'My Government Does Not Need This Land'

GATESVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Buddy Vencil joined the Army in World War II and retired 21 years later as 1st Sergeant. He spent four tours of duty at Ft. Hood in hilly Central Texas and liked it so much he bought 98 acres of land on which he built his retirement home.

Now the Army wants his land. "This is what we always worked for. We always wanted to come here and raise registered cattle. This just isn't fair to us," Vencil, stocky and graying at 51, said as his wife quietly nodded.

"If my country was at war, I'd be the first to say 'go get it.' But I just don't see where my government needs this land."

Vencil is typical of the 150 landowners in Coryell County the Army says will have to evict to make way for a 60,000-acre expansion of Ft. Hood, its largest armor training facility.

Army officials contend the expansion is needed to accommodate maneuvers for the two full divisions and 4,000 troops stationed at Ft. Hood. One-third of the 218,000-acre post is taken up by the impact area for the tank and artillery firing ranges. In order to conduct large-scale maneuvers, the impact area must be cleared of live shells — a process known as "de-dudding." The last de-dudding took three weeks, cost $400,000 and affected the readiness of the troops. Col. Joseph Jagers III, Corps chief-of-staff, said.

An alternative is transferring the troops to Ft. Bliss, a 1.8 million-acre reservation near El Paso, Jagers said, and it costs $300,000 to temporarily send a tank battalion there. Ft. Hood has 10 tank battalions. A permanent move is not a pleasant thought to the towns around Ft. Hood whose economies depend on the soldier.

The Army effectively says it has no choice but to expand, or take the troops elsewhere.

The landowners, reacting as if hit by a sneak attack, aim to stop the expansion in Coryell County where the Army will have to get funding approval.

They claim the Army's reasons are not sufficient to move them from productive land. Not only will they lose the land on which they earn their present living, but also the mineral rights. Gas exploration firms have leased most of the 60,000 acres. There's a producing well near Pico, a little town what will be completely taken by the expansion.

"Common sense can tell us that the Army can find far less productive land than in Coryell County for the purpose of firing artillery shells into it and driving tanks over it," said Roy Barrett, a Waco attorney representing the landowners.

Many of them were around when Ft. Hood expanded in 1942 and 1953. Jim Manning's grandfather gave up hundreds of acres in the previous expansions, and the 2nd Armored Division tanks often maneuver over Manning Mountain.

"I don't think they need any more land," said Manning, 44. His wife and son live in a four-year-old brick home on 101 acres at the Ft. Hood boundary and raise cattle, as the majority of the landowners do.

"As far as I'm concerned they don't utilize all the land they've got now. I've got cattle on a grazing lease at Ft. Hood now and I go over areas they never go on," he said.

Mobilizing with impressive speed, the landowners formed an organization called "Our Land, Our Lives: A Coalition for Human Rights." Within three days they staged a rally that attracted 500 protesters. They elected W. Dawson Cooper, president of the National Bank of Gatesville, their chairman.

Cooper admits the group's only hope of persuading Congress to disapprove the expansion funding is to mount a publicity-seeking campaign. "We've got one way of getting things done — appeal to the little man," Cooper said.

The landowner organization wants the Army to completely justify the expansion — they say they haven't been given all the facts yet — wants a chance to rebut the Army and wants Congress to hold public hearings in Coryell County before taking action. Cooper said the group will continue besieging Congressmen and Army officials with telephone calls, letters and personal visits until those things are accomplished.

Pampa Schools To Be Probed In Federal Civil Rights Order

A federal judge Friday ordered the Department of Health Education and Welfare (HEW) to investigate the Pampa school district for possible violations of federal civil rights laws.

Other Panhandle schools included in the order of Amarillo, Dumas, Hereford and Plainview, U.S. District Court Judge John H. Pratt gave the government two months to begin enforcing school desegregation standards in 125 school districts in 16 states.

The judge placed a seven-month limit on efforts to achieve desegregation by voluntary negotiations.

Lawyers for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund which brought the suit say the ruling will force HEW to cut off federal funds for those districts if they do not comply with desegregation standards.

Dr. Dan Long, superintendent of schools in Pampa, said, "Our schools are integrated and have been for a number of years. They will have to define their terms so we would know what they mean."

"I have never heard them ever question anything below 90 per cent minority," he added. "I think we are right on the 20 per cent in several elementary schools."

Pratt said, in this third major ruling in the four-year-old suit brought by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, that since his 1973 order 85 at least a 20 per cent disproportion in their racial make-up, another 25 such have been identified.

Pratt's order alleged to substantial racial disproportion in the Pampa school district.

Other school districts are in Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, South and North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Elliot C. Lichtman, the attorney who won the case, said that under the ruling's timing, HEW would not be able to cut off funds to the districts by fall, but would be required to begin enforcement procedures leading to a cutoff by beginning of the next school year.

"It's been the experience under the statute that often districts will decide to desegregate rather than become involved in a (desegregation) proceeding," Lichtman said.

The judge also told HEW to notify judges around the country who are supervising more than 300 districts under court-ordered desegregation within four months whether any of these districts have re-segregated.

Lichtman said he thought the most important part of the ruling was the seven-month limit on voluntary desegregation.

"I would hope that the foot-dragging will end," he said. "It should end the practice of years and years of voluntary negotiations."

The ruling called for action by HEW against 125 districts in which statistics showed one or more schools with a disproportionate racial balance during the 1972-73 school year. The decision also affects 45 additional districts which had received formal notices they were violating civil rights laws.

Homeownership To Gain In Southwestern States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A housing authority said today that despite recession, the dream of owning a home will become reality this year for more than 275,000 Southwestern families.

Jackson W. Goss, in a statement released in Washington, predicted that the flow of new mortgage commitments for both new and existing homes in the nine Southwestern states will increase 8 per cent in 1975.

Goss is president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co. of Boston. He predicted a total mortgage flow of $10.99 billion in the region by the end of the year, as compared with 1974's total of $10.17 billion.

Investors Mortgage Insurance is a leading organization in private mortgage insurance. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 10-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

Goss noted that such factors as the energy crunch, inflation, tight money and economic uncertainties have served to fuel the strong trend toward purchasing and rehabilitating existing homes — in this region and across the country.

"For these and similar reasons, we expect the existing home market to continue its advance in 1975," he said. "Total dollar amount for mortgage commitments on existing homes in Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming will climb to more than $6.24 billion from 1974's total of $5.98 billion."

Goss predicted mortgage flow going into the region's new home market will exceed $4.74 billion this year.

"There are numerous reasons for optimism about the entire housing picture, here and across the nation," he said. "Thrift institutions, our principal lenders, now find their pockets full. The flow of money is beginning to loosen. Interest rates are starting to come down."

"Real estate firms from coast to coast are reporting to our people real increases in activity. Consumer confidence is finally turning around, too, and is beginning to be reflected in the housing market."

Nationally, Goss projects that the 1975 total mortgage flow will reach $65.7 billion, up 10.4 per cent above 1974's figure of $59.5 billion. Mortgage loans on existing properties will rise from $41.7 billion in 1974 to $45.4 billion this year, he stated, while new home mortgages will climb from $17.8 billion to $20.1 billion.

"We expect the trend on resales, rehabilitation and restoration to remain strongest in the cities and their peripheral suburbs in most parts of the country, with new home construction rebounding more on the outer fringes," he said.

Onassis Dies

ATHENS (UPI) — Shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis will be buried on his private island of Skorpios next to his only son, Alexander, friends of his family said Saturday.

Prof. Ioannis Georgakis, one of the closest associates and legal adviser to the late multimillionaire, already has left Athens for the island to arrange for the funeral, the sources said.

They said that details of the funeral will be announced on Sunday.

Skorpios is a 350-acre, pine-covered island off the west coast of Greece in the Ionian Sea.

On a bluff near the small port of the island is the Romanesque style chapel of Panagitsa (Little Mother of Christ), where Onassis in 1968 married Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of the assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

In the same chapel overlooking the blue waters of the Ionian, Onassis two years ago buried his only son, Alexander, the victim of a plane crash at Athens airport.

Hall Found Guilty

The 44-year-old former Oklahoma governor David Hall indicted three days after he left office Jan. 12, was convicted

Friday of three counts of bribery and one charge of extortion. He could receive a maximum penalty of 35 years in prison and a $40,000 fine. Dallas financier W.W. "Doc" Taylor of Dallas was convicted on three counts of conspiracy to bribe and faces up to 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Rebels Capture

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebel forces captured a government position on the Pochentong airport defense line Saturday, toppling another key-stone in the slowly crumbling Phnom Penh perimeter and further threatening the American airlift to the besieged Cambodian capital.

Two more embassies in the Communist-encircled capital closed down as the exodus from Cambodia continued.

Military sources said two other posts in the same defensive area, about four miles west of the airport and eight to nine miles west of downtown Phnom Penh, held off insurgent ground attacks.

First National Bank, 100 N. Cuyler, will close at noon Monday in memory of the late Mrs. Inez Worley Carter who died Friday at the age of 88.

Tax Rebates May Be Mailed In May, June

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tax cut legislation faces a hectic week of political maneuvering, but its basic form already is becoming clear: relatively modest 1974 tax rebates of $200 or less, plus larger 1975 tax cuts aimed at low and middle income persons.

Something else is clear: Congress doesn't dare go home for Easter without sending President Ford a tax bill, but that bill will be far larger than the $16 billion Ford requested as a spur to the sagging economy.

What this means to the average taxpayer is that a rebate check from the Internal Revenue Service should be in the mailbox in May or June, and less tax will be withheld from paychecks beginning sometime this summer — at least for those making roughly $20,000 a year or less.

Action on taxes will be concentrated in the Senate this week where the Finance Committee approved a $29.2 billion tax cut bill on Friday. That bill is scheduled to reach the Senate floor Tuesday or Wednesday. After Senate passage, it must be compromised with a smaller House bill, then returned to both houses for final approval.

CELANESE — One of the industrial reasons why Pampa's economy prospers.

Peppy Sez

Industry Pumps Pay Into Pampa

At a time when many areas of the nation are hard hit by inflation, Pampa's economy prospers.

Industry is one reason why Pampa residents have not been as exposed as other areas to the harsh effects of the country's economic ills.

According to the leaders of the two major corporations in the Pampa area, the economy of the city, as it is effected by industry, will continue to prosper and grow.

Cabot Corporation, with corporate headquarters in Boston, Mass., currently employs more than 1,100 people in the Pampa area.

There are four divisions of the corporation operating in Pampa — the Machinery Division, Carbon Black Division, Engineering Division and the Oil and Gas Division.

The Oil and Gas Division of Cabot Corporation explores for, develops and produces crude oil, natural gas and condensate in the United States. In addition, the division operates gas products plants in Texas and Oklahoma and a gas gathering system in the Texas Panhandle.

Maximizing values from the well head includes recovering gas liquids such as propane, butane and natural gasoline, which have special market uses, before passing on the natural gas residue for general pipeline sale. Cabot has operated gas products plants in the southwest for more than 35 years.

The Estes and Walton plants in West Texas were originally designed to gather, compress, condition and deliver gas to Cabot's channel process carbon black plants in the area. Modern oil-based furnace black plants have long since replaced these gas-dependent channel plants.

As demand for various natural gas liquids increased, the capacities of these gas products plants were expanded and liquid recovery were emphasized. Liquid recovery efficiencies were improved and residue gas deliveries were tied into expanding interstate pipeline systems.

Today, Cabot operates four gas products plants in Texas and Oklahoma, and has interests in three plants operated by others. The products of these plants are used as feedstock for chemical plants, for motor fuel blending and for industrial and residential fuel.

Boyd Taylor, Vice President and General Manager of the Oil and Gas Division, said, "This is a time of real opportunity and growth for the oil and gas business, especially here in the Texas Panhandle. The many proposals for repressive legislation against the industry would of course have an unfortunate dampening effect of the increased activity. However, I am confident that if the industry is allowed to do its job, it can go a long way toward finding the oil and gas reserves the country needs. For us in the Oil and Gas Division, that means we will continue to expand our domestic exploration, production and gas liquids programs."

Cabot Corporation also is one of the oldest organizations in the carbon black industry, and it is the world's largest producer of this product.

Cabot operates five carbon black plants in the United States, one of which is the Pampa Plant, located about five miles west of the city. This plant employs approximately 123 people.

Carbon Black has many uses; the principal one is a reinforcing agent in rubber. The Pampa plant also produces more specialty blacks used by the printing ink, plastics, and paper industries.

Built in the late 1920's the Pampa plant was purchased by Cabot in 1945 from General Atlas Carbon Company. It has operated continuously since it was built and, as can be seen by the end - products, there should be a continued need for the production of carbon black.

The Cabot Machinery Division provides mobile drilling, work-over, and servicing rigs to the oil and gas industry.

It also produces high quality, low alloy forgings for government and commercial applications. In addition, hydraulic backhoes are manufactured under a labor contract for the Harnischfeger Corporation of Milwaukee, Wisc.

The Machinery Division has approximately 750 employees with about 650 located in Pampa. In addition to Pampa, the

Unhappy Landing

The airliner symbolizes genius which was focused on American soil.

Mechanical flight was invented by Wilbur and Orville Wright. The commercial airlines were charted by aviators Charles Lindbergh, Wiley Post and Howard Hughes among others. Builders of the great airships — Glenn Martin, William Boeing, Donald Douglas — virtually became folklore figures in their era.

What a shock therefore to learn that the American airlines are being knocked from the skies that they mastered!

The shot that destroys was not fired from an enemy missile site. It contained no explosive charge or shrapnel. The deed was done by American politicians in concert with foreign interests.

Today an Australian Qantas 747 can land in San Francisco at a fee of $271, but an American Pan Am 747 will pay $4,200 to land in Sydney. That is a discrimination factor of 1,500 percent.

All airlines pay a $300 user fee to land in New York, but American airlines must pay $2,100 to land in London. That is a discrimination factor of 700 percent.

American Airlines pay a tax each time they fly over European countries, even if they don't land. A foreign airline can cross from Canada to Mexico paying nothing.

More shocking yet is the role played by American politicians, especially those in appointive offices.

Willis Player, senior vice president for Pan American, said his company paid nine and 11.5 percent interest when it borrowed a few years ago to purchase 33 Boeing 747s at $788 million. At the same time, he said, Air France paid six percent on a government-guaranteed loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank. The government that made the guarantee wasn't the government of France — it was the United States!

In the flush days of air travel, six to 10 years ago, such discriminatory practices hurt, but they were not fatal. Now, with an economic slump painfully evident, Pan Am and other airlines are driven against a canyon wall. Typically for businessmen who have cohabited with bureaucrats, the airlines now cry out for tax-supported subsidies. Having been strangled by socialism, the frantic victims cry out for a loving embrace by the same force from which the assault came.

There is a better way. American airlines are entitled to compete. They are kept from competing by the unfair practices of the United States government and discriminatory practices by other governments abroad. Bureaucrats, congressmen, senators might be moved to remove the shackles from the American air industry when they know that the American people are "on" to the game.

Dear Abby

If he'd quit trying to "score," he might win

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a real stumper for you. My kid brother, Tom, who is 24, has been very unhappy lately. Finally, he asked me for advice and I am stumped. Maybe you can help him and all the other guys with the same problem.

Tom is a nice guy, good-looking and a college graduate, but he can't get to first base with women. For years he has watched other guys come up to a girl they've never seen, and before long, they go off to her place, or his, or to a motel.

I watched my attractive last Saturday night. He approached a very attractive girl who had come alone. I was sure my brother was going to score with her, but in less than an hour the girl went off with a total stranger! (This was at a large party with lots of singles — not in a bar.)

There must be a reason why Tom never scores, as it happens all the time. How do you see it?

TOM'S SISTER

DEAR SIS: Tom may need some lessons in tact. Or perhaps his desperation is showing, and it's obvious to the girl that all he wants is a bed partner. When Tom becomes interested in a woman as a person first, and forgets about "scoring," she'll know it, and Tom may score better.

DEAR ABBY: Don't you think it's time for baby-sitters to get a cost of living raise? I baby-sit for 50 cents an hour, which is what baby-sitters used to get 15 years ago.

Also, don't you think the couple should tell the baby-sitter what time they expect to come home? I don't have the nerve to ask, and my parents worry when it gets past midnight and I'm not home yet.

Thank you for anything you can do for us baby-sitters. If you put this in your column, it will help me and lots of other sitters.

SITTER

DEAR SITTER: Stand up and speak out. If you think you should be paid more — say so. And I see no reason why you shouldn't ask the couple how long they intend to be gone.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Marking Time," who can't find anything to say to her husband, that maybe she ought to get rid of her television set.

I often felt as she does. At times I had to rack my brain to find something to talk to my husband about. Then our only TV set went on the blink. At first the man who was supposed to come and repair it didn't show up, then we just kept putting off getting it fixed. We've been four months without a TV, and it has improved our marriage 100 percent.

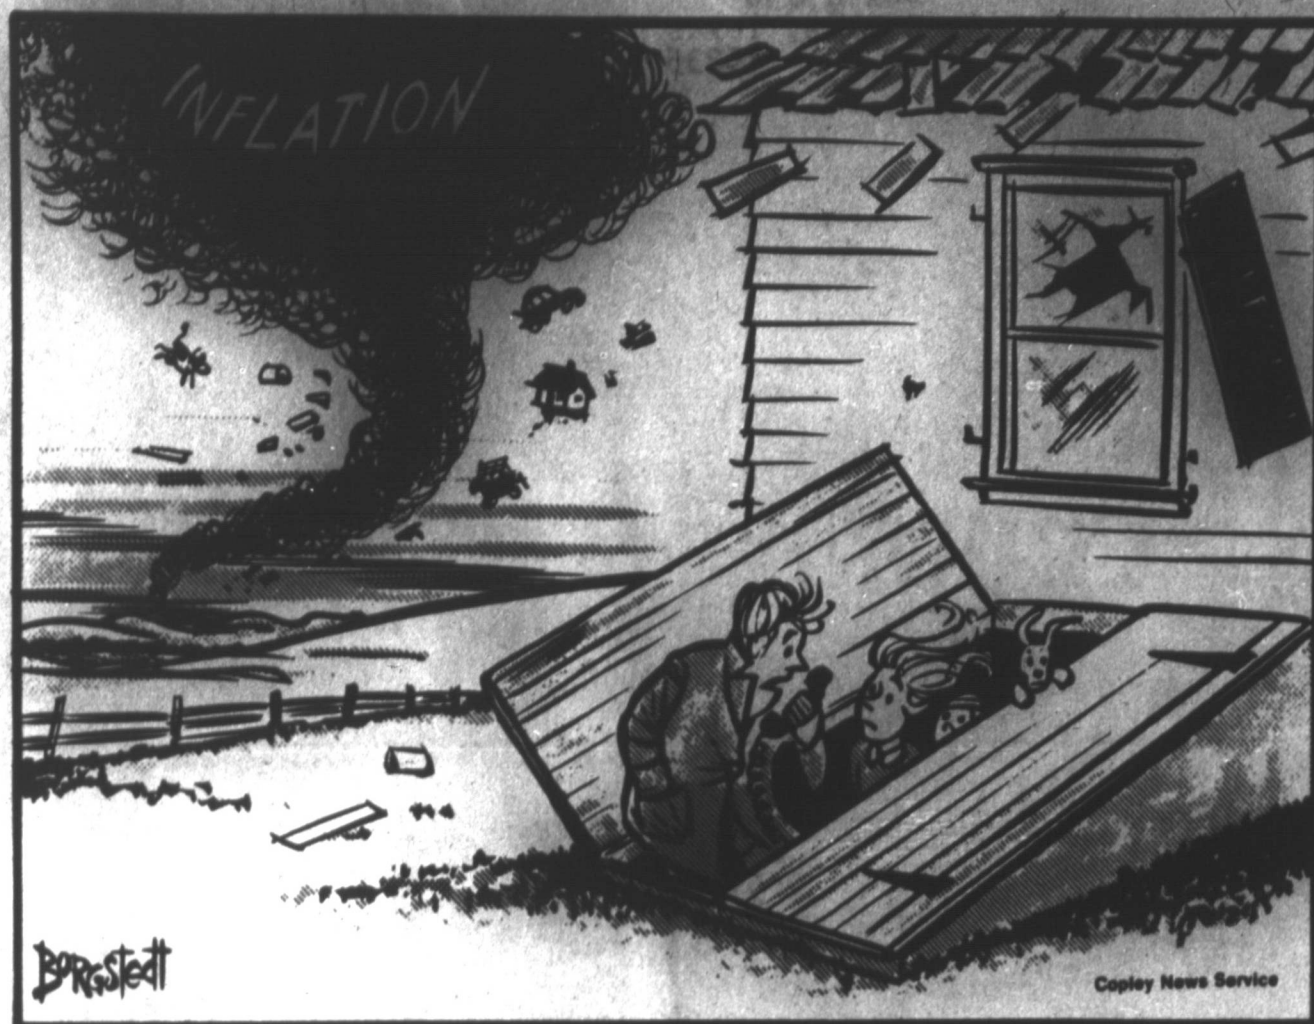

We have rediscovered each other and are communicating for the first time in 20 years.

We carry on conversations with each other, and for entertainment we play backgammon, chess and scrabble. We also go to movies and to other places now, which gives us more to talk to each other about.

We even have time to read Dear Abby! Who needs TV?

HAPPY WITHOUT IT?

DEAR HAPPY: Who needs TV? Only those who make television for selling and repair them. Also those who use television for advertising, educating and entertaining. And last but not least, those who enjoy it!

"Great news, Jerry-you say it's slowed down from 99 to 98 miles per hour!"

LAND AND LAW

Control By Bargaining

QUESTION: — If there are four persons, each of a different religion, compelled to sit in an audience or instruction of another of the same religion of only one out of four — or of a totally different religion than any one of the four — where do you have freedom of religion or freedom from others' religion? It seems to me compulsory school attendance laws are in violation of the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights on state vs. religion.

ANSWER: — There is no question in our minds that compulsory school attendance violates the rights of individuals to think, study and learn as they will. Equally, we are convinced that the courts are not truly interested in freedom, although they make a strong showing of trying to separate church and state activities.

If there is such a thing as teachers' indoctrinating young people in some particular religious doctrine in opposition to the beliefs of the pupils' and their parents' religious practices, we think it is quite likely that the courts would rule that the indoctrination violated the First Amendment to the Constitution.

However, we believe that generally the indoctrination is not that clear. The complaint we have heard most frequently is that children are taught in the absence of any true religion, and that the pupils thus are inclined to depart from moral principles that are common to most true religious teachings.

Another complaint heard rather frequently is that when teachers insist on teaching the theory of evolution as fact instead of theory the teachers are invading the beliefs of children having the theory of creation as opposed to evolution.

Obviously there is some basis for this complaint, because when any attempt is made to get equal treatment of the two theories in school textbooks there is a great hue and cry that the creationists are guilty of censorship. Since we believe people have a right to any honest beliefs we are taking no sides on which is right, but we defend the right of people to believe that they choose and to train their own children as they choose. This, of course, they are denied in compulsory tax-supported schools.

We agree that the compulsory school laws violate the rights of individuals to believe as they will and to train their own children in those beliefs.

To us the solution is to end the coercion, and allow individuals their own freedom of choice in any peaceful activities.

FESTIVAL FARE

STRATFORD, Ont. (UPI) — Bruce Cockburn, named Canada's best folk singer three years in a row, will present the final concert of the 1975 Stratford Festival music season on Aug. 24.

The concert series will begin July 13 and feature the Stratford Festival Ensemble, cellist Gisela Depkat and jazz artists Cleo Laine and John Dankworth.

PAKISTANIS TOUR

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Pakistan's leading Qawwali troupe — musicians who sing for various Islamic dervish groups — will make a month-long tour of the United States and Canada beginning with a concert at New York's Carnegie Hall on March 3.

The company will visit Boston, Toronto, Chicago, Detroit, Washington, San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles with a program of Persian love songs sung in Urdu as a metaphor for the love of divinity.

Many years ago I owned and rented apartments. I would have liked to collect $500 per month rent, but my potential tenants were not cooperative. They were unwilling to pay more than $135 monthly, despite my assurances that I would use their money wisely and well. Apparently they didn't realize how powerful landlords are supposed to be and how helpless tenants are. No government regulations were involved; the market and competition controlled the price.

I was reminded of this experience by what is now occurring in the auto industry (except that I really never expected more income that I received). The manufacturers are not obtaining the prices they seek, and are cutting them through rebates. Every seller tries to sell for the most, and each buyer attempts to buy for the least. But the impersonal forces of the marketplace will determine the price that prevails. GM seems no more successful in fulfilling its desires than many thousands of other and much smaller, sellers.

Built-In Controls
Manufacturers will continue to reduce prices on existing cars until they sell. There is no other course if they want to exchange autos for money. They already have an investment in those produced, and whatever amounts are realized might be preferable to none at all. A competitive economic system has built-in price controls that no amount of coercion or bribery can avoid.

Often when I give this explanation, my listeners will respond with an objection based on the belief that competition does not exist in the auto industry and prices are "administered," that is, set by the big three. Current price-cutting practices of the companies should demolish that notion. Chrysler started it and other companies, including the foreign ones, have followed suit to prevent competitors from achieving an advantage.

Even if General Motors were a complete monopoly, however, the foregoing explanation would still largely apply, since every seller with a heavy inventory would probably be better off disposing of that stock. A monopolist would have the advantage of being able to control future production so that there would be less competition for its present inventory.

Clearly this condition does not exist in auto manufacturing. Competition effectively creates a unique voting process in which both majorities and minorities can prevail. If enough people want to buy something, it is likely to be provided, because manufacturers and sellers will make every conceivable effort to discover that information. Their fortunes depend on it.

If GM attempted to raise its price, it must do so in the knowledge that customers are able to purchase other vehicles or even resort to other modes of transportation. At some point in price, many will consider purchasing vans, trucks, motorcycles, bicycles or perhaps turn to public transportation. And it is always possible to repair and get extra mileage from the old clunker.

A similar situation generally exists throughout American industry — except notably in those instances where government regulations have created monopoly conditions. Competition is widespread if only because of substitution of other materials. Steel is seemingly a unique item, but frequently wood, plastic, concrete, glass, chrome, aluminum or other metals can be substituted for it. Similarly if wood becomes too costly the user may switch to steel. In the building industry, as the price of wood has risen, more builders used steel studs or concrete floors.

The current auto troubles suggest how dependent the manufacturers are upon the public, and reveal how vulnerable manufacturers are to people's desires and tastes when the market is flooded. It tells us why companies spend millions annually trying to determine what will and will not sell, what buyers do and do not prefer.

Headlines Not Enough
Competition provides consumers with enormous powers which can be exercised without need for specially appointed representatives, such as those who identify themselves as "consumer advocates." The latter cannot possibly have the motivation or resources of the manufacturers to determine consumer preferences and have little comprehension of producers' limitations and problems.

Nor can producers and sellers achieve success as the consumer advocates do, merely by creating headlines. I find it amusing to observe consumerists measure their accomplishments by the extent of their newspaper or TV coverage. It is fortunate that producers in our society cannot get off so easily.

Competition effectively

IT'S PROBABLY not exactly cricket to disappoint those looking for some earth-shaking comment here today about what seems to have been a temporary tempest in the teapot over the appointment of a Pampa police chief.

Late in the week the only solid complaint left over from last Monday's City Commission meeting (when the new chief was appointed) came from the City Hall Cat.

It is recalled that around 75 to 100 persons were milling around in the City Hall lobby before and after the meeting. The Cat, prowling the corridors as usual, reports he wound up getting his tail stepped on twice, his left front paw bruised by an overweight citizen and his whiskers singed after coming in contact with a burning cigarette butt tossed onto the floor by a spectator who came in from Mobetie to see what all the hullabaloo was about.

(Asked why he came to Pampa that day, the man from Mobetie explained they don't pick a new police chief in his hometown very often.)

IN PASSING, let's just put it in the record that there were all kinds of reports and rumors going around Pampa and Amarillo concerning the selection of a man to head the Pampa police department.

First of all, it wasn't supposed to have been announced until 11 a.m. last Monday. But a "leak" sprung in the underground pipeline somewhere and it was announced at 6 p.m. on Saturday a week ago during an Amarillo television newscast.

That ruffled the fur of quite a few folks including a couple of city managers, a mayor, several city commissioners and the appointee himself. Also for the record, it wasn't supposed to have been officially announced in the new chief's hometown until the day after it was scheduled for announcement in Pampa. The "leak" to the TV station two days ahead of time messed up the whole deal.

So, the question arose immediately: who was the sneaky so-and-so who "leaked" the information?

Good question. And so far as the City Hall Cat can learn, it is a question still unanswered. Only six persons in Pampa were supposed to know the name of the man who was to get the job. Of course, there were several in Lake Worth, Texas, who had the secret tucked away, too.

Anyhow, if there are any amateur detectives in the house — it's a good case to practice on.

IF ANY of the above sounds like it was intended to be serious then we have dropped the ball and the message has failed to get through.

As this was written, none of the wild rumors heard earlier in the week had materialized. The Indians had been driven off, the dust had settled, and the city hall wagon train was moving slowly into the sunset.

THE MATERIAL for the story seemed to be appropriate for some kind of an Aesop's Fable that would end, maybe, like this: "Never trust a secret more than one man — then watch him like a hawk."

And, for those who didn't get the appointment, about all the advice left is this admonishment from Aesop: "Be content with your lot; one cannot be first in everything."

NOW, FOR a quick change of pace.

How about resurrecting a good, old cliché with a reminder that "Spring is just around the corner."

In fact, the season of sunshine and flowers moves in at 12:57 a.m. Pampa Time next Friday.

That's supposed to mean, weatherwise, that the cold and snow have been phased out until next winter comes along. But don't get over confident. Old timers here will recall that one of the biggest snowstorms of all time hit Pampa and the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles in mid-April. That was about one-score and ten years ago.

TOMORROW is the day absentee balloting starts in Pampa's school board election.

For the first time in many years there are no contests in the election. Four candidates are running for four places and none of them has an opponent.

With the election on Saturday, April 5, the Pampa Independent School District will have a seven-man instead of a five-man board.

Incidentally, the balloting will be district wide. Voters may vote on all candidates no matter what place they represent. Absentee voting will continue through Tuesday, April 1.

THIS IS interesting. State Rep. Phil Gates is careful about mail going out of his office that is not official business. State taxpayers do not pay the postage on it. Across the bottom of the envelope is this message: "not printed or mailed at state expense."

SOTTO VOICE: Who do you suppose DID "leak" that "secret" information about the appointment of the new police chief?

Industrial Rolls Bear Names Of Pampa People

division has sales and service offices in Houston; Odessa; Lindsay, Okla.; and Casper, Wyo.

"The demand for Cabot's line of mobile oilfield equipment has accelerated along with the worldwide efforts to boost energy production," said Victor P. Raymond, vice president and general manager of the Machinery Division. "The Cabot-Franks equipment provides the oil and gas industry with the means to extract more production from existing wells and to speed up exploration for new sources."

Raymond said that the division's steel production is running at full capacity as it attempts to meet the demand for its specialty products in the government, oilfield and energy markets.

"The advantage of our varied products were made quite clear recently," Raymond said. "The downturn in the housing and construction industry severely cut back the need for the backbone. Fortunately, our people are versatile and we were able to transfer our efforts to meet the increased demand for our oilfield equipment and steel forgings."

About five miles west of Pampa, on the route to Amarillo, is the impressive, sprawling complex of Celanese.

In May of 1974, the Pampa Plant of Celanese Chemical Company announced the completion of its most recent expansion was only the most recent of an almost constant expansion program undergone by the plant since its construction in 1952.

Initially the plant was designed for the manufacture of only acetic acid, acetic anhydride, vinyl acetate, propionic acid, and butyric acid, but in 1957 facilities were added for the production of methyl and ethyl acrylate and beta-propiolactone.

In 1961, facilities were added for higher acrylates and acrylic acid. In 1965 a unit for the manufacture of methyl ethyl ketone was completed. This was followed in 1970 by the addition of formic acid and methyl formate.

Besides continued expansion of the product line, the plant has more than tripled its production capacity, making it the nation's largest single producer of acetic acid and one of the largest producers of acrylate esters.

Following on the heels of the ethyl acetate completion last May, Celanese announced plans for the construction of a new unit for the production of multi-functional acrylic monomers. Already well under way, this new expansion is progressing on schedule and is planned for completion in September of 1975.

The Pampa Plant of Celanese Chemical Company is proud of its record of growth over the years but is not interested in looking back now because it is not through growing.

Construction started in Pampa in 1951 and it is continuing today. Prosperity is a way of life at the Pampa Plant that is nurtured by a community that welcomes and encourages industrial expansion.

Sad Grads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Predicting a long-term glut of college graduates in the nation's work force, the Labor Department said Saturday there may be more graduates than college-level jobs in many fields between now and 1985.

As a result, the department said, college graduates of the future are "likely to obtain jobs previously held by individuals with less than four years of college."

The department predicted in a revised study of occupational manpower and training, however, that employers would continue to prefer hiring college graduates instead of non-graduates.

"Problems for college graduates will more likely be employment below the level of skill for which they were trained, resulting in job dissatisfaction and high occupational mobility, rather than unemployment," the study said.

The study presented Bureau of Labor Statistics projections for the next 10 years in specific career fields, saying similar evaluations in the past had proved "reasonably accurate in the majority of cases."

Substantial growth was forecast for the airline industry, with an anticipated 8,000 new job openings annually for flight attendants. But reductions were predicted for the merchant marine and the railroads.

Job opportunities in the health services appeared particularly good through 1985.

The study projected job growth levels of 141.7 per cent for physical therapist assistants and aides, 100.9 per cent for occupational therapy assistants and 100 per cent for occupational therapists.

It predicted 100,000 job openings a year for nursing aides, orderlies and attendants; 70,000 for practical nurses and 75,000 for registered nurses.

But the study showed colleges and universities are overproducing in many areas.

Although only 2,600 jobs are likely to open up each year for newspaper reporters, it said, colleges report an annual output of 5,114 undergraduate degrees in journalism, 853 masters degrees and 15 doctoral degrees.

The predicted oversupply of psychologists was even more marked. The study said 4,300 new job openings a year are expected in that field, while colleges and universities anticipate turning out 44,093 graduate and undergraduate degrees in psychology—10 times the projected annual needs.

College and university output also appears excessive for chemists, food scientists, geologists, historians, lawyers, life scientists, meteorologists, oceanographers, physicists, political scientists and teachers, the study indicated.

In industry, prospects appeared good for machine tool operators, machinists, assemblers and welders.

Sports Radical Sought For Hiding Hearst Girl

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI searched nationwide Saturday for Jack Scott, the sports world radical now considered the key to the Patricia Hearst case who apparently eluded agents twice in recent weeks.

Police Poke Sewers For $60,000 Ransom

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI) — Police poked through a sewer system Saturday looking for evidence a jailed suspect used to collect $60,000 from the floor of a litter barrel for release of the kidnapped teen-age son of a former mayor.

Mark Hayes, 15, blindfolded but unhurt, was let off a motorcycle Friday night near a residential street corner where a sack containing the ransom money had been dropped.

Police staked out the intersection where a 55-gallon litter barrel sat on the sidewalk and waited until they were told Mark was safe. An inspection of the barrel found a false bottom sitting over an open manhole.

"We waited about three hours before we investigated the barrel," said police chief James Newsom. "We found it had a cardboard bottom actually, and the money was gone."

First National Bank, 100 N. Cuyler, will close at noon Monday in memory of the late Mrs. Inez Worley Carter who died Friday at the age of 88.

According to published reports, Scott has told friends by phone not to worry because "the whole thing will be over soon." He said he has retained a lawyer "to bargain with the FBI."

Scott's wife, Micki, rented the Pennsylvania farmhouse in which Miss Hearst and Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris were believed to have hidden last year. The fingerprints of all three were found there.

Scott's fingerprints, sources said, also were found in the farmhouse. Telephone records disclose numerous calls between the hideout and the Portland, Ore., home of professional basketball star Bill Walton where the Scotts stayed part of the time that the fugitives were in Pennsylvania.

Walton, a friend of Scott's, has told the FBI he knows nothing about the Hearst case.

The FBI was following up a theory that the three fugitives traveled west last fall in a white van rented by Scott. 33. The van was abandoned in Portland last October.

The Washington Post reported that two FBI agents visited Scott's father, John, in his Las Vegas, Nev., apartment Feb. 26 to subpoena him for a grand jury appearance concerning his son.

In a brief phone conversation Friday night with New York Times reporter Henry Weinstein, Scott said he was in the San Francisco area. He implied that he knew about the fugitive's activities and that he might have influenced them to avoid violence.

Another published report quoted a friend as saying Scott said, "He was fine and in a comfortable place and that everything was going to be all right."

City, Water Authority To Study Lake Contract

Pampa city officials will meet Tuesday with John Williams of Sanford, general manager of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, for a fact-finding study on the agreement between CRMWA and the 11 cities on the Lake Meredith aqueduct.

City Manager Mack Wofford said Williams will be in Pampa to confer with the city manager, Mayor R.D. Wilkerson and a representative of the city commission.

Wofford said Fred Thompson, one of Pampa's two member on the CRMWA board, probably also would attend the meeting.

Thompson said today the 11 cities receiving water from Lake Meredith are in the seventh year of a ten-year agreement with the water authority that cities which have not used more than 70 per cent of allocated water would not be charged interest on the remaining obligation for the period.

According to Thompson, Pampa had not used more than the 70 per cent allocated since the agreement became effective.

"It should be a sizeable saving," Thompson said.

He added that some cities on the CRMWA system have not needed as much water as allocated and some cities have needed more.

City Manager Wofford said the Tuesday meeting was merely to determine the facts concerning the agreement and establish what it means to Pampa as one of the member cities.

Indonesia seized American-owned rubber estates in Sumatra on Feb. 26, 1965.

Your Horoscope

MONDAY, MARCH 17
Your birthday today: In your year ahead, emphasis is on deeds rather than words. You have increasing facility in applying your skills, whether special or general, and much encouragement in any constructive enterprise. Relationships—experience smooth, even development. Today's natives make many staunch friends and, occasionally, bitter enemies, are industrious and usually enjoy a philosophic approach to life.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Friends, business contacts are full of goodwill and helpful suggestions. Take them up on whatever they volunteer. Games of chance intrigue you now—just don't overdo them.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Talk arises on all sides; you're better off missing most of it. Old habits persist; modify those that hinder you. A brief search locates a smarter way of using your money.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Social and business contacts expand, include exceptional individuals. Aside from offering cheerful cooperation, you have little to do but listen carefully and learn.

Cancer (June 21-July 22):

Now is the time for getting in the basics on career enterprises, making definite records of your ideas. Gather colleagues with special interests for a lively session of discussion.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Friends now prove themselves. Note what they do rather than what they say. Previously unnoticed relationships come to your attention. Don't comment; there's more yet to know.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep your schedule flexible. You must do a number of things in short takes on very brief notice. Whatever you buy on impulse doesn't fit in with what you already have.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Indirect sources of future income emerge from a beginning made today. Never mind that associates are distracted by someone else—they will come back to you in good time.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Other people are active and do things you've never been able or willing to do. Keep your sense of humor despite ribbing. You have a subtle advantage in normal conditions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get together with those who have skills, learn more about them, exchange services or form working teams. Brief travel gives you a chance to see matters from a new angle.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Today's bright idea is an old one. It may well work again if kept afloat by sensible planning and personal energy. Seek morale and financial support, scholarships, etc.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Surprisingly enough, conventional-minded people join you on an excursion, real or symbolic, into the unknown and controversial. Make the most of it on an experimental basis.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Sweeping changes arrive in gradual stages. You suddenly realize how far you've come from where you were. Good news inspires you to go onward and upward!

Hall Trial May Become Mistrial

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A woman member of the jury deliberating former Gov. David Hall's bribery - extortion case was hospitalized with a possible heart attack Friday raising the possibility of a mistrial.

Attorneys said if the juror was unable to continue there were two alternatives, declare a mistrial or resume deliberations with 11 jurors. The latter route would require consent of both defense and prosecution attorneys and the trial judge.

Dallas financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor was a codefendant with Hall in the trial.

The jury had begun deliberations Wednesday.

Lubbock Man Given Death In Murders

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Billy Joe Booker, 28, of Lubbock, Tex., has been sentenced to die in the gas chamber for the kidnap and murder of a young mother and her 14-month-old daughter last summer.

Audrey Lee Gaines and her daughter Heather were taken from the parking lot of a shopping center in Monrovia last August. They were beaten to death with a rock and their bodies were found several days later in the San Gabriel Mountains foothills.

Booker was arrested in Arizona in connection with a robbery.

The death penalty was imposed by Superior Court Judge Walter Evans, following a jury verdict.

Gibsons Claim Harrassment

DALLAS (UPI) — The head of Gibson's Discount Stores describes Federal Trade Commission allegations of kickbacks in connection with the company's trade show as "harrassment" and a "bunch of garbage."

The FTC announced Thursday a complaint had been filed charging Gibson's, the second largest discount chain in the country, forced suppliers to join a trade show and pay kickbacks to the company.

Herbert R. Gibson Sr., head of the Dallas-based company, called the action "the biggest bunch of garbage I've ever seen in my life."

"This is harrassment," he said. "We never took any kickbacks. The Gibson Trade Show is the greatest trade show in the world and we're going to keep it that way."

The complaint asks Gibson's be prohibited from sponsoring the show for five years and forbidden to continue improper practices.

to drive around on the way to and from work?

Well, the city street department is hard at work trying to repair them as fast as possible.

R.B. Cooke, public works director, said today there are hundreds of them in all sections of the city.

Street damage caused by a combination of wet and cold weather has been greater this winter than in many years.

Cooke said street department crews have been at work for several days and will continue searching out the worst spots for repair.

Damage has been so extensive this winter he stated, that some streets not included in the regular program may have to be added for seal-coating.

Guests Invited To Sea Movie

Final attraction in the Pampa Rotary Club's Wonderful World of Travel film series is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

Jonathan Hager will narrate "Italy's Fabled Sea" and take the audience on a trip around that part of the Mediterranean west of Italy, north of Sicily and east of Sardinia and Corsica known as the Tyrrhenian Sea.

Profits derived from the film series by the Rotary Club enables the civic organization to expand its support of various community activities and charities.

Charles Zlomke, Rotary president, and John R. Reeve, travel series committee chairman, today expressed appreciation for public support given the World of Travel series in its second season.

Tickets for Monday night's presentation will be available at the door.

Ford Faults Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford disagrees with several portions of a $6 billion House-passed emergency employment measure, particularly those devoted to soil and water conservation, auto purchases and repair of federal buildings, a spokesman said today.

The House approved the bill Wednesday at a level that exceeded Ford's own proposals by about $4 billion.

Nessen said the Democrats estimated their bill will create 32,000 jobs from a $114 million expenditure on soil and water conservation projects. But he said it actually works out to $3,500 a job, which is too low and unrealistic.

He said a $443 million to buy a new fleet of 73,000 automobiles for the federal government's General Services Administration goes way beyond the number of cars that will be needed.

Ford also opposes the provision to spend $465 million to repair federal buildings across the country because there is no guarantee the work would be done in high unemployment areas, Nessen added.

The $5.9 billion appropriations measure passed the House Wednesday on a 313 to 113 roll call vote. It was sent to the Senate for what was expected to be speedy consideration.

President Ford has agreed to spend $2 billion of the appropriation, but he has not indicated publicly whether he would accept the other $4 billion.

James T. Lynn, Ford's new budget director, said he will urge Ford to veto the bill because it more than doubles the money the administration wanted.

The money is spread over a score of programs already authorized in law by the last Congress, but which have not been fully funded.

The largest single item is $1.65 billion for public service jobs, which Ford requested. He also supported the $412.7 million expenditure for summer youth employment.

Lynn defended his call for a veto on grounds that the money would be an "excessive stimulus" to the economy.

But House Speaker Carl Albert scoffed at Lynn's explanation.

"In the face of an economy with more than 7 million unemployed,

Crooning Cop Keeps Crooning

By PETER M. KELLY
DENVER (UPI) — Singer Frankie Rino left the nightclubs of Las Vegas to become a policeman. But he says he can't afford to stop crooning—and he is in hot water because of it.

Rino is in trouble with his chief for singing in a supper club before he starts a pre-dawn patrol of the city.

The chief says moonlighting by rookies is prohibited.

"I'm not going to give up singing," said Rino, sitting it out between sets. "If it's something you enjoy doing, why should you have to give it up? I enjoy singing. That's my high."

"I respect the chief, but this thing is now in litigation."

Rino, 30, was graduated from the Police Academy in December and asked permission to sing during off-duty hours to augment the $900 monthly salary of rookies. Chief Art Dill turned him down.

Dill said department rules prohibited police officers from moonlighting for at least one year from the time they joined the force. He said Rino's decision to sing anyway was a violation of the rules but has yet to take formal action.

"I personally don't feel my entertaining presents a conflict," said Rino, waving at a lady fan across the paneled wood dining room lit by Tiffany lamps. "I don't see why the two jobs can't go hand-in-hand. My problem centers on how to live on $900."

Rino sings four hours a night at the supper club before putting on his blue uniform, shield and revolver for an eight hour duty shift in a patrol car. His songs are mostly old standards.

"Those are the kind of songs I like to sing," he says. "Those are the kind they come to hear."

Rino became interested in police work by talking to off-duty cops who moonlighted as bouncers in 3.2 beer clubs where he broke in his act before getting a shot at bit-league bookings.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, MARCH 16

Your birthday today: Brings in a year of reasonable progress in already established enterprises. If you haven't made definite plans for the future, you should do so now. Many incidents and events this year will help those of you who know where you're going. Relationships should be gently tended and never taken for granted. Today's natives are prone to change directions quite unnecessarily, have great courage.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Being free to take advantage of opportunity is a matter of successful planning. It will pay you to listen carefully to what your associates are trying to tell you now.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Check to see that you've got your papers in order. Community affairs become complex, subject to sudden shifts in public opinion. Home life includes a minor mystery and much discussion.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): The unusual, odd or premature dominate the day. Madcap ideas, parties or short journeys all promise good results and fringe benefits. Don't forget anyone in sharing them.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Once you've done your part in local observances, settle down to a quiet contemplation of the favorable features of your daily living. Don't pry into anything outside your interests.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Allowing others to do more of the talking will bring you useful information. Let people help, enlist them in your favorite causes, but keep business out of the program entirely.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your attention centers on the young and youthful-spirited individuals who are willing to change and grow with the times. If you can, make that journey you've planned.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22):

Go out of your way to be helpful and give people the benefit of all doubt. A mystery clears up, and you may be disillusioned. Unusual conditions bring people to you for problem-solving.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your help in fields you've mastered is much needed. Unplanned incidents are prevalent and give you a chance to improvise or substitute some theory you've wanted to try, anyway.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You hear of good news, beneficial developments in your friends' lives. Where your attention is drawn to children, take a bigger part in local community affairs.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Getting out of your regular rounds of routines seems imperative. Travel should include places of fond memories. If you're entertaining at home, ask for plenty of help.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Bring a friend along and catch up on the news in your neighborhood—it could change your plans. Review your talents, freshen up a neglected skill or revive an old hobby.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The less comment you offer, the less opportunity you have to be misunderstood. Unexpected meeting causes a flurry of excitement. Play it straight and don't overdo.

Wines in screw-cap bottles generally do not improve with age. However, corked white wines will improve from one to two years; reds for five to 20 years.

By RANDY FITZGERALD
WASHINGTON—Members of the Texas congressional delegation, with just a handful of exceptions, are not responsive to legislation affecting the needs of the elderly. If a newly released vote rating by a group claiming to represent the aged is any indication.

On 10 select House and Senate votes, the National Council of Senior Citizens gave two Texas congressmen a zero rating and most other Texans low marks for their performance in the 93rd Congress last year. Only liberal Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Houston, collected a 100 percent rating.

The two senators from Texas did not fare well in comparison to their colleagues from other states. Republican John Tower scored only 12 percent "correct" votes while his Democratic counterpart, Lloyd Bentsen, had a mildly respectable 72 percent average. Most members of the Senate had high ratings.

Issues on which these ratings were based range from hot meal programs for the elderly to amendments in the House creating a Select Committee on Aging and reinstating direct loan programs for non-profit developers of housing for senior citizens.

However, many of the issues do not appear to have a direct relationship to the economic plight of the elderly. For instance, one vote rating was on no-fault insurance, while another concerned urban mass transit appropriations.

The two Texas House members earning a zero rating from the group were Reps. Omar Burleson, D-Anson, and Jim Collins, R-Dallas. Burleson comes from a district centered around Abilene that has a median age of 33, one of the highest in the state.

Among those receiving the most favorable senior citizen ratings were Reps. Wright Patman, D-Texas, the 82-year-old chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, at 86 percent "correct"; Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, 89 percent; Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, 74 percent; and Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, 95 percent.

Summer Job Holders Need SS Number Too

Housewives, students, and other people who plan to get a summer job should apply now for a social security number if they don't have one, according to Howard L. Weatherly, social security manager in Pampa, TX. You should apply for your number several weeks before you need it for a job covered by social security. Applications must be screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure that a second number isn't issued to that same person. Screening generally takes several weeks.

More than nine out of 10 jobs are covered by social security.

People applying for a social security number for the first time may be asked to prove their age, identity, and citizenship.

A person's social security number is his or hers alone and remains the same for life. A worker builds retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his social security number. When one gets a job covered by social security, he should be sure that his employer copies his name and number correctly from his social security card to the employer's records.

People can get information about applying for a social security number by calling, writing, or visiting any social security office.

If a social security card is lost, a duplicate may be obtained by contacting any social security office. A duplicate card is obtained faster if the stub that came with the social security card is presented.

The Pampa social security office is at 1541 N. Hobart. The phone number is 669-3381.

More than 13,000 parking meters in Philadelphia are responsible for about $2 million in revenue annually.

Harvester Gals Maintain Fifth

Amarillo High, behind Kim Snook's low round of 38, shot a 377 to widen its lead over Tascosa and the rest of the district after the second round of district play Friday at the Pampa Country Club.

Pampa held onto fifth place with a 422 Saturday. Besides Amarillo High's Saturday rounds were Tascosa, 395; Palo Duro, 404; Pampa; Amarillo High B-team, 428; Borger, 428; Caprock, 450; Palo Duro, 450; Tascosa B-team, 465; and Borger B-team, 502.

Team standings are Amarillo High, 748; Tascosa, 762; Palo Duro, 801; Amarillo High B-team, 824; Pampa, 829; Tascosa B-team, 860; Borger, 844; Palo Duro B-team, 875; Caprock, 880; and Borger B-team, 1,001.

Pampa scores Saturday were Debbie Thompson, 95; Serena Shearer, 103; Amy McMullan, 110; GERALYN HILL, 114; and Sue Cook, 121 (dropped). In singles were Janet Keagy, 128; Lisa Weigel, 132; and Sara Riehart, 154.

Miss Thompson's score was the sixth lowest Saturday and her 191 total is good enough for third in the race for medalist honors.

Miss Snook leads with 178, followed by Patty Loehr of Tascosa, 183; Miss Thompson; Joyceanne Hooper of Borger, 191; and Cathy Lancaster of Amarillo, 191.

The third of the four district rounds will be held Friday in Amarillo.

AHS Baseballers Eliminate Pampa

HEREFORD — Amarillo High scored four runs in the second inning, held off a Pampa attempt at a rally and whipped the Harvesters, 8-3, in the second round of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Baseball Tournament Friday here.

Pampa, which was eliminated with the loss, is now 2-5 for the season and has a five-game losing string.

"We didn't play that bad," Pampa coach Ronnie White said. "We hit the ball, but right at people. We made some mental mistakes. We didn't make too many physical mistakes but mental mistakes we did."

Pampa got one run in the second after Roy Morris walked. Bobby Chance bunted, and, on the throw to first, the ball hit by the first baseman and a collision between Sandies players ensued. Morris rounded the bases for the run.

In the third, Pampa added two runs. John Agan reached on an error and scored on Steve Fraser's double. Fraser scored on a two-bagger by Tyler Drinnon. The latter run brought Pampa to within one, 4-3.

Dennis Edmonson picked up the loss for Pampa.

Borger met Leveiland in the Finals of the Tournament Saturday afternoon.

Prior to Saturday's practice, White said, "We're just going to hit the ball; keep doing it till they start falling in."

Pampa hosts Liberal Tuesday in a doubleheader, starting at 1 p.m.

Manhattan Opens With 13-Point Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manhattan, whose tournament bid caused the most controversy, opened the 38th National Invitation Tournament Saturday with a 60-51 victory over Massachusetts.

In the second game of Saturday afternoon's opening round doubleheader, Clemson met Providence. In another doubleheader Saturday night, Pittsburgh was paired against

Clemson Upset By Providence In First Round

NEW YORK (UPI) — Providence freshman Bruce Campbell converted a critical three-point play with 1:21 left to play Saturday, carrying the Friars to a 91-86 upset victory over 19th-ranked Clemson in the first round of the 38th National Invitation Tournament.

Clemson had overcome a 13-point halftime deficit to get back into a nip-and-tuck battle with the Friars, when Campbell hit on a short drive to the basket and converted the free throw after being fouled to give Providence an 81-77 lead.

Joe Hassett, the game's high scorer with 24 points, hit on all eight of his outside jump shots, most from the 20-25 foot range, to give Providence a 47-34 lead at the half.

Stan Rome held Hassett to only eight points in the second half and contributed 10 of his 20 points in the closing 20 minutes.

Wayne "Tree" Rollins led the Clemson scoring with 21 points.

The Jaspers, who received an NIT bid despite a mediocre 13-1 record, took control in the game's final nine minutes to bury the Minutemen (18-7).

Seventeen-year-old freshman Steve Grant was Manhattan's top performer with a career-high 14 points, nine rebounds and four blocked shots.

Indiana Throttles UTEP

LEXINGTON, KY. (UPI) — Indiana's offense exploded in the second half Saturday, but its defense ended up making the difference as the unbeaten Hoosiers defeated Texas-El Paso 78-53 in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional Basketball tournament.

Senior forward John Laskowski led the top-ranked Hoosiers with 15 points as four Indiana players hit in double figures. Indiana led only 31-24 at the half, but capitalized on eight Miner turnovers in the second half and ran out to a 25-point margin midway through the last stanza.

Indiana's defense held UTEP to its fourth lowest offensive output this year. The Miners, who finished 20-6, were led by all the way. When UTEP closed junior center Gary Brewster and reserve forward Calvin Hale with 10 points each.

During one second half stretch, Indiana, which won its 30th straight this and 32nd in a row over two seasons, outscored UTEP 20-4.

Hoosier coach Bobby Knight let his substitutes mop up with three minutes to go and inserted injured junior All America Scott May with 51 seconds left. May, Indiana's leading scorer this year, has been sidelined with a broken arm since late in the season.

The UTEP defense, which held opponents to only 56 points a game, the fewest in the nation for the third straight year, could not cope with the taller and stronger Hoosiers as they could force only two turnovers the entire game. However, the Miners did hold Indiana to 36 per cent shooting percentage in the first half.

Indiana now advances to semi-final play March 20 in Dayton, Ohio.

Supporting Laskowski were senior Steve Green with 14 points; Quinn Buckner with 12 and reserve forward Tom Abernathy with 10 points.

Knight said defense was his biggest area of preparation for Saturday's game. "Team defense was the key to our being in the ball game," Knight said.

"UTEP had to play from behind to within five points early in the second half we were able to sustain our offense," Knight said.

Miner coach Don Haskins, who led UTEP to a national championship in 1966 when they were known as Texas Western, said, "We used a delay game and got in close, but we couldn't score. We couldn't match up with Indiana physically. They whipped us on the boards and they took our offense away from us."

Haskins put his team into a 1-2-2 zone late in the first half and saw the Miners close to their seven-point deficit at the half.

"It was a half court trap which we have used before and it has bothered some other people—but not Indiana," Haskins said.

ALL-STAR TEAMMATES—Borger's Joe Kerr and Pampa's Billy Wilbon, both seniors and two of the top scorers in their schools' respective histories, will be teammates in the Plainview Jaycees Panhandle Plains North-South All-Star

Game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Plainview's Hutchinson Center. Outstanding area players in all classifications will compete in the first annual

Wildcats, CMU Winners

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Senior forwards Kevin Grevey and Jimmy Dan Conner combined for 32 points to lead the Kentucky Wildcats to a surprisingly easy 76-54 victory over Marquette Saturday in the first round of the NCAA Midwest regional basketball tournament.

Sophomore Leonard Drake hit two free throws after time expired Saturday to give Central Michigan at 77-75 win over Georgetown University and a berth opposite 4th-ranked Kentucky.

Grevey scored 19 points, 15 in the first half, and Conner scored all 13 of his points in the second half as the 4th-ranked Wildcats roared from behind to turn the game into a rout.

Kentucky came back from a 26-25 halftime deficit when Rick Robey hit a field goal and Bob Guyette made two free throws to put the Wildcats ahead 29-28 with less than three minutes gone in the second half.

Guyette, a senior forward, scored 14 points, 10 of which came on free throw shots. Mike Phillips had 11 for Kentucky.

Sophomore forward Bo Ellis led Marquette with 17 points. Joining Ellis in double figures were Lloyd Walton with 11 and Earl Tatum, who fouled out with 6:14 to go, with 10.

It was Ellis who gave 8th-ranked Marquette the early lead with two field goals to put the Warriors ahead 18-17 with 8:22 left in the half.

Marquette pulled eight points ahead of Kentucky, but the Wildcats cut the margin to one point before a Bill Neary field goal made it 26-25.

Kentucky, also using a man-to-man defense, stretched its second half lead to 22 points 62-40 at 5:27 to go.

Marquette was never able to come closer than 20 points the rest of the second half.

Both teams, noted for their physical play, got into foul trouble early in the game, but Robey was the only Wildcat to foul out. Tatum had four fouls before the first half was half over.

The victory advances Kentucky, co-champions of the Southeastern Conference with Alabama, to the next round of the Midwest regional in Dayton, Ohio next week.

Drake only scored seven points in the game but he was fouled in a scramble under the Georgetown basket as the horn sounded and sank the winning free throws.

Central Michigan was ahead by four points 69-65 with 4:12 left. Georgetown tied it 69-69 on a field goal by Derrick Jackson but Central Michigan took the lead again on two free throws by Jim Helmink.

Central Michigan moved ahead 75-71 but two field goals by Georgetown's Larry Long tied it 75-75 with 1:24 remaining. Neither team was able to score again until Drake was fouled.

Drake's free throws gave Central Michigan its 21st win against five losses. Georgetown finished the season 18-9.

Los Angeles Trips Astros

COCOA, Fla. (UPI) — Tom Paciorek's run-scoring single in the tenth inning snapped a 1-1 tie and led the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-1 exhibition baseball victory over Houston Saturday.

Steve Yeager then drove home two insurance runs with a double in the Dodger tenth.

Yeager, Los Angeles' catcher, earlier had made two putouts at the plate in the eighth inning, tagging out the Astros' Greg Gross and Enos Cabell, who were trying to score the go-ahead run.

Houston took a 1-0 lead against "Dodger" starter Don Sutton in the third inning. Roger Metzger opened with a double, advanced to third on pitcher Larry Dierker's sacrifice and scored on Gross' squeeze bunt.

Hits by Bill Russell and Dave Lopes, sandwiched around an infield grounder, enabled Los Angeles to tie the score in the fifth.

Los Angeles upped its spring record to 5-4. Houston is 3-5.

We want to thank all of the adults and young people who came out and bowed in the tournament last weekend. Would like to give you the results: CLASS A: 1. Gary Mayes - Mel Mayes, 1310; 2. Pampa Netters Fall In Tourney

LUBBOCK — Stacy Douglass, competing in "B" girls singles, was the only Pampa netter to get past the first round, downing Toni Gardner of Littlefield. Friday in the Lubbock Invitational High School Tennis Tournament.

Miss Douglass beat the Littlefield girl, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, and then fell to El Paso's Robin Winstead, 6-1, 6-1, in the second round Friday.

Pampa's number one seed in boys singles, Eugene Laycock, lost to Abilene's Clay Brandon, 6-3, 7-6, in the "A" division. In "A" doubles, Charles and Brad Foster of Plainview whipped Pampa's E.B. Ellis and Jerry Allen, 7-6, 6-3.

Scott Jones of Wichita Falls, the number one seed in "B" boys singles, blanked Amanda Meza of Pampa, 6-0, 6-0.

In "B" girls singles, Laurie La Forth of Midland eliminated Maria Martinez of Pampa, 6-4, 6-0. In doubles, Betty Apperson and Daisy Young of Wichita Falls whipped Donna Coufal and Karen Hampton of Pampa, 6-0, 6-0.

Drake's free throws gave Central Michigan its 21st win against five losses. Georgetown finished the season 18-9.

JH Meet Postponed

Saturday morning snow showers forced postponement of the Pampa Relays, a junior high track meet which was to involve 18 area freshman teams.

It is doubtful the meet will be rescheduled. Both Pampa Junior High ninth- and eighth-grade teams will compete in the Borger Invitational Saturday.

Pampa's Cathy Carpenter and Anne Henderson gave Cindi Terrell and Rita Jordan of Plainview fits before losing, 7-5, 6-2.

Thursday, in a tuneup match prior to the tournament, Lubbock High throttled the Harvesters, 16-0, in a dual match. Lubbock is now 12-4 in dual matches this year, while Pampa is 1-3.

Evert Downs Court Twice, Wins $15,000

HOUSTON (UPI) — Chris Evert used the cool efficiency of her baseline ground strokes to wear down injured Margaret Court Saturday winning the Houston stop on the women's pro tennis circuit 6-3, 6-2, and took over the season money lead with the $15,000 first prize.

Evert won the tournament — her third this year — with her upset win over Evonne Cula-gong Friday. Her match against Mrs. Court, who was bothered by a muscle pull, was anticlimatic.

Her service broke only once. Miss Evert easily returned the booming Court serve and even aces the Australian star three times.

"I was really happy with that. Yea Chris!" the exuberant champion said after successfully defending her title.

Mrs. Court, who did not sit down at break for fear her heavily taped right calf would tighten, tried in both sets to force quick decisions by rushing the net.

Let's Cook! Lightweight Beef is a new bulletin we just received with information and recipes on beef obtained from an animal 12-24 months of age, weighing 600-1,000 pounds prior to marketing. May also be referred to as budget beef, light beef or forage fed beef.

In lightweight beef, there is a reduction of marbling and fat covering which affects flavor and juiciness. However on a lean for lean basis the nutrition is the same as grain fed or heavy beef.

The preparation and cooking of lightweight beef is similar to that of veal. Moist heat methods of cooking are recommended for less tender cuts of lightweight as well as grain fed beef. More tender cuts can be prepared by dry heat methods provided the beef is basted with fat. Also marinades are recommended to enhance the flavor.

The new publication is free and available at the County Extension office.

FOOD COSTS RISE

A report we recently received estimates food prices will rise 15 percent during 1975. This means that families with incomes under $20,000 may have to spend from 25-50 percent of their incomes for food.

Consumers will need to learn to be a better buyer to make the most of the money they spend.

Shoppers could consider these guidelines for buying.

— Think and plan carefully. Every purchase involves balancing three factors — personal preference, need, affordability.

— Avoid browsing. It usually results in an unnecessary purchase.

— When a mistake in buying is made, recognize it and avoid repeating it.

— Patronize reliable, reputable merchants.

— Compare prices in several different stores, especially when making a large purchase such as a refrigerator or color television.

— Plan ahead, avoid buying unnecessary items.

— Become a "sales watcher." Know the meaning of the different kinds of sales. Become aware of price so you will know when an advertised price is a real savings.

Wedding Plans Revealed

Griggs-Hall

Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Griggs, 1800 Lynn, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susie, to Randall L. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.O. Hall, 1840 Evergreen. A family wedding will be solemnized May 23, in the home of the bride's parents, who will host the reception for friends of the couple, following the ceremony. Miss Griggs, a 1970 graduate of Pampa High School, attended West Texas State University and is presently employed at Beacon Supply Company of Pampa. The prospective bridegroom, a 1968 PHS graduate attended WTSU and is presently employed at Hall Tire company.

Katz-Gold

The engagement of Marilyn Susan Katz and Paul Nicholas Gold is being announced by her father, Herbert L. Katz, 803 A.N. Nelson, Pampa. Miss Katz is also the daughter of the late Mrs. Jolly Katz, and sister of Mrs. Myron Aftergut, 2724 Aspen. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Gold, Corpus Christi. Nuptial vows will be solemnized May 25 in the Petroleum Club, Corpus Christi. The bride-elect graduated in 1971 with honors from Thomas Jefferson High School, San Antonio where she was a cheerleader. She is also a 1975 graduate of the University of Texas with a bachelor of arts degree and was on the Dean's List. Miss Katz is presently a member of Southern Methodist University Law Partners and is employed by a Dallas law firm. Her fiancé, a 1971 honor graduate of Richard High School of Corpus Christi was a south Texas representative to National Debate Tournament in 1971 at Stanford University. In 1974, he received a bachelor of arts degree from UT. He was a member of Magna Cum Laude, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Eta Sigma, all honor fraternities. He is presently attending SMU law school.

Hedrick-Greer

Miss Dana Nannette Hedrick and James Glen Greer will wed June 6 in Hobart Baptist Church. Making the announcement are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hedrick, 725 N. Wells. The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laven Greer of Pampa. The bride-elect, a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School, is presently employed by Cabot Corp. Her fiancé, a 1974 PHS graduate, is a music major at West Texas State University.

McLeod-Krueger

Wilfred R. McLeod, 2615 Duncan, announces the engagement of his daughter, Pamela Kathrine, to John Douglas Krueger of St. Louis, Mo., son of Mrs. Walter Bracht, Friestatt, Mo. The wedding will be solemnized July 5 in the First United Methodist Church of Pampa. Miss McLeod, a graduate of Pampa High School, Baylor University and Southern Methodist University, is presently employed as a teacher for the Richardson School District. Her fiancé, a graduate of the University of Missouri at Rolla and Washington University, is employed by Diversified Industries in St. Louis.

Been-Vickery Vows Pledged

Miss Brenda Gail Been became the bride of Michael Allan Vickery at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7 at Westside Church of Christ, Pampa.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Rodney A. Been, 720 N. Lefors and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allan Vickery, 413 N. Nelson.

Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was the minister, James Lusby. A choir group from Pampa High School providing wedding selections were Deborah Kyle, Jamie Hood, Elbert Hinsley, Kari Collier, and Eddie Robby.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal, wore a formal length white satin gown with a white lace bodice overlay. Her two-tiered veil of illusion fell from a lace coil and she carried a nosegay of white carnations and pink roses.

Miss Becky Snell, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Alisa Been, sister of the bride and Miss Teresa Smith, cousin of the bride, White Deer, wore floor-length gowns of blue satin with nylon dotted Swiss overlay. Each carried a blue and white nosegay.

Ringbearer was Michael Edwin Been, brother of the bride and Miss Terri Lyles, sister of the bridegroom, lighted the candles.

Kim Snell served as best man and groomsmen were Mark Smith and Rick Smith, cousins of the bridegroom. Alan Been, brother of the bride and Kendall Meaknsic, seated wedding guests.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL VICKERY
...nee Miss Brenda Gail Been

Following the wedding trip to Amarillo, the couple is residing at 610 N. Gray.

The bride is presently attending Pampa High School and plans to graduate this spring. The bridegroom, a 1974 graduate of PHS, is presently employed at Lee-Tex Valve.

Pre-nuptial events included a bridal shower hosted at Citizens Bank Hospitality Room by Mrs. James Lusby, Elmo Thompson, Jim Parson, Tom Brockman, Bill Odell, Larry Powell.

A lingerie shower was hosted recently by Becky Snell, Elizabeth Olds, Linda Howard, Mary York and Teresa Smith in the Flame Room.

Oberg-Cameron Exchange Vows In Double-Ring Rites

The marriage of Bethany Oberg and Casey Cameron was solemnized at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 16 in the Presbyterian Church of Torrington, Wyo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Oberg, Harrison, Neb., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Cameron of Mitchell, Neb.

The Rev. Robert Ware and Rev. Lawrence Dry, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Organist, Mrs. Bonnie Rice and vocalists, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Waggoner, provided traditional musical selections.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a candlelight formal gown of silk and lace. She wore sprigs of Lilly of the Valley in her hair and the candlelight veil of bridal illusion fell from under her hair.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Stacia Phifer, Harrison, Neb., sister of the bride and Miss Joan Montgomery, Torrington, served as maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Caryn Davis, Laramie, Wyo., sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical floor-length turquoise gowns.

Will Hatch was ringbearer and flower girl was Miss Lisa Swanson and Miss Roquel Phifer. Miss Dana Moore and Miss Renee Moore lighted the candles.

Dave Britt of College Station was best man and groomsmen were Rick Hopwood, Lubbock and Greg Phifer, Harrison. Chuck Oberg, Harrison, Bruce Simmons, Torrington, and Don Davis, Laramie, served as ushers.

Following the wedding reception in the church parlor, the couple departed for a Las Vegas, Nev. wedding trip.

The bride was a secretary in Gering, Neb., and the bridegroom, who attended college in Lubbock, is presently engaged in ranching at Clayton, N.M.

The City of Philadelphia offered night school classes in 1950.

Spring Fashion Show Highlights Forum Meet

Twentieth Century Forum hosted their annual guest day recently with a feminine touch of Springtime. Mrs. W.W. Wells and Mrs. David McDaniel of Hilland Fashions presented a showing of spring fashion selections for young children, the contemporary young woman and for the mature woman, young in heart.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Jack Ward, president, who introduced Ms. McDaniel, commentator for the show with Forum club members serving as models. Young guests models were Susanna Holt, Curtis McDaniel and Barbara and Mary Cross.

Mrs. Jerry Wilson presented background music and voice selections suggested by the occasion and the grouping of styles.

The last group of fashions featured red, white and blue and had the background of appropriate patriotic music.

Mrs. David Britt, president of District I of Texas Federation of Women's Club, was among the 50 guests attending.

Members present were Mmes. Victor Raymond, Cranz Nichols, Jerry Wilson, R.M. Melancon, Holt Barber, Larry Cross, Robert Finney, John Warner, Joe Franklin, David Holt, Homer Johnson, Jack Ward, Frank Kelley, Aubrey Steele, McHenry Lane, Ellis Locke, Glen Larson and Robert Williams.

Scholarship Awarded Coed

Debbie Cooper, a senior, daughter of John Cooper, has been named White Deer High School's 1975 Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow. Miss Cooper won the honor by scoring high in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered to high school seniors here and throughout the country in December.

She received a pin and a $50 scholarship from General Mills, sponsor of the annual Betty Crocker Search for leadership in Family Living and becomes eligible for state and national honors.

State winners and their sponsors will have an expense paid tour in the spring that will include Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, VA.

Highlight of the tour will include the announcement of the All American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased $5000. Second, third, and fourth place winners will receive $4000, $3000, and $2000 increases in their scholarships.

TO A ROCKHOUND
Once there was a man
Who was feeling mighty blue.
For he had lots of spare time.
And nothing much to do.
He didn't care for hunting.
And he didn't care to fish.
A friend once took him golfing.
But that was not his dish.
His health began to break.
His work was going down.
And when his boss inspected.
He wore an awful frown.
And then he met a rockhound.
When he was on vacation.
Who showed him rocks, collected
Most over all the nation.
So he became a rockhound.
Enthusiastic as could be.
And all the blues just left him.
He'd never felt so free.
He often goes rock hunting
O'er mountains, creeks and draws.
In many states and counties.
And lots of rocks he saws.
He makes it into jewelry.
His collection, it's the best.
And when he goes to bed at night.
He gets a lot of rest.
And best of all, his work's improved.
His boss came in one day.
And after his inspection, said.
"You get a raise in pay."

College Notes

SAN MARCOS - Four Pampa residents among the 3,797 Southwest Texas State University students whose fall semester grades earned them places on the fall Dean's Honor and Superior Honor Lists. Janelle J. Bevel, Phillip A. Darce, Steven D. Waters, and Lana G. Young.

Placement on the regular honors list requires that a student be enrolled for a minimum of 12 semester hours of course work, excluding physical education activities, and that at least an overall "B" average is achieved.

AUSTIN - Brian Lee Walls of Pampa, was among 390 University of Texas students who were candidates for Bachelor of Business Administration degrees at the close of the fall semester.

DENTON - Floyd A. Killough of Pampa was among 906 candidates receiving degrees at North Texas State University this winter.

Although no winter commencement is conducted at NTSU, all winter graduates will be invited to join the spring graduation class in formal commencement ceremonies in May at the University.

Killough is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Killough, 318 N. Faulkner. He received the bachelor of arts degree in sociology.

AUSTIN - James Scott Gallman of Pampa was among 331 students at the University of Texas to the College of Pharmacy honor roll for the 1974 fall semester. Students named to the honor roll maintained at least a B average (3.0) for 12 semester hours of academic work. (A equals 4 points.)

NORMAN - Randy Linville, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.O. Linville, 1829 N. Banks, and Kenneth Tackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tackett, 401 N. Doyle, both 1974 graduates of Pampa High School, were on the Dean's Honor Roll at the University of Oklahoma.

CANYON - Kathy McCurley, soprano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McCurley of Mobeetie, was recently presented in a senior recital in the Fine Arts Theatre of West Texas State University. She is a voice student of Miss Elsa Porter.

Miss McCurley has been awarded an applied music scholarship for four consecutive years, and is an officer of Mu Phi Epsilon professional music sorority, and has been active in the Baptist Student Union, serving on its executive council for three years. She sings with HIS, a religious choral group, and with the WTSU Choral.

ABILENE - Philip Dwaine Gage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle O. Gage, 303 N. Starkweather, was named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the 1974 fall semester at Abilene Christian College, according to Paul Wilson, assistant registrar.

To be eligible for the Dean's Honor Roll, a student must maintain at 3.45 grade - point - average or above and have a course load of at least 12 credit hours. Gage's grade - point - average was 3.54.

HUNTSVILLE - Hugh Jones, son of Paul R. Jones of Pampa, recently completed a four - day tour of Texas high schools with the Sam Houston State University Symphonic Band.

Jones is a junior saxophonist majoring in music education.

STEPHENVILLE - Steve Higdon of Pampa has been appointed business manager of the J-TAC, student newspaper, at Tarleton State University. Higdon, a graduate of Pampa High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buster W. Higdon, 1919 Faulkner. He is a senior marketing major and plans to graduate in May of this year.

He is also a member of the TSU Jazz Ensemble which was the representative of Texas at the 1974 Worlds Fair in Spokane, Wash.

SONYA MOSS

WEATHERFORD - Okla. - At the completion of two years of pre - professional studies, Sonya Ann Prall Moss of Pampa has been admitted to the Southwestern State University of Pharmacy in Weatherford, Okla. The daughter of Dean W. Prall, Howard, Colo., and Frances Prall, Weatherford, will be awarded a bachelor of science in pharmacy degree at the end of the three - year professional program.

CANYON - Douglas Laramore, West Texas State University graduate music major, presented a trumpet recital recently in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Laramore, who is a graduate assistant in the Music Department, and a member of Kappa Kappa Psi service fraternity, performs with the WT lab band, the Tiffany Brass Dance Ensemble and the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra.

Laramore is the son of J.L. Laramore of Pampa.

LIBRARY LINES

By Mary Fatheree

"Library Story Time," the Friends of the Pampa Library - sponsored story hour for pre-kindergarten children will wind up its spring session on March 27. Mrs. Adelaide Colwell, who has been in charge of the program since its inception, reports that from 20 to 25 children, evenly divided between boys and girls, have attended each weekly meeting since January.

The success of the venture, which ensures its being continued next fall, is due to the efforts of Mrs. Colwell, her assistant Mrs. Cranz Nichols, and the following volunteer storytellers: Madames Carl Brugger, James Raley, B.D. Kessel, Doyle Beckman, David Holt, Victor Raymond, Larry Cross, W.A. Morgan, J.E. Gibson, Jr., Frank M. Carter, Jr., Bruce Riehart, Buddy Cockrell, W.E. Neslage, Randol Nichols, and Ms. Anna Pierce.

National Library Week, April 13 - 19, will mark the beginning of the Friends' annual membership drive - and its annual meeting to elect a slate of officers for 1975 - 76. At present, the 2-year-old organization boasts a membership of around 500 individuals and business.

The membership drive will be climaxed by a second-hand book sale to be held at the library in early May.

Those readers who are interested in ferreting out possible collectors' items from the Book Fair will want to consult a book recently donated to the library by the Friends:

"The new Gold in Your Attic" by Van Allen Bradley, Arco Publishing Company, Inc., New York, c. 1958 by Fleet Press Corp.

Widely referred to as the book collector's Bible, "Gold in Your Attic" gives a concise explanation of the two dominant categories of valuable books on the American collector's market today: Americana and first editions.

The term "Americana" embraces all of the historical literature of the American scene published before 1875. This includes state, county and local history; adventure, travel and explorations; Indians and Indian captivities;

Almanacs; Indian laws and treaties; territorial laws and overland narratives.

The second category, first editions, refers to the first printed form of an author's work between book covers.

Bradley's primer for collectors lists 42 fabulous American books and how to recognize them - along with a price index and guide to valuable books in the New World.

Area BPW Club Will Host Affair

Amarillo Business and Professional Women's Club will host the Emblem Breakfast Sunday, March 23 at 8:30 p.m. at the Hilton Inn, 1-40 East. BPW clubs in District IX and X and various women's civic clubs in Amarillo, and all interested persons are invited to attend the annual affair.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Ruth Lowes, PHD and the program theme is "The Flaming Torch of Wisdom."

Make reservations before March 18 by contacting Mrs. Bob Freeman, 6000 Adirondack, Amarillo, Tex., 79106 or telephone 373-8313. Tickets are $3.50.

Pampam Displays Rock Collection

It's been nearly a quarter of a century now - it was a vacation trip to Utah in 1952 - that C.W. (Charley) Stowell met a rockhound, a man who is interested in gem rocks and makes jewelry.

The enthusiastic conversation he had that day led Charley to becoming 'addicted' and before returning to Pampa, had perhaps over a hundred pounds of rocks in the car, already pretty well loaded with camping equipment and baggage.

Work was slow at first, purchasing equipment, diamond saws, polishing buffs and a sander, but through the years getting to be an experienced rockhound as the first cabochon was finished, the excitement of making jewelry grows, he chuckled.

On a warm day he can be found hanging around the workshop at home chiseling stone and creating beauty in rings, bracelets, earrings, book cases, spheres, cabinet displays and collections.

Charley has become the authority of rock hounding.

Young or old, Pampam's will want to view the Bicentennial Collection on display this week at Lovett Memorial Library.

Equally magnificent is the rock map of the United States, each state perfectly shaped and polished. The Texas and California pieces were polished by the gentle hand of the 82-year-old man who believes that God has put the beauty in the rocks and it is a rockhound's duty to reveal it.

HEAR THEM RUNNING?

Reagan's Friends Begin Pushing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan's friends are trying now to line up delegates to support him for the presidential nomination at the 1976 Republican convention, administration political strategists said today.

President Ford has ordered his political lieutenants to let the Reagan forces have their fun for the time being, the strategists said.

(In Denver, Robert C. Walker, a Reagan strategist, was reached by UPI by telephone. Asked if Reagan's men were soliciting delegates, he said: "I heard nothing about that. I don't know anything about it." Had he heard it discussed? "No.")

The administration strategists said the President has told his aides to stay out of jockeying for power in the state and local Republican organizations.

For Ford does not fret about his chances of getting the GOP nomination for president, the sources said. Nor does he fear Reagan or any significant number of Republican right-wingers will bolt and form a third party.

Robert T. Hartmann, counselor to the President and Ford's key political adviser, attended a meeting of Republican governors recently and listened to one describe the Reagan "threat," Hartmann shook his head.

"At the 1976 Republican National Convention, Gerald R. Ford will be nominated for president by acclamation or by default," Hartmann told the governors.

For in Ford-Hartmann eyes, the decisive factor in the making of the President in 1976 will not be what the former California governor does, but what the GOP "kamikazi conservatives" do about their third party grumbling, and even whether Vice President Nelson Rockefeller is transformed from a bogeyman to conservatives into a source of support for middle-of-the-roads.

The decisive factor of 1976 in White House eyes will be the state of America's economy.

If the recession worsens, woe betide Ford's — or any other Republican nominee's — chances of beating the Democrats. But if the economy improves — and Ford believes it will — then his chances of a November 1976 presidential election victory are very high.

In Hartmann's terms, a good economic picture for America means a GOP presidential nomination for Ford by acclamation; and a poor economic showing would leave the nomination to Ford by default because no other major figure would want it.

According to the administration political strategists, here are some political facts of fortune:

—Rockefeller today is a liability because of a political hatred he arouses among GOP right-wingers who do not forget his refusal to support party presidential nominee Barry Goldwater in 1964. But by election time in 1976, Rockefeller will be an asset because of the attraction to the middle-of-the-road voters Ford needs to win the presidential election.

—Rockefeller can be all but assured of being Ford's 1976 vice presidential running mate. Ford has not yet spoken the final yes to Rockefeller. "Presidents including Franklin Roosevelt, Lyndon Johnson and Nixon just don't name their running mates until the last minute," one administration strategist said.

—Ford's men are convinced Rockefeller does not plan to seek the presidential nomination next year.

—Reagan is unlikely to form a third party because the GOP, however battered by Watergate and recession, is better than any new party as a presidential springboard.

—Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire is the best known of those Republicans who yearn to bolt. "No sensible Republican would follow him" out of the party.

—Thomson and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama basically are "radical populists" and could accommodate each other in a third party.

—What has damaged Ford's current standing with right-wing Republicans are his amnesty program for Vietnam deserters, his pardon of Nixon ("some party loyalists felt betrayed by Nixon and thus did not want him pardoned"), Ford's adoption of deficit budget spending in the face of rising unemployment and recession ("but in their hearts, intelligent right-wingers know Ford had no choice") and, most of all, picking Rockefeller for his vice president.

—Some GOP critics of Ford, attacking him for such things as spending, really are trying to put the President in a frame of mind where, to be rid of woe, he will not name Rockefeller as his 1976 running mate. "But Ford is delighted with Rockefeller."

—Ford's strategy is to pull America out of economic slump; nothing could help him more in winning in 1976.

—Ford will make a "very political trip" into New Hampshire this year. He will go to (1) demonstrate that Thomson and Manchester Union-Leader publisher William Loeb, Thomson's main supporter, hold no political terror for him, (2) buttress the regular pro-Ford Republican state organization led by former Sen. Norris Cotton, (3) convince traditional Republican voters in New Hampshire of the first two points, and (4) raise money for the party campaign war chest.

Soybean growth, from germination to maturity, generally is directly proportional to the amount of water available in the soil, farm specialists say.

Kleasen To Defend Own Sanity At Austin Murder Trial Monday

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Robert Elmer Kleasen, a 42-year-old mystery figure who claims to be a former CIA agent, goes to court

Monday to defend his sanity and invite prosecution on charges of murdering two Mormon missionaries.

H2S Dangerous But 'Should Not Banish'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Oil company officials recognize hydrogen sulfide as "toxic, flammable, explosive and corrosive." It is responsible for the deaths of 16 persons in West Texas.

But these officials say the colorless poisonous gas should not be banished from oilfields, but persons living in areas where it is used should be made more aware of its dangers.

The Texas Railroad Commission opened hearings Thursday on regulations needed to cover

Want to Deny Bail, Allow Confessions

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A citizens group called "Texans for Public Safety" wants passage of a constitutional amendment to deny bail to persons who commit an offense while already free on bail from another charge.

F.J. Dyke of Houston, chairman of the group, said Thursday legislation is also needed to allow oral confessions to be used in criminal cases.

"Violent crime, especially as it is associated with armed robbery, has increased rapidly and more must be done to protect Texas shopkeepers and their customers," said Dyke, chairman of the board of National Convenience Stores.

"A great deal of public attention has been focused on organized crime, and properly so," he said. "But we should not overlook the fact that the unorganized violent criminal is a growing danger to Texas citizens."

"It is this street hoodlum who is responsible for most of the crimes against life and property and Texas should have laws which give greater protection to its people."

Kleasen lost battle Thursday to fire defense attorneys who insist he is insane. District Judge Tom Blackwell agreed, however, to let Kleasen act as co-counsel in his own defense.

"Since my life is at stake in this I feel like I want to be on top of things every second of the way," Kleasen told the judge.

Kleasen is charged with capital murder in the deaths of Gary Smith Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Mark J. Fischer, 19, Milwaukee, Wis.

The two missionaries for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints disappeared after going to Kleasen's trailer home for dinner Oct. 28.

Texas Rangers accused Kleasen of robbing and shooting the youths, sawing them into tiny pieces and dumping the unrecognizable bodies with animal carcasses from a nearby taxidermist shop.

Psychiatrists who examined Kleasen at a federal mental hospital in Springfield, Mo., and one of two private doctors appointed by Blackwell reported he is incompetent to stand trial.

Kleasen, however, forbade his attorneys to summon the psychiatrists or other witnesses who might tell a jury he needs to be committed to a mental hospital.

"He says he's sane and should go to trial," attorney Bob Gibbins said. "He's undoubtedly one of the most interesting individuals I've ever run into. I think he's a brilliant man. He has a most interesting background riddled with tragedies and some injustices."

Kleasen testified Thursday he holds degrees from the State University of New York at Buffalo, State University of California at Berkeley, University of Stockholm and University of Copenhagen in Denmark.

He also said he was a sheriff's deputy in New York for three years, studied police science at Erie County Technical Institute for three years and graduated from the National Police Academy at Quantico.

In recent letters to a Longview, Tex., pen pal Kleasen also claimed to be an ex-CIA agent who quit his undercover work as a student because he considered the Nixon administration morally corrupt and his orders "the work of the Devil."

"I have been harassed in one way or another for a long, long time because of my antiwar feelings — which will probably hurt the judge's feelings — both here and in Europe and in Nam," Kleasen told Blackwell.

Kleasen also complained his home in Buffalo, N.Y., and a farm in Williamson, N.Y., were illegally seized and sold after his arrest on a 1971 assault charge.

FBI agents seized a fantastic array of weapons at Kleasen's home. He testified Thursday the arsenal included more than 350 guns and millions of rounds of ammunition worth more than $500,000.

Kleasen complained the collection has mysteriously dwindled and told Blackwell "through one way or another I don't even have a pair of socks."

For the past two years Kleasen has lived in a cramped camper trailer police say was stolen. He worked sporadically as a carpenter's aide and spent much of his time attending church meetings.

Midwest, Prairie Rails

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Federal government apparently decided this week that one Penn Central disaster is enough. The Interstate Commerce Commission appeared on the verge of letting the 7,500 mile Rock Railroad die.

Under a new ICC plan, some of the Rock Island's better routes would be sold to other carriers, but most of its vast trackage in the Midwest and prairie states would be torn up and sold for scrap and the right of way eventually sold off.

The Rock Island has not been profitable for years. Its executives recently took a pay cut and employees voted to lend the company 10 per cent of their pay. But that wasn't enough. Deciding that nothing could really save the carrier, the government refused the Rock Island a $130 million emergency loan. The company did receive funds from the Chicago Regional Transportation Authority to keep it running for the rest of this month.

The prospect of the outright disappearance of a railroad stretching from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and from Minneapolis to Denver underlines the severity of this recession. The trouble with the Rock Island is, unlike the Penn Central, it does not provide exclusive or nearly exclusive rail service in its territory, so the ICC eventually found its survival not essential to the nation.

Meanwhile, a federal judge in Philadelphia finally approved the sale to a New York developer of the bankrupt Penn Central's huge freight yards in midtown Manhattan. These yards have been little used in recent years. Although their ultimate value may be $300 million, the PC will get no immediate cash out of the deal and may ultimately get only about $65 million.

The rest of the business news was somber in contrast with last week's somewhat cheerful tone. President Ford's economic adviser, Alan Greenspan, said the Gross National Product may show a 10 per cent drop in real terms during the current quarter.

The huge Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. said it will close 1,250 of its stores, about one-third of the chain, idling some 3,000 workers.

The automobile companies, after recalling workers last week, announced new one-week layoffs for about 17,000. The pace of sales of new domestic cars in the middle third of March set a 14-year low as the rebate incentive ended. However, the drop from the previous 10 days was only 3 per cent.

It was indicated profits of the automobile industry will be under $80 million this year for the first time since the Great Depression. International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. said it had its first drop in earnings in 15 years in 1974.

Spring Mills, Inc., of Fort Mill, S.C., announced it will close nine weaving and finishing mills in South Carolina next week, idling 7,500 workers.

Police departments across the country reported a big rise in arson fires — falling businesses trying to shift the burden of their losses to insurance companies.

The Federal Reserve System cut the discount rate to 6 1/4 per cent and more big banks lowered the prime rate for top business borrowers to 7 1/4 per cent.

The oil companies reported gasoline temporarily is in surplus supply in the United States and, here and there, local price wars developed among service stations.

Gulf Oil Corp. accepted a consent decree accusing it of having a secret fund of $10 million for illegal political contributions. The company named distinguished New York lawyer John McCloy to investigate the matter.

Federal Judges Judged Harshly by State Reps

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texans are sick and tired of federal district judges who "act like little Gods," said Rep. Emmett Whitehead, D-Rusk, wants Congress to do something about it.

Whitehead won 71-47 House approval Thursday for a resolution asking Congress to initiate an amendment to the U.S. Constitution to let citizens elect federal district judges rather than having them appointed for life terms by the president.

"All we're asking the Congress to do is consider what's happening to our great country because of the tyranny of these federal judges," Whitehead said. "The people are sick and tired."

worn out and disgusted with these federal judges who act like little Gods."

Whitehead said federal judges' decisions in Texas had turned 100 criminally insane people loose from Rusk State Hospital on technicalities.

"I'm just angry, because if they're going to make the laws by God, then let them meet the people at the ballot box every six years. I don't believe our founding fathers intended for one branch of the government to dominate another, and there's no question that the judiciary now dominates the legislative."

"We're wasting an hour and a half of our time because somebody had a personal bone to pick."

Gas Bill May Cause Power Shift

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Walter Monden, R-Houston, says his bill cutting off the out-of-state sale of oil and gas produced on state-owned lands in Texas will result in the biggest shift of governmental power since the Civil War and could leave the Eastern Seaboard to wither and die.

Monden easily passed his bill through the Senate, and it is now pending in the Texas House. It prohibits shipment of oil and gas from state-owned lands outside the state until all Texas needs are met.

The Houston senator, often called "Mad Dog" by his colleagues, says the situation might have been avoided if eastern states had developed their own natural resources rather than relying on Texas to supply their energy needs.

If his bill becomes law, Monden said the eastern states will have two choices.

"They'll have to either drill offshore or develop their coal resources. If they refuse to do either of these, then that Eastern Seaboard will wither and dry up and Texas will undoubtedly become the dominant state in the union, and states from Louisiana to the West Coast will set the policies of the nation."

Monden contends eastern states now control governmental decisions which have imposed artificial prices on Texas resources and caused the state's consumers to pay inflated prices, particularly since the energy crisis began.

"The natives are getting restless, and some of them say

"let's harass them by the 55 mile an hour speed limit and threatening to stop sending them our resources," Monden said, referring to a House bill allowing Texans to drive faster than 55 with only minimal fines.

"That's no way. We've got to outsmart them."

"Something's happened to those people on the East Coast, and I really believe they've lost their ability to govern. They still have control right now. They've got the most guns and they've got the nuclear bomb. But they're wounded. We've got to outsmart them, and that's what this bill does."

INSURANCE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Health insurance benefits for the jobless are the focus of newly introduced congressional bills.

One of these would authorize the Secretary of Labor to pay until June 30, 1976, the premium to continue health insurance coverage of any jobless worker.

TEST

NEW YORK (UPI) — The test of a hospital's viability today and in the future is, "how well it can provide the care that is best for the community and its patients within the community's resources," said Wade Mouniz. He is chairman of the American Hospital Association's board of trustees.

"To bring hospitals closer to passing the test," he said, "hospitals need to pay more attention to developing the necessary range of services for citizens."

Arkansas House Aborts Efforts At Conformity

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — The only Catholic member of the Arkansas House led a successful effort Thursday to effectively kill a bill making the state's abortion laws conform to U.S. Supreme Court rulings.

Rep. Frank Willems of Paris added two amendments the bill's authors consider unconstitutional.

Willems said he had worked with "pro-life" groups to draft the amendments which would allow hospitals to refuse facilities for abortions and require the consent of the father for an abortion to be performed.

"The only reason for abortion is to kill the life of the unborn," Willems said.

The bill, which had been drafted by the Arkansas Medical Society and sponsored by the House Public Health, Welfare and Labor Committee, was sent back to committee after being amended.

Rep. Walter Day of Blytheville, the committee chairman, said one of the amendments was unconstitutional and the other probably was unconstitutional. He said he was sure the committee would not approve the bill with the amendments attached and the bill would die.

Eugene Warren, attorney for the medical society, agreed the amendment allowing hospitals to refuse facilities for abortions was unconstitutional.

The other amendment, adopted 53-24, besides requiring the father's consent would also require all abortions be performed in hospitals. The Supreme Court said abortions during the first three months of pregnancy could be performed wherever the woman and her doctors decided.

"When we get control of the Interior Department, we're going to drill off the shore of the East Coast, and the whole nation will benefit."

Texas legislators have proposed a whole series of bills and resolutions aimed at forcing eastern states to allow offshore drilling.

"They (eastern states) are becoming aware that we in the oil-producing states are very concerned about discrimination against us," said Rep. John Hoenenbach, D-Odessa. "They are realizing we are organizing and beginning to fight back."

Speaker Bill Clayton and others have mentioned dividing Texas into five states to increase the area's political impact in Washington. Monden sees that idea as a waste of time.

"I'm not talking about secession," he said. "We're going to take over this country."

First National Bank, 100 N. Cuyler, will close for the day at noon Monday in memory of Mrs. Inez Worley Carter.

Maternity Leads Immorality Says Mayor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Councilman Frank E. Mann says he's against anything that encourages immorality and that includes extending maternity benefits to all female employees, married or not.

"If any system encourages immorality, I'm not for it," Mann said Thursday.

Mann got the council to postpone action on the proposal this week. He said he is waiting for a report comparing the cost of the insurance plan with an alternative plan of providing birth control pills for city employees.

Poppy Northcutt, women's advocate for the mayor's office, said the current insurance plan discriminates against unmarried women because maternity benefits are only paid to the female employees whose husbands are enrolled in the plan at an extra cost.

She said one or two unmarried employees become pregnant each year compared to about 100 married employees who become pregnant.

Odds Are Eight to Three Gamblers Can Be Addicts

LOS ANGELES — Little is known about why people gamble, says Dr. Darren W. Bolen, but gambling is big business — the biggest in the United States.

Just defining what is and what isn't gambling is involved, he says.

"If you bet on a horse, that's gambling. If you bet you can make three spades, that's entertainment. If you bet cotton will go up three points, that's business."

Bolen, a psychiatrist, says that, at best, gambling is considered a minor vice.

He estimates that about 60 per cent of the people in the United States gamble in one form or another.

Bolen compares the social gambler to the social drinker. He gambles as a social lubricant, has occasional losses, but gambling is not a serious problem in his life.

The compulsive gambler, however, is addicted to the excitement and thrill of the action, like an alcoholic is addicted to the bottle.

"He never gets things together the right way at the right time," says Bolen. "He gambles too much and loses too much. He lies, deceives himself and is a detriment to his family and friends."

"The compulsive gambler is a poor loser and when he wins, often is a braggart."

Bolen says the professional gambler usually is honest. It is his element of skill that gives him the edge. He defines the professional as a person who makes all or part of his living through gambling.

Compulsive gamblers often start with a big win

Other characteristics which set the professional apart from the compulsive gambler include his complete knowledge of his game, says the psychiatrist.

"The professional gambler has an enormous amount of self-confidence, independence of thought and relies on his own judgment."

"He has a unique ability to have total, complete and absorbing concentration on the task at hand."

"He usually is physically ready for the game, sleeps well, exercises and eats lightly. Contrary to popular opinion, the professional gambler has a very temperate life and habits."

Dr. Bolen says when Nick the Greek played he focused on his opponents' breathing, perspiration and other subtle mannerisms.

The professional gambler has exceptional self-control says Dr. Bolen, in both the area of visible behavior and action and even over psychological reactions.

"This self-control separates the compulsive gambler from the professional."

A woman asked the psychiatrist the age of the youngest compulsive gambler.

"The youngest I ever heard of was an ex-priest who joined Gamblers Anonymous several years ago."

"He started gambling at about age 4, 5 or 6 at penny slot machines in some remote mining camp in Colorado."

Bolen says the youngster was just imitating a parent.

The psychiatrist says 80 per cent of compulsive gamblers have had a parent or parent surrogate who was a social or compulsive gambler.

Beginner's luck also is a factor in turning a person into a compulsive gambler. Bolen says 50 per cent of compulsive gamblers had a fantastic streak of luck then they first gambled.

Bolen says he's rather opposed to lotteries for the purpose of reducing taxes.

"Initial reports of the eastern lotteries are far less than encouraging. There have been no inroads into crime — instead there has been about a 52 per cent increase in gambling."

He says off-track betting has made only a slight dent into bookmaking.

Meeting Thursday To Explain Off-shore Dock

The story of how a Texas corporation plans to construct an unloading terminal off the Texas coast to receive imported oil will be told at a dinner meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute Thursday night in the Pampa Country Club.

Hugh Scott, president of Seadock, Inc., Houston, will be in Pampa for the meeting. He will give an illustrated lecture on the project.

The off-shore facility will be located 21 miles south of Freeport, Texas in water some 110 feet deep where it will receive petroleum imports from very large crude oil carriers (VLCC) of 200,000 tons dead weight.

The on-shore portion, where the imported oil will be received by 56-inch pipelines from the off-shore platform complex, is to be located approximately 4½ miles inland in the Jones Creek area near Freeport.

The system has been developed, according to Scott, because an unloading terminal off-shore has been found to be the most economical way of receiving imported oil from the very large crude carriers which cannot dock at U.S. ports too shallow to accommodate them.

The present estimated cost of the project is in excess of half a billion dollars. It will be financed by participating companies including Cities Service, Continental Pipe Line, Crown Central Petroleum, Dow Chemical, Exxon, Gulf Oil Corp., Mobil Oil, Phillips Petroleum.

Shell Oil and Texaco. Membership in the financial structure still is open.

Construction time on the entire project is expected to take three years after a federal license has been obtained.

Scott, the head of Seadock, Inc., is a former general manager of Mende Grand Oil Co. in Venezuela, managing director of Kuwait Oil Co., world-wide production manager for Gulf Oil Corp. in Pittsburgh, Pa., and a former vice president of Gulf Oil Corp. in Johannesburg, South Africa.

In 1970 he was moved to Houston and became president of Gulf Refining Co. and manager of transportation for Gulf Oil in the U.S. In 1974 he was named president of Seadock, Inc.

Among his industry affiliations, Scott has been chairman of the American Petroleum Central Committee on Pipeline Transportation.

Professionally he is a member of A.I.M.E.

Martin Ludeman, secretary-treasurer of the local API chapter said a door prize will be furnished at Thursday night's meeting by Louvier Fluid Service of Pampa.

Ludeman said the chapter's 1975 membership drive currently is underway and memberships can be obtained from any of the following officers:

John Rogers, Tex as Railroad Commission; Harold Lawley, Kewanee Oil Co., James Rakey, Skelly Oil Co., all in Pampa, and or from Russell Weston, Phillips Petroleum Co., Borger.

Illegal Aliens File To Force Education

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Immigration and Naturalization Service wants to deport a Mexican family who went to court to try to force the school district to provide free education for two illegal alien children.

The Immigration Service Thursday scheduled a hearing March 31 on the deportation of Juan Jimenez-Maldonado, 51, and his family.

Jimenez filed suit in October to prevent the school district from requiring students to provide proof of citizenship. The school board later ruled children could attend school if one of their parents was a legal resident.

Jimenez was first believed to be a legal alien because he was formerly married to an American. However, the immigration service said Jimenez, who has lived here for 25 years, was married at the same time to his present wife, Gloria, an illegal alien and the American marriage was null.

Jimenez' attorney, Sam Williamson, said he would fight the deportation order.

Brisco Still for Sterling

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he is still backing his appointment of Walter G. Sterling to the University of Texas Board of Regents despite the Houston manufacturer's onetime membership in the John Birch Society.

Briscoe said Thursday he believed Sterling would still be confirmed by the Senate.

"Mr. Sterling had the good judgment to remove himself from that organization when he found out about its aims," Briscoe said. "I think this is the important part I think he showed very good judgment in getting out."

The governor said he was not aware of Sterling had once belonged to the Birch Society or the Houston Committee for Sound American Education until critics of the nomination brought out Sterling's memberships during Senate hearings.

The critics said the Houston group fought public school desegregation, but Sterling said the committee merely contributed to campaigns of school board candidates.

"I do not think that it will affect his nomination, that is, I think, that he will be confirmed," Briscoe said.

Sterling, 73, also has been criticized because of his age.

"I do not think age should be a major factor if a person is in good health and capable of carrying out the job," Briscoe said.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
Two weeks ago this column carried an article concerning the "Creating of Ground Water Conservation Districts". Last week we had planned to carry a column on the "Powers of Ground Water Conservation Districts". Instead we carried a portion of Governor Dolph Briscoe's address to the Texas Water Conservation Association. Today we are carrying the delayed article.

Powers of Ground Water Districts

The powers and functions of ground-water districts are specified by Chapter 52. This is both a general and specific law, giving board powers to districts created thereunder. The powers that can be exercised by districts created under this law supplant and exceed the groundwater regulatory powers of any other unit of government, either State or Federal.

This law specifically provides for districts to: 1. Make and enforce rules to provide for conserving, preserving, protecting, recharging, and preventing waste of the underground water. 2. Employ registered professional engineers to make surveys of the underground water reservoir or subdivision and surveys of the facilities for development, production, and use of the water. 3. Develop comprehensive plans for the most efficient use of the underground water. 4. Carry out research projects, develop information, and determine limitations which should be made on withdrawing underground water. 5. Collect information regarding the use of underground water and the practicability of recharging the reservoir. 6. Publish its plans and the information it develops. 7. Acquire land to erect dams or to drain lakes, draws, and depressions; construct dams, drain lakes, depressions, draws, and creeks; and install pumps and other equipment necessary to recharge the underground water reservoir. 8. Require that records be kept and reports be made of the drilling, equipping, and completing of water wells and of the production and use of underground water. 9. Require permits for the drilling, equipping, or completing of wells, or for substantially altering the size of wells or well pumps. 10. Require that accurate drillers' logs be kept of water wells and that copies of drillers' logs and electric logs be filed with the district. 11. Provide for the spacing of water wells and may regulate the production of wells. 12. Enforce its rules by injunction, mandatory injunction, or other appropriate remedy in a court of competent jurisdiction. The Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian River, in Texas, was voted into being on January 23, 1968. Parts of six counties were included in the original subdivision. These counties were Potter, Carson, Gray, Armstrong and Roberts. Carson and Gray had affirmative votes and the others cast negative votes. In 1961 Potter voted into the District. In 1973 a portion of Armstrong County petitioned to join the District and was accepted by the Board of Directors of the District.

The District is governed by a five member Board of Directors elected from the five precincts of the District. They are elected for two year terms. The terms are staggered with three being elected in odd numbered years and two elected in even numbered years.

The District's work program is financed by a 3-cent per one hundred dollars valuation on personal and real property, within the District. In some prior years the tax rate has been 5-cents and 4-cents per one hundred dollars valuation. The taxes are assessed and collected by each of the County's duly elected tax assessor-collector.

The functions of the District include a primary concern directed toward the orderly development of groundwater pumped from the fresh water underground Ogallala aquifer reservoir as it is sometimes called. As defined by Article 7880-3c "Underground Water" is water suitable for agricultural, gardening, domestic or stock raising purposes, percolating below the earth's surface, and does not include defined subterranean streams or the underflow of rivers. In a future column we will pursue this subject further.

The pink granite stone used to build the Texas Capitol at Austin in 1888 was donated in exchange for the state opening a railroad line to the central Texas community of Burnett.

The Liberty Bell received its famed crack on July 8, 1835, while tolling for the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall in Philadelphia.

Hurricane Celia hit the South Texas coast Aug. 3, 1970, and caused the highest monetary damage of any Texas hurricane, $43,773,000.

Wheat Prospects

With each small snow and rain, prospects for an abundant wheat crop is enhanced. We now have abundant moisture and only sixty days until May 15. Little moisture is needed after this date... cause wheat goes into its maturity date. One or two well-spaced rains between now and May 15 could set us up for one of the best wheat crops ever.

There is a great deal of anxiety about wheat and milo price at harvest and later in the year. The price is totally dependent on the world demand, ability to pay, and our own actions by our Government. Remember earlier when I mentioned the trade restriction placed on an unrelated bill that dealt with the internal affairs of Russia? After this was rejected by Russia, there has been a constant drop in the price of wheat. It has now fallen to $1.50 per bushel. This could cost Gray County farmers over five million dollars based on expected yields.

Underground Line Helps

By JIM ROACH
Soil Conservation Service
Farmers and ranchers utilizing underground irrigation pipeline, properly designed and installed, will maximize the economic and conservation efficiency of their irrigation system.

One advantage of underground pipelines which increases the efficiency and output of the irrigation well is less friction loss than an aluminum flow line. Also, aluminum flow lines normally have leaks at the couplings which create messy wet spots. Above ground aluminum flow lines always seem to be in the way at turnrows and across farm roads.

For information regarding underground irrigation pipeline designs or any other conservation problems you may have on your place, contact the local Soil Conservation Service office in Pampa.

Iron pills resembling candies cause more than 2,000 poisoning cases a year — mostly in young children, according to a spokesman for the National Poison Control Center.

Leon Daugherty seems to have summed up every one's feeling recently when he stated, "If you are a cattleman and an irrigation farmer you have had the old one and now you are about to get the old one, too." Please pass the Alkasetzer. Another farmer said the way he was going to ride this out was to quit buying everything unless an absolutely essential item. Another farmer I know real well turned down one of the hard to get tractors when it came in. In my opinion one of the things that is hurting the economy in a severe way is this anxiety among farmers. Last year they purchased sixty-four billion dollars worth of materials. Let farmers get pessimistic and they definitely affect the economy. Most major depressions were preceded by sharp drop in farm commodity prices.

The 1975 Top o' Texas Livestock Show is now history and Gray County 4-H members are already preparing for the '76 show.

I would personally like, however, to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped with preparing all of the steers and barrows for the show. The task of preparing all of these animals would have been impossible without your help. I could not possibly name everyone who helped, so I'll just say thanks, once again, to everyone who helped in any way. I would also like to thank everyone who helped with the bidders breakfast and most of all, thanks to all of the people who turned out for the sale, contributed to the pool, and bid on these boys and girls animals. Thanks to everyone who helped make the show and sale a success for these kids.

County Shows
4-H'ers have really been busy with the Top o' Texas Stock Show and County Food Show. The winners were listed earlier in the paper. Congratulations go to them all. Six 4-Hers went to Amarillo Saturday March 15 for the District 1 Food Show. They were Elaine Webb, Sally Brainerd, Patricia Snuggs, Mike Wilkinson, Cindy Gage and Bobbie Skaggs.

4-H County Council Meets
The 4-H County Council met March 8 with Frank Morrison presiding in the absence of the president. The Council approved a Seed Sale and Pressure Cooker Sale to raise money. The packets of vegetable and flower seeds will sell for $1 for five different kinds of seeds. The pressure cookers will sell for $45 for a 18-quart and $48 for a 21 quart.

County Camp
The 4-H County Council also voted to have the County Camp at the new 4-H Center in Brownwood for July 25-27. The cost will be around $16 per person for food and lodging. The seed sale money will be used to pay for the bus, so get ready to sell. The date for the County 4-H Fair was set for Aug. 18. These dates are months away, but you can start making plans today.

TOBACCO TAXES

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Taxes on tobacco brought in a record $5.8 billion to federal, state and municipal governments in the year through June, 1974, according to the Tobacco Tax Council. It says the average price for a package of cigarettes was 44.5 cents, with taxes amounting to about 20 cents a pack. The federal tax comes to eight cents, but state taxes range from a low of two cents in North Carolina to 21 cents in Connecticut.

FILMING DELAYED HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Warner Bros. delayed filming the pilot show of its proposed new series, "Salt and Pepp," until it can find a Puerto Rican costar lead in the 21-23-year-old age range.

Card of Thanks
We wish to express our most sincere thanks to all those who helped in any way during the loss of our dear loved one. To Brother Ted Savage for the comforting message. Don Booser and Mrs. Sheila Parr for the beautiful music. Central Baptist Church, Carmichael - Whitley Funeral Home, Dr. J.M. Key and the staff at Highland General Hospital. Also thank you to our many friends and neighbors for the beautiful cards - for the food that was prepared and served. The beautiful flowers and memorials given in her name. Thank you all and May God bless each of you.
The Family of Opal Riffel
