Band set for state

The Lee High School marching band, after returning victoriously from the University Interscholastic League area "A" marching contest in El Paso, now prepares for state competition. Ranked No. 1 in 5A competition by all five judges, LHS, under the direction of Randy Storie, placed first in the El Paso competition. The Midland High School marching band, under the direction of Cody Myers, also took honors, placing third. Odessa High School won second place. First and second place winners are certified to compete in the state marching competition in Austin. The MHS band will serve as alternate in the competition. When the LHS band takes the field, it will be marking the Rebel Band's 10th consecutive competition in UIL state preliminaries.

Lotto sales begin

AUSTIN — The Texas Lottery today will begin selling tickets for its new "lotto" game with a minimum $2 million jackpot, and officials Friday said they believe the game will prove popular. In the lotto games, a player picks a set of numbers from one to 50. Winning numbers will be chosen at random in each drawing. While the minimum jackpot will be $2 million, it could go higher. /9A

New man's at UTPB helm Regents select president for Odessa campus

■ University of Pittsburgh engineering dean's selection ends national search.

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

ODESSA — The University of Texas at the Permian Basin has a new man at the helm. The UT Board of Regents Friday selected Charles A. Sorber to be the fourth president of UTPB. Sorber, the dean of engineering at the University of Pittsburgh, was named president by the board of regents who met in Dallas to interview presidential candidates for UTPB and UT-Austin.

When interviewed by telephone from Pittsburgh, Sorber said he hoped to start his job in Odessa by next spring.

"My first priority will be to listen to the various constituents of the institution," he said. "Then we'll put together some planning to deal with the issues."

Dr. James P. Duncan, executive vice chancellor for academic affairs and chairman of the advisory committee that recommended the finalists, said, "Dr. Sorber impressed the committee for his administrative abilities, his

Lawyer issues lawsuit threat against county

■ Attorney alleges that his client was sexually abused at county jail.

A Dallas lawyer who alleges that his prisoner-client, a 35-year-old Midland woman, was sexually harassed and abused by three former deputy jailers last July in the Midland County Jail is seeking $1.5 million in compensatory and punitive damages for his client.

The lawyer, G. David Smith, who declined to identify his client, on Friday dispatched a notice-of-claim letter to Midland County Judge Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer in hopes of negotiating a settlement without filing a lawsuit.

"I do not make a claim against a governmental entity lightly," Smith said Friday in a telephone interview. "I do not like to mess with taxpayers' money."

However, Smith said, "I am always open to negotiations," which, he said, could save the taxpayers' money as opposed to taking the case to court.

If a settlement is not negotiated within a 30-day "grace" period, Smith said he would file a lawsuit against Midland County and the sheriff.

"I can guarantee you," countered Midland County Attorney Mark H. Dettman, "we are not going to send him $1.5 million."

Dettman Friday said he is "not aware of any wrongdoing by the sheriff or of any real potential liability against either the sheriff or the county."

Further, Dettman said that Smith, who previously practiced law in Odessa, formally should disclose the name of his client in his notice-of-claim letter.

Smith is alleging that three of Sheriff

Three-car pileup west of city injures five

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

Five persons were transported to a local hospital Friday after two cars swerved to avoid hitting a stalled vehicle on Highway 80, resulting in a three-car pileup west of Midland.

Shortly after noon, a car stalled at the intersection of Highway 80 and business access County Road 1290, officials said.

"The disabled vehicle was in the eastbound lane," said Department of Public Safety Trooper Nick Rose. "The driver ran across the road to get help and a white van swerved around the side of the vehicle in the passing lane" to avoid a rear-end collision, DPS reports said.

Arthur Garcia, 45, of El Paso, driving a white 1991 Saturn behind the van, swerved to the left, lost control and went into a broadside skid. The Saturn traveled across the median into the westbound lane and struck a maroon 1992 four-door Cadillac driven by Regina Milbourne, 44, of Rio Linda, Calif., DPS reports stated.

The Cadillac and the Saturn then collided with a black 1986 two-door Oldsmobile driven westbound in the outside lane by Laura K. McArthur of Midland, reports stated.

All of the drivers of the vehicles involved in the accident were transported to Midland Memorial Hospital. They suffered bruises and abrasions and

Odessa marks Dynagen's anniversary

By Ed Todd

ODESSA — The founding of the nation's largest inland petrochemical complex was hailed here on Friday when Odessa, General Tire, Dynagen and Rexene Corporation officials celebrated the 35th anniversary of that complex.

The complex, which produces plastics and synthetic rubber for worldwide use from liquid petroleum gas (LPG), was dedicated in 1957 following the efforts of visionaries, such as W.D. Noel, E.G. Rodman, Jesse Owens and Paul Kayser.

Today, the complex is an integral part of Odessa's and West Texas's economy, said Odessa Mayor Lorraine Perryman.

"We are fighting for the economic survival of our whole area by keeping these jobs without sacrificing the environment," Mrs. Perryman said of ongoing efforts to keep Dynagen open.

The plant, which was in danger of closing due to a slump in General Tire's tire market and due the $30-million expense of upgrading Dynagen's environmental controls, is the exclusive producer of synthetic rubber for General Tire.

General Tire, which last year lost $130 million, is recovering and is no longer losing money or "bleeding,"

Domenici: Use of overtime might have tilted election

By John Paul Pitts
Business/Oil editor

The use of overtime in the American work force could have been a chief reason President Bush lost the presidential election, according to U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici (R-N.M.).

Speaking at the 30th annual meeting of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association Friday, Domenici said some economic experts concluded the reason many Americans were out of work and no jobs were being created was because employers were using overtime and part-time help in their businesses in an effort to keep down costs. Please see DOMENICI/4A licist Pattie Hawn. Rosenberg's movie credits include "The Fabulous Baker Boys," "Presumed Innocent," "Major League," "White Palace," "King Ralph," and "Bright Lights, Big City," which he produced during a partnership with Sydney Pollack that began in 1985.

Between 1978 and 1985, Rosenberg was with Warner Bros., where he produced films that included "The Killing Fields," "The World According to Garp," "Greystoke: The Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes" and "Never Say Never Again."

Rosenberg began as vice-president of production for Warner Bros. and in 1983 became president of Worldwide Theatrical Production.

Three years ago, he formed Spring Creek Productions with his wife, a producer and former president of production at United Artists. The company entered into a production agreement with Warner Bros. in 1990.

In a statement released by Warner Bros., Robert Daly, chairman and chief executive officer, said: "Terry Semel and all our colleagues are saddened by the loss of our friend, a talented filmmaker and industry executive, who spent so much of his fruitful career here at Warner Bros."

"He has left an important legacy of film and of friendship here, and will be deeply missed. We know that this feeling is shared by all those Mark touched over the years," Daly stated.

Rosenberg recently was executive producer of "Citizen Cohn," an HBO film starring James Wood. His company also is producing a film titled "Fearless" in addition to "Flesh & Bone."

"Flesh & Bone," written by Steve Kloves, stars Meg Ryan as Kay Willets, a "charming but wounded soul" who falls for drifter Arlis Sweeney, played by Ryan's real-life partner, Dennis Quaid. James Caan, portrays Arlis' father, Roy Sweeney, a man with a penchant for violence.

Earlier this week, the film crew was in Big Lake, and after Stanton, will move to Pecos, Monahans, Austin and Marfa.

Filming in Stanton is taking place at a building set up as a bowling alley just south of town off Garden City Highway, according to a Stanton official.

Across the street from the location, at a body shop, is where Rosenberg became ill with what was initially believed to be insulin shock, Stanton law enforcement officials said.

Rosenberg's body was taken to Gilbreath Funeral Home in Stanton and will be shipped to the producer's birthplace, Passiac, N.J., today.

Services are scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday at the Jewish Memorial Chapel funeral home in Passiac. Arrangements are pending for a memorial service in Los Angeles.

Rosenberg is survived by his wife, Paula Weinstein; his mother, Martha Wajd of Passiac; and a brother, actor Alan Rosenberg of Los Angeles.

Fire injures two

Staff report

A mother and her 15-month-old son were injured and their trailer home destroyed during a Friday morning fire at 110 E. County Road 137, fire officials said.

The baby boy, Paul Friday, remained in critical condition at the burn unit of University Medical Center in Lubbock late Friday, hospital officials said.

His mother, Paula Arnold, was transported to Midland Memorial Hospital where she remained in stable condition, hospital officials there said.

The two sustained burns after a space heater started a fire that began on a curtain and bed cover in the child's room about 8:15 a.m., officials said.

Police officer resigns

ODESSA — Following the arrest and resignation of a police officer on theft charges, a second police officer has resigned in connection with the incident, police said Friday.

The name of the officer, who worked in the criminalistics unit — which is responsible for the intake, processing and security of evidence — was not released.

On Oct. 26, Cpl. Fred W. Houston, also with the criminalistics unit, was arrested for theft and immediately resigned.

Following an investigation by the Inspectional Services Unit of the police department, the second officer resigned.

On Wednesday, the inspectional unit reported that evidence appeared to be missing from a vault and Chief James H. Jenkins requested an investigation by the Texas Rangers.

The Texas Rangers began their investigation on Thursday.

Police arrest suspect

The driver of a pickup believed to be involved in a fatal hit-and-run pedestrian accident in April was arrested Thursday, police said.

Richard Paul Story, 33, remained jailed Friday in lieu of a $25,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Robert Pine, police and jail officials said.

Story was charged with failure to stop and render aid in connection with the April 24 truck-pedestrian accident that left Jose Perez, 36, dead, police said.

Perez reportedly was crossing Midkiff Road near Park Lane about 10:55 p.m. when a truck skidded, struck him, then sped away.

The next day, an unidentified man called police and said the accident was unintentional.

A recent Crime Stoppers tip led to a warrant for Story's arrest.

A 1976 Chevrolet pickup, covered by a tarp, was found at the Story's Kessler Street residence, police said.

Police said front-end damage to the truck was consistent with the accident.

State comptroller lays out ambitious plan to reduce public spending

By John Paul Pitts
Business/Oil editor

Texas Comptroller John Sharp laid out an ambitious plan Friday to reduce public spending and stimulate the state's economy.

Speaking to a luncheon meeting at the 30th annual meeting of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, the former Texas Railroad Commissioner and state representative from Victoria said the two hardest things to do in government are to "raise taxes and reduce spending," but that his office was nonetheless committed to cutting spending.

He said an independent audit of state finances revealed that savings of $4.2 billion could be achieved without cutting services, and the Texas Legislature already had overlooked more than half of the cuts.

He said the independent auditors found there were too many agencies and too many hearings in the state. What was needed, instead, he said, was more "one-stop government to serve the people."

"They have forgotten who the customer is," Sharp said. "The customer is not the guy who appropriates the money. He is the taxpayer who pays the bills." With one-stop government, he said, the state would have fewer agencies, fewer bureaucrats and fewer lawyers.

One way he has proposed cutting public spending in Texas is to revamp the food-stamp program.

"Two years from now, you will not have food stamps in Midland,"

'The customer is not the guy who appropriates the money. He is the taxpayer who pays the bills.'

— Texas Comptroller John Sharp

Sharp said, adding that the current method of cutting trees to make paper, printing the stamps and hiring someone to distribute them was too expensive.

He also cited the high rate of fraud and theft associated with food stamps.

"About 40 percent of drug sales involve food stamps," Sharp said. "But with our new plan they will have to trade milk for drugs." He said food-stamp recipients would receive credit cards and that ATMs would be used to make electronic transfers from their account.

Other plans to reduce spending include a competitive council that would simplify the bidding process in the state and allow businesses and other agencies to bid against each other for state business. "It will insure that we have low prices and competition," Sharp said.

To stimulate the state's economy, Sharp said a long-range plan developed by the state's "Looking Toward 2025" would make sure Texas was positioned for growth.

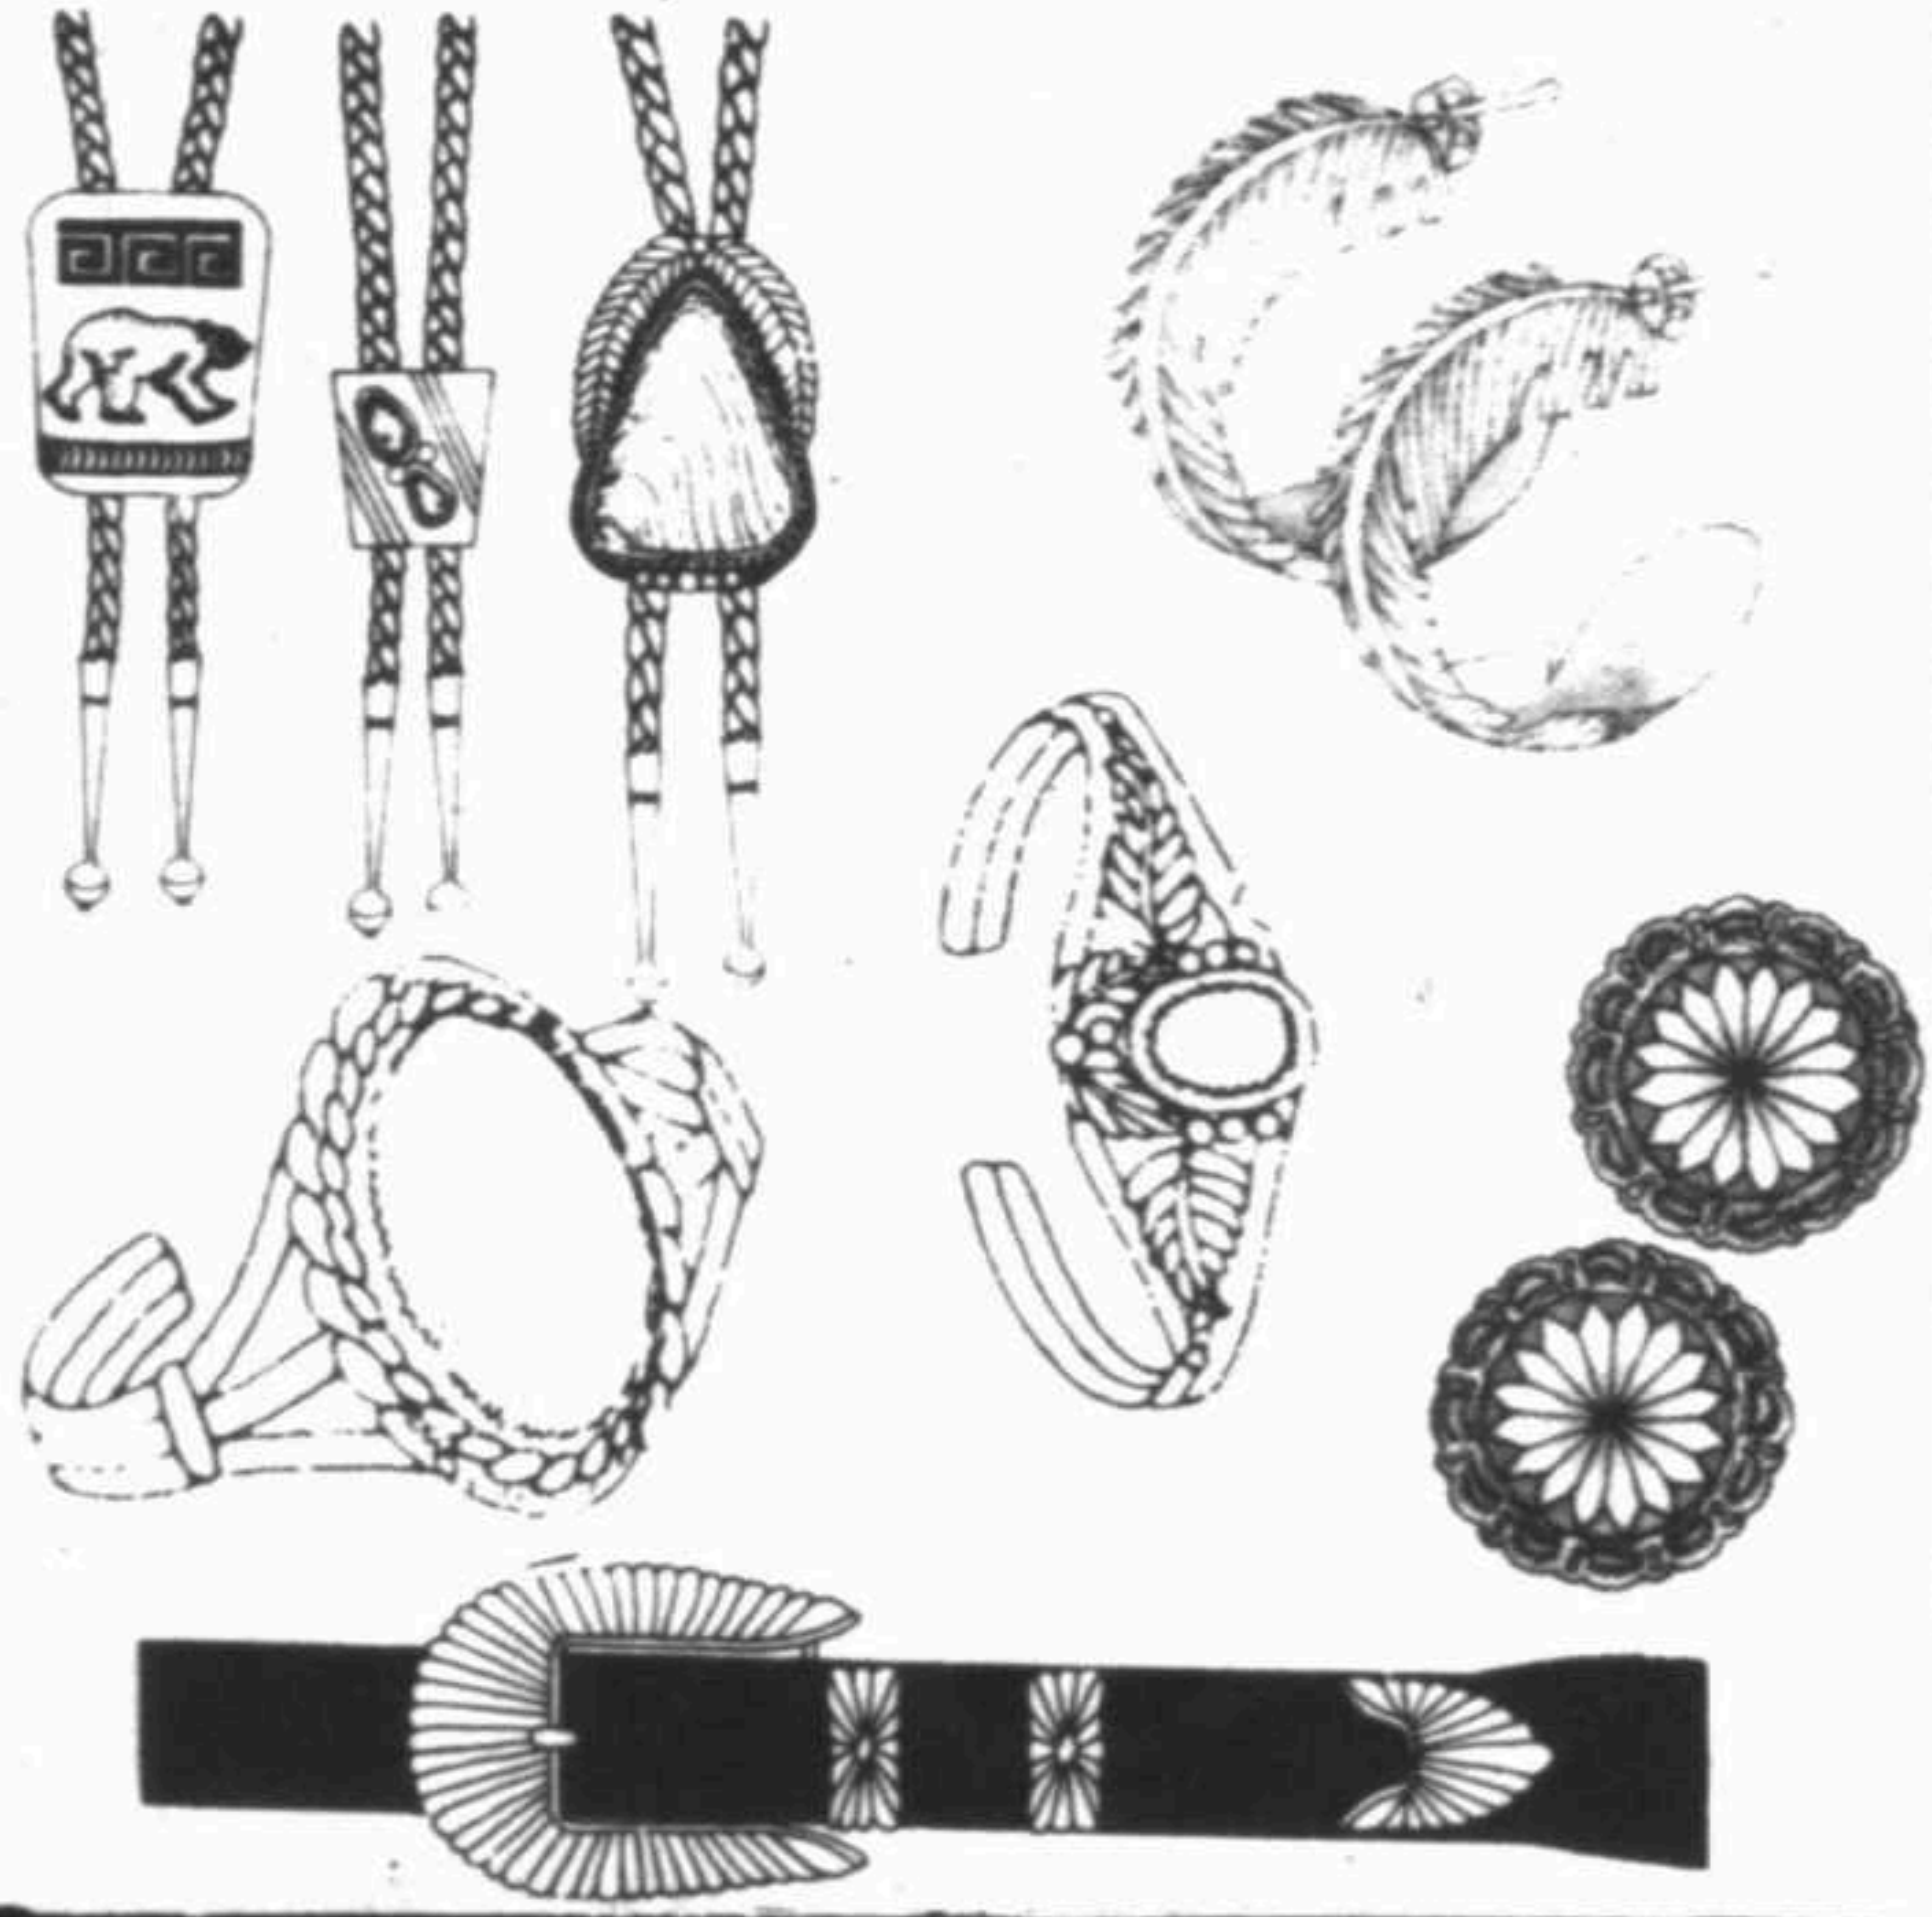

Demographic data reveal that only two states, Texas and Oklahoma, will have enough young people entering the work force in 20 years to fill entry-level jobs. "A state has only three resources it can sell — natural, capital and human resources. We have done a good job on the other two and now we need to sell our human resources."

He said the state needs to concentrate on vocational-technical education to make sure jobs are filled in the future. "Before this decade is over, it's going to take two years of college just to work on a car — that's how complex automobiles are becoming."

THREAT: Lawyer seeks $1.5 million

(From 1A)

Gary Painter's former deputies — Lyndon Yarbrough, 48, Lynn Pittman, 36, and Eddie Mancha, 24 — were "imposing their sexual desires" on the woman last July while she was awaiting transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections to serve a 25-year prison sentence as an habitual criminal.

She had been sentenced on May 19 by 142nd Texas District Court Judge Pat Baskin.

The woman previously had served time in the penitentiary and jail for theft by shoplifting, according to court records.

Painter, who declined to discuss Smith's allegations, earlier in October said he had fired four jailers and that a fifth, Yarbrough, had resigned for "making false statements and for violation of policy and a question of judgment."

On Friday, Painter said that ex-deputies Pittman, Mancha and 29-year-old Joey Odom, who was not named in Smith's letter to Seltzer, were "terminated for lying" in the course of a Sheriff's Department internal investigation into the incident.

Yarbrough resigned, Painter said. Jailer Adena Barron, 22, was fired.

"The people were terminated for lying," Painter said. "One of the terminations had nothing to do with what 'Bro' Seltzer is claiming. There were only four people involved in the incident — actually two incidents — which involved lying."

After copies of Smith's notice-of-claim letter were delivered to Seltzer, the commissioners and Painter, Seltzer released a written statement saying the Smith claim "is exactly the type of action that the Commissioners' Court was concerned about in regard to the recent dismissal" of the jailers. "Contrary to remarks by Sheriff Painter, this Notice of Claim clearly demonstrates that the circumstances underlying the termination of the subject jailers was, and is, a matter of great importance to the Commissioners' Court as well as the taxpayers and citizens of Midland County."

From Painter's viewpoint, Smith's "demand" letter amounts to "allegations by an attorney trying to get something for nothing."

"He (Smith) wants a bunch of money," Painter said. "Actually, it's not a 'letter of demand.' It's a threat that 'if you don't pay me, I'm going to file suit.'"

Painter said he has reviewed the case and the allegations, and that neither he nor the Midland County Sheriff's Department has "done anything wrong."

"And I do not believe that there is any liability that has been incurred. And Mr. Smith, under our (legal) system, is allowed to make any allegation he chooses. And what we will do is litigate before a judge and a jury and let them make a decision," Painter said. "They are pure allegations, and they are strictly allegations until they are proven differently by a judge and a jury."

Smith alleged that the ex-deputies' sexual abuse of the inmate included fondling, making lewd and suggestive comments, and "requiring her" to "perform oral sex in exchange for use of a telephone."

The acts were "more than just momentary thoughtlessness, inadvertence or error in judgment on the part of the Midland County Sheriff's Department and Sheriff Gary Painter," Smith said. He said the alleged sexual acts reflect "an entire want of care" and were the result of "actual conscious indifference to the rights, safety and welfare" of his client.

The conduct, Smith said, is "constituted cruel and unusual punishment" prohibited by the United States Constitution.

Dettman said the Texas Penal Code does not provide for a criminal offense when a jailer has sexual activity with an inmate if the union is done consensually and not by force. However, Dettman noted earlier, the ethics and wisdom of such an act likely would fall under departmental rules and regulations.

"It's not something that has not happened in every jail in the state at one time or another," Dettman said.

The Midland County Grand Jury, which last month investigated the firings and resignation, issued this statement on Oct. 14: "MATTER REVIEWED: No action warranted or taken with no further comments."

Texans wonder what they'll miss after Bush

By Susan Hightower
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — Texans for years have questioned how deep President Bush's ties run in his adopted home state, but they have not doubted the economic boon and prestige brought home by the leading non-native son.

Now that Bush will not be returning to the White House, locals wonder what Texas might lose with the shift in power.

"I think Gov. Clinton's going to be hard-pressed to do for Houston and for Texas what George Bush did, and I think that could be said of almost any president who is not from Houston and not from Texas," said Rob Mosbacher Jr., chairman of the Texas Victory Committee and son of former commerce secretary and longtime Bush ally Bob Mosbacher.

"The president continuously set up things that were important to the city and the state, whether you're talking about the super collider or the space program, or in Houston the (1990) Economic Summit and the (1992) GOP convention — things that meant dollars for the city and the state," Mosbacher said.

"It's a sense of sadness. It's almost as if we'll drop a couple of notches in terms of political importance as a city," he said. "But hopefully Texas won't suffer too much."

Distinction and dollars brought by high-level visitors will take the biggest hits, agreed George Strake of Houston, former chairman of the Texas Republican Party.

"You won't see helicopters flying overhead and presidential caravans coming in and out of town, which in itself is a plus for any city, as far as prestige is concerned. Beyond that, I don't think Mr. Clinton will be bringing world economic summits or national conventions to Houston, so those are obvious big losses to the hotel sector, the restaurant sector, the taxi drivers, and the community as a whole. There will be just a lot fewer Texans involved in this government," Strake said.

"However, I will also say that we survived before we had a hometown president, and we will probably survive without one," he added.

Bush has not yet announced what his plans are after next January. But many expect him to spend at least some of his time in Houston, where he is registered to vote.

Although he has not owned a home in Texas since becoming vice president in 1981 — instead buying a house in Kennebunkport, Maine — Bush's legal residence has remained a suite at The Houstonian hotel.

He does own a small vacant lot in Houston, and there has been speculation whether he will build a house on it.

Mosbacher said he was told Bush stopped his motorcade on the way to the airport the morning after the election to look at a house for sale.

"There's no doubt they're either going to buy or build one down here — at least there doesn't seem to be any doubt about it," Mosbacher said.

There also was no firm word on what Bush would do if he returned to town.

Rice University Provost Carl MacDowell said as far as he knows, the school has made no job offer to Bush or fellow Houstonian James Baker III, Bush's friend, key adviser and former secretary of state.

Similarly, George Edwards, director of the center for presidential studies at Texas A&M University, said the Aggies have not offered Bush a job. However, the school plans to include an apartment for George and Barbara Bush when his presidential library is built on campus, beginning in 1994.

"We encourage them to spend time here and we hope that memoir writing, for example, will take place here, but we've not offered anything more formally," Edwards said.

"It's very premature, and you don't call up the day after the election and say, 'Now that you don't have anything to do...' And you certainly don't call up before the election," he said.

Meanwhile, rumors have floated around Yale University that Bush may be asked to return to his alma mater as president.

But no matter what else Bush does, the welcome sign will stay out for him at some of his favorite local haunts long after he steps down as chief executive.

Will Farish, owner of the 10,000-acre ranch in Bee and Goliad counties where Bush has hunted quail and other birds for more than 20 years, said he did not know Bush's future plans, but "would be very surprised if he didn't end up" in Texas.

"It's really his adopted home, and yes, I think he really, truly loves Texas," Farish said.

And June Sofka, owner and manager of Bush's favorite barbecue restaurant, said Bush is always welcome at Otto's Bar-B-Q.

"If he comes back here to live, I don't think it'll have any enormous effect on (Houston). He's such a nice person, I think that he'll just blend in," she said.

"With me, he'll always be my president, because not only was he my president, he's a friend."

A customer came in yesterday and said, 'I thought you'd have a black armband on,' and I said, 'I do — over my heart,' Mrs. Sofka said. "I'm sad for America. I really am."

Newspaper: Commissioner nears personal bankruptcy

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said Friday he is trying to pay off bad debts he incurred mostly from failed business ventures rather than file for personal bankruptcy.

The Houston Chronicle reported in Friday's editions that Mauro is on the brink of personal bankruptcy and is potentially liable to the federal government for more than $4 million in bad debts.

Mauro, who was in Houston on Friday to give a speech to a group of certified public accountants, denied the amount was "anything close" to $4 million, but he said he did not know the exact amount of what he owed.

The Texas Democrat, who ran President-elect Clinton's campaign in Texas, has been mentioned frequently as a possible candidate for a job in the new administration.

On Friday, Mauro refused to speculate whether his financial problems would have any effect on any job prospects.

"I just think it's premature to talk about that. I've got a good job. I like being Texas Land Commissioner."

Texas 'lotto' tickets to go on sale today

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Lottery will begin selling tickets today for its new "lotto" game with a minimum $2 million jackpot, and officials Friday said they believe the game will prove popular.

But they don't know what to expect for the first drawing.

"There's really no way to tell at this point. I just have no earthly idea," said Lottery director Nora Linares.

In the lotto games, a player picks a set of numbers from one to 50. Winning numbers will be chosen at random in each drawing. While the minimum jackpot will be $2 million, it could go higher.

Since the lotto is a pari-mutuel game, the more money wagered the bigger the prize, officials said.

Playslips for the game will be available at 5,000 lottery retailers at first. Each game costs $1.

"Lotto Texas and any kind of lotto game starts slowly and it builds, mostly because it builds as your jackpot builds. We expect the excitement will start to build towards the end of the week," Ms. Linares said.

Retailers will be allowed to sell lotto tickets from 6 a.m. to midnight, seven days a week, with a 15-minute "timeout" from 9:45 p.m. to 10 p.m. on the nights lotto drawings are held.

The first drawing will take place one week after ticket sales start, at 9:58 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 14, and will be shown on television stations statewide, Ms. Linares said.

After the first Lotto Texas drawing, there will be two per week: Wednesday and Saturday nights. State officials have guaranteed that the jackpot for the first game will be at least $2 million. It could be more depending on how much is wagered.

Money also will be awarded to players matching five numbers, four numbers, and matching three numbers will win a guaranteed $3.

The lottery will continue its "instant win" scratch-card games, available at about 17,000 lotto outlets.

Repaving of Red Square angers Communists on revolution's anniversary

MOSCOW (AP) — Workmen are replacing the cobblestones on Red Square, preventing President Boris Yeltsin's opponents from demonstrating at Lenin's Tomb today, the 75th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

No one disputes that the stones are badly worn and in need of repair. But die-hard Communists charged Friday that the construction project was timed — in an act of "petty revenge" — to block their annual march through the square.

They said they would rally elsewhere.

"Who ever heard of repaving after winter has set in?" said Mariya Lyubimova, an irate 66-year-old woman standing outside the Lenin Museum on the edge of the square.

Until the Soviet Union's collapse, Revolution Day was the country's most important holiday. Thousands of workers paraded across Red Square, bearing huge portraits of Communist leaders. Politburo members stood on the Lenin Mausoleum and saluted as tanks, missiles and goose-stepping soldiers passed by.

On the eve of Revolution Day last year, however, Yeltsin banned the Communist Party. His decree is now being challenged in Russia's Constitutional Court.

Nov. 7 remains a holiday for Russian workers, but it is no longer a major state celebration. Yeltsin announced he would work a "normal" 14-hour day.

No model workers or Red Army tanks will stream past the Kremlin walls and the domes of St. Basil's Cathedral this year. Some people say it was precisely those displays of ardor and armor that loosened the cobblestones.

"These stones were never meant to carry all that weight," said a foreman who identified himself in the Russian fashion as Boris Olmpeyevich, his name and his father's first name.

"We've been hurrying to finish before the holiday but, obviously, we aren't going to make it," he said as his men tapped 6-inch-thick blocks of Karelian granite into place with heavy wooden mallets.

City authorities deny any ulterior motive for the work, which began on Oct. 21. The center of the square, directly in front of Lenin's Mausoleum, is fenced off. New cobblestones are piled 3 feet high, and the old ones have been dug up, leaving a muddy pit.

The pro-Communists will rally on October Square, under a towering bronze statue of Soviet founder Vladimir Lenin.

From there, they were to march about three miles to the Kremlin, skirting Red Square. Someone already painted the words "U.S.S.R. Lives! Lenin! Stalin!" on a bridge along the route.

Pro-reform groups planned a counterdemonstration outside the former KGB headquarters.

Ordinary Russians are divided about the lack of official festivities.

"The revolution is part of our history. Our history hasn't changed. Why not treat it like a real holiday?" said Svetlana Pogorelova, a 16-year-old from the Siberian city of Novokuznetsk who visited Red Square on Thursday.

"I think the revolution was wrong. A big mistake," replied her classmate, Natasha Varlakova. "As a holiday, it was just a show. It had nothing to do with real life."

Despite decades of propaganda, Nov. 7 was never a heartfelt celebration for many Russians, who were secretly more attracted to Christmas, Easter and other religious occasions. In the past year, those have become state holidays.

The Streak is over

Bulldogs end season 1-0 with 34-21 win over AHS

Midland High quarterback Johnny Parades leading a charge against Abilene High.

By Terry Williamson
Sports editor

District 4-5A's woeful monkey is still hanging around, but it isn't on the back of Midland High any longer. Abilene High now has the burden to carry.

The Bulldogs ended an 18-game losing streak and an 11-game District 4-5A skid at Memorial Stadium Friday night, ending two years without a victory, with a 34-21 triumph over Abilene High's Eagles. (It was a monkey shaking performance — in style.)

And in the process, the monkey now jumps to the back of AHS as the War Eagles now own the district's longest losing streak at seven straight games and AHS has now dropped 10 consecutive District 4-5A contests.

It was also the first victory at MHS for first year head coach Ronnie Reeger, who had to suffer only through nine of those 18 consecutive losses. But he felt the win as much as his troops.

"We worked hard for this," Reeger said. "I'm so proud of those kids. They stuck with us. This has to help in what we are trying to do as we enter our off-season program. This gets us over a very big hump."

The Bulldogs, who struggled with its rushing game all season, saw its offense find its legs Friday with 335 rushing yards. Junior Michael Gilbert broke the 100-yard barrier for the second consecutive week with a season high 143 yards on 18 carries and two touchdowns. Last week Gilbert ended a 19-game streak that MHS had without a 100-yard rusher in a single game and now they have two in a row.

"Over 140 again?" Gilbert asked, "Wow! I don't believe it. This is great."

In addition, sophomore Roy Coats turned in his season high performance

Plainview nips troubled Tornadoes

LAMESA — Nobody would have blamed the Lamesa Tornadoes if they had failed to answer the second-half bell.

Yet when it rang, there they were. Plainview clinched a share of the District 2-4A crown with a 21-14 win over Lamesa here Friday night, but not before the Tornadoes turned a 14-point halftime deficit into a tie game that suddenly had the former Class 5A Bulldogs reeling.

Damien Nails' 52-yard touchdown burst early in the fourth quarter finally put an end to Lamesa's second-half rally. But the Tors faced an uphill battle from the start, needing to win by no fewer than 12 points to earn a playoff berth under the district's positive-points tie-breaker system.

They did not win the berth as Lubbock Estacado and Plainview will share the league's top spot with 4-1 records. But they earned the respect of the Bulldogs, who take a 9-1 record into the postseason.

The Tornadoes' season-ending loss came just days after the tragic automobile death of teammate Tim Gibbs.

MCS ends with perfect 7-0 record

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

Midland Christian quarterback Kyle Jackson's mama said it best when she mused, "the Conquerors got conquered tonight." And boy was she right, as the MCS Mustangs used just over three quarters to dispose of El Paso Agape, 56-7.

The win gave the 7-0 Mustangs the Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools District I title and the right to defend their state championship.

MCS will face Dallas Winston in the first round of the playoffs, a game tentatively scheduled for Elmer Gray Stadium in Abilene. The time and date of the contest is yet to be determined.

The Mustangs band set the tone of the game by playing the Star Spangled Banner in under a minute prior to the game.

Lee nips playoff-bound Coogs

By Bill Price
Staff writer

ABILENE — Midland Lee's last stand of the 1992 football campaign may have come a little late for Rebel fans, but make no mistake about it, it was a memorable one.

After seeing two defensive touchdowns called back because of penalties, Lee held off a late rally by Abilene Cooper to defeat the Cougars 21-17 here Friday night at Shotwell Stadium.

While the Rebels' season ends at 7-3 (3-3 in District 4-5A), playoff-bound Cooper finds itself in a two-game slump and takes a 7-3 mark (4-2 in district) against Amarillo High next Saturday.

To preserve the win, Lee had to depend on a Nathan Lambert interception near the goal line with 14 seconds to play, as Cougar quarterback Deric Neal handed off to running back Tony Tate, who in turn tried to throw back to his left for the winning score.

"I just saw the pass and the running back coming across. I knew they would try to sneak a play back to my side because they had done it the other way. I just ended up with the ball," said Lambert, a senior defensive back.

It was the Rebels' third interception of the night from Neal, as Roderick Strambler — moved from cornerback to safety for this game — also plucked a pair out of the air. His first one stopped a Cooper drive at the Lee 21-yard line on the first play of the second quarter.

Strambler's second pickoff came just before halftime, and though he ran it back 91 yards for an apparent TD, a penalty gave him just 67 yards on the return.

"I was playing the run more than the pass at corner, so they thought they would move me back to safety. On the first interception I was looking for the tight end and staying in the middle like I was coached, and the ball just came to me," Strambler said. "The second one was a touchdown."

Well, the officials didn't see it that way and another prospective Rebel TD was nullified by a penalty.

With Lee ahead 21-17 in the fourth quarter, a 66-yard interception return for a touchdown by linebacker Tony Olivas looked to put the game on ice for the Rebels. But a roughing the passer penalty negated that effort and allowed Cooper to keep the ball with 4:56 to play in the game.

Chaps handle Alvin, 92-78

■ Midland College freshman Demeitreus Drew keys a second-half rally as the Chaps move to 2-0 on the season.

By Pete Herndon
MRT Correspondent

While Demeitreus Drew gave basketball fans only a glimpse of why the Midland College Chaparrals are ranked ninth in the nation Thursday night in the opening round of the Chaparral Classic, Friday he gave them an eyeful.

Drew, a 6-foot-7 sophomore scored a game-high 25 points in Midland's 92-78 win over Alvin.

He stylishly contributed nine of those points in the final four minutes and 27 seconds to break open a 75-71 game. Six points of his stretch run came from slams. He added a three-point play on a drive and foul shot.

The Chaps raised their record to 2-0 going into today's 7:30 p.m. game against Ranger. Alvin, which lost to Odessa Thursday, fell to 0-2.

Drew, however, is quick to point out that the Chaps have yet to produce an entire show.

In the opening game Thursday, Drew scored six points and had a couple of rebounds in the first 2:47 in a 98-67 win over Jacksonville. But when Drew was called for a charge at the 17:17 mark, his second foul, it took Midland coach Steve Green only one chair to sit his star down for the rest of the first half of the season opener.

Following Friday's win over Alvin, Drew said the first game was easy to shake off.

"I wasn't really worried about (Thursday) night," Drew said. Green added that the season's opening tournament isn't the time to start worrying when Drew gets a little overzealous on the court.

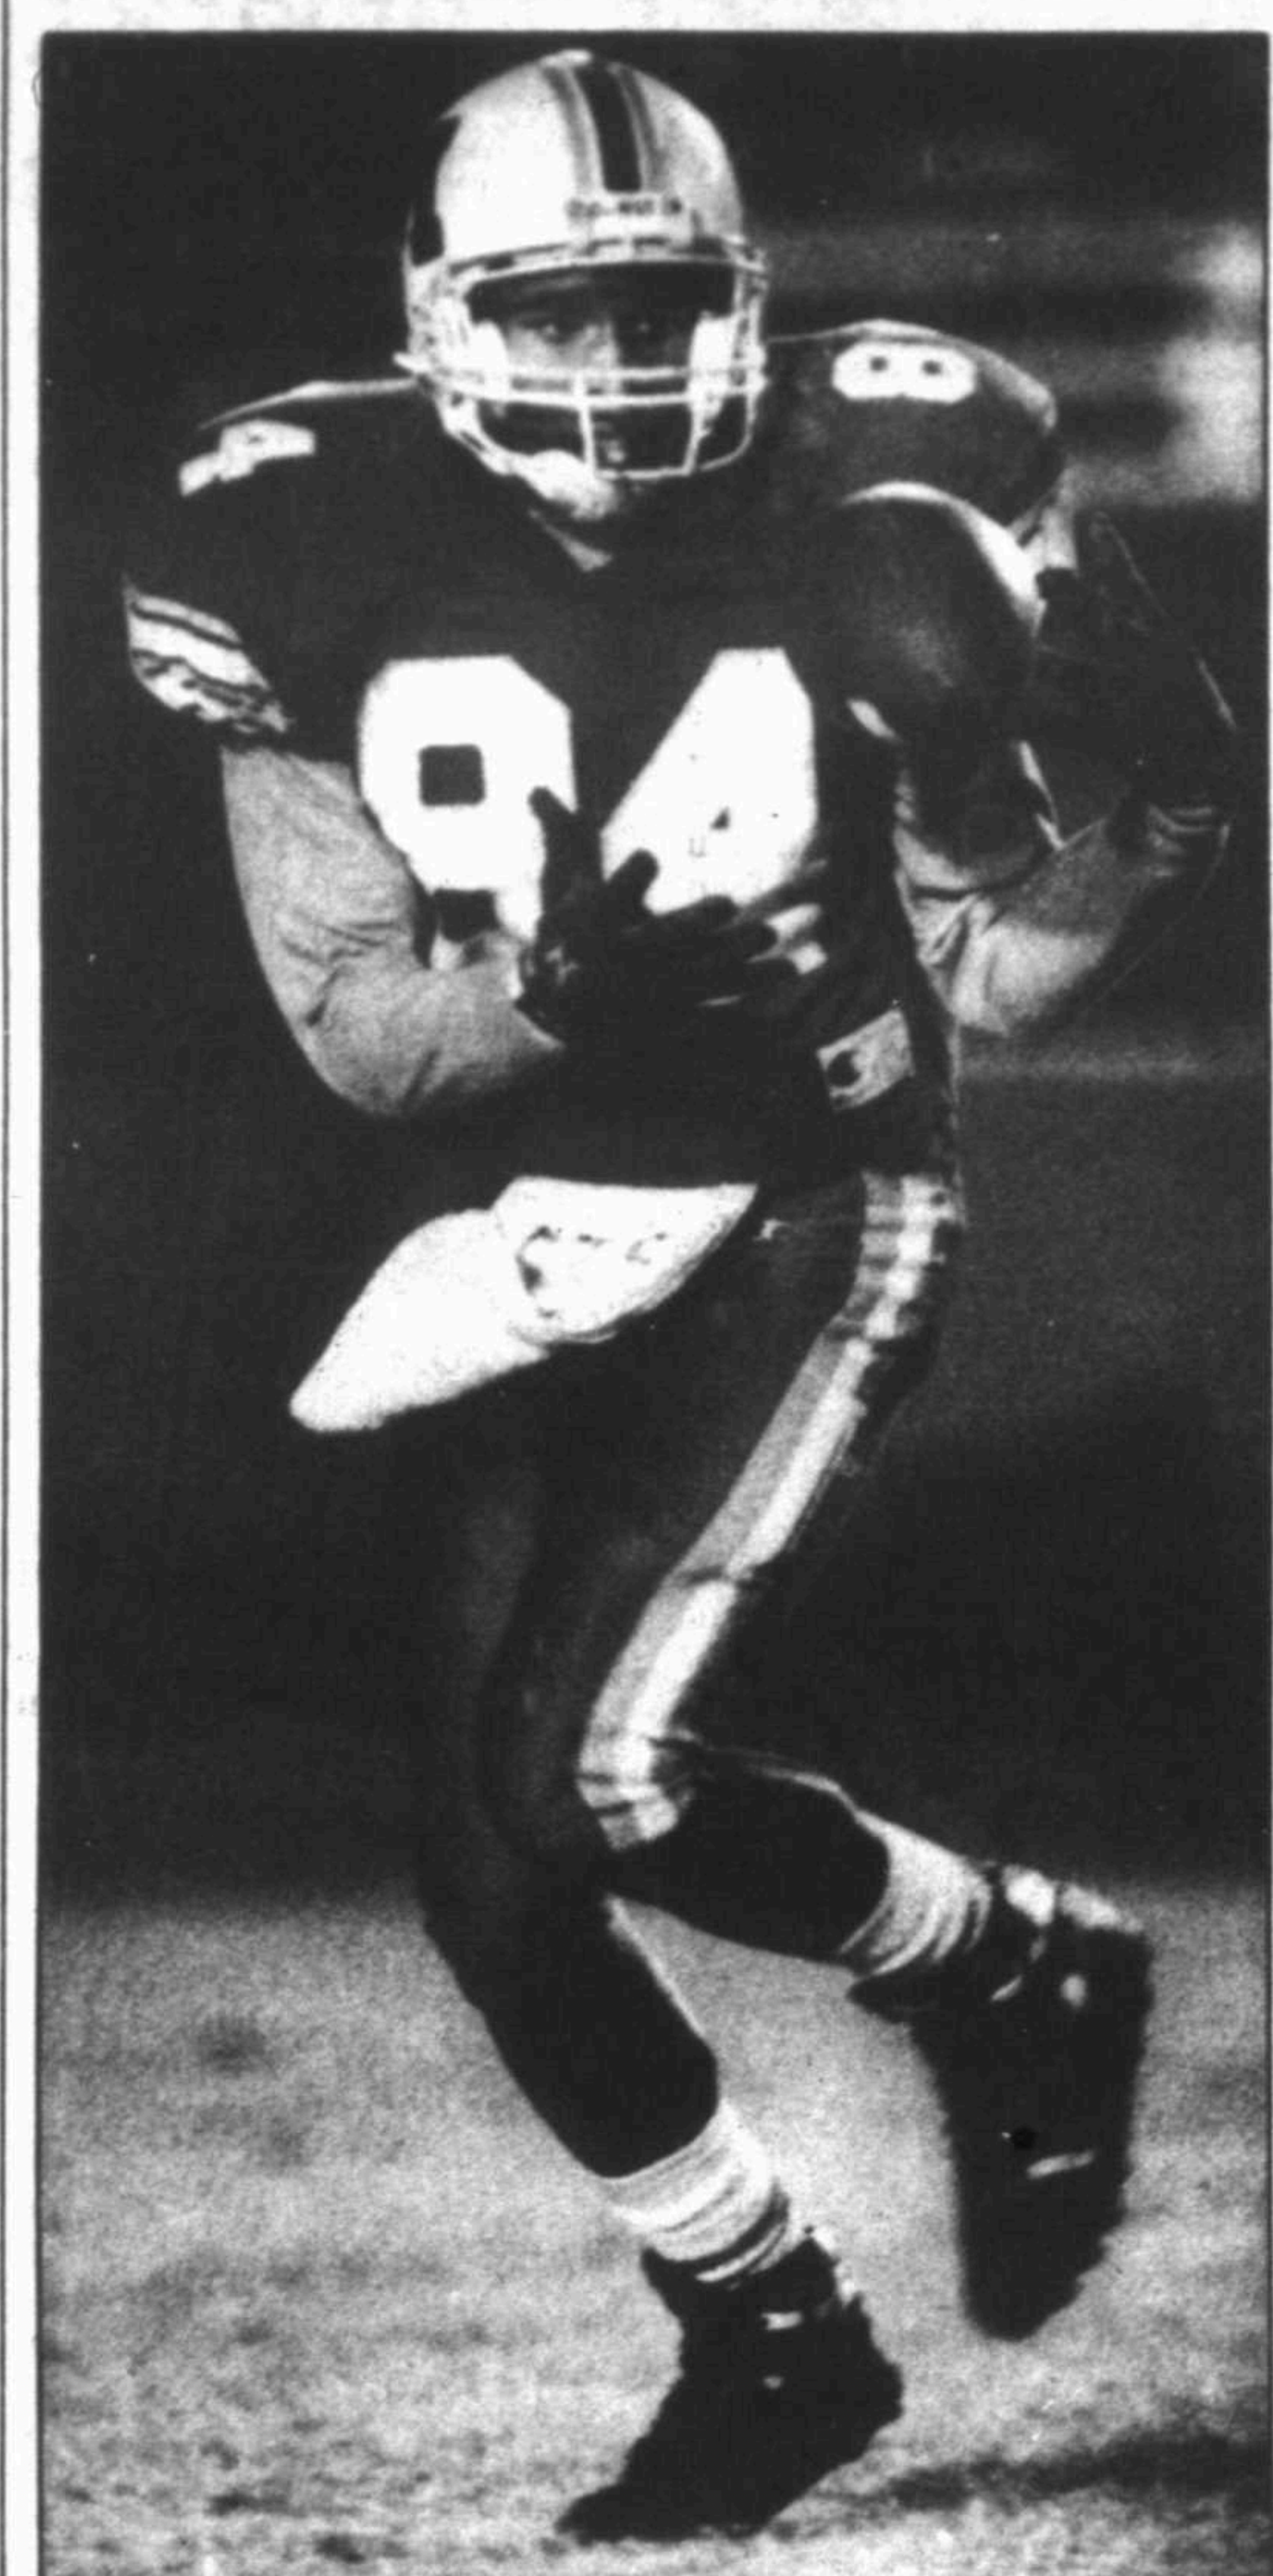

"Demeitreus is just a very talented player," Green said. "If you try to overcoach him, you take some that away. It's also the second game of the season, that's why I left them in there until the very end."

Both, however, were a little more disturbed about how the Chaps opened the game against Alvin, struggling to a 49-47 lead at intermission.

Alvin's Elliott Batts, right, moves through the lane against MC sophomore guard Shawn Morris.

Midland High's Roy Ratliff juggles a pitch on an end around play against Abilene High Friday night at Memorial Stadium.

MHS: Bulldogs emotional after ending 18-game skid with 97 yards rushing. He had 99 yards until his last carry when he was caught for a two-yard loss and ended the night with 97 yards rushing.

"We put Roy back in the game just so he could get the 100, but he lost a couple. That's too bad," Reeger said. "But the good news is that both Gilbert and Coats are back next year."

Coats said of the last carry, "I got my cleats caught in the grass. That part is really disappointing, but we won the game."

MHS took a 7-0 lead with 4:27 left in the first quarter when Gilbert scored on a two-yard run and that was the Bulldogs' first lead since the first game of the season against El Paso Irving.

AHS tied the game at 7-7 on a seven-yard TD pass to Kris Dodson from quarterback Rusty Oglesby, but MHS answered with an 89-yard drive that ended with sophomore Blake Henry scoring from three yards out. AHS tied it at 14-14 when Oglesby hit Maurice Dickinson with a short pass that went 80 yards for a touchdown when two MHS defenders knocked each other down.

But with 58 seconds left in the half at 8:57 p.m., MHS got a 19-yard TD run from Gilbert to lead 21-14. The Bulldogs never surrendered the lead and it could have been the biggest score in two years for the Bulldogs.

In the second half, Jeremy Hernandez hit field goals of 33 and 30 yards, his first two of the year and senior Thomas Outlaw scored on a 1-yard run for a 34-14 lead. It was over.

The celebration began at the end of the game as MHS fans formed a victory spirit line at the south end of the stadium for the team to walk through.

"It's been a long three years, but this is a heck'va way to finish it off," said senior lineman Brian Booker.

Senior Phillip Warlick, another three-year player for the Bulldogs, said, "This is the best feeling in the world. We were 6 and 22 during my three years, but this win means more to me than any of them."

Midland High's last win was a 6-2 win over Abilene Cooper in the last game of 1990. The misery that mounted over the next 18 games was brutal, but this group stayed to the end and ended the misery. It may be a small step, but no corner can be turned until you get that first win. It is done.

Just two years ago state play-off bound Cooper was 1-9. Corner turning can lead to bigger steps.

LEE: Rebels finish 7-3; Cooper heads to playoffs

(From 1B)

The Cougars drove all the way to the Lee 4-yard line, and looked to get the ball in the end zone on two plays. But an illegal formation penalty brought one back, and the second time Cooper seemed to score, receiver Jason King was ruled out of bounds on the right side of the end zone.

After Neal (who threw for 218 yards on a 13-for-29 night) threw an incomplete, Lambert brought down the game save for Lee.

"I've never been so mad in my life after they called my touchdown back. It would have been my only touchdown ever. We've had a lot of close games, but the Rebels are still alive," Olivass said.

While linebacker Corey Haynes benefitted from Lee's blitzing defense with three quarterback sacks, the Rebel offense got rolling in the second period.

Lee exploded in the second quarter, as the Rebel offense barreled for 118 yards en route to two touchdowns in the 12-minute span.

The Reb defense also dominated in the second period, holding Cooper to 24 yards on four possessions. More importantly, Lee caused all three Cooper turnovers — a fumble by Tate on a kickoff that Olivass recovered at the Cooper 22, leading to a Rebel TD, and Strambler's interceptions.

While Cooper went on top in the first quarter with Deric Neal's 22-yard touchdown pass to Tate, it was Lee that flexed its muscles the remainder of the first half.

The Rebels' first scoring threat ended at the Cooper 14 when they failed to convert a fourth-and-nine. But after that Lee went on a rampage.

Operating from the Coog 43, the Rebels took just four plays to score, as Courtney Turner found Phillip Sims on a 27-yard touchdown pass to tie the game.

When Tate fumbled the ball on the following kickoff and Olivass' recovery gave Lee the ball, the Rebel offense again worked in short order.

Scott McLeod, the game's leading rusher with 96 yards on 20 carries, gained 10 yards on two carries, then Turner worked the option to the right side, finding an open field to the end zone for a 12-yard TD run.

Cooper opened the third quarter with a 39-yard field goal by Chris Plummer and a 29-yard Neal to King TD pass.

But on Lee's next possession the Rebels drove 63 yards on 12 plays. McLeod carried seven times in the drive that ended with Turner connecting with Ryan Tucker on an 11-yard TD pass.

That set up the dramatics of the fourth quarter.

"I don't want to say anything about the officiating. We won the ball game and our kids overcame it, and that's great. We did go 7-3 this year, and there are a lot of people out there who wish they could say that with this many juniors," said Earl Miller, Lee head coach.

For Cooper, which faces Amarillo High in a Small School bi-district game at 4:30 p.m. next Saturday at Lubbock's Jones Stadium, the loss was especially bitter after a 31-30 defeat at the hands of Odessa Permian last week.

"We've gotten as close as we can to winning those to games. If you lose two heartbreakers like we have you have got to rebound. You have no choice," said Cooper head coach Randy Allen. "We have got to put it out of our minds. Everybody starts with a clean slate in the playoffs."

"I don't think we came out with fire in our eyes tonight," Green said. "We were on our home court and there are a lot of sophomores on this team. I was a little disappointed in that."

Drew agreed. "Tonight, we all came out a little slow. I think we might have been thinking about Kelon," Drew said, referring to sophomore Kelon Haynie, who aggravated a knee in the opener against Jacksonville.

Haynie, a sophomore from Dallas Kimball, had arthroscopic surgery on the knee in the off-season. He is listed as day-to-day.

Without Haynie, the Chaps had trouble early with the Dolphins' large, physical front line. Angel Castiblanque, Alvin's 7-foot, 235-pound center, scored six points and had five rebounds in the first half. Habib Maiga, 6-11, 230, added six points and three rebounds.

Drew, however, said it wasn't Alvin's size that bothered the Chaps.

"We were just coming out lame," Drew said. "They didn't intimidate us at all, we were just lame. You won't see us come out like that anymore. If you do, it will be my fault. ... We talked about it during the half and came out and got it together."

It started with defense. Castiblanque was held scoreless in the second half. Maiga was limited to two points.

The Chaps held the Dolphins to six points during a six-minute, 44-second stretch midway through the second half. Still, when Alvin's Lamont Henry broke the drought with a three-pointer at the 5:38 mark, the Dolphins only trailed 74-69.

Midland's Luis Cambrala, who had kept the Dolphins at bay with a pair of key three-pointers in the first half, continually harassed Alvin's front line in the second, finishing

NCAA slaps Lamar U. women with sanctions

Associated Press

BEAUMONT, Texas — The NCAA placed Lamar University's women's basketball program on two years probation Friday for major violations, including providing players with cars, airfare and cash.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association Committee on Infractions, which investigates alleged violations at the university level, said the violations came during the 1990-91 season when the team was led by coach Al Barbre.

That year, the team finished the regular season 29-4, won the American South Conference and went to the final eight NCAA tournament.

Barbre also was subject to sanctions, but he left the school in May 1991 amid allegations that he obtained illegal payments for some players.

"We're ready to take our medicine," Brock Brentlinger, interim president of the Beaumont campus said Friday. "We don't anticipate any appeals. We're just glad that it's over so that we can get on with this program."

The sanctions bar the team from any 1992-93 post-season play, limit the scholarships available for the 1993-94 season, and strip the school of any NCAA team or individual records achieved by ineligible athletes. The school also must provide annual progress reports to the NCAA.

The school could have faced more stringent penalties, but NCAA officials opted for lesser sanctions, saying the school helped with the investigation, replaced Barbre and established policies and added a compliance officer to reduce infractions.

The committee found that interviews with student-athletes, coaches and other officials supported the university's position that the violations were limited to Barbre's actions and that the university was unaware of the activities.

The Kansas-based regulatory body imposed the penalties after an investigation of allegations that Barbre and the school provided airline tickets, automobile transportation, cash, clothing, home appliances, recreational items, car payments and free long-distance calls to students who played for the school during the 1990-91 season.

In addition, the NCAA said, the university reported violations in its summer housing program.

Becker impressive in win over Courier

Associated Press

PARIS — Playing nearly perfect tennis, Boris Becker beat the No. 1 player in the world, American Jim Courier, to advance Friday to the semifinals of the Paris Open.

The German wasn't the only one to have a banner day. Defending champion Guy Forget of France saved two match points to defeat Stefan Edberg and also advance in the $2.1 million event.

Becker, diving to make winning volleys as if he was at Wimbledon, won 7-6 (7-5), 6-3. Forget prevailed 7-6 (5-7), 7-6 (7-5), 6-3.

"It was a nearly perfect match," Becker said. "From the first point to the last I didn't miss easy shots."

"I had to hit the corners and serve in the corners. To beat him that's the way to play."

In another quarterfinal Goran Ivanisevic of Croatia downed American David Wheaton, 6-4, 6-3.

A foot injury forced Frenchman Henri Leconte to forfeit his quarterfinal match Friday night against Jakob Hlasek. Leconte injured the foot near the end of his 6-4, 7-6 (7-5) victory over Wally Masur late Thursday.

Becker upped his career mark against Courier to 5-0.

"Boris never fails to get up when he plays the top players," Courier said. "He seems to get up when he plays me."

Becker's service was on, having 14 aces, and he did not allow Courier to have a break point against him.

Becker's ranking has dropped this year to No. 9 after a week at No. 10.

Olympic golf may be reality

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Golf moved closer Friday to inclusion in the 1996 Games as the International Olympic Committee asked Atlanta organizers to submit a formal proposal.

While debate on the merits of the plan were put off until later, golf appeared to be gaining enough high-level backing within the IOC to overcome the opposition of vice president Kevan Gosper.

"I sense that there is considerable support," acknowledged

Gosper, who elected not to raise his objections during the IOC executive board meeting with Atlanta officials.

Dr. LeRoy Walker, the new U.S. Olympic Committee president who is also a senior member of the Atlanta organizing committee, said he believes there was a consensus in favor of golf.

"I feel real good about where we're going with it," he said. "It's not a done deal but I think the thing seemed very favorable in their response today."

Red Devils blast Indians, 47-13

By Jeff Wilson
MRT Correspondent

RANKIN — OK, so Rankin got fooled once, but they wouldn't get fooled again.

When Fort Davis opened the second half of Friday night's District 8-A clash in the shotgun formation, the Red Devils bit once but that was it and what followed was clear domination as Rankin grounded out a 47-13 victory over the Indians to move one step closer to yet another district title. A Red Devil victory Friday at Garden City can clinch the league title for Rankin.

The shotgun, which Fort Davis used throughout the second half, did little in stopping Rankin drive to the playoffs.

"We weren't prepared for the shotgun and it's my fault," first-year Rankin coach Raul Sanchez said. "We've seen five or six films of (Fort Davis) and they never used it. We just adjusted to it by putting pressure on the quarterback."

It's not that Rankin was in any deep trouble when Fort Davis coach Curtis Pittman went to the shotgun, in fact things couldn't have been much better. The Red Devils were leading 20-0 at half-time and had allowed just 20 yards of offense and a single first down during the first half.

But on the Indians' first drive of the second half, quarterback Bart Jarrett completed four passes for 44 yards which took the Indians 54 yards in just five plays and cut the Rankin lead to 20-7.

"We are a read defense, we don't attack," Sanchez said. "It's a credit to our kids for hustling. We were worried about (Matt) Puckett because he's an all-around great running back and Jarrett with his option. But they didn't hurt us that much, the shotgun did. It took us a little while to adjust to it."

Adjust they did. Rankin used a quick defensive line and just a few outside stunts to sack Jarrett nine times, all nine by different players. The final total had the Indians rushing for just 20 yards on 31 tries while passing for 145 yards.

Sanchez credited the defensive surge to "hustling, pursuit tackles" by Carlos Garcia and "defensive leadership" from Keith Braden.

That defense had Jarrett running for his life all game long. Jarrett ended the game with a total of one rushing yard on 20 carries.

On the flip side, the Fort Davis defense simply couldn't stop Rankin as the Red Devils rolled to 47-yards of offense, 353 of that coming on the ground.

Rankin got a typical game from junior running back Roy Abalos. Abalos piled up 204 yards on 20 carries and scored four times on runs of 5, 35, 64 and 13 yards. Guerra scored once from 15 yards out while completing a 54-yard TD pass to Juan Bautista who made a one-handed catch across the middle. Guerra passed for 121 yards which took him over the 1,000-yard barrier.

"What sticks out to me was our sweeps," Sanchez said of his offensive explosion. "We got great blocking from our tight end (Jimmy Low), our tackle on that side (Jimmy Armendarez) and our wing-back (Joey Varela). Our running backs per-yard average must have been good. Our line of scrimmage has really come on."

Rankin's backs averaged 7.67 yards per carry with 10 of those carries going for at least 10 yards.

But now the fun part begins for the Red Devils, 8-1 overall and 4-0 in district play.

Rankin's final district battle against Garden City Friday will decide the league playoff picture for all involved — or maybe not. Simply put, a Rankin victory would wrap up the district title for the Red Devils and should Wink win, those two would advance to the state playoffs.

But a Garden City win combined with a Wink win would result in a 3-way tie for the district title. But the league's point system seems to favor Rankin.

Basically, if Wink beats Grandfalls-Royalty and Garden City defeats Rankin by nine points or more, those two teams move on to the playoffs. A Rankin loss by eight points or fewer sends the Red Devils to postseason play.

Confused, you're not the only one. But Sanchez has the perfect remedy.

"We just have to take care of our own business," Sanchez said. "We just have to hold up our own end. We're looking forward to this game."

Greenwood gets by Kermit, 22-14

KERMIT — Greenwood quarterback Jeff Dunn hit receiver Ray Seals twice as the Greenwood Rangers closed out the 1992 season with a 22-14 win over Kermit.

Greenwood ends the year at 4-5 overall, 2-2 in District 6-3A. Kermit, closes out at 4-5 overall, 3-2 in district.

Dunn's second scoring strike to Seals was a 15 yarder that put the Rangers up 15-14 in the third quarter. A few moments later, Ranger running back Donnie Strickland popped in from the one for the final score of the game.

The first Dunn-to-Seals connection was a 34 yarder in the second quarter.

Kermit scored first on a 22 yard run by Brandon Hieser.

Steers knock off Eagles in Pecos

PECOS — Oscar Cervantes scored touchdowns on both offense and defense as the Big Spring Steers captured a 24-14 District 3-4A victory here Friday night.

Cervantes, who opened the scoring with a 17-yard interception return, added a 15-yard scoring reception from Wes Hughes as the Steers lifted their record to 4-1 overall and 2-2 in league play.

Lonnie Jackson added a two-yard TD run for Big Spring and Mike Oliva chipped in with a 32-yard field goal, helping drop Pecos to 5-5 in the Eagles' season finale.

Pecos ends the 3-4A slate with a 2-4 mark. Big Spring winds up its season with a home game Friday against Fort Stockton.

Garden City edges by Grandfalls

GRANDFALLS — Jody Bradford scored twice in the second half to return Garden City from the dead and give the Beakats a 13-10 win over Grandfalls Friday night.

Grandfalls took a surprising 10-0 lead in the second quarter, and led the Beakats 10-7 at the half.

Bradford's first score was a second quarter, eight-yard run, and his decisive trot was another eight-yarder that gave the Beakats the lead in the fourth quarter.

The two teams were virtually even in total yards, Garden City with the slight edge at 257-254.

The win means Garden City (6-3 overall, 3-1 in District 8A) stays in the playoff as it welcomes Rankin to town next Friday for the regular season finale. The Beakats' only hope of advancing to the Class A playoffs would be to beat Rankin by eight points.

Wink cinched the other 8A playoff spot Friday with a win over Sanderson. Grandfalls fell to 3-5, 1-3 with the loss.

TORS: Lamesa finishes season with 6-4 mark

(From 1B)

Quarterback Cole Adams directed Plainview's wishbone offense on consecutive third-quarter scoring drives that ran off 10 and 11 plays — each punctuated by short Tony Brown TD runs — and the Tors controlled the ball for all but 2:56 of the third quarter to tie the game.

Plainview did not get a first down in the second half until the fourth quarter. "We came up a little bit short, but these kids played their tails off in the second half," Lamesa coach Gary Yoder said. "They could have folded their tent after the first half, but they didn't."

"It was a difficult week. But we didn't spend a lot of time talking about (Gibbs). We loved him and we miss him and it's a tribute to these kids that they were able to come out and play this kind of a game here tonight." Nails, who finished with a game-best 184 yards on 19 carries, broke free for the game-winning TD on the third play of the fourth quarter. And still Lamesa responded, rolling 41 yards in eight plays only to have a fourth-down pass fall shy of the mark to give Plainview the ball back with 5:50 left in the game.

"Lamesa showed a lot of character when they tied it up," Parr said. "Of course we feel like we showed a lot of character in coming back and scoring like we did." Lamesa ends the season with a 6-4 overall record, four wins better than a year ago. And the Tors' 2-3 mark is a two-game improvement over their 1992 effort.

"We said from the start that we wanted to improve every week and be competitive in the district, and we believe we reached those goals," Yoder said.

Corey Kelly led the Lamesa attack with 91 yards on 18 carries. Plainview had allowed just one third-quarter TD all year before Lamesa earned the back-to-back scores.

Brown, who had 27 yards, scored on runs of one and two yards.

MCS: Mustangs open playoffs on the road

(From 1B)

The football team got the hint and darn nearly beat that by scoring two minutes into the game on a six-yard touchdown run by Jackson.

Thirty-eight seconds later, Lane Hill sacked the Agape quarterback in the end zone for a safety and a 10-0 MC lead.

Before the MC fans could catch their breath, Clay Gunter blazed 70 yards on the ensuing kick for a 16-0 lead.

While the MCS offense piled up 500 total offensive yards, the Mustangs' defense held Agape to 109 total yards.

"When you win like this you tend to ask yourself how good your team really is," MCS head coach James Blake said of his Mustangs. After all, El Paso was no patsy. They entered the game with a shot of tying for the league title.

Looking back on the regular season, Blake said he expected to be rebuilding.

"Whenever you lose nine seniors," Blake said, "you have to work even harder to get back to where you were or to be even better."

However, when you're the defending state champs, you do what the Mustangs did this season — win and win with ease.

Against Agape, the Mustangs never let the Conquerors into the game. By the time it was 16-0, the reserves came in and reserved 20 more points on the scoreboard.

Said Blake, "when you have the kind of attitude that these kids play with, it makes them want to win even more."

Leading, 44-7 at the half, the Mustangs helped the Conquerors get back on the bus to El Paso on a Gunter 38-yard touchdown run, followed by an Andy Awtry 21-yard scoring pass back to Lathan Houghton.

Houghton's touchdown may be the last time the Mustangs score at home this year, as MCS begins its trek to the title in the first round on the road. If Midland Christian makes it to the final round, the championship could be played at home.

"We start the second season now," Blake said. "And we're ready."

Fight over Giants' move grows ugly

N.Y. Times News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — The fight over the future of the Giants — already laced with power, personality and politics — exploded in a volley of hostile accusations regarding a letter allegedly written by the 89-year-old widow of former Giants owner Horace Stoneham.

Stoneham's 30-year-old granddaughter, Jaime Rupert, a volunteer in the effort to keep the team in San Francisco, admitted that she signed her ailing grandmother's name to a letter sent to baseball team owners.

The letter begged the owners to reject the relocation of the Giants to Florida, stating, "When my late husband Horace Stoneham brought the club out to San Francisco, he had every intention of the club remaining in the City permanently."

Rupert works out of office of San Francisco investor Walter Shorenstein, a principal in the effort to keep the Giants from moving. She signed an affidavit Friday swearing that her grandmother had agreed to the contents of the letter and had signed an earlier draft of the letter written on old Giants stationery.

Meanwhile, a second letter, also bearing Stoneham's signature, has been sent to all baseball owners saying that she had nothing to do with the first letter.

Giants executives — who are trying to move the team to Florida and who attacked the first letter as a forgery — acknowledged that they composed the second letter.

But they said Stoneham's signature on the bottom of that letter is legitimate.

In explaining the confusing situation, both sides took the opportunity to lambaste the other, alleging shameful tactics, deception and possible criminal activity.

"PURE COUNTRY" IS PURE PLEASURE.

Arizona could hold key to Alabama's future

Associated Press

Roll Tide, roll — right to the top. This Alabama could do Saturday, with help from Arizona, and there would be nothing Miami could do about it.

Arizona almost messed up Miami's national championship hopes Sept. 26, losing 8-7 to the Hurricanes at Miami. Now the 12th-ranked Wildcats (5-2) get a shot at top-ranked Washington (8-0) at Tucson, Ariz.

Since second-ranked Miami (8-0) is idle, third-ranked Alabama (8-0) could vault into the top spot in the AP poll by rolling against Louisiana State should Washington lose.

Arizona will be trying for a fifth straight victory that would improve its national ranking and also be a big step toward an appearance in a bowl game. "I just don't want to get into it," Arizona coach Dick Tomey said when asked who he thought was better, Washington or Miami.

He did say, however, "We're playing them at home. They respect us; Miami didn't. It's totally different."

Washington will be without backup quarterback Bill Joe Hobert, suspended for one game by the university Thursday pending investigation of $50,000 in loans he received from an Idaho businessman last spring.

Tomey said the suspension won't make any difference.

Coach Curley Hallman of LSU (1-7) said he hasn't seen much of Washington or Miami, but he's seen plenty of Alabama.

"It'd be hard for me to imagine that someone could be that much better than them," Hallman said of the visiting Crimson Tide, who haven't lost at Baton Rouge since 1969.

Of the three other unbeaten teams in the Top 25, ninth-ranked Boston College (7-0-1) appears to have a much tougher task Saturday than either fourth-ranked Michigan (7-0-1) or No. 5 Texas A&M (8-0).

Michigan plays at Northwestern (2-6) and Texas A&M is at home against Louisville (4-5). But Boston College's opponent is eighth-ranked Notre Dame (6-1-1) at South Bend, Ind.

The Boston College-Notre Dame game should be an offensive show.

The Eagles are led by the passing of Glen Foley, who is 95 of 167 for 1,524 yards and 11 touchdowns, with seven interceptions; and the running of Chuckie Dukes, who has averaged six yards on 172 carries.

"I never liked Notre Dame," Foley said, "... They don't throw the ball. When I was growing up and watching football, I liked teams that threw the ball."

Foley and his BC teammates could learn to really dislike running teams Saturday. Reggie Brooks has rushed for 864 yards and eight touchdowns for the Fighting Irish, and teammate Jerome Bettis has run for 694 yards and nine TDs.

"... If the same football team resided in South Bend or State College, Pa., or whatever that is, they'd be in the Top 10," said Osborne.

More Sports/8B

In other games involving Top 10 teams, No. 6 Florida State (7-1) plays at home against Maryland (2-7) and No. 10 Syracuse (7-1) is at home against Virginia Tech (2-5-1).

Other Top 25 teams in action will be No. 11 Southern California at No. 21 Stanford, Southern Mississippi at No. 14 Florida, Oklahoma State at No. 16 Colorado, No. 17 North Carolina State at Virginia, No. 18 North Carolina at Clemson, Arkansas at No. 19 Mississippi State, No. 20 Texas at Texas Christian, Minnesota at No. 22 Ohio State, and Arizona State at No. 25 Washington State.

KU, Nebraska holds title implications

Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — The inside track to the Big Eight championship — and its automatic Orange Bowl berth — is at stake Saturday in the game between the only two teams unbeaten in the conference, Kansas and Nebraska.

Coach Glen Mason said though his 13th ranked Jayhawks lead the Big Eight by a game over the No. 7 Cornhuskers, his team doesn't have the depth of Nebraska.

"They played 86 football players in that game against Colorado,"

Mason said. "I don't have 86 players on my team."

Nebraska won't buy any of that "poor me" talk from the Jayhawks, according to defensive tackle John Parrella.

Nobody is taking Kansas for granted, even after one of Nebraska's best games of the season in the 52-7 victory over Colorado last week in Lincoln, he said.

"Everybody felt Colorado was a big game," Parrella said. "I'm taking this as a big game. This is Colorado Part II for me. I don't care what anybody else says."

Parrella said the Husker defense will have its hands full with Kansas' run-pass balance, which has lifted the Jayhawks to fourth in the nation in scoring and ninth in rushing. Kansas is fourth in the Big Eight in passing behind Colorado, Missouri and Oklahoma.

"If you're a defensive lineman, this is the kind of game you want to be in," Parrella said. "This is what they groom us for. They don't groom us for the pass. They groom us for the run."

"It's going to be like seeing ourselves over there," he said. "It's going to a head-banger. I don't see any non-contact out there Saturday. It's going to be a big-hitting game."

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne has not lost in 19 meetings with Kansas, though he had a scare last year until I-back Calvin Jones took over in the second to fire the Cornhuskers to a 59-23 win.

Jones came off the bench for an injured Derek Brown and ran for a Nebraska record 294 yards on 27 carries. He also scored a Big Eight record six touchdowns.

Cowboys have upper-hand this time

Associated Press

PONTIAC, Mich. — A year ago, the Dallas Cowboys and Detroit Lions were considered two of the up-and-coming teams in the NFL. It turns out that was only a mirage.

The Cowboys and Lions were more like ships passing in the night.

The Lions beat the Cowboys twice last season, including a 38-6 spanking in the playoffs. Yet, when Dallas (7-1) and Detroit (2-6) meet Sunday in the Silverdome, the Cowboys will be at least seven-point favorites.

The Cowboys have the best record in the NFL. The Lions' record is among the worst.

"We know the capability of Detroit," Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said. "We look at their lineup. It's the same lineup we faced Jan. 5, except for the missing offensive linemen."

But that's a major difference. The Lions lost Mike Utley to a career-ending neck injury Nov. 17. Then Erik Andolsek was killed in a freak truck accident during the summer. Finally, the Lions have lost five starting offensive linemen to injuries since the start of this season. The latest was center Kevin Glover, who broke his right leg two weeks ago.

"The Washington Redskins were saying they lost last week because they lost two offensive linemen," Lions' coach Wayne Fontes said. "My word, we've lost five!"

Fontes and his staff scrambling to keep the players focused. With half the season to be played, the Lions are virtually eliminated from the 1992 playoffs already.

"We'll keep going the rest of the year," Fontes insisted. "I don't think this team will fold. I don't think they'll pack it in. It'll be my job to make sure it doesn't happen. I'll do my job."

There are many factors in the Cowboys' upward surge. Certainly, the play of quarterback Troy Aikman and the running of Emmitt Smith have been important.

But, almost as long as there has been an NFL, championship teams have been built with defense. The Cowboys certainly have improved on that area.

As a result of their convincing 20-10 victory over Philadelphia last week, the Cowboys are the No. 1 defensive team in the NFL. The Eagles were the league's best defensive team until rolling into Dallas.

The Cowboys are first in total defense, allowing an average of 242.8 yards per game. They also are first in the NFC in rushing defense, allowing 80.3 yards per game. And they're third in the conference at stopping the pass, allowing 162.5 yards through the air.

The key has been the Cowboys' success at stopping third-down conversion attempts. They rank first in the NFL in that department. Dallas opponents have been successful on just 23.9 percent on third down. And in the last four games — against Seattle, Kansas City, the Los Angeles Raiders and Philadelphia — Dallas' opponents have converted on just seven of 44 third-down attempts.

"We've made some improvements with our defensive team," Johnson said. "We've added a couple of players. We knew last season we had to upgrade our defense."

Defensive end Charles Haley leads the Cowboys in quarterback pressures with 31, more than three times as many as his closest teammates. And last week strong safety Thomas Everett had his best game as a Cowboy, making 11 tackles against the Eagles.

None of which gives Fontes much reason to smile. Yet, he does.

"There is one thing that has to happen," Fontes said. "The game has to be played. We might have to get out of the Red Cross truck. But we will show up."

Chandler has developed into quality QB

Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Chris Chandler finally realized that being a good NFL quarterback was practically a year-round job.

Chandler, inconsistent during earlier stints with Indianapolis and Tampa Bay, has been playing well for the Phoenix Cardinals this season.

"When he was at Indianapolis and Tampa Bay, I think he couldn't wait to get on the plane to go back to Seattle, where he lived," Cardinals coach Joe Bugel said. "Now he lives in Phoenix."

"He became more of a locker room bum. He wanted to learn how to play and we took time with him on the field and you could see him grow by leaps and bounds. He took the game more seriously."

"He realized it was a big-time business and if he was going to make his move in the NFL, he was going to have to work at least 10 months a year and that's what he did."

Chandler, who will lead the Cardinals (2-6) Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams (3-5), moved into the starting job after Timm Rosenbach was injured early in the season.

Chandler has completed more than 60 percent of his passes this year, throwing for 1,563 yards, with 11 touchdowns and five interceptions.

"I came down in March and spent the whole offseason (in Phoenix)," he said. "I was able to work with (offensive coordinator) Jerry Rhyme and learn the offense."

Looking back on his time with the Colts and the Buccaneers, when he was in and out of a starting role, Chandler said: "The last 2½ years were interesting, I suppose. Those were confusing times for me."

"I feel I'm in a position now where I can succeed," added Chandler, acquired on waivers from Tampa Bay last November.

"Chris is playing at a very good level," Bugel said. "He's a well-prepared quarterback and Jerry Rhyme made the statement the other day he's probably the smartest quarterback he's ever been around."

"He's improved at passing the football. Last year he threw the ball. He has a big strong arm and last year he threw the ball downfield but missed a lot of targets. This year he's throwing the ball with a great deal of accuracy."

As a rookie out of the University of Washington in 1988, Chandler became the starter at Indianapolis after Jack Trudeau was injured. The Colts were 9-4 with Chandler at the controls.

He started the first three games of 1989 before suffering a season-ending knee injury. In 1990, he started just three games for the Colts. In 1991, Tampa Bay acquired him as a backup for Vinny Testaverde.

Phoenix finally acquired Chandler after Tom Tupa and Stan Gelbaugh didn't work out as replacements for Rosenbach, who was sidelined for 1991 with a knee injury.

Loans could affect Huskies' future

Associated Press

SEATTLE — Unsecured loans totaling $50,000 to quarterback Billy Joe Hobert could lead to the forfeiture of games he played for top-ranked Washington, the Pacific-10 Conference commissioner says.

Meanwhile, a key NCAA official called the loans — made in three installments last spring — the largest in memory and said the amount will be a factor in how the case is resolved.

A decision on the now-suspended Hobert's eligibility won't be made before next week, and forfeiture of games he played earlier this season is up to the league, Pac-10 commissioner Tom Hansen said Friday in a statement.

While school officials said they feared the Huskies (8-0, 5-0 in the Pac-10) might have to forfeit games, that scenario did not seem likely because the conference generally does not take action more harsh than that of the NCAA.

NCAA rules don't require forfeiture of games played before a player is suspended in such cases

"unless the institution knew of the violation when the individual was competing or when the individual competes in an NCAA championship," the statement said.

Hobert, a junior who was demoted earlier this season from starter to backup, was suspended by the top-ranked Huskies on Thursday following a newspaper report on loans he received from the father-in-law of a golfing partner last spring.

He will miss Washington's game Saturday at No. 12 Arizona.

Orlando rookie Shaquille O'Neal, right, grabbed 18 rebounds and scored 12 points in his NBA debut Friday night.

O'Neal a 'can't miss' property

By Trey Iles

The Times-Picayune

NEW ORLEANS — Shaquille O'Neal, the former Louisiana State super star now beginning an NBA career, wanted to be a break-dancing rapper when he was a kid.

"But when I was 15, I was big and I realized I was pretty good at basketball," O'Neal, of San Antonio, said. "So that's what I decided to do."

That move will no doubt result in untold riches for O'Neal, not only with his seven-year, $40 million contract with the Orlando Magic, but also in the sports market place.

He is, quite simply, a "can't miss" in the advertising business. Dominating on-court potential. Childlike? Yes, if you get around the 7-foot, 300-pound body.

Those attractive ingredients have sponsors swooning over O'Neal, and he hasn't wasted time capitalizing.

He already has generated $50 million in salary and endorsements and is merely warming up.

He is expected, in the post-Larry Bird-Magic Johnson era, to become a marketing force. He has an exclusive contract with Classic Trading Cards for his rookie card.

Other commercial possibilities include a computer game, toys, figurines, a soft-drink endorsement and a deal with a fast-food franchise that plans a special Shaq snack (or snack).

"He will figure heavily in our advertising," Reebok spokesman John Gillis said. "Shaq has a real fresh identity. He's going to be a force. He's going to be one of the most visible athletes we have available."

So when will the Shaq attack marketing blitz begin? Soon. Gillis said to expect commercials featuring O'Neal, who signed a five-year contract with Reebok in June, to begin airing soon.

"The timetable is not yet set in stone," Gillis said. "You'll probably see some (commercials) early in the season. But those won't be our best efforts. Then right before the Super Bowl, you'll see some really spectacular spots."

Reebok plans to market a Shaq shoe and Shaq clothes designed with his likeness and name.

"We're just in the T-shirt stage right now," Gillis said. "We did a few promotional T-shirts in the Northeast, and the response was beyond our expectations. We're hoping to have some of the stuff out by the holidays, although it will probably be in a select area. Next spring is when you should see a lot."

Spalding said its advertising campaign will start in January. You'll see a life-size cardboard figure of O'Neal greeting you in sporting goods stores.

You'll be able to buy a Shaq basketball, a Shaq backboard and rim — an outdoor or indoor version — and school notebooks with Shaq's big smile.

"We feel he will make an immediate impact in the sporting goods industry," Spalding vice president Jack Lacey said. "He will transcend the endorsement world in terms of consumer appeal."

O'Neal's anticipated gold rush isn't just because of his size and abilities, marketing experts said. He also has very good representation.

O'Neal is represented by Los Angeles lawyer Leonard Armato, who has Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Hakeem Olajuwon among his clients. Armato, who negotiated O'Neal's NBA contract, also is handling his marketing ventures.

Beth Shuler, a spokeswoman for Armato, said many companies are hoping to sign O'Neal to endorse their products.

"They're all seeking out Shaq," Shuler said. "We think he'll be the next Michael Jordan. You'll be seeing a lot of him."

While the sports marketing experts agree that O'Neal will have a big impact, they say to compare him to Jordan, the athletic world's top endorser, is premature.

"I think he'll certainly be in the top five in the NBA," said sports marketing expert Michael Kamins, a professor of marketing at the University of Southern California. "But he needs to have a good start this season. He needs to make an impact. We really don't know what his market value will be, because he hasn't performed in the NBA. But he does have good credentials."

Developing marketing appeal is not an overnight thing, said Steve Riggins, a sports agent with International Management Group. "Remember, Jordan's success was gradual. It didn't happen right away. And to say he's the next Jordan is a bit of a reach. Jordan is on a totally different level than anyone else."

That's why it's so important for O'Neal to have a good start to his first NBA season, experts said.

"Our expectation level for the first season is that he'll perform well, not that he'll dominate," Gillis said. "As he matures and spends time in the league, we think he will be dominant force."

O'Neal, Daly win their debuts

Shaq can thank teammate for opening night win, though

Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — Shaquille O'Neal is the new man in town, although he's not yet the star of the Orlando Magic.

The NBA's top draft pick made his regular-season debut with 12 points and grabbing 18 rebounds in support of Nick Anderson's career-high 42 points that paced a 110-100 victory over the Miami Heat.

The rookie center, who fouled out with 1:32 remaining, also blocked three shots and brought an Orlando Arena crowd of 15,151 to its feet by grabbing a rebound and dribbling uncourt to score on a thunderous dunk in the closing seconds of the opening quarter.

Anderson was the story of the game, though. The fourth-year team's first-ever draft pick in the 1989 collegiate draft hit 17 of 26 shots from the field and scored 10 points in the first five minutes of the fourth period to help the Magic pull away from an 81-81 tie.

Dennis Scott added 27 points for Orlando, which trailed 65-56 at the half. The Magic shot 59 percent in the third quarter to make up the difference and held Miami to one field goal in the first eight minutes of the fourth period.

Willie Burton led Miami with 23 points. Glen Rice and Rony Seikaly added 19 and 16 points, respectively, for the Heat.

Nets 114, 76ers 111

PHILADELPHIA — Derrick Coleman hit a go-ahead jumper with 54 seconds remaining and Chris Morris scored 28 points in New Jersey's victory over the Philadelphia 76ers in Chuck Daly's debut as Nets coach.

Drazen Petrovic finished with 27 points for the Nets, while Jeff Hornacek had 22 and Hersey Hawkins 21 for the 76ers, playing under new coach Doug Moe.

Philadelphia led 111-108 on two free throws by Ron Anderson with 1:53 remaining, but Kenny Anderson made a steal and layup before Coleman hit key his jumper.

Coleman then blocked a driving shot by Hawkins with 4 seconds to go, setting up Petrovic's two free throws after a jump-ball foul.

New Jersey led by as many as 11 points in the first quarter, but the 76ers rallied, taking their first lead of the game, 48-46, on two free throws by Hornacek with 2:54 left in the second quarter.

The Nets regained the lead, 54-52, on a 3-point shot by Morris, but two foul shots by Ron Anderson gave Philadelphia a 56-54 halftime lead. Morris scored 20 points in the half.

Celtics 113, Timberwolves 92

BOSTON — Larry Bird is gone and the Boston Celtics keep winning. They can even beat the Minnesota Timberwolves.

The Celtics, who lost both their games against lowly Minnesota last season, opened this season with a victory behind 27 points from their new captain, Reggie Lewis.

The Timberwolves, whose 15-67 record was the NBA's worst last season, were the only team in league history not to have a losing record against Boston until Friday night. The Celtics now hold a 4-3 edge.

Ruidoso golf course provides economic boon

By Pete Herrera

AP Sports Writer

RUIDOSO, N.M. — The Scottish-like mounds that border the front nine fairways once were part of an airport runway. The backside holes meander through the oak, fir and pine trees of the Lincoln National Forest.

Since opening in the spring of 1991, The Links at Sierra Blanca has become one of New Mexico's top resort golf courses while providing an economic boost to the once-struggling economy in Ruidoso.

The course, designed and managed by Senior PGA Tour member Jim Colbert, was partially built on the former site of the Ruidoso airport. The asphalt that covered the airport's runway was broken up and used to create the mounds that are the dominant feature of the course's first nine holes.

"Jim Colbert figured we could save a lot of money if we didn't have to haul the asphalt away," said course general manager Jeff Miller.

The mounds of asphalt were covered with five to six feet of top soil and dirt and planted with grass. The result was the dune-like effect common on courses in Scotland.

"It was going to be a Plain-Jane, nothing-to-it course on the front nine, but with the mounds, it be-

Boston's Xavier McDaniel, right, tries for the loose ball with Minnesota's Michael Williams.

Minnesota scored the first four points on baskets by Chuck Person and Micheal Williams, but Boston got the next 13 and stayed ahead by four to 12 points until nine minutes remained.

Then a basket by Lewis began a 14-2 surge that gave Boston a 102-83 lead with 4:37 to go. Boston got the first 10 points in the run, four each by Lewis and Dee Brown and two by Rick Fox.

Bulls 101, Cavaliers 96

RICHFIELD, Ohio — Scottie Pippen scored the first nine points of the fourth quarter and Michael Jordan hit two clinching free throws with 12 seconds left as the Chicago Bulls began defense of their two NBA titles by beating the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Jordan scored 29 points and Pippen had 22 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists for the Bulls, who ousted the Cavaliers in six games in the Eastern Conference finals last season. Larry Nance led Cleveland with 24 points.

Cleveland entered the fourth quarter protecting a 77-76 lead that disappeared quickly as the Cavaliers missed their first seven shots of the period. Pippen's dunk on a tip-in with 11:22 left gave the Bulls the lead for good, and they expanded the margin to 10 on Jordan's 20-footer with 7:42 left.

The Cavaliers, inspired by an enthusiastic sellout crowd of 20,273, closed to 95-94 when Daugherty sank one of two foul shots with 1:26 left. Jordan and Daugherty then exchanged baskets before Jordan's free throws made it 99-96.

Following a timeout, Mark Price dribbled the length of the floor and took a wild 3-pointer in traffic that barely got out of his hand. Horace Grant then closed the scoring with two free throws.

Knicks 106, Hawks 94

ATLANTA — Dominique Wilkins became the 17th NBA player to reach the 20,000-point mark in a loss as the New York Knicks beat the Atlanta Hawk.

Wilkins, out since last Jan. 28

Wilkins finished with 30 points in the season-opener for both teams.

Despite foul trouble, Patrick Ewing led the Knicks with 22 points and John Starks added 18. New York never trailed in winning a season opener for only the second time in the last eight years.

The Knicks broke a 2-2 tie on a 3-point play by Starks just over one minute into the game. They built a 12-point lead in the first 4½ minutes.

Atlanta got within two only once the rest of the way, on a Wilkins drive with 56 seconds left in the first half, cutting the lead to 50-48.

Bucks 86, Pistons 81

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — The new-look Milwaukee Bucks, beginning their 25th NBA season, got 19 points from Frank Brickowski to defeat the new-look Detroit Pistons.

That gave Mike Dunleavy, the fifth coach in Milwaukee franchise history, something the other four never had — a victory in his first game.

Despite the effort by Brickowski, the game wasn't settled until the final 1:21. With the score tied 81-81, Fred Roberts converted a three-point play and newcomer Blue Edwards made two free throws for the final margin.

Isiah Thomas, who had only 10 points for Detroit, missed his last 12 shots, including a pair of 3-point attempts in the final 30 seconds. Thomas was 4 of 25 for the night.

Joe Dumars scored 21 points for Detroit, playing its first game under coach Ron Rothstein. Mark Aguirre added 18 for the Pistons, who shot just 32 percent and missed 15 of 40 free throws.

The Bucks, outrebounded 54-40, shot 49 percent and sank 14 of 17 free throws.

Hornets 126, Bullets 119

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Larry Johnson scored 15 of his 29 points in the fourth quarter, leading the Charlotte Hornets over the Washington Bullets.

The Hornets, playing without unsigned No. 1 draft pick Alonzo Mourning, broke away from a 109-108 edge with a 8-2 spurt.

Johnson, last season's NBA Rookie of the Year, started the run with two free throws. Then, with 3:29 remaining, he stepped behind the 3-point line and sank the shot to give Charlotte a 117-110 lead.

Johnson also grabbed 13 rebounds for the Hornets, matching teammate Kenny Gattison.

After trailing by 18 in the second half, the Bullets narrowed the gap to four when Rex Chapman, who finished with 25 points for the Bullets, hit one of two free throws with 2:18 remaining game.

But Muggsy Bogues stole the ball and passed to Johnny Newman, who converted a three-point play to make it 120-113. Newman finished with 27 points, hitting 13 of 15 free throws as the Hornets missed only 4 of 38 from the line.

Warriors 129, Jazz 114

SALT LAKE CITY — Billy Owens had 29 points and 13 rebounds and Chris Mullin scored six of his 26 points during a 25-6 spurt in the second quarter that carried Golden State over the Utah Jazz.

The Jazz, who went 37-4 at home to lead the NBA last season, led 42-33 with 8:27 left in the first half before the Warriors used an 15-3 run, including Mullin's six points, to take the lead for good, 48-45. By the time the run ended on Jeff Grayer's basket with 2:43 left, Golden State had a 58-48 lead.

The Jazz, despite 33 points by Karl Malone, got no closer than six points the rest of the way. Malone scored five points during a 13-4 run that made it 109-103 with 5:08 left in the game, but the Warriors scored 20 points in the final five minutes to pull away.

Moses out indefinitely

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Veteran center Moses Malone will undergo surgery to remove a herniated disc and will be lost to the Milwaukee Bucks for an indefinite period.

Malone, who has been placed on the injured list, was bothered by the back problem from the beginning of training camp. The 37-year-old veteran, who is in his 17th NBA season, was trying to play through the pain without surgery.

But he changed his mind after meeting with Dr. David Haskell, the team's orthopedic consultant.

"Moses is going to have a removal of a herniated disc that has been pinching the root of his sciatic nerve," Haskell said Friday in statement released by the Bucks. The surgery will be performed Wednesday at Elmhurst Hospital.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

MENELEK II, EMPEROR OF ABYSSINIA DURING THE LATE 1800'S, ACTUALLY SET OUT TO EAT THE WHOLE BIBLE! THE ANGLICAN BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER SAYS OF HOLY SCRIPTURES "...READ, MARK, LEARN, AND INWARDLY DIGEST THEM." OBVIOUSLY, MENELEK TOOK THE WORD "DIGEST" LITERALLY!

HE HAD BEEN SUFFERING FROM A CHRONIC ILLNESS FOR A LONG TIME AND, CONVINCED THAT THE PRINTED TEXT HAD HEALING POWERS, THE EMPEROR MUNCHED TWO PAGES A DAY! THIS DIET MAY NOT HAVE CURED WHAT AILED HIM, BUT APPARENTLY IT DID HIM NO VISIBLE HARM....

...UNTIL HE REACHED FIRST KINGS! MENELEK NIBBLED NOT ONLY VERSES, BUT UPON REACHING A SECTION OF ILLUSTRATIONS DEPICTING THE MANY KINGS OF ISRAEL, AND BEING A KING HIMSELF, HE DEVoured THEM AS WELL! ALAS, HE COULD EVIDENTLY DIGEST WORDS BUT NOT PICTURES—THE POISON IN THE COLORED INKS FINISHED HIM OFF!

NEXT WEEK: THE BIBLE DIVIDED!

Church group to have office at new mall

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — A huge new indoor shopping mall here may boost commerce, but a religious coalition also sees it as an opportunity to offer spiritual guidance.

The Mall Area Religious Council, made up of 20 churches and religious agencies, hopes to inject religious values into the complex by being "right in the middle of it," says the group's president, the Rev. Delton Krueger.

Developers say the 4.2 million-square-foot mall, which includes an amusement park and 40 restaurants and nightclubs, is the largest enclosed retail and entertainment complex in the United States.

Krueger, director of United Methodist Church's Minnesota conference, advocates "spiritual conversation at the mall of America," saying "materialism is not enough."

The coalition will staff an information office about area religious services and plans to sponsor events on religion, ethics and values. A chaplain service will assist shoppers who become ill, workers who face personal problems and out-of-town visitors encountering difficulties.

Krueger said shoppers and workers should "see beyond things and money to the spiritual human values given by the Creator — generosity, compassion, dignity, forgiveness, gentleness."

Are Your Kids Into "Masters Of The Universe?"
Lifescope Says "Meet The Real Hero!"

Announce this far and wide: Get ready for war! Conscript your best soldiers; collect all your armies. Gather together and come, all nations everywhere. And now, O Lord, bring down Your warriors!

Then I saw heaven opened and a white horse standing there; and the One sitting on the horse was named "Faithful and True" - the One Who justly punishes and makes war. His eyes were like flames, and on His head were many crowns. A name was written on His forehead, and only He knew its meaning. He was clothed with garments dipped in blood, and His title was "The Word of God." The armies of heaven, dressed in finest linen, white and clean, followed Him on white horses.

It is a day of darkness and gloom, of black clouds and thick darkness. What a mighty army! It covers the mountains like night! How great, how powerful these "people" are! The likes of them have not been seen before, and never will again throughout the generations of the world! Look at them leaping along the tops of the mountain! Listen to the noise they make, like the rumbling of chariots, or the roar of fire sweeping across a field, and like a mighty army moving into battle. These "soldiers" charge like infantry; they scale the walls like picked and trained commandos. Straight forward they march, never breaking ranks. They never crowd each other. Each is right in place. No weapon can stop them. The earth quakes before them and the heavens tremble. The sun and moon are obscured and the stars are hid.

The Lord leads them with a shout. This is His mighty army and they follow His orders. The day of the judgment of the Lord is an awesome, terrible thing. Who can endure it?

In His mouth He held a sharp sword to strike down the nations; He ruled them with an iron grip; and He trod the winepress of the fierceness of the wrath of Almighty God. On His robe and thigh was written this title: "King of Kings and Lord of Lords." That is why the Lord says, "Turn to Me now, while there is time. Give Me all your hearts. Come with fasting, weeping, mourning. Let your remorse tear at your hearts and not your garments." Return to the Lord your God, for He is gracious and merciful. He is not easily angered; He is full of kindness, and anxious not to punish you.

Neo-Nazi hardliners boycott huge German rally against racism

BERLIN (AP) — Two boys barely into their teens are arrested for wrecking 90 Jewish graves. Two others beat and partially blind an African man. More kids assault a girl they mistake for a foreigner. This was 24 hours in Germany, and such depressingly routine attacks represent the nation's principal social problem as it prepares for a nationwide rally for tolerance this Sunday in Berlin. But the event itself has divided Chancellor Helmut Kohl's political alliance and is being boycotted by hard-liners who call it a pathetic gesture that fails to deal with the real problem: too many foreign refugees. Max Streibl, the powerful arch-conservative governor of Bavaria, derided the rally Friday as "a funeral march for a helpless democracy." Streibl is a member of the Christian Social Union, the Bavarian ally of Kohl's Christian Democrats.

At a CSU meeting Friday, party leader and Kohl's own finance minister, Theo Waigel, backed Streibl's rally boycott. Waigel demanded instead that action be taken on toughening Germany's liberal asylum law, which he said has lured 70 percent of Europe's refugees to Germany. Kohl, President Richard von Weizsäcker and numerous other influential Germans are to attend the rally. More than 80,000 people are expected for a march leading to east Berlin's Lustgarten.

Sunday's rally is the government's almost desperate attempt to do something about the more than 1,600 acts of violence against foreigners this year.

EC dispute shows no signs of cooling

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — European Community leaders on Friday ruled out quick retaliation over punitive U.S. tariffs and promised further negotiations to avoid a full-blown trade war.

France defended its farm subsidies in the face of efforts by Germany, Britain and other states to move toward a deal with Washington and avoid a trade war that could threaten hundreds of thousands of jobs on both sides of the Atlantic.

British Prime Minister John Major, current president of the 12-nation trade bloc, met urgently with Jacques Delors, the French official who heads the EC's executive agency.

Delors, who has ambitions to become France's president, has been accused of sabotaging the trade talks to support his home country. He denied Friday that he had interfered in the talks or was biased toward the French position.

The United States argues the farm subsidies keep prices for European farm goods unfairly low and rob American farmers of sales. France, the EC's biggest agricultural producer, says deeper cuts could drive many of its small farmers out of business and threaten a rural way of life dear to the French people.

Fearful that the fight could spread, the international organization that oversees world trade — the 105-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — called an emergency meeting Tuesday in Geneva.

France remained defiant. "If we lay down every time the Americans raised their finger, we wouldn't exist," Agriculture Minister Jean-Pierre Soisson said.

Washington announced penalty tariffs for $300 million worth of white wine and other EC goods Thursday. That came after talks failed to bring an agreement on U.S. demands for further cuts in the community's subsidies for farmers.

Some EC leaders blame Paris for derailing the talks with the United States, which aimed the penalty taxes primarily at French goods. The disagreement has held up a new GATT accord on lowering trade barriers, which supporters estimate could inject $200 billion into the stagnant world economy.

After Delors' meeting with Major on Friday, the British government released a statement saying the two leaders "agreed the negotiations must continue to avoid a trade war."

Ray MacSharry of Ireland quit as EC trade negotiator Thursday, citing undue pressure from Delors to slow down the trade talks with Washington.

Trade ministers from the EC nations began two days of talks at an English country manor north of London. EC foreign ministers planned to discuss the situation Monday.

A senior British official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said no decision would be made for now on retaliating against the U.S. tariffs. He said the community would concentrate on reaching an agreement before the U.S. penalties take effect Dec. 5.

A community official, who agreed to discuss the crisis only if his name were not used, suggested the EC might target American farm goods for retaliation if the dispute was not defused. He noted that $4 billion worth of U.S. soybeans, soy meal and corn gluten are imported by the bloc each year.

That could trigger a second round of penalty tariffs by Washington. In announcing the punitive tariffs Thursday, the Bush administration issued a list of $1.7 billion worth of other European goods that could be hit with tariffs.

Political leaders in France are wary of antagonizing farmers with parliamentary elections scheduled for March.

Agriculture plays a much bigger role in France's economy than it does in other industrial nations. About 6 percent of workers are employed on farms, more than double the level in the United States. Government leaders fear that after several years of drought, lower prices and tougher foreign competition would drive many small farmers bankrupt and drive up unemployment.

But beyond the statistics, farming areas have a strong hold on the imagination of all Frenchman, rural and city dweller alike. Many city people spend their holidays in rural areas or visit relatives who have stayed on the farm.

"We're not just defending our economic interests, but the very existence of our farmers," Senate President Rene Monory said Friday.

Unemployment rate drops; hiring remains slow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dipped to a six-month low of 7.4 percent in October, the government said Friday in a report showing President-elect Clinton will inherit an economy still struggling to shake off the recession.

"For the immediate future, the growth picture is weak and there will be much for President Clinton to worry about in January," said William C. Dunkelberg, dean of the business school at Temple University.

Clinton was well aware of trouble ahead that was reflected in the Labor Department report that showed that even though unemployment inched down, employers hired few new workers.

"While the slight drop in the unemployment number today is a step in the right direction, the numbers also sent a sign that our economy is still not creating enough jobs," the president-elect said in a statement from Little Rock, Ark. "Creating new jobs and getting our economy moving again will be my top priority as president," he added.

The October jobless rate, down from a seasonally adjusted 7.5 percent in September, marked the fourth consecutive improvement since it hit an eight-year high of 7.8 percent in June. It was the lowest rate since April's 7.2 percent.

However, the department noted that the latest rate reduction occurred because many teenagers returned to school, shrinking the labor force, not because more people found jobs.

Despite the steady decline in the unemployment rate since June, "There has been virtually no increase in the number of employed persons," William G. Barron Jr., deputy commissioner of labor statistics, told Congress' Joint Economic Committee.

In advance, economists had expected last month's unemployment rate to hold at 7.5 percent or perhaps tick up to 7.6 percent. A separate survey of employers' payrolls, showing a small gain of 27,000 jobs to 108.4 million in October, was in line with their predictions.

That followed the elimination of 72,000 jobs in September, revised from an earlier estimate of a 57,000-job loss.

The payroll total was depressed by the loss of 22,000 temporary summer jobs in October and 118,000 in September. The jobs for youths were created by Congress after the Los Angeles riot.

Without the losses from that program, payrolls would have grown by 46,000 in September and 49,000 in October.

Economists consider that a sign of only modest improvement. They say the economy no longer appears to be in danger of relapsing into recession, but they don't expect better than sluggish growth until late next year.

"That means the unemployment rate ... should slowly improve, but a year from now it won't be back to where it was before the recession began (5.1 percent in June 1990) by any means," said economist David Wyss of DRI-McGraw Hill in Lexington, Mass.

On a brighter note, both the number of hours worked and the average hourly pay of non-farm, non-supervisory workers rose, producing a $2.82 increase to $367.43 in seasonally adjusted average weekly earnings last month.

"That will put a little more money in the hands of Christmas shoppers," said economist Sandra Shaber of the WEFA Group, a Bala Cynwyd, Pa., forecasting firm.

In other economic news, the Federal Reserve said consumer credit outstanding rose at a 2.7 percent seasonally adjusted annual rate to $722.3 billion in September, only the fourth increase in the past year and a half.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said interest charged on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages jumped to 8.29 percent this week, up from 8.21 percent a week earlier and the highest in four months.

In the payroll section of the unemployment report, the strongest areas were business services, up 45,000 jobs; health services, up 35,000; construction, up 20,000, and finance, insurance and real estate, up 14,000.

But manufacturing employment declined for the third month in a row with a loss of 56,000 jobs last month.

Police suspend seven officers for beating death

DETROIT (AP) — Seven police officers were suspended Friday following the beating death of a 35-year-old man who was stopped by plainclothes officers, the police chief said.

The department was investigating the death of Malice Wayne Green of Detroit, Chief Stanley Knox said. After the internal probe is complete, warrants will be submitted to the Wayne County prosecutor's office, Knox said. He declined to elaborate on what charges would be sought.

Green suffered head injuries in a fight with the officers about 10:30 p.m. Thursday following a traffic stop, police said.

"I feel this incident is a disgrace and a total embarrassment to all the good officers who work day after day to make this one of the best departments in the nation," Knox told reporters.

"This kind of thing will not be tolerated."

According to Knox, Green was stopped by two plainclothes officers, whom he declined to identify. The officers were a 52-year-old with 24 years on the force and a 47-year-old with 19 years' experience, said Officer Allene Ray.

The officers called for backup, and at least five more police officers responded, including a supervisor, Knox said.

"We didn't get a good reason why the vehicle was stopped," Knox said.

Green was black. Knox said the seven officers included blacks and whites. He couldn't say whether race was a factor in the beating.

Pennsylvanian fails to pick up lottery prize

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — It's enough to make a person cry, loudly, and for a long time. Somebody held a Pennsylvania Lottery ticket that was worth $6.5 million — until Friday.

The Super 7 ticket was bought on Nov. 6, 1991. Tickets are good only for one year and no one showed up with the ticket at state Lottery headquarters before the deadline Friday afternoon.

So $3 million of the jackpot goes into programs for senior citizens that are funded by the Lottery. The rest of the jackpot would have been interest on the principal.

"This is a lifetime opportunity. To have somebody denied that opportunity after they actually won is terrible. I hope they ... never find it," said Lottery spokesman Mark Schreiber.

One time a winner came in the day before a jackpot was due to expire, Schreiber said.

The winning numbers were 8, 21, 23, 32, 34, 36, 37, 62, 70 and 71, and the winning ticket had seven of those numbers. The money would have been paid out in 26 annual installments of $252,325.

Schreiber said his office was inundated with calls from people around the country wondering if they had the ticket. A caller from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., asked where the ticket had been sold so he could take the day off from work and look for it, Schreiber said.

Another Pennsylvania resident said she found a Lottery ticket dated Nov. 6, 1991 and "her heart started pounding" wondering if it was the one. It wasn't.

Perot takes campaign ads to home video

DALLAS (AP) — You may not have heard the last of Ross Perot's commercials.

They're for sale on videotape. Video Plus, a Dallas company Perot hired to film his rallies, said Friday it's selling a seven-hour tape of the independent's TV shows for $19.95 plus shipping.

It said Perot's campaign authorized the tape, called "Ross Perot — The Complete Campaign Video," but will receive no proceeds from its sale.

The tape features each of Perot's nine half-hour political advertisements and highlights from his rallies and election night party. For more information call 1-800-662-3273.

Petroleum association chairman sees brightening future for energy industry

By Mella McEwen
Staff writer

The coming year should bring good things for the U.S. energy industry, members of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association were told Friday morning.

Gene Ames, chairman of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, told members at the kickoff breakfast of the PBPA's annual meeting that they can expect many changes in the coming years.

"My own expectations for the next year and future years are positive for the oil and gas industry," he said. "We've seen the bottom of a severe collapse in the industry, and many signs indicate we are in a recovery."

He cited the apparent end of the natural-gas 'bubble' and subsequent higher gas prices and the recent signing of an energy bill by President Bush.

Ames, who also is president and chief executive officer of Venus Oil Co. in San Antonio, credited both the energy bill and Rule 636 implemented by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for giving a boost to the natural-gas industry.

He sought to reassure PBPA members about the impact the incoming Bill Clinton administration will have on the domestic industry, saying that the energy advisor for Clinton's campaign had told him "We're here to help you."

An interview Clinton gave with the American Oil & Gas Reporter magazine was mentioned by Ames, who quoted Clinton in the interview as saying he was committed to expanding domestic production by boosting stripper well production and removing disincentives to domestic drilling.

Clinton also has made a commitment to retaining the oil-and-gas exemption from hazardous waste designation under the Resource Conservation and Remediation Act, Ames said.

"Clinton and his people are coming on strong for the need for a healthy domestic industry," Ames said, "with one caveat — the environment and Vice President-elect Al Gore's role. But we should not be pessimistic about the fact Clinton was elected. Clinton will be the president, and Al Gore vice president. Hopefully Gore won't be the environmental czar we fear."

"The oil industry is headed in the right direction and Bill Clinton won't stop that. He may help."

He praised Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, for including in the energy bill relief for independent producers under the Alternative Minimum Tax.

"Some of you may not realize how severe AMT has been," he said.

He offered some calculations for small, medium and large-size independent producers, both incorporated or sole proprietorships, as to how the AMT had affected their income.

For a small stripper producer — incorporated — with an average production of 110 barrels a day, regular income tax was $5,300; with the AMT, his tax bill was $22,400; after the energy bill, the tax returned to $5,300, a 76 percent reduction.

For a medium-sized producer — a sole proprietor — with average daily production of 220 barrels of oil equivalent, the regular tax bill was $212,700; with the AMT, the tax bill was $323,400; after the energy bill, the producer's tax bill was again $212,700, a 34 percent reduction.

For a large independent with an average daily production of 2,905 barrels of oil equivalent, the regular tax bill was $414,700; with the AMT, the producer's tax bill was $1,123,000; under the energy bill, the tax burden fell to $471,900.

"These are major changes we should appreciate and realize," he said.

Ames credited the AMT relief as the result of the oil industry speaking with one voice, offering a unified message.

Still, he said, the industry has a major job ahead of it.

The Department of Energy, through a study it financed and that was conducted by the Bureau of Economic Geology in Austin, has upgraded its estimates of the nation's oil and gas reserve base, and forecast that U.S. production will equal 8.5 million barrels of oil per day by the year 2000.

And the National Petroleum Council estimates that 218,000 new natural-gas wells will have to be drilled during this decade to meet expected demand for natural gas in the beginning of the next century.

In addition, the industry must convince the financial community that there are still major opportunities here at home, including numerous deep gas prospects and thousands of oil prospects that may be too small for major producers but are economical for smaller producers, to attract outside capital.

But to meet these goals, he said, the industry must decide what it wants from the federal government and ask for it.

"We can't meet these goals without a government that puts in place policies to make it happen. The government must want a significant increase in production, and not just help by removing a tax penalty that should never have been enacted in the first place."

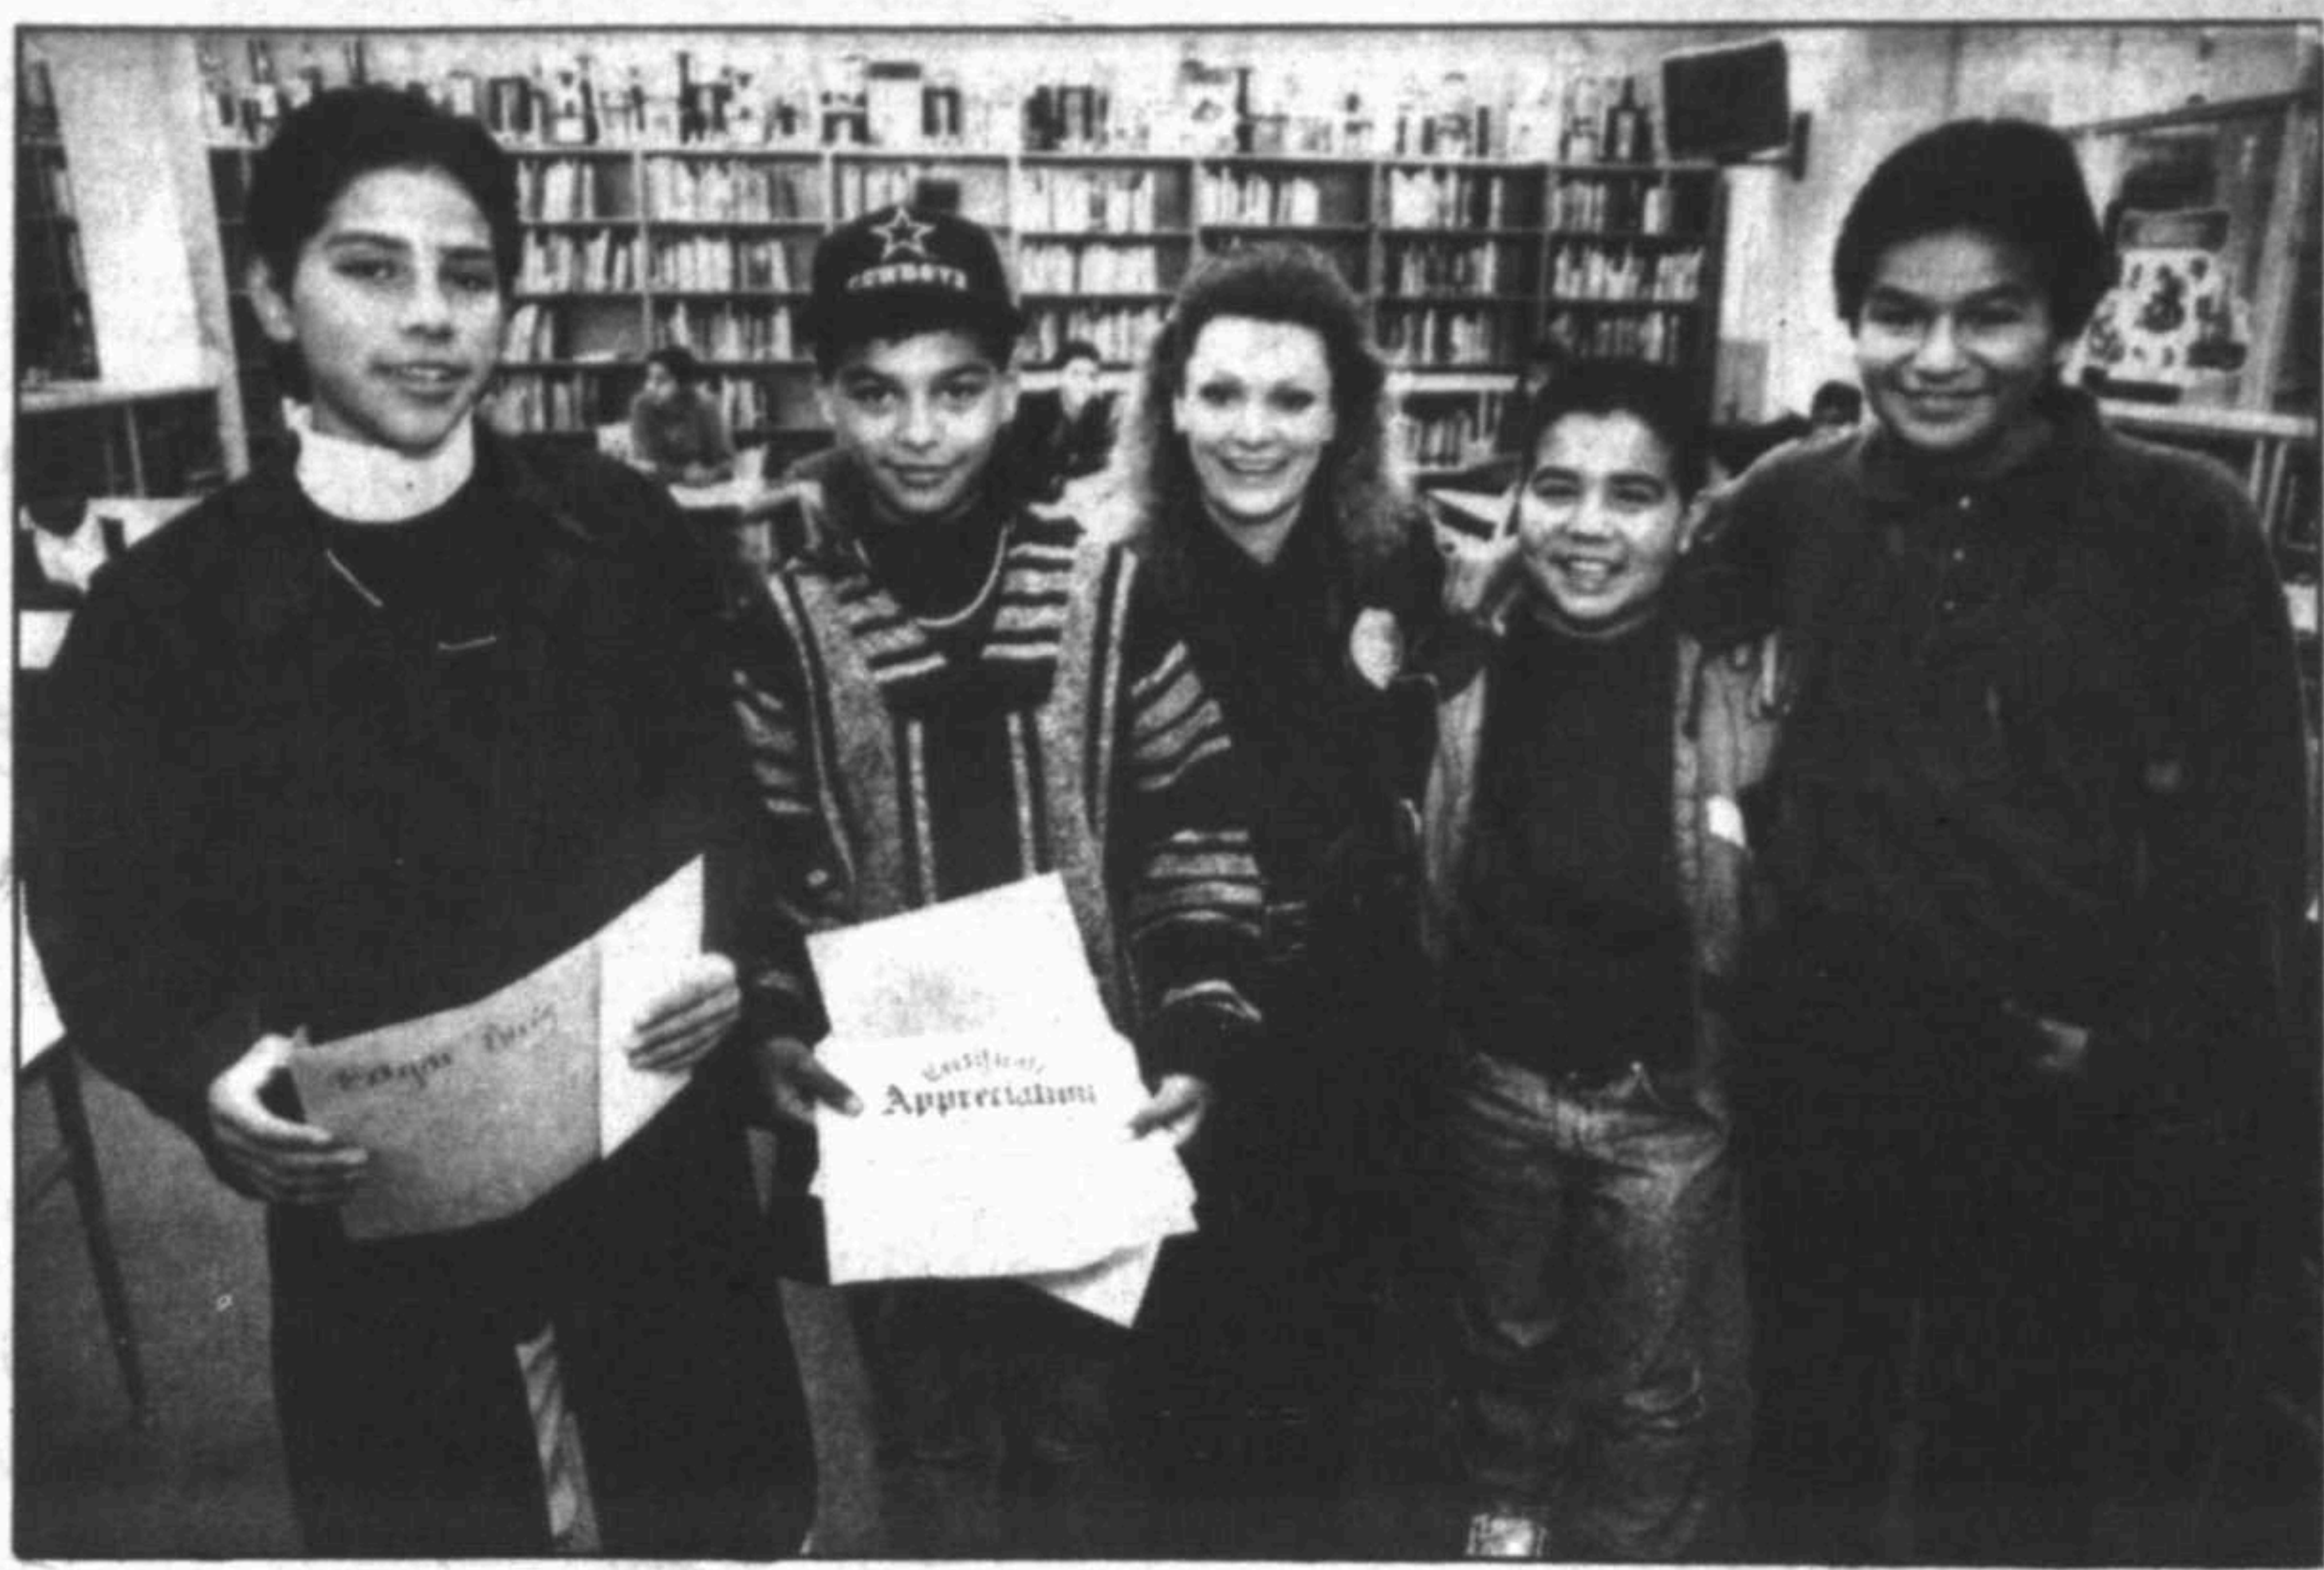

He said the industry must communicate three things to both the government and the public:

■ Increased imports of oil and declines in U.S. production are a threat to both the U.S. economy and the environment.

■ The domestic industry can significantly increase production in this country.

■ The industry can only do that if the government wants it.

"We must make our case to get them to want increased production and give us the incentives to do it."

Consumer rep, insurance industry at odds

AUSTIN (AP) — Auto insurers and the state's consumer counsel are at odds over implementing a plan offering discounts to drivers over age 50 and to good students.

Jerry Johns, president of Southwestern Insurance Information Service, said Friday that the Office of Public Insurance Counsel is depriving drivers of the cost-cutting plan by forcing it into a "burdensome hearing process."

But Amy Johnson, of the Office of Public Insurance Counsel, says

"discounts for the few" could lead to "increases for the rest of us."

The proposal would allow discounts for accident-free drivers, for good students based on academic records, for students away at school and for drivers over 50.

"Insurers are puzzled why OPIC would oppose such discounts to drivers when, in fact, OPIC is charged with representing the interests of consumers, Johns said.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A positive attitude is contagious. Move ahead with confidence if you expect others to follow your lead! You will have a lot going for you as 1993 gets under way. Exercise some of your options in April. Greater financial security depends on your sticking to your guns. Next summer is the ideal time to take that long-planned vacation. By fall of 1993, a business relationship will be on more solid ground. Look for new markets for your products or services.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Rev. Billy Graham, jazz great Al Hirt, singer Joni Mitchell, opera singer Joan Sutherland.

VIPs by going that extra mile. Research investments carefully and avoid taking unnecessary risks.

Bo Derek isn't sure, but thinks being in South Africa feels OK

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — Bo Derek isn't sure, but she thinks she feels OK about being in South Africa to film a new movie. "It seems things are positive, at least from our point of view in the United States. But I really am so uninformed, I don't know much about it," she said Thursday of the politically volatile country.

Derek and other American actors took time off from filming "Woman of Desire" to open a new cinema complex in Cape Town. The film, directed by Robert Ginty, also stars Steven Bauer, Jeffrey Fahey and Robert Mitchum.

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Donald Trump said a five-year extension he received on the mortgage for his Mar-a-Lago estate is a sign of financial strength.

"Only very strong people can get extensions on mortgages," he said Thursday.

"Mar-a-Lago is a truly spectacular estate and will remain that way for many years to come."

The developer worked out a payment plan with Boston Safe Deposit and Trust to repay $495,000 in overdue interest on the mortgage for the 118-room estate.

When the Casino Control Commission renewed Trump's license for the Trump Taj Mahal Casino Resort in Atlantic City, N.J., it ordered him to resolve the default on the mortgage.

CLEVELAND — James Brown has a message for young people: Go to school.

"We have to motivate them to learn and to look at the teacher as a friend and not someone who just wants to boss you," he said Thursday. "I've been on both sides of it and I understand it very much."

Brown met with students at the Garrett Morgan Cleveland School of Science before attending a news conference, where organizers of the proposed Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum announced a minority student job program in its name.

The program, funded by $15,000 from Capital Cities/ABC Radio, will pay for two Cleveland high school students a year to work part time at the museum next spring. The museum's organizers are still working on financing.

Brown said his education ended in the seventh grade and his parents' education was limited to elementary school.

He was arrested in 1988 and served more than two years in prison for aggravated assault and failing to stop for a police officer. "Now I like to tell kids to take a negative and make it a positive," Brown said.

OAKLAND, Calif. — Martina Navratilova said she was devastated by passage of an anti-gay law in her home state of Colorado and pledged to be part of a legal fight to get it overturned.

"The people fighting against it were fighting too nicely," said Navratilova, who lives in Aspen, Colo. "They didn't fight as dirty as the Colorado family values (group) did."

The tennis star said it was ironic that she gets invited to speak at Colorado schools but as a lesbian would face possible discrimination if she wanted to be a teacher.

Colorado's Measure 2 bars municipalities from passing gay-rights ordinances and rescinds ordinances in Denver, Boulder and Aspen.

LOS ANGELES — Dick Sargent, the former "Bewitched" television star, has prostate cancer, but doctors are optimistic he can be treated successfully because the malignancy was discovered early, his publicist said Friday.

"He's undergoing treatment as an outpatient," said Howard Bragman, adding that the cancer was in its early stages. "He's doing fine and we're hopeful of a full recovery."

Sargent, 62, played Darrin Stephens, a stressed-out advertising executive "bewitched" by his wife, on the ABC situation comedy from 1969 to 1972. His predecessor as Darrin was Dick York, who died in February.

Just because he was elected to the U.S. Senate on Tuesday, Rep. Ben Nighthorse Campbell, D-Colo., saw no reason to cancel a prior engagement. So, he will be appearing at Fortunoff, the jewelry and silver emporium on Fifth Avenue, Friday through Sunday.

The first American Indian to serve in the Senate in 60 years and presently the only one in the House of Representatives, he will be showing and selling jewelry that he designs and that his son Colin Arrowmaker makes. He also will participate with other jewelry designers, a weaver and a sculptor in a presentation at the store called "The Spirit of Southwest Native American Culture."

"I call the art world my real life, and I'm not going to give it up," he said from his home in Ignacio, Colo., Thursday before leaving for New York. "I want to do public policy, but you must have something in your life outside politics. Otherwise, you get narrow, stilted tunnel vision, and that's what's wrong with Washington."

Clinton begins building staff; selects pair for transition team

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — President-elect Clinton on Friday asked Vernon Jordan and Warren Christopher, two trusted advisers who helped select his running mate, to lead the White House transition team.

"There is a government to be formed," Christopher, a former deputy secretary of state, said simply as Clinton added steam to his effort to select a Cabinet, build a White House staff and fill thousands of jobs at government agencies.

Both Christopher and Jordan, a Washington lawyer and former civil rights leader, figure prominently in speculation about who will have prominent roles in a Clinton administration.

Christopher said he had no word from Clinton but expected the members of an economic policy team to be among the first appointments.

Jordan will serve as chairman of the transition board and oversee its operations in Washington. Christopher will be director — the chief-of-staff in charge of day-to-day operations.

"The American people could have no better servants working on their behalf," Clinton said in a statement announcing the appointments, his first major personnel decision as president-elect.

It fell to spokesman George Stephanopoulos to deliver the statement at a crowded news briefing, with Christopher explaining that Clinton was too hoarse to do it himself.

President Bush named White House chief of staff James A. Baker and his deputy, Robert Zoellick, as the administration's chief transition liaisons.

Bush press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Baker and Zoellick would be available to talk with the Warren M. Christopher (above) was named Friday by President-elect Clinton to direct his transition team. He and Vernon Jordan (right) will make recommendations to Clinton for his cabinet. Jordan was named as chairman of Clinton's transition board Friday.

Clinton representatives and "we will then name transition counterparts as appropriate."

The announcement of the new team came as Clinton prepared to take a weekend off — his first in months — and learned more about how his every word is now listened to around the world.

For example, the Mexican stock market rallied Thursday after Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari said Clinton had expressed "total support" for a Bush administration-negotiated free trade agreement.

On Friday, Stephanopoulos said the president-elect stood by his campaign position supporting the agreement in principle while wanting side agreements to mandate improvements in Mexican environmental and workplace standards.

Salinas was one of several foreign leaders Clinton spoke to Thursday. Stephanopoulos said a conversation with Russian President Boris Yeltsin was cordial and that the two discussed holding an early summit next spring, but no date was set.

Clinton made the announcement as campaign aides bickered over who should get top administration posts. Clinton advisers said accounts of infighting were being exaggerated.

"The transition's going fine," Christopher said as he went into a meeting with Clinton at the Arkansas governor's mansion.

In taking over day-to-day control of the transition, Christopher said he told Clinton "I assumed I wouldn't be eligible for an appointment." Clinton aides, however, said the president-elect had not ruled out Christopher for an administration post.

Jordan and Christopher served on Clinton's vice presidential screening team, and also have served for the past month on Clinton's transition planning board.

The members of that panel all were named to the new board. In addition to Jordan and Christopher, they are: Mickey Kantor, who served as campaign chairman; former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros; former Vermont Gov. Madeleine Kunin; and Thomas F. (Mac) McLarty, head of the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co. and an old friend of the president-elect.

Christopher said the transition panel would operate much like the committee that picked Tennessee Sen. Al Gore as Clinton's running mate, and would set stringent ethics guidelines to prevent those helping with the transition from turning their work to private gain.

"I think you will see the most stringent set of ethics rules that have ever been promulgated for our country," Christopher said. Jordan was in Washington and did not attend the announcement.

But Jordan spoke to reporters outside his Washington law office, saying that "we are going to take our time and we are going to try to be deliberate" in selecting top officials for the new administration.

John E. Jacob, president of the National Urban League, said the choice of Jordan sends "a signal to the African-American community that we are at the table where the decisions are being made."

Christopher served as a deputy secretary of state during the Carter administration and had been mentioned as a possible Clinton pick to lead the State Department. More recently, he headed the Christopher Commission, the civilian panel that reviewed Los Angeles Police Department conduct after the beating of black motorist Rodney King.

Jordan, a veteran Democratic Party insider, was president of the National Urban League from 1972-81 and later became a partner in a major Washington, D.C., law firm. Jordan has been mentioned as a potential Clinton pick for attorney general or another major administration position.

Stephanopoulos held his daily briefing in a Clinton campaign headquarters that is quickly being deserted as aides leave Little Rock to head home.

Stephanopoulos reiterated that the economy will come first when Clinton takes office, and also expressed optimism that Clinton would reach agreement with Congress on a universal health care measure.

The briefing came a few hours after the Bush administration reported that the nation's unemployment rate fell slightly in October, from 7.5 percent to 7.4 percent.

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell said he expects Congress and Clinton to agree early next year on a tax plan designed to stimulate the sluggish economy.

Clinton looks for place to stay after judge's ruling

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Just when President-elect Clinton thought he had his housing problem resolved, a circuit judge put the arrangements in limbo Friday.

Lt. Gov. Jim Guy Tucker, who is to take over Clinton's duties when he resigns, said Thursday that the president-elect could live at the governor's mansion until he moves to the White House upon his inauguration Jan. 20.

Based on a circuit judge's ruling Wednesday that Tucker would inherit the governor's powers, duties and perquisites, Tucker figured he could lend Clinton use of the mansion while he remains in his own home.

But the judge said Friday he would amend his order next week to drop any reference to the perks. In a telephone interview, Judge John Pledge said the question of whether Tucker inherits use of the mansion "would have to be resolved later."

The issue arose because of a lawsuit filed to determine how Clinton's successor would be chosen.

Clinton does not own his own home. He has lived in the mansion 12 of the last 14 years, longer than any other house in his life.

Aides wondered where Clinton would live between the time of his resignation as governor and his inauguration as president. Some suggested he might rent or borrow a house in Little Rock.

Bruce Lindsey, a close Clinton friend who is helping on the transition, said housing has not been a major topic of discussion with Clinton and his wife, Hillary.

On Thursday, Tucker said that "the mansion is designed not only for the governor, but also for guests of the state, and I think the president-elect of the United States is an appropriate guest for us to have staying at the mansion."

Clinton is expected to resign as Arkansas' governor soon. If he lives in the mansion while no longer governor, he likely would have to reimburse the state, Tucker said.

Cabinet hits impasse over nutrition labels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rules for new food labels that will be finalized Monday likely will not affect every food in the grocery store, as hoped.

A dispute between Bush administration cabinet officials over what the regulations should say was unresolved Friday.

Without agreement, that means only non-meat foods will be required to have new, federally standardized labels. Frozen macaroni and cheese dinners, for example, would be required to be relabeled, but frozen spaghetti and meatball entrees would not.

Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan and Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan have been trying for days to find a compromise before Monday's deadline that would satisfy both food marketing concerns and health interests.

Sullivan supported changing the nutrition chart on food packages to reflect how much fat, cholesterol, sodium and other nutrients a person should eat everyday. His advisers included medical professionals.

Madigan's position was that such a format was too complicated. Many people in the food industry were on Madigan's side, especially meat producers who feared that Sullivan's plan would accentuate the higher fat content of meat and discourage consumers.

The Food and Drug Administration regulates all non-meat foods and the Agriculture Department regulates meat products. The labeling law affects only FDA-regulated products.

Late Friday, food industry sources said Madigan would not go along with Sullivan and the impasse would lead to final adoption of the proposed regulations issued a year ago with no fanfare.

According to the new Nutrition Labeling and Education Act, final regulations had to be published by Monday or the proposed rules would go into effect.

The law covered only the non-meat foods regulated by the Food and Drug Administration, but last year Madigan said his department would go along with the new labeling for the sake of uniformity because so many companies make both meat and non-meat foods.
