(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, March 31.—John A. Kendall, 65, Oklahoma City, was arrested here today on an Oklahoma warrant charging connection with a conspiracy to poison his estranged wife and her husband at Ardmore.

Stoutly denying any knowledge of the alleged plot, he was taken by officers to Oklahoma City tonight.

Kendall was arrested at a railroad station where, it is alleged, a youth came to receive remuneration for the "killing" of the man and woman, neither of whom died. The youth is held here.

Kendall's arrest was effected, according to J. K. Wright, county attorney of Oklahoma county, through publication in newspapers of an account of the death of the husband.

Armed with the newspapers, officers said, the youth came to Fort Worth to collect $1,000 offered for the murder, and revealed the plot to investigators.

Annual Music Festival Closes Here With Spur To Entertain In November

As the last note of a contest winners' program closed the fifth annual Music Festival here last evening, members of the South Plains Music Teachers association, which sponsors this yearly fete, were looking forward to the next semi-annual meeting which will be in Spur in November.

For three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, music pupils with their friends and parents, trekked to the Lubbock high school auditorium to appear in musical examinations, contesting with entrants from 20 counties on the Plains of Texas.

A total of more than five hundred boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 19 years, marched across the stage and performed.

Van Katwijk Recitals

Paul and Viola Beck Van Katwijk of Dallas, gave two musical recitals on Thursday evening, these being outstanding attractions of the three-day fete. On Friday and Saturday evenings, contest winners played and sang.

Contests proper closed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Post and Spur orchestras played following violin exhibitions and cross word puzzle contests during the early afternoon. After decisions had been announced the group dispersed to gather again for the evening program.

A closing event was the awarding of a violin scholarship in Canyon Teachers college to Miss Elizabeth Pickett, high school senior in Post, and winner in an event of yesterday. The college first offered the scholarship this year to some voice, violin or piano student within the limits of the South Plains Music Teachers association.

Affiliate With State

During a short session, music teachers decided that the South Plains society shall become affiliated with the State Federation of Music clubs and that some woman shall be chosen in each town within the 20 counties to act in the capacity of a sponsor for the South Plains Music Teachers association annually.

No particular method has been designated for choosing this sponsor whose particular duty will be maintaining interest in the Spring Festival and other musical activities on the South Plains.

Miss Lena Bell Scudder will be hostess to the association at the November meeting when officers will be elected. Miss Jeanette Ramsey, of Slaton, is no president of the association.

Word Puzzle Contests

North Texas Day.

Thursday was designated as North Texas Day, and Amarillo will head a delegation from that region. An attempt will be made to have the Lubbock delegation make a bigger impression than the North Texas group.

The new premiums will be divided into three prizes for each of the Holstein and Guernsey divisions. Fifty dollars will be offered in each division. Ten teams have been entered in competition.

A survey made yesterday showed that 125 head of cattle have arrived, and it is expected that this number will be doubled by the opening day, making the show an outstanding one.

A modern hotel, probably five stories in height and containing about 110 guest rooms, will soon be placed under construction on the northeast corner of Main street and Avenue G if present plans are carried through to completion.

Stock in the venturp is being subscribed to and the hotel will be run as a private corporation, with the profits placed into stock dividends, the Avalanche-Journal was informed. The total cost of the building, furnished will be in the neighborhood of $250,000.

The lots upon which the hotel will be placed are owned by J. J. Chauncey and John Gelin, records show, and information coming to the Avalanche-Journal last night was to the effect that plans and specifications for the building are now being prepared.

More Hotel Space Needed.

No denial can be made that need of additional first class hotel facilities is prevalent here and has been felt even with the placing of the six-story Hotel Lubbock into operation about 18 months ago. And, although stockholders of Hotel Lubbock are at the present time discussing the addition of four more stories to their building, the erection of the proposed hotel will not give the city any more hotel facilities than it really needs, it is believed.

C. E. Maedgen, president of the Lubbock National bank, is heading the group which backs the new project but he is in Washington, with

(By Associated Press)

SHERMAN, March 31.—Cone Johnson, leader of the dry constutional Democrats, opened a campaign here today for a delegation to the National Democratic Convention instructed to vote as a unit for some candidate acceptable to the prohibitionists.

Johnson spoke in the 59th district court room, which was filled.

Says Nation Is Dry.

He declared that the nation "is dry not only because of the constitution and the laws, but because of the moral conviction of the American people and Texas is doubly dry since prohibition is written into its constitution and is crystalized in the political and moral convictions of its people."

He made a strong plea for adoption by county and precinct conventions of the resolutions adopted at a gathering of the constitutional Democrats in Dallas March 15, and for repudiation of the pledge requiring all participants in these conventions to support the nominee.

Score Of Hubber Rookies To Open Training Here Monday Under Brown

15 Already Signed And Other Likely Material Coming

Several Towns Seek Sixth League Franchise With Leaders To Meet Today For Final Details.

Monday the Hubbers will begin spring training with a score of rookie hurlers and catchers to be on hand for the first report to Bennie Brownlow, local manager. The recruits will take to the Merrill Park where they will go into preliminary work.

Some fifteen rookies and veterans have already signed with the Hubbers for the spring tryouts with the local club and even more are expected to gather to the training quarters throughout the week. Quarters for the Hubber candidates have been secured and willlbe maintained up until the opening game of the season.

Several Want Franchise

With several West Texas cities including Hamlin, Ballenger, Big Sprnig, and Odessa making bids for entrance into the West Texas loop, the sixth member to join San Angelo, Abilene, Coleman, Midland and Lubbock, will likely be determined today in the final organization session that will be held at Midland. The managers and officials of the five assured franchises will be present at the conference. Lubbock's representatives will be S. D. Hunter, president, and Bennie Brownlow, manager of the Lubbock club.

The directors of the local franchise have everything lined up in first class condition. The committees working on the park project will likely have definite announcement to make this week; by-laws and constitutions of the local franchise are being cared for; and in general the local situation is rapidly forming into strictly a business concern.

Club Here In Good Shape

Lubbock is practically the only member of the entire organization that is relying strictly on its home resources for the maintenance of the club, however, the condition of the local franchise is in better shape than the other clubs of the league with possibly the exception of San Angelo. Abilene is a farm club for the Wichita Falls Spudders; San Angelo is working in connection with the Panthers of Fort Worth; Coleman is lined up with the San Antonio Bears; and Midland, like Lubbock, is working for their own interests.

The visitors rest to Hokey Garcia for his hits and four runs in the five innings he worked but Tissing followed him and held the score well in check except for a homer by Niezek inside the park with none on. Tissing fanned eight in four innings.

SAN ANTONIO, March 31 (AP)—After holding the San Antonio Bears in the hollow of his hand for eight innings while the Strauss-Frank Maullers, a local semi-pro team made merry at the expense of two rookie pitchers and led the score 6 to 1, Denver Wood lost his own game when he filled the bases on walks in the ninth to start the Bears on a rampage to put six runs across the plate and win the game 7 to 6 with two hands out Saturday.

AMARILLO, March 31 (AP)—A split squad from the Wichita Falls Spudders took the opener of a two game series from the Amarillo Broncs here today 13 to 2. The Texas league champs got to the delivery of Hunter for seven runs in the first two innings. The same teams play here tomorrow.

Fort Wayne Bowlers Record New Victory Mark In Play

KANSAS CITY, March 31 (AP)—The highest three game total rolled in the American Bowling Congress tournament here was made by Morris Axt of Fort Wayne, Ind., today, in the doubles with Harry King. Axt scored 258, 212, 257 for 727, displacing Wall of Cleveland, O., who had 722.

Only a weak series by King prevented the Fort Wayne pair from going over 1,300. King corded only 553, the team rolling 1,280 and tied sixth place.

Boxing Card, Offering Welters In The Main Event, To Be Tuesday Feature

Jack Denton, Tahoka, Will Meet Kid Mitchell Over Ten Round Route With Harry Meyers Rendering Decision; Curtain Raiser, Semi-Windup Make 10

Boxing is coming back to Lubbock. At least one card has been arranged and if there is enough patronage to warrant it, others will follow.

That was the announcement made here last night by the Lindsey Theatre Enterprises in conjunction with the statement that 20 rounds of fast and furious milling will be offered at the Lindsey Theatre Tuesday night, April 3.

Denton Well Liked

Jack Denton of Tahoka, a boxing favorite in Plainview and Amarillo and who boasts the title of welterweight champion of the Texas Panhandle, and Kid Mitchell, The Douglas Flash, will clash in the main event. Both men scale 140 pounds, and will go over the 10 round route to a decision to be returned by Harry Meyers, veteran West Texas fight and wrestling official and a member of the National Association of Fight Referees.

Eddie Cole, 150 pounder from Tahoka, and Harry Wills, Jr., 150 pounds, of Slaton, will mix in a six-round semi-windup while two 8 year old kids will be the principals in a four round curtain raiser.

Press reports, lugged along by Mitchell, describe him as a fast and willing mixer of more than ordinary ability. Denton's fighting in this country has established him as a popular favorite.

Huge Crowd Sees Meet At Lamesa

More Than Three Thousand On Hand Yesterday While Events Are Being Staged By School Children.

(Special to Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, March 31—The unusually large crowd was in attendance over the County Interscholastic league here yesterday and today. More than 2,000 boys and girls, men and women attended Friday while more than 3,000 were in attendance today. The Interscholastic league has a 100 per cent membership of Dawson county schools and all are represented in the various contests.

Literally hundreds of ambitious boys and girls contested for the rewards and prizes offered by the local chamber of commerce in the various events. In the rural contest alone, 136 school children competed. The usual debates, declamation extemporaneous speaking, spelling, writing exhibit, other literary and all athletic contests were entered heavily.

According to judges unusual thoroughness and competition was evident with fair biddings for first places in district meet. Weather conditions were ideal for splendid records. G. M. Roberts, principal of Lamesa grammar school, was director general and Joe M. Peterson of the Key school was athletic director.

City League Will Not Form Schedule For Awhile

Several Lubbock city leaguers are bringing up the question of the leagues actions for 1928 but a session for the organization of the league will not be completed until a schedule of the West Texas league is adopted so that the city loop may be able to make its schedule accordingly. With the interest manifested by the local fans for baseball in the recent drive for pro baseball it is quite likely that the city loop will have its biggest year for Lubbock wants baseball.

The last season champions Wholesalers are ready to go and Judge Raley's Bankers, too, will possibly be on the firing line and offer again strong competition in the loop.

Youthful New Yorker Plays Bang Up Game; Armour Is Second, Farrell Third In North-South Open.

(By Associated Press)

PINEHURST, N. C., March 31.—Starting the final round with a seven-stroke lead, Billy Burke, young professional of New York, who first began tournament golf two years ago, became the United North and South Open Golf champion, with a 73-69-74-75—291 for the 72 holes of medal play.

Although his wide margin looked none too safe for a time during the final round, the former caddy-master, finding his putts a little hesitant in flickering into the cup, pulled himself together and finished the final nine with a steadiness that made pars look easy.

Never In Serious Trouble

He was never in serious trouble during the tournament, his long drives carrying him well past bunkers and his approaches dropping consistently either on or near the greens. His card:

Out	554	444	363	—38
In	444	443	545	—37—75

Nearest to him at the finish was Tommy Armour of Washington, National Open champion, who had a 73-233—296. Johnny Farrel, winner of the recent $15,000 Miami Beach open, was next at 73-224—297 and Tommy Harmon of New York, fourth, with 76-223—299.

Bobby Cruickshank of New York, who lost his North and South title after holding it two straight years, was fifth with 76-225—301.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, with a card of 77-226—303, finished in a tie for sixth place, with Henry Ciuci of New York, and Bridgeport, Conn., who had 74-229—303.

Most of the participants leave here at once for the Richmond open which starts Tuesday.

The original six clubs of the loop included: San Angelo, Lubbock, Midland, Abilene, Coleman, and Brownwood, but the Brownwood project fell through after the organization meeting held in Brownwood early in the month.

J. McAlister Stevenson of Abilene, who is president of the league, will preside over the meeting at Midland and matters pertaining to schedule, umpires, adoption of uniforms, transportation, and other business transactions for the league will be disposed of in the Midland session.

Matadors Ready For Road Jaunt

Higginbotham Has Improved Nine To Take To St. Eds, Baylor and Southwestern This Week.

Grady Higginbotham's Matador diamond performers will leave mid-week for the scene of the initial collegiate baseball competition, which is scheduled with Morley Jenning's Baylor University Bears on Friday and Saturday, April 6 and 7. On the road tour the Matadors will meet the St. Edwards University Catholics in Austin and the Southwestern University Pirates, at Georgetown in addition to the Baylor games.

A marked improvement was shown in the Tech machine Friday evening as they drubbed Barnie Blackmon's Shallowater semi-pros by a score of 13 to 2. In every department of the game Higginbotham's recruits were improved. The pitching, hitting, and fielding departments of the Matador machine are better.

It is likely that the following Tech lads will take the down state tour: Burnett and Nichlaus, catchers; Moore, Howell, Eddleman, and Gray, pitchers; Hill, Rigney, Lassiter, Peterson, and Bayhurst, infielders; Marshall, Brothers, and DeWitt, outfielders. The road roster, however, has not been officially announced by Coach Higginbotham.

Hooks and Slides

Honesty of Boxing

While it proved of no value in bringing out a suitable opponent for Gene Tunney, the recent heavyweight elimination tournament conducted by Tex Rickard might be taken as evidence that boxing at least has its honest moments.

Rickard made no secret among his friends of the fact that he would prefer to have Jack Sharkey in thering for one of the summer bouts that Tunney has demanded and that he would rather have any other challenger than Tom Heeney or Johnny Risko, but they turned out to be the winners if there were any winners.

Those who think that all of Rickard's big championship shows are the result of shrewd pre-arrangement believe that this is a power who can do any business he wants with fighters. But if he ever did have any influence it didn't work for him this winter.

He figured after the Chicago fight last summer that the heavyweight championship battle this year would be worth about $3,000,000,000 at the gate. But he hasn't a challenger now who would be sure to furnish a million dollar show.

Influence Didn't Work

In connection with the failure of Sharkey to come through for Rickard against Heeney or Johnny Risko, there is another angle that lends an honest look to the game. That angle involves Jimmy Johnston, who was announced before the Heeney fight as a purchaser of a 10 per cent interest in Sharkey.

Johnston is supposed to have a tremendous influence with the New York Boxing Commission and with other unofficial powers of the sport. When he was admitted to a membership in the Sharkey firm the wise boys said—Ho, Ho! They're lining up the works for Sharkey.

But the influence of Johnston, if there is a Johnston influence, didn't work for Sharkey. The same Johnston influence hasn't been working for other fighters in his control during the past year. He has been behind a parade of losers including Mike McTigue, Johnny Dundee, Phil Scott and Sharkey (twice).

After watching Johnston in action for a number of years, it was easy to become convinced that he got all the breaks possible for his fighters. He was on the job every morning when some of the other managers were just waking up, and he thought those times to their once.

Rickard Will Profit

Rickard may deserve some sympathy over the failure of his heavyweight tournament. On the other hand, his accounts may show a better profit than in 1927, even if he doesn't have more than a million-dollar heavyweight attraction or no heavyweight show at all.

It will be recalled that the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago did draw almost $3,000,000, but that the net profit to Rickard's corporation was only some comparatively few hundred thousands. Directors of the corporation yelled all over the place.

There was serious talk, in fact, that Rickard had been threatened with removal from the general management if he did not cut down the guarantees to fighters, or consult the board before he made big matches.

Without a heavyweight show this year, Rickard and his firm are bound to show a nice profit from matches for the light heavyweight, lightweight, welterweight and the featherweight championships. Rickard has them all lined up and one or two of them, at least, are certain to run up to a half-million each in receipts.

GRIDMEN ARE BUSY

Spring Training At Horned Frog Camp Is Strenuous

FORT WORTH, March 31—Their first game last week ending in a scoreless tie, the "Whites" and "Purples", opposing elevens on the T. C. U. spring football training squad, are all set for their next affray Tuesday afternoon.

The first game of the spring grid season was played under a broiling sun that removed many surplus pounds from the sweating candidates for the 1928 varsity. The boys are hoping for rain or snow for their other games.

Frnka Gridsters Hustling to Get In Playing Form

Canyon Eagles Will Arrive April 6 For First Game Of Spring Season; Angelo Game Is Secured.

Work and plenty of it!

That is the slogan being carried out by the eighty high school Westerner gridiron recruits in their spring training, which has been going on for the past few weeks under the direction of Coach Henry Frnka and J. O. "Del" Morgan. With three scheduled games facing in the spring work, the Canyon high school Eagles on April 6 at Lubbock; Canyon again on April 13 at Canyon, and San Angelo high school on the following day, April 14, at Lubbock, the high school mentors feel that with a few more days of work after the spring exhibition contests their candidates will be more finished to go into the fall session and to battle with the other Class A schools of the Panhandle-South Plains conference.

Scrimmage is Held

Friday afternoon the Westerners took to the Texas Tech athletic field and went through some three hours hard scrimmage. Right now the high school lads are in great condition and after brushing up the plays again in the fall training the Westerner machine will unquestionably be able to function with more agressiveness and fight than under fall training sessions alone.

Added equipment has been purchased for next fall and when the lads go out into action for the initial fall game the fans of Lubbock are bound to show added interest in the welfare of the lads.

A wonderful spirit has been shown by the recruits in spring training. Only recently Coach Frnka placed a bulletin on the board of the training quarters in which he stated that if any of the lads were ready to turn in their uniforms they could do so; but instead not a one of the large group even as much hinted their desire to do so.

Gun Club Plans To Shoot Today

Increased Membership Aids In Boosting Interest In Organization; Prizes Are Added Attraction.

With an increased membership in the Lubbock Gun club additional interest in the organization is being shown and the third week-end shooting tournament for members and visitors of the club will be held this afternoon on the club range. Very attractive prizes are posted for the winners in this afternoon's shoot. They are: 1. Remington .22 automatic rifle; 2. $5.00 gold piece; 3. $2.50 gold piece; 4. $2.50 gold piece; and 5. A Sure-fit cap.

Throughout the week the members of the local club have been practicing on the range and today's shooting will reveal some close competition among the members. George Goodin of the club marksmen scored a 24 out of a possible 25 Friday afternoon which came near being the first perfect score in the club.

Texas ranked fourth in union in production of natural gas in 1926.

Coating of Grease As A Bathing Suit Betrays Mrs. Schoemmel In Swim

Coating Is Melted In Warm Florida Waters And Woolen Garment Substituted Without Stop As Woman Seeks To Beat 32 Hour Swimming Record

(By Associated Press)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 31.—The coating of grease that had served Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel in lieu of a bathing suit for more than one long distance swim betrayed her here today and melted under the temperature of Florida water a few hours after she had set out to break the world's endurance record.

When about half the ten pounds of lubricant had disappeared, leaving a greasy trail on the surface of the Deauville Casino salt water pool where the attempt for a new mark is being made, friends procured for her a more conventional woolen garment which she donned as she swam.

Mrs. Schoemmel began at 9:23 a. m. in her effort to better by one hour the present 48 year-old record of 31 hours set by Miss Edith Johnson, in Blackpool, England, in May, 1889. She hoped to continue swimming for 32 hours, or until 5:23 p. m. tomorrow.

Rickard Matches Gene And Heeney For July Title M...

Speed Of Texas Aggies Paves Way For Win Over University Track Team

London May Be Selected As Battle Ground, Promoter Says; Tunney Is Pleased With Selection Of Heeney

Australian Champ Logical Contender, Says Eugene; British Promoters Talk Over Plans.

(By Associated Press)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 31.—With a characteristic suddenness Tex Rickard today lifted the lid off the heavyweight boxing championship situation by declaring that Gene Tunney will meet Tom Heeney Australian champion, for the title some time in July, with the possibility that the bout will be staged in London.

Rickard's action climaxed a chapter of rumors and uncertainties since Jack Dempsey first wavered and then walked completely out of the picture. It cleared the way for the British empire to get its first chance at the world title in more than twenty years. Whether the Britishers will see the match depends on London promoters with whom he is negotiating, said Rickard.

Situation Clarified

By choosing Heeney, the New York promoter also clarified the situation in New York state, where the boxing commission threatened to rule Tunney ineligible unless before next Tuesday he accepted a challenge from Heeney, Johnny Risko, or Jack Sharkey.

While the probability was that the bout would be held in New York if London promoter failed to come to terms, Rickard did not mention New York in his statement, merely asserting that the match would be staged "in the United States," if not in England. No date in July was mentioned.

Tunney expressed his satisfaction with Rickard's selection of the Brawny New Zealander, declaring that in his opinion Heeney was "the outstanding contender."

Sports Critics Are Doubtful About London

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP).—Just how Tex Rickard plans to stage a heavyweight title match between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney in London and still save from British taxation enough of the proceeds to satisfy the fighters and stockholders in the Madison Square Garden corporation, puzzled the local experts today. The same skeptics expect either the Yonkee stadium or Polo Grounds to be selected finally as the scene of the next big fight.

Announcing the match in Miami today, the promoter declared that the fight would be staged either in England or the United States some time in July. At the moment Rickard is negotiating with British promoters and if the terms are adequate, he said, the bout would be staged abroad.

Rickard Wants New Field.

While the match is accepted with general approval by New York observers, including a forecast of Sanction for holding it here by Chairman James A. Farley of the State Athletic commission, Rickard is known to have his mind set on finding bigger and better fields to conquer in his chosen racket.

The promoter often has asserted "You can drain any locality just once with a big fight spectacle. When you go back again, according to this Rickard philosophy," the fans won't pay the financial top seat prices that have ranged as high as $50, for some of his heavyweight title fights.

England, the promoter said, as far back as last fall, is virgin territory and should thrill and pay as Philadelphia and Chicago did before to see a championship battle.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

The candidates to the heavyweight title have fallen woefully short. America the land of the $10 seats and the several-million-dollar prizefights, stands to go without a million-dollar fight this year. Hasn't Jack Dempsey any patriotism at all?

It looks as though Tunney would have to fight as many as three men to make a million this year a nauseating prospect.

Mr. Tunney leans toward Honest Tom Heeney as a possibility. Heeney, however, comes from New Zealand, and therefore is kin to the British family of heavyweights, a very flat species.

Tom can take it, of course. But then he has to.

They're trying to get Sunday baseball in Philadelphia. Why not go after the week-day variety first?

Referee McPartland of the Risko-Sharkey fight gave Risko nine rounds, Sharkey four and called two even; one judge gave Risko six, Shafkey four and called five even; the other judge gave Sharkey eight rounds and Risko seven. It seems that it isn't only a horse race that opinions make.

COLLEGE STATION, March 31.—The Texas Aggies defeated the University of Texas here today in a dual track meet 68 1-2 to 48 1-2.

The Aggies made a clean sweep of all the running events except two and won first place in one of these two. Today's victory was the first for the Aggies over the Longhorns since 1922.

Kennedy Is Star

J. R. Kennedy, Denison, was the outstanding man in the College Station triumph, winning first in the low and high hurdles and running one of the quarters in the mile relay. He missed equalling the conference record in the low hurdles by only a tenth of a second.

D. H. O'Neal, of Greenville, again proved his mettle as a quarter miler by winning this event and then running one of the relay quarters. Ed Thompson, of Cameron, ran a swift race to win the mile run for the Aggies. He is a half-miler and ran the mile for the first time.

While losing the track events, the Longhorns were strong in the field events, winning first in all.

Superior Power Turns Trick For Light Blue With Lads From Oxford Falling Over Oars In Exhaustion.

(By Associated Press)

PUTNEY, England, March 31—Superior power and steadier rhythm of stroke swept the light blue of Cambridge to a decisive triumph over Oxford today in the 80th annual boat race between the two universities.

Although a Cambridge victory had been predicted the ten length lead which the light blue held at the finish was more decisive than had been expected either by the experts or the vast throng that lined the historic Thames course from Putney to Mortlake.

In individual strength and machine efficiency the Cambridge eight proved unmistakably better than the crew which pulled valiantly for the dark blue. The victors finished the four and a half mile grind without sign of distress while far behind the Oxford crew labored in broken fashion.

Cambridge's easy success today stretched the light blue string of victories through five consecutive years and pulled the university up to within one of tieing the total of forty races Oxford has won.

Leaping to the fore at the start, the Cambridge shell never was headed throughout the long plug. The first mile was a strenuous sprint with Oxford struggling gamely to regain the few feet the light blues seized with the first few sweeps of their oars.

Willis Death

the Republican party and for party government in the nation. It was for this principal that Senator Willis was courageously battling when he fell."

To whom the Willis delegate candidates now will turn as their first choice may be decided by a meeting of the delegates themselves soon after the Senator's funeral. It was intimated in some quarters close to the Willis organization that a meeting of his delegates may be held for that purpose next Wednesday, but this could not be verified.

Funeral Services To Be Held On Tuesday

DELAWARE, Ohio, March 31 (AP)—The town that acclaimed Senator Frank B. Willis last night as its favorite son candidate for the Republican presidential nomination was in mourning tonight, hardly recovered from the shock of his death a few minutes before he was to deliver a campaign speech.

Body Lies In State.

Plans to have his body lie in state in Gray Chapel, of Ohio Wesleyan University, where death suddenly eliminated him from the contest with Herbert Hoover for the Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention, were completed late today.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in Gray Chapel, with Senator Simon D. Fess, and Former Congressman Ralph D. Cole, Findlay, scheduled to deliver funeral orations. Dr. Otto Scott Brown, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church, which Senator Willis attended here, will preside at the services, which Mrs. Willis has requested to be simple and unpretentious.

Taken to Chapel Monday.

Senator Willis' body will be taken to Gray Chapel Monday noon, to lie in state from 2 o'clock to 9 o'clock Monday, and from 9 o'clock Tuesday morning until the time of the funeral. Friends may visit his bier in the Willis home on Franklin street from 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Following the services in Gray Chapel Tuesday afternoon, Senator Willis' body will be carried to the Oak Grove cemetery here, where he will be buried near his father and mother.

Friend And Foe Join In Paying Tribute

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP)—Political barriers were brushed aside today as friends and partisan foes of Senator Willis of Ohio joined in expressions of regret over his sudden death and in tributes to his memory.

The legislative wheels of congress came to a standstill, both the Senate and the House adjourning after the passing of the Ohio Republican had been announced officially from the floors, resolutions of regret had been adopted and delegations appointed to attend the funeral.

Coolidge Tribute.

President Coolidge was among the many who paid tribute to the dead senator. In a message to Mrs. Willis he referred to her husband as "an earnest and effective character" and said that "his going will be a distinct loss to our public life."

as framed at a recent meeting of the state executive committee.

No Place Seen For Wets.

With constitutional prohibition in the pinch and with 40 of the states dry by legislative enactment, the party failing to stand by prohibition has no place in American politics, he declared.

Consistency by the party was urged by the speaker in asking that if "a man who hates everything that sounds like prohibition is nominated, for God's sake give him a platform that he can stand on and not one that will fall under his weight when he steps on it."

Potential Bolters Are Reaped In Plea

DALLAS, March 31 (AP)—Nine of the "Immortal Forty" who aided in the nomination of Woodrow Wilson at the Baltimore National Convention in 1912, issued a combined statement here today asserting that no potential bolters should go to the Houston convention in June.

The nine former delegates from Texas declare their intention to support the nominee of the Houston convention, whoever he may be. Those signing the statement are: T. Whit Davidson, A. S. Burleson, Perry J. Lewis, Robert E. Huff, Thomas W. Gregory, Hood Boon, R. T. Brown, Robert L. Henry, and Charles H. Mills.

Numerous Responses For Harmony Session

DALLAS, March 31 (AP)—Numerous responses are being received to the proposed statewide Democratic harmony meeting called for Dallas April 7, John Davis of Dallas, former state senator, announced today. The call was sent out by Mr. Davis. Leaders of several former factions in the party were among those who have accepted, Davis said. To date only one negative reply has been received from the more than 100 Democrats invited, he said.

BUSINESS BETTER

Farm Bankruptcies Are Fewer, Report Shows

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP)—Farm bankruptcies for 1927 were at the rate of .99 per 1,000 farms, department of agriculture figures showed today, a reduction from the rates of 1.22, 1.23, and 1.22 in 1926, 1925, and 1924 respectively. The figure is much higher however, than the percentage of .15 for the year 1913, and above other prewar years.

"Apparently the decline for 1927 indicates an approaching end of the abnormal wave of bankruptcies made inevitable by the postwar agricultural crisis," the department observed. "This does not imply that no improvement in agriculture had been made prior to [illegible] covery began, in [illegible] 1922. [illegible]errell Raps At [illegible]emos Who Won't Stand By Pledge

[illegible]gricultural Commissioner Becomes Excited And Has Threat Ready For Those Who Might Bolt Party

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Mar. 31—Those who publicly declare that they will bolt unless a prohibitionist is nominated for president, and "who are not willing to abide by party usage may find themselves outside of the Democratic breastworks at Beaumont and Houston," George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, said in a statement here Thursday.

Discussing the disputed qualifications of a Democrat Mr. Terrell said that one of the best definitions of one he ever heard was given possibly in the nature of a jest, by a "distinguished democratic leader" that "a Democrat is one who never scratches a ticket or refuses a drink."

Might Be Justified

"I can qualify as to the first half of this definition and I believe that some of my prohibition friends can qualify as to the other half and this ought to make us all good Democrats," Mr. Terrell observed. "Personally I would prefer a good strong, dry Democrat and would like to instruct for one who stands any chance of being elected, but without any outstanding dry leader who is developing any strength, it is probably better not to instruct. I will not bolt my party if I do not get my choice and deliberately aid in bringing about a Democratic funeral for the third time in succession. I am as strong a prohibitionist, as there is in the state, but I sacrifice no principle in agreeing to vote for the choice of a majority of my fellow Democrats.

Republican Rapped

"Corruption has now been traced to the Republican Cabinet and a brewer and distiller is in the cabinet as the directing head of the prohibition enforcement forces and yet we have Democrats who say that they will support that crowd before they will vote for an anti-prohibition Democrat.

"Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson, the only Democratic presidents elected and seated in 70 years were anti-prohibitionists and Wilson vetoed the Volstead act which is now considered so sacred.

"The platform need not cover everything and touch nothing like a Mother Hubbard dress, but it should declare for fundamental Democratic principles, for the enforcement of all laws (and this includes the prohibition law); for honesty, ability and integrity in government affairs by and for a foreign policy that will stop the slaughter of our boys by not sending them to meddle with other people' business, and which can be defended at home and respected abrad."

Rum Running Ring Charged In Texas

Federal Pro Man Asserts Men Oeprate In Houston And That Dry Agents Are On Job

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Mar. 31.—The Houston Post-Dispatch, quoting A. Oftedahl of Washington, assistant commissioner of prohibition, asserts today that "huge international rum-running rings are operating through Houston," and that a corps of undercover men are on the ground now endeavoring to ferret out liquor smuggling leaders.

More investigators, the Post-Dispatch says are to be added and will work independently of the department of George Hammons, deputy prohibition administrator for South Texas, apparently in an endeavor to dry up this section preparatory to the Democratic National convention in June.

Stocks Not Excessive

The newspaper quotes Mr. Oftedahl as saying that some stocks of liquor have been concentrated near Houston but not in excess of that which might be regarded as normal.

Mrs. J. E. Hamilton is leaving today for Roswell to visit for a week.

Wide Interest Is Shown In Series Of Farm Meetings

Three Counties Hear Farm Bureau Officials Speak With Series Opening In Idalou Tuesday.

Approximately 1500 people attended meetings held in Lubbock, Crosby and Hockley counties during the past week under the auspices of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association.

The series of meetings was began last Tuesday night at Idalou, when a cooperative meeting of the farmers and business interests heard R. E. Overstreet and J. D. Coghlan, farm bureau officials, speak.

Wednesday meetings were held at Cobbland, Pep and Petit, in Hockley county, County Agent S. A. Debnam and Mr. Coghlan addressed each meeting, the general trend of thought being improvement of farm living conditions.

Thursday 265 people were present at a similar meeting held at Clauene, and Thursday night a banquet was given by the Chamber of Commerce at Levelland, attended by about 200 people. Mr. Coghlan addressed the banquet assembly.

Mr. Coghlan was also speaker at meetings held Friday at Lakeview and yesterday at Ropesville. S. B. Pierson, Ropesville banker, presided at yesterday's meeting, which was a joint assembly of farmers and business interests.

STERILIZE COTTON

Two Plants Now Operating In Big Spring

BIG SPRING, March 31.—Two sterilizers have been installed in Big Spring and sterilization of cotton seed will begin immediately. The plants will be operated continuously until every seed in Howard county has been sterilized. All seed are to be sterilized whether to be planted or fed, whether one year old or five years old, and whether shipped in from other localities or raised here. The farmers are 100 per cent strong behind this move to eradicate the pink boll worm and regulatory measures will be carried out to the letter.

NEW FIRE ENGINE

Lamesa Gets American La France Equipment

LAMESA, March 31.—The city of Lamesa received today the new La France fire truck which was bought some few months ago. The cost of the new special built machine is near $5,000. This truck together with the one on hand and the creation of the office of fire marshall is giving Lamesa a fifteen per cent fire reduction in insurance key rate. The fact that during the past four years Lamesa's fire record has been as good as could be expected has also contributed materially to the rate reduction.

South Plains Line Will Be In Operation By June 1, Says Company Officer In Dallas Headquarters

Mr. Murray said that present prospects are that the wheat crop of that section will be a plentiful one this year, much better than it was last, and approaching, if not equalling that of the year before when 30,000,000 bushels were raised there.

Conner Is Right Man For His New Post, Is Claimed

New Director Of Extension Experiment Stations Is Well Equipped To Serve, College Reports

(By Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Mar. 31.—A. B. Conner, 45, who has just been promoted from acting director of the Texas agricultural experiment station here to station director, is well fitted through experience to meet the administrative requirements of the work, a statement from A. and M. college says.

He has not only carried forward the program to which he fell heir, the statement said, but has initiated new and important services, outstanding among which water run-off and soil erosion study.

"This line of research affects the entire state, since water is the limiting factor in crop production in virtually the whole state coupled with the fact that heavy losses due to off-flow of water from the land where it falls carries with it great quantities of soil fertility. The importance of this work already under way in Texas is given notice in the Sheppard bill, now before congress, asking for an appropriation of $100,000 to expand the work, the college says.

Native of Falls County

Mr. Conner, a native of Falls county, has to his credit the B. S. and M. S. degrees in agriculture. Among his outstanding accomplishments as a member of the experiment station staff was his contribution to the development of grain sorghums as a forage crop. While he was stationed at the Chillicothe forage crop testing station, he was in charge of testing for suitability to the region of what was called the greatest collection of sorghums ever brought together, including approximately 2,500 varieties from all parts of the world. He also made the initial tests of Sudan grass and was largely responsible for its successful distribution and popular acceptance.

He made the initial tests of feterita and directed its distribution and improvement and was responsible for many improvements and developments brought about with the principal varieties of grain sorghums grown in the west. He also was instrumental in directing extensive testing of the value of cotton in northwest Texas and the ultimate rapid development of that large cotton growing region.

Mr. Conner is a member of the American Society of Agronomy and the American Gentic association and is the author of many publications dealing with Texas agriculture.

More Protection For Texas' Game Needed, Is Claim

Isaac Waltonites, In Meet At Kerville, Will Talk Over Plans For New Laws They Desire

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Mar. 31—More game for Texas preservation of that already here will be the aim of a major legislative program which will be outlined and planned at the annual state meeting of the Isaac Walton League in Kerrville on April 6 and 7.

A tentative outline of the program was given by Dr. J. A. Stanfield, state president, who declared that he is expecting approximately 300 followers of the rod and stream to attend.

Correction of the deer hunting season in Texas will be one of the most important pieces of legislation the league will seek. The league will advocate the shortening of the deer season and reduction of the bag limit.

Readjustments Planned

Among other bills the league will sponsor are: readjustment of the quail and dove seasons, making them run concurrently, if possible; establishment of a multiple game preserve throughout the state; and establishment of rearing ponds for game fish throughout the state.

Dr. Stanfield pointed out that under the present law the dove and quail seasons are not satisfactory. "Many hunters take the field in the dove season ostensibly to hunt dove, but as a matter of fact killing hundreds of quail," Dr. Stanfield said. "The time when the quail season opens in December there are but few birds to be found.

Referring to the fish rearing ponds, he pointed out that when small fish are put into running streams they are immediately eaten by the larger game fish, therefore he said rearing ponds should be established to care for the small fish until they have grown to such a size that they would not be in danger of being eaten when put into streams.

League Has Been Active

Activity of the league during the past years includes the establishment of many state preserves which were stocked with quail, turkey, deer, and other game. Dr. Stanfield praised the work of Will Tucker, state game commissioner, who aided the league in its work.

Among those on the program of the state meeting in Kerrville will be, Major R. A. P. Holderby, representative of the national office, Chicago, who will speak on conservation; Will J. Tucker, of Austin, Ben C. O'Neal, Wichita Falls; R. B. Lawrence, Houston; and Harry McKay, of Tyler.

Premier Swings His Big Stick

ROME, Mar. 31 (AP)—All organizations of Italian youth than the Balilla and Avanguardista are to be dissolved by order of the council of ministers which took that important decision Friday.

Premier Mussolini submitted to his ministers a decree which was "for the purpose of assuring realization of the aim of the National Institute of Balilla."

The decree specifically declares that within thirty days dissolution of all formations or organizations having to do with instructions for professions or trades or the physical, moral, or spiritual education of youth, except those depending on the National Institute of Balilla, must be ordered by the prefect.

This action of the Italian government appears to be a direct answer to the criticisms of the pope voiced by the pontiff to the members of the diocesan board of Rome, a few days ago of the Fascist government's assumption of the spiritual and moral education of the youth of Italy.

Broader Pact For Peace Is Offered

France Answers Kellogg's Latest Note Urging All Larger Nations Be Made Parties To Pact

PARIS, Mar. 31.—A considerably broadened pact outlawing war was understood today to have been proposed in the latest French note sent by Foreign Minister Briand to Ambassador Claudel at Washington.

The Briand reply was believed to have suggested the inclusion of all European nations suceptible of becoming involved in war instead of limiting it to the great powers as Secretary Kellogg suggested.

The viewpoint which the French had in urging the application of the word "aggressive" to the wars to be outlawed was believed also to have been met by the new proposal. This was understood to suggest that all wars be outlawed without restriction, but to provide that all signatories would be released if one were to violate the agreement.

This provision with several minor ones, it was thought, would reconcile the obligations of members of the League of Nations with the new undertaking.

It was felt that the stumbling blocks had been removed and distinct progress made.

In some quarters it was suggested that the extension of the proposal to more signatories would make a general agreement more difficult.

DAILY MARKETS

FRENZIED TRADING

Stock Market Has Wildest Saturday In History

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—Wall Street was thrown into turmoil today by the greatest Saturday stock market in its history.

Prices sprinted forward $1 to $5 a share at the sounding of the opening gong and then stumbled under the weight of profit taking which reduced or wiped out many of the early gains and sent a number of issues $1 to $9 a share below yesterday's final quotations.

Orders poured onto the floor with such startling rapidity and in such large volume that the price recording machinery of the Exchange became completely clogged, causing utter confusion in brokerage houses throughout the country. So swift was the reversal in the price movement and so long was the ticker delayed that the market was over before thousands of speculators learned what had happened to their orders placed in the opening frenzy of buying.

Total sales were 2,501,400 shares, compared with the previous Saturday record of 2,198,100 on March 10.

CHICAGO GRAIN UP

CHICAGO, March 31 (AP)—Active speculative buying lifted the wheat market today to the topmost prices which deferred deliveries have reached yet this season. Private crop estimates due on Monday are expected to show a smaller domestic winter wheat crop in prospect than a year ago. Heavy profit taking sales however, by holders of wheat brought about a reaction.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, 5-8c net lower to an equal advance with corn 1-4c off to 1-2c up, oats unchanged to 1c down, and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 15c.

Corn and oats were governed largely by the action of wheat.

For the most part, provisions were easy on account of scattered selling.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, March 31 (AP)—Not enough cattle and sheep were on the livestock market here today to test the market. A few hogs brought stead prices. The top paid was $8.15 with the bulk of the receipts selling from $7.70 to $8.10.

BOSTON WOOL DOWN

BOSTON, March 31 (AP)—Diminished stocks have continued an important factor in holding down the volume of trading in wool. Quotations remain very firm on all spot stock, although it consists mostly of fine wool which is still slow. Mills continue to show interest in tracing orders for medium qualities to be delivered out of the contracted wools as soon as graded, but delaers are not uniformly in favor of selling until ready to deliver. Foreign prices continue very strong.

LIVESTOCK TRADING

KANAS CITY, March 31 (AP)—United States Department of Agriculture)—Moderate activity featured trade on cattle around the 11 Midwestern and Southwest market circuit this week. Shipping demand for well finished fed steers was moderately improved and substantial price advances were effective. Other killing classes are little changed, demand for fat light yearlings continuing broad. Steers in thin condition suitable for grazing were very scarce, with the few highs quality lots offered bringing a decided premium over comparable grades carrying a medium amount of flesh. Total receipts at the 11 markets for the month of March approximated 704,600 as compared with 769,280 in February and 866,190 for March a year ago.

Considerable uneveness featured the hog trade during the week, receipts were about normal at most points and the general trend of prices seemed somewhat unsettled. A weaker undertone prevailed at Chicago and St. Louis while a like amount of strength was shown in markets farther west. However, as a whole, only slight changes were made. During March 2,947,896 were received at the 11 markets, which was 412,000 less than February but around 600,000 in excess of March 1927.

Arrivals of sheep this month were around 1,095,900 showing a decrease of 71,000 from February, but were 56,000 larger than the same month last year. A lower undertone prevailed on fat lambs during the week under review, increased receipts being the depressing influence. Fed wooled lambs late in the week at Chicago topped at $17.25.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—Conflicting influences were reflected in narrow and irregular fluctuations in the cotton market today, the price of July contracts ranging from 19.05 to 19.13, and closing at 19.08, compared with 19.03 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed barely steady, net 6 points higher to 1 point lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 2 points. There was some buying on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and reports that increasing complaints of droughty conditions were being received from West Texas.

Active months sold up a few points after the opening, while there appeared to be some foreign buying, as well as week-end covering, and a little commission house demand. Buyers were soon supplied by realizing, together with local and little Southern promoted by the outlook for fair and warmer weather in the eastern belt, but after selling back to about Friday's closing quotations, the market steadied up again in late trading. Last prices showed rallies of several points from the lowest on old crop positions, but were at about the lowest of the day on the later deliveries.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 109,882 bales, against 177,816 last year and 72,460 two years ago.

Private cables said hedging and Bombay selling had been taken by covering and trade calling in the Liverpool market and that there was a fair demand for cotton cloths and yarns.

WALL STREET TRADING

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—Vivid contrasts were drawn in the stock market today, the most active and one of the most bewildering of all Saturday sessions in the history of the exchange. Prices of leading issues flared up and died down over a wide range, as traders sweated and toiled to execute transactions totaling 2,501,300 shares and marking the fourth Saturday on record in which sales have exceeded 2,000,000.

The first hour was largely another bull market until profit-taking and bear selling attacked Radio, one of the recent bell-wethers, and drove down as much as 4 points between sales until it had reached the day's bottom at 185, a loss of 10 points. A late rally was not very effectual, and the stock closed only a point above its low level.

General Motors Down

General Motors likewise was heavily hammered after an early advance of nearly 3 points to 194 7-8 and tumbled down to 187 at the close for a net loss of 5.

There was nothing in the day's news to inspire operations in either direction and speculative sentiment appeared widely divergent. More than 50 new peaks for the year, or longer, were established before the wave of realizing arose, and when the final transactions was recorded, gains and losses of 1 to 9 points or more were about evenly balanced.

The stock ticker was wholly unequal to the occasion running well behind the market from the start, and printing the last transaction on the tape only one minute short of an hour after the two-hour session came to its end.

The heavy demand for low priced oil shares again was an interesting phase of the trading. Standard of Indiana, Sinclair, Marland and Rickfied all attained their best prices of the year, although subsequently losing much, or all of their gains.

Electric Shares Break

General Electric made a new peak of 161 1-2, but lost all its gain, and Westinghouse Manufacturing closed 5 1-2 points below its new high of 112, established in the early trading, and 2 1-2 below yesterday's last quotation.

Rails were quiet with the exception of another burst of strength in the new St. Paul common, which closed at its record high of 35, up 1 1-4 on the day. Independent Motors were under heavy pressure, particularly Hudson, Hupp and Mack Trucks, with losses of 1 to more than 2 points.

Firmness ruled the foreign exchange market. Danish Kroner jumping 11 1-2 points to 26.80 cents, and Japanese Yen 12 points to 47.86 cents. Sterling ruled unchanged around $4.88 3-16 and French Francs just below 3.93 1-2 cents.

Conner To Assume Duties On May 1

Former Assistant Head Of Experiment Stations To Become Director After Youngblood Quits

COLLEGE STATION, Mar. 31—Change in the directorship of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. and M. College of Texas, will become effective May 1 when A. B. Conner, acting director since 1926, will succeed Dr. B. Youngblood, resigned, as head of the station.

Dr. Youngblood, who has been director of the station since 1911, recently tendered his resignation, effective April 30, in order to give his whole time to cotton marketing research work with the U. S. Department of Agriculture for which he was granted leave in 1926.

Beyond Expectations

"The projects which I have undertaken with the department have developed beyond my expectations," Dr. Young blood said in tendering his resignation. "Their further possibilities are impressive and my friends in the department encourage me to continue them. After careful consideration, it has seemed that the opportunity for greatest usefulness to the people of my own state as well as of all other cotton growing states, lay in the Division of Cotton Marketing of this department."

The selection of Mr. Conner as the new director marks the final step in a chain of increasingly important posts with the station that he has filled since his first connection with the service twenty-four years ago when he was placed in charge of field experiments at the main station, farm here. That was June, 1904, just after he had received his B. S. degree in agriculture from the A. and M. College of Texas. He took his M. S. degree in the same course in 1923.

Scientific Assistant

From March 1, 1905, to Nov. 11, 1911, Mr. Conner was scientific assistant, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in charge of forage crop testing station, Chillicothe, Texas, operated jointly by the office of forage crop investigations of the Department and the Texas Experiment Station. In 1911 he became agronomist of the station and in 1916 was named vice-director and chief of the division of agronomy.

Legion Minstrel Committees Make Rapid Progress

Part of Cast Drawn And Already Practicing On Show To Be Given Here April 26 and 27.

A great deal of time is now being devoted by members and friends of Allen Bros. Post of the American Legion here, in preparation for the minstrel show that is to be given under sponsorage of the Post the nights of April 26 and 27, W. P. Knox, general chairman of the arrangements committee said Saturday.

Directed by Harry Meyers

The minstrel, which will be directed by Harry Meyers, veteran of the World War, who has had a great deal of experience in stage direction is to be strictly confined to home talent throughout. Mr. Meyer's services are in behalf of the Legion which is endeavoring to raise sufficient funds for a home here.

Various committee heads, named some time ago, have been very active, and several meetings have been held. Selection of talent has not yet been completed, although nearly a score of men, in keeping with the masculinity of the occasion, have been drafted into service, and others will be added, Mr Knox said.

Portion of Cast

Those already selected include R. L. McKnight, L. M. Brooks, Dr. V. V. Clark, Pete Brown, Edgar Inmon, W. P. Clements, Russell Hardin, J. H. Raley, Harold Griffith, Bert Brown, D. D. Roderick, Chas. Whitacre, K. L. Riggs, Clark M. Mullican, H. D. Carlock, and Harry Blocker.

The arrangements committee has not divulged the definite nature of various parts of the minstrel, but has issued the assurance that every minute of the time will be occupied with spicy comedy.

Snyder Gets Gas By May 1, Is Plan

Construction Crew Working On Main As New Water Well, Heavy Producer Is Being Brought In

SNYDER, March 31.—The full construction crew of the Community Gas company is in Snyder, sixty in all, laying the mains for natural gas. Service is expected to be turned loose for local consumption by May first.

Gas coming to Snyder at approximately the same time as a new water well just being brought in that promises more than 1,500 gallons of water a minute comes at a most opportune time in the history of a West Texas town that has made remarkable growth within the past year. Snyder has an unlimited supply of pure water that in time will prove of inestimable value to a citizenship that is keeping stride with every progressive movement. With the full completion of the newset water well, Snyder can produce more than 4,000 gallons of water a minute. New industeries have been locating here since the first announcement last year of Snyder's remarkable water supply, and with gas coming, the city stands in a formidable position to receive an industrial growth heretofore unthought of in this section. Diversification in agriculture has caused the greatest progress and now with gas, water and fine electrical service, Snyder at last is coming into its own.

Santa Fe Offering Farm Club Work

19 Texas Boys and Girls To Make Chicago Trip After Contests Decided; Club Work Is Featured.

Seven states will profit by the offer of the Santa Fe railroad company to provide 58 prize educational trips to 4-H club girls and boys who make the best records this year in crop, livestock, and poultry projects in counties traversed by the Santa Fe railroad.

These trips will take the winners—state champions in their projects—to the seventh National Boys' and Girls' club Congress to be held in Chicago in December. Texas receives 19 trips.

Eligible contestants must come from counties having a full time agricultural extension agent operating under the direction of the agricultural college.

This offer not only makes it possible for 58 outstanding 4-H club girls and boys to visit Chicago and its world-famed business and educational institutions at the time of the Club Congress, but also to become acquainted with 1,200 other girls and boys from all parts of the United States who are endeavoring through 4-H club work to develop their heads, their heats, their hands, and their health in their quest for better farming methods and conditions.

For six years the Santa Fe railroad officials, realizing the worth of the 4-H clubs to agricultural progress along their lines, and throughout the entire country and wishing to encourage the 4-fold spirit which makes for leadership and citizenship, have offered such prize trips for champion club members.

Rotary Governor Ellis Boyd Will Visit In Lubbock

Program For Conference To Be Drawn Up During The Next Three Days; Rotary Club Men Working.

With the announcement that Ellis Boyd of Fort Worth, district governor, would be here today for a three day visit, final preparations for the coming convention of the 41st district of Rotary International which will be held here on April 19 and 20 will be completed on Monday and Tuesday of this week, Rev. Walter P. Jennings, president of the local club, said yesterday.

Boyd is to come to this section to deliver charters to the Ralls and Levelland clubs tomorrow and will spend all day Tuesday in conference with the convention committees in rounding out the final plans for the two-day session. The Ralls and Levelland clubs were recently organized, their charters to be presented by Br. Boyd and a number of Lubbock Rotarians at noon and evening, respectively, tomorrow.

While here Mr. Boyd will make known the full program of the convention, Rev. Jennings said yesterday, which is certain to be sprinkled with several interesting speakers. Included in the partial list announced are: Raymond J. Knoeppel of New York city, director of Rotary International; Harry Rogers of Tulsa, former International president and Walter Cline of Wichita Falls, present International vice president. Other prominent men of the organization, are also scheduled for the session programs.

As a part of their work, members of the decorations committee are lending their efforts to city officials during the coming week in the Clean-up Week campaign, feeling that a clean city will be one of the greatest steps toward the decorating task. Included in the decorations of the business section will be the display of flags and bunting from the business houses as well as display of "Welcome Rotarians" signs over the city. The convention headquarters, the Lubbock hotel, is to be decked in gay colors also, it has been learned.

Attendance Near 1,000

Attendance of the convention is expected to be near the 1,000 mark, members of the hotel committee have stated. More than 600 have indicated that they will attend. Due to the lack of hotel facilities, members of the committee are asking that the citizens offer rooms in their homes for the use of the visitors.

Closing the convention, the Lubbock club will head a special train to Carlsbad where the guests will be taken through the famed Carlsbad cavern. The train will leave here Friday night, April 20, returning on Sunday.

Art Competition Offered Schools

Members Of Interscholastic League Eligible To Enter Exhibit In Contest For May 4 At Austin

AUSTIN, Mar. 31. — Any junior high school or senior high school enrolled in the state Interscholastic league contests sponsored by the University of Texas may enter two contestants in the art competition to be held in Austin May 4 by the League in co-operation with the Texas Fine Arts association according to Samuel E. Gideon, professor of architecture in the University of Texas. Mr. Gideon is director of the art contest. The contests will begin at 9 o'clock on Friday May 4, which is at the same time as the State Meet in Austin. This year instead of holding the competition in the Ney Musem, it has been decided to conduct the contests in B Hall at the University, Mr. Gideon said.

In the place of only one contest, this year there will be two groups, the director said. Although both will be for still life subjects, one group will be done in charcoal and the other to be done in any color. A competitor will, however, not be permitted to enter both contests.

Last year there were fourteen high school students who entered the contest, according to Mr. Gideon who expects fully twice that number this spring. Winners of last year's competition were Clyde Grey of Houston and Miss Roslyn Goldsmith of Dallas.

The Texas Fine Arts association, which is co-operating with the Interscholastic league in holding the competition, will act as hosts for the high school artists and will provide the medals as well as luncheon for the contestants and other entertainment. First and second prizes will consist of silver and bronze medals and will be offered for first and second places in both groups of contestants.

BANQUET AT OLTON

OLTON, March 31—The Olton Chamber of Commerce is planning a big banquet for the night of April 5. Owing to the great strides in development recently the chamber will feast. Many visitors are expected from all over West Texas. The banquet is to be held in the new school auditorium.

Program Outline For San Antonio Convention Given

Eight Departments Given Place On Program When Biennial Conference Is Held This Summer.

SAN ANTONIO, March 31—The program outline for the biennial of the General Federation of Women's clubs to convene in San Antonio May 28 to June 7, inclusive, has been received from Mrs. Henry S. Godfrey of Minneapolis, Minn., chairman of the program committee for the biennial through Mrs. Frederick W. Weitz, of Des Moines, Iowa, National chairman of press and publicity.

While the names of the speakers are not yet announced, this outline shows the work of the convention centering about the eight departments and the days assigned to them. Thursday, May 31, will be given over to the department of fine arts, Mrs. L. A. Miller of Colorado Springs, Colorado, chairman.

Saturday, June 2, will be devoted to problems of the American home, Mrs. Maggie W. Berry, chairman, and legislation, Mrs. Duncan S. Johnson, Baltimore, Md., chairman.

Monday, June 4, will be devoted to the department of American citizenship, Mrs. W. R. Alvord, Detroit, Mich., chairman, to the department of international relations, Mrs. W. K. James, St. Joseph, Mo., chairman.

Elect Officers

The department of Education, Mrs. W. P. Blackman of Orlando, Fla., chairman, and junior membership, Mrs. H. M. Robins, Highland Park, Mich., will occupy the time Tuesday, June 5. The department of public welfare, Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, of New York City, chairman, will take up the afternoon of Wednesday, June 6. Wednesday morning will be the day of the election of officers.

Around this central work will be grouped many other activities, entertainments, committee meetings, luncheons, teas, conferences and group meetings for the discussion of various special problems connected with the eight departments of work.

The preliminaries leading up to the working program are also interesting. These include the entertainments to be provided by the club women of Dallas, Houston, Austin, El Paso, and other Texas towns and cities along the incoming lines of travel, or those cities like Galveston and Corpus Christi and the towns in the Rio Grande valley to which excursions are offered, have planned elaborate programs of welcome. Meanwhile, the women of San Antonio will be busy greeting the incoming Texas club women with whose assistance they will welcome the biennial delegates and visitors.

Affairs for Texans

The preliminary social affair in San Antonio for Texas club women will be the reception on the evening of Saturday, May 26, at the Menger Hotel. The management of the hotel is giving their parlors, the two patios and the lobbies. The dining room will be opened for small dinner parties with perhaps tables arranged on the mezzanine floor.

The delegates and visitors will begin to arrive in San Antonio Monday, May 28, to be ready for the Texas welcome Monday evening. This will be in the form of a dinner for the General Federation executive board with Mrs. Henry Drought, Texas biennial chairman in charge. One thousand guests are expected to attend this dinner which will be in the crystal ballroom of the Gunter Hotel.

Tuesday, May 29, will be devoted to a meeting of the General Federation executive committee, a meeting of all state presidents, and a meeting of all state presidents, and a General Federation board meeting, all at the Gunter Hotel, convention headquarters. So much for the business of the day which will be lightened by a tea in the afternoon at the Woman's club, a courtesy extended biennial delegates by the seven districts of the Texas Federation.

Formal Opening Tuesday

These preliminary meetings and entertainments work up to the actual business of the convention which will be opened formally Tuesday evening, May 29, and get down to work with the reports of the convention committees, officers, and standing committees, Wednesday morning, May 30. That afternoon there will be greetings from the General Federation past presidents, honorary vice-presidents and representatives of affiliated organizations. In the evening, the state presidents will be in charge of the program.

The one day free from work in the whole convention will be "play day", Friday, June 1, when the women of the General Federation board, the state president and state directors with an army review, a ride and a chicken barbecue.

The final program of the convention of June 7, will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Sherman, president, who will present the incoming officers for the next two years.

Gloves Play One Of Leading Parts In Easter Fashions

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

Hands that point to chic may be had for the choosing this Easter. New gloves see to that. And the accessories that go into the hand, especially purses, repeat gloves' assertions of smartness.

Beautifully gloved hands give one an assurance beyond the price of many pairs. Likewise no woman can hold her head high, even though it wear a new Easter bonnet, if she is suffering from finger-shabbiness.

Conspiracy!

Therefore the gloves one wears rate consideration. New gloves are in league with purses to reduce the amount of time necessary to choose suitable ones by coming in sets. Milady can have the cuff of her Easter gloves, for instance, match her purse. Or she can have her gloves and purse match not only in material but in decoration.

Right now a tremendous importance is attaching to the slip-on French suede, of chamois, or, undressed kid in jade white, honey beige, and grege shades. These are apt to come as long as a regular six button glove would.

A chic trick this season is to have little snap-on or buckle-on wristlets of snakeskin or other fancy materials to fasten around the wrist of such smartly simple gloves and thus link them up to the purse that features the same fancy material for trimming. These sell separately and can be worn with various gloves.

Street Dresses.

Cuffed gloves are decidedly the gloves for dressy street costumes. One and two-button models come in this type. Glazed French kid, the most popular leather comes in Independence blue, apple green, red and yellow as well as the usual browns and greys. But cuffs this year are not so ornate as last season. They are restrained and their novel fastenings may be the only bizarre touch.

Stitchings and cuffs give a color touch to the softer lined gloves. White glazed kid may have polka dotted or checkered black and white stitchings and cuffs. Braided leather, in several shades, is another fancy touch for cuffs. But the cuff this season is apt to match its gloves in color.

As for purses, ever since women have become so "purse conscious" they have taken on new beauty. Now they are graceful as well, balanced in their proportions and decorative to the last degree. Now purses feature all the reptilian skins, sharkskin, the sofe leather gloves use and in addition a wide variety of materials such as Chinese brocades, hand-blocked, linens, flannels, linen-like straws, crocheted Polo straps, pearlized kid, suede and so on.

Three kinds of bags are good this Easter—the envelope, the pouch and the pochette—this last the small full pouches that are the thing in sports—in high colors like cherry red and billiard green.

Perfect In Easter.

A novel set, perfect accessories for a black, red and white striped Easter outfit, has its gloves in white glazed kid with snappy cuffs and stitchings in checkered black and white and its smart envelope purse in white glazed kid, white lined with black and which checkered polo straw in the exact pattern of the gloves for its outer flap.

This combination comes in colors, as well. A fine polka dotted pattern, or flowers worked in the gloves and purse, are trickily new, too. But this pattern sticks to fine figures, whatever they are. Restraint is its keynote.

For a more tailored costume, Spring shows wood-brown glazed kid gloves, with woven cuffs of brown and tan in squares or diamonds, to match a chic flat pouch bag of woven brown and tan in squares or diamonds. This is a rich, handsome set of accessories.

Wristlets.

For the dressy ensemble, colored gloves in one-button or slip-on style, made of glazed kid or suede, grow more dressy by acquiring wristlets of watersnake to buckle or button on. The wristlets may be colorful, or tan or grey to tone in with some of the neutral shades, so popular right now.

A colorful purse may accompany this type of gloves. Nothing is newer than the pastel colored envelope, oddly shaped with novel decoration. A light green suede envelope purse has gold bindings and rich embroidery in gold and pastel pinks and lavenders of the dress it accompanies. The outer flap of this purse covers an outside pocket for the vanity.

Matching or harmonizing, Milady's gloves and purses this spring are worthy of front place in the Easter parade.

Black and white chic in white glazed kid gloves and white kid envelope purse with checkered polo straw for decoration.

Methodist Choir Singing Cantata Next Sunday Eve

C. J. Atchison Directing Late Oratorio; Popular Singers of City Are To Appear.

A chorus of about thirty-five voices will sing at the First Methodist church next Sunday evening when the choir presents "Morn of Victory", Easter cantata that has been published since the beginning of this year by E. K. Heyser.

C. J. Atchison, regular choir director, is in charge of this musical program, which is composed of solos, duets and quartets, supported by the choir. Mrs. Mamie I. Neal is to accompany this program at the organ.

Popular Singers

Virtually the same singers will present this oratorio who sang in the Christmas cantata at the Methodist church, which met with a favorable reception by those who heard it. Some of the most popular singers in the city are included in the personnel and will sing again April 15 in "The Messiah" at the Methodist church.

The cantata opens with a solo, "Night in the Graden", sung by Edgar Shelton, tenor, followed by an alto and soprano duet by Mrs. T. J. Beck and Miss May Foster, which later develops into a quartet, Horace Grady Moore singing the bass. This quartet is supported by the chorus as a climax to the opening.

"The Hour Is At Hand", tenor solo by Clyde Backenstose follows and again the chorus joins in to be followed by a mezzo soprano solo, "O Thou Forsaken One" by Mrs. A. L. Waller. "And When They Were Come" will be sung by the choir with Miss Marjorie Mitchell and Ethridge Eagan singing alto and tenor solos.

Women's Voices Feature

Women's voices will feature the next number, "When We Stand Afar", which will be introduced with a solo by Mr. Shelton followed by an ensemble of four voices, Mrs. Beck, Miss Maud Dee Skeen, Joe Foster and Mr. Shelton. Miss Louise Ockers will next sing "The Wondrous Cross" as a soprano solo.

As in the other ensemble numbers, the choir is to support soloists in "Why Seek Ye?" Mr. Moore and Mrs. R. L. Douglas, soprano, are taking the solo numbers. "How Calm and Beautiful" quartet, will be sung by Miss Frances Garland, soprano; Miss Annette Hussey, alto; Mr. Eagan and Mr. Foster. "Welcoming Happy Morning", duet, is to follow and will be presented by Mrs. Carl Scoggin, soprano, and J. T. Shaver. The choir then sings "God Over All", preceding a bass solo by Edgar Inmon and the closing chorus by all singers. "Hail the Day" a women's chorus introduces this last number.

Mrs. Kendrick To Be In City Today

Perfection of Program Is Awaiting Arrival District President; Club Is To Serve Breakfast.

The perfection of plans for entertaining the eight district Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers associations here probably will be effected today and tomorrow while Mrs. J. I. Kendrick, of Amarillo, eight district president, is in the city. Mrs. E. W. Camp, president of the local P.-T. A council, said yesterday.

Although Mrs. Kendrick was expected here yesterday and plans had been announced to complete the program during the afternoon, she phoned Friday that she could not come until this afternoon. She is to attend sessions of the International Relations conference at the Tech.

The high school Mary Emma Home Economics club is serving a bluebonnet breakfast on April 11, the middle day of the convention to state and district officers who are in attendance, Mrs. Camp said yesterday. About twenty-four women are expected to be at the meal which will be in the home economics rooms at the school. A reception for the visitors is to be in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul W. Horn.

Plans, other than those which have already been announced, are awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Kendrick.

Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Andrews, of Olton, were in Lubbock yesterday.

AAUW Reception This Afternoon

Dr. Esther Caukin And Other Visitors Will Be Honorees; AAUW Members To Be Guests

As a particular honor to Dr. Esther Caukin of Washington, secretary of international relations in the American Association of University Women, and as a courtesy to other A. A. U. W. members who will be in Lubbock today, there is to be a reception at 5 o'clock this afternoon at 2421 Broadway with Mrs. Mary W. Doak, Miss Margaret Weeks and Miss Mabel Erwin as hostesses.

Members of the local A. A. U. W. and visiting A. A. U. W. members are to be guests. Among the visitors, who are expected are Mrs. Earl Wyatt of Amarillo, treasurer of the state association; Miss Hattie M. Anderson, professor of history at Canyon Teachers college, and Mrs. Ernest May of Fort Worth, state secretary of international relations. These women are here to attend the international relations conference at Tech.

Cast Is Selected For Next Theatre Play To Be Given

"Merton of the Movies" Is To Be Offering On April 9; Three-Act Comedy Will Be Staged.

In contrariety to gloom which stalked in Lubbock's last Little Theatre offering, "Beyond the Horizon," there will be laughs aplenty when "Merton of the Movies" is staged on the evening of April 9 at the high school auditorium, according to the director and other Little Theater officials here.

Some actors cast in this play are known to Little Theatre audiences here as they have stepped before the footlights on other occasions. Others will be making their bow in this comedy.

In Title Role

"Merton of the Movies" is from the pen of Marc Conelly and Goerge F. Kaufman, who wrote "Dulcy", a production of local players early this season, and James Allen, Tech faculty member, whose first act here was in Dulcy, is to have the title role in this forthcoming drama.

John T. Fulcher, who was cast in the O'Neil tragedy, will again play, this time as Amos G. Gashwiler.

Miss Verna Wilson, Tech student; Byron C. Dickinson, local business man; Mrs. Dickinson, star in "Dulcy" Gaylord Hankins and Mrs. H. W. Sims will be among those playing on April 9 who have acted before in local productions.

Students In Cast

Miss Kate Pressley, Tech student and popular reader, the role of the casting director in the ensuing drama; Ray Grisham, Winifred Watkins, Weldon Hankins, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mobley, Durwood H. Bradley, Miss D'Aunn Sammons and Harry Meyers are others in the cast. Mr. Meyers has been associated with the Little Theatre as a member of the advertising committee and stage director for several months, much of the machinery of production falling into his hands. Mr. and Mrs. Mobley, Winifred Watkins, Miss Sammons and Weldon Hankins are students at the Technological college. Mr. Bradley is district attorney, and another men cast in the play have business here.

BIZARRE LUNCHEON

Miss Juanita Meredith Is Hostess Yesterday

Bizarre decorations were favored yesterday by Miss Juanita Meredith when she entertained the Ko-Jo-Kai club with a circus luncheon in her home, 1614 Broadway. This affair honored a new member, Miss Gertrude Terrill, and the club presented her with a necklace.

Streched above the tables were balloons, vari-colored crepe paper and confetti completed the table appointments, and a circus scene was laid on a table near. Elephant tallies were used in games of bridge which followed the luncheon.

Fare identified with a circus, including red lemonade, was served in a course luncheon. Miss Marjorie Ann Ainsworth scored high in the games.

Guests were Misses Marjorie Ann Ainsworth, Lillyan Watson, Virginia Murray, Lois Harkey, Evelyn Stewart, Louise Bates, Gertrude Terrill and Mrs. Dick Lindley. Miss Harkey is to be the next club hostess.

MEETING POSTPONED

Baptist W. M. U. Will Meet April 26-27

A meeting of the Baptist district Woman's Misionary Union, scheduled to be in Lubbock on April 10 and 11, has been postponed until April 26 and 27, according to an announcement made yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Ware, and Bryan Ware, of Amarillo, stopped here last night, enroute to Colorado City on business. B. T. Ware is president of the Amarillo National bank and his nephew, Bryan Ware, is a director in the bank.

Well Pleased

Following her first week in Tulsa, where she is engaged in field work for the Delphian women's, Miss Louise Jennings, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Water P. Jennings, has written friends here that she is delighted with her new work and surroundings. She will remain in the oil capital for several months and then continue her work in other cities.

—THE—
WOMAN'S DAY
By Allene Sumner

Trouble!

For several years one solitary statue has stood in the very lowest basement floor of the Capitol. There in drab gloom has stood a huge white marble monument of three women who have done more for the freedom of woman than any other human beings—Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott. The statue is ribaldly known as "Three Old Ladies in a Bathtub."

The Woman's Party which presented the statue to the nation has long been a bit perturbed at the insulting spot given their gift. Now comes along a resolution in the House asking that the statue be moved upstairs with the other boys and girls in stone.

Should Keep Mum

The nation holds its breath. One wonders why the Woman's Party accepted the statue in the first place. Surely they knew what a marble monstrosity it was! I humbly opine that the Woman's Party will do much more for itself by keeping very mum right now and letting the three old ladies stay in the bathtub downstairs than by accepting the insult as an insult and demanding redress. None of us wants visitors to see that thing no matter how much we revere the three old ladies so chip!

"Wintersmoon"

If you like human relationship problems in your novels, and if you especially like the daughter-in-law and parent-in-law problem read Horace Walpole's latest, "Wintersmoon." The title is the name of the historic estate to which Lord Poole takes his bride Janet Grandson (nice names just like those in "St. Elmo" or "Dora Thorne.") But Lord Poole's mother ruled this historic mansion long before a bride was dreamed of. A fascinating story of an intelligent modern woman's rebellion against the autocracy of the old.

Politics With Eats

They're having Leap Year parties, kaffeeklatsches and carpet slipper stag parties up in Wisconsin to "awaken civic consciousness" and bring out to the vote for ness" and bring out the vote for the primary.

Eating does remain a basic joy of all people, and those who say food doesn't interest them—are either unhealthy or falsifiers. The political parties out in Wisconsin are pretty smart.

A Hindu Bride

Modern woman's quest for new experiences, no matter what the break with her accustomed groove of living, is well symbolized in the marriage of Miss Nancy Miller of Seattle to the ex-Maharajah of Indore. Before her marriage in a jungle clearing, the Occidental bride had to be formally initiated into Hinduism and was married according to the Hindu custom which would be weird and fantastic and almost absurd to any Occidental.

A girl of the past generation would have shuddered at such a radical departure from custom. Today's girl only means that there aren't more Hhharajahs to go around.

Two Major Projects of Carter P T A Are Realized When Play Equipment Installed, Room Pictures Purchased

Mrs. G. T. Scales President of Association and Miss Stella Thurman Principal Of School.

Furnishing the grounds with equipment and buying pictures for the school have been two of the principal accomplishments of the K. Carter Parent-Teacher association since September. Of $466.50 that have been raised by the club this winter, $382.09 have been spent for pictures, music, play ground equipment, upkeep of the school grounds, multi-type machines and books.

Mrs. G. T. Scales is president of the association and is the directing head of all activities. Associated with her in this work is Miss Stella Thurman, principal of the school and others in the association, the total membership numbering 91 women and 4 men.

The Officers

In addition to Mrs. Scales, officers in the association are the following: first vice president, Mrs. E. B. Wheelock; second vice president, Mrs. G. M. Cosby; third vice president, Mrs. Charles C. Burns; treasurer, Mrs. Albert Fryer; secretary, Mrs. M. C. Overton.

Programs for this year have been a study of fire prevention, safety on highways, books for children, health, thrift, child welfare, patriotism and citizenship, juvenile protection, music for public schools and character building, with observance of special weeks and days designated by the state organization.

Money raised this winter by the association has been by means of picture and pottery sale, conducted early in December; lyceum course numbers, food sales and dues. Net profits on the picture and pottery sale amounted to more than $111 and the association contributed pictures to schools in the cities. Valued at $68.85.

Another work of the Carter association this winter and one that was undertaken in cooperation with other ward societies of the city, was the bringing of a public health nurse to Lubbock to give physical examinations to school children with subsequent health reports to parents and school authorities that resulted in many physical corrections. This was a part of the health program of the association.

This school was opened four years ago in February and has been in operation since. Six hundred and ten students have been enrolled this year with an actual attendance of about 510 at this time.

Humane Education Week To Be Celebrated In P. T. A Societies; Pageant Is Prepared

AUSTIN, Mar. 31—Mrs. Emanuel Toomin, Fort Worth, state chairman of humane education, Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, announces that many communities in Texas are planning to observe Humane Education Week as every one of the district presidents in the Texas Congress and every one of the 1700 local presidents have been notified of the approach of the week, April 15-21, the district presidents by personal letters, the others by announcement in the state official organ, Texas Parent-Teacher. Mrs. Toomin has prepared a beautiful pageant, portraying the development of humane treatment of both man and beast from earliest times down to present day America, and the pageant is being used by many local units in the observance of the week according to Mrs. Toomin. Fort Worth council is sponsoring one of the more pretentious presentations of the pageant, some six hundred school children and school and city musical organizations, and the clubs being used. This celebration will occur on the last day of the week, April 21st.

Other local associations are following a program outlined by Mrs. Toomin, which does not include the pageant, but is of interest as it touches every phase of human education in a short, concise way.

Your Neck And Face Need Plenty Of Exercise, Too

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the seventh and concluding article of Majorie Dork's series on health and beauty. In it she prescribes exercises to remove superfluous flesh from the neck and face.

By MARJORIE DORK
Health and Beauty Expert
Per NEA Service

No matter what particular problem is yours in reducing your body, you must watch your neck and face.

It is well to remember just what dieting does. While you are not eating fattening food the body draws on the fat you stored away when you were overeating. This fat is needed for metabolism, which is the technical name for the process of rebuilding. When your excess fat has been absorbed, you cannot help but be lithe and limber again.

But remember the flabby skin must be re-absorbed also. It had to stretch to accommodate your heavy intake of food, and now it must shrink so as to fit your slimmer frame. This is accomplished by vigorous exercise. You must also exercise your neck and chin so that the same thing may occur there. So let me outline a few neck exercises that no reducing woman should neglect:

Lie crosswise on the bed so that your shoulders are supported by the edge of the mattress, but your head is over the edge. Then drop your head back until it will go no farther. Then bring it up and forward until your chin rests on your throat. If you prefer, you can do this sitting up in a chair, dropping your head as far back and then as far forward as you can. Keep the throat muscles tense and feel a good strong pull on the muscles of your throat. Do this 20 times slowly.

In this same position with your head hanging over the edge of the bed, open your mouth as wide as you can and go through the motions of violent chewing. When you feel the stretch and pull on the muscles of your chin you will realize that you can wear down a double chin in this way.

Then sitting comfortably with your back straight and your shoulders easy, bend the head as far as you can to the left, and then to the right. This is excellent for the contour of the throat and will help also to keep the flesh firm on the neck and chest.

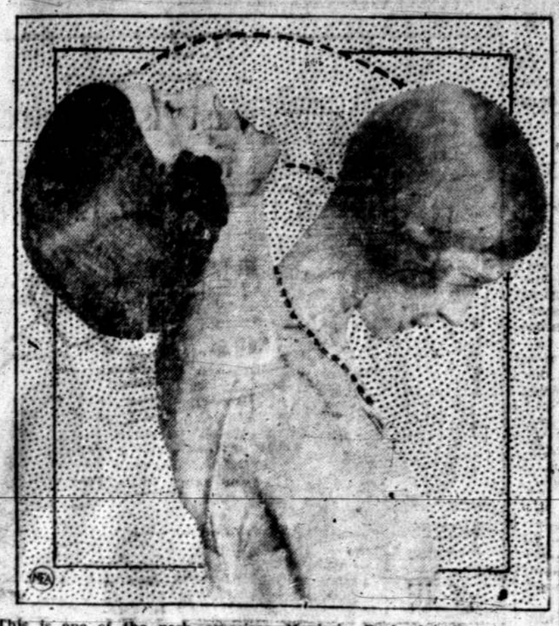

Here is another:

Lie flat on the floor with the face down and the hands at the sides. Then raise the head, chest and legs from the floor, bowing the body backward until only the ribs and abdomen are resting on the floor. Then press the head back on the spine as far as it will go. Relax and repeat 10 times.

Any woman who has had her face lifted should never attempt massage at home, but all other women can increase their circulation and help these facial contours while dieting by a light facial massage.

Your dieting and exercises should improve your complexion as well as your figure. By eliminating starches and fats and adding fruits and raw vegetables, you should find that blemishes of all sorts have disappeared.

And remember this! Your fat will come back if you do not eat scientifically and exercise regularly. That is the price all fat people must pay. It is better to lose a pound a week for 52 weeks and keep it off than to lose 40 or 50 pounds in two or three months and then put it all back on as quickly.

This is one of the neck exercises Marjorie Dork describes in the accompanying article

No Definite Hurt Is Seen In Ruling

Water District Decision Is Cause Of Little Damage Chairman Of Engineers Board Asserts

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Mar. 31.—Should higher courts sustain the third civil appeals court's ruling holding unconstitutional the 1925 act attempting to authorize creation of water control and improvement districts, districts now operating probably would not be hurt permanently, Chairman John A. Norris of the state board of water engineers believed Thursday.

"Certainly while the question is being threshed out further no district will think of evading its debts on any technicality," he said. "When the Supreme Court declared the road district act invalid, no bond holder was left unprotected."

The appeals court, in the suit of I. C. Sutton and others against the San Saba Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 Wednesday held the organization void on the construction that the law under which it was formed was repugnant to "due process" clauses of state and federal constitutions.

Mr. Norris is of the opinion that in the event the act is stricken down, some arrangement will be made whereby projects will go forward.

MARYE and "MOM"

Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dearest Mom:

Maybe you did read my mind right about Billy and his presents but truth compels me to admit that I was not pulling any wool over my own eyes. I haven't been married very long, 'tis true, but I learned right away that husbands are quick to take advantage of any little excuse for trying to do a Houdini on the ball and chain now and then.

For this season I've got to drop Billy. But it isn't because there's anything wrong in his beautiful affection for me. It's a sacrifice I've got to make to Alan's ridiculous jealousy. As you say, I can't insist that he keep his record clean as a dutiful husband unless I break with Billy. But it isn't fair. Billy thinks I'm a saint. And I'm sure that any girl who calls a man "Old Fruit" isn't thinking of him in saintly terms. So, to put a stop to that affair I've got to wound the feelings of a darling boy who is as harmless as a baby. It's perfectly disgusting but it isn't a fifty-fifty proposition at all.

Now I think I've been pretty honest about my motive. But I can't yet see that it isn't more harmful for Alan to get letters from a girl who is old enough to know what she is doing when writing to a married man than for me to receive little notes from a boy who's passing through that stage where flappers bore him.

I've told Billy that Florence is older than she really is and that I think she is secretly married. That ought to intrigue him, don't you think? If they fall hard enough for each other maybe Billy'd forget me and Florence'd forget Kenneth Oats. Everything would be jake then.

I'm going down in a little while to meet Florence at the station. Billy's going to drive the car for me because I can't get through the traffic in that part of town. Besides I want him and Florence to meet when there isn't an audience around to interfere with their getting acquainted. I can't ask him to the apartment unless there's a party going on. Maybe Alan will kick even then but if Florence is any kind of a fast worker she'll soon have Alan sympathizing with m

I thought I'd see what Florence can do before I tell Billy everything is off. Don't want to break his heart if it isn't necessary.

Lovingly,
MARYE

Mom darling:

It must be quiet along the Potomac since Florence left. She hadn't been here a day before the lid blew off. Talk about a trouble-maker! In the first place I forgot to warn her not to mention Billy's driving me to the station to meet her, and the first thing she did at dinner was to start warbling a song about his eyes and his nose and his wide lapels.

Alan looked more knives and forks at me than there were at the table. I kicked Florence under the table while I smiled across at him.

It was simply marvelous the way she and Billy had taken to each other, I remarked. Then I asked her where they were going on the date they had next day. She looked perfectly wet for a minute, but Alan was watching me and fortunately missed her expression when finally she registered comprehension. She knew enough about Billy to make a sensible answer. "Oh, just out to deliver a new car to a customer," she came through.

I then told her I had intended taking her to Chirley Wells' bridge luncheon. I wanted Alan to know that I wasn't planning to help Billy deliver any cars to customers.

"We'll be back in time, maybe," she said.

Then Alan began. He didn't want anyone in his family to be running around with Billy Bartlett. But I interrupted by asking Florence something about Kennth Coates. That shut him up. I guess Alan would rather have Billy in the family circle than Ken if it ever comes to that.

Florence is going to ask Billy to the party I'm throwing for her tomorrow night, so Alan can't blame me. She's had Alan wild, raving about Billy, but I told him she'd forget him when she goes home and perhaps she'd be cured of Kenneth too.

I think it's all going to work out very well, providing Billy does his part. I have to arrange a chance for Florence to ask him to the party So we've about decided to take the car around to the agency and have the oil inspected.

Dearest love,
Marye

Patou Gives Pointers On Short Clothes

Beach chic as exemplified by a Patou sun suit of black and white taffeta, the coiffure and sandles matching the striped skirt and sleeveless, scarfed jacket.

PARIS, March 30.—Swimming suits and sun suits are assuming a more and more important part in a couturier's collections and just as much time and attention are devoted to their every detail as to those of a dress.

It is useless perhaps to mention the fact that the well dressed woman would never dream of wearing a ready-to-wear suit, even for swimming, contrary to the habit years ago, when just anything would do for the seaside.

Beach Suits

In the first place, the fashion of taking prolonged sun baths on the beach has brought with it a great variety in what I migh generally call beach suits. A very distinct line must be drawn between the swimming suit proper and suit which a woman dons for her daily sun bath.

The first is meant to come into contact with sweaters, whereas the other, used solely for decorative purposes, can be designed in a way which will spell eccentricity for a swimming suit. Furthermore, a sun suit is always more striking in its effect, if only by reason of the materials used.

In the sun suits which I created for Cannes and Palm Beach I used taffetas quite extensively. Besides permitting any number of "fantasies" this silk enabled me to effect a mingling of colors which attenuated the rather too showy effect attained with a figured taffeta.

In most cases I used figured taffetas for the skirt and for the accompanying wrap plain taffetas fashioned the bodice and lined the wrap. The most successful and popular of these suits were those made of gay tartans and plain silk, black and white, green and yellow, etc.

Seal of Elegance

A harmonious ensemble is what I always aim at in these as well as in all my other creations, as it is the only true seal of elegance. Thus, the sandals which accompany a sun suit must necessarily be in a satin the exact shade of the dominating color of the suit and they should be edged or bound in the lightest of the color scheme. The coiffure has to follow the same principle and should harmonize with both the coloring and design of the costume, to suit the individual wearer.

Swimming suits should above all be practical and I usually employ wool jersey or a very fine silk jersey, so fine that it looks like a crepe marocain.

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1930 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN, AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

The summer she is 16, SALLY FORD is "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON, an uncouth farmer and severe taskmaster, and leaves the orphanage, which is the only home she knows from the time she is four. At the farm she meets DAVID NASH, handsome young student who is working on the Carson farm for the summer, preparing himself to inherit his grandfather's acres which adjoin the Carson place.

David likes the little orphan and plainly shows he prefers her to PEARL, Carson's daughter. This angers both Pearl and her father. One night when Sally and David are walking, she tells him she fears Carson is going to take her back to the Home. The next day Sally innocently goes into David's room to see his books on farming. They are startled to see Carson's face appear at the little attic window. David is so infuriated with Carson's insinuations that he strikes him, sending him crashing to the ground. Not knowing whether Carson is dead or not, David and Sally run away. David tells her she must go back to the Home, but she refuses and he says he will not leave her alone. That night they strike out for Stanton. At daybreak they cross a railroad track and see coming toward them a carnival train. The train slows up near them and Sally sees an old friend.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

To Sally it was all like a dream, a fantastic lovely dream—except that in dreams you are never permitted to eat the feast that your hunger makes so real. And not even in a dream could she have imagined anything so good as the thick, furry, dark brown buckwheat cakes, plastered with golden butter and swimming in maple syrup.

And Eddie Cobb's voice seemed real enough, although the things he was telling her and David in the hastily erected cook tent certainly had dreamlike qualities. And David, sighing with satisfaction over his third plateful of hot cakes, was gloriously real. So was the long, rough-pine counter at which they ate, and behind which the big negro cook sang songs as he worked before a huge smoky oil stove. Tables scattered throughout the tent and covered with worn oilcloth reminded her of the refectory of the orphanage which now seemed so far away in the past of her childhood. She drew her mondering eyes from this exploration of the cook tent, to fasten them on Eddie Cobb's freckled, good-natured face, listened to what he was telling them:

"This is a pretty good outfit. We carry out own show train, even for the short jumps, and the star performers and the big boss and the barkers—when they're flush—eat in the dining car. Go, a special cook for the big bugs, waiters and everything. 'Course, sometimes we can't get show grounds close enough to the railroad to use the cars much, but in this bure we're lucky enough to get a lot pretty close to a siding. The performers will sleep in their berths, less'n it gets too hot, and they want their tents pitched on the lot."

"What do you do in the carnival, Eddie?" Sally asked respectfully.

"Oh, I'm helpin' Lucky Looey on the wheels. Gamblin' concessions, you know. The enlarged grandy. Losey's got three kewpie doll booths and I'm in charge of one of 'em. Old Bybee—Winfield Bybee—owns the show and travels with it—not like most owners. He owns the concessions and lets the concessionaires operate 'em on percentage. He owns the freaks and the girlie show and the high-diver and all the ridin' rackets—ferris wheels, merry-go-rounds, whips 'n everything. He'll be showin' up any minute now and I'll give you a knockdown to him."

"You're so good to us, Eddie," Sally glowed at him. "David and I hadn't any idea what we should do and we were so hungry we could have eaten field corn off the stalks."

"You looked all in," Eddie grinned at her. "So you run away, too, Sally? Couldn't stand the racket any longer, eh? Is David here a buddy you picked up on the road?

Gosh, to think of little Sally Ford hoboing!"

"I'm afraid I've taken advantage of your friendship for Sally, Cobb," David smiled. "The Truth is, Cobb—"

"Aw, make it Eddie. We're all buddies, ain't we?"

"Well, the truth is, Eddie, that I'm afraid I'm a fugitive from justice. I wanted to take Sally back to the orphanage and give myself up for murder—"

"Gawd!" Eddie ejaculated, paling. Then something like admiration glittered in his little black eyes. "Put the soft pedal on, Dave. Don't let nobody hear you."

"It wasn't murder, Eddie," Sally interrupted eagerly, her hand going out to close on David's reassuringly. "It was—an accident, in a way. Tell him, David. Eddie will understand."

The cook tent was filling up, so Dave lowered his voice to a murmur, as he told Eddie Cobb briefly, accurately, the story of his probable fatal attack upon Clem Carson, the farmer.

"Jeest," Eddie breathed, when the recital was finished. "I hope you finished for him! If the old buzzard ain't dead—and I'll bet he ain't—I'd like to take a crack at him myself. You two kids stick with us. I'll tip off Bybee and I'm a son of a gun if he don't give you both jobs. The concessions are always short of help—"

"Oh, Eddie, if he only would!" Sally gasped. Then sudden doubt clouded her bright face. "But Eddie, we'd be so conspicuous with the carnival. The police would lay hands on us as soon as we showed our faces."

"Not if the big boss took you under his wing," Eddie reassured her. "In the carnival the big boss is the law. I'll speak to him myself."

The carnival roustabouts, big, rough looking, powerful negroes in undershirts and soiled, nondescript trousers, eyed the trio curiously as they passed from one tent and booth to another, Eddie explaining and gesticulating like a Cook's Tour conductor.

"Jees, Sally, I never expected to see any of you kids again," Eddie interrupted his monologue, which was like Greek to his guests.

"Have you ever been sorry you ran away, Eddie?" Sally asked, wistfully desiring reassurance, for it was still impossible for her to picture life independent of state charity.

Eddie snorted. "I've been seeing life. I have. New York and Chi and San Loocy and all the big towns. But I reckon it's easier for a boy. I never did want to go back of course, but I've thought many a time I'd like to see some of the kids," he blushed crimson under the big freckles. "How—how's Ruby Sally. You know—Ruby Presser? She still there? She must be 17 now. She was two years younger'n me. I sorta figger on marryin' Ruby one of these days—say, what's matter?" he broke off abruptly.

Ruby—Ruby's dead, Eddie. Didn't you not read about it in the papers?"

"Ruby—dead? You — You ain't kiddin' me, Sally? Ruby—dead?"

Sally's distressed blue eyes fluttered to David's face as if for help.

"Ruby fell out of a fifth story window, Eddie, last September," Sally admitted in a choked voice.

"After she had spent the summer on the Carson farm, Eddie," David broke in curtly, significantly.

Sally closed her eyes so as not to see the conflict of rage and grief in Eddie Cobb's boyish face.

"I hope to God you did kill him, David," Eddie burst out at last. "If you didn't, I'll finish him."

"What's all this, Eddie?" a great fellow brought them all to a startled attention. "Old home week? Get to your work. Lucky's howling for you. Who the hell do you think's going to get out the coils?"

Eddie's importance was suddenly shattered. The big man who seemed to Sally to be as tall as the giant whom he advertised as a star attraction, came striding across the stubbly, dusty lot. His enormous head topped with a wide brimmed black felt hat in defiance of the torrid June weather, showed a fringe of long, curling white hair which reached almost to the shoulders of his Prince Albert coat.

"I'd like to speak to you a minute, sir," Eddie urged meekly.

After another frowning, considering up-and-down glance at David and Sally, but particularly at Sally, the big man strode away with Eddie, out of earshot.

"If the big man does take us you won't be sorry, will you, David?" Sally whispered, clinging to David's hand.

"Dear little Sally!" David drew her closer against him for a moment. They stood close to each other, Sally not caring if the interview between Eddie and Bybee prolonged itself indefinitely, for David was there, thinking—she could feel his thoughts. "Dear little Sally—"

But after only a few minutes Winfield and Eddie came across the stubble toward them. Bybee spoke, gruffly.

"Eddie here has been telling me that you two kids have got yourselves into a peck of trouble and want to hide out a bit. Well, I reckon a traveling carnival is the best place in God's world to hide. Anybody that wants to bother you will have to deal with Winfield Bybee, and I ain't yet turned any of my family over to a village constable. Now, Dave—that your name?—if you want to keep out of sight, reckon I'd better let you help Buck, the cook, on the privilege car.

"Sometimes Buck gets too chummy with a bootleg and his K. P. has to tackle the chow alone, but otherwise, the boy's all right. And you, Sally—" His keen eyes narrowed speculatively, took in the little flushed face, the big eyes, sparkling. Then one of his big hands reached out and lifted the heavy braid of black hair that hung to her waist, weighed it, studied it thoughtfully.

Women Conquer Perilous Trail

Many a hardy mountaineer has perished in the blizzards of the last 40 years on the old Indian travois trail in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. But Mrs. Lila Carter Dell, wife of a Glacier National Park ranger, and her girl friend, Isabelle Olson, a school teacher, probably set a world record for women by traveling 42 miles over the trail from Glacier Park ranger station to the Sherburne Lake Ranger Station. They are the first white girls to make this trek during the dead of winter.

Home-Making Hands We Enjoy Serving

Behind our busy counters the World seems made entirely of hands. Daintily gloved fingers that unerringly find their way to articles of beauty and distinction, hands roughened by housework, childish fingers that tug impatiently, men's hands that grope uncertainly among women's things.

We serve a world of hands, but it is the home-making hands that we strive most earnestly to please—hands that must cook dinner, smooth childish bumps and coax smartness into a made-over frock.

That you may bring beauty to your home, we scour the markets of the world. That you may combine your love of nice things with a praiseworthy desire for economy, we mark our merchandise on the lowest-possible-price basis.

Democrats Of Texas Seek Strong Man To Lead Party

Wets And Smith Backers Forced To Compromise As Organization Which Fights Instruction Gains Strength

Texans Will Insist On Dry Plank When Party Chiefs Gather To Nominate Pair At Houston

BY C. D. WAIDE
Special Correspondent

AUSTIN, Mar. 31—"Wanted—a life-long prohibitionist, a Protestant, a Democrat, an anti-klansman, a former if not present leader in Texas politics. Must be more than 50 years old. Good opportunity for right man, with plenty of chances of advancement. Applications will be treated confidentially."

Probably nobody concerned has thought about placing such an advertisment in the daily newspapers for that is exactly the kind of man a group of men in the state are now looking for. When they find him they will be ready to launch a campaign that already is well under way, without any directing head or force.

Others Discouraged

With the Texas constitutional Democrats organized, with Cone Johnson opening a speaking tour in favor of their demands for instructions to the Texas delegation to the Houston convention, the other two sides, are still disorganized.

There are really two other sides but one of these would like very much to join forces with the other, and the ther does not like that prospect. One side is the pro-Smith element and the other is the anti-Smith, dry element, temporarily headed by Governor Moody. The pro-Smith crowd would like to join forces with the Moody crowd, but the latter is not anxious for that merger.

Two things are now definitely conceded in Texas politics. Texas will instruct its delegation to fight for a dry plank in the national platform. Texas will not instruct its delegation to vote for Al Smith. These are so overwhelmingly certain that the wets and the Smith crowd are now seeking the next best thing, which is a compromise.

Smith Has Following

There is really still another element, for the pro-Smith crowd can be divided into an element that is dry, but which recognizes in Smith the only hope and chance of the Democratic party and wh feel that a Democratic victory with a wet president would be better than a Republican victory with more Teapot Domes and the other pro-Smith element is wet.

C. C. Renfro of Dallas secretary of the "uninstructed delegation" element, laid pretty near all his cards on the table this week when he issued a statement that his party is fighting Tom Love. He added Cone Johnson, Cato Sells and one or two more and then added "a few preachers and some fanatical women." He says it is a fight of the younger Democrats in rebellion against the older leaders.

Some of Renfro's own friends believe he covered too much territory in his statement. They deny that it is a fight on the older Democrats, or on any preachers or women. They admit, however, that all their crowd is out after Tom Love's scalp. But so strong has become the impression that it is the young me nwho are taking the lead that it ha sbecome necessary that they draft a man 50 years or more old to become their leader.

They Can't Agree

Nor can these three elements—the dry anti-Smiths, dry pro-Smiths and wet pro-Smiths, reconcile all their differences. They are agreed on the wisdom of not in-

HOLLYWOOD, March 31.—Movie extras and aspirants wear out a good many pairs of shoes.

But with the first contract, even for a short term and low-rate minor part in a stock company, an initial payment goes down for a moderate-priced automobile. The soonest possible, realizing the value of the old "front," the climber takes the wheel of one of the sportier little buggies—and the novice has arrived.

After stardom is attained, well, anything goes for a star. All depends upon taste. Some of them express themselves in half a dozen important-looking limousines. A few take to airplanes. Some of them rejoice in rattling around shabbier than ever. And some others, being perfectly natural about it, still prefer to walk.

Emil Jannings during his year and several months in America has been concentrating on the home-grown-in-Germany Mercedes. He had three of them which he drove with temperamental fury.

The other day he "went flivver." He got one of the first new-model Ford roadsters turned out by the nearest California assembling plant—a cute little car which fits his tremendous bulk somewhat like a glove—and now he drives in it proudly back and forth every day between his home and the Paramount studio.

Look Out for Clara!

Charles Farrell, the swiftly-risen Fox star, delights his old friends by clinging tenaciously to the old-model flivver in which he first struck Hollywood boulevard.

Clara Bow—she of the flaming hair and percolating flapper temperament—is one of the most skillful and most chance-taking of Hollywood drivers. She gets her Cadillac into more smashes than almost any of the others, and by her magnetic temperament soothes more injured feelings.

Erich von Stroheim, the distinctive embodiment of Prussian thoroughness, actor, author and director, whose "The Wedding March" is one of the much-awaited films of the year, drives not at all. He marches like one of Stonewall Jackson's "foot cavalry." He rides like

Major Hoople Defends Dreaming As Practical And Helpful; It Doesn't Hurt Us And It Smoothes The Path

Philosopher Says Dreamers Will Always Be Ready To Hear Opportunity's Well Known Knock

BY MAJOR HOOPLE McCORKLE
Avalanche-Journal Philosopher

When it comes to building air-castles most of us excel. We are a generation of dreamers and prefer the future to the present. One good thing about this, though, is that we all dream of pleasure and riches. We see big automobiles, brick mansions, fabulous wealth and an "easy life." We can almost see the sparkle of diamonds, and gold pour in to us from every direction.

We bask in the life-giving rays of honor and glory, and picture ourselves as "somebody come."

We're All Susceptible

None of us are too high or too low to overlook the air-castle stage. It comes to one and to all, and it means more to us than either health or wealth. It is the sure-shot tonic that keeps us our courage—makes us strive for better and greater things. The dreamer has a chance to win—the non-dreamer is at his row's end.

Some of our dreams may never come true, but we get a lot of pleasure fro mthem. The man behind jail bars dreams of the day when he will be free. He pictures himself working saving and enjoying all of life's freedom. He is so greatly engrossed that he forgets the dirty cell and his impending trail—the dreams to him are life, pleasure and happiness.

The widow with her hungry babes will sing over the wash-board as she looks into the future. She does not picture herself as just a "wash woman." No, she plans for better things. She sees the new home all filled with furniture. She pictures her ragged babies in dresses of silk, and her crying baby as the coming governor. She pictures herself as she occupies the seat of honor in the governor's mansion, even to the most minute detail.

So, Why Not Dream?

It may be that she will be washing when she is called by death to enter that life where pain and sorrow do not exist, but, the very fact that she dreamed made her life happier and her burden's lighter. So why not dream?

The office boy doesn' tplan to be an office boy all his life. No, you will find hi mtrying out the "boss" chair—figuring how he will look when he is "boss." It makes him a better office boy—it inspires him to greater and nobler things. Let him dream.

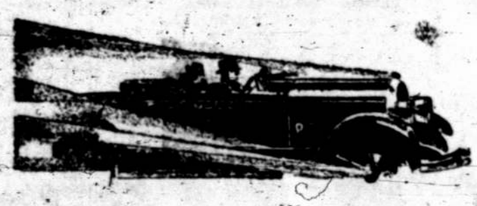

Of course some of us (maybe all) dream of the impossible, but better that than not to dream at all. Very few of us can take six-bits in cash and our nerve and hope to make a Marshall Field reputation in the business world. We can not all be silver-tongued orators even if we do breathe orations in silence and imagine ourselves as a power to

Engine Silencer For Planes Will Be Of Great Aid

At Least That Is Opinion Advanced By Experts Who Praise New Invention Of San Antonio Man

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Mar. 31—W. W. Von Falkenstein, chief engineer for the Southern Airways, Inc., here has evolved a silencer for airplane engines which seems to meet all of the objections raised against such devices by flyers.

Abandoning the attempt to produce a silencer built along the lines of an automobile muffler Von Falkenstein developed a vacuum muffler which makes it possible to talk while standing directly beside a running motor.

Adds To Motor

Other silencers have reduced the efficiency of motors because they caused a compression that heated the motor and slowed it down. The vacuum silencer has added about 40 revolutions per minute to the efficiency of some of the motors it has been tried on because of the fact that it is pulling with the motor instead of against it. It also adds life to the motor as it scavenges it of vapors and gases immediately after a charge of gasoline explodes in the cylinder and reduces carbon. Patents are pending on the device and a great many of them have already been manufactured and distributed to flyers in all parts of the country.

sway the world. We can't all be engineers even if we can mimic the noise of a swiftly moving locomotive. No there are a lot of things that are not within our reach, but dreaming will not hurt us.

Invites Opportunity

The idle dreamer has a better chance to win than his energetic brother who makes no plans for the future. The dreamer will be awake and will answer the call when "opportunity knocks"—the other will not. So why not dream?

We have pictured ourselves as being president, field marshal, governor and even editor of a newspaper. We have dreamed dreams that amounted to no more than the effervescing foam from a he-dose of Sal-Hepatica, but we are none the worse from the experience. In fact these effusions of the brain have helped us to carry on at times when conditions (actual ones) made life seem burdensome. We lived on happy dreams rather than actual adversities.

Most of us look forward to something better—a life we can enjoy and one that will not be surrounded by responsibilitities. We want to "take it easy." We are willing to work and save and stint to make this possible, and the dreams we have make our hardships bearable. We don't care to slave forever. No we want to quit work, leave the city and be free. We want a cow, a hog and a hen. We want a small home with comfortable furnishings, a place we can enjoy.

Look At Joseph

Joseph was a dreamer, but he succeeded in life, while his brothers failed. Dreamers do things.

Let the dreamer dream. If some would call them air-castles or bubbles let them do so—this does not necessarily denote that such a thing is true. An air-castle that falls is better than no castles at all.

We sometimes think that the reason so many farm boys make a mark in the world is because they have a better opportunity to dream. Take the "bare-foot boys with cheeks of tan" and start him down a cotton row behind old Beck and he will take a trip around the world every time he makes a turn. He doesn't have to think about the cotton he is plowing—the mule does that, and he is free to orate, sing and prepare addresses he will deliver before congress once he gets there. He can picture himself decorated with brass buttons of an army general, and can say "all aboard" in the same guttural tone as that employed by the veteran conductor.

Just You Wait

No, this lad doesn't plan to associate with old Beck all his life, he will walk in the king's court and be numbered with the elect of the land. He has time to plan and dream and think. His experiences with the mule will merely serve as a reminder upon which to base jokes when the Rotary club asks for an after-dinner talk. But so much for the boy and the mule.

It is said that Woodrow Wilson began preparing for the presidency while he was still a boy, and who knows but that this is true. To say the least he was prepared and it is doubtful if there has been a man since the world began who shouldered a heavier load than he. He was president of the United States and dictator of the world and he succeeded. And Woodrow Wilson dreamed dreams.

People who have no time to dream should pinch themselves and see if they are dead. They should place their "thinking apparatus" in a gurglet and allow it to be cooled down to a normal temperature. Then they will dream dreams—dreams that wil bring to them happiness and contentment.

Demand Is Great For New Whippets

Whippet Coach Is Decided Favorite With Motor Car Buyers, Willys-Overland Reports

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TOLEDO, O., March 31. — With prices on the Whippet models reduced to the lowest range in Willys-Overland history the demand for these flashy 4-cylinder cars continues unabated, according to Willys-Overland sales executives.

Although there is a heavy demand for all Whippet models, the perfected Whippet coach, a 5-passenger model, ranks as one of the outstanding favorites with motor car buyers.

Has New Appearance

The front of the 1928 Whippet coach presents a decidedly new appearance through the adoption of the abrupt or town car type of sun visor in place of the longer type which was formed by a continuation of the roof lines. The new visor, in addition to providing a wider range of vision, imparts a smart military effect to the cowl section of the car.

Following the style set by the Willys-Knight group, the Whippet coach is also equipped with full crowned fenders, contrasting window and reveals and remote door controls. The new type fenders add a touch of smartness to the sweeping lines of the cars.

An automatic windshield wiper, stop light and rear view mirror have been added to the 1928 Whippet models as standard equipment.

Rich Color Combinations

The rich color combination of the coach also presents a decided change from the original. This represents a beautiful blend of gray with striping. The interior upholstery is a fine grade of corduroy, rounding out the pleasing color scheme.

The Whippet coach amply accommodates five passengers, two in the individual front seats, and three in the spacious rear seat. The front seats fold forward, and in conjunction with the wide doors provides easy entrance and exit to and from the rear compartment.

More Information On Forest Sought

Petrified Woods In Texas County Holds Interest Of U. S. Government When Probe Is Opened

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Mar. 31—More information about the petrified forest in Brewster county two miles from the Rio Grande and about 10 miles from Terlingua is sought by the department of agriculture at Washington. In an editor's note accompanying an article in the official record of the forest, reported to have been discovered by Dr. C. O. Gaither and Prof. S. I. Cade in 1926, anyone who has data on the forest is requested to communicate with the department.

Stumps Enormous

Some of the stumps in the forest are enormous, running up to 45 feet, 8 inches in diameter, the article states. The rots of the trees are estimated by George B. Bundy and R. A. Epperson of Marfa, to whom the department wrote for information, to be at least 150 to 200 feet below the exposed part, which projected through volcanic ash.

Mr. Epperson stated that he did not believe there is another area of similar size offering as much inducement for research work.

More than 300,000 acres are under irrigation in Rio Grande valley and tentative projects would add 100,000 more.

Michigan Co-Eds Ask For Course In Automotive Study

Girls Want Same Engineering Study Offered To Eds In Michigan State College By Oldsmobile

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LANSING, Mich., March 31.—Following the lead of the growing number of men college graduates who are selecting the automotive industry for their life work, a group of co-eds of the Michigan State college is seriously considering the place women may attain in the industry. With this in mind, 18 of the co-eds have petitioned the college faculty to extend the course in automotive engineering to the girl students.

For the past two years the Oldsmobile factories, which are located three miles from the state college, have been open to a selected group of college graduates seeking training in the industry. The success of this plan, together with increasing adaption of women to new places in the business world, no doubt has been an influential factor with the Michigan girls.

Oldsmobile Encourages Youth

The policy of Oldsmobile officials has been to encourage youth. The introduction of youthful ideas, working with the mature judgement of experienced executives, will, it is believed, maintain the progressive spirit which has featured the industry and brought it to its present eminent position.

With this idea the Oldsmobile officials nearly two years ago notified several universities that it would make places for graduates who desired to enter the automotive industry. Scores of senior students were interviewed and a selection was made.

A schedule of activities was outlined for the students. They were employed for periods in the various divisions of the factories. When this educational phase of the mechanical training had been completed, the students were routed through the service department and later sent to the various Oldsmobile retail branches. At these places they were trained in retail selling, business routine and wholesale contracting.

Majority Make Good

The majority of these students more than made good and several have gained responsible positions in Oldsmobile or other General Motor units. A second class of students, selected last spring, now are undergoing the same training.

In addition to opening these opportunities for college graduates, employes of Oldsmobile also may obtain a four-year course in automotive engineering and kindred subjects at the Flint School of Technology. The course is so arranged that the student is self supporting during the four-year period.

The course is open to Oldsmobile employes who have the necessary qualifications, through the General Motors corporation's affiliation with the Flint school. The course consists of 24 weeks a year spent at the institute, 26 weeks at practical shop experience at the Oldsmobile factories and two weeks vacation. Four weeks are spent at the school, followed by four weeks at the factory, this alternating during the year.

structing the Texas delegation as to nominees, but the dry anti-Smiths would have to make damaging concessions to meet half way the wet pro-Smiths. The latter object to anything that even smacks of disapproval of Smith.

The dry anti-Smith crowd and the dry pro-Smith crowd could easily get together on an instruction to the Texas delegation to "demand the incorporation of a plank in the national platform calling for strict enforcement of the prohibition laws and to use its best efforts to bring about the nomination of men for president and vice-president who are in full accord with the letter and spirit of such plank." The wet element is not inclined to support such instructions.

Bitterness At Beaumont

The Beaumont convention promises to be the bitterest Texas has seen in many years, due to the probable even division of the forces there. At the convention at Waco four years ago a group of klan-supported men had complete control of the convention and there was no opposition. There was a similar lack of balance of power at the Austin convention in September, 1924, and at San Antonio in 1926. But the equal division at Beaumont brings up possibilities of bolting, rump conventions and rival delegations to Houston, based on the observance or non-observance of the committee pledge. It is certain that the credentials committee will have a big job at Beaumont, with the many rival county delegations knocking for admission.

The showing which the uninstructed element has made so far, however, with only the governor's Dallas speech as a rallying point, indicates that if it perfects an organization it may dominate the convention, despite the 86 votes from Dallas county.

Genius Is A Thing Apart

New Dormitory At C. I. A. Is Approved

Plans Accepted And Bids To Be Received April 6 Adding 98 Bedrooms To College Plant

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DENTON, Mar. 31—Specifications for the new dormintory to be built on the campus of the College of Industrial Arts were recently selected by the board of regents, and bids for the building will be considered up to April 6.

Plans for the dormitory, made by Shirley Simmons, architect, call for ninety-eight bedrooms in addition to parlors, bathrooms, and other service features, according to President L. H. Hubbard. There will be a kitchenette and a student laundry-room on each floor, with all modern conveniences, including hair-drying machines.

A feature of the new dormitory is that there are to be parlors occupying the entire space of the front rooms in the west wing of the second floor. These parlors are to be used by students living in the dormitory for the reception of their guests.

Every effort is being made to start work on the dormitory by April 15, so that it may be completed for the opening of the fall session.

Henry Ford Exalted

The Lincoln, more than any other car, has come to mean stardom around the picture lots. Every day outside the Paramount studio may be found three almost identical green Lincoln roadsters—belonging to George Bancroft, the star, and to the directors, Clarence Badger and Josef von Sternberg.

Esther Ralston, the blonde star, has driven her Lincoln almost 15,000 miles within less than a year. W. C. Fields, a comedian, likewise drives a Lincoln. Fields has the record unique for a widely-traveled star of never having grossed the continent by train—always by motor.

Charles Rogers, the youngster who leaped from "Wings" to the name part in Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose," drives a cream-colored Chrysler coupe with a specially built collapsible top. Nancy Carroll, the Rosemary of the same, has a blue Nash roadster.

Pola Negri alternates between the light cream and black Rolls Royce and her new Pierce Arrow. Bebe Daniels has both a Rolls Royce and a Stutz and drives herself.

Chester Conklin matches his homespun symbolism of thick glasses and walrus mustache with an ancient Buick which gives him plenty of fun oiling, greasing and repairing.

Both Wallace Beery, the comedian and character star, and Victor Fleming, the director, are former racing drivers. Beery and his comedy team-mate, Raymond Hatton, belong to the Lincoln brigade.

MAKING HOMES HOME-LIKE

The assertion that the American people are no longer a home-loving class is discounted by recent surveys of the National Clean-Up and Paint-Up Campaign Bureau, which has organized the national home beautification campaigns. Records of the organization indicate that expenditures by the American people for home beautification have doubled in the past five years, and officers of the organization assert that this is due to the educational campaigns waged in behalf of better homes. The American people not only take pride in their homes but they desire them to be convenient and sanitary as well as beautiful. Home building is showing a steady increase, and the home standards of the present generation are far better than those of any previous generation. The fact that people have more leisure; that they spend more time outdoors enjoying the pleasures of motoring or similar recreations, should not be taken as indicative that home ties are being loosened or that the average American more time outdoors enjoying the pleas does not have the regard for his home that his forebears had. The nation-wide clean-up and paint-up campaign has met a response which is in itself indicative of the average American's appreciation of a model home. Millions of homes throughout the length and breadth of the country are receiving the ministrations of painters and decorators, whose services are in greater demand than ever before. The growing public desire for cleanliness and orderliness, and for frequent changes of colors, has been reflected in the national response to these campaigns. Regardless of whether the campaign be inaugurated to secure better sanitary conditions, increased beauty in the home and the community, or is merely the outgrowth of civic pride, the cumulative result is bound to be more cheerful living conditions in the home. The theory of the campaign is that of the late Theodore Roosevelt, who once said: "This country will not be a good place for any of us to live in unless we make it a good place for all of us to live in."

For the purpose of making homes more home-like; to inculcate in the hearts of American people a still greater regard and reverence of the home, the National Clean-Up and Paint-Up Campaign Bureau has carried its propaganda into every community, town and city in the United States and its services in this respect have been invaluable. During the fifteen years of its existence it has become a recognized national institution, and the civic movements inaugurated and fostered has directly affected millions of Americans. The American people have been taught to regard beauty and sanitary conditions as essential in the home. They have been taught that every home must be homelike; that it must conform to the new standards, and that unsightly structures, ill-kept and unsanitary premises, such as were common in small cities and towns a generation ago, are not in keeping with the modern scheme of living and will not be tolerated.

DIVERSIFICATION IS GREAT OBJECT LESSON

Luling Foundation Farm, which Edgar B. Davis endowed to encourage diversification and spread the principles of scientific agriculture in a practical way—particularly among the farmers of tomorrow—lately held its first annual field day. The donor, the management, county agricultural agents and others concerned with this enterprise have occasion to be well pleased with the interest manifested in the event. Many residents of the three counties in which work is being done—Caldwell, Guadalupe and Gonzales—turned out to see the demonstration of the first year's accomplishments, and to hear from the directors what the Foundation purposes undertaking during the coming twelve months. The field day was a summing up and a clearinghouse of experiences and ideas. This institution is devoted to almost the same objectives as the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College extension bureau, and is working in in co-operation with it. Practically everywhere, county agents and college field forces are handicapped by a scarcity of funds. Neither legislators nor county commissioners spend public money lavishly for this purpose, worthy as they recognize it to be. Those three counties may consider themselves highly fortunate to have such a benefactor, whose gift makes possible this demonstration farm and an enlargement of the club work so as to reach more boys and girls. Regarding the one-crop system as the farmer's bane and the principal obstacle to his attainment of prosperity and content, Mr. Davis saw in this endowed demonstration plan a means to help him better that condition. Here is adult education of immediate, everyday utility—teaching through the object lesson, a method convincing and effective. For example, a little more than one-third of the Luling farm, which covers 1,200 acres, will be planted in cotton this year; one-sixth is devoted to corn; and watermelons, sweet potatoes, sudan grass, alfalfa, grain sorghum and other feed crops take up the remainder. The visiting farmer finds 200 acres in pecans. He sees the finest herds of beef and dairy cattle, sheep and pigs, flocks of pure-bred poultry and so on. If he has been observant and thoughtful, he returns home with a new vision of what successful farming means. Besides, he knows what his own, or the neighbor's, boy is doing as a club member. Under these combined influences he may be moved to revise his own methods—which is the institution's aim.

RUBBER SUPPLY

Rubber, the other day, went down to a new four-year low point on the London exchange. It did so, according to news dispatches, because of concerted protests by the British East Indian rubber growers against continuing the Stevenson restrictions. It has been a long time since people in the United States have thought much about rubber, the British and Dutch monopoly of rubber production, and the Stevenson system of rubber control. There was a period, beginning in 1922, when the Stevenson scheme was inaugurated, during which many people, led by no less prominent a person than Secretary Hoover, were conversant with and talked about the rubber situation. The Stevenson plan, it will be recalled, was put into effect in order to increase the price of rubber by limiting is export through a scheme of export taxes scaled to fall when the price warranted a release of rubber and to rise when low prices warranted export restriction. Secretary Hoover led in protesting against the plan as an unfair exploitation of a monopoly and in urging America to busy itself in creating its own rubber supply. The recent news from the rubber markets would seem to indicate that the Stevenson plan has not accomplished all that was expected of it. The buyers, it seems, are looking for it to be discontinued. So, technically at least, the American rubber manufacturers and consumers should be well content. They will be greatly mistaken, however, if they consider lower rubber prices a sign for them to discontinue their efforts to build up an independent American rubber supply. Though not as firm in the saddle as it once was, British capital still controls rubber production and can still make itself felt through higher price should the circumstances warrant.

PRIMARY WEAKNESSES

The ways of democracy are many and devious. When the republican national convention meets next June, presidential primaries will have been held in 17 states. Out of the 48 state delegations present, there will be 17 who supposedly represent the free and untrammeled opinion of the people of their states, as contrasted with those from the remaining 31, who will represent only dubious state and district conventions. Such is the theory. But before the free and untrammeled will of the people can express itself, it must have a fair opportunity. It rests with the candidates themselves to say whether they will or will not enter any of these state presidential primaries. When candidates hold aloof and do not permit their names to be used, voters are helpless. The fact is that in only one, perhaps two, of these 17 primaries is there any present likelihood, and that vague, of a contest between the leading contenders for the nomination. Where Mr. Hoover seems to have the advantage, Mr. Lowden's friends discreetly avoid a test. Where Mr. Lowden holds the whip hand, Mr. Hoover is discreet. In 15 and perhaps all 17 of the primary states it is Hoover against the favorite son, or Lowden against the favorite son, or, simply, the favorite son. When these delegations get to Kansas City in June they will reflect the will of their constituents until they think the time has come to vote for someone else. The presidential primary, on such terms as these, does not fulfill its function as an expression of popular opinion. Methods have been devised to manipulate these primaries to reduce them almost to the same unsatisfactory level as the system of furtive caucus combined with unrepresentative local conventions.

During the last three years there has been more railroad construction in the state of Texas than in any other state in the union.

Man, Man—Wonderful Man!

SO THINK WE

We think the thing has happened that we had expected would some day. A train hit a carload of people on Avenue H crossing and—well, it is just a thousand wonders that four were not killed. An underpass is as important as we have tried to make it, and as long as the conditions remain as they are there will be great danger of accidents.

—o—

We think people are rather careless sometimes with firearms. The fellow who was "accidentally shot" some time ago near Post seems of the opinion that it was not necessary for the posse to shoot him as a bandit just because he was scouting in that part of the country for oil.

—o—

We think the Prince of Wales could not get any more publicity than by falling off his horse periodically. He never fails to get in the headlines when anything like that happens. The last publicity stunt was to roll his favorite mare into a ball and dump himself into a perfectly soft mud puddle, only to quickly regain his footing and seat and ride home covered with mud, triumph and glory.

—o—

We think that if Lubbock keeps up the record for building that she started in January she is going to outstrip any city in the Southwest, not even excepting the oil boom towns.

—o—

We think with three good strong representatives from Lubbock before the postal department of the United States at Washington, that Lubbock's chances for a new postoffice building should be much better, and we are sure the three men who went along to do the work will be on the job and will get good results from their efforts.

—o—

We think with the Hubber aggregation of ball players, members of the league, and with the Tech college team and the City league teams and the high school teams, Lubbock will have a pretty good representation of ball players this summer and there should be no scarcity of entertainment and sport for this summer.

OPINIONS

BOYS

Boys don't go wrong in the home, nor in the school, nor in the church. It is the unemployed idle hours that catch them unawares, lead them astray, and eventually lead them into the toils of the law. A poll of the state penal institutions will show that it is seldm that an inmate of one of them went to the bad after reaching majority. He was well started on the downward path before he became old enough to vote. In fact, the great majority of our dangerous criminals in the United States are under 22 years of age.

Parents may say, "Oh, well, my boy will never go to prison, nor be in court to answer penal charges, or end up in the electric chair." How do you know?

It is somebody's boy that is doing that very thing right now. Just what is your boy doing in his spare time? Do you know? In your anxiety to make a living for him and the rest of the family, and it apparently takes most of the average man's time to do that very thing, there is not much time taken to give that growing boy the attention that he needs during teen years when he needs it most.

And therein lies the value of Scout work. Could you look into the future and know definitely that your boy was going to the eternal bowwows, then you would unhesitatingly plank down the dollars necessary to put the plan over.

Boy insurance is the preventative means of arousing the community to the realization that ten per cent of its population are boys craving fun, romance, and adventure—who need the companionship of busy "dad" and every real "he-man" in Tulia, so that they may develop of themselves the highest type of "Men of character trained for citizenship."

The heaviest investment you can make in Scouting will be well repaid in a clear-eyed staunch band of virile men who will fill your place and mine tomorrow.—Tulia Herald.

SAN ANTONIO'S $2,000,000 AUDITORIUM PAYS

San Antonio's $2,000,000 municipal auditorium which many thought might prove a municipal white elephant when it was built, will soon be self-supporting and may even become a source of income to the city.

Since the building wa scompleted and furnished the city has appropriated $15,000 annually for maintenance. The earnings of the auditorium, however, have been placed in a separate fund and this fund now totals $12,000. As soon as it gets a little bigger officials believe that the auditorium will pay its own way.

The auditorium compares to most theatres as Soldier's Field in Chicago, or any of the other immerse stadia compares to the football field of ten years ago. Authorities have found, however, that they can fill the 6,500 seats in the auditorium frequently by bringing the best entertainments available to the auditorium stage. Ziefield's Follies played here last year to a packed house, the largest audience that show has ever played to. Recently the Chicago Civic Opera Co. sang three operas in the auditorium in two days and filled the house for each performance.

The city charges $350 per night for auditorium as a minimum rental and on big affairs takes a percentage, so that its earnings, often run much higher than the guarantee. Scarcely a week passes but what the auditorium is used for entertainment of some nature and frequently three or four shows are given in it in a week.—Gainesville Register.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN,
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

New York State has had for some time a commission on ventilation which has been carrying on a series of studies in schools.

During 1927, six schools in the city of Syracuse were investigated. Records were kept of changes in temperature and humidity. Moreover, careful notes were made of the number of pupils in each room, the number present and the incidence of respiratory infections, particularly coughs and colds in those both present and absent.

Attempts also were made to measure air motion, the change of air dust and the amount of carbon dioxide in the air at various times.

Finally, careful comparisons were made between the conditions in the rooms with natural ventilation by means of opening and closing windows and rooms with mechanical ventilation through the use of machines. While the results are not absolutely conclusive, the evidence indicates that there were fewer colds and coughs in rooms with natural ventilation than in those with mechanical ventilation.

Furthermore, the results confirm observations made by the commission after studies made in New York City schools from 1913 to 1917, to the effect that high air flow produced by forced ventilation, particularly when combined with high room temperatures, tends to be associated with an excessive incidence of coughs and colds among school children.

Actually the incidence of such conditions even in schools heated by old-time furnaces was much lower than in schools ventilated with the modern forced fan ventilation.

Our Sunday Morning Sermon

By REV. R. F. DUNN

CHRISTIAN MISSIONS A DIVINE ENTERPRISE

Matthew 28:19-20

"Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo—I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

These words of Jesus are known as "the great commission," because they contain the command of the Son of God to His disciples to evangelize the world. This is the program of our Lord for His church, and it is imperative. There is no place here for debate or doubt. The Divine Command is "Go make disciples of all nations;" it is a question of obedience or of disobedience.

Whatever originates with man, it is subject to man's approval or rejection. But that which originated with God must be accepted because His authority is supreme, and from it there is no appeal. If I say that I do not believe in foreign missions, I put myself in direct opposition to the command of Christ. My attitude toward Him then is one of rebellion and disobedience. This is not only to disobey the command of Christ, but it is rank unbelief: because I assume I know more about what is right and best than the Lord himself.

The supreme motive for Christian missions is obedience to His command.

Nothing must be allowed to outrank the Divine command and authority.

There are many motives for the work of Christian missions. That appeal to our sympathy and benevolence; but they must be subordinate to the one supreme motive of obedience to our Divine Lord and Master. If His word and authority are recognized as supreme, there remains no ground for doubt or question, as to whether the need is greater at home than in the foreign field.

It is not in the power of man to know all about what is best and where the greatest need exists.

When the question of expediency and compartive need becomes supreme, there is always room for difference of opinion, and the doubts and prejudices of men enter into the councils of the church so that the supreme authority of Christ is set at naught, by exalting the judgment and wisdom of men above the wisdom and authority of God.

This is a fundamental error, and is responsible for much of the indifference and opposition to missions to be found in our churches today. This error has some serious implications. It expresses contempt for the authority of Christ, who said to His disciples, "All power (authority) is given unto me, in heaven and in earth. Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all nations."

If we have accepted Him as the Captain of our salvation—the Commander in Chief of the army of God, then His command cannot be set aside without contempt for His authority and rebellion against His order.

What must be the nature of such an offense against Him who is "King of Kings and Lord of Lords?" If a private soldier or a subordinate officer in any military organization were to show such contempt for the authority over him, He would be made to suffer a severe punishment. To tolerate such insubordination would destroy the morale and the efficiency of the army itself. And this is what, to a large extent, has occurred in the ranks of the army of our Lord Jesus Christ. From the private member to the highest officer in the church, this contempt has too often been manifest. Divine authority has been relegated to a subordinate place, and expediency and human wisdom has been exalted in the conscience of individuals and in the official administration of our missionary activities and enterprises.

There is no end to the oppositions and difficulties that will arise in the churches, to this Divine enterprise—when the supreme authority of Christ is set aside and human judgment or expediency is the controlling motive or principle to govern us in our conscience, and determine our actions.

Let us here examine some of the difficulties that hinder the cause of missions in most all the churches. First: there is usually some local need that appeals to the individual members more than the work in the foreign field. It is perfectly natural for men to be influenced by condi-

City Zoning—And What It Means

By DR. W. A. JACKSON
Head Of The Department of Government at Texas Tech

The constitutionality of a zoning ordinance of Cliffside Park, New Jersey, was attacked in the supreme court of that state through a certiorari proceeding. It was alleged that the ordinance was illegal on the following grounds:

1. That the objects of the ordinance were not those which could be attained through the exercise of police powers.

2. That if the objects of the ordinance came within the purview of the legislative power, they could be accomplished only through the exercise of the power of eminent domain.

3. That if the ordinance was based upon the power of eminent domain, it was defective in that it did not provide compensation to the property taken.

4. That the ordinance attempted to take private property for private use, and

5. That the ordinance took private property without due process of law.

The court upheld the legality of both the ordinance, and the legislative act under which the ordinance was enacted, at every point, and the writ of certiorari was dismissed.

In an advisory opinion, the Supreme Court of Massachusetts upheld in the broadest terms the validity of zone building regulations in 1920. The act in question involved the right to exclude business or business and tenements, from residential districts. Other phrases of zoning are already supported by the weight of judicial opinion, but in this phase the courts have been somewhat divided, being for the most part against its legality. The advocates of zoning believe that the power of excluding business from residential districts is essential, and that barring tenements in certain cases most desirable.

Therefore, this Massachusetts decision is considered as indicating that the courts will more generally take this point of view.

Probably the most extreme cases of zoning which have been passed on by the courts are those which have been retroactive in character.

A zoning ordinance was passed in Los Angeles in 1909. It provided that certain specified businesses were excluded from the residential district, and businesses not especially excluded were allowed in the residention district. Under this ordinance, the city undertook to remove one hundred and ten Chinese and Japanese laundries from the residential district. One of their number appealed to the state supreme court, and the court upheld the ordinance saying that prohibiting the maintenance of public laundries and workhouses in the residence district could not be said to be unreasonable and invalid in the absence of facts showing unjust discrimination, though large parts of the district might be sparsely settled; and the court further added that the question of whether restrictions upon the operation of a business in certain portions of a city are reasonably necessary for the protection of the public health, safety and welfare was one to be determined by the city council.

Another case arising out of the Los Angeles zoning ordinance is of special interest inasmuch as it was finally passed upon by the supreme court of the United States. In this case, the city sought to oust a brickyard which had long been established, but around which had grown up a residential district. The California supreme court upheld the ordinance, declaring that a business which, when established, is entirely unobjectionable, may by the growth of population in the vicinity, become a source of danger to the health and comfort of those who have come to be occupants of the surrounding territory. The mere fact that one has been carrying on the business in a particular locality for a long time gives him no ground of complaint if the legislature prohibits its further conduct, purpose within the purview of the police power. When this case came before the United States supreme court, Justice McKenna delivering the opinion of the court, upheld the California supreme court on every point. Among his numerous comments on the case, the following is of special interest:

"A vested interest, he said, cannot be asserted against it (the community) because of conditions once obtaining. To so hold would preclude development and fix a city forever in its primitive conditions.

SUCCESS
By WILL D. MUSE

Success doesn't mean what you hoard and save,
As you toil from day to day;
Success doesn't mean all the wealth you crave,
Nor the gold you can lay away.
Success doesn't mean long years of fame,
Or the laurels that fame may wear,
It means just playing life's old, old game,
And playing the old game square!

Success doesn't mean that your heart must grow
Shriveled and hard and cold,
Success doesn't mean that your fingers must pinch
In their miserly greed for gold.

Success doesn't mean that your ears grow deaf
To the cries of distress you hear;
It means a heart that can always ache
With the hearts we hold most dear.

Success doesn't mean that you must not give
A smile for each smile you take,
Success doesn't mean that you must not live
Sometimes, for a brother's sake,
Success doesn't mean broad marbled halls,
With wine and music gay,
It's fire-light falling on the dear home wall,
And peace!—At the close of day.

Trail-Blazing Is Task Of Chevrolet

Journey of 10,000 Miles To Be Made from Cape Town to Cairo and Then to London in Chevrolets

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, Mich., March 31. — There is a motoring tour now under way which, it is safe to predict, will outdo in thrills and drama any of the experiences of some 40,000,000 Americans who will take to the highways this season.

It is a tour through jungle trails, over desert wastes, across rivers unbridged except by makeshift pontoons, through mud and swamps and infested marshes. Four men are attempting the journey, a trail-blazing route, 10,000 miles long, from Cape Town, in the southernmost part of Africa, to Cairo and thence on a swing through Europe to London.

Over Uncharted Lands

A good share of the trip is over uncharted lands never before traversed by a stock car, amid jungle life, where a tropical sun burns down by day, and where the wilderness echoes with the threat of savage life at night.

The transportation selected by the adventurers consists of a stock Chevrolet sedan trailed by a Chevrolet truck on which is carried the equipment necessary to hew a path through wilderness tangles. Included in the equipment is a complete wireless outfit, with which the men will maintain contact with the outside world, and a medical chest containing anti-venom serum and surgical and first aid supplies. Each member has been innoculated against jungle fever.

Started By Radio

The run was officially started by radio from New York City by J. D. Mooney, president of General Motors Export, who expects to sail from New York in time to greet the travelers in Europe. The first leg of the run, Cape Town to Cairo, is scheduled for completion in 40 days.

Heading the party is the famous African adventurer, Captain Lacey Others are a wireless operator a newspaper man, and a motion picture photographer.

Satisfaction Of Owners Important

Must Accept Full Responsibility to Owners for Car Declares Young, Hupmobile President

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, Mich., March 31. — While the 1928 cars continue to disclose important advancements in automobile design and construction, the importance of the local dealer as a factor in owner-satisfaction is becoming more and more evident, says DuBois Young, Hupmobile president and general manager.

"Public acceptance of a particular make motor car is resting more and more on its acceptance of that car's local dealer," he declares. "The car owner is tired of dodging the innumerable army of trade factors, all of them trying to sell him something. Car operation and maintenance are being increasingly recognized as jobs for the man who sold the car. His obligation to the owner is to provide necessary service at minimum cost.

Service Is Paramount

"The public has definitely reached the conclusion that every car built must have service from time to time, and that that service will, in the long run, more than pay its cost in owner-satisfaction through which the car was bought is the logical place for that service, and the dealer who sold it must assume his entire share of responsibility to the owner.

Front Drive Seen On American Cars

Practical Reason Claimed That Lower Body May Be Used; Experiments Now Are Under Way

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

While engineers in Europe and America have been building racing automobiles with the front-wheel drive, to test this new kind of transmission, manufacturers have been contemplating its adoption for quite a different reason.

The practical reason is the use of a much lower body than is planted on our chassis today.

The first manufacturer to try this stunt is the Alvis company of England. Yet it has been suggested often by body designers in this country.

The new front-wheel drive Alvis is almost a foot lower than the former car, although the height of the body compartment itself is the same. Besides, the body can be made integral with the chassis while a simpler springing problem for the rear promises more comfortable riding.

Tests have revealed the front-wheel drive quite practicable if not advantageous. The differential is set over the front axle, which is operated like the present rear axle in driving the front wheels. This, it is contended, not only does away with a long, whipping propellor shaft, but eliminates wobbling of the front wheels, even with the tires deliberately under-inflated.

The differential clutch, gear case and engines are pratically one unit, the clutch and gear transmission set between the engine and differential in front.

Another mechanical advantage of this type of drive is the gain of power by the elimination of the long propeller shaft.

But it is the body of the car itself that offers the greatest practical advantage. With the elimination of the propeller shaft and the rear housing, the body can be dropped almost a foot, so that it can be entered on a level from the sidewalk without the use of a running board. The rear wheels are suspended separately, without using a rear axle, or that axle could be bent channel-shape under the rear of the body.

The only limiting factor in the overall height of the car, using this type of drive, would be that of road clearance. But with the improvement of our roads, this could be lowered to less than a foot.

The car would ride much more easily, because of its lower center of gravity, and its stability at high speeds would not be enhanced.

What makes body designers feel so elated over the front-wheel drive especially, is the fact that at last the body can be designed first, and the chassis made to suit it. Thus the ultimate in beauty, comfort and convenience can be attained without the handicap of designing these to fit the demands of the existing type of chassis.

City Zoning

There must be progress, and if in its march, private interests are in the way, they must yield to the good of the community."

The city of Little Rock, Arkansas passed an ordinance prohibiting the conducting of a livery stable within a certain area in the city. A livery stable had been located for many years within the area prohibited by the ordinance, and the owners sought to enjoin the city from enforcing the ordinance. They were unsuccessful in the supreme court of Arkansas, and appealed to the United States supreme court, and the court held that the ordinance was well within the police power of the state as long as it was not clearly unreasonable or arbitrary and operated uniformly upon all persons similarly situated in the particular districts. Justice Pitney, delivering the opinion of the court, said:

"Granting that it (livery stable) is not a nuisance per se, it is clearly within the police power of the state to regulate the business and to that end to declare that in particular localities a livery stable shall be deemed a nuisance in fact and in law, provided this power is not exerted arbitrarily or with unjust discrimination, so as to infringe upon the rights guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment."

In both of these cases the supreme court held that the business in question was one which could be regulated, and that regulation was not precluded by the fact that the value of investments made in the business prior to any legislative action would be greatly diminished.

The courts have upheld ordinances:

1. Providing limitations on the heights of buildings.
2. Establishing building lines.
3. Excluding factories and heavier trades from residence districts.
4. Excluding certain trades and industries from business districts.
5. Excluding business from residence districts.
6. Excluding apartments from private house districts.
7. Rejection existing trades or business from certain areas.
8. Excluding particular classes of buildings within prescribed areas.

These decisions of the courts leave but little doubt as to the validity of legislation authorizing it. It may be stated as a fact that the courts have accepted the principle of zoning and will in the future question only the application of that principle to particular conditions.

A number of judicial decisions of recent years have generally been regarded as unfavorable to zoning. A study of these decisions, however, shows that almost without exception certain clauses of specific ordinances have been upheld to be reasonable, or to have been passed without proper state enabling acts. But the well drawn ordinances, in which the police power of the state has been exercised with reason and moderation, have invariably been upheld.

Cities must learn the police power cannot be unreasonably exercised, even if there is some belief that the comunity will benefit thereby.

Texas now has an enabling act that is generally regarded as sufficient to enable municipal corporations to pass zoning ordinances that will be upheld by the courts. Former decisions, before the passage of this act, were unfavorable. It will be interesting to note the activities of farsighted cities in the light of new legislation.

Chrysler Dealers Hold Open House

Company Celebrates Its New Rank In Industry By Inviting The Public To View Their Cars

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, Mich., March 31.—An institution of automobile enthusiasts will be focused during the coming week on the showrooms of The Joe Hilton company, where Chrysler display week will be celebrated locally in conjunction with its observance of Chrysler distributors throughout the country.

The week has been designated by the Chrysler corporation as a means of manifesting through the medium of its dealer organization its appreciation of the public recognition which has given this company an unprecedented record of progress and has advanced it within four years to the rank of third largest motor car manufacturer in the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce ratings, according to sales volume.

Wide Range of Types

In line with this desire of the Chrysler corporation the local representatives are extending personally and through the press a general invitation to the public of this vicinity to visit their showrooms and inspect typical examples of the 40 and more varieties of body types in the Chrysler line. Chrysler production is said to include the widest range of buyer choice offered by any single automobile producer. It covers every price field from as low as $670 in the "52" model, to the highest type of luxury class automobile, as exemplified in the Imperial "80" group.

The exhibit, it is explained, has been selected and assembled to display the various features which revolutionized the automobile industry with the appearance of the original Chrysler four years ago, and which have since contributed strongly to creating the demand for these cars.

Continue For Week

The exhibit will be continued throughout the coming week. The invitations being extended to the public include not only a request to visit the showrooms and have the various features of the cars explained by attendants, but also to see them in actual road operation. It is expressly stated that no obligation will attach to acceptances of the invitations either to visit the showrooms or to enjoy a demonstration drive.

How's She Hittin'?

Limits On Car Gears

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Working with the clutch, in the process of making the engine move the automobile, is the transmission.

This consists of an arrangement of gears by which a car may pick up speed in gradual steps, or back up when desired.

Knowledge of how these gears work may help toward elimination of the scraping noises we hear when poor operation causes them to clash. In fact, it may avoid the possibility of stripping some of the teeth from the gears and so making the entire transmission worthless.

The gears are so arranged in the transmission that, when the lever is in neutral position, they do not mesh. All that is happening while the engine is running and the clutch is engaged, is the revolution of the main driving gear on the engine shaft and the countershaft gears with which contact is made to those on the propeller or drive shaft.

Since the operating gears are not meshed, the clutch may be engaged. But when the lever is to be thrown into first, to mesh the large sliding gear on the propeller shaft with the smaller one on the running countershaft, the clutch must first be disengaged completely—the foot pedal must be clear down to the floorboard—or there will be a scraping of gears, a straining and possibly stalling of the engine. That, too, is how gears are stripped of their teeth and rendered useless.

This is what happens when the lever is shifted:

The engine has been running at a normal speed, while the lever is in neutral and the car is standing still. While this is going on, however, the engine is driving the gears on the countershaft at the same speed it is going.

When the clutch is disengaged, the engine is separated from the countershaft gears and leaves these to revolve on the momentum it has given them. While they are revolving, at a comparatively low speed, the low gears can be meshed with the sliding gear on the propeller shaft; the clutch may then be let in slowly and the car started.

Having picked up enough momentum, the clutch is disengaged again—separating the engine from the transmission—the sliding gear is moved to the next faster countershaft gear, the clutch is let in again, and off goes the car at a higher speed.

At the highest speed, third, the engine is connected directly with the propeller shaft, by the same clutch and lever action. For this reason, the engine may be slowed up or speeded up in direct proportion with the road speed desired.

But if the car is slowed down too far, there will come a point in the contact where the pull of the car will be too much for the engine and the motor will stall. To prevent this, the transmission must be shifted back into neutral position, and then into the next lower gear.

In lower gear, the gear wheel directly connected to the engine is smaller than the one connected to the propeller shaft, thus accommodating the higher speed of the engine to the lower speed of the car. At higher speed, the engine is able to exert a proportionately greater pull on the car through the low gears and thus either start the car again or keep it pulling up a steep hill or in slow traffic.

Dodge Introduces The Standard Six

Discontinuance of the Four Cylinder Passenger Cars Announced; Four Body Lines in New Line of Cars

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, Mich., March 31—After over two years of intensive development work, Dodge Brothers, Inc., today officially announces the Standard Six line of passenger cars superior in speed and acceleration to any cars selling at $1000 or less. In these new cars, it is claimed, exceptional riding comfort, economical performance and ability to travel at sustained high speeds have been combined with the sturdiness and dependability for which Dodge Brothers motor cars have always been so well known.

The new cars are displayed in the salesroom of Royalty Motor company, local Dodge Brothers dealer at 1018 13th street. The factory is now building the Standard Six in four body types, the coupe, sedan, deluxe sedan and cabriolet, finished in a number of different attractive color combinations. Production of the new sixes is now 1,000 per day and Dodge Brothers schedules call for total output of all types exceeding 1650 per day, the largest production schedule in Dodge Brothers history.

Has Graceful Lines

The sweeping graceful lines of the Standard Six give the impression of cars selling at much higher prices. Although the overall height is low adequate headroom is provided. High seat backs and wide cushions, both tilted at the correct angle, insure the comfort of the passengers.

With the introduction of the Standard Six, Dodge Brothers, Inc., announces the discontinuance of the four cylinder passenger cars which were priced at approximately the same level at which the Standard Six is now offered.

The three distinct lines of Sixes now being made by Dodge Brothers include the Standard Six, the Victory Six and the Senior, at a price range from $875 to $1,770 and embracing all the popular body types and an unusually extensive selection of color combinations.

Sunday Sermon

tions near at hand more than conditions beyond the great ocean. Local needs appeal to our self interest and being personally interested in the local situation, we yield to its appeal, because of an unconscious bias. Many otherwise intelligent and active members of local churches have no real conviction of their obligation to evangelize the world and some of the more outspoken in their opposition to foreign missions because they do not regard the command of Christ as supreme authority, and allow local church enterprises to overshadow all the claims of a pagan world with a thousand million of unevangelized people waiting for the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Jesus told his disciples that they should receive power after the Holy Ghost is come upon them, and that they should be witnesses unto Him in Jerusalem and all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto all the uttermost part of the earth. Here again our Lord sets His Divine program for His church, and leaves no doubt about the world wide extent.

Yet, in the face of our Lord's express command to make disciples of all nations and His declaration that we shall be His witnesses unto the uttermost part of the earth, we still have been slow to accept our obligation to publish the glad tiding to all nations.

Even the disciples at Jerusalem did not go out to the regions beyond, until the persecution that arose about Stephen and then they that were scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria began their work of witnessing for Christ. A great revival under the preaching of Phillip began at Samaria. Gentiles traveled as far as Phenice, Cyprus and Antioch, but they preached to none but the Jews only." It was difficult for these early disciples to realize that the Gentiles were included in the covenanted mercies of God.

It seemed necessary that a great persecution should be let loose upon the church at Jerusalem before they would obey the command to make disciples of all nations, and then Peter must be thrust out by a thrice repeated vision and the audible voice of the Holy Spirit commanding him to go to a Gentile centurion with the gospel of salvation before he could see that God is "no respecter of persons," and that all nations are included in His command to disciple the nations.

Again, as already seen, if we allow the supreme authority of Christ to be set aside, or have a subordinate place, many conflicting motives will come up in opposition to the program of Christ to evangelize the world.

Some men contend that "missions do not pay." They say the results do not justify the outlay of expense. With them, everything must be subjected to a commercial basis and be measured by a money standard. Such cold blooded materialistic men are incapable of seeing the value of an immortal soul, and oppose their materialistic judgment against the wisdom and authority of God. But these same cold blooded materialistic men may be found in some, if not all, of our mission boards and executive committees of all churches, doing missionary work. Men are often put into responsible and influential positions in our church affairs because they have money and influence with men.

It does not relieve the difficulty to say that such men ought not to be put into these responsible positions. They will be there nevertheless, and it may not be their fault they are there. The difficulties they may oppose to the work of missions must be reckoned with all the same. If Christ is not recognized as the head of the church and His authority must give place to the judgment and wisdom of men, the work He gave His church to do can never be successfully accomplished until such church or churches shall have been removed from their place of responsibility and a more worthy and loyal body of Christians be raised up that will obey the head of the church and submit to His command to make disciples of all nations.

We are not disparaging what has been done; for more has been accomplished in the last 150 years than was done for 1,000 years before. But we must not forget in that thousand years the word of God was not given to the people of Europe in their own tongue. For the greater part of that period the Bible was in the hands of the priesthood and was denied to the laity in their own language.

Those who dared to translate the Bible into the language of the people were subject to severe persecution, even unto imprisonment and death. It was but natural that genuine religion and missionary zeal would decline under the rule of a corrupt priesthood, dominating church and state.

When the Scriptures came unto the people, in their own language their own spiritual condition was such as to engage the resources and time of most every real Christian to revive the church from her spiritual destitution, and re-establish genuine Christianity.

We have inherited the fruits of their sacrifices, and built upon the foundations laid by men and women who were willing to endure privations, persecution, and many hardships to make it possible for us to accomplish what has been done.

When the pioneers of modern missions faced the opposition of their own brethren, that grew out of the failure to accept the program that Christ gave to His church, to make disciples of all nations, it required courage and faith to maintain their conviction that they must obey the command of Christ. When William Cary presented the claims of heathen worlds to his church, the elders of his church rebuked him and bade him sit down, telling him that when "God got ready to save the heathen He would do it without him." But young Cary would not sit down, and from his cobblers bench he rose above the ignorance and prejudice of his people, to be one of the greatest heroes and pioneers of modern missions.

When Bishop Coke felt the burden of hundreds of millions of pagan people of India, he urged his church to send missionaries to India. But the church was struggling with the task of evangelizing America, and could not respond to his appeals. He then laid his fortune, which he inherited on the altar, and gave himself to be the first missionary to India, sent by his own church.

Will we obey our marching orders?

Use of Electric Service Grows Greater All the Time

The people of Lubbock are using more electrical service every year. That means that this company must provide more electric service. To do this the company must get and invest more money in its facilities for producing and distributing electricity.

This money can be had on one simple condition. It must be assured of a fair return regularly paid. It is just like the rest of the payroll. Payday must find the means for compensating it.

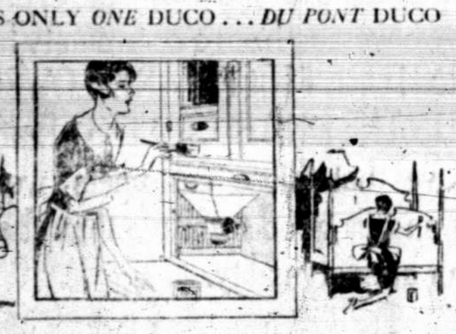

That is all that the invested capital of an electric power and light concern can hope for—just a fair regular return. More than that would be contrary to the spirit of public service. Less would cripple the service and make growth of the community difficult, slow, or impossible.

In a word this is the whole theory of a publicutility service. Such a service is primarily for the benefit of the people and the community. Their interest in it is very great.

The co-operation of the people of Lubbock is necessary to good electric service. This company wants that co-operation. We want the people to become familiar with this service and to further their own welfare by becoming interested in the necessary service we are charged with supplying to them.

Where Else Could You SAFELY Buy Furniture At Such Low Prices?

It is one thing to quote low prices, and quite another thing to quote low prices and put the quality into the merchandise priced so low that the merchant knows that HE IS SELLING IT FOR LESS THAN HE COULD REPLACE IT IN THE FURNITURE MARKET TODAY. Yet that is just what we are doing when we quote this merchandise at ONE-HALF its former value—prices that are lower than MANUFACTURER'S COSTS.

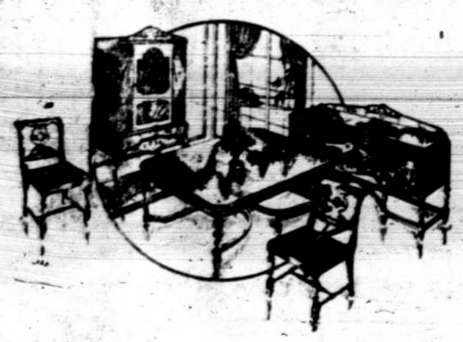

And yet you take no chances of buying inferior quality for we have too much invested—we must serve those in this territory too long, if we are to succeed and deserve renewed patronage, to LOWER THE STANDARD OF QUALITY THAT HAS MADE THE NAME "Amarillo Furniture Company" one synonomous with furniture of excellent construction at low prices.

Only a change of policy in our entire organization makes possible this opportunity to SAVE AS MUCH AS YOU SPEND and the quality and variety to which you have have been accustomed to see here, remain to make it the greatest value-giving event in years.

--if you contemplate building a home in 60 or 90 days

If you are contemplating the construction of a home any time within the next 60 or 90 days you can well afford to consider seriously the purchase of the furniture for it, store it in a bonded warehouse here in Lubbock, pay the storage charges on it AND SAVE ON IT BECAUSE OF THE IMMENSE REDUCTIONS THAT PREVAIL DURING THIS SENSATIONAL SALE. Storage charges are so reasonable that in comparison to what you pay ordinarily for furniture of this character and what you pay by buying this furniture for ONE-HALF, that the money you save in addition to the advantage of furnishing your NEW home with beautiful NEW furniture is something to think about seriously in the interests of economy.

Great 1/2 off Sale!

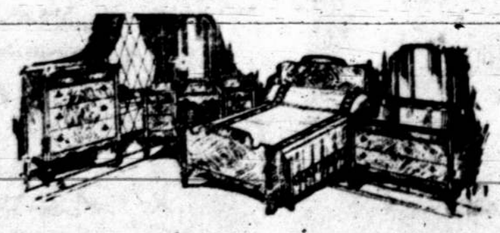

It is a sale without precedent in the values it offers to the thrifty—a sale that is making furniture history because of the money it is making for those who are taking advantage of it. We overheard in our store two women from a community far from Lubbock make the remark that "FURNITURE PRICES ARE LOWER IN THIS STORE THAN ANY PLACE ELSE IN THE UNITED STATES." That's taking in a lot of territory, but we fully believe that those customers were speaking the truth, for prices are lower now on this good furniture than they were years ago on furniture of very ordinary or inferior quality.

New shipments have arrived to augment our stocks and we are ready to show you the most complete stock of furniture on the Plains, and we repeat—PRICED LOWER THAN YOU EVER EXPECTED TO PAY. Just pay us ONE-HALF the amount you find on the original price tag, and no matter what it is you buy, YOU'RE BUYING IT AT A BARGAIN.
