Chamber Of Commerce Is To Aid Farmers In Obtaining Replanting Seed; All Livestock Is Killed

(By Associated Press)

COLORADO, May 25. — A Hail storm extending three miles in width, and 25 miles in length virtually wiped out 90,000 acres of Mitchell county's crops today. J. H. Green, secretary of the Colorado chamber of commerce, estimated the loss at $250,000.

A heavy rain accompanied the hailstorm and caused high water at the end of the country club lake dam. Several housese and barns were unroofed, chickens, calves, pigs and sheep were killed in large numbers.

The storm originated near Cuthbert, 15 miles northwest of here and extended through the Buford, Shepherd, Payne and McKenzie communities.

Drifts of hail several feet high were vsible in many places. The creek was a floating mass of ice, and the dam was banked with green trees.

The chamber of commerce announced it would cooperate with the farmers in obtaining seed for replanting.

Seek To Postpone French War Debt

Action Dependent On Ratification Of Mellon-Berenger Debt Agreement By French Parliament

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTN, May 25.—Resolutions providing for postponement of payment by France of the $400,000,000 war supplies debt due August 1, if the French parliament ratifies the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement before August 1 and while congress is in recess, were introduced today in the senate and house.

The resolutions were considered to have administration support for early enactment, inasmuch as Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee and Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee introduced them. Both would provide that the $400,000,000 would not fall due until May 1, 1930, con-

Revive Pocket Knife Swindle

KANSAS CITY, May 25. (AP)—The old pocket knife swindle has been revived here.

As a result, W. A. Blos, Olpe, Kas., lost $10, and two men giving their names as John R. McCollum, Los Angeles, and Otis Hartbert, 27, Canadian, Texas, lost their freedom.

Blos came upon the two men disputing in the union station. They declared they had a pocket knife no one could open. Blos bet ten dollars he could do the trick, and finally gave up in defeat.

Then he told police. Officers arrested McCollum and Hartbert. After they were arrested the knife was investigated. It was a pocket knife no one could open.

Dallas Woman Is Seriously Injured When Son Shoots Bullets At Father

Youthful Attorney Is Charged With Shooting

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, May 25—Mrs. Theda Burch, 27, of a Dallas suburb, was shot and wounded seriously here today and Cecil Hubbert, 22 attorney, was charged with the shooting. Young Hubbert's father, Dr. William E. Hubbert, 55, escaped bullets which authorities claimed were fired at him by the son.

Responding to a telephone call from his mother, who said two women were pursuing her and would not allow her to return to her home, Hubbert left his office and went to his mother's home. Arriving there, he saw Dr. Hubbert passing by in a taxicab. The physician was fired on.

Car Crowded To Curb

After this occurrence, Cecil Hubbert is said to have started to leave his mother's residence when his automobile was crowded into the curb by another carrying two women. One of the women left the machine; Young Hubbert alighted from his and the shooting in which Mrs. Burch was injured followed. Mrs. Burch was accompanied to the hospital by her sister, Mrs. C. R. Rolenson of El Paso.

Dr. Hubbert, who has been separated from his wife, was not in the motor car with Mrs. Burch and Mrs. Rolenson.

Abernathy Man Is Injured In Crash

Walter Hembree, 35, who lives three and one-half miles northwest of Abernathy, sustained a serious skull injury Saturday night about 9:30 o'clock, when the car which he was driving crashed into the bar pit on the road between Hale Center and his home.

The wreck victim was brought to the Lubbock sanitarium about 10:30 o'clock last night, and attendants at the institution announced shortly before midnight that his condition is serious, although hope is maintained for his recovery.

Mr. Hembree was also bruised about the body.

Prince Of Wales Causes Riot In Review Of Police

Vast Throngs Gather At Hyde Park To Witness Celebration; Cheers Scare Prince's Mount

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 25.—Enthusiasm aroused by the Prince of Wales at a review of the metropolitan police force, which celebrated its centennial, today, reached an almost riotous stage.

One hundred thousand persons gathered in Hyde Park to witness the impressive review. As the Prince entered the parade field loud cheering disturbed his mount.

The vast throng held its breath as the animal reared but the heir to the throne quickly brought the horse under control and rode it sedately down the long blue lines of "bobbies."

After the Prince had reviewed 13,000 marching police in front of Buckingham Palace later, a section of the crowd pushed forward to see the Prince depart. A police cordon was broken and in the wild rush, several persons, including a woman with a baby, were knocked down and injured.

Civilians joined policemen on duty to renew the cordon at the palace gates. The crowd finally responded to the good-humored appeal of the police "be sports on our day off," and order was restored.

Even then, a crowd composed mostly of girls chased the Prince's automobile down the Mall, and some of the girls attempted to jump on the footboard, without success.

Evangeline Booth Injured In Wreck

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army was reported "progressing as favorably as can be expected" tonight from injuries received in an automobile accident.

She is being treated, at her home, for concussion of the brain and contusions of the eye. Commander Booth was injured when her chauffeur suddenly swerved his car across a ditch to avoid hitting the auto in front of him, which turned across the road.

Graciousness Of Governor Moody In Granting Interim Between Sessions Is Praised In Capitol

BY R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 25.—The political weather vane indicates the second called session of the 41st legislature, called to convene June 3, will be the "most harmonious" of either the regular or first exrtaordinary session.

Speaker W. S. Barron said the legislators are all "pepped up" to put over the appropriation bills, enact measures providing for adequate revenue of the highway department, and do almost any "reasonable thing" Governor Moody asks.

The graciousness of the governor in permitting the legislators to go to their homes for a two weeks interim was praised up and down the capitol before the members departed last week.

Should Mr. Moody decide that the prison concentration measure is a "judicious bill" and sign it, his action will have a good effect on the returning lawmakers and add to their peace of mind, observers claim.

Speaker Barron senses the help such action of the governor would be and issued a statement before leaving for his home in Bryan declaring that it is his wish that the chief executive may see his way clear to approve the bill as a "start" towards solution of the worrysome problem of reorganizing the penitentiary system and placing it on a business-like plane.

Friends of the governor assert he will sign the bill if, after digesting

Growth Seen Here In Air Industry

Building a temporary hangar and the establishment of a flying school in Lubbock give promise of a rapid growth in the air industry of this city.

The temporary landing field and hangar facilities, located on the Plainview highway four miles east of the city, have been established by the Lubbock Air Service, Inc.

As agents for the Cutris Robin and Travel Air planes, the local concern plans to give regular instruction in flying. At the present time, a three-passenger Curtis Robin is being used for demonstrations and student instruction. Jimmy Cole is the licensed pilot in charge.

An open Travel Air training plane will arrive within the next month to be used exclusivey for instruction.

PERMITS ARE BOOSTED

Building For Past Week In Lubbock Is $27,800

Valuations of Lubbock building permits for the week ending Saturday totaled $27,800, extending the aggregate for the year to $2,307,687.

Building valuations for the month have totaled $244,497.

A total of 386 permits have been issued this year.

A survey reveals pronounced advancement in the building projects in the mercantile district at the close of the week.

Peanut Pusher Still Plodding

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 25. (AP)—Undeterred by the fact that he wore out five goobers and one knee pad in pushing 1.1 miles toward the summit of Pike's Peak yesterday, Bill Williams, Rio Hondo, Texas, peanut pusher, started out with a fresh supply of peanuts and bigger and softer padding for his knees today.

Williams has pushed the peanut through Ute Pass and has entered the highway to the crest of the peak but he still faces a long and arduous trek before he reaches his goal in 22 days.

Hamilton Makes Bond Of $20,000 To Earn Freedom

Testimony Of Daughter In Preliminary Hearing Is Deciding Factor Of Release; Awaits Trial

(By Associated Press)

AMARILLO, May 25.—Aided by the testimony of the seventeen-year-old daughter he widowed, R. H. Hamilton, former Texas High court official, today was released from jail on $20,000 bail to await trial for the slaying of Tom Walton, Jr., 21.

Walton, bridegroom of but a few weeks, was shot to death in the office of former Judge Hamilton three weeks ago today when he went there to talk over the new marital relations with his father-in-law.

In admitting the former jurist to bail, Judge Henry S. Bishop rendered no formal opinion other than that the case was bailable under new statutes. Hamilton's wife, daughter and a son, Bobbie, were in the court room today and waited until he was released.

Several prominent friends, including four of his attorneys, signed the bail bond for Hamilton.

Young Mrs. Walton, co-ed at the University of Texas when she was married, had not seen her father since the wedding day until she raced into his arms at the habeas corpus hearing yesterday.

Federal Court To Open Here June 3

The first week of Federal Court for the Lubbock division, which convenes here June 3, will be devoted to equity matters, bankruptcy cases and motions, according to a letter received yesterday by Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy clerk, from Judge James C. Wilson, of Fort Worth, who will occupy the bench here.

The petit jury will report June 10, at which time the criminal docket will be called. The latter part of the third week will be devoted to law cases which might come before the court.

If a fourth week is necessary, the court will be concerned with any business, other than criminal cases, which might develop.

BUS AND AUTO COLLIDE

Lovington, New Mexico, Will Be Host To Thousands Today At Big Barbecue And Program Celebrating Prospective Railroads To City

FROM three to four thousand people are expected to swarm down on Lovington, New Mexico, today, W. M. Snyder, of Lovington, told officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce over long distance late yesterday.

"We want as many of you Lubbock fellows over here as you can bring," Snyder declared.

A barbecue, followed by a few talks by officials of the state of New Mexico and the Texas and Pacific railway will be in store for the people who gather there.

A dozen or more Lubbock people are going to Lovington to represent this city, a check up at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon reveals.

W. K. Dickinson, sr., a member of the Santa Fe Railway extension committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will head the delegation to Lovington. The party will leave the City Hall about seven o'clock.

Any other Lubbock people who can make the trip are requested to join the party at the City Hall at seven o'clock or come ahead on to Lovington later. The party plans to go by Ropesville Meadow, Brownfield, Plains, Tatum and then south to Lovington. A check up on the roads from every source, indicates that they are in good condition.

4,000 Are Expected

In his telephone conversation, Mr. Snyder stated that plans are complete to serve 4,000 people at the barbecue. Governor R. C. Dillon, of New Mexico, and Hugh Williams, chairman of the New Mexico State Corporation Commission, and other state officials had already arrived for the celebration yesterday afternoon. Williams was in Lubbock during the railway hearing recently and was one of the principal speakers at the banquet given those attending the hearing by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

The Texas and Pacific Railway officials will come on a special train from Dallas. T. O. Bateman, vice-president of the road, Ollie Webb, assistant to the president, and others will be in the party and will appear on the program, following the barbecue. The special train will come to Cheyenne, on the Texas and New Mexico Railway line and car

Survey Shows Need For Juvenile Protection In City

Recreational Provisions Ought To Be Made, Is Evident; County Judge Is Opposed To Juvenile Officer Plan

Home Environment Is Given Blame For Misconduct Of Youth Here; Inmon Says Officer Would Help

"REMEMBER now thy creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come out, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."—Eccl. 12:1.

Abraham Lincoln said, "A boy is America's greatest institution."

With wholesome foundation, the boy is bigger than a factory, possesses more possibilities than any industry, and without him the traditions and effulgence of our forefathers would sink into oblivion.

What's the Investment

And yet, what is our investment in such an institution?

A board of directors were trying to place a corporation, which was facing bankruptcy, on substantial and profitable basis. Consultation of all departments revealed that inefficiency of factory equipment was jeopardizing quality of products, with an accompanying decrease in sales. Machinery of the institution was overhauled and necessary equipment was added. The business was re-established.

Millionsh are spent to build business institutions, but comparatively little is spent toward building the character of those who will some day direct those institutions.

Lubbock, growing into the metropolitan class, is facing the problem which confronts every city—recreational provisions for boys and girls, or preparation for supervision of juveniles.

Plan Advocated Here

The Plainsman, Lubbock Daily Journal columnist, is advocating the operation of Lubbock's two gymnasiums under a system of organized play for the purpose of providing moral and physical development for the under privileged boys who are now denied recreational facilities by this city. Fifty men who will contribute $3 per month each for the summer months are needed to put the plan in operation.

Six juveniles were recently arraigned in local courts on charges of petty thievery, due largely, in The Plainsman's opinion, to lack of training facilities for youths in this city.

When ineffectualities of juveniles are flaunted in court rooms then the city faces another problem. Under the present system the juvenile is arraigned before the county court, where Judge Robert H. Bean has only two alternatives of jurisdiction. He can commit the juvenile violator to the state reformatory, or he can parole him to some person, that person being the parent in almost every case.

Reformatory Plan Bad

In nine cases out of ten the violations of the juvenile will not justify a reformatory sentence, investigation proves. Products of the reformatory have proved to be characters far separated from the intended purpose of such an institution.

Officers blame the unlawful actions of juveniles to home environment, supporting the argument that the parent is not capable of assuming the role of probate officer.

"Poverty of parents, lack of amusements and absence of recreational facilities are largely responsible for juvenile depredations in this city," said Judge Bean. "Since January 1, I have had only nine juveniles in my court, and out of that number scarcely three or four could have been influenced by a probate or juvenile officer."

Advocate Officer

A survey, however, proves that not all juveniles who are arrested on petty charges are brought before Judge Bean's court. Innumerable cases, wherein violations did not warrant court action, are related by J. T. Inmon, judge of the city corporation court, who is an advocate for full-time employment of a juvenile officer.

"I can easily see the need for a probate officer," said Judge Inmon. "Such an officer should be a man who knows how to talk with boys, and who can give them the proper vision of life. The youthful perpetrators would be required to report to such an officer at designated periods after the first violation. The proper officer could be of immeasurable benefit to the city and county."

An example of what a juvenile officer could do was evident in Judge Inmon's court several days ago. A lad who had been arraigned before the court several times for investigation was being given a lecture. Through Judge Inmon's convincing talk the youth was moved to tears. He wept at length, and promised he'd never be associated again with the "old gang."

Time is Scarce

But intervals are scarce when Judge Inmon will have time to give such lectures, for he is concerned with dealing with numerous violations.

Some of the lads who have been arraigned before the city court are now attending a Sunday school class, conducted for boys at the First Methodist church by Judge Inmon, who still believes that the boy can be "reached."

"There is no greater way to be of service to a community than through leadership of boys," Judge Inmon expresses. "It is a source of infinite pleasure to one of my age to feel that he is serving boys, and helping direct their steps."

Mrs. M. A. Fertilion of Dimmitt, is the guest of her brother, Dean James M. Gordon, during Tech commencement.

Texas Fliers

observers thought that the pilots would have little difficulty riding out the storm.

Former Mechanic And Cowboy Achieve Feat

FORT WORTH, May 25 (AP)—Two weary fliers, one a former cowboy, the other an extra railroad mechanic, achieved a feat man never before accomplished here tonight when they passed their 153rd hour without the support of mother earth.

R. L. Robbins and James Kelley, who took to the air in their monoplane Fort Worth, last Sunday morning, grinned and waved their hands as nearly every noise making instrument in the city broke loose to appaud them a moment after the record of 150:40:15 seconds, established by the army plane "Question Mark" on the Pacific coast recently had been bettered by one hour.

The fliers missed the celebration which occurred on the instant the record fell for their plane had carried them across the field only a moment before and they were banking around behind a hangar for the return trip.

Siren Starts Noise

A large siren at the field started the noise and airplane and motor car exhausts, bombs, and fireworks, the backfiring of motorcycle officers' machines swelled it into a roar, as the air grew blue with exhaust gas. The crowd itself was incapable of making much vocal noise against the din of the mechanical applause, and besides, the men it was cheering were out of sight.

A moment later when the plane droned over the horizon of the hangar the crowd itself broke into a roar and the air was white with straw hats. It was a great moment for straw hat makers. Other pilots at the field and friends of the record breakers kissed and hugged each other. Mrs. Robbins and Mrs. Kelly made shrill joyful sounds and jumped up and down and other citizens, who came merey to see the finish yelled themselves hoarse. It was several hours before the long blocks of automobiles bedded in nearby pastures could untangle themselves and return to town.

Message Is Dropped

The big moment found the fliers themselves without a clever word or pat sentiment to greet the enthusiasm. On their second trip across the field they dropped a message, but the first part of it evidently had been written before the record fell and the last line added as an effort to answer the enthusiasm. A request for various supplies, which the fliers will need if they carry out their announced determination to say in the air until Wednesday or Thursday took up the first few lines of the missive and the last line said simply:

"It sure is a fine crowd."

Captain Ira C. Eaker, chief pilot of the Question Mark, when it established the former record, was in the crowd earier in the day and sent a message of greeting to the fliers before taking off for San Angelo to visit his father.

Lady Mary Heath of England, famous cross country flier, also sent gretings but was forced to fly on to keep up with her schedule on a trip to the Pacific coast.

Bank Accounts Increase

From the moment the record fell the fliers were piling up bank accounts at the rate of $50 each an hour. A testimonial sent aloft earlier in the day signed by the heads of six of the largest aerial transportation lines in the country promised the two men $100 an hour for every hour they remain in the air beyond the record.

"Your wonderful record," the testimonial said "which has proved to the world the practicability of commercial aviation, giving convincing evidence of the safety and reliability of commercial aircraft has commanded the admiration of the people of the United tSates.

"You have taken a single motored ship, with an engine which already had operated for more than 500 hours and without any elaborate organization on the ground and with but little financial backing have excelled all former endurance records."

The testimonial was signed by Graham B. Grosvenor, president of the Aviation Corporation of New York; John F. Ryan, president of the Coonial Airways of Boston; Paul Braniff, of Tulsa, president of the Braniff Air Lines; Dan Jones of St. Louis, president of the Universal Aviation corporation; Paul Riddle of Cincinnati, president of the Embry-Riddle Corporation and A. P. Barrett of Fort Worth, president of the Southern Air Transport, Inc.

Letter Is Transmitted

The letter which Lady Mary Heath sent to the fliers, via the refuelling plane follows, in part:

"T A T has just taken me up to look at you and I want to tell you how awfully pleased I am at being able to come to see a moment or two of your marvelous achievement.

"You are too tired to realize it now—but you have set a beautiful milestone in the path of the world's progress.

"I would like to convey to you all of my fellow countrymens' appreciation of your great achievement as well as my own."

When the tumult and tension was over the spidery monoplane still droned across the sky, its motor running very slowly and its wings seming to droop a bit with weariness, but its motor was running smoothly, better, according to mechanics, than at the take off. An expert from the Wright factory, who had a few moments to adjust the valves before the take off, attributed its increased efficiency to the fact that he had made everything a trifle tighter than necessary before the take off, thus giving the motor a change to wear itself to the proper tune later in the flight when stamina was needed.

Forced Landing Will Lose Record For Fliers

FORT WORTH, May 25. (AP)—Some apprehension was felt tonight for the crew of the "Fort Worth" which today broke the world's endurance flight record, when the plane was not seen over the municipa airport for 45 minutes during a light rain and electrical storm. It was thought that they might have tried to dodge the storm. Should they be forced down away from the field they would lose the record they established earlier in the day because the rules specify that no record is made unless the plane lands on the same field and its landing timed by the same time piece used at the take-off. If the two pilots, R. L. Robbins and Jim Kelly still are aloft they passed their 153rd hour in the air at 9:33-29 tonight.

Robbins Learned Flying By Personal Experience

FORT WORTH, May 25. (AP)—R. L. Robbins, pilot of the monoplane Fort Worth, learned most of his flying by personal experience.

He was a railroad mechanic and his home was at Everman, Texas, near here, six years ago when the desire to fly seized him. Three lessons were all that he had. The remainder of his flying skill was picked up by listening to the chatter of pilots and mechanics around airports and by personal experiment.

First Plane Second Hand

His first plane was a second-hand one in which he started his barnstorming career. Since that time he estimates that he has carried as passengers between 15,000 and 20,000 people all over the southwest. He is probably the best known barnstormer in this territory.

He purchased his present plane two years ago but was dissatisfied with the motor in it so bought a rebuilt whirlwind which another flier had discarded as faulty.

Robbins is 26 years old. He has a wife and one son, Jack, five years old. The family now resides in Fort Worth.

James Kelly Is Former Cowboy

FORT WORTH, May 25 (AP)—James Kelly, who in the space of two years has mastered the flying profession and became a noted figure in it, leaped from the hurricane deck of a cow pony to the cockpit of an airplane.

Kelly, 23, was born and reared at Caddo, in West Texas, where the leading profession in Kelly's youth was cattle raising and the most common ability, the ability to ride. He was a cowboy in that neighborhood from the time he finished his common school education until after he had attained his majority.

Envied Passing Fliers

As he sat on his cow pony through rains, terrific heat and dust storms he often allowed his eyes to linger on the planes passing over the ranch, and he envied the fliers their cool isolation above the uncomfortable plains. On day he decided that he was foolish to punching cattle when there was a profession as alluring as flying so he drew his pay and came to Fort Worth.

A big commercial air school just had been opened here a short time before that and Kelly enrolled. Instructing the teachers to "give me the works." As a result he took the most thorough course the Texas Air Transport school offers. He finished the course last April, but he showed such aptitude with planes and motors that before that time the company made him manager of its Laredo field.

Since the Mexican air mail has started entering the United States through Brownsville instead of Laredo, Kelly has been head mechanic for the Southern Aeromotive Service.

He was married a few weeks ago and is making his home here.

Two Oher Planes Seek Endurance Mark

(By Associated Press)

Three civilian airplanes were roaring on early Saturday night after one already had accomplished the goal it sought—to break the world's endurance flight record.

R. L. Robbins and James Kelly, flying the single-motored, rebuilt monoplane Fort Worth, had shattered the army plane Question Mark's record of 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds.

Takes Off At Wichita

Hoping to surpass the same refueling flight record Owen I. Haugh-land, and Gene Shank of Minnesota, took off at 8:54 a. m., central standard, yesterday at Wichita, Kas., in a single-motored ship, the "Miss Ranger." They planned to fly to Minneapolis, Minn., and Ranger, Texas, after completing 24 hours in the air over Wichita and then return to Wichita for the remainder of the flight.

Herbert J. Fahy took off at Los Angeles at 5:15 a. m., Pacific coast time, yesterday, in an effort to set a new unofficial endurance solo flight record. His monoplane carried 460 gallons of gasoline. For good luck, he carried the rabbit's foot which was aboard the "Question Mark" on its record flight and also with Captain Frank Hawks on his transcontinental nonstop flight last year. Martin Jensen on February 6 last stayed aloft 35 hours and 28 minutes at Roosevelt Field, New York, and now holds the unofficial record.

September is named from the Latin word for seven — septem. Before Julius Caesar it was the seventh month of the year.

its provisions, he can satisfy his own mind that something may come of it.

Under its provisions the governor would appoint a committee of nine citizens to act independely of the prison board in making an exhaustive survey of the present properties to determine if any of the present-owned lands are suitable for a central plant of modern construction Should the committee decide there is a site available it would report to the governor who would direct the prison board to proceed towards consummating the concentration.

However, should the committee decide that present properities are unfit for the central plant, then the lieutenant governor would name three senators and the speaker of the house eight members of that branch to act with nine members of the prison board to make another survey both of the present-owned lands and available sites elsewhere in the state.

The board of education bill failed in the regular session, but was pulled out of the fire in the closing hours of the special session. In haste to dispose of it the legislators overlooked amending the caption to conform to some eliminations made in it, but it is believed this will not invalidate the bill. The caption recites that the superintendent of public instruction shall be appointed by the board of education, but this section was stricken out at the last mniute.

Lovington Fete

from Lovington will meet them A thirty piece band will be aboard the train and will help keep things lively at Lovington during the day.

Situated in the heart of a newly developed oil territory, also rich in agricultural and ranching development, Lovington, the capital of Lea county, is in line for a most rapid development. At this time the town has a population of over 1,000 people and new people and new businesses are locating there daily.

Both the Texas and Pacific and the Santa Fe railroads have applied for permits to build to Lovington. Briefs will be filed at Washington with the Interstate Commerce Commission, July 1, 1929. A five day's hearing was held here in April, at which time officials of both railroads and a score of witnesses testified.

Lubbock threw all its support to the Santa Fe, believing that this line, would not only be to the best interest of Lovington and Lea county, but also to the best interest of Lubbock and other South Plains towns. Albert L. Reed, Dallas traffic expert was retained as counsel for the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to assist the Santa Fe in the case.

Lubbock and Lovington have been closely associated in business connections in the past and the object of the Lubbock citizens who are accepting Lovington's invitation today is to renew old acquaintances and to help better cement the good will that exists between these two trade centers.

Among the Lubbock citizens who will go to Lovington early today are the following: W. K. Dickinson, sr., J. S. Lancaster, E. Lee Brown, Dr. I. E. Barr, Garnet Reeves, J. M. Bennett, Wyatt L. Hester, and others.

Testing Equipment Here

All equipment for the cow testing by mail, sponsored jointly by Sterling C. Evans, district county agent, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Texas Tech, has been received, the dairy committe reported. The Chamber of Commroe has donated the necessary mailing boxes, sample dippers, cans and other material. The cow testing laboratory, a non-profit organiation, will be operated at Texas Tech.

The cow testing plan has been devised in an effort to interest farmers in improving their dairy herds.

Assisting in marking of the highway, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is making preparations for an influx of tourists who will be passing through this city, enroute to Carlsbad Cavern. Prospects are bright for a huge voume of tourists this summer, according to a report of the Carlsbad Cavern Highway association.

Children Stampede In Theater Blaze

AKRON, O., May 25.—(AP)—Two hundred children stampeded from the Ideal Theater this afternoon when flames licked out from the projection booth.

A seven-year-old girl was thrown against a seat, sustaining minor injuries. She was removed to her home without her name being obtained. Pocket books, shoes and other articles of clothing were lost by the children in their dash for the exits. It was a regular Saturday afternoon children's matinee with no adult spectators.

The projectionist could not be found when firemen reached the scent and no explanation of how the film caught fire was obtained. Damage was slight.

To Ratify Agreement

Should this occur, and the agreement likewise be ratified by the American congress prior to next May 1, then settlement of the $400,000,000 debt would be made in accordance with terms embodied in the Mellon-Berenger plan.

A hearing on the resolution has been called for Wednesday by the house ways and means committee. Chairman Hawley hopes for action before the proposed congressional recess begins.

DEFENSE SCORES

Sentence Of 6 Year-Old Is Prolonged By Order

PAINTSVILLE, May 25. (AP)—The fifteen-year reformatory sentence hanging over the head of little Carl Newton Mahan, six and a half year old ad who shot and killed his playmate, Cecil Van Hoose, 8, was a step farther away tonight, while societies, lawyers, and private citizens the country over wrote and wired their opinions in the case to officials.

The defense scored its first victory of what promised to be a long skirmish today, Circuit Judge J. F. Baley issued a writ restraining County Judge John W. Butcher from sending the Mahan youth.

Trust to Experience—

The Greatest Teacher of Them All

TIRE-BUYING is hardly to be counted among the "pleasures" of owning an automobile.

It means the paying out of money which also may be needed for something else.

That is why most car owners now think twice before they accept a tire. They desire that their purchases of tires be few and far between.

Advertising, friendship, high-powered words—these things don't influence tire-buyers as formerly. Tires are mostly bought today on a straight business basis. On the basis of proved facts, proved performance, proved superiority — not on talk or claims.

Millions more people than ever before now trust to experience—the greatest teacher of all—in choosing tires.

That is why millions more people buy Goodyear Tires than any other kind. Why, in a recent nation-wide popularity check, car-owners favored Goodyears 2 to 1 over the next make—and from 3 to 1 up to 30 to 1 over other makes.

Goodyear sales, as a result, have leaped to many millions more than any other company.

Through this enormous and ever-increasing quantity production, costs have been steadily lowered, permitting Goodyear to give a quality so much greater for the same money that Goodyear Tires are by far "The World's Greatest Values."

Trust to Experience when YOU buy tires. Come to us, your Goodyear dealer. You can depend on one thing: you'll have the "pleasure" of seeing us far less frequently for the purchase of new tires.

GOODYEAR TIRES

An Unbeatable Combination!

We clean and straighten your rims, mount your tires free, give you an allowance for your old tires, and watch over the new ones all year 'round to see that they give you the extra miles Goodyear builds into them.

Strong Pampa Nine Here Today To Clash With Hubbers

Veteran Baseball Aggregation From Panhandle, Headed By 'Em' Gober, To Meet Lubbock 9 This Afternoon

Manager Jackson Gathers Formidable Team To Pit Against Grays Today; Game Called 4 O'Clock

"Emmer" Gober and his fast-stepping Pampa Grays come to town today to train their big berthas, trench mortars and machine gun fire on the ambitious Lubbock Hubbers, recently established as one of the strongest baseball aggregations in West Texas. The game is called at 4 o'clock on the Merrill diamond.

Manager Gilbert Jackson will present a slugging lineup in the fracas with the Grays today. The local nine will likely be made up entirely of Lubbock players.

Look 'Em Over

In center field and leading off for the Hubbers will be the fleet Jackson. Topper Rigney, versatile second sacker, will fill the sacrafice position in the batting order. Hensley, in right field, Evo Marshall in left and Red Wooten, formerly of the Arizona State League, follow in order and constitute the murderers row for Lubbock. This trio swing mighty war clubs and pack the punch that usually nets runs. Lil' Arthur Burnett will cavort about first base for the Hubbers and bat in sixth place. Dude Lassiter at shortstop and Earnest Carr behind the plate complete the first eight hitters. Volney Hill, Red Howell and Moore are in line for pitching duties.

Hill May Start

In case the weather is of the summer variety, Hill will start on the mound for the locals. Sunshine and plenty of it puts the Tech moist-ball artist at a decided advantage.

Manager Gober sent ahead his starting lineup by telegraph last night, stating that the Grays are all set to give the Lubbock nine a sound trouncing. Dickey and Hunter will do the hurling against the locals while Rusty Cahill will be held as utility.

Following is the lineup: Hart, ss; Roberts, 2b; Rowe, lf; Waller, cf; Magnes, rf; Gober, 1b; Hunter, 3b; Horton, c; Rickey and Raines, pitchers.

Texas Promoter Revives Boxing

FORT WORTH, May 25. (AP)—The boxing game, long dormant in Texas, has been revived to a remarkable extent during the last two years through the efforts of one man.

He is "Dandy Dick" Griffin, once one of the greatest little fighters ever developed in the state.

Griffin's weekly cards here always draw near capacity houses, enabling him to bring in much better talent than has been available in other cities of the state for many years.

A shrewd judge of pugilists, the little impresario seldom has made a bad match since he staged his first show here and he has been rewarded with increasingly large patronage. Many fans journey from Dallas and other nearby cities every week to see his shows.

So successful has Griffin's venture into the promotion phase been that he is planning to extend his system over the state. The first city added to his string was Waco, where he has completed arrangements to hold semi-monthly punch-fests. He has backing of the American Legion here and at Waco.

Two Tie For 56th Lap In Pilgrimage

SIERRA BLANCA, Tex., May 25. (AP)—Giusto Umek, of Italy, and Phillip Granville, Hamilton, Ont., Indian, tied for first place today in the fifty-sixth lap of C. C. Pyle's bunion derby, covering the 34.4 miles from Van Horn to Sierra Blanca in 4:47:02.

It was Umek's second victory since the present race began and the first time Granville, winner of third place last year, had finished at the top.

Herbert Hedeman, New York, oldest man in the field, tied with M. B. McNamara of Australia for third in 4:58:10. For the sixth straight day the two leaders, Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., and Pete Gavuzzi of England, tied. They were fifth in 5:02:40, and Salo, lead remains at 21 minutes and 30 seconds.

Harmon Bans Passes And Radio

CHICAGO, May 25. (AP)—Paddy Harmon, builder and boxing iconoclast, is breaking tradition of the ring with his gigantic Chicago stadium.

His latest defy to old-fashioned fistic policies is to discontinue the Oakley list.

No more passes will be handed out to anybody, including politicians.

Sul Ross Facing Tough Grid Card

(Special To The Avalanche)

ALPINE, May 25.—With the spring football training season off his hands with a record of two victories and no defeats, B. C. Cravens, Sul Ross coach, is completing the fall football schedule for the mile high college. Some of the fastest teams in Texas are on the 1929 Lobo schedule, and arrangements are now under way with California colleges for an annual exchange game.

Redlands University at Redlands, Cal., Whittier College, at Whittier, Cal., and the San Diego State Teachers College, at San Diego are considering games with Sul Ross.

The 1929 Lobo team is to be a strong one, shown by the defeat which was hung on Simmons last week.

The schedule is as follows:

September 28—Abilene Christian College at Alpine.
October 5—Texas Tech at the Highland Fair, Marfa, Texas.
October 12—New Mexico A. & M. at Las Cruces, N. M.
October 19—Open.
October 26—San Marcos Teachers at Uvalde.
November 2—Texas College of Mines at Alpine.
November 11—Open.
November 21—McMurray College at Abilene.
Thanksgiving—Schreiner Institute at Alpine.

TORO COPS HANDICAP

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 25. (AP)—E. B. McLean's Toro won the $10,000 added Grainger Handicap at Churchill Downs today. Broadside, owned by L. B. Combs, was second and Clyde Van Dusen, winner of the Kentucky Derby was third. The winner's time for the mile and a quarter was 2:05.

Look out below—and then some. We'd hate to have been the cameraman who took this picture. A second after this remarkable snap was made Howard Paul, left, and Jesse Hill, right, crack broad jumpers of University of California, landed right where the bulb-squeezer stood. The boys were practicing in Los Anegeles for the intercollegiate track and field championships in Philadelphia.

Two World's Records Shattered As Illinois Athletes Capture Western Conference Title For Third In Row

Americans Lose To French Stars

Tilden And Hunter Lose To Old Rivals In Match For French Doubles Championship

PARIS, May 25. (AP)—America's old soldiers of the court, Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, went down in honorable defeat today in the season's first renewal of their perennial warfare with the French.

Turning back the Americans in the semi-final round of the tournament for the men's doubles championship of France, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste eliminated the last of the foreign contenders for this particular title and assured an all-French final.

Tilden and Hunter were beaten, 6-3, 6-2, 3-5, 6-3, while in the other semi-final match Henri Cochet and Jacques Brougnon disposed of the British team of J. C. Gregory and J. G. Collins, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

The best America could produce was an uninspiring victory for Miss Helen Wills and Hunter over the French team of Mme. Rene Mathieu and Jacques Brugnon of France, 6-2, 6-3, in the quarter-final round of the mixed doubles.

CHICAGO, May 25. (AP)—Jerry "Tuffy" Griffith, Sioux City, Ia., making his debut as a heavyweight, decisively defeated Al Friedman of Boston in their ten-round bout in Chicago stadium Friday, knocking him down in the first and fourth rounds.

Eddit Tolan Steps Century In 9.5 Seconds And Dick Rockaway Low Hurdles In 22.8

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25. (AP)—A patter of spiked shoes on the cinder path, a lunge to the tape and two world's records went tumbling as Illinois triumphed for the third successive time in winning the Western Conference outdoor track and field championship in Dyshe Stadium, Northwestern University, today.

The Illini amassed 51 1-2 points. Ohio State finished second with 39 1-2, with Michigan third with 35 and Iowa fourth with 31 1-2 points. Indiana pulled up fifth with 22 1-2 and Chicago sixth. The balance of the points were divided as follows: Wisconsin 13; Northwestern 12 1-2; Purdue 11, and Minnesota 7 1-2.

Eddie Tolan, negro, University of Michigan, and Dick Rockaway, of Ohio State, bettered the world's marks, while George Simpson, noted Ohio State speedster had the honor of tying a world's record.

Tolan won the 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds.

Rockaway bettered al world's records in clearing the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.8 seconds.

Simpson, beaten by a whisker in the century, came back to triumph over Tolan in the 220, in which he tied the world's record of 20.6 seconds.

HIGGINS ELECTED

AUSTIN, May 25. (AP) — Frank Higgins of Dallas was elected captain of the 1930 University of Texas baseball team today.

Old Timers Today

By GEORGE STOVALL

A sun-bronzed, willowy man goes about Cleveland these days meeting baseball fans whose god he once was. He is Napoleon Lajoie, tire salesman, to some folks. But to the Forest City's host of baseball fans he is Larry Lajoie, brilliant diamondeer of another day.

Now that his playing days are over, Lajoie is playing the game of business just as hard as he did the national pastime. Lajoie should find business good in the town whose baseball fortunes he once guided as manager of the Cleveland Naps (now Indians) and where he played so brilliantly.

One of baseball's most graceful and natural players, and one of the most feared batters of all time passed out of the game when Lajoie, a star second baseman and former teammate of mine on the Cleveland club of the American league, hung up his glove in the summer of 1916.

Lajoie had an uncanny eye at the plate. A pitcher had a hard time walking "Nap" if he didn't choose to take a stroll to first. Many a time have I seen him swing at a high or wide one and clout the ball for extra bases.

Lajoie and Ty Cobb, outfielder star of the old Detroit Tigers, were batting rivals for many years in earlier days of the American league. Their keenest race was staged in 1910, when, competing for a prize auto offered to the league's champion batter, Lajoie and Cobb swept down to the final game of the season in a virtual deadlock for the championship. Final averages gave Cobb the edge by the fraction of a point, but the race had been so close that the automobile company also awarded a machine to the Cleveland infield star.

The styles and temperaments of these two great batters, Lajoie and Cobb, were as far apart as the two poles. Ty was a bundle of nervous energy, full of moods, a firebrand. Lajoie was easy-going, good-natured, unruffled by the breaks of the game.

In the field Lajoie was easy and graceful, making the hard chances look simple. He seldom received credit for being the really great defensive player that he was because he was such a fine batsman.

Lajoie broke into baseball in 1896 and left the biz leagues in 1916. For those 21 years he averaged .325 with the bat. His best year, 1901, he hit .422. He managed Cleveland from 1904 to 1911. Lajoie led American league batters for four years—1901, 1902, 1904, 1905.

One-Time Playboy Plays Star Role For Lowly Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 25.—It seems "Lefty" O'Doul is beginning to take his baseball seriously.

When O'Doul first arrived in the big leagues, as a member of the New York Yankees, his playboy antics soon won him a ticket back to the minors.

He was a pitcher then but he turned to outfielding and returned to the big leagues as a member of the New York Giants. McGraw, however, couldn't stand the way he had to wind up every time he threw a ball from the outfield and traded him during the winter to the Phillies.

As a member of the Phillies this season, O'Doul is earning his spurs as a star in the majors. His hitting has been one of the sensations of the season so far.

Smith Headed For German Golf Title

BERLIN, May 24. (AP)—Playing with the brilliance that crowned him champion of France, Horton Smith, 21, professional from Joplin, Mo., blazed the way today in the first half of the 72-hole medal play for the German open title.

Smith put together two rounds of 71 and 69 for a total of 140 to lead Percy Alliss, English professional at a Berlin club, by one stroke. Alliss, playing steadily and representing Germany's sole threat against the American and British invaders, carded a 70 and 71 for 141.

Catcher Starr Of Shreveport Tops Hitting In Texas

Larmon Cox' Slump Drops Fort Worth Star To 5th Place; Dumovitch Is Leading Pitcher In Loop

DALLAS, May 25—(AP)—A week of hard hitting has sent Catcher Starr of the Shreveport Sports, scurrying through the ranks of the Texas League top hitters to the summit, barring averages of two pinch hitters, Freitag and Pratt. Starr, with an average of .397, has a substantial lead on contenders of a week ago through games of last Thursday. The slump of Larmon Cox, Fort Worth, dropped him below Blackerby, Waco, and Wetzel, San Antonio.

The ten leading hitters (50 or more times at bat):

Starr, Shreveport, .397; Hanson, Beaumont, .378; Blackerby, Waco, .378; Wetzel, San Antonio, .377; Cox, Fort Worth, .365; Lapan, Wichita Falls, .365; Bennett, Wichita Falls, .361; R. Moore, Dallas, .354.

Whelan, Shreveport, with 36 runs, was the leader of earned runs. Blackerby, with 34, and Sanguinet, Waco, and Fitzgerald, Wichita Falls, with 32 each, followed Whelan.

R. Moore had made the most hits, his safeties numbering 58. Closely behind were Cox and Wetzel with 57 each and Blackerby with 56.

Blackerby and Sanguinet were tied at nine each for home run honors. Cox had seven and Akers of Beaumont six.

The leading base stealers were Martin, Houston, 10, Mellano, Waco, 9, and Flaskamper, Dallas 8.

Dumovich Waco, was the leading pitcher with five victories and one defeat, while Lindsey, Houston, with 39, had the most strikeouts in his record.

Tradesmen Lead City League Race

Weather Hampers Twilight Leaguers During First Two Weeks Of Season; Race Tightens

The close of the second week of the city baseball league finds the Carpenter-Painters holding a slight edge over their opponents in the chase for the city championship. Rain has caused the postponement of three out of the eight games, one of which has been played off, with the result that two past-scheduled games are yet to be played.

Remaining postponed games yet to be played include Carpenter-Painters vs. Auto Barbers of May 17 and Auto-Barbers vs. Hardware of May 24. This last game reached three innings when rain forced a halt.

The postponed game of May 17 will be played Monday afternoon.

Standing of the teams to date:

Teams—	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Carpenter-Painter	3	2	1	.667
Santa Fe	4	2	2	.500
Auto-Barbers	2	1	1	.500
Hardware	3	1	2	.333

99 Hits, 77 Runs Made In Series

PHILADELPHIA, May 25. (AP)—Some kind of a record was established during the recent three-game series between Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

The Dodgers' pitchers, in winning two of the three games, yielded a total of 37 runs, 46 hits and 14 bases on balls.

Meanwhile the Brooklyn batsmen were pounding out 53 hits which, coupled with 19 Philadelphia passes, netted 40 runs.

For the three games the two teams combined made 99 hits and scored 77 runs.

Chicubs Able To Win Games On Road And Athletics Not So Timid This Year

By HENRY L. FARRELL
NEA Service Sports Editor

After one month of the campaigns for the major league pennants there are two important things that can be detected by the observer with ease. The two observations are that:

The Philadelphia Athletics are no longer so timid and the Chicago Cubs are not chumps on the road as they were last season.

As might be expected in an infant season, when weather has mitigated against all form, there are some queer looking names in the daily statistics carried by your favorite journal.

It is unusual to see the leading hitters of the American League listed as Kamm, Jamieson, Gehringer, Foxx and Fonseca. And you might ask—what has happened to the real hitters in the league?

You might ask the same question about the hitters in the National League when you see that Andy High, Frisch, Stephenson, Lloyd Waner and Lefty O'Doul were setting the pace around the first quarter.

Giants Out of Place

And then, at the same stage of the race, there were the New York Giants in seventh place in the National League, the Boston Braves in fourth and the Philadelphia Phillies in fifth. They don't belong that way.

The American League starters, getting away from the wire, ran truer to form. It seemed to be the general opinion of the players that only one club was way out of position. And that one club was Washington Senators who had no business down next to the hole.

Putting a question to baseball men about the strange looks of things in the standings, there was always the first answer: "Wait till the weather gets hot and you'll see the clubs falling where they belong."

The weather angle has been advanced as the chief reason for the failure of the Giants to get going. But, you might ask, why didn't the chill and the rain keep the Cubs from getting started? You can only give your own reason for the spurt of the Cubs. They lost the pennant on the road last year and they went away in front this season in foreign ball parks. And Hornsby and Wilson and Cuyler weren't up there hitting as Joe McCarthy wanted them to hit.

The Giants lost a lot of ground at the particular time when John McGraw wanted to get his club a fast lead. They may have lost so much ground that they never will catch up as the Cardinals and the Pirates have not been playing sucker baseball.

Mack Hopeful

With a display of a changed heart, the Philadelphia Athletics have given Connie Mack new hope, but two American League umpires are authority for the tip that Herb Pennock, Pipgras and Moore are right and that they will get going when the weather will give them a sweat.

But it might be assumed that hot weather will not melt the Athletics and that some of their old arms and old legs will respond to temperature and that the Yanks are in a battle for their lives.

The situation in the National League at the time of writing looks very much like Chicago. That Cub ball club can play ball at home and they are playing ball on the road. They got the jump—even if it was a little one—and the jump never has discouraged a ball club.

Two Southwest Conference Teams On Tech Grid Card

Dr. Overton Offers New Scholarship For Most Influential Tech Athlete

Strenuous Schedule For Matador Gridders Is Mapped Out For 1929 Season; Play Five Games At Home

Baylor, T. C. U., Howard Payne And Simmons Will Meet Bull Fighters Next Fall; Frogs Appear Here

Two Southwestern Conference and two Texas Conference teams are included on the Texas Tech 1929 football schedule, it was revealed when athletic authorities here released the grid program for the Matador eleven which will take the field for the fifth year of the institution's history next fall.

The high light of the season from the standpoint of local football fans comes Oct. 26 when the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs make their first trip to Lubbock and the plains section. It will be the second Southwestern Conference football team to appear in Lubbock, the Texas Aggies having met the Matadors on Tech Field during the season of 1927.

Invade Bears' Lair.

Coach Grady Higginbotham will lead his Bull Fighters on Waco Nov. 2 for the second Southwest Conference game of the season against Morley Jennings' Baylor Bears. The Bruins are being touted as strong favorites to cop the conference championship next season. How that the Tech eleven is scheduled to meet the Bears, the predictions of the experts are likely to come to pass. In 1927, the Matadors met the Texas Aggies, who won the title and in 1928, the Texas Longhorns copped the bunting after they had played Tech.

Simmons University and Howard Payne are the Texas Conference clubs on the Matadors' schedule. The Yellow Jackets come here Nov. 9. The Matadors meet the Simmons Cowboys in Abilene on Thanksgiving day, renewing the annual meeting between the two rivals. Tech replaces Howard Payne on the Cowhands' football card.

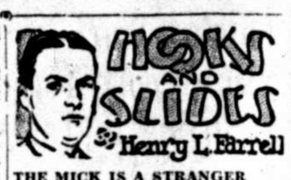

Buff Game Missing.

For the first time in history, the Canyon Buffaloes do not appear on the Tech football schedule. The annual Turkey Day battle with the Buffaloes gives way to a similar arrangement with Simmons.

Five of the nine games on the schedule for the locals are to be played on home soil. Starting the season off with the Wayland College Rabbits here on Sept. 28. Lubbock fans will see Daniel Baker, T. C. U., A. C. C. and Howard Payne in action on the Tech turf.

The following is the complete schedule:

Sept. 28—Wayland at Lubbock.
Oct. 5—Sull Ross at Highland with Marfa.
Oct. 12.—Daniel Baker at Lubbock.
Oct. 19.—McMurry at Abilene.
Oct. 26.—T. C. C. at Lubbock.
Nov. 2—Baylor at Waco.
Nov. 11—A. C. C. at Lubbock.
Nov. 19.—Howard Payne at Lubbock.
Nov. 28.—Simmons at Abilene, (Thanksgiving).

THE MICK IS A STRANGER

Appointment of Adam Walsh as assistant football coach at Yale in charge of the line is slightly out of line with the athletic policy at that rather distinguished university.

Walsh is a Notre Dame man and since his college days he has been the varsity coach at Santa Clara (Calif.) College. And it has been the policy of the Yale Athletic Board to hire only graduate coaches.

It is probable that the Yale officials, when they offered a position to Walsh, remembered a day several years ago when Adam Walsh, captain of a Notre Dame football team, performed an epic of heroism on the green turf of the Polo Grounds in New York.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

When Charley Borah as a freshman at Southern California reported to Coach Cromwell the coach asked him what he could do . . . And the bashful Borah said—"I can beat any runner on your squad." . . . And he did . . . Weems Baskin, who did a lot of swell hurdling for Alabama Poly has been signed as an assistant track coach at Yale. . . . He is the first fellow from the south to crash an eastern track coaching staff. . . The University of Oregon football team is going to travel clear to Gainesville, Fla., to play the University of Florida . . . And they claim it is the long distance traveling record for one game . . . In the first 25 games of the season, Earl Averill, the wowish Cleveland rookie, hit more home runs than any Cleveland player hit all last year . . . And Bill Evnas says he is worth $250,000 . . . And the Indians paid less than 50 grand for him.

HEART FIRST IN THESE GAMES

Notre Dame, was playing the Army and a Notre Dame-Army game has become celebrated for the opportunity it presents to the athletes to show what the coaches call guts.

The Four Horsemen were the most advertised members of that Notre Dame team but it was Walsh who put even the Cadets into a rapture of admiration. The Cadets are trained to know what courage means.

Early in the game, Captain Walsh, playing center, broke his right hand. The fractured member was placed in an emergency splint in mid-field. Walsh wouldn't go to the sidelines because he knew that Knute Rockne, the N. D. coach, would pull him out of the game. And Rockne, because of the rules, could not step on the playing filed.

BOTH HANDS GONE

Later in the game Walsh came out of a pile of players with his left hand hanging loose. It was broken and the relief squad from the sidelines put the left hand into a splint.

The doctor told Walsh that he had to get out of the game. But Walsh was the captain of the team and he refused to leave his squad. He wouldn't look toward the sidelines where Rockne was waving frantically at him to accept a substitute.

Rockne sent out five substitutes in a row with instructions to command Walsh to come to the sidelines but Walsh refused. And he left the game only when he collapsed. And he was carried to the club house.

AND HE KNOWS FOOTBALL

There certainly is no intent to infer that the Yale football squad can profit from the name and the instructions of a man who was so noted for his courage. Yale football players never have been accused of lacking heart.

But it is quite possible that some of those young Yale fellows will have a very deep respect for the instructions of Adam Walsh.

Spring Beauty?

Smart guys around the National League say Claude Willoughby, who has been with the Phillies for a number of years, always has been a great pitcher in the spring—but he doesn't last! Willoughby has been going great for Burt Shotton's men this year and, unlike what some experts think, he believes this is going to be his greatest year. He's the best with the Phils.

Bill Kamm Grabs Top In American League Slugging

White Sox Third Baseman Adds 8 Points To Overtake Charley Jamieson; Detroit Leads At Bat

CHICAGO, May 25. (AP)—Bill Kamm, Chicago White Sox third baseman and field leader, was at the pinnacle of the American League batting list at the end of the fifth week according to unofficial averages including last Wednesday games.

Hammering the ball constantly the phlegmatic sox infielder added eight points to bring his average to .393, and displace Charlie Jamieson, Cleveland veteran who dominated the group for three weeks. Jamieson's average fell 37 points during the week, dropping him to fourth place with .358. Bob Fothergill, Detroit outfielder, had the same figure as Kamm, but had played in a little more than half as many games. Other batting leaders were: Foxx, Philadelphia, .381; Fonseca, Cleveland .362; Jamieson, Cleveland, .358; Heilmann, Detroit .356; Gehringer, Detroit .352; McManus, Detroit .346; Cochrane, Philadelphia .340; Clancy, Chicago, .336; R. Johnson, Detroit .336.

Detroit Tigers Slug

With eight players batting .322 or better, the Detroit Tigers retained the lead in team batting with a mark of .319. Detroit sagged seven points during the week, but had plenty to spare over the Athletics who remained in second place with .297, the same figure as a week ago. The slipping Yankees were tied with Cleveland with fourth position at .274.

Old George Uhle, of the Tigers, won another game during the week, to remain at the peak of the pitching list. Uhle in the first five weeks of the season has won seven games in as many starts without relief. Robert Mose Grove, of Philadelphia scored two victories for a record of six wins and one defeat and was far in front in strike outs with 47. Eddie Rommel, of Philadelphia, and Rip Collins, of the Browns, each added a triumph for marks of three straights.

Browns Lead In Field

St. Louis replaced Washington as fielding leader, with an average of .977, four points better than the Senators who were in second place Detroit was in seventh place with an average of .962. Cleveland continued to set the pace in double plays, collecting six during the week to bring the total to 37. The Indians, however were in last position in club fielding.

Other leaders: Home runs, New York, 26; individual home runs Gehrig, New York, 9; Triples, Blue, St. Louis 4; Doubles, Kamm, Chicago 15; stolen bases, Gehringer, Detroit, R. Johnson, Detroit, Averill, Cleveland, five each; runs batted in Heilmann, Detroit 34.

NO RESPECT FOR LAW

CANTON, O. — George Caprica was a wise bootlegger. He had a parrot and every time the cops would raid his place, the parrot would scream, "Here come the cops," very loudly. By the time the cops broke into his home, Caprica had the liquor dumped. But the cops put one over on the bird, and broke in and took it, the liquor, and Caprica to jail. Caprica paid his fine and started bootlegging again, this time with a dog as his warning tool. The cops came, the dog bit the cops and Caprica was sent to jail again.

When your family eats eggs regularly for breakfast and the silver is stained constantly as a result, try keeping an aluminum pot of salt and soda solution with water near by. Drop all breakfast silver into it when clearing the table and by the time you wash dishes, the discoloration will have disappeared.

Steers Take Weird Exhibition From Panthers As Charlie Barnabe Limits Atzmen To Eight Scattered Bingles

Felines Make Five Errors And Fort Worth Hurlers Allow 18 Hits And 16 Runs; Play Two Today

DALLAS, May 25. (AP)—Fort Worth's Panthers put up a weird exhibition of baseball here today, making 5 errors behind their pitchers who allowed 18 hits and 16 runs.

Charlie Barnabe, Steer newlywed southpaw hurler, had the situation well in hand and let down after his mates piled up an overwhelming lead. The score was 16 to 3 for the Steers.

Winner Of Award To Be Announced At Commencement Exercises Tomorrow; Not Restricted To Letter Men

Pioneer Plains Physician Institutes Unique Award For Athletic Department Sum Is $200

Instituting a scholarship which is unique in its every phase, Dr. Marvin C. Overton, pioneer physician of Lubbock, is offering a sum of two hundred dollars to an athlete of Texas Tech. The athlete receiving the scholarship was voted on by letter men of the college Friday afternoon and the results will be announced at commencement exercises Monday morning.

The veteran physician, who is connected with the Lubbock Sanitarium, has given the following qualifications for the winner of the scholarship:

"To the young man who on the athletic field, either in competition or in practice and training, has by words or deeds done the most to develope true sportsmanship, team spirit and to elevate athletics on a higher plane.

"He need not be a letter man, he may never have made a touchdown nor a home run, nor placed in any athletic event, yet his influence and example and his fighting spirit have built up the morale of his fellows and he has been an inspiration to them to do their dead level best and to be fair and square.

"The award shall be made to the man receiving the largest vote of the men who have lettered in athletics during the year."

This new scholarship is the second being offered in the athletic department. A $250 scholarship for the best all-around athlete is offered each year by Amon G. Carter Fort Worth newspaper publisher.

Yanks Eliminate Japanese Netters

John Van Ryn Takes Deciding Match From Tamio Abe; Americans To Meet Cubans Next

WASHINGTON, May 25. (AP)—The United States eliminated Japan today from the International Tennis Davis cup contest, John Van Ryn defeating Tamio Abe, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, in the deciding match of the series.

John Hennessey won for the United States in the concluding match by defeating Yoshiro Ohta, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

The victory gave America a score of four matches to one for the series. Ohta never threatened Hennessey during the match, the American star outstroking and passing with volleys the Japanese.

The United States now will meet Cuba in the American zone final May 30 and June 1.

Slaton Miler To Run At Chicago

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, May 25.—John Simmons, 18-year-old junior of Slaton High School boy, will represent Texas in the mile run at the National Track and Field meet in Chicago, June 7. John won first in the state track meet at Austin the first week in May, finishing in 4 minutes, 36.4 seconds, which is very close to the state record. Young Simmons thinks he could easily have set a new record for Texas if he had known while running that he was so near to accomplishing that feat.

She didn't say that she might float in ahead of the others. She is not sensitive about her size but she will not tell how much she weighs or if she intends to train down for the race.

Simpson, Sprinter, Once Invalid; Father's Plan Restored Health

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 25. (AP)—George Sidney Simpson, Ohio State's dark haired flash of the cinder path, was almost an invalid and under a nurse's care for several years when a youngster.

Today he's the greatest track star his school has known, and he may become one of the world's, with pitching records with Paddock, Locke, Borah and other famous sprinters.

He can thank Papa Simpson for his fleet feet. He realized the benefit of exercise in th fresh air for his sick boy and bought George every kind of athletic apparatus he could find —baseball equipment, tennis racquets, golf clubs, basketballs—and made him use them.

George won back his health and with that victory came an unflagging interest in athletics.

"When you'd think he'd be all tired out, playing all day, George would be out playing basketball in the evenings with his chums," recalls his father, G. M. Smpson, a wholesale milliner here.

"But now he always is careful to get plenty of rest before a big race and for two or three nights before he is run re goes to bed at 9:30," he chuckled, remembering, perhaps, his youthful reluctance to desert play for slumber.

"He's what I would call a good trainer. He observes all the rules without any supervision.

"Sometimes our table looks rather slim at home, because his mother and I eat the same things he does while he is in training. There are no fried foods and no heavy desserts. But at that I guess it's better for all of us."

Texas W.C.T.U. Stands By Texas Medics On Action

AUSTIN, May 24. (AP)—Action of the Texas Medical association in declaring for repeal of that part of the Dean Law which permits physicians to issue whiskey prescriptions, was endorsed by Mrs. Claude De Vin Watts, president of the Texas Woman's Christian Temperance Union today.

"The W. C. T. U. is against all bootleggers," Mrs. De Van Watts said. "Since the medical association recently assembled at Brownsville declared against the 'medical bootlegger' we endorse their movement."

JUST FOR DESSERT

NEW YORK.—Angry complaints of washings were being stolen reached the ears of Lieut. Joseph Brown at Greenpoint police station. The force was warned to look for the thieves while on duty. Patrolman William Mutz, while strolling along his beat found them. He saw two goats, one of them with the remains of a shirt sticking out of his mouth, idly chewing up a wash in Brooklyn. The goats were convicted and jailed in the station house cellar.

Future Of Lubbock Shown Is Past Of Other Cities

Lubbock Appears To Be Traveling To Great Future

History Of Other Towns Is Field From Which Light May Be Thrown On Local Situation, Belief

By AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TO THOSE who are of the opinion that the city of Lubbock has about reached its zenith—those few citizens who belive the rapid growth of the past few years is about expended—the declaration of many apparently wise men offers a study in contrast.

There are to be found in "The Hub of The Plains" a number of men who will tell inquirers that Lubbock will not increase so rapidly during the next few years. They will exclaim that real estate is too high. The price asked for lots, and for houses, they say, is upon a pinnacle. Both the pinnacle and the prices must tumble, is their belief.

"One way to study the future is by the past," quoth those of opposite persuasion. "Look at Tulsa, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio. The same cry arose 10, 15, 20 years ago in those cities. It had been said they had reached their zenith. But, every one of them are continuing today to grow by leaps and bounds, by subdivisions and skyscrapers."

Substantiation of the above inference is found in Lubbock's history, wherein it is told in population figures: In 1920 we had 4,051. In 1924, there were 7,500. Then in 1925 we had 11,350, while in 1928, the population is estimated at 22,165.

It will be noticed by a study of these figures that in the four years from 1920 to 1924, the population almost doubled, as it did in the period from 1924 to 1925, one year. From 1925 until 1928 the growth was almost exactly double.

Will the next five years witness another doubling of our population? Such an event seems rather farfetched, say many, yet the tale of this city has been one of miraculous occurrances. Witness this:

When Lubbock county was organized, in 1891, the value placed on the land now contained in the Overton addition, of Lubbock, was $2.00 per acre. In order to induce W. M. Lay, then of Crosby county, an ex-Confederate soldier and cowboy, to move to Lubbock county and run for sheriff, R. C. Burns, now living at 2405 Fourteenth Street, said, in effect, to Mr. Lay:

"If you will come over here and run for sheriff of Lubbock county, and get elected, I'll give a section of land."

Lay came, was elected and received the section of land, as Mr. Burns had promised. The election was held in March, 1891, and it was thus that Lay became Lubbock county's first sheriff.

Mr. Burns will tell you that the Overton addition section then was valued at $2.00 per acre. About three years later the school lands of these parts was valued at $1.00 per acre. It would be impossible for one to purchase any lot confined in that original section at $1.00, or at $2.00 per front foot.

It was about five years after he had received the section that Lay sold the tract to G. A. Rush, who subsequently resold to Dr. M. C. Overton and it became platted as the Overton Addition to the City of Lubbock.

Bankers who know their real estate, or realtors who know their cities, will no doubt inform anyone who might inquire, that real estate holdings in a growing city constitute the safest investment available. Sometimes, such holdings will offer the quickest returns in profit on the investment, of anything known.

These same men will admit that there are just as good opportunities for making money in real estate, if one's money is wisely placed on choice property in the line of development that will surely come with the city's expansion.

As John W. Carpenter, of Dallas, president of the Texas Power and Light company, remarked on the train, when he was returning to Dallas from Lubbock recently:

"If I was a young man, I would move to Lubbock. It offers, I think, the best opportunity of any young city in all Texas. It will become a mighty city some day."

Something To Be Thought About

To those contemplating the building of homes, or the acquisition of Lubbock property, the matter of tax rate comes in for considerable consideration.

In the city of Lubbock, with its speedy sweep of expansion since 1920, there is a hopeful fact every inquisitor marvels at. That is that the county, state, city and school tax rate all lumped together, in 1920, was $3.22 on the $100 valuation, while in 1928 the rate was only $3.48.

Telephone Toll Lines Completed

Direct Connection Between Lubbock And Oil Towns Of New Mexico Offered With State Company Lines

Offering direct telephone connections between Lubbock and the oil field towns of New Mexico, a number of new toll lines have just been completed by the State Telephone company of Texas, it was announced yesterday by officials of the company.

Lines have been completed from Carlsbad, N. M., to Pecos, Tex., and from Lovington, N. M., to Monument, Eunice, and Jal, which is the center of the oil area south of Lovington. Another line is under construction from the city of Carlsbad to the Carlsbad Caverns and will be ready for use in the near future. A line recently was completed between Jal and Wink, Tex.

The State Telephone company operates lines in twenty-six counties of West Texas, having forty-four local exchanges. The company in contemplating an extensive expansion program.

Local Utilities Figures Brought To Bear On City

Population Increase Shows In Advance Of Users Of Phones, Light and Water In Lubbock

When Lubbock boasted of 670 telephone connections, in 1920, its citizens were thinking the city was becoming quite a metropolis of the Plains country.

But, when 1,547 such connections were recorded in 1925, an increase of more than 100 per cent in four years, things were looking up and up sure enough. Then, when 1926 revealed an increase of more than another 1,000 telephones, and the year of 1928 showed 3,043, the trebling recorded during the three year period from 1925 was beyond all expectations.

As in telephones, so Lubbock bloomed and bosomed in its increasing real estate transfers. There were 1,569 of these in 1920, which grew to 3,120 in 1928, another 100 per cent increase.

Here Are Figures

Today there are a total of 3,166 gas meters in this city, with 4,664 light meters and 3,860 water meters. These are the things used in figuring a city's population.

As the home owners and business concerns went in for the provisions of modern and very essential utilities, the city government has not lagged behind. Proof of this lies in the record, which shows $110,000 spent for public improvements, such as paving, street lights, water and power plants, etc.

Public improvements have been responsible for the expenditure and invstment of the following sums: $2,383,000 in 1924, $3,181,300 in 1925, $3,678,700 in 1926 and $3,046,000 last year.

TROOP TO STAGE DRIVE

MEXICO CITY, May 25. (AP)—Twenty five thousand troops are stated in advices from Guadalajara to be participating in a drive against insurgents in Jalisco. The offensive began several days ago.

Cavalry, infantry and artillery and three squadrons of army planes are participating.

Lubbock Banks In Wonderful Growth

It is to be noted that the resources of the three Lubbock banks, the Citizens National, the First National and the Lubbock National, is 10 times the amount of the capital and surplus of those institutions. This is a fact denoting an extremely healthy condition economically.

The three banks show approximately $500,000 as the total of their capital and surplus, while their combined resources in 1928 was $5,685,-656.36.

The 1924 bank resources here were $3,557,136.60, which had grown to $4,679,809.13 in 1925, and to $5,155,-327.91. The gain from 1927 to 1928 is therefore seen to be in excess of $500,000, the amount of capital and surplus.

Figures Show To City's Advantage

When a city can grow, in assessed property valuation, from $3,957,980 to $19,153,230, in nine years, there is evidence of something doing in that municipality.

This is the record of Lubbock, from 1920 to April 1, 1929.

Along with this marked expansion is seen another evidence of growth, when it is known that postal receipts at the Lubbock postoffice have climbed from a total of $32,243.38, in 1902, to $100,414.46, in 1928. This shows more than a 3 per cent increase.

Kyle Barnett of Lamesa is reported ill in the Lubbock Sanitarium.

Building And Loan Men In Other Sections See The Future Offered Here And Enter Local Field

Supply and demand—that law spoken about so often in explaining the why and wherefores of rising values, particularly of real estate, is not the final answer when it comes to an analysis of what makes cities grow.

Back of this law is that bigger something known as confidence. Folks who have faith in a city's to back their faith, are greatly responsible for cities being built.

As it has not just happened, that Lubbock is what it is, so is it not here blind belief that has brought here perhaps more strong financial institutions with money to loan than any other city of similar size in the entire Southwest.

They Watched Carefully

The various building and loan associations that have placed representatives in Lubbock, or who have opened their own offices here, did so after meticulous care in learning what there is back of real estate values, upon which they desire to loan money, and after as careful a study of the probable and possible future of this city.

These institutions also learned the fact that there are available in "The Hub of the Plains," numerous lumber and building material concerns ample stocks always on hand. Such stocks offer prompt application of the purpose behind all motives for loans made by building and loan organizations—the building of homes, or of business structures.

Building Is Rapid

Nine years ago, the year 1920 did not offer a record of building permits issued in Lubbock. The first year in which such records were kept was 1924, when a total of $1,112,100 was recorded. The years following show that 1925 had $2,307,191, that 1926 had $1,544,400, 1927 recorded $1,651,289, and that in 1928 there showed $3,197,644.

With the impetus given last year, added to the four years previous, when the major activities were the construction of residences, this year has stepped out with a total to date of $2,200,000 approximately. Thus, in less than five months of 1929, permits issued are rapidly approaching the grand total of 1928.

Swing To Business

The swing this year is toward business construction and local contractors and builders contend that the entire year will see a boom in this phase of activity. Residences will continue, as the records of permits issued this year reveal, and it is not thought the demand for dwellings will have been met at any time.

One thing that newcomers and visitors remark upon, when first looking over the city of Lubbock, is the preponderance of brick and brick veneer residences, of modern design and construction. The trend has been and continues to be toward the better class of structures for homes, which is not being unheeded by the building and loan companies operating here.

Tech Professor Explains How South Plains Farmers Can Save By Testing

Uniformity of Wheat Is Big Question For Market

BY PROF. H. J. BOWER
Head of the Agronomy Department
Texas Technological College

(EDITOR'S NOTE—There is an all important question confronting the grower of wheat on the South Plains, which can best be stated in Prof. Bower's words: "How Can The South Plains Farmer Market His High Protein Wheat?" Prof. Bower speaks with an authority, not alone based on his many years experience in teaching, but upon years of actual experience as a farmer and wheat grower.)

Since the world war, revolutionary changes have occurred in the methods of buying wheat. With the development of the baking industry, a gradual development of the protein test has culminated as a basis for good milling wheat at all the central markets.

When millers sold most of their flour to retailers, who in turn sold to the housewives, there was not the need for uniformity in quality as there is now. Today it is essential that the flour be uniform in quality, in order to meet the baker's needs, and millers have resorted to accurate chemical tests to check the uniformity of the wheat that they use from day to day.

Shortage Is Cause

If there were a large, or a sufficient supply, of this quality of high protein wheat which i sdemanded by the quality of bread that the consumers require, there would be no premiums offered over cash wheat. Thus the shortage that occurs from time to time, of high protein wheat, results in different premiums which have been paid in recent years. While premiums 20 years ago depended largely upon test weight, moisture, damage and foreign materials, there has always been the additional factor of baking quality as indicated by gluten or protein tests, and mills have made protein and gliuten tests for over 20 years.

Soon after the world war the mills began testig all wheat for protein. Grain buyers soon began to buy wheat, paying higher prices to country elevators in districts where good milling wheat of high protein content was produced. While the other factors still exert an influence on premium wheat, the protein content is now used as a basis for cash sales, chiefly because the large bakers require the millers to deliver flour of a specified protein content.

Marketed In Car Lots

For the simple reason that wheat is marketed in car lots, the South Plains farmer has not realized the premium from the high protein protein wheat that he has produced. The early harvest, when the South Plains wheat has a high protein content, is an unique advantage, as the Minneapolis and northern millers are usually anxious for such wheat, rather than to take a chance on their spring wheat crop being of as high quality in protein.

When the spring wheat belt has a wet spring and cool temperatures a very low protein content of wheat usually follows. This usually indicates a shortage of high protein wheat and, in favorable seasons, the South Plains farmer is in position to take inventory of his wheat fields and thus profit accordingly.

The first step in taking an inventory to secure protein premiums is to find which fields are high and which are low in protein. The next step is to secure accurate representative samples of the threshed grain. And the last step is to know whether wheat of high protein content is bringing premiums on the market at the particular time it is to be sold.

The best way to locate the field, or fields, is to sample each one of them about a week before combining. This can be done by starting in at one end, or side, of the field and walking in a zigzag manner across the field one way and then return by another and in the course jerk a hand full of heads about exery eight or 10 steps and put the same into a sack, paying no attention to wheat heads you grab.

Determine Protein Content

Then, by threshing these heads and by carefully sampling the lot, the sample can be sent to a chemical laboratory for a determination of the protein content.

This must be done very carefully, as conditions within the same field are sometimes quite variable. It is necessary that the sample be taken from each variation. Such samples are just a rough estimation of what the field contains.

To get a good sample of the threshed grain from tthe field as it is combined is more accurate than hand sampling. This can be done by taking a representative sample from each load of wheat as it comes from the harvesting combine. It is not advisable to just grab a hand full from the top of the load, as the lighter wheat comes to the top and the heavier wheat works down. The writer has seen errors of two per cent difference in the protein content by careless sampling.

Uses Grain Probe

The grain inspector uses a grain probe 60 inches long. He makes one or more probes in the center of the bin, or car, and again in each corner, making five or more probes. Without the grain inspector's equipment the sample must necessarily be carefully divided upon a cloth, by lifting the center of the cloth and dividing the sample into two parts. This process can be repeated on half of the sample until the desired size of the sample is obtained.

All samples should be sent to the laboratory in air tight containers. Just as butterfat percentage is decreased by the addition of water, the protein content of wheat is increased by the loss of moisture, and in some cases this variation may be as much as one per cent.

Store Each Grade

If a farmer knows the protein contens of each of his wheat fields, he can store each grade with the different protein content separately, or he can market each grade immediately upon the merits of its milling qualities. He must keep his high protein wheat separate and cooperate with the buyer so that it can be moved to market at the most convenient time.

The most progressive elevator buyers state they would rather deal with farmers who know the value of their wheat, because they know that they are getting a square deal. On the other handfi it is impossible for the grain man or mill to buy from the farmer on a protein basis unless the wheat of high, intermediate and low protein content be kept separately.

The chemical laboratories on the Plains, that will make chemical tests for protein are, the Panhandle Chemical Laboratories, at Amarillo; the Harvest Queen Mill, at Plainview, and the Texas Laboratories, of Dallas, with a laboratory that is to be equipped in a building near the Burrus Elevator, at Lubbock.

Rains Insure Big Wheat Production

H. D. Wade Estimates Crop At Thirty Million Bushels As Compared To 22 Million Last Year

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

STAMFORD, May 25.—"The recent rains in the Panhandle and South Pains sections of West Texas practically insure a great wheat crop. Conservative estimates place the crop at thirty million bushels in 1929 as against twenty-two million bushels in 1928."

The above statement was made by Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in a letter to U. S. Pawkett, traffic manager, in which he gave instructions to the traffic department to urge the common carriers to provide sufficient rolling stock to afford prompt movement of this great crop.

"The advent of the combine in the harvesting of grain places a new situation upon the movement of the grain crop" declared the head of the regional organization, in that the work of harvesting is accomplished in a much shorter time than under the old way, hence the necessity of prompt and vigorous efforts upon the parts of the railroads in handling this immense crop."

OUTLINES PROGRAM

Lamesa To Undertake Major Projects In 1929

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, May 25.—The local chamber of commerce has before it a definite major program according to W. D. Arnett, president. It will undertake for the year the following program, so states the officials: Location of a milk plant, a public library, paved streets and highways, an airport and more tree planting this fall.

The first map of the moon was made by Ricciolo, in 1650, who also originated the plan of naming the lunar craters after celebrated astronomers and philosophers.

MRS. OWEN IS HOSTESS

Mrs. C. R. Owen was a pleasing hostess to members and guests of the Ace High Bridge club Tuesday afternoon at her home on College Avenue. A four-table bridge game was played with Mrs. John Heard making high score for club members. The cut went to Mrs. C. R. Westerman and the prize, a cake plate in orchid and gold. Mrs. Olin Littlefield scored high for guests.

Angel food cake and Neapolitan cream carrying out the tank and green color scheme were served to Mesdames F. A. Greene, W. P. Walker, John Heard, C. B. Oldham, Roy McDaniel, C. R. Westerman, C. M. Huddleston, Edgar Hutchins, club members; Leslie Mitchell, Olen Littlefield, Harry Shaw, Alvis Fuller, Ed Haynes, V. R. Plummer, Sep Smith and J. J. Taylor, guests.

IS STUDY CLU BHOSTESS

The 1923 Literary club held their last meeting of the club year with Mrs. P. T. Findley hostess at her home three miles southwest of Crosbyton. Mrs. J. A. Green was leader in a conservation program and members answered to roll call with a description of a historic spot visited.

Mrs. W. C. Baker read a paper on what we can do to conserve the beauty of Texas landscapes. Mrs. Findley on what Texas is doing towards solving its forestry problems and "Texas would bloom like the rose and she could feed the world if her flood waters were conserved for irrigation purposes," was discussed by Mrs. W. M. Romine.

Preservation of animal life was presented by Mrs. E. W. Suggs, as was a description of Elephant Butte dam by Mrs. W. F. Ezell.

At the business session two new members were received into the club and officers for the 1929-30 club year were installed. The State Federation club programs were adopted for another year's study.

MESDAMES HAYNES AND DUNN ENTERTAIN

A profusion of garden roses lent a spring-time air to the J. E. Haynes home when Mesdames Haynes and W. T. Dunn entertained with a four-table bridge party Saturday afternoon. In the games Mrs. R. C. Record Tech Graduating Class Ready For Exercises

Commencement Events To Be Opened Sunday Morning With Sermon; Other Parts Of Program To Be On Monday

Austin Divine Will Preach Baccalaureate; President Of Rice Will Make Final Talk To Graduates

ANOTHER milestone will be passed in the history of the Texas Technological college this morning when approximately 165 seniors gather at the campus gymnasium to hear Dr. Thomas W. Currie, president of Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the first four-year class in the life of the institution.

H. Y. Price, jr., junior student, of this city, has been named marshal of the day and will lead the senior procession which forms in line at the east end of the Textile building cloisters in alphabetical order by schools and starts promptly at 10:55 a. m. As soon as the seniors enter there will be a doxology, all of the audience standing. Dr. John C. Granbery will deliver the invocation after which the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" will be sung, followed by the reading of a Scripture.

Girls Will Sing

The college girls' Glee club will sing the Twenty-Third Psalm directed by Prof. W. R. Waghorne and announcements will be made before the sermon by Dr Currie. The program will close with the singing of the college hymn, "O, College Mother Beautiful" and a benediction.

Tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock in the gymnasium commencement exercises will be held with Dr. Edgar Odell Lovett, president of Rice Institute, delivering the address. The processional, "Glory to Alma Mater", is to be played by the college band and after the invocation by Dean James M. Gordon the male glee club will sing the "Soldier's Chorus" (Faust).

To Award Scholarships

After the address by Dr. Lovett there will come the awarding of scholarships and the presentation of diplomas followed by the singing of the college hymn and the recessional of the seniors during which the audience will stand in silence.

Below is printed a list of both June and August graduates:

Women Are More Savage Than Men

(By NEA Service)

CLEVELAND, May 25.—Yes, indeed! No less an authority than Dr. M. Luckiesh, internationally known authority on the subject of colors holds that all humans are savage, but—the ladies, ah! they are more savage than the men. And it's the color scheme that tells the tale.

"The savage prefers the pure colors — and so do we," says Dr. Luckiesh. Centuries of civilization and culture amount to nothing when it comes to momentary and absolute color preferences. Red, blue and yellow attract the savage, the child, the moron and the intellectual alike."

"When it comes to the emotional value of colors, all human beings are fundamentally alike. However, women have more pronounced preferences for the pure colors. This either indicates that they are more savage or they are appealing to the savage instinct in man. I am inclined to the former view."

Culture and knowledge, in the belief of Dr. Luckiesh, are merely associations and it is association which has been responsible for blended colors. In consequence and on this basis he believes men are more cultured than women.

Local Committee Back From Tour

Three members of a committee of the Lubbock school board returned Saturday from Dallas, where a tour of inspection was concluded of high school buildings in several cities for the purpose of assembling data for a proposed new high school structure for this city.

Those who returned yesterday were M. H. Duncan, superintendent of Lubbock schools, C. E. Maedgen and S. C. Wilson.

E. L. Robertson, member of the board, and N. L. Peters, architect, remained in Dallas for the international convention of Rotary International.

W. B. Atkins, another school board member, and W. H. Fowler, architect, will probably return Sunday or Monday.

Inspections were made in Abilene, Fort Worth, Cleburne and Dallas.

Estimate of cost and outline of the proposed new Lubbock high school building will be presented by architects within the next two weeks.

Former Lubbockite Is Recognized As Rubber Authority

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

AUSTIN, May 25.—O. D. Hargis, formerly of Lubbock, who received his degree from the University of Texas in 1902, is visiting friends in Austin. He is recognized as one of the world's best authorities on the rubber industry. After leaving the university, he was instructor in chemistry at the A. and M. college for four years. He was then employed for a time by the Continental Rubber company in the guayule rubber industry in Mexico, and he was sent by that company to Sumatra, in the Dutch East Indies.

Since 1915 Mr. Hargis has spent most of the time in Sumatra. During the last few years he has been manager of the Goodyear Rubber company's two planations, aggregating 45,000 acres.

"Although we have lived in Sumatra for many years, we still claim Lubbock, Texas, as our family home," Mr. Hargis said.

He plans to return to Sumatra in July.

Doctor Horn's Portrait Described

Senior Class Presents College With Likeness Of Its President, Painted By Famous Russian Artist

A life-size portrait of Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Technological college, has been presented to that institution and is to hang in the library through the coming years. The picture is a gift to the college from the class of 1929, the first group of graduates to leave a gift in the institution.

A ceremony last evening marked the presentation as little Ben Condray, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Condray, unveiled the portrait.

Is Holding Manuscript

He is in academic costume and the picture is very like the president, although lacking some of the animation usually associated with Dr. Horn. This probably is due to the formal pose which seemed fitting for such a portrait.

The huge canvas is about seven and one-half feet in height and four feet in width. The president is shown in life size, the sweep of his gown filling much of the picture and emphasizing his visage. The light of the column and view of a building balance the solemnity of the painting.

Carries Inscription

At the foot of the frame, which is of a neutral wood, there is a brass plate carrying the president's name and degrees with the inscription, "Presented by the Class of 1929."

This painting is the work of Dr. Peter Plotkin, Russian-American artist, and sittings were in Lubbock and Abilene.

Dr. Plotkin came to this country as a representative of the Kerensky government with a delegation requesting American intervention in Russian affairs. He spoke at Madison Square Garden in behalf of his mission.

Born of Russian-Jewish parents, who were killed in an Easter celebration in Russia while the painter was young, Dr. Plotkin was taken under the care and training of Tolstoy, the noted Russian novelist and dramatist. He later studied in the Royal Russian university where he received his doctor's degree.

In New York

By Swan

Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, May 25.—The Bowling Green, whereon once stood the statute of George III, is about to stage a come-back.

Here where New York began and where Revolutionary war chapters were written in terms of stirring action, is to be a new and elaborate apartment house belt. Within the week, the real estate columns of the newspapers have informed me that some $50,000,000 worth of swanky apartments are to arise.

More than once I have wondered why someone did not convert lower Battery belt into a residence section. There is no view in or about New York lovlier than that of the water and the ships and the dim shorelines ahead as viewed from the Battery districts.

Tourists have appreciated this, and flock daily by the thousands to the water line. Here, to help their view, the shrewd concessionaires have set up little racks where spy-glasses are rented. Here, through the daylight hours, the ballyhoo goes on —"See the big liners comin' in . . . see the Statute of Liberty . . . see Governor's Island . . . step right up . . . " The crowds ebb and flow, and the wary spy-glass racketeers take elaborate precautions to keep the lighter fingered visitors from wandering off with the glasses.

As it stands today, and as it has stood for many a year, this precious and tradition marked area, which runs from Battery Park to Rector Street, has been occupied by such colorful and time-dipped establishments as one might expect in the old section of a city—former boarding houses, occupied mostly by the Irish and odd assortment of restaurants and shambling buildings.

These are, and have been, the front yards of the colossal city of spires which create Manhattan's famous skyline. A few Bohemian and artistic pioneers have hunted out garrets and chuckled to themselves at their good fortune.

Around the corner mobs of tourists and foreigners clutter the stairway of the Customs House and, just across the parkway, the children of foreign lands pass through the gateway to the new land.

It is a spot dipped in glowing memories. Here, when the early Dutch settlers made it their home, Peter Stuyvesant stamped about on his wooden leg. When the Sons of Liberty swung into action, it was a little park upon the Bowling Green that they stormed to tear down the likeness of King George and turn it into bullets. About the park was a fence, the spikes of which were peaked with little gold crowns— all of them torn off by the rebels. The fence remains today.

In later years the early Irish immigrants adopted it and, just around the corner, a Syrian colony grew up.

Finally, of course, there is the view which, it seems to me, could not have failed eventually to attract the real estater. So all around the Bowling Green will rise fifty million dollars worth of expensive apartments. And I don't mind saying, I wish I could afford one.

GILBERT SWAN.

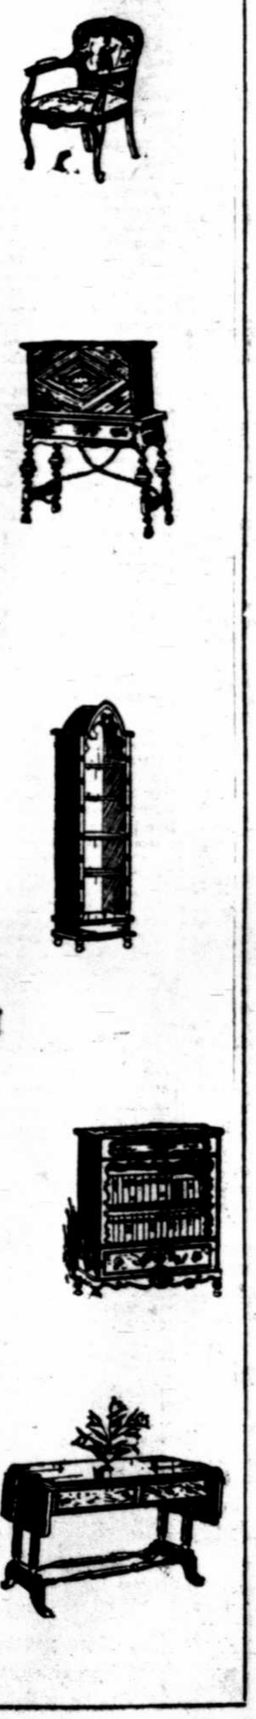

SERVICE

Business today is based on Service—the grab and run or the hit and miss way of operation is fast going on the rocks. Farm Club Members Of 12 Counties Here This Week

Encampment For District Spring Training 2 Days

Lubbock Co. Encampment Scheduled To Begin Tuesday And Follows Other Meet Beginning Monday

Lubbock and the Texas Technological college will be hosts, during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, to between 250 and 300 farm boys and girls of this and 11 other South Plains counties, who will be here to attend the annual county and district spring training encampments of 4-H club members.

Monday and Tuesday will witness the district encampment, while Tuesday and Wednesday will see the Lubbock county encampment. The district meet is being held for only the 4-H boys, while the county meet includes both boys and girls who are members of 4-H clubs.

Urged To Come Early

Although the district training meet is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. Monday, those who are expected are being urged to arrange their trip here so they will arrive in time to attend the commencement exercises at Texas Tech, which will begin at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning at the Tech gymnasium. As many members of 4-H clubs are anticipating attendance at Texas Tech, after graduating from their high schools, this opportunity of witnessing 168 graduates of this institution receiving the first diplomas ever to be presented to an all-Tech senior class will be a decided treat.

Monday afternoon the visiting club boys, which will include 15 or 20 from each of the counties of Lubbock, Dawson, Dickens, Gains, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lynn, Swisher, Terry and Scurry, will assemble at the Tech livestock judging pavilion at 2 o'clock. Following an assembly meeting they will be divided into various groups for the purpose of study and training in the divisions of grain judging, poultry, livestock and a special dairy cattle judging division.

Professors To Train Them

Training will be in charge of teachers in the Tech school of agriculture, with the assistance of various county agricultural agents who will attend. These agents will include, W. W. Evans, of Dawson county; E. L. Tanner, Dickens; R. F. McPatridge, Gaines; Knox Pharr, Garza; R. M. Milhollin, Hale; W. T. Magee, Hockley; D. A. Adam, Lamb; D. F. Eaton, Lubbock; R. E. Shager, Lynn; C. B. Martin, Swisher; R. B. Davis, Terry, and W. O. Logan, Scurry.

Monday night a special program of entertainment will be held in the pavilion, at which an address by some Texas Tech professor and talks by representatives of the Lubbock Chamber of commerce and the press. Games and fun will follow, which will be in charge of K. N. Clapp and George Eaton, Boy Scout executives.

District Meet Ends Tuesday

The program for the 4-H boys on Tuesday will be a continuation of group training periods similar to that of Monday afternoon. At noon a special entertainment program is to be had, with the afternoon given to more training in judging. Boys and girls attending the county training meet will assemble at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

A program of fun has been arranged for Tuesday night, which will be held jointly by the boys attending the district training meet and the boys and girls who will be attending the county meet. This will be held at the Tech gymnasium and will include games, speeches, music by club members and speeches by representatives of the chamber of commerce and others.

For the Wednesday morning meeting of the 4-H boys, which will be held at the pavilion, there will be lectures on livestock and other subjects by Tech professors and talks by others, including County Agent D. F. Eaton. At this meeting the 30 purebred pigs that are to be raised by club boys as their club project this year will be presented to them.

The same procedure will occupy the boys program at the pavilion in the afternoon, with entertainment features added.

4-H Girls at Gym

The 4-H girls will meet at the Tech Gym, under direction of Miss Louise Baird, Lubbock county home demonstration agent, and their program will include the exhibition of numerous articles the girls have made during the year. A clothing contest will be held and sessions for the girls are scheduled for Tuesday afternoon and night, and Wednesday morning and afternoon.

The encampment will break up following the afternoon session on Wednesday. While here the club boys will camp out at the stock judging pavilion and the girls will camp at the gymnasium. Each one of them are to bring their own bedding.

Meals will be furnished during the club members' stay here, the chamber of commerce providing the feed to those attending the district meet and the chamber of commerce and Lubbock County Farm Bureau association furnishing meals for those attending the county meet.

Al Hill, editor of the South Plains Farmer and member of the Avalanche-Journal staff, will appear on the program Monday night as a swinette soloist. His immitations of the pork variety of livestock have been broadcast over radio. A member of the Old Gray Mare band, he has been a professional musician for several years. Encampment will open Tuesday night, and camp will break late Wednesday afternoon.

Girls program of the encampment which will be under direction of Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent, follows:

Tuesday afternoon—May Wardlaw, chairman; Ruby Phillips and Elouise Wilke, hostesses.

Discussion, 4-H club work. Oma Jean Edgar, New Hope.

Demonstrations — Vitamens and health, Grovesville; judging butter, Carlisle; clothing, Woodrow; poultry New Hope; bedroom improvement, McClung; seams and finishes, Liberty; garden, Becton; 4-H beauty shop, Acuff; correct footwear, Hardy canning tomatoes, County Line; renovation, Posey. Miss Mamie Maxwell, Garza County home demonstration agent, will be judge of the demonstrations.

Tuesday—Group singing. Music by New Hope club. Games and fun.

Wednesday morning—Recreation. Judging of linens, and judging of appropriate dresses by Miss Mamie Maxwell.

Wednesday afternoon. Linen judging demonstration, Miss Maxwell; appropriate dress review; stories of living room improvement, Mrs. Ed Schroeder, Mrs. J. A. Waylor, Mrs. C. E. O'Neal. Stories of bedroom improvement, Lura Barton, Grovesville Elizabeth Elliott, Liberty. Awarding of all prizes.

Increase In Tariff May Give Stimulus To Domestic Peanut

Threshing peanuts in Virginia, a crop that now is of commercial importance in 12 southern states. Packing peanut candy (below), one of the principal market outlets for the domestic crop.

RICHMOND, Va., May 25. (AP)—The new tariff bill placing a 7-cent import duty on peanut butter and peanuts salted or otherwise prepared, is held up as a hope for stimulated domestic markets.

Prices are low and the acreage in Virginia and North Carolina did no increase this year as had been indicated.

By presidential authority the duty on shelled peanuts was increased from four to six cents a pound and the duty on unshelled peanuts raised from three to four and a quarter cents February 19. The new tariff bill includes the increases but does not add to them except for salted peanuts and prepared products.

Export Turns To Import

America paved the way for competition in her own peanut industry in 1870 when a missionary took a small quantity of seed to China. Now peanut imports from China amount to about 55,000,000 pounds shelled and 13,000,000 pounds unshelled annually.

Chinese peanuts are of the Virginia type, the kind used extensively in the manufacture of large salted varieties. They virtually supply the entire demand of the Pacific coast.

The department of agriculture has advised Virginia and North Carolina producers to use carefully selected seed with a view to growing larger peanuts than the best from the orient. They expect the practice to have equal effect with tariff increases in giving American producers the domestic market.

Some Opportunities Believed

There is believed to be some opportunity for a profitable increase in the acreage of Valncia peanuts, now grown in small quantities in Tennessee and North Carolina and imported to some extent from Spain. They are small and are used principally in confections.

Although present prices have not led the chief producing states to increase their acreages, peanuts are increasingly in demand for oil manufacture and for making many other products. New commercial uses have been found for the shell.

The department of agriculture says it always is safe for the southern farmer to grow peanuts in rotation with cotton, as every part of the crop can be used to advantage for feeding on the farm in case the market does not justify their sale.

While the emergency tariff increases authorized by the President have occasioned less reaction than anticipated, it is believed that when peanut planting gets underway this year there may be a six per cent increase in total acreage.

Moody Consents To Officers' Guard

AUSTIN, May 25 (AP)—The governor's guard, an object of display 35 years ago, is to be revived.

Dan Moody, 35-year-old executive, has given his consent to a new guard of reserve army officers to accompany him on occasions of state.

Years ago Texas governors were accompanied by mounted guards, resplendent in gold braid and immaculate trappings. More conservative executives in recent years have frowned on this practice.

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Belgian coal industry is prosperous. Miners have just received a wage increase of five per cent and reserves amount to only a 10 days supply.

Newspapers are said to have taken their name from a compass which was printed on early editions. Later the letters N-E-W-S to denote north, east, west and south, were used in place of the compass giving birth ot the name "newspaper."

Distinct Worry On Price Of Wheat Is Prevalent In Area

Price Forming Disturbing Question As Harvest Near In Various Sections; To Have Big Crop

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 25 (AP)—A distinct price worry perturbs the mind of the farmer in the winter wheat belt as he grooms his machinery for the annual harvest.

His apprehension as to what the new crop will be worth is aggravated by the existence of one of the heaviest carry-overs of old wheat this country ever has experienced.

Acres Are Many

Forty million acres, an area exceeded only five times in history, soon will go to harvest. Against this year's yield, estimated by the department of agriculture at 595,000,000 bushels, is set a stock of old wheat estimated to total 300,000,000 bushels.

The normal disappearance of wheat in commercial channels is estimated at from 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 bushels a mopth. There may be 20 per cent more wheat in the country than there was last year at this time.

Texas Starts in June

With normal weather, the wheat harvest is expected to start in the Texas Panhandle about June 5. Cutting usually moves northward at a rate of 20 to 25 miles daily, reaching southern Kansas under average conditions about June 16.

Imported harvest hands probably will be less numerous this year than ever before. No special preparations have been made for the harvest. The farmer's labor problem largely has been solved by widespread adoption of improved harvesting machinery, principally the tractor and the combine. Drawn by a tractor, a combine can cut and thresh 25 to 50 acres a day.

In Kansas last year there were 16,000 imported laborers and nearly 20,000 combines. Ten years ago the state needed 50,000 men for harvest crews.

Numerous Factors Cause

Numerous factors are held to account for the glutted wheat market. Slow export demand is a prominent one. Exports from last July to March shrunk 50,000,000 bushels, statistics show, compared to exports over the same period the previous year.

Speculation, in the hope that an upturn in values would follow enactment of farm relief legislation, which has kept prices above the world basis, has been blamed by some authorities for the huge carry-over.

Actually an official of the Kansas wheat pool points out, there is no glut of wheat from a world standpoint. He estimates there is only enough grain over world requirements to last approximately 12 days.

The visible supply of wheat, which can be definitely checked at terminals week by week, is not believed to be moving fast enough to clean out old stocks before new wheat reaches the market.

HONOLULU (AP)—This city has only one official ambulance, operated by the police, but it has 26,000 unofficial ambulances. A new ordinance permits private automobiles carrying patients to hospitals to run at full speed, but requires them to keep their horns blowing continuously while thus engaged.

HAMBURG (AP)—The newest ship of the Hamburg-American line has been named "Oakland" in honor of the California city. It will be launched in August.

ROME (AP)—An "aeromobile" show, devoted exclusively to airplanes used only for touring, will be held here. It will include accessories such as safety devices, navigation instruments and maps.

Last Three Years Are the Hardest

ITHACA, N. Y., May 25.—The health of college students enrolled at Cornell University trends downward from the time they enter college as freshmen until they leave, according to Dr. Dean F. Smiley, head of the Department of Hygiene and Preventative Medicine at the school.

The reason for this is that each year a student is in school he takes less and less care of himself, and Dr. Smiley has arrived at three causes:

1—The influence of home and mother is usually strong for good health habits and good maintenance. The longer a student is away from that influence the less he feels its effect.

2—Student life has for generations been notable for its neglect of the ordinary hygienic laws. Many interesting stories are told of "bull sessions" lasting into the early morning hours, bouts of excessive drinking, etc.

3—A fair number of college students are attempting the physical impossibility of doing the work of two men—living the life of a day laborer, to earn a living, and the life of a student.

"It will probably be many years in the future before any college will be able to boast of a senior class with a better upkeep rating than its freshman class," Says Dr. Smiley.

DUSTING MACHINE

County Agent Eaton Using Tobacco Dust On Insects

With the recent purchase of a dusting machine, by Lubbock county, County Agricultural Agent D. F. Eaton is demonstrating the use of it on plants in a number of gardens here and throughout the county.

"Tobacco dust is being used, for the purpose of killing the leaf hopper and other soft-bodied insects, or aphids, that ordinarily do great damage to vegetables," Mr. Eaton explains. "At thistime I am demonstrating the effectiveness of this method of combating the insects. The tobacco dust paralyzes them. A number of grape vines in vineyards here have been treated during the past week and I am planning to give demonstrations to various farmers over the county soon."

Butterfly fish, found in West Africa, have wings as well as fins; they jump three or four feet out of the water, then alight and glide along the surface.

Cow Testing Lab Is Now Operating

West Texas Dairy Cows May Now Be Tested At Little Cost By Owners Using Mails; Cost Nominal

To find out the actual cash return from each cow—that is the primary motive in organizing the West Texas Cow Testing Laboratory, which is now in active operation in Lubbock.

The laboratory was acquired in connection with the dairy products department of the Texas Technological college, through the efforts of Sterling C. Evans, of the Texas A. and C. college extension work and the United States Department of Agriculture extension service, County Agent D. F. Eaton and the Lubbock chamber of commerce.

Every Car Owner Eligible

Every dairyman, every farmer, or every owner of one or moe cows, within each of the United States mail sefvice, may obtain the services of this modern and well-equipped cow testing laboratory at a very nominal sum. Already there have been about 30 or 40 dairy farmers to join the association. The place of residence of any applicant makes no difference, so long as it is in West Texas.

In expaining the plan of operations for the laboratory, Prof. K. M. Renner, head of the dairy products department at Texas Tech, who is in active charge of it, says:

Determines Cost Per Cow

"The laboratory is established as a means of providing the owners of dairy cows, or ordinary milch cows kept on the farm or home, with detailed anaysis of just what it is costing to feed those cows and exactly how much revenue each cow brings in. The revenue is judged by the production of milk, whether sold or used at home, its market value being checked against the cost of production.

"Those who join the association will be furnished the containers for sending in their cream samples once a month, mailing package, stamps, pencil, directions and everything essential, excepting the dairy scales which they will need to use when weighing their milk daily.

"There is a nominal charge of $2.75 to each one who joins the association which covers all expenses for the year. A charge of $1 is made for each cow entered by the owner for testing purposes. The test is made once a month and accurate record kept on every one of them at the laboratory. At the end of the year, these records are furnished the membes. He will have been keeping accurate record of costs and can then definitely "know whether or not Old Bossy is paying her way."

Herd Size No Difference

Prof. Renner also explained that the $2.75 membership fee does not increase, whether the member has one or a hundred cows under test. The $1 fee for each cow covers that individual animal for the period of 12 months. Entries may be made at any time. And, at any time, if the member desires to enter additional cows, for instance, those coming wet a month or more after he joins the association. Also, a member may drop out any of the cows during the year. If he has another cow to enter the original $1 will apply on that and the record kept accordingly.

Any farmers or dairymen who desire further infomation about the cow testing association may learn all details from any county agent or by writing to the West Texas Cow Testing association.

PARIS (AP)—Ten thousand American law books have been found in Paris and catalogued for the American library of Paris. The action was part of a plan to enlarge the usefulness of the library as a center of information about the United States.

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's mahogany output in 1928 totalled 4,237,000 feet of which 1,902,000 were shipped to the United States.

SENIOR BANQUET

The senior class of 1929 entertained the high school faculty at a prettily appointed banquet Sunday noon at the American Cafe. Covers were laid for forty. Class colors, pink and white, were carried out in table decorations, favors, etc. A unique doll dressed in cap and gown, a miniature graduate carried a diploma and was very realistic. Place cards were very small diplomas attached to cups filled with candies and bearing aloft tiny tiny flags with the inscription '29. School orchestra played while a delicious menu was served in courses. Toastmaster was Harlan Howell, president of the class. Miss Kathleen Alexander in a clever way gave the class prophesy, while Miss Bessie Chisholm read the class history. Appropriate talks were heard from Superintendent Toone, Miss Pattison, Miss Woodhead, Mr. Hayhurst and Mr. Nance of the high school faculty. Mr. Morgan Copeland addressed the cass in a timely talk. Guests other than the class were Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Carver of White Deer, Texas; Superintendent Toone, Mrs. Toone, Miss Woodhead, class sponsor; Miss Long, Spanish teacher; Miss Pattison, math teacher; Mr. Nance, science; Mr. Hayhurst, history and athletics, and Mrs. Dallas, music. Mr. Copeland was a special guest.

MRS GRACEY ENTERTAINS 42 CLUB

Mrs. Walter Gracey was a charming hostess Friday afternoon to the ladies of the Friday Forty-Two club at 3 o'clock. Decorations, decidedly dainty, were pretty in use of roses and honeysuckles. Table cuts of hand-made handkerchiefs were drawn by Mesdames Gore, Graham and Williams. Premed silhouettes done in cross stitch were given for high and low cut. Fortunate in the cuts were Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs. Knight. After the usual time consumed in play Mrs. Gracey served sandwiches, olives, salad, refrigerator cake and ice tea, to her guests, who were: Mesdames Flem McSpadden, E. A. Graham, J. B. Knight, W. C. Smith, Chester Gore, John Scuddy, Homer Winston, A. A. Sawyer, Edgar Self, H. O. Langbrake and Earl Williams.

Colors of pink and green were featured in appointments, as well as tallies and prizes. Miss Sawyer, honoree, was presented with a container of Hudnut's perfume, while Misses Marie Bell and Mary Ann Bell received pink corsages for game trophies in bridge. Pink roses were used principally in decorations with sprays of sweet honeysuckle.

Refreshments were served to guests of the morning: Misses Christova Sawyer, Larue Sawyer, Olga Fitzgerald, Kathleen Alexander, Winnie Claire, Mary Ann Bell, Fay Martin, Eunice Banks, Bess Baldwin, Mildred Woodhead, Ida Patterson, Rebecca May, Addie Hamilton, Margaret Bell, Marie Bell and Mrs. Leo Holmes.

CLASS IN SPEECH ARTS ENTERTAINS

Saturday evening the class of Spech Arts, members of Mrs. W. B. Toones class, presented a most pleasing and highly artistic program at the grade schol auditorium. The class is composed of the following enthusiastic students: Mary Ann Bell, Frances Brownfield, Kathryn Holgate, Avis Minnix, Lenore Brownfield, Orel Brownfield, Virginia Toole, Bill Savage and Vernon Bell.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Rev. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist church, Whitedeer, Texas, and a former teacher in Brownfield schools, delivered a masterful address to the high school graduating class unday morning, 11 o'cock, at the Methodist church. A crowded house filled to the utmost, gave evidence of the interest centering around the closing exercises of the high school.

To the processional, by Gounod, the thirty seniors in caps and gowns marched in stately lines to the reserved section. Dr. Dodson gave the invocation following the doxology. Miss Kathleen Alexander, member of the class sweetly sang, "Still Lead Us On," by R. M. Stults. Dr. Culpepper, evangelist of fame, read the beautiful story of Ruth for scripture lesson. "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Henry Smart, was capably sung by Mesdames Brown, Longbrake, Price and Holgate. Superintendent N. B. Toone made announcements. "Make my life what it ought to be," by Rodeheaver, was feelingly sung by Clyde Lewis prior to the morning's address by Rev. Carver.

MISS BALDWIN COMPLIMENTED

Mrs. D. C. Hancock and Miss Addie Hamilton were hostesses at a lovely party Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hancock complimenting Miss Bess Baldwin, instructor of violin, who will soon leave for her home in Lamesa, Texas. Bridge was played with the usual zest, with high score going to Miss Mildred Woodhead, who received a beautiful linen guest towel. Low score was made by Miss Martin, who was repaid with a dainty Irish linen handkerchief. The honoree was presented with a table runner, while the table prizes wre vases of roses. Misses Martin, Patterson and Christova Sawyer received these cuts. Guests of the afternoon were Misses Baldwin, Martin, Woodhead, Banks, Sawyer, Sawyer, Hamilton, Patterson, Bell, Fitzgerald, Flache and Hamilton.

MISS FOGLE'S CLASS ENTERTAINS

The violin and piano students of Miss Fogle's class entertained Thursday night with an enjoyable program. A beautiful operetta, the "Rose Dream" was the concluding number was a garden dream by Mrs. Foreman. Having a part on the program were Misses Lucile Haris, Mildred, Irene, and Mary Nell Adams, Eunice Michel, Sybil Jones and Ray Brownfield. The recita was given in the grade school auditorium.

BRIDE-TO-BE COMPLIMENTED

The Thursday Contract Bridge club entertained with a bridge and miscellaneous shower on Monday afternoon, complimenting a club member, Miss Eunice Banks, whose marriage will occur in the near future. The popularity of this young lady teacher has brought into the social circles many pretty affairs in her honor. This lovely party was given in the home of Miss Lucille Flache. Miss Marie Bell made high score and received perfume. Cake and ice cream was served guests who were Misses Sawyer, Woodhead, Patterson, Martin, Baldwin, Hulse, McBurnett, Fitzgerald, Dumas, Daniels, Bell, Fogle, Hamilton, Treadaway, Banks and the honoree.

A lovely brithday cake was served with punch to little visitors: Marporie Moore, Joy Greenfield, Bettye Jo Savage, Jimmie Jackson, Vivien Woolridge, Mary Nell Adams, Paul Auburg, Burdel Auburg, Geneva Auburg, Geneva Murphy, Sammie Jean Legg, Louis Mullins, Pauline McCulloch, Alvin Burnett, Estell Goodpasture and Velmoise Burdett attended.

Chicago Plans Giant Skyscraper With Construction Of 75-Story Crane Tower

By ROY J. GIBBONS.
Staff Writer for Central Press

CHICAGO, May 25.—An ultra modern Tower of Babel, which when completed will dwarf any edifice the world has ever seen, is to be erected in Chicago in the immediate future, according to plans announced by the Railroad Air Rights corporation, an organization of New York and Chicago financiers.

Towering 1,022 feet into the sky, the proposed structure will make the building efforts of the ancient Babylonians, famed down the centuries, look like the work of Lilliputians. It will be 75 stories high, including a 125-foot beacon tower, or twice the height of the Pyramid of Khufu in Egypt, largest of those wonderful tombs of the kings of the Nile.

Higher Than Eiffel Tower

When completed it will top any present or proposed New York structure by 186 feet, and will be 38 feet higher than the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

In addition to being the highest structure ever erected by man, it is to be the largest office building on earth, with a total of 3,500,000 square feet of floor space, or less than one-half of that of the proposed skyscraper of skyscrapers.

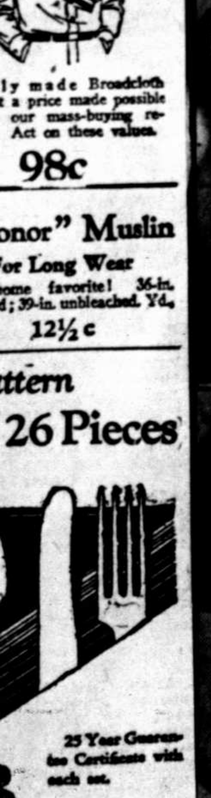

Crane Tower will be the name of the new edifice, which will be located on Randolph street, east of Michigan avenue, where it will fit magnificently into the beautification plans for the lake front, scene of the 1933 Chicago World's Fair.

Below the main floor of the proposed tower building a great railroad system, with electrically propelled trains, will run with precisely the same freedom as if only blue sky were above it and not a thousand odd feet of stone and steel. The land on which the new building is to be built belongs to the Illinois Central railroad, which has leased the air rights above their property to the corporation of financiers for a period of 100 years. Crane Tower will be the first big office building in Chicago to have direct underground connections with a railroad terminal.

$26,000,000 Bond Issue

Features of the new building will be a 1,000-automobile garage for tenants; a first floor bank, several convention halls, a coliseum, a tenants' club, Turkish baths, a gymnasium and 48 hotel rooms for tenants' guests. With the exception of the crowning stories, which will be of gold terra cotta, the building will be constructed of Bedford stone. Financing of the project will involve issues of $26,000,000 in leasehold stock and bonds.

Completed and rented to full capacity, Crane Tower will make the Tower of Babel look like—and probably sound like—a beehive as compared to boiler factory, with tenants of a hundred nationalities talking in a hundred different tongues and directing business with ramifications from Norway's northernmost reaches to the coral reefs of the far South seas.

California Planning Wholesale Hang; Five To Die On Same Day For Mutiny

By DAVID H. GLICKMAN
Central Press Staff Writer

FOLSOM, Calif. May 24.—As the sun drops out of sight behind the scalded hills which wall the somber penitentiary here, every day, five men, temporarily locked in the long shadowed cells of death row, mutter to themselves, "One day less to live."

These men, condemned to be hanged by the neck until dead, were among the leaders of the Folsom prison mutiny of Thanksgiving day, 1927, which cost several lives. They will die on the same day—five hours of continuous executions—a life an hour. A crimson day . . . the most gruesome spectacle ever staged in the history of California hangings.

Stood Trial Twice

They stood trial twice, once for the murder of Ray Singleton, a prison guard, and the other time for the slaying of George Baker, a fellow prisoner. Another convict, a ring-leader in the riot, whose life was spared—temporarily at least—is Albert M. Stewart, "The Squealer" who turned state's evidence against his confederates in hopes of escaping the gallows. An appeal of his case is now before the state supreme court.

The five men who must pay the extreme penalty are:

Anthony Brown, alias James Dale convicted in San Francisco of robbery in 1921.

Roy Stokes, alias Jack Harrison convicted of burglary in Los Angeles in December of 1924.

Walter E. Burke, alias W. P. Smith, convicted of robbery in Sacramento in October, 1925.

James H. Gregg, alias John Fleming life termer from Fresno, where he was convicted of murder in February, 1925.

James Gleason, alias Eugene Crosby, convicted of robbery in Alameda county (California), in January, 1927.

They were convicted of Singleton's killing, but the first jury recommended life imprisonment. The jury in the second trial made no recommendations which automatically resulted in the death penalty being invoked. Their case was appealed, but the state supreme court has denied their appeal and they must die. The date, as yet, has not been set. It will be California's first wholesale hanging.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, May 25. (AP)—Hardly enough livestock in any class to test values. Those here lacking in quality and buyers and sellers agreed on values about steady with those of yesterday.

A car of range bulls sold at 8.25, fully steady.

Packages and individual cows at 5.25 to 8.25. Bulk of the canners and cutters closed at 5.00 to 6.25.

Few calves unchanged at 6.50 to 13.00.

Best rail hogs at 10.55.

Sheep values considered steady.

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, May 2 (AP)—Livestock trade around the 11 market circuit this week was featured by an improved demand for hogs, and closing prices were 15@35c higher than a week ago. Chicago and St. Louis had a closing top of $11.35. Total offerings were around 507,800, an increase of 54,500 over last week.

Continued liberal receipts of sheep with fat lambs predominating resulted in a slow grade throughout the week. Closing prices on fat lambs steady to 25c lower, fed offerings mostly 15@25c off.

Cattle marked by price fluctuations and considerable uneveness. Light yearlings at a few centers still were sharply lower than a week ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 25. (AP)—Wheat came closer today to $1.00 a bushel than ever before this season, but the market proved skittish and jumped to above yesterday's finish. Instead of a general rush to sell taking place because of rainfalls in Canada, buying broadened out after moderate declines had carried prices down to an all-round new low record for the season. Opinion appeared widespread that relief from moisture shortage in Canada was only transient, and that the real crisis for the Canadian crop would come in June or July.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular at 1-8c net decline to 1-4c advance, with corn unchanged to 1-2c higher, oats 1-4c to 7-8c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

Decline Follows Early Rallies In New York Cotton

NEW YORK, May 25. (AP)—An early decline was followed by rallies in the cotton market today on covering which appeared to be combined with a little local and commission house buying on reports of rains or showers in western and central belts and forecasts of unsettled weather in the belt over Sunday. October contracts sold up from 18.37 to 18.50 and closed at 18.47, with the general market closing steady net unchanged to 4 points higher.

The market opened steady to a decline of 1 to 5 points under renewed liquidation, with the active months showing net losses of about 6 to 13 points during the early trading. No particular news factor was mentioned in connection with the decline, which, however, may have reflected continued optimism overcoming crop possibilities.

Offerings were light and after easing off to 18.43 for July and 18.47 for December, the market steadied on covering for over the week-end. This was evidently promoted by reports of rains or showers in the southwest and buying became a little more active after the posting of the weather map which was regarded by some traders as pointing to the probability of more showers in the south over Sunday.

July sold up to 18.60 and December to 18.61, with active months showing net advances of about 2 to 7 points at the best point of the morning. The close was within 2 or 3 points of the top.

Owing to a continuation of the Whitsuntide holidays, Liverpool was closed again today. Business there will be resumed on Monday.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 92,000 bales, against 100,000 at this time last year and 118,000 two years ago.

Weather Gives $1 Recovery On Bale On Orleans Mart

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—Weather conditions again affected the cotton market today, prospects for unsettled weather over the week end causing prices to recover about $1 a bale from an early decline. July contracts opened at 18.60 dropped 19 points to 18.41, then rallied and closed at 18.59, or 2 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 1 to 5 points.

The market opened steady, at an advance of 1 to 5 points. In the In the absence of Liverpool cables trading was without incentive at the start.

Final prices were within one point of the top, January showing the maximum gain of 5 points. A few final May notices were issued today and that option expired at 18.80, or 5 points net down.

Receipts 2,247 for year 9,191,512; last year 8,239,958. Exports 6,493; for year 7,351,578; last year 6,709,822. Stocks 1,150,891; last year 1,291,075. Stock on shipboard 85,954; last year 109,266. Spot sales 4,452; last year 6,493.

Well! At Last The Secret's Out!

Mrs. Longworth Snubs Mrs. Gann Because Speaker Hubby Wants House Prestige More Than Senate

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 25 — The Hon. Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House of Representatives, has conceived the optimistic ambition of establishing the prestige of the House above that of the Senate and the official social ranking of the speaker above that of vice president or the chief justice of the supreme court.

The Hon. Mr. Longworth's theory is that, as presiding officer of the House, he is the supreme representative of the people and that the dignity of the dear people must be recognized to the extent that Mr. and Mrs. Longworth must be parked at dinner tables above Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Gann and everyone else except Mr. and Mrs. Hoover.

If the Hon. Mr. Longworth, with the help of his able wife, should actually be able to put it over it would be a crowning climax to the history of the speakership and would add a complete social triumph to that office's gradual accumulation of political power. It's a long story.

An Ancient Office

The office originated in the British House of Commons and the first speaker whose name is recorded was Thomas de Hungerford, who served in the year 1377. Early speakers appear to have been subservient to the king just as ours generally are to the president today. They became more independent, however, especially after the Cromwell period.

Colonial legislatures in America had their speakers, who were subject to removal or expulsion when they failed to command a majority of the House or obey its orders. Presiding officers of the Continental congresses were known as presidents rather than as speakers. Election of a speaker was provided for in the Constitution, but nothing was said about his duties—or his social precedence.

Frederick A. Muhlenberg of Pennsylvania became the first speaker under the Constitution. He was a portly, prosperous gent, more patriotic than brilliant. Originally he was merely a presiding officer but the House gave him the privilege of making committee appointments. He was succeeded by Jonathan Trumbull of Connecticut, but in 1793, when the House first divided along partisan lines, the anti-Federalists re-elected him.

Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina, who used to enter the births and pedigree of his horses on the fly-leaf of the family Bible, was elected speaker in the first Jefferson administration and became the first one to assert his constitutional right to vote despite an existing House rule which denied him the privilege. He was also the first to lead his party from the chair. But the speaker remained a servant of the House, rather than its master.

The Greatest of All

Henry Clay is regarded as the greatest of American speakers, and was the youngest man ever elected to the office. He realized the possibilities of the job and played them for all they were worth, organizing committees so that he could run the House to suit himself. He manipulated the rules for political purposes, but none of his decisions was ever overruled. He even overshadowed President Madison. Many less competent successors have been far less powerful. He was six times elected to the position.

James G. Blaine, elected in 1869, manipulated the power of his office to help his presidential ambitions. He denied members the privilege of the floor when he didn't like what they were going to say and came to exert great power in framing bills. His authority was virtually absolute. His immediate successors did not surrender much.

Speaker Thomas B. Reed of Maine, able, shrewd and aggressive, became known as "Czar" Reed in the early nineties. Under Reed, nine legally elected democrats were fired out of the House in order to increase the republican majority to a safe working margin. Democratic members began to revolt by refusing to vote, though present, refusing a quorum. Reed counted them "present" despite their protests, and when they sought to bolt the chamber had the doors locked.

Reed took many other arbitrary measures to discourage filibustering and other dilatory tactics. He was an absolute dictator in the 51st Congress. The democrats held power in the ensuing four years and scrapped the "Reed Rules" only later to adopt some of them while giving over some of the speaker's power to the Rules Committee. Reed was re-elected speaker in 1894, serving four more years.

Cannon Was a Dictator

Uncle Joe Cannon, who served as speaker from 1903 to 1910, preserved the Reed tradition and under him methods of legislation in the House became recognized as the most arbitrary of any legislative body in the world. Once when a majority of members signed a petition requesting permission to consider a bill Cannon merely threw the petition in the wastebasket. Eventually insurgent republicans united with democrats to unhorse Cannon, and the rules were somewhat modified. But the Rules Committee continues to rule the House and the speaker dominates the Rules Committee.

Unfortunately, Longworth's hopes of establishing House supremacy over the Senate is hampered by the fact that the same rules which allow his oligarchy to dictate to the House have produced a situation where the House merely proposes legislation and the Senate, unbound by any such rules, is really the disposing body.

About That Einstein Theory

Tech Mathematics Professor, J. S. Rosen, Is One Man Among Many; He Understands Relativity Theory

Fundamental postulates of the theory of relativity, as advanced by Albert Einstein, deal with the phenomina of motion and the velocity of light, Professor J. S. Rosen of the Tech department of mathematics said when asked to set forth in simple language the theories expounded by the famous Swiss physicist.

Years of study have been necessary for this member of the Texas Tech faculty to get an insight to the theory which so few are able to understand. Advanced work at the Washington University at St. Louis and the University of Chicago under the foremost authorities on this strange, but fascinating subject has put Prof. Rosen in a distinct class with those scholars who are able to fathom the almost fathomless points in the theory.

Hard to Explain

An interview with the Tech authority on the Einstein theory does not progress very far before one is convinced that simple language can not explain even its basic elements. Prof. Rosen's brief discourse on the subject, intended for the understanding of the layman, contains thoughts that only a learned scholar with a trained mind can follow.

The Einstein theory was not intended for the masses. It is a theory that only the advanced physicist can interpret and use, dealing with minute figures and calculations seldom encountered by the ordinary citizen.

"Relativity phenomina," Prof. Rosen explains, "is comparable only to the high velocity of light. Two observers' calculations on a given mass moving in space, differ only when the velocity approaches that of light which moves at 186,000 miles per second. For this reason relativity can never affect terrestial metaphysics.

Idea Is Given

"Observers of different relative velocity will measure different distances, different masses and different times, according to their own directions. Thus we see that the fundamental units used by a physicist are time, mass and distance. The theory of relativity adds the fourth unit, motion.

"Einstein reduced gravitational phenomena and electrical phenomena to a study of four dimensions which include time. Through this fourth dimension one observer can correlate his data with another.

"The relativity of motion is a special phase of the theory. There is no way of detecting motion other than by comparison. The speed of the earth was calculated during the time when ether was thought to be stationery.

"Relativity applied to electrons results in an endless mass of conclusions which form the basis for the relation of matter."

Two of the foremost authorities on relativity in this country are Drs. Dunn and Murnaghan of the University of Chicago. Prof. Rosen believes. It is here that he plans to complete work on his P. H. D. degree. His Doctor Thesis will include a discourse on relativity.

More Residents Are Found On These Two Streets Tha On Any Others Here, City Directory Indicates

A search through the pages of the "business men's bible" commonly known as the city directory—reveals that according to numbers—Sixteenth, is the most densely populated residence street in Lubbock and that Avenue M, claims the distinction among the avenues.

Beginning with the three-hundred-block and running through the twenty-four-hundred block, there are 143 white families who reside on Sixteenth street, and 82 of this number are listed as "home-owners."

Mexicans Own Homes

While Avenue M, boasts of 108 white families between Second street and Twenty-Third street, with 49 of these listed as "home-owners." On north Avenue M, beyond Second street, the directory lists 17 Mexican families, with 14 of this number "home-owners." There is also listed on this avenue, a Spanish Methodist church, located on north Avenue M.

The directory also reveals that Broadway and Main streets vie with each other for honors in the business section of the city and according to avenues, Texas, J and K, are strong contestants for first place among the business avenues "down town."

"M's" Lead Parade

Family names that take the lead in the city directory—show that "M" leads with 29 pages given over to the recording of names beginning with the "13th" letter of the alphabet—with the "B's" taking second place with 27 pages and including 82 families of Browns, and "S's" including the 105 families of "Smith's" taking third place, with only 26 pages of names to their credit.

Taken as a whole the "business man's bible" am a great rebelatio Yes 'tis. And should be studied fr "kiver-to-kiver."

Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh sends his sweetheart old-fashioned corsages of sweetheart roses when she's going to a party.

No, you don't see that in the papers, nor did you know that Anne Morrow, "Luckiest Girl in the World," just adores mushroom sandwiches and spun sugar flowers.

But I learned about the violet colored box with Lindy's corsage in it that arrived at Anne's grandmother's house just before she dressed for the very swanky tea her grandma was giving for her and her sister when they were visiting Grandma Cutter in Cleveland, O., from a friend who lives across the

Members Of Fair Sex Become More Business Minded

M. H. Gossett, Financier, Visits City And Declares Past Few Years Changed Women's Viewpoint

ASSOCIATIONS within the last few years have made women "business conscious" and made their presence in the business world a pleasant one, according to M. H. Gossett, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, who visited here this week for a farm-loan conference.

Since the National Farm Loan associations have no stock holders other than borrowers and these borrowers are confined to farmers and ranchers, Mr. Gossett does not have the contact with women that ordinary building and loan associations have. However, he believes that 95 per cent of the borrowers are married men and thus he does have an indirect contact with women.

Women on Staff

Approximately half of his staff of employees in the Houston bank are women and Mr. Gossett finds them efficient and capable and a very necessary part of his institution.

A few of those who borrow from these loan associations—perhaps one per cent are women. No particular difference has been found in the promptness of men and women in meeting their obligations, Mr. Gossett says, and there has been no particular difference in the dealings with men and women.

Rural Women Interested

The farm loan associations do have a large influence with rural women since many of the borrowers are married men, he believes. The average man's income is a partnership affair and much of the family money is spent by women.

Men who borrow at a low rate of interest are saving a sum annually which may be used by the rural woman in improvements and luxuries in her home.

Women are learning more of business and are becoming more independent than formerly. This is a natural result of their associations in the business world, Mr. Gossett believes. They find building and loan or any other savings institutions a satisfactory way of saving money and creating estates. Many of them are using these opportunities to advantage, he finds.

PIANO CLASS PLAYS

Mrs. Marlin Smith Presents Class In Recital

Mrs. Marlin R. Smith, jr. presented a class in piano recital Thursday afternoon in her home at 2104 1-2 16th street. Mothers and friends of those appearing were guests.

A program was rendered as follows:

"Circling 'Round" (Louise Wright) Mary Catherine Rice; "The Fog Bell" (J. M. Williams) and "Doris Waltz" (Gurlitt), Mittie McCaslin, duet, "After School March" (Brownfield), Mary Catherine Rice and Addie Lee Terrell; "Pixies Riding Horseback" and "Pixies Prize Song" Vondelle Prideaux; "Drive Around the Lake" (Bond), Addie Lee Terrell; duet, "Maina's Birthday Waltz" (Streabbog), Addie Lee Terrell and Vondelle Prideaux.

MANILA (AP).—This city's first "talkie" apparatus is on its way from the United States. There is speculation as to whether the talking pictures will be a success as few of the Filipinos who make up most of the patronage of the theaters understand English.

Co-Ed Cooks Are Experts Also At Fancy Dancing

BY LILIAN CAMPBELL

Can a girl who is a good dancer be a good cook at the same time?

In other words, can the mistress of the terpsichorean art, who is necessarily nimble with her toes, handle her hands with equal dexterity when the omelet is puffed and brown and ready for folding and the bacon done to a turn?

The Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, Stillwater, has the answer. Five married co-eds who are celebrated for their toe dancing are said to be excellent cooks.

The husbands of all five, Mrs. George Elledge, Mrs. Juanita Morey, Mrs. Martha Danford, Mrs. Millicent Miller and Mrs. Faye Tucker, attend the same school and thrive on their wives' culinary exertions. In each instance these husband students are at the head of their classes, and in one instance the husband is the leading track man of the college.

State P.T.A. Members Recognized At National Convention For Activities

The Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations is entitled to a full measure of pride in the part the members of the organization took and in the recognition given the activities of the state branch at the thirty-third annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers held recently at Washington, D. C. Besides furnishing the national president in the person of Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, and the president of the state presidents section, in the person of Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, the Texas personnel now has an honorary life vice-president in Mrs. Ella Caruthers Porter, Dallas, who was given this high honor at the Founders' dinner.

This action of the national, according to Mrs. Smith who returned this week from Washington, was a fitting recognition of the service Mrs. Porter has rendered the parent-teacher movement born in the national organization and in the state, and meets with the heartiest approval and pleasure of Mrs. Porter's friends throughout the nation.

The five year program of rural extension work inaugurated by Mrs. Smith in Texas was explained at the rural conference section and was one of the most comprehensive and definite plans submitted. As such it received the close attention of the leaders in this field of endeavor. "No other state has quite our plan," Mrs. Smith explained, "most of them depending on field secretaries and other national workers.

Mrs. Smith says, "Texas plans to do her extension work with her own people. In the fifteen districts of the Texas Congress there are 105 vice-presidents, who if they follow the plan adopted by the Texas board of managers will begin work on June first. They will be furnished with a course of study that will give them authoritative information and exact instructions as to how to proceed. No one is to attempt to organize a parent-teacher association without this authoritative information. But all vice-presidents can on June 1 begin the survey of their county and find precinct subchairmen. In this way 105 counties in Texas will have the attention of a vice-president, preferrably the vice-presidents taking their home-counties first and later on adjoining counties."

Many Societies Enroll

Texas stood first among the states in the number of associations enrolling in the Summer Round-Up campaign, another source of pride for the Texas delegation, Texas had 217 units enrolled last year with 74 completing the campaign. This year she had 270 units and every effort will be made to have all units car-

Patriotic Note

Paris gives American women a novel patriotic touch in a new frock of white marocain, with incrustations of self-banding posed in geometric lines. The collar, which is a double little square in the back and slender hands knotting in the front, has a star of blue in the middle of the back with red, white and blue border. The cut of the collar is as fascinatingly new as its decoration.

The friend says that she "sized up" the two Morrow girls very assiduously and decided that she knew why Lindy "preferred" Anne to Elizabeth even if Elizabeth is prettier. Elizabeth, she thinks, could be snippy, but Anne could never be anything but sweet and amiable. It was sister Elizabeth who shooed the photographers and gave them a very well-bred piece of her mind for not leaving her sister alone.

A GEMLESS BRIDE-TO-BE

Elizabeth wore jewelry to the party, says the friend, but Anne didn't have a thing added to her little blue crepe dress with a velvet jacket but the old-fashioned corsage of sweetheart roses which Lindy had sent her. She had worn the same dress to another party the night before, but Elizabeth's outfit was all different. Anne consumed mushroom sandwiches and made a special point of being especially sweet to her grandmother's old friends, reports the purveyor of the "famous sweetheart" news.

PROUD LITTLE GIRLS

One of the lady guests told Anne about her little daughters and how thrilled they were because their mother was meeting Lindy's fiancee and Anne told the lady to send the little girls to see her after the party.

So they came over, all dressed up in their party dresses, and so thrilled at meeting the world's most famous sweetheart and knowing that they could tell the kids at school all about it, that one of them burst into tears.

Whereupon the world's most famous sweetheart found her a pretty yellow spun sugar rose, gave her a kiss and sent her home rejoicing.

The girl next door who heard the story, too, thinks it's too nice for anything that Lindy, "just a boy who played around doing stunts at carnivals and circusses," knows his social amenities well enough to send his girl the right sort of corsage before a swanky tea given for her by her grandmother.

YOUNG MEN LEARN

But that's one of the things one take for granted—that a young man no matter what his background rapidly learns to do the things expected of him by a lady in the case and this particular lady in the case has moved in an orbit which takes corsages from fiancee for the proper ocasion rather for granted.

Besides people's backgrounds are composite things, and before he was a stunt flyer in carnivals Lindy was the son of a congressman and his wife, and rather used to social circles which know what's in the know.

Anyway, thought you might like to know these inside gleanings, Anne!

ry through the work.

The life membership report of the Texas branch, prepared by Mrs. Edward Kneeland, of Dallas, and read by Mrs. Smith gave a decided impetus to the movement. Many new state presidents attending one membership sectional meeting have already written Mrs. Kneeland for the plan and literature bearing upon this subject according to information at state office.

At least two Texas women are going to attend the meeting of the international education meeting in Geneva this summer, they will go as official delegates from the National Congress of Parents and Teachers according to Mrs. Smith, who stated that besides these two Texas women, Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, who will be a voting delegate, and Mrs. Ella Caruthers Porter, who will be a visiting delegate, that there are some fourteen representatives from the board of managers of the National Congress who will attend.

Another source of gratification for the Texas Congress in the Washington convention was found in the publicity work of the state as evidenced by the eight scrap books in the National exhibit. Mrs. Smith states that all of the eight received gold stars the highest award, while two received red stars, the second award. These books receiving gold stars are: Fort Worth, Alice E. Carlson P. T. A.; Robstown, Primary P. T. A.; Wichita Falls, Reagan Junior High P. T. A.; Paris, First Ward P. T. A.; and Wichita Falls Austin School P. T. A.; Gonzales P. T. A., and those receiving red stars are: Fort Worth, George E. Tandy P. T. A. and Claude, Liana P. T. A.

Starts Her Campaign For 1930

Mennonites Begin Westward Trek In Search of Cheap Lands Along Coast

NEWTON, Kas., May 25 (AP)—The nation's leading colony of Mennonites, for half a century grouped in central Kansas, has begun a westward trek toward cheaper farm lands.

Some of the 15,000 adherents of Mennonite evangelism already have emigrated to begin settlement of 50,000 acres near Spokane, Wash. That tract, recently purchased by the Mennonite Settlers' Aid society, is open only to Mennonites with certificates of entry.

Increasing prices of Kansas land, and difficulties involved in obtaining more of it, were cited as reasons for the emigration. For years Newton has been headquarters for the central conference of Mennonites in North America.

The colonization of the Washington tract represents the latest movement of a sect that originated in Holland and Prussia. It was more than a century ago when they emigrated to Russia.

Later, following difficulties with Russian military laws, they moved to America. Land grants in Kansas were obtained from the Santa Fe railroad in 1874.

H. P. Krehbiel of Newton, a Mennonite leader, originated the idea of settling in the "promised land" near Spokane. Colonization of the Washington area is expected to continue for eight years.

ROME (AP)—Italy last year produced nearly 29,000,000 barrels of wine, an increase of thirty per cent over the preceding twelve months.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Hands are being made up these days as skillfully as faces. Arms, shoulders, too (when they appear), and even legs and feet. But let's stick to the hands, for now since we are considering each phase of their care this week.

There are two kinds of hand make-up — the dainty, delicate rose and natural kind suited to evening and all formal occasions and the brown sun-tan type that is worn both for the evening and for sports and all informal occasions.

Of course the hands must be suntanned, too, as well as face and neck, for nothing would be more artificial looking than to see pale, northern colored hands with a warm, southern colored face. When this brown makeup is being applied to the hands, be very sure to smooth it evenly along the inner sides of the fingers, so that no tell-tale white lines will appear. And with it use a deeper, henna tinted nail polish to carry out the tone of brighter color. Light, natural tinted polish will show up blue and sickly against the warm brown tan.

Women who prefer to wear their own natural untanned complexions in the evening, enhanced by delicate, pearly powders and bright cheek and lip rouge, will wear the same fair makeup on their hands. If they use a liquid powder, as most women prefer to in the evening for neck and shoulders, they will smooth this also over the hands. And they may choose to wear a touch of liquid or cream rouge on each dainty fingertip. Pink palms, too, are attractive if you do not make them too pink. And very faint shading or rouge along the outside of the fingers and down the outer edges of the hands will make wide hands look slimmer.

If you do not use a liquid powder, smooth the same foundation over your hands that you use on your face before applying powder. This will soften the skin, giving it the same "mat" tone that your face should have. Hands and faces should match—remember that in making up your hands.

And now for rings. The right sort of ring can make hands and fingers look slimmer, longer and more delicate. Short fingers should wear rings with long stones, set vertically to give an impression of greater length. And do not year a ring on your little finger if you want your hand to look longer. Wear it on the third finger and see how much more graceful your whole hand will look.

A very delicate slender ring, whose decoration, if any, is horizontal, will not show off to best advantage on the large, long fingered hand. It will seem insignificant and small by comparison, and its beauty may be missed. Large hands can wear large rings and stones better than small ones can. But elongated settings are most faltering. The small hand, loaded down large rings, is quite likely to look strangely overburdened.

Diamonds and the light colored precious and semi-precious stones glitter brilliant and beautiful upon fair, dainty hands. But with the suntan makeup, or with a natural tan, the bright colored stones create a more strikingly brilliant effect. Emeralds and jade, sapphires and rubies, yellow diamonds and even black onyx, and all the bright varieties of synthetic costume jewels, accent delightfully brown, glowing hands and arms.

Today, when ensembles are being planned to include not only clothes and make-up, but jewelry as well, it is important to consider what complexion you will wear with certain jewels and clothes.

t's All In The Drawl," Says Moran And Mack, Now Busy With Their First Film Production, "Backstage Blues"

Two Black Crows to Be in Movie; Tell How They Talk

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 25.—Negroes of northern Oklahoma and southern Kansas are responsible for the peculiar type of dialect through which George Moran and Charles Mack have become two of the most famous comedians in America.

This information was secured from the stage actors between scenes of "Backstage Blues," their first motion picture which they are busy making at the Paramount studio here.

The Two Black Crows," as they are familiarly known, both spent their early lives in the southern part of Kansas. Mack in White Cloud and Moran in Elwood. They know the diolect of this section as probably no other white men know inasmuch as they spent years carefully studying the negro language.

Stalling for Time

"The drawl which we use is a mental device and not an impediment," explained Mack, who is the spokesman for the team. "The type of negro which we studied stalls at the beginning of every sentence, particularly when he is answering a question. He does this because he is canny. He wants to be careful and sure before he speaks.

"As a rule he starts by repeating a part of the question asked him, injects a few 'wells' and then gets under way with long pauses between words and a dragging out of the syllables which he speaks. He does this because all the time he is framing the words he is about to speak and as a rule the negro does not think quickly.

"Once his reply is started and he has his answer well formulated, he usually speaks quite rapidly. This change of tempo actually makes a much more effective. And it is the essence of the proper telling of negro wit and humor. We try to do it in such a way that people see only of the result and not the method employed."

At this moment Moran interrupted.

"When you know the secret of the change in tempo you can readily see why unrelieved drawling is awesome," he remarked. "Take for example the joke we tell about the man who wouldn't eat meat. Throughout the dialogue leading up to the point of the joke we employ the drawl because Mack is waiting for an answer. However, when we get to the point where it is almost impossible to listen any longer without knowing the answer, Mack can't get 'because we don't give him any' out of his mouth fast enough."

Moran and Mack both went on the stage about 25 years ago, each doing a blackface act. But it was not until 1917 that they decided to work together. They were playing "Over the Top" in New York. When the show closed both were broke so they decided to work up an act and go into vaudeville. Two years ago they became nationally prominent through their first phonograph record. "The Two Black Crows." More than 3,000,000 records were sold the first year.

When talking to the comedians one would never think they were the same men who have such a fluent line of humorous chatter on the stage. Ordinarily they speak just as any other southerners.

Interest Is High In Bible School Courses In City

Banner Enrollment Is Hung Up As First Week's Work Is Ended; Picnics Are To Feature This Week

With an increasing enrollment and a greater manifestation of interest than in former years, the first week of the Daily Vacation Bible schools being conducted at four churches in the city closed Friday at noon.

According to directors of the schools, there is a larger attendance this year than for any previous year. The First Baptist reported an enrollment of two hundred sixty-seven, the First Methodist three hundred five and the Cumberland Presbyterian, conducting a Bible school for the first time, reported an enrollment of about one hundred five.

Faculties Are Large

The Methodist has a faculty of about forty, the Presbyterian has about twenty helpers, the Baptist about twenty seven and the Cumberland Presbyterian about six helpers. Because of the large increase in enrollment this week more workers have been added and a number of the classes divided.

Crafts, Bible stories, songs, Bible and patriotic drills and various other things are taught the children in the Bible schools. Picnics have also been planned along with the Bible study.

The Presbyterian church had a picnic Friday afternoon. The pupils met at the church at four, each with a small picnic lunch and held their picnic at a local park. The pupils of the Baptist church also had their picnic Friday, beginning at noon.

The Methodist group is to meet Friday afternoon at the church at four and go from there to the County park. The Cumberland pupils are also to have a picnic Friday which is the last day of the Bible school.

Following the regular daily program of songs, drills and Bible study the last hour each day is devoted to crafts. Classes of different ages make different things.

The Presbyterian groups are making cabinets, curtains and various other things to be used in the new church annex soon to be completed.

The classes are to be resumed Monday morning for the last week of the schools to last through Friday, May 20. A larger enrollment is expected for each of the churches for the last week.

Larger enrollments and better response has been shown this year than for any previous year and the directors are anticipating a bigger and better Bible school for next year.

Pulitzer Prize Ends In Storm

"Scarlet Sister Mary" Is Awarded First Novel Place

Julia Peterkin Wins Award; Merit Is Recognized

By GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, May 25.—The storm which this department predicted, back in April, would come in the wake of the Pulitzer prize award for fiction, has broken.

At that time, I said that the committee was reported to have decided upon Dr. John Rathbone Oliver, Baltimore phychiatrist and writer. And so, it develops, the committee had. Yet Dr. Oliver's book, "Victim and Victor" (Macmillan), did not get the award.

Wherefore, Dr. Richard E. Burton, for four years the chairman of the fiction award committee, has tossed over that position. To be exact, he suggested that he "be not asked to serve again." It seems that the decision of Dr. Burton's committee was overridden by the advisory committee of the Columbia University journalistic school. The Pulitzer jury, Dr. Burton now reveals, was unanimous on Dr. Oliver's book. And that is that.

Concerning the prize winner, Mrs. Julia Peterkin, this department went on record at that time as follows: "Incidentally, I am told that Julia Peterkin's "Scarlet Sister Mary" has been one of the strongest contenders for the prize. Certainly it would get my vote." And still would, despite the many excellences of Dr. Oliver's work.

The choice of "Scarlet Sister Mary" will, I believe, be a popular one with most American critics, most of whom have felt that Mrs. Peterkin deserved a wider recognition and a few well-chosen laurels. Her book, like her former works, is lush as the southern soil which gives it background. It holds the fine smell of the earth and of the symbolism of the earth's fertility. In a fashion, "Scarlet Sister Mary" became a symbol of that fertility, bearing new children with each passing season and embracing a sort of careless paganism.

The book is alive, as its Gullah negro characters are alive, and is more than a transient contribution to the literature of our land.

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

Here are a few personal selections for those days when the zephyrs grow warmer and warmer and yawns become harder to stifle:

"Molinoff' or the Count in the Kitchen" (Viking) by Maurice Bedel, who wrote "Jeremy, or the Latitude of Love." This is a somewhat malicious and highly amusing satire on one of the thousands of ex-nobles who had to go to work for a living.

"Father William" (Harpers) by Donald Ogden Stewart. A very merry tale of what happens when a staid and middle aged father astounds his "modern" children by doing a little "stepping out" himself.

"That Capri Air" (Harpers) by Edwin Cerio, who is said to be the "mayor" of that magic isle in the Mediterranean, explaining "the sirocco," which Norman Douglas made famous in his "South Wind."

"Loose Ladies" (Harcourt) by Vina Delmar. Being a lot of short stories about "Bad Girls" who are really not so bad. Good craftmanship here of the magazine short type and easy to read.

"Little Caesar" (Dial). More ado about Chicago, the town where you can't serve cracked ice in hotels for fear it might find its way into beverages which cause most that city's gang wars. Lots of close-up underworld atmosphere, tersely and tensely told by W. R. Burnett. It will be the next Literary Guild book, I believe.

"Banjo" (Harpers) wherein Claude McKay, the negro writer of "Home to Harlem," tells about the negroes of the Marseilles waterfront where, by the way, McKay worked for a couple of years.

RIO DE JANIERO (AP).—Japan is forging ahead as a customer of Brazil with two steamer lines giving direct service between the countries. In 1928 the oriental empire took 50,000 pounds of coffee, 40,000 pounds of sugar and 60,000 pounds of frozen meats.

JERUSALEM (AP).—Two modern hotels are to be erected here supplying a lack from which the Holy City has suffered, especially in comparison with Egyptian cities. One will be built by the Palestine Economic Corporation of New York and the other by a Moslem religious organization.

The tornado, by many erroneously called a cyclone, is a column of upwardly spiraling winds of destructive velocity. It travels about 30 miles a hour, and commonly toward the northwest.

Former Lubbock Woman Is Author

"The Singing Soul" Is Pearle Moore Stevens' Work

"The Singing Soul," a volume of verse recently released by the Stratford Publishers of Boston, Mass., and whose author is Pearle Moore Stevens, of Wichita Falls, is a simple song of life which seeks to find inspiration, beauty and rythm in even the commonplace and will hearten the man who is down and out, to get up and try life anew.

The publishers explain that, "The purpose of this book is to bring new vision to eyes that see not the glory of mortality, new throbs to hearts that grow weary with disappointment."

Brings Wealth of Color.

"The Singing Soul," is the first book Mrs. Stevens has had published and for a new author she has brought a wealth of color and feeling into her volume, which is now being reviewed by some thirty-odd men and women throughout the United States among whom are: Senator Morris Sheppard, Senator Tom Connally, Congressman Gwinn Williams, National Preisdent Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. John F. Sippel, of Baltimore; Dean of Women, C. I. A., Miss Eugenia Hefley; The Rev. Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker, of Oklahoma City; Dr. C. C. Selecman, president S. M. U.; Lee Clark, of Plainview, president of the State Teachers' Association; Wrs. W. R. Potter, President Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and others.

Mrs. Stevens, with her mother, formerly resided in Lubbock and is a sister of John Henry Moore, 2002 Main street. She has visited in this city on numerous occasions and will return at an early date for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Roses Bring More Dickens' Desk Is Topped in Sale

LONDON, May 25 (AP).—A little bunch of primroses, picked in a modern English garden, brought more at auction the other day than the desk on which Charles Dickens is said to have written his "Pickwick Papers."

The desk was knocked down for 25 pounds in an auction room here; the roses, gathered by Queen Mary in the grounds of Craigweil house, Bognor, where the king is convalescing, brought 32.50 pounds at a charity bazaar held at a small town nearby.

Other literary souvenir which brought surprisingly low prices in the London auction included a black cloak formerly worn by Tennyson and a bannock-toaster once owned by Robert Burns. The cloak sold for 30 pounds and the toaster for 25 pounds.

The United States Shipping Board, since its creation just before America entered into the World war, has sold approximately 1,700 ships, totaling around 8,750,000 deadweight tons and has received on account of the sales about $400,000,000.

A person on a house roof 100 feet high can see more than 13 miles away on a clear day. On a mountain 1,000 feet high a 42-mile view can be had. Aviators a mile up can see everything within a radius of 96 miles.

Garage And Grocery Will Occupy Tahoka Bldg.

TAHOKA, May 25—C. A Hill Lamesa, owner of two business lots in Tahoka, has announced that he will at an early date begin he erection on them of a new brick store building to be 50 by 125 feet in size. A space 26 by 100 has been leased to Harley Henderson, who will open a Helpy-Selfy grocery on the completion of the building. The remainder of the building will be occupied by the Hill Motor company as a garage and salesroom for the Buick and Marquette cars. The building will be of brick with a blue and white tile front and hardwood and concrete floors.

The old red garage building, one of the first garage buildings erected in Tahoka twelve or fifteen years ago by Belton Howell, will be torn away at an early date to make way for the new structure.

SCHOOL ART CENTER

ST LOUIS (AP)—Washington university is to build a campus art center. A new building for the school of architecture, costing more than $250,000, and a museum of art, to cost approximately $500,000, will be the major projects.

STOCKHOLM (AP).—Five thousand ancient Swedish books and documents of historical value which have been in the Russian archives in Leningrad are to be returned to Sweden. A similar exchange was made recently with Denmark, the latter country receiving Danish documents in return for Swedish records of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

MOSCOW (AP)—Seven and a half million tons of peat were cut in the soviet union last year. This was four and a half times the volume of 1927, but the government plans to double the present figure within five years.

ubbock School Teacher Endorses Orgatone

Taken One Bottle Of Orgatone And Feel Like A Different Person," Says Mrs. Freda Schnitzer

Mrs. Freda Schnitzer, of 2006 St., Lubbock, Tex., who has been a resident here for several years, and a school teacher, made a remarkable statement, regarding Orgatone, recently to the Orgatone representative.

"About two years ago," she continued, "I started having indigestion and it has grown steadily worse all the time. I was very, very nervous, and was severely constipated, and was forced to take strong laxatives most all the time. I had very little appetite and didn't eat much on account of the food souring on my stomach and causing gas to form. I was run in a run-down condition and was so nervous, I couldn't sleep at night, and always seemed to be tired and worn out.

"Orgatone was recommended to me by a friend and I saw where it was advertised so highly, I decided to try it. I have just taken one bottle and certainly feel a difference. Nothing I ever used before taking Orgatone benefited me as Orgatone has. I am getting wonderful results. My indigestion doesn't bother me any more, and I sleep like a log every nervous and restless any more, I can eat anything I want. I am not nervous and restess any more, and I know that Orgatone has done me a world of good, I feel if I had not taken it I would have had a nervous break-down. I am glad to recommend it to anyone suffering as I did."

Genuine Orgatone is not a secret or patent remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock, exclusively by the Bowen Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Adv.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Go not forth hastily to strive, lest thou know not what to do in the end thereof, when thy neighbor hath put thee to shame.

Debate thy cause with thy neighbour himself; and discover not a secret to another.—Proverbs, xxv, 8, 9.

HEALTH AND SANITATION

DR. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, is out with a warning that Lubbock must become more sanitary or else offenders will be given an opportunity to pay a few fines. The Avalanche-Journal is certainly behind Dr. Rollo in his ultimatum.

There is enough sickness and disease in the world—even in this healthy country of ours—without aiding those forces to make discomfort more prevalent. With very little extra time and effort we can all work to make Lubbock a healthier better place in which to live. This can be accomplished by more closely following the dictates of common decency.

People who persist in piling trash and garbage in the alleys should be warned to change their ways—and then if they don't should be prosecuted. Public opinion is certainly overwhelmingly in favor of a general clean-up—and a continuation of that clean-up day after day as the years roll by.

While we're on this subject of health and sanitation, the Avalanche-Journal might well suggest that health autorities pay a little attention to the public eating and drinking houses of the city. Whether they need it or not, frequent inspections of kitchens and premises go a long way toward safe-guarding a busy public and no restaurant proprietor or confectioner who makes an honest effort to keep his place in sanitary condition will offer any objection.

The health of John Doe and Richard Doe may be of no interest to you now, but if one of them gets sick and his youngster passes the malady on to your youngster, you immediately are vitally concerned. Public health and sanitation is the public's business and the the Avalanche-Journal is glad to see the health authorities bearing down a little harder.

HOW TO BE HATED

Old Ed Howe, the Kansas wise man, used to tell the readers of his paper, the Atchison Globe, that the meanest man in Atchison always made his family wait until the January sales to buy their Christmas presents.

A man in Indiana, it is said, used to refuse to let his wife pick the apples for her own use. "John," she would remonstrate, "there aren't any of the half-rotten ones left."

"Then wait until some rot," this mean old fellow would snap back at her. "We're too poor to eat the good ones."

How everybody does despise a mean old cuss like those fellows! Women will send flowers to the jail to bedeck the cell of a murderer, a thief may be given another chance, but when a person is just plumb mean, there's not much sympathy for him anywhere.

What's the reason?

Why, it is that we are all idealists. The rapacious old humbugs of the old days who acquired a million or so by more or less shady methods, found that after all the best use to which they could put their money was the service of mankind. We can forgive almost anything in our fellow-creatures but smallness of soul.

Every man and woman who really wants the good opinion of the neighbors, hasn't such a hard chore to perform after all. No one needs to possess the entire calendar of virtues. Just generosity, that's all. Just a little human kindness in one's makeup will make other folk overlook the faults.

WALKING

One of the best gifts of nature is a sturdy pair of legs. And for those who have not had a sturdy pair of legs thrust upon them the best means of acquisition is walking. Let De Quincey be heard on the subject.

"I calculate, upon good data, that with these identical legs Wordsworth must have traversed a distance of 175,000 or 180,000 English miles, a mode of exertion which to him stood in the stead of alcohol and all stimulants whatsoever to the animal spirits, to which, indeed, he was indebted for a life of unclouded happiness, and we for much of what is most excellent in his writings."

Former Senator Cole of California, when asked on his hundredth birthday anniversary how to attain great age, replied: "Keep out of the easy-chair." The cheapest and most salutary way to take that advice is to walk.

There are many schools of walking, and none of them is orthodox. One school is that of the road-hikers, the Puritans of the religion. Another school prefers to miles hammered out on the road a shorter jaunt over moor and mountain.

Happy is the man or woman with a stout pair of legs and a love of rambling. In company or solitarily, on the open road or the tree trail, let him give himself up to a recation that will match any other. Lesli Stephen said of walking: "I have fancied myself on such occasions a felicitous bleed and poet and saint, which is an agreeable sensation."

Why are there not more paths and fewer motor highways? If there were, there would be more health and happiness.

PICNICKING VANDALS

Of two forms of vandalism practiced by so-called naturel lovers, more prosacially known as picknickers, it is not easy to decide which is the more inexcusable. One consists of taking away, or damaging whatever chances to catch the vagrant fancy and the other of leaving behind things that ought to be taken away or destroyed. One breaks down shrubs and the limbs of trees and the other litters the landscape with the miscellaneous refuse that every gladsome outing seems to leave in its wake.

The percentage who so misconduct themselves out of the total who enjoy holiday privileges has never been ascertrained by a survey, but it need not be large to bb enormously annoying, and one of the most distressing features is that it brings the whole fraternity into disrepute with local residents who have no objections to temperate trespass on their lands. The "Keep Off" sign is the direct consequence of the bad manners of the picnic hog.

From the multiplicity of attractions offered to go here, there and everywhere this summer it would seem to be the opinion of the transportation companies that it is not needful for anybody to stay at home and work.

OFFICIAL FOUND SHAPING POLICIES ON BASIS OF FEDERAL LEGISLATION THAT NEVER HAS BEEN IN EXISTENCE

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Staff Writer for Central Press

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Not only do American statute books contain plenty of laws which have been so long forgotten that hardly anybody ever heard of them; occasionally some government official is caught shaping his policies according to legislation which never did exist outside his own imagination.

Such was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman's predicament recently, when he tried to unload the responsibility onto congress for "freedom of the port" privileges granted by him to a couple of representatives who subsequently were accused of utilizing them to smuggle liquor into the United States.

"If congress suspects that this privilege is being abused," he said, "it ought to repeal the law it passed, requiring the treasury department to grant it in certain specified cases"—and thought he had a perfect alibi.

Not until he undertook to turn to the law, in the federal code, to show to the critics, and found there was none, did he discover his error.

Freedom of the port is an exemption from the payment of customs duties; not necessarily an exemption from search of baggage—though that usually is waived, too, on the theory that it is superfluous, inasmuch as nothing is to be collected anyway.

This would be sound doctrine if no commodities were absolutely contraband.

However, even beneficiaries of "freedom of the port" privileges are not supposed to sneak in forbidden drugs, alcoholic drinks—or anything else intended to be disposed of commercially in America.

"Freedom of the port" is extended to all foreign diplomatic and consular functonares on their arrival here. It it not their legal right, but it is international usage, it would be churlish to refuse it, and a treasury order of long standing provides for it.

Rather infrequently the state department asks the treasury for a special order for the benefit of some visiting foreign celebrity, and it invariably is forthcoming.

Free entry, on their return home, is likewise accorded to Americans who have been abroad on government business.

Naturally this means American diplomats, consuls and their subordinates.

It means American senators and representatives only if they have been on official missions; not mere pleasure or business trips. The joker is that the treasury accepts such travelers' own accounts of their journevings' purposes.

The popular notion unquestionably is that some of them are not strictly accurate.

Henceforward it appears certain that freedom of the port orders will be harder to get than hitherto.

So long as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman was under the impression that he had to issue them whether or no "in certain specified cases" the process was practically automatic for folk with the proper official pull.

It may not be so simple now that he knows the buck is definitely up to him.

Perhaps also freedom of the port will not be so eagerly sought for in the future as it was.

For sure-enough foreign diplomats it is all right.

Even if detected bringing contraband onto American soil, theoretically they still are living in their various lands, where what is contraband in America is not contraband at all. Supposing a bottle does break in a diplomat's trunk!—it is no worse for him than it would be at home—merely wastes the stuff and maybe spoils some clothes.

It is pretty serious for an American senator or representative.

And of what use to him is freedom of the port?—if he has only a Panama hat or a handful of foreign picture postcards to bring in.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMITAGE when he rescues her fox fur from a thief. Their friendship grows until PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, tries to lure him away from her. HUCK CONNOR becomes infatuated with Pamela and she plays both men. Her brother, HOWARD, is in love with Mildred, who tries to keep him from gambling with Huck's crowd.

When Stephen continues seeing Mildred, Pamela cables her father to discharge her. Harold tries to prevent this but fails. Pamela succeeds in poisoning Stephen's mind against Mildred and the latter faces dreary days in search of work. Then Pamela tries to break with Huck and when he objects tells him she and Stephen are engaged. She tells Stephen that is the only way she can get rid of Huck and pleads with him to confirm the engagement.

Huck commands Harold to prevent Pamela's marriage to Stephen under fear of exposure concerning a forged check. Harold says he can't force Pamela so Huck plans to dispose of Stephen. He has one of his pals ask for a demonstration of a car by Stephen and they set a trap to steal it from him. He goes back to his office expecting to be discharged but nothing is to be done until after a full investigation.

Palmela insists on Stephen attending a dinner that night in honor of their engagement.

Harold confesses enough to Mildred to reveal to her that Stephen is in danger of Huck's scheming. Heartbroken and out of a job, she tries to think of some way to save him, but in vain for Stephen is arand the auto keys are found in his room.

Stephen calls Haroid and asks him to bring Pamela to his cell. She refuses to go or even send a word of sympathy and Stephen is in despair. But as soon as Mildred reads of his arrest she goes to see him and promises to try and free him but will not say how. She begs Harold to tell her what hold Huck has over him and to help her clear Stephen but he dares not. Soon she has another worry when a threat comes to her over the phone . . .

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"Listen, sister," Mildred heard, "this is a friendly tip to lay off tryin' to make young Judson spill his insides, see? It ain't healthy to know too much. Get me? An' there ain't gonna be no second warnin'."

The strange voice clipped off crisply and before Mildred could collect her startled wits to form an answer she heard a bang that told her the wire connection was broken.

Her head was in a whirl as she turned back to her work. She was not fool enough to underestimate the danger that threatened her. Whoever had put Stephen in jail would not stop at anything to protect himself, she knew.

Her fingers refused to type the correct business letter she sought to finish. She could not work until she had calmed herself.

"I'm not afraid," she told herself courageously, but the echo of that cold, brutal voice mocked her.

"Anyway, Harold is giving in," she reasoned. "He must be if they're afraid I'll make him talk."

She wondered if Harold had told of her attempts to coerce him into a confession. It hardly seemed likely.

Bending her mind back over the past week, Mildred recalled that on several occasions she had received an impression of being followed when she was with Harold. The impression had been too vague to disturb her. She had put it down to nervousness and an overworked imagination.

But now she was convinced that someone had been spying upon her. Her fingers trembled as she slid a new sheet of paper in her typewriter and began the letter afresh.

She realized that matters had come to a crisis. The cowardly threat she had just received meant that she must give Harold one more chance to confess before she went to Stephen with what she knew.

After that, whatever Harold did, she must take the consequences. The thought of what they might be terrified her, for Mildred had heard enough of unnderworld methods to know that she might pay with her life for her interference.

For a moment she was tempted to save herself, but then she remembered that she had been urging Harold to face a danger he seemed to fear as much as death itself for the sake of justice. What right had she, who had prated of courage, to shrink when the name demand was made of her?

But to pit her curage against utter ruthlessness and villainy? Suddenly she put her head down on her typewriter, shaken and overcome.

Her employer came out of his office a short while later, observed that she appeared greatly upset and inquired what was wrong. Being denied an explanation, he decided she was ill and advised her to go home for the rest of the day.

Mildred was glad to go. She wanted to be near her mother—the only protector she had.

But as soon as she reached home she telephoned from place to place trying to get in touch with Harold. She had to content herself with leaving a message for him at the Judson Hotel.

Her mother hovered about anxiously while she sat at the telephone, not satisfied with Mildred's excuse for leaving her work. The girl's white face and dilated eyes alarmed her. In spite of the "headache" Mildred claimed, she did not appear to he rmother to be ill.

It was 6 o'clock before Harold called her up.

"I want to see you. It's terribly important," she said breathlessly.

"After dinner?" Harold suggested. He had just returned from Westchester, where he'd been dragged by some friends who told him he looked as if he'd been grown in a mushroom cellar and wouldn't let him off, though they later regretted their insistence. Never had anyone played a poorer game of golf than Harold played that afternoon.

"Can't you come immediately?" Mildred urged.

"I've just come off the links," Harold explained, "but I'll only stop for a bite after I've changed."

He turned away from the telephone and hastily removed his tweed golfing coat and sweater he'd worn under it. Mildred's anxious tones had warned him that she was deeply troubled. He could guess that the matter had to do with Stephen.

Something like a feeling of doom came over him as he realized that he was going to her, that he wasn't going to flunk it, that he even was making haste.

A knock came on his door as he tore off his tie and he called out to come in, thinking it was his valet.

In the mirror of his dresser he saw his visitor.

It was Huck Connor. Harold wheeled defensively and braced himself.

"What do you want?" he asked challengingly.

Huck stepped farther into the room, pulled out his cigaret case and extracted a cigaret before answering.

"Just a friendly visit," he said insolently, "to advise you not to go near your meddlesome little girl friend uptown for a while."

Harold glared at him. "I'll do as I damn please," he said defiantly.

Reminiscences Of An Old Timer

A Series Of Articles, Anonymously Written By An Old Timer In The South Plains Section

The face that comes to be of another pioneer of West Texas, although not of this exact locality. Her name will go down in history and her influence will continue to be of everlasting good. This woman is Ida Kokernot, now living in the Big Ben section. The Kokernot family were living in West Texas before that part of the country below the Caprock sunk, thus forming the Great Plains of West Texas. They date back to the time of the Llano Estacado was a basin with numerous lakes and streams of water. When the country was left standing high above the balance of the earth's surface, these lakes and rivers disappeared and water became vry scarce. On part of their land remained a wonderful spring, flowing an abundance of water for the needs of beast and humanity. Knowing the blessing these springs had been to mankind in the early days, the Kokernot family just recently deeded the tract they are on, to the State of Texas for a park. This land is located near Sul Ross State Teachers' College and only people living in West Texas, who know the need of parks such as this will prove to be, can appreciate this good woman's wonderful gift.

Remembers First Visit

I remember my first visit to this locality: It was about 1885. I was one of a bunch trailing a herd of cattle from South Texas to northern pastures for Jess Hitson. K. K. Millwee was herd boss, I remember. There had been a very severe drought for some time, pastures were dried up, streams and lakes were exhausted, our cattle were dying from thirst and hunger when we came suddenly upon these springs. We camped near them long enough for our cattle to regain some strength Old man Kokernot was a good scout and he gave permission for us to use all the water we wanted.

The old Butterfield Stage company made this their stopping place in their journey from San Antonio to Western points and the old Spanish Trail passes nearby. I recall one other time I was in this locality. I was scouting for an immigrant train. Hard fighting and hard living was the order of the day at that time. It was no uncommon sound to hear the war cry of Indians and every rock and clump of sagebrush held a possible lurking danger—but nevertheless, many pioneers passed over this trail to settle in homes in the surrounding country. This trail is today one of America's most popular highways—noted for its wonderful scenery and grandeur. Descendants of these pioneers are placing markers along this route to perpetuate their memories—Kokernot Park, will ever stand a monument to the most outstanding family of early pioneer days—dating prior to Civil War days.

Rangers Used To Come

There are very few people left with first hand knowledge of the importance of this section of the state to Texas history. In 1874 to 1880, Texas Rangers made frequent visits to the present site of Lubbock—that was before there were an ysettlers here to speak of. The Nunn ranch headquarters was between the present towns of Levelland and Meadows. Jess Evans of New Mexico, ring leader of Billy the Kid's gang and a band of outlaws, terrorized the citizens of all West Texas—making raids as far over the border as Abilene. They sometimes drove off entire herds of catte and sheep, after killing the men in charge. Soldiers from old Fort Griffin on the Clear Fork, were ordered out to capture them—which they did.

Romance thrived on the frontier as well as any other place. The moulding walls of this old historic Fort Griffin, once witnessed the enactment of the first part of an interesting drama. It was during the movement of immense shipments of Buffalo hides. Several wagon trains were camped here while preparing for their trek to Fort Worth. Every thing had been peaceful for some time and a number of the army officers had their families with them. One morning, the inhabitants of the Fort were aroused by the fierce cry of Indians. The soldiers aided by the freighters, soon repulsed the Indians, but among those left behind was a young Indian girl badly wounded. She was very timid and fearful of the palefaces, but eventually they won her heart. One of the officer's wives took the girl into her home and nursed her back to health—she became so attached to the dark eyed little girl she adopted her as her own—the girl was educated as a white girl and later married one of the son's of her benefactoress. Today some of their grandchildren lives in Lubbock proud indeed of their Indian blood.

Remembers Others.

There are several other pioneer women whose names and faces I recall. One in particular—her face stands out as a star in my memory. She is indeed a pioneer for there was only about five or six women within a radius of ninety miles when she came to West Texas. This woman was a devout Christian woman and her influence has certainly gone down in history—one particular incident I like to recall—but I'll tell you that next week.

Your eye glasses can be becoming and comfortable as well as beneficial.

Mary Pickford In 'Coquette' Is Week's Local Film Headliner

Lyric Is Showing William Haines In "Excess Baggage"

Wise-Cracking Star New Role on Life On the "Road"

Behind the scenes in America's vaudeville theatres, one of the most interesting locales in the world, is protrayed accurately for screen purposes for the first time in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Excess Baggage," which is shown at the Lyric Sunday and Monday with William Haines as the star.

The picture follows the adventures of a vaudeville troupe both on the stage and behind it from Los Angeles to New York with occasional sidelights into the movie colony of Hollywood and the NVA Club in New York (the home of the big time vaudeville entertainers. Haines plays the part of a small-time vaudeville juggler dreaming, as all small-time vaudevillians do, of that glorious day when he should break into the "big time" and play the Palace in New York.

Josephine Dunn, Ricardo Cortez, Kathleen Clifford, Greta Granstedt, and others of note are in the cast of this odd cross-section of human life.

Haines, who won his reputation as a wisecracking athlete of "West Point" and "The Smart Set," has blossomed out in an entirely new character that of a grown-up adult man who loves fun but doesn't allow it to blind him to the vital elements of life.

FIRE IS MASTERED

BORDEAUX, France, May 25 (AP)—Fire discovered in the third class quarters of the French liner Roussillon at 1 a. m. today was mastered at 2:30 a. m. after it had spread to cabins and a salon in other parts of the ship. Damage was not great but the scheduled departure of the ship Wednesday for New York probably will have to be postponed.

"America's Sweetheart" Returns

Mary Pickford, screen star of old whose wistful smile, girlish curls and piquant sweetness held the fascination of theatregoers of yesterday, returns to the modern talking pictures in an even greater portrayal than her former roles, in "Coquette" which opens at the Lindsey today for three days.

GILMORE TO BE RETAINED

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A. E. Gilmore is to be retained as vice governor general of the Philippines, in which post, it was stated yesterday at the White House, he has rendered distinguished service.

Mr. Gilmore has been acting governor since the retirement of Henry L. Stimson last February.

Veteran Of Films Has New Role In Modern Setting

Same Old Mary Is Seen In Wistful Smile and Acts

MARY PICKFORD, not the film star of old with her long curls and little-girl dresses, but the new Mary Pickford in smart young womanhood with a close cut bob, Paris frocks, high heeled slippers and everything, comes to the Lindsey today in "Coquette," her newest all-talking picture, for a four days stay.

The old Mary, who is gone but not forgotten, peeks out from behind the young woman who has taken her place now and then in the picture. No transformation can eradicate the piquant sweetness and wistful smile which belong to "America's Sweetheart."

In "Coquette," Miss Pickford presents a grown up role in a romantic tragic story. By some magic manipulation of the sound devices used in recording the voices, Miss Pickford and her director have succeeded in producing a talking picture in which the tonal quality is natural and clear without a trace of mechanical wheeze and grating. Mary's voice itself is a delight in its clarity and resonance, equally effective in its youthful lightness and in its more mature throatiness during the tensely dramatic moments of the drama. "The perfect screen voice," would faithfully describe Mary's.

As Norma Besant, the little belle of a small town, Miss Pickford reveals superlative appeal and force. She portrays the emotional development of this little flirt from gay girlhood to tragic womanhood with an understanding and finesse, that clinches her place in the forefront of of screen stars.

"Coquette" is the love story of one of today's girls, who dances, kisses, flirts and plays in the moonlight, making a grand and glorious game of life.

Playing opposite her is the former Alabama university football star, John Mack Brown, in the role of the ardent, headstrong lover. Matt Moore is seen in the film also as the quiet, ever-faithful lover of the little coquette.

"Alibi" Opens At Lindsey Thursday

Marking a new milestone in screen entertainment, the much heralded talking picture, "Alibi" will be shown at the Lindsey on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Alibi" produced and directed by Roland West, who has to his credit such successes as "The Bat," "The Unknown Purple," "The Monster" and "The Dove," is based on the stage play, "Nightstick," which enjoyed long runs in New York, Los Angeles an dother cities.

No motion picture in recent years has aroused as much enthusiasm from audiences as "Alibi," for it gives an entirely new conception of sound film technique, offers the most thrilling plot of any underworld story, and presents the greatest array of stage favorites ever assembled in one production.

Bootleg Industry Is Show in Palace Film

Two former dancing girls who have made good in the movies appear with Antonio Moreno in "The Midnight Taxi," the Warner Brothers' melodrama which shows at the Palace on Friday and Saturday.

They are Helene Costello and Myrna Loy, whose emotional work on the screen is carrying both to the cinematic heights.

Helene started with her sister, Dolores, in George White's "Scandals," and was well known in musical comedy. Myrna Loy was an interpreter o classical dances.

The girls are of divergent types, a fact which their roles in "The Midnight Taxi" strikingly exemplifies. Helene Costello plays the part of unsophisticated girl in this exciting drama of the bootleg industry, while Myrna Loy is a grasping, calculating woman of the adventuresses type.

John Adolfi directed "The Midnight Taxi" which Harvey Gates adapted to the screen from a story by Gregory Rogers. Among the principals of the cast besides Antonio Moreno, Miss Costello and Miss Loy are William Russell, Bobbie Agnew, Tom Dugan, Jack Santoro and Pat Hartigan.

Jessel Furnishes In 'Lucky Boy' Film

Take from the theatre a man who has spent most of his life cracking the funny bone of the millions with stories and ad-lib wise cracks and stirring the emotions with popular sob songs and turn him loose to do pretty much as he pleases in a sound movie, and the screen has something really new and something gorgeously entertaining and amusing.

We are talking about George Jessel who appears for the first time in a picture in Lubbock in "Lucky Boy" which opens for a four-day run at the Palace to-day.

Jessel is the whole show. He works in a New York song shop and lives on the East Side, where his poppa keeps a jewelry shop and is ambitious for Georgie to become a mender of watches, but Georgie wants to sing and make jokes and momma thinks his songs and jokes are the best in the world and she encourages him.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NAN CARROLL is private secretary to ATTORNEY JOHN CURTIS MORGAN and happy over prospects of passing her bar examinations in June. On account of her brilliant mind Nan is a great help to Morgan and he depends on her.

IRIS MORGAN, the lawyer's beautiful though selfish wife, comes into the office often, treating Nan with the insolence she would accord a servant. When WILLIS TODD, an ardent suitor, proposes marriage for the fifth time to Nan, she refuses, saying she cannot give up her position with Morgan. Jealous, Willis accuses her of being in love with Morgan and Nan is forced to admit the truth of this to herself.

Being honorable and straight, Nan despises herself for being in love with another woman's husband and determines to resign the next morning. In the morning's mail she finds a blackmail note addressed to the lawyer. In a postscript a nasty insinuation is made about Iris Morgan. Nan cannot bear to hurt him with the note, and so tucks it in her bag when he comes in.

Nan discovers a clew which enables her to win a big case for Morgan. As they start to leave the courthouse, BERT CRAWFORD, handsome friend of Iris Morgan, comes up and asks to drive them to the office in his car. Nan, for some unaccountable reason, dislikes Crawford. Morgan invites the two of them to his house for a dinner in celebration of the day's triumph.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

"If I'd had the nerve to resign, I could have missed this agony," Nan told herself angrily as she sat stiff and silent in Iris Morgan's charming living room, watching two men pay court to Iris' beauty. "But how could I resign today, when he was heaping appreciation and rewards upon me? Ten dollars a week raise—I could have done so much with it—10 a week. But I must give him my written resignation tomorrow, tell him some plausible lie, hurt him as little as possible—"

If it weren't such bad taste she would tell him now, for he seemed hideously alien to her, here in his home, or rather in Iris' home, for the place seemed wholly hers somehow.

Nan had never been in the Morgan home before. It had obviously never occurred to Iris to elevate her husband's secretary to the status of a friend of the family, and likewise it had never occurred to Nan to resent the fact that she had not been invited to her employer's home. Now that she found herself there she was tasting to the full the horror of the realization that had come upon her the night before.

Punishment for loving another woman's husband and descended upon her swiftly and surely. For the entire evening she would have to be the unwilling guest of an unwilling hostess, and that hostess the wife of the man she loved. Heaven knew it was hard enough to go on loving John Curtin Morgan in his office. There he was not a husband but a man, and a great man. In his home he was all lover and husband, completely possessed by Iris that her tortured eyes roved desperately around the room to escape the picture he made, bending eagerly toward Iris, adoring her, so painfully greatful for her careless favors, her lightly flung endearments.

"Nan's overwhelmed by your portrait, Iris," Bert Crawford sang out in his slightly too loud, too jovial tones. "Isn't it a corker, Nan? Benet's masterpiece—Benet, the famous portrait painter, you know."

Nan realized then that her agony blinded eyes had indeed been fixed upon the life-size portrait in oils that was hung above the fireplace, dominating the room. The artist had immortalized Iris' flamboyant beauty with a subtle brush, for the close observer could read cruelty, selfishness and vanity in the exquisite face.

Nan knew now the source of the pose which Iris nearly always struck when she took a seat, for the artist had chosen it as the one best calculafed to show off every point of her beauty. A tall, slim, languid body, clothed in shimmering turquoise velvet, relaxed in a throne-like chair, the lovely face in three-quarter profile.

"It's very beautiful, almost as beautiful as Mrs. Morgan herself," Nan forced herself to say graciously.

"Thanks, Nan. She's a dear little flatterer, isn't she, Jack?" Iris acknowledged the compliment carelessly, but her eyes remained upon the portrait, worshipping her own beauty. "It was hung in a Paris salon, you know. My poor husband had to pay a fearful lot of money to get it. You see, the artist saw me and begged me to pose for him, and poor Jack somehow got it into his stupid head that I'd flirted with the jolly little Frenchman. I think he would have stolen the picture if he hadn't been able to buy it."

"I said that the jolly little Frenchman was in love with you, and he was," Morgan corrected her, every word like a caress. "I didn't blame him. Who could help being in love with you, darling? But I wasn't going to have anyone else buying my wife's portrait."

Bert Crawford's laugh rang out. "I'm glad you're so broad-minded, old man! It gives me a wonderful chance to confess that I'm mad about Iris, too. As you say, who could help being in love with her?"

"This morning it was Nan you were mad about," Morgan laughed comfortably. "Some woman's going to take you seriously one of these days, and then you'll come whimpering to me to get you out of a breach-of-promise suit."

"Oh, so you've been unfaithful to me, you bad boy!" Iris Morgan chided Crawford lightly, but Nan, watching closely, saw a glint of malice and anger and something strangely like warning in those odd blue-green eyes. "You mustn't let him raise your hopes too high, Nan. He's a gay philanderer, as Jack says. But there's Estelle, with the good news that dinner is served."

Iris, linking her arm with Crawford's, led the way into the dining room, her red-gold head bent toward his in a low-voiced confidence. Nan followed with Morgan, who twinkled at her fondly:

"You mustn't mind Iris' teasing you, Nan. The three of us always carry on like that and don't mean a thing by it. She's as full of spirits as a carefree child," he added admiringly.

When they were seated and the soup served, Iris flashed her brilliant eyes at her husband and suggested archly: "Now, Jack, do tell us all about this scandalous Grace Cox case the papers are so full of. I haven't had time to read them, but I knew I'd have to listen to the story all over again from the hero. You were a hero, weren't you, Jack? I seem to gather that idea from your strut this evening."

Morgan's gaunt, sensitive face flushed darkly. "I didn't realize I was strutting, darling. I simply secured a dismissal of the indictment against my client; didn't even go to the jury."

"How you must have hated that!" Iris laughed a mocking tinkle. "He does love to rant before a jury. But I suppose all lawyers have exhibition complexes, or they wouldn't be lawyers. Does he practise his appeals to the jury before you, Nan?"

Nan's face was as full of distressed color as her employer's. "We're both so busy he doesn't have time," she answered curtly.

"I owe this case to Nan, by the way," Morgan cut in, trying to look as if his wife had not hurt him deeply. "It was she who discovered my star witness for me and hauled her to court this morning."

"Very dramatic!" Iris tinkled, but the music had a hollow ring to it. "I hope you don't have to split the fee with her, for I warn you, husband of mine, that I spent a small fortune on clothes yesterday and today. But the loveliest things! Georgeous enough for a trousseau. I'll have to run away with one of my important admirers, in order to get the full benefit of them." And the blue-geen eyes laughed a challenge at Bert Crawford.

That was the extent of the celebration of John Curtis Morgan's sensational triumph in the Grace Cox case. Nan, watching the beloved face of her employer closely, could have wept for him, but she could have shaken him, too, for being so fatuously content with the crumbs that Iris tossed him. How could a big man like Morgan be so blind?

Iris gaily took the conversation into bypaths more congenial to herself. Nan would have enjoyed, as much as she could enjoy anything at Iris Morgan's table, hearing a discussion of new books, plays and politics, She could have taken a modest but intelligent part in such a discussion, for among her own friends she was rather noted for her crisp, keen comments, her joyous sense of humor, but such conversation was, apparently, not one of Iris' talents.

Personalities were shuttled briskly between Iris and Bert Crawford—choice tidbits of scandal, caustic comments on the dress, manners and affairs of their absent friends. Through it all, John Curtis Morgan ate absent-mindedly of the rather haphazard meal that his wife had provided, or rather, that her cook had deemed good enough for a small, informal party. After the clear soup there were lamb chops, a tiny hard-fried one for each plate; big stalks of expensive California asparagus, but not quite enough of them to make a decent serving; a salad of lettuce and pineapple, with balls of cream cheese; apricot whip in tall, thin glasses; demi-tasse.

For herself, Nan was fiercely glad that the food was meager and not too good; it made her eating of it less of a crime somehow, for it was shameful to break bread with a woman whom she hated and whose husband she loved. But for John Curtis Morgan Nan felt a hot surge of angry pain.

"She's half starving the poor darling," she told herself. "And she pays a cook $80 a month of his money to give him puny little meals like these. Of course she doesn't want substantial meals! She's too afraid of adding a pound to that lissome figure of hers. I'm sure she calls it lissome," she added maliciously. Then "Oh, I'm becoming unspeakably cattish! I'll have to get out of all this."

As if Iris had read Nan's thoughts the lovely, careless voice flung a sort of apology to Morgan: "I'm sorry there are not two chops for you, Jack. I'd already done my ordering before I knew we were to have Nan with us this evening. The greedy pig likes two chops," she explained to Nan. "I don't understand how men can eat so much. Bert's on a diet, thank heaven, so I don't have to plan to stuff him when he comes to dinner. Not that he weighs an ounce too much," she added, reaching across the corner of the table to lay an affectionate hand on Crawford's.

After dinner Crawford made for the radio like a homing pigeon. When the syncopated blare of a jazz orchestra came flooding into the room, he snapped his fingers to the rhythm for a joyous minute, then held out his arms for his hostess.

"Shall we dance, Nan?" Morgan bent awkwardly over her, his eyes smiling and fond.

"No, please, I'd rather not" Nan gasped. "Let's just watch them. Aren't they a perfect pair?" she babbled, to hide her confusion. She could not tell him that she did not dare add the agony of his arms

Former Graduates Of Local College To Be Reunited

Alumni Of Tech Will Banquet Here Monday Night With Members Of The Graduating Class Of Present Year

Graduates Of Institution Have Scattered To Four Winds But Good Turnout Is Expected

ALUMNI OF two classes of Texas Technological college together with graduates of the June and August classes of this year will gather around the banquet table for a joyous hour of reminiscences tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Hotel Lubbock.

At a call meeting of the executive committee of the alumni held recently, plans were made for the banquet and a nominating committee appointed by the president of the association. E. M. Barnett, Miss Mary Hope Westbrook is general chairman for the evening and has announced that one of the first matters to be taken up will be the election of officers for the ensuing year after which representatives from the different classes of past years will be called upon for a speech. Those assisting Miss Westbrook in detailing the plans and making preparations are: Dayle Wallace, Bailey Carroll, Mrs. E. M. Barnett, Mrs. D. Vah Pelt, Willie Mae Hawthorne, Sylva Wilson, and Mrs. Mary Dale Buckner.

To Display Pennants

One attractive feature of the banquet will be the display of pennants of each class which have been turned over to Dr. Paul W. Horn for safe keeping for the past two years and which will now be sent to the curator of the Tech museum for which they will be taken only for display at the annual banquet.

With only a few reservations coming in at a late hour Saturday Miss Westbrook announced that anyone who intends to come must make a reservation and may do so by coming to the Registrar's office and seeing either her, Dayle Wallace or Irwin Coleman.

Alumni Scattered.

One hundred and thirty-two students have left the doors of the college with the much coveted sheepskin and reports available from them show that since that day they have scattered far and wide through the states of Georgia, Oklahoma, Colorado, California, New Mexico, Missouri, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas. A check-up shows that of this number, who have graduated there are 65 school teachers, while others work at various positions.

Tom B. Morrison, president of last year's graduating class, will have the Master of Arts degree conferred upon him at commencement exercises tomorrow morning. Bailey Carroll who received his Bachelor's degree last spring, completed work for a Master of Arts degree in August and during the past year taught history at Tech College.

Ned Camp has been made head of the Chemistry department of Oxford college, Georgia, recently, and will take up his duties at that college beginning in September. C. W. Ratliff remains in Lubbock as assistant managing editor of the Avalanche-Journal.

Several scholarships have been awarded to Tech graduates and included in this list are Eldon Thorp who is doing research assistant in the Schipp's school of Oceanography at La Jolla, Cal.; Charles B. Read, recipient of a $500 scholarship from Carnegie Institution to work with Dr. Chaney at the University of California; Guy Carter, who received a scholarship from the University of Chicago and entered the law school; Mary Hope Westbrook was notified recently of an award of a scholarship to the University of Washington at St. Louis and plans to leave in the fall and Elton Mimms, who has been manager of a ranch at Water Valley for the past year has received a scholarship from the Colorado State Agricultural college.

Several In East.

Several graduates from the Engineering school have secured positions with houses in the East. James Biggers is with the Truscon Steel company of Youngstown, Ohio, and Ted Sams holds a similar position, while Zed Glimp, who will receive his Bachelor of Science degree this spring, is working for the Westinghouse Electric company of Pittsburg.

Miss Merle Williams, college queen last spring, is doing research work in Schriner Hospital, St. Louis.

about her to the agonies she had already suffered during the last 24 hours.

Bert and Iris were still dancing half an hour later, sublimely oblivious of Morgan's wistfully following eyes, when the maid, Estelle, appeared in the living room door, her eyes big with fright.

"Please, Mr. Morgan, there's a gentleman and a policeman at the door. They want to see you and Mr. Crawford both."

Before Morgan could answer, the "gentleman and the policeman" loomed behind the maid.

"Sorry to interrupt a party, Mr. Morgan, but I have a warrant for the arrest of Herbert S. Crawford."

BLEACHERS COLLAPSE

More Than Score Injured In San Antonio Friday

SAN ANTONIO, May 25 (AP)—More than a score of persons were hurt, two seriously, when two tiers of bleachers built for a lawn fete at the Ira Ogden school collapsed here last night. Seriously hurt are Mrs. Katie Utz, 50, broken left leg; Mrs. W. T. Allen, 23, bruised and possibly hurt internally. One hundred persons were in the stand when it collapsed. A few taken to hospitals were sent home after examination and the remainder went home unaided. Boys climbing on the stand, after it was filled, are blamed for the crash.

CALL CITY ELECTION

Tahoka To Decide Disposition Of Funds

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TAHOKA, May 25—An election has been called by Mayor C. H. Cain and members of the Tahoka city council for next Tuesday to allow the voters to register their will concerning the disposition of a sum of money resulting from the sale of the electric light plant a year and a half ago.

The council proposes, with the sanction of the voters, to use the money towards extending the water distribution system and in repairing the paved streets of the city.

"Red" Mohun, Former Rebel Flier, Is Released To Await Neutrality Trial

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, May 25—Philip "Red" Mohun, former member of the "Yankee Escadrille" of the rebel flying force in Mexico, was released from federal jail here last night on personal recognizance to await trial for conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws. He is charged jointly with Salvador Ateca, wealthy former rebel paymaster who is now in jail in New York following his arrest several weeks ago when he attempted to flee this country and go to Spain.

Admitted Smuggling

Mohun was arrested a month ago at Nogales, Ariz., after four weeks of flying for the rebels. He has admitted smuggling an American ship across the Rio Grande for the rebels.

It was Mohun who participated in the first aerial battle of Mexican history, flying a cabin plane in an air battle with an enemy ship. The battle followed a bombing expedition over Torreon.

Once he carried 600 pounds of nitroglycerin in an open biplane from Juarez to Chihuahua City. It was a night flight and the Mexicans to whom he brought it said afterward he also brought a pint of tequila and a laugh.

Adventured Much

Mohun, 25 years old and fiery-headed, adventured into Mexico after flying in two other revolutions one in Nicaragua and the other in China. Last March he came down to the border from Buffalo, N. Y., and joined the federals as a lieutenant flier. He stayed only a week with General Almazan because he claimed his promised pay of $150 a week was not forthcoming. He next joined the rebel flying force at Juarez.

Mohun's wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Mohun, and baby daughter live in Atlanta, Ga. His father, Commander P. V. Mohun, retired, lives in Roanoke, Va. Mohun was formerly with the Consolidated Air company in Buffalo, N. Y.

TAHOKA GETS WHITE WAY

TAHOKA, May 25—Texas Utilities company has a crew of workmen in Tahoka this week installing the white way lighting system announced by the company several weeks ago. About three weeks will be required to complete the work, according to W. S. Anglin, local manager of the company.

Shipments of tractors from the United States in 1928 amounted to more than 87,700 and were valued at more than $37,700,000.

Use Of Electric Service Grows Greater All The Time

The people of Lubbock are using more electrical service every year. That means that this company must provide more electric service. To do this the company must get and invest more money in the facilities for producing and distributing electricity.

This money can be had on one simple condition. It must be assured of a fair return regularly paid. It is just like the rest of the payroll. Payday must find the means for compensating it.

That is all that the invested capital of an electric power and light concern can hope for . . . . just a fair regular return. More than that would be contrary to the spirit of public service. Less would cripple the service and make growth of the community difficult, slow or impossible.

In a word this is the whole theory of public utility service. Such a service is primarily for the benefit of the people and the community. Their interest in it is very great.

The co-operation of the people of Lubbock is necessary to good electric service. This company wants that co-operation. We want the people to become familiar with this service and to further their own welfare by be becoming interested in the necessary service we are charged with supplying them.

ON AUTO ROW,

THEY WANT SUNSHINE

If any one class of business men is dependent upon the weather, it is the automobile dealer. Never satisfied and always praying for a break, the life of an agent and his corps of salesmen is a constant lament for favorable weather and the accompanying prosperity. One week it's "if it would only rain," and the next "what we need now is sunshine."

ALL CAN'T BE PLEASED

This peculiar situation has arisen in Lubbock following two weeks of steady rainfall, giving this section one of the best prospects for a bumper crop in years. Since Old Sol has retired to the background during the rainy spell, local dealers are beginning to cry for sunshine. It seems that the elements have never been able to please evreyone, and certainly not automobile agents.

FEW CARS SOLD

Sales of the past week indicats that Lubbock dealers may have reason to complain. Fewer new cars were sold than during any week of the year up to date. Used car sales likewise dropped off in proportion to the ordinary run.

ADD SHOP FOREMAN

J. A. Roberts, who for the past six years has been connected with the Treadway Motor company of Dallas, has accepted the position of shop foreman for the West Texas Motor company here. Hupmobile agency. Prior to his coming to Lubbock, Mr. Roberts spent a month in the Hupmobile factory at Detroit, Michigan.

The local Hupmobile concern reports the sale of a new Hupmobile Six cabriolet to E. L. Berger, of Tahoka.

A NICE GIFT

A Plainview youth, J. C. Stancell, Jr., will receive a De Soto roadster when he completes his high school course this month. His father, J. C. Stancill purchased the machine from the Cap Rock Motor company here last week and will deliver the car to his son this week. The elder Mr. Stancill is the Plainview agent of the Marland Refining company.

Two additional new cars were delivered by Cap Rock Motor company during the last week. H. A. Stults, of the Lydick Roofing company, purchased a business coupe, and F. T. Rogers, of the Ware company, El Paso, who is electrical superintendent of the Lubbock Hotel building, was delivered a sport roadster.

USED CARS SOLD

An unusual record for used car sales has been recorded by the Gough Motor company during the first 23 days in May. A total of 22 used cars had been delivered up to Thursday noon, an average of practically one car per day.

Three new salesmen have joined the sales force of the local Studebaker house during the last week. These are T. E. Llewelling, H. L. Farrow and L. B. Forbus.

TWO CARS SOLD

Ragland Motor company, Marmon, Nash and Roosevelt distributors in Lubbock, report the sale of two new cars during the last week. A Roosevelt sedan was delivered to Burt Pray and W. A. Shields purchased a Nash Coupe. Both are local citizens.

HILTON IS BUSY

Two Plymouths and one Chrysler were sold by Joe Hilton company last week in addition to nine used cars. The Plymouth sedan was delivered to D. W. Powers, members of the Lubbock high school faculty, and a Plymouth coupe to Thomas Kayton, local Piggly-Wiggly salesman. F. L. Lindsey of the Coco Cola Bottling company, purchased a new Chrysler "65" sedan.

Uniform Laws In U. S. Are Needed

Engineering Council Shows By Survey That Country Would Be Better Off If Statutes Were Regular

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The American Engineering Council is urging the introduction of uniform traffic regulations in every municipality of the United States.

During the past year the council has conducted an extensive survey embracing 35 states. One hundred cities having an aggregate population of more than 33,000,000 were studied. The survey had to do with the practicability of present street traffic signs, signals and markings.

The recommendations to be made as a result of the survey will be handled by state committees. They already have been formed in 19 states and work is rapidly being completed on the selection of committees in other states.

Speaking of present traffic conditions, President of the Council Arthur W. Berresford says: "In most cities the responsibility is placed upon some branch of the police department. No standard official organization handles questions relating to traffic signs, signals and markings, and this defect is perhaps one of the most serious features of the present condition.

"The density of traffic in many cities emphasizes the need of standardizing traffic signs, signals and markings. In these cities the safety of everyone depends upon the meaning of the message to be conveyed by the traffic contro devices, but the diversity of use and meaning that now prevails causes great hazard and delay."

CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

The new Dodge Brothers Six is an extraordinary motor car because it embodies a whole bookful of features that are extraordinary for a car of anything like this price.

Its Mono-piece Body has no joints or seams to squeak or rattle—possesses that unfailing rigidity and sturdiness which is exclusive to single-piece construction.

The Dodge Brothers hydraulic 4-wheel internal-expanding brakes, the oversize 5:50 tires, the 52-pound 7-bearing dynamically and statically balanced crankshaft, the extra-deep 8-inch frame are conspicuous among the things that cannot be matched by any other cars neighboring on the new Dodge Brothers Six price.

Come into our salesroom and see the new Dodge Brothers Six; try it on the road. If you inspect and drive one of these remarkable cars, we have all the confidence in the world that you will never be content until you have one for your own.

Frederick the Great once wrote to the Duchess of Gotha: "Heaven is on the side with the biggest battalions."

Paraphrasing this epigram, we might say that sometimes in selling cars, "Heaven is on the side with the biggest adjectives."

With the support of a heavy barrage of superlatives, even a weak car may take a customer by storm. But the real test comes after the oratorical barrage has lifted and the car must try to live up to the oratory—when it must speak for itself.

Then is the time when you are sure to find the Chrysler-built De Soto Six pointing pridefully to a record that more than substantiates every claim that has been made in its behalf, while its price-rivals are apologizing for extravagant promises unfulfilled.

Already we have abundant proof that a De Soto Six, after 40,000 miles, retains its good looks, its alert, smooth power, and its easy-riding qualities—that its low operating and maintenance costs contribute real economy of ownership. And we are confident of an equally impressive history when De Sotos shall have reached the 100,000 mile mark—and indefinitely beyond.

Pneumonia Fatal More Times Than Other Illnesses

But Belief That It's More Fatal On Plains Than It Is Elsewhere Is False, Dr. Rollo Declares

Pneumonia—King of Diseases—causes more deaths than any other known malady, according to Dr. J. W. Rollo, Lubbock city health officer.

The popular belief, however, that pneumonia is more fatal on the Plains than in any other section is a fallacy in the opinion of Dr. Rollo. He believes that this malady causes more deaths in all parts of the nation than any other one disease.

Deaths Are Leading

Since the first of this year there have been 130 deaths in Lubbock, outnumbering the births by about one-third. Of this death total, thirty-three, or about one-fourth, have been as a direct result of some form of pneumonia.

According to Dr. Rollo, pneumonia so far this year has caused more deaths than during the entire year of 1928. This increase in fatalities is due to an epidemic of influenza which swept the section early this year.

Little Disease Here

At the present time, Dr. Rollo reports a number of scattered cases of smallpox and scarlet fever. He says that the cases are not of an extreme serious nature, however, and that there is little danger of either disease reaching epidemic proportions.

Last year births outnumbered deaths in Lubbock by a large majority. This is according to a representative of the State health department who was in the city recently, an unusual record. He said that he believed that the recorder was missing some of the deaths. Dr Rollo points out that this is impossible as a death certificate is required before anyone can be buried here.

Dodge Assembled In Only 2 Hours

How long is required for the final assembly of a motor car?

Despite the precision and care necessary in handling the various units along the two parallel assembly lines of Dodge Brothers, a chassis fram of the New Six model is a completed car ready for shipment just one hour and 59 minutes after it starts down the assembly line. These assembly lines are 1,481 feet long, and have a capacity of one car every 36 seconds.

Behind this final assembly—usually the most interesting place to visitors of an automobile factory—is a story of efficiency comparable to the system of getting food and munitions to the front line trenches in warfare. Every department must function so the parts continue to move forward without interruption. Costly delays would esult if the final assembly line were held up for one part, so exacting time-table schedules are kept on all departments.

How To Make Crossings Safe

Plymouth Makes Production Mark

Production of 1,000 cars a day within 10 months from the time its first car was manufactured is the record recently established by the Plymouth Motor Corporation at Detroit. "This is not only a record for the Plymouth," according to A. Van Der Zee, General Sales Manager, "but for the entire industry, no other car ever reaching such an enormous production in such a short period of time.

"Although every effort is being made to meet the demand for cars orders continue to be in excess of production figures," he says. "In the Plymouth plant, which is one of the most modern in the industry, everything is being done in installing the latest automatic machinery and time and labor saving devices to speed up production in order to meet the growing demand for the Plymouth. The speed of the assembly lines has been gradually increased until now a complete car is coming off every 30 seconds.

"The unusual demand for the Plymouth car is proof of the fact that the motor buying public is becoming more and more experienced in the finer points of automobile construction and that it appreciates real quality in a low priced car.

EVOLUTION OF AUTO

Motor vehicle registration in the United States increased from 4 in 1895 to 24,493,124 in 1928. Fifty-five per cent of the cars are in towns with populations less than 10,000.

Robber's Wife Accuses Husband

M. B. Colson Kept In Custody And Eddie Cochrane Is Sought As Woman Explains Of Robbery

LOS ANGELES, May 25—While a coroner's jury decided late today that two Agua Caliente company bank messengers killed Monday near San Diego were that by "parties unknown", Southern California authorities kept M. B. Colson in custody and sought Eddie Cochrane. Police had told Mrs. Cochrane that she might be held as an accessory if she remained silent.

Threatened with separation from her 3-year-old daughter, Mrs. Marian Cochrane broke down yesterday and confessed that her husband had been one of the two robbers who killed the messengers, Nemesio Monroy and Jose Perez Borrego, and robbed them of $85,000 in checks and cash.

Two witnesses at the inquest, men at work within a hundred feet of the holdup, testified that Colson resembled the man who fired the machine gun which sent nine bullets in Monroy's body and two in that of Borrego. Colson refused to make a statement.

Oakland Launches Thrift Campaign

A thrift campaign, laid out on the same extensive plan as its large scale manufacturing operations, is now in progress at the Oakland Motor Car company, at Pontiac, Mich.

Since the modern plant of the company is now being operated in a highly efficient manner, the campaign is designed primarily to discover new ways or processes to eliminate waste of time or materials in the building of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes.

To enlist the aid of the workman in the campaign, the company management has offered, for suggestions which outline practical means for cutting the costs of production, prizes totaling more than $1,200.

Daily bulletins issued to the plant workers, exhibit boards mounted in the plant displaying items which may inspire prize plans and other features have been arranged to keep the workers interest in the campaign.

The Racketeers They Have No Fears!

Smart Gentry Operate In Various Ways To Relieve Us Of Our Money; They Work Around Lubbock, Too

For a number of years there has been an institution in America which has grown to be a dominant force in the life of the people. This institution is racketeering—a method whereby countless fortunes have built up by city slickers, who choose to use their nimble wits and slick tongues rather than work.

Hundreds of the rackets have been developed and worked to perfection in various parts of the nation. Although the ideas generally originate in the larger cities, the racketeer by no means confine their activities to the cities. Rural towns and even farm and ranch areas have proved a fertile stage in many instances for pulling the tricks of the game.

Their Rackets Many

To a suave racketeer every rurality is a potential gold brick purchaser—a chump ready and willing to invest a small fortune to buy the toll concession of Brooklyn bridge or a choice corner of Madison Square.

Even Lubbock, tucked away in West Texas, thousands of miles from the origin of the rackets, is not without its racketeering and blackmailing schemes. Local officers relate numerous rackets which have been uncovered and many others which have been worked to perfection.

Here's a New One

One method used here recently was for the racketeer to gain the confidence of a number of farmers by frequent visits. Then, appearing with a truck, purchase the farmers' livestock, leaving behind a hot check as a remembrance.

One bogus magazine peddler would give a fake magazine subscription in exchange for chickens, then sell the poultry and be gone before unsuspecting farmer could realize that he had been made the victim of a city slicker.

Another more profitable scheme is that of blackmail, "badger game," worked best by a man and his wife. The woman will encourage and effect an infatuation for some elderly and wealthy gentleman. By her cleverness the case develops into an "affair" and at just the right time, of course the husband appears on the scene, catching his wife and the "chump" in some compromising situation. Threats of physical violence, scandal, or a damage suit will usually bring results. The victim, either a married man himself or at least a citizen with a valued reputation, in most instances is ready to part with a few "grand" to keep things quiet.

This scheme may be worked several times in the same town.

Short Changers Busy

The short change artist is another racketeer who practices his art much to his profit in small towns. Many dollars have been extracted from the unsuspecting cashiers by the cleverness of the short changer.

Counterfeiters formerly were among the principal racketeers to practice in small cities. In recent years, however, federal laws have put a stop to this scheme to a considerable extent.

Dice cheaters, card tricksters, and other forms of crooked gamblers are among the racketeers who figure in the crime life of West Texas.

Swedish Aviator Visits Nash Co.

KENOSHA, Wis., May 25.—Captain Einar Lundborg, Royal Swedish Air Force, who thrilled the world with his daring rescue of General Nobile and the survivors of the ill-fated dirigible "Italia" from death on Arctic ice floes last May, slipped quietly into Kenoshua for a visit to the Nash Motors Company today chatted with officials of the company, and slipped as quietly away, leaving new friends in the wake of his friendly smile.

He is a quiet, blond young man with erect military bearing and the far-seeing eyes of the airman, a daring aviator, who accomplished a brilliant rescue as the world watched and waited breathlessly the fate of the missing Italians. A retiring personage, too, and unwilling to talk of his exploit. Of the removal of the Italia's survivors in the giant Fokker, and of his own subsequent mishap, Captain Lundborg would say little, evading questions with a smile and taking refuge behind his interpreter when pressed for the captain while he speaks English well, is more at ease with his native tongue.

It is estimated that at least 1,000,000 persons in the United States have some form of speech disorder.

Fire Fans Become Crime Chasers Since Radio Flashes The Tips!

BY JOE LOVE.
NEA Service Writer.

CHICAGO, May 25—Chasing fire engines is out of date. Instead, Chicagoans have devised a new pastime with the aid of a local radio station which broadcasts reports of crime to roving police squad cars.

Bong . . Bong . . Bong. . . Bong . . . the tocsin of the law suddenly breaks off the program of the radio station With fine disregard for the interrupted broadcast be it opera, jazz or the moment of climax in an etereal drama, the alarm clangs its call of attention to cruising detective squad cars patrolling the streets of Chicago.

The gong ceases its clamor . . . the voice of the announcer is heard relaying the message from: "headquarters."

"Squads attention! 30 and 31 go at once to 4321 South Blank street. A murder has been committed there."

Again the announcer repeats the message to the 35 radio equipped police squad cars whose sets are always tuned in as they roam the city.

But the police are not the only ones reached by the message. Thousands of Chicagoans hear it. And not a few of them are awed and startled, especially those in the immediate neighborhood, by the nocturnal announcement of bloody violence. A certain class of them, ever keen and curious toward the latest murder mystery and ardent listeners to the police broadcast, have evolved a new pastime.

They must be descendants of that group who used to chase fire engines.

At the sound of the police gong they grab hats and coats on the run climb into the family omnibus and set its nose in the direction of the murder scene.

Small cars, large cars, old cars and new cars pour from alleys and garages and bounce and clatter along to the "Pied-piping" of the squad siren.

On arriving at the scene, if the reports have been alluring enough, crowds of gaping worshipers at the shrine of curiosity are found swarmed in groups, exacting facts and not a little fancy fro mthose "fortunates" who arrived early. And if fortune favors them, maybe there's still a body. If so they folk as near as possible, look and turn pale.

The "first nighters," after their initial taste, return home feeling uneasy. This uneasiness may result in the proverbial "looking under the bed," at least until they become veterans at the new game.

How Is She Hittin'?

Pertinent Facts About Automobiles By Israel Klein, Science Editor For NEA Service

Many a car that s found hard to drive and ride may still have a perfectly operating engine. The trouble in such event may be found in the tires, the wheels, the springs and the frame itself.

The entire difficulty may be attributed to one fault—lack of attention on the part of the driver to features of the automobile that require regular care and consideration. They are small matters in themselves, but accumulating as they will, they wind up in making riding and driving quite uncomfortable and even dangerous.

Let us take the matter of tires first. For these a tire guage is an indispensible part of the motorists' equipment. With it he should check the pressure of each tire once a week, in conformity with that set by the manufacturer.

Tire pressure maintained wekly as advised by the car builder will insure longer life for the tires and constant ease in riding. Punctures will be less possible when the tires run under their stipulated pressures.

If a tire is inflated by guesswork, most likely than not they will be filled with more air than is needed. These balloon tires are deceiving and a kick of the foot can not tell whether they are properly inflated. If they have too much pressure in them, their thin walls are quite liable to puncture and blow out when they happen to strike a sharp stone or curb.

If the tires are underinflated they will make steering difficult, result in shimmy at high speeds and thus endanger the occupants of the car, especially if the road is wet.

The wheels should be checked for the safety of the occupants but regularly for alignment, not only for the economy gained from properly aligned wheels. Misaligned wheels cause undue wear on the tires and are especially hard on the bearings. They result from loosening at the hub and that means loosening of the wheel bearings.

The wheels therefore should be tightened up and aligned regularly to prevent wobbling and perhaps eventually a crack or break in the axle.

It is important that the various joints about the chassis be lubricated regularly. Greasing the chassis and springs results nos only in easier riding but helps lengthen the life of the car. A rusty, unattended chassis is dangerous. An important part may break while the car is going at a fast speed and cause the car to swerve to destruction.

The spring shackles especialy should be kept well lubricated, for if these "freeze' for lack of lubricant they are more liable to break. Let the car take a severe bump at a considerable speed, and the shackle may break and endanger the lives of the occupants.

Shipment Record Set By Chrysler

The Chrysler Corporation reported a decided gain in shipments for April of this year of all Chrysler built cars as compared with April of 1928. According to the official announcement of the corporation, Chrysler shipments during April of this year, both domestic, export and Canadian of Plymouths, Chrysler "65's" "75's" Imperials, Desotas, Fargo commercial trucks and cars Dodge Brothers New Sixes, Seniors, and Dodge trucks, buses and commercial cars, totaled 59,785 units, a gain of 26.5 per cent over the 47,155 units shipped during April of 1928 and a gain of 72 per cent over the shipment of 34,781 in April of 1927.

Total shipments of Chrysler and Dodge Brothers automotive products for the first four months of 1929 amounted to 182,521 units, a gain of 14 per cent over those for the same period of 1928 when 159,837 were shipped and an increase of 42 per cent over the 127,903 units shipped during the first four months of 1927.

Records of Stock Cars Questioned

How stock is a stock car- Are the stock car rules made by the American Automobile Association enforced on passenger cars taking part in long distance record trials? Can mechanics so alter and adjust stock cars as to increase their speed?

These and other questions are raised and answered in a recent article in Motor Age, well known automobile trade journal to settle the doubts of skeptical motorists who find it hard to believe that strictly stock cars are capable of the feats which have brought to America such a large share of world speed and endurance honors.

"I realize that there are people who question the absolutely stock status of cars that perform as the Studebaker Presidents did in the recent 30,000 mile run," says A. R Means, New York City Zone Supervisor for the contest board of the American Automotive association, under whose direction this and many other test runs were made.

General Motors Buy Fokker Corp.

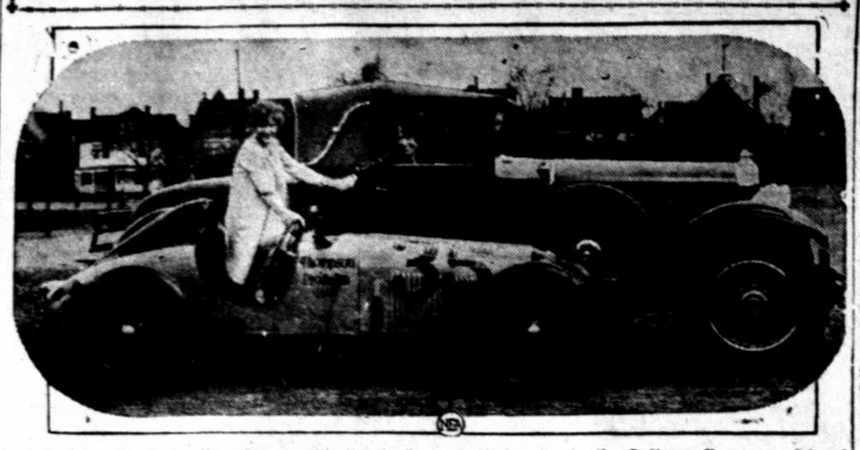

Automobile Corporation Is Purchaser of 40 Per Cent Interest Of Fokker Aircraft Company

According to an announcement made today by James A. Talbot, chairman of the board of directors of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation of Ameica, the General Motors Corporation has acquired a 40 per cent interest, amounting to 400,000 shares of the Fokker common stock. In payment the General Motors Corporation is turning over to the Fokker company all of the capital stock of the Dayton-Wright company. The assets of the latter company consist of McCook Field in the heart of Dayton, O., a large number of patents having to do with the aviation industry, and additional cash assets of substantially $6,500,000.

This arrangement is the culminations that have been carried on for several months. One of the considerations that led to the sale of the substantial interest in the Fokker company to the General Motors Corporation upon such favorable terms was the conviction that the association with the General Motors Corporation would be of tremendous advantage to the Fokker company in connection with the manufacture and distribution of Fokker planes. Anthony H. G. Fokker, known as one of the world's greatest designers and builders of airplanes, a large stockholder in the Fokker company, will continue with the company in charge of engineering and design. The present personnel will continue in the operation of the Fokker company, supplemented by additional personnel from General Motors Corporation.

Tiny Car Enters 500-Mile Classic

By NEA Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 25.—The smallest automobile ever to compete in the 500-mile Memorial Day races at Indianapolis has come here from abroad.

It is a six-cylinder Amilcar, entered by the Thompson Products Company of Cleveland. Its driver, Jules Moriceau, has come with it to try for the prizes offered at the races here.

This little car with its V-type six motor, is not only small in size but the smallest ever entered here in piston displacement. This is 78 cubic inches as compared with the 91.5 cubic inches of the 8-cylinder American midgets.

The little Amilcar has been tested in European races for the last two years and has come through with several victories. It broke the European record for its class in both the standing and flying start for one kilometer, about six-tenths of a mile, at Arpajon, France, last August, with speeds of 80 and 126 miles an hour respectively.

It also placed first in the 400 kilometer race at Antibes, France, and in the 700 kilometer race at San Sebastian, Spain, last year, as well as the 200-mile Grand Prix Junior Car Club Contest at Brooklands, England, in 1927.

The Amilcar develops 118 horsepower at 6700 revolutions a minute, which is twice as fast as the stock car motor going at 60 miles an hour. It is equipped with a supercharger for high speeds. Thompson Products has installed its own values and pistons to test them on the gruelling run of the Indianapolis Speedway.

The car has an 86-inch wheelbase and is only 10 feet, 9 inches long on a tread 46 inches wide.

FIND POCKET OF GAS

TAHOKA, May 25—A pocket of gas and a small amount of oil was encountered in the Ash Syndicate test well four miles west of Tahoka during the past week at a depth of 1575 feet, according to reliable information. The oil was said to not be in paying quantities, and the drillers are going on down with the hole. The Ash Syndicate is owned by Geo. McCamey of Fort Worth, discoverer of the McCamey oil field.

Graham-Paige Has Distinctive Plant

The enlarged plant of the Graham-Paige at Detroit was the first American motor car factory visited by the official German commission, representing important industrial and government bodies, now touring the United States to study automobile taxation systems.

The Graham-Paige factory, one of the most modern in the industry, has two distinctive features in design that aroused particular interest among the German visitors. One of the style of construction that permits all manufacturing and assembling work to be carried out by natural day-light under glass roofs. The factory plan purposely avoided multiple story buildings to insure better workmanship through improved lighting, and to eliminate the great loss of time and labor that results when material and units must be moved from floor to floor.

The other feature that especially interested the visitors was the high development to which the conveyor system has been carried by Graham-Paige.

Goodrich Silver Fleet Is Guest In Hollywood

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Romance rides with the Silver Fleet. Tanned to a tropical brown by desert sun and wind, the pilot cavaliers of the Goodrich Silver Fleet escorted Romance in their silvered caravan to that famous colony in California where Romance works harder and longer than in any other spot on earth. Hollywood fittingly celebrated the arrival of this silvered gypsy cavalcade after its 11,000 mile trek. Anita Page, most recently featured in "Broadway Melody" was hostess to Commander Schaeffer and his 19 college athlete pilots. Raquel Torres, Julia Faye and Fay Webb added their graces to a luncheon to the pilot personnel and helped to otherwise entertain the travel weary cavaliers.

Parcel post service, an idea borrowed from England, was inaugurated in the United States on January 1, 1913.

Old-Time Buicks Prove Endurance

Endurance, a quality in motor car building which long has been synonymous with the name of Buick, is being proven almost daily in the parts department of the Buick plant at Flint, Michigan, where orders are constantly received for parts on cars that were sold two decades ago.

A recent order from New York asked for a new valve and valve stem for a motor which, although 20 years old, is still in daily use. These comparatively minor parts were all that were required to put this much worked motor in tip-top shape.

That the Buick Motor Company has been in a position at all times to furnish parts for cars manufactured in the early years of its existance, is a feature which has been largely instrumental in building up Buick's sales volume and making its product a leader among motor cars of the finer class.

CAUTION FOR ALL

One automobile out of every four is involved in a fatal or serious personal injury during its lifetime, reports the Automobile club of Southern California. Each of the others is involved in at least two accidents resulting in property damage.

TEN YEARS BEHIND

Motor vehicle registration outside of the United States now is 7,285,000 units, compared with 7,585,000 units registered in this country in 1919, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Nature's Strength in Harness

Star Tires have always been "huskies," rugged and long wearing, but Hicks put the red stripe and white side wall on the Star as an emblem of the even greater quality built into this tire—in order that the Star will stand the extra wear and tear on the hot, tire-testing roads of the Southwest.

Stars, like Daytons, are built for service on Southwest Highways!

. . . no wonder 1929 sales exceed 1928 by 64%

THE COMMANDER SIX REGAL SEDAN—Six wire wheels and trunk rack standard equipment—$1495. COMMANDER SIX SEDAN (wood wheels)—$1375. Prices at the factory. Bumpers and spare tires extra

TODAY'S Commander has swept to popularity which eclipses even that of its illustrious predecessor—the world-famous Commander which sped 25,000 miles in 22,968 minutes.

Its style is outstanding in any company of cars. Swung low on a costlier double-drop frame, its sweeping lines suggest at a glance the performance which enabled Studebaker to win every official speed and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars.

The comfort The Commander offers you today was unknown until Studebaker introduced ball bearing spring suspension . . . and enhanced it by new-type hydraulic shock absorbers.

No matter how many cars of similar cost you may drive after your first turn at the wheel of a Commander, you will never forget the thrill of its champion performance. May we send you a Commander to drive today?
