Egypt No Longer Needs Soviet, Chinese 'Help'

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON —UP— A United Nations police force landed in the Suez Canal Zone and Egypt announced the need for Soviet and Red Chinese "volunteers" no longer existed.

Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Abdel Razek and Syrian Minister Ibrahim Istuany said in Bonn Germany that Egypt and the other Arab states had turned down the Soviet and Red Chinese offers to send volunteers to the Middle East.

Istuany and the Egyptian envoy to the West German government flatly stated that volunteers will not be accepted and that there is no necessity for them now that the fighting has ceased.

But a new complication arose in Beirut, Lebanon, where a meeting of the leaders of eight Arab nations demanded withdrawal of the Anglo-French and Israeli troops from Egypt today. They warned that the Arabs will take "effective measures to the maximum of their capabilities to enforce this."

UN Wins Race

It appeared that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had won for the time being the race against possible Soviet intervention in the Mid-East and the threat of a major war.

The situation had become so critical that the first contingent of 43 Danes and 50 Norwegians left Capodichino airport at Naples in the middle of the night on Hammarskjold's urgent orders.

Another 200 were to follow them today into the danger zone to take up positions between the Anglo-French and the Egyptian armies now separated by only 600 yards of no man's land and a precarious truce.

Bigger Force to Follow

They will be followed by a force of from 5,000 to 6,000 men from a dozen or more members of the United Nations for duties still as yet not defined. But the world organization hoped their presence would dampen any spark that could start another war.

The "crisis" was touched off when Arab sources in Moscow Wednesday said the Cairo government had asked for the immediate dispatch of Soviet pilots and tank crewmen "volunteers" promised for weeks by the Kremlin.

The statements in Bonn today dispelled for the time being this immediate threat.

In Moscow itself the Egyptian embassy imposed a complete blackout on news of Soviet volunteers and declined all comment on Wednesday's report.

Ike's Views Reported

Soviet sources were just as mum as usual. But the Soviet press reported today without comment a brief dispatch from Washington in which President Eisenhower said he opposed the unilateral dispatch of armed forces to Egypt.

Russians To Remain

Kadar Vows Free Voting

By RUSSELL JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent

BUDAPEST (UP) — Soviet-backed Premier Janos Kadar promised "free and secret" elections today to the defiant Hungary people and an end to the mass deportation of Hungarian youth.

But he said Russian troops would remain in Hungary until "order is restored." And he said the "time for neutrality has not yet come."

Kadar fired 12 Stalinists from top party posts and capitulated to a series of worker demands in hopes of ending the nation's paralyzing general strike.

It was the biggest climbdown yet by the Soviet-sponsored Kadar regime. It was made in a last-minute panic to prevent workers in gas, electric and other vital utilities from joining the strike.

Kadar also made new overtures to the other sections of the populace.

Farmers Given Freedom

Budapest Radio announced the abolition of all laws compelling farmers to hand over agricultural products and meat to the state. The broadcast said also the government will buy apartments to house those who lost their homes in the fighting.

Budapest Radio reported Kadar's new moves to appease his anti-Communist countrymen, even at the possible cost of his own post and the Hungarian Communist party's domination.

It said he promised to negotiate with ousted Titoist premier Imre Nagy for his return as head of the government. And he conceded the Communist party would be badly beaten in new elections.

Kadar has been reported seeking desperately for a solution to end the revolt. The shooting has stopped, according to reports, but passive resistance continues.

The newest concessions came amid reports that the general strike which has crippled Hungary threatened to spread ever further.

Fires Stalinists

Kadar, seeking to win popular support, fired 12 Stalinists from top Hungarian Communist Party posts Wednesday night.

Trade union leaders have warned that the strike weapon, more than the now-silenced guns of the freedom fighters, threatened national "suicide."

Budapest radio reported Kadar was presented with an eight-point program by the Central Hungarian Workers Committee Wednesday night and promised:

1. To hold "free and secret elections" in the near future.
2. To open negotiations with Nagy on his return as premier.
3. To admit all parties in principal agreement with the Socialists.
4. To publish the Hungarian trade pact with Russia.
5. To stop the punishment and mass deportation of freedom fighters.
6. To abolish the hated "AVH" secret police.

Rejects — Two Points

Kadar, however, rejected the other two points: A demand for the immediate withdrawal of Soviet troops and a declaration of Hungary's neutrality.

Government Wants Names In Blinding

By DONALD J. RETTIG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—The government presses a confessed conspirator today to name the "higher-ups" who hired a thug, who was later murdered, to blind labor columnist Victor Riesel.

Joseph P. (Joe Peelo) Carlino, 43, the government's star witness in the trial of three men charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice, told Wednesday how Abraham Telvi threw cid in Aeisel's face last April 5.

The three-times loser ex-convict testified that he and Telvi did not know until they read a newspaper that the victim was Riesel. Carlino said they thought Riesel was a husband who was to be beaten up for cheating on his wife.

Payoff From "Higher-ups"

Carlino quoted Telvi as saying he would do the job for a $500 payoff to come from "higher-ups uptown."

Carlino, who has pleaded guilty in the acid-blinding case, was indicted with seven other men, including labor rackets czar Johnny (Dio) Dioguardia. He testified Wednesday against Gondolfo (Shiekie) Miranti, 37, Domenico (Nick) Bando, 47, and Leo Telvi, 26, brother of Abraham Telvi, who was shot to death four months after the attack.

Miranti, Bando and Telvi went on trial before Federal Judge William B. Herlands and a jury of eight men and four women. They are charged specifically with helping Abraham Telvi to flee New York after the attack and harbor him in Youngstown, Ohio, to avoid prosecution.

Russia, China Troops Could Result In War

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia and Red China would be flirting with a major war if they carried out their threats to send "volunteer" forces into Egypt, American officials said today.

President Eisenhower was expected to discuss these threats and other aspects of the Middle East crisis with his top advisers at a meeting today of the National Security Council. He also planned to confer with Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. later today.

The big hope in Washington is that arrival of the United Nations police force in Egypt will eliminate any pretext the Communists might use to send forces to Egypt. This is why the United States has been pressing for a speedy arrival of the U.N. troops.

At his news conference Wednesday the President stressed the United States would oppose, through the United Nations, any attempt by the Communists to pour "volunteers" or weapons into Egypt.

He said he could not forecast specifically what the United States and the United Nations might do if Red troops and weapons moved into Egypt. But he recalled that the United Nations in 1950 had taken action against Communist aggression in Korea. He also pointed out that the United Nations is not limited only to passing resolutions.

Borger, Pampa Men Injured In Wreck

Two men, one from Pampa and the other from Borger, received serious injuries this morning when the vehicles in which they were riding collided about two miles west of Skellytown on the Borger highway.

According to the investigating highway patrolman, Arthur Waight, of Borger, the collision occurred at about 7:40 when a '49 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Clyde B. Lemous, 1421 N. Russell, attempted to turn into a lease road and was struck in the side by a '56 Ford driven by Ralph K. Davis, Borger.

Both men were brought to Highland General Hospital and attendants reported that Lemons, who is a pumper for Cabot, was in critical condition with chest injuries. The extent of the injuries were not known this morning but attendants reported that Lemons had several broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Davis, a production foreman for Gulf Oil suffered lacerations to the face and a possible broken hip.

The investigating officer reported that both vehicles were totally demolished. The Ford was headed east at the time and Davis told the officer that he was blinded to some extent by the sun.

Skid marks at the scene indicated that Davis had attempted to stop but had not seen the pickup in time to do so before the collision, the officer reported.

Cabot Opens Engineers' Meeting Here

A two-day meeting of Cabot carbon black plant engineers opened today in the Cabot auditorium of the Hughes Building.

The meeting, which is for the purpose of discussing mutual problems of the plant engineers, will conclude tomorrow.

All Cabot American plants and the Canadian plant are represented at the meeting, which is hosted by the Texas Research and Development Department.

The engineers are reviewing the latest research in carbon black undertaken by the Cabot Texas and Boston research departments.

General Manager Buck Burdette and Vice President in Charge of Production Bill Loving opened the meeting today at 8:30 a.m.

Representatives from the Cambridge, Mass., research department attending the meeting include R. P. Rossman, director of research, Godfrey L. Cabot Cambridge Laboratories; E. M. Dannenberg and R. Antonsen.

A. J. MacKenzie represents the Cabot Canadian plant.

R.I. Bray, E. B. Polson, D. W. Bond and P. David are attending the meeting from the Louisiana plant.

O. F. Gee and Edsel McCrae are here from the Big Spring plant.

From Pampa are R. G. Norton, H. Weidler, F. D. Heckman, J. McCrery, John Nutting, G. F. Friauf, R. S. Boyd, J. S. Boyd, P. D. Powell, H. H. Hahn, P. E. Perrilloux, E. R. Eaton, Curt Beck, J. Y. For Seat In U. N.

India, Russia To Boost Red China

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —India and Russia, despite a defeat in committee, prepared to carry to the floor of the General Assembly today their bitter fight for a United Nations seat for Red China.

India's V. K. Krishna Menon and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov led a futile effort in an assembly's Steering Committee meeting late Wednesday to block an American resolution deferring any consideration of the Chinese representation issue for the duration of this assembly session.

The U.N.'s police force was starting operations in Egypt and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was off to watch its opening phases, with the possibility of a stop-off in Hungary before he returns here six days hence. This eased some of the pressure here on the Middle East and Hungarian problems and permitted the assembly to move toward completing organization of its 11th annual session.

Two-Hours Of Wrangling

The world parliament had hoped to begin its annual general debate —or parade of policy statements by foreign ministers and delegation chiefs — today. But the necessity of approving its Steering Committee's report made this appear unlikely.

For two hours Wednesday, the 15-member Steering Commitee wrangled over the Chinese representation issue.

Krishna Menon, under sharp criticism among delegates for his continued opposition to Western policies this year, started the ruckus with a proposal for a full assembly debate on the right of the Communist regime to China's U.N. seat.

Offers Resolution

United States Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. countered with a two-part resolution recommending the general assembly:

"1. Decides not to include in the agenda of its 11th regular session the additional item proposed by India.

"2. Decides not to consider, at its 11th regular session, any proposals to exclude the representatives of the government of the republic of China or to seat representatives of the central people's government of the people's republic of China."

Britain and France stood staunchly by the U.S. in an 8 to 5 vote for the American proposal. Russia, India, Czechoslovakia, Egypt and, in a minor surprise, Denmark, voted against it. Nationalist China, Peru, Turkey, Pakistan and the Dominican Republic voted with the Western Big Three. El Salvador, for procedural reasons, abstained.

Restaurant Group Elects Pampan

At a recent meeting of the Panhandle Restaurant Association in the Tascosa Country Club in Amarillo, Loyse Caldwell, owner and manager of Caldwell's Drive-in was elected president of the association.

The association is a new one, formed in September. The members had formerly been part of the West Texas Restaurant Association which included an area south of Abilene and to the New Mexico state line.

The former association was split three ways because of the difficulty for members to get to meetings.

The purpose of the organization is to promote educational facilities for both the employes and managers in order that they might give better service, build better restaurants, and serve better food.

Caldwell said that a program is currently under way in this area to get outstanding instructors to come to Pampa who will conduct classes for the training of restaurant employes on how to give better service to their customers and show greater courtesy to them.

One Fire Call Is Reported

Hearing On Suit Here Is Postponed

The plea of privilege motion of Air-Speed Oil Co, of Amarillo in the suit brought against that company by Gene and Clarence Townsend, as a result of the Sept. 4 collision on Highway 70 north of Pampa, which was to be heard by District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich tomorrow has been indefinitely postponed, Ross Buzzard, attorney for the plaintiff, reported today.

The suit was filed by the Townsends as a result of injuries received by Clarence Townsend when a truck owned by Air-Speed Oil Co. struck the back of a car in which Townsend was a passenger.

The postponement of the hearing was made by agreement of both parties, Buzzard reported.

Townsend's injuries resulted in him being paralyzed from the waist down.

Jerry Culberson, who was also a passenger in the car, died in an Amarillo hospital as a result of injuries which he received.

Other developments resulting from the same collision has resulted in the filing of a suit by J. T. and Carl Brown against Air-Speed Oil for $25,000.

The suit states that as a result of neck injuries and a fractured skull which Carl Brown received in the collision the youth suffers from recurring blackouts and dizzy spells.

No date has been set for the trial of this suit.

Investigating Deportation Of Hungarians

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is investigating Russia's reported deportation to Siberia of thousands of Hungarian freedom fighters, American officials said today.

If the deportation move is confirmed, the United States may take formal steps to denounce the action and call on Russia to return the uprooted Hungarians. Or it may introduce a resolution in the United Nations condemning the forced removal of Hungarians from their homeland.

The State Department said it had a preliminary one-word reaction to news of the deportation of Hungarians: "Revulsion."

Press Officer Lincoln White said the matter "is under urgent consideration."

Officials said the deportation would be a violation of the International Convention on Genocide which the Soviet Union has signed. That agreement bars removal of populations to accomplish political goals and also outlaws mass extermination of peoples.

Russia previously has been accused before the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization of violating the convention.

Officer To Pick Up Wanted Man

Sheriff Rufe Jordan reported today that an officer from his department would probably leave this week end for Marshalltown, Iowa, to return Kenneth Wayne Bland, alias Wayne Larue, to Pampa for trial on charges of burglarizing the Panhandle Fisher Grain Co. last August.

Bland, or Larue, waived extradition last Monday and Jordan has been waiting until an officer in his department had the time to make the trip to return Bland to Pampa. Bland took blank checks, a check protector and cancelled checks from the grain firm when he broke in.

He forged checks on a Panhandle Bank and passed them in Wheeler, Roberts and Hutchinson Counties in Texas and also gave some of the forged checks in Kansas.

Bill Waters, district attorney, stated that after Bland had answered the charges in Gray, Roberts and Wheeler Counties, all of which are in the 31st Judicial District, he will be turned over to Hutchinson County authorities to answer charges in that county.

Good Representation Of Hotel Sales Force Attends Meeting

Practically all of the sales personnel of the general sales force which will sell stock in the proposed community hotel for Pampa attended the final rally of the group yesterday afternoon in the Palm Room.

H. W. Rohrer, assistant campaign director, who is directing activities of the group reported that only a few of the groups still need to sign up salesmen to have the necessary number.

Philo C. Dix, campaign director, explained the operation of the general sales campaign and answered questions that sales personnel had.

Fred Neslage, general sales manager, and Ed Myatt, manager of the Men's Section, played the part of salesmen while E. O. Wedgeworth, assistant sales manager, played the part of a prospective subscriber in two demonstrations on selling stock. The first demonstration was on "how not to sell stock," and the other was on "how to sell stock." In the demonstation on how to sell stock the three men answered many of questions which will be asked of the sales personnel.

The executive committee met this morning in the Palm Room and substantial reports were made on the obtaining of advance subscriptions by the committee. The total of advnce sales was given as $263,000.

The committee will meet again at 7 a.m. tomorrow in Johnson's Cafe for another report meeting.

The general sales campaign will be kicked off tomorrow night at 7 o'clock with a dinner in the Palm Room. All members of the executive committee and the general sales force have been urged to attend this very important meeting.

Officials of the Borger Hotel will be present at the meeting and will report on what was accomplised in Borger.

The general sales force will meet again at noon Saturday in the Palm Room when they will sign their individual stock subscriptions.

Commissioners Canvassing Votes

The Commissioners Court of Gray County met this morning in county court for the purpose of canvassing the returns from Tuesday's voting, and to approve bills for the payment of costs incurred in both the most recent and last week's presidential elections.

The figures as reported by the commissioners thus far are $2000 for the presidential elections and $800 for this week's amendment balloting. In this week's balloting, the cost does not include precinct 7, whose bill has not been received yet, and neither of the two figures include the cost of supplies used for the elections.

Pearl Harbor Teems With Warships

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (UP)— Pearl Harbor was teeming with more combat-ready warships today than at any time since World War II.

It was a part of the Navy's "accelerated schedule" to improve America's defenses in the Pacific during the Middle East crisis.

The attack aircraft carrier Philippine Sea steamed into Pearl Harbor Wednesday with four destroyers as her escorts.

Already at the big naval base were three cruisers and four other destroyers. They arrived Sunday.

Their appearance spoiled the holiday weekend for Navy and civilian suppliers. The seven ships issued "hundreds of requisitions for fuel, spare parts and provisions," the Navy said.

The carriers Yorktown and Shangri-La steamed through the Golden Gate on Tuesday and were expected at Pearl this weekend. Navy officials refused to confirm West Coast reports that the carrier Wasp was being readied at San Diego for Far East duty.

Shivers Won't Run For U. S. Senate

By O. B. LLOYD, JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN (UP)—Gov. Allan Shivers has scuttled the possibility he might run for the U.S. Senate and cast the balance of power pro-Eisenhower vote when Congress convenes Jan. 3.

However, in response to known pressure from friends, he has left the door open for a later entry into a contest for the Senate seat now held by governor-elect Price Daniel.

His own announced policy has erased the chance Shivers might call a special election that could see a successor to Daniel seated by Jan 3.

Shivers Insists

The governor insists Texas law requires that the special election be called not less than 60 nor more than 90 days after the vacancy occurs.

This means that, even if Shivers called a special election today, it could not be held until the middle of January—60 days hence—and after Congress convenes Jan. 3.

And the governor says that under Daniel's resignation, there will be no vancay until Jan. 15—the date mentioned by the governor-elect in his letter of resignation to Shivers.

Daniel takes office as governor Jan. 15. But he has announced if no successor is elected—and Daniel possibly fearing the governor's power of appointment, stresses the word "elected"—by Jan.

Pampan's Mother Dies Today

Mrs. Tom Modgelin, the mother of a Pampa woman, died this morning at 3 a.m. in a San Angelo hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Modgelin was the mother of Mrs. John Bowers of Pampa. She was 87. Funeral services will be held in Bronte, her home town, Saturday.

Man Fined On Driving Charge

Theodore Day Hill of Houston pleaded guilty in County Court this morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in the county jail by the court.

Hill was arrested by officers of the police department at 10:45 p.m. yesterday when they observed the manner in which he was driving in the 500 block of W. Brown.

Preparation Is Urged For Floats

All the organizations of the city, including schools and churches, have been urged by Hugh Peeples, chairman of the merchants activities committee to start making plans for the entry of a float in this year's Santa Day parade to be held on Dec. 6 at 3:30 p.m.

Cash prizes of $50, $25, and $15, first, second and thrid prize respectively will be awarded to the group having the best display.

Peeples said that the only restriction for the floats will be that they must portray or relate themselves to Christmas in some way. There will be no Santa Clauses permitted other than Santa himself who will arrive earlier by helicopter.

Bonn this morning that any "volunteers" who apply for assignment to the Middle East will be turned back.

The Syrian minister said an earlier Arab plea for volunteers was made at a time when Anglo-French aggression had just started and before the United Nations stepped in.

No Volunteers Present

They said they were speaking also for the Arab ambassadors and ministers here of Iraq, Lebanon, the Yemen, Syria, the Sudan, and Jordan. The two envoys said no Soviet "volunteers" were on Arab soil at the present.

"Volunteers do not come if one does not ask for them," their statement said. "Today we no longer need them."

Hammarskjold himself was arriving in Italy this morning for talks with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, head of the first such police force in history, on the actual duties of the units.

Hammarskjold will fly on almost immediately to Cairo for negotiations with President Gamal Abdel Nasser whose demands for a virtual "veto" on the U.N. force's activities have aroused opposition by Britain, France and Israel.

The departure of the U.N. force was against the background of rising tension between Israel and its Arab neighbors and the threat that Soviet "volunteers" would begin swarming into the Middle East in great numbers.

Ike Issues Warning

President Eisenhower warned Wednesday the United States will oppose the introduction of Soviet and Chinese Communist "volunteers". He emphasized the United States would work with the framework of the U.N.

Moscow radio has attacked for days British, French and Israeli "aggression" in the Middle East and warned that the Soviets might send in armed "volunteers" to restore order.

Wednesday the situation took a critical turn when Arab sources in Moscow said the Cairo, government was asking for immediate dispatch of the "volunteers" and Moscow radio said the Kremlin had no objection.

Negroes Cheer Decision

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP)—Thousands of Negroes cheered the Supreme Court decision against segregation on buses but voted Wednesday night to maintain their local transit boycott until a Federal Court decree actually goes into effect.

The Rev. Martin Luther King, leader of the Negroes' 11-month fight for the right to mingle freely with white riders on city buses, said he expected a mandate from the Supreme Court to reach the Federal District Court here in "just a few days."

The Montgomery Improvement Assn., formed by the Negroes soon after their bus boycott began last Dec. 5, recommended the boycott end in view of the court ruling. But it also recommended a "return to the buses on a non-segregated basis" be delayed until the district court issues a decree.

Some 5,000 Negroes assembled at two separate mass meetings cheered the recommendations and voted their approval.

King told the meetings that relay of the Supreme Court decision to the district court is a "purely procedural matter," but that a delay in ending the boycott is necessary because "reactionary elements" might otherwise "plunge us into needless harassment and meaningless litigation."

Less Meat At Higher Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department says there will be slightly less meat available in 1957. It will sell at higher prices than in 1956.

"Hog slaughter especially will be less than in 1956," the department said Wednesday. "Fully as many cattle likely will be slaughtered as in 1956, but average carcass weights may be enough lighter to pull down the total output of beef to some extent.

"Prices for hogs will be higher than in 1956. Those for cattle are expected at least to stay above their lowest points of 1956 and may average slightly above that year. With little change in slaughter in prospect, prices for sheep and lambs also might average slightly higher in 1957."

Democrats Lead Slim

Indications are that the Democrats will hold a one vote majority in the Senate on Jan. 3. If Daniel should be replaced with a pro-Eisenhower Texan, the tie would be broken by Vice President Richard Nixon and the Republicans would control the upper chamber. Sen. Lyndon Johnson would lose his job as majority leader.

Pressure that Shivers enter the Senate race was given a new build-up by Emmett M. Compton, a Dallas railroad executive, who saw the governor briefly Wednesday. Compton told newsmen Shivers was "too good a man to lose. We need him." The Dallas executive said he was urging his friends to write Shivers, calling upon him to run for the Senate.

Daniel Renews Plea

Simultaneously, Daniel renewed his plea that Shivers call an immediate election to name his successor. He said the governor is circumventing the law if he does not.

Daniel cited precedents going back more than a century to bolster his argument that a special election can be called immediately.

Shivers contends an election can't be held until Daniel actually quits the Senate post.

Andrew Johnson was conspicuous as the only Southern member of Congress who refused to secede with his state in the Civil War.

Committee Calls 100 Witnesses

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities today called for testimony from about 100 additional witnesses on alleged Communist-front moves to subvert subversive control laws and undermine groups like the FBI and American Legion.

Committee counsel Richard Arens said the witnesses had been subpenaed and would be heard at a series of hearings at undisclosed locations outside Washington. The committee expects to leave "for the West" in about a week, he said.

Committee Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa), co-author of the McCarran-Walter law, said the committee has been "disappointed" in the testimony received so far. He said he had hoped that 'perfe ctly eteirlbrts's r'uRfsaae after Russia's "perfectly terrible attack" on Hungary some of the "hard-boiled" American Communists would volunteer some help to the committee to bolster U.S. security.

Shrimp Boat In Port After Tampico Run

By JOHN WILLOUGHBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UP) — A bullet-nicked American shrimp trawler, whose skipper was wounded by Mexican gunfire off the Gulf of Mexico Monday night, arrived in Brownsville today after a 16-hour voyage from Tampico, Mex.

Capt. Tom Wilson of the Pescador was woundded in the back during a three-hour chase in which he said a Mexican gunboat tried to ram his trawler in international waters.

Wilson arrived by chartered airplane Wednesday in Brownsville, and declared the Mexicans were shooting at him with rifles in an effort to kill him.

His boat and a sister trawler, the Joyce Carinhas, returned together from Tampico, where Wilson said the Mexicans forced his trawler to put into port. The Pescador was returned by Wilson's two-man crew.

Wilson claimed the incident occurred on the high seas.

Vice Admiral Cuauhtemoc Perez Zavala of the Mexican Navy, however, said in Tampico that the shrimp boat, the Pescador, was in Mexican waters when the chase began. He said Wilson was wounded "by accident" when the gunboat lurched and the bullet hit Wilson.

Wilson arrived, bearded and barefooted, by plane Wednesday from Tampico. He said the shooting was no accident.

The clash was the latest in a series between Mexican gunboats and shrimp fishermen. American shrimpers have charged that Mexican gunboats chase them on the open waters and confiscate their catches, plus making them pay fines to get their boat back. Mexican gunboat captains claim the Americans are poaching in Mexico's territorial waters.

Wilson said "during the sea chase of more than three hours, the gunboat tried to ram me, time after time. There were about 15 men on the gunboat. They were shooting at me with high-powered rifles and they were shooting to kill."

After he was wounded, he said, he crawled inside to his radio to ask for help. Then, he said, "the Mexicans kept cluttering up the airwaves to keep my call from going out."

He said he was instructed to put into port and finally put in at Tampico with his two-man crew. From Tampico, he was permitted to fly home. He said the bullet went into his back, through a kidney and out his left side, but he was able to fly home after treatment.

He was accompanied on the flight by his wife and sister, Mrs. Marie Domingues of Freeport, Tex., who went to Tampico to help him.

The two crewmen were bringing the Pescador back to Brownsville from Tampico.

The Bible speaks of the four corners of the earth and for this reason some early map-makers drew up square maps.

The catamount, cougar, American lion, mountain lion, puma and panther are all the same animal.

Seattle, Wash., covers an area of 90 square miles.

Junior Red Cross Has Meeting

The local Junior Red Cross council held its annual meeting earlier this week.

H. A. Yoder, JRC chairman, presided. Invocation was given by Aaron Meek. Financial report of the year's work was given by Mrs. Libby Shotwell and a report of the activities of the year was given by Yoder. Each school was commended for its activities in JRC.

David Smith, president of the high school JRC, introduced J.B. Copeland, who talked on his trip to the JRC training camp at Morrilton, Ark., last summer.

Enrollment will begin in the schools this week and continue throughout this month. Each room will attempt to enroll each school child in the elementary and secondary schools for the coming year.

Present for the breakfast meeting were: Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools; Jack Edmondson, principal of Pampa High School; Cameron Marsh, Howard Graham, Jack Nichols, principal of Junior High; Miss Roy Riley, Meek, W. B. Roderick, Sam Begert, Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams, Homer Craig, Mrs. Sue Snyder, Yoder, Roy Sparkman, John Evans, and Sybil Turner.

Danny Kaye Makes Debut On Television December 2

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Danny Kaye makes an unprecedented television debut simultaneously in 11 countries Dec. 2 — in a 90-minute program for which he gets exactly nothing.

No other comedian has held out from TV for so long. And he's the only entertainer whose program will be televised at the same time in nearly every country that has TV.

Kay's unusual show has no script or even plot. And he bravely admits that his comedy routines are often upstaged by his supporting "cast" — thousands of children from all over the world. The slender comedian with the expressive hands will be seen on TV for first time in a unique film he made for UNICEF — the UN organization that helps sick and needy children over the globe.

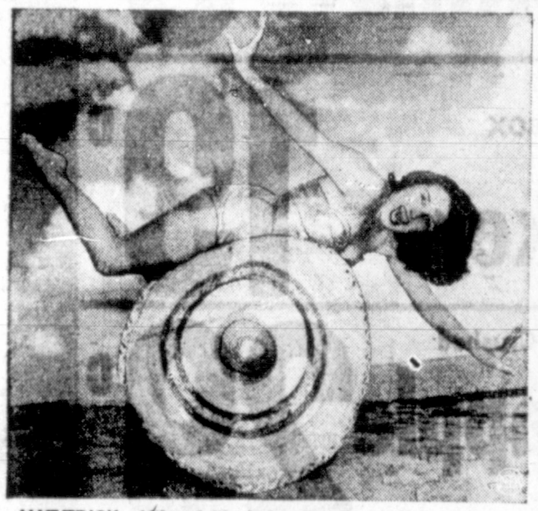

CBS-TV asked to show the film as a special feature of Ed Murrow's "See It Now" program. Like Kaye, neither Murrow nor CBS will collect a penny from the project. If the show is sponsored the money will go to UNICEF.

"I'm doing this program as a public service because it's very rewarding," Danny explained as he sat in the sunny living room of his home in a canyon near Beverly Hills.

"It's a great satisfaction to feel that people will learn what UNICEF is. Eventually the film will do a lot of good."

Kaye has been working for UNICEF for four years. He made one film about the group's work in the Far East that was shown in theaters as "Assignment Children." That won him a special Oscar two years ago.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!

They "flattened" Yukon mountains with the most modern truck V8's of all!

Rated G.V.W. of these payload-carrying heavyweights goes all the way up to 32,000 pounds!

New V8-powered '57 Chevrolet trucks, heavily loaded, made one of the world's toughest roads look easy! In a straight-through test run, they rolled over the famous ALCAN Highway to Alaska—in less than 45 hours (normally a 72-hour run). Here's proof-in-action of power that'll handle your toughest jobs—and keep coming back for more!

Whatever your job, there's an Alcan-proved Chevrolet Task-Force truck ready right now to save you time and money!

Six new Task-Force huskies made the run. And six ultra-modern Chevy engines proved their power and performance—with gas mileage up to 18.17 miles per gallon! Two of the engines were not stopped once, and they hummed along at peak efficiency the entire 1,520 miles!

Chevy's big V8's—including the new 283-cu.-in. Super Taskmaster—turned in top performance jobs. They hauled typical loads up and down towering grades and through washouts that sucked wheels into hub-deep mud. They roared on through miles of heavy dust that narrowed visibility to a few hundred feet. And in spite of the varying altitudes and temperatures, not a single truck was forced to drop out or turn back! Stop by and see them soon!

Alcan run supervised, certified by the AAA.

An Eye-Witness Account Of The Shrimp Boat Captain Shooting

(EDITORS NOTE: Albert Daisy of Brownsville, Tex., is captain of the shrimp trawler Min. His boat was anchored near the trawler Pescador when a Mexican gunboat gave chase to the Pescador off Tampico and wounded the Pescador's captain with rifle shot. Here is Daisy's eyewitness account).

By ALBERT DAISY

As told to United Press

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UP)—My shrimp boat Min was anchored in about 23 fathoms of water when the Mexican gunboat showed up about 5:45 p.m. Monday.

There were about 10 American trawlers within a two-mile area and about 40 of us in a 10-mile area.

None of us was fishing. We were just sitting there waiting for nightfall so we could catch some brown shrimp.

Suddenly this Mexican gunboat shows up. He starts yelling over the side for one of our boats to follow him into port. The rest of us started getting out of there.

We headed in all different directions. We really scattered.

But the gunboat took out after the Pescador, skippered by Tom Wilson. Tom's got a crew of only two Mexican boys who don't speak English. The chase went on for about three hours.

Now and then I would catch sight of the Mexican boat's lights. All of our boats had put on their lights.

Suddenly the gunboat opened fire and the next thing I knew Tom was speaking over the short wave radio that he had been hit.

"I'm bleeding," he yelled. "I can't breathe."

He Keeps Contact

"I kept close contact with Tom for several hours. He told us that the gunboat captain had wanted him to sign a blank piece of paper. Tom said he wouldn't do it.

He got back to his radio and kept complaining to us that he was bleeding real bad. Tom said he asked the gunboat crewmen why they shot him.

"They told me they shot me because I wouldn't stop," Tom said. "I told them they never had asked me to stop. They shot me with a high-powered rifle."

There were two Coast Guard cutters in radio contact with Tom, the Triton and the Sebago. I think there was an admiral and a congressman on the Sebago.

Tom Gets Advice

Some of the Coast Guardsmen kept giving advice to Tom on how to take it easy. Tom went a long time without medical care.

I lost radio contact with Tom about 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. He still had not got into Tampico, and he said the gunboat was still right behind him.

I got home to Brownsville about 5:30 p. m. Tuesday and I was sure glad to get out of that mess. They'll never get me to sign one of those blank pieces of paper. Those gunboat crewmen have never boarded my boat and they never will if I can help it.

New Frozen Soup Stars At Autumn Parties

SOUP'S the thing for autumn parties. Especially now with a new frozen condensed soup . . . Old Fashioned Vegetable With Beef. Each can contains 1¼ cups condensed soup, 2½ cups when prepared. Can weight is 10¼ ounces.

A rich brothy soup, it's loaded with flavor-bright vegetables and chunks of tender beef. Carrots and peas, tomatoes, potatoes . . . in fact a whole garden-full of vegetables is in the soup. And you'll soon find this grand new frozen specialty in local grocery stores.

Starting with this newest soup . . . or one of your long-time favorites, you're on the way to happy autumn entertaining. Look around for new gay ways to serve a hot, heart-warming potage at your bridge luncheon or the buffet supper. Try your prettiest casserole with the candle-warmer for the Vegetable-Beef Soup. Lovely enough to be the centerpiece on the buffet. What could be a more delightful way to entertain after the football game, or at Sunday eve's TV party.

You'll find heaps of new soup ideas to feature . . . such as the Old Fashioned Vegetable With Beef with the addition of some cooked spaghetti or fancy-shaped macaroni (SOUP ITALIANO). Or try the always-popular condensed cream of celery soup with lobster added . . . to make ORIENTAL FANCY BISQUE.

Soup Italiano

1 can (10¼-ounce size) frozen condensed vegetable with beef soup
1 soup can water
1 cup drained cooked chick peas or cooked fancy-shaped macaroni or spaghetti

Combine soup and water; heat until soup is completely thawed. Add cooked chick peas or macaroni; heat. Serve with potato chips, crackers, and pretzels. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Oriental Fancy Bisque

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of celery soup
1 soup can milk
1 cup flaked, cooked lobster (5-ounce can, drained)
¼ teaspoon ground dill
1 tablespoon chopped chives

Combine all ingredients except chives; heat. Garnish soup with chopped chives. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

FNS

Beef, Sweet Potatoes Give Casserole Treat

Folks who like sweet potatoes with rich cream gravy will enjoy this meat and vegetable casserole. It's a savory combination of dried beef and sweet potatoes baked with a slightly seasoned cream sauce.

SAVORY DRIED BEEF CASSEROLE

¼ cup minced onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2½ cups milk
½ pound dried beef
6 medium sweet potatoes, cooked
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs

Cook onion in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine over low heat 5 minutes. Blend in flour and add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Check the label to see if the dried beef needs rinsing before cooking. If so, rinse according to directions. Cut sweet potatoes into ½ inch slices and place in alternate layers with beef in a greased 2 quart casserole. Pour sauce over potatoes and meat. Toss bread crumbs with remaining butter and sprinkle over casserole. Bake at 350 degrees F. 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Red is without a doubt the most difficult color a mature woman can undertake to wear. But if you really love it and want it in your wardrobe, confine it to small splashes in a choker necklace, a pair of gloves a scarf or some flowers.

Frozen Cranberry Dessert Is Delicious

A red cranberry sauce layered with sweet rice makes this dessert as pretty as it is delicious. Since the dessert is frozen, it can be made ahead and always be ready to serve. Sometime, you may want to serve this dessert as a salad since it is like a frozen fruit salad.

1 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
1¼ cups milk
½ cup beet or cane sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
3 cups fresh uncooked cranberries
1¼ cups water
¾ cup white seedless raisins
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans
¾ cup beet or cane sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Put the rice, 2 cups water and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat down. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Stir in ¾ cup of the milk and ½ cup beet or cane sugar. Cover and cook over a low heat, stirring occasionally, until the milk is absorbed. Stir in the vanilla. Uncover and cool.

While the rice cooks, place the cranberries in one cup of the water. Cook slowly until the skins pop. Stir occasionally. Put through a sieve. Place in a saucepan. Add the reamining ¼ cup of water and the raisins. Cover and cook slowly about 10 minutes or until the raisins are soft. Stir in the pecans, ¾ cup sugar and lemon juice. After the sugar dissolves, taste. Add more sugar if desired.

After the rice cools, stir in the remaining ½ cup of milk. Layer the rice and cranberry mixture in a deep refrigerator freezing tray. The bottom and top layers should be of the rice mixture. Cover with waxed paper and freeze. If the mixture becomes quite hard, remove from freezer to coldest part of refrigerator and allow to soften some before serving. This recipe makes 10 servings.

Varied Stuffings Dress Up Meats

With the advent of the holiday season, homemakers throughout the country make more of an effort to add a little extra something to dress up the family meals.

Reba Staggs, well known home economist, states that various stuffings add a note of distinction, without much effort, to a meat cut . . .either beef, veal, pork or lamb. Actually, seasonal holidays call for special dress so why not start now to make plans to dress up your meals.

For an economical lamb dinner around the holiday season, plan on lamb shanks stuffed with a celery-rice stuffing. See if the family doesn't exclaim over this innovation.

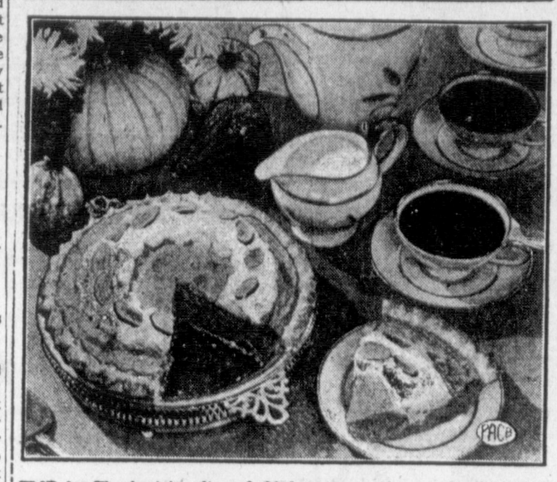

Lamb Shanks — Celery-Rice Stuffing

6 lamb shanks
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water or enough to cover
¾ cup rice
½ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning

Brown the lamb shanks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add salt, pepper and water. Cover and simmer until tender, about 2 hours. Remove meat from broth. When shanks are cool enough to handle, remove bones. Cook rice in lamb broth. Drain rice, saving broth. Combine cooked rice, celery and poultry seasoning. Stuff shanks with celery-rice mixture. Place in baking dish. Pour remaining lamb broth over stuffed shanks. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until heated through. Yield: 6 servings.

THANKSGIVING FINALE

Priscilla's Pumpkin Pie and Coffee

PIE for Thanksgiving dinner? Of course! A sweet slice of pie and a steaming cup of coffee—everybody knows that's the way to end this most festive of meals. The question is, will it be pumpkin pie or mince? Our suggestion is that it be both — pumpkin and mince temptingly blended into the same luscious confection. Priscilla's Pumpkin Pie it's called—a dessert to truly grace the Thanksgiving board.

Light in texture, yet tangy and delectable, this unusual pie is made-to-order for the holiday feast. A touch of mincemeat, the zesty flavors of orange peel and spices all combine magically with the pumpkin. And here's an important busy-day asset: Priscilla's Pie needs no baking and can be prepared 'way ahead of serving time. At the last moment, add a snowy wreath of whipped cream and toasted Brazil nuts.

When the family groans happily, pushes slightly away from the table and settles back to wait for dessert —that's the moment to bring in this bodacious and beautiful pie. With it, of course, you'll be serving steaming, fragrant coffee from your favorite coffee pot. And don't forget to have enough coffee on hand for seconds to accompany the leisurely conversation that is such a happy part of every family party.

Priscilla's Pumpkin Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon each, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ginger
¾ cup evaporated milk
2 eggs, separated
1¼ cups canned or cooked pumpkin
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
½ cup orange juice
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ cup cold cooked mincemeat*
1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Combine gelatine, brown sugar, salt and spices in top of double boiler. Stir in evaporated milk and egg yolks. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatine dissolves, about 6 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in pumpkin, orange peel and orange juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add granulated sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into pumpkin mixture. Spoon mincemeat evenly in pastry shell. Turn pumpkin mixture on top. Chill until firm. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and sliced, toasted Brazil nuts.

*Left-over mincemeat may be used to make mincemeat drop cookies, tarts or turnovers

Cranberry Dessert With Rice, Meringue

This cranberry dessert has a cranberry-coconut meringue! Put ½ cup uncooked white rice, 2 cups milk and ½ teaspoon salt in a greased 1½ quart baking dish. Cover and bake in a 325 degree F. oven 45 minutes or until the rice is tender. Stir occasionally. While the rice cooks, mix together 1, 1-pound can (2 cups) jellied cranberry sauce, ¼ cup beet or cane sugar, ½ cup shredded coconut and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Beat 2 egg whites until they peak. Gradually add ¼ cup beet or cane sugar, beating after each addition and until the egg whites are stiff. Fold half the cranberry-coconut mixture into the egg whites.

After the rice cooks, stir in 2 beaten egg yolks and the remaining cranberry-coconut mixture. (The mixture which was not added to the egg whites.) Spread the cranberry-coconut-egg white mixture over the top. Bake in a 325 degree F. oven until the meringue is brown.

Doughnuts Are In Height Of Popularity As Easy-To-Prepare Fare For Parties

Doughnuts are in the height of their popularity as winds blow chill and the moon shines over the harvest. They are perfect fare for fall parties for they can be dressed up in a jiffy. Using doughnuts purchased from bakery or food shop, add a topping, a filling or a special frosting.

For evening bridge, serve cheese - toasted doughnuts. Perfect for nibbling with coffee or cocoa at the fireside party are maple - toasted doughnuts, cinnamon toasties and mocha cream doughnuts.

CHEESE TOASTED DOUGHNUTS

½ dozen plain doughnuts
¾ cup grated sharp cheese

Slice doughnuts in half, crosswise and sprinkle each half with one tablespoon cheese. Heat in a shallow pan in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for five minutes. Yields 12 doughnuts.

MAPLE TOASTED DOUGHNUTS

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons maple flavored syrup
4 doughnuts
¼ teaspoon cinnamon, if desired

Melt butter in a skillet. Add syrup and blend. Cut doughnuts in half, horizontally, and place, cut side down, into skillet until toasted. Sprinkle toasted doughnuts with cinnamon, if desired, and serve. Yields 4 servings.

CINNAMON TOASTIES

½ dozen plain doughnuts
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Slice doughnuts in half, crosswise and spread each half with ½ teaspoon butter. Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle ½ teaspoon cinnamon sugar mixture on each doughnut half. Heat in a shallow pan in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for five minutes. Yields 12 toasties.

MOCHA CREAM DOUGHNUTS

½ cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
½ teaspoon instant coffee
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
4 plain doughnuts
2 teaspoons chopped nuts

Beat cream, confectioners' sugar, coffee and vanilla extract together with a rotary beater until stiff. Slice doughnuts in half, crosswise. Spread 2 tablespoons cream mixture between halves of each doughnut. Fill the center of each doughnut with 1 tablespoon cream mixture and sprinkle ½ teaspoon nuts over top. Yields 4 doughnuts.

The plunging neckline and the strapless evening dress look their prettiest on young women. For mature women, there are many soft, cover-up versions of the evening gown.

Sausage And Apples

Spicy pork sausage and seasonally plentiful apples are a winning team for cold weather meals. In this recipe, juicy red apples, with only their top edges pared, are cored and stuffed with flavorful sausage meat. Sprinkle them with brown sugar for a glazed top.

Sausage Stuffed Apples

1 pound pork sausage meat
6 large cooking apples
6 teaspoons brown sugar
1 cup water

Brown meat 10 minutes over low heat. Pour off drippings. Core apples and pare a ring of peel from top edge. Stuff with sausage. Place in a greased baking dish and sprinkle each with a teaspoon sugar. Add water, cover dish, and bake at 250 degrees F. 25 minutes or until apples are tender. 6 servings.

Shrimp Scarce; Tension Gets High In The Gulf Of Mexico

By JACK WILLOUGHBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UP) — It's hard to make much money as a commercial shrimp fisherman these days — the shrimp are getting scarce. This is why there is growing tension between the United States and Mexico which has led to shooting on the high seas.

Salty trawler captains on the docks of Brownsville and nearby Port Isabel, Tex., will tell you of the good old days when a man could make $15,000 a year sailing out into the northern Gulf of Mexico and coming back with boatloads of fresh brown shrimp.

Morgan City, La., was the major base of operations then. But Louisiana shrimp got small and scarce, and fishermen migrated here, starting about 12 years ago. There are about 50 boats based at Brownsville and Port Isabel, averaging 60 feet in length and carrying a crew of three to seven men.

Trouble Starts

Several years ago the shrimpers started having trouble with Mexico. The situation has become progressively worse, culminating in Monday night's chase in which a Mexican gunner shot and seriously wounded Capt. Tom Wilson of Brownsville, skipper of the Pescador, after a three-hour chase in the Gulf.

Brownsville captains and boat owners are demanding more protection from the U.S. Coast Guard. At a mass meeting Tuesday night they protested the shooting incident and threatened to arm their boats.

At Tampico, Mexico, more than 100 miles south of here, Mexican shrimpers made the same threats and accused U.S. trawlers of "piracy," — that is, fishing in Mexican territorial waters.

Fishing's a Gamble

Fishing is a gamble, at best, for Texas shrimpers. Besides the fact that there aren't as many shrimp as there used to be in the northern Gulf, the dispute with Mexico hinges on these factors:

1. The best place for shrimp is in shallow water near the shore.

2. Mexico claims its territorial waters extend nine nautical miles, equivalent to nearly 13 land miles, from the coast.

3. American captains admit they sometimes drop their big nets near this limit, but say they have never crossed the imaginary line. They said the limit should be three miles, the generally recognized international territorial limit.

In the past four months, according to Bascom Cox, lawyer for the Texas Shrimp Fishermen's Association, about 40 trawler captains have been stopped by Mexican gunboats near Tampico.

Procedure Same

Cox said the same procedure has been followed in each incident. The captains have been forced to sign either blank pieces of paper or statements admitting they were inside Mexican territorial waters. Often their catches have been confiscated.

As shrimp have migrated south, Texas skippers have been forced to travel further and further from home to get them.

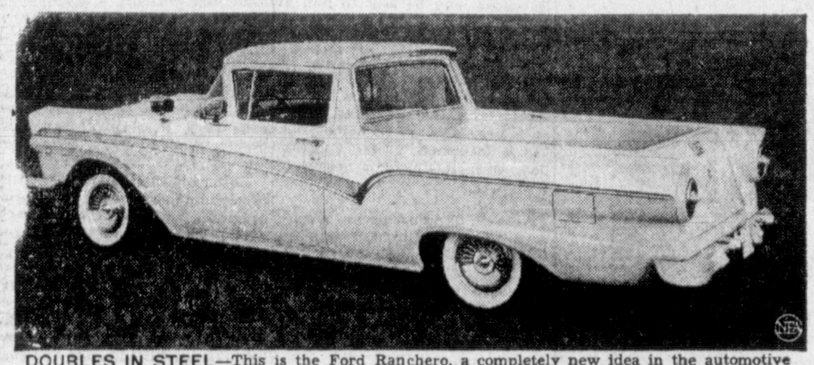

Capt. Albert Daisy, whose shrimp boat was in the same vicinity as Wilson's at the time of the shooting, got home Tuesday night and said:

"I was sure glad to get out of that mess. They'll never get me to sign one of those blank pieces of paper. Those gunboat crewmen have never boarded my boat and they never will if I can help it."

Maverick's "Mavericks"

In 1845, Samuel Maverick, a Texas pioneer, reluctantly acquired a herd of cattle in payment of a debt owed him. He did not mark them with a brand and they strayed. Ranchers in the region came to call them "mavericks" and today all unmarked cattle are so called.

DOUBLES IN STEEL—This is the Ford Ranchero, a completely new idea in the automotive world—a commercial vehicle combining the comforts of a passenger car with the utility of a light pickup truck. It was recently unveiled in Quitman, Ga. From the front bumper to its midpoint, it resembles a passenger car; from there to the rear it is a highly styled pickup truck with a payload capacity of nearly three-quarters of a ton. It is expected to be available in January.

Careful Mr. Wright

When Frank Lloyd Wright, the world-famed architect, calmly announced plans to build a mile-high building—that's right, MILE-high—the structural engineering world was startled. This would be a building of 510 stories, 5280 feet from ground to rooftop! It would dwarf the 1250-foot Empire State building, now the world's tallest, to the comparative insignificance of a woodshed.

While Mr. Wright's proposal startled engineers, it by no means made them all incredulous. The genius architect, now 87, has achieved wonders in his line. He's mighty apt to accomplish anything he decides to do. Even this.

Mr. Wright's prospective site for his mile-high building is Chicago. His building would, he says, house employes of the State of Illinois, Cook county, and the City of Chicago—to the number of 100,000. And in that part of his plan—his tenants, not the building—lies cause for concern.

The custom might spread—putting up mile-high buildings to accommodate the armies of public employes of all states, counties and great cities! In some places, to hold them all, buildings might go up two miles, even three or four miles. Then there are the millions of federal employes! To make room for a building big enough for them, Wright would have to move the Washington Monument out of D. C.

Presently there'd be no building materials left for anything else—for new factories, for homes. Industry would stagnate. America become a vast ghost town . . . Just where, Mr. Wright, would you stop?

Time For The Stars

If you're tired of the humdrum and the workaday, get hold of Robert A. Heinlein's new book, "Time for the Stars" (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, $2.75). This is the newest in a parade of science fiction masterpieces from the pen of one of Colorado Springs' most distinguished men of letters.

"Time for the Stars" concerns two fascinating subjects delightfully blended in this current opus. They are space travel and mental telepathy.

The time of the story is laid somewhere in the future beyond the "Concord of Bayreuth" which, since it occurred in 1980, is already ancient history.

Prime mover in the story, and in welcome contrast to too much dependence on government by most science fiction writers, is what is called the "Long Range Foundation" This repository of vast sums is an organization which tackles "long range" projects. And the particular long range project in the purview of the story is the problem of finding adequate living space in the universe for earth's continually expanding population.

It seems that Mars and Venus, together with other planets in our solar system, have been long since found inimical to human life. Therefore, it is "Time for the Stars" and the hope that somewhere in the infinity of space will be found other planets, circling other suns, which have the necessary conditions for sustaining human life.

It seems that various efforts to discover such planets have been made before. But the problem of the time lag in interstellar travel as related to all known means of communication has led the scientists into a blind alley. When travel is conducted by torch ship at a shade the near side of the speed of light, radio transmission is simply too slow to be practical.

But the Long Range Foundation has a possible solution. Identical twins are known to have communication sympathy each with their opposite. Enter the Bartlett pair, Tom and Pat. One of them is to go on a ship provided by the L. R. F. The other is to stay at home and receive the telepathic messages. For it turns out that mental telepathy is instantaneous and thus far faster than the speed of light!

We will not deprive our readers of the fun and fascination of following the adventures of one of these twins cast in the role of hero, as he journeys to far Tau Ceti, and assists in discovering a planet suitable for earth colonizing. Nor of the even more exciting experiences that ensue when the ship pushes on to Beta Ceti in an effort to double the score.

All sorts of problems develop, including the one caused by "slippage" — the pulling apart of the time sequence between earth and a roving space ship so that the traveling twin is experiencing only the passing of weeks while the earth-bound member of the communications team is experiencing the passing of years.

You'll like the way Heinlein propounds his theories and then discusses them in such a matter-of-fact manner that they become almost believable.

The ending is a surprise which entrenches the illusion of future reality, and leaves one wondering if maybe the author isn't right all along.

"Time for the Stars" will be a colorful addition to anyone's science fiction book shelf.

"Resist Not Evil"—
Consequences

II.

I want to continue to quote from Frederic Bastiat's chapter on "Responsibility."

It will be remembered that Bastiat starts out the chapter with "There is a leading idea which runs through the whole of this work, which pervades and animates every page and every line of; and that idea is embodied in the opening words of the Christian Creed,—I believe in God."

And his idea of God was that God is eternal law, principle, rule, order, harmony, and truth. He evidently did not believe in anthropomorphic God whose will could be changed by man's prayers.

Bastiat pointed out that the planners and the socialists were in reality attempting to substitute their will for God's will; that they were attempting to take away from man his punishment for his mistakes and thus his means of learning. He told how the socialist Fourier argued that God was incapable of preventing evil or man would be perfect. He pointed out how free will gives man a right to make errors and thus produce evil. Then Bastiat goes on to write:

"And this is, no doubt, the reason why those schools who are content with nothing less than absolute good are all materialist and fatalist. They are unable to admit free will. They see that liberty of acting proceeds from liberty of choosing; that liberty of choosing supposes the possibility of error; and that the possibility of error is the possibility of evil. Now, in an artificial society, such as our organisateurs invent, evil cannot make its appearance. For that reason, men must be exempted from the possibility of error; and the surest means to accomplish that is to deprive them of the faculty of acting and choosing — in other words, of free will. It has been truly said that Socialism is despotism incarnate.

"In presence of these fooleries, it may be asked, By what right does the organizer of artificial systems venture to think, act, and choose, not only for himself, but for every one else? for, after all, he belongs to the human race, and in that respect is fallible; and he is so much the more fallible in proportion as he pretends to extend the range of his science and his will.

"No doubt the organisateur finds this objection radically unfounded, inasmuch as it confounds him with the rest of mankind. But he professes to discover the defects of the Divine workmanship, and has undertaken to recast it, is more than a man; he is an oracle, and more an oracle. . ."

Responsibility Natural Link

"As regards the man who acts, Responsibility is the natural link which exists between the act and its consequences. It is a complete system of inevitable Rewards and Punishments which no man has invented, which acts with all the regularity of the great natural laws, and which may, consequently, be regarded as of Divine institution. The evident object of Responsibility is to restrain the number of hurtful actions, and increase the number of such as are useful.

"This mechanism, which is at once corrective and progressive, remunerative and retributive, is so simple, so near us, so identified with our whole being, so perpetually in action, that not only can we not ignore it, but we see that, like Evil, it is one of those phenomena without which our whole life would be to us unintelligible.

"The book of Genesis tells us that, the first man having been driven from the terrestrial paradise because he had learned to distinguish between good and evil, scienz bonum et malum, God pronounced this sentence on him: 'Cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt hou eat of it all the days of thy life: Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee . . . In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, until thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.' — Gen. 3: 17, 18, 19."

Evidently man in the time of the Garden of Eden was trying to prevent men, by the use of physical force, from suffering the consequences of their freedom of choice, and, of course, when man does not suffer the consequences of his freedom of choice, he loses his ability to develop. In other words, in the time of the Garden of Eden, they were doing about what most people in the United States, and especially the government and the socialists, are trying to do—namely, preventing people from reaping what they sow. And, of course, that is a complete violation of natural law.

"Here, then, we have good and evil — or human nature. Here we have acts and habits producing good or bad consequences—or human nature. Here we have labour, sweat, thorns, tribulation, and death — or human nature.

"Human nature, I say; for to choose, to be mistaken, to suffer, to rectify our errors — in a word, all the elements which make up the idea of Responsibility — are so inherent in our sensitive, rational, and free nature, they are so much of the essence of that nature itself, that I defy the most fertile imagination to conceive for man another mode of existence."

BID FOR A SMILE

"It's absurd for this man to charge us ten dollars for towing us three miles.

"That's all right; he's earning it —I have my brakes on."

Medal Of Honor Winners Assemble In Lakeland

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LAKELAND, Fla. — The ribbon of the Congressional Medal of Honor has white stars on a blue strip. The button worn on civvies is a pale blue rosette with white flecks. This honor actually makes Americans gasp in awe.

There are about 200 Medal of Honor men here for the first convention of their National Society, which was organized only eight years ago with eight members. This roster now has grown to 190 out of a total of about 338 owners of the Medal who are believed to be living.

They never had a society or any unity before 1948 and some of the men may be blase about their own heroic celebrity among other Americans. Some of those who are not accounted for may have died in obscurity.

Jimmy Walsh, of New York, whose limp is a souvenir of Vera Cruz in 1914, is in a hospital in New York. His friend Dick O'Neil, who got his Medal with the 165th New York on the Ourcaf River in France in 1918, reports that Jimmy is "not at all well." Claus Clausen, of Massepequa Park, L. I., was a coxswain aboard an old bucket called the Merrimac, which Junior Lieut. Richmond Pearson Hobson, U.S.N., ran aground in the channel at Santiago, Cuba, in 1898. He is the only man living of eight Navy volunteers for a desperate effort to bottle up the Spanish fleet. They did not succeed because a Spanish tug got under the Merrimac's stern and shot her rudder off.

The American Fleet lay outside and popped the Spaniards as they came out, the Battleship Colon and the cruisers Maria, Thersa, Viscaya and Oquinto.

Lieut. Hobson became a reigning toast of the country after the war and was kissed without mercy by many babes — who by now are very old ladies, if they live — in a wild public infaution.

"Do you know how many hits we got?" Mr. Clausen asked. "We got 3 ½ per cent. We were captured in the water but they turned us back a month later.

"My father in the Danish Army got two of their Medals of Honor. One for the war with Prussia and the other for the war when the Austrians came in and Denmark lost Schleswig Holstein. You remember the poem: 'Ten thousand Micks were throwing bricks in the battle of Copenhagen.' My father got 500 crowns with each Medal. The crown was worth 27 cents. We got nothing with our Medal."

Charles MacGillivray, of Braintree, Mass., lost his left arm in the Battle of the Bulge. He had knocked out seven German machine guns before he was hit.

He was a member of the Fifth Rangers in the Dieppe Massacre, a horrible folly, and came through Dieppe unhurt though showered with the blood of men blown up around him by submerged mines which they touched off when they tripped over wires in the last few yards of their rush for the beach. He made the Casablanca landing and says it was relatively easy. He was still a Canadian citizen when he won his Medal but is now naturalized.

Sgt. Leonard Funk, of Pittsburgh, five feet three, now working in the Veterans' Administration in Pittsburgh, won his medal about the same time that MacGillivray qualified and very close by. Weighing only 115 pounds that day when the American Intelligence loused up its job, Sergeant Funk, a member of General Gavin's parachute command, saw that a detail of four American riflemen taking a batch of German prisoners to the rear were now prisoners themselves. Funk riddled a big German Major with a Tommy Gun and turned the situation around.

He and MacGillivray were among 28 men who got Medals of Honor together at the White House from Harry Truman.

Alex Manduisch, of Chicago, a Serbian immigrant working in the stock yards, won the Medal in France in August, 1918, killing five Germans in a machine gun nest with his bayonet and capturing 15 more. He is more than six feet tall and weighs about 240 today.

Maj. Frank Laners of Fargo, N. D., got his for capturing San Miguel, the headquarters of the Filipino Aguinaldo, in the insurrection.

This war was fought to make the little brown brother of William H. Taft stuff his shirt-tail into his pants. Now American civilians of the highest civilization wear gaudy bobtailed sport shirts outside their pants in Lakeland. Harry Truman did likewise in Key West when he was president. So Maj. Landers doubts that it was worth so much woe and money to make the little brown brother stuff his shirt-tail into his pants.

EXCESS FAT IN DIET MAY CAUSE HARDENING OF ARTERIES

Arteriolosclerosis means that the walls of the blood vessels, known as arteries, have become thickened and hardened, principally by the deposit of calcium salts. The term, however, can include a number of different conditions involving the walls of the arteries.

Probably the most important variety is that which is technically known as atherosclerosis, in which the walls of the arteries have become thickened by deposits of fatty, or fat-like substances. This commonly occurs before the deposit of calcium.

It is known that early atherosclerosis is more likely to occur in people with certain diseases such as diabetes mellitus, or nephrosis, than it is in normal people. It has also been found that people with involvement of the coronary blood vessels supplying the heart tend to have higher quantities of fat-like substances and a chemical known as cholesterol in their blood than normal people do.

These facts, together with other evidence, suggests some variation from person to person in the production and deposit of these chemicals substances in the walls of the arteries. There are also some reasons for believing that the typical American diet, which is high in fats and refined foods, as well as calories, is not particularly desirable from the standpoint of preventing the development of atherosclerosis.

I am frequently asked about treatment. So far, there is no medicine available which will dissolve the fatty substances deposited in the walls of the arteries in atherosclerosis, nor remove calcium. However, the development of atherosclerosis or arteriolosclerosis is usually a slow affair, and it does not involve all arteries of the body at an equal rate of speed. It is not yet possible to restore the arteries of youth; such treatment as can be devised must depend on which arteries are involved and how far the process has gone.

Ike Has Recently Frowned On Third Term Amendment

By RAY TUCKER

(Editor's Note: Once each week Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international problems. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.)

WASHINGTON — "What is all this talk and excitement about not letting a President serve a third or fourth term, as Roosevelt did?" asks Mrs. M. K. of Richmond, Va. "Is it forbidden by the Constitution, or is it simply a matter of tradition?"

Answer: The questions of a third term was thought to have been settled until President Eisenhower recently expressed his criticism of the anti - third term amendment to the Constitution. Before that time, there was, of course, no prohibition against three or four or more terms.

George Washington set the precedent when he resisted general pressure that he stand for re-election a third time. He expressed his hostility to a further tenure in his Farewell Addresss, which was written by Alexander Hamilton, although remoulded by Washingtom himself.

Besides preferring a rustic life at his beautiful Mount Vernon, Washington suffered from ill health, and he was shocked at the opposition's abuse of him. Some historians believe that the ambitious Hamilton, who yearned for the presidency himself, had a great influence on Washington's anti-third term viewpoint.

Ironically, the provision against more than two terms was a Republican product, borne of their fear and dislike of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The GOP leaders who inspired it were fearful that, if FDR's health permitted, he would run even for a fifth time. In view of the ravage which the three "dictators" had caused — Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin — there was hardly any objection to the proposal on Capitol Hill or among the ratifying state legislatures.

President Eisenhower, of course, is not thinking of himself in voicing some criticism of the prohibition. He will be too old to run again in 1960. He takes the practical, political viewpoint that the limitation will strip a second-term Chief Executive of control over Congress.

Knowing that he is on his way out, the members of Congress, both Republicans and Democrats, will be under no compulsion to accede to a President's legislative proposals.

Moreover, this knowledge will precipitate personal and factional squabbles within Congress and within both parties. In fact, the struggle for the Republican presidential nomination four years hence has begun already. The partisans of Vice President Nixon, Senator Knowland and other possibilities are pressing their favorites' claims. GOP liberals and conservatives, too, are struggling for supremacy.

It would not be surprising, if a movement to repeal the amendment were started during the next session. It would be an ideal time for such a move, in view of the fact that Ike favors it, and there would be no suspicion that he was inspired by personal or political ambition.

"Why," inquires J.B.W. of Lubbock, Tex., "did President Eisenhower permit Richard Nixon to take the lead in the presidential campaign, since no previous vice president has ever assumed such leadership?"

Answer: There are several reasons. First, Ike permitted Nixon a share in government that no other v.p. ever enjoyed. Secondly, President Eisenhower originally planned to conduct no campaign, save for a half a dozen television speeches, although he changed his mind.

Nixon, under that arrangement, was to do the active work. Finally, I think Ike wanted the V.P. to get around among the people, and show that he does not war horns. He wanted to popularize and humanize "Dick."

Holland Flags Fly At Half Mast Mourning Hungarians

By HENRY McLEMORE

AMSTERDAM — Holland's flag flies at half-mast.

The mourning for Hungary is country-wide.

Emergency Red Cross offices have been opened here in The Hague and Rotterdam. There is a steady line of contributors through the door, over which hang giant banners inscribed "Geef! Geef!"

One has to walk in the streets outside newspaper offices. The sidewalks are blocked by anxious folk pressing against the windows to read the front pages and the latest bulletins.

People cluster around newspaper kiosks waiting for the next editions to go on sale. Hotels issue one-page newspapers, hand-printed with rubber stamps, giving the latest news. These "papers" are printed in Dutch, English, and French, and are tacked to the reception desks and pasted on pillars.

No matter where one is in the city, the sound of radios can be heard, all tuned to news broadcasts. One of the most anxiously awaited newscasts is the one heard twice daily here on AFN — the American Armed Forces Network from Germany.

The people want to know our country's reaction to the brutal Russian treatment of the Hungarians, and the British and French landings in Egypt.

Nearly everyone, it seems, speaks English in Holland, either fluently or quite well enough to make himself understood. Not once, but many, many times, a day, Dutchmen introduce themselves, say, "You are an American, are you not?" and then begin to ask the invariable question.

"How does America feel about the massacre in Budapest?"

"What is your country going to do? Do you think you will do anything?"

Just what is an American to answer? I wish I knew. I wish I could say, "Don't worry, fellow. We are not going to stand by and let men, women and children be slaughtered, and a great city be put to the torch."

In Rotterdam, where we are staying, one gets the impression that the people are suffering almost as much as the brave people of Budapest. It was not too long ago that the Germans savagely tore apart their city, leaving the streets filled with dead and the buildings aflame.

"We know what they are going through," a desk clerk told me "And no one knows the horror of such an unequal fight unless he has been a part of it. To see your people killed, your city devastated, and to know you haven't a chance to strike back, is sickening. We bleed for the Hungarians."

There is a strong willingness to fight again, too. "If we only had enough in Europe to fight with," they say, "we'd try to help." This from a people who are just now recovering from years of living under an enemy heel; this from a tiny country with a population not much more than Greater New York. It may be foolish and unwise, but it is thrilling, nonetheless. Discretion may be the better part of valor, but it certainly isn't the most admirable part.

I still wish I knew what to answer when I am asked "What is America going to do?" One has to be in Europe to fully realize how much this part of the world, at least, depends on us. And being here, an American can only hope and pray that the faith and trust and dependence is justified.

The Cracker Barrel

I've got to admit that home life can be wonderful whenever the television set breaks down. But in all fairness, I've got to admit that stupid questions were invented long before great corporations began paying sixty - four dollars for the answers. In every period of history there lived the type of guy that just couldn't wait to apply a nudge to some other guy's mind. On July 8, 1831, a great French writer, Sainte-Beuve, was carryin' on with the wife of Victor Hugo. You would think he would have been satisfied with this. But no, he had to ask Victor the following question:

"Are you sure that, under the influence of that fatal imagination of yours, you are not injecting into the relations with one, so frail, so dear to you, a degree of emotion so excessive that it frightens her, and to your own hurt, shuts her heart to you, with the result that you, yourself, by the very fact of your suspicion, force her into an immoral position which reflects back that suspicion and makes it burn you with a fiercer fire?"

For trying to figure out the answer to this question, Victor Hugo wasn't offered a free prize of any kind of junk whatsoever. He wasn't even offered his wife back.

THE SECRET OF A GOOD SALAD usually lies in the dressing. American blue cheese does wonders in the way of adding zippiness to a salad dressing. The subtly-sharp flavor of the American blue cheese blends in perfectly with the rest of the ingredients, and at the same time it adds a special gourmet touch. Yet, it in no way covers up the delicate flavors of the other ingredients.

FOR A COLORFUL, good tasting Green and Gold Salad that will serve 6 to 8, combine two cups broken romaine, one cup broken lettuce, one cup broken escarole and two medium-sized oranges that have been peeled and cut into sections. Toss lightly and chill. Meanwhile, combine one-third cup salad oil, one-quarter cup lemon juice, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery seed, one-half teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and one-half cup or approximately three ounces of crumbled American blue cheese. Beat mixture thoroughly. Add this American blue cheese dressing to the orange mixture and toss lightly but thoroughly.

For an American Blue Cheese Water Cress Salad that will serve four, combine three tablespoons lemon juice, one-quarter cup salad oil, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one-quarter teaspoon dry mustard and a dash of pepper and blend. Add one-quarter cup crumbled American blue cheese which is approximately one and one-quarter ounces, mix well and chill. Meanwhile, combine two cups torn water cress, one-quarter cup sliced green onions and two medium - sized tomatoes which have been cut in wedges. Toss lightly. Then add American blue cheese mixture and toss lightly but thoroughly.

FOR A CHANGE of menu pace, you might stock up on macaroni products. Macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles all members of the family generically referred to as "macaroni" are made to order for autumn and winter meals.

Here is a recipe for Italian Chicken and Macaroni. To make four servings, dredge one two-pound frying chicken cut into serving pieces in seasoned flour. Cook in one-half cup butter or margarine until lightly browned on all sides. Add one-quart fourteen-ounce can tomato juice; heat to boiling point. Gradually add two cups elbow macaroni (eight ounces). Sprinkle with one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one-quarter teaspoon oregano. Cook, stirring occasionally, about 50 minutes, or until chicken and macaroni are tender.

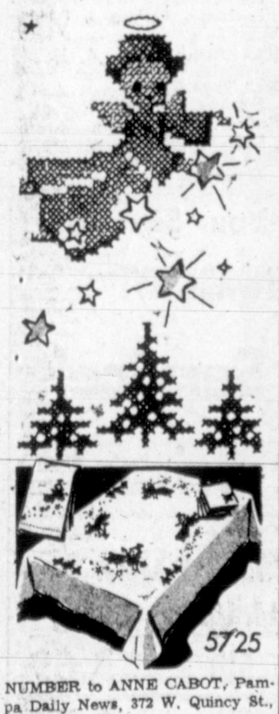

The recipe for Creamy Cottage Noodles is equally tempting. To make four to six servings, add one tablespoon salt to tree quarts rapidly boiling water. Gradually add eight ounces medium egg noodles (about four cups) so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Combine noodles, one cup sour cream, one cup creamed cottage cheese, one-quarter cup finely chopped onion, one medium-sized green pepper cut into short thin strips, one steaspoon chopped chives and one and one-half teaspoons salt. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Turn into greased one and one-half quart casserole. Top with one-half cup chili sauce. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 minutes.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningest" rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid resoiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical as ½ gallon of concentrate cleans three 9x12 rugs.

Sharp Group Has Program On MCI

A program on the Mexican Christian Institute was presented by Mrs. L. C. Wassell during the meeting of the Sharp Group of the First Christian Church in the home of Mrs. Wassell, southeast of city.

Mrs. Wassell showed slides of the Institute she had taken during her vacation and showed a church film on the Institute.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Wassell, and Mrs. Burl Graham gave the devotional, "Whose God Is The Lord?"

During the business session, it was decided to send a donation for books to the Institute. Members were reminded of the Christian Women's Fellowship meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. today, in the church. Mrs. Paul Bowers will review the book, "To Heaven On Horseback," by Paul Cranston, the women were told.

Members were asked to bring Christmas gifts for the Negro nursery to the next meeting.

Plans were made for the Christmas party, to be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 10, in the home of Mrs. John Gill, 1613 Hamilton. The event will be a salad supper, with each member bringing a salad. Gifts will be exchanged, and secret pals revealed.

Refreshments of coffee and a Hawaiian dessert were served during the social period.

Attending were Mmes. J. L. Savage, Lloyd Laramore, Leon Howell, E. B. Jackson, Pearl Thurman, Don Meador, O. H. Odom, Burl Graham, L. H. Kirkendall, L. C. Wassell, Arthur Crow and John Gill.

Auxiliary Of NALC Has Business Meet

The auxiliary of the National Association of Letter Carriers met recently in the home of Mrs. Olie Floyd, 315 N. Somerville.

During the business session, plans were made for a rummage sale to raise money for a Christmas basket, to be given to a needy family. Names were exchanged for the Christmas party, to be held Dec. 10, in the home of Mrs. Louise Brown, 1025 S. Banks.

A past-president's pin was presented by Mrs. Gene Shaw, immediate past president.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served during the social period.

Attending were Mmes. Doty Warner, T. V. Parks, F. F. Winkleblack, Olie Floyd, June Mulanax, T. W. McPhillips Jr., Gene Shaw, Roy Priest, Mae Manning; and Miss Lura Mae Manning.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Writes Mrs. W.: "When our 15-year-old girl has friends in, her father and I retire upstairs. Now she wants us to leave the house. She says her friends think our remaining in it during a party reflects on their right to look after themselves. Asking around, I find that many parents do leave the house for teen-age parties. What do you think about this? I can't help feeling it's wrong. . ."

Then don't do it. The issue is your self-respect, Mrs. W. — not whether to leave home when your child entertains.

The real problem is: Should I do what other parents do — or should I do what I think is right for me to do?

Let's be kind when we tell our child that we've decided not to conform to other parents' behavior. The news will shock her terribly.

At her age, youngsters are more rigidly conservative than the most proper Victorian parents. So we must be gentle as we declare our revolutionary refusal to allow our "group" do our thinking for us.

If we're both kind and firm, we won't lose by our stand. Though the adolescent idolizes his crowd's approval, he doesn't really enjoy his dependence on it. He will shriek with anguish if we refuse to be bullied by it — but the fact is, he's very relieved to see that domination by crowd standards need not be a permanent state of bondage.

Mrs. W. knows all this herself. We all do. We sometimes forget it because certain child guidance people's answer to this problem is, "Find out what other parents do — then do it, too." So let me remind us that this is the answer of people who revere "adjustment" to our community as their First Commandment.

Actually, when they ask us to "adjust" our decisions for our children to what our neighbors decide for theirs, they are saying, "Let your community raise your children for you."

Though this policy may work out beautifully for everyone in South Sea cultures, in ours it just produces untrained children. Indeed, the fact that so many parents do look to everyone but themselves to train their children is the chief problem of schools and the mental hygiene profession.

Recently the magazine "Psychiatry" protested against what our fear of any independent thought and action is doing to its profession.

Said Dr. Leslie H. Farber, himself a psychiatrist, "Morality itself has been turned over to us, along with philosophy and religion. We never asked for a burden of power such as this which amounts to our taking over the sole responsibility for the human fate."

Program On Progress Of Telephone, Hotel Campaign Given At B&PW Meet

George Newberry, general manager of Pampa division of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, spoke on the progress of the telephone at the meeting Tuesday evening of the Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club in the City Club Room.

Newberry explained the improvements since 1876 when the first telephone was put into use to the present modern dial system. He stated there are 50 million telephones in the United States today and showed how they work.

Second part of the program was a talk on the campaign for a new hotel by Philo C. Dix, followed by an appeal by Mrs. Rufe Jordan for workers for the campaign. Program chairman was Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler.

During the business session, led by Mrs. W. G. Crowson, president, the women voted to give a blood-type test to each member in the near future in cooperation with the civil defense program. It was decided to donate $50 to the United Fund.

Appointed to a committee to select a recipient for the scholarship, the cub's project for the year, were Mmes. G. E. Tinnin, M. E. Powers, W. C. Chapman and Hattie Holt. It was explained the scholarship will go to a girl for a three - year course in nurses training.

The group voted to prepare a Thanksgiving basket for a needy family, with each member to bring a contribution for the basket to the next meeting. Selected as a committee to choose a family to receive the basket were Miss Faye Eaton, Mrs. Lucille Turner and Mrs. W. A. York. Named to a committee to prepare and deliver the basket were Mmes. Hazel Jay, Gladys Howard and Marguriete Nash.

Members were reminded of the Thanksgiving banquet, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 27, in the City Club Room, with Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler in charge of reservations for members and their guests.

Miss Faye Eaton was named parliamentarian, and it was reported the club's membership now totals 82.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Philo C. Dix and Mrs. Rufe Jordan. Welcomed as new members were Mmes. Joe Dyer, Sue Douglas, Mary Helen Florance and Lois Teel. Forty - eight members were present.

Harvesters Show Improvement

The Pampa Harvesters made one of the biggest jumps in the District 3-AAAA statistics, according to figures released today. The Pampans vaulted several notches above many of the district leaders in several team and individual statistics after their easy 54-6 win over Plainview last Saturday.

The Harvesters improved in five of the eight categories in team figures while four individual Pampa players took gains in that department.

The league - leading Amarillo Sandies once again dominate the team and individual statistics just as they have right along. Palo Duro and Monterey also boast some of the top marks. The Sandies lead in total offense, rushing offense, passing offense, total defense, rushing defense and penalties. In individual figures they lead in three groups.

Pampa, thanks to its 380 yards rushing and 76 passing last week against Plainview, jumped from seventh to fourth place in total offense with a total of 993 yards, or 248.3 yards per game. The Harvesters made a leap from sixth to fourth in rushing offense, went up from fifth to second in total defense and from fifth to third in rushing defense. Pampa ranks second to Amarillo in total defense and behind Amarillo and Borger in rushing defense.

The Pampans fell from first to second in pass defense although allowing only 35 yards to be made against them by air last week. They also fell from third to fourth in punting. Pampa is fifth in the district in the number of penalties inflicted upon them, a total of 229 yards or 57.3 per game.

Robert Langford, who made 97 yards on 19 carries last Saturday, jumped to ninth in individual total offense with 283 yards. He's fifth in rushing with his 283 yards and Dickie Mauldin is eighth with 242 yards.

Gary Dearen ranks 10th in passing with 87 yards on two of five completions while the Harvesters are not among the top ten players in pass receiving. Gary Heiskell is tied for fifth in punting with a 36-yard-per-kick average and Mauldin is averaging 31.9 for ninth. Mauldin is tied for ninth in scoring with 18 points.

The Harvesters meet the Lubbock Westerners here Saturday in Harvester Stadium at 2 p.m. The two teams are tied for fifth place in the district race. The Westerners are also among the top statistical leaders in the district in total and rushing offense and in passing offense. Charley Moore and Tom (Red) Roberts are also two of the outstanding invididual performers in the loop.

Moore is second in rushing with 550 yards and Roberts is fifth with 381 yards. Moore leads in rushing with 550 yards and Roberts is fourth. Roberts has scored 39 points in district play this season while Moore is tied for third with 30.

Panhandle's Hedrick Area Player Of Week

One of the outstanding players in the Panhandle Panthers' 53-8 victory over Sunray last week was fullback Jones Hedrick who is the Pampa Daily News' area player of the week.

Hedrick, a bruising 178 - pounder, was instrumental in the victory for Coach Bill Davis' crew with his good ground gaining and touchdown producing. Hedrick, a senior and one of Panhandle's all-time outstanding athletes, has been the key man in the Panthers' drive to the District 1-AA championship. Panhandle and Stinnett meet Friday night for the 1-A title.

The area was loaded with fine talent last week. Included among them were Dell Krehbiel and Johnny Grist, backs, and tackle Hoot Wright of Canadian; Charles Crockett, McLean wingback; Jerry Mills and Buddy Stevens, White Deer backs; end Leon Anglin and back Gerald Hermesmeyer of Groom; and Lealon Adcock and Jere Mohon of Panhandle.

Krehbiel and Grist accounted for 253 yards combined for Canadian as the Wildcats beat McLean. Krehbiel had 107 yards on 11 carries with a 40-yard touchdown scamper while Grist made 146 yards on eight carries, including touchdowns runs of 39 and 40 yards.

McLean's Crockett was a one-man team as he carried the ball 25 times for 104 yards.

Mickey Mantle

Yankees' Mickey Mantle Named AL Most Valuable

NEW YORK (UP)—Mickey Mantle was voted the American League's "Most Valuable Player" award for 1956 in a unanimous landslide, and in the words of Yankee Manager Casey Stengel, "Who else coulda' won it but him?"

Mantle became the second player in baseball history to gain the award by unanimous selection on Wednesday when he received the first place vote of each of the 24 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who took part in the balloting.

That gave the slugging, 25-year-old Yankee center fielder 336 points—highest total possible—and made him an easy winner over teammate Yogi Berra, last year's winner, who wound up second this time with 186 points.

The only other player ever to win the award unanimously was Al Rosen of the Indians in 1953.

Outfielder Al Kaline of the Tigers followed Berra in the current balloting with 142 points while teammate Harvey Kuenn was fourth with 80 points and southpaw Billy Pierce, the White Sox' 20-game winner, was fifth with 75 points.

The switch-hitting center fielder from Commerce, Okla., won the batting title with a .353 average, the home run crown with 52 and the runs-batted-in title with 130. In addition, he led both leagues in runs scored with 132, in total bases with 376 and in slugging with a .705 average.

Aggies' Rod Osborne May Miss Rice Game

By UNITED PRESS

The key man in the Texas Aggies' seven victories and a tie to date, quarterback Roddy Osborne, may watch Saturday's possible title-clinching game against Rice from the sidelines.

Osborne, the hard-running Aggie signal-caller missed Wednesday's 70-minute workout because of a "crick" in his neck and Coach Bear Bryant said his availability Saturday was doubtful. Bobby Conrad stepped into Osborne's shoes Wednesday and probably will start when the Aggies meet the Owls at College Station, needing only a victory to sew up at least a co-championship.

Bryant wasn't happy with his team's work on pass defense, especially in view of the ultra fine passing record of the Owls. "We didn't look good . . . We looked like it was something new to us," he said.

Rice Works On Defense

Meanwhile, at Houston, Rice worked diligently on defense with center Jerry Harris and reserve tackle Claude White missing the drill because of injuries. Both are due to play Saturday, however.

Texas Christian, which faces Texas at Fort Worth with the realization it must win to keep aflame its bowl hopes, had such aces as quarterback Chuck Curtis, halfback Ken Wineburg, guard Joe Williams, end John Nikkel and tackle Norman Hamilton on the limited-service list and tackle Don Cooper's availability was very doubtful. TCU worked on defenses for every phase of Texas' multiple offense.

Souter Back for Hogs

Arkansas' sturdy end, Ted Souter, returned to action after being out with appendicitis as the Razorbacks stressed pass defense in anticipation of Saturday's meeting with Southern Methodist at Little Rock.

Area Game Of The Week:

Lefors, McLean To Meet Friday

The annual Gray County game matching the Lefors Pirates and McLean's Tigers to be played Friday night at Lefors is the Pampa Daily News' area game of the week.

Shockers Close Out Season

The Amarillo Yannigans will be the opposition when the Pampa Shockers close out their 1956 football season in Harvester Stadium today at 3:30 p.m.

The Yannigans come into the game with at 6-1-1 record and boasting a powerful team. Their only loss has been to the Tucumcari Rattlers.

The Shockers have won four of eight games this season. Last week they lost to Borger's Bullpups, 14-13.

The public is invited to watch the final game. There will be no admission fee.

Mobeetie, Bula Officials Meet

School officials from Mobeetie and Bula will meet in Canyon Saturday morning to decide the site and date of their bi-district six-man football game.

Superintendent L. R. Reeves of Mobeetie has hopes of bringing the bi-district contest to Pampa next week. Bula school officials agreed earlier in the season to do so but the final okay will have to come Saturday.

Reeves met with Pampa officials Wednesday morning and was given wholehearted approval to hold the contest at Harvester Stadium.

Mobeetie won the District 1 title and Bula took the District 2 crown this year. The two teams have met on two other occasions to decide bi-district winners, Mobeetie splitting with Bula in the series.

Intra-Team Boxing Matches Cancelled

The intra-team boxing matches sponsored by the Pampa Optimist Club have been cancelled for Friday night because of the dinner meeting of the Community Hotel Fund.

Four teams: First National Bank, Citizens Bank, Panhandle Insurance and Pampa News were scheduled to box at the Gray County Community Building.

The Optimists plan to go ahead with the matches with Guymon next Friday night, Nov. 23.

LARSEN SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (UP) —Tennis star Art Larsen, unconscious from a critical brain injury suffered in a motor scooter accident, showed "slight improvement" today.

Although the District 1-A championship is not at stake, this annual match should be an interesting one. While Panhandle and Stinnett are fighting it out at Stinnett for the 1-A championship the Pirates and Tigers will be battling to keep out of the cellar. The loser is destined for that spot.

Neigher the Pirates nor Tigers boast of good season records but the game should be a closely-matched event. Lefors this season has won one game, tied one and lost seven. The Pirates are coached by H. W. Callan. Coach Hap Rogers' Tigers have won only one of nine games this year.

Fullback Howard Bradfield and tackle Mike Nichols are the top threats for the Pirates while the Tigers will rely mostly on the triple threat action of wingback Charles Crockett. Crockett last week made 104 yards on 25 carries for the Tigers in losing to Canadian 27-8. Bradfield has scored most of Lefors' points this season.

The Lefors probable starting lineup: ends, Weatherford Cates and Cecil Sanders; tackles, Mike Nichols and Calvin Stracner or Mark Brawly; guards, Jim Gotcher and Larry Blair; center, Wayne Moxon; quarterback, Tommy Johnson; halfbacks, James Warner and Stanley Coleman; fullback, Howard Bradfield.

The McLean probable starting lineup: ends, Billy Crockett and Benny Woods; tackles, Bob Walling and Preston Morgan; guards, Roy Huff and, Jimmy Allison or Paul McCurley; center, Eddie Brown; quarterback, Paul Garvin; left wingback, Charles Crockett; wingback, David Woods; fullback, David Crockett or Fred Smith.

In other area games, Perryton plays at Shamrock, Sunray hosts White Deer, Groom's Tigers take on Stratford at Groom and Canadian plays at Memphis. The winner of the Groom-Stratford game emerges as the District 1-B champion and enters bi-district play.

OLD CHARTER

KENTUCKY'S FINEST STRAIGHT BOURBON

One straight Kentucky bourbon...made only one way ...distilled and bottled in the same Kentucky distillery

There's a very good reason why Old Charter has a mellow richness you can find in no other bourbon. This is a straight Kentucky bourbon —distilled and bottled in a single distillery in the heart of bourbon country.

It makes a difference. For in Kentucky you'll find the men who are traditionally skilled in the art of making fine bourbon. There is no substitute for Kentucky skill . . . or for seven long years of aging in charred barrels of new white oak.

But judge for yourself. Try Old Charter today.

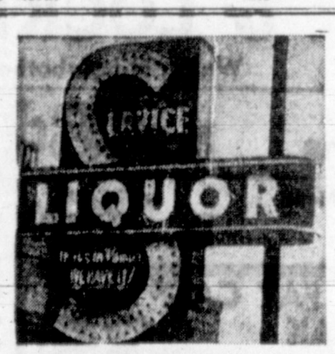

Tick-tock... the whiskey that didn't watch the clock... seven long years!

TCU Denies Senioritis Is Trouble

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH (UP)— Coach Abe Martin, whose Texas Christian team has lost three of its last four games after being touted as a repeat Southwest Conference champion, emphatically denied that the common variety of "senioritis" is responsible.

"There has been no senior complacency on our ball club," Martin said today as the Horned Frogs concentrated on Saturday's regionally televised meeting with Texas—a game that could project TCU closer to a repeat trip to the Cotton Bowl despite the three losses.

The NCAA's refusal to lift a probation against Texas A&M, the likely conference champion, paved the way for the possible bowl berth for TCU.

They're Determined

"If there's any angle about this senioritis business affecting this outfit," Martin said, "it has been that the kids were so determined not to become a victim of the disease that they got too sensitive about it.

"They lost a real tough 7-6 game to Texas A&M in high winds and torrential rains at College Station and it hurt them so darned bad they could hardly stand it," Martin added.

That was a game that many of the TCU players thought they rightfully won. They had outplayed the Aggies most of the ball game.

TCU All-American Jim Swink had one touchdown wiped out by a penalty, and apparently crossed the goal line at least once more with what would have been the winning touchdown, according to movies of the game, only to have the officials rule that he was stopped inches short.

Confidence Shaken

"That shook their confidence," Martin said. "And — like you or I — when things started going wrong, they started wondering to themselves what was the matter with them. They were still trying just as hard — maybe too hard —but the little things kept going against them instead of for them. And they noticed it and felt it keenly when the fans apparently got down on them."

But Martin saw a ray of hope. "Our team spirit this week is the best since before the Texas A&M game. I think they've thrown off the dumps brought on by those losses to Miami and Texas Tech."

TCU may not repeat as champions, but the frogs can sew up a return visit to the Cotton Bowl by beating Texas, Rice and Southern Methodist the next three weeks. That feat also might give them a title tie, should Texas A&M drop its game this week to Rice, or its finale to Texas.

Fraley Says:

Anderson Marvel Of Olympics

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

MELBOURNE (UP) — Massive Paul Anderson, the herculean weight lifter from Toccoa, Ga., lowered his bulky 310 pounds onto a protesting bed in the Olympic village today and allowed in a drawling voice that all this is quite a payoff on two cement blocks.

"Here I am in Australia getting ready to shoot for the Olympic record," said the handsome, curly-haired Southerner. "And only four years ago I started weight-lifting with a pair of home-made weights made out of concrete."

Anderson is one of the marvels of the Olympic village, a sort of local Empire State Building. And there's almost that much of him at which the athletic tourists can and do gaze in open-mouthed awe.

He's a lot of man, this 24-year-old Georgian with the soft voice and iron-hard muscles. His weight at times soars to 370 pounds. His other eye - popping measurements include a 23 - inch neck, 22 - inch arm, 56-inch chest, 45-inch waist and a 35-inch thigh.

He can use it, too, if you want the piano carried upstairs, the trunks carted to the basement or the trash, moved to the lot next door. The boy derrick holds all the world records for weight - lifting and a host of others which aren't in the books.

As example, Louis Cyr, the ancient French-Canadian strongman, once claimed to have lifted a preposterous 4,000 pounds. So our boy raised him a thousand with a 5,000-pound back lift.

Powerful Paul heard that Milo Steinborn did a record deep knee bend, down and up, with 550 pounds. So Anderson did it with an even 1,000 pounds without drawing a deep breath.

Made Own Weights

"I was going to Furman University and a friend showed me how to lift weights," Anderson says in a soft voice. "So when I went home I got two wooden boxes and an old axle and poured concrete into them to make a set of weights."

The three Olympic lifts are the press, where the weight is taken to the chest in one motion and then pressed overhead with only the arms and shoulders; the snatch, taken from the floor to overhead in one motion; and the clean and jerk, brought chest high and then raised aloft with body motion permitted.

In Munich, Paul pressed a world record, 409 pounds; at Philadelphia snatched 336½ pounds, and also clean and jerked 440 pounds. His world record total for the three lifts at one performance is 1,175 pounds.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)— The Gator Bowl selection committee boasts it is no longer getting "leftovers" and predicts it will put on its best show ever on Dec. 29.

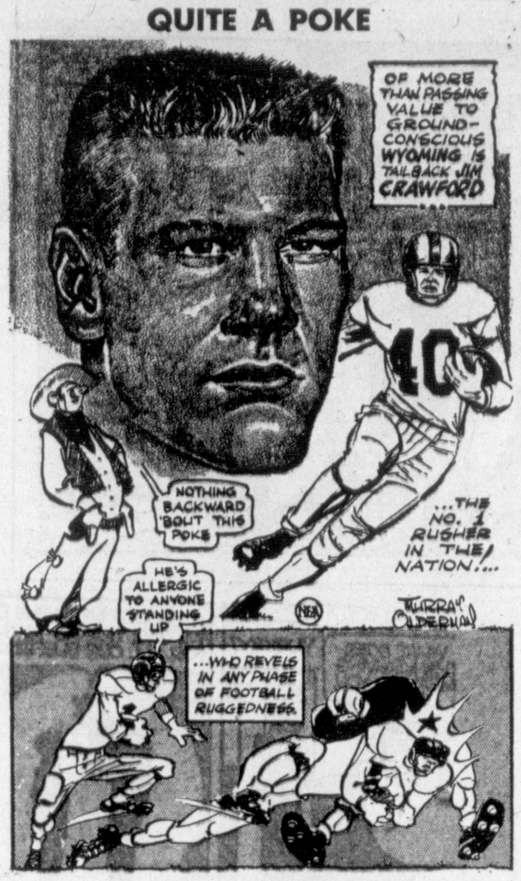

The committee, admittedly aiming high, has placed second-ranked Tennessee, currently the No. 1 bowl pick, on its "most wanted list."

Executive Secretary George Olsen of the Gator Bowl Assn. thinks Jacksonville has a good chance to grab the unbeaten Volunteers from the New Orleans Sugar Bowl.

The committee also has such top bowl choices as Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Navy and Georgia Tech on its check list.

Johnson Subs For Baker In TV Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Young Jack Johnson, Los Angeles heavyweight will substitute for big Bob Baker of Pittsburgh in Friday night's TV-radio 10-rounder with sixth-ranking Harold Carter of Linden, N.J., at Madison Square Garden.

Fifth-ranking Baker withdrew Monday because of an attack of grippe, and the Johnson-Carter match was announced Monday night.

Johnson, although not currently ranked among the top 10 contenders, knocked out ex-champion Ezzard Charles last year.

Every Man A Champion, Says Player

By HOWARD WILSON
United Press Sports Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Doyle Jennings, alternate right guard on Oklahoma's championship football team, says every man on the Oklahoma squad is a champion. That's the attitude that keeps a team on top, he says.

Jennings is a 210-pound, 5-10 junior from Lawton, Okla., and today he explained—from the substitute's standpoint—why coach Bud Wilkinson turns out top-rated teams year after year.

"Where most squads have two or three guys who play like champions, our whole squad plays that wasy," he said. "That old boy back on our fourth team, he's a champion, too."

Why is it that way at Oklahoma?

It's Bud, Gomer

It's because of Wilkinson and line coach Gomer Jones.

"I'm afraid—I can't explain how playing football \under Bud and Gomer at Oklahoma has been the greatest experience of my life," said Jennings. "I don't have the vocabulary."

But Jennings took a deep breath, and tried:

"Bud is sure good at getting you to believe in yourself. He says it's much harder to stay a champion than to become one in the first place. In order to stay great, you've always got to want t oimprove and never stop giving your maximum output. You can't be satisfied with anything less.

He Talks Leadership

"He takes you into his office and talks to you about the leaders in all walks of life. He shows you that they are successful because they are willing to go all out for something they want and believe in. He inspires you through football to do everything as right as possible—your studies, social life, behavior, everything.

"Soon, it begins to rub off on you. You try it in football and it works. You're sold."

Thus, playing on Oklahoma's second team — or "alternate" eleven, as Wilkinson calls it — is a privilege. The same goes for a fourth-stringer, too.

"Like Bill Harris, our fourth team left end," said Jennings. "Bill Harris is more satisfied playing on the fourth team here than he would be playing as a starter anywhere else."

Maybe that's why Oklahoma is a champion.

Cold To Hurt U. S. Team, Says Canada

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Canada's Olympic track and field coach flatly predicted today that the heavily-favored "United States athletes won't go so well in this cold weather," but U. S. Coach Jim Kelly insisted he is "highly encouraged" by his team's present form.

Fred Foot, the Canadian mentor, was emphatic in his belief that American athletes who have been training in the sunny climes of California will be hurt by the current Melbourne cold wave but that his squad won't.

"We trained a full week in 40 degree weather," Foot pointed out. "This is warm to us, and the United States athletes won't like it a bit. We have a good chance for three gold medals in track."

Foot's sentiments were backed up by Canadian team Manager Bob Osborne, who said he thinks the Canadians can win as many as 10 gold medals instead of the one they captured in the 1952 Olympics.

Kelly Optimistic

But Kelly, much-criticized coach of the U. S. track squad, was in a very optimistic mood as he analyzed the results of the Americans' showing in their first competition over here, a special meet Wednesday at nearby Geelong in which U. S. athletes won six of the nine events.

Kelly singled out for special praise decathlon star Milt Campbell of Plainfield, N. J., pole vaulter Bob Gutowski of Occidental College, hurdler Jack Davis, steeplechaser Phil Coleman, and pole vaulter Bob Richards.

"Everybody seems to think that Rafer Johnson of UCLA has a lock in the decathlon," Kelly said. "But off the form that Campbell showed at Geelong, it looks like he'll give Johnson a real struggle in the decathlon. I'm just glad they're both our boys."

Kelly added that Davis was "back at peak form" and seemed ready for a world record effort in the 110-meter high hurdles, and that Richards, who is favored to retain his pole vault championship, "has been working real hard" and might be a big surprise in the decathlon.

Coleman Real Surprise

Coleman, 25-year old Chicago teacher, was the real surprise at Geelong. In finishing second to Britain's Chris Brasher in an 8:45.6 two-mile run, Coleman clocked 8:48—eclipsing the American record for the distance by 1.6 seconds and beating his own previous best time by 23.3 seconds.

Lou Boudreau Likes To Hang Hopes On Kids

By CHARLES NETHAWAY
United Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (UP) — Lou Boudreau said today baseball "oldsters" were all right for a quick burst of smart pitching or clutch hitting in a stretch pennant drive, but he likes to hang his best hopes on kids.

The A's roster is jammed with young players, most of whom have yet to show their stuff in the majors. "It's the only way a club as bad as this one was—and still is—can operate," Boudreau said.

He admitted the Brooklyn Dodgers made a brilliant move in picking up Sal Maglie for their flag drive. The New York Yankees moved smartly in calling on Enos (Country) Slaughter for late work.

"But calling on veterans of considerable age is something only a club in the midst of a pennant battle can and should do," Boudreau said. "If you're in the second division, you may as well lose with kids. One day they will pay off for you."

Eddie Robinson at 36 is the "Pappy" of the A's. Several players are in their early 30's, but mostly the age range is from 21 to 27.

"We are signing youngsters all over the country," Boudreau said, "and we expect to see some of them playing for us before too long."

The A's front office wouldn't confirm it, but fans in about one more season will have difficulty finding players here who ever were identified with the old Philadelphia Athletics.

ON THE HUNGARIAN BORDER:

Breakthrough By Operation Mercy

By KENNETH GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent

KLINGENBACH, Austria — (NEA) — It is six in the morning. The early light of a cold dawn seeps through a cloudy sky, gradually finding the 15 trucks sprayed white down to their hub caps.

They stand in line like giant cows, waiting. They are the convoy of the International Red Cross, trucks full of food and medical supplies for Budapest and the other starving, staggered cities in revolution - torn Hungary.

And they must wait until the pro-Communist Hungarian puppet soldiers, obeying strings pulled from Moscow, let them pass into Hungary.

Doctors and drivers in their white coats and pants and Red Cross armbands drink hot coffee, with the dawn showing the urgency etched on their faces.

"We have every expectation of being able to get through," says Dr. Hans Ulrich Williner, the handsome Swiss doctor in charge.

And then he crunches across the gravel to the stark cement Hungarian customs house. He goes inside, led by a swarthy man in boots and a black fur coat.

Around the area, peasant women are digging up sugar beets, oblivious to the drama going on in the customs house.

This is where cross and Kremlin meet. This is Operation Mercy's breakthrough. This where the hopes of a generous and merciful world are centered. It is the culmination of the work of hundreds of volunteers.

Back in Vienna, the almost overwhelming job of keeping the supply line moving continues. Bigger convoys will follow. At last report, more than 500 tons of supplies have reached Vienna by plane, train and truck. They fill two warehouses.

From the Netherlands have come 40 tons of condensed milk, 25 tons of canned food stuffs, 35 tons of cocoa. Food and medicine have poured in from the U.S. Some days ago, this reporter flew in on an Air Force Globemaster with blood plasma sent by the American Red Cross. Much more has arrived since.

For example, the American and Canadian Red Cross sent 3,000 blankets and 8,000 sheets, shipped by rail from Great Britain. These are earmarked for the Hungarian refugees who stream over the border by thousands each day.

Besides supplies, volunteers contribute their services. By the hundreds they come, willing to do anything. Two working girls from California, on vacation in Europe, sweep floors and wash dishes. A special group of housewives do nothing but bathe babies. Each day, bus loads of boy and girl students from the University of Vienna go out to the refugee centers.

Nurses and doctors from all over Europe leave their jobs and come to the center here at Klingenbach. Mrs. Wolfgang Wolf, the stunning wife of the MGM business representative in Vienna, answers telephones 18 hours a day.

"All of us here want to help in some way," she says. "It's the very least we can do."

Four medical students come from Oxford University, working next to Austro - Hungarians of royal descent. Prince Liechtenstein acts as an interpreter for Canadian Red Cross official Dick Gluns. Baroness Henningstein works at Traiskirchen, one of the biggest refugee camps. Princess Hohenlohe operates a switchboard.

And the key link in the chain of money, material and men is here, with the hours going by and no sign of Soviet approval of the convoy's entrance.

This could develop into history's greatest international mercy brigade. But the delay has stretched into days and the convoy has waited here for 26 hours. The main objective of Williner and the Red Cross officials has been to give the Russians no possible excuse for refusal.

Apparently they are successful. Williner comes out, gives the signal. The drivers dash for the trucks. The motors roar. The Kremlin has said it's all right and the man in the black fur coat lifts the barrier.

The trucks roll forward, down the road to Sopron and 200 miles to Budapest. The song of the motors is drowned out by the cheering of the Red Cross officials and the volunteer workers.

Then they turn back to their other work.

Soft-Hearted Harman Tells Of Pheasant With High IQ

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The pheasant shooting season is on in my home state. I like the yarn my colleague from the Chicago Sun-Times spins about the educated pheasant.

Spinning yarns is not against the rules if you don't use a name.

My Friend Jack R. Griffin, of course, did not catch the name of the pheasant. All of the birds I ever met don't have a name unless they are in a cage.

Jack, I suspect, called upon his imagination, which the very young in our profession sometimes lack.

Anyhow, it seems that this city feller from Chicago went down in my part of the country in central Illinois and was fixing to do in a pheasant. And there he came upon a ring-necked lovely which must have gone to college.

It Can Read

"This pheasant," Jack told his readers, "could read and also tell time."

The way my yarn - spinning pal put it:

The slicker from the city, double - barreled shotgun loaded with No. 6 shot and at the ready, came upon this pheasant. The bird, it seemed, looked at the book of rules and rolled over. It is agin the law in that part of the country to shoot a bird unless he happens to be on the wing. This bird apparently had read the book.

According to Jack, this candidate for something under glass wasn't about to get off its sitter. So the city feller started pitching apples, trying to get a rise out of the prey. It didn't work.

Finally, however, the bird took off on a high wind.

But It's Smart

The hunter looked at his watch. It was 5:05 p.m., five minutes after cease fire time in Illinois.

That bird was smart.

But birds don't have to be smart to out-smart me. I am as heavy-footed as a dinosaur stuck in the mud when it comes to hunting.

Dad tried his best, but I didn't cotton much to shotguns and rifles. I wasn't too bad with the rifle but the shotgun had a kick. Not only that, there was the unpleasant business of squatting in a duck blind.

And in the case of the pheasants the pants - ripping barbed wire around fields posted with "no hunting, penalty of law" signs. Not to mention snakes in the grass and angry bulls.

I don't believe I have ever killed anything in my life, except for the accidental stepping on ants, or trapping mice via the cheese bait.

U.N.'S HEAD COP—Canada's Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chosen by the U.N. to head its Middle East police force, is in Cairo to organize actual operation of the group, formed to police a cease-fire. He had been serving as U.N. truce commissioner.
