The SDN Column

Perhaps you noticed the report the other day from the Colorado River Municipal Water District that its two lakes—J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence—have 136,000 acre feet of water on hand.

That is not an ocean of water, but it is comforting to residents of Snyder, Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, Stanton, Rotan, Union-Fluvanna, Dunn-Ira and other customers of the CRMWD. In addition to the two lakes, the CRMWD has water wells in fields located in Martin County and in Ward County.

Twenty-five years ago the situation was considerably different, and the CRMWD's history is involved in the great changes that have taken place in the water supply situation.

At a meeting of the water district's board of directors the past week, the torch was put to the last of the original bonds issued by the CRMWD back in 1951. Six men who were on hand when that original bond issue was floated were on hand for the "burning" ceremony that wiped out the last of the $11.7 million in revenue bonds. They were scheduled to be retired in 1981, but they already have been paid off, which attests to the CRMWD's financial strength as well as its service to its members and customers.

Two men from Snyder were among the six who joined in the bond-burning ceremony—James Rosser and Lyle Deffebach. Deffebach an original board member, is serving on the board again, and Rosser, a Snyder attorney, has handled legal work for the district since it was organized. The other four still associated with the district who were present for the occasion last week are R. A. Schooling, formerly of Snyder who now is administrative assistant in the district's headquarters; J. L. Rhoades of Odessa, now president of the board; P.C. Harbour of Odessa, who has served on the board continuously since the district was organized, and Joe Pickle of Big Spring, the only secretary the CRMWD board has ever had.

We recall that first CRMWD bond issue rather vividly. Living in Big Spring at the time and being a neighbor and newspaper colleague of the secretary, Joe Pickle, we sympathized with Pickle at the time because he literally developed writer's cramp signing all of those bonds.

He and the late R.T. Piner, a Big Spring banker and first president of the CRMWD board of directors, had to sign their names to a mountainous heap of bonds. There was comment at the time that prospects were bright for the district to pay off the bonds on time.

Not only has the original issue been paid off ahead of time, but the district has issued nearly $38 million more bonds since then. One issue of $2.75 million in 1963 has been paid off and more will be retired next year. Most of the bonds outstanding now were issued for construction of Lake E. V. Spence and development of the Ward County well field.

A supply of 136,000 acre feet doesn't sound like a lot of water when you consider that the combined capacity of Lake Thomas and Lake Spence is over 600,000 acre feet. But when you remember that the CRMWD has other reserves—the well fields in Martin and Ward Counties along with wells belonging to member cities—plus the fact that some cities and towns in Texas and New Mexico have been literally hauling water recently, it is a comforting situation.

At least we have considerably more time to hope for those rains that will produce some runoff for the lakes before our water taps begin yielding air.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, July 16, the 197th day of 1974. There are 168 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the first atomic bomb was exploded over the desert in New Mexico. It was the beginning of the atomic age.

On this date:

In 1790, the District of Columbia was established as the seat of the federal government.

In 1862, David Farragut became the first admiral in the U.S. Navy.

In 1918, Russia's Czar Nichclas II, his empress and their five children were executed by the Bolsheviks.

In 1951, King Leopold III of Belgium abdicated and was succeeded on the throne by his son, Baudonin.

In 1957, Marine Major John Glenn established a transcontinental speed record when he flew a jet from California to New York in three hours, 23 minutes.

In 1962, a coroner in Northern Rhodesia handed down a verdict that the death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarekjold in a plane crash was accidental.

Ten years ago: The Organization of African Unity met in Cairo, with the racial policies of Portugal and South Africa high on the agenda.

Five years ago: The Apollo 11 spacecraft blasted off from Cape Kennedy to attempt man's first landing on the moon.

One year ago: A former White House aide, Alexander Butterfield, disclosed that President Nixon had secret listening devices in the White House.

Henley Gets Six 99-Year Terms

By JIM Barlow
Associated press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The jury sentenced Elmer Wayne Henley, 18, to six prison terms of 99 years each today for his part in the sex-torture slayings of six youths who were among the 27 who died in the nation's largest mass slaying case in modern history.

The jury convicted Henley Monday of the six murders.

Henley's attorney said the convictions will be appealed.

By Texas' parole laws, he could be freed in eight years and four months under perfect conditions.

The sentence came after Dist. Atty. Carol Vance told the jury, "I apologize to the jurors that the laws of the state of Texas do not permit the death penalty in these cases."

Vance asked the jury to assess six 99-year sentences and it complied.

Multiple sentences of more than 60 years each are considered as one sentence for parole purposes.

The state admitted that the teen-ager had come under the deadly influence of a 33-year old homosexual mastermind. But it contended before the jury that not only did he procure victims for pay but actually enjoyed witnessing the homosexual tortures.

The judge said that if the jury found Henley willingly present at the murders he was guilty whether he killed the victims or not since that was evidence of agreement and encouragement.

The defense centered its efforts largely on attacking the credibility of the investigators and to ojbections to certain evidence and some of the legal instructions to the jury.

Both the prosecution and defense decided not to introduce new evidence at the punishment hearing.

Ed Pegelow, a defense lawyer, urged the jurors to consider as they debated Henley's sentence that he was only 15 years old when he became involved with Dean Corll, 33, the man police say was the mastermind in the Houston mass murders.

"Dean Corll was able to gain mastery over Elmer Wayne Henley and keep him under control," Pegelow said. "Dean Corll was the man who had perpetrated this monstrous tragedy for at least a year and a half before Wayne became involved."

Defense lawyer Will Gray said the prosecution and defense agreed in advance to submit no new evidence for the jury to consider in passing sentence.

Coleman Rites Are Pending

Lonnie D. Coleman, 88, died at 4:40 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Justin, Mr. Coleman was a retired employe of Yoakum County. He had moved to Snyder two years ago from Denver City. He was married in 1915 at Bells, Tex., to Miss Myrtle May Garland, who preceded him in death in 1963. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Surviving are two sons, Lonnie D. Coleman Jr. of Odessa and Bobby F. Coleman of Eldorado, Ark.; two sisters, Mrs. Jean Wallace of Justin and Mrs. Nora Lemay of Gainesville; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Demos Nix Change In Meet Date

AUSTIN (AP) — State Democratic party leaders refused today to change the Sept. 17 state convention date because of a conflict with the Jewish holy day, Rosh Hashanah.

The vote in a special called meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee was 27 for changing the date from Sept. 17 to Sept. 19, and 31 against. A three-fourths majority, or 48 votes, would have been needed to change the party rules.

The vote came after a special committee reported that changing the convention to Sept. 19 would result in 244 fewer rooms being available in Austin, the convention city. The committee said all three major downtown hotels would not be available, and the convention would not have a headquarters hotel. The committee added that 22 additional rooms could be picked up by going as far as New Braunfels and San Marcos to place the stimated 5,000 delegates.

The SDEC rules subcommittee recommended the recess on June 15, after a long public hearing, but the full 64-member state committee could not vote on the matter without a 30-day delay.

A three-fourths majority vote of the entire committee was necessary to change the rules and order the recess.

A special subcommittee named to investigate availability of hotel rooms in Austin on Sept. 19 reported last week "it is clear that there is no lack of facilities to impede the holding of the State Democratic Convention on the proposed alternate date."

TOGETHER AGAIN—Mark Stanley, 12, and his dog, Buster, are happy to be together again after a three-weeks separation. Buster was lost during vacation, but finally made it home Monday.

Makarios Said Alive

By The Associated Press

The United Nations and Britain reported today that Archbishop Makarios, ousted as president of Cyprus by the military rebels, was still alive. The reports came as the rebels announced the appointment of five cabinet ministers to a new "government of national salvation."

Britain said Makarios had asked for and was given permission to enter Britain's sovereign base areas on the Mediterranean island. But diplomatic sources in the British capital said the archbishop had left the areas for an unknown destination.

Some authorities in the British capital speculated he may be heading for a special session of the U.N. Security Council in New York.

The Cyprus national guard, which overthrew Makarios, claimed to be in complete control of the situation on the Mediterranean island. It said an islandwide dusk-to-dawn curfew would remain in effect, and warned that violators will be shot without warning.

But the British Forces Broadcasting Service, the station of the British army on Cyprus, said fighting was continuing in the capital of Nicosia, and the major cities of Larnaca, Famagusta and Limassol.

The U.N. Security Council was summoned to meet at 3 p.m. EDT in New York to consider the Cyprus crisis. U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said two top U.N. officials met with Makarios on Cyprus today and reported he was "sound and well."

British Foreign Minister James Callaghan told a cheering House of Commons in London that Makarios had requested permission to enter Britain's sovereign base areas on Cyprus, and that permission had been granted.

In Ankara, Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit charged that Greece was guilty of intervention in Cyprus and of violating the status quo of the island as an independent state.

He said Turkey has contacted Britain, the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on the coup in Cyprus.

"We have not gotten in touch with Greece because Greece is the interventionist power in this instance," Ecevit said.

Turkey, Greece and Britain are the guarantor states for the international agreements which set up the island republic in 1960.

The premier said Turkey called on Britain to cooperate in any undertaking to preserve the independence of the island and to re-establish the balance of power.

Sources close to the government said Turkey's leadership was convinced that it had totally legitimate cause for armed intervention under the circumstances. Before taking any further steps, however, a reply from Britain would be awaited, they said.

Cyprus radio said the new regime would maintain an independent course and avoided any mention of union with Greece, largely thought to have been the aim of Monday's coup.

The broadcast said Nikos Sampson, named president by rebels proclaiming the overthrow of Archbishop Makarios, promised elections within a year and liberty and religious freedom for Cyprus.

The radio also said the new government would pursue a program of political and economic reforms, including changes in taxation, communications and education.

The broadcast said the national guard would enforce law and order and restore "tranquility in the Church. This is a purely internal problem among the Greek Cypriots. The national guard is in full control of the situation."

Unusual Clue Brings Boy And Dog Together Again

When 12-year-old Mark Stanley signed his name and listed his address to rent an inner tube at Lake Proctor, he never dreamed that he was providing a clue that would reunite him and his dog, Buster. In fact, he never dreamed that he and his dog would be separated.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G.M. Stanley, 2115 Thirty-fifth Street. The family vacationed for a week back in late June at Lake Proctor in Comanche County.

On June 27, as their vacation neared its end, the Stanleys drove into Comanche to make arrangements to turn in a trailer they had rented. It was there that Mark's dog disappeared.

Mark had gone to Austin a couple of days before the incident and knew nothing of the dog's disappearance at the time. However, the parents searched and searched around Comanche, but the dog, a mixed breed, mostly Labrador Retriever, was not to be found. Finally, they were forced to come on back to Snyder without the dog.

Two weeks later they received work from Mauldin's Lake View Center on Lake Proctor that the dog had returned there, 11 miles from Comanche, and obviously was looking for his master. The dog eagerly watched as each car came by, and it was apparent that he had returned to the last place he had been with the Stanleys in hopes of finding them.

Someone at the Lake View Center recalled that the dog had been with young Stanley and they got his address from the registry where he had signed for the inner tube he had rented.

The dog came home late Monday to a joyful reunion. The Stanleys do not know whether the dog was stolen in Comanche, or whether he simply wandered off and lost his way. But it doesn't matter now because the dog and his master, who have always been inseparable, are reunited.

'4th' Event Called Most Successful

The community Independence Day celebration here this year was cited as the most successful in history, Chamber of Commerce Directors were told at their regular meeting Monday.

Roy Kidd and Ernest Sears reported to the board that the tractor pull attracted a record crowd and that if this event continues to gain in popularity, more facilities will be needed to put in on.

Mickey Nunley, chamber manager, said that estimates from a number of sources indicated that the crowd in the park July 4 was the largest ever assembled for the Independence Day event and that plans already were being mapped for next year's celebration.

Nunley also reported that plans are moving forward to provide permanent office space for the chamber and that a date will be set soon for a bus tour being planned to publicize the new Scurry County Museum. The museum building now is nearing completion on the Western Texas College campus and the college is due to take possession of the building this week. The bus tour will go to several neighboring towns and communities.

Death Claims Tammie Evans

Tammie Evans, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hub Evans, died at 9:25 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a long illness.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

County, WTC Interested In Travis JH Facilities

Although no definite proposals were made, officials of Western Texas College and Scurry County informed the Snyder Independent School District yesterday that they wanted an opportunity to discuss possible uses of the Travis Junior High School building when the public schools vacate it in 1975.

In an informal dinner session which preceded the regular meeting of the Scurry County Junior College District Trustees, spokesman for the college said there are several WTC programs that possibly could make use of some of the facilities at Travis. Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC president, said some of the vocational-technical classes are overflowing, especially welding, and there are suitable facilities for these at Travis. Also, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, described as one of the most successful activities ever attempted at the college, needs space for a Senior Citizens Center, which could be provided in the Travis building.

All members of the county commissioners court sat in on the session and County Judge Preston Wilson said the county definitely would be interested in looking at facilities that could bring together several offices now situated in various locations. These include county extension offices, welfare offices, food stamp office and possibly facilities for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Snyder Public Schools will combine its seventh and eighth grades and house all of them at Lamar Junior High and at the same time will move the entire ninth grade into the high school a year from now after construction projects are completed at Lamar and at the high school.

E.D. Flynn, business manager, and Bill Voss and Max von Roeder, board members, represented the public schools at the session. They advised that the school hoped arrangements can be made for the Travis buildings to be used. The schools plan to continue using the gymnasium at Travis and possibly some of the other facilities, but there will be plenty of space available for other uses, they assured.

Indications were that further studies will be made and more discussions will be held on possible uses for the Travis building.

"We are not making any commitments at this time and we are not asking anyone else to make commitments now, but we want a chance to talk with you when the time comes to make decisions," Dr. Clinton said.

Stage Set Here For 39th Rodeo

A downtown parade at 5 p.m. Wednesday will launch the rodeo season in Snyder.

First performance of the 39th annual Scurry County Rodeo will follow at 8:30 p.m. in the arena west of town on Thirtieth Street. The nightly performances will continue at the same hour through Saturday.

A special feature at the rodeo this year will be a Lone Star Match Saddle Bronc Riding event, with a Northwest team pitted against a Texas team. This will be for a total purse of $2,000.

Entertainment will be provided By Cindy Hataway of Snyder and "The Country Travelers" western band. Mrs. Hataway was in Nashville, Tenn., for a recording session recently and will have two records out soon.

The rodeo events each night will include the stockholders roping, with a saddle and buckle as prizes for the winner and runner-up; calf roping, with $200 added to entry fees; junior goat sacking, with a $7.50 prize for first and $5 for second daily; bull riding, with $200 added to entry fee; bareback riding with $200 added to entry fee; team roping with $200 added to entry fee, and the barrel race with $200 added to entry fee.

Bill Zimmerman is president of the Scurry County Rodeo Association, which stages the rodeo here each year.

Other officers and board members are Sid Johnson, vice president; Tommy Riley, secretary-treasurer; J.N. Eicke, arena director; John Ward, Jerry Springer and Ralph Miller, directors.

Jim Miller of Rapid City, S.D., will return to serve as announcer for the rodeo. Now a Realtor in Rapid City, Miller is a native of Borden County and will be serving as announcer for the rodeo here for the eighth year in a row.

GIVES CHARACTER TO FIRE PLUGS—Mrs. Shirley Greer, art teacher at St. Mary's Catholic elementary school at Madison, Ill., near East St. Louis, painted the fire hydrant in front of her home to resemble the comic strip character "Snoopy." # Hunt Pair In Triple Slayings

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police searched today for a pair of men seen running from a drugstore in which two men and one woman were killed during an apparent robbery Monday night.

The dead were identified as C. George Tatum, 49, owner of Donegan's Terrace Drugs; Vern Lee Harris, 54, an employe of the drugstore; and Ander Anderson, 54, a deliveryman.

Authorities said all three were shot in the face. One of the men's bodies was found near the rear of the store and the other two victims were forced to lie face down before being "executed," said Police Lt. Virgil Roberson.

Officers said identification of the victims was delayed because the men's wallets and the woman's purse were missing. However, $2,500 was found scattered on the floor of the store.

Witnesses said they saw two men running out the front door of the building after hearing shots fired. The onlookers said the pair disappeared around the rear of the store.

Police said Harris and Anderson were dead at the scene and Mrs. Harris was dead on arrival at Green Hospital.

It was the first robbery in San Antonio in which three persons were killed, officers said.

Test Tube Babies Raise Questions, Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — The births of three babies conceived in laboratory test tubes and then implanted in the mothers' wombs apparently were the result of scientific research and a little bit of luck.

The feat, reported in Britain on Monday, eventually could benefit women unable to have children because of blocked fallopian tubes. Nevertheless, it raises questions and controversy.

Prof. Douglas Bevis of Leeds University said the achievement of fertilizing a woman's eggs in the laboratory did not constitute a breakthrough.

"So many have been attempted that by the law of averages some have come through," he said.

In the United States, a government health official agreed, saying, "They apparently have been lucky." He said he believes there has not yet been enough animal research to justify trying the procedure on humans.

Proposed federal guidelines for human experiments in the United States, issued last fall, recommended that the procedure not be done, pending a demonstration of safety through animal study. The proposed guidelines are awaiting the findings of a special commission studying the subject.

Bevis told the British Medical Association the babies were conceived in a test tube with eggs taken from the mother's ovaries, fertilized with male sperm and after about a week implanted in the womb. From then on the pregnancy proceeded normally, he said.

The three births, all within the past 18 months, were normal, with the babies showing no sign of abnormality, he said.

The announcement emphasized the developing genetic and biological revolution, as scientists work to bring man closer to new controls over human life.

Fertilizing an egg in the test tube, for example, could lead to determining the sex of the embryo before implantation into the mother. Depending on the preference for a boy or girl, a fertilized egg could be discarded if it were not the choice.

A woman could hire another woman to do the work of growing a baby from her eggs, to cite another possibility. Whose baby would such a baby be?

This kind of research might lead to the ability to correct genetic defects before implantation, thus eliminating some diseases.

But laboratory manipulation could possibly result in the introduction of abnormalties and implantation of abnormal embryos of the kind that would be aborted spontaneously under normal conditions, some scientists have suggested.

Nixon More Determined To Stay

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Alexander M. Haig Jr, President Nixon's top White House aide, says a month of overseas summitry has reinforced Nixon's determination to stay on the job and continue "the leadership of the past five years."

Interviewed by three reporters Monday at the Western White House, Haig said Nixon returned from trips to the Middle East and the Soviet Union "intellectually and spiritually reinvigorated" despite a taxing schedule that left only three to four hours a day for sleep.

Haig pictured Nixon as ready to focus his energies on the business of government—fighting inflation at home and seeking peace abroad—while delegating day-to-day responsibility for his Watergate defense to his legal team.

He said Nixon is "well on the mend" from a June attack of phlebitis and that there is little danger of complications from the blood clot that developed in a vein in Nixon's left leg. He said swelling of the leg, near the ankle, has lessened.

Haig would not respond to questions about Watergate. But Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted Monday that Nixon "is not devoting much of his time to the matter at all."

Haig pictured Nixon as being able to devote more time to reflection at his seaside estate here than back in Washington.

"There is less minute by minute operational pressure," he said. He added that Nixon has taken advantage of the more relaxed environment for "stock-taking at critical junctures." He said he expected Nixon to take advantage of his current stay to block out plans for the months ahead in the area of foreign and economic policy.

Haig said Nixon views his two summit trips as having been "highly successful" and meeting "all the objectives he set for himself."

Colson Back On Stand Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Charles W. Colson underwent a second day of questioning by the House Judiciary Committee today, with Republican members hoping he will bolster President Nixon's impeachment defense.

"He's a ticking time bomb," said Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., of the former White House aide. "He is filled with information that will help the President."

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's impeachment defense lawyer, began the examination of Colson today with the 38 members of the committee waiting for their chance at him later.

In nearly 10 hours on the stand Monday, Colson was asked by the committee counsel about his wide-ranging activities for the White House, which include participation in many of the areas under investigation.

Colson has pleaded guilty to an obstruction of justice charge in connection with the investigation by the White House plumbers unit of Daniel Ellsberg, who had made public the Pentagon Papers.

Members said the closed-door examination of Colson had lasted so long partly because of the detailed questions of minority counsel Albert Jenner and partly because of Colson's careful answers.

Rep. George Danielson, D-Calif., described Colson's performance as a witness as "very smooth. He defends the President, but not too far."

Rep. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., said "I think he is trying to be candid, but he hasn't had much practice."

Wiggins and other Republicans said none of Colson's testimony indicated any direct involvement by Nixon in the activities the committee is investigating.

Daniel Remains Confident

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Constitutional Convention President Price Daniel Jr. tried today to put a bright face on the failure of a new state charter to win even a majority vote so far.

Daniel's comment to reporters came as the Submission and Transition Committee, some of its members mentally exhausted, sought the key to unlock the impasse over a new Texas Constitution.

The convention met briefly in the morning, then recessed until 3 p.m. to hear a progress report from the committee.

Daniel called reporters to his podium and said he had reviewed the two votes overnight and was "very pleased, at least, that 138 delegates have cast 'aye' votes."

He said he continues to believe that, a majority, 150 or more legislator-delegates favor the new constitution.

Recognizing that "some delegates still have hangups about the basic document," Daniel added that he doubted anything would be accomplished by pulling out the controversial "equal educational opportunity" section and making it a separate proposal.

This, however, would "not necessarily" violate his conviction against tampering with the basic document, Daniel said.

Delegates had no material for floor debate this morning because the Submission and Transition Committee adjourned after 2½ hours of testimony and argument Monday night without action on any new package.

Antique Victrola Reported Stolen

Someone stole an antique Victrola, a piano stool, a crystal serving set and some chinaware in a burglary of the R.N. Gray farm home south of Dunn sometime within the past two weeks, according to Sheriff's authorities.

Sheriff's Authorities also said there was a burglary at the Weldon Beck home 11 miles out on the Roby Highway. It occurred Sunday night. Taken were a stereo tape player and 10 tapes and a vacuum cleaner.

Two Mishaps Are Reported

Minor damage resulted from two motor vehicle mishaps here yesterday.

Both of them occurred in the 1800 block of Twenty-sixth Street. The first one occurred at 4:52 p.m. Involved were a 1973 Model Lincoln driven by Andy Lewis Price of Westminster, Colo., and a 1973 Ford pickup operated by Dorothy Rosalie Gray, Box 293, Gail.

The other one occurred at 6:08 p.m. Involved were a 1969 Model Plymouth driven by Thelma H. Davenport, Box 663, Snyder, and the 1971 Model Chevrolet of Robert Clifton Rumpff, 213 Thirty-sixth Place.

Glass Shattered By Vandals Here

Vandals shattered the back glass panel in a door at Ballard's Cafe, according to City Police, who said Mrs. Carl Ballard reported the vandalism at 2:39 p.m. Monday.

Police said Bobby Scott told them someone stole a 3-speed girls' bicycle from 911 Thirty-sixth Place. He called in at 9:53 a.m. Monday.

followed, the junior college district board accepted the museum building as substantially completed and authorized payment of $21,188 on the contract, but withholding $10,000 pending completion of a "punch list" of items which remain to be finished.

The board approved the purchase of a 30-second clock for the WTC gymnasium, which will be needed for the girls basketball program being initiated this year. The bid of Snyder Athletic Center for $350, which was the lower of two proposals received, was accepted.

The board accepted resignations of Harry Dietz, assistant professor in mid-management, and Charlotte Strasner, instructor in secretarial science. Dietz, who appeared briefly at the board meeting, said he was deeply appreciative of the opportunity he had to be associated with WTC. He said he was returning to his home town of Seguin, something he had looked forward to for some time. He praised the college here and urged the board to continue to carry its program forward.

Dietz introduced Charles Blaylack, new mid-management coordinator who arrived this week. Blaylack came here from Stephen F. Austin State University where he completed work on a degree. Another mid-management coordinator, Charles Riley, is due to arrive here in August. The mid-management program will be expanded for the coming year.

The board approved several policy revisions, mostly updating the policy manual to include items already approved over the past few months.

Next regular meeting of the junior college district board is set for Aug. 12.

Escape Plan Was American's

TOKYO (AP) — An American businessman says he suggested the plan by which 85 persons escaped from a hijacked Japanese Air Lines plane at Nagoya, 170 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Police seized the hijacker, a young Japanese construction worker, after the 81 passengers and four of the eight crew members got safely off the plane Monday. The hijacker stabbed himself in the neck and chest but was reported out of danger after the doctors sewed him up with 26 stitches.

Milton M. Richmond, 48, of Chicago, one of two American passengers aboard, said he persuaded the stewardesses to open the rear emergency exits while the hijacker, 26-year-old Akira Iwakoshi, was in the cockpit talking to Nagoya airport officials by radio.

"The captain kept saying the situation was very serious," said Richmond, "while the hijacker screamed hysterically in the background. We could all hear it.

"The stewardesses were very reluctant to open the doors, very reluctant. In fact, they didn't want to open them at all. But we had kids aboard.

"The stewardesses finally opened a door and then got some blankets which we tied together and let down to the ground. A policeman hung onto it and Bob Allen — my buddy — and I pulled him in. We were the only big guys there."

Then the passengers and cabin crew slid down the emergency chute and walked ankle deep in mud across the field. "It feels fine, doesn't it," said Richmond to his companion, Robert Allen, 48, of Glendale, Calif. The two men are with an American smelting company.

Meanwhile, 11 plainclothesmen stormed into the plane and overpowered the hijacker.

Iwakoshi had put his knife to the neck of a stewardess and took over the plane on a flight from Osaka to Tokyo. He demanded the release of a jailed radical leader and transport to North Korea. After several hours at the Tokyo airport, the plane took off for Osaka but landed at Nagoya when it began to run short of fuel.

Stamford Shooting Probed

STAMFORD, Tex. (AP) — Peace officers sought today to unravel a mystery shooting in which three persons were reported wounded but they could find only one—who later died.

The shooting occurred about 11 p.m. at a beer store in the Tuxedo community, east of here in the north edge of Jones County.

Sheriff Garth Garrett from neighboring Haskell County said an unidentified man asked a telephone operator to summon aid, telling her that "three people have been shot, one of them bad." He said apparently the same man took that message on foot to the home nearby of the store's manager, Jack Stacy.

On arrival, officers found James Wendeburn, about 30, lying in a pool of blood in a storage room. A charge from his own shutgun had struck him in the neck, and he died three hours later at a Stamford hospital.

In the confusion, the man calling for aid disappeared.

Since Wendeburn normally carried a pistol in his shirt and that weapon was missing, investigators said it appeared possible that the slain man wounded someone else, perhaps during an attempted holdup.

Stacy told them no money was missing from the cash register.

Suicide Attempt On TV Successful

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Television talk show host Chris Chubbuck wrote her own death script and then carried it out by putting a gun to her temple and pulling the trigger as television viewers watched.

The attractive WXLT-TV anchorwoman, 29, died in a hospital 14 hours later.

Her handwritten, blood-spattered newscript read, "Today Chris Chubbuck shot herself during a live broadcast."

The story she had scrawled in longhand was found on the desk where she sat Monday morning and calmly announced to viewers what she said was a television first:

"In keeping with Channel 40's policy of bringing you the latest in blood and guts and in living color you are going to see another first—attempted suicide."

Then she reached into a shopping bag behind her desk, pulled out a .38 caliber revolver, fired a single shot and slumped forward.

"It took less than a second to get the gun to her head and pull the trigger," news director Mike Simmons said.

Spokesmen at the Sarasota sheriff's office and WXLT said both were swamped with calls after the incident.

They said many of the calls came from viewers who could not believe the shooting had been real and asked if it were some sort of prank.

Last week, Miss Chubbuck jokingly hinted to colleagues that she was contemplating suicide. No one took her seriously.

Coworker Rob Smith said she told him, "Wouldn't it be neat if I were to take the gun, pull it out on the air, live and in living color, and blow myself away."

"I thought at the time it was just a bad joke and changed the subject," Smith said.

Her mother, Mrs. M.D. Chubbuck, said Miss Chubbuck, recently named public affairs director for the ABC affiliate, was "terribly, terribly depressed.

"She said that constantly. She had no close friends. She was already 29 years old and it bothered her. She was very sensitive. She tried. She'd say, 'Hi, how are you, won't you have some coffee?' They'd say, 'No.'"

Mrs. Chubbuck said her daughter, a native of Hudson, Ohio, had been under psychiatric care.

Monday morning she was reading a news report about a shootout at a bar when there was a mechanical difficulty with a film clip.

"She covered for that and didn't seem a bit nervous or upset," said Valerie Rubin, a Sarasota Herald Tribune reporter who saw the telecast.

"Then she picked her right hand up from behind the desk, put a square-looking little gun to her head and squeezed the trigger. The hair on the right side of her head billowed out.

"From the sound I thought it was a blank and remember wondering to myself whether a blank could cause enough wind to blow your hair ....

"Instantly she jerked forward and her face fell on the desk. Then the picture went dead. I thought it was some sort of tasteless joke at first."

Brother lets ex-wife and her boyfriend live with him

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law is a very self-centered person. She left her husband (my brother) after 25 years of marriage, to marry a gigolo-type man.

This caused my brother to have a nervous breakdown, during which time she never came near him to offer sympathy or help to her former mate, who would have died had it not been for us—his sisters and brothers.

This faithless wife even gave custody of their 15-year-old son to her husband, saying the boy was a nuisance.

Now, after several years of ignoring my brother, this terrible woman AND her gigolo husband have fallen on hard times, so they came to my brother, who offered to share his home with them.

Free room and board he's giving these worthless people! They have been there for several months now, and my brother will not permit any interference from any of his family.

Have you ever heard of a former husband permitting an erring wife and the man who broke up his marriage to be permanent guests in his home? He has no pride, apparently. Could his breakdown have addled his brain? My brother holds down a responsible, high caliber job. BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: If your brother's brain were "addled," he couldn't be holding down a high caliber job. But addled or not, it's his home and his decision—not yours—so stay out of it.

DEAR ABBY: What do you suggest for a non-sexist salutation in a business letter?

Obviously, "Dear Sir" is inappropriate; "To Whom It May Concern" is too verbose; "Greetings" connotes induction into the armed forces.

To further true equality, especially in this male-dominated business world, a new vocabulary is necessary. MS. W.

DEAR MS. W.: I offer, for your consideration, the unimaginative "Sir or Madam." (Too lacking in warmth and courtesy?) or, "Attention." (Or does that suggest "Achtung!" the German command?)

"To Whom It May Concern" may be verbose, but it is non-sexist and conveys precisely what the writer has in mind, which is still communication at its best.

DEAR ABBY: Who is right? Here is the situation: My husband of three years, my in-laws and I were having supper at our house.

My husband said to me, "Honey, will you please get me some more water?" I said to him, "God gave you two strong legs. If you want more water, get it yourself, dear." (We all work fulltime.)

His mother immediately jumped up from the table and got him some more water.

I said nothing at the table, but later I told my husband that I didn't think his mother should intercede in a two-way discussion between him and me.

I love and respect my mother-in-law, but I am curious as to what you think of this. THE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your mother-in-law should have ignored the exchange between your husband and you, but since she didn't, you shouldn't have made a big deal out of it. She probably acted out of habit. (Mothers are easily trained.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO UNCLE HENRY: No horse can go as fast as the money you bet on him.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif., 90069. Enclosed stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Report Is Figueroa Alive, Well

IGUALA, Mexico (AP) — Kidnaped federal Sen. Ruben Figueroa, 66, is alive and well and will return home before Aug. 15, a newspaper editor who claims to have received a letter bearing his signature said today.

Figueroa, his secretary Gloria Brito and his nephew Febronio Diaz disappeared last May 30 and presumably were kidnaped by guerrillas led by Lucio Cabanas.

Editor Raul Velasco Vazquez of the Iguala Daily "El Correo" said, however, he doesn't think the letter is authentic. He turned over the letter to a relative of Sen. Figueroa and later it was sent to the Interior Ministry in Mexico City, he said.

"The letter says the senator is alive and in good condition and that he will return home before Aug. 15," Velasco Vazquez said. "It also says that he has not been able to communicate with his family but it doesn't mention the other kidnap victims."

Iguala is about 150 miles north of Acapulco and below the Sierra Madre of southern Guerrero state, where Cabanas' guerrillas have operated the past six years.

A communique purportedly sent by Cabanas to Mexico City newspapers last month stated demands for a $4 million cash ransom—the largest ever asked in Mexico, plus arms and freedom for political and common prisoners in exchange for Figueroa's life.

The Mexican government rejected the demands and ordered 16,000 federal troops into the mountains to hunt down Cabanas and rescue Figueroa and his companions. So far the search has been fruitless.

Velasco Vazquez said the letter claims Cabanas never asked for arms or freedom for prisoners but doesn't mention the cash ransom demand.

Two Convicts Surrender Ending 105-Hour Ordeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two armed convicts, driven back by gunfire and tear gas in a desperate attempt to escape their besieged cellblock, surrendered to law officers Monday night, ending a 105-hour ordeal at the U.S. District Courthouse.

Hours after their frantic effort to find freedom by axing their way into a courthouse ventilation duct, Frank Gorham Jr., 26, and Robert N. Jones, 24, were flown to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

Gorham and Jones had been inside the cellblock since Thursday when they seized eight hostages and tried to bargain for a freedom flight to Algeria.

They released one of the hostages Friday and held the others—six men and one woman—as bargaining pawns until the seven fled Sunday in a daring escape engineered by one, a deputy U.S. marshal.

Stripped and handcuffed, Gorham and Jones gave up 36 hours later.

The final act of the drama began about 9 p.m. EDT Monday when they used an ax to hack their way into the air duct. For the first time since Gorham and Jones had barricaded themselves inside the basement lockup, officers exchanged gunfire with the pair, then used tear gas to force them back into their confinement. No one was hurt.

Deputy District of Columbia Police Chief Maurice Cullinane, part of a force of about 20 District policemen and U.S. marshals who stormed into the cellblock area, said he persuaded Jones and Gorham to surrender.

Cullinane said Jones and Gorham stripped and handcuffed themselves. Then police entered the room, searched them and allowed them to dress again.

They were driven to nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., where they were ushered aboard a Coast Guard jet.

Norman A. Carlson, director of the Bureau of Prisons, said it was his decision to send the men to the prison in Atlanta. He said the men had nothing to do with it, although authorities had talked earlier of sending them to a prison hospital facility at Springfield, Mo. The men objected to this. The men had asked for a prison on either the East or the West Coast.

Police and marshals with guns drawn patrolled the streets around the courthouse, a few blocks from the U.S. Capitol, Monday night.

Gorham, a convicted bank robber and one-time Vietnam paratrooper, and Jones, a veteran of a previous jail revolt two years ago, were reported in good condition by a police physician.

Gorham had faced up to 73 years in prison, Jones at least 30 years.

They seized their hostages and took over the cellblock about 2 p.m. Thursday using a gun somehow smuggled to them. Inside the cellblock they had access to a gun cabinet.

The hostages were Deputy U.S. Marshals Joseph H. Driskell, Calvin L. Mouton and William V. Colquit; Justice Department employes Ralph Schwartz and Debra Collins, and attorneys John J. Hurley and William Garber.

Mouton devised the scheme that led to freedom for the seven, by arranging for an elevator key to be secreted in a sanitary napkin.

Search Continues

IDABEL, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas officials continued dragging operations on the Red River today in a search for an Arkansas youth.

Steve Brinkley, 15, of Foreman, Ark., was wading in shallow water with three companions Sunday when he stepped into a deep hole.

The drowning occurred about 25 miles east of here at a point in the Red River between Arkansas and Texas near the Oklahoma line.

SAYS SAMUEL DASH

Guilt Is Hard To Spell Out

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Samuel Dash, the Senate Watergate committee's chief counsel, says that after 15 months of investigation "you're damn sure that certain people are guilty of certain things."

But it would have been grossly irresponsible for the committee to have spelled out in black and white its conclusions as to exactly who may have violated which laws, Dash said in an interview.

"If we had come to conclusions or drawn the final inferences that could be drawn from the facts we would rightly be the subject of criticism and outrage from the public, the legal profession and the Congress," Dash said.

He commented after hearing reports that some staff lawyers and investigators were bitter that the panel's final report drew no conclusions and that certain sections of the final report had been condensed or deleted.

"This was an excellent staff and one of the things that made them so good is that they were hunters, they went after the jugular," Dash said.

"But hunters are not necessarily the ones to write a final report," he said. "They have to be kept on leash."

Dash himself wrote many conclusions into his first draft of the Watergate break-in and cover-up section of the panel's final report.

He had long argued that such conclusions be made a part of the final report based on the weight of the evidence before the panel.

"I did change my position," Dash said. "I changed it after it became clear that such conclusions by the full committee might ruin all the trials being planned for this fall by the special prosecutor or 'bollix up' the preliminary impeachment proceedings before the House Judiciary Committee."

Dash said there may be a few staff members who disagree with the committee's decision and who "want to get the last drop of blood or the last turn of the knife."

"But I think the bulk of the staff is quite supportive," he said.

Dash said he believes the final committee report actually is "quite hard hitting" as well as fair and said it should be easy for readers to weigh the evidence presented and reach conclusions of their own.

Showers Dot Nation

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers dotted the nation today, keeping temperatures down and, in some areas, unseasonably cooler.

A weather system that caused scattered showers in the Rockies pushed thunderstorms into the Northern Plains states and Mississippi Valley. Rainfall was fairly light.

A tornado was spotted close to Dilworth, Minn., near North Dakota, but no damage or injuries were reported.

Another line of storms stretched from the Central Plains to the midsection of the Eastern Seaboard. Areas reporting half an inch of rain included Newport News, Va., Lexington, Ky., and Bridgeport, Conn.

Bullets, Rebs Win Jr. Tilts

The Bullets clipped the Oilers 4-2, and the Rebels flailed the Buffs 12-2 in Junior Teenage League action here last night.

The Bullets' Darrell Lester fired a 3-hitter, giving up singles to Robby Moore, Ricky Beard and Calvin Reese. Reese was credited with an rbi for the Oilers.

The Bullets got six hits off Ricky Beard. Dray Sikes and Mark Davis each doubled, Johnny Valasquez stroked two singles, and Rudy England and Tracy Witherspoon each singled. England, Witherspoon and Davis each batted in a run.

The Oilers scored both of their runs in the 6th while the Bullets tallied twice in the 1st, and one time each in the 3rd and 4th frames.

The Rebels' Glenn Davis and Alvin Allison combined forces for a two-hitter, giving up a double and a single to Clay Peterson.

The Rebs socked eight hits off Peterson and Brent Terry. Glenn Davis clouted a triple and a single, Bryan Walton hit a double and a single, Doyle Browning doubled, and Alvin Allison, Kenneth Thompson and Dennis Vaughn each hit a single. Vaughn batted in three runs, Browning and Allison each batted in two runs, and Davis and Walton each had one rbi. Peterson drove in a run for the Buffs.

The Rebs scored twice in the 1st, five times in the 2nd, once in the 3rd, twice in the 4th and twice in the 6th. The Buffs scored once in the 1st and once in the 5th inning.

American League All-Stars Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland leads seven returning veterans and one newcomer elected today to the American League squad for major league baseball's 45th All-Star game July 23.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced that Jackson received an unprecedented 3,497,358—the highest for a single player in All-Star history—of the record 6,545,712 votes cast by fans nationwide.

"It's great to get more votes than Henry Aaron or Johnny Bench, to be recognized by the people," said Jackson.

"It's a nice feeling, and gives me confidence to play ball better," he added. "I'm thankful the fans have given me a boost."

Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, who won the balloting for the third base spot and is a perennial All-Star, observed, "With the start Jackson has had, he deserves it."

Jackson's manager, Alvin Dark, had another thought.

"Even with that amount of votes, Reggie is underrated," the Oakland skipper said. "He should get all the votes and be a unanimous choice."

Jeff Burroughs of Texas got 1,546,766 votes as the runner-up AL outfielder and the only leader who was not a 1973 All-Star starter.

Bobby Murcer of New York got 1,539,335 votes to capture the final starting AL outfield berth for the night game in Pittsburgh. But Oakland's Joe Rudi was a close fourth with 1,347,545 votes.

Other winners were: First base, Dick Allen, Chicago; second base, Rod Carew, Minnesota; shortstop, Bert Campaneris, Oakland; third base, Robinson, Baltimore, and catcher, Carlton Fisk, Boston.

Carew led all infielders with 2,402,968 votes to beat Kansas City second baseman Cookie Rojas, who gained 1,269,585 votes.

Campaneris collected 2,143,524 votes against 841,263 for Detroit shortstop Eddie Brinkman.

Robinson, 37, of Baltimore got 1,437,716 votes to make him an All-Star for the 15th time—10th as a starter. Sal Bando of Oakland trailed in the third base balloting with 921,665 votes.

Allen of Chicago had 1,285,911 votes while Boston first baseman Carl Yastrzemski collected 1,204,604 as the runner-up.

With Fisk—who had 1,626,874 votes—sidelined by a knee injury, runner-up Thurman Munson of New York was expected to become the starting catcher. He totaled 1,243,779 votes.

American League Manager Dick Williams of California will choose the All-Star pitchers and reserves.

WFL Signs More Players

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The World Football League has signed as many as 100 more National Football League players than the 45 already announced, General Manager Curly Morrison of the WFL California Sun said Monday.

Morrison said the Sun had signed four NFL starters whose names have not been announced. Bill Putnam, owner of the Birmingham Americans, said his team has signed 15 NFL starters but only five have been announced.

Checks with the New York Stars and the Memphis Southmen indicated five more unannounced signings.

The signings were reported in Tuesday's Los Angeles Times.

"There are a lot of reasons why the players don't want it out," said Stars General Manager Bob Keating of the signings, most of which are for the 1975 season.

Baptists Win, 15-1

Only one game was played in mens softball action Monday night as First Baptist blasted Browning Liquid Feed 15-1.

Mike Doolittle homered and doubled while pitcher Bill Morren and second baseman Bob Doolittle each had two singles to lead the First Baptist assault. Pat Saddler had two singles for the losers. Bill Morren was winning hurler while Tommy Hester was tagged with the loss. In the other scheduled game, AM Gang won by forfeit over Lee "66."

Tuesday night action pits Lee "66" and Lee Construction at 7:30 p.m. and AM Gang and Wadleigh Star Builders in the 9 p.m. game.

L. League All-Stars Vie Today

The Little League playoff game at Colorado City was postponed last night due to a wet field. Snyder's All-Stars will meet Colorado City's All-Stars at 7 o'clock tonight in Colorado City in the first playoff game.

The Snyder roster includes Robert Bartlett, Scott Crenwelge, Tony Degrate, Tim Derrick, Paul Gafford, Mike Greenfield, Kyle Herrley, Greg Merritt, Shawn Ragland, John Reese, William Robinson, Kyle Short, Bryan Vincent and Sammy Willis.

James Vincent is manager, and Lane McMillan is coach.

Two Sign With 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Guard Gary Crowthers and forward Dave Stoczynski have signed contracts with the Philadelphia 76ers, the National Basketball Association team announced Monday.

Crowthers, a 6-foot-3 guard, was a No. 5 draft choice from Hardin-Simmons, where averaged 15.6 points a game as a senior and led the team in assists.

Stoczynski, a No. 7 pick from Gannon College, averaged 17.9 points a game and shot 50 per cent from the field.

Another Game May Be Cancelled This Week

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The National Football League players' strike, having already knocked off the College All-Star Game, may claim another less important but perhaps equally significant contest before the week is out.

Roy Jefferson and Brig Owens met with Washington rookies at the Redskins' Carlisle, Pa., camp Monday and tried to convince them not to play any exhibition games, including a rookie scrimmage Friday night, which the Redskins' striking players say they'll picket.

"The fact that the game is scheduled at RFK Stadium (in Washington) and that they're charging money for tickets tells me the game is an exhibition game," said Jefferson.

"If we can stop this game, it might set a precedent so other teams won't have them until this thing is settled."

Chances of the 16-day-old strike being settled within a week are slim. Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, and James Scearce, the federal mediator, aren't expected to meet in Washington until Friday at the earliest.

And Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers, NFLPA president, said Monday,

"If we can't reach an agreement in six to eight weeks, there's something seriously wrong," Curry said, adding he would have his negotiating team "on 24-hour call to start talking."

He also said he believes "both sides now are ready to sit down and discuss the issues .... I think we would be foolish if we couldn't sit down and settle this before the regular season starts...."

While some camps had no veterans reporting and a few camps had one or two players, the Cincinnati Bengals had a dozen players and the Houston Oilers had 10 vets.

Tight end Bob Trumpy and linebacker Al Beauchamp were among the Bengals working out. Quarterback Greg Cook also worked out Sunday—but on Monday he walked out, not because of the strike but apparently because he felt he just couldn't make the team or help it.

Five years ago, Cook was a brilliant rookie. But shoulder injuries kept him out of three seasons and all but one of last year's games.

The Bengals said he slipped a note under the door of an assistant coach, Bill Walsh, which said: "No explanation for my leaving. I just can't do it anymore. Give my reasoning to (Head Coach and General Manager) Paul (Brown) and my apologies."

The Cincinnati turnout surprised some striking veterans.

And Dan Rooney, vice president of the Steelers, suggested: "Cincinnati is our No. 1 competition, and since some of their veterans are showing up, maybe some of our guys will consider this and decide to report."

Dizzy Dean Has Heart Attack

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Baseball Hall of Fame pitcher Dizzy Dean remained in guarded condition today after suffering a severe heart attack, hospital officials say.

Dean, 64, was admitted to St. Mary's Hospital Sunday night with chest pains, and later suffered a major attack, said Ed Spoon, a hospital spokesman. Once, he said, Dean's breathing stopped, but it was restored through resuscitation.

Spoon said Dean probably would remain in the hospital for an extended period of time.

New Bacteria Kills Infant Mosquitoes

By T. LEE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — A scientist says he has discovered a type of bacteria that can kill infant mosquitoes by the billions, has no apparent effect on the ecology and could save millions of lives.

The bacteria could be a potent weapon in fighting malaria, said Dr. Samuel Singer, associate professor of biological sciences at Western Illinois University.

Malaria is transmitted by the anopheles mosquito and kills about 10 million persons worldwide each year, Singer said in an interview Monday.

The racket-shaped bacteria attack tiny tadpole-like mosquito larvae growing near the surface of ponds, lakes and other water bodies.

The bacteria, known as bacillus sphaericus, are cultivated in a pale broth, and one cupful would be enough to control mosquitoes in the average farm pond or lake, said Singer.

The approach would also help control yellow fever and other diseases transmitted by mosquitoes, Singer said. He said it is likely that other bacteria could be used to kill black biting flies and the tiny water snails that transmit parasitic worms.

"It's not as important that we've found something to kill mosquitoes as it is that we are starting a kind of approach," said Singer. "That approach is to use a disease that's found in nature to fight the insect."

In the past several decades, mosquitoes commonly have been controlled by use of chemicals such as DDT. But research in California shows that mosquitoes have developed a resistance to such chemicals, Singer said.

Singer said the chemicals also pose a threat because they accumulate in the creatures that feed on the mosquito larvae, eventually working their way up the food chain to man.

"That's the reason there's such a danger," he said. "That's a very potent poison."

Singer said he first isolated the bacteria in 1972. He said he has since improved their potency by selective breeding and hopes for commercial production within five years. Tests on the bacteria's effectiveness which began in Nigeria last year will be continued this year, he said. No results have been announced.

The research is being conducted with the assistance of the World Health Organization and grants from the National Science Foundation and Western Illinois's University Research Council.

Guards To Join Anthrax Battle

MARLIN, Tex. (AP) — National Guardsmen were to join stockmen and state and local officials today in battling an outbreak of anthrax which is estimated to have killed at least 200 cattle in Central Texas.

Officials said the disease has been reported in Falls, McLennan, Limestone, Freestone and Milam Counties.

Roadblocks were set up Monday in Milam, Freestone and Falls Counties, and animals were being vaccinated in those areas and in Robertson and Leon Counties.

George Darby, state anthrax task force official supervising road blocks, said Monday there was no way to determine how many cattle have died because carcasses are so quickly disposed of.

"It's safe to say that 200 to 300 have died, however," He said. "You can drive down roads in Falls County and see fires everywhere."

Carcasses are burned to prevent disease germs from entering soil or being picked up by scavanging animals.

A National Guards spokesman said state Adj. Gen. Thomas Bishop had ordered 70 to 80 men from the Combat Support Co., 1st Battalion, 134th Infantry, 36th Airborne, based at Marlin, to report at noon today and assist with roadblocks in Milam, Freestone and Falls Counties.

He said two helicopters from the 49th Armored Division would survey the infested area for animal carcases.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe authorized use of National Guard personnel and helicopters Monday to help prevent movement of livestock from quarantined areas.

The units will assist local officials, the Texas Department of Agriculture and the Texas Anval Health Commission, who also are engaged in the massive animal vaccination effort.

Dr. H.Q. Sibley, executive director of the Animal Health Commission, recommended the vaccinations. A staff veterinarian for the commission, Dr. J.B. Young, said injections were not mandatory but "cattlemen can lose all their herd to the disease if they don't vaccinate."

Vaccinated cattle cannot be taken to market for 42 days after injection, and cattlemen say the waiting period also could be disastrous.

Marlin rancher Tommey Green said, "I don't know if we can afford to feed them." Green said he and several other stockmen have withheld cattle from market to await higher prices and many pastures are grazed down.

Individual cattle ranches in the area were quarantined Friday, and roadblocks went up Monday when health officials determined that some cattle were being moved.

Darby said all livestock or poultry vehicles leaving quarantine areas must be disinfected and registered at roadblocks.

Satellite Network Unveiled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's first domestic satellite communications network has been unveiled by Western Union with the sending of the message "What hath God wrought?"

The communications firm inaugurated the $90 million system using the Westar I satellite by sending the message Monday from New York to Los Angeles by telegraph key.

That's the same message Samuel F. B. Morse transmitted May 24, 1844, when he opened the first telegraph cable from Washington, D.C. to Baltimore.

New York Mayor Abraham Beame and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley participated in ceremonies in their cities opening the communications network. The mayors also spoke with each other over no-dial, directly connected telephones which were linked through the satellite.

Westar I was sent aloft April 13 by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Another Westar satellite is to be launched in September, the firm said.

A spokesman said the system can provide various voice, video, data and graphic transmission services with ground sending and receiving stations in New York, Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas and Los Angeles. There are connecting links to San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

During opening ceremonies Bradley's voice was carried on Western Union cables to another Los Angeles relay point, sent via other cables to a transmission tower in Perris, Calif., in the desert east of here, then to the satellite, transferred to a receiving station in New Jersey, then sent by cable to a relay station in New York and finally into the opposite telephone.

Many Factors In Crime Hike

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A growing, transient population, an influx of organized crime, availability of lethal weapons and increased narcotics trafficking contributed to the South's soaring jump in serious crime in the first three months of the year, an Associated Press survey shows.

The U.S. Justice Department, in its annual Uniform Crime Reports released Monday, said the crime index total increased 23 per cent in the southern states in January, February and March of this year compared to 17 per cent in the West and 9 per cent in the North and Northeast.

U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, in releasing the report, called on the entire criminal justice system to improve itself.

But officials in the South blamed the increased rates not on their law enforcement agencies but on other factors, such as lack of community involvement, inadequate funds, weak laws and a population growing faster than police departments.

In Atlanta, 2,128 crimes of violence were reported, compared to 1,783 in the same three months last year There were fewer murders, more rapes, and Atlanta continued to lead the nation in both categories on an annual, per capita basis. The city's annual murder rate is 54.5 per 100,000 persons.

Atlanta Police Chief John Inman said the city suffers from a lack of uniformed officers.

In North Carolina, Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, said more community involvement, more law enforcement manpower, more training and more innovations, and with quicker trials, are needed to offset the surge in crime.

Officials generally agreed that improved systems for reporting crime made it appear the crime rate had gone up more than it actually had.

"A department that is not working very hard to bring about change may be riding a very pleasant set of statistics," said Memphis, Tenn., Police Director Jay W. Hubbard. "But another department that is beating its brains out to make sure its reporting is absolutely adequate and to improve every feature, administrative as well as tactical, may find that it is falling farther behind."

Police Chief Joe D. Casey of Nashville, Tenn., said crime was increasing because "there are people in the South than ever before.

Only two cities in the South—Baton Rouge and Shreveport, La—were among the 33 major cities in the nation with decreased crime figures.

Lt. Harry Hebert of Baton Rouge police said in the past six to nine months personnel has increased from 423 to 508 and both police and sheriff's departments had received budget increases to set up plainclothes divisions.

The police force in Shreveport also has been beefed up in recent months. J. Kenneth Lanigan, assistant police chief, believes some of the changes are directly responsible for the decrease in crime.

DuPont Dumping Discussed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Representatives from five Gulf Coast states discussed the dumping of DuPont Co. wastes in the Gulf of Mexico but reached no conclusions on possible actions they met here Monday.

Representatives from Alabama, however, indicated that state would join Florida in a suit against dumping the wastes from a West Virginia chemical plant at a site 230 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

A federal court restraining order presently blocks the dumping.

At the conference, sponsored by the Louisiana attorney general's office, were Mississippi Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer and assistant attorneys general and scientists from Florida, Alabama and Texas.

DuPont also sent representatives, who repeated their assertions that the chemical wastes are not harmful to fish and other aquatic life.

The conference was called to prepare for a July 22 hearing in Pensacola on DuPont's request to continue dumping the wastes at the Florida site, which was approved by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The Florida site was approved after Louisiana objected to renewal of DuPont's permit to dump waste 45 miles off the coast of Venice, La.

Suspect In Fire Held

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Police held a Grandfield man today for questioning about a fire which did more than $100,000 damage in downtown Lawton and injured 11 persons.

The suspect, 51, was arrested late Monday after Asst. Fire Chief J. W. McCaig identified him as a man he saw leaving a vacant building just before the fire started. McCaig turned in the first alarm at 9:49 a.m.

It was the second Lawton fire in recent months believed to have been started by a transient, McCaig said.

Eleven men were treated for smoke inhalation or eye and leg injuries. Officials said none of the injuries was serious.

The fire gutted four vacant buildings owned by the Lawton Urban Renewal Authority and did heavy damage to Lee Optical Co. Several other buildings suffered smoke and water damage, but officials said firewalls confined the blaze to the vacant structures and the optics firm.

Earlier Is Better

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — Canadian Health Minister Dennis Cocke wants doctors to work with the government in eliminating late abortions.

Cocke told the B.C. Medical Association annual meeting hoped to stop abortions beyond the 14th week of pregnancy, except in situations where the mother's health is seriously in danger.

Sheep, Goat Raisers Air Problems At State Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Drought, inflation and predators are "ganging up" on the West Texas livestock industry, say members of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

Several disagree on which is the most harmful but there was no disagreement that the ranching economy is suffering because of a variety of woes.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe was among those scheduled to address the group's 59th convention today.

Worth Durham of Sterling City said drought was a major problem in his area, where only two inches of rain have fallen this calendar year.

"There's certainly no panic, but everyone I've talked to is becoming more despondent wondering where we go from here," added Scott Lanford of Blankett.

Ranchers such as James Wittenburg of Rock Springs said increased feed costs were hurting him worse then the perennial lamb and kid-killing coyotes.

"Grass is gone, and we have to feed, and every time we go to get a load it's gone up again," Wittenburg said.

A Fort Worth feed manufacturing representative noted that cottonseed meal, a principle source of protein, "jumped $15 per ton last Wednesday, another $5 on Thursday and another $5 on Friday" into the $135 per ton range.

He said soybeans, another source of protein, "were even worse," jumping $17 per ton last Wednesday.

"It seems that everything is bad, but it's overall cost of operations that's hurting most," stressed Mort Mertz of Eldorado and president of the 3,000-member association. "There's great disparity between cost to us and price we get. Drought is only compounding the situation."

Frank Courtney of Jonesboro in Coryell County described moisture conditions as spotty, but said grass is gone and some cattlemen are being forced to move some of their stock to market.

"There was less than 25 per cent of a hay crop, a half normal crop of milo (grain)," he explained. "If there isn't relief with rain in 30 days many, many cattle will be forced to market, and cattlemen know the disaster that flooding the market can cause."

A representative of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Eldon Johnson of Austin, said, "We are witnessing deterioration of crops and grass almost daily. What rain has fallen has been spotted and the western two-thirds of Texas is awfully dry, compared with the northeast portion which is generally in good shape."

The ranchers agreed, however, that livestock have held up in good condition.

The drying up of stock ponds also has become a major concern and ranchers are running out of water, they said.

Bill Sims of San Angelo, executive secretary of the association, said the ranchers themselves must control predators rather than waiting for the state and federal government to act.

Steps Are Taken To Stop Spread Of Parrot Fever

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
Associated Press Writer

The state and federal governments have combined for a program to work with turkey processors and producers in stopping the spread of parrot fever in Central Texas.

Officials say parrot fever, scientifically known as ornithosis, sickened 25 Texans in its recent outbreak transmitted by turkeys.

The Texas Animal Health Commission and the U.S. Agriculture Department's Plant and Health Inspection Service set up the ornithosis project office in College Station Monday.

Dr. M.S. Dickerson, state epidemiologist for the Texas Health Department, said 25 cases of ornithosis have been confirmed in the Waco and Lampasas areas of Texas. The Plantation Foods, Inc. turkey processing plant at Waco had 18 cases and Armour Foods, Inc. at Lampasas had seven cases.

Dick Taylor, president of Plantation Foods, said he has had no human cases of ornithosis at his plant since June 1 and all of his employes who were sick are "well and back at work."

An employe of a turkey processing plant in Nebraska died from a sickness similar to ornithosis, but Taylor said the antibiotic used to treat the disease is effective and therefore none of his employes were seriously ill.

He said the sickness among his workers was transmitted from "one bad flock of sick turkeys" brought to his plant in May.

"The people who got sick are the ones who work on the insides of the birds," said Taylor. "I don't see any danger to humans if they don't work at a processing plant. I don't even believe farm workers are threatened and as far as consumers are concerned, there's no problem."

Texas turkey producers and processors met last weekend in Austin and College Station with state and federal veterinarians and public health officials to plan ways of overcoming possible dangers and losses from ornithosis.

Under the plan adopted each flock of turkeys would be tested by state or federal veterinarians no more than 10 days before they are shipped across state lines or sent to processing plants.

Summer Storms Hit Texas

By The Associated Press

Summer storms cranked up again today for a renewed assault on parts of Texas, mostly in the south and west portions.

It was a continuation of the weather which for several days has brought a little moisture—usually not enough to dent the July heat—to some areas while leaving others desperately dry.

By early morning moderate to heavy thunderstorms mixed with showers surged from near Austin and San Antonio southward to around Beeville and Three Rivers, from near Uvalde across the Rio Grande into Mexico and from around Lubbock and Midland toward San Angelo.

Weather service radar indicated rainfall rates up to one inch per hour in some of the storms.

Skies were partly cloudy to clear in other sections.

Early morning temperatures stayed as warm as 80 degrees at Del Rio and 81 at Galveston, while Amarillo in the Panhandle was the coolest point with a 64.

Top marks Monday afternoon mounted to 100 at Del Rio, 101 at San Angelo and 102 at Wichita Falls. Beaumont, which measured 1.42 inches of rain, saw the mercury go no higher than 86.

Bentsen Attacks Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., says the Nixon administration has failed to cooperate with Congress in efforts to control inflation.

The Texas senator said Monday that Congress' joint economic committee invited the President's chief economic adviser, Kenneth Rush, to discuss inflation "but the President wouldn't let him come."

Bentsen, a member of the Senate Finace Committee, said Rush cited "executive privilege" as the reason for not meeting with the congressmen.

"That makes no sense at all," Bentsen told the International Conference on Automtive Safety. "Why should there be great secrecy in wanting to turn this country around and get it back on the right track?

"Congress should work with the President and the President should work with Congress," the Texan said. "We have to see if we can bring this thing under control. We can't get together if the President will not let his chief economic adviser see us."

Bentsen said he found it "very difficult" to measure Rush's qualifications as economic adviser "if we can't even talk to him. We would like very much to hear from him."

Clothing Reflects Personality

COLLEGE STATION—Clothing can be used as a clue to personality, one clothing specialist said.

"People with certain personality characteristics tend to choose the same kinds of clothing and the same colors," explained Margret Ann Vanderpoorten, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"People who are interested in clothes and have lots of them are often more sociable than those who have few clothes and little interest in them," she pointed out.

Warm colors such as red and yellow are often chosen by those who like entertaining and outdoor activities.

The blues and greens are preferred by people who like indoor activities more and enjoy being alone.

"Generally, people who like strong, clear colors also like other people around them and are outgoing, while those who favor pale or subdued colors often prefer quiet activities and are more independent," the specialist said.

"However, many other things besides personality affect clothing choices," she reminded.

Emilio Pucci Designs Furnishings With Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

People are looking for t.l.c. (tender loving care) in the market place. And they are getting it, says Italian fashion innovator Emilio Pucci. The merchandising scene is changing mainly because "Americans are leading the world in the matter of perfected ideas."

"In any Godforsaken spot in Africa, Asia or wherever, a little man in a tiny village is working on something that has been partly developed from a local thing and partly designed by an American buyer who has tracked him down with the aid of an interpreter has caused him to make something," he says.

"In directing their energies towards these little companies America has been a stimulating factor, too, in getting sub-countrie on their feet. People may talk about the ugly American, but one day this effort will be recognized as the greatest economic and sociological influence of American civilization over the rest of the world," he said.

Even he feels the impetus as he is constantly invited to do new things and now finds himself "more and more in the field of home furnishings." A life-long painter, he has just introduced his first collection of lithographs.

We are turning away from the "infinity of products which have surrounded us since the industrial revolution, the essentially materialistic things that were created with a view toward mass-production and low cost," he continued.

"Fewer people are buying things just because they look pretty, but if the object gives one the feeling that it originated with human warmth, one may be drawn to it."

Nowadays, a visual element of a product must embody something more than an aesthetic feature. It must convey a message which relates to a human feeling or concern for other people.

"It is the reason people shop flea markets for old things that reflect concern on the part of people who made them. It might be a little lace pincushion with a hand-embroidered initial that is not just a cushion but an object made lovingly to express affection for a grandmother'" he says.

The persistence of Americans is one reason his own design board is going off in so many directions. In fact, 25 years ago while in the Air Force Pucci was, in a sense, an American discovery. He was pressed into designing sportswear when an American fashion editor found that he had designed the ski clothes he was wearing. Later he went on to design dresses, purses, shoes, lingerie and jewelry. In these last years he has designed everything from bath towels to carpets for the home. Now he is on to lamps.

"If I achieve what I want in lighting — a whole new concept of color — it will be unique in the history of interiors,' he says enthusiastically. "I am trying to get out of light and color things which, historically, never have been done."

Famed for his vidid colors in clothes — Capri blue, geranium, almond green, Emilio pink and the like — often combined in his unmistakable geometric prints, he remarked that they were designed for open air activity "at a time when colors were drab." He considers "the framework of nature the very best test of color."

In Florence, the nobleman — he is a marchese — conducts a majestic household. He lives in a thousand-year-old family palace with such heirlooms as plates painted by Raphael and bedroom walls done by Wedgwood. The wines bearing his name are from his own vineyards.

Pucci's six signed lithographs on view now in galleries in New York, Washington, D.C., Miami, Houston, San Francisco and Oakbrook, Ill., depict a serene atmosphere "because people are not in the mood to be distressed further by the objects around them," he insists.

"If art is to have value, it should express this urgent feeling— serenity and optimism — that people seek. People have a desire to get back to a human dimension of life."

In ancient Rome, the Emperor Nero proclaimed that only he could wear the purple, a fabric colored with extracts from murex shellfish. Seafaring Phoenician merchants made the regal dye and grew rich selling purple wool for about $150 a pound, the National Geographic Society says.

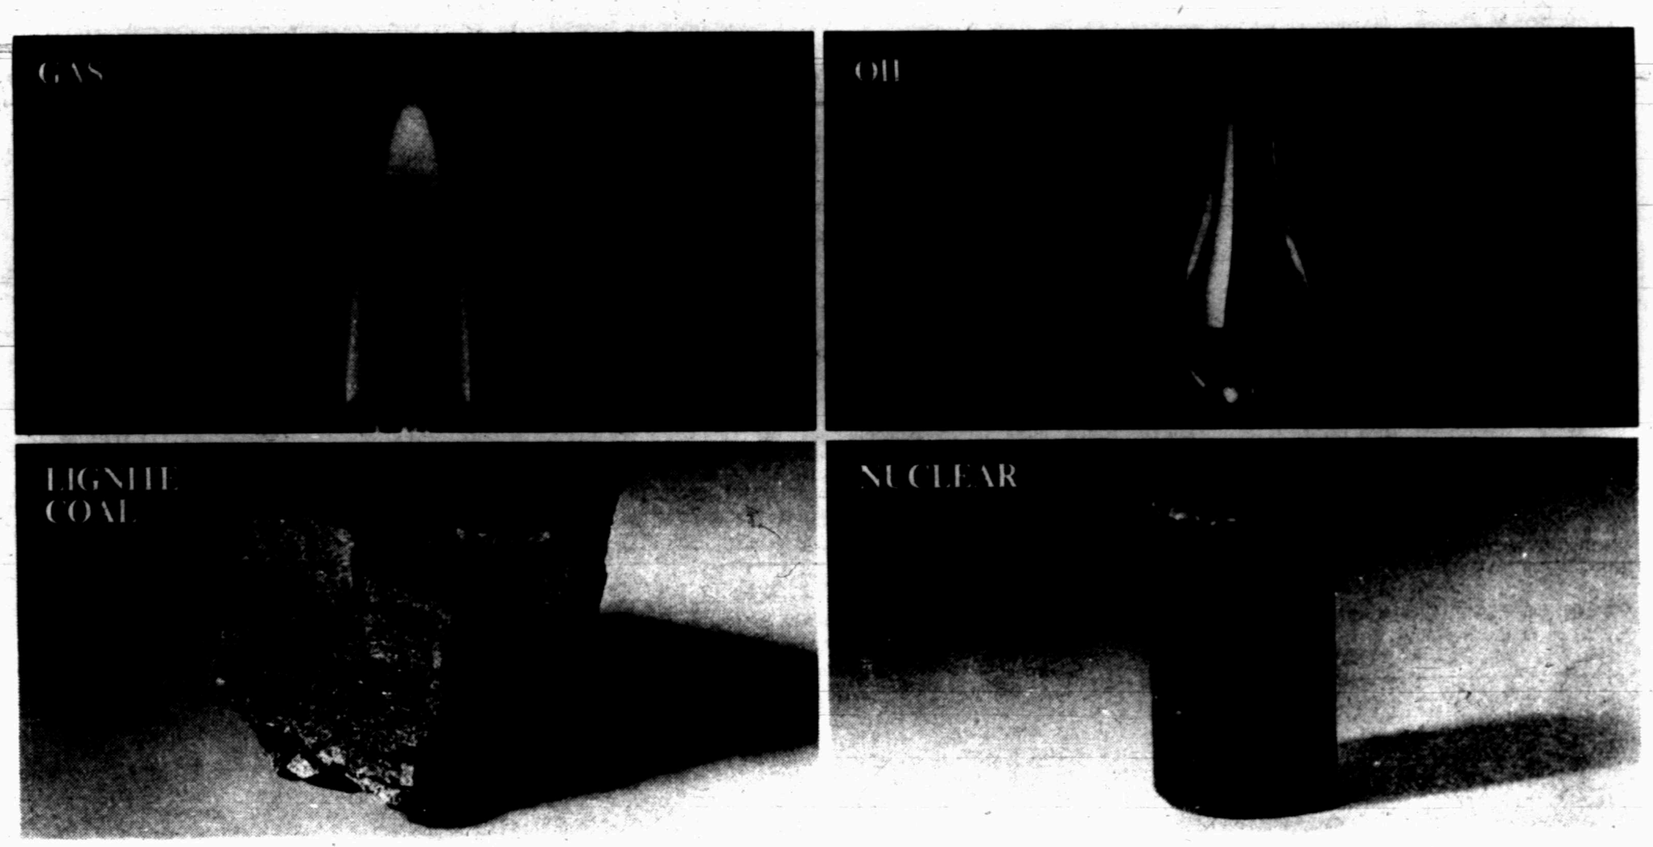
PLUM CATCHUP

Delightfully smooth texture.

3 pounds (about 3 dozen) red ripe plums, pitted and halved
¾ cup cider vinegar
1½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon allspice
⅛ teaspoon cardamom

In a large saucepot bring the plums and vinegar to a boil; simmer until plums are mushy — about 20 minutes. Puree in an electric blender. Return to saucepot and add sugar, salt and spices — they should be the ground variety. Simmer, stirring often, until as thick as tomato catchup — about 45 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal. Makes a little over 2 pints.



We're building power plants that use different fuels so you'll continue having the electricity you need.

Natural gas is the major fuel we use in our generating plants, and will be for several years. Oil is used on a standby basis.

But new supplies of these fuels are extremely difficult to obtain and increasingly expensive. To reduce our dependence on them, we've begun using lignite coal. We now have one lignite plant in operation, and two others under construction.

We have adequate supplies of lignite for the operating life of these plants and for some additional planned units. Even so, we will need another dependable fuel source for the future. That's why we're planning to have a nuclear-fueled plant in operation by 1980.

The use of lignite and nuclear fuels is necessary to provide enough electricity in the years ahead. Supplies of these fuels are more abundant and neither is being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

But building plants that use these fuels is a difficult and expensive job. Lignite and nuclear plants cost much more to build than gas/oil plants. While this means electricity will have to cost more in the future, the cost will be less with lignite and nuclear fuels than it would be with natural gas and oil, even if adequate new supplies were available.

We're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

Corporations, Executives Fared Well Last Year

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate chief executives did pretty well financially last year, raising their total compensation — made up of salaries, bonuses, deferred income and directors' fees — 11.5 per cent over the year before.

While in general it was a good year in terms of corporate profits also, some of the companies involved in a survey by Wytmar & Co., a management counselor, didn't fare as well. One company reported a loss of $189 million.

Wytmar studied the compensation practices of 826 companies with a sales range of $50 million to more than $5 billion and came up with these findings:

—Chief executive officers were paid an average total compensation that ranged from $94,000 for companies with sales in the $50 million to $100 million range, to $481,000 for the largest companies.

This average was arrived at from extremes of $160,000 to more than $900,000, the latter figure attained by the chief executive of General Motors, although the companies involved in the survey were not named.

—The average chief executive in the study was 57 years of age, had worked 24 years for the company and had served as the top officer for seven years.

—He attained the heights most often through financial, marketing or administrative routes. But in some cases, even in the $2 billion to $5 billion sales range, he carved his own route. He was the founder.

—The chief executive officer is a big stockholder, although his holdings were down from the year before, not because he owned fewer shares but because the value of shares was lower.

The median stock ownership among chiefs of the largest companies was in excess of $1 billion, and the median for all companies in the study was $557,000. That is, one-half the executives had more than that, one-half less.

Nations Set Meet On Population

By GEORGE BRIA
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Delegates from some 130 nations will meet in Bucharest Aug. 19-30 to take the hardest look yet at the problem of the world's steeply rising population.

At current rates, the population would double to 8 billion in 35 years. Some scientists think the trend would soon jeopardize mankind's existence. But some countries want to keep growing.

With population problems closely tied to food and resources, conflicts loom inevitably in Bucharest between delegations of rich and poor countries. The issue is snarled in psychological, emotional, nationalistic and religious complexities.

Despite pitfalls, Antonio Carrillo-Flores, secretary-general of the conference, is optimistic that the meeting will adopt a world plan of action.

Carrillo-Flores, a former Mexican foreign minister, visited 30 countries in 20 months of preparation for the conference. He told an interviewer his main purpose is to present family planning as "a tool of social justice" for the poorer peoples of the world.

A draft of the action plan to be submitted to the conference states that "while no universal family size norm is recommended, it is recognized that a majority of the people of the world lives in countries that wish to reduce present fertility levels, and a larger majority lives in countries that favor small family size norms."

The draft urges that all countries "make available to all persons who so desire ... the necessary information and education about family planning and the means to practice family planning effectively and in accordance with their cultural values."

Hope Puts Blame On Self, Bing

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope says a successful oil investment venture that he and Bing Crosby had several years ago may have been a lure to fellow performers who lost millions in the alleged Home-Stake oil swindle.

"It's all our fault," remarked the comedian. "We cost this community a lot of money just because of what happened to us several years ago.

"A guy came to us with an oil deal, and it sounded pretty good, so Bing and I put in $105,000 apiece. I remember wondering when I was signing the last check for $19,000 if I was just throwing my money away.

"Sometime after that I was playing a date at Baylor University in Waco, Tex., and this oil guy said he wanted to come down and see me because he might have some good news for me.

He came and told me that others were striking oil around our property.

"Well, that property produced 28 flow-ers that proved to be worth $20 million, and Bing and I were in for a quarter interest apiece. The news made a page in Time magazine, and then every star in town wanted to get into oil."

The lure was irresistible for those making highly taxable incomes. Not only was the original investment tax deductible. Revenue from the wells—if they came in—had the advantage of the oil depletion allowance.

Stars were willing to hand over huge sums without even seeing the wells they were investing in.

"I don't know how I missed out on the deal," said Hope, who was not approached by Home-Stake. "It sounded like a great setup with all those names—like a coast-to-coast wax museum."

It is possible that Home-Stake's masterminds decided not to try the money-wise Hope. The comedian gets solid investigative surveys before he parts with any of his cash.

Dolores Hope was once asked what she thought her husband would have been if he hadn't gone into comedy.

"Why, a businessman, of course," she replied quickly. "And a very successful one."

He has proven that in his dealings, showing an ability to rattle off details of a complicated contract with the same ease that he remembers jokes.

Flusher Promoted

HULL, England (AP) — Dennis Bateson, 23, who formerly flushed 2,000 toilets a day as tester at a bathroom equipment factory here, has been promoted to the position of junior foreman.

Bateson was known as Britain's top chain puller and had held his previous post for two years. Now the company reports having trouble finding a new man for the flushing job.

Junior Editors' Quiz on CHINESE CABBAGE

QUESTION: What is Chinese Cabbage?

* * *

ANSWER: Chinese Cabbage is a member of the Crucifer or Mustard family of plants, a large group containing 1,800 or more species of valuable vegetables and garden flowers. The Brassica species comprises mustard, turnip and other members of the cabbage clan, including an oriental variety known as Chinese Cabbage or Celery Cabbage. Chinese Cabbage has been grown in China for many years and is now finding a place in the American garden. There are many varieties, but the type most often seen in the United States is Petsai, a long tapered head, 14 to 16 inches long of almost white leaves, resembling somewhat a broad stalk of celery.

The leaves and stalks of Chinese Cabbage are crisp and tender and may be used as a cooked vegetable or in salads. It may be added to mixed green salad or made into coleslaw. When cooked, it does not have the strong odor associated with cooked cabbage.
