Livestock Shows Move Into Spotlight

Three Way Show Slated January 11

Now that the Christmas and New Year holidays are behind us, it's time for the annual livestock shows to start. As usual, the Three Way Junior Livestock Show will be kicking off the local and area stock shows.

Three Way Livestock, Food and Craft Show members met December 30 and set the date of January 11 as the day of the annual show. Attending the meeting and scheduling the rules, as well as the date and time, were Jack Reeves, president; Kay Kindle, vice president; along with Kermit Williams, vo-ag instructor; Judy Williams, Butch Tucker, JoAnn Tucker, John Tucker and James Kindle.

On Saturday, January 11; food and craft entries will be entered from 8-8:30 a.m.; Livestock entries will be accepted 8-10 a.m.; At 11 a.m., the pet show will be open to anyone wishing to enter a pet.

From 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., a mix-heat barbecue plate will be served by the Three Way FHA and FFA at a cost of $5 per plate; and at 1 p.m., the steer show will kick off the annual livestock exhibit. This will be followed by the lamb show, and wind up with the hog show.

Livestock entry fee is $1 per head and is open to anyone enrolled in the Three Way School, grades kindergarten through 12.

Expected entries include 28 lambs, 16 hogs and several head of cattle. Ribbons, buckles and prize money will be awarded to the winners. The show will be held in the Three Way Vo-Ag building. Ribbons will be MULESHOE'S NEWEST RESTAURANT--Sage's, Muleshoe's newest restaurant, opened just before Christmas, and adds a new touch to the existing restaurants in the city. Sage's specializes in barbecue, home-smoked brisket, sausage and ribs, and is the first barbecue restaurant in Muleshoe since Eddie Beene was forced to close Eddie's due to physical problems. Sage's also has a restaurant, with the same name in Clovis.

Annual Irrigation, Agriculture Meet Scheduled Next Monday

"Managing For Survival in 1986" is the theme of the sixth annual Irrigation and Agricultural Conference scheduled to be held in the Bailey County Civic Center. The conference is scheduled Monday, January 13.

It will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m., with the program getting underway at 9 a.m., and ending around 2:15 p.m.

Each year, the conference has been co-sponsored by Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association.

The meeting is open to all of the area farmers, Ag businessmen, financial representatives, power suppliers, and other interested persons.

Lewis Wayne Shafer, director of the Blackwater Valley SWCD and Director, Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association, will give the welcome and explain the purpose of the meeting at 9 a.m., followed at 9:05 a.m. by Danny Noble, ASCS county executive director, who will discuss the new farm bill recently passed.

He will be followed at 9:30 a.m. by Henry Taylor, FmHA county supervisor, who will discuss the Agriculture Conservation Program (ACP) and Farm Program.

Dr. Pat Morrison, entomologist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service will talk about Mite Control in Feed Grains at 9:40 a.m., followed by a coffee break.

After the coffee break, Dr. Robert Barry, plant pathologist with the TAES will discuss Wheat Leaf Rust and Dr. James Supak, cotton specialist will talk about Cottonseed Quality.

A New Twist In An Old Story For Farmers

The latest wrinkles in an old concern of area farmers and ranchers will be examined here Jan. 9 during the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference.

Farmers, ranchers, scientists and educators will share their experience and reserarch on an issue which has been of vital importance to area producers for several decades: effective and efficient use of water.

The conference, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will be held at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd., West. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m.

The conference is focused upon needs expressed by producers, said Leon New, Extension agricultural engineer and irrigation specilist. He is conference coordinator.

"One of the high points of this conference every year is the panel discussion by a group of producers" New said. "They tell what they've been doing in irrigation, what has worked and what hasn't, and problems and needs they've found."

This year's panelists will be Wes Spurlock of Stratford, Lyndon Wagner of Bushland, and Dale Coleman and Harold Grall of Dumas.

Paul Gross, Panhandle District Extension director, will report on field tests that help producers make sound irrigation decisions. Dr. Steve Amosson, Extension economist and management specialist, will present economic evaluations of furrow and center pivot systems.

Don Hary, owner of Don Hardy Race Cars, Floydada, will discuss the benefits of high engine efficiency in irrigation systems. Walter Hughes, branch manager of Tide Products, Friona, will discuss the potentials for chemigation, the application of chemicals through the irrigation system.

State Rep. J.W. "Buck" Buchanan, Dumas, will outline options available under the state's new water plan. New will discuss the worthiness of soil moisture sensors.

There will be exhibits of chemigation injection equipment, surge valves, low energy precision application (LEPA) irrigation components, drip irrigation equipment and soil moisture sensing equipment.

Additional information is available at county Exension offices in the Panhandle District.

Sweetheart Festival Set February 1

Once known as the 'Harvest Festival' and held in November of each year, the annual event has been changed. The Muleshoe Fine Arts Boosters will now be celebrating a 'Sweetheart Festival' on February 1.

It was explained by Melba Irvin, publicity chairman for the Fine Arts Boosters, that by holding this popular event in February, it is hoped that students and other interested persons will have more time to participate.

Each fine arts department, (band, speech and art) will compete as they have in the past. A sweetheart candidate will be chosen by each department and the winner will be announced at the festival.

All community groups, civic organizations, and individuals, are encouraged to become involved by entering a booth in the festival, and feature either games, food, entertainment, or other activity. "Our goal is to make this the biggest event ever and to fill the Civic Center", said Mrs. Irvin. "The evening of family fun and good food will give local families the opportunity to come together for a good cause.

"Proceeds earned by the Boosters at this event are used to support the activities of the band, art and speech departments of both the junior high and high school," she continued.

"All three departments have limited budgets and the boosters assist with transportation/food/lodging costs of UIL competition, supplies for the classroom, yearly maintenance for a copy machine purchased some time ago by the boosters, for uniforms, clothing bags --- and the list goes on."

Rental fee for booth space will be $25 and each organization has the opportunity to raise funds for their own cause, she continued. For booth rental information, contact Sherry Barrett, 946-3647 or Paula McMeans, 272-5421.

Cattle Grazing During Winter Can 'Pay Off'

"Grazing management" for winter pastures can be as simple as opening a gate, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Since cold weather will limit growth of winter pastures, they must be used efficiently, emphasizes Tanksley. This means some type of grazing management to stretch pastures for more animals.

Which system is used dictates the degree of management required.

A simple rotation grazing system with two or more pastures is easy to implement, explains Tanksley. All animals are put on one pasture while the other pastures grow more forage. When the first pasture has been fairly well grazed, the herd is moved to a second pasture for grazing, and so on. With total rest, grazed pastures should produce some regrowth for later grazing.

For a more intensive grazing management system, a type of limited grazing may be a good choice, suggests Tanksley. Dry cows can be grazed for two to four hours every other day on winter pastures. Some other forage like hay would be necessary while animals are off pasture. In effect, winter pasture would be the protein supplement for these animals.

Cows with calves, steers or growing heifers should be allowed to graze high quality

More Animals, Bigger Show Is Expected

It's almost time for the annual Bailey County Junior Livestock Show scheduled for January 16-18 in the Bailey County Coliseum and Civic Center.

Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley said animals will be checked into the coliseum on Thursday, January 16, 4-8 p.m. with the set-up for the building on the previous day.

All volunteers who can help set up the arena with the show ring and pens are asked to be at the Coliseum at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, January 15.

Superintendents for this year's show include Dr. Jerry Gleason, steers; Dan Throckmorton, sheep and Jack Dunham, hogs.

When the judging gets underway at 3 p.m. on Friday, January 17, it will be with the sheep going through the show ring first. At the end of the sheep show, and following a 30-minute break, the cattle show will be held.

Judging the sheep and beef cattle will be Melvin Chisum, a former vo-ag teacher for the Earth-Springlake Schools, who is now employed at the Citizens State Bank of Earth.

At 9 a.m. on Saturday, January 18, the hog judging will be getting underway, with Ronald Mayfield, a Lazbuddie native, and now ag teacher at Lamesa, as the judge.

Board members for the Bailey County Junior Livestock Show are currently soliciting donations and the community is asked to support the show by making a donation. Donations may be made to Herman Morrison at Morrison Oil Co. He is secretary of the Bailey County Junior Livestock Show board.

Tanksley commented, "We would like for the general public to know that every exhibitor receives prize money based on his achievement or placing during the show.

"It looks like one of the largest shows for this county in a long time," he continued. "Entered are 156 head of hogs, up by more than 50 from the entries in 1984. Also, 125 lambs will be shown, an increase of some 25 over last year. The 47 head of beef cattle will be about the same as last year. Overall, we are expecting a larger show, and with the new show times, we feel that more people can attend during the time they will not be at work, and can relax and enjoy the show."

Again this year, the 4-H and FFA youth will jointly operate the concession stand. On Friday night, they will be serving a barbecue meal to the visitors at the stock show.

Tanksley concluded by reminding that the Bailey County Coliseum and Civic Center will be warm, and visitors will be out of the climate to enjoy the show. Everything will be ready, according to the Extension agent.

Chamber Annual Banquet Tickets Now On Sale

Tickets have gone on sale at this time for the 36th Annual Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Community Banquet. Tickets can be obtained at the CofC office in the Muleshoe City Hall at $10 in advance for adults and $7.50 for students.

Toni Eagle, manager of the CofC, said the banquet will officially begin the Sesquicentennial Year in Muleshoe. The banquet is scheduled for Saturday, January 11, at 7 p.m. at the Bailey County Civic Center.

According to Mrs. Eagle, "This year's banquet is being designed as a true community banquet, with different groups, clubs, businesses and individuals helping in every aspect of the event."

Several awards will be presented such as 'Man and Woman of the Year,' 'Farm Family of the Year,' 'Conservation Farmer of the Year,' 'Employee of the Year,' as well as other awards.

Mrs. Eagle also said the winning slogan for Muleshoe will be announced the night of the banquet and promotional items will be handed out.

Bowl Game Contest Won By McDonald

Donnie McDonald of the Lazbuddie community, made it a 'grand slam' during the past several days, as he was the final winner in football contests for 1985-86.

Earlier, McDonald sneaked ahead of other contestants to win the annual Merchant's Football Contest, and the accompanying $100 check. This week, he made it unanimous by winning the annual Bowl Game Contest as well.

McDonald was the only contestant to miss only four games. Each other contestant made wrong guesses on from five to nine games, and only one prize was awarded. Thus, the longtime contestant won the $50 Bowl Game Contest, and the check that went along with it.

This contest ends all football contests for The Journal for the year, so be ready to start again in the fall.

The Journal and participating merchants wish to thank everyone who entered the contests again this year.

SUBSCRIPTION CHECK PRESENTED--As the three top 'salesmen' for the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals received checks for subscription sales by the Muleshoe High School DECA and HERO organizations, the checks were presented recently. Shown receiving the second place check of $25 is Twila Downing. Making the presentation is Cleta Williams.

CHOKING: WHAT TO DO IN AN EMERGENCY

Last night at dinner, my husband choked on a piece of meat. He coughed it up and was okay, but I would like to know what to do if that should happen again.

Choking, the sixth leading cause of accidental death in this country, occurs when food or some other foreign objects block the windpipe or air passages to the lungs. Large, poorly chewed pieces of food can cause choking. In adults, the food is usually meat; in children, it may be food or any object small enough to fit in their mouths.

If you see someone choking, ask the person to try to speak. Any sound, even strangled choking noises or hoarse coughing, means the airway is only partially blocked. In this case, don't interfere. Coughing is the body's natural defense against choking, and it may clear away whatever is blocking the windpipe.

However, if you see any evidence of difficulty in breathing and the person is unable to make any sounds, the airway is totally blocked and no oxygen is reaching the lungs.

In this case, you must act immediately. Every second counts. A person cannot live without oxygen for more than four to six minutes. If time allows, call your fire department rescue squad, but don't stand around waiting for them to come. If you have been unable to dislodge the object from the person's throat by the time the fire department arrives, its trained personnel can take over.

Meanwhile, you can help. Several firm blows to the back of a choking person is often effective in clearing an obstructed airway. If this does not work, the next step should be the Heimlich maneuver. Developed by Dr. Henry Heimlich, this maneuver is recognized by many in the health-care field today as an effective way to assist a choking person.

Stand behind the person and use both hands to press closed fists into the abdomen slightly below the lower end of the breast bone, thumb side against the abdomen. An inward and upward thrust forces a flow of air from the lungs, which in turn expels the object from the airway. You may find it necessary to repeat the Heimlich maneuver several times before you are successful.

If the person is seated, kneel behind his chair and reach around the back of the chair to perform the maneuver. If the person has fallen unconscious to the floor, place him on his back, face upward and then kneel astride his thighs, facing him. Place one hand on top of the other with the heel of your bottom hand slightly above the navel and below the rib cage. Press inward and upward on the abdomen with a quick thrust as many times as is necessary to dislodge the object.

This latter method should be used if you cannot reach around the victim's waist.

If you are alone and you are choking, you can place a fist on your abdomen, grasp it with the other hand and press into your abdomen with a series of thrusts until you have expelled the object.

The Heimlich maneuver should never be practiced on a non-choking person because of the potential for damage to the ribs and underlying organs. There are several simple ways to reduce your risks of choking. Cut your food into small pieces and chew slowly and thoroughly. Avoid laughing and talking while chewing and swallowing foods. This is especially important to teach children who tend to be active at the dinner table. Avoid excessive intake of alcohol before and during meals. Don't let children run and play with food, candy or other small objects in their mouths. And keep small objects out of reach of small children and infants.

This "Matter of Health" was prepared in cooperation with the physicians and staff of the West Plains Medical Center.

AARP Continues Fight To Protect SS Trust Fund

As a follow-up to a law suit filed in October that calls on the Treasury Department to make legally required transfers of employment taxes to the Social Security Trust Funds, the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) has filed an amended complaint that seeks to block any future use of the Trust Funds or employment taxes as a source of general revenue.

"Although the debt ceiling extension approved by Congress restores lost investments of the Social Security Trust Funds, we are seeking judicial action to ensure that these reserves are used only for the purpose of paying Social Security benefits and covering the administrative costs of the Social Security program," said AARP Executive directory Cyril F. Brickfield.

"We have also requested that the Treasury Department produce its internal documentation on precisely how they went about -- and how often they went about -- disinvesting the Trust Funds," Brickfield said. He noted that the temporary debt ceiling failed to reimburse the Trust Funds for lost interest caused by a 1984 disinvestment of Social Security reserves and may be inadequate in making whole the lost interest due to Treasury's more recent disinvestment.

The original AARP suit, filed October 31, 1985 in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, charged that Treasury Secretary James Baker had apparently over-disinvested approximately $27 billion of Social Security Trust Fund securities to keep the federal government operating within the federal debt ceiling limit. As a result of this action, the Trust Funds are expected to lose $1 billion - $2 billion in lost interest over the next five years. The suit also alleged that Secretary Baker was violating provisions of the Social Security Act, which requires a transfer each month to the Trust Funds of the Estimated employment taxes collected by the Internal Revenue Service.

"What we have seen," Brickfield continued, "shakes the public's confidence in the concept of the Social Security Trust Funds being separate and inviolable. The notion of the Trust Funds is that certain revenues are earmarked for the specific purpose of paying benefits. In our amended complaint, filed November 26, 1985, we are asking that, in the event of failure to transfer estimated Social Security payroll taxes on the first of each month, these funds be set aside as they come in for their eventual transfer to the Trust Funds."

"The original purpose of our suit against Secretary Baker was to enjoin the federal government from using the Social Security reserves for any purpose other than to pay benefits. With 37 million people depending on Social Security checks each month, our action seeks to prevent any artifical attempt to extend the debt ceiling from threatening the future payments of benefits," he said.

This amended complaint also increased the number of plaintiffs in the suit to include over one dozen U.S. Representatives, two U.S. Senators and two former Commissioners of the Social Security Administration. The complaint also increases the number of defendants to include all the trustees of the Social Security Trust Funds.

Q. Back when we were divorced, my ex-husband agreed to pay $400 a month child support, but he started skipping payments, and now he is way behind. Can anybody help me get him to start paying? I can't afford a big lawsuit.

A. Under a new law, when the support-paying parent is more than 30 days behind, you can take the case back to Court and ask the Judge to order "involuntary wage assignment." That is, the Court will issue an order to your ex-husband's employer, directing child support be taken out of the salary and paid to you. The support will be taken out right after withholding and social security, and a few other allowed deductions, such as some retirement and insurance.

Q. My father was a veteran of World War I. He died in a veteran's hospital in 1952. We know that his medical history and the ultimate cause of death affects his children and grandchildren, but we need more details. How do I get copies of his medical records?

A. Write the specific hospital where he was cared for, setting out the exact dates of the stay, and of course his name, serial number, and date of death. Also explain for what reason you need the records.

Tell the Records Librarian whether or not you will need the copies certified. You will probably hear back from the hospital that there will be a fee for copying, and you will have to pay in advance.

Q. I have heard that back child support will somehow be taken out of income tax refunds. Is that true?

A. Yes. The new IRS INTERCEPT program is scheduled to begin in 1986. Under it, the federal government will now cooperate to send some or all of an income tax refund to the parent entitled to support, if the paying parent has fallen behind.

In Texas the Attorney General's child support enforcement offices will be coordinating this intercept. There are 25 offices throughout Texas, enforcing child support for all citizens, not just those on welfare.

The statewide telephone number is 1-800-252-3515.

Q. I'm mixed up about all the changes in child support laws. I remember when Texas amended the Constitution to allow wages to be garnished for back child support, but there seem to be some new laws since then.

A. The federal government required the states to implement a strong enforcement program, and in response, the 1985 legislature passed laws that went into effect in September of that year.

All divorces after that date must include an Order to the employer to pay support directly to the custodial parent. In addition, employers and payors must notify the Court when the job is terminated, and where the next job is. In addition, all paying parents who have fallen behind in their obligations can be taken back to Court, and a new Order sent to the employer, requiring direct wage assignment.

Texas A&M educates more math, science teachers than other state schools

COLLEGE STATION — More math and science teachers are produced by Texas A&M University's College of Education than any other university in Texas and perhaps in the nation, according to figures provided by college officials.

"There's no doubt that we produce more math and science teachers than any of the 63 institutions in the state that prepare students to be teachers," said Dr. William Peters, professor and head of the college's Educational Curriculum and Instruction Department. "As far as we know, we produce more than any other school in the nation."

Currently, 205 students are seeking certification in secondary mathematics education, up from 52 three years ago. A total of 338 students are seeking certification in secondary science education, up from 100 in 1982, making the university the top producer of new teachers in these fields, Peters said.

The college's math/science teaching scholar loan program and a cooperative effort with the College of Science are cited among reasons for Texas A&M's success in attracting and training math and science students.

THE PROFIT MAKERS

Advance Knowledge Of Local Markets Vital To Retailing

Successful merchants use advance information to increase sales through newspaper advertising. Such market study results as follows provide leads for conducting business:

—79.4% of Texas consumers own their own homes—(Good prospects for advertising of furniture, house repair items, lawn care and a variety of services, etc.)

—44.8% of household residents are 18 years or younger—(Good prospects to advertise youth items, clothing, outdoor and sports goods, etc.)

—40.9% households earn $10,000 to $30,000 annually—(Allows merchants to determine products and prices in newspaper ads.)

—72.9% shop out-of-town at least several times a year, spending tens of millions of locally earned dollars in non-local markets—(Such information reveals to local merchants a principal reason to compete more actively for local business.)

(Advance knowledge is the name of the game in doing business today, and in the future. Another prerequisite for business success is appropriate use of the local newspaper.)

Bridal Shower Fetes Mrs. Gary Barrett

Mrs. Gary Barrett (nee Angie Jesko) was feted with a wedding shower Wednesday, Dec. 4 from 3 until 4:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Darrell Mason.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Lee Denis Jesko, mother of the bride.

Mrs. Elvis Powell and Mrs. Max Steinbock served pound cake with cranberry salad, hot cider and coffee from silver and crystal appointments.

The serving table was covered with a white tablecloth, with white lace border, and a red skirt accented by an arrangement of red poinsettias in a silver bowl and silver candle sticks. The honoree's corsage consisted of red carnations with red Christmas balls and white lace.

Special guests included: Mrs. James B. Collier of Amarillo, grandmother; aunts, Mrs. Larry Jesko, Mrs. Wayne Jesko and Mrs. Tim Smith of Lazbuddie and Mrs. Don Glenn of Amarillo; and a cousin, Mrs. Darrell Glenn of Amarillo.

Hostesses for the occasion included: Mrs. Don McDonald, Mrs. Eugene Schacher, Mrs. Gene Smith, Mrs. Phil Brockman, Mrs. Wayne Moore, Mrs. Max Steinbock, Mrs. Jerry Engelking, Mrs. Robert Gallman, Mrs. Darrell Mason, Mrs. Claud Gregory, Mrs. Glen Lust, Mrs. Jimmy Dale Seaton, Mrs. Gene Brito, Mrs. Leon Schilling, Mrs. Ben Mesman, Mrs. Clyde Blalock, Helen Mayursk and Mrs. Elvis Powell.

Check Out Smoke Detector For New Year

A New Year's resolution to check your home smoke detector each month could help keep your family safe throughout the year, says housing specialist Dr. Peggy Owens.

Smoke detectors are an inexpensive and reliable way to protect your family and home from fire. But without proper maintenance, you can't rely on a smoke detector to do its job, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

To test the detector, hold a lit candle six inches under the unit, she says. Let the flame burn if you have a ionization detector. If you have a photo-electric unit, extinguish the candle and let visible smoke drift into the detector.

Most photo-electric models have a test button that simulates smoke in the detector which can be used in place of the candle test.

In either case, the unit's alarm should begin to sound within 20 seconds, says the specialist.

If the unit does not work, it is most likely due to dead batteries. Owens recommends replacing the detector's batteries at least once a year, even if the warning device for weak batteries has not sounded.

With a photo-electric detector, the specialist also recommends keeping replacement lamps on hand so there is no delay in restoring the smoke detector to full function.

Restoring Holiday Linens

The candles that make a beautiful centerpiece for your holiday dinners can also ruin your table cloth, if you don't know how to remove wax stains.

"Simply washing and drying linens may permanently set any stains", says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Becky Saunders. "But taking a few simple steps before washing can make linens look like new again."

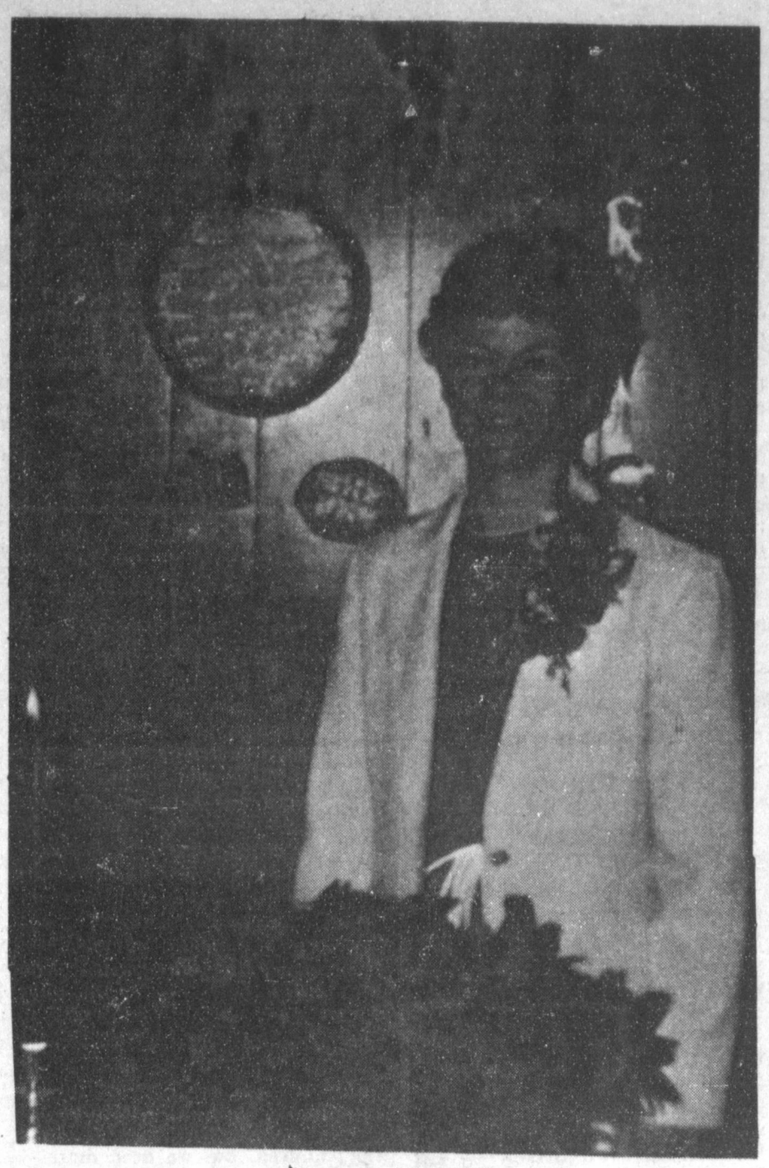

She recommends letting the wax harden by putting the linen in the freezer or rubbing the wax with an ice cube. Then crumble the fabric and the wax should flake away.

If that doesn't work, scrape the wax from the fabric with a table knife, place the stained area between paper towels and press with a warm iron. The softened wax should transfer to the towels.

After ironing, put the fabric face down on a paper towel and sponge any remaining stain with a dry cleaning solvent or pre-wash spray. When the fabric is dry, launder as usual.

If the wax from colored candles leaves a dye stain, it can be removed by adding oxygen bleach to the wash cycle. When the stain in on a colored table cloth, make sure that the oxygen bleach is a brand that is safe for colored fabrics, says the home economist.

Check the wash cycle after a few minutes of agitation. If the stain remains, allow the fabric to soak for about 30 minutes before continuing the wash. For persistent stains on fabrics that can be bleached, use a chlorine bleach.

West Texas Karate Has Promotion Tests

Friday, Dec. 20, Danny Kelley, Instructor, held promotion tests at "Muleshoe Fitness Center". In order to test and pass to yellow belt rank students must perform all basic kicks and punches, one-step sparring, and two pre-arranged forms which are called Palgue II Jang and Plague Yi Jung.

Those students testing and passing to yellow belt rank were Danny May, Jamie Williams, Larry Parker, Shawn Rejino, Michael Precure, Charles Walker and Mario Hendricks, all of Muleshoe. Also testing for yellow belt were Stacy Wren, Rick Fulfer and Greg Sawyer from Littlefield. And testing from Amherst was Chris Bishop and Brandon Pointer.

Also testing and passing on to green belt rank was Steve Garcia. Testing for green belt promotion consists of four forms (or prearranged movements) more complicated combination kicks and punches, twelve one-step sparring techniques and free fighting.

Testing and passing on to the rank of purple belt was Erin Kelley. She had to know and perform eight forms, sixteen one-step sparring techniques, advanced kicking and punching combinations, free fighting and board breaking techniques.

West Texas Karate is associated with "Muleshoe Fitness Center" owned and operated by Danny and Ricki Kelley. The Fitness Center Offers Korean Karate, Tumbling for all ages, and men and women's exercise programs.

Those eligible karate students and instructor, Danny Kelley will be travelling to Odessa Jan. 18 to compete in the Odessa Invitational Karate tournament. The tournament will be at the Holiday Inn Convention Center in Odessa.

A tumbling meet is scheduled for Jan. 25 at Mary DeShazo Gymnasium for all members of the tumbling program at Muleshoe Fitness Center. The meet director is Ricki Kelley.

TOPS CLUB

Muleshoe TOPS Club chapter No. 34 met Thursday, Dec. 19 in the meeting room of Bailey County Electric. Clara Lou Jones, leader, called the meeting to order. The TOPS pledge was recited and the fellowship song sung.

Jewel Peeler, weight recorder, called the roll with 11 members present. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Evelene Harris, secretary, and they were approved as read.

Best loser for the week was Inez McWilliams and Jewel Peeler was runner up.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the goodnight song.

Library News

by Anne Camp

"Read -A-Texas - Book -A-Month," a special Sesquicentennial program at the Texas State Library, offers every Texan an opportunity to join in the excitement of commemorating the state's 150th anniversar of independence.

Each individual, both young and old, can celebrate with a personal observance by reading from a wide variety of Texana books available in public and school libraries. Readers can set their own goals and challenges for achieving one-book-a-month. Choices include fiction, folklore, biography, history, and poetry by and about Texans or participants may spotlight a certain facet such as wildflowers, rivers, battles, shrines and heroes. There have been more books written about Texas than any other state in the Union.

In addition, readers are encouraged to share with others by donating a Texas book to their local libraries to enrich materials available for future generations.

"Read -A- Texas- Book -A-Month" was launched Nov. 1 in Austin in conjunction with the opening of the State Library's Sesquicentennial exhibit, "Texas Books and Writers: 150 Years."

This is the first in a series of seven special commemorative exhibits which will be on display at the Lorenzo deZalvala State Archives and Library Building during 1986. Priceless manuscripts, original documents, books, photographs, and other historical treasures from the Archives will showcase early Lone Star development and heritage.

Keep Attic Vents Open This Winter

Wrapping the attic vents on your roof with plastic because you think it will reduce energy costs, will actually increase them and may damage your insulation, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist.

"Attic ventilation performs the vital functions of air flow and moisture removal," says Dr. Susan Quiring.

The air removal feature is most important in the summer, when ventialtion through the vents reduces the hot air in the attic space, she says.

During the winter, moisture produced inside the house tends to migrate to the outside. Part of this moisture passes through the roof into the attic area.

"By placing plastic over roof vents, the homeowner is shutting off ventilation so that the condensation of moisture can occur in the attic space," Quiring explains.

Once this moisture has condensed in the attic, it will settle in the insulation, reducing its effectiveness and adding to your energy bills, says the specialist.

Over several heating seasons, moisture trapped in the attic may also cause structural damage, she warns.

When there is no moisture-vapor proof barrier between the attic insulation and the ceiling, as is the case in many Texas homes, wet insulation can cause sagging or wet spots on the ceiling, says the specialist.

Moisture held against wood in the attic may also eventually cause it to rot, she adds.

If you are concerned about losing heat through the attic, Quiring suggests that you check to see if the pull-down stairway or other attic access inside your house is insulated.

Quiring points out that adding an insulation batt over this area will help reduce energy costs without damaging the rest of the attic insulation.

Rebekah Lodge

Muleshoe Rebekah Lodge met Tuesday night, Dec. 31 with Ruby Green, Noble Grand, in charge of the meeting. The opening prayer was given by Mildred Kendricks and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Fern Davis, and they were approved as read.

It was reported that Dodie Actkinson is out of the hospital and is home and is able to have visitors.

New officers will be installed on Jan. 7th. Wilma Wise, District Deputy President, from Friona will install the officers. "A salad supper will be served and everyone is urged to be present" said Adell Tompkins.

Patsy Chance presented the American Flag and Ruby Green read an article as a tribute to the flag.

Happy birthday was sung to Sandie Robinson and refreshments were served to 17 members by Mildred Kendricks, Mary Parish and Ona Berry.

Creative Living

with Sheryl Borden

Information on a new product from Swift & Co., buying sergers, and kitchen appliance considerations for the 80's will be featured on "Creative Living" on January 7 and 11. Mary Jo Bergland is a home economist with Swift and Co. from Glen Ellyn, Illinois and she will demonstrate some of the uses for one of their newer products--brown and serve rolled sausage. It's pre-cooked, can be prepared in the microwave oven and comes in three different flavors.

Joy Best, Extension Home Economist in Roosevelt County, Portales, will discuss what to look for if you're interested in buying a serger -- one of the hottest new items in the home sewing field. Later during the season, she will be back and demonstrate using a serger.

Finally, Ellen Cheever, a kitchen designer with the Maytag Co. from Sacramento, CA, will talk about new considerations when planning kitchen appliances and their locations.

On January 9, the topics will be Scotch whisky, diaper sets from Colorforms and making elegant chocolate desserts. Richard Grindal is a mystery writer from England, and spokesman for the London-based Scotch Whisky Association He will talk about the interesting history of scotch, discuss color, food serving suggestions and calorie content.

Colorforms has a line of diaper sets based on the same design concept of bright primary colors and basic geometric shapes as their original toy, which was introduced over thirty years ago. Diane Creston is Vice-President of Richard and Edwards Public Relations, Inc. and spokesperson for Colorforms and she will show some of the new diaper sets -- on some adorable little models.

Jo Ann Cooper, home economist with Hershey Foods Corp., from Hershey, PA. will demonstrate some elegant, mouth-watering chocolate desserts. All of the desserts are made with cocoa, a very versatile baking ingredient. She will prepare chocolate parfaits, pies, cakes, croissants and mousses. Several variations will also be offered for the recipes. Company coming? Serve a make-ahead chilled pie with velvety filling:

CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup Hershey's cocoa
⅓ cup milk
1 container (8 oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed
8 or 9-inch packaged graham cracker pie crust

Stir cream cheese, sugar and vanilla in medium mixing bowl until combined; set aside. Melt butter in small saucepan over low heat; blend in cocoa. Add milk, stir constantly until smooth and slightly thickened. Remove from heat; pour over mixture in bowl, blending well. Gradually fold in whipped topping until smooth; spoon into pie crust. Chill completely before serving, about 2 hours. Garnish with whipped topping, chopped nuts or maraschino cherries, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on KENW-TV, Channel 3 in Portales on Tuesday and Thursday at 12 noon and at 2:00 pm on Saturday. (All times are Mountain Standard). Viewers can request copies of printed material offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines. The number for New Mexico is 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112.

RECIPE

By Sarah Ann Sheridan

This is a good fall and winter salad which doesn't require lettuce. It is appropriate in these days of meat and salad diets.

4 medium cold boiled potatoes, sliced
3 or 4 medium tomatoes, peeled and sliced.
1 large green pepper, sliced
1 small onion, sliced thin
½ head raw cauliflower, separated into flowerets, then sliced thin
½ can small navy beans, rinsed and drained.

Marinate in the following dressing for 1 to 2 hours--stirring frequently.

4 T olive oil
12 T safflower oil
4 T red wine vinegar
salt and pepper to taste
¼ t oregano

You may wish to add more vinegar or salt to suit your taste.

Serves 3 to 4.

presented winners by Lykinda Tyson, 1985-86 FFA Sweetheart and Monica Locke, 1985-86 FFA Plowgirl. The food and craft show will be in the Three Way Cafetorium.

Student classifications for the food and craft show will be Kindergarten, first, second and third grades; fourth, fifth, sixth grades and seven through 12th grades. Entries will be 25 cents per entry.

Something new has been added to the food and craft division. There will also be an adult division, but ribbons, only will be awarded, and entries are 50 cents each.

It has been specified also, that any adult in the Three Way School district may enter the adult division of the food and craft show in one of the following divisions: foods, clothing/textiles and crafts. Each division is broken down into various classifications to meet the individual entries; such as cakes, cookies, meats, breads, etc. For further information on the new divisions, contact Judy Williams, home economics teacher at 927-5354 or 927-5315.

Kermit Williams has asked that anyone interested in donating prize money for the stock show, or to purchase ribbons for the food and craft show, please contact him at 927-5354 or 927-5532; Don Parker, superintendent, at 927-5531, Jack Reeves, Livestock, Food and Craft Show president, or any other board member.

winter pasture every day, for about two hours.

With such a system, weight gains will not be great but should occur, notes Tanksley. The important feature is that grazing days per acre can be increased by limited grazing.

According to Tanksley, livestock will become trained to the type of grazing management selected. Under rotation grazing, livestock will be more than willing to change pastures once the pasture they are on is grazed down.

Under any form of limited grazing, livestock become trained in about two weeks. After being herded off pasture regularly for several weeks, they become trained and start leaving on their own accord. Thus, actual work involved becomes minimal.

Between rotation grazing and several variations of limited grazing, some type of grazing management can be adapted to anyone's use, believes Tanksley. It may stretch winter pastures enough to last the season.

NEW GOLD COINS

Four new gold coins will go on sale October 1, 1986 with a face value of between $5 and $50 and containing between one-tenth and one troy ounce of gold. They are the first gold coins to go into general circulation in this country in 53 years.

Cattle Price Will Improve This Year

"Guarded optimism" might be the watchword for cattlemen as 1986 looms ahead.

Cattle numbers should continue at a low level in 1986 and that should help bring some strength back to market prices, says a Texas Agricultural Extension Service economist. However, cattlemen must deal with a number of factors that will have a direct bearing on market prices in the year ahead, a major one being the declining demand for beef.

Dr. Ernie Davis outlines five factors that he feels will have the most effect on cattle prices in 1986:

1. Poultry supplies and prices. Expansion of the poultry industry probably has had the greatest impact on beef demand. Davis expects per capita poultry consumption (75 pounds) to surpass per capita beef consumption for the first time in 1986. In addition to the growth of the poultry industry, broiler prices relative to beef prices have changed dramatically since the 1950s. In 1950 retail beef prices were only 15 cents per pound highter than retail poultry prices. Currently, beef prices are $1.50 to $2 per pound higher than poultry prices, and this has caused a lot of consumers to switch from beef to poultry. At the same time, beef production and marketing costs have far outpaced these same costs for the poultry industry.

2. Cheap grain. In 1985 cheap grain impacted the beef market more than any other factor. Feeders were expecting fed cattle prices to improve so they kept feeding them cheap grain. This produced carcasses that were too heavy and wasty and led to price discounts of up to $18 per hundredweight.

3. Overfinished cattle. If feeders continue to pump cheap grain into cattle in 1986 at levels that will produce overfinished carcasses, the same price discounts will continue.

4. The retail marketing margin. Retail marketing margins reached record levels in 1985 while retail beef prices remained relatively stable. These stable prices were actually a problem because they did not decline as prices to producers fell. Thus the retail marketing margin increased to $1.09 per retail pound.

5. Beef supplies. Although cattle numbers will be down in 1986, beef supplies could increase if cattle feeders continue to feed cattle to heavier weights. Also, if the liquidation phase of the cattle cycle continues, more and more cows and heifers will be moving to market.

So what does 1986 hold as far as cattle prices are concerned?

"Fed cattle prices for the fourth quarter of 1985 should average $61 to $64 per hundredweight. For the first quarter of 1986 fed cattle prices should average $2 to $3 higher. The second quarter should see fed cattle prices continuing to inch up. However, I do not expect fed cattle prices to reach the $70 level by mid-year despite cheap grain prices," says Davis.

As far as feeder prices are concerned, the economist forecasts 600 to 700-pound feeder steers to average $63 to $67 per hundredweight for the last quarter of 1985. During the first quarter of 1986 those prices should average $67 to $70, with the second quarter bringing about a $1 increase.

Weaner calves, or 400 to 500-pound steers, should average $75 to $78 per hundredweight during the last quarter of this year. Prices should improve to $77 to $80 during the first quarter of 1986 and to $80 to $84 during the second quarter.

"Although cattle prices might move even higher in 1986, I don't think this will happen due to the factors I have outlined," Davis says.

Wayne Wyatt, manager, High Plains Underground Water District will then discuss the impact of the Texas Water Legislation and immediately prior to the lunch break, Connie Gupton, manager of Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association will discuss Electric Rates and Load Management.

In the afternoon, after the lunch break, Scotty Savage, USDA, SCS, Clovis, N.M., will be talking about Irrigation Efficiencies, then Mickey Black, USDA, SCS, Lubbock, will talk about Potential Efficiency Savings.

Winding up the meeting will be Leon New, Agriculture Engineer, TAES; Bob Phipps, producer from Earth and Mike Hill, Valley Grain field representative, who will talk about Advantages of Surge and LEPA Irrigation.

Sponsors remind that lunch will be served free to those who attend this sixth annual Irrigation and Agricultural Conference.

State to Help Texas Cities Compete for New Industries

By Governor Mark White

AUSTIN—A new state initiative is underway to help Texas cities better compete for new business and industry with other states and foreign countries.

Texas Cities for Economic Leadership (TEXCEL) is a two-phase program that recognizes that every city and region is different. Each is growing in different directions, with different kinds of industries and opportunities for economic growth.

With technical assistance from the state, Texas cities can improve their position to bid on a new plant or business. The goal is not to make some Texas cities more competitive than others but to provide the best economic development training and information to every part of our state.

After reviewing similar programs in 18 other states, the staff of the Texas Economic Development Commission developed the TEXCEL program, and the Texas Municipal League and the Texas Industrial Development Council agreed to serve as co-sponsors.

Applications to participate in TEXCEL will be accepted through Jan. 31, 1986 at the Texas Economic Development Commission. The commission will select no more than 25 cities to begin the orientation program later next spring.

At a time when city budgets are tight, the TEXCEL program requires only the commitment of one official designated by each city to participate in a series of workshops. Participants will learn a broad range of economic development skills to help attract new industry, retain existing businesses, and create new local development opportunities. This phase of the program is expected to take 12 to 16 months to complete.

TEXCEL cities will then undergo an on-site evaluation by the Texas Economic Development Commission staff to determine how well a city is implementing its own unique economic development plan. Those that are successful will become members of an Association of TEXCEL Certified Cities serving as a network for cooperative ventures and the sharing of local economic development techniques and experiences.

Some Texas cities with strong economic development programs may want to apply for immediate certification—a process limited only by the time it takes to complete the on-site evaluation.

Interested persons can obtain applications and more information about the TEXCEL program at one of six workshops held in December in Houston, Longview, Brownsville, Austin, Lubbock and Arlington.

Whatever an industry might need to go into operation, to expand, or simply to remain competitive—whether it's skilled labor, utilities, land, transportation, schools, or tax advantages, Texas cities need to showcase the many assets they have to offer.

Their success means a vital Texas' economy and a new spirit of competition in the marketplace.

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres claims he has found some good news for farmers.

-0-

Dear editor:

Farmers haven't had much good news lately but there's one piece of news that removes a certain amount of concern as we face another year of overproduction.

A tobacco company has won that suit filed against it by survivors of a man who smoked two packs a day for 50 years.

What's that got to do with farmers?

Well, according to doctors who ought to know because many of them are overweight, overweightness is one of the major causes of heart attacks. And what causes overweightness? Food. Too much food. And who produces too much food? Farmers.

Had that tobacco company suit gone the other way, the courts would have been filled with suits by families who've lost hefty loved ones because there was too much food available. Farmers would have to take out liability insurance to protect them from people who over-eat.

The U.S. Surgeon General, who, from pictures of him I've seen on televison looks like a man who enjoys a second helping, would have had to require every sack of potatoes, for example, to carry the message: "Warning: The Surgeon General has determined that over-eating potatoes is hazardous to your health."

It'd be a little difficult to get a warning lable for example on a hog and make it stick, but trying would give a lot of people in Washington something to do.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Delilah Gonzalez Funeral Services Held In Morton

Services for Delilah Cynthia Gonzalez, 33, of Morton were held at 2 p.m. Saturday in St. Ann Catholic Church with Father Bob Ives, pastor, and Father Joseph Romero, of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish of Pagosa Springs, Colo., officiating.

Rosary was said at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Burial was in Morton Memorial Cemetery under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home of Morton. Ms. Gonzalez died at 5:35 a.m. Thursday in Cochran County Memorial Hospital.

She was born on July 26, 1952, in Colorado Springs, Colo. and was an electronics technician with Ampex Corp of Colorado Springs. She was a Catholic and a member of the Corpus Cristi Parish of Colorado Springs, Colo. and Devine Redeamer Parish.

Survivors include a son, Edmundo Martinez, of the home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Trejo of Morton; grandmother, Magdline Pomero of Colorado Springs, Colo.; three sisters, Patsy Vasquez of the home, Brenda Carrillo of Bledsoe, and Marleen Trejo of Morton; two brothers, Marvin Trejo of Morton and George Michael Trejo of Colorado Springs, Colo.

1985 Low Mike Cotton Prices Have Gone 'Up'

Prices paid High Plains cotton growers for low mikes strengthened just before Christmas, said Mack Bennett, Area Director for USDA's Marketing Services Office at Lubbock.

A shortage of current ginnings in the 26 and below micronaire category made 1984 crop loan equitites more valuable to cotton buyers. As a result, some equities in that category traded at two to three cents per pound more than during the previous week. Growers sold some other equities at $1 to $5 per bale, Bennett continued.

Meanwhile, new crop mixed lots of mostly grades 42 and 52, staples 31 and 32, mike 35-49 continued to bring growers about two cents per pound over 1985 loan rates. Offering prices for other qualities were near or below loan. Cotton classed as below grades (and not eligible for Commodity Credit loans) brought 24.50 to 32.25 cents per pound. Gins paid growers $55 to $80 per ton for cottonseed, mostly $55 to $65.

Many growers rejected current prices and turned to Commodity Credit for loan support as the year's end approached.

The USDA facility at Lubbock classed 79,000 samples during the week ended Thursday, December 26. This brought the season's total to 1,042,000 or about 90 percent of the expected season's total. In comparison, about 939,000 or 54 percent of the 84 crop had been classed through December 26 last year.

The week's predominant grades were grade 42 at 56 percent and grade 52 was 31 percent. About 23 percent was reduced one grade because of bark.

Predominant staples were staple 31 at 34 percent followed by staple 32 with 25 percent and staple 33 accounted for 16 percent. The average was 31.7 thirty-seconds of an inch.

Mike 35-49 was 70 percent, 33-34 amounted to 15 percent and 30-32 was 11 percent. The average was 36.

HVI breaking strength averaged 24.8 grams per tex at Lubbock during the week ended December 26.

The average U.S. cotton bale ginned prior to December 1 was grade 41, staple 34.9, mike 43 with strength of 25.4 grams per tex. Last season's average was grade 31, staple 35.3, mike 41 with strength of 26.1 grams per tex.

Multi-ethnic program helps problem readers advance at faster pace

COLLEGE STATION — A multiethnic reading curriculum developed and tested by a Texas A&M University educator has successfully improved the reading skills and racial attitudes of elementary and junior high school students.

Students who have used the curriculum in the Bryan Independent School District during the last three years — even remedial students and those learning English as a second language — have gained an average of two reading levels for each year in the program, said Dr. Donna Norton, an associate professor of educational curriculum and instruction who developed the curriculum.

The greatest change came in students' learning rates, Norton said. The average rate of learning for children prior to enrollment in the program was one half year of reading gain for each year in school. In contrast, the average learning rate for children during the school year in the program was two years. This means that children in the program gained at a rate that was four times greater than their previous learning rate, she said.

The Meadows Foundation of Dallas has awarded a $100,000 grant, the second to support Norton's research, which will be used in part to fund further testing of the program with fifth through eighth graders this year. In addition, Norton is developing training materials and videotapes so that teachers anywhere in the country could independently learn how to use the curriculum.

What name keeps cropping up in cornbelt conversations?

Farmers across America are talking about the big name in seed corn: Stauffer Seeds.

Word is that Stauffer Seeds offers a complete line of high performance hybrids. Some are bred for standability. Others for disease resistance, stress tolerance or early vigor.

But whichever Stauffer Seeds™ hybrid you select, you can count on a high yield and a good harvest.

If you want to learn more about the big name in hybrids, talk to me, your Stauffer Seeds seedsman

Letters To The Editor

(Editor's note: The following two letters were provided to the Journal by E.T. Ford, board member of South Plains Housing Finance Corporation. They are being reproduced because of local interest generated by a possible new apartment complex in Muleshoe.)

Dear Mayor:

I have been informed that certain developers are promoting the formation of non profit corporations to issue bonds to build multi-family housing projects, to which, it has been represented, title will vest in the city after a term of years. I urge you to exercise extreme caution before permitting your city to participate in such a project.

A similiar project in Arizona caused bonds to be issued at a low short term rate, the proceeds were invested, a profit was made off the investment of proceeds, but the housing was never built. I have successfully stopped in court every similar attempt to use the same financing methods as this scheme. The Federal government, moreover, looks with extreme disfavor on this sort of manipulation with the public credit and has just recently issued a revenue ruling which will restrict the use of such financing.

I cannot know exactly what sort of package has been presented to you, but I would urge you to scrutinize any package put before you carefully, and, if you have any doubts, check with my office. I am here to represent your interests.

With best wishes I am

Very truly yours,
Jim Mattox
Attorney General of Texas

Date: December 19, 1985
To: Interested Local Officials
From: Jerry D. Casstevens, Executive Director
Subject: Financing of Multifamily Housing

A recent letter from the attorney general cautioning mayors about certain bond financing arrangements for multifamily housing projects has created some media interest and, appropriately, some concern among local officials. The letter is enclosed for your reference.

South Plains Housing Finance Corporation, created by SPAG, issues tax exempt bonds to finance multifamily housing projects in our region. Several projects are currently authorized. None of the projects or bond issues of South Plains Housing Finance Corporation (SPHFC) are of nature described in the attorney general's letter. No developer was involved in the formation of SPHFC.

Projects financed, or authorized for financing, by SPHFC have been examined by the board of the corporation and by attorneys of the corporation and are in compliance with state and federal law. No project financed by SPHFC nor contemplated for such financing has been represented to have title vest in any city.

Recent IRS rulings have applied more stringent standards to tax exempt bond issues and to issuers of such bonds. The bond issues of SPHFC, in the opinion of competent legal counsel and in the judgment of the SPHFC board of directors, are in compliance with the recent IRS standards. A meeting on Tuesday involving the attorney general's staff, SPHFC staff and legal counsel, and the developer currently involved with SPHFC produced no evidence of violations of the law regarding any SPHFC projects.

South Plains Housing Finance Corporation is a locally governed non-profit organization which was created to benefit communities on the South Plains. Its express purpose is to make possible the development of housing in those South Plains communities needing and desiring housing units.

STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE

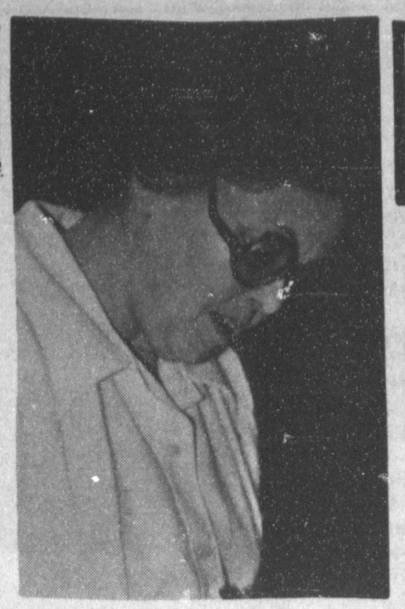

Formed frame and rugged standards mean unsurpassed strength

John Deere V-rippers feature a curved, one-piece mainframe. No welded joints to crack. No points of stress concentration.

Standards are cut from thick plate steel to handle deep-penetration stresses. And ripper points are replaceable to limit repair costs.

Choose the 910 V-Ripper for fields with heavy trash or buried obstructions. In other fields, the 900 can be an economical choice. Stop in and see us for the whole story.

BIBLE VERSE

It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

1. Who spoke these words?
2. To whom were they addressed?
3. When did the conversation occur?

Answers to Bible Verse

1. Jesus.
2. Satan.
3. During Jesus' temptation, in the wilderness.

Angels Of Mercy Of West Plains Medical Center

A wife, mother, and grandmother who is now, with her husband Jim, raising their two lovely granddaughters, Michelle and her namesake Patricia, Patricia Holland RN is a veteran nurse who has been active in the profession for the past 30 years. She calls herself a "generalist" because she enjoys working in the many different areas of a rural hospital. She says that working the different areas gives her no time to became bored with any one particular area. She has specialized in the past and knows that nurses who specialize tend to lose their skills in the other areas of the profession. Of all the areas of the hospital, she enjoys the Obstetrical Department the best because it is, primarily, a happy place to work and you see the immediate fruits of you labor (no pun intended!). One day, a student nurse found Holland looking something up in one of the reference books. The student made the comment that, considering her years of experience, Holland probably already knew all there was to know about nursing. Holland replied, "You never know all there is to know about nursing. Nursing is constantly changing. New concepts are coming out every day. New drugs are being marketed every day. It is your responsibility as a nurse to keep abreast of the changes, as they occur. If you stop studying the minute you graduate, you stagnate and this changing world leaves you behind". Patricia Holland is a special Lady. She is an ANGEL OF MERCY. T. Wilson RN DON WPMC.
