58 Killed As Airliner Crashes In Ohio Storm

Within Sight Of Runway

By HAROLD B. HARRISON

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A jet airliner within landing sight of the runway crashed and exploded during a lightning-laced thunderstorm Monday night, killing 58 of the 62 persons aboard.

Five persons were thrown clear of the exploding wreckage. One died in a hospital. Four lived, but one was in very critical condition.

The American Airlines three-engine Boeing 727 jet smacked near the top of a 300-foot wooded hillside a mile and a half from the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

"About 75 feet more and he would have made it," said William Wilkerson, operations director at the airport in Kentucky 13 miles from downtown Cincinnati.

The wreckage flashed flames into the murky night sky for hours. Workers, certain no one lived in the melted metal, waited for fires to subside before beginning the gruesome search for bodies early today.

Ten Civil Aeronautics Board investigators flew to Cincinnati to begin probing the wreckage to learn why the plane had plunged fatally just moments from a safe landing after a flight from New York City.

The plane was barely visible in a downpour, with sparks of lightning, said Mrs. Ralph Sprague, who lives nearby.

"We know where the end of that runway is just over the top of the hill," she said, "and the plane banked like it was heading for it, but it was very low and dropping fast.

"I knew it was going into that hill, and I started screaming before it hit."

It crashed "like a clap of thunder," said Mrs. Gilbert Dolwick. "In a minute we could hear people calling for help."

J. P. Dolwick, who owns the farm where the plane crashed, raced to the wreckage to find a man and woman, both wearing airline uniforms, on the ground.

"We just didn't make it. We didn't see the hill," Dolwick said the man had mumbled before passing out.

One of the survivors was Elmer Weekley of Saratoga, Calif., an American flight officer riding the plane but not as a member of the crew.

Another was Toni Ketchell 25, a stewardess from West Monroe, La., who was in critical condition.

Other survivors were Israel Horowitz, 49, Closter, N.J., director of classical records for Décca Record Co., and Norman Spector, Valley Stream, N.Y., an electrical engineer with Bechtel Associates.

All but Miss Ketchell seemed in fair condition.

"It is a miracle, isn't it," said Mrs. Horowitz in New Jersey.

Aboard the plane, but not among the survivors, were two men from television station WPIX in New York. They were Jack F. A. Flynn, 44, son of F. M. Flynn, president and publisher of the New York Daily News, which owns the station, and John Kirchstein, 29. Flynn was the station's national sales manager, Kirchstein its research director.

Also on board were Mr. and Mrs. Rex C. Larkin of Lexington, Ky., stable owners noted in harness racing, and Dr. Carl Michalson, a theology professor from Drew University in Madison, N.J., who was to address a national Methodist meeting here.

Ike Is Hospitalized; Mild Attack Blamed

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 75, was hospitalized today with a possible mild heart attack and placed in an oxygen tent after suffering chest pains.

Dr. Thomas Mattingly, a heart specialist who treated the five-star general for a heart attack in 1955, said it would take up to 36 hours before it would be known whether Eisenhower had suffered another bout with his heart.

Mattingly said if the illness was a heart attack, "By all symptoms and characteristics, it certainly was a mild one."

The former president was placed in an oxygen tent for several hours after he entered the Ft. Gordon Army Hospital during the night. At midday Mattingly said he still was under oxygen periodically.

This, the physician said, is "a matter of precaution used with any patient with chest pains."

He described Eisenhower's condition as "very satisfactory at this time" and said the general remained in bed "at our recommendation, not because he doesn't feel like getting up.

"We think this is simple, good, common sense."

After sleeping several hours, Eisenhower awoke and chatted with his wife, who was with him along with their son.

Mattingly, summoned to Eisenhower's bedside early today, spent hours in consultation with other physicians.

As he started to fly from Washington before dawn, the physician had said he didn't know the nature of Eisenhower's illness.

Mattingly said chest pains don't necessarily indicate a heart attack, but added: "Obviously that's the first thing you think of when a man has suffered an attack in the past, but it doesn't have to be."

At 10:30 a.m. an Army public relations officer posted a notice to newsmen on a bulletin board here, giving a dialogue between Eisenhower and his wife after he awoke:

Mrs. Eisenhower: "Now, general, don't you worry. I'm going to stay right here with you at your bedside or in the next room."

Eisenhower: "Well, what will you do if they take me home?"

Mrs. Eisenhower: "Well, I'll follow you."

The conversation came after the former president had several hours sleep.

Eisenhower's son, John, was near by. He had flown in from Pennsylvania after receiving word of his father's illness.

Eisenhower, the nation's 34th president, complained of chest pains about midnight and a heart specialist, Dr. Louis Battey of Augusta, was summoned to the Eisenhower vacation residence at the Augusta National Golf Club. Hospitalization followed.

Paratroopers In Heavy Fighting

By PETER ARNETT

SAGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. paratroopers fighting in the thick jungle of the II Zone north of Saigon killed 391 Communist troops, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

The spokesman said American casualties in the day-long battle Monday were moderate, but reliable sources said the 173rd Airborne Brigade had suffered its heaviest casualties since it came to Viet Nam.

The bulk of the Communist losses were attributed to air attacks, heavy artillery and automatic weapons fire.

The battle occurred about 30 miles northeast of Saigon when a U.S. company encountered an estimated battalion — about 300 men — of the enemy. Within an hour a battalion of paratroopers was fighting.

The spokesman said that in one area an artillery barrage killed 60 Viet Cong. The Communists stripped all the bodies, apparently to prevent identification.

Unofficial sources said fighting continued during the night. U.S. Air Force B52s from Guam raided a densely jungled area of D Zone 10 miles to the west, but a spokesman said the raid was not directly related to the paratrooper operation.

Ground action was reported light in other areas. A Viet Cong company attacked a government outpost in the Mekong Delta Monday night but was reported beaten off. The Communists left some bodies behind.

U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 36 missions over North Viet Nam, attacking roads, bridges, railroad yards and truck parks.

South Vietnamese government troops reported they killed 25 Viet Cong in an action 80 miles south of Saigon Monday.

Communist groundfire brought down a U.S. Army helicopter south of Saigon Monday, and one crewman was killed.

New Plans For Coliseum Get Approval

Scurry County Commissioners gave architects the go ahead signal Monday on revised plans for the proposed county coliseum.

Preliminary revised plans were studied and the architects were instructed to proceed on working plans with hopes that bids can be sought after the first of the year.

The lowest bid on the original plans, opened Sept. 2, amounted to some $300,000 more than the available funds for the project.

The general appearance and type of facilities will be changed very little in the revised plans. However, some of the facilities have been modified. Mostly the result is a slightly smaller structure than originally planned.

The revised plans provide slightly over 3,500 permanent seats, compared to approximately 4,200 in the original plans.

The revision was aimed chiefly at reducing the amount of steel required for the construction, since contractors indicated that steel costs represented the major factor in putting the first bids above the available money.

UF Report Session Set

A general report meeting for all divisions of the Scurry County United Fund Campaign has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday at the city hall.

George Patterson, general campaign chairman, said workers in all divisions are being urged to bring in all contact cards that have been worked so that an accurate analysis of the campaign's progress may be made.

The drive had edged past the 60 per cent mark by the past weekend, and a few reports have been trickling in this week. Efforts are being made to speed up the contact work and bring the drive to its conclusion.

AREA ENVELOPED BY DAMP CHILL

A damp chill returned to the Snyder area Monday night following a brief period of late afternoon sunshine.

Fog thickened over the area for a time during the night and early morning hours, but no appreciable moisture had been recorded since mid-day Monday. The official gauge at the city water plant measured .27 of an inch of rain from Monday's light showers. A total of .08 of an inch had been logged Sunday night, making a total of .35 for the two-day period.

City Plans Fence At Sewage Plant

The Snyder City Council last night approved plans for construction of a fence at the sewage disposal plant and then accepted the lower of two bids received on the project.

The fence had been recommended as a safety measure by George Lee, the city's general superintendent. The bid of Snyder Fence Co., which totaled $2,081 was accepted. Clark Lumber Co. had submitted a bid of $3,434.31 on the project. Specifications call for 1,137 feet of cyclone fence.

The council also approved routine budget transfers to close out the city's books for the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30.

Passed on first reading was Ordinance No. 330, a measure closing and abandoning a strip of right-of-way on Thirtieth Street from Austin Avenue to El Paso Avenue.

The city manager was authorized to advertise for bids on 3,200 feet of asbestos cement water pipe. The city plans to purchase 1,200 feet of six-inch diameter pipe and 2,000 feet of four-inch diameter.

A request by First Baptist Church for a second street entrance to its parking lot on Twenty-sixth Street was approved. The church plans to pave the parking lot and it will be available for public off-street parking on week days.

Action was delayed on a replat of the George W. Brown original homesite tract out of the Colonial Hill Addition. The plat had been submitted by Dillard Teal, who is developing the property, and the council indicated that it would take action on the proposal at a special meeting Friday morning. Members of the council and other city officials are going to Littlefield on Friday to make a tour of municipal improvements which have been made there recently and the local council plans to hold a brief session prior to departure from the city hall.

A request for designation of a loading zone on Twenty-fifth Street in front of the King and Brown Store was denied after considerable discussion. During the discussion, members of the council indicated that they were extremely reluctant to eliminate any on-street parking spaces in the business district unless the action would lead to direct development of additional off-street parking.

Mayor M. L. Broman called attention to the fact that parking meters had been inactivated a year ago, and that generally the results had been highly satisfactory. However, he cautioned that, apparently, some abuses of the spirit of the action had gradually developed in a few areas. He called on local businessmen and their employes to refrain from parking their personal cars all day on downtown business streets.

In other action, the council reappointed Dr. Wilton N. Jones as city health officer and took under advisement a petition requesting a new name for East Drive, which paradoxically is in the west edge of the city. A group of residents there asked that the street be re-named "KSNY Road," since the street leads from U. S. 180 to the radio station. The council indicated that it was receptive to the change, but asked the city manager to confer with the county on the possibility of officially naming the street in Towle Memorial Park which is usually referred to as "Towle Park Road," but actually has no official designation as a street. The council hopes to make both designations simultaneously.

Mrs. H. P. Redwine and her Girl Scout Troop were visitors at the council meeting.

Fourth In Family Dies After Crash

FAIRFIELD, Tex. (AP) — Kelly Deweese, 4, died today, the fourth member of her family killed in a headon collision near here Sunday.

Her mother, Mrs. Johnny Deweese, 28, of Arlington and two brothers, Barry, 6, and Jeff, 2, were killed outright.

Ricochet Felt In Aluminum Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The aluminum controversy is generating new steam on four fronts.

The dispute swirls around the industry's announced price increases and the government's decision to reduce its aluminum stockpile by 200,000 surplus tons. Much of it would be transferred to government contractors.

As charges and countercharges ricocheted through the capital, these were the developments:

Government — While President Johnson maintained an official silence, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler warned of disturbing signals in the nation's price picture.

Industry — The president of Reynolds Metals Co., J. H. McConnell, declared the price increases are noninflationary. Tightrope Robert S. McNamara, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Robert P. Gerholm, Saturday, saying repeatedly that the administration's action was an unwarranted attack on the free market economy."

Republicans — Tom R. Van Sickle, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, accused Johnson of "blatantly blackmailing" the aluminum companies in an effort to control prices. Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah said the Johnson administration's "overaction" was an unjustified, angry gesture.

Democrats — Many senators and House members spoke up in favor of the administration's action. Sen. Stuart Symington, chairman of the Senate stockpile subcommittee, flew back to the capital from his Missouri home to support the administration's strategy. He declared the government's action could not be considered antibusiness.

Orbiting N-Arms Rejected As Clumsy And Inaccurate

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities considered — and rejected — the idea of building orbiting nuclear missiles, sources said today.

They rate it a clumsy, inaccurate method of waging atomic war — far less effective than land-based and submarine-launched weapons.

The experts calculate that a warhead launched from orbit wouldn't come within perhaps 50 miles of its target on earth.

Compared to this, they said, U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine-launched Polaris missiles have an accuracy within one mile of target.

Yet the force, the U.S. experts regard as orbiting nuclear missile as more a psychological weapon than one with real military value.

These views, which have been prevalent in the Pentagon for quite some time, were underscored by U.S. authorities after the Soviets paraded in Moscow a 115-foot missile which they claimed can orbit the earth with a nuclear warhead.

American sources said the technique of putting an atomic weapon in orbit is no more difficult than orbiting any space vehicle — and this technique was long ago mastered by the United States.

Such a weapon would be fired by radio command from the earth's surface — another technique that is well within the state of the art.

The problem of intercepting a missile fired on a trajectory from several thousand miles away is much more difficult than intercepting a vehicle in orbit.

As Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said some years ago, "Earth-based missiles poised on the other side of the globe are only 30 minutes away from the United States.

"It would be quite a trick to place satellite-borne missiles in orbit in such a way as ever to equal, much less surpass, the accuracy and speed of response of the earth-launched missiles.

"Furthermore, such satellite borne missiles, even if they could be delivered with accuracy, could not, with the forces we have programmed, present to us, or to our allies, a credible deterrent against the attacker.

Columnist Kilgallen Dies At 52

NEW YORK (AP) — Dorothy Kilgallen, dead at 52, started her rise to fame as a columnist and television personality by getting the globe in a breath-taking 24 days.

The year was 1936, and by Death came to Miss Kilgallen Monday as she slept after appearing as a regular panelist on the Sunday night "What's My Line?" television show and writing her "Voice of Broadway" syndicated column.

An autopsy Monday night failed to reveal the cause of death. Dr. James Luke, examiner, said further tests will be made.

Even in death Miss Kilgallen was seen and read. Her column was published in the New York Journal-American and she was seen in a videotaped appearance on "To Tell the Truth."

As a newspaperwoman and as a television panelist, she was widely known for her presistent and sometimes tart questioning.

She was an effective contrast to the easy-going manner of Arlene Francis, the other woman on the four-member TV panel.

"She was just full of beans last night," said the program's moderator, John Daly. "She was in great spirits."

Miss Kilgallen was born in Chicago into a newspaper family. Her father, James L. Kilgallen, was with the now defunct International News Service for many years and is now with the Hearst Headline Service.

Her father was transferred to New York and she grew up in Brooklyn. As a summer cub reporter in 1931 she got her first by-line and never returned to college.

Her race around the world in 1936 catapulted her into fame.

After a brief time in Hollywood as a reporter—and one-time actress in "Winner Take All"—she returned to New York to start a Broadway column, a hitherto masculine field.

Occasionally she departed Broadway to cover some of the most important stories of her day.

She and her husband, Broadway producer Dick Kollmar, 54, lived in a five-story Manhattan town house. They had three children, Richard Kollmar Jr., Mrs. Larry Grossman and Kerry Kollmar.

Bomb Threat Hoax

City Police searched the Odd Fellows Hall at Twenty-seventh and Avenue Z Monday night after Mrs. Joe Vincent told them a man had called and warned there was a bomb in the building. Police investigated and said the call turned out to be a hoax.

Soviet Plea Does Little For China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Delegates speculated today that the Soviet Union's token gesture in support of Red China in the United Nations may have done Peking's chances more harm than good.

In a 12-minute speech at the end of Monday's opening round of the China debate, Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko made a token appeal for admitting the Red Chinese. He accused the United States of trying by "hook or by crook" to bar Peking from the world forum.

U.S. sources said Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg noted that it was one of the briefest speeches Russia had delivered on the subject it espre championed and that it apparently was delivered just for the record.

Since the ideological dispute erupted between Moscow and Peking, Soviet support for Red China has become noticeably cooler each year in the perennial debate.

This year's debate got under way—with a warning from the United States that to give Peking the Chinese seat would be "talking to undisguised blackmail."

To take such a step, said Goldberg, would only encourage Peking on its "present path of violence."

The U.S. delegate said Peking's presence at the U.N. "far from strengthening, would seriously weaken this organization."

The Assembly has barred the Chinese Communists each year since 1950.

Speaking for Peking in the opening round were Albania, considered Red China's mouthpiece in the United Nations, and Cambodia, a staunch supporter of Mao Tse-tung's regime.

President Clears Desk Of Leftovers

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson has cleared his desk of all 1965 legislation, including one bill that could lead to insurance for millions who now cannot buy protection against floods or hurricane-driven waters.

Johnson, the Texas White House announced Monday night, signed all pending legislation well in advance of a midnight deadline — and without allowing any measure to die by pocket veto.

After a bill reaches the President, he has 10 days in which to sign or veto it or, after Congress has adjourned, to let it die by inaction. Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson now has acted on all measures Congress passed before adjournment.

One of the final bills to get Johnson's signature provides special federal aid for many victims of Hurricane Betsy in Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida. If they qualify for disaster loans from the Small Business Administration or Agriculture Department, up to $1,800 of principal repayments and interest will be written off the books.

The special aid is intended for hurricane victims who suffered losses for which no commercial insurance was available, such as damage from flood, high water or wind-driven water.

In the long run, the new law may have greater significance because it authorizes an immediate study by the new Department of Housing and Urban Development to devise a permanent plan for protection against uninsurable disasters.

17-Year-Olds Banned From Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ordered today that 17-year-old servicemen be banned from duty in South Viet Nam.

The new policy, effective immediately, will not affect men on sea duty in waters off Viet Nam. Nor will it end overseas duty for 17-year-olds elsewhere in the world.

The minimum age for service in South Viet Nam will be 18, the Pentagon announcement said.

The services were ordered to cancel or change assignments of any 17-year-olds now destined for Viet Nam, and to divert these men "to other appropriate assignments."

The Pentagon said exact figures are not available but that it is estimated fewer than 1 per cent of the 148,300 American military men now in Viet Nam are in the 17-year bracket.

Disposal Plan Set For Ector County

AUSTIN (AP)—Ector County oil operators told a Railroad Commission examiner today they have agreed with the county commissioners to a three-year phasing out of salt water disposal pits.

Examiner Ray Payne said he expects the commission to act in about two weeks on the Ector County Commissioners Court's request for a no-pit order covering the county's 40 fields.

Appearing at the brief hearing before Payne were representatives of Gulf, Union Oil of California, Phillips, Humble, Texaco, Cities Service, Sun, Continental, Texas Pacific Oil Co., Pan American, Condor Petroleum Co. and Tidewater.

County officials at the hearing were County Judge Gerald Fugit and Commissioners E. B. Caudle, Earnest Broughton, W. J. Alexander and Kellus Turner.

Under the agreement, Payne said, Salt water disposal pits would be eliminated in the center of the county in six months, and over the rest of the county in the next three years.

Payne said 50 to 60 per cent of the salt water waste from the county's oil wells is now being recovered in secondary operations of underground water.

I want to congratulate the operators and the commissioners," he said. "It is nice to hold a hearing where everyone is so agreeable."

Glyndebourne Still Lures Opera Buffs

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

LEWES, England, (AP) — Above an old manor house full of song on the Sussex Downs there's been recent murmur of amiable rebellion.

"Is Glyndebourne," the whisper ran, "getting trapped by its trappings?"

Seditious suggestions included mix up picnic baskets on the broad lawns: open the lily pond sluicegate; appear in leather shorts instead of compulsory formal garb.

Observed George Christie, top man of culture's SRO outpost: "We are suffering the fate of second - generation revolutionaries." And the season proceeded as normal.

Eccentricity and criticism, after all, are nothing new at the Glyndebourne Opera, sometimes described as "an exquisite symbol of the British Way of Life" or England's answer to the Grand Canyon as a tourist attraction.

The founder was a descendant of that renowned individualist, Lady Godiva. Between arias he would gravely announce the Eton - Harrow cricket score, or solemnly apologize to a dowager for coarse language in "The Rape of Lucretia."

Sir Thomas Beecham described Glyndebourne as "the bourne from which all true Mozartians should swiftly return." An eminent journalist once proposed a compulsory test to keep out sightseers, drunks and slumbering tycoons.

The performing company isn't entirely immune to the place's spirit. A key participant was delayed in arrival this spring because an ex-wife had swiped his passport. Or consider the reported comment of a horn player, surveying a typical crowd of spectators:

"I don't know what it is, but this audience gives me the creeps like no other audience."

The ticket - buyers came up with some curious answers of their own when polled on musical likes and dislikes. Example: the majority named "The Marriage of Figaro" as the No. 1 opera of which they never tire. Asked in another column for the work they would most like to see revived, they chose "Der Rosenkavalier" (which had finished 5th as a favorite), and dropped Figaro back to 9th among the also - rans.

There are some special aesthetic and geographic factors to be considered when trying to figure out what makes Glyndebourne tick.

Begun by amateurs of high purpose 31 years ago, the summer festival has grown into a complex professional institution with a $730,000 annual budget and all the problems of cultural creativity.

Then there is the matter of location. The 500 - seat opera hall, a modern wing on a century - old mansion, is four miles from Lewes, the nearest town, a mile from the nearest bus stop. (Piltdown Man was dug out of a nearby fen.) London, from whence most visitors come is 54 miles away. Devotees must set out at 3 p.m. to make the early curtain.

England's weather being fickle but frequently damp, the long excursion sometimes assumes a nonartistic side. Juggling a chicken leg during a showery 90-minute dinner intermission in the cramping confines of a British minicar can stir heretical notions about the Glyndebourne Establishment.

Productions are rarely vulnerable to technical criticism. The London Philharmonic Orchestra is in the pit and the singers are a cross - section of Europe's young talent. Glamor stars are beyond the project's fiscal reach.

Any adverse comment usually centers upon the choice of opera. With opulent items of grand opera ruled out by physical limitations of equipment and space, the company which began with Mozart relies on similar, modestly caparisoned exhibits.

The display this season, from May through mid - August, included Cimarosa's "Secret Marriage," Donizetti's "Anna Bolena," Verdi's "Macbeth," Rossini's "The Touchstone," plus the aforementioned "Rosenkavalier" and "Figaro."

"We are content," Christie told an interviewer, "to be one fine opera house among many — although we have a character no one else has."

There is only one reproof that bothers him:

"I really get narked when people talk of our ignorant snob audience. Look at our Festival Society — people have been paying out vast sums of money to be in that for years and years. They wouldn't have spent all that just for snobbery."

Although Glyndebourne is a good three thousand miles from Broadway, hard - earned prestige has brought one of that boulevard's major annoyances. Down - front seats cost $15 at the box office, but the tourist boom has caused a black market scramble in London.

Junior Girls Make Several Presentations

The Scurry County Junior Girls Unit No. 8231 presented Mr. Jim Erwin 36 small American flags with stands for students of the Humble-Smith School to set on their desks. Also given were 36 etiquettes of the Stars and Stripes at the meeting of the West Elementary PTA Monday.

Making the presentation was the unit counselor, Mrs. Ethel Sowell. She said one of the main purposes of the unit was to stress Americanism and patriotism and hoped the children would enjoy the gifts.

Unit members present at the presentation were Elizabeth Lane, Charlitte and Sheryl Cargile, Cindy and Mary Smiley, Janice Holcomb, Janice Collum, and Linda Sowell.

Other recent presentations by the unit were a box of treats sent to Big Spring Veteran Hospital patients in honor of Veterans Day, and 30 etiquettes of the Stars and Stripes to Mrs. Mildred Sparks, dietitian at Cogdell Hospital, to be placed on luncheon trays Nov. 11, Veterans Day.

How Good Credit Risk Are You?

In this age of the charge account, we're likely to assume that credit, if not money, grows on trees. And it is true that, for most people, credit is easier to come by now than ever before.

Most department stores will extend a charge account to anyone with two of three things—a job, a bank account, or another charge account.

But what if you find yourself wanting or needing a substantial sum of cash for, say, a vacation trip, some dental work or a home decorating project? You would probably go to the the bank where you have your checking account, because (a) they know you, and (b) their interest rates are lower than those of most credit sources.

How good a credit risk would you be?

Here's a quiz to find out, based on bankers' many years of experience. These are not necessarily the questions bankers would ask you; the questions are intended for you to appraise your own financial responsibility.

If all your answers agree with the ones here, you're that rare creature, the perfect credit risk.

Q. Have you worked for the same firm for two years or more?

A. Yes. Job stability is an important factor where banks are concerned. Of course, if your job is routine a "yes" could mean you're just a stick-in-the-mud, but, sticks-in-the-mud do tend to be dependable.

Q. Have you changed your address more than twice in the last three years?

A. No. Bankers like to know where they can reach people. On the other hand, numerous changes of address do not negate the fact that you pay your rent on time in each place.

Q. When buying on credit, do you always make as small a down payment as possible, in order to enjoy your purchase while you're paying for it?

A. No. The fact that you've made a large down payment shows the banker that (a) you are able to save ahead for what you want, (b) you realize that interest on the remaining installments will be less, so that the purchase will cost you less in the long run.

Q. Does your checking account require a minimum balance?

A. Yes. Maintaining any type of bank account is in your favor, but the fact that you keep an ever-ready "cushion" in your checking account is especially helpful when you apply for credit.

Q. Do you own your home?

A. Yes. A house is a valuable asset. And regular mortgage payments indicate that you handle credit responsibly.

Q. Do you already have several large outstanding debts—big medical bills which you are paying off in installments, for example?

A. No, unless you're rich and have kept your debts in line. Your total debts, according to a rough rule of thumb, should not exceed a third of your "discretionary" spending for the year. ("Discretionary" money is what is left over after you have paid for the essentials - food, housing, clothing, insurance.

Q. Does your income fluctuate - feast one year and famine the next?

A. No. If your income goes up and down - if your earnings depend on commissions, tips, or fees - you are less likely to be a good credit risk than the person with a steady, salaried income. (However, you can demonstrate your financial stability in other ways, such as those mentioned above).

Q. In applying for a loan, do you wait until the last possible moment before you decide that borrowing is inevitable?

A. No. Borrowers who are in a great hurry to get their hands on cash may raise questions in the lender's mind. Your credit record and other items must be carefully checked, and this can take a little time, though the money may be available at your bank within 24 hours.

Q. If you forget to pay your telephone bill a few days after it arrives, do you wait until next month's bill to pay the total for both months?

A. No. Prompt payment of bills, even small ones to large companies, is a major recommendation when you want to borrow money.

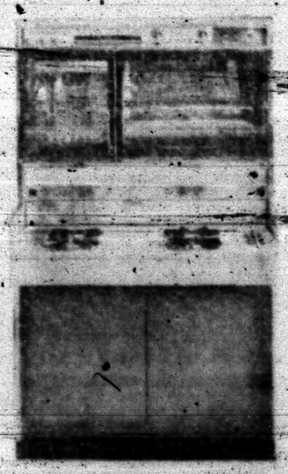
Uncommonly good cooks use cool, modern gas



When you turn on a modern gas range it starts cooking — instantly. There's no warm-up period. When you turn off a gas range it stops cooking — instantly. There's no hangover heat to heat your kitchen or burn your food. And when you broil with gas you can keep the door closed because the gas flame consumes the smoke. You and your kitchen stay cooler, cleaner. Uncommonly good suggestion: see the modern gas ranges now on sale at Gas Appliance Dealers — or Lone Star Gas. Super Chef Gas Range Sale.

Village Fights To Keep Lone MD

By AL GOLDBERG

ENON, Ohio (AP) — This village is fighting to keep its only medical doctor from being drafted as an outgrowth of the war in Viet Nam.

Townspeople carried the battle to his draft board only to find a second front had opened. The town's only dentist may be drafted, too.

Both Dr. Joel Vanderglas, 32, a general practioner, and Dr. James T. McMillin, 26, a dentist, have taken preinduction physical examinations, but neither knows yet whether he passed.

Residents sent petitions to Dr. Vanderglas' draft board in Uniontown, Pa., his hometown telling of the need in Enon for a doctor. The petitions were mailed Oct. 29, the day Dr. McMillin got his order to report for examination.

The draft board has not responded to the petitions, which Dr. Vanderglas did not circulate.

"I don't know how much the service needs him," said Joe Young, who works at nearby Wright - Patterson Air Force Base like many of the 8,500 residents of Enon, "but he's the only medical docter in this area."

Until Dr. Vanderglas came, residents went to doctors in Springfield or Fairborn, both about 10 miles away.

"That's not much good in case of an emergency," said Mayor Lawrence T. Davis.

"Nor does it provide for night or weekend calls.

"Dr. Vanderglas is real fine about coming out at night when you need him," said Mrs. Charles Wade.

Roger Bernard, 32, a high school teacher who started the petition campaign, said 1,138 signatures on the petitions represented virtually every family. The idea came from Bernard's memory of a similar, and successful, campaign during World War II to keep a doctor in his hometown, Sabina, 35 miles southeast.

The petitions didn't ask the board to defer Dr. Vanderglas but made it clear "he is desperately needed," said Bernard.

"It would be practically impossible to get anybody to replace him," Bernard added.

Vanderglas began practice here four years ago. Dr. McMillin came 18 months ago, and recently the two bought the building where they have offices.

Dr. Vanderglas has four children, Dr. McMillin two. But dependents are not a factor in drafting doctors and dentists. There are no plans to petition Dr. McMillin's draft board.

Election Leaves Canadians With Minority Government

TORONTO (AP) — It was an election hardly anybody wanted, and it solved nothing.

That was the net result today of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's unsuccessful effort to win a majority in the House of Commons and a clearcut mandate to carry on his programs.

Pearson thought he had such a victory within his grasp. He thought that Canadian voters, with "Liberal prosperity" swelling their pay checks, were bound to come to the aid of his party.

So he called Monday's election. It cost Canada $10 million. It cost Pearson a measure of prestige and left his Liberals still in power but with only 128 seats, 5 short of a majority in the 265-seat House. That was just one seat more than the Liberals had when Pearson called the election.

The surprise to many was the strength shown by John G. Diefenbaker's Conservative party. It won 99 seats, 7 more than it had; and refurbished Diefenbaker's vote-getting prestige. The result looked like a reward for the hard-hitting campaign the Tory leader had fought.

A third party, the New Democrats, also increased its standing, from 17 to 21 seats. These and the Conservatives' gains were largely at the expense of the small Social Credit and Cedititste parties.

One possibility out of all this is that Pearson will call another election. This seems unlikely because Canadians are tired of voting — they have had five elections in eight years.

The strongest prospect seems to be that Pearson will go on governing as he has been doing for the last 2½ years — with the cooperation of opposition parties. Little of his legislative program has fallen by the wayside under these conditions. He even changed the Canadian flag with opposition help.

At one point Monday night, Pearson's foreign secretary, Paul Martin, spoke of the possibility of forming a Liberal-New Democrat coalition. The New Democrats' leader, T. C. Douglas, shot this down. He said his party would support legislation it approved, but would remain in opposition.

Diefenbaker declined to say whether he would offer a motion of no-confidence in Pearson's government when Parliament reconvenes. This conceivably could bring the government down.

The election result confounded forecasters, most of whom had discounted Diefenbaker's strength and predicted a majority for Pearson.

Even so, it was likely Diefenbaker's last election. He is 70, and had told associates he was ready to step down if the Tories lost again.

It could also be Pearson's final effort as leader to win a majority for his party. He is 68, and some Liberals say he lacks the spark of an outstanding campaigner.

Monday night, after expressing disappointment at the result, he would say only: "At the moment I am still prime minister and leader of the government and we'll leave it at that."

Cold Grips Northern US

By The Associated Press

A thrust of freezing cold extended over much of the nation today, accompanied in some areas by showers, snow and fog.

Brisk northerly winds pushed the wintry cold into the north central United States from the upper Great Lakes to Kansas.

The mercury dipped to 1 below zero at Roseau, in northern Minnesota, before dawn and to 4 above at Bemidji, Minn. It was 15 at Duluth and 11 at Fargo, N.D.

Gale warnings were displayed on the upper Great Lakes.

Light snow fell from Upper Michigan to northern Minnesota. One inch of snow covered the ground at International Falls, Minn., where the temperature was 11 above zero.

Blustery northwest winds produced snow flurries over the mountains of northern and western New England as the temperature dropped into the 20s.

Showers and thundershowers fell from Texas to New England. Widespread fog cloaked the metropolitan East.

In the South, rain dampened Tennessee and eased the forest fire hazard. In Florida, temperatures were in the mid 70s to mid 80s.

Pope Still May Visit In Poland

By GENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The possibility is still alive that Pope Paul VI will visit Poland next spring.

Both the Vatican and the Polish government have denied Roman press reports of arrangements for the Pope to come to the May 3, 1966, celebration of 1,000 years of Christianity in Poland.

The feeling here is that the denials were prompted by premature publicity for a project that could take shape in the coming winter.

Some Italian reporters who accompanied President Giuseppe Saragat to Poland last month wrote about a papal visit as if it were already decided.

Prof. Aleksander Skarzynski, director of the Polish government's Office of Religious Affairs, told The Associated Press there was no truth to their stories. But he did not rule out the possibility of a journey here by the Pope.

Numerous matters would have to be settled first, the director said.

Many Polish Communists as well as Catholics are interested in having the pontiff come here because of the prestige this would mean for their country.

Communist regime officials are also pondering possible disadvantages. There would be the danger that the visit might disrupt public order, something dreaded by any regime in power.

Polish Catholics are so fervently religious that more than 100,000 will spend days walking to reach appearances of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland. The Pope could draw millions. Handling such a crowd would require the kind of church-state cooperation that does not now exist. Despite this, one Warsaw diplomat has predicted to his government that there is a 60-40 chance that the Pope will come here.

Some Polish Catholics feel a papal journey here would be the logical way to continue the approach to the East started by the late Pope John XXIII. This policy has brought formal church-state agreements with Communist authorities in Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

But some critics feel a personal appearance by Pope Paul would dignify the Warsaw Communist regime.

There are also political problems involving the post-World War II Polish-German boundary — problems which either side could use to stop a papal visit here. But they could also be brushed aside if both the Pope and the Polish government become convinced that the trip should be made.

The Vatican has avoided a formal statement recognizing the postwar transfer of former German territory to Poland, but it has named Polish bishops to rule Church affairs in the disputed lands.

Extension To Sugar Bill Becomes Law

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has signed into law a five-year extension of the sugar bill that sets new foreign quotas and also boosts the U.S. share of the market by 580,000 tons.

The provision to increase the domestic share of the sugar market was written into the bill after producers claimed they were unable to unload huge warehouses surpluses.

The bill, signed Monday, sparked a congressional haggle over foreign quotas after the House Agriculture Committee dropped the administration's formula for alloting the market and wrote its own. Foreign producers are alloted about 40 per cent of the U. S. sugar market, with the rest filled by U.S. beet and cane growers.

Some House members contended there were links between Washington lobbyists hired by foreign countries and the countries' share of the sugar quota.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., at one stage offered an amendment to the bill that would have cut a country's quota to zero if it hires a lobbyist. Findley's proposal was defeated.

Quotas are valuable to foreign sugar producers because the U. S. price is set about $20 a ton over the world price to give American growers a chance to compete with lower foreign labor costs. The U.S. sugar market is the most lucrative in the world, and shares in it mean millions of pounds a year.

Teacher Hurt In Shooting

DENTON (AP) — Three shotgun blasts wounded a high school shop teacher Monday and police jailed a pupil, 16.

Jimmy Daniels, 35, the wounded instructor, said the shooting occurred after he whipped the youth for cutting classes. Both are Negroes.

Daniels was reported in good condition at a hospital with pellet wounds in the right arm, chest and leg.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gene Kiser said the student, Arthur Paige, would be held in county jail to await a juvenile court hearing.

Daniels told officers that after the whipping the youth left while the class was working at a house near the school, returned with a shotgun and opened fire as the teacher ran.

He said a man grabbed the shotgun wielder and a neighbor called police.

Daniels, a teacher here for eight years, said he administered the whipping on the authority of Principal C. E. Reid. The Denton Independent School District trustees scheduled a meeting tonight to go into session of Paige's and teacher.

Fuel Cells Will Power Automobile Of The Future

NO NOXIOUS FUMES—

By MAX B. SKELTON

CHICAGO (AP) — A scientist said today automobiles will be powered universally by fuel cells within 70 years.

"There will be no noxious fumes or other undesirable products," said Dr. Clifford Furnas, president of the State University of New York in Buffalo.

"They will be silent in operation and will produce electrical energy at high efficiency."

Fuel cells produce energy through a chemical reaction. Furnas said automobile fuel cells of the future will operate on clean hydrocarbons and use air as the oxidizer.

Furnas, a former assistant defense secretary for research and development, made his forecast in a speech to American Petroleum Institute, the nation's largest oil trade group.

The 2,500 oilmen were told Monday a presidential advisory group has indicated development of a non-polluting means of powered automobiles is likely to become a national necessity.

Frank Ikard, the institute's president from New York City, said a weekend report by the environmental pollution panel of the president's advisory committee underscores the fact air and water pollution problems overshadow all issues currently facing the domestic petroleum industry.

The fuel cell theory was developed nearly 150 years ago. The first major operational use of such a power plant was not accomplished, however, until the eight-day Gemini 5 space flight of Aug. 14-22.

Fuel cells used on Gemini and to be used on future duration missions, including moon landings, produce power through a reaction of hydrogen with oxygen. Gemini 5 had difficulties with a hydrogen system but officials of the manned spacecraft center at Houston said the fuel cells themselves operated very efficiently.

Furnas said the automobile cells will be small in size and reasonable in weight and should eliminate smog problems in catastrophic consequence of urban sprawl such as Los Angeles.

Furnas, a member of scientific panels advising the Army, Navy and House committee on science and astronauts, also predicted rocket propelled hypersonic aircraft will be in commercial use within 70 years.

Ikard said the presidential pollution panel report unquestionably will fan emotions, raise fears and bring demands for action.

The substance of the report is that there still is time to save the world's people from the catastrophic consequence of future pollution, Ikard said.

He pledged the petroleum industry's cooperation in the national effort but said oilmen must not permit the job ahead to become obscured by rash statements and tasteful notions.

Robert Dunlop of Philadelphia, president of the Sun Oil Co., was elected board chairman of the API, which represents all segments of the domestic oil and gas industry. He succeeds J. Ed. Warren of New York City, president of the Cities Service Co.

Finds Reason To Fight

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)— We are here to help, not to hurt. We are here to build up, not to knock down." Thus said the letter from Viet Nam.

"We could easily win... but to win we would gain nothing, unless we won their hearts."

The letter was a thank-you note from Sgt. 1.C. Richard V. Huband of Richmond to Mrs. Robert M. Blanton of Richmond, who had written him to say she was proud of his service.

Huband, a medical corpsman, who flies to South Vietnamese hamlets to treat the ill and wounded when the Viet Cong cut off the land routes, wrote: "I believe that everything I do just for myself while I am on this earth will die with me.

"It is all the little things that I am able to do for someone else that will live long in the hearts of others after I am gone."

Crude Production Upped Last Week

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — U. S. crude oil and lease condensate production increased 124,200 barrels daily to an average of 7,777,200 last week, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Louisiana production averaged 1,661,700 barrels daily, up 57,900. Texas reported 2,682,700; Oklahoma 583,900, up 20,808, and New Mexico 318,500.

Prison Board Votes Name For Addition

AUSTIN (AP) — Fellow members of the Texas Board of Corrections voted Monday to name the next addition to the state prison system, an Anderson County unit, for their chairman H. H. Coffield of Rockdale.

Coffield has been a board member 16 years and its chairman the past eight.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A car-train crash on San Antonio's south side Monday night left one woman fatally injured and another in grave condition.

Manuela Gonzalez, 37, the driver, was thrown from the vehicle and died five hours later. Her companion, Consuelo Barron, 30, was pinned in the wreckage.

UN Scene Of Another Self-Burning By Pacifist

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said a 22-year-old man set fire to himself in front of the United Nations Building today and was critically burned.

Police identified him as Roger A La Porte, 22, of New York City.

La Porte was taken to Bellevue Hospital where he was reported in critical condition with burns over his entire body.

Police said La Porte told them he tried burning himself because, "I'm anti-war, all wars."

He identified himself as a member of the Catholic Workers, a group of pacifists who work with alcoholics and the poor.

The incident came one week after Norman R. Morrison, a Baltimore Quaker, burned himself to death outside the Pentagon to protest U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Officers said La Porte poured gasoline over himself and ignited himself at about 5 a.m. in the middle of First Avenue, about 26 feet out from 42nd Street.

It was not immediately clear where he poured the gasoline over himself. No can was found at the scene, littered with charred bits of his clothing.

A U.N. security guard rushed from a nearby building, police said. Five other guards joined him with fire extinguishers in a few minutes.

As he was rushed into an ambulance he muttered, "Give me some water, give me some water," police said.

Travis Vs. Lamar Here Thursday

Lamar's 8th grade football team has the best record of any of the Snyder School System elevens still competing on the gridiron this season with a 5-2 record.

The "B" team is only a half-game off the pace with a 5-2-1 history. The only other team with more wins than losses—Lamar 8th grade—has a 4-3 reading.

The "B" team leads in scoring with 185 points, and it is tied with Lamar 9th in points given up with 101 each. Last week, the Varsity tallied more points than it had in six previous games to boost its count to 88.

The curtain will ring down on the 1965 season for all of the local teams except the Varsity this week as the Travis and Lamar 8th and 9th grade squads collide with each other in their annual match at Tiger Stadium. The "B" team closes out its schedule at Midland in a clash with Lee.

SNYDER TEAMS

Team	W	L	T	Pts.	Opp.

Bulldogs Are Undefeated

Area teams continue to make a good showing on the gridiron with Ira sporting the best record. The Bulldogs are undefeated in eight outings to date. Hobbs and Gail also have won more games than they have lost with 7-1 and 5-4 records respectively. Hermleigh continued its climb in the right direction with a 20-6 pasting of Loraine.

The area spotlight is on Ira this week as the Bulldogs face a stiff challenge from visiting Divide in a 7:30 p.m. affair Friday. On the same night, Hobbs is at Highland, and Jayton invades Hermleigh Saturday night. Gail will be out to get a piece of its district crown Saturday night when it takes on league-leading Dawson there Saturday.

AREA TEAMS

Spartans Keep Grip On Top Grid Rating

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State, Arkansas, Nebraska and Notre Dame—the four who have been gorging themselves on touchdowns as if trying to outstrip each other, continued to pace the national rankings today in The Associated Press college football poll.

The Michigan State Spartans, who crushed Iowa 35-0 for their eighth straight victory, extended their No. 1 position to the third week by polling 32 of the 51 votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Arkansas, with 14 firsts, remained the No. 2 team after a 31-0 rout of Rice while Nebraska, with four No. 1 votes, clung to third on a 42-6 triumph over Kansas.

Notre Dame had the biggest field day of the leaders, trouncing Pittsburgh 69-13, and mustered a challenge to Nebraska for the No. 3 position. The Irish collected the other first-place vote.

The standings are arrived at on the basis of points, figured on a formula of 19 for a first-place selection, nine for second and on down the line.

Michigan State's point total was 482, compared with 459 for Arkansas, 406 for Nebraska and 381 for Notre Dame.

The first six teams in the standings remained unchanged from last week, with Alabama fifth after beating Louisiana State 31-7 and Southern California sixth on the strength of a 35-0 triumph over California.

Michigan State plays Indiana this week in what should be little more than a tuneup for the battle with Notre Dame Nov. 20. Arkansas takes on Southern Methodist, Nebraska meets Oklahoma State and Notre Dame goes against North Carolina.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points:

1.	Mich. State (32) 8-0	482
2.	Arkansas (14) 8-0	459
3.	Nebraska (4) 8-0	406
4.	Notre Dame (1) 6-1	381
5.	Alabama 6-1-1	288
6.	South. Calif. 5-1-1	240
7.	UCLA 5-1-1	170
8.	Tennessee 4-0-2	96
9.	Missouri 5-2-1	94
10.	Kentucky 6-2	73

Limeys Put Hopes On Super Sam

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Super Sam, a rags to riches colt, carries the hopes of England in Thursday's $150,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel with his youthful trainer not too confident his horse can handle the seven other thoroughbreds invited to compete in the 1½-mile grass course classic.

"He has beaten the best of the 4-year-olds at home," said 23-year-old Bill Watts as he watched the son of Above Suspicion — Samaria cool out in the walking ring beneath the trees in International Village.

"But then the 4-year-old's aren't much in England this year. He never has met the class he'll be coming up against this time." Bill, handling the English hope in the absence of his father, John Frederick Watts, rated France's Diatome as best of the invaders.

Right now the grass course is badly in need of rain, and the weatherman doesn't promise any help by post time of 3:45 p.m., EST, Thursday.

Super Sam was purchased as a yearling for $18,000. As a 2-year-old he showed practically nothing in six starts and this year made an inauspicious start. But he suddenly showed the amazing ability to improve with each race and heads into the International with a string of five straight major victories.

None of his races this year has been at less than 1¼ miles and his triumphs include two at 1 1-5 miles and three at the international route of 1½ miles.

Chief of the come-from-behind performers are the three U.S. representatives—Roman Brother, the favorite from Lou Wolfson's Harbor View Farms, Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hail to All, and Hill Rise from George Pope's El Peco Ranch.

Canada's George Royal, who whipped Hill Rise early in the season at Santa Anita; France's Carvin and Argentina's Berenjenal round out the field.

SPORTS

Porkers, Ponies In Good Health

By The Associated Press

There can be no alibis about injured players when Arkansas and Southern Methodist clash in the Cotton Bowl Saturday in the Southwest Conference's big game.

Both reported in good enough shape at Monday's practice. In fact, SMU was in such good condition that it had contact work, something that varied from the normal workout pattern.

At Fayetteville, coach Frank Broyles found his squad bruised and sore "but we'll be over it in a couple of days." Wingback Harry Jones was absent from practice but will play Saturday.

But while the teams in the big one will be at full strength, a couple of other teams that clash in an important game—for one of them at least—won't be up to snuff.

Texas Tech, still in the championship race the same as Southern Methodist, although each has lost one game, takes on Baylor at Lubbock.

Coach J. T. King of Tech had one player definitely out of action and two others on the doubtful list.

Tackle Bill Adams is out with a knee injury. Jeff White, a starting end, and halfback Jerry Lovelace had a knee injury and hip-pointer, respectively, and they may not be able to play Saturday.

Halfback Joe Jones of Baylor will miss the game because of a knee injury and probably will be out for the remainder of the season. Donnie Laurence and Richard Defee, a couple of other backs, also were on the injury list but probably will be able to play.

Baylor also announced some lineup changes, the main one being that Mike Marshall will start at quarterback in place of Kenny Stockdale.

Texas was expected to be in top shape and Texas Christian, which meets the Longhorns at Austin Saturday, had only one player on the doubtful list. He was Jim Nayfa, who hurt his knee in the Baylor game last week.

Rice and Texas A&M battle at Houston and there's not a single injury on either squad. Rice said it only trouble was psychological—it took a 31-0 licking from Arkansas.

Fluvanna 5 Hosts Noodle

Fluvanna's Buffaloes, undefeated after two games, host the Noodle five tonight in a basketball tilt on the Buffalo court. The boys clash follows the girl's game at 7 p.m.

Coach Geral Greene observed that the girl's team bested Noodle, 39-38, last week, rather than coming out on the short end of the count as previously reported.

Friday night, the Fluvanna teams host Girard. Again, the schedule will begin with a girls tilt at 7 p.m.

Dumas, Lions Retain Status

DALLAS (AP) — The top 10 of Class AAAA schoolboy football may be shaken up this week because six of them are playing each other.

Texarkana stayed at No. 1 in the Dallas News poll but lost some ground in the vote. Texarkana meets Marshall, the No. 9 team, Friday.

San Angelo, No. 2, takes on Odessa Permian No. 10.

Wichita Falls Rider, No. 6, clashes with Hurst Bell, No. 7.

Spring Branch Memorial was the only team to plunge out of the AAAA top 10 last week and Permian was a newcomer to the rankings.

There are no direct meetings of rated teams in the other classes where Dumas is No. 1 in AAA, Alpine in AA and Three Rivers in A.

Deer Park, Kermit and South Garland plunged out of AAA last week while Gatesville and Conroe were newcomers.

DeKalb, Granbury and Edna became new members of Class AA, with Clarksville falling out. There were no changes in Class A but Hull-Daisetta moved in to tie Honey Grove for 10th.

Class AAAA — Texarkana, San Angelo, Dallas Woodrow Wilson, San Antonio Lee, Corsicana, Wichita Falls Rider, Hurst Bell, Lubbock Monterey, Marshall, Odessa Permian.

Class AAA — Dumas, Brownwood, San Marcos, Donna, Weatherford, Bridge City, Gainesville, McKinney, Gatesville, Conroe.

Class AA — Alpine, Denver City, Bellville, Cameron, Iowa Park, Plano, Needville and Edna tied, Granbury, Port Acres, Dekalb.

Class A — Three Rivers, Goldthwaite, Forney, Coahoma, White Deer, Wills Point, Crowell, Keller, Honey Grove and Hull-Daisetta tied.

Having a fall party? Count on a quart of spirited punch serving six to eight portions.

RAZORBACKS 'HOG' GRID STATISTICS

By The Associated Press

Statistically, Arkansas looks like the best team in the Southwest Conference, too.

Leading the race with an unbeaten, untied record, the Razorbacks also are out front in both offense and defense.

Arkansas has allowed only 107 yards rushing to its last three foes to take over in defense from Baylor. It already led in offense.

The Razorbacks have averaged 356.4 yards per game, 17.9 yards ahead of Texas.

Defensively, they have allowed only 232.1 yards per contest and that's 10.9 better than runnerup Texas.

Standings of the team:

Offense	Rushing	Passing	Total
Arkansas	232.9	123.9	356.4
Texas	205.9	133.2	339.1

Kathy Favorite At Pecan Valley

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The women's golf tour reached San Antonio today and tuneups for the $10,000 Alamo Open were under way over the 6,600-yard Pecan Valley course.

The $10,000, 54-hole tournament opens Friday.

All the girls on the tour will be here except Clifford Ann Creed, who has gone to Australia for a tour, and Barbara Romack.

Plan Grade Standard

DALLAS (AP) — The Southwest Conference faculty committee wound up a special meeting Monday by approving a table designed to determine the predicted grade point average of all prospective athletes.

This is in line with a new rule of the NCAA that specifies that all incoming athletes must have a predicted minimum grade point average of 1.6, which generally corresponds to about D-plus.

Most Southwest Conference members already have a higher average on entrance requirements than the 1.6 and there is no question of the conference having to raise the standards to meet the rule. The meeting was for the purpose of arriving at a general standard.

ROYAL, TITTLE DENY OFFERS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Louisiana was rife with rumors today that Charlie McClendon, LSU football coach, will be fired and either Darrell Royal of Texas or former pro quarterback Y. A. Tittle would be hired to replace him.

The reports, however, seemingly are without foundation. McClendon currently is concerned about regrouping his team after back-to-back defeats for the first time since he became head coach at Louisiana State.

McClendon was unavailable for comment.

Royal and Tittle, when contacted, both said there was absolutely no foundation to the rumors and squashed the reports.

At Austin, Tex., Royal said emphatically Monday night that "there's nothing to" the report he had been offered a 10-year contract to go to LSU.

"After losing those three games (Texas lost three in a row before beating Baylor last Saturday) I hope they're not trying to hire Charlie McClendon to coach Texas," Royal said.

Tittle, at his home in Palo Alto, Calif., said, "No, I haven't heard anything about it. McClendon has done a fine job at LSU. I don't see how anyone could conceivably consider dismissing him."

Tittle, who played college football at LSU, was a pro star in the National Football League with the San Francisco 49ers and the New York Giants. He currently is a scout and assistant coach with the 49ers.

New Orleans sportswriter Hap Glover reported twice on his alma mater, WWL-TV show Monday that Gov. John J. McKeithen has offered Royal a contract to coach at LSU for 10 years and $1 million.

Adding fuel to the fire was this comment in Monday's Nashville, Tenn., Banner, by Sports Editor Fred Russell, one of the South's most respected sports writers.

"Mickey Hershkowitz of the Houston Post, perhaps one of the three or four newspapermen closest to Darrell Royal of Texas, says Royal has a fat offer from another college."

Russell didn't elaborate.

McKeithen is in Argentina and could not be reached for comment about Glaudi's report. Glaudi, who was sports editor of the now defunct New Orleans Item, said McKeithen had recently been fishing and hunting in Texas with Royal.

"I have never hunted and fished with Gov. McKeithen," Royal said, "although we are good friends. I was his guest at the Governor's Mansion at the Louisiana State-Florida game but I had gone to Baton Rouge just to see a football game."

The LSU-Florida game Royal referred to was last season.

In addition to the Glaudi story, another one being circulated by word of mouth throughout the state is that McKeithen, an LSU alumnus, has been working behind the scenes with other LSU supporters to raise $100,000 and buy up McClendon's contract with Tittle being hired as head coach.

Tittle said he was not certain he would be interested in the coaching assignment at his alma mater.

"My home is in California," he said.

McClendon is on the first year of a five-year contract with an annual salary of $21,500. He became head coach at LSU in 1962 when Paul Dietzel asked to be relieved of his contract so he could go to Army.

Officials at LSU say they "won't dignify" either the Royal or Tittle reports by commenting on them.

Dissident LSU fans have been howling about the Tigers' three losses so far this campaign. The Bengals were beaten by Florida and then lost consecutively to Mississippi and Alabama.

McClendon had to play both Ole Miss and Alabama without the services of his hotshot sophomore quarterback, Nelson Stokley, who twisted a knee early in the Ole Miss game (which LSU lost 23-0) on Oct. 30 and reinjured it in warmups for the game at Baton Rouge last Saturday with fifth-ranked Alabama, which won 31-7.

McClendon, who played his college football for Paul (Bear) Bryant at Kentucky, was Dietzel's chief assistant before taking the head job.

For his first three full seasons at LSU, McClendon posted a 22-6-2 record in regular season games and took the Tigers to bowls each year. Only a few coaches have better records for the same 1962-1964 period.

LSU still has games left with Mississippi State and traditional rival Tulane this year.

QB CLUB MEETING SET

The Snyder Quarterback Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria to view game films of last week's 47-21 Tiger victory over Brownfield's Cubs.

Members also will hear a scouting report on this week's opponent — Littlefield. Coaches in the school system will give brief reports on last week's games and the prospects for this week.

Veterans Day Observances To Counter Peacenik Move

By HAL COOPER
Associated Press Writer

Veterans Day observances Thursday will point up a massive national backlash against draft card burners and other critics of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, reports from across America showed today.

In addition to the traditional turnout of war veterans, parades in many cities are expected to attract thousands of ordinary citizens who want to march to demonstrate support for their country's cause.

The national headquarters of the American Legion touched off "Operation Show Your Colors" involving the distribution of 10 million metal lapel pin flags. With each pin comes a card saying "Americans are serving the cause of freedom in Viet Nam. I wear my country's flag to show that I support their efforts."

Frank Brockhoven, chairman of the Veterans Day parade in Boston, said, "Everybody wants to get in it — everybody's calling me." He estimated that more than 12,000 would march, led by servicemen home from the war in Viet Nam.

In Denver, Colo., the United Veterans Council, sponsor of an annual parade, arranged for one section to consist of unorganized citizens who want to join the line of march as a sign of national solidarity.

In Columbus, Ohio, the parade grand marshal is Postmaster Victor J. Bodish who arranged for the city's letter carriers to march in their working uniforms. Students of Ohio State University planned a blood-donating session which they dubbed a "bleed in" — a switch on the "teach-ins" which have been held at some schools to protest the Viet Nam fighting.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will address Washington's major Veterans Day rally at Arlington National Cemetery and place a presidential wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns.

A sponsoring committee said it expected one of the greatest throngs ever to attend such a ceremony, partly because college student leaders in the area plan to demonstrate to show their feeling that the draft card burners represent only a narrow fringe of their generation.

Gov. Haydon Burns of Florida invited the public to a mass meeting in the state Capitol at Tallahassee to discuss countermoves to those opposed to U.S. participation in the Viet Nam fighting.

Gov. John H. King of New Hampshire asked citizens of his state to show their faith in Viet Nam policy by holding "special events" on Veterans Day. Veterans organizations of the state suggested that motorists turn on their headlights for five minutes at 11 a.m. Thursday to signal their support of the fighting men across the Pacific.

New York was one of the few places where opponents of the U.S. course of action announced plans for Veterans Day demonstrations. An organization called Youth Against War and Fascism said it would hold a Union Square rally under the slogan "To end the war in Viet Nam."

The New England Committee for Nonviolent Action said 50 of its members would demonstrate at the gate of the Ft. Devens military reservation in Massachusetts.

Pair Takes Togetherness To Surgery

CHICAGO (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dru'yor are carrying togetherness right into the operating room.

The Prairie du Chien, Wis., couple will undergo surgery Wednesday in Chicago for similar heart conditions. The open-heart surgery will be performed by Dr. M. S. Mazel, a pioneer in the technique.

"They're going to flip a coin to see which of us goes first," Alvin Dru'yor, 62, said Monday night in a telephone interview from his bed at Edgewater Hospitial. He is in the publishing business.

Dru'yor said he has had a heart condition for about seven years. His wife, Inez, 60, accompanied him to Chicago two weeks ago for Dru'yor's physical examination.

"She never had a physical herself so we decided it was a good time for her to have one," he said. "They discovered she had the came condition I had only her's was worse."

"What was strange was that she'd had no problems," he said. "I was always the complainer."

The operation, called a cardiopexy, is to unblock arteries leadinig to the heart. Dr. Mazel has performed 250 open heart operations. These will be the first on a husband and wife.

The Dru'yors, who entered the hospital Sunday, are sharing the same room.

"That seems to scare everybody," said Dru'yor. "The nurses look in and you can tell they're thinking, 'Has this hospital gone modern or something, putting a man and woman in the same room?'"

Pink Bollworm Found In California Cotton

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)— There's an unwanted visitor from Arizona in Southern California cotton fields.

"It's the pink bollworm, a major cotton pest which has invaded the state for the first time.

The Agriculture Department reported Monday that the first live worm stage has been discovered in the Bard Valley of Imperial County near the California-Arizona border.

Production Of Milk To Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk production will climb to near record heights next year, reports the government, despite the fact that Americans will continue to consume less milk per person.

The Agriculture Department said the 1966 predicted yield of 12 billion pounds of milk would be only fractionally below the 1964 record, and a further rise in imports is likely because of relatively favorable U.S. prices and the large world milk supply.

During the first nine months of 1965 milk production dropped slightly because of higher prices for beef cattle and drought conditions in the Northeastern states.

A decline in the number of milk cows on farms, dating to 1945, quickened this year and probably will continue at or slightly above 3 per cent in 1966, the government predicted. Farm milk cows last June totaled 15.6 million, down from 21.1 million 10 years earlier.

Milk output per cow for 1965 is estimated to average about 8,100 pounds, up about 2.8 per cent from 1964.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — A fellow from Colorado wants to know something about the Pacific Coast town of San Blas. What it's like, are there any hotels and is it worth spending a few days there.

I would like to curl up on the beach at San Blas for several weeks. It is a quiet little seaside village of around 1,700 inhabitants and the main industry seems to be just living.

San Blas is about an hour's drive off the main highway (road darts to the right around the Kilometer 941 marker going south toward Tepic from Mazatlan) through lush jungle country. There are three hotels in town, the Casino Colon, Playa Hermosa (both right on the beach) and the Bucanero which is in town. This is a quiet and peaceful spot but there is always something to do. Guides will boat you on jungle river trips that make you think you're in the wilds of Africa. Good fishing in the river but you should take your own gear.

Or you can spend your time on the beach, lounging in the shade of the coconut palms or picking up a sun tan in the surf. If you are more energetic, you can help the San Blas fisherwomen dig clams at the water's edge on the beach. A take-it-easy town with plenty to keep you occupied.

Where is the glass factory located in Guadalajara?

You're thinking of a kind of suburb called Tlaquepaque which is a separate town. There are scads of glass and pottery factories; apparently the town lives off this industry. The place to look is on Independencia Street, where all the businesses are set up in private houses with some incredible show rooms full of everything.

Recommendation for a good hotel while visiting Patzcuaro?

You might try the Posada de Don Vasco at the foot of the long hill going up to the town of Patzcuaro. It has a fine view of the lake, the food is good and is served in a dining room with a huge fireplace. Which crackles cheerfully during breakfast and dinner. You'll need a car for getting up to town and looking around, or to drive down to the lake.

When does bullfight season open in Mexico City?

The big season, when matadors fight full size bulls, starts sometime in December generally and winds up in April. A week or so later, the novillo season starts — they fight smaller bulls and the battlers are aspiring matadors — and this one runs to the start of the big season. With rare exceptions, there is a bullfight of some sort every Sunday the year around.

Market where antiques are sold?

Probably you're thinking of the Lagunilla Market's Sunday morning operation. Everyone lays his wares on the street or in sidewalk stalls. You find not only antiques but the works from big brass candlesticks, a few fair opals, tools, transistor radios, old magazines and books to extinct money. Gets under way around 10 a.m. and runs to around 3 p.m.

Johnson Moves Quietly To Deal With Aluminum Prices

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two presidents — Lyndon B. Johnson and John F. Kennedy — smashed head-on into a big industry when it suddenly raised prices while they were trying to keep prices steady.

But the way they did it — Johnson with aluminum, Kennedy with steel — is a study in contrasts.

Kennedy did it with his chin out, full of denunciations, and, although he won, the victory cost him dearly for his relations with business were sour for a long time afterward.

So far, Johnson has done it quietly and indirectly — he hasn't said one word but let his aides do the talking — that his administration hasn't yet admitted it was trying to discourage the aluminum price boost.

Johnson, a shrewd politician who knows the importance of having big business on his side and has spent a lot of time trying to line up businessmen, wants to win but he isn't using the Kennedy tactics.

On April 10, 1962, U.S. Steel informed Kennedy it was raising prices. Immediately on Kennedy's orders his aides began phoning other companies to dissuade them from following U.S. Steel. But they did.

The next day at his news conference Kennedy denounced the industry's action as "irresponsible defiance" and "ruthless disregard" of its duty. He began to apply other pressures.

His brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, announced a grand jury investigation of the price increases. He sent out subpoenas to the heads of steel companies. The implication was that might be price-fixing.

Various congressional committees, headed by Democrats, announced they would begin investigations. By April 13, two days after the price boost began, the steel industry revoked its increases.

Johnson's case with the aluminum industry has a longer history.

After World War II the government began stockpiling various metals and supplies, including aluminum. Now it figures it has on hand, above its stockpile needs, about 1.4 million tons of aluminum.

The government wanted that much returned to the commercial market over the next 10 years. Since 1963 the aluminum industry had already helped the government sell off over 100,000 tons.

Monday House Speaker John W. McCormack said the government for the past eight months has been trying to work out with the industry disposal of more of the surplus.

But 12 days ago the aluminum industry began raising prices on what it is turning out. Two days later, while Johnson himself never said a public word, his office announced he had instructed some of his Cabinet members to meet in Washington to discuss disposing of the government's unneeded aluminum.

If the government ever released its 1.4 million-ton surplus at one time it would be half the entire industry's total production for a year. Such an action, if the government disposed of the aluminum at a lower price than the industry was asking, could put a terrible dent in aluminum prices.

Then last Saturday the government announced — although Johnson himself remained silent — it would release 200,000 tons of the 1.4 million-ton surplus. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara did the announcing.

He said the 200,000 tons were twice as much aluminum as the industry wanted the government to dispose of in any one year. But the Johnson administration was still playing this whole thing dead-pan.

McNamara and Gardner W. Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, declined at a news conference to make any direct connection between the price increase and release of aluminum from the government surplus.

With These Signs Comes Middle Age

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you middle-aged?

If you are and don't know it, some of your best friends won't tell you. They think it more kindly to let you go on kidding yourself.

But here's a handy guide to tell whether you have left the pastures of youth behind. You probably are middle-aged if:

You know that Galli-Curci is not a new Italian mouth wash but the name of a famous operatic soprano.

It seems like only yesterday that you used to get balky car engine started on a wintry morning by hand-cranking it.

You are so used to hearing the children call your wife "mother" that you start doing it, too.

At Christmas you get more mufflers than bright neckties as presents.

At the office you ask the supply clerk to put a seat pad on your swivel chair to make it more comfortable. And you no longer lean back so far in the chair—for fear it will tip over.

You no longer can read the fine print in the telephone directory with the aid of a single lighted match. It takes you two matches to look up a number.

Your dreams become grimmer. Instead of being romantic or full of fanciful adventures, they usually are woven around the problems of your job.

Somehow your feet get tired earlier in the day, and shoes become the most important part of your wardrobe. It takes you longer to pick out a pair of shoes than it does to buy a new suit.

After you put the sock on your right foot in the morning, you pause, sigh, and brood about what the day will bring before you put on the left sock.

Amid the growing number of credit cards in your wallet is another card that lists your blood type, the miracle drugs you are allergic to, and what person to call in case of an emergency.

It is rare for you to get eight uninterrupted hours of sleep.

If one of the girls in the office pins a flower in your lapel on your birthday, you brag about it to your wife all week. You also start a campaign to get the girl a merit raise from the boss.

You wonder why young people want to talk so much about "the bomb." You have lived under its threat for so long you are numb.

If you overhear a group of high school kids chattering on the bus, you travel a mile and a half without even understanding the subject of their conversation.

There are only two kinds of food on any menu—those you like but shouldn't eat, and those you should eat but can't stand.

You no longer have the physical stamina to acquire a new bad habit nor the moral fiber to give up an old one.

By such signs cometh middle age. But weep no more. All you can do is buck up and face it.

The original dimensions of the Washington Monument were changed as a result of research by George Marsh, a United States minister to Italy. A true obelisk, he reported, would have a height about 10 times its base width, hence the monument's final proportions: 555 feet 5½ inches high to a base 55 feet 1½ inches square.

Junior Editors Quiz on SUGAR

QUESTION: What good is sugar to us? Where does it come from?

• • •

ANSWER: Sugar produces heat in our bodies and liberates energy faster than any other kind of food. We need energy in the race of life, and so the runner in our picture symbolizes the importance of sugar to human beings. Its function has been compared to that of gasoline when burned in a clean automobile, although sugar, of course, gives us energy in a much less explosive way.

We consume sugar in many more ways than spooning it out of a sugar bowl. It is a form of sugar that the green leaves of plants produce, using the power of sunlight, water and the carbon dioxide from the air. Plant sugars feed the plants and they also feed us when we eat plants, which shows why fruits and vegetables are so important in our diet. Much of the sugar people consume is refined from sugar cane coming from Cuba, Hawaii, the U.S.A., Brazil and other countries. Another very important source is the sugar beet, the raising of which has increased in recent years. Sugar is contained in milk, and refined ox maple sugar and corn syrup. A healthful form of natural sugar, which does not need to go through a refining process, is that of honey stored up by the honey bee.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Fruits are delicious in taste and are highly recommended by experts on nutrition. They are a very fine source of sugar, be sure to include some in your diet. 11-9

Laryngitis Doesn't Keep Meg At Home

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fighting fatigue and laryngitis, Britain's Princess Margaret showed royal stamina by sticking right through to the end of a dazzling charity ball that broke up in the wee hours today.

One small incident marred the evening's gaiety, but only briefly.

Saying little and dancing not at all, the petite princess reigned smilingly from a dais over the World Adoption International Fund dinner-dance at the Hollywood Palladium.

Usually celebrity-satiated Hollywood stars twirled by, stealing glances or outright gawking in her direction.

The princess, in a diamond crown, a necklace with marble-sized diamonds and a cornflower-blue gown that matched her eyes, managed a few soft words with her dinner partner, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, at the head table.

Her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, chatted affably throughout the dinner with any and all about him, including comedian Bob Hope.

The princess appeared momentarily upset, witnesses said, by one incident, an unidentified man in a brown business suit, a drink in one hand, made his way to within 10 feet of where the princess sat at the head table when security officers stopped him.

The man, described by witnesses as "obnoxiously drunk," began shouting unintelligibly and officers hustled him out of the ballroom.

Moments later, as the princess made her way out to the royal couple's special retiring room, she saw the man being questioned, appeared confused for an instant, then returned instead to the ballroom.

Police did not arrest the man because, they said, the incident had occurred on private property. Palladium security guards also released him and he ran off down the street and disappeared in the crowd.

The princess appeared lovely but understandably subdued.

She had put in a long day. She didn't return to her suite at the Beverly Hills hotel until about 3 a.m., after an exclusive Hollywood party at a night club.

She intended, despite her laryngitis, to carry on today, visiting a British old folks' home, the California Institute of Technology and Jet Propulsion Laboratory in nearby Pasadena, attending a reception at the home of the British consul-general and then gracing yet another private Hollywood party tonight.

The course will begin Thursday morning and continue until noon Friday.

Amarillo Soldier Dies In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A soldier from Amarillo, Tex., was among 41 military personnel who lost their lives recently in Viet Nam, the Defense Department announced Monday.

Spec. 4 Jerry Basden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Basden in Amarillo, died from causes other than hostile action, officials said.

31 Rare Cranes Arrive In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty-one whooping cranes, including seven young birds, have completed fall migration to the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the Texas coast, the interior department reports.

The total wild population of the rare birds that wintered at the refuge last year was a record 42.

OFFICER CANDIDATES—Joe O. Davis, left, and Cecil D. Vineyard, both of Snyder, share a technical manual to prepare for an examination on the workings of car and truck engines. That is just one of dozens of subjects they will study during their year as students in the National Guard's Officer Candidate School in Dallas. The candidates attend two summer camps of two weeks each, plus monthly weekend drills at the 49th Armored Division's headquarters in Dallas. When they graduate, they will become second lieutenants. —U.S. Army Photo.

'Constant Dollar' New Barometer

By RICHARD L. GRAVES
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The "constant dollar" is the barometer economists scan these days for any signs of an inflation storm.

Potential inflation is about the only cloud in an otherwise sunny outlook for the U.S. economy in 1966. As the nation's economic expansion moves through its 56th month, some concern is developing whether the cloud will develop into something serious.

So far the economy has escaped serious inflation. It has not escaped the steady, but small, annual loss of purchasing power that has prevailed since World War II.

Inflation is an abnormal increase in the supply of money and credit leading directly to increased prices. As prices go up, of course, the purchasing power of each unit of money diminishes.

When does the economist know that purchasing power is eroding faster than the value of productivity is increasing?

That's the job of the constant dollar.

Despite its image, the constant dollar is not some kind of eternal currency. Rather, it is a measuring stick of purchasing power. The current measure is the purchasing power of a dollar in 1958. By measuring the purchasing power of the 1965 dollar against that of the 1958 dollar it is possible for the economist to determine how much of the expansion of the value of goods and services has been real and how much has been inflation.

For example, the nation's total expenditures for goods and services — the so-called Gross National Product — ran through September at an annual rate of $676.9 billion, the U.S. Commerce Department reported. That figure is in terms of 1965 dollars.

But by the constant dollar yardstick, the GNP through September was at an annual rate of $609.1 billion.

Put another way, that means it took nearly 68 cents in September to purchase what could be bought for 61 cents in 1958.

On its face that looks like an ominous loss of purchasing power. However, during the seven years since 1958, the increase in personal income, productivity and the value of goods and services has exceeded the loss, whether measured in constant dollars or percentage changes.

Field Work Slowed By Wet Weather

AUSTIN (AP) — Farmers in Northwest Texas are making harvest progress in good weather, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports, but rains last week slowed field work in the rest of the state.

Some Low Plains cotton could be affected by moisture. Cotton harvest, 45 per cent complete for the state, is progressing slowly in most areas as growers await a freeze.

Heavy dews cause some morning delays in the sorghum harvest, which is 91 per cent complete. Moisture held peanut digging to a minimum.

Wheat planting is almost completed. Showers increased prospects of the oat crop, which is 89 per cent complete.

Showers also slowed pecan harvests in many areas. The crop is 25 per cent gathered. Yields are good.

High Plains growers are busy harvesting carrots and lettuce. Cabbage harvest is increasing in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area with quality in most fields reported good. Cucumbers are moving in fair volume in the Laredo area.

Citrus harvest is increasing in the Lower Rio Grande Valley but shipments remain relatively light. Valley showers hindered cabbage, carrot and onion planting.

Rookies To Man Gemini 9 Flight

By RONALD THOMPSON

HOUSTON (AP) — Two spaceflight rookie, Elliott See Jr. and Charles Bassett II, have been chosen to man Gemini 9 next year. Bassett will propel himself on a stroll around the world.

Bassett will emerge from the spacecraft sometime during the two or three day mission wearing a new self-sustaining spacewalk pack weighing 200 pounds on earth but nothing in the void of space.

The primary purpose of the mission will be to give the United States more experience in rendezvous and docking, where their craft actually parks with another object in space.

The target: An Agena rocket. Bassett is due to walk over to the Agena once it is locked with Gemini 9 and put a plate on the side of the rocket.

This special plate will gather information on cosmic dust and radiation. An astronaut on one of the three remaining Geminii flights will leave his capsule and retrieve the plate later.

Gemini 9, which could take off as early as April if the current schedule holds, is one of five two-man missions designed to link up with the Agena. The technique is vital to U.S. efforts to put a man on the moon.

The crew was announced Monday by the Manned Spacecraft Center.

It was an Agena rocket that failed to attain orbit and apparently fell in pieces into the Atlantic Oct. 25, delaying the Gemini 6 flights of astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford.

Schirra and Stafford now will try to rendezvous to within inches of the Gemini 7 craft flown by astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell. This Dual flight is set for between Dec. 2 and 8.

Bassett, born in Dayton, Ohio, was a test pilot prior to becoming an astronaut in October of 1963. He is an electrical engineering graduate of Texas Tech.

See is a native of Dallas. He was formerly a test pilot.

Snyderites Among 126 In Texas Nat'l Guard's OCS

DALLAS — It was the kind of day that makes most people want to be outside — a warm, pleasant Sunday afternoon in the autumn.

Throughout Dallas, young men could be seen washing cars, playing golf, and giving the front yard its finial trimming of the year.

At the National Guard armory of the 49th Armored Division, 40 members of the Officer Candidate School class were preparing for an outing. They knew it would be no picnic, and they were far too busy to notice what a pretty day it was.

"Man, we've been dreading this for weeks!" volunteered one crew - cut officer candidate.

In complete agreement were two from Snyder — Joe O. Davis and Cecil D. Vineyard. Both are candidates whose class is about halfway through its 12-month program.

"Fall in!" barked the company commander. Actually he was just one of the students, but he got instant response. Candidates take turns at command positions, and every man in the company knew he might be the next CO or first sergeant or a platoon leader — with no advance warning.

"Right face. Double time march!" ordered the commanding officer, who, like most of the men he bossed, was in his early 20s.

The would - be lieutenants double - timed nearly everywhere they go. They have a lot to learn and a lot to do in a limited time.

This particular day the class was hurrying to an area of the Trinity River bottoms they already had dubbed "Little Viet Nam." Although they were not sure exactly what awaited them, they knew it would be tough and demanding.

They were not to be disappointed, because four diabolical second lieutenants — the company's tactical officers, or "tacs" — had laid out a course designed to require physical exertion.

Lt. Ron Coleman, one of the "tacs" (and, like his cohorts, an OCS graduate himself), outlined the course for the candidates. "You will start by climbing that railroad embankment, crossing the tracks and scrambling down the far side. Keep an eye out for the barbed wire at the bottom," he began.

"After you have done that a couple of times, form up by platoons behind the two jeeps." Lt. Coleman, who in civilian life is with Dun & Bradstreet, told his proteges.

The men panted for breath after their climb, but the worst was yet to come. A third officer took the wheel of the first jeep and took off through the trackless river bottoms as sweating candidates galloped behind. Then the other platoon followed.

to the armory. Refusing to admit they were pooped, they roared approval when a "tac" challenged, "How about a football game?"

The men quickly shed perspiration - drenched fatigue jackets found a ball, and agreed on provisional rules for the 20-man teams. Players included the four "tacs," determined to demonstrate they can always take anything they can dish out.

The scrimmage, although tiring, provided welcome recreation for the officer candidates as they neared the end of a grueling weekend drill.

The men were stirring long before dawn Sunday — at 4:45 a.m. After a reveille formation at 5:10, and 15 minutes of calisthenics, they had chow.

No one was caught napping during the chapel service conducted by Chaplain (Major) R. L. Herring, who introduced his brief sermon with a biblical story about a military reconnaissance patrol.

After chapel, the Guardsmen plunged into the book work which forms the backbone of their year - long quest for a lieutenant's gold bars.

Most of the day's instruction focused on organization of Army units with emphasis on the smallest ones, platoons and companies. Capt. Bob Walsh, instructor, told his students that application to their studies will pay benefits when they return to their units as platoon leaders.

The candidates' weekend of soldering had begun Saturday morning when they met in Dallas from points as distant as Lubbock and Abilene.

A class on Army vehicles later that day was held in the motor pool where instructors lectured on each kind of truck and trailer. Chief Warrant Officer Paul Applewhite gestured at a 2½ ton truck and said, "These trucks are 12 years old. So remember that although the book says you will get 7 miles per gallon, you'd better figure on 5."

That brand of practical knowledge is emphasized throughout the OCS program, which is now the National Guard's biggest source of new lieutenants. The number of graduates fluctuates from year to year, according to Lt. Col. Botho R. Schenck of Austin, commandant of the OCS.

"This year we started with 126 candidates and hope to commission 105," said the colonel on a visit to the Dallas school. He said that entrance standards are tough, and some candidates drop out during the initial two-week summer camp. He calls that the "rock 'em, sock em" phase.

There candidates are constantly harassed by tactical officers who shout and growl at the slightest infraction to make the men prove they can take it when the going gets rough.

Tacs take a back seat to instructors during the year of monthly weekend assemblies, but they're back at the second summer camp. At the end of that, graduates receive their gold bars and commissions.

OCS products are fine officers, Col. Schenck emphasized. "The only problem," he concluded, "is that we always need more than we graduate."

Slaying Said Work Of Two People

HOUSTON (AP) — Chief Deputy Sheriff Loyd Frazier said Monday night he believes at least two persons were involved in the slaying of Mrs. Jacqueline Young.

The body of the 25-year-old secretary was found in the back seat of her car Saturday in a pasture near La Porte. An autopsy showed she had been beaten and strangled but not raped.

"I don't think there is any sex offense involved in this case and I don't think there is any robbery motive," Frazier said. "I think Mrs. Young was killed by someone whom she knew."

A lover of Western music and a fan of singer George Jones, Mrs. Young went to a night club Friday to hear Jones.

During an intermission she went to Jones' camper with him, another man and two women, authorites said. She reportedly became ill and was put in one of the bunks.

When and under what circumstances she left the camper are questions to which officers still seek the answers, Frazier said.

He expressed a belief Mrs. Young was killed somewhere outside the pasture and the body was taken there by two persons.

"Someone rammed the locked gate open with the front end of her car," Frazier said. "This was an act of desperation, like someone wanted to get rid of a body."
