Wichita Falls City Council Tuesday passed four emergency ordinances and appointed a committee intended to assist in redeveloping areas destroyed by last week's tornado.

Charles Harper, a Wichita Falls architect, asked the council to appoint 19 persons to a Reconstruction and Redevelopment Commission. The commission would serve as an advisory committee to the council on rebuilding efforts.

Harper expressed concern that some commercial elements were buying property in areas hit by the tornado. "We need to stop it now. People are being cheated out of their property right now," he said.

The long-range implications, Harper said, are that Taft could turn into another Kemp.

Harper suggested that the city institute an ordinance stating that only like structures could be built to replace ones destroyed by the storm.

City Attorney H.P. Hodge said a "spot zoning" ordinance is not legal.

City Manager Gerald Fox said that only a comprehensive zoning ordinance for the entire city could make such an act legal.

Harper, as an alternative, suggested the city institute a six-month moratorium, stating that no building could be placed in the area unless it replaces one of the same kind.

"I'm not certain that can be done under state law, but I have talked with area state lawmakers and they say it will be legal in one day if we want," Harper said.

Fox said he was uncertain whether the council could institute a moratorium. "We are really limited by state law," he said.

Harper's third alternative is for the city to enforce deed restrictions.

Wichita County Clerk Jerry Padgett said most of the areas are controlled by deed restrictions.

The council took no action on any of the suggestions since none was on the agenda.

The council passed an ordinance continuing the state of emergency in the city.

The ordinance continues price ceilings and curfew requirements. Curfew was canceled in most of the city, but will remain in effect from 9 p.m. until 6 a.m. in damaged areas.

The ordinance stipulates that state law will be followed. State law says a maximum fine of $200 and a maximum 60-day jail sentence can be imposed on any person violating the ordinance. Prosecution will be handled by the county attorney.

Persons wishing to file price gouging complaints should do so in the county attorney's office.

The council also passed an ordinance allowing the temporary placement of mobile homes in the disaster area contingent upon deed restrictions.

Originally, the ordinance had contained stipulations for placing mobile homes outside of the disaster area, but the council voted not to change existing ordinances for those cases.

The U.S. attorney's office in Dallas has promised to investigate the fatal shooting of an alleged illegal alien by Wichita Falls police, the state chairman of a Mexican-American organization said Tuesday.

Jose Cano, chairman of the American GI Forum, said he asked the U.S. attorney's office in Dallas Tuesday to look into the shooting of a Mexican-American man tentatively identified as Daniel Sosa.

The victim was shot early Monday after police said he knocked a police officer down and ran away in the downtown area. Sosa and another man had been stopped for violation of the 11 p.m. curfew that was put into effect following last week's tornado.

Bentsen to tour disaster area

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Wednesday will tour the portion of Wichita Falls devastated by last week's tornado.

The Texas Democrat will arrive at 3 p.m. at Wichita Falls Municipal Airport, then board a helicopter at Sheppard Air Force Base for an inspection of the damaged area. He will be escorted by Maj. Gen. Charles L. Donnelly Jr., commander of Sheppard Technical Training Center.

Bentsen will visit the disaster center at the 4-H Center on Midwestern Parkway at 4 p.m., and then will conduct a press conference at 4:30 p.m. at Trade Winds Motor Hotel. He will visit victims at Wichita General Hospital at 5:15 p.m.

Clinic is closed because of rains

By BRUCE FISHER
Regional Staff Writer

Wichita Falls Clinic at 501 Midwestern Parkway East closed its doors Tuesday as heavy rains drenched the roofless structure through to the bottom floor.

Jim Missler, administrator, said the tornado that struck the city a week ago tore most of the roof from the facility and shut down operations on most of the third floor.

"We've been operating on a limited basis since, but this rain has been just too much. We're soaked from bottom to top."

"Until we get a roof of some sort on the building, we'll have to shut down," Missler said.

He said the structure is sound, scotching rumors that the walls were damaged. He said there is no problem with the walls, only the roof.

No physicians or other staff members will be on duty at the facility until the roof is repaired and it reopens, Missler said.

He said the best thing for patients of physicians who practice at the clinic is to contact him at home, through the physicians' answering service or call Wichita General or Bethania hospitals.

Workers were trying to install a temporary roof Tuesday as the rain poured down on and all around them.

Missler said his staff kept the clinic functioning as long as possible, but Tuesday's rain "was just too much."

Donations rise to $115,961

Donations for disaster relief for victims of last week's tornado had climbed to $115,961 by Tuesday night, according to Red Cross officials.

Wichita County chapter of the American Red Cross has been designated the central agency for receiving funds contributed for disaster relief.

Contributions should be sent to American Red Cross, 1809 Fifth, P.O. Box 5166, Wichita Falls 76307.

Ray Clymer has been named chairman of the Wichita Falls fund drive, which is supported by United Way and city and county officials.

"Purpose of the fund appeal is to make the people of our area aware of the kinds of services the Red Cross can and will provide," Clymer said.

Clymer also said that "what has been most important to me is that Red Cross officials have assured me that even if only one penny comes from the community, all funds necessary to help our citizens will be made available through the agency's national disaster fund."

President on vacation

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — President Carter took a day-long deep sea fishing trip in the Atlantic Ocean Tuesday while his wife Rosalynn remained at their vacation retreat to work on a speech.

Before he went fishing, the president jogged for several miles in the morning and read at the huge mansion he is renting on this state-owned island.

Mrs. Carter was working on a speech she is to deliver Wednesday in Raleigh, N.C., at a mental health conference.

City and county officials Tuesday informally recommended that Wichita General Hospital seek to create a hospital district to finance hospital improvements and operations.

The hospital board and advisory commission, county commissioners and city council met for a work session to discuss a proposed $9.6 million expansion of the hospital and ways to finance the project.

No formal action was taken at the meeting by either the county commissioners or city council. The hospital board and advisory commission will wait for a formal recommendation from the city and county before taking the issue to the voters.

A hospital district would give

Wichita General Hospital independent taxing authority. State law limits the tax rate to 75 cents per $100 valuation.

The hospital is now supported by the city and county and through patient revenues.

County Judge Tom Bacus said he would support a hospital district because it would give the hospital a reliable, stable source of revenue.

Though I felt like a deserter not being in Wichita Falls to share this community's nightmare of Tuesday, April 10, I did have some interesting experiences in New York and on the way back home. I saw New York kids wearing Dallas Cowboys T-shirts, and on the walls of a tunnel was a painted Dallas Cowboys football helmet.

The owners of a Long Island restaurant were busted by health inspectors for taking ducks and geese from a pond in a public park, roasting them and serving them to customers.

A sign outside Lone Star Cafe on East Thirtieth and Fifth Avenue proclaims it "The Biggest Honky Tonk This Side of Abilene."

Sitting next to us on the jetliner to New York was an obese Swede, exuding an overpowering body odor, en route to the Big Apple to lecture, he told me, on chemical pollution.

Also on the plane with us, going and coming, was Veda McDowell, a teacher in the Wichita Falls school system.

Veda had the same trouble we did: trying to get telephone calls through to Wichita Falls when we heard of the disaster.

On the way home we flew over the flood devastation along the Mississippi River.

At home, Mrs. Don Hudnell of Dean was getting only a few eggs from her hens at her place northeast of Wichita Falls. After the twister struck, she went out, expecting to see that the henhouse had blown away.

Instead, she found the hens had produced 20 dozen eggs for the week, as compared with a normal seven dozen!

OFF ON A TANGENT — Wichitan Wendell Goodson tried desperately to get airline reservations home when he learned while attending a business meeting in Toledo, Ohio, that the tornado had struck. No reservations were available.

The week that was

But officials of the Toledo-based Dana Corp., knowing of the disaster that struck his hometown, made one of the firm's executive jets available, and Wendell was home within hours.

That is typical of the compassionate reaction of others to our tragedy.

Ham radio operators deserve a big round of thanks from all of us. John Pate, one of them, did valiant service throughout the ordeal. He helped some people from Ohio locate relatives and friends in Wichita Falls.

All of us can be proud of the way the home people reacted to their misfortune, with good humor, with a spirit of helpfulness to others and, most of all, with quiet faith.

Perhaps we should resurrect our old slogan, "The City That Faith Built." Certainly faith is sustaining us now!

Drop by and wish Gladys happy returns! LOU GATLIN of Wichita Falls Poetry Society penned the following apt verse:

"A steady tone confirms the massive cloud... That forms a giant cone from earth to sky... A thriving town lies helpless in its path... A sudden blast of fury vents its cry... Unleashing winds of havoc that defy... The works of men and leave a naked scar... But waste and death cannot cause faith to die..."

"Above the stricken town and gleaming far... Abides one bright illuminated orb, The Morning Star!"

Lou Gatlin wrote this poem in August 1978, unaware then that it was prophetic.

Victim of tornado?

Giant 'golf ball' missing

By CINDY RUGELEY
Staff Writer

Lost: One 10-foot-diameter golf ball and an eight-foot tee. Time of loss: about 6 p.m. April 10. Possible vicinity of loss: anywhere between Southwest Parkway in Wichita Falls and Lawton, Okla.

The giant ball and tee may be the most unusual items lost by residents of Wichita Falls in last week's tornado. The ball, mounted on its tee, was located at the golf driving range on Southwest Parkway.

Charles and Jackie Spragins, owners of the driving range, said they have no idea where the storm may have driven their fiberglass ball. When they checked the driving range after the storm, everything except an overturned truck was destroyed but the ball and tee were not to be found.

"We found one piece of the golf ball so we think it may have shattered when the storm hit it," Mrs. Spragins said. There was no sign of the tee.

Many reports have surfaced as to the possible whereabouts of the golf ball, but none has been substantiated.

Mrs. Spragins said she has been told the ball is in Lawton, Okla. Another report was that half of the ball was in Dean, Texas, and the other half in Henrietta. Officials in these cities, however, say they have seen no oversized golf balls.

"I don't know where in the heck it is," she said. "But I'd like to find it."

Tuesday afternoon a caller to the newspaper said the ball was beside the Waurika, Okla., police station.

A dispatcher, when asked about the ball, said he unfortunately could find no golf ball.

"There is no golf ball here, but one of the officers said he understands someone found a big bull in Tulsa," she said.

John's Family Steak House on Jacksboro Highway has reported the giant fiberglass bull outside the restaurant also was blown away in the tornado.

These searchers found a missing plane, believed to be the one used by two North Texas ranchers, in the bottom of this farm pond about five miles northwest of Crowell, Texas, Tuesday. The plane had been missing since Friday along with its occupants, Glyndon Johnson, 44, and Billy Johnson, 46, who were using the aircraft to check livestock. A diver confirmed the plane is in the pond and reported it is on its back with possibly one body still in the plane. Searchers will attempt to retrieve the plane Wednesday morning. (Photo by Charles Stewart)

Tornado victim causes studied

By BRUCE FISHER
Regional Staff Writer

A team of medical and disaster experts have been in Wichita Falls studying causes of deaths and injuries caused by the killer tornado that hit Wichita Falls last week.

Dr. Robert B. Craven, Dr. Roger Glass and Peter Kerndt, a medical student who has worked with the disaster research team on several occasions, came to Wichita Falls Friday to learn what they can from the April 10 tornado.

The team has conducted several research projects in the course of its work with the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga. Craven is a medical epidemiologist employed as a specialist in the respiratory and special pathogens branch of the CDC.

"Generally, we want to see if there was something people who weren't injured did that those injured didn't do," Craven said.

He said members of the team have been interviewing people who were injured in the tornado to find out where they were and what happened to them before and when they were injured.

"Obviously, many people did the right thing," Craven said, referring to the low death count for such a large disaster.

"It's a wonder there weren't hundreds more killed. And we were very impressed with the (mobility) of the medical services here, and the way they functioned after the storm hit."

"It's just phenomenal the way these people are helping each other," Craven said.

Glass studied the earthquake destruction in Guatemala two years ago, and since then he and Craven have joined in studies of casualties in other natural disasters, such as recent snowstorms.

Craven said Glass found that in Guatemala, the native adobe brick structures contributed significantly to the death toll. He said the type of construction recommended for reconstruction efforts there would help avoid deaths in the event of another earthquake because of reinforcement added to walls.

"We found the same thing in the earthquakes in California," Craven said.

He said it is too soon to make any assessments about the tornado injuries here.

"For one thing, we haven't talked to everybody or all the people we want to. It's been sort of a problem contacting people who were hurt because they didn't go home. In most cases, they didn't have homes to go to. They went to friends' or relatives' homes," he said.

Craven said he and his companions have been reserved about contacting relatives of victims who were killed in the massive tornado.

"These people have been through a lot and we don't want to cause them any more trouble," Craven said.

"But we were invited here by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration to study the situation and see what recommendations we could come up with that could be used to help better educate the public," he said.

Craven said apparently area residents have learned their lessons well in school fire drills and other public information programs about what to do in case of a tornado. He said the size of the disaster area compared to the death toll and the injured list indicate "a lot of folks here were doing something right."

Craven and his companions have been asked to check into several areas of concern. One is asbestos in the air.

He said the types and ages of the homes damaged and destroyed indicate asbestos is not going to be a problem.

He said people have to be exposed to asbestos in the air for a certain period of time to suffer ill effects, and the insulation doesn't appear to be a threat to area residents in terms of respiratory problems.

He said the only problem encountered concerning fiberglass insulation is people handling it in moving away debris. Craven said many people have suffered skin irritations from handling fiberglass insulation without any protection.

The results of the research will be provided to the head of Wichita Health Unit, the FDA and other federal and state officials, Craven said.

He said the disaster in Wichita Falls was a severe one and should prove beneficial in learning what else people can do to protect themselves and their property during a tornado.

Wright reportedly shot Sosa once in the back when Sosa bolted from the car he was riding in after Wright and police officer John Bailey had stopped the auto and asked the two men for identification.

Sosa allegedly refused to obey Wright's order to halt and then reached into his pocket, giving the impression he was reaching for a weapon.

No weapon was found on the man and police are unsure of Sosa's identity, saying the Social Security card found on him was a temporary one issued several years ago. Police have said he may have been an illegal Mexican alien who did not speak English.

Cano said his organization asked for a federal investigation because of past incidents in Texas in which Mexican-Americans were killed, and no action was taken. "We feel at the local level there will be a whitewash and there won't be a sincere effort to find out what really happened," he said.

Cano said the U.S. attorney's office promised him the FBI would investigate.

"We're going to the ultimate source," Cano said. "The only recourse we have is a violation of the civil rights of an individual."

The United League of Latin American Citizens already has asked Texas Attorney General Mark White to investigate Monday's shooting, but Cano said past experience has taught him that the attorney general's office has taken little action in cases involving Mexican-Americans.

White became attorney general in January.

"You can't point to one case that the attorney general has prosecuted whereas the Justice Department has," he said.

Cano also criticized the lack of Mexican-Americans on the Wichita Falls police force. A class action suit is pending in U.S. District Court alleging hiring discrimination against Mexican-Americans by the city.

"The lack of a ruling perpetuates the problem of underrepresentation of Mexican-Americans in the city and in the police department," Cano said. "Mexican-Americans would be able to deal and cope with the Mexican-American a little better and understand his culture."

The Wichita Falls chapter of the American GI Forum requested assistance in the investigation of the shooting, according to Raul Vasquez Jr., chapter chairman.

Wichita County District Attorney Tim Eysen said Tuesday he expects to present the facts about the shooting to a grand jury Wednesday.

Police Chief Curtis Harrelson said Wright has been placed on "limited duty" pending outcome of the grand jury inquiry.

pital comes to us looking for money."

The proposed $9.6 million expansion of the hospital is Phase I of a master plan. It proposes to upgrade patient rooms, build a new obstetrics-gynecology facility, construct a separate cancer therapy facility, remodel and consolidate administrative areas in the old wing and build a new emergency room.

The emergency room would be three times as large as the present one, would provide better access to other hospital departments, provide better parking and have more treatment rooms, James Killebrew, architect, said.

Construction would begin in about two years and be completed in five years, he said.

Phase II of the plan would add more beds to the hospital if they were needed.

The $9.6 million figure includes a two-year inflation factor, Killebrew said.

In the last 18 months, the hospital has lost $2,300,000 in unpaid bills. Because Wichita General Hospital is a public hospital, it cannot turn away patients because they cannot pay. In that same period, the city and county contributed $385,000 to the hospital, Dr. R.E. Pace Jr., told the group.

Construction would begin in about two years and be completed in five years, he said.

Phase II of the plan would add more beds to the hospital if they were needed.

Showers soak Wichita Falls area

By MARK PEEL
Staff Writer

One week after the worst tornado in Wichita Falls' history swept through the area, another storm moved through Tuesday, but it brought only scattered rain and moderate thunder-showers.

Wednesday's forecast calls for more of the same with a 60 percent chance of more showers, decreasing to 50 percent by Wednesday night.

The high temperatures Wednesday and Thursday should reach the upper 70s while the lows will be in the lower 60s. Winds should be from the south at 15-20 mph.

Youth killed in shooting

YALE, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Highway Patrol troopers shot and killed a 14-year-old Yale youth Tuesday afternoon after the boy went on a shooting rampage injuring a police officer and killing several head of cattle.

Yale News publisher Homer Ray, an eyewitness to the shooting, said troopers allegedly shot and killed Timmy Benton, 14, Yale at about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday after he had allegedly fired several rounds from .23-caliber rifle into two Oklahoma Highway Patrol cars. He received one gunshot wound to the head.

Ray said one of the shots shattered a patrol car's windshield and others struck near the front of the two cars.

"It looked like a case of self-defense," Ray said. He said officers did not fire any shots at the youth until their cars came under fire.

Rental center out of listings

Wichita Board of Realtors President Bobby Hall said Tuesday night the rental coordination center has no more listings available for Wichitans left homeless by the April 10 tornado.

"We really ran out of listings Monday," Hall said. "There were no single-family listings and only a few apartment listings, and most of those needed repair work."

Hall said the Wichita Falls Board of Realtors met Tuesday morning to determine what other steps might be taken to help those left homeless in the wake of the April 10 tornado.

Capital murder bonds denied

Bond was denied Tuesday for two Wichita Falls men charged with the stabbing death of the 34-year-old manager of the Sheppard Air Force Base Officer's Club.

James Moore, 24, 1634 Collins, and Nobel Mays Jr., 25, 307 Fillmore, were arraigned Tuesday before Justice of the Peace R.L. Stewart on charges of capital murder. Both men remained in Wichita County jail Tuesday night.

The two suspects are charged in connection with the death of Jerry Lamb, of 1605 Fillmore, whose body was found Friday evening southwest of Olney, Texas.

Officials said Lamb had been stabbed three times and was strapped to the underside of an abandoned pickup truck hood. The victim was last seen April 7 when he left his home.

licensing and bonding of contractors also was approved.

A fourth ordinance approved amends city ordinances concerning prefabricated or modular homes. National standards rather than city codes will be used as guidelines.

Ernest Lillard, public works director, said city codes were more restrictive than national standards, but the change would not affect public safety. The council approved an ordinance regarding repair of streets.

Some council members suggested that the city should wait to see whether streets in the disaster area would need repairs. Fox said some federal disaster funds might be available to do work in that area.

"We are going to try to continue our efforts as much as possible in the rest of the city. We are going to lose some of our investment if we don't," he said.

The urban mass transportation certification plan was approved.

Fuller, Childress

CHILDRESS, Texas (Special) — Services for Harold Fuller Sr., 60, who died Monday night in his Childress home, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Childress Church of Christ.

David Howell, minister, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Finis Marchman, pastor of First Baptist Church of Estelina, Texas, the Rev. # New York judge a hero to some, Hitler to others

NEW YORK (AP) — Bruce Wright is one of 92 Criminal Court judges in the city, but controversy dogs his decisions and statements in a way it does no other. To some people he is a hero, to others a Hitler.

The issue is usually his low-ball policy, but beyond that there are uncomfortable questions of racism. And Wright, who is black, is outspoken to the point that he is accused of polarization.

Wright lit the latest uproar last Wednesday when he released without bail a black man accused of slashing a white decoy policeman disguised as a derelict. The judge fueled the fire by saying police here "have a license to hunt down blacks and kill them with impunity."

Mayor Edward Koch termed Wright's bail decision "bizarre." The head of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association called for his removal from the bench, saying the remark "has outdone Hitler."

It was not the first time Wright has created a furor by releasing a suspect on his own recognizance. His policy of granting low bail or parole led the PBA several years ago to dub him "Turn 'em loose Bruce."

Wright does not back off from such controversy. In a guest sermon Sunday at a black church in Brooklyn, he read the names of three black youths — aged 10, 15 and 22 — killed by white police officers since 1974.

"When I refer to white cops as killers, I've read the indictments," he declared. Two of the officers involved were tried and acquitted; the third was found not guilty by reason of insanity.

Wright also chided the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the National Urban League as "gentle collaborators" for accepting "white money."

Despite the slap, an NAACP spokesman defended Wright Monday, saying, "Clearly in this city, bail has been the mechanism by which (the) presumption of innocence has been effectively denied to black and poor people."

On Tuesday, hundreds of demonstrators chanting "Bruce is all right; Koch is bizarre" marched near the Manhattan Criminal Court building. The group included some whites, but was predominantly black.

Wright, who is in the last year of a 10-year term and says he does not expect to be reappointed, has consistently maintained that bail should be set only to ensure a defendant's appearance in court.

In the current case, he lifted $10,000 bail on Jerome Singleton, 30, and allowed him to go free on grounds that he had no record, had not yet been indicted, and had ties to the community.

Singleton, a college student who is married and has two children, surrendered the following day, after he was indicted. Another judge reinstated the $10,000 bail on the indictment, but a relative posted it and Singleton again went free. Wright's defenders argued that Singleton's reappearance settled the bail question.

But the issue of racism which Wright raised in his comment on police remained. "You should never expect blacks to act the same way as whites until they're treated that way, and that's a long way off," he said Monday.

Wright, trim and graying, was born 60 years ago in Princeton, N.J., the son of a baker of West Indian descent. His maternal grandmother was Irish. In an interview several years ago he recalled, "My problem when I was young was that I thought everything had to be white. I consciously suppressed race feelings."

He attended predominantly black Lincoln University in Pennsylvania and, during World War II, served in a segregated Army medical unit. He came home with two Purple Hearts and two Bronze Stars, then earned his law degree at New York Law School at night. As a senior he clerked for a prominent law firm but says he was advised he had no future there. Then he was associated with several black law firms.

In his sermon Sunday, he said, "We blacks have had 350 years of holocaust in this country. ... Ten million black skeletons dance on the floor of the Atlantic Ocean."

Asked Monday if he felt in danger because of the controversy, he said, "You're in danger when your birth certificate says you're on the black list. I learned early on America has a skin game and I came out the wrong color."

Babcock & Wilcox nuke plants have 'a severe problem,'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Babcock & Wilcox nuclear power plants, including Three Mile Island, have "a severe problem" with large, rapid heat surges that rob operators of precious time to react, a government consultant said Tuesday.

Walter Lipinski, consultant to the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards, said in an interview the Babcock & Wilcox system "is controllable, but in comparison to other systems you have a whole new set of problems."

The committee, meeting to discuss the Three Mile Island accident near Harrisburg, Pa., March 28, also met with its parent agency, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, and recommended steps to improve the safety of all reactors.

The committee said nuclear power plants should have better instruments to monitor the temperatures and water levels in the reactor core and the operational condition of vital safety systems.

Plant operators at Three Mile Island had trouble assessing conditions inside the reactor and were slow to realize that crucial valves that should have been open were actually shut. Meanwhile, a relief valve that should have closed quickly had remained open.

Claro Ray

Claro Ray, 80, of 1651 Collins, was found dead Tuesday night at her home.

She was a retired civil service instructor of aircraft engine mechanics at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Services are under direction of D.T. Carmichael & Son Funeral Home in McDonough, Ga.

The committee also recommended new safety research and analysis.

The committee staff, meanwhile, released a January 1978 preliminary study in which Carl Michelson, a Tennessee Valley Authority nuclear safety specialist, predicted just the sort of confusion which apparently contributed to the accident at Three Mile Island.

Michelson's sketchy analysis, which he said should be studied in detail, indicated that with a relatively small water leak, such as the open valve at Three Mile Island, a pressurizer tank observed by the plant operator could fill with water while the reactor core itself, unobserved, could empty and overheat.

Michelson said this could fool the operator into turning off emergency water injection too soon, which, in fact, did happen at Three Mile Island.

The advisory panel also considered, but set aside for further study, revisions to make the automatic shutdown of Babcock & Wilcox reactors operate faster when something goes wrong.

Committee member Harold Etherington tied this suggestion to the unique design of Babcock & Wilcox's "once-through" steam generation system, which uses far less water than competing designs and thus provides less heat-absorbing capacity in an emergency.

Lipinski, a senior electrical engineer at Argonne National Laboratory, told the committee that shutting down the reactor even a few seconds sooner "buys you time — there is that much less heat generated."

Darrell Eisenhut, a Nuclear Regulatory Commission official said Friday that Babcock & Wilcox plants use about one-third as much water as Westinghouse or Combustion Engineering designs to generate steam.

"Given an event (accident), it's less forgiving, harder to control, because you have only one-third this water to boil dry," Eisenhut said.

John MacMillan, vice president of Babcock & Wilcox, declined to comment Monday on Eisenhut's statements about the steam system.

Etherington said Eisenhut's comments would require further study by the committee.

In all nuclear powerplants, heat from the atomic reaction in the reactor's core is conveyed by circulating water to a "heat exchanger," where a separate supply of water circulating through pipes is turned into steam to drive the turbine.

Prosecution due for price gougers

By CINDY RUGELEY
Staff Writer

Price gougers can expect to be prosecuted and can expect to spend some time in jail, County

Attorney Tom Schrandt said Tuesday.

Under state law, persons convicted can be fined up to $200 and spend not more than 60 days in jail for each conviction.

Many persons, Schrandt said, can pay $200 with little effort. "I doubt anybody can afford to spend time in jail."

"There are numerous examples of people who have gone out of their way to help others. The people out to make a quick buck should be stopped," he said.

Schrandt said he had heard of at least 40 complaints, but no complaints have been filed.

If necessary, he said, a special county judge will be appointed to handle the gouging cases.

To file a complaint, he said, a person must come to his office in the county courthouse. Police Chief Curtis Harrelson has agreed to provide manpower to investigate, Schrandt said.

All persons who have experienced gouging should file complaints, he said. "It would help us immensely if everyone would come by the office. The more people who file on a particular store, the greater our chance of getting a conviction," he said.

Anyone who has previously complained to the police, mayor or city staff needs to come by his office, Schrandt said.

Insurance time limit

waiver asked

State Sen. Ray Farabee said Tuesday he has asked the State Board of Insurance to waive time limits on coverage of tornado victims' household goods that are being moved from a damaged residence.

Depending on the type of policy, coverage on personal property usually is limited to either five or 30 days from removal unless it is moved to another residence. Many people do not have another residence to move the property to and must store it wherever they can, Farabee said.

"It is my understanding that the State Board of Insurance will ask the insurance companies to waive those time limits in favor of a 180-day coverage," Farabee said.

The senator said a bulletin was expected Tuesday from the board of the companies that would waive the time limit.

Farabee introduced a bill Tuesday which would allow the state comptroller to grant an extension on filing state tax returns for victims of natural disasters and to provide assistance to those victims in reconstructing their tax records.

In addition, Farabee is working with the Department of Human Resources to provide funds for disaster relief. He also met Monday with Deputy Commissioner Raymon Bynum of the Texas Education Agency concerning provisions for relieving the economic impact of the destroyed property tax base in the area, he said.

Earthquakes rattle New England

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A pair of mild earthquakes occurring minutes apart shook southern Maine and coastal New Hampshire Tuesday night, but there were no reports of major damage, authorities said.

"There definitely was an earthquake in Maine tonight," said Dr. Edward Chibaris of the Weston, Mass., Observatory.

Huff praised for jail heroics

By AUSTIN BUREAU

AUSTIN — A resolution praising aged but agile Dr. Mark E. Huff for his help in thwarting a recent escape attempt at the Wichita County jail eased through the House Tuesday on voice vote.

Co-authored by Reps. Dave Allred and Charles Fennell, the resolution cites the 71-year-old superintendent of the Wichita Falls State Hospital for his "fearless intervention" in the March 15 incident.

Huff was making his usual Sunday visit to the jail when he saw a prisoner assaulting a jailer. He tackled the inmate and in the process received a broken rib, two black eyes and a cut to the head.

The resolution states: "Dr. Huff's bold and heroic deed and his exemplary behavior in aid of county jail personnel deserve the praise and thanks of all citizens throughout the state."

As a concurrent resolution, the measure now goes to the Senate, where it also is expected to win quick approval.

EPA officials to survey oil spill

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Environmental Protection Agency officials arrived late Tuesday on the site of an oil spill on the Mississippi River near here where 84,000 gallons of oil was spilled from a ruptured barge.

The oil was dumped into the river Tuesday morning when one of 10 barges ruptured after the tow struck the pilings of the Interstate 155 bridge between Missouri and Tennessee.

Harry Gilmer, chemical engineer with EPA's emergency response section, said a decision on what, if any, cleanup efforts will be attempted probably will be made early Wednesday after EPA men fly over the scene.

"It's bad right now because of the flood stage the river's in, and the currents," said Gilmer. "The oil in the stream at best can only be diverted to the banks. A fast current and high water creates a number of problems."

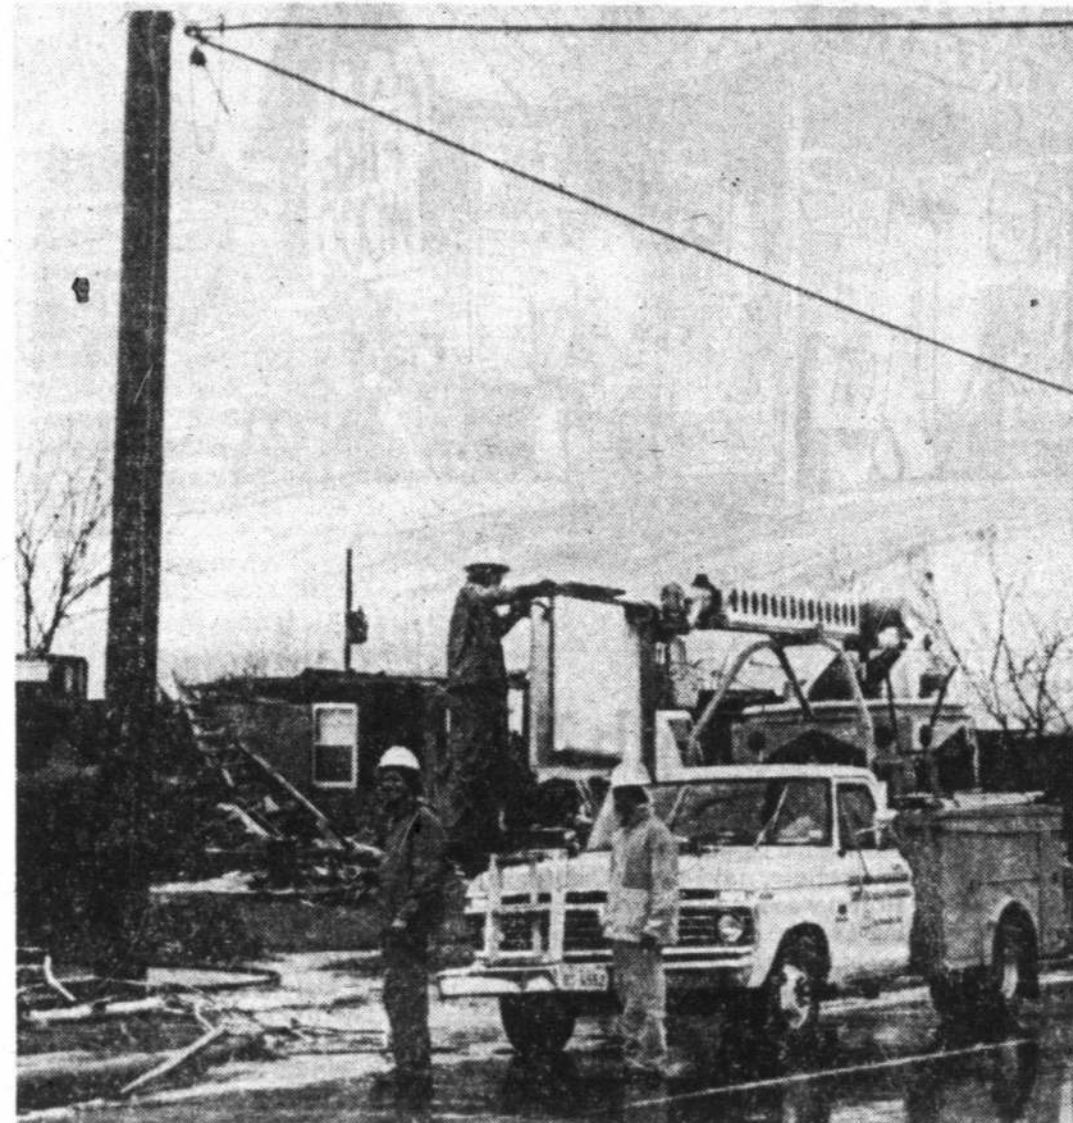

The EPA has two investigators on the scene of the spill. The No. 6 fuel oil formed a slick nearly 10 miles long, according to the Coast Guard, which has done an initial investigation.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the current in the flood-swollen river is estimated to be moving at more than six miles per hour, carrying the oil downstream.

The river was 6.8 feet above flood stage Tuesday morning at Caruthersville and is expected to crest at 10 feet by Thursday, according to the National Weather Service.

The No. 6 fuel oil formed a slick nearly 10 miles long, according to Coast Guardsmen flying over the area in helicopters.

Highway traffic on the bridge was not hampered by the accident. The Missouri Highway Patrol said there was apparently no major structural damage to the bridge.

Deed restrictions may halt land commercialization

By CINDY RUGELEY
& ROCKY SCOTT
Staff Writers

Commercial business interests may be buying property in areas, damaged by last week's tornado, said Wichita County Clerk Jerry Padgett, but they won't be able to commercialize residential areas without violating deed restrictions.

"And that will take a court fight," Padgett said Tuesday afternoon, "much like the one that opened up Kemp Boulevard in 1968."

Padgett said "all of the residential areas affected by the storm — especially those near Southwest Parkway and west of Sikes Center — have deed or platt restrictions that prohibit businesses in residential areas."

Padgett read from the Fairway Addition platt description, pointing out a section that forbids "businesses of any kind," as well as "trailers, tents, shacks ... or other temporary buildings used as residences."

He said a recently approved city ordinance allows house trailers to be put up on homesites devastated by the tornado, but Padgett said he doubts anyone will file an objection to platt violations of that nature.

"As far as commercial interests buying up properties," he said, "it could be done. There is no state law requiring a deed transfer be recorded immediately, so people could just buy up the property, wait a couple of years and then file the deeds in our office."

But he said a lawsuit asking for a change in the platt restrictions would have to be filed and won before any developers could commercialize the area.

"It would be up to the people in the neighborhood to fight that kind of suit," Padgett said.

At Tuesday's city council meeting, architect Charles Harper told the council business interests had been buying disaster victims' lots. "I cannot determine (who the businesses are)," Harper said, but he commented he thinks he knows some of the firms involved.

Preston elected mayor of Burk

BURKBURNETT (Special) — Burkburnett City Council members cast ballots five times Tuesday night before electing Brack Preston mayor for a second term.

Mrs. Pat Norris and Preston both received three votes each, and Doss Hamilton received one vote each on the first four ballots.

As ballots were cast for the fifth time, Hamilton asked that his supporter withdraw Hamilton's name from the voting and Preston was named mayor to serve his second consecutive term at that post.

Billy Ray Mize was elected mayor pro tem. He defeated Mrs. Norris for that post 4-3 on the first ballot.

Other new council members seated Tuesday night were Pat Yarmoski, Hamilton and Coy Martin.

The council accepted the resignation of City Attorney

Joseph Janeke. Janeke has served as city attorney for 23 years and he resigned to devote more time to his law business.

The council voted to retain Janeke as legal adviser for the council and will pay him 40 percent of his regular salary plus his hospitalization policy.

Ray Hassell appeared before the council to request that a disaster plan be prepared for the City of Burkburnett.

The council approved a budget totaling $1,537,805, which is about $200,000 more than last year's budget. It includes a pay increase for most city employees and funds for extension of the tax and fire departments.

The council tabled the water rate increase and action on the water contract with the City of Wichita Falls. The current tax rate of $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation at a 40 percent ratio of assessment was retained.

Drummond Talks bring arms

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND
 WASHINGTON — To realize what little headway we have made with the Soviets in containing the nuclear arms race, it is well to look at what has happened since 1947 when the United States made its dramatic offer to Moscow to banish all nuclear weapons from the face of the earth.

Probably most Americans today are not aware that we ever made such a proposal. That was the time when the United States had a monopoly on atomic bombs and on the technology to produce them. This was the year that on the basis of ideas worked out by Dean Acheson and David Lillenthal, President Truman offered to the world through the United Nations our readiness to destroy all our atomic weapons and to put all weapon-producing nuclear materials under control of the United Nations if other governments would do the same.

The Soviet Union refused. Subsequently the United States offered to the Soviets our readiness to end all underground testing of nuclear weapons, testing in the atmosphere having already been banned. This would be one way of reducing our mutual stockpiles of nuclear arms and of bringing the nuclear arms competition under some control, since weapons testing is essential to weapons production. Our only condition was that both sides accept a reliable means of monitoring the observance of such a treaty.

The Soviet Union refused. A year ago President Carter asked Soviet President Brezhnev to negotiate, as part of the SALT II talks, a "radical reduction" of nuclear weapons on both sides. The Soviet Union refused even to discuss it.

And now at the very moment when some kind of SALT II agreement is within reach, Soviet Foreign Secretary Gromyko is insisting the provisions in the SALT I treaty requiring that Moscow dismantle 150 of its nuclear missiles be delayed further. It is evident that the Soviets don't want to cut back their mounting nuclear arsenal if they can help it.

Finally, it is clear from the shape of SALT II that the new treaty, far from holding down the production of nuclear weapons, will fail to put any meaningful ceiling on the mounting stockpiles.

Carter has expressed the hope that we will be able to do so when and if the next round of SALT III negotiations begins.

So far the Soviets have shown no interest and no willingness to begin either a modest or a radical reduction of nuclear weaponry.

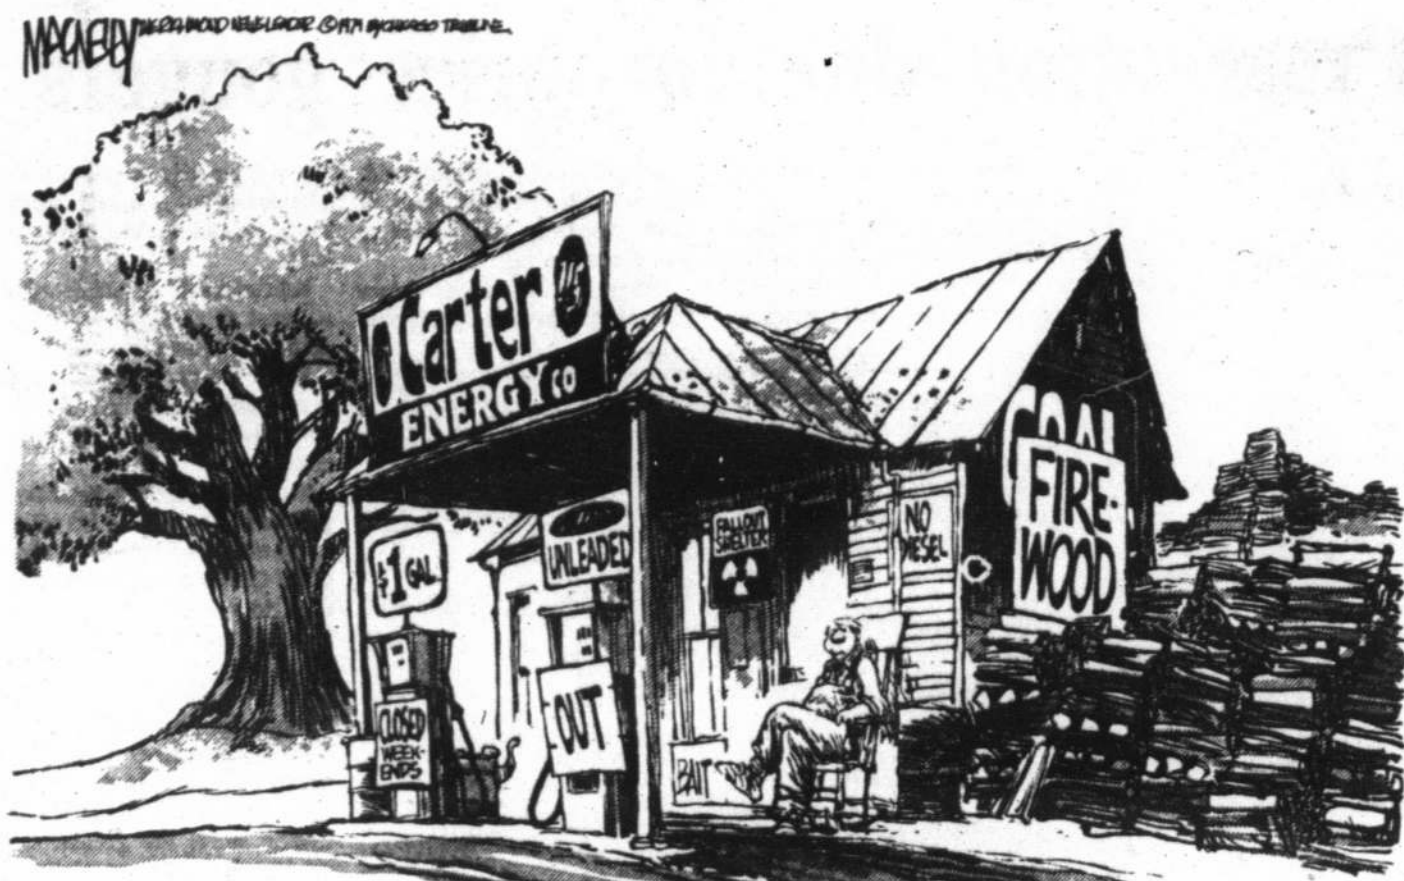

Here is the record:
 1— When the U.S. alone possessed atomic bombs, we offered to destroy them under strict supervision and build no more. The Soviets said no.

2— We have offered to end all nuclear testing under strict monitoring. The Soviets said no.

3— We asked to negotiate a "radical reduction" of our mutual nuclear arsenal. The Soviets said no.

This is why SALT I and SALT II look more like armament than disarmament treaties.

Is Jerry tough enough?

By ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — On the morning after his self-inflicted humiliation in New Hampshire, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. telephoned the notorious William Loeb of the Manchester, N.H., Union-Leader, inadvertently multiplying new doubts about his capability to challenge Jimmy Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Although he had bowed to pressure the previous evening and canceled his testimony in favor of a constitutional amendment to enforce balanced federal budgets, Brown told Loeb he would like to return to New Hampshire to push the measure. Since the state's Democratic establishment views Loeb as a right-wing devil figure, Brown was sending them a message of defiance and contempt.

But he also was making an unintended revelation. If he had not backed away from his uphill fight for the constitutional amendment in Concord, why did he not deliver his testimony? Because he was stared down by a tough provincial politician named Chris Spiro, minority leader of the New Hampshire House of Representatives.

The valid question: Is Jerry Brown tough enough to run against the incumbent president of his own party? Does he have the inner resources of a Eugene McCarthy or a Ronald Reagan, each of whom challenged incumbents of their own party despite the abuse heaped on an insurgent?

That may be the real meaning of Brown's New Hampshire fiasco, not merely reiteration that here indeed is an eccentric politician (who followed his 6,000-mile transcontinental exercise in futility by embarking on an African safari with Linda Ronstadt). Brown's problem in Concord seems born not of insufficient groundwork but of insufficient guts.

Some important California Democrats, previously ready to back their governor against Carter, were stunned. "Maybe Jerry really wasn't ever all that tough," said one Californian who has known Brown all his life. "But nobody has leaned on him before." Accustomed to mellow, laid-back Californians, Brown was not prepared for street-fighting tactics.

That Spiro is an agent of the Carter White House was underlined when he wrote a letter warning Brown of being "hustled" by New Hampshire Republicans also backing the constitutional amendment. Cleverly, Spiro contended Brown was "retracing the footsteps" of former Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a pariah among California Democrats who ran badly in the 1972 New Hampshire primary as Loeb's candidate.

Brown tried to fight back. Dr. Steve Kemiji, who runs the "Greek-American Committee for Justice and Human Rights in Cyprus," telegraphed Spiro (who is Greek-American) requesting courteous treatment of Brown as "pro-Greek" in contrast with Carter's "pro-Turkish actions." Spiro's response: leaking the telegram to Alan Baron's political newsletter.

As Brown's April 2 appearance came closer, the governor grew more nervous. Brown aide Grey Davis called Spiro twice, followed by a call from Brown himself. Stay home, Spiro insisted. Brown responded by asking for a meeting with Spiro in Concord before he testified.

Brown the fly thereby invited himself into the parlor of Spiro the spider. Even worse, the governor at the eleventh hour inexplicably decided to take not a single aide.

"I cleared the decks and opened up the guns of Navarone on him," an exuberant Spiro said. How? By informing Brown that the hearing procedure snubbed just-elected Democratic Gov. Hugh Gallen (a Carter supporter and amendment foe). Brown accepted this as a pretext for capitulation.

Surrender did not buy him kindness. Gallen publicly accused Brown of trashing the U.S. Constitution. Spiro compared Brown's Concord expedition to Gen. Custer's trip west. "We were kind to him, considering what he deserved," Spiro said.

Quietly winning women

By MARTHA ANGLE & ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Jane Byrne, the first woman ever elected mayor of Chicago, has become a national celebrity. But similar fame has not yet been visited upon Lila Cockrell, Margaret Hance, Dianne Feinstein or Janet Gray Hayes.

Those four women also are mayors of major American cities, each with a population of more than 500,000. They're also part of a trend that went virtually unnoticed until Byrne emerged as Chicago's leading politician.

While national women's political organizations in recent years have committed most of their time, money and other resources to electing women to Congress or governorships, numerous female politicians have quietly been winning mayor elections.

Cockrell is mayor in San Antonio; Hance in Phoenix, Ariz.; Feinstein in San Francisco and Hayes in San Jose, Calif.

These other women serve as mayors of cities with populations of more than 100,000.

Patience Letting in Oklahoma City; Carole K. McClellan in Austin, Conn. A. Peters in Wichita, Kan.; Helen G. Boosalis in Lincoln, Neb.; Isabella Cannon in Raleigh, N.C.; and Marian P. Whitehurst in Chesapeake, Va.

California has by far the greatest number of women mayors. In addition to San Francisco and San Jose, the 19 cities in that category include Santa Monica, San Gabriel, Hayward, Bellflower, Simi Valley, Thousand Oaks, Walnut Creek, Vallejo and Whittier.

Like their male counterparts, the women fit no common mold. There are Republicans and Democrats, liberals and conservatives. Some are doing an outstanding job, others are not faring as well.

What most do share, however, is an exceptional opportunity to exert influence at the state and national levels of

Iranian lesson

By DON GRAFF

There's nothing like a sense of history for putting a contemporary situation into perspective.

We have one Ahmad Salamatian to thank for a reminder of this relationship between experiences of past and present. Salamatian, deputy foreign minister in Iran's revolutionary government, reprimanded foreign press attention to the ad hoc trials and executions of Iranians tainted by association with the former imperial regime.

"More than 100,000 people were executed during the French Revolution without any trial, while those executed in the course of the Iranian revolution total fewer than 100 persons."

Good point, and if anything he has understated his case. Those were only the French victims. If the casualties of the wars initiated throughout Europe by the French Revolution were included, the body count would be many times greater. No wars, yet, having arisen from the Iranian upheaval, by comparison it is almost trivial.

Still, one need not be a defender of the shah or an apologist for his functionaries of his regime being called to account for their excesses to be concerned about the fashion in which justice is being served in the new Iran.

It is understandable that vigilantism should exert a strong appeal in a society seeking redress for wrongs committed against it by forces beyond the reach of popular law. There are, however, both moral and politically practical objections to indulgence in revenge rather than justice. Punishment meted out in righteous zeal can exceed the crime. The person strung up all too frequently may be the wrong one. And even if not, he may have been to many of his compatriots less a culprit than a leader or relative, and becomes a martyr to be avenged.

Vengeance exacted in blood tends to nourish a new generation of avengers. In their zeal to purge the corruption of the past, the Iranian komitahs may be preparing the way for a new round of vigilantism should the revolutionary pendulum swing back the other way, with themselves as the objects of vengeance.

Back to the French Revolution, which may not have been the most appropriate example to have chosen to justify Iran's experience. For all its excesses, the French upheaval was a constructive event with far-reaching and lasting impact.

Tax benefit for everyone

One long-range benefit for all Americans who pay income taxes came out of the tornado of April 10. A change in the tax law that will grant income tax extensions without penalty or interest will be introduced in both houses of Congress within a day or so.

Existing law does not allow exemption from interest on taxes owed by victims of natural disasters, although they're exempt from penalties for late filing. As soon as this fact became known, U.S. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower and U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower instructed their staffs to prepare legislation amending the law to allow exemption from both interest and penalties for disaster victims who request extensions.

Wichita Falls' tornado, probably the most destructive natural disaster in Texas history, already has damaged residents enough. The federal government certainly should treat taxpayers who are so hard-hit with compassion, but under the tax code the president has no authority to soften the tax collector's blow for any reason.

Tax law amendments to be introduced within the next day or so by the two Texas senators and Rep. Hightower would correct this oversight. There's no reason why taxpayers in Wichita, Wilbarger and Clay counties can't look forward to the compassion they're due. The president already has expressed his heartfelt sympathy for victims of the twister. He is expected to sign the legislation to grant tax filing exemptions upon designation of an area as a federal disaster area.

In future natural disasters, taxpayers will benefit from this change to the tax law resulting from the Wichita Falls experience. Government should be responsive to the needs of the people it serves.

Citizens have to care

With fewer than 5,000 citizens expressing enough interest in Saturday's city elections to vote, one could conclude the city is run by a minority.

Majority rule must, in a democracy, mean a majority of interested qualified voters. If elective positions in Wichita Falls required decisions of a majority of the registered voters, none would be filled, for only the few among the few bother to visit the polls.

It isn't a lack of issues. Saturday's election revolved around charter changes, sale of our water to outlying communities and the controversy over single-member or at-large representation on Wichita Falls Board of Aldermen.

It shouldn't be a spirit of resignation involving lack of value of a single vote. Burkburnett a few weeks ago decided a controversial cable TV issue by a single vote.

Certainly it isn't an issue of "machine" control, for political machines require coercion to deliver the vote. No group in Wichita Falls controls individual votes. In fact, were it not for our only organized bloc, Citizens Committee for Good Government, few candidates indeed would have presented themselves for voter approval.

We must define the low voter turnout as the result of massive apathy, an apathy that cannot be budged by issues, by candidates or by looming problems each council must decide. Voter apathy is throwing operation of City of Wichita Falls onto the shoulders of a smaller group each election. Can we afford this?

It is our studied opinion that we cannot.

Sooner tornado fallout

Editor:

Enclosed is a Thursday edition of the Pauls Valley Daily Democrat in which we featured a story and artwork about all of the debris and fallout Pauls Valley and surrounding Garvin County areas received as a result of the devastating tornado that hit your city on April 10.

In a way we've created a trash monster of sorts. Since then we've received more pictures from family albums, checks, books, hymnals and other materials from Wichita Falls. So far, we've collected about two grocery sacks full, and it's still coming down.

A fellow about 30 miles away found a sports section from your paper in his front yard the day after the tornado.

I guess we're about 100-110 miles from you folks as the tornado flies. There's been a great deal of interest here, of course, concerning the Wichita Falls twister.

Tuesday night we were lucky. Five were seen, three touched down but in each case it was in an open field. One, however, almost struck the Wynnewood water tower and city hall.

The consensus here from Civil Defense and our own tornado watch team (REACT) is that we were mighty lucky.

I extend my sympathy to the grief your city must be feeling. I grew up in West Texas and have been familiar with tornadoes all my life, but have never suffered any personal tragedy.

Tasting hell's cake

Editor:

Every fiber in my being feels for you, especially for those who lost dear ones. I "thought" I had tasted a portion of hell's cake when I experienced Graham's rampaging winds a few years ago and that insidious, more recent flood; but after viewing pictures and reading about your devastation, I realize "I ain't tasted nothin' yet!" I pray to God I never have to "eat" a storm of that size.

This bit of "versin'" kept plaguing me at the breakfast table as I digested the Record News. I'll throw it in for good measure:

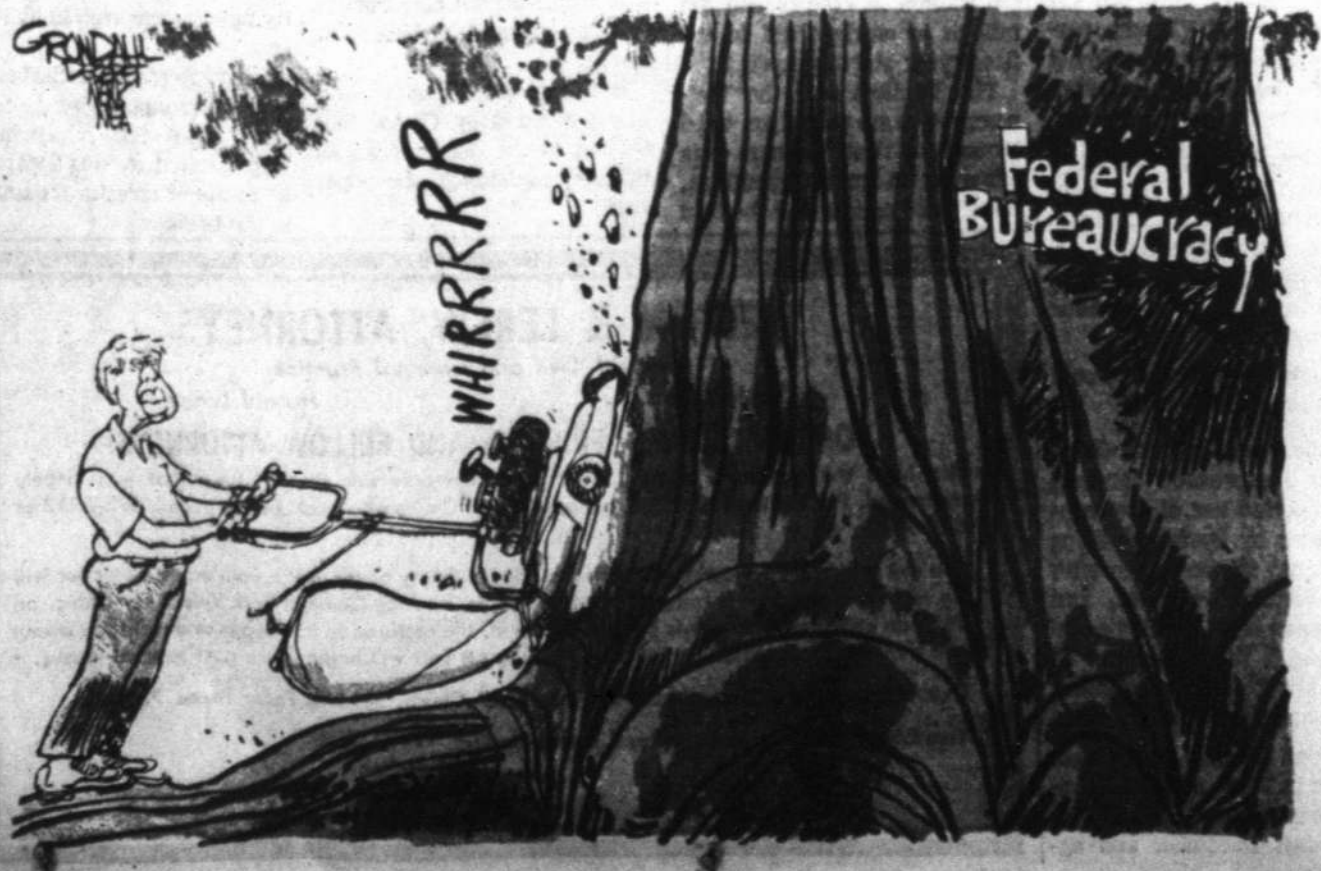

Rumbling like a giant freight train without a guiding track
 It smashed through city with a roar;
 Its smoke was heavy, black!
 Buildings, cars and human forms it scrambled as it sped.

Devastation like a huge bomb left rubble, injured, dead!
 How helpless are we people-specks that dot planet Earth

In the wake of nature's mighty fist, how much is man worth?

Copier efficient copier efficient

By ERMA BOMBECK

I read somewhere that in 1977, copy machines throughout the world regurgitated 226 billion copies of everything from annual reports to birth announcements.

It seems anything worth saying once can be improved if you produce it again and again.

At first I thought it was a business-oriented piece of equipment, but when all my friends began getting them for their homes, I realized how much I needed one.

As I told my husband, "A home copier would really save us a lot of money."

"What would you use it for?"

More centers due for CAC

Community Action Corp. board is planning two additional service centers for Wichita Falls, after a proposal by Angus Thompson, executive director, was accepted by the board Monday night.

Thompson will make application to Community Services Administration office in Dallas for $136,000 in funding to open service centers in Faith Village and Sunnyside additions.

The centers would provide day care, transportation, emergency shelter and food, youth programs, technical assistance for disaster victims, hot meals, portable chemical toilets etc.

CAC has granted $35,117 in funds for crisis intervention and emergency assistance programs.

Thompson praised the work of the CAC staff in providing transportation, hot meals, day care, housing and other services to tornado victims. He estimated that Wichita Falls has an additional 10,000 poor as a result of the tornado.

Nigh requests aid for Tillman

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — A total $919,000 in federal aid for Tillman County residents and another $55,000 for public assistance were included in the request from Gov. George Nigh to President Jimmy Carter, who has signed the disaster declaration providing special federal assistance to five Southwestern Oklahoma counties hit by tornadoes last week.

Money will be available for clearing wreckage and restoring public buildings. A center has been set at the multi-purpose building in Lawton.

Insurance benefits to pay for government housing

Insurance benefits to pay temporary shelter costs for owners of homes destroyed by last week's tornado must be channeled to Uncle Sam when the storm victim has moved into housing provided by the government.

This requirement applies also to those renters who hold personal property insurance policies which contain the same "added living expenses" clause. Federal Coordinating Officer Joe D. Winkle said.

Winkle explained this is necessary to avoid duplication of benefits whereby the victim could receive living costs from his insurance company while living in free government housing.

"The government sees a part of these added living expenses as rent," Winkle said. "If the policyholder receives insurance payments for his shelter, those payments should be returned to the nation's taxpayers who are providing the housing."

The amount of money paid out by an insurance company for such added living expenses does not reduce the face value of the policy, Winkle said.

To insure that policy holders do not lose benefits written into their policy, federal officials urged owners of destroyed homes to tell their insurance adjuster they expect to be accepted in temporary government housing.

"Once the adjuster knows this, he will leave pending a part of the claim," Winkle explained. "Adjustments then can be made later, depending upon the limits of the coverage and the reasonable time required to make the victim's home liveable."

Murdered writer followed his star

By MARK PEEL
Staff Writer

Most campus radicals from the late 1960s and early 1970s disappeared a long time ago.

University and college students became less concerned with social issues and more concerned about their date for Friday night and which team was going to win the big game on Saturday.

Michael Eakin, a native of Quanah and son of former Quanah Tribune-Chief editor Ed Eakin, was a campus radical in the truest sense. Eakin once was awarded a journalism scholarship at Baylor University, but transferred to University of Texas at Austin after a year in "a situation that made me feel alienated."

Eakin fitted right in with the radical faction at Texas and was elected editor of The Daily Texan, student newspaper, in 1973. Eakin worked for several social causes while at the Texan's helm, and also weathered some of the paper's darkest hours when the university's board of regents stripped the Texan of its mandatory funding from student fees.

Eakin, who once read a speech at a Washington anti-war rally, did not stop being a campus radical after his year as editor of the Texan. He remained involved in political and social issues in Austin and then, along with Ken McHamm and Jeff Nightbyrd, founded the now-defunct Austin Sun.

The Sun was a community newspaper that was part small town weekly and part "underground" newspaper. Through the Sun, Eakin continued fighting "the system."

After the Sun folded, Eakin continued his style of firebrand journalism as a free-lancer until recently when, tired of doing without some of life's necessities, he decided to join the establishment as an environmental writer.

These plans were cut short when Eakin was gunned down in a car Saturday night in Houston. He was in a car on a parking lot with a woman, Dila Davis of Austin, who was an outspoken opponent of nuclear energy.

Eakin once was correspondent for Wichita Falls Record News and Times. His unconventional lifestyle was known to many. They remember his ever-present vest and "Leapin' Lizards" T-shirt. They remember the Texan staff meetings at the Hansel and Gretel beer garden.

The people of Quanah may remember Michael as a brilliant student who once won an award in the International Science Fair but then went down to Austin and got mixed up with all those hippies.

But Michael Eakin also will be remembered as a dedicated journalist whose talents extended beyond his reckless manners and appearance. He sought the truth and did not rest until it was told.

Nigh wants Cotten added to disaster area

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. George Nigh asked President Carter Tuesday to add Cotten County to the five-county disaster area the President designated after last week's tornadoes.

Nigh told the president a survey showed the damage in Cotten County totaled $2.3 million, all of it in rural areas.

"The tornadoes struck 40 farmsteads, destroying nine farm homes, doing major damage to nine farm homes and minor damage to several others," Nigh said.

Nigh said the loss included barns, machinery, livestock, fences and crops.

Cotten county is on the Red River and is surrounded on three sides by Tillman, Comanche, Stephens and Jefferson counties, which are all in the previously designated area. Carter county is the other county in the original group.

Food stamps offered to Lawtonians

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Lawton residents who suffered severe property damage from last week's tornadoes will be eligible for emergency food stamps, state Welfare Director L.E. Rader announced Tuesday.

Rader said those who suffered severe damage to personal property, homes or business or those who have a loss of income and loss of food are eligible for the emergency aid.

He said tornado victims who want to apply for food stamps should go to the Owens Multi-Purpose Center in Lawton or contact Paul Stinchome, Comanche County welfare administrator.

Fort Sill soldier killed in wreck

By The Associated Press

A Fort Sill soldier was killed when the car he was riding in crashed near Lawton late Monday, the Highway Patrol reported.

His death raised Oklahoma's 1979 highway toll to 211, compared with 209 for the comparable period last year.

Elliott F. Bracey, 20, stationed at Fort Sill, was killed late Monday when the car he was riding in ran off U.S. 62 north of Lawton and struck the rear of a parked car, the patrol said. The patrol said the parked car may have been abandoned.

Jackson residents flee rising Pearl River

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Hundreds of residents downstream of flooded Jackson fled their homes Tuesday as the surging Pearl River defied forecasts and edged higher. In Alabama, thousands were evacuated from the threat of new flooding.

And the Army Corps of Engineers said Tuesday it would open the Bonnet Carré Spillway, hoping to slow the rising Mississippi River before it strains the levees protecting New Orleans.

Jackson officials have estimated that more than 17,000 persons already have been flooded out in the metropolitan area, but sandbag levees designed to stem the rising Pearl were holding.

About 40 miles downstream at Georgetown, mobile homes and packed cars headed out to the only open road leading from the community of 420 residents.

"It looks like we'll be evacuating our entire town before the crest gets here," said Mayor Beal Allbritton.

Still further downstream, evacuations were under way at Monticello and Columbia, where the river continued a steady 2-foot daily rise toward expected record crests late this week. Officials in Columbia said as many as 2,000 persons might be evacuated.

"We're prepared for the worst in case it happens," said Monticello Mayor Tommy Jolly. "We're moving people out of low areas now."

President Carter on Monday designated the state a disaster area, making thousands of flood victims eligible for federal assistance. In addition to flood losses, much of the state experienced extensive property and road damage because of torrential rains last week. In Alabama, the number of people evacuated because of floods rose toward 5,000 Tuesday with as many as 3,000 people in and around Selma being evacuated. More than 600 families were evacuated at Demopolis.

"A lot of people won't come out until they're forced to and that's bothersome," said Selma's Civil Defense director, Warren Rhoades. "We're going to have an awful time getting everyone out at once and I expect a lot of people to be evacuated tonight."

After one rescue boat spent an hour getting to a woman in a house near Selma, she asked: "Can I take my stereo and television?"

"No, m'am."

"Well, I'll see you later," she said.

The water at Demopolis, just below the confluence of the Warrior and Tombigbee rivers, was expected to crest at 74 feet Wednesday, 26 feet above flood stage, which would be the highest level in history.

Demopolis Mayor Hugh Allen warned sightseers they would be arrested if they continued to get in the way of rescuers.

The Bonnet Carré Spillway, built 33 miles upriver from New Orleans in 1931, has been used only five times. It serves as an escape valve by allowing rising river waters to drain off into Lake Pontchartrain.

In Jackson, where flooding has reached rooftops in many northeast residential areas and has forced officials to close roads into the downtown section, the river stood at 43.2 feet at midday, more than 25 feet above flood stage. It had been predicted to crest Tuesday at 43.1 feet.

"The river's still coming up little by little but we're hoping it is about to crest," said Carroll Fulgham, a spokesman for the city of Jackson. "We don't really know when it will stop, but the levees are still holding."

The levees were originally built to handle only a 42-foot crest, but they have been built up by dirt and sandbags lugged by crews of state prisoners, National Guardsmen, city crews and volunteers working day and night piling dirt and sandbags.

"It appears that round-the-clock sandbagging has saved a key electric substation serving the downtown area," Fulgham said. "Even when the river reaches a level point, it will be several days before we see any significant fall in the floodwater. It will be a week or more before any semblance of normalcy is expected."

The National Weather Service said there was a slight chance of thundershowers late Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Jackson has already lost to the floodwaters several public buildings, its new $48 million sewage treatment plant, and several electric substations serving the downtown area. The city's water supply was cut in half when the primary pumps flooded.

Farther north, the Illinois River at Peoria has leveled off at about 8 1/2 feet above flood stage and was expected to begin falling.

The Mississippi at Alton, Ill., was receding after forcing the closing of two city streets and a riverside flour mill.

Comanche County officials vow to oppose 'con artists'

LAWTON, Okla. — Comanche County law enforcement agencies have warned that confidence artists posing as contractors and home repairmen preying on tornado victims will be prosecuted.

District Attorney Dick Tannery pledged to vigorously prosecute any "fly-by-night" contractors. He said he already is investigating a case where an elderly woman was bilked out of $1,000.

Tannery said the con man told the woman he was sent by her insurance company to repair roof damage. He reportedly told the woman she would need a new roof and convinced her to pay him $1,000.

The man left without making any repairs and cashed the check almost immediately, Tannery said.

He said the problem lies in "elderly people or people who have never been involved in a disaster having to deal with all types of contractors, including some unscrupulous persons who are trying to make a fast buck from the disaster."

He warned storm victims to get full identification and check "credentials of contractors before making any payments."

The tornado that struck Lawton on April 10 caused $10 million in damages.

Mangum Rattlesnake Derby set this weekend

By BERNICE JONES Correspondent

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — The 14th annual Mangum Rattlesnake Derby and Flea Market opens Friday and continues through Sunday.

The annual event is sponsored by Mangum Chamber of Commerce. The rattlesnake hunt will be held all three days with caravans going out each day, said fangmaster R. O. Heatly. A snake pit will be in the downtown headquarters. Lectures, demonstrations on milking of rattlesnakes and instructions will be given on catching and handling snakes.

Prizes and trophies will be awarded to the hunter catching the largest snake, the smallest snake, most pounds of snakes and the most snakes. Marked snakes worth $25 will be released in the area.

One of the major highlights of the derby is the crowning of the 1979 Rattlesnake Princess. Any Greer County girl of high school age is eligible to compete. Coronation of the princess will be Saturday. Reigning derby princess is Dorothy Barron.

This year, Lulu Roman of "Hee Haw" will make an appearance Sunday at First Baptist Church. The actress, who calls herself "both a comedian and heavy," will sing and tell of her experiences and the dramatic change in her life brought about through faith in God.

A new feature at this year's derby will be helicopter rides during the three-day festival.

Free parking for campers, motor homes and travel trailers will be available for visitors.

Mass murder suspect awaiting transfer to jail

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Authorities were waiting Tuesday for a formal court order allowing them to transfer mass murder suspect Roger Dale Stafford from a mental hospital to the Oklahoma County Jail. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for April 30 on the first-degree murder charge lodged against Stafford. Stafford is expected to be transferred from Eastern State Hospital at Vinita sometime this week. The 27-year-old Alabama drifter was ruled sane Monday and able to stand trial. Stafford has spent the past 25 days undergoing psychiatric examinations at the Vinita mental hospital. Authorities have said they believe Stafford and his late brother, Harold, were responsible for nine Oklahoma murders last summer. The brothers have allegedly been linked by Stafford's estranged wife, Verna, to more than 20 killings around the United States. Stafford has been charged with murdering Terri M. Horst, 15, one of six steakhouse employees murdered in a restaurant walk-in freezer here last July 16 in Oklahoma's worst mass murder. Investigators also allege that the Stafford brothers killed the three-member Melvin Lorenz family of San Antonio, Texas, June 22. Their bodies were found along Interstate 35 about 35 miles south of here, near Purcell. Harold Stafford died in a Tulsa motorcycle accident last summer. Stafford is also a suspect in the 1974 killing of Jimmy Berry, 19, a restaurant employee in Muscle Shoals, Ala., Muscle Shoals police Lt. Robert Hall said. Muscle Shoals Detective Ray Ridgeway said in a telephone interview that police have recovered a .22-caliber Ruger pistol from Tennessee authorities who confiscated the gun from Stafford when he was picked up while hitchhiking near Murfreesboro, Tenn., shortly after the Alabama slaying. Investigators say they were led to Stafford by his estranged wife Verna, who returned voluntarily from Chicago and is being held in protective custody here. Authorities planned to decide Thursday whether to continue holding Mrs. Stafford in protective custody at an apartment or whether to jail her for her own protection. One of the slayings Mrs. Stafford has allegedly implicated Stafford and his brother in was the murder of four Burger Chef employees Nov. 22 in Speedway, Ind.

Plutonium smuggling said possible

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A Nuclear Regulatory Commission investigator testified Tuesday he thinks Karen Silkwood had the means, access and opportunity to smuggle plutonium out of the nuclear fuel plant where she worked. On cross-examination, Gerald Phillip, 54, of Glen El-lyn, Ill., said his conclusions about the contamination of Miss Silkwood and her Edmond, Okla., apartment are strictly his personal opinion.

The investigation did not reveal how the contamination occurred. That's the official AEC position, isn't it?" Silkwood lawyer Gerry Spence asked.

"Yes, sir," Phillip said. Later he said the then-Atomic Energy Commission report "is not intended to contain opinion."

Miss Silkwood's survivors are suing Kerr-McGee for $11.5 million alleging negligence in connection with her contamination. The company contends she contaminated herself, possibly while spiking her urine samples.

She was a lab technician at the nuclear fuel plant when she died in a Nov. 13, 1974, auto crash.

Phillip testified about a conference with Kerr-McGee management employees shortly after he arrived on Nov. 8, 1974, to investigate the contamination incident. The investigator was asked if the Kerr-McGee personnel thought Miss Silkwood had contaminated herself.

"I'm not totally sure, but I think they may have indicated some suspicions along that line," Phillip said.

In a meeting in chambers before court convened this morning, Kerr-McGee lawyers revealed they intend to recall a former plant worker, Randy Snodgrass of Guthrie, to challenge his earlier testimony about the alleged forgery of his signatures on health and safety class attendance sheets.

U.S. District Judge Frank G. Theis of Wichita, Kan., signed an order requiring Snodgrass to appear April 24.

The company attorneys said they planned to call a handwriting expert who would testify about the signatures and two or three witnesses who would testify they saw Snodgrass in the training sessions.

Before finishing Phillip's direct testimony, Kerr-McGee lawyer Bill Paul read into evidence some of the conclusions in the AEC's contamination incident report. Among them was the finding Miss Silkwood's apartment had been

Branch banking ban still stands

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A federal judge's order upholding Oklahoma's ban on branch banking is still standing because the U.S. comptroller did not follow through on an appeal, a spokesman for the Oklahoma Independent Bankers Association says.

Jack T. Crabtree said the comptroller filed an appeal, but it was dismissed for failure to prosecute.

"In effect, it leaves us with the current state law," Crabtree said.

permissible amount of plutonium.

Witnesses for the Silkwood estate testified earlier Miss Silkwood was "married to lung cancer" because of the plutonium she had inhaled. They said as little as one one-millionth of a gram — an amount the size of a pollen grain — can cause cancer.

Fred Daugherty to halt the U.S. comptroller of the currency's decision to permit the First National Bank of Okmulgee to open a branch.

The bank last year asked for federal approval to open the branch and the comptroller had agreed with the bank's interpretation of the state law on banking.

Daugherty granted a temporary restraining order Oct. 4, 1978.

Crabtree said the comptroller appealed the order to the U.S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver.

Mother recounts night of terror

By HELEN BURDICK
Staff Writer

Richard Swift, and his wife, Linda, Monday afternoon said goodbye to their family... two daughters, Audra and Kari, victims of last week's tornado.

Services were held for the girls at Our Lady Queen of Peace Catholic Church, and although an abundance of floral arrangements were on the altar, only pictures of the two were in view. Their ashes were in urns at Crestview Memorial Park.

Mrs. Swift, only recently released from the hospital, decided, "my daughters were not going to be buried in a dark hole in the ground. I went to the funeral home and looked at their bodies for two nights. I thought, 'those aren't my daughters. My babies are gone, they're gone!' I want them to be free, not in the ground."

Mrs. Swift was at home when the family home on Tower Street was destroyed. Richard, her husband, was at Pizza Inn where he works. "I'm lucky God spared him for me," Mrs. Swift said.

Her mother, Mrs. Earl Murphy, said Mrs. Swift was "doing better" but "we had a hard time finding a dress for her to wear to the funeral."

Students from Fowler School were at the services for Audra, 11, who was a sixth grader, and Kari, 5, who had been a kindergarten student there.

"I can't believe this has all happened," the mother of the dead girls cried. And she recounted the night of the storm because "I've got to talk about it."

"I looked out the back window and saw this terrible black cloud. . . we were so frightened. . . I told the girls to get in the tub and I went to Audra's room and jerked the covers off and got the mattress—while I was trying to drag it into the bathroom, Kari asked me—she broke off and wept. 'She asked me, 'Mom, can I have a snack?' Oh God, how she loved to have a snack. . . and she took her bag of Cheetos in the tub."

"I held onto the mattress as hard as I could and once Audra reached for my hand and said, 'Mommy, I'm scared.'"

And we prayed. Oh, God, how we prayed. Then it hit us like a gigantic meat-grinder, churning and tearing at everything. . . I couldn't hold on to the mattress anymore—and we were thrown out—the bathtub went, too.

"When I looked up I was on my back. Everything had happened so fast. I never lost consciousness. . . I looked around and I began to scream. I crawled around in all the debris until I found Kari. She was breathing. I kept saying, 'wake up baby, please wake up.'"

"I screamed for Audra, and when I found her I tried to hold her up, but my entire body began to shake. . . I couldn't be still and I prayed that I could so I could tend to the girls."

"I begged Audra to open her eyes and I kept screaming for help. . . a neighbor, Steve Broadhurst, came over, and Rusty Eubanks, from across the street, came over and said, 'Oh my God.' . . he picked up Audra and put her on the sidewalk."

"Almost everything else was a blur. . . I remember someone giving Audra mouth to mouth resuscitation, and he stopped and said, 'she's gone.' She can't be, I screamed and begged him to try one more time."

"When Richard got home, he asked about the kids, and I said, 'Audra's dead' and he went crazy."

She stopped. "It's hard to remember. . . everything. . . there were a lot of people—oh, God, the people were wonderful, I wish I knew who all of them were so I could say, 'thank you'."

"At the hospital, I told them, don't knock me out. I've got to find out where my baby is."

Richard Swift found his younger daughter later that evening—in the morgue at another hospital.

"I know there are hard days ahead for me. . . and there will be so many things to remember. . . the ugliness of the storm, the aftermath, the agony, and the man she turned to as they were taking her to the hospital, and begged: 'Please watch my baby.' . . they told me later that he never left Audra's body—he stayed with her until they took her away."

Where you can help!

(Editor's Note: Many individuals are concerned with what they can do to help those who have been tornado victims with specific needs, such as doing laundry, transporting people to appointments or providing hot meals and supplies. To offer information on any small, individual aid that can be given, the following column will run daily in the Wichita Falls Times and Record News family pages.)

● Persons whose homes have been affected by the tornado and who have no laundry facilities may contact Mrs. William Jones at 691-0240, who says she will be glad to do some laundry.

● Mrs. Joe Patterson, wife of the pastor of First Baptist Church at Dean in Clay County, said that little community east of Wichita Falls has "more than enough food" in response to earlier requests.

"In fact we have so much we are sending some to residents on Hampstead Lane in Wichita Falls, those who were hit so hard."

"The churches have been sending women to help with serving the food, and they've been bringing food, also." Many homes were heavily damaged; some demolished, in the immediate Dean area.

● Neighbors also may volunteer their time to take a child (without transportation because of the tornado) to a music lesson.

● Other needs will be picking up clothes from the cleaners, providing a mattress or going to the grocery store for tornado victims.

● Peggy Darter of Community Council Voluntary Action Center, phone 723-4194, said that group needs registered volunteers to take children to the North Texas Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center at 516 Denver.

"This is because regular volunteers whose homes were damaged have not been able to work. Also, the car that the Red Cross had supplied is being used in the disaster area," she said.

"We need volunteers to pick up children at 11 a.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and at 9 a.m. on Thursday. Volunteers should drop by Voluntary Action Center, Seventh and Scott, in the Executive Building for instructions."

AAUW book sale slated

The American Association of University Women's annual used book sale will get under way Saturday at 711 10th according to Helen Grace Gould, in charge of publicity for the sale.

"We had anticipated postponing the sale," Miss Gould said, "but there is a possibility the building may be rented before we plan to end the sale. We want to sell as many books as quickly as we can so we won't have to move them."

Hours will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and plans are to run the sale through Saturday April 28. People should take advantage of the first few days in case the sale ends early. Those wishing to donate books may bring them to the sale.

"We have hundreds of books of every description," Miss Gould said, "but we will always take any people may have they want to donate."

Proceeds are used for scholarships for deserving girls to attend colleges of their choice.

Special meeting

There will be a special meeting April 26 at 7:30 p.m. on the subject of "Parenting Alone," according to Barbara Cornelius, county extension agent.

Miss Patsy Lamson, Family Life specialist with the Texas Extension Service, will be the featured speaker. It will be held in the community room of North Texas Federal Savings and Loan, 2733 Midwestern Parkway.

The meeting will be geared toward the single parent. The program is The public is invited to attend and there will be no charge.

The wedding will be April 27. The bride-elect attended Harold High School and the future groom attended schools in Corpus Christi and is employed by the City of Electra.

Ann Landers Says Both of them need to compromise

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a man who gets furious when he wakes up and finds his wife has gotten out of bed before him and is therefore not available for instant sex? I try to be cooperative to keep peace, but some days I must get up earlier than "B" does, and frankly there are mornings when I beat him out of bed on purpose because I don't want to face the "ritual." When that happens, he retaliates with verbal abuse and petty punishment. ("You can't use the car today.")

"B" is 42 and can't get much going at night, but he's rarin' to go in the morning—sometimes as early as 4:00 a.m. (After which I can't get back to sleep.) He claims I am selfish and inconsiderate when I refuse him and quotes doctors as saying, "Repressed sexual drives are unhealthy." He also insists something must be wrong with me because I have to force myself to go along with what comes so naturally to him.

I used to believe we could work this problem out if each of us gave a little, but the man won't compromise. Can you help? — Pooped In California

Dear Pooped: Sex can be a weapon—punishment for displaced anger. It can also be withheld for a variety of reasons. I'm not attempting to analyze your problem but perhaps these insights might be helpful.

You don't say what is required of you in terms of time and energy. If it's only a few minutes you should agree to accommodate "B" in exchange for his promise to leave you alone before the alarm clock goes off.

Dear Ann Landers: I received a letter this morning from my grandson—age 11. It was full of misspelled words and grammatical errors. (NOTE TO EDITOR: LEAVE "MISPELLED" AS IS.) Should I (a) correct his mistakes and send the letter back to him; (b) say something to his parents about the kind of education he is getting; (c) ignore the mistakes?

Too bad our young people today are growing up with so little grounding in the basic skills they will need to get them through life. I await your decision, Ann. — Vexed In Lexington

Dear Vexed: Please don't return (a) your grandson's letter with corrections, or (b) tell his parents about the errors. Both would be unforgivable. Be happy that the boy wrote to you. I hear from dozens of grannies who would be thrilled to get any kind of letter from their grandchildren.

Incidentally, dear, you misspelled "misspelled." (There are two s's in it.) Should I return your letter—or write to your parents?

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." ## Storm cloud alarms Vernon

By BRENDA SIMMONS
VERNON, Texas — A "familiar" dark storm cloud passed over Vernon Tuesday, a week after a similar cloud produced a tornado that devastated the community.

"It (the cloud) did look familiar, but thank goodness it passed on over us," City Manager Sam Phelps said. Vernon received only a short but heavy rain from the cloud.

While the eerie and suspicious weather moved across Vernon, city commissioners passed a resolution authorizing U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to assume the city's cleanup process beginning Wednesday.

Phelps said the corps will remove debris from both public and private property after the owners have signed releases.

An office of the engineers was being established Tuesday at Wilbarger Auditorium, Phelps said.

"We (City of Vernon) will be cleaning the debris off through today (Tuesday)," Phelps said.

Homeless Vernon residents also are waiting for federal housing to relocate in their town.

"I understand some trailer houses were on the way here but they haven't arrived yet," Phelps said.

Some 155 homes and 12 businesses were destroyed in last week's twister, which also left 11 persons dead.

Young County Heart Association president elected

GRAHAM, Texas (Special) — Young County Heart Association has elected Pat Wallace president of the county organization.

Wallace is Graham General Hospital administrator. He will replace Tom Zorns.

Other officers elected include Allen Mann, vice president; Nita McAfee, secretary; and Dwight Coker, treasurer.

The drive chairman, Mrs. Janet Donnell, said Young County has exceeded its 1979 goal with $12,900 to date. Cherry Meredith has been in charge of Olney activities.

Graham responds to tornado victims

GRAHAM, Texas (Special) — Graham residents have joined the lengthy list of neighboring cities responding to the need for food, clothing and furniture in Wichita Falls.

A spokesman for a Graham radio station KSWA said residents of Graham and Young County filled a moving van with needed items in a 24-hour period Friday and Saturday.

He said the van filled with donated items was transferred Saturday afternoon to the Salvation Army in Wichita Falls for distribution. Use of the van was donated by an Olney, Texas, firm, and it was driven by volunteers from Graham.

Donated food

Dean disaster totals reveal grim story of destruction

By JOE BROWN
Regional Staff Writer

DEAN, Texas — No highway signs along U.S. 79 tell the population of this Clay County community, but figures being tallied in disaster headquarters at First Baptist Church here reveal a grim story of destruction from last week's tornado.

Dean Mayor Bob Reese said the Red Cross estimate that 66 homes were destroyed has been increased to 67 in the Dean area northeast of Wichita Falls. In all, Reese said 239 homes in the area were damaged or destroyed.

The twister that dropped from the skies west of Wichita Falls last week stayed on the ground for more than 20 miles. After cutting completely across Wichita Falls, the storm continued through the rural areas of Clay County.

Reese said the bulk of the damage was done in the area around Homestead Lane, Tamm Road, U.S. 79 and FM 2393 that runs between Dean and Jolly, Texas.

Clay County commissioners sent bulldozers to Dean and officials have buried from 50 to 75 dead cattle and horses, he said. "This has really brought the people of Clay County together," the mayor said. "We were feeding up to 350 people every meal for a while right after the storm, but these figures have gone down."

Now, he said, there are about 50 for breakfast and then 200 to 225 for lunch and about 175 to 200 for the evening meals.

"At first it was the women from this community who were serving and helping distribute the clothing and food, but people from all across the county have come in and helped and it has made us much closer," he said.

Reese also praised the Red Cross for its cooperation, saying there were two staffers taking disaster aid applications and a mobile unit was moving food to workers in other areas of the county suffering damage from the twister.

Since Dean First Baptist Church was headquarters, the pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Joe Patterson, were active in directing activities in the center.

No deaths occurred in the area, but six were hospitalized and some still are listed as critical, said Reese.

Electricity and telephone service have been restored, he said, but house trailers for some elderly residents are badly needed and their applications are being processed by the disaster teams.

"If we had the trailers, we could be self-sufficient," the mayor said.

One woman sitting in the center complained that it took two days before the general public even knew what had happened in her community. "They just kept saying the tornado struck Wichita Falls and continued on out the Waurika highway. They never told of all this destruction and losses."

Mrs. Patterson said they had plenty of food and clothing donated for the residents, but they could use some new pillows and men's underwear.

From the roads it appeared that Dean residents were much further along in clearing debris from around their homes, but this could be because the homes were so distant from each other and thus easier to work.

A disaster fund to aid tornado victims in Clay County has been started at the First National Bank of Byers. Joe Davidson, vice president, said checks should be made out to "Clay County Disaster Fund" and mailed into the bank. The money will be used to aid residents of the area between Dean, Jolly and Petrolia.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To American National Life and Health Insurance Policyowners in Wichita Falls and Vernon

During the period of emergency which now exists because of the recent tornadoes, your company is offering special assistance by:

1. EXTENDING PREMIUM PAYMENT TIME

Policyowners prevented by tornado damage from paying American National life or health insurance premiums on time will be granted an additional 31 days for payment of premiums, without any interest charge. This applies where the regular grace period for the policy expires between April 10 and May 11, 1979.

2. RAPID SERVICE ON LOAN APPLICATIONS

If extra cash is essential to meet emergency needs, contact your American National representative or branch office regarding the amount of loans available to you on your life policy or policies.

3. PRIORITY SERVICE ON CLAIMS PAYMENT

Arrangements have been made to expedite claims from policyowners or their dependents. Immediate service may be obtained by contacting your American National representative or your nearest American National branch office.

IMPORTANT!

If you have relocated temporarily or permanently, notify your American National branch office promptly of your new address in order for policyowner service to continue. American National representatives will assist policyowners who have lost policies and will be happy to answer questions concerning their insurance.

Anti-ERA suit moved to federal court

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A lawsuit to force withdrawal of Washington state's approval of the federal Equal Rights Amendment on grounds that Congress illegally extended the ratification deadline has been moved to the federal courts, state officials said Tuesday.

Three state legislators filed the action in the Washington State Supreme Court last month, saying a state resolution of ratification that mentioned Congress' initial March 22, 1979, deadline of ratification was null and void.

More than 20 states mentioned that deadline when they ratified the ERA, the legislators said. In all, 35 have ratified the measure, although five states have since rescinded their resolutions.

In asking that the issue be transferred to a U.S. District Court, assistant U.S. Attorney Harry McCarthy argued the suit raises "issues of national significance."

Resolution of the lawsuit "affects not only ... the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, but all future proposed constitutional amendments, the role of Congress in proposing them, and the role of the states in ratifying them," he said in the federal brief.

Three Republicans legislators, Reps. Dick Bond and Claude Oliver and Sen. Kent

Pullen had asked the state court to order Gov. Dixy Lee Ray and Washington Secretary of State Bruce Chapman to retrieve the resolution from the U.S. General Services Administrator.

Acting GSA Administrator Paul Goulding then asked that the case be shifted to the federal courts because he is a federal official and would be required to send the ratification document back to Washington state if the suit was successful.

Goulding "has no authority to evaluate the legal sufficiency of the certificates or to relinquish a certificate of ratification received from a state" — as the lawmakers are demanding, said McCarthy.

Under the extended deadline approved by Congress, the Equal Rights Amendment, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex, must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982, to become part of the Constitution.

The states that have rescinded approval are South Dakota, Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska. Kentucky's action was vetoed. The validity of efforts to rescind approval is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide.

Widup resigns library post

ALTUS, Okla. (Special) — Southern Prairie Library System's director of libraries, Rama Widup, has resigned her position and will move to Austin where she has been accepted in the doctoral program at the University of Texas.

Announcement of Mrs. Widup's resignation came after a SPLS executive session and her resignation will become effective July 31. She became SPLS director in June 1975.

ATTENTION DISASTER VICTIMS

Victims of W/F tornado who are Texas Farmers Insurance Company policyholders should report their claims immediately, according to James MacKinnon, president. He said victims insured with other member companies of Farmers Insurance Group should follow the same procedure.

Mr. MacKinnon said that a special Farmers Disaster Team has been rushed to the devastated area and a local Disaster Office has been set up at 3006 Midwestern Pkwy. Phone 692-0953 "We expect several thousand claims to be made for damage done by this tornado," said Mr. MacKinnon. "We urge our policyholders who have claims to promptly contact our Emergency Office in the disaster areas."

He said that these instructions apply to claims for home, business, automobile and their property.

Incorrigible student bill advances in House

AUSTIN (AP) — Teachers harassed by abusive or disruptive students could kick them out of class for the rest of the school term under a bill that won tentative House approval Tuesday.

The bill advanced on voice vote, but an attempt to bring it up for final passage failed to get the necessary four-fifths vote, 81-52. Passage is expected next week.

Both liberals and conservatives supported the measure (HB8), a priority bill of both the Texas State Teachers Association and the Texas Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

Teachers contended in committee hearings that they need independent authority to eject "incorrigible" pupils because some principals are weak-kneed about discipline. Principals and superintendents still will have a voice, but the thrust of the bill is to give teachers more control over their classes.

A teacher could eject and recommend suspension of any pupil who assaults him or her or has a record of disrupting the teacher's ability to communicate with the class.

The principal would have to hold a hearing within three school days and could suspend the student from school or the particular teacher's class for the rest of the school year.

If the principal returned the pupil to class under probation, and the student again was disruptive, the teacher could remove him or her from class permanently.

The student could appeal, but the teacher could be reversed only if the principal and the local superintendent both agreed to do so. On a third offense, it would take agreement by the principal, the superintendent and the local school board to send a student back to class.

Rep. Reby Cary, D-Fort Worth, was the only legislator to speak out against the bill. He said teachers might use such minor infractions as gum chewing to document a case of "incorrigibility."

"Minorities might be victims of arbitrary action for behavior that is labeled incorrigible. It should be left in the hands of the school board," Cary said.

Rep. Carlisle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, the sponsor, said teachers wouldn't be able to get away with abusing the power he wants to give them. Abuses, he said, would come to the school board's attention through the appeal process and probably would result in dismissal of the offending teachers.

"A teacher may be at fault, and we would be able to find that out in the process," agreed Rep. Ron Coleman, D-Bel Paso.

Jenkins goes 3-0 with six-hit win over Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins and Jim Kern combined for a six-hitter and Buddy Bell drove in three runs as the Texas Rangers beat the Cleveland Indians 6-2 Tuesday.

Jenkins picked up his third victory this season, his second against the Indians, going 51-3 innings before giving way to Kern.

The Rangers, who have beaten Cleveland the last 13 times the teams have played, jumped on Cleveland starter Rick Waits, 1-2, for their first four runs, including Bell's sacrifice fly to center in the sixth, which broke a 1-1 deadlock.

Jenkins gave up three hits, including Andre Thornton's lead-off homer in the fifth, Cleveland's first hit of the game. The big right hander left with one out and two on in the sixth and Kern got out of that jam on a ground ball and a foul to the catcher.

Kern walked four and gave up an infield single to Bobby Bonds in the eighth inning to load the bases. But Kern struck out Toby Harrah and Thornton to end the threat.

The Rangers scored their first run in the fourth on a double by rookie Bill Sample and Richie Zisk's two-out single. They broke the game open with three runs in the sixth.

Bump Wills and Sample opened the inning with infield singles, moved up a base on a sacrifice, and Wills scored on Bell's sacrifice. Zisk walked and John Ellis and Jim Sundberg followed with run-scoring singles that chased Waits. Bell also had a run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly to center.

The Indians struck out 12 times, with Jenkins and Kern each fanning six.

Kern, who picked up his first save of the season, was in trouble in each of the four innings he pitched. However, he held the Indians to one run. That came in the bottom of the ninth on a leadoff walk to Gary Alexander, a single by Duane Kuiper and a two-out single by Jim Norris.

Texas, now 7-1 this season and 4-0 against the Indians, scored a run off reliever Dan Spillner in the seventh on a two-out single by Al Oliver and Bell's double down the left-field line.

The Rangers added a run in the ninth off Len Barker on singles by Sample and Oliver and another sacrifice fly to center by Bell.

The Indians, now 2-7, left nine runners stranded, while Texas, which pounded out 12 hits off four Cleveland pitchers, left eight on base.

Texas Wesleyan could forfeit 12 TAC victories

By YALE YOUNGBLOOD
and DOUG BROWN
Staff Sports Writers

Texas Wesleyan College baseball officials may be wishing they were still playing baseball back in the early days of the sport, when there wasn't that much strategy involved — like a designated hitter or courtesy runner.

As it turns out, it just might be one of those Section Z, Article 38, Paragraph 10, additions to the collegiate baseball rulebooks that cost Texas Wesleyan a chance in the NAIA baseball playoffs this spring.

Ron Freeman, a player who was used as a courtesy runner for the TWC catchers this season, is one of two players that reportedly are ineligible and will cost the Rams several conference games, according to an article published recently in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Depending on which Texas Athletic Conference officials concurred, Texas Wesleyan may have to forfeit anywhere from six to 12 conference victories, putting the Rams, ranked No. 14 in the latest NAIA national poll, on the bottom of the TAC standings.

According to the latest TAC report, the Rams will forfeit at least eight of their conference victories, and possibly all 10 of the wins they earned during the first half of the league schedule. Should that be the final decision, all three of the TAC opponents — Lubbock Christian, Dallas Baptist and Midwestern — will still have a shot at a District 8 wildcard playoff berth. Before the ineligibility ruling, Texas Wesleyan led the conference with a 10-2 record, followed by LCC at 7-5, Midwestern at 5-7 and Dallas Baptist at 2-10.

Add to that the fact that Dallas Baptist defeated Texas Wesleyan in three of four games during weekend action, and the TAC standings now look like this: Lubbock Christian, 10-2; Midwestern, 7-5; Dallas Baptist, 5-7, and Texas Wesleyan, 2-14. Midwestern, which had its four-game series with Lubbock Christian last week indefinitely postponed because of the tor-

Atlanta stuns Bullets, 107-99

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — John Drew and Tree Rollins, ineffective in an opening game loss, combined for 16 fourth quarter points to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 107-99 victory over the Washington Bullets in the second game of their National Basketball Association quarterfinal playoffs Tuesday night.

With the best-of-7 series tied at 1-1, the action shifts to Atlanta for game No. 3 Friday night. The Hawks have won 17 in a row on their homecourt.

Drew, Atlanta's leading scorer during the regular season, made only eight points in the opening game Sunday while being shackled in foul trouble. He encountered the same difficulty in this game, but came off the bench at the start of the fourth quarter to lead the winning surge.

Drew had only four points entering the final period while Rollins, who was scoreless in the first game, scored six of his 13 points in the last quarter.

Spurs 121, 76ers 120

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — George Gervin and Larry Kenon combined for 56 points and Mike Gale and Allan Bristow had key free throws in the final 12 seconds Tuesday night as San Antonio edged Philadelphia 121-120 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series.

Julius Erving cut San Antonio's lead to 119-118 when he stuffed a rebound with 16 seconds left. As the Spurs brought the ball in, Gale, a reserve guard, was fouled by Philadelphia's Maurice Cheeks.

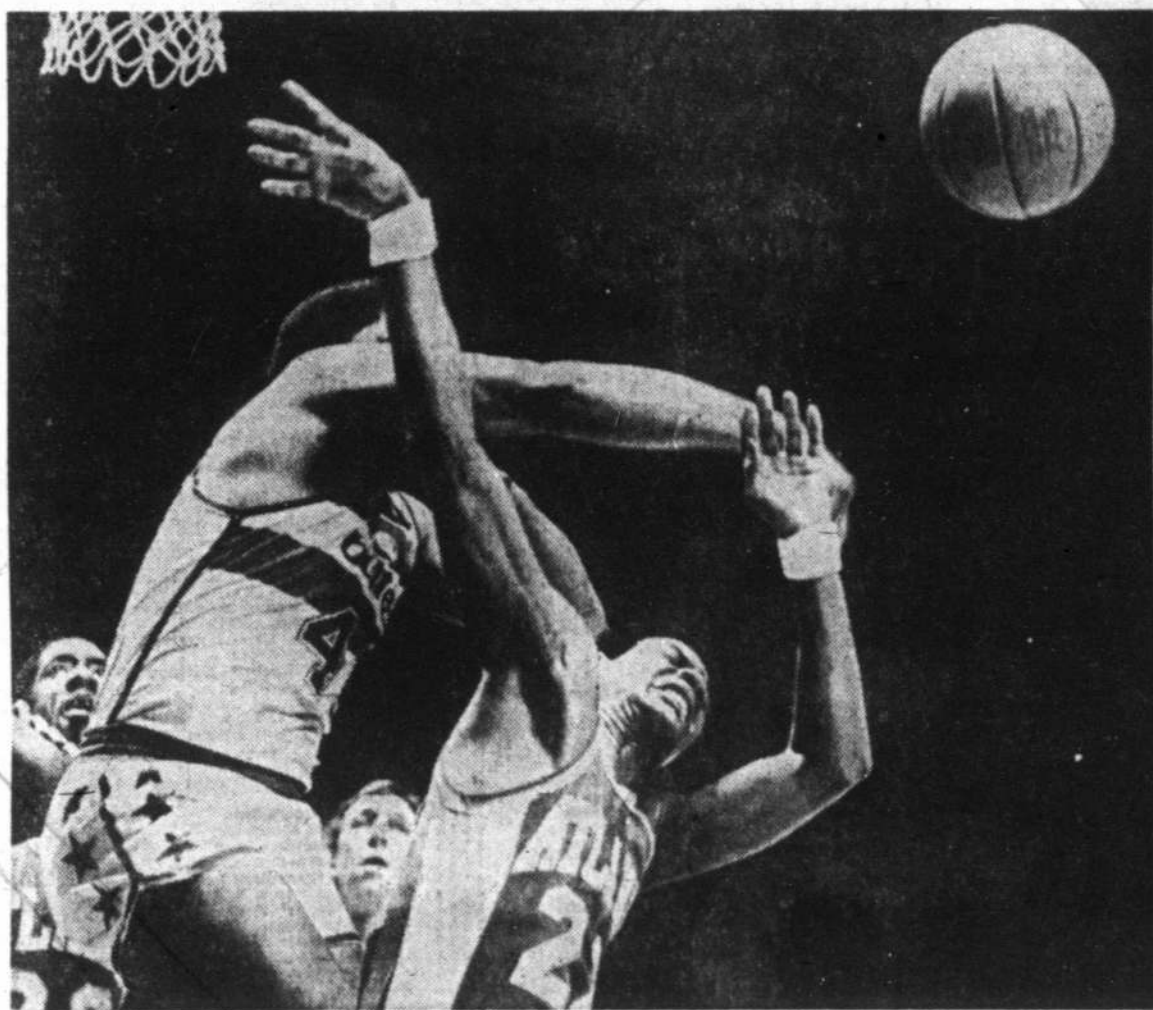

Gale hit his first free throw but missed the second to give San Antonio a 120-118 lead.

As the 76ers brought the ball down the floor, Cheeks made an errant pass out of bounds, giving the Spurs back the ball. Bristow took the in-bounds pass and was fouled by Erving, then missed the first free throw but hit the second one in the penalty situation to ice the victory.

Cheeks hit a meaningless basket at the buzzer.

quarter to beat the Kansas City Kings 102-99 in the opener of their NBA Western Conference semi-final series.

The best of seven series resumes Friday night at Kansas City. Phoenix, which had a 31-30 first-half lead, found itself trailing by nine points, 58-49, at halftime, as they hit on only 25 percent of their shots from the field in the second quarter.

HHS resumes baseball play

The Hirschi Huskies will resume their tornado-interrupted baseball season Thursday and Friday with a pair of District 4-AAA baseball games on the road.

The Huskies, 8-3 and 2-2 in district, will play Burk Burnett Thursday at 4 p.m. in Burk Burnett in a first-half district game and will play Vernon Friday at 4 p.m. in Vernon in a second-half encounter.

The Huskies cannot play at Hoskins Field presently because of tornado damage at the facility.

The Vernon game was originally scheduled for April 13 at Hoskins Field while the Burk game was originally scheduled in Burk Burnett on April 10, the day of the tornado.

With the addition of the Tribe's 10 stolen bases, Midwestern has now achieved 80 base thefts on the season — just 20 shy of their pre-season goal.

"We just didn't have our rhythm down in the first game. It was the first time any of the players had picked up a bat in a week and its hard to forget what happened (Tuesday's tornado) last week," MSU coach Mark Benedetto said.

Since Hoskins Field will not be repaired before this weekend, Midwestern will have to play its remaining home series against Texas Wesleyan at Shepherd Air Force Base. There will be separate double-headers on either Friday and Saturday, or Saturday and Sunday. Starting times have not been decided.

NASL strikers seek support

Garvey meets with New York Cosmos

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ed Garvey and a dozen striking North American Soccer League players huddled with the Cosmos Tuesday in their Giants Stadium locker room looking for support of the troubled walkout.

Garvey, the executive director of the NASL Players Association, was accompanied first by striking Cosmos Bobby Smith, Gary Etherington and Joe Filion for a 75-minute meeting with the team in the presence of the Cosmos front office and officials of Warner Communications, the team's parent company.

The striking players, which included nine members of the Fort Lauderdale Strikers, two players from the Washington Diplomats and one from the Rochester Lancers, then met behind closed doors with the Cosmos for close to two hours.

"We had a wide open discussion and a good one," Garvey said. "They all recognize Warner Communications won't take action against players that strike. They saw that players came here putting their careers on the line and to please understand their situation."

The NASLPA called a strike Friday when league owners once again refused to recognize the organization as the collective bargaining agent for the players. The Cosmos, who originally voted 20-2 to strike, wound up playing their game Saturday night in Atlanta with a full contingent of players.

The Cosmos foreign stars — including Franz Beckenbauer, Dennis Tueart, Carlos Alberto — all changed their minds to play after Warner officials assured them they would not face deportation for breaking a sanctioned strike.

The Cosmos, according to Warner boss Steve Ross, were the only NASL team to support recognition of the union at the last vote.

"The temporary H-1 and H-2 work permits should be invalid because of the work stoppage," Garvey said. "We had assurances on Friday that the Department of Labor certified the strike."

Garvey said he has no desire to see the foreign players who played last weekend deported.

"The union has never wanted to see anyone deported and statements to the contrary are rubbish. We do want the law complied with," he said. "In the event of a strike temporary alien workers should not work. People have been successfully intimidated the aliens to go to work."

Texas signs star recruit

CINCINNATI (AP) — LaSalle Thompson, one of the nation's more sought-after schoolboy basketball players, announced Tuesday that he has signed a national letter of intent with the University of Texas.

The 6-foot-10 center, who led Withrow High School to a No. 1 ranking in the state this year, said he had made his decision Monday night after meeting with Texas Coach Abe Lemons.

But it was Thompson's being caught in the crossfire over a recruiting incident that helped make up his mind not to attend college locally.

Thompson said he "most probably" would have attended the University of Cincinnati if he hadn't become involved in an incident in which the National Collegiate Athletic Association said "a representative of the university's athletic interests" had a hand in buying Thompson some clothes.

The NCAA said Thompson would be ineligible for post-season tournament competition if he decided to attend Cincinnati.

"I just decided it was too much of a hassle to fight the NCAA," Thompson said.

The incident came out during Cincinnati's in-house investigation into alleged NCAA violations.

So, although he had some contact with more than 300 schools during the recruiting process, the final decision came between Texas, Kansas State and Hawaii.

He decided on Texas.

"They play a running game and I like that. I don't like a slow down game," Thompson said. "I feel I can fit right into their program."

Thompson averaged 22.4 points per game and led the city in both rebounding and shooting percentage as his team enjoyed its first unbeaten regular season since 1963.

Thompson said, however, that he had been given no promises that he would be in the Longhorns' starting lineup next season.

"Coach Lemons said he would give me a fair chance just like everybody else," Thompson said.

Lemons was another reason why Thompson decided to go to Texas.

"The coach is always a major reason for choosing a school," Thompson said, "and I like him (Lemons) as a coach."

Should scalpers be jailed?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Chet Brooks proposed Tuesday that ticket scalpers be put in jail for up to six months.

Texas' law against scalping — or selling tickets to events for more than the box office price — was repealed Jan. 1, 1976, because it did not work, Brooks said.

Since then there has been no law against ticket scalping in Texas.

The old 1941 law was administered by the state comptroller, who sold $250 licenses to persons who wanted to resell tickets.

Brooks, D-Pasadena, told the Senate Jurisprudence Committee the comptroller felt the law could not be enforced, because "outlaws" would not buy the there because North's two-club opening bid which showed 22 or 23 points was the minimum of 22 and South's three-notrump response which showed a balanced 10-12 was the minimum 10.

On the other hand if the hand were actually played the chances are that expert South would make it.

South wins the heart in dummy and plays a spade. At this point if East is careless he will play the four-spot. South will stick in the 10. Later on South will run off the hearts, cash the ace of spades and the diamonds. On the last diamond East will be squeezed in clubs and spades.

Eddy points out that East can break up the squeeze by playing a spade honor at trick two. Look the whole hand over carefully. That spade play becomes an easy one. South is known to have the queen of hearts from the opening lead. He needs both aces to come to at least 10 points. If he also holds the spade queen, East is a gone goner. Thus East should play a spade honor and break up that squeeze.

Stores announce reopening dates

By LEON HOOTEN
Business Editor

At least two stores damaged in last week's tornado have set reopening dates, said Joe White, executive vice president of Wichita Falls Board of Commerce & Industry.

"Owners of Cloth World on Call Field Road said they expect to open as early as next week, and O'Phelan's in French Village plans to be back in operation within a month," White said.

He also said the BCI has been surveying businesses damaged by the storm and has found that "most managers and owners are in excellent spirits and optimistic about reopening."

"Many business managers and owners have contractors on the job making repairs," he added.

BCI is still asking that businesses with temporary locations call the BCI at 723-2741 so an accurate list of locations can be maintained.

White said BCI has information on office, warehouse and refrigerated storage space and persons in need of such space should contact BCI.

"Also, if anyone has space available for storage use, please notify BCI," White said.

TEC aid office to open today

Texas Employment Commission will open an office at 926 Indiana Wednesday to assist last week's tornado victims who are seeking unemployment benefits.

Claimants currently filing at TEC office at 1101 Eleventh will be instructed when to relocate to the new Indiana Street location.

Unemployment assistance will continue to be available at the federal disaster centers during regular operating hours until the centers close.

TEC still has a need for all kinds of workers, both skilled and unskilled.

The TEC placement office at Eleventh and Austin is open Monday through Saturday.

Employers who need workers or who have been unable to locate workers should contact TEC at 322-5481.

Contractors are encouraged to list job openings with TEC.

Scout-O-Rama winner selected

Chuck Longhenry of Troop 31 at Sheppard AFB has been selected winner of the third week's incentive prize for Scout-O-Rama ticket sales.

Longhenry's prize will be a sleeping bag.

"Scouting Galactica," the 1979 Kiwanis-sponsored Scout circus, will be May 4-5 at the Fed Mart Building on Jack-shoro Highway.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Gambling, speculation can be costly. Advice of well-meaning friends could cause losses, if you involve yourself. Clear air with loved one. Do another a good turn; it will pay fine dividends in near future.

Record News comics missing

Several Record News comics are missing from Wednesday's Record News because last week's tornado caused a slow-down in mail delivery.

The comics include Andy Capp, Mary Worth, Rex Morgan, Wizard of Id and Fred Basset.

The Record News has obtained the Rex Morgan and Mary Worth comic strips for Monday, both of which are running in Wednesday's edition.

The Record News regrets any inconvenience to its readers.

Frederick school bond vote passes

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Frederick's $325,000 school bond election passed Tuesday by 26 votes.

The issue, which needed 60 percent of the vote to pass, was favored by Frederick voters, 506-236.

The bonds will go toward construction of eight new classrooms; one "open" concept school containing four grades; renovation of the home economics department at the high school; an addition to the high school gym, which will create a lobby; and a student lounge area.

The bond issue failed by 26 votes about five months ago, but the school board called another election for Tuesday.

AMPI among first to aid victims

By JOE BROWN
Farm Editor

WINDTHORST, Texas — Associated Milk Producers Inc. was among the first to respond to the needs of Wichita Falls after the tragic tornado of April 10.

AMPI's Western division, based in Amarillo with an office in Windthorst, dispatched a part of its stainless steel "tank trailers" fleet to Wichita Falls to haul water for the victims of the tornado. These trailers are normally used to haul Grade A raw milk and other liquid dairy products, according to O.J. McAdams, division manager and former Wichitan.

The first of the trailers reached Wichita Falls before dawn Wednesday and was immediately pressed into service. Nine more of the 5,600 gallon trailers followed and were used to service the city's two hospitals and to provide drinking water for those who needed it.

Water was hauled from neighboring cities as far away as Jacksboro and Muenster.

The tank trailers came from Windthorst, Elk City, Okla., Arlington and Fort Worth.

will begin at 7:30 p.m. April 26 in the North Texas Federal Savings & Loan Building on Midwestern Parkway, according to Barbara Cornelius, county agent.

Described as a "parenting alone" meeting, it will feature Patsy Lamson, family life specialist, as a speaker.

Mrs. Cornelius said the meeting will be geared toward the single parent and is free and open to the public.

Area crop report

VERNON, Texas — Prospects for the 1979 wheat crop are excellent, according to Emory Boring, area entomologist at the R&E Center in Lockett, Texas.

Moisture is adequate throughout the 21 North Texas counties in District 3, and wheat is making excellent growth in fields that have been fertilized.

Greenbug infestations are light and winter grain mite populations are a problem in only a few fields.

Horse show Saturday

ALTUS, Okla. — Jackson County Mounted Patrol will hold its annual spring horse show Saturday at the fairground arena in Altus, according to Mike Welch, president.

The show, starting at 10 a.m., will be judged by William Nall of Wellington, Texas, and will include halter classes for stallions, fillies, mares and geldings.

Youth classes also will be judged. More information can be obtained by calling Welch at 477-1921, or Ed Leach, vice president of the club, at 477-1338.

Three Mile Island radiation leaks sealed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — With a damaged nuclear reactor inching toward cold shutdown and radioactive iodine leaks remedied, the top federal official watching the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant went home Tuesday.

"I consider my task here completed," said Harold Denton, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's operations chief sent here by President Carter to tame the crisis that began three weeks ago.

Denton, who arrived 19 days ago when the reactor's fuel core seemed in danger of melting, held one final briefing on the task of cooling the reactor. He then returned to his home in Bethesda, Md.

He also said radiation leaks apparently had been sealed and that the small amounts of radioactive material that might be released pose no threat to public health.

Technicians are working to lower the reactor's primary cooling system from its present 245 degrees to 230 degrees through quicker cooling of steam, Denton said.

When the reactor is cooled to below the boiling point of water, engineers can take the final step of turning off the primary coolant pump, itself a source of heat, and allowing the core to cool further through the natural convection currents of the water.

Denton gave no timetable but acknowledged the process "is taking longer than I had imagined." Another official said the delay comes from a backup system that is being installed as a precaution.

Victor Stello, the NRC's director of operating reactors, will take over for Denton.

There were also these developments: —Metropolitan Edison, the plant's operator and co-owner, offered a $16 million reduction from a rate hike approved by the Public Utility Commission in March. Its original $49 million annual rate increase covered the costs of operating the reactor. But the company said the utility could be forced into bankruptcy in a matter of days if it is not permitted to obtain the re-

Another '1906-type earthquake' expected for San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It is 73 years since a mighty earthquake laid waste to San Francisco in 1906, and science is as certain as ever that another huge quake will come sometime in the city's future.

The question is when the 650-mile-long San Andreas Fault will unleash another titanic "shock" to threaten life and property and set the world's seismographs quivering.

"From what we can infer from very detailed observation over the last 10 years, we can tell strain seems to be accumulating. ... This will be released in an earthquake," says U.S. Geological Survey geophysicist Dr. William Ellsworth.

The strain comes as the great slab of the Earth's crust known as the Pacific Basin

Plate attempts to move ponderously to the north against the opposite motion of the North American continent. An earthquake will result when the growing strain finally overcomes the friction holding the two masses together along the San Andreas and they slam violently past each other.

"Someday in the future, we can expect another 1906-type earthquake," Ellsworth said. "It could be 50 years or 100 years away."

That earthquake, he said, will occur roughly along the same 350-mile line — from Hollister in the south to Cape Mendocino in the north — that shifted April 18, 1906, setting the city ablaze and sending residents screaming into the early-morning streets.

In San Francisco, the clock ticked off the 12th minute past

5 a.m. The sky brightened over the East Bay hills.

In a zone 10 to 30 miles deep, the tension between the two opposing plates along the San Andreas Fault could no longer be borne. In a single, cataclysmic heave — one of the most stupendous temblors ever recorded — the west wall of the fault rammed north, and the east wall wrenched to the south.

The quake knifed in from the north to two miles a second, shaking the tall trees in redwood country. It wrecked Santa Rosa, raced down the lonely beaches of Marin County, and into the sea, then landward again toward the Golden Gate.

Almost every city and town from Salinas north to the Oregon border suffered damage.

Scientists have calculated that the quake's magnitude on the open-ended logarithmic scale developed in the 1930s by Dr. Charles Richter was 7.9. It was one of the longest surface ruptures ever recorded from a single fault movement.

Richter's scale is a measure of ground movement, with each increase in number meaning a 10-fold increase in strength.

In San Francisco, streets wrinkled like washboards. Tons of stone and brick shook loose from the elegant City Hall, causing $6 million damage. The city's water supply ran out and a firestorm raged in the streets. At the end, the city counted more than 500 dead, 1,500 injured, 25,000 buildings destroyed and 265,000 homeless.

Mangum gas rate boosted

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — City of Mangum's board of commissioners has increased city gas rates 17 percent, based on an increase in charges to the city by Arkia Arkia Gas Co.

City officials protested the increase but it was upheld by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

City Clerk Phil Paxton said the city's increase "was a matter of necessity. We had no choice. ... the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission informed us through our attorneys that the adjustment was justified."

Mayor Jack Cossey said, "If we can prove we're victims of discrimination and unfairness, we can win our case like we did before. This appears to be an across-the-board increase. If the rate is raised for all customers and approved by Oklahoma Corporation Commission, there's not much we can do."

In a rate intervention case last October, City of Mangum won a $21,536 refund and a gas rate decrease of 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Sister city shows concern

Citizens of a town thousands of miles away have expressed their concern for a Texas town sharing the same name.

Lord Provost of Dundee, Scotland, delivered a telegram to the Record News Tuesday expressing his concern for the people of Dundee, Texas.

"Concerned to learn of recent tornado in your area. Trust town of Dundee and its residents have been spared. Best wishes," the telegram said.

Guerrillas, Israelis clash near border

By The Associated Press

Four Israeli jetfighters buzzed around Beirut Tuesday following a night-time border battle with Palestinian guerrillas that took the lives of all six infiltrators and an Israeli soldier.

The raid was the second guerrilla attempt to slice through Israeli lines in two days in an apparent campaign to sabotage the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. Palestinian guerrillas also wounded 12 people Monday in an aborted attempt to take over an El Al airliner in Brussels airport.

Witnesses reported that the Israeli warplanes swooped over Beirut for about one minute. Meanwhile, Israeli-backed Christian militiamen shelled United Nations peacekeeping troops in southern Lebanon, but no casualties were reported, a U.N. spokesman said.

The Lebanese government announced it was sending a battalion of Lebanese regulars to join U.N. forces in southern Lebanon.

An Israeli army spokesman announced in Tel Aviv that the six Palestinian infiltrators in the Monday raid were killed, one Israeli soldier died and six Israelis were wounded.

The fighting, which was said to be at such close range that hand grenades were used, occurred about 11 p.m. near the Israeli border settlement of Zarit, just south of the border.

In Beirut, Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization claimed responsibility for the raid and confirmed six of its fighters were killed during the clash.

The PLO said the attack was in retaliation for "the indiscriminate and barbaric Israeli shelling of Palestinian refugee camps and southern Lebanese villages."

The Israeli army spokesman denied reports by Lebanese officials that it was responsible for the recent rash of border shelling.

Along the Israeli-Lebanon border, residents reported hearing the boom of artillery from Monday night until noon Tuesday, but the frontier area was quiet Tuesday afternoon.

The U.N. spokesman said the Christian militiamen fired on Dutch, Irish and Senegalese battalions of the U.N. Interim Forces in Lebanon. His statement was released in Jerusalem.

The Israeli-backed militiamen, commanded by Maj. Saad Haddad, oppose the Beirut government's plan to deploy 500 Lebanese soldiers south of the Litani River in the zone policed by the seven-nation U.N. force.

The U.N. forces entered the area to ensure Israel's withdrawal last year after two divisions of the Israeli army invaded southern Lebanon to flush out Palestinian guerrillas based in the area.

So far in 1979, Israeli troops have killed 17 guerrillas in four cross-border infiltration attempts, two from Lebanon and two from Jordan.

Israel has opposed the use of Lebanese forces near the border, but the United States has been pressing to have the Lebanese army move south as a way of asserting Lebanese government control.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin met with his top ministers both Monday and Tuesday to discuss southern Lebanon, but no decision was announced.

In Kuwait, the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries expelled Egypt from its membership, cut it off from three oil industry countries run by OPEC and announced an oil embargo on oil shipments to Egypt. OPEC is a group of Arab oil exporters, not to be confused with OPEC, the broader-based Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The move follows a decision by the Arab League last month to impose an economic and political boycott against Egypt for signing a peace treaty with Israel. Egypt claims the embargo is meaningless because Egypt does not import oil.

In another action against Egypt, the organizing committee for the Arab League's planned new headquarters in Tunisia said any employees of the league secretariat who fail to report for work in Tunisia by May 26 will be fired.

The league, meeting in Iraq last month, voted to move its headquarters from Cairo to Tunis. About 440 Egyptians employed by the league secretariat will be affected by the committee's ultimatum.

Charles Carlisle of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service said most of the foods were obtained from federally donated stores of the Wichita Falls Independent School District.

Other food supplies were trucked in from warehouses in Oklahoma, Carlisle said.

Red Cross requested 15 separate food items in quantities weighing more than five tons. The Salvation Army asked for 11 items totaling about 6,000 pounds.

The food includes canned beef, canned fruits and vegetables, fruit and vegetable juices, butter, shortening and eggs, Carlisle said.

The donations are authorized by the Federal Disaster Relief Act of 1974 and by President Carter's declaration of a major disaster for this area.

USDA, in conjunction with the Texas Department of Human Resources, reminds families living or working in the designated disaster areas that they may be eligible for free food stamp benefits.

To qualify a person must live within the limits of the disaster area and have suffered a loss of income or cash resources as a result of the tornado.

The disaster area in Texas includes Wichita, Wilbarger, Clay, Baylor and Foard counties. Affected households should report their case to any of the three assistance centers.

Film on Canada set Monday

At 7:30 p.m. Monday the Wichita Falls Record News and Times will present Eastman Kodak Co.'s travel spectacular on Canada at Memorial Auditorium.

Free admission tickets to the wide-screened show that reflects Canada's diversity and beauty are available at the cashier's desk at Times Square between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily. Tickets will be distributed on a first-come, first-served basis.

"Canada — A Holiday in Pictures" is a 75-minute visual vacation north of the border. Viewers will see igloo builders of Baffin Island, skiers and the fabled Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Panoramic views of glacier-filled mountain valleys, lush floral parks and many scenes of Canada's untouched natural beauty make up the multi-image montages of the film that tours all 10 of Canada's provinces and two of its territories.

The multi-media family show also features interviews and ethnic music, recorded on location, and spirited songs composed especially for the show. An on-stage narrator serves as guide and interpreter of the land of many cultures.

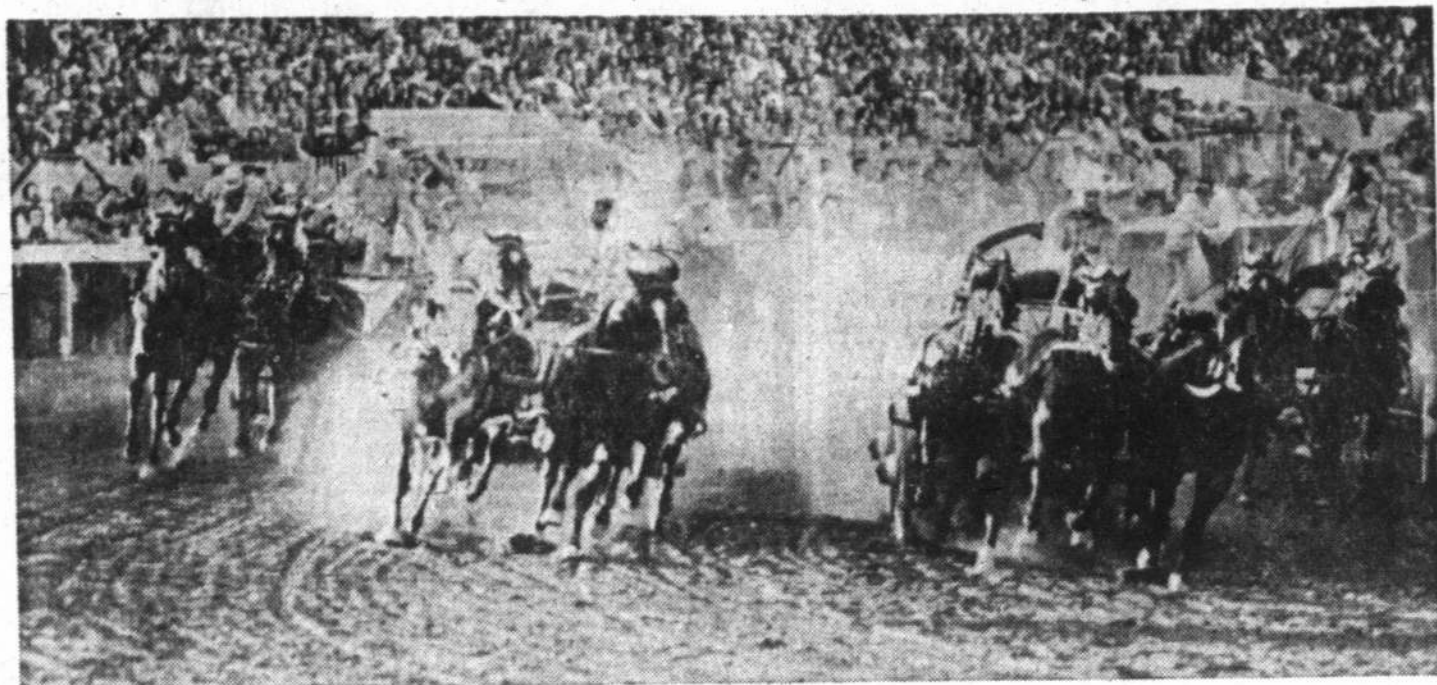

The audience will vicariously break-fast with Prince Edward Islanders, dine in some of Toronto's most fascinating eateries and enjoy tea with partons of Victoria's famed Empress Hotel. They will dance with young Scots at Cape Breton's Festival of the Tartan's, celebrate life with Cossacks in Manitoba and learn about Ukrainian Easter egg writing and Inuit soapstone carving and printmaking.

Viewers will step back through the centuries via film which shows New Brunswick's Acadian Village and Nova Scotia's Fort Louisbourg. There's a replica of the storied schooner, The Blue Nose II, and film which captures the spirit of the Old West. Buffalo riding, wild cow milking and thundering chuck wagon races will be featured. Old World charm is evident in the narrow streets of Quebec and the flower-bedecked lamp posts of British Columbia's capitol city, Victoria.

"Canada — a Holiday in Pictures" seeks out the color and contrasts that make Canada a haven for picture-takers. Subjects are almost limitless: changing of the guard on Ottawa's Parliament Hill, springtime in the Arctic Circle, summer on Saskatchewan lakes, autumn amid northern Ontario's maple leaves and winter carnival in Quebec.

Those who view the Eastman Kodak film sponsored by the Record News and Times will see Canada at its photogenic best.

Calgary Stampede

At first glance, they look like chariots right out of "Ben Hur." But these are chuckwagons, rattling contraptions making a mad dash for the finish line in the Calgary Stampede. All of the color and excitement of that stampede is featured in "Canada — A Holiday in Pictures," Kodak's newest multivision spectacular.

Jane Fonda finds her role in life

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The chin came first, jutting out with purpose from a froth of toasty blonde curls. Then the smile.

It's all ice, but it quickly thaws with one straightforward handshake. "Hi! I'm Jane Fonda."

She slides into a chair and begins to smooth out imagined wrinkles in the tablecloth. She's ready to proceed.

"I'm healthy and I'm happy and I have very deep beliefs in what I do," she says. "Take 'The China Syndrome.' I believe in the movie so much that I get high off of helping it do well."

Miss Fonda last week won the Academy Award for best actress for her role as the lonely military wife in "Coming Home."

She won an Oscar in 1972 as best actress for her performance in "Kluge," and was nominated in the same category last year for "Julia," but did not win the award.

"The China Syndrome" reflects controversy and several issues that are real and on people's minds," she says. "The film is reflecting reality."

The interview was just days before the nuclear plant accident at Harrisburg, Pa., that brought considerable public attention to Miss Fonda's latest film.

"Look," she says, "the government has just shut down five nuclear plants on the East

JANE FONDA

"People seem to think I was an activist in the '60s. I wasn't," she says. "I didn't surface until the very end. But in those five short years of involvement in the antiwar movement, I found you only move forward like a turtle unless and until other conditions are ready for everything to happen."

She also learned a lot about herself. About the pampered princess of the Hollywood glitter factory, who had a famous and adored father and a mother who committed suicide in a sanatorium when Jane was young. About the willowy method actress who found herself in sex and comic roles and few serious and demanding ones.

"Since I was put to the test, I learned that I'm perfectly prepared to lose a career if that's what is demanded, if that's what's necessary," she says in measured tones.

"I'm not afraid of being disliked for my views. I've learned that there's nothing more wonderful in life than committing yourself to a movement — to other beings who care with all of their being about making things better."

Coast because they're dangerous. The more that happens, and the more people who are utterly terrified by the movie and confused, there could be a very potent impact."

The film tells of the perils of nuclear generation. Miss Fonda plays a television news reporter who covers fluff and wants more serious assignments. She witnesses an accident at a power plant and its resultant cover-up.

"Much of our conditioning is based on the tremendous amount of public relations generally done by corporate powers in league with the government," she says.

According To Liz

Bach likely new Angel

By LIZ SMITH
Chl. Trib.-N.Y. News

Although neither her agent at ICM nor ABC-TV will confirm or deny, the actress replacing popular Kate Jackson on "Charlie's Angels" next season will be Barbara Bach, a brunette believed by many to be a foreigner because she spoke with an accent opposite Roger Moore in "The Spy Who Loved Me."

Barbara is actually a former New York model, divorced, with two children. She was seen as the only female cast member in "Force Ten From Navarone," and she'll appear as the cover girl on the October issue of Playboy. Her agent, Michael Black, predicts a fantastic career for his client. If she does become the third angel (actually she'll be the fifth one) — and I'm saying she will — Barbara will become a household name almost overnight and pick up plenty of dough from endorsements.

In the meantime, what about Kate Jackson?

Here's what Kate said to me when we talked briefly recently: "Liz, I am so happy! During the last year there have been these 14-hour days of waiting and waiting and I ended up seeming to do all of the exposition, or 'explaining' the storyline. It was a crushing burden."

"After all, counting 'The Rookies,' this means seven years of doing continuous series, and if you count the soap opera I did before that, it means I've worked eight years almost daily. Now I can get on with it and do something else I want."

Some industry insiders believe that it was all only a ploy by Kate to get more money. It wasn't. Producers Spelling-Goldberg had been itching to get rid of the girl who has been called "the angel who can act" and "the brainiest angel" for some time. There is even a rumor in Hollywood that Kate, who also wanted to go, asked for her release and was told by the producers that she could not have it. "We have to fire you instead!"
