Recession Seen...

Slump Logged In Business Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Profits of American businesses slowed in the fourth quarter of last year, and the nation's gross national product rose less than previously estimated, the government reported today.

The report came one day after government agencies released more-recent statistics on housing, industrial production and personal income that indicated a long-predicted national economic slowdown may be close at hand.

Before-tax corporate profits rose 4.9 percent in the fourth quarter of 1980 after climbing 9 percent in the third, the Commerce Department reported today. After-tax profits rose 3.1 percent compared with 8.6 percent for the previous three months.

The "real" gross national product — the value of goods and services after adjustment for inflation — rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.8 percent in the fourth quarter to $2.7 trillion, the report said.

The Commerce Department originally reported a 5 percent fourth quarter annual rate of increase, but revised it to 4 percent last month and then revised it again today to take into account updated and more accurate information.

Inflation, as measured by the broad-based GNP fixed-weighted price index, rose at an annual rate of 10 percent in the fourth quarter compared to 9.2 percent in the third, the department reported. It had reported a 10.7 percent fourth quarter figure earlier.

The new report said corporate before-tax profits rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $249.2 billion in the fourth quarter, while after-tax profits rose to $164.1 billion.

Corporate profits from current production – adjusting for depreciation and inventory replacement costs — rose 2.9 percent to an annual rate of $183 billion after rising 5.1 percent in the third quarter.

Economists inside and outside government stopped short of saying the February statistics released a day earlier might be harbingers of a new recession.

But private economist David Ernst said "these are certainly unencouraging numbers."

In the three separate reports:

—The Federal Reserve Board said industrial production fell 0.5 percent in February, a broad-based decline that was the first dip in seven months.

—The Commerce Department said housing starts down 25 percent in February, a dramatic decline that housing industry spokesmen said was inevitable in light of high mortgage interest rates. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the report means Congress should adopt the Reagan administration's economic policies to bring down inflation and interest rates.

—The Commerce Department also said Americans' personal income rose 0.7 percent in February, the smallest increase since last summer and one virtually certain to leave wage-earners lagging behind still-unreleased inflation figures for the month.

Ernst, a vice president of Evans Economics Inc., a private Washington firm, said a decline in interest rates — already under way — "will avert any return to recession."

And William Cox, deputy chief economist for the Commerce Department, said the production decline was probably just a pause after last year's recession recovery rather than the start of a continuing downward trend.

PROSPECTIVE RODEO QUEENS—Susan Tolbert, seated left, the 1979 Western Texas College Queen, gives pointers to this year's title seekers. Standing are Lisa Sherman from Haskell, Anita Rivera from Colorado City and Pam Holland from Earth. Seated are Lori Hollowell from Clyde and Melynda Crow and Lana Hill from Snyder. The Candidates will be selling rodeo tickets for the WTC rodeo scheduled April 9-12 to secure votes.

High Winds, Sand Rake Snyder Area Tuesday

The Snyder area was dusting itself off and in some cases clearing the debris following one of the most vicious sandstorms to sweep through West Texas in several years.

The howling winds moved clouds of dust here late Tuesday and then produced a line of fast-moving thunderstorms to the east.

Winds of well over 60 miles per hour raked Snyder, popping power lines together and interrupting cable television service briefly. Plate glass windows at the Lone Star Gas Co. office and at the J. C. Penney department store on the south side of the square were ripped out by the high wind. Also toppled was part of a huge sign at Red Faver's Fina Station at 3703 College Ave. Elsewhere there were broken tree limbs and other debris.

There were reports of toronadoes in North Texas but apparently none touched ground.

A day care center at Hereford was destroyed by high winds and several houses and mobile homes were damaged in Denton County in North Texas.

High winds knocked down numerous power lines in Dallas Tuesday night, knocking power out for between 1,000 and 2,000 homes, according to Dallas Power & Light Co. spokesman Ray Ward. All electricity had been restored by midnight, Ward said.

Dallas firemen were called out 15 times to prevent fires when winds downed power lines.

Forecasts called for the dust to continue blowing over southern sections of the state today. Elsewhere, skies were to be partly cloudy to clear. Highs were to range from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 60s and 70s over the remainder of the state.

Temperatures were to be much cooler by tonight with lows in Northwest Texas to be in the 20s and readings in North Texas to be in the 30s by early Thursday.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the mid 30s in the Panhandle to the mid 60s along the coast. Extremes ranged from 34 at Amarillo to 66 at Brownsville.

The storms and high winds caused damage but no serious injuries late Tuesday.

"It looked as if a bomb had destroyed the building," said Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson after dust-laden 100 mph winds flattened the Texas Migrant Worker School in Hereford

GOP Provides Muscle To Reagan Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a sympathetic Republican majority providing the muscle, President Reagan's proposals for slashing billions of dollars in federal spending are rolling through the Senate Budget Committee with only minor changes.

More intense wrangling was anticipated today with consideration of cuts in a variety of social service payments — food stamps, Medicare, Medicaid and Social Security — and other popular programs such as housing assistance and urban mass transportation payments.

But during Tuesday's 11-hour work session, the panel's Republican majority was able to overcome any Democratic opposition and the $12.5 billion in approved cuts exceeded the administration's recommendations in some cases.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the committee chairman, said Congress is "going to have to make all the cuts the president proposed ($48.6 billion) and then some" to meet his goal of balancing the federal budget by 1984.

The panel is expected to complete work on the package tonight.

The committee voted Tuesday to:

—Support the administration's proposal to reduce federal subsidies to the Postal Service by nearly $1 billion in 1982.

—Recommend acceptance of the president's revised federal pay system at an estimated savings of nearly $3.7 billion next year.

—Adjust retirement benefits for civilian and military pensioners once a year instead of the current two times, for estimated savings of $800 million.

Technically, the committee is not enacting the budget cuts, but formulating instructions to other Senate committees.

Once both houses of Congress agree to overall totals, the other committees will be required to make the cuts needed to meet the bottom line. However, the other committees will have leeway to apportion the cuts among the programs under their jurisdictions.

Wednesday update

Fire Kills 3, Injures 38

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A fireman and two bellboys were killed and 38 people injured in a fire that gutted the top three floors of the plush Maria Isabel Sheraton Hotel, authorities said.

A Red Cross spokesman said 16 of the injured were hospitalized, while the other 22 were given first aid and released. He said the injured, none of whom were foreigners, suffered from smoke inhalation, minor burns and glass cuts.

Says Welfare Kids Need More

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Children who get welfare money are helpless and "truly needy" and raising their payments is "only humane and decent," a proponent of lifting the state limit on payments says.

The Texas Constitution places an $80 million-a-year cap on Aid to Families with Dependent Children, which works out to an average payment of $33 a month per child.

Man Fined In Slavery Case

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A seafood processing plant operator has been fined $10,000 for his conviction on charges of kidnapping and using illegal Mexican aliens as slaves.

Benjamin Harrison Nelson, 42, Anahuac, also drew a three-year probated sentence Tuesday from U.S. District Judge Hugh Gibson.

Prosecutors contended Nelson forced illegal aliens to work at his seafood processing plant until they worked off a $100 fee for transportation to the Smith Point plant. Testimony indicated the aliens were paid $10 for a 12-hour work day.

Gibson ordered Nelson to pay the $10,000 fine in monthly installments of at least $300 and submit monthly reports on the names, wages, and Social Security numbers of his employees.

No Free Messages To Congress

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If a Texas senator wants to send a message to Congress, he can mail it himself, says Sen. Carl Parker.

The Port Arthur Democrat was successful Tuesday in defeating an effort to authorize the Texas secretary of state to transmit legislatively-approved resolutions to the president and Texas members of congress.

"They pay about as much attention to these resolutions as you do to resolutions from county commissioners courts that are not in your district," said Parker.

CC Seeking Sponsor For Elderly Housing

Chamber of Commerce directors voted Tuesday to seek a sponsor for a rental housing facility here for the exclusive use of the city's elderly.

In its regular monthly meeting, the board heard a report from the chamber's housing committee chaired by Elizabeth Potts.

The committee has been collecting data concerning rental units in Snyder and has been exploring various programs available. One such program is rental units for senior citizens.

The committee recently conducted a survey among senior citizens in Snyder and found a surprising amount of interest in such a project. So far the chamber has received a total of 321 responses with 171 of those being positive.

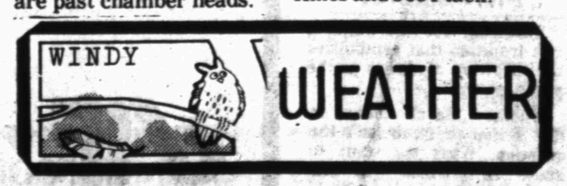

It is possible to receive financing through the Farmers Home Administration, but the first step will be either to find a non-profit group to sponsor the project or create such a group, and any group interested in such a project should contact the chamber office.

Chamber Manager Bill Warner announced that the quarterly membership Fun Breakfast will be held at 7 a.m. March 26 at the Smorgasbord.

Warner also informed the board of the Past Presidents Task Force which will assist the chamber in evaluating its program of work. The task force will be composed of some 16 persons still living in Snyder who are past chamber heads.

Also discussed at Tuesday's meeting was the annual chamber of commerce banquet. The board authorized the executive committee to secure a chairman for the banquet who in turn will secure the featured speaker.

Brenda Hedges, president-elect, presided at the meeting. Other directors present were Ernie Armstrong, Roy McQueen, Elizabeth Potts, Morris Lights, David Hines and Joe Flack.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Tuesday, 78 degrees; low, 41 degrees; reading at 7 a. m. today, 42 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1981 to date, 1.66.

West Texas — Partly cloudy north, fair south and cooler through tonight. Partly cloudy and warmer Thursday. Highs low 50s Panhandle to mid 70s Big Bend. Lows upper 20s Panhandle to upper 30s extreme south. Highs Thursday low 60s Panhandle to near 80 Big Bend.

Park Board, Developers Confer Here

The city park board and representatives of developers of property on the west side of Deep Creek opposite the Line Park site conferred Tuesday night at a session of the board at city hall.

The topic was potential treatment of the west bank of the creek as the development of the park proceeds. The park board and representatives of C&W Manhattan, developers of the commercial property in the area, were on accord on proposals by engineers-planners, and text of a formal agreement is being prepared by Mike Smith, city engineer.

Representing C&W Manhattan of Houston was W. L. Fleming, the firm's project superintendent. Extent of immediate commercial development in the area has not been announced, but representatives of the developer indicated that some plans are under study.

The SDN Column

Some local people have been putting forth quite an effort to save an old house in Snyder, which may be interpreted as a sign that this area of the country has reached full maturity in the realm of settlements.

Some of the uninitiated may have raised their eyebrows when officials of Historic Scurry County, Inc., suggested that the Dodson House might become a tourist attraction. But things like that have been going on for years in regions that were settled early in the nation's history. We must confess that in years past, old houses held some attraction for us in several of the country's older cities, and the people there never missed an opportunity to exploit them.

While residing in Charleston, S. C., at the convenience of Uncle Sam, we had our first encounter with sheer reverence for things of the past. If it wasn't 100 years old, Charlestonians viewed it with suspicion. We were intrigued by their obsession with what we regarded as ancient possessions. But, on a more recent visit to that old city where the Civil War began, we were dismayed to see that the chrome and plastic of the modern age had made a bid for recognition. Fortunately, this was limited mostly to the fringes and new developments well removed from the old town's core, which still is guarded diligently by those who like to see their history first hand every day.

We also have found our curiosity too much to overcome as we encountered invitations to tour old homes and buildings in such places as Savannah, Ga., Natchez, Miss., New London, Conn., New Orleans, and even Galveston.

The Dodson House, now 98 years old, has reached the point that it qualifies for some distinction, and by the time it reaches the 100-year mark, it should attract the attention of the curious, with which this nation is well-stocked.

Some say young people today are not resourceful, but we keep on hearing stories that indicate otherwise.

There is the story of the long-haired teen-ager who was waiting in the barbershop. Each time his turn came, he let someone else go ahead of him. After three or four hours, the barber said, "Son you might as well get it over and let me cut it."

"Oh, I'm not here to get a haircut," said the youngster. "I'm hiding from my Dad, and this would be the last place in the world he would look for me.

texans regain muscle

If the Texas power structure in Washington hasn't remained intact, it is at least showing strong signs that it is building back to where it was.

Invariably, Texas legislative representatives have always done well in Washington. For one thing, they seem to work well together and support each other when bidding for chairmanships of prestigious committees. California, as an example, has a much larger congressional delegation in the nation's capital but members can't seem to get together on most issues.

Texas' clout in the congress predates World War II when John Garner was flexing his muscles in the lower house and Lyndon Baines Johnson was beginning to develop his influence.

The death of Garner hamstrung the Texas delegation for a while but Sam Rayburn rallied enough support to become Speaker of the House and the representatives of the Lone Star State were off again. The influence George Mahon and Olin Teague had in shaping House policy gained wide respect. When they retreated into the wings, Texans took a back seat in Washington politics for a time.

Today, they are moving back into some key positions as the result of appointments made at the beginning of the current Congressional session. The shadow cast by the Texas delegation isn't limited to congressmen alone. George Bush, who calls Houston home, is—as the saying goes—a mere heartbeat away from the presidency. As the vice-president, he figures strongly in the planning of the Reagan team.

In the Senate, over which Mr. Bush presides, none is more respected than John Tower, the former college professor from Wichita Falls. Tower is now the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and he is for taking a strong military stance.

In the House, Kika de la Garza, a Democrat from Mission, assumed the chairmanship of the House Agriculture Committee. That committee has some crucial decisions confronting it during the next two years.

Rep. Jack Brooks, the veteran Democrat from Beaumont, retained leadership of the Government Operations Committee in the lower house.

Two Texans, Kent Hance of Lubbock and Tom Loeffler, of Hunt County, were named to important committees. Hance joined the House Ways and Means Committee, which Wilbur Mills used to head. Loeffler, a Republican, was added to the Appropriations Committee.

Other congressmen like Charles Stenholm of District 17, Henry B. Gonzales of San Antonio and Richard White of El Paso joined important sub-committees.

The makeup of the Congress might have shaken up the Democrat Party because the Republicans gained so many seats but it only served to strengthen the Texas delegation.

I don't expect anyone to get too choked up about this, but I just completed my "15x20 STAMPED FOR BEGINNERS-ON PURE IRISH LINEN-TOMORROW'S HEIRLOOM-COLONIAL LADY AT WHITE HOUSE."

It has a $35 frame on it and if I do say so myself, it has qualities I've seen only in tapestries on museum walls.

I started to embroider "Colonial Lady at White House" in 1967...the very night I bought it. It had been one of those days where the most creative thing I had done was to witness assist-at applaud a b.m. from a child who thought a bathroom was God's playroom.

As soon as I started it, I knew in my heart that I wanted to dedicate my entire life to embroidery. I didn't go to bed that night until I had finished stitching the Colonial Lady's face, skirt, parasol and dog.

The next morning at breakfast, I was at it again, driven by some strange creative curse. Someone bled toward the end of the week and I stopped working on it temporarily...and then I was on a phone committee...and went to the store a few times...and made a few beds, and the next thing you know, it was 1973.

Every time I discovered it among the sewing supplies, I would do a few more stitches and renew my vows to finish it in my lifetime. After awhile, it got to be quite depressing. It was like a conscience that shouted, "You never finish anything!" As I saw it tucked away among an unfinished needlepoint glass case, a couple of squares of a granny afghan, a half-done crewel pillow top, and an unfinished Christmas wreath, I knew it was right.

In 1976, I was sick for a couple of weeks and dragged out "Colonial Lady at White House." A friend of mine was visiting and observed, "If handiworks and crafts could only talk...what a story they could tell."

I looked at the crumpled, gray piece of pure Irish linen, tomorrow's heirloom, in my hand and knew there was only one way to silence her. But I couldn't help but wonder what would happen on the day I finished it. Would the clocks stop? Would my heart stop beating? Would this end an era?

Last Monday, I brought "Colonial Lady at White House" home...framed and ready to hang...exactly 14 years in the making. "What do you think?" I asked my husband.

"What's the matter with the tree? I think you forgot to stitch it!"

I leaned in closer for a better look, I had missed it. "Are you crazy? It's March," I said. "Trees don't have leaves in March."

What's such a big deal about finishing something?

"When you take a hostile approach and treat these people as criminals, you solidify resistance to treatment." Or so says Gary Jovare, head of the Bexar County Legal Aid family law section, opponent of a bill which would require people to report suspicions of child abuse to police.

In plain language that means if you treat child abusers like bad guys they won't want to get their head examined. It might hurt their feelings.

On the other side, Jerry Clancey, a San Antonio police officer, is all for the bill. He says, "Please assist us in our job of protecting citizens, including these helpless infants."

The problem with child abuse cases is that outsiders that know what's going on, who know children that are being brutally treated, don't want to tell anyone about it, they don't want to get involved.

People who want to close their eyes to the problem say that how someone treats their children is their own business.

But what they forget is that a child is not a property, he is a living, breathing human being. He has feelings and needs just like adults do.

A person who throws a child against a wall or breaks his bones just to make him shut-up or behave must be sick — but that's hardly reason to force a child to live with and feel the brunt of that person's sickness.

While family aid concerns are trying to treat the child abuser as a poor misguided unfortunate and send him (or her) to psychiatrists once a week, the child who is being battered or seriously neglected could die. The child abuser may learn to live with that with the help of his psychiatrist but that's not much consolation to the one that paid with their life.

What's wrong with telling the police what's going on? If they can't put the person away (He could always talk to a psychiatrist in his cell) at least they would know to watch out for a particular kid.

It's also easier to call the police than it is to call someone from the Department of Human Resources. At least you know where to find the police and you know that they take calls at night too — and you don't forget their name. There is a child abuse hotline in Austin but not everyone knows that the number is listed in the phone book.

If people really thought of child abuse as a crime, more people would probably report it. Looked at as a family problem and not as a crime against a person, there isn't much motivation to tell anyone about it.

Whether March comes in like a lion or lamb isn't the question. What we want to know is: "When will the season's biggest snow hit?"

Thought for the day: Why don't they use up all that stockpiled Pentagon military brass, thus making it unnecessary to go into the metals market for supplies?

IRS Cracking Down On Workers Who Take Too Many Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is enlisting the nation's employers in a war against a tax-avoidance scheme in which workers falsely claim dozens of $1,000 exemptions.

Under a new regulation announced Tuesday, employers will be required to withhold federal taxes based on the government's word rather than that of an employee.

The temporary new rule is being rushed into effect in response to the spread of the scheme among thousands of autoworkers in Flint and elsewhere in Michigan, the IRS indicated.

The agency says workers have been claiming as many as 99 exemptions on W-4 withholding forms although they are eligible for only a few for themselves and their families. Claiming such a high number of exemptions assures that no federal income tax will be withheld.

Unless a worker is willing to risk claiming a phony number of exemptions on his tax return later, he still will have to pay the taxes that were not withheld. And he could be subject to penalties for failing to pay throughout the year.

But leaders of a tax-protest movement have advised some workers that they will have safety in numbers, that the IRS doesn't have the manpower to prosecute thousands of cases.

In the meantime, the workers would be postponing payment until they file their tax returns. The effect is to gain an interest-free loan from the government.

Construction workers at a nuclear power plant site in Washington state also have been reported using the scheme, but IRS officials declined to offer specific figures on the spread of such activities.

"I guess the one in Flint was enough," said public affairs officer Tony Bombadere. "We're trying to prevent it from becoming widespread."

Until now, Bombadere said, if a worker claimed 99 exemptions, his employer would file the withholding form with the IRS, which then would notify the employer that the number was obviously wrong. But the worker could then claim 98 exemptions "so the process is repeated" over and over, taking up hours of time and building up piles of paperwork, the spokesman said.

Says Texans Need Property Tax Break

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans need a tax break and the action legislators take on the property tax issue probably will be the only thing voters remember about the current legislative session, a representative says.

Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, urged the House Constitutional Amendments Committee to approve his bill letting local governments exempt up to 20 percent of a home's value from property taxation.

The 1981 legislature's action on most issues will be forgotten quickly, but Texans "will take note of the (property tax) appraisals they have received from local governments ... and they will be troubled if the experience we had in Dallas was any guide," Jackson said.

He said last year's property revaluation in Dallas produced a "broad-scale revolt" by homeowners.

Jackson's proposal is accompanied by an implementing bill that would require school districts to grant a 20 percent homestead exemption, with the Legislature reimbursing them dollar for dollar.

The idea behind the proposal, he said, is not to cut taxes but to offset a shift in tax burden from businesses to homes that occurs when property is reappraised and taxed on full market value.

All local taxing authorities must reappraise and shift to full market value in 1982, and Jackson said Dallas' experience was a preview of what hundreds of other political subdivisions will undergo if higher homestead exemptions are not allowed.

Jackson's proposal, which has 78 co-sponsors, puts a $5,000 floor and a $30,000 ceiling on an individual's homestead exemption.

The measure was sent routinely to a subcommittee.

At both tables in a Swiss team match the bidding was identical. North's two-heart call was a Jacoby transfer to ask South to bid two spades. After South complied, each North jumped to game and both Wests opened the four of clubs to East's king.

At table one South took his ace, played two rounds of trumps and led a low diamond. West's nine held the trick and he led the eight of hearts. Dummy and East played low and South took his queen. Now he played ace and another diamond. West was in with the king and led a second heart to give East two heart tricks and 100 points plus.

At table two, South ducked the first club. East led back a diamond. South ducked. West took his nine and led that same eight of hearts to South's queen. Now South drew trumps, discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs and played ace and another diamond. The suit broke, so after ruffing in dummy, South came to his hand with a trump and got to discard one of dummy's hearts on the last diamond to wind up with 10 tricks and 620 points.

South number one was unlucky. West had to be able to win both diamond tricks and East had to hold the heart jack, but the diamonds broke 3-3 and that gave South number two an extra chance that was the winner.

Killam Speaks On China At Retired Teacher's Association

George Killam, county attorney, spoke to the Retired Teachers Association Thursday on "The impact of China and Russia."

During World War II, Mr. Killam was stationed in China and India for 18 months as a member of the U.S. Air Force. He related many of his experiences.

Chinese Civilization is the longest running show on earth, he said. "Countries have come and gone; empires have risen and fallen; but China lives on."

It was the concensus of the assembled retired teachers that Mr. Killam's talk had been informative, interesting and realistic in today's world.

Jewel Summers, president, presided for a short business session. She spoke to the group on the recent activities of the Ways and Means Committee in Washington D.C., and said that the Social Security cost-of-living is in jeopardy.

She said Congress is actively considering a proposal to reduce the cost-of-living protection for 23,000,000 elderly persons who depend heavily on social security benefits for their income.

As in the past, Ms. Summers asked the members present to help and asked that all interested persons throughout the county write letters to members of the Committee. These members are: Bill Archer, J.J. Pickle and Kent Nance.

Silas and Mary Devenport were elected to attend the state convention in Dallas, March 27-29.

Margaret Dell Pilcher, representing the American Association of Retired Persons, took names of those who desired to participate in a defensive driving course to be held March 23-24 at the Senior Center from 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. each day. County residents who wish to take the course should call 573-2741 or 573-6667 as soon as possible.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am an 11-year-old boy who has been reading your column in the Camden Courier-Post ever since I can remember. I sure have learned a lot. One thing it got me to thinking about is this: If I should die or get killed accidentally before I am a grown man, I would like to donate my eyes and kidneys to some young kid who needs them. Children who are blind or have kidney trouble must need transplants, and I understand they can't use organs from an adult.

Abby, I am healthy and don't plan on dying before I grow up, but just in case I do, I would really like to donate whatever parts of me are usable to some kid who needs them. I think it is a crime to bury good organs in the ground when some child needs them. Maybe this will give other kids an idea.

Do they send donor cards to kids? Answer soon. Love,
TIMMY IN N.J.

DEAR TIMMY: Yes. But minors require the consent of their parents or guardians before they can become donors. Discuss this with your parents, Timmy, and if they agree, write to The Living Bank, P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Texas 77005, and ask for a donor card. (Confidential to Timmy's parents: You certainly raised a beautiful son.)

DEAR ABBY: Would it be tasteful to run a combination bridal and baby shower?

ROSITA

DEAR ROSITA: Profitable, si. Tasteful, no! I don't recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old son needed to see a doctor in an emergency situation, so I called our physician. He was not available, so he recommended another doctor. I called him, and was told that he, too, was busy, but if I brought my son in they would squeeze him in between patients at 12:45 p.m.

Before leaving for the appointment, I couldn't find my checkbook, so rather than be late, I went without it. I explained this to the receptionist, but gave her the name of my husband's company and told her that my regular doctor could vouch for my credit. She gave me some forms to fill out and I promptly completed them.

The doctor saw my son, and while waiting for the results of some tests, the doctor stormed into the waiting room, and in a fury he shouted, "You have some nerve! You can just go right home and bring back your checkbook!"

I was shocked and left the office in tears. Abby, we live in Florida, which has a lot of transients, so I can understand caution against deadbeats, but this doctor could have called the doctor who recommended him and checked on my credit.

My question: Do you think the American Medical Association would consider this doctor's behavior unprofessional?

NO DEADBEAT IN JENSEN BEACH, FLA.

DEAR NO DEADBEAT: My guess is yes. Write to your state and/or county medical association and file a complaint.

Enquirer Denounced By Carson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Just hours after entertainer Carol Burnett took the witness stand to charge that a National Enquirer item about her was "a pack of lies," comedian Johnny Carson denounced an Enquirer article about him as "scurrilous" and said the publication "stinks."

"I'm going to call the National Enquirer and the people who wrote this 'liars,'" Carson said during Tuesday night's broadcast of the "Tonight Show." He was referring to a cover story in the Enquirer that said his third marriage was breaking up.

"This is absolutely, completely, 100 percent falsehoods," Carson said, adding he would not sue the Enquirer because of the troublesome process of litigation.

"Now that's slander, or they can sue me for slander. You know where I am, gentlemen," Carson said.

A call to the Enquirer offices in Lantana, Fla., was not answered late Tuesday. William Masterson, the newspaper's attorney in the libel suit here, said he had not seen the NBC-TV show and had no immediate comment.

It was not known what impact the remarks might have on the trial. Miss Burnett is suing the tabloid for $10 million, contending that a 1976 article falsely reported she had an argument with then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in a Washington restaurant.

Miss Burnett said Tuesday the article was "disgusting and it is a pack of lies."

"It hurts because words — once they're printed — they've got a life of their own," she said. "When I'm dead and gone, it will be in my file for my children and grandchildren to look up."

Miss Burnett said she was "stunned" when she heard the Enquirer had accused her of "boisterous" behavior in the posh restaurant.

"I got very, very angry," she recalled. "I started to cry. I started to shake. Then I calmed down and I called my lawyer. I said: 'I'm going to sue. These are bad guys. I am going to sue.'"

Her lawyer warned the suit could take years, she said, but "I said, 'I don't care. They have no right to print a pack of lies like that and get away with it.'"

It took five years for Miss Burnett's case to reach trial.

Fire Extinguished Near Lake Thomas

Firemen extinguished a fire near Boyd's Lodge at Lake J.B. Thomas, last night. On fire were grass and unoccupied buildings. The call was received at 10 p.m.

TV Taken In Burglary

Burglary of a residence and criminal mischief incidents are being investigated by the police department.

Bob Harlin reported to police that a television set worth from $300-$400 was taken from a residence at 3301 Ave. U. That report was taken at 2:40 p.m. Tuesday.

At 10:10 a.m., a case of tire slashing was reported at 1609 15th St. Jina Sumruld reported that two tires valued at $120 had been cut.

Jerry Tatum reported criminal mischief and loss of property at his 1802 Scott St. address. Damage to a horse trailer was pegged at $20 and damage to a fence was listed as $15. Missing were two sacks of feed at $9 each, and some hand tools.

OBITUARIES

C. L. Streety

Funeral arrangements were pending this morning at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for C. L. Streety, 68, of Patterson, La. Mr. Streety, a former Snyder resident, died Tuesday night.

He is survived by his wife, Lillis Merrian Streety of the home; a daughter, Dianne Falgout of Lafayette, La.; two sons, Douglas Streety of Patterson, La., and Doyce Streety of Lafayette, La.; a sister, Gerthie Cromeans of Hurst; and two brothers, Virgil Streety of Snyder and Gail Streety of Hurst.

WINDS

Tuesday afternoon.

"I felt sort of a pressure, like a vacuum," said school director Arnold Lopez. "The roof just popped off ... it took some high line wires with it."

Lopez said he and two other people in the building sustained minor injuries as the wind flattened the building.

McPherson set a preliminary damage estimate for all the buildings at more than $1 million, but said there were no reports of injuries.

The strong winds overturned at least seven mobile homes in Denton County, but officials there were unable to confirm reports of a funnel cloud.

"It's just black and real bad looking," said Denton County Sheriff's Department dispatcher Janice Hays. The storm also downed power lines and damaged roofs, but caused no injuries, she said.

The National Weather Service said radar showed funnel clouds in Denton, Fannin and Cooke Counties about 8 p.m. Tuesday as the line of storms moved across North Texas.

Phone service in Fannin County was disrupted temporarily, a Sheriff's Department spokesman said.

Watercolor Workshop At WTC

Rob Erdle, assistant professor of art at North Texas State University, will hold a two-day watercolor workshop at Western Texas College on April 24-25.

Erdle is a member of the National Watercolor Society and has exhibited his works in numerous national and regional competitions and invitationals.

Registration fee for the workshop is $15 per person for two days, or $10 for one day. The registration fee must be paid in advance, with the deadline for registration April 17. The workshop will be limited to 20 persons.

To register, participants are to send a check or money order for the required fee with name and address to the Fine Arts Division, Western Texas College, Snyder 79549. Persons wishing further information may call the fine arts office at 573-8511, extension 234.

The Third French Republic was proclaimed in 1870, following the capture of Napoleon III during the Franco-Prussian War. With the fall of the empire, a government of national defense tried to continue the war with Germany but France capitulated the following year. The Third Republic was made official by decree in January of 1875.

Pentagon Meeting Soviet Military Space Challenge

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — To challenge a growing Soviet space threat, the Pentagon is moving to station an effective military force of men and machines in orbit.

The action stirs visions of Americans and Russians flying space reconnaissance missions, controlling land and space forces from orbiting command posts and perhaps trading laser beams among the planets.

Defense officials, citing a strong and continuing Soviet military thrust beyond the atmosphere, contend such a force would be a major deterrent to a space battleground.

Only a few of the precursor machines already are out there and the first U.S. military astronauts won't go aloft for a couple years.

But to prepare for the day when this nation expects to have a strong spaceborne defense corps, the Air Force said Tuesday it has selected Peterson Air Force Base as the site for a proposed control center for all American military space missions, including manned space shuttle flights.

Air Force Secretary Verne Orr said the proposed Consolidated Space Operations Center, slated to begin operations in mid-1985, could share personnel and services with the North American Aerospace Defense Command in the mountains west of Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Air Force also had considered sites near Kirtland Air Force Base in New Mexico and Malmstrom Air Force Base in Montana.

The announcement comes just a few weeks before the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is to launch its first manned space shuttle, the first reuseable spaceship. That is scheduled for April 8.

After languishing for months because of technical and financial problems, the shuttle received strong endorsement late in the Carter administration because of its military potential. President Reagan has backed the project for the same reason.

The Air Force has some ambitious plans for the shuttle, taking military space operations beyond the unmanned satellites which now assist conventional forces in communications, surveillance, missile warning capability and navigation.

The Colorado center would require an immediate $13 million appropriation for planning and design, but the Pentagon expects to get the money from a defense-minded Congress.

Miller Urges Problem Lies With Club Owners

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) - Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, rejects the notion that baseball owners are out to pin him with a defeat.

"I don't think it's that personal," Miller said Tuesday, following a closed-door meeting with the Detroit Tigers at their spring headquarters. "I think they want to give the players a loss. That, I think, is more likely and almost proven by what has happened."

What has happened is that the owners have spent a reported $35 million for strike insurance through Lloyds of London in anticipation of a player walkout May 29.

The stumbling block is compensation for clubs losing players through the free-agent draft.

When the compensation matter was tabled in the agrreement last May, a committee of player and management representatives was set up to seek a solution, but the study group was unable to solve the matter.

"Maybe the word 'compensation' is getting in the way," Miller said. "We're not opposed to a club losing a really quality player and getting something in return - without damaging the free agent. (However), any proposal we make that doesn't damage the free agent isn't good enough for them to accept, and that's the crux of the problem," Miller added.

Miller said, as he has many times, he hoped there wouldn't be a strike but maintained that the issue is up to the owners.

"I think the one thing that's happened in the coverage of this dispute is that it has not been made clear to the fans that the players have no demands," Miller said. "The players have no proposals for improvement. The dispute is caused by an owner demand to take back rights players already have. I do not think that has gotten across to the fans."

"Last year both sides disagreed on the issue of compensation and that's why it was set aside until this year. In putting aside this issue (compensation), there were no commitments whatsoever on either side as to what would come out of the study committee effort and the negotiations to follow that.

"When Mr. (baseball commissioner Bowie) Kuhn says there was a commitment - implied or otherwise - he is terribly in error, and I'm being as polite as I can."

'Little Guys' Showing How In NCAA Tourney

by The Associated Press

Now that St. Joseph's has knocked top-ranked DePaul out of the NCAA basketball tournament, the Hawks' biggest problem might be trying to avoid living in the past.

The Philadelphia team didn't lead the whole second half against DePaul in the NCAA Mideast Regional until the final seconds, when John Smith's unmolested layup gave the Hawks a 49-48 victory.

"The reality of the situation is that there are 16 teams left," said Hawks Coach Jim Lynam. "So we beat the No.1 team. But we've got to play again Friday."

That game will be in the Mideast Regional semifinals against Boston College, which beat 11th-ranked Wake Forest in another of the big upsets in the second round last weekend. No.9 Indiana faces unranked Alabama-Birmingham in the other Mideast game at Bloomington, Ind.

"This is the glamour of what this tournament is all about - for a team that doesn't have a national reputation to go out and do this," said Lynam. He was referring to his own St. Joseph's team but could have been talking about any of the other five unranked teams, including Boston College, still alive in the tournament.

The state of Kansas boasts three of the unranked teams.

Kansas upset No.3 Arizona State and Wichita State defeated 13th-ranked Iowa to advance to the semifinals of the Midwest Regional Friday at New Orleans, where they will play each other for the first time since 1955. No.20 Arkansas and fourth-ranked Louisiana State meet in the other Midwest semifinal.

Kansas State also took the upset route, advancing to the semifinals of the West Regional against No.19 Illinois Thursday by beating second-ranked Oregon State. No.14 Utah faces No.6 North Carolina in the other West game at Salt Lake City.

In the East Regional Thursday at Atlanta, fifth-ranked Virginia tackles No.15 Tennessee and No.16 Brigham Young faces No.7 Notre Dame.

Tyler JV Coach Signs As Next Tulane Mentor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ned Fowler, who describes himself as a stern but fair taskmaster, has been named to succeed Roy Danforth as basketball coach at Tulane University.

Fowler, 37, compiled a 31-4 record at Tyler, Texas, Junior College this season and was 83-22 for his three years at the school.

Danforth, who led Syracuse to six consecutive post-season tournaments before moving to Tulane, accumulated a 45-90 record in five years at the school. He resigned after this season to become an associate athletic director at Tulane.

Cats Cancel Date In Bonnet Relays

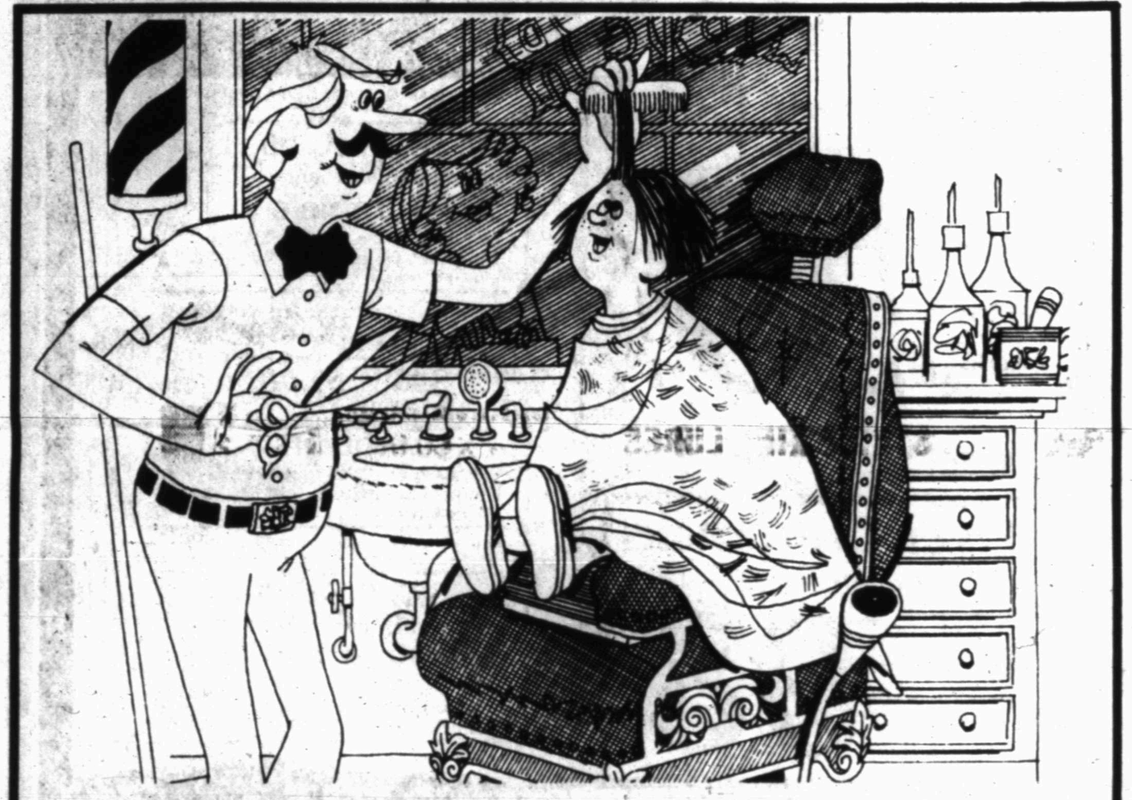

Snyder boys track Coach Winfred Shipp announced today that his team has dropped out of the Bluebonnet Relays, to be held Saturday in Brownwood. The move was executed in hopes of competing in the state qualifier's tournament later down the line.

"We're only allowed to compete in eight track meets and I'm being optimistic in figuring we might qualify an individual for the state meet," said the coach. "If we don't cancel one now and that happens, we wouldn't be able to attend the state qualifier's."

Though the coach did not say so, the week off may also serve as recuperation time for several of his athletes who have been suffering minor, but nagging injuries early in the season.

Snyder girls team will compete in the ABC Relays as scheduled on Saturday. Unlike the boys' team, the girls had fewer meets scheduled than the maximum number before the season started.

Snyder High School will host the annual Canyon Reef Relays on March 28. The meet this year will consist of boys and girls teams, including both varsities from Snyder.

Dust Storm Causes End To Tiger Contest

BIG SPRING – If you were out and about late yesterday afternoon, dodging tumbleweeds and digging dirt from your eyes, it won't be hard to understand that it was not exactly baseball weather.

Such was the case here, where Snyder and Big Spring teams decided they'd had enough after four-plus innings. The Steers led by a football score of 24-11, but since the game didn't go five, it won't appear in the record books.

The pair meet again Thursday in Snyder, 4 p.m. at Moffett Field.

"They (Big Spring) hit a couple out and so did we," said Snyder Coach Albert Lewis, "but most of the time it was a comedy of errors. It got to where the kids couldn't see the ball and we couldn't either, so I just said that's enough of this and we called the game. Somebody would hit a fly ball, say down the right field line, and it would seem to be a sure foul ball. Then the wind would catch and the next thing you know it has dropped in for a double," he said.

Lewis started Ralph Heranadez and relieved with Tommy Gressett on the mound - a pair of first-year varsity players. Neither did a stellar job, to be sure, but the wind was a major factor.

"They couldn't follow through because the wind would knock them sideways," Lewis recalled. "Give Big Spring credit for doing a good job, but I don't think it (the performance) was indicitive of the way these kids can pitch.

"I really feel bad that we inflicted the kids to that. We probably should have stopped the game sooner, but we both needed the work. You know, you've got to be able to play in the wind in West Texas. But finally, we decided it was just too dangerous to continue."

Hopefully, the adverse weather has passed, at least through Friday and Saturday, when the Tigers host the annual Snyder Tournament at Moffett Field. Eight area squads will compete in the tourney, which begins at 10:30 a.m. Friday when Lamesa and Levelland take the diamond. Snyder and Lubbock Dunbar square off at 12:30, followed by Lubbock Estacado and Andrews at 2:30 and Odessa Ector and Brownfield at 4:30.

Completing Friday's schedule, the Lamesa-Levelland and Dunbar-Snyder losers vie at 6:30. Winners of those games compete at 8:30 p.m.

Farmer To Take Reins At UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Larry Farmer brings a solid basketball background, heavily steeped in John Wooden philosophy, and a diverting sense of humor to his new job as UCLA's basketball coach.

The first attribute may help him bring a sense of continuity to the school's basketball program, and the second might ease him over rough spots that contributed to the departure of his three immediate predecessors.

Farmer, a 30-year-old former Bruin star under Wooden and a UCLA assistant for the past six years, was named Tuesday to replace Larry Brown as the team's coach.

"It's been a tough six years for me," Farmer said at a news conference. "I had to get rid of three coaches to get the job. Now guys are lining up for my old spot for the same reason."

Brown, who left to become coach of the National Basketball Association's New Jersey Nets, held the Bruin post for two years, as did Gene Bartow and Gary Cunningham before him.

The general response of the Bruin players to the coaching change seemed one of happiness for Farmer and sadness over Brown's departure.

"I learned a lot of basketball from Larry Brown," said sophomore guard Michael Holton, "but I feel good about the future of this program."

Orangemen Seeing Red In Tourney

by The Associated Press

The way the Syracuse basketball team was playing toward the end of the year, things could only get better.

And, actually, they have.

Since finishing their worst regular season in a decade with a 15-11 record, the Orangemen have brightened considerably in playoff competition. Jim Boeheim's team swept three games to win the Big East tournament and has since won twice in the National Invitation Tournament.

Thursday night, the Orangemen hope to keep rolling against Michigan in their $27 million Carrier Dome in one of two NIT quarterfinal games. In the other, Minnesota hosts West Virginia.

Quarterfinal play continues Friday night, with South Alabama playing at Tulsa and Duke visiting Purdue.

"It's an excellent matchup," observed Boeheim of his team's game with Michigan. "They like to run. We like to run. Any team that has beaten teams like Arkansas, Kansas and Indiana - teams that are still going in that other tournament - has got to be good."

Boeheim's remark about the "other" tournament was, of course, a reference to the NCAA playoffs. He had previously expressed resentment that Syracuse wasn't invited after winning the Big East.

The Wolverines have had a season much like the Orangemen. They fell out of contention in the Big Ten with a late-season slump, losing seven of their last eight games. But they have since bounced back with two NIT victories, including an 80-68 rout of Toledo last Sunday night.

High urea in the blood test

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just got back from the doctor's office and he scared the wits out of me. He said my blood test showed I have too much urea. I asked him what that meant and he said it was caused by my kidneys not clearing my blood properly. He wants me to drink lots of water and cut down on eating meat for a week and then repeat the test.

Dr. Lamb, does that mean I have uremic poisoning? I know that is a killer. What will drinking water do to help my urea problem? If you have any information on the kidneys, please send it to me.

DEAR READER — I would suggest that you take a deep breath, sit down and relax. A blood test is just a test, not a diagnosis, and you are a long way from having a diagnosis of uremic poisoning.

Urea is the nitrogenous end product from the breakdown of protein from your food. We all have urea. The more protein you eat, the more urea your body produces. And as you produce more urea the amount increases in your bloodstream.

Now, as your blood is filtered by your kidneys, the urea is filtered out in the urine. The more urine your kidneys produce, in relation to the amount of water you drink, the more urea will be washed out of your blood. If a person happens to eat a lot of protein and doesn't drink enough water, or gets dehydrated at all, the blood level of urea can increase enough to cause the blood test to be moderately elevated.

How the kidney works as a filter and handles salt and urea is discussed in The Health Letter number 12-12, Your Kidneys and How They Work, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

When the kidney function is really severely compromised, the level of urea in the blood does rise. A very high urea level is an indication of kidney failure and this affects the body in many ways. If severe enough and not corrected, it can lead to coma and death. With the advent of new medicines to treat kidney problems, artificial kidneys and even kidney transplants, this is less of a problem than it once was. Mild elevations of urea usually are not very important, particularly if the other functions of the kidney are normal.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 25-year-old female and I have been on Inderal for five years. I would like to know what this medicine would do if I got pregnant. I am taking it for a rapid heartbeat which started when I had a child five years ago. I have heard that they don't know what it would do to the baby.

DEAR READER — You have heard right. Inderal is a superb medicine for some people. It tends to neutralize the effects of adrenaline produced by your body. Like all medicines it is not good for everyone in every situation. It is quite good for the control of heart irregularities and attacks of rapid heartbeat.

At this date there is no evidence that it causes birth defects or other problems during a human pregnancy, but this has been reported at 10 times the maximum dose recommended for humans in experiments in animals. If you are planning on having more children, talk to your doctor about it.

Players Protected By Dome

DETROIT (AP) — One thing the nation's top pro football teams won't have to worry about at the 1982 Super Bowl game is the weather.

Although the Super Bowl is going north for the first time, it will be played under a 200-ton, 10-acre inflated fiberglass dome that maintains a comfortable 72-degree temperature yearround.

The Silverdome in suburban Pontiac is designed so that no spectator is more than 380 feet from the center of the playing field.

Your Birthday

March 19, 1981

You will develop a new set of interests this coming year. They could take you away from persons with whom you've been associated in the past, though your new group of friends will be thinking along similar lines.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let others speak for you or make important decisions for you today. Although their intentions might be good, they may not handle matters as you would. Romance, travel, finances, luck and possible pitfalls are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In order to get persons to come to your aid today you might be a little too liberal in promising what you intend to do for them in the future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against tendencies today to be too possessive or even jealous of someone about whom you care a great deal. Do nothing you'll later regret.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Normally you're not easily discouraged, but today if you experience some setbacks you may want to toss in the towel too early.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Rather than tell it like it is today, you may be tempted to embellish the truth a bit. Unfortunately, you're not a good story teller and your tales could come back to haunt you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This may not be one of your better days for managing your possessions and resources with wisdom. Carelessness could have a high price tag.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take a firm position on important issues today. Unless your supporters know exactly where you stand, you might have problems getting them to back you up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is definitely not a day to try to sweep your responsibilities under the rug. Things left unattended could cause you even-more-serious problems in the near future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Have high hopes today, but don't take risky or foolish moves in order to try to advance the timetable for bringing them into being prematurely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your prospects for success are only fair today. You're likely to take things for granted which your better judgment caution you shouldn't.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you size up situations too hastily today there's a chance you'll overlook small, but important, aspects. Don't rely too heavily on your first reading.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Business conditions could be a trifle tricky for you today, especially if you're involved in a situation similar to one which wasn't too lucky for you in the past.

The U. S. Department of Energy says wood may be the fuel of the future — already Americans are saving one million barrels of oil daily and $7.7 billion annually by burning wood. Soon the U.S. will be able to produce the equivalent of 2.2 million barrels of oil daily from the wood of lumber waste and dead trees.

BSU Seminar Set At WTC

A SHARE seminar has been scheduled for April 2-3 by the Baptist Student Union at Western Texas College.

The seminar is a workshop for learning to develop meaningful relationships with people, learning to be more aware of the personal needs of others, and developing skills in sharing Christian faith, Jerry Summers, BSU director, said. The seminar is open to all WTC students and faculty members regardless of church affiliation, he added. He will lead the seminar.

A registration fee of $3 will be required of each participant. Further information about the seminar may be obtained by calling the BSU at 573-0661, or 573-8511, extension 271.

Cowboy Dies Of Injuries

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A nationally ranked college rodeo performer from Sam Houston State University has died of injuries he sustained when he was thrown from a bull during a rodeo.

Tommy Castenson, 22, died Tuesday evening, according to a spokeswoman at John Peter Smith Hospital. Castenson was paralyzed from the neck down after fracturing two vertabrae near the base of his skull after the Saturday fall.

West Texan To Be 1st To Buy Solar Energy

CROSBYTON, Texas (AP) — Friday afternoon, if all goes as planned, Rex Wheeler will become the first man in the United States to buy electricity from a "big, dumb and simple" solar-powered generating unit.

Wheeler, 76, lives in this dusty West Texas town of 3,000 and will pay his power bill in advance at 2 p.m. Friday, the first day of spring, as scientists turn on the solar power plant, providing the first commercially available electricity produced by the sun.

Dr. John D. Reichert will turn on the solar generator. He led a team of Texas Tech researchers that began working on the Crosbyton project in 1976.

"We've come out of the cotton patch," said Reichert, who was put in charge of the project after some worried Crosbyton residents went to Texas Tech officials and asked if the university could come up with an alternative to the ever-more-expensive fossil fuel electricity.

Crosbyton's sun-generated electricity will be fed into the city's municipal power system, said Reichert, figuring it would cover the demand of about 15 homes.

"It's the first time solar generated electricity will be sold, and the first time a customer will pay a bill for using it," Reichert said.

"I'm just glad to have electricity," said Wheeler. "This country out here was run on kerosene at one time."

Reichert said rays from the sun are collected in a 65-foot-wide mirrored "dish" which concentrates the rays and turns water into steam that drives a turbine to produce the electricity. The cost, Reichert said, was $6 million.

"All we can come up with is big, dumb and simple," he said. "... we think 'big, dumb and simple' is better technology."
