Teaching Program Is Threatened

Olton administrators warned a meeting of P-TA members Thursday night that the currently popular "Plan A" program of teaching is in jeopardy. The present legislature is considering doing away with it.

Loss of the program would involve some five Resource teachers in the Olton system, as well as the loss of valuable benefits to students involved.

Person interested in seeing the program continue were urged to write legislators in support its continuance.

The P-TA meeting, held in school cafeteria was directed by Mrs. George Stewart, president.

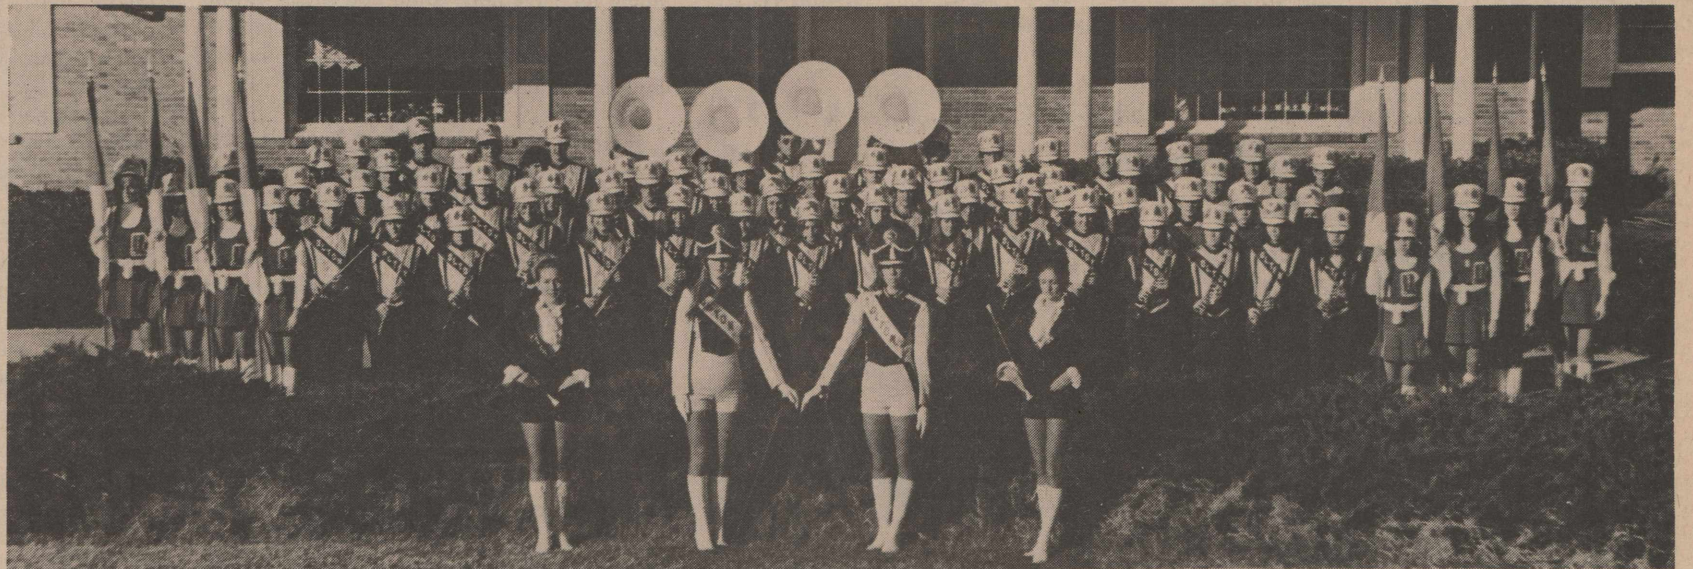

Devotional thoughts presented by the Rev. Sherman Lawson, pastor of Hopewell Baptist Church dealt with the basic truths of family living, as revealed in the Bible. Discipline was presented as the main theme.

In a short business session the organization assumed full responsibility for the play ground equipment being purchased.

Mrs. Floyd Prentice reported the State Meeting recently attended.

Introducing the new programs within the system Tommy Hancock discussed "Ag Mechanics"; Carol Seaborn described her "Co-op Homemaking Class" and Ray Kinnison spoke for "The Right to Read Program."

Robert Sivley introduced Travis Brown of Lubbock, who showed a film describing the concept of "Career Education."

Judging Postponed In Grid Contest

Carts got before the horses in last week's Enterprise football guessing game. Half the games listed plus the tie-breaker were not scheduled to be played until this weekend so final tabulation in the contest was delayed.

Results of the contests in both the Nov. 17 and Nov. 24 Enterprises will be scored this week and tabulations listed in next week's issue.

Self Defense Program Set At School

A Self Defense Program for girls and interested women will be presented at Olton High School Wednesday, Dec. 4, according to Robert Sivley, principal.

Under Burt Sinclair, Texas Department of Public Safety, a film will be shown and techniques demonstrated on personal defense.

Purse snatching will be discussed, also small instruments that may be carried in a woman's purse that could prove to be helpful. Defense tactics to be used against unwanted persons attempting to enter a car, or against any form of molesting, will be the subject of study, Sivley stated.

Junior and senior girls will be members of a class meeting at 1:20 p.m. Sophomores and freshmen girls will meet at 2:20 p.m. All interested women in the community are invited to attend one of the classes.

Sivley indicated the importance of the study by saying "The thought of such a need is gruesome, but it is a reality."

Olton Youth Named 'Who's Who' Students

Four local youth were selected to be listed in the eighth annual "Who's Who Among American High School Students for 1973-74." David Leathers, Pat Britton, Jimmy Villanueva and Ricky Smith were recipients of the honor.

Cowbelles Offer Suggestions

Can't figure out what in the world to give Uncle Harry for Christmas? Or is it cousin Mary, who already has everything, who's putting you into a gifting tizzy? Well, heed the suggestions of Olton Cowbelles.

Olton Cowbelles are sponsoring a unique Christmas gift idea, beef gift certificates. Available in any amount and redeemable anywhere beef is sold for any cut of beef, the gift certificates may be purchased at Olton State Bank.

The beef certificates function as a cashier's check for the purchase of beef. The unusual gift idea is in promotion of the cattle industry.

So, if you have a trouble buying for persons on your gift list or just someone who appreciates good eating, buy them a beef gift certificate.

'Package Boy' Beginning Recalled By Grocer

Fresh out of high school, Leon Noack began his career as a grocer when he accepted the job of package boy at a Wichita Falls Grocery store.

"I carried out groceries, swept and mopped the floors and things like that," he remembers. The son of a farmer, it was his first experience as an odd job employee in the grocery business.

Except for a three-year period of work with a glass business - installing plate glass windows in stores - Leon has been somewhere about a grocery store ever since.

Leon met his wife, Junette, at the candy aisle of a Wichita Falls Safe Way Food Store where she was a checker. Today she is still his right hand employee, keeping books and helping out when and where she's needed.

Parents of four young sons, Leon grins a bit ruefully when he admits that sons Kevin and Kyle help out at the store, although a bit reluctantly, while little ones, Kary and Kory, are too small to help and are eager to do so.

Lots of changes have occurred in the grocery business since Leon began as a fifty-cents-an-hour sack boy. Beginning today he would receive four times as much wage. And, as every shopper well knows, the costs of the items on the shelf have also made a spiraling climb.

Food prices, he says, are four times as much as when he began. Some items, such as sugar, have made almost that great an increase within the past year.

Every product using sweeteners has undergone sharp increases in costs whether it be candy, soft drinks, sweet pastries, cake mixes, jams and jellies or canned fruit.

Soft drinks, Leon figures, will take another cost leap soon. Candy manufacturers sought to avoid price increased for a time by cutting down on the size of their candy bars but were still forced to make the price jump.

"Sugar is a luxury item," Leon says. "Really, when you stop to think about it, it is. It isn't a basic food, we get no nutritional value, it's just a luxury, I think."

Salt, Leon says, is probably the least affected item in rising costs of grocery items.

"It's just my personal opinion," Leon says, but he believes not all "shortages" are genuine. "Anytime the news media mentions an item is short, there'll be a run on it," he says.

Shortages, or so-called scarcities, have caused many people to hoard, Leon believes. He admits that he, in so far as storage space will allow, also "buys up" when an item is available at a lower price, so that he can pass on savings to his customers.

"It's my own personal idea, but I believe if certain people could not buy but 10 days supplies at a time, certain items would go down as much as 20 percent."

Shopping habits have changed through the years, he agrees. Most of his customers "buy as they need it," he says rather than buying for an entire week or longer.

"Some still buy a big bill at a time but most buy smaller amounts and buy often," he believes.

Grocery stores of today have a far greater array of merchandise than the food stores of yesteryears. New products are being introduced almost daily.

"In the frozen food department alone," Leon says, "if I handled all the products my wholesaler has, it would fill half my store."

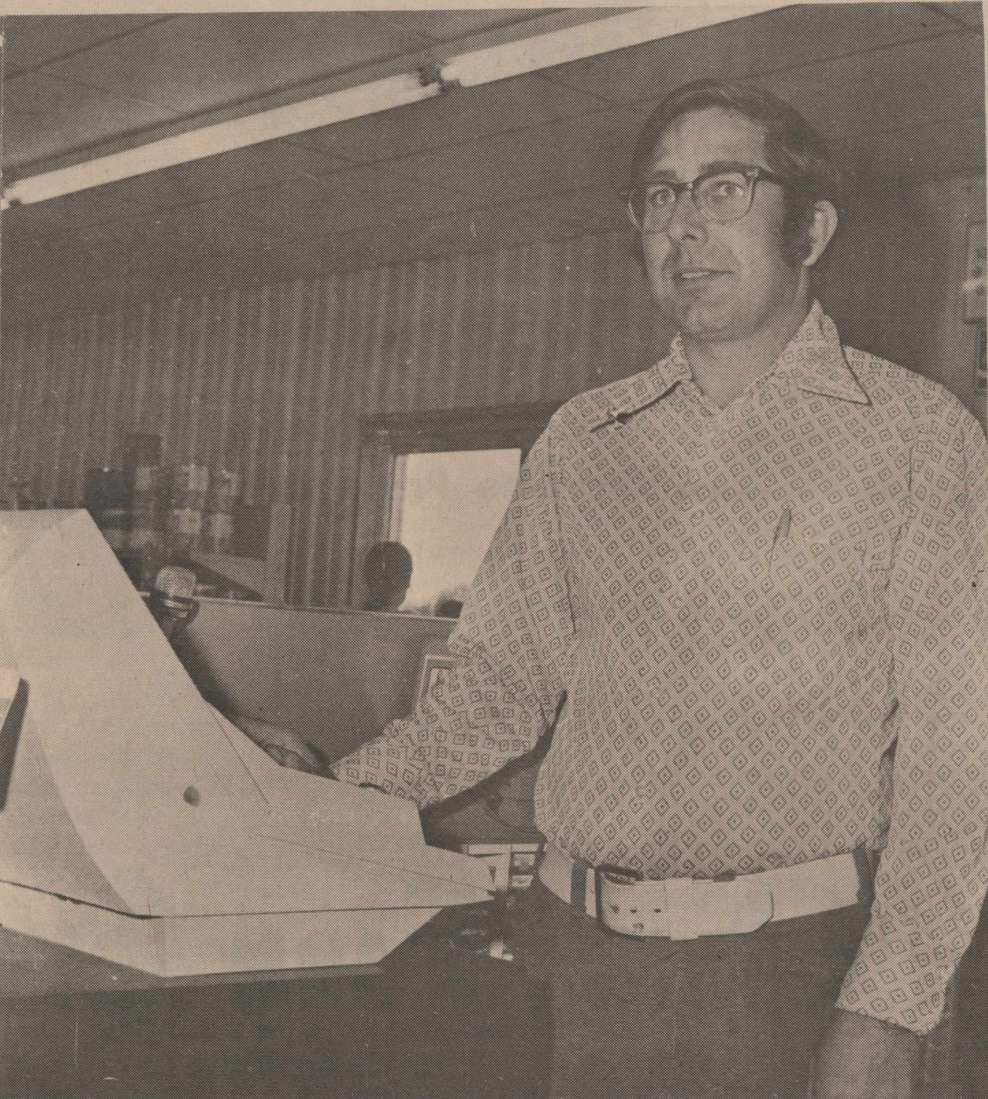

Convenience foods have also become available in limitless forms. Mixes are available for untold numbers of "one dish dinners" and in almost every dessert form.

"Folks talk about the high prices of convenience foods," says Leon, "but they don't always stop and think. You eat it all, there's no waste."

Today's housewife can also find, the year around, fresh vegetables which her grandmother had only for a short season in the summer.

Leon believes that trading stamps are an "unnecessary cost to consumers." Because of this he has reduced the price of a number of items by the cost of trading stamps. He has found that a greater percent of his customers will take advantage of that lower price rather than a higher price with stamps.

When Leon moved into his present location in September, 1973, it was a little more than twice the space of his store at Main Street and 7th Streets. In the new store he has a complete line

Dear Editor:

To improve our city several things might be done. They might include mail delivery service, a hospital and finishing of pavement and curb projects. Individual home improvement could add much to the beauty of our town. While littering of public places and destruction of vacant buildings should be prohibited.

If we try, we could have mail delivery. It is needed for people unable to go to the post office. If other small towns have this, why not Olton?

We could one day lose our good doctor if, as interested citizens, we don't pitch in and try to back getting a hospital. Other small towns have done this, why not Olton?

When property owners are unable to pay for paving and curbing, couldn't some way be provided to finish these streets rather than leave them unsightly?

As was mentioned, homeowners should keep places neat. Not only yards, but alleys should be kept free of trash, not letting it blow over on neighbors. Rank weeds, during fall, can be a fire hazard. Keeping homes painted is a help for beauty of the town.

Parks and other public places would look better if littering were stopped. Destruction of vacated buildings should not be allowed. Such treatment doesn't improve the town and lowers others' opinions of us.

If each of us would do our part, then we would have a better looking town and residence area.

Chamber Maid Sez

By Frances Redinger

THANKSGIVING! During this week there will be many columns written on the subject. This one may not be widely read nor greatly appreciated (except by my Mother who carries an envelope of my writings in her purse and imposes them on strangers as Grandmothers do their snapshots of Grandchildren.) Many will be longer, most will be wiser, but none will be more sincere than this one.

I am thankful for so many things and I hope that I am never guilty of being grateful and appreciative JUST during the Thanksgiving Holiday Season.

For an understanding and indulging husband who understands that his wife, always has ONE MORE thing she wants to try to accomplish or ONE MORE activity in which she wants to get involved. For a Mother who encouraged her children to be "about their Father's business" and sets a good example in doing so.

For children who have just about worked their parents right out of a job, that job of rearing a family, by becoming so self-sufficient, all happy in their chosen fields of endeavor, so happy they can't always distinguish their work from their play. We are even extremely proud of that brave one who can't seem to locate the perfect spot in which to settle - from Tennessee, to South Dakota, to New Orleans - and yet tenaciously and unafraid, continues to search. And we appreciate more than ever the attitude of that one who, after hearing us preach the fact that one would make any job honorable, was perfectly willing to take the job of cleaning the Court House Restrooms until her job appointment came through.

I am thankful, too, for growing up in a fun-filled, game-playing household, then being able to transfer that way of learning cooperation and sportsmanship to my own brood.

I am thankful for friends - those who understand me and those who are still trying.

I am thankful for opportunities, for challenges, for satisfactions and successes; for peace of mind, health of mind and body, for wealth - yes, wealth - not of material things, although I am grateful for tangible and edible blessings, but for that wealth of good things which are all around us.

I feel I am omitting something very important. Perhaps it's that great, impressive thing called Wisdom. I cannot be grateful for something that I do not possess, but just It's one of those challenges I'm working on!

MRS. GEORGE REDINGER

Cook Of The Week

Recipes which have been requested by friends were the ones chosen to be shared with Enterprise cooks this week by Mrs. George Redinger. She really admits they are not original but were chosen from favorite cookbooks she has collected.

Frances is serving her third year as "Chamber Maid," secretary to Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, and is a number one promoter of Olton and her people.

Until her youngest daughter's graduation from Plainview High School in 1971, Frances and George were "summer home" Oltonites but full time boosters. They were at home in Plainview during school terms with summer sessions on the farm east of Olton.

Betty Ann, the "last chick," is a senior at Colorado Women's College in Denver where she is majoring in family counseling.

George is planning on "parking" his farm equipment next year when son, J.O. Bass III, takes over after his graduation from Tarleton University with a degree in agriculture.

Marie attended George Washington University and has been around the Capital City most of the time since 1966. She began full time work in 1971 in the office where she had part time employment as a college student. She is head of the Washington office of the National Committee for an Effective Congress.

Georgianne now lives in Cajun Country and is a court reporter at New Orleans, La.

Nicky, the first child to marry, and his Andrea live in Dallas. He is international service representative for Ampex Corporation and gets world travels in his work.

Frances cites no hobbies, choosing to "enjoy life and cram everything into it that I can get in." She is a confessed "collector" of bits of wisdom, wit and whimsy.

Laughingly she says, "We have bikes, tennis rackets, golf clubs, fishing poles and guns - all of which are used very little. And we have badminton, croquet, horse-shoes and dominoes - all of which are used very, very much."

The Redingers are active in First United Methodist Church.

PROPOSED LAMB COUNTY MEMORIAL LIBRARY - Architect's conception of a building proposed to house Lamb County Memorial Library to be built in Littlefield. A money raising drive is now underway. Target date for construction is set for 1976. Howard Schmidt and Associates are the architects.

Board Seeks New Home For Lamb County Library

Architect's drawing for a proposed building to house Lamb County Memorial Library is on display throughout the County. Copies in Olton may be seen at Olton State Bank and at office of the Olton Enterprise.

In a movement to bring the County Library out of the basement of Lamb County Court House to a more attractive location, more easily accessible and with longer hourly availability, Friends of the Library and other interested citizens have banded together in a non profit corporation for the purpose of securing such a building.

A suitable site in Littlefield has been donated by the Arthur P. Duggan Jr., family and the Ewing Halsell Foundation has designated funds for the project.

The Board of Trustees, under the leadership of H.C. Randall, president, began a fund-raising drive earlier this month seeking voluntary contributions for the project.

All contributions to Lamb County Memorial Library Corporation are deductible under IRS file #A1227:309:DB. Donations or pledges may be made in 1974, 1975 or January of 1976.

Meanwhile additional donations are being sought from interested foundations and other companies. Upon receipt of the required percentage of the goal of $200,000 the Board will seek a grant for Federal Funding participation.

Commissioners Court of Lamb County has pledged its continued support of the Library, the Lamb Countians are urged to contribute voluntarily to this forward-looking venture.

Knowledgeable speakers are available to all civic groups interested in learning more details of the project.

Contribution cards are available in the city at the Olton State Bank and at The Enterprise office. Should a card not be available, contributions may be mailed to Library Fund, Box 686, Littlefield, Texas, 79339.

Olton members of the Library Board are Mrs. Fred Thompson and Mrs. C.S. Silcott.

FROM ARKANSAS

Mrs. Imy Turner of Melbourne, Ark. came Friday to stay several weeks with her sister, Mrs. C.H. Petty.

In The Ring

Olton battlers performed in grand style Saturday night at Chapman Field House in Lubbock by winning four of eight matches even though some of the Oltonites were performing for the first time.

Joey Fernandez of Olton showed tremendous progress while losing a decision to seasoned Joe Ybarra of Levalland. Ybarra won over Joey with a T.K.O. just a few weeks ago when Fernandez entered the ring for the first time after training for only one day. This time Ybarra had a hard time winning the decision and coaches for the Olton team are predicting a win for Fernandez next time the two meet.

Dynamite Duane Eby of Olton failed to explode as the two year older Mike Harp of Lubbock took the decision. Seven year old Eby is showing lots of promise but always has to fight older boys because of a ruling which matches boys according to weight rather than age.

Olton's Marcie Garcia took an easy win over Mike Pugh of Muleshoe. Garcia has just started practice and shows traits of being a good "heads-up" boxer.

Dangerous Danny Garcia, brother to Marcie, fed knuckle sandwiches to Carlos Martinez of Lubbock for three rounds to chalk up another easy win. Garcia has beaten every boy he has met this season.

Rudy Garza, making his second appearance for Olton, lost a decision to Rodney Smith of Muleshoe. Garza showed much improvement over his first match.

Renee Maya, brand new Olton boxer, came just short of victory as he battled the experienced Bobo Navarrete of Amarillo. Boxing enthusiasts should keep an eye on Maya because he is tough and loves to mix it up. His reflexes are good and he has a lot of natural ability.

Lethal Lance Phares forced the fight to smear Jeff Irvin of Lubbock. Phares stalked his opponent for three rounds and shocked him with left shots to the head.

Olton's boxing team is expected to become even greater now that the football season is ending.

Olton has accepted an invitation to matched fights at the Muleshoe school gymnasium December 7 at 8:00 p.m.

Stalk Burning Costly, Warn USDA Officials

"Burning of crop stubble depletes your soil of necessary organic matter" warns officials of USDA Soil Conservation Service.

They continue with the explanation that the lower the organic matter, the slower irrigation water and rainfall is absorbed. Less water is held in soil when humus content is low.

They further explain, "Crops stalks add essential plant nutrients burning releases these nutrients into the air and they are lost. Wind and water erosion are greater when stalks are burned."

Contrary to some thinking, burning stalks has very little effect on weed control and destruction of insects. Most major crop insects are now hibernating several inches deep in the soil. Fire on the soil surface will not kill them.

The officials further remind, "You have to put back into the soil what you take out."

Host Families Needed For Youth Exchange

Lions International Youth Exchange Program needs hosts for 58 youth from Brazil, Australia, South Africa and Peru in this year's program. District 2-T2 has requested 75 visiting youth but applications by host families have been coming in slowly.

Six local families have requested youth with five asking for Australian guests and the sixth, a visitor for South Africa. Reportedly, air fare has increased from Australia and some youth from that country may have to cancel plans to participate in the program.

Want to learn what the youth exchange program means to young people? Ask Chesna Dickenson, Linda Miller and Eloyce Castillo. Miss Dickenson visited in Canada last summer in participation with the YEP. Misses Miller and Castillo spent six weeks in Brazil.

Any family interested in being host family for exchange youth is asked to contact Leon Noack of any member of the Lions Club. The Australians will arrive Dec. 12 for a seven weeks visit; the Brazilians, Jan. 3 for eight weeks and the South Africans in January for a visit of just 10 days.

TO WEST COAST

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Starritt came home last week after being gone on a month vacation on the west coast.

District FFA Banquet Held Monday In Tulia

Twenty seven members and four guests of Olton Chapter of Future Farmers of America were in Attendance Monday, Nov. 25, when Plainview District FFA Banquet was held in Tulia. Only one other chapter, of the sixteen chapters attending, had more boys in attendance.

J.D. Caudle, District Sentinel, and Jim Walters and David Leathers, voting delegates, were present.

Speaker for the program was Doug Leggitt, of Wall, president of State FFA organization.

Each chapter was invited to make a talent presentation, only three entered.

Miss Doreta Couch was among the sixteen chapter Sweethearts attending. Miss Tonya Clark, Dimmitt, was chosen to represent the District for 1975.

Several Greenhands were in Abernathy recently for District Contests. As chapter conducting team Monty McFadden, Rodney Smith, Paul Lively, Shorty Lacy, Ethel Lusk and Gary Davis won fourth place.

On the quiz team Charla Shipley, Sam Walters and Roger Russell won fifth place.

At a recent Parent-Teacher Association meeting Mike Allen, David Leathers and Jim Walters discussed the Ag-Mechanics course for seniors.
