Plans for Ex-Students Reunion Near Completion

Ex-students of Wellington High School will gather Saturday, August 5, for their biennial homecoming, with all events centered at Bura Handley Community Center.

This week an urgent appeal is going out that local residents attend this reunion.

"Ex-students who come from out of town are eager to visit not only with each other, but especially with those who have remained in the Wellington area," pointed out Vicki Mayhugh, one of those working on arrangements.

Besides the one notice that has already gone out, there will be none other, Miss Mayhugh said. Because of this, any one who knows of ex-students who might not be on the mailing list are asked to take the initiative in contacting them.

Registration will begin at 10:00 a.m. Visiting will continue throughout the day, but reunion guests will be on their own for lunch, except for three classes.

That of 1947 is holding its Silver Anniversary get-together with lunch at the Heritage Room of the Wellington State Bank. There will be visiting from 11:00 a.m. until as long as anyone wishes to stay. Luncheon reservations should be made with Lennie Lou Coleman Sims.

The Class of 1929 voted at the last reunion to hold its traditional luncheon again this year. Specific arrangements have not been announced.

The class of 1966 is planning a reunion also, Ginger Earnest White of Memphis has announced.

Plans are not yet completed, but it probably will be an ice cream party at Ellison Park. The time has not been set. Complete plans will be announced, and letters sent to class members.

The highlight will be the Buffet-barbecue at 8:00 p.m., according to Jake Leach, president of the Ex-Student's Association. This also will be in the community center, and a traditional barbecue supper will be served. Plans for this are rapidly taking shape.

The alumni dance will follow the barbecue. Tables will not be removed, and those wishing to stay and visit may do so.

During the afternoon, there will be a short recognition service, citing the oldest graduate, the one coming from the greatest distance, and in possibly one or two other categories.

Dora E. McClaskey Smith, who is in charge of registration, this week announced those who will assist in registration: 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon: Dorothy Baird McGill and Janell Bettis Brown.

School Studies Co-op Special Ed Program

The Wellington School Board has agreed conditionally to enter the Eastern Panhandle Co-operative Special Education Program, along with other schools in this area, Supt. Thayne Amonett announced following the recent board meeting.

The program is proposed to begin with the 1973-74 school year.

Also in the meeting, the board elected Harvey Dale Hughes of Hammon, Oklahoma, to the high school faculty, and set the tax rate for the Wellington Independent School District.

Mr. Hughes will replace Mrs. Gano Wilson, who is moving to Lefors, as high school math instructor. He recently was graduated from Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Oklahoma, and was a math major.

This completes the faculty, Mr. Amonett said.

The board set the tax rate at $1.80 per $100 property valuation, the same as last year.

Mr. Amonett said the special education program is still continuing.

Dodson Has Two Injury Accidents During Weekend

Two accidents in Dodson during the week end, one involving a car and the other a motorcycle, sent two men to the hospital and another to be checked at the hospital, Highway Patrolman Jackie Gunnels reported.

Both were one-vehicle accidents.

Buster Faggin, 22, and James Ray Thomas, 18, both of Shamrock, were admitted to Collingsworth General Hospital for treatment of injuries received when their car overturned in the south part of Dodson about 4:00 a.m. Sunday, Patrolman Gunnels reported. Faggin, driver of the car carrying 5 young people, lost control of his vehicle on a curve in FM 1642 and it overturned once, the patrolman said.

Other occupants of the car were identified as Elmo Oliver, 14 of Shamrock, Jackie Darton, 16 and Teddy Sango, 17, both of Wellington.

The car was described as a total loss. Assisting Patrolman Gunnels were Patrolman Doug Wright, Deputies Alvin Minatrea, Kenneth Martindale and Art Taylor, and City Policeman Jim Reed.

Wesley Kim Tabor, 15, of Route One, Dodson, was treated and released from a Hollis hospital after his motorcycle apparently turned over and hit him. The accident occurred about 10:00 p.m. Friday, July 21.

Patrolman Doug Wright headed the investigation, assisted by Patrolman Gunnels and members of the Sheriff's department.

Loco-Arlie Reunion to Draw Pioneers Sunday

Pioneers of the Loco and Arlie communities, along with later residents and those in the area at present, will join for a day of reminiscing and visiting Sunday, July 30.

This annual event will be in Bura Handley Community Center, and will follow the format of other reunions of recent years.

Final plans were announced by Mrs. Bill Harbin, one of this year's hosts. Others are Mr. Harbin, Miss Bonnie Willis, Mrs. Olean Bearden of Carey and Merritt Durfey.

Approximately 125 are expected to attend.

Registration will begin at 10:00 a.m., and beginning at 10:15, coffee and donuts will be served.

The basket dinner will be served at noon, and most of the afternoon will be given to visiting and reminiscing.

A memorial service, under the direction of Mr. Durfey, will be held some time during the afternoon.

A special guest this year will be Mrs. T.D. Hudspeth of San Antonio, who with the late Mr. Hudspeth taught in the Loco School about 40 years ago. She has told Miss Willis by phone that she and a sister-in-law will arrive here Saturday.

Mrs. Hudspeth retired from teaching this spring, having taught the first grade in the San Antonio Schools since 1944. Her assignments have included Lockhill, Fernald, Wilshire and Lackland City elementary schools.

Upon her retirement, she told a newspaper reporter that she did not intend to "just sit" during her retirement.

After teaching at Loco, Mr. Hudspeth worked for J.B. Castleberry in Castleberry Motor Company.

After leaving here, Mrs. Hudspeth and her sister-in-law will visit other relatives in Miami.

Those events that have become a valued part of the Loco and Arlie reunion will be seen again.

Pastor Begins Work With First Baptist

The Rev. Ted Savage, for 12 years a missionary in Zambia, East Central Africa, has taken over his duties as pastor of First Baptist Church, and he and his family have moved here from Altus, Okla. "We are happy to be here in Wellington, because we feel this is where God wants us," said the new pastor.

"We feel that we cannot understand why God called us away from 17 churches in Zambia, but we are confident he has something here in the U.S. for us, and he needs us for a particular task."

The family left Zambia on May 12. Mrs. Savage was ill at that time, and the Rev. Savage said that was the principal reason for their returning to the United States. Her health is now

Rev. John Hutson Resigns from Assembly of God

The Rev. John Hutson has resigned as pastor of the Assembly of God and will preach his final sermon before the congregation, Sunday, August 13.

He has not announced his future plans to the church, although he has several revival meetings scheduled during the remainder of the summer, friends report.

Council Covers Wide Range of Activity

The Wellington City Council in its July 10 meeting took up a variety of new business, then covered other items first considered several months ago.

City Manager Lyman Daniel, meeting with the council for the first time since he took over his duties, requested that a weed ordinance be adopted. Other towns have found this an effective means of improving their appearance and eliminating a fire hazard in dry weather. Mr. Daniel is to prepare an ordinance to be presented at the next meeting of the city council.

A new radio system for the police units was approved, to be secured through the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

With a book value of $9,500, it will cost the city about $1,

250, and will belong to the city. Mr. Daniel explained that this is in keeping with work to have all law enforcement units on the same radio frequency. The city manager also was given charge of maintaining the police car and equipment.

The council also agreed by vote to extend the 8" water line from 13th and Galveston to 14th and Galveston streets and put in an additional fire plug to protect businesses along Highway 83.

In other business, Mayor John Coleman read a petition signed by several city residents requesting the city "to do something about dogs."

The proposed gas rate increase was discussed with Harold Gattis, local manager for Lone Star Gas Company, and further

Carnival for County Fair Is Assured

A carnival to play in Wellington the week of the Collingsworth County Fair has been assured by a confirmation from the Jest Amusement Company of Stamford, Mrs. Margaret Vines, Chamber of Commerce secretary, announced Tuesday, July 24.

The confirmation was received that morning.

The carnival will be here for the entire Fair Week, opening Monday, September 4 and continuing through Saturday, September 9.

It will be moved away from the downtown area this year, Mrs. Vines said, and will be located on the entire block between 8th and 9th Streets, and Ennis and Ft. Worth Streets, except for the part occupied by Caldwell Real Estate. This is the block used by the Co-op Gin for trailer parking in the fall.

This will give the amusement company greater freedom in setting up the rides and booths, or give carnival visitors more parking room, Mrs. Vines explained.

The chamber of commerce made the arrangements for the carnival visit through Virginia Wright, general agent, and Jimmy Case, manager.

Tentatively, there will be four rides for larger children and adults, and four for small children.

There will also be a number of game booths. The Chamber of Commerce will operate one and the amusement company all the others.

There will be space for a number of food booths, and these are traditionally set up by various county organizations, school classes, and church groups. Mrs. Vines said that anyone wishing to have one of these booths during the Carnival Week should contact her as early as possible.

Price Assistant Sets Wellington, Dodson Visits

Congressman Bob Price has announced that his assistant, Charles Lanehart, will be at the Davis Gin in Dodson from 2:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. and also at the Courthouse in Wellington from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on August 3rd to assist any Collingsworth County residents who may have problems with the Federal Government.

Everyone is welcome to visit with Mr. Lanehart at this non-partisan, open to the public meeting. Congressman Price emphasized that these visits are arranged in an effort to bring the services of his office closer to the people of North-west Texas.

City and County Officers Attend Two-Day School

Two law enforcement officers, Police Chief Jim King and Deputy Sheriff Alvin Minatrea, attended a two-day school in Amarillo Tuesday and Wednesday, July 25 and 26.

This is a Panhandle Regional Planning Commission project and co-operating law enforcement departments received crime scene investigation kits, containing a considerable amount of investigative equipment.

Instruction was given in assembling this equipment, as well as in its use.

The school was held at Amarillo College under the direction of Walter Eubanks.

Five-Year Program for Hospital Updating Given

The Collingsworth General Hospital Board of Directors met with its architect, Frank Jones of Amarillo, Thursday, July 20, to hear a report, review blueprints and discuss long range planning for the hospital.

This was based on a recent visit which Garner Altom, hospital administrator, and Mr. Jones had with two officials of the Texas State Department of Health in Austin, Royce Ashcraft, director of Hospital Licensing Division, Medical Care Administration Service Section, and John Mayner, Consultant Architect.

The Thursday night session was a called meeting of the board.

"In order to maintain, update and meet the constantly changing requirements for Hospital Licensing Division, Medical Care, Accreditation and other regulatory bodies, some re-arranging and modifications in the physical plant is necessary," said Mr. Altom.

"These proposed modifications have been presented to the Texas State Department of Health on a five year phased program to be funded out of current income structure for the five year period."

"The board authorized the architect to proceed with the first phase and to secure formal approval for the entire project from the Texas Department of Health," he continued.

Those improvements in the 5-year phase program include: - The emergency power generator which is on order, will be installed as soon as it is delivered.

- Hollow core doors will have to be replaced with solid doors having steel frames on 14 patient room doors.

- Three smoke doors with automatic closing devices will be required also.

- The stair well is a fire exit and it must go directly to an outside exit.

Clarks Home from Pacific Northwest

Mr. and Mrs. David Clark, who live near Dozier, returned recently from a trip that took them through the Northwest and into Canada.

"Our first stop was at Flagstaff, Arizona, to see the Grand Canyon and Glen Canyon Dam," said Mrs. Clark.

"Next came Las Vegas, Nevada, and on to the Lassen Volcanic National Park near Redding, Calif., to Oregon and on to Tacoma, Washington."

While in Tacoma they visited their daughter, son-in-law, and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Lowry and Rodney.

Lowry, a student in the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio, is taking a summer course in cardiology at Madigan Army Hospital at Ft. Lewis, Washington.

Then the Lowrys and Clarks went to Seattle and boarded a ferry boat which took them to Victoria, British Columbia. While there they visited the beautiful Butchart Gardens, the Undersea Garden that has 5,000 marine specimen. They also saw the Empress Hotel, a well-known landmark, and the Parliament Buildings. From there they visited Vancouver, Canada.

City, the Black Hills and Mount Rushmore. Next were Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma and then home. I might add we traveled 5,400 miles and never saw a wreck!"

Questions People Ask About the Catholic Church

Q. How many priests are there in the Diocese of Amarillo, of which Wellington is a part?

A. About 100. They staff about 70 parishes in a 45,000 square mile area of North West Texas. There is an average of one priest to a rural parish, like mine, and sometimes two or three priests in a city parish, like those in Amarillo or Lubbock.

Q. What does the blessing of a priest do for a religious object, such as a medal or a rosary?

A. It dedicates it in a special way to God, and gives it a spiritual value which unblest objects do not have. It should only then be used for religious purposes, and not put to any profane or undignified use.

Q. How many American Cardinals are there, and where are they?

A. Nine. Los Angeles, Baltimore, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, New York and there's one in Rome, working in the Vatican.

Applications Needed in Great Plains Program

The Collingsworth County Great Plains Conservation Program Committee has indicated that the Soil Conservation Service is taking applications from landowners for assistance in the program, according to James K. Herring, Soil Conservation-

Purcell Pushes Wheat Research And Promotion

WASHINGTON — Legislation authored by U.S. Representative Graham Purcell to provide a program of research and promotion of wheat and wheat foods was reported today by the House Committee on Agriculture by a vote of 19 to 7.

The bill as approved by the Committee would establish a program of research and promotion of wheat and wheat foods, under the direction of a board composed of equal representation of all segments of the wheat industry — from the grower to the end product manufacturer. Under the board's direction, research, educational and promotional programs for the use of wheat and wheat products as human food would be directed toward the consuming public.

"Basically, the program will give the backing of the federal government to this historical attempt to demonstrate to the public just how attractive and healthy is a diet that used more wheat foods and wheat products," Purcell said.

"Per capita consumption of wheat has declined drastically in the United States since the turn of the century," Purcell continued. The programs and research authorized by the Purcell bill will act to reverse the trend and sell more wheat domestically."

The bill, four years in the drafting, is a product of cooperation, research, and work between Purcell, wheat growers, and members of the wheat industry. The technical problems and language changes were worked out as a result of a previous bill introduced by Purcell during the 91st Congress.

It has taken a long time to get the bill this far, and I will do everything in my power to push it the rest of the way through Congress this session, Purcell, who is Chairman of the Livestock and Grains Subcommittee, said.

ist on the SCS Wellington staff. Herring pointed out that applications are needed from landowners if they plan to enter the program in the near future. The application does not obligate a landowner to enter into the program nor does it obligate cost-sharing assistance, but does provide the landowner assistance from SCS in developing a conservation plan on their farm or ranch.

After a plan is developed the SCS people will discuss with the landowner how the GPCP may help them carry out their plan. The program does not replace other existing programs in the county, but can supplement them.

The program emphasizes land use changes, wind erosion control, moisture conservation, and management practices which will provide over a period of years, the most enduring conservation benefits for purpose of supporting stable agriculture enterprises, Herring further stated.

For additional information about the GPCP you can contact personnel in Wellington SCS office.

Collingsworth County FARM NEWS

By Don Reeves
County Agricultural Agent

President Nixon's suspension of the beef import quotas will probably have little effect on prices received by cattlemen, according to Dr. H.O. Kunkel, dean of agriculture at Texas A&M University and acting director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Kunkel stated that recent research in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology showed that imports for the last half of this year would have to increase 20 percent over the first half to reduce choice cattle prices a penny a pound. Choice steer prices were about 38 cents per pound in the first week of July.

The 20 percent increase would amount to only one pound of hamburger per person over the next six months.

The greatest effect of the imports will be on manufacturing beef—the kind used in hamburgers, hot dogs and other processed products, he said. Nations such as Australia and New Zealand export only the lower grades of beef to the United States because the U.S. usually produces enough choice and good grades to meet its own domestic demand.

Also affecting the amount of beef to be imported was the recent temporary suspension of import tariffs on beef by the European Common Market. This suspension, coupled with world demand, may limit the extra amount of beef the U.S. can import this year.

But prices on beef will probably drop anyway because of an expected increase in domestically fed beef later this year. Research from a study suggests that prices to cattlemen may drop as much as four cents a pound due to an expected 10 percent increase in cattle production. Reduced pork supplies or higher personal income could counteract part of the drop.

The increase in domestic supply would result in an additional five to six pounds of beef per person during the next six months.

Prices are currently higher than most earlier predictions had expected. Factors such as rising demand due to higher incomes, timing of marketings, and unexpected changes in supply due to weather or changes in technology affected market prices.

Their results are based on the response of the market to quarterly changes in imports and domestic production during the 1960's.

Spanish Heritage Strong in Texas

Nearly one in five (18 percent) residents of Texas is of Spanish heritage, according to a report from the 1970 Census by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

It shows that of the State's 11,195,416 total population, 2,059,671 were of Spanish language or had a Spanish surname. The population of Spanish language is composed of (1) persons who reported Spanish as their mother tongue, that is, the language spoken in the home during childhood, and (2) all members of a household related to the head or wife reporting Spanish as mother tongue.

The census report, released by the Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, shows that 1,723,531 (84 percent) of Texas' population of Spanish heritage lived in urban areas. Among the 23 urbanized areas, the El Paso area had the greatest number, 190,582 or 56 percent of the total population. However, Brownsville urbanized area with 45,115 persons of Spanish heritage and Laredo with 60,084 had the highest proportion, 86 percent in each.

Of the 336,140 rural population of Spanish heritage in Texas, 18 percent lived on farms.

Eighty-nine percent (1,840,214) of the State's Spanish heritage population was born in the United States; 563,877 were of foreign or mixed parentage (514,058 of these persons had one or both parents born in Mexico). Of the 219,457 foreign born persons of Spanish heritage 193,143 were born in Mexico.

The median age of the Spanish heritage population was 19.3 years, compared with 26.5 years for the population of Texas as a whole.

Persons of Spanish heritage 25 and older averaged 7.2 years of completed schooling, compared with 11.6 years for the total population 25 years and older. Among the 600,425 persons of Spanish heritage 16 and older who were employed in 1970, 8 percent held professional, technical, or similar jobs; 14 percent were clerical or kindred workers; 15 percent were in crafts; 16 percent were operatives (mostly machinery); and 14 percent were service workers other than private household.

Median income in 1969 of the 423,780 families of Spanish heritage amounted to $5,897, as compared to $8,490 for all families in the State.

Tabulations in the report show that 6 percent of the Spanish heritage families had incomes of $15,000 or more, while 17 percent of all Texas families are in this income bracket. At the opposite end of the scale, 21 percent of the Spanish heritage families and 13 percent of all families had incomes below $3,000.

Similar detailed statistics for persons of Spanish language and surname are available in the 1970 census reports for Arizona, California, Colorado, and New Mexico.

Copies of the report, "General Social and Economic Characteristics of Texas," PC(1)-C45, are available for $6.00 each from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or any Department of Commerce field office.

Coffee Saturday Morning Introduces Mrs. Lyman Daniel, a Newcomer

A coffee was given Saturday morning, July 22, to introduce Mrs. Lyman Daniel, who moved here from Lorenzo when her husband became the new city manager. The event was in the Heritage Room.

Nonfat Dry Milk Gives Nutrition

COLLEGE STATION -- Interested in saving money while serving nutritional foods?

"Then don't forget about nonfat dry milk," said Texas Agricultural Extension Service foods and nutrition specialist Karen Kreipke.

For those who count pennies, nonfat dry milk has an advantage. When reconstituted with water, it costs less per quart than fluid, whole milk.

"Using nonfat dry milk together with fluid, whole milk can help stretch the food dollar," the Texas A&M University employee said.

Nonfat dry milk is merely pasteurized fluid milk with the fat and water removed. The former still has most of the protein, minerals and vitamins that make milk such a nutritional bonus.

Calorie counters also know the advantage of nonfat dry milk. It contains only half the calories of fresh, whole milk, yet furnishes almost as much nutritive value, according to Miss Kreipke.

Miss Kreipke explained that nonfat dry milk is made by a process which results in larger particles or flakes. These dissolve in water easily.

MR. and MRS. G.T. STEPHENS

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Stephens of Quail Honored on Golden Wedding Day

A couple who have served their community all of their married life, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Stephens of Quail, were honored at a reception on their golden wedding, Sunday, July 23, in the Heritage Room.

Mrs. Stephens has been the Quail correspondent for The Wellington Leader about 25 years. With a keen sense of news, she has reported many important event from that area. Likewise, she is responsible for the happenings of the Quail community being read each week in many parts of the world.

Mr. Stephens, a former school trustee and county commissioner, was one of the three board members who in the mid-30's drove the sandy roads of Quail and King, Ring and Marella, Lillie and Salt Fork and other communities in the western part of the county to bring about consolidation of small schools into the big Quail School District.

The couple's six children, their husbands and wives, were reception hosts. They included Mr. and Mrs. James O. Miller of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Poteet of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Stephens of Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. James Stephens of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Phillips of Spearman, and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Martin of Lakeview.

Receiving guests with Mr. and Mrs. Stephens were the children.

The registry table, centered with a golden candle encircled with green foliage, was presided over by Miss Sherry Stephens of Cooper and Mrs. Mike Helm of Memphis, granddaughters.

Flowers in shades of gold, sent by a number of friends, decorated the Heritage Room.

The reception table was covered with a gold net cloth, decorated at the corners by golden bows. A large frosted-white 50th Anniversary candle centered the table. Sunburst arrangements of rose and white gladioli in baskets were on pedestals at each end of the table. Crystal appointments were used.

Mrs. Steve Miller of Port Arthur served the tiered wedding cake, and Mrs. Mike Poteet of Huntsville poured.

Others in the house party, all grandchildren, were Steve Miller of Port Arthur, Mike Helm of Memphis, Eddie Poteet of Huntsville, Mike Poteet of Lubbock, Trent Stephens of Cooper, Tony Phillips and Terry Phillips, of Spearman, Angela Martin and Debra Kay Martin of Lakeview. Friends called between two-thirty and five.

Mr. Stephens and the former Bertha Mary Guinn were married July 24, 1922, at the Church of Christ Parsonage in Memphis. He was farming then, and three years after their marriage, they bought the place west of Quail that was their home 37 years. Upon his retirement, they moved to their present home at Quail.

Mrs. Stephens parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Guinn, were among the first to settle at Quail, but they had moved to Childress when she was born. Mr. Guinn died while his children were small, and his wife brought their three youngsters to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.P.

Depauw. Mrs. Stephens was 7.

After she had completed all of the grades the Quail school taught, she attended what is now North Texas State University in Denton - then returned at the age of 17 to begin teaching at Quail. She remembers that the first day she had to stand close against the desk to keep her knees from shaking.

Quail had a girls basketball team, but only enough girls for the first team. If one fouled off or was sick, the youthful teacher, weighing just over a hundred pounds, stepped into her place.

After two years at Quail, Mrs. Stephens taught a year at King, and among the reception guests were some who went to school to her - almost 50 years ago. After consolidation, Mrs. Stephens served as a substitute teacher in the Quail School a number of years.

She was a Sunday School teacher 25 years "until our church ran out of children." Mrs. Stephens has a keen sense of the history of the Quail area, and the need to preserve it accurately. Through the years, by interviews and her own research, she has collected a large amount of factual information. Friends hope she will publish it.

For the last 18 years, Mrs. Stephens has been employed at Quail Mercantile, remaining in ever-close contact to the people she loves.

Mr. Stephens was born in Bell County the son of J.W. and Dorcas Stephens, and came with them to Collingsworth County more than 60 years ago.

After a short time at Plymouth, they moved to Marella where he completed his schooling.

Mr. Stephens served as county commissioner from Precinct 3 during two terms that covered

J. F. Isaacs Family Holds First Reunion in 10 Years Over Weekend

In their first reunion in ten years, the family of Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Isaacs was together Saturday and Sunday, July 22 and 23.

Some were here throughout World War II, 1942 to 1946. Other members of the court were Howard Riggs, judge; B.A. Vandivere, Precinct 1; Wayne Johnson, Precinct 2; and Cortez Barnett, Precinct 4.

Besides handling the heavy responsibilities brought on by the war, these men thought of progress that must come with peace, and four paved farm to market roads, the first in the county, were approved. The first two put down were FM 338 to Dodson and west to Rolla.

Members of the Quail School board with Mr. Stephens were John Hilgenfeld and Bob Graham. When work toward consolidation came in the mid-30's, Mr. Stephens says simply that it took a lot of driving to convince people that one large school could offer their children a better education than several on-to-three teacher schools. He did not say this, but in those depression years, gasoline money was a lot harder to come by than it is now.

For many years, Mr. Stephens has been a judge for all elections held at Quail - he has no idea how many.

He, also is a member of the Church of Christ, and for 25 years he belonged to the Quail Masonic Lodge, until it was moved out of the community.

This couple takes pride in serving their community. Likewise, they are proud of the accomplishments of their children. All six attended college. A son and daughter are in the teaching profession, another has taught, and the youngest is preparing to teach. Their oldest grandson, the only one old enough to have completed college, also teaches. The others who have graduated from high school will be in college this fall.

last week. Saturday brought others, but Sunday was the real reunion day. All of the 8 children, all but one of the grandchildren, and the one great grandchild attended.

Bryans' Vacation Takes Them Through 7 States

By Rolan and Veta Bryan

Our first stop was in Arkansas, where we visited two sisters and numerous other relatives and friends. As you know, we like to fish, and there were plenty of small lakes, as well as the Arkansas River to fish in. We fished mostly for bass and caught lots of them. The largest was 5 pounds.

We were dreading the hot weather in Arkansas, but the evening we had our big fish fry, everybody wanted a coat or sweater.

We cooked the fish outside in an old-fashioned wash kettle (two kettles full) and Roland caught most of the bass.

One of the funniest things that happened, my nephew was fishing with me and not having much luck, so I gave him the plug I was using. Sure enough, about the third cast, he caught a bass and got him almost in, when he broke his line. His eyes got as big as saucers and he said: "That fish would have weighed ten pounds!" I went over to see if he might be striking again, and in less than 5 minutes I caught a three pound bass with the plug in his mouth. I told him, "That fish sure did shrink fast, didn't he?" "That's the way fish tales get started," my nephew said.

Leaving Arkansas on Monday, we traveled to Jackson, Tenn., to spend the night. Next morning we went to Nashville, and before we even thought of stopping, we saw the Baptist Hospital where Mickey Ann Kendrick Campbell works.

We had lunch with here in the hospital cafeteria, she made our hotel reservations, and we planned to get together after she and Jimmy got off work. She had her own plans for us, so they picked us up to take us to their home for dinner—something we had not counted on. And we had a lovely and very delicious dinner, after that they took us for a drive over Nashville.

Next day we went to Opryland U.S.A. at Nashville—a beautiful place with good entertainment.

Our next night was at Cadiz, Kentucky, near two large lakes, one on the Tennessee River, the other on the Cumberland. The following day took us into Illinois as far as Salem, then to St. Louis, where we had the thrilling experience of going to the top of their 630 foot Arch by the Mississippi River. You really get a birds eye view, and a little faster heart-beat too. We barely made it back to the Memorial Stadium to see the St. Louis Cardinals defeat Atlanta.

We stopped by the Truman Library in Independence, Mo., a beautiful place, although it was too late for us to go inside. We saw a part of Kansas City that is old and unique. In Topeka, we visited the beautiful state capitol, although it doesn't begin to compare with the one in Nashville.

In Abilene, Kansas, we visited the Eisenhower Center, where former President Eisenhower is Buried, and where the museum is located. Leaving there, we enjoyed just driving and looking at the beautiful crops growing along the highways. We saw lots of good farming on all our trip, but not a lot of cattle until we got over the line into Kansas, except in Western Arkansas.

Dodge City has an interesting museum relating to the Western frontier, but because it was late, we saw only part of it. Our last night out was at Perryton. Our trip was interesting, but it was good to be back in Wellington.

Salt Fork SCD in Environmental Work

Many plant and animal species in the United States are so reduced in numbers or their native habitats have been altered to the extent that they have become rare and in danger of extinction.

Tommy Powell, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service has a key role in this work.

Powell stated that the first step in this project is to identify and list all plants and animals that have declined in numbers to the point that they are becoming rare in their natural habitat. "It may be surprising to know that there are a least fifteen plants that are native to the Salt Fork Soil and Water Conservation District which are already on the statewide list of rare plants," he said, and this list is continually being revised and expanded.

The next step in this program is to establish a monitoring system that will give advance warning of situations that would further endanger these species.

"We still have some native species such as the pronghorn antelope and lesser prairie chicken simply because some people recognized their plight many years ago," Powell said. "There are many other less prominent species, including plants, that are now in this same danger. That is why we of the Soil Conservation Service feel that this entire project is a worthwhile endeavor."

Pets Can Get Screwworms, Too

The major influx of screwworms into Southern Texas recently is causing a terrific problem for livestock producers, but many pet owners have recently found that their pets can get this infection, too. The female adult screwworm fly lays eggs on or near a raw spot or wound. The eggs hatch to form a larvae that looks much like a housefly maggot. The problem arises when the screwworm larvae burrow into the raw area and begin eating the live tissue. If this infection is not stopped, the damage continues to enormous proportions, leaving at least a large hole where the larvae eat and perhaps resulting in death.

Any wound or raw area should be treated immediately. If you find a small hole in your pet's skin, this must be treated. Remove all screwworm larvae if possible and call your veterinarian immediately. Depending on the severity of damage, it may be possible to clean up and suture the lesion.

Special care and observation of your pets will be necessary as long as the screwworm problem exists.

The courses offered in this program will lead to an Associate of Science Degree. Nursing laboratories are conducted at the local hospitals in the surrounding towns and basic experience is provided in all clinical areas. Upon completion of this program, students are prepared to take the examination given by the Board of Nurse Examiners for the State of Texas. Highway Dept. Has Film on Sign Language

AUSTIN - That new sign language on Texas streets and highways is the subject of a Texas Highway Department "course" interpretation.

Entitled "New Life Signs," the program is a 16-minute slide presentation designed for use by service organizations, schools, and other groups. It interprets the new symbol signs going up along Texas highways.

The presentation is available with audio tape of narration and music from any of the Highway Department's 25 district offices. These offices also will supply additional information that might be used for a special program on highway development.

The Highway Department has initiated the new series of symbol signs to replace many of the present word message signs

Family Income Averages $5,466 in Collingsworth

Average family income was $5,466 in Collingsworth County, Texas in 1969, compared with $8,490 for the State, according to a report on the 1970 census by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce. Per capita income for the county amounted to $2,153, the report shows. The 1970 census counted 4,755 residents in the county; 0.4 percent were foreign born and 2.8 percent native born with one or both parents of foreign birth.

Among the county's 4,436 inhabitants age 5 and over in 1970, 533 were living in a different county with the State in 1965, and 211 in a different State.

In the population age 16 and over, 73.7 percent of the men and 31.4 percent of the women were in the labor force. Among the employed, 32.4 percent were holding white collar jobs, and 12.3 percent were government workers.

About 31.1 percent of the married women with husband present were in labor force, and 33.7 percent of these wives had children under six.

There were 955 persons 3 to 24 years old enrolled in school. In the 25-and-older population, 36.9 percent of the men and 38.1 percent of the women were high school graduates.

Copies of the report, "General Social and Economic Characteristics, Texas," PC(1)-45c, are available for $6.00 each from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from U.S. Department of Commerce field offices located in major cities.

PARTIAL MAP OF COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY
U. S. HIGHWAY 83

From South City Limit of Wellington To F. M. 1439

NOTICE AFFORDING OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC HEARING CORRIDOR (LOCATION) AND DESIGN (COMBINED HEARING)

The Texas Highway Department is planning the improvement of U.S. Highway 83 from the south City Limit of Wellington to F.M. Road 1439. The proposed highway project will pass through the City of Wellington.

From the south city limit to 7th Street in Wellington, the proposed construction consists of overlaying the existing municipal section with Hot Mix Asphalt concrete Pavement on existing right of way. From 7th Street in Wellington to a point 0.2 mile north of Wellington, the proposed construction consists of reconstructing the present pavement with a curb and gutter municipal section, 85 feet back to back of curb, on the existing right of way. From 0.2 mile north of Wellington, north 2.7 miles, the proposed construction consists of widening, reconditioning, and resurfacing the existing road to provide two 13-foot travel lanes and 9-foot paved shoulders on 150 feet minimum right of way. From 2.9 miles north of Wellington, the proposed construction will transition from the two-lane widened facility to a 4-lane divided highway which will consist of two (2) additional 12-foot lanes with paved shoulders adjacent to the existing lanes on 250 feet right of way. There will be a relocation or displaced persons on the project.

Maps and other drawings showing the proposed location and geometric design, environmental studies and any other information about the proposed project are on file and available for inspection and copying at the Resident Engineer's Office at Wellington, Texas. Also, the drawings showing the proposed geometric design have been placed on file in the office of the County Judge of Collingsworth County and Mayor of the City of Wellington.

Information about the State's Relocation Assistance Program for the benefits and services for displacees and the relocation assistance office, as well as information about the tentative schedules for acquisition of right of way and construction can be obtained at the Texas Highway Department District Office, P.O. Box 909, Childress, Texas, 79201.

Any interested citizen may request that a public hearing be held covering the social, economic and environmental effects of the proposed location and design for this highway project by delivering a written request to the Resident Engineer's Office on or before August 11th, 1972.

In the event such a request is received, a public hearing will be scheduled and adequate notice will be published about the date and location of the hearing.

Phased Plan Will Keep Our Hospital Facility Up to Date

In this issue of The Wellington Leader, the Board of Directors and Administrator of Collingsworth General Hospital has announced its 5-year phased improvement program, to be paid out of current income, with no increase in the taxes called for.

These, in short, are improvements the hospital must make in order to meet the continually rising standards set for all hospitals by the Texas State Department of Health, Medicare and the Joint Commission on Accreditation.

We still speak of the "new" part of the hospital. That new part is over 20 years old, and in that period there have been greater updating of hospital facilities than in any prior period. Many hospitals newer than ours are having to make more improvements at greater cost.

No matter which way you look at the hospital, the $100,000 purchase price paid the Dominican Sisters remains the biggest bargain: the people of Collingsworth County have encountered in many a year. Builders estimate it would cost at least a million dollars to replace it.

Area Needs State Parks

A new recreation and tourist attraction in North Texas will begin taking shape shortly, with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission having approved funds for development of a 58-acre lake, spillway, swimming beach, boat ramp and other facilities at the new Copper Breake State Park between Quanah and Crowell.

Overall, $1,066,539 has been funded for the park, and contractors are expected to be at work by late August.

There is no doubt that additional recreational outlets need to be developed in North Texas, and the state parks system is the logical route. This section of Texas has been neglected too long by officials at Austin. Until the fairly recent acquisition of the Lake Arrowhead and Copper Breaks sites, there were no state parks in the northern tier of counties from Denison westward to the Panhandle. That is too large of an area to be overlooked.

While it is heartening to note that the Parks and Wildlife Commission has plans for developments in this area, there appears to be some foot-dragging on the Lake Arrowhead project. There have been reports that developments would soon be forthcoming at Lake Arrowhead, but so far the state park there has undergone little improvement and offers little to justify the admission charge. Hopefully the commission will give this project the same priority that has been accorded the Copper Breaks park development. And we'd hope that later the state will develop other parks in this North and Northwest Texas area.

AUSTIN, Tex. -- Property tax reform may be one of the big issues before the 1973 session of the Texas Legislature.

This is the prediction of Texas Research League in a newsletter analyzing the subject.

The property tax, notes TRL, is the largest source of revenue for support of the government in Texas. Collections exceeded $1.4 billion in 1970 and rose $220 million between 1968 and 1970.

Recent federal and state court decision holding public school finance systems based on locally imposed property taxes unconstitutional focused new attention on such taxation. The decisions stimulated interest of House and Senate committees on extensive reforms.

Criticism of the revenue source and proposals for reform may center on these factors as pointed up in the TRL study:

* Administration is inequitable. Different standards apply to different types of property.

* There are too few professionally-trained assessors, and many tax offices lack even the most fundamental tools such as tax maps and appraisal cards on each parcel of property. Furthermore, there are far too many tax offices and districts. (Given an "impossible tax law" to administer, local officials do remarkably well, according to a Tax Policy Committee study.)

* Personal property -- tangible and intangible -- is particularly difficult to assess. Some states have given up attempting to tax all property, and recognize this fact in basic laws.

* Taxpayers are at a marked disadvantage in redressing grievances over illegal or inequitable assessment in the courts.

"ABOLISH BOARD" -- Former State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver says the best way to promote insurance regulation reform in Texas is by the drastic remedy of abolishing the Board.

Teaver was rejected for Board membership by the state Senate, and apparently has returned to Gov. Preston Smith's staff.

He told an interview panel that insurance industry influence cannot be removed from regulation without getting rid of the Board which he charged is industry-dominated.

The former chairman suggested the present three-member Board should be made a nine-member, parttime citizen board or that an elected insurance commissioner be chosen to head the regulatory agency.

DEATH PENALTY REVIEW SOUGHT -- Texas and Georgia will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review its decision declaring the death penalty, as it is most often applied, unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has received a request from the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles for an official interpretation of the June 29 Supreme Court decision. The Board also wanted to know if the death penalty actually

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

More and more it is getting to where it's not safe for employers to hire anybody who doesn't meet federal specifications as to sex, color, religion, etc.

The hiring class is subject to trouble if work forces are not a mix of various categories of people to match their numbers in proportion to the whole population, or else predominantly minorities or loudmouths and marchers.

And, presumably, if a man is, say, a 40-year-old white Protestant, he can't legally work for himself if the self-employed class is full up on people of that feature mix.

CITRUS BLACKFLY THREATENS -- Agriculture Commissioner John C. White warned that the citrus industry in the Rio Grande Valley may be wiped out unless the citrus blackfly is brought under control.

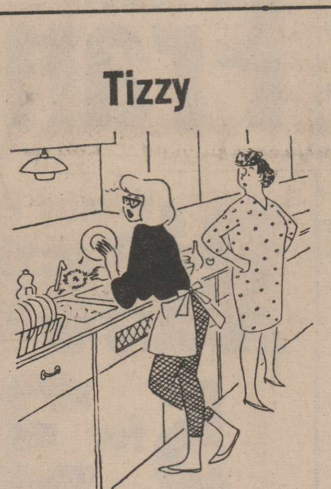

White said the fight against the insect has been going on for more than a year, and that eradication measures are a nuisance to Brownsville. There have been only two outbreaks of the pest in the U.S., once in Texas in 1956 and once in Florida.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—by Deskins Wells

THIS IS a salute to the Electric Power Companies of the Southwestern part of the United States, in the midst of a hot dry summer they have plenty of power to supply the needs of their customers. Over a wide area in this part of the nation there has been no hint that people should cut down on their use of electric power.

IN THE smog-ridden eastern part of the United States the opposite is true. They have cut off the power in some sections of the New York area. People are sweltering and dying in the oppressive heat while their air conditioners are idle and their food spoils in the refrigerators. Dry heat is hard to bear at high temperatures. Add humidity and smog to heat and you have a condition that kills people and makes invalids of others. These conditions and this shortage also exists in California.

THE NEXT time you think of your utility bills being too high, think of having to pay no electric, gas or water bill at all.

THE OTHER day a trim, athletic looking type of man came into the office and asked: "Do you remember when you saved my life?" I could not recall such an event and asked his name. He was Glenn Markham, the son of Chris Markham who worked for us on the farm east of town for many years. He operates his own garage in Dennison, Texas and is his chief mechanic which may account for his trim appearance.

HE ASKED if I remembered pulling him out of a telephone hole and I remembered the incident quite clearly. He was six years old at the time and I was fourteen or fifteen. The telephone company was building the first real telephone line on the dirt road east of town that is now Highway 83. Before that the wires had been strung on fence posts. At the railroad they were installing two giant poles to carry the wires across the tracks with anchor wires tied to huge buried rocks on each side of both poles. We called the rocks deadmen in those days. I believe it may have been one of these holes into which Glenn fell although he thinks it was a hole for a pole. Anyway, it was two feet wide and over six feet deep.

HE WAS playing around the hole and fell in and his short arms would not reach to the top of the hole. I was mowing alfalfa hay in the triangular patch between what is now the compress and the railroad. At noon I unhooked the mules and was on my way to the barn when I heard the cries and shouts. First I looked in some tall weeds and after listening more closely located the boy in one of the holes. It took some tugging to get him out but we made it.

NATURALLY he remembered for the hot summer sun was beating down on his bare head in his prison in the ground. I must not have mentioned it at the dinner table; for I never heard my mother or any of my sisters mention it in later years. Of course, I was not in that hot hole and Markham was.

THERE IS no way of estimating the courage and the adventurous spirit of youth. Here is a card from Lewis Watkins or rather his beautiful wife Sharon. They have arrived in Anchorage, Alaska in an old wreck of a car loaded with all of their worldly goods and one spare tire.

THEY ATE dinner with us the evening before they started out on their long trip north. I was horrified when I learned they were starting with "one used" spare tire and protested that most people carried four new tires as spares when they left the Canadian border and that "new" spare tires were imperative. Starting with one spare is not all-neither of them

Wellington Men To Firemen's School at A&M

Police Chief Jim King and Howard Breece, paid fireman on duty for the Wellington Fire Department, attended the annual Firemen's and Fire Marshal's School at Texas A&M University, College Station, Sunday, July 16 through Friday, July 21.

Chief King, who also is the city fire marshal, attended the Fire Prevention I course, designed as the beginning course for fire marshals.

This covered laws, regulations, enforcement and investigation work. Mr. Breece was enrolled in the Fire Fighting I course, for instruction in elementary fire fighting.

This is the first time either of these men has attended.

The courses for both firemen and fire marshals in four stages, covered in the four annual summer schools. Attendance gives a city credit on its key fire insurance rate, thereby affecting all persons within the city who carry fire insurance.

She and Mr. Breedlove were on an outing with a group of friends.

She was returned to Hall County Hospital Monday evening and will probably be released during the week end.

had a job in Alaska when they left Texas. Oh well, if you can make it on one used spare, you can make it without a job.

VA Pushes On The Job Training For Veterans

Veterans Administration experts, continuing an intensive effort to produce on-job training opportunities for veterans, established 4,607 new training programs capable of handling 9,185 trainees during May, Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director, said today.

This brings to about 40,000 the number of programs established since the drive began nearly a year ago. The programs can accommodate about 75,000 veterans.

The training is conducted under the GI Bill in business, industry, public agencies and other organizations where trained personnel are needed and where facilities for training are available.

The programs have been developed as a result of VA specialists canvassing employers and suggesting GI Bill training as a way to meet their needs for skilled personnel and to put veterans on the payroll.

Job-training under the GI Bill must lead to specific goals. It must be full time by the veteran and designed to assure him a job as a trained worker at the end of the training period. This is usually limited to two years except for some apprenticeship programs.

Trainees are paid by VA and the employer. The employer's contribution increases and VA's decreases as the trainee progresses. At the end of training the veteran must be paid full wages by his employer for the job he has trained for.

Starting pay for a single veteran is $108 a month from VA plus the employer's contribution which must be at least half the wage of the job the man is training for. Married veterans get a larger check from VA, based on the number of their dependents.

#3—continued from page 1 ditional, but would include a number of Eastern Panhandle Schools. Among those invited to participate are Shamrock, McLean, Clarendon, Memphis, Quail and Samnorwood, along with several others.

The proposed special education program would be set up through the Panhandle Regional Service Center of the Texas panhandle in Amarillo to serve all students who are educationally handicapped. It would include the present special education program of the Wellington Schools, plus other programs not now offered locally.

Such a special education program will become mandatory in Texas Schools in 1976, but the Eastern Panhandle Cooperative program would enable the participating school to offer the full special education at an earlier date.

Considerable time will be required to study the program, determine the cost, assess the need, and determine the facilities needed.

#2—continued from page 1 started in 1972 but the completion of some will go into 1973.)

Certain changes are to be made in the operating room and delivery room, as well as the remainder of the second floor. This is scheduled for the 1974-75 year.

Emergency room changes will be scheduled for 1975-76.

It is to be emphasized that all of these are necessary because of the updating of requirements made by the Texas State Department of Health, Medicare, and the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. They do not reflect on the hospital, for the new regulations apply to all hospitals, and those built during the period dating back even to the time the new addition was built must go through this updating.

#5—continued from page 1 discussions between Paul Spillman, legal advisor to the city, and Lone Star officials are upcoming.

Present for the meeting were Mayor Coleman and the council members, R.L. Mabery, Bob McAlister, Glen Warrick, Ralph Owens, and Loyd Vines; Mr. Daniel; Mr. Spillman; Russell Yates, water superintendent; Jake Leach, street superintendents and Mr. Gattis.

WHAT'S A LITTLE KISS between pals? An amorous camel apparently is all for it, but Kay Wolfin of Bloomsdale, Mo., on Brownie visiting day at the St. Louis Zoo, has some reservations.

Guest Speaker At 1st Christian

A guest preacher at First Christian Church Sunday, July 23, was Mark Layman, who teaches in Oklahoma Christian College, Oklahoma City.

He was accompanied by two students, both studying to enter the mission field. They were Elsa Martinez Munoz and Martha Martinez Munoz, sisters from Mexico City.

The visitors were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Parsons and visited in the afternoon in the home of Judge and Mrs. Zok Thomas.

#4—continued from page 1 much improved, he added.

Home for the family in Zambia was Mufulira, a city of 93,000, and meaning "place of much rain" in the native language. Despite its size, it had a shopping center smaller than Wellington, said the pastor.

From there, the Rev. and Mrs. Savage established 12 new churches.

"Six of these were 500 miles away from our home and six were in the town where we lived," explained Rev. Savage. "We served with no trained African help. We had to train the African pastors and their wives. We had to write all the literature we taught, and it was translated into 5 different Zambian languages."

"There were approximately 2,000 members in these churches, and when we left, the churches were in the hands of the Zambian people we have trained, and from correspondence with them since that time, many young men have come and offered themselves as full time servants of the churches."

Oldest of the three Savage children if Michael, 18, who will be a senior in Wellington High School -- and who will be attending his fourth school in four years.

The first year at Mufulira, he was the only white boy among 900 Africans. He spent his second year at Atlasant and year at Atlas and the third at a boarding school in Lusaka, capital city of Zambia, where he was president of the student body and center on the basketball team. Football is his real interest however, and he is an electrician by hobby.

Marla, 16, will be a junior in Wellington High School. Her first year in high school was at Mufulira, where she was one of the 6 whites among the 1400 students. Her second year was at Atlas and the third year at boarding school in Lusaka (Zambia has 5 years of high school).

The youngest, Michele, 14, will be a freshman.

Atlas is the home town of Rev. and Mrs. Savage. He attended Oklahoma Baptist University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary Ft. Worth. He held pastorates several years before entering missionary service.

Writing is the hobby of this couple, and they have written and published several books in Zambia and they wrote for a correspondence school.

Zambia, Rev. Savage explained, has been completely African ruled since 1964, when the British left the country. White technicians remain at the copper mines, principal industry of the Mufulira area, but the ratio is one European to every 345 Africans.

As there have been a number of artists from these two communities all who paint are invited to bring pictures for exhibit. There will be another exhibit of old photographs, momentos of many special occasions in the Arlie and Loco sections, and newspaper clippings and other pioneer items.

In the few days remaining before the reunion, Mrs. Harbin urged that those still living in the area, as well as others familiar with the plans, contact and invite any others who may have once lived in either the Arlie or Loco communities, no matter for how long or short a period they may have called that home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Birch of Sacramento, Calif., are visiting with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Mabery and Robi.
