Winkler County were not even members of the PBRPC. It was brought to light by other members of the board that many of the nine proposed new projects would not receive final funding approval. They said all of the projects must be screened by three governing bodies before any money could be spent.

The board noted that although a lack of communication between some of the department heads and city and county governing bodies was now evident on the proposals, the communication situation would improve when the projects went through the screening process. Urge Early Submission

The board noted that it was necessary for the department heads to let the PBRPC and the state people have a general idea as to what projects needed study in order that funds might be set aside in advance. The board said that bids not submitted early for state funding would be allocated to some other area of designated need.

But even with that explanation, Kent proposed an amendment to the motion to approve the CJC projects that would have deleted a $9,000 Midland Inter-agency training project for the police department. He also proposed to change the $95,000 Kermit crime task force project to a $95,000 Midland project to support a first offender traffic school here. Kent said that he made the last proposal "more in jest than

Taylor, Erath Counties Eligible For Drought Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced today that farmers in two Texas counties can apply for emergency loans to help them recover from drought losses.

Officials said Erath (Stephenville) and Taylor (Abilene) counties were designated for emergency aid through the Farmers Home Administration as the result of drought since last November.

"Farmers in Erath County reported loss of crops, land damaged from wind erosion and shallow irrigation wells going dry during the past nine months," the department said. "Similar conditions occurred in Taylor County, and livestock farmers said the lack of feed reduced their cow-calf herd and stocker-feeder calves."

anything else," but noted that an investigation into prostitution and gambling in Winkler County, which the Kermit proposal is for, was completely out of line.

The first of Kent's proposals failed by a vote of 7-6, and all of the proposed $925,500 worth of new projects were given a favorable comment by the board to be sent on to the state Criminal Justice Department for funding consideration.

Other grant applications approved by the board included two Texas Highway Department studies for Midland and Odessa. One is the proposed loop road for Midland and the other a proposed north route between the two cities.

Midland County also received a grant approval for the development of a personnel administration, job classification and compensation system to bring the county in line with federal and state guidelines for employment.

Airport improvement programs grants were approved for Gaines, Martin, Monahan and Ector counties while Dawson County was approved for an industrial site grant. Gaines and Martin counties also received approval for grants supporting their respective adult and juvenile probation projects.

Alma Sweeping Across Venezuela With Heavy Rains

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Alma was moving across northwestern Venezuela today after lashing Caracas with 55 mile an hour winds and heavy rains.

Gale warnings were up for the islands of Bonaire, Curacao and Aruba and for the Paraguana Peninsula in Venezuela and the Guajira Peninsula in Colombia, said officials of the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

At 6 a.m. today, a spokesman said Alma was located about 1-250 miles southeast of Miami. The storm was moving westward at about 28 m.p.h.

The season's first tropical storm raised the island of Trinidad on Wednesday, leaving one person dead and a trail of fallen trees and electricity poles. Police said a woman standing on a road was killed when she was struck by debris blown from a rooftop.

positions through the committee for the Western Region. The judge also commended Mahon on his work for getting the Federal Court in Midland.

While making the tour of the court facilities, the judge noted that the Midland bench position was necessary because of the increased load of criminal cases being handled. He said that a temporary judge was coming to Midland and hearing 150 or more civil cases each year, and approximately 30 to 50 criminal cases.

The judge noted that with criminal cases holding priority, the civil docket is building up, and more bench positions are needed to ease the load of hold-overs.

Judge Spears is presently on vacation, and took the tour of the Midland facilities as part of his personal effort to acquaint himself with the operations in his district. He was accompanied on the tour by Dan W. Benedict, of San Antonio clerk of the Western District and of Texas.

One-Legged Vet In South Vietnam Sets Self Ablaze

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A one-legged war veteran and father of five children burned himself to death today in front of the National Assembly building.

A police spokesman said the man, Phan Van Lam, 35, died in an anti-Communist protest. The police said he left behind a 100-page notebook containing numerous anti-Communist slogans and a letter telling his children to work hard in school.

Second Suicide

It was the second self-immolation of a South Vietnamese veteran in Saigon in five weeks. The government staged a propaganda campaign after the last burning, claiming the victim died for the cause of peace.

Witnesses said Lam, who had an artificial left leg, leaped to the front of the assembly building in downtown Saigon, planted a walking stick with a South Vietnamese flag hanging from it, poured gasoline over himself and set himself ablaze.

The police command said officers on the scene tried to put out the flames immediately with fire extinguishers.

Four Men Die In Fort Worth Fire

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Four men died early today when flames trapped them on the second floor of a two-story apartment near the downtown area. A fifth man leaped from a window to stay alive.

The fire broke out at 1:30 a.m. in a ground floor room of the building. Investigators believe it was caused by a man jumping from a window.

Three of the victims were identified as Rodolfo Botello, 66; Gilberto Botello, 63, and Jose Cox, 68. The last name of the fourth victim was Turner, first name not known.

A fifth man, David Castro, was taken to Parkland Hospital in Dallas with serious burns.

Fire investigator Bill Noah said the blaze broke out in the downstairs room of Paul McCarty. He and another downstairs tenant, Jack McBeal, 57, escaped without burns. McCarty was treated for smoke inhalation.

A fireman, Hattie Hinkle, also was treated for smoke inhalation. Noah said McCarty said he had been smoking cigarettes before going to sleep. "He said he woke up and a rug, clothing and a couch were on fire, flamed by a four-speed fan on the floor. He said he tried to put it out with a milk carton full of water but he couldn't."

Noah said McCarty roused McBeal and the two men fled.

District Fire Chief C. W. Yancey said the building was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived at 1:35 a.m.

"There was no possibility of making an entry or attempting a rescue," Yancey said. "We went in as soon as the flames were down." It was extinguished at 2:35 a.m.

Noah said one victim was found at the bottom of the stairs where he had either run or fallen trying to escape the burning building.

"The flames went right up the stairs, and there was on the second floor were just trapped," he said.

Yancey said Castro was found between the rooming house and the house immediately east. A woman in the neighboring house said she heard a "boom" when the fire began. Fire said it was probably the man jumping from the second story window and striking her house.

Labor Backs Inflation Task Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO today endorsed with reservations President Ford's call for creation of a task force to monitor inflation but said it would have no part of another wage-price control system.

"In the name of honesty and fair dealing with the American public, don't pretend this task force is an answer to the economic problems of America," Andrew Blumiller, chief lobbyist for the labor federation, told the Senate Banking Committee.

The committee is considering Ford's call for creation of a task force to provide a focal point in government for monitoring wage-price increases and battling inflation.

Receiving 10 year ruby stained pins were Mrs. Janice Carier, Mrs. Betty Outright, Miss Celia Harris and Mrs. Lorene Ray, nursing service; Mrs. Nellie E. Hailey and Mrs. Cindy Layson, dietary.

Honored for five years service with pearl pins were Wayne E. Ulrich, administrator; Mrs. Marcia Smith Stinson, EEG-EKG; Mrs. Mamie Baspard, Mrs. Ophelia L. Hurd, dietary; Mrs. Maria F. Romano, housekeeping; Johnny S. Douglas, engineering.

Also, Mrs. Arthur B. Williams, laboratory; Mrs. Dorothy L. Ferguson, Mrs. Ola Belle Hanks, Mrs. Ruth Ramirez, Mrs. Dorothy Tonde, and Mrs. Gladys C. Martin, nursing service.

ers the task force as "one part of our over-all anti-inflationary arsenal, whose major weapons continue to be responsible fiscal and monetary policy."

Blumiller said labor would have no part of another wage-price control system, such as that under President Richard Nixon. The net result of that system, Blumiller said, was a decrease in workers' buying power.

Kenneth Rush, economic counselor to the President, said the Ford administration considered

American Boy Enjoys Summer Camp In Russia

By LYNNE OLSON
MOSCOW (AP) — Like any other summer camper, 13-year-old Chuck Whitehead got homesick, played practical jokes on his counselor, didn't like some of the food and wrote dutiful letters home.

But there was a difference: Chuck is an American and his camp was one for Soviet school children on the Black Sea near Yalta.

He lives in Moscow with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitehead of Greenbelt, Md. Dad is an attaché at the U.S. Embassy here.

Both the lively, black-haired seventh grader and his mother expressed satisfaction with the camp experience.

"I had a nice time," Chuck said. "I wouldn't mind going back."

"Chuck was going to a diplomatic school here, with no contact at all with Russians," added Mrs. Whitehead. "We thought it would be a good experience, though we told him he could come home if he didn't like it. But it turned out very well."

Chuck was the only American at the Artek Pioneer Camp, which annually takes in 25,000 Soviet children and several hundred children from foreign countries, mostly from the Eastern European bloc.

One out of every four children in this country spends part of his summer vacation at one of the many Pioneer camps scattered throughout the Soviet Union.

Artek is the most prestigious camp, and a stay there is given as a reward to hard workers in both school and society, according to Soviet officials.

The camp is coed, with boys and girls staying in the same houses but segregated by sex in the sparsely furnished sleeping rooms. Chuck bunked with three boys from Eastern bloc countries. "The Russians pretty much stayed with other Russians," he said.

When he arrived, Chuck said he didn't know that the camp was "so military, so snap-to."

The Young Pioneers lead a regimented life, with practically every minute accounted for by their counselors, called commanders.

Marching and ceremonies continued throughout the day, interspersed with sports, handicrafts, cultural activities, sightseeing and cleaning up the camp.

But like all children, the campers tried to get around the regimentation whenever they could.

Texas Papers Support Bush In Editorial Comment

By The Associated Press
Since Gerald Ford ascended to the presidency, newspapers across Texas have been near silent in endorsing a vice presidential prospect.

Several names have been touted in Washington, among them Nelson Rockefeller, George Bush, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., presidential counselor Anne Armstrong of Texas and others.

But of the few Texas newspapers that have spoken out since Ford assumed office last Friday, all have supported Republican National Committee chairman Bush, of Houston, as Ford's vice president.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram in its Monday edition supported Bush as the "choice of a majority of Midland and Texas residents."

Bush is a former resident of Midland.

"His knowledge of the oil business and its problems also would be a valuable asset to the administration in its efforts to overcome the energy crisis," the newspaper said.

The Reporter-Telegram pointed to Bush's background in Congress, as United Nations ambassador and as GOP party chairman in promoting Bush, as Ford's choice.

"Other good men, of course, are in contention for the vice presidential appointment, but Chairman George Bush is the man for the job," the newspaper said.

The Dallas Times Herald carried an editorial column Wednesday written by Felix R. McKnight which praised Bush as "the tall and learned Texas change in tactics and personnel."

who provides the perfect political, geographical and philosophical balance for Mr. Ford."

The column outlined Bush's background, emphasizing that "no time in American political history has so urgently demanded a complete shift in strategy."

particular, is George Bush's business acumen; he achieved noteworthy success in oil before entering public life," the News Herald said.

The Austin American-Statesman in its Tuesday edition supported Bush as one prospect whose "base is not confined to Texas or the Southwest."

"Of interest to taxpayers in general, and to oilmen in particular, is George Bush's business acumen; he achieved noteworthy success in oil before entering public life," the News Herald said.

Ladies Exercise Class To Begin

The fall season ladies walking, jogging and exercise class offered by the Midland Department of Parks and Recreation will begin Sept. 9 in the gymnasium at 300 Baldwin St.

Mrs. Em Carnett, recreation supervisor, announced that the class will meet at 2 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week. The session will continue until Dec. 20, and a second session will be offered again in January of the new year.

The ladies' "keep fit" class is designed to improve and maintain cardiovascular endurance, improve muscle tone and maintain a healthy body weight.

The class period will begin with a series of warm-up walking exercises, arm circles, leg bends, side skipping, body twists and similar exercises. Fast walking or jogging follows, with most women working up to a half a mile on the grass tract outside the gym.

Following the jogging session, class members begin a series of exercises emphasizing stretching and flexibility which are coupled with aerobic dance movements to improve posture, balance and coordination.

Persons interested in registering may contact the Parks and Recreation office.

Simon Fest Ends Early

ODESSA — Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater, has canceled the final two weekends of its Neil Simon Festival.

The summer mini-season, which began in early July, was to have concluded with performances of Simon's "Plaza Suite" this weekend and next. However, the series of performances was canceled after one of the pivotal characters in the comedy suffered a back injury.

Permian Playhouse's new season will begin in late September with the musical "I Do! I Do!" which will star Terry Milligan and Barbara Iglehart. The musical, based on the Jan de Hartog play, "The Fourposter," is being directed by Playhouse associate director James Walters.

Dance Studio Sets Show, Open House

An art show and open house is planned Sunday afternoon at the Bingham Dance Studio in the Imperial Shopping Center here. The public is invited to attend.

Everett F. Bingham, director, recently moved the studio to 3206-C W. Wadley Ave., from its longtime location in The Village shopping center. The studio is beginning its 22nd year in Midland.

At the 2:30 to 5 p.m. open house Sunday, works by Midland artist Pat Metts will be on view. Mrs. Metts' collection includes paintings in various media, as well as drawings.

POSTER POINTERS — Midland artist Jean Cappadonna Nichols offers some pointers to seven-year-old Karen Johnson as the young miss prepares a poster to enter in the current poster contest at Museum of the Southwest. Winning entries will be used to publicize the annual "Septemberfest" event coming up Sept. 7 on the museum grounds. A "poster party" to help contestants in planning and preparing entries will be held Saturday between 2:30 and 5 p.m. at the museum's Lancaster House, 1705 W. Indiana St. Entries in the two divisions in the contest, one for adults and older students, another for youngsters, will be received until 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 24. There is no entry fee and persons may enter as many posters as they wish. Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson of Denton.

'Broadway Southwest' Title And Promise

EL PASO — "Broadway Southwest" is the title as well as the promise of the sparkling premiere season coming up at the brand-new El Paso Civic Center Theater.

Mummers On Tonight

Midland's Summer Mummers will offer the first of three Thursday night performances of their current melodrama, "Rascality on the Rig," tonight. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. in place of the 8:30 starting time for Friday and Saturday night performances. All presentations are in American Legion Hall, 206 S. Colorado St.

The series of Thursday performances was announced last week after Friday and Saturday night performances of the popular show were sold out through Aug. 31.

Space is still available for today's 8 p.m. performance. Ticket and table reservations may be made by telephoning Midland Community Theatre at 682-2544.

Summer Recital Presented Here

Summer piano students of Bill Smiley were heard in recital Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deen Williams.

Smiley, who is majoring in voice and minoring in piano at The University of Texas-Austin, has taught privately in the city for the last two summers. Recitalists for the Sunday event were Andy Williams, Gretchen Koch, Quay Mercer, Beth Ann Scroggin, Sharon Scroggin, Tracy Williams and Wendy Williams. Smiley also performed on the program.

Georgia Twitty Keeps Track Of Country-Western Gossip

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood has Rona Barrett to keep track of that town's world's famous, near-famous and infamous. But who is on duty in Nashville? Georgia Twitty, that's who.

A cheerful, pleasant-voiced lady of 40, she runs "Georgia Twitty's Music City Hotline," a radio gossip show that covers events and personalities in Nashville's pop and country music scene.

It's been on the air five years. By her count, it currently is heard on 104 stations. She tapes 18 one-minute shows per week.

Miss Twitty, a native of Florence, Ala., who said she was educated at Randolph-Macon College in Lynchburg, Va., and at Memphis State, says she doesn't try to spice her show with lurid stories about the stars.

For one thing, it might anger the stars' fans. For another, she says, "I think the country music audience, even though it's pretty cosmopolitan nowadays, is tired of who is sleeping with whom."

She says the fans tend to prefer detailed reports on the more innocent aspects of life among country music performers — what they eat, what sports they like, how they dress at home and so forth.

But she says she also chronicles stronger stuff, such as Music City feuds or romances. The latter, she adds, always are handled obliquely when the parties involved in the romancing are married to other parties.

Her pet peeve, she says, is a tendency of some country music performers to suddenly get religion amid much fanfare.

MAA To Preview New Year Friday

Midland Arts Association will preview its new year with a social gathering for its members Friday night.

The event will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Chandler, 2005 Neely St.

Mrs. Glenn Ford, MAA president, said programs and projects of the organization planned for the coming year will be outlined at the event; annual dues from members will also be received. All members of the organization are urged to attend.

Spectacular Glider
The albatross is among the most spectacular gliders of all birds.

when they've gone without a hit record for several years.

In most cases, she says, this is purely a publicity ploy aimed at reviving a fading career. To the less sophisticated fans, she says, this approach "gets 'em in the gut every time."

How does she compare herself with Hollywood's Rona Barrett?

"I think we're both knowledgeable about our work," said Miss Twitty. "But she has a personality that differs from mine completely. I think she's basically a very cynical individual. I'm not cynical at all."

Midnight Telephone Call Signals Ford's First Crisis

By GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the minutes before midnight, the white telephone beside his bed rang, and Gerald R. Ford found himself facing the first crisis of his four-day-old presidency.

Henry A. Kissinger was calling from home. In a deep voice still shaded with traces of his native German, the secretary of state reported on events half a world away.

The Greek-Turkish peace talks in Geneva had collapsed, and the fragile cease-fire on Cyprus had been shattered by large-scale Turkish air and ground attacks.

It was a genuine, high-stakes international crisis—the kind Richard M. Nixon had thrived on. But four days earlier, Nixon had become a private citizen and Ford the President. Now the white telephone was beside Ford's bed.

A reconstruction of Ford's actions and reactions, based on interviews with White House and other administration officials, discloses that:

—He leaned heavily on Kissinger, repeatedly seeking his advice while "making all the decisions himself," one close aide said.

—His first person-to-person diplomacy via transatlantic telephone calls developed almost accidentally.

—He kept a busy, domestically oriented schedule even while dealing with the international crisis.

The first public indication in Washington that a crisis was brewing came late Tuesday night when Kissinger and Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco were called from the table at the Egyptian embassy, where they were at a dinner honoring visiting Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy.

Sometime between 11 p.m. and midnight, Kissinger made his first call to Ford at his home in suburban Virginia.

The secretary reported that morning, and gave a few answers: He said he and Kissinger had "conferred about the matter last night" and that "I have to go ... meet with the secretary at the White House."

Newspapers and manila envelopes tucked under his arms, a briefcase in his hand, he stepped into the back seat of the black limousine for the 13-minute drive to the White House.

His first meeting, beginning minutes after his 7:45 a.m. arrival, was not with Kissinger but with Maj. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, deputy assistant to the President for national security affairs, and a Central Intelligence Agency representative.

They carried large maps into the Oval Office to brief the President on the military developments.

They carried large maps into the Oval Office to brief the President on the military developments.

opments. An hour later, Kissinger briefed Ford on the political developments.

The United States was in a delicate diplomatic situation, Great Britain, not the United States, is the guarantor of the 1960 Cyprus independence agreement. Thus, it was London, not Washington, which was supervising Greek-Turkish talks.

Pressed For Patch-Up But Kissinger and Nixon had been powerful, behind-the-scenes forces in shaping the now-shattered cease-fire, and now Kissinger and Ford were pressing to have it patched up.

While the secretary was with Ford, British Foreign Minister James Callaghan returned a call Kissinger had placed to him earlier. The call was routed into the Oval Office and the veteran British diplomat found himself speaking to a President new at diplomacy.

While they talked it was decided that it would be diplomatic for the U.S. chief of state also to talk to the British chief of state, so a follow-up call was placed to Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

From these calls and conferences flowed a statement of the U.S. position: The use of force is deplored. Only through negotiations can peace be restored.

If the two nations resort to war, U.S. military aid to both will be cut off.

The public position was backed up by private messages to the capitals involved, but contents of these weren't disclosed.

While arrangements were made for an afternoon meeting of the Washington Special Action Group, a panel of crisis managing senior officials, Ford was turning to other matters.

One aide who saw Ford several times throughout the day said, "There was no panic. There was an air of concern, but nobody was frantic or tense. There was a job to be done ..."

Shaky Cease-Fire Finally, it was 7:36 p.m. A shaky cease-fire had been declared in the capital of Nicosia. The President's 12-hour work day was over and it was time to go home to the suburbs for dinner. As Ford stepped toward his limousine on the White House driveway, a reporter asked how he thought he had weathered his first international crisis.

"I think we handled it all right," he answered.

Ford Staff Boasts New Feminine Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the dust settles after the current shuffle in the new White House staff hierarchy, the top woman may be a former Republican national committeewoman from Washington state.

A top White House aide said Gwen Anderson, 44, "is not going to get lost in the shuffle" when the permanent job assignments are handed out.

The aide said Mrs. Anderson now has "equal status" with Anne Armstrong, whom President Ford has asked to stay on in his administration. Mrs. Armstrong, a counselor to former President Richard M. Nixon, was the only woman with Cabinet rank in the Nixon administration.

Although the White House aide diplomatically said the two women were considered of equal status in the new administration, he noted that Ford personally hired Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Anderson, a former businesswoman from Kennewick, Wash., is continuing her role as Ford's liaison with Senate, congressional and gubernatorial campaign committees until she is permanently reassigned.

Mrs. Anderson, also President Ford's key liaison with the Republican National Committee, was in charge of his scheduling for GOP fund-raising events when he crisscrossed the nation covering more than 100,000 miles while vice president.

Ford's itinerary of personal appearances made up when he was still No. 2 has been canceled for the rest of the year. One of Mrs. Anderson's jobs now is to find replacements for those engagements from among members of Congress and others in the new administration.

Much Political Savvy Mrs. Anderson, a graduate of the University of South Dakota, was described by a White House spokesman as a person with much political savvy. She has been active in politics for 20 years, mostly in Washington state, but never has run for elective office.

Mrs. Anderson is cautious about her future role.

"I'm not even going to speculate," she said. "I'll do whatever the President wants me to do."

Mrs. Anderson said, in answer to a reporter's question, that she believes Ford is indeed giving "equal consideration" to filling with a woman the vice presidency or any slot that might open in the Cabinet. "He has confidence and respect for their ability," she said.

Richardson Would Shirk From Prosecuting Nixon

By BILL STALL

HONOLULU (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson says there are compelling grounds for prosecuting former President Richard M. Nixon for conspiracy to obstruct justice.

But Richardson says he prefers that Nixon "be allowed to recede into a position of quiet and obscurity."

Richardson, here to address the annual meeting of the American Bar Association today, told newsmen Wednesday, "I think the grounds that the President was a participant in a conspiracy to obstruct justice are quite compelling."

But he added, "Resignation as president represents in itself an extraordinary type of penalty and the problem essentially is one of fairness, of propriety in dealing with this kind of situation."

Meanwhile, George Beall, the U.S. attorney for Maryland who prosecuted former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, said he believes there would be no real purpose served by putting Nixon on trial so long as he is prohibited from ever practicing law again.

Beall told an ABA panel on Wednesday he had second thoughts about his earlier insistence that Agnew should have been sent to jail.

The panel included Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who headed the Senate's Watergate investigation.

Agnew was disbarred by a Maryland court.

Richardson, a Republican, said there may be grounds to disbar Nixon but that no action should be taken unless the former President decides to re-enter law practice.

Richardson said he personally would "shirk" from prosecuting Nixon, but he endorsed a proposed convention resolution declaring that Nixon—without naming him—should get no special consideration under the law.

The measure is expected to come before the 340-member House of Delegates late today or Friday, final day of the ABA's 37th annual convention.

Busboy Arrested As Montrose Rapist

HOUSTON (AP) — Police have charged Jose Luis Romero, 22, a busboy, with three counts of rape and say he is the "Montrose rapist," the man responsible for a series of rapes in that area of Houston in the past two years.

"The Montrose rapist" generally broke into homes or apartments in the early morning hours and held a knife to his victim's throat before raping them and then burglarizing their homes, police said.

Ford Calls For Softer Environmental Policies

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — President Ford said today that "zero growth" environmental policies fly in the face of human nature and must be rejected in favor of reasonable compromises.

The President said last week that the nation must mine and use more coal, drill for more oil on the ocean's continental shelf, develop all state resources and speed construction of nuclear power plants.

"There are some well-meaning people who see the environmental issue as an 'either-or' proposition," Ford said in a statement read at the Expo '74 world fair by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton.

"They would make the environment the overriding consideration in all our activities, regardless of the consequences, regardless of the sound, middle-ground alternatives that might be worked out."

Ford said although environmentalists argue for zero growth as the only course for world resource salvation, their goal was impossible because "man isn't built to vegetate or stagnate — we like to progress, we have ideas, we have hopes and dreams of a better world, and that better world includes jobs and a better environment."

Ford said it was possible for the nation to have both environmental protection and economic expansion because of scientific potential. He said his determination to compromise with environmental and economic positions conflict "doesn't mean we are changing our unalterable course to improve the environment."

"It does mean stretching out the time table in some cases. It does mean adjusting some of our long-range goals to accommodate the needs of the immediate present. It does mean some trade-offs."

Stanton Launches Area Back-To-School Parade

West Texas children, seeing an end to the carefree days of summer, all will have returned to school within a two-and-a-half week span beginning with Stanton youngsters who responded to the school bell Wednesday.

Most area schools begin their fall terms Monday, including the Midland Independent School District and Greenwood ISD. The Tall City's parochial schools, Midland Christian and St. Ann's will both welcome students back on Monday, with Trinity School starting Aug. 26 as the opening date and Hillander School opening doors Sept. 3.

Other school systems ringing the school bell next week will be Ector County (Odessa), Andrews, Big Spring, McCombs, Crane, Rankin and Reagan County (Big Lake).

The Glasscock Independent School District which administers for Garden City Schools will also begin the fall term Monday, but plans to shift some students to a new elementary school with an auditorium when the structures are completed. Target date for the completion is Oct. 15.

Lamesa students will begin their scholastic pursuits Aug. 23, and Andrews youngsters will return to their classrooms Aug. 26.

All the West Texas school districts will observe the Labor Day holiday Sept. 2, and have scheduled the state required 10 days of inservice training for teachers at various times throughout the year.

Need A License? They Have Moved

Need to obtain a driver's license, or have one renewed? It's a simple matter. Just go down to the Department of Public Safety, and for the Driver's License Division, and there you are.

Or see you?
Not if you want to be the old DPS headquarters on North Big Spring Street.

The DPS moved to a modern, million-dollar facility on Holiday Hill Road in the Midland Industrial Park several weeks ago, but many persons don't know it yet.

In fact, some don't know it until they go to the old location and then are slightly misled that they have to drive across the city.

The move of the headquarters was well publicized, but DPS officials say it apparently has escaped the attention of a number of Midlanders, judging from the grumbles DPS employees have gotten lately.

But the facts are these: The headquarters for Region IV, Department of Public Safety, is now located at 3405 S. Holiday Hill Road, which is between U.S. 30 and Interstate 30.

The old DPS headquarters at 3701 N. Big Spring St. is now the home of the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Big Spring Savings Suing Three Firms

ABILENE — The Big Spring Savings Association filed suit this week in U.S. district court here seeking to recover almost a half million dollars it said it lost by buying interest in student loans which the association says were misrepresented.

The suit names three defendants—Surety Trust Co. of Arizona; Hibbard, O'Connor and Weeks Inc., an agent for Surety Trust of Delaware, and Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Maryland.

In the suit, Big Spring Savings says the Surety Trust Co. sold it interest in Federally Insured Student Loans which were fraudulently represented.

The suit also says that Hibbard, O'Connor and Weeks was negligent in that the company should have been aware that the FISL loans were not 100 per cent guaranteed.

The suit also claims that Fidelity and Deposit Co. insured the plaintiff against fraud.

September Oil Allowable Again Fixed At Maximum

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission today set the statewide oil production allowable for September at 100 per cent for the 30th consecutive month.

"Gentlemen, it is obvious Texas is continuing to strain to do its best for the state and the nation to meet the demands for energy," said Jim Langdon, commission chairman.

Langdon said all states must "maximize" their efforts to solve the nation's energy needs. For example, states that can drill offshore or build offshore terminals for supertankers must be willing to do so, he said. "We need the total cooperation of the entire nation to meet these goals," he said.

House Renews Mass Transit Debate After Veto Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is renewing debate on a $20 billion mass transit bill under a reported threat by President Ford to veto any bill which authorizes more than $11 billion.

Ford said Wednesday through his press secretary that he favors amendments to cut the funding to $11 billion as a move to fight inflation. The President also favors restricting the spending of the operating subsidies, the press aide said.

And House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes said Ford would veto any bill which authorizes more than $11 billion over the six-year life of the bill. However, Rep. William H. Hareba, R-Ohio, author of the amendments Ford said he will support, said, "If operating subsidies are properly controlled, the Ford administration will go along with them, reluctantly."

25 Explorers, 78 Development Projects Scheduled In Basin Territory

Operators last week stated 103 new oil and gas projects in the two-state area of the Permian Basin. Included were 25 exploratory tests and 78 development projects.

The count was up 20 from the 83 applications submitted two weeks ago, to regulatory agencies governing the petroleum industry. At that time only 17 ventures were planned.

Southeast New Mexico shows the greatest amount of planned exploration, with eight slated in Eddy and Lea counties. The Texas Railroad Commission Districts 8 and 9-A tied in wildcatting with six each, while District 7-C recorded five.

Sutton and Upton counties in RRC District 7-C, and Eddy County, N.M., all received 11 new development sites.

Draft Report: Nixon 'Knowingly Directed Cover-Up'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The final draft of the House impeachment inquiry report concludes that former President Richard M. Nixon "from the beginning . . . knowingly directed the cover-up of the Watergate burglary."

The draft House Judiciary Committee report says about the Watergate break-in and cover-up:

"The president adopted the course of conduct which caused the illegal surveillance for political purposes, and the concealment of responsibility for that surveillance, obstruction of justice, perjury, destruction of evidence—all of which are crimes."

Galley proofs of the draft report were sent to the committee's 38 members Wednesday night and The Associated Press obtained a copy of the report's conclusions. The draft still can be changed before the report is adopted.

Nixon's disclosure Aug. 5 that six days after the Watergate break-in he approved an effort to steer the FBI away from his re-election campaign money's financing of it is inserted in the report as additional evidence.

Nixon said loss of congressional support after that disclosure forced his resignation.

But the draft report contends the disclosure only confirmed the evidence the committee already had.

The report summarizes previously disclosed evidence supporting the three articles of impeachment the committee voted against the former President.

It says the evidence that Nixon directed the Watergate cover-up is "a pattern of undisputed acts." The draft lists 30 acts that it says cannot be rationally explained any other way.

In addition, Nixon's public statements for two years from the time of the break-in until last June 9 "deliberately contrived continually to deceive the courts, the Department of Justice, the Congress and the American people," the report says.

Merchandisers, Promoters Cashing In On Evel Knievel

By JURATE KAZICKAS
NEW YORK (AP) — Merchandisers and promoters are busy cashing in on Evel Knievel's Snake River Canyon motorcycle jump. They say millions will pour in whether Knievel lives through it or not.

Knievel says the launch will catapult him 2,500 feet in the air at 350 m.p.h. across the 1,500-foot-wide Idaho canyon Sept. 8. He says his chances of making it alive are 50-50.

"Consumers react to the image Evel projects — the daredevil, the reckless adventurer, but a man who is truthful to his word," said Stewart Sims, division manager of Ideal Toy Co. in New York. "He will jump and the image of the honest man remains—and sells—whether he lives or dies."

Ideal Toy Co. hopes to sell about $18 million worth of Evel Knievel items this year, including a new model of the Sky Cycle that is supposed to rocket Knievel across the canyon. The Knievel Stunt Cycle, complete with Evel Knievel doll, was Ideal's best selling toy last year.

"Kids think Evel is great and he's going to be great for our sales," said Nabisco's Jack Welch. He lined up Bobby Riggs with Sugar Daddy suckers for the much heralded tennis match with Billie Jean King. Now, for an undisclosed sum, Welch has made an arrangement with Knievel to promote Chuckles candies. Knievel will have the Chuckles logo on his white uniform, helmet and Sky Cycle as he blasts off into the air.

Knievel products—including T-shirts, watches, posters, commemorative coins—will make as much as $200 million for more than a dozen companies, according to Jeffrey Breslow of Marvin Glass and Associates, who bought the rights to Knievel's name.

Even the state of Idaho sees its pie in the sky cycle.

The State Land Board was going to charge Knievel $500 for permission to land on the other side of the canyon which is state and federally owned. But the fee was raised to $5,000 to match the amount the Bureau of Land Management is getting. The permit, issued on Aug. 13, was number 1313.

Top Rank Inc. will be broadcasting the two-hour closed-circuit production and says it expects to make about $15 million from ticket receipts at 350 theaters, foreign rights and promotional items. Robert Arum of Top Rank, who is also presenting the Muhammad Ali-George Foreman fight in Zaire Sept. 25, calls Evel Knievel his "great white hope."

Promoters say 50,000 people who have paid $25 a ticket will watch the Snake River show which includes other daredevil events. Circus star Karl Wallenda is supposed to balance on a tight rope at the edge of the canyon to test the wind before the launch.

Knievel himself says he hopes to earn at least $10 million and possibly as much as $25 million from the jump, billed as "the event of the century."

Meanwhile, he's in Toronto preparing for a motorcycle jump over 13 Mack trucks on Tuesday.

Connecticut Executive Plays Cowboy To Relax

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP) — Baldridge, 52, competes in some businessmen like to play golf or slip away to a beach home for relaxation.

But not Malcolm Baldridge Jr., board chairman of the Scovill Manufacturing Co. of Waterbury, Conn., which employs 21,000 persons in making items ranging from appliances to timbales.

He relaxes by roping steers on the professional rodeo circuit.

Baldridge dons faded blue jeans, a dirty wrinkled shirt and a crumpled cowboy hat and sits on a fence railing—just like all the other professional cowboys. When his number is called, he mounts his horse and rides off to rope an elusive steer.

Baldridge estimates he ends up in the money about 30 per cent of the time, not bad for a guy who still spends most of his time in a plush office chair.

Baldridge was born in Omaha, Neb., and spent his summers as a youngster working on a Nebraska ranch.

Auto Dealer Joins Protest On Pricing

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Inspired by President Ford's attack on a record price increase planned by General Motors, a millionaire Republican who owns a Pontiac dealership has asked GM to reconsider.

In a letter to GM President Edward Cole on Wednesday, James S. Gilmore Jr. said:

"You are recognized as a leader and others feel comfortable following your example. I strongly recommend that that example be one of a concerned corporation, whose profits are second to the national interest."

Gilmore said the major price hike could contribute to a continuation of the slump in auto sales that have cut his gross by 30 per cent since last winter. Until then, he said sales at his dealership totaled $10 million a year.

GM reserved comment on the letter, saying it had not yet been received.

The President on Monday described GM's increase as inflationary and a bad example for other firms.

Yoko Ono Visits Homeland Of Japan
TOKYO (AP) — Yoko Ono, former wife of Beatle John Lennon, is telling young people in her homeland to "have a dream."

"Japanese should dream and project something higher than just being economic animals," she told an interviewer Wednesday during a visit here.

The penalty for a first offense is a fine of not more than $100. On any further convictions a jail sentence of up to six months and/or a fine of up to $500 can be imposed.

Computer May Find Out How Her Feel About Eggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is spending $2,400 to find out if a computer can be coaxed into laying eggs, or rather programmed to simulate a laying hen to find out how she feels about it.

The computer simulation will determine what effect environmental factors such as temperature, humidity and air circulation have on egg numbers and size, as well as how these factors influence total egg output in relation to feed, the department said.

The money will be spent as a grant to researchers at Mississippi State University who will set up the computer project.

Quincy Jones Leaves Hospital
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jazz arranger and composer Quincy Jones has left Cedars of Lebanon Hospital here after a 10-day stay, a hospital spokesman said.

Jones, 41, left the hospital Wednesday after treatment for a urinary tract infection, the spokesman said. Jones has prepared musical scores for the Emmy Awards and numerous television programs.

Although the report accuses Nixon of a course leading to the illegal burglary and wiretapping of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate office building, the 30 acts cited relate only to the cover-up that followed.

The report says the 30 include what it calls Nixon's instructions that $75,000 in alleged hush money be paid to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. and that witnesses give false testimony.

The report says more than $400,000 was paid to the Watergate defendants. And it says that Nixon told former aide John D. Ehrlichman on April 17, 1973, "to give false testimony concerning (Nixon lawyer Herbert W.) Kalmbach's knowledge of the purpose of the payments to the Watergate defendants."

Famous Gap Cited
It lists as what it considers the first indication that Nixon already knew of the cover-up the fact that he decided not to attend a meeting of five top aides on the Watergate break-in three days after it happened.

The draft report also cites the famous 18½-minute gap on a taped discussion between Nixon and Haldeman three days after the break-in. It says the erasure occurred at a time "the President stated that the tapes had been under his 'sole and personal control.'"

The list also includes Nixon's firing of former special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, his comments on containing the Watergate investigation and his praise of former White House Counsel John W. Dean III for "putting your finger in the dike every time that leaks have sprung here and sprung there."

Ford's 'Jawboning' Said Not Enough To Allay Situation

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — President Gerald Ford took what is widely viewed as a tough, firm action in criticizing General Motors for raising its prices roughly 10 per cent. But firm as it was, it was too weak. Jawboning, while probably of some value in restraining price increases, simply cannot overwhelm the facts, and the underlying fact, according to GM, is that expenses have been rising, necessitating higher prices. Neither can jawboning validate the rules of economics. In wishing that other automotive manufacturers decline to follow GM's example, the President may, in effect, be asking them to accept smaller returns on investments and sales. For any company willingly to accept such a situation is to commit a breach of faith with stockholders, risk a decline in its ability to attract capital with which to stay alive, and otherwise endanger its competitive position. But, with inflation threatening to become even worse, the President probably had little choice but to speak out. He could do little else, even though he has declared inflation to be the nation's primary problem.

The next moves, since the President probably has no others at the time, appear to be left up to the automotive companies. GM can resist, or it can cut back its increases, for which it conceivably made an allowance. The other manufacturers can raise their prices by 10 per cent also, or they can scale them down. The most unlikely course, however, would be for GM to rescind its increase and for Chrysler, in the national interest, to forego any price changes they might have considered. This still would leave Ford, which announced several weeks ago that average retail prices would rise more than $400 over 1974 models, also to consider whether it would retain or rescind its increases. For these events to occur there would have to be a total commitment to the President's ability to turn back the tide of inflation.

When increases like GM's are announced, it is all but impossible for the administration quickly to ascertain if they are justified. Without any automatic probing machinery, it can only jawbone with dubious effect.

the world's strongest bolt action rifle
Three rings of solid steel surround the cartridge head
The bolt is the heart of what many shooters call the finest all-around big-game rifle made. Snick it open. You'll see the strongest action ever put in any rifle. Slam it closed. Now your cartridge head is protected by three overlapping rings of solid steel. This superbolt is the big reason why we can chamber the 700 for 15 of the most potent game stoppers. But it's not the whole 700 story. Not by a long shot. We tested all the bolt actions. You won't get better accuracy. Or a cleaner trigger pull. Or a tougher finish. Or better checking. Or a more comfortable stock.

When The Boss Is Away

When the boss is away, one gets to do things that he is not regularly accustomed to doing — like being the official scorekeeper for Texas League baseball.

It's not all a bed of roses as you might think. That's hostility in them that hills! Sunday was a good example.

The Midland Cubs were to open a three-game homestand with the San Antonio Brewers Sunday. Ted Battles (that's my boss) happened to be out frolicking around in the southern reaches of Colorado while I was thoughtlessly left behind to do the Cubs justice during his absence.

I thought the best thing to do was to show up early at the old ball park to show my dedication, but when I reached the car, I noticed some pretty mean looking clouds on the horizon. There was no way the Cubs were going to get this one in, but I still thought it my duty to show up at the ball yard so Cub General Manager John Cox would not go into frenzied fit without a scorekeeper on hand.

Old John was there, even though he was a sorry sight. It seems that John and rain don't get along too well. That kind of feeling, I thought, could only come to a transplanted West Texan, and I guess John fills the bill. Cox was moaning — something about getting in five quick innings before the roof fell in — so I left to see what Walt Dixon, the Cub's field manager, had to say.

"What are you doing here," Walt said while trying to find a place to hide. "Aren't you the one that kept score the night we got beat 21-4." I replied that I was the same one he was thinking about, and that was certainly not the answer he sought. He crawled away to hide saying something like, "You'll be banned forever if we lose again," although I'm not sure what he really said because it's hard to quote a person accurately when he's going in the opposite direction.

Cub outfielder, Bill Droegge, even flinched when he heard the news of my appearance. He says that I looked him out of a base hit earlier this year when I awarded a Shreveport shortstop with an error on a ball hit by Droegge. Well, I still think it was an error, but nonetheless, Droegge was not happy to see me.

Things Don't Go Well

Meanwhile, back up in the press box, Cox was still trying to ward off the rain for five innings of play. The Cubs and Brewers got in three quick innings and the roof did fall in. It came down in buckets and John ran off — moaning of course.

I stayed around long enough to see the Brewers play a quick football scrimmage in left field while the rain poured and poured, but it didn't seem to bother the game. Will Aaron, the Brewer left fielder, turned split end and made the play of the night with a fine grab from an unidentified quarterback — a Brewer pitcher of course. It was a pretty good brand of football, but I had had enough, so I thought I would make the short trek for home and enjoy the rest of the night off.

Ever try to drive down Wadley during a heavy rain? That's right, my car stalled and wouldn't start again despite a few words that I'm not accustomed to using — after

Stars Clip Portland Americans Win Again

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Dick Coury, coach of the winless Portland Storm, indulged in a little post-game analysis Wednesday night after watching his team absorb a 28-16 thumping at the hands of the New York Stars.

"They beat the devil out of us," said Coury. "We simply do not have a very good football team and we're not improving."

New York quarterback Tom Sherman got the Stars rolling early by throwing for two touchdowns and running for another as the Stars built a 30-0 halftime lead. Sherman shared Coury's opinion of the Storm.

Elsewhere in the WFL, Birmingham rocked Hawaii 30-0, Chicago shaded Philadelphia 32-20, Florida defeated Jacksonville 33-26 and Memphis whipped Detroit 37-7.

Southern California is at Houston in tonight's television game.

Sherman completed 11 of 38 passes for 144 yards for New York, including touchdown tosses of 20 and three yards to George Sauer. Sauer hauled in seven passes for 92 yards.

The Storm is 0-5-1 while New York has won four straight after dropping the first two. About 14,000 paying fans saw the game.

Birmingham 39, Hawaii 0

The Americans, scoring from long range, maintained their position as the WFL's only unbeaten team. Willie Smith raced 81 yards on a punt return and George Mims teamed with Alford Jenkins on a 96-yard pass play for a pair of Birmingham TDs. The Hawaiians, who had four passes intercepted, fell to 1-5.

A crowd of 43,297 paid to watch the game in Birmingham.

Chicago 22, Philadelphia 29
Quarterback Virgil Carter threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Jack Dolbin with 1:34 remaining to give the Fire its fifth victory in six tries. Cyrril Pinder and Mark Keller rushed for a combined 263 yards for the winners. King Corcoran threw for two TDs and ran for a third for the Bell.

Announced paid attendance in Chicago was 27,607.

Florida 33, Jacksonville 26
Jim Strong scored twice on short runs and halfback Tommy Reason hooked up with Matt Maslowski on a 51-yard pass play for Florida. The Blazers, 5-1, lead the Eastern Division. Jacksonville rookie Reggie Oliver, ran for one TD and passed seven yards to Tom Whittier for another.

Attendance at the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando was announced at 21,212 paid.

Memphis 37, Detroit 7
J. J. Jennings ran for 113 yards on 24 carries for the Southern, who raised their record to 4-2. Willie Spencer scored on a pair of one-yard runs for Memphis. Bubba Wyche sneaked one yard for the lone Detroit score. The Wheels are now 0-6.

The game was played before 14,424 fans in Ypsilanti, Mich., and Wheels' officials said "a handful" of complimentary tickets had been given out.

Talks Resume With Players

By TOM SEPPY
WASHINGTON (AP) —

It was back to the bargaining table again today in the National Football League labor dispute.

Negotiations were scheduled to resume in Washington this afternoon in the National Football League Players Association strike after veterans reported to training camps Wednesday under terms of a 14-day cooling off period.

Player representative Preston Pearson led Pittsburgh's returning veterans with handshakes and smiles punctuating the atmosphere at the Steelers' training camp.

"I don't think it got as emotional here as it did with some teams," said running back John Fuqua.

In Baltimore, 18 Colts veterans showed up only to be turned away by Coach Howard Schnellenberger, who claimed logistical problems. "We can't handle this many players right now," he said. "We have to get rooms ready and things like that."

The Colts were told to come back later in the week but that's better than what happened to some other veterans, who were sent away for keeps.

New England placed quarterback Brian Dowling on waivers, sold tackle Jim Callier to Chicago and purchased punter Dave Lewis from Cincinnati. Lewis had refused to report to the Bengals.

Defensive end Carter Campbell of the New York Giants, who also said he wouldn't report until the strike was settled, was traded to Cleveland for tight end Chip Glass. San Francisco swapped tight end Dick Witcher and wide receiver John Isenbarger to Chicago for kick returner Cecil Turner. Cleveland also traded offensive linemen Bob Briggs and Bubba Pena to Kansas City.

Wicher, Isenbarger, Glass, Campbell and Dowling all have signed future contracts with the rival World Football League. Larry Conka and Jim Kwik, two-thirds of Miami's celebrated trio of WFL jumpers, showed up at the Dolphins' camp. The third jumper, wide receiver Paul Warfield, was the lone missing Dolphin.

"The cooling off period indicates to me they've gotten pretty close to a settlement," said Conka. "I'm looking forward to staying in camp. As it stands right now, I can see no possibility of a walkout in 14 days."

Mike Phipps, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, agreed, "I can't speak for any of the other players," he said, "but I'm here to stay. I think it's about time to play football."

Midland Colts Beat Odessa

The Midland Colts won their 19th semi-pro baseball game of the season without a loss by beating the Odessa Stagers, 5-1, in the Cubs Stadium Wednesday night.

Hector Prieto, who was also the winning pitcher last week against the San Angelo Angels, picked up the victory as the righthander threw a strong three-hitter. Charles Lacy, former Odessa German athlete, was the loser in surrendering eight hits to the unbeaten Colts.

Odessa took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Ward's single, but the Colts came back to score twice in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Hurt started the Colt first with a walk. Lupo Perez singled, Gary Salgado struck out, but Louis Perez singled in both runners for a 2-1 lead.

Singles by Louis Perez, Jessie Benividez Rick Weaver and Danny Rey, gave the Colts two runs in the fourth and they added another in the eighth on a walk to Louis Perez and a double by Benividez.

Montreal's Dennis Blair Wednesday night, had more than his mouth bruised by the ball.

Although X rays showed that Robinson's jaw was not broken and he was able to return to Atlanta Stadium to see the end of the Braves' 6-1 triumph over the Montreal Expos, he was a very disillusioned young man.

"When I was lying there on the ground, there wasn't a thing I liked about major league baseball," said Robinson. "If that's major league baseball, I'm ashamed of it and don't want any part of it."

Immediately before Robinson was hit, Dusty Baker had slammed a three-run homer off Blair and Dave Johnson had hit former Odessa German athlete, was the loser in surrendering eight hits to the unbeaten Colts.

Singles by Louis Perez, Jessie Benividez Rick Weaver and Danny Rey, gave the Colts two runs in the fourth and they added another in the eighth on a walk to Louis Perez and a double by Benividez.

Hank Aaron's two-run homer in the seventh capped Atlanta's scoring. It was his 16th home run of the season and 729th of his career.

Giants 6, Phils 4
Bobby Bonds' 17th home run of the season, a two-run shot with two out in the ninth, gave the Giants the victory over Philadelphia.

Mets 3, Dodgers 2
The Mets completed a three-game sweep over Los Angeles by scoring two runs in the ninth inning off the Dodgers' ace reliever, Mike Marshall. The tying run scored on Tom Paciorek's two-base error, the winning tally came on Rusty Staub's single.

Reds 3, Pirates 2
Cesar Geronimo's run-scoring double in the 10th inning boosted Cincinnati to victory.

Dave Concepcion singled to lead off the 10th and ended up on second when Willie Stargell couldn't field the ball cleanly. One out later, Geronimo delivered his RBI double.

Cardinals 5, Padres 1
Alan Foster's six-hit pitching helped the Cards move 1½ games in front of Philadelphia and 2½ in front of Pittsburgh in the NL East. Reggie Smith's 17th home run of the year and his second in two games capped a five-run fifth inning burst.

COM Team To Compete In Summer TAGS Meet

The City of Midland Swim Team will be 31 members strong this weekend when the COM team competes in the COMTAGS meet, which begins a three-day run Friday.

Coaches Steve Montgomery and Hank O'Neill will accompany the swimmers to the TAGS meet. Dad's Club of Houston is the defending champion. COM was fourth in last year's competition.

Representing the COM boys team will be Jeff Lambeth, Curt Butman, Sid Glenn, Mike Imber, Jeff Hubbard, Don Dunbar, J. D. Rathjen, Mike Butler, Danny Carl, Tim Dowdle, Brad Swindig, Brian Lambeth and Britt Hull.

The girls' crew will be comprised of Gretchen Koch, Heather Dunbar, Isabel Torres, Diane Rasmussen, Tracy Williams, Wendy Williams, Brook Mayes, Kelly Dowdle, Suzanne Plette, Ludy Lauderdale, Shelly Hubbard, Joan Salzman, Lela Torres, Kathy Gilmore, Georganna Mayes, Mary Dowdle, Susan Bateman and Debbie Freshour.

June Scobey and Carrie Mayes are qualified for the meet, but will miss the TAGS Meet due to illness.

AL ROUNDUP—

Rangers Blow One

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers did with their boots Wednesday night. They made a lot of base-running mistakes and lost a 6-5 decision to the Milwaukee Brewers.

Three of their runners were thrown out trying to steal second, another was out trying to go from first to third on a single and still another was nailed at home.

Even an attempted suicide squeeze blew up in the Rangers' faces.

"That's the first time I've seen anything like that," said Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall.

Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter was responsible for a lot of the Texas frustration. He threw out the three runners trying to steal, tagged one out sliding home on a great throw from righthander Dave May and contributed a big double in the eighth.

"It's the best game I've played this year," said Porter. In other American League games, the Minnesota Twins edged the Cleveland Indians 1-0; the Baltimore Orioles stopped the Chicago White Sox 5-4; the Kansas City Royals whipped the Detroit Tigers 9-1; the California Angels blanked the Boston Red Sox 5-0 and the New York Yankees trimmed the Oakland A's 4-1.

Porter doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning and scored on Tim Johnson's pinch single to provide Milwaukee's win.

Bowling Exhibition At Midland Lanes

Cheryl Kominsky, a petite, 5-3, 118-pound brunette, will demonstrate her bowling skills Friday and Saturday at Midland Lanes.

Miss Kominsky is a professional bowler and the youngest member of the AMF Staff of Champions.

Her travels around the world have taken her to Germany, England, Sweden, France, Japan and Venezuela for bowling exhibitions with the highlight of her career a command performance in Moscow, Russia. She will bowl a match game at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Friday and again Saturday at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m.

IN BUCKEYE TOURNEY— Ashe Captures Win

By GEORGE STRODE
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — To Arthur Ashe, tennis is still one of the most formful sports.

"You can take any two guys here and I can tell you eight of 10 times who will win before they play," said the top seed of the Buckeye Tennis Championships.

"You can go through the entire draw and predict almost every winner," Ashe said Wednesday after eliminating New Zealand's Jeff Simpson, 6-1, 6-4 in an opening round match.

"This is a darned concentrated $50,000 tournament. It's tough. But there are only six players who have a good chance of winning," the Miami veteran added.

Ashe listed the championship contenders: Tom Gorman, Roscoe Tanner, Raul Ramirez, Vijay Amritraj, Charlie Pasarell and himself.

To support Ashe's theory, all five seeded players in action breezed into the second round of 16 contestants.

Gorman, second-seeded, No. 3 seeded Tanner, Ramirez, the fourth-seeded Mexican star, and No. 8 Bob Lutz all won.

In the first singles surprise of the tournament, Bob Kreiss of Bel Air, Calif., spilled U.S. Davis Cupper Erik Van Dillen.

NEW COACHES—Midland football coach John Reddell has added these three coaches to his staff. From left: Ted Harris, Roy Blair and Stan Moore. Harris will be the varsity defensive back coach while Blair, a former Bulldog center, will be the head JV football coach and assistant track coach. Moore will be assistant baseball and JV line coach.

Connors In Canadian Win

TORONTO (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors elbowed his way through the second round Wednesday in the $130,000 Canadian Open tennis tournament.

However, the elbow belonged to Nikki Spear, who was testing his chronic tennis elbow for the tie-breaker that decided it.

The 30-year-old Yugoslav won the first set against the American ace, 7-6, after trailing 0-4 in the tie-breaker that decided it.

He then went ahead 2-0 in the second before Connors scored 11 consecutive points and took the next five games as Spear's elbow problem became more obvious and forced his withdrawal.

Connors appeared relieved by his reprieve.

"Nikki hit a lot of good shots. He was hitting a lot of no-pace ball," Connors said.

Chris Evert, Connors' 19-year-old fiancée, had a much easier time in continuing her domination of France's Gail Chanfreau, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Evert beat her, 6-0, 6-0, in the finals of last week's United States Clay Court championship at Indianapolis, and third round.

Wednesday night's result meant the loser was shut out by the Jaime Fillof of Chile and El Fort Lauderdale, Fla., whiz for 23 consecutive games.

Before the match, Miss Chanfreau complained she wasn't seeded, which meant she would have gone at least two rounds before facing Miss Evert.

Connors' trail to the finals was made a little easier as Ismael El Shafel of Egypt and Marcello Lara of Mexico scored in the finals of last week's United States Clay Court championship at Indianapolis, and third round.

Lara topped eighth-seeded the loser was shut out by the Jaime Fillof of Chile and El Fort Lauderdale, Fla., whiz for 23 consecutive games.

I thought I had had enough, but Monday night the Cubs lost a doubleheader. John, Walt and Bill (who went zero-for-five) all ended up moaning and I'm just getting around to it.

for the first time. The others were veterans who crossed picket lines earlier.

Gillman said the team wouldn't come together as a whole until Monday following Saturday's exhibition game against the Dallas Cowboys.

The veterans' first workout was relatively mild with no major incidents between the two groups of veterans, although fullback Fred Willis and line backer Al Cowlings exchanged words.

Bethae, often called the Oilers' best player, said the veterans disliked Gillman's waiving seven incoming veterans before they ever got on the field. Bethae said the move was a case of retaliation.

Gillman said the Oilers tried to contact the seven players who were waived shortly after arriving in camp. "But we didn't know where they were," Gillman said. "This is a tough business. I'm not trying to win any popularity contests."

"Lombardi didn't lead any popularity contests. They hate Lombardi and they hate [Don] Shula and [Tom] Landry and all they do is win. If I can win everybody can hate me. I'll give them a license to despise me if I can win."

Hargett Told Not To Work Out

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Edd Hargett, a taxi squad under-study last season, was in a class by himself today at the Oilers training camp.

Hargett, one of five Oilers who signed contracts with the rival World Football League, said Oilers Coach Sid Gillman told him Wednesday that he would be traded and not to work out with the other veterans.

Hargett said Gillman told him at lunch Wednesday "We're going to trade you and it'll be over before the week-end. I asked him who to and he said he didn't know yet."

The former Texas A&M star said he later reported to the practice field where he was about to put on his uniform to begin his first practice of the season.

"He (Gillman) told me I could run on my own or do whatever I wanted to but he didn't want me to work with the team. I asked him if I could go home and he said no just to stay here in camp because it might look bad if I went home and wasn't in camp."

Gillman said "All I'll say about it is that he'll be traded." Asked if the Oilers had any offers for Hargett, Gillman snapped, "I said I don't want to discuss it anymore, okay?"

Hargett, obtained by the Oilers from New Orleans two years ago, said he figured his career with the Oilers ended when he signed a multi-year contract with the WFL Hawaii stable than the WFL," he said.

"The money is a little better but not so much better that I couldn't have stayed here and done as well."

Other Oilers who have signed with WFL teams include cornerback Benny Johnson, line-men Levert Carr and Al Jenkins and running back Paul Robinson.

With Hargett's apparent departure, all now are off the Oilers team. Johnson and Robinson already are playing for the WFL, and Carr and Jenkins were waived.

Even before Hargett was en-regated from his teammates, he must have suspected his days as an Oiler were limited.

His picture and accompanying thumbnail sketch were omitted from the Oiler press book distributed prior to training camp.

Longhorns Will Miss Wyman As Royal Faces Rebuilding

By JACK KEEVER
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A standard line in Southwest Conference football is that the Texas Longhorns replace all-Americans with all-Americans.

Not so this year, says Coach Darrell Royal, as he faces the 1974 season without all-American center Bill Wyman—"the best blocking center I have ever seen in college"—and probably minus all-American fullback Roosevelt Leaks.

Leaks, who was setting a pace that would make him the greatest ground gainer in SWC history, tore ligaments in his right knee during March spring training. Leaks stayed here this summer to rebuild his knee, but it was such a severe injury that it is questionable whether he will play.

His absence and a general dropoff in talent probably will push Texas out of the top 10 in pre-season rankings for the first time in recent years.

"That's not surprising nor disturbing," said Royal in an interview. "I don't think we probably rate to be picked any better than that."

Arkansas, Texas Tech or Texas A&M appear most likely to end Texas' domination of the SWC, said Royal. The Longhorns have won a record six straight conference titles.

As a replacement for Leaks, Longhorn coaches will check out junior David Bartek and freshmen Earl Campbell and Steve Collier.

Campbell, a 218-pounder with 4.7-second speed for 40 yards, was considered the top Texas schoolboy back last season. Although he fumbled five times in a recent high school all-star game, Royal said his high school films show "he was not a fumbler."

The other missing all-American, Wyman, will be replaced by Bob Tresch, 240, a sub at tackle last season.

"I don't know if our (offensive) line of scrimmage will match up to last year," said Royal. It appeared to be solid until Nebraska manhandled everyone except Wyman and tackle Bob Simmons in Texas' 19-3 Cotton Bowl loss, and those linemen that Nebraska trampled will be starters again this year.

Royal said, however, that Simmons, a 261-pound junior, is an all-American prospect. One important decision that has been made since spring training is to keep sophomore speedster Raymond Clayborn at halfback.

He was at split end in spring practice to spread the defenses that pinch in against the Wish-borne. But Royal has decided to use either quick Pat Padgett, a senior, or one of three freshmen—Alfred Jackson, Kevin Scott or Graydon Wyatt at wide receiver.

The defense depends on a surgeon's skill as tackle Fred Currin, 240, and linebacker Sherman Lee, 225, had mid-season operations in 1973 and missed spring workouts.

Royal said tackle Doug English, 247, rates all-American mention, and linebacker Wade Johnston, 226, is considered by Longhorn coaches as a better player than a 1973 all-SWC line-backer choice, Glenn Gaspard.

"The front eight is pretty solid," said Royal.

He labeled the defensive secondary, which loses all-SWC halfback Jay Arnold, as the trouble spot. Returning are Terry Melancon, 190, and safety Joe Bob Bizzell, at 5-7 and 145, the smallest starter in the conference.

On paper, Paul Jette, a 180-pound sophomore who was recruited as an afterthought, is the third starter, and there appears to be virtually no depth in the secondary.

It does not look like a Royal year.

Hartford Open Is New Freak Week

By BOB GREEN
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "The man who wins here," said Gary Player, "will have a freak week."

Player, winner of the Masters and British Open and probably the No. 1 performer in pro golf this season, was assessing his chances in the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

The 72-hole chase began today on the tiny, 6,553-yard, par 71 Wethersfield Country Club course with Player, PGA champion Lee Trevino and defending champion Billy Casper heading the strongest field this tournament has ever had.

"In a national championship event, in one of the major tournaments," Player continued, "you can take the 10 best players and be pretty sure they'll finish in the top 10 positions."

"Here, with the course so short, with the greens so good, you can pick a name out of the hat. Anybody could win. Any good player."

"You're only going to be hitting wedges to the greens. The greens are the best we play on the tour. It's all going to come down to putting . . ."

Despite the unusually pessimistic attitude by Player, the little rancher from Johannesburg, South Africa ranked as a co-favorite with Lee Trevino for the $40,000 first prize.

The veteran Casper, defending title-holder and a four-time Hartford champion, counts himself out of consideration this year because he says he has been playing badly.

Trevino, on the other hand, exuding the old-time confidence, is pumped up and full of enthusiasm after last week's victory in the PGA.

Some other standouts include Hubert Green, a three-time winner this year, Jerry Heard, Tom Watson, Dave Stockton, Jim Colbert, Lee Elder and Bobby Cole, the young South African who challenged for the PGA crown.

Cooper Picks New Basketball Coach

ABILENE — Marc Case, a former cage standout at McMurry College has been named head basketball coach at Abilene Cooper.

He replaces Lynn Mendenhall, who resigned earlier to take an assistant principal's position at Madison Junior High in Abilene.

Case takes over the Cougar reins just one season after a brilliant playing career at McMurry. Case resigned his junior varsity position at Houston's Northbrook High in favor of returning to the school where he did his student teaching less than two years ago.

Fear Of MUFs Plagues Nuclear Reactor Industry

By WILLIAM STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The figures had been checked and double checked, the storage containers in the vault examined once again.

But the inventory still didn't add up.

Finally, as required by law, Ray Janka of Kerr-McGee's nuclear fuels facility at Crescent, Okla., reached for his telephone and dialed Jack Hind, the Atomic Energy Commission's security chief in the Chicago regional office.

Hind grasped the gravity of Janka's news at once. He ordered his staff to work and informed superiors in Washington.

MUF Discovered

Kerr-McGee had discovered a MUF — material unaccounted for.

The material was plutonium, a radioactive substance used in atomic bombs. Kerr-McGee fabricates plutonium fuel elements for an experimental reactor in Richland, Wash.

More than three pounds of plutonium had disappeared. Three pounds is only a fraction of what terrorists would need to fashion a crude atomic bomb, but the shortage sent ripples of alarm through the AEC.

Next morning AEC inspector Charles Peck flew to Oklahoma City, where he rented a car and drove 40 miles northward through rolling hills to Crescent.

There, he supervised a new inventory of Kerr-McGee plutonium, seeking proof none had been stolen.

Ten days later everyone relaxed. The plutonium was all there. A series of errors in the first inventory was the culprit.

The Atomic Energy Commission says it is experiencing about four MUFs a year. So far they all have been human or machine errors in the complex inventory processes. But Jack Hind's concern last February reflects a disturbing aspect of advancing nuclear technology. The art of making a nuclear weapon no longer is the exclusive purview of government scientists toiling behind barbed wire fences with multi-million-dollar budgets.

Growing Fear

There is growing fear in the U.S. nuclear community that a private group could build a crude but frighteningly deadly atomic bomb. The main difficulty would be obtaining the "special nuclear material," a euphemism for weapons-grade plutonium or enriched uranium. "The art of making a crude device ... the information is available. It's all unclassified. The things they need are available on the general market," said E. B. Giller, AEC's head of national security. Everything, that is, except the plutonium or enriched uranium that is the heart of a nuclear bomb.

The AEC spent $50 million in fiscal 1973 and is spending $90 million this year for security at the several dozen facilities in the United States where potential bomb fuels are stored or used. The money also is to safeguard the transportation of this fuel around the country.

There are 45 nuclear plants producing electricity today for public utility companies. Sixty more are under construction. All are designed to use uranium, but not of the quality needed for bombs.

Some physicists credit Dr. Theodore B. Taylor with heightening consciousness about the possibilities of homemade atomic bombs.

Considered a crack bomb designer two decades ago at the height of the Cold War, Taylor now heads a private research and development company. He has studied at length the minimum requirements in expertise and materials to build a workable bomb.

"Under conceivable circumstances, a few persons, possibly even one person working alone, who possessed about 10 kilograms — 2 pounds — of plutonium oxide and a substantial amount of chemical high explosive could, within several weeks, design and build a crude fission bomb," Taylor said.

By Taylor's definition, a crude bomb would fit into an automobile — a delivery van, for example — and explode with the power of 200,000 pounds of TNT. Detonated during rush hour in a large city, it might kill thousands.

By comparison, the bomb dropped on Hiroshima 29 years ago this month exploded with the force of 400,000 tons of TNT, killing about 85,000 people.

AEC officials won't disclose how much plutonium and enriched uranium exists in the country to make nuclear devices, except to acknowledge that there is enough in existence to make dozens of bombs.

With the prospect of a Hollywood script writer's fancies turned to reality, the quality of America's nuclear safeguards has become a matter of debate.

"In our present situation there probably are some points in the system where an inside man and a determined group like the Symbionese Liberation Army could acquire some special nuclear material," Giller conceded.

In 1972 inspectors from the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog agency, studied safeguards at three unnamed AEC contractors and licensees. They also monitored nuclear material shipments.

In two reports, one issued last fall and another last spring, inspectors documented how easily they gained access to special nuclear material.

Lax Security

Chain link fences gave way. Doors, vents and windows quickly yielded entry to nuclear material storage areas. Guards were poorly qualified. One shipment of nearly 200 pounds of enriched uranium made a 200-mile trip in the back of an open flatbed truck.

After the GAO inspections but prior to release of the reports, the AEC began proposing or implementing tougher security requirements.

Stricter limits on inventory accuracies like the one at Kerr-McGee went into effect 16 months ago. Tougher regulations for plant security and transportation became effective in March.

AEC officials and critics of the AEC agree that transportation is the weak link in American safeguards. The AEC conveys most of its weapons-grade uranium and plutonium with its own drivers, guards and trucks, including special armored trucks designed to be impregnable under attack.

Drivers and guards maintain constant radio communication with AEC headquarters.

Security isn't as tight for nuclear materials shipped by four commercial companies licensed by the AEC.

Before March security was minimal — no guards, no armored trucks. Now guards and armored trucks used to carry money are employed. Drivers report to the home office by radio every two hours.

System Slow

More troublesome in coming years will be a continuous inventory of nuclear materials, making certain none have been stolen from a plant an ounce at a time for weeks or months.

Unlike a bank, which can account for every penny, the accounting technology at a nuclear plant isn't sophisticated enough to tally every atom of potential bomb fuel.

AEC officials say it will be several years before the system will detect a theft within hours.

It took Kerr-McGee 13 days to conduct the February inventory. The AEC-supervised inventory lasted another 10 days.

A theft after Kerr-McGee's January inventory might go undetected for nearly six weeks.

Closed-Circuit Tv To Monitor Traffic

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Advanced closed-circuit monitoring equipment is being installed in the Greater Boston area as part of a surveillance and control system that is expected to improve traffic flow and safety conditions on three interstate highways.

The system includes a computer that will evaluate traffic conditions and, among other things, change the message to drivers on variable message signs. It will also assist in visual detection of highway accidents and problems and help determine the nature and extent of rescue assistance needed.

The equipment is being installed by GTE Sylvania of Waltham.

Precinct Politics May Now Be No. 1 Issue For Urbanites

By JONATHAN WOLMAN

Associated Press Writer

A new wave of criticism has been directed at police in several U.S. cities, and the reaction suggests precinct politics may be the most explosive issue now facing urban leaders.

In a number of major cities the police are on the defensive after liberal politicians and reform-minded police began chipping away recently at time-honored promotion and hiring policies.

The Detroit Police Department is undergoing painful changes to eliminate what the new black mayor calls "its whole goddamn racist attitude."

In Atlanta, City Council members tried once to impeach the chief of police, and may try again. The mayor says, "for a period of time there was an independent paramilitary organization" in the city.

The federal government is suing the City of Chicago, charging its police force discriminated against blacks, women and Spanish-speaking persons in hiring and promotions.

Where many police forces have long operated in virtual autonomy, these are the subject of widespread public debate, and increasingly, civilian review.

"The council has an idealistic concept of where the city is going, and that law enforcement would not be necessary," says Berkeley, Calif., police Capt. Darrell Hickman. "They favor programs that would make the police unnecessary."

Berkeley is a progressive community with strong student influences. Detroit and Atlanta are cities in transition. With increasingly large minority populations, both elected black mayors for the first time in 1973.

Reports from each of the cities indicate the influence of politicians on the machinery of law enforcement agencies is growing.

Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson recently said he was "astounded" at police over-reaction to a series of civil rights demonstrations in the southern city.

Detroit's Coleman Young, abolished the city's STRESS unit, an anti-riot decoy squad which critics said were responsible for a number of unnecessary shootings. Jackson abolished a similar squad in Atlanta.

The issues differ slightly in each community, but the road of reform is unmistakable.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 1974. There are 138 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, the Panama Canal officially was opened to traffic.

On this date: In 1789, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1906, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed in the crash of their airplane near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In 1944, the Allied invasion of southern France began in World War II.

In 1947, the independent states of India and Pakistan were created, ending two centuries of British rule on the Indian subcontinent.

In 1948, the independent Republic of Korea was proclaimed.

In 1961, East German workers began building the Berlin Wall.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson attacked Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater for what Johnson called Goldwater's "loose statements" on atomic defense.

Five years ago: Arab saboteurs blew up an oil pipeline in the Israeli city of Haifa.

One year ago: President Nixon, in a national broadcast, denied any part in the Watergate break-in or cover-up and said the time had come to turn Watergate over to the courts and "for the rest of us to get on with the urgent business of our nation."

Today's birthdays: Britain's Princess Anne is 34 years old. Cooking expert Julia Child is 62.

Lack Of Education Said Problem Area For Japanese Gals

By KATHRYN TOLBERT

TOKYO (AP)—A spy Japanese woman who still wins elections at age 81 said the trouble women have with politics in Japan is because of education.

"Japanese women haven't been given the education to prepare them for equality with men," said Miss Fusae Ichikawa, who was elected recently to the upper house of the Diet or Japanese parliament.

She was first elected to the Diet in 1953, but lost the last election before the recent voting and didn't want to run this time. She yielded to the large number of young people who view her as a standard bearer for clean elections.

One of 18 women in the 253-seat upper house, she is a maverick in Japanese politics for shunning the usual campaign trail to heavy spending. That attracted the young people to her.

"It was an Association for Putting Fusae Ichikawa into Office with Her Approval," she said with a laugh.

Speaking to the Foreign Correspondents' Club of Japan, the progressive, independent politician said various discriminatory practices against women in employment and education have resulted in women with low political consciousness who can be influenced by the handshake of a famous candidate.

That explains, she said, why housewives, who outnumber male voters by 2.3 million and are upset over rising prices, still vote for the ruling Liberal Democratic Party.

Winning easily with the second highest number of votes—1,008,129—of all the candidates and spending about 20 per cent of the legally allowed sum of 18,000,000 yen ($82,000) for campaign expenditures, Miss Ichikawa, founder of the Women's Suffrage League in Japan, will continue a political career that began with an election success in 1953.

For this year's election, students and young people from all parts of Japan gave speeches on her behalf and contributed the small sums they earned from part-time work to her campaign.

Her rapport with the younger generation, she said, stems from her humble, farming family background and her activity in various citizen associations.

She said she sees her low-cost election success as a repudiation of Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's policy of heavy spending. She blamed feudalistic customs in Japan and the Conservative party that has been in power for all but two years since World War II, for what she said is democracy's failure to take root among the Japanese people.

A nonstop activist, writer and one-time newspaper reporter, she commented on the nearly 1,000 consumer movements in Japan.

The movements have grown, she said, "because the Diet is not functioning on this point. Citizens have risen in anger."

"But although the movements are widely reported in the Japanese press, they haven't been able to get any great success."

OSHA Changes Needed

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States once again has spoken out for business before a congressional committee, urging amendments to the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA).

In its fourth appearance recently, the national chamber's testimony was presented, as follows:

"We believe the problems with the law all stem from one source. The act is unnecessarily punitive. It will never achieve its goal of safe and healthful workplaces nationwide until its approach encourages cooperation between the government on one hand and employers and employees on the other.

"The first step in achieving that cooperation is to amend the act making it more equitable for those whom it regulates."

In other words, more cooperation and less compulsion is needed in the safety law if it is ever going to work as it should.

The chamber's testimony again hit the nail on the head with accurate information based on practical application. Despite the best intentions of businessmen to meet the act's complex and burdensome requirements, it adds unnecessarily to costs and creates frustrating problems.

The most needed amendment is one which would permit inspectors to consult with employers on the site concerning compliance.

Meanwhile, in Austin another major legislative battle is shaping up in the matter of state versus federal administration of OSHA.

A hearing on the Texas OSHA plan was held by the U.S. Department of Labor at Austin last week, at which time the battle lines seemed fairly well drawn.

A representative of the Texas Manufacturers Association made it clear in his testimony that several changes need to be made in the proposed legislation which will enable the state to administer and enforce its own occupational safety and health program. He said that blind acceptance of the state's enabling bill, as it now is written, would not be in the best interest of employers and employees in Texas.

Organized labor is opposed to the state taking over policing of the act, arguing that this would be less effective and of less benefit to the workers.

Management groups, generally speaking, seem to favor state policing, getting it closer to home.

Congress very well could start the ball to rolling by amending OSHA legislation, making it more practical and workable from the standpoint of business.

The Need Is So Great

DON OAKLEY Taking A Closer Look At The Runaway Problem

NEW YORK (NEA)—Many law enforcement and government officials, as well as parents, are alarmed at the phenomenon of runaway teenagers. Contrary to the popular impression, however, a growing legion of youths is not hitting the road for the farthest reaches of the country in search of adventure or to escape from problems at home.

Both the size and the nature of the runaway youth problem often are exaggerated and misunderstood, two researchers with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research asserted in recent testimony before a subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives during hearings on a pending "Runaway Youth Act."

Martin Gold and David J. Reimer told the Equal Opportunity Subcommittee that an extensive survey of youth in 1972 revealed the following relevant facts about runaways:

— About 6 per cent of the adolescents aged 11 to 18 — that's anywhere from 1.5 to 2.4 million youths — did run away from home between mid-1969 and mid-1972.

— But 70 per cent of these runaways — between a million and 1.6 million of them — merely went to the house of a friend or relative. Only 13 per cent went "on the road" and left their city or community.

— Thus a total of only about a half-million runaway youths were probably in need of protection and supervision during the three-year period. If the 17- and 18-year olds (who are often outside the jurisdiction of juvenile authorities) are removed from consideration, the numbers of runaways in need of help is smaller still.

— The proportion of young people running away from home did not increase between 1969 and 1972 as is often thought. Any increase was due to the larger number of adolescents in the American population in 1972.

"We do not wish to minimize the fact that in that three-year period some 580,000 young people—give or take 140,000—had left their homes and the supervision of their parents or guardians and were in relatively unprotected situations for two days or more," Gold and Reimer told the subcommittee.

"But we think it wise to get a more accurate perspective on the dimensions of the problem of runaways than the general estimates drawn from the figures of law enforcement agencies."

They pointed out that while runaways come about equally from all social classes, those who come to the attention of the police are different from the average runaway in several respects. For example, more than two-thirds of the runaways picked up by the police are from out of town, but only about a third of the runaways in the national study left their hometowns.

In running away also the occasion for breaking the law and committing other delinquent acts? Gold and Reimer found that it is not in less than 10 per cent of the incidents of running away did youths (almost exclusively boys) engage in delinquent behavior.

They add, however, that the large majority of young people who run away from home, on other occasions, more delinquent than most of the adolescents in the country.

RAY CROMLEY Political Profit Is At Taxpayer Expense

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Billions in public money and favors are channeled to individuals, groups and firms for political purposes. The loss to the taxpayer may be as great as the loss through theft by organized crime.

The corruption of the democratic system is even greater — a perversion of law and equal treatment — meaning, as it does, favor to special groups, and funds not used as intended by law.

Significantly, the House Judiciary Committee did not seriously consider charging Richard Nixon with illegally diverting millions of government dollars for such political purposes. Yet that committee has in its files documentary evidence of White House directed diversion on a major scale.

This reporter has a copy of one of these file documents. In it, Fred Malek, who was Mr. Nixon's deputy director of the Office of Management and the Budget, estimated the loose change available for diversion to target groups to help obtain support for the President's reelection to be $1.4 billion. The time available (seven months) and the need for secrecy would, Malek calculated, make possible the effective "redirection" of only a small fraction of that amount in the 1972 campaign.

The committee did not recommend impeachment on these grounds. The reason is obvious; everyone does it. It is no secret that more often than not big military and other government spending has gone to the areas represented by men high on key committees in Congress. The money favors individuals and groups who could sway voters in the re-election of these senators and representatives.

When consciously done for political purposes, this channeling or diversion of funds and favors is clearly illegal. But the law does not dare call the kettle black, even when documentary evidence exists.

The material at hand is to the point, a memorandum from H. R. Haldeman from Fred Malek, on "Departmental Responsiveness" dated March 17, 1972 on White House stationery. The attached document, marked "extremely sensitive" is titled, "Increasing the Responsiveness of the Executive Branch." Five copies were made.

The Malek plan proposed organizing each executive department for this systematic diversion of funds into programs where they would be most effective politically and providing for close White House monitoring by Malek to make certain all such divisions met their goals. Each departmental contact, usually an undersecretary, Malek wrote, would be expected to establish controls to ensure the desired action was taken.

Malek proposed he and his staff would coordinate the departmental plans in this "grantmanship" operation, along with Casper (Cap) Weinberger, then on the White House staff and now secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. They would ensure that each department effectively fulfilled its quota.

As a first step, Malek went on, the departments should be given clear guidelines covering political priorities. These would be spelled out in terms of key states and major voting bloc groups on which departmental action could have an impact.

Malek listed both positive and negative decisions to be covered under this program. In the first group were: grants, contracts, loans, subsidies, procurement

BIG BATTLE UNNOTICED— Vietnam—The Conflict People Prefer To Forget

By NEA/London Economic News Service
SAIGON — (LENS) — Vietnam's biggest battle since the ceasefire in February, 1973, passed almost unnoticed by the outside world.

It started on July 17, when Communist forces overran two South Vietnamese Ranger bases near the district capital of Duc Duc, in the northern province of Quang Nam.

The South Vietnamese threw in some 3,000 extra troops as reinforcements and launched large-scale bombing strikes. The fighting still continues with some 10,000 North Vietnamese troops massed around Duc Duc.

The battle matters for two reasons, apart from its scale. The first is that the North Vietnamese appear to see Duc Duc (and the neighboring town of Dai Loc) as a stepping-stone on the way to Danang, South Vietnam's second largest city, 12 miles to the north-east.

From Duc Duc they can shell Danang — a city swollen with war refugees, where the former American air base lies almost unused — with their Chinese-built 130mm guns. They could also strike at Highway 1, the main road between Saigon and the north.

Second, offensives of this kind swallow up South Vietnam's strategic reserve and its dwindling economic resources. North Vietnam is staking a great deal on the hope that the economic crisis in the south will erode support for President Thieu's war policy.

The South Vietnamese announced the second devaluation of the piastre in a fortnight on July 19. The 20-30 per cent pay rises for soldiers and civil servants earlier this year did not enable them to catch up with the soaring cost of living, and food is in short supply.

Although Saigon radio has been making great play with the idea that North Vietnam is suffering from an economic crisis of its own, and even graver leadership problems, this seems to be wishful thinking.

The eclipse of General Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister since 1946 (with one brief intermission), now seems to be complete. According to American sources, he is suffering from the form of cancer called Hodgkin's disease. But his role in North Vietnam's remarkably durable system of collective leadership has probably been exaggerated by western observers.

The conduct of the war in recent years has been at least as much in the hands of Le Duan, the first secretary of

New Mexico Has Bunch Of Sailors

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Maybe it won't surprise you, but there appears to be a bunch of sailors in New Mexico — a state known for its desert.

A journalist — Pat Kaller of the Albuquerque Journal — says there are 800 registered sailboats and two established sailing clubs in the state.

Most of the sailors must haul their craft mile after mile to a body of water.

Apparently the drive to Elephant Butte, Heron, Conchas, Navajo and other lakes isn't that troublesome.

One ingredient sailors find prevalent in New Mexico is the wind. There's plenty of that, all right.

Bill Rouch, the assistant director of New Mexico's Parks and Recreation Department, says there were 25,653 boats of all kinds registered in the state as of December 1973. That's about 2,200 more than were registered in December of 1972.

He said 200 new sailboats were registered last year.

"I can remember when I knew of only one in New Mexico," he said.

There are two sailing clubs — the Rio Grande, which was founded in the late 1950s, and the New Mexico Sailing Club, a more recently organized group.

Jury To View Prison Tapes

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A Walker County grand jury planned to view a video tape today of the shootout in which convict Fred Gomez Carrasco, fellow inmate Rodolfo Dominguez and hostages Elizabeth Beasda and Julie Standley died as the convicts tried to escape from prison.

The grand jury inspected the site of the Aug. 3 shootout Wednesday and said it would report on its tour today at 9 a.m.

A spokesman for Walker County Dist. Atty. Jerry Sandel said the grand jury members also talked to Ignacio Cuevas, the only surviving member of the inmate trio that at one time held 15 hostages in the prison library. The jury will consider indictments against Cuevas.

The grand jury earlier subpoenaed the video tape and planned to view it today if projection equipment could be found.

Prison hospital officials said Wednesday that the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, the prison chaplain, wounded in the chest during the shootout, is in good condition. It is expected he will be called before the grand jury for testimony.

There had been widespread rumors that Cuevas had been severely beaten after he was captured following the shootout. Sandel said the grand jury visited Cuevas to check on the reports and found him in excellent health.

State Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, who earlier had called on Gov. Dolph Briscoe to check the rumors, said Wednesday in Houston he was "greatly relieved about the grand jury's visit."

Brooks added that he talked Wednesday by telephone with Jim Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections, and was told that Cuevas had been examined by a physician and is in good health.

Estelle also assured Brooks that no attempt was ever made on Cuevas' life after his capture, Brooks said.

"This will certainly help relieve the doubts of the public," he said.

Brooks said the committee he chairs, the Texas Senate-House Committee on Prison Reform, began receiving reports of an attempt on the life of Cuevas the day after the shootout.

Brooks also criticized Briscoe for inaction in the wake of the rumors about Cuevas.

"I did everything in the world to get Gov. Briscoe to act affirmatively, to please send some objective person over there to please determine if there was any validity to those reports," he said.

"Unfortunately, he did not act or did not choose to act," Brooks said.

Governors, Mayors Hail Ford 'Cooperation' Era

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors and mayors of both parties say President Ford has signaled a new era of cooperation between the White House and leaders of the states and cities.

"Once again, it's fun to come to Washington," said Gov. Wendell Anderson, D-Minn., chairman of the Democratic Governors Caucus, after Ford spent an hour in an informal meeting Wednesday with a bipartisan group of 15 governors.

The state executives praised Ford for what they said was a new attitude of sympathy for their problems and a promise to maintain an open-door policy.

Gov. Milton Shapp, D-Penn., said Ford's attitude was more important than promises. "Every time we had such a meeting in the past, it was a talk-down to session," Shapp said.

Ford was described by the governors and mayors as "casual, informal and candid."

In their meeting, Ford held out no early hope of solving the nation's inflation problems.

"He said he had no easy answers and I appreciated his candor," said Anderson.

Shapp said Ford's openness was a marked contrast to former President Richard M. Nixon—"the difference between the sun shining and a dark day."

The 16 mayors who met with the new President were equally impressed.

"There was a general warmth, considered to be a refreshing change over what we have felt the last two years when we felt we were cut off," said Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans.

The mayors asked Ford to designate a top official as their White House contact man.

"For the time being, your access is me," Ford replied, according to Mayor Jake Garn of Salt Lake City.

Care For Children Of OC, UTPB Students On Tap

ODessa — A day care service for children of Odessa College and U.T.-Permian students will be implemented this fall by the United Campus Ministry.

The United Campus Ministry Day Care System was officially organized this week.

The service will be based on need, explained the Rev. Mike Miller, director of United Campus Ministry at OC and UTPB.

Children will be kept in two centers, one at Westminster Presbyterian Church and the other at First Presbyterian Church.

Cost of the service will be worked out, but will be as low as possible, Mr. Miller said. He emphasized that the day care service is non-profit and is being provided because of an increasing need.

Persons interested can contact the counselors in the student services office at OC and the student life office at UTPB.

842 Tickets For Hazardous Violations Issued By Midland Police During July

Midland Police Department statistics reveal 1,098 citations for traffic violations were issued here in July. Of the total, 842 were for hazardous violations.

On the other hand, parking violations far outnumbered moving violations, with 3,147 parking tickets being issued. Parking violations at Midland Air Terminal numbered 154.

During the 215 hours that were worked on radar units in the city, 543 tickets were issued for speeding, while 50 citations were given for other violations.

Speeding still remains the top offense, with 607 tickets being issued during July. Only one person was ticketed for going under a safe speed.

During July there were no traffic fatalities in Midland, which recorded 199 accidents. Fifty persons were injured in 33 accidents last month.

Police investigated three accidents in which persons were seriously injured, 21 others in which persons were taken to the hospital with lesser injuries and nine in which there were minor injuries requiring no hospitalization.

Thirty-seven accidents—17 of them on private property—occurred in which the driver left the scene. Twenty-seven of the cases have been cleared.

During the month, 10 persons were stopped for driving under the influence of alcohol and two for being under the influence of drugs.

The second highest offense—with 41 violations—was for disobeying red lights. Other moving violations saw 39 citations for failure to yield right of way, 29 for disobeying a stop sign, 16 for following too closely, 14 for improper turn, seven for improper start or spinning of tires, six for improper backing, five for disobeying a railroad signal, four each for unsafe lane change, improper start from a parked position and improper acceleration in motion.

Of the non-hazardous violations, there were 115 citations for no driver's license, two for expired licenses and 11 others for driver license violations. There were 21 vehicle equipment violations and four registration violations. A total of 85 motor vehicle identification sticker violations were filed.

Greek Break With NATO Could Bring Trouble For Alliance, United States

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Greece's breach with NATO attacks on Nicosia and Greek Cypriot positions, the State Department supported the idea of some autonomy for Turkish Cypriots.

It was learned that U.S. intelligence forecast early this week that the Turks would launch an offensive to take over the entire northern third of Cyprus from Famagusta on the east coast to Morphou on the west, and divide the island into separate Turkish Cypriot and Greek Cypriot states.

Meanwhile, the United States maintained a low military profile. Defense officials said the 6th Fleet was operating as usual. The aircraft carrier Independence and an amphibious group were reported near Crete, at least a day's sailing time from Cyprus.

The strongest U.S. action taken so far was a warning to both Greece and Turkey that their weapons pipeline from the United States would be cut off if they started fighting each other.

Such a cutoff likely would hurt Turkey more than Greece. The Turks are virtually dependent on the United States for arms, aircraft, ammunition and other war supplies. But the Greeks already have some French weapons and reportedly completed a major deal with France last spring to buy more.

U.S. strategists fear a permanent Greek withdrawal from NATO would, in effect, break the solid line developed over the past 25 years as a defense against possible Soviet military pressure.

They said a break would isolate Turkey and could imperil NATO airbases and other positions there.

Despite longstanding differences, Greek and Turkish military staffs, naval and other support forces have cooperated through Greece.

Pentagon sources said there already has been some impairment in NATO's air defense and communications machinery in the southern region embracing Greece, Turkey and Italy.

Greek denial of NATO and U.S. use of naval, air, and communications bases on her soil could cause serious disruptions, Pentagon officials said.

They said operations of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the eastern Mediterranean, near the volatile Middle East, would be much more difficult without support from facilities in forces have cooperated through Greece.

Nelson Bill Would Ban Phone Call Disclosures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., proposed legislation today to require a court subpoena before a government agency could obtain records of anyone's telephone calls.

His bill also would require the agency seeking the records to notify the telephone subscriber unless this would impede a criminal investigation.

In addition, Nelson said a telephone company would be barred from responding to the subpoena for at least 10 days to give the subscriber a chance to raise legal objections to disclosure of his telephone calls.

Nelson said legislation of this nature is necessary to protect individual privacy and free speech.

Under present law, disclosure of telephone records is permitted on demand of "lawful authority" without any requirement that the individual involved be notified, he said.

"Reports have revealed that telephone companies throughout the country have secretly provided various governmental agencies and officials with the telephone records of thousands of individuals," Nelson said.

Thunderstorms, Hail, Tornadoes Lash Many Areas

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms moved into western Minnesota today after spawning tornadoes and hail in a sweep of the Dakotas.

Scattered thunderstorms also roamed the Southeastern states, parts of Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Missouri and several Southwestern states.

At least eight granaries were destroyed and others damaged by a tornado that hit farmland northeast of Jamestown, N.D., Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

Almost 1 1/2 inches of rain soaked Grand Forks, N.D., and 3/4-inch hail hit Rapid City, S.D.

But skies were clear in New England, the Great Lakes region and parts of the Ohio Valley.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Evanston, Wyo., to 93 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Predicts Cost Rise
The cost of products a farmer must buy to produce his crops and animals rose 87 per cent between 1960 and 1972.

Human Cannonball Acts Soon To End

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Papa is 80 now, and a recent heart attack has slowed him down. He hasn't shot anyone out of a cannon for weeks.

Papa is Edmondo Zaccini, for half a century the circus world's revered grandfather of the human cannonball act. He is to the human cannonball what Edison was to the light bulb.

Since 1921, Papa has been shooting his sons and daughters out of cannons without so much as a serious accident. Others have tried to copy the act but failed.

There are only two Zaccini acts left on the road now, and by next year the human cannonball may be a thing of the past.

"It just doesn't pay any more," said Paul "Zaccini" Creason, 35, one of Papa's proteges. Creason is hanging up his crash helmet and mothballing his cannon next month to go into the restaurant business in Ironton, Mo.

Creason, who began crawling down the 30-foot barrels of Papa's hand-made cannons as a teen-ager, doesn't want to continue the act now that the old man has gone into semi-retirement in Tampa, Fla.

"This is the first trip I've ever made without him," said Creason, now appearing at the Wisconsin State Fair. "I don't like it. He's sort of a good luck charm. He's got the secret that makes the cannons work."

The secret, which no Zaccini will discuss, is in the construction of Papa's cannons and the explosive formula that allows a person to be hurled more than 200 feet through the air at 90 miles an hour before landing in a net.

After Creason retires, the only other human cannonball act will be the one currently at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield, featuring Papa's son Hugo.

Texas GOP Head Supporting Bush

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican State Chairman Jack Warren of Tyler announced his support Wednesday for George Bush as vice president, citing, among other qualifications, that Bush's Texas background "provides an excellent geographical balance to President Ford's home state of Michigan."

Warren urged Republicans and Democrats from Texas to send telegrams to Ford endorsing Bush, the GOP national chairman.

Warren's remarks were in a news release from state GOP headquarters, which listed numerous other Bush supporters in an apparent effort to get a drive under way for the former congressman from Houston.

The release said North Dakota national committeewoman Gerry Dee Wheeler had said Ford had received hundreds of telegrams from that state supporting Bush.

In addition, the release said, state GOP Chairmen John McDonald of Iowa and Dick Herman of Nebraska, and national committeemen Bernard Shanley of New Jersey are working for the nomination of Bush.

Thirteen Texas congressmen, including 10 conservative Democrats, are supporting Bush, the Texas GOP said, and it listed 10 congressmen from other states favoring Bush's nomination.

Five senators also have endorsed Bush, the GOP said.

Who needs 11 oil pipelines across Alaska?

Nobody, obviously.

Even though 11 companies, including Mobil, are now making final preparations for developing the major field at Alaska's Prudhoe Bay. That's because a single large-diameter pipeline can do the job for these and all the other companies with interests in the field.

A single pipeline is now being built as a joint venture by seven companies, at a cost which probably will be around five billion dollars.

Nice round numbers, billions. They're the ones with nine zeros. They show the massiveness of capital investment in our industry—the reason it's critical for oil companies to do certain things as joint ventures.

Like building pipelines. Like bidding for oil leases. Joint bidding for leases shares the risk. It is prudent in our business to hedge against failure by seeking interests in many tracts rather than a few. By putting up, say, 25 percent or 35 percent of a bid, with other firms gambling the rest, we spread the risk and are helped by the law of averages.

Joint bidding for leases is a highly competitive matter. In some cases, the same companies that are our partners in one tract are our rivals for another.

Joint bidding also enables smaller companies to secure interests in expensive potential oil-producing sites that would otherwise be out of their league.

Since 1967, Mobil has bid jointly with 17 smaller companies and with five of the larger firms in efforts to secure offshore leases.

Even with joint bidding, the investment—and the risks—are sizable. Late in May, at a sale of oil leases in the Gulf of Mexico off Texas, Mobil spent $185.7 million for an interest in $489.8 million worth of potential producing sites. Just two months before, we anted up $143.4 million for our share of $405.4 million in tracts off the coast of Louisiana. And this was on top of $347.2 million we spent last year to participate in $950.9 million worth of Gulf leases—that investment alone being equal to about 40 percent of our total worldwide net income for the year.

All this joint lease-bidding bought us was the right to drill. We have to risk still more dollars as our share in the cost of drilling. For without drilling, we could never know whether oil and gas, in fact, are there.

Offshore drilling rigs cost up to $50 million each.

The average offshore well in the Gulf costs $591,196 to drill.

A typical deep offshore well—15,000 feet or more—costs over $1 million.

All these millions add up to billions—to "nine-zero" reasons for making some investments jointly.

It's simply our way of spreading the risks so we'll have more oil to spread among our customers.

Gold Ownership To Become Legal

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. citizens will be able legally to buy, sell and hold gold as of Dec. 31 for the first time since 1934.

President Ford signed legislation on Wednesday lifting the ban imposed during the world-wide depression of the 1930s, when the United States went off the monetary gold standard.

The action is a victory in a long campaign waged principally by conservative members of Congress, representatives from mining states and citizens who see the metal as a desirable hedge against inflation and the gyrating values of stocks and other investments.

Firm Taking Orders

Some economists argue that gold yields no interest and usually costs money to store and insure.

How and where will Americans be able to buy the precious metal?

Minutes after the signing was announced, Samuel Weiss & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange, said it had begun taking orders for gold from the public and other exchange members. Weiss was the first member firm to be authorized by the exchange as a bullion agent and the company said it had made arrangements with a minerals concern to sell gold bars in sizes ranging from 1/4 troy ounce to 50 ounces.

A spokesman at Weiss said the firm's bullion prices would be tied to the rapidly fluctuating gold prices quoted in world markets and would include the firm's own commission of 6 or 7 per cent. The closing price in London on Wednesday was $137.50 an ounce.

Commercial Dealers

You won't have to go to the stock exchange to buy gold, however. Commercial gold dealers, commodities exchanges and coin dealers began making plans for the legalization of gold even before the legislation passed Congress.

A spokesman for Handy and Harman, a New York gold dealer which until now sold only to jewelry manufacturers and other industrial users, said earlier this year his firm would have it made into the shape of ingots and sell it in sizes from one to 100 ounces.

He said people probably would be able to send for the gold through the mail or purchase it like any other item.

The spokesman said the gold would be 24 carat—99.95 per cent pure gold—and probably would be advertised much like silver.

John Flynn of Perera Fifth Avenue Inc., which deals in currency and foreign exchange, said his company was making plans to buy gold from refiners, have it made into the shape of ingots and sell it in sizes from one to 100 ounces.

The commodities exchange readied contracts for gold futures. Mark J. Powers, senior vice president of the International Monetary Market of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, said the contracts probably would be traded in amounts of 100 ounces.

Legal gold trading could begin earlier than Dec. 31. The President has authority under existing law to permit it if he finds that such transactions would not disrupt the U.S. international monetary position. There has been no indication, however, that such a finding is in the offing.

Since 1934, the only legal gold traffic in the United States has been for manufacturing, dental, artistic and similar purposes.

The bill Ford signed basically provides for a $1.5 billion U.S. contribution, over four years, to the International Development Association. The gold provision was added as a rider.

A GAL NAMED CHRISTOPHER—

Moniker Nothing But Trouble

By CHRIS SILVA

BROOKFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "Do you, Christopher, take Robert...?"

I shuddered when the minister said that during our marriage ceremony 18 years ago. Christopher may have been play as a moniker for Columbus. But I'm female, 5-foot-1, and for over 30 years I've been answering to that male tag. Life has been a succession of miseries.

Even though the women's liberation movement has opened many doors previously closed to us females, I believe sex discrimination has its place when it comes to names. Ever since I started school I have tried to sneak by with only the nickname Chris, but officials, of course, must have your full name. So I have lived in constant dread of roll calls and introductions. In high school I was enrolled in a boys' physical education group. It took some tall talking to get out of that one.

At another point I almost wound up going to a boys' prep school. Seems they wanted me on the swimming team. A modern gal would now use these mistakes to her advantage.

Throughout my schooling, including my college days at Northeastern University, I have always had to engage in long explanations to wriggle out of embarrassing situations that arose from my legal name. She Explains Sometimes "Your parents were expecting a boy, of course?" people ask after looks of astonishment. I turn my usual deep crimson and may or may not explain that my parents were not expecting a male, but gave me the name Christopher on purpose.

As artists they thought Christopher Hay, my maiden name, would be a good pen name for an artist or writer. Even marriage didn't help. It only changed the maiden name to Silva.

As education writer for WINE radio, my voice behind the mike is strictly female. Listeners would be in shock, despite equal rights, to hear a soprano voice saying "This is Christopher Silva, WINE radio news."

Picks Names With Care To save our three children embarrassment, the name Chris has been used frequently. And their names were chosen with care, the boys Mark and Eric, and our daughter Lynne Anne. I didn't want them to suffer as I did from a name problem.

For positive identification of my gender I have to carry my driver's license and birth certificate at all times. Both state that I am female.

When I cash a check I always have to go to the same bank because they know I'm not trying to pull a fast one by cashing some male's check with a forged endorsement. Loads Of Wrong Mail

I used to get loads of mail addressed to Mr. Hay. The mail order houses and department stores used to haunt me to buy men's socks, shirts, hats and shoes.

One pamphlet exhorted me to join the YMCA, extolling the merits to the young male. After turning 21 and registering to vote, I was afraid I would be hearing from the Selective Service Board. When I did, it only took one appearance at the local draft board to convince them I was ineligible.

AF Academy Head No Women's Libber

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Maj. Gen. James Allen, at 48 the youngest superintendent in the Air Force Academy's history, says he is firmly opposed to proposed enrollment of women cadets.

"I support the law of the land that prohibits the use of women in combat," said Allen, a fighter pilot who flew combat missions in both the Korean and Vietnam wars.

Allen said he feels that unless the world situation requires the United States to "line our shores with trenches, it is not in the best interest to have women here."

Colorful Amsterdam Neighborhood Not What It Was

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Leaning on his broom, the flower vendor surveyed a narrow shopping street in one of Amsterdam's most colorful neighborhoods, the Jordaan.

"The way it used to be," he recalled, "the men would play cards in the street. The women sat around knitting or peeling potatoes. Some shops stayed open all evening, and the streets were full of light. The women had to drag their men home at midnight.

"Now," he remarked, "it's dead at four in the afternoon. The people who used to fill the cafes now go home to drink. The shopowners no longer live here. They turn out the lights and leave, and everything is dark."

Almost everyone agrees the Jordaan is no longer what it once was. Auto traffic, television and other by-products of prosperity have changed the ways of a quarter once known for its open, neighborly, almost Mediterranean street life.

But, as some point out, the Jordaan probably never was as people say it used to be. "The Jordaaners shared their collective poverty," explains Han Lammers, Amsterdam's city councilman for urban planning. "A romantic image has grown up of Jordaan life prior to World War II. In fact, people lived in the most frightful working-class poverty, sometimes eight to ten in a two-room apartment." Formerly an area of small farms within the city wall, the Jordaan received large numbers of French and Italian immigrants in the 17th and 18th centuries and the name of the district was probably derived from the French "jardin" (garden). In 1880, at the height of the 19th-century industrial expansion, its population swelled to 82,000, four times the present figure.

The "real old Jordaaners" watch each others' kids, keep the front porch and windows clean, use "ome" (uncle) and "tante" (aunt) before each others' names, and take great pride in the district and its neighborly relations.

In recent years, the working-class Jordaan has come to be considered chic. As houses are restored, boutiques replace hardware stores and "in" cafes replace simple street-corner bars. The image of the Jordaan, its legendary charm, has made it a favored area for students, advertising men, hippies and the fashionable set.
