Sad-Eyed Little Gunman Sought Only Amusement And No Profit

(By The United Press)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—A sad-eyed little gunman, hardly more than five feet tall, entered a gas station and forced the attendant to hand over $26.

Right there all semblance to an ordinary hold-up ended.

The gunman sat down in a chair. His gun hung negligently.

"Go ahead and call the police," he ordered.

Dubiously George Skoda took the proffered 5-cent piece and did so. He dialed the police dispatcher and said, "I've been held up!"

"Is the holdup man around?" asked the dispatcher.

"Yes, he's right here."

A patrol car arrived a few minutes later and took the man away. He wouldn't give his name.

"I wanted to amuse myself," he said.

Roosevelt Not Ready To Give Prize To Taft

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. — While President Roosevelt and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) continued their argument over government economy, Budget Director Harold D. Smith said today that the federal agencies reorganized by the chief executive last summer cut 5,006 employes off the payroll in three months.

Smith said, however, that the total civilian personnel of the government increased 9,470 to 937,357 from July 31 to Nov. 1 because of additions in agencies connected with national defense and neutrality.

Mr. Roosevelt cited figures yesterday to show that a program outlined by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for balancing the multi-billion dollar budget would save only $8,000,000 yearly.

That would include, he said, the elimination of the national planning board, which he contended would save the government a lot of money in the long run, and the disaster loan corporation, which he pointed out spent most of its money in Ohio flood relief.

The president had offered a "handsome prize" to Taft, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, if he could show how to balance the budget. Taft responded in a speech in Chicago last week.

Not Ready To Give Prize

The presidential rejoinder came at a press conference late yesterday, with every indication that he was not ready to award the prize. Taft quickly retorted with a statement saying:

"The truth is, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt does not want to balance the budget.

"The president has picked out some of the examples I gave of bureaus which might be eliminated but says that they only total $8,000,-

Secret Service To Aid Business Men

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The secret service began today a five-year campaign to teach Americans to know their money—which means how to tell counterfeit from the real thing.

"There was a time," said Chief Frank J. Wilson, "when our people were losing $1,000,000 a year. This has been reduced to about $300,000. When the campaign is completed we hope the loss will be practically nothing."

Movie To Be Shown

The campaign will be carried into the schools and theaters by a movie, which features for the first time a real picture of real money.

Wilson and a group of his agents gave the movie a premiere at the interior department auditorium yesterday, and then they gave the dollar a loud hand.

There are lots of ways to tell a counterfeit bill, it seems, but one of the best is to study the face of the man on the money.

If Hamilton's right eyebrow is a-kilter—the bill's a phony.

Study George's Jaw

If George Washington's jaw is too lantern-like, the bill is no good.

If Abraham Lincoln's beard is not trimmed just right, you had better call the police.

Look at their collars, their ties, their hair—the real bills have fine, clear-cut work. The counterfeits

Missing Auto Located Here

An automobile stolen last week from Shelby Webb Motor company in Abilene was found Tuesday afternoon in the 1005 Avenue U garage of V. L. and Clyde Harrington, Lubbock men held in lieu of bonds totaling $3,000 in connection with burglary of Weiss Motor company, said police.

Recovery of the machine was due to the work of Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police.

Other Reports Made

Other reports made to police did not result in felony investigations.

J. T. Stalcup of 507 Avenue N reported his billfold had been taken when he was in the postoffice. It had $33 in money and several valuable papers in it.

A portfolio on which was engraved "Foy Bourn" was stolen from J. Hill Wright of 1305 Texas avenue.

An Anton man, Marvin Keefer, reported his bricklayer tools had been stolen from his car, at Twenty-fifth street and Monroe.

Bicycle Is Stolen

Melvin Roberson, of 2201 Sixth street, said his bicycle had been stolen. License number is 464.

Police received a complaint directed into the rubber-burning activities of a man in 1700-block Avenue E. A promise to desist was elicited.

Anti-Lynching Bill Certain Of Approval

Torrent Of Argument Heard Over Who Is Playing For Negro Vote Of Country

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. —Contention over constitutionality of the legislation and a plea against "opening the wounds" of sectionalism edged the Gavagan anti-lynching bill toward House passage today.

"It's a worse crime than kidnapping," Rep. Fish (R-NY) asserted, telling his colleagues that the opposition had created "a myth" by saying the bill to curb mob law was unconstitutional.

Precedents Are Cited

Fish contended there were numerous precedents for the Gavagan measure, which would impose penal-

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo), speaking in opposition to the bill, declared that "it proposes an elaborate solution of a problem already solved."

He pleaded with the House not to "tear open those old wounds which have been closed for years."

After a few hours more of debate during which members will get a chance to amend, a vote was to come on final passage. House victory for the measure was a foregone conclusion, but southern senators dusted out a pigeon hole for the bill in their end of the capitol.

Children Thought Mother Was Asleep; Dead For Two Days

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Seven-year-old Anthony Pizarro and his 5-year-old sister, Judith, thought their mother was asleep Sunday when she lay still on her bed in their tiny East Second street apartment after complaining of a pain in her chest.

Keeping a lonely vigil—their father, Fernando, is on a freighter bound for Manila—they played quietly in the kitchen, met callers with a whispered "mama's asleep," and slept in the bed beside their mother for two nights. They prepared their own scanty meals of milk and cereal, and Anthony stayed home from school.

His teacher, worried over his absence, went to the apartment yesterday. When she and a neighbor entered the Pizarro apartment they found Mrs. Pizarro dead. A physician said she had died of heart disease at least 48 hours before.

Governor Earl K. Long Is Cut Off Air Last Night

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 10 (AP)—Radio station officials said Governor Earl K. Long of Louisiana was cut off the air here "several times" last night for use of words like "hell" and "damn" in a political speech.

"We attempted to eliminate such words," said John McCormack, manager of station KWKH in Shreveport, "by cutting the speech out momentarily."

Actor David Niven Is Engaged To Marry English War Nurse

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10 (U.P.)—English Actor David Niven is engaged to marry a young British war nurse, daughter of a grenadier guardsman, it was learned today.

Committee Okays Request For Cash

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The House appropriations committee approved, in general, today President Roosevelt's recommendations for immediate emergency defense and neutrality outlays and proposed that Congress provide $267,197,908 for the army, navy, coast guard and Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The money would go for work already started or expected to be undertaken during the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, in connection with neutrality patrols, increases in and training of military personnel, and counter-espionage.

Slash Is Made

The whole outlay was proposed under the president's proclamation of a state of limited national emergency at the start of European war last September.

Reporting an emergency appropriation bill to the House, the committee cut $4,801,615 from $271,999,523 recommended by the executive branch. The largest reduction was $2,024,572 in the item of food for the army. The committee said there had been an excess appropriated for this purpose in earlier appropriation bills for this fiscal year, making the cut more or less a bookkeeping transaction.

Court Orders Exemption On Gasoline Levy

Large Amount Of Revenue Hat Been Received; Appeal To Supreme Court Expected

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 10. — The Austin court of civil appeals ruled today that cities are exempt from payment of the state gasoline tax.

The decision was considered highly important because the state has been receiving a large amount of revenue from gasoline sold to municipalities. The state was expected to appeal to the Supreme court.

Suit Against El Paso

The question arose in a suit brought by the state against the city of El Paso to recover the four cents per gallon tax on 70,579 gallons of gasoline imported from New Mexico and used by the city in its police cars, fire trucks and other motor vehicles operated within the city limits.

"The statute," Justice M. B. Blair of the appellate court wrote, "declares the tax to be 'an occupation or excise tax.' If the tax is an occupation tax, then it cannot be imposed upon municipal corporations.

"We regard it as being both an occupation and an excise tax, depending on the particular case. We have reached the conclusion that when the general tax statute is construed in the light of the policy of the constitution to generally exempt municipal corporations from the payment of taxes to the state, it must be held that the legislature did not intend to impose the excise tax in question upon municipal corporations."

Question Not Involved

Although the question was not involved, the court of civil appeals likewise expressed the opinion that gasoline bought by the state was not subject to the 4-cent tax.

The attorney general's department had contended that a ruling such as the appellate tribunal handed down would deprive Texas gasoline dealers of sales to the state and the municipalities, with the governmental units importing fuel from other states.

In answer to that contention, Judge Blair asserted that the statute provided that "no tax shall be imposed on any motor fuel which is not subject to be taxed under the constitution of Texas."

"If this direction of the statute is

Reds Are Trapped; Supply Lines Cut

BY WEBB MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

HELSINKI, Jan. 10—Reports from the northern front said today that Finnish troops in the Salla area apparently had surrounded a large body of Russian forces and had cut their supply lines.

Russian planes, the reports said, had been trying to drop supplies to the isolated red army forces, but frequently the supplies fell inside the Finnish lines.

Afraid To Build Fires

The Russians were described as afraid to build fires at night because of the danger of inviting attacks by Finnish ski patrols. According to dispatches, the Russians still were holding on but were in danger of freezing and starvation.

As mopping up squads continued the search for fragments of the defeated Russian 44th infantry division, and salvage squads collected abandoned Russian war material, engineers began building tank defenses by felling big trees in wide belts. The trees were partly sawed off at about the height of a man's head and toppled over in the direction of the frontier. The result was a barrier which the Finns believe will thwart even the most powerful tanks in any new drive for the Gulf of Bothnia.

Raids by Finnish ski patrols across the Russian frontier continue. These are purely demolition units, however, detailed to cut the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad and make normal traffic impossible despite the work of repair squads.

It is indicated that at no point, of the five where the Finns have driven the Russians back, do the Finns themselves contemplate any real attack.

They want to emphasize, it was understood, that they are fighting a purely defensive war and they do

Judge And Prisoner Differ On Sentence

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—Criminal Court Judge George A. Solter was impressed with the candid story told by a prisoner pleading guilty to burglary.

"As a prudent and intelligent man," the judge said, "how much time do you think a judge should give for the crime you have committed?"

"At least a year," the prisoner said.

"I can't quite agree," Judge Solter replied. "Nine months in the house of correction."

Grand Jurors Return Bills

(Special To The Journal)

CROSBYTON, Jan. 10—Four indictments were returned to Judge Daniel A. Blair Tuesday afternoon by a 72nd district grand jury.

Three of them charged theft over $50, one of them forgery.

Bench Warrants Asked

Application was made by District Attorney Burton S. Burks for a bench warrant by which to return Victor Easter, serving a 5-year burglary sentence in the penitentiary and who since the commission of that offense was given a 5-year-sentence for robbery from Montague county.

Another bench warrant will ask delivery of H. C. Poindexter, alias C. L. Griggs, recently convicted of forgery at Comanche and given a 4-year term in the penitentiary, said Burks. He is serving forgery assessment, court records show.

Youth Plays Hookey And He Reaps The Wages Of Sin

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 10. (AP)—Robert Peel, 17, playing hookey, stopped to admire Carmichael, the zoo's polar bear. Noticing the snow in the bear's cage was trampled, he started throwing some more in.

Carmichael took a swipe at him, tore his right arm from elbow to wrist.

"Did I reap the wages of sin!" said Robert. "That bear sure made a pork chop out of my arm."

Republican Committee Will Hold Meeting On Feb. 16

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Continuing to jockey with Democratic officials over 1940 campaign arrangements, the Republican national committee was called today to meet Feb. 16, when it will set a date and place for the party's national convention.

The Democratic committee will make similar decisions Feb. 5 under a recent notification by National Chairman James A. Farley.

TRIAL DATE SET

BONHAM, Jan. 10 (U.P.)—J. W. McCoin, charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of his wife, will go on trial next Monday. District Judge George P. Blackburn, in announcing date of the trial today, ordered a special venire of 72 men.

Snow Barrier Facing Attack

(By The Associated Press)

JACKSON, Wyo., Jan. 10—Gun-toting guards rode today on snow plows seized by residents of this remote northwest Wyoming town and put to work cutting drifts on Teton pass in defiance of the state highway commission.

State officials had ordered the pass closed because of the expense of keeping it open.

Guards Sent Along

Men who took over the plows late last night, after a town mass meeting, yielded to entreaties of highway officials that the regular operators be permitted to run them. Armed guards were sent along, however, with each piece of machinery to be sure the job was carried through.

Backing up the guards was a human barricade of 75 men at the Wyoming end of the 26-mile pass into Idaho, determined that no attempt should be made to take the snowplows out of the area. Women brought hot coffee to the pickets.

Peace Reigns Over Portales; Jitterbugs To Get Music

PORTALES, N. M., Jan. 10 (U.P.)—Peace, of a fashion, returned to Portales today. The "juke boxes"—nickel phonograph record players—were restored to New Mexico Junior college jitterbugs.

Answering complaints that the canned jive was disturbing residents, the city council three weeks ago drew an old anti-dancing ordinance from the town's archives. The record players were banned.

The junior collegians said the rule was unjust, "a violation of civil liberties." Mayor Frank Howard promised to investigate.

He found that the anti-dancing ordinance had been repealed in 1934. City Attorney Turner Hensley agreed that the jitterbugs' rights must be restored. A compromise—a 10 p. m. curfew—was agreed upon to pacify the complaining students.

Consumers' Purchase Survey In Lubbock Being Planned

Tentative plans for a "consumers' purchase survey in Lubbock were discussed with officials of the chamber of commerce this morning by Dr. F. A. Buechel of Austin, assistant director of the bureau of business research of the University of Texas.

A similar survey, it was revealed, is planned in numerous cities of Texas in an effort to obtain a statewide cross-section of what the "typical" family purchases.

Dr. Buechel addressed the freshman class in business economics at Texas Technological college before his departure for Austin. Dr. J. O. Ellsworth is head of the department.

Stiff Lecture Courses Given To Five Lubbock Youngsters

If they had just felt an irresistible urge to have a football so that they could kick and pass it with a view to making stars for future grid elevens here there might have been a glimmer of excuse for the action of five kids hailed this morning into corporation court.

So explained officials in charge of the investigation.

The boys, 9, 10, 11 and 12 years old, broke into a storage box at Tech stadium and stole three footballs valued at more than $25 wholesale, said Emmett Galloway, counsellor for Downtown Boys club.

But, instead of using the pigskins to make their muscles tougher and bigger, they:

1. Swapped one of them for a 5-cent bar of candy.
2. Sold one for 25 cents.
3. Used the other as security for a small personal cash loan.

Negotiation was strictly among juveniles, said authorities.

All property had been recovered.

No charges are likely to result—but stiff lecture courses had begun at noon.

"He-Deb" Coming Out Party Is Talk-Of-The-Town Today

Li'l Abners of Lubbock were scurrying here and there this afternoon in preparation for their Leap Year 'coming out party' tonight at 9 o'clock in the Hilton hotel ballroom and from all indications it is to be one of the "social highlights of the season."

The affair all began last Sunday when pictures of 19 of the hundreds of Lubbock's 'eligible bachelors' adorned the society section of the Avalanche-Journal. The young men joined in the spirit of the occasion and immediately began plans for the party at which they will be formally introduced to the unattached females of the city.

The affair is being held tonight, one of the group explained, because 'from all indications there won't be many of us left for very long.' Music will be furnished by an orchestra recruited by Burnie Howell. At promptly 9:15 p. m. the 'he-debs' will be introduced by Hugh Dunlap, experienced in such occasions, assisted by Miss Margaret Turner, society editor

Study Clubs Meet Tuesday For Lectures, Election

Programs on safety, law, government and health and business sessions were conducted at meetings of study clubs Tuesday afternoon.

Clement-Sorosis club met in the home of Mrs. E. P. McWhirter, 2321 Twenty-ninth street for an annual business meeting and reading of the constitution and by-laws. Officers were elected. They will take office in May and serve a year. They are:

President, Mrs. McWhirter; vice-president, Mrs. G. Robert Martin; recording secretary, Mrs. Bob Gee (re-election); corresponding secretary, Mrs. Wilbur Cooper; treasurer, Mrs. Preston Smith; critic and parliamentarian, Mrs. J. D. Sanders; executive member, Mrs. Hugh V. Newton; federation representative, Mrs. Ben Jenkins; auditor, Mrs. E. J. Ohnemus; reporter, Mrs. Newton; historian, Mrs. Grady Davis.

The following committees were named: calendar, Mesdames Martin, Sanders, Clarence Wood; social, Mesdames Raymond Flanagan, Homer Roper, J. H. Fowler, Dwan Rogers; membership, Mrs. Guy Wheatley; finance, Mesdames Smith, Ben Mashburn, Vance Apple; welfare, Mesdames L. M. DeGarmo, Belverd Needles, Earl Hunt; telephone, Mrs. Jerry V. Brooks.

Nineteen members were present.

Mrs. W. B. Irvin was leader for the program on parliamentary law for Athenaeum club at Hotel Lubbock. She gave a talk on, "Parliamentary Usages."

Debate Given

A group of high school students gave a debate on the question, "Resolved, That Texas Should Adopt a System of Complete Medical Service Available To All Public Citizens At Public Expense." The affirmative side was taken by Evelyn Carpenter and Lucille Hall. The negative side was taken by A. B. Sansom and Collen Chapman.

Junior Twentieth Century club met in room 27 of the Tech library building for a book review by James G. Allen, dean of men at the college. He reviewed, "Christ in Concrete" (di Donato).

Approximately 30 members were present. Mrs. Lawrence Bacon was admitted as a new member.

Sixteen members attended a meeting of the Sorosis club in the home of Mrs. C. B. Powell, 2306 Sixteenth street. A short business session was held.

Review Is Heard

The program topic, "Health and Safety" was given by Mrs. W. P. Clement and Mrs. G. W. McCleary. Roll call was answered by simple aids in keeping fit.

"Homelife and Education in Finland, Sweden and Denmark" was the program given at a meeting of the Sunshine Child Study club in the home of Mrs. Lewis Kittrell, 2008 Fifteenth street. Mrs. Billy Johnson was a guest.

Mrs. J. C. Sanders talked on Finland; Mrs. Clay Anderson, Sweden and Mrs. D. R. Patterson, Denmark.

Others present were Mesdames J. H. Brock, G. E. Dawson, Ben Eskridge, J. T. Langford, A. D. Montgomery, C. C. Perryman, C. V. Sandlin, Clyde G. Tatum. A salad plate was served.

Mesdames Chester Elliott, Paul Barrier, M. M. Ewing and G. V. Fulton were hostesses to the Lubbock Woman's Forum in the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway. Mrs. R. P. Fuller was program leader.

"Wind, Sand and Stars" (Antoine DeSaint Exurpery), was reviewed by Mrs. Mark Allen. Mrs. R. S. Underwood directed a parliamentary drill.

Approximately 35 members were present including two new members, Mrs. J. C. Purvis and Mrs. Jim Bledsoe.

Twentieth Century club held an annual business meeting and program on the Scandinavian countries at Hotel Lubbock. Dr. Leo C. Riethmayer, government instructor at the college, spoke. Mrs. Alan L. Carter told some of her impressions of Denmark. She is a former resident of that country. Mrs. Fred W. Sparks talked.

Mrs. Loyal F. Oldman was admitted as a new member. Approximately 20 members were present.

Talks And Tumbling Are On Junior P-T Program

Junior High Parent-Teachers association will meet Thursday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock for a program based on the theme of "The Ability to Get Along With Others."

Talks will be made by Jean Carolyn Harvey, Miss Gloriadel Bowen, girl's physical education teacher, John Halsey, jr., and John W. Wilson.

Stunts and tumbling will be directed by Miss Bunnye Dow with the following girls taking part: Patricia Keen, Velma Hightower, Juanita White, Juanita Carrol, Louise Ray, Jacqueline Barton, Joyce Matheny, Allie May Brock, Frankie McCormick, Shirley Ann Roberts and Louise Stribling.

Hundred Fifty Attend Party

One hundred fifty persons attended a party and dance given Tuesday night at the Hilton hotel by the Westerners' Mothers club in honor of the football state champions.

Special guests were Coaches J. G. Keyes and Walker Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lowrey, Mesdames Minnie Eleanor Chapman and J. M. Davis.

Dancing and bingo were diversions.

The refreshment table was centered with a bowl of calendulas and strips of black and gold paper extended to the edges. Black and gold tapers burned, carrying out the school's colors.

Mesdames S. R. McKinnon and Max Walthall presided at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Leete Jackson was general chairman. Others on committees of invitation, finance and entertainment were Mesdames L. A. Storrs, J. M. Chism, J. W. Redwine, J. H. Barker, Caleb Bearden, E. F. Alford, H. G. Lawson, T. E. Crites, L. B. Wright, T. Parr Merriman, C. C. Caldwell, W. C. Breedlove and E. B. Wheelock.

Mrs. Dingus To Address Student Forum Tonight

The attitude of European youth toward the national crisis will be discussed by Mrs. William G. Dingus, assistant professor of Latin at Texas Technological college, at an all-student forum tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Methodist student center, 2405 Thirteenth street.

Mrs. Dingus attended a Methodist youth conference held in Copenhagen to organize youth groups in Europe shortly before the war began. Although war had not begun, fear that it might was evident at that time, she said.

About 30 American students and two bishops were present. She paused there on her way to Stockholm to attend a convention of the International Federation of University Women.

Matrons Forty-Two Club Elects Two Officers

Mrs. Elmo Wall, 2211 Broadway, entertained for the Matrons Forty-Two club Tuesday afternoon. An election of officers was conducted with Mrs. R. V. Williams elected president and Mrs. T. Teal secretary.

The club will meet next with Mrs. Oral Thomas.

Mrs. Viola Walker was a special guest. Other members present were Mesdames J. H. Whiteside, W. R. Spencer, J. E. Garrison, J. B. Boyd, Maude Bradley, E. L. Allison and J. M. Young.

Thibault Is To Appear In Concert On Monday

South Plains Civic Music association members are being reminded that the second concert in this season's series will be given Monday night when Conrad Thibault, nationally known baritone, appears in recital. The program will be given at Senior High school auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock.

Admission will be by membership card only.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up, and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Edouard Blitz Guest Artist

Edouard Blitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julien Paul Blitz, will be guest soloist at the concert to be given by Junior and Senior High school orchestras Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Senior High school auditorium.

Miss Beulah Dunn is director.

The program is free and is open to the public.

Junior High numbers will be: The Oracle (Otis Taylor), On Wings of Song (Mendelssohn), Menuet a L'Antique (Paderewski), Choral and Fugue (Bach), Plantation Overture (arranged by Roberts), Slavonic dance (Balikov).

After an intermission, Edouard will play: First movement from Symphony in C Major (Haydn), Toccato and Bergamasca (Frescobaldi), and second and third movements of Concerto (Porpora).

Senior high numbers will be: Ruy Blas Overture (Mendelssohn), Morning (Speaks) and Hungarian Dance Number 5 (Brahms).

Not quite as famous as its western brother, the Colorado river of Texas rises in the northwestern section of that state and empties into the Gulf of Mexico.

Installation Scheduled By Rebekahs Thursday

Plans for an installation of officers on Thursday night were discussed Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Rebekah lodge study club in the basement of the Myrick building. Instructions were given to the new officers present. Tea towels were brought for the organization's kitchen.

Approximately 20 members were present. Members of the Rebekah lodge are asked to attend the meeting Thursday night.

Two Books Reviewed For Tuesday Night Group

Two books were reviewed Tuesday night at a meeting of the Tuesday Night Readers group in the home of Mrs. R. D. Rodgers, 2109 Seventeenth street. They were "Deserts on the March" (Paul B. Sears), reviewed by Mrs. A. W. Young, and "Wind, Sand and Stars" (Exupery), reviewed by Mrs. J. H. Murdough.

Mrs. G. W. McCleary was assistant hostess.

Safety Program Is Held By City P-T Council

Fifteen new members, including three women from Junior high school, attended a meeting of the City Parent-Teacher council at Senior High school Tuesday afternoon.

The council attended a meeting of the P. T. A. Study group and after the business session, Miss Gertrude Watson talked on, "Safety In The Home." Eighteen members were present. The study group will meet six more times on successive Tuesdays.

17,000 Employes Turn Thumbs Down Upon Unionization Of Plant

Will Stick By ged Employer

INGHAMPTON, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—The 17,000 employes of the dicott-Johnson Shoe corporation e voted overwhelmingly against ing any union be their bargain- agent, thus affirming their faith the benevolence of their 82-year- employer.

long before the New Deal's social orms were sweeping the industrial d, George F. Johnson was shar- profits with his workers and viding them with housing, recre- ional facilities, medical care at low es and other benefits. He had ays told them that "if you can w me an organization that can you more, I'll join it myself."

Issue Put To Workers

o yesterday, while the aged in- trialist lay on a sick bed, the e was put to the workers of his nts who for more than two years been solicited by organizers for rival Boot and Shoe Workers on (AFL) and the United Shoe kers of America (CIO) who told n that their wages were not as as those of organized shoe kers and that they would be bet- off paying their own physicians higher wages rather than ac- ing charity from their employ-was the second largest collect- bargaining election ever con- ted by the national labor rela- s board. Employes had their ce of being represented by the union, the CIO union, or her of them. The result, an- nced last midnight, was: FL 1,612; CIO 1,079; neither 12,- oth unions had announced in ad- ce that they would protest if the went against them. Frank Mc- th, CIO organizer, was annoyed the fact that hundreds of Endi- -Johnson employes had been nding prayer services for John- s recovery conducted by Pro- ant and Catholic ministers and ation Army officers. It had been ounced that Johnson was suf- ng from pneumonia.

Both To Protest

en Berk, AFL organizer, indi- d that his complaint would be d on a demonstration by 8,000 e employes who paraded through plants Monday carrying ban- reading: "We're for George F." "Join up—no union."

e union organizers' chief com- nts were that pay cuts made 937 had not been restored; that ority rights were not adhered to that foremen discriminated nst some of the workmen.

Son Makes Statement

eorge W. Johnson, son of the der and president of the com- y, made the following statement by radio to the employes as soon as the voting ended:

"Regardless of the outcome, it is the desire of the management that all workers accept the result without demonstrations of any kind. Forget everything that has occurred, and go back to work tomorrow morning bearing no ill will toward anyone, with the idea of trying to make better shoes and to sell more of them."

NEW YEAR—Now 1940 is around the bend, New Yorkers will prepare for the Jan. 26 Beaux-Arts ball, traditional frolic featured by elaborate or exotic costumes. Miss Halldis Prince will wear a bespangled white gown, jewels, and this head-dress inspired by Brittany. The late Mrs. Stanwood Menken always soared to costume heights at these balls.

DOES HER BIT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Red Cross chapter here, which has been accepting donations for aid of Polish refugees, received an envelope bearing a Houston postmark. Enclosed were two one-dollar bills folded neatly within a sheet of tablet paper on which was written: "You have heard of the widow's mite. Well, this is an old maid's." The note was unsigned.

Rites For Mrs. Lon Mullican Are Held This Afternoon

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Rix chapel for Mrs. Lon A. Mullican, 61, of 416 Avenue T, who died late Tuesday night in West Texas hospital.

Rev. H. G. Gantz, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev. W. P. Jennings of Plainview officiated.

Rix Funeral home announced burial would be in Lubbock cemetery.

The family had lived in Lubbock 20 years, coming here from Ellis county.

Mrs. Mullican was a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and was widely known in this section.

Yellow Fever Being Fought

AUSTIN, Jan. 10—Just in case yellow fever—unreported in the United States since 1905—shows up in Texas, health officers are throwing up a first line of defense along the Texas-Mexican border.

Dr. M. V. Hargett of the U. S. public health service and Dr. H. E. Wright of the state health department will spend 10 days along the Rio Grande immunizing physicians and nurses and other personnel against the disease.

They reason thusly:

Might Start Epidemic

Someone bitten by a fever carrying mosquito in South or Central America could enter Texas by airplane and not begin to feel the symptoms of the disease until long after arrival. Should he be bitten by the same type of mosquito while in Texas—and this species is found in all sections of the state—an epidemic might be started. The immunized workers would be prepared to enter the epidemic area and combat the disease.

Dr. Hargett pointed out modern air transportation carries persons from the fever infested jungles of southern nations into the United States within 48 and sometimes 36 hours.

Health service stations at Brownsville and Miami spray all ships entering at those points as a safeguard against infested mosquitoes that might have stowed away. In the case of an infested person whose symptoms might not develop until many hours after entry there is nothing to do save organize workers against a possible epidemic.

House Debate

(D-Colo) asserted that President Roosevelt had "outsmarted" Congress when he made up his reduced budget, submitted last week, by trimming items "which are very dear to the heart" of congressmen. If Congress ups these items, he told his fellows, then the president is in position to say that "we are the ones responsible for going over the debt limit or increasing taxes."

First Bill Received

The House received the session's first money bill from its appropriations committee. The measure provides $267,197,908 for the army, navy, coast guard and Federal Bureau of Investigation to use during the next six months in strengthening neutrality and defense protections.

At the core of the whole lynch law debate was the question of who—if anyone—is playing politics with the negro vote.

The Democrats said it was the Republicans; the Republicans said it was the Democrats. There was no doubt, however, that the bill would pass with votes to spare by the end of the day.

Senate Studies Finances

The Senate, where leaders are not exactly happy over the arrival of the filibuster-provoking anti-lynch bill, gave its attention to congressional study of federal finances proposed by Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the Senate finance committee.

Sure of hearty approval, the Harrison proposal apparently is doomed to a House pigeon-hole chiefly because the projected inquiry would delay House consideration of appropriation bills.

In the anti-lynching quarrel, the partisan row was stirred yesterday by a remark of Rep. Mitchell (D-Ill), the only negro in Congress, that Republicans were "trying to buy back the negro vote with this bill."

Make Too Many Promises

He said the Republican party had been "making promises" to the negro for the last 75 years and was now "discredited" with the race.

Rep. Fish (R-NY) wanted to know whether the negro vote was for sale.

"Every vote in the United States is for sale," Mitchell shot back, "not for money but for rights and for justice."

Despite his attack on Republican supporters of the measure, Mitchell made an impassioned plea for its adoption.

Letter Is Produced

Rep. Seccombe (R-Ohio) entered the argument by reading a letter he said Mitchell wrote to a constituent last fall. The letter said Mitchell would be glad to take up some matter with WPA provided the constituent followed "customary" procedure by getting a letter from his ward committeeman.

On the basis of that document, Seccombe asked the House to judge who is trying to play Santa Claus and who is not; who is trying to buy the negro votes and who is not."

Proponents hailed the bill as insuring rights now denied to negroes, while the opposition contended it was unconstitutional and claimed that the south already has solved the lynching problem.

The bill provides federal fines and imprisonment for peace officers who fail to stop lynchings.

Economy Argument

000 which, in New Deal style, he considers to be nothing.

"He says nothing of the 75,000 extra employes of the department of agriculture; of the extra $1,200,000,000 he has added to the federal payrolls; of the savings of $375,000,000 which I pointed out could be effected in relief; or any of the other more important items."

To Increase Savings

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed yesterday that new reorganization steps are in progress and said they are expected to increase the savings in administrative costs to about $25,000,000.

Smith reported that in the reorganized agencies, the federal works agency dropped 6,059 employes. The federal loan agency dropped 160, and the coast guard cut its rolls 228 after merging with the lighthouse service.

Some reorganized agencies hired more employes, however, and agencies outside either the reorganization or national defense emergency groups reduced payrolls by 8,475, particularly the agriculture, post-office and treasury departments. Increases in the emergency group included 13,364 by the war department and 6,839 by the navy.

A VILLAIN IS FOILED AGAIN—From a mine washed up on the English coast, a member of Britain's mine patrol takes out 16 lumps of explosive, which are then thrown among the rocks to be later burned. The patrols are having a busy time of it, dismantling the scores of mines washed up weekly. The job requires the utmost caution and skill.

Protest Is Lodged On School Zoning

Protest on zoning for the George R. Bean school, new Lubbock ward school located on Twenty-ninth street between Avenues M and N, was being planned by a group of residents of O'Neall Terrace and Highland Park sections of the city.

One spokesman for the group, who asked that his name be withheld until a formal protest is prepared, said a meeting of citizens of that section of the city was planned and that a petition would likely be presented Superintendent W. B. Irvin upon his return to Lubbock from Austin where he is attending to school matters.

Zoning Is Announced

Zoning for the new school as announced by Superintendent Irvin Sunday is as follows:

George R. Bean school, grades one through six, south of Twenty-eighth street between Avenues V and Q, south of Twenty-fifth street and east of Q, and some rural children who ride school buses.

Children living in the two residential districts west of Avenue Q would be forced to go to school to the new building under adverse conditions, it was pointed out. There is no paved street leading from the area to the new school and in several instances no through streets and children would be forced to travel through fields or go several blocks out of their way in order to walk or ride bicycles on streets.

Adjustment To Be Asked

At present the children may go to school on sidewalks or pavement on at least three streets in the area.

Some sort of adjustment of the situation or at least a full explanation of the reasons for making the zoning as it stands will be asked of school officials, it was indicated.

followed," he said, "and dealers in this state are not compelled to include in the sales price the 4-cent tax on gasoline sold to the state or its municipalities for public use, then such dealers are on equal footing with competitors everywhere."

Little Local Effect From Ruling To Be Felt Here

Lubbock city officials expressed doubt this morning as to whether the gasoline tax ruling handed down by the Austin court to civil appeals would have any local effect.

They added, however, that the opinion will be studied and the progress of the case watched because of the possibility that it might mean the city is exempt from the payment of taxes which now amount to about $50 per month.

Claims Are Put In

At the present time, it was explained, the city pays the four cent tax on all gasoline used, and then, in accordance with established procedure, puts in claims for repayment of all the taxes paid except those for the municipal water and light plants and for certain street department machinery. The repayment to the city has averaged approximately $50 per month, officials said.

However, if the city is entitled to tax exemptions of gasoline used by light and water department and all of that used by the street department, then it would mean a saving of approximately $50 per month more than now is the case.

TO SEEK REFUND

WACO, Jan. 10. (AP)—City Attorney George Morrow announced today he would ask the city commission to seek a refund of gasoline taxes paid the state in the last eight years, which he estimated at $30,000.

tions for the present emergency bill—which the House will consider tomorrow—were backed with the argument that world conditions made them necessary. The appropriations recommended by the committee for the four branches were: army $116,218,345, navy $145,082,238, coast guard $4,422,325, Federal Bureau of Investigation $1,475,000.

In addition to these appropriations, the committee also approved an authorization for the navy to proceed with purchases of $2,450,000 worth of ordnance supplies—such as torpedoes, guns, ammunition and powder.

The proposed funds would provide 16,969 more enlisted men for the regular army, bringing its strength to 227,000; 41,000 officers and men for the national guard, bringing its strength to 251,000; 28,900 men for the regular navy, bringing its total to 145,000; 6,000 men for the marine corps, raising it to 25,000; and 2,000 for the coast guard raising it to 10,866.

To Provide Aircraft

The navy would get $28,596,000 to buy 518 aircraft for use on neutrality patrol and $17,882,862 for operation of patrol craft, both sea and air.

One of the heftiest of the army appropriations was $28,200,000 for training, chiefly for the concentration of five regular army streamlined divisions in the south and their training, first separately as divisions and then together as two army corps.

The FBI money would be used largely to employ and equip 155 more G-men in connection with ferreting out spies.

The coast guard would use its appropriation chiefly for recommissioning and manning inactive vessels for the neutrality patrol, which one official told the committee had been extended as far out as 800 miles east of cape cod.

Big lumps of the money for the army, navy and coast guard would go for feeding, clothing, equipping and in some cases housing the reinforced forces.

One of the larger cuts was $500,000 from $7,500,000 requested by the navy for carrying out its building program at shore stations.

Tech Topics

Proprietors of rooming and boarding houses for students should notify officials of Texas Technological college of any changes in telephone, address, capacity or price or should apply to have homes approved as soon as possible, it was said this morning at the college.

Persons whose homes were approved at opening of the fall semester do not need to secure approval again, but should file any changes which should be made in records. Those who did not house students in the fall semester but wish their homes approved for the spring may apply.

It was said in the dean of men's office that persons should file information on men's housing or make application by 5 p. m., Jan. 16.

Stock Market

LEADERS UP FRACTIONALLY

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP) — Leading issues flirted with difficulties in today's stock market but a final hour desire to buy put many leaders up fractionally.

Apathy was apparent from the start and for a while selling pressure drove the steels down by wide fractions. Others to suffer at the time were rails and utilities. Near the finish, however, steels, motors and aircrafts, especially, led a minor advance. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

Brokers said the late turnabout was due to short covering brought forth by the fact offerings were drying up and that what had looked like a retreat in the morning didn't go far enough to satisfy those who had been pessimistic over the market's route for the next few weeks.

Foreign prices were inclined a little lower.

Resistant were Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Crown Cork, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, American Smelting, Westinghouse Electric, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Dupont, Allied Chemical, Pennsylvania Railroad, Great Northern, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Chuels Peabody, International Mercantile Marine and Owens-Illinois.

The Senate's approval of a proposal to create a congressional budget-making committee aroused interest, although many analysts predicted it would be defeated in the House.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP) — Rapid and fairly wide swings characterized the wheat pit today with values closing near the day's best levels. Fluctuations were within a range of about 2 cents.

Firmness at Winnipeg and increased buying at the decline here ensured early losses of about a cent and replaced them with corresponding gains.

Wheat on the board of trade closed ⅝-¾ higher, May 1.02-1.02⅛, July 99⅛-⅞; corn ¼-⅝ down, May 58-58⅛, July 58⅝; oats ⅛ higher.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 10 (AP) — Demand for grain here was moderated today.

Wheat—No. 1 soft red winter 1.11-1.12; No. 1 hard 1.06-1.10.

Barley—No. 2 nom 64-65c.

Sorghums—No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs. nom 1.30-1.32; No. 2 white kafir nom 1.26-1.28.

Mother Thinks Her Son Is Still Alive

REDDING, Calif., Jan. 10 (AP) — Billy Coleman, 14, who disappeared in the deep woods near Viola eight days ago, might be experimenting to determine his ability to cope with nature.

The boy's mother, Mrs. P. T. Coleman, advanced that theory today and said she was convinced her son still lived, although 500 men who sought him for a week gave up hope he would be found alive.

Billy was last seen by his mother a week ago yesterday when he told her he was going for a walk in the woods. Several days later his overalls were found beside a creek.

The boy often talked of the things he would do if he were lost.

Mrs. Coleman said she believed the boy had gone into the woods to live "next to nature" for an adventure.

The father and a nephew continued to search for the lad. A foot of snow covered the area.

Georgia Tech Freshman Seeks Place In British Air Corps

ATLANTA, Jan. 10 (AP) — A Georgia Tech freshman wants to fight for Great Britain.

Bryce Martin, 18, was in Toronto last night, attempting to enlist in the Royal Air Force, hoping "before long to be able to go over and do a little fighting."

That was a message he left a room-mate at Georgia Tech before departing unexpectedly Saturday for Toronto.

Martin, son of D. M. Martin of Houston, Tex., registered at a Toronto hotel last night, but there was no record of his enlistment. Canadian sources said he could not enlist unless he was a British subject.

His father was an aviator in the World war.

Girl Says Her Romance With Court "Romeo" Is All Over

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Pretty Isabelle Deshler says it's all off—her "romance" with John B. Adams, the 32-year-old Romeo who took to the law courts in an effort to prevent his prospective mother-in-law from cramping his romantic style.

"I do not love Mr. Adams and I have no intention of ever marrying him." Isabelle announced last night.

This put a decided chill on the Romeo and Juliet affair which Adams hoped would end like a similar case in New York involving George Lowther and the former Eileen Herrick, who were married last week.

Heavy Damage Is Reported From Waves In California

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP). — Damage estimates approached the $100,000 mark today from waves as high as 25 feet, stirred up by some mysterious submarine forces, which battered Southern California's coastline for nearly 100 miles.

Heaviest loss, estimated unofficially at nearly $50,000, was reported from the Santa Barbara sector, where beach homes were pounded and in some cases destroyed, a pier collapsed and a $15,000 oil derrick tumbled into the sea. A $100,000 mansion was undermined and cracking.

"We are going to keep the pass on the pass until Gov. Nels H. Smith and the highway commission grant our repeated demands that the pass be kept open all winter as it has been during the past three years," Kratzer said.

The pass over the Teton mountains leads to Victor, Idaho, the nearest railroad outlet to the Jackson Hole country, which lies just south of Yellowstone park.

State officials said funds available for maintenance of the pass ran out Jan. 1, and the cost of additional maintenance would be prohibitive. They promised prompt settlement of the controversy.

The 10,002-ton Dunbar Castle was broken in half by a mine off the English southeast coast and British warships were reported hunting German submarine base in the Frisian islands. It was understood the Dunbar Castle was in an outbound convoy.

Capt. H. A. Causton and two of the Dunbar Castle's crew were killed; two others were reported missing. The 48 passengers and remainder of the crew of 138 were brought to London today by rescue ships.

Many of the survivors were injured. The rush of water into the hole in the side made launching boats difficult, and the ship broke in half within 20 minutes, before the last boat got away.

The admiralty charged the attacks were aimed at unescorted ships. Officials of the naval and aerial services were reported attaching unusual importance to this new offensive.

Record Crowd Seen At Scout Gathering

LITTLEFIELD, Jan. 10 (Special)—A "pot-luck" annual dinner for northwest district of South Plains Boy Scout council was attended by a record-breaking crowd of more than 200 Tuesday night in the American Legion hall here.

Dr. William Orr, District chairman, was toastmaster. He was re-elected as chairman of this district. Four towns — Littlefield, Amherst, Sudan, and Muleshoe—were represented.

Principal speaker of the night was George W. Dupree, Lubbock attorney.

Reports on Boy Scout progress in the Northwest district were presented the group of Boy Scouts, their fathers, mothers and friends, by Pryor Hammonds of Littlefield, J. E. Chism, jr., of Littlefield; Allan White of Amherst, and Reed Markham of Sudan.

Troop 20 of Muleshoe was awarded the 100 per cent banner by the Boys Life Magazine, while Troop 75 of Amherst was granted its 1940 charter, presented by Jack Stone, Council Boy Scout executive. Each of the five troops represented appeared on the program with a skit.

Dr. Orr's re-election was recommended by H. B. Teal, chairman of the district nominating committee.

Zoning Proposals Of Lubbock City Plan Given Explanation

Zoning proposals of a Lubbock city plan now in preparation were explained to a meeting of Lubbock Technical club in Texas Technological college by L. Wesley Read, secretary of the city planning board, Tuesday night.

A general discussion of the maps with approximately 17 members and visitors participating followed Read's speech.

Members of the planning board present were Read, Tom Duggan, jr., J. H. Murdough and Homer D. Grant. Murdough and Grant are members of the Technical club.

Club officers are Grant, president; M. R. Smith, jr., vice-president; E. W. Middleton, secretary-treasurer and Arch King, program chairman.

Tech Cagers Have Little Duel Of Their Own During Series With Wildcat

Billy Conn To Make Heavyweight Debut In Garden Tonight

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—Watching Billy Conn, the steel city sock maker, in his Madison Square Garden fight tonight will be something like seeing Hamlet in a tuxedo.

The melancholy Dane could be just as unhappy in evening clothes as in a toga, and similarly, Conn is still Conn—even though this time he is a heavyweight.

Having climbed the light-heavyweight ladder until no more rungs were left, the Pittsburgh powerhouse decided to become a heavyweight. Not because he liked to fight bigger guys, but because there is more money in that division—and Conn isn't in the fight game just for the fun of wearing satin pants.

So Billy, the light-heavyweight king, signed as a heavyweight to meet Steve Dudas, a veteran trial horse who caught an attack of la grippe. So Billy must try out his heavier artillery on Henry Cooper of Brooklyn. A husky 190-pounder, Cooper has no more imagination than a clock, but possesses a very good straight left hand punch.

Actually the Pittsburgher has gained enough weight to move up a class, although he will weigh only a pound over the light-heavy weight limit of 175 and some four pounds over his best fighting weight in that class.

Nearly everyone, except the immediate members of the Cooper clan, think Conn will win handily. After this bout, he is expected to meet Johnny Paycheck of Des Moines. Conn thinks it will be only a matter of time until he is in there with Joe Louis — a prospect that doesn't seem to frighten him the way it should.

Norton To Learn Fate On Friday

Deadlock For Score Honors To Be Broken

All the competition in the two-game series beginning Friday night between Texas Tech's Red Raiders and Abilene Christian college's Wildcats isn't going to involve just the opposing machines—the Crimsons have a little duel of their own to continue while attempting to make the net swish for a triumph, also.

Some cage critics would argue that such competition on the same squad would serve to disrupt team play. But such is not the case with the charges of Coach Beri Huffman, and especially in the case of the two men in question, Marshall Brown and Bauman Roper, forward and center respectively.

Roper One-Hand Artist

In 16 games played by each this season the two net sizzling artists are deadlocked for scoring honors with 142 points each, Brown's on 58 field goals and 26 charity tosses, Roper's on 62 field goals and 18 free shots.

A push-shot artist of first class calibre, Roper's one-handed ability is difficulty personified. In making his heave-em-up shots, Roper allows his body to leave the floor, yet he turns so that his shoulders then square with the basket as he releases the ball. Brown handles the ball with deftness that is beyond description, just "fluffing" it through the net with the comparative ease of a man sinking into an easy chair.

Their Spark Vital

The cat-like forward, last year's high scorer for the Border conference, shoots with one or both hands and never sets himself for a shot. He has a "soft touch" and the ball hardly touches his fingers between the time he decides to fire and the second it floats toward the iron hoop.

Brown and Roper are not the Tech team, by any means. It just happens that their friendly little rivalry has added much in the way of points in Tech's surge since the season started.

Wildcats Plenty Tough

The Tech team expects trouble aplenty when the Wildcats of Coach "Bugs" Morris pay their little two-night visit, so Coach Huffman is litterally "sitting up nights" working his charges in an attempt to work out some of the weaker and more unpolished edges.

Both games will start at 8 o'clock. Admission, providing the prospective spectator does not have either activity book or season ducat, will be 40 cents.

Peck's Bad Boy Of American League Managers Promises He'll Be Good To Umps

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Mr. James J. Dykes, the "Peck's bad boy" among American league managers, has promised to be good.

That may not be big news to you, but it is no less than that to the umpires harassed by the roly-poly White Sox pilot in seasons past.

Banished Many Times

Suspended, fined and banished many times for back-talk to the men in blue, Dykes made a public confession last night at the annual dinner of the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers association of America.

"Yes, I've turned over a new leaf," said Dykes. "The umpires are nice fellows. I like them very much — in the wintertime. And President Harridge and I are the best of friends —why shouldn't we be? I send him money all the time. But I'm going to get along with the umps next season — I've even made a few wagers with the baseball writers that I won't get tossed out more than four times all year."

Aggie Mentor Asks Security For 5 Years

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 10 — Two days hence the future of Homer Hill Norton, professor of winning football at Texas A. and M., will be known.

On Friday the Aggie athletic council is expected to approve, without much of a quiver, the mellow man's demand for a five-year contract, a handsome salary increase and less pressure on the coaching staff.

Escaped Being Dismissed

He's the same man who stood in defense before the council only a year ago and escaped being dismissed before the 1938 schedule had been completed.

The question posed in Texas today was: is it a coincidence that Stanford university, looking for someone to replace ousted Tiny Thornhill, announced that something would be done about its football job on Friday?

A few weeks ago Norton journeyed to California, studied the policies and athletic setup at the Palo Alto school. He was impressed, but stressed his visit was rather unofficial. Reports from the coast say one Stanford group wants the doctrine of Glenn (Pop) Warner, perhaps in the person of the grand old man himself, returned to Stanford football.

Others Lean To Norton

Another group leaned towards Norton who, with a mixture of orthodox football and the southwest brand of wide-open play, was believed to be the man needed.

Norton wants to stay at Texas A. and M. He likes "the setup, the people and the school."

Eight of the starting eleven on the nation's top college team will be back in 1940. He wants to be with them.

"But now I want security," he said recently. "I will not accept any football contract under five years. I'm no longer a young man. I have served 20 years in football and want reasonable assurance that I will be settled. I will quit the profession entirely unless I can get a five-year contract, wherever I go."

It's All In The Viewpoint

By Collier Parris

A GOOD WESTERNER fan, who might prefer to have his identity unpublished but who signed his letter like a sport, writes as follows:

"Dear Sir:

"I am attaching clippings from the Waco News-Tribune, by Jinx Tucker, concerning the Lubbock-Waco championship game of Dec. 31.

"Tucker tells his fans and the others of Central Texas that the breaks were the cause of Waco losing the game. He doesn't mention the fact that there were a few bad breaks that went against Lubbock, also, and in my opinion if it hadn't been for them the score would probably have been 35 to 0 instead of 20 to 14. That off-side kick and the fumble by Tyson on the Waco 40-yard line, which Waco recovered, were awful from the Lubbock standpoint. Both of them happened right in front of me. Tucker did not tell his readers a thing about Lubbock's line being outweighed 17 pounds to the man nor that the Westerners had traveled something over one thousand miles during the eight days preceding the Waco game. I wish you would rake him over the coals good and proper for these omissions.

"In other writings of Tucker he has referred a number of times to the great Waco team of 1927 which he claims was the greatest ever produced in Texas. I happened to be a resident of Waco at that time and saw all the games that the fine Waco teams played during their heyday of 1924 to 1927 and while the 1927 team was fine, it is my honest opinion that the 1939 Westerner team was superior and could have beaten them. While Waco won from Abilene that year—I think 13 to 10—(Ed.'s note: that was the score in 1922; the 1927 score was Waco 21, Abilene 14) Abilene outplayed them and had a better team. You might also call Tucker's attention to the fact that it wasn't 'fate'—which he refers to so many times—that the Tigers were up against but it was the 1939 Westerner team—the best that was ever produced in Texas.

"In concluding would like to say that I would like to see you get behind Keyes and Nichols in your column and boost them for the coaching positions at Lubbock High. They are certainly deserving of it."

The clippings enclosed with the above letter constitute Jinx Tucker's story of the state championship game and his later comments, and we are grateful to the letter writer for sending them along. We had heard about Mr. Tucker's stories of the game, although we had not read them. Knowing Mr. Tucker as we do, however, we could have written his story and comments almost word for word.

While we agree most heartily with Tucker's West Texas critics—he has never recognized any acreage west of Fort Worth as belonging to Texas—that he is very sensitive and biased whenever Waco football teams—players, golfers, etc.—are mentioned, we are, at the same time, qualified to appreciate his personal feelings. Aged and near-sighted though he may be, from a West Texan's viewpoint, Tucker is loyal to his town and to its athletic teams representing Waco. He may place a team or two against the old home town's team, but when it comes to writing paragraphs, he's for his own team one hundred per cent.

One of our greatest desires, it must know, is to be recognized and respected in our own home town which is Lubbock by this time, the manner in which Jinx Tucker recognized and respected in Waco.

If we have the good fortune remaining in Lubbock as long as Tucker has remained in Waco, we hope that our sense of loyalty to Lubbock teams will be appreciated in our territory as much as Tucker's loyalty to Waco teams is appreciated in his territory.

We know, you who saw the game know, and Tucker knows that the best team won the Texas interscholastic league championship in 1939. Tucker himself, who saw Waco defeat the Austin team on Friday, then came to Dallas to watch Lubbock defeat Woodrow Wilson the next day, told us after the latter occasion that Lubbock would defeat Waco, that Lubbock had one of the best teams he had seen, any place. He came back to see the final game and before it started he still was of the opinion that Lubbock would win. He had given up hopes for his home Waco team.

And it was no surprise to Tucker, nor to anybody else in the press box, when Lubbock came back in the fourth period to score another touchdown and win the game. After Lubbock Westerners had displayed the power in the first half, none doubted the outcome. We might have scored three touchdowns in the third period, but Lubbock would have remained the press box favorite. Tucker knows, as well as we know, that the "breaks" of the game were just about evenly divided; without benefit of breaks, Waco probably would have never scored its two touchdowns. Tucker, who has seen at least a dozen or so football games knew that.

But what if Waco had won the game? Wouldn't we have read sorts of references to the "breaks" Waco got? Wouldn't we have heard along with the Westerners, of how they had lost, making excuses and alibis for their defeat? And would you, if you were a Westerner fan?

We disagree a lot of times with what Mr. Tucker has to say in his sports columns, especially regarding his attitude toward Lubbock and West Texas, which is also conducive of producing great teams, but we can't get away from his point of view, and if we, or you, were in his place, you'd probably write the same thing.

This is no defense for Tucker.

Tech Schedule Is Completed

Reviving that familiar paraphrase —"Join the Raiders and see the world"—Texas Tech's gridiron juggernaut this year again will take to the road, going visiting six times while entertaining five elevens.

Finishing touches to a schedule kept "in the dark" as far as local anhouncements were concerned were added Tuesday when W. L. Stangel, chairman of the athletic council, told the Evening Journal that contracts were being prepared for a home-and-home series beginning this year between the Crimsons and Loyola university's Lions of Los Angeles.

Was No Surprise

Reversing the procedure of playing more games at home than away, the action of the athletic council in approving a schedule whereby the Red Raiders will add thousands of more miles to an already impressive road record was not unexpected in most quarters.

However, the fact that the Scarlet and Black gridders will be playing away from home more than before the home folk, there is little to choose from in opponents in regards to the opposition and prestige while comparing road and visiting foes.

Chance For Revenge

The concluding engagement with Loyola, now coached by Mike Pecinovich, former Gonzaga mentor who replaced Tom Lieb, calls for the Lions to invade Lubbock for a game on Oct. 5 this year, the Raiders returning the favor in Los Angeles, on the corresponding date of 1941.

Perhaps more attention will be centered on those two contests than many would imagine, the Raiders having suffered three straight setbacks at the hands of the Loyola Lions and, naturally, will be seeking revenge.

Other home games will bring Brigham-Young university, Miami (Fla.) university, Centenary college and Wake Forest college to Tech Stadium next autumn, while the Raiders will take the road to play San Francisco university in San Francisco, Oklahoma A. & M. college at Oklahoma City, Montana State university at Missoula, Marquette university at Milwaukee, St. Louis university at St. Louis and University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

No Texas Opponents

Four new "faces" appear on the Tech schedule for the year—San Francisco university, Brigham-Young, Wake Forest and St. Louis university.

Texas football opponents are notably conspicuous for their absence, the Raiders' schedule containing not a single Texas team for the first time in the school's history.

The eleven Tech opponents represent ten different states, California placing two teams on the Tech card. Oklahoma, Montana, Utah, Wisconsin, Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina, Missouri and New Mexico provide the other teams.

The schedule in detail:

September 21—San Francisco university, at San Francisco.

September 28—Oklahoma A. & M. college, at Oklahoma City.

October 5—Loyola of Los Angeles, at Lubbock.

October 12—Montana State university, at Missoula, Mont.

October 19—Brigham-Young university, at Lubbock.

October 26—Marquette university, at Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

November 1—Miami university (Fla.), at Lubbock.

November 11—Centenary college, at Lubbock.

November 16—Wake Forest college, at Lubbock.

November 21—St. Louis university, at St. Louis, Mo.

November 30—University of New Mexico, at Albuquerque, N. M.

Fair Warning

This "box" now decorates all boxing columns appearing in the Chicago Times: "To whom it may concern: It is a criminal offense to fake a fight in Illinois."

Southland Tourney Set For Feb. 5-10

SOUTHLAND, Jan. 10 (Special)—With cash awards totaling $60 awaiting winners, the annual Southland Independent cage tournament will be conducted from Feb. 5 through Feb. 10, it has been announced by Coach Roy Morris, director general of the event.

An entry fee of $3 will be assessed each participating quintet. Any team interested in entering the affair is urged to contact Coach Morris.

Coach Morris' Southland High boys soundly thrashed the Slaton Tigers here last night, 22 to 11, in a South Plains schoolboy test. Wilke led the victors with 10 tallies while Ward paced the scattered scoring for the Slaton crew, collecting three points.

Cafego Gets Knee Operation; Hopes To Join Chi Cards

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 10 (AP)—George Cafego, Tennessee's ailing football star, underwent an operation today on his right knee.

Dr. R. M. Powell, team physician, said a "leading bone specialist" took pieces of cartilage from the knee joint.

"The knee will be placed in a cast," Dr. Powell said, "and Cafego will remain in the hospital for 10 days or two weeks. It should be as good as new when given time to heal."

If the knee heals properly, Cafego is expected to enter professional football with the Chicago Cardinals.

Nile Kinnick Turns Down Pro Football For Law Course

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10 (AP) — The Brooklyn football Dodgers will have to get along in 1940 without Nile Kinnick, Iowa's All-American halfback.

"No, sir. No pro football for me," declared the talented Hawkeye back from Omaha who last night received the Robert M. Maxwell memorial award as the nation's No. 1 college football player of 1939.

"I plan to enter law school," Kinnick asserted. "That's what I told Dan Topping, of the Dodgers, who got me in the draft."

Here's How Yanks May Be Controlled

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Ed Barrow, president of the New York Yankees, is getting bored listening to other clubs concede the Yanks the American League pennant months before the season opens, and today offered a few tips as to how they might make a better race of it.

"Some of these other clubs get your goat the way they moan about the Yankees' power and the Yankee farms," he said. "If they'd get out and do a little hustling and stop quitting before the race starts, they might get some place.

No Vacation For Yanks

"We are on the job 24 hours a day all around the calendar, and that's why we are up there. As soon as the season is over some of those other clubs declare a holiday. No wonder they don't do any better."

Recognized as probably the smartest baseball man in the business, Barrow takes little credit for the Yanks' domination of the major league picture. Any question about the club itself, he refers to Manager Joe McCarthy, and anything you want to know about his scouts you have to find out from George Weiss, head of the Yank farm system.

"I'm always in hot water when I talk too much," the 71-year-old executive said. "But here are a few things I don't mind telling you:

The Same Lineup

"I don't see any reason why the Yankees won't win their fifth pennant in a row this year. We are expecting a good year at the gate. We fell off about 25,000 or 30,000 in attendance at home games last year, but it was because of some bad breaks in the weather. We'll have about the same lineup as last year, but our two rookie pitchers from Kansas City, Tommy Reis and Marvin Breuer, have a fine chance to make good. I look for young southpaw Marius Russo to become one of the leading pitchers in the league."

Fight Tickets To Be Offered Soon

Now that the fighters themselves are pledging flying fist and speedy footwork in a steady stream, officials of the fourth annual Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Golden Gloves tournament today turn their thoughts to another very important factor—that of making arrangements for those rabid fans who like their leather slinging on the serious side.

Tickets likely will go on sale this weekend.

Chief business facing the Golden Gloves committees this afternoon is that of measuring and diagramming the interior of the Merchants Building at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair grounds, scene of the nocturnal knockabouts February 5 and 6.

Entries Pouring In

As soon as a layout is available the ducats will be printed and placed on the market.

Possibility of a third night of fighting was advanced as early entries broke all previous records at this stage of the campaign. If necessary, the finals in all divisions will be produced the night of February 7, following two nights of preliminary skirmish.

Names of all the 40-odd entries so far assured are not available at the present time, but here is a list of the fighters who have actually signified their intentions, along with a list of the towns who have promised to send complete teams, or more:

James Stotts, Slaton, 1939 district welterweight champion.

Curtis Lebow, Abernathy, 1939 flyweight champion.

Fats Mitchell, Lockney and Texas Tech, 1939 heavyweight champion.

James Ortis, Texas Tech, former AAU champion, lightweight.

Rex Berry, Lubbock, bantamweight.

Waylon Cleckler, Lubbock, light heavyweight.

Howell B. Steen, Lubbock, welterweight.

Bennie Bates, Lubbock, flyweight.

Gerald Harber, Texas Tech, bantamweight.

George Youngblood, Lubbock, lightweight.

Floyd Nunley, Lubbock, lightweight.

From Tahoka: At least a complete team of winners of the Tahoka tournament, scheduled January 23, 24 and possibly 26, along with runners up and possibly others.

From Slaton: A complete team, coached and managed by Curtis Hamilton.

From Abernathy: Seven or eight fighters in addition to Lebow, named above.

From Littlefield: A delegation of twelve or more fighters from the CCC camp, managed by George E. Hull.

Tournaments Encouraged

High schools and athletic organizations over the section are invited to conduct preliminary Golden Gloves tournaments and send their winners to the Lubbock District event, winners of which will compete in the State Golden Gloves event at Fort Worth starting February 15.

But it is not necessary for boxers to engage in preliminary tournaments. All they have to do in order to compete in the District tournament is to qualify according to amateur rules, be over 16 years of age, and send in an entry blank. The blank is printed on this page, or special blanks will be mailed to any and all boxers who will request one.

Boxers are urged to send in the entry blanks as quickly as possible in order that definite tournament plans may proceed.

Neely Delays Rice Answer

HOUSTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Still undecided whether to accept the Rice institute head football coaching job, Jess Neely departed last night for his South Carolina home.

It was considered significant, however, that Rice authorities waived their earlier sternness in insisting on a "yes" or "no" today from Neely, and agreed to hold open the post for his decision.

J. T. McCants, chairman of the committee on outdoor sports, said the Clemson coach had informed him shortly before catching a plane that he still was undecided.

McCants said he had agreed to mark time pending Neely's definite answer.

"Owes Clemson Something"

Asked if he thought Neely would accept, McCants answered:

"We hope so."

Some persons who had maintained contact with the principals felt Rice would not have agreed to wait unless it had good reason to believe the coach of the Cotton Bowl winners would nod in its direction.

Neely's remarks to reporters before he contacted McCants clouded the case, however.

He said "I would like to slip away without any comment. I was impressed by Houston and would like to see it again sometime. Rice is a fine school and the job offers a fine opportunity. Still, I may be old-fashioned, but I think I owe Clemson something. They gave me my chance."

Coaches Opposed To 18-Year Age Limit

NACOGDOCHES, Jan. 10 (AP) — An overwhelming vote against the 18-year age limit in Texas schoolboy football is shown in a poll conducted by the Texas High School Football Coaches association, Secretary Bryan Schley said here today.

The results of the vote, held among 350 coaches and superintendents, will be announced at the executive committee meeting of the association at Athens Friday and Saturday.

The poll will be cited to the Texas Interscholastic league state committee in an effort to secure a referendum on repeal of the rule due to be invoked next season. The limit last year was 19 years.

Lew Jenkins To Meet Alvarez In Dallas Arena Jan. 24

DALLAS, Jan. 10 (AP) — Lew Jenkins, soldier turned fighter who is ranked with the top men in the lightweight division, will fight Chino Alvarez of Tampa, Fla., here Jan. 24.

Promoter Dick Griffin announced last night that Jenkins, rated No. 4 challenger for Lou Ambers' crown, would meet Alvarez, who holds a decision over the Texan, in a ten-round bout.

Is In State Of Siege

British admit the loss of only nes. Neutral sources—to say g of German claims—boost the t least to 85. But these losses, ing an estimated total of casualties in air force person- n both sides, represent little than reconnaissance flying and scale bombing expeditions. The the air, too, is in a state of at sea and in the economic hen, that the real results must ght. And in those fields the shows:

(AT SEA)

n results include destruction least 18 British warships, of which ten were auxiliary vessels such as armed trawlers. The others included the battleship Royal Oak, the aircraft carrier Courageous, the merchant cruiser Rawalpindi, the submarine Oxley and the destroyers Gypsy, Blanche and Duchess. In addition Germany has claimed five other important British warships were put out of action and it has been established that sixteen British warships in addition to those sunk were more or less seriously damaged. Navy casualties total 2,132 dead.

Victories Are Compared

Although navies were larger in numbers in 1914, the German victories in four months may be compared to the following losses in approximately 50 months of the World war:

	British	French	German
Battleships	16	4	2
Cruisers	25	5	23
Destroyers	67	12	66
Submarines	54	14	109

On the other side of the ledger, Germany has lost the pocket battleship Graf Spee, two coastal patrol ships, and five submarines which are officially admitted destroyed as compared to Allied claims that at least 40 U-boats have been captured or sunk.

In nazi eyes and on the basis of official German claims, the British navy has suffered damaging blows. Certainly the spectacular triumphs have been on the German side and the prestige of the British at sea was at a new low until the vaunted Graf Spee ran from the guns of three British cruisers off the Uruguayan coast and eventually was scuttled. But in the estimates of most qualified observers the nazi victories have been largely against older British warships and must increase to a far greater scale to endanger British domination of the seas.

(ECONOMIC)

The Allied offensive has been mainly on the economic front, where Britain moved with spectacular speed to institute a "double blockade" of exports to and from the reich and to enforce it from the beginning with a ruthlessness that did not appear until after many months in the World war. The outstanding result in four months has been to destroy Germany's overseas trade, cutting off an estimated 60 per cent of normal imports and slashing the reich's purchasing power by seizure of exports.

Against this double blockade, Germany has used mines, U-boats and airplanes on a vast scale to frighten neutral shipping away from England. The results, as comparable to 50 months of World war, are:

	(Sunk in World war)	(Sunk in this war)
Britain merchant ships	2,098	130
French and other Allies	1,542	12
Neutral	1,290	95

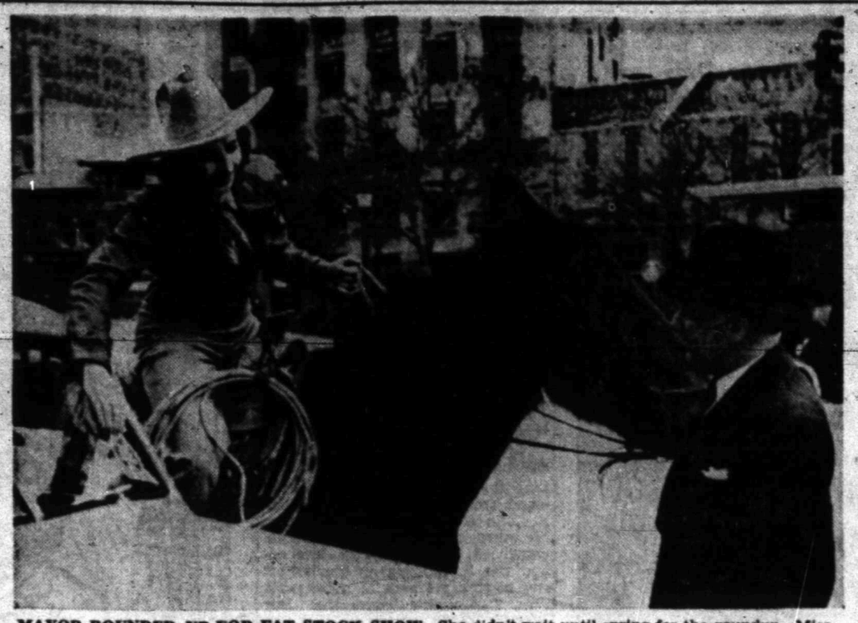

In four months of war, Germany has lost 24 merchant ships, of which 18 were scuttled by their own crews, according to British statistics. Twenty others have been seized by the Allied naval forces, which have intercepted more than 900,000 tons of goods destined for the reich. Germany officially admits the loss of only 18 merchantmen, of which all but one were scuttled to keep the Allies from seizing them.

Thus, Britain has suffered comparatively small loss of around two per cent of her merchant shipping. This fails to represent the full cost because it does not include the supply ships frightened away from England by German sea warfare, but in any event it is not comparable to the virtual extinction of the reich's overseas trade.

The blockade, however, is a great deal more than sea warfare. Britain and France have sought by pressure and by heavy purchases to cut into German supplies from northern Europe and from the Balkans. In this they have been only partially successful and Hitler has sought to offset their campaign by deals with Soviet Russia and other countries, such as Rumania, especially for oil to run the nazi war machine. The war in those fields has brought into action many complex forces and has been largely responsible for persistent reports of plans by both sides to violate the neutrality of their small neighbors and to undertake military expeditions into the rich oil country of the near east.

The results are still in dispute but they constitute the chief danger that the conflict will spread to new fronts.

Film Union Members Charge Producers With Chiseling

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10 (AP)—Film studio union heads charged today that producers have "chiseled" on a 10 per cent wage increase agreed to last September, and demanded immediate negotiations.

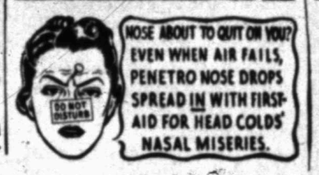

Unless parleys are begun immediately, union leaders said they will take "whatever economic action is deemed advisable." By that, they explained, they meant a strike.

Maybe he was tired of living!

THE extent of this nation's "neutrality" in the current European war is pretty well mirrored by our reaction, official and otherwise, to Britain's tampering with our mail and our ships.

For your information, our deah, deah, debt-welshing British cousins are stopping our ships on the high seas, convoying them to British ports if they contain anything the British may suspect to be contraband, and are then leisurely going through all American mail labeled for Germany.

Our State department has written a polite note about the matter, but is blinking where it isn't blind to these high-handed measures.

The British are going right ahead and doing as they please—and, no doubt, will continue to do so.

The Plainsman certainly isn't pro-German, but he can imagine the heights to which American rage would ascend were the Germans to copy the British policy of interfering with our shipping on the high seas.

We would have a series of national fits which might very easily result in our getting into the European mess.

The point we're making is that while we carry no torch for the stinking "communazis," neither is The Plainsman exuding love for the Britishers who don't care any more about us than the Germans, or the Rooshians.

Our song continues to be, "nuts to both camps!"

SPEAKING of the Russians reminds us that a special article in "Izvestia," official Soviet newspaper in Moscow, charges the United States with "imperialism against small, weak countries" in South America.

You'd think by now Joe Stalin's boys would have learned that small countries aren't necessarily weak!

The proposed "Say What You Think" week would, admittedly, bring on a number of casualties, but the deep silence on the part of many would be ever so refreshing!

JUST as every national political year brings out a number of new candidates for the presidency, so does every national political year uncover a flock of new "master minds," expert publicity men and gentlemen accredited with having much talent in the matter of public relations.

This national political year is no exception to the rule, and interesting to Texans — and particularly to Northwest Texans — is the fact that one of the year's top political master-minds is Bascom Timmons.

Bascom Timmons, native Texan, will be remembered by many Lubbock oldtimers as a one-time managing editor of the Amarillo News and later a staffman on the old Fort Worth Record.

For more than 20 years now, he has been a top-flight Washington correspondent, representing numerous papers in the South and Southwest, but more especially Jesse Moiman Jones' fat, old Houston Chronicle. As a Washington correspondent, "Tim" Timmons has been the recipient of many honors at the hands of his colleagues, not the least of which was, in recent years, the much sought-after presidency of the National Press club.

According to Ray Tucker, one of The Avalanche-Journal's Washington correspondents, Timmons is hands down the most picturesque among 1940's political advisors and propagandists.

Tall, lanky, drawling and gifted with a beautiful sense of humor, "Tim" is John Nance Garner's No. 1 newspaper pal and advisor — but he is not on the Garner payroll. A longtime friend of fellow-Texan Garner, Timmons gives his advice entirely free to the white-thatched No. 2 Man of the administration.

"Tim" is 50 years old, but doesn't look it.

Called "the Jim Farley" of Washington newspapermen, Bascom is lovable, popular and politically smart.

In many ways, Ray Tucker tells us, "Tim" resembles his favorite entry in the Democratic presidential derby. He rarely loses a political or legislative bet, he never gets excited, he rarely appears without a cigar between his teeth — and he has been known upon occasions to gather with the boys in the back room of the press club for a bit of elbow-bending and poker-playing.

THIS fellow who roamed, occasionally, over the South Plains in the years when the cotton growing industry was a baby and there wasn't an elevator between Denver and Fort Worth, enjoys the unique honor of being the first to persuade Baltimore's famous Johns Hopkins hospital to accept a cat for medical examination and treatment.

Cats and politicians have a habit of dropping into "Tim's" friendly, sunny, Washington office and the cats, at least, never go away hungry.

Washington wise guys will tell you that Garner, with Timmons at his elbow, won't make many mistakes as far as political strategy and public relations are concerned.

Many a "writing fellow," as Calvin Coolidge used to call the capital pressmen, has become famous through association with winning, big-time politicians.

Claude G. Bowers, present ambassador to Spain and the Democratic keynoter in Chicago in 1932—when Franklin Roosevelt swept to power after a bitter fight with Al Smith — was a staffman on the New York World.

The late Louis Howe, Marvin McIntyre and Steve Early, who formed Mr. Roosevelt's first presidential secretariat, were "writing guys." The former American diplomat, Richard Washburn Child, the present ambassador to Mexico, Josephus Daniels, and many another one-time reporter has stepped up by hitching his wagon — or having it hitched — to the right political nabob.

And if John Nance Garner next year moves into the rambling old house at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., who knows but that the former Plains newsman will be way up there, sitting in the seats of the mighty?

YOU know, there sure is a lot in environment. There sure is. Sometimes we think environment means much, much more than heredity, especially in a small child.

Last Monday the ladies of the First Presbyterian church were "meeting in circles," and one of the circles was to gather out at our house with the Little Woman as hostess.

Our meanest little boy, age 4, was taking keen interest in the preparations for the party and had a hand in almost everything that was done.

But about 10 minutes before the ladies were to arrive, he rushed, wide-eyed, to his mother.

"Momie, momie," he cried, bursting with excitement, "the ladies are coming in a minute and you haven't got the tables upt up!"

(The Plainsman will catch the dickens for printing this TRUE story — but it's worth it!)

Women Want Beauty!

BY LOUISE HOLMES
(Copyright, 1940, NEA Service, Inc.)

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SUSIE LAMBERT—She served waffles and dreamed of being beautiful.

DICK TREMAINE—He liked Susie's waffles but he couldn't see Susie.

JEFF BOWMAN—His chief concern was to make Susie as beautiful as she wanted to be.

Yesterday: Susie had loved Dick for four years, she recalls. Now he is gone. What would she give for beauty that she might hold him!

CHAPTER VI

Susie's cry was a challenge and the fates must have heard. Else why did they busily begin to pull strings and paint a new backdrop for Susie? But it takes a while to rearrange the muddle of human personalities, even for the fates it takes a while to make the proper moves in the tricky game of life.

So Susie went on through the summer, adding public speaking to her course, studying far into the night because it was one way to pass the endless, meaningless hours. Her eyes became strained and bloodshot and she was fitted to spectacles, heavy, horn-rimmed affairs which were the last disastrous touch.

Not that the owlish effect of the glasses mattered to Susie. She had slumped mentally and spiritually. Her hands went uncared for, she allowed her hair to grow, pushing it behind her ears, ignoring the raged fringe on her neck, she bathed and dressed and let it o at that. She plodged wearily to her classes and the shop, at night she plodded back to her lonely room. She scarcely thought, simply endured.

She considered going home, back to the Wisconsin farm which she had left when the agricultural struggle was at its peak. Susie's father was on the farm, a loveable, blustering individual who had once been a power in the community. President of the rural school board, a director in two banks, proud possessor of a fertile section. Before Susie left home he had given up outside interests and became a dawn to dark grubber for a livelihood. Susie adored her father, often she longed to see him.

There was also a stepmother on the farm and she was the reason why Susie decided against going home. Martha was shrill and positive and a nagger. Her disposition had not improved when prosperity went out the window. Susie could neither put up with Martha's tyranny herself, nor could she endure to be a daily witness to her father's unhappiness. So she stayed on in hopeless apathy.

It was in the early fall. Susie had just passed her 23rd birthday, although, in her sagging maturity, it would have taken the family Bible to substantiate this fact, when the fates made their first definite move. And even then no one could have seen that the move in any way concerned Susie.

This first step took place in the office of Harker's department store, Chicago. Harker's, in the past five years, had steadily improved and was rapidly taking its place as one of the leading emporiums. John Harker, long a silent junior partner, had gained complete mariagement of the store at the almost simultaneous deaths of his father and uncle, the staid, unimaginative senior partners. Immediately changes began to occur at Harker's. A modernistic front, all cromium and bent glass, out-dated fixtures replaced with the latest mode, practically all to stock dumped into a modern, bargain basement. New branches with imported goods, the highest paid advertising man in Chicago, the highest paid chef in the tea-room, the highest standards of merchandising in each and every department.

For two year Harker's went monthly more deeply into the red while waiting for Chicago shoppers to wake up to the fact that the new store was ultra-modern. The tide turned slowly. John Harker and Clifford Kane, his advertising head, watched each step. Now, after five years of ceaseless effort, Harker's had become the place to buy mink coats, Paris evening gowns, Irish linens, the accepted authority on hair styling and home decorating. If an article was nice, if it was exquisite and exclusive, Harker's had it and gradually profit to the owner had taken the place of loss.

Perhaps, in looking about for strings to pull, the fates decided on John Harker because they knew he was a step ahead of his time, because he obtained results with a bulldog tenacity without counting the cost. Whatever the reason, John Harker sat at his mahogany desk one morning with several leading magazines open before him. John was a handsome man in the late forties, a big man with iron gray hair, keen eyes and an indomitable energy. John was a widower, a fact which had been carefully noted by many Chicago women, but which they seemed unable to do anything about. He had two fine boys in college and—he had vision.

After perusing the magazines for half an hour he sent for Clifford Kane, head of the advertising department, and Jeff Bowman, Kane's promising assistant. They answered the call immediately, Kane, small and quick, Jeff Bowman big and rangy and red-haired. A slight enmity existed between the two advertisers, Kane ignoring his subordinate, Jeff eager and frustrated.

"Boys," John Harker remarked when they were seated, "we're missing a good bet."

"What do you mean, Chief?" Kane asked, instantly on the defensive.

Harker pushed the magazines across his desk. "These make-the-most-of-yourself contests for homely girls," he said. "The idea is going over big in New York. Why hasn't someone in Chicago thought to do it? Why haven't you, for instance?"

Kane glanced casually at the advertisements and articles, the letters written by unattractive girls, the before-and-after pictures. Jeff waited patiently.

"The thing isn't plausible," Kane said at last. "Homely women don't want to be exploited. It's nothing but a racket for the beauticians and cosmeticians. They only choose girls with distinct possibilities. The whole thing is temporary and of small value. As I say, it's a racket."

Jeff Bowman edged forward on his chair. "I think you're wrong, Kane," he said, "dead wrong." It was this sort of thing that incurred the active displeasure of Jeff's boss. Harker listened to the argument, watching the two men through narrowed eyes. Jeff continued.

"For a plain girl to become lovely, even temporarily, is an adventure, the most exciting adventure in the world. In this establishment we have everything under heaven to make a woman beautiful from the gym on the roof to the imported perfume on the main floor."

Kane frowned, as usual ignoring Jeff. "Look, Chief," he said to Harker. "We don't want to cheapen our store in the smallest way. Frankly I'm afraid of this thing. How to publicize it without humiliating the girl, how to give it a new angle or twist."

"That's what I hire you for," Harker observed mildly. Turning to the young assistant he said, "You see it, don't you, Jeff?"

"You bet," Jeff replied eagerly, "I'm sure we could work out a scheme that would make pikers of New York. Let's find a homely girl, not simply a plain girl with good features—" Creative light burned in Jeff's eyes.

"Right," Harker slapped the desk with his open hand. "We'll stop at nothing—plastic surgery—braces on teeth—anything. I want our girl to be talked about, her progress watched—"

Kane, seeing the trend, wisely faced about, "I'll run daily articles in the papers, what our girl is doing, sometimes it'll tie up with what we have to sell, sometimes not. No matter. Get women to follow our lead, to make themselves over through our daily advice. It's all right, Chief—a swell idea. I am beginning to see it now."

John Harker tapped the glass top of his desk with a pencil. "The thing is to get the right girl," he said. "To develop personality and charm, to bring out attractiveness that's lain hidden behind a homely face, to find spiritual perfections—it thrills me, boys. You find the girl and I'll do the rest."

Did the fates smile? Did they switch their attention to Susie, plodding home from the waffle shop?

SHADOWS OF COMING EVENTS

Reports from Austin say that something like 50 amendments to the state constitution are in preparation for submission to the next regular session of the legislature, which is approximately a year in the future. If as many as five of those proposed amendments should actually be submitted to a vote of the people, the number will be unusually large. If one out of five should receive the required majority of popular vote, it will be about average.

Several of the amendments being discussed deal with the legislature. While it unquestionably is true that our legislative system could be improved, it is most doubtful whether any of the amendments of this type will be submitted to the people. Among the amendments proposed are: increasing the salary of the legislators to $3,000 per year; reduction of membership of both House and Senate; increasing the term of House members from two years to four years; and replacement of the present two-house system with the one-house, or unicameral, plan.

We cannot believe that a majority of the legislative members would be so lacking in judgment to submit the $3,000 salary proposal. It probably would be as smashingly defeated as any amendment ever proposed. It is to be doubted, also, whether considerable legislative support could be gained for any proposition which would eliminate considerable numbers of them from public office. However, proposed amendments of such kind likely would have a surprising popular support.

BROADWAY Ballads: One of the gambling legends now in circulation has to do with the unknown lad from the sticks who came to New York about a year ago, nightly got into the biggest floating crap game in town and invariably walked out winner for $10,000 . . . This lone Lochinvar proclaimed 100 grand to be his quitting mark and approached that sum with such regularity that the professional boys used to stand around to watch and wonder . . . So closely did they scrutinize his every motion that they became convinced he was on the level — and was capitalizing on the hottest run of luck yet seen in these parts . . . Two nights before the Boy Wonder could normally have expected to reach his goal, one of the sharp-eyed gentry got wise . . . What the observant gambler had spied him do was this: Every time his roll came around he would blow on the dice (which were provided by the house, of course), and then shoot . . . This is a conventional gesture and ordinarily would arouse no suspicion . . . But what this smart, but not quite smart enough, lad did — was transfer loaded dice from his mouth to his hand in exchange for the regular house dice . . . It wasn't at all a sanitary thing to do — in fact the reports are that it proved fatal.

You see her at one of the larger night clubs night after night, laughing convulsively at the goings on in the floor show . . . She is elegantly attired and her escort is as attractive as she is . . . Other patrons do not realize that she is merely a claque planted by the management to set off the chuckles . . . Even so, most girls would envy her plush surroundings and toilless existence. Insiders don't . . . They know that only recently she was left heart-broken when her sweetheart died — and manufacturing laughter is the hardest job she ever took.

Broadway and Park Avenue were learning to tell the time of night and day by the regularity of her visits to the night spots . . . Like clockwork, she always appeared at Mon Paris at 2 a. m., remaining exactly one hour. . . . The reason? Her favorite orchestra leader was Larry Siry at that bistro . . . At the end of her one-hour visit she always made her exit to a waiting limousine while Larry played "Three o'Clock in the Morning" . . . The other day, she died at the age of 85 . . . And while the casket of the fabulously rich Mrs. A. Van Tassell Billington was put into the hearse, Larry Siry and orchestra played "Three o'Clock in the Morning" — her last request.

Somewhere along the line, the little girl from back home was supplanted by an actress whose name you all know, and she married the boy . . . But he hadn't completely forgotten the kid from school. 1940 Looms As Rosy Year Capital Sidetracks Utopian Reforms As Stimulant For Business

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Everybody wants to know how business is going to be in 1940. Of course nobody knows for sure.

But for once, economists both inside and outside the government are almost united on this: the rise in business which marked the last quarter of 1939 is not likely to collapse in 1937 style, but hold its ground generally through 1940.

Catton

There are reasons for this. Never before have so many diverse elements focused every thought and effort on making a solid business advance. Put the administration's desires on the lowest level and say that it wants better business so it can be re-elected. But it still wants it—and badly. In 1940 recovery is pretty sure to get the call over reform.

Let's sort out a few straws, and see how the wind blows:

Try Prosecutions

Here is Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold predicting a flock of indictments within six months in the building trades. No such political risk of offending both organized labor and organized business is taken except by deliberate decision that it is even more important to break the long-stagnant jam in the building industry.

Here is Secretary Morgenthau demanding economy and a reduced regular budget. Remember that even if the regular budget is greatly reduced, thus "appeasing" business which has been demanding it, military spending will probably overbalance it, though creating little opposition. Point is, the effect on business is much the same—the money circulates, whether released through the regular or the military stopcock.

Here are administration officials from the President down actually trying to stop the "gentle rain of checks" to farmers. The thought is to make an economy showing and encourage coy capital to come out, come out, wherever it is.

Plan Encouragement

Private investment has not yet shown a single sign of life. Some encouragement is at last being recognized as necessary. Hence the stand-pat on social security, the down-holding on socialized medicine plans, the impending changes in membership of the National Labor Relations board.

Here is a Treasury official requesting the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to propose changes in the tax structure, and here is the chamber proposing changes not so much aimed at reducing the amount of the tax burden, as arranging the burden so that it chafes business' shoulders a little less. And some of the suggestions are looked on with a good deal of favor by high Treasury officials.

In short, here you have "business appeasement" in prospect for 1940, though you don't hear the much these days. All of whi hopeful for 1940 prosperity.

DEFENDS DALLAS

Dear Plainsman:—One of the nice things about this democratic country is that just buying an evening paper gives one the right to disagree with the editor and write him without solicitation.

I like your column and agree with about 95 per cent of it and I particularly liked the fact that you were big enough when we put the Sandies out of the running to admit that they took it a lot better than we had in previous years and took the major part of the blame to yourself.

Now with this to go on, how about giving Dallas an even break in your paper? You seem to regard with suspicion and dislike everything originating in Dallas and it leaves the impression that the business leaders of Dallas sit up late at night thinking of ways to retard the progress of Lubbock.

You may have some specific things in mind that I don't know about, but I moved from Dallas out here and go back frequently and if there is any prejudice there against Lubbock it's news to me. I am not in a position to know the business leaders of Dallas, but my employer is representative of the best in Dallas business and his feeling about Lubbock, its present condition and future greatness would automatically make him a charter member of the "Boost Lubbock" club. Dallas is just a bigger Lubbock, anxious for our business and who ever heard of trying to hold a good customer down? The fact that every major Dallas concern has a representative here speaks for something.

There are number of things about a town getting as big as Dallas is that could irk the individual and even Boston never had room clerks as snooty, but as far as the town as a whole is concerned I think Lubbock has a friend in Dallas.

An editor is a molder of public opinion and if there is anything specific about Dallas let's have out with it and I'll sing baritone to any Hymn of Hate you can write. But honest, Mr. Plainsman, isn't that Dallas business mostly setting up straw men to knock down? There's plenty for an aggressive newspaper to go in this town without getting imaginary grievances against a town whose one thought of us is that we are darned good customers and they want to do everything they can to keep our business?

Allen Farmer,
2216 17th St.,
Lubbock, Texas.

(Dear Mr. Farmer: Thanks for your letter. I am prejudiced against Dallas, because of what you might call "ancient history." You see, I have been a West Texan for a long time. Until very recent years, Dallas has been very anti-West Texas and was the bellwether for East Texas in the now fotgotten—I hope—East Texas-West Texas competition. But now since West Texas, and Lubbock as its No. 1 city, are coming into their own, Dallas is embracing us at every turn for business reasons, as you suggest. As an ex-Dallas friend told me the other day, Dallas is long on promises, but short on delivery after she gets whr she wants. What, if anything, has come of Dallas' promised efforts to help Texas Tech get into the Southwest conference through the aid of Dallas' own SMU? You remember Dallas' lavish statements, of course, prior to the January 1, 1939, Cotton Bowl game. As for my recent comments about the cold, dank and dirty dressingroom at the Westerner finals games of both 1938 and 1939, and the failure of Dallas to provide escort for the buses both years, don't you think Dallas deserved being called on such oversights? I have many friends in Dallas—but, like the elephant, I have a hard time forgetting the past. I plead guilty to being "pro-Fort Worth," because Fort Worth recognized the West, helped the West and fought for the West 'way back when Dallas and East Texas were calling us "a desert." Thanks again for your letter. Cordially yours, The Plainsman).

Brief Funeral Service For Mrs. Norman Seitz Is Held

A brief funeral service for Mrs. Norman Seitz, 30, of 1612 Texas avenue was conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at Rix chapel, with Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

Another service was to be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Spur, Campbell Funeral home will direct interment in Spur cemetery.

Mrs. Seitz died Tuesday afternoon in a sanitarium here after an illness of about three months.

Besides her husband and a daughter, Julia Albin Seitz of Lubbock, Mrs. Seitz is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Albin, of Spur; three brothers, Henry Albin of Oklahoma City, Ferrell and John Albin of Spur; and three sisters: Mrs. E. D. Mateer and Mrs. Joe

Alvin Allison Is Candidate

Formal entry into the race for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the 30th district was announced Tuesday night by Alvin R. Allison of Levelland.

Present 30th district senator is G. H. Nelson, Lubbock attorney, serving his first four-year term in the office after having been elected in 1935 to fill out the term of Arthur P. Duggan, Littlefield, who died while in office.

Nelson Non-Commital

Whether Nelson also would be a candidate for the office was still unknown last night. Asked if he intended to run for re-election, Senator Nelson had "nothing to say."

Allison is at present a first term member of the House of Representatives from the 119th district, including Lubbock. His entry into the senatorial race has been anticipated for months. Immediately after appraising The Evening Journal of his intentions, Allison left for Austin.

Was Hockley Judge

Allison, a long-time resident of Levelland, for two years was judge of Hockley county, serving as president of the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association in 1937. He assumed his legislature office following his election in 1938.

A graduate of Texas Technological college in 1930, Allison is a lawyer and practices in Levelland.

Race Wide Open

The following 24 counties comprise the 30th senatorial district: Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cottle, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Andrews, Martin and Howard.

Allison's announcement, to be followed later by a formal statement, left the race for representative of the 119th district wide open.

Included in the 119th district are Lubbock, Gaines, Dawson, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Cochran, Hockley and Crosby counties.

Dallas Insurance Man Is To Speak At Meeting Friday

Ricks Strong of Dallas, past president of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters, is to address a meeting of the Lubbock Association of Life Underwriters in a luncheon at the Hilton hotel, Friday noon, Sam A. Henry, president, announced today.

Strong, general agent for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company for North Texas, is one of the well known insurance men of the Southwest. He holds the chartered life underwriter degree and the post graduate degree of life insurance management from the American College of Life Underwriters under jurisdiction of the Wharton School of Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania.

An attendance of between 30 and 35 life underwriters of the city is expected for the luncheon.

The Washington monument was under construction 36 years, owing to shortages of funds.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 10 (AP)—The reluctant prospective juror told the court he couldn't serve because he had advertised for a new secretary and:

Judge John R. Hines excused him.

Regional Housing Official To Pay Visit To Lubbock

A representative from the regional office in Fort Worth of the Federal Housing authority will be in Lubbock within the next few days to confer with a recently appointed local housing authority, according to information received at the city hall this morning from the office of Marshall W. Amis, regional director.

The local authority of which H. C. Pender, acting head of the department of government of Texas Technological college, is chairman, was appointed for the purpose of studying the possibility of obtaining a slum clearance project for Lubbock.

Pender said that the first meeting of the local authority will be called within the next few days. Meanwhile, if a representative of the regional office arrives before that time, conferences with him will be arranged.

Raw Materials For Germany Are Held U

Dispute With Russia Seen

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 10 (U.P.)—Important quantities of Rumanian and Russian raw materials intended for Germany are being held up because of a Russo-German dispute over railroad transport and the fact that the Danube delta is solidly frozen, it was disclosed today.

A dispatch from Cernauti (Cernowitz), Rumania, said that it had been four weeks since a train had left for Germany by way of Russian-occupied Poland over what was intended to be a main transport line for Rumanian oil and other commodities which Germany needs vitally.

Cernauti is the last big Rumanian railroad station on the Polish frontier.

Dispute Is Reported

The reason, according to reports at Cernauti, was a dispute between Russia and Germany over division of Polish railroad rolling stock in such manner as to compensate Russia for hauling the German goods across its part of Polish territory.

Since the seizure of Poland, and the careful working out of plans for traffic on the railroad, only three trains had left Cernauti for Germany, it was asserted, and these left four weeks ago after long delay caused by a previous Russo-German traffic dispute.

The importance of the Cernauti situation was emphasized by the fact that the freezing of the Danube delta had tied up all shipments of Russian raw materials via the Black sea to Germany.

German and Russian ships which normally bring Russian cargoes from Russian Black sea ports and then transfer them to river boats or to the railroads now are unable to enter Danube ports.

Church School Will Be Opened Tonight

A standard leadership school will be started in First Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock tonight, sessions to be conducted each Wednesday night through Feb. 14, according to announcement Tuesday.

The school is sponsored by First Christian, First Presbyterian and St. Paul's on the Plains Episcopal churches.

Those planning to enroll for the school are invited to attend a covered dish supper at the church at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Officers of the school include: Ray C. Mowery, dean; Miss Virginia McLean, registrar, and Ward H. Gregg, treasurer. An enrollment fee of two dollars per student is asked, one dollar of which is to be paid by the church the student represents. Textbooks will be furnished.

Courses and teachers are as follows:

"The Growth of Christian Personality in Childhood," Miss Bonnie K. Dysart of the department of education at Texas Technological college; "Guilding a Total Youth Program," Rev. Donald F. West, assistant pastor of the First Christian church; "The Church's Opportunity in Adult Education," Rev. H. G. Gantz, Christian pastor; "The New Testament; Its Contents and Values," Rev. John A. Winslow of St. Paul's church.

"NO MORE OF THAT, PLEASE!"—Waggling his finger solemnly, two-year-old Walter Newman of Philadelphia admonishes his baby sister, Barbara, three months old, to mind her P's and Q's, especially at this time of the year, but it looks like Barbara doesn't believe a word of that brotherly advice. Maybe Walter's tired and wants to sleep.

Officers For Aggie Club Are Named At Tuesday Meeting

Approximately 70 members of the Agricultural club of Texas Technological college attended a meeting Tuesday night on the campus and elected officers for the spring semester.

Those who will assume new duties and their offices with the beginning of the new semester in February include: Earl Fine, Slaton, president; Ed White, Springlake, vice president; Orville Richardson, Slaton, secretary; George Wilson, Princeton, treasurer; J. D. McCracken, Odessa, reporter; and Forrest Baumgardner, Wellington, marshal.

The top three outgoing officers were J. R. Bertrand, White Deer, president; Sylvan Pederson, Clifton; and J. D. McCracken, secretary.

RESINOL OINTMENT

Someday you may be too Old

WHEN you're as old as Methusaleh, almost any car will do for you.

But—taking it all—Man—your best million miles are ahead—and it's time you started enjoying them!

Just looking at a Nash puts you in the mood—but wait 'til you take the wheel—then you really GO. That manifold-sealed engine doesn't need a second tap.

You could be content with an ordinary third speed—but why dawdle along? You've got something special when the needle touches 35. There's a "click"...a whoosh from a Fourth Speed Forward—and you feel as though your wheels were wings.

If a stranger tries to challenge your way—toot your horn, tap your Automatic Overtake. He'll still be blinking when you're out of sight.

Listen, can you hear any noise? Look at those ruts ahead. Now can you feel anything? Not in a Nash. No wonder they call this miracle of smoothness the Arrow-Flight Ride.

Even the air you breathe is different ... kept dustless in summer—warm in winter—by Weather Eye magic.

And there's even a place to sleep ... a big convertible bed in the rear. There never was a car that was half as much fun to own and drive.

Let your hands feel that wheel ... and your ears catch the sweet tune of that engine—and no ordinary automobile will ever do again.

Since you have only about another ninety years—hurry, Man, get in on that fun you've been missing!

All the grace, speed and stamina the engineers can pack into seventeen feet of steel—is yours in a Nash.

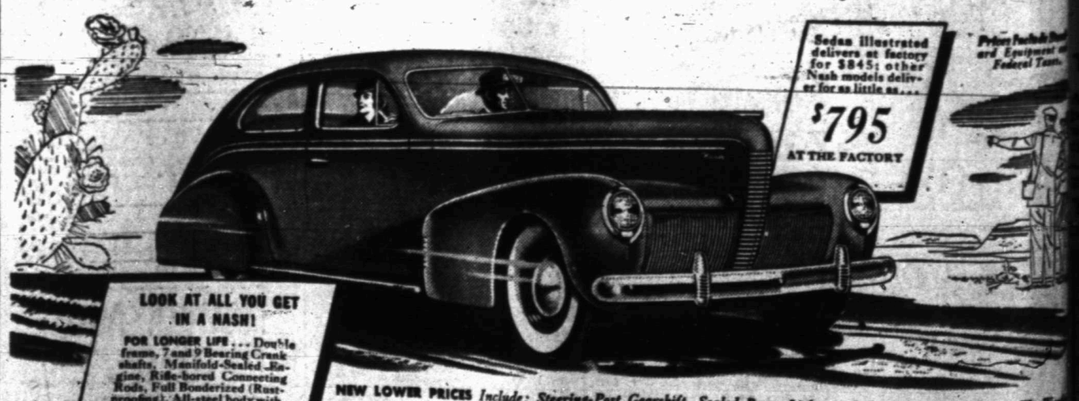

All of our $45,000,000 in resources ... all of our craftsmanship and ability go into this single make of car.

Because we put more into it—you get more out of it. A 7-bearing crankshaft instead of a 3 . . . a double, instead of a single frame chassis . . . the only all-manifold-sealed engine in the world.

Yet many big Nash models, with all this "extra-value" are just a shade higher in price than smaller cars—and cost no more to run!

Why not join the thousands who are switching to Nash. Come on in, a new sedan is waiting for you, today.

You'll be Happier in a NASH—Drive it Today!

LOOK AT ALL YOU GET IN A NASH!

FOR LONGER LIFE ... Double frame, 7 and 9 Bearing Crankshafts, Manifold-Sealed Engine, Rifle-bored Connecting Rods, Full Bonderized (Rust-proofing). All-steel body with Over-Size pillars.

FOR GREATER COMFORT ... Soft Coil Front Springing, Extra-long Shock-Absorbers, Sand-Mortex Soundproofing, Weather Eye Conditioned Air System, Wider Seats, Convertible Bed.

FOR GREATER ECONOMY ... Manifold-Sealed Engines wring more mileage from every gallon. Maintenance costs sensationally low.

All this means Nash is a better value today, and will be worth far more when it comes time to trade it in.

*Optional Extra

NEW LOWER PRICES Include: Steering-Post Gearshift, Sealed Beam Lights and Canda cloth upholstery. The Weather Eye Conditioned Air system, Fourth Speed Forward, White Sidewall Tires and Rear Wheel-shields are optional extra

Members Of Judging Team At Texas Tech Have Been Named

Members of the livestock judging team which will compete Saturday in the Intercollegiate Livestock judging contest at the National Western Livestock Show in Denver have been named at Texas Technological college.

Ray C. Mowery, animal husbandry professor, is team coach.

Fred Bradshaw, Lorenzo; Jamie Caviness, Hurlwood; Robert Holloway, Tahoka; Lewis Nance, Justiceburg; Koy Neeley, McAdoo, and Roy Wilkes, Floydada, will judge beef cattle, hogs, horses and sheep. The boys were selected from the regular junior course in advanced live stock judging.

One team each from 10 or 12 middle western states will enter the contest. Saturday's team will be the fourth Tech group to compete in this show. Leaving Lubbock Thursday by car, the students will return Tuesday, Jan. 16.

Guard Against Pyorrhea

Are your gums irritated? Do your gums cause you annoyance? Druggists return money if first bottle of "LETO'S" fails to satisfy. Mark Halsey Drug Store. Adv.

According to conditions observed in the United States in 1937, the average male of any specified age has a substantially greater chance of dying from tuberculosis than has the average female of the same age.

COULDN'T FOLLOW THROUGH

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Three times, Richmond Robison of Delavan, Ill., was Illinois corn king. He topped production of other growers with 100 bushels plus per acre. This year his record was 154 bushels an acre. But on his quarter section Nebraska farm, which he owns near here, Robison raised not a single ear of corn this droughty year.
