'Head Start' Program Begins

The Head Start Program at the Rockport Elementary School is off to a fine beginning. Children in the rooms are learning each others names, and how to find their way around the building. The different classes have many interesting projects going at this time.

On Flag Day a program was held in the auditorium and then all went to the flag pole where the United States and Texas Flags were raised and all participated in the Pledge of Allegiance.

There is still a need for more volunteer helpers in the program. Anyone interested should call Albert R. Griffith, Jr., or the Principal's office at SO 4-6344.

COUNTY YOUTH CENTER PRAISED

Mrs. J. I. Roden of Aransas County Youth Center received the following letter regarding a dance June 1 at the Recreation Building at the Radar Site which the county is making available for Youth Center activities:

Dear Mrs. Roden:

Our boys wish to thank you and your organization most sincerely for the privilege of playing for your youth dance on Saturday, June 1, 1968, at the Aransas County Youth Center. It was a real pleasure to play for such a receptive group.

We were amazed at the ideal place you have for holding these youth dances since there is ample parking and is far enough away from residences to prevent complaints from adjacent neighborhoods. We especially want to commend you for the wonderful thing you are doing for the youth of Rockport, for such a well supervised dance and for the clean and neat appearance of the building and grounds. Your boys and girls must appreciate the fact that there are really people who care about our teen-agers.

Thank you so much again and we hope you keep our band in mind for some future booking. Do keep up the good work.

Most sincerely,

The Noonday Sun Band

San Antonio C of C Group Coming Here

The San Antonio Chamber of Commerce is sending a fact finding committee into South Texas to catalogue the recreational facilities. A special charter bus will depart San Antonio at 7 a.m. Thursday, June 20, for a two-day junket to include stops in 13 South Texas communities.

Judd Morrow, tour chairman, pointed out that Americans have more leisure time and more travel money than ever before and are hearing "the call of the wild."

"The desire to hunt, fish, camp, boat and swim is drawing more and more San Antonians and Texans into the surrounding countryside every weekend," Morrow said. "Our group wants to learn all we can about what the towns and counties of South Texas have to offer. We then intend to make this information available to all our members and indeed the entire San Antonio community. In this we have the full cooperation of the City Tourist Information Center located in our new Chamber headquarters near the HemisFair site."

A spokesman for San Antonio's Information Center indicated that close to 100,000 letters of inquiry reach the Chamber each year. Additionally, there are phone calls and walk-in visitors which nearly double this figure. All of these tourists will have access to the information the fact-finding group compiles.

Lon Green, chairman of the San Antonio Chamber's Area Relations Committee, stated that his group would have representation on the tour to meet with city and Chamber officials in each town on the itinerary to explore more avenues of business traffic between the Alamo City and South Texas communities.

The tour calls for specific stops at the Mick Brothers Catfish Farm, Papatote, Texas; Patti Waelder Wildlife Refuge, near Sinton; Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, Austwell; and the Laurels and Santa Gertrudis divisions of the King Ranch. Top professional biologists will meet the tour at each place and de-

Federal Disaster Loans Here Total $467,760

With the termination of the Hurricane Beulah disaster loan program, the Small Business Administration reported it approved 70 loans for a total of $467,760 to Rockport and Fulton commercial enterprises.

Of this total, 56 loans for $310,660 were granted to Rockport firms and 14 loans for $157,100 to Fulton Firms.

Fred Lawrence, manager of the Disaster Branch Office temporarily located in Corpus Christi, revealed that of the total of 355 loans made to mid-June to commercial enterprises a high percentage had been approved for the tourist and marine industries in the general Corpus Christi area.

Lawrence said that with only about a week remaining in which his office will be authorized to accept applications for repairs and restoration of property damage by the hurricane of Sept. 20, 1967, $2,923,915.00 had been approved for a wide variety of local firms.

He pointed out the agency had approved loans to 43 hotels and motels, 13 marinas, 26 restaurants and similar establishments, six trailer parks and three golf clubs of 119 loans made to tourist-oriented activities in the greater Corpus Christi area.

More than 90 loans have been approved for the marine industry including loans to approximately 50 owners of storm-damaged shrimp boats, 3 boat-building enterprises and several retail bait stands, some of which had been completely washed away by winds and high water last year.

Lawrence said the Corpus Christi office so far has accounted for 20 per cent of the $25,000,000.00 total of disaster loans the Small Business Administration has approved in the 27 county area in which the federal 3% loans were authorized to aid in recovering from the effects of Hurricane Beulah.

In addition to the loans to commercial enterprises, the Corpus Christi Disaster Branch Office has approved 1,568 loans to homeowners and individuals who suffered personal property losses. These presently total $2,700,580.00. The Hurricane Beulah disaster declaration officially ends June 30, 1968.

Twirlers Selected For Next Year

Last Monday through Friday, a program sponsored by the school was held in the high school gym for girls interested in learning and/or bettering their twirling.

Each afternoon the girls were instructed by a registered teacher, Frances Mollet of Robstown. Keeping the girls busy, Mrs. Mollet taught four complete routines: A dance, strut, ensemble, and fire routine.

A dance routine is one composed of steps and baton movements set to popular music. Strut routines are those designed for marching.

An ensemble such as the one learned last week can be set to a march or can be performed without music. It is most used as a contest routine. The fire routine the girls plan to use in the activities of homecoming next football season.

At the end of the week, try-outs were held so as to determine the majorettes for the 1968-69 school year. Given points for each part of the try-outs, the girls performed an original routine, two of the routines learned that week, and the eight fundamental twirls.

Out of eight girls going out for twirler, the four with the highest scores were chosen. Nine girls attended in all: Laquita Baldaree, Debora Everett, Debra Cruser, Lenore Irwin, Robbie Segler, Parkie Ledbetter, Soph., and Junie Ledbetter, Sr., head twirler.

Working separate from the girls, Mark Jeffers took specialized instruction from an assistant of Mrs. Mollet.

McLester Catches Four Porpoises For Sea-O-Rama

"Catch me some porpoises." That's what a representative of Galveston's Sea-O-Rama show told Buddy McLester, well known local fishing guide, one day this week.

So Buddy, an old hand at catching playful porpoises for marine shows and marine scientific research, got busy early in the morning. He and the Sea-O-Rama man used two fast motorboats and a net about 1,000 feet long, 12 feet deep and with nine-inch mesh.

He attached the ends of the net to the two boats. Then he and the Sea-O-Rama representative headed out into Aransas Bay, staying close together until they approached St. Joseph Island shoreline.

There they spotted a school of porpoises moving along in the water in their familiar diving motion that is always so much fun to watch.

At this point the two boats moved away from each other, after attaching an end of the net to each boat, causing the long net to spread out. Then, skillfully, Buddy and the other man maneuvered their boats in such a way that the porpoises were caught in the net.

On unloading their catch the two men found that they had caught eight porpoises. The Sea-O-Rama people had room in their truck for only four, so Buddy and his helper tossed four back into the bay and loaded the remaining four—each about 3 1/2 or 4 years old and weighing around 350 pounds—onto the truck.

On the truck the porpoises were carefully placed on a foam rubber mattress, and the Sea-O-Rama men had a supply of water to splash on the mammals on the trip to Galveston.

At Galveston, the porpoises will be put through intensive training so that some day they can become "stars" in the show.

The Sea-O-Rama people will return to Rockport soon for some more porpoises. And Buddy McLester will be glad to help catch some more.

He gets $50 for each porpoise he catches.

A. F. Butcher Has Battery for Heart

Recently the Pilot published an article about Exa Givan having a tiny transistorized battery called a Pacemaker implanted under his skin to keep his heart beating at the proper rate.

Now we learn that Albert H. Butcher also has had a Pacemaker since January of 1967. He had a new battery "installed" on May 9, 1968 and has been informed that he will have to have the battery replaced about once a year. Butcher also has a plastic artery leading from his heart.

"The finest city plans for the future are useless unless citizens take part in helping to put such plans into action."

This statement was made Monday night by Lon R. Starke, Rockport, executive director of Coastal Bend Regional Planning Commission, at a public meeting at the VFW Hall.

The meeting was called to give Rockport area residents an opportunity to hear the comprehensive plan for this area, covering the period to 1990, which is now being made by Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, engineers and planners.

Bob Grossman of this firm had been scheduled to address the meeting but was unable to attend because of a court hearing in Corpus Christi. Starke agreed to speak in his place.

Starke said that after the Bartholomew land use study is completed, citizen committees will be organized to study the report and make recommendations to move ahead.

"I urge all interested citizens to accept appointment on these committees, analyze the report carefully, ask questions and become assured of the right direction your city should take," Starke said.

He said that the Bartholomew plan will cover such areas as the central business district, water supply, sewer facilities, drainage and schools. The total area will include the city and all land within five miles of the city limits.

When referring to the business district, Starke commented that some cities located on bays have had the ingenuity and foresight to create "interesting business areas in the bay with shops built on piling and with adequate walkways for shoppers."

He also said that "all indications point to tremendous growth here as a resort area."

At the conclusion of Starke's talk, Mayor Delmar R. Hiller said, "Our citizens have a golden opportunity to develop and implement a fine plan for the future growth of our city. Please let the City Council know of your interest in the plan or specific parts of it."

Hiller said the total cost of the Bartholomew plan will be $17,000 with the city's share set at $6,830 and the balance to come from a federal grant.

He also said that the federal government now requires that a city have a comprehensive plan for the future in order to receive maximum federal grants for municipal projects.

He pointed out that the city already has received an additional $5,849 in federal funds for the new sewage treatment plant as a result of contracting for the comprehensive plan.

At the public meeting were members of the City Council, city officials, members of the Planning and Zoning Commission, the City Board of Adjustments, City Parks Board and Aransas County Independent School District.

HATLESS HUBERT

Come to think of it, has anyone seen Hubert H. Humphrey wearing a hat?

Maybe on formal occasions where one was absolutely necessary but for every day wear, unless we're mistaken, he's always appeared topless.

It's to be supposed that if he is elected then the hat people will start a campaign to get him to wear one just like they did to the late John F. Kennedy. Occasionally, and seemingly from pressure, he was seen with a top on a few occasions, and it will be interesting to see if HHH dons one before the campaign is over.

He had one on momentarily at Atlantic City the other day. Appearing before the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union convention, an unidentified delegate from Puerto Rico mounted the stage carrying a yellow straw hat.

HHH resisted her. He knew what she wanted. But he was late. The hat went down over his head. He snatched it off and stuck it on her head, amid laughter from the audience, but she pushed it right back on his head and dashed from the platform.

Knowing Hubert, the odds are that if he can get a few more votes he'll wear a hat—even a yellow straw from Puerto Rico.

SING NO SONGS OF VIETNAM

An editorial makes note of the apparent fact that the nation's songwriters have ignored Vietnam as subjects of songs.

It can't be that they couldn't find words to rhyme with Vietnam or Saigon, for surely the penmen of songs would have come up with something.

The Vietnam struggle has been minus patriotic songs such as we have had in other wars, with the possible exception of Korea. Such songs have been on the decline since World War I days when everyone was whistling, humming, or singing "Over There" or "Till We Meet Again" or that one about the soldier who was going to murder the bugler and spend the rest of his life in bed. World War II had a few songs but not many.

It's possible radio and TV tend to kill off songs before they really get popular these days, as compared with World War I. But whatever the reason, songs play a major role in a nation's unity in time of war and it's just possible if we had had some hit tunes about Vietnam we might be more solidified to win the current struggle.

Even back in the Revolutionary days there were songs the people and the soldiers sang and right on through the Civil War.

Irving Berlin brought to the lips of the people many of the hits of World War I. He served his country well in writing them.

Maybe Vietnam is so unpopular the song writers felt they couldn't produce a hit but the boys in Vietnam would undoubtedly be encouraged if they knew the people back home were singing songs like they did back in World War I.

The songsters should get with it. Surely the moon rises over the rice paddies, or some hippy would possibly go to an opposite extreme by writing "On the Lam From Vietnam!"

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

KEEPING UP WITH SCIENCE

Some days it doesn't pay to read. Consider the other day when a "science bulletin" arrived from a large drug company.

Always eager to stay up with science, we read avidly a succession of brief items:

"Exclusive exposure to the sun can cause skin cancer in black or brown-eyed, moderately dark-complexioned persons as well as classically sunburn-prone light-haired, light complexioned, blue-eyed ones . . ." (Must we stay in more.)

"Noise in the home, penetrating from outside or transmitted through thin inside walls, is becoming a serious emotional health hazard . . ." (If we must stay in, we need coffee to settle our nerves.)

"Coffee drinking and coronary heart disease are closely related . . . caffeine elevates blood free fatty acids . . ." (Now our nerves are really shot. Pull the blinds, tell everybody to shut up, lock the bathroom door and have a long, relaxing soak in the tub.)

"Repeated wetting of the skin has been shown experimentally to predispose to lesions from common agents that are otherwise innocuous . . ."

The greatest hazard of all may be reading.—Ottawa Journal.

Preachers often receive gifts from their parishioners, so the Rev. Wesley Goff wasn't too surprised when he was handed a gunny sack by one of the elders of the church. But he was suspicious when he determined that the sack, tied securely at the top, contained something alive.

When he carried the sack home, his wife reportedly climbed on a chair as the string was untied. The opossum, crouched inside, didn't think much of his new environment either. He just blinked and shrank into the corner of the bag pondering his fate.

We don't know what happened to that opossum, but we heard a report that a preacher was inquiring where he might get some good southern sweet potatoes.—Arcola (Ill.) Record-Herald.

Presbyterian Circle Holds Meeting

Circle No. 4 of the Presbyterian Church met June 13 at the home of Mrs. Louis Ragot. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social half hour was enjoyed by the seven members present, and one guest, Mrs. Lawrence McFall from Dallas.

The short business meeting was opened by the chairman, Mrs. A. L. Bachman, with the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mrs. Ed Godde moderated the Bible lesson entitled "The Holy Spirit and Living Victoriously" with all taking part in circle discussion.

Mrs. Bachman gave the Emphasis on "Assembly's Agencies."

Mrs. Mattie Bushart gave a report on her trip to Mo Ranch, where she attended synodical training school and women's conference.

The meeting was closed by all repeating the Mizpah benediction.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. D. Oliver.

Paws and Taws Graduation Party

A graduation party will be held at the Paws and Taws Square Dance hall Friday night for members of the class which has just successfully completed 20 weeks of lessons in square dancing under the guidance of Club Caller, "Blackie" Hardy.

This is one of the finest classes which has taken the course since the club was formed five years ago and emphasizes the fact that square dancing is an enjoyable recreation for all age brackets.

The graduates include several teenagers and four retired couples, with many in-betweens, all having a great time together.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. 9th Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—If a man mails his draft card to Selective Service national headquarters, would he be considered delinquent by his board for not having it?

A—Where he mails (or leaves) his registration certificate is immaterial. The infraction of the law is the consequence of not having it.

Whether he will be processed at a delinquent by his board depends upon related circumstances.

Q—Who makes the decision that a conscientious objector will not serve on civilian duty because of a physical defect?

A—His physical acceptability is determined by the same standards applied to men who are not conscientious objectors, normally by an armed forces examining and entrance station.

Q—Our high school class intends to study the Selective Service System. Where may I obtain information about it?

A—Free publications may be obtained from any local draft board, Texas state headquarters, or national headquarters of the System. Many libraries have reference material.

Q—I've had one semester in college. I've been placed on academic probation for the second semester. I'm still taking a full-time course. Is my probationary status unsatisfactory to the draft?

A—No, if you're still full time. In effect, your school has issued notice that, if you do not improve, you may be unsatisfactory in the future.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Branch for the past two weeks were Michael and Terri McDonald of Nashville, Tenn. They are Mrs. Branch's grandchildren.

Miss Camehl Is Bride of Mr. Carleton

The First Presbyterian Church in Rockport was the setting Saturday evening of the wedding ceremony of Miss Tamara Grace Camehl, 4625 Kostoryz, and Stephen Marcus Carleton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Camehl of Rockport.

The Rev. and Mrs. L. L. Carleton of Rockport are parents of the groom.

The bride chose a formal gown of candlelight peau de soie with an Empire bodice, bell skirt and train. Reembroidered Chantilly lace accented with seed pearls decorated the bodice.

Her illusion veil was held by a headpiece of peau de soie and pearls.

Mrs. Ernest Camehl, III,

sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Chris Muff of Rockport was bridesmaid.

They wore A-line princess dresses of yellow shantung. Bows formed their headpieces.

Larry Jurica was best man. Roland Bryant was groomsmen. Ushering were Ernest Camehl, III, brother of the bride, and Rodney Johnson of Rockport, cousin of the groom.

A reception was held at the church. The couple will live in Kingsville.

The bride was graduated from Aransas County High School and South Texas Commercial College.

The groom is a graduate of Aransas County. He attends Texas A&I University where his fraternity is Sigma Chi.

The Family Lawyer

Fine Print in Your Deed

Could you take a boarder into your home if you wanted to? Use a back room for running a business? Add a second story on top of your garage?

Of course, local zoning laws may stand in the way. But even if they don't, your hands may be tied by the fine print in your own deed.

A typical deed, while giving you title to your property, also puts limitations on how you may use it. Such limitations, commonly called "restrictive covenants," may play a decisive role in your household planning.

Restrictive covenants, which are usually placed in deeds by the original subdivider, may forbid all sorts of things in a particular neighborhood. They have been used to keep out everything from outdoor toilets to boarding houses, from second stories to cemeteries.

Generally speaking, the law will enforce such restrictions as a reasonable method of preserving property values. After all, the same rules that restrain you, to protect your neighbors, also restrain them to protect you.

But restrictions will not be enforced if they are against public policy. Nor will the law enforce a restriction which even, though valid at first, has fallen out of date. For instance:

A home owner in an aging neighborhood decided to tear down his house and build a store. But a disgruntled neighbor took him to court, pointing to a restrictive covenant against any "business use" of the property on that block.

However, the first man showed that stores had already invaded not only the streets near by but also that very block. And, until this occasion, no one had ever objected.

On this evidence, the court held that the covenant was no longer binding. As one judge put it:

"Restrictive covenants will not be enforced merely to harass some particular person, when it is clear that the objective for which the restrictive covenants were originally entered into have already failed."

(A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the State Bar Association of Texas. Written by Will Bernard.)

Charles Jackson, Jr., of San Antonio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, was a guest in their home last weekend.

Why do we need so many more new customers for TRU-TEST paints?

Because the ones we sold yesterday probably won't be back for another 5 years

When you sell a really good paint, it's a long time between customers. Not that we're complaining. We know "once a TRU-TEST customer, always a TRU-TEST customer". Once a man actually puts TRU-TEST on his brush. Or roller. Sees how easy it is to apply. How clear and true the color stays. And how it wears for years and years. Oh, he'll be back all right. But not for a long long time. So that's why we're always looking. Are you, by any chance, a new customer?

June 19, 1968

In my 52 years of paying property tax of some kind, which I never checked or gave it much thought until I got my school tax notice. After talking with some of my neighbors, seems no one knew how to figure the amount we would be paying over the previous year. We finally came up with a 40% increase.

This way of going around "Robin Hood's Barn" to figure your tax statement has been used for the past 200 years. Why is this system used? Would it be to confuse the taxpayer?

Your tax assessor values your property at $9,000, you start to complain but the assessor starts this "Robin Hood Barn" stuff and comes up with something like $2200.00 valuation. Not bad until you get your tax statement.

The U.S. Government collects something like 27 billions of dollars each year on property and school tax. This is about 1/2 billion per state, this does not include the tax on beer, wine, liquor, cigarettes, oil and gas, plus sales tax. Are we in Rockport getting our fair share?

You hear talk of the oil wells playing out, but no one ever mentions the fact that these wells have been converted to natural gas and the fact that the oil companies make more profit on gas than they do on oil, are we getting our share? If so why is it necessary to raise our school tax 40%? This is a pretty big chunk out of one's income.

What's wrong with Aransas County?

There was a meeting last Monday evening in the VFW Hall which should have included all forward looking Aransas County residents. Instead, the attendance consisted of the City officials plus 15 or 20 civic minded people of Rockport, many of them already on Committees, plus but only three or four persons residing in the county outside the city limits.

This meeting was an explanation of the type of work the Regional Planning Commission was doing including that of the City of Rockport.

Lon Starke, a resident of Key Allegro, is the head of an eleven county area Planning Commission which includes Aransas County. Within 12 to 18 months, the complete report will be ready for the area, maybe parts of it before, so that alert citizens mindful of the importance of the future can implement these plans with some concrete constructive action. What this county will be 20 years from now will depend solely on whether there are enough local citizens who are willing to work hard for a worthwhile future.

What a different place to live we would have now had something like this been done ten years ago or even five years ago. It is almost unbelievable that finally early this year the city, county and state people had their first joint meeting to discuss common drainage problems. Although some work has been done by each of these parts of government and there is some improvement to be noted, we all know that the surface has just been scratched. Further, there has been no record of another public meeting of these groups.

The City of Rockport cannot prepare for the future all alone. The APATHY with which this is starting should be of concern to all of us. Are there those among us who do not want things to change? Surely not enough of them to sabotage our future.

What must our tourists think of the stagnant bodies of water which are everywhere after a rain? What about our folks in both city and county who have no sewage facilities until after the water drains off? Sewage and drainage are only two phases of overall planning included in a Master Plan to be developed by the Planning Commission.

Conspicuous by their absence were Aransas County officials. Not one was present despite a front page treatment by the Rockport Pilot and invitations from the City.

The film that was shown at the meeting described a "dying town." A part of our main street with not much effort could have been filmed and matched a scene or two that we were privileged to see. We cannot stay "As Is." We either go forward or slip back. A little effort and enthusiasm will spread and soon could be the force which could make our area one of the most attractive on the coast. Can we not afford to set aside or resolve whatever differences exist and build a bright future? I for one believe we can but we will have to quit sitting on our hands—but right now.

DR. CRUTCHER DIES

Dr. C. W. Crutcher, 86, retired dentist of Mineral Wells, passed away June 18 at the Palo Pinto Hospital in that city. Burial will be Thursday from the First Baptist Church of Mineral Wells.

Dr. Crutcher was a charter member of the Rotary Club in Mineral Wells.

He was married in Rockport in 1911 to the former Owene Brackenridge Peeler at Peeler summer home.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Ham Menger of San Antonio, and 2 granddaughters and one great granddaughter of Dallas.

merce has made arrangements to have its Board of Directors, other civic leaders, and representatives of the City of Rockport and Aransas County greet the visitors at a coffee at the Sandollar Colony Room at 5:30 p.m. a catch of over 100 each day. Monroe Bibb and Mr. and Mrs. Newman, all of San Antonio, fishing Saturday, had 82 trout.

Wendell L. Foss of Palm Harbor and San Antonio, fishing Sunday, caught 182 trout. Mr. and Mrs. McCullen of Austin had a catch of 65 fish.

Tony Chaidler and party of Austin, fishing the Gulf, caught 10 kings, 4 jacks and 2 ling.

Richard Monzingo and Mark of Ft. Worth, fishing with L. W. Monzingo of Palm Harbor, caught 22 trout, all averaging 2 pounds each, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Leland Tucker and Nancy of Palm Harbor and Yoakum, had a catch of 65 trout.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Irwin of Palm Harbor and their guests, Mrs. Bruce Hyers and Mary Katherine Myers of Pasadena, Texas, caught about 35 trout Saturday.

Mildred says that everyone who fished had good catches. Fishing has been excellent in this vicinity.

A&R Bait and Tackle Shop at the end of Market Street reports the following recent catches from its pier and in the bay:

Raymond Sruhlek and Charlie Vrzalik of Ennis caught 216 speckled trout in three days; Tom Rushing of Corpus Christi caught 36 trout and two flounders from the pier; "Chill" Chilton of Dallas spent two weeks here and took home with him 176 pounds of trout fillets.

Browne's Harbor/Marina on Southbeach made a unique survey last week by recording the catches of all the boats fishing out of their marina.

Counting all varieties of game fish the results showed that each fisherman averaged 16 fish per day. Trout accounted for the majority of fish taken, although quite a few redfish were also caught. Catches of 40 to 60 fish per boat were not unusual.

Fish taken last week were also noticeably larger in size than in previous weeks. Naturally some days are better than others, as there are peak periods and slack periods, but with conditions in the bay as they are now and taking everything into consideration, the fishing outlook for Aransas Bay looks extremely favorable this year.

State Publishes Travel Folders

Governor John Connally today announced the publication of detailed folders for two of the Statewide systems of Texas Travel Trails.

The folders, published by the Texas Highway Department, will serve as guides and detail numerous points of interest along the Texas Mountain Trail in far East Texas, and the Texas Forest Trail in deep East Texas.

The folders will lead travelers through picturesque landscapes, by historic sites and to colorful cities and towns on the two official State trails. Connally announced the new Statewide system of trails last January. Each county erected special Travel Trail signs along the 10 official trail routes.

The Mountain Trail folder guides travelers through the tallest region of Texas, where 90 peaks thrust above a mile high. The route goes past the nation's newest national park, to be developed in the Guadalupe Mountains, and to Davis Mountains State Park.

Those following the Mountain Trail will visit Big Bend National Park, the scenic El Camino del Rio from Big Bend to Presidio, and through the cities of Van Horn, Fort Davis, Marfa, Alpine and El Paso.

The Texas Forest Trail explores a 790-mile loop through the vast Piney Woods region. It goes through four national forests and past scores of federal, state and county recreational areas.

Other spots of interest include the East Texas oil field, the State's only Indian reservation, the Big Thicket and such popular water sports areas as Lake O' the Pines, Caddo Lake and Sam Rayburn Reservoir.

Travel Trail literature is available from the Texas Highway Department tourist bureaus and district offices, and at chambers of commerce along the Travel Trail routes.

Individual folders for the remaining eight Travel Trails will be released during the next few weeks as soon as printing is completed.

PIRATE BAND NEWS

The Pirate Band is proud to announce that they will be representing the Rockport-Fulton High School in new band uniforms this fall.

The uniform will consist of a hat and plume, trousers, tuxedo coat for concert wear, and a parade overlay for marching. The band has been looking for zipper bags in which the new uniforms would be stored and carried.

Dr. H. F. Elliot, president of the school board, was present at a grand opening of a Texaco service station and received a red two-suiter zipper bag. He relayed the information about the zipper bag to J. D. Gray, superintendent of schools, who in turn told Bob Massey, band director.

Gray and Massey contacted the Texaco Sales office in Corpus Christi and Bellaire, Texas to seek information about zipper bags for the band. The band has received free of charge 105 red zipper bags. The band certainly appreciates the generosity of the Texaco Company.

July 28-Aug. 2 are the dates that the Pirate Band will attend a band camp at Schreiner Institute, Kerrville. The band will spend five days marching, playing instruments, and just getting in shape for the 1968 fall marching season.

The band will enjoy air-conditioned dormitories for their housing, and a large swimming pool for relaxation and enjoyment. On return from band camp the band will have rehearsals throughout the remainder of August.

This and That
JOHN KINSEY

"During this period of violence throughout the nation, we are prone to see only the evil that is done instead of the goodness in people that far outweighs the evil."

Those words were written recently by a Rockport lady in expressing appreciation for the kindness and thoughtfulness shown by many friends during the serious illness of her husband.

"In our own small community," she wrote, "where there are residents who are very ill, look at your fellow man and recognize the compassion on his face, the desire and willingness to go to any lengths to help you."

"This is my first experience in having to bear the near loss of someone dear to me, and only through you have I been able to accept. To you who have borne heartbreak I can now say, 'Yes, I know how you feel.'"

"To those who have not had this experience, let me say this: 'There is someone near you at all times who cares, your friends and God, and when the time comes, accept their offer of help.'"

"I have learned that I cannot bear my burden alone, and why should I, when you are there for me to lean on? Don't ever do as I did, my friends, when my husband first became ill, and you offered help and I said there was nothing you could do."

"When I let go and let you and God take a portion of my burden from me, it was like a weight lifted from my shoulders. Friends have mowed our lawn (one little boy was smaller than the mower); friends brought me food and sat with me until I ate; when my husband was in the intensive care unit, one friend was there before me each morning, so I was never alone."

"Of course there is evil in our nation and our community. There has always been evil and there always will be, but right now I find it hard to locate in our town."

The Good Neighbor Club meeting will be held June 26 at the Odd Fellow Hall. The hostesses are Mrs. Mattie Mundine, Mrs. Annie Belle McMillan and Mrs. Jessie Mundine.

Since the last meeting there have been 97 visits made and 65 cards sent. The circle mailed 11 packages of cookies and candy to the boys in service.

There were 11 members present and all took part in the lesson. The lesson subject was "The Holy Spirit and Living Victoriously." Mrs. Edward Setterbo was the moderator and was in charge of the Least Coin program. Mrs. W. F. Pettitt gave the Emphasis.
