WAGE POLICY DISCUSSED AS STOCKS SURGE

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press General Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 25.—Possibility of a wage readjustment in steel was injected into the business recovery picture today as the stock market surged upward for the sixth successive day, completing a week of rising prices unparalleled in recent Wall Street history.

Conflict of opinion between the new deal and important sectors of business management over the proper wage policy to spur recovery was noted.

1. United States Steel Corp. issued a statement today that none of its officials "has given any assurance" sweeping price reductions in its products announced yesterday would not be followed by wage cuts.

2. In his "fireside chat" last night President Roosevelt called for a united stand by capital and labor to resist wage slashing, approved U. S. Steel's price reduction, and added he was "gratified to know" it involved no wage cut. A White House secretary explained today the President was guided by news reports in his assumption wage adjustments would not follow.

Stock market traders began bidding.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE BATTLE FOR YANGTZE

SHANGHAI, June 25 (AP)—Chinese and Japanese forces fought desperately today for mastery of the Yangtze river valley about 200 miles downstream from Hankow, the provisional capital.

Bloody battles were reported on the south bank at Shiangkow Chang 20 miles below the Chinese-defended boom at Matowchen.

This barrier of sunken boats, timbers, rocks and concrete was the first barrier to Japanese gunboats joining the river offensive against Hankow.

Japanese infantrymen thrust forward overland to assist in the river offensive.

Chinese declared the Yangtze offensive had been halted. Shore batteries aided by fast Chinese bombing planes were said to have driven the attacking gunboats down river.

With less than two weeks to go before the undeclared Japanese war is a year old, the entire Japanese offensive showed strong indications of having reached a stalemate.

Blocked by widespread Yellow River floods in Honan province, the Japanese were 200 miles from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's provisional capital, Hankow.

If the river continues to rise the Japanese may find it impossible.

CITY TRAFFIC OFFICER BOB IRWIN QUITS JOB

Traffic Officer Bob Irwin yesterday severed his connections with the Pampa police force, Chief J. I. Downs announced. A successor had not been named last night but Chief Downs said he would place a relief man on duty today.

Irwin's departure from the force leaves only W. C. "Slim" Dillman on duty following appointment two weeks ago of Chief Downs. Three night officers quit after a controversy over new rules and regulations.

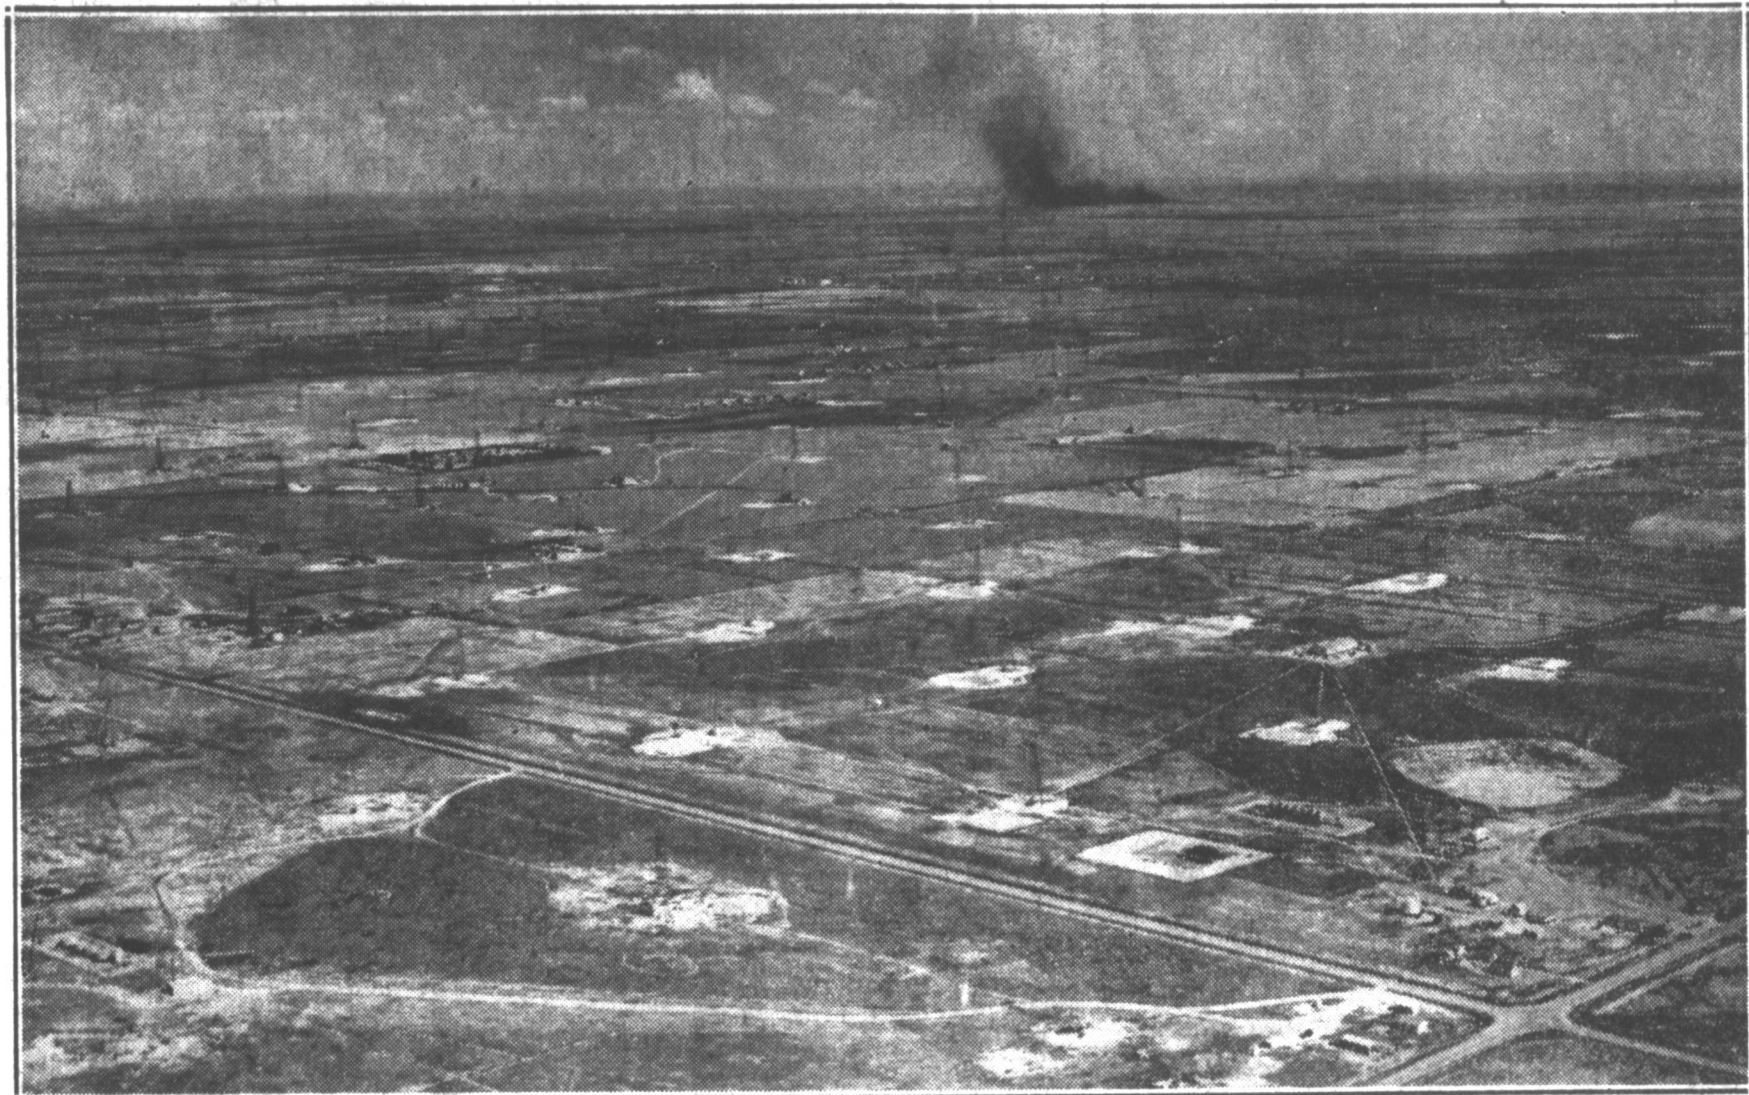

No permanent staff has been named by Chief Downs. On duty at night are Lawrence Flaherty, Jeff Guthrie and J. W. Croul.

Oil Activity Speeds Up--Shutdowns To End July 1

The Panhandle oil picture became brighter and drilling began to open up as soon as the Railroad Commission announced that Saturday and Sunday shutdowns would terminate July 1. The long awaited spring upswing is now getting underway in the Panhandle fields, including the huge producing area west of Pampa, shown above in an aerial photo taken by Foster Fletcher. The field crowds right up to the city limits. In the far background may be seen the smoke of a carbon black plant. This picture taken in Dee Graham's pit shows strikingly the scope of the huge field where the derricks rise out of broad flat wheat fields. Note that the derricks are in rows.

Building in Pampa took on new life last week when permits totaling $15,500 were issued by Inspector Sam Thomas. Two of the permits were for large residences in the Cook-Adams addition. Total for the year to date is $117,875.

Largest permit was issued to F. E. Shryock for construction of a two-story frame residence on North Charles street. Next largest permit was taken out by Noel Reynolds for a $5,500 stucco residence, also in the Cook-Adams addition. J. King was named contractor on both houses.

John Sturgeon took out a permit for $1,000 and Charles Kentling one for $1,500 structures.

The Pampa Hardware company took out a $1,000 remodeling permit.

FLOYD HAMILTON'S PAL PLEADS NOT GUILTY

DALLAS, June 25 (AP)—Jack Winn, erstwhile companion of the fugitive Floyd Hamilton, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John Davis on a charge of bank robbery at Bradley, Ark., June 6.

Officers said he would be removed to Texarkana for trial. Commissioner Davis fixed bond at $3,000.

Officers here said Winn, in a written statement, said he remained in an automobile while Hamilton and Ted Walters, fugitives from the Montague county jail, held up the Bradley bank.

YOUTH HUNTED ON MOUNTAIN

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25 (AP)—The inscrutable summits of mile-high Sandia peak shrouded the fate tonight of Medill McCormick, 21-year-old heir to the McCormick publishing fortune, missing four days on an ill-fated climbing expedition on which a companion was killed.

Skilled mountain climbers flew in by plane from Colorado late today to search almost inaccessible crevices and sloping ledges which might hold young McCormick, for whose life and safety searching parties held little hope.

The battered body of Richard Whitmer, McCormick's climbing companion, was brought into Albuquerque from the mountains 20 miles northeast of Albuquerque. It was found under the towering rock face of a cliff known as "the shield," near the summit of the peak.

Seven veteran climbers were concentrated on the peak late in the day as Governor Clyde Tingley and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, who personally directed the search, refused to permit the inexperienced to dare the sheer heights.

Mrs. Simms, side by side with dwindling hopes, stayed at the search base in Juan Tabo canyon at the foot of the mountains.

Though her associates were convinced young McCormick was dead, Reynolds water cooled auto seat cushions. Motor Inn Auto Supply.

Dickie Kennedy Wins Robin Hood Contest

By THE ROVING REPORTER

Dickie Kennedy, high school one-act play star, is the champion Robin Hood of Pampa, but he had close competition from Bobby Childers, regional tennis champion.

Dickie won the bow and arrows, grand prize given by the LaNora theater, in the championship match. Both he and Bobby, champions of the junior and men's divisions, won two-week passes to the LaNora.

Other prizes were won as follows: men's division, Robert Duvall, second one week's pass; Charles Hickman, third, two tickets to see Robin Hood which opens at the LaNora today; junior division, Billy Richey, second; Don Childers, third. Prizes in this division were the same as the first. Richey's and Don's scores were the closest.

A large crowd was massed on each side of the shooting lane and cheers were frequent as an archer hit the bull's eye. The R. R. and the LaNora pronounced the archery contest a success, and the R. R. immediately made plans to organize an archery club and arrange other contests. The R. R. believes that Robin Hood contests will prove popular. Complete plans for organization of the club will be announced later.

"Blackie" Yowell, "Pony Boy" Rhea and Claude Lard put on the contest. Claude Lard was scorekeeper and Bill Kelley and Nevin Johnston were in charge of the target which was tacked on six tales of hay.

That some good shootin' went on is indicated in Dickie's score sheet which showed that he hit some ring in the target 17 out of 18 times.

There was one man there whose name was lost in the excitement who should have entered that contest. He had a yew bow from Oregon that must have cost plenty and a quiver full of seventy-five arrows. He also wore a wrist.

$1,000 DAM CONDUIT WASHED OUT BY FLOOD

Heavy rains Friday afternoon washed out sand from under a conduit at Lake McClellan dam, causing damage of $1,000.

Workers had just completed putting in the concrete structure when the rains came, causing the conduit to collapse.

County Judge Sherman White yesterday talked with an engineer on the project who did not state when the damage would be repaired, nor how long the job would require, the judge said. No other damage was reported at the dam.

FIRST WHEAT RECEIVED HERE

First load of 1938 wheat delivered in Pampa was taken to the Great West Mill & Elevator company Friday afternoon by W. E. Jarvis who farms the Will Wilks place a mile north of Pampa.

The wheat, according to A. A. Tie-mann, elevator manager, contained many green suckers, lowering the test to 54. Mr. Tie-mann paid a premium of eight cents a bushel for the first load of wheat, giving Mr. Jarvis 62 cents a bushel.

Wheat locally was priced at 60 cents a bushel for first grade Friday. Yesterday's close was three cents higher.

The heavy rain of Friday is expected to delay general cutting in this area until late in the week or nearly next week. However, sun and dry weather may ripen the wheat faster than expected, elevator men report.

Mr. Jarvis estimated that the acreage cut by him Friday would yield nearly 17 bushels to the acre which is much greater than the early estimates for the Pampa area.

AUSTIN, June 25 (AP)—Choice of a new president for the University of Texas was as much of a mystery as ever upon conclusion here today of a meeting of the board of regents.

THEN IL DUCE SHOUTS HE'LL DESTROY SPAIN

By The Associated Press
Europe was plunged into a new war scare tonight by Spanish government threats of bombing reprisals against Italy and a quick warning from Rome that Italy would meet such reprisals by wiping Spanish government cities off the map.

The scare started by disclosure the Spanish government at Barcelona had threatened to bomb "Italian-dominated" towns in the Balearic Islands, just off Spain's east coast.

It was heightened by reports from sources close to the French foreign office that the Barcelona government also had threatened to bomb cities of "those foreign countries" sharing responsibility of Spanish civilian centers.

Then tonight, creating fear among French and British diplomats that a general European conflict might break out, Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy notified France his warplanes would destroy government Spain is Spanish planes should bomb Italian cities.

Il Duce's declaration came after the Spanish ambassadors in London and Paris had said their government as planning reprisals against foreign nations whose planes they accused of "massacres" among civilians in government Spain.

Barcelona authorities have insisted that both Italian and German fliers have taken part in bombings of civilians behind their lines.

Act of Desperation
Premier Mussolini's warning was given to the French foreign office by the Italian charge d'affaires, Renato Fumani, who said the first Spanish government bombs dropped on Italy would open war.

He said the Italian army and navy quickly would follow the Fascist airplanes and utterly destroy government Spain.

Diplomats expressed fear open warfare between government Spain and the totalitarian states would bring a general European conflict.

Some said they believed the Spanish threat was an "act of desperation" thus said the action of France in closing the frontier to Spain to transshipment of war supplies to the Spanish government made the war materials situation critical for Barcelona.

They pointed out that 17 merchant ships, mostly British, had been sunk in the government's

ROBBERS TIE VICTIM'S TIES

Rich couple, homing at dawn from a New York night club, robbed of a fortune in jewels and cash by thugs who bound both wife and husband with more than two dozen of the husband's beautiful four-in-hand neckties. This shows the danger of being reckless. If, instead of careless indulgence in lengthy neck-ties, the husband had limited his collar-brocade to simple little butterfly ties, the trouble couldn't have happened. Fortunately there is nothing to prevent the gentleman from using The Pampa News' classified want-ads. They help. This one did by bringing a quick sale:

SIX TOUGH MAULERS WILL PROVIDE WRESTLING SHOW

CHAMBERS TO CLOSE SEASON MONDAY NIGHT

It's usually a hot time in the old town when two wrestlers meet in a ring but when six get together at the same time—well, figure it out for yourself. And six rough and tough maulers will crawl through the ropes at the Pampa Athletic Arena promptly at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night for a battle royal.

The battle royal will be the second ever staged in Pampa. The one a year ago made a real hit with fans so Promoter Cliff B. Chambers decided to stage another for his last match until September.

Tomorrow night will see the cessation of wrestling hostilities during the heat of the summer. Promoter Chambers has decided to close up until possibly September 5 during which time he will renovate the arena and make a few trips signing up top grapplers for the winter.

The six maulers who will crawl thru the ropes tomorrow night will be Able Freeman and Jack Hagen, returning after an absence of several months. Don Hill who returned last week after an absence of nearly three years. Dille Davis, Gust Johnson and Blacksmith Pedigo.

The idea of a battle royal is for the grapplers to stay on their feet as long as possible. The first two to be counted out, leave the ring, or be disqualified, will return to wrestle a 20-minute preliminary.

The second pair to pass out of the picture will return as semi-finalists in a 30-minute time limit battle. The toughest or craftiest are then matched in a main event, best two falls out of three.

Sometimes the maulers have it for one of their number and swarm him. If he happens to have a friend or two they come to his assistance and the battle rages long and loud.

No matter who meets who in the card tomorrow night there will be no uneven matches. Fans are already picking their favorites.

The boys who like it clean and scientific would like to see Hill and Johnson get together. The roughsters are pulling strong for Hagen and Davis to meet. Freeman and Hill or Freeman and Johnson would make a clean match. Pedigo and Hill, Freeman or Johnson would also be clean as would Freeman and Hill or Freeman and Johnson. Davis and Hagen are definitely the villains.

A special attraction at the match will be the appearance of the Sons of the Saddle, a string orchestra, which will play preceding and during the matches.

Austin Beats Greenhaw 4 And 3 For City Title

Young John Austin turned madder Friday afternoon to successfully defend his title of City Golf champion when he defeated Reg Greenhaw, 4 and 3, in a titanic struggle. The win kept the title in the Austin family for the fourth consecutive year, Grover Austin Jr. winning in 1935 and 1936 and John annexing it in 1937 and 1938.

Last year John won the title from Brother Grover. This year he eliminated his older brother to reach the finals and meet Greenhaw who had won his way to the top in another bracket.

Austin is 19 and Greenhaw 27. Greenhaw is a veteran of the links despite his youth. He won the famous Greenbelt trophy in 1932 and was runner-up in 1933. This is his first year of active golf in several seasons. Young Austin, like his brother Grover, started as a caddy at the Country club.

Austin Starts Strong
Firing pars and birdies with only a pair of bogies, the pair rounded out the first 18 holes with sub-par golf. Austin carding a 69 and Greenhaw a 70 in the morning play. Austin opened strong, having a three hole lead at the 8th. Greenhaw then shot sensational golf to go into the lead on the 12th hole. It was the only time he was in front although the count was tied three times. When the morning round ended, Austin was two up.

Greenhaw started the afternoon by firing a birdie to win the hole. Both shot par golf on the second hole. Greenhaw hit the third green while Austin went rough. His approach, however, was close to the pin and Greenhaw missed his putt while Austin dropped his for a pair of pars.

The count was evened on the fourth when Greenhaw made a great recovery shot from the rough after his first drive out of the fairway in 21 holes. Austin went into the bunker on his fourth shot and Greenhaw won on a birdie. Austin picking up his ball.

Austin Comes Back
Austin made another of his famous comebacks, taking the next two holes with birdies. Austin went three up on the next hole when Greenhaw missed a short putt.

After the drive off the eighth tee box, a strong wind accompanied by sand and rain swept across the course and Austin conceded when Greenhaw pitched close to the cup for a birdie. With rain falling heavily, Greenhaw won the ninth hole with a beautiful recovery shot after a bad drive to leave the count Austin 1 up when hostilities were halted because of heavy rain.

After an hour in the club house, both players agreed to continue the game although a light sprinkle was still falling. Austin proved to be the best mauler. Both players took bogies on 10 and 11 with Austin taking 12 with a par. Austin also won 13 to put him within two holes of the title. He was all even up on 14 but Austin had what it took to win 15 and the match.

Austin won a wrist watch and Greenhaw a golf bag.

Driving honors for the match were about even. Greenhaw's high ball was effective with the wind but the low smashing drive of Austin's worked into the wind. Austin winds up for his drive and gets terrific power while Greenhaw uses an easy swing with power on the last foot of the downswing. Approaching honors were also close to even with Greenhaw possibly having the advantage. It was Austin's magic putter that won the tournament. Greenhaw missed several short putts while Austin sunk from all distances.

The finalists played the kind of golf that is read about, but seldom seen and Pampa is fortunate in having such a pair of ace golfers.

In Japan, the public bath is an unofficial clubhouse. Organizations frequently meet there and hold their meetings while soaking in the huge vats.

Defends City Golf Championship

JOHN AUSTIN
The City golf championship remained in the Grover Austin family for the fourth consecutive year Friday when John Austin successfully defended his title in a 36-hole match with Reg Greenhaw. The last few holes were played in a heavy rain with Austin winning 4 and 3. Grover Austin, Jr. held the cup for two years.

DEADLINE FOR ENTERING NET TOURNEY TO BE MONDAY NIGHT

Deadline for entering the Pampa Recreation Program-Pampa News Tennis tournament has been extended to Monday night at 6 o'clock. The extension of time was made when Wilmer Postma, director of the tournament, could not be located yesterday.

Play was originally scheduled to begin Monday but because of the extension, play will probably be set for Wednesday.

Registration for the tournament has been disappointing to date. There are dozens of players, good players in the city who have not entered. Entries from the outlying oil company camps within the 10-mile limit have been slow in arriving.

A fee of 50 cents is being charged for each event entered. Trophies will be given winner and runner-up in each bracket.

Entries should be made at the Pampa Daily News.

BOYS ASKED TO REPORT FOR SOFTBALL TODAY

Each team in the league is to play two games a week, at 6 p. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The winning team will go to the state tournament, where the state champions will be selected to go to the national tournament, at no cost to the boys.

Teams have been entered in the league to date by the American Legion, First Baptist church, Hopkins P-TA, Knights of Columbus, Kiwanis club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Phillips.

QUEEN HELEN IN COMEBACK AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 25 (AP)—Defeated and defenseless for thirty desperate minutes, Helen Wills Moody staged a valorous come-back today and marched into the quarter-final round of the All-England tennis championships.

Unable to hold her first three service games and trailing 1-5, Queen Helen suddenly took command of play in her fourth round match with Mrs. Bobbie Heine Miller, blistered the South African star's backhand with hard spinning drives and won out at 8-6, 6-4.

This was the feature of a day which saw these developments: 1—Infuriated Rodnack Menzel, gigantic third-seeded Czech, march off the court and default his match with Scottish Don MacPhail because of an ankle injury.

2—Gene Mako of Los Angeles, in faultless form, carry Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin deep into the fifth set before going down.

3—Kibo Sin Kie, eighth seeded Chinese, outstaked and exhausted, suffer elimination at the hands of the Czech, Frantisek Cejnar.

Thus at end of the first week of play, red-headed Don Budge, easy victor over Ronald Shayer of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-1, alone remained to carry the United States' colors against seven other survivors in the men's singles.

Mrs. Moody alone had reached the last eight. A round behind were Helen Jacobs, Alice Marble, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Payson and Dorothy May Bundy.

Menzel had asked postponement, but was turned down.

"We always reach the quarter-finals by Saturday night," he was told. "If your match is postponed and your opponent happens to win he then will play a much harder schedule than the other quarter-finalists in order to catch up."

Menzel, who could scarcely put any weight at all on his left foot won the first set, 8-6, but when MacPhail carried the second set to duce and then won it, 9-7, Menzel gave up.

"I do not understand how it is possible for some players to get matches postponed while others can not," Menzel said afterwards.

Early in the week Miss Jacobs fainted in the clubhouse and tournament officials approved postponement of the match she had scheduled that day.

Miss Jacobs beat Miss Freda James of England in singles, 6-4, 6-2, but she was too weak to stand two matches in one day and she and her Santa Monica, Calif., partner were eliminated in the second round by Valeria Scott and Joan Saunders of England, 6-2, 8-6.

Owen Anderson of Los Angeles, and his English partner, Rita Jarvis, were eliminated in the third round or mixed doubles by A. D. Russell and Miss James, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Budge was incomparable and the longer the tournament lasts the stronger becomes the conviction that the United States can carry off all four titles.

Borger Boxing Matches Delayed

A heavy rain caused postponment of the amateur boxing bouts between Pampa and Borger milt artists scheduled for Friday night in Borger. Otis Roberts, Borger sponsor, cancelled the bouts about 7 o'clock.

Date of the bout will be announced early this week, Mr. Roberts said. Eight or ten Pampa boys were scheduled to make the trip to Borger, one car having left before Roberts called that the battle had been cancelled.

Bull fights were common in ancient Greece.

Golfers to Play Clarendon And Memphis July 10

Pampa golfers will go to Clarendon on July 10 where they will meet the combined forces of Clarendon and Memphis Country clubs. Tentative matches with Shamrock and the Amarillo Country club has also been made.

All local golfers desiring to make the trip to Clarendon should register with Del Love, club professional. At least 35 players will be taken to Clarendon for the match.

Clarendon and Memphis have some of the top golfers of the Panhandle. Ira Merchant and Bill Cook are a couple of Clarendon hotshots while Memphis boasts "City" Walker and Frank Foxall, one of the best left-handed artists in the state.

New Borger Highway Ready To Be Opened To Traffic July First

GRAY COUNTY POISON SUPPLY STILL AMPLE

Although the Texas allotment of poison material from federal sources is exhausted, according to information given R. R. Reppert, state entomologist, Gray county has an ample supply of bran and poison used in making a compound to kill grasshoppers.

At the Pampa and McLean mixing stations there are on hand two carloads of bran, and 20 barrels of poison. The bran totals 80,000 pounds. Each carload of the bran shipment contains 400 one-hundred pound sacks.

Gross weight of the poison on hand is 12,000 pounds, each of the barrels weighing 600 pounds.

Texas allotment was 300 carloads of material with each car containing 40,000 pounds of bran and 400 gallons of sodium arsenite. Some 50 carloads were available from the 1937 allotment and this, matched by farmers, gave the state a supply of 70 carloads. Scattered at the usual rate of 10 pounds an acre, the supply was enough to cover almost three million acres.

"The infestation has developed almost exactly along the lines forecast by us in early spring, and the control campaign has been, in the main, very effective," Reppert said. "In most cases, a kill of from 60 to 95 per cent of the hoppers in the areas poisoned has been secured."

"Nevertheless, enough hoppers remain to do untold damage to crops unless control measures can be continued," he added. The state allotment was exhausted on June 18, although shipments of material made on that date are still on the way to Texas.

Meanwhile the state grasshopper control committee is receiving urgent requests for additional shipments. The committee has presented the Texas needs to the federal agency and asked for additional allotments, but Reppert said other states also faced severe infestations.

The migratory hopper, the most dangerous species, is centered around Rallam, Hartley, Sherman and Moore counties and surrounding areas.

Heaviest shipments have been made to these counties and to Hardeman, Childress, Potter, Randall and Hansford.

The indications are that additional material may be allotted to counties where the migratory grasshopper is prevalent, Reppert said.

BAND SCHOOL WILL BE CONDUCTED AT CANYON

CANYON, June 25—An intensive course of practical training for band and orchestra teachers and students is offered at the first annual summer band school to be held from August 18 at West Texas college.

There will be daily ensembles for bands and small groups, with classes for students of conducting, interpretation, baton twirling, drum majoring, solo coaching. Section drill and individual help on all instruments will be given by experienced teachers on advanced instruments. Concerts, recitals, a solo contest, judging demonstration and conferences will be provided in the program.

The school will be conducted by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Nutt of the Vanderhook School of Music, Chicago, assisted by Prof. C. E. Strain, band director and instructor, and other staff members of West Texas State college, advised by Prof. Wallace R. Clark, head of the Department of Music.

Tuition is $10 for directors, $5 for students. Regularly enrolled students who are members of the college band or orchestra will be privileged to attend the band school without charge.

PAMPA HAS NO ORDINANCES TO REGULATE SALE OF FIREWORKS

Daughters of the American Revolution may hold up their hands in horror of the youngster who thought the Fourth of July was a celebration of the invention of the firecracker, but, as Uncle Lem always says, "that's the way things is, ain't she?"

Uncle Lem seems to be right, or nearly so. In any event, pyrotechnical displays, ranging from the kid snapping his cap pistol or burning his fingers on a sparkler in the backyard to big exhibitions sponsored by Chambers of Commerce, have just about stolen the Independence Day show.

Any stealing of the show Pampans plan to do had better be at a distance of not less than 100 feet from a public building, for the 1913 ordinance provides this stipulation.

There are no ordinances regulating the sale of firecrackers although the state law gives cities the right to collect $250 as an occupation tax from anyone selling a firecracker of the "cannon-size" or larger, the size being defined as 2 inches long and one inch in circumference.

Under the law the state may collect $500 and the county an amount equal to that of the city.

Beyond that state law and the 1913 ordinance, there is apparently no regulation for the sale and use of firecrackers in Pampa.

Up in Kansas, the lawmakers are more bent on regulation.

Rule No. 4 of said sovereign state regarding the rules and regulations governing the sale of fireworks, states that "no person, firm or corporation shall offer any fireworks for sale to individuals at retail before the 30th day of June or after the 6th day of July in each and every year."

Firecrackers and salutes, the law further states, must not exceed three inches in length or nine-sixteenths of an inch in outside diameter.

Youthful celebrators, it seems, should carry a tape measure to check dimensions, and a knife to whittle down any oversize crackers.

The two pound skyrocket is the limit. Beyond that, everything is shipped to Spain or China. The twenty-first ball in a Roman candle is as illegal as that batch of home brew father's making in the attic, but the first 20 shots from any given candle are recognized, if not condemned, by the law.

Niggled chasers, spit devils or devils on the sidewalk (or off), or any such article containing a poisonous substance are definitely out, unless flavored to suit grasshoppers.

The plate glass window insurance companies, or perhaps the tenants in the apartment upstairs, seem to have a finger in Rule No. 7 which states "All retailers are forbidden to expose fireworks where the sun-shines through glass on the merchandise display, except where such fireworks are in the original package, and all fireworks kept on sale on front counters must remain in original packages, provided, however, that fireworks in open stock may be kept in show cases or counters out of reach of the public." In other words, interior blasting of the front windows of stores will have to remain a duty of the rascals in Dick Tracy.

The state of Texas will, of course, And finally the state and the Independence Day popper-offer combine to pay tribute to the wide open spaces—at least 500 feet wide open. "No fireworks of any aerial nature shall be fired within five hundred feet of any building, barn, warehouse, or stack of grain or feed. (The back yard's out!) Fireworks shall not be stored, kept, sold or discharged within fifty feet of any gasoline pump, gasoline filling station, gasoline bulk station or any building in which gasoline or volatile liquids are sold in quantities in excess of one gallon. Now how can they manage them with a filling station every few feet?

In their recent meeting of the year the Carbons soundly whipped the "66" boys in a tight ball game 6-1, but in a return game the tables were turned and the Phillips team walked off with a nip-and-tuck game that kept the fan on the edge of their seats throughout, to the tune of 7 to 5. Thus with the count being even for the season the two teams are out to find out if possible just who is boss of the Panhandle baseball situation.

In their recent starts each team has been beaten by Oklahoma teams. The Carbons by the Halliburton Giants of Duncan and the Phillips by part of last year's Pampa team now playing at Elk City.

However, with a weeks rest enabling them to recover their composure, each team is raising to go and it looks as though there will be a hot time in Borger Sunday afternoon—and no one was speaking of the weather.

Ringling Orders Circus Back to Winter Quarters

SCRANTON, Pa., June 25. (AP)—John Ringling North, head of the Ringling, Barnum and Bailey circus, and Ralph Whitehead, head of the American Federation of Actors, tonight signed an agreement for the return of the circus to its winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

The signing of the agreement of the circus which was halted abruptly last Wednesday when 1,600 workmen went on strike rather than accept a proposed 25 per cent reduction in wages.

Spokesmen for the union said the circus was released to go to its winter quarters "as soon as possible." Plans were made for packing the big tent and animals on south-bound trains, probably tomorrow.

PHOTOGRAPHER SHOOT'S PICTURE OF GUNMAN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 25. (AP)—A newspaper photographer stood calmly today while bullets whistled about him and snapped a picture of the man who was accused of the shooting.

Ed McNew, 64, head of a professional bonding house, was charged with firing toward Howard Jones of the Knoxville Journal when the photographer raised his camera.

McNew had just stepped from his office on his way to city court to face charges growing out of a traffic accident, when Jones prepared to take his picture.

McNew previously had refused to permit a cameraman to take his picture, asserting "I'm no criminal."

Police Capt. Howard Luster, who witnessed the shooting, said Jones remained calm, although the bullets came close.

Squire J. P. Staley said later he had issued warrants charging the bondsman with felonious assault with intent to commit murder in first degree, and carrying a weapon.

NO CONFLICT IN JULY 4TH CELEBRATIONS

Celebration of Independence day in McLean and Pampa this year has been so arranged that the two celebrations will not conflict, McLean's being held during the day, and Pampa's early in the morning and at night.

The Pampa celebration is sponsored by the local post of the American Legion and will consist of two dances, one at 1 a. m. July 4, and the other at 9:45 p. m., on July 4. Both dances will be held at the Southern club.

Tickets to the dances sell at $1.10 for each dance. Bob Earnest is in charge of the dances. Preceding the grand Fourth of July ball at 9:45 p. m. there will be a free fireworks display at 9 o'clock. The display, in charge of Charlie Maise, will be held at a spot near the Southern club, if the location is available. McLean's celebration will consist of a softball game at 9 a. m., street parade at 11 o'clock, a rodeo with all amateur performers at 1:30 p. m., and a polo game. Every attraction is free. The celebration is under the auspices of the McLean Chamber of Commerce.

PINK LEMONADE POOR SUBSTITUTE

It is news when municipalities refuse to be seduced by "45 per cent cash gifts" from government bureaus to put private enterprise out of business.

San Jose, up near San Francisco, voted recently 14,000 to 2,500 against municipal ownership of its water system in favor of continued private operation under public regulation. In addition, two veteran members of the city council who sponsored the municipal ownership project at a cost of $5,520,000 in bonds, were overwhelmingly defeated. This is real old-fashioned anti-socialistic news from a typical American city of about 75,000 persons.

Why did San Jose vote down municipal ownership of its water system? It had more than $7,000,000 left to its bonding credit and easily could have added the $5,520,000 to its bond load and municipal debt. But an impressive body of citizens disclosed to the public the real facts behind the debt-inflating program of the municipal ownership advocates. These citizens evidently proved beyond question that San Jose could not expect as good water or as good service under political management and increased public debt as it is now getting at the hands of private enterprise under public regulation.

Only by such courageous exposure of political hypocrisy can voters be disillusioned of beliefs that are assiduously cultivated in them by government supported politicians, that any kind of government ownership is better than the best kind of private ownership.

Too often the citizens of our communities are blinded by the lure of "free" government money and "alluring" promises. But when he real facts are stripped bare of political camouflage as was done in San Jose, the citizens will go to the polls and sign a new declaration of independence.

Let us hope that San Jose has shown some other communities that pink lemonade of the circus variety generally is a poor substitute for the plain old-fashioned kind which isn't "colored" to attract the unwary.

THE COLOR ON THE COVER

The democratic privileges of writing what you think and reading what has been written usually are among the first rights to go overboard at the outbreak of war, even in the most democratic of countries.

Similarly when widespread and fundamental conflicts in the world of political, social and economic thinking reach such a point of intensity that what amounts to a war psychology is created, the same rights come in for an out-size share of punching around.

Reading tests recently given at Columbia university suggest a more democratic and effective course of procedure. The majority of the students tested simply didn't know how to read intelligently. The conductor of the tests observed that "they might know that the book was green," but they didn't actually understand what was in it.

The average citizen who gets sucked in knows only the color of the outside of the idea, whether it's red, pink, or yellow. The way to lay the ground for easing half-shot ideas into the ash-can forever is to teach the art of ignoring whatever color may be on the surface and recognizing the nature of the content when you see it.

Impossible? It may be. But if you do not believe that is possible, you do not believe in the workability of democracy.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 25—Senator Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut is tentatively slated for political slaughter by Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers.

Tentatively only, however, because the President is anxious not to stick his neck out in his effort to obtain nomination of progressive Democrats over conservative Democrats except in situations where he thinks he has a fair chance to win.

In Connecticut, nominees are named by party state conventions rather than by direct primary vote and thus far the New Deal strategists have been unable to convince themselves that they can find a liberal Democrat who can beat Lonergan.

If there is to be a New Deal candidate it probably will be Congressman Herman F. Koppleman of Hartford, a member of the House progressive bloc.

Lonergan is in solid with the Democratic

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

In order that the citizens of this city might become better acquainted with Pampa's new est industry, the Chamber of Commerce co-operated with the Pampa Refining Company in a formal opening of the refinery.

The officials, managers, and players of eight teams in the Industrial baseball league were guests at a smoker.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

The county south and east of Pampa was visited by terrific rains and some hail but no moisture fell in or around Pampa although lightning and black clouds passed over the city.

The Pampa Magnolia baseball team won the first half of the Cotton-Oil race with a 14 to 8 win over McLean.

state machine despite the fact that he opposed the Roosevelt Supreme Court plan and voted against the administration reorganization bill. But the New Deal "elimination committee" is betting on the hope that the recent Waterbury graft indictments will sufficiently demoralize the state machine to enable them to push thru their own candidate.

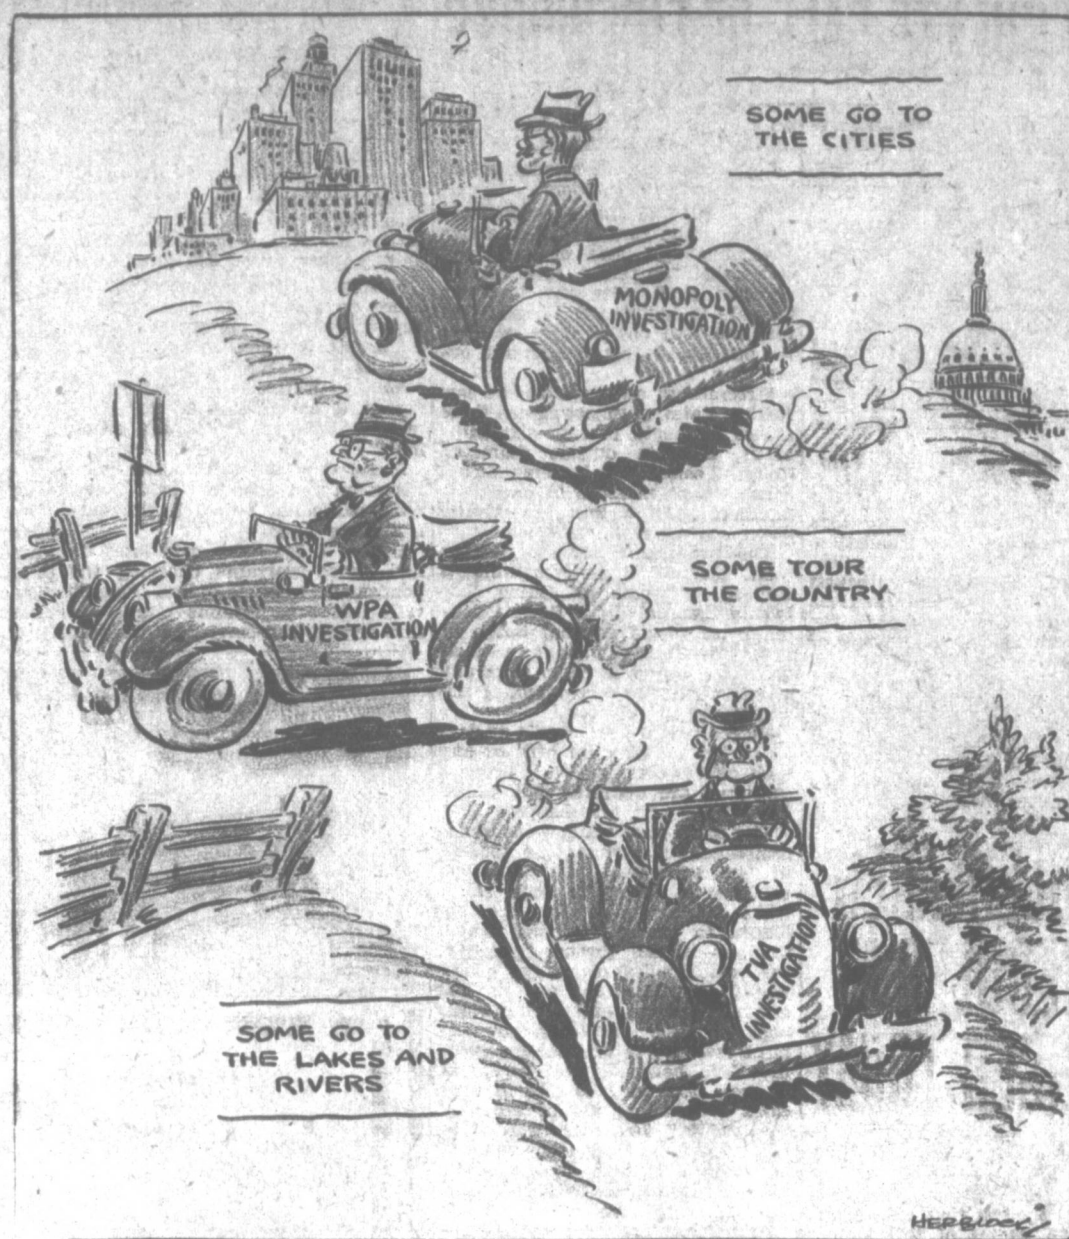

Yes, Cummings Is Still Going to Quit

Certain Washington correspondents have developed bad cases of writing cramp by simply reiterating the prediction that Attorney General Homer S. Cummings was about to resign and this writer is not altogether free of the symptoms himself. Nevertheless the date of Cummings' resignation is somewhat nearer than it ever was before and the chance now seems to be rather fat that his departure will be announced by fall.

It's more than a rumor that Cummings and Assistant Attorney General Brian McMahon—now prosecuting the Harlan coal trials. . . and U. S. District Attorney LaMar Hardy of New York will resign more or less simultaneously and either set up their own law office or join a large New York firm already existent.

Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson will almost automatically be appointed to succeed Cummings unless Roosevelt, meanwhile becomes convinced that Jackson can get the Democratic nomination for governor of New York. Most political observers believe that the original promotion of Jackson for governor flopped beyond repair, but Jackson enthusiasts on the inner New Deal councils refuse to abandon hope.

Summer Travel

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Your pampered recumbent has had a very gratifying day, and if a record of his activities were chronologically set down they would appear something like this:

A—Gossiped two hours with Milton and Esther Caniff, who drove out from New York City to bring me a bushel basket of fruit—luscious pineapples, from Cuba, bananas from Cuba, peaches from the West Indies, lemons from Georgia, lemons from Louisiana, Florida oranges, Texas pears, and apples.

B—Made a careful check of all my fishing tackle, as I plan to quit this bed of pain in the next few days and go up to Mel Grady's place, way up beyond Amsterdam, in a wild wooded sector on a big watershed. We'll fish and rest for two days. He writes: "The muskies are running and yesterday a big 25-pounder was taken in the 'yonder'." Ah'm coming—ah'm coming—even if mah head am bending—low.

C—Combed all the loose fur out of Cynthia's coat. . . And who is Cynthia anyway? . . . She's crazy about me. She's my Persian cat, and she's 11 years old. . . Had her over since she could say "meow". She's a great girl, although the blue-eyes are making it tough for her. They scare the dickens out of her every time she goes out into the yard. They must think she's after the baby blue-jays. . . Well, Cynthia isn't thinking about blue-eyes. She likes kidney and fish. . . I suppose she'd look sort of funny to you, if you ever saw her. . . She used to have a tall long as a setter's. . . But not long ago the wind blew the door shut on it. . . And pinched it off. . . It hangs my tie rack now, dangling with my neckties.

D—Finished reading "The Yearling" and then took my medicine. Took it like a little man, too. If you want a book that is so "readable" it hurts, I offer you "The Yearling". . . You can't smile the warm spring rains washing things clean.

E—Ran off some motion pictures of a hunting trip we went on last fall. First time I'd seen them. They were in color and very good, although what impressed me were the red hunting shirts, there being little game. It seemed strange seeing one's self kicking through snow with the temperature hovering around 86 outside.

F—Which reminds me my own temperature is at normal. My appetite is subnormal. But do not let this condition alarm you, for subnormal with me means that I am merely ravenous.

G—Well, the honeymoon is almost over. . . Only a couple more days, the doctor says. . . That means back to Siberia back to the salt mines. . . But it's been fun. . . Boy, this being ill certainly is a racket. Wonder why I never thought of it before. (Miss Jones remind me to try this again some time). People being good to you. . . People fussing over you. . . Fixing you fried chicken. . . And wearing you out with "Can't I get some of this for you?" . . . Or "wouldn't you like some of that?"

Sugar, I don't want to seem unappreciative, but I can't stand much more of this. . . They're just naturally killing me with kindness.

Sinking, or Chinese Turkistan, lies farther from the sea than any other country in the world. Its exports are confined to gold, jade, ingredients for Chinese medicines (bear's paws antelope and elk horns), fine horses, and sheep and camel wool.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

The second floor nurses at Worcester hospital thought this one should start wearing a nurse's cap when he went on what they referred to as "special duty" last Monday, the day that Jack Crout, one of the finest boys in the land, slipped as he started to get back on a ploy and a disc lacerated his foot and cut off a chunk of flesh and bone on the shank of his leg. Of course, this one, liking Jack Crout as he does, and looking after his best interests as he has these three years, naturally cannot keep away from the hospital as long as that boy is in it; and remembering last winter when Doyle Audis was seriously ill with pneumonia in the hospital, and this one kept constant vigil for two weeks, it was not surprising that those personable and human nurses, Miss Tichenor, Miss Shell, Miss Montgomery, Miss Wirtz and the others looked rather helpless, as if to sigh and say, "there's that man again" when they saw this one coming and going as if he owned the place. So on the second day when he suggested lemonade for Jack they began insisting that he wear a cap; on the third day when he explained that Jack did not like a certain kind of cake, they naturally couldn't eat it because he got burned out on it last summer, they suggested an entire nurse's uniform would not be amiss. . . Well, ladies, a cap would be appreciated—you never can tell when we'll have to use it. . . We know that you'll be glad to learn that Jack is recovering satisfactorily and that his condition is greatly improved (you will notice that we have begun to talk like nurses) and that soon after a bit of flesh grafting is done Monday, he'll be ready to go home.

The new star—for she is that—exhibits gamine charm, seductive innocence, and spicy temper in this comedy assignment along with fresh and youthful beauty. "Having Wonderful Time" is a comedy about a Bronx girl who finds romance at Kamp Kare-Free with the same young Fairbanks who serves Miss Dariusz romantically in "The Rage of Paris". He plays a waiter at the boisterous vacation resort where hundreds of job-sick youngsters, including Ginger Rogers, go for two frenzied weeks of "rest".

Somewhere in the cinema shuffle part of Playwright Arthur Koerber's richly humorous pathos seems to have been lost, but the picture retains many high spots of comedy and is generally enjoyable. Alfred Santell is credited with direction, but re-takes by George Stevens provide the funniest scenes—the backgammon game by Ginger and Lee Bowman, Kamp-Free's Lohario, Lucille Ball, Bowman, Eve Arden, Donald Meek, Grady Sutton and Richard Skeelton (he's the "social director" who thinks he's a wolverine among the excellent support).

"The Cowboy from Brooklyn" depends on a hoary gag, but Director Lloyd Bacon and a good hard-working cast make it look new and the enthusiasm of the preview audience should mean something. Pat O'Brien, Dick Powell, Priscilla Lane, Ann Sheridan and Dick Foran are principals, with Powell the crooning "cowboy" from Flat-bush, who can't look at a horse, cow, or chicken without turning green.

But is there a similar set of hygiene rules for the intellectual worker?

Incidentally, it is very difficult to define the precise qualities of intellectual work but not of physical work. Intellectual work may be inspirational, poetic, creative or routine. It is done effectively by different men under the most varying of preferred circumstances.

Creative work is rarely the by-product of bad mental hygiene. Some intellectual workers produce only when they live a very orderly life, while others are not fruitful except when their lives are irregular and disorganized. Some find alcohol and narcotics help, but to most these are a hindrance.

Though experience does not offer us any hygienic laws for the intellectual worker, there is enough experimental evidence to enable us at least to outline a plan of hygiene for those who work with their brains.

We know that the physical worker requires adequate food, sufficient rest, protection against excessive physical fatigue and so forth.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, June 27 (AP)—"This Man O'Daniel" is creating a stir in Texas politics.

One of his opponents for the governorship has been Attorney General for four years, another is a veteran member of the State Railroad Commission and chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission and a third has been before the people three times in races for governor, but many unprejudiced observers believe W. Lee O'Daniel of Fort Worth will be in the "first division" of the gubernatorial contest.

O'Daniel is reported to be drawing large crowds and the men and women "in the forks of the creek" are discussing him. Crowds and talk don't necessarily mean votes but they are signs he is attracting a lot of attention, which is what every candidate wants at this stage of the race.

The interest in O'Daniel is compared to that which James E. Ferguson aroused in his first campaign for governor in 1914. However, the record shows that Ferguson in that and subsequent campaigns drew larger crowds than his opponents in sections which he lost.

Two Austin newspapermen made a tour of a number of towns near the capital the other day in an effort to see what people in the section thought of the contest for governor.

A Burnet business man who keeps in close touch with politics made the comparison between O'Daniel's and Ferguson's campaign.

"The fire seems to be spreading just like it did then," this man said, "although it may not go nearly as far."

A former Attorney General of Texas observed waiting in the anti-chamber to Gov. James V. Allred's office was asked:

"What do you think of O'Daniel?" O'Daniel's appeal, the former Attorney General said, has "an element of morality that politicians long have ignored."

"The pendulum is swinging away from the lawless era and people, especially outside the cities, are interested in a man who is getting back to fundamentals," he said. Gov. Allred received a telegram signed "Hilly Billy Boys" saying they were sending him a sack of flour.

"We want you to have some hot biscuits on the table for the next governor," the telegram read. O'Daniel is a flour mill executive. Members of an orchestra which plays on O'Daniel broadcast programs and for his platform speeches are called the Hilly Billy Boys.

Rep. Eugene Worley of Shamrock, chairman of the Oil and Gas Committee of the House of Representatives, is one of the few representatives seeking more than a second term who has no opposition. His next term would be his third. He has four counties in his district, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Donley and Gray.

Rep. Conde Hoskins of Gonzales, chairman of a House committee which has been investigating pollution of public waters in Texas, is another member who does have opposition.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life . . .

By R. C. HOILES

Harry Scherman, in the book, "The Promises Men Live By," makes a statement at the conclusion of a chapter analyzing the cause of cycles and depressions which, if true, should be alarming to every thinking man in America.

We quote: "What can ALWAYS BE OBSERVED AS HAPPENING is that, when the diminution in volume of exchanges once begins, it keeps on proceeding UNTIL THE LARGER PART OF THE OLD PROMISES THAT ARE IN QUESTION ARE SETTLED ONE WAY OR THE OTHER. Either they are completed, or they are not. Either the debt which is in doubt is cancelled, and the loss to the trusting person becomes established as a fact, or it is not."

Scherman points out very definitely through his book that what we use as money is not money but only promises to pay money; that all the debts are promises to pay money.

If it is true that until it is determined how much these promises to pay, which we call money, is actually worth to those people who have contracts to receive it, then what the dollar will buy must be determined before we can again have a permanent increase in business.

And it will be noted that this author, who is quite a student of depressions, uses the words, "always can be observed as happening." This is equivalent to saying that there cannot be a change for better until the public determines how much money the Federal Government will be able to give to those holding its bonds and "promises to pay money" as money.

It might be well to observe those people who are always desirous of giving something to someone are the kind of people worthy of leadership. It quite often will be found that this is the only way they have of making themselves important and recognized by their fellowman and satisfying their ego and vanity. Invariably these people are the one who eventually want someone else to do the giving and they want to do the directing of the giving. They seldom really want to give anything of any great importance themselves. Their theory is to get some law that will take from one and give to another.

Even a small amount of life that they are trying to give or influence others to adopt, unless it is the philosophy of the "Universal Rule" being the Golden Rule—the fundamental principle of democracy and Christianity—it might be well to take their Utopias too seriously.

Probably the biggest harm in the world has come from well-meaning people who were possessed with some belief that they had some magical way of eliminating misery and suffering. They have often confused the great middle class of honest people and caused them to enact legislation that brings about the conditions we now find the people in the United States suffering from. In this case, when a man is trying to give you an idea, do not follow the old homely phrase, "Never look a gift horse in the mouth," but analyze the theory the man is trying to give you and determine whether it would apply universally before you join him in his theories.

ACCUSATIONS BEGIN TO FLY IN CAMPAIGN

(By The Associated Press)

Beer parlor snooping, the little red school house, and the money that is being spent in the gubernatorial campaign were talked from week-end political platforms.

Karl Crowley at Athens said "the greatest sums in the history of Texas" were being spent by candidates. William McCraw at Bella Placida for "adequate support of the little red school house." Ernest Thompson at Beville Friday promised as governor he would not send Texas Rangers "to snoop in beer parlors."

Tom Hunter had cancelled week-end speaking engagements because of the illness of his daughter. W. Lee O'Daniel brought his Hill-Billies and his family to Dallas for a Saturday night rally. Thomas Self continued to plug for more executive power for the governor at a Corsicana speaking. James A. Ferguson planned a noon and night rally as drive for next week, and S. T. Brogdon planned to drum for votes in central west Texas. A number of candidates had not reported on their activities.

Speaking at an Athens rally, Crowley asked, "Do Texas want a man in an office who puts out a hundred times the governor's salary in campaign expenses, a man who must sell his honor and the people's trust to get the job?"

"Or," he said, "do the people want a platform that must be a program of his acts as governor?"

McCraw's plea for the little red school house included a promise that payment of the state's share of the teacher retirement fund would be marked for "first business of his administration as governor."

At Cameron, McCraw said an opponent's plan to have a state auditor appointed by the Justices of the Supreme Court could not be accomplished because it was unconstitutional. He reiterated his proposal to have the legislature instead of the governor appoint the auditor.

Thompson urged exercise of local self government in his Friday speech, and Saturday at a luncheon in Big Spring said the railroad commission's administration of oil laws has meant millions of extra dollars yearly in the tax revenue for the state.

"Development encouraged by the stability of the oil industry as a result of the commission regulation has increased valuation all over the state and has meant millions in revenue."

Self at Corsicana reiterated his platform plank urging the elimination of elective state boards, giving the governor power to appoint secretaries to direct each department. He mentioned his "doing away with the railroad commission, thus saving more than a million dollars to the state."

ding up steel and other industrial shares after financial news tickers carried the corporation statement. Advances of $1 to more than $4 a share were numerous at the finish, making many extreme gains for the week of $10 to $20. Trading for the two-hour session swelled to 1,161,700 shares, approximately 10 times the sluggish volume of last Saturday.

How much the market was guided by the wage matter was of course something which could not be gauged accurately.

The administration has repeatedly cast a critical eye upon the steel price structure, wondering why quotations up to yesterday were maintained above 1929 levels, in a period of slump, while prices of farm products and other sensitive commodities came down. Lower prices, administration circles said, should increase the volume of business sufficiently to permit maintenance of wage rates.

In Washington, the administration's monopoly investigators indicated that the controversy will be thoroughly aired when public hearings begin next September.

Observers felt the steel wage matter was vitally important in its possible implications for industry generally.

Regardless of the wage problem, Wall Street analysts were optimistic over the prospect the lowered price will give a flip to steel buying. Users have been reluctant to buy for some time, they said, in view of indications the price structure might give way.

Final prices and net gains for the week were such as these:
U. S. Steel, $54.25, up $12.25;
Chrysler, $57.75, up $18;
Bethlehem Steel, $58.12, up $13.37;
New York Central, $15.37, up $4.62;
Kennebec, $37.75, up $8;
radio, $6.62, up $1.37;
General Electric, $40.12, up $6;
Allied Chemical, $17.00, up $2.1;
Eastman, $16.75, up $1.50.

Tournament, a contest in which riders were given a spear and rode over a 200-yard course pinning iron rings suspended from a dozen crossbars erected at intervals along the course, was another favored sport of Independence day.

One rider at a time would ride his horse down the course. The object of the contest was to see which rider could gather the greatest number of rings on his spear in three attempts.

The rings were of iron and were clipped to a bit of rope or a leather strap by clothes pins. It required a slight pressure to dislodge them. Horses had to be trained for the contest, as the rider had to keep his eye on the rings and could not watch his horse. As the rider carried a spear, he could not handle the reins.

Mediterranean ports in the last few weeks by insurgent aviators without a protest from Britain.

This fact, coupled with a rise in insurance rates on merchant ships of from 15 to 25 per cent, they declared, makes it increasingly difficult for the Spanish government to receive supplies by sea.

Diplomats said they feared the Barcelona government might seek to provoke a general European war in case the situation of its armistice became hopeless before the insurgent armies.

Germany, as well as Italy, was reported to have informed both the British and French foreign offices that it would consider Barcelona's threatened air raids an act of war, and would feel free to send armies to "clean up" government Spain.

Moderation Urged
Britain and France urged moderation on both factions to prevent insurgent bombing attacks from turning into campaigns of wholesale slaughter which might spread the conflict.

French representations to the Barcelona government against embarking upon widespread reprisals against the insurgents and their foreign allies, Italy and Germany, had the support of the British government.

London meanwhile increased efforts to influence Generalissimo Francisco Franco, insurgent leader, to cease air attacks on British shipping and on open cities in government Spain.

There were moves on other points to try to stamp out the conflict.

An Barcelona dispatch said insurgent raiders also struck against Valencia, destroying several buildings.

RAIN GENERAL IN THIS AREA

Rain, general over the North and South Plains, brought 31-inch precipitation to Pampa Friday evening, boosting the annual rainfall figure for 1938 to 13.22 inches to date, and the June precipitation total to 3.03 inches.

The rain, which began about 2:30 p. m. Friday and lasted with intermittent showers until nearly dark, put a temporary halt to the wheat harvest which has been under way on the South Plains for the past week and which is just nearing the harvesting stage in the Panhandle area.

Grain men said Saturday a warm sun would help the wheat to ripen and the rain was not hard enough to beat the stalks down. With several more days of warm weather, they stated, the rain will have proved beneficial instead of detrimental.

Amarillo had three-quarters of an inch, Dalhart got 21 hundredths, and from Pampa all the way to Canadian the rain varied from a half to one inch.

Spearman and Perryton in the Northeast Panhandle received about an inch of precipitation in Friday's rainfall. Booker received only about an eighth of an inch and there were good rains along the Rock Island on both sides of Groom.

No danger will be caused to wheat, grain men said, if farmers wait until the fields are entirely dry before beginning to combine again. Wheat that is cut too soon after a rain will make a poorer test, they added.

as a breeding place of European infection.

Through both the non-intervention committee in London and diplomatic channels in Rome, Britain is seeking to curb or halt the war and bring the Eastern Anglo-Italian friendship pact into force.

Chamberlain's determination to remove the civil war as an obstacle to his board peace plans led to the belief in some quarters that possibilities of a Spanish truce were being explored.

Compromise Probable
France's terms, heretofore have been declared to be unconditional surrender by the Spanish government, but two factors are seen as influencing him to consider some form of compromise:

1. The increasing difficulty in overcompro government resistance, with prospects the war may drag on for many months.

2. Some indications that the Italian Premier Benito Mussolini's interest in the war is decreasing in favor of early ratification of the Anglo-Italian agreement and consequent consequent British recognition of his conquest of Ethiopia.

British negotiations in Rome are aimed both at bringing Italian pressure on Franco to halt the shipping attacks and at early withdrawal of Italian fighters aiding the insurgents.

In Berlin the press interpreted the Spanish government's reported threat to bomb foreign cities as a Soviet Russian attempt to sabotage the committee's plan of withdrawing foreign troops.

On the Spanish waterfront proper, the insurgents vainly tried to day to smash a hole in government defenses in eastern Spain where an estimated 250,000 men were locked in conflict on a 45-mile front.

Infantrymen, tanks, armored cars and warplanes clashed in one of the greatest battles of the civil war under a dazzling sun with temperatures reaching 110 degrees.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces, swept forward in waves against the government defenses, only to be thrown back to their own trenches with heavy losses.

The government met the insurgents plane for plane and heavy gun for heavy gun.

From Madrid came the report forty persons were killed and more than 180 were injured today in an insurgent bombing raid on the Spanish government port of Alicante.

Sixty-five buildings were reported destroyed.

An Barcelona dispatch said insurgent raiders also struck against Valencia, destroying several buildings.

Baer Will Fight Joe Louis Next

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Disputing for the time being at least the recuperating claims of Max Schmeling for a return "rubber" fight with Joe Louis, the California weight champion, promoter Jacobs today took definite steps to rebuild Max Baer as the next title challenger.

Shifting his base of operations from the Hippodrome to his New Jersey estate, Jacobs came to terms with Baer, who has done grievous damage to Anglo-American friendship, on this side of the Atlantic.

"It is not too strong to say that not since the days of the debt settlement between the two countries has anything occurred which has stirred up so much anti-American feeling."

"That may sound like a far-fetched statement. But you should be here in England and encounter the fierce resentment of the man in the street at what he considers the wrong done to Scott. And it isn't because it is Scott, but because it is an Englishman."

Workers for Anglo-American amity here are sick over the whole thing.

SCOUT CAMP PICTURES SHOWN TO SCOUTERS

First showing of motion pictures taken during the recent outing of Adobe Walls Boy Scouts at Camp Ki-O-Wah was presented yesterday morning by Executive Fred Roberts to a group of council leaders and scouters in his office.

The moving picture idea was new to the council this year. Pictures showed the boys at work and at play and the beautiful trees, hills and surroundings near the camp located on Wolf creek in Ochiltree county.

Speakers squirmed in their chairs as they saw the "old swimming hole," washed out three times by heavy rains but rebuilt by the boys, the huge trees bordering the stream, the campfire and the boys at mess.

GERMANS FEEL MAX DID NOT GET FAIR TEST

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

NEW YORK, June 25.—The German public is disturbed over the result of the fight encounter between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling.

"This is quite understandable in view of the injury which has sent the challenger to a hospital. It's too bad that he was hurt, and the whole American public is sorry for him."

It probably is natural that this accident should give rise to the feeling among Schmeling's followers that the fight provided a wholly unsatisfactory test of the German's ability to deal with the champion. It would be asking too much to expect Germany to be happy over the circumstances.

The writer has been watching these international ring contests at close range for a quarter of a century and has found almost invariably that, for one reason or another, they cause feeling between the peoples of the two countries involved.

An excellent example of what I mean was provided by the contest in 1930 in Miami, Florida, between the British heavyweight champion, Phil Scott (who was not unfamiliar with the recumbent position) and America's noisy Jack Sharkey.

Scott lost, and claimed that he was fouled. (It should be noted here that there is no charge of foul in connection with the Louis-Schmeling fight.) I find recorded in my London diary for that time the following pretty blunt notes, which I am repeating here because they are applicable to the general situation:

"That Scott-Sharkey prize-fight mess at Miami has done grievous damage to Anglo-American friendship, on this side of the Atlantic."

"It is not too strong to say that not since the days of the debt settlement between the two countries has anything occurred which has stirred up so much anti-American feeling."

"That may sound like a far-fetched statement. But you should be here in England and encounter the fierce resentment of the man in the street at what he considers the wrong done to Scott. And it isn't because it is Scott, but because it is an Englishman."

Workers for Anglo-American amity here are sick over the whole thing.

Quiz Might Show How Duchess Solves Unemployed Problem

By RUTH MILLETT
The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are no longer romantic news. They are just another Mr. and Mrs. in the eyes of the world.

But women still credit the Duchess with knowing men—even though the same women no longer rush out to buy copies of her clothes.

That is why they are wondering what she has learned about managing an unemployed man, in the year she has had to master the art.

Specifically, women who have husbands with too much time on their hands would like to hear the Duchess' answers to these problems:

What excuses do you give to get rid of him long enough to recover from the strain of "playing up" to him?

What means can a woman use to combat the "useless" feeling of a man who has no job in life?

Are the suggestions that were taken as loving interest before marriage—called "nagging" when they come from a wife?

Does a change of scene help to get rid of the feeling of "marking time"—or does it make it worse?

Can one woman give a man enough ego build-up to satisfy him when he has been used to the exhilaration of a job and the admiration of those around him?

When there is no job in sight—is it better to act as though things will soon be different, talk of the past, or admit only today?

How do you keep a man who is around home all the time from interfering with the way things are run?

Can a man learn to make marriage a career?

We wish you could help us answer these questions, Duchess. Because we are pretty sure if any woman can find the answers—if you can.

"ROBIN HOOD" MAGNIFICENT WARNER FILM

LANORA
Today, tomorrow, and Tuesday: "The Adventures of Robin Hood" (Warner Bros.) Directed by William Keighley and Michael Curtiz. Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Basil Rathbone.
Magnificent pageantry of medieval times presented in exquisite Technicolor brings beauty and authenticity to this romantic tale of adventure and chivalry. Robin Hood, a debonair, fearless chap with a mighty sword-arm, an infectious grin and a philosophy as old as Christianity, becomes the self-appointed protector of the poor and oppressed while King Richard the Lion Heart is away on the Crusades. Inspiring musical accompaniment accentuates the pageantry and sets the tempo for this stirring picture. An outstanding production in every way. A best of the month selection, for June, of the West Coast Preview committee.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Fools for Scandal" (Warner Bros.) Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Carole Lombard, Fernand Gravel.
Lively, madcap type social comedy, beautifully staged and satisfactorily cast. An improvised marriage falls in love with an American movie star, traveling incognito, and becomes her cook in order to be near her. Her attempts to be rid of him and his attempts to embarrass her form the basis of the plot.

Friday and Saturday: "Port of Seven Seas" (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.) Directed by James Whale. Wallace Beery, Frank Morgan, Maureen O'Sullivan.
From the play "Fanny" by Marcel Pagnol.
A good story well told and an able cast intelligently directed. The aged plot of an indiscreet young girl who marries an older man to provide a name for her child, but with an unusual denouement. Effective photography, scenes of Marseilles excellently reproduced and outstanding characterizations.

REX
Today, tomorrow, and Tuesday: "Lord Jeff" (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer).

Errol Flynn Is Romancing Again With His First Film Sweetheart

ERROL FLYNN first vaulted to screen fame in the swashbuckling "Captain Blood," and his screen sweetheart was Olivia de Havilland. Wedding bells clanged for them again in "The Charge of the Light Brigade." And now you'll see them together for the third time in Warner's "The Adventures of Robin Hood," in which Flynn plays the title role and Olivia is ye faire Maid Marian. Incidentally, they no longer need to be introduced to one another.

Directed by Sam Wood. Freddie Bartholomew, Mickey Rooney, Charles Coburn, Herbert Mundin, Gale Sondergaard.
Thrills, joys and juvenile tragedies of a British merchant marine training school for boys forms the background of this story of the sailors of tomorrow. Freddie portrays a youngster, tool of crooks, who is represented as a young nobleman and who finds regeneration and friendship when sent to the nautical training school where Mickey Rooney, as a student petty officer, is first his Nemesis, then his friend.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Night Spot" (RKO Radio). Directed by Christy Cabanne. Parkyakarkus, Allan Lane, Gordon Jones, Joan Woodbury. From a story by Anne Jordan.

Crime melodrama, well staged. A young girl, seeking employment in a night club, becomes dangerously involved with a ring of jewel thieves.

Friday and Saturday: "The Overland Express" (Columbia). Directed by Drew Eberson. Buck Jones, Marjorie Reynolds, Carole Moore.
A thrilling western dealing with the establishment of the Pony Express. Beautiful scenery, much suspense, excellent riding and good photography are combined with bits of authentic American history in a fine action picture for the family.

STATE
Today and tomorrow: "Happy Landing" (20th Century-Fox). Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Sonja Henie, Don Ameche.
A song-writing band leader flies across the Atlantic for a publicity stunt comes down in Norway, almost in the middle of a folk festival known as a "Bride's Fair," where the tradition is that if a young man dances twice with the same girl at the party, he has proposed. The band leader dances twice with Sonja, starting the sumptuous, silvery show on its way.

TELEVISION PICKS UP GIRL'S WINDOW PLUNGE

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—A mobile television transmitter making street shots in the vicinity of Rockefeller Center picked up an unprecedented scene today—a girl's body hurtling from the 11th floor of the lofty Time and Life building.
The set was being tested and its output was not on the air, although it was being fed by cable into the National Broadcasting Company studios where engineers sat horrified.
The girl was identified tentatively as Marion Perloff of Brooklyn. It was reported she had fallen from a window of Girl Scout headquarters.

FIRST PRIMARY COST WILL BE FOUR MILLIONS

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, June 25 (AP)—The first accounts of candidates' expenditures in Texas' political wars this year were in order today and the final date for filing them was June 28.

While the total of all the money to be spent in the great shakedown of officeholders never will be known, Secretary of State Edward Clark estimated expenses preliminary to the first Democratic primary July 23 would exceed $4,000,000.

His estimate was made as thousands of candidates stepped up campaigns in a drive for the first big election test of 1938 in Texas, now less than a month distant.

In addition to intensification of campaigns, appearance of numerous straw votes with conflicting results and growing injection of personalities in candidates' speeches and statements were noted.

Clark coupled his estimate of $4,000,000 primary with a declaration the campaign expenditures law was out of date.

"I believe $4,000,000 spent for all political purposes by the candidates and their friends in Texas this year is a conservative estimate," he said.

"As in other years, the election will be a great medium for the redistribution of wealth.

"The expenditures law belongs to the horse and buggy days; it ought to be changed."

He estimated approximately 10,000 candidates were running for state, district, county and precinct offices and allowed an average of $400 expenses for each.

"And, of course," he added, "many candidates will spend much larger sums."

For the next 30 days more Pampans are going to be asked their names than at any other time during the year, as four employees of the Hudspeith Directory company of El Paso compile information for the 1938 Pampa directory, to be issued about August 15.

The directory workers have been in Pampa for the past fortnight. Lambert Smith is in charge of the four men, and he asked Pampans to extend cooperation in giving complete and accurate information to the workers, so that the 1938 directory can be as complete and accurate as is possible.

SUMMER WORKERS NEED SS ACCOUNT NUMBERS

AMARILLO, June 26—Students entering commercial and industrial employment this summer were reminded by Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security board, today that they will need social security account numbers.

Reed said they should apply for a number at local offices of the board, 1012 Oliver-Eagle building.

It is estimated by the Federal office of education that this summer approximately 1,000,000 students may begin their business careers, or take a job during vacation. Whether the employment is part-time, temporary, or permanent, and although the employer has no other employee, a report of the employee's wages together with his account number must be made to the federal government by the employer, Reed explained.

The employee is required to report his account number to his employer.

INDIANS ADOPT TEXAS CHIEFS

LIVINGSTON, June 25 (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred and Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul were members of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian tribe and this town returned to normal today after a celebration in which gaudily-dressed redmen had their pipe of peace squeezed by rain.

Gov. Allred and Chief Tai Cal Shek buried the hatchet for another generation. Allred was the first Texas governor to meet with the only Indian tribe left in Texas since Gen. Sam Houston prevailed on the redmen to settle in the Texas Big Thicket.

Gov. Allred was accompanied by a number of Texas Rangers and they smoked the pipe of peace with the Indians. The elements held off long enough for most of those present to get in their puffs then broke loose and put the pipe out. The precipitation also prevented an Indian marriage, a ceremony of this tribe never shown in public.

Inside the schoolhouse the Indians put on their favorite dance, the dance of the Green Corn. When the rain cleared away, the governor and lieutenant governor were inducted into the tribe at Teepee Town, set up in the center of Livingston. The governor's son, David, also became a brother in the tribe by virtue of the adoption ceremonies.

The Green Corn Festival was the first staged in Texas by the Indian tribe in almost a century. The Indians exhibited their weaving and handicrafts and sold the articles they had made to visitors.

Serves You Better and Saves You More!

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

BY EDWIN RUTT Copyright 1938, NEA Service Inc.

Yesterday, immediately Joe lays down the ultimatum that Kelly is to marry him. Eating, he comments, "This guy Gilbert would have lived high if I hadn't come along."

CHAPTER III
"CONCEITED thing," said Kelly. "Your coming has nothing whatever to do with Gilbert of how high he'll live. More cream?"

"Sure. And it isn't a question of conceit. I'm a stickler for facts, that's all. And I repeat..."

"Skip it," said Kelly. "How does your head feel?"

"I haven't known I had a head for the last half hour."

"In that case," Kelly said, "we're starting for Boston right after your breakfast." She stopped and regarded him. "Anything against shaving? You look like a neglected grave."

"My razor was out in the car," mumbled Joe, through the last of the eggs. "I'll get a shave in the first town."

"All right," said Kelly. "And while you're doing that, I'll wire Gilbert to meet us at the Copley Plaza. I should have telegraphed him earlier, but I haven't had time."

"Too busy nursing me?" Joe grinned.

"Yes, unfortunately."

He spread his hands. "Well, there you have it. You can't go against Fate. Directly you meet me, I made you forget all about Gilbert."

"You," said Kelly, "are fast establishing a new all-time record for self-confidence. Finish your coffee."

The sun fell on Connecticut even as stars are wont to fall on Alabama. The result was a honey of a day, very green-and-gold, very warm.

Kelly came out of the house carrying a suitcase.

"I had the presence of mind to get this out of my own car last night," she said. "What I laughingly call my trousseau is in it."

Joe took the suitcase and parked it in the back of the Ford among the confections.

"What about your car?" he inquired.

She waved her hand. "I asked Simmons to see to it. He will. He's very reliable."

"Okay," said Joe. "Hop in Boston or bust."

They stopped in a village a mile from Tyler, Archer. Their paths diverged temporarily. Joe sought a barber shop. Kelly the telegraph office. When Joe got back, neatly shaved, Kelly was calmly smoking a cigarette and reading a New York paper.

"Wanted to see of the family had kicked up any dust yet," she explained.

"Expect a dust storm?" said Joe.

"And how. My family are probably raising the roof. You see, I walked out cold."

"Then they don't know that you were going to the arms of this wretched?"

"They don't know anything. Because I told them exactly nothing. Therefore I am picturing consternation, the colossal kind, in the old Archer homestead."

"But won't they get in touch with this twerp Gilbert?"

Kelly pursed her lips. Evidently that possibility had not occurred to her. She reached for Joe's arm and dragged him into the car.

"That's a thought," she said. "And it makes it all the more important to get to Boston quickly. Come on, James. In and drive."

THERE'S consternation in these hyar hills as well, Joe said conversationally, as they got under way. "It seems that some yegg held up the bank at North Colliston early this morning. I heard about it at the barber shop. Got away with $20,000 in cash, they say."

"Well," said Kelly, "that's a lot of money in any man's league."

"You spoke," said Joe. "But I doubt if the bird gets clear. According to the barber, who is a veritable gold mine of information, he's just about two jumps ahead of the state troopers. They found his car abandoned with a flat tire and they think he's taken to the tall timber. Excitement, eh what?"

"Plenty. We may hear the bloodhounds baying any minute now. But listen here, Josephus. Step on a little. I've a date in the distant city of Boston."

The road was good and practically devoid of traffic. Despite its external injuries, the Ford purled along like an outsize in contented cat. An hour passed. Two. Then Kelly came out of a doze to announce: "We're stopping for lunch soon. Pull off on the first road, Joseph. I have to eat in some place or dell. It's the potest in me."

He looked at her in surprise.

"Eat? What are we going to eat, Chandler & Sandham's Assorted Jelly Beans?"

"Fool," said Kelly. "Would I suggest lunch unless there was food? While you were getting shaved I bought some sandwiches and two quarts of milk. We can practically gorge ourselves."

Kelly found a likely-looking glade in no time. They got out, sat with their backs against the same tree and began consuming the sandwiches and milk. Then, as the sandwiches diminished, it developed that Kelly had brought an extra one for Joe. The discovery smote his sense of justice.

"Nothing doing," he said vehemently. "Life is a 50-50 proposition. There is such a thing as 'even Stephen.' Marriage should be on a share and share basis..."

"Shut up," interrupted Kelly. We are not married. Eat the sandwich."

"I flatly refuse. Unless you'll eat half of it."

"I will not eat half of it. You're bigger than I am. You need more."

Joe grabbed the sandwich, a thing of ham and pickles.

"Never shall it be said," he proclaimed, "that Joseph Herendean Sandham outwits his women. Since we have arrived at an impasse, we will toss this sandwich to the beasts of the field and the birds of prey. We will..."

And right there Mr. Joseph Herendean Sandham stopped talking, very, very suddenly.

"Save that sangwidge," commanded a rasping voice.

"Save that sangwidge," commanded a rasping voice from behind a bystanding thickie, "fer me."

If people can jump a foot in the air from sitting positions, Kelly and Joe jumped it. Their heads went up simultaneously. Then it was that they perceived that which had given pause to Attila the Hun.

Half-hidden by the thicket stood an individual with elephantine shoulders and a jaw like the facade of the Chrysler Building. The jaw and the granite chin that seemed to go free with it were a tasteful shade of blue. And two grapping-looking hands, thrust out of the foliage, trained twin automatics upon Kelly Archer and Joe Sandham. The automatics gleamed wickedly in the noonday light.

As Kelly and Joe stared aghast the presence came all the way out of the thicket. The full effect was horrifying in the extreme. And yet the sinister mien of the behemoth was mitigated somewhat by a pair of weak watery-blue eyes. Judging from his eyes alone, he looked like any kind of a guy who might drill his aged maiden aunt full of holes and then weep hysterically over a slushy movie.

Mr. Joseph Sandham had been brought up in the tradition of the Light Brigade. He knew that you had to make a pass of some kind when the cannon were in front of you.

"Wh-who are y-you?" he stammered.

The behemoth attended to the inner man before pumping curiosity.

"Pass me dat dere sangwidge," he ordered in his beautifully-toned voice. At the same time he wiggled the right-hand gun.

It was Kelly who passed the sandwich. The colossus thrust one of the guns into his coat pocket, pounced upon the viand and wolfed it at a

THE KIRTLAND WABBLER
NESTS IN ONLY ONE STATE... MICHIGAN... AND THE NESTS ARE PLACED ONLY IN JACK PINE TREES IN A CERTAIN FEW COUNTIES.

HO HUM!
ON JUNE 29, 1937, JIMMY COLLINS, FIRST BASEMAN OF THE CHICAGO CUBS, WENT THROUGH A NINE-INNING BASEBALL GAME WITHOUT A PUT-OUT, AN ASSIST OR AN ERROR.

IF the planets, all nine of them . . . Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Mars, Venus, Earth, Mercury, and Pluto . . . were melted into one single planet, it would take 700 of these new superplanets to weigh as much as the sun. The sun weighs about the same as a solid iron ball having a diameter equal to the diameter of the moon's orbit.

STORY

ned from ear to ear, a sickening sight.
"Haw, haw," he said. "Milk, huh? Gimme it!"
Kelly offered a full half bottle. The gentleman of the shoulders raised it to his lips and produced a sound as of a dredge slushing away at a river. A second later the bottle of milk was just a bottle, nothing more. The gun-minded man tossed it away.

"Hal!" he said, with satisfaction. "I feel better. I ain't et since dis mornin'!"
Joe thought it was time that he got in a word. He tried again along the same lines.

"Who are you?" he demanded. The bethemoth reached in his vest pocket, brought forth a quill toothpick, and set to work on the left upper molars in the back of the house.

"Me!" he said looking at Joe sternly. Evidently he wished to get things straight.
"You," confirmed Joe. An expression of pride seemed to cross the weak blue eyes of the bethemoth.

"Ed the Weasel," he announced. Then it was that any lingering doubts as to the true worth of Miss Kelly Archer passed from Joe Sandham's mind forever.

"Why, how nice," said Kelly. "We are all in the animal kingdom together. I'm Kelly the Kangaroo and this gentleman is Joe the Jaguar. Welcome to our city."

Ed the Weasel peered at her suspiciously.
"Hey," he said at last. "I ain't got time to stand here ribbin' wid youse." He brandished his gun. "Git up."

It was clear that he meant business. Kelly and Joe got up.

Four Locations Staked In Gray County During Week

COMPLETIONS IN PANHANDLE NUMBER EIGHT

Eight new oil wells, eight new locations and two new gas wells kept the Panhandle oilfield on the activity list last week. Announcement of the Railroad Commission that the Saturday and Sunday shutdowns would end July 1 was joyfully received.

The news, however, did not send the field into a wild drilling campaign, operators apparently desiring to see the field continue with reasonable activity.

New oil amounting to 3,002 barrels was added to the potential with Hutchinson county registering six of the eight new wells, good for a total oil flow of 2,040 barrels. The other two were in Gray county.

Two gas wells, one in Moore and the other in Potter county, gauged 63,840,000 cubic feet.

The eight new locations were equally divided between Gray and Hutchinson counties. Like the new wells, the locations were all in proven territory.

Most interesting test of the week was the McRid Oil company's No. 1 Mahlers in section 57 block 25, H&GN survey in eastern Gray county. The test, a mile south of production in the Morse pool, was drilling slowly ahead Friday at 2,531 feet with oil estimated good for 10 barrels in the hole.

Completions by counties follow:

In Hutchinson County
Drilling & Exploration Co., No. 6 R. L. Pond, section 2, block M-21, TCRR survey, gauged 571 barrels with the lime formation between 3,040 and 3,095 feet.

The same company's No. 20 Watkins, section 13, block M-20, TCRR survey, was given a potential of 568 barrels. Lime was paid from 2,950 to 3,001 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 4 Southwestern Oil & Development East Day Land & Cattle co., tested 253 barrels with the pay between 3,132 and 3,170 feet in lime.

Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 7 Jordan, section 123, block 4, I&GN survey, gauged 169 barrels with lime pay from 2,942 to 3,088 feet.

Stanford Oil & Gas Co., No. 10-B Halle, section 4, block M-21, TCRR survey, tested 326 barrels. Lime pay was between 3,016 and 3,081 feet.

The same company's No. 10 H. B. Terry, section 72, block 2, ELRR survey, was given a potential of 162 barrels with pay from 2,950 to 2,978 feet.

In Gray County

Kewanee Oil Co., No. 8 McKinney, section 137, block 3, I&GN survey, was the best well of the week, gauging 591 barrels with lime pay between 3,178 and 3,220 feet. The hole was drilled to a total depth of 3,280 feet and plugged back.

The Texas Co., No. 28 G. H. Saunders, section 3, B&B survey, gauged 371 barrels. Lime pay was between 2,730 and 2,780 feet.

Gas wells tested:

In Moore County
Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 1 Fields, section 243, block 3-T, T&NO survey, gauged 16,147,000 cubic feet.

In Potter County

Panhandle Eastern No. 1-104 McBride, section 104, block 46, H&TC survey, gauged 47,699,000 cubic feet. Intentions to drill:

G. H. Dyer, J. T. Benton No. 1 330' from the north and east lines of SW 1/4 of section 64, block 3, I&GN Gray county.

Gulf Oil Corporation, S. Paulkner "A" (T. A.) No. 14 990' from the south and west lines of S 1/2 of section 137, block 3, I&GN, Gray county.

S. & M. Oil Co., P. A. Worley No. 4, 900' from the north and 250' from the east of NE 1/4 of section 64, block 3, H&GN, Gray county.

Drilling & Exploration Co., Inc., R. L. Pond No. 7, 330' from the north and west lines of 7 1/2 acres in section 2, block M-21, TCRR, Hutchinson Co.

Drilling & Exploration Co., Inc., E. E. Watkins No. 22, 1055' from the south and 2326' from the east of N 1/2 of section 13, block M-21, TCRR, Hutchinson Co.

Seaboard Oil Co. of Delaware, J. A. Whittenburg No. 6, 330' from the north and 2319' of 339 acres in section 16, block 47, H&TC, Hutchinson Co.

Stanford Oil & Gas Co., E. E. Watkins No. 17, 990' from the south and west lines of SW 1/4 of section 72, block 2, HE&WT survey, Hutchinson Co.

DOGOMETER
OAKLAND Calif.—Mrs. Lusky Rowland couldn't have been speeding 37 miles an hour, she told Police Judge Oliver Youngs, because Hi Chow, her pet dog, slinks to the floor and whimpers whenever she exceeds 30.

And Hi Chow was not whimpering, she said, when an officer flagged her down.

Mrs. Rowland received a suspended sentence.

Text Of President's 'Vote-Liberal' Speech.

Our Government, happily, is a democracy. As part of the democratic process, your President is again taking an opportunity to report on the progress of national affairs to the real rulers of this country—the voting public.

The Seventy-fifth Congress, elected in November, 1936, on a platform uncompromisingly liberal, has adjourned. Barring unforeseen events, there will be no session until the new Congress, to be elected in November, assembles next January.

On the one hand, the Seventy-fifth Congress has left many things undone.

For example, it refused to provide more business like machinery for running the executive branch of the Government. The Congress also failed to meet suggestion that it take the far-reaching steps necessary to put the railroads of the country back on their feet.

But, on the other hand, the Congress, striving to carry out the platform on which most of them were elected, achieved more for the future good of the country than any Congress between the end of the World War and the Spring of 1933.

Names Achievements

I mention only the more important of these achievements.

1. On the one hand, the Congress passed a fair labor standards act. That act—applying to products in interstate commerce—ends child labor, sets a floor wage and a ceiling over hours of labor.

Except perhaps for the Social Security Act, it is the most far-sighted program for the benefit of workers ever adopted. Without question it starts us toward a better standard of living and increases purchasing power to buy the products of farm and factory.

2. Do not let any calamity-howling executive with an income of $10,000 a day, who has been turning his employees over to the Government relief rolls in order to preserve his company's undisturbed reserve, tell you—using his stockholders' money to pay the postage for his personal opinions—that a wage of $11 a week is going to have a disastrous effect on all American industry. Fortunately for business as a whole, and therefore for the Nation, that type of executive is a rarity with whom most business executives heartily disagree.

3. The Congress has provided a fact-finding commission to find a path through the jungle of contradictory theories about business practices—to find the necessary facts for any intelligent legislation on monopoly, on price-fixing and on the relationship between big business and little business.

Different from a great part of the world, we in America persist in our belief in individual enterprise and in the profit motive; but we realize we most continually seek improved practices to insure the continuance of reasonable profits, together with scientific progress, individual opportunities for the little fellow, fair prices, decent wages and continuing employment.

4. The Congress has co-ordinated the supervision of commercial aviation and air mail by establishing a new civil aeronautics authority; and it has placed all postmasters under the supervision of the first time in our history.

5. The Congress set up the United States Housing Authority to help finance large-scale slum clearance and provide low rent housing for the low income groups in our cities; and by improving the Federal Housing Act, the Congress made it easier for private capital to build modest homes and low rental dwellings.

6. The Congress has properly reduced taxes on small corporate enterprises, and has made it easier for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make credit available to all business. I think the bankers of the country can fairly be expected to participate in loans where the Government, through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, offers to take a fair portion of the risk.

Funds Provided

7. The Congress has provided additional funds for the Works Progress Administration, the Public Works Administration, the Rural Electrification Administration, the Civilian Conservation Corps and other agencies, in order to take care of what we hope is a temporary additional number of unemployed and to encourage production of every kind by private enterprise.

All these things together I call our program for the national defense of our economic system. It is a program of balanced action—of moving on all fronts at once in intelligent recognition that all our economic problems, of every group, of every section, are essentially one.

8. Because of increasing armaments in other nations and an international situation which is definitely disturbing to all of us, the Congress has authorized important additions to the national armed defense of our shores and our people.

On another important subject the net result of a struggle in the Congress has been an important victory for the people of the United States—a lost battle which won a war.

You will remember that on Feb. 5, 1937, I sent a message to the Congress. I said that the Federal Court reforms of several kinds. In one way or another, during the sessions of this Congress, the ends—the real objectives—sought in the message, have been substantially attained.

Attitude Changed

The attitude of the Supreme Court toward constitutional questions is entirely changed. Its recent decisions are eloquent testimony of a willingness to collaborate with the two other branches of the Government to make democracy work. The Government has been granted the right to protect its interests in litigation between private parties involving the constitutionality of federal statutes; and no single judge is any longer empowered to suspend a federal statute on his sole judgment as to its constitutionality.

Justices of the Supreme Court may now retire at the age of 70 after 10 years' service; a substantial number of additional judgeships have been created in order to expedite the trial of cases, and greater flexibility has been added to the federal judicial system by allowing judges to be assigned to congested districts.

Another indirect accomplishment of this Congress has been its response to the devotion of the American people to a course of sane, consistent liberalism. The Congress has understood that under modern conditions Government has a continuing responsibility to meet continuing needs, and that Government cannot take a holiday of a year, a month or even a day just because a few people are tired or frightened by the inescapable pace of this modern world in which we live.

Some of my opponents and some of my associates have charged that I have a mistakenly sentimental judgment as to the tenacity of purpose and the general level of intelligence of the American people.

View Unchanged

I am still convinced that the American people, since 1932, continue to insist on two requisites of private enterprise, and the relationship of Government to it. The first is complete honesty at the top in looking after the use of other people's money and in apportioning and paying individual and corporate taxes according to ability to pay. The second is sincere respect for the need of all at the bottom to get work—and through work to get a really fair share of the good things of life, and a chance to save and rise.

After the election of 1936 I was told, and the Congress was told, by an increasing number of politicians—and worldly-wise people that I should coast along, enjoy an easy presidency for four years, and not take the Democratic platform too seriously. They told me that people were getting weary of reform through political effort and would no longer oppose that small minority, which in spite of its own disastrous leadership in 1929, is always eager to resume its control over the Government of the United States.

Never in our lifetime has such a concerted campaign of defeatism been thrown at the heads of the President and Senators and Congressmen as in the case of this Seventy-fifth Congress. Never before have we had so many Copperheads—and you will remember that it was the Copperheads who, in the days of the War between the States, tried their best to make Lincoln and his Congress give up the fight, let the Nation remain split in two and return to peace—peace at any price.

This Congress has ended on the side of the people. My faith in the American people—and their faith in themselves—have been justified. I congratulate the Congress and the leadership there of and I congratulate the American people on their own staying power.

One word about our economic situation. It makes no difference to me whether you call it a recession or a depression. In 1932 the total national income of all the people in the country had reached the low point of $38,000,000,000 in that year. With each succeeding year it rose. Last year, 1937, it had risen to $70,000,000,000—despite definitely more business and agricultural prices in the last four months of last year. This year, 1938, while it is too early to do more than give an estimate, we hope that the national income will not fall below $60,000,000,000. We remember also that banking and business and agriculture are not falling apart like the one-hoss shay, as they did in the terrible winter of 1932-1933.

All Made Errors

Last year mistakes were made by the leaders of private enterprise, by the leaders of labor and by the leaders of government—all three.

Last year the leaders of private enterprise pleaded for a sudden curtailment of public spending, and said they would take up the slack. But they made the mistake of increasing their inventories too fast and setting many of their prices too high for their goods to sell.

Some labor leaders goaded by decades of oppression of labor made the mistake of going too far. They were not wise in using methods which frightened many well-wishing people. They asked employers not only to bargain with them but to put up with jurisdictional disputes at the same time.

Government too made mistakes—mistakes of optimism in assuming that industry and labor would themselves make no mistakes—and government made a mistake of timing in not passing farm bill or a wage and hour bill last year.

As a result of the lessons of all these mistakes we hope that in the future private enterprise—capital and labor alike—will operate more intelligently together, and in greater co-operation with their own government than they have in the past.

Such co-operation on the part of both of them will be very welcome to me. Certainly at this stage there should be a united stand on the part of both of them to resist wage cuts which would further reduce purchasing power.

Cooperation Refused

If this is done, it ought to result in conditions which will replace a great part of the government spending which the failure of co-operation made necessary this year.

From March 4, 1933, down, not a single week has passed without a cry from the opposition "to do something, to say something, to restore confidence." There is a very articulate group of people in this country, with plenty of ability to procure publicity for their views, who have consistently refused to co-operate with the mass of the people, whether things were going well or going badly, on the ground that they required more concessions to their point of view before they would admit having what they called "confidence."

These people demanded "restoration of confidence" when the banks were closed—and again when the banks were reopened.

They demanded restoration of confidence when the hungry people were thronging the streets—and again when the hungry people were fed and put to work.

They demanded "restoration of confidence" when droughts hit the country—and again when our fields are laden with bounteous yields and excessive crops.

They demanded "restoration of confidence" last year when the automobile industry was running three shifts and turning out more cars than the country could buy—and again this year when the industry is trying to get rid of an automobile surplus and has shut down its factories as a result.

It is my belief that many of these people who have been crying aloud for "confidence" are beginning today to realize that that hand has been overplayed, and that they are now willing to talk co-operation instead. It is my belief that the mass of the American people do have confidence in themselves—have confidence in their ability, with the aid of Government, to solve their own problems.

It is because you are not satisfied, and I am not satisfied, with the progress we have made in finally solving our business and agricultural and social problems that I believe the great majority of you want your own Government to keep on trying to solve them. In simple frankness and in simple honesty, I need all the help I can get—and I see signs of getting more help in the future from many who have fought against progress with tooth and nail.

Urges Liberals' Election

And now following out this line of thought, I want to say a few words about the coming political primaries.

Fifty years ago party nominations were generally made in conventions—a system typified in the public imagination of a little group in a smoke-filled room who made out the party slates.

The direct primary was invented to make the nominating process a more democratic one—to give the party voters themselves a chance to pick their party candidates.

What I am going to say to you tonight does not relate to the primaries of any particular political party, but to matters of principles in all parties—Democratic, Republican, Farmer-Labor, Progressive, Socialist or any other. Let that be clearly understood.

It is my hope that everybody affiliated with any party will vote in the primaries, and that every such voter will consider the fundamental principles for which his party is on record. That makes for healthy choice between the candidates of the opposing parties on election day in November.

An election can not give a country a firm sense of direction if it has two or more national parties which merely have different names but are as alike in their principles and aims as peas in the same pod.

In the coming primaries in all parties, there will be many clashes between two schools of thought, generally classified as liberal and conservative. Roughly speaking, the liberal school of thought recognizes that the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies.

Defines 'Liberal'

Those of us in America who hold to this school of thought, insist that these new remedies be adopted and successfully maintained in this country under our present form of government if we use government as an instrument of co-operation to provide these remedies. We believe that we can solve our problems through continuing effort, through democratic processes instead of Fascism or Communism. We are opposed to the kind of moratorium on reform which, in effect, is reaction itself.

Be it clearly understood, however, that when I use the word "liberal," I mean the believer in progressive principles of democratic representative government and not the wild man who, in effect leans in the direction of Communism, for that is just as dangerous as Fascism.

The opposing or conservative school of thought, as a general proposition, does not recognize the need for Government itself to step in and take action to meet these new problems. It believes that individual initiative and private philanthropy will solve them—that we ought to repeal many of the things we have done and go back, for instance, to the old gold standard or to all this business of old age pensions or unemployment insurance, or repeal the Securities and Exchange Act, or let monopolies thrive unchecked—return, in effect, to the kind of Government we had in the twenties.

Has Right To Speak

Assuming the mental capacity of all the candidates, the important question which comes to me the primary voter must ask is this: "To which of these general schools of thought does the candidate belong?"

As the head of the Democratic party, however, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the definitely liberal declaration of principles set forth in the 1936 Democratic platform, I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles, or involving a clear misuse of my own name.

Do not misunderstand me, I certainly would not indicate a preference in a state primary merely because a candidate otherwise liberal in outlook, had conscientiously differed with me on any single issue. I should be far more concerned about the general attitude of a candidate toward present day problems and his own inward desire to get practical heads attended to in a practical way. We all know that progress may be blocked by outspoken reactionaries and also by those who say "yes" to a progressive objective, but who always find some reason to oppose any specific proposal to gain that objective. I call that type of candidate a "yes, but" fellow.

And I am concerned about the attitude of a candidate or his sponsors with respect to the rights of American citizens to assemble peacefully and to express publicly their views and opinions on important social and economic issues. There can be no constitutional democracy in any community which denies to the individual his freedom to speak and worship as he wishes. The American people will not be deceived by anyone who attempts to suppress individual liberty under the pretense of patriotism.

Forecasts 'Blows'

This being a free country with freedom of expression—especially with freedom of the press—there will be a lot of mean blows struck between now and election day. By "blows" I mean misrepresentation, personal attack and appeals to prejudices. It would be a lot better, of course, if campaigns everywhere could be waged with arguments instead of blows.

I hope that liberal candidates will confine themselves to argument and not resort to blows. In nine cases out of ten the speaker or writer who, seeking to influence public opinion, descends from calm argument to unfair blows hurts himself more than his opponent.

The Chinese have a story on this—a story based on three or four thousand years of civilization; for the Chinese colliers were arguing heatedly in the midst of a crowd. A stranger expressed surprise that no blows were being struck. His Chinese friend replied: "The man who strikes first admits that his ideas have given out."

I know that neither in the Summer primaries nor in the November elections will the American voters fail to spot the candidate whose ideas have given out.

The day after Christmas, "Boxing Day" is a legal holiday in England.
