Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

James C. Watson, Oil Editor

Ellenburger Top Has No Oil In SW Scurry

Ray-Harris Drilling Company of Dallas, and associates No. 1 Laura B. Smith, deep wildcat in Central-South Scurry County, 15 miles southwest of Snyder, and one and three-quarter miles east of the Sharon Ridge-Canyon field, had no shows of oil, gas or water in a drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger at 8,053-61 feet.

The prospector is to make more hole. Top of the Ellenburger was picked at 8,052 feet on an elevation of 2,315 feet.

Reports No Water

A 45 minute drillstem test was at 8,053-61 feet. There was a very slight blow of air at the surface during a part of the period. Recovery was 15 feet of drilling mud, with no signs of petroleum or of formation water.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 159, block 97, H&TC survey. This venture was low on the Pennsylvanian lime horizons and failed to develop any signs of oil or gas in any of those sections.

Deep Zone Logs Small Show In C-N Scurry

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 J. G. Whatley, Central-North Scurry County exploration, three and one half miles north of the northwest side of the North Snyder-Canyon field, and 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 548, block 97, H&TC survey, had slight shows of oil, gas and salt water in the top of a dolomite section which is said by unofficial observers to be the Ellenburger.

The test was at 8,200-35 feet. The tool was open 90 minutes. Recovery was 90 feet of slightly gas cut drilling mud and 180 feet of slightly oil and gas cut mud, which was heavily cut with salty water.

The venture had drilled ahead to 8,260 feet in dolomite, and was preparing to run another drillstem test.

This wildcat drilled through the Pennsylvanian without developing any shows of possible production. It was structurally low to the North Snyder field.

Norsworthy Prospect Still Testing 'Burger'

R. L. Norsworthy, Jr., and associates No. 1 Feldman is testing the top of the Ellenburger, through perforations in the casing between 7,-314 and 7,326 feet.

After the pipe had been perforated the project kicked off and started heading oil early Monday. At the time this report was prepared no gauge on the oil being produced had been made and no estimate was available on the fluid being pushed out at the top.

This Central-East Scurry wildcat, ten miles east of Snyder, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 63, block 3, H&TC survey, has shown some oil producing possibilities from the open hole between the bottom of the 5 1/2-inch casing cemented at 7,340 feet, and the total depth at 7,357 feet.

No Shows Above Ellenburger

The section between 7,308 feet and 7,340 feet is thought to offer the best possibilities of making a commercial oil well and a discovery. Petroleum yielding ability of that zone should be determined during this week.

The prospector failed to log any possibilities of production in any of the strata above the Ellenburger which was entered at 7,308 feet. Elevation is 2,251 feet.

C-W Scurry Venture Develops No Oil Signs

S. B. Roberts of Abilene and associates, No. 1 B. H. Lewis, Central-West Scurry County exploration, two and one-quarter miles west of the Kelley field, and one and one-half miles northeast of the Diamond-M pool, failed to develop any signs of petroleum in a drillstem test at 6,840-68 feet, in the Canyon reef which was entered at 6,836 feet, with a datum of minus 4,398 feet.

The tool was open one and one-half hours. Recovery was 60 feet of drilling mud, with a rainbow show of oil. There were no signs of formation water.

Operators were preparing to run casing before drilling deeper into the Canyon reef lime.

Location is 467 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 247, block 97, H&TC survey, and seven miles west of Snyder.

Two Projects Slated At North Snyder Pool

L. M. Lockhart of Corpus Christi has filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting a permit to drill his No. 1 H. E. Rosser as a 6,800-foot exploration on the south side of the southeast extension to the North Snyder field in North-Central Scurry County.

No. 1 Rosser is to be located 467 feet from north and west lines of the 100-acre Rosser lease in section 177, block 3, H&GN survey, and three and one-half miles north of Snyder.

It is contracted to test the Canyon lime reef, using rotary tools.

It's Hallowe'en

Midland's observance of Hallowe'en will be concentrated in carnivals at all schools. It is an annual custom here to serve up the witches and the goblins to youngsters at these carnivals rather than letting them run rampant in vandalism. However, the Midland Police Department Monday cautioned citizens to be vigilant of their personal property. The usual raids of "trick or treat" young spookers was predicted and citizens were advised to have fruits, sweets and cookies on hand to buy off the tricksters. Sweaters and coats were expected to be part of the Hallowe'en garb here because of cold weather.

Strike Settlement Rumors Are Heard

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A rumor that settlement of both the steel and coal strikes is imminent collided Monday with a hint that the government soon may take a hand in the coal strike situation.

The rumor came from labor sources at the CIO convention in Cleveland; the hint from government officials in Washington. Neither was confirmed officially.

CIO President Philip Murray, leader of the month-old steel strike, intimated something was afoot when he announced he would hold a press conference Monday afternoon.

One top officer of the steelworkers allowed reporters to get the impression that Murray and at least one of the major steel companies already had settled terms. Another Murray adviser denied any knowledge of a settlement.

A usually well-informed government official said at Cleveland that announcement of Murray's settlement was being held up to allow simultaneous strike-end signals in steel and John L. Lewis' 43-day-old coal strike.

Steel Must Come First

Well-placed Washington officials said they believed the time is near for the government to call the off-again-on-again coal talks to Washington.

For at least two weeks the government has centered all its peace-making efforts on steel. Cyrus S. Ching, top federal mediator, has spent most of that time talking with officials of U. S. Steel Corporation, biggest steel producer in the nation.

Ching, it was learned, still believes that any settlement in basic industries must start with steel, since many of the coal mines are owned or dominated by steel firms.

However, the coal talks have hit bottom. Negotiations in West Virginia between John L. Lewis' striking miners union and Northern and Western operators have been broken off entirely by the operators. Talks between Lewis' union and Southern Operators have gotten nowhere.

Merchants To Hear Christmas Plans

Retail merchants of Midland are asked to attend a meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in Hotel Scharbauer.

Reagan Legg, Junior Chamber of Commerce chairman of the annual Santa Claus Parade, will discuss the setting of a date for the event. Other business of Christmas season observance here will be discussed.

Mrs. C. A. Goldsmith, Pioneer Resident, Dies; Services Here

Mrs. Hattie Goldsmith, 76, a Midland resident more than half a century, died suddenly at 9:15 p.m. Sunday in a Dallas hospital of a heart ailment. She had been in the hospital the last several months after suffering a fractured hip in a fall here last April, but her condition was not considered critical.

A grandson, C. A. Goldsmith of Midland, had visited her Sunday afternoon before boarding a train for his return trip home.

Born Dec. 17, 1872, in Limestone County, Mrs. Goldsmith moved here as a child with her parents, the late Col. and Mrs. W. J. Moseley, pioneer Midland settlers. Colonel Moseley later became the first treasurer of Midland County. Mrs. Goldsmith had been an active member of the Methodist Church since childhood.

She was married to the late Charlie A. Goldsmith, pioneer rancher and banker, Feb. 14, 1893, in Midland.

Services Tuesday

Active in civic and church affairs in early-day Midland, Mrs. Goldsmith was one of the founders of the Fairview Cemetery Association.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Ellis Funeral Home Chapel here, with the Rev. Howard Hollowell, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Survivors include a son, Charles M. Goldsmith of Midland; a grandson, C. A. Goldsmith of Midland; a sister, Mrs. E. P. Cowden of Midland, and several nephews and nieces, including Guy and Allen Cowden of Midland, Mrs. M. O. Means of Van Horn, Miss May Moseley of Kermit, Mrs. Evelyn Gentry of Midland, Mrs. Jewel Hosford of Sherman, Bill Moseley of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Guy Neal of California.

Vice President Will Wed Mrs. Carleton Hadley November 18

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Vice President Alben W. Barkley, who has scored many successes in a long political career, also has proved himself lucky in love.

Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, the comely young widow whom he courted diligently for nearly four months, announced Sunday night that the two would be married here November 18.

The announcement was made informally in the presence of a few friends and newspapermen in Mrs. Hadley's apartment as the vice president stood by smiling.

Wedding details were not made public. Friends expected the ceremony would be a simple one and would be performed in one of the St. Louis Methodist churches. Both the 71-year-old Kentuckian and his 38-year-old bride-to-be are members of that faith.

Barkley and Mrs. Hadley met last July 8 while she was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Clifford in Washington. Clifford is a presidential aide.

Crosses Party Lines

After that Barkley was a frequent visitor to St. Louis, usually making the trip by air. He parried reporters' questions on the budding romance with evasive but polite answers. And all the while the dark-haired Mrs. Hadley smilingly declined comment.

Mrs. Hadley's husband, who died in 1945 at the age of 42, was general counsel for the Wabash Railroad Company. She has two daughters, Jane, 14, and Anne, 17.

Barkley is a widower. His wife, whom he married in 1903, died in 1947 in Washington. There were three children, David M. Barkley, Mrs. Max Truitt and Mrs. Douglas MacArthur II, wife of a nephew of the general.

The nation's No. 2 Democrat crossed party lines in his selection of a bride because Mrs. Hadley is —or was—known as a Republican.

Must Be Warmer In Maine Than It Is In West Texas

SOUTH PORTLAND, ME. —(AP) —A grown man in diapers—and nothing else—walked calmly along Main Street early Monday.

It was just a gag, he told police. The towel, neatly pinned where his pants should have been, was a Hallowe'en costume and he was wearing it home from a party.

Police speeded him home by patrol car.

Norther Chills All Of Texas

By The Associated Press

Witches and goblins better wear sweaters Monday night.

A norther which Sunday rode gusty winds in a quick swoop over Texas was due to make Hallowe'en a nippy affair.

Brownsville's early morning temperature was 51 degrees. Along the coast temperatures dropped from the 80's to the 40's and 50's.

Other lows recorded were 25 at Lubbock, 26 at Amarillo, 32 at Midland, 37 at Fort Worth and 38 at Dallas. Houston had a low of 47.

Light rains accompanied the norther at Amarillo, Lufkin, Clarendon, Childress, Wichita Falls, Mineral Wells, Texarkana, Beaumont, Dalhart and Dallas.

Warmer Tuesday

East Texas was in for fair weather and continued cold through Monday night. The West Texas prediction was for fair Monday night, not quite so cold in the Panhandle and South Plains, and fair and warmer Tuesday.

One man was killed in an automobile wreck during a heavy morning drizzle in the Panhandle Sunday.

Don Preston Rives, 48, of Twitty, a Wheeler County commissioner, was killed and three others injured in the crash a mile east of McLean.

Northerly winds up to 56 miles an hour hit Wichita Falls, knocking two radio stations off the air for about an hour after the wind snapped an electic wire. Winds also caused power failures at Fort Worth, Dallas, Austin and San Antonio.

The norther sped from the Panhandle through the Dallas-Fort Worth area about noon Sunday. Dallas' high temperature was 72 degrees. By dark it was 44.

CIO Right Wingers Clamor For Ouster Of Red-Led Unions

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The CIO opened its 11th convention Monday torn wide open by the worst factional war in its history.

Ouster of at least three unions under left-wing leadership was indicated and a roaring right-wing majority angered by pro-Communist efforts to bore into the CIO clamored for the purge of a dozen unions by the end of the week.

Should he preside over the carving of the mass-industry federation which he, John L. Lewis, Sidney Hillman and others created more than a dozen years ago?

The usually mild-mannered Murray seemed to have given his answer as he opened the convention with a blast at the "small but noisy clique" in the CIO he said was adhering to the Communist labor program.

Murray Speaks Out

"I want none of that," Murray said in a report to the 600 delegates. "The CIO wants none of that."

The three unions most likely to be booted out are the United Electrical Workers, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, and Farm Equipment Workers. Merger of the UE and FE unions last week gave the rightists one more argument for removing those two unions, because FE almost a year ago had been ordered by the CIO executive board to merge with Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers.

Admiral Sherman Enroute To U. S.

There have been persistent reports that Sherman, commander of the Sixth Task Fleet in the Mediterranean, would succeed Adm Louis E. Denfeld.

Painter Falls To Death From Building

DALLAS — (AP) — A 31-year-old painter fell to his death Monday from atop a four-story downtown business building.

He was Joe Wavrusa of Ennis, who was working at the W. T. Grant Building.

An eye witness said a gust of wind apparently caused Wavrusa to lose his balance and fall to the sidewalk.

Dies Monday

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

E. R. Stettinius, Jr., Former Secretary Of State, Dies Suddenly

GREENWICH, CONN. —(AP)— Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., 49, wartime head of lend-lease and U. S. Secretary of State when the United Nations came into being, died Monday.

The white-haired, handsome Stettinius, who at 37 became board chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation, was the country's first UN delegate. He was named rector of the University of Virginia after leaving the UN post in 1946.

Death came at 7:30 a.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Trippe here. Mrs. Trippe is Stettinius' sister. Her husband is head of Pan-American World Airways.

A rich man's son, Stettinius went into government service and shortly became administrator of the $60,-000,000,000 lend-lease program that played a major role in the final defeat of Nazi Germany.

Found Unconscious

The former cabinet member's secretary said members of the household found Stettinius unconscious in bed Monday morning. He died soon after a physician arrived at the house.

Stettinius had suffered from a heart condition since last Spring, his secretary said, and had been convalescing here.

His wife and her mother, Mrs. W. J. Wallace, were with him when he died.

Stettinius started his industrial career with General Motors, becoming vice president in 1931. He went to U. S. Steel three years later and succeeded Myron C. Taylor as board chairman in 1938.

He did not hold that post long. Prseident Roosevelt made him chairman of the War Resources Board the following year and kept him in similar high posts in the face of charges by some New Dealers that Stettinius was too "big business minded."

With FDR At Yalta

Stettinius was 43 when Roosevelt named him undersecretary of State a surprise appointment. He took over the top cabinet post a year later, becoming the second youngest secretary of State in American history.

Carrrying on the work of his predecessor, Cordell Hull, Stettinius was permanent chairman of the Dumbarton Oaks Security Conference that gave birth to the United Nations.

Stettinius went to the Yalta conference with Roosevelt, played a leading role in the San Francisco Conference which actually brought the UN into being, and headed the U. S. delegation to the Chepultepec Conference in Mexico, where a Western Hempsphere defense system was created.

Funeral plans were not announced.

Profits Near All-Time Top Mark Of 1948

(Copyright 1949 by The Associated Press)

NEW YORK —(AP)— Profits of American industry turned upwards in the third quarter of this year for the first time in 12 months.

They stand only slightly below the all-time high mark of a year ago, when third quarter earnings were the peak in the record year of 1948.

An unusual feature of the third quarter was the substantial increase in earnings of automobile companies, which offset a sharp decline in oil company profits.

The compilation by The Associated Press of earnings reports of 314 leading corporations in all major fields showed Monday a total net profit of $1,003,944,061 in the July-September quarter.

That is 4.3 per cent higher than the total of $962,102,819 reported by the same corporations in the second quarter of this year.

It is only 4.1 per cent lower than the $1,046,983,291 earned by these companies in the third quarter of 1948.

Corporate earnings slid lower in the final quarter of 1948 from their third quarter peak, and the decline continued in the first and second quarters of this year.

Auto Makers Set Pace

The upturn was not surprising to those who watched the recession of early 1949 give way gradually to an economic recovery around mid-year. The present profit trend confirms that rebound.

Largely responsible for the overall good showing are the earnings of two automobile companies.

The increase in their earnings more than balanced the decline in

Hotel Rally To Kick Off Chest Drive

Kick-off time for the 1949 Community Chest finance campaign in Midland County is set for 9 a.m. Tuesday when Chest officials and drive leaders and workers, volunteers all, will attend a breakfast-rally in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer. B. L. (Bert) Ryan, general chairman, will preside.

Leaders are confident the $32,000 goal will be exceeded before the end of the week.

Assignments will be made, literature distributed, and general plans outlined at the morning rally. Workers will fan out over the community following the session.

Big Gifts work has been underway the last week, but reports were not available Monday.

Community Chest flags Sunday were flying atop buildings and neon signs, with the word "Give," have been placed at strategic points.

Participating Agencies

Six youth welfare and charitable agencies share in the Chest funds. The organizations and their 1950 budges are: Boy Scouts, $13,500; Girl Scouts, $4,385; Youth Center, $9,-143.50; Goodfellows, $600; USO,

Recall Of Two Czech Diplomats Demanded By U. S.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States demanded Monday that Communist Czechoslovakia recall immediately two Czech officials now in this country.

They are Dr. Erwin Munk, consul general at New York, and Jan Horvath, housekeeper of the Czech Embassy in the capital.

The action was in apparent reprisal for the recent ousting of two American attaches from the embassy at Prague. However, in announcing the order, the State Department declined to give any explanation except that the two are both "persona non grata."

That means they are personally unacceptable to this government.

'Heat Is On' At Midland High School

The heat was on early Monday in Midland High School—much to the delight of teachers and students.

The frosty weather caused the boilers in the new high school plant to be fired for the first time about 6 a.m. The temperature throughout the huge building was "just right" when the first classes convened, Supt. Frank Monroe said.

Boilers also were going full blast in other Midland schools.

Four Fliers Killed In Mid-Air Collision

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Four fliers from Randolph Air Force Base were killed instantly in a spectacular mid-air collision Monday.

Their charred bodies, burned beyond recognition, were taken from the hulls of two T-6 training planes which crashed to the ground on the J. H. Harper farm, seven miles southeast of Sayers. The scene is near the Atkins-Elmendorf Road and is about 10 miles southeast of Randolph and to the east of Brooks Air Force Base.

Names of the four victims were not available immediately.

Three Dead, One Missing As Plane Smacks Into House

YEOVIL, ENGLAND—(AP)—A new secret British Navy fighter smacked into a pair of connecting houses Monday and exploded. The pilot, a child and a woman were killed.

The blast of the plunging plane demolished one house, killing its occupant, Mrs. W. Brown. Police hunted through the debris for Mrs. Brown's sister, believed missing.

Ann Wilkins, six, was killed as she pedalled her cycle in the street in front of the house.

School Membership Now Totals 4,014

Membership in the Midland public schools Monday totaled 4,014, an increase of 449 over the 3,565 members reported at this time last year, Supt. Frank Monroe announced. The 1949 figure represents a gain of almost 13 per cent.

Each of the city's schools has recorded constant membership increases since September, and school officials expect the trend to continue indefinitely. Most buildings are overcrowded and plans now are being made for the erection of a new elementary school building and a new negro high school.

Temperature Dips Below Freezing

The first freezing temperature of the Winter was recorded for Midland early Monday. The low was 32 degrees.

The 32-degree mark was recorded between 2:28 and 6:15 a.m. Monday at the CAA station of Midland Air Terminal.

SECOND HISS TRIAL SET

NEW YORK—(AP)—Federal Judge William Bondy Monday set November 17 for the start of the second perjury trial of Alger Hiss, one-time high State Department official.

Beefcake Is Lovely, Say Top Subjects In Cheesecake Racket

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—The latest thing on the exploitation front in Hollywood is "beefcake," the exposure of famous male frames. And what do the glamor girls think of it?

This male counterpart of cheesecake has been much in the movie news lately. Bare-chested pictures of Alan Ladd, Richard Conte, Victor Mature, Kirk Douglas, Robert Ryan, Lex Barker and others have been circulated widely to help advertise films.

The question: Are the female stars concerned about the men muscling in on their territory? To determine this I asked a number of actresses how they feel about beefcake. The replies:

Ava Gardner—"It's sensational! Imagine if they showed Montgomery Clift that way! Really, though, I don't think it will replace cheesecake. Women like men's minds."

It's About Time

Joan Crawford—"Why not? I think it's about time men were given the chance to get in on cheesecake."

Eleanor Parker—"I guess it's all right to show a man's chest when the situation in a picture calls for it. But I don't think it will have the appeal of cheesecake."

Jeanne Crain—"Frankly, I think it's what's in a man's mind that makes him attractive."

Pat Neal—"It's lovely."

Virginia Mayo—"I guess it's okay for those men who have builds good enough to expose. But men can't wear falsies."

Walt Disney Turns Down $5,000,000 Television Offer

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Exclusively Yours: Walt Disney just turned down $5,000,000 but he says he doesn't need his head examined.

A television network offered Walt the seven figures for three years' rights to his big library of shorts and features, including hundreds of Mickey Mouse cartoons.

Walt nixed the idea because TV would use up the films too fast and also because of his pet theory that these pictures were made for theaters, not video screens. He told the network he is experimenting with a new TV film technique and would keep them advised of his progress.

Great story behind a new ballad Dinah Shore will introduce titled "Dear Hearts and Gentle People."

The song was written by Dinah's arranger, Ticker Freeman. The title was written 85 years ago by a dying man—Stephen Foster. When Foster was found dead in a New York charity ward, with only 38 cents in his pocket, he had just started to write another song.

But the effort was too great. There was a ruled sheet of music paper beside him on which he had written just the title:

"Dear Hearts and Gentle People."

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Sometime ago I presented the Point-Count System of Bidding in Contract Bridge, as written by Fred L. Karpin, of Washington, D. C. Karpin has just come out with a new book. In some later articles I am going to give you more of Karpin's Point-Count System, but in my articles this week I want to present to you Karpin's responses to an opening bid of two in a suit. Eastern players for some time have been using the ace and king showing responses to the two bid. Karpin has built a whole set of responses around this convention and I recommend that you thoroughly familiarize yourself with this convention.

There are seven different responses:

1. If you have an ace in any suit, bid that suit, regardless of whether the ace is a singleton or the top of a suit of any length.
2. If you have two kings, jump to three no trump.
   (a) With three kings, jump to three no trump, then bid four no trump on your rebid.
3. If you have two aces, jump to four no trump (a force to slam).
4. If you have an ace and two kings, bid the ace first, then jump to four no trump on your rebid (a force to slam).
   (a) If you have an ace-king of one suit, and the king of another, jump in the ace-king suit first, then rebid four no trump (a force to slam).
5. If you have an ace-king in the same suit, make a jump bid in that suit.
   (a) With an ace of one suit, and the king of another suit, bid the ace suit first, then the king suit.
   (b) With the ace of one suit, and the king of a suit bid by opener (the "trump" suit), bid the ace suit first, then jump in the king suit.
6. If you have one ace (and no other aces and no kings), and a rebiddable suit headed by that ace, bid the ace first and then rebid that suit.
7. If you hold none of the above, respond TWO NO TRUMP Opener then will know that you have, at most, one king.
   (a) With one king, first respond two no trump, then bid the king suit on your rebid (if you have an opportunity to do so below the game level).

When East makes a three club response he shows the club ace, and no other aces. West now knows that a slam is in the hand and the only thing to be determined is the suit. That is found out in short order. If West did not know which ace East had he might figure on two club losers.

Worried Truman Needles White House Remodeling Commission To Get Going

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Extreme rickety condition of the White House has everybody worried. Especially President Truman. It's just a shell, with crude supports inside holding up the walls. The special commission charged with its remodeling has been slow in getting repair work started.

It has been admitted that the slightest earth tremor in the D. C. area would bring it crashing down. Even some of the heavy winds this Fall have had engineers scared. Now, the increasing possibility of a heavy snow falling on the roof has become a big worry.

There's not much chance of physical injury to the President if the walls of the old residence collapse. The First Family lives in the Blair House across the street and the President works in a new wing of the White House, apart from the old structure. But if it did come down, it would be extremely difficult to reproduce the old building exactly, as it now is planned. And cost would be much more.

Every chance the President gets, he needles members of the commission to speed up the contract-letting so that work can begin. At the latest, it is now estimated work should start before the first of the year.

Sticking With West

In the first national election held by an Atlantic Pact nation since the signing, the Norwegians expressed overwhelming support of their government's decision to align itself with the West.

Putting On Wings

Military personnel are expected to be doing a lot more flying on commercial airplanes from now on. An agreement has been signed with all the air companies giving servicemen traveling on orders a flat 10 per cent discount. And the services have notified all transportation officers that most of the special prohibitions against commercial flying have been canceled. It is predicted that this will result in military travel becoming 12 per cent of all airline trade.

Feminine Touch

Maine's Senator Margaret Chase Smith has carried her feminity right to the front door of her suite in the Senate Office Building. Every other door to a senator's office has the simple words "walk in" printed on the outside beneath their name. Senator Smith's door, however, has a very pretty picture of the rock-bound coast of Maine fastened to it.

Only precedent for such a decoration on a Senate door was set by the late Senator Overton from Louisiana. When daylight saving time was started in the District of Columbia each year, he would hang out a sign which said that his office was continuing to be run by "God's time."

Stumbling Block

U. S. monetary experts fear a possible trade agreement being set up among Italy, France and Belgium, which will take advantage of the devaluation and end up hurting Britain. Rumors of this happening have increased lately. The plan which has been cooking for some time would be made to look like a further relaxation of all trade barriers, which Americans think desirable. Actually it would tighten European trade channels.

Its details are too complicated for all but the experts to understand. But its effect would be to funnel British goods to Italy and Belgium through France, with the two countries paying less than if they had bought the goods direct from England. And England would have to dig up its scarce gold to get essential items from Italy and Belgium.

Most of the European countries feel a resentment toward Britain for keeping the pound over-evaluated for so many years and would be glad of a chance to get even by one method or another. America's prime interest in the situation is the threat to ECA's aims of the fullest trade activity in Europe.

Break For Veterans

Veterans' Administration is preparing for a great increase in the volume of straight, four per cent GI loans on homes, as soon as the newly-passed law which provides a more flexible secondary market for such loans becomes effective. Up until now the straight VA loan almost has disappeared in favor of the combination FHA-VA loan, which costs the veteran a lot more money.

Unconscious Heroes?

Housecleaning at the Pentagon has turned up the fact that more than 1,000,000 certificates of various awards granting decorations to World War II veterans still remain undelivered and unclaimed.

Gunning For Share

On his recent visit to the U. S. to get a physical checkup and try to interest more American companies in building plants in his country, Dr. M. Egana, Venezuela's minister of development, made it clear that his country resented ECA funds going to improve development of middle east sources of oil. Oil is Venezuela's biggest commodity. And Dr. Egana implied that the ECA help likely would cut into Venezuela's world customers. However, he explained, he feels that the long-run demand for petroleum products is increasing so rapidly, any temporary increase in competition quickly will be balanced.

He also revealed that the first shipment of iron ore from there will arrive in this country very soon. An American firm is digging it, and shipping it for processing here. Dr. Egana sees a bright future for the iron and steel business in his mountainous country.

One Way Of Doing It

Bureau of Internal Revenue has found a way to put a 10 per cent excise tax on many of the new television sets being made—the ones with continuous FM band tuning. A tax act of 1941 put a levy on all radios. Problem was whether or not to call television sets radio sets. However, when manufacturers began putting FM tuning on the TV sets, the bureau ruled that that made them radios, according to the law.

'What Goes Up . . .'

For the first time since 1939 farm land values all over the U. S. have dropped. It only averages one per cent so far. But there are indications that the decrease will continue during the next 12 months. Drop was led by the Western states.

Let's face the fact that Europe is decadent and has been living off American aid and charity since the progressive evolution of Europe came to an end in 1914.

High-Caliber Men Needed

Even economy-minded citizens may applaud Congress for boosting the pay of cabinet members and some 200 other top government executives.

Everyone knows that low salaries long have discouraged many able men from accepting government duty. Presidents from 'way back have bemoaned their inability to attract or keep the talent needed for highly responsible posts.

The action of Congress will make these jobs a more powerful magnet. It seems absurd that positions which are of such paramount importance to the American people should go empty or be filled with mediocre men.

Citizens in almost all walks of life should be ready to enter public service if their productive capacities are needed. This duty probably always will represent a sacrifice in some degree, but it should not be too great a one.

Many who are called upon to serve will not, of course, wish to make a lifetime career of it. They will prefer to be out of the public eye, to be doing something closer to their own personal wishes. No amount of money could prevent their return to private pursuits.

* * *

Thus it seems to us that the effort to improve the caliber of government executives cannot end with hiking their salaries. A way must be found to develop a career service which will produce top-bracket men to form a stable core in government.

It isn't easy to say what we need to assure this objective. Years ago a man bent on a life of public service couldn't find any place to obtain special training. Now numerous colleges offer courses in government administration and policy-making.

But some of those eager to raise the quality of administration think these opportunities aren't enough. Occasionally you hear it suggested that the country ought to have a sort of West Point for government students, a highly specialized, exacting institution that would turn out men acknowledged everywhere as top-level administrators.

* * *

If such a school served to enhance the prestige of government duty, it probably would be well worth establishing. For, in spite of the public attention that normally attaches to government service in executive posts, the prestige value of most of these jobs never has been too high.

Men contemplate with pride the idea of a career in medicine or law. They feel no shame at aspiring to the leadership of a business concern. But not many embrace government service with the notion that they promptly will be hailed as distinguished men of standing in society.

Until government is viewed generally as a prime outlet for men of talent, it is not likely to solve its manpower needs simply through offering higher salaries. It might be argued that money will go a long way toward adding prestige to public jobs. But we are inclined to think that something more is needed, something that will give government administration a stamp of distinction growing out of deep psychological satisfactions.

The Boy Scout idea of doing a good turn well could be copied by a lot of motorists we've seen.

No man can be called lucky until after the last race.

It's Easier To Hook A Ride On Slow-Moving Vehicles

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1949, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Warehouse worker gets tax lien slapped on his salary—mistakenly; Harry Blackmer of Teapot Dome fame lived in luxury abroad; are tax frauds equitably prosecuted?

WASHINGTON — Last week this column told how various big-shot tax-evaders managed to delay or squirm out of criminal tax-fraud prosecution, sometimes because of leniency on the part of politically minded or easygoing U. S. attorneys.

It was pointed out that U. S. attorneys are appointed on the recommendation of senators or congressmen, and sometimes appear to work more for the senators than for the Justice Department.

In contrast to the smooth sailing enjoyed by some big-shot tax-evaders, here is what happened recently to a little fellow who got into a misunderstanding over his taxes. This taxpayer, Francis J. Massey of 220 2nd Street, Washington, a displaced government war worker, found a job after the war as a warehouse worker for Lansburgh and Brothers, a Washington department store.

In 1948 Treasury agents checked Massey's tax returns for the war years and found proper returns had been filed and taxes paid. Then suddenly it was discovered that a Frank J. Massey had received $150 in dividends from stock owned in the Washington Gas Light Co., and the Treasury promptly assessed Francis J. Massey additional taxes.

Tax Lien On $28 Salary

Actually, Francis J. Massey never owned the stock and never received any dividends. It belonged to his father, now deceased, Edward T. Stafford, secretary of the Washington Gas Light Co., certified that Francis J. Massey never owned the stock and never received the dividends owed to his father, but this made no difference to the U. S. Treasury.

It demanded that he pay just the same. Massey's salary was only $28 a week, and he had a wife and two small children to support. But, under protest, he paid in small driblets of $2 a week up to a total of $18.92. This, however, wasn't fast enough for the Treasury and it slapped a tax lien on his salary for the remaining $15.59.

This got him into trouble with his employer who did not want to be suspected of harboring a tax dodger and he was fired.

Thus, unable to get a recommendation from his last employer—except with a tax-dodging record — Massey was unable to find full-time employment. His youngest child became ill, the family doctor had not been paid for past services and would not come when urgently needed. The child died and was buried in potter's field at government expense.

This burial expense probably about equaled the improper tax assessment of $34.51 wrung from Massey. So, in the end, the Treasury Department gained nothing.

Finally the office of Deputy Collector J. Ellis Bowen apologized for the mistake, which they said was made in Baltimore. "We promise it won't happen again," Massey was told. "If you are assessed again, just ignore it."

That's the experience of one little taxpayer who had no money to hire lawyers.

Echoes Of Teapot Dome

On the other hand, here is the experience of a man who had the money to hire lawyers and to live in luxury abroad—one Henry K. Blackmer, multimillionaire oil man who fled to France to escape being questioned in the Teapot Dome scandal.

Some of the others who remained in the United States went to jail for their connection with Teapot Dome and the Continental Trading Company. Albert Fall, secretary of the Interior in the Harding cabinet, served his sentence. Harry Sinclair served time for refusing to answer the question of the Senate committee. But Blackmer ducked for France, later was indicted on six counts for perjury and tax evasion to the tune of about $2,000,000.

Blackmer, then president of the Midwest Refining Company, together with Sinclair and Robert Stewart of Standard Oil, formed the Continental Trading Company which purchased about 7,000,000 barrels of oil for $1.50 a barrel and then sold it to their own companies for $1.75. Sinclair used $230,000 of the profits from this deal to bribe Secretary Fall. Another $180,000 of profits went to the Republican National Committee in the form of liberty bonds, and the committee tried to get high-ranking Republicans to exchange the bonds for cash. Andrew Mellon was sent $50,000 of the bonds, but sent them back, accompanied by a gift of $50,000 in cash.

Blackmer's share of the boodle was found in the form of $750,000 in liberty bonds in a New York strongbox after he fled to France.

The government made various efforts to bring Blackmer home, but the French government refused to extradite him and he remained there, living in the lap of luxury for 25 years, thumbing his nose at the nation which had made him rich and which he had cheated.

Last Summer, Danny Sullivan, former GOP Colorado politician who dug up the income-tax evidence against Blackmer, told friends in Washington:

"Henry Blackmer will never come back to this country while I'm alive."

Tom Walsh's Fight

Sullivan died shortly thereafter, and almost immediately Blackmer's lawyers arranged to bring him back — reportedly with an understanding that he would escape a jail sentence. Now 80 years old, but in excellent spirits and good health, Blackmer flew back on a stratoliner.

Blackmer has powerful friends in the U. S. A., among them GOP Senator Millikin of Colorado, who was a partner in the law firm which originally handled Blackmer's affairs. Millikin, despite a difference in politics, is close to ex-Senator Ed Johnson Colorado Democrat, who recommended the appointment of the U. S. attorney in Denver, Max Bulkeley.

And it was Bulkeley who informed newsmen in Denver that it would be "inhuman" to send Blackmer to jail.

"He has paid his penalty," the U. S. attorney pleaded. "He has made good all the income taxes he evaded and paid heavy penalties and fines. I will not ask that he be sent to jail."

The venerable Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, having spent a good part of his senatorial life unearthing the skulduggery of Henry Blackmer and his cronies, had joined with a Senate committee in describing that skulduggery as:

"The ill-gotten gains of a contemptible private steal, the speculations of trusted officers of great industrial houses, pilfering from their own companies, robbing their own stockholders, the share of the boodle coming to one of the freebooters serving as part of the price of the perfidy of a member of the president's cabinet."

Ecuador's New U. N. Seat

The election of little Ecuador to the U. N. security council was an unprecedented personal tribute to dynamic Galo Plaza, that country's president, who played an outstanding role at the 1945 San Francisco conference which established the world organization.

Plaza, then his government's ambassador to Washington, was not even chief of the Ecuadorian delegation to that historic gathering. Nominally he ranked second to his foreign minister, Camilo Ponce. But in practice the husky six-foot Two-inch former University of California football tackle towered as much above all his Latin American colleagues in influence as he did in stature.

Born in New York City when his father was Ecuador's minister to the United States, Plaza had spent more years here than at home and understood our psychology. Among other things, he knew, when the United Nations conference began, that harassed, hard-working Secretary of State Ed Stettinius was on a very tough spot. "Big Ed" had been accustomed to receiving close guidance from President Roosevelt and had been counting on the same sort of directives for this conclave; but FDR died six days before it opened.

Another delegate who fully appreciated Stettinius' difficult position was Vyacheslav Molotov of the Soviet Union. Stalin's foreign commissar intended to take full advantage of it. Although he had heard from newly inducted President Truman, during a stopover in Washington, that he would not recognize Russia's puppet Polish government, Molotov set out as soon as he reached San Francisco to bully Ed Stettinius into accepting the Lublin group as Poland's accredited representatives.

Molotov Bulldozes

Stettinius was not lacking in moral courage, but he was tremendously weighed down by the responsibility of carrying that conference through to its appointed goal. So, when Molotov, at the first session of the conclave's key steering committee, boldly intimated that the Soviet Union would walk out on the whole show unless the Lublin Poles were invited, Stettinius was badly shaken.

There followed hasty huddles among members of the U. S., British and Czech delegations to consider a possible compromise solution. Britain's Anthony Eden flatly was opposed to making Russia any concessions, but Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia thought it might be best to let the Lublin Poles come to San Francisco.

All this took place during a brief recess of the steering committee. Just before the session resumed, Galo Plaza learned from his good friend, Nelson Rockefeller, then assistant secretary of State, what had happened in the tripartite conversations, and that no final decision had been reached.

As the committee reconvened, Molotov took up where he had left off. His talk was full of aggressive challenges, barbed sarcasm and half-veiled threats. Stettinius sat frowning at his clasped hands, obviously uncertain.

At that point, Galo Plaza scribbled a brief note on a torn scrap of notepaper and had it passed up to Stettinius. The secretary read it, then his eyes quickly sought out the tall Ecuadorian and he grinned.

A few minutes later Stettinius, replying to the Russian's diatribe, clearly reaffirmed the U. S. position of refusal to accept the Lublin regime as representing the entire Polish people, or to invite delegates from that puppet government to attend the San Francisco conference.

His speech set the tone of steady, firm resistance to the Soviet Union's blackmail tactics, which thereafter served as the conclave's keynote.

Ed Stettinius framed the scrap of paper which Galo Plaza of Ecuador sent him that day, and it still hangs on the wall of the former secretary's study, among his most prized souvenirs of public life. The note reads:

"Ed—Let's not have another Munich. GP."

Many a delegate to the United Nations was present at the San Francisco meeting and recalls the quiet statesmanship of the man who is now Ecuador's chief executive. That is why Chile, Cuba and Uruguay, all candidates for the Security Council set which Argentina will vacate in January, willingly renounced their claims, to join with all other Latin American republics plus the United States in sponsoring Galo Plaza's little country for the post.

Note—The man to watch in the Ecuadorian delegation to the present General Assembly is Carlos Tobar Zaldumbide, young under-secretary of foreign relations, who is being groomed for higher things.

MIDLAND AIRMAN IS SERVING IN PACIFIC

Billie E. Smith, airman, USN, 306 North Carrie Street, Midland, is serving as a crew member of the aircraft carrier USS Valley Forge, which is participating in "Operation Miki," a large-scale amphibious in the Pacific.

Some People Seem To Have Troubles Related To Weather

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Many people notice that there are changes in the way they feel when the weather turns stormy and damp, hot and muggy, or clear and cool. A few have pains in their muscles or joints at times and claim that they can tell when a storm is coming. More susceptibility to colds or other infections in bad weather is a common complaint.

Extensive studies have been made on the relation between certain diseases and changes in the weather. Most human infections, particularly those of the breathing system and rheumatic types, seem to be much worse in the periods of heavy storms during Winter and Fall and they are least common in mid-Summer warmth.

In addition to the immediate effect of stormy weather, some differences have been reported between one climate and another so far as several diseases are concerned. This may be connected with the difference in storminess or variations in temperature and barometric pressure between one region and another. Some of those who have studied the question even have gone so far as to say that almost all diseases greatly are affected by these differences.

People with chronic infections of their breathing apparatus or those who unusually are susceptible to acute infections do seem to do better in the southwestern part of the United States, where major storm changes occur far less frequently than in most other parts of the country. The benefit which they can obtain probably is greatest in the Winter and Spring when storm conditions are at their worst in the northern and eastern sections of the country.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS
By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

QUESTION: Would you please discuss cancer of the throat and tuberculosis of the throat?

ANSWER: These are big subjects and both conditions are so comparatively rare that it hardly seems justified to discuss them in a full column.

Not all doctors are agreed on the direct relation of climate or weather to health and infection, but there does seem to be a relation, at least in some people.

Mother Believes Gamblers Shot Son

Police say Allen Thomas Sturges, II, shot himself in the spare bedroom of a private home here October 23. He is in critical condition at a hospital.

Mrs. E. N. Tavenniere, Englewood, N. J., and New York City, said she received the "tip that gamblers had followed Sturges to Houston in a long distance telephone call from Syracuse, N. Y.

The CAMEO

PERCHED on the platform of a tall stepladder, Hagar Blair found her eyes level with the long, narrow window near the ceiling of her storeroom. As she gazed outward, her strong, tanned fingers fumbled with a useless pencil, passing the ruptured point idly across the face of the inventory pad propped on her knees.

She had called for extra pencils, and presumed that Stephanie, her young assistant in the Three Wishes Gift Shop, was getting them. "From Timbuktu, probably," she muttered.

Hagar had been pleased at the prospect of helping a struggling young writer, she had pictured consultations, late coffee and comraderie, but the girl hadn't entered into the spirit of the thing. She never brought her writings to Hagar for advice or criticism, she was downright secretive about her writings.

"Great graven gods! Are you getting those pencils, Stephanie?"

Stephanie glided in, her walk much swifter than usual, her crystal-blue eyes much wider. Her slender hands with their short, pale nails were clasped tightly in front of her—and she carried no pencils!

Hagar promptly started down the stepladder with jerky movements of her bony, slack-clad legs.

Stephanie had put a finger across her lips: "He's out there," she whispered, "the man Nell O'Neill's always with!"

"Who?"

"That Martin Falter!"

* * *

HAGAR frowned. "So what? So it's Martin Falter," she whispered back. "He's been in here before — you've seen him before. Don't tell me you've fallen for that fur-trimmed old renegade!"

She brushed past Stephanie and went out to confront the visitor. She rammed her fists into her pockets as she advanced to where Falter stood, his head bent over the cabinet containing her collection of cameos.

They faced each other in the manner that had become typical of their encounters—wordless, and with the uncompromising calculation of a pair of unacquainted dogs.

Hagar stood, inwardly raging, while Falter's narrowed eyes swept over her figure. Helplessly, she sensed what he was totting up: Thin body, lean chest—made even leaner by her black, pullover jersey—shapeless hips in shapeless black slacks, and the whole composition topped by her uncontrollable gray hair.

"Well, all right!" she burst out. "So I look like an up-ended floor mop! What do you want?"

Her eyes fastened disdainfully on the black, curling hair revealed by his open collar. The man was so perdition vain about his virility that he wouldn't even button his clothes against the wind! Grudgingly, her sculptor's eye went over his wide shoulders, flat stomach and slim hips. Not bad for his age—he must be 46 or so.

He gave her what he probably thought of as a charming smile: "You'll be more cordial, Hagar, when I tell you why I've come."

* * *

HE turned and let his glance range through the cameo cabinet: "Nice collection. From what I hear in the breeze, though, there is much more of it, much rarer items. Right?"

"Miss Blair has cameos from all over the world."

Hagar and Falter glanced at Stephanie who suddenly had arrived beside them. Hagar appeared annoyed; Falter, detached and contemplative.

"This one," the girl continued, pointing out a carnelian, "came from Florence. It has an unusual double engraving. If you'll look closely—"

Hagar picked up the box and opened it. "Hey!" she couldn't control her amazement. "Where did you get hold of this?"

Hagar jerked, making a kind of empty grab in Stephanie's direction: "Oh, pot! Stop with that summertime spiel, girl. Falter's not interested in cameos!"

Falter grinned and in a leisurely way took a cigaret from a pigskin case and lighted it. He reached into his jacket pocket and brought out a silver box about four inches across its gently mounded top. With an elaborate gesture, he placed it on the glass surface of the cabinet and stepped to one side.

Hagar strode over picked it up and opened it:

"Hey!" She couldn't control her amazement and delight. "Great lords of creation, man! Where did you get hold of this?"

Martin Falter picked a small shred of tobacco from the end of his tongue:

"I thought it would give you a jolt. Even the great unwashed like me have heard of the extent of your collection. But I still say you don't own anything to compare with this."

* * *

HAGAR angrily faced his triumphant smirk: "I still want to know where you got this. Steal it?"

She watched Falter's grin fade while his pale eyes turned the gray metallic color of a dead fish.

"I can forgive that remark," he told her, "because I realize it would be entirely possible for you to steal—if the loot were a rare cameo like this. But, sorry to disappoint you, I came by the pin honestly. For, well, let's say: services rendered."

There was a shattering crash as something hit the tile floor. Hagar spun around and saw Stephanie staring down at a few bright-colored fragments that once had been a della Robbia vase. One of the girl's hands was poised in mid-air over the silver box on the cabinet.

Hagar clasped her hands prayerfully and looked up at the ceiling, then turned an exasperated face to Stephanie:

"You realize, my girl, what that thing cost us?"

Stephanie bent miserably to gather the pieces: "I was dusting it — I don't know — it fell," she murmured. "I'll pay for it, Hagar. I'm sorry."

Hagar flapped both hands from the wrists: "Oh, don't look so woebegone! We'll work it out later."

She turned back to Falter: "Now, listen: You probably know how much this cameo is worth. I don't doubt that you had it valued before you came loping in here with it. Also, I suppose you're going to quote me some astronomical price just because I'm a collector."

He shrugged and hitched one knee over the edge of a counter: "You should be grateful that I'm giving you first chance at it. As a matter of fact, my dear Hagar, I'm beginning to wonder if you realize what this little item is. Maybe you don't know its history."

Falter lifted the pin from its box and displayed it in the palm of one hand.

Hagar's chocolate-colored eyes avidly registered each detail: the gentle rose-red glow of the carnelian with the exquisite carving of the weeping woman; the limned gold frame outlining the stone, set with small diamonds and extending at the outer edges into crown-like points which were topped with tiny pearls.

"Well," began Falter, "originally, this pin was designed for Isabella d'Este by an Italian craftsman. Then, it was supposed to have fallen into the possession of Lucrezia Borgia during all that inter-family political and amorous intrigue which was taking place at that time."

Hagar shook her head in impatient denial: "You're giving the wrong spiel. It stayed in the possession of the d'Este family for almost a century. I don't know why people get so almighty fascinated with the Borgias that they have to ring them in on any and every thing that took place in the 15th century. If Lucrezia Borgia actually owned every work of art and jewel that legend gives her, she'd have had to rope off the whole city of Rome to corral the stuff."

Girl Scout Program Backed By Permian Basin Area Council

Girl Scouts and Brownies, many of them in the uniforms of the organization, were in the congregations of all Midland churches Sunday morning as the observance of National Girl Scout Week started with the customary attendance at churches of individual choice.

Troops will have their own programs at regular meetings this week, and other city-wide events will be the father-daughter box suppers Wednesday night at the schools, a clothing drive in cooperation with the Children's Service League on the weekend, and cookouts or other outdoor activities for the troops Saturday.

Monday has been designated as Arts and Crafts Day and Tuesday as National Friendship Day for the Girl Scouts.

Almost 800 girls are enrolled this year in the Girl Scout troops of Midland and approximately 150 adults work with them as leaders, troop committee members, officers and chairmen in the Midland Girl Scout Association.

Camp Is Maintained

In addition to local leaders, the work is assisted by an area organization. Midland is one of the cities affiliated in the Permian Basin Area, which maintains an established camp as well as supplying leadership for training and planning in all its member cities.

Mrs. J. E. Starley of Pecos is executive director and Mrs. I. A. Searles of Midland is field director of the area. Oscar Maples of Kermit is area council president. C. E. Bissell and the Rev. R. J. Snell are members from Midland of the executive board, and Mrs. Bissell is chairman of the area steering committee.

Mrs. J. J. Black of Midland has been area camp chairman, and was director last Summer of the first regular session in the established camp at Fern Canyon between Alpine and Fort Davis in the Davis Mountains.

Improvement Planned

Operation of the Camp for a full Summer season was the realization of one of the main goals of the area organization. Purchase of the site and erection and equipment of the buildings called for much effort in Girl Scout associations over the area.

Improvements to the camp are planned before next Summer. A camp maintenance committee was elected recently by the council, with J. J. Black, Snell and I. A. Searles of Midland and George Ramer of McCamey as members. Black has drawn plans for added buildings needed for the future.

Standing committee chairmen who were elected at the latest area council meeting are Mrs. Steve Neeley of Kermit, program; Mary Ethel Dunn of Fort Stockton, public relations; Mrs. L. A. Teplicek of Alpine, camp; Mrs. Carl Doris of McCamey, day camp; Mrs. M. C. Puckett of Fort Stockton, training; "Dusty" Rhoades of Odessa, finance; Mrs. George Ramer of McCamey, nominating, and Mrs. Black of Midland, office and staff.

Ranchland Hill Costume Dance Is Gay Pre-Hallowe'en Event

Harem girls, Spanish dancers and minstrel men mingled in the costumed crowd at the Hallowe'en masquerade dance which entertained members of the Ranchland Hill Country Club Saturday night. The ballroom and terrace room were filled with dancers.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Flournoy took the prize as the best-dressed couple, she in a red-ruffled black satin dress as a Spanish dancer and he as the caballero with red sash, moustache and sideburns.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Puckett, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bill Pierce, costumed as a sultan and his harem, attracted the most attention. Mrs. Puckett's harem girl costume won her the prize for the prettiest costume, and Pierce, as another of the harem ladies, was judged the funniest.

Mrs. Pierce was garbed as the sultan, with a turban, painted moustache and pointed-toed shoes. Mr. and Mrs. Puckett and Pierce made up her harem, the men wearing mop-like blonde wigs with some of the "hair" rolled on curlers, and all with colorful jackets and gauzy bloused pantaloons.

Other dancers wore Japanese, Chinese, Dutch or Western outfits, and there was one flapper dress of the 1920 era which was especially attractive.

Adding color and music, a large group from the cast of "Up 'n' Atom," Kiwanis Club-Community Theater minstrel, appeared after the show in their minstrel attire and sang some of the minstrel songs.

Open House Is Farewell For Jack Joneses

Calling informally during two hours Sunday afternoon, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones wished them good luck in their new home in Houston, where they will move about November 12, at an open house in the Ernest Neill home. Mr. and Mrs. Neill and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Monroe were hosts.

Mrs. Vernon Yearby poured coffee for early callers, and Mrs. Clint Dunagan took her place at the table during the second hour. A fan-shaped arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums centered the table, and a similar floral piece, but larger, was on the buffet. Refreshments repeated the white and gold color note. Mrs. T. S. Henderson assisted in serving.

A cornucopia of the yellow mums was on the piano in the living room, and yellow roses on a table near the door. Women in the house party wore corsages of the mums, and Mrs. Jones was presented a giant bronze mum for her corsage.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hazlip, Mr. and Mrs. Duke Jimerson, Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Martin, Mr. and Mrs. George Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Patterson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Scharbauer.

Youth Center Has Masquerade Party

Among the costumes were cowboys and Indians, spooks, ghosts and other such apparations and almost anything else that could come into a teen-agers mind.

Black and orange crepe paper decorated the center, as did jack-o-lanterns, which hung from black ribbons all around the snack bar.

Mrs. Ray Gwyn, Youth Center director, was in charge and was assisted in chaperoning by a number of parents.

Three Federated Clubs Lead Women's Activity In Andrews

By MRS. PERCY E. MORRISON

ANDREWS—Much civic interest has been shown the last three years in Andrews, as displayed by its growing organizations including the three Federated Women's Clubs. Approximately 70 Andrews County women are using these clubs for furthering their education on local problems as well as state and national affairs.

The three study clubs are members of District Eight, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, and six of their members serve on the district board. They are Mrs. Max Goldsmith, chairman of consumer relations; Mrs. Augusta Manning, chairman of the committee on immigration trends; Mrs. Carl Ham, vocational guidance chairman; Mrs. Sam M. Gant, chairman of the committee on public schools; Mrs. Hobsbn O. Smith, Penny Art chairman; and Mrs. Jake Roach, a standing committee member.

Organized In 1946

The Andrews Study Club, organized in 1946, has chosen Russia for its 1949-50 study subject, a course with the secondary title, "To Know Is To Understand." Films and lectures will supplement reports by club members in the study.

Mrs. B. F. Seay is president of this group, which from September through May is tracing the development of Russia from its early history to the rise of the communistic state. Education, religion, art, music, the dance, authors and expansion through the Far East will be discussed as well as the relations between the United States and Russia and the existence of communism in Texas and other parts of the United States.

Andrews' second study club was organized in the Summer of 1948 and is known as the Tuesday Study Club. Its president this year is Mrs. Woody Walker. The theme for study is "The American Way of Life."

Club Is Year Old

American problems including social problems, the divorce rate, racial differences, women's place in world affairs and in the arts, and Latin-American relations will be discussed pro and con.

A broad program entitled "Education for Our Time" is in progress for the third club, the Progressive Study Club, which was organized in the Fall of 1948 and has as its president Mrs. Roach. Forming the backbone of the year's study are topics of democracy, American legends, traditions and history, and American inventions.

Mingled with these are programs concerning interesting people as different as W. C. Fields and Carrie Nation, hobbies, music, book reviews, family living and American commercial and industrial developments.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And The Biter Bit

Today's story is about a very little monkey girl who lives in the Great Forest. I won't tell you her name, because her parents might be ashamed of the something she used to do.

She had a very bad habit. She was barely large enough to crawl around in the forest on her hands and knees. But she would crawl up very quietly to where a bigger monkey boy or girl was standing, maybe by a tree. Then she would take a bite of the end of his tail, which would be the first that anyone knew she was anywhere around.

You can imagine what happened. The somebody who had the bitten tail would jump straight in the air and cry "EEOW!" The bite had hurt, you know. But the little girl who did the biting would laugh and laugh, because she didn't know any better than to think that what she had done was funny.

"We want to do something about it," the parents said to Daddy Ringtail one day, "but we don't know what to do."

"We've even though about biting her when she does it," one of the parents said, "to show her how much it hurts to be bitten."

"Oh no," Daddy Ringtail said. "I would never do that . . . not if we can find something else to do."

Daddy Ringtail thought and thought about it, but before he could think of something to do, a certain something happened. Oh, it was terrible, in a way, but in another way it was funny. You can decide about whether it was funnier than it was terrible.

Here's what happened: the little girl was crawling around a tree. She looked on the ground in front of her. There was the end of a monkey tail, waiting to be bitten. She couldn't see whose tail it was, because of the tree, but she didn't care, she thought. She snatched at the end of the tail and bit it hard.

"EEOW!" the little girl said, because she had bitten herself, and she jumped in the air just as everyone else had done when the same thing had happened to them. Well, that stopped her from biting tails, and that is why I call this story "The Biter Bit." It always makes a good story when someone gets caught in his own mischief. Happy day!

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES —BY EDGAR MARTIN

WHY does the costly steel strike continue?

The costly and unnecessary steel strike is now in its fourth week. The country at large is beginning to feel its disastrous effects. Employees and employers have already suffered serious financial losses. The situation will grow worse if the strike continues.

This strike was ordered by Philip Murray, President of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO). He and his Union must accept full responsibility for the strike and its damaging consequences. United States Steel did not want a strike and tried hard to prevent it.

More than three weeks have elapsed, and no proposal of any kind has been made to us by the Union for a settlement of the strike. On the contrary, the Union stubbornly adheres to its original ultimatum that we must agree in advance to pay the entire cost of insurance and pensions for our employees. That is the only issue. Unconditional surrender by us to this ultimatum is the price which the Union demands to call off its strike.

In an endeavor to negotiate with the Union a sound and fair program of insurance and pensions, United States Steel offered to pay up to 10¢ an hour per employee (more than $50,000,000 a year) toward the cost of insurance and pension benefits, the employees to make some additional contribution. This 10¢ was the amount which the Presidential Fact-Finding Board recommended we should pay. Our offer was flatly refused by the Union. It insists that we must pay the entire cost of such insurance and pensions.

The insurance program proposed by United States Steel would provide greater welfare benefits for our employees at less cost than our average employee is today paying under existing insurance and welfare plans. Therefore, our proposed insurance program will not reduce his take-home pay.

We have had long experience with an employee-pay-nothing (non-contributory) pension plan. We found it necessary to adopt a contributory pension plan ten years ago. More than 60,000 of our employees today participate in this contributory plan.

Contributory Social Security Has These Advantages:

1. Larger insurance benefits and pensions are provided

When the employee and the company both contribute, the larger contributions permit better social security benefits.

2. A contributory plan is safer

Company pay-all plans are uncertain. There may some day be no money or no company. Employees suffer, if the plan fails.

Furthermore, the contributing employee has a direct interest in the success of the plan. He will then strive to keep the plan financially sound and within proper bounds.

3. Contributory plans provide savings for employees

The employees' contributions go into a fund, along with the company's contribution. In effect, it is a savings account for the employee's own welfare. Under the usual contributory pension plan, if the employee dies before retirement, his family gets his pension contributions with interest. If he quits, he gets them back, with interest.

Under a contributory plan, an employee always has something saved up for his protection. Putting aside savings is not a wage reduction.

4. Today's work provides tomorrow's welfare benefits

Under a contributory plan both the company and the employee lay aside something for the employee's future welfare and security. It is not the American way to ask for hand-outs or something for nothing.

5. A contributory plan is a voluntary plan

A contributory plan ordinarily gives the employee a choice. He can take it, or leave it. The inducement to join the contributory plan is two-fold. The employee is paying some of his own money for his protection and for his old age, and, if he is willing to do that, the company will more than match all he puts up in order to give him greater benefits.

Many People Know . . .

- That Federal Social Security is contributory.
- That the U. S. Government and most States have contributory pension plans.
- That many cities (including New York City) have contributory pension plans.
- That railroad pensions are contributory.
- That the majority of plans in American business are contributory.

But Few People Realize . . .

- That many of our employees tell us in letters that they want to contribute to a sound insurance and pension plan.
- That Philip Murray approved contributions by employees when he advised the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives in Washingon on April 12, 1949:

> "As to financing, our members have been willing to pay their due share of the cost of social insurance."

- That the House Ways and Means Committee in August, 1949 reported to Congress:

> "The time has come to reaffirm the basic principle that a contributory system of social insurance in which workers share directly in meeting the cost of the protection afforded is the most satisfactory way of preventing dependency."

- That our employees have already lost more pay in this strike than their contributions toward a contributory insurance and pension fund would total in a whole year.
- That this is not a popular strike with many of our employees.
- That the real explanation of the steel strike is rivalry between labor union leaders — a desire by one labor union monopolist to outdo another.

Union politics are not a just or sufficient cause for the present steel strike — costly to the public, the employees, and the steel companies alike.

OUR POSITION: United States Steel favors a proper and financially sound program of insurance and pensions for its employees. We welcome an opportunity to negotiate a program of this character with the Union. As evidence of our sincerity, we have made an offer to the Union to pay more than $50,000,000 a year as our share of the cost.

UNITED STATES STEEL

'No Wonder They Win,' Says Woodruff Of Amazing Bruins

WACO—(AP)—Bob Woodruff says his Baylor team has done much better than he expected before the season started but he's not surprised.

"If you know the kind of boys I have playing on this team you wouldn't wonder that they're undefeated and untied today," Woodruff declared as he looked back over the crashing 40-14 victory Saturday over Texas Christian.

"Mainly, we have great leadership. And then there's the finest group of assistants a coach ever had. We intercepted nine passes Saturday. We did it against the nation's No. 1 passer—Lindy Berry. Chuck Stone, my guard who ought to be named lineman of the week, rushed Berry so hard he couldn't get them off right. My halfbacks and linebackers gobbled them up I don't believe any college team ever intercepted nine passes before playing against such a passer as Berry. And you know, nine pass interceptions is equal to gaining about 400 yards. My scouts and my assistants were responsible for the great pass defense we threw at TCU."

He praised the leadership of Captain Don Mouser and the fighting qualities of his team. "Take J. D. Ison," Woodruff said. "He got knocked out and when I sent in a sub he wouldn't come out. He just waved him away. TCU had pounded Ison; boy did they work him over! But you know, that guy got up and caught another pass."

Woodruff lauded his quarterback, Adrian Burk, whose passing shot down Texas Christian. "He's one of the finest ball-handlers in the business and a great quarterback."

Exhibition Match Featuring Bauer Sisters Postponed; Reslated Tuesday Afternoon

The golf exhibition between Marlene and Alice Bauer and Mrs. Essie Stafford and Mrs. Sybil Flournoy scheduled at Midland Country Club Sunday was postponed due to bad weather.

• • •

The exhibition will be played at 2 p.m. Tuesday with the same foursome participating.

• • •

• • •

The match went four holes Sunday as a try was made to stage it as scheduled. A strong wind and cold got the upper hand, causing the postponement.

• • •

The exhibition will be open to the general public and no admission will be charged.

Gridiron Mighties Engage In Modern Scoring Marathon

NEW YORK—(AP)—It's no longer sufficient to say those gridiron gargantuas—Notre Dame, Army and Oklahoma—won again. The pertinent point is: By how much?

As if jealously watching the scoreboard in their drive for national honors, these three top-ranking elevens are gorging themselves on touchdowns and pushing the modern record for scoring.

Army's Black Knights of the Hudson, second to Notre Dame in the current standings, are setting the point-production pace among the leaders with a total of 267 in six games, an average of 44 1/2 per Saturday.

The Fighting Irish have registered 197 in five games, an average of 39 plus, while the third-ranked Sooners have 229 in six games, a bit over 38 for each afternoon's sport.

All three of the titans won games Saturday by robust margins. Notre Dame crushed Navy 40-0 at Baltimore. Army overwhelmed Virginia Military 40-14. Oklahoma smashed Iowa State 34-7.

11 Perfect Records

These were the other developments of the last October weekend:

1. Pennsylvania, ninth ranked nationally, was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks by Pittsburgh, which scored a last minute safety to prevail 22-21.

2. Perfect records were maintained by 11 other major teams—Notre Dame, Army, Oklahoma, California, Cornell, Baylor, Boston U., Virginia, Fordham, Wyoming and College of the Pacific.

3. Bowl hopes rocketed for California, Baylor, Pitt and Boston University.

4. Bowl hopes were shattered for North Carolina, Minnesota and UCLA.

5. Fordham, once an Eastern giant, came back to the big leagues with a 42-0 triumph over Georgetown.

California's Golden Bears just about clinched the Pacific Coast championship and the Rose Bowl bid by humbling UCLA 35-21.

Baylor Eyes Cotton Bowl

Oft-whipped Purdue rose up to smite seventh-ranked Minnesota 13-7, and Michigan, No. 6, tripped Illinois, the Big Ten Conference leader, 13-0.

That put Ohio State and Iowa in the middle of the Rose Bowl picture. Ohio State vanquished Northwestern 24-7, and Iowa won an intersectional fray from Oregon 34-31.

Baylor, a dark horse that just keeps on winning, became a stout bidder for the Cotton Bowl spot by overwhelming Texas Christian 40-14 for its sixth straight victory. The Bears, however, must yet dispose of Southern Methodist, Texas and Rice. Rice, No. 5 in the ratings, won over Texas Tech 28-0.

Tennessee's once-beaten and once-tied Vols, another oldtime gridiron great making a postwar comeback, throttled North Carolina's great Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice and handed the Tarheels their second straight setback, 35-6.

Cornell's eighth-ranked Big Red won its sixth in a row, rolling over Columbia 54-0. Harry Agganis fired four touchdown passes as Boston U. lashed Scranton 46-6. Wyoming sailed past Brigham Young 45-0.

College of the Pacific, the other unbeaten-untied major eleven, subdued San Jose State 45-7 Friday and now has a staggering total of 322 points for seven games.

Brownwood Back Gets Nod As Top Schoolboy Of Week

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Don Low, versatile Brownwood back, gets the nod as the outstanding high school player on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's "honor roll,"round-up this week.

Low, a 160-pound senior, threw three touchdown passes, passed and ran for 318 of the 420 yards gained by Brownwood, and scored another touchdown on a plunge through the line as the Lions played a 33-33 upset tie with San Angelo Friday.

Charles Thompson, Sweetwater's 6-2, 230-pound tackle, made several outstanding stops and played a good offensive game as his team bowed to Abilene 12-27.

Bill Galusha, Abilene back, accounted for most of the Eagles' yardage and booted three out of four extra points.

Eddie Hodges, Abilene tackle, recovered two Sweetwater fumbles for the Eagles and was a key factor in spoiling the Mustangs' usually potent passing attack.

E. G. Sanders, 130-pound Amarillo scat back, crossed the goal line after runs of eight, seven, and 61 yards as the Sandies defeated Ysleta 26-6.

Wayne Stroud, Lubbock back, plunged two yards for one touchdown, ran 98 yards for another and intercepted two passes to set up two more tallies as the Westerners rolled past Lamesa 41-14.

The defeat of league-leading Kermit by the Monahans Lobos Saturday night was something of an upset but didn't come unexpected in all circles.

It leaves District 5-A in somewhat of an unexpected situation, however, with the Wink Wildcats on top.

Kermit and Andrews, which had a week off, are tied for second. Just about every other team in the conference is out of the title race.

• • •

The one remaining big game in the conference will send Wink against Kermit.

If Kermit wins and Andrews goes on through without another defeat, the thing will end in a tie.

If Wink wins, it'll be the Wildcats to represent 5-A in the state race.

—SS—

Shifting to the other end of things and to District 3-AA, the Midland Bulldogs this week get their chance to shove Brownfield into the cellar.

The game is scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday in Brownfield.

It'll be the last out-of-town clash for Midland. Big Spring, Lubbock and Lamesa will visit Memorial Stadium on consecutive weeks following the Brownfield game.

Rocky Ford, moving and storage czar here, informs us J. W. Stone wasn't the only guy to kill an elk on that Colorado hunting trip.

Rocky says he, Mr. Rudd and Mr. Ervin all bagged one.

He added, however, "Stone killed the biggest one."

—SS—

We are informed by a reliable source that McMurry's great Brad Rowland was on his way to Baylor when he graduated from high school.

But after a high-powered talk with Rowland's mother, the McMurry coach succeeded in getting her to send Brad to the Methodist school.

Hardin College leads the Gulf Coast Conference this week and it looks like only Trinity has chance to go ahead.

Hardin blasted the University of Houston 33 to 21 Saturday to remove one of the top contenders.

In other college conferences, McMurry leads the Texas loop; Sul Ross and Adams State of Alamosa, Colo., are in a virtual tie for the New Mexico Conference lead and East Texas is out front in the Lone Star Conference.

Bulldogs Prep For Brownfield Clash

The Midland Bulldogs Monday opened training for the Friday night District 3-AA clash with the Brownfield Cubs. The tilt is scheduled for Cub Field in Brownfield.

Coach Tugboat Jones Monday indicated drills will include all phases of offense during the week. Defense will be worked on each day but will not receive as much attention as the offensive side.

For the first time this season, Midland will go into a game rated the favorite.

However, scouts report Brownfield is a potential club and may give out more trouble than is expected. The Cubs have lost every game this season and will be pointing to Midland with everything they have come Friday night.

No Injuries Reported

The Bulldogs came through the Odessa game with only minor injuries and are expected to be at full strength for their second conference encounter.

The only major change in the lineup lies in the possibility Ralph Brooks may see more action. His passing against Odessa was great and definitely gives Midland more scoring punch.

The 'B' Bulldogs are scheduled against the Lamesa 'B' Tornadoes in Lamesa Saturday.

Coach Joe Akins sends his 'C' Bulldogs against Hutchinson of Lubbock there Thursday.

In Junior High tilts, the Eighth Grade Bullpups meet San Angelo's Juniors here Thursday and the Sixth Grade Pups play Crane here Saturday.

Texas Game To Be Real Strength Test For Baylor Bruins

By The Associated Press

Just how good is Baylor?

You'll get the answer to this question this week. It may go a long way toward deciding the Southwest Conference championship.

The undefeated, untied Bears meet Texas, a team that is able enough to burst the Baylor bubble or give a true indication of just how good the Bears really are.

Texas Christian University was supposed to furnish a clue last week. But the Horned Frogs went down 14-40 in a one-sided game that only accented the brilliance of Adrian Burk as a passer and a quarterback.

Texas lost to Southern Methodist 7-6 and bowed out of the title chase. The victory kept Southern Methodist in the running, in company with Rice and Baylor.

Rice took Texas Tech 28-0 in a non-conference game that gave some of Jess Neely's crippled veterans a much needed rest.

Arkansas whipped Texas A&M 27-6, and that was what it was expected to do.

This week, Rice meets Arkansas and Southern Methodist takes on Texas A&M. TCU is idle.

Texas is the first of three rugged conference clubs the Bears still have to meet. Southern Methodist and Rice are the others.

SLEIGHT-OF-HAND MAN COULD HELP

White, however, has ideas other than football for a vocation. Aiding his thinking is the fact he's five feet, four inches tall and weighs 150 pounds.

SIXTH TO WIN

BROOKLYN —(AP)— Jackie Robinson, who captured the 1949 National League batting championship with a .342 mark, is the sixth Dodger to take top honors since 1900. Other Brooklyn batting champions were Jake Daubert (1913— .350 and 1914 — .329) Zack Wheat (1918 — .335), Frank (Lefty) O'Doul (1932—.368), Pete Reiser (1941 — .343) and Fred (Dixie) Walker, who hit .357 in 1944.

George Glass, Jr., Leads Midland Shooters To Win

ODESSA—George Glass, Jr., representing Midland and New Mexico Military Institute where he is a student, dominated the West Texas Skeet Shooting Association's championship shoot here Saturday and Sunday.

Young Glass, former national junior champ and present Texas junior champion had a field day. He won the sub-small event with 46 out of 50; won the junior division with 194 out of 200; won Class AA in the all-bore with 194; was a member of the Midland two-man and five-man teams, both of which won; took runnerup in the high overall with 382 out of 400 and beat his father, George Glass, Sr., in a shoot-off for runnerup in the 20-gauge event.

Teaming with George Glass, Jr., to win the two-man team event for Midland was the veteran Jim Mascho, well-known skeet shooter. They fired a 390 score. D. W. Conway and Jim Calder, the Clint team, won runnerup honors.

The Midland five-man team, including George Glass, Jr., George Glass, Sr., Mascho, Ish McKnight and Jim Bertrand compiled a 958 score for top honors. The Odessa team was second.

Jim Mascho had to beat All-America D. W. Conway in a shoot-off to annex the all-bore championship but he was equal to the task. After tying Conway with a 196, Mascho broke 99 out of 100 to win the event.

Jim Bertrand of Midland won runnerup in Class B with a 187 score, finishing behind Pye Williamson of Morton.

D. W. Conway won the 28-gauge event with 49 out of 50. He fired his best in the 20-gauge, however, breaking 100 straight to win.

Women's Winner

Mrs. L. S. Amburgey annexed the ladies division title with a score of 185.

Sub-junior honors went to Bobby Caudle of Odessa. He shot a 172.

Conway was the high overall winner with a 390.

Places in the lower classes were won mostly by Odessa and Clint shooters.

Coal Miner Starts Pilgrimage Afoot To Pacific Islands

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—(AP)—With a wreath on his back and his faith in the Lord, a coal miner left here Monday afoot on a pilgrimage to Guadalcanal, where his sailor son met death seven years ago.

The 54-year-old miner, David Wallen of Woodbine, Ky., plans to walk to San Francisco, carrying the green-enameled, aluminum wreath on his back.

Wallen said he will cast the wreath on the ocean at Guadalcanal in tribute to his son, Pershing, 24, and the other valiant seamen who went down with the USS Juneau in November, 1942.

How will he cross the Pacific?

"I'll get there if it's the Lord's will," said Wallen. "I am not an educated man. I'm just going by faith. I'm placing my trust in the Lord."

He and Mrs. Wallen have two other sons. One of them, Albert, is in the Navy, stationed at Corpus Christi, Texas.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN HIGHWAY COLLISION

ABILENE —(AP)— Four persons were injured Sunday in a head-on automobile collision here. Mrs. W. H. Martin, 44, of Cross Plains and Mrs. S. P. Jones, 62, Big Spring, were hurt seriously.

Their husbands received minor injuries.

Philippines Widow Goes To Trial For Husband's Slaying

MANILA —(AP)— Trial of pretty Mrs. Ester Del Rosario Murray, 32, on a charge of slaying her American husband opened Monday.

The husband, George C. Murray, 27, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., was shot to death as he slept in his home the night of August 13. He had been out earlier with Film Actress Carol Varga.

The prosecution charged Mrs. Murray, mother of four children by a previous marriage, killed Murray in a fit of jealousy. She entered a plea of innocent.

Murray was a U. S. Army counter intelligence agent during the war. After the war he became an arms and war surplus dealer here.

His father, Jerry Murray of Kansas City, has opposed an attempt by the widow's attorney to have her named administrator of the American's estate, estimated at $200,000.

Downing To Address Texas Western Exes

Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, will address ex-students of Texas Western College at their annual homecoming banquet Friday night in El Paso.

Thad Steele of El Paso, formerly of Midland, is president of the exes association. He said that since a large number of ex-Miners now are residing and working in the Permian Basin area, directors of the association thought it would be appropriate to have a featured speaker from this section. Downing was chosen for the assignment.

Many ex-Miners from Midland and other area cities are expected to attend the homecoming festivities.

McMurry Halfback Stretches Lead In Grid Scoring Race

NEW YORK—(AP)—Some of the bigger schools could well use Brad Rowland, halfback for McMurry College of Abilene, Texas, who held a big lead Monday as top individual scorer of the country's college football teams.

Rowland has rolled up a total of 96 points in seven games, clicking for 16 touchdowns. That gives him a lead of 16 points over Bill Young, who has chalked up 11 TD's and 14 conversions for unbeaten, untied Hillsdale (Mich) in six starts.

A week ago, Rowland led Young by only four points, 78 to 74.

The leading scorers by sections included Randall Clay of Texas, who has scored seven touchdowns and 19 extra points for a total of 61.

Community Theater Starting Campaign For 1950 Members

The annual membership campaign in the Midland Community Theater is starting this week, after preliminary enrollment of former members and persons who signed membership applications at intermissions of the minstrel show produced by the theater and the Kiwanis Club last week.

Mrs. I. A. Searles, membership chairman, is in charge, and has announced the theater will continue its custom of admitting the early 1950 members to the final 1949 play as a bonus.

Members will vote at this last production of the year on their favorite of the 1949 shows, the outstanding performances of the year, and their preferences for 1950 productions. Members also have votes for 1950 officers, who will be elected at the annual business meeting in January.

The current year will close with the staging on December 8-10 of "The Winslow Boy," by Terence Rattigan.

Six Productions

Six productions are planned for 1950. Members are given first opportunity to reserve seats for these productions, and a membership entitles the holder to a specified number of tickets which may be used through the entire season or, if the member wishes, to take a large party to one play.

Another advantage offered to members is enrollment of children in the Children's Theater. One of the public productions of the Children's Theater is scheduled for December, when "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented.

All 20 cars damaged, five of them total losses, their owners claim.

Two persons injured, neither seriously.

Increased Domestic Cotton Consumption Is Lone Bright Spot

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Looking over the cotton picture, government economists find one bright spot — an expected upswing in domestic cotton consumption.

But offsetting this, say the experts, is a probable decrease in exports.

So, the Department of Agriculture economists said in a month end review of crop demand and prices:

"Total disappearance of raw cotton in 1949-50 is expected to be about the same as last season, when domestic mill consumption and exports totaled 12,500,000 bales."

Domestic consumption, they said, probably will be around 8,000,000 bales, slightly higher than last year; exports around 4,500,000 slightly down from last year.

Pointing to a general improvement in the cotton textile situation in recent months, the experts said:

"New orders to manufacturers of cotton textiles have been increasing in volume. Many mills already are booked well into the first quarter of 1950 while forward commitments of nearly all mills have been pushed further ahead than at any time during 1949."

Devaluation Effects

All this, they said, reflects largely the replenishment of inventories by wholesale and retail outlets."

On the other hand, said the report, the recent devaluation of currencies abroad may have some adverse effect on domestic mill consumption. With devaluation, U. S. cotton textiles lost much of the price advantage they had in the international cotton textile market.

Therefore "there may be some increases in U. S. imports of cotton textiles as a result of devaluation and lower tariffs."

As to exports, the experts said U. S. exports of raw cotton the coming year probably will be as dependent on ECA funds as in the last year when 60 per cent of the total exports of 4,743,000 bales were ECA financed. Various factors, including a lower ECA appropriation and increased foreign cotton production, add up to the expected drop in exports, said the report.

Domestic Supply Picture

An estimated crop on October 1 of 15,176,000 running bales, an August 1 carryover of 5,287,000 bales and imports of 200,000 bales add up to a total supply of about 20,700,000 bales. Thus if domestic consumption and exports are as expected—12,500,000 bales—stocks on hand at the end of the season would be around 8,200,000 bales.

The report noted that the secretary of agriculture, under a new cotton law, has proclaimed marketing quotas for 1950 on the basis of a national quota of 11,733,750 bales on a national acreage allotment of 21,000,000 acres.

11-Year-Old Girl Accidently Shot To Death At Ranch

ODESSA—Funeral services for Thelma Jean Chaney, 11, accidentally shot to death Saturday, were held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in Abilene.

The accident occurred on the Waddell Ranch, Deputy Sheriff George Beasley said.

Mrs. Percy E. Young, mother of the victim, said Thelma Jean, Barbara Leamons, 13, and Thelma Jean's younger step-sister, Patsy Young, had gone on a picnic outing on the ranch three miles west of Odessa.

The girls met two young friends, George Bridges, 12, and Boyd Westerman, 11. The boys were on a hunting excursion. Patsy Young related that the girls accompanied Westerman and Bridges the rest of the afternoon.

Witnesses said at the time of the accident, Barbara Leamons had the gun and Bridges grabbed it. The 22 rifle accidentally discharged. The shot entered Thelma Jean's back. She was dead when police reached the scene.

Community Chest Deserves Support

By BERT RYAN
General Chairman

The Midland Community Chest Tuesday opens its annual campaign to meet the $32,000 budget set by its Board of Directors.

In every progressive American city the Community Chest is a necessary institution, furnishing humanitarian services to those communities. In Midland, the Community Chest furnishes financial support to six worthy agencies serving the Midland area in welfare work, youth training and character building — Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Youth Center, USO, Goodfellows and Salvation Army. They deserve your support.

Within the next few days, one of more than 200 volunteer workers will call upon you to solicit your financial support in this worthy cause. It is hoped that you will give to the extent of your means. The success of the drive depends upon your generous response.

In the event you are not contacted by one of the volunteers, you may leave contribution at The First National Bank, Midland National Bank, Chamber of Commerce, Community Chest headquarters, or simply mail it to the Community Chest, Midland, Texas.

It's your Community Chest. GIVE .... Give enough.

WMU, Brotherhood Start Meetings At Baptist Convention

EL PASO — (AP) — Preliminary meetings to the Baptist General Convention started Monday.

The general convention opens Tuesday and for the first time in 101 years, some 3,000 baptists are to hear a recommendation that half of a $5,000,000 budget be earmarked for worldwide causes.

The convention is expected to set another $5,000,000 goal for individual gifts to Baptists institutions.

The Missionary Union and the men's group held meetings Monday.

Dr. Wallace Bassett, pastor of Cliff Temple Baptist Church in Dallas, is to preside over the convention. Dr J. H. Landes of Wichita Falls will preach the annual sermon Wednesday.

Mrs. Earl B. Smyth was presiding officer of the missionary group meeting.

The Texas Baptist Brotherhood meeting had as its theme "the man." Clifton W. Brannon, Longview, was named to preside.

Speakers were to include Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor, First Baptist Church, Dallas; H. L. Wren, Snyder; L. H. Tapscott, Dallas; A. D. Foreman, Sr., Abilene, and Fred Cole, Artesia, N. M.

DeMolay Advisors Set Tuesday Meet

Final plans for organizing a DeMolay Chapter in Midland will be mapped at a breakfast meeting of Advisory Board members at 7 a.m. Tuesday in the Blue Room of the Scharbauer Hotel Coffee Shop, Chairman Lester Short announced Monday.

The chapter here is sponsored by the Midland Shrine Club, of which J. M. McDonald is president. Approval of the unit was received recently from the Grand Council, Odder of DeMolay.

Short said the number of charter member applications is almost sufficient to proceed with the organization, and that the charter member list will be closed soon. He urged young men between the ages of 14 and 21 who are interested in DeMolay membership to contact any Shrine Club member promptly. Membership is not limited to sons of Masons, he said.

28 Guests Escape Hotel Annex Blaze

MARSHALL, TEXAS —(AP)— Twenty-eight guests escaped safely Sunday when fire gutted the top floor of a four-story hotel annex.

One elderly guest was overcome by smoke, but a policeman saved him. A blind man was led out of the building by a hotel clerk. Two firemen received minor injuries.

The blaze broke out in the annex of Hotel Marshall. It was confined to the fourth floor and did not damage the adjoining seven-story hotel. Three floors of the annex received smoke and water damage.

Fire Chief Carl Bechtold said the blaze started in a fourth floor room. He said its cause had not been determined.

Leonard H. Smith of Amarillo was overcome by smoke. Policeman R. T. Munden tied a rope around him and lowered him down a fire escape. Smith received treatment at a hospital.

Tom Nelson, a clerk, found blind Alec Pitts, 65, Greenville, wandering around the third floor. He led him out of the building.

MIRACULOUS PERHAPS, NEVERTHELESS

True

Case Histories are actual cases of Midland people who were cared for by Dr. Merwin C. Fitch.

CASE NO. 216-S
Man, 30 years old. Had suffered with a lower back pain for over a year and a half. He came into office hardly able to walk, due to intense pain. Couldn't remove his shirt without help.
After only one adjustment, this man was absolutely free of the excruciating pain. He stopped into the office two days later to show me how he could bend over. As he came in he said "Look Doc, I can bend over and touch my toes without any trouble at all."
(WAS HE HAPPY? YOU CAN BET YOUR LIFE HE WAS.)

CASE NO. 102-S
Woman, 48 years old. Suffered excruciating pain in her right arm. Was constantly bothered with severe headaches. Hadn't had a normal bowel movement in over 20 years. Think of it. In just less than a month after being under Specific Chiropractic, this woman's arm was free of pain. The chronic headaches had completely ceased and the constipation she had suffered for so long was completely alleviated.
Upon being asked how she felt about Specific Chiropractic, this woman replied, "Well I know I'm better than I've been in years, but I still don't understand how you did it."

Scores of Midlanders Tuesday will receive invitations to become charter members of the Midland Knife and Fork Club, which now is in the process of organization.

E. M. Avery, organizer for Knife and Fork Club International, said several hundred invitations were to be mailed Monday. Texas now has 29 such clubs, and in the nation, the total is 327. Midland memberships will be reciprocal in other units.

Twenty-six Midland citizens have accepted appointments as members of the Organization Committee. They are James N. Allison, Frank C. Ashby, P. F. Bridgewater, R. B. Cowden, W. Lionel Craver, Paul L. Davis, Delbert Downing, W. Ray Gwyn, W. Dave Henderson, the Rev. Howard Hollowell, Paxton Howard, Dr. L. Waldo Leggett, the Rev. Clyde Lindsley.

Other Leaders

Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, V. C. Maley, Roy McKee, Frank Monroe, William B. Neely, Dr. V. P. Neissl, Dr. Doyle L. Patton, John Perkins, Dr. R. C. Spivey, R. D. Scruggs, M. C. Ulmer, J. E. Warren and Jack Wicker.

Avery said membership is by invitation and must be limited to comfortable dining facilities.

The Midland Knife and Fork Club, he explained, is not a civic organization, but rather is a lecture dinner club, in which outstanding speakers will be brought to Midland.

Cash Contributed To College That Spurned Millions

NATCHEZ, MISS.—(AP)—Admirers of Jefferson Military College are offering financial aid to the proud but poor little prep school which turned down a $50,000,000 endowment.

Trustees of the 147-year-old Mississippi school rebuffed George W. Armstrong, Sr.'s, offer when they learned he desired the school to teach "superiority of the Anglo-Saxon and Latin American races."

A Houston ice cream manufacturer, meanwhile, said he was forwarding $5,000 to the financially strained school to meet a bank note.

Nathan J. Klein, donor of the $5,000, said in Houston Sunday night:

"The college has been on a non-denominational basis for more than 100 years, teaching Jews and Gentiles alike. I wanted to make it possible for them to continue this."

Allen J. Armstrong, son of the Texas oil magnate, said because of the failure of his father's plans for Jefferson Military College, he would resign from his posts as trustee and business manager.

Laborer Walkout May Idle 15,000 Houston Workers

HOUSTON —(AP)— Multi-million dollar construction projects began to shut down Monday as 1,800 common laborers went on strike in demand of a 12 1/2-cent hourly pay hike.

Some 1,200 members of Local 18 of the Hod Carriers and Building Common Laborers Union continued work as several contractors agreed to the wage demand.

Union officials estimated approximately 15,000 members of other AFL construction craft unions will honor the laborers' picket lines.

It was the start of what may be the most critical week in labor-management history in Houston.

Some 3,000 steelworkers, airport limousine drivers and oil workers already are on strike.

Bus drivers and mechanics numbering 1,100 have voted to strike the Houston Transit Company at midnight Wednesday.

At Port Houston some 2,150 Longshoremen have set a strike for midnight Monday, and union officials estimate another 5,000 other port workers will be thrown idle by the walkout.

Earnings—

profits shown by the oil companies.

Chrysler and General Motors increased their earnings by more than $98,000,000 in the third quarter of this year over a year ago, while the earnings of 22 oil companies fell nearly $97,000,000 below the level of the third quarter of 1948.

Oil Companies Fall Back

A comparison of the third quarter of this year with the previous quarter shows the two motor makers added more than $41,000,000 to their earnings, while the oil companies fell back by some $13,000,000.

Out of the 24 principal groups of companies, only seven showed increases in earnings in the third quarter over a year ago, but 14 of them increased their earnings in the third quarter over the second quarter.

Groups advancing from year to year included automobiles, utilities, chemical companies, air transport and aircraft, brewers and distillers, food products and bakers and confectioners, and drug and cosmetic and soap manufacturers.

Those with declining profits in the third quarter from a year ago include steel, auto parts, coal, metal fabricaters, miscellaneous, railroad equipment, office equipment, printing and publishing, containers, pulp and paper products, building products, metal mining, radio and television and electrical products, textiles, tobacco, oil and machinery.

Fourth Quarter Uncertain

Percentage-wise, the changes were great, with gains going above 1,000 per cent and losses running as much as 67 per cent.

The four automobile and truck manufacturers accounted for the biggest dollar profit of any of the groups, with the 22 oil companies in second place and 21 steel companies in third place.

Oil companies fell back six per cent from quarter to quarter and 32 per cent from a year ago.

Fourth quarter profit reports this year so far are a big question mark. The rise in activity after mid-year was choked off by the coal strike starting September 19 and the steel strike starting October 1. Industrial activity and retail and wholesale trade have slowed down markedly in the last few weeks, and continuation of the strikes undoubtedly will knock profits down.

ECA Boss Warns West Europe To Drop Tariff Bars

PARIS—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman, Marshall Plan boss, warned Western Europe Monday to show results early next year in promoting free trade by knocking down national tariff barriers and erasing complex money controls.

He made it pretty plain it might be hard to get more aid funds from the U. S. Congress unless the Marshall Plan countries showed more willingness to join in a single economic unit.

Goods in the big Western European market, he said, must move freely across the many national boundaries—like trade between the 48 states of the U. S.

Failure to achieve economic unity, Hoffman warned, means "disaster for nations and poverty for peoples."

He made his call for concrete action by early next year in a prepared statement to the General Council of the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC), the European organization that helps administer the Marshall Plan.

Hoffman's speech climaxed numerous recent demands that Europe do something more positive toward unification while the American aid program is still in effect.

Mansfield Declines 'Voice' Appointment

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) Monday turned down President Truman's offer to appoint him as an assistant secretary of State in charge of the department's information service.

Mansfield was asked to succeed George V. Allen as head of the "Voice of America" and other department cultural and informational programs. Allen has been named ambassador to Yugoslavia.

Wichita Falls Man Dies In Road Crash

ABILENE—(AP)—One man was killed and another injured in a car-truck collision two miles north of here Monday.

The dead man was identified from papers as Johnnie D. Claussey of Wichita Falls. The victim was burned badly.

Truck Driver W. H. Hudson was injured, not seriously.

OIL REFINERY FIRE DAMAGE IS $250,000

WARREN, PA.—(AP)—A spectacular fire in an oil refinery Monday shot orange and scarlet flames hundreds of feet into the air several hours before it was brought under control.

Stripling Declares Red Agents In U. S. Are Ready To Act

Robert E. Stripling of Midland, who served 10 years in Washington, D. C., as chief investigator of the House Un - American Activities Committee, told the Kiwanis Club Monday that Communist party agents in the U. S. are ready to act at any time on orders from Moscow.

Stripling spoke at the luncheon meeting of the club, held in Hotel Scharbauer. He was introduced by Oliver Haag. L. A. Bartha was program chairman.

Stripling's book, "The Red Plot Against America," recently was published.

He said the plan for world domination by the Reds varies in each country to fit the situation.

He said Communist party members have been successful in integrating themselves into schools, churches, labor organizations and government in this country.

Same As Soldiers

Stripling pointed out that there are 65,000 Communist Party members in the U. S. and said that is comparable to having that many Red soldiers under arms.

Each has been trained for the specific job he is to perform when orders from Moscow are given, the speaker declared.

He said the percentage of Communists in the U. S. is as great as in Russia at the time of the revolution.

Stripling said that of the 2,254,000,000 people in the world more than 2,000,000 are under the absolute rule of the Communist Party and that that many more are under indirect rule. Under daily pressure to surrender to Communism are another 250,000,000, Stripling added.

Wallace Blamed

He said that Henry Wallace, when in various government positions, caused scores of Communists to be employed in high civilian positions and even given commissions in the armed forces. Stripling also blamed Wallace for permitting atomic secrets to leak to the Russians.

In fact, Wallace brought pressure to have atomic materials delivered to Russia, the former investigator charged.

Stripling said everyone in the U. S. today is a first-hand witness to the struggle between communism and democracy and that one or the other is going to prevail.

Kentucky Farmer Kills Rape Suspect

MONTICELLO, KY. —(AP)— A young negro, sought by a 200-man posse in connection with the raping of a 12-year-old white girl, was shot to death by a farmer Sunday.

The sheriff said he had placed no charges against Keeton but would follow whatever legal procedure is necessary.

The girl was raped when she and three companions, two boys and another girl, were stopped Friday night on their way home from church. They reported the boys were ordered to leave their automobile and one girl was attacked while the other remained in the auto.

County Attorney W. C. Dabney said all four identified the attacker as Sloan, who formerly lived in Lexington.

Permian Basin Oil & Gas Log

location for its No. 3 O. C. Rinehart on the southeast side of the North Snyder field.

Slated to begin immediately, the venture will drill to 6,900 feet to try for Canyon lime production.

The drillsite will be 467 feet from south and east lines of tract 7, section 26, block 1, J. P. Smith survey. That makes it five miles north of Snyder.

North Pecos Wildcat Is Planned By Brown

C. W. Brown of McCamey is to begin drilling immediately at his No. 3 J. M. Boren-Humble, contracted 2,500-foot rotary wildcat in North Pecos County, seven miles west of Imperial.

The proposed drillsite is 1,650 feet from southwest and 330 feet from northwest lines of section 47, block 10, H&GN survey.

The projected depth should carry it into Permian lime.

Gaines Deep Project Gets More Pay Zone

Samedan Oil Corporation and Anderson Brothers of Midland, No. 1-E-A Andrews, Central - South Gaines County possible discovery from the Ellenburger has found more pay section in that formation, and is to drill deeper.

The latest show of production was in a drillstem test at 11,947-970 feet. The tester was open one hour and 45 minutes. There was a fair blow of air at the surface during the first 45 minutes of the period.

Recovery was 2,000 feet of oil cut water blanket, 1,000 feet of heavily oil cut water blanket, and 600 feet of heavily oil cut drilling mud. There were no signs of formation water.

To Take Another DST

The venture is to drill 25 feet deeper and run another drillstem test.

This exploration entered the Ellenburger at 11,895 feet, on an elevation of 3,332 feet. It took a three-hour drillstem test at 11,913-945 feet.

Some gas developed at the surface while the tester was open. Recovery was 1,620 feet of clean oil, and 3,000 feet of oil cut water blanket. There was no formation water.

No fluid came out at the top while the tool was open. The oil fill up in the drill pipe during this test was estimated to have been at the rate of eight barrels per hour.

This wildcat, which is on the northwest side of the Robertson field, has shown for possible production from the lower Permian, and also from the Devonian.

The regular production in the Robertson field is from the Glorieta and the Clear Fork of the Permian.

No. 1-E-A Andrews is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 19, block A-24, psl survey. It is 15 miles southwest of Seminole.

Mason Extension Is Assured In Loving

A three-quarter of a mile north extension to the Mason field in Northwest Loving County, has been assured by Intercoast Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Kyle.

This development, located 1,000 feet from west and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 8, block 55, TP survey, T-1, flowed 60 barrels of oil in one and one-half hours from the Delaware sand, after the section at 3,887-3,940 feet, had been shot with 120 quarts of nitro glycerin.

The well is now shutin for storage. It will be completed and put on production as soon as the tanks are in shape to take oil.

Intercoast To Develop Area

This well is three quarters of a mile north of another well Intercoast completed several months ago, which was a one half mile north extension to the Mason field.

The two new producers are on a block of 5,000 acres of leases Intercoast acquired from Argo Oil Corporation about two years ago. They have added several hundred acres to the proven area of the field. Intercoast plans to immediately develop the new producing territory.

Top of the Delaware black lime was at 3,887 feet in No. 1 Kyle. Top of the Delaware sand was at 3,912 feet. Elevation is 3,082 feet. Total depth of the extender is at 3,955 feet.

Dual Completion At Andrews Operation

Cities Service Oil Company has dually completed its No. 1-G Cowden as a commercial producer from the Clear Fork and from the Devonian on the northwest side of the Dollarhide field in extreme Southwest Andrews County.

The new well is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 15, block A-52, psl survey.

From the Clear Fork it flowed 20 hours through a 25/64th-inch tubing choke to rate a 24-hour potential of 548 barrels of 38.5-gravity oil, plus, three tenths per cent basic sediment and drilling water. Gas-oil ratio was 417-1.

The flow was from perforations in the casing between 6,535 feet and 6,645 feet. That interval was treated with 3,000 gallons of acid.

It rated a 24-hour potential of 604 barrels of 41-gravity oil and no water from the Devonian, flowing six hours through a 25/32nd inch tubing choke. Gas-oil ratio was 1,230-1.

Completion from the Devonian was from open hole between the top of the pay at 7,769 feet and the total depth at 7,830 feet. That section was treated with 2,000 gallons of acid.

NE Upton Wildcat Continues To Test

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Pembrook, Northeast Upton County wildcat, six miles north of the Benedum field, and 660 feet from north and 2,247 feet from east lines of block X, CCSD&RGNG survey, showed for 883,000 cubic feet of gas per day, and flowed distillate at the rate of five gallons per hour, on a natural flowing test from the Fusselman of the Silurian from perforated section at 12,270-340 feet.

Operator is preparing to treat that interval with acid and test further.

The exploration had slight shows of gas in the Ellenburger and the bottom zone of that formation made sulphur water. The project is now plugged back to 12,350 feet in the Silurian.
