40 to 50 Property Owners Attend Meeting

School Board Trustees Hear Taxpayer Complaints

By Sarah L. Durdin
School trustees faced a crowd of approximately 40-50 property owners at their August 13 meeting, most of whom were protesting taxes that had doubled and tripled, according to owners. At one point during the proceedings, fire marshal Elva Mullinax appeared and told the crowd some would have to leave since there were too many people in the building. Mullinax stated the law allowed no more than 40 people in the administration building, according to fire prevention codes. School board president Ottie Mundine opened the meeting for comments from the audience, many of whom reminded the trustees that they had been elected in good faith and the people felt they were being abused by the increase in taxes.

Trustees repeatedly emphasized that the amount shown in letters sent out by the tax office was not what was to be paid, adding that for demonstration purposes the 1979 market value of the property had been used with the 1978 tax rate. They emphasized that while market value of the district property went up, the tax rate is expected to go down and added that taxes are not expected to be raised.

Several property owners stated that they were upset by the market value assigned to their homes, saying that they couldn't sell the property at what the school tax office had valued it at, so the evaluation wasn't fair. A few property owners even offered to sell their property to the board at the valued price if the trustees thought the figures were fair.

Among those who spoke at the meeting were Mavis Pontin, Chester Johnson, Victor Duley, Jr., Anita Dingenary, Peter Lazidis, Juanita Wagley and R.M. Whitman.

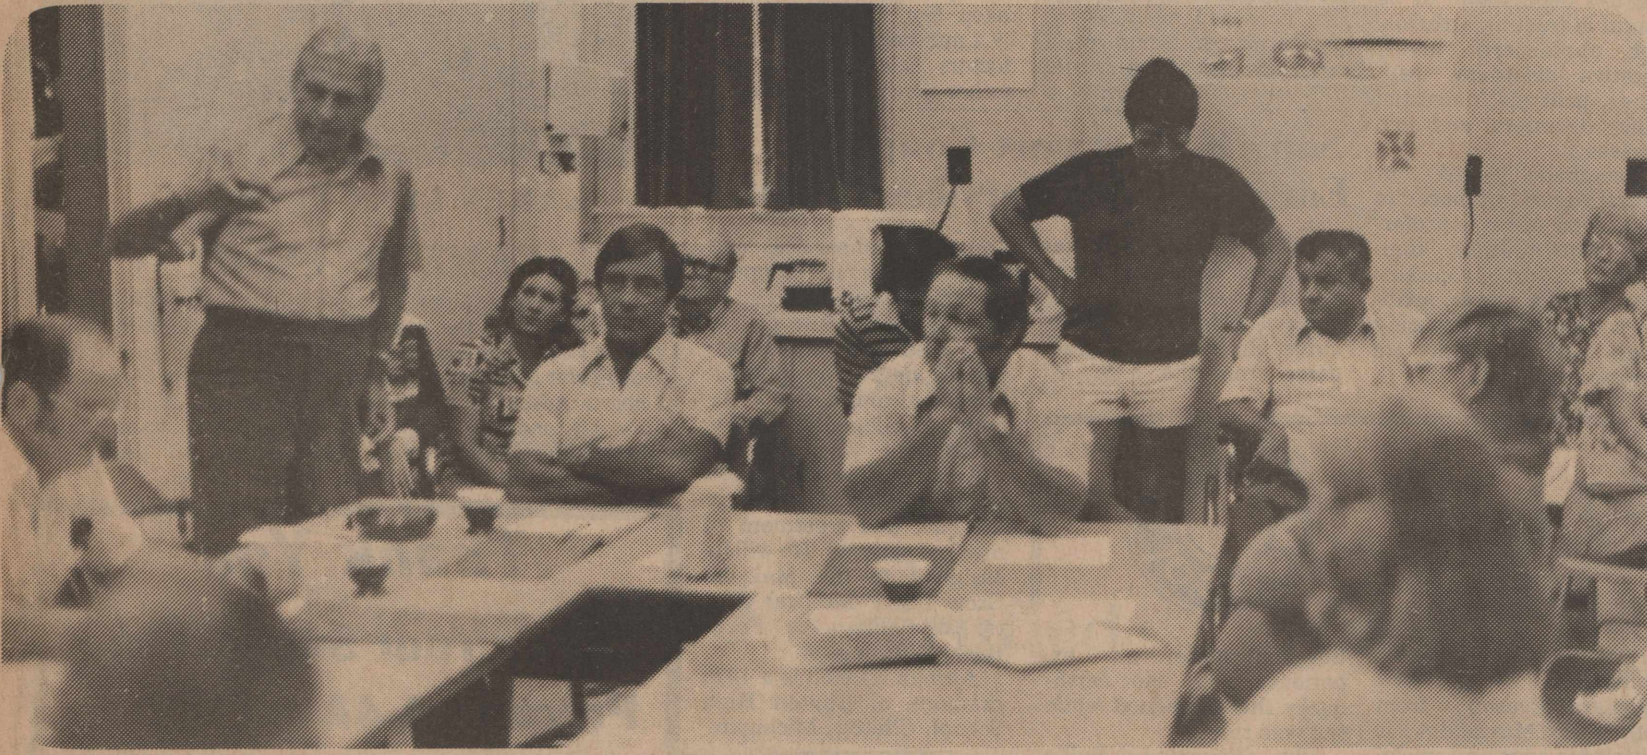

Mundine explained that while the board was sympathetic, they couldn't take any action to stop the taxing procedures. He said that when the Board of Equalization was in session the school trustees couldn't advise them, or make suggestions to them.

Mundine did urge all dissatisfied property owners to take their cases to the Board of Equalization, which will be meeting on August 27, to determine if a mistake has been made in evaluating their property.

In other business, the board approved amendments to the 1978-79 budget. Superintendent E.J. Randow told trustees there had been a few unexpected purchases during the year which would have to be taken care of in the budget. He said the new band uniforms, a new bus, the increase of special education workers, and an

Fulton Voters Opt For City Sales Tax

Some 121 residents of Fulton turned out in Saturday's City Sales Tax election, approving the proposed one per cent tax 103 for versus 18 against.

Results of the August 11 election were canvassed in Tuesday night's meeting of the Fulton City Council. City Secretary Cindy Tilden said the state comptroller (Bob Bullock) will decide when the new sales tax will take effect.

The city's one per cent sales tax is collected by the state along with its sales tax revenues, and the city's share refunded on a quarterly basis.

With the new city tax, Fulton will get a return of one cent on every dollar spent on taxable goods.

City Council Calls Public Budget Hearing Sept. 17

By Pat Blair
Rockport's City Council set workshops on Monday and Tuesday, August 20-21, at 7 p.m. to consider the 1978-80 budget, and called for a public hearing on the budget to be held at 7 p.m. Monday, September 17.

The action was taken during the Council session that began at 7:30 p.m. Monday, August 13, that also saw a quiet public participation hearing on the city's application for a Step 1 grant for improving the city's wastewater treatment facilities.

A highlight of the meeting was the appearance of Henry Bent and Waudena Scarlata of Rockport Realty to request a permission for a 70 foot tall hot air balloon to fly over Navigation District property Sunday, August 19.

The event is to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy association, and the realty company has already obtained permission from the Navigation District for the proposed flight.

Members of the Council who approved the request, received T-shirts and "Balloon Pilots Licenses" from Mrs. Scarlata.

No action was taken regarding the grant application Monday. Only one person appeared before the Council: attorney S. Reese Rozzell representing the Aransas County Water Conservation and Reclamation District.

Rozzell presented the Council with a resolution passed by the water board that the "best interests" of the residents of Live Oak Peninsula could best be served by tying them onto Rockport city service.

The city is applying for a grant under an Environmental Protection Agency program for funds to study the city's future wastewater needs. This study is expected to cost a little over $55,000 of which EPA pays 75 per cent and the city would pay the remainder—about $14,000.

City officials gave split vote approval to a revised agreement between the City of Rockport and International Systems Inc., a firm that helps cities obtain federal grants.

Under the agreement, Rockport will pay ISI $19,000 a year to determine grants for which the city is eligible and help the city apply for them.

The fee is to be refunded to the city if ISI fails to secure grants equal to the $19,000, and the city would pay half the fee initially and the balance in six months.

Any grants the city secures on its own would [see BUDGET, page 8]

Flotilla 79 - Men And Women Dedicated To Community Service

By Pat Blair
They free boats that have run aground, assist in search and rescue operations...inspect boats to determine if they're safe... If it's a job for the Coast Guard, it can be handled by Rockport's Flotilla 79, a 20-member Coast Guard auxiliary unit organized earlier this year.

The organization was chartered on April 7, 1979, with 10 members. Since then, it has doubled to its present size. Membership is open to any U.S. citizen, male or female, age 17 years or over, who is the owner-operator of a boat that could be used by the auxiliary unit.

An exception to the boat ownership requirement is allowed if the prospective member has a service the auxiliary can use, said George Moore, commander of the Rockport Flotilla. For example, he said, a doctor or radio operator would not have to own a boat to be eligible for membership.

All prospective members must take a training course and pass a Coast Guard test on seven subjects including navigation, communications, search and rescue. Again, Commander Moore said, the exception to the training program is the person who can pass the test based on "prior knowledge" of the subjects.

The Rockport Flotilla is one of nine auxiliary units that cover the South Texas area.

"The auxiliary echelon is set up on the basis as the Coast Guard echelon," said Walter Luce, operations [see FLOTILLA, page 8]

'Maggie' Due In Rockport To Help Launch MDA Drive

By Pat Blair
"Maggie" is 70 feet tall, 50 feet wide and full of hot air—and she'll be in Rockport Sunday, August 19, to help raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"Maggie" is short for "Spectrum Magnum," one of two hot air balloons that will begin a nine-day, 300-mile journey across Texas—the longest organized balloon flight in Texas history—on Sunday.

Piloted by Jim Marshall of Plano, "Maggie" will touch down in Rockport at 6:30 p.m. Sunday on the beach by the Ski Basin (site of Rockport's annual Art Show and Sea Fair).

Rockport residents are invited to come out, see the landing...and perhaps buy one of the T-shirts, "Balloon Pilots License" and balloons that will be sold to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. All proceeds from the sales will be donated to the Association.

The flight of "Maggie" and "Patches Too," the other hot air balloon in the nine-day odyssey, is sponsored by the Electronic Realty Association of which Rockport Realty is a member broker.

Henry L. Bent, an associate broker with Rockport Realty, appeared before Rockport's City Council Monday night, August 13, to request Council permission for the balloon to fly over the property which is owned by the Navigation District.

ERA realtors across Texas are sponsoring the balloon odyssey as one of many events designed to attract attention to the efforts of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. [see 'MAGGIE', page 8]

Healthful hints

By: Jean Glowka

Q. I keep telling my husband that yogurt is good for him, but I can't tell him why. Can you help me?

A. Yogurt is a very nutritious food, giving us all the benefits of milk with some very important additions. The protein and calcium in yogurt are more easily digested because they are partially "pre-digested". Yogurt contains "favorable" bacteria which synthesize, or make, the entire group of B complex vitamins; thus the person using liberal amounts of yogurt has what amounts to a "B-vitamin factory" in his intestines.

The beneficial bacteria which yogurt contains make it a natural antibiotic. Yogurt has been found to be helpful in treating arthritis, high cholesterol level, digestive disorders, gallstones, halitosis, hepatitis, kidney disorders, and skin diseases.

Homemade yogurt or natural yogurt purchased at health food stores is preferable. Most ordinary commercial yogurt contains preservatives, sugar, artificial coloring and flavoring which tend to nullify its therapeutic effects.

Q. I was in a health food store the other day just looking around and reading labels. One of the things that confused me was the measurement terms used for vitamins. What is the difference between a mg., a mcg., and a gram?

A. I guess that would be confusing for someone new to nutrition. Well, here it is:

1,000 mcg. (microgram)=1 mg. (milligram).

1,000 mg.=1 gram.

A gram is a lot; a milligram (mg.) is the one you see most often; a microgram (mcg.) is a very small quantity.

Until next week, folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Article VIII Establishes City Tax Administration

By Pat Blair

The city's powers to assess and collect taxes are set out in a Article VIII of Rockport's proposed new City Charter.

Under this article, an "Office of Taxation" is established "to assess and collect taxes." Head of the office is the city assessor-collector who is appointed, under Article IV of the charter, by the city manager.

Article VIII sets down the city's right to "levy, assess and collect taxes of every character, type and for any municipal purpose not prohibited by the Constitution" or State laws. It also sets down the city's right to grant tax exemptions "in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas."

Section 3 gives the city the right to contract with other municipalities or tax districts, or with individuals or corporations for appraisal of property, assessment, equalization and/or collection of taxes.

Section 4 deals with the assessment of property, which is taxed on its market value as of January 1 of each year.

Section 5 calls for a three-member Board of Equalization "who shall be qualified taxpayers electors of the City." The annual meeting date of the board will be set by the City Council, but the board "shall complete its work annually by June 15."

The Board of Equalization will elect its own chairman under terms of Article VIII. Members of this board may not be members of the city council and "shall not hold any other public office or employment," and they may be removed "at the pleasure of the Council."

Under this article, city tax rolls for the year must be completed and approved by October 1, and taxes must be paid before February 1. The city council may provide by ordinance for discounts on taxes paid before January 1.

Section 6 of the article provides that "failure to levy and assess taxes through omission in preparation of the approved tax roll shall not relieve the person, firm or corporation so omitted from obligation to pay such current or past due taxes...."

This means if property is accidentally omitted from tax rolls, he still owes that tax and will be required to pay it when the error is discovered. However, this section also prohibits charging of penalty and interest in case of such error.

Section 7 provides that the owner on January 1 of "property subject to taxation by the city shall be personally liable for the taxes" due on the property for that year. This section also sets down the city's power to sue for and collect delinquent taxes.

Section 8 sets out the city's power to provide by ordinance additional "rules, regulations and mode of procedure not in conflict with the laws of the State of Texas" to enforce collection of taxes.

Does it pay to exercise? Sure does. At least one life insurance company is offering worthwhile discounts to those who exercise regularly.

Voters Approve District For Holiday Beach

Voters in Holiday Beach approved establishment of the Aransas County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 by a vote of 83 to 10 in the Saturday, August 11, election.

An even 100 ballots were cast, but seven could not be counted because of improper or illegible marking, according to Freddie Lingner, secretary of the District's board of directors.

In addition to confirming establishment of the District, voters also elected the permanent board of directors Saturday.

Board members and the number of votes they received are: Miss Lingner, 81; M. Joan Nish, M.D., 80; J. Gordon Hargrove, 87; Fred F. Mullins, 87; and Frank H. Smith, 82.

These were the members of the temporary board of directors for the District. Theirs were the only names that appeared on Saturday's ballots.

Others who received write-in votes in the election were Ted Appell, 7 votes; Charles Campbell, 9; Rans Blankert, 6; David Wells, 1; Edyth Mitchell, 1; Louise Hughes, 2; Raymond See, 1; and (no first name) Plough, 1.

Members of the now permanent board of directors will meet at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, August 16, in the Lingner Real Estate Office, Highway 35 in Holiday Beach, to canvass the results of Saturday's election. The real estate office has been designated the temporary office for the Water District.

The boundaries of the now-confirmed water district are the same as those of Holiday Beach and only those residents of Holiday Beach were eligible to vote in Saturday's election.

Before the election, Miss Lingner said the growth of the Holiday Beach area necessitated some form of governing body for the continued supply and improvement of water now, and waste treatment in the future.

The water district will be eligible to apply for federal grants to fund needed facilities for the area.

Other winners were: Laura Ren, Thuy Hoang, Faith Angostinone, Joy Stern, Stephanya Miller, Brandy Friebele, Tasha Lyman, Diana Davis, Lisa Ann Davenport, Kevin Lewis, Kevin Lyman, Chris Lyman and Ben Friebele.

Also awarded prizes were Krista Barksdale, Kerre Barksdale, Thao Hoang, Brenda Barcia, Tam Nguyen, Donald Cutcher, John Collie, Catrina Lewis, Jason Sea-right and Teresa Perez. Posters and bookmarks are on display at the public library.

The library staff thanks the many community minded contributors whose efforts helped make the Summer Reading Program successful. Contributors were Cinema 35, First National Bank, Live Oak State Bank, Whataburger and Ron's Fried Chicken.

Rockport Paramedics Re-certified

Seven Rockport based Paramedics have completed re-certification procedures. The training is required by the Texas Health Department each two years to insure that Texas Paramedics not only maintain a high degree of training but also receive constant update on new emergency procedures.

Paramedics with the Aransas County System receive an initial training program of approximately 1,000 hours of class room, hospital and field training before they are certified. After one and a half years of certification, medics must begin re-training in order to complete the re-certification program before their certification expires after six more months.

Paramedics who were re-certified include Bill Aston, Paramedic Director for ACEMS, who received his third Certification as a paramedic. Aston has also been certified as an Emergency Medical Technician three times since 1970 and a E.C.A. one time.

Wendy Aston, was re-certified for her second term as a Texas Paramedic. Wendy has also been certified as an Emergency Medical Technician, and an Emergency Medical Services Instructor.

Manuel Flores has completed re-certification for his second term. Manuel, has also been registered as an Emergency Medical Technician and an E.C.A.

David Crawford was also re-certified for a second term. In addition he has been a certified Emergency Medical Technician, Emergency Care Attendant and a E.M.S. Instructor. David is an advanced scuba diver and director of the E.M.S. Water Rescue Team.

Dennis Bazemore, Director of the Tri-County Emergency Medical Service, serving Aransas Pass, Ingleside and Gregory, completed re-certification to serve as a second term Paramedic. Bazemore has been certified two times as an Emergency Medical Technician. Bazemore is also a E.M.S. instructor, having held that title since 1977.

Ralph Gonzales-Paramedic, has received his second term re-certification through the Rockport system and serves as a volunteer with the ACEMS. Ralph has also been certified as an Emergency Medical Technician for a term and an E.M.S. instructor for the years since 1977. Ralph is also a Certified Scuba Diver and a member of the Water Rescue Team.

Betty Whitliff, Chief Medic of Corpus Christi Brown and Root has completed re-certification procedures for a second term. Betty received her original Paramedic Degree from Rockport E.M.S. in 1977, after receiving her Emergency Medical Technician training from Corpus Christi.

This re-certification program precedes the completion of a Formal Paramedic School currently underway here in Rockport. It is expected that 15 new Paramedics will be certified out of a class which will graduate on or about September 1, 1979.

Sheriff's Report

Sheriff's deputies in Aransas County investigated a variety of crimes committed during the first two weeks of August ranging from driving while intoxicated and attempted burglary, to aggravated assault.

On August 9 Doris Duderstadt reported a case of criminal mischief at the Surf Side Motel parking lot. She told officers she had left her car about 8 p.m. the previous evening and went to her room. When she returned the next morning she found the right rear window of the car was shattered, but still together. Nothing was missing from the car and all the doors were locked.

Ray Dunworthy reported a burglary that same day, when he noticed an outboard motor was stolen from his garage. He told investigating officers he and his family had been gone for two weeks, and when they returned they discovered the motor missing. There were no signs of forced entry, and Dunworthy said the motor was the only thing missing. It is valued at $575.00.

Deputies received a call August 9 from the Lyman-Roberts Hospital in Aransas Pass. Joyce Gray, a nurse at the hospital placed the call. Rudy Samora had received a three to four inch laceration on his right hand. Samora told deputies he and Joe Brooks had been chased by two men with knives. The incident occurred at a local club on Fulton Beach Road.

Brian Keith Mawhorr arrested August 8 for unlawfully carrying a weapon, after deputies received a disturbance call to the corner of S. 35 and 6th Street.

Ralph Johnson reported an auto theft August 7 when he noticed his 1979

Lincoln was stolen. Also missing was $500 in currency. The car is a 1979 four-door Lincoln, blue, with the personalized license plates Y-FISH. The car is valued at $17,000.

Don Hinds reported a theft of two reels August 2, which were stolen off the rods during the early morning hours. The reels are valued at $130.

officer for the Rockport group. "The flotilla is the basic working unit," Flotillas, he explained, make up the divisions which in turn make up districts.

Flotilla 79 is responsible for patrolling the areas around Aransas County: Aransas Bay, Copano Bay, the Aransas Pass Channel area.

Patrols, usually two to three persons to a boat, are out "just about every weekend," Commander Moore said. Patrols last generally seven to eight hours on Saturdays and Sunday.

Many of the wives of the men who join the auxiliary are themselves members, and Luce added, "Women have been and are encouraged to join. They go through the same training as the men, they can serve as officers."

"And they get the same pay," he added, laughing. Service in the auxiliary is strictly on a volunteer basis, without pay although the Coast Guard reimburses the costs of boat operation. And, Commander Moore added, when auxiliary members are on patrol, under Coast Guard orders, they have insurance coverage under the Coast Guard.

"The Coast Guard works with us 100 per cent," Luce added, by providing training sessions for the flotillas, other forms of support.

County Commission Members Discuss Sale

By Sarah L. Durdin

Aransas County Commissioners talked of having a sale, tentatively gave approval to a subdivision, and review an indigency statement form at their regular meeting August 13. County Judge John Wendell presided over the meeting, with all the commissioners present.

Max Kluge representing Kluge Real Estate appeared before the commissioners with a request for approval of a proposed subdivision. After reviewing the proposal, commissioners unanimously agreed that they had no objections to the subdivision in regards to presently dedicated roads and streets. The subdivision consists of approximately seven acres, divided into plots of one acre and slightly more than one acre.

A statement form concerning indigency was reviewed by commissioners, with all of them agreeing that Aransas County needs some kind of form that can be filled out at the time an indigent claims County sponsorship.

The form is modeled after the one used in San Patricio County, and would be used for indigents asking the county to pay their medical and hospital bills.

Sheriff Robert Hewes also spoke to commissioners about having a sale of articles collected during the past several months. Hewes said the articles were taking up space and needed to be cleared out. No definite date

The flotillas, in turn, take a burden off the Coast Guard by providing manpower when and where the Coast Guard cannot. "We also save the taxpayers money," Moore added, "because we can do the job for less than a quarter of the expense it costs those big Coast Guard boats to run."

The boats in Flotilla 79 are generally 16-foot or larger, but there are no criteria other than that they be able to meet the safety standards. They must also carry a certain amount of extra equipment, such as extra lines, and extra fire extinguisher and two-way radios.

"We have all kinds of water," Commander Moore said, "so we need all kinds of boats--shallow draft, bay boats..."

Luce added the Flotilla even has two inspected sailboats now!

Since its inception, members of Flotilla 79 have volunteered 370 hours of their time to patrol area waters and provide assistance, Public Relations Officer Joe Davis added.

The group has helped 14 persons and helped protect more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of property. In addition, the organization has conducted a number of boat inspections--these are done at the boat owner's invitation.

Every boat that is inspected and given a Coast

Guard sticker, indicating it meets the safety standards, Moore added, "is one less boat we'll have to tow in or that we'll get a call from (because it's stranded)."

In addition, the organization is aiming for two public education courses a year on boating and seamanship, and a "safe boating class" has already been scheduled to start September 11 at Live Oak State Bank. Classes will be free to the public.

What Flotilla 79 provides, Davis said, "is good volunteer service we feel is needed."

Said Commander Moore, "We're a long way from completing the kind of work we want to do."

"But we're making a start."

excessive cafeteria deficit had been entered into the budget during the year, none of which had been expected.

Trustees also approved a new cafeteria policy for reduced price lunches. Under the 1978 plan, the lunches sold for 20 cents, and breakfast sold for 10 cents. Under the revised plan both lunch and breakfast will sell for 10 cents. The pay scale for free meals is 0 to $7490 per year for a family of three, and $7490-11,680 for reduced price meals. For each additional member of a family the pay scale goes up.

During the executive session of the meeting, trustees accepted the resignations of Merrily Lambrecht, Gail Braver and Mathilda Steelhammer.

New teachers approved for the coming school year include Don Davison, Philip Stovall, Beverly Cooper, Claude Mitchell, John Washko, Kathy Williams, William Morgan, Margaret Gian and Melinda Raine.

Random presented his report to trustees, stating that the Board of Equalization will meet August 27, rather than August 22, because of scheduling conflicts.

Random also told trustees the two new buses will be delivered during the coming school year. A 19 passenger bus is expected for delivery by November 30, at a cost of $14,525, and a 72 passenger bus, valued at $38,134 is expected for delivery by January 30.

Permit Requests

Application has been made to the Army Corps of Engineers by William T. Kemmerer, Star Route 1, Rockport, for a permit to construct a private fishing pier on Copano Bay at Lot 55, Newcomb Bend Section, Holiday Beach Subdivision. Comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P.O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553, on or before August 31.

New Law Affects Drivers In Texas

AUSTIN-Texas drivers need to know about an important new law which will seriously affect how they drive on freeway frontage roads.

The change is so important that ignoring it could literally become a matter of life or death.

The law, passed in the recent session of the Texas Legislature, gives traffic entering or leaving freeway ramps the right of way over frontage road traffic.

It was signed by the governor on June 11, and becomes effective August 27.

It reads in part:

"The driver of a vehicle proceeding on an access or feeder road of a controlled access highway shall yield the right of way to a vehicle entering or about to enter or leaving or about to leave the road to enter the highway."

Many ramps on Texas highways already are arranged that way, and YIELD and other signs are in place on the frontage roads for this kind of operation.

Other places where ramps and frontage roads meet, however, are not. There, the signs presently are arranged to require the ramp traffic to yield.

The situation is especially critical where the frontage road carries traffic in both directions. Ramp traffic both entering and leaving the freeway crosses opposing streams of traffic on the frontage road.

The wise motorist should be alert for any changes in signs on the frontage road he may drive regularly and should be aware that all ramp traffic will have the right of way over frontage road traffic later this summer.

He should also be aware when using freeway ramps that other drivers may not be aware of this law change and may overlook the new signs.

Signs are being changed now. Drivers should heed new sign arrangements as they encounter them.

Letters From Our Readers

Dear Perry,

When you build a house you hire an architect.

When the County wanted to know about sewage feasibility they hired an engineer.

When the school board decides to build or add on, they hire an Architect (Architect's have engineers on staff).

Our Navigation Commission has been fortunate to have an elected official for the past six years who has responded in kind with his engineering background, technical ability to read, decipher, prepare, and file forms, drawings, schematics, etc. and having the time necessary to devote many, many hours, days, weeks and months for the navigation commission. He is qualified to fill the needs occasioned by the technicalities necessary in areas of Engineering. He is the only person on the Navigation Commission with these qualities and has for these years filled these needs without the necessity of hiring outside engineering services.

All candidates have something good to bring to the commission. Since there are only two things for a Commissioner to derive from his or her elected responsibility, (the pay is no incentive) those being status or civic satisfaction. Then we must differentiate and decide who will serve the best interest of the community.

Mr. Hal McKnight has served six years faithfully, giving of his time and technical expertise. Hopefully, he will be allowed to continue his faithful service to our Navigation Commission.

s/Roger R. Gordon

Senate Report

The oil spill of Ixtoc 1 in Mexico off the Yucatan Peninsula is a glaring example of what happens when an industry does not have or promptly use the technology to care for the disasters which result from its operations. In the case of this accident, Mexico did not react in a timely way to contain the spill and drill the two offset wells necessary to stop the flow of millions of barrels of oil now reaching the coastline of Mexico, Texas, and eventually all of the Gulf coast. Mexico refused the assistance of the United States when offered, and scientists say Mexico "failed miserably to contain the spill."

The Mexican drilling program was obviously ignored as a safety threat to our shores by the federal government. The right of the United States to respond to such an incident to protect its coastline is fundamental, but Washington was asleep at the switch again.

In addition to the damage that will be done to Texas beaches and tourism, the ecology of our bays and estuaries on the lower coast, this tragedy also raises the more serious, long-range question of future safety requirements for such oil exploration and transporting activities.

The Coast Guard cleanup of our shoreline may be adequate, but it is frustrating to realize that nothing has been done by the oil companies or our government to develop technology and means with which to avoid the inevitable damage which will occur to the Texas coastline.

A large body of oil is also traveling from the Ixtoc well underwater toward the Texas coast. That underwater "slug" or strata of oil will ultimately rest on the bottom offshore Texas and roll up on our beaches or enter our bays and estuaries through the passes and channels unless preventive measures are designed and implemented quickly to avoid that consequence. No one now knows how to combat that danger.

Circle I

Circle I of the First Presbyterian Church, met in Memorial Room at 9:30 a.m. August 9, with fourteen members present. Refreshments were served by Nell Brant, chairman, who also presided over business meeting.

Devotional was given by Jeanette Stalker. The Bible lesson, from the Book of Mark, was moderated by Alethae Reed.

September meeting of the circle will be held at the church, with Mrs. Reed as hostess, and Margaret Gill serving as Bible lesson moderator.

U.S.-MEXICO TREATY

The treaty between the United States and Mexico for cession of California and New Mexico was ratified on May 19, 1848.

Some years ago, in the course of passing the legislation which constitutes our coastal management program in Texas today, I offered a variety of bills concerning oil and hazardous substance spill cleanups. I wrote the Texas law to give us the opportunity to react quickly to any coastal threat and have an available emergency fund with which to begin our work through the Texas Highway Department and the water quality agency of our state. We relied on the assumption that the federal government would deal with major offshore problems and certainly with the international ones.

That law has worked well in several instances on smaller spills since its passage, and the $1 million which I was able to have appropriated on a continuing basis for such emergencies is available today for the use of the departments involved in accepting whatever responsibility the state may have.

On the 18th of August in Galveston, the Texas Coastal and Marine Council is co-sponsoring a meeting with The Galveston Wharves to deal with the dangerous aspects of transporting large quantities of oil. The meeting will be directed at Coast Guard-proposed rules governing lightering activities.

Lightering activity in the Gulf currently involves 1.5 million barrels of oil a day being transferred offshore from supertankers to smaller tankers for delivery to the Texas ports at or near refinery sites. We will hear much testimony about the excessive dangers of the Galveston and Corpus channels and the Freeport offshore terminal and harbor proposal. We will also explore the adequacy of our Coast Guard and state potential to meet the spill hazards which result from such activity.

A modern society which produces the tangible products we use must have its risks and environmental hazards; however, I firmly believe that it is the duty of private enterprise to minimize those hazards and reduce those risks through the best technology available in their field of expertise. It is the duty of government to be certain that the companies-in this case principally the oil companies--minimize the risk and use the best technology available to them.

We can have progress and still have protection. It is up to all of us to demand the technology and its proper use, from the nations, companies and people who produce what we buy.

Today's Word Is: BEGINNING

It has always been inspiring to think of each day as a new beginning. If you have come to the end of one era of life, you have a choice. You can either leave the curtain down and say "the end" or you can raise the curtain and begin the second act. You can use your past experience as a springboard to new and better things. If you listen closely to life, it may be telling you to go ahead, pitch in, fire away, take off! Today is a new beginning.

This was his year, the year Darryl Dawkins, Class of '79, should have flipped his tassel from one side to the other and gone out to face the world.

Clutching a college diploma in one hand and a basketball in the other, Darryl would have cut a commanding figure in the 1979 NBA draft. A very commanding figure.

You do not ignore a man who stands 6-11, weighs 260 pounds and specializes in thunderous dunks. Nor do you comment upon the fact he is wearing an earring. Hey, looks good, Darryl.

Despite such obvious qualifications, however, Dawkins was not a party to the recent draft. Like many another young man, he was already employed—finding it necessary to opt for the life of a laborer over that of a scholar upon graduation from Maynard Evans High School in Orlando, Fla.

The immediate needs of his family seemed somewhat more pressing than his urge to read Plato, so Darryl decided to carry a lunch-pail. Fortunately, he was not required to search extensively for work.

The Philadelphia 76ers, eager to give employment to the worthy, made Dawkins their No.1 choice in the 1975 draft. Without so much as working up a sweat in any college gym, Darryl was a pro.

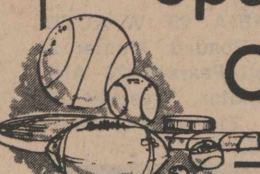

At the time, you may recall, there went up a great outcry in our land over this bit of cradle-snatching. College coaches, in particular, were incensed that athletes such as Dawkins and Moses Malone should be deprived of the benefits awaiting them in ivied halls.

These people were throwing away their careers, their lives, it was charged. They were being exploited. They would never have a chance to learn the social graces, much less the refinements of their craft.

These concerns seemed valid. There are few professions where one may start at the top and expect to succeed.

Speaking Of Sports

And it is true the shortcut from high school to the NBA did lead some—Bill Wiloughby, for example—to the unemployment line rather than the foul line.

Still, as experiments go, this one would have to be considered reasonably successful. If Malone was scarred by his experiences as a raw youth in the hard world, it doesn't show. Moses was an overwhelming choice as most valuable player in the NBA this season. So much for a college education.

Dawkins has not done quite that well, but would have to be rated more than competent at his trade. In what should have been his freshman, sophomore, junior and senior years, Darryl averaged 2.4, 5.3, 11.7 and 13.1 points a game for the Sixers. You may detect a trend there.

He also has gained a reputation as a fearsome shot blocker and the author of such memorable dunks as "The Left-Handed Spine Chiller Supreme," "In Your Face Disgrace" and "Dunk You Very Much."

Obviously, Darryl has not been idle.

Still, is there no pang as Dawkins watches the Larry Birds and Greg Kellers—his class—come into the pros? Would he do it differently if he had another chance?

"No, I don't think so," Darryl says, after due deliberation. "I'm happy where I am. I'm living a good life, making good money. My family doesn't want for anything, and that's the real reason I went into the pros."

Darryl can see an advantage in taking his route to the pros. He is established in the game while his classmates still must prove themselves at this level.

He also can see an advantage in going the undergraduate route.

"Experience," Dawkins says. "The best teacher is playing. Those guys got a lot of playing time that I didn't get."

"My first year at Philadelphia, Gene Shue didn't let me play. I say, 'Let 'em play.' You learn from your mistakes. I've been in the league four years now, and it seems like I just got started."

In other areas, however, Darryl does not appear particularly disadvantaged by his lack of undergraduate opportunity.

He communicates well enough to author his own occasional newspaper column in Philadelphia, an occupation which may or may not reflect to his credit. There are those who consider it socially more acceptable to be unemployed than to do such work.

Darryl enjoys it, however. "It gives me a chance to express myself to the people of Philadelphia, to let them know I'm not a mean, nasty person off the court," he says.

"I'm into kids more than adults, and younger adults more than older ones. But I like everybody."

Fortunately, for the rest of us.

Contrary to popular belief, the Rock Cornish game hen is not just a gourmet delicacy served with wild rice and truffles in elegant restaurants.

Actually, the little hen is quite affordable, simple to fix, and has the extra bonus of being low in calories and high in protein.

Usually weighing little over a pound, one hen is a plentiful serving for one person. The ways to fix it are only limited to your imagination. It can be stuffed with a variety of fillings and is also delectable split in half and broiled or baked.

Since the birds are usually frozen, defrosting becomes an essential part of the preparation. While leaving the hen overnight in the refrigerator has been the traditional method, the microwave has knocked the defrosting time down to under 15 minutes.

The General Electric "Microwave Guide and Cookbook" suggests a three-step method, which should prevent your inadvertently starting to cook the birds. It recommends an oven time of 10 to 14 minutes per pound on the defrost power level.

The book advises the following method: Place the unopened packages in the oven (the metal closure need not be removed). Microwave at defrost for one-third of the total defrosting time.

Then turn the packages over for the second third of the total time. The third step is to unwrap and shield the ends of the legs with foil. Microwave for the last third of the time. If the giblets do not move freely, run cold water into cavities.

The following recipes are intended for a conventional oven with the exception of the last one, which is for a microwave.

CORNISH GAME HENS IN WINE AND MUSHROOM SAUCE
4 Cornish hens, thawed
3 slices bacon, chopped

3 tbsps. butter
4 shallots, minced
1/2 lb. mushrooms, minced
1/4 tsp. thyme
1 tbsp. freshly chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup rich chicken stock
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 tbsp. lemon juice
4 slices day-old bread
Butter

Fry bacon until crisp in large casserole. Remove bacon with slotted spoon and drain on absorbent paper and set aside. Truss hens and brown all over in bacon drippings.

Transfer hens to side dish. Add the three tablespoons butter, shallots, mushrooms, thyme and parsley to drippings left in pan. Season with salt and pepper. Cook five to eight minutes. Add stock, wine and lemon juice. Place hens in mushroom mixture.

Cover. Put in preheated 350-degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes.

Serve each hen on a slice of the bread which has been fried in butter and spoon mushroom-wine sauce over them. Garnish with crisp bacon.

Serves four.

Many people are nutritionally anemic and are unaware of it.

Americans like to think of themselves as well-fed and well-nourished people. Certainly we have sufficient and abundant food supplies that no one should suffer from malnutrition — because of a lack of food.

There are various reasons for diet-related deficiencies to occur. Sometimes people simply consistently choose the wrong foods, and eventually develop the problems.

Anemia is a fairly common nutritional deficiency that is due to a lack of enough iron, folic acid or vitamin B12 (cobalamin) that are either omitted from the diet, or if present, are not being properly utilized, and absorbed.

Depletion of iron stored in the body is usually caused by blood losses. Menstruation and child-bearing in women may deplete iron stores. Men may lose blood from bleeding ulcers, hemorrhoids, surgery, early cancer or other medical problems.

In older people, blood losses may occur because of certain drugs that are taken to help relieve arthritis. Almost all arthritic drugs can cause gastro-intestinal blood losses.

Whatever the causes of the depletion of the body's iron stores, the symptoms of fatigue, weakness, dizziness, headache, pallor and even chest pain are often present. Most people with iron-deficient anemia will respond well to ferrous (iron) sulfate, which is both well absorbed and inexpensive.

Are you anemic?

Iron medications are usually best tolerated when taken with meals, if there is any gastro-intestinal upset. If there is no upset, the iron medication is better absorbed if taken between meals.

Foods high in iron should also be increased in the diet. Liver, beef, eggs, meats, cereals, fruits and vegetables will contribute iron.

I have mentioned this in many columns, and I will emphasize it again — use iron cooking utensils to increase the iron content of the food. They should be uncoated cast iron, and they are inexpensive and easily available.

Another kind of anemia occurs when a person is unable to absorb and utilize the dietary vitamin B12 (cobalamin). It is called pernicious anemia, and the patient usually lacks an intrinsic factor secreted by the stomach that is needed to absorb vitamin B12. Supplying the missing factor, and adding the vitamin B12 either by injection and/or supplemental medication, will usually correct the problem.

Folic acid deficiency produces a different kind of anemia, and was one of the most dangerous side effects of the liquid protein fad diet.

It causes a megaloblastic anemia — a lowering of serum red blood cells.

Symptoms of anorexia (loss of appetite) diarrhea, sore tongue and mouth, can usually be helped by correcting the diet to include organ meats, yeast and fresh green vegetables, which are rich in folic acid.

Supplemental medication may also be necessary to alleviate the symptoms.

THE H.E.B. MEAT TENDERS

When it comes to steaks we think we offer the best... there's no secret why, it just takes skill! One of the things that makes a steak is the angle of the first cut on a side of beef at the meat plant. That's one reason why H.E.B. has it's own meat plant... so that the first cut can be made by an H.E.B. Meat Tender and that way the rest of the steaks will be sliced at the same angle. That's quality control and that's very important if you want a tender, delicious steak. That's why the H.E.B. Meat Tenders do it themselves, so they know it's right... steak after steak after steak.

Stitching Witchery

Hooked on side-seam pockets

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

Good or bad, I am addicted to side-seam pockets on dresses and skirts. Even if I never use them, I just like knowing they are there.

You can easily add side-seam pockets to your favorite skirt or dress pattern (on pants, this type pocket tends to gap). Buy a pattern in which there is a separate side-seam pocket piece (or use a pattern you already have). Redraw this pocket pattern onto a piece of durable paper and transfer the markings. Redraw side seam extension area of garment onto paper. Transfer markings. You now have a "basic pocket-and-extension pattern" you can use with any pattern that has a side seam. To add pocket to other patterns, tape side-seam extension pattern over garment side seam, matching seam lines. Include pocket pattern when cutting out garment. Seldom does this require buying extra fabric.

On fabrics that fray easily, use an overlock stitch to stitch around pocket. This will help prevent fraying of pocket edges. On heavy fabrics, after stitching around pocket, trim seam allowance nearest body to three-eighths inch to prevent a ridge.

Dear Betty: Will you please help me? I am inexperienced in sewing and need whatever help you can give me. A Simplicity size 12 misses lists the following measurements: Bust 34 inches, waist 26.5 inches, hips 36 inches.

My question is: Allowing for the correct seam width when sewing, what will be the bust, waist and hip measurement of the finished garment? I read your column faithfully and find it very helpful. — Eleanor A. Zeman, Ashtabula, Ohio

The bust, waist and hip measurements given on the pattern envelope are not the actual measurements of the paper pattern. Ease has been included in the pattern to give you room to breathe and move around. Therefore, the finished garment will measure larger than the numbers given.

The bust of the garment, for example, will be two to three inches (depending on design) larger than the envelope measurements. On garments of stretch knit the amount of ease will be much less since the fabric itself provides the ease.

Please keep in touch, Eleanor. Let me know how your sewing is coming along.

QUICK STITCH: You have a new sewing machine? Terrific! Now, will you do one small favor for me? Please take advantage of any "get acquainted with your machine" lessons your dealer might offer. You will enjoy your new machine 10 times as much ... honest.

Questions may be addressed to Mrs. Betty Kinser, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Smith -Corona Announces New Models

Smith-Corona feels that there's a big and growing market at the higher-end of the portable electric typewriter business for a machine that looks and performs like an office machine, but is still small and light enough to travel. To match the special needs and wants of that market, Smith-Corona presents the Coronamatic 2500.

It is designed to occupy a price level just above the current top-of-the-line 2200 electric portable. It gives office equipment dealers an exciting new, exclusive product look, with a higher margin potential, in an accelerating, discriminating market.

The carriage and body designs are integrated to eliminate the traditional "overhang" look of wide carriage machines. Smith-Corona states, "This design should appeal to the esthetic eye of the sophisticated buyer; satisfy the job at hand; and respect the competitive realities of the marketplace." The 2500 has been built upon a time-proven, heavy-duty chassis for durability and serviceability.

"It has all of Smith-Corona's standard features including controls for impact and touch; a paper injector; check embosser, repeating actions, full-range tabulator, on-off signal, and all of the other familiar devices for saving the typist time and effort.

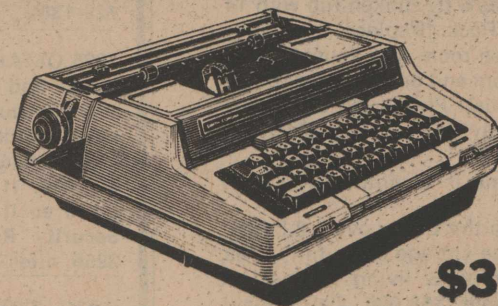

The 2500 uses carbon film and fabric ribbon cartridges interchangeably, like all of Smith-Corona's other cartridge models. It also uses a no-waste correcting cartridge and four color film cartridges. The double-walled case has been redesigned to give it a more deluxe look, as well.

The 2500 will be available in seven stock type faces; plus special types and keyboards, and three decorator color combinations: Chestnut Brown and Sandalwood, Nightsky Blue and Sandalwood, and Sandalwood and Oyster White. Standard 10 and 12 pitch types are Smith-Corona's Regency Pica 80 Elite 81.

See how a star is born!

Ask The Doctor

When did we lose touch?

By WILLIAM J.
GOLDWAG, M.D.
Copley News Service

So often, I receive letters and questions from readers who experience some strange sensation in their bodies or develop a symptom and are unable to understand what it indicates.

Frequently, visits to various doctors fail to provide an answer especially if the symptom is not associated with some common disease.
This is not necessarily the doctor's fault since some of the symptoms are so vague that they could be due to any one of hundreds of disorders, and to check out each one of them would cost hundreds or thousands of dollars and take untold hours of time for both patient and physician.

For example, some of the commonest complaints (and the hardest to pin down) are fatigue, dizziness, itching, tingling sensations, numbness, etc. They may be associated with many other kinds of pains or aches. Unfortunately some of these symptoms are found in association with significant illness, but it is also true that most of the time, no specific reason can be found for them.

What is one to do then?
Most often, the patient goes through a variety of specialists' offices and ends up back where he started with no answers, a medicine cabinet full of prescriptions (too often some kind of tranquilizer), and a feeling of frustration at the inability of the medical profession to offer the desired help.

Is there any way out of this dilemma? Why does this situation come about so frequently?

I don't have all the answers, but I would like to share with you my impressions gained after 25 years in clinical practice.

I believe that we have lost touch with our bodies. The trend in society as technology proceeds at its dizzy pace of development, has been to believe that we are achieving more and more control over Nature and its forces and since the human body represents one of the most obvious manifestations of Nature, we assume that technology is assuming greater and greater control over the living body. The feeling is widespread that the mind can devise anything that is needed to make the body do anything we want it to.

People speculate about replacing any organ in the body, even the brain, about postponing death perhaps indefinitely. This gives one the impression that the body

where do we spend our time and effort (and money)? We spend it trying to learn how to communicate with animals, dolphins, fish, and even unknown beings somewhere in outer space.
Maybe the priorities are slightly jumbled. But, again, where did we lose touch?

I think we lost it in early childhood when we were trained to develop the mind to the exclusion of the body.

We have lost our "roots."
But, what are our roots?
Our roots are the very Nature that we imagine we have conquered. We are rooted in Nature just as surely as any tree in the forest, and if you cut those roots, the same disastrous effect will occur in either case.

How can we follow the pathway to health if we regard every disturbing sensation felt in the body as a hostile intrusion on our peace and contentment, to be eliminated as quickly as possible, instead of a message from a living, loving force that is trying to tell us that we are out of step with Life's flow and is trying to help us get back with it?
You may just as well burn your mail every day, then wonder why others can't communicate with you.

I will purposely not go into how we can get back in touch with the roots of our being because I think it might be valuable for us to think about this for a while.
perhaps you already have ideas on the subject or will develop some thoughts that you would like to send in to share with
