Volume XLI. Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Friday, October 3, 1924. Number 24.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTORS MET MONDAY

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce met at the Junction State Bank Monday night for the second time in September, it having been decided at a meeting on the 6th to change the time of meeting from every Monday night to twice a month.

Plans were taken up that would lead to more co-operation between the members and when completed, these plans will be an effort to get the general public to fully appreciate the important work that is being done and that can be done by this organization.

Next week a list of the present membership will be published that the public may know who are contributing the funds that are being used. Also next week a report of the things that the Chamber of Commerce has done since the present directors were elected, will be made. These reports, of course, will show where the money has come from and what it has been spent for.

Some publicity will be given in future issues of this paper, prepared under the direction of the board of directors, showing why all business houses of the town as well as all public spirited citizens should belong to the Chamber of Commerce, and why the general public should patronize business houses that are members of this organization.

Beginning next week, each advertisement of members of the Chamber of Commerce will carry the statement, "Member of the Chamber of Commerce."

By all working together, we can accomplish a great deal, but working separately or against each other, we can never build much of a town.

The salary of the secretary was cut in half during the Fall and Winter months.

The directors took up the proposition of providing a walk on one side of College Street and decided to donate $25.00 to the Parent-Teachers' Association to be used for the purpose of clearing up the walk on one side of the street, so school children would not have to use the road going to and from school.

Hereafter the directors' meetings will be held on the 1st and 3rd Monday nights of each month.

RANGES GREATLY IMPROVED BY LATE RAIN.

Rain of from ½ to 1½ inches fell over most of the county last Saturday and added to the fine season that was in the ground from several rains during the past few weeks.

Many farmers are now busy sowing small grain and those who had already planted are also getting the benefit, as their grains are coming up. While the rains this fall were rather late, unless there is a late frost, a great deal of winter grass and weeds have sprung up for livestock that will greatly reduce the feed bills this winter.

Ranchmen generally are very optomistic over the outlook and are encouraged by the present good prices being paid for wool and mohair. Cattle are still lagging on account of the prices paid at the marketing centers, but with a light feed bill for this winter, cattle men will be in much better condition next spring.

O. J. Camp reports the sale of two billies at $15 each to W. M. Hoffman of Mason, and two Rhode Island Red cockrels to Edwin Wahl at $2.50 each.

MEETING OF P.-T. ASS'N

The Parent-Teachers' Association met in regular session the 4th Monday, with a large number present, and many important matters were discussed.

It was decided to secure the "Covered Wagon" in conjunction with Mr. Hankins, the date to be announced later.

The most important subject discussed was building a sidewalk from the school to town; a committee was appointed to see property owners on College Street, also Chamber of Commerce, and the Commissioners.

It was decided to buy another small piano for the lower grades (the school board having paid for the one in the auditorium). This one also to be used by the music teachers who will pay a small sum each month to the Association. In this connection Supt. Miller made a short talk, asking our co-operation in the building of a bath house and dressing room for the boys.

A very interesting program, composed by Buzz Motley, Wright, Natalie Lowry and Mrs. Moore, was very much enjoyed.

The members present, chose sides, Reds and Blues, to secure members. The losers to entertain the winners at an early date. Everyone is eligible to join.

The fee is $1.00 for a year. The money is used to help the school. Do your bit. Join the P.-T. A. and help your school.

Committee.

T. H. Walton was in Abilene recently to take his son, Lee Andrew, who is attending the school there. In talking with The Eagle reporter this week, Mr. Walton stated that he had always doubted that a bale of cotton per acre could be raised here, but his crop on Cedar this year, he says, has convinced him that this yield is possible.

In the publication of awards in the cattle section last week in the yearling bulls, A. M. Reese should have been given credit for having won 1st, 2nd and 3rd places, and the two to three year old heifer, the award should have read A. M. Reese 1st; J. B. Randolph 2nd; and A. M. Reese 3rd.

EAGLE ADS. BRING HOME THE BACON.

No one can make Mrs. W. F. Adams believe today that advertising in local newspapers don't pay. Neither can they make her believe that there are not honest people out in the vicinity of Junction and Seven Hundred Springs.

On July 24th, while she and her son, W. F. Jr., were visiting Seven Hundred Springs she lost a small hand bag, containing her diamond necklace, diamond ring, broach, annual pass on railroad, poll tax receipt, 3 copper cents and 3 one-cent stamps.

She placed an advertisement in the Junction Eagle describing the loss and offering "suitable reward."

Today, her steenth birthday, she received from the Editor of the Eagle by parcel post, the hand bag, all the lost jewelry, and even the three coppers and one-cent stamps.

The finder was very modest; he only wanted a years' subscription to the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, which cost $10.00.

Mrs. Adams was only too glad to pay for the years' subscription for the finder, who made his request through the Editor of The Eagle.—Yoakum Herald.

The above article is about a purse found on the Telegraph road and returned to this office by C. W. Henderon. A similar article appeared in a number of the daily papers of the State. Mr. C. D. Waide of the Houson Chronicle mailed a clipping to this paper taken from his paper We appreciate the publicity given The Eagle.

A letter was received this week from Leon H. Durst, who is now South Editor, Associated Press, at the Chicago office. Along with the letter and remittance for a year's subscription to The Eagle, Mr. Durst sent an article which had come over the wires to his office, telling of the completion and opening of the Mermentau River bridge in Louisiana, which is an important link in the Old Spanish Trail. The bridge cost more than $200,000, according to the account.

BETTER BABIES CONTEST.

One of the most important events of the Fair was "Better Babies" day.

While the business men and ranchmen were interested in better goats, sheep, etc., the P.-T. Association had a special booth where all the children of the county could be weighed and examined by a trained nurse and a competent physician.

Many mothers availed themselves of this opportunity and many babies and children were weighed, measured and given a special examination, through the courtesy and kindness of Mrs. George Vierling, Drs. Gray and Burt, and Mrs. Burt, Sr.

As soon as the score cards are received each mother who had her baby examined, will receive a score card showing just how and why her baby was not scored perfect.

The most perfect baby examined was Wanda Rose Amaon, from London, who scored almost 100 per cent. The most perfect boy was Cecil Martin Holekamp.

Through the kindness of our local photographer, Mr. Murff, pictures were made of these babies and we hope to have them in our local paper at an early date.

There were a good number of babies who scored high.

The P.-T. Association are now planning a "Better Babies" contest for next year's fair.

Oren C. Reid of the First National Bank, is just completing a fine little home on his farm just east of town and will move into it within the next few days While the house is small, it is conveniently arranged and has a large south exposure sleeping porch and is in an ideal location.

Emil A. Loffler is making some improvements on the buildings on the Hardware Co. farm a mile east of town. Two rooms and a large screened in porch are being added to the two-room house which is in a large grove of live oaks some three hundred yards from the road. A well was recently dug there and a good supply of water obtained.

FAIR COMMITTEE COMPLETES WORK TUESDAY.

The Executive Committe met in the Junction State Bank Tuesday night and practically completed the final detail work connected with closing up the accounts of the recent county fair.

All accounts for labor, policing and materials were paid.

After these accounts were paid the committee found that there was approximately $75.00 left with which to pay prizes. This amount will not pay the prizes that were expected to be paid, but the only thing that the committee saw that could be done was to prorate this balance among the prize winners, which will be done within the next few days.

The fact that the fair was held late in the season and that only a few days' notice could be given, was responsible for this shortage of funds, as the concession rights were not sold by the committee but were operated under a commission basis, and the returns from this was very light and very little was received from the polo games, as 50 per cent went to the polo players, 25 per cent to the horse race winners and 10 per cent to N. H. Skaggs for the use of the grounds. Before this decision as to awarding this prize money was made, a number of exhibitors who had won prizes were consulted and they felt this was the only thing left for the committee to do under the circumstances.

Plans should be set in motion at an early date for a fair for next year. It seems to be the concensus of opinion that the fair should be held in August, and the organization should be perfected several months in advance to insure a success of the undertaking.

Committe members present were, N. H. Skaggs, A. B. Hodges, and Fred Mudge.

COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE STOPS HERE.

George B. Terrell, present Commissioner of Agriculture, who was re-elected at the recent primary by a large majority, was here last Thursday in company with State Entomologist R. E. McDonald, and State Plant Pathologist J. N. Del Curto. They were on their way to the Big Bend country and El Paso, where they will look into the pink boll worm infested districts

The work of combating this insect is under the Department of Agriculture and while it is difficult to prevent the spread of this pest from across the Mexican border, Mr. Terrell states that the work is well under control.

While here, Mr. Terrell spent a while with The Eagle force, and from his conversation he seems to be still very much interested in this country. This is his first trip here in a couple of years.

He asked that we express his appreciation for the splendid vote that was given him in this county at the July and August primaries.

O. J. Camp, after exhibiting poultry and livestock at the Kimble County Fair, took his exhibits on to the Mason County Fair and was successful in winning more prizes there. He took 2nd for a pen of Rhode Island Reds, 1st and 2nd on Angora Doe and 2nd and 3rd on billies.

Leonard Hensley, who has spent the past three weeks with home folks in the Red Creek community, is back at his place in The Eagle shop.

Sallie's Temptations

By Gladys Baker

CURTISS WRIGHT COMES TO THE RESCUE.

He didn't even look like Ted Billings I had always known. Gone was the good-humoured boy with whom I had laughed and danced and frolicked since childhood. I looked across the lonesome sand-dunes and realized the situation and for the first time in my life I was frantic.

"I'm not like that, I'm good, really I am Ted; please, please let me go." I began to sob.

"Stuff don' go, Thallie, you're spoofin'!" And with that he gave one tug at my shoulder strap and I could hear the taffeta splitting.

"Let me go, you CAD!" I hissed at him. But he jeered at my efforts.

I shrieked loudly as Ted Billings lunged forward. In some mysterious way, strength was given me to use my legs, which had been quaking beneath me, and I tore headlong across the hills towards the ocean. Gaining the beach, I glanced over my shoulder. Ted had not followed. The heavy sand of the dunes must have proven too much for him in his besotted condition. Fright spurred me on, and I dashed into the water, shivering as the whitecaps reached out to me with their icy fingers. Soon I was swimming beyond my depth in the moon-swept ocean.

Then suddenly I felt the steady pull of the undertow and realized, in my spent condition, I was not able to resist it. I turned nervously shoreward and saw a lone masculine figure coming at to speed through the breakers. I recognized the swimmer. It was Curtiss Wright, and I called to him in utter exhaustion, feeling the last shred of my vitality weaken.

"What's the matter, trying to drown yourself?" he asked with a note of tenderness in his voice When his swift, sure strokes had brought him beside me, I relaxed in the safety of his arms and felt secure in his protection.

When we had left the fierce current behind us, I slipped from his arms as soon as I was able to touch bottom.

"Nice way to treat your guest," he laughed pleasantly, "sending me off for refreshments, while you run away and have our swim by yourself."

"Why, you poor kiddy," he continued gently, noticing for the first time that my arms and shoulders, rising from the dark depths of the water, were bare. "What's the matter? Did you have an accident?" he questioned.

"Nope," I stammered and made up my mind that I would not tell him what had happened After what Marj had said about his opinion of flappers, my experience with Ted would only add to his unflattering conviction about the younger generation.

I'd tell him nothing, and with this decision, I felt a spirit of deviltry returning.

"Maybe Mr. Shark decided he'd like to have my little suit for an hors d'ouvre and ate it," I replied, at the same time opening my eyes wide in mock and childish amusement, "and then, again, maybe he didn't."

A puzzled expression crossed the brow of Mr. Wright and he started to question me further, but changed his mind.

"I'm deeply sorry, really," he said quickly; "one would think that you had granted me the special privilege of dabbling in your affairs, which so far, it would seem, have been more or less of a—er—shall we say, a personal nature. I assure you I shall be less meddlesome in the future, and if you will promise to stay away from the shark infested area, I will bring my raincoat in a jiffy."

Returning, we walked in silence up the beach to the bath houses. The Inn was in darkness. It had not occurred to any of the crowd to look for me after my disappearance with Curtiss Wright earlier that evening. It is an unwritten code in our set to permit each person to go exactly where one pleases.

"A thermos bottle with ice and lime juice, as per request, reposes behind yon stately palm tree," Mr. Wright broke the silence lightly, and for some reason, which I was unable to analyze, his indifference piqued me after his former interest. In the short time I had known him, I had wavered from one decision to another in planning the attitude I would adopt before him. At the Inn I had determined upon a role of racy independence and yet I was now ready to go to almost any lengths to keep him from finding out about the episode with Ted Billings.

"What a funny little bird the frog are." I quoted.

"Apropos of what, may I ask?"

"Nothing, I was just thinking out loud. A sign of tottering old age, isn't it?" I responded. "Go get the bottle. I'm worn to a frazzle."

He looked at me with searching scrutiny.

"Yes, right at this moment you do look like an old woman," he announced critically and save for his innate refinement, which one felt, and the impersonal tone in which he had spoken, his remark would have been rude; as it was, it hurt me, for I knew he was serious.

During the drive home I rested my head against Curtiss Wright's coat sleeve and slept soundly.

When we alighted from the car, Mr. Wright gathered up my swimming things and handed them to me.

"Good night," he said, "I found this in the sand dunes. You might need it," and reaching in his pocket he produced a strip of black and white taffeta. Part of my bathing suit! I stood holding the bit of silk in my hand and could have wept, I was so embarrassed.

Under what circumstances had he found it? Had he seen Ted Billings? It was maddening and a thousand questions skipped through my brain which was already spinning from the excitement of the evening.

"Where is the rest of it?" I questioned, hoping his answer would throw some light on how much he knew of the situation.

"Maybe Mr. Shark is keeping it as a memento of the occasion," he suggested, leaving me bewildered.

OLDSMOBILE OF 1900 BEING USED IN EGYPT.

Still using the little one-cylinder Oldsmobile which he purchased in 1900 is the record of Dr. J. W. Faulkner, physician at Cairo, Egypt, formerly of New York City, according to W. N. Johnson of the Johnson Supply Company.

"The little car is in perfect running condition," he states. "It does not give me any more trouble than when first purchased. Although it may lack many of the modern accessories and finishes of the new car it give perfect satisfaction. My little Oldsmobile has been a great aid to me throughout these last 24 years. In fact, it has been more like a pal. I would not care to part with it for any of the late models."

Dr. Faulkner is known by the inhabitants as the "Doctor on wheels."

STAR MAIL SERVICE TO SAN ANTONIO OCTOBER 1.

(Kerrville Mountain Sun.)

Postmaster E. Gold has been authorized to employ temporary carrier for daily mail service between this city and San Antonio in addition to the mail this city is now receiving by train. Authorization is given him to start the new star route October 1st, providing he can secure carrier for same.

Under the order sent Mr. Gold, the route would carry pouch mail, consisting of first class matter and newspapers, leaving Kerrville week days at 9:30 each morning and arriving at San Antonio at 12:30. Leaving San Antonio at 2 p. m., arriving at Kerrville at 5 p. m.

The car will also carry mail to and from Center Point, Comfort and Boerne, but will not carry mail from one of these points to another, only through mail being handled.

This mail service is the result of many months' work on the part of the local post office, correspondence having been carried on concerning the establishment of the route since early last spring. There is great demand for the service, for one mail a day is not sufficient for a city the size of Kerrville, and the establishment of this route will not only be a great convenience to patrons of the local office but will also prove of inestimable value to the business and wholesale interests of San Antonio

The order authorizing establishment of the route was received by Mr. Gold Tuesday evening and he is at present negotiating to secure a contract with some responsible person to carry the mail.

SOME POLITICAL PICK-UPS.

Everybody who is familiar with his record and standing, knows that John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the presidency, is one of the best lawyers in the country—in fact, many well-informed writers say that he is THE best. The Republicans admit his ability, but they do not like for him to prosecute them.

It was the followers of La Follette in Congress who enabled the Democrats to pass several of the best laws over the Republicans, and a lot of his admirers by voting for him for president will aid in the election of the Democratic candidate, just as Roosevelt, as a candidate on the "Bull-Moose" ticket, brought about the first election of Wilson over Taft.

The Republican party of Texas is an integral part of the National Republican party, and any Democrat voting for the Republican candidate for governor will give aid and comfort to the Repubilcan party as a whole.

In dedicating his services to the "preservation of constitutional government in Texas," Dr. Butte, the Republican candidate for Governor, shows that though he is a novice in uolitics, he is fast learning the habit candidates have of recommending themselves very highly.—Texas Mesquiter.

McCULLOCH CO. WOLF CLUB HAS RECORD.

The McCulloch County Wolf Club is now nearing the completion of its second year of activities, during which time it has, in co-operation with the county, paid bounty on 275 wolf scalps, besides a large number of wild cat scalps. So splendid has been the results of this two-years' campaign that the county is virtually rid of all varmints.

The question that now confronts the club, however, is whether the work shall now be dropped, or shall be continued, with renewed vigor against the few remaining wolves and those invading McCulloch county territory from adjoining counties.

Since the campaign was put on by the ranchmen and farmers in this county, those having sheep and goats are enabled to turn them out on the range, without the expense of herders. Likewise the farmers have been benefitted thought being able to let their chickens, turkeys and small livestock run at freedom. Not only is there saving in the hiring of herders, but all stock does much better when at freedom than when under confinement or when kept to a small range.—Brady Standard.

MEMBER TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

That there ought to be a big warehouse here in Junction for storing wool and mohair, is becoming more and more apparent to the business men and ranchmen of this county every day. Those who have given the matter some serious consideration, see the many benefits to be derived from concentrating the spring and fall clips here where the eastern buyers can be induced to come and bid on the wool and mohair, and the sales be made and the money paid to the growers right here in Junction.

If a good per cent of the clips of this county could be concentrated here, there would be enough volume of business to justify the buyers coming here and the fact that additional money would be saved the county in the way of warehouse storage and labor to handle the clips is another important item. This money would be spent to pay home people for work and home people for storage, that now goes to other towns.

We believe that an organization can and should be perfected among the business men and ranchmen of this county, at a very nominal cost to each individual.

J. E. and Mrs. Grinstead were Junction visitors last Saturday. We don't know whether Mr. Grinstead brought the rain or not, but he has brought so many good things to the hill country one of the most important being a large number of tourists who were attracted here by his stories of the country, so we are willing to give him credit for bringing this rain.

In the last issue of his magazine, Grinstead's Graphic, we find the following which we are glad to pass along:

"Another summer season has just closed in the Heart o' the Hills. Just twenty-five years ago I printed the first of a long series of illustrated editions extolling the beauties of the Hill Country Perhaps I was not a prophet, but just a good guesser. I told the people of this part of Texas at that time that their greatest asset was their climate and scenery. Thousands of other people have told them that, since, and it has been proved to be true in a thousand ways. The present year has seen the summer vacationist come in greatly increased numbers."

As a good example of what the "swivel chair" artists, who hold down fat paying jobs in the many bureaus and departments of our government, we quote the following from an exchange regarding the work of these office men:

"The census of Texas goats taken twice a year by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on July 1, 1924, showed a goat population of 75,000 as reported by about 46 points, obviously not all of the spots in the State where goats are raised. In Kimble County there were 2,519 1,520 near Lampasas where the price of mohair is higher and the kid crop 75 percent of normal; 700 near San Saba; 1,736 near Sonora; 1,175 near Comstock; 9,000 near Del Rio; 61,734 near Buda, Hays County; 950 near Rio Grande; 1,580 near Leakey; and 3,600 near Rocksprings. As a matter of fact, a large proportion of owners raise goats in conjunction with sheep, the one seemingly supplementing the other. At some points, the reports showed goat raising was the principal industry on many ranches."

That's fine, isn't it? This sort of men ought to be in a fine position to help save the country. Seventy-five thousand goats in Texas! There are three times that many in Kimble County, and five time that many in Edwards County, just to the west of us.

Fire Cracker Johnnie, about whom we have had an article or two in these columns recently, sang his swan song last week in a two inch article in which he stated he failed to find anything new in our second article in which we were calling his hand for insinuating articles appearing in the paper which he says his friends bought for him so he could try the "tail wagging the dog" idea of running a radical paper for them instead of a newspaper We didn't suppose he could find much consolation in our replies, and of course, he couldn't understand that he had made an ass of himself.

SUGGESTIONS TO PIANO OWNERS, BY G. M. DOYLE

Dealer and Tuner, Kerrville.

A piano should be tuned at least once every year. Chance tuning two to five years apart is never satisfactory, and is very injurious to the tone of your piano; and when you neglect the tuning, tone and action regulating of your piano, you neglect the musical part of your child's education; for a child cannot learn correct tone and touch when a piano is in bad condition; besides, you ruin your piano.

The best authorities claim that seven out of every nine pianos are ruined beyond repair through neglect the first 10 years of their life, and that the depreciation amounts to more than five times the cost of keeping it in repair.

Mrs. JJim Ragland, Barney Ragland, Roy Blackburn and Mrs. Hartman were Kerrville visitors Monday.

LIVE STORE PROVIDES FREE VISION TEST.

The Alex J. Hamer Company, have just introduced an interesting innovation in their store. It is a system by which people can test the accuracy of their vision free of charge. Each person does his o rher own testing.

A scientific eye-test chart is used for the purpose. Printed directions on it tell the reader exactly what to do. The test will determine whether or not the eyes are functioning properly, and if they need help, it indicates what size lenses are required to give accurate and comfortable vision. It takes only a few minutes to make the test.

Most people fail to secure glasses until they are driven to it by suffering from eye-strain and headaches. This is for various reasons. Some have no idea that their vision has weakened. Others are deterred from having examination made by the matter of expense, and still others purely from neglect.

Therefore, the free test, so easily made at this store will be helpful in many ways, and these merchants are to be congratulated on their enterprise in taking this step of additional service to patrons.

The system was originated and is copyrighted by The Dayton Optical Company, which furnishes Alex J. Hamer Company with high quality and low-priced C-E-Z spectacles. (adv)

"Sweet are the uses of adversity"

So sang Shakespeare in his immortal works. But that was long ago—back in the 15th Century. Times have changed greatly since the Bard of Avon wrote and directed his plays for the edification of virgin Queen Elizabeth and her gallants.

Adversity and hardships are certainly not "sweet" to anticipate nowadays. It is only the man who has had the wisdom and forethought to save part of his wages that finds adversity anything but a sad experience.

Don't wait for adversity to teach you the necessity of saving. Come in and start an account to-day with this bank.

AMERICA LEADS AGAIN.

Just retuned from Europe where he remained seven weeks visiting the leading raido engineers and scientists in governmental and private radio circles abroad, David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, says:

"I investigated the broadcasting systems of England, France and Germany and met the principal persons, both in governmental and private cirvles, responsible for the development of radio in Europe. My conclusions are that broadcasting, which was initiated in our own country, has advanced in the United States, both as a public service and as an industry, to so great an extent as to make comparison with European countries almost impossible.

"In France, it is just beginning, and in Germany, it has hardly begun. In England, greater progress has been made than in other European countries, but even there it cannot be said to compare favorably with the United States either as to quality or variety of programs, or as to effectiveness, simplicity or small cost of receiving apparatus manufactured and sold for home use.

"Governmental regulations and restrictions retard the growth of the broadcasting art in Europe, and at the same time deprive the listening public of the freedom, enjoyment and instructive information available to all in the United States."

Once again has the private initiative and inventive ingenuity of America gained for the common citizen benefits far in advance of the government-owned, government controlled or government regulated services of Europe.

WILL WE SET A GOOD EXAMPLE.

Suppose that everyone of the more than 700,000 who participated in the recent primaries, with the exception of one, were to violate their pledge and vote for another than the regular nominee of the party, would that justify the one in stultifying his or her conscience, and like the multitude declare we 'have no conscientious scruples' in regard to our unredeemed pledges?

We suppose that those who really have no such scruples where their pledge of honor is concerned, can easily square the matter with themselves. But how about the other fellow? If you admit that a voluntary pledge to support the nominee is to be treated as "a scrap of paper," what assurance would your fellow man have as to your fidelity to any promise? Just how would a pledge have to be worded to make it binding? Those whose "word is as their oath," we cannot understand how their oath could be better than their word. Then too, notice the excuse that is being offered for bolting. Jim Ferguson, whom they picture as the arch traitor, they say, bolted, therefore we have a precedent for such action.—Eden Echo.

BE CAREFUL!

As another hunting season approaches, we can not keep from this one word of caution. We are not pessimistic; we do not like to spread gloom. Indeed, no! We are fond of hunting, we believe in it heart and soul! but as the season rolls around we are forced to a belief that some sportsmen are not by that always present list of accidents in the daily press.

Hunting is a great recreation. It should afford a respite from worry and strain, a chance to get out into the health-giving atmosphere of field and wood. Your trip afield should revive your gun, handle it properly, remember your fellow hunters, and in general just be careful while having the greatest hutning trip you ever enjoyed.—Sportsman's Digest.

"PITILESS PUBLICITY"

"Pitiless publicity" on liquor prescriptions—publicity for the druggist who sells it, for the doctor who prescribes it, and for the "sick person" who drinks it—is the urgent recommendation of the State Democratic convention for action by the 39th Legislature.

Once it becomes a law that the liquor prescription druggist shall publish to the world the facts about his liquor sales, there'll be fewer prescriptions issued, and there'll be a sudden and material decrease in the number of "sick people" whose condition makes whiskey necessary to their physical well-being.

The health of many communities would show a distinct improvement, and since healthful communities are much to be desired, it is possible that the suggestion will have the support of all interested in better health conditions. — Denton Record Chronicle.

BILL SAM'S DICTIONARY

By J. L. MARTIN

Cicero Perkins, who is about the best-posted man in the neighborhood, has become quite popular with the young men of Taterhill since the city fellow who bought the old restaurant changed it to a cafe, tore down the old bill of fare and had menus printed. The young men are glad to pay for Cicero's meals in order to have him explain what the order they select from the menu will look like when brought in on a platter.

MENU: A printed list of foods served in an eating house, named in such a manner that the surprise on receiving the order and the bill will cause the customer to feel that maybe after all, he did get his money's worth. Bill Sam's Dictionary, page 613.

ANOTHER USE FOR THE LOWLY GOAT.

Greeley, Colo.,—Motor tourists no longer give up all the comforts of their homes when they travel through the west.

One party of travelers from North Dakota, which passed through Greeley recently, had a milch goat harnessed in what the animal seemed to regard as a comfortabl position on the running board of their car. Members of the party explained they were accustomed to goat's milk, and that they saw no reason for doing without it because they were traveling.

The goat was so tied to the car that it could eat leisurely even with the automobile in motion.

School Notes.

Under the above head, each week, will appear the accounts of the school activities of Junction. We believe in the school and in the students, and we are more than willing to do everything within reason to help boost the school and school interests. As evidence of this, we have taken the matter up with the senior class and Miss Effie Roy Blackburn, of the English Department, and beginning next week, we will give one column of this paper for the use of the class who will edit it in a way that will take care of all the items of interest in and about the school.

Each week the name of the school editor for that week and for the following week will appear at the head of this column.

Teachers and pupils will, of course, confer a favor on the school editor for the week, by telling them of any news items that are suitable for this column, as each editor for the week will be interested in making his or her week's column the best possible.

The senior class is a large one this year and have begun the year with much enthusiasm, and we hope to see the entire number among the graduates at the end of school. The class was recently organized with Albert Mayfield as president, Clar Firtz, vice-president, and Elizabeth Murr, secretary and treasurer. Besides the above the following are members of the class: Jack and Clyde Richardson, Vic. Urban, Bill Wright, John Blackburn, Verena Lawler, Lura B. Taylor, Ruth Beasley, Audrey and Sallie Blackburn, Zada Sue Kelley, Marguerite Wright and Amy Blackburn

The foot ball boys have also organized with Bill Wright, as Captain, and Vic. Urban, Manager; the following are the other plays: Norman Farmer, Aubrey Hill, Don Jobes, Debbs Boone, Arthur Henderson, Jack and Buddie Richardson, Aster and Dennis Wallace, Charles Fairchild, Fleming Felps, Sidney Randle, Roland Johnson, and Colonel Watkins.

Coach Wright states that games have been arranged to date as follows: Schreiner Institute, Saturday of this week; Ozona, October 25th; Menard, November 1st; and Mason, November 11th.

Editor for next week, Albert Mayfield.

GAME PROTECTION ASSOCIATION MEMBERS NOTICE.

On account of rain and muddy roads, very few people were in town two weeks ago, when a meeting of the Game Protective Organization of this county was called to meet, it was decided to put off the meeting. If the weather is favorable Saturday of this week so ranchmen can come to town, there will be a meeting at the Court House about 3:30 in the afternoon. All those in terested in this work are requested to be present, as permanent officers will be elected at this time.

ATTENTION, COPPERAS!

Next Sunday, October 5th, is the regular day for preaching at the Methodis church. This will be the last time before the meeting of the Annual Conference, that we will have services. It is very important that every member of the church be there, for in the afternoon we will have a church conference. Every member of the church is a member of this conference. Several members of the Copperas church live in Junction and elsewhere in the county, but even though living a distance from the church, their presence is very much desired at this meeting. Remember, Copperas is where we have preaching all day, and dinner on the ground; so please come and be with us for this delightful occasion.

R. E. Parker, Pastor.

"CHEVON" IS NOW THE NAME FOR GOAT MEAT.

Hereafter, if the efforts of a number of organizations and individuals have the desired effect, goat meat will be designated by a special name which will be comparable to pork, beef and mutton. The name selected by the goat raising interests in the Southwest is "chevon." In reply to the requests for approval of this new name, the United States Department of Agriculture has stated that there seems to be no reason why this name should not be adopted and generally applied to the meat of this domestic animal, and it therefore, approves the name "chevon."

The word "chevon" was created and adopted, after consideration of many suggestions, by organizations representing the principal Angora goat producing regions. It was made by combining parts of two French words, "chevre", meaning goat, and "mouton", meaning mutton. In other words, "chevon" means goat mutton.

Editor's Note—The above article, released some time ago by the Department of Agriculture, is the culmination of efforts put forth by the Goat Raisers of the country, principally under the direction of B. M. Halbert of Sonora, who mailed this copy to a number of local goat men.
