Campaign Of Democrats Taken Across Mississippi; Views On Agriculture To Be Given In Kansas Today

(By The Associated Press)

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13.—Franklin D. Roosevelt brought his presidential campaign across the Mississippi river tonight to begin a circle of the west with an enunciation of his agricultural views in the farming state of Kansas tomorrow.

His progress today through the corn-laden fields of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois found crowds at many stations along the route. At half a dozen towns, his special halted and the New York governor stood on the back platform to wave and send back quick replies to the questions put to him.

Crossing the Mississippi into Missouri, Mr. Roosevelt sped on the state capital at Jefferson City to receive the welcome of the state Democratic platform convention during an hour's stop.

Staggering Deficit Shown On Insull Company Report

CHICAGO, Sept. 13. (AP)—An auditor's report blazoned in red figures today the staggering deficit of $226,510,977 on the balance sheet of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., an investment trust.

One of the leading suits in the house of cards Samuel Insull built above his vast empire of public utility operating companies that cross the American continent, Insull Utility Investments, Inc., had but $9,721 cash in the bank when it collapsed in receivership last April. Other holding and operating utilities companies headed by Insull also went into receivership last spring and he retired to Paris.

It's liabilities totaled $258,003,256, overbalancing only $31,492,549 of assets.

Woman Plans A Leap With Parachute As Tribute To Nurse

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The airplane American Nurse was headed east today in a nonstop flight which its three occupants hoped would end in Rome.

Dr. Leon M. Pisculli of Yonkers, N. Y., Miss Edna Newcomer of Williamsport, Pa., and Pilot William Ulbrich of Minsola, N. Y., took off from Floyd Bennett field at 6:16 a. m., eastern standard time.

Sighted At Sea

At 8:55 a. m., a big plane believed to be the American Nurse was sighted as it passed out to sea near Provincetown, Mass. Four hours later the S. S. Dartford reported sighting the plane more than 400 miles east of Boston, flying very low in clear weather. From Cape Cod Ulbrich planned to fly 1,000 miles due east along the 42nd parallel and then veer slightly south so as to strike the Spanish coast in the vicinity.

Although Dr. Pisculli, commander of the flight, hoped they could set the plane down at Rome, he announced that Miss Newcomer would step out of the plane and descend by parachute at Florence, Italy, as a tribute to Florence Nightingale.

Tests Are Planned

So many tests were planned aboard the American Nurse that it was nicknamed "the flying laboratory." Dr. Pisculli had watched for several weeks over the diet of Ulbrich and Miss Newcomer, who is co-pilot. He planned to continue his

Plains Counties Are Represented

The 30th senatorial district, which includes Lubbock and other South Plains counties, is represented in the state Democratic machinery by Ferguson supporters.

The pro-Ferguson slate was accepted at a meeting of the credentials committee Tuesday afternoon. J. E. Vickers of Lubbock is executive committee member from this distict, H. A. Bummett of Dickens, credentials comittee member; Gordon B. McGuire, Lamesa, platform and resolutions committee member; and Fletcher Benbow, permanent organization committee representative.

A slate of nominees selected at a caucus controlled by Sterling supporters was turned down. It was headed by Garland Woodyard of Big Spring as executive committee member.

TO RENEW EFFORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. Example Of National Parley Is Followed In Adoption Of Short Platform; Ten Planks Constitute Document

Harmony Is Urged

Ferguson Urges Party To Ban Fight On Prohibition; But Three Dissenting Votes Are Given By Committee

TEXAS Democrats, shortly before adjourning their state convention here Tuesday, adopted a platform written by James E. Ferguson and embodying the 10 planks, upon which his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, the party's nominee, made the race for governor.

The convention followed the example set by the national Democratic convention in Chicago in adopting a brief platform. Mrs. Ferguson's 10 planks constituted the bulk of the document.

Evades Pro Issue

It evaded entirely the prohibition issue which had been expected to develop into one of the party's big fights.

Ferguson was invited to appear before the resolutions committee to outline a platform that would be favorable to the administration of his wife. When his recommendations had been read they met with such hearty approval from the committee that they were adopted as the party platform, with only three dissenting votes.

State Senator W. K. Hopkins succeeded in amending the platform with four words which pledged the party to a reduction of "at least one fourth" in public expenditures.

Pleads For Harmony

Ferguson pleaded for party harmony, and especially urged the committee to stay off the liquor question.

"Please do not go on record as being opposed to the national platform's prohibition plank," Ferguson said. "I am as good an anti as the best, and it is my opinion that the national platform handles the matter to the satisfaction of all."

Briefly, the platform reaffirmed the allegiance and devotion of Texas Democrats to the principles of Jefferson and Jackson, endorsed the national platform and the national nominees, endorsed the nomination "of all candidates for office who were nominated by the majority vote of the people in the last Democratic primary," and especially Mrs. Ferguson, and her 10-plank platform, pledged the party to promote and aid agriculture and the rights of labor, and to materially reduce taxes and expenditures.

Resolutions Adopted

Mrs. Ferguson's 10 planks were those on which she and her husband campaigned for election.

Student Flier Is Killed As Plane Crashes At El Paso

EL PASO, Sept. 13 (AP)—Sealed findings of a department of commerce inspector, E. V. Pettis, as to the probable cause of the fatal airplane crash at municipal airport this morning, resulting in the death of Beach A. Laselle, Jr., 22, of Hillsboro, N. M., were sent to Washington tonight.

Laselle died of a fractured skull en route to William Beaumont hospital, Coroner R. B. Rawlins said. His arms and one leg also were broken.

R. L. Langford official of the R and L. airways from whom Laselle was taking flying training, said the young pilot apparently lost his head when his ship lost flying speed and side slipped. Instead of permitting the plane to come out of the stall by itself, Langford said Laselle apparently opened the throttle and pulled up the elevation rudder of the ship.

Voters In Eight States Choose Officers Tuesday

Political Trail Leading To Election In November Blazed; Heavy Poll Reported

(By The Associated Press)

BLAZING the political trail leading to the November elections and the presidency of the United States, voters in eight states yesterday expressed their choice in primaries for candidates to fill offices from United States senator down to constable.

Unlike Monday's election in which Republican Maine went Democratic, the primaries were intra-party affairs, but many national figures were involved.

On the basis of unofficial returns, Senator E. D. Smith defeated former Senator Cole L. Blease in South Carolina's Democratic run-off primary for the senatorial nomination. With more than 80 per cent of the precincts reported, Smith had a lead of more than 30,000 votes.

Backed by Senator Long, Representative John Overton took better than a two-to-one lead over his opponent, Senator Edwin S. Broussard, in early returns from Louisiana's balloting for the Democratic nomination to the senate. Long and Broussard are political enemies.

Up in New Hampshire, Senator George H. Moses went far out in front for the Republican nomination to the senate, his opponent, Joseph L. Richards, a "write-in" candidate, receiving only a few scattered votes. Gov.

Aviators And Seamen Had Scoured East Greenland Coast For Two Days After SOS Call Is Sent By Fliers

(By The Associated Press)

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland Sept. 13.—After a two-day search along the East Greenland coast by aviators and seamen, the Hutchinson "Flying Family" was found today on a beach less than 40 miles from here. They had cracked up their transatlantic plane in a treacherous reef-filled fjord.

The party of eight, including George R. Hutchinson, his wife and two little daughters, were picked up by the British trawler Lord Talbot, which had been scouting around a position given by the Hutchinsons in an SOS call since Sunday afternoon.

Are Landed Safely

Owners of the Lord Talbot in Aberdeen, Scotland, said they received a message that the eight castaways had been landed safely and the Talbot had proceeded to fishing grounds. Exchange telegraph and Reuters dispatches said they were landed at Finsbu, a Norwegian station in East Greenland, which is not shown in any standard atlas.)

The British ship had reached the point given by Hutchinson in his last distress call within four hours. Later German and Danish aviators and American, British and Norwegian members of various scientific and other expeditions in this vicinity, who put out in boats, joined in the search.

In Touch By Radio

The Talbot kept in constant contact with this village by radio and apparently was enlarging gradually

County Officers Search For Reported Wreck On Highway

County officers cruised the highway north of here late last night looking for an automobile and persons reported in a crash. No sign of an accident were found.

A Slaton young man who came to the sheriff's office shortly before midnight and was arrested there for drunkenness told officers he had been in an accident sometime after 10 o'clock Tuesday night on state highway No. 9. He named a Lubbock man, the man's sister, and an unidentified Harris county delegate to the state Democratic convention as other occupants of the car. He brought with him to the sheriff's office a brown coat, which he said he believed belonged to one of the persons who was in the car. Faint cleaning marks included the name "Lunsford" in the coat sleeve lining. A case containing glasses was in the coat, and bore the name of a Houston firm.

Plainview Goes Back To 90's

PLAINVIEW, Tex., Sept. 13.—Shades of the "gay nineties" and Sunday afternoon courtships in the family buggy, polished to a glistening brilliance by the labors of a village swain spurred on by pangs of love—the city of Plainview has purchased a buggy whip.

Jury In Cisco's Court Suit For Reinstatement in 1932 Football Race Discharged; Stand 10 To 2

(By The Associated Press)

EASTLAND, Sept. 13.—Jurors in Cisco's suit for reinstatement in the 1932 high school football race were discharged late this afternoon after two days of deliberation had failed to bring a verdict. The vote was reported to have been 10 to 2 against the plaintiff.

F. D. Wright, leading counsel for the plaintiff, announced that plans were not complete for further action by Cisco. Judge George L. Davenport may be asked to decide the case, or a second trial may be held.

Time has become an important element with Cisco, which is to have a team whether or not the school is readmitted to the league. An "outlaw" schedule has been arranged, but Coach Wilson Elkins is now debating the advisability of opening it Friday night with Decatur Baptist college. If taken back into the league, new rules of that organization would not permit Cisco to play a game of any kind until the last week-end of September.

Man And Girl Are Wounded In Fight With Peace Officers Of New Mexico

(By The Associated Press)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 13.—Armed men tonight guarded Jack Sullivan, 25, of Portales, N. M., who was seriously wounded in a gun fight with Texas and New Mexico officers near Mountain Air, N. M., today. A girl companion also was wounded. Both were in a hospital here.

Sullivan, sought in connection with the recent Olton, Texas, bank robbery, was shot in the shoulder and abdomen and twice in the leg. Mary Cuban, 18, of Gonzales, Texas, his companion, was wounded in the legs and one arm.

Officers led by Sheriff G. R. Crim of Lamb county, Texas, attempted to stop Sullivan and the girl on the highway near Mountain Air but the pair sped on. The officers gave chase, firing about 25 shots. Fourteen bullet holes were found in the fugitives' car.

Sheriff Crim said he believed he recognized Sullivan as one of four men who opened fire upon a posse of officers near Portales, Aug. 30. Deputy Sheriff Harve Bolin of Plainview, Texas, was killed and Special Deputy R. L. Hollis of Portales was wounded. Sullivan denied he participated in the Portales gun fight.

Officers were uncertain tonight whether Sullivan opened fire on them at Mountain Air but he was heavily armed, they said.

WITH the Ferguson steam roller cruising brutally through the credentials committee session and later on the convention floor, partisans of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson handed her the Democratic nomination for governor here Tuesday afternoon and crushed out of the state executive committee all persons not avowed Ferguson supporters.

The party's biennial convention adjourned at 6:07 p. m. after more than five hours of semi-stormy proceedings and delegates and leaders were departing from Lubbock last night with renewed determination to carry the Jeffersonian standard united to victory in the November election.

Temporarily Thwarted

Their purpose was temporarily thwarted, however, by an election contest suit filed against Mrs. Ferguson's nomination in a Travis county court Tuesday afternoon in which he maintained there were many law violations and irregularities in the primary which produced the nominee.

Mrs. Ferguson, who had already served the commonwealth as chief executive, was presented to the Democracy in a demonstration of fervor and enthusiasm equalled only by plaudits for her husband-adviser, Jim Ferguson. Slayer Of President Doumer Of France Loses His Last Appeal For Commutation Of Death Sentence

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Dr. Paul Gorguloff, Russian physician who stole back into France this spring after having been barred, is to die under the guillotine tomorrow for the assassination of President Paul Doumer.

The last appeal of his attorney, the aged Henry Geraud, was turned down today by President Albert Lebrun, who could have commuted the sentence of his predecessor's slayer to life on an island prison.

Before formal announcement of President Lebrun's decision, the police had issued passes for the execution and were making preparations to hold it at dawn.

Legislature Is To Repeal Law On Tax Relief

Statute Applies To Taxes Of All Kinds And Calamity Is Facing States Unless Act Is Given Revision

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. — The Texas legislature today started its machinery in motion to repeal a law it passed less than a week ago, a law to remit the interest and penalties on delinquent taxes.

Repeal was made necessary, members said, because of a legislative oversight that made the statute apply to taxes the legislature did not intend to include.

Effective Immediately

It was intended to remit the penalties and interest only on delinquent taxes on real estate. The bill was passed by overwhelming majorities in both houses and signed by the governor, becoming effective immediately.

Today it was discovered the bill actually applied to delinquent taxes of all kinds, including corporation franchise taxes, gross production, cigaret, severance and other levies.

A bill designed to repeal the law enacted last week and to reenact the statute so that it would apply only to delinquent taxes on real estate was introduced as soon as possible after the discrepancy was discovered. At a special meeting of the house revenue and taxation committee late today it was reported out favorably.

Representative Dewey Young of Wellington, chairman of the committee, said every effort would be expended to pass it in the house tomorrow by suspension of all rules that would prevent its being considered so quickly after it had been introduced.

Many members said the situation would be calamitous if the statute was not repealed and the revised bill enacted.

Rio Grande Is Returning To Normal After Second Flood

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 13. (AP) — The Rio Grande was returning to normal in the lower valley today as its second rise lost momentum without spreading over any more land. Overflow water in Willacy county was draining off.

Railroad traffic through the village of Sebastian was resumed today, the water there having dropped a foot. Parts of the town were drying again. The overflow had not reached the town of Lyford and indications were that it would cause no trouble there.

The river remained stationary at Mercedes and had dropped .1 foot at Brownsville. It was expected to begin falling late today at Hidalgo.

Court Contest Filed Against Party Nominee

Bitter Fight For Nomination Reaches Courts As Governor Files Contest; Jim And Ma Ferguson Are Named

Fraud Is Charged

Seven Kinds Of Illegal Practices Are Alleged In Petition; Early Date Is Asked For Court Trial

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—The bitter fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination reached the courts today when Governor R. S. Sterling asked that "upwards of 20,000 illegal votes" be thrown out and that he be declared the nominee.

The contest was filed before District Judge W. F. Robertson in Travis county district court.

District Attorney Sam McCorkle of Mexia flew from Fort Worth to file the petition.

Taken During Convention

The action was taken while the state Democratic convention was meeting at Lubbock to name Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as the party's standard bearer. On the basis of returns certified yesterday by the state Democratic executive committee, Mrs. Ferguson was nominated by a majority of 3,798 votes out of a total of approximately 950,000 tabulated.

McCorkle said he would confer with Judge Robertson and would ask that a date be set for hearing. The petition asked that it be set for trial "at the earliest possible time."

Seven Illegal Practices

The suit alleged seven kinds of illegal practices in connection with the run-off primary August 27. It claimed that such practices existed in 130 of the state's 254 counties. A list of those counties was attached.

Governor Sterling contended that Mrs. Ferguson was not legally qualified to run for the office of governor or to hold that office. The only reason given for that contention was that Mrs. Ferguson was ineligible to be governor because her husband, James E. Ferguson, is a practicing attorney.

McCorkle declined to be more specific but the theory among lawyers about the capitol was that the contention was based on the constitutional inhibition against governors accepting any outside compensation while in office and the community property statutes providing that a wife shares equally in her husband's income.

Mutilation Is Cited

The petition alleged that "in the counties of Dallas, Tarrant, Harris and other counties of the state of Texas various ballots, upwards of three thousand, were cast out by the election judges and were not counted because the same were alleged to be defaced or mutilated, in that the voters had crossed or marked out portions of such ballots, but such ballots plaintiff alleges were not illegal or void, ballots but were entitled to be counted."

Had the votes been counted, the

Mrs. Henry Trigg, Fort Worth, president of the Garden clubs of Texas, was particularly intrigued with a specimen she saw in a hotel dining room the other evening. The size of the blossom, as well as its general perfection, appealed to her. Sterling P. Evans, district county agent, was another who was heard to praise Lubbock's dahlias.

Another palm for Lubbock came from Mrs. Florence M. Rodgers, of Dallas, who pronounced this city a gem, set in the broad plains.

To, Mrs. Rodgers, who declared that she is a native Texan and proud of her state, this town sparkles as a jewel. She had passed through here on a train but had never come to Lubbock to visit before this week. The fields, the flowers, the hospitality and the general looks of Lubbock have fascinated her.

As to Lubbock's dahlias, it is probable that we who live here do not have a full appreciation of these flowers. Some towns are cities of roses, some have cherry blossoms, some have other flowers to bring fame. So far, Lubbock's greatest show flower is the dahlias and it has been cultivated to any extent only within the last few years.

Mrs. Trigg said that she had visited Monterrey and Mexico City at dahlia blossom time and that the dahlias grown here compare favorably with those in the Mexican cities.

During the next few weeks, dahlias are going to be in their glory. Late summer and early fall when there is plenty of moisture and when the winds usually are more quiet than at other seasons, flowers ordinarily burst into color. If this fall is like others, our dahlias probably will be more beautiful than at any time in the past.

This is the time of year to look the flowers over and decide what you will grow next year. Dahlias are not hard to grow and those who have flowers might just as well cultivate the thing that will add most beauty to the town.

SEE 'EM AT THE FAIR

IF YOU missed that Garden club flower show last Saturday be sure to visit the show at the Panhandle South Plains fair this fall.

In addition to the dahlias, there were beautiful asters, marigolds, roses, nasturtiums, water plants, cacti, grasses and other types of plants and flowers. There was a flowering vine down there that was showy. I think it was labeled, desdemona. It was one that I had not seen before but it had plenty of color.

LOOKS LIKE A BOOM

FOR MANY of us who were not privileged to attend sessions, this convention has at least been encouraging. With cars packing the streets and hotel lobbies seething with people, it looks as if the old boom days are back.

In looking for a visitor, we visited a hotel after 10 o'clock Monday evening and found the lobby crowded with people. Cars filled the streets and scores of folks were still walking up and down the sidewalks.

And, even though bitter political enemies are gathered here, the sentiment felt on the streets and about the two large hotels is one of cheer and good will.

Naturally, the interest of people in politics is accentuated during a convention such as has been in progress here this week, but women are coming to realize that they must be politically-minded. Numbers of women delegates have stated to me that although they knew little of the machinery of this convention, they were here to learn what was going on in Texas. "It is up to the women to help run the state politically," they have stated repeatedly.

Talks On Civics, Government And Mexico Are Of Interest

Tech Professor Speaks Before Sorosis Club; Illustrated Talk On Mexico Is Made By Dr. J. T. Hutchinson

First of the season's meetings of two culture clubs was conducted Tuesday afternoon. Junior Twentieth Century club members met at Texas Technological college for a program on Mexico and Sorosis club members studied civics and government in meeting at the F. R. Friend residence, 2005 Broadway.

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson gave an illustrated lecture on "Mexico City and Surroundings" and Mrs. Charles A. Guy contrasted American and Mexican customs at the Junior Twentieth Century program. This was in the engineering building auditorium on Tech campus. Meetings will be conducted regularly at the home economics building.

Mrs. Florence M. Rodgers, Dallas, Texas chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, spoke briefly of her work.

There were 20 women present.

Mrs. Wilson Hostess

Mrs. Vaughn Wilson was hostess to Sorosis members and Mrs. J. T. Howell was program chairman.

M. E. Ogdon, associate professor of government at Texas Technological college, discussed the selection of the president's cabinet. Mrs. R. T. Campbell told of the duties of the legislative body, Mrs. H. B. Hawkins discussed the duties of the executive body and Mrs. Howell discussed the duties of the judicial body in American government.

Mrs. Hawkins was elected reporter of the club to succeed Mrs. O. B. Hewett, who has moved to Temple. Mrs. J. D. Peters, president, presided for the business session.

Yankees Nip Cleveland To Cinch Title; Giants Divide With Chicubs

Indians Crack As Heavy Bats Take 9-3 Win

Athletics Definitely Out Of Pennant Race; Yanks Could Lose Remainder Of Games, And Win Championship

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13—The New York Yankees reached the end of their long march toward the 1932 American League championship today when they defeated the Indians, 9-3, to make their triumph a mathematical certainty.

Under Miller Huggins, the Yankees won their league titles in 1921, 22 and 23 and made another three year string in 1926, 27 and 28. Three times, in 1923, 27 and 28 they won the world's championship by defeating the National League champions.

Joe McCarthy, present manager of the Yanks, established another record as his team won today. He became the first manager ever to pilot teams to pennants in both major leagues. He won the National League crown with the Chicago Cubs in 1929 but lost the world's series to the Athletics.

The victory was their 100th of the season against 43 defeats so far. Even if they lose all their remaining games and the second place Philadelphia Athletics take all the 12 they have left, the pennant still will belong to New York. The A's have won 87 games and can do no better than 99 victories.

George Pipgras, veteran right-hander, had the honor of pitching the deciding game although he had not lasted a full game against Cleveland since 1928 and he came through in good style despite the "jinx." He pitched the full game, giving only eight hits, and never was in danger.

The Yanks piled up 16 blows off Clint Brown and Sarge Connally, every one of them getting at least one hit, and put the game away in the sixth inning with a four run outburst that gave them a 7-1 margin.

Dallas, Beaumont Start Big Series For Title Today

BEAUMONT, Sept. 13. (AP)—Opening a titular struggle to decide the Texas League champions of 1932, the Dallas Steers and Beaumont Exporters will clash in the first game of the playoff series tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock. The right to meet Chattanooga's Lookouts in the Dixie Series a week hence will go to the club winning three games of what may be a five game set-to.

Both clubs were camped here on the eve of battle, the Steers under the direction of Manager Hap Morse having arrived at 9 o'clock via Houston. The visiting contingent including players, club officials and scribes numbers 30.

This morning Manager Del Baker put his first half champions through their final work, after which the turf of Stuart Stadium was carefully manicured for the all important series. Though his team is somewhat crippled, the peppery Beaumont pilot expects his charges to give the Steers a terrific scuffle.

"In my opinion," said Baker, "the championship will go to the club getting the breaks."

The local pilot was non-committal on his starting pitcher but it is generally accepted here that Izzy Goldstein will be the one to oppose George Murray in the starter. Each is believed to have a so-called jinx over the enemy club.

Allotment Of Funds Made Under Garner-Wagner Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—Allotment of funds for river and harbor and flood control projects under the Garner-Wagner relief act totalling $41,577,260 were announced today by the war department.

The amount included $15,500,000 for flood control work and $26,077,260 for rivers and harbors.

The Garner-Wagner bill provided that $30,000,000 might be used for the prosecution of river and harbor projects heretofore authorized and $15,500,000 to carry on flood control work previously authorized.

Rivers and harbors allotments included:

New Orleans and Sabine river section of the Louisiana-Texas intracostal waterway, $108,000.

Fischer Shoots 142 For Medal Honors In United States Amateur Tourney

Gus Moreland Wins Way To Bracket Of Qualifiers

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

FIVE FARMS COURSE, BALTIMORE COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 13.—The highly prized qualifying medal for the United States amateur championship was captured today by a 20-year old college star, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and the University of Michigan, with a record-equalling tally of 69-73—142 for 36 holes.

Exhibiting little if any tendency to wilt under the strain of the most spectacular scoring pace in 36-year history of the national tournament, Fischer's performance featured the almost complete domination of the proceedings by youth's biggest golfing parade.

Qualifying for the first time, Fischer, who holds the national intercollegiate championship, beat his nearest rival, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, by two strokes. He was in front all the day. But for three narrowly missed putts on his round today he would have blasted a new qualifying standard instead of doing well enough to equal the mark of 142 first set by D. Clarke Corkran of Baltimore, in 1924 at Merion, Pa., and duplicated twice by Bobby Jones, in 1927 and 1930.

Goodman's brilliant 72-72—144 where a single losing tussle with a bunker on the 16th hole cost him two strokes and a tie with his Ohio rival, was just good enough to give the Nebraskan second place. He finished one stroke in front of 19-year old Wilfred Crossley, Harvard freshman and Perry E. Hall, wealthy Philadelphia banker, tennis star by preference and golfer only by request.

Crossley and Hall, two of the qualifying play's biggest sensations, posted identical scores of 73-72—145, as they, too, made the grade for the first time.

In the wildest of all hunts for the 32 qualifying places by a field of 154 players, it took 152 or better, another record, to get into the battle for match play, which starts tomorrow with two 18-hole rounds for the survivors. The best previous mark was 155.

Thirty-three were left after two day's exciting events. Two of these, Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., youngest of a noted golfing clan and John Brawner, Jr., Washington business man, each with 152 tied for the 32nd place and will play off at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

The defending champion, Francis Ouimet of Boston qualified with 78-73—151, only a stroke to spare. The popular American Walker Cup captain, on the ragged edge from the start, shot the last seven holes in one under part to keep himself in the battle. Big Jesse Guilford, former national champion, did the final six holes in one under par to post another 151.

Sweetser Eliminated

The oldest of the old guard, Chandler Egan of Del Monte, Cal., champion in 1904-05, and Chick Evans of Chicago, titleholder last in 1920, came through with grand rallies to qualify easily at a time when they were supposed to be through. Evans shot 149 and Egan 150 while such favored veterans as Jess Sweetser of New York, Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston of St. Paul, both former champions, were eliminated.

The British forces were routed. Eric McRuvie, 2-year old Scotsman, alone survived among eight overseas invaders, and joined Ross Somerville, the Cannadian champion, as the sole remaining foreign threats.

The home guard also experienced a series of stunning setbacks. Two of the American Walker Cup stars, Don Moe of Oregon and Billy Howell of Virginia, successful partners at Brookline, were eliminated by wide margins. Moe finished with 157 and Howell with 161. Along with them went the sensational George T. Dunlap, Jr. of New York a hero of the Walker Cup competition who blew up with a 42 on the last nine and finished just above the qualifying limit with 153.

Moreland at 149

In the 149 bracket, with such campaigners as Gus Moreland of Dallas and Chick Evans, was 19-year old Charley Yates, Georgia state champion, competing in his first national tournament. Yates with a 72 the first day, played cooly to get a safe 77 and continue his bid for fame. A stroke back of him, at 150, was Gene Vinson, young Mississippi champion.

Citrus Growers Of Texas To Begin Early Shipment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP) — Citrus growers of the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas were authorized today by the Department of Agriculture to begin shipments September 15, instead of September 30, in modification of the government's Mexican fruit worm quarantine regulations.

Under the quarantine, Texas was enforcing a host-free period in Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy counties as part of the program of eradication.

Lee A. Strong, chief of the plant quarantine bureau, said that since no specimens of fruit worm have been taken in Texas for three months and growers have carried out vigorous suppression measures, termination of the host-free period earlier this year would involve no risk of spreading.

Victoria, B. C., has invited swimmers competing in the Olympiad to appear there after the games.

Matadors Rush Through Stiff Workouts In Preparation For Season Opener Here Saturday

Two Sessions Daily Help To Harden Candidates Against Heavy Schedule To Come; To Meet Sooner Aggies First

Fans who come out to Matador Field Saturday night probably will see the lineup which is to bear the brunt of Texas Tech's football campaign throughout the long, tough season.

Coach Cawthon intimated yesterday that he would use his "first" team for the most part in the season opener against the Panhandle Aggies of Goodwell, Oklahoma.

Respectful of the fact that it will call for the best in the squad to stand up against such opposition that the schedule affords, the Matador mentor plans to give what he thinks are his best prospects plenty of opportunity to show their stuff in the first game. Too, there is respect for Coach Leon Fields and his Panhandle Aggies, about whom there is more or less doubt.

Reports from the Oklahoma Panhandle have it that the Aggies are not big and tough, but plenty willing and hustling. They are scrappers, anxious and ready, is the way one observer put it.

Lights which will illuminate Matador Field for most of the home games are enroute to Lubbock from the manufacturing point in the east and will be installed immediately. Coach Smith said yesterday that every effort was being made to have them installed and in proper focus by game time Saturday night.

Two stiff workouts yesterday brought more vacation weaknesses out of the sixty candidates on the field and left them in more appreciative spirits. They will drill twice daily through Thursday, and possibly taper off on Friday for the contest.

Coach Cawthon is working the squad in divisions according to positions, and at frequent intervals calling departments together for concentrated efforts on designated plays.

A brief scrimmage session was hinted for this afternoon, with special drills in blocking, tackling and punting coming in for a big part of the workout.

"Difficult" People

EVERY human endeavor is attended by obstacles in skirts or trousers planted in the middle of the road and daring the progressive one to move them. They are what are known as "difficult" people. Their purpose in life is to warn others "it can't be done."

"Difficult" people are always carefully marked with red flags, danger signs and the expressive word "dynamite." There is generally one to every household or office and a dozen to a community. Would you hold a bazaar, change a business policy, alter a club rule, rearrange the furniture or even express an opinion, the attempt must be made with due care to keeping out of range of the difficult people.

Difficult people are the cause of such unpleasant exhibitions as subterfuge, flattery, deception, fawning, cowardice and servility. They turn straight lines into entangled and circuitous mazes in which many a glad idea is lost for all time.

Now and then, of course, a popular champion does rise up with a heart of steel to challenge one of the dampeners. Laughing at the display of warnings, he tilts for the difficult person's midribs while timid onlookers wait to see his bones shattered by the impact. More often than not the champion reveals the obstacle not to be a thing of impregnable granite, but a mere straw man that topples over at the first thrust of the lance.

Alas, the victory means little to the crowd. For the champion once convinced of his own valor and despising those of less courage forgets the purpose of his revolt and high endeavor and himself becomes a difficult person.

Most things worth while have been done over the objections and deprecations of some one who didn't think it could be done.

ART IN INDUSTRY

Industry, science and commerce have been so preoccupied with being useful that they have given little thought to the beauty which might be theirs. An exclusively pragmatic philosophy has animated their activities. When an occasional artist has been moved to exclaim at the precise and superhuman beauty of some mechanical device, the practical inventors or users of the machinery have been moved to laughter.

But the marvels of mechanical ingenuity which daily grow more numerous and more wonderful are having their effect on sensitive, imaginative people, with resulting changes in the art that they produce. At last industry has begun to notice what is going on.

One of the first signs of recognition was the invasion of art galleries and museums by commercial designers. In the art of the ancients they found inspiration for modern designs for silks, gowns, jewelry, furniture and many other necessities of the modern world.

Artists, architects, art lovers, manufacturers, merchants and civic leaders are interesting themselves in this effort to bring art and trade together in conscious harmony. These are the people who are showing the most initiative in effecting the desired union, but there are hundreds of thousands of workers in many trades and industries seeking to make of their work an art and to give beauty as well as utility to the products of their labors.

In spite of price-cutting, mass production and standardization one finds increasing artistic beauty in architecture, furniture, jewelry, automobiles, and even in the patterns of fabrics for milady's gown.

AN OLD HABIT

As an increasing number of critics of the present generation are putting it, America, along with the rest of the world, is on the decline, slipping from old virtues into new vices. The tendency to compare the present unfavorably with the past is an old one.

Doubtless some years hence men now young will be proclaiming the superior virtues of this day and comparing the then present unfavorably with the time of their youth. Therefore the world does not take such criticism seriously. For it knows that as a rule one generation is little, if any, better or worse than the one preceding or following.

Now that so many parents have movie cameras to take pictures of their children, the spoiled ones are ruining everything by standing still.

Just as we expected, they've decided to quit using women in the Russian secret service.

Fundamentals Are Essential

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—If it were possible for the farm folk, at their Sioux City meeting, to discuss their problem in simple terms, there might be some prospect of a solution of the agricultural question.

Unfortunately the issue has become so complicated that no one can understand arguments concerning it.

The nub of the whole thing is that farming is not an occupation at which to get rich. It should yield a living; the farmer produces that for himself. And it should yield a little over—enough, by good rights, to make the farmer comfortable in his old age, but not as much as even the country town trader, for example, can reasonably expect to accumulate. It is not that kind of a calling. In its favor is the fact that it is (or ought to be) safer than trade, which is more speculative.

Chas. P. Stewart

AS A MATTER OF FACT, the American farmer has been afforded an opportunity (and to some extent and for awhile, it was taken advantage of) to do much better than make a mere living, plus a sinking fund to take care of him in retirement.

The explanation of this was that, for several generations, free land was open to him.

Starting off thus, capitalized for nothing, his product was largely clear profit. Naturally, while this state of affairs continued, he was in a privileged position over farmers in older countries (and in this country when all the best land was taken up,) where a considerable initial investment was required.

ESPECIALLY FAVORED as he was, the American farmer overdid himself, just as business men do in times of what they take to be great prosperity.

He plunged too heavily. He not only did this in the matter of his personal living, but he did it publicly, in the building of roads and schools and all sorts of improvements, which he made faster than he was able to take out of the ground the necessary products to pay cash for them.

Consequently he is head-over-ears in debt—publicly, even if not privately.

Worse, he created this indebtedness at a time when money was cheap—that is, prices were high, including the prices of his products. Now money is dear—that is, the prices of farm products are low.

Therefore, the load of agricultural indebtedness is heavier than it would have been if conditions had remained unchanged—approximately twice as heavy.

THE UPSHOT is that the farmer cannot even make the living to which, logically, he is entitled.

He can produce it, indeed, but the debt collector takes it, and more, too. In other words, he seizes the farmer's acres. By the debt collector is meant, of course, the tax collector as well as the representative of the mortgage holder.

Another difficulty has developed itself, with the progress of time.

The original generation of farmers, who settled the land, has passed, and their farms have been divided up among their children, until the holdings are too small, in many instances to support, each, a family.

True, it may be that the original farmer's brood of, say, five sons and daughters, is scattered, four, maybe, having gone in for city life, with only one remaining on the ancestral place; but, if so, in all probability, he has had to encumber it to pay off the other heirs' claims. Thus, mortgages are not altogether a matter of bad management; they frequently are a matter of necessity.

AGRICULTURE also has been intensified, like urban industry, so that an over-product enters into the case, added to, as an economic embarrassment, by the at least temporary loss of the city workingman's purchasing power through unemployment.

Finally, in a great part of the country, the farmer has fallen for the appeals of high tariff advocates, stubbornly voting for a system which actually did benefit manufacturing during its infancy, but which never could conceivably have been otherwise than damaging to the farmer since he became an exporter—since it forced him to sell in a wide-open market while buying in a restricted one.

The farmer sees this now, but instead of seeking tariff reform, turns to such ideas as the equalization fee or the debenture, which seek to put the tariff somehow in reverse, making it protect him by turning it wrong side up and inside out.

ATTEMPTS OF THIS sort are the keynote of most debates concerning agrarian distress. Naturally they promise nothing really satisfactory, since they involve defiance of all economic laws.

Nothing is more obvious than this, and urban industry's economic experts point to it unerringly—though ignoring the detail that the system by which urban industry levies toll upon agriculture is equally contradictory of every scientific principle, considering all elements in the country as a whole.

In short conferences like the Sioux City gathering are discouraging, and will continue to be so until they take up a consideration of fundamentals.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE EAR OF THE TYRANT DENYS:

Denys the Tyrant of Syracuse because ruler of Sicily through violence and conspiracy in the 4th century B. C. Being in constant and morbid fear of assassination he disgraced his rule by acts of unspeakable cruelty. The subterranean prisons of Latomie, near Syracuse, in Sicily were presently filled with the King's prisoners. The prison was so constructed that the feeblest sound would echo from the ingeniously fashioned vaults of the edifice. In the outer extremity of the prison the tyrant constructed an ear-shaped niche for a listening post. The acoustics of the niche were such that any sound coming from the casemates of the prison would be magnified in it fifty times. Denys was thus enabled to hear every word whispered by the unfortunate prisoners, and acting upon the information so gathered soon gained the reputation of omniscience. I visited the Ear of Denys during my trip to Syracuse last year. The acoustics of this sinister spot are still as effective as ever.

A FEATHERED HONEY GUIDE:

On observing a man, the Great Honey Guide of Africa will flutter forward until he is certain that he has attracted human attention. The bird will then proceed in a certain direction, hopping from branch to branch, until it has pointed out the presence of a bees' nest. The bird, which feeds upon young bees, does this curious guiding for a selfish motive. After the honey is removed it attacks the young bees which have been exposed by human interference.

TOMORROW: THE ALIEN GOVERNOR OF AN AMERICAN STATE.

Quanah Editor Is A Texas Pioneer

Harry Koch, editor of the Quanah Tribune-Chief, claims an unusual distinction, according to his friends, of having been in the newspaper business in West Texas longer than any other man.

"I went to Quanah in 1891 and edited the Quanah Chief," he said when asked about his experiences. "I have been with the paper ever since except for two years when I sold it to Hawk and Howe. After being out two years, I got it back.

"I put in the first steam engine press west of Fort Worth. That was in 1892. We used a steam engine to generate power to operate the printing press with."

Mr. Koch has made several trips to Europe on a vacation. He also has traveled extensively over the United States.

"I guess I have a unique distinction," Mr. Koch commented. "I am one of the few newspapermen in Texas, if not one of the few Texans, who have a millionaire son. My son Fred Koch is with Winkler and Koch of Wichita, Kans.

"Several years ago Fred bought me a house. He thought that the place where his mother and I had lived for years was not good enough. So he went out one day and bought the best house in Quanah that he could find. It cost $30,000. We had lived in the old house for 30 years.

"Fred built 15 refineries in Russia for the Russian government. But he tells me he wouldn't go back there for a million dollars."

SLIP-COVER TIP

If you are fitting slip-covers on sofas or chairs stand directly in front of the piece of furniture, throw the cover over the back of it, and then draw it down, working intop lace. Make sure that every inch of the cover is perfectly smooth. If you try to adjust the covers to the arms of a chair, before considering the back, you will have a crooked effect.

If you are weary of your upholstered furniture, slip-covers will bring new life to your living room. Have two sets of them. A gay set for summer, and something warmer and a little heavier for winter will make your living room suit the season.

Successor Being Talked For Jack

UVALDE, Sept. 13. (AP)—The question of naming a successor to Speaker John Nance Garner of Uvalde as representative of the 15th Texas district should he be elected vice-president is one many politically ambitious persons are preparing to answer. Several have openly announced as candidates.

H. P. Hornby, Uvalde publisher and close personal friend of Speaker Garner, is being urged by many to enter the race.

Garner's elevation to the vice presidency would force him to resign as representative and a special election would have to be called to fill the vacancy.

Those who have cast longing eyes at the post for several years, have practically admitted it was impossible to defeat the Uvalde man, who never has campaigned.

Hornby has been an ardent supporter of Garner ever since he went to congress in 1902, and his paper, the Uvalde Leader-News, is credited by the speaker himself with being the first to initiate the "Garner-for-President" movement which ultimately ended with the nomination of Garner as the Democratic vice-presidential candidate.

Hal Brennan of Laredo has announced he will be a candidate for the post, and among others mentioned are Lamar Gill of Raymondville, W. R. Montgomery of Edinburg, Milton H. West of Brownsville, and others.

It has been learned from an authoritative source that friends of the Garner family have urged Tully C. Garner, Uvalde banker and son of the speaker, to seek the place which might be vacated by his father. However, Banker Garner let it be known he has no political desires whatever.

Laws prohibiting "hitch hiking" are now in effect in nine states, Delaware, Connecticut, Oregon, Minnesota, Maine, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

State Testimony In Trial Ended

BRECKENRIDGE, Sept. 13. (AP)—State testimony was completed today at the murder trial of W. S. (Stony) Phillips, accused slayer of E. L. Churchill, an oil drilling contractor.

The prosecution used seven witnesses, chief among them being Miss Alice Chapin, switchboard operator at the Fort Worth hotel where Churchill was killed March 14.

She said she was an eye-witness to the shooting and that Phillips shot five times, four of the bullets striking Churchill's body. She was recalled to the stand by the defense to tell what Churchill said after being shot. She said he asked for water.

Other state witnesse were Mrs. Minnie Torbett, a friend of Miss Sallie Moore, fiance of Phillips; J. Klar, who said he rented a gun and shells to Phillips; F. L. Bates, an ambulance driver; Dr. W. F. Armstrong; E. M. Kane, garage employee; and Winston Lewis, detective. All were from Fort Worth.

Defense attorneys indicated they would attempt to show Phillips shot Churchill because "he was compelled to in order to save his life."

A survey of New York state has determined that there are 6,813 carloads of wood waste available for use.

Side Quit Hurting, Got Stronger, Well; CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition—this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't easily get nervous. I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had taken three or four bottles. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

Mahatma To Fast But Gets Teeth

POONA, India, Sept. 13. (AP)—At the very time the Mahatma Gandhi's starvation ultimatum was made public in Great Britain the Mahatma himself was sitting in an improvized dentist's chair in Yerrda prison having finishing touches put to a new set of teeth.

The dentist has been a frequent visitor to the prisonerr because the Mahatma has proved a difficult case for him. He has made several ventures for the Mahatma only to have them discarded.

The Mahatma's plan to "fast until death" unless British communal election plans are abandoned was expected to bring about his release from prison. Simlu authorities were reported as saying they would send him to Sabhamati Ashram, his residence near Ahmedabad.

North Atlantic Storms Causing Damage To Ships

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 13. (AP) — The North Atlantic coastline was strewn with wreckage today, aftermath of a storm howling out of the northeast, while two steamers were wedged on rocks.

One of the victims of the gale which struck Nova Scotia Saturday, the steamer Watford, rested on jagged rocks off Glace Bay. Two of her crew are dead, but 37 others were rescued and reached Sydney safely.

Sixty miles from St. John's, the abandoned Swedish steamer Odensholm was breaking up on shoals of Burnt Point. All members of the crew were safe.

Four small vessels were stranded at St. Pierre, Miquelon.

observations and to make a report on the effect of long distance flying on the human body.

As a mascot and also as a part of an experiment, Dr. Pisculli carried a woodchuck. He said he had a theory that many flights failed because the cabins filled with gas and that the woodchuck would feel the effects of such gas before the other occupants did.

"Still" Is Included

Dr. Pisculli also carried specially concentrated food and apparatus of his own design for use in case of a forced landing. This included a three-pound "still" for distilling sea water.

The plane was the one in which Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., flew around the world. Pangborn saw the fliers off, gave Ulbrich advice about the ship and told the trio they had "everything in your favor."

Miss Newcomer, who is 28 years old, is a former nurse. She has had about 150 hours in the air and has made several parachute jumps. Before getting into her place beside Ulbrich today, she ran back to an automobile and got a small handbag she had packed with clothes "to use on the other side."

Is Returning Home

Ulbrich is 31 years old and has about 3,800 hours in the air to his credit. He was born in Copenhagen of German parents and came to this country in 1923.

Dr. Pisculli will be returning home if he succeeds in flying to Italy. He was born at Ferrandina, near Naples, and came to the United States 32 years ago.

The American Nurse carried 850 gallons of gasoline. Ulbrich said this was enough to last 32 hours and that he expected to make the 4208 mile hop in 25 or 26 hours.

The plane carried no radio.

Tropical Disturbance Said To Be Stationary; Widens

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13. (AP) — The tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico which has kept storm warnings flying on the Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and far northwest Florida coasts for the past 24 hours was reported practically stationary more than 100 miles southwest of the Mississippi river's mouth in a weather bureau bulletin this afternoon.

Still of undetermined intensity, but broadening in area, the center of the disturbance made little progress landward during the day.

Government Reorganization Is Being Planned By Hoover

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP) — Acting under authority of the national economy bill, President Hoover announced today that "for the first time in years of agitation" detailed plans for a wholesale reorganization of the government would be placed before congress next December.

The president told newspapermen he had just instructed J. C. Roop, director of the budget, to initiate a series of investigations looking toward the preparation of "executive orders for reorganization of the whole structure" of the federal government.

California Ports On Border Of Mexico Will Close Early

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—The ports of Calexico and San Ysidro, California, were ordered today by the treasury department to be closed each night at 9 p. m. instead of midnight. The chance is effective September 15.

These ports on the Mexican border were allowed by the treasury on July 9, to remain open until 12 o'clock at night.

LITTLEFIELD,—(Special) — Arthur P. Duggan, jr., son of Senator-elect A. P. Duggan, has returned to Austin to resume his studies in the University of Texas. He was given the degree of bachelor of business administration and will begin the study of law at the fall term.

Sterling Asks That 20,000 Illegal Votes Be Thrown Out In Contest Of Election; Charges Of Fraud Hurled suit said. Governor Sterling would have received a majority.

Another charge alleged "that in a great number of counties along the borders of Texas, residents from Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana were transported by trucks and other means into the state of Texas in a systematized way and induced and allowed to vote in the August primary . . . without having paid a poll tax and without being a resident of the state, county or precinct that would entitle them to participate in an election in the state of Texas."

Negroes Given Vote

Governor Sterling alleged further that in four or more counties negroes were allowed to vote in violation of the instruction of the state Democratic executive committee, and that "such votes in practically every instance were cast against Ross S. Sterling."

Governor Sterling claimed he received a majority of "upwards of 20,000" of the legal, qualified votes cast in the second primary.

Governor Sterling concluded his petition by asking that upon final hearing "the said illegal votes be cast out, and that plaintiff, (Mr. Sterling) be declared the nominee of the state Democratic party for the office of governor of the state of Texas at the ensuing general election; that plaintiff recover costs and general relief."

In addition to McCorkle, other attorneys for Governor Sterling who signed the petition were M. M. Crane of Dallas, former Texas attornney general, C. S. Bradley of Mexia, S. J. Callaway of Fort Worth and R. A. Stuart of Fort Worth.

The section regarding Mrs. Ferguson's alleged disqualification of the office of the governor follows:

Is Not Qualified

"The said Miriam A. Ferguson is not and was not qualified to hold the office of governor of the state of Texas, because at the time of submitting her candidacy and now, she is and was a married woman, the wife of defendant James E. Ferguson, who is now and has been a lawyer duly qualified to practice law from the state of Texas, and the said Miriam A. Ferguson is therefore not qualified to take the oath as governor of the state of Texas, nor can she serve as such governor, and was not legally entitled to submit her name or be voted upon at such primaries, as a candidate for such office, nor was she entitled legally to receive a certificate of nomination from the state Democratic convention of the state of Texas."

The contest charged that in Gregg, Smith, Rusk, Upshur Montgomery and other counties "upwards of 3,000 voters," who did not reside in Texas were allowed to vote.

The first four counties named are in the giant East Texas oil field and there has been considerable recent oil development in Montgomery county.

Transients Allowed Vote

Another charge alleged that "in various sections of Texas certain supporters and election officials conspired to defeat the will of the people of Texas by taking transient persons off freight trains and the streets they knew were not citizens of Texas or voters in the precinct, and by use of false and fraudulent affidavits, which affidavits in many instances, were not signed by the individual and that said transient persons were allowed the privilege of the ballot and induced by various illegal means to go to the polls and cast their votes.

The contest claimed that in many counties poll tax lists were not furnished the election judges as required by law, and that "numerous and varied fraudulent votes have been cast and tabulated in numerous sections of the state controlled by election judges favorable to Miriam A. Ferguson."

The seventh charge alleged "that affidavits were prepared by Ferguson supporters in some sections of the state that were not a part of the official election supplies which were designated 'out-of-state voters' and furnished to non-residents of Texas by election officials and others to form a basis for a pretended legal right to vote and showed a system of election frauds in the part of the state in which these affidavits were prepared and used; that said affidavits in numerous instances were illegally and fraudulently used for the purpose of enabling the counting and certifying of numerous illegal votes for Ferguson."

The counties in which illegal practices were claimed to have existed were Anderson, Andrews, Angelina, Archer, Atascosa, Austin, Bailey, Bandera, Bastrop, Bell, Bexar, Blanco, Borden, Bosque, Briscoe, Burleson Burnett, Callahan, Camp, Castro, Chambers Cass, Cherokee, Clay, Cochran, Coke, Collin, Collingsworth, Colorado, Comal, Comanche, Concho, Coryell, Cottle, Crane, Dawson, Delta Dewitt, Dicken, Fall, Fannin, Fayette, Fort Bend, Franklin, Frio, Galveston, Gillespie, Goliad, Gregg, Guadalupe, Hamilton, Hardin Henderson, Hill, Hockley, Hopkins, Houston, Howard, Hunt, Jasper, Jones, Karnes, Kaufman, Kent, King, Knox, Lamb, Lampasas, La Salle, Lavaca, Lee, Leon, Liberty, Limestone, Liveoak, Loving, Lynn, Madison, Martin, McMullen, Medina, Menard, Milan, Mills, Montague, Montgomery, Nacogdoches Newton, Nueces, Orange, Palo Pinto, Panola, Parmer, Polk, Rains, Real, Redriver, Robertson, Rockwall, Runnels, Rusk, Sabine, San Augustine, San Jacinto, San Saba, Shelby, Smith, Somervell, Stephens, Stonewall, Terry, Titus, Trinity, Tyler, Upshur, Van Zandt, Victoria, Walker, Waller, Ward, Washington, Wharton, Wheeler, Willacy, Williamson, Wilson, Winkler, Wood and Yoakum.

Party Platform

dition to the platform, adopted three resolutions, one of which rebuked the old executive committee for its action in charging illegal voting in the run off primary and asking for a recount to determine "the true vote" cast.

Another endorsed a proposed amendment which would authorize legislative appropriation for the Texas centennial in 1936, and the third endorsed the cash payment of the soldiers bonus and memoralized Texas congressmen and senators to vote for such a measure.

The executive committee heard a resolution recommending amendment of the Terrell election laws, and a change in the method of nominating state officials. The resolution offered the choice of a preferential ballot or the old convention form which would place two names on the ticket for one primary. Following is text of the platform:

"The Texas Democracy in convention assembled reaffirms its allegiance and devotion to the time honored principles preached and practiced by Jefferson and Jackson. Their belief that government should be confirmed to the province of government mainly to protect property, keep the peace and educate the young, should now be revived and renewed to stop the ever increasing number of government employees and tax burdens.

"We heartily endorse the national Democratic platform and the candidates for president and vice president Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner recently adopted and nominated at the national Democratic convention at Chicago. Most especially do we present to the nation our own native son, John N. Garner, as the party's choice for vice president and we know that he is eminently qualified by native ability and experience to fill with honor any office within the gift of the American people.

"We endorse the nomination of all candidates for office who were nominated by the majority vote of the people in the last Democratic primary.

"We especially call attention to the candidacy of the people's choice for governor, Miriam A. Ferguson, and we cordially recommend to the favorable consideration of the people and the incoming legislature her ten plank platform upon which she based her campaign.

"We pledge the party topromote and aid agriculture and the full protection of the rights of labor and capital and declare that it is as much the duty of government to prevent the confiscation of labor as it is to prevent the confiscation of property.

"We pledge the party to a very material reduction in Texas, at least one fourth, and we declare this need to be the chief service that the executive and legislative departments can now render to a distressed people."

Frank Putnam Boosts Homestead Tax Exemption Amendment At Convention

The homestead tax exemption amendment to the constitution of Texas, which is to be voted on at the November election, will apply not only to state taxes but to all political subdivisions of the state, Frank V. Putnam, Houston, former newspaperman and utility man, said in an interview here.

"I have been told by competent legal authority in the state," Mr. Putnam explained, "that when the people adopt the homestead exemption amendment, which exempts from taxation resident homesteads with a valuation of $3,000 or less, that it will apply to school districts, cities and other subdivisions.

"The theory is that no political subdivision can impose taxes upon property which the state itself cannot tax. I am told that this feature, when tested out by the courts, will hold."

John Boyle, San Antonio, Mr. Putnam said, was the latest attorney to uphold his contention. He mentioned among other men; T. H. Stone of Houston; Joe H. Eagle, also Houston, former congressman and John L. Darrouzete of Galveston.

"When this thing is adopted," the speaker pointed out, "the only way a person can lose his home will be by a mechanic lien. Under the present constitution his only way now is through taxes and the mechanic's lien.

"There are three things now that are exempt from taxes; the school, the church and the saloon. My platform when I ran for governor this past primary and the one in 1930, was: 'let's exempt the home from taxes and put the tax on the saloon.'

"I want to predict when homesteads become exempt, you will see the greatest home building era Texas has ever seen. Uncle Sam shows in his statistics that there are 1,300,000 families in the state and of these 800,000 do not own a home.

"Of the 500,000 homesteads, 200,000 are mortgaged. We can easily get a million new people to come to Texas and start homes. There never has been another state like this in all the world, if we adopt this amendment."

Putnam claims that homesteads do not represent more than 12 or 13 per cent of the total real property in the state; the rest being other properties. Taxes from these homes will amount to $7,000,000 to $9,000,000 for the state, with from three to four times that amount for other subdivisions.

Mrs. Ferguson Is Acclaimed As Demo Nominee As State Convention Closes

nees, shared with the Fergusons in the ovation of the afternoon session.

Big Ferguson Day

Tuesday was a big day for "Fergusonism."

The Fergusons had implanted themselves firmly in the political seat of the machine and their friends were here in a great throng to see that their position was secure.

And to make it secure, three prominent Sterling leaders, Charles I. Francis of Wichita Falls, Beeman Strong of Beaumont and Garland Woodward of Big Spring were barred from the state executive committee.

Taking up the various contests for membership in the executive committee, senatorial district by senatorial district, the credentials committee sustained all contests brought by factions supporting Mrs. Ferguson and threw out all those contests attacking choices of the Ferguson groups.

Maury Hughes of Dallas, ardent supporter of the woman nominee, was placed in command of the state executive committee and a full slate of Ferguson men went in as other officials, chairman of the various committees.

Another move to aid the cause was the passage of a resolution condemning in effect the old executive committee for its action in overruling the decision of Chairman W. O. Huggins Monday night when he ruled that the committee should not act on a resolution asking for a recount of the ballots in the run-off.

Confusion Is Apparent

The convention was marked with confusion throughout, as men and women crammed the convention hall and others surged around the doors, unable to get in.

The closeness of the vote and bitterness engendered between the candidates during the campaign influenced the unusual political interest.

The party adopted a brief platform, which pledged the candidates principally to "a very material reduction in taxes." It endorsed the "ten plank platform" on which Mrs. Ferguson made her sucessful candidacy.

Presented By Owsley

Mrs. Ferguson was presented to the convention by Col. Alvin Owsley of Dallas, former national commander of the American Legion. The hall went into an outburst of cheering when Mrs. Ferguson stepped forward to speak to the delegates. The demonstration continued for a long period. James E. Ferguson and the gubernatorial couple's daughters, Mrs. George Nalle and Mrs. Stewart Watt, both of Austin, all were cheered as they rose to also cheer for "Ma".

Owsley told the convention that "Texas needs Jim Ferguson and Miriam; Texas will be true to them and they will be true to Texas."

"This is a great hour of satisfaction for those who followed them so long and so faithfully," Owsley said. It was a big moment for both of them. Col. Owsley, said he had waited six years for this moment and added: "I would be willing to wait a hundred years—this moment is so sweet."

"Yes, we are going to nominate Miriam A. Ferguson now for governor and we are going to elect her governor. And the guiding genius, mind and power with her will be none other than James E. Ferguson."

Mrs. Ferguson said she would be the "governor of all the people.

"I appeal to every patriotic citizen regardless of his political affiliations to lay aside personal feelings and signify his willingness for general cooperation so necessary for the common good," she said. "Let me set the example by declaring here and now that I will welcome advice and counsel of every good citizen as to how best carry on the affairs of government whether you voted for me in the election or not.

"Let me say to the opposition that I not only need your help, but want it, and I crave opportunity to show that I am to be the governor for all the people.

"I congratulate this convention upon its courage to carry out the will of the great Democratic masses of our state.

Foregone Conclusion

She said her victory at the polls in November was "a foregone conclusion."

"Regardless of what other people have said or done in the last campaign, permit me to call attention to the fact that at all times and places in my public appearances I religiously refrained from any intemperate expression that would wound or give offense. Many things on both sides were said and done which had better have been left unsaid and undone, and I regret it, as we all regret it. The best thing we can do now is to put our shoulders to the wheel with renewed concentrated determination to devote ourselves to the cause of our country and the good of our posterity."

It was 3:45 when Mrs. Ferguson completed her address of acceptance, declaring—"come what may, your undying friendship is indelibly stamped upon my heart and memory, there to remain until I shall pass to the great beyond."

Call For Jim

Mrs. Ferguson received prolonged applause as she went to her seat, and the audience began the noisy demonstration calling for Jim Ferguson. Mrs. Ferguson had remained at her husband's side on the speaker's stand throughout the day. She showed no signs of weariness as the afternoon hours passed, and she was smiling happily as she received the plaudits of the crowd.

Confidence in the outcome also was expressed by James E. Ferguson, who addressed the convention after his wife had made her speech. The throng shouted for "Jim, Jim". The demonstration when he took the floor was even more intensive than the one that was accorded the nominee.

"We had our fun in the campaign," Ferguson said. "They poured it on me and I poured it on them. They lost and we won. Some still want to fight about it, but I don't think that attitude will survive very long.

Hell Can't Stop It

"It is the same old crowd that bolted in 1924 when my wife was the nominee. My wife will be elected governor of Texas and all hell cannot stop that. If they want to contest her nomination let them hop to it.

"The Democrats have recorded their verdict. The storm has passed and we now are looking to the future. I am not taking any notice of this claimed opposition in November. There always are some disgruntled ones who do not want to take their political medicine."

A little booing contest was held at the outset of the afternoon session as the secretary announced that various telegrams had arrived. The first boos came when one for Bob Stuart, of Fort Worth was announced. But this was mild booing compared to that of a moment later when one for Tom Love of Dallas was announced.

Reports Delayed Session

Reports of senatorial caucuses delayed the start of the afternoon session.

The convention hall at 1:45 was a milling throng with a monotone of conversation from 3,000 persons.

A resolution calling for an address by Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, who astounded the state by polling more than 200,000 votes in the first primary was unanimously carried and he took the speakers stand, amid cheering and applause.

"To those of you who never heard of me until the big newspapers were forced to recognize me," said Hunter. "I would say that for these 42 years nothing but Democratic blood has flowed in my veins. I shall this year, as I have always done, support the nominees of the party from president to constable."

Mr. Hunter then made virtually the same speech he made during his campaign, flaying the "predatory interests" and charging that "the plain people and not big business is bearing the added tax burden of the state." Again he made his plea for a new tax system, with the state to be taxed as a unit, individuals and business alike, to pay taxes according to their ability to pay. "For years a political machine, through the expenditure of large sums of money, has divided the state on whims, while they made our government their business for their profit. Somebody must shoulder the fight. We, the plain people have long been unaware that we were preparing our own funeral."

Joe Bailey, Jr., Speaks

Joseph Weldon Bailey, jr., of Dallas, son of the late Joe Bailey, was next called for. He was presented by John Henry Kirby of Houston.

"No words can express to you the great honor you have bestowed upon me. Of course, I realize in your eyes, that I am the son of my father and I am proud of that fact. And that places an obligation on my shoulders." Tears came to his eyes as he mentioned his father.

"I say to you that this marks the dawn of a new day of government for our nation. And I say to you that in spite of the fact that you have elected me to an office which demands my attention in Washington, I am intensely interested in the government of my sovereign state."

See Resemblance To Father

Old timers in the convention hall as they listened to this newly nominated congressman-at-large could get in his appearance and in his voice a strong resemblance to the orator of another day who charmed and held so many Texans for years and years.

John Henry Kirby, silver-haired, florid-faced Ferguson leader from Houston who has frequently been mentioned in this convention as Ferguson's choice for permanent chairman, was called from the floor to address the convention.

His speech, admonishing his hearers to study and revere the constitution, was much the same as that he made at the May convention in Houston. But his oratory was less heated, and he was wearing a soberly dark tie, in contrast to the flaming red one. "I know for what purpose you have come to Lubbock to this convention," he told the delegates. "It is to re-dedicate yourselves to the service of the Democratic party.

Still The Hope Of The Republic

"The Democratic party today, as it was when it was organized in 1797 by St. Thomas Jefferson, is still the hope of the Republic. For 30 years we have been drifting away. There have been those who did not understand or who did not have the proper devotion to the ancient principles of the party. But the time has come when we must bring the government back to the people."

Following Mr. Kirby, "Sonny" Blevans of San Antonio, a blackface minstrel without his makeup, led the assemblage in the singing of "The Eyes of Texas."

Mrs. J. E. King, of San Antonio, was the next speaker called for in this time killing process while the convention committees were awaited.

Presents Mrs. Ferguson

She lauded Ma Ferguson and walked over to Ma and asked her to go to the center of the stage where the spotlight was flashed on her for a brief moment. Great applause greeted her. Ma smiled and bowed and then walked back to her seat.

Marcellus E. Foster, editor of the Houston Press, introduced as "the greatest journalist in the south," said of Mrs. Ferguson: "In her two years she did more for Texas than all the men who succeeded her."

"I tried my best to keep out of this fight, I did not want to fight a home town boy, but as an editor, whenever I see an injustice done to any man or any woman, I feel it my duty to tell the truth.

More Has Been Concealed

"There has been more concealed from you at Austin during the past two years than ever before in the history of Texas and I want to tell you also that some of it will never be known until Mrs. Ferguson becomes governor.

"I've fought many fights, and I've lost and whenever I lost I always paid a tribute to the victor.

"I do not believe that this fight which they are going to take to the polls does not represent 10 per cent of the Sterling support."

Wright Morrow of Houston, spoken of as a possible candidate for governor in the first primary, also spoke to the delegates.

"It should not be necessary for me, a Democrat, to make the statement that the nominees of the Democratic party are my nominees," he said.

Shall Never Shirk

"I have never deviated from that duty of being a Democrat and supporting its nominees and I never shall shirk that duty."

D. D. Harrigan of San Antonio protested the election of Charles I. Francis of Wichita Falls, as executive committeeman from the twenty-third district. Francis, as the choice of his district, was championed by Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas.

Johnson reminded the delegates that the statutes provided that members of the committee are to be selected by senatorial districts.

"You can override it if you want —you are the people who will feel bad about it later on," Johnson shouted.

During the debate the convention nearly got out of control. Hubbub broke loose.

Harrigan charged that Francis had been unfair in his work with the executive committee, especially in his attitude toward Mrs. Ferguson. He wanted to seat T. R. Boone in his stead.

Argument Ensues

An argument ensued on the floor in which many speakers participated while shouts of "throw him out" were heard from the floor.

McDonald pleaded with the crowds to be "Democrats and give both sides a hearing" as the convention reached a state of complete disorder. There was as much confusion on the speaker's platform as in the assembly. It was several minutes before order was restored. Meanwhile, former state Senator Paul Page of Bastrop held the floor and refused to yield in the face of the opposition from the convention.

Page tried to make himself heard in a denunciation of the Fergusons.

The convention by this time was thoroughly aroused. Dosens yelled "Sit down, Hoover," and "Sit down."

"No, by ——, I won't sit down. I have been a delegate to Democratic conventions for 40 years and you will hear me!" Page shouted.

Could Go No Further

But he could go no further in the bedlam of bells, shouts, roars and wild confusion. The boos continued to bellow forth from the convention, but Page held his ground although his voice could not be heard in the front rows. When he retired at last, after a vehement attack on "Jim" and "Ma" Ferguson, it was with difficulty that the chairman restored order.

The Fergusons were sitting near Page and at one stage of the controversy Mrs. Ferguson showed a disposition to pour oil on the troubled waters, but she never did intervene.

The convention accepted a report of the committee proposing nominations for executive committee with the exception of Francis. Boone took his place.

Francis had been a loyal supporter of Governor R. S. Sterling and sympathizer with a move to contest Mrs. Ferguson's nomination.

Maury Hughes of Dallas was made chairman of the new state executive committee. C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls was temporary chairman and keynoter. John H. Bickett, Jr., of San Antonio was permanent chairman.

The convention called on the new executive committeemen, before they were nominated, to pledge themselves to support the nominees of the party "from governor to constable" and to stand behind the national party standard bearers.

Permanent Chairman John H. Bickett of San Antonio spoke briefly.

"I can only say that I will give you the best in me," Bickett said. "This is the greatest uprising of Democracy that has ever occurred in the history of our state. But the action of this convention is nothing unless you conduct yourselves at the polls in November in keeping with the traditions of your forefathers."

Said Protest An Injustice

Bickett described those protesting the nomination of Mrs. Ferguson as "Democrats who require an adjective and a name to describe them." He said the protest was a farce and an injustice.

"They know that no illegal votes were cast," Bickett said. "They were warned in the first primary. Why didn't they in the second primary, guard against what they claimed happened in the first primary."

Paving the way for the formal nomination of Mrs. Ferguson, Bickett charged the convention to bear in mind that "Texas must go down the line for the full Democratic ticket in November." Like other speakers during the day, he referred to John N. Garner, Democratic nominee for vice-president.

"If you don't want four more years of Hooverism, you had better vote the straight ticket in November," he said.

Mrs. Cecil Smith of Sherman was another woman Democrat to speak to the convention.

Gladewater Man Talks

S. W. Adams, a Gladewater newspaperman, addressed the convention. Adams was a bitter critic of Governor Sterling in the campaign. He said he was glad to look "in the faces of the most honest yoemanry that ever had gathered in Texas."

Mrs. Volney Taylor of Brownsville addressed the convention. Ed Hussion of Houston, and Luther Nichols of Dallas, made addresses.

At 4:10 Noah Roark of Dallas presented the first committee report, that of the committee to canvass the returns.

"Your committee finds that the returns as canvassed by the executive committee are true and correct for all state officers except that of governor," said Mr. Roark. "We find that the correct totals are as follows:

Mrs. Ferguson—477,644.
Sterling—473,846.

"Your committee saw fit not to disenfranchise Guadalupe County," Mr. Roark concluded.

Gave Her Lead of 3,798

This new total, which the convention adopted, gives "Ma" a lead of 3,798 instead of 3,333, as certified by the executive committee. At its meeting last night the executive committee decided not to include the vote of Guadalupe county because of errors and confusion in the offiical returns and also in the telegraphic corrections to the committee.

The permanent organization committee report was adopted, making officers as follows: John H. Bickett of San Antonio, chairman; vice chairman, Mrs. John M. Loving of Austin, Frank S. Roberts and Frank Hammond, both of Houston; secretary, Eugene Smith of San Antonio; assistant secretaries, Miss Bertha Kuntz, Mrs. Sol Wolf of San Antonio and Miss Daisy May Humphries of Lubbock; Sergeant-at-arms, Lee Beaty of Lockhart; Assistant sergeants at arms, Carlton Moore, J. H. Maddox, Geo. M. Defferari, Sam T. Johnson, W. O. Hall, T. W. Hillman, W. P. Sebastian.

The New Committee

Executive committee members approved, by senatorial districts were: No. 1, J. I. Wheeler, Texarkana; 2, Ras Young, Gregg county; 3, Summers Norman, Cherokee county; 4, C. W. Howth, Jefferson county; 5, L. A. Barnes, Walker county; 6, W. T. Todd, Anderson county; 7, Walter Jones, Wood county; 8, J. K. Brim, Sulphur Springs; 9, Rice Maxey, Sherman; 10, Carl Arnold; 11, John Davis, Dallas; 2, W. J. Hooks, Itasca; 13, Harold Knop; 14, C. M. Campbell; 15, L. J. Sulak, Fayette county; 16, E. H. Prevent Sterling Nominees

All through the afternoon Ferguson men had arisen during any attempt to name non-Ferguson men on committees. First disturbance came when the temporary chairman was reading nominations of senatorial districts. District 4 submitted two reports. The chairman ordered the dispute to the committee on credentials, taking the fight from the convention floor. The minority, or Ferguson, report from district 4 later was adopted.

Longest ovation accorded any person during the convention was given the party's favorite, Mrs. Ferguson. When she arose to accept the nomination, standards were jerked from their places and waved around, hats were thrown into the air, and perhaps the biggest din of cheers and applause filled the hall. It was fully four minutes before it subsided and she was introduced.

As the meeting grew old and resolutions were being read, the crowd began to leave. The barren ribs of the bleachers at the sides began to show, and many seats on the convention floor proper were left vacant. The lateness of the day resulted in dimness settling in the hall. The huge photographer's arc light was turned on the speaker's stand during the last hour of the program.

By 6:30 the big barn-like dance hall was empty and deserted except to telegraph instruments and clicking typewriters.

Fliers Saved

the area of the search, after beginning at the position it had received from the Hutchinsons, when it found the smashed plane.

Hutchinson, a former Phiadelphia aviator, said a leaking gasoline tank forced him to bring his plane down Sunday while attempting to fly from Julianehaab, at the southern tip of Greenland, to Angmagsalik.

His children and others in the party were able to wade ashore and reached the tiny Eskimo settlement of Eker, whose few inhabitants were preparing to abandon the place for the winter. In a few more weeks they would have been on their way to Angmagsalik.

Eskimo sealers aided Hutchinson and his crew in saving their flying instruments and most of their supplies.

W. A. Kennedy, Goldsboro, N. C., farmer found a cluster of 12 ears of corn growing in his field.

Right Out In The Middle Of The Fun

Bits Of News And Comment From Democratic Leaders Here For Convention And Picked From Middle Of The Crowd

FRNKA HAS PART

Joseph V. Frnka, Columbus, Tex., lawyer on the convention vote-canvass sub-committee, is an uncle of Henry Frnka of Greenville, formerly head coach at Lubbock High school. Joseph V. Frnka, former state representative, is the father of Meteor Frnka, assistant secretary of the convention. H. Buescher, tax assessor; T. W. Hillmer, former sheriff, and E. B. Mayes, present county judge, all Colorado county delegates to the assembly here and are with Joseph V. Frnka.

HALEY GETS GOOD LAUGH

"Did you see that article about Billy the Kid?" J. Evetts Haley, West Texas historical writer who was here attending the convention, asked of Horace Wade and John Hendrix of Sweetwater, yesterday afternoon. The Sweetwater men gave the question a good laugh, in which Haley joined. "That's forgotten lingo," he added. "I guess it belongs with that famous John Wilks Booth story of the Oklahoma man who lived for 40 years or more after Booth was shot." Haley dropped in to see some old friends. He is enroute down state after being busy up in the North Panhandle in research work.

NOT A HEAVY JOB

So many Tahoka and Lynn county folks were up here attending the convention that Sheriff B. L. Parker didn't have anything to do, so he came along. "Just came up to look after the folks," he explained.

TO ENTERTAIN OLD TIMERS

Hale Center is planning its third annual banquet for the old timers of that community, Dr. Smith J. Underwood, pioneer physician of the Hale county town, says. It will be late in October, but before cold weather sets in, he said. "Last year it was too cold when we held it," he added. "We have had only one death in our community of the old timers, since last November," he said. "We have found some new people who are elig ble."

HANDY FOR W. D.

The convention was "handy" in more ways than one for W. D. Benson, former Lubbock attorney, who came over from Hobbs, N. M., to mingle with old time political friends. W. D.'s son, W. D. Benson, jr., also an attorney has an office on the first floor of the Hilton hotel and it was handy for him to get in and out without trying to hunt all over town for a room in which to meet friends.

SPUR WELL REPRESENTED

The Spur delegation yesterday came to mingle with the crowd. W. F. Lee, president of the Spur National bank; Dewey L. Granberry, secretary of the chamber of commerce. W. R. Crider, of the highway department and Alto B. Chapman, youthful county attorney were in the party. R. B. Dickson, superintendent of the state experiment station, came over, saying he had to see John Jones, so Mrs. Dickson and their son escorted him here.

LOTS OF BROOM CORN

O'Donnell has lots of broom corn this year and the price is better than last year, says "Boss" Johnson, a well known farmer of that section. Mr. Johnson was one of the Lynn county delegation. "We had between 500 and 600 acres this year," he said. "We are starting the corn at $50 a ton. I think it is about half sold. Other crops look good."

DICKENS' BALE RACE

Dickens had a regular race for honors to bring in the first bale of cotton this year, Zeke Fowler, president of the chamber of commerce of the county seat, said yesterday. "W. M. Graves brought in the first bale and a few m'nutes later Harry Moss showed up with another," he explained. The Citizens Gin ginned them free. Our prospects are very good this year."

GAINES LOOKING GOOD

Gaines county pastures are looking good according to C. A. Duff, county attorney, who came over for the Democratic convention. "We do not have as many cattle in the county this year as we did several years ago and that is one reason why our pastures are good," he explained. "We did not have as many animals on grass so it had a better chance to grow. There has been a lot of rain down our way."

SEES GOOD COTTON

Eastern Yoakum county will have a good cotton crop, although it will probably be below that of last year, Lee Allen, Brownfield, owner of the gin at Tokio, said while here yesterday. "We ginned 3,000 bales last year but I don't think we will go much more than 2,000 bales this year," he said. "There was so much hail early in the summer that we were hailed out. We will be late—all our stuff is late but it looks good."

IMPROVING THE COMPRESS

The Brownfield compress is being improved according to R. M. Kendrick, president of the First National bank at Brownfield and Terry county Democratic chairman who headed his delegation to the state convention. A high density press is being installed and other improvements are being made, he said. Terry county has a larger corn acreage than ever before, with a better yield indicated. He expects the crop to run about 2,000,000 bushels.

ROOMS ALL TAKEN

Rooms in Lubbock Hotels were all taken Monday night, but as far as was learned Tuesday no one had to spend the night walking around the city. Even the smaller hotels were filled to overflowing. Many home owners as well as rooming house keepers, rented out rooms.

RANGER CHIEF HERE

Adjutant General W. W. Sterling, chief of the rangers, was one of the interested spectators at the convention. General Sterling, although a young man, is one of the well known peace officers of the state. Standing well above six feet and wearing the traditional four gallon hat, he is easily spotted as an officer. While here he met O. D. Caldwell, of Post, a former ranger and Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller of Littlefield, also a former ranger.

FIRST TRIP TO PLAINS

B. E. Drake, editor of the Denton Record-Chronicle, made his first trip to the South Plains and while here has "fallen in love" with the country. "I never realized what you folks had out here in this great empire before," he declared. Mr. Drake visited Dr. A. W. Evans of Texas Tech. "My wife and I were attendants when Dr. and Mrs. Evans were married," he said. "I have not seen him for many, many years." He plans to look over the territory before going back to Denton.

HEARD THE CONVENTION

Every down town radio in a public place, had its quota of fans listening in on the broadcast of the convention. Soda fountains and restaurants did a land office business, with customers getting a bite to eat or drink so they could hear the proceedings.

LOW NUMBER TAG

A motor car with a small license number, 56, was used by two well known state men to attend the convention. The car, belonging to the state highway department, brought General Jacob Wolters, national guard commander and Coke Stevenson, political leader from down state. The car is equipped with a radio set along with other extra equipment.

LOTTA BUSINESS

Restaurants, hotels and eating houses of all kinds, did a big business all through the convention. Meal hours were these of the usual fashionable hotel joke—breakfast from 7 to 10; lunch from 11 to 3 and dinner from 5 to 10. There were extra waiters, cooks, soda fountain workers, etc. Hotels brought in cots and extra beds and all were occupied with a waiting list. "We had all the business we could attend to," was the usual reply of business men concerning the convention.

STATE RANGER IS HERE

Captain Frank Hamer, ranger company commander, attended the convention Monday and Tuesday. Although the captain, or some one in his name, registered for six rooms last week, only the captain and one other man were here, as far as could be learned.

GOOD BORGER DELEGATION

Borger, the famous Panhandle oil town that a little over six years ago startled the oil industry, was well represented here. Mayor John R. Miller, present executive; former Mayor Glenn R. Pace and Mrs. Pace; Jim D. Miller, desk sergeant of the police departemnt; Lee Hutson, constable and Mrs. Hutson; Allen Berry; Bill Goodwin, former county judge and John Herrin White and H. R. Stacy, were in the party.

SET PEBSWORTH TRIAL

Trial of Lee Pebsworth, Portales rancher, charged with the slaying of Harve Bolin, Plainview deputy sheriff and old time South Plains peace officer, will be held at Portales September 26, Bill Miller, deputy sheriff from Lamb county, says. Miller was here yesterday. E. A. Bills, Littlefield attorney, will assist District Attorney Compton in the prosecution, the officer added.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13.—Cotton was again quite active today and prices fluctuated broadly. A decline during the morning of 29 to 30 points was nearly recovered later, but the market weakened again at the end owing to hedge selling and a closing reaction in stocks. The close was barely steady at net declines for the day of 26 to 30 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 4 to 5 penny points down.

Port receipts 39,733, for week 91,868, for season 346,991, last season 510,228. Exports 21,658, for week 91,296, for season 765,673, last season 391,449. Port stock 3,322,562, last year 2,848,349. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 83,838; last year 32,963. Spot sales at southern markets 37,857, last year 34,423.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. (AP)—Cotton declined further today, losing about $1.80 per bale from the previous close which carried the list down more than $10.000 a bale from the extreme high of the season made during late in August. Price changes were feverish at times, the market early in the afternoon rallying about $1 a bale from the early low point. Sentiment seemed influenced by the action of the stock market. December sold down to 7 1-2 cents during the morning, rallied to 7.69 and again eased, closing at 7.51, a net decline of 29 points. The general market closed 28 to 31 points net lower.

Sentiment was more divided. Some authorities ventured the opinion that the liquidating movement had about run its course and that future developments would depend a good deal on the attitude of southern sellers. Some attention was given to the report of the storm off the Louisiana coast but comparatively few crop complaints were received.

Grain Sorghum Seed Group To Have Exhibit At Fair

The Texas Grain Sorghum Certified Seed association, of which the South Plains is a center, will have an educational exhibit at the 19th annual Panhandle-South Plains fair, members of the association in this vicinity decided at an annual meeting Monday in county agent offices in the federal building.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year, the last year's activities reviewed, and the association program for the ensuing 12 months was outlined. About 10 men attended.

W. M. Pool, jr., of Muleshoe was elected president and W. A. Goeth of Abernathy secretary-treasurer for the current year. James A. Burroughs of Carlisle was the retiring president, and W. M. Cunningham of Littlefield outgoing secretary-teasurer. Mr. Cunningham last year also was manager, headquarters of the association being at Littlefield.

A lespedeza sericea association, to promote the growth of the new perennial legume, has been formed at Red Springs, N. C.

Most Financial Markets Continue On Monday Course; Cotton Takes A Dip

New York, Sept. 13. (AP)—Most financial markets today continued along the courses they had charted out yesterday, which meant lower prices for stocks and bonds and a dip of about $1.50 a bale by cotton.

Shares lurched heavily in the forenoon, but the 2 to 3 point declines suffered on that break—the year's severest and most active—found shorts ready to cover and a spirited afternoon rally ensued. That rise lost steam just before closing time, leaving a general range of 1 to 3 point net losses. Sales aggregated 5,132,490 sharres.

U. S. steel, which had dropped to 41 or 4 5-8 lower, reduced its loss to 2 1-4 net. Union Pacific cut a 6-point decline to 1 1-2. American Telephone a 4-point break to 1 3-8; American Can a 5 point reaction to 2 1-2, and Santa Fe a 6 1-4 loss to 1 5-8. Auburn slightly more than halved a dip of 13 1-2. Many leaders, including Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, American Smelting, Harvester, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, New York Central and Southern Pacific, were off 1 to 3 net, the average decline of 90 issues being 2.8 compared with yesterday's 5 point slump.

In the bond market, declines widened although there, too, some recovery from the lows occurred.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 13. (AP)—Beef steers and yearlings carried a better tone with values quoted as steady to 25 higher and Chicago establishing a new high point for the season when 1240 lb steers sold up to 10.25. Other sales of better medium weight and heavy steers around the circuit were listed in a spread of 9.50-10.50, while the majority of grain fed steers and yearlings made 7.50 to 8.75. Common to medium western steers bulked largely at 3.50-6.50.

Hogs were considered steady to 10 higher with a top of 4.65 in Chicago.

Excepting a few sales of better lambs at 25 higher prices, the general market ruled steady to 25 lower. Desirable native and range lambs brought 5.25-6.25 with a few loads and lots of selected kinds at 6.50-75. Chicago reported a load of outstanding 120-lb. Montana ewes up to 2.85, while the majority of natives sell at 2.00 and down.

Plainview School Enrollment Large

Plainview has the largest senior class in the history of the school, C. E. Davis, superintendent, said in an interview here. "We have a senior class of 175, the largest we have ever had," he said.

Enrollment is approximately 2,000 pupils. Of these, 600 are in the senior high school and 360 in the junior high, with between 1,100 and 1,200 in the grade schools.

Superintendent Davis is looking forward to a big year, he said. Enrollment is larger and there seems to be a better spirit on the part of patrons of the school in supporting its program this year. Conditions have improved to such an extent that district patrons are not worrying as much about finances as they did last year, he explained.

CALLS IT MOBOCRACY

Gordon Treadway, Dawson county school teacher who hitchhiked his way to the National Democratic convention in Chicago in June was here for the convention; "This is my third convention this year," he explains. "I was present at the state meeting in Houston. This just isn't 'Democracy,' its— 'Mobocracy.'"

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 13. (AP)—Demand for wheat was good here today, but other offerings met only fair demand. Quotations ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid, delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat No. 1 had according to protein and billing, 56-58; barley No. 2 nominally 32 1-2 to 33 1-2; No. 3 nominally 30 1-2 to 31 1-2; sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 64-65; No. 2 kaffir 63-65.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: corn No. 2 mixed 41 1-2 to 42 1-2; No. 2 white 46-47; No. 2 yellow 48-49 all nominal.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats No. 2 red 24-25; No. 3 red 20 1-2 to 21 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 13. (AP)—Wheat regained poise late today, and helped by rallies in stocks and cotton, recovered in full from sharp early downturns.

Reports that a European cartel was negotiating for the purchase of 50,000,000 bushels of wheat from the United States farm board were a late bullish factor. There was a noticeable increase of buying toward the last on the part of houses with connections east.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4 higher, corn unchanged to 1-4 down, oats 1-2 off to 1-8 advance, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Garner Glowing With Confidence

DURANT, Okla., Sept. 13. (AP) — Glowing with confident pleasure, Speaker John Garner, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, declared here today during a five-minute train stop that the result of the Maine election presaged a Democratic sweep of the nation.

The Texan wisecracked with well-wishers of the Oklahoma cotton country and told the crowd:

"The people are not going to sustain an administration such as we have had for the last 12 years, the election in Maine clearly shows.

"As goes Maine, so goes the nation."

Introduced to one Republican in the throng of handshakers, the candidate grinned and remarked:

"Maine's gone Democratic. You might as well make it unanimous."

Speaker Garner is en route to Kansas City to join Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, party nominee for president.

Request For Exoneration Of Spy Charges Goes Unheeded

TOKYO, Sept. 13. (AP)—It has been three days since United States Ambassador Grew asked Foreign Minister Uchida to exonerate the National City bank from charges of espionage growing out of photographs made for an advertising campaign but so far there has been no official action.

It is increasingly evident that Baron Uchida is in a difficult position because of the seeming impossibility of giving the bank public vindication without seeming to criticize the military quarters whence the accusations emanated.

Meantime some of the newspapers continue to make much of "American Spy" stories.

"Kid New Orleans" Some Salesman

Professional Newsie Visiting State Convention Has Been Three Years Developing Good Voice For His Sales

Twenty-two years old and a newsboy for 13 years is the record of George Shaftnell, alias "Kid New Orleans," Dallas, street salesman of the Dallas News and Journal, who came up to Lubbock for his newspaper during the state Democratic convention.

"I have been selling newspapers for over 13 years—its my racket," the Kid said. "I started in New Orleans, so they call me 'Kid New Orleans.' I have been in Dallas for the past three years."

The salesman has made several trips from coast to coast, he said yesterday. He has sold newspapers in all of the larger cities of the nation and has developed a line of sales talk that has attracted wide attention.

Some three years ago he came to Dallas, liked the town and the paper has been there ever since. He has a regular stand or corner, and his sales average 600 papers a day.

"I have been three years developing this voice," he said. "When I lay off selling newspapers for two days, I get my natural voice back. I was only eight years old when I started to sell newspapers. My parents are dead and I am on my own."

The Kid travels for his paper over Texas and was sent to Lubbock for the convention.

Eight Escaped Prisoners Being Sought In Oklahoma

POTEAU, Okla., Sept. 13. (AP) — Eight escaped prisoners, including an accused murderer and a bank robbery suspect, were hunted in eastern Oklahoma Hills today.

They escaped from the Poteau county jail last night after overpowering Jailer L. H. Gassaway. He was left locked in a cell.

Among the fugitives were Eskew Sikes of Spiro, charged with murder, and R. E. Sutton, charged with robbery of the Central National bank here December 26.

Farmers And Students Are Invited To Visit Station

Farmers and students of agriculture have been invited by Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station near here; D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county agent, and R. N. McClain, assistant agent, to visit the sub-station about 1:30 o'clock Thursday or Friday afternoon to view plantings there.

A variety of cotton developed for use of a cotton harvester, a milo 10 to 15 days earlier than ordinary dwarf yellow, a yellow flint corn with a tight shuck, a number of combine type sorghums, several hegari-milo crosses, a sweet corn with a tight shuck and retaining sugar content hegari compared with plantings in which every third row has been left out, and cotton in paired rows will be some of the plantings to be seen on the visit, the letter of invitation said.
