DEATH CAR CHAUFFEUR PLACED UNDER BOND

Press of State Joins In Unanimous Attack On Ferguson Charges

His Suggested Repudiation of Road Bonds Draws Concerted Fire From Daily Editorials

Aside from mere speaking, banqueting and other things incidental to politics, with all of which Wichita Falls was replete during the week, two events transpired which will take their place as of paramount importance in this year's political campaign. A week ago the past six days was heralded in the news columns as promising all in the way of side-shows and main attractions that a political campaign in this state usually affords.

Chronologically, last Monday the state democratic executive committee met and adjourned; Monday night Dan Moody, aspiring attorney general, spoke in behalf of his candidacy for governor; Tuesday night, Governor Ferguson and her husband James E. Ferguson, spoke in behalf of her candidacy for re-election; Wednesday, a Ferguson personal attack and implied repudiation of state road district bonds was answered by J. A. Kemp; Thursday, county democratic chairman, H. J. Bruce, in a statement went on record as opposing the action of the state executive committee Monday and making probable a split with that group when the county committee meets this week; Friday, Lynch Davidson of Houston, spoke in behalf of his candidacy to succeed Mrs. Ferguson.

Three Unchanged.

Of the campaign addresses three may be passed by as having their precedent in other addresses in other portions of the state, and being withal, familiar matter to readers of newspapers and followers of the campaign. With the exception of some small comment as regards the action of the state executive committee in endorsing Ferguson that he "did not care what a handful of Ferguson's friends did," Dan Moody did not break away from the beaten path that he had set for himself in other speeches in other cities. More than 5,000 heard him, the space around the pavilion at Bellevue park being crowded almost to limit. He obtained considerable applause and there was quite evident a thorough liking for his personality and the fight that he is waging to obtain the democratic nomination for governor. His quips at the expense of what he termed "Fergusonism" were apparently very popular with his crowd.

Similarly, Mrs. Ferguson's speech before a crowd that dwindled from 5,000 to 1,500 or 2,000 before a driving rain, contained nothing new. It was a set for, read from typewritten sheets, and contained in the main a reiteration of former statements that she was and is the governor and not her husband.

Lynch Davidson's speech Friday night differed little from similar speeches made elsewhere in the state up until that time.

But, not so with either the meeting of the state executive committee Monday or the speech of James E. Ferguson, Tuesday night.

Political writers of the state had heralded a fight once the state democratic executive committee convened. Two years ago following the Ferguson victory in the primary elections it had been "packed" to use the word of one with Ferguson adherents and Ferguson supporters. At its meeting last year the Ferguson administration was given a blanket endorsement by the same membership.

Since last year, however, opposition to the Fergusons has largely crystallized, and the view was generally held that the committee which two years ago would have endorsed the governor and her husband might easily change in sentiment, and that a Ferguson majority in the committee room was by no means assured.

This was at best, however, conceded as a possibility. There was no real surprise when the committee stood pat last Monday and said of the Fergusons that their administration had been "faithful, economical and efficient." The resolution, however, coming just prior to a campaign evoked considerable opposition from the "anti" camp members of which argued that it was without the province of the committee to endorse any candidate. They argued that such endorsement could only be taken as an attempt too influence voters, termed an "improper procedure." A resolution commending the governor's fight for a second term as being in line with democratic principles and precedent met with similar opposition.

A Fight Again.

That portion of the committee's resolution which to all intents and purposes is aimed at those "democrats" who in the 1924 general elections bolted the party ticket and voted for George C. Butte for governor in opposition to Mrs. Ferguson, was passed only with a similar fight—a vote of 18 to 6, representing what was termed on the floor of the committee meeting a "steam roller," with C. C. McDonald and B. Y. Cummings at the throttle and James E. Ferguson on the front seat."

Editorial comment in the leading Texas papers is almost unanimous in its discussion of the happenings at the committee meeting in a belief that the reaction to the Ferguson indorsement will be more hurtful than helpful to the Ferguson cause, even though its proponents certainly did not intend that it should be. The meeting is variously described as a "farce," a "travesty," and "an ample indication of the evils of allowing a candidate to pack a committee following election."

Rapped by Dailies.

Of Mr. Ferguson's speech Tuesday night similar remarks are made. There is almost universal condemnation from the leading daily papers of the state for his attitude toward

MORE POLITICO ROWS MONDAY

County Demo Committee To Meet at The Court House

Interpretation of rulings of the state democratic executive committee at its meeting here last Monday; arrangement of names of candidates on the ballot and attending to other details will be taken up Monday morning when the county democratic executive committee convenes here. The meeting will be held at 10 o'clock in one of the rooms of the court house and will be under the direction of H. J. Bruce, county democratic chairman.

If the local committee follows out to the letter the "suggestions" of the state committee with reference to Butte bolters two years ago and with reference to the endorsement of the candidacy of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, it will go on record as lending its own support to the Ferguson administration. Further, it will take steps to adopt some sort of retributive measures against those democrats who bolted the party ticket in 1924 and supported George Butte, the republican candidate for governor against Governor Ferguson.

But there is little liklihood, it was considered here the past week, that the county committee will comport itself as did the state committee which jumped at the crack of the Ferguson whip. Mr. Bruce, the chairman, openly asserted in a newspaper interview last week that he would undertake no steps against the Butte bolters.

'Heigho, Charlie's Gonna Can Derby For Silk Breeches

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin announced here today that he was preparing a film story in which he would abandon his inflated pants for tight white breeches and silk stockings, shave his trick film mustache and trade his under sized derby for the flat-faced hat of the French empire to portray the part of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The comedian's plunge into screen drama will be made in company with Raquel Meler, Spanish singer, whom it was announced two days ago he had signed for a picture. She will appear opposite him as Josephine, the wife whom the great Napoleon divorced.

Relief for Farmer Now Seems Remote

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP) The McNary farm bill was caught today in the swirl of pre-adjournment legislation with a date for a final senate vote more indefinite than ever.

Defeated time and a gain in his effort to fix a day for a roll call, Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, manager of the bill, made another attempt today but failed again when Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, objected.

This brought Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, to his feet. Pointing a finger at the Ohio senator, he accused him of attempting to kill off the rivers and harbors bill by conducting a filibuster against the farm measure with the aid of a small group of senators.

CATHOLICS OFFER MILLION COMMUNIONS

THOUSANDS TO SAY PRAYERS FOR PIUS XI

Twelve Cardinals and Many Of Lesser Rank Participate

HORDES CONFESS

Night and Day Watches Prepare Worshippers For Eucharist

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—With the tendre to Pope Pius XI of a "spiritual bouquet" of one million communions as an aim of the inaugural ceremonies, the twenty-eighth international eucharistic congress will be formally opened tomorrow by the celebration of more than 2,000 masses in 367 churches of the Catholic arch diocese of Chicago.

Pilgrims from all the world will join twelve cardinals, 400 bishops, upwards of 3,000 priests and 1,000 nuns in worship and adoration of the holy eucharist.

The ceremonies will continue through Thursday.

Many of the visiting priests have been in the confessional almost continuously for two days, preparing the devout pilgrims for the reception of the eucharist. At the Cathedral of the holy name, fifty priests grouped in four shifts for night and day services, began hearing confessions in a dozen languages today. One shift will be in the cathedral confessional constantly until the congress ends.

High Mass Begins It

Beginning at 5 a. m., with solemn high mass in all parishes, the inaugural rites of worship and prayer will be almost continuous until after 8 o'clock at night when one of the visiting bishops will speak in holy hour services in each of the churches. In virtually all parishes, masses will be celebrated at half-hour intervals until noon.

As a symbol of the unity and continuity of the many widely spread ceremonies which will mark the five-day festival, the blessed sacrament will be exposed at the cathedral altar from tomorrow morning until the congress ends in the solemn eucharistic procession at Mundelein Thursday afternoon.

Night and day a guard of honor will kneel in the cathedral sanctuary in an unbroken offering of prayer.

Immediately preceding solemn pontifical high mass in the cathedral at 11 o'clock the formal installation of His Eminence John Cardinal Bonzano, the papal legate to the congress will mark the stately opening of the international religious celebration.

Read Papal Brief

After the celebration of the mass by the Right Rev. Thomas Louis Heylen, bishop of Namur, Belgium, and president of the permanent committee on eucharistic congresses, the papal brief will be read by the Very Rev. Monsignor Dennis J. Dunne of Chicago. Cardinal Mundelein's address of welcome to the legate, the response of Cardinal Bonzano, and the elevation of the sacrament in a huge golden sun-burst for perpetual adoration will conclude the Cathedral ceremonies.

Sectional meetings for the various national groups, which will be conducted in 22 languages, will begin at 3 o'clock. The day will be closed with solemn pontifical benediction in the holy hour services.

Pope Pius, in a message to the congress, today invited all American Catholics "to unite their spirits with ours" in prayers for a rich spiritual harvest in the ceremonies.

"We impart anew with our whole heart, to all our children the apolostic benediction," the message concluded.

The congress will present among the most cosmopolitan gatherings in the United States in many years. American Indians, Eskimos, native priests of the Punjab and citizens of the French Sudan will be among the pilgrims.

FIRST TEXAS BALE ON MARKET

Valley Cotton Reaches Houston for Annual Auction Monday

HOUSTON, June 19.—(AP)—The first bale of cotton to be harvested in the United States for the season 1926-27 reached Houston Saturday from Donna, Hidalgo county, Texas, in the tonneau of a large touring car, and was consigned to a Houston cotton factory.

The cotton was raised by E. B. Aycock on a farm in the outskirts of Donna. The new bale was gathered by a corps of pickers Friday and ginned and shipped by Tom Hester, president of the Donna Gin company, Donna. The gin gave the weight of the bale as 485 pounds.

The new bale arrived at the cotton exchange after the close of business but was placed on exhibition on the trading floor, awaiting official classification as to grade, staple and weight, which will be passed upon Monday by the exchange classification committee.

As is the usual custom, with the season's first yield, the cotton bale will be sold at auction to the highest bidder at the close of business on Monday.

B. C. Yerger and J. T. Heidland of Donna who brought the bale across country by automobile made the 375-mile trip to Houston in 10 1-2 hours.

Will Wage Campaign For 1927 Convention Of Organization

PROGRAMS READY

Two Busy Days to be Spent In Panhandle Metropolis

Wichita Falls business men, 150 or more, will leave the city at 11 o'clock Monday night bound for Amarillo where on the succeeding two days they will wager a campaign that will determine whether or not in 1927 this community is to see a spectacle such as it has never seen before.

They will go to the convention city of the West Texas chamber of commerce, intent on bringing back next year the annual meeting of the organization. If they succeed, and they will not admit the probability of defeat, it will mean an influx of visitors that will almost double the population here for a few days in June, 1927; that will make the city the undisputed focal point for all Texas eyes; give it a spectacle more colorful, more brilliant, more immense than it has ever before conceived. The annual conventions of the West Texas chamber of commerce are things apart; things unduplicated elsewhere. Wichita Falls knows it and intends to make the most of the opportunity to profit by it.

Profit by Meetings

Aside from their invasion of Amarillo for the avowed purpose of bringing back the 1927 sessions, the Wichitans will go to benefit by the programs and other attractions to be offered during their two-day stay in the Panhandle community. A program of rare value has been arranged by those in charge of the convention there, according to word reaching here; some novel stunts and equally novel entertainment features have been planned and the whole thing promises to be out of the ordinary entirely.

Final plans had practically been completed Saturday for the trip from this city. The special train that will carry the Wichitans has been arranged in all detail, and arrangements have also been made for the accommodation of the Wichitans in Amarillo.

Leaves at 11 p. m.

The special leaves the union station at 11 o'clock Monday night and is scheduled to arrive in Amarillo at 6:45 the following morning. Pullmans may be occupied here after 9:30 Monday night.

Drawings for berth reservations will be made at the chamber of commerce offices at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Registration and passing out of badges and other materials will also be attended to at this time. A baggage car to be attached to the train will carry a concessioner's stand where ice cream, tobacco, soft drinks, etc., may be purchased by the delegates. This is to be handled by the Bright Ice Cream company. Anyone wishing to take advertising matter to the convention can place it aboard the car as soon as it is spotted near the depot Monday morning. The car, also, is to be equipped with shower baths for the comfort and convenience of those aboard the train. Delegates must furnish their own towels. The chamber of commerce offices will be open for a time Sunday afternoon to answer questions concerning the trip and attend to any details that may come up.

Water Goes Over Lake Wichita Spillway To Block Archer City Road

Lake Wichita Saturday night was at one of the high points of its career so far as water volume was concerned, and a flood 18 inches deep pouring over the spillway at the eastern end was playing havoc with travel on the Archer City road.

Torrential rains of the past few days sent millions of gallons into the lake, the result being a rapid rise. The crest went over the spillway sometime Saturday and late in the afternoon a foot and a half of water was running rapidly over the Archer City road that traverses the spillway proper.

Many automobiles, seeking to go through, despite the high water, managed to reach only to the middle of the 300-foot stretch. Ignition systems were flooded and it thereupon became necessary to get out and push the machine to high and dry land. Traffic congestion at each end of the liquid stretch, caused by cautious motorists who drove up and stuck on the side of safety to watch the more venturesome, existed most of the evening.

Holliday creek was running rapidly but was in no danger of overflowing. It has a capacity for several times the volume of water now running down it, those in a position to know, assert.

These two with Ed Leahy, brother of H. J. Leahy, were charged with conspiracy to extort money by means of inducing Mrs. Ramsey to offer a reward for finding her husband. Milk and Ice Fund:

Already subscribed	$174.00
W. M. McGregor	$ 25.00
L. B. Moore, Bellevue	$ 2.00
Total	$201.00

Other contributions are coming in to swell the milk and ice fund which is being used to make more pleasant the lives of children and elderly people who during the hot weather of the summer would suffer without the milk and ice which is provided for them.

Saturday morning the secretary of the Municipal Welfare board, who is investigating the cases and handling the funds received a call to a home on the river front. A mother of four small children had called her to come in order that she might put her case before the secretary, because the mother could not easily make the trip to the secretary's office.

The father of the four children ran away and left the mother with them to care for. She works, does washings and other domestic work that brings in a small sum. She makes her home with her father who is past his three score years and 10, and his small earnings go towards helping the unfortunate little family. Their case is worthy, and yesterday, the children received their first drink of pure, wholesome milk made possible for them by The Record News milk and ice fund.

If anyone should know of a case where milk and ice are needed, they are asked to call Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline.

AUSTIN, June 19.—(AP)—Grady Puryear, 21, of Austin, was released on $3,000 bond here Saturday in connection withe the deaths of Miss Isabell Crozier, daughter of N. R. Crozier of Dallas, superintendent of the Dallas schools, and Miss Louise Speer, 22, of Mission, University of Texas students, who were killed in a triple automobile crash here late Friday night. Puryear faces two charges of negligent homicide.

The tragedy climaxed a series of automobile accidents in Austin in which three persons were killed, and fifteen were injured, and several automobiles destroyed. The city is aghast at the accidents.

Drastic action to prevent reckless driving is being planned by the authorities, it was indicated when Judge J. R. Hamilton of the criminal district court, ordered the Travis county grand jury to reconvene Monday to investigate the Friday night tragedy. Puryear's preliminary hearing was set before Justice of the Peace Frank R. Tannehill Monday morning.

Funeral arrangement, as tentatively announced scheduled the services of Miss Louise Speer here Sunday, with burial either here or in San Antonio. Miss Crozier is to be buried in Dallas Monday.

The four university students stood high in scholastic and social life at the institution and enjoyed popularity.

James, director of the Texas council of safety, and civic organizations were discussing the calling of a mass meeting in an effort to reduce the accidents in Austin which number 191 since January 1, with 90 being injured and five being killed.

En route to Austin following the report that his daughter had been killed, Mr. Crozier and other occupants of his automobile narrowly escaped serious injury near Temple, when the machine overturned, and seriously injured the negro chauffeur, who was left at Temple. However, Mrs. Crozier and Miss Helen Audry of Dallas, sorority sister of Miss Crozier, continued the trip with Mrs. Walter Desley and another woman, returning to Waco. They will accompany the body to Dallas.

J. M. Puryear, uncle of young Puryear and S. A. Martin went surety for Puryear, who refused to make a statement relative to the accident.

the district road bonds and his personal attack on J. A. Kemp. Even the papers which have been prone to leniency so far as the governor and her husband are concerned condemn him for his statement that the "Texas road district bonds represent $100,000,000 in securities which the supreme court of the United States has held null and void and which you do not owe." In one of them is expressed the possibility that he was misquoted.

The implication is answered in the Houston Chronicle, which calls attention to the fact that two newspaper men followed the former governor to the hotel after his speech and requested that he repeat what he had said about the bonds. This he did, substantially, as they had jotted it down in the first place. James E. Ferguson was not misquoted.

Believing that a certain type of the state's thought is best expressed in the editorial comment of the leading dailies, excerpts from the San Antonio Express, Houston Chronicle, Dallas News, Dallas Journal, El Paso Times, Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Galveston News on both the committee meeting and the Ferguson statement Tuesday night are quoted below:

The Fort Worth Star Telegram in an editorial headed "The Farce at Wichita Falls" declares, "to the impropriety ever-present in any manner of endorsement of a candidate in advance of the party primaries, the state democratic executive committee, in its Wichita Falls meeting, added the extra blunder of attempting to whitewash a political record which has disgraced the state and which is thoroughly disapproved by the overwhelming majority of Texans. The result can shape itself but one way: The people of Texas will show in unmistakable manner their resentment over the attempt of the majority of the state executive committee to dictate how they shall exercise their franchise in the party. They will feel that they are called upon to show conclusively that they cannot be taken in any such bold attempt to apply a saving coat of whitewash to Fergusonism."

The editorial comment continues with a dissertation on methods alleged to have been employed to obtain the steam roller effect, and devotes four paragraphs to pointing out what are termed the "absurdities" of the report of the resolutions committee.

It concludes: "After such exhibitions as that at Wichita Falls is it any wonder that Texas is the laughing stock of the nation? It is any wonder that Texans are resolved to rebuke such affronts to their intelligence by such a tremendous majority that no politician who hopes for success will dare repeat the tactics of Fergusonism in the future?"

No Test of Power.

The Galveston News is confident that the Ferguson victory in the state executive committee meeting is no an indication of the real Ferguson strength in the state. Its editorial is entitled "The Political Travesty in Wichita Falls," and comments, "the travesty that took plnes at Wichita Falls Monday when the state democratic executive committee made public its subservience to Fergusonism will have very little influence on the campaign for governor. It simply went to show that a committee originally selected for allegiance to Jim Ferguson is still in line. * * * They might have spared the transparent twaddle about the 'time honored democratic precedent of a second term' because the public thoroughly understands that it was motivated, not by reverence for the traditions of democracy, but by a desire to advance the Ferguson candidacy. The public also understands that it is not a second term for Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson that is involved, but a fourth term for her husband—James E. Ferguson."

he editorial continues, remarking the primary system "has reduced the councils of the party to a puppet show," and declaring that for the committee to attempt to commit the voters in favor of any candidate or candidates is either presumptuous or ridiculous. It terms the resolutions a perfect "paradox" in that it endorses the administration which, of course, includes both Moody and Ferguson, and both of which under the circumstances, could hardly have been endorsed by the committee. It concludes: "What happened at Wichita Falls, therefore, cannot be taken as a real indication of Ferguson strength. The outcome was determined nearly two years ago when the committee was packed with Ferguson supporters.

"There is an amusing side to the solutions," the El Paso Times in an editorial headed "the Champion Endorsers", comments, citing that the resolutions give among other things "complete and full endorsement to the present state officers and commends their administration of affaifs of the state as being economical, faithful and efficient." he editorial cites the differences existing between the two important branches of the administration, to-wit, the governor's office and the office of the attorney general, and says: "According to the committee's endorsement, both the attorney general and the governor were right, although, according to the contention of each the other was wrong."

San Antonio Fortunate.

The San Antonio Express, with its slogan for a "Greater San Antonio" placed just above its editorial column, and with the gift of a state convention to thank the committee for, makes no comment on the resolutions, remarking rather how fortunate the city is to have its new auditorium completed in time for the September meeting.

The Dallas News is emphatic: "If we needed any evidence of the voice of allowing a candidate to pick the executive committee following election we have abundant illustration of that evil in this action. * * * All that the democracy of Texas has to do is to make up its mind which of the candidates will make the best governor. And that it is able and likely to do without regard for the officious and specious indorsements of the incumbent by a committee which has no business to indorse anybody at this time."

The Houston Chornicle styles the Ferguson statement "A blow at Texas," and says: "Bankruptcy itself has never witnessed a sadder spectacle. No state was ever confronted a more shameful situation. he de facto governor's statement was so startling that newspaper men could not quite trust their ears. After the meeting they went to James E. Ferguson and asked him to thoroughly verify what he had said. He did so. His statement was made absolutely clear. He is opposed to any attempt on the part of the legislature to protect the obligations referred to, unless the issue is submitted to a referendum of the people. This in effect means that whether or not men are honest should be left to a popular vote. It is exactly in line with the man who pleads limitation to defeat the collection of an honest debt. It means that a moral obligation does not exist, in the opinion of the de facto governor of Texas. * * *" It has been charged in Texas for the past yrear that the de facto governor has handled the affairs of state with more regard to his personal interest than to the welfare of the state. If everything that has been charged against him should be found to be true, the amount involved and the damage done to tax payers would be trivial items compared to the damage he has done to the people of exas by his statement at Wichita Falls.

"Texas has been somewhat impatient under the ridicule the Ferguson administration has brought upon the state. But it is unthinkable that Texas can be patient under the ignomity that Ferguson's Wichita Falls statement will bring to this common wealth. There must be immediate repudiation, not of honest obligations, but of dishonest appeals, otherwise the state of Texas will deserver to hide the confusion of its own shame."

he Dallas News thinks the statement of the former governor a matter of paramount importance. Its comment is headed, "Is Ferguson for Repudiation?" It reads in part, The Supreme court has not declared that the outstanding road district bonds are void, and much less has it declared that they constitute a debt 'which the people do not owe.' But it is not worthwhile to correct the misstatements of Mr. Ferguson with respect to this or any other matter."

The editorial continues, remarking if Mr. Ferguson meant what he said he has reversed his own opinion formerly expressed that the bonds should be validated as soon as possible, —either that, the News comments, or he did not ever hold that opinion.

It concludes: "The idea of making a question of honor an issue in a political campaign will be abhorrent to an overwhelming majority of the people of Texas. Yet the idea is one which they must contemplate, If Mr. Ferguson has not proposed repudiation he has suggested repudiation, and even counseled it, and so made suggested repudiational element in that larger and compound issue which Mr. Moody has not unaptly called Fergusionism. That is to be a fact which overshadows every other matter that is at issue in this campaign."

The Fort Werth Star-Telegram heads its comment on what it terms, "Mr. Ferguson's remarkable statement," "Texans pay their honest debts." It declares, "Of course the supreme court has not held that the people do not owe the money which these bonds represent. The supreme court merely held the bonds invalid on a technicality. That same court would in all probability hold that the bonds still constitute legal and binding obligations against the state of Texas, as it has held in other cases very similar to the Archer county case Texas does owe this $100,000,000

Jim Ferguson now proposes by indirection that we should seize upon this technical error which our legislature made to deprive the holders of these bonds of their money. What a statement to go out from the head of the government of a great state.

The Whole State.

"Mr. Ferguson also by that statement admits the insincerity and the attempt to misstep the issue which was charged when the governor's office was fiddling for many weeks with the proposal of validating two bonds. . . . It is a dangerous piece of business, and shows the desperate straits in which Fergusonism finds itself to hold out before the people of the state, as bait for votes, an opportunity to dodge just and honest debts through abuse of a legal technicality. Jim Ferguson has insulted Texas . . . and will find to his sorrow that 'J. A. Kemp and his crowd' number practically all the citizens of Texas when it comes to their position on this issue

They will be paid in spite of Ferguson and high water."

The Dallas Evening Journal sees in the Ferguson statement "another reason for no special session," commenting as follows: "It was a shrewd, business like matter, if we are to appraise what Mr. Ferguson says about it. Since the supreme court of the United States has held that the road bonds of one Texas district (no issued and never sold) are invalid, it is plain that the bonds of all districts (issued and sold) are invalid. Hence the people of Texas do not owe the $100,000,000 which the said bonds have yielded for their use. Why should the legislature be convoked for the purpose of creating a genuine obligation for the people?

"The impulsive deliverance of Mr. Ferguson suggests this line of reasoning at least. It is to his credit that he has contributed to the campaign issues one of its rarest bits of humor. He would hardly have it taken seriously, it may be supposed, for what he suggests would result in permanent impairment of the credit of the state. The citizens of Texas are not of the sort which would make good use of highways for which they might technically be fatal from paying. The conscience of Texas is on straight. It will function in this emergency if the legislature should ever assemble again."

The Galveston News sees in the Ferguson statement the real reason for the failure to call the legislature in special session construing the Ferguson reasoning in "so why give the legislature a chance to close a technical avenue of escape from fulfillment of an obligation which even Jim must admit was contracted in good faith? It is a shrewd scheme and fully worthy of its author. Does Ferguson actually think that political morality in this state has fallen so low that advantage would be taken of his suggestion, even if the courts would permit it? We find it hard to believe. A better explanation seems to be that he has been goaded by his political hatred of aDn Moody into throwing all discretion to the winds. The moral aspect of the obligation is as clear as nooday. Apparently Ferguson chooses Wichita Falls as the ploce to spring his repudiation policy because J. A. Kemp lives there and Mr. Kemp ha sjust come out openly for Moody. It is altogether typical of him that Ferguson should seek to identify Kemp as the tool of the New York bond brokers. Those who oppose Fergusonism can expect to have their motives assailed."

The following statement was authorized by Mr. Swanson: In announcing I do so on a basis of advocating economy and efficiency in all disbursements of public money for public purposes without rake-offs to favored contractors or political supporters at the taxpayers' expense.

The Location of
COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES

Places It In a Class by Itself As to Desirability

Country Club Estates is most ideally situated, lying as it does, immediately adjacent to Wichita Falls' two fine Country Clubs and Golf Courses, and bordered by a magnificent 260-acre forest park.

Added to this unusual situation which will lend increasing value and desirability to Country Club Estates for all time to come, we have purchased 100 acres which we are developing into a beautiful park, being planted with trees and shrubbery which will be perpetually maintained for the benefit of the Country Club Estates owners. The ground in this park which we are presenting to Country Club Estates owners, cost over $100,000, without the trees or shrubbery which we are adding.

And with all of the natural and added beauty of this subdivision, it lies within easy 10 minutes drive of the downtown district and is approached by four of Wichita Falls' best paved streets which will eliminate all the dangers and inconveniences of congested traffic.

Only 10 days remain in which you can buy lots in Wichita Falls finest residence subdivision at prices that barely cover the original cost of the acreage plus the improvements. Seventy-five per cent of the lots in Country Club Estates will be advanced on July 1st at the rate of $300.00 to $1,500.00 per lot. Those signing contracts before 8 P. M. June 30th will secure the greatest realty values ever offered in this city and will own homesites in the finest residence section in the entire south.

This first section of Country Club Estates has not been developed and placed on the market with the idea of making money. The entire plan has been to render a definite civic service to Wichita Falls, and in so doing, naturally increase the value of the balance of the property and also the value of the entire subdivision. Those who buy property now or who have already bought lots in Country Club Estates will, of course, share in the increasing value of this residence section, and as we warned you that prices in Country Club Estates would be advanced in the near future, which date we now have definitely set for July 1st, we again promise you another raise of at least 10 per cent in prices will take place before the year is out. Shrewd buyers will see the wisdom of purchasing lots here and now—whether for immediate building or as a gilt edge investment.

It is a fact that the total amount of the sales price of this property at the present pre-development pricing will no more than meet the actual cost of the land and the development and improvement cost—those who buy now will profit with us in increased future values.

More than one million dollars has been spent in improving Country Club Estates and making this property desirable in every way. All streets are paved—sidewalks are being laid—thousands of shade trees and shrubs have been planted and it will be but a matter of two or three years until the entire 660 acres will present the appearance of a beautiful garden.

Eighty-five thousand dollars is being expended alone above the price for ordinary installation in placing all electric light and telephone wires under ground—no unsightly electric light or telephone poles will mar the beaty of this subdivision. Every convenience is supplied, including sewer, city water, gas, special water mains for irrigation—everything that could contribute to the comfort and welfare of the home owner has been supplied.

More than $300,000.00 worth of lots have been sold since the opening of this property, and many of the very choicest locations still remain.

Representatives will be on the ground every day from now to July 1st to show you the properties and explain details. Remember—the present prices will apply on all contracts signed before 8 p. m. Wednesday, June 30th.

COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES

Possesses Every Attribute That Goes to Make for Desirability

The best engineering and landscape architectural talent that money could employ have done their best in the laying out, planning and planting of Country Club Estates. The rarest of shade trees and shrubbery have been brought from other states and planted in profusion at most strategic points. Double rows of shade trees border the paved drives and boulevards and the beauty of the place is enhanced by an artistic electric illumination system which makes every street in Country Club Estates a veritable "white way."

We are not PROMISING improvements—you don't have to inquire as to what we are going to do—we have already done it—the improvements are in—the trees are growing—the streets paved, the sewers are in—the electric wiring and telephone lines and the sidewalks are now being laid—your homesite is ready—ready to grace a beautiful home.

And these present special predevelopment prices, the unusually reasonable terms of one-fourth cash—balance, one, two, and three years with 6 per cent interest prevail. Make your selection within the next 10 days and own a homesite you will always be proud of.

Complete Democratic Ballot Announced For July 24 Election

FEW CHANGES IN LAST HOUR

Numerous Contests Are Assured In Local Districts

A complete list of candidates to be voted on in the democratic primaries on July 24 was announced by H. J. Bruce, county democratic chairman, late Saturday night, at expiration of the date set by law as the last on which candidates might file applications for places on the ballot.

The list bears few new names beyond those previously announced, eleventh hour filings being confined to the announcement of G. C. McDermott of Wichita Falls as a candidate to oppose C. M. McFarland as judge of the county court at law; and of F. G. Swanson, Wichita Falls attorney, to oppose Roy J. Daniel for a place as representative from the 11th district.

There are a number of places for which no candidates have announced, noticeably that of justice of the peace and constable, precinct No. 4, and that of public weigher in every precinct except No. 3 where a hotly contested fight is promised between three candidates. While no petitions had been received for places for constable and justice of the peace from the Electra precinct, R. W. Johnson of Electra is understood to have sent his application for a place as constable to Wichita Falls for filing. It had not been received at ten o'clock Saturday night. Just what action would be taken in event it is received later was not announced by Mr. Bruce.

Final consideration of the candidates, and allotment of place on the ballot will come up before the meeting of the county democratic committee Monday.

The completed list of district and precinct candidates is given below. The state listis the same as that certified last Monday by the state executive committee.

Moody Speakers To Be Busy in Week

A series of meetings over Friday and Saturday for the purpose of furthering the candidacy of Dan Moody have been announced by officials of the Moody-for-Governor club here. Wichita Falls speakers will be secured for each of the rallies which are to be held at the county seats of counties of the twenty-third senatorial district.

Two rallies are scheduled for Friday, one to be held at Henrietta and the other at Archer City. Speakers for both meetings will be announced early this week.

Ten meetings are scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be at Bowie, Graham, Olney, Jacksboro, Buffalo Springs, Thalia, Seymour, Munday, Newcastle and Eliasville.

The meetings will represent the first rallies to be held as a part of an organized effort of Moody supporters in this part of the state to stir up enthusiasm for the attorney general's candidacy. There will be an attempt made early in the week to organize a Moody-for-Governor club at Jacksboro.

Two Amendments To Be Voted On July 24 For Constitution Changes

Two constitutional amendments on which Texas voters will make decisions July 24 have been outlined by Senator J. D. Parnell of Wichita Falls in a communication to the Record News. He asserts of both that they are of considerable importance and goes ahead to point out just what they mean.

One effects the holding of office by commisioned officers of the Texas National Guard and the United States army reserve corps. The other deals with east Texas school lands and taxation effecting them and lands in west Texas.

Senator Parnell's statement in full is as follows:

"Among the amendments to the constitution of Texas submitted by the 39th legislature, and to be voted upon July 24, there are two that should be given especial attention by the voters of Texas. As a rule constitutional amendments are not looked on with much favor, but these two amendments will meet with the approval of the voters if they will but investigate them and determine their merits.

Reserve Officers

"At the present time all commissioned officers of the nationaly guard and of the United States army reserve corps are not permitted to hold a public office in the state of Texas, which means that these men holding a commission without pay are forbidden to have their names placed upon the ballot, nor can they accept an appointment to a state office. There are several thousand men in Texas that are not eligible for state offices because of this conflict with the constitution. It works a hardship on many of them, and it is not right to deny them this privilege when they are simply performing a patriotic service in accepting a commission as a reserve officer of the government. This amendment was submitted at the request of the American Legion, and should have the support of the people.

East Texas Lands Exempted

"Many counties of the state are burdened with large tracts of school land exempt from county taxation allotted to organized Texas counties many years ago, before west Texas was settled up. Most of this land belongs to counties in central and east Texas and has never been sold by them. Under the constitution it is exempt from local and county taxation and the counties where the land is located are forced to pay the taxes for the development of land that does not belong to them and which has increased in value because of the money spent by the counties on roads and schools and other purposes which value accrues to the benefit of the east Texas counties holding the land.

"In this district, as well as I remember Archer, Baylor, Young, Throckmorton and Hardeman counties have thousands of acres of school land, belonging to east Texas counties, receiving benefits from adjoining tax-paying property owners. A large per cent of the east Texas counties receive more money from the state treasury than they pay into it; while in western Texas the tax rate is placed at a high figure as well as high valuations on property, in order to meet current expenses. In this way it places a double tax and burden on the west Texas counties and extends benefits to east Texas counties to which they are not entitled.

"I realize that often times we overlook the importance of a thorough study of these amendments and vote them down without considering their merits. However, I feel sure that any citizen will, after investigating, approve of the amendments and cast a favorable vote on them at the election in July.

(Signed) J. D. PARNELL."

Southwestern Ice Men Meet In Wichita Falls Saturday for Conference

About 20 members of the Wichita Falls division of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturers' association, held a district meeting in this city Saturday, at which time they discussed a number of matters relating to their business. At noon a luncheon was tendered the visitors by the chamber of commerce, this being given at the Kemp hotel. The sessions were concluded during the afternoon.

At this luncheon, General P. B. Malone of Fort Sam Houston, who was in the city for a short time, was an honor guest and delivered the principal address. His message was inspiring and brought thunderous applause from the small group of men. General Malone was en route to Amarillo where he will be a speaker at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention. His subject there will be "The Relation of Business to War."

Dickey has been named temporary chairman by a group of Mr. Davidson's friends at a meeting Friday night at the Wichita club. A president and other officers will be elected at the Monday night meeting.

City Dads Back

A full attendance of the city commissioners at Monday night's meeting of the council is expected to be the signal for transaction of a large amount of business that has accumulated the past few weeks, Mayor R. E. Shepherd, P. R. Curd and J. H. Patton all returned during the week from trips out of town.

Three public hearings on paving projects are among the items scheduled for Monday night. The projects are: Elizabeth, lot 4, block 1, Spivey addition to Holliday street; Park street, Fort Worth and Denver tracks to Flood street; Avenue R, Grant to Fairview. There will also be a public hearing on the proposed construction of a filling station at the intersection of Kemp boulevard and Avenue B by W. E. Carter.

The franchise of the Upham Gas company will also probably be submitted the council for action, it is stated.

Lone Star Line Progressing Fast

A camp capable of accomodating 150 or more men has been set up near the edge of the city and work is going ahead rapidly on the new 18-inch gas main of the Lone Star Gas company, officials of the Oklahoma Construction company which is doing the work have announced.

Between three and one-half and four miles of pipe haxe already been strung, and tunneling of a conduit beneath the Denver tracks north of town has practically been completed. The new line will skirt the western edge of the railroad from here north to the Panhandle and will come into the city at a point about two miles west.

A carload of special paint to be used as a protective against errosive effects was delivered Saturday at Iowa Park in preparation for the laying of the line in that section.

BIGGER FIGHT ON FERGUSONS DUE THIS WEEK

County Committee Stands Promise Rebukes to His Henchmen.

BY S. RAYMOND BROOKS.
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, June 19.—It was the same committee which last year officially endorsed the service of James E. Ferguson to the democratic party.

The first effect of the action of the democratic state executive committee at Wichita Falls in endorsing Governor Ferguson for another term and slapping at Dan Moody, attorney general, was psychological in bolstering the wavering lines of Ferguson supporters.

The second reaction will be registered in the county democratic executive committee meetings all over the state Monday, when the local party leaders show to what extent they are guided by the clinking of the brass collars at Wichita Falls.

In its cumulative effect the action of all the county committees next Monday is far more important than that of the state committee.

Another Fight.

The next, and one of the most significant effects of the state executive committee's fight at Wichita Falls will be the projection, it is predicted, of a bitter Ferguson and anti-Ferguson fight in the next state convention in San Antonio September 7. And the prediction is here ventured, as a guess only, that if the fortunes of the ballot box go against the Fergusons, there will be a definite split-up of the party at that convention, just as there were four years ago from Earle B. Mayfield's nomination, when Ferguson's support and aid to George B. Peddy is well remembered.

The far-reaching an effect will the somewhat unexpected endorsement last Monday have on the Ferguson supporters? has been repeatedly asked. It is speculative, but apparently will be an important factor in determining the Ferguson strength. Most people believe that had the group of experienced politicians of the state committee been convinced the Fergusons were going out of public life this year, they would have "crawled of the wagon," in decisive and definite action. Therefore, by their sticking to the Ferguson cause and upholding it apparently evidence was given these men believe the Fergusons have a reasonable chance yet of another term. The action at least silenced the opposition propaganda that the campaign was going to pieces and the Fergusons were preparing to drop out. It may to considerable lengths solidify and stiffen the battle lines of the intrenched office-holders.

How will the 200 odd county committees take it? Will many of them be guided by the state committee's action. Will they regard that as a red flag waved as a battle-challenge? That is what seems to be the outlook. In other words, many local committees whose members would never have thought of attempting to inject this fight in the rather "ministerial" duties of preparing a local ballot form, will plunge at once into a test of strength on the same question which split the state committee. And while no estimate of the number of counties may now be justified, it is safe to guess that in many a sound repudiation and rebuke will be handed to local members on the state committee who went off on the Ferguson tangent a week ago.

Overwhelmingly Jim.

The state committee is overwhelmingly Ferguson. Sink or swim, it will stay Ferguson until it hands over the reins of party power in the state convention—and at the tail end of the party convention at that. This present committee will largely run things for the first couple of days of the convention, and will hold the big power of shaping early events and naming early committees. A state convention is an untrammeled force whom it gets organized and at work, but there is lots about the organization which is usually cut and dried, much that partakes of "steam-roller" tactics, regardless of what group or faction or side is in power.

In general, the victorious side, or the victorious candidate for governor, is able to command the situation at a state convention, but there are many ticklish questions to be settled in placing the power over from one group or one body of one sentiment to another of a different disposition.

Of course if the Fergusons control, it will just be a joyous celebration with all the present boys ace-high.

A session, the bitterest within the memory of many in politics, is seen in the horoscope with the present committee in charge while its successors are being selected, in case party leadership is this year conferred to other hands.

MOODY WINDS UP CAMPAIGN IN PANHANDLE

Speaks to Large Crowd At Lubbock and Assails Jim

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 19.—Taking notice of former Governor Ferguson's plea that Mrs. Ferguson ought to be given a "second term," Dan Moody, candidate for governor, in an address here tonight, which closed a week's campaigning in the panhandle and plains country, declared that there never has been a "second term tradition" in Texas, that several governors were defeated for a second term and that it ought never be appealed to as a reason for re-electing any official.

"A good governor ought not to have to depend upon the so-called second term tradition for re-election," he said, "and a bad governor ought not to be able to derive strength from it."

Asked Vindication.

"When Jim Ferguson began this campaign he announced the issue to be 'vindication'," continued Moody. "He said that Mrs. Ferguson was running for vindication. But he soon discovered that there was too much to defend to make that plea stick. He found that he would have to defend the text book contract with the American Book company, the road maintenance contracts given to his political friends, the American Road company resurfacing contract, the Hoffman Construction company contract, his employment as attorney for a railroad while exercising the powers of governor, his own usurpation of the powers of the governor's office while not being accountable to the people and a long list of other things which could not be successfully defended. Vindication was a poor issue in the light of all this, so now Ferguson has adopted a new plea.

"That plea is the 'second term tradition.' He is out pleading for a second term like a boy begging for a second piece of pie. And that is what Jim Ferguson is after—the pie. He says that the people of Texas have never refused any governor a second term and that Mrs. Ferguson ought not to be an exception. Of course, as everybody knows, Mrs. Ferguson has not had a first term yet. She has not been governor in fact for a single hour. Jim Ferguson has been governor all the time, and what he wants now is a fourth term. But even if it was true that Mrs. Ferguson had served one term and was asking for another, the 'second term tradition' would be a might poor reason for re-electing her or anybody else. If the record of an official is good it is not necessary to invoke the 'second term tradition'; if it is bad the 'second term tradition' ought not to be an excuse for continuing a bad official in office.

Several Refused.

"But it is not true that the people of Texas have never refused a second term to a governor who sought it. Governor Runnels was defeated for a second term; Governor Wood was refused a second term; Governor Hubbard was denied re-election. A number of governors served only one term, among them being Governor J. Pinckney Henderson, Governor F. R. Lubbock and Governor Murrah. Both Governor Hogg and Governor Culberson were strongly opposed for re-election, and both were re-elected only by pluralities. They did not receive a majority vote of the people. And yet Jim Ferguson doesn't know any better than to tell the people that the governors of Texas have always been given a second term. That is on a par with his declaration that Governor Charles Culberson was the only man to be elected governor from the attorney general's office, and that I would not be the second. He didn't know that James Shephen Hogg was elected governor from the attorney general's office.

"But even if there was a second term tradition, unbroken from the beginning, it would not apply in this case. Everybody knows that Jim Ferguson is the governor of Texas in fact, that he is exercising all the powers of the governor's office, without being accountable to the people or the law, and that he is now asking for a fourth and not a second term. The people are not going to be fooled by the second term plea."

Thomas to Give Doctrinal Sermon

"Justification by faith" is the subject of the sermon Dr. Trigg Thomas will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning under the big tent across the street from the Junior college.

"This is a Presbyterian doctrinal sermon that represents years of intensive study and sets forth in popular language the distinctive faith of the Presbyterian church," Dr. Thomas said. "It is in no sense controversial, nor is it an attack upon other denominations; but it will explain the principles of Presbterianism and show the place that this church occupies in the army of the Lord, and will reveal how much the Presbyterian church has in common with all branches of the evangelical church.

"This is an opportunity for all those who would learn more of the doctrines and belief of a church that God has used for the advancement of His cause in all countries of the world."

Sunday evening at 8 o'clock Dr. Thomas will preach his thrilling sermon on the "Pre-eminence of Christ."

The public is cordially invited.

Monday night the sermon subject will be "Is There a Burning Hell?"

Wichitan Attends State Conference

H. M. Harris, district manager in Wichita Falls for the Texas Employers Insurance association, has returned from the annual sales conference of the organization, held recently in Dallas.

The association, said to be the fourth largest of its kind in the United States, maintains 13 branch offices in the state and serves more than 5,000 Texas employers by handling workmen's compensation insurance. Compensation insurance in all its phases was discussed at the conference, with the principal address delivered by Homer R. Mitchell, vice-president and general manager of the company. Automobile insurance, a specialty in which the company has dealth for the past six years was given considerable study, Mr. Harris stated.

The premium income in 1925 exceeded $2,100,000, and since its organization the association has returned to its policyholders cash dividends in excess of $5,000,000.

Cellar Habitues Explode With Home Run Rally That Beats Spudders

KIEFER LOSES INITIAL GAME BY 7-5 SCORE

Brainard Pelts Two For Circuit, Lamb Puts One Over Fence

A tornadic outburst of thundering thumps of the four-base variety in the sixth frame of a hectic contest Saturday afternoon on the home diamond upset the Spudders and momentarily halted them in their 1926 pennant chase. Home runs by West, Pratt and Davis overtook a four-run Wichita Falls lead, dismantled Harlem Joe Kiefer and gave the Waco Cubs an ultimate 7 to 5 victory in the series opener. It was Kiefer's first loss of the season with the Spudders.

The Spudders got to Jake Freese for a run in the second inning on a single by Washburn and a three-base hit by DeFate. Tony's loud clout, a drive over first base, came after there were two out.

Wichita Falls punched over two more in the fourth. Jenkins opened the stanza with a drive through the box but was forced at second by Washburn. The latter drew a life at first base on fielder's choice. Boss Brainard followed with a vociferous drive over the double-decked starboard boundary. Metzler got on via the hit-by-pitcher route but DeFate bounded into a double play.

Lamb Hits Homer

The fourth Spudder counter came in the fifth when after two were gone, Lyman Lamb uncorked a vituperative slam over the port palings. There was none on.

Kiefer chunked almost flawless ball through these five counts, but received more punishment in the fifth than Jack Dempsey ever doled to one of his pugilistic victims. It was uncanny, miraculous and astounding the way the lowly Cubs came to life during this stanza and pelted Joe full of oversize holes. There was one out when Lopez singled to center. This didn't look so bad, but McNamara followed with a one-baser past first. Then West, Pratt and Davis exploded almost simultaneously with home run larrops over the left field fence. This trio hits in succession in the Waco hitting order. It wasn't more than a minute before an almost positive Spudder victory was turned into apparent defeat.

Just Too Bad

Goff avisted to Metzler at the start of the seventh but Freese followed with a single to center. Joe passed Lopez and McNamara doubled to right, scoring both Jake and the Mexican. Fussell took up the tossing task and hurled until taken out in the eighth for a pinch hitter. Jim Roberts hurled the ninth round for the home crew without casualty.

The Spudders' final run was scored in the eighth when Brainard connected for his second homer of the day, a drive over the port palaside. As luck would have it, the wallop came with the sacks unpopulated.

The fielding feature of the battle was staged in the fifth by Lamb on Davis' titanic swat to right center. The Spud outer gardner charged back to the boards and speared the catch with one hand.

Speaking Of Tennyson's Brook, How About This Guy, T. Raymond Cobb?

Famous Elberta Slipping, But Down-Hill Jaunt Has Been No Sudden and Dull Flop

COBB

There still is pep in every step,
In body, brain and nerve of him,
Within the fount of youth he's been immersed,
The pitchers must still fear his skill
And dread the speed and verve of him,
His twenty-second season's better than his first!

He's lost no whit of strength or grit,
The blithe insouciant air of him
Still keeps the other teams upon their toes
Infield and out when he's about,
The players must beware of him
For what he's gonna pull nobody knows.

A lesson, this, we shouldn't miss,
A lesson in sobriety
In keeping fit and healthy for your job,
Hence time can't pale nor custom stale
The infinite variety

—Berton Braley.

Each year the baseball record book changes to bear a closer resemblance to the biography of Tyrus Raymond Cobb.

Most of the marks for hitting have faded before the drive of his bat. Some of them he made years ago. Most of them were for ability in a single season or a group of seasons. Now the amazing achievements of his career are erasing the lifetime records.

Before this campaign began Cobb held lifetime records for most runs scored, most hits made and most total bases.

Recently at Philadelphia he set up another standard, surpassing the mark of Hans Wagner for the most times at bat in a major league life time. Cobb now has officially faced big league pitchers close to 10,450 times.

This number does not include the times he has walked, sacrificed or been hit by the pitcher, where he is not charged with an official time at bat. It is safe to say that Cobb has gone to the plate 2,000 times unofficially. In other words, he has bent over the rubber in championship games at least 12,500 times.

Another lifetime record was tied by the superlative player in his first game of this season. It was the beginning of his twenty-second year on the diamond. Only one other player in the history of baseball stayed up in the majors that long. That one was the wizard of other days—Pop Anson.

* * * *

Next year Cobb will break Anson's record unless some unfortunate accident puts him out of the game in the meantime. And it would take an accident to end his career so suddenly.

* * * *

One cannot think of Ty Cobb without gasping over his bewildering ability as a ball player.

A decade ago he was a leader in every offensive and outfielding endeavor—hitting, base-running, throwing, fly-chasing and startegy. After 21 full seasons under the big spread he still is near the top as a hitter and strategist.

The sharp edge of his speed has been blunted. In his flaming moments he still runs the bases with great daring and skill, but his legs do not eat up the ground as they did in other days.

In the outfield Cobb is not his former self. Drives which once would be grasped by his reaching fingers now drop and speed on.

Some of the power has gone from his arm. It is no wonder that at 39 he cannot shoot the ball with the same speed and accuracy he did when he was 29.

In hitting he has fallen off but little, if you judge him alone by the averages. In the last 10 years his batting has averaged an even .370. That embraces the span between 30 and 39.

Between 21 and 30, reckoned as the best years of a ball player's life, Cobb averaged .373. Only three points higher!

Cobb's lowest percentage was .322, the year after he came into the American league, and his highest .420, a record for the big leagues. In 15 seasons the master mauler has hit better than .350.

* * * *

No one in baseball, not even the great Wagoner nor the "peerless" Anson, pgoduced batting records to equal those of Cobb.

* * * *

What Would He Hit Today?

In his twenty-second season Cobb still is hitting with the leaders. Now and then his name bobs up among the first five. Last year he finished fourth with the handsome figure of .378.

What would Cobb hit today if he had the same fleetness in his aging legs he had in his twenties? That's a favorite question among baseball men.

No one knows, but it's a certainty that his average would be many points better than the marks he now is hanging up. One critic estmated as high as .600. That seems impossible. But there were a number of "impossible" things which Cobb did a decade ago.

In these days Cobb earns by the crushing power of his drives every hit that is credited to him. In his earlier era the taps to the infield which now go as outs against him would have been hits.

Sometimes it is pathetic to see T. R. thrown out on grounders which he would have beaten by a couple of strides in his youthful days.

* * * *

The greatest ball player of all time has passed the crest, but the down grade has been no sudden drop.

* * * *

Loves Baseball.

Cobb has made a deal of money out of baseball. He is said to be the first millionaire player of the game.

He has been shrewd with his money. He has been no bookmaker's captain nor daddy of any champagne parties. A family man with a keen love for his home, he has spent and invested his money for the benefit of both home and family.

By any measuring rod, Cobb's career has been a success. But the true yardstick is not the record book nor Bradstreet's. It is the spirit Cobb has put into his chosen profession.

Cobb loves baseball and every game he plays right up to the hilt. If he had not been gifted with rare speed and unusual ability, he still would be remembered for his flaming spirit.

Detroit's far-famed manager belongs to the old school of baseball players, who gave all they had for the love of the game, and not so much effort per dollar.

"The players of today," said Cobb not long ago, "not all of them, but most of them, are in the game for the money they can get out of it—not for the love of it, the excitement of it and the thrill of it.

"Times have changed since I broke in. Then it was peopled with men who played it not merely because it was their livelihood, but because they loved it. The money end of it was more or less secondary.

"I really believe that in those days if a player had been forced to choose between a 50 per cent reduction and retirement in his prime, he would have taken the reduction. Baseball of today is a bit methodical."

* * * *

Babe Ruth Kisses Cardinal's Ring as Preliminary To Game

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—Jim Edwards, White Sox left-hander blew up in the fifth inning today after having a comfortable lead and the New York Yankees defeated Chicago 4 to 5. The White Sox scored five runs in the fourth by bunching hits off Thomas who gave way in the next inning for a pinch hitter. Edwards weakened in the fifth and after walking two men the visitors opened a barrage on him and drove him to the showers after Ruth had doubled. Patrick Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of Ireland, witnessed the game from a box decorated with the eucharistic colors and the American flag. After pitching the first ball to Catcher Schalk, he remained throughout the game with his overcoat wrapped closely about him. Several of the players including Babe Ruth, had kissed the Cardinals ring. It was Eddie Collins' day and the White Sox manager was presented with a diploma by the league for having been voted the most valuable player to his club, while a member of the Athletics in 1914. Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago made the presentation. Score:

Tigers Beat Macks

DETROIT, June 19.—(AP)—Detroit beat Philadelphia 5 to 3 by bunching hits off Lefi Grove and taking advantage of errors by Engle and Galloway. Philadelphia filled the bases in ninth with none out by Dauss, who relieved Holloway, caught the next three batters. It was Cobb day and the Georgian celebrated his belated ward as the most valuable American league player of 1911 by getting two hits in three times at bat. One of these, a triple, started the Detroit scoring in the fourth and his single in the seventh scored another run.

JOE PARELLI.

Known as the Roughhouse Wop, who holds a decision over Johnny Meyers, the middleweight champion of the world, meets Matty Matsuda on the Wichita Falls Wrestling association card next Thursday night. The match is to be two falls to a finish.

The wonder Jap in his return to Wichita Falls following quite a lengthy absence from the local mat is going out of his class to scrap the tough Parelli. The Italian is meaner and tougher than Dutch Mantell, in fact, defeated the Dutchman twice in Amarillo. Everybody knows Dutch's prowess as a knock-down-and-drag-out ring artist.

Mantell, incidentally, gives Yaqui Joe, the Indian, that long-sought chance for revenge on the same card Thursday night. Dutch was billed with Yaqui Friday night but was held up by rain after starting from Amarillo overland. The match was postponed to next Thursday.

Connolly, Turgeon, Taylor Stage Merry Race for First Base Hit Century

The torrid pace set by Rhine Williams since his return to the Dallas lineup has left one active .400 hitter in the Texas league ranks to share the even average with the absent Wilson of Waco. Oliver of Beaumont with .380 tops the batting list for the players in a majority of the games.

Connolly of Beaumont leads the loop in hits made and on Wednesday was only seven short of the first century, with Turgeon, Wichita Falls, and Taylor Shreveport, in reaching distance. Taylor is the league's leading run getter with 64. Hack Miller of Dallas continues to hold the home run honors with 20, his teammate, Woeber, having 16. Rabbitt of San Antonio leads in stolen bases with a tie from his teammate, Najo, both having 15.

Wichita Falls with a club batting average of 315 has a one-point lead over Beaumont. The Spudders lead in runs, Beaumont in hits, Wichita Falls in home runs, and San Antonio in stolen bases.

Pilligim of Beaumont, with only one defeat, is the real pitching leader. Love of Dallas has run his strike-out record to 92. Three hundred per cent hitters and pitchers winning half or better of their games through Wednesday, follow:

Dallas Strengthens Lead, Grabbing Eight, Losing Two Past Week

ATZMEN CLIMB TO SECOND AS SPUDS FALTER

Wichita Can Change Outlay With Double Victory Today

The shifting of Dallas to first place and Fort Worth into second by a narrow margin over San Antonio featured the Texas league race the past week. The play of Dallas and Fort Worth by far was the best registered in the league. While Wichita Falls was breaking even and see-sawing between fifth, sixth and seventh places, finally winding up in seventh, Dallas won the astonishingly large number of eight games, losing two, to give the Steers an expansive lead over the rest of the pack. Beaumont and San Antonio each took a game from the Steers. Conley's men participated in three double headers, one with Beaumont, one with San Antonio and one with Houston, copping them all. The entire Texas league was rained out Friday, enabling the Steers to rest up for their last two-game sally Saturday against Houston. Both ends of the Houston double bill were tagged by the Dallasites with a 1-0 victory.

Cats 5 in 7

Fort Worth won five games out of seven, starting the week last Sunday with a double victory over Houston and closing yesterday with a 4-2 win over Beaumont. Houston and Waco each broke through the Fort Worth defense for a win.

The Spudders grabbed a 50-50 break for the week, winning their first three games and losing the last three. They beat San Antonio Sunday and Monday and toppled Beaumont Tuesday, but Galloway's outfit turned on the Spudders Wednesday and Thursday for victories. Friday was sidetracked because of wet grounds and Waco downed our nine Saturday. The Spudders and Cubs square off this afternoon at 2:30 in a bargain bill. Wichita Falls will use Estell, Roberts or Fussell. Pratt may send Ace Elliott to the hill with only two days' rest in the seven-inning game. Hudlin looks like his opener.

Spuds Have Chance

As the race wears along, recent reverses to Wichita Falls, notwithstanding, the drive seems to be between Dallas, Fort Worth and the Spudders. San Antonio, Houston and Shreveport, first division teams all along, have displayed a cracking tendency whereas the Steers, Cats and Spudders appear to be getting stronger. Dallas has been at its stride almost from the starting gong back in April. The Cats are either playing over their heads, or Jake Atz at last has developed a winning combination similar to those six-year running championship teams of his. The Spudders can't crack. They've never got started, but have displayed spurts of real championship caliber the past three weeks. Twice has Wichita Falls jumped off on six-game winning streaks then lost momentum and been knocked off for a smaller number of consecutive losses. If the Spudders can cop both ends of today's duet offering they will be sitting fairly well as they charge off on an 18-day swing around the circuit, playing 20 games, two at Fort Worth tomorrow and a double header in Dallas Monday, July 5. This trip, it is figured, will either make or break the Spudder pennant hope. If Wichita Falls can do a little better than win half its games on the road it will be set for a concerted championship drive upon the return home July 9 with Fort Worth.

Cats Tag Shippers

FORT WORTH, June 19.—(AP)—The Cats, given three runs in the first inning on a couple of walks and a pair of kicks by the Exporters, strengthened their position above the .500 mark by defeating the visitors 4 to 2. After the first round, Caldera tightened up and with the aid of better defense, twirled a duel with the Panther southpaw ace, Walkup.

Walkup held the enemy in the pinches, although he allowed one hit more than Caldera. The Exporters' two runs came in the fifth ona single, a double by Deviveros and another single.

Lowrance, outfielder bought by the Panthers from Paris of the East Texas league, played right field for the first time and got a single and a sacrifice in three trips to the eplate.

Twilight League Batting Averages

Twilight league averages covering the batting attack of the first half race which was captured by Jess Winters' Panhandle refiners show that the American refiners led the league in team batting at the half-way mark with .294. Fairly consistent all-around clouting gave the Eagles this percentage.

Clary and Montgomery of the Security National bank nine poled out averages of .421 and .381 respectively to serve as the real individual batting leaders. Graves of Panhandle is next with .379.

Rawls is probably the most consistent hitter of the lot, making a .353 in 34 tripe to the plate. Only two other players in the league came to bat as many times as Rawls and they dropped far behind.

McMahon and Martindale of the Americans each came to bat 30 times. Both hit for an average of .367.

JEALOUS BOY KILLS GIRL, 10, AND SELF

WARREN, Pa., June .—Clarence McBride, 22, who shot to death Gertrude Gifford, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Gifford, of Cutters Corners, this county, and fired a bullet into his own brain, died in a Titusville hospital.

The Gifford child was slai na short distance from her home when on her way with another little girl to Sunday school, McBride having followed them. Jealousy is believed to have prompted the act. Despite the difference in their ages, McBride was insanely jealous of the girl, having once said: "If I cannot have Gertrude for my own I will die with her."

HUGMEN STILL CLASS OF BIG LEAGUE NINES

Babe Pounds Out .380 To Lead American, Kiki Tops Nat'l

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—The Yankees with four of the ten leading pitchers and four of the ten leading batters in their league are still the class of the major league baseball teams but except for their phenomenal showing the pennant races are tightening up. In the official averages of Wednesday's games announced today, only 3 1-2 games separate the first and sixth place teams in the National League and the same spread between the second and sixth place teams in the American League, while the Huggen are out in front of the field nine and one-half games.

Babe Ruth dropped a few points in his batting total this week but still leads the American League registers his 22 homers toward a new record, and has stolen as many bases as Ty Cobb. Harry Heilman of Detroit gathered nine hits in six games and jumped into second place in the American League. The Yankees still have the only .300 hitting team in either league.

.300 Hitters in National.

In the National League, there are nearly twice as many .300 hitters as in the junior circuit, but the leading team, Chicago, is well below the leading Yankees of the American League in team hitting, with only .295 to the Yanks' .314. The league leading Pirates have two of the three leading sluggers, Cuyler at the top with .379, and Traynor in third place with .359, among the regulars. Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis slugger, just manages to get into the first ten with .330. Jim Bottomley of St. Louis is down in the ruck in hitting percentage. Hack Wilson, in seventh place among the National hitters, is close behind Bottomley with nine round trips.

Meusel of the Yanks leads the major league base stealers with 13, Kiki Cuyler of the Pirates holds the National League rank with 12, in addition to topping the batters of that circuit. Frankie Frisch of the Giants is on Cuyler's heels with eleven stolen bases. In the American League, second place for fleetness is divided between Mostil, Chicago, and Sam Rice, Washington, with 10 apiece.

When the pitching records are combined with the hitting totals, the secret of the Yankees' spurt is clear, for the three leading pitchers of the regular moundsmen are Hoyt, Pennock and Shocker, of the Hugmen. Hoyt and Pennock have won ten apiece and Shocker nine. Thomas and Lyons of Chicago are next among the regulars, with six and eleven victories apiece, and Lyons leads the league in innings pitched.

Meadows After Record.

Over in the National circuit, bespectacled Lee Meadows seems bent on a record, having a clean slate of seven victories on the hill. Rhem of the Cardinals leads in victories with ten, but is charged with one defeat. Rhem is well up among the strikeout tossers, with 35, although Dazzy Vance holds the first place in turning them back, as usual, with 40. Vance, though has but one victory and five defeats on his records this year.

The veteran Walter Johnson has two more strikeouts than Vance, 51, but Lefty Groves of the Athletics is far in the lead in the major leagues with 88, even though he is only 50-50 on victories and defeats, seven apiece.

The American League hurlers who at first were said to have been warned against the rosin powder puffs, undoubtedly are finding the range now, as the Yankees as a team were the only squad to gain on their batting averages. Detroit passed the Senators for third place, just behind the White Sox, merely by holding their own with the pitchers, and Boston, in last place in hitting and league standing, also were unchanged.

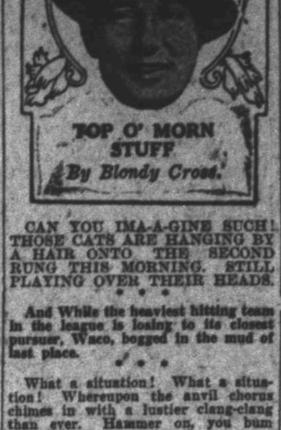

Cuyler Hits .379.

Six of the leading stickmen of the National League added to their batting averages the past week, and the result was a gain in points for five of the teams, Philadelphia, New York and Cincinnati, each slipping back a bit. The leading Cubs added five points to their team total.

In counters, Ruth leads both leagues with 63 tallies, and Ty Cobb, who has withdrawn from the fray temporarily, is close behind with 56. Blades of St. Louis leads the National Leaguers in crossing the plate with 48 though he is just outside the top ten in batting.

Leading hitters in the National League in 35 or more games are Cuyler, Pittsburgh, .379; Herman, Brooklyn, .370; Traynor, Pittsburgh, .359; High, Boston, .349; Adams, Chicago, .347; Brown, Boston, .346; Wilson, Chicago, .342; Harper, Philadelphia, .340; Bressler, Cincinnati, .338; Hornsby, St. Louis, .330.

Leading hitters in the American League in 35 or more games are Ruth, New York, .380; Heilmann, Detroit, .378; Mostil, Chicago, .369; Burns, Cleveland, .365; Meusel, New York, .364; Falk, Chicago, .359; Goslin, Washington, .356; E. Collins, Chicago, .347; Gehrig, New York, .346; Cobb, Detroit, .341.

What a situation! What a situation! Whereupon the anvil chorus chimes in with a lustier clang-clang than ever. Hammer on, you bum second-guessing bozos! Come on out with you tummy-aches! Show your yellow streaks so everybody can see them!

Practically every man but the manager knows how to manage a team, if you would listen to the yowls of the yap-yappers! Yap on.

OH, YES

Some guy, signing his name as Red Williams, wired us from Paris (Texas) yesterday issuing a challenge to Tommy White. Chances are this bimbo, like all the rest, thinks he can, but can't beat the elusive Texas City infighter. It's easy to defi a champion, they all do it. And that's what Tommy is as far as the southwest is concerned.

DON'T LAWF

Exuberent Austin scribe solemnly avers the Austin Senators are as strong as several Texas league teams. How some of these boys do exaggerate! Austin leads the Texas association class D league. Waco, Texas league cellar habitues, if pitted against the Austin team in a nine game series would lose one game at the most, in all probability not that many.

AND HOW?

Peculiar situation, our noble Spudders have developed. By today's release of Texas league batting averages through Wednesday the Brainardian bombarders are leading the loop in batting but rest on the seventh rung in the percentage ladder. The answer, poor pitching and an uncanny lack of foresight to do their error-making at the crucial stages. Fortune surely will change some day, perhaps before some other team has obtained such a lengthy lead it cannot be overtaken.

THAT'S NATURAL

The greatest bunch of dynamic action ever unravelled before the eyes of Wichita Falls fandom in any ring was produced Friday night when Yaqui Joe beat Bill Kendall and Charley Fox tagged it on Gus Anderson at the legion arena under direction of the Wichita Falls wrestling association. But as fate would have it, the smallest gathering of mat followers ever, attended the matches.

It is this column's suggestion to Fox and Anderson that hereafter whenever they fare onto the canvas they first tape their hands like every smart prize-fighter, who can get away with it, does. Then the doughty "wrestlers" can deliver far harder punches with less danger to knuckles that are liable to splinter all over themselves when landing on combination iron and ivory domes.

* * *

Speaking of granite heads, Anderson cops the crepe de chine raincoat. One of this handsome brute's strongest methods of attack is to clutch an opponent by the nape of the neck and butt skulls with him. Fox all but heard the birdies chirp following a series of head-on billy goat attacks by Mississippi Gus.

What's Become Of National Loop Willow Champs?

Heydler Says It Looks New Generation Coming In Now

BY GEORGE CHADWICK
Copyright, 1926, by the Consolidated Press.
Special Dispatch to The Record News.

NEW YORK, June 19.—"What," queried Joen Fan, as he scanned the batting averages, "has become of the batting champions of the National league?"

Mr. Fan's trust was at John Heydler, who is president of the National league, and after Mr. Heydler had looked over the figures with puckered brow he gave it up. He thought hard, and extracted only one theory.

"I believe that a new generation is coming in," said Mr. Heydler. Hornsby isn't leading now. But he may be leader. He is good for as much as any batter we have, but perhaps some of the other men who rivalled him in the past have shot their last bbme run at the batting leadership.

Hornsby Woof Woof.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis, who has been regarded as persona summa swattica in his organization, has never, been able this year to get within sight of that altitude which has made him a sort of mount McKinley among the National league batters. Maybe it is due to managerial worries. Men have said that it is not possible for a man to be as good a playing manager as an individual player; yet Tris Speaker gave the go-by to that theory in his case. Tris played better ball when he was manager of a championship team than he played in many other years.

Hornsby hasn't been hitting the ball as well as he should. But he is a natural batter and when the season has worried along another six weeks or more he will still be batting the ball when other batters have stopped. If he does get back to the leadership, who are there who will sit with him?

None but the kids, apparently, and if that is the result, the National league is in for a new deal. The faces of the kids will beam from out the frames of the famous and the memories of the old birds who have been looked upon as sluggers will be only the talk of yesterday.

Cuyler and Traynor of Pittsburgh, brown of Boston and Lindstrom of the Giants are the momentary rivals of Hornsby and have a chance to stay up. Adams of the Cubs is high but he may slide down. Bottomly of St. Louis should be up where his boss is, but this .350 batter is hitting only .250 and that is one reason why the Cardinals have not chirped as loudly as they should. Hornsby and Bottomley should be the best pair of batters in the league, but they are not. One of them has faltered and the other has flopped.

Those Used-to-Bes.

Who used to do the leading? There were Rousch, Wheat, Bigbee, Pep Young, Frank Snyder and others who were counted upon to produce not only timely hits but fair batting averages about which the home fans could gloat. They seem to be out of it now.

Babe Herman, a tall, gawky youth whom Booklyn took out of the far northwest, is better off than Hornsby and hitting the ball with such regularity that some think the Robins unconsciously stumbled upon one of those freak batters who slip into the national game and by batting skill manage to hold their own when in other departments they are not so perfect.

Speaker has lost his way in the maze in the American league. That is really the most marked change in that circuit. Ty Cobb is likely to win a batting champion this ear. When the roll narrows at the finish, probaby Ruth and Heilmann will be found fighting for supremacy, one of them a lefthand exemplar of the art of hitting them over the fence, and the other a righthand champion of hitting them over their heads.

But it would be a novel sight to the American league to watch these men fighting for the lead. They have fought it out before. If both of them were out and Cobb and Speaker were out, and the batting championship were won by Mostil or Calk or Meusel or Goslin, the league might sit up and look in the mirror. Then there would be such a change of faces as there is in the National, where three fledgings are fighting for leadership and the old birds are trying to fly now and then, only to find that time has clipped their wings.

Hagen Rallies And Overtakes Mitchell's Lead

4 Holes Down at End Of Second Round, Walt Cops Coin

WEYBRIDGE, England, June 19.—(AP)—Recovering the lost holes in a typically sensational manner, Walter Hagen, American professional, today overcame a four-hole lead which Abe Mitchell, British pro, had piled up during the first two rounds of their 72-hole match for £500 aside and finally won, two up and one to play.

By his feat Hagen gained for himself the unofficial world's championship at match play and for his backer, a Detroit broker, the largest stake money ever wagered on a golf match.

Nevertheless the struggle was so closely fought with the outcome never certain until the 71st hole that, although Americans admitted that the victory was clean cut and well deserved, few British golf experts can be found tonight who won't still argue that Mitchell, who is the most popular figure in the British golfing world, is the best man of them all with the possible exception of Bobby Jones.

Whatever may be the outcome of such debates the fact remains that Hagen mastered Mitchell today, but in doing so he had to defeat the worthiest opponent he has ever faced on the fairways.

Yankees have a new catcher named Skiff. He would have been a good man in the lineup in that last game of the world's series last fall.

Central Texas Regarded As Mid-Continent's Richest New Oil Area

ALBANY AREA THOUGHT NEW BIG OIL ZONE

CROSS CUT PLAY

New District Has Many Large Development Operations

One of the richest oil areas in the Mid-continent fields today is the shallow and deeper sand zone in the southern portion of Northern Texas. Virtually all of the production is found in pools located in the Pennsylvanian formation.

Outstanding of these are the Cross Cut field of Brown county, the Albany field of Shackleford county and the Woodson field of Throckmorton county. Others are the Blake pool of Brown county; while settled areas are Breckenridge in Stephens county; Pioneer and Cross Plains; Ranger and Desdemona.

In the opinion of many Texas oil men the Woodson field will be as great a field as was Breckenridge, and its production comes from a series of shallow, medium depth and deep sands, with the latter pay from the Breckenridge lime. Its development will be slower and on a conservative plan of one well for each 20 acres until the production is needed.

In Control

Red Bank Oil company, Humble Oil and Refining company, Associated Petroleum company, Panhandle Refining company, Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil company and Reiter-Foster Oil corporation ontrol the acreage in the Woodson field, named for the progressive little city several miles to the east. It is 26 miles off the railroad, but on highways that the authorities and oil companies are cooperating to improve.

The Cross Cut field is four years old with a daily output of 3,500 barrels, which promises to be increased. The average depth of the wells is from 1,100 to 1,400 feet and the production approximates 43 gravity. The field itself is fairly rich and the Phillips Petroleum company has an efficient plant there.

Albany District

Roscoe & Pendleton, Inc., former Tulsa men, and now of Fort Worth, have pushed the Albany field of Shackleford county into the picture with their Cook farm development. Wells are drilled to an average depth of 1,240 feet for 30 gravity oil. Rosser & Pendleton drilled in the first weel in February for 800 barrels. It is still making 400 barrels from 30 feet of pay sand. This firm is drilling 10 weels, the Humble Oil and Refining company is drilling three.

Creager Certain Wurzbach Will Lose in Fight

SAN ANTONIO, June 19.—(AP) The congressional race in the 14th district is inconsequental in comparison with the statewide contests in the republican primary July 24, according to R. B. Creager of Brownsville, national committeeman, here Saturday from a swing through west Texas.

"The matter of electing an isolated congressman from Texas is an exceedingly small matter compared with big things we have in mind," Creager said. "We are anxious to make Texas a two-party state, building up the republican party to where it can make trouble for the democrats; and making it possible for our party to elect governors, United States senators and not one, but many congressmen from Texas.

"Our trip through west Texas proved to us that we will poll many votes in the primary. There is a systematic trend toward our contention that two major parties will be a healthy thing for Texas."

Creager said he was not any more interested in the race in the 14th congressional district than he is in any other "local" contest.

TONKAWA, Okla., June 19.—The northwestern Tonkawa area is destined for a new play now since The Texas company No. 2 Siler, in the southwest of the northeast of 28-25-1w came in as a big well in the Wilcox sand. It made 1,377 barrels of 42 gravity oil and Saturday morning was agitated for an hour, making 97 barrels that hour.

During the past 36 hours two new rigs have been started, and materials moved in for the third and fourth, while a fifth location has been staked. Two new locations by the Texas company are reported east and north of the new well, while the Gypsy Oil company is to drill one new well north of its No. 1 Becker, in the southwest of 28-25-1w, which is now at 4,135 feet in black lime. It expects the Wilcox at around 4,230 feet, and it will be drilled in Tuesday or Wednesday.

DISTRICT HAS QUIET WEEK AS SUMMER BEGINS

Two New Productive Horizons Are Week's Only High Activity

With a number of more than usual interesting wildcats drilling and but two completions of startling merit the Wichita Falls district closed the week Saturday and settled down to welcome summer, the twentieth of June and all that the regular summer drilling lethargy promises. Wildcats are drilling in every direction which give promise of new discoveries soon but with the exception of the Trout extension producer in the Butram area of west central Jack county and the new Rubsam-Hunter 1,300 foot pay in the Sunshine hills district things were of ordinary quietude.

JACK COUNTY

The new wildcat producer of L. E. Trout and the Seaboard Oil company in the west part of Jack county stirred things up a bit the early part of the week effecting a half-mile west extension to the productive 2,000-foot horizon in that area. The new well which is estimated good for 50-100 barrels is being drilled deeper and cleaned before equipping on the beam. Its completion opens a large heretofore untested area in the Jack county district.

In Sunshine hills the new Rubsam-Hunter producer put a pick into old Wichita when it showed up as an estimated 50 barrel well from an alltogether new sand horison in the Sunshine hills district and extended production a quarter of a mile. The new well is of an unusually high gravity oil being rated 42 gravity baume and will be the means of new activity in the north Wichita area.

New Mexico Reports

Mid-continent oil men home from the Pecos valley of southwestern New Mexico report 11 operations near Roswell, county seat of Chaves county.

So far the only found in Chaves county is the Rogers and others, No. 1 in 15-11-26, that is making 17 barrels a day on the beam from a sand 1,100 feet. This well is located 13 miles east of Roswell and just across the Pecos river bridge.

Hall & Hall are rigging up for a test in 13-3-26; Norris and others of Pawkuska, are rigging up in 23-3-27, and Colby and other in 20-4-28, are shut down at 150 feet.

Scott & Fahrlender in 11-6-27 are drilling at 420 feet. They report a slight show of oil at 250 feet. Scott and others in 20-5-27, is a location, and they have a location for 20-6-27. Neal and others in 14-7-27, is also a location.

Mid-continent and Rocky mountain geologists report favorably on that portion of Chaves county lying between Railroad mountain and the Devil's race track, two geologic formations that are outstanding markers in that area. One of the noted geologists to map the Pecos valley area is John W. McGee of Amarillo, who mapped the individual structure on which the discovery well in the Texas Panhandle was drilled.

Navajo Oil company No. 1, McAdoo, in 16-1-27, DeBaca county, is drilling at 1,910 feet.

Pouder, omeroy and Steinberger in 9-1-30, Roosevelt county, are drilling below 1,100 feet.

No. 6, 8 barrels from sand 867-92 feet.

N. B. Chenault et al's No. 2 Rachuig, section 4, BBB&C survey, 60 barrels from sand 1164-73 feet.

Atlantic and Camp interests No. 7-A Rachuig, section 4, BBB&C survey, 100 barrels on the swab from sand 1167-81 feet.

Bridwell et al's No. 1 Gilmore, block 14 Young county school lands, dry and abandoned 605 feet.

Barkley and Howell's No. 3 Rogers section 166, TE&L Co. survey, swabbed 175 barrels from sand 861-73 feet.

TESTIMONY ON THE SOUNDNESS OF OUR PLAN

The soundness of our financing plan is attested by the fact that out of the hundreds of homes we have built and sold, it has been necessary for us to repossess very, very few.

We build the sort of homes that the owners want to keep. We make it easy to keep them.

Panhandle Up Again

The Texas Panhandle field, with 163 weels, produced a daily average of 45,354 barrels for the week ended June 12, as compared with 36,995 barrels from 151 weels for the previous week, being an increase of 12 wells and 8,359 barrels.

NEW PRODUCER OPEN BIG AREA

Well of Rubsam and Hunter Produces From New Sand In Sunshine

Producing from an altogether new sand horizon in the Sunshine hills district, Wichita county and effecting a 1,500 foot extension of the nearest production the semi-wildcat test of Dan Rubsam and T. A. Hunter on the McClure land is going on the beam as an estimated 50 barrel producer. The new well which is located 750 feet west and 800 feet north of the southeast corner of the southeast 40 acres of the McClure tract in abstract 363 is producing from the sand at 1,826-35 feet. The nearest production is that of the same interests a quarter mile to the west which is coming from the 800-foot horizon. The new well which is one of the most interesting completions in the Wichita district for some time past is making a high gravity 42 baume test crude. It's completion is the means of a new drilling era in the Sunshine sector. Location has already been made for number two and the derrick is being skidded 300 feet south.

Pandem, Brown Co.

The Pandem Oil company's No. 2 Westerman, in the Cross Cut field of Brown county is a 176 barrel well in the sand from 1253 to 1274 feet. It will be shot and a larger output is expected. The well is also making 465,000 cubic feet of gas with a gasoline content of 2.45 gallons per 1,000 cubic feet. The gas will be run to the Phillips Petroleum company casing head plant. Nos. 3 and 4 Westerman are drilling and rigs are moving in for No. 5, with locations made for Nos. 6, 7 and 8.

To Enlarge Refinery

The Bell Oil and Gas company is starting to enlarge its refinery at Grandfield, in Tillman county, southwestern Oklahoma.

Approximately $500,000 will be spent in new improvements, that will include a one unit Dubbs cracking process; additional crude and refined oil storage; an enlarged loading rack; new stills and tank cars. It will take 100 days to perfect the enlargement program.

The new Dubbs cracking unit will recover 1,000 barrels a day, and the total refining capacity will be increased to 3,500 barrels a day.

Artesia Refinery

Special to The Record News.

ARTESIA, N. M., June 19.—The Phillips Petroleum company casinghead gasoline plant here is now operating regularly. While the production varies from day to day the average output usually runs around 4,500 gallons per day. Not all wells have been connected with the plant, according to Manager J. C. Allbright.

DAILY CRUDE RUNS UP 1,292 BARRELS WEEK

Nocona District Shows New High Average of 4,195 Barrels

Pipeline runs in the Wichita district showed an average daily increase of 1292 barrels over the week ending June 19. The Vernon district showed the greatest daily increase being up over 1100 barrels. Montague and the Nocona district are up to their highest average going over the 41000 barrels mark and the field bids to far eclipse this figure within the next few weeks. Altogether the gain is a very substantial increase and avorable indication at the beginning of the summer season with its high crude prices and era of low new production. Runs for the district over the week were as follows:

District	Week	Last Prev. Week
Electra	16,435	16,935

Snyder Is Crowded With Delegates To C.of C. Convention

SNYDER, Texas, June 19.(AP)—All west Texas roads seem to lead to Snyder Saturday, as this city played the role of host to thousands of individuals and scores of delegations bound for Amarillo where the 1926 convention of the west Texas chamber of commerce opens Monday.

West Texas was not alone in its representation. Visitors from south and central Texas and some from the northeast section, were among those who followed hard, rain packed roads to the asphaltic highway which begins here. When dragging work now in progress on dirt roads is completed, it will have turned the rainfall of the past few days to advantage.

A band was included in the personnel of several of the delegations.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

F. H. Seeley, of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted expert, will personally be at the Kemp hotel, and will remain in Wichita Falls this Wednesday only June 23. Mr. Seeley says:

"The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

CAUTION—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. He will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

N. B.—Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. SEELEY.

IS SOFTENER WATER
Being Used in Your Home?

YOU owe it to the kiddies to give them soft, pure, filtered water to drink and bathe in. The use of hard water for general household purposes is inefficient and costly. It wastes soap, fuel and time. It shortens the life of your linens. It scales up pipes and cooking utensils.

Let us prove to you that a DE LUXE WATER SOFTENER is not a luxury but a true economy in your home.

'Juneteenth' Is Ruined in Houston

HOUSTON, June 19.—(AP)—[illegible] car service was tied up, auto- [illegible] stalled, and thousands of "Juneteenths" celebrants sent scurrying for shelter by nearly two inches of rain which fell here Saturday in an hour and a half.

Water two feet deep in the Pres- avenue tunnel, held up street cars for 50 minutes, and two other cars were stopped for three hours. Thunderstorm conditions were general over the state, the weather bureau announced, Palestine reporting 3.56 inches of rain Friday, Abilene 2.72 inches, Uvalde 3 inches, Albany in the Panhandle 2.54, Crockett 1.64, Bronson 1.64, Brazos 1.50, Longview 1.38 and Waco 1.30.

Governor Nellie Can't Meet Prince

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 19.—(AP)—Governor Ross, Wyoming's executive does not allow pleasure to interfere with business.

In a telegram today to Secretary of the Interior Work, replying to his invitation to attend a dinner at Yellowstone National Park July 2, in honor of the crown prince and princess of Sweden, Mrs. Ross said:

"Important state board meeting precludes acceptance of your invitation which I appreciate exceedingly. If returning by way of Cheyenne with royal guests, it would give me great pleasure to entertain them at executive mansion."

Vin and Howard Show Boys How

EAST BOURNE, England, June 19.—(AP)—Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey, the winning American doubles combination in the two days' tennis tourney here, set themselves rather a hard task in playing five matches in that period with a high class British team but they got away with their ambitious essay without a single defeat. They wound up the series at Devonshire Park this evening by taking the doubles from Charles H. Kingsley and George R. O. Crole-Rees in a fourset match which was a fight from first to last. Richards and Kinsey won by the score of 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Previous to this Kinsey had defeated the young Cambridge player, H. W. Austin, in an interesting contest which the young collegian showed improved form over that against Richards yesterday. Thin atch also went four sets, and while Austin never had a chance to win, he made Kinsey exert himself at all stages. The score was 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—The upward movement of stock prices which was abruptly checked by heavy profit taking late yesterday, was resumed with increased vigor in today's brief session. Realizing sales again developed in large volume but they were well absorbed, both the rail and industrial averages closing higher on the day. Trading was relatively heavy in volume, total sales aggregating 873,100 shares.

The sharp recovery today apparently was based on the belief that yesterday's reaction had sufficiently corrected the weakened technical position resulting from the sustained advance earlier in the week. Hundreds of small traders were reported to be awaiting a reaction to enter the market, after having missed the first upward swing and yesterday's decline gave them an opportunity. Pools acting on the theory that money rates would ease again next week were aggressive in bidding up their favorites.

Revival of activity and strength in a selected list of oil shares was one of the features of the brief session. Union Oil of California was the outstanding individual performer, soaring over 8 points to a record high at 56. Mariand, General Asphalt, Panhandle Producers and Refiners, Atlantic Refining and Colorado Fuel all advanced a point or more with buying influenced by the statement of President Teagle of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey that east of the Rockies over 100,000 barrels of oil a day were being withdrawn from storage.

Sharp recoveries took place throughout the list, U. S. Steel common recovered more than half of yesterday's net losses by climbing 2⅝ points to 136⅛ and General Motors closed nearly 2 points higher at 145.

Reading was the individual feature in the railway group, jumping nearly 5 points to 99⅝, the highest price since 1920. Atchison, Southern Pacific, Central Railroad of New Jersey and Pittsburgh and West Virginia all sold 2 to 5 points higher.

Foreign exchanges displayed a firm undertone with a rally of 15 points to 16.38 cents in Spanish pesetas as the only feature. Demand sterling was steady around $4.86 3-16 and French francs ruled about 3 points higher around 2.80 cents.

CLEARING HOUSES.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows excess reserve of $19,758,800. This is an increase of $27,170,410 compared with last week when a deficit in reserve of $7,411,550 was reported.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—Wheat bulls were under fire again today on the Chicago board of trade and despite a rather stiff defense lost more ground. The close was at the low for the short session, with options off ¾ to 2¼c.

Corn received relatively better support than for several days. Weather conditions were generally favorable for the crop. The spot basis was higher. There was quite a bit of buying of July and selling of September at a difference of around 5¾c. Some shorts covered and helped steady the market.

Oats finished weak. Some cash interests sold July oats but the northwest was a buyer. Commission houses sold December.

Provisions were easier and some stop orders came out but packers bought on the break. A decline in hogs served to ease the market.

GOLF GROUNDS FLOODED

Use of the Municipal Golf course will be discontinued for a few days, it was announced by C. C. Bunnerberg, city park superintendent, Saturday, due to the overflow of water in Holliday creek.

Due to the heavy rains the middle of the week, an accumulation of back water in the creek was the cause of the overflow, it is believed. Until the water receeds the fareways and greens will be unfit for play Sunday or Monday.

Where Watson's New Paints Are Made

The Charles E. Watson Paint Factory at Oak and Virginia streets. Mr. Watson has recently received a license from the New Jersey Zinc company for the use of their trade mark and sale of "40-40-20", a paint that has proved its brilliantly white color, durability under all sorts of conditions and better hiding power in the five years of its marketing. Mr. Watson is confident that its manufacture will present to the people of Wichita Falls a better paint than can be afforded by any factory in this part of the country.

Watson Opens New Paint Manufacturing Plant To Make Special Product

An industry that is believed will eventually put Wichita Falls as one of two Texas cities on a list of 73 other cities in the United states engaged in the manufacturing of a paint entirely new to this part of the country is the Charles E. Watson Paint company, manufacturers of "40-40-20", a product of the New Jersey Zinc company.

Something improved and different from the usual line of paints has been Mr. Watson's aim for a number of years and with the acceptance of his samples and issuance of a license for the use of the "40-40-20" trade mark by the New Jersey company a paint factory has been installed at the Watson wholesale house with a capacity of 100 gallons a day.

Registered Name.

"40-40-20" is the registered trade mark of the New Jersey Zinc company. It identifies paint made from a formula developed by the company after years of laboratory research and experimentation. For four years this paint has been tested in every conceivable way, in actual service. Six months ago Br. Watson applied for a license. His factory and materials were inspected by a representative from the eastern office, which superintends all production, and the samples were okeyed as perfectly manufactured. A few days ago Mr. Watson received the license authorizing the use of the trade mark and sale of "40-40-20."

This paint consists of an extremely white pigment called lithopone which came into general use some years ago. It possessed many very desirable characteristics including, in addition to extreme whiteness strong hiding power, moderate cost and easy working qualities. However, it was not able to hold its whiteness in the presence of moisture. The natural result was that its use was restricted to interiors. Corps of chemists were put to work to find the remedy for its suceptibility to dampness and in 1920 after a long period of experimentation, the problem was solved. In that year albalith was out on the market. It possessed all the good qualities of lithophone plus ability to hold its whiteness. The following four years were spent getting the formula right. "40-40-20" is the result. 40 per cent zinc oxide, 40 per cent alabith, 20 per cent inerts (silica and asbestine). The combination produces brilliant white paint that, according to the dealers, stays white regardless of where it is used.

Has Big Mixer.

The local mill includes a change can mixer in which the pigments and oils are mixed. This is, perhaps, the most important process in the entire manufacturing. Slow mixing and deliberate combination are essential to the quality. The water-cooled stone paint mixer into which the mixture is put is the latest designed machine of its kind. The feeder pot mixes the paint, allows it to run into the stone compartment where it is ground between smoothness and fineness. The paint is then slowly run into the cans, ready for labeling and shipping.

Eight and a half years ago Charles E. Watson entered the paint business with W. S. Robertson. Two years later he started a retail house himself with a very small amount of capital. Today his business represents a figure near $70,000. In 5 years the business of both retail and wholesale houses has increased rapidly. With a 50 per cent increase of 1924 over 1923, and a 36 per cent increase of 1924 over 1925, the latter showing a profit of $200,000, this business will in a short time with the manufacture of "40-40-20", become a leading industry in the south. The Watson Paint company, 807 Indiana, carries a complete supply of paints and varnishes, mirrors, picture frames, interior decoration and art specialties and wall papers. Imported papers shipped direct from the foreign makers to the Emmrich, Lloyd and Doddmkn companies, which are the three largest importers in the United States are among the finest French, German and English papers made. Mr. Watson does a large amount of contracting work for Wichita Falls' most beautiful homes. J. T. Montgomery, M. D. Rowe, C. R. Dainel, the Chenault and Lee homes are among his present contracts. The warehouse is located on Oak street near Virginia avenue and is a large brick structure with machine rooms and ample storage accommodations.

Coroner Probing Brothers' Deaths

DONIPHAN, Mo., June 19.—(AP) A coroner's jury late today was investigating the mysterious deaths of Frank Van Patten, 72, and Ernest Van Patten, 77, bachelor brothers, whose mutilated bodies were found near their little farm home, 15 miles west of here this morning. They apparently had been dead about two weeks.

No indications that the men had been slain could be found by officers and no reason could be learned why they should enter into a suicide pact. Money in their clothing failed to bear out a theory of robbery. The presence of poison in the home led some to believe they had been accidentally poisoned.

Frank Humphrey, superintendent of the Martin Printing company, will appear in Scotch kilts and give Scotch reels and sonnets on his bagpipes. Mrs. E. F. Bohmfalk, talented reader, will give a group of selections from well-known Scotch authors: and Joel H. MacGregor, director of the choir of the First Methodist church, who is well known in this section of the country and of Texas will sing a number of songs.

Humphrey Well Known.

Mr. Humphrey has been heard here on many occasions and has a reputation for his remarkable bagpipe playing. He trained many Scotch bagpipe bands in London prior to his coming to America several years ago.

Mrs. Bohmfalk, wife of the educational director of the First Methodist church, is in great demand n church and social circles for her readings.

Mr. MacGregor is an interpreter of Scotch songs made famous by the popular Scotch singer and comedian, Harry Lauder. He has appeared before practically all the civic organizations of the city as well as in church, clubs and societies, and has found favor for his singing. He will be heard in a group of song, that he has not given before. He will be accompanied at the piano in all the numbers by Mrs. MacGregor.

The Program.

The public is cordially invited to attend and there will be no charge for admission. A free will offering will be taken, the entire proceeds going to the support of two foreign missionaries.

Following is the program:

(a) "My Love She's But a Lassie Yet;" (b) "The Highland Laddie;" (c) "The Barren Rocks of Aden." Mr. Humphrey on the bagpipe.

(a) "A Man'd a Man for A' That;" (b) "A' His Lain;" (c) "Cuddie Doon." Mrs. Bohmfalk, reader.

(a) "It's a Fine Thing to Sing" (Lauder); (b) "Trixie From Dixie" (Lauder); (c) "She Is Ma Daisy" (Lauder); Mr. MacGregor, tenor.

(a) "MacLeod's Reel;" (b) "Rocking Stone of Inverness." Mr. Humphrey.

(a) "Imph-m;" (b) "Rale Weel;" (c) "Drap o' Dew." Mrs. Bohmfalk.

(a) "The Wee Hoose Mang the Heather" (Lauder); (b) "A Wee Doech-an-Doris" (Lauder); (c) "We'll All Go Hame the Same Way" (Lauder). Mr. MacGregor.

Slight Damage To Lake Boats

Automobiles, boats and Point Breeze hotel at Lake Kemp were damaged slightly in the terrific storm at the lake this week, according to Mrs. N. H. Marshall, proprietress. The heavy wind and high waves on the lake made the boats and floating hotel almost unsafe, and as soon as a definite location can be found, the hotel will be moved to more quiet waters.

One boat was completely overturned in the storm and tops were taken from two automobiles, while all telephone communication was paralyzed as a result of the storm, it was said.

CAMP FIRES TO FLOURISH HERE

Miss McIlheran Back In City After Attending Convention

"I have come home with new ideas, new knowledge, fresh enthusiasm and a determination to make Camp Fire stronger and better than ever," Miss Mary McIlheran, Camp Fire executive said yesterday following her return from Stockton, Calif., where she attended the national convention. Several hundred executives and guardians from every state in the union gathered at Stockton for the convention and took part in the sessions.

Texas was recognized for unusual ability displayed by Camp Fire workers, Miss McIlheran said. The Harriman medallion, given each year by Mrs. Oliver Harriman, president of the Camp Fire Girls of America, to the guardian who makes the best annual report of the work done with her group of Camp Fire girls was presented to Mrs. Mary Ford of Orange.

Other Awards.

For the last two years it has been customary to award a given few the Wohelo award as a recognition of special service to Camp Fire. This year the award was given to 14, including Mrs. W. C. Barrickman of Dallas, who organized the first group in Texas in 1913.

Miss McIlheran was a charter member of Mrs. Barrickman's first group and worked with her until she came to Wichita Falls. Miss McIlheran spoke in a meeting for executives when one-minute high-lights were given by those officers chosen from various parts of the country to give outstanding glimpses of the year's achievements. She spoke on "Helping a Guardian."

Visits Goodner.

While away, the local executive visited Camp Fire headquarters in a number of the large cities of the west, including Berkeley, Los Angeles, and Seattle Wash. While in California, Miss McIlheran talked with Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Goodner, formerly of this city ,and E. C Hackabee, member of the council of Los Angeles Camp Fire, who was former choir director of the First Methodist church in Wichita Falls.

Entertainment of various kinds including plays, dances and other features planned by the convention city.

Miss Ida Moore will leave early Sunday morning for New York City where she will study this summer in Columbia university. En route she will stop for a time in Washington and will later visit the Sesqui-Centennial exposition in Philadelphia.

Doc Prothe, former Washington infielder, now with Mission team in Pacific Coast league, hurled a ball at Umpire Williams. Doc's aim was bad but the fine was based on a strike.

Umpiring Will Be Rotten, But Even at That - - -

Reports of the international convention of Kiwanis recently held at Montreal, Canada, will probably be given to the club at the regular meeting Monday at noon at he Kemp hotel, when the delegates, J. Ed Jackson, Jr., president;; Julian Bobo and Jouette Bonner are expected to be present.

Announcement is made in the Kiwinis bulletin of the week that the Rotary-Kiwanis baseball game will be held at Spudder Park June 28 at 3:30 o'clock. Volunteers from the challengers, the Kiwanians, are asked, according to "The We Build."

To keep disagreements at a minimum, the committee has submitted the following list of eligibility rules:

1. There shall be no ringers.
2. Round bats must be used.
3. Pinch hitter cannot be used except when needed.
4. As usual, umpires will be rotten, and players must control temers.
5. Dave Paul's silver bat will be used to crown the worst pitcher.
6. All players must be able to control their playing notwithstanding the presence of the feminine admirers.

Killingsworths To Leave for Amarillo

Miss Elva Killingsworth, who has been chosen Miss Wichita Falls for the Fiesta at Amarillo, and whose title will be Senorita Wichita Falls for the special feature of the West Texas chamber of commerce convention, will leave Monday for the convention city. She will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth, who will be Mrs. Wichita Falls in the program. Miss Killingsworth's escort during the program will be Chas. Nolan.

The fiesta program, arranged for the convention, promises to be one of the greatest programs of the kind ever arranged in Texas. Various cities in west Texas will be represented by their senioritas and Sonoras, the honor here having fallen to Miss Killingsworth and her mother.

Cool Weather Is Relief Saturday

The period of prevailing hot weather which has been 90 or above for the past three weeks was broken Saturday when the maximum temperature was only 80. The temperature dropped to a much lower level than usual, and at the minimum Saturday reached 62.

The week closing yesterday has been filled with a variety of temperatures and changes in weather. The hottest day so far in 1926 was noted Tuesday, when the mercury reached 104. Saturday had one of the coolest moments of the past few days when the temperature went to 62. A high, hot wind prevailed Tuesday and continued into the night, covering things with the dust it carried. A rain of 3.20 inches fell Thursday night and Friday, drenching the parched earth. Lightning and thunder accompanied by wind that threatened to become cyclonic were among the other weather features of the week.

IN CHARGE OF WORK

Miss Nell Smith, formerly a Camp Fire Girl of this city and leader of the Ikiya group is now in charge of Camp Fire work in Eldorado, Ark., according to information received here yesterday.

She has been interested in the work with girls and in playground work for several years. While visiting her sister there she assisted the eight groups there, and then she was asked to take charge of the Camp Fire and playground work there.

Dances, Weddings And Parties Give Busy Social Week

Peggy Piedmont

—The Trek Begins
—Off to Europe
—Court Insurance
—What It Costs
—Popular Visitors
—Mrs. Dan Here

DEAR KITTY:

Wichita Falls' vacationers will be represented in the foremost resorts of the east, the Great Lakes, the Pacific slope, and many across the Atlantic if indications run true to form. Already tourists have begun their trekking and if some fairy godmother should come this morning and ask your friend Peggy where she desired to spend the summer, she would tell you immediately, "in some cottage way off in the mountains, where it is cool, and with solitude for companionship."

Tomorrow, who knows, I might feel a great deal more ambitious, and might choose some busy resort or metropolis, where one could visit aquariums, art museums, famous buildings and other spots of cultural interests. But today, my thoughts are not half so ambitious. As Robert Davis quotes in "Field and Stream," I should like to bid farewell to the city and give in exchange for its stone temples the silent mountains; for its rivers of humanity, the streams that flow through the valleys—for its churches, the cathedral of the trees; for its fame and applause—solitude!

ONE party leaving for a trek over Europe the past week included Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snider and daughter Helen, and Gertrude Melat of Fort Worth, who left Saturday for Kansas City where they will be joined by Mrs. Snider's sister, Mrs. F. H. Moore and daughter, Esther. The party will sail from New York City on the Majestic on the 24th. This is the last of a large number of Wichitans to leave for a trip abroad this summer. Preceding their departure, Mrs. J. L. Jackson entertained intimate friends of Mrs. Snider, with a delightful informal farewell party at her home on Denver Thursday evening. It was intended to have a porch party but on account of the sudden severe storm many of the guests were unable to come and the affair was given in the spacious reception suite of the Jackson home and proved none the less enjoyable.

Mrs. W. M. Priddy and children will leave about June 20 for Clayton, N. C., and will spend the summer with Mrs. Priddy's mother, Mrs. Hunter, and Mrs. Ben Bell has taken a hou.. for the summer at Denver, Colo., and will leave Wednesday and take her children there for the summer.

Two school girls having an unusually pleas.. ", are Mary Tancred and Sadie Fisher, who are spending a few weeks on the Hobb's ranch near Perico, N. M. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Hobbs and expect to enjoy the outdoor life of the ranch for several weeks.

A couple who have had a most interesting trip are Mr. and Mrs. Jouette Bonner. For several weeks they have toured Canada and returning via New York City and Philadelphia, are expected home today.

But speaking of so many of our people visiting Europe this summer reminds me of a most unique plan whereby the young woman who expects to be presented in court may take out an insurance policy covering the expense of raiment for the event. It is stated that the numerous debutantes, including several from the United States made their bow to royalty at Buckingham palace on the ninth and tenth of this month, an enterprising insurance company took advantage of the moment to show parents how they may easily arrange for the "coming out" costs of future debutantes in their cradles.

Peeresses and others who entered into high society have been informed by the insurance company of a plan by which the cost of a court dress 18 years from now may be paid for. Any girl up to 12 years of age is eligible to a policy of 500 pounds, payable at the age of 18. The premiums are announced as follows:

Age 1 year 21 pounds, 11 shillings per annum. Age 3 months, 25 pounds, six shillings. Age 7, 37 pounds. Age 10, 54 pounds.

AT the present time the cost of a debutante's wardrobe during her first session ranges from 300 pounds to 450 pounds provided the gowns and "extras" are purchased now. The present quotation includes court gowns at 30 pounds, a low estimate; six evening gowns 15 pounds each; ten day dresses including those for race meetings and boatings 85 pounds, nine pairs of shoes 21 pounds, 18 pairs of stockings at one pound each, dozen pair of gloves at one pound each, town and country coats, skirts, jumpers, woolen clothing 75 pounds, opera cloak 12 pounds.

And there are other essentials and luxuries in a young woman's wardrobe for this event.

But not only are we going some right now and will be more and more as the summer advances, but a group of visitors are furnishing inspiration for numerous small bridge parties, dinners and luncheons. Icy V. Larkin is entertaining two attractive popular San Antonio girls, Hattie Hood and Kittie West Schreiner, and this week is filled with social events complimenting these guests. This afternoon a buffet supper will start the ball rolling. This will be followed by a picnic Tuesday evening and a dance Wednesday evening. And while we are talking about dances I almost forgot to tell you that the school girl set all turned out Friday evening in one of the most delightful events since vacation, when Jeanette Moore was hostess with a dance at the Country club.

Other visitors drawing around them groups of old friends, are Major and Mrs. James R. Alfonte, who are visiting the Elmer de Montels and Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Atkinson. The major and his wife are well known and popular here where they were stationed during the World war at Call field. Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. de Montel, the Curtis Atkinsons and W. H. Sandford had dinner at the Wichita club, Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snider were hosts at dinner honoring Major and Mrs. Alfonte when covers were laid for about 18 guests at the Wichita club, and Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Atkinson entertained for them at home on Thursday evening at dinner.

ANOTHER visitor proving exeremely popular during her brief sojourn here was Mrs. Dan Moody who accompanied her distinguished husband here on his political campaign for governor. Mrs. Moody was formerly Miss Mildred Paxton, popular society and business girl of Abilene and while here was entertained by Mrs. E. W. Wade, former Abilene resident and old friend, and by Mrs. Stayton Bonner, both being hostesses at small dinner parties for the visitor.

Martha Long of Vernon is the house guest of Donna Mitcham, and it is expected that a series of social affairs will hinge around the presence of this attractive visitor. This week, Mrs. Peyton Gwynn will have as her guests, Mrs. I. A. Gwynn and daughter, Miss Catherine Gwynn of Fort Worth.

Yes small parties for guests will occupy us now until like the Arabs we fold our tents and quietly trek to cooler climes to spend July and August.

And after telling you so much news about visitors and travelers, I consider I should have satisfied even our insatiable appetite for news. Now it remains for me to say good-night to Kitty, and for her as she opens this letter to say "Good morning" to—

Peggy Piedmont

HASKELL

HASKELL GIRL WEDS VERNON MAN

On last Sunday morning, June 13, Miss Lois Killingsworth, daughter of I. D. Killingsworth Sr., of Haskell was married to J. E. McPherson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McPherson of Chillicothe, in the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pierson. Baskets and vases of sweet peas and ferns made the bridal rooms more lovely, and at the appointed hour when relatives of both the bride and the groom and a few close friends had arrived Mrs. John W. Pace took her place at the piano where she presided throughout the entire ceremony. Miss Marjory Whiteker sang "At Dawning" by Cadman and then Lohengrin's wedding march heralded the coming of the bride and groom who were preceded by two lovely little flower girls, Louise Pierson and Marie Ballard in dainty yellow and pink frocks, carrying baskets of sweet peas, to the waiting Rev. W. B. Vaughn, pastor of the First Methodist church, who read the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony while Mrs. Pace played, Mc-Dowell's, "To A Wild Rose." The bride was lovely in an ashes of roses georgette gown, with hat and accessories to match, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Mr. and Mrs. McPherson left at once for a fortnight's visit to friends before being at home in Vernon, Texas, where the grom is in the hardware business and where a lovely home completely furnished, awaits them. Miss Lois Kinllingsworth does not only come from one of Haskell's pioneer and highly esteemgble families, but her own sweet personality and cultured attainments make her very popular with all who know her. Guests of the wedding were: Bride's father, Mr. I. D. Killingsworth Sr., Groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McPherson of Chillicothe, other out-of-town guests; Mr. and Mrs. Earl McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Roberts, Messrs. Get Yourself a Brand New Liver

How Dodson's Liver Tone Makes You Feel the Old Liver is Born Again

Just off the slant of Old Piedmont where it gulls away into the foot-hills of South Georgia, Bud evans makes a good stand of cotton. A year ago he was too sick to follow a plow. His right side seemed hard, felt as if his liver had turned to stone; belched gas all the time; couldn't hold up his head for the pain; calomel just turned him inside out. You couldn't imagine anyone sicker than Bud Evans. It just happened that an egg buyer dropped in on him one day and says: "What you need, Bud, is a dose of Dodson's Liver Tone—Your liver is baked and full up so it doesn't work." And so Bud got a bottle at the town drug store for a few cents. The very first night it loosened up so much sour bile and fermenting food that the swelling went down, his whole system righted itself and he was a new man entirely before noon.

There is no question but that Dodson's Liver Tone will do more for bilious people than anything else ever known. It works easily and smoothly, without gripe or distress, and cleans out all the sour bile and sickening stuff that gives you headache, nausea, vomiting, bilious fever and all the other distresses due to obstinate constipation.

Get one bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, and if it doesn't make you feel like you had traded your old worn-out liver for a new one full of pep, go to the druggist and he will refund the price.—Adv.

To Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

June 20, 1925

SENATOR MILLER IS HAPPY

SENATOR EUGENE MILLER of the Shoestring district, is happy. His district was carved out by wonderful map makers. Senator Miller hails from Parker county on the Texas and Pacific railroad. It extends on the north to Denton county on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad. It is made up of a big bunch of populous counties and is overwhelmingly democratic.

In the lottery for seats before the adjournment of the 39th legislature, Senator Miller drew the short term. This forced him to go before the people of his district as a candidate for re-election. He was threatened with opposition at the beginning of the campaign. Former Senator Joseph Wiley was a receptive candidate and Will G. Edwards of the Denton Record Chronicle was urged by his friends to make the race.

Wiley changed his mind and ceased to be a receptive candidate. Editor Edwards listened to the pleading of his friends and while he was listening, the Rotarians of his district made him their chief. He accepted the chiefship and then turned a deaf ear to the politicians. Now the gentleman from Parker has a clear field. He will be given a term of four years without opposition.

He broke into legislative life as a member of the lower house of the 38th legislature. The game must have fascinated him. Two years ago he decided to break into the senate and had to run over Roy Coffee of Wise county and others equally ambitious to make the landing. A very progressive young man is this lawmaker from the Shoestring district. He is a product of the Texas university and the College of Industrial Arts, which is in his district, is one of his pet institutions.

Furthermore, he championed a special session of the Texas legislature for the validation of bonds which may have been effected by the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Archer county case.

If he has drawn a short term, he ial nomination over H. L. Triplett in the Orange-Jefferson district, elderly statesmen in the senate of the 40th legislature will be noticable for their absence. Senator Pierce B. Ward of Johnson county is an elderly statesman, but he will be in evidence for the reason that he is a hold1 over.

Ife he has drawn a short term, he might have retired to private life as there are many ambitious men in the counties of Hill, Ellis and Johnson, the three that comprise the ward district. Perhaps the hottest contest for a nomination in the 31 district is that on in the Dallas district where Thomas B. Love and Senator John Davis, known to fame as Big John, are the rivals of Senator Davis voted for the Fergusons at the general election in 1924; Love voted for Dr. George C. Butte. Morrell Buckner is the chairman of the Dallas county democratic committee. He is for letting in all the voters of other years, although he is said to have voted for the Fergusons in 1924 and later backed T. K. Erwin for the speakership. What happened to Irwin is ancient history.

STAND FOR THE CREDIT OF TEXAS

THERE will never come an hour in the history of Texas when even a respectable minority of the people of the state will stand for the repudiation of $80,000,000 of bonds or a bond of the value of a dollar, which have been stamped with the approval of political subdivisions and issued for the purpose of road building or public improvements of any kind whatsoever. This regardless of politicians in high place or low place; this regardless of the few who would dishonor the fame of Texas or its people.

Texans should come out of their trance. They are face to face with a crisis.

They should tell the world, through their lawmakers, that every bond legally issued by the people, that every bond issue, county or state or a municipal and sold to investors the country over, shall be redeemed when the day of maturity comes.

This will be the attitude at all times of the safe and the sane people of Texas, the honest and honorable people of Texas, the men who believe in keeping the credit of the state at an alpine height and who will never agree to place a blot or a blemish upon the scutheon of the commonwealth.

GRUNDY AS A BUSINESS MAN

JOSEPH R. GRUNDY is a very important personage. He is the president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, and he is the man who handled the finances for the Pepper-Fisher combination in the recent primary fight in Pennsylvania. He is Joseph of many colors, but when it comes to passing the plate for campaign contributions, he is a wonderful go-getter.

He appeared before a senate investigating committee and told of the vast sums expended to put over the ticket he was backing when Pepper lost and Vare won. Pepper was the only man on the ticket backed by Joseph, who went down in defeat. Joseph R. Grundy is the voice of big business in Pennsylvania on the republican side at least, when financing of campaigns are necessary.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, is chairman of the investigating committee. The Missourian placed Grundy on the rack. Senator King, the Mormon democrat from Utah, is another member of the investigating committee. Senator King took this modern Joseph down the broad highway and King brought out that Joseph had been active in campaign collecting for years, and that in 1924, he collected $7,000,000 for the Coolidge campaign.

Then the prohibition issue came uppermost and Joseph admitted he was not much interested in the wet and dry issue and was a "little damp," on that question. And this "little damp" collector of millions for campaign purposes backed the dry Pepper for United States senator, backed him and lost Pepper but he won all the others.

Jesse H. Jones, the finance director of the national democratic committee, should take lessons from Joseph R. Grundy as a collector of coin for political purposes. A man able to raise $7,000,000 in a single state must be a powerful persuader.

HE IS A BARRISTER NOW

CAPTAIN BILL LEA of Orange is a barrister now. Captain Bill Lea of Orange for a young man has had considerable rocking in the cradle of experience. He held forth at Austin in the merry month of June, and passed a rigid examination as to his ability, or rather his qualifications, to pursue the law as a profession. He went over the top. Then he returned to Orange to nail his shingle over the main entrance of the building wherein he has housed his law books.

He was a young soldier during the world war. He was a young mayor of Orange after the war. He was the president of the State Highway association, an organization of builders and developers. Then he decided to enter the law factory at Lebanon, Tennessee, an ancient institution, which in its time has turned out many very creditable followers of Coke and Blackstone.

Having saturated himself with legal lore, the captain returned to Texas, journeyed from Orange to Austin, faced the examiners, was placed on the griddle or the rack by the astute questioners and survived the trying ordeal. Not being satisfied with the rocking he has received in the cradle of experience, he is a candidate for state senator in the Orange-Jefferson district, and hopes to push his face into the senate picture when the thirty-one mugs are taken for the official work of art to preserve to posterity those of the upper house in and for the fortieth legislature of Texas.

Having been a hand worker in his youth, a soldier when soldiers were needed, chief eexcutive of his home town, a road builder among road builders and a successful student of the law, he is ready to be rocked under the Big Dome.

HOW IT WILL WORK

REALLY the wisest political leaders are the Mellons and Grundys of Pennsylvania. They have a contempt for Vare, their senatorial candidate. John S. Fisher is the republican candidate for governor. If Vare is elected and unseated, Fisher, who is certain to be elected governor, will appoint a Mellon man to fill the vacancy and the appointee will be backed when the time shall come to elect a senator by the republican organization of Pennsylvania, which is dominated by the Mellons and the Grundys.

TEXAS WHEAT CROP

NOW it is said that the Texas wheat crop will go beyond 32,000,000 bushels this year. Texas is on the map wherever you go.

The Better Part of Valor

Old Grad Lardner Had Hectic College Career By Ring Lardner

To the editor:

I may of said this before but will say it again anyway, namely that opening your mail is a whole lot like answering the telephone and 90 times out of a 100 you wished you had not of done neither. I suppose there is exceptions to this rule like for inst in the case of a beautiful young gal who the most of their mail is love letters and probbaly gives them a thrill, but they ain't no mash notes in my mail and the majority of same is Gimme mail, will I send a donation to the Home for Fallen Flebs or the Community Cow Clinic, or will I write a 3000 wrd. article free gratis for "Tantrums," the monthly magazine gotten out by student at the Oklahoma Academy of Razor Stropping and I can pick my own subject, but be sure and make it a good one and they will sign my name to it and send me a free copy of the issue in which it appears.

These and similar trivial requests is a common occurrence amongst the daily gist of ipcoming mail, but you could of knocked me over with one of the abutments of the 59th street bridge when a letter arrived last wk. from Armour Institute of Technology in the thriving city of Chi, saying that who ever had been supporting same in the past was not going to be able to support it no longer in the style in which it had been accustomed and therefore they were calling on old grads and aluminum of all kinds to rally around the flag and in a wd. how much was I willing to subscribe.

No Love Interest in Trig

Now friends you haven't no idear what I wouldn't do for old Armour, in fact I feel like they's no chance for me to ever get anywheres near even with same and I know you will agree with me if I give you a brief outline of what somebody has nicknamed my collegiate career.

It was a career that was probably unique in the annuals of Armour or any other institution of higher learning. In the first place I entered during the second wk. in January which nobody else had ever though of doing before. The regular time for entering was October or February, but they must of though I had been there right along or didn't know I was there yet, anyway I got in with no objection. I had been told at home that I was to study mechanical engineering and I can't think of no walk in life for which I had more of a natural bent unless it would be hostess at a roller rink. I went through a yr. of physics in high school without never finding out the difference between a cam and a ham and when my toothbrush hook come loose on the bathroom wall I had to ask central which way you turned a screw to tighten it up.

Well, my curriculum at Armour to begin with was supposed to consist of some more physics, mechanical drawings, trigonometry, rhetoric and shop wrk, but I figured I had already mastered physics and one look inside the trigonometry book convinced me that it didn't have enough love interest, so I took a permanent furlough from them two courses and specialized in the other three. I give up mechanical drawing the second wk. when I found that I could make a whole lot funnier pictures without the aid of no ruler or T square. They had rhetoric class three times a wk. And as I was the only one in class that could speak English I did not even half to ever study to keep up with my mates and this give me plenty of time to practice on the cornet and I feel like I owe my present success with that instrument to my rhetoric course at dear old Armour.

With the Compliments of the Dean.

Shop work, as its name implies, was all done in the shop and I didn't need to waste no though on it in what I and my brother laughingly called our room, which was a replica of a telephone booth located in the Armour flats, a bldg. which compared in beauty and cleanliness with a Big Four day coach running between Indianapolis and Benton Harbor. The first assignment I got in the shop was to plane a piece of board about 2 ft. long by 1-2 wide, 2 inches thick. Well, I worked on it a couple hrs, and turned it in and pretty soon teacher come over and handed it to me and I was surprised and asked him did he mean I was to keep it and he said he thought I might as well and maybe I could manage to put a couple more grooves and humps in it and use it as a back scratcher or a mold for French pastry.

'He Said I Might As Well Keep It And Maybe I Could Manage to Put a Couple More Grooves and Humps In It.

To make a long story short, if all the boards I turned in and got back was to lay down side by side they would make the Atlantic City boardwalk look like the take off in a running broad jump. The last one he give me to plane, I just stuck it under my coat and took it home and I and my brother used it to play pitch on just as it was, which was maybe as good as if I had monkeyed with it. I was sick and tired of planing boards and besides I was acquainted with a couple of men back home that was graduate mechanical engineers and had heard neither of them speak of having to get up early the next morning and plane a board.

Along in February I recd. a valentine from the dean asking me to call on him on a certain evening at eight, but I didn't want to get into entanglements with a married man and also we had tickets for that night to see Williams and Walker in the "Sons of Ham."

Came spring and examinations. I passed in rhetoric with one of the highest marks in class and figured that this would give a perfect record as it was the only study I was taking. But came another valentine from the dean containing a few fond words of farewell and congratulating me on having finished at Armour in faster time than any other student in his memory.

So all and all, me getting called on as an old grad, for a contribution to the suport of may alma mater might be aptly termed either the bee's knee or the cat's sleeping bag and I am going to leave it to you to guess the amount I have subscribed and to the reader that comes nearest the correct figure I will award a piece of board 2 ft. long by 1-2 wide by 2 in ches thick.

Too Many Parts

BERLIN, June 19.—The Berlin police authorities for some time have been perplexed over how to erect a New York traffic-guiding tower. They think they now have the key to the problem and hope to have the tower set up in time for the international police exhibition in Berlin, September the 25th.

Dr. John Harriss, traffic deputy police commissioner of New York City, sent 150 boxes to Germany containing the parts of a Fifth Avenue traffic tower. He forgot to send instructions for setting it up, however, and the boxes have been lying in warehouses at Hamburg and Berlin while police department mechanicians were wracking their brains trying to figure how to put the thing together. When erected the New York tower will be at one end of a model traffic street at the exhibition ground while the German type of tower will stand at the other end.

NO CEMETERY CLASS

When Folks Are Ready for Grave Yard, No One Is Beter Than Other.

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—Proposals to divide graves in the new Folkestone cemetery into first, second and third classes have found strong objections in the city council.

Councillor Forsyth remarked that he believed people were all equal when the time arrived for them to go to the cemetery, and Alderman T. S. Franks agreed with him. It was generally felt that the word "class" should not be used, and the town clerk has promised to find another term which may be more properly applied to the grading of the graves.

Female Fagin

PARIS, June 19.—A female fagin is being sought by the police. She is declared by the authorities to be the counterpart of the Dickens' Fagin and the "Artful Dodger" who taught young Oliver Twist all he knew of light-fingered art. Only instead of imparting her instructions to youths she specializes in teaching young girls.

Two young women caught picking pockets of shoppers in the Rue Mouffetard, a busy market place, confessed they were pupils of Amanda Godart, a Belgian woman, who ran a thriving "pickpockets' school" at Bicetre, a suburb of the metropolis. Pupils, the prisoners asserted, were assigned regular "beats," according to their skill. They charged that the Godart woman personally made tours of inspection to assure herself that her pupils were keeping active and profitably employed.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"Dear Mrs. Curtis:

How nice of you to take Fluff for the week-end. Hope she'll be a well-behaved guest and make friends with Pussy Purr-Mew. You know they are half-cousins—the same grandfather, King Winter.

Don't feed her much. No raw meat.

I'll return the favor by keeping Pussy Purr-Mew any time.

Cordially,
Carolyn Dalton"

A streak of gray across the room!

"She's so frightened. Nora, you can take her basket out to the kitchen. Mrs. Dalton will come for her Monday."

"Oh, here comes Pussy Purr-Mew! Look, she's smellin' the basket."

"Yes, you have a guest—you must be very nice to her," admonished Helen.

Stealing towards the couch now. Her tail a-twitch. A crafty, crouching approach. A reversion to type that belied her long-haired aristocracy.

A low growl. A hiss. Hostile greetings.

If they should fight! Hastily Helen moved out her precious antique couch—unmindful of the wobbly leg.

Again Pussy Purr-Mew's crouching approach. Slowly, very slowly—her arrogant Persian tail now prostituted to an alley-cat swish.

"I warmed it a bit," Nora came in with the milk.

"Not them. All them Persian cats is cowards," unflatteringly.

Nora was right. Now about five feet apart, they settled down, staring at each other with unblinking intensity.

"Put the saucer between them. Nora. If they drink it together——"

The milk ignored. Their amber eyes locked in that hypnotic gaze.

"Them two cats is like as two peas. Good thing Pussy Purr-Mew's got that ribbon—you couldn't tell which is which."

"Yes, exactly alike, aren't they? Silver gray—and the same white vest."

"Anybody'd think they was seein' double," giggled Nora.

Seeing double!

'Oh, Nora—a lovely idea! Let's play a trick on Mr. Curtis. We'll put a ribbon on Fluff—and pretend there's only one cat!"

To make Mr. Curtis "see double!" Even Nora's dormant humor was aroused.

"But not if you laugh like that! If we even smile—we'll give it away."

The next ten minutes were spent in eager plotting.

Both cats to be shut up in the kitchen. Towards the end of the dinner, Nora was to shoo them out. To Warren's inevitable, "Where'd that other cat come from?" they would gravely insist there was only one cat!

Helen was to register great concern. Was he well? Had he overworked?

How far could they carry it? What would he say? What would he do? The situation promised to be excruciatingly funny.

A practical joke on Warren! And such a delicious one. He was always so emphatic. A rare chance to disconcert his supreme self-confidence. And tomorrow night the Stevens were coming—they could try it on them!

"Now, hurry and get acquainted with your little guest," stroking Pussy Purr-Mew. "You're to be the star performers in a cat comedy. Oh, wait Fluff must be dressed for the part.

Gleefully, Helen got out Pussy Purr-Mew's box. Her comb, brush, Fuller's earth for her baths—and her ribbons. The best forty-cents-a-yard crimson taffeta.

Yes, several that had been washed. But with reckless extravagance, she cut two thirty-inch lengths from the bolt. New costumes for her "Tabby Turn."

Back in the library, Fluff had not moved. But Pussy Purr-Mew was inhospitably lapping the milk.

"Greedy!" drawing her away. "Before your guest has any Such manners! Come, you're to have a fresh ribbon."

"There!" tying a perky butterfly bow. "That suits your style of beauty!"

Had Fluff ever worn a ribbon? Mrs. Dalton had said her ruff was too beautiful to hide. But she made no protest when Helen managed the same saucy bow.

Then a panicky thought! Could she tell them apart? Mark the ribbons? But Fluff, now in her arms, exposed a white button on her gray tummy. Except for that—baffling twins!

Now less frightened, Fluff condescended to drink a little milk. But with one wary eye glued to her combative cousin.

Half-past five. Warren rarely came before six. But she would take no chances. Both cats must be banished to the kitchen.

A before-dinner joke, however humorous, would not be appreciated by Warren. Food first. Then the "Twin Tabby" act.

"Here's Fluff," Helen pushed through the swinging door. "Yes, she drank a little. You bring in Pussy Purr-Mew and that saucer. I must hurry and dress. Now, be sure to keep this door shut. And remember, don't laugh!"

But no need to have hurried. Half-past six before Warren came.

"Been to the club with Barton. Thought I'd never shake him," his grumpy greeting. "He had some villainous Scotch—got a headache already."

"Why, dear, I thought you were so careful——"

'Am. But didn't want to offend him. Oh, it was all right—just a bit raw. Hustle along dinner—I'll wash up in a jiffy."

It was an especially good dinner. His favorite mushroom soup. The baked Virginia ham, the Learneds had sent them from Richmond. Sweet potatoes and peas.

"That's the real thing! Why can't you get ham like this in a restaurant? They all stick 'Virginia ham' on their menu—but what they hand you—"

"They never cook it enough—because it cooks away so. I had her boil that all morning before she baked it."

Now a propitious time!

Warren, his back to the pantry door, could not see the shooed-in entrance of Pussy Purr-Mew and her double.

Now to keep from laughing! She must think of something sad! What? Growing old!

"Oh dear, you dropped something. No, on the floor. The other side—"

Her ruse failed. He was not to be diverted.

Both cats by the window now. Well posed for the "water act." How to make him look—

"No, I've plenty." Then inspirationly, 'Look, Pussy Purr-Mew wants some."

"Dear, I washed her today. Doesn't her coat look lively? DO look!

Fluff's too-friendly overtures were suddenly repelled with a spitting hiss.

Warren looked up—Stared.

Now—Helen clenched her napkin.

"Hello, where'd that other cat come from? Jove, a dead ringer for Pussy Purr-Mew."

Now to keep back the welling laughter. Hastily summoned visions of growing old—faded—wrinkled!

"What other cat? Where, dear?"

"Where? Right there before you. Two cats!"

"TWO cats? What ARE you talking about?" achieving commendable gravity.

"What're you tryin' to put over? You blind? Here, Nora," as the girl swung in, "how many cats you see there?"

"Cats!" Where, Mr. Curtis? There ain't no cat but Pussy Purr-Mew."

Warren blinked. His eyes dilated.

"Great guns, heard of snakes—but that hootch couldn't make me see cats!"

"Warren, you frighten me! What's happened? You're seeing double—"

"Seein' double?" he snorted, starting up. "If there're not two cats there—I'll eat 'em!"

It was too much! Nora made a hasty exit. Helen choked.

Quick as a flash, he wheeled on her. "Here what's all this? What're you tryin' to pull?"

"Oh— oh! hysterically. "There never was anything so funny—"

"Funny?" he exploded.

"The way you looked—your eyes like saucers—conversed. "You were too—too funny for words!"

"Funny, was it?" with a snort. "You've a damn perverted idea of humor."

"Why, Warren, you're not angry! Why, I thought you'd love it—"

"Where'd you get that cat?" he snarled. "Whose cat is it?"

"Mrs. Dalton's. She's away for the week-end—and I—"

"Thought you'd cook up one of your fool stunts, eh? Nora in on it, too."

'Dear, I couldn't resist it—they're as much alike! And tomorrow night when the Stevens come, I thought—"

"Want to pull it on them? Now, that might be funny," with a reluctant grin. "Stevens's always so cocksure. We'll hand him a jolt when he lamps those two cats!"

"Oh, will you help me?" ecstatically.

"Will you? Can you keep from laughing?"

'Don't worry, I won't queer your act. Got any of that homebrew? Good, we'll trot it out. He'll think he's seein' double all right—after a swig of that. Ha, ha, Kitten, be rich to see old Stevens' mug when we spring your Twin Tabbies! Talk about your cat comedies—that'll be a meow wow!"

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Today's planetary aspects are negative, although toward the latter part of the evening they display a marked tendency toward morbidity and petulancy. The usual observances and recreations of a Sunday can be safely indulged in, but it is not an auspicious occasion for travel. In the evening efforts should be made to relax and poise must be established. Otherwise, regrets will later on arise for things done or said impulsively.

Children born today are destined to enjoy exhuberant health, not only during infancy, but all the way to adulthood and on physical grounds they will not cause any worry or anxiety. Not as much, however, can be said for them on temperamental grounds They will not possess a very proper appreciation of justice, and will be rather disposed to think that "Might makes right." Even in their earliest years they will show an uncontrollable desire to have their own way in everything, and they will be prepared to go to any lengths to get it. Discipline will of course have some effect in curbing this defect, but nothing will effectually or effectively eradicate this trait. They will be fearless, both physically and morally, and as they grow older and more independent, they will not hesitate to disregard conventionalism, if conventionalities should stand in the way of their desire.

If today is your birthday, you possess a marked degree of executive ability, originality and mechanical skill. You are very careful and painstaking over details, your mind is well ordered, and your knowledge is methodically "card-indexed." You think deeply, are secretive about your own affairs, and rarely seek counsel or advice from others, although you are always willing to extend a helping hand to others. Your interests are not confined to the task at hand, but you participate in many fields of endeavor outside of your own duties, and your assistance and cooperation is often requested by those who appreciate your clear vision, keenness of intellect and quick grasp of problems.

Your friends—all of whom respect you and hold you in high regard—are legion. You, however, never spend so much time with them as to force you to neglect your home and kindred. To these you are closely attached, not only by custom, but by inclination and desire, and your own affections are firmly rooted and lasting.

These Two Washington Social Buds Show the World Romance Can Bloom Without Public Being the Wiser

BY JEAN JARVIS
Special Correspondent of the Record News.

Copyright 1926 by the Consolidated Press Association.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Just how it ever did come to pass nobody can tell, but the fact is that Mrs. Margaret Fahestok-Stokes and Lieutenant Benjamin Royal Holcombe, U. S. N., certainly did steal a march on the Washington gossips. The news of the marriage of the former Mrs. "Sy!" Stokes and the very interesting and attractive junior naval aide to President Coolidge gave the most accomplished tipsters the big surprise of their busy lives.

Noe even a suspicion, my dears, of romance, got going prior to the published account of the wedding—and that's a pretty good test of one's ability to camouflage circumstances, you will admit, when it is remembered that the bride, but lately divorced, happens to be one of the most diverting young matrons in Washington society and the bridegroom just the most fascinating bachelor in the interesting little group of officers who live, move and have their being in the limelight that shines upon the White House.

Interesting Household.

Now Lieutenant and Mrs. Holcombe are properly set up in Washington and one more interesting household takes its place in the official roster, the new chatelaine coming into a role that suits her admirably. Nobody entertains more delightfully and none enters into the special type of social life existent at the capital with more char mand enthusiasm than the former Mrs. "Sy!" Stokes.

She not only has the money—she's several times a millionaire—but she has the youth and the unusual type of beauty and the personality which fits her for the role of hostess "and a woman of parts," as the old fashioned folks would phrase it. She's a devoted mother to her two cunning little daughters, whose fetching costumes, designed by their adoring mother, emphasize their elfish beauty. En passant, the littlest girl's name, Marsyl—is made up of the first three letters of her mother's given name—"Margaret"—combined with the first three letters of her father's given name "Sylvanus."

In the matter of the marriage of Josephine Matteson—she's just nineteen and most alluringly pretty—and Dr. Santiago F. Bedoya, secretary of the embassy of Peru, the dear old gossips were again doing if not dead asleep Only a few knew anything of this international romance until the wedding, which took place in the presence of a little company called together by telephone.

Dr. Hernan Velarde, ambassador of Peru, was best man and Miss Priscilla Ball, daughter of Mrs. Frank A. Ball, of Athol, Mass., was honor maid. Dr. and Mrs. Bedoya after a short wedding trip will start for their new home in Peru.

Resume Early Breakfasts.

The long round of "audiences" for various delegations which comprise a busy program at the White House is nowadays broken by the resumption of the early morning breakfasts, which came into fame during the last presidential campaign. The president generally plays the role of host at these affairs, albeit invariably before the guests surround the board, either one or another, if not the entire company, has the opportunity of greeting the first lady, who has a fashion of looking over the table in a housewifely manner.

Just where the presidential family will set up housekeeping when the White House goes into the hands of the workmen, and just when they are to start for their summer holiday, remain moot questions.

When will congress depart? Nobody seems to know. Altogether, uncertainty obtaining by and large, the women of the various households having matters to look after "back home" are one by one deserting Washington. The latest "deserter" is Mrs. Dawes, wife of the vice-president. She's soon to go back to Illinois, where later she will be joined by the vice-president.

Actress Commits Suicide in N. Y., Blaming Ex-Spouse

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Ann Austin, young actress, is dead by her own hand and police today sought some one in Brooklyn named "Emil" to learn why she took poison last night.

"Emil is the cause of it all," said a note Miss Austin left. The note asked that a Brooklyn telephone number be called and Emil notified.

Gertrude Flint, Miss Austin's negro maid, said she did not believe her mistress would have killed herself for love of any man. Miss Austin had been married and divorced twice. The maid said the actress had financial troubles recently. Miss Austin's first husband, named Collins, lives in Japan. They were divorced in Reno several years ago. Her second husband, Samuel Chilton, is prominent in Charleston, W. Va. They were divorced last February. Miss Austin was born in Savannah, Ga.

They were divorced early this year after a marriage of about three years.

McFarlane Found Dead in California

LOS ANGELES, June 19. (AP) V. C. H. MacFarlane, believed to be a brother of William MacFarlane, national open golf champion, was found dead here last night under circumstances which the police are investigating.

The body was found in an office of a plumbing firm, which employed MacFarlane as a department manager. A bullet wound behind the right ear was believed to have instantly caused his death. An examination revealed no powder marks and it was believed the shot was fired from a distance.

The gun was found near the body. A blood stained hat, believed to be his, lay on a table across the room.

Letters Get Lost

PARIS, June 19.—The dead letter office in Washington is not the only one in the world that has trouble with badly addressed letters. In this respect the French postoffice has also its burdens to bear. During 1925 there were 2,800,000 letters and postcards which could not be forwarded because of incomplete or faulty addresses. Of this number 1,500,000 could not be returned to the senders for lack of return addresses.
There are different charges for postage on cards, depending upon the number of words written on them. Many of them go to the dead letter office because of insufficient postage. American tourists, accustomed at home to write as many words as they desire on a card, are large offenders in the matter of lack of the necessary stamps.

Howard to Move

PARIS, June 19.—Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, is being mentioned as the possible successor of the Marquis of Crewe when the marquis gives up his ambassadorial post here. It is pointed out, however, that the post of ambassador to France is regarded as one of the plums in the British diplomatic service and that an attempt is made to observe seniority in making the appointment. Sir Esme is junior to Sir Horace Rumbold, British ambassador to Madrid, who has been taking an important part in the diplomatic exchanges between Spain and France, dealing with the Moroccan question.

SHERIFF MAKES RAID
BURKBURNETT, June 19.—Sheriff Fred Smith and Deputy Sheriff McCormick of Wichita Falls were in the city Thursday following a raid made by them on the road house, known as "Country Club" a few miles south of Burkburnett on the Wichita-Burkburnett highway. A small amount of booze was found by the officers.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.
While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.
In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

A Fly's a Fly and a Leaf's a Leaf, But Hornets and Women Are Effective Organizations

Women Wire Pullers at Washington Have Smooth And Efficient System of Work, as Senators and Other Solons Find to Their Sorrow

By OLIVER P. NEWMAN

A veteran western senator was asked to describe the women's lobby at Washington, sometimes referred to as the women's joint congressional committee and sometimes mentioned as the "women wire-pullers of the national capital." He said:

"I can best describe the women's lobby by reciting an experience I had many years ago while riding through Yellowstone National Park on a stage coach. I was seated beside the driver, who prided himself on his expertness with his long snake whip. At one moment he curled the whip, cracked it and flicked a horse fly off the ear of the near leader, without touching the ear. A little later he snipped a protruding leaf off of a bare tree branch 15 feet away. Just then we approached an overhanging limb on which I saw a hornet's nest.

"'Cut off the nest with your whip lash,' I said.

"He turned to me with an expression of disgust, spat 20 feet in the dust and said:

"'Look here, stranger; a fly is a fly and a leaf is a leaf but a hornets' nest is an organization.'"

Good Ideas

Without always realizing it, a great many other members of congress have the same view—and with reason. The woman's lobby is an organization, speaking the voice of eleven million enfranchised citizens. They are fully conscious of their power and they never let congress forget it. Observe the frank declaration of Mrs. Maud Wood Park, one of the most powerful and most highly respected of all the wire-pullers. She says:

"American women are organized by the millions. They are organized to carry out programs of social and political action. And they rely on their voting strength for their success."

Most of the nation-wide organizations of American women have some purposes in common, and for the pursuit of these common ends, insofar as federal action can further them, 22 organizations have set up a clearing house at Washington, known as the "women's joint congressional committee." The committee functions as the Washington co-operative agency of constituencies in every state of the Union. It conveys to members of congress and administrative officers of government the sentiment of women voters back home. To those women in turn it conveys news as to what their representatives do at Washington. When necessary it rallies the women back home to show their congressmen what they want him to do.

"I received a hurry call from a congressman the other day," said a Washington wire-puller, in explaining the functions of the committee, and when I went to see him he was worried.

"'Say,' he exclaimed, 'how's my record with you folks?'

"I told him he was not very good; that he had voted against one of our bills the year before."

In Hot Water

"'I know,' he said, 'the Shepherd-Towner act, which you folks call the baby bill. I didn't know the women in my district were interested in it and I really went along on the roll call with a friend who had done something for me. If I'd realized just what the bill meant I'd have voted for it. What can I do about it?'

"I laughed at his predicament and realized that our local organization in his hometown had evedently been doing good work. But I also saw a chance to line him up for the future so I said: 'There's another bill coming up soon in which the women are olso interested. Why don't you make a speech about it and vote for it and also see that you get some publicity on your action at home?'

"He asked what it was and promised to take my advice. He even asked me to give him data for a speech, which I did, and on the day of the roll call he saw me in the gallery, came over beneath me as soon as he had answered to his name and called up to me, 'Am I all right now?' I nodded, he went away smiling and later wrote me a letter thanking me and pledging himself to support everything we wanted in the future."

The national organizations maintaining the joint congressional committee represent upwards of 11,000,000 women voters. Their individual memberships run all the way from a few thousand, such as the membership in the American Nurses' association, to 3,000,000 in the General Federation of Women's clubs. Next to the general federation with the largest membership of the national league nouf women voters, with nearly 2,000,000. The 22 organization with their "Washington wire-pullers," each of whom has years of hard work and experience behind her, are:

American Federation of Teachers: Miss Selma Borchardt.

American Home Economics Association: Miss Alice L. Edwards, Miss Helen Atwater, Miss Mary Sherman.

General Federation of Women's Clubs: Mrs. John D. Sherman, Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams, Mrs. Gilbert F. Davis, Miss Josephine Junkin.

Medical Women's National Association: Dr. Louise Taylor-Jones, Dr. Frances Fuye.

National Consumers' League: Mrs. Florence Kelley, Mrs. Edward P. Costigan.

National Service Star Legion: Mrs. Henry Jenimore Baker.

Most of the work of the above wire-pullers is a hard, routine grind. Things don't get done by themselves. Pressure for congressional and administrative action is so strong that somebody must keep after congress, the departments and the White House constantly. Instead of working independently, the 22 organizations take it one job, for which duties are divided and tasks assigned in order to avoid waste of time and needless duplicition and most important in order to exchange information.

Incidentally, the wire-pullers have made lobbying respectable. No such odium attached to the word "lobbyist" as in former days. Such designation of duties has become perfectly orthodox, both with the women and with congress.

"No, I can't come to tea this afternoon," a wire-puller was recently heard to say over the telephone, "I have to go up on the hill to lobby for the mothers' aid bill.

Not Through Yet

"I've been lobbying every day this week," she explained, after hanging up the receiver, "but I haven't yet covered the members assigned to me."

Of all the wire-pullers the greatest does not appear in the joint committee list. Nevertheless she is acknowledged by her associates to be the noblest Roman of them all. She has held the highest positions of honor among organized women and now, in her declining years, she is reserved for great emergencies. She is the veteran, Carrie Chapman Catt, and the reason for the reverence in which she is held is that women acclaim her as the greatest single force in the National American Women's Suffrage association, she lead the conversion of that successful organization into the national league of women voters, of which she is the honorary president, and will be as long as she lives.

When a big measure such as the child labor bill amendment or the world court resolution reaches a critical stage, from which it is either going over or down, the Washington wire-pullers send for Mrs. Catt. A hearing is arranged. Members attend by the score and Mrs. Catt talks.

People listen and pay heed, for they have learned from experience that this slight, frail old lady, who fought her way to the top of organized women from birth on a farm in Iowa, through years of school teaching and country editing, is looked upon by the wives and mothers of America as a prophet, whose word is almost law. And when she talks she strikes from the shoulder. After her last appearance before a congressional committee one member said of her:

"She reminds me of the gripping stores of John Randolph of Roanoke, whose verbal attack was likened to "slashing with a jack-knife sharpened on a brickbat."

Mrs. Catt doesn't worry about tact. She spares no feelings. She does not mince words. She shoots hard and straight. She cuts to the heart of our cause without concern for anybody who gets in the way. Others may use diplomacy—and do. She learned, early in the suffrage campaign, that she had to fight face to face with her opponents and beat them before she could succeed. She's still doing it.

There are also other headliners, drawn in on important occasions. Mrs. Maud Wood Park, the first president of the league of women voters, who chartered the course of that organization for the first four years of its life, has earned a position somewhat like Mrs. Catt's. A woman of means and culture, a graduate of Radcliffe college, a Bostonian, Mrs. Park saw the wisdom of adopting new methods when the ballot had once been gained. It was largely due to her genius and enthusiasm that organized women perfected their lobbying machine and went about the job of getting their reforms in a business-like manner. Until recently she was chairman of the joint congressional committee. Her methods, however, have been directly the opposite of the slashing attack of Mrs. Catt. Organization to a gnat's heel, daily, hourly work with members, patience and tact have been emphasized. For example:

A social reform requiring is desired. The wire-pullers are assembled. Membership of the senate and house is canvassed. All possible friends of the movement are listed and seen. A man to introduce the bill and take the leadership in each house is found and brought into the women's councils. The members of the committees to which the bills will be referred are interviewed. Data for speches and arguments is furnished, a hearing is arranged. At the hearing a representative of each woman's organization appears. Her association has probably endorsed the reform in its national convention. Its resolutions has probably endorsed the reform in its national convention. Its resolutions are offered. A statement of the membership and work of the association is made. A brief argument for the reform is delivered.

Start Discussion

In the meantime, each wire-puller has touched off each local branch of her association and it has started discussion of the reform in its community. Next the wire-pullers turn to the women's magazines. While the editors and sub-editors are not directly represented among the lobbyists at Washington they are keenly interested. They are always looking for articles to interest the women back home. They send writers to Washington to get data for such articles. Some of them maintain active liason with the wire-pullers. This means that the women, actually, have mobilized the women's magazine sin their campaign.

As the time for voting approaches the wire-pullers systematically apportion the 435 members of the house and the 96 members of the senate among themselves. Each woman takes a list. These assignments are made with extreme care. Each woman takes the names of the members with whom it is believed she can exert the greatest influence either because of her personal status or because of the character of her organization. The wire-pullers seldom make the mistake of sending the wrong woman to see a particular member. Finally, when the date for a vote has been set, each member finds a woman at his office door, ready to take him by the hand and lead him to the capitol, thus making certain that nobody escapes by the old dodge of being absent.

Under Mrs. Park's leadership this machine was created. She has recently retired as its head and as president of the league of women voters and Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland and Mrs. John D. Sherman of Colorado, have taken the reins to direct the Washington wire-pullers. The former has a long record of successful activity as an executive. The daughter of a man, who, beginning with nothing, created a great manufacturing industry now international in its scope, Miss Sherwin comes by her administrative ability by inheritance, and is piloting the league of women voters through its second epoch. Mrs. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs and chairman of the joint congressional committee has served a long and active apprenticeship as a club woman. Both she and Miss Sherwin, like Mrs. Park, are women of independent means, whose social and organization standing make them big factors in the lobby. In the same category are a number of others, each as capable and as important in her field, such as Miss Charl Williams of Tennessee, president of the national education association; Mrs. Robert Speer of New York, president of the Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. A. H. Reeve of Philadelphia, president of the national congress of parents and teachers; Mrs. Florence Kelley, president of the national consumers' league, and Mrs. Ellis A. Yost of the W. C. T. U. Like Mrs Catt, they are usually reserved for important occasions, when the weight of their personalities and the political strength of their organizations are likely to put the finishing touch on the prepatory work of their wire-puller association.

FAT PEOPLE SHOULD CHEW SILPH IT'S HARMLESS!

MILLIONS of Americans chew gum, most of them simply because they enjoy doing it, though a considerable proportion have discovered that the stimulated flow of saliva aids digestion. It is well known to many that chewing gum provides the best possible means of administering certain ingredients, gradually and in a manner which insures their thorough assimilation without burdening the system. The most remarkable discovery, however, in regard to chewing gum as the perfect means of administering for specific purposes, undoubtedly is the preparation known as "SILPH." This is a delicious, refreshing chewing gum which from many letters received, takes off fat in a most pleasant way without any discomfort or ill effects.

The reducing elements in "SILPH" are provided by a special formula including the extracts of certain sea plants and herbs. Not until the perfecting of "SILPH," however, was the ideal manner of administering them provided.

"SILPH" is supplied by the Silph Co., 9 W. 60th St., N. Y. C., and is sold with a guarantee by all up-to-date drug or dept. stores—One should beware of inferior imitations and ask for the green box, 50c, one size only.

Long Film Life

BERLIN, June 19.—The claim is made that old cinema films that have been reduced to the scrapping point by hard usage can be rejuvenated again and again. The process has been invented by Frederich J. J. Stock, a Munich chemist.

Old films are first cleaned by an ingenious mechanical brushing apparatus, given an oil bath and then subjected to a complicated chemical treatment from which they emerge free from all scratches and blemishes and with their original clearness fully restored.

New films subjected to the same process gain 300 per cent in clearness, and the life of a reel may be prolonged to 100 years, Herr Stock claims.

The present machinery deals with about five thousand feet of film an hour and the cost of the whole rejuvenation process is about one cent per foot, or, used for new films, half a cent per meter.

"Future generations will be able to see their grand parents and great-grand parents on the film as clearly and distinctly as in life," Herr Stock declares.

Coolidge and Texan Sail on Mayflower

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP) For the first time in several weeks the president and Mrs. Coolidge went down the Potomac on the Mayflower today for the week end.

They were accompanied by Speaker Longworth, Representative and Mrs. Lanham of Texas, Representative and Mrs. Parker of New York, Ogden Reid, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune and Mrs. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan of Washington.

Housework a Burden

"I HAVE used Cardui for eighteen years, off and on, and I have found it a splendid help," says Mrs. M. C. Andrews, of Blenheim, S. C., whose picture is printed above. "When I have needed a tonic I have turned to Cardui as an old friend, and I am glad to recommend it.

"I was sick and weak. My system was run-down, and I suffered a lot with my back and sides. One day my mother-in-law told me to try Cardui for my trouble. She said she had given it to her daughters and it had helped them a lot. So I took her advice, . . . and began to take it, and I was very much pleased with my improvement.

"I have found Cardui so good that during eighteen years of married life I have taken it a good many times, and always with benefit. I value it highly.

"Last year I was very much run-down. I had a tired feeling all the time. I could hardly drag one foot after the other. I lost all my energy and my housework was a burden. I sent for some Cardui, and after a course of the Cardui Home Treatment I felt just fine, and am still feeling so."

Cardui is sold by all druggists.

Belated Honors

PARIS, June 19.—A recent list of nominations for knights of the Legion of Honor contained the name of Ensign Jean Antoine Roux, who was killed in 1907, dying to open the sluice gates of the dry dock where the battleship Mena was on fire.

Continued explosions from the battleship put the arsenal and part of the city of Toulon in danger and the only way to extinguish the fire was to flood the dock. The ensign was at work at this when he was cut in two by grape shot from his own ship which was shelling the sluice gates to open them. Eventually a shell smashed open the gates and the Iena was flooded. The dead numbered 110, and the injured far more.

Ensign Roux's bravery has not waited these 18 years to be recognized officially by the French government. Among other testimonies is a torpedo destroyer named after him, but the Minister of Marine M. Georges Leygues visiting Toulon on the anniversary of the explosion decided to have the additional honor paid to the young officer.

Flag in Dispute

BERLIN, June 19.—What German women think about the much-debated flag question is told by Frau Katharina Von Oheimb, Germany's leading woman politician.

Violent controversy has ranged around a proposition to readopt the old black-white and red imperial colors in combintion with a republican jack or shield of black, white and gold. Frau Von Oheimb does not think such a compromise is at all desirable.

"Tradition," she says, "has proved stronger than has been anticipated. True enough, most Germans are now republicans, but if all the flags in the country were to be counted, the old black, white and red would be in the majority. Most people have not the money nowadays to buy new flags."

To readopt the old colors for the republic might be desirable, Frau Von Oheimb thinks, because it would deprive Monarchists of a rallying standard of their own. "Let the people decide by plebiscite," she says, "whether to go back to the old colors again or stand definitely by the new republican banner. A majority should decide which one to adopt and all others should be scrapped."

Money Talks!

PARIS, June 19.—American financiers visiting Europe declare it is no longer possible for a banker to board a trans-Atlantic steamer in New York without giving rise to rumors that he is going abroad to press tons of money on France or some other European country.

American men of finance are undoubtedly consulted every time they come here by bank officials and members of the government responsible for the financial administration. But if the visiting declarations are not of the diplomatic sort, none of them has come here this season to urge American money upon any one.

Some of them come to buy blooded cattle or horses, others pick up antiques, others just for fun and rest.

There is an opinion in quarters around the reparation commission that some of them have an eye on the chance that some day the German railroad bonds issued as a pledge for the payment of reparations may be put on the market, but, like the antiques, they would be something that Americans would merely "pick up."

Kansas Cold

TOPEKA, Kan., June 19.—(AP) A record low temperature for this date was reported here today by the United States weather bureau. At 5 o'clock this morning, the mercury stood at 51 degrees, or two degrees below the low record of 53 set June 19, 1912.

General rains yesterday did not damage wheat, for no strong winds developed. Harvest was delayed for a day or two in many counties, however.

CAPTURE STILL

CINCINNATI, June 19.—(AP)—Sheriff Christian Lommell of Dearborn county, Indiana, and a posse who had been laying siege for several hours to the reputed stronghold of a band of bootleggers on a farm near Dillsboro, Ind., rushed the farm house late today, capturing two men, a huge still and an immense storehouse of distillery apparatus.

Gives Striking Dance in 'The Yankee Senior'

Margaret Livingston Spurns Double and Spends Hours Tangoing

Although the screen has recorded many striking dances, it is doubtful if anything done in celluloid will eclipse the finished performance of Maragret Livingston in "The Yankee Senor," a colorful story of Old Mexico, featuring Tom Mix, which comes to the Gem theatre Thursday and Friday.

In this story, adapted by Eve Unsell from the novel, "The Conquistador," by Katharine Fullerton Gerould, many beautiful sequences are laid in a broad patio during the joyous fiesta. These episodes, filmed at the William Fox West Coast studio, are in Technicolor.

This action requires that Tom Mix, Margaret Livingston, Olive Borden and Francis McDonald shall dance—"no fooling!" Miss Livingston, in particular, was called upon to acquit herself with professional finesse.

She spent weary hours in preparation. Her dancing master, who was kind but firm, insisted that every minute detail be carried out with faithful precision.

"There will be numerous close-up shots," he told Miss Livingston, "and I want you to be absolutely perfect. But you must work, and then work some more!"

She did work—but she was displeased and once she despaired.

"I am afraid I might bungle it!" she told the instructor. "Suppose I bring in my double?"

The instructor smiled.

"All right, bring her in," he encouraged. "I'll take the same pains with her as I have with you."

The following day the double reported for instruction. Miss Livingston watched her—a professional dancer.

"Fine!" said Miss Livingston. "I think she could do the dance beautifully."

"So do I," the instructor agreed, "but I think you can do it better."

And she did—every bit of it. In addition, she did numerous handsprings, and the most difficult of feats—the "split."

'Lost Battalion' To Play Here As Legion Feature

Famous War Film to Be Shown at the Palace

Americans thrill with patriotic pride when they hear the story of the lost battalion of the world war, the tensest, most dramatic, most gripping incident of America's part in the great conflict. To give the people of Wichita Falls an opportunity to "feel" this epic action as they could not otherwise do, a motion picture faithfully reproducing this historic event with an interwoven tale of delightful romance is coming to the Palace theatre today under the auspices of the American legion.

The story of the lost battalion has become definitely part of the traditions of the American people. No sooner had the news of the superhuman resistance of this handful of men, completely surrounded by German troops in the almost impenetrable Argonne forset, been flashed to the nation than these men took their places at once as national heroes. The story of their dogged stand is as firmly fixed in the history of America as is that of Washington crossing the Delaware that winter night or kneeling in the snow of Valley Forge to pray while his men paced their sentry rounds with bleeding feet.

For six bitter days these heroes of 1918 clung to their hillsides, galled by German fire from every direction, hugging the hope that relief would somehow come. Death lurked in every bush, behind every tiny mound. Out of the tree tops the spiteful fire of machine guns hailed upon them. Nor was this all. Hunger, privation, the terrible agony of wounds were worse enemies than German sharpshooters and machine gun nests. Then came a demand that they surrender—a demand met with instant refusal, a renewal of battle, rescue, victory.

Drys Lose Fight

LONDON, June 19.—Prohibition agencies have lost their fight to keep liquor advertisements out of the postoffice and the government owned telephone booths. The postmaster general has announced that a firm of advertisers had been authorized to accept advertisements of alcholic beverages for display in all postoffices as well as public telephone cabinets throughout the country.

Heretofore this class of advertisement was prohibited much to the gratification of prohibitionists who urged the government to continue the ban despite the resentment created in the liquor trading circles. Dealers in alcoholic beverages long ago protested that the order prohibiting their advertisements to appear in the postoffice and telephone booths was an act of discrimination against their interests.

Cool Reception

BERLIN, June 19.—Those of the 2,000,000 persons who signed a petition demanding local option in Germany and presented it to Paul Loebe, president of the reichstag, are disappointed at its reception. The government has decided, instead of trying to make the country dry, to come to the aid of the distressed wine growing interests. Following the abolition of the federal excise tax on wine several months ago money from the public exchequer now is to be devoted to nation-wide "wine propoganda." There will be a prize competition for the best selections of stories, sayings, anecdotes and aphorisms considered beneficial to the wine trade.

Corinne Playing In Fashion Show At the Olympic

Corinne Griffith is the most recent star to adapt a famous musical comedy to the screen. The world famous operetta, "Mlle. Modiste," by Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom, is the latest to be picturized, at the Olympic Theater, with the charming Miss Griffith playing the dynamic Fifi, a role which brought international fame to Fritzi Scheff a score of years ago.

Several musical comedies have been filmed in recent years, but it is said of "Mlle. Modiste" that it possesses more real plot, romance and basic drama than any of them, plus a delightful French atmosphere both piquant and decidedly original. Miss Griffith has, in the creation of her latest First National picture, previeers of "Mlle. Modiste" maintain, enhanced the operetta greatly, and with the addvantages of the screen given her production a realism that is entertaining and accurate in every detail.

Super-Salesgirl.

"Mlle. Modiste" relates the story of Fifi, a French modiste, salesgirl and model whose personal charm brought men to her feet and caused women to purchase anything she advocated regardless of its cost. Among the visitors to Mme. Claire's, where Fifi holds forth, are Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Bent of St. Louis. Mrs. Bent came to "see" Paris while her husband came to "do business" and "enjoy" it. When Mrs. Bent succumbs to Fifi's sales talk and sends for her husband to pay the bill, Bent is confident that such a salesgirl would be an invaluable asset to his business, and he buys the establishment and puts Fifi in charge of it, with well earned success.

Meanwhile Fifi meets Etienne du Beauvray, French army officer, and a romance develops. However, Etienne visits a fashion revue Fifi and Bent put on for the benefit of out-of-town buyers, and when Fifi brings the show to a close by auctioning off the various garments of her wardrobe, from behind a screen, he misjudges her activity, insults her and leaves. Later Etienne with Marquise de la Mar, a former fiancee, go to Deauville, intent on being married. Bent and Fifi having startled Paris with the charm and elegant wardrobe of a mysterious "Mlle. Modiste," go to Deauville to "knock their eyes out."

Challenges to Duel.

Etienne seeing Bent with Fifi becomes enraged at his attentions and challenges him to a duel. Fifi sensing the seriousness of the situation tells Etienne that she has married Bent. Feeling chagrined at his actions, Etienne goes to Bent to apologise and a surprising climax.

To Ship Canaries

BERLIN, June 19.—(AP)—From canary birds to thoroughbred race horses may seem a wide stride in commerce. Nevertheless, the Harz Mountain people are about to add horses to the large number of canaries and German police dogs they are sending to the United States.

Fourteen yearlings from the Harzburg Breeding farm of Baron Von Lyncker have been selected for shipment to the United States and will be auctioned during the August race meeting at Saratoga, N. Y. This farm has been supplying the German turf with thoroughbred animals for more than 75 years.

'The Riding Streak' Is Sizzler At Garden Theatre

The blast of the bugle—the bark of the gun—they're off. The great pony express handicap with one man riding for love and fortune. Down the course they tear—fast—faster—still faster—fading fetlocks—straining muscles—maddening throngs at the track-side! The fighting sheriff on his little mustang eating the dust—fighting every inch of the way.

Duty and love tear at the heart of the fighting sheriff! And then came fate! Enabling him to fulfill his pledge to both duty and love! Bob Custer, gallant young star of many western productions, comes again to the Garden theatre. This time in "A Ridin' Streak," a glorious he-mannish tale of adventure beyond the Rockies—with a procession of sizzling thrills supplied by a pony express race that will literally lift you out of your seat in the excitement of the contest! Bob as the fighting sheriff will win at once your admiration and your sympathy.

And meanwhile the auction—a heartbroken maiden—her possessions being swept away—the fine white horse—Their greatest treasure going under the hammer! And then the climax of this roaring tale of the far-flung west where hearts beat a flung west where hearts beat fine as the prairie winds.

Not a second of boredom in this slashing melodrama of the open plains with everything on the move—whirring and whizzing across the prairies. A rarin' dingdong thrill and laugh show—with a punch in every reel and enough laughs to send you home with the "come again" feeling.

Harold Is He-Man Crusader in 'For Heaven's Sake!'

Lloyd Comedy Generates Laughter and Thrills Mirst Slums Locale

Harrold Lloyd—he of the appealing smile, modest manner and horn-rimmed glasses—arrived in town yesterday in his lates comedy opus, "For Heaven's Sake!" The steady and continuous roar of laughter that greeted the intial unfolding of this film at Strand Friday night was an eloquent and well-deserved tribute to the most hilarious and fruitful entertainment the current season has as yet produced.

There isn't dull moment in the entire production. It bubbles pep and action; it generates thrills and throbs, and it gushes grins and gags in an increasing stream. In short, "For Heaven's Sake!" is good, solid, substantial fun, served up hot from the Lloydian griddle.

The plot of the picture has to do with Harold's metamorphosis from a care-free and indolent millionaire clubman, bored with his life of idle ease and luxury, to a crusader, who becomes the guiding spirit in a slums mission.

His strong-arm methods in reforming the toughs and gangsters of the underworld are enough to make Billy Sunday turn green with laughter. One mirth-provoking scene is but a steppingstone to another even more uproariously funny, and it all leads up to a hysterical climax in the shape of a mad, dizzy, riotous bus ride that is the last word in excitement and thrill.

Sandwiched in between the rollicking foolery and spirited action is a wistful romance that gives the bespectacled comedian a chance to make shy love to the charming and demure Jobyna Ralston.

The photoplay has been very shrewdly directed by Sam Taylor, and credit for the story goes to John Grey, Ted Wilde and Clyde Bruckman.

Time to Leave

PARIS, June 19.—(AP)—After Sunday the true Parisian will feel mortified to be found in Paris. The capital will be then abandoned to tourists and provincials.

On Sunday begins "grand week" and the closing of the 1926 season and an exodus of people to their country homes at Deauville and other resorts.

Four big races will mark "grand week." 3 at the Auteuil track—the grand steeple chase on Sunday, the grand hurdles on Wednesday and the drags prize Friday. Then comes another great feature—the Grand Prix de Paris—at Longcharms Sunday, June 27.

Two of these racing events have lost some of their prestige of recent years. The Grand Prix no longer is the big fashion show of the year and last year only 3 persons showed the ability to handle a coach and six horses in driving to Auteuil in the traditional manner which gave the name to "Drays" or Tally-ho coach day.

"THE PERFECT FOOL"

He Knows All—He Sees All

Dear Mr. Wynn:
My wife and I had an argument last night about the army. My wife says in order for a man to be buried with "military honors," he must be a captain, while I say he must be a general. Which of us is right? Yours truly,
LEW TENANT.

Answer: You are both wrong. In order for a man in the army to be buried with full military honors he must be dead.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
After a wedding ceremony the minister generally says: I now pronounce you "one." My mother always says that she and papa are "ten." How does she make that out? Yours truly,
SUE PERFLUOUS.

Answer: Your mother probably figures that she is "one" and your father is "nothing."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
There is a certain man who passes our house every day and I notice no matter how hard it rains he never carries an umbrella. How do you account for that? Yours truly,
I. C. HIMM.

Answer: That is very easily accounted for. He most likely eats a lot of salt mackerel and that keeps him dry.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have often heard an actor on the stage tell a joke and then hear someone in the audience call the joke a chestnut. What is the resemblance of a joke to a chestnut?
Sincerely,
I. M. A. GIGGLER.

Answer: You can't tell till it is cracked.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
What is meant by the expression, "He came down with flying colors?"
Yours truly,
U. R. SOHSMART.

Answer: That expression is used when a painter falls off a high building with a pot of paint in his hand.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Would you be kind enough to tell me the best way to remove paint?
Yours truly,
I. STAINEASY.

Answer: Sit in it.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a man 40 years of age. I have traveled all over the world and have just returned to settle down in America. I have a big problem to solve first. I have spent nearly all my money, but still have enough, if properly invested, to keep me for the rest of my life. I think I have a bright idea. I intend opening a school for stuttering. What do you think of my idea?
Truly yours,
IGO BACKEN FORTH.

Answer: Your idea is all right, but who wants to go to school to learn to stutter?

Dear Mr. Wynn:
You are so smart and claim you know so much, here's one for you. Answer this—"Did you ever see a dog without eyes, without ears, without hair, without a nose, without a mouth and without feet?"
Yours truly,
VETTER N. ARIAN.

Answer: Yes I saw a dog like that—A "Hot Dog."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a boy 12 years old and am in the ninth grade in school. In my English lesson next week I must write an essay in which I have to use three words meaning the direct opposite to the following three words—"Misery, Sorrow and Woe." I know the opposite to misery is happiness and I know the opposite to sorrow is joy, but the other word sticks me. Will you please tell me the opposite to woe?
DICK SHONARY.

Answer: I am surprised a boy of your age doesn't know that. The opposite to woe is giddap.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I asked my father what a bigamist is and he said a bigamist is a "man who makes the same mistake twice." What does he mean?
ISSIE WRIGHT.

SOLON SHOWS BEER MAKING

Takes Budweiser and Pabst, Mixing Glass of Old Time Pilsner

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—Under the shadow of the capitol where the Volstead law was written and passed Representative LaGuardia, progressive Socialist, New York, today combined two beverages permitted under that law and got what he described as "a legal drink with a kick of 2.84 per cent."

The beverages used were Pabst extract, the malt tonic with 3.75 alcoholic content for which a permit recently was issued by the treasury department, and Budweiser beer of one half of one per cent.

The demonstration was held in his private office in the house office building after the house alcoholic liquor traffic committee, of which LaGuardia is the only wet member, had failed to obtain a quorum to witness the experiment.

Entering his office, LaGuardia walked to a table, his secretary handed him two bottles, one containing the malt tonic, the other the near beer. He fumbled with the caps, and then borrowed a bottle opener from a photographer.

"Now watch," he said. "This is within the law."

He filled an ordinary drinking glass two-thirds full of the 3.75 per cent tonic. With a smile he poured in the near beer.

At first nothing happened. Then with a pencil, for lack of a spoon, he stirred. A thick, dark foam slowly rose to the brim and overflowed on the floor.

Just Like Muenchner.

While the photographers clicked their machines LaGuardia called Julian Richards from the crowd that packed his office and gave him a taste. He introduced Richards as having been connected with the Christian-Heurich Brewing company of Washington, for 15 years.

"What does it taste like?"

He then passed it around among newspapermen and photographers, until he had used all his ingredients.

"What does a glass of that cost?" asked one.

"About 15 cents is all."

Representative Green, Democrat, Florida, was the only other member of the liquor traffic committee to attend the demonstration. He looked on for a few minutes, but declined a drink.

SUICIDE FAILS, HUSBAND HELD

Accused of Assault When He Refuses to Prevent Wife's Action

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Rogers McDermott, 19-year-old son of a wealthy Connecticut family, today faces charges of felonious assault filed by his 17-year-old school girl wife on the grounds that he made no effort to stop her when she attempted suicide.

Mrs. Katherine Meister McDermott brought the charges against him yesterday the first on such a basis ever to come before the New York courts. They ended a high school romance which culminated in a runaway wedding last October.

The couple have been living in a single room and trying to make ends meet on McDermott's slender earnings as an oiler in Grand Central station, a life which the school girl bride, who is the daughter of Herman Meister, a wealthy builder, found was in too great contrast with her previous life in the substantial Flatbush home of her parents.

While out walking on May 24, Mrs. McDermott announced she was going to take poison. The fatalistic young husband replied calmly "don't take it in front of me. I'll go in and buy some candy while you take it." The girl thereupon gulped two poison tablets, fell to the sidewalk and was taken to a hospital, from which she was recently discharged. She has been living with her parents since.

After his arrest McDermott was released in $5,000 bail for trial next Friday and went home with his mother. His lawyers protested that "all this is unheard of."

Low Priced Fuel is a Community Builder

One of the greatest advantages any community can enjoy is a supply of low-priced fuel. Most of our industries are dependent upon fuel for many of their processes as well as for the power that drives their machinery.

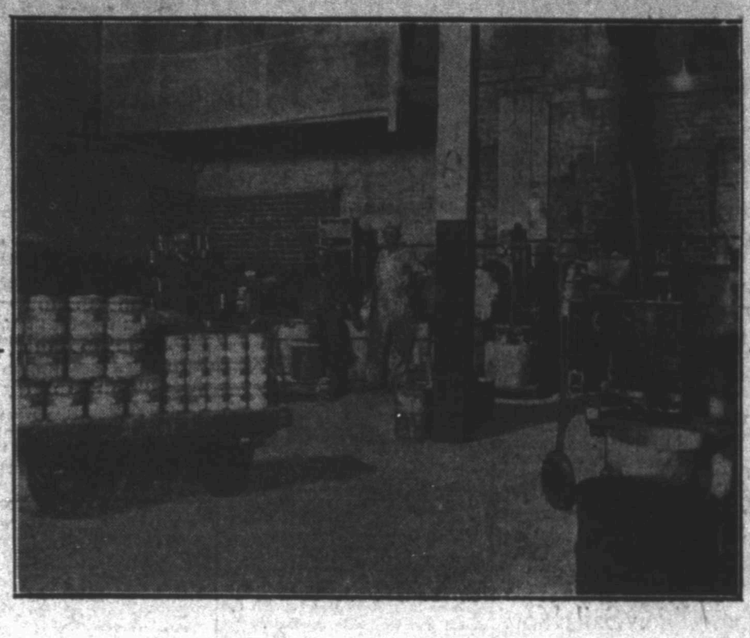

Where the cost of this fuel is high, they find it more difficult to compete in the markets, but when the cost is low they have a tremendous advantage.

The same thing applies in the home. Fuel is a necessity. It must be had regardless of price. When that price is low a larger part of the family income may be spent on other things or saved.

These are advantages that build up a community, bring more people to it, and help provide it with capital for greater expansion.

They are enjoyed in large measure wherever the lines of this company reach, for natural gas has the merit of being a wonderfully low-priced fuel as well as a most convenient one.

OLDS BREAKS ANOTHER ROAD RECORD DRIVE

Clymer Makes St. Louis To Denver In 25 Hours, 51 Minutes

Another road record has been smashed by a stock Oldsmobile. Floyd Clymer drove his Oldsmobile touring car from St. Louis, Mo., to Denver, Colo., in 25 hours and 51 minutes. The total distance with detours was 1,024 miles and the time includes stopping for gasoline, oil, food and to change a tire.

This is the fastest time ever made between the two cities by automobile and is one hour faster than the best passenger train service. It also is the second longest automobile record made in the United States between two cities.

With this exceptional run, Clymer and his Oldsmobile have broken four important road records for stock cars within the past ten months.

Same Old Car.

The fact that this race against time was announced in newspaper advertisements before the start is a tribute to the confidence Clymer has in the ability of his Oldsmobile to accomplish the feat. The car used by Clymer is a stock Oldsmobile five passenger touring car. It is the same car Clymer has driven for months.

Accompanied by his wife, Clymer registered at the Western Union office in St. Louis at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of May 4 and started his 1,024 mile run. He was heralded by crowds at various places along the route where he stopped to have his arrival officially checked. He was met by a parade of automobiles when he checked into the Western Union office in Denver at 5:51 o'clock on the afternoon of May 5.

Running conditions were favorable the better part of the distance, but twice, for distances of several hundred miles, the Clymers and their Oldsmobile ran into a strong head wind which with the dust cloud it raised, retarded their speed considerably. A puncture also delayed them. The Oldsmobile's performance was faultless throughout the trip, Clymer reported.

A Dangerous Drive.

The first record made by Oldsmobile with Clymer driving in recent months was the circle trip from Denver, up Lookout mountain, through the mountains and down Bear Creek canyon. This spectacular trip contains 417 sharp turns, some of them hairpins and switchbacks, steep grades and winding descents. The course of 87 miles was made in one hour, 15 minutes and 9 seconds.

The second record was for stock urs up Pike's Peak. This 12 1-2 mile trip was made in 28 minutes and 49 seconds. The third record was between Detroit and Chicago where all previous automobile or fast express train times were beaten. The 301 miles was made in 5 hours and 58 minutes.

Use of Kerosene Has Fatal Result

HUTCHINSON, Kan., June 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Buller, 28, wife of Herman Buller, a farmer living near here, is dead, her ten-year-old brother, Walter Schrader, seriously burned and two sisters, Lavina and Emma Schrader, slightly burned as the result of Mrs. Buller's use of kerosene in starting a fire.

Fire following the explosion destroyed the Schrader home, leaving the family destitute. Neighbors are raising a fund for their relief.

Durant Solves Transmission Elignment Job

One of Hardest Problems In Maufacture, Says Campbell

To function efficiently the transmission assembly of an automobile must be in a direct line between the clutch and rear axle assembly.

The slightest variation in alignment develops strains and stresses destructive alike to clutch, transmission and rear axle assembly.

"One of the problems of the automobile manufacturer," said Colin Campbell, vice-president, Durant Motors, Inc., "has been the development of a transmission assembly mounting that insures permanence of transmission alignment."

"We," continued Mr. Campbell, "have solved the problem in the transmission mount of the latest Star chassis.

"The transmission is mounted on a separate and substantial subframe of heavy gauge stamped steel and so securely braced and fastened to the second and third cross members of the frame as to insure permanent perfect alignment.

"This assembly improvement unquestionably will further lengthen the already enduring qualities of the Star clutch, transmission and rear axle assembly."

PONTIAC GETS COSTLY FACTORY

$5,000,000 Home Started to Boost Ouput of Cars.

Immediately following the announcement of Oakland's huge expansion program the contract was let and the construction begun on the new five million dollar Pontiac six factory which will bring Oaklands production up among the four largest producers of cars in the world.

A. J. Brandt, vice president in charge of operations, states that this expansion not only doubles the size of the present Oakland factories, but will also double the number of employes about the first of the year when the new plants will be ready for a production of 1,000 additional cars per day.

Last Word in Modernity.

The new factory will be the last word in automobile plant construction and equipment. It will embrace three manufacturing units and a power plant. The prodigious size of the first units to be erected may be gleaned from the fact that the largest of the three structures is to be a quarter of a mile long and two stories high with basement. This means a single unit four city blocks in length. It is to be devoted to the assembly of cars and will have a total floor area of more than 600,000 square feet.

The second unit will be a car storage and shipping department. This building will be 900 feet long and 450 feet wide with all shipping and receiving docks under cover. The third unit will be devoted entirely to the manufacture of Pontiac six engines. It will be 700 feet long and 375 feet wide, and will include in its equipment, the latest and most advanced machinery.

These buildings are being erected adjacent to the mammoth Fisher Body corporation plant at Pontiac and close to the present Oakland factory building.

Motor Club Delegates Condemn Speed Traps And Roadside Courts

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19. The troubles of Mr. Average Car Owner and the measures that must be taken to protect him in his pocket and in the continued enjoyment of his rights on the highways furnished the main theme of discussion at the annual convention of the American Automobile association held recently in Chicago.

With more than three hundred delegates from every section of the country on hand to formulate a program for the coming year, the meeting was the largest of its kind in the history of the country. Following an extensive discussion of the more acute problems confronting the car owners, a series of resolutions was adopted and these will be made the basis for a "Bill of Rights" for the car owners everywhere and a vigorous campaign to enforce them prosecuted.

Cut "Fee System of Arrest"

One of the first resolutions on which the convention went on record was a ringing declaration urging state governors and state legal officials to use all their influence to do away with the "fee system of arrests" on the highways as manifested in the operations of speed traps and roadside courts. At the same time highway officials were urged to keep the main highways as free as possible from detours and keep the public informed of their closing and opening.

Among the other resolutions adopted were declarations to the following effect:

First, opposing the principle of compulsory automobile liability insurance as not being in the interest of safety and as calculated to place an unfair burden on the mass of responsible car owners.

Against Tail Light Change

Second, opposing the suggestion put forward at the time of the last Hoover conference for changing the tail light of automobiles from red to yellow and urging that instead of making this dangerous inovation, the railroads of the country be asked to adopt new, distinctive and uniform signals at grade crossings.

Third, urging that congress enact a law for the regulation of motor vehicle common carriers and that such legislation be general in application and make provision to protect the public both as to indemnification and rates.

Fourth, demanded that the remainder of the war excise taxes levied by the federal government be repealed as quickly as possible and that the government get out of this field of taxation.

Sixth, commending a fair and impartial investigation by the federal trade commission of gasoline prices.

Seventh, condemned the practice of granting concessions indiscriminately to the detriment of our public parks and calculated to destroy the beauty spots of America, if not checked.

One of the features of the convention was the address of Thos. F. Henry of Detroit, who warned the delegates that one of the main functions of motor clubs is to develop safety measures for their communities. Mr. Henry advocated an inter-club safety council which would act as a clearing house for the development of a safety program for the 800 clubs affiliated under the A. A. A. emblem.

Unfair Taxes

"The motor club is the only civic agency that is competent to assume leadership in traffic safety, in so far as the automobile is concerned," Mr. Henry declared.

President Henry also stressed the importance of clarification of the field of motor vehicle taxation in order that the car owners may know what agencies are taxing them and for what purpose they are being taxed.

RICKENBACKER SALES JUMP

May Volume 26 Per Cent Greater Than Any Other Period.

DETROIT, Mich., June 19.—Announcement of a considerable increase in sales has just been made by E. F. Everitt, president and general manager of the Rickenbacker Motor company.

"Our May volume was 26 per cent greater than that of April and from the goodly quantity of orders which keep pouring in, it looks as if June would show a still greater increase.

"It is surprising, too, how evenly these sales seem to be distributed throughout the country. For example, all along the Pacific coast Rickenbacker business is in excellent condition. As you work east through the great Rocky mountain section, you will find a brisk demand for the Rickenbacker, in such cities as Denver and other towns perched up in higher altitudes, as well as where cattle are still being raised on a wholesale basis.

Increases, Too

"Coming away from the eastern ranges and working still further east in the rich wheat and corn belts, one finds a constantly increasing army of enthusiastic Rickenbacker owners.

"And finally, sweeping over the map into the great prosperous manufacturing zones which extend from Chicago right to the Atlantic coast statistics disclose a healthy Rickenbacker record in most of the leading centers and cities.

"Naturally the recent sensational price reductions on the Rickenbacker six caused an unusual influx of business. These reductions ranged from $100 to $200 on the various models. Every time we reduced the price we widened the market. Our increased production which effected greater manufeturing economies made possible these recent price reductions. This is a fixed policy Rickenbacker has maintained from the day the company started."

Overland Six sales break all records

Retail deliveries during the month of May were the greatest in the history of the Overland Six. And now, in the first days of June, sales are again breaking records and forging ahead with increased rapidity.

THE spectacular performance of this car is, we believe, responsible for this tremendous sales success. Over 100,000 Overland Sixes are now in use. And sales are multiplying at the rate of over 2000 every week.

Surely no car could hold this pinnacle place in public favor . . . unless sheer merit put it there.

What To Expect From This World-Famous Six

The Overland Six is a car of tremendous power . . . a car that will give you the thrilling performance of 55 miles an hour whenever you want it.

That will pick up in high gear from 5 to 40 miles an hour in 21 seconds.

It is the first closed car that ever took the famous Sierra Grade, at San Jose, California, on high.

This is average performance . . . in the hands of average owners . . . the kind you can expect when you drive this car.

Be prepared for a big surprise when you take your first ride in an Overland Six. A brand new kind of motoring experience awaits you . . . it's bound to change your whole idea of motor car values.

Full 40-brake horsepower is delivered in a straight line from its low swung engine through to the rear-axle shaft.

This big sturdy Six will out-pull, out-run and out-perform anything else of its size, or weight, or price-class.

It is a car of exceptional comfort. The big, broad doors are 32¼ inches wide. You can get in or out with the utmost ease.

Seats are wide, luxuriously comfortable. There is more cubic feet of inside space than in any car of this price . . . with plenty of room for five full-size passengers. Room to stretch your legs without feeling cramped or crowded.

Nothing has been spared to make this car a positive comfort-revelation. Owners accustomed to more expensive cars tell us this is true.

An Artist Created It

This togeth- with the newly announced expan- approximates an investment of $9,000,000 within little more than a year, and will represent an increase in plant capacity from 250 cars a day to 1,600 cars per day.

Since last August, the Oakland Motor organization has enjoyed a rec- ord of expansion outstanding in the industry. More than 1,500 new deal- ers have contracted to sell Oakland and Pontiac cars within the past 10 months. Since January 1, this year new dealer agreements have been written at the rate of nearly 200 per month.

The reception accorded the new Pontiac Six since its introduction in January of this year has surpassed the highest expectations of officials of both the Oakland Motor Car com- pany and the General Motors corpora- tion.

Each succeeding month since its introduction, the Pontiac Six has es- tablished a new world's record for the production and sales of a new car. Every since the announcement, the demand has out-run production facili- ties almost two to one. At the pres- ent rate by midsummer the produc- tion and sales of the Pontiac Six will exceed the best previous record made by any other new make of car during its first full year. At the same time the demand for the new Oakland Six announced last August has consist- ently out-run the production ability of the Oakland factories. Just what progress the Oakland factory has made in comparison with other man- ufacturers is indicated by its advance from thirteenth place in the industry a year ago to seventh place in the in- dustry today.

Ready January, 1927

The new Pontiac Six factory will be built directly across from the pres- ent Pontiac plant of the Fisher Body corporation which supplies bodies for both Oakland and Pontiac Sixes. The Oakland expansion will call for a concurrent expansion of the present Fisher Body plant at Pontiac, and also other plants supplying Oakland with axles, steering gears, transmis- sions, etc.

The new Pontiac Six plant, will have a total of 1,440,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space. When completed, the combined manufactur- ing floor space of Oakland factories will be the equivalent of a single story building 600 feet wide and one mile long, not including the mam- moth Fisher Body plant.

The new plant will be ready for production January 1, 1927, and will give the Oakland Motor Car company a capacity for the production of ap- proximately 400,000 cars per year.

Failing to Kill Wife, Again Shoots Her, Then Himself

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 19.—(AP)—After shooting his wife here last night, Louis Mayes, a plumb- ers' helper went to the hospital where she lay dangerously wounded early today, shot her again and then turned the weapon on himself. Both are in a critical condition.

Mrs. Mayes recently sued for a di- vorce, alleging cruelty and neglect. She asked $2,000 cash and $50 a month alimony.

Last night she and a friend, Miss Bertha Larimore, had started to a band concert in Miss Larimore's car when Mayes accosted.

"Let's go to the country; I am going to kill you," the husband said, and pointed a revolver at Mrs. Mayes' head.

She knocked the weapon from his hand, but he picked it up quickly, struck her on the head and then shot her through the cheek and neck.

She was taken to the hospital and this morning Mayes managed to slip into her room without being observed.

OLDS PROVES STAMINA

Doors leading to high executive positions in the locomotive industry will be opened to 20 college graduates this summer at the Oldsmobile fac- tory by Olds Motor works, Lansing, Mich. These young men will be given every opportunity to develop their talents in all fields of the industry —factory production, engineering, la- boratories, inspection, service, and all phases of the selling activities.

The plan is being adopted to as- sure the continuance of the creed and traditions of Old Motor works and to obtain and train young men to fill the executive positions being created by the expanding Oldsmobile organiza- tion.

This is the first time an automo- bile company has adopted a broad program of going to leading universi- ties to select its future executives, although this plan has been used by leading companies in several other lines of business. Its adoption by Oldsmobile is in line with the pio- neer work this veteran company has done to promote automotive advance- ment during the 29 years of its busi- ness life.

Early this spring letters were sent to the deans of the college of engi- neering in seven universities, outlin- ing the Oldsmobile plan and request- ing co-operation which was cheerfully given in each case. Later E. E. Eby, assistant to I. J. Reuter, president and general manager of Old Motor works, visited the universities and personally interviewed senior students who desired a career in the automobile industry. Those who filled the pre- liminary requirements were brought to the Oldsmobile plant at Lansing, Mich., taken through the factory, in- terviewed by executives and some of their number chosen.

The 20 graduates will work under the direct and close supervision of the personnel department. They will be routed through the organization to determine their individual talents. Those who show an epitude for sales and service work will be given dif- ferent routing than those whose tal- ents tend toward engineering a pro- duction.

It is the belief of Olds Motor works officials that this new plan will bring to the automotive industry some of the best talent of the next generation. Backed by a university education and a year's practical work under the supervision of interested executives, these young men will be enabled to develop their talents more rapidly than if they first had to overcome the buf- fets of chance before finding their proper niche in life.

WILLYS-KNIGHT 70 DEMAND ON LARGE INCLINE

More Than 5,000 Unfilled Orders at Factory Now

With the spring and summer de- mand making itself felt decidedly in the automobile industry, manufactur- ers are regarding the situation as the brightest it has been for years.

Officials of the Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, announce that pro- duction figures on every model in their line rapidly are being stepped ahead in a strenuous effort to cope with the deluge of orders which con- gest the factory. The daily schedule of production calls for 1500 auto- mobiles and it is very probable that this figure will mount to a much higher peak as weather and market conditions become more settled.

Situation Acute.

For the new Willys-Knight mod- el "70" alone, there are more than 5000 unfilled orders at the factory. Demand for this model has been especially felt since the first of the month and from all indications this figure will double itself before June 1. Willys-Overland officials consider the situation acute and are directing every effort toward meeting this de- mand.

The factories at Toledo, Elmira and Pontiac are being greatly ex- panded and many of the departments have been enlarged to maximum ca- pacity to effect greater output.

Install New Machinery.

The most efficient machinery known to the automobile industry has been purchased for these plants and is being installed. This will put Willys-Overland in line to produce a greater number of cars than ever before, it is reported.

It is estimated that by June pro- duction schedules will be such that most of the 5000 unfilled orders which include all models will be sat- isfied.

Traffic Commissioners Favor Light Car Built Along European Lines

A questionnaire investigation just completed among the traffic commis- sioners in the fifty leading cities in the United States to determine the at- titude of these men toward the Euro- pean type of light car as a possible solution of traffic hazards shows a 70 per cent attitude in favor of such a car.

These questionnaires covered all parts of the United States and seven questions were asked, all shaped to get opinions regarding the service fea- tures of the light, low car of Euro- pean trend and with the acceleration, efficient braking and short parking length of these cars, as they relate to the daily problem of city driving.

Quick Acceleration Favored.

Eighty per cent of the replies fa- vored the quick acceleration of the European light car as being of dis- tinct benefit to the rapid handling of traffic. It is a well known fact that one of the problems of the traffic forces on our busiest streets is to keep the cars in line from getting into jams through the inability of some automobile in the land to get away quickly at the signal to go.

Opinions as to the value of the low- er type of body used on European cars were about divided, the majority of the traffic commissioners not being familiar with this type of body con- struction. The favorable answers cited the advantages to the traffic control officer of being able to see over the tops of the cars from a slightly elevat- ed platform such as is commonly used today.

Light Car Needs Better Control

Eighty-five per cent of the replies attributed more accidents to the users of the present type of light car than to the larger cars and gave as their rea- son the lack of proper control facili- ties or the use of controls which could not always be depended upon to function in cases of emergency.

Seventy-five per cent felt that four- wheel brakes of approved design would aid materially in reducing the acci- dents caused by the lighter cars and the only ones to question the advant- ages of four-wheel brakes as a safety factor in traffic based their question on the personal element of the driver himself. It was agreed almost unani- mously that four wheel brakes in the hands of drivers who did not use them for stunt stopping would be advisable especially since practically all of the larger cars are now equipped with such brakes and the lighter cars must be equipped to keep in step with the short stopping of the larger cars ahead in the traffic line.

Better for Pavement.

Ninety-five per cent stated that the use of a lighter car would materially lessen the wear on streets and high- ways and result in better driving con- ditions with less expense to the road maintenance departments of the coun- try.

Ninety per cent considered that the shorter overall length of the European type light car would result in a decided improvement in parking conditions since these cars would require far less room at the curb, could be handled easier and with less jockeying when backing into a parking space and more cars could be accommodated in the same parking length. The only replies which showed a disinclination to feel that shorter length would help the parking problem were based on the statement that it was in the long run, largely a matter of the temper of the driver in the matter of taking as little room as possible for his car.

Included in the replies were letters from Traffic commissioners or from the Chief of Police in San Francisco, Oakland, Memphis, Buffalo, New Or- leans, Cincinnati, Salt Lake, Detroit, Minneapolis, Louisville and many oth- er representative cities all facing dif- ferent and intricate traffic problems.

The advantages of the European type of light car in acceleration would probably come from an acceleration ability of from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 10 seconds. This would be consid- erably faster than the acceleration in our average light car of the present day and would be in line with the ac- celeration capacity of the majority of our six-cylinder cars.

Aids Traffic Officers.

The low body construction would permit traffic officers to see farther down the traffic line. Four-wheel brakes of the European type would enable the driver of the light car to stop in safety back of the quicker stopping cars ahead and would serve to eliminate much of the trouble from rear end collisions.

The shorter overall length would easily permit from 25 per cent to 30 per cent more cars to be parked in a given street length, would eliminate much of the delay, accidents and con- gestion due to drivers jockeying in and out against fast moving traffic in an attempt to pull in to the curb.

An item not covered in the question- naire, but one of supreme importance to the car driver, is the ability of the European light car to maintain a good average road speed. It would be a relatively easy matter for an American built light car following European principles of construction, to maintain averages of 35 miles an hour over the usual highway even in traffic lines.

Fasting Is Fun

LONDON, June 19.—Lady Fisher, who lived 42 days on fruit juices and vegetable broths says going without solid food is so easy and simple that she wonders why more people do not adopt this system of keeping fits in preference to paying doctor bills.

"I was amazed to find how agreeable it was to fast," said Lady Fisher, de- scribing her cure and benefits before members of the nature cure association. "I know now what it is to feel really well, for the first time in my life. Publicity is abhorrent to me, but I feel that I should help create a wide-spread knowledge of this cure. My aim and hope is that this wonderful method will be adopted by the medical profession throughout the world."

Dodge Brothers May Sales Show New High Record

51 Per Cent Gained Over Delivery Same Month In 1925

Retail deliveries of more new mo- tor cars and trucks by Dodge Broth- ers dealers in the United States and Canada during May than during April this year are significent of the healthy business condition of the automobile industry and of Dodge Brothers, Inc., in particular. This showing is even more impressive when consideration is given to the fact that several weeks have elapsed since the usual peak of the retail selling season.

During the four weeks ended May 29 these retail deliveries by Dodge Brothers dealers amounted to 37,060, a substantial increase over the pre- vious four weeks and a gain of 12,735 or 51 per cent over the de- liveries during the four weeks ended May 30, 1925.

Dealers in the United States alone have delivered 144,199 new Dodge Brothers motor cars and Graham Brothers trucks from Jan. 2 to May 29, 1926, a gain of 48 per cent over the record of 97,572 for the cor- responding period last year.

Retail sales since Jan. 7, when Dodge Brothers made substantial im- provements and reduced their prices have been so high as to prevent the building up of any substantial stocks of new cars. Since late in March retail deliveries week by week have exceeded factory shipments and the factory sales department has been receiving a constant stream of wires from Dodge Brothers dealers asking for more cars.

Barkeeper Caught But Whole Force Needed to Do It

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 19.—(AP) John Pieber, Broadway saloonkeeper, has capitulated to police and dry

It was decided to attack the place from the rear. Police splintered the back door. When Pieber turned to give his attention to them, others jumped the barricade at the front door and rushed in. Several shots were fired in the darkness, but no one was wounded and Pieber was finally over- come and handcuffed. He was dragged to a patrol wagon, still fighting.

agents after a siege of several hours during which many shots were ex- changed and tear gas bombs were used to dislodge him from behind his barri- caded door.

The assault on "Pieber's Place" came after John McQuade, federal dry agent, raided a miniature brewery next door and went into the saloon to make his report by telephone.

Pieber recognized McQuade, drew a revolver and ordered him out. Mc- Quade also drew his pistol and there was an exchange of shots. Neither man was wounded.

Reinforcements were called from dry headquarters and the agents were joined by police armed with shot guns and tear gas bombs, five of which were hurled through a window, but Pieber still defied the officers to en- ter.

AGAIN!—a strictly stock Pontiac Six Coach proves its speed, stamina, endurance and sturdi- ness of construction by clipping 5 hours and 50 minutes off the pre- vious record made by an open car, from El Paso to Los Angeles.

—by beating the fast Golden State Limited train by 2 hrs. and 2 min.

—by exceeding the fastest time ever made between these points except by airplane.

—by covering the 993 miles of deplorable roads over mountains almost a mile high and across deserts 250 feet below sea-level, without a repair, mechanical adjustment or tire change.

Less than 60 days ago the Pontiac Six broke the Los Angeles-Albuquerque Record and estab- lished a new round trip record.

These are performances never before accomplished by any motor car—large or small—performances that prove the Pontiac is built to withstand the roughest going.

THE SCOTCH DO DANCE

LONDON, June 19.—The saxophone reinforced the bagpipe at the Caledonian ball, the most spectacular dance of the season, at the Hotel Cecil this year.

The Caledonian ball is the one night annually when Scots both men and women, are privileged to wear tartan kilts or shashes in a London ball room.

There were reels and bagpipes, of course, but the two-step and a jazz band appeared at intervals during the festivities which were arranged by Lady Stair and Lady Margaret MacRae, long prominent in affairs.

The Stuff That Gets 'em.—By James J. Montague

The Old Man Had Turned Out to Be a Traitor, Who Had Made a Combination With the Indians to Make Him King of the Whole Country.

The movie producer rang a number of bells in a little panel on his desk and there appeared before him the director, the art director, the art title director, the director of properties, the historical accuracy director and the title writer.

"Listen, boys," he said. "A feller I come over on the train with was telling me of a poem that he said ought to make a good pitcher, and it kind of hit me between the eyes. Of course I don't mean to say that poetry is any good, but the guy that wrote this one got on to a historical happening that I for one never heard of and put it into his poem, and I got the book. But before I let any of you see it I'm going to tell you the story, so as to get your reactions on it. You know me. I never force no ideas on the help without letting them say 'yes' or 'no' to them. That's why all our stuff goes so big.

"The story was about them Puritans or Pilgrims or whatever you call them that come over trailing Columbus and got lost somewhere up on the Massachusetts coast and had to settle there and fight Indians for something to do to keep them from getting homesick. Well, one of the main guys, whose name was Miles Standish, but who you'd better call Beverley Ballington or some other real English name, falls for a little Jane named Priscilla something who was just a flapper and naturally couldn't see him for anything but a grandfather, him not having any more jack than the rest of the birds in the settlement.

"He handed her his line a couple of times, and not getting anywhere with it he calls in a young good looking feller who was a sergeant or something in his army and tells him to go win the girl for him.

"Of course the young feller puts up a holler. He says it was hard enough to make a Jane on your own account without selling her an old guy with whiskers and one foot in the grave, only he was more diplomatic about it, not wanting to be put in the guard house or burned for a witch or something.

"But the old guy was keen to marry the chicken, like them old guys always are, and he practicaly ordered the young lad to do his stuff, promising to promote him to be a lieutenant if he got away with it.

"Well, you can see what happened. This feller Beverly Ballington went off to an Indian fight, and left the youngster to cop the girl for him, and the young feller done his best all right, but right in the middle of one of his swell speeches, when he was telling the girl what a whiz the old man was, and how many Indians he had killed single handed, and how he was going to be the candidate for governor at the next election and would probably be elected, having more votes than anybody else sewed up, what does the girl do but say, in effect:

Speak for Yourself, John.

"'Look a here, Johnnie. This old bozo is nothing to me. You could talk your head off about him and his Indian fights and his political chances and I would think the same thing about him, which is that he is a game guy all right, but like all the rest of them at his age just an old flop as far as a husband is concerned.

"'Now, if you was to tell me about a couple of Indians I heard you killed, and I hear quite well, standing so close to that blonde contralto in the choir Sundays and tell me that you wouldn't make such a rotten husband yourself, why, well, you never can tell about a girl.'

"Of course the young feller when he heard this was pretty badly shot. If he failed in his job he would probably be shot at sunrise when the old man come home and if he put it over why he'd lose the girl, and by this time he had fell for her himself like a couple of tons of anthracite.

"He tried to get her to think it over, but he seen she was set, so he just kissed her a couple of times—three seconds to the kiss—and sneaked off home. He was nervy enough to tell the old man what he'd done when the old man got back home, and here is where the story as wrote by the poet goes all blooey. Instead of being ordered to the stake, the young feller was forigven and told to go marry the girl, when by rights there ought to have been a peach of a fight between him and lots of soldiers the old man set on him, and all the soldiers ought to of got licked. Then a guy ought to come in and say that the old man had turned out to be a traitor, who had made a combination with the Indians to make him king of the whole country and that all he wanted of the girl was the inheritance which he knew she had in England, but which she had been kept in ignorance of, so as to finance the new kingdom he was going to set up.

"It's them little changes I want you boys to make. You can get a happy ending with the girl coming in at the last minute and finding out about the whole works, and nursing the lad, who had been badly wounded in the fight, back to happiness."

Office Force Lacks Ideas.

"But what I want you to keep in your nuts is that the whole thing must be strictly historical. I am sick of seeing where those smart alecks say we take liberties with sacred history to make a sensation. And I want you to get the book and fix it so there won't be no mistakes that can be sneered at. This pitcher will make a hit with all the school teacher's and women's clubs because it will be educational, and if it is done right it will make a lot of money.

"I'm sending Bill to wherever in Massachusetts the story was laid to have him hire the land we need for the scenes, and I've sent up to the Indian reservation in Oregon for the Indians. They ain't the same kind as they had in Massachusetts, but the boys in Oregon has worked for me, and they know what I want.

"I just signed a contract with Beulah Bolivia, and Homer Hollingsworth for the leads, and they can only work a couple of months beginning week after next, so you have got to make your work snappy. I'd like to see the scenario by tomorrow night and have the whole thing ready to shoot by next week.

"In the meantime I'd like you to bring in some original ideas of your own that there is a little money in. It's a rotten shame that I have got to do all the thinking and half the directing for this concern. I suppose you think it's easy to keep your salary checks going on and the bills paid, and do all your work too.

"That'll be all for today. By the way, there won't be no advances from now on. Business has been rotten lately, and I can't make out why."

Smokes in Style

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—A smoking room all to herself is to be assigned to Miss Suzan Lawrence, one of the four women members of parliament. Lady Astor and the three other commoners do not smoke but the laborite member for Eastham greatly enjoys the nicotine solace.

Miss Lawrence after some persuasion finally convinced the parliamentarians that even though Lady Astor and other women frowned upon cigarette smoking by women she at least was entitled to a sequestered place in which to have a quiet puff.

Miss Lawrence comes of a family of barristers. She has a deep resonant voice which is easily heard throughout the chamber.

HUGE SERVICE

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—Queen Mary, who was 59 years old the other day, and admits it, received as a birthday gift from her ladies and gentlemen-in-waiting, one of the largest dinner services ever manufactured. The queen has the reputation of having at her command more beautiful tableware than any other woman in the world.

The newest royal china is decorated by the garter arms and will serve particular ceremonial occasions, such as the state banquet to be given in honor of President Gaston Doumergue of France, at Buckingham Palace, on June 23, while he and Premier Briand are guests of their majesties.

WORKING IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 19.—(AP)—A statement by Daniel Vincent, minister of commerce, that "we are working in our country," seems borne out by the latest public statistics. These show there are only 400 persons—22 of them women—drawing unemployment doles in France. Of these 95 are in Paris.

These are the lowest figures registered since the war. The highest mary was reached in 1921 when there were 91,225 unemployed. This number sank to 10,071 the following year and then to 2,674 in 1923, to 1,227 in 1924 and to 705 last year.

Roaming The Air

Several radio engineers are "up in the air" over the quip of a newspaper paragrapher who said that "radio photographs look like most radio sounds." Their objections to comparison of aural and visual radio, and they assert that the high grade receivers of the present give nearly perfect reproduction. The transmission of pictures by radio however, is about in the same state that aural radio was four or more years ago. All predict great things for the future of visual radio, however.

A new voice has been added to the studio numbers of WEAF, Arnold Morgan brings the accent of the Southwest and Pacific Coast to the Eastern station in his tenor renditions that will be heard from time to time.

Being a radio artist has its advantages, even in a policeman's eyes. Ask Kathleen Stewart, nimble-fingered WEAF pianist if you don't believe it. She was stopped the other day by a husky officer who decided that she was too young to possess an automobile driver's license. He relented and released her, however, when she gave him one of her pleasing smiles and proved her identity. But it may have been the smile, not the radio at that.

Crown Prince Adolf of Sweden will broadcast at WJJD, June 23, on the occasion of his reception in Chicago, but the station gracefully backs down on its claim to a radio "scoop." The officials claimed that this would be the first appearance of a crown prince before an American mike, but WEAF stepped in ahead and broadcasted the prince's voice along with that of President Coolidge during the same program.

Quite a discussion has been stirred up between radio engineers and designers on the relative advantages of single-control and multiple-control sets. Now comes one engineer clamoring to be heard who declares that a two-dial set is the most easily designed and most staple in operation. He declares that it is more selective than the single-dial and at the same time is not so difficult but that anyone can learn to tune it.

Lieut Leigh Wade, famous round-the-world flyer and cross-country automobile driver, announced to a radio audience recently that he is planning an airplane expedition to the North Pole for next summer. The trip, he told KOA listeners, would be sponsored by three universities and would be made for scientific observations.

The broadcasting of some of the important events of the great Eucharistic congress in Chicago, will be shared by a group of radio stations there. The conference will start June 20 and will end June 24. The proceedings will be broadcast by the following stations: WEBH, WQJ, WMAQ, WJJD, WLS, KYW, WBCN, WOK and WGN. No station will broadcast all of the events, but will transmit that part of the program which is given during its regular schedules. Usually four stations will be on the air with the same broadcast.

With the advent of summer and better than usual reception conditions, attention of radio listeners in turning in a large degree to portable sets. Listeners who "swear by" their receivers at home are reluctant to give them up during ther vacations, and many are buying new receivers designed for portability, others are revamping their home models and still others are building their own.

On practically every night when music is broadcast from the Palmer House studio of WJJD, listeners are hearing an unusual radio stunt that they know nothing about. Often when Jack Nelson is singing on the 24th floor of the hotel he is accompanied by an or hestra that is on the first floor. The mixer panel, an ingenious invention that enables the use of several microphones simultaneously, is responsible for the stunt.

J. C. W. Reith, president of the British Broadcasting Company of England is only 27 years old.

Radio listeners in Germany differ in their demands from their American comrades. It is reported by broadcasters there that they prefer advice and education to music and other entertainment.

One receiving set operates more than 200 loud speakers at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The set is of the usual type, operated by six tubes. Fifteen miles of wire connect it to the houses of enlisted men and officers at the post, with another stage of amplification added for each additional speaker.

The radio listeners will get a laugh out of the old name "wireless" when they learn that the industry in the United States now uses about 10,000,000 pounds of copper a year, practically all of it being in the form of wire. In some sets 10 pounds of the metal is used.

Bay City, Mich., has passed an ordinance to regulate the operation of radio sets and to prevent unnecessary interference to reception. A city license must be procured and a fee of $2 is charged. It is claimed that Bay City is the first municipality in the United States to endeavor to collect revenue from listeners. Violations of the ordinance are punishable by a fine of $400 or imprisonment for three months. The third offense would bring about revocation of the license.

Until the middle of September the Eveready Hour wil be presented on summer schedule. The Tuesday evening programs will include during this interval a dance music period lasting 20 minutes. This popular radio feature is presented through WEAF and its chain of affiliated stations.

Domestic sales are continuing at so gh a peak that the mammoth pro- uction facilities of the Chevrolet otor company have been taxed to eir utmost capacity to fill the de- and. Texas Prisoner Hops Off Train, Making Getaway

NEWPORT, Ark., June 19.—(AP) While the train was running 45 miles an hour, Ross Brown, 25, being re- turned to a Texas prison farm near Houston, leaped through a coach win- dow near here today and escaped.

Brown was in the custody of H. C. Cloud, Texas prison agent. They were aboard the Sunshine Special of the Missouri Pacific road.

The prisoner was chained to a heavy rip, but in some manner worked the chain loose, and while Cloud was in the front of the coach, Brown leaped from the window. No trace had been found of him late today. Cloud said Brown had escaped from the prison farm.

Volcano and Flood Bring Disaster in Japan

Among the first pictures to reach this country depicting the havoc which followed the recent volcanic disturbance in northern Japan are these two which show what the combined lava flow and water floods did to railways and dwellings. 900 Japanese lost their lives as a result of the disturbance. An unusual feature of the catastrophe was the "spilling" of a mountain top lake, the waters from which rushed down the long slopes in a mass, obliterating hamlets in their sweep.

SETON'S WIFE OFF FOR LIONS

Noted Woman Hunter To Stalk Big Game In Wilds Of South America

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)— Equipped with a 30-30 carbine rifle a typewriter a camera and the most feminine of clothing for contrast, Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, author and big game hunter, is on her way to South America "to get a leopard and a lion if they don't see me first."

She is a member of the Chicago Field Museum expedition sailing to- day on the Munson liner "Pan-Amer- ica" for Rio de Janeiro and the jun- gles of the interior for three to ten months. George K. Cherrie, compan- ion of the Roosevelts on the River of Doubt and the African expeditions, leads the group which includes an- other woman, Mrs. Marshall Field III.

"My gun already has to its credit a one-thousand pound moose, an 800- pound bear, an antelope shot running at 90 feet and a wapiti," Mrs. Seton told the Associated Press, pointing to her gun lying amid frivolous pa- jamas in her feminine pink silk bou- doir on fashionable Park avenue.

Wins Book Prize

On the recent trip to India, which resulted in her prize winning book, "Yes, Lady Sahib," Mrs. Seton went on five tiger shoots, using a double- barreled combination rifle and shot- gun of Lord Leton's "so heavy it nearly knocked me off the elephant every time I shot," she said.

Mrs. Seton in a smart scarlet georg- ette dress, snakeskin shoes and a feathery black toque, presented a youthful picture as she spoke of her grown daughter and her famous author husband.

"Since my child married and my husband married his books, I've had time in the last five years to indulge my latent passion for nature, for traveling and for writing," said Mrs. Seton.

"I've learned to know India by heart, through its rain, through see- ing its women religious fanatics with their lips sealed together by a silver thread, through leading my own c- vans across the desert, though be- ing struck at by a six-foot cobra."

Asked if her husband never feared for her, Mrs. Seton replied: "No, he is resigned. After all, one may slip on a banana peel and die suddenly at home."

The pilots will be Lieutenant E. E. Patridge, I. B. Green and E. F. Booth all of the third group attack.

BETTER WATER FOR FREDERICK

System Expanded to meet All Requirements in Summer Months

FREDERICK, June 19.—Although there was no imminent danger last year in Frederick of a water short- age, there were times during the hot- test days of the summer that city officials cast wondering glances at the water guages as they sank to alarming low levels. This brought about creation of an extensive pro- gram of expansion in the water de- partment and Frederick is entering this summer equipped for any emer- gency that might arise for want of water.

Included in the expansion program that has been completed within the past few weeks, are a new million dollar reservoir, two new wells that will add 5,000,000 gallons per day to the city's water supply and $22,- 000 in new mains and enlargements of the distributing system.

Air lift pumps are being installed to operate the new wells sunk on the city's water farm. A solid sheet of water sand at a shallow depth af- fords a plentiful supply of excellent quality.

Work of installing fitments and valves for the new reservoir is in progress at this time. The unit is built of reinforced concrete and is artistically finished on the portion extending above the ground.

J. J. Zumwalt, city water and light superintendent, has been in charge of laying main extensions and enlargements. A new source has been provided for the industrial sec- tion of the city and new residential districts that have built up in the past year have been piped.

Bomb Kills Woman, Suspect Arrested

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 19.— (AP)—A charge of first degree mur- der was lodged today against Ralph Zager of Homer, N. Y., in connection with the death of Mrs. Arlene Curtis, 50, a nurse, as the result of the ex- plosion of a bomb delivered at her home in a package last Sunday.

The police announced that Zager, who had been held several days on suspicion, had confessed to purchas- ing a small quantity of dynamite on the Friday preceding the explosion, but maintained his innocence regard- ing the actual sending of the bomb.

Road Contracts Will Be Awarded

AUSTIN, June 19.—(AP)—Bids on a number of important projects will be opened on June 9 by the state highway commission. Contract for hard surfacing 16.5 miles of highway 1 in Parker county will involve the largest expenditure.

Other projects: Panola county, four miles grading and bridging on highway 43; Lubbock, 15 miles grading and bridging on highway seven; Jasper, 12.3 miles of gravel surfacing on high- way 62; Young, 9.8 miles grading and bridging on highway 24.

Hizzoner Does Carroll Stunt A Bit Better

Only He Doesn't Appear Before Audience, Even Though Called Upon

FREDERICK, June 19.—Mayor E. U. Gamblin's no piker, but when it comes to flashing a stunt to parallel the recent Earl Carrol sensation in which one of Earl's theatrical beauties, minus everything but her smile, splashed in a bathtub of wine to an accompaniment of "Red Hot Mama" played by a metropolitan orchestra, that's different.

A group of serenaders caught the head of the city's government in a bathtub playing hide and seek with a bar of soap when they swooped down upon his home Wednesday evening to play a few tunes.

They were not treated in the same manner in which the guests of the New York theatrical producer were entertained, however, for plenty of walls separated his honor and the Ford full of tune jugglers. However, Gamblin was unable to make his ap- pearance, and greet the musicians, for by the time he had made a hurried toilet, the serenaders had departed.

"It was beautiful music," declared the mayor.

Negro "Witch," Conductor Of Farm, Accused In Disappearance

CAMDEN, N. J., June 19.—(AP) State police are searching for 11 ne- gro children reported to have disap- peared mysteriously from the home of Abby Yancy, a dwarf known as "the witch," while the lattter was being tried and convicted yesterday on charges of cruelty to children.

Police found 13 children at the home of the woman, the alleged high priestess of a religious cult. Two of the oldest were taken to court, but when officers returned for the others some time later all had vanished.

"The witch," a negress but four feet tall and said to be high priestess of the "church of the black chosen people of the gospel kingdom," was sentenced to six months in jail on the testimony of two of her alleged vic- tims, a negro boy and his sister, and several other witnesses.

William Costl, 15, and his sister, Lillian, 14, told amazing stories. Wil- liam said he was beaten until he could not stand. He said he was strip- ped of clothing, a rope tied around his neck and fastened to the floor. Then he was beaten, he testified, some times by a man and sometimes by the "witch." Lillian said she was forced to disrobe, her arms and legs tied with a rope and a dog collar placed around her neck. Both children ex- hibited welts that doctors said would probably remain for life.

Much New Paving Going Down In Frederick As Many New Contracts Let

FREDERICK, June 19.—Fred- erick is dressing up. Draped with wreaths of new paving—with rebuilt curbing, prettier lawns and freshly planted shrubbery and trees for trim- ings, the city's appearance is being materially enhanced.

Frederick at this time is in the midst of an expensive program of street improvement, which when finished, will make it one of the most up-to-date in the state as far as paving and general street facilities are concerned.

New Paving Let.

Already contracted for and in the process of laying at this time are 52 blocks of paving. This added to the 72 blocks that were laid in a pro- gram in 1918 will bring the total to 124 blocks. In addition to this, five blocks of alleys in the main business district are to be surfaced and two projects are under consideration for laying curb and gutter to be filled in with a packed gravel street.

John Brown, street commissioner, is also planning a program of im- provement on the city's dirt streets. With the elimination of maintenance work on the 52 blocks that are being paved and the alleys, more time can be devoted to the remaining streets.

The greater portion of the work that has been contracted for at this time is for Warrenite bitulithic type, with the Western Paving company of Oklahoma City holding these con- tracts. At the last two lettings, however, the type has been changed to vitrified brick and the Frederick Construction company, a home con- cern, has been awarded the contracts.

Alleys are to be paved in brick, with the exception of those over the newly constructed storm sewer, which will be laid in solid concrete.

One of the features of the con- struction program will be paving to be laid on the two sides of the coun- ty courthouse that are not paved at this time.

Work of the two paving concerns in the city is creating a large indus- Work of the two paving concerns in the city is creating a large in- dustrial payroll which will help the town over the dull period in the year that it is experiencing before the result of the grain harvest is felt.

SICKLY, FEVERISH CHILDREN

Studebaker Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camp- ing trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.

2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guaran- tee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.

3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only — the same price to all." For to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock — new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other acci- dent in the meantime.

1925 Studebaker Standard Phaeton

Craterville Camp Going Over In Excellent Shape

Word is received from Scout Executive Frank B. Creighton who is with the Boy Scouts in camp at Craterville park saying that everything is going good, and the boys are having a busy time through the ten days. The camp will break Wednesday and the group expects to return here by supper time that evening.

"Great rivalry exists every morning when inspection is held," Mr. Creighton said, "and the three tent leaders are now known as Eagle eyes. They do not fail to find the smallest piece of paper of trash." Tent leaders are Alton M. Counts, assistant scoutmaster of Olney; Bill McClure, scout mater of troop two, and Bryant Creighton, Eagle scout of troop four, Wichita Falls.

All the scouts were initiated into the secret order, Thursday night, Mr. Creighton said. The three degrees, Heloid, Funneloid and Electroloid were taken by the 30 boys, it was said.

Has Own Home

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—Queen Mary and the queen of Norway have put the finishing touches on an attractive cottage home which Princess Victoria has acquired in their quaint village of Iver in Buckinghamshire. The princess is now recuperating from a recent attack of pneumonia and soon will take up her permanent home in the cottage.

This will be the first time Princess Victoria has ever had a home of her own. She was always the devoted companion of her mother, the late queen dowager Alexandria, and lived most of her life at Sandringham or Marlborough House.

Many of her treasured possessions have been moved to her new cottage, including her favorite portrait of her mother, which used to hang in Marlborough House. Her grand piano, a gift from King Edward has also been transferred to Iver.

There will be only women servants in the new house, all of them being from the staff which served the princess at Sandringham.

Where Taxes Hurt

PARIS, June 19.— (AP)—The Frenchman grinds his teeth when he is told that under-taxation is responsible for his country's financial difficulties. He points out in refutation of the charge that:

A twenty franc dividend on Northern Railroad stock, after payment of taxes, left 9.02 francs to the holder; that a ten franc coupon on the Union Parisienne Bank shrank to 3.95; that a twenty-five franc coupon on the Chargeurs Reunis Shipping company left its owner only 5.65 francs, and that a 61.60 franc founders share coupon in an Indo-China real estate company lost over 50 per cent before the investor profited what was left for him, 11.30 francs.

Finally, he points out that a railroad supply company has just issued a notice that its dividends for 1925 was 20.80 francs per share, "but as the taxes on it exceeded the gross amount, the coupon need not be detached and presented at the banks where the dividends are usually paid."

May Lose Jobs

BERLIN, June 19.—The picturesque singing and whistling lamplighters who trudge along the curbs at dusk and at dawn with long poles turning the gas lamps on and off are in no danger of losing their jobs in Berlin for some time.

Of 100,000 street lamps, 90,000 are illuminated by gas and only 10,000 by electricity. The city council has just rejected as too expensive a proposal to begin electrifying street lighting in residential districts.

The contract with the lamplighters' union fails to take into consideration that the days are longer in summer than in winter. For an unknown reason the lamplighters go into action one hour later from December 31 to June 21 than they do from June 21 to the following December 31.

Then the Fly Flew

BERLIN, June 19.—A group of American tourists, bent on "doing the art galleries right" hired an expert guide at a fabulous price to show them everything of artistic importance in Berlin. One of them told the following story of their experiences:

"Elucidating the faults of modern paintings, the expert flared up in disgust at a landscape color.

"'Now here you have a painter utterly devoid of the deserving eye,' the experts remarked. His trees are without form. All his pants give the impression of having no roots. Here he has made an attempt to be realistic by painting what he intended to be a fly on his tree trunk. Here he was resembles a fly than the man in the moon. Its simply a nondescript blur.'

"At these words the indignant fly spread her wings and flew away."

Live in Luxury

BERLIN, June 19.—A small part of the foreign students at Berlin university possibly 100, will have an opportunity to live in royal splendor during their study period in Berlin.

The historic Wendish castle Coepenick, built in the twelfth century as the residence of Price Jaczo of the Slavs, is being remodeled into a dormitory. Beautifully situated on an island in the river Spree on the outskirts of Berlin, the castle, the Prussian government announced, "will be an inspiration to those who live and work in it."

Stormed and captured by Heinrich of Meissen in 1238, reconquered by the landgraves of Brandenburg in 1239, the castle bears the scars of more than a dozen battles before the federation of German states was effected. The state expects to have it ready for occupancy in the fall.

REVOKES DEPORTATION

Mexico Permits Canadian Doctor To Remain in Torreon

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—(AP) President Calles has revoked the deportation order issued recently against William H. Cole, a Canadian physician practising in Torreon, charged with acting as medical inspector for insurance companies which had violated Mexican laws.

He explained that he was ignorant of the companies having violated the law.

Fireman at Outs

BERLIN, June 19.—(AP)—Interborough rivalry in greater Berlin has broken out afresh by the refusal of the Wilmersdorf fire department to drive one block out of the way to extinguish a chimney fire in Charlottenburg.

Kurfuerstendamm, Berlin's white way, forms the dividing line between the two borough. Hearing shouts of fire on a cross-street a traffic policeman turned in an alarm. When the district chief of a Wilmersdorf station arrived and found the fire in Charlottenburg, he ordered his company back to the engine house and told the policeman to call the Charlottenburg department from the alarm box across the street.

Despite the delay, the fire damage was not great, but Charlottenburg authorities have protested against the lack of neighborliness in the adjacent borough.

BANDITS GET $6,948

Cashier Held Up and Robbed of Factory Payroll.

ATCHISON, Kan., June 19—(AP)—Two young bandits obtained $6,948 from Kent Gaylord, cashier of the Locomotive Finished Materials company here today in a daylight holdup.

The holdup occurred in front of the company's office at 9 o'clock just as Gaylord had started to deliver the weekly payroll to the company's foundry.

The Marquis of Dampierre, one of France's wealthiest men and owner of the famous chateau de Dampierre in Tourraine, is about to tour America lecturing on French art and life. The Marquis is a connoisseur of both.

Ferguson Will Under Advisement

EASTLAND, Texas, June 19.—(AP)—The Ferguson will case in which James E. Ferguson, former governor is one of the plaintiffs, has been taken under advisement by the eleventh court of civil appeals, after submission yesterday.

The case involves the will of the late Mrs. Kate P. Morton, a sister of James E. Ferguson, who died in 1924 leaving an estate valued at $300,000. The will was admitted to probate at Haskell.

The Fergusons are contesting on the ground that the will was not the last will of Mrs. Morton, the following clause being one of the grounds of the action: "I am going on a long journey and I am never coming back so I make this will which I will change if I live."

Contestants contend she lived for two years afterward and that she made a subsequent will.

What to Eat?

BERLIN, June 19.—(AP)—Louis Schaurte, the nestor of fashionable Berlin cooks who is 75, has a ledger while hrecords the favorite dishes of hundreds of personages he has served in the last 50 years. The former kaiser's favorite dish is given as "schlasches himmelreich," a savory hotch-potch of boiled bacon, dumplings and stewed pears.

Schaurte said that during his half century of experience he has found musicians addicted to a diet different from other persons. Liszt, Rubinstein and Sarasate, he said, were confirmed salad lovers. Painters almost invariably like meat and plenty of it. Actors he found omnivorous, but even 30 years ago, he asserted, actresses were just as anxious as now to preserve their figures and accordingly forced themselves to keep to a restricted diet.

Visas Incorrect

PARIS, June 19.—(AP—Americans who sail for Europe without French visas on their passports are causing increasing annoyance to French authorities by sudden decisions to visit France, visaed or not. Port authorities have protested to steamship companies, under threat or raising visa fees for such visitors from $10 to $20, and the steamship companies have asked Consul General Skinner for advice.

Insurance of visas before landing passengers had been a delicate question between the French and American governments for some time. With the great rush of tourist traffic this summer, it becomes a pressing one. Boat trains have been delayed for hours while a few last minute passengers had their passports visaed for France, and big liners have missed the tide at Southampton because of delays of this sort at Cherbourg.

Room for Air

PARIS, June 19.—(AP)—Cubist houses for Paris painters are something more than a canvas at the salon or an architect's dream. They have actually been completed— a whole street of them—in one of the left bank quarters, and named after the painter, Seurat, whose "circus" recently was accepted by the Louvre as the gift of the late John Quinn.

The "rite seurat" has no two houses mere thrdthrdthrdtrdtdrtdrahrdahrar alike. But they have one thing in common which greatly astonishes mere bourgeois French neighbors. This is the enormous areas of window space for sunlight and air. All the furniture is arranged so as to follow the lines of the rooms. Economy of space has been the watchword of the architect.

"What we want is light: Bedrooms facing south, kitchens to the north, and not an inch of space wasted." This is the motto of the constructors of the little studios.

Beauty Parade

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—King George and Queen Mary at the recent royal court looked upon the prettiest crowd ow debuntantes ever. The young women were considered to have excelled eve nthe goodlooking bevy which was presented in 1921, which was then declared to be a record. Many of the "debs" made their bow at the early age of 17 years and these "youngsters" many was shingled and a good few wore the Eton crop.
