STATE ASSAILS R.H. HAMILTON'S STAR WITNESS

Whitey Walker Spirited Into Oklahoma To Face Bank Robbery Indictments

STATE SPRINGS 'FAST ONE' TO GET PRISONER

Accused Bandit's Own Attorney Ignorant of Extradition Move

SHERIFF HIDES OUT

Ada, Okla., Officer Stays In Hotel Until Chance To Serve Papers

BORGER, Texas, Nov. 4. (AP)—William (Whitey) Walker, wanted on half a dozen different charges in Texas and Oklahoma, who was spirited away by Oklahoma officers here today with the help of Texas authorities, made a desperate attempt to gain his freedom when he learned that he was going to Oklahoma, Sheriff C. O. Moore revealed tonight.

Walker was to have been tried today on indictments charging the slaying of two Hutchinson county deputy sheriffs. When the case was continued Sheriff Fred Bowles of Ada, Okla., who had been concealed in a hotel room, armed with extradition papers for several days, received the prisoner from Texas authorities and started for Ada by a circuitous route.

Walker "Fooled"

Sheriff Moore said that Walker himself was unaware of his destination and thought he was being taken to another Texas county for safe keeping. Moore and Texas Ranger W. F. Kirby took Walker about two miles from town where the Oklahoma officers were waiting. As they approached the rendezvous Moore said:

"Whitey, you're going to Oklahoma."

Walker cursed and announced that he would not go as he made a frantic effort, handcuffed as he was, to leap from the car. Kirby seized him and the Oklahoma officers came to his aid.

District Attorney Clem Calhoun said that Walker went to Oklahoma in fear of his life.

Bandit Trembles

"Last Thursday when I took Sheriff Bowles into the jail to see Walker the latter trembled like a leaf," Calhoun said.

"We got a 'governor's warrant from Governor Moody telling us to release Walker to Oklahoma authorities. Our case here remains against him, but in the meantime he is wanted in four Oklahoma places for trial, Ada having the best case. There is really no case here against him. He agreed to take a light sentence here in this county, or go to Bell county and take a maximum of 12 years for a jewelry store robbery."

Move Is Surprise

The handing over of Walker to Oklahoma authorities came as a surprise to officers here, and one of his attorneys, Dewitt Bomer of Temple, Texas, apparently unaware of the pending move, had returned home. The fact that Walker had been turned over to Sheriff Bowles did not become generally known until nearly three hours after he had been spirited from the county jail.

Walker is under indictment for shooting to death Policeman Coke Buchanan in Borger March 18, 1927, and of Sheriff's Deputies Elmer Terry and Pat Kenyon two weeks later in the same town.

Postponement Agreed

His trial today was postponed by agreement of attorneys after District Attorney Clem Calhoun, recently appointed to succeed John A. Holmes, assassinated at his Borger home, had told the court some needed witnesses were absent and that he wanted more time to investigate charges against the defendant.

Among witnesses in court today was Hugh Walker, brother of the defendant, also indicted on two of the charges against "Whitey." Ed Bailey, indicted with the brothers in the slaying of two deputies, was not in court.

Sheriff Bowles, it was learned, had been hidden in a hotel room here for several days awaiting an

'Mercy Killer' Who Ended His Mother's Sufferings Freed

Verdict of French Jury Received With Wild Acclaim; Accused Pleads His Own Case

DRAGUIGAN, France, Nov. 4. (AP)—Amid exhibitions of the wildest enthusiasm, Richard Corbett, son of an English father and a French mother, was acquitted today by a jury of charges of murdering his mother to put her out of pain.

Corbett, who would accept no lawyer and spoke in his own defense, frankly admitted that he shot his mother last May to relieve her sufferings from an incurable case of cancer. He made a dramatic plea to the jury, declaring he felt he had done right even though he had broken the law.

Demanded Punishment

The public prosecutor in a brief and impassioned speech demanded a verdict establishing Corbett's guilt.

"I am not asking for excessive punishment. But this startling case develops the tremendously vital question whether society can permit one human being to take the life of another and remain unpunished," he said. He demanded the minimum sentence of five years solitary confinement.

When the jurors, after an hour's deliberation, returned to the crowded and excited court room and announced their verdict of "not guilty" men and women rose as one mass of cheering and sobbing humanity.

The judge, whose attitude was sympathetic to the defendant throughout the trial, ordered the court room cleared immediately, but the police had a difficult job of doing it.

The trial was the latest in a series of "mercy killings" that have come up in France, in the past few years.

Attempted Suicide

Corbett, who sat with head bowed during the proceedings and took little interest in them, killed his mother last May and then shot himself. He recovered in a hospital and was brought to trial.

In one confession to the tensity of emotion he was experiencing, Corbett summed up his own case to the jury today.

"Gentlemen, my mother was suffering tortures. The doctors agreed she could not recover. I feel that though I broke the law I did right. I'm willing to pay any penalty you think just. My action would not have been necessary if the state would pass a law enabling doctors to end the suffering of incurables."

STOCKS SLIP

Flurry of Selling Sends Prices Down; Rally Fails to Last

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—Trading in the New York securities markets returned to nearly normal proportions today after a brief flurry of selling, representing the execution of a vast accumulation of orders over the week-end, took place at the opening of the exchanges.

Prices slid off $1 to 12 a share at the opening, rallied moderately before the end of the first hour and then extended initial declines in a fresh selling movement which carried nearly two score issues down $10 to $25 or below last week's final quotations. Closing quotations generally were around the low levels of the day.

VOTE CENSURES BINGHAM'S ACTS

Lawmaker's Relations With Manufacturers Reproved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Condemnation was voted upon Senator Bingham of Connecticut today by the senate, 58 to 22, for his relations with the Connecticut Manufacturers association while formulating the tariff legislation.

Obviously wounded but still defiant, the Republican senator, a former Yale professor and world war aviator, replied as he left the chamber he would "certainly not" resign.

Kept His Ground

Through four hours of debate, he stubbornly had contended his right to use an officer of the Connecticut association to help him in his work of framing the tariff bill and to take that officer into the secret tariff rate making sessions of the finance committee Republicans.

Twice the senate had voted down attempts to modify the resolution of condemnation but then Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, its author, yielded to pleas from both sides of the chamber that Bingham be absolved of corrupt motives.

FOUR KILLED AS PASSENGER PLANE DIVES

John Carmichael, Former Daily Times Employe, At Controls

GOV. CARPIO VICTIM

Former Resident Here Was All-Conference Star In Football

John Carmichael, formerly of Wichita Falls, and three other men, including Governor Manuel Carpio of Aguas Calientes, were killed Monday morning when an airplane of the Corporacion Aeronautica de Transportes, with Pilot Carmichael at the controls, crashed near Villa Carbon in the state of Mexico, according to Associated Press dispatches to The Record News.

The plane, a single-motored cabin ship, took off from Valbuena field in Mexico City at 6:30 o'clock Monday morning headed for Juarez. Pilot Carmichael was forced to turn back on account of thick fog near Hichapan in the state of Hidalgo and it was supposed in Mexico City that the same lack of visibility later caused the crash.

Times Employe

Pilot Carmichael left Wichita Falls about two years ago. For about four years previous to that time he had been an employe of The Daily Times here, in charge of national advertising. He is survived here by his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Backus, 2114 Jones street.

He went from this city to San Diego, Calif., where he entered the government flying school. Later he entered the field of commercial aviation and for some time was pilot on an airline between Brownsville, Texas, and Central America. He was the pilot who opened the C. A. T. line between El Paso and Mexico City last August, the line whose ship he was piloting at the time of the crash. The company, in giving out details of the crash Monday night, pointed out that it was the first accident of the line.

Football Star

Carmichael graduated from Trinity university several years ago and was at one time selected as an all-Southwestern football player. He was well known over the state for his athletic prowess and had many friends in Wichita Falls and other Texas cities.

The others killed in the crash were the secretary to Governor Carpio and Traffic Superintendent Robert G. Lowry of the airline. Superintendent Lowry was about 40 years old, married and went to Mexico recently from the United States.

General Carpio was en route back to Aguas Calientes after having defended himself in Mexico City on a charge of maladministration presented against him in the Mexican senate.

Harris House Built

The history of the Harris family, of which Mrs. Bryan was a member, is intimately connected with the early days of Wichita Falls and the surrounding territory. In 1873, her father, known to pioneers as Major Harris, moved with his family from Dallas, then a small village, to a place on the Red river near McFarlin Springs where he cleared ground and began farming. In 1880 the family moved to Wichita Falls and Major Harris built

Gun Expert Says Shots Fired From Distance Of Three Feet

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 4. (AP)—Sitting forward on the edge of his chair, R. H. Hamilton today watched the jury in his murder trial examine the tan herring bone suit his son-in-law, Tom Walton Jr., was wearing last May 4 when four pistol bullets ended his life in Hamilton's Amarillo law office.

The suit of clothing was introduced while District Attorney Edward Thomerson was on the stand as a state rebuttal witness.

Powder burns on the clothing first entered the testimony today when Steve Ridings, colonel in the Texas national guard and a police

WALTON SR., SUMMONED

By Staff Correspondent

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 4.—Tom Walton Sr. who has quietly and silently watched the proceedings of the trial of R. H. Hamilton, Amarillo attorney accused of slaying his son, Tom Walton Jr., was today summoned as a witness for the defense.

Summoning of Walton automatically placed him under the witness rule and barred him from the courtroom.

The summons followed discovery of his presence by the defendant.

court judge at the time of the shooting, qualified as an expert. He said he judged all bullets which pierced the clothing save one had been fired from a distance of three or four feet. Four bullets struck the coat, one through the neck, two through the right shoulder, and one through the lower right hand side.

Defense Claims Fight

The defense, through two eyewitnesses and the defendant, had claimed all shots were fired while Hamilton and the husband of his then 17-year-old daughter, Theresa, a student in the University of Texas, were in a hand-to-hand struggle, or, as Hamilton described it from the stand, "a mortal battle."

Ridings declared the bullets in the .44-caliber revolver which has been introduced as evidence, contained black powder. He based that opinion, he said, on a "ring" around the shells and the odor of the powder in the reception room of Hamilton's law suite when he entered. He added that a bullet fired from that kind of shell from a distance of less than three and one-half feet would have powder-burned the clothing.

GRUNDY PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Judge Martin Sets Slaying Trial Nov. 25

A plea of not guilty was entered by Roy Grundy, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of June Hilburn on a downtown street the morning of Oct. 17, when he was arraigned before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday afternoon. His bond was set at $10,000.

A special venire of 100 was immediately called by Judge Martin and the case was set for Nov. 25. Grundy was expected to make the bond Tuesday, it was said, but he was still in the county jail Monday night.

Grundy was arrested by city officers immediately after the shooting Oct. 17. He was transferred to county authorities the same day. A shotgun was taken from his hands by the arresting officers who rushed to the scene upon hearing the shots. Hilburn was dead before an ambulance was called, one load of shot having entered his chest, another just below the chin and a third thought to have penetrated the back. All were fired from close range, officers said, and the flesh around the wounds were badly powder burned.

Reports that family trouble had been the cause of the shooting were strongly denied by Mrs. Grundy the afternoon after Hilburn was shot. R. E. Taylor is representing Grundy as defense attorney.

Suitor of Slain Couple's Niece Trailed by Bloodhounds as Killer

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 4. (AP)—George Hostetter, once freed on a murder trial, and a neighborhood suitor for the hand of a cousin of Mrs. Albert Weddle, tonight was sought as the alleged assassin who last night slew Mrs. Weddle and her husband with a shotgun as the couple sat in their country home.

Blood hounds placed on the trail shortly after the couple was found proceeded from the window of the room in which the couple sat to the home of Miss Mary Hunter, the cousin, a short distance away. Hostetter, who was not at his home last night, and who still is missing, had paid attentions to Miss Hunter, who lived with her sister, Miss Maud Hunter.

Today Mary Hunter admitted she and the missing man planned to marry.

Mr. and Mrs. Weddle, officers said, had opposed the match.

Mary Hunter, questioned by deputy sheriffs, said Hostetter had been in front of her home in an automobile yesterday noon, but had not visited her last night.

Hostetter returned to Nevada to face a murder charge slightly more than a year ago, after having been a fugitive for eight years. He returned here after a few weeks with the explanation that he had convinced officials he was innocent.

Scores Killed by Molten Rock As Guatemalan Volcano Vomits Fire

GUATEMALA CITY, Nov. 4. (UP)—Three hundred persons were estimated by the foreign office to have been killed last night and today when Santa Maria volcano vomited lava and ashes from its 12,200 foot crest overlooking the Pacific ocean.

An unconfirmed report said the entire population of Finca el Patrocinio was buried by lava. Twenty-seven bodies were recovered there today and soldiers were digging for others. A heavy rainfall since last night made salvage work difficult, and many places were cut off from communication.

The government dispatched trains with Red Cross workers to aid the wounded.

Quezaltenango, city of 10,000 population near the volcano, was in turmoil. Its terrified inhabitants filled the streets and prepared to flee.

Communication between Quezaltenango and the nearby small town of San Felipe was cut off.

The volcano has been active intermittently since 1902, when its eruption and accompanying earthquake destroyed Quezaltenango and other towns.

WICHITA MAN FALLS DEAD

Plumber Dies as He Works At Vacant House

B. T. Griffin, 57, 1504 Taylor street, a local plumber, dropped dead about 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon while working in the rear of a vacant house at 3301 Garfield street. J. F. Ellison, a factory employe, who happened to be passing nearby, saw Mr. Griffin pitch forward suddenly to the ground.

He immediately called county officers and O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, and Blackie Wilson, a member of the constable's department, went to the place. An inquest by Judge Gibbs resulted in a verdict of death from natural causes, probably apoplexy.

Mr. Griffin was working on plumbing fixtures in the back yard of the unoccupied house at the time of his death, it was reported. He was using a blow torch but no marks of any kind were found on the body to indicate other than natural death, Judge Gibbs stated, and the fact that he was working in the open air removed the possibility that he had been overcome by sewer gases or other fumes.

The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary. Funeral services will be held from the residence at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon with Rev. W. D. Bratton, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, officiating. Interment will be in Rosemont.

Mr. Griffin is survived by a son, James Griffin, who with his wife, lived at the family residence here; two brothers, John Griffin of Hollywood, Calif., and Joe Griffin of Chicago; and two sisters, Miss Kate Griffin and Mrs. Nine Gearen, both of Sioux City, Iowa. Mrs. Griffin, wife of the deceased, died here last June.

Grand Jury Opens Archer City Work

The November grand jury of the 30th district court began its deliberations at Archer City Monday morning, with District Attorney Sam B. Spence conducting the examinations of witnesses summoned. No bills of indictment were returned during the day. Owing to the light docket few are expected, Mr. Spence said. These probably will be returned Tuesday and are expected to be in cases of minor nature.

The new term of court was formally opened in the morning by Judge Allan D. Montgomery.

Mr. Spence Monday night was preparing to leave Tuesday for Austin, where he will present the state's case in the hearing before the court of criminal appeals on the application of D. J. Hoobler, convicted on a charge of murder here last January, for a new trial. In his absence the grand jury work at Archer City will be conducted by Assistant District Attorney Mike Anglin. Assistant District Attorney George W. Anderson will accompany Mr. Spence to Austin.

Dallas Cotton Exchange Silent on Price List

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—Directors of the Dallas Cotton exchange conferred today, but issued no statement on the charges of Congressman Wright Pattman of Texarkana that the exchange, by its method of listing cottonseed prices, was keeping the price a secret.

Pattman said that the system of the exchange in listing the price as "irregular" was an attempt to keep the price secret and advocated that the newspapers in various parts of the state print the actual prices paid the producers there.

The valuation of the Sears and Roebuck property in Wichita Falls was set at $15,000 by the city council Monday night following a disagreement concerning the value placed by the board of equalization. The council considered no other business of importance further than to approve the minutes of the past meeting and the aldermen adjourned less than five minutes after they had been seated. The $15,000 valuation was recommended by City Manager George D. Fairtrace.

Rescuers Search Aransas Bay For Body of Former Wichita Falls Man

J. C. Brim, Also Formerly of Frederick, Okla., Drowns While On Gulf Hunting Trip

The body of Joseph C. Brim, former Wichitan who with a hunting companion was drowned in Aransas bay near Rockport Saturday night, had not been recovered at 7 p. m. Monday night, despite efforts of searchers in boats and airplanes, Dr. C. B. Standley, 1707 Monroe street, close friend of Mr. Brim, said he was informed Monday night.

The body of Clifford West, Brim's companion who was drowned when their small boat overturned in a squall, was recovered Sunday, Lieut. James B. Flannery, third member of the hunting party, swam ashore.

Dr. Standley said he was informed of the progress of the search by the father of Mrs. Brim, Mr. Zachery, who lives at Vernon. Mr. Zachery, Dr. Standley said, received a telegram from Mrs. Brim, who is at Corpus Christi awaiting the outcome of the search.

Mr. Brim, according to Dr. Standley, lived in Wichita Falls from March, 1928, until February of this year, being connected with a Fort Worth wholesale grocery firm. He moved here from Frederick, Okla., where he was a prominent member of Masonic orders, and where he had many friends. He moved from here to San Antonio, where he was a representative of a Chicago wholesale grocery establishment.

EARLY CHURCH WORKER DIES

the first house in the town to be constructed of weather boarding.

At that time the house was considered the show place of the entire region. It was known as the Harris house and was a large hotel where all events of importance in the vicinity were held. The First Methodist church was organized in the parlor of the Harris house, Mrs. Bryan having been a charter member. It was the only church in the town and everyone attended its meetings, which were held about once a month. Services were conducted by Rev. F. O. Miller, a circuit preacher, who traveled from town to town in this vicinity and who reached Wichita Falls at intervals of once a month.

Many Recall Services

For several years the services were held in the parlor of the Harris house and in 1883 or shortly thereafter the members of the church decided to construct a separate building where regular worship could be conducted. The Harris house was located in 1880 just across the tracks from the present site of the Forth Worth and Denver railway and when the railroad was brought into Wichita Falls, to keep the hotel in a more important part of town, the house was moved directly across the new track. Several years later the famous old building burned down.

Among the old settlers who attended the services held in the Harris house, in addition to Mrs. Bryan and the Harris family, were Mrs. A. E. Carrigan, then a girl of about 14 years; her parents, Judge and Mrs. J. H. Barwise, Judge R. E. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Howard and their family, F. M. Davis, Will Harris, former Wichita county clerk, and many other pioneers. Reverend Miller, who first conducted the services at the Harris house and who was at that time quite a young man, died a few years ago.

Vote Censures Bingham's Acts

That specification went into the resolution.

As the senate was finally about to vote, the gray-haired Nebraskan turned to the tall Connecticut senator slumped in his seat just behind him to assert the "pity is that the senator has not yet grasped that the action he did was injurious to the senate."

Solemn Occasion

It was the first time in 27 years that the senate voted to censure a member and an atmosphere of solemnity prevailed. The chamber and galleries were crowded when the resolution was brought up by Norris at the outset of the session. Members of the house crowded about the rear of the chamber.

Bingham himself opened the discussion after the resolution was read, presenting a lengthy prepared defense of his use of Charles L. Eyanson, the $10,000 assistant to the president of the Connecticut association, as an aide during his work with the finance committee majority in drafting the bill. His friends pleaded for a softening of the wording of the resolution. Senator Gillett, Republican, Massachusetts, cautioned that the senate did not have time to censure all indiscretions of its members, but no one defended Bingham's actions.

Tension Relieved

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, called upon the "old guard" to express itself and finally Senator Gould, Republican, Maine, who had taken a seat beside Bingham, arose to answer.

"The senator from Connecticut has made a four-square statement here of just what he did and why he did it," said the Maine senator and the prevalent tension was relieved momentarily by laughter.

TWO HELD IN LIQUOR RAID

Deputies Seize 150-Gallon Still Here

Two men were being held in the county jail Monday night following their arrest by members of the sheriff's department after a raid on a still in the Wichita river bottoms about seven miles east of the city at noon Monday. The still was of approximately 150 gallons capacity and appeared to have seen long and hard usage, the officers said.

Two barrels of mash were destroyed during the raid. No one was found at the place when officers arrived but the first arrest was made early in the afternoon after they had brought the manufacturing apparatus into town and had returned to the spot. The second arrest was made early in the evening. No charges had been filed Monday night. Those in the raiding party were Charlie Gant, H. L. White and Dick Morris, all deputy sheriffs.

Supreme Court To Pass on Seizure Of Odorous Properties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (INS)—The supreme court today decided to review the question of whether the government can confiscate empty barrels and bottles on the claim that an odor of whisky has been detected.

Ike Danovitz, owner of the Feitler Bottle company of Pittsburgh, appealed for review. He maintained that under the lower court ruling prohibition forces could seize barrels, bottles, cans and other articles even though they might be sold for legitimate commerce.

The court declined to disturb a lower court ruling that the government could not forfeit an electric lighting plant used in bootlegging operations. The plant was sold by the Kohler company to the Elk Breeding and Grazing association in Massachusetts and was taken by dry agents during a raid. The Kohler company sought to regain the plant on which a balance was due.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers—especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

WALKER SENT TO OKLAHOMA

Bandit Suspect to Face Robbery Trial

opportunity to present the extradition papers which he held and get Walker quietly into Oklahoma.

Captors Regretful

Former officers here, chief among them Cal Baird who had a big part in the tracing and capture of Walker, expressed regret tonight that Walker had not stood trial here. Baird said, however, that he expected a conviction on a bank robbery charge at Ada. Curtis Black, charged in the same robbery was sentenced to 99 years upon his conviction. Baird is under a liquor law indictment here. Baird said that Walker was wanted at Purcell, Newkirk and in Grant county, Okla.

According to Walker's attorneys the indictment for the shooting of Buchanan was transferred to Carson county two years ago on motion of the state. Dewitt Bomer, one of his attorneys, said that Hugh Walker, Whitey's brother, was indicted in the Buchanan murder, but not in the Kenyon and Terry cases, and that Hugh's case had been transferred to Ochiltree, also on motion of the state. Whitey's indictment in the Buchanan murder, Bomer said, had been postponed twice in Carson county.

WALKER ARRESTED IN BUFFALO, N. Y.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 4. (AP)—William J. (Whitey) Walker, who today was turned over to Oklahoma officers at Stinnett, Texas, when his trial on murder indictments was passed until the April term of court, was arrested in Buffalo, N. Y., early in January of this year, on information furnished by Oklahoma authorities.

He was said to have confessed to a number of murders and bank robberies in the Southwest, and at that time also was being sought by officers from Colorado and Texas.

Walker was returned to Oklahoma late in January by Fred Bowles, sheriff of Pontotoc county on a charge of robbing the First National bank of Allen, Okla., Aug. 10, 1928.

Three men were involved in the Allen holdup, one man staying in the car while the other two entered the bank, obtained approximately $2,600 and fled.

Mrs. Lorena Jones, cashier and three customers were locked in the bank vault just before the robbers left.

Curtis Black was arrested a few days after the robbery and upon conviction was sentenced to life imprisonment by Orel Busby, district judge. Another man was arrested on suspicion of being driver of the car, but was released after his preliminary hearing.

After his return to Ada from Buffalo, Walker was turned over to Colorado officers as a suspect in the Lamar bank robbery and Colorado officers released him to Texas authorities.

Aside from the Pontotoc county bank robbery, Walker is wanted in Oklahoma as a suspect in bank robberies at Lamont, Grant county, July 24, 1928; Nardin, Kay county, Sept. 17 of the same year and at Prague, Lincoln county.

Wichitan Makes Bond For Whipping Prankster

A Wichita Falls man charged with aggravated assault in connection with the alleged whipping of a boy on Halloween night, was released on $200 bond Monday afternoon, according to L. V. Abernathy, county attorney.

The man was arrested by city officers last Thursday night following a call to his address when police were told he had administered a sound whipping with a razor strap to one of a group of boys who were said to have been pounding on his house and throwing rocks. The man's wife was sick, he said, and the boys refused to leave when he told them to cease the noise. Officers said he came out of the house with the leather strap, seized one of the group and whipped him. A date for a hearing on the case had not been set Monday.

Thieves Cart Off House Furnishings Worth $400

Members of the constable's department Monday were investigating the robbery of a house belonging to J. H. All of the loot was practically new, Mr. Wright reported, the furnishings having been purchased only a few weeks ago. Relatives of Mr. Wright occupied the house but were away from home at the time of the robbery, he said.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.—Adv.

GAME FOREST PLAN BACKED

Lawton C.-C. Indorses Projects

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 4.—The Lawton Chamber of Commerce today got actively behind the program for improvements and innovations at the Wichita National Forest and Game Preserve, and the two proposed bills calling for an appropriation of approximately one million dollars.

One bill would authorize the expenditure of $300,000 for the construction of dams at designated spots in the preserve forming bodies of water as resting places and refuge of migratory birds. [illegible] hundred thousand dollars is provided in a second bill for the [illegible] acres additional land, 5,000 acres of which it is specified, would be turned over to the war department at the latter's request for military purposes in case the department desired to further increase the firing range of the reservation.

Proposed plans include construction of a fence completely enclosing the forest preserve, establishing breeding places for game, and providing lands for the raising of the necessary feed.

A meeting of prominent Isaac Waltonites from all over the state was held at the forest home on the preserve Sunday, at which time the proposed bills were endorsed. The projects already have the endorsement of the state organization and a national officer of the league is expected here within three weeks to prepare a report for the national Isaac Walton organization relative to the projects.

Forest engineers from Denver have already surveyed the preserve and selected 17 sites for lakes, estimating probable costs.

We saw her on a stool at a lunch counter and marveled at her lovely hair. It shone with a natural glossiness and lay in loose waves toward the heavy coil at the nape of her neck. One head, we were sure, that had never been bobbed and one lot of beautiful locks that had a right to be called "woman's crowning glory."

And then we saw her eat soup. And we'd just as soon she had no hair.

Waiting on the corner of Brook and Eleventh for a bus, we met two mighty hunters. Two and four, they were, sturdy and plump as boys can be; neither could talk quite plainly, but what difference does that make when one is armed with a long stick that will "s'oot lot's 'birds."

It was sweet to see how four years old, who was short as most three-year-olds, was watching out for two-year-old. With their fat little bare legs, white waist and little brown breeches, they were splendid specimens of very young manhood, and the fierce determination on their faces, showed the birds in Judge Huff's yard were in danger.

They are different sometimes when they grow older. We are thinking of the 32-year-old preacher in Kentucky, who recently got out an injunction against his 29-year-old wife for cruelty.

Check dandruff!

You, too, can say goodbye to hair-worries, if you'll learn this simple method of caring for the hair. It is known to hundreds of stage and screen stars; used by thousands of women and girls, who haven't time for laborious methods.

Sprinkle a little Danderine on your brush tonight. Then as you brush your hair you'll feel the soothing, toning effects.

For over 30 years, specialists have recommended Danderine: to dissolve the crust of dandruff; stop falling hair; tone the scalp, encourage the hair to grow long, silky and abundant.

The first application gives your hair new life and luster; makes it softer; easier to manage; holds it like you arrange it. Evidence beyond doubt proves the benefits of its regular use.

Perhaps your Child needs Milk of Magnesia

Too much acid always sickens

A GROWING child's system is less tolerant of an acid condition than that of a grown person. That's why a lot of sleep and a diet rich in fruits and the leafy vegetables is important to children. During sleep the acids of the body are consumed and the alkaline balance, so essential to health, is restored.

In spite of all your care, a child's system will occasionally become too acid. Of course you can correct this by rest and diet. But that takes time. The instant way is with an alkaline provided by Nature for the purpose. Milk of Magnesia.

You can make no mistake about the best form of magnesia if you follow the example set by physicians the world over. For fifty years, they have prescribed Phillips Milk of Magnesia to correct disorders caused by too much acid. In adults; sour stomach, nausea, gas, heartburn, indigestion. In children; bad breath, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic, diarrhea. Phillips Milk of Magnesia is in the form declared most effective by the U. S. Dispensatory. Its action is thorough; yet there is nothing so soothing to an ailing stomach.

A spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water and in five minutes you are happy, smiling! All symptoms of over-acidity soon disappear. A mother's duty is so much easier when she uses it. Children accept it so readily. Nothing could be superior for keeping the bowels open in constipation, colds, and children's diseases.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia has many important uses in every household. Each package contains full directions, well worth reading. 25c and 50c bottles at all drug stores.

To be sure of genuine Milk of Magnesia look for the name Phillips

Dorothy Dix Tells Young Bride To Read Newspapers

How Can a Woman Who Never Knows What Is Going On in the World Because She Never Reads Newspapers Hope to Keep Her Husband Interested and Entertained for Best of His Natural Life?

The other day a young woman canceled her subscription to a newspaper and gave as her reason for doing so that she was about to be married and after marriage she didn't expect to have time to read the papers. That is about the most complete explanation that has ever been given of why men tire of their wives and why so many middle-aged women find themselves spending lonely evenings at home while their husbands have fared forth in search of congenial companionship. Also, it offers a perfect and complete alibi for the wandering husband, for who can blame the man who is tied to a dead one, who doesn't know what is happening in the world, for fleeing from her to a live one who is full of pep and new ideas? Self-preservation is the first law of nature, and being bored to death is a long and lingering form of torture from which any of us are justified in escaping if we can. Fancy the horror of having to live day after day, week after week, month after month, year after year with a wife who never read the newspapers! Who didn't know whether the League of Nations was a political movement or a new brand of canned goods! Who is as innocent as a babe unborn of Hoover's policies and disarmament and the prohibition question and where Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth should sit at state functions! Who never knows what Mussolini is doing and would never hear of it if kingdoms fell and earthquakes destroyed cities and men and women who have made history died! Who would never know Babe Ruth's batting average or whether the stock market was up or down!

Who woludn't know anything at all except the price of butchers' meat and green groceries and that the washwoman came or didn't come and what the children did and said and the gossip that some woman whispered to her over the back fence!

Can you imagine any man looking forward to coming home of an evening to such a Dumb Dora? Can you imagine any man spending a pleasant evening listening to such drivel? You can't. Nobody can. Nobody can keep up a sustained conversation with an ignoramus. Nobody can be interested in the society of an individual whose whole interests are confined to the narrow range of their own personal experience and who never has a new idea or a new thought or a fresh topic to discuss.

It is because so many women never read the newspapers that home life gets so dull and that the average family sits up of an evening in a silence so thick that you could cut it with a knife. There is literally nothing to say to a wife who doesn't know a thing except that the baby has a new tooth and eggs have gone up five cents a dozen and Mrs. Jones says that Mrs. Smith's husband stayed out last night until 3 o'clock.

As a matter of fact, before marriage it is optional whether a girl reads the newspapers or not, but after marriage it is a necessity if she expects to hold her husband. Before marriage a girl can get by with a pretty face and cuddly ways. It doesn't make any difference whether she has a conversational line or not, because all that the man wants to hear from her is about how big and wonderful and handsome he is and how much she loves him and how she would die if anything happened to him.

But after marriage he wants to be entertained and amused, and if his wife can't do it he strays off in search of some lady spellbinder. Gone are the days when a husband was satisfied with a good, little, stupid fool if she was affectionate and domestic. Men demand more than that of their wives now.

They want wives who are intelligent and up to the minute, who can enter into all of their hopes and plans and with whom they can discuss everything from the baseball score and a new book to the latest thing in airplanes and the newest political scandal.

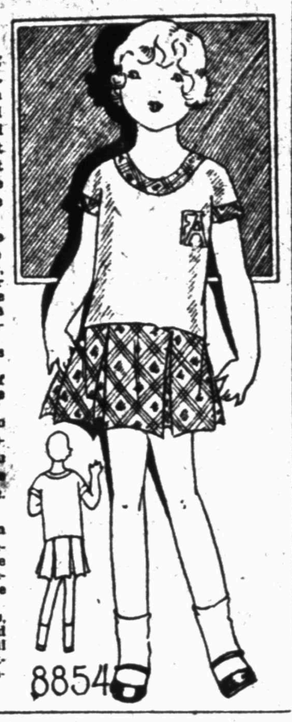

The old advice given to brides used to be: "Feed the brute." That still holds good, but the modern husband requires to be fed mentally as well as physically. Filling him up on corned beef and cabbage does not suffice. He must also be sustained on spicy conversation.

Another reason why every married woman should read her daily paper as religiously as she says her prayers is because it is the only way in which she can keep house and run her family intelligently. In its advertising columns she will find a reliable guide as to how and where to spend her money so as to get the most value out of every dollar. It will tell her where the bargains are to be had, who is overstocked on such and such an article and has cut the price in half, who has got in the latest new models from Paris.

"CUNNING KIDDIE DRESS"
Pattern 8854

Isn't this an adorable little rig for a small girl? It is so simple, too. The bodice is trimmed with contrasting bands at neck and sleeve ends. The skirt is inverted pleated all around. If mother is not too busy, it would be very smart to have initials embroidered on the bodice, or one might buy a cute wool animal and applique it on.

Design 8854 uses tweed for the skirt and trimming. The bodice may be made of jersey, silk crepe, kashmere or flannel. Another smart fabric combination would be plain and printed velveteen. Plaids and checks are much used this season for youngsters.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6.

Size 4 requires one-half yard of 54-inch tweed and 1¼ yards bodice fabric.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

The fashion book is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

SOUR STOMACHS MADE SWEET

Antiseptic Remedy Corrects Fermented Condition

If you can not eat what you like, if you have to avoid certain foods because they disagree with you, your trouble is no doubt due to fermentation (souring of food)—a condition that can be quickly corrected if proper methods are used.

The use of soda, magnesia, dyspepsia tablets, laxatives and common patent medicines require continual dosing and, at best, can furnish only temporary relief.

GORDON'S, a stomach and bowel antiseptic, gives lasting benefit. It stops fermentation promptly, sweetens the stomach, drives out the acids and poisons, soothes and heals the membrane lining. The very first dose will relieve sour stomach, indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, dissolve the excess acid.

If you have stomach trouble now, or when food disagrees, don't take chances with temporary measures. Get GORDON'S from druggist at once. It costs no more than ordinary remedies—a large 8-ounce bottle for $1.50—less than three cents a dose.—Adv.

Interesting Meet Held by Council Of Jewish Women

Members of the Council of Jewish Women met at Temple Israel Monday in business and social session.

In the business meeting, Mrs. Henry Wolff was elected trustee in the council.

A bridge tournament is being planned for Nov. 13 and Mesdames J. W. Ginsburg and J. Cohen are chairmen of arrangements; reservations for tables may be made with Mrs. Ginsburg.

Members reported on names, places for the embroidery of which are being sold for benefit of the council.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Nathan Persky made a very outstanding talk on "Peace," which was reported to be thoroughly enjoyed. A social hour followed in which refreshments were served to Mesdames L. Loevy, B. Brettler, B. Newman, J. Klaas, Ginsburg, Abe Sandler, F. H. Smith, R. Myers, D. Valnrib, M. E. Wolff, Henry Wolff, Joe Max, J. W. Ginsburg, S. Svidlow, S. J. Swartz, Nathan Persky, Louis Pink, Louis Franklin, Simon Sagadau, Nathan Marantz, David Persky, Ed Klein, E. Staadecker, M. S. The upsets of Children

All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

This is the standard price tag used by General Motors dealers to show what makes up the delivered prices of their new cars.

List Price. The f. o. b. price advertised by the factory.

Freight and Delivery. An authorized amount to cover the freight charges paid by the dealer and the cost of unloading, inspecting, supplying fuel and oil—preparing the car for delivery to you.

Accessories. A charge for any additional accessories that may be purchased.

Frankness about automobile prices

THERE is a difference between the list (f. o. b.) price of a new automobile and the price you pay the dealer.

What makes that difference?

General Motors dealers tell you frankly on their standard price tag. You see exactly what you are paying for freight and delivery, for additional accessories that may be desired.

Nothing is hidden. Nothing is added. There is no extra charge to permit a seemingly better trade-in offer. There is no extra charge to cover advertising, etc. The tag tells all.

Make this tag your guide in comparing automobile values. Look beyond the list price. Find out what is added by the dealer to make up the delivered price. For it is the delivered price that you pay.

TOO MUCH TO THINK ABOUT
Daily Editorial

GREYFRIAR'S Chronicle, which reported English happenings a thousand years ago, discovered, during the entire reign of Richard the Lion-Hearted, less than an inch of news which, in the opinion of its scribes, seemed worthy of mention.

Imagination delights to picture a journalist of that school suddenly replevined from the Dark Ages and installed as editor of a 20th century daily.

The chameleon which landed on a Scoteh plaid, could alone understand such a resurrected wight's bewilderment.

There are more remarkable occurrences in a modern hour than an ancient decade. Compulsion has stepped our thinking machinery to a speed that would have wrecked the works and induced epidemics of brain fever a hundred years back.

Deliberate, leisurely minds are unfit instruments for stages of action, where the most startling performances and personalities can only be allowed momentary spotlighting: as witness, the celebrities, celebrations, catastrophes and scandals which the past month has paraded through the headlines, and already dumped into the "hell-box."

Seven-day marvels soon become seven-line memos in America.

PRINT, film and radio shattered the welkin with Edison's glorification and, a fortnight later, there isn't an echo of Light's Golden Jubilee left in printer's ink, celluloid or "mike."

The naval treaties, the Shearer investigation, and the oil scandal have also joined the minor notices.

Pantages, a multimillionaire, with a daughter recently married into the nobility and a dying wife under sentence for manslaughter, is convicted of attempted rape and condemned to prison—thereby furnishing editorial and feature writers with material for weeks of deductive comment—and the spectacular episode merely evokes a stick or so of follow-up.

Speculation's jerry structure logically cracks and tumbles, burying millions in the ruin, and, for the while, dwarfs the significance of national routine, congressional issues, the latest dumfoundments of science and the problem of Mrs. Gann's proper seat.

This morning, everybody's thoughts are centered on Wall street. By Tuesday, 90 per cent of us will be watching election bulletins, instead of brokers' quotation boards.

No wonder the ordinary man can't evaluate the acts of public servants, form an adequate verdict on administration efficiency, or intelligently debate the intricacies of the Hawley bill.

It's as much as he can do to keep posted in his particular job or business. That's why so many families are puzzling how they'll retain Phyllis at finishing school, Jack at college and meet the next insurance premium.

You can't successfully gamble in Wall street with your wits off the ticker for a single instant, any more than you may hope to win at bridge or at casino without glueing your eyes to the cards.

The average citizen is thinking of too many other things to beat the specializing student of finance in his highly technical domain.

1874—G. H. Bentley elected mayor of McKinney.

The average man has one idea, says a well known professor. The professor doesn't say what it is, but we imagine prohibition has something to do with it.

One good way to discuss a question with an angry person is over the telephone.

Hard-Boiled Juries

THE AMERICAN JURY seems to be getting hard-boiled at last. There was a time—not too long ago, either—when our jurors seemed to be kindly, sentimental men and women who could not bear to derprive a fellow man of his life or liberty. The quality of mercy, as exemplified in our jury rooms, was far from strained. Never were there people so willing to make allowances for the weaknesses of the flesh.

This seemed to be especially true of certain classes of the population. A rich man was almost certain to have his sins looked on with forgiving eyes. A beautiful woman could count quite surely on being told to go and sin no more. And a Chicago gunman knew in advance that his fellow citizens would do little more than reprimand him slightly.

But this seems to have changed lately.

In the past month we have seen the following things:

Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and confidential pal of the Doheny millions, is convicted of accepting a bribe—and this by a jury in Washington, notorious for its tenderness of hear toward the peccadilloes of sinful men—and, also, in the face of impassioned remarks about the healing air of New Mexico, and magnificently arranged wheel chairs and tearful relatives.

Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the multimillionaire, is convicted of manslaughter, merely because she drove her auto over an unlucky Japanese. She faces a prison sentence of one to ten years.

Her husband, the extremely wealthy theatrical magnate, was convicted of assaulting a girl dancer, in spite of every effort the high priced counsel could make. He faces a much longer term in prison.

A youthful Chicagoan known by the pleasing name of Baby-Face Willie Doody, who used a revolver rather recklessly on his freebooting forays, went before a Chicago jury, was convicted of first degree murder and now faces the electric chair—and this in Chicago, which only a few years ago found itself unable to convict two gangsters who murdered a policeman in broad daylight before half a dozen witnesses.

Maybe these developments were accidents, so to speak—exceptional cases in the orderly functioning of the great American jury system.

But maybe they were straws showing which way a new wind is blowing. Maybe the general public, from which juries are drawn, has grown highly weary of our long list of acquittals. Maybe the indiscriminate flood of forgiveness which our juries used to show has palled on us.

It may be, in other words, that our juries are beginning to get just the least bit hard-boiled.

Drive Them Out

THERE is one extremely important angle of the senate's investigation of Washington's lobbyists that has not received much attention in the papers. That concerns the high pressure, slick tongued gentlemen who infest the capital and collect huge sums from various organizations for the favors which they are supposed to be able to wheedle from government officials.

In practically all cases these men have no influence with anybody, and make little or no real effort to exercise any. But they collect fat retainer fees and lead a lot of people to expect that they are going to accomplish their ends in a more or less underhanded way.

To be sure, if an organization wants to hire such a man for such a purpose, it doesn't deserve much sympathy if it gets swindled. But the activity of these men has a distressing effect on the Washington atmosphere. It leads people to think that our government officials are much more venal than they are. The senate will do the country a good turn if it drives them out of business.

"Three R's" Not Neglected

YOU OFTEN HEAR it said that our public schools nowadays are spending too much time on "fads and frills" of education, and are neglecting to give their pupils a thorough grounding in the solid fundamentals of elementary knowledge.

Dr. Carleton H. Mann of Asheville, N. C., recently took time to look into the matter. He reports that the modern schools, far from neglecting the essentials, are actually devoting much more time to instruction in the "three R's" than schools of the old days ever did.

Pupils in the present era, he says, get twice as many hours of instruction in the "three R's" as the pupils of 1866, and four times as much as the pupils of 1826. If we are giving them educational features that their grandfathers did not get, we are also giving them a much better grounding in the elementals.

Not So Many, After All

EVERY literary magazine and every newspaper column of literary criticism and gossip remarks quite frequently that the country is fairly being deluged with a flood of new books. One gathers that more books are being printed in America than ever before.

Statistics, however, prove the contrary to be true. As long ago as 1910 there were 13,470 different books published in this country. In 1928, when we were supposed to have many more authors and publishing houses, the total had fallen to 10,345.

Furthermore, fiction itself shows a falling off. Away back in 1901 there were 2,234 different novels published in America. Last year there were only 1,809.

Apparently we're not being flooded with literature as much as we have supposed.

Incongruous

Your hair is yellow—hers is black.
She has a wealth of things you lack,
A poise, a charm—a load of It,
A tinkly laugh—a ready wit.

She dances like a wisp of down,
Her brow is stranger to a frown,
Oh, I could go on hours like this,
And rhapsodise about her kiss.
Her mouth is warm, and yours is not,
She likes my verse—you call it rot,
It's strange how much a lad endures—
Her heart is mine—and mine is yours. —DON WAHN.

The Squech Proper

It happened in his own rendezvous for Hollywood celebrities the other night. Wilson Mizner told one of his waitresses to bring him some soup and the lass was so nervous waiting on the boss she spilled it over his new suit.

"Oh," she said frantically, "I'm so sorry, so sorry!"

"Goodgawd!" growled Mizner, "even a seal can juggle!"

Splendid!

And Coleman Goetz has discovered what to do with old razor blades. He is sending his to the columnists who are always cutting each other's throat.

A Form of Criticism

The caustic but clever Harry Reichenbach spoke at one of the numerous dinners in Mayor Walker's honor over the week-end. He said of La Guardia, one of his honor's campaign rival: "A bowl that has never been filled can never know the feeling of emptiness." Of Richard Enright, he chirped: "When he was police commissioner he couldn't even arrest attention!"

Nifty

Dave's Blue room, the Broadway rendezvous for the stay-up-lates and so-called "celebrities," has been appropriately rechristened: "Dave's Blah room."

The Serf Also Rises

I'm tired of punching a time-clock;
I'm sick of these nine-to-five hours.
I want to be somebody's "darling"
And live in swanky Ritz-towers.

I want to be petted and pampered,
And sleep until late afternoon;
Dine upon lobster and foie-gras,
And drink to the man in the moon.

But I have a haunting,
A terrible hunch
I am doomed to the life with
"One Hour for Lunch!"
—ESTELLE HAGEDORN.

Add Sad Similes

Sidney Munden is still, like a bloodhound, on the track of those lame, tired and feeble similes by poets and novelists of the hour. Frixample: Dorothy Parker: Chattering away like a veritable magpie. . . . A. Woollcott: Yellow, like old ivory. The New Yorker of Oct. 19, 1929: Laugh like a fool. . . . Robert W. Chambers: Faded like a breath on a window-pane. . . . E. E. Paramore Jr.: She looked as pretty as a picture. . . . Elden Robinson: Clear cut, like the work of a chisel. . . . Gladys Hall: Eyes as blue as the Adriatic sea, and Barbara Young's: Swift as a swallow.

Weitzman, the Tailor

He's about this high and his dialect keeps you tittering, but he is unstained by the Broadway touch, and after 10 years, too. He has been making something of a living all those years cleaning and pressing suits for actors who play the Palace and nearby theaters. He collected the clothes himself, not being able to afford an assistant. Recently he decided to occupy smaller quarters on a thoroughfare where the rent wasn't so expensive, but his landlord persuaded him to take a four-year lease on the building in which he shopped for a decade.

The next day he leased part of the building to a new sporting firm, who brought a 5-cent putting game to Broadway, which has taken it by storm. He sold the lease at a figure three times more than he thought it was worth and now you can't get him to press your pants any more.

He is spending the profits learning how to putt and while it costs but a nickel a game, he makes the biggest side bets, and loses incessantly.

But, as he always says when he pays off: "Some kitt, hey fun?"

Haw!

The wit was immense at the George Jessel Testimonial dinner the other evening. The most amusing Eddie Cantor gag dealt with the recent Wall street crash.

"The situation is so terrible," said Eddie, "that when a man goes into a smart hotel these nights and asks for a room on the 17th floor, the clerk says: 'For sleeping or jumping?'"

And—

Cantor relayed one about Solly Violinsky, who was leaning against a post in the Commodore hotel the other yawning after his experience in what Russ Crouse calls "the stuck market."

"What's the idea of staying up so late?" asked Eddie.

"Oh, am I sleepy," almost wept Violinsky, "I had to give up my room at 4:30 yesterday morning. I had it on margin."

In Fewer Words

The best summing up of the situation was: "I know thousands of men who have stranded their sweethearts to go back to their wives."

Gag

Jessel's ace gag dealt with the dialectician who got into a very exclusive golf club and after getting in the snooty set's hair the first day he was asked to resign. "We don't want to hurt your feelings," they told him, "but you won't be happy with us here. We will give back your initiation fee, buy you a new set of golf clubs and get you into some other organization and even pay your fee into it." The heeb said he would think it over.

When he told his wife about it that night she said: "You're not going to take it?"

"Uff cuss not!" he replied. "It was only dare foist offer!"

SILK STORES STOLEN

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 4 (UP)—Five bandits today raided the Empire Silk Throwing company's plant here and escaped with 41 bales of silk valued at $35,000. The robbers overpowered Edward Cooper, 52, watchman, and tied him to a chair.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl
By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXX

There were five people on the dimly-lighted landing. Three girls and two men.

They all seemed to come crowding through the narrow doorway at once, and in a second the room was filled with the babble of their voices.

They all talked at once, too!

"Where you been keeping yourself, lately?"

"What's the big idea? Playing dead? Nobody's seen hide nor hair of you! . . . "

"Your phone's out of order, Neal. We tried to get you!"

One of the three girls separated herself from the group. She came across the wide room to Ann Marie, her big gray-green eyes round as marbles.

"Well, forevermore! Ann Marie Macy! Who'd-a ever expected to find you here!—When did you blow in from the little rotten old home town, for the love of Mike?"

"Hell, Leota," answered Ann Marie, with her hands behind her back so that she wouldn't have to touch Leota's hand in greeting.

"How long you been here?" Leota asked.

"Not very long."

Ann Marie longed to tell her exactly how long she had been in town. She would have loved to say: "Oh, I've been here ever since that afternoon when Neal asked you to go. That was why he wanted you to go—because I'd come!"

But, being Ann Marie, she smiled politely and then moved slowly away from her.

She crossed the room to Jim Goodwin.

And, standing there beside him, she shook hands with the four people who had come in with Leota.

The two men were brothers, Tom and George Terrill. Ann Marie said "How do you do" to them in a nice little voice and smiled pleasantly, when Neal introduced them.

But they might have been a pair of lamp-posts so far as she really looked at them.

She did look the two girls over, carefully, however. All pretty girls were enemies of hers, these days, she felt. For Neal might notice them or fall in love with them or make love to them . . . That fear had been with her since the first night she had met him, and it still was.

Both of these girls were pretty. Maude Banister, the taller of the two, was a silvery ash-blonde with dreamy long-lashed gray eyes and a slow, silly smile.

The other one was little and black-eyes and black-haired. She was beautifully dressed in scarlet silk, and her lips had been painted to match her dress. Her name was Matilda Chapman.

Ann Marie never heard anyone call her anything but Tillie.

"They're both models — not for artists, though. They model clothes for some big dress factory," said Leota, coming up to Ann Marie, with a lighted cigaret in her fingers.

Ann Marie nodded as she looked at her. And some of her dislike and jealousy of Leota must have been in her eyes. For Leota gave a sharp little laugh.

"You don't have to be afraid of me," she said sarcastically. "I'm not going to ask you to pay me the rest of that money you owe me, Ann Marie."

Ann Marie knew that Jim Goodwin couldn't help hearing what she said, and she felt herself growing hot and uncomfortable.

She glanced up at him and saw that he was looking down at her in his friendly, half-smiling way.

"Aren't you going to show me those pictures of yours?" he asked quietly.

"Oh, not now!" Ann Marie shook her head . . . She didn't want these strangers to see her pictures of little girls in Kate Greenaway cloaks and bonnets with their arms full of holly, and all the rest of the work she had done.

"We could look at them in my flat next door," she said, "or out in the hall . . . I don't want these other people to see them."

The other five had their hats and coats off now, and were trying to get some music out of Neal's radio in one corner of the room. They made a lot of noise, doing it.

Neal came over to Ann Marie and Jim Goodwin, and linked his arm through Ann Marie's, drawing her aside.

"Look here," he said in an undertone. "This crew expects something to drink. I've got a little something, but I need some ice and some orange juice or grape juice to mix with it . . . Run out and get some, will you, sweet heart."

Ann Marie nooded, giving him her wide and brilliant smile . . . What fun it was to be helping him entertain his friends like this, almost as if they were a married couple! Even if his friends weren't quite the kind of friends that she, herself, would have picked.

"All right, Neal. I think orange juice would be nice, don't you?"

Orange juice was what Howdy had always mixed with his drinks when he and his buddies "made whoopee" in the old brown house back home.

"This reminds me of the parties my sisters and my brother used to have," she said to Jim Goodwin, when she came back to him. "I'm going out for a few minutes. I'll show you those pictures of mine as soon as I come back. Neal wants some oranges, and some ice. I suppose the drug store people will let me buy some ice from them, don't you?"

"I don't know."

He followed her out of the room into the dim little hallway that seemed very quiet after the noise they had just left.

"But we can find out," he added. "Put your coat on."

He was waiting for her at the top of the steps when she came out of her own flat, ready for the street.

They went down the stairs, side by side.

On the way down the street they talked once more about a job for Ann Marie.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Jim, when they were nearing the place where the delicatessen threw a broad band of light on to the sidewalk, "we'll have lunch together tomorrow, if you like, and you can bring some of your best things along with you. Then we'll go downtown to see this friend of mine who runs an advertising agency. She does all the ads for a lot of dressmaking firms. She's sure to have some kind of work for you."

The sound of his deep voice, running along, comforted her wonderfully. He sounded so sure of what he was saying, and Ann Marie felt as safe as if she had the job already.

They went into the little shop with its bright glass jars filled with pickles and sauerkraut and spiced fish; its crates of oranges and lemons, tin boxes or crackers and big, round, yellow cheeses that looked like yellow moons.

"A dozen oranges," said Ann Marie, thinking of her fast-emptying pocketbook. She knew that she should have asked for two dozen.

"I think we'd better have two dozen, don't you?" Jim asked her.

"Two dozen, please," he said to the fat little woman who was waiting on them. "And I'm going to buy some ice from you, too."

"Please let me pay for those things," Ann Marie said to him quietly but earnestly.

He shook his head.

"Certainly not," he answered in his firm, low voice.

He was looking down on the floor at his feet where there were a half dozen little baskets of growing pansies.

"Nice little things, aren't they? I've always liked them," he said, and picked up two of the little baskets.

"We'll take these, too," he said to the woman, "these pansies."

He carried the baskets under one arm, and from his right hand swung the basket that held the ice and the oranges.

"Let me help you with those things, for goodness' sake," begged Ann Marie when they were out in the dark street once more. "You can't manage all that stuff. Please give something to me to sarry."

"Certainly not," he said.

Above their heads, between the housetops the sky looked like a river of stars.

"I love roofs, don't you?" Ann Marie asked as they went along, "and the sky. Some day I'm going to do a really good picture of housetops and sky—in the moonlight, I think, or maybe in the rain."

They had come to the door of the Susquehanna hall. Jim set down his basket and opened it for her.

"We'll have to look up a good school for you," he said. "A really good teacher means a lot, Ann Marie. Go ahead—"

But Ann Marie had stopped on the doorstep for one last look at the sky.

"Aren't the stars gorgeous tonight! I never saw so many of them," she cried. "Just look at them, will you?"

"I will," he said.

But when she looked down again his steady gaze was not on the stars but on her.

"The pansies are for you," he said when they reached the top floor. "Unlock your door and I'll take them inside for you."

He set them on the wide windowsills of the big, bare-looking room.

It was very quiet in Ann Marie's flat, but from the other side of the hall came the sound of revelry in Neal's studio. Wild laughter, loud talk, and then a smothered shriek.

A door opened and closed.

Then someone banged on Ann Marie's door.

She opened it. Neal stood just outside. He had taken off his coat and his tie had been pulled to one side. His hair was rumpled and someone had left a bright scarlet smear of lipstick on his cheek near his mouth.

"I thought I heard you two sneaking in here!" he said thickly, and Ann Marie knew that he had not waited for the orange juice to start making his drinks.

He swung his head around toward Jim. "What do you think you're trying to do?—Take my girl away from me?"

He sounded as cross and sulky as a spoiled child.

"Come here!" he said to Ann Marie.

Mr. von Opel: I was unavoidably delayed, my dear.

Mrs. von Opel: If it isn't one thing it's another. The last time you didn't come home on time you had another one.

Mr. von Opel: What was it that time, dear?

Mrs. von Opel: You said it went off prematurely.

Mr. von Opel: So it did, honey. Everything was all set when the darned rocket blew up and carried me way past my station.

Mrs. von Opel: What do you fool around in that old rocket for, anyhow? Why don't you get something we all can ride in?

Mr. von Opel: You don't seem to understand. If it is successful it will revolutionize transportation.

Mrs. von Opel: It's already revolutionized our home life. I wish you'd give it up and settle down like other husbands.

Gene Howe Rises Again to Criticize Rattlesnake Yarn

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 4. (UP)—Gene Howe, Amarillo editor who gained national fame for his criticisms of Mary Garden and Col. Charles Lindbergh, has launched a new "de-bunking" campaign—this one aimed at the author of a snake story.

Owen P. White, writing in Collier's magazine, said a coiled rattler followed the point of a gun aimed at it so closely that you could not miss its head if you shot at it.

Howe experimented. Try as he would, he could not shoot the snake in the head—not, at least, until he had hit it many times in other places.

"It is such bunk as this that is making the development of common sense in this country slow," said Howe in his newspaper column.

"A campaign against bunk, whether it has to do with snakes, or with grand opera in small cities, is needed."

DEFENSE ATTORNEY AND GUN EXPERT ENGAGE IN WORD TILT

RIDINGS RILED BY UNDERWOOD

Former Police Judge and Interrogator Clash

Burks, the star defense witness, the state presented a series of rebuttal witnesses.

Among the witnesses were District Attorney Edward Thomerson, and Grady Hazelwood, his assistant, both prosecutors in this case.

While Hazelwood was on the stand, R. E. Underwood of defense counsel asked whether a perjury indictment had been returned against the star defense witness. Hazelwood replied that it had not and on re-direct examination said the statute of limitations had not yet expired.

Hamilton's testimony, put into the records in five hours Friday afternoon and Saturday, was attacked by one of the witnesses, a public stenographer, who said Walton visited his father-in-law's Amarillo office almost a month later than Hamilton had testified.

Walton's Call Told

The accused man declared Walton visited his office on March 9 and March 30. The public stenographer, R. E. Coon, testified he was in Hamilton's office April 25 taking dictation when Walton entered. Hamilton told Walton to have a seat in an adjoining room and that he would see him "in a minute," Coon declared. As he left the office, the public stenographer testified, he heard Hamilton say: "Come in."

Cross-examined by Underwood, of defense counsel, Coon told of two conversations he had with Lloyd Fletcher, another defense lawyer.

"Did you tell Fletcher you thought that visit was two months before the homicide?" Underwood asked.

"I did," Coon replied.

"Why did you do that?"

"Because I thought many of the things that were being said were untrue and I didn't want any more falsifying."

"Do you mean to tell the jury that you lied to Fletcher?"

"I evaded his questions because I wanted to wait until the trial before talking."

As Coon prepared to leave the stand District Attorney Edward Thomerson asked:

"You knew Fletcher was just trying to pump you?"

Three defense attorneys were up with objections, but before District Judge J. E. Carter could rule on the question Coon replied:

"Yes, sir."

Burks' Story Assailed

Other state rebuttal witnesses attacked the eye-witness story of Burks. Among them were H. L. Gaither, Amarillo police chief at the time of the killing; M. W. Lemons, foreman of the grand jury which indicted Hamilton.

Numerous rebuttal witnesses declared Walton had a reputation in Amarillo as being a "kind, peaceable and inoffensive" man. The defense established, with each witness, that they had heard only a few persons discuss Walton before the homicide.

G. T. Perry, Amarillo grain dealer, declared Burks told him just after the shooting that he did not see the killing, just heard the shots.

Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo, assistant district attorney, testified to a conversation with Burks, where were present Lemons and District Attorney Thomerson, during which Burks was asserted to have declared that after the first shot was fired Burks jumped back from a door and did not see any of the shooting. Hazelwood testified Burks made the statement in question.

"Mr. Hazelwood, you have a rule that you take the testimony of important witnesses in writing, do you not?" Underwood asked in cross-examination.

"Yes."

Answers From Memory

"You then took no statement from Burks, you are now testifying from memory and not from a statement taken in writing?"

"Yes, but I remember—"

"Answer my question," Underwood interrupted.

"Yes."

"Has any indictment been returned against Burks for perjury?" Underwood asked.

"No."

On re-direct examination, District Attorney Thomerson, asked the witness if the statute of limitations had expired, and Hazelwood answered "no."

The state called for Steve Ridings, who had testified previously for the defense as a witness.

Defense Protests

The defense protested against Ridings' recall for cross-examination, insisting that if recalled, he be put on as a state witness.

District Attorney Thomerson took the stand while search for Ridings was made. The clothing worn by Walton at the time he was slain then was offered in evidence.

Underwood asked, persistently, whether Thomerson knew the clothes in question belonged to Walton. The district attorney replied he did not.

"Who ever gave you those clothes said they were Walton's" Judge Carter asked.

"Yes."

"Now, your honor, we object to that on the ground that it is hearsay," Underwood said.

Judge Carter leaned back in his chair without answering the objection.

Jury Sees Clothing

Then Thomerson handed the coat to the jury and it was passed up and down for inspection. When the coat first was lifted out of Thomerson's handbag, Hamilton leaned forward and looked at it intently.

Ridings next took the stand as a state witness, and was qualified as an expert on small arms.

The witness said he could determine the distance from the muzzle of a pitsol to a bullet mark by powderburns and the area they covered.

"From the examination you made of the clothing of Tom Walton and the examination of his body are you able to estimate the distance the muzzle of that pistol was at the time it was fired?" Thomerson asked. Underwood objected to the question and Thomerson withdrew it.

"When you entered that room could you tell what kind of powder was used?" Ridings was asked.

"Black powder."

"How could you tell?"

"By the smell."

Ridings said the .44 caliber revolver introduced as evidence had fired black powder shells. That is the size weapon with which Walton was slain.

Then Thomerson asked, over another defense objection, the question he previously had withdrawn regarding the distance from which bullets had been fired.

"I can," Ridings answered.

Three-Foot Range

"Judging from the distribution of powder burns, in the best of my judgment, the bullet hole in the right shoulder was fired from about three feet," Ridings added.

The second which pierced the coat was fired from a distance of about four feet, Ridings declared, while a third in the bottom of the coat was fired from about six inches.

Turning the coat over, Thomerson asked how near the closest bullet could have been fired from the rear and the witness replied four feet.

Hamilton, Florence Hendricks and Burks had testified Hamilton and Walton were grappling throughout the time shots were fired.

Vigorously cross-examining the witness, Underwood at one time asked:

"You were just a little police court judge down there then?"

"Yes."

"And you haven't got a job now?"

"No, sir."

Underwood heckled the witness until Ridings became angry and leaned forward in his chair, raising ing his voice and shaking his head as he answered questions.

Ridings said he could tell the shells were of black powder because of a "ring around" them.

After nearly an hour of cross-examination Underwood asked whether powder burns might not be rubbed off clothing in a very few minutes.

"They could," Ridings answered.

When Ridings' testimony had been concluded court was recessed until 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Stenographer Called

R. E. Coon, Amarillo public stenographer with an office in the lobby of the Amarillo building declared in his work as a public stenographer that he was called in from time to time by Judge R. H. Hamilton. He declared he saw Walton in Hamilton's office in Amarillo on April 25. Coon was taking a letter he testified, when he saw Walton enter Hamilton's office. He declared Judge Hamilton told him to wait in the other room and as he left he heard Judge Hamilton say "come in."

On cross-examination Coon declared he fixed the date by records he kept. He also admitted that soon after the shooting he immediately tried to mislead Lloyd Fletcher as to facts in the case because he felt some other testimony was being gotten which was not true.

"Then you mean to tell this jury that you deliberately tried to mislead Mr. Fletcher at that time as to the facts you would testify to in the trial," asked Judge Underwood.

When Coon admitted that was true the cross-examination was ended but Thomerson asked Coon if he did not think Fletcher was trying to pump him and he said "yes."

G. C. Fairey, grain and real estate dealer, declared Burks told him. "No, I did not see the killing. I was in the other room." On cross-examination he said Burks spoke up about the homicide in a group near the Oliver-Eakle building. He said Burks did not say that he did not want to talk.

Grady Hazlewood, assistant district attorney was sworn in as a witness. He recalled Burks' statement in Thomerson's office. He testified that Burks told him and Thomerson and the foreman of the grand jury that he was in the other room and jumped back at the third shot. He declared he did not take a written statement Saturday, May 4, but on the following Monday Burks' statement before the grand jury was reduced to writing and signed. He was questioned at length as to what he knew about Burks' reputation for truth and veracity.

He replied he did not know and Judge Underwood asked him if he had ever known of Burks being indicted for perjury in Potter county.

Thomerson Testifies

Edward W. Thomerson, district attorney in Potter county and member of the prosecution counsel, took the stand. Mr. Thomerson carried with him to the witness stand a small black handbag, plastered with Baylor university seals, from which he later took the clothing, purported to have been worn by young Walton on the day of his death.

Thomerson said the clothing which he exhibited were turned over to him on the day of the shooting. He believed that they had been given to him by Horace Griggs, an Amarillo undertaker. The coat and trousers, both stained, were passed among the jurors and carefully examined.

Cross-examined by Attorney Underwood, Thomerson said he did not see the garments which he exhibited taken from the body, and based his opinion that they were the clothes worn by Tom Walton at the time he was shot, on what had been told him by the undertaker who delivered them to him. He was questioned about the care that had been given the clothes since they had been in his possession and admitted that they had been removed from the safe and examined several times.

Col. Steve Ridings, who qualified earlier in the trial as an expert on small arms, was recalled. The witness said that the size and kind of cartridge could be determined by distribution of powder on the object struck and by the distance from which the bullet was fired. The question was answered over objection by the defense attorneys.

Question Withdrawn

"Can you tell by examination of the clothes from what distance the bullet was fired?" Thomerson asked him and then withdrew the question when an objection was offered.

The witness said that he arrived on the scene about five or six minutes after the shooting and could tell by the odor in the room that black powder had been used.

"Did you examine the shells in the gun?" Thomerson asked him.

He replied that he did and found that they were loaded with black powder. He added in reply to questioning that he knew the effect of black powder.

"Based on your experience and on your examination of Walton's body, can you determine from what distance the bullets were fired?" Thomerson asked him. Defense attorneys raised an objection on the grounds that no connection had been established between the clothes exhibited and the ones worn by Walton on the day of the shooting. The objection was overruled and he was allowed to continue with his testimony.

Ridings gave it as his opinion that the muzzle of the gun was approximately three feet away at the time the bullet which struck the collar bone was fired. Thomerson then exhibited the holes in the coat and asked Ridings to give estimates on the distance which the muzzle of the pistol was from the body at the time each bullet was fired. The witness estimated that the muzzle of the gun was four feet away when the shot which entered the shoulder of the coat was fired. The bullet hole in the right lapel of the coat was formed by a bullet fired from between three and four feet, he estimated. He gave as his opinion that the spot, which he described as powder burns on the front of the coat, were caused by a bullet fired from a distance of not more than six or eight inches.

Face Powder Marked

The witness told of finding powder marks on the youth's face. He was questioned as to which shots caused the powder marks on the face, but the question was withdrawn when an objection was offered.

Under a severe cross-examination by Underwood, the witness admitted that he had traced down purchase of the shells and had been told the clerk that blackpowder shells were bought. At times the argument between Underwood and Ridings grew heated and personalities were dealt in.

Ridings declared that of his own knowledge he did not know Hamilton bought a shell but he did know that black powder was used. He declared that smokeless cartridges have a rim around the cap and that he can tell by the appearance of the shell and the gun and the scent as to the kind of powder used. He declared that every shell in Judge Hamilton's gun had been exploded by black powder.

Quarrels With Lawyer

Underwood and Ridings were quarreling frequently at this point and when Judge Carter interceded, Underwood took exception to the remark of the court.

Questioned at length about the clothes which were introduced, Riding said the clothes were those worn by Walton.

In reply to Judge Underwood, the witness declared:

"I notice things better than that, Mr. Underwood — them's the clothes."

He declared he first saw the clothes on the body and next in Thomerson's office. He and Underwood again argued and Ridings was asked to examine the garments for powder burns. He at first said he saw some powder burns but on re-examination could not find them. Underwood continued to caution the witness about saying more than the question asked for.

Asked to give the ingredients of powder Ridings said he was not a chemist but that he understood that charcoal and salt petre were the principal ingredients used in making powder. He admitted that powder burns could be easily rubbed on in the handling of clothing.

He identified the shells from Hamilton's gun as Smith and Wesson 44-specials made by the Western Firearms company.

Only a portion of what the witness, Orville Hinkle, said he overheard at the Tourist inn, where Mrs. Grace Walton, Tom's mother, was staying, was admitted to evidence after a lengthy argument in which three prosecutors and five defense attorneys participated.

Finally Hinkle was allowed to testify that about 9 a. m., the morning of May 4 he saw Walton go to a telephone booth and dial a number. After a moment, Hinkle said, Walton asked: "Is Judge Hamilton there? Judge Hamilton, this is Tom Walton." The witness said while the jury was out of the courtroom and attorneys were arguing, that Walton added: "I understand you want to talk to me." That portion of Hinkle's testimony was not repeated to the jury when it returned.

Hamilton, testifying Saturday, declared he had a telephone call shortly before the homicide and that when he attempted to talk the person on the other end of the line either had hung up or been disconnected.

Hinkle also was allowed to say it was about 15 minutes after the telephone call before he heard anything further about what had happened to Walton. The inference was it was 15 minutes before Walton was slain. Hinkle said he heard an ambulance only a "few minutes" after the telephone call.

Hamilton's 82-year-old mother, Mrs. N. S. Hamilton of Corsicana, who arrived yesterday, was not in the courtroom today, although his wife and younger daughter, Mary Gail, 9, and brother, Dexter, Dallas lawyer, were.

State Attacks Defense Plea

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 4. (AP)—The state today presented rebuttal evidence in the trial of R. H. Hamilton, Amarillo attorney, charged with murder in the slaying of his 17-year-old daughter's husband, Tom Walton Jr., 21, in Hamilton's office last May 4.

The first witness in an effort to disprove the defendant's self-defense plea was Bryan Bialock, Austin justice of the peace, who had said he married Walton and Theresa Hamilton on Feb. 10.

Before Bialock had testified, R. E. Underwood of defense counsel objected on the grounds the defendant had no knowledge of the marriage and consequently evidence to that marriage was "irrevelant, immaterial and prejudicial." He also contended "proper predicate" had not been made.

District Judge Carter overruled the objection, and Underwood asked that the jury be instructed to consider the testimony only if it was shown Hamilton had knowledge of the marriage.

Married Young Couple

Bialock said he "celebrated the rites of matrimony between" Walton and Theresa and then identified a marriage certificate which was marked for identification. Underwood objected to its introduction since the certificate, he said, "has not been filed according to the statutes."

That objection also was overruled and Bialock was excused without further questioning. The defense did not cross-examine Bialock, and over another defense objection the certificate was read to the jury and introduced as evidence.

G. W. Dodd of Amarillo, shop foreman for the Amarillo Iron works, testified Walton worked under him for a "week and a half" and that he lived for about six months in the same neighborhood as Walton.

When District Attorney E. W. Thomerson asked the witness whether he knew whether Walton was "peaceable," Underwood objected, but the objection was overruled and Dodd said Walton's reputation was that of a peaceable citizen.

On cross-examination Dodd said he had come in contact with Walton many times and that once while Mrs. Grace Walton, with whom Walton lived, was working, Walton had dinner with Dodd and his wife for three weeks.

Walton worked as a "common laborer, you might say," while employed at the iron works, Dodd testified. Doug Hammond, Amarillo policeman, once told him Walton "conducted himself like a young gentleman," the witness said. Underwood, cross-examining Dodd, attempted to bring out that Hammond was a "discharged" policeman, but the witness said he did not know.

An employe at the Amarillo National bank, Orville Hinke, said he lived at the Tourist inn, the residence then of Mrs. Grace Walton, Tom's mother, and overheard a telephone conversation Walton had on May 4.

Defense counsel objected to introduction of that testimony and for the second time since the trial began a week ago today, the jury was taken out of the courtroom.

While the jury was out Hinkle said he heard Walton make a telephone call and say, "Is Judge Hamilton there? This is Tom Walton. Judge Hamilton, I understood you wanted to talk to me."

Then Hinkle declared, Walton said "hello" in the telephone several times, returned to the coffee shop where he had left his mother, and said, "he hung up on me."

Underwood brought out that Hinkle did not know whether Hamilton had answered the telephone. During the subsequent argument, Underwood, C. B. Reeder, Sam Shadle, F. O. McKinsey and A. E. Simpson of defense counsel, contended the testimony was not admissible while District Attorney Thomerson and special prosecutors Hugh Cooper and E. H. Grindstaff insisted it was.

Judge Carter said: "I will not admit all the testimony at this time, but I will permit the witness to testify Walton asked for Judge Hamilton, and said 'This is Walton speaking'."

The jury was brought back into the courtroom, and Thomerson continued the examination.

Walton went to the telephone, dialed a number and asked: "Judge Hamilton is there?" the witness said.

"Then he said, 'This is Tom Walton speaking.' He remained in the telephone booth a short time."

"How long after that was it you heard of Walton's whereabouts?"

"About 15 minutes."

Hinkle said he heard an ambulance shortly thereafter.

Without cross-examination Hinkle left the stand, and court was recessed for a few minutes.

County Clerk Testifies

R. E. Moore, county clerk at Georgetown, Williamson county, took the stand to testify to the issuance of the marriage license at Georgetown on Feb. 10. Moore said he issued the license, after a defense objection on the ground that testimony of that character "infringes the defendant's right of self-defense" had been overruled. The license was granted to "John Thomas Walton Jr., and Miss Theresa H. Hamilton," and was filed with the county clerk Feb. 11.

Underwood questioned the initial "H" and asked the witness whether he had required affidavits to the ages of Theresa and Walton. He had, Moore declared, and got two, one from Walton and one from Theresa. They were made before Justice of the Peace Bialock of Austin.

An Amarillo grain dealer, M. W. Lemons, next state rebuttal witness, said he was foreman of the grand jury which investigated the Walton slaying. J. W. Burks, Thomerson, Gray Hazelwood, assistant district attorney, and Lemons had a conversation in Thomerson's office the afternoon of the shooting, the witness said. Burks was a defense eye witness who testified he saw the scuffle between Hamilton and Walton.

Thomerson asked the witness whether, at that conference, he had not heard Burks say he stepped back from the door after the second shot was fired. The witness said, "Yes."

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.—Adv.

WHEN FOOTBALL IS PLAYED ON FROSTY FIELDS
USE EVEREADY LAYERBILTS

WHEN the voice of the announcer says, "Second down and seven to go!" you'll thank the day you bought new Eveready Layerbilt "B" Batteries. They are full of punch and power and absolutely reliable, giving service without interruption. Their superior reliability is due to the way they are built—out of flat cells, making connection with each other automatically. Only two broad connecting bands are necessary, each 3/8 inch wide. Only five husky solderings.

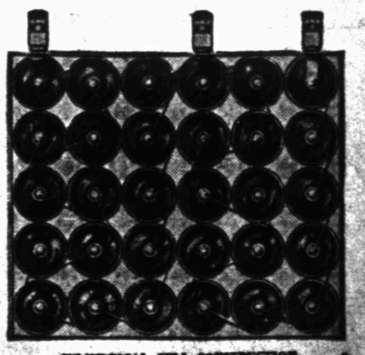

Compare this with the ordinary type of battery, using separate, individual cells, requiring 29 fine connecting wires inside, and 60 solderings—89 places for trouble!

Eveready Layerbilts also pack more materials inside the battery box. They last longer. You get more for your money. For reliability, convenience, economy and satisfaction, buy Eveready Layerbilts.

SPUDDER CLUB OBTAINS THREE PLAYERS FROM DRAFT

McLARNIN HANDS SETBACK TO MANDELL

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

King of the Duffers

To keep my eyes glued on the ball
And never move my head at all,
To swing my club at easy pace
And meet the pill right on its face,
Then let the club head follow through
Are things I always try to do.
But though I seem in proper stance,
The beastly pellet starts to dance
The shimmy as my stroke comes round,
And either I just plow the ground
Or give the thing a slice or hook,
Or top it into ditch or brook.
So that is why I shout and sing,
Of all the duffers I am king!
But let me tell you, soon or late
My kingdom I will abdicate,
For when I once a hundred break
From throne and crown my leave I'll take.
Then to the fairways I shall sing
"The king is dead, long live the king!"

—HENRY BACON THOMSON.

Football will have to hustle this season to dig up a greater defensive star than Ben Ticknor, Harvard's roving center. Ticknor is one of those football types who sense the play and who then arrive immediately at the right spot with a smashing tackle. He gets his man. In the Army and the Dartmouth games he must have made more than 50 per cent of the tackles on all plays that were not piled up at the line. He is a deadly tackler, and if you give him even a half shot at some runner the odds are that runner is coming down. He proved this against two such backs as Cagle and Marsters, and they are pretty fair tests for any one who is out to check an attack. There are made football players—and there are natural football players. Ticknor belongs to the latter class.

Now They All Fear Purdue

Dear Sir: Not only Alonzo Stagg, but every one else in the Big Ten "fears Purdue." After many years of failure. Jimmy Phelan finally has welded a team that looks like a formidable contender for the Western Conference title. Not since 1892 has Purdue gone through a season unbeaten. But having defeated Michigan, the Boilermakers appear to have a fine chance to go through to victory. Purdue has yet to play Chicago, Wisconsin, Iowa and Indiana. Iowa may give it a battle, but the Boilermakers should win the others.

Phelan has a great backfield composed of Welch, Yunevich, White, Harmeson and a half-dozen others. Eb Carraway, moved from halfback to end, is playing a great game, and Red Sleight is the best tackle in the Big Ten. If Phelan can escape an epidemic of injuries he should go far in the race. This Yunevich is a wonder. Did you ever see a steam roller coming down the street? Yunevich reminds one of just that.

—OVERLAND RED.

Speaking of Ends—

Dear Sir: Just make Wesley Fesler, Ohio's right end, one of your all-America playmates again. The big Buckeye, fifteen pounds heavier than last year, is playing 50 per cent better football than when you saw him against Princeton in 1928. He is all over the field, tackling, catching runners, intercepting passes and catching those thrown by Holman. He is a great diagnostician of plays and seldom is fooled. His work against Iowa and Michigan was sensational and every one who saw him will tell you of his improvement.—RALPH FINKE.

Setting a Record

Notre Dame this season is on its way to set an attendance record that won't be beaten in some time. Here is a pretty close estimate of the crowds that already have gathered, plus the crowds to come later on:

Indiana, at Bloomington	25,000
Navy, at Baltimore	75,000
Carnegie Tech, at Pittsburgh	70,000
Georgia Tech, at Atlanta	35,000
Drake, at Chicago	70,000
Southern Calif., at Chicago	100,000
Northwestern, at Evanston	40,000
Army, at New York	75,000
Season's total	565,000

No one football team has ever played before more than a half-million before this in a single season. And if there had been capacity, these figures would run well beyond a million. Yale and Southern California, among others, will go close to 400,000 this season, with the big bowl sold out for three games. But the roving Irish are out to set a mark they can all shoot at—for 1929, at least.

It should be mentioned here that Notre Dame is on the road this season, because her new stadium will not be ready until next fall. After that it will be largely a home-and-home proposition and the Wanderers will have a chance to rest and take a deep breath now and then.

OTHER TEXAS TEAMS PROFIT

City National To Take First Place By Right of Wins

The City National bank bowlers made it three straight games over the Texas Electric Monday night at the Spudder bowling alleys. Sherwin-Williams did as well and took three from the Fox Chevrolet while the Nafziger Baking got only the best two out of three from the Montgomery company.

By virtue of their Monday night victory the City National bowlers went into first place in the league standing.

Stanley of Sherwin-Williams had high three games with a mark of 540 and he was also high single man with a 196.

Rallson of the Montgomery played a consistent game Monday night by playing all three of his games at the 146-point mark each.

Petroleum Council Opens Meet at Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, Nov. 4. (AP)—With approximately 400 delegates from four states in attendance, the annual convention of the Southern Petroleum council got under way today with addresses of welcome by John W. Tryon, general manager of the Gulf Refining company here, and Charles W. Coleman, chairman of arrangements.

Some of Gridiron Mightiest Team's Hopes Dashed in Saturday Program

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Still in a daze and uncertain as to just how it all happened, the football critics in particular and the gridiron public in general today wandered about picking up the pieces scattered by the greatest series of upheavals sprung this year.

From the huge coliseum at Los Angeles to the rain-spattered Yale bowl at New Haven, Old Man Upset dealt one smashing blow after another to Young John Dope as November ushered in the drive down the stretch.

Two of the gridiron's mightiest, previously foremost in the race for national championship honors went tumbling to defeat for the first time when Dartmouth yielded a great fight to Yale, 16 to 12, and Southern California bowed to the brawny Golden Bears of California. The triumph of the Eli Bulldogs was not so unexpected in a game in which Albie Booth outplayed Al Marsters but yielded the heroic and decisive role to "Hoot" Ellis.

U. S. C. Upsets Dope

The downfall of Southern California's Trojans, however, only a week after they had beaten Stanford, knocked the far Western "dope" right out into the middle of the Pacific ocean.

The national title prospects of Notre Dame and Pittsburgh loomed brighter than ever. The Hoosiers trampled Georgia Tech, 26 to 6, with Knute Rockne at home, an invalid. It was their fifth straight victory over high class opposition and, in the light of unexpected events on the Pacific coast, improved the chances of the Ramblers big battle with Southern California at Chicago Nov. 16.

Pitt's powerful Panthers meanwhile dashed through the mud to a convincing triumph over Ohio state, 18 to 2, for their sixth conquest in a row.

Purdue and Minn. Loom

The advances of the mighty Purdue and Minnesota machines in the Big Ten, the onward sweep of Tennessee, Tulane and Vanderbilt in the South and of Utah in the Rocky mountain sector were noteworthy.

Illinois, Clemson, Missouri and Colorado college were removed from the ranks of the unbeaten title contenders in four separate sectors of combat as the surprises piled on top of each other.

Northwestern's 7-0 victory over Illinois, the first in 17 years, knocked Bob Zupke's men from the Big Ten championship heights, they have held for two years. Purdue, by smashing Wisconsin, 13 to 0, and Minnesota's machine, by grinding Indiana 19 to 7, moved ahead as the only conference elevens with clean slates.

Kentucky Shocks South

Kentucky's slaughter of the hitherto undefeated and untied Clemson Tigers, by 44 to 6, shocked Southern experts and injected the Wildcats into the forefront of the Dixie race.

Kansas Aggies' one point triumph 7-6, removed Missouri from the Big Six title race, while Oklahoma scored its second conference victory over Iowa state and Nebraska kept in the conquest by downing Kansas.

The Utah Aggies abruptly checked the championship aspirations of Colorado college in the Rocky mountain zone with a 10-0 conquest, thereby smoothing the path for Utah's champions, which trounced Brigham Young.

Pittsburgh and Cornell, victor in the last period rally over Columbia 12-6, remained the only major undefeated and untied Eastern elevens but Yale's triumph over Dartmouth in the big game of the day lifted the Elis to the very top flight.

In the Southwest, Texas Christian gained something of an advantage as the champion Texas team and Southern Methodist fought to a scoreless tie but the race still is far from settled.

The University of Detroit, after 19 consecutive victories, was the victim of another upset when extended to gain a 6-6 tie with Marquette.

Midget Wolgast Is Winner in Garden

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia, flyweight, opened the tournament that will decide the next New York nominee as the 112-pound champion, by defeating Johnny McCoy, of Buffalo, N. Y., in a 10-round contest. The decision was most unpopular. Wolgast weighed 110 pounds, McCoy 111¾.

Ruby Bradley, Holyoke, Mass., negro, flyweight, likewise won an unpopular decision over Ernie Peters, Chicago, in the first 10-round go.

So soundly did Huat, a slim, calm, solid socking workman, trounce the widely recognized American champion, that Schwartz announced from the ring immediately after the decision his permanent retirement from fisticuffs. Huat failed to floor the game Jewish midget but gave him a hearty cuffing every round.

Several times Huat, knockout victor over Spider Pladner, the French ace, and French Belanger, champion of Canada, had Schwartz reeling and all but spent from slashing punches to the head. Izzy barely weathered the fourth, sixth, seventh and final rounds.

Lawton School Safe Robbed for Fourth Time

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 4.—Knob knockers paid Lawton another visit last night, securing $122 from a safe in the principal's office at the high school. The money had been collected for high school activities. It is insured. Police are working on the case.

This is the fourth time safes at the high school have been broken into, all by the same process of knocking off the knobs. Entrance to the building was made through an outside window leading into the swimming pool.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (AP)—The White Sox made another move to strengthen their team today by purchasing Smeed Jolley, heavy hitting outfielder from San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league. Jolley batted .385 and rapped out 38 homers for the Seals last season.

OIL BELT GRID RACE IS QUIET

Little Progress Made Last Week

By BOYCE HOUSE
Sports Editor Ranger Times

No progress was made in the "survival of the fittest" process among Oil Belt contenders the past week as the outstanding teams were meeting the weaker elevens and came through as was expected.

Breckenridge, by defeating Sweetwater, and Abilene, by winning over Big Spring, preserved their perfect records. Cisco, not yet out of the race, won from Mineral Wells, 18 to 0, after a scoreless first half. Abilene was scored on in conference play for the first time this season when Bell of Big Spring caught a pass and raced 45 yards. The final score was 28 to 6. Sweetwater held Breckenridge to a 6-6 score the first half when Seales intercepted a Buckaroo pass and raced 77 yards but Breck came back in the later stages to win, 32 to 6. It is likely that neither Abilene nor Breckenridge was cutting loose but were saving their strategy and spirit for next Saturday when they meet.

The wildest and weirdest game ever seen in West, Texas, was played at Brownwood. The Eastland Mavericks led 12-0 at the half. The Lions rallied and put over two touchdowns and Gilliam's second try for the extra point was successful when the gently kicked ball rainbowed down, hit the crossbar, and slid across, giving Brownwood the lead, 13 to 12. Later a freak play occurred when a Brownwood pass was caught yet was incomplete as the catch was beyond the end zone. Then with two minutes to play, Cheatham's pass was intercepted by Moore, Brownwood substitute center, who raced 20 yards the wrong way and crossed his own goal line to score a safety, giving Eastland the game, 14 to 13. "Believe it or not," as Ripley would say.

San Angelo Bobcats staged a practice affair with Daniel Baker Reserves and won, 19 to 6. Ranger Bulldogs were the only team inactive this week.

Next Saturday's game between Breckenridge and Abilene may not decide the championship. Breckenridge still must face San Angelo and Ranger while Abilene must meet Eastland, San Angelo and Cisco.

Armistice day will see Cisco and Ranger battling, Eastland and San Angelo tangling and Big Spring invading Sweetwater.

GOOD BIG MAN PROVES BEST

One of Chicago's Great Fights

By BERT DEMBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO STADIUM, CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion, ambitious for the welterweight title, was forced to take a setback in his first invasion of the welterweight ranks tonight when he lost a 10-round decision to Jimmy McLarnin.

McLarnin, slugging and leading all the way, landed the harder and better blows and the crowd agreed that he had won the fight.

It was one of the greatest fights ever seen in Chicago. Two willing fighters, both spurred on by the fact that a victory tonight would gain them a match with Jackie Fields for the welterweight title, went out and fought for blood. A crowd of more than 24,000, which paid $100,000 to see the card, applauded all the way through the fight.

Big Indoor Crowd

It was the largest indoor crowd which ever saw a fight in Chicago and no Chicago crowd ever saw a greater fight. Mandell, giving away six pounds, obviously too much for a lightweight to concede, fought as best he knew how, but that was not good enough. He was McLarnin's master at 135 pounds in a lightweight title match last year, but he could not give Jimmy six pounds tonight.

McLarnin, a slugger who bore in at all times, fought probably the best fight of his life.

Even at Tenth

The two fighters came out in the 10th with either having a chance to win. Sammy, badly injured by the body punching he had taken, was not able to stave off Jimmy's rushes. McLarnin won the final round.

In the semi-windup, Otto von Porat, the Norwegian hope for the heavyweight title, knocked out Charley Smith of England in the first round. Smith had taken enough punches to cut his eye and redden his nose before the knockout came.

In the other preliminaries, Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, won a six-round decision from Tony Caragliano, New York; Edgar Norman, Norway, knocked out Jake Purtell, Chicago, in the fourth round of a scheduled six-round bout; Pep Justo, Chicago, won a four-round decision from Al Kline, Chicago, and Ray Trambile, Rockford, defeated Joe Young, Chicago, in four rounds.

Right Hard Cross To Jaw by Fields Knocks Out Mahan

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 4. (UP)—After Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, finished taking bows from a madly cheering fight public here tonight and settled down to his job of refereeing a prize fight, "Dummy" Mahan, San Francisco, staged two rounds of game plunging against Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, before Fields landed a cross to the jaw that ended the bout. The event was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Mahan had taken repeated blows in the first round which shook him but continued to bore in. The champion dropped Mahan when the second round was half over and Dempsey's work for the evening was completed. The California deaf and dumb boxer was cheered for his gameness. He weighed 150 pounds and Fields 147¾.

In a 10-round semi-final Louis Avery, Tulsa, Okla., lost by a shade to Bobby Hermann, San Francisco, at 125 pounds.

Player Runs 102 Yards for Marker

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—To Edward Frantz of Ohio Wesleyan goes the credit for the longest scoring run made so far this season on an American gridiron, according to the records of Parke H. Davis, of Easton, Pa., noted football statistician.

Playing against Heidelberg, Frantz caught a kick behind his own goal lines and ran 102 yards for a touchdown. Harris, of Brown, ran 97 yards to score against Holy Cross and Ed Wittmer, Princeton ace, dashed 90 yards for a touchdown against Cornell.

The longest scoring run from scrimmage thus far noted by Davis was Lecoin's dash of 96 yards for Tufts against Bates. The lengthiest scoring passes were 50-yard tosses, made by Wood of Harvard against Army; Cobert of Boston college against Villanova, and Marsters of Dartmouth against Yale.

Two players have booted 45-yard kicks, Cook of Lafayette against Penn State, and Corry of Miami against Wittenberg.

All was relatively quiet along the circuit of Class B of District 3 during the past week-end. And the race is not destined to narrow down until later on in this month when the ranking teams are brought together.

Chillicothe was the only team in the district to play and thereby alter its standing for the better in the past week-end skirmishes. The Chillicothe Eagles were not as impressive against the Archer City Wildcats as their score would at first indicate. The Eagles made five touchdowns to an equal number by the Wildcats.

Burkburnett and Megargel fought a solid hour and at the end of the game found that they stood right where they had begun—the game was a scoreless tie. The game simply proved that neither was better than the other on the gridiron.

The other contest played were with "outside" teams and had no bearing on the conference standing.

The coming week-end will also produce no change in the standing of Class B District three teams, for not a single conference game is scheduled for the coming week-end. On Armistice day Olney plays Megargel on the Bluebirds' home battlefield, but the game is not expected to give Olney much trouble as Olney has swept through all opposition during the season with impressive scores and the Armistice day scrap is not likely to prove an exception.

On the same day that Megargel and Olney tangle on the former's field the Iowa Park Hawks will descend down upon the Archer City field to engage that eleven, and the strong Seymour Panthers are billed to entertain the Burkburnett Bulldogs.

Only two of the aforegoing elevens have any honors at stake in the conference chase. Olney who has not been defeated during the season and holds a clean conference slate and Seymour who also has a perfect record to defend.

Texas Aggies Put Tickets on Sale

Special to The Record News.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 4—Tickets to the Thanksgiving day football game between the Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns went on sale Nov. 1 and will be sold through the mail only, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics, has announced. Those desiring tickets should address their requests to Mr. Sullivan, inclosing check or postal money order for the number desired at the rate of $3 a ticket.

Mr. Sullivan has stressed the fact that no tickets will be sold except through the mail and that orders will be filled as received.

Due to the indicated demands for tickets, it may be necessary to supplement the permanent seats with temporary seats at the south end of the structure, Mr. Sullivan has pointed out.

Burkburnett Hi Has Open Date for Game on Friday

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Nov. 4.—According to an announcement of Coach Craig, the Burkburnett Bulldog gridders will be open for a football contest Friday. Considerable improvement was shown in the attack with Megargel last Friday when all the Bulldog veterans were in the lineup and playing. The team came out in a good condition and will go through a series of strenuous scrimmages to get in shape for the next conference game.

Gloom Thickens In Longhorn Camp As Meadows Is Injured

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)—Gloom in the Longhorn football camp, already heavy as a result of the tie with S. M. U. Saturday, became thicker today when Coach Clyde Littlefield announced that Claude Meadows probably would be unable to play again this season.

The quarterback and passer extraordinary renewed an old knee injury, which had kept him out of the Rice fray, in the closing moments of the hard-fought battle with the Ponies. He tore loose a cartilage in attempting to recover a punt.

Littlefield had no alibis to offer for the deadlock, but little "Bull" Elkins was missed from the backfield. The Steer mentor kept him on the sidelines for fear of aggravating a knee injury. Littlefield may let him into the Baylor tilt here Saturday.

With the exception of Meadows, all the men who performed against the Ponies reported for practice today.

PACK - INDIANS RESUME WORK

Few Injuries Mar Teams in Games

The Wichita Falls Coyotes and the Indians entered upon their first week of November football training Monday afternoon with the zest and ambition that goes with exercise on a clear chilly day. The chill of the air forced the boys to go at their exercises with all their might in order to keep warm.

Both teams came out of the past week-end frays with a minimum of bruises and injuries. Only one exception to this happened and that was a broken nose sustained by Paul Dickey, heady little field marshal on the Coyote eleven.

Coaches Holton and Baggett were satisfied to let their charges take it comparatively easy when it came to the regular routine work. Though Coach Baggett had his men rehearsing plays and maneuvers that looked as a little if the boys were nearing the time for a real battle. He lined the men up and pointed out certain mistakes made in the Gainesville contest.

The Indians will have a longer period in which to train for a battle than they have had since the first game took place. They do not play this week-end but will train all week and then go into a head-on with the North Texas Aggies at Arlington on Armistice day.

The game on Nov. 11 against the Aggies is an old feud affair and should be productive of some excellent football playing. Though the Indians suffered a severe blow when they failed to cop the game last Saturday and almost lost their hope of gaining the conference title, they are not entirely devoid of hope. There is still a chance for them, Coach Baggett and his Redskins believe. As long as there is a game there is hope, at least of recouping part of their prestige. The Indians have only two remaining games in the conference, and they are against the strongest elevens in the circuit. Should they by any chance win these two games they could still be regarded as potential champions.

Come what may, though, the Indian coach and his Indian warriors can be relied upon to stick with their guns to the very last ditch.

The Coyote next game will be with the Plainview eleven and is not expected to give the Pack more than a good workout. Coach Holton is likely to incorporate several new plays into his repertoire this week and try them out against the Plainview team. The entire Coyote machine will be given a thorough overhauling with a view of further rounding the outfit into a smoother functioning piece of football machine. After the Plainview game, the team will buck the class of the district when they meet Amarillo and Lubbock. It is with these two games in mind that the Coyote mentor will work his hardest in trying to get his team into shape for their hardest competition of the season.

The lower the price of a battery, the lower its quality is apt to be. Below the safety point you risk expense and disappointment. A single towing charge, for example, might eat up more than you saved on a too low-priced battery.

The Romance of Wheat

The hard wheat flours are principally used in bread making, except the durums, which are used in the manufacturing of semolina flour which goes into macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and shells, etc. It is estimated that we use nearly 20,000,000 bushels of this flour a year in the macaroni production. The Kubanka or durum wheat was brought to this country by Mark Carlton, working for the department of agriculture, in an effort to find a wheat which would withstand the rust. Carlton's solitary exploration into the windswept lonely regions of Russia is a romance in itself which is very well related in a remarkable book entitled, "The Hunger Fighters," by De Kruif.

In 1926 the Canadian crop was over 405,938,000 bushels. The United States crop for the same period was 869,365,000 bushels. At the present time it is said that wheat furnishes us with one-third of our total food, but our per capita consumption is slightly declining.

Europe uses more wheat than America per person, and it has been estimated that one-half of the average European meals come from wheat. The reason for the per capita decline in the consumption of wheat is probably because our work has changed from the hard, strenuous physical labor, calling for a large amount of fuel foods, to the white collar jobs in which over-eating of the highly starchy foods is apt to lead to digestive disturbances. The public has also been educated to use more freely of the fruits and vegetables, and because of better clothing and better houses, the warth-giving foods are not as necessary as they once were. The increased earning capacity has also given people a chance to buy higher priced food, resulting in a decrease per person in wheat consumption as high as 20 per cent in 20 years.

In analyzing the flours, it is found that the amount of mineral matter and protein is somewhat higher in the wholewheat flour than in white flour. There are some people, however, who find that wholewheat flour is more difficult to digest. What is commonly sold in many stores as wholewheat flour is not really wholewheat but a mixture of 60 to 40 of the dark and white flours. Whenever white flour is used it should be in addition to non-starchy vegetables, as spinach, to provide roughage.

To obtain the pure wholewheat, it is usually necessary to go to a health food store and ask for the entire wheat four. Many people ask for the white flour because they associate the whiteness with purity and cleanliness. The millers have encouraged this belief, as the removal of the bran and heart from the wheat helps in storage because it prevents the invasion by worms.

The fact that for thousands of years the flour which was sifted looked dirty has taught the population that it was a good idea to buy flour that is white so that one can tell at a glance whether it is clean or not. Within the last few years this belief has changed, however, and it is estimated that most bakers manufacture an equal amount of wholewheat bread or perhaps more loaves than made from white flour.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Childhood Visions

Question: Mrs. R. Y. writes—"I have a little nephew about three years old and in the daytime he seems to see visions, and laughs and acts like he is asleep. At night he is disturbed—can't sleep like children should. I would appreciate your opinion on this."

Answer—Of course it would be impossible for me to determine whether or not your little nephew is normal mentally without having the opportunity to examine him. However, there are many children who are quite normal apparently and have visions or fancies during the day in which they appear to see visions or play with imaginary friends. If the diet is correct he should be able to sleep well at night. Digestive disturbances are the principal causes of troubled sleep. If these dreams or hallucinations continue, it would be well for you to consult a psychoanalyst or psychologist when your nephew is about two or three years older.

Buerger's Disease

Question: H. G. H. writes—"My husband has Buerger's disease. Already he has lost the two great toes. He has been to various hospitals and they can do nothing for him except amputate as the toes turn back. I am very anxious for your opinion."

Answer—Buerger's disease, also known as thrombo-angiitis obliterans, is a form of gangrene of the extremeties, usually affecting the toes and fingers, caused by an inflammation and obstruction of the veins and arteries to the limbs. This disease is very difficult to cure, but some benefit may be derived from following my cleansing diet course which would help to reduce the inflammation of the arteries. It would probably be necessary to repeat the fast about once a month for a while until there is an improvement. It would also be a good plan to use baths, massage and exercises outlined in the article on Raynaud's disease, which will be sent upon request.

Clarence Iron Sentenced For Robbing Hunters

HOLDENVILLE, Okla., Nov. 4. (UP)—Clarence Iron, 20, today was sentenced to 30 years in the penitentiary in connection with a hijacking here, Oct. 18, of Joe King and Lee Fing while the two men were hunting.

The sentence climaxed a long record of crime and robberies for Iron, begun when he was 16. The 20-year-old youth had been connected with four auto thefts, two store robberies, two hijackings and been sentenced to two five-year-terms in Granite reformatory. In both his Granite sentences, however, he had been released on parole.

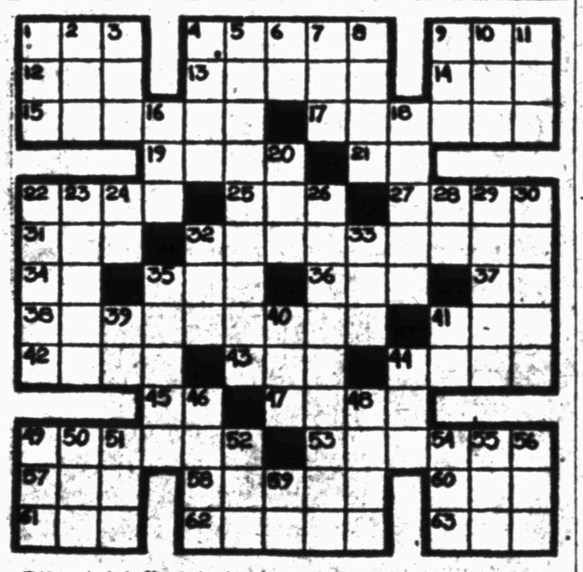

He was captured with Carey Sterling, a 19-year-old Indian girl, 30 minutes after the hijacking of King east of Holdenville. The Indian girl was still in jail here, having pleaded not guilty. Iron pleaded guilty in court today before Judge George Crump.

Iron will be taken to McAlester immediately by Sheriff Beatty Templeman.

DENIED REVIEW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (UP)—J. C. Tingley, Oklahoma City, Okla., convicted of receiving stolen goods and sentenced to five years in Leavenworth, today was denied a supreme court review. He charged the district attorney made prejudicial remarks in the trial.

COTTON GINS BUSY AGAIN

Turkey Sales Expected to Open Wednesday

Cotton gins of the county gained momentum again on Saturday and Monday as favorable weather allowed picking to be resumed, 755 bales being added during the two days to the season's total, which now stands at 15,966.

Electra continued to forge ahead in daily totals, 271 bales for the past two days being more than Burkburnett's three gins turned out for second place in the same period. Prices showed an unusual degree of uniformity throughout the county, running from 13 to 18½ cents on middling cotton with little variation.

Movement of turkeys to local poultry buyers has not yet begun on any large scale, it was stated Monday. It was said that the Thanksgiving market will open about Wednesday, allowing practically two weeks for the local pack for eastern markets. More than five carloads of turkeys already have been assembled in a cooperative pool at Seymour, it was said, with large numbers also being gathered at Electra.

Further improvements in Wichita Falls' milk products manufacturing equipment are being made by the Ferguson Ice Cream company, which is now moving into new quarters at Fourth and Ohio. Large amounts of new machinery and a new brick building will make possible a capacity more than double that in the old plant on Austin street, it was said. The new plant will be ready for operation within a few days.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—A renewal of southern selling and liquidation was absorbed by covering and trade buying on scale down orders in cotton today but no rallying power developed and closing prices were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest. January sold off from 17.97 to 17.76 and closed at 17.80 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 15 to 19 points.

The opening was steady at declines of 2 to 5 points.

Prices recovered 6 to 7 points of their early losses but the buying slackened again during the afternoon, and the lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading when December sold at 17.67 and March at 18.06 or 19 to 20 points net lower.

Southern selling was a little more nervous toward the close.

Two private gron reports were published. One made the yield 15,200,000 bales compared with an estimate of 14,900,000 a month ago and the ginnings prior to Nov. 1 at 11,200,000 bales. The other as of Oct. 27 was 14,472,000 bales and 79.4 per cent of the crop picked up to that date.

Liverpool cables said there had been hedging and local liquidation absorbed by continental buying in that market and reported an improved cloth demand with a fair business pending from India.

Port receipts today 90,968. U. S. port stocks 2,308,407. Exports 53,033, making 2,337,890 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4. (AP)—Stocks again today furnished the dominating influence in cotton although expanded crop ideas and a larger ginnings estimate by a private authority increased a desire to liquidate.

After an easier opening in spite of favorable Liverpool cables, the market eased persistently during the morning, losing 20 to 23 points from Saturday's close. The market dropped to the 18c level but rallied slightly in the early afternoon on a steadier stock market. It soon dropped again in the late trading and made new lows on some months.

March broke through the 18c line to 17.99 and closed easy. January after opening at 17.86, or 6 points down, eased down to 17.70 and closed at 17.73, 19 points net lower for the day. The general market closed easy at net declines of 19 points on all active months.

Liverpool came in due to 1 point better than due but first trades here showed losses of 3 to 6 points. After a slight rally of 1 point the market went down again as the private estimate listed the crop at 15,035,000 bales and ginnings at 11,200,000 bales. December declined to 17.80, January to 17.68 and March to 18.00, or 20 to 22 points below Saturday's close.

In the early afternoon, the market showed slight improvement, prices rallied 3 to 4 points from the lows but eased off again in late trading making new lows of 17.99 for March and 18.40 for July. December closed at 17.61, January at 17.73 and March at 18.01, or 19 points lower and at the lowest price of the season.

Q.A.&P.-DENVER LEASE URGED

Roads Given 60 Days To Make Agreement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Interstate Commerce commission, in a report issued today on the application of the Quanah, Acme and Pacific for authority to construct a line from Quanah to Acme, announces 60 days will be allowed to permit that road and the Denver to conclude negotiations for continued joint operations of the existing line connecting Acme and Agatite, where plants of the Certainteed products corporation are located.

The Denver had announced that lease of this line by the Quanah road would be canceled but the commission believes a new lease can be made which will obviate the necessity of the Quanah building its own line.

The distance is only five miles but the traffic is heavy and there is keen rivalry for it by both the Frisco and the Burlington interests.

Jules Veran Sees Dangers in Talkies

PARIS, Nov. 4. (INS)—"Talkies are dangerous," says Jules Veran, writing in a magazine, "and if we allow them to get a foothold in France, we might just as well say goodbye and farewell to the good old Gallic tongue.

"It won't be long now before we will all be blushing when he speak French, just as our peasants do when they converse in their old 'patois'," Veran adds.

For, by talkies, Veran refers to the English of American films, which are still paramount in France and likely to remain so for some time to come.

"Today, it is a real invasion of English words and expressions," the writer continues. "At first, they were mostly sporting terms but now all the signs, menus and subtitles are in the language of Shakespeare.

"It is time for the government to take serious steps, just as it prohibits the entry of foreign wheat when there is no necessity for it. Our language is a treasure, the greatest one we have and we must protect it as a national defense."

Junior Official Also to Aid Chatham

Appointment of Guy D. P'Pool, assistant credit manager of the Continental Oil company here for the past seven years, as secretary of the Junior chamber of commerce was announced Monday morning by James W. Chatham, acting manager of the senior organization.

Besides assuming the work in connection with the Junior chamber, which was said to have increased the duties of the office personnel at least 25 per cent, Mr. P'Pool will act as assistant to Mr. Chatham in the general activities of the organization.

The new Junior chamber secretary has been a resident of Wichita Falls for eight years, having lived in Austin prior to that time while attending the University of Texas. During his first year in Wichita Falls he was a representative of the Bradstreet company, New York mercantile agency.

Mr. P'Pool will occupy the office formerly used by Hubert M. Harrison on the third floor of the Perkins-Snider building. He assumed his new duties Monday morning.

Work on Filter Beds Waits Arrival of Sand

A delay of about two weeks in changing of sands in the city filtration beds has been occasioned by difficulty in securing a carlot of extra grade sand from Houston, Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the city water department, announced Monday. Other work in connection with the changing of the filter beds, however, is progressing, Doctor Douglass said.

The sands in the filter beds were last changed three years ago, when beds of river sand from Burkburnett were used in the plant. This sand, Mr. Douglas said, has been found inadequate, consequently the higher grade sand, expected to last the department approximately five years, has been ordered from Houston.

The first segment of a wedge of about 8,000 statements of city and school property taxes due the city were consigned to the mails Monday, W. R. Hyer, city tax collector, announced. The remaining statements are due to be mailed Tuesday.

The taxes are due now and will be delinquent after Jan. 31, Mr. Hyer said. Taxpayers are urged to bring the statements with them when the taxes are paid.

According to the information given Doctor Graham, the eagle was captured near Lake Kemp by Mr. Austin. The eagle's arrival gave the local zoo a trio of these birds.

'It's Certainly Been a Blessing'

"Orgatone Has Relieved Me of Nervousness and Has Made a New Woman of Me," Says Amarillo Housewife

"Since Orgatone relieved me of my nervousness I just can't help praising it to everybody," said Mrs. A. W. Amick of 1018 Buchanan St., Amarillo, Texas.

"For over six months," she continued, "I suffered from extreme nervousness and loss of appetite. At nights I was unable to get any sound sleep or rest on account of my nerves. My appetite kept falling off until I finally got so I could hardly eat anything at all.

"My first dose of Orgatone seemed to hit the spot and I have been getting better ever since. I can eat with a relish and have no trouble with gas, my stomach is toned up and I feel better in every way, than I have in a long time. Orgatone has relieved me of my nervous trouble and at night I can sleep as sound as a dollar and my general health has improved since I began taking Orgatone to the extent that I hardly feel like the same person. Orgatone has certainly been a blessing to me and there is no better Orgatone booster in this town than I am."

MAJESTIC: "The Sophomore," with Eddie Quillan, Sally O'Neil and a college campus. Talking comedy. Song feature. Movietone news.
STRAND: "Why Bring That Up?" by Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows." "Moonshine," talking skit. Paramount sound news.
OLYMPIC: William Haines in "A Man's Man," with Josephine Dunn. Comedy. Pathe review. Honey H. Harris on stage.
GEM: Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "The Man I Love." Western picture. Comedy.

Persons who have hiked through the hills of East Tennessee or Kentucky, who have penetrated those timbered wastes sufficiently to observe the genus moonshiner in his native haunts, are taking particular delight in the short-talkie "Moonshine" at the Strand this week.

The traditional feud between "revenooers" and "hill billies" as presented in the picture lends a background which perhaps is common enough—the long-barreled muskets, the concealed stills, the John Fox Jr., vernacular of the hills, and all that. But in the battle of wits between Jim Dunn and the moonshiner a clever bit of characterization is excellently developed. The shaggy-haired rifleman of the hills succumbs to his innate superstitions, awakened by the skillful prodding of his captive. The sketch scores heavily because it photographs so accurately the mastery of intelligence over childish superstition.

◇ ◇ ◇

What effect will this have on Pullman travel? Passengers on a Union Pacific limited train between Chicago and Los Angeles the other day were escorted to the dining car, which had been converted into a talking-picture theater, and were shown "The Virginian," Gary Cooper's latest picture, as they rolled westward.

◇ ◇ ◇

"The Love Parade" is being hailed as one of the outstanding American talking-films of the year. It has just been completed. In explanation of its Americanism, it might be remarked that the story was written by an Hungarian, the libretto for the play by an American, the lyrics by an Englishman, and it is directed by a German. In the cast are an Italian, Albert Roccardi; a Welshman, Albert de Winton; a Czecho-Slovakian, Anton Vaverka; a Spanish girl, Marcita Voya; a Canadian, Frank Martin; and fourteen American-born players.

Negro Women Charged With Robbing Man

Charges of robbery by assault were filed against Jennie Lou Boyd and Hallie Speers, negro women, Monday afternoon in connection with the holdup of a man at Electra who reported that two negro women had taken $60 from him while holding a knife to his throat early Sunday night.

Roy Hart, night police chief at Electra, arrested four suspects later and the two brought here Monday. The man, according to Mr. Hart, reported that he was walking near the Electra postoffice early Sunday evening when two women forced him against a wall and while one held a knife against his jugular vein, the other rifled his pockets of $60. Investigation of the case was conducted by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

British Airship R-101 Laid Up for Repairs

CARDINGTON, England, Nov. 4. (UP)—The first mishap since she began trial several weeks ago placed the giant British dirigible R-101 in the hangar for repairs today.
