Teacher request tabled

After an hour of discussion Thursday, Snyder public schools trustees tabled a request to provide Career Ladder pay for 21 teachers.

The topic took up the bulk of the meeting, during which the board also approved personnel recommendations and a textbook committee, and nominated a director to the appraisal district board.

Thursday's meeting was the second in which board members have discussed the plight of the 21 teachers, who were left "holding the bag" when the state decided to abolish the Career Ladder program on Aug. 31.

The teachers had completed the necessary requirements for Career Ladder prior to Aug. 31, but technically could not be verified for the program until May of 1994.

In August, the board asked Supt. Dalton Moseley to find out if the board has the option to go ahead and place the 21 teachers on the Career Ladder, or if not, to provide them with some other type raise.

Thursday, Supt. Moseley provided information from several sources which indicated the board cannot place the 21 teachers on the Career Ladder. Further, while the school district can establish a merit pay system of its own, it would have to make the system available to all teachers.

At least one interpretation of the provisions is to "hold harmless" teachers already entitled to Career Ladder. By this interpretation, if any district wishes to begin a Career Ladder type merit system of its own, teachers now receiving Career Ladder supplements must always be kept ahead of other teachers on the pay scale.

"If that's the case, it doesn't affect just 21 teachers, it affects everybody who is on the Career Ladder," said Board President Luann Burleson.

A majority of trustees appear to be willing to provide the $1,500 per-teacher supplement, if it can be limited only to the 21.

"These people were left holding the bag. We (the trustees) didn't do it. It happened in Austin," said Burleson. "I'm all for supplementing them, if we can legally do it without obligating us to include 200 teachers."

Becky Johnson, who spoke on behalf of the local Texas State Teachers Association chapter, said that there are apparently at least three school districts in the state that are providing a system for teachers "caught between qualifying and verifying."

Trustee Charles Anderson said that many schools offer incentives or supplements for bilingual teachers, coaches and others. "I don't see this as that complicated. If other schools are doing it, I don't think it's beyond reason."

Anderson also said "I don't

Bank deposits, loans reflect slight decline

Third-quarter bank deposits in Snyder totaled $184.7 million while loans at the same three financial institutions stood at $83.4 million.

The figures were based on call reports as of Sept. 30 for Snyder National Bank, West Texas State Bank and Snyder Savings and Loan Association. American State Bank and AmWest Savings operate branch banks in Snyder, but do not report individual branch figures.

The combined deposit figure of $184.7 million reflected a decline of $11.6 million when compared to the third quarter of last year. Bankers said shifting of public funds to TexPool accounted for the difference in deposits.

Combined loans of $83.4 million for the third quarter were down $100,000 when compared against the same period in 1992.

Snyder National Bank reported deposits of $81.1 million, a decrease of $4.9 million when compared to the third quarter of 1992, and a drop of $5.9 million when compared to 1993's mid-year.

Deposits at West Texas State Bank were $71.8 million, an increase of $100,000 when compared to mid-year, but a drop of $4.7 million compared to the third quarter of last year.

SS&L's total deposits were $31.8 million, a reduction of $400,000 when compared to June 30, 1993, and third quarter deposits were down $2 million compared to the same time last year.

Loans at Snyder National were $31.2 million, unchanged from the third quarter of 1992, but up $200,000 since mid-year.

West Texas State Bank total loans were $37.4 million, an increase of $2.1 million since mid-year, but a drop of $500,000 when compared to the third quarter of 1992.

Total loans at SS&L were $14.8 million, an increase of $400,000 when compared to last year and last quarter.

Antique sale planned Saturday at museum

Scurry County Museum will host its Depression Era Antiques & Collectables Show from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

The show is being held in conjunction with an exhibit, "Official Images: New Deal Photography," currently on display in the museum.

Local and area businesses and individuals will be participating in Saturday's show and many items will be for sale.

There will be no admission charge, said museum director Shirley Leftwich; however, donations will be appreciated.

The show is one in a series of events which have been held this month to highlight the museum exhibit. On Tuesday, Dr. Jim Palmer, history professor, moderated a panel discussion on the Great Depression. Earlier in the month, visiting Texas Tech University lecturer Dr. Glen Brown offered a historical perspective on the exhibit during a brown bag luncheon.

Upcoming is a showing of "The Grapes of Wrath" from 1-4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 24.

Included in the exhibit are 90 photographs commissioned by the U.S. Government to document the hardships of Americans during the Depression years. The exhibit was organized by the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History. It will be on display through Oct. 31.

Material drawn from the Farm Security Administration, the Civilian Conservation Corps, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Works Progress Administration and the National Youth Administration expand the scope of the exhibit.

Pasture Party slated tonight

Ex-'Pokes to highlight annual chamber event

Ex Dallas Cowboys Bob Lilly and Randy White will highlight tonight's Snyder Chamber of Commerce Pasture Party, which also features a steak dinner, buggy rides and a silent auction.

The event is planned from 6 until 10 p.m. at the Jack Greene residence.

Pasture Party tickets are available for $25 from the chamber, McDonald's, Tan n Tone or any chamber board member.

The Cowboy exes will sign promotional pictures that will be given away, while supplies last, and free buggy rides with the ex-'Pokes' standouts will also be available.

A silent auction will include footballs, jerseys and pictures autographed by Lilly and White.

Lilly won All-America awards his senior year at Texas Christian University and played 14 years with the Cowboys, from 1961 to 1975. During his professional career, he was named to the All-Pro team seven times and played in 11 All-Star games.

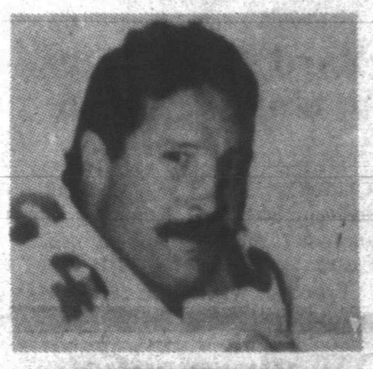

Lilly, a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame since 1980 and the College Football Hall of Fame since 1981, moved to Graham in 1989 from Las Cruces, N.M., where he owned a motel and R.V. park.

Lilly has accomplished an art off of the football field, as he currently sells his landscape photography throughout the southwest.

U.S. seeking ok to search vessels headed for Haiti

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States sought Security Council approval today to stop and search ships for contraband violating an international oil and arms embargo against Haiti's military rulers, a U.S. official said.

The official, briefing reporters on condition of anonymity, said Ambassador Madeleine Albright was pressing for a vote on the resolution later today, a day after the assassination of Haiti's justice minister.

The resolution would authorize the use of "military power," the official said.

The source said the idea was to "up the ante" against Haiti military rulers, who the United Nations has determined have repeatedly violated arrangements for the restoration of democracy and the return of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

The Security Council on Thursday condemned the assassination of Haiti's justice minister, Guy Malary, a member of the transition government working toward Aristide's return, as a "dastardly act."

On Wednesday, the council voted unanimously to reimpose economic sanctions, including oil and arms embargoes and the freezing of the military leaders' overseas assets. They will take effect Monday night unless Haiti's de facto authorities carry out a political settlement and allow a U.N. assistance mission to go forward.

Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali, in a statement issued from Cairo, Egypt, said Thursday: "If those who have perpetrated this crime believe that their actions have weakened the resolve of the international community, they are mistaken."

He said the United Nations and the Organization of American States would redouble their efforts to bring peace and democracy to Haiti.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

The Lovington Daily Leader recently reported a bizarre shoplifting incident at a local discount store.

A store security guard chased a shoplifter out the store's front door and into an awaiting getaway car.

The car sped off with the security guard inside, while another shoplifter was still inside the store being detained by store employees. That shoplifter assaulted one of the store clerks before being subdued.

Meanwhile, the getaway car struck a parked vehicle getting out of the parking lot. The speeding car got some 20 miles down the road before being stopped by sheriff's deputies.

Officers were considering a variety of charges against the fleeing shoplifter — including kidnapping of the security guard.

Dalton Wood, who writes a column in Tahoka's Lynn County News, received a booklet in the mail from the federal government. It was a pamphlet listing government publications that citizens can order.

Wood decided to reprint some of the titles to the self-help publications and he also subtitled each with his own ideas about the topics:

--Nine Ways To Lower Your Auto Insurance Costs. (Sell all nine of your vehicles).

--Help Your Child Improve in Test Taking. (Bribe the teacher to give you the tests in advance).

--Tips for Finding the Right Job. (If Bill doesn't watch it, he may need this one himself).

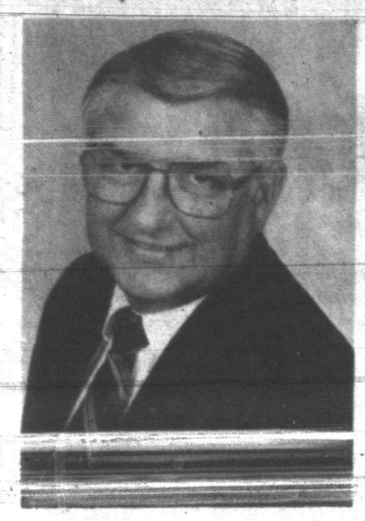

--So You Have High Cholesterol. (Big deal. Everything is higher these days).

--Depression. (This one comes from watching too many TV newscasts.

Robert Orben, in the Wall Street Journal, called it the "familiar boomerang."

"If your grown child is back living with you again, you can bet he decided that living in the fast lane was more of a challenge than life in the free space."

Prosecutors say Reagan Cabinet made 'scapegoats'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran-Contra prosecutors concluded in their final report that top Cabinet officers to President Reagan engaged in a cover-up, plotting to make Oliver North and two national security advisers [illegible] goats whose sacrifice would protect [illegible] ing to sources familiar with the document.

The report lays substantial blame for the cover-up on former Attorney General Edwin Meese, alleging he concocted "a false account" of a November 1985 arms-for-hostages deal with Iran in order to protect Reagan in the scandal's early days, several sources said.

Prosecutors would have considered seeking Meese's indictment after discovering new evidence in 1992, but the statute of limitations had expired, the sources added. They described the new evidence as contemporaneous notes by former White House chief of staff Don Regan.

Iran-Contra prosecutor Lawrence Walsh's report was completed in August but has been sealed by a special panel of federal appellate judges to give those named in it time to submit responses. Reagan's lawyers recently obtained a 60-day extension.

For now, the report is only available to those named in it and their attorneys. A number of sources provided The Associated Press with a description of its contents, including notes from the executive summary.

The sources, who insisted on anonymity, said their notes indicate the final report depicts key officials of the Reagan administration as scrambling to deflect blame from the president and his Cabinet.

"The president's most senior advisers and the Cabinet members on the National Security Council participated in the strategy to [illegible] members (Robert) McFarlane, (John) Poindexter and North the scapegoats whose sacrifice would protect the Reagan administration in its final two years," the notes quote the report as saying.

"In an important sense, this strategy succeeded. Independent counsel discovered much of the best evidence of the cover-up in the final year of active investigation, too late for most prosecutions."

The Cabinet members on the National Security Council were Meese, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, Secretary of State George Shultz and CIA Director William Casey, who died in 1987.

McFarlane pleaded guilty to four misdemeanors for withholding information but was later pardoned by President Bush. Juries convicted McFarlane's successor, Poindexter, of five felonies and North of three, but their convictions were reversed or set aside on appeal.

According to the sources' description and the notes, the report states:

— Regan's notes show that Meese attempted to assemble a false story in November 1986, announcing that the president had not known about a CIA-assisted arms-for-hostages deal with Iran. Administration aides feared that the November 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles was illegal.

— The evidence indicates Meese conducted a "damage control exercise" rather than gathering facts amid the public uproar over the Iran arms sales in November 1986.

— When Meese gave his account to the president and Cabinet, it was not challenged by top officials who knew it to be false, the sources and notes say.

Meese did not return calls to his office here this week.

Jan McCathern chairs committee

Jan McCathern, Western Texas College professor, served the Texas Speech Communication Association this weekend as the chairman of the Speech and Theatre in the Two-Year College Committee. This is her third year to serve on the committee.

Representing all speech professors in Texas community colleges, the committee this year drew up criteria for a community college educator of the year award. The committee also made plans for a membership drive and competitive tournament schedule distribution.

McCathern will coordinate a program on satellite campus communication instruction for next year's convention. She has served on the committee to nominate the nonimating committee as well as serving on several program panels.

Nunn is named coordinator of 17th District

Carl Nunn of Snyder has been selected as United We Stand, America coordinator for the 17th Congressional District of Texas.

Snyderite Rebecca Boyd was chosen district secretary. Other district officers for UWSA were announced as Dewayne Toll of Breckenridge, deputy coordinator, and Eldridge Gray of Big Spring, treasurer.

Congress earmarks $640 million for collider; House fight looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though congressional negotiators have approved $640 million for the super collider, the oft-contested program's future isn't assured.

Foes of the $11 billion atom smasher will mount their latest attack next week when Congress debates the $22 billion conference report that includes the controversial collider money.

And both sides are predicting they'll prevail in the heretofore collider-unfriendly House.

In the midst of a budget-slashing mood earlier this year, the House voted 280-150 to pull the plug on the massive science project under construction near Waxahachie. The project's future was at least temporarily assured when the Senate voted 57-42 to continue funding.

Faced with the contradictory views, House and Senate negotiators sat down Thursday to hammer out a compromise. After much hand-wringing by a few conferees, the negotiators sided with the Senate and approved the full amount sought by the Clinton administration.

That action drew the immediate scorn of opponents, who already were angered that 21 of the 24 conferees are collider supporters.

"The decision of the conferees is an insult to the intelligence and the integrity of the House and to the democratic process," said Rep. Sherwood Boehlert, R-N.Y.

"How can we expect the American people to have any respect for the Congress when a small group of self-serving conferees can ignore the will of the people as expressed by their representatives?"

The criticism was clearly on conferees' minds Thursday.

"We find ourselves in a very awkward position because we like to represent the views of our colleagues in the House," said the conference chairman, Rep. Tom Bevill. But, the Alabama Democrat noted, the Senate's support was at odds with the House's rejection.

"So, we're between a rock and a hard place."

Bevill, who is a collider supporter, offered a motion that would have deleted its funds from the conference report. That motion wasn't acted upon.

In a plea to conferees, Sen. Bennett Johnston argued that the negotiators were pledged to consider the greater good rather than stick to the House position.

"The emotional tide of the moment should not direct this committee and its relationship to science," said Johnston, D-La., who is one of the collider's biggest boosters. "If we don't resist these ebbs of emotion, we'll have a stop-and-start scientific policy."

Following the conference decision both sides pledged to strenuously lobby lawmakers in the days leading up to the House vote, which could come as early as Tuesday.

"We will just be whipping our hearts out" rounding up votes, said Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs, the only Texas conferee.

Sims event set in C-City

COLORADO CITY — State Senator Bill Sims (D-Paint Rock) will be honored at a luncheon set for noon Monday. The event is being sponsored by the Mitchell County Support Group for Bill Sims. It is expected to draw people from across West Texas to say thanks to Sen. Sims for his years of service and dedication.

A spokesman for the group said, "Bill Sims has always been more than willing to donate his time and talent to the needs of our area. This is just a chance to say thank you to Sen. Sims for all he has done and all he will do."

The Senator has served in the Texas Senate since 1983. He currently serves as chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, and is a member of both the Finance and Criminal Justice Committees. Sims also works as the executive secretary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association. He is married to the former Sue Lowe of Sterling City.

All festivities will take place in the Colorado City Civic Center. For more information call Virginia Fuller at 915-728-3781.

Showing 'R' movies stirs controversy

HOUSTON (AP) — The principal of a Houston elementary school says four teachers will be reprimanded for showing an R-rated horror movie to students during a class period scheduled for music or physical education.

Olga Moya, principal of Browning Elementary School on Houston's near north side, said she is "morally outraged" by the incident.

Ms. Moya said she began an investigation after parents complained Wednesday that the movie Leprechaun, which she described as extremely violent, was shown to one second-grade class, two third-grade classes, three fourth-grade classes and two fifth-grade classes over a period of three days.

Disciplinary measures range from a verbal reprimand to dismissal. Two of the teachers under investigation are certified, one is a part-time dance instructor, and the fourth is a substitute.

Ms. Moya said she had not determined why the teachers showed the video.

The principal said she also is investigating reports that a second video, Basket Case, was shown.

"Our curriculum has no room for these kinds of videos," Moya said.

She said the school handbook requires the principal to review videos before they are shown. She said she had been unaware ahead of time that the videos were being shown.

Increase in SS will be lowest in years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 45 million Americans collecting Social Security will get a 2.6 percent cost-of-living increase next year, the second smallest in nearly 20 years.

The Social Security Administration said today the inflation adjustment will average $17 a month, which will boost the typical monthly benefit to $674. The [illegible] received Jan. 3.

It will be the smallest increase since a 1.3 percent advance in 1987, which was the tiniest since benefits first were adjusted for inflation beginning in 1975.

Benefits jumped 14.3 percent in 1980 and 11.2 percent in 1981 when inflation was rampant. But price increases have been restrained in recent years by the struggling economy.

The announcement followed a report by the Labor Department that its Consumer Price Index did not rise at all in September. Benefit adjustments are pegged to increases in the index from the third quarter of one year to the same quarter of the next.

While benefiting from low inflation, many retirees are being squeezed by lost income from current low interest rates, said Robert J. Myers, who retired in 1970 after 22 years as chief actuary for the Social Security Administration.

Myers, now a Washington-based consultant for William M. Mercer Inc., a Louisville publisher of Social Security materials, noted, for instance, that many bank certificates of deposit now pay yields of about 3 percent, compared to more than 9 percent several years ago.

Myers said the increase "is better than nothing. It'll keep up with price increases, but incomes are dropping."

Since 1975, benefits have risen automatically each year, keeping pace with the annual inflation rate, except for a six-month period in 1983 that was skipped to help the Social Security system out of a crisis.

Social Security recipients received a 3 percent inflation adjustment this year.

The CPI report also affects Supplemental Security Income, the [illegible] program that provides a minimum income for people who are aged, blind or disabled.

SSI payments also will increase by 2.6 percent, boosting the maximum monthly benefit for individuals to $446 from $434 and for couples to $669 from $652. The increase will show up in payments received Dec. 30. SSI payments had risen 3 percent this year.

The maximum earnings subject to Social Security and Medicare taxes also will increase, although the 7.65 percent rate will not change.

The earnings base will be raised from $57,600 to $60,600 for the 6.20 percent Social Security portion of the tax. There will be no ceiling on earnings subject to the remaining 1.45 percent tax that finances Medicare.

The Social Security Administration gave these examples of how the 2.6 percent increase will affect average monthly benefits:

—Aged couple, both getting benefits, up $29 to $1,140.

—Widowed mother and two children, up $34 to $1,316.

—Aged widow or widower, living alone, up $16 to $631.

—Disabled worker, spouse and children, up $28 to $1,092.

—All disabled workers, up $16 to $641.

The tax rate was 1 percent, up to a maximum of $3,000 in earnings, from the time Social Security started in 1937 until 1950.

Old Ties of Blood Bind Donor to His Inspiration

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere there is a man (probably in his mid-50s, perhaps still living in Portland, Ore.) who has no idea of the impact he made on me and 137 people who have a pint of our blood.

My father dropped me off at the Red Cross Center to donate blood when I was 20 years old. When I got inside, I remembered that I needed a parent's signature on a release. Too late — Dad had already driven off.

When a young Red Cross employee learned that I was willing, but unable, to donate blood without a parent's signature, he put me in his own car (a 1962 Chevy Impala) and drove me home to have my mother sign the release. His actions — more than anything he could have expressed in words — let me know just how valued each pint of blood is.

Thank you, sir. It's been almost 30 years, but I think about you every eight weeks. I began my 18th gallon two days ago.

KENNETH DALE,
WEST LINN, ORE.

DEAR KENNETH DALE: Hooray for you! And thanks for a reminder to everyone who reads this.

Readers, there are some guidelines regarding who may donate blood. A donor must be 17 years of age (some states require a physician's permission if you are under 19) and weigh a minimum of 110 pounds.

The Red Cross takes a personal history when you come in. A doctor's consent statement is not necessary; however, if you're over 65, some states require a physician's permission. The maximum that can be given in one session is one unit — or roughly one pint. After that, donors must wait 56 days before giving another.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: As a waitress, I see many parents who do not seem to have any control, and children who seem to have no manners or respect. Parents sit there while their children are just plain rude to the waiter/waitress and let their children run wild through the restaurant.

Once, I was told by a parent whose 3-year-old nearly knocked me over, "When you're a parent, you just don't care what your kids are doing because you are so worn out [illegible] over.) I wanted to tell her in that case she should have left her kids at home.

I just hope that one day soon parents will go back to some of the "old ways." Children need to learn to say "Please" and "Thank you," "Yes, sir" and "No, sir," etc. You do not hear that anymore.

Kids do not tell their parents where they are going or about what time they will be home. I am only 25 years old — however, I always told my mother where I was going and about what time I would be home. And if I went somewhere else or was going to be late, I would call her. I still do it, and not because I have to, but because I respect her and do not want her to worry. My grandmother is in her late 70s, and if something were to happen to her and no one could find me to let me know, because I had to be so independent and/or disrespectful, that would destroy me.

Children need to be taught all of these things early in life or, when they are 16 or 17 and uncontrollable, parents will go around asking, "Where did I go wrong? We gave him/her everything, and never [illegible]

Society needs to wake up and [illegible] the way they were, the way they are, and where we are headed. If you think things are bad now — wait until these children who weren't taught respect and discipline start running things!

T.H., SMYRNA, DEL.

DEAR T.H.: I agree. Children need to be taught respect and discipline. Too many parents are failing in this regard. And above all, children need to learn right from wrong and live by those rules. They are not new — they were given to Moses on Mount Sinai. They are the Ten Commandments.

GOP leader has been nice to Clinton

By Jill Lawrence
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — No one's been nicer to Bill Clinton lately than Bob Dole. Maybe it's got something to do with the mood reflected on a new T-shirt sold near the White House: "Bob Dole, Shut Up and Sit Down."

For months the Senate Republican leader took his troops into battle against Clinton. But these days he's behaving more like the Democratic president's right-hand man than the nemesis he used to be.

Could this be the launch of Dole's 1996 presidential campaign?

If there's any doubt, consider this: He's one of three senators appearing soon in an episode of "Murphy Brown" — the popular CBS comedy that Dan Quayle last year branded an example of declining moral values. That tactic backfired on Quayle; this one can only soften Dole's image and raise his profile.

Dole's been the bane of the Clinton administration for most of this year. He led his party's successful effort to kill Clinton's jobs bill, did his best to block the president's budget and national service bills and lambasted the administration for its Bosnia policy and for what he characterized as indecisiveness in general.

But in recent days, as Republicans and some Democrats passionately denounced Clinton's Somalia policy, Dole was urging bipartisan support for the administration and working closely with Democratic leaders.

"I think we ought to give the president the flexibility he needs," said Dole.

The Kansas Republican has said he'll work with Clinton on health and crime bills. He's also been out pitching the administration-backed North American Free Trade Agreement with Canada and Mexico.

"This ought to be a slam dunk," Dole told reporters Wednesday. "I think a lot of Americans don't fully understand it."

Plenty of Republicans in Congress and elsewhere remain unflagging Clinton critics, including some who want the White House. At least for the moment, Dole is on a different path.

"He doesn't want to come off as Dr. No. It hurts on Capitol Hill, it hurts back home, it hurts nationally," said analyst Stuart Rothenberg, a political newsletter publisher.

Dole hinted at that sensibility last week on the Senate floor while defending Democratic Sen. Bob Kerrey against a campus Republican group's charges of treason and betrayal. "This goes beyond the pale," Dole said of the attack, keyed to Kerrey's reluctant yes vote on the Clinton budget.

He went on to say he'd been the victim of a similarly unfair attack in a Rolling Stone article written by former Sen. Alan Cranston. The California Democrat described Dole as a combative partisan with "an almost Pavlovian predilection for gridlock."

"Nobody jumped up in my defense, but I thought it was beyond the pale too," said the aggrieved minority leader.

Dole's newly conciliatory tone could be the result of traditionally Republican and bipartisan issues now moving to the fore — among them crime, free trade and foreign policy.

But the lion-into-lamb routine can also be viewed through a political lens. Dole's made no bones about his interest in a 1996 White House race and already has made several forays to New Hampshire, site of the first primary. No one counts him out, though he'll be 73 then.

Woman to serve 15 years before she can be paroled

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dolores Markee, sentenced to 58 years in prison for the Jan. 6 murder of her former husband, must serve 15 years before being eligible for parole.

The 31-year-old woman said she killed George Paouris because he was molesting their 5-year-old daughter. Jurors, who deliberated for 90 minutes, said later they did not believe Ms. Markee's claim, The San Antonio-Express News said Thursday.

District Court Judge Mary Roman read the jury's verdict Thursday and then formally sentenced Ms. Markee to 58 years in prison. Ms. Markee bowed her head when the verdict was read in the 175th District Court.

Paouris' widow, Terri, said she was happy with the verdict.

"I am disappointed the system didn't care as much about him when he was alive as they did in prosecuting the person who killed him," she said. "I hope the people realize he loved his daughter, and he didn't do anything to her."

Defense attorney Eddie Garcia urged the jury to sentence Ms. Markee to 10 years probation. Probation was never a consideration the jurors said.

Prosecutors Tina Tussay and Robert Barrera had asked that Ms. Markee be sentenced to prison for 60 to 99 years, while defense attorney Eddie Garcia sought probation.

Tussay told the jury Ms. Markee should receive "a life sentence for the life that she took."

"She planned and schemed the murder before she went and killed him," Barrera said. "She was using the child as a tool to destroy this man she hated."

Paouris was shot 10 times (seven in the groin area) outside his San Antonio home by Ms. Markee with a semiautomatic pistol she had bought the day before.

"The kids will have an opportunity to grow up without her influence," Barrera said.

The most damaging testimony came from Ms. Markee's 11-year-old son from her first marriage, Tussay said.

The boy testified his mother asked him in October 1992 if he would forgive her if she killed Paouris. The boy said he would. Paouris was killed three months later.

"It was very moving testimony, and the boy had to go through a struggle to testify against his mother," Tussay said.

The District Attorney's Office, following a complaint by Ms. Markee, had obtained an indictment against Paouris on a charge of sexual abuse of their daughter. Prosecutors later dropped the charge because of insufficient evidence.

"My client was vindicated, and I'm glad," said attorney Shirley Ehrlich.

The secret tells the whole story

By Phillip Alder

As the songwriter said: "What a difference a dummy makes. Just 13 little cards." But sometimes it can be vital which hand is the dummy's. Maybe if North plays the contract, there is an immediate lead through an unprotected king; whereas, with South the declarer, the king — and the contract — are safe from attack.

Another possibility is highlighted in today's deal. It occurred during the first round of the Women's Teams at the Generali Common Market Championships, held last April in the Algarve region of Portugal.

Sandra Landy, representing Great Britain, received the annoying heart lead against six spades. To find a parking place for her heart loser, she could play West for the diamond king or East for the club queen. But a wrong guess would spell instant failure.

After winning with the heart ace and drawing trumps ending in hand, Landy advanced the diamond jack. When West played low smoothly, Landy judged that West didn't have the king. If she did, surely she would have covered. So Landy called for dummy's ace and played a club to her jack. Success!

In the other room, the contract was played by North. East led the heart king, of course, and the Israeli North had the same problem. But when she led the diamond jack, she didn't learn anything. West was never going to cover, being able to see the jack and 10 in the dummy. Declarer finessed the diamond jack and went one down.

Off to a flying start, Britain went on to take the title.

Bulldogs host BC in highlight game

The meeting of a pair of preseason playoff selections highlights this week's District 6 six-man football slate.

Ira, carrying a disappointing 0-6 mark after being decimated by early-season injuries, and a young Borden County team, 2-4, will meet tonight at 7:30 at Bulldogs Stadium.

The Bulldogs lost their loop opener to Highland last week, 62-28, after leading, 14-12 at the half.

Returning to the lineup for Ira were Coy Henderson and Travis Collom, both of whom drew praise from IHS coach Darren Janssen following last week's loss.

"They both had an outstanding game," Janssen said. "They just weren't ready to go out and play a full four quarters after being off like that.

"They worked their tails off, they just gave out. Travis stuffed everything at the line of scrimmage in the first half. They only had 60 yards of offense in the first half, but the short halftime was not enough for him to recover."

Borden County, defending district champion, was a 38-22 winner over Hermleigh a week ago.

Trent at Highland, 7:30 p.m.
Hermleigh at Loraine, 7:30 p.m.

Other district games slated for tonight include Hermleigh at Loraine and Trent at Highland.

Borden County (2-4, 1-0) at Ira (0-6, 0-1)

The Bulldogs were a preseason pick to make the playoffs, but right now they just need a win.

The going could be tough against the Coyotes, who started the year young, but have matured with each game.

Running back-DB Henderson and two-way lineman Collom should be even better this week and Ira quarterback Scott Strong, who had a 3-yard TD pass a week ago, and RB Tom Sanchez are getting better every game.

The Coyotes are led by quarterback Cody Cox, who is just three weeks removed from a five touchdown game against Loop.

Hermleigh (1-5, 0-1) at Loraine (3-3, 1-0)

The Cardinals are also showing signs of coming around, offensively.

Hermleigh's defense, however, will be challenged this week by Loraine's high octane offensive unit that scored 77 points in last week's win over Trent.

The Bulldogs are led by running back Arthur Garcia, who rushed for over 2,000 yards and 32 touchdowns last season.

Trent (1-5, 0-1) at Highland (5-1, 1-0)

This is the week's mismatch.

After having problems in Hornet country for the last few years, things appear headed in the right direction for Highland fans.

The Hornets are 5-1 and started the district chase with an impressive 382-yard outing against Ira a week past.

The undisputed team leader is running back Toby Harbuck, who scored four times, including once on a 60-yard kickoff return, against IHS.

Trent has struggled with numbers this season and started the district slate with last Friday's 77-45 loss to Loraine.

Tigers set to tangle with EHS

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

So, coach David Baugh, which of Estacado's squads causes you the most concern?

"Wow," the Snyder head grid coach said, before breaking into a grin, "I guess you can just pick your poison.

"Offensively, they have the threat to break a long run at any time. What scares me defensively is they get an awful lot of people at the line, send a lot of people hard, and pressure the quarterback so you can't pass."

That's what the Tigers have to deal with when they square off against the Matadors Saturday at 2 p.m. at Lubbock's Lowrey Field in a District 2-4A matchup.

"Since I've been here," added Baugh, "we've played them well, even when they've beat us. We haven't let them intimidate us. Some teams get intimidated when they play Estacado. But we've got a chance to upset them."

The Estacado offense is ground-oriented, to say the least.

"They're a powerful running team," Baugh reported. "They've only passed for 135 yards this season. They've gained over 1,800 yards rushing."

Leading the attack is senior tailback Talion Scott, a 5-6, 160-pounder with 4.5 speed, who has picked up over 960 yards in the Matadors' first six games, including a 260-yard effort in last week's 48-0 victory in Lamesa.

"Lamesa played them close in the first half last week," Baugh said, "but Estacado scored four touchdowns in the first seven offensive plays in the second half. They play sound fundamental football and they have the size and the quickness to do that."

The Matadors have only one two-way starter, TE-DE LeBrandon Mann, making them the deepest team the Tigers have faced to date.

"They have a lot of depth," Baugh said, attributing the quality of the EHS players to the closing of Dunbar High School in Lubbock last year.

"Estacado was on line to have a down year," the Snyder coach stated. "Everybody played them real close in the JV schedule last year, and they lost a lot of kids.

"But Dunbar closed and all those kids went to Estacado, and they're as good as they've ever been.

The Matadors returned just three offensive and two defensive starters from last season's Class 4A state semifinal team, but 280-pound offensive lineman Carl Johnson, 215-pound guard Kendric Turner and speedy cornerback Dakari Lenear came from Dunbar to keep Estacado among the area's elite 4A clubs.

"They are a real solid group on defense," Baugh said. "They have outstanding cover people. We've been working on some things to try to confuse their man coverage, but they're real good and real fast."

Defensive standouts for Estacado include left defensive end Andre Lang and a trio of fleet linebackers.

[illegible] has already forced changes in the Tiger offensive strategy.

"He's a good football player," Baugh reported. "He's a big, tall kid. I don't think we can consistently line up in a right formation and run the ball.

"Right now, he's forcing us to run away from him."

Linebackers Darrick Hamilton (6-0, 170), DeShawn Griggs (6-0, 175), and Dondale Turner (6-0, 165), are an active crew, that, according to Baugh, will stunt and apply pressure to the passing game.

The Tigers welcome a pair of players back from the injured list. Greg McAden will make his first start of the season at left corner for SHS, and Derek Freeman, back from a three-game layoff after a knee injury, will back up Robert Nin at DT.

Nin draws the start this week after the Tigers lost Oliver Vasquez to knee problems against Levelland.

Bucky Williams, starting tackle for the Tiger offense, will miss the Estacado game, as well, after hurting a knee and ankle last week. He will be replaced by Seth Knox, up from the SHS JV.

SHS spikers battle defending champs

The Snyder Lady Tigers will take on their nemesis, three-time defending district champion Lamesa Saturday on the Lady Tors' home floor.

Snyder, 10-14 on the year and 1-1 in 2-4A matches, has gone to the playoffs in each of its three seasons in District 2-4A, but has never beaten Lamesa in that time.

However, the champs may have some chinks in their armor, and Snyder is coming off a big win over Estacado on Tuesday.

The Lady Tigers used a hard-hitting offensive attack to hand the Lady Matadors a lop-sided 15-3, 15-2 loss.

"On offense, we played just great. That's one area we've been working on," Snyder coach Patty Grimmett said. "We've been concentrating on converting hits to offense, and we did a good job of that against Estacado.

"We also did a good job on defense. We pulled together and played well together and we never let up, which is exactly what we wanted. Now we feel like we're ready for Lamesa."

The Lady Tigers' service game burned EHS for nine aces, including two each by Bianca Rocha, Misty Roquemore, Sterling Cave and Trisha McGrew, and one by Kristi McClure.

Cave led the team with eight points from the line. McClure and Rocha each had six, Roquemore finished with four, McGrew wound up with three, C'Ella Clayton hit two and Jodi White contributed one.

Hitters Kristen Kallemeyn and Lindsey Griffin also came up big against the Lady Matadors. Kallemeyn slammed 12 kills and Griffin added eight.

Lamesa is 11-7 on the campaign after a rough three-game 11-15, 15-8, 15-13 win over Levelland Tuesday. The Lady Tors also had problems in their first loop outing, a 15-10, 15-13 win over Estacado.

Action begins in Lamesa with the freshman match at 1 p.m. followed by the JV tilt and the varsity battle.

Sanders leads Falcons to first win

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons found the motivation they needed to snap a seven-game losing streak.

"He brought a spark," rookie Darnell Walker of Oklahoma said of Deion Sanders. "Just playing with him is a motivator. I made a couple of plays, but he encouraged me, along with everybody else on the team."

Walker intercepted two passes to set up two touchdowns and forced a fumble that led to a field goal as the Falcons beat the Los Angeles Rams 30-24 Thursday night. Sanders showed up less than 24 hours after his baseball season with the Atlanta Braves came to an end.

"I'm so tired I don't know what to do," said Sanders, who struck out in a pinch-hitting role in Philadelphia Wednesday night when the Phillies captured the NL title by beating the Braves.

"The Braves have a lot of leaders and guys to lift their team," Sanders said. "Over here, I feel a part of this team inside me. I went to a practice weeks ago and I thought everyone had died. Tonight we livened things up. It was not a great performance, but just to be here and get everyone excited made me feel good."

Billy Joe Tolliver passed for 213 yards and three touchdowns, 21 and 42 yards to Andre Rison and 3 yards to rookie David Mims. The 42-yarder came with 4:40 remaining, a high floater that Rison went up for in the end zone to give the Falcons (1-5) a 27-24 lead.

Walker's 7-yard interception return to the Atlanta 41 set up the go-ahead score, and his interception on the Rams 23 in the third quarter set up the TD pass to Mims.

Norm Johnson added field goals of 28, 32 and 34 yards for Atlanta, the last coming after Walker forced a fumble on the kickoff after the Falcons took the lead. Melvin Jenkins recovered the fumble.

Jim Everett passed for 294 yards, much of it coming on a pair of long scoring plays — 56 yards to Willie Anderson on the opening drive of the game and 60 yards to Cleveland Gary, breaking a 17-17 tie in the third quarter.

"It was a very tough loss," Gary said. "They had a lot of intensity to win and we just came up short."

Golfers face Plainview, Frenship

Coach Bob O'Day's Snyder High School boys' golf team will travel to Plainview Saturday for a three-way practice match against the host Bulldogs and Frenship, both District 2-4A opponents.

The Tigers are coming off a second-place finish to Class 5A San Angelo Central a week ago, shooting a team total 329.

"We just need to play more consistently and stay away from bad holes and double-bogeys," said O'Day. "This will come with tournament experience. That's why we're playing a fall practice schedule."

Action begins at 9 a.m. at Plainview Country Club.

Estacado hands SHS JV grid loss

Snyder's junior varsity Tigers fell to Estacado in a Thursday football game at Tiger Stadium, 22-0.

The Tigers will visit Plainview Oct. 21 for a 7 p.m. matchup with the Bulldogs.

C-C runners travel to Big Spring

Snyder cross-country runners will compete in a 4x1-mile competition at the old Webb Air Force Golf Course in Big Spring Saturday.

The SHS runners' last outing was at the Lubbock Invitational Meet Oct. 9.

"I was really pleased with everyone's performance," said SHS coach Sammie Harrison of the Lubbock gathering. "This course was the toughest we'll see all year, as well as having the largest field, about 1,200 runners."

Melchor Parra led the Snyder boys with a 3-mile 17:28 clocking, followed by teammate Michael McQuerry's 17:43 and a 19:12 by Jesus Parra.

Jamie Prather, the lone girls' competitor for SHS, turned in a 13:32 time in the 2-mile run.

Saturday's action in Big Spring begins at 9 a.m.

Netters face Plainview in District 2-4A finale

Snyder winds up the regular season with a Saturday team tennis match against district leader Plainview on the Bulldogs' home court.

The Tigers carry a 5-6 overall mark and a 3-1 record in district play, including last week's 16-2 lambasting of Estacado.

The Tigers' boys'team swept Estacado, winning all six singles matches and all three doubles contests.

In all nine matches, Snyder allowed the Matadors only three sets.

Winners for SHS included No. 1 singles player Tracey Chavez, who escaped with a 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 three-set decision over EHS top seed Jacob Guzman, No. 2 Cameron Taylor, who ripped Xavier Garcia, 6-2, 6-0, and Kevin Jones, who had no mercy on Estacado's Fred Boyd, taking a 6-0, 6-1 victory.

Chavez and Taylor outlasted Guzman and Boyd in the top doubles match, 6-7 (7-2), 6-4, 6-2.

Snyder's girls, who won five of six in singles and two of three in doubles, were led by Christina Gonzales, a 6-4, 6-2 winner over Becky Marunez in the No. 1 singles match.

Mendy Winter pasted Veronica Nunez of EHS, 6-4, 6-1, and Katie Thornton downed Estacado's Brandi Drake, 6-3, 6-2.

Plainview is unbeaten in four district matches, highlighted by last week's 10-8 victory over defending district champion Levelland.

A win by the Tigers would leave SHS, Plainview and, depending on the outcome of Saturday's matches, Levelland in a tie for first place.

The top two teams in the district will advance to the Region 1 tournament Oct. 29-30.

SHS freshmen A team tramples AHS White

Snyder's freshmen football team was split for a pair of games Thursday night.

Snyder A whipped Abilene High's White team, 33-14, while the SHS B team, slated to play Roscoe's frosh, lost to the Plowboys' JV, 61-0.

The A team was led by running back L.S. McClain, who accounted for a pair of TD runs, and Tywayne Rivers, who added a touchdown.

Snyder's freshmen are slated to be split again Thursday, Oct. 21. The A squad will visit San Angelo Glenn for a 5:30 p.m. game, while the B team faces Sweetwater here at 7:30 p.m.

7th graders fall to Clack

ABILENE — Abilene Clack handed Snyder's seventh grade football teams a pair of losses Thursday, winning the A game, 34-0, and handing Snyder B its first defeat of the season, 20-8.

The SJHS A team's Big hit Award went to Rad Eicke. Others cited for outstanding effort were RB Juan Arizmendi and LB Toby Zalman.

Snyder A is 1-4 on the year.

The B team from Snyder, 4-1, was led by Cheyenne Robinson, who threw a 25-yard scoring toss to Jason Fisk, then added the 2-point conversion.

Other standouts for Snyder included LB Adam Sosa and DE Banks Alexander.

Snyder's seventh graders host Big Spring Thursday, Oct. 21.

Montana to start

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Joe Montana and his coach ended the suspense. Montana will start in San Diego on Sunday.

In practice Thursday, Montana took most of the snaps and had no trouble with his mobility.

A team ties Clack, 6-all

Nathan Jones scored on a 10-yard run to lift Snyder's eighth grade A team to a 6-6 tie with Abilene Clack in junior high football action Thursday at Travis Field.

The A team, 2-2-1, was led on defense by Kyle Beck and Chris Thomas.

Snyder's B squad fell to Clack in Thursday's early game, 26-22.

Jeremy Fudge rushed for 112 yards and a TD for the Tigers, and Ben Boyd added a score and a 70-yard rushing effort.

Curtis Clay, who accounted for 34 receiving yards, chipped in a pair of 2-point conversions, and Thomas Simmons returned an interception 20 yards for a TD.

Ex-aides convicted

AUSTIN (AP) — Federal prosecutors say the convictions of three former leaders of the Texas Department of Agriculture on conspiracy charges may lead to further inquiries.

A federal jury deliberated nearly two days before finding three former top aides to former Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower guilty Thursday of conspiring to steal public money to pay for political fund-raising.

Mike Moeller, Peter McRae and Billie Quicksall had been charged with conspiring to commit bribery and using about $173,000 in public money to hire political fund-raisers.

Moeller was found guilty on seven counts, Quicksall was found guilty on four counts and innocent on two other counts. McRae was found guilty on five counts.

The three showed no emotion when the verdict was read. Sentencing was scheduled for Nov. 19. They likely will face about four years in prison, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Dan Mills.

Hightower, a Democrat, who suffered a bitter loss in 1990 against Republican Rick Perry in a bid for re-election, has not been charged with wrongdoing.

"At this point and time there was no evidence to show Mr. Hightower did anything wrong," Mills said. "But who knows, that may change after this verdict. Certain people may be willing to cooperate with the government and come up with some more information.

"If Mike Moeller and these men get sentenced, they may decide there is more information that has not come out," Mills said.

Jan Patterson, Hightower's attorney, said Thursday, "They have been investigating this case for some time, there is no evidence against Mr. Hightower because there is no wrongdoing."

Mills said the government has until 1995 to investigate the case before the statute of limitations takes effect.

Moeller's attorney, William Allison, said, "That's all they have ever wanted is charges against Hightower. That's been a standing offer for three years. There is just nothing to give them."

Hightower did not testify in the trial that lasted nearly a month.

"I am surprised and disappointed by the verdict and my heart goes out to these families," Hightower said in a statement. "But I have great confidence in the American court system, and I believe they will be vindicated on appeal."

The defendants avoided reporters when leaving the courthouse.

Allison said Moeller "was absolutely innocent."

The defendants had denied any wrongdoing, saying the 31/2-year-old case against them was politically motivated.

Federal prosecutors had argued that Hightower's top lieutenants used fraudulent invoices to get money out of the Texas comptroller's office to pay two consultants for political fund-raising efforts.

"We are satisfied with the verdict," said prosecutor Gerald Carruth. "We hope this verdict sends a message that misapplication of public funds will not be tolerated."

Defense attorneys said the two consultants — Bob Boyd and Russell Koontz — were hired because the Texas Department of Agriculture under Hightower, a Democrat, was in disarray and lacked expertise in basic agricultural knowledge.

McRae's attorney, Gerry Morris, told jurors the invoices were sloppy and vague but legitimate.

Morris denied that the invoices were used to raise money in 1988 for Moeller, who considered a run for agriculture commissioner, and in 1990 for Hightower's unsuccessful bid for a third term against Perry.

Defense lawyers said that while Boyd and Koontz, both retired, longtime employees of the agency, produced work for their consulting contracts, the men also solicited campaign contributions unbeknownst to state leaders.

Boyd and Koontz weren't tried because they are suffering from ill health.

Mandela, de Klerk win Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Nelson Mandela and F.W. de Klerk won the Nobel Peace Prize today for working "to peacefully end apartheid" and push South Africa toward democracy.

"By looking ahead to South African reconciliation, instead of back at the deep wounds of the past, they have shown personal integrity and great political courage," the Norwegian Nobel Committee said in awarding the $825,000 prize.

Committee chairman Francis Sejersted said he hoped the award would lead to less violence in South Africa, where daily bloodshed has taken thousands of lives.

He acknowledged that some people may not consider de Klerk and Mandela men of peace.

De Klerk, 57, descended from Afrikaners, changed the course of history when he became president in August 1989. He immediately began dismantling the apartheid laws of race division and white privilege and offered the majority blacks a role in governing their country.

"White domination will have to disappear. Otherwise, there will never be peace in South Africa," de Klerk said during his first days in office.

Today, he said he accepted the award "with great humility" and predicted it would serve as an inspiration.

Mandela, 75, said in London earlier this week that if he and de Klerk won the prize, "it would be [illegible] the government and the ANC to [illegible] to democracy."

The Johannesburg headquarters of the ANC erupted in cheering and dancing when party members saw the announcement on television.

Some ANC supporters, protesting outside a courthouse where two white men were just convicted of murdering ANC leader Chris Hani, objected to de Klerk's sharing the prize with Mandela.

But Desmond Tutu, the Anglican archbishop of Cape Town who won the peace prize in 1984, said the joint award was appropriate.

'I hope that it will work to weld [illegible] as a people, to say that here are two leaders from two opposite sides of the racial and political spectrum who have tried to work together for the end of this vicious system, and that therefore, we, too, as a people should stand together," he told Norwegian radio.

Obituaries

Colon M. Jones

1925-1993

EDMOND, Okla. — Services are set for 10 a.m. Monday in the Cathedral of the Hill Chapel for former Snyder resident Colon Marie Jones. Burial will be in Edmond's Cemetery under the direction of Baggerly-Primrose Funeral Home.

Mrs. Jones, 68, died today in her home following a lengthy illness.

She was the sister of Sarah Hill and Buna McCright, and aunt of Tincie Higgins, all of Snyder.

Born Jan. 8, 1924, in Fluvanna, she graduated from Snyder High School and worked for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. during the 1950s. She married Lloyd Jones in 1950 in Fort Worth. He survives.

Her parents, H.M. and Leela Higgins, and one brother, Thurman Higgins, preceded her in death.

Other survivors include three daughters, Donna Sowers of Ft. Myers, Fla., Nancy London of Nashville, Tenn., and Debbi Marquate of Tulsa, Okla.; one son, Gary Jones of Dallas; and 12 grandchildren.

Freed pilot arrives in Germany

LANDSTUHL, Germany (AP) — Clutching his red beret and giving the thumbs-up sign, freed American pilot Michael Durant arrived today from Somalia and was greeted by a cheering crowd waving U.S. flags.

Strapped to a stretcher, Durant smiled as he was taken off a C-141 Starlifter en route to a military hospital for treatment of injuries he suffered during 11 days in captivity. A fellow serviceman held an umbrella over the stretcher as some 250 to 300 people greeted him on a gray, rainy day.

Durant woke in Mogadishu "in excellent spirits" after surgery Thursday on his broken leg and has every chance of fully recovering from a broken back and broken cheekbone, an army doctor said.

Somali militia leader Gen. Mohamed Farrah Aidid released Durant on Thursday in a move that enhanced Aidid's political stature.

Today, the 32-year-old pilot from Berlin, N.H., was flown in a Blackhawk helicopter to the Mogadishu airport and carried onto the plane for the 10-hour flight to Ramstein air base, near Frankfurt.

His next destination was the U.S. army hospital at nearby Landstuhl, where his wife, Lorrie, was waiting.

The release paralleled President Clinton's shift from military force to diplomacy in Somalia after the Oct. 3 battle in which Durant was captured.

Senate oks Clinton's timetable for withdrawal from Somalia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today endorsed President Clinton's March 31 withdrawal date of U.S. troops from Somalia as the administration averted a major foreign policy defeat.

In exchange for the Senate support, Clinton consented to demands that all payments for the operation end on the president's pullout date — a dictate that emerged from the congressional outcry over the military's continued role in the East African nation.

The vote was 76-23 in the early morning hours and marked the first time the Senate had voted to limit funds for armed conflict since June 1973, when Congress agreed to a cutoff of money for all combat activities in Cambodia, Laos and North and South Vietnam.

That vote came about 16 years after the first U.S. advisers arrived in Southeast Asia, and Congress' role in deciding the fate of American troops was uppermost in lawmakers' minds.

Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., who spent more than six years in a Vietnamese prison camp, brought silence to the Senate chamber when he asked his colleagues what would happen if Americans die within the next six months.

"On whose hands rest the blood of American troops? Ask yourself this question," the senator said.

The death of 18 Americans and wounding of more than 70 others during an Oct. 3 firefight in Somalia spurred demands in Congress for the immediate withdrawal of American troops.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said lawmakers had "blood on their hands" when they did the right thing in approving the use of American troops in the Persian Gulf War.

At that time, Dole said he supported President Bush, and despite scoldings from some of his Republican colleagues, he was backing a Democratic president on Somalia.

"I supported my president ... and I do the same tonight," Dole said.

The vote came after more than five hours of debate, and two days of negotiations involving Clinton, Senate leaders and Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the chief critic of the president's policy who had pushed for an earlier withdrawal date of Feb. 1.

Passage of the compromise amendment came after the Senate rejected a measure by several Republicans — except Dole — that would force an immediate withdrawal by limiting funds only to the expense of pulling out troops and ensuring their protection.

The amendment failed 61-38, with 10 Democrats and 28 Republicans voting for it.

As they did during the Persian Gulf War vote, senators sat in their chairs and cast their vote. Watching the proceedings from the visitors' gallery was Mary Ellen Durant, the sister of the American pilot, Michael Durant, who was released by the Somalis Thursday after nearly two weeks in captivity.

The 31-year-old women from Hyattsville, Md., disagreed with the Senate's action.

Police note seven arrests

Snyder police arrested five people early today and one Thursday evening.

Officers arrested 34-year-old Edward Carl Phillips for possession of cocaine and no liability insurance at 12:51 a.m. today in the 3000 block of Avenue D.

At 1:14 a.m., officers arrested a 29-year-old man in the 1300 block of 25th Street for public intoxication.

Police were called to a domestic disturbance in the 1205 block of 29th Street at 5:57 a.m. today, where they arrested a 30-year-old man for assault/family violence.

At 12:33 this morning, police stopped a vehicle in the 2800 block of Avenue B and arrested a 41-year-old man for no Texas driver's license, no liability insurance and operating an unregistered motor vehicle. Also arrested was a 30-year-old man for public intoxication and allowing an unlicensed driver to drive.

At 10 p.m. Thursday, police arrested a 47-year-old man in the 1800 block of 15th Street for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated.

Tim Atwood contacted police at 11:37 a.m. Thursday in reference to someone taking the license plates from a vehicle. A report for Class B theft was filed.

At 10:46 a.m. Thursday, officers worked a hit-and-run in the 2300 block of Avenue J. An unknown vehicle struck a fence post owned by Juan Dominguez of 2107 Ave. M.

In one other report, Austin PD notified police that they had recovered a 1989 Oldsmobile reported stolen on Oct. 10 by Amy Holms of Snyder.

think we have enough information. We need to see what other schools are doing. I say we table this tonight because I'm not prepared to act on it."

More information will be gathered on the subject, and it will be brought back to the board at a later date.

Two years ago, the board agreed to place librarians on the Career Ladder. It has since been discovered, however, that this payment is not eligible for Teacher Retirement System purposes. On Thursday, the board voted to convert the librarians' Career Ladder supplement to TRS "eligible" salary.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of district diagnostician Mary Inez Brownlee, and approved the employment of Mary Ann Juarez as Chapter I home/school liaison. The position, a new one within the district, will be paid for out of federal funds.

Wendell Sollis, principal of Snyder Junior high, gave the campus report. The board also nominated Harold Lacik for election to the Scurry County Appraisal District board, approved athletic equipment bids, the purchase of outstanding taxes from CED 11, bills and previous minutes.

All board members were present, to include Burleson, Anderson, Mark McCormick, Geraldine Parker, Glenn Clarady, Janet Stribling and Terry Martin.

Writers sign card catalogs

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The card catalog is going the way of the quill pen and inkwell at most libraries. But authors like Kurt Vonnegut are making sure one such collection will be cherished after the computer chip takes over.

Vonnegut, Woody Allen and Margaret Truman are among nearly 300 authors who have autographed cards for their works for the Kent State University library.

Kent State asked more than 300 writers to autograph the outdated cards as the library's filing system was put on computer.

The autographed cards are being encased in clear paperweights and will be auctioned Oct. 23 as part of the 25th anniversary of the library's special collections branch.

Poet X.J. Kennedy sketched himself nude on a staircase on a card of his work "Nude Descending a Staircase."

Columbia's launch postponed again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A failed communications receiver and rain today forced another launch delay for a record-length medical research flight already postponed by technical trouble.

"Nice try. Appreciated everybody's patience, and John, we're going to fly you one of these days. Just hang in there," launch director Bob Sieck told shuttle commander John Blaha.

The launch was tentatively rescheduled for Monday morning.

The problem of stormy weather was overshadowed by the failed communications receiver. Top shuttle officials considered installing a spare receiver into the spaceship, but decided there wasn't enough time.

The rules require two working communications receivers aboard Columbia. The units link the shuttle with flight controllers during the first minutes of flight.

NASA spokesman Mitch Varnes said if only one receiver was working at launch time and failed "we would not be able to communicate with the crew" during the ascent, or a possible emergency landing.

Columbia was scheduled to blast off at 10:53 a.m. EDT with 48 rats on a mission devoted to learning how to counteract the rigors of space travel. The rats will be replaced.

NASA tried various methods throughout the morning to get the communications receiver operating, but nothing worked.

Each unit, about the size of a shoebox, receives and sends voice and computer data, including vital engine information. The receiving portion failed on the bad unit.

The five men and two women walked through rain puddles to the van that took them to the launch pad. Once there, they covered their faces with nets to protect against the abundant mosquitos.

New constitution vote set Dec. 12

MOSCOW (AP) — President Boris Yeltsin today ordered that a proposed new constitution be put to a nationwide vote on Dec. 12, the same day elections will be held for a new federal parliament.

Yeltsin had wavered between having the new parliament approve the constitution that will replace the Soviet-era document now in force and putting it to a vote.

Plans for the new constitution were a source of conflict between Yeltsin and hard-line lawmakers, who had opposed many of the democratic aspects of the president's draft.

By having the public approve the new constitution, Yeltsin will avoid any discussion by the new parliament of the national charter, which will take effect as soon as the referendum results are published.

Meat packers: labels may still appear

AUSTIN (AP) — A U.S. Agriculture Department rule requiring safe-handling instructions on all packages of uncooked meat and poultry was blocked from taking effect today.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin of Austin ruled Thursday that the department didn't follow proper procedures in implementing the rule and didn't give packers enough time to comply.

Last month the Agriculture Department set today as the deadline for adding labels with instructions and illustrations on safely cooking, handling, refrigerating and thawing meat and chicken.

The action was prompted by fatal outbreaks of illness linked to E. coli, salmonella and other microorganisms that can dwell in raw meat.

Nowlin said the preliminary injunction sought by the National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association, National Grocers Association and Texas Food Industry Association will remain in effect until further court order.

Some shoppers will see the labels anyway. Many businesses had already rushed to meet the midnight deadline.

"Our industry is going to operate like the label's in full force," said Sara Clarke of the American Meat Institute, which represents packers and processors. It was not part of the lawsuit. "We can't be going back and forth and back and forth like this. Our people are fully prepared to comply ... but this is utter chaos."

Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy said he was disappointed with the ruling.

"The safe handling label is fundamental in our effort to prevent consumers and especially children from getting ill all across this country due to improper handling and cooking of meat and poultry products," he said in a statement.

The judge said there was no reason to believe there would be any harm in blocking the rules until the agency follows proper procedures.

USDA had published the rule in August without the normal opportunity for public comment, claiming it had good reason for doing so.

But the judge pointed out that USDA then delayed implementation of the rule for two months to allow businesses to obtain the labels. "If there truly was an epidemic problem or anywhere close to such a problem," USDA would have acted more quickly than that, Nowlin said.

He also noted that the rule would cost packers hundreds of millions of dollars to comply and would affect about 20 billion packages of meat and poultry. In addition, he pointed out, those not complying could be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

The labels can be just about anywhere on the package, including the outside bottom of the styrofoam tray. The main wording can be no smaller than one-sixteenth inch.

The labels say that the product has passed government inspection but that "some food products may contain bacteria" that can cause illness — no mention of death — if the product is "mishandled or cooked improperly."

Beside a small picture of a refrigerator are the instructions: "Keep refrigerated or frozen. Thaw in refrigerator or microwave."

The instructions next to a picture of hands under a faucet say: "Keep raw meat and poultry separate from other foods. Wash working surfaces (including cutting boards), utensils, and hands after touching raw meat or poultry."

An image of a skillet under a flame precedes the instructions to "cook thoroughly."

Next to the final image, a meat thermometer, appear the words: "Keep hot foods hot. Refrigerate leftovers immediately or discard."

Get exam if aneurysm is suspected

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss aneurysms. My sister was 60 when she died with one. She appeared in excellent health prior to this happening.

DEAR READER: An aneurysm is a weakened portion of an artery. Over time, this weak spot balloons out and eventually may rupture, resulting in disability or death.

Aneurysms often appear in the brain, where they cause bleeding (hemorrhagic stroke).

However, the most frequent source is in the aorta. Aortic aneurysms may involve large segments of this major artery, which carries blood from the heart to various places in the body. Such aneurysms may leak blood as they grow, leading to chest or abdominal pain. If an aortic aneurysm ruptures, death quickly occurs without warning.

Aortic aneurysms are diagnosed by ultrasound examinations. If the test shows an aneurysm to be large (or enlarging rapidly over a period of months), the weakened artery must be repaired, using a synthetic graft. Thus, aneurysms are curable — provided they are diagnosed before they burst.

Aneurysms are more common in patients with high blood pressure; this is yet another reason to treat hypertension. Also, there appears to be a genetic tendency. Any patient with unexplained chest or abdominal pain should be investigated for an aortic aneurysm because this serious condition is treatable using modern surgical techniques.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a large lipoma at the base of the back of my neck. One was removed from my forearm and left a scar and depression. Surgery will probably do the same to my neck. Therefore, could liposuction be used?

DEAR READER: To a large degree, the appropriateness of liposuction depends on the size of the lipoma, a benign, fatty tumor under the skin. This is an issue that you should address with a surgeon.

Although lipomas are usually removed with traditional surgery, I see no reason why liposuction isn't an option, if your doctor agrees.

Hillary doesn't like vegetables

NEW YORK (AP) — If George Bush can turn up his nose at broccoli, then it's only fair that Hillary Rodham Clinton can say "pea-yew!" to her vegetables.

Mrs. Clinton was taping some health advice for "Sesame Street." The script called for her to urge children to "eat your broccoli, string beans and green peas."

But between takes Thursday, Mrs. Clinton suggested changing the final words to "apples."

"Hardly anyone likes peas," she said.

Despite Big Bird's insistence that peas are the only vegetable he DOES like, "apples" stuck.

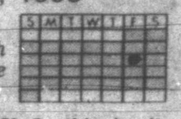

Some pea promoters were, well, peeved.

"The pea is one of the most popular vegetables we've got," said Stephen Anderson, president of the American Frozen Food Institute, "especially with children. I know people who give 'em to their kids as snacks. It's better than some junk food."

Your Birthday

Saturday, Oct. 16, 1993

In he year ahead you could find yourself involved in endeavors that will challenge your imagination and creativity. Pressure could stimulate your mental processes and enhance your performance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your aspects continue to be extremely favorable where things of a material nature are concerned. There's a possibility financial opportunities will develop from two different areas. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a commanding presence today that others will find attractive. You'll know how to assert yourself without offending anyone in the process.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something out of the ordinary might result today from an unusual chain of events. It could open up a new pipeline for you that could produce personal gains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you might sense that something good is going to happen, but you don't know where, when or why. This is because you're on the rim of an exciting cycle and positive thinking can light the fuse.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could have some brilliant ideas today, but in order for them to be effective, they must not be executed prematurely. Don't let your impulsiveness distort your timing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Treat today's happenings philosophically and you'll be able to make molehills from mountains. Your easy going behavior will inspire others to act likewise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In competitive developments today you could have a slight edge over your adversaries. Your ace in the hole will be the reserve upon which you can draw.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Occasionally you can be rather rigid and inflexible where your views and opinions are concerned. Today, however, you could pleasantly surprise everyone with your receptiveness and openmindedness.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take matters into your own hands today regarding a wish for something to change that has not yet been fulfilled. Make the transformations yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The key to getting along with others today is to be cooperative. It will be up to you to first set the example, then others will treat you as you treat them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take pride in your work today regardless of its significance. Performing to the very best of your ability will greatly enhance your self-esteem.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Smooth sailing is indicated today, because you're not apt to take yourself or events too seriously. You're less likely to get wounded if you don't have to pamper your ego.
