Snyder Described As Pace Setter In State Education

"This is America's hour on the clock of time, and your attitude will determine how far is an hour," Miss Waurine Walker, director of teacher relations and certification for the Texas Education Agency, told a crowd of between 450 and 500 persons last night.

She was speaker at the annual businessman-teacher appreciation banquet, which was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Walker, former president of the National Education Association, spoke of the needs of education in Texas and the nation now and in the future, along with the needs of the country for an atomic and electronic age.

Calling Snyder a pace-setter in Texas education, she expressed hope that the Snyder schools will continue to move out and lead other schools in achievements, and that other schools will continue to follow the examples set here.

The former NEA president said the school teacher now has one of the hardest assignments of any person in life; that the teacher must step up the pace of turning out students qualified to enter competitive fields of life which now require brains instead of brawn.

"We can no longer afford dropouts in the schools; we must have vocational training, and we must send more students to our colleges," she said, stressing the need for students being more adequately trained today to become scientists, businessmen, and teachers.

She pointed several times to the importance of the teacher. Communities must recognize more that importance, she said, and accept teachers into their social life, pay them adequately, because America cannot produce scientists and businessmen without teachers.

Last year American colleges and universities turned out only 4,434 students qualified to be science teachers, she said, and Texas alone could have absorbed that number. She recommended that Snyder, in addition to setting the pace in other fields, lead out in Texas in teacher recruitment. Each school should recruit as many new teachers as it hires each year to keep the supply, she said.

Miss Walker's title, "How Far Is an Hour?" came from a newspaper cartoon she say, which showed a farmer and his son riding in a wagon on a dusty road, looking into the air at the vapor trail of a stratojet, and the cartoon had that title. The farmer's wagon could get to town and back in about the same length of time it took the jet to get to the other side of the world, she said. America today, entering the time known as "the fabulous future," must gear its thinking and actions to meet the needs of the present and future.

LIBERALS GAIN STRENGTH

Long Session Ends

FORT WORTH (AP)—A marathon session of the State Democratic credentials committee ended at 11:50 a.m. today with liberals winning a healthy slice of the contested delegations.

The outcome of today's convention—traditionally called the governor's convention—may hinge on the possibility that the added power given liberals increases the odds against Sen. Price Daniel controlling the session.

In the spirit of disputed delegations, after 11 hours of heated argument, the subcommittee seated 481 conservatives and 149 liberals.

The liberals claimed a total of 888 delegates votes last week, not counting contested delegations. Today's total could add up to 1,037, with 951 needed for a majority.

The hardest blow to the liberals was the seating of Harris County's 270 conservative votes. The county convention had named two slates of delegates and left it up to the state officials to choose.

Conservatives also took Tarrant County's 96 votes, Cameron with 12, Cooke 6, El Paso 34, Hidalgo 32, Liberty 5, Jim Wells 14, Live Oak 2, Nolan 4, and Van Zandt 6.

The other liberal decisions were Jefferson with 37 and Wichita 31.

The committee ruled no contests in Bee, Hartley and Schleicher counties, originally listed in 17 contested delegations.

In its report the credentials subcommittee said its acceptance of the Bexar liberal delegation did not mean it approved the county Democratic committee's action in refusing to put the racial referendum on the July 28 ballot. The referendum had been ordered on the ballot by the State Democratic Committee and the attorney general.

A hearing of Hidalgo County erupted into a series of cuss fights inside the hall and about 100 persons followed C. O. Forest Jr., of Elsa when he stumped out shouting that a witness had lied about the votes cast at Ed Couch.

Charles Thompson, conservative, said his faction had a majority at the Hidalgo convention until liberals managed to delay proceedings and "get some new recruits."

The Liberty County hearing produced a lively discussion of Daniel's support of national nominees. Wiley Smith of Dayton said the liberals bolted the convention in Daniel's hometown of Liberty because their resolution for a loyalty pledge was turned down. C. A. Miles Jr. said Smith and other liberals had been offered convention seats but turned them down. "Smith just doesn't like Sen. Daniel," Miles said.

In Jefferson County, John Blair, spokesman for the conservatives, challenged the election of Gilbert Adams, because Adams was not a delegate from another precinct gave him legal standing.

Robert Mullen, Jim Wells County liberal, said one precinct reported only two delegates after the precint convention then showed up with 15 at the county convention. Kenneth Oden, conservative, explained a mistake had been made in the minutes and he had it corrected.

Tarrant County's delegations tangled over a court injunction. Ross Matthews, liberal said a rump convention when they decided "the whole thing was a conspiracy that was carried out with the help of a court order by the notorious Tarrant County Dixiecrats." Elton Hyder Jr. conservative, said the court order was obtained because county Chairman Tom Ward, a liberal decided the only delegates to be seated on the county convention would be those in which there were no contests.

Auditorium Is Jammed

FORT WORTH (AP)—A nervous and jittery state Democratic convention that may make or break Sen. Price Daniel's bid for party leadership was gavelled into session by Executive Committee Chairman George Sandlin at 11 a.m. CST.

The opening was one hour late.

Daniel's force said they would press for the "earliest possible" test vote to determine where the Democratic nominee for governor stands. Both he and his liberal opponents have claimed they will prevail.

Will Rogers Auditorium was jammed with seated and milling delegates and hundreds were outside unable to get in.

Some politicians predicted the vote would be close between the liberal-loyalists who want Daniel to take a firm, immediate stand for the national party ticket, and his backers, the moderate-conservatives.

There were so many conflicting factions and factions-within-factions that the picture remained one of great confusion. Only the first test vote could clear that up.

The loyalist-liberals also want a louder voice in party affairs because of the narrow margin by which Daniel defeated their favorite, Ralph Yarborough.

The liberals are demanding an executive committee made up of 100 per cent loyal Democrats who will publicly promise to support the Stevenson ticket.

Admission tickets were checked by cowboy-hatted and booted door guards to insure against forgeries. The hall seats 3,000 persons and at least 5,000 want to get in.

The test vote is expected to come on an attempt by Daniel's opposition to amend the executive committee's report on organization of the convention.

Jim Blundell of Dallas, one of Daniel's floor leaders, said his side would press for an early indication of how the two sides stand.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson was an early arrival on the convention floor. He said his chief interest was in making sure that the executive committee would support the national ticket in November. Johnson said he, Daniel and Speaker Sam Rayburn agreed on that point. Rayburn took his seat as chairman of the Fannin County delegation. He had no comment.

"The convention will be a victory for the moderate, Democrats if that is achieved," Johnson said.

Quiz Slated On Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators will consider questioning Gov. Averell Harriman of New York about a published report he spent two million dollars on his futile bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Chairman Gore (D-Tenn) of a subcommittee investigating campaign practices disclosed this to newsmen today after a fellow committee member, Sen. Curtis (R-Neb), proposed Harriman be called to testify between now and election day.

The total cost of the 1956 campaign was estimated at 175 million dollars by Prof. Alexander Heard of the University of North Carolina, head of a study group which has made a separate inquire into political spending.

Heard said this figure compares with 140 millions spent by national, state and local groups for campaign purposes in 1952.

Reminder Is Given Here On Soil Bank

Deadline for signing agreements for participation in the 1957 wheat reserve program, a part of the Soil Bank Act, is Sept. 21, Henry Burchett, office manager for the county Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee, reminded farmers today.

Burchett said there is now $21,302 remaining funds to be used for this purpose out of a total of $27,500 allotted to this county for the wheat reserve program.

So far, the ASC has had some 30 applications covering about 1,700 acres of wheat land. The county's wheat allotment is 12,205 acres.

The wheat reserve program is operated on a first-come, first-serve basis, as long as funds last. Average payment per acre is $7.64.

Farmers must sign agreements for participation in the program. They agree to reduce their acreage allotments on wheat by the amount put into the Soil Bank. Wheat could be planted as a cover crop on this acreage, but it cannot be harvested in any manner or form, however the secretary of agriculture may, in disaster areas, allow farmers to graze this acreage upon recommendation by governors of the state for designated counties. Farmers will be notified in writing if this occurs.

Demos Keep Lead In Maine Voting

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Maine Democrats retained their hold on the governorship in Monday's early state election and broke the 22-year GOP hold on one and possibly two of the three U. S. House seats.

Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, 42, received the largest vote ever given a governor in winning a second consecutive term, the second such tenure since the Civil War. His majority of more than 55,000 over Republican Willis A. Trafton Jr., was not the greatest. The record is 82,481, recorded by Republican William Tudor Gardiner in defeating Democratic Edward C. Moran in 1928.

The total vote in Monday's election was 303,481 but was some 6,000 under the record. In polling close to 60 per cent of the total to get 179,697 votes, Muskie topped the previous high of 172,111 for Republican Lewis O. Barrows in 1936.

The victorious Democratic candidate for Congress was the party's state chairman, Frank M. Coffin, 37, of Lewiston, in the 2nd Dist.

Still in doubt is the result of the 1st Dist. campaign, with unofficial figures giving veteran Rep. Robert Hale a 28-vote margin over Democrat James C. Oliver in Hale's eighth-term bid. The outcome may not be decided until the governor and Executive Council check the vote in several weeks.

Adlai Stevenson said the Democratic victory indicates that "the national trend to the Democrats is still gaining momentum."

His campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, termed the victory "all the more remarkable in view of the way the Republicans made this a test of President Eisenhower's popularity and influence with the voters."

Rep. Clifford G. McIntire had no trouble gaining a third full term in the 3rd Dist. but his percentage was down.

The 42-year-old Muskie, son of a Polish immigrant tailor, became the first Democrat re-elected in a presidential year—at least since the Civil War. And in those days Maine governors had one instead of two-year terms.

In 621 of 630 precincts, an unofficial tabulation rolled up 179,697 votes for Muskie and 123,784 for Willis A. (Bill) Trafton Jr., 37, the Republican speaker of the Maine House.

The total of 303,481 was almost 6,000 below the record, but Muskie's vote was well ahead of the best previously given any governor — 172,113 for Republican Lewis O. Barrows in 1936.

Muskie got 59 per cent of the vote in yesterday's balloting, the first in the country this year. Two years ago he won his first term with 54½ per cent of almost 249,000, beating Burton M. Cross, then the GOI incumbent.

Sam Rayburn Is Baptized

DENISON (AP) — Speaker Sam Rayburn has been baptized into the Tioga, Tex., Primitive Baptist Church, it was disclosed today.

Only a few close friends were present at the ceremony Sept. 2.

Rayburn, 74, had never been affiliated with any church. Primitive Baptist churches are of fundamental theology and are not directly connected with the largest Baptist group, the Southern Baptist Convention. Baptism in this church is by immersion.

Elder H. G. Ball, pastor of the church, said Rayburn "explained that he selected this church because his father was a member and it coincided with his religious beliefs."

Lee Simmons, longtime friend of Rayburn and former head of the Texas Prison System, made the arrangements.

Rumor Is Explained By Starlet's Mother

HOUSTON (AP) — Movie starlet Kathryn Grants's mother said yesterday that rumors her daughter will marry Bing Crosby grew out of a "misunderstanding."

Mrs. D. E. Grandstaff of West Columbia said Kathy "thought the story got started when she was unable to get a plane back to Hollywood to keep a studio appointment."

Squaring Off For Battle

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits and New York City's Mayor Robert F. Wagner squared off today for what each promises will be a hard-fought campaign for Herbert H. Lehman's U.S. Senate seat.

Javits, nominated unanimously yesterday by the Republican State Committee, served notice that he was through denying reports that sought to link him with Communists early in his political career.

"Let us get on with the business of this great campaign," he said in his acceptance speech.

Wagner, designated as the Democratic nominee by a cheering, turbulent convention in the city's largest movie theater, was champing at the bit with equal spirit.

"I'm not in this campaign halfway," he said. "I'm in with both feet. I'm out to win."

Lehman, 78, cited his age when he announced his retirement last month.

New Move Planned On Canal Problem

LONDON (AP) — Britain and France declared today they are determined "to resist by all appropriate means any arbitrary interference with rights under international agreements" in the Suez Canal crisis.

A joint communique issued by British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet said the two countries had reached full agreement on "further measures to be taken" in the light of Egypt's refusal to negotiate an international system for operating the canal.

These "further measures" were not spelled out.

A Foreign Office spokesman said, however, the measures will be disclosed in the British House of Commons, which meets in emergency session tomorrow and Thursday.

Just before the communique was issued a British political informant said the Eden government had definitely decided to place the Suez dispute before the United Nations, but was still considering in what form this should be done.

The communique referred to the U. N. only in this statement:

"The ministers recalled that from the outset their governments acted in full conformity with the purposes and principles of the United Nations. They expressed their determination to develop their cooperation and to resist by all appropriate means any arbitrary interference with rights established under international agreements and any action incompatible with 'justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law.'"

The quotation is from the U. N. charter.

Body Found In Drainage Ditch Today

FORT WORTH (AP)—The body of an unidentified woman, thought to be a murder victim, was found in a drainage ditch north of Saginaw on a county road early today.

Tarrant County prisoners working on a road gang cleaning out weeds in the road's bar ditch found the body.

The woman, apparently between 28 and 32, was lying doubled up, face down. She was badly beaten about the face, shoulders and arms.

The woman had been dead about 36 hours, Peace Justice Whit Boyd said.

She was wearing black torreador pants, a purple blouse and had an artificial pink corsage on one shoulder. On her finger was what appeared to be white gold wedding and engagement rings.

The hair, of medium length, seemed to be dyed red.

Officers said they are checking a missing woman report received earlier.

Four Missing In Baytown Hotel Blaze

BAYTOWN (AP) — Firemen searched today through the smoking ruins of the Ashwood Hotel for four missing men.

A fifth man may be missing, firemen reported.

All other occupants of the hotel were accounted for after flames swept through the two-story brick building at 3 a.m.

The missing men are sailors who registered Monday afternoon. About 15 other persons in the hotel were roused from their rooms and escaped the blaze.

Mrs. Clara Hoppe, manager, said she could not identify any of the missing men.

Firemen were still fighting the fire early today. The structure held several business firms in addition to the hotel.

Fire departments from six towns sent equipment to help subdue the blaze.

The Ashwood Hotel is one of the oldest buildings in old Baytown.

Fire Chief Art Lintelman suffered a heart attack while directing his men.

One estimate placed the damage at $275,000.

The building covers a quarter of a block.

Testimony Started In Trial Of Shafer

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— Testimony started today in the trial of Raymond Shafer, labor leader accused of bombing the Alamo Motor Freight lines last year.

A jury was selected yesterday. The case had been postponed four times.

The Alamo Lines building was dynamited in January, 1955, when Shafer's union was having difficulties with the company. Shafer is accused of possession of a bomb; conspiracy to possess a bomb to damage the Alamo Motor Lines; and directing another person to use a bomb to damage another's property.

Another labor leader, Eddie Hass, was charged in the case. [illegible] has been set for his trial.

Atomic Research Center Is Sought

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Southern governors were urged today to set up a Southern center for atomic research.

The recommendation came from a special committee, headed by Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, and was based on a yearlong study.

Collins appealed to his colleagues at the 22nd annual Governors Conference to "do something creative" and "bring dreams into reality."

"Grandiose plans impossible to carry out are useless of course," he said, "but ingenious, dramatic plans are not impractical merely because they have never been tried."

Collins led a discussion group on the subject of nuclear energy and how Dixie can best share in its peaceful development.

Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama, in a paper on industrial uses of atomic power, urged the South to "move in now on the ground floor of the atomic industry."

Eleven of the 16 Southern governors—the others sent word they couldn't make it—last night heard Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, call for more thorough education of American youth in what democracy is all about and the Communists achieve world domination because of an ignorance of liberty.

"We seem either unable, or too lazy, to do enough to explain, teach, and most of all—demonstrate publicly before the world the fundamental, basic fact of liberty," Radford declared.

His speech sounded this key point:

"We cannot write communism off the books simply by saying: 'Oh, it can't happen here.' Because it can—if we allow ourselves to lower our guard or diminish our active patriotism."

The governors last year set in motion a special study to look into "the feasibility of united action" in the atomic energy field.

A report on this study by its chairman, Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, headed today's program. Participating in a discussion of it: Governors James E. Folsom of Alabama, Raymond Gary of Oklahoma, Marvin Griffin of Georgia, Allan Shivers of Texas, Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia and George B. Timmerman of South Carolina.

Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, reporting yesterday on the South's industrial growth, said atomic energy in Dixie is already a three-billion-dollar industry.

"And the inudstry is still in its [illegible]," he said.

No Divorce For Awhile

DENVER (AP)—Judge Joseph E. Cook yesterday denied the divorce petition of Mrs. Mina E. Romo, 24, seeking to shed her fourth mate.

He said he sent Mrs. Romo home "to think over the serious aspects of the marriage relationship."

The judge said he became particularly upset when he learned Mrs. Romo lived with her first husband a year, the second for two months, and the third for nine months.

Mrs. Romo married her fourth husband, Joseph B. G. Romo, Oct. 30, 1954, and sued him for divorce Nov. 1, 1955.

Jack Webb Arrested But Nothing Serious

DENVER (AP) — Police officer Frank Smith arrested Jack Webb.

The Denver policeman bearing the same name as the TV personality didn't comment; nor did Webb. But Smith's partner, G. W. Spidahl, said: "It was just routine. He's a cop. That's all."

The Denver Jack Webb, no relation to the Dragnet TV star, was charged with drunkenness.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

Three Wildcats Are Scheduled

New wildcats are to be drilled in Reagan, Irion and Upton counties of West Texas. Each operation is to start in the near future.

Plymouth Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-AA University will be a 10,500-foot Ellenburger exploration in Southwest Reagan, two miles south of Texon.

It is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 23, block 1, University survey and two miles south of the closest production in the multipay Big Lake field.

In Central Irion County, Southwest Development, Wickett Refining Co. and Tucker Drilling Co. will drill their No. 1 A. A. Sugg. It is contracted to 8,500 feet to test the Ellenburger. The drillsite is 10 miles northwest of Mertzon and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of the B. Verbene survey No. 1893.

The location is four and one-half miles northwest of Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 A. A. Sugg, an indicated discovery from the Wolfcamp, which is now exploring the Ellenburger.

Shell Oil Co. No. 1-D King Ranch Oil & Lignite Co. is scheduled as a 3,300-foot Permian prospector in Southwest Upton County, seven miles northeast of McCamey.

It is 330 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block 3, MK&T survey. The project is slightly more than a mile northeast of Shell's No. 1-A Shirk, recently completed Glorieta discovery from pay above 2,800 feet.

Potential test gauge has been reported for Frank B. Waters of Midland No. 1-A Carl Gray, pumping discovery from the Strawn in Southeast Scurry County, nine miles southeast of Snyder.

It gauged 124.18 barrels of 40 gravity oil, plus 20 per cent water in 24 hours. The production was from perforated zone at 6,880-98 feet which had been fractured and acidized.

The well is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 32, block 3, H&GN survey. It is an old dry hole drilled to 7,877 feet in 1951 by Reef Oil Company and abandoned at that point.

Waters recently re-entered the project and cleaned it out to test the Strawn section. It is one and one-quarter miles southwest of the Earnest (Pennsylvanian) pool.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 C. C. Koger, Southeast Dawson County wildcat drilled to 12,103 feet and found no shows of possible production. It has been abandoned and plugged.

The duster was 660 feet from south and east lines of section 32, block 35, T-4-N, T&P survey. It was two and one-half miles southwest of Sparenburg.

The Texas Co. completed No. 1 Allesh C. Black, West Terry County Devonian discovery for a 14-hour flow of 423 barrels. The production was natural.

The strike is producing from perforations at 12,753-798 feet. Gravity of the oil was 35 degrees. Gas-oil ratio and the size of the choke through which the flow was made has not been reported.

This opener is six miles southwest of Gomez and 330 feet from south and 990 feet from west lines of section 123, block D-11, C&MRR survey. It is two miles southwest of the one-well South Coroco (Devonian) field.

SPEAKER

not use wagon-age thinking for stratojet-age problems.

"How can we move into an atomic and electronic era without highly skilled and educated prople?" she said. She pointed out that America's potential enemy today outnumbers the U. S. many times over and that America must use its brain power to prepare for the future, since it is almost impossible to think only in terms of manpower.

There are many problems America must face when entering this age, she said. In addition to the need for stepping up the pace of education, there is annually the increased need for facilities and teachers because of the rapidly-increasing number of scholastics. During the last six years, she said, there has been a child born every seven to eight minutes, and these include 658 daily being born in Texas, or 250,000 annually.

Miss Walker said she has seen some serious situations in schooling which she hopes will never develop in Snyder, including a one-teacher classroom with 54 students in Louisiana, "...And the last I heard that teacher did not intend to continue teaching." She pointed to the importance of the school class size, emphasizing that each student should have direct contact with his teacher each day.

The greatest need today for Texas education, she said, is an adequate supply of competant and qualified teachers. Each year Texas needs 7,000 new teachers, about 3,000 of them for new students and the rest because of persons retiring and quitting the teaching profession. In one year's time, Texas colleges turned out 7,076 students qualified as teachers, and a follow-up survey showed that only 2,954 actually entered teaching. Education is losing them to business and industry because of higher pay and other advantages.

She asked that citizens not take their teachers for granted, believing they will always be there ready to teach students. She said Snyder has given recognition to the importance of teaching by having a higher salary scale than most schools.

Miss Walker said when citizens are ready to encourage their children to enter the teaching profession, that is when teaching standards and recognition will be at the proper level.

Referring to many persons who complain about the cost of education, Miss Walker said citizens should thank God they have children and that they should do all in their power to provide opportunities for them and prepare them for the future. Americans today are the only persons saying "Where can I park?" and How can I refuse?" she said, adding compared to the cost of many other that the cost of education is small things, that the development of boys and girls means prosperity for everybody.

Dr. Wilton Jones, member of the school board and member of the Chamber of Commerce board, was master of ceremonies. Dale Brooks, minister of the Thirty-seventh Street Church of Christ, gave the invocation. Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, superintendent of schools, introduced the speaker. Olan Griffith, chairman of the chamber merchants committee, headed arrangements for the banquet.

Harold Bennett, mayor, welcomed the teachers to Snyder, and Mrs. Carol Miller, president of the Snyder Classroom Teachers Association, gave the response.

Bob Clinton, school choral director, sang three solos, "Granada," "I Believe," and "A Little Bit of Heaven," accompanied by Mrs. Clinton and Mrs. Jane Womack.

Whites Mass At Texarkana In Protest

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—White adults and youths massed on the Texarkana Junior College campus again today in an effort to maintain the all-white status of the school.

No Negroes tried to enter, but presence of two Negroes yesterday caused an outbreak of shouting and one incident of gravel throwing as the crowd turned back the two.

H. W. Stillwell, college president, [illegible] reported today. He estimated 100 persons were on the campus.

J. F. Williamson, head of the Citizens Council, said the "picket line will be established. . . We wish to conduct this in an orderly and peaceful manner. If there is a violence we feel the other side will start it."

Four Texas Rangers, who with local officers refused a plea by the Negroes to escort them through the crowd, also were in town.

Jessalyn Gray, 18, and Steve Poster, 17, were blocked at the entrance to the college, opened to Negroes for the first time this year by a Federal Court order.

"Better take those niggers with you," a member of the crowd shouted at a Negro taxi driver who brought the two to the school.

Simpson Tate, attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, sent telegrams to President Eisenhower and Gov. Shivers.

He told the President that unless help was provided "a state of anarchy will exist as to the Negro students and they will be at the mercy of a maddened mob. . ."

Tate asked Shivers to "provide safe conduct for these children."

Little Hope For Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States in effect today threw cold water on Egypt's proposal that a new international conference be called to settle the Suez Canal dispute.

A State Department spokesman, commenting on Egypt's proposal, said flatly "it is doubtful that a further conference would serve a useful purpose."

Press officer Lincoln White told a news conference that nations representing more than 90 per cent of Suez Canal shipping were represented in the Cairo conference with President Nasser which failed on Sunday.

Egypt has suggested a meeting of all countries which use the canal in order to get all views.

White gave the American view on this as Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey met with British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins to discuss the Suez Crisis. There was no immediate word of what Humphrey's presence at the meeting meant.

Earlier President Eisenhower and Dulles discussed the canal crisis for an hour and 20 minutes.

White House newsmen had no chance to talk to Dulles after the long session, which presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said was also attended by a number of Dulles' aides.

Hagerty said Suez was the only topic discussed at the meeting but declined to provide any details.

3 Referendum Issues Given Group's Okay

FORT WORTH (AP)—Three referendum issues to strengthen segregation laws were approved unanimously last night by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

The committee also unanimously passed a resolution praising Gov. Shivers for his "wisdom without bombast" in sending Rangers to Mansfield when mobs formed at the high school three times to bar Negroes.

It took less than five minutes for both resolutions to pass.

The referendums were approved by about 80 per cent in the July 28 primary. The issues call for:

1. Legislation exempting any child from compulsory attendance at integrated schools attended by white persons and Negroes.

2. Legislation perfecting state laws against intermarriage.

3. The use of interposition to halt illegal federal encroachment.

Approval of the issues of the committee means another step toward getting the resolutions into the party platform.

The resolution praising Shivers began by stating that at the intigration of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People "the people of the United States have seen exhibitions of rule by force comparable only to the treatment of the South during the tragic reconstruction era."

The resolution mentioned Shivers' "indomitable courage" and wisdom in sending Rangers to Mansfield to keep peace.

"Without equivocation he ordered Texas Rangers to the scene to maintain law and order and urged the school authorities to transfer 'any scholastics white or colored, whose attendance or attempts to attend Mansfield High School would reasonably be calculated to incite violence,'" the resolution stated.

It was passed by voice vote and the committee members applauded and cheered for the governor, who is attending a meeting in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

Ike Urges Program For Global Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today "we must widen every possible chink in the Iron Curtain" in an effort to promote global understanding and achieve enduring world peace.

The President made the statement in an informal talk to leaders from about 40 fields in American life. He had called them together to promote his idea of developing people-to-people contacts among all nations—free as well as Communist-dominated.

Eisenhower said that "whether it is the Suez problem of today or another tomorrow," there is no more important objective than "preserving the peace and providing for our own security."

Referring again to the hope for enduring peace, the President said "there is nothing that so affects our daily lives, almost dictates the level of our taxes."

This conference the President addressed was the first of two he had scheduled for today dealing with efforts to achieve lasting peace.

He arranged to meet later with a group of top diplomatic and defense advisers for a discussion of "disarmament proposals the government is working on." The White House put it that way but declined to elaborate. There was a possibility Eisenhower himself would do so at a news conference scheduled earlier.

Some people in the world, he said, regard the United States as "warlike and materialistic."

Eisenhower added that "to the glory of American businessmen," he never has heard one of them "refer to war except in terms of war never will come again.

The goal, he said, is for people around the world to get together so they can gradually get to know more about each other.

The Communist way at present, Eisenhower said, "is to subject everything to control of the state."

While that way "seems to score spectacular success" at times, the President said, whenever the love of freedom becomes greater "than the fear of guns at their backs, then dictatorships fall."

The American way, Eisenhower said, is to "martial the forces of independent thinking of 168 million people."

That way, he added, sometimes "seems slower, awkward and weak." However, he said, whenever the going gets tough under that way of life, strength seems to increase.

In saying "we must widen every possible chink in the Iron Curtain," Eisenhower explained that he was talking of exchange of professors, students and executives, and of conquering disease and providing doctors. He also spoke of letting the world know about America's free labor system.

Eisenhower said we show the Russian people "how we do it," adding:

"This way, I believe, is the truest path to peace."

He said every bomb manufactured, every ship and every plane is a negative thing — a palliative —intended to gain time and prevent aggression.

He said the billions of dollars this country pours into such weapons "ought to be supported by the great American, positive, constructive effort" that leads to true peace.

Grasses Are Discussed In Meeting Here

W. S. Goodlett of Big Spring, area conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, discussed grasses which can be raised in West Texas this morning during the monthly meeting of the Scurry-Mitchell-Nolan-Fisher County Agriculture Council.

At the meeting, held in Snyder, Goodlett said West Texans have not yet learned grass farming well, although Texas has always been one of the top grass producing states in the nation.

Many farmers and ranchers are now seeding permanent grasses, both native and adapted. These grasses include such as weeping love grass, King Ranch bluestem, Indian grass, Caucasion bluestem, blue panic, and the new hybrid sorghum alborn.

One of the most important steps in raising grass is land preparation, Goodlett said, stressing the need for establishing a deal litter cover prior to seeding grass. the planting of grass is being done more now, and some seed is getting in short supply at times.

Some farmers are turning grass into cash crops, harvesting the seed and getting good prices.

Goodlett showed film slides on stands of various types of grasses in West Texas.

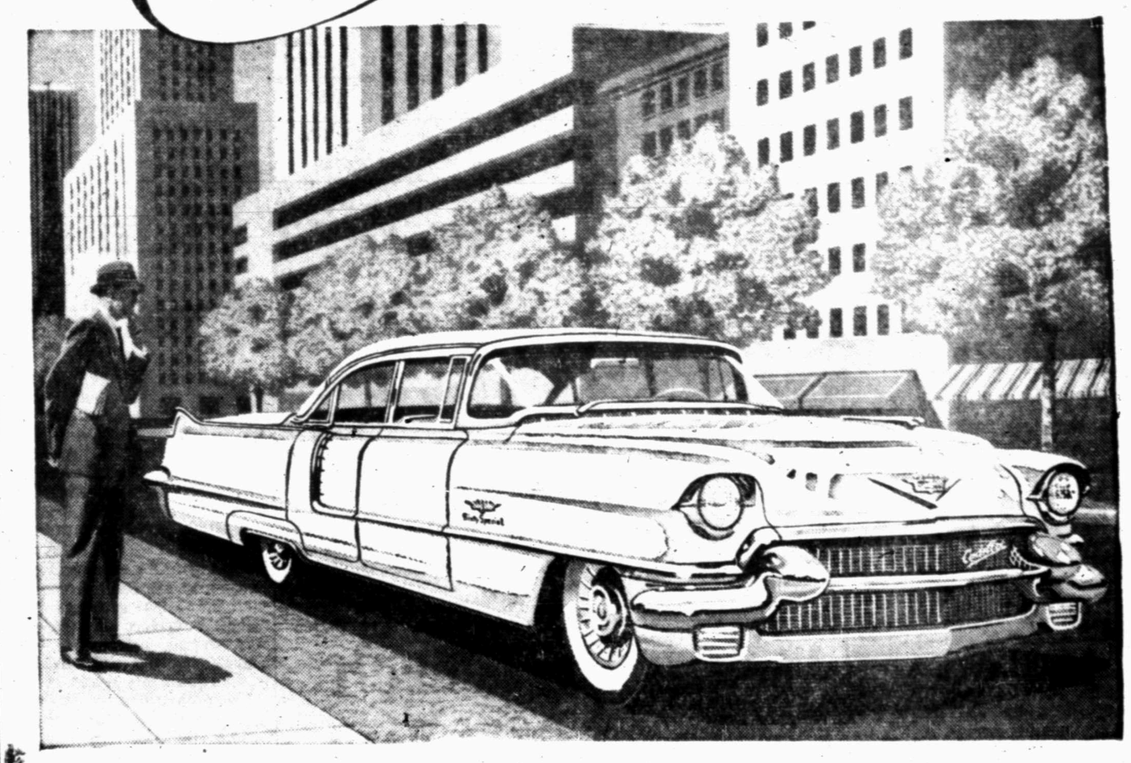
Cadillac



To the Man Who is Hesitating.....

There are many motorists here in this community who have given serious consideration to the purchase of a new Cadillac car this year—and yet, for one reason or another, have not made the move.

If you are among them, we hope that you will pause to read the little message that follows. For we are sure you will find it interesting.

• • • •

Ordinarily, when a man hesitates to make the move to Cadillac, it is because he is not familiar with the practical aspects of Cadillac ownership.

Insofar as original cost is concerned, a Cadillac is eminently practical. Several models, in fact, are actually priced competitively with the so-called "medium-priced" makes.

Operating and maintenance costs are also remarkably low. We have heard it said by new owners that Cadillac is the most economical automobile they have ever owned.

And as for resale value—well, Cadillac traditionally retains a greater share of its worth through the years than any other motor car in the land.

In short, the great Cadillac car represents one of the wisest and soundest automotive investments on the highway today.

• • • •

The moral of our message is this: It is still not too late to set things right in a 1956 Cadillac of your own!

We have a selection of new Cadillacs on hand—and we can promise you both prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance.

Why not come in today?

At Least 90 Per Cent Of Accidents Are Preventable

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

MARTHA was diapering her two-month-old baby, Tim. The phone rang. She ran to answer it. While she was talking she heard a dull thud; and nothing more. She dashed back, and there was Tim lying on the floor, not even crying. She picked him up, he was limp. Martha was terrified. She shook him, and presently he gave a weak whimper. She phoned her doctor, who told her to take Tim to the hospital. Tim had a brain concussion. With skillful treatment in the hospital he recovered, and was none the worse for his accident. Martha was lucky that nothing more serious had happened. It could have been worse.

The greatest killer of children today is accidents. In this country around 8,000 children between one and four years of age die every year from accidents. In the larger group of children between 1-14, accidents cause around 11,000 deaths every year. As many children die from accidents as from pneumonia, diarrhea, measles, diphtheria, meningitis, poliomyelitis, whooping cough and scarlet fever, all combined.

The highest accident rate is in the pre-school children—the children who spend most of their time at home—under parental supervision.

Accidents don't "just happen"—at least 90 per cent of them are preventable. We need to study how to prevent accidents, just as we have studied how to prevent disease. Parents need to understand what causes accidents and how they can be avoided. Safety education is the "vaccine" against accidents.

Many a mother has said, as the doctor was about to give her baby an immunization, that she wished she could take that shot for her baby. Well, here's one every mother can take. It's up to mother to become aware of the threat that accidents are to her children and take steps to see to it that they live as safe a life as possible.

Safety education begins when mother understands what her baby is likely to do. She must arrange his life so that he cannot do those things that will hurt him.

A newborn baby is a helpless little mite and needs absolute protection. He needs a mattress to lie on so firm and hard that he cannot bury his nose in it and suffocate. He needs clothing that cannot pull thight around any part of his body.

Soon, sooner than most parents think, the baby will be able to wiggle and roll from side to side. From the beginning the baby must not be left for a single minute on a place from which he might fall. Never, never, leave a baby on a bed or a dressing table even when you go across the room to get a forgotten item or answer the phone as Martha did. One roll, quick as a wink, and your baby is on the floor.

Young babies are helpless in water. It's dangerous to leave a baby alone in a tub even for a moment. If you have forgotten something while you are bathing him—either go on without it or pick him up, wrap a bath towel around him and carry him with you into the next room.

These are just a few cautions for the very young baby. As the baby grows into a toddler and can get places on his own your vigilance too must grow.

Remember 90 per cent of all accidents could have been prevented, just as Tim's concussion could have been prevented.

Storm Coat For Girls

Every girl in America, it seems, wants a storm coat this year, if she doesn't already have one.

This versatile knockabout coat has become practically a storm weather uniform for everyone from college girls to suburban housewives. The favorite color is beige, the favorite style hooded and the favorite silhouette straight and roomy, with no nonsense.

The storm coat is worn when the weather is too threatening for mink, or when the occasion demands the casual look. Lined in alpaca pile, it usually is water-repellant cotton poplin or other close woven fabric on the outside, made to stand the gaff.

The current rage for sports cars has boomed the popularity of the hooded storm coat even further. And the pet style of the season is the coat with a huge convertible collar which can be worn as a hood or in a dozen different ways—for the girl who craves change.

Accent Rugs Help Brighten Up Room

Accent rugs help brighten up dark corners and add spots of contrasting colors to otherwise monochromatic rooms.

Interior decorators advise the use of cotton accent rugs in living room, hall and bedroom. Use them for a flourish before a fireplace, to bring a foyer into focus or to add emphasis to a favorite chair.

MRS. LEON S. PRICE, DALLAS, will be guest speaker at the City Council P-TA luncheon here tomorrow, at 12:30 p.m. at the High School cafeteria. Mrs. Price has served in many capacities for the National P-TA and is State President of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Parents Are People, Dr. Osborne Claims In Book

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Parents are people, says Ernest G. Osborne in his book "Understanding Your Parents," to be published soon.

Dr. Osborne must know what a bombshell he is about to cast into the midst of the younger generation with this mild observation because he is the father of three children himself, in addition to being professor of education at Columbia Teachers College and author of several other books on family and school relations.

The current attitude of American young fry, as I have observed it, also from the parental viewpoint, is that parents are quaint antiques somewhat like vending machines which dispense cash, goods and services on demand, but are to be ignored as much as possible when not in use.

Dr. Osborne points out that being a parent is one of the toughest jobs in our modern world, where things are much different than they were a generation ago. When father was a boy, family relationships were much more clear cut. Parents were always right, and children were to be seen and not heard. The thesis on which most of today's parents were raised (usually quite successfully) was: "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

But modern theories of progressive education, of child psychology and self-expression have many modern parents thoroughly confused. They read that it's dangerous to spank Johnny because he might grow up to hate people, and besides he should be allowed to express himself freely, even if expressing himself takes the form of throwing rocks through the neighbors' windows.

They are told that when Mary misbehaves it's really the fault of either Mom or Pop, or both.

Today's parents are inclined to muddle along carrying a lot of guilty complexes, and tend to apologize to their offspring whenever a matter of discipline arises.

Parents need a lot of understanding and encouragement these days to help them over their inferiority complexes.

And maybe that splendidly superior younger generation will be willing to divide up a little of their own confidence, once they realize that parents are really people too.

Cotton Chintz Is Making Comeback

Cotton chintz is making a comeback in home furnishings, the National Cotton Council notes.

Modern chintz, its glazed surface permanetly wedded to the fabric with new resin finishes, is a far cry from old-fashioned chintzes which often lost their finish at the first washing.

Housewives are using the material for curtains, draperies and boudoir chairs, especially in rooms furnished in a revival of the Early American style. It is also being used to an increasing extent for slipcovers.

Chintz, named from a Hindu word which means "spotted," is now made by impregnating cotton print cloth with chemicals which create a permanent glazed surface; it is roller printed with gay figures or floral designs. Chinz is one of many fabrics which give cotton the overwhelming leadership in home furnishings; some 67 per cent of all household textiles are made of cotton.

Prize May Be Empty

Egyptian President Nasser could not have surprised many when he agreed to talk about the Suez Canal but took a dim view of the plan for international control proposed at the recent London conference.

This is an indication he believes he holds important cards, but not all of them. He has the canal itself, and is supported by an aroused Arab world. But he cannot guarantee its efficient operation, and he is worried over the British-French threat of force.

Any Egyptain counter-offer of a pact assuring freedom of the canal to all world shipping must be examined in the light of Nasser's past performance, and his ability to perform in the present and future.

The past record shows that he is not a respecfer of agreements, since he canceled a solemn contract under which the Suez Canal Co. was managing the waterway under concession good until 1968.

Thus far, however, Nasser has not attempted to interfere with canal shipping in the period since the seizure July 26. The Israeli vessels he bars were actually being blockaded while the canal was still in private hands.

Perhaps he does mean to maintain full shipping freedom, since any other course would only defeat his own announced purpose — to gain revenues he could use to help build the high dam at Aswan.

But ability to perform is something else. He is already desperately short of the pilots needed to guide vessels through the canal. If the private firm is able to carry out its intention to call home non-Egyptian canal personnel, traffic management will be further handicapped.

And there is the vastly important matter of developing and financing canal improvements required to keep the waterway abreast of steadily enlarging traffic and bigger vessels.

Obviously Nasser can't handle this work and sluice off earnings for other projects at the same time.

Consequently, a pact guaranteeing Suez freedom to all nations is not nearly enough.

The big users — Britain, France and the United States — want to know not simply that the canal will always be open to them but will be capable of handling their shipping as it mounts steadily in volume.

Oil Men Cautious

Oil and gas men in Texas and other states are viewing with mixed feelings 15 words affecting their interests that were quietly inserted in the Republican platform.

In the platform plank on "guarding and improving our resources," this sentence appears; "We favor reasonable depletion allowances."

In the same plank are these words: "We favor freedom of mineral producers from unnecessary government regulation."

As with most political party planks, these statements are, to say the least, open to at least two different and conflicting interpretations.

Does the first statement mean that the Republican Party is in favor of continuing the 27½ percent depletion allowance? Or does it mean that a "reasonable" figure is 15 percent, as advocated by four Republican senators, Williams of Delaware, Aiken of Vermont, Smith of Maine and Purtell of Connecticut?

Does the second statement mean that producers of natural gas should be freed from price regulation at the wellhead, as provided by the Harris-Fulbright Bill which President Eisenhower vetoed on moral grounds but agreed with in principle? Or does it mean that the price of natural gas at the wellhead should be regulated as a part of controlling the price of gas in interstate commerce?

The Washington correspondent of the Milwaukee Journal reports that some oil and gas men fear that these are "weasel" words in the Republican platform. The term "weasel words" was made popular by the late Theodore Roosevelt who defined the term as words that weaken a statement by making it ambiguous or equivocal.

Reports from Republican Party sources in Texas in a position to know indicate that Texas oil and gas men are keeping a pretty tight string around their purses this year. In contrast with their willingness to contribute generously in 1952, the "harvest" this year is considerably less and the arguments had to be much more persuasive. This attitude may reflect one of two following points of view: (1) Dissatisfaction with the President's veto of the Harris-Fulbright Bill, or (2) a conviction that Eisenhower will win in November without the help of Texas, combined with a tendency to keep their peace with the Democratic Party which will continue to rule Texas whether Eisenhower wins or not.

Tight Squeeze For Big Craft

Politicians Can Adorn Ordinary Ideas In Grand Clothes During Campaigns

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans will adorn ordinary ideas in grand clothes and otherwise overstate their case in this campaign where the issues run pretty thin. They'll make the most of what they have to work with.

Adlai Stevenson this week got headlines with his call for an end to the draft. This may have seemed startling at quick glance. But, on examination, all he really said was: The draft should be ended when it's safe to do so.

It took him four paragraphs to get to the point. But a Republican, Arthur Larson, has just taken 210 pages to make this point: That the Republicans can run the government better than the Democrats.

This was in his book "A Republican Looks at His Party." Because of the book Larson, undersecretary of labor and a law school dean on leave, has been mentioned as the kind of Republican likely to attract intellectuals to the party.

But even a nonintellectual is apt to think Larson overstated his case in this one-sided political document which credits Republicans with a new kind of wisdom and brushes lightly over the achievements of the Democrats.

An intellectual would certainly know that in the vastly complicated business of government the two parties have had their hands in too many pies over too many years for either to claim the lion's share of credit.

Larson says: "It is the genius of the Eisenhower administration's achievements that it has merged and brought into balance all the positive forces in our country. It is not against any of them . . . It has found a way to encourage them to work together for a common benefit."

This he calls the "New Republicanism" and a new "philosophy" of government.

Eisenhower very guardedly says the book represents his philosophy generally. But not all Republicans think like Eisenhower any more than all Democrats think like Stevenson.

Time may show, therefore, when Eisenhower is out of the picture and other men run the party, that the "New Republicanism" was strictly Eisenhower's philosophy, or perhaps a reflection of his personality, and not a lasting party philosophy at all.

But that Larson overstates his case is plain enough.

Here are examples of where Larson in his book claimed too much exclusive credit for his party:

He said: "The Republicans set up the first bureau of labor." Not altogether. This was in 1884, under Republican President Arthur. But the bill creating it was passed by a Congress where Democrats ran the House and Republicans the Senate.

He credited the Republicans with creating the Department of Labor. Not altogether. The bill to create it was offered by a Democrat, William Sulzer of New York, at a time when Democrats ran the House, Republicans the Senate. Republican President Taft signed the bill into law in 1913 as one of his last official acts.

Larson credits the Republicans with passage of the Norris - LaGuardia Act in 1932. Not altogether. The Democrats controlled the House, the Republicans the Senate. Herbert Hoover was the Republican President.

The bill's authors were Republicans—Sen. Norris of Nebraska and Rep. LaGuardia of New York—but Norris in his autobiography says Hoover gave no help and that neither did his Department of Labor. That act, breaking up the age-old practice of court injunctions to stop strikes, was a milestone for American labor.

Giant Sequoias Still Held In Awe By Many Tourists

By INEZ ROBB

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, California. — If anyone in the audience is opposed to an off-beat Arbor Day, this is a warning to turn to the sports page or household hints. Because this is the day I yell "TIM—ber!"

This journey to Yosemite is the second part of a small overland expedition organized primarily to help me realize a lifelong ambition to see two of the natural marvels which this lovely nation is so inordinately blessed.

Ever since I saw, as a pre-school child, a picture of a stagecoach driving through a tree and for the life of me, I couldn't figure out how a tree could grow with such a big hole in it), I have longed to see the towering redwoods and the giant sequoias.

Now I have stood in awe before both and am filled with wonder at nature and nature's [illegible]. Here, on the southern edge of this extraordinary national park, is the Mariposa grove of giant sequoias, the oldest and the largest living things on the face of the earth.

Some were already great trees when the Pharoahs built the pyramids and Alexander conquered the world. And a few were already 2,000 years old when Christ was born in Bethlehem. They have survived fire, flood and the senseless depredations of man.

And if man is so insane as to destroy himself and his world with hydrogen, undoubtedly there will be giant sequoias left to survey the dismal ruins.

These trees, named for the great chief of the Cherokee nation who devised both an alphabet and a written language for his people, stand like massive red pillars in the pine forests. The pines, huge trees in any other company, are dwarfed by these redmen of the woods.

This grove of sequoias alone includes some 200 trees that measure 10 feet or more in diameter. And it also includes the only tree in the world, as far as I can learn, with wall-to-wall asphalt. This is the world-famous Wanona tree, through which the stagecoach was driving in the picture that caught my childish imagination.

Obviously, it still fascinates children, for in the space of an hour I saw dozens of touring families drive slowly through the enormous tree, stop and let the children out to walk around it, through it and examine it to their hearts' content.

By making a nuisance of myself with half a dozen park rangers, I discovered that the tunnel was cut through the Wanona tree in 1881 by two brothers whose name was Scribner. They cut it on order from the Yosemite Pike and Stagecoach Co., which subsequently charged passengers 25 cents per head to ride through the tree.

It took the Brothers Scribner a year to make the tunnel, which is eight feet wide, 10 feet high and 26 feet long! And for that year's work, the brothers received $75.

So hardy are these magnificent trees that this tunnel in the Wanona sequoia has had no effect upon its growth or vigor. It apparently is good for another 4,000 years.

One has only to look at the giant sequoias to realize, with Joyce Kilmer, that only God can make a tree.

Like Britain In The Far East, U. S. Plays Role Of Mediator In Suez Issue

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Suez affair has found the United States working its way towards the position of a mediator rather than that of wholehearted partisan of Great Britain and France. To some British and French this will seem like a kind of desertion, indeed as presaging the breakup of the alliance. They will be wrong. The United States is playing the same kind of role in Suez which Britain has played in Formosa and in Indo-China, even in Korea — that of a friendly mediator who intervenes to prevent the war party from getting the upper hand.

There are small circles of Americans who think that it would have been better if Korea or Formosa or Indo-China had ended in a show-down with Red China, that it was an historic and castastrophic mistake not to inflict a crushing defeat on Red China before it had time to become a great industrial and military power. They blame the British government for restraining our movement towards war. But the overwhelming majority of Americans are grateful that war was averted, and insofar as they know the story of these affairs, they are grateful to Lord Attlee and to Sir Anthony Eden for the conciliatory part they played.

• • •

The Atlantic alliance is a partnership against military aggression into the great basin of the Atlantic Ocean. The partnership has been tested in two world wars and, now, due to the experience, the of these was and to the treaty which registered the experience, alliance cannot seriously be doubted. But the alliance has never meant, it could never have meant, that there was identity of interest and of policy in all quarters of the globe.

In the region of the Pacific, roughly speaking north of the equator, the United States has interests which it deems vital whereas Great Britain does not.

In the Middle East, the interests of Great Britain in terms of the oil and of the canal, not to speak of prestige, are truly vital whereas American interests are not.

In the last analysis, that is why Britain is playing a mediating role in the Pacific between China and the United States, while the United States is playing a mediating role in the Middle East between Britain and Col. Nasser.

• • •

The word "mediator" needs to be qualified. For it does not mean an uninterested and impartial neutrality. It really means something like this: Using the ties of the alliance to keep the issue within the limits of diplomacy and negotiation, but within those limits supporting the cause of the allies.

In the Suez conflict India is playing, it would seem, a role similar to ours — but she is playing it on Egypt's side whereas we are playing it on the British side. Very probably, a peaceable solution lies—if any solution is possible — in a compromise between Eisenhower and Nehru.

• • •

When Great Britain, acting within the alliance, exerted its influence to restrain the United States from bombing Manchuria in the Korean war, from intervening at Dien-Bien-Phu in the Indo-Chinese war, from going too far in Formosa, Britain was not opposing the United States. In all these instances American opinion was divided, and official Washington was sharply divided. The British stand did much, it may have been decisive, to insure the victory of the moderates. Britain has had no reason to apologize for the role she has played in the Far East to avert war. Nor have we any reason to apologize for what we are attempting to do about Suez in the Middle East.

• • •

In the Far East this leaves us with the prospect of having to coexist somehow with a China, more powerful than any China has ever been, that is unfriendly to us, and determined to oust American power and influence from Eastern Asia and the islands of the far Pacific. In the Middle East we are faced with the prospect of a pan-Arab movement, organized from Egypt, financed by the oil-bearing Arab kingdoms, backed by the Soviet Union, and commanding the moral support of nearly all of Asia and most of Africa.

There is no way of reversing these prospects by military action. The British see that this is true in the Far East. We see that it is true in the Middle East. For we are dealing with the revolutionary movement of enormous masses of mankind. The nuclear weapons cannot be used against them at all. The old conventional weapons are ineffective against guerrillas fighting with the support of the native population. For proof we need look no further than to Cyprus and to Algeria.

Some day and somehow the Atlantic nations and the liberated nations will have to come to a new understanding and into a new relationship. For the sun is setting on an epoch which began after the voyages of the great discoverers. It may not be foolish to think that the sun is rising again — at least in the minds of the men in the East and in the West who are not afraid of the future.

Women May Pick Winners In Political Campaigns

By HOLMES ALEXANDER

HARRISBURG, PENNA. — It's a woman's world. The nip and tuck race for the Senate between Senator Jim Duff and his Democratic challenger, former Mayor Joe Clark of Philadelphia, may be decided by the work of one of two rival women's organizations.

One is an old GOP stand-by — the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women. This is one of the most militant and powerful distaff groups in the country, and their idol is Mamie Eisenhower's husband — the first Republican President in 20 years, the stopper of the blood-letting fiasco in Korea, the Sunday-go-to-church man, the good gray exemplar of moderation and love-thy-neighbor.

Interlocked with Council is the women's division of the Citizens for Eisenhower, headed by Edwin Russell, publisher of the Harrisburg Patriot-News. The citizens, male and female, are 70,000 strong and even more devoted to Ike in sickness than in health.

Their ardor is almost equally strong for the fiery Jim Duff who was one of the original Ike-backers and who has consistently supported the President without being anything resembling a rubber stamp. Duff's most recent contribution to the Eisenhower cause was his service as a cross-questioner on the Symington subcommittee probe of air power. Without Duff there to get the facts straight, the Democratic Senators Symington and Jackson might have left a very wrong impression in the public mind. Duff is largely responsible for bringing out the truth, and the truth about our air power did no harm to the President's reputation.

The other women's group is on the Democratic side of the Pennsylvania election. The International Ladies' Garment Workers Union has more strength in the northeast section of this state than is generally known. In the past dozen years there has been an exodus of garment trades out of New York City. Many of the shops hired lofts in the nearby Pennsylvania towns and began to employ the wives of unemployed miners. In the 1954 elections the members of the ILGWU were among the Laborite contributors who funded the upset election of young George Leader to the governorship, the first Democrat to hold that post in 20 years.

Leader is now spearheading the Democratic campaign, and the Democratic ladies seem to love him only a little less than their Republican sisters go for Ike. The Senate election could very well turn on the Amazonic battle, one female contingent trying to build up Ike's vote into a sweep that would carry Duff to victory with him; the other to achieve exactly opposite ends.

Women in both parties are especially important in a year when the male members have allowed the election to take on the lethargy of a boresome three-hour television show. In 1952 Mr. Eisenhower made personal appearances with parades and speeches all over Pennsylvania. He visited Lancaster, Harrisburg, Altoona, Johnstown, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. And he carried the State by 265,000, even while his own party was losing Philadelphia (once a Republican stronghold) by 163,000.

This year the President has ruled out whistle-stopping, and the Republican prospects are not good anyhow. The Democrats won 14 counties, as well as a couple of Congressional seats and the governorship in 1954. The present GOP plan is to build up majorities in the agricultural counties to offset the certain loss of the two big cities. But this will be the toughest sort of job with an inactive candidate at the head of the ticket.

The somewhat typical rural county of York gave a 5000 majority to Ike in '52, but it gave a 20,000 majority to Leader in '54. The Pennsylvania Dutch section of the State ought to be Eisenhower territory in any year, since the President's family migrated from there a century ago for Texas and Kansas. Lancaster county, with a 36,000 majority for Ike in '52, is heading for a record registration of voters. Question is — for whom? Is the TV image of Ike good enough to bring these good people in numbers to the polls?

Republicans, to tell the truth, are not very confident. The professionals who used to run the State House, and now stand wistfully outside the marble halls, are hoping that Big Red Duff will respond to the wholesome challenge of Joe Clark and catch fire in a large way. Duff is capable of being a tremendous fighter against people he dislikes. In the past his anger has usually blazed against the Old Guard Republican machine headed by the ancient Joe Grundy. It remains to be seen how mad Duff can get at the over-liberalized Joe Clark, backed by the Laborites and the ADA. Clark has been out of office since last January and has spent much time handshaking the populace and holding confabs with local newspaper editors. So far, Duff, who was tied down in Congress, hasn't gotten his campaign swinging.

In fact, if the women don't stir up something, the Republicans may lose both the Presidential and Senatorial elections here by default.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Brazilian Ambassador's Wife Is Good As Hostess

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — The young and attractive wife of the new Brazilian ambassador, Ernani do Amaral Peixoto, is something new in the way of diplomatic hostesses.

The former Alzira Vargas, daughter of the late President Getulio Vargas of Brazil, she is a personality in her own right — a lively, dynamic hostess, linguist, lawyer and dedicated worker in behalf of the people of her country.

The ambassador and his wife brought with them their daughter Celina and niece Edith Gama, both 13 and prety. This is the first diplomatic assignment of the former governor of the state of Rio and rear admiral in the Brazilian navy, who just observed his 51st birthday. For this anniversary Celina brought her father a hat befitting his new station — a homburg!

Mrs. Peixoto (pronounced Paysho-tee) was her father's secretary in her 'teens, and one of the jobs she set for herself was cataloguing her father's famous library. Vargas, knowing his daughter's love for his books, promised to give the library to her if she'd take up the study of law, in which his three sons expressed no interest.

Alzira got a law degree, but she also got a husband, so she never practiced. She says now that if she ever had, she'd have specialized in criminal law, because "there's more human interest in it."

Besides her "three children — my husband, Celina and Edith," she's kept herself extremely busy with outside affairs. She headed a social welfare organization during the war for veterans, created by her mother.

She also headed the Anchieta Foundation to help Brazil's home industries, and while her husband was governor of Rio she founded a nursing school, with the help of the Rockefeller Foundation, and a school for social workers.

She's not fond of politics, but she says "you can't take yourself away from the things that must be...the responsibilities and, more important, the dedications you get, the people that suffer for you and follow you. You must help them and to do so you must be something."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE ADRIATIC SEA. By Harry Hodgkinson, Macmillan, Spain By Yves Bottineau, translated from French by O. C. Warden. Essential books. A PROSPECT OF BRITAIN. By Andrew Young. Harper.

The end of summer used to be the time to put travel books away, not get them out, but in these different days thousands of us still leave for foreign lands in September and will be followed by a steady stream all fall and winter. Or, there is always the excuse that, though you don't want to read about where you're going, you do want to read about where you've been.

Two of these books concern places, Spain and the Adriatic, where in parts, the weather is not too inclement in winter. England, the subject of one of the most inviting volumes, lies far to the north, and hardy Dr. Young carries on up into Scotland and the Hebrides. There are pictures but this is primarily the story of an inquisitive, informed traveler on the trail of places which particularly matter to him and which thanks to his intent interest, are made to matter to you.

The Hodgkinson volume, too, though it has a few photos relies on text, on an admirable text in fact, full of information but also of color and movement and the drama of the elapsing centuries. This sort of book makes you itch to sail away.

"Spain" comes closer to the conventional guidebook, though it never gets down to prosaic things like hotels, trains and so on. Here the pictures, 183 of them, tell the story of cathedral, museum, public building, ancient wall, and vista of mountain and plain.

President Of Oil Company Is Called In Lobby Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—An oil company president was summoned for questioning today about lobbying tactics by some of his employes. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said "fraud" and "forgery" were involved in these activities.

Frank O. Prior, head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, was called before McClellan's special Senate committee which is searching for evidence of any illegal or improper efforts to influence senators or other government officials.

Yesterday, the committee heard that the company spent $1,500 or more last January to bombard Sen. Thye (R-Minn) with telegrams urging him to vote for the controversial natural gas bill. He voted against it and now is a member of the lobby probe group.

Witnesses said some of the telegrams were sent without the permission or knowledge of persons whose names were signed to them. But they said the firm's home office in Chicago never knew about this, or that the company was paying for 835 of the messages.

Committee aides said A. L. Nickerson, president of the Socony-Mobil Oil Corp. of New York City, and T. S. Petersen, president of the Standard Oil Co. of California, would be called then fo interrogation about how their firms "express their interest in [illegible] federal legislation" through lobbying.

The inquiry is an outgrowth of passage last February of a bill which sought to free natural gas producers from direct federal controls. Although he favored it in principle, Pesident Eisenhower vetoed the bill because of what he called "arrogant" tactics by a segment of the oil-gas industry.

McClellan called the sending of unauthorized telegrams "a fraud upon those whose names were used" and on the lawmakers receiving them. He termed the action "a form of forgery calculated to misinform and mislead." And he said that if the practice is not now a definite violation of law, Congress should act to make it a crime.

William C. Kniefel of Minneapolis, Northwestern regional manager for Standard of Indiana, testified that 835 of the telegrams to Thye "were paid for by the Standard Oil Co. at a total cost of approximately 1,500." He later said this might not represent the full expenditure, and agreed to file later a detailed cost report.

Kniefel said the wires were charged on the company's books as "marketing expenses," but voiced doubt this listing was proper. McClellan said the matter "might be of interest" to the Internal Revenue Service if the telegram expenses are claimed for income tax deducation.

Kniefel said that in January he attended a meeting of lower echelon Standard of Indiana officials at which he said a decision was reached to solicit the sending of telegrams to Thye. He said he now realizes "we made some 'eager beaver' mistakes in our plans."

"None of the company's top officials in Chicago approved any of these activities," Kniefel said, adding that when they did learn about them recently they "strongly condemned" what was done.

Kniefel said it was only within the past month that he learned that two salesmen for the company, Vernon E. Lee of Fairbault, Minn., and Keith Thomson of Duluth, had sent telegrams to Thye without getting permission of persons whose names were signed to the messages.

Thomson, no longer with Standard, and Lee both acknowledged to the committee that they had not obtained authority to use some of the names.

William G. King, a Grand Rapids, Minn., banker, and Edward Douda, a Lonsdale, Minn., implement dealer, both testified their names were used on telegrams to Thye without authority from them.

Request On Cotton Class Probe Okayed

WACO (AP)—An investigation of the government's cotton classing service, requested by the Farm Bureau, has been granted, a director of the farm organization said today.

Hoyt Gaston of Waxahachie said the date for the hearing has been set for Sept. 19 in Dallas. It will be conducted by the cotton subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee.

Gaston said cotton farmers in the area served by the Smith-Doxey Classing Office of Dallas will voice their complaints.

Farmers of the area, which includes nearly all of North Texas, have complained that government classers have been grading their cotton from $10 to $20 a bale lower than private classers.

Winner In Maine Son Of Immigrant

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—The tall, curly-haired Democrat who won all but unprecedented second term as governor on Maine's minority party ticket is the son of an immigrant tailor from Poland.

At 42, Ed Muskie is still boyish-looking. His manner is easy, confident and imparts an air of sincerity.

Muskie grew up in the papermaking town of Rumford. He worked his way through Bates College, graduating with honors in 1936. He earned a law degree at Cornell, then went into the Navy during World War II.

As an engineering officer aboard destroyers, he won three battle stars and served both in the Atlantic and Pacific.

After the war he resumed practicing law at Waterville, got elected to the Maine House of Representatives and was minority leader in two sessions.

His pretty wife Jane, who is 29, helped him in his 1954 campaign, when he beat Republican Gov. Burton M. Cross by 22,000 votes.

But she took little part in the campaign this year as she is expecting her third child in November. The Muskies already have a son, Stephen, and a daughter, Ellen.

Muskie's popularity has been attributed in part to his personal magnetism, in part to his ability to work with a Republican-dominated Legislature and a Governor's Council composed wholly of the opposition party's representatives.

A good part of his legislative program was adopted by the Legislature in 1955.

One of his most popular moves was creation of a new State Department of Development, which many people consider has helped the state industrially.

San Antonio Drug Store Is Burned

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A fire burned out a drug store on San Antonio's northwest side early today, injuring four firemen and causing an estimated $150,000 damages.

Fire Chief Jim Butler said the fire started in the kitchen of the drugstore, which housed a coffee shop and barber shop.

One of the firemen, Lt. M. B. Dugosh, fell through the roof and suffered burns. Dogosh received more minor injuries when the ambulance taking him to the hospital was in an accident. Three other firemen received minor injuries.

Male Lions Are Mauled

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two tigresses will live out their time at Cincinnati Zoo in spinsterhood after mauling to death their male cagemate in a savage battle yesterday.

The zoo veterinarian, Dr. B. W. Bernard, said the jungle cats "tend to be monogamous."

"If we put another male in there now, the tigresses would annihilate him," he said.

Zoo officials said there was no way of knowing what caused the fight.

Keepers said the attack on 5-year-old Rajah was apparently a surprise, with one female going for his throat and the other attacking his hind quarters.

The three had been together since they were kittens and never had trouble with each other before, even at feeding time.

Show Stolen In State Voting By Maine Election

By The Associated Press

Eight states hold primaries today, but they were largely overshadowed in advance by the surprising Democratic showing in Maine's election yesterday.

Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, more than doubling his 1954 margin of victory, won a second term—almost unprecedented for a Democrat in strongly Republican Maine.

And Democrats captured at least one of the state's three House seats—a feat they hadn't done since 1934 in the early New Deal days.

President Eisenhower had asked for a complete GOP sweep in Maine. His November opponent, Adlai Stevenson, promptly hailed Muskie's victory as showing that "the national trend to the Democrats is still gaining momentum."

These results pretty well stole the thunder from today's primaries, although there remained considerable interest in what the ballots held in store for Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, Republican Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah and Democratic former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

Wiley and Lee are seeking renomination. Brannan, author of the controversial farm plan which Congress rejected, aspires to the Senate from Colorado in his first try for elective office.

Five other states picking party nominees for various offices are New Hampshire, Vermont, Minnesota, Washington and Arizona.

Georgia holds a primary tomorrow to pick a successor to retiring Sen. Walter George. Two former governors, Herman Talmade and Melvin Thompson, are contesting for the Democratic nomination which is equivalent to election. Georgia also has contests for 6 to 10 House seats.

The rundown on today's primaries:

WISCONSIN — Wiley, seeking a fourth Senate term, is regarded as a slight favorite to win the Republican nomination over Rep. [illegible] who made the endorsement of the GOP state organization, and Howard H. Boyle Jr., an attorney. State Sen. Henry W. Maier is favored over Elliot N. Walstead for the Democratic nomination. Incumbent House members seeking reelection are without opposition.

COLORADO—Former Gov. Dan Thornton has no opposition for the GOP Senate nomination to succeed Sen. Eugene Millikin, a Republican retiring because of ill health. Contesting for the Democratic nomination are former Rep. John A. Carroll and Brannan, secretary of agriculture under Harry S. Truman. Lt. Gov. Stephen L. P. McNichols is unopposed for the Democratic nomination for governor; State Sen. Donald G. Brotzman is likewise without opposition in the GOP primary.

UTAH — Republican Gov. Lee, an outspoken critic of foreign aid programs and of many Eisenhower administration policies, is seeking the nomination for an unprecedented third term. GOP Sen. Arthur Watkins is supporting Lee's opponent, Chairman George D. Clyde of the Utah Water and Power Board. Republican Sen. Wallace E. Bennett is unopposed for renomination.

NEW HAMPSHIRE—Gov. Lane Dwinell, seeking the GOP nomination for a second term, is challenged by Aty. Wesley Powell and Elmer E. Bussey, a handyman. Republican Sen. Norris Cotton is opposed by Joseph E. Moore.

VERMONT—There are only two contests here—for the GOP Nominations for lieutenant governor and attorney general.

MINNESOTA—Gov. Orville L. Freeman is strongly favored to win renomination on the Democratic-Farmer-Labor ticket. Ancher Nelsen former rural electrification administrator, is favored to win the GOP Nomination to oppose him.

WASHINGTOMJ—Atty. Gen. Don Eastvold and Lt. Gov. Emmett Anderson are front runners among six aspirants for the Republican nomination for governor. Democrats are likely to choose between State Sen. Albert D. Rosellini and WASHINGTON—Atty. Gen. Don Eastvold and Lt. Gov. Emmett Anderson are front runners among six aspirants for the Republican nomination for governor. Democrats are likely to choose between State Sen. Albert D. Rosellini and Secretary of State Earl Coe. Without opposition for Senate nominations are Democrat Warren Magnuson, the incumbent, and GOP Gov. Arthur Langlie.

ARIZONA — Democratic Sen Carl Hayden is expected to win renomination over Robert E. Miller, a pharmacist. Contesting for the GOP Senate nomination are Ross Jones, former attorney general of the state, and Albert McKinzie, an attorney. Democratic Gov. Ernest W. McFarland has no opposition, but there is a three-way GOP contest for the right to oppose him in November.

CONVENTION SIGNS—With the Texas State Democratic Convention getting under way at Will Rogers Auditorium in Ft. Worth, Tex., Robert Gaster works to complete the 254 county standards needed for the gathering.

Official Of Cotton Group Urges Probe

LA GRANGE (AP) — The president of the old Cotton Belt Assn. of Texas said yesterday his group would welcome support in asking for complete investigation of cotton acreage allotment program.

E. O. Lundgren said his organization invites the Plains Cotton Growers Inc., to join in requesting the Texas Agricultural and Stabiliation Committee for the inquiry.

"Since W. O. Fortenberry of the West Texas corportation indicates a desire for complete investigation, we invite him to join in our request that investigation start for the year 1951, and continue through succeeding years to 1955," Lundgren said.

"It is of particular interest to us to find out about tremendous gains that were granted to Plains growers during 1953 for abnormal conditions, and also why trend factor of over 80 per cent was granted them in 1954 and factor, over 60 per cent on 1955."

Lundgren said his association was also interested in thorough investigation of acreage transfers was also interested in thorough investigation of acreage transfers from dry land to irrigated land.

"The law has been interpreted to us to mean transfers are only legal where acreage is transferred to like productivity," he said.

Hotel Fire Kills Guest

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Fire swept through 14 rooms of the Seminole Hotel in downtown Jacksonville last night, and one guest died—apparently of a heart attack—in the excitement.

Deputy Fire Chief J. J. Harvey blamed "smoking in bed" for the blaze, which broke out on the eighth floor of the 10-story structure about 9:30 p.m.

The fire was quickly controlled about 170 guests of the 240-room hotel were evacuated — some on firemen's ladders.

Several persons required first aid for smoke and cuts from broken glass.

James Demos, 70, a long-time resident of the hotel, was the heart attack victim.

William M. Nolting, hotel manager, estimated damage at $20,000.

Hale Appears To Be Leading In Maine

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)— Republican Rep. Robert Hale appeared to be 72 votes ahead of Democrat James C. Oliver in his bid for an eighth term on the basis of unofficial returns from Maine's Monday election.

The tabulation gave Hale 58,027 and Oliver 57,955 in the first district's 156 precincts.

TEXAS MOSTLY CLEAR

Gulf Squalls Are Watched

By The Associated Press

Skies were clear all over Texas Tuesday while weathermen kept an eye on an ill-defined area dotted with squalls in the Gulf.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau said the disturbance was in an ill-defined area dotted with squalls. It was moving toward the Yucatan Peninsula from about 250 miles east of Tampico at about 7 to 10 miles an hour.

A Navy plane flew into the area Monday and further air study was planned. The squalls had 30 to 40 mile winds. Signs were that the disturbance would intensify some.

Small craft from Corpus Christi south were cautioned to remain in port because of rough seas and tides two to four feet above normal.

Temperatures at dawn ranged from Lubbock's 52 and Dalhart's [illegible] to 77 at Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Showers sprinkled broad areas in the northern tier of states today but mostly fair weather prevailed in other sections of the country.

Shower activity during the night extended from northern Nevada and southern Idaho eastward through most of South Dakota and Nebraska. Showers also fell in the Northeast, extending from the lower Great Lakes region northeastward into northern New England, and in the Pacific Northwest.

Skies were clear over most of the southern part of the country with the exception of Florida, which reported some cloudiness and light showers in the extreme southern section.

It was warmer in the Northeast after yesterday's unseasonable temperatures, with readings mostly in the 50s, up 10 to 15 degrees over 24 hours earlier. Temperatures in the 50s extended as far southward as Alabama and Georgia, but in the central part of the country they were in the 70s as far south as Nebraska.

Hottest spots yesterday were in the central and southern plains and the Southwest with temperatures about 100 degrees in many places.

Three Killed In Accident

LIBERTY (AP)—Three men were killed in a collision of a big truck and an auto in the Trinity River bottoms between here and Dayton on Highway 90 early today.

The dead were Frank Watson Jr., 30; Bobby Herndon, 23, both of Liberty; and Gabriel Thibodeaux, 42, of LaFayette, La.

Watson and Herndon had just finished cementing in a well in the North Dayton Oil Field and had brought the equipment in and were en route back to Dayton to eat breakfast.

En route, the car and the big van-type truck sideswiped at 3:50 a.m. on the two-lane highway in the river bottoms and plunged over the embankment. Thibodeaux was driving the truck.

Watson was a well cementer with the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. Herndon also was a Halliburton employe. His parents live in Cleveland, Tex.

Stevenson Gains Hope From Wins In Republican Maine

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson's hopes of winning the presidency gained new buoyancy today from Democratic Gov. Edmund Muskie's re-election in usually Republican Maine.

"The Republicans have always said 'As Maine goes, so goes the nation,'" said the Democratic presidential nominee.

"If that is the case, the outlook for Democrats is very good indeed."

Stevenson made the comment to newsmen after telephoning Muskie to congratulate him on what he called an "unprecedented victory."

Commenting on the election of Maine Democratic State Chairman Frank M. Coffin over Republican State Sen. James L. Reid for U.S. representative, Stevenson said:

"The remarkable performance of the Democratic congressional candidate indicates the national trend to the Democrats is still gaining momentum."

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Stevenson's running mate, echoed the "As Maine goes" chant and expressed confidence it would apply to the Democratic national ticket in November.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Stevenson's convention rival for the presidential nomination, was even more emphatic.

He said Muskie's victory was no surprise to him and that it gave assurance that Stevenson and Kefauver would oust President Eisenhower's Republican administration.

He said the Maine outcome shows that the people of the United States are disillusioned with the Eisenhower regime.

James A. Finnegan, Stevenson's campaign manager, said Muskie's victory was "all the more remarkable," because "the Republicans made this a test of President Eisenhower's popularity and influence with the voters."

"The big Democratic vote is also reassuring evidence that the citizens of Maine were not taken in by the high-pressure ballyhoo of the Republican hucksters," said Finnegan.

"They pulled out all of their slick campaign technique, including the new Eisenhower bandwagon. But the results show that the voters are still more interested in real issues than GOP circuses."

Kills Wife, Self

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A trucking company executive chased his wife from room to room then shot and killed her and ended his own life with the same gun, police said today. The nude body of Mrs. Chester Warden, 53, was found in a corner of her bedroom. Nearby lay her husband, Chester, 49.

Popcorn Poll Is Scheduled

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Blevins thinks he knows how to find out who has the Presidential election victory in the bag — and he has already started popping the question in the popcorn poll.

Blevins doesn't go in for small scientific opinion samples. He plans a mass check on the sentiments of millions of popcorn eaters. Blevins is, of course, in the popcorn business.

He is putting out 25 million containers to vendors, half of them picturing the Republicans' Eisenhower-Nixon and half the Democrats' Stevenson-Kefauver. Certified public accountants will tabulate consumer preferences.

If you're inclined to take your popcorn polls with a grain of salt, 1952 popcorn vote called the turn consider this: Blevins says the precisely.

ATOMIC MISSILE HEADS FOR LAUNCHING SITE— An intercontinental atomic missile, the Snark, is drawn into the cargo space of a Globemaster C-124 plane for a flight from the Northrop aircraft plant at Hawthorne, Calif., to the Air Force Missle Test Center at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla. The Air Force disclosed it was using the Globemasters to fly the 74-foot missiles across the country. The wings and vertical tail fin are removed for storage aboard the plane.

Woman Run Down And Killed

CHICAGO (AP) — A 36-year-old woman was killed today when a motorist, described by police as her former boy friend, deliberately ran his car into her, made a fast U-turn and ran over her a second time. Her male companion escaped with minor injuries.

Policeman John Casey, who witnessed the tragedy, captured the motorist, Nathan Brown, 30, after a short chase. Casey quoted Brown as saying: "I waited for that for four hours."

Killed was Lucille Fitzpatrick, who was arrested last Saturday in the company of three Ohio men who have admitted, police said, they planned to rob a West Side bank. She was not linked to the robbery plans, police said. She had been charged with disorderly conduct.

Casey said he saw Brown's car run down Miss Fitzpatrick and her companion, Nathan Goss, 40, as they left a tavern. He said the car sped a short distance, turned around and raced back and ran over the woman again.

Casey said he withheld fire because a crowd had gathered. He commandeered a taxicab and curbed the fleeing motorist, who was held by police for further questioning.

Sgt. Eugene Anderson said Miss Fitzpatrick, manager of a tavern near where she was killed, had kept company with Brown until about a month ago.

Religion Considered No Excuse By Judge

LINCOLNTON, N.C. (AP) — Judge Hugh Campbell and Marshal Kirby met in Lincoln superior court yesterday.

Kirby refused to serve jury duty. Said it was against his religion.

"What is your religion?" asked Judge Campbell.

"I'm a baptist," Kirby said.

"I'm a baptist, too," said the jurist, "and I don't have any objections."

"Seven days in jail."

Begins Sea Trials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first large merchant ship to be propelled solely by a gas turbine begins sea trials Thursday off Norfolk. The vessel is the John Sargeant, one of four liberty ships from the reserve fleet undergoing extensive alterations. The government is spending 12 million dollars to determine how best to step up the speed and operating efficiency of such ships in an emergency.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

ALL LOCAL GOLFERS planning to participate in the official qualifying date Friday to participate in the 2nd annual Snyder Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament this weekend are urged to qualify before Friday.

Pro Shanty Hogan issued this request so as to relieve a little of the congestion Friday at which time all of the out-of-town players will be posting qualifying scores.

Hogan points out, though, that if it's inconvenient for anyone to qualify before Friday that it will be perfectly all right to wait until Friday to qualify as only those qualifying Friday will be eligible for the medalist prize. Contrary to some tournaments, you can qualify before Friday and still make the Championship Flight in the tournament here.

So, if you aren't trying for medalist and can play your qualifying round before Friday, it will help the tournament officials.

Course In Top Shape

Hogan says the course is in tip-top shape for the tournament. The course has come a long way in the past few months, thanks to the untiring efforts of Shanty and his ground crew.

Within the next year the course here is expected to have completely grassed fairways. This has been made possible by the water lines laid last winter.

With grass fairways to go with the already top notch greens, the Snyder CC will have one of the finest courses in West Texas.

Golfers here are to be especially reminded that the tournament this week will in no way conflict with the Tigers' opening football game Friday night with Borger.

There will be plenty of time to take in the barbecue Friday evening after the qualifying rounds are completed and get out to the game.

The barbecue will commence at 6 p.m. The football game will start at 8. The barbecue should be over at around 7. The barbecue, of course, is covered by each golfer's entry.

Pee Wee Grid Program Needs Help

We sincerely hope that our local merchants, businessmen and fans rally behind the Pee Wee football program here.

This is a program very similar to our Little League baseball program. Needless to say the Little League program has done wonders with our youth.

It takes revenue, of course, to put programs over such as these. The LL program hasn't had any trouble whatsoever in obtaining financial backing from our merchants and business men.

We don't believe the Pee Wee football program will encounter any difficulties in this department, either.

The Boys Club, sponsors of the Pee Wee football program, are doing it a little bit differently in getting sponsors than the system used by the Little Leaguers.

The LL obtained team sponsors whereas the Pee Wee program will have a sponsor for each boy. The latter, of course, means that many, many more sponsors will be needed.

Sixty boys will be suited out in brand new uniforms in the Pee Wee grid program. Each uniform costs $12.50. As of Saturday, one-half of this goal had been reached.

It would be a shame if we fell short of the goal.

If you would like to help out in the Pee Wee football program, contact Guy Sullivan. Sullivan says that orders will be taken for one-half uniform or $6.25.

This is a worthwhile program and it's something that has been long needed in Snyder.

TIGERS' OPENING FOE

Borger Bulldogs Big And Rugged

BORGER, Sept. 11 — The Borger Bulldogs, who go against the Snyder Tigers at Snyder Friday in their opening game of the 1956 season, will field a starting lineup composed of nine lettermen.

The Bulldogs will have perhaps one of the heaviest lines in the schoolboy ranks this season. Coach Billy Willard, starting his second year as the Borger head man, can start a line Friday averaging 188 pounds per man.

Harold Smith, 220-pound tackle, and Earl Earnest, 200-pound center, heads the Borger forward wall. Earnest is a returning regular while Smith is a squadman off the 1955 outfit.

Five of the seven starting linemen are lettermen with an all-letterman backfield due to start Friday.

The Bulldogs are competing in District 3-AAA with Amarillo, Palo Duro of Amarillo, Pampa, Plainview and the two Lubbock schools, Tom S. and Monterey.

The Bulldogs are considered a "dark horse" in the tough 3-AAA loop. Willards Bulldogs posted a 4-6 record last year but is expected to improve upon that mark this season.

Borger runs of the Straight-T formation with Bob Page, returning regular quarterback, to guide the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs are expected to take to the air lanes in Friday's tilt at Snyder.

Despite the fact the Bulldogs are considerably light in the backfield, the starting quartet averages 159 pounds per man, the main strength in the Borger running attack is built around power plays.

Page is the only regular back returning off last year's squad but the other three earned a letter last season. Don Chambliss, 150 and Ed Guthrie, 152, at halfbacks; and Donnie Lake, 168, at fullback.

The starting Borger line probably will be as follows:

Ends — Robert Hedgal, 180, and Charles Henson, 170.

Tackles — Harold Smith, 220, and Bob West, 180.

Guards — Clarence Smith, 190, and Andrew Hutchins, 175.

Center — Earl Earnest, 200.

QUARTERBACKERS CONVENE TONIGHT

The second meeting of the Snyder Quarterback Club will be held tonight at the high school cafeteria.

Time of the meeting has been set for 7:30.

Tiger coach John Conley will address the Quarterbackers. Conley is expected to have some "poop" to report on the Tigers' opening foe Friday night — Borger.

All sports fans of the city are cordially invited to the meeting and join the club.

Tulsa, Ogden In Hard-Earned Wins

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tulsa and Ogden, Utah, were hardpressed for victories last night in the National Softball Congress tournament.

Tulsa edged Oxnard, Calif., 3-2, as pitcher Eddie Hughes drove in two runs with a single in the sixth inning. Hughes and his mound opponent, Jack Newman, each struck out 10 batters and allowed four hits.

Ogden went eight innings to beat Killeen, Tex., 5-3. A walk, two errors and a single by Howard Robinson produced the winning runs. Carl Holstrum hit a two-run homer in the seventh for Killeen to tie the score.

Houston 9 Triumphs

CUSHING, Okla. (AP)—Defending champion Mechanics Uniform Supply of Houston defeated Nord-Holmes of New Orleans 18-10 last night in a winners' bracket game of the Southwest Regional Tournament of the American Baseball Congress.

Bobby Boyd Gets Release From SMU

DALLAS (AP)—Bobby Boyd, the Garland, Tex., schoolboy football star who signed a letter of intent to enter Southern Methodist then changed his mind, was free to go to the school of his later choice today—Oklahoma.

Woody Woodard, coach of Southern Methodist, gave Boyd a release yesterday, saying, "I still do not feel that Bobby has done the right thing by this sudden switch at this late date. But I most certainly do not want a boy on our team who does not feel SMU is a great university and his No. 1 choice."

The switch had caused some hot words from Matty Bell, Southern Methodist athletic director. Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma coach, saying his coaches had not contacted Boyd during the summer as Bell had charged, declared he would take the athlete at Oklahoma when he got a release.

Joe Conard Ousted In National Am

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—"It's a good course to get the jump on somebody. It's hard to get a lot of birdies out there and that's what you need to come back after a guy gets the jump."

That was Ken Venturi's size-up of the massive Knollwood course after he had won his first match in the National Amateur Golf Championship.

In line with this kind of thinking, the 56th national amateur shapes up as a contest between 6,790-yard, par-71 Knollwood and a fine field of golfers just as much as it is a contest among the players themselves.

A couple of other significant quotes from the winners:

Walker Cup player Don Cherry: "It's so open you don't get any perspective. If there were only a few trees along the fairways you could line up your shots."

Charley Coe, 1949 amateur champion: "I think a smart player is going to win this tournament—or somebody who knows the course so well he knows exactly what he's doing on every shot, regardless of wind or anything else."

Smoky Joe Conrad, the little Texas redhead who won the British Amateur Championship last year, was an upset victim yesterday. Joining him on the sidelines were Bill Hyndman, last year's runner-up; 66-year-old Chick Evans, a two-time amateur champion; and U.S. Senior champion Fred Wright.

Redleg Rookie Best In Clutch

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Robinson, brilliant rookie outfielder of the Cincinnati Redlegs, figures to be one of the most productive batters in the remaining weeks of the pressure-packed National League pennant race.

Robinson specializes in clutch hitting. His bat has won more games in the late innings than has any other player's on the clubs contending for the prized flag.

The 20-year-old phenom's heroics were disclosed today in an Associated Press survey covering game-winning hits in the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and extra innings.

Robinson, a .294 hitter with 37 home runs, has produced the clutch blow in seven Cincinnati victories. The latest was on Sept. 4 against Milwaukee when he homered in the 10th to break a 2-2 deadlock.

Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs has come up with six-game winning blows. Joe Adcock leads the Milwaukee Braves with five while Pee Wee Reese and Rube Walker pace the Brooklyn Dodgers with five apiece.

Robinson's other game-winners were a home run in the seventh inning against Philadelphia on June 6; a sacrifice fly in the 11th against the Giants on June 16; a homer in the eighth against Brooklyn on June 24; a single in the eighth against Pittsburgh on June 27; a home run in the ninth against the Pirates on July 28 and a 15th inning single against Chicago on Aug. 15.

Two of Adcock's clutch hits came against Brooklyn and one each off St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh pitching. Reese, only a .255 batter, finished off St. Louis and Chicago twice each and the Giants the other time.

Big State Loop Up In Attendance Figures

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—The Big State League drew its largest attendance in three years, President Hal Sayles said today. A total of 470,343 paid admissions were recorded, an increase of 55,132 over last year.

Corpus Christi topped the league with 105,000 while Abilene drew 83,700. Wichita Falls had 60,891, Port Arthur 57,117, Lubbock and Texas City 53,900, Waco 39,096, Victoria 35,639 and Beaumont 35,000.

HATS FLY IN COLLISION—In the moment after collision, hats fly as Washington Senators' right fielder Jim Lemon, front, and second baseman Herb Plews run together while shagging a fly ball off the bat of Yankee first baseman Moose Skowron in the second inning for their game at Yankee Staduim in New York. Both players were taken to a hospital where it was determined that Lemon suffered an injured knee and right shoulder and Plews sustained a possible concussion. On the play Lemon held the ball for the out. The Yankees won the game, 2-1.

Braves, Dodgers Open Big Series

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Bob Buhl, Joe Adcock and Hank Aaron, three guys enjoying their best seasons in the majors because they've murdered the Dodgers, get their last shots at Brooklyn's Old Gray Mares as Milwaukee checks in at Ebbets Field for a two-game series opening tonight.

It could be the beginning of the end for the long-hectic National League pennant race. The Braves, in the lead since July 13, have a one-game edge over Brooklyn's second-place world champions, who had the flag packed away by this time last season.

For the most part, it's been Buhl, Adcock and Aaron who have kept the Braves in front of the Brooks.

Buhl, a 28-year-old righthander who never had won more than 13 in his three previous major league seasons, is 16-7 at the moment—with a 7-0 record against Brooklyn. He could become only the third pitcher ever to beat the Dodgers eight times in a single year in the opener tonight. He'll be up against Sal (9-4) Maglie, who is 1-0 against Milwaukee.

Ed Reulback (9-0) with the 1908 Chicago Cubs and Joe McGinnity (8-0) with the 1903 New York Giants are the only two to pull it off.

Adcock, however, has been the Dodgers' biggest headache. He never has hit more than 23 home runs in one season, but now he has 35 and needs just two more off Dodger pitching to tie the NL record for homers against one club in one season. Billy Joe, driving in 20 runs and batting .429 against the Brooks, has walloped 11 home runs against the champs.

Aaron has been a pest to the Brooks since spring training, when he batted .552 against them. At the moment, he's leading the NL at .328 — with a .418 mark against Brooklyn.

The Braves, like the Dodgers, have 17 to play. They're 11-9 against Brooklyn so far, but Dodger Manager Walt Alston, unusually optimistic, figures the Dodgers, playing 13 of their remaining games at home, are in a good spot.

Cholly Picks Braves To Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Charlie Grimm who relinquished the Milwaukee managerial reins to Fred Haney in the middle of the season, expressed confidence today that "my boys" will win the National League pennant but added he did not expect the race to be decided until the final week of the campaign.

"I said back in spring trainng the Braves would win the pennant for me," Grimm told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from his home in Robertsville, Mo. "Nothing has happened since to cause me to change my mind. In fact, even when we weren't doing too well early in the year I still thought we'd win. The fellows gave me everything they had and I knew they would straighten themselves out in time."

Grimm has been taking a vacation from baseball ever since he resigned June 16, but he said his interest in the game has not waned.

"Baseball is my life," he said. "I want to be back and I expect to be back."

Charlie declined to discuss reports he would rejoin the Chicago Cubs organization, with which he had been affiliated for 20 years as a player, coach and manager before he succeeded Tommy Holmes as Braves' pilot in 1952.

"Just say I definitely will be back next year," he said with a note of finality.

The 58-year-old Grimm said he was getting as much of a kick out of the Braves' fight for the flag as when he was with them. He expressed a great deal of interest in the impending two-game series between Milwaukee and Brooklyn.

Michigan State has won the national intercollegiate billiards title the last two years.

Doyle Traylor Showing Signs Of Avoiding Injury 'Jinx'

By The Associated Press

Any talk that Doyle Traylor, the muchly injured Baylor quarterback, is brittle should have been dispelled by what the railbirds saw in practice Monday.

Traylor, who missed most of two seasons because of broken bones, was doing everything. He ran for one touchdown [illegible] to Del Shofner for another on a play that covered 80 yards and otherwise showed he was ready and able to direct the Bears in their bid for the Southwest Conference championship.

Otherwise, things were pretty routine throughout the conference with coaches Bear Bryant of A&M and Jess Neely of Rice sounding sour notes.

Bryant said his Aggies didn't look like a football team at all and "the worst thing of all—we seem to be satisfied."

He said there hadn't been any fire or zip since practice started and that too many boys were spending time in the training room. "We have more injuries than we've ever had," he declared.

Roddy Osborne, the No. 1 quarterback, was on the injury list and Bryant said he planned to move Bobby Conrad from halfback in an attempt to solve the situation.

It was blue Monday at Rice with the coaches lamenting over what they termed the worst workout of the season. They couldn't explain the letdown but Neely promised plenty of scrimmages this week in an effort to make the Owls snap out of it. Bobby Williams, a junior college transfer, was promoted to the first string backfield after the coaches looked over films of a scrimmage Saturday.

Coach Woody Woodard of Southern Methodist found his boys so enthusiastic that he had to cool some tempers. The Methodists were banging into each other with reckless abandon. "Just nearly everyone looked good," said Woodard, as enthusiastic as his men.

Arkansas worked out principaly for the photographers and members of the press and the practice was mild. It appeared Donnie Stone, a sophomore halfback, would take the spot vacated by Don Horton when the latter was knocked out with a collarbone injury last week.

Texas, thinking about Southern California, the first Longhorn opponent, worked against the multiple offense. Chris Shaw, an end, returned from the hospital for his first all-out drill but Dick Lowrey, a guard, was out of action.

Texas Christian went through brisk workouts getting ready for next Saturday's game-condition scrimmage. Coach Abe Martin couldn't find a single injury from last Saturday's head-knocking.

Tight Race Looms In Border Loop

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A tight campaign appears likely in 1956 Border Conference football as the reduced league prepares for its first games this weekend.

A handful of individual stars, two of national prominence, contribute to the equalization.

But the most important factor is the experience displayed by all the teams in the tri-state conference.

Returnees are numerous and there is a hopeful air about every camp.

Arizona State at Tempe for example, has eight starters from last year among 19 lettermen back this season: In a coaches' poll conducted by the Arizona Daily Star, the Sun Devils were picked to win the conference title.

Couple Of Factors

A couple of factors may upset this forecast.

One is Art Luppino at the University of Arizona.

The fleet tailback for two years has virtually run unstopped over conference competition and led the nation in rushing yardage.

He's at his peak this season and apparently there is nothing to hold him back from making a mark once more.

Another fine offensive player is Hardin-Simmons University's Kenneth (Model A) Ford, a junior quarterback. Ford is a dangerous foe in the air, having ranked fifth in the nation as a passer in his freshman year.

In 1955, he contributed 854 yards to the Cowboys' offensive and ranked sixth in passing over the country.

Watch Texas Western

Perhaps the team to be watched most diligently is Texas Western College at El Paso. The squad has been called one of the fastest in Miner history and the backfield, according to Coach Mike Brumbelow, "can run with the best of them."

Don Maynard, left half, and Jimmy Bevers, right half, substantiated Brumbelow's assay by running the 100-yard sprint in less than 10 seconds in track meets last spring.

Probably the fleetest back in the conference is Joe Kelly, a 186-pound sophomore at New Mexico A&M. Kelly confounded opponents last season as a freshman and received honorable mention on the all-conference team.

Sixth team, but by no means last, is West Texas State. The Buffaloes may be the sleepers in the conference.

Have Experience

They have experience and depth that point to the strongest team since 1950, the last season West Texas captured the conference title.

Greatest depth is in the Buffalo line, which contains experienced centers Doug Higgins, Tommy Powell and Clarence Whittenberg.

Tackles Phillip Wright and James Xauffman are other front wall standouts.

Texas Tech, out of the conference as of July and biding its time until official competition is allowed in its new Southwest Conference berth, may provide the quietus to the hopes of several of its former league mates.

The Red Raiders play four games with Border Conference teams and, although they are not eligible for the title, the results are marked on their foes' records.

Three conference teams open play this Saturday. New Mexico A&M plays Tulsa University in Tulsa; West Texas hosts Corpus Christi and Montana University will play the University of Arizona in Phoenix.

Benson Against Storage Program

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today it is the "philosophy" of the Eisenhower administration to get the government out of the business of storing grain.

With grain surpluses declining, he said, the time is coming when a decision must be made regarding use of government-owned facilities with a capacity of a billion bushels.

"Now let me say this very plainly: our philosophy is that government should get out of the storage business as soon, and as far, as it is feasible to do so," Benson said in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Grain and Feed Dealers National Assn.

"When the need for government-owned storage facilities declines, then it is our philosophy that government should reduce its ownership of such facilities," Benson said. "Government should not be in business in competition with its tax-paying citizens."

Government ownership of storage facilities was an issue in the 1948 presidential campaign and has bobbed up in several elections since that time.

Benson called on the grain trade for help in slowing down forces which he said are trying to push the government into greater control over agriculture.

"In our own generation, we have seen government move in and take over in the name of economic security—and nobody knows it more than you," he said.

"Never before have so many people been inclined to look to government to call the signals. The most serious threat to the private marketing of grain has become the government itself. The federal government has been burdened with the greatest hoard of farm products ever gathered."

Lady Moyne Gives Birth To Daughter

LONDON (AP)—Lady Moyne has given birth to her ninth child, and Lord Moyne says he could hardly have been less surprised that the new arrival is a girl.

The children arrived in this order: girl boy girl boy girl boy girl boy girl.

White River Application Is Granted

AUSTIN (AP)— The State Water Board has granted applications of the White River Water District and the Brownsville Navigation District of Cameron county.

White River got authority yesterday to organize to build a dam and reservoir on the White River to serve Spur, Crosbyton, Ralls and Post in Crosby, Dickens and Garza counties.

The district plans to spend two million dollars in furnishing domestic, municipal, industrial and irrigation water. Temporary directors named were Lynn Buzbee of Spur, M. A. McLaughlin of Ralls, Robert Work of Crosbyton and R. J. Jennings and Tom Bouchier, both of Post.

The board approved a request of 40,000 acre feet of water a year to the Brownsville District.

A proposed budget with an appropriation three times the present amount was approved for the board by the Texas Water Resources Committee.

Ed Felder, executive secretary of the committee, said the budget would allow $1,408,230 for the first year during the next biennium and $1,538,000 for the second year.

The Water Board received $471,074 each of the past two years.

Formby To Speak At Meeting Here

Members of Snyder's two Lions Clubs, their wives and guests will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the fellowship hall of the First Methodist Church to hear an address by Marshall Formby.

Formby, state highway commissioner, will speak to the group on his observations during a tour of Europe, Africa and Asia last year.

On the tour Formby spent 13 days in Russia and appeared in the pulpit of a Baptist Church in that country. He also interviewed such internationally known personalities as former Premier Mendes-France of France and President Nasser of Egypt.

Members of both the Downtown and Evening Lions Clubs and their wives are to attend the event. In addition guests interested in the program have been invited to attend.

Demos Pleased At Setbacks By GOP

By The Associated Press

Democratic leaders wore optimistic presidential-year smiles today in the wake of yesterday's surprising Republican setbacks in a Maine election.

Maine voters gave Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie an almost unprecedented second term by the biggest margin ever given a governor. They also put a Democrat in at least one of the three seats long held by Republican congressmen.

The margin in a second congressional race was so close — the Democrat trailing by 72 votes out of 116,000 cast — that the results may not be known until the official tabulation is completed.

Even before the congressional outcomes were known last night, Adlai Stevenson hailed the re-election of [illegible] as a sign that the national trend to the Democrats is still gaining momentum."

Stevenson's presidential campaign manager, James Finnegan, said the Maine vote was "all the more remarkable in view of the way the Republicans made this a test of President Eisenhower's popularity and influence with the voters."

Eight primary elections also are on tap for today in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, Utah, Washington, Arizona, Vermont and New Hampshire. All seemed certain to draw conflicting interpretations of the 1956 political trends.

Eisenhower opens his own reelection campaign tomorrow with a rally for campaign leaders at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm. Vice President Nixon announced an intense campaign schedule of his own yesterday.

Nixon said he will embark Sept. 18 on a backbreaking 15,000-mile campaign tour of 32 states to place "the constructive achievements" of the Eisenhower administration before the voters.

The vice president said he and aides accompanying him will be on the lookout for "weak spots" and "strong spots" so the party may concentrate its efforts most effectively "in the last four crucial weeks" of the campaign.

ANSON, Texas (AP) — Testimony started today in the trial of Raeburn Norris, Alice attorney, charged with attempting to misapply $5,000 worth of Duval County funds.

Indictments against four Duval county officials were dismissed. They are County Judge Dan Tobin Jr., and A. W. Tobin, Felipe Valerio Jr., and John Turnham, all former commissioners.

Still named are C. T. Stansell Jr., former auditor; F. Saenz Jr., Garcia, former commissioner.

All of the state's witnesses were present including the three the state had started to subpoena when Norris was originally scheduled for trial last May. They are George Parr, Duval County sheriff; Nago Alaniz, San Diego attorney; and C. G. Palacios, a bank official.

The trial was moved here on a change of venue.

Truce Called Over Swine

WRIGHT CITY, Okla. (AP) — A temporary truce has been reached in McCurtain County's open range dispute, involving hogs and their invasion of ranches, highways, gardens, flower beds—even stores and the Methodist church.

Ranchers objected to the porkers scrambling over their property but squatters, who own little farm land but lots of swine, declared the southeast Oklahoma drought has burned up all pastures and only the little patches of grass along the roads stand between the animals and starvation.

The county commissioners voted yesterday to delay until Oct. 1 any action on a petition calling for a special election to decide whether hogs shall be allowed to run free. The petition seeks to halt the practice in two precincts around Wright City.

Louis Monroe, a rancher, estimated there are 700 to 800 hogs running loose in and around Wright City, a lumber mill town of about 1,200.

Telephone Firm Sued For Faulty Listing

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Two business firms today sued the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for $70,000 over an erroneous listing in the Sedalia telephone book.

The Dixie Kitchen Food Products Co. and the Dixie Cream Do-Nut Shop said the telephone directory omitted the word "cream" in the doughnut shop's name.

They each asked $25,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damages, alleging the listing has caused the wrong business to get orders for doughnuts and pastries.

Legal Fighter For New Deal Dies At 86

WASHINGTON (AP)—Homer S. Cummings, who fought many of the New Deal's legal battles, is dead at the age of 86.

The death yesterday of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's first attorney general was attributed to heart failure. He left only a grandson, Schuyler Cummings of Miami, Fla.

Cummings had been in private law practice since retiring from the Roosevelt Cabinet 17 years ago. The long-time Democrat is remembered for his part in the Roosevelt administration's unsuccessful fight to put across legislation to empower the President to name one new Supreme Court justice for each sitting member over age 70. Authorship of this plan, derided by its foes as a "court packing" scheme, was credited to Cummings.

For about 40 years Cummings was active in Democratic party affairs, serving for a quarter century as national committeeman from Connecticut. Last night, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler praised him for serving "his country notably throughout his illustrious career."

Born in Chicago, Cummings was educated at Yale and remained on in Connecticut until he entered the Roosevelt Cabinet. Since his retirement from the government in 1939, he had spent most of his time here. His fourth wife, Julia, died last year.

Funeral services were planned tentatively for tomorrow.

Indians On Warpath Again

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — There's another Indian uprising, but this time its red man against red man, while the palefaces watch nervously.

Exactly 100 Kansas gathered here last night and signed a tribal roll as Wyandotte Indians.

This locks them in combat with their blood brothers, the Wyandottes of Oklahoma.

Back in 1855 the Wyandotte tribe assigned its Kansas lands to the United States and moved to a reservation in Oklahoma. A scattered few stayed here. Some cherished a burying ground that eventually was surrounded by this city's main business district.

Recently the Oklahoma Wyandottes disclosed they had slipped a bill through Congress giving them authority to sell the burying ground.

They estimated the land would bring 1½ million dollars.

The Oklahoma Wyandottes said last week the Kansas Wyandottes weren't on the tribal roll so they couldn't share in the money.

The Kansas group last night named as its "temporary chief" George D. Zane, 56, a hoisting engineer. He says he is a first cousin of the Oklahoma tribe's chief, Lawrence Zane, janitor at the Miami, Okla., post office.

"Back in 1937 the Wyandottes in Oklahoma made up their rolls and we didn't know anything about it," the Kansas Zane said. "The government said they were the official tribe of the Wyandottes and that's not exactly true."

Zane said the Kansas group was forming a separate tribe because "we just want to be on the official rolls of the Wyandotte tribe as recognized by the secretary of the interior."

"A sort of cold war" will be plotted by the Kansas Wyandottes, Zane said. They will go to court if necessary. He hopes it isn't.

"Actually," the chief said, "we probably are the most peaceful tribe of Indians Kansas has ever known."

Wiley Seeks Nomination In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) placed his political future in the hands of Wisconsin voters today.

The 72-year-old senator from Chippewa Falls, who has represented Wisconsin for the past 18 years, sought the Republican nomination in the state's primary election in the face of his party's opposition.

And he was favored to beat both the man his party chose to endorse over him, 41-year-old Rep. comparative unknown, Howard H. Glenn Davis of Waukesha, and a Boyle, 35, Shorewood attorney.

Two Democrats were fighting for the right to run against the Republican senatorial nominee. Tehy were State Sen. Henry Maier, 38, and Elliot Walstead, 50, former state party chairman. Maier, supported by Milwaukee labor, was favored to win.

Despite a controversy over Sen. Wiley s congressional franking privilege and a question about the procedure used by followers of Rep. Davis in filing campaign expenses on his behalf, the race failed to develop much statewide interest.

Whether the expected light vote would help or handicap Sen. Wiley remained a debatable question, but most observers thought it would help him because of his many loyal followers who have given him support in the past three times he ran for the Senate.

Some politicians saw in the election a possibility of getting an indication whether the Democrats had gained or lost strength since the 1952 election.

Minnesota's Voting To Be Party Test

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota's primary election today is considered largely a test of strength between Republicans and Democratic-Farmer-Laborites (DFL).

There were few real contests. But leaders of both parties said the results could point toward which would win in the November general election.

For a decade until 1954 the GOP consistently had turned out more voters for the primary. Two years ago the DFL drew 351,389 voters against 290,617 Republicans in the primary and went on to capture six of seven state offices previously held by the GOP.

Gov. Orville L. Freeman, the DFL incumbent, is conceded renomination. Ancher Nelsen, former national REA administrator, is expected to be his GOP OPPONENT. Both have primary opposition but it is not regarded as challenging.

At stake in the primary, in addition to governor, are nominations for nine congressional seats, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general and railroad and warehouse commissioner. Aspirants to the State Supreme Court and Legislature file on a nonpartisan basis.

All five DFL congressional incumbents and Rep. August Andresen, 1st Dist. Republican, have no primary contests.

Drawing special interest was the comeback attempt of Harold C. Hagen, Republican defeated two years ago in the 9th Dist. by Mrs. Coya Knutson (DFL). In the primary, Hagen is being opposed by State Sen. Norman Larson and August Doren, a farmer.

Strong National Guard Unit Ready To Move Into Sturgis

By The Associated Press

National guardsmen, strengthened by reinforcements, were ready today to move — if needed —into Sturgis, Ky., scene of noisy racial disorders at the town's integrated high school.

A National Guard detachment of 650 men, backed by tanks and 40 state patrolmen, were on hand yesterday to see that seven Negroes were allowed to enter classes for which 310 white pupils were enrolled.

A crowd of between 600 and 1,000 persons jeered and catcalled the guardsmen, spaced three feet apart on the high school lawn.

Only 45 of the school's white pupils were at their desks when the final assembly bell rang. Members of the crowd cried out that the white pupils would "never come back" and turbulent anti-integrationists declared they would keep their children "out of Sturgis High School forever if necessary."

When the Negroes left the building, rocks were hurled. The Negroes sped home in automobiles.

Sturgis is the center of an area with a population of about 5,000, including 1,000 Negroes. The tension there was in strong contrast to the situation at Louisville, Ky., where the South's first large-scale school integration was carried out peacefully, and with no untoward incident yesterday.

Aside from limited protests and a few pickets at the Louisville Board of Education, there was no disturbance. Officials said they expected none.

Louisville, a city of almost 400,000 has a schoo lpopulation of 47,000 has a school population of 47,-

Officials estimate that 2,810 Negroes will attend previously all-white schools this fall.

At Clay, Ky., a coal-mining community of 2,000 not so very far from Sturgis, a crowd of about 100 men turned away a Negro mother and her two children at the elementary school. A newsman was told by members of the group that no pictures could be taken, but that "if they bring niggers here, you can take pictures of people dying."

A spokesman for the Negro woman, Mrs. James Gordon, said the Gordon children — James, 10, and Teresa, 8 — would not return to the school "until they have the same protection that Negroes have in Sturgis."

Average Oil Output Drops During Week

TULSA (AP)—A heavy loss in Texas contributed to a drop in daily average oil production by 70,725 barrels during the week ended Sept. 8, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The overall daily average slipped to 7,045,400 barrels. The Journal estimate of 1956 output climbed to 1,801,047,450 compared with 1,692,661,786 a year ago.

The major portion of the decrease was in Texas where the cutback to a 15-day producing schedule for September resulted in a drop of 63,000 barrels to 2,965,300. Oklahoma also was heavy loser, with a drop of 16,000 barrels to 563,500. The best gain was in New Mexico up 7,800 barrels to 24,700. Arkansas was off 250 to 79,750. Louisiana was up 700 to 789,400.

Pakistan To Have New Prime Minister

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Huseyn S. Suhrawardy will be sworn in tomorrow as Pakistan's new prime minister.

Suhrawardy, 63, was chosen by President Iskander Mirza to replace Chaudhri Mohammed Ali, who resigned Saturday. Suhrawady is head of the Awami Moslem League, opposition to Ali's recent Moslem League government.

A political associate said Suhrawardy "is a great friend of the United States and will remain so." Others agreed. He will make a policy statement after the searing-in ceremony.
