LEWIS SEEKS STRIKE BREAK

President To Speak Tonight

HST Pledges Fight To Keep Campaign Pledges In Talk From Train Platform

(By The Associated Press)

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ST. PAUL, Nov. 3—The anniversary of his greatest political triumph found President Truman talking again with trainside crowds like any midwesterner meeting up with his neighbors.

To upwards of 1,000 persons who turned out in below-freezing weather at Savanna, Ill., he observed:

"I hope you don't catch cold. But, I suppose you Illinois folks are used to this weather."

It was his first informal back-platform chat since last November.

He told the crowd he will fight on to redeem pledges he made in 1948.

At North La Crosse, Wis., Mr. Truman applauded the "grand turnout." Noting the heavy outpouring of children he called them "a fine looking lot." Police estimated the crowd at above 2,000.

He carried with him what he jokingly described as a "non-political, bi-partisan" speech for delivery at St. Paul, Minn., at 10:30 p. m. (Easter Standard Time) tonight.

His aides said it was a renewal of his blasts at "reactionaries" and of his championship of the "fair deal" program for which he campaigned in 1948 and which he presented to the 81st Congress last January.

To Send Program Back

And they emphasized he will send the program back to Congress again in January and back to the voters in next year's congressional elections.

It was a year ago today — the result was long in doubt in the Nov. 2 voting—that Mr. Truman received the news of Thomas E. Dewey's concession of defeat.

It came to him in the penthouse of Kansas City's Hotel Muehlebach after he had spent election night hiding away at a hotel in Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Many of the proposals for which he campaigned have failed in Congress—notably civil rights measures, a national health program and federal aid-to-education.

He started the 1950 Democratic campaign ball rolling last Labor day with speeches at Pittsburgh

Union Okays Plan To End Houston Bus Strike

Pay Boost Of 13 Cents Per Hour Granted

Operation Of City Buses Late Today Goal Of Officials

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 3—A proposal for ending Houston's first major transportation tie up in history was accepted at 12:10 p. m. today by 1100 striking CIO bus drivers and mechanics.

There was hope the buses—only means of public transportation for this city of over 500,000 — would be back in operation by late afternoon.

The drivers and mechanics, who struck at 12:01 a. m., voted to accept a 13-cent hourly wage hike proposal by a vote of 722 to 47.

The strike vote taken last Friday was 791 to 76.

Houston Transit company officials previously had offered to raise the $1.17 hourly wage average by 10 cents. The union had been demanding a 30-cent boost.

Readjustment Is Possible

The compromise settlement plan also calls for possible readjustment of the immediate increase at the end of six, nine and 12 months.

The settlement proposal was reached in a negotiations session called by Mayor Oscar Holcombe at 11:30 p. m. last night. The meeting continued until 4 a. m.

Union officials had recommended acceptance.

John J. Ryan, international representative for the CIO Transport Workers of America, and C. C. Stone, president of Local 260, explained the proposal at a 9 a. m. meeting.

Balloting began at 10:35 a. m. and was completed nearly an hour later. Ballots were small slips of paper carrying two words "accept" and "reject."

Autos Are Pooled

L. M. Coates, vice president of the bus company, said buses would return to the streets "just as soon as men show up to operate them."

As the strike took effect there was much pooling of automobiles. Hitchikers wagged thumbs at residential sections. Many of those near their destinations walked.

Agreement to vote on the compromise offer came at a stormy two-hour union meeting which ended about dawn.

Weary negotiators for the union and management had been kept

Import Boost Faces Battle

Retail Prices Of Coffee And Eggs Going Up

End Of Wholesale Price Boost Is Not Yet In Sight

(By The Associated Press)

Retail coffee prices continued their long climb upward this week, top grade eggs turned higher after last week's steep price decline, and pork dropped several cents a pound in many stores. Most other foods held about unchanged pricewise. On the produce shelves the only item generally a little higher was tomatoes, most of which were reaching the big marketing centers from California and Mexico. Celery was down slightly.

The coffee markups this week amounted in most cases to only two or three cents a pound compared with last week's five to six cents. But the end of the price climb was not yet in sight.

Hikes Are Predicted

Spokesmen for large coffee roasting concerns said their wholesale selling prices were still several cents a pound behind their coffee bean buying market. Wholesale increases of five to six cents a pound are being quoted today by some firms.

The price spiral of recent weeks resulted from production difficulties in the various growing countries.

Several cuts of pork dropped from four to 14 cents a pound. Beef was mostly steady to a few cents a pound higher, and veal, lamb and poultry prices wavered uncertainly.

Egg Prices Jump

Best grade eggs bounced upward a few cents a dozen in some places after skidding more than 10 cents last week. Trade spokesman said a slow seasonal price decline was expected to be resumed shortly.

Cauliflower, brussels sprouts, cabbage, kale, spinach and beets all continued low-priced and good in quality. Big-city markets received their first shipments of Texas eggplant this week.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week declined to $5.69, three cents below last week and 10.5 per cent below the $6.36 of a year ago.

Acheson Urges Reversal Of Trade Policy

Points Of Program To Be Pushed When Congress Convenes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—A major fight appeared to be shaping up today for the next session of Congress over administration plans to increase imports by several billion dollars worth a year.

In one of the bluntest declarations yet made on the subject by a top government official, Secretary of State Acheson asserted in New York last night that "we must become really import minded."

Acheson told the National Foreign Trade council that he sees nothing "favorable" in a trade balance by which the United States last year sold $13,000,000,000 worth of goods to the rest of the world and bought only $7,000,000,000 in return.

Serious Problem Seen

He declared that the $6,000,000,000 gap creates a serious problem for this country in its efforts to establish economic stability among the nations of the American hemisphere and western Europe.

Acheson in effect demanded that the United States reverse its 30-year old trade policies under which it has consistently sold more abroad than it has bought. He said he wants this country to begin to allow other nations to pay for what they buy here instead of having the American taxpayer foot the bill in the form of huge loans and gifts.

To achieve this objective he outlined a program based on negotiating new tariff cuts with other countries. At the same time he expressly recognized the fact that he will run up against stiff opposition as a result of prospective competition with American products.

Since some points of his proposal will require action by Congress—and he called for action at the next session—it appeared that the major issue will be fought out there.

Tariff Cuts Urged

In his speech, Acheson said:

1. The administration proposes to negotiate further tariff cuts under the trade agreements authority newly extended by Congress last session. Officials here believe these negotiations may be held next September.

2. The charter of the International Trade organization, as far as U. S. membership is concerned, should be approved by Congress early next session. This may provide one of the focal points for the struggle over increasing American imports. If and when the United States does join Tito, Acheson said, it will have to legislate changes in customs requirements which presently retard trade.

3. Regulations respecting labeling and purity of food and drugs have become "outmoded" in

Indiana Chief Asked To Talk To Operators

Government Action On Walkout During Next Week Hinted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—John L. Lewis today asked Governor Henry Schricker to renew his effort for a separate coal strike settlement in Indiana—a proposal rejected by the state's mine owners yesterday.

Such a settlement might break the way for ending the nationwide strike of 400,000 United Mine workers.

Lewis, in a telegram to Schricker, declared the UMW is ready to meet the Indiana operators "on a few hours' notice."

Rejection Blasted

He called the refusal of Indiana operators to hold separate peace talks—announced yesterday by Harvey Cartwright, secretary of the Indiana Coal Producers association—a "brutal" rejection of the governor's peace efforts.

The UMW chief made his new move amid revived reports that the government soon may step into the coal strike.

Peace efforts in the companion steel strike meanwhile were apparently at a standstill with company negotiators reported marking time and awaiting united steel workers moves.

Intervention Hinted

One highly-placed official closely watching the steel-coal strike crisis said: "We can't let Lewis go much beyond this weekend."

He indicated that unless there is some progress toward settling the 46-day coal strike the governmen will invite Lewis and operators to Washington negotiations, probably some time next week.

Failure of such federal talks would put the coal problem up to President Truman. Up to now Mr. Truman has held that neither the coal nor steel strikes has reached the national emergency stage.

Proposals Turned Down

The Indiana operators last night turned down a proposal of Gov. Henry Schricker of Indiana for a separate coal pact covering that state. Lewis had accepted the idea, saying he could submit any tentative offer to his union's policy committee at its meeting in Chicago Monday.

The Indiana operators discussed the idea and rejected it. Harvey Cartwright, secretary of the Indiana oal Producers association,

EUROPEAN ECONOMIC UNION TALKED

Foreign Ministers Start Meet Today

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Nov. 3 — Twelve European foreign ministers met today to map new steps aimed at pulling their nations together into a union.

The ministers, forming the guiding ministerial committee of the council of Europe, will pass on resolutions approved by the council's consultative assembly at its meeting in September at Strasbourg.

Integration Is Urged

The assembly's economic resolutions—calling for a European economic trade union with preferential trade links to members' overseas areas—have taken on new significance since Marshall plan administrator Paul Hoffman this week called for economic integration of western Europe.

After Hoffman's warning that only such formation of a single European market would achieve lasting prosperity, the general council of the European Economic Cooperation (OEEC) yesterday agreed to eliminate national quota restriction onhalf the private commerce among the Marshall plan countries.

But Irish Foreign Minister Sean McBride said the OEEC council had made "little or no progress toward economic cooperation." The quota eliminations, he said, were a "step, but a very small step."

Many Seek Membership

At the foreign ministers' meeting which opened today the issue of western Germany's membership in the council of Europe also is slated for discussion. There are reports that France will seek membership for the Saar and perhaps for Austria, also, as the price for

Forecaster Fooled By Texas Weather

PORT ISABEL, Tex., Nov. 3. (U.P.) — A Chicago weather forecaster decided today the lower Rio Grande valley wasn't all his maps showed it to be.

And what happened?

Bonds Set In Liquor Cases

Bonds totaling $1,300 and marked returnable Nov. 29 in county court were set this morning by Judge Walter Davies after two men had pleaded innocent of liquor law violation charges. Another man, James J. Araje was fined $150 and costs on a plea of guilty of liquor law violation.

James D. Kinder, 23, Lubbock man who Oct. 13 had pleaded innocent of liquor law violation after allegedly making a mistake by going with a bottle of whisky to the residence of a Lubbock policeman and asking if anybody there had "called for Jim", was one of those charged.

Driving Borrowed Car

His bond was set at $500.

Bond of $800 was set for J. W. Hanson, 29.

Kinder allegedly had 11 four-fifths quarts and one pint of alcoholic beverages in the car he was driving when arrested about 9 p. m. Wednesday in 100-block East Broadway. He told officials the car had been borrowed from a friend, but County Attorney Waggoner Carr said officials may file a forfeiture suit against the machine anyway. The car Kinder allegedly used in his visit to the home of the policeman, Ira E. Scott, has been named in a forfeiture suit. Scott, arresting his visitor after allegedly accepting a bottle from him, said he found 17 bottles of whisky and seven cases of beer in the car parked outside.

Kinder posted $600 trial appearance bond in connection with

Four Admit Thefts Of Sewing Machines

DALLAS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Four men have signed statements admitting they stole more than 128 sewing machines in four states, Deputy Sheriff Bill Binford announced.

The men were arrested here three weeks ago.

"I think the list of stolen machines will hit 300 before everybody has been heard from," Binford said yesterday.

He said charges probably will be filed against all four when the full extent of the burglaries has been determined.

The men admitted taking 108 machines in Texas, 20 in Shreveport, La., and the others in Oklahoma City and St. Louis, Binford said.

Binford said all four are either former sewing machine mechanics or salesmen.

Stolen machines have been recovered in Oklahoma City, St. Louis, Shreveport, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Wichita Falls, Amarillo and Shamrock, Tex.

Mexican Laborers Will Be Deported

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3 (AP) — The U. S. is shipping 68 bracero laborers back to Mexico for violating employment contracts.

A group of 58 workers were due here today from Memphis. They will be put with ten being held here for return to Mexico via Laredo.

H. P. Brady of the Border patrol said the braceros were contracted to work on farms under the agreement between the United States and Mexico. These men, he said have abandoned their jobs.

Plane Sales To Tito Approved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—The United States and Britain have eased their ban on the sale of commercial planes and aviation equipment to Yugoslavia. The first shipments—limited quantities of gasoline and lubricants, were cleared by the State department today.

Diplomatic officials, reporting the U. S.-British move just before the fuel and lubricants sale was announced, said it marks the latest step by the west to bolster Marshal Tito in his fight with Moscow and her eastern European allies.

Move Calculated Risk

The State and National Defense departments are reported to have decided on the move as another of the "calculated risks" of the cold war.

The matter was agreed upon with the British. Then the two countries decided to notify other western governments of their action in the hope that they will do the same.

One idea is to clear the way for an "airlift" to Yugoslavia if that rebel against Moscow domination of world communism should be cut off by guerrilla attack from normal transport.

Two Charged With Felony Theft Here

Felony theft warrants were issued early this afternoon for two young Lubbock brothers in connection with the disappearance of a truck loaded with three bales of unginned cotton from a gin yard here Wednesday.

The truck and cotton showed up about 9 p. m. Wednesday at an Acuff gin, which advanced one of the two men a check for $240 as an advance on cotton picking, state, county and municipal officials said they had been informed.

The check was cashed this morning at a bank here, officials further said, adding that the name of one of the suspects was endorsed on it. Moreover, it was said, the man who cashed the check was recognized when in the bank.

He is under probation of nine years in connection with an April 18 burglary conviction, District Attorney Lloyd Croslin said.

The complaint was sworn to by Jean Pate, a state highway patrolman, and filed in the justice court of C. E. Lynn.

Arrests were expected this afternoon.

ACADEMY DEADLOCKED ON WINNER

Nobel Literature Prize Is Shelved

(By The Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 3 — The Swedish academy decided today to shelve this year's Nobel prize for literature because it was hopelessly deadlocked over four top candidates, including Winston Churchill and the Italian philosopher Benedetto Croce.

The tug-of-war on the prize decision was reported to have been greater than any time during the half century in which the 18-member academy has been making the award.

Decision Is Revealed

The decision was taken at a brief session this afternoon. It was announced that, as no candidate had been able to obtain the absolute majority necessary, the award will be withheld until 1950.

The Nobel prizes, made in various fields of human affairs, are set up under the will of the late Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The will calls for the presentation of the awards to the person making the greatest contribution in each of the fields.

Winners Are Announced

The 1949 Nobel peace prize winner was announced Oct. 18. He is Lord Boyd Orr, 69, a Scot who is president of the movement for world government and former director-general of the United Nations food and agriculture organization.

The award for medicine was announced Oct. 27. It is shared by Dr. Walter Rudolf Hess, 68, of Zurich, Switzerland, and Dr. Antonio Caetano de Abreu Freire Egas Moniz, 75, of Lisbon, Portugal, for their work with human and animal brains.

Old Embassy To Be Rebuilt

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (AP)—Restoration of the French embassy here, one of the two buildings built in the United States especially to house a foreign representative, was planned today by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

Huge keys—one to the front and one to the back door of the 110-year-old structure—were turned over to the DRT yesterday by the State of Texas.

Hall Logan, chairman of the board of control, presented the keys to Mrs. Henry R. Wofford of San Antonio, DRT state president.

Remains State Property

H. J. Bob, French consul at Houston, and about 50 members of the DRT from throughout the state attended the ceremony.

Purchase of the building by the state for $24,256 was authorized by the 49th legislature in 1945. The bill specified that the building was to be used by the Daughters of the Republic but was to remain state property.

"This is one of the most important events in state history," Logan said at the presentation. He recalled that France was the first world power other than the United States to recognize the Re-

Rayburn Will Set Up Bonham Foundation

BONHAM, Nov. 3 (AP) — Rep. Sam Rayburn, veteran Democratic speaker of the House of Representatives, announced today he will establish a foundation to build a free public library and auditorium in Bonham.

"In setting up the Sam Rayburn foundation at Bonham I am carrying out a wish and a will that has long been my purpose," he said.

"The people of Bonham and Fannin county, through more than half a lifetime, have been so uniformly kind and fine to me that I want a permanent evidence of my appreciation and evidence of my unfailing devotion and love for them."

A charter setting up the charitable trust and perpetuity was filed with the Fannin county clerk today, Rayburn said.

Rayburn said that $10,000 he received from the Collier magazine award for metitorious service in the House during the year 1948 would be the beginning of the foundation funds.

Medical Exam Proves Attempted Assault

Two Men Jailed In Kidnaping Of Seven-Year-Old Schoolgirl

(By The United Press)

MULLINS, S. C., Nov. 3 (U.P.)—The crippled daughter of a sharecropper was found today in a car stuck in the sand hills near here with one of two men who kidnapped her within sight of her home last night.

Police Chief S. J. English said a medical examination had established that an attempt had been made to rape seven-year-old Mary Alice Spivey.

The child was within sight of her home yesterday enroute from school when two white men drove up beside her and forced her into their car.

English said Jerome Alford, a Marion county farmer, was with the little girl in a 1941 Dodge car when officers came upon them in the sand hills across the Pee Dee river from Mullins.

Police nabbed another man, Hugh Smith, 23, in Mullins. English said both men admitted that they kidnapped the partly-crippled youngster yesterday as she was returning

Bolivian Is Near Death After Relapse

Pilot, Told Of Air Disaster, Prefers Death, Doctor Says

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Eric Rios Bridoux has been told that he killed 55 persons in Tuesday's air disaster here and he no longer wants to live, the Bolivian pilot's physician said today.

The doctor, who asked that his name be withheld, said the frightful knowledge caused a relapse which brought the stricken flyer near death late last night.

Although his tought body is still fighting on, rallying from the relapse, the 28-year-old Rios now seems to prefer death to recovery, the physician said.

Until yesterday afternoon the 28-year-old South American air ace did not know that his P-38 fighter on Tuesday had sent a packed Eastern Air lines transport crashing in history's worst civil aviation disaster—a disaster of which he is the sole survivor.

The strictest orders had been issued to keep the grim knowledge from him while doctors fought to save him from the effects of a back

Reds Allowed Appeal Bonds

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The U. S. court of appeals ruled today that the 11 top American Communists convicted of conspiracy may be released in bail pending appeal of their case.

The court ruled that seven could be released in $20,000 bail each and four in $30,000 bail apiece.

The government originally asked that their total bail be set at $1,000,000.

An opinion handed down by Judges Learned Hand, Thomas W. Swan and Jerome N. Frank said that bail was being set because the government "conceded that the appeal herein raises a 'substantial question'."

Bonds Are Set

Bail of $30,000 was set for Eugene Dennis, John B. Williamson, Jacob Stachel, and Irving Potash.

A $20,000 bail was fixed for Robert G. Thompson, Benjamin J. Davis, jr., Harry Winston, John Gates, Gilbert Green, Carl Winter and Gus Hall.

Previously the government asked $100,000 bail each for Dennis, Potash, Stachel, Williamson, Hall, Green and Thompson. It recommended $75,000 bail each for Davis, Winston, Gates and Winter.

The 11 were convicted of conspiracy to advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

200 Claimed Dead In Philippines Typhoon

MANILA, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Manila Chronicle tonight reported 200 persons were killed or drowned at Kabankalan, Negros island, in the Philippines worst typhoon in years on Oct. 31.

The report, the newspaper said, was given to the provincial governor's office by Esteban Abada, a senatorial candidate who came from Kabankalan today.

Previously 57 persons officially had been reported killed on Negro and Cebu islands.

Delayed reports from authorities of Eastern Negros island said 31 additional storm victims had been counted. Previously 26 had been reported killed on the islands of Cebu and Negros.

Test Is Underway On New Oil Discovery In Scurry County

C. L. Norsworthy, jr., of Dallas, and associates No. 1 Feldman, Central-East Scurry county Ellenberger discovery, ten miles east of Snyder, was reported to be flowing at the rate of five barrels of oil per hour natural, through a one-quarter inch tubing choke, from perforated section at 7,314-26 feet in the top of the Ellenburger.

No formation water was being shown. Testing was continuing. The five barrel per hour flow was at the rate of 120 barrels per day.

Regular Production Likely

This venture is 660 feet from north and east line of section 63, block 3, H&TC survey. The open hole at 7,340-57 feet, has shown small amounts of oil. The project likely will be put on regular production soon.

Cities Service Oil company No. 1-H Johnson, half mile north output to the Diamond-M field of Southwest Scurry county topped the Canyon lime reef at 6,673 feet on an elevation of 2,428 feet. That makes it five feet low to the nearest completed well on the north side of the Diamond-M field.

Operator is due to drill deeper into the reef.

The project is 1,980 feet from north and 614 feet from east lines of section 200, block 97, H&TC survey. That makes it 11 miles southwest of Snyder.

Borden Wildcat Slated

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1-A Jerry Clayton is to be a 8,000-foot wildcat in Southwest Borden county, six miles northwest of the Good Canyon lime field.

The drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 14, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey.

Drilling is to be with rotary tools.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 Barrow, deep wildcat in Northeast Dawson county, three and one-half miles northeast of Lamesa, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east line of section 8, block 35, TP survey, T-6-N, made only sulphur water in the Ellenburger, and is to plug back to 4,500 feet to treat the San Andres above that point with acid, to try to develop a commercial production.

Well Possibilities Dim

Informed sources say that the possibilities of making a well from slight shows of petroleum in that formation are extremely dim.

The Ellenburger water came in a drillstem test at 11,512-639 feet. Recovery was the 2,500-foot water blanket, 1,128 feet of drilling mud and 3,666 feet of sulphur water. The section showed no indications of oil or gas.

Top of the Ellenburger zone was at 11,460 feet. Top of the second Ellenburger was at 11,560 feet. Elevation is 3,017 feet.

Casing String Cemented

S. B. Roberts, of Abilene, and associates No. 1 Lewis, in Central-West Scurry county, 467 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 246, block 97, H&TC survey, had cemented a string of 5½-inch casing at 6,841 feet, with 400 sacks.

Total depth is 6,868 feet. Top of the Canyon reef is at 6,836 feet. Elevation is 2,438 feet. The section at 6,840-68 feet had some slight shows of oil in a drillstem test.

When the cement sets operators will drill the plug and make production tests. The venture may be drilled deeper if it fails to develop commercial production from the interval at 6,841-68 feet.

Scurry Wildcat Bottomed

Ray-Harris Drilling company of Dallas, and associates, No. 1 Laura B. Smith, Central South Scurry county wildcat, 15 miles southwest of Snyder, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 159, block 97, H&TC survey, was bottomed at 8,111 feet in Ellenburger lime, and was shutdown for order after developing sulphur water.

The venture, located one and three-quarters of a mile east of the Sharon Ridge-Canyon field took a drillstem test at 8,062-8,111 feet.

Recovery was 360 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud, 450 feet of slightly oil and gas cut sulphur water and 1,710 feet of sulphur water.

An electric log survey has been run. The Ellenburger was topped at 8,052 feet, on an elevation of 2,315 feet.

None of the formations above the Ellenburger developed any indications of production. The venture likely will be plugged and abandoned in the near future.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware and Republic Natural Gas company No. 1 OS Ranch, (Connell,) southeast Garza county wildcat has been plugged and abandoned on a total depth of 8,290 feet in the barren Ellenburger.

That formation was entered at 8,034 feet. It showed no sign of oil or gas.

The prospector was 15 miles southeast of Post and at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 2, block 5, GH&H survey.

Walkouts At Wichita Falls Companies End

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Some 250 employes of two manufacturing firms here returned to work today after a 23-day strike—under terms of their old contract.

The strike at Wilson Manufacturing Co. and Wichita Falls Foundry and Machine Co. was settled yesterday.

Otis Nelson, attorney for the two Wilson-owned firms, and W. A. Isbell, spokesman for local 1476 of the International Association of Machinists, said none of the major demands of the union were granted.

The union sought a 10-cent hourly wage increase and other concessions when the previous contract expired Sept. 30. The strike began Oct. 10.

The companies manufacture drilling rigs and other heavy oil field machinery and prefabricated cement houses.

Mental Hygiene Meet To Be Held Nov. 15

Eight members of the executive council of the Lubbock county Mental Hygiene society met at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the study of Dr. Travis White in the First Christian church.

The group concluded plans for a Nov. 15 regular business meeting to be held in Fellowship hall at the First Christian church. Dr D. M. Wiggins is scheduled to speak at the meeting. His topic will be on mental hygiene and its application to society.

The nominating committee will report at this meeting and officers for the new year will be elected.

The council began mapping a campaign last night to support the proposed Texas constitutional amendment that would make it possible for a person to enter mental hospitals without jury trial. "We are going to start this campaign by mailing postal cards to our friends to ask their support," Dr. White announced.

FALSE IMPRISONMENT RECALLED

Other Man In "Call Northside 777" Seeking Prison Release

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (INS) — The celebrated case of "Call Northside 777" is slated for a retake today when the other man in the case of Joe Majczek goes before Judge Thomas J. Lynch of criminal court.

The "other man" is Ted Marcinkiewicz, now 39 years old a prisoner at Menard penitentiary.

Marcinkiewicz has asked for a habeas corpus hearing.

Ted was only 22 years old when, at a joint jury trial in 1932 with Joe Majczek, both men were found guilty of fatally shooting policeman William Lundy in an attempted holdup on Chicago's southside.

One Eyewitness

The conviction was based almost solely on the testimony of a lone eyewitness, Vera Walush. Other eyewitnesses could not identify the men.

Eleven years later came a denouement which shocked the nation.

Majzcek, through the efforts of a mother-scrubwoman and an inquisitive reporter from the Chicago Times, won his freedom and a settlement from the state of Illinois.

A movie was made depicting the alleged 11 years' false imprisonment—called "Call Northside 777."

Majzcek won his freedom, but what about Marcinkiewicz, his alleged companion on the night of the attempted robbery which ended in the death of a Chicago officer?

Although Majzcek was granted a full pardon, his alleged partner-in-crime was still considered guilty.

The question was raised: how could one witness considered "absolutely unreliable" on one men still be legally considered a witness whose testimony kept Marcinkiewicz in prison?

An answer may be forthcoming tomorrow in the habeas corpus hearing.

Marcinkiewicz turned down a previous ruling by the parole board, which recommended a cut from 90 years to 75 years in his sentence. The convicted man said:

"I asked for justice—not mercy."

Marcinkiewicz—after many long years—will get his second day in court tomorrow. He will be represented by Irwin Bloch.

Cinema Director And Ex-Model Will Marry

ROME, Nov. 3. (AP)—David Montgomery Pelham, youthful movie producer and one of the original theatrical "Dead End Kids," said today he would be wed soon to Miss Sharon Hurley, 25, a former New York model.

Pelham, 29, is the son of Mrs. Thomas Pelham of Windermere, Allerton, Mass. His father, who died several years ago, was one of the founders of the Gillette Safety Razor company.

Miss Hurley is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine Cummings of Santa Barbara, Calif. The former model was divorced from Owen Jones in 1945.

Pelham said the marriage would be in Rome, probably before Christmas.

Pelham and Miss Hurley became engaged three weeks ago after a romance that began last spring. They first met here when Miss Hurley was in Rome on a vacation trip last spring and the returned recently.

Pelham, who played in "Dead End" on the New York stage and the movies, recently produced a film in Italy called "Rapture." Associate producer was Robert Goelet, longtime friend of Pelham and heir to one of America's biggest fortunes. Goelet recently married film actress Lynn Merrick.

First Jap Woman Is Named As Prosecutor

TOKYO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Japan's first woman prosecutor is newly-appointed Chieko Kadogami, 36, mother of two son. She gave this slant on her job at a news conference:

"In my opinion, female crimes should be handled not only in the light of the law but also with affection."

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Advice From Mary Haworth

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I never dreamed I would ever be writing to you for advice, possibly because I have been so happy this past year. But now I am all mixed up and need guidance urgently.

For the past year I have been going with a girl who has all the qualities I want in a girl—appearance, taste, manners, breeding, everything except accord in matters of opinion. Differences of opinion in small trivial things have caused, I think, a gradual dislike and coldness between us, but it might be something else.

I have been genuinely in love with Anna and she is much in love with me still, but this cold indifferent feeling has taken hold of me gradually for the past three months. All day long I look forward to seeing her, but when evening comes and we go to meet, I feel sick inside, as if something is squeezing my heart.

HE CAN'T IMAGINE LIFE WITHOUT HER

I JUST can't go on hurting her. She is too fine a girl. But still I can't see myself without her. It is not as if somebody else has come between us. That isn't so. And if Anna can't suit me I don't know who can.

A year ago you couldn't have made me believe this could happen. I was so sure and happy and now I am so disappointed and discouraged with myself, as I think the trouble must be me. Just what do you suggest? I shall appreciate any advice you may give.

(Signed) T. B.

IS HE FIGHTING OFF SURRENDER?

DEAR T. B.: You say Anna has all the qualities you want in a girl—taste, manners, breeding, etc., which indicates that your ideal is a conventional portrait of a lady. At least, that's what you think you want, the ideal you were brought up to revere, no doubt, perhaps because your mother, grandmothers or other influential female relatives are that type.

Having observed Anna to be the personification, seemingly, of those "refined" attributes you were schooled to love and respect, possibly that's why you felt at first that she was your dream girl. But then as association grew routine, perhaps you began to draw her into your longstanding emotional quarrel with certain authoritative ladies in your past history who probably bossed you firmly without regard for your feelings, and maybe still do.

In other words, it could be that both your crush on Anna and your contradictory dislike of her issue from a situation of mistaken identity—in which you confuse her with figures that exist in your fancy and family background, and don't take into account her real self at all. This is fairly common practice in human relations, a matter of blindly projecting one's "conditioned" emotions at others, while failing to see the truth of things.

DESIRES, FEARS ARE IN CONFLICT

HOWEVER, it is equally possible that your hostile reaction to Anna of recent months may reflect a panicky instinct to ward off growth of mutual love, so as to avoid the self-surrender of that experience. Many persons who have been emotionally hurt by severe treatment or habitual misunderstanding in early years of family relations, unconsciously dread the possibility of loving unguardedly in after years, lest their most sensitive feelings be punished again.

Your sick sensation of something squeezing your heart as you set forth to meet Anna suggests tremendous anxiety, and when one feels urgently anxious without known reasons, usually the tension is caused by hidden conflict between desires and fears—so you may be fighting hunger for Anna in fussing with her. Case of playing safe by keeping cold—or trying to.

In any case, it seems your emotional troubles are chiefly internal. And to get the cards on the table and sorted out, you need personal guidance from a good psychologist, because there's hardly anything told in your letter—except that you are very nervously on the defensive in relation to love or sex or womankind.—M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Lubbock Evening Journal.

Fire Insurance Men Visiting Territory

Visiting the South Plains area this week are four insurance men, who are making special studies of cotton fire hazards. They are visiting gins, cotton warehouses, compresses and storage yards.

Two of the men, Matthew Braidech and Robert Dean of New York, are members of the research division of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. A. S. Briggs of Dallas, manager of the fire prevention engineering bureau of Texas, and Alex Clark, representative of the cotton fire and marine underwriters, also of Dallas, are accompanying the New Yorkers.

Baptist Convention Votes To Refuse State Or Federal Aid

EL PASO, Nov. 3. (AP) — The Baptist general convention of Texas ends its 64th annual convention tonight.

Delegates already have adopted a $10,000,000 budget; agreed not to accept any federal or state offers of aid for its schools and institutions, and set up a committee to speak for it on any matters of state interest.

The budget was adopted last night. Two and a half million dollars was earmarked for Texas, a like amount for the Southern Baptist convention and the remainder was staged for buildings and endowments for Christian education and youth institutions.

The new committee will be the voice of Texas Baptists on such matters as state finances, labor problems or any other matters on which the convention wants its stand known.

Members of the committee are Dr. T. B. Maston, professor of social ethics at Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary, Fort Worth; Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor university, Waco, and A. C. Miller, minister to minorities in Dallas.

The agreement to shun federal or state aid was made in approval of an executive board report.

Fort Worth is expected to be picked as the site of next year's convention.

Delegates to the three day convention have heard reports covering every phase of the convention's activity.

They also heard Dr. White deplore the "rise of statism" and Dr. Maston say no Baptist minister should perform a marriage ceremony for a person who has been divorced, unless the cause of divorce was adultery.

Officers Elected

T. C. Gardner, training union department, told the convention the increase in the number of new unions, enrollments and awards earned surpassed all previous years. He said 10,891 unions now were functioning in Texas with membership of 218,325.

Dr. W. Brunner, endowment department, reported that receipts for the endowment fund totaled $4,905,881.49.

The Texas Baptist Chaplain's association at its annual meeting re-elected Dr. Lemuel Hall, district missionary, Austin district, president.

New executive board members to serve three-year terms included: J. H. Wright, Levelland.

Re-elected to three-year terms were: Julian Atwood, Lamesa; A. Brian, Brownfield.

Julian Atwood, pastor of the Lamesa first church, conducted a memorial service for members who died during the year. Reports were made by J. Ralph Grant, pastor of the Lubbock first church, on libraries, and by Harry V. Hamblen, pastor of Harlingen first church, on hospitals.

Speakers reporting on the Baptist foundation were George J. Mason of Dallas; William H. Fleming of Fort Worth, chairman of the foundation board, and Roy McKnight, vice president and comptroller of Baylor. Members of the foundation board are J. M. Nash of Waco and J. M. Waddell of Kermit.

Suspects In Sunday Robbery Eliminated

Efforts Wednesday to identify two men held in Albuquerque, N. M., as those who held up an Ince Oil company attendant at 2803 Ave. H early Sunday failed, it was announced by city and county officials Wednesday night.

Richard Moore, accompanied to the New Mexico city by Sheriff Grady Harrist and City Detective Lee Rice, said the men were "positively not" the gunmen who robbed him of nearly $100, leaving him tied in a washroom of the station where he is an attendant.

The New Mexico suspects were taken into custody for investigation in connection with felony theft early in October in Big Spring.

C. E. Lynn set bond of $500 for Fletcher Pendergrass, 45, of 1500-block Ave. C, after the defendant had pleaded guilty of allegations made in affidavits of his wife Connie that he had threatened to kill her and had assaulted her previous to his threats. Pendergrass had not posted bond late last night.

Deputy Sheriff Sam Floyd and Texas Ranger J. L. Rogers, both of Lamesa, informed the sheriff's department upon a visit here Wednesday that the following property had been taken in a Sunday burglary of a Lamesa residence:

A $400 fur coat, a $135 Mercury electric sewing machine, and a $65 Argus camera.

Presbyterians Will Hold Meet Friday

Approximately 30 members of the First Presbyterian church met at a breakfast with the officials of the big gifts committee Wednesday morning at the Hilton hotel to sign pledge cards and plan a financial campaign toward construction of a new sanctuary and remodeling of the present building into educational facilities.

More than $70,000 in pledges were secured from those attending the breakfast, Robert W. Wright, chairman of the committee, reported.

Earl Collins, chairman of the general canvassing committee, and Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor, spoke at the gathering.

Plans for the building project are in progress by Henry Stein-Construction is expected to commence when financing is complete. bomer, San Antonio architect.

Friday morning, another breakfast, this time for the members of the general campaign committee, is to be held in the Navajo room of the Hilton. Dr. R. C. Douglas, chairman of the committee, will preside.

Freight Route Hearing Held

Hearings continued this afternoon in the north ballroom of Lubbock hotel by officials of the Motor Transport division of the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Uncontested hearings were conducted this morning by Joe T. Lanham of Austin, examiner of the division.

Horace Soule, chief examiner for the Motor Transport division, arrived at 9:30 a. m. to conduct hearings on contested applications.

Extension Is Sought

Scheduled to be heard was an application from Curry Motor Freight Lines, Inc., for extension of its Odessa to Amarillo line on to Borger over state highway 136.

Persons from Odessa, Midland, Plainview, Borger and Lubbock were on hand to testify. The extension, if granted, would also serve the towns of Fritch, Sanford and Phillips, as well as Borger.

Among those present for the hearing were R. C. Jordan of Amarillo, president of Curry Motor Freight Lines, Inc.; Joe White, manager of the firm's Odessa-Midland district; and W. B. Pearce of Lubbock, vice president of the lines.

Direct Service Stressed

Officials of the freight line pointed out that extension of a route to Borger would provide direct service from the wholesale markets in Lubbock and would give direct service from the Midland-Odessa area, thus increasing potential markets for buyers in the Borger area.

Application for an additional freight route between Reese Air Force base and Lubbock was also scheduled to be heard.

High Catholic Cardinal Dies

ROME, Nov. 3 (AP)—Francesco Cardinal Marmaggi, one of the top administrators in the Vatican, died early today following a heart attack. He was 73.

Cardinal Marmaggi, elevated to the sacred college in 1935, was prefect of the congregation of the council. He directed the application and enforcement of degrees of the Council of Trent and other church laws.

His death reduces the membership of the College of Cardinals to 54. The full membership is 70.

Cardinal Marmaggi suffered a heart attack Oct. 28 and had been in critical condition ever since. Pope Pius XII, Vatican sources said, sent his personal benediction by Giovanni Battista Montini, of the Vatican secretariat of state, after the heart attack.

Ordained In 1900

The congregation of the council is one of 11 departments, each headed by a cardinal, that administer affairs of the Catholic church.

Cardinal Marmaggi was born Aug. 31, 1876, in Rome. He was ordained a priest April 14, 1900, and most of his religious life was spent in Vatican City except for terms as papal nuncio to Bucharest, Prague and Warsaw and papal legatee to Constantinople.

In 1920 he became an under secretary of state in the Vatican. He was raised to College of Cardinals by Pope Piux XI in the consistory on Dec. 16, 1935.

With 16 vacancies in the College of Cardinals, Pope Pius is expected to call a secret consistory sometime before the opening of holy year, Dec. 25, to make new appointments.

While no official information is ever available on possible appointments of cardinals, Vatican sources said at least one American is expected to be elevated at the next consistory. Vatican informants place Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston high among the likely candidates.

Other Americans mentioned as possibilities for elevation to the rank of cardinal include Archbishops John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati, John Joseph Mitty of San Francisco and Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis.

Loop Games Hold Spotlight

Area Slate To Open Tonight

A near-capacity South Plains schoolboy football schedule gets underway tonight when the perfect-record Meadow Broncbos square off against Ropesville's Eagles at Cub stadium in Brownfield.

In all, 24 games—including 23 conference affairs—are on tap this weekend, and leadership in no fewer than five of the seven South Plains districts will be at stake.

All eyes will be on tonight's game at Brownfield, which should go far toward deciding the District 4-B issue, and on Friday night's Littlefield-Sudan scrap at Sudan, which will all but settle matters in 4-A North.

All Districts Active

There is ample activity in other districts, too, with at least one conference tilt on tap in every circuit.

In the big Double-A game of the week, Odessa's Bronchos invade Lamesa for a Friday afternoon battle. Lamesa, beaten by Lubbock last week, will be making its last ditch stand in the District 3-AA race. Odessa, easy victor over Midland a week ago, will be trying for its second straight conference win—and heavily favored to get it against the crippled Lamesa club.

Brownfield's Cubs, still without a victory this season, have what is probably their best remaining opportunity to collect a scalp as they play host to mediocre Midland. If the Cubs don't take this one, they stand little chance of breaking into the win column against their future foes—Lamesa, Odessa and Lubbock.

Floydada Meets Tulia

Both District 3-A leaders, Spur and Floydada, are in action this week. Floydada entertains Tulia, while Spur journeys to Abernathy to joust with the dangerous Antelopes. In other district games, Lockney is at Matador and Ralls at Paducah. Crosbyton, currently tied with Lockney for second place, takes on Post in a non-conference go at Post.

The Littlefield-Sudan scrap easily is the standout attraction in 4-A North. Both are undefeated in district play, and the winner is expected to roll on to the title. Once-beaten Levelland is at home against Muleshoe, and Sundown entertains Morton in other conference contests.

Only one district setto, Tahoka at Seagraves, is on the District 4-A South docket.

5-A Games Slated

All three South Plains teams in 5-A see action this week. Seminole plays host to Monahans, Andrews goes to Fort Stockton, and Denver City travels to Pecos. The two district leaders, Wink and Kermit, are idle.

In 3-B, Olton's Mustangs can move nearer the crown by besting Friona in a game to be played at Olton. Dimmitt and Hale Center, Olton's two top challengers, battle it out at Dimmitt, with the loser due to fall from championship consideration. Farwell plays at Anton, Whitharral at Spade, and Amherst at Springlake in other 3-B games.

All eyes will be on the Meadow-Ropesville engagement in 4-B. Meadow currently is riding herd on the entire loop with its perfect record, while Ropesville is the top contender with a 5-1 mark. New Deal and Whiteface, two other clubs retaining a chance at top honors, play hosts to Frenship and Idalou respectively. Cooper is at Plains in the remaining game on the docket.

City Gridders Play Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

Five games tonight, one of them putting an unbeaten record on the line, start off the most crucial week-end of the season in Texas schoolboy football.

John Reagan of Houston, the last undefeated team in the City conference, swings against Jeff Davis in the top game of district 3.

City Loop Tilts

Forest and Crozier Tech get together in the Dallas district but it's an unimportant game and it's the same for the clash of Fort Worth Tech and Poly at Fort Worth. However, in the San Antonio district, Thomas Jefferson, one of two unbeaten teams in the conference race, rolls against Alamo Heights. Victory for Jefferson, which is expected, would put this team even with San Antonio Tech in wins.

At El Paso, El Paso High plays Mesa, Ariz., an intersectional game.

The headliner of the week is tomorrow night when little Grand Prairie makes its greatest bid for glory. Undefeated and untied, Grand Prairie battles Highland Park of Dallas, the perennial District 8 Class AA champion, in the scrap that should determine the district title.

Large Crowd Seen

They won't be able to handle the crowd that wants to see this one and there will even be some standing room sold. Grand Prairie has been in Class AA three years and it is the first time a team has come along in years that appears capable of challenging big Highland Park.

Throughout the state are 46 games tonight, tomorrow and Saturday. All except four of them are conference affairs. At least a half-dozen district titles are in the balance.

FROSH TEAMS CLASH

WACO, Nov. 3 (U.P.)—The once-beaten University of Texas freshman football squad and Baylor's star-studded freshman eleven, with an identical record, meet here tonight.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

If any of our readers are wrestling fans and, per chance, happened to miss an article in Colliers of Oct. 29, we'd advise you to waste no time in securing a copy. It may or may not change your opinion, it may or may not make fans out of you and it may or may not leave you amused. The article is written by Oren Arnold as told to him by C. L. "Steve" McPherson. The latter has been a professional wrestling promoter for 20 years in such cities as Cleveland, Providence, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wheeling, Portland, and Bellington, Wash. He admits to having made two fortunes in this promotional endeavor and says: "My judgement in losing both through bad investments is no worse than that of wrestling fans who buy tickets thinking they are sure to see a real bout."

McPherson introduces his article with these comments: "If you have 200 or more pounds of healthy muscles and aren't over 50 years of age, you can get interesting work nowadays in our new mid-century American vaudeville." He then goes on to say that "you will be called a wrestler, but don't let that fool you. . . You may have to warp your conscience a little, but no more, I imagine, than any other showman must do." The author also goes into many of the mat marvels of the current age, such as Gorgeous George, Man Mountain Dean, Maurice Tillet, the Swedish Angel and others. These, he says, are intentionally falsified fronts. "Characterization, you see, is more important than cleverness to a modern wrestler."

The author admits to having created a lot of these characters and having beaten the drums for many more. "In confessing that wrestlers are 'made' by such shenanigans, I do not imply that we promoters deliberately frame the matches, sneaking around to bet money against the men we have ordered to lose. The truth is, almost no betting is done on wrestling today. As a promoter, I simply do the logical thing. In serious conference, open and above board, I arrange with Hairy the Ape and Cyril Dovewing . . . to stage a main bout exhibition. . . Often we do decide in advance who will win. The decision is based on a careful reading of public feeling at the moment. Neither boy can afford to win too much because it isn't good box office; but remember, a hated man is as good a drawing card as a hero."

Concerning billing of wrestling matches as exhibitions, McPherson has this to say: "Our fans, by no means stupid, know the inside of wrestling just as they know the inside of all other showmanship today. A few professional sports people make a career of 'exposing' wrestling, calling it 100 percent fake and assuring everybody that it is viciously undermining the morals of both performers and spectators. One result is that the New York State Athletic Commission now requires all wrestling to be billed as an exhibition, not a match. I do not resent that, but rather approve of it. Wrestling IS an exhibition, as virtually everybody knows. . . I also know that the word 'exhibition' has greater drawing power than 'match'."

McPherson also goes on to explain why wrestling became the exhibition that it is today. He points out that the crowd today wouldn't accept a match, oops, pardon, exhibition in which the wrestlers held one hold for long stretches of time. Therefore, they began to spice up the events and the grapplers were coached in skilled leaps, jumps, grunts, groans and falls. Make up was a final resort after a series of flying head scissors, flying tackles, airplane spins and the like. All of which upped the box office take and made wrestling again a profitable living for all concerned. As McPherson says, good wrestlers can earn as much as two or three thousand dollars a night. And in one typical 30-day period in St. Louis, the promoter grossed $300,000. McPherson claims that there are at least 25 other cities where the take is just as good.

Here in Lubbock, conditions are different. Sled Allen, one of our favorite sports characters, says there is no such thing as conferences to decide winners. He refuses to bring in women wrestlers and other unorthdox innovations, although once or twice a year he will have such attractions as Ginger the bear and the wrestling alligator. It's simply good promotion. Sled claims the matches are on the up and up and that any good wrestling fan, after watching two wrestlers, can tell you in five minutes which is the best man. He points out, as did McPherson, that wrestlers are human, that they lose their tempers and matches change complexion as a result. He also says that the injuries are not faked and we can attest to that after seeing some of the grapplers hurt and hurt badly.

Sled also says that the wrestlers the fans see here are as adept in the use of holds as any of the old time wrestlers, but agrees that they add thespian antics to make the matches more interesting. "If we had two wrestlers put on a straight wrestling show, the same as Frank Gotch, Strangler Lewis and others used to do, the fans would walk out in no time" Sled declared. "We put on a good, clean show and the fans like it." They do indeed, as anyone can testify who goes to the local arena on Wednesday nights.

Lubbock Holds Contact Drill

The Westerners of Lubbock High school have no football game this week, but you wouldn't know it if you happened to stop by Chapman Field to see the squad work out.

Yesterday bore no resemblance to an off-week, with a good, solid head-knocking session ordered by Coach C. R. Pattison. His orders were obeyed and the Westerners went through a rough drill. Coach Pattison, while he fears that a player might get hurt, still worries that unless the squad stays on its toes it will be in for a rougher time than usual from Odessa.

The varsity had all sorts of trouble with the second string, finding the line had to dent and the backfield alert for Quarterback Bobby Brown's passes. Time after time the varsity tried the reserves' line, only to be stopped.

Guard Bob Newell, shifted to the defensive left tackle position, shone for the reserves. He bumped Brown time and time again for losses, breaking through the line quickly to tackle unerringly and hard. Other players also proved hard for the varsity to move out and plays were being stopped pretty well.

At the same time, the Westerner varsity also opened some holes that led to long runs and, in some cases, to clear fields for the ball carriers. Brown also hit pass receivers well on occasion and the drill was not entirely without its good points.

Toward the close of the session, reserves took over offensive duties entirely and the varsity was sent through a long drill on defense.

With no game this week, Coach Pattison's biggest worry is that the players will become stale. Yesterday's session just about ended any such possibilities of that.

Amateurs Are Blamed In Race Tampering

SALEM, N. H., Nov. 3 (AP) — Amateurs with larceny in their hearts and a knowledge of the physical geography of Rockingham park here sought today as those concerned with "sponging" five horses in the seventh race here Oct. 24.

Most of those interested in seizing the tamperers, who pushed small sponges into the thoroughbreds' noses, are convinced there was no intended betting coup as the wagering on the race was not abnormal.

It was pointed out, however, that the seventh race plays a part in the makeup of the figures used in the number pool in this area.

The sponging, designed to cause a horse to become distressed—particularly in a hard stretch drive—was discovered by Lyle Phillips who found a small blood-covored sponge in the feed bin of his horse Seersucker which finished fourth in the race.

(The race was won by A. J. Ryan's Crisis. Crisis also won yesterday's seventh.)

Phillips reported to track authorities and Dr. Lewis found sponges in the noses of Mrs Tom Hasko's M. Longeine which was eighth in the nine horse field; H. J. April's Shining Deed which finished in show position, and Maple Leaf farm's Farmington which was seventh.

Friday Night Bowl Deadline

DALLAS, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Cotton bowl already is sold out and no one has the least idea what teams will play in it. The host team is the Southwestern conference champion and right now three teams are in the running for that honor.

The visiting school can't even be approached until the Cotton bowl officials submit a preference list to the teams most likely to be conference champion.

Dan D. Rogers, selection chairman of the Cotton bowl, said today he thought at least a scratch list might be submitted next week.

Baylor, Rice Tied

Baylor and Rice are tied for the lead, neither having been defeated. Southern Methodist has lost only one game. Arkansas, Texas Christian and Texas each has dropped two. Saturday Baylor plays Texas, Rice meets Arkansas and Southern Methodist engages Texas A. and M., which has lost three.

Cotton bowl officials said no outside team had been contacted in any way and would not be until the Southwest conference situation clears. But it is known that two teams are being eyed more speculatively than the rest. These are Oklahoma and Michigan State.

There have been reports that Oklahoma was already committed to the Sugar bowl but Cotton bowl officials scoffed at that. They think Oklahoma would look with favor on the Dallas gridiron classic scheduled Jan. 2.

Applications Are Accepted

What Michigan State does against Notre Dame Saturday will have considerable effect on whether that team is a top candidate for a bid.

Applications for tickets to the Cotton bowl are being accepted until tomorrow night by mail with a limit of four to a person. There are 25,000 seats available to the public.

Director-General James H. Stewart said over 12,000 individual applications already had been received in the two days the sale has been underway. Most of these want the limit. Stewart thinks there will be 12,000 more applications. That would mean, even if each application was for only two tickets, that the available seats would be oversubscribed.

A drawing will have to be held to determine who gets the tickets.

Stengel Is Honored

Yankee Pilot Voted Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Casey Stengel, who hit the jackpot in his first year with the New York Yankees after nine unsuccessful seasons at National league pilot, is the major league's "manager of the year."

The grizzled veteran, who overcame a fistful of obstacles to lead the Yankees to an American league pennant and a world championship last season, was the overwhelming choice of the baseball writing fraternity which voted in the Associated Press poll.

Stengel grabbed 101 of the 116 votes cast. Only four other pilots received recognition with Detroit's Red Rolfe and the Philadelphia Phillies' Ed Sawler tied for a poor second at six votes apiece.

Hit By Injuries

Joe McCarthy, Boston Red Sox skipper, who was nosed out for the pennant two straight years on the final day, received two votes. Jack Onslow, freshman pilot of the Chicago White Sox, got the remaining vote.

Stengel received the accolade for his tremendous job with a club that didn't figure to win in the first place, and was crippled by a record number of injuries and illnesses from the start of the season right down to the final day. In addition, he had to live down the reputation as a clown and court jester.

He came to the Yankees as a stranger after five years in the minors. Even before the club concluded its spring training program in Florida, he was accepted by his players as a sound tactician, a keen student of the game and a smart handler of men.

No Fines Levied

It was Stengel's proud boast that he didn't levy a single fine on any of his players. Nor was there a single squabble between player and manager all year.

"Never have I seen a club work together as this one did," he proudly said at the club's victory dinner after the final World series game. "Maybe we weren't the greatest team in history, but the Yanks of '49 were the fightingest, most spirited team I ever saw in my 40 years in the game."

It is not too far-fetched to credit Casey with infusing some of the fight, hustle and spirit that enabled the Yankees to hurdle all barriers and defeat a favored Red Sox team in the closing days of one of the most torrid seasons in American league history.

Italy's removal of electricity rationing caused no immediate business upturn.

Tech Cage Mentor Faces Rebuilding

Coach Polk Robison enters another year as basketball coach at Texas Tech with one of the greatest problems he ever has had to face.

The genial Red Raider mentor must completely rebuild the team that finished second in the Border Conference race last year and highest of any Texas college. To do it, he has been sending his basketball squad through long practices daily, while still trying to help the football squad.

This year Coach Robison has only three lettermen on hand, while 15 members of last year's freshman squad make up the bulk of his material. Despite the short space of time in which the players have worked, Coach Robison says that he has a fighting squad.

Back from last year are three men who helped carry Tech to the top spot among Texas Border Conference quintets: Gene Gibson, Lakeview, lengthy forward who has been shifted to postman; Chester Jackson, Monument, N. M., guard; and Charles Pinnell, hustling Andrews forward.

Eight candidates were members of the freshmen team last winter. Jack Alderson, Lubbock, has high hopes of being a starter at forward or guard. Irl Brown, 6 foot, 6 inch Katonah, N. Y., lad, will understudy Gibson at the post spot.

Verdell Turner, Lubbock, is returning to form and is expected by fans to be a regular. Jim Eddins, Sudan, also is coming along, as are Ted O'Neill, hustling Wellington guard; Doral Sandlin, Lubbock forward; Glen Lucas, Whiteface tall one; and Jim Sharp, Amarillo forward.

Three transfers may add strength. They are J. R. McAnally, Weathefford Junior college; James Cole, North Texas Aggies; and Weldon McClure, Howard-Payne.

Bill Eddins, Sudan, war-time letterman, completes the active squad.

PETERSBURG QUINT WINS

PETERSBURG, Nov. 3. (Special)—The Petersburg All-Star basketball team last night defeated Lubbock's Crawford Electric crew, 46-35, in a game played here. Bob Scarborough, with 18 points, paced the All-Star attack, while Bo Barkowsky tallied 16 points for the losers.

The Philippine Congress defeated a proposal to nationalize the legal profession.

Scrimmage Feature Of Raider Workout

Heavy scrimmage was on the menu yesterday afternoon for Texas Tech's Red Raiders, who Saturday face Texas Western in their third Border Conference game of the year and their biggest hurdle so far to another Border title.

The Raider squad yesterday was whipped, verbally by Coach Dell Morgan and physically by a rough scrimmage. It would be hard to tell which was the most intense, but the scrimmage produced as much results as could be expected, even though it was dispirited drill.

It also produced a minor injury to Center Bobby Williams and what may be a severe ankle injury for Tackle Doug McSwane. McSwane was helped off the field by Trainer Mason Gorby after sustaining an injured ankle. The injury may cost the Raiders one of their best offensive tackles.

But the biggest concern to the coaches was the deadness of spirit on the field. There was little chatter as the first string went through a long offensive drill that finally was continued under lights when it became too dark to see at twilight.

Earlier in the afternoon, the Raiders worked on defensive plays to be used against the powerful Miners, who hold one of the best offensive ground records in the nation. Forward passing also came in for attention.

Quarterback Milton Rathbone again was working without pads and is a questionable player Saturday. He maintains that he is ready to go, but the doctors say that he is through. Coach Morgan has not commented. Although he has given the impression that he fears Rathbone might be injured seriously if allowed to play.

MINERS FIGHTING MAD AND PLANNING TO UPSET TECH

EL PASO, Nov. 3 (Special)—Texas Western's Miners are fightin' mad and have prepared definite plans to toss their full fury at the Texas Tech Red Raiders come this Saturday night when the two elevens meet here in a crucial Border Conference tilt, which will climax Homecoming activities for ex-Miners.

The anger results from their first defeat of the season last Saturday when the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys ran through the Miners like a North wind in a fatal fourth quarter splurge to win 33-14; and secondly, the Orangemen well remember their humiliation of the 1948 season when the Red Raiders caught the Miners flat and won a resounding 46-6 victory.

Making the struggle even more important is that Texas Western must have a victory to stay in the Border Conference title chase. Tech is still undefeated in conference play and a good bet to retain the Border championship in spite of losses to Southwest Conference teams.

Coach Jack Curtice is highly hopeful that the physical condition of his Orange crew will be greatly improved over what it was against Hardin-Simmons. Herman Foster, first string defensive guard from Odessa, is due to be back after missing one game; and Cordell McCraw, explosive Virginia fullback, may be ready after sitting out the past two contests.

Harvey (Pug) Gabrel, Texas Western's ace running back, and Ernest Keily, Co-Captain and great linesman, both received severe charley horses but will be ready for the Red Raiders.

The big concern for the Miners is stopping the bruising Red Raider running attack. Using a host of powerful ball toters headed by Bud Conley, Tim Hatch, Ike Stuver and Calvin Stevenson, Tech is noted for its line-slitting brand of football.

Since the Miners-Red Raider series on the gridiron began in 1930, seven games have been played. Last year Tech won the rubber game and took a lead of four wins to three for the Miners.

Tech Frosh To Invade Odessa

Odessa Junior college, which the Texas Tech freshmen beat 13-0 last week in Lubbock, will provide the competition for the Picadors again this week, only this time it will be in Odessa.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the second meeting in consecutive weeks of the two teams, neither of which were impressive in the game here. Coach Allie White and Coach Red Coats agreed on another game, this one taking the place of the fray with New Mexico Military Institute that was rained out at Roswell, N. M.

The Tech freshman, under Border conference rules, are permitted to play five games a season. Cancellation of the recent contest with New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell allowed playing of the second contest with Odessa in addition to the four already scheduled.

Members of the Picadors are dissatisfied with their efforts last weekend and have announced they will do much better in the second meeting with the Wranglers.

Tech will use the same men who have won two games and lost none this fall, including Waldo Young, W. H. Barker, Carl Madison, Chuck Reynolds, Ronnie Miller and others in the offensive backfield, and Carol Drye, Reynolds, and Jerry Killian defensively.

Coach White plans to use the platoon system again, changing elevens for defense and offense.

Texas Western Gets Ace Pioneer Cager

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 3 (Special)—Wayland college has lost one of its top basketball players and the loss of D. W. Harkins of Levelland means only trouble for the Border Conference teams he will face.

Harkins, an all-stater at Levelland and one of the top scorers in the nation while playing with a strong junior college quintet at Wayland the past two years, has jumped to Texas Western. The Pioneers will miss the point maker from Levelland this season

Harkins, a 6'1" forward with an uncanny eye for the basket, will toss them in for Texas Western College at El Paso this season. Supporters in Plainview wish him luck in keeping the nets swishing at his new alma mater.

Keeping his present pace, Harkins has a good chance of winding up his college career with close to 2000 points. In 1947-48 while playing on the Junior College Conference championship team at Wayland he stood second in the nation with his free shots totaling 101 out of 135 tries. With a 15.9 average per game he tossed 509 points for the season. Off a little in 1948-49, his game average ran 14.8 with a 449 total. With 958 points in two seasons behind him, Harkins is considered by Coach Harley Redin of Wayland to be "one of the best."

Harkins scored perfectly when he married Laura Belle Parker of Stinnett, also a Wayland student. The couple now resides in El Paso.

Wayland's Pioneers have five lettermen back from their great Junior College teams of the past two seasons with which to form a squad to play a 30-game schedule on a Senior College circuit this season.

While cutting down laurel bushes and a beech hedge in the garden of David Camlin, in Belfast, Northern Ireland, John Thompson, gardener, found an incendiary bomb believed to have been there since a 1914 air raid.

Mask Defeats Parks In Bout

It was a tough night for the referee at Sled Allen's emporium of wrestling last night.

Charlie Carr, the third man in the ring, was thrown from the ring twice, given several good shoves and caught a straight right to the jaw that knocked him off the ring apron onto concrete floor. All that and the wrong verdict, too.

The wrong call came in the deciding match of the night, when Herb Parks was in the process of beating The Grey Mask. Both the mask and Carr were on the ring apron. Parks aimed a straight right, but it went awry, catching Carr and knocking him to the floor.

Parks pulled the Mask into the ring and had him under a smother, but the referee couldn't get back in time to raise his arm. Just as Carr did get back in the ring, the Mask grabbed Parks by the hair, pulled him over and applied a reverse toehold that was good for the victory.

In the preliminary match, Salvador Flores and George Overhull went to a draw in their 20-minute grapple. And Alex Kasaboski won the deciding fall from Al Getz in the semi-final match on disqualification.

It was a good night for the spectators, with the first match giving the crowd enough excitement to set the stage for the final two matches.

Kasaboski won the first fall in 17 minutes with a reverse crab, but Getz came back strong to take the second in 10 minutes with a series of body slams and a smother.

The third fall started out with Kasaboski using all the treachery possible. Getz stood the punishment as long as he could, then he went to work. When Carr got in the way, Getz threw him out of the ring, not once, but twice. He pushed Carr away four or five times, but the last time Carr avoided him and raised Kasaboski's arm in token of victory.

Brad Rowland Tops League Statistics

ABILENE, Nov. 3 (AP)—McMurry college Halfback Brad Rowland stands in a class by himself in the Texas conference. He is the leader in rushing, total offense, punting and scoring.

Rowland added to his gridiron laurels last weekend by picking up 150 yards rushing, 131 passing, scoring three touchdowns and passing for two others as the Indians defeated Austin college, 34-19.

His total now is 1,053 yards rushing on 117 carries, a total overall gain of 1,325 yards and 96 points in seven games. He has averaged 38.5 yards on 27 kicks.

Southwest Gridders Start Tapering Off

(By The Associated Press)

Southwest Conference football teams started tapering off today for Saturday's games.

Texas yesterday worked on a defense to stop Baylor's potent passing attack. Three Longhorn backs—Randall Clay, Byron Townsend and Billy Pyle—missed the practice because of injuries.

Southern Methodist university also stressed pass defense, while Texas Christian players started a daily tackling practice.

Baylor trainer Delmar Brown said Center Gene Huebner may not be able to play against Texas. He has a back injury. Several other Bear players are ailing.

DUKE END HONORED

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 3 (AP) — Blaine Earon, Duke's sophomore end who wasn't even a regular member of the team at the beginning of the season, is the lineman of the week. The 20-year-old lad from Altoona, Pa., won first honors in the weekly Associated Press poll for his solid play against Georgia Tech.

In one of the top Big Ten contests, the System favors Michigan over Purdue by 15.1. Minnesota is given a 6.1 nod over Iowa.

In the Southeastern Conference, it's L.S.U. by 10.4 over Vanderbilt, and Georgia over Florida by 13.6.

Kentucky, in a clash outside of the S.E.C., is favored by 18.2 over Xavier of Cincinnati. The system likes Tulane over Navy by 12.8.

Large Crowd Slated At Brownfield Clash

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 3 (Special)—A crowd approximating 3,000 persons is expected to witness the crucial District 4-B game pitting Meadow's Bronchos against the Ropesville Eagles here tonight.

The tilt, originally scheduled to be played Friday night at Meadow, was transferred this week to Cub stadium to provide enlarged seating facilities, and moved up to tonight in order to prevent a conflict with the Brownfield-Midland game here this weekend.

Meadow, with seven straight wins, is the only undefeated Class B teams on the South Plains. The Bronchos have won five straight district games to take over the loop lead, which Ropesville currently is in second place with five wins and one loss.

Kickoff time tonight will be 8 o'clock.

BID IS SUBMITTED

WACO, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Baylor stadium corporation board of directors will consider at a meeting in Austin Saturday a low bid of $1,127,188 for the construction of Baylor university's new 42,000-seat football stadium.

Death Claims Copper King

SOLOMON GUGGENHEIM

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Nov. 3. (AP)—Solomon R. Guggenheim, senior member of America's great mining family, died here early today at his Long Island estate, Trillora Court. He was 88.

The multi-millionaire copper king was active in the family business until three weeks ago, when his health suddenly began to fail. His condition worsened early this week and his three daughters were called home.

Wife At Bedside

His wife, Irene, was with him when he died, and a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Obre, of Baltimore, also were present. His eldest daughter, Countess Castle Stewart, was reported flying home from England.

Guggenheim was the senior member of the firm of Guggenheim brothers, and was the last survivor of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, who started the family in the mining business in North and South America.

He also was a generous art patron, and had been a collector since his marriage in 1895 to Irene M. Rothschild, a young art follower.

In 1937 he formed the Solomon R. Guggenheim foundation to encourage and popularize art—especially in its modern form of non-objective painting. His own personal collection ranged from American landscapes to the barbizon school and primitives.

Head Of Family Firm

As head of the family firm, Guggenheim was a director of a number of metals corporations, including Kennecott copper, Braden Cooper, Pacific tin, and the Nevada Northern Railway Co. He also was one of the major stockholders in the huge Anaconda Copper Mining Co.

Guggenheim was born Feb. 2, 1861, in Philadelphia, the son of a prosperous embroidery manufacturer. He was educated in the United States and Switzerland. His father early became interested in Colorado mining, and this end of the business prospered so that the sons liquidated the embroidery firm and concentrated on metals. The family developed vast holdings in the United States, Mexico and South America.

Liberal With Charities

Guggenheim was liberal with charities, and supported many Jewish and non-Jewish institutions. With his brothers, he built an annex to the Mt. Sinai hospital in New York as a memorial to his parents.

He also is survived by his youngest daughter, Gertrude R. Guggenheim, and four grandchildren.

Two grandsons, children of the Earl and Countess Castle Stewart, were killed in the British army in World War II. Their third son, Viscount Patrick Stuart, is heir to the title and now is with the British army in Malaya.

Funeral services have not yet been announced.

977 Take X-Rays In County's TB Survey

A total of 313 persons received x-ray examinations at the American Legion hall this morning, increasing the total to 977 since the Lubbock county x-ray survey opened in the downtown location Wednesday.

Shallowater and Roosevelt high school students were among persons receiving examinations this morning.

The examinations, given by a mobile unit of the state health department, are free to all Lubbock county residents 15 years of age or older.

Tuberculosis virtually could be eliminated in Lubbock county if everyone would take advantage of the opportunity for the free examinations, thus making it possible for the disease to be discovered in its early stages, Dr. W. H. Gordon, president of Lubbock County Tuberculosis association, has announced.

A group of employes from Hilton hotel and the Cowhands, Lubbock High school "B" football squad members, were to take the examinations this afternoon, along with other members of the public.

Bus Strike

in conference through part of the night by Mayor Oscar Holcombe. The compromise company offer was issued through the mayor's office shortly after 4 a. m.

The union members had been urged by John J. Ryan, international representative for the union, to accept the offer.

Keeps Meeting Underway

The proposal was agreed to by negotiators at a meeting that began at 11:10 p. m. and continued until shortly after 4 a. m.

Holcombe had determinedly kept the meeting going in hopes of ending the strike before residents began their morning rush to work.

An estimated 175,000 persons take about 300,000 bus rides daily.

The mayor said the company's proposal, in addition to the immediate increase, calls for periodic revisions of the immediate 13-cent increase after six, nine and 12 months if bus company profits exceed a formula to be arranged.

Holcombe called the negotiators to his office after they had spent over 10 hours yesterday and last night with Federal Labor Conciliator James O. Hubbard.

Import Program

many instances and should be modernized to facilitate sales of foreign products here. The administration is already working on this.

4. Obstacles to imports which Acheson said arise from the agricultural price support system should be removed where possible. It is understood that the State department is urging action by the Agriculture department.

5. Federal, state and local governments which spend $10,000,000,000 a year for supplies should be given more freedom in buying foreign goods and not be rigidly required to "buy American.

6. Regulations which deny the use of foreign shipping for American exports in some instances—and similar restrictions—interpose obstacles on the earnings of dollars by foreign countries and Acheson indicated he would like to have these reviewed and modified.

Coal Strike

said: "The issues involved are national in character and cannot be reconciled to district negotiations."

This evident decision to stick to industry-wide bargaining was a blow of Lewis' strategy to make a separate deal with Indiana or Illinois mine operators in hopes the rest of the soft coal industry would go along.

Governor Issues Plea

An appeal similar to Gov. Schricker's was made by Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. But Stevenson confined himself to a plea to both sides for a quick peace plan.

Minnesota's Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl also called for an end to the strike, but he addressed his appeal to President Truman.

"Your earnest efforts to bring the coal strike to an immediate end are hereby solicited," Youngdahl wired, "so that subsequent acute suffering in our severe winter climate can be avoided."

Like Youngdahl, Schricker and Stevenson said their states are suffering from fuel shortages with cold weather starting.

Million Men On Strike

The only coal negotiations that have been going on of late—between the miners union and southern operators — were broken off talks with northern and western yesterday by the operators. UMW operators ended without result last month.

The southern operators' president, Joseph E. Moody, said at Bluefield, W. Va., that to continue their talks after five months of getting nowhere would do no good.

There are almost a million men on strike in the coal and steel stoppages.

CIO President Philip Murray, directing the steel strike, has won a pension-insurance settlement with the Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest producer. While presiding over the annual CIO convention at Cleveland, Murray is trying to get other steel firms to take the Bethlehem terms.

MILD DECLINE HALTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—A faint rally in late trading halted a gentle decline in the stock market today.

Closing prices in many cases were a little above the lows for the day.

Losses were mostly fractional, a few running to a point or more. Several railway and airline issues, among others, showed independent stability.

Business was brisk although below yesterday's 1,570,000 shares. Turnover hit a rate of around 1,300,000 shares for the full session.

Profit taking after a long rise was rated a factor in the market's setback. Yesterday the general price level advanced to a 12-month high, the peak thus far of a move which started in mid-June.

Recent demand has been credited in large part to hopes for quick settlement of the steel and coal strikes, as well as a strong inflationary tinge to Wall street's thinking.

Among the losers were Douglas Aircraft (off more than 3 at one time) U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Phillips Petroleum, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, and Union Pacific.

Also tending higher were Southern Pacific, American Airlines, Transcontinental and Western Air, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison and Kennecott Copper.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Cotton futures were irregular today. Mill buying featured the market, with contracts coming through commission house profit taking. Hedge selling was light.

About 14,500 bales of the nearby March delivery were sold through one broked. The operation was attributed to profit taking.

Profit taking and hedging depressed cotton futures into low ground for the day in late trading.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Grains retreated after knocking out some new 1949 highs on the board of trade today. Profit-taking forced the retreat. Many contracts fell below the previous close.

Before the late sell-off, March, May and July corn contracts scored new seasonal highs. Light cash grain receipts, plus prospects for a reduced acreage next year, spurred buying. December and May oats eked out new 1949 tops by making slight gains.

Wheat lagged most of the session.

Wheat closed ¼-⅞ lower, December $2.11⅞-$2.12, corn was ⅜-¾ higher, December $1.19¼-½, oats were ⅛-⅜ lower, December 73½, rye was 1½-1¾ lower, December $1.42, soybeans were ¾-1¼ lower, November $2.25½-½, and lard was 20 cents lower to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, November $9.52-$9.50.

BERRY

The announcement was made today by Robert O. Pugh, commander of the Disabled American Veterans organization here, who assisted in obtaining the decoration, announced some time ago.

In addition to the Distinguished Flying Cross, Lt. Berry was authorized the following decorations: The American defense service ribbon, World War II victory medal, aviation badge "Bombardier," American campaign medal, and the European - African - Middle Eastern campaign medal with three bronze service stars for participation in the Air Offensive Europe, Tunisia and Sicily campaigns.

English said neither Alford, 30, nor Smith, a newly-discharged sailor, would give any reason for grabbing the child, although they admitted seizing her.

English said the two men, both bachelors, apparently were intoxicated. The capture of the pair ended a widespread search.

Police feared the girl had met with violence when they found her red coat and pink sweater near the spot where she was picked up. Officers said it was then they learned that her abductors were drinking heavily.

Pilot Told

fracture and other severe injuries.

Rios knew his plane had hit something and that he had come to struggling in the water. But he was able to tell official investigators and others little else. Civil aeronautics board officials hope to learn more from him when—and if—his condition improves.

When, rousing from his frequent blackouts, Rios would ask what happened to the plane he hit, doctors tried to turn his thoughts to something else. All visitors were ordered to do the same.

But yesterday afternoon one of them—perhaps it was a slip of the tongue—said the forbidden words.

Rios almost immediately began failing. Last night he nearly died. Bolivian officials were hastily called to his bedside.

Today the flyer's personal physician learned what had caused the relapse. The Bolivian, whose condition had been promising before, had discarded his desire to survive.

Just who told Rios what his plane had done was not divulged. But it was one of four or five Bolivian friends admitted to see him yesterday.

The nurses on duty did not understand Spanish, in which the visitors were talking to the pilot, and were not aware when the conversation got on delicate ground.

Meanwhile, 53 bodies were recovered and all were identified. The latest bodies to be identified were those of Miss Thelma Foster, of Missoula, Mont., Mrs. Sam Williamson, Blaine, Md., and Gardner Taylor, Bronxville, N. Y. Still to be recovered were the bodies of J. Vogel, New York, and William Smythe, Roslyn Estates, N. Y.

and Des Moines. What he calls the "reactionaries" and "selfish interests" are his targets again.

He is due in Minneapolis at 2 p. m. (EST) for a parade into St. Paul, a reception, a banquet and then his speech in the civic auditorium.

It is all part of "Truman day" climaxing the celebration of Minnesota's centennial.

The presidential special this time is a "stag train." There isn't even a woman reporter aboard.

It differs from the campaign train in that he isn't making any platform speeches at this time.

A crowd of several hundred turned out when he stopped briefly at Cumberland, Md., last night.

He appeared with Democratic National Chairman Bill Boyle and waved. He did most of his talking to Miss Pat Fullerton, a reporter for the Cumberland News.

As they chatted, he told her he would like to return to his habit of visiting that western Maryland city again when he has completed his "tremendous job" in the White House.

He guessed, he said, he had passed through Cumberland "a hundred times" when he was a senator, driving to and from the capitol to Missouri.

He recalled having been "up to the fort on the hill"—old Fort Cumberland. The city, he said, is the starting place of one of the old-trails westward to the Mississippi.

public of Texas.

Mrs. Wofford said her organization would attempt to beautify and preserve the rambling building in which much Texas history was made.

The DRT plan to restore the embassy to its appearance when Count Alphonse De Saligny built it in 1840 to house the French embassy. Then it will be opened to the public.

The historic building was bought by Dr. Joseph Robertson, Austin's first physician, after Texas became a state. It was his family's homestead until the deaths of his daughters, Miss Lillie Robertson and Mrs. Sarar Smith, in 1941 and 1942, respectively.

The house was closed until the Robertson estate sold it to the state. It is furnished with relics of Texas' days as a republic. One of the prized mementoes is a chair in which Stephen F. Austin once sat.

George Berry Speaks For Poll Tax Repeal

George Berry, Lubbock attorney and former assistant state attorney general, today told members of the Kiwanis club "the only way to keep the federal congress from intervening in ourstate's rights is to vote for Amendment 4 in next Tuesday's election."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Lubbock, the former state American Legion commander, said the proposed amendment is not actually a poll tax repeal "but a means to establish governmental machinery for repeal of the poll tax by the legislature and for the removal of the poll tax as requirement for voting."

He quoted from the United States constitution in order to prove his point that the federal government has the power to intervene when poll taxes are required before a citizen can vote.

Berry also cited that it is feasible that the federal government can cut down the number of congressional representatives from Texas to 11 if the state fails to comply with the standards set by 41 states of the Union.

"Virginia is voting on a similar amendment next Tuesday also," he illustrated, "in order to protect its states rights.'

Berry failed to take a concrete stand on proposed Amendments 1, 2, 3 and 5 but said he favored passage of the last five proposals.

He was introduced by Preston Smith, local theater magnate and member of the state legislature. Fred Sparks presided.

The ministers are to consider one resolution passed by the assembly calling for a European political authority endowed with real powers to carry out "limited functions" in international government.

Under the statute setting up the council, assembly resolutions must be approved also by the foreign ministers before they can be sent to member governments as "recommendations." Final decision on putting them into effect remains with the various parliaments and their governments.

The ministers also will consider a proposal for a special assembly session early in 1950.

BOSS HAGUE'S POWER AT STAKE

New Jersey Governor Seeking Re-Election In Tuesday Vote

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll next Tuesday will try to do something no other New Jersey governor could do—succeed himself as the state's chief executive.

A decisive victory might well stamp the 47-year-old governor as a front runner for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Driscoll is the first New Jersey governor to seek the office under a new state constitution, adopted in 1947, which permits a governor to serve a second consecutive term.

His opponent in the Tuesday election is Democrat Elmer H. Wene, a onetime congressman backed by Frank "Boss" Hague whose once all-powerful political machine has been creakjng of late.

Test Of Hague Power

How much influence Hague still wields may determine the election which many politicians see as a close one.

During his campaign Driscoll has stressed his record as governor the past three years. On numerous occasions he has jabbed at the present Democratic national administration.

In discussing his record Driscoll points to a new streamlined state government and enactment of a program of civil rights and social measures. This, his associates say, has placed him among the leaders of the GOP liberal wing.

His attacks o nthe federal government have centered on taxes and spending. The Democratic party, he says, is the party of big government bent on "centralized power in Washington."

Some politicians have interpreted Driscoll's references to national affairs as indicating his desire to be associated with the national scene as well as the state.

Has GOP Backing

Time and again at campaign rallies throughout the state Driscoll has been introduced as the next Republican presidential nominee. He hasn't encouraged this, however. Whenever such mention is made in public, Driscoll says his promary concern is 1949, not 1952.

There was talk two years ago of Driscoll as the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1948. This faded when the top spot on the ticket went to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, another easterner.

New Jersey's first ballot votes at the 1948 Republican national convention went to Driscoll as a "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination.

During a recent visit here Guy Gabrielson, a New Jersey resident and national GOP chairman, declined to be drawn into a discussion of Driscoll's chances in 1952.

He did say, however, that Driscoll has the full force of the Republican national organization behind him in his bid for reelection as governor and his showing would be a gauge of the trend of Republicanism in the nation.

Latest Shaw Play Is Termed "Flop"

LONDON, Nov. 3 (INS)—George Bernard Shaw, author of many a hit play, apparently had his biggest flop today at the age of 93. But he wasn't surprised.

The management of the West End theater said that Shaw's latest, "Buoyant Billions," will be withdrawn next week "because it is failing to attract London audiences." It has had a five-week run, the shortest of any new Shaw play.

Shaw commented:

"I did not expect it to run very long. It may find another smaller theater. If not, I won't lose any sleep over it."

Wall Street Asked To Boost Scranton

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (INS)—A jobless ex-GI paraded New York's Wall street today encased in signboards appealing for new industry for his home town, Scranton, Pa.

Anthony Zychal, 33, carried signs reading:

"Dear Wall street—Scranton needs a heavy industry. 20,000 men are jobless. We beg you to build in Scranton. Love and kisses. The people of Scranton."

Zychal, an ex-marine, spent the entire day in the financial district. He said he was carrying on the campaign on his own.

He added that he had come to New York by train this morning, spending $6.80 for fare out of his $11 a month disability allowance. Newsmen bought his meals.

DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP)—The world's biggest and smartest fleas live in Texas.

That's what State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles says.

He spoke to the Dallas Rotary club yesterday, and somehow got the itch to talk about fleas.

"Monahans out in far West Texas is now the mecca of wild flea hunters," he said.

"Hunters from flea circuses are coming there in droves. The Monahans country raises a flea that is exceptionally large and intelligent. A Monahans flea learns tricks in half the time of an ordinary flea."

The presence of many refugees from Palestine increased the use of tobacco in Syria and Lebanon, to over 8,124,000 pounds last year, 10 per cent above normal.

New Western Union Equipment Replacing Old Telegraph Key

In this modern era, in which technicians are continually striving for improvement, the "old faithful" of the Western Union, the telegraph key, is becoming almost as obsolete as the one-horse shay.

That is the rueful comment of O. J. "Bo" Sexton, manager of the Lubbock office, who has seen many new methods for improving service introduced in his 38 years with the company.

As an example of this, Sexton revealed that one of the latest developments in message transmission to be announced by the company is the high speed message center, which has been installed at terminal points throughout the nation, and is soon to be established at Dallas, central office for the state.

Dallas Is "Central"

At present, messages originating in any Texas office are sent to Dallas. Dallas, in turn, sends the messages on to their respective destinations.

The new system will make routing of these messages entirely automatic, Sexton explained. For example, if a Lubbockite today should send a message to Chicago, the message first must go to Dallas. The Dallas office then sends the message to Chicago.

Under the new system, the Lubbock operator merely will begin the Chicago telegram with a code designation, and a mechanical circuit at Dallas will automatically switch the message into a direct line to Chicago.

Local Office Modernized

The method of sending telegrams from the local office here has been subject to modernization through the years, too, said Sexton.

The sending and receiving of messages has been made comparatively simple by the installation of the teleprinter, a duplex circuit machine that sends and receives at the same time.

While an operator is typing out a message to Dallas on the keyboard of the teleprinter, an incoming telegram may be ticking out at the same sime on a paper tape which feeds from out of the side of the machine.

Tape Pasted On Blanks

The telegram as you receive it takes shape as the paper tape containing the message is cut into strips and pasted on company blanks for distribution.

But the Morse system isn't completely lost in the shuffle of the modern era. N. W. McClure, who has been working a key for 35 years, said that a large volume of business still is done with the aid of the dot-dash mechanism.

The telegraph key is popular among newsmen for covering special events, such as football games. Because of its simplicity and economy, it is ideal for such occasions.

Many small offices in the rural areas of the South Plains and small railroad stations send messages into the Lubbock office by Morse, he said. The volume of business done by each of these stations is not heavy enough to merit installation of teleprinters, so in one case, at least, the ancient seems to serve better than the modern.

Another company "ancient," which is quite indispensible even in this modern age, is the messenger boy. Despite the technological improvements of today, that messenger boy still is a key factor in getting a telegram through quickly.

And while delivering millions of these messages through the years, Lubbock messenger boys have established a safety record they can be proud of.

Accident Record Good

For almost ten years, from November, 1939, to September, 1948, Lubbock Western Union boys were not involved in a single traffic mishap. Quite a record, and not by accident, either.

"Many people think of a boy on a bicycle as a very potential danger," said M. T. Grady, district supervisor of delivery, "but our boys are trained to follow traffic regulations and rules of safety."

Sexton, who started with the company in 1911 as a messenger, sees potential executives in the boys who carry telegrams to their destination now.

With the increasing need for special technicians in the work of the Western Union, they could easily become active with the company as they grow older, he reflected.

And as they grow older, improvements will continue and outmoded methods will be discarded. As the teleprinter has replaced the Morse key, who knows—maybe one of the boys will develop something to replace the teleprinter.

Fund Is Raised For Victim Of Accident

DENVER, Nov. 3(INS)—Mrs. Betta Siegel, 49, a German refugee, injured Oct. 30 when she was struck by a car near Denver, lay in a Denver hospital today with a 50-50 chance to live.

She received fractures of both collar bones, both shoulder bones, all the ribs on her left side, her left arm, her pelvis and received internal injuries. Her husband is ill, works only when he feels good.

Who cared?

Sixty-seven old folks at the Beth Israel home for the aged—some with a total allowance of $5 a month—cared.

Hearing of Mrs. Siegel's plight at breakfast call this morning, the elderly persons in a matter of hours had collected $85 for her—some gave their entire allowance.

Gavel Belonging To AFL Agent Is Stolen

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 3. (AP)—Are the thieves holding business meetings these days?

Joseph C. Nettleton, business agent for local 53, AFL-meat and cannery workers, reported to police yesterday that someone broke into his parked car and stole a gavel given him by fellow union members.

Also taken, Nettleton said, was a six-inch square ebony sounding board—used to produce a bigger bang with the gavel.

President Of AP To Speak To Managing Editors' Convention

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3 (AP) — Robert McLean, publisher of the Philadelphia Bulletin and president of the Associated Press, speaks today before the 16th annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors association.

Arriving here last night, the 58-year-old McLean called the managing editors' group—"which brings the working newspaperman closely in contact with the management"—the most important development during the 25 years he has served with the AP. McLean has been president of the AP since 1938 and a director for 25 years.

Lyndon B. Johnson, U. S. senator from Texas, addressed the APMEA last night, telling the delegates "the American people expect the Associated Press to be dependable."

Guests At Dinner

"The people are accustomed to making decisions and forming opinions on the basic of what the AP reports," the senator said at a dinner at Shady Oak farm. More than 300 newspapermen and their wives were dinner guests of Amon Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"You have within your hands the power to mould the will of the nation," Johnson told the editors. "You have a power that can be greater than the power of the government. Yet the people have no voice in what you do or how you operate—so it is your responsibility to serve the people as surely as elected officials in public office must also serve the people.

"The people will protect the freedom of the press if the press protects the freedom of the people."

The national meeting opened yesterday and will run through noon Saturday.

DIVERS CLEARING OUT RUBBLE

Clue To Cause Of Tragedy In Plane Collision Being Sought

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — Navy divers bredging up the rubble of history's worst airplane crash from the bottom of the Potomac river turned their attention today to the Bolivian fighter plane which caused the disaster.

Officials hoped to find in the battered remnants of the P-38 some clue to the cause of its collision Tuesday with an Eastern Airlines passenger plane. The collision caused the sudden death of 55 persons and left only the Bolivian pilot still alive.

Plane Is Shredded

The divers, slogging along the muddy river bed in ooze up to their waists, succeeded late yesterday in freeing the front end of the DC-4 transport. It was shredded almost unbelievably in places.

Workers continued grappling along the bottom—35 feet deep at that point—for the three victims still not accounted for.

The Navy said it planned to turn next to a search for the Bolivian plane. There has been speculation that radio trouble in the P-38 was to blame for its failure to heed repeated warnings from the tower to stay out of the transport's way.

The fighter's pilot, Bolivian aviation director Erick Rios Bridoux, rested in an Alexandria, Va., hospital with a fractured spine and two broken ribs. He was still unaware of all that had happened since he entered the National airport traffic pattern for a landing Tuesday.

Doctors kept newspapers away from him and refused to let him speak at any length. Apparently, he was even unsure what it was his palne had hit.

Demands Pressed

Lawmakers pressed their demands for a thorough investigation of the tragedy, and the Civil Aeronautics board announced a six-man panel to start hearings. Maj. German Pol, chief of operations of the Bolivian air force, was named an observer at the CAB inquiry.

Pol earlier told a reporter that Rios Bridoux had ordered a new radio installed in the P-38 over the weekend, after expressing dissatisfaction with the old one.

D. W. Rentzel, Civil Aeronautics administrator, issued a statement late yesterday clearing Eastern Airlines of any responsibility for the tragedy.

In both of the two recent fatal collisions involving Eastern planes, he said, "the carrier was operating in conformity with all safety rules."

He said the line has "established a lengthy record for reliability and safety," and added:

"The safety standards of U. S. airlines have been maintained at a high peak, and neither of the two accidents of the last 15 months reflects in any way upon the operations of the airlines, their pilots or their aircraft."

The Bolivian government expressed "the most profound regret" for the accident.

Rep. Lane (D-Mass), whose Republican colleague Rep. George Bates of Massachusetts lost his life in the crash, declared that the public will not be satisfied with any "routine exam" of the disaster. In a telegram to Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, he said:

"Military planes must be barred from commercial airports to prevent a repetition of Tuesday's mass murder."

Technically, the Bolivian P-38 became a commercial palne with its sale by the United States government, and was legally entitled to use National airport facilities.

Rios Bridoux was flight-checking the fighter preparatory to its removal to Bolivia when he collided with the transport as both were attempting to land.

Was Ripped In Two

The crash occurred despite the frantic efforts of the airport control tower to avert it. Spectators said the fighter smashed into the larger plane, ripping it in two.

One section of the DC-4 dropped to the river bank; the other fell into the water and embedded itself in the slimy bottom.

Efforts to recover the bodies started immediately. Some 40 hours later they were still going on.

Navy divers, aided by a giant crane, ploughed through silt which sometimes reached to their hips, as they loosened the torn fuselage from the river bed. Occasionally the divers themselves, working 35 feet below the surface, had to be pried from the mud.

They found the wreckage upside down and half-buried in the ooze. Hopes that it would yield the missing bodies proved unfounded, and the search went on.

Confederate Flag Is Used For Decoration

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—The fad-conscious motorist in this northernmost southern city is replacing the foxtail on his antenna with a new emblem—the Confederate flag. The hawker of balloons and other novelties is adding quantities of one-foot square Stars and Bars to his line of goods.

No one seems to be able to explain the sudden popularity of the Confederate banners here although they did return to a certain prominence in 1948's political campaign as the emblem of the States Rights Democrats. A wholesale dealer in flags here says his business in the Confederate banners has increased by about 200 per cent in the past six months.

The flags he distributes are manufactured in Verona, New Jersey.

NO. 3 OF A FOUR-PART SERIES

Explanation Of Amendments In Nov. 8 Election Offered

By H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

THIS is the third of four articles presenting brief explanations of and arguments for and against the 10 proposed amendments to the state constitution upon which Texans will vote next Tuesday.

NO. 6

An amendment authorizing the Legislature to set up a statewide system of retirement and disability pensions for appointive county officials and employes, subject to approval by the voters of affected counties.

UNDER this amendment, the retirement fund would be created by deducting up to 5 per cent of the employe's pay, with the county contributing up to 7½ per cent to the pool. Elective officials would not be affected. The details of the plan adopted would be worked out by the Legislature.

The principal arguments for the proposition are that county employes now are ineligible for social security protection; that old age security would mean higher morale and greater efficiency in county governments, and that it could not be put into effect in any county unless the qualified voters residing therein approved it.

The chief arguments against it are that this would invite a further intrusion by the state government into the conduct of local affairs and that its approval would mean increased taxation. Salaries are one of the biggest items in the operating costs of any county government and a 7½ per cent contribution to a retirement fund would require additional taxes.

There also is a question as to who would administer the fund. The implications are that it would be administered at Austin. In such case, opponents argue, counties which did not adopt the plan would be taxed to help pay the costs in counties that did.

NO. 7

An amendment providing that district courts shall conduct their proceedings at the county seat of the county in which the case is pending except as otherwise provided by law.

FOR complete vagueness as to wording, this proposition is a gem. The meat in this particular coconut appears to lie in the words, "except as otherwise provided by law." This would give the legislature much broader power than it now possesses over where district court sessions would be held and what they might do.

But, as shown on the ballot, the proposition omits one most important fact. The proposed amendment would require that a district judge must be a licensed attorney.

At present, a man who has served as county judge for four years is eligible for election as district judge. It is not necessary to have a license to practice law to be a county judge. It is common practice for such county judges to seek promotion to district judge. Many have been elected. They have been made the presiding officers in courts in which they could not practice. A person who is not a licensed attorney can now be elected the judge of a district court. He cannot practice in that court unless he has a license. The amendment would change this condition.

There's Another Angle, Too

The amendment also would allow district judges serving more than one county to conduct certain proceedings, or sign certain papers, without having to make a special trip to the seat of the county in which the case was filed.

For example, the 72nd district court includes Lubbock, Cochran, Hockley and Crosby counties. Frequently matters come up pertaining to some case, say in Hockley county, while the judge is in Lubbock. It would be more convenient for everyone concerned to attend to it in Lubbock. But, under the law, everyone would have to go to Hockley county to dispose of the business.

Judges and attorneys naturally appear overwhelmingly in favor of this amendment. They contend that a district judge should have the training represented by a license to practice law. Some judges now preside over courts in which they would not be eligible to practice.

Judges and lawyers also appear in close agreement that new regulations affecting the conduct of business often would save the court's time and be more economical than the present system.

Opposition to the amendment has been negligible, and most of it has been based on the acknowledged fact that some county judges, promoted to the district bench, have made splendid district judges despite their lack of a license to practice law. They contend the amendment is unfair to such people.

NO. 8

An amendment to provide for the creation of rural fire prevention districts.

MANY observers regard this as being the most meritorious of all the proposed amendments.

It would authorize the residents of any rural area to form a fire prevention district by an election among themselves and to levy a tax up

Area Members Given Awards

Statewide awards have been won by two area 4-H club members, according to an announcement Wednesday from College Station.

Patsie Elizabeth Scales, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Scales of Brownfield, has been named the outstanding 4-H Recreation leader in Texas, while E. P. Wicker, 18, son of Mrs. Fern Bourne of Route 2, Wilson, is a winner of the Dairy Production contest.

Miss Scales is now a freshman at Texas Tech. Her record will be entered in the national contest and the eight most outstanding will receive all-expense trips to the National 4-H congress in Chicago Nov. 27 to Dec. 1.

Wicker's winning record in the dairy production contest dates back to 1942 when he started with two animals. Prize for topping the state competition is a $25 savings bond and the record will subsequently be entered in sectional and national competition for a trip to the National 4-H congress and a $300 college scholarship, respectively.

A trip to the National 4-H congress was won by Wicker last year on his dairying record and he was awarded a $100 scholarship to Texas Technological college in 1947 by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce for outstanding work and showmanship at the Panhandle-South Plains fair.

The dairy record kept by Wicker shows that of 11 cows the lowest butterfat producer for one lactation period yielded 424 pounds of butterfat from 8,044 pounds of milk. Texas' average production per cow is 137 pounds of butterfat and 3,110 pounds of milk.

Not only that, but Wicker has also handled 56 head of swine, 12 beef calves, 100 acres of field crops and 775 chickens. Eight of the 11 cows he kept records on have produced in excess of 500 pounds of butterfat in a year. The 4-H member holds five grand champion ribbons, 22 firsts, six seconds, three thirds and one sixth place and he has twice represented Garza county at the state 4-H Round-up.

Now Helps Club Leaders

Now working with George Samson and C. S. Lindsey, South Plains adult leaders, and County Agent L. C. Herron in the capacity of junior leader, Wicker has previously served five times as president of his own 4-H club at Southland. He and his mother have operated their farm there for years.

Explaining his success in the dairying business, Wicker told 4-H leaders that he went to considerable expense when he first started

MRS. JOE HOWZE, 3211 College Ave., Teacher in Carroll Thompson Jr. High: "Yes, I think they should. It is an incentive to the child, and after all, everything in life is based on rewards."

MRS. BILLY MEDLOCK, 2709 Edna, housewife: "Yes, I do. I think that they would try to make even better grades if they were given a reward. Their parents could take them to the movies or give them a present of some sort."

HOMER FRANKLIN, 2018 Eighteen, teacher in Carroll Thompson Jr. High: "I really don't think they should. I think that the good grade on the report is a reward in itself. It shows the work they have done."

MRS. R. L. HUDSON, 518 Hub Homes, housewife: "If they are entitled to it, I think they should be rewarded. I think that a present of some sort would be the most effective way. If they don't make good grades, I think they should just be talked to rather than punished."

Woman Arrested For Begging Has $2,122

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. (AP)—There is a silver lining to this sad little story about the 80-year-old woman arrested on a charge of begging.

The woman is Miss Louisa Schmidt, who, officers said, was begging small change from men along the sidewalk yesterday.

Policewomen found the silver lining pinned to her undergarments in the form of $2122 in currency.

Noted Author Speaker Here

India today stands as a great potential mediator between East and West, Vincent Sheean, internationally-known author and journalist, told a packed auditorium of people in the Recreation hall Green room at Texas Tech Wednesday night.

Describing India's power as a way of thought rather than of a materialistic nature, Sheean spoke as one who has studied the Indian situation deeply at first hand. He is said to have been only a few feet away at the time Mahatma Gandhi was assassinated on January 30, 1948.

Influence Still Felt

"Gandhi's influence lives on even though he is dead," said Sheean, "and that influence is much deeper than any known elsewhere in the world because it is of a religious nature."

The journalist described Gandhi as anything but a politician, even though the British have always referred to the Mahatma's shrewd political mind. In the eyes of Sheean, on the other hand, the Indian leader was a man whom conditions alone had forced into politics as a sidelight to his conscientious desire of bettering the lot of his people.

There are many other leaders akin to Gandhi today, but none of them have attained the stature of the Mahatma, Sheean asserted. Pandit Nehru himself, currently touring the United States, was described by the journalist as only a political leader of India, not having the great spiritual following of the man he succeeded.

Visit Is Significent

Nehru's visit was hailed by the speaker as "very significant," however, since it is a further demonstration of the flow of trade and personnel back and forth between this country and India, a flow which is gradually increasing in amount.

"Nehru would be a logical mediator for the differences between the U. S. and Soviet Russia," he said, warning, nonetheless, that the task of entirely reconciliating East and West would be too large for anyone to undertake.

Back on the subject of Gandhi, Sheean traced the leader's steps through law school in England and his subsequent failure at the

PRICES HIKED IN LOCAL STORES

Five-Cent Cup Of Java On Way Out

The five-cent cup of coffee soon may be just a memory in most Lubbock cafes and drug stores, and housewives are paying as much as 16 cents a pound more than they were three weeks ago, a survey showed Wednesday.

With few exceptions, java will sell for 10 cents a cup by the end of the week unless customer resistance should prove too great.

Retail and wholesale grocers report price advances up to 16 cents a pound during the past month, including for some a six-cent increase on Wednesday to put the average retail price at 69 cents.

Some Hoarding Reported

Many grocers report that customers already have begun hoarding reminiscent of the war-time shortage days, and a few merchants said they are hard pressed to keep coffee on their shelves.

The shortage, which was being felt throughout the state and nation Wednesday, has been caused reportedly by crop failures and drouth conditions in South American and Latin American coffee producing areas.

There is no cause for a rush on stores, however, national wholesale officials have warned, saying that supplies will be sufficient to take care of all essential needs.

Some Already Raised

The survey by The Avalanche-Journal, covering a representative group of cafes and drug stores, showed that the per-cup price in most cases either has been raised to 10 cents or will be within the next few days.

Most fountain and cafe managers said they hated to raise the price but added that it was costing about six cents a cup to serve.

A few said they were battling a price increase, but would have to go along for their own protection if the majority went to 10 cents a cup.

Of the owners and managers contacted, only one took a firm and determined stand for the institution of five-cent coffee. That was Hop Halsey, co-owner of the five Mark Halsey drug stores.

"Our coffee will stay at five cents a cup even if coffee goes to $2 a pound," Halsey said in pledging to hold the price line.

"We have been approached by others on the matter of going to 10 cents," Halsey said, "but we would not go into any agreement. That would be price fixing."

"Some of those going to 10 cents will be mad at us, but pleasing customers is what counts. We know we can't even break even on coffee at five cents, but no place can make money on every move. Some things just have to be counted as service," Halsey said.

Meeting Is Hinted

As the telephone survey was being made, several managers and owners spoke of a Monday afternoon meeting in a local business place to discuss the price increase per cup, and there was a repor that one firm was distributing signs to announce the increase. However, none would admit attending the meeting or claim sponsorship.

Two businesses, the State drug store, 1320 Texas avenue, and the American restaurant, 1611 Ave. H, already have the 10 cent price.

Olen Carter at the State said the added price has had no effect on coffee sales Tuesday and Wednesday. O. L. Peddy at the American said it was too early to tell the effect on business after one day at the new price. Both said customers had no verbal objections.

Claims Cost High

Peddy said it cost him around seven cents a cup to serve coffee. "I can't hire a dishwasher during cotton harvest, and I can't see losing two or three cents on a cup of coffee and have to wash the cup and saucer myself."

Spokesmen for the Hilton hotel and Hotel Lubbock coffee shops, where java has sold for 10 cents for about a year, both said the price would remain at 10 cents.

Kenneth Ramsauer, food manager at Wylie's drug store, 1106 Texas, where the price goes to 10 cents on Friday, said it cost more than six cents a cup to serve.

Makes Nothing On Coffee

He said he had been in the food business for 24 years and "never made anything on coffee."

"It is a leader, an accommodation. We are trying to make it just a break-even item, and don't expect to make money with the new price," he said.

He, and other managers, said it was difficult to break even on coffee when all costs were figured. Among the costs listed were the coffee itself, cream, sugar, ice water, napkins, cups and saucers, dishwashing, waitresses, silverware and overhead.

Others Disagree

However, Howard Medlock, of Medlock's restaurant, 1107 Ave. K, said he "couldn't figure a cup of coffee cost over half of what it sells for."

Medlock said his business would charge 10 cents a cup, beginning Friday "in self defense."

"I fought the increase, but if the majority goes up, I have to or I'll have my counters filled with coffee drinkers during the mealtime rush. The others will get the lunch business and I'll get the coffee business."

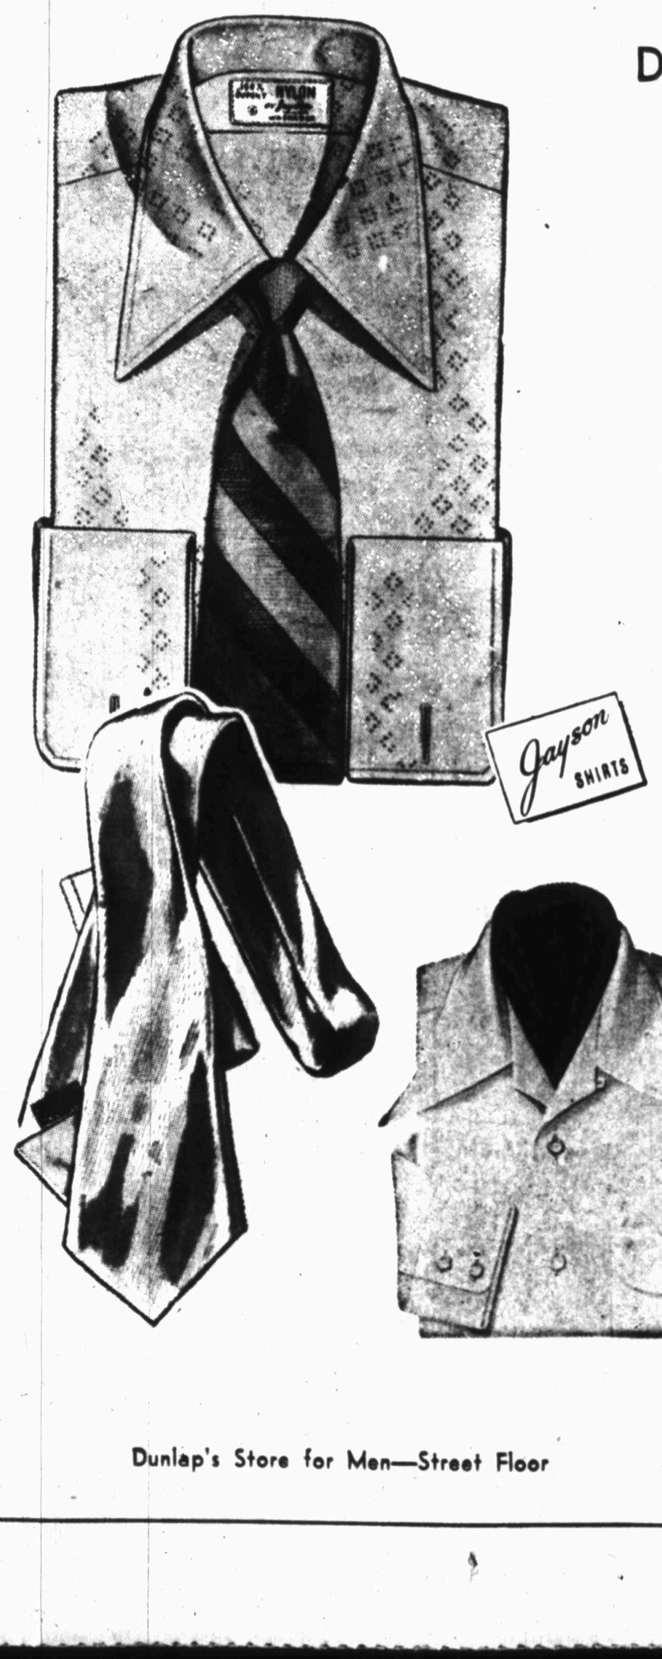

He said he always welcomed coffee business because it was "good advertisement" and brought customers back to eat.

Figures Are Cited

Medlock said a 55-cent pound of coffe would make 60 cups, costing him about a cent a cup. Cream would add another cent a cup.

Dutch-Indonesia Pact Follows Trend Toward Smaller Nations

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

"The day of small nations has passed away; the day of empires has come."

The famous British statesman Joseph Chamberlain made that statement in 1904 during a speech at Birmingham, England. That was only 45 years ago.

Yesterday the Dutch signed away their sovereignty to the rich Dutch East Indies over which Holland had ruled for three centuries. These brightest jewels in the imperial crown now comprise the United States of Indonesia—a republic. The 70,000,000 natives of these bounteous islands of spices and sugar and rubber and oil are taking over management of their own birthright.

Statement Reversed

Thus has the Netherlands followed the footsteps of Chamberlain's England, which rapidly has been turned her vast empire — upon which even today the sun never sets—into a commonwealth of independent nation. The Dutch move gives us further indisputable proof that we must reverse Chamberlain's statement and note that "the day of empires has passed away; the day of small nations has come."

The historic agreement between the Dutch and the Indonesians was signed at the Hague. Under that pact, which is subject to approval of the Dutch and Indonesian parliaments, the new republic becomes a sovereign part of the Dutch commonwealth which is linked together by the crown. The union is similar to the British commonwealth.

New Guinea Retained

On one important point the Indonesians were disappointed. They had wanted to include the Dutch portion of the great island of New Guinea in the republic. The Dutch opposed the transfer and finally the matter was compromised on the basis that Holland should retain control of the New Guinea territory for another year, pending further discussions. The eastern part of New Guinea is of course occupied by Australia.

New Guinea is the world's third largest island, so huge that it is almost big enough to be entitled to the designation of continent. However, it is such an inhospitable land that at first glance one wonders why anybody should claim it.

But, it seems that nature played a trick on mankind. She concealed great wealth in the earth of New Guinea—minerals and oil—and then set some of her most evil forces to guard the treasure. New Guinea already is known to hold great riches, and portions of it still remain to be exploded.

Climate Switch Made Horses' Teeth Long

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 3. (AP)—The modern horse looks like he does today because of a great climatic change in North America 35,000,000 years ago. This is the conclusion of a study by Dr. R. A. Stirton, associated professor of palentology at the University of California.

The ancient ancestor of the horse fed on soft plants in the present U. S. Great Plains area, says Stirton. This horse had short, low crowned teeth. Then the climatic change brought hard grasses to the Great Plains. It took long teeth to chew them. Horses with long teeth were the ones that survived. Hence modern horses have "horse" teeth, Stirton says.

Moreover the big island is strategically important.

They Liked The "Smile In Her Voice"

Crippled Girl Dispatcher To Get Help From Ship Crewmen

MARCUS HOOK, Pa., Nov. 3. (AP)—Ella Smith, crippled radio dispatcher for a taxicab company, may coon be walking with the help of braces bought by a group of seamen who liked the "smile in her voice."

The pretty, blue-eyed girl—crippled all of her 24 years—was "adopted" by tanker and freighter crewmen who first heard her voice while riding in taxis on shore leave in this port.

Ella became quite a favorite, even though her wellwishers had never seen her. Radio operators on ships coming up Delaware bay to Marcus Hook and other nearby ports wounld tune in her directions to cab drivers.

Voice Off Air

Several months ago, Ella's voice went "off the air." Inquiring seamen learned she had gone to Temple university hospital in Philadelphia for an operation.

A group of seamen, led by James E. Ritchie—port agent for the CIO-maritime union—supplied blood for several transfusions.

Yesterday, Ella came home from the hospital and on hand to greet her were a number of her seafaring friends. Ritchie was there, too, together with C. W. Williamson, president of the Marcus Hook Civic association.

They told the girl of their plans to buy her braces—and to see that she has the best of medical care.

Tahoka Officials To Get Bids On Project

TAHOKA, Nov. 3 (Special)—Tahoka's mayor and city commissioners will receive bids Nov. 22 at 2 p.m. for an elevated water storage tank of 200,000 to 250,000 gallon capacity and for water and sewer extensions, it was announced Wednesday.

A $300,000 bond issue was voted Oct. 1 to finance the improvements. Hasie and Green, Lubbock consulting engineers, prepared the plans and specifications.

Included in the job are new water mains, sewage collecting lines, two sewage lift stations and force mains.

NEW WORLD LABOR CONGRESS NOW BEING PLANNED

Role Of CIO Political Action Committee For 1950 Elections Due For Attention At Meeting

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3. (AP)—The CIO turned to its mounting domestic and world-wide political chores today wrapped in the newly-acquired robes of a right-wing federation.

The roll of the Political Action Committee (PAC) in the 1950 elections was due for plenty of attention before convention adjournment because of the CIO's expressed chagrin at the failure of Congress this session to repeal the Taft-Hartley act.

President Truman pledged repeal, but both House and Senate rebelled.

In international politics, the CIO is joining with the AFL and labor federations abroad in creating a new world labor congress, rivalling the Soviet-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions.

The CIO withdrew from the WFTU last spring because it complained it was unable to check the flood of Communist propaganda in the organization.

Hot Debate Expected

Hot debate was expected over foreign affairs and the international move—from at least some of the left-wing leaders still sitting in the convention hall. Harry Bridges, west coast longshore leader, is one who wants to continue in the WFTU because, he says, it helps in dock strikes to have cooperation of foreign crews and longshoremen.

Two major leftist-led unions—the United Electrical Workers and Farm Equipment Workers—were bounced out by convention action yesterday.

That left 10 others to face the equally severe inspection of the 51-man executive board.

The board is scheduled to meet Saturday, but may assemble sooner to act on a convention order to carry out the anti-leftist purge to completion.

Expulsion of the UE drew a bitterly worded statement from Albert Fitzgerald, the union's president. In New York, he called the move "Walter Reuther's revolution."

Reuther heads the United Auto Workers and was chairman of the resolutions committee here that recommended the UE be expelled.

"They (right wing leaders)," said Fitzgerald, "want to hide the fact that their policy of chasing after handouts from politicians has dragged the CIO down from 6,000,000 to about 3,000,000 members.

Tear It To Pieces

"Unless their own members catch up with them, Mr. Murray (CIO President Philip Murray) and Mr. Reuther, in their red-baiting race for control of CIO, will manage to tear the CIO to pieces."

Murray indicated all the leftist unions would not be booted out right away. Most likely to follow the UE and FE out of the 11-year-old federation were these "weaker" unions:

Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, about $43,000 behind in its per capita payments to the CIO; Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers; United Public Workers; and Office and Professional Workers.

Despite the outspoken leadership of Communist Ben Gold of the Fur and Leather Workers and leftist Harry Bridges of the west coast longshoremen, those two may be among the last to feel the CIO's sharp boot.

Spirit Wins Respect

Their fighting spirit on the convention floor won the respect of even their right-wing enemies.

Bridges said he would "see what happens" before the convention closes on Friday.

It was apparent the CIO right-wing faction, even though it has its own way in this convention, was not boasting of its ability to break up either Bridges' or Gold's union.

Plans already are under way to move in fast and grab off the membership of leftist-led unions which have their charters revoked.

UE, with up to 450,000 members, was a good example.

The loud cheers which greeted the UE expulsion vote had hardly died out before James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO and former president of UE, announced the formation of a new right-wing union in the electric, radio and machinery field.

A convention to set up the union, under Carey's guidance if not actual leadership, will be held in Philadelphia Nov. 28. Carey gave up his trip to London, to help establish a new anti-Communist world labor congress, so he could help the new electrical union.

Prepared To Join

About 155,000 workers already are prepared to join the rightist union, Carey said. He expected locals in General Electric, Westinghouse, and General Motors to be turned over in large bunches.

Steps have been taken, he said, to "protect the rights of the workers" in the treasuries and property of the locals.

Contracts of the locals, and relations with employers generally, will be the principal problem of the new group, Carey indicated.

One of the first areas where the division showed up quickly was in Bridgeport, Conn.

There, three locals with membership of 4,000 withdrew from the CIO, including a General Electric unit of 3,000 members. Nine other locals, with a total of 3,500 members, were reported undecided.

But the war will gain intensity with every week in that and other fields where CIO establishes rival charters. The battles probably will be the worst in recent history between unions.

Flying Gobs Safe In Forced Landing

HONOLULU, Nov. 3. (AP)—Two sailors ran out of gas in a rented airplane over Maui island.

Carlton B. Sumner and Roy Jennings (home towns unavailable), both yoemen first class from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge, set their craft down on a highway.

They walked to an airport nearby, bought a five-gallon can of gasoline, walked back to the plane and filled 'er up.

The lads took off as police cleared the highway.

Didn't even get a parking ticket.

Australia will continue rigid rationing of gasoline to keep down its export of dollar goods.

Youth Offers Dog To Prevent UN Disputes

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 3. (AP)—U. N. officials have decided not to use a Brooklyn dog whose master says could keep peace in the Security Council. The letter of a 10-year-old boy to the United Nations said:

"I have a dog. He is a German shepherd and his name is Butchie. Everybody in our house is happy when Butchie is around. He is so good in keeping peace when my friends start to fight. I would like to bring Butchie to the Security Council. If there are any arguments Butchie would bark and tell them to be more quiet. I think everybody will then get along much better."

Officials in the office of Trygvie Lie, secretary general, told the boy they would be glad to see him, but he had better not bring his dog along.

RUINS FOUND IN BRAZIL

BELEM, Brazil, Nov. 3. (AP)—A report from Rio Branco territory says a French scientist, Marcel Homet, has found the ruins of a very old city, built much before the Christian era.

Granny Would Rather Keep Rats Than Cats

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 3 (AP)—The juvenile probation officer had just returned a lost six-year-old boy to his home here. As he talked to the boy's grandmother, an animal ambled across the floor.

"That's a large kitten you have," he remarked. The woman didn't even turn around.

"Must be a-rat," she said. "We don't like cats."

U. S. NEEDS TO TIDY OWN HOUSE

Three Leading Officials Ask Improvement Of World Trade

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—World trade got a big plug in a piece of teamwork by three of the most important men in the government.

The three pluggers were President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, and Paul Hoffman, head of the Marshall plan.

Early this week Hoffman in Paris told the European nations they'd have to mend their economic ways if they want to stay healthy.

How? By joining together to knock down barriers to trade, for example:

By reducing their tariffs on one another's goods so they can move freely across frontiers and widen the markets for all of them; by reducing or wiping out their quota restrictions (a quota is the limit one nation places on the goods it will let in from another country to compete against its own products); by more efficient manufacturing and selling practices, and so on.

Europeans Instructed

What he said, in short, was that if the world is going to be prosperous we need better world trade, and plenty of it.

This was an American telling Europeans how to get smart for their own good.

But is America so smart and perfect that it can tell other people what to do without needing to make any changes itself?

Acheson answered that question last night in a speech in New York by telling Americans what they need to do to have good world trade.

This was the picture, as Acheson painted it:

All the nations—including ours—have to join in making better trade all around if there is going to be world prosperity.

He said: "We have learned that the recovery and prosperity of other countries are essential to our national security and prosperity . . .

"Mr. Hoffman spoke . . . about some of the measures which we think the European countries need to take to improve their competitive ability and go forward to new achievements . . . ."

Trade Unbalanced

But, Acheson said, this country needs to tidy its own house if there's going to be real world trade, since we'll have to be a big part of it. He made this main point:

We'll have to increase our imports from Europe. For years we've been selling more stuff abroad than we've been buying from abroad. And for years a lot of Americans have thought this was as it should be.

Acheson made it clear the Truman administration thinks otherwise. For instance, he pointed out that last year we sold abroad American goods worth $13 billion, but bought from abroad goods worth only $7 billion, a difference of $6 billion.

What's wrong with that? This is how the Truman administration sees the problem; Europeans need dollars when they buy from us because we want to be paid in dollars.

Pressures Expected

But if we don't buy from them—paying them in dollars which they can use in buying from us—they'll lack the dollars with which to buy. Yet, the more we can sell them, the better off we are.

But what are we supposed to do about it? Acheson urged this country to do, at least in part, what Hoffman urged the Europeans to do: Chop down our tariff walls that keep European goods out.

But won't these European goods be competition in this country for goods made here? True. Acheson says there will be great pressures in this country to keep up the tariffs and keep competition out.

But he argued this country has to think in world terms, no longer can think in terms of itself only, that the United States as a whole will benefit by better trade among nations.

Still, what about the Americans who might be hurt by European competition coming in here? Mr. Truman, in a speech here yesterday, seemed to consider that. Speaking of helping the rest of the world raise its standard of living, he said:

"If . . . we can raise the standard of living just two per cent in the rest of the world, our factories and businesses never could catch up with the demand that would be on them."

Hornworms Are Big Problem To Farmers

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—Tomato and Tobacco hornworms range farther than the two plants for which they are named, reports Dr. Harold T. Reynolds of the University of California. His studies show that these creatures use the Jimson weed (which nobody cares about) as a base of operations from which to attack potatoes, peppers, and eggplants.

Tomato and Tobacco hornworms are closely related by Dr. Reynolds says an entomologist can easily tell them apart. Both have been chewing up American plants since colonial days and they've recently got to be quite a pest in California.

Courtesy Emphasized By Restaurant Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Courtesy is a trump card in the restaurant business, says a spokesman of the Washington Restaurant Association.

Courtesy and sound financial training will be stressed in an education program which the association is launching to improve the sandards of the business. Supervisors, waitresses and everyone in the business will be admitted to the classes.

"Statistics show," said the spokesman, "that 50 per cent of the people who enter the restaurant business drop out after the first year. By the second year, the figure is 80 per cent."

Reynolds Gains Time On His Global Trip

DAMASCUS, Syria, Nov. 3. (AP)—Milton Reynolds regained an hour today in his attempt to get around the globe faster than any commercial airline passenger ever has before.

The millionaire pen manufacturer picked up the hour between Istanbul and Damascus. Previously, at Brussels, he had recovered 30 minutes of the seven hours he lost at Shannon airport, Ireland, waiting for a London fog to lift.

Reynolds arrived here at 7:05 a. m., Damascus time (12:05 a. m. EST), in a Pan American airliner with 28 other passengers. He took off for Karachi, Pakistan, an hour later.

The round-the-worlder said he liked the "beautiful Damacus weather" and wished he could stay longer.

Earlier Reynolds had said his chances of breaking Col. Edward Eagan's record for a round-the-world airliner trip hinged on his getting to Hong Kong in time to catch a flight Friday. He is due there six hours before his trans-Pacific plane leaves.

Treasured Paintings Owned By Atwater Kent Sold At Bargains

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3 —The walls of the late Atwater Kent's "Capo Di Monte" are bare today, stripped of their treasured paintings in an auction of old masterpieces at dollar day prices.

The 370-od pictures that hung in Kent's ornate 29-room mansion were knocked down yesterday for approximately $50,000, said auctioneer Roy J. Goldenberg. He estimated that Kent paid more than $1,000,0 for the collection.

$1,000 Top Price

The top price, $1,000 went for an oil portrait of the English poet Thomas Chatterton, by Thomas Gainsborough. The buyer, Edward C. Washer, represented a Los Angeles bookstore. Many canvasses, faded and cracked by age, went for as little as $10.

Runner-up at $950 was a self-portrait by the 17th century Dutch master, Peter Paul Rubens. Its purchaser was blond, handsome Leif Henie, brother of ice skater Sonja. One of the biggest buyers, Henie walked off with five pictures.

Some 400 art dealers, dilettantes, and just plain curious, sat under palm trees in the courtyard of the 12-acre estate and eyed the array of etchings, oils, prints and water-colors. But their ears were deaf to the auctioneer's pleas for higher bids.

Here are a few of the bargains:

A marine scene and a forest scene by the English painter John Singer Sargent, for $200 and $500 respectively; a pair of water colors by the French contemporary Honore Daumier, $275 each; Sir Joshua Reynolds' "Portrait of Lady Cockburn," $750;; George Morland's scene of an English pub, bought for more than $20,000 $750; a portrait of a countess by the 17th century French painter, Pierre Mignard, $925.

Kent, who made a fortune manufacturing radios and retired to become Hollywood's favorite party-giver, shopped in the art galleries of the world. He favored 18th and 19th century English artists, although French, Dutch, Italian and German painters were also represented in his collection.

The sale ended liquidation of his hilltop estate in swanky Bel-Air. The terraced grounds, buildings and their furnishings were sold for $113,000 on Tuesday to Milton J. Wershow, Los Angeles auctioneer, who said he bought it as an investment.

Pennsylvania City's Strikers To Get Aid

CLAIRTON, Pa., Nov. 3 (AP)—Clairton's city fathers have set up a relief fund for the families of the town's 5,000 striking steelworkers.

At a special session yesterday, city council voted unanimously to appropriate $50,000 as an emergency relief fund. The program will start on Monday.

Mayor John J. Mullen said the action was taken because a number of strikers' families reported 'they have no means of meeting food, light and other bills.'

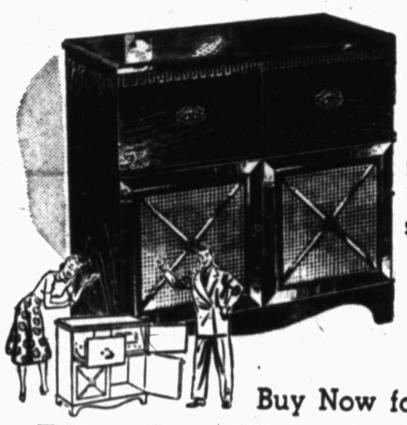

The steelworkers are employed in Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation mills here.

"Our program will be a sort of loan to our people," said Mayor Mullen. "Each applicant will promise in a signed statement that he will repay the money when he can. If the workers are unable to repay in cash, plans will be made for them to work it out for the city.

State Lions Clubs Planning Camp For Crippled Children

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 — The 40,000 members of 580 Lions clubs throughout Texas are planning a year-round camp for crippled children. It will be near Kerrville on land now owned by the government.

The success of the plan, according to W. F. Mickelsen of Kerrville, depends on whether the government donates 500 acres of partly-wooded ranch land adjacent to the Legion Veterans Administration hospital.

He is very optimistic.

In fact, he hopes that the first of a cluster of ranch-style bunk houses will be built and echoing next summer with laughter of happy youngsters who have forgotten their physical handicap.

Land Declared Surplus

Crippled boys and girls, 7 to 16 years of age inclusive, would be enrolled at the camp. There would be no charge. They would come to the camp for 90-day periods, with some remaining for one or more additional periods if their personal situation made this advisable.

Here for a week of conferences with various federal officials, Michelsen headquartered at the office of Rep. Clark Fisher of San Angelo. Most of his conferences were at the Federal Security administration.

The FSA, which includes the public Health service, was picked by the General Service administration to handle the matter. The GSA handles disposition of surplus property, and the 500 acres in question already has been declared excess to the needs of the Veterans administration.

$250,000 Initial Cost

The land sought from the government originally was given to the American Legion by the Schreiner family of Kerrville shortly after World War One. It eventually became the property of the VA. The present hospital there, for treatment of tuberculosis, occupies only about 300 acres of the original tract of approximately 800 acres.

The initial cost of the crippled children rehabilitation center would be about $250,000, with an annual operating cost of $300,000. It might be expanded in future years.

Enrollment would be limited to 110 children. They would come from various parts of Texas, selected by local Lions clubs.

"The purpose of the camp," Mickelsen elaborated, "is to give these unfortunate boys and girls a fresh, healthy outlook on life.

Medical Care Available

"It is all too easy for a crippled kid to get a warped slant on things. He is usually forced to follow an isolated, or abnormal sort of existance.

"If a boy or girl of this kind can get a chance to spend a few months where they can forget their afflictions, or at least self consciousness, it may mean whether they assume a normal role in society as adults."

Occupational therapy will be available for the enrollees, as well as regular school. Physiotherapy and medical care will be available for those who have been getting it before coming to the camp, or those who want to take it up on the recommendation of their own doctors.

All buildings at the camp will have floors as near as possible to the ground, so as to avoid steps.

Transportation Available

Horses, pony carts and even burros will be available for treks over the 500-acre tract and the nearby Texas state park along the Guadalupe river.

The children will be selected on the basis of their personal need for such rehabilitation, regardless of the financial ability of their parents, said Mickelsen.

He estimates the annual operating costs could be met with pledges averaging $600 each from 500 local clubs throughout the state. He figures that this average could be reached by large gifts from individuals of substantial means.

The project is sponsored by "The Texas Lions League for Crippled Children, Inc.," Mickelsen said. The president of the league is Jack Weich, a Brownsville attorney.

Credit for originating the idea, according to Mickelsen, goes to the Kerr County director of the Texas Public Health Department, Jack Roe.

Youth, 14, Fatally Stabs Woman At Michigan School For Boys

ALBION, Mich., Nov. 3. (INS)—A 14-year-old "problem boy" at the Starr commonwealth school for boys in Albion, Mich., today fatally stabbed his house mother with a kitchen knife.

The youth, Kenneth Miller of Ithaca, Mich., telephoned police twice to direct them to the murder scene and waited for them beside the body of the 61-year-old slain woman. He told detectives he stabbed Mrs. Estella Tusch in the back because he wanted money and because he had a "grudge against her."

Kenneth was released to Floyd Starr, philanthropist founder and president of the commonwealth, after being convicted for auto theft a year ago.

Starr, whose work with boys has won him a place in "Who's Who," was stunned by the slaying. School authorities said Kenneth had appeared to be reforming.

Kenneth told police he had been planning to run away from the privately endowed and operated house for boys since Sunday.

The 2,000-acre institution has no bars or posted rules and is a home for 165 boys. Starr estimates 95 per cent of his boys have "made good" since leaving the institution.

Kenneth was quoted as saying he did not like the school and found the work assignments distasteful. He complained Mrs. Tusch was always hollering at him and said he heard she had $26 among her possessions.

Doctor Establishes Scholarship Fund

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. (AP)—When Francisco Bravo was a young medical student, he worked nights at a gas station and could study only in the intervals between cars. He wondered then if there wasn't some way life could be made easier for ambitious Mexican-Americans of limited means. Now, as Dr. Francisco Bravo, he has found the answer. He helps them himself.

Last year he gave $10,000 of the earnings of his Bravo Clinic to finance a scholarship at the Stanford University School of Medicine of Rodolfo Ponce, of Rivera, Calif. Recently he gave William Diaz, of Riverside, Calif., $2,000 to cover a four-year course at the school of pharmacy of the University of Southern California.

Dr. Bravo attaches one string to these awards. The young men he befriends must promise to aid other Mexican - Americans who desire professional careers.

FEATURED IN LIONS MINSTRELS—Pop Stover, above, billed as radio's craziest personality and one of the fastest banjo players in the business, is to be one of the featured performers in the Lubbock Lions club's Jubilee Minstrels at Senior High school auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday nights, Nov. 8 and 9. Stover also known as Red Brown, who lives at San Antonio, is joining the Lions in presentation of the show here. He started radio work on station KNOX in St. Louis back in 1926 and has played on numerous Texas stations. In 1937 he was with Al Pearce and his Gang and more recently with Al Dexter of "Pistol Packing Mama" fame. Unsuspecting Texans Softened Up For The Bite Of New Taxes

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Nov. 3. (AP)—Whether they realize it or not, Texans are being softened up for the bite of new taxes.

Everywhere Gov. Allan Shivers goes these days—and he is on the go a lot and over wide territory—he reiterates his views that the "broad base" tax is his idea of raising new revenue.

The governor first expressed that opinion midway of the last session of the legislature, while he was still lieutenant governor and when it appeared it might be necessary then to levy for new revenues.

Was Key Figure

Shivers was one of the key figures in senate passage of the omnibus tax bill that is on the books now. It was written in 1941 and legislatures since then have resisted new tax campaigns.

Texans are now paying—directly or indirectly—about 45 different kinds of taxes in support of their state government.

It is inevitable that some now unexplored areas of revenue will be sought as sources to tap. There is already widespread talk about a state income tax, and the spectre of a sales tax is also just over the horizon. Either proposal could touch off a violent legislative storm.

Increase To Be Sought

It is also reasonable to assume that efforts will be made to increase taxes on some sources already taxed: the usual oil, gas and sulphur tax proposals will be made and also battled to a finish.

Not only the governor, but members of the legislature are talking the tax question in their home district and some of them over wider areas.

Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio recently wrote an editorial for the South Texan, official publication of the South Texas Chamber of Comemrce, reviewing the state spending and taxation issue. It was widely circulated as a re-print pamphlet with this paragraph emphasized after Bell had said that between $100 and $125 million in new revenue will be needed:

State Income Tax

"How will taxes be levied to meet this deficit? In my opinion a state income tax will be proposed; also, a general sales tax, and an increase in the tax on natural resources. I had always thought that the federal government had preempted the income tax field, but more than 31 states now have state income taxes and the number increases every year. The opportunities for further development of Texas will be impaired if excessive taxation is imposed."

Both Shivers and Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville, acting lieutenant governor, went into the spending and tax question before the Texas Manufacturers' Association in convention at Mineral Wells.

Shivers bore down on the point that the cost of state government wil keep on going up as long as the state government is responsive to the requests of the people for more and better services. Morris said it would take $40 million dollars to bring the eleemosynary institutions up to a level worthy of Texas' honor. Bell's editorial carried this warning:

"We are going to have just as good and efficient a government as the voters demand, or just as wasteful and inefficient a government as our citizens tolerate.

When the legislature convenes again, it will face the tough decision of where legitimate demand for state services ends, and where wasteful and unnecessary spending begins.

Veteran Teacher To Begin College Trek

ST. PAUL, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—William Lambert, 41, an experienced teacher and father of three children, has passed his freshman entrance examinations at St. Thomas College with flying colors.

Lambert served 16 years as supervisor of an athletic playground, but he began to realize that he had less formal education than most of his charges.

He said he's going to college to lay the foundation for a coaching and teaching career.

Joint Chiefs Power Urged

HONOLULU, Nov. 3 (AP)—Army and navy commanders of the recent Pacific war games suggest "establishment of a permanent joint staff to supervise future exercises."

The proposal was made in a press release yesterday by maneuver headquarters covering military critique on "operation Miki." The exercise concluded last week with a "counter-invasion" of Hawaii.

No Command At Top

At a news conference, Lt. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, the army's Pacific commander, declared:

"There is no real, honest-to-God command structure at the top today. As the (unification) law stands now, there is no authority for the joint chiefs of staff to exercise command."

Major Gen. Walter M. Robertson, deputy commander of the maneuvers, and Vice. Adm. Gerald F. Bogan, commander of the first task fleet, said the command structure for operation Miki was cumbersome. Bogan was author of a letter on navy morale under unification that created a furore in the dispute between the navy and air force.

The Honolulu Star - Bulletin quoted both general and admirals after the maneuvers as saying unification had worked well in the field regardless of disagreements in Washington.

TO HONOR GOVERNOR

MISSION, Nov. 3. (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers will be honored Sunday at a barbecue given by Latin-American friends.

COINAGE OF GOLD IS URGED

Debate On Torrid Gold Issue Rages

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Gold—should the government let you have it in exchange for your paper dollars?

People who are supposed to know all about such things are choosing up sides on that question. Some of the nation's top bankers say, yes, the United States must go back to the good old days before 1933 when you could get gold coin for your paper money. Others say that such a return at this time would be "witless."

The dispute broke out this week in San Francisco at the American Bankers association meeting. It came to the fore at the same time in New York at the national foreign trade convention.

Reports Are Denied

Washington officials have been dragged into the word battle, but mostly to deny reports they were thinking about changing the value of gold, now set at $35 an ounce.

Pressure to get Washington to pay from $45 to $55 an ounce has been strong of late. Obvious backers of the proposal are those who mine gold and have it for sale. But others urging it contend that by raising the paper dollar value of the huge hord of gold buried at Fort Knox, Ky., the government would make a big paper profit it could apply to the soaring public debt.

Opponents of the proposal point out at the same time the government, by raising the price of gold, would also be lowering the value of every savings account and life insurance policy in the country. This is because the dollar would be devalued in terms of its present purchasing power.

Debate Getting Hot

Since only Congress has the legal right to raise the price of gold, the question is just talk at this time.

But the debate over raising the bans against the coinage of gold and the possession of it by private citizens is getting hotter.

The national foreign trade convention, attended by 1,800 leading businessmen and bankers, voted unanimously in favor of "the restoration in the near future of the free convertibility of the dollar into gold on the basis of its present gold value." That means, the foreign traders want you to be able to take a $5 paper bill in to the bank and get a $5 gold piece to put in the Christmas stocking, the way your grandfather used to do for you.

The American Bankers association heard both sides and finally resolved that the price of gold should remain at $35 an ounce, but took no stand on "free convertibility."

Desperado Will Be Returned To Prison

EL PASO, Nov. 5. (U.P.)—Jailbreaker Jack Tatum, under $50,000 bond, was due to be returned today to the Phoenix, Ariz., jail where he escaped Oct. 22.

Guarded by five FBI agents and two U. S. deputy marshals and wearing leg irons and handcuffs, the 28-year-old desperado was charged yesterday with violation of the federal escape act. Two prisoners were slain in the Phoenix jailbreak which won Tatum his brief freedom.

U. S. Commissioner Henry Clifton set the high bond upon recommendation of U. S. Commissioner C. B. Wilson of Phoenix.

Nabbed In El Paso

An FBI agent arrested Tatum in downtown El Paso Tuesday.

Tatum was the object of a 10-day manhunt throughout the southwest. He offered no resistance and did not carry a gun, but he had been billed as "armed and dangerous."

Tatum said he arrived in this border town Sunday after spending part of his 10 days of freedom in Arizona citrus groves eating oranges and grapefruit. He had only 20 cents in his pocket when he was apprehended.

Land-Buying Plan For Vets Is Readied

DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP)—A state-financed land buying program for veterans will get underway between Dec. 1-10, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles announced.

"We'll soon be ready to go," he told the Dallas Rotary club yesterday.

He said five million dollars worth of bonds for this purpose had been sold, adding that a total of $25,000,000 in bonds will be sold.

He estimated that because of the program, Texas will have 5,000 new land owners.

Coffee Prices

Walgreen drug, 1219 Broadway — Price changing order would have to come from Dallas office. However, local fountain manager may raise cost at his discretion if local price conditions demand it. Still five cents.

Westerner cafe, 1105 Main — Still five cents, but increase has been discussed. May have to raise price.

Tech cafe, 1207 Broadway — If coffee prices increase, may have to go up. Will wait until Monday to decide.

Ben's cafes, 2301 Texas and 221 College — Probable increase if others go up. Price still five cents.

Chicken Village — Increase being considered, will wait several days for decision. May have to advance price per cup.

Texas drug, 1001 Thirteenth street — Undecided on increase, but none expected immediately. Price still five cents, but "bottomless" cup offer dropped on Tuesday.

While coffee drinkers faced a 100 per cent increase on the per-cup price, grocery dealers came up with discomforting news for housewives.

One manufacturer's representative told a local grocery that green coffee beans are now bringing a price equal to what the retailer is paying, which will bring higher retail prices later on.

The salesman said it wasn't just a coffee shortage causing the difficulty — that the steel strike has produced a container shortage.

A spokesman for Piggly-Wiggly stores said their retail price had increased from 55 cents 10 days ago to 69 cents on Wednesday, with three retail increases during the period. He said consumers add to the problem by buying more than they need, with some customers asking for whole cases and buying all the store managers will permit.

He said Piggly-Wiggly has enough coffee on stock "for some time," but noted that only partial orders are arriving from manufacturers. He explained that coffee companies set the price on the day of shipment, not the day the order is received. Piggly-Wiggly has withdrawn orders because of the unstable market.

A South Plains Associated grocers' representative said the wholesale purchase price went from 54 cents to 62 cents last week, and then advanced six cents on Wednesday to 68 cents. No coffee has been received since the first of last week, with major coffee companies suspending shipments during the period of price instability.

Furr Food stores reported a good stock on hand, with retail prices being increased to correspond with wholesale increases.

The J. M. Radford Grocery company, wholesalers, reported a 14-cent per pound increase in the past three weeks. All orders have been filled, but heavy purchases during the past week has drained stock.

Waples-Platter Grocery company, also wholesalers, reported a 16 cent increase in less than a month. Orders have been filled, but customers are being asked to hold down the size of orders.

4-H Awards

his demonstration to obtain good cattle and equipment. "Anything that is worth doing is worth doing right," he said.

The dairy production contest is sponsored by the Kraft Foods company of Chicago.

Long a leader at 4-H county and district camps, Miss Scales was one of the recreation leaders at the state 4-H Round-up last summer and played an important part in the Talent Show there. She also helped organize and was elected leader of the Wellman community recreation group last summer and was a song leader at the 1948 State Conservation camp.

Demonstration work in the 4-H club has not been neglected by Miss Scales, either, according to 4-H leaders. She has made numerous garments in her clothing work and has canned 864 containers of food. She raised a pig at one time and has been president of the Wellman club three times.

The Recreation and Rural Arts program is sponsored by the United States Rubber company of New York and the program is handled through the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago.

TWO SOUTH PLAINS 4-H MEMBERS WIN TRIPS

Two area young people have won all-expense trips to the National 4-H club congress in Chicago Nov. 27-Dec. 1 and a third has been picked fifth-place winner in the annual state garden contest, according to announcements made Wednesday from College Station.

Lois Charlene Ritchie, Post, and Catherine Foltyn, Sudan, are listed among the 16 state winners for the coveted Santa Fe Railroad Educational awards, including the Chicago trip. Selections were based upon length of membership in 4-H, leadership and achievement records, production and participation in 4-H and community activities.

Sue Stephens, also of Post, won fifth-place in the annual garden contest, sponsored by the Texas Seedmen's association. Miss Stephens has been a 4-H demonstrator for five years and "likes to see things grow," according to her home demonstration agent, Miss Jewel Strasner.

bar in India to his years among Indian "prison labor" in South Africa. Gandhi spent 20 years there, said the speaker, and by the time he had succeeded in bringing the British to terms over the prison labor he was a completely made man, with his life's work cut out for him.

After his work in South Africa was complete, Gandhi returned to his homeland in January, 1915. He returned to find himself, to his own surprise, the Mahatma of the Indian people—"a great soul."

"It was the British themselves who forced Gandhi into politics," declared the speaker, "This was done to its first real significance in 1919, when, instead of giving the Indians dominion status as was expected by the latter after World War I, they clamped on further restrictions, limiting certain phases of free speech and assemblage."

Sheean described Gandhi's decision at that time to call a "do-nothing day" as a surprise to the Mahatma himself when all of India obeyed his wish to stay at home and do absolutely nothing. That, said the speaker, was the act that catapulted Gandhi into politics where "he was to be dragged from time to time thereafter because his influence was so great."

"Gandhi is dead today," the speaker declared, "But his religious hold over the Indian people will live on, helping to make them a great country even as his assassination was the immediate preventative of civil war between the religious elements of the country."

"If given the opportunity, the peaceful 'don't fight back' teachings of Gandhi could have a great influence on the world," he said.

Sheean was to leave Lubbock at 6:40 a. m. today for Dallas, from where he will go to Tulsa and Chicago. He was introduced Wednesday night by Dr. William J. Davis, head of the government department at Tech, as the first of the recreation hall's speakers for this year.

Margaret Bourke-White, who also was in India at the time of Gandhi's death, will be presented next week.

to 3 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation to provide fire protection. The money could be used to buy fire fighting equipment, or to arrange for protection from some nearby town or city.

The chief argument for the proposition is that it would enable the residents of such areas to obtain fire insurance considerably cheaper than at present. In some cases, property owners who cannot get insurance protection would become qualified to obtain it.

There has been practically no opposition to the proposition, since it could not be put into effect anywhere unless the qualified voters in a proposed district approved it.

Bidding On Projects At Lamesa Delayed

LAMESA, Nov. 3 (Special) — Lamesa's mayor and city commissioners met Wednesday afternoon to consider bids for a sewer and water extension program but because only one bid was offered, it was not opened and the meeting was delayed for another month.

J. D. Willson, city manager, said that the steel strike probably prevented the expected bidders from appearing at the scheduled meeting. "We will have to wait until the strike is settled and the bidders are able to meet specifications," he said.

The work involves 759 feet of vitrefield clay sewer lines of eight-inch size, 1,390 feet of six-inch size, and 3,050 feet of two-inch galvanized iron water lines.

Mayor Sam Richardson and Commissioners F. T. McCollum, T. F. Vaughn, Tracy Campbell and Dr. J. M. Harrington were present with Willson at the meeting.

A bottle-cap shortage has held down Chile's beer consumption.

Cotton Work To Be Pushed

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 3 (AP)—Texas A. and M. college today dedicated a $65,000 greenhouse on the central campus for research in cotton to the memory of one of its experts who was killed in World War II.

The greenhouse was named for the late Dr. J. O. Beasley, A. and M. alumnus and researcher.

He was the first to use the drug colchicine to double the number of chromosomes in cotton, obtaining fertile hybrids between many species and opening a new field of approach in cotton breeding.

Beasley lost his life, at age 34, in the war in Italy.

Cardon Is Speaker

Dr. P. V. Cardon of Washington, administrator of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's research administration, was the principal speaker at the dedication ceremony.

"Despite his youthfulness and the comparative shortness of his research career, Beasley had gained an international reputation as a cotton geneticist," said Cardon.

"Some of the genetic stocks he produced have since become the foundation of new strains for the cotton belt . . .

"From him came much of the inspiration that has led to the recent establishment of an outstanding research program in . . . cotton."

Now He "Plays Pretty" On The Trumpet

Louie Prima's Mother Wanted Him To Make Great Violinist

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK.—If you want your boy to be a great violinist, don't make him study the violin.

A lady named Mrs. Prima made this mistake down in New Orleans about 30 years ago.

She had a little boy, Louie, who made a violin out of a cigar box and a borrowed mandolin string. Mrs. Prima, sure her son was a genius, rushed him off to a violin teacher. For eight miserable years, unwilling Louie sawed through endless Hungarian rhapsodies.

"All the time ah wished ah had made a cigar box out of a violin instead of a fiddle out of a cigar box," he recalled.

Learn Piano First

One day he picked up a cornet belonging to his older brother, Leon. He blew a few intoxicating notes—and hung up his fiddle and bow for life. He went from the cornet to the trumpet, and has dwelt ever since in the kingdom of jazz.

"For years mah mother still wanted me to be a violin virtuoso—had her heart set on it," said the band leader. "But she's happy now—very happy."

For today Prima has a 16-piece band, a recording firm, two sheet music publishing companies and a racing stable of 11 horses. He and his brother also own a New Orleans night club. His various enterprises have grossed as high as $500,000 a year.

"If you want a kid to go into music," said Louie, "the best thing is to let him learn a little piano first—so he'll get a basic knowledge of chorus and harmony.

Formula For Success

"Then, as he grows older, let him take up whatever special instrument he decides himself he likes best."

Prima's own formula of success is to "play pretty for the people.

"The reason the band business is bad now is because too many leaders have lost touch with what the public wants. They play to please themselves.

"But the one-type dance band that plays a single style is a thing of the past. People expect more more their money—they want the band to give them a novelty show as well as good dance music."

In keeping with this theory Louie has revived a 1923 epidemic—"Yes, We Have No Bananas"—hoping it will infest the country again.

New Device Used In Harvesting Of Fruit

DAVIS, Calif., Nov. 3. (AP)—The fruit picker's ladder is beginning to yield to a strange, three-legged, self-propelled tower in California orchards. Developed in cooperation with the State School of Agriculture here, it enables an operator to pick two and a half times as many apricots, peaches, pears and prunes as with an ordinary ladder.

It is now being tried out for knocking prunes off the trees instead of picking them. The tower carries an air-compressor which operates a shaker that jiggles the daylights out of the tree branches. It also will run a saw or a trimmer or a pruner. In the prune-knocking operation the tower is equipped with shields that windrow the prunes as they fall to the ground. There are plans to fix it so they will drop directly into the boxes.

Memorial Plaque To Honor Dead Halfback

MISSION, Nov. 3. (AP)—Enrique Carrizales, jr., high school halfback who died Oct. 12 of injuries received in practice, will be honored by a memorial plaque.

The plaque will have space for names of players who exemplify good sportsmanship to be inscribed on it. Mission School Superintendent Mil Auld proposed the memorial.

Margaret Rates Second In Deportment

Britons Fear Princess Will Succumb To Smoking Habit

LONDON, Nov. 3. (INS)—Princess Margaret smoked a cigaret in public last night and some Britons feared today she might "get the habit."

There were those, too, who compared the impish Margaret and Princess Elizabeth, and decided that on deportment Margaret rates no better than second.

Margaret was in a party of 24 attending a charity Hallowe'en ball. After dinner, and before the hundreds of other assembled guests, an escort offered the princess a cigaret. She accepted, took a couple of puffs and the deed was done.

Today Francis Phillips, secretary of the National Non-Smokers society, said he was "sorry that Margaret smoked in public." He added:

Picture Published

"She should set an example for young people. I hope she won't form the habit. I don't want to condemn her too severely because I realize that its difficult to abstain when friends are indulging.

"But she should use her will power."

The incident followed by only a few days publications of a picture showing a cigaret box and ash tray on Princess Elizabeth's desk in her new home, Clarence House.

Buckingham palace took official notice of the inquiries about the picture. It said the ash tray and cigaret box were only for the convenience of visitors and added that neither Elizabeth nor her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, smokes.

The London Evening Star, commenting decorously today on events of last night, said that "friends could not recall having seen the queen or Princess Elizabeth smoke."

BY DREW PEARSON: ADMIRAL FORREST SHERMAN WAS FAVORITE OF JAMES FORRESTAL

Britain Makes Preparation For Atom Bomb Attack

WASHINGTON. — Here's the dope on Admiral Forrest Sherman, the man who favored unification.

He was Forrestal's favorite. Forrestal had him earmarked for chief of naval operations, considered him the broadest military man he had ever known. In fact, Forrestal sent Sherman to the Mediterranean with the idea of replacing Adm. Richard Conolly as fleet commander of Europe. But Conolly begged to stay on, and Forrestal gave in, expecting to make the transfer later.

PEARSON

Sherman and Conolly have never gotten along since, Conolly being an old-line, unimaginative, battleship admiral. Sherman is just the opposite — alert, aggressive, with his eyes ahead.

Sherman is short, tanned, ruddy with straight gray hair. He wears glasses at his desk. He was a champion fencer at Annapolis, but his favorite exercise now is walking. Aboard ship, he paces the deck; on land, he'd rather walk a few blocks than catch a cab.

Though he has a dynamic mind, Sherman's personality falls short of Admiral Halsey's. He doesn't play golf or tennis, but reads avidly for recreation. He prefers weighty works, such as the London Economist.

Sherman won the complete respect of Gen. Lauris Norstad while writing the unification act.

NOTE—Sherman was ready to testify with the other admirals on capitol hill. He flew into town, and had his statement all ready. But Secretary of Defense Johnson already had him in mind for chief of naval operations, didn't want him to get splattered with mud. So Sherman was kept in the shadow, never took the stand.

War Clouds

Atomic-war preparations in Britain have been intensified since news of the Russian A-bomb. London would be the first object of attack. Therefore the British army has ordered 500,000 vest - pocket gieger counters to detect radioactivity. Air-raid wardens will use them to report on what parts of the city are radioactive . . . Chief result of the American ambassadorial conference in London was to appoint "Chip" Bohlen, ace expert on Russia, to mastermind U. S. strategy behind the iron curtain. . . Stalin recently called Tito the "little Hitler." The truth is Stalin is shorter than Tito . . . Tito's chief trouble in defending Yugoslavia is ammunition. Yugoslavia's artillery, guns and tanks were supplied by the Soviet, so now Tito can't get spare parts and ammunition . . . the Yugoslavs are dickering with the Italians to manufacture ammunition in northern Italy. And it was only a short time ago the two countries were rowing over Trieste! . . . Secretary Acheson's planning chief, George Kennan, has just completed a secret study of what the cold war may cost. It runs to fifty billion a year.

TRUMAN will not reappoint J. Copeland Gray to the National Labor Relations board when his term expires this year. Labor is down on him . . . Labor leaders now figure that if they can't repeal the Taft-Hartley act, the best tactic is to pressure for pro-labor men on the NLRB. . . Usually John L. Lewis has made the mine operators sweat. Now the operators are letting John Sweat. He has been desperately anxious to settle the coal strike . . . Been Fairless, president of U. S. Steel and the son of a coal miner, two weeks ago urged his company executives to sign a one-year contract with the union along the lines recommended by the President's fact-finding board. . . CIO Boss Phil Murray, who knows better, has let his cohorts get away with an unfair habit which boomerangs against labor. Though Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has been castigated by the real estate lobby, the CIO convention in Cleveland also castigated him for being the friend of the real estate lobby. It looks like Woods was really trying to be impartial . . . The CIO convention also castigated Jim Reynolds, conscientious NLRB member, as anti-labor. Reynolds has tangled with some labor bosses but has a long record of fighting for the little guy.

Patient Cy Ching

Unsung hero of the steel negotiations was long, lanky Cy Ching who, at the age of 71, resigned from the U. S. Rubber company two years ago to help his country as a labor conciliator.

Ching's patience is that of Job's. All week long, hour after hour, day after day, like a broken phonograph record, he listened to the same company arguments that workers must contribute to the pension fund.

"But your captive coal mines have a noncontributory agreement with John L. Lewis," Ching told U. S. Steel vice president John Stephens.

"Yes, and look what happened to Lewis's pension fund," Stephens replied. "It's been bankrupted because it never was set up on a sound, actuarial basis in the first place. We want to establish a sound pension plan for U. S. steel employees.

Ching argued that Phil Murray had proved his responsibility by his relentless fight against communist elements in the CIO. In fact, Murray's leadership was now being endangered because of his broad-gauged acceptance of the fact-finding board's proposals for ending the steel strike, which management had rejected. As a result, CIO left-wingers were yelling for his scalp.

Didn't it mean something to the company to be able to do business with a high-class, levelheaded, responsible American like Phil Murray? asked Ching.

"Well, this question of contributory pensions is a matter of principle with us," interposed Roger Blough, counsel for U. S. steel. The presidential fact-finders would have come up with a different solution if they had to run a steel mill, he intimated.

Maybe the fact-finders also took into consideration the problems of those who work in a steel mill, slyly suggested Ching.

"But contributory pensions are now an accepted fact—a part of our economy," argued Stephens. "Social-security pensions are contributory. The railroad retirement act is based on the same principle. Private industry cannot be criticized for going along with the pattern established by Congress."

So it went—sometimes into the night.

The PLAINSMAN

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Editors of Associated Press newspapers from all over the country are meeting in Fort Worth this week and The Plainsman, always a firm believer in associating with the Associated Press, is in Cowtown for the big pow-wow. Guest columning today is the author of the "Everyday Events" column in the El Paso Times).

By W. J. HOOTEN
Editor, The El Paso Times

NECESSITY of parents impressing certain facts upon their small children was emphasized in an El Paso theater the other day.

A little girl became so frightened that she could not tell theater officials her name, where she lived, the name of her father or where he worked.

She was taken into the manager's office. He put her in a chair beside him and calmly waited for her to get over her fright. She did, finally, but even then she could not tell him her name or where she lived.

"What do your mother and father call you?" the child was asked.

"Who lives next door to you?"

"Do you have brothers and sisters? What are their names?"

Either the child was still too frightened to talk or she remembered that her mother had told her not to talk to strangers.

After a while, she remembered her father's first name and the theater manager knew one or two men by that name. He called the homes of those men and finally located a maid in the child's home who told him to send her home in a taxicab.

Then came the surprise. The child's mother showed up. She had been in the theater all the time. The child went to get a drink of water and became lost when she tried to find her seat again. The mother thought the child had taken another seat nearby.

Nevertheless, parents should teach their children to answer questions as a matter of safety.

For instance, a child should be told to give his name when asked, where he lives, his father's name and where the father is employed.

In case a child became separated from his parents and was taken to the police station, or became lost at any time, he could immediately be of great assistance in becoming "unlost."

I CAN always count on Tom Jones, for a long time one of our printers but who now is retired, for a good story.

"Say," he asked me, "did you hear the one about the cowpuncher who lost his watch while fishing?"

Well, it seems that this cowpuncher's fishing line became tangled in his watch fob and the watch fell out and into a hole in the river. He looked for it, but couldn't find it.

Ten years later, he was fishing in the same hole and he caught a big fish. He noticed a lump in the side of the fish's head and thought he had better throw it back. But he decided to investigate.

Guess what was causing the lump. You win, it was the watch.

"Do you know," Tom concluded, "the watch was caught near the fish's gills. Breathing of the fish had kept the watch wound and it had lost only 10 seconds in the 10 years."

Someone sent this in to me some time ago. It's pretty good.

BABY STUFF

"I wanna be the pitcher
Er I ain't agoin' ter play;
I'll simply up and quit yer
An' take my ball away."

"If I can't be the leader
Of the band," I heard him spout
"Just write this in your note-book,
You birds, I'm checkin' out."

Yes, you'll find these prima donnas
Wherever you may go.
They pout and shirk, they just won't perk
If they're not the whole show.

Give me the man or woman
Who's modest, loyal, strong.
Who does not seek the limelight
Or the plaudits of the throng.

These are the sporting players
Who seek not place or fame;
With them the thing that matters
Is helping win the game.

HAVE you ever heard the story about the farmer who dug around the edge of the potato hill at the beginning of Winter and found some bad potatoes?

Well, he took them to his good wife, and said:

"These potatoes are beginning to spoil. You'd better cook them."

She cut away the bad parts and cooked what was left.

Every few days, the farmer and his wife followed the same procedure.

The result:

They ate partly spoiled potatoes all winter instead of the good ones, of which they had plenty almost all the time.

The moral of that is excellent, even it was written by one of the champion worriers.

Will someone tell me why so many of us poor mortals look for the partly spoiled potatoes instead of the good ones? In other words, why do so many of us see the unhappy things in life instead of the happy side?

If anyone can answer that, maybe I can stop worrying along with the rest.

If we could convince ourselves that the things we worry most about never happen, we would be all right.

But if we could do that we wouldn't be worriers. So what the heck? Woe is me!

NOT long ago, an interesting chart came to my attention. It was aimed against cutting prices. It's heading was, "Cutting Your Prices Isn't the Answer."

It read:

"Based upon a 25 per cent gross profit on your selling price, the figures below will show you how much you can increase your business in volume in order to make the same gross profit before you cut the price:

"A 2 per cent cut means 8.7 per cent increase in sales is necessary.

"A 5 per cent cut means 26.0 per cent increase in sales is necessary.

"A 7½ per cent cut means 42.3 per cent increase in sales is necessary.

"A 10 per cent cut means 67.0 per cent increase in sales is necessary.

"A 15 per cent cut means 150.0 per cent increase in sales is necessary.

"A 20 per cent cut means 400.0 per cent increase in sales is necessary."

Not being an economist, an accountant, a mathematician, and being scarcely able to add and subtract, I must say that I don't know whether those figures are correct or not.

Anyway, the chart gives us something to figure on.

It is my opinion that prices are going to have to come down slowly.

What in the world is going to come next?

British scientists have marched halfway towards the production of synthetic substitutes for such protein foods as ham and eggs, it is reported from the University of Leeds. They may be able to give you the same food value, but nothing will ever take the place of ham and eggs, that good old American standby.

The substitutes will be made from "amides," very simple materials containing nitrogen. Such foodstuffs as milk, eggs, fish and meat are proteins (that information came from Leeds University), and the key substance of proteins is nitrogen.

The synthetic materials are derived from ammonia. They are ammonium bicarbonate, ammonium acetate, glycine, and so on. Sounds simple doesn't it. That's all over my head. But it's all right with me as long as I can still get ham and eggs.

IF you like brain teasers, here's one that should keep you busy for a time. It was told me not long ago by a friend in Craddock, Va. Southern folks, you know, are great on such things.

A father, nearing death, drew up his will. He wanted his three sons to share in his estate exactly as he instructed. The eldest son was to receive one half. The second son one fourth. The third son one sixth.

After the old gentleman died, the division of his property among his three sons went along amicably and easily until it came to the horses. There were 11 horses. Remember, the eldest son was to receive one half: the second son was to have one fourth, and the third son one sixth. Obviously that was impossible with 11 horses.

The sons thought a long while. Finally they borrowed a horse to make the number an even 12. Then the division was simple. The eldest son received six; the second son three and the third son two. That adds up 11. Then they returned the borrowed horse.

Will some smart mathematician tell me how that figured out?

HERE'S a good thought to end on. It is anonymous, I'm sorry to say, else I would give credit to the author.

Winchell Reveals Report On RCA-Victor Loss 'Pure Bunk'

THE First Nights: In Boston, the Lunts are ringing the loudest bells on the cash register with "I Know My Love," their latest gilt-edged opus. . .Variety's Philly deputy was not impressed with "Montserrat". . . A fledgling titled "People Like Us" was ambushed in Detroit and entombed there. . . Several critiques of "Touch and Go" were baffling. They admitted the music and comedy were pleasant; they praised the cast and liked this and that trouper—yet gave the show a polite brush-off. The New Yorker and Time reviewers and some of the daily critics found most of it entertaining, which it is.

How To Ruin A Vacation

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

YOU hear a lot about the extravagant wife—but a husband can be the extravagant one and then it's an even tougher problem, for the wife can't "lay down the law" when it's his own money he's throwing around.

MILLETT

One wife writes me: "I come from thrifty people—and the security of money in the bank means a lot to me. But my husband believes in living for today and letting tomorrow take care of itself.

"I pinch pennies when I market, do without clothes, etc., in the hope that we can save some money—and then my husband goes out and buys some expensive gadget or a suit he doesn't need—and all my penny-pinching savings are gone in one reckless purchase. What in the world can I do about it?"

Not much, I'm afraid. Some men don't want their money saved—and if they can't be sold on the idea, a woman's penny-pinching is so much wasted effort.

STOP PENNY PINCHING

WHY don't you stop penny pinching for awhile—particularly when it means doing without clothes for yourself, etc. After all, if the money is going to be spent, anyway, you might as well get some of the benefits from it.

If you have no children or if they are at an age where you don't have to be at home all the time you might try getting a full-time or part-time job—and banking your paycheck every week. Tell your husband you intend to put the money you earn aside for the future—and stick by it.

If you can't hold down a job you might and you can't get your husband to see the importance of a family's saving for the future—there actually isn't much you can do.

But whatever you do, don't nag your husband about money. That won't make him less extravagant.

And remember this: you won't be nearly so resentful when he buys something he wants for himself if you occasionally let yourself go and get something you want for the house or for your own use.

The social worker, endeavoring to illustrate the danger of sleeping in such a spot, put one foot on the escape, slipped, fell four stories, and broke both her legs.

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

Navy Morale Is Shattered By "Firing" Of Admiral Denfeld

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—As a reformed naval officer, with considerable quiet pride in my old alma mater, I believe I speak for a great many thousand reservists when I say they'd have to handcuff me to get me back in the navy in its present shape.

RUARK

The United States navy today is what we used to call a rat-race. Rat-races begin at the top, and the infection spreads downward until even the over-the-hill artists in the brig feel a sense of insecurity and futility. A rat-race is the antithesis of morale.

When Truman's newest political buddy-buddy, Francis Matthews, got his loyal chieftain to fire Admiral Louis Denfeld as chief of naval operations, that was the final wipe-off of morale in the navy today. From now on no top officer will trust Matthews to speak the navy's piece in high council; from now on no top officer will attempt to cooperate with Matthews; from now on every attempt will be made to sabotage Matthews and reveal him unfavorably as little Jack Horner, sucking a political plum, rather than as a symbolical Jack Tar.

This attitude of unrest and distrust plummets downward and fans out. The admirals are jittery and the captains become insecure; the commanders fidget and the lieutenants catch the irritation; the lieutenants chew out the ensigns and the ensigns give the chiefs a bad time and the chiefs eat out the ratings and the ratings murder the L C's.

Reaction Is Seen

This goes on for a time, and then the reaction starts upward. The LC's goof off on their work and the ratings wink at the chiefs and the chiefs yawn at the ensigns and lieutenants and the commanders get off early to play golf and the captains and admirals are not inclined to give a rap one way or the other.

What was once a happy ship, taut and sharp with shared pride based on security, discipline and performance, suddenly goes sloppy and lax. The men sprawl in their sacks after reveille; the officers quit shaving; the old man begins to pull on the bottle in his cabin; the food gets lousy and the cook don't give a damn; the gear is loose and the brass goes green and the lines sprawl on the deck and nobody cares.

TO FURTHER define a rat-race, it is largely born when the bossmen in the topmost rigging have small concept of what goes on, but swing their weight mightily to enforce their decisions. A rat-race is inspired by blind favoritism and cynical discrimination. A rat-race is when nobody at the bottom or the middle has respect for the decisions and the instructions of his superiors.

I would say you are looking at a superb rat-race in this Washington thing, especially from the navy's standpoint. The entire hassle between the fighting services is a rat-race. I would also say that a great many aspects of the Truman administration could qualify in any sweepstakes between rats.

Security In Danger

The poison of the rat-race spreads even outside its focal point. In the case, say, of the lowly taxpayer, his confidence in his navy, in his President, in his President's cabinet, is suddenly shaken and he views further decisions with a cold and fishy eye.

His confidence in his country's ability to administer and defend itself is impaired, as he watches the bickerings and double-crosses, and listens to charges and counter-charges which prove nothing. He has regarded the atom bomb and the B-36 as the Frenchman regarded the Maginot line; now he begins to wonder if, perhaps, he was not over-trusting when he placed his faith in what his leaders told him.

This is the sadness and the pity of the rat-race. When the men up top are too petty or too ignorant or too spiteful to grasp and hold the respect and loyalty of the men in the middle and at the bottom, is unhealthy to the crew while endangering the safety and function of the ship.

"IT IS a mistake to display most of your merchandise in the show window," asserts the editor of a merchandising journal. The modern girl might do well to take note of this.

THE FARM SUPPORT PROGRAM

Nearly all thinking Americans recognize that prosperity on the farm is a cornerstone of prosperity in the nation as a whole.

Agreement, therefore, seems close to unanimous that agriculture must be protected from bankrupting collapses of prices. If large numbers of farmers should become bankrupt, nearly everyone else will "go bust" too.

Popular sentiment unquestionably endorses, overwhelming, the principle of farm price protection. This does not mean approval of excessive support prices. It does mean endorsement of legislation which attempts to protect the farmer against prices which fall below the cost of production.

The prospects now are that the majority of Americans will string along with the new support program and continuing price protection as long as the benefits paid to farmers are kept within reason. The continuing program does not appear likely to be in danger unless those who benefit from supports attempt to gouge so much from the government that an outraged public will put a stop to the whole thing.

U. S. MAY HAVE TO BUY UP PORK

Hog Prices At Lowest Level Since OPA Ceilings Removed

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Uncle Sam soon may have to add some pork meat to his hoarded groceries.

Hog prices are slipping. They are now at the lowest level in more than three years. They are not far above the point at which the agriculture department must buy pork to help hold up the farmer's price for live hogs.

Uncle Sam's hoarded groceries include eggs, milk, potatoes, grains and many other items. But there's no meat in the larder. Many livestock traders think the last thing Uncle Sam wants to do is buy meat, taking it out of the consumer's market.

Lowest Since OPA

However, he won't be able to help himself if prices continue to slide.

The top price for hogs here yesterday was $17.00 a hundred pounds. That was the lowest since OPA ceilings were removed Oct. 15, 1946. The old ceiling was $16.25.

Falling prices have spurred meat interests to action. A nation-wide educational and advertising campaign promoting the use of pork will start next month.

Charles Shuman, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, which is backing the promotional campaign, says, "we are interested in heavy consumption of pork because it means we can convert our large grain supplies into meat and find a market for our product".

"We would rather depend upon a strong consumer demand than government price supports," Shuman said.

The American Meat institute, composed of meat packers, came up with some figures on retail prices. It said pork chops at retail in the basic Chicago market have dropped an average of 23 per cent from last summer while whole hams have slumped 15 per cent.

One important factor in the hog price slump is the extreme weakness of lard, market analysts agreed. When cut down, about 15 per cent of a hog goes into lard. When lard prices weaken, packers pay less for live hogs unless they can make up the lard loss by getting more for meat.

Loose lard was quoted here yesterday at $8.75 a hundred pounds, lowest since 1941. Domestic demand is very slow.

A highly complicated formula exists for determining at what price the agriculture department must step in and buy pork to support live hog prices. It is impelled to take this action by congressional law.

Support Varies

The support level varies each month. This month it's $15.00—a national average for prices received on the farm.

Prices at livestock markets always are higher than the national average farm price. Therefore, the department has calculated a figure for seven midwestern markets which it considers equivalent to the average support price on the farm. This figure is a weekly average of all barrows and gilts sold at those markets.

This weekly average is called a "guide" price. If the actual selling price is below the "guide" price, it is presumed the price the farmer is getting at the farm is below the support level. And, therefore, the agriculture department must buy pork.

The guide price this week is $16.25. Actual average price at Chicago yesterday was about $16.80—or only 55 cents above the guide price.

An important point, however, is that the support level on the farm is an average for the entire month. It would therefore be possible for the average price at seven markets to slump below the guide price for several days, or possibly a week or more, without causing the department to buy pork.

Explorers Prove Ice Worms Not Just Tale

THE PAS, Man., Nov. 3 (U.P.)—An all-out search for ice worms throughout their crawling grounds was promised here by Harold Wells, preparing for the third annual Northern Manitoba Trappers' Festival.

Frosty looks of disbelief were directed at Wells last year when he announced that an exhibit of ice worms would be shown at the festival. Another publicity director's stunt, they said. The worms just didn't exist.

The march of science changed all that this summer.

Walter A. Wood, of the Arctic Institute of North America, led a party into the southwestern Yukon to clock the speed of the Seward Glacier. That job was completed successfully, and it was found that there were ice worms on the glacier.

A statement by officials of the instituted said: "The discovery of these worms, some of which measured as much as an inch in length, rudely shattered the skepticism of many members of the party who inclined to the belief that ice worms existed solely in the imagination of good story tellers."

Greek Sailors Are Cornered

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3. (AP)—The three Greek sailors on a nautical sitdown strike 50 feet up the aftermast of the freighter Aristocratis may win their skirmish with the U. S. Immigration service but it looks as though they'll lose their battle to steer clear of their homeland.

A shipping firm spokesman said the vessel will sail to the Orient by way of the Suez canal instead of via the Panama canal and the three seamen will be put ashore in Greece. The ship is scheduled to sail Sunday with a cargo of fertilizer.

The trio climbed aloft early Tuesday morning to thwart efforts to deport them. The three seamen, and a fourth who has disappeared, are members of the Greek maritime union Oeno which was outlawed by the Greek government in 1947 as communist-led.

Claimed Agitators

The Immigration service refused them permission to come ashore when the Aristocratis docked. Immigration officials believe they are not bona fide seamen but are merely waiting an opportunity to jump ship and enter the United States illegally.

Because this situation had arisen several times and because the four seamen had been agitators in protesting recent pay cuts, the ship's owners decided to send them back to Greece aboard another vessel.

That's when the one sailor disappeared and the other three went up the mast, refusing to come down and not letting anyone else up. A spokesman for their union said they're afraid they'll be put in prison back home, or worse.

Sympathetic crew members are keeping them supplied with food, drink and cigarets.

Shopping Centers To Be Built In Houston

DALLAS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Leo Corrigan says construction will start late this month on four new shopping centers in Houston.

The Dallas real estate developer estimated their cost at about $3,500,000.

He said yesterday they will be located in the tri-cities, North Shepherd, North Main and North Washington areas.

Doctors said he suffered from reticulo-endotheliosis — a disease similar to luekemia, a disease in which the blood's white corpuscles get out of control and destroy the red corpuscles.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Collins of LaFayette, La., brought their son here for treatment.

ALBANIA AND BULGARIA ACCUSED

UN Expected To Put Blame Of War Danger On Balkan States

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 3. (AP)—The United Nations is expected to record an overwhelming majority vote today for a four-power resolution declaring Albania and Bulgaria endanger peace in the Balkans by aiding Greek guerrillas.

The resolution, introduced by Australia, China, Britain and the U. S., also calls on the two Russian satellites to stop supporting the communist-led guerrillas.

U. N. observers pointed out, however, that both Albania and Bulgaria had ignored similar resolutions passed by previous U. N. assemblies and that the sharp attacks on Greece made by spokesmen for both countries in he political committee yesterday indicated they had not changed their attitude.

Arms Embargo Urged

The four-power resolution also calls for continuance of the U. N. special committee on the Balkans and urges all countries to place an arms embargo on Albania and Bulgaria until they stop aiding the Greek guerrillas.

Both communist nations and Yugoslavia, which has closed its border to the guerrillas, were asked to cooperate with Greece in the setlement of differences by peaceful means.

The resolution underlined the serious view of the Balkan situation taken by the sponsoring powers in stating that the launching of a new attack on Greece would justify the calling of a special session of the assembly to deal with the situation.

The Balkan problem has taken up weeks of debate in the political committee, even though consideration of its was deferred for two weeks while a special four-man council committee attempted to find grounds for a general settlement.

Albania Blamed

The conciliation efforts broke down and the special committee in its report pinpointed the blame on Albania's demand for a final definition of the Greek-Albanian border as a prerequisite to a settlement. Greece long has claimed the northern epirus, a part of Albania.

The special political committee meanwhile prepared to vote on procedure for admission of new members to the U. N.

The 59-nation group has before it a series of Australian resolutions calling on the security council to reconsider the Russian-vetoed applications of Hashemite Jordan, Ceylon, Nepal, Ireland, Portugal, Italy, Austria, Finland and the Republic of Korea (South Korea).

The Soviet Union has introduced a resolution favoring admission of all the above states, except Korea, plus Albania, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and the Mongolian people's republic.

Russia Vetoes Applications

Russia has vetoed the applications of the nine-western sponsored nations in the security council, which recommends candidates to the assembly. They have offered to lift the veto if the west would support the five communist candidates.

While the Australian resolutions are almost certain of approval, there has been some scattered support among non-communist nations for the Soviet measure. Some of the Arab nations have indicated they will vote for the Russian resolution.

The issue is further complicated by an Argentine resolution to ask the international court of justice whether the big five veto in the security council can legally be applied to membership. Argentina contends the general assembly has the deciding voice on the question of membership and the security council can give only advisory opinions.

Several Latin American and Arab nations have voiced support of the Argentine resolution.

Suit For $109,200 Is Filed Against Former Opera Star

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3. (AP)—A masseuse has filed a $109,200 suit against Marjorie Lawrence, former Metropolitan opera singer.

Miss Lawrence, who suffered an attack of infantile paralysis in 1941, was given the summons as she sat in a wheel chair in Union station yesterday.

Mrs. Frances Bunn of Benton, Ark., who filed the suit, said the singer had entered into an oral contract to repay her with public acknowledgement for successful treatments.

The petition said Miss Lawrence had agreed to purchase $30,000 worth of space in a national magazine to publicize her treatments and had agreed to include Mrs. Bunn in a contemplated movie and book.

Mrs. Bunn said she had received $942 for treating Miss Lawrence from April, 1947, to January, 1949.

The soprano and her husband, Dr. Thomas M. King, were enroute to New York when the papers were served.

Actor Denies He Is Guilty Of Charge

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. (AP)—It was in the role of real estate broker, not boy friend, that he called upon a divorce suit defendant, Richard Powers, veteran stage and screen actor, declares.

Powers, 52, formerly known in western films as Tom Keene, is accused of intimacies with Mrs. Florence H. Walton, 39. Delvy T. Walton, 53, her wealthy attorney husband, previously testified he and two detectives broke into his wife's bedroom Sept. 26 and found her unclothed and Powers, also dirobed, in a bathroom.

Powers testified yesterday he was very tired that morning and had asked Mrs. Walton to make him a cup of tea before they went to look at an apartment she wanted to rent.

He had also asked permission to use a bathroom, he added, and Mrs. Walton had called through the closed door, warning him not to come out.

Ban On Student Drinking At California Protested Until Dean Of Men Steps In

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—A ban on student drinking in fraternities, sororities and hotel rooms was reaffirmed yesterday by authorities at the University of California. A storm of protest resulted.

The degree came only 15 days before the "big game" with Stanford—always an occasion for considerable merriment.

Placards predicted wholesale bankruptcy for Berkeley's liquor dealers.

Porches of fraternity houses turned into informal beer gardens. Disillusioned members sold, drank or otherwise disposed of their stocks of beer—yes, some suds even flowed on the ground.

Many wore black arm banks in mourning for the "good old days . . . and protested loudly the evils of prohibition.

The storm subsided rapidly. Within a few hours the placards vanished. A scheduled protest meeting was cancelled.

The students explained: Telephone calls from Hurford E. Stone, dean of students.
