

'All Witnesses'

Inquest Set
In Kennedy
Accident

BOSTON (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis said today that an inquest will be held into Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's July 18 auto accident on Chappaquiddick Island and that "all witnesses" who have anything to contribute will be called.

Dinis did not say specifically whether, whether Kennedy himself would be asked to testify.

But Kennedy has said that he would do everything possible to cooperate with an inquest.

Dinis commented after Edgartown District Court Judge James A. Boyle declined to take any immediate action on a written request from Dinis for the inquest.

But Dinis said he was going ahead with the inquest anyway, moving under provisions of the state's inquest statute.

That statute reads in part: "The attorney general or the district attorney may . . . require an inquest to be held in the case of any death supposed to have been caused by external means."

The accident claimed the life of a young secretary from Washington, D.C., Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

She was a passenger in Kennedy's car. It plunged over the side of a narrow, rocky bridge on Chappaquiddick Island, off the Massachusetts coast, and landed upside down in a tidal pond.

Kennedy escaped without serious injury, but Miss Kopechne was trapped. A medical examiner attributed her death to accidental drowning.

Short Wins
House Seat

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Voters in the 73rd District elected former-businessman E. L. Short, Tahoka, to the legislature Tuesday. He beat Andrews attorney Jim Clack handily in the runoff, winning all six counties in the district except Clack's home county.

Short got 3,699 votes, or 62.4 per cent of the 5,927 votes cast. Clack polled 2,085.

The seat at stake belonged to State Rep. Randy Pendleton of Andrews, named by Gov. Preston Smith to head a federal-state relations office in Washington.

Short led Clack in an indecisive, nine-candidate election earlier this year after Smith called a special election.

Clack won Andrews County 994-272, but Short won his own home county, Lynn, 1,001-208. Short's margin in the other counties: Dawson 1,043-277; Gaines 657-363; Martin 245-61; and Yoakum 408-155.

Short farms and ranches 4,500 acres and runs a firm processing cottonseed for planting.

Dial-A-Diet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A group has begun a dial-a-diet service to provide instant will-power to wavering weight watchers.

The service, provided by Weight Watchers of St. Louis, lectures, encourages and begs callers not to fall prey to hunger.

Decatur Sales Tax

DECATUR, Tex. (AP) — Voters in this North Central Texas town Tuesday approved a one per cent city sales tax by a margin of six to one. The vote was 336 to 56.

City officials said the tax, effective Jan. 1, will bring in $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

Missing
Persons

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. officials expressed new concern today for about 40 American civilians missing in South Vietnam. The concern was prompted by the finding of the body of a U.S. agricultural specialist in a shallow grave near the Laotian border.

Announcement was made Tuesday in Washington of the finding of the remains of Thomas W. Ragsdale of Shelbyville, Mo., who had been taken prisoner by the Viet Cong during the Tet offensive in February, 1968.

An official announcement in Saigon said: "Mr. Ragsdale's tragic death while a prisoner of Communist forces in South Vietnam adds to our great concern over the fate and welfare of other U.S. civilians illegally detained."

About 30 of the missing civilians are believed to be prisoners of the Viet Cong.

APPROVE WELFARE, AID TO SURVIVORS, STUDENT LOAN AMENDMENTS

Voters Reject Water Plan

Howard Votes
Strongly For Water Plan

Tabulation of Howard County's vote by precincts is on Page 5-B.

Howard Countians gave an impressive 4-1 margin of approval to the Texas Water Plan in voting on state constitutional amendments Tuesday, and turned down by a 3-1 margin a proposal to raise legislators' salaries.

Total vote was shown as 2,161, somewhat larger than most observers had forecast, although the figure was less than 20 per cent of the county's voting strength. Strong campaigning in behalf of the water amendment was credited with stimulating voter interest.

Of nine propositions on the ballot, the local vote was against four, while five were favored.

The county gave about two-to-one approval of an increase in state welfare payments, which proposition was carrying handily over the state.

In addition to voting against legislative pay increases, Howard voters turned down the idea of one-year sessions of the legislature, the raising of ceiling on interest rates for state bonds, and the granting of ad valorem tax exemption to non-profit water supply corporations.

Complete, unofficial returns on the nine propositions:

1. Constitutional deletions: For 1,124, against 925.
2. Water development: For 1,711, against 389.
3. Legislators' salaries: For 545, against 1,527.
4. Water supply tax exemption: For 1,007, against 1,031.
5. Raising welfare fund: For 1,422, against 706.
6. Raising interest limit on bonds: For 803, against 1,213.
7. Employee survivor assistance: For 1,218, against 861.
8. Expanding college student loans: For 1,287, against 798.
9. Annual legislative sessions: For 694, against 1,363.

Odessa College
Prof Loses Suit

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Ernest Guinn knocked down a $475,000 damage suit Tuesday filed by an Odessa College instructor whose contract was dropped by the school.

Robert Sindermann had sought damages and reinstatement. Guinn denied both.

The court ruled that the college does not have tenure and that Sindermann's constitutional rights were not violated.

The instructor has testified before a state Senate committee on an academic freedom and tenure bill.

Safeguard Supporters
Increasingly Confident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system appeared increasingly confident today as the Senate headed toward an expected photo finish on the long and often heated controversy.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and John G. Tower, R-Tex., said they are sure a key amendment to block Safeguard deployment will be defeated 51 to 49. While they used similar tones earlier, they were less positive then.

MYSTERY

Jackson also speculated that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who cast a note of feminine mystery into the final day of the ABM debate, would line up against the key amendment, by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., because it would permit a continuation of ABM research.

Mrs. Smith, who has introduced an amendment barring further research, testing and procurement of the ABM and its components, remained silent on

FINAL CHECK — House tax committee chairman Ben Atwell, Dallas, right, and power House leader Bill Heatley, Paducah, make last minute checks before the committee approved Wednesday a $328.4 million tax bill made up entirely of new consumer levies.

Consumer Tax Increase
Set For Floor Debate

AUSTIN (AP) — With one-year budget plans squelched by the voters, the House leadership moved quickly today to set up full floor debate Thursday on a $328.4 million tax bill composed entirely of new consumer taxes.

The taxes would be in addition to those now being paid.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee approved the measure, which was set at once for debate at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Senators plan to hold State Affairs Committee hearing Friday afternoon on whatever the House passes—unless a senator "tags" the measure and forces a delay in the hearing until Monday.

Speaker Gus Mutscher played a central role in writing the tax bill, which contains these provisions:

—An increase in the state sales tax from 3 to 3½ per cent, to raise an estimated $137.2 million over the next two fiscal years.

—Expansion of the sales tax base to include telephone and telegraph intrastate service, laundry, dry cleaning, repairs of household appliances and furnishings, clock, watch and jewelry repairs, auto repairs and parking, an estimated $104.3 million revenue raiser.

—Increase in the cigarette tax from 11 cents to 16 cents per package, an estimated $77.8 million.

—Phase out of the chain store tax over six years, starting with a loss of $2 million the coming two fiscal years.

—Reduction of the "occupation" tax on telephone and telegraph companies from 2.3 per cent of gross receipts to 1.99 per cent, the same as paid by gas and electric companies, a loss of $5.7 million over the next two fiscal years.

ENTERTAINMENT

—A 3½ per cent entertainment tax on the price of tickets to professional sports events, night club cover charges, and admissions to amusement parks and tourist attractions, $16.9 million.

The new taxes would take effect next Jan. 1.

Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes had planned to push again for a one-year budget and minimal tax bill if the voters had approved a constitutional amendment Tuesday requiring annual legislative sessions to pass taxes and appropriations.

But the amendment was turned down, and Mutscher made public his tax plans bright and early, and the committee approved them with only one dissenting voice.

The committee was about 20 minutes late in meeting because of a session first in Mutscher's office. A source denied any pressure for unanimity was applied, but there was far less contention than was expected.

ADDED REVENUE

Residents in places with 1 per cent city sales taxes would pay 4½ per cent both on currently taxable items and on services the measure would bring under the sales tax.

But the percentage the state comptroller takes off for collecting the city sales tax would be rigged to keep the cities from getting any added revenue from expanding the tax base to include services.

Rep. R. H. Cory of Victoria, one of the bill writers, said the formula might have to be adjusted later if the tax on services turns out to be more or less lucrative than expected.

By withholding from the cities the added sales tax income resulting from taxation of services, $23 million extra would be gained by the state.

"Municipal authorities saw no need for extra money for municipal governments at this time," Mutscher asserted. He added that the cities might later be allowed to keep the sales tax revenue from services if they need the income.

$40 MILLION

The speaker said the state would be giving up $40 million by making the tax bill effective Jan. 1 instead of the normal date of Oct. 1.

"Maybe this will give the people an opportunity to do their Christmas shopping without new taxes," Mutscher said.

He said consumers would be paying 47.8 per cent of the total tax bill, with 28.8 per cent of it on what he termed "luxuries" and 23.4 per cent paid by business.

Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont was the only committee member to request that he be shown voting against the bill, which came out of committee on a voice vote.

STACK OF PETITIONS

He referred to a stack of petitions on the committee table, and read from one of them that expressed strong opposition to any tax on laundry of household linens and diapers.

"This is not for me, Mr. Chairman," he said.

Smith declared he would not ask for a record vote and "embarrass anybody any more than they are embarrassed already by sitting at this table."

He asked if repeat of the chain store tax over the next six years were "absolutely necessary . . . I understand it is the purpose of the tax bill to raise money."

Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas, the committee chairman, said the tax is inequitable and a relic of the days when Texas was trying to keep interstate chain stores out and to encourage state-owned businesses.

Sen. Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted Tuesday the pro-ABM forces would win, but Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said opponents would consider it a victory if they came within one or two votes of victory.

"If we lose by one or two we will win in the long run."

"It will indicate the depth of feeling here, and it will indicate that the Senate intends to look very closely at the requests of the Department of Defense."

The vote on the Cooper-Hart amendment isn't expected to end the long fight.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., plans to bring up Thursday his proposal to permit deployment of radars and computers, but not missiles.

Whatever the Senate decides will then have to be approved by the House or else go to a Senate-House conference for compromise.

Finally, both houses will have to vote money for the ABM when they consider the defense appropriations bill.

Legislators Lose
Bid For Pay Raise

By The Associated Press

The Texas Water Plan went down to defeat in Tuesday's constitutional amendment voting while Texans gave an okay to higher welfare payments.

The Texas Election Bureau, unofficial vote counter for the state, said the latest figures show the water plan trailing by 5,545 votes with only 2,700 to 2,800 votes left to be totaled.

But taxpayers, faced with human suffering, opened their pocketbooks.

They balloted for a $20 million raise in welfare ceilings—mostly to help needy children—by a massive margin of almost two-to-one. And they approved aid to survivors of state workers killed on hazardous duty by a better than 3-2 edge.

Voters turned down a pay raise for state legislators, exemptions from property taxes for non-profit water corporations, and annual legislative sessions.

Also defeated was removal of the interest ceiling on state bonds. The present 4 and 5 per cent ceiling makes them hard to sell.

Approved were an increase in the revolving fund for student loans and a cleanup of obsolete sections of the Texas Constitution.

The water plan was only a beginning of the vast project which is designed to bring water from other states and possibly Canada to South Texas, North Central Texas, the Panhandle, the High Plains and on to El Paso via canals.

The state would issue $3.5 billion in bonds as needed, causing some state outlay until water users began repaying the costs. The federal government would spend $6.5 billion under the plan.

Sponsors of the water project say it can be submitted to voters again, and the history of bond issues in Texas is that it sometimes takes two or even three votes for passage.

But the huge opposition Tuesday would be embarrassing to negotiators when and if they finally start negotiating with other states for their water. Opposition already has arisen in Louisiana.

The pattern of the water vote showed that the greater number of counties against it was in South and Central Texas and areas along the Red River and near the Louisiana border. One huge canal would go along some of the counties which voted against.

A stretch of about two counties below the Red River in North Central and Northeast Texas voted for the water project.

The Panhandle, South Plains and far South Texas also favored the plan except, notably, Cameron and Aransas counties.

All the Lower Rio Grande Valley counties favored the project except Cameron. The Valley, water experts say, will be the first region to feel a creeping shortage of water.

The 10 largest cities, which can dominate any election, had such an erratic response that no pattern could be discerned on the basis of the "big city vote." Harris County struck the project a hard blow with a margin of 67,719 against and 13,431 for.

Conservationists, notably the Sierra Club, may have just provided the margin to provide the somewhat unexpectedly high vote against the water program.

The conservationists first talked about the plan destroying the habitat of game, even destroying species.

But then they got down to the citizens' purse, and talked about the cost. Even the sponsors admitted that interest would double the $3.5 billion to $7 billion. And the plan was on the basis of 1967 costs of material, labor, land and interest.

Only nine months ago, voters soundly defeated a proposal to raise the welfare ceiling in the Constitution to $75 million from the present $60 million.

Then two court cases caused checks for needy children to be cut, some poverty mothers in Dallas filed a suit, and Public Welfare Commissioner Burton Hackney campaigned throughout Texas and suddenly the voters were convinced of the need for more money for the 400,000 on welfare.

After all, said Hackney, it is pretty difficult to raise a child on $12.50 a month. And he pointed out that all but five per cent of needy mothers work—but some work for 50 cents an hour.

The second time around did not work as well for legislators as it did for the needy. They lost an attempt at a raise nine months ago—they haven't had one since 1960. This time they tried to take their pay out of the Constitution and peg it to that of district judges—but not at once. They wanted to climb from $4,800 annually to $6,800—not to the $18,000 judges now receive.

BOND INTEREST

The legislators also wanted annual legislative sessions, some saying it was illogical to budget the state for two years. They tried three years ago and were turned down and lost again Tuesday.

The constitutional deletions took 52 sections—such things as authority to build the Capitol, dedicated in 1888—from the Constitution. Some persons wanted to keep these sections for their quaintness.

But the generator failed and at 7:03 p.m. Mrs. Linda Hayes delivered her 8-pound, 6-ounce daughter under a nurse's flashlight.

Blackout Strikes
South Floridians

MIAMI (AP) — A baby was ushered into the world by flashlight and exiles in Miami's "Little Havana" joked about a Cuban invasion Tuesday night as a power plant explosion left two million South Floridians in darkness.

It was hot and stormy at 6:08 p.m. when lights from Miami to north of Fort Lauderdale—with a solid strip of beach resorts in between—flickered and went out.

The blackout covered Dade and Broward counties for two hours and spotty failures hopped along a 200-mile strip from Marathon in the Keys to Fort Pierce until midnight.

At 6:17 p.m. Mrs. Geraldine Frusterie gave birth to a 9-pound, 11-ounce girl under an emergency room spotlight hooked up to an emergency generator at Holy Cross Hospital in Fort Lauderdale.

But the generator failed and at 7:03 p.m. Mrs. Linda Hayes delivered her 8-pound, 6-ounce daughter under a nurse's flashlight.

A Devotional For The Day

Be filled with the Spirit, . . . giving thanks always for all things unto God. (Ephesians 5:18-20)

PRAYER: We have faith, O Lord, that if we smile through our tears and glorify Thee when our hearts are breaking, Thou wilt turn our vexations and trials into blessings. Give us this submissive, trusting spirit, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ICC Needs Reform

Every modern American president, not long after taking office, has recognized the need for improvements in the independent regulatory agencies. Despite their broad powers and great impact on the American economy and social order, these semi-autonomous agencies have proved highly resistant to reform.

President Nixon has now called for a limited revision of the oldest of the agencies, the Interstate Commerce Commission established in 1887. At first mainly a railroad-regulating agency created under the pressure of the Populist party, the ICC has come to exercise most of the supervisory powers over transportation delegated from Congress' constitutional authority to regulate interstate commerce.

It has regulatory authority, most importantly over rates, covering railroads, trucks and buses, inland and coastal waterways, express companies and freight forwarders. It has been at odds at times with the Justice Department over mergers, with the Securities Exchange Commission over securities issuances, and with the Maritime Administration over jurisdiction. The strongest criticism has been, however, that it has been lagging in working for a well-coordinated nationwide transportation system, and particularly for not doing more to prevent the decline of rail passenger service for which a comeback may now be foreseen.

President Nixon's initial proposal is logical enough. He would have the President appoint the ICC chairman — as he now does all other regulatory agency commission heads — rather than have the chairmanship rotate annually among the commission's 11 members. And he would give the chairman more administrative authority for better management and continuity of policy.

President Nixon says he will meanwhile explore other ways to make the commission structure more effective. This, too, would appear to be in order, especially since the creation by the Johnson administration in 1966 of the Department of Transportation, which is primarily charged with developing a coordinated nationwide transportation system taking full advantage of technological advances. The division of responsibility between that new department and the ICC requires clarification.

Remarks That Ire Bus Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a bus driver gets tired of hearing:

"Home, James—and don't spare the horses!"

"Can't you slow down a little? After all, we're not on a race track."

"Can't you speed it up a little? After all, we're not going to a funeral."

"I spent all my money in the amusement park. If you don't let me ride for nothing, my dad will murder me for getting home so late. Honest he will. You wouldn't want a murder on your conscience, would you?"

"They say a sailor has a girl in every port. Do you bus drivers have girls at both end of your route?"

"Why should I move to the back of the bus? If we passengers have to be packed in like sardines, can't we at least pick which part of the can we want to be smothered in?"

"Well, if it isn't old Laughing Boy himself. How many years has it been since you gave the public a great big smile, Harry?"

"What do you mean you can't change a $10 bill? It's the smallest I have. Anyway, it's legal tender, and that means by law you have to take it."

"What do you mean by telling me I have to put my fare in the box. Put on your glasses, Harry. Don't you recognize your own mother?"

"Driver, this window is stuck. Can you come back at the next stop and help me open it?"

"Would you mind repeating that, please? I take the No. 5 bus to Arpel Street, transfer to the No. 12 bus to Van Cleef Boulevard, walk three blocks north to the intersection of Walnut and Chestnut streets, and then—how's that again? Wait a minute, I'd better write it all down."

"I don't intend to stand here wrangling with a public servant. Just give me your badge number, young man, and I'll take it up with City Hall."

"Bumpety, bumpety, bumpety bump. Bumpety, bumpety, bumpety bump. Bumpety, bumpety, bumpety bump."

pety bump. Tell me, do you get an Oak Leaf Cluster on your good conduct medal for every 15 potholes you manage to hit?"

"Hold it driver. When you hit that last bump, my false teeth fell out and rolled under another seat."

"What the passengers on this bus need is survival insurance. Does your company sell it?"

"Sure I can read. I know the sign says no smoking. But it don't say nothing about no chewing on a cigar that ain't lit — and this cigar ain't lit, wise boy."

"Do you cash checks?"

"Do you give trading stamps?"

"Driver, some smart aleck in this bus has got cold hands. I want you to stop right now and make him get off."

Replaces 'Greasy Spoons'

NEW YORK (AP) — Vacationers traveling America's highways this summer and eating at the seemingly endless variety of fast food restaurants are obtaining at the same time a rare look at industry in revolution.

Multicolored, airy, clean and pleasant, the new type restaurant—generally part of a franchise or a chain—is rapidly making the old greasy spoon diner obsolete in the same way that the motel replaced the roadside cabin.

Thousands already have been built, and one estimate by the publisher of a food service magazine puts at 20,000 the number of units that may be built in the next two years under franchise agreements.

Moreover, he adds, as many as 20,000 more franchises might be sold in the same period. So explosive is the change that it seems a sure bet that there will be spectacular failures as well as successes.

Almost all the new restaurants—whose menus frequently are built around fish and chips, hamburger, roast beef and chicken—use the symbol of a celebrity, real or fictitious, to sell their products.

Country music singers have lent their names in such abundance, for example, that the country music capital of America, Nashville, Tenn., is now referred to as Franchise City. At least 13 national franchises are based there.

Despite such visible evidence of the revolution, what the public sees is really only one step—the final one—in a long process for the modern fast food restaurant is often nothing more than the retail outlet for food prepared in a factory.

By preparing in great masses on an assembly line, thus eliminating obsolete and inefficient hand methods, food service companies are able to produce big savings, standardize quality and avoid many of the messier jobs.

The food then may be frozen before being shipped hundreds of miles to the retail outlets, where the primary kitchen chore may be defrosting rather than cooking.

Some idea of how highly developed and specialized is the job of plant rather than kitchen cooking is suggested by the many companies that sell, of all things, breadcrumbs—for fish and chips, cutlets and other fast food items.

One breadcrumb manufacturer, for instance, recently installed a machine in Glendale, Ariz., capable of turning out 3,000 pounds of breadcrumbs an hour so efficiently that the bread-baking process itself is sidestepped.

Alas For Ol' Babe

What ever happened to that much maligned and ridiculed but noble beast, the mule?

IN THE space of half a century, it (I was never certain about the gender) has yielded its place of prominence and disappeared almost totally from the scene. I don't know that statistics are available on the number, but I would make a wild guess that there were at least 2,000 of them in Howard County back around the early 1920's. Perhaps that sounds inflated, but then there were round a thousand farms, and there were precious few who had less than a span of mules — and most had several of these stalwart brutes.

DETRACTORS DELIGHTED in comparison which likened an individual to the mule — "no pride of ancestry and no hope of posterity." This was an unkind reference to the mule's status as a hybrid, which, only in the rarest of instances, was capable of producing an offspring.

THE MULE was an ungainly, awkward and ugly creature, and yet it was handsome and awe-inspiring in its own way. Many of them were huge animals, strength written all over them and particularly those great shoulders. They were placid, always seemingly half asleep. Those long ears, like a fugitive from a jack-rabbit, wiggled rhythmically, lazily, sometimes in unison, sometimes at a total disregard for one another. And when they laid back like the swept wings of today's latest airplanes, it constituted a storm warning.

SOME CONTENTED the mule ate less than a horse; others said that he was a more rugged animal, and still others were certain that he could pull more. I don't know about the feed consumption, but the average mule could outwork the average horse. When it came down to pulling power all day long, a bag of oats and bale of hay invested in a mule brought a lot more returns.

THE UNITED STATES Army recognized the rugged talents of this noble beast, and as late as World War II used it to pull heavy gear and as a pack animal. Surefooted as well as strong, the mule could bring material and ordinance up trails that man could scarcely navigate. In the early days, of course, the mule pulled Army wagons across the vast expanse of plains and help tame this vast area. There is a case where a band of troopers once survived by killing their mules and drinking the blood until they could find water.

TODAY THE horse is making a comeback. He is pampered and well-groomed. Some families regard the horse like others regard a boat or a sports car. Ranches still make use of the horse, and of course the flourishing sport of rodeo is predicated almost wholly upon a well-trained horse. But alas, the poor mule. Who wants to prance at the head of a parade astride a ponderous mule? Moreover, the mule is not made for running after cows. His fate was pulling, and the tractor has done him in with scarcely a mourner to his name. Alas for ol' Maud and Babe with no one to yell "Gee" and "Haw." —JOE PICKLE

Power Of Regulatory Agencies

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's proposal to reorganize the Interstate Commerce Commission so as to modernize its administrative operations — a revision which hasn't been undertaken for many years — brings up the question also of what might be done to improve the workings of other commissions in the federal government.

Thus, the Federal Trade Commission has broad powers dealing with "unfair methods of competition" and "unfair or deceptive acts or practices" in trade. The Federal Communications Commission was set up to regulate interstate and foreign communications by wire or radio. The Federal Power Commission deals with interstate aspects of the electric power and natural-gas industries, though much of the regulation of the public utilities comes under state authority.

WHAT HAS happened in the last several decades is not merely an expansion of regulatory power by administrative agencies, but the assumption of legislative authority as well. Many of the questions handled by federal commissions frequently bring challenges in the courts, which then endeavor to interpret the rulings in accordance with congressional statutes. But because so many new problems have arisen in recent years, it is apparent that federal agencies actually have undertaken legislative tasks and have, in effect, made laws on their own initiative.

IT IS TIME, therefore, for Congress to examine the scope of each agency and define more explicitly its regulatory powers. Also, there might well be better coordination by the agencies with the executive departments of the government so that cabinet officers would have an opportunity to give their views as to what is in the "public interest."

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission is an example of how the authority of a federal agency can be interpreted to include powers that were never delegated to it by Congress. The law which created the commission states that licenses are to be issued on the basis of "public interest, convenience and necessity." This means that reputable companies have to demonstrate their financial capacity to operate radio and television stations and provide service to the community. Also, licenses have to be issued in a manner that will prevent mechanical conflicts in the assignment of frequencies.

THERE IS NOTHING in the law which says that the FCC may censor programs, either news or advertising. But the Federal Communications Commission lately has been threatening to regulate the content of programs that deal with both news and advertising. A station might have its license withdrawn or its application for renewal denied if it does not obey the edicts of a federal agency.

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission currently is seeking to ban the advertising of cigarettes on radio or television on the grounds that smoking constitutes a hazard to health. It is the function of Congress, however, to protect the American people in such situations. If cigarettes are dangerous, then Congress should take steps to prohibit their manufacture and sale altogether. This could, of course, not be done without a constitutional amendment.

The attempt to ban cigarette advertising is only one of the many examples of usurpation by federal commissions of powers that belong to Congress and the people.

Loopholes, Ratholes, Etc.

WASHINGTON — You could call the Senate fight over the President's surplus tax bill a battle between loopholes and ratholes. Or you could call that fight the rumblings of an unhappy ship.

EITHER DESCRIPTION will serve, and one complements the other. The nine-member Democratic Policy Committee has instructed Majority Leader Mansfield to let the tax bill die unless it is accompanied by legislation to close the loopholes. A loophole is like a telescope in that you get a different distortion depending on which end you look through. A Democrat like Long of Louisiana sees large national benefits from the special tax privileges granted to the oil producers of his State. A Democrat like Proxmire abhors tax deductions allowed to petroleum (his State of Wisconsin has no oil), but sees lots of good in the protections given to dairy products (in which his State abounds). One man's loophole is another man's Christmas tree, and the tax bill languishes while inflation eats like acid into the economy.

A RATHOLE is not like a telescope, but is more like a tunnel. If it's your kind of rathole, you can see light at the other end. If it's the other fellow's tunnel, you're sure it's dead-ended. For example, some Senators aren't going to give Mr. Nixon his tax bill until he stops sending never-come-back dollars into the poverty programs. They say the money is reaching whole colonies of bureaucrats and social planners and is turning the poverty-population into street rioters and revolutionaries.

OTHER SENATORS won't give Mr. Nixon his tax bill until he stops shoving dollars down the drain of military and super-space programs.

These Senators want the Vietnam War called off like a rain-outed ballgame, the arms race cancelled and the Space race called quits at the Moon. One man's rathole is another man's rainbow. Some see the end of Poverty and warfare, while others see an ever-normal Prosperity, depending on what conditions are attached to the tax bill.

THESE VARYING viewpoints on loopholes and ratholes are making discontent in the Senate and could make for a stalemate. The Democratic Policy Committee is a good example of how men with different viewpoints agree to do nothing about the much-needed tax bill. Byrd of West Virginia doesn't want the extra money wasted on the Poverty War, and Hart of Michigan doesn't want it wasted on military weapons. Fulbright of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Kennedy of Massachusetts, along with Mansfield and Hart, are against the Vietnam war and against deployment of ABM. The President wants the tax in order to fight inflation, but the Senators of the Policy Committee don't want him to use it for fighting something else. They are inclined to block the bill indefinitely.

The Senate is living a summer of discontent.

Laos Crisis

Brought To Head By Military Conflict

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

The Associated Press

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — When Prince Souvanna Phouma returned from his annual vacation in France the diplomatic corps turned out to meet him. The Russian ambassador immediately aligned himself with the American ambassador and the two fell into animated conversation.

The Chinese charge d'affaires stood apart across the room.

These alignments are perhaps prophetic of political evolution in this Southeast Asian kingdom. A political crisis has been brought to a head by military conflict and it will almost certainly require outside influence to settle it.

WESTERN POWERS have already started to apply pressure, signaling the Communist side to start a cooling-down process. The American government has issued statements critical of the current fighting.

Britain, a co-chairman of the 1962 Geneva accord, says the Soviet Union is ignoring pleas to end the threat to peace in Laos resulting from North Vietnamese aggression.

Diplomats in this quiet administrative capital beside the Mekong River are currently looking hopefully to the Kremlin to make the next move. They see, however, a distinctly different situation from 1962 when, before the accords had been signed, pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces captured two-thirds of the country.

PRESIDENT JOHN F. Kennedy then put muscle into his negotiations with Nikita Khrushchev by landing Marines in Thailand. Shortly afterward, Khrushchev announced the Soviet Union "continued" to support a neutralist Laos. The pressure eased. The political-military abilities of the United States in Laos have been drastically altered by the Vietnam war. With strong opposition at home to further military involvement, the United States seems in no position to undertake intervention.

Peking, Moscow and Hanoi are certainly aware of this. Thus, with little fear of U.S. intervention, they can continue to support the present offensive. Barring a political settlement, it is likely to put the Communist-backed forces back in control of two-thirds of the kingdom within another year.

WHAT, THEN, might the Soviet Union have to gain or lose by the establishment of a "pro-Communist neutralist" Laos as opposed to the present "pro-Western neutralist" Laos?

The answer may depend on what political sway the Soviets expect to maintain among the Pathet Lao forces. That influence would have to be filtered through Hanoi, which has an estimated 48,000 troops now fighting in Laos.

The answer also would have to consider the Chinese influence among the Pathet Lao and in Hanoi. While this influence is not apparently strong in the Pathet Lao, the proximity of China is always to be considered.

Russia also has growing economic interests in Southeast Asia and maintains good relations with neighboring Thailand.

THE SOVIET Union's current conflict with China is another factor. Should the Pathet Lao retake their old holdings down to the Lek River, Peking's interests would expand correspondingly.

Against these negative aspects would be the prospect of greater Soviet political sway if the Kremlin supported Hanoi fully in expansionist plans for Indochina.

The Kremlin also could conceivably agree to letting the Pathet Lao regain its 1962 position and put in its own "neutralists" if they agreed not to attack the rightist forces but instead sought a new political settlement.

The balance indicates Russia would have more to gain, both politically and economically, by moving again to reduce the conflict and helping to restore a neutralist Laos.

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 20 and not married and a virgin. I have never had a pelvic examination and wonder at what age a girl should have one for the first time.

Lately I have been having periods of redness and itching. What could cause this? Would an examination help?—A.Y.

There is no special age for the first pelvic examination; whenever symptoms warrant it is soon enough. Such an examination can be done carefully so there is no discomfort, and without disturbing the hymen, which I think is one of the questions that is bothering you.

Yes, a pelvic examination could well determine or give a clue to the irritation, and if there is any vaginal discharge connected with it, an examination is essential to determine its nature.

A number of possibilities come to mind readily. Several common but annoying microorganisms — yeasts, protozoans, or others — are among them. Diabetes also can cause such symptoms.

One other cause has been noted often enough to make it worth mentioning. Use of colored or scented toilet tissue at times is a factor in genital (and rectal) irritation. If you use such tissue, change to white, and see whether it makes a difference.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My father is 78 and on a low-sodium diet. Yet he uses at least three grains of saccharin a day in his coffee. Since saccharin is sodium saccharide, it would seem to me that this is not doing him any good. Also salt is still being used in cooking, such as oatmeal, etc.—Mrs. E.W.

Natural sodium is present in many foods we eat — which is fine, since some sodium is essential for health.

The sodium in your father's saccharin is only a drop in the bucket, and I would not worry about it. He could, of course, switch to calcium cyclamate as a sweetener.

The fundamental requirement of a low-sodium diet is to use no table salt at all. Don't use it at the table, and don't use any in cooking. Others at the table can salt to taste when food is served.

Chronic bad breath can make life miserable for everyone. For a medical view of the causes and cure of bad breath, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Tax Relief Vote Shapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax reformers set the stage for today's debate on their massive bill by adding an extra $2.4 billion of tax relief, mainly for low and moderate income recipients.

A vote on the reform measure is expected Thursday.

Sponsors estimate the bill ultimately would bring in $6.8 billion in extra revenue by tightening down on tax preferences in 27 areas.

It would ultimately pay out $9.2 billion in tax relief. Principal beneficiaries would be the poor, low and moderate income recipients, widows, widowers and mature single persons maintaining households.

Next year, however, the bill would serve the government's objective of fiscal restraint to cool inflation by stepping up collections $4.1 billion against a $1.6 billion payout. Most of the relief provision said reductions take effect in 1971 and 1972.

The measure also provides for extension of the income surtax, at 5 per cent, for the first six months of 1970.

Democratic liberals who wanted a chance to offer an amendment to knock out the surtax extension were rebuffed Tuesday when the House Rules Committee cleared the measure for House action under no-amendment procedures.

Liberals scored, however, when the Ways and Means Committee in a special session rejuggled the tax rate tables to provide more relief, especially for low and moderate income recipients.

Committee spokesmen said the action guarantees every ordinary taxpayer with income under $100,000 at least a 5 per cent reduction in his tax bill.

Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said this had been the intention of the committee all along. He said the tables as originally drafted for the bill were faulty because of misunderstandings with staff and Treasury technicians.

Among its many provisions, the bill would cut the oil depletion allowance from 27½ to 20 per cent and trim other advantages for the oil industry; narrow special depreciation rules for real estate; repeal the investment credit for business purchase of equipment; tighten rules on large donations of appreciated property and the claiming of farm losses against non-farm income.

On the benefit side, the bill includes a low-income allowance to take two million poor families off the tax rolls and afford relief to others well above the poverty line; a general rate reduction in 1971 and 1972; special benefits for surviving spouses and for mature single persons maintaining their own households and a 50 per cent tax limit on earned income, however large.

The Twenty-First Century Society, successor to the Sock It To 'em Pussycat Club, has booked "The Livin' End," a national Battle-of-the-Bands run-up, for a dance from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight Saturday at the Dewey Ray Chrysler-Plymouth showrooms.

There will also be a fantasia of psychedelic lights, a repeat performance from the free dance held last Saturday evening on the parking lot at Cook's. That event featured the music of the Peppermint Highway group, plus the lights. An estimated 2,000 turned out for it during the course of the evening, and at one time an estimated 1,000 were at the dance area.

The Twenty-First Century Society, which has brought a number of other top bands such as the People, the Hysterical Society, the Chevelles, etc., is attempting to raise money for a permanent place to have dances.

Membership is only one dollar, and members get up to 25 per cent discount on admission charges for the dances. The society will be selling memberships at the dance Saturday evening.

—Collins and Joan Schell found dead in July, 1968, both worked in the McKenney Union, an Eastern Michigan student lounge and soda shop.

DROPOUT

—Maralynn Skelton, a 16-year-old high school dropout slain last March 24, and Dawn Basom, a 13-year-old junior high school pupil killed April 15, both were known to frequent campus soda shops, including the McKenney Union.

—Alice Kalom, a University of Michigan graduate student last seen alive April 15, and Collins have been said by witnesses to have visited an Ann Arbor restaurant, Rubiyat Continental Dining, on special nights set aside for young single men and women.

The Rubiyat is less than two blocks from the Depot House, a rock 'n' roll rehearsal hall, where Miss Kalom was last seen alive.

FEDERAL CHARGE

The search continued for a friend of Collins, Andrez Manuel, 25, who has been charged with stealing a house trailer which has been impounded by California authorities investigating a series of killings near Salinas.

Manuel, also known as Richard Diaz Jr., has been named in a federal warrant charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution.

Police say Manuel and Collins, who lived in the same Ypsilanti rooming house, traveled to California together in mid-June.

In California, local authorities and Michigan State Police are checking possible links with the death of Miss Phillips, whose home was in Milwaukee, Ore.

Capt. Darol V. Smith of the Monterey County Sheriff's Office said Collins picked up Nancy Ann Albrecht, 17, a close friend of Miss Phillips, the day before the Oregon girl was strangled with her belt.

Underwriters Can Be Help To City

Life underwriters can be key people in selling Big Spring, Tom Eastland, Chamber of Commerce manager, told the Big Spring Life Underwriters Association at its monthly meeting Tuesday noon at the Downtown Tea Room.

Members can be particularly effective as they visit new residents of the community, he said.

Bob Wilson, new president of the association, presided at the meeting. Other new officials include Jim Carlton, vice president-program, and John Hill, secretary-treasurer.

AUTO MISHAPS

Police investigated a three-car mishap at 2:10 p.m. Tuesday on the south side of the Highland Shopping Center.

Involved was a car driven by Oran M. Kilgore of 2303 Carl St. which was in collision with a parked vehicle owned by Johnnie Moore of 707 W. 13th St. Moore's car in turn was knocked into another parked vehicle owned by Joe B. Lane of 196-B Hunter.

A motorcycle driven by June Randolph of Webb AFB was in collision with a cyclone fence on the north side of Wagon Wheel No. 1 at Fourth St. and Birdwell Lane at 10:59 p.m. Tuesday.

Brutal Killer

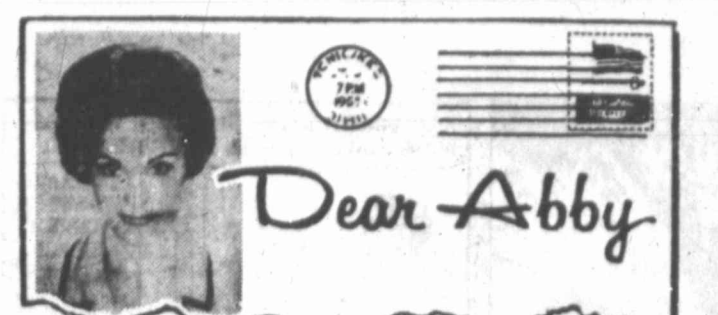

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Detectives pushed a search today for the slayer of two teenage girls who were stabbed at least 50 times each while picnicking in a hilly wooded area near their homes.

Barton Collins, chief of San Jose detectives, said the youngsters apparently had been slain elsewhere and left at the wooded spot where they were found.

Deborah Gay Furlong, 14, and Kathy Snoozy, 15, were stabbed with a narrow-bladed knife. Neither had been sexually molested, an autopsy disclosed.

Collins called them "fine girls... two of the nicest in town."

Glen Furlong, an International Business Machines Co. engineer and Deborah's father, said the girls had left on bicycles around noon Sunday and that a search was started when they failed to appear at 6 p.m.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my husband he promised he'd lose 10 pounds. He's only 5 ft. 8 in. and carries all his extra weight in his belly. I told him I couldn't think of anything more repulsive than being married to a fat man, and I meant it, too.

Well, we've been married for nine years, and instead of his losing 10 pounds like he promised, he GAINED 35 more! Abby, when he starts getting amorous, that fat belly of his just knocks me cold.

He says if a wife really loves her husband, his belly won't matter. I say if a man really loves his wife he'll try to keep his sex appeal. I'd like your opinion.

FAT MAN'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: What some women find "repulsive," other women overlook. I'm sure there are a lot of fat men who haven't suffered any loss of love because their physiques have gone to pot. (Women, too.)

DEAR ABBY: My brother is being married soon to a girl I'll call Sharon. Sharon's aunt gave her a bridal shower to which my mother and I were not invited. The excuse she gave us was that the place was "too far away and hard to find." How about that?

My mother and I bought a shower gift anyway, and sent it to the shower with my brother. When Sharon's sister saw my brother bringing our shower gifts, she had a screaming fit and refused to give them to Sharon at the shower saying Sharon's mother and aunt would be embarrassed. Our gifts were given to Sharon later that evening after she came home from the shower.

Your thoughts on the matter would be appreciated by my mother and me.

HURT AND UPSET

DEAR ABBY: If you were excluded from the shower for what you considered a phony reason, why, then did you send

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the man who wanted to become a registered nurse, but wasn't sure whether he would be accepted in a school because he had a police record, the following:

Anyone with a police record who wants to become a registered nurse should first investigate the requirements of the STATE BOARD OF NURSING. NOT the admission requirements of the nursing school.

I don't know how it is in other states, but in Indiana the applicants for examination and license as a R.N. must sign an affidavit stating that he has never been convicted of a felony or any other crime involving moral turpitude.

Head-On Crash Claims Three

VAN HORN, Tex. (AP) — A head-on collision six miles east of this Far West Texas town Tuesday on U. S. 80 killed the three occupants of the two cars.

The Department of Public Safety listed the dead as Elma Jean Lewis, 20, of Okmulgee, Okla., in one car and James D. Taylor, 32, and his wife, Nicefora, 39, in the other vehicle. Taylor was a chief petty officer in the U. S. Navy at San Diego, Calif., police said.

The DPS said apparently one car veered across the center stripe and slammed head-on into the second vehicle.

DO IT YOURSELF DAUGHTER—Warren and Susan Huppi still use a dresser drawer as a crib for four-day-old Melissa, whom they delivered themselves in their log home in Portland, Ore. He's a tree surgeon.

Avoid 'Hospital Assembly Line'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Portland tree surgeon and his wife delivered their baby at home recently to avoid "the hospital assembly line."

Warren and Susan Huppi read all the obstetrics books they could find.

Then, as the day approached, they scrubbed and sterilized the bedroom of their log home.

Little Melissa Huppi was born five days ago in the four-poster bed Susan had carved with her wood sculpting chain saw.

"We had no problems during labor and delivery," said Warren. "Except, I got awfully nervous."

"Having a baby is a wonderful thing," said Susan. "Warren and I didn't want to go through the hospital assembly line where the father has nothing to do when the biggest thing in life is happening."

The Huppi's—he's 31, she's 25—say they'll use the money they saved—approximately $375—toward their tuition at Portland Community College this fall.

The couple also made news last spring. They were both enrolled at the college and brought their year-and-a-half-old son Tom, to school with them because they couldn't afford a babysitter.

They arranged their programs so one was off while the other was in class, and exchanged Tom each hour.

Tom was born in a conventional setting.

Military Cutbacks Maneuver

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican and a Democrat are drumming up Senate support for their amendment which would pare military active duty strength by the number of men withdrawn from Vietnam.

The amendment to a military procurement bill proposed by Sens. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., would also prevent redeployment of the withdrawn troops to other countries.

Aides to the senators said the measure will be introduced in the Senate sometime this week. Presently, they said, their bosses are looking for co-sponsors.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, Tuesday offered a resolution—a maneuver not binding on the administration—which also calls for troop reductions as troops are pulled out of Vietnam and other overseas positions.

Cook and Bayh, in a letter to colleagues, said: "It is important to emphasize that under our amendment no over-all troop reductions are required unless and until withdrawals are made from Vietnam."

"The purpose of our amendment is to insure that as active duty personnel are taken out of Vietnam, this number of men is not re-deployed elsewhere."

Cook, a freshman Republican who has opposed the administration on the antiballistic missile system and other issues, said no one has seriously considered troop levels outside Vietnam are inadequate.

Mid-Summer Mildness

Mid-summer mildness dominated the nation's weather today and clear skies were widespread.

Exceptions to the generally pleasant pattern were continued sweating heat in the Southwest and a growing pocket of almost autumnlike chilliness in the Northwest and lingering clouds and showers in the East.

Above-normal humidity in the interior of the Southwest added to the impact of temperatures which have soared well over 100 in recent days.

Palm Springs, the California desert spa which on Monday recorded the nation's hottest day of the season at 121, registered 120 Tuesday.

Cooler air spilling out of the Pacific Northwest triggered scattered thundershowers during the night from the northern Rockies into the plains. Temperatures fell into the 40s over inland sections of the Northwest.

Citizens Invited To Attend Meet

Big Springers have been invited by City Manager Larry Crow to meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the city commission room to make suggestions concerning the 1969-70 city budget. Crow said a session like this one was very successful last year. After this informal session, a draft of the proposed budget will be completed.

ABM Issue At-A-Glance

President Nixon's proposal: Deploy the Safeguard antiballistic missile—ABM—system, formerly called Sentinel, at 12 U.S. sites, each equipped with radars, computers and two kinds of missiles.

Purpose: To protect four Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile sites, seven Strategic Air Command bomber bases and Washington, D.C., against missile attack.

Initial recommendation: Two sites at Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D., and Malmstrom Air Force Base, Great Falls, Mont., to be operative by 1973 plus acquisition of land for 10 additional sites to be deployed by 1975.

Cost: Official estimate was $6.6 billion for the 12 sites plus $600 million for two optional sites in Alaska and Hawaii are added. This does not include $1.2 billion for deployment of nuclear warheads or $2.5 billion for research and development. Critics say the full system will cost closer to $20 billion. Bill before Senate authorizes $759.1 million, most of it for research.

Issue before Senate: Amendment by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to bar deployment and site acquisition but continue research and tests. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, has offered another amendment to bar research too, but many opponents of deployment favor continued research.

Outlook: A very close Senate vote. ABM supporters forecast a 51-49 victory, opponents claim at least 50 votes with two undecided—Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M. If all 100 senators vote, amendment needs 51 votes. House considered favorable to ABM and fight will continue beyond Wednesday's vote, on both authorization and later appropriations.

DEATHS

Mother Of Local Resident Dies

SNYDER — Mrs. Durwood Watson, 62, mother of Mrs. B. E. Watts, Big Spring, died at 1:50 p.m. Tuesday in Simmons Memorial Hospital in Sweetwater.

Funeral services are scheduled at 3 p.m. Thursday in Central Baptist Church at Hermleigh with the Rev. L. R. Stuckey of Abilene officiating, assisted by the Rev. Fred Boatman, pastor of the Central Baptist Church.

Palbearers will be Jack Shaffer, Bob Carlie, Roland King, D. W. Powell, Cecil Mason, and Ray Parker. All are members of the Phillips Memorial Baptist Church.

County Fathers To Delay Tax Decision To Monday

County Commissioners apparently will take no action on a proposed valuation change on oil properties or complaints by rural taxpayers concerning land valuation until Aug. 13. This is the date when the commissioners are scheduled to meet for the last time as a board of equalization.

The commissioners will not meet as a court until Aug. 18 because several commissioners will be out of town.

In the regular meeting Monday commissioners were considering holding another equalization hearing because of the acceptance by oil companies of a three per cent increase in valuations for the Coahoma Independent School District while leaving county values the

That Old Dry Grass Again

Called to one fire, and then on the return to the station, Big Spring firemen had to stop to put out a second blaze. Both were grass fires.

At 5 p.m. they extinguished the first blaze at 705 NW 6th, drove around the block on the return to the station and had to stop to put out the second fire at 700 NW 7th. Firemen listed burning trash as the cause for both fires.

There was no cause listed for a third grass fire at a vacant lot at 705 NW 8th at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday and firemen said that a vacant lot at 601 Colgate was set on fire at 9:17 p.m. Tuesday.

Mesquite City Manager Quits

MESQUITE, Tex. (AP) — City Manager Carl Riehn resigned Tuesday to become executive director of the 10-city North Texas Municipal Water District.

Riehn, who came to the Dallas suburb in 1966, will be in charge of directing water from Lavon Lake to member cities, Garland, Mesquite, Plano, Princeton, Wylie, Farmersville, Forney, McKinney, Royse City and Rockwall as well as eight other towns and water districts and 251 farms and ranches in Dallas, Collin, Rockwall and Kaufman Counties.

Three Women Sue La Porte Plant

LA PORTE, Tex. (AP) — Three women have filed suits in district court against Chemetron Corp. for $25,000 each, alleging they were hospitalized June 5 after phosgene gas was released from the corporation's La Porte plant.

Mrs. Eugenia Riley, 51; Miss Judy Killen, 22; and Miss Brenda Jolene Young, 19, said in the suit they received hospital emergency care and treatment after they became "nauseated, drowsy and disoriented."

Chemetron officials denied the plant had emitted undesirable levels of phosgene. The company is under a court order not to release the gas in violation of the state clean air act after the state filed suit in June.

Kinney Presented Award For Service With TEC

Leon M. Kinney, director of the Texas Employment Commission office here, has been presented with a 25-year pin and a certificate honoring him for his years of service.

Kinney was born in Miami, Tex., and attended public schools there. He graduated from high school in 1929, and attended the University of Texas.

He was County Relief Administrator in Roberts County from 1933 to 1935; district employment officer, Work Projects Administration, a Marshall from 1935 to 1942; chief interviewer, Certain-Teed Products Corp., in Amarillo from 1942 to 1943; and employment officer, Lone Star Steel Company, Dainierfeld, 1943-1944.

Kinney started with Texas Employment Commission in Longview in July, 1944, as an interviewer. He was transferred to the Marshall office in 1945 as manager, and became manager of the Big Spring office in 1948.

Kinney and his wife live at 801 W. 16th. They have two children, John E. Kinney, a Houston attorney, and Mrs. John M. Sweeten, Big Spring.

Short Is On Long End Of Dawson's Balloting

LAMESA — E. L. Short was the overwhelming choice of Dawson County voters Tuesday as their representative in the 3rd legislative district. Short received 1,143 votes as compared to opponent Jim Clack's 277.

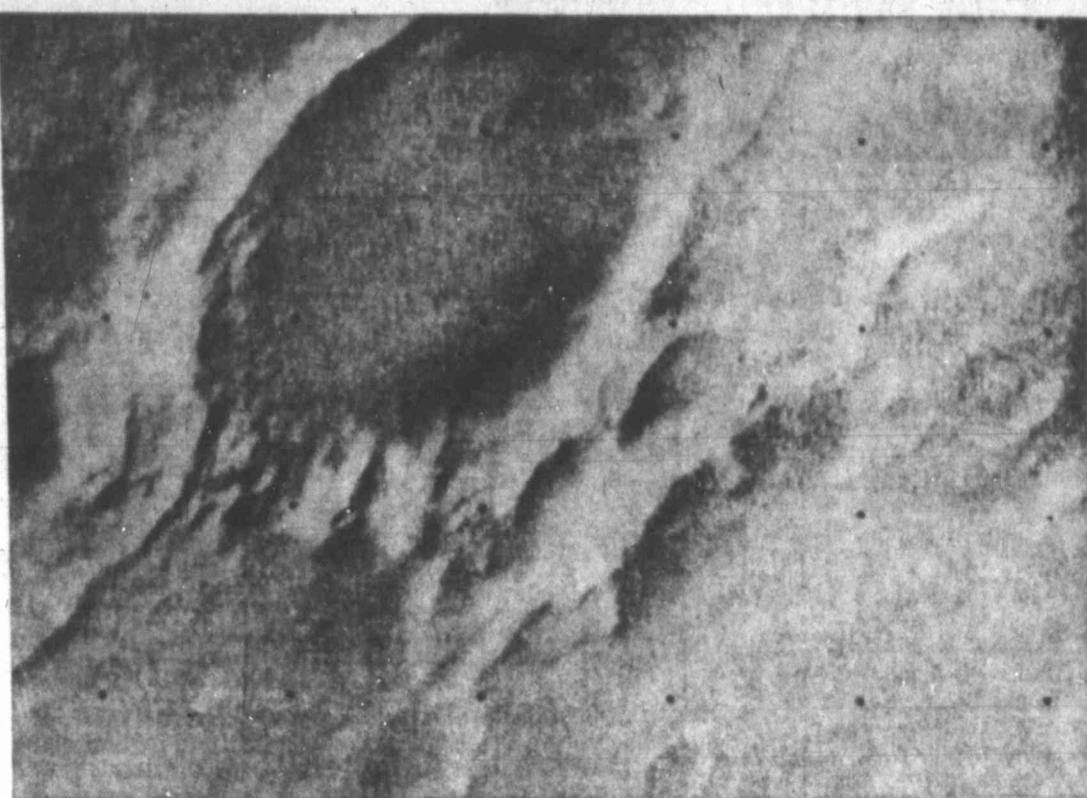

In balloting on state constitutional amendments, Dawson County voters voted against only numbers three, six and nine.

The results were: Constitutional deletions, for $28, against 450; Water plan bonds, for 1,167, against 224; Legislators' pay hikes, against 845, for 462; Water tax exemptions, for 783, against 502; Welfare ceiling increase, for 938, against 485; End state bond interest ceiling, against 659, for 586; State employers' survivors' aid, for 826, against 496; Expanded student loan plan, for 853, against 482; and annual legislative sessions, against 736, for 531.

SCIENTISTS CALL IT 'GIANT'S FOOTPRINT'—These two oblique craters near the south polar cap of Mars impelled scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory to refer to them jokingly as a giant's footprint and the only evidence they'd see yet of life on the planet.

Mariner Zips Into Orbit Around Sun

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 7 streaked into distant orbit around the sun today after television the first closeup of the Martian south pole — a region loaded with surprises ranging from footprint-shaped craters to what looked like deep drifts of snow.

BABY PICTURES?

One scientist said of the pictures, taken as the 850-pound spacecraft swept within 2,000 miles of the planet:

"We may be looking at baby pictures of earth. This is what the earth might have looked like some four billion years ago before it developed an atmosphere and oceans to weather its surface and nurture life."

The scientist was Dr. Robert Sharp, California Institute of Technology geologist, one of a team of experts analyzing the photographs as they streamed across 60 million miles to monitors at Jet Propulsion Laboratory Tuesday night.

One of the most striking pictures showed two irregular craters, many miles across and barely overlapping each other.

Dr. Robert Leighton, Cal Tech astronomer, jokingly described them as "a footprint—the first evidence of life on Mars."

ICE OR SNOW

The "footprint" was in ice or snow drifted surprisingly deep. Scientists had believed the south polar cap was a little thicker than frost but the pictures showed it piled up in vast dunes and pocked with deep, steeply walled craters.

Leighton said this indicated the snow was probably frozen carbon dioxide — dry ice — because there wasn't enough water on Mars to make that much real snow.

The pictures showed the polar cap heavily pocked with craters and much darker than the desert regions to the north, as plowed ground looks darker than surrounding fields.

Another finding exciting to scientists was the lack of craters in a bright desert area far to the north of the polar cap. The circular desert, called Hellas, had been presumed to be a giant crater some 1,200 miles across.

MORE SIGNALS Sharp suggested the "crater" might instead be a natural sink or collapsed area.

The floor of the desert was strangely free of the meteorite impact craters which pock most of Mars. Sharp said they might be there but possibly had become filled with dust over the ages. Whatever the reason, the craterless desert now becomes one of the many mysteries of Mars.

Mariner 7 followed its sister craft, Mariner 6, which flew past the Martian equator a week ago, into orbit around the sun. Both spacecraft will continue to send signals back to earth until mid-August when they pass beyond range of their transmitters.

Park In Peace

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The parking lot outside a funeral home carries this warning sign: "Park At Your Own Risk."

Auto Price Hikes Said 'Inevitable'

DETROIT (AP) — The 1970 car models will hardly have gone on display before the cost of building autos takes three more fast jumps.

Industry sources who decline to be named view a price increase as "inevitable," with some forecasting $100 to $150 as the range.

The industry got the news July 30 that prices would be $6 to $8 a ton higher for most of the steel products it uses.

Next comes a series of hikes in labor costs.

Under current contracts with the United Auto Workers Union, a new fringe benefit is effective Oct. 1 for hourly rated workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The companies assume the cost of prescription drugs and refills beyond a charge of $2 each.

This new fringe benefit, estimated to cost a cent and a half hourly per worker, goes on top of a company-paid hospital-medical-surgical insurance plan good for up to 365 days of semi-private accommodations for an employee and his dependents.

A cost-of-living escalator, on which wages rise or descend with the index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, will add nine cents an hour on Oct. 27.

On Nov. 24 an automatic so-called annual improvement factor increase of three per cent takes effect.

The current hourly straight-time wage in Big Three factories is $3.83.

With the nine-cent cost-of-living increase and the three per cent annual improvement factor the straight-time hourly wage will go to $4.04 for the final year of current three-year contracts.

JUST WAITING

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Two police cars and a harbor patrol boat rushed to the Anthony Wayne bridge here when it was reported a man was threatening to jump off the span.

They found a man perched on the bridge railing waiting for his stalled, overheated car engine to cool.

Hot, Dry Weather

By The Associated Press

Texas weather settled down to mostly clear skies and fair weather today.

At dawn, temperatures ranged in the 70s and 80s across the state.

Forecasts indicate a return of hot, dry weather under clear to partly cloudy skies for most sections. Some afternoon and evening thundershowers were expected over the Panhandle and some daytime showers were predicted for the lower Coastal Plains.

Long range forecasts called for temperatures up to five degrees above normal, with widely scattered showers and thundershowers.

azurée

Now is the time to give your body a refreshing beauty experience with a cooling, revitalizing Azurée Bath
by Estée Lauder

Hemphill-Wells

Among the Azurée collection of extraordinary bath formulas is this cool refresher plan—something to plunge into right now, and come up soothed, smoothed and positively rejuvenated. This Azurée approach to bathing is designed to pamper every inch of your hot, summer skin. There's MINT PICK-UP

BATH, an ingeniously refreshing mint-spiked bubble bath that soothes your skin while it revitalizes your spirits. For more in-the-tub refreshment, luxurious softening and fragrance oils are molded into a bath-size cake of FRESH WATER BATH OIL SOAP. After the bath, try a lavish splash of clear, tangy SPARKLING FRICTION LOTION (keep it in the refrigerator for extra cool), along with COOL SPRAY BATH POWDER, an icy aerosol spray of fine talc. Finally, surround yourself in a mist of COLOGNE SPRAY CONCENTRATE—the ultimate luxury ending for any bath. It perpetuates the staying-power of the Azurée fragrance, a fresh scent rich with Mediterranean warmth and tang. Your bathtime ritual complete, you'll be restored, renewed and ready to step out into a remarkably refreshing summer world.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now is your chance to go directly to the most influential person with whom you have any small contact. You can present to him a course of action that can be very helpful to you. The broader the scope of action in this plan, the better, so do what will bring you a new success in life.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Get busy contacting charming people. Those who are creative as well, who can assist you to advance more quickly. Go to the right sources for the date you need. Take big strides in the right direction.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Talk over financial matters with a member of the family who has the right ideas and good judgment. Come to the best decisions. Then come to a meeting of the mind with others who are concerned in these affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can get the answers you have long wanted from a good contact. You have to make the effort to do after your goal if you are to get the right benefits. Do the purchasing, writing, planning trips that are important. Beware of tricksters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) It is important that you are more practical now. Invest your money carefully and spend it wisely. Cut down on expenses. Put in more effort and you will find that you can soon have an abundance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Talk over with good friends some plan you have and get their cooperation to make it successful. They can give you fine suggestions. Make your search for that personal desire an interesting one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A private talk with an influential person can help you out across a fine, practical plan. Be sure you take care of the credit matter intelligently. You can advance more quickly now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Those excellent ideas you have should be discussed intelligently with a clever friend so that you can enrich your life. Planning that trip that will help you to advance is fine. Become more influential.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show appreciation to well-intentioned persons who have helped you in the past to get along nicely. You need to talk faster if you want to make headway with a romantic interest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Have those extra talks with your partners that can help you to cement relations. Be alert to what is occurring around you and get the information you need. Avoid those persons who are rarely complimentary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think how you can make your regular work more efficient in the future, making everything easier for yourself. Sit down and talk with a co-worker. See how you can improve conditions in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan your work well so that it is done speedily and accurately. Then you can go out for the recreation you like. Your tired spirits need uplifting. Seek out those people you really like.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Get busy and change these conditions. You do not like at home. Although one close to you is very animated, pay little attention and all will be fine. Be happy tonight.

Cute Brunette Joins Astros In Quarantine

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With a pretty 24-year-old brunette isolated in their quarantine quarters, Apollo 11's astronauts today complete the 10-day task of discussing with experts the details of their moon-landing mission.

The young woman, Miss Heather Owens, and three male technicians were added to the quarters' growing population Tuesday night after they were exposed to lunar material in another part of the lunar receiving laboratory.

On the spacemen's schedule were analyses of many of their moon pictures and a meeting with scientists and geologists on scientific aspects of their historic flight.

DE-BRIEFING

That will finish the formal de-briefing period which started when Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins arrived at the laboratory July 27.

During the remaining four days of quarantine, they plan to finish writing their pilot reports and to relax behind their biological barrier.

They and the 20 other persons quarantined with them will be released late Sunday or Monday if no illnesses develop and no harmful organisms turn up in the study of moon samples gathered by Armstrong and Aldrin. So far, nothing unusual has been found.

The astronauts originally shared the quarantine with only 14 persons—doctors, technicians, a public affairs representative and a cook.

Two technicians were added last week when they accidentally contacted moon dust in the adjoining lab.

Tuesday afternoon the alarm rang again in the lab. A leak had developed in a vacuum line containing lunar material, spraying a room like a burst from an aerosol can.

COMMUNITY BATHROOM Exposed were Miss Owens, who works with mice injected with moon dust, and three safety technicians, Chauncey Park, Ray Coons and Riley Wilson.

Miss Owen, a shapely 5-foot-7, was assigned a private room and a nearby bathroom that had belonged to the three astronauts.

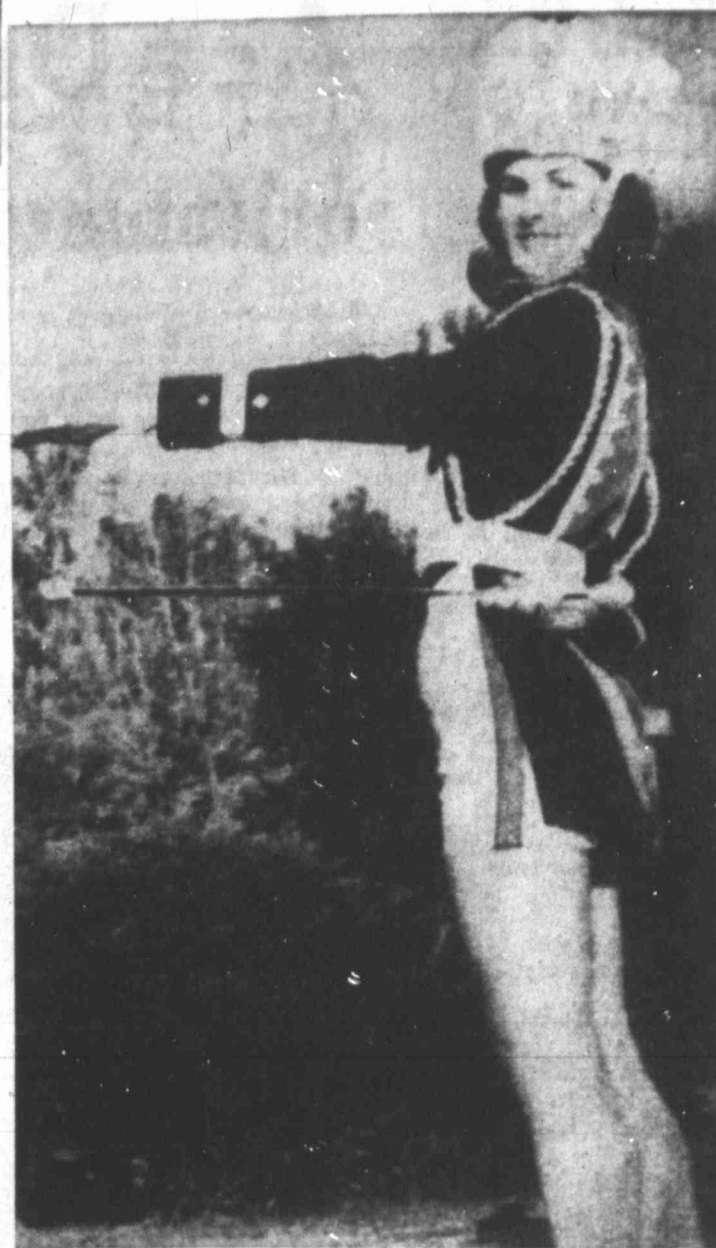

"The astronauts now use the community bathroom with the rest of us," reported John McLeish, public affairs officer who was relegated to a dormitory when his room was assigned to Miss Owens.

The three male technicians were placed in a quarantine trailer which housed the spacemen on the trip to Houston from the Pacific recovery area.

Asked how the long-timers in the quarters felt about having a woman aboard, McLeish smiled and reported it was quite a conversation piece at Armstrong's 39th birthday party, celebrated Tuesday night with a bottle of champagne and a cake with a full complement of candles.

The cook could find only 28 candles in the confinement area but thirteen others were decontaminated and brought in from the outside world.

Meanwhile, extensive study continued on the more than 50 pounds of rock and soil returned by the astronauts.

Play Tryouts Begin Today

Persons interested in trying out for acting roles in two "Supper Theatre" plays are reminded to come to the main dining room of the Cosden Country Club at 7:30 p.m. today.

Parts for four men and three women are required for both plays.

"The Tiger," by Murray Shisgal, and "A Perfect Analysis Given by a Parrot," by Tennessee Williams, will be presented Sept. 18 and 19 at the Cosden Club. Al Scott and Cathy McLain are directing.

"Experience will be helpful," business manager Erven Fisher pointed out, "but we hope that will not deter all interested people from turning out for the tryouts."

Al Scott who is directing the Tennessee Williams play said the two plays will need not only actors, but stagehands, assistant directors, make-up and lighting people. "If you don't want to act, come anyway," Scott said. "And we'll find a job for you." Another tryout period will be held also Thursday at the Cosden club at 7:30 p.m.

Cramped Quarters

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Gerald Cunningham, 4, caused his whole neighborhood, including police and firemen, several anxious hours when he disappeared.

While a number of persons combed the neighborhood looking for Gerald, one of the searchers walked through the basement of his house and accidentally opened the clothes dryer.

There was Gerald, a little cramped after being curled in the dryer three hours, but okay.

New Private Club Rules Slated Before Weekend

AUSTIN (AP) — Dist. Judge James Meyers says he will rule "before the weekend" on a suit challenging the Texas Liquor Control Board's new rules for private clubs.

Meyers said the second of two briefs from state and plaintiff lawyers was expected Thursday. He indicated a decision would come Friday.

Lawyers for the Attic Club Inc. and the Black Garter Club of the Executive Inn, both in Dallas, sued June 12 to block the board from enforcing rules adopted last May.

A hearing on a temporary restraining order was held last week and Meyers took the case under advisement after asking lawyers to file briefs on a procedural point of law.

The new rules, among other things, require a club to have at least 25 members and a membership committee and places strict provisions on issuance of guest cards.

Cash sales would be banned. One section defines "guest" as "an individual who is personally known by the member or one of the member's family and who is admitted to the club premises by personal introduction of, or in the physical company of, the member or one of the member's family."

If a guest "not in the physical company of a member or one of the member's family incurs an indebtedness, such indebtedness shall be billed to and paid by the member."

"In our opinion," said Bob

"The board is presently under an injunction from enforcing last year's rules, and we believe the 1969 version should be tested in the same fashion."

McNabb contends the rule would close about 75 per cent of the private clubs.

Veteran Total Tops 27 Million

The GI roll call has passed the 27,000,000 mark.

In announcing the new total of enrollees, Jack Coker, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco, said that Vietnam veterans discharged to Aug. 4 raised the ledger count to the highest peak in history.

In reviewing the veteran population, the VA Manager noted that the average age of all 27 million veterans has increased to 44.3 years.

Broken down by wars, the average age of veterans on the active rolls are:

Spanish-American War (6,000 veterans) 90.3 years; World War I (1,647,000) 74.7 years; World War II (14,592,000 veterans) 49.7 years; Korean Conflict (5,847,000 veterans) 46 years; and Vietnam era (3,169,000 veterans) 26.2 years.

Also on the VA rolls are 3,134,000 who served in the Armed Forces between the Korean Conflict and Vietnam. Their average age is 30.7 years.

The totals above tops 27 million since some veterans served in more than one period.

While most of the nation's veterans have taken advantage of some rights during the 25-year history of the GI Bill, Coker pointed out, major participation was four million in education and another 7.5 million for on-the-job training.

PX Purely Military Zone

TAIPEI (AP) — The Formosa Taxation Department says it will confiscate as "smuggled" goods any items from the U.S. Military Post Exchange (PX) discovered on sale on the local market.

The department said persons selling the items would be charged with smuggling. Under law, goods from the PX are only for use by military personnel.

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT Pass 2NT Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠
A neat unblocking play by declarer permitted an entry to dummy when it was vitally needed.

West opened the five of spades against South's three no trump contract. Declarer played the nine from dummy and East put up the ace. If West had opened from a five card suit, it was clear to South that he was fighting a losing battle—for, nine tricks could be brought in only on the remote contingency that the king of clubs was alone. Sneaking into dummy with a diamond to attempt a club finesse does not present a bright prospect. It will be apparent to the opposition that declarer is now defenseless in spades and they will be "rushing" in to "cash out."

Declarer saw that if the club king was favorably located, he could win the hand by getting into the dummy the hard way. The rule of eleven makes it evident that East has only one spade higher than the five and he has already played it. So South dropped the king of spades under the ace. Now the defenders could not prevent him from entering the dummy with the jack of spades unless they abandoned the spade suit—in which case declarer would have plenty of time for all of his work. After his maneuver the successful club finesse enabled the declarer to bring in nine tricks.

Returning to the play from dummy at trick one, the nine is a better choice than the six. This protects declarer if West's lead has been from A-Q-10-5-2 in which case he gains immediate entry to dummy. The jack would be the winning play if West had led from the A-Q-8-5-2, but it would lose whenever East held the queen. The play of the six is inferior for it does not gain in any case.

BIG MEN ON THE COURT — Tommy Jones, left, of Crane and Robert White of Hearne are big men for their All-Star teams that will be played in Dallas Wednesday night. Jones leads the North scorers with a 43.4 average. White, at 6-feet, 8-inches, is the South's tallest player.

North Eyes Turnabout

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The North hopes to snap a six-game South winning streak in the Texas schoolboy All-Star basketball game tonight in what is expected to be a free-shooting, high-scoring contest in air-conditioned Memorial Auditorium.

A crowd of 8,500 is expected to be on hand to watch North coach Jake Carter of Dallas Adamson pit his tall and talented squad against the South and its coach Bobby Weise.

Both coaches predict a run-and-shoot affair similar to last year's game in Fort Worth won by the South 95-63.

The North tentative lineup will consist of 6-foot-3 Mike Dukes of Levelland, 6-7 James Lister, Dallas Madison, James Williams of Dallas South Oak Cliff, 6-7 John Mark Wilson of Odessa and either high-scoring Tommy Jones of Crane or Sid Kuykendall of Midlothian.

The tentative lineup for the South will be Walt McCowan of Houston Lee, Robert Bailey of Beaumont, Charlton Polard, Howard Walker of San Antonio Sam Houston, Wayne Howard of Spring Branch Memorial and either Harry Johnson of Teague or Robert White of Hearne.

Both teams will run from a double post offense and stress the fast break.

Weise of Conroe said "These type games are usually offensive affairs because most of the players here are excellent shooters. It's hard to put together a real good defense in a short time."

Weise and Carter said the scores should reach into the 80s.

The all-time series between the clubs stands at 12 victories each. The most fans to watch the North-South basketball fray was 8,721 in 1965 in Dallas.

Texas Coaching School Officials estimated a crowd of 31,000 for Thursday night's All-star football game in the Cotton Bowl between the South and the North—which has won the last seven consecutive games.

The North received a brief scare Tuesday when heralded Joe Wylie of Henderson suffered a slight shoulder injury. It was at first thought to be more serious, but doctors said it was only a slight separation and he would be able to play.

North coach Truman Nix of Colorado City named his starting and backfield and it strangely didn't include Wylie. At quarterback will be Brad Dusek of Temple, Eddie White of Daingerfield at fullback, Lane Bowen of Brownwood at slot back, and Donnie Joe Morris of Amarillo Palo Duro at halfback.

Travis Raven of Austin Reagan announced his South backfield will include Alvin's Gary Keithley at quarterback, John Harvey of Austin Anderson at halfback, Steve Sanford of Houston Lee at fullback, and Dennis Howell of Port Arthur Jefferson at fullback.

Registration has reached 3,126 at the school—all all-time high.

Jet-Card Game Finds In-Laws Squaring Off

By The Associated Press

The New York Jets-St. Louis Cardinals exhibition football game Saturday night will be a family affair for the rival coaches.

Cardinals Coach Charlie Winner is Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank's son-in-law, as well as his protegee.

It all started 20 years ago when Winner played halfback for Ewbank, then coached at Washington University in St. Louis, and dated and eventually married his daughter, Nancy.

Ewbank hired Winner as defensive backfield coach of the Colts when Ewbank was head coach at Baltimore, but Winner nailed down his job with the Cardinals in 1965 on his own.

He guided the Cardinals to a 9-4-1 record last season in finishing 1/2 game behind the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's Century Division.

"My granddaughter, Lisa, says she wants the game to end in a tie," Ewbank said.

The Jets cut offensive tackle Ezell Jones of Minnesota, their fourth round draft choice, Tuesday and announced the signing of two more veterans, Ralph Baker, former Penn State line-backer, agreed to terms for his sixth season, and offensive tackle Winston Hill signed for a seventh year.

The Philadelphia Eagles made their third deal of the year with the Los Angeles Rams. The Eagles traded veteran defensive back Alvin Ray to the Rams for defensive back Billy Guy Anderson and a third round draft choice. Ray turned in 1965 and 1966.

New York Giants Coach Alie Sherman indicated defensive end Fred Dryer, the club's top draft choice, will see considerable action in Green Bay against the Packers Saturday in the Giants' first exhibition game.

Dryer broke through four times and dumped the quarterback in a scrimmage Tuesday.

Tom Boutwell, free agent quarterback from Southern Mississippi, was acquired by the Miami Dolphins. Boutwell, acquired by the Cleveland Browns in the 13th draft round, was put on waivers last week.

The Kansas City Chiefs have their fingers crossed about the future this season of center Jack Rudnay, their No. 4 draft choice. Rudnay, who chipped three vertebrae in practice for the College All-Star game and didn't play, will undergo two days of physical tests at the Chiefs' training camp to determine if he can play.

Running back Tom Barrington of the New Orleans Saints, described by Coach Tom Fears as one of the "best fifth backs in pro football," has been shifted to the injured list. Barrington hurt his back last week.

Cleveland Coach Blanton Collier said defensive tackle Bill Sabatino, who walked out of training camp last Saturday, is coming back. Collier said the big tackle phoned him, and said he'd changed his mind about retiring.

Morton's Wins Two Contests

LAMESA — Morton's Foods of Big Spring swept both ends of a practice softball double-header with Lubbock Sewell here Tuesday night, 3-2 and 6-2.

Morton's will oppose Gainesville in the first round of the State meet at Brownwood at 4 p.m. Friday.

At the same hour, the Lamesa Merchants will tangle with Wichita Falls on another diamond.

Townes, Reeves Won't Be In Lineup For Cowboys

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' hospital corps contained an impressive roster today as the Cowboys prepare for their preseason exhibition opener Friday against the Los Angeles Rams.

Coach Tom Landry announced that veteran defensive end Willie Townes will be out for two weeks and running back Danny Reeves, trying to come back from a knee injury, won't see action until about late September.

Landry said Townes, who had calcium removed from his left thigh late last season, hasn't responded and indicated a rest might help.

Townes is expected to play Aug. 23 in Dallas when the Cowboys play the Green Bay Packers in the annual Salesmanship Game.

Reeves, who missed most of last season with a knee injury, hasn't been able to regain his previous form.

Landry announced Tuesday his starting lineup for the Los

State, a defensive end was the rookie most likely to see action. Rookie Richmond Flowers, of Tennessee is scheduled to return kickoffs and punts.

IT'S COMING ALONG — Leo Margolian, general manager of Texas International Speedway near Bryan, observes the progress being made on the concrete grandstands.

Two Big Races Are Scheduled

COLLEGE STATION — Leo Margolian, General Manager of Texas International Speedway, today announced that ticket reservations are being accepted for the Nov. 9 Can-Am and Dec. 7 NASCAR Grand National auto races. Ticket reservations may be made through the Speedway offices, College Station.

Margolian commented, "Texas International Speedway was most fortunate in being selected as the site for both NASCAR's and the SCCA's final Championship events of the 1969 racing season. In a span of less than four weeks, Texas racing fans will have the opportunity to enjoy a full season of racing. We are accepting reservations in response to an unprecedented advance demand."

Now under construction, the $8-million Texas International Speedway will include 26,000 contour grandstand seats with backrests which have been specially designed to give the spectator the finest viewing of any speedway in the world. One hundred per cent visibility of the two-mile super speedway and pit area, and 95 per cent

Whitson Is Named Aide At Cisco

CISCO — Lewis Whitson, head football coach at Denton High School the past four years, has been hired as a coaching aide at Cisco Junior College.

Eastland To Seek 6-8 Man School

Tom Eastland, Chamber of Commerce manager, will begin sending letters to coaches in the six- and eight-man football class next week as the first step in trying to bring the 1970 Texas 6-8 Man Coaches Association Clinic to Big Spring.

The clinic, which annually attracts a registration of about 100 coaches, actually started in Big Spring immediately after World War II.

At that time, officials of the American Business Club conceived the idea for the clinic and sponsored it. Only six-man ball was played in the state at that time among the smaller schools.

The school has since been held in such cities as San Marcos, Abilene and Ranger. A couple of years ago, the ABC club here offered to sponsor the clinic again but Levelland landed it.

All-star six and eight-man football and basketball games are held in connection with the school.

Eastland said he had been assured use of facilities at Howard County Junior College, in event his bid for the school is successful.

Children Of The Poor Are For Once Winners

By The Associated Press

The "born losers" in Texas society—children of the poor—are for once winners today after the triumph of an amendment to the state constitution raising the welfare ceiling.

That was the assessment of Public Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney after the welfare amendment proved the biggest vote-getter in Tuesday's statewide voting on nine amendment proposals.

BETTER INFORMED

"I am very pleased," Hackney said, and expressed thanks for the support of churches, business and labor groups, and news media. "An awful lot of people became involved, and as a result the people of Texas are now better informed about our welfare problems."

The amendment was the only one of the nine at stake to draw more than 400,000 votes, winning by nearly two to one. Hackney said its defeat would mean "the failure of the state welfare system in Texas."

Tuesday's balloting was the first break in a year of crisis for Hackney's department, starting with a U. S. Supreme Court ruling last year holding that income from the "substitute father" living with a dependent child's mother could not be included in determining a family's grant.

FAMILIES CUT OFF

This forced the state to spread the same money thinner, cutting the checks as the number of eligible families increased, and came on the heels of a November voter rejection of a constitutional amendment which would have increased the state welfare ceiling from $60 million to $75 million.

May 1, 2,600 families were cut off the children's program and grants were reduced to another 20,000 families. The $12 per child cuts touched off widespread developments in Texas major cities.

Shoving and pushing erupted during a demonstration at the welfare office in downtown

Houston where 140 children escorted by a dozen mothers protested changes in welfare payments.

About 30 mothers and children, mostly Mexican-Americans, camped on the steps and lawn of the state welfare building in San Antonio, and on their third day there, officials refused to open the offices.

Under the banner of "Black Mother Power," welfare mothers marched in Dallas, and one of them, Mrs. Ruth Jefferson, won a court victory nullifying the state aid to needy children payment program and tightening

Colonel Gives Personnel Tips

"Take care of your people," Col. Harrison Lobdell Jr., wing commander of Webb AFB, advised Jaycees in a management problem talk Monday evening.

The Jaycees held their meeting in the Fireplace Room of the Officers' Open Mess.

Col. Lobdell stressed the importance of personal touch in manager-employee relations, pointing out that the benefits of personal interest work both ways on the ladder of authority.

The second most important thing, he said, is delegation of authority. Individuals must be taught to make their own decisions, but within established guidelines, he noted.

Creativity is a normal human attribute and should be cultivated, he said. It can result from putting together two unconnected facts or ideas to form a new idea. A free-working atmosphere which avoids undue restraints of tradition and policy will encourage creativity, he said.

"People are the key to everyone's operation," he declared, "and your success is measured by your ability to get the most out of them."

the squeeze on Hackney's department.

AID FOR NEEDY

Without a victory Tuesday, Hackney's office foresaw the necessity of legislative action to reduce aid to the elderly, the blind and the disabled so as to enrich the aid to dependent children program and hang on to the federal matching funds.

Today Hackney said he hopes to get the program for children back to the level before the cuts, or above that, reinstating those eliminated May 1.

"We are now paying 50 percent of the budgetary needs of families in the children's program, and we expect now to increase that immediately to 75 percent."

"It will take a few months' experience at the higher levels to know what we can predict for the future," Hackney said.

He said the ceiling on aid to the aged will go from $110 to $125 monthly and that for aid to the totally disabled from $84 to $100 a month.

Increasing aid to the blind from $96 to $110 a month maximum is under consideration, pending some legal interpretations on the new amendment, he said.

The amendment lifted the state welfare participation ceiling by $20 million to $80 million, but with matching federal funds, the actual improvement in welfare funding will reach about $60 million, Hackney said.

Santa Claus Goes To School

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Santa Claus is soon to be going to Navy Driver's School, the safety office of the U. S. submarine base here reports.

PO 3c Santa M. Claus, 21, has been assigned to report to the base drivers' school for a week of routine safety training.

Claus is a crewman of the submarine tender U.S.S. Fulton, whose home port is New London.

Short Wins In Martin

STANTON (SC) — E. L. Short, the victor in the 73rd Legislative District race, carried Martin County by a wide margin in Tuesday's runoff balloting to fill the place of Randy Pendleton, resigned.

Short, a Tahoka farmer-businessman, polled 245 votes to 61 for Jim Clark, Andrews attorney.

In the constitutional amendment voting, held on the same day as the special election, Martin County results showed:

Deletion of superfluous sections of the state constitution, for 127, against 164.

Water bond plan, for 252, against 58.

Legislator pay hikes, for 65, against 223.

Water tax exemptions, for 131, against 160.

Welfare ceiling increase, for 160, against 140.

End state bond interest ceiling, for 70, against 211.

State employers' survivors aid, for 149, against 142.

Expanded student loan plan, for 141, against 151.

Annual legislative sessions, for 63, against 220.

HCJC Budget Gets Approval

Silence gave consent Tuesday to the proposed budget for Howard County Junior College won prompt approval at what was to have been a public hearing. No public appeared.

Trustees formally adopted the document which calls for total expenditures of $1,424,075, up $66,983 from the current revised budget, 4.94 per cent. Of this $1,215,925 is in the regular budget (supported by local, state and federal funds) and $208,150 is in the student housing fund (supported wholly by revenues it generates).

Increased pay accounted for the increases. The budget was predicated on a $550 per capita state support, which was approved by the legislature in its first session. However, Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president noted, the governor has proposed $510 to the special session, and this could put the college in a tight fiscal situation which might be managed in view of projected increase in county values.

The board adopted a 60-cent tax rate, the limit allowed it and which has been assessed for years. This is divided 11 cents for debt service and 49 cents for operations. No discount will be allowed for early payment of 1969 taxes, a continuation of a policy set up last year. The projected tax roll is pegged at $80,000,000.

Several purchases were approved, including a Hydra-Spray paint machine from Sherwin-Williams; concert piano for music department.

"Characteristic symptoms of the mites at work are stunted internodes and large brownish patches of grass," Gross said.

"The mites migrate into the yard, fasten themselves to the grass stems and suck the plant juice from the grass."

The complete life cycle of the Bermuda grass mite is only one week long, but the pests multiply rapidly. They are normally first seen in July or August, but can attack anytime the grass is green, Gross said.

"The patches of brownish, wiry grass start at the side of the yard and move across the grass," Gross said. "The mites can destroy the entire yard."

Unlike worm damage which shears grass at the roots, a few green tufts of grass may show in the midst of the brown spots hit by the mites.

Base To Care For Computer

Maintenance responsibilities for the base level supply computer at Webb were converted from commercial contract to a military operation Friday.

Lt. Col. Robert Gagnon, 2050th Communications Squadron commander, said Webb is one of 24 Air Force bases involved in the conversion program. All of the conversions will be carried out by the 2050th's parent command, the Air Force Communications Service (AFCS).

Maintenance of the UNIVAC 1050-II base level supply computers has in the past been handled on a commercial contract basis. The change in maintenance responsibility was prompted by the success of the AFCS maintenance program at 16 bases in Southeast Asia.

The computers are used in the base supply depots to maintain accurate and current inventories, to program the reordering of supplies and to provide immediate information on Air Force supply contracts and supply data. The computers have increased in efficiency and reduced the time losses in the depot operation.

Rotarians To Host New Pilot Class

Members of Webb AFB pilot training class 70-01 and their wives and dates will be entertained at a barbecue hosted by the Rotary Club Friday.

The event will be on scenic Mountain starting at 8 p.m. Square dancers from Stanton will provide the program following a barbecue meal and watermelon. Jerry Worthy is chairman for the party and urged all Rotarians and their wives to attend.

At the regular Tuesday meeting, Adrian Randall gave a demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and basic first aid measures. He was introduced by Don Womack.

Mike Guffey submitted his resignation from the club due to moving from the city.

Baby Boom

LONDON (AP) — The population of the United Kingdom will be 68,190,000 by the year 2000, according to a government report. This would be a rise of 23 per cent in 32 years.

Those charged with Rheaault are David E. Crew, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., Jefferson, S.C.; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Robert F. Marasco, Bloomfield, N.J.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, Athens, Ga.; CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, New York City, and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., Naples, Fla.

They are being held at Long Binh, the Army headquarters 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

U. S. military officials would not disclose the identity of the dead man or any other details of the case. They claimed such a disclosure would prejudice the case.

GRAND JURY

Military attorneys said the charges against the eight men are now in the hands of an investigating officer. He acts as the equivalent of a grand jury in civilian life, deciding whether the men should be freed or whether they should stand trial.

"This officer must hold a formal pre-trial investigation... a formal hearing," one legal officer said. "The accused are entitled to be represented by counsel. It is roughly the equivalent of a grand jury proceeding."

Spots On Your Lawn? May Be Bermuda Grass Mites

Bermuda grass mites, though not exactly comparable to the monster that ate Cleveland, can do considerable damage to lawns. Some of these pesky microscopic insects have been detected in Howard County, according to Paul Gross, county agent.

Ex-Green Beret Leader Charged With Murder

SAIGON (AP) — The former commander of Green Beret forces in Vietnam and seven of his staff have been charged with premeditated murder in the shooting of a Vietnamese man, the U.S. Army disclosed today.

The eight men are under arrest and also charged with conspiracy to commit murder, the U.S. Command said. The charges are being investigated to determine if they will be brought to trial before an Army court-martial.

NO INFO

The U.S. Command gave virtually no information about the case against Col. Robert B. Rheaault, a 41-year-old West Pointer from Vineyard Haven, Mass., two majors, three captains, a chief warrant officer and a sergeant first class.

The 5th Special Forces Group command, which Rheaault headed until he was relieved last month, also claimed up.

The Army announcement said the killing occurred June 20 near Nha Trang, the headquarters of the 5th Special Forces 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

Those charged with Rheaault are David E. Crew, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., Jefferson, S.C.; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Robert F. Marasco, Bloomfield, N.J.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, Athens, Ga.; CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, New York City, and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., Naples, Fla.

They are being held at Long Binh, the Army headquarters 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

U. S. military officials would not disclose the identity of the dead man or any other details of the case. They claimed such a disclosure would prejudice the case.

GRAND JURY

Military attorneys said the charges against the eight men are now in the hands of an investigating officer. He acts as the equivalent of a grand jury in civilian life, deciding whether the men should be freed or whether they should stand trial.

"This officer must hold a formal pre-trial investigation... a formal hearing," one legal officer said. "The accused are entitled to be represented by counsel. It is roughly the equivalent of a grand jury proceeding."

The military lawyer said any one subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice may prefer charges. The Army refused to say who brought the charges. Its announcement said the investigation was ordered by Maj. Gen. G. L. Mabry, commanding general of Army support troops in Vietnam, "following charges of premeditated murder and conspiracy to commit murder of a Vietnamese national near Nha Trang last June 20."

The Americans retaliated with artillery fire, silencing at least two of the rocket sites and touching off three secondary explosions and four secondary fires, indicating direct hits on other ammunition stores.

Viet Cong saboteurs blew up half of a 250-foot bridge in the Mekong Delta 48 miles southwest of Saigon. One South Vietnamese militiaman was wounded.

BOMBHELL

The Army dropped the bombshell in an offhand manner. There was no news conference. A communique announcing the charges was quietly placed among routine press releases in a rack at the U.S. press center.

Rheaault, whose wife and three children live in Vineyard Haven, was second in command of the 5th Special Forces Group in 1964-65 and returned to Vietnam to take command of the elite Green Berets last May 29, three weeks before the killing. He was relieved of command on July 21.

He is an expert on counterinsurgency and guerrilla warfare, having served as a special assistant in special operations for the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington in 1966. A West Point graduate in 1946, he served in Germany with the 6th Armored Cavalry Regiment and in Korea with the 3rd Infantry Division, and has won three Legions of Merit, the Bronze Star and the Air Medal.

BATTLE LULL

Special Forces troops were sent to Vietnam in the early 1960s in an attempt to counter the Viet Cong guerrilla warfare prior to the big buildup of American infantry forces. The rugged, highly trained Green Berets often operate clandestinely. Broken up into 12-man teams, they maintain camps along the Cambodian and Laotian borders in which they train mountain tribesmen and South Vietnamese hired as mercenary soldiers by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

In the war, meanwhile, the battlefield lull entered its eighth week.

U.S. headquarters said there were 15 rocket and mortar attacks from 8 a.m. Tuesday to 8 a.m. today and 21 Americans wounded. Two of the rocket attacks came from inside the Demilitarized Zone, the American command said.

The Americans retaliated with artillery fire, silencing at least two of the rocket sites and touching off three secondary explosions and four secondary fires, indicating direct hits on other ammunition stores.

Viet Cong saboteurs blew up half of a 250-foot bridge in the Mekong Delta 48 miles southwest of Saigon. One South Vietnamese militiaman was wounded.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported killing 70 enemy troops in scattered fights Tuesday. U.S. losses were one killed and five wounded. South Vietnamese losses were reported as light.

U.S. headquarters announced that an Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down 65 miles south of Da Nang Monday, killing both crewmen.

An Army helicopter was shot down Tuesday 40 miles south of Da Nang, but the crewmen escaped unhurt.

The losses raised the number of fixed-wing aircraft reported lost in the war to 2,798 and the total number of helicopters to 2,900.

South Vietnamese spokesmen reported that Viet Cong terrorists fired two grenades into a village meeting house 15 miles south of Da Nang, killing four civilians and wounding 20. Two suspects were arrested.

South Vietnamese Defense Minister Nguyen-Van Vy told newsmen in Saigon no decision has been made on withdrawal of more American troops beyond the 25,000 President Nixon has ordered out by the end of August.

"The question is being studied," he said, "but it is too soon to say when further Americans will be replaced by South Vietnamese forces."

Lana Turner's Husband Asks $7 Million

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Thirty minutes after grand theft charges were dismissed against Ronald Dante, husband of actress Lana Turner, he filed a $7 million damage suit alleging malicious prosecution.

The grand theft charges against the night club hypnotist, 42, were dropped Tuesday when city Judge Paul Mast ruled that Dante had been denied his right to a speedy trial.

The court held that Miss Turner's seventh husband was kept waiting too long for a hearing on a charge that he tried to hulk the now defunct Marlin Boat Co. in a 1968 transaction involving the purchase of seven motorboats. Dante was arrested last June.

Officials of the Marlin Co. said they found Dante loading the boats onto a truck after they had refused to accept a post-dated check from him. Dante contended

Jet-Card Game Finds In-Laws Squaring Off

By The Associated Press

The New York Jets-St. Louis Cardinals exhibition football game Saturday night will be a family affair for the rival coaches.

Cardinals Coach Charlie Winner is Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank's son-in-law, as well as his protegee.

It all started 20 years ago when Winner played halfback for Ewbank, then coached at Washington University in St. Louis, and dated and eventually married his daughter, Nancy.

Ewbank hired Winner as defensive backfield coach of the Colts when Ewbank was head coach at Baltimore, but Winner nailed down his job with the Cardinals in 1965 on his own.

He guided the Cardinals to a 9-4-1 record last season in finishing 1/2 game behind the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's Century Division.

"My granddaughter, Lisa, says she wants the game to end in a tie," Ewbank said.

The Jets cut offensive tackle Ezell Jones of Minnesota, their fourth round draft choice, Tuesday and announced the signing of two more veterans. Ralph Baker, former Penn State line-backer, agreed to terms for his sixth season, and offensive tackle Winston Hill signed for a seventh year.

The Philadelphia Eagles made their third deal of the year with the Los Angeles

Rams. The Eagles traded veteran defensive back Alvin Raymond to the Rams for defensive back Billy Guy Anderson and a third round draft choice. Raymond led the NFL in punt returns in 1965 and 1966.

New York Giants Coach Allie Sherman indicated defensive end Fred Dryer, the club's top draft choice, will see considerable action in Green Bay against the Packers Saturday in the Giants' first exhibition game. Dryer broke through four lines and dumped the quarterback in a scrimmage Tuesday.

Tom Boutwell, free agent quarterback from Southern Mississippi, was acquired by the Miami Dolphins. Boutwell, acquired by the Cleveland Browns in the 13th draft round, was put on waivers last week.

Their fingers crossed about the future this season of center Jack Rudnay, their No. 4 draft choice. Rudnay, who chipped three vertebrae in practice for the College All-Star game and didn't play, will undergo two days of physical tests at the Chiefs' training camp to determine if he can play.

Running back Tom Barrington of the New Orleans Saints, described by Coach Tom Fears as one of the "best fifth backs in pro football," has been shifted to the injured list. Barrington hurt his back last week.

Cleveland Coach Blanton Collier said defensive tackle Bill Sabatino, who walked out of training camp last Saturday, is coming back. Collier said the big tackle phoned him, and said he'd changed his mind about re-

Townes, Reeves Won't Be In Lineup For Cowboys

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' hospital corps contained an impressive roster today as the Cowboys prepare for their preseason exhibition opener Friday against the Los Angeles Rams.

Coach Tom Landry announced that veteran defensive end Willie Townes will be out for two weeks and running back Danny Reeves, trying to come back from a knee injury, won't see action until about late September.

Landry said Townes, who had calcium removed from his left thigh late last season, hasn't responded and indicated a rest might help.

Townes is expected to play Aug. 23 in Dallas when the Cowboys play the Green Bay Packers in the annual Salesmanship Game.

Reeves, who missed most of last season with a knee injury, hasn't been able to regain his previous form.

Landry announced Tuesday his starting lineup for the Los Angeles game. The Cowboy backfield will include Craig Morton at quarterback, Craig Baynham and Walt Garrison at running backs and Bob Hayes and Lance Rentzel as wide receivers.

In the line will be Pettis Norman at tight end, Tony Liscio and Ralph Neely at tackles, John Niland and John Wilbur at guards and Malcolm Walker at center.

Landry said third round draftee Halvor Hagen from Weber

State, a defensive end was the rookie most likely to see action. Rookie Richmond Flowers, of Tennessee is scheduled to return kickoffs and punts.

IT'S COMING ALONG — Leo Margolian, general manager of Texas International Speedway near Bryan, observes the progress being made on the concrete grandstands.

Two Big Races Are Scheduled

COLLEGE STATION — Leo Margolian, General Manager of Texas International Speedway, today announced that ticket reservations are being accepted for the Nov. 9 Can-Am and Dec. 7 NASCAR Grand National auto races. Ticket reservations may be made through the Speedway offices, College Station.

Margolian commented, "Texas International Speedway was most fortunate in being selected as the site for both NASCAR's and the SCCA's final Championship events of the 1969 racing season. In a span of less than four weeks, Texas racing fans will have the opportunity to enjoy a full season of racing. We are accepting reservations in response to an unprecedented advance demand."

Now under construction, the $5 million Texas International Speedway will include 26,000 contour grandstand seats with backrests which have been specially designed to give the spectator the finest viewing of any speedway in the world. One hundred per cent visibility of the two-mile super speedway and pit area, and $5 per cent

Whitson Is Named Aide At Cisco

CISCO — Lewis Whitson, head football coach at Denton High School the past four years, has been hired as a coaching aide at Cisco Junior College.

Eastland To Seek 6-8 Man School

Tom Eastland, Chamber of Commerce manager, will begin sending letters to coaches in the six-and-eight-man football class next week as the first step in trying to bring the 1970 Texas 6-8 Man Coaches Association Clinic to Big Spring.

The clinic, which annually attracts a registration of about 100 coaches, actually started in Big Spring immediately after World War II.

At that time, officials of the American Business Club conceived the idea for the clinic and sponsored it. Only six-man ball was played in the state at that time among the smaller schools.

The school has since been held in such cities as San Marcos, Abilene and Ranger.

A couple of years ago, the ABC club here offered to sponsor the clinic again but Levelland landed it. All-star six and eight-man football and basketball games are held in connection with the school.

Eastland said he had been assured use of facilities at Howard County Junior College, in event his bid for the school ball was played in the state at

Children Of The Poor Are For Once Winners

By The Associated Press

The "born losers" in Texas society—children of the poor—are for once winners today after the triumph of an amendment to the state constitution raising the welfare ceiling.

That was the assessment of Public Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney after the welfare amendment proved the biggest vote-getter in Tuesday's statewide voting on nine amendment proposals.

BETTER INFORMED

"I am very pleased," Hackney said, and expressed thanks for the support of churches, business and labor groups, and news media. "An awful lot of people became involved, and as a result the people of Texas are now better informed about our welfare problems."

The amendment was the only one of the nine at stake to draw more than 400,000 votes, winning by nearly two to one. Hackney had said its defeat would mean "the failure of the state welfare system in Texas."

Tuesday's balloting was the first break in a year of crisis for Hackney's department, starting with a U. S. Supreme Court ruling last year holding that income from the "substitute father" living with a dependent child's mother could not be included in determining a family's grant.

FAMILIES CUT OFF

This forced the state to spread the same money thinner, cutting the checks as the number of eligible families increased, and came on the heels of a November voter rejection of a constitutional amendment which would have increased the state welfare ceiling from $60 million to $75 million.

May 1, 2,600 families were cut off the children's program and grants were reduced to another 20,000 families. The $12 per child cuts touched off widespread developments in Texas' major cities.

—Shoving and pushing erupted during a demonstration at the welfare office in downtown

Houston where 140 children escorted by a dozen mothers protested changes in welfare payments.

—About 30 mothers and children, mostly Mexican-Americans, camped on the steps and lawn of the state welfare building in San Antonio, and on their third day there, officials refused to open the offices.

—Under the banner of "Black Mother Power," welfare mothers marched in Dallas, and one of them, Mrs. Ruth Jefferson, won a court victory nullifying the state aid to needy children payment program and tightening the squeeze on Hackney's department.

AID FOR NEEDY

Without a victory Tuesday, Hackney's office foresaw the necessity of legislative action to reduce aid to the elderly, the blind and the disabled so as to enrich the aid to dependent children program and hang on to the federal matching funds.

Today Hackney said he hopes to get the program for children back to the level before the cuts, or above that, reinstating those eliminated May 1.

"We are now paying 50 per cent of the budgetary needs of families in the children's program, and we expect now to increase that immediately to 75 per cent."

"It will take a few months' experience at the higher levels to know what we can predict for the future," Hackney said.

He said the ceiling on aid to the aged will go from $110 to $125 monthly and that for aid to the totally disabled from $84 to $100 a month.

Increasing aid to the blind from $96 to $110 a month maximum is under consideration, pending some legal interpretations on the new amendment, he said.

The amendment lifted the state welfare participation ceiling by $20 million to $80 million, but with matching federal funds, the actual improvement in welfare funding will reach about $60 million, Hackney said.

The second most important thing, he said, is delegation of authority. Individuals must be taught to make their own decisions, but within established guidelines, he noted.

Creativity is a normal human attribute and should be cultivated, he said. It can result from putting together two unconnected facts or ideas to form a new idea. A free-working atmosphere which avoids undue restraints of tradition and policy will encourage creativity, he said.

"People are the key to everyone's operation," he declared, "and your success is measured by your ability to get the most out of them."

Short Wins In Martin

STANTON (SC) — E. L. Short, the victor in the 73rd Legislative District race, carried Martin County by a wide margin in Tuesday's runoff balloting to fill the place of Randy Pendleton, resigned.

Short, a Tahoka farmer-businessman, polled 245 votes to 61 for Jim Clack, Andrews attorney.

In the constitutional amendment voting, held on the same day as the special election, Martin County results showed:

Deletion of superfluous sections of the state constitution, for 127, against 164.

Water bond plan, for 252, against 58.

Legislator pay hikes, for 65, against 223.

Water tax exemptions, for 131, against 160.

Welfare ceiling increase, for 160, against 140.

End state bond interest ceiling, for 70, against 211.

State employers' survivors aid, for 149, against 142.

Expanded student loan plan, for 141, against 151.

Annual legislative sessions, for 65, against 220.

Silence gave consent Tuesday as the proposed budget for Howard County Junior College won prompt approval at what was to have been a public hearing. No public appeared.

Trustees formally adopted the document which calls for total expenditures of $1,424,075, up $66,983 from the current revised budget, 4.94 per cent. Of this $1,215,925 is in the regular budget (supported by local, state and federal funds) and $208,150 is in the student housing fund (supported wholly by revenues it generates).

Increased pay accounted for the increases. The budget was predicated on a $350 per capita state support, which was approved by the legislature in its first session. However, Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president noted, the governor has proposed $510 to the special session, and this could put the college in a tight fiscal situation which might be managed in view of projected increase in county values.

The board adopted a 60-cent tax rate, the limit allowed it and which has been assessed for years. This is divided 11 cents for debt service and 49 cents for operations. No discount will be allowed for early payment of 1969 taxes, a continuation of a policy set up last year. The projected tax roll is pegged at $80,000.

Several purchases were approved, including a hydra-spray paint machine from Sherwin-Williams; concert piano for music department instruction.

Man Held For Skipping Bill

A Dallas man wanted by sheriff's officers here for defrauding an innkeeper has been arrested in Wichita Falls. Sheriff A. N. Standard identified the man as John W. Pickett, Dallas, and said he is charged in Wichita Falls with writing worthless checks.

Standard said his department has placed a detainer on the man, but several other departments in the state also have warrants for Pickett, consequently, the sheriff was not sure when he will face charges in Howard County.

Base To Care For Computer

Maintenance responsibilities for the base level supply computer at Webb were converted from commercial contract to a military operation Friday.

Lt. Col. Robert Gagnon, 2050th Communications Squadron commander, said Webb is one of 24 Air Force bases involved in the conversion program. All of the conversions will be carried out by the 2050th's parent command, the Air Force Communications Service (AFCS).

Maintenance of the UNIVAC 1050-II base level supply computers has in the past been handled on a commercial contract basis. The change in maintenance responsibility was prompted by the success of the AFCS maintenance program at 16 bases in Southeast Asia.

The computers are used in the base supply depots to maintain accurate and current inventories, to program the reordering of supplies and to provide immediate information on Air Force supply contracts and supply data. The computers have increased in efficiency and reduced the time losses in the depot operation.

Rotarians To Host New Pilot Class

Members of Webb AFB pilot training class 70-01 and their wives and dates will be entertained at a barbecue hosted by the Rotary Club Friday.

The event will be on Scenic Mountain starting at 8 p.m. Square dancers from Stanton will provide the program following a barbecue meal.

At the regular Tuesday meeting, Adrian Randall gave a demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and basic first aid measures. He was introduced by Don Womack.

Mike Guffey submitted his resignation from the club due to moving from the city.

Baby Boom

LONDON (AP) — The population of the United Kingdom will be 68,190,000 by a year 2000, according to a government report. This would be a rise of 23 per cent in 32 years.

The U. S. Command gave virtually no information about the case against Col. Robert B. Rheault, a 43-year-old West Pointer from Vineyard Haven, Mass., two majors, three captains, a chief warrant officer and a sergeant first class.

The 5th Special Forces Group command, which Rheault headed until he was relieved last month, also clammed up.

The Army announcement said the killing occurred June 20 near Nha Trang, the headquarters of the 5th Special Forces 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

Those charged with Rheault are David E. Crew, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., Jefferson, S.C.; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Robert F. Marasco, Bloomfield, N.J.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, Athens, Ga.; CW2 Edward M. Boyle, New York City, and Sgt. L.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., Naples, Fla.

They are being held at Long Binh, the Army headquarters 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

U. S. military officials would not disclose the identity of the dead man or any other details of the case. They claimed such a disclosure would prejudice the case.

Spots On Your Lawn? May Be Bermuda Grass Mites

Bermuda grass mites, though not exactly comparable to the monster that ate Cleveland, can do considerable damage to lawns. Some of these pesky microscopic insects have been detected in Howard County, according to Paul Gross, county agent.

"Characteristic symptoms of the mites at work are stunted internodes and large brownish patches of grass," Gross said. "The mites migrate into the yard, fasten themselves to the grass stems and suck the plant juice from the grass."

The complete life cycle of the Bermuda grass mite is only one week long, but the pests multiply rapidly. They are normally first seen in July or August, but can attack anytime the grass is green, Gross said.

"The patches of brownish, wiry grass start at the side of the yard and move across the grass," Gross said. "The mites can destroy the entire yard."

Unlike worm damage which shears grass at the roots, a few green tufts of grass may show in the midst of the brown spots hit by the mites.

The two types of treatment prescribed are powder and spray. "Spread powdered sulphur, about 10 pounds for every 1,000 square feet, across the grass and wet it down," Gross said.

"Three types of spray on the market are Carbophenothion (Trithion), Diazinon and Ethion," Gross said. Two applications, 10 to 14 days apart, should be sufficient he said, with five gallons of spray mixture per 1,000 square feet.

"Anything that will kill an insect might kill a person," Gross said, and warned parents to keep the sprays out of the reach of children and animals. "It is a good idea to keep children and animals off the lawn for a couple of days after spraying."

Ex-Green Beret Leader Charged With Murder

SAIGON (AP) — The former commander of Green Beret forces in Vietnam and seven of his staff have been charged with premeditated murder in the shooting of a Vietnamese man, the U. S. Army disclosed today.

The eight men are under arrest and also charged with conspiracy to commit murder, the U. S. Command said. The charges are being investigated to determine if they will be brought to trial before an Army court-martial.

GRAND JURY

Military attorneys said the charges against the eight men are now in the hands of an investigating officer. He acts as the equivalent of a grand jury in civilian life, deciding whether the men should be freed or whether they should stand trial.

"This officer must hold a formal pre-trial investigation... a formal hearing," one legal officer said. "The accused are entitled to be represented by counsel. It is roughly the equivalent of a grand jury proceeding."

The military lawyer said any one subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice may prefer charges. The Army refused to say who brought the charges.

Investigation was ordered by Maj. Gen. G. L. Mabry, commanding general of Army support troops in Vietnam, "following charges of premeditated murder and conspiracy to commit murder of a Vietnamese man, national near Nha Trang last June 20."

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 70 enemy troops in scattered fights Tuesday. U. S. losses were one killed and five wounded. South Vietnamese losses were reported as light.

U. S. headquarters announced that an Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down half of a 230-foot bridge in the Mekong Delta 48 miles south-northwest of Saigon. One South Vietnamese militiaman was wounded.

South Vietnamese spokesmen reported that Viet Cong terrorists fired two grenades into a village meeting house 15 miles south of Da Nang, killing four civilians and wounding 20. Two suspects were arrested.

South Vietnamese Defense Minister Nguyen Van Vy told newsmen in Saigon no decision has been made on withdrawal of more American troops beyond the 25,000 President Nixon has ordered out by the end of August.

"The question is being studied," he said, "but it is too soon to say when further Americans will be replaced by South Vietnamese forces."

Special Forces troops were sent to Vietnam in the early 1960s in an attempt to counter the Viet Cong guerrilla warfare prior to the big buildup of American infantry forces. The rugged, highly trained Green Berets often operate clandestinely. Broken up into 12-man teams, they maintain camps along the Cambodian and Laotian borders in which they train mountain tribesmen and South Vietnamese hired as mercenary soldiers by the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency.

In the war, meanwhile, the battlefield lull entered its eighth week.

U. S. headquarters said there were 15 rocket and mortar attacks from 8 a.m. Tuesday to 8 a.m. today and 21 Americans wounded. Two of the rocket atacks came from inside the Demilitarized Zone, the American command said.

The Americans retaliated with artillery fire, silencing at least two of the rocket sites and touching off three secondary explosions, and four secondary fires, indicating direct hits on other ammunition stores.

Finishes Study At Science Institute

MURRAY, Ky. — Mrs. Gwen-dolyn Oakes, Coahoma, is one of 100 junior and senior high school teachers attending two summer science institutes at Murray State University.

Oakes is an instructor at Coahoma Junior High School. The two institutes, which began June 16 and will end Friday, are supported by two National Science Foundation grants and designed to increase the basic scientific knowledge of junior high and senior high school general science teachers.

TITLE EVIDENCE IN SALES OF SECURITIES-OWNED HOME PROPERTIES AND MORTGAGES

On and after August 1, 1969, and until FHA Form 284, Standard Retail Sales Contract is revised to reflect such change, such form will be amended prior to execution by FHA by inserting the following language in item H:

If the mortgage is to be FHA-insured, FHA will not pay for any title evidence as part of closing costs mentioned in item "g" on the reverse hereof, except in the event of a governmental agency which requires title evidence insuring a good title policy. If other than FHA-insured mortgage financing is involved, FHA will allow reasonable costs for such title evidence by a credit to the purchaser in the closing accounting. Obtaining the purchaser's signature on the instrument on or after August 1, 1969, the inserted language shall be initiated by the purchaser.

The closer you get the better she looks.

You have to get to know a VW to love it.

Look closely at how it's built.

The fit of the lining in the roof, the finish in a door jamb.

And our engine. Our shape may not be beautiful, but that engine gets about 27 miles to the gallon. (That's beautiful.)

The Volkswagen sedan. It's better than it looks.

Consider this.

How would you like it the other way around?

DON'T CHANGE LIGHT BULBS

In the "Hints From Heloise" column appearing in the July 28 issue of The Herald, a letter was printed which suggested that high-intensity light bulbs could be put in sewing machines. Local sewing machine dealers have advised The Herald that this practice should not be followed because the high intensity of the bulb will burn out the wiring in the machine.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

There's a lot of family reunions going on during the summer months, but the kind of reunion the RAY EBLINGS are planning to attend, beginning Saturday, is a really sort of special reunion. They left Tuesday morning for a leisurely drive to El Paso then through New Mexico and on to Denver. In Denver, they will start to gather with 11 other couples whom they have known for a number of years. The men were members of the old Phillips Oilers pro basketball team and they played together in 1936-37-38.

Unusual about the gathering is that 11 out of the 14 will be present with their wives, who formed a sort of team of their own as they followed their player-husbands on the game tours. Four of the men, Bud Browning of OU, Ebling of Kansas U., Joe Fortenberry, West Texas State, and Tom Pickell of U. of Ark., were all-Americans from their schools.

When the group has gathered they will go to Rabbit Ear Lodge which is about 100 miles west of Denver for a week. The get-together was planned and arranged by their coach, Harold Schmidt (Coachie) who is now retired and lives in Bartlesville, Okla.

DR. and MRS. ROBERT COFFEY and their children are visiting his father, J. A. COFFEY, and Mrs. Coffey. The family lives in Fort Worth.

MR. and MRS. BILL DEARING, 505 Scott, have as their guests, his sister and her family, MR. and MRS. FLOYD EUDY and Mary Ellen, all of Fort Worth. The Eudys plan to continue their trip to Carlsbad Caverns and Albuquerque, N.M., where they will visit another of Mrs. Eudy's brothers, JACK DEARING, and his wife, who are former Big Spring residents.

MR. and MRS. BROWN ROGERS have recently returned from a visit with CAPT. and MRS. BROWN ROGERS who are stationed at Kirtland AFB near Albuquerque. While they were in the vicinity of Carlsbad Caverns, they took another trip through and also went to the old missions and ruins in the Mountainair area they spent some time at the Abo monument and the Gran Quivira.

Weekend guests in their home have been MR. and MRS. A. J. PIERSON and their houseguest, MISS LILLIAN PIERSON, a cousin who is making her first visit to the United States from her home in Brussels, Belgium. The Piersons had visited in the home of her parents in 1966. They are taking her on a sightseeing trip of the western states and will go as far as California.

MRS. HUGH MCLENDON and her son, Jay, have returned to their home in Sulphur Springs after spending last week with her twin sister, MRS. ERNIE BOYD, and her family. The Boyds have recently returned from a 17-day automobile trip through southern states and up to as far as Washington, D.C. They pulled a trailer and stayed in a number of national parks. They toured The Hermitage in Nashville, Tenn., saw VMI, Washington and Lee University and Stonewall Jackson's home in Lexington, Va. The most unusual sight to these touring Texans was almost constant rain during their stay in the national capital. It rained practically all the time they were there. An interesting show in Atlanta, Ga., was the Cyclorama, an authentic explanation of the Battle of Atlanta which is depicted by paintings for the background and a realistic foreground arrangements. The history-minded family was so enthralled with the touching narration that accompanied the showing that, according to Mrs. Boyd, it brought tears to her eyes.

As a compliment to JAMES BECKHAM, son of MR. and MRS. FRED BECKHAM, his cousins, the REV. and MRS. ANDREW JUMPER, entertained Friday evening in Lubbock with a dinner party in their home. James is to graduate from Texas Technological University this month where he has been a music major. MISS PAMELA ENGLISH of Claude was a special guest along with James' parents and eight others.

A newsy little note and pretty card from the G. G. MOREHEADS who had just taken in Versailles and were looking forward to seeing Paris. Thema probably missed her only chance to see a 4 a.m. sunrise... she was too sleepy to look on their way over.

MRS. J. P. DODGE will have as her guests this weekend her daughter, MRS. AUSTIN BURCH, and her children of Albuquerque, N.M.

Vacations Continue

WESTBROOK (SC) — Glenn Gainey of Monahans is visiting his grandparents, the D. J. Barbers.

The Hoyt Robertses have returned from a visit with the Dick Kennedys in Odessa.

Dale Byrd is attending a coaching school in Dallas.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters Plan August Rush Meeting

Mrs. Mickey Flahive, an executive of Beta Sigma Phi International, is visiting local members and assisting them with plans for the rush meeting and reception slated at 8 p.m., Aug. 11, in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Mrs. Flahive will preside at the affair and will be introduced by Mrs. Gerald Wooten, president of the local BSP City Council. Others to be introduced are Mrs. Owen Wormser, Mrs. Bobby Hughes, Mrs. Joe Smith and Mrs. Les Caperton. Other Beta Sigma Phi's will be present to greet the invited guests.

Beta Sigma Phi, now in its 38th year, has a membership of over 200,000 in 50 states and 14 foreign countries. It is a non-academic, non-secret and non-sectarian sorority which offers planned cultural programs, socials, service projects and the opportunity for forming friendships. Its membership includes both single and married women, students, homemakers and professional women, and members have the privilege of transferring their membership when moving to other communities or countries.

The first Big Spring chapter was chartered in 1938, and now there are four chapters in the Big Spring Council. They are White Face, which is modeled after Boystown.

Big Spring Beta Sigma Phi's participate in civic activities such as giving parties at the Special Education School and the Veterans Administration Hospital, assisting with a grooming class at Big Spring State Hospital, presenting scholarships, working with Head Start, sponsoring a Brownie troop, aiding needy families, being volunteers at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and collecting for the March of Dimes and Cancer Drive.

Membership in BSP is by invitation after a personal interview. Mrs. Flahive is staying at the Ponderosa Motor Inn where she will conduct such interviews after the rush meeting. The telephone number is 263-1209.
