We mentioned the other day that District Attorney Pete Greene is one of those fortunate people witnessing the Olympics in Munich, Germany.

Pete is over there with an uncle, James Wade Greene, who is the hospitality chairman for the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

Wade Greene, a former Snyder High School athlete, has been an AAU official for many years.

The Olympics still must rank as one of the most colorful shows on television at this time and the ABC Network should be commended for bringing the nightly three-hour shows to the American audience.

The widespread exposure of the activities in Munich could well open a few eyes. The Olympics bring people from many nations together and provide an opportunity for people of the world to see their neighbors in an atmosphere of friendly competition—friendly, but serious.

And, it is not always what you see, but what you don't see that tells a story. For example, the wire services quoted Angela Davis the other day as saying that if it had not been for Russia, she would not be free. So, we began looking with renewed interest at the Russian competitors in the Olympics and eventually the question arose? Where are Russia's black Olympians? In fact, where are the black Olympians from any major European communist nation?

The Texas Tourist Development Agency says the Lone Star State is now near the top of the popularity list with vacationing American families.

They base the claim on a new poll, or survey, which was made for Better Homes and Gardens Magazine.

With 2.8 million family vacation visits credited to the state last year, Texas was exceeded by only five states–California, Florida, New York, Pennsylvania and Tennessee. The survey showed that the visitors spent $474 million in Texas.

Someone finally got around to asking some U.S. Air Force bomber pilots in Vietnam about those dikes in North Vietnam. They thought it was almost unbelievable that the American public might swallow the propaganda that some of the self-appointed foreign affairs experts have been bringing back from the office of Hanoi. All said they had never been on a mission with dikes as targets. One perhaps summed up the absurdity of the complaints in the best possible manner by suggesting that if dikes had been their targets there would be no dikes left today.

But of course these fellows do not have the first hand information that has been picked up by such sages as Ramsey Clark, Jane Fonda, and Ted Kennedy.

N-Viets Free Three POWs First In 3 Years

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnam announced today it is freeing three captured American pilots and said it would have freed more if the United States had given a positive response to Communist terms for peace in Vietnam.

In Paris, two U.S. antiwar activists said they personally would escort the prisoners home from Southeast Asia "in a matter of weeks."

The North Vietnamese, who last released American prisoners more than three years ago, did not specify when or where they would release the three airmen. It did say they would be turned over to an American antiwar group.

The two Americans in Paris are David Dellinger, a Chicago antiwar activist, and Cora Weiss of New York, co-chairmen of the Committeeof Liaison with Families of U.S. Servicemen held in North Vietnam.

Dellinger told newsmen in Paris that the release of the three men "could be delayed by the danger of floods in North Vietnam" which he claimed could be the result of the bombing of dikes.

"So if the Nixon administration wants to find one sure way of delaying the release of these three prisoners, it will be the continued bombing of the dikes," Dellinger said.

The United States has denied that North Vietnam's dikes are listed as targets for pilots.

Dellinger and Mrs. Weiss said the men are to be turned over directly to their families without "interference" by the U.S. government. Mrs. Weiss said that U.S. government interference with nine servicemen previously released had caused a "complete suspension of releases" by the North Vietnamese up to now.

Mrs. Weiss and Dellinger had met with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations at the Paris peace talks before Hanoi's broadcast announcing the release of the three men.

The announcement came on the 27th anniversary of the founding of North Vietnam, and said the release was ordered under the "humane and lenient policy of the government." The announcement said the pilots had applied for amnesty.

Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency said the prisoners, Markham Ligon Gartley and Norris Alphonso Charles, both Navy lieutenants junior grade, and Edward Knight Elias, an Air Force major, would be turned over to a U.S. antiwar group. It did not say precisely when or where the release would be made.

Among the three prisoners being released, Gartley, 28, has been held captive the longest, more than four years. He was shot down and captured Aug. 17, 1968, in Nghe An province in central North Vietnam. He was flying an F4 Phantom from the 7th Fleet carrier Constellation.

Gartley's father, Gerald, said in Greenville, Me., when he heard that his son was being released: "I can't believe it. When I shake his hand and when he walks through the door, I'll believe it. It's been so long now that it's just unreal."

WESTERN ARTIST JODIE BOREN

COWBOY ARTIST WAYNE BAIZE

AT DIAMOND M MUSEUM

2-Man Art Show Slated

Wayne Baize and Jodie Boren will be the principals of a two-man art show at the Diamond M Museum in Snyder, on Sept. 9 and 10. Announcement of the show was made Saturday by C.T. McLaughlin, founder of the museum.

In making the show announcement, McLaughlin said, "It is indeed a privilege and with great pride that we present the latest works of these two fine young artists. We feel that this major show at this particular time in the careers of Mr. Baize and Mr. Boren is a fortunate opportunity for collectors and lovers of Western art."

Both Baize and Boren are full-time career Western artists. Both men work in varied media. However, Baize is better known for his charcoal and colored pencil work while Boren is probably best known for his watercolor.

Show hours are 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 2 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 10. The Thompson Gallery of Original Art of Stephenville is co-sponsor of the show and the public is invited.

Boren's love for the open spaces has been life long. He is a native of Sweetwater.

"Every part of the country has its own peculiar beauty, but here in the Southwest there's a majesty and sombre beauty that almost defies the eye to turn away," Boren said.

His paintings are on display in several southwestern cities.

Baize, who actually lives on a ranch, visits many ranches of the Southwest to get ideas and to find natural settings for his paintings. One of his goals is to become a member of the exclusive Cowboy Artists Association of America. He usually does 12 to 15 oils per year, but many more charcoal and color pencil works.

IN WATERGATE SUIT

Testimony To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge ruled today that secret testimony from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell must continue in the Democrats' $1 million civil suit stemming from the break-in and alleged bugging of their national headquarters.

At the same time, U.S. Dist. Court Judge charles R. Richey ruled that testimony from the five persons charged in the break-in must wait until after a federal grand jury decides if criminal indictments are appropriate in the case.

Richey's action came on motions filed by attorneys for the five men arrested inside the Watergate Democratic offices on June 17.

The motions sought dismissal of the Democrats' suit alleging invasion of privacy and breaching of their constitutional rights on grounds that continued extensive publicity would prevent the five men from obtaining a fair criminal trial in the event the grand jury orders it.

The ruling means that secret questioning of Mitchell by Edward Bennett Williams, the Democrats' attorney, will continue Tuesday.

Mitchell walked out of the deposition session Friday apparently on the advice of his attorney that he should not give a deposition until the motions filed on behalf of the five men were acted on.

Specifically, Richey denied the motion for a stay. Both sides agreed to delay until another time a discussion of the motion to dismiss proceedings after Williams said he had not had time to study it completely. The motions, filed by Henry B. Rothblatt, representing the five men, were not made until Thursday night and did not reach Williams personally, he said, until Friday morning.

Much of the discussion before Richey revolved around the argument of whether the pre-trial publicity in fact jeopardized the defendants' right to a fair hearing in the civil suit and their possible rights under criminal prosecution.

In an interview Friday, State Atty. Richard Gerstein of Miami said the break-in at the Democratic offices was part of a "systematic plan to spy on the Democratic headquarters and steal their records."

Gerstein, a Democrat who has been investigating the break-in for two months, said his probe has spurred federal investigators who would have preferred to "sweep it under the rug" until after the November presidential election.

Heavy Showers In Area Again

Heavy rains drenched Snyder early Saturday as autumn-like weather prevailed over the region.

The new cold front, which had moved through the Panhandle on Friday touched off heavy showers in and around Snyder, but the rainfall Saturday morning apparently was lighter in other areas of the county.

Snyder's official gauge had 1.96 inches at reading time at 7 a.m. Saturday, and brisk showers continued most of the morning. The total for the 48-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Saturday was 3.47 inches.

To the southwest, lighter showers fell at Lake Thomas. Only half an inch was recorded there Saturday morning. Also, the early morning showers were lighter at Hermleigh, but good showers moved into that area later in the day. To the north of Hermleigh over two inches of rain had been reported before noon Saturday.

The cold front brought the scattered showers and thundershowers across most of northwest, west and southwest portions of the state, while fog and drizzle prevailed in the Panhandle.

Forecasters said the front was due to begin moving again, bringing cooler temperatures to the northwest quarter of the state. However, they expected the front to become stationary over Southwest Texas.

The showers spread into North Texas and continued in most areas behind the front. Partly cloudy weather was expected in other sections of the state, except the Coastal Plains where a few showers developed.

Heavy Battle Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of North and South Vietnamese troops battled north of Saigon Friday and today and field reports said there were nearly 400 casualties on both sides. In the air war, U.S. jets struck hard between Hanoi and the Chinese border.

U.S. Air Force pilots reported setting thousands of gallons of fuel afire in underground tanks, smashing a giant supply depot and recutting the northeast and northwest rail lines as they ranged above Hanoi to carry out the heaviest raids in five days Friday.

The intensified air attacks and fighting, which also erupted in the northern quarter and central highlands of South Vietnam as well as in the Saigon region, came as North Vietnam was observing the 27th anniversary of its national day, marking its declaration of independence on Sept. 2, 1945.

At the same time, the U.S. 7th Fleet disclosed that one of its vessels intercepted and seized 2½ tons of rice that the Communist Chinese had tried to float ashore from a freighter to North Vietnam in waterproof plastic and burlap sacks in efforts to circumvent the U.S. mine blockade. The rice was intercepted near Hon La Island, 32 miles northwest of the port of Dong Hoi.

Truck-Train Crash Fatal To Snyder Man

COLORADO CITY — Jack W. Beall, 48, who lived at 306 Thirty-sixth Street in Snyder, died in a truck-train crash here at about 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Beall, an engineer for McCullough Tool Co., was driving a company truck headed north on Texas Highway 208 when it was in collision with a Texas and Pacific Railway freight train headed east. The highway-railroad intersection is in the southeast edge of Colorado City. He was alone in the truck.

He is survived by his wife of the home, and two sons, Bruce Beall and Brent Beall, both of Snyder.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

General Holiday Is Slated Monday

Monday will be a general holiday in Snyder as a number of stores, offices and local schools observe Labor Day.

Snyder Public Schools and Western Texas College both will observe the holiday as will offices of government agencies, banks, etc.

The September Dollar Day will be observed Tuesday by Merchants, rather than the usual Monday.

42 Perish In Montreal Club Fire

MONTREAL (AP) — Forty-two persons perished and more than 60 were injured Friday night after a man dropped a fire bomb in the stairway of a packed downtown night club, turning it into an inferno, police reported.

They said four men were being held for questioning in connection with the blaze at the Blue Bird Cafe.

Area hospitals described a dozen of the injured as in critical condition.

Lt. Guy Paquette of the Montreal police emergency squad said: "We have three witnesses who say they saw three men drive up in a gray car. One of them jumped out and threw something into the building."

One witness said the three men who tossed the bomb had been thrown out of the club earlier.

Prizes For Ranch Day Announced

Prizes of $100, $75, $50, and $25 are being offered exhibitors at the fourth annual Ranch Day, scheduled Sept. 30 in the Scurry County coliseum.

Ranch Day is sponsored by the Snyder area unit of Ranch Headquarters Association as part of its program of recalling the ranching heritage of the area. Booths planned to compete for prizes need to be in keeping with the historic theme of the day, and preference will be given to booths which show people doing work which might have been done by the early settlers such as baking, carving, weaving, building, crocheting, etc. Displays of hobby collections in keeping with the heritage theme are also welcomed.

Booths and displays are to be completed by 12 noon on Ranch Day. The coliseum will be open to the public at 3 o'clock and remain open until 7 p.m. Reservations for booth or display space may be made by calling Mrs. Wraymond Sims, Mrs. Gene Best, or Mrs. G.A. Parks, Jr.

Also slated for Ranch Day is the introduction of a new 56-page book prepared by the Snyder Ranch Headquarters unit entitled "Early Ranching and Water Sources in West Texas." The book contains 15 articles and a map showing rivers, creeks, and springs in the area. It was edited by T.D. Cramer and Mrs. Parks.

History and entertainment will be combined in a western dramatic production under the direction of Charles Holland, assistant professor of speech and drama at Western Texas College. Rehearsals for the production are to begin Tuesday night. The cast and costumes will be moved to Lubbock for a second performance at Ranch Day there on Oct. 7.

Gramps won't play with grandson

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my father. He's a 53-year-old widower, and very intelligent and self-sufficient. He's been a wonderful father.

I am happily married and have one darling two-year-old son who is my father's only grandchild.

Abby, I love and respect my father, but he has got to be the world's worst grandfather. He tells me he has never cared much for small children. I want so much for my son to know his grandfather and to love him, but if my father sees him for half an hour a week, that's enough for him. Children aren't fooled, Abby, they know when someone likes them.

I have begged my father to play with him, and even to put on an act if necessary, but he says, "Please don't ask the impossible. I just never learned how to play with kids and I can't be a phony."

My husband's father is dead, so my father is the only grandfather my son will ever know, and it hurts me to see his lack of interest.

Isn't my father's attitude immature? YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR YOUNG: Inflexible, yes, but the lack of maturity is on your part for asking your father to put on an act. You're right. Children know when someone likes them. [They also know when someone doesn't.] Perhaps when your son is a little older your father will establish a genuinely good rapport with him. In the meantime, accept the fact that your father doesn't know how to "play" with children, and doesn't want to fake it. And don't hassle him about it, or your son will see even less of Grandpa.

DEAR ABBY: A while back a guy I was dating took me to the races. He gave me $2, so I chose a horse and bet him on the nose. My horse came in and I won $70. The guy insisted that I give him the whole $70. I said I would give him half of it.

I know it was his money, but I'm the one who placed the winning bet. He said if I didn't give him the $70 he wouldn't take me home. He meant it, too. I ended up taking the bus with $70 in my pocket. Was I right?

NO GAMBLER IN N. Y.

DEAR NO: Yes. You're obviously better at picking horses than people. Stick with whole horses.

DEAR ABBY: Have you or any of your readers ever heard of a floral offering being returned to the sender by the family of the deceased?

Ours was returned to us a few days after the funeral with the explanation that they were keeping only "real" flowers. [Ours were artificial, but they were beautiful.]

NAMELESS AND HURT

DEAR NAMELESS: This is a "first." It's difficult to believe that anyone could be so ignorant and unfeeling as to return any kind of floral offering for any reason.

DEAR ABBY: Please pass this on to the women who are obviously pregnant when their last child is still in diapers. They are frequently asked my surprised friends, "Pregnant again?"

I had five children, very close together, and needless to say I didn't plan it that way, but my friends thoughtlessly asked me, "Pregnant again?"

Auto Mishaps Logged Here

The 1970 Model Rambler of Mary Simmons Daniel, 2805 Avenue V, was involved in a collision with the 1971 Model Oldsmobile of Margaret Gray West, 3308 Avenue U, in the 1900 block of Twenty-sixth Street, at 9:44 a.m.

Another mishap occurred in the 100 block of the East Highway at 10:18 a.m. Involved were the 1967 Model Buick of J.R. Walker Jr. of Seagraves and a 1970 Model Oldsmobile driven by Ena Tooms Pogue, Route 2.

Police said Charles Verner Lee, 2000 Avenue L, apparently lost control of his 1967 Model Ford on the East Highway at 5:37 p.m. It crashed into a utility pole.

Brunswick Is Most Modern

BRUNSWICK, Germany (AP) — The most modern high magnetic field system in Europe, for research in atomic and nuclear physics, is located at the Physical Institute of the Technical University of Brunswick.

The Bitter-Magnet can reach an attracting force of 200,000 Gauss—one million times greater than the magnetic field of the earth.

About 350 tons of water must be pumped through the magnet hourly to keep the copper discs of the magnet from melting during use.

WTC Rodeo Team Opens New Season

The Western Texas College Rodeo Club begins its fall semester of competition in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association this week, traveling to Roswell, N.M. The rodeo will be hosted Sept. 5-9 at New Mexico Military Institute.

September 11-13 the Westerners will still be in New Mexico at Portales. That rodeo will be hosted by Eastern New Mexico University. On Sept. 21-24 the team will return to Texas at Sul Ross University at Alpine.

During Oct. 12-13-14 Western Texas College will host Southwest Region Intercollegiate competitors here during Western Week activities.

The WTC Rodeo club has over 50 members, but only 25 hold membership in the NIRA, qualifying them for Intercollegiate points. Out of these 25, six boys and three girls are selected to travel representing the school.

Two team members last year who placed high up in the Intercollegiate competition and went on to the National College finals in Bozeman, Mont. are back again this year. Janice Lisemby placed second in the Southwest Regional NIRA for her barrel racing and Jim Fuller also placed second for his calf roping.

The club sponsor, Van Rigby, pointed out that he had several new members that look to be top notch competitors and said that this year's team will bring home a lot of trophies.

Snyderite Has 25 Years With Mobile PLC

Born in Sabine County, Iles graduated from Pineland High School in 1943. A veteran of World War II, he served in the U.S. Navy as seaman 1c in the Pacific. He is presently a member of the Masonic Lodge and Veterans of Foreign Wars. During his leisure time, Iles enjoys fishing and hunting.

Iles joined Mobile Pipe Line as a pipeliner in the Beaumont area. In 1948 he transferred to Seminole and two years later he was promoted to field engineer, operating field pumping units in the company's gathering system at Sundown. In 1951, Iles was promoted to mainline engineer or station operator at Seagraves and three years later he became oiler at Mallet station. In 1958, he was transferred to DeLeon where he worked as a combination oiler, station operator and station pipeliner. A year later he moved to West Texas as station operator at Halley station. During the reorganization of Mobile North American Divisions and Mobile Pipe Line in 1960, Iles was backtracked to machinist helper and moved to Sweetwater, but at his request he preferred to be a pipeliner. In 1969 he moved to Midland station and was promoted to station gauger and in 1971 he became combination man and moved to Snyder where he works at Scurry station.

Married to the former Pearl Anderson of Butler, Okla., Iles has one daughter Billie Sue.

McGovern Claims Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has disputed claims by Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern that the President is not interested in Israeli security and that the number of Jews leaving Russia has dropped.

State Department spokesman Charles Bray, referring to remarks McGovern made Wednesday before the New York Board of Rabbis, said "the department can find nothing in the record which appears to resemble the views attributed to" the President.

McGovern was quoted as saying that the Nixon administration is not interested in Israeli security but in the expulsion of the Soviet Union from the Middle East.

And as for a McGovern statement to the same group that the number of Jews leaving the Soviet Union has been reduced since July 1, Bray said Jewish emigration estimates by refugee organizations are 19,000 to 20,000 persons so far in 1972. Bray said this was up from 14,000 in 1971 and includes 2,100 in July.

In Milwaukee, Clark MacGregor, campaign director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said McGovern's statement that taxes would be the main issue in the election is only "the issue of the week but I doubt if it will be the issue next week. They're desperate for issues."

Citing tax reform measures of the President—which MacGregor said were removing 9.5 million poor families from tax-paying rolls and reducing taxes of the nation's lowest wage-earners by 82 per cent, MacGregor said, "Their now resorting to a tax reform issue shows how pitiable their plight is ...."

Delayed Passengers Due Free Services

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — On some airlines, when there is a flight delay, the passengers who complain strongly enough may get a meal, a long distance call or even an overnight hotel room, all free of charge.

Passengers who are bashful or unaware of their rights may get nothing.

On Braniff, the delayed first class passenger can get a hotel room and a $5 dinner if he speaks up, but the coach passenger will get no more than a $3 dinner, and no free hotel room.

The Civil Aeronautics Board thinks all this may be discriminatory.

The CAB Friday launched an investigation of the so-called courtesy services which are provided passengers in the event of flight delays or cancellations.

Most of the airlines provide some services when a passenger holds a confirmed reservation and the delay exceeds four hours, the CAB said.

These include meals during normal meal hours, one long-distance telephone call or telegram, hotel accommodations if a scheduled flight is to depart between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., and ground transportation to the hotel or city center.

The CAB said four airlines—Delta, Eastern, Western, and Wien of Alaska—indicate they will take the initiative in informing the passenger of such services.

"All other carriers will provide information as to services available only upon the passenger's request," the board said.

"With few exceptions, the availability of complimentary services is left to the initiative of those passengers who are knowledgeable enough to request them.

"Most importantly, in the absence of such general notice, the opportunity for discriminatory treatment as between passengers is very real."

Coach Speaks At Rotary Session

American Youth Pass Swedish

HONOLULU (AP) — Two researchers today said some young Americans have already attained and even surpassed the goals of sexual liberality represented by Swedish students—long admired, envied, or hated by Americans.

Patricia L. Hall and Nathaniel N. Wagner reported to the American Psychological Association annual convention here on a questionnaire survey of college students enrolled in human sexuality course. The survey was conducted as an attempt to cross-validate a study by a Swedish sociologist.

They said "one remaining long-standing tradition was determined from the survey: women rarely admit to taking the initiative for instigating intercourse, they seldom admit to choosing casual acquaintances for first partners, and they are more likely than men to claim marriage or engagement with their partners."

The sample of 109 men and 120 American women who answered the questionnaires ranged from 18-30 years of age. In the 18-to-20 group, 69.6 per cent of the men and 57.8 per cent of the women had experienced intercourse, while in the 21-30 group, 75.5 per cent of the men and 84 per cent of the women had experienced sexual relations.

Late starters in both countries reported more improvement with practice.

Guard Against Auction Fever

The author starts from the premise that the great majority of auctions are on the level, but there are always a few that are tricky. And furthermore, there is the need for a newcomer to defend himself from the perfectly legitimate rivalry of experienced bidders who know more about the fine points of the merchandise than he does.

Mostly the book is about art and antiques auctions. The range is from the giant art auction house where prices sometimes get into the millions, to the small country auctions, the sales of unclaimed freight and of customs house leftovers.

There are practical tips on bidding, the idiosyncracies of auctioneers, the need to preview the offerings, the competition between dealers and collectors and specific pointers on factors that affect values.

Not all of the book is devoted to the auction itself, as there are bits of advice on how to go about collecting and how to improve a collection by a selective process.

There are also some notes on offbeat auctions, involving wine, or television bidding, or charity auctions that offer the services of celebrities.

The author, who is a painter, has interviewed a great many individuals and has done a thorough job in covering the whole field, making many of her points through anecdotes that often are amusing.

And she warns the reader against the dangers of "auction fever," an ailment which strikes even experienced collectors in the heat of competition. Which of course is a left-handed way of saying that auctions are a lot of fun. This is a very handy book for both beginners and veterans.

Knows Now

Now, 14-year-old Caroline has some 40 rats, and is advertising them for sale.

Her mother explained: "A friend of Caroline's gave her three brown and white tame rats. Two turned out to be females and the other a male. but at the time we couldn't tell the difference.

"We know the difference now."

Sun Spray

BRADFORD, England (AP) — Britain's sun-deprived gardeners may soon have less difficulty ripening their tomatoes and reddening their apples. A spray-on sunshine product will be available in Britain next spring.

Manufactured in aerosol cylinders, a couple of whiffs of the spray will work as well as a week of warm, sunny weather, the Yorkshire makers claim.

A penetrating wood seal may be used to finish wooden salad bowls. But be sure to use a good quality seal so that it will hold up under the use of salt, vinegar and water.

Miss Jacks, Beinhauer Pledge Wedding Vows

Camille Jacks became the bride of Travis Beinhauer at 8 p.m. Aug. 19 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Schrank of Hamilton with Borden County Judge Glenn Toombs, father of the maid of honor, officiating at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James M. Jacks of Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Beinhauer of Hermleigh.

The ceremony area was decorated with clustered candle holders and cut assorted flowers of spring colors on either side of the bridal party.

Piano music was presented by Patti Schrank of Hamilton. As guests arrived she played "Climb Every Mountain," "Bridge Over Troubled Water" and "Theme from Love Story." The bridal party entered to "Theme from Romeo and Juliet."

The bride was attired in a high waisted, slightly A-line gathered street-length dress which featured a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and full-length sleeves gathered into buttoned cuffs. The bodice and cuffs had pink, yellow, and green floral trim. She chose champagne pink shoes and carried a bouquet of pink, yellow and white baby carnations and baby roses with [illegible] the same color.

Serving as best man was Rex Mitchell of Abilene, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Jacks chose a gold long-sleeved tailored dress with navy accessories. Her corsage was of white baby roses. The groom's mother wore an apricot and white long-sleeved fitted dress with white accessories and a corsage of white baby roses.

A reception hosted by the bride's family was held in the Schrank home. The home was decorated throughout with assorted cut flowers of spring colors and greenery.

The bride's table featured a silver punch bowl, coffee service and nut dish. The bride's bouquet decorated the table, which was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Champagne punch was served, and serving were Miss Susan Brogdon of Midland, Miss Suzanne Schrank of Hamilton and Mrs. Ed Geske of Arlington.

Mrs. Beinhauer attended Hamilton High School and Odessa College and is a 1972 graduate of Texas Tech. Beinhauer, a graduate of Hermleigh High School and Odessa College, is a senior at Texas Tech.

Following a wedding trip to Lake LBJ, the couple is at home at Lubbock where he is the advertising director for Weight Watchers of West Texas.

CHILI CORN

½ cup (1 stick) butter
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped canned pimiento
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon chili powder
6 to 8 ears fresh corn

In a small mixing bowl beat butter until light and fluffy; stir in green pepper, pimiento, salt and chili powder. Place each ear of corn on a square of heavy duty foil; spread each ear with about 2 tablespoons of the butter mixture. Wrap securely in foil, twisting ends. Roast on a grill or bake in a preheated 450-degree oven for 25 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Here's the Answer

AP Newsfeatures

The rungs of a chair have an annoying habit of coming loose over a period of years, especially when there is either too much or too little relative humidity in the room where it is used.

If at all possible, the loose rung should be removed, doing this very carefully so as not to cause further damage or mar the finish. All glue should then be scraped from the holes in the legs of the chair as well as the ends of the rung. Do not sand the joint for any reason, since this will enlarge the holes and make the repair more difficult.

Glue is then applied to both the holes and the ends of the rung, but not if it appears that there will not be a tight fit. In that event, it is necessary to take up the slack in some way. This can be done by cutting thin kerfs in the ends of the rung and inserting tiny wedges in them. Another way is to wind some silk thread around the ends of the rung. Sometimes, winding some strands of fine steel wool around the ends of the rungs will suffice. In any of these three choices, apply a little glue to the holes, before putting the pieces together. If any squeezes out during the reassembling, wipe it off immediately, using a soft cloth and warm water.

The joint must be kept tightly together while the glue hardens, in most cases as much as 24 hours, more if possible. If you have bar clamps, this is simple, but be careful to place small, softwood blocks under the jaws of the clamps. Set the clamps to the desired positions before applying the glue. If you do not have clamps, you can make a kind of tourniquet with some rope or heavy cord, winding it around the two legs that hold the rung in place.

Here again use some padding so the rope doesn't damage the legs. Place a stick in the center and turn it and the rope together, an action which will draw the legs together. When sufficient pressure has been applied, rest one end of the stick against the rung so that it doesn't spring loose. If necessary, tie it in place.

When a chair rung will not come out without danger of further damage: After drilling a pilot hole, drive a nail through the end of the run from the inside of the chair leg. Use a finishing nail so that it can be driven slightly below the surface and the hole filled with wood putty or plastic wood. Another solution is to drill a tiny hole through the leg so that it stops just before it reaches the end of the rung. A glue injector is then inserted into the hole, which permits glue to reach the inside of the joint.

Whatever method you use to repair a loose rung, do it. Or someday the chair will collapse when someone sits on it.

(Thirty-five assorted home repair problems are taken up in Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

THINKING BIG!

Health Costs Concern Blue Cross President

EDITOR'S NOTE—No one is more concerned about Americans' health than the man who oversees payment of nearly $14 billion a year in medical bills. And, Blue Cross president Walter McNerney has a few ideas on how to bring down health care costs while raising the level of people's health.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Like most Americans, Walter J. McNerney is concerned over the high costs of health care these days. And he has numerous ideas for bringing the bills down, or at least slowing their rise while improving the level of people's health.

As president of the Blue Cross Association, McNerney oversees the payment of nearly $14 billion a year in health costs.

He urges "an ecological view of health, looking beyond the usual ways of providing health care."

"It has just been a cop-out to believe that good health depends upon the doctor with his little black bag, and the availability of a hospital bed, the idea that we can solve our health problems if only we had more doctors and more hospitals, and more money," McNerney said in a recent interview.

Usually, no attention is paid to health matters unless there is a crisis of sickness, he points out.

But, he declares, the main causes of ill health lie within society itself, stemming from poor housing, poor diet, drug addiction, ignorance of good health habits, lack of knowledge of where to seek medical help in the community. "The causes lie in our life styles. Health is not only an individual affair, but a community affair as well. Ill health cannot be corrected in our ghettos and rural areas just by providing more health services in our customary fashion."

As one means of reducing costs, McNerney says he is almost inclined to the calling of a moratorium on expanding the number of hospital beds, except in ghetto and rural areas where they are really needed.

Nowadays it costs from $40 to $300 for one patient to occupy one hospital bed for just one day, depending where in the country he or she happens to be sick, he says. The average is $90.

But it can cost $40 to $70 every day a hospital bed is not used because of high overhead costs.

Area-wide planning offers a more efficient way of meeting medical and health needs, McNerney says.

And, he adds, not every hospital needs to duplicate the expensive special facilities, such as a coronary intensive care unit, already existing in a nearby hospital. Area planning can help solve the problem of distribution of hospital beds, putting new ones where they are most needed.

Periodic health exams offer great opportunities to reduce human suffering and premature death, but will not greatly reduce the overall total costs of health care, McNerney thinks, because such tests "won't forestall that much illness."

Computers are being used to review what hospitals do with patients, whether they may keep them too long, or give them excessive or unnecessary services. At the same time, a check is made as to whether patients are being treated too little or being neglected, McNerney says.

McNerney also suggests a hard-nosed analysis of some current practices to determine if they really do benefit health.

The Kaiser-Permanente Plan in California is evaluating carefully the worth of periodic physical examinations for people over 40, to be sure that an annual checkup is productive. The issue is in question, McNerney says.

The National Tuberculosis Association last year recommended that mass screening by X-ray with mobile units be continued only in areas of extremely high incidence of TB, meaning mainly the inner sections of big cities. The old mass screening was found unproductive in terms of finding cases in the general population.

"The surprising thing is the growing similarity of average length of life and causes of death among the best and the least well-cared for populations in our country," McNerney says.

McNerney sees some success in tackling the complicated problem of improving the nation's health.

"Comprehensive health planning and regional medical programs are at least noble efforts designed to pull disease care services together and to point them to better health. They are steps in the right direction even though they may not yet have succeeded.

"One of the most exciting past successes was the Tennessee Valley Authority where a whole region was turned around through a coordinated attack on agricultural, industrial, educational, health and environmental problems. Here we hit the target reasonably well. There are deep lessons in the TVA for our sick core cities...for improving the welfare of despairing, unproductive people living in a sick society."

McGovern Is Coming To Texas

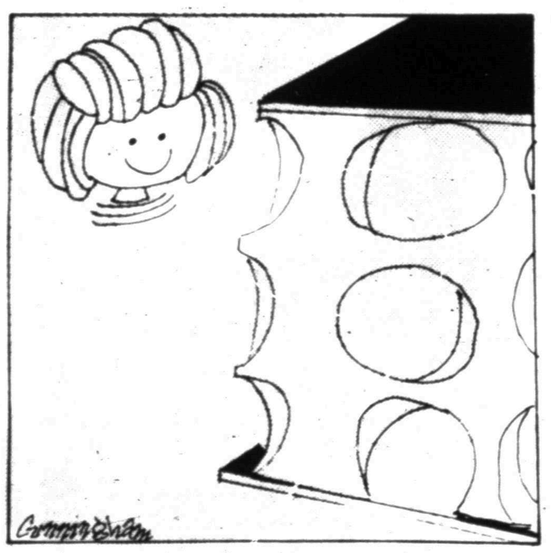

HOUSTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern will bring his presidential campaign to Texas this week, his local campaign headquarters said.

An advance man for McGovern said the Democratic candidate will stop in Dallas Wednesday evening. The candidate may also make appearances in other Texas cities, he said, but no definite plans had been made.

McGovern will come back to Texas Sept. 10 and 11 for a Houston stop, including a public rally the afternoon of Sept. 10, he said.

Sargent Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, will campaign in El Paso, San Antonio and Wichita Falls Sept. 12 and 13, a local McGovern spokesman said.

Junior Editors' Quiz on SWISS CHEESE

ANSWER: During the Middle Ages, there was great progress in cheese-making in Europe. The monasteries experimented in producing different kinds of cheese. The peasants were taught the various methods of making it, and secret formulas were developed. Each country developed its own distinctive type of cheese. The milk of cows, sheep and goats is the chief factor. Cheese is made by separating the solids of milk, the curd from the liquid part of whey. This is accomplished by heating the milk and adding rennet, an enzyme prepared from the gastric juice of calves. The addition of different types of bacteria to cheese and the ripening process determines the particular flavor of the cheese.

Swiss cheese, after the water or whey is pressed out, is placed in a brine tank for three days. Then it is placed on a shelf in a curing cellar for 6 to 8 weeks. The eyes or holes in Swiss cheese are produced by a different kind of bacteria working at different stages of the ripening process. They are the result of natural fermentation. This ripening process, peculiar to Swiss cheese, results in a sweet flavor.

School Enrollment Hits 3,755 Before Labor Day

Snyder Public Schools were going full blast by the end of the week as they pulled up to take the first holiday of the young semester. By Friday, enrollment had 3,755 with the post-Labor Day surge yet to come.

Last year, enrollment was 3,717 on the Friday before Labor Day and 60 more pupils came in immediately after the holiday. Thus, further increases are expected next week.

At the end of the first week, it appeared that enrollment in the secondary grades would be virtually the same as last year, with slight decreases in some of the elementary grades. This trend has been reported throughout the country. In fact, heavier decreases in the lower grades have been noted in many areas. The increase in the total head count here at the end of the first week is accounted for by the kindergarten level, which has been expanded this year to include all five-year-olds. The kindergarten enrollment the first week this year totalled 186, compared to 60 last year.

By grades, the remainder of the enrollment at the end of the first week compares with last year as follows, with this year's figures listed first: First grade, 241 and 293; second grade, 300 and 318; third grade, 293 and 305; fourth grade, 285 and 312; fifth grade, 318 and 331; sixth grade, 327 and 311; seventh grade, 317 and 289; eighth grade, 297 and 293; ninth grade, 292 and 299; 10th grade, 294 and 317; 11th grade, 283 and 258; 12th grade, 243 and 248; special education, 79 and 83.

By schools, the comparison showed the following, with this year's figures listed first: High School, 820 and 823; Lamar Junior High, 476 and 479; Travis Junior High, 430 and 402; North Elementary, 246 and 250; Central Elementary, 378 and 364; East Elementary, 316 and 350; West Elementary, 414 and 375; Northeast Elementary, 282 and 301; Stanfield Elementary, 314 and 290; Humble-Smith, 79 and 83.

Navy Has New 'Buddy' Plan

DALLAS—The Navy has announced a new "buddy" system which allows up to four buddies to join the Navy and be stationed at their first duty station together following boot camp.

Each member of the group must be either a Seafarer, Airman, Constructionmen, or Fireman Apprentice and must be in an apprenticeship which would permit assignment to the same ship or unit.

If one or more members fail to complete training together, for any reason, their guarantee of being stationed together becomes void. Either member of the four-man group can waiver his guarantee at any time.

New Packaging

NEW YORK (AP) — Packagers are turning to flexible materials to reduce the relatively high cost of packaging small food portions needed to tap low income, mass markets.

A significant innovation is the use of films, foils, laminates and overwrapping to combat high heat, humidity and insects, and thus prolong shelf life.

Short-Sighted Often Brighter

LONDON (AP) — Short-sighted children are often brighter than those with normal vision. Dr. Charles Brown, an eye specialist who conducted a survey for the medical publication "Practitioner," discovered that most children who excelled in intelligence tests were bespectacled. "Persons who wear glasses often have large eyes, indicating larger brains," Dr. Brown concluded.

Sixth Of Germans Are On Pensions

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Every sixth West German is a pensioner, according to the Federal Statistics Office. The total number of pensioners in West Germany is about 9.7 million. Another 20.8 million persons, mostly wives and children, are dependent on pensioners, the office reported.

Deadlines Pointed Out For Vietnam Veterans

Vietnam Era servicemen returning to civilian life have key deadlines to remember, Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Director, has pointed out.

Here is the countdown of deadlines:

In ten days, report address to Selective Service through local board (in person or by mail).

In 30 days, register with Selective Service or any local board, if not already registered.

In 90 days, apply to former employer for reemployment.

As soon as possible, register with local state employment service office. (Veterans have up to a year to apply for unemployment compensation, but applications filed after a long period of unemployment could result in a lower rate of unemployment compensation).

In 120 days, or one year if totally disabled at time of separation, convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (without examination) to private, commercial policy.

Within one year from date of notice of VA rating on disability, apply to any VA office for GI life insurance based on service-connected disability.

Within one year, apply to any VA office for dental care.

As soon as possible, apply to any VA office for GI education or training, which must be completed within eight years of separation from military service.

There are no time limits for veterans to:

Apply to any VA office for a GI loan guaranty to buy a farm, or buy, build or improve a home.

File claims with any VA office for compensation for service-connected disabilities or disease, or apply for hospital care.

Seek assistance from local offices of state employment service in finding employment or entering Labor Department job training programs.

Coker said its 72 veterans assistance centers around the country are ready to help veterans get a quick start in civilian life.

Tigers Get Valuable Experience In Drill

"We got a lot of good out of it," declared Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges after his varsity Tigers engaged Midland's Bulldogs in a lengthy scrimmage Friday night in Memorial Stadium in Midland.

The Tigers begin their 1972 slate Thursday night in Lubbock, and Coach Hodges was pleased with the lengthy practice the Tigers were able to participate in. Both first strings were about equal in ability with each team scoring about three times.

Snyder scored its first touchdown on about a 50 yard run by sophomore tailback Welton Cobb on a quick tailback trap play. The second unit was in the game during this drive and it was directed by quarterback Tim Jones. Cobb and Tommy Welsh, junior fullback, both turned in about 15 yard gainers earlier.

Both teams hit hard and put forth their best efforts, and the Tigers sustained their first injuries of the year. Welsh was taken out with a twisted ankle just prior to Cobb's long run. Paul Norred, who runs first string fullback, also was injured, sustaining a bruised elbow. First string tailback Hubert Crayton received a twisted knee.

"I don't know how long they'll be out," said Coach Hodges "We'll just have to wait and see."

Hodges said the inexperience of the Tigers showed early in the drill when Midland held the upperhand. After a brief respite while the younger lads scrimmaged, the varsity Tigers came back and more than held their own.

"They really got with them after the break," declared Coach Hodges.

The second touchdown resulted from a 40 yard pass, quarterback Tim Holder to halfback Kerry Smith. It was a perfectly executed play with Smith taking the ball in full stride in the end zone behind a couple of Midland defenders.

The Tigers' last "score" was a 60 yard run by V.T. Roberson.

Midland scored once on a 60 yard run, but the other two goal crossings resulted from short gainers after long drives.

Hodges said he was proud of all the boys but particularly pleased with the outstanding play of the defensive tackles, Micky Gonzales and Grant Knipe. Middle guard Willie Smith and linebacker Welton Cobb also looked sharp, and Hodges also was pleased with the play of the defensive secondary, which included Roberson at safety, Charles Anderson at cornerback and Charles Cain at halfback.

The Tigers will take advantage of the holiday Monday to get in two workouts. The squad will drill about 9:30 a.m. Monday and then have another session under the lights that night.

Coach Bill Hartsfield said his boys hit well in the junior varsity scrimmage, and he pointed out several of his boys have not had any experience with the Bengals' system.

"Our big problem is lack of experience," said Hartsfield. "We need to do a lot of work, but our lads [illegible] enthusiasm."

The Bulldogs used some seniors against the junior varsity and were able to hold the upperhand by about two "scores" to none.

"The whole group put forth a fine effort," he said.

Lions Accept Baltimore Gifts

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "We handed them the touchdowns," mulled Baltimore head coach Don McCafferty Friday night after Detroit picked off three passes, converted them into touchdowns, and beat the Colts 24-17 in a National Football League exhibition game.

"But despite the tipped balls and dropped passes, I'm pleased," McCafferty added. "We played the best team of the year. You can't fumble and tip passes against a good team like Detroit and do much better"

Lions' cornerback Dick LaBeau and Len Barney intercepted passes by Colts' veteran Johnny Unitas as they tipped the hand of receiver John Mackey. And later, linebacker Mike Lucci picked off a pass from Marty Domres, the Colts' number-two signal caller.

"Unitas looked good," defended McCafferty. "He called a smart game. And he hit those guys with passes they should have caught."

Detroit quarterback Greg Landry hurled touchdown passes of nine and 43 yards to all-pro tight end Charlie Sanders and Al Barnes, respectively.

Kicker Errol Mann boosted the score with a 35-yard field goal and Lions' backup quarterback Bill Munson scored on a one-yard run to give Detroit the game.

Baltimore scoring came on an 18-yard field goal, a 17-yard run by Norm Bulaich, and a 37-yard toss from Domres to Cotton Speyrer.

The lead changed hands four times and the Colts came back on the Domres-to-Speyrer pass in the final period but couldn't pull it out.

Sanders, Detroit's star tight end, who has been all-pro for three straight years, suffered a shoulder separation as he snagged a Landry pass and hit the ground.

Despite doctors' worries that he may be sidelined indefinitely, the injured player predicted, "I'll be back in a week."

Linebacker Ed Mooney suffered a similar injury on a kickoff play in the first quarter.

Despite Detroit's victory, head coach Joe Schmidt didn't feel the team was in top shape. "We weren't as sharp as we were last week against Washington," he said. "Our pass protection was fine and our defense looked okay, but we just weren't sharp."

Oilers Beef Up Defense

HOUSTON (AP) — When the Houston Oilers meet the Vikings in Minnesota Monday night two new faces will be in the defensive lineup.

Coach Bill Peterson said Friday he will activate linebacker Phil Croyle and tackle Mike Tilleman for the game.

For Tilleman it will be just one month after a surgeon in Houston made an eight-inch incision in his stomach looking for a cancer, which fortunately wasn't there.

"The beer's been cold and the popcorn crisp," Tilleman said of his spending the four Oiler exhibition games watching from the stands. "But I'm ready to play. It's been hard to sit around and see other guys doing so well in your place. It's going to be nice getting my old job back. That is, if I can."

Tilleman hasn't been idle while Leo Brooks has been playing in his solot. The day after surgery the seven-year lineman was doing exercises from his hospital bed, and three days later he was jogging.

Tilleman got the medical okay to return to the wars Friday but will probably participate in no more than 15 plays Monday night.

But Tilly after being hospitalized for what was thought a malignant tumor, anything else doesn't matter.

"Once I knew it was clean I didn't have any worry. I've been through it before anyway," said the big lineman who had a non-malignant tumor removed in 1970. The operation last month found only scar tissue from the first operation.

"Tilleman's going to be all right," promised defensive coach Jerry Smith. "He's an ideal tackle. He uses his hands, arms and feet so well. He's quick and a good pass rusher."

Tilleman shrugs off the praise.

"It's a job. I've got a job to do and the guy across me has a job to do. It's all a matter of who does it best."

Busy Harriers

RIVERDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Manhattan College's cross country team, winner of 27 straight meets in the last four years, opens its seven-meet schedule on Sept. 30 against Fairleigh Dickinson University. The Kelly Green meets Army on Oct. 6 at the West Point course in one of the toughest events on the schedule.

Colborn Rips Texas

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Jim Colborn's developing a good habit—he's finishing strong.

Putting the two together it meant a 3-0 win for the Milwaukee Brewers over the Texas Rangers in a battle of last-place American League teams Friday night.

Colborn, now 7-4, hurled a three-hitter, striking out five and retiring the last 11 hitters in succession. Bill Ggolewski, now 3-8, allowed only four hits in the first six innings, but yielded two runs in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Colborn relied mostly on his fastball, but he had good control of his other pitches, too.

"He struck with his fastball most of the time, but those other pitches looked good, too. He was throwing with a lot of confidence and throwing everything for strikes," said Crandall.

Roberts, Astros Shut Out Mets

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher Dave Roberts hopes the Cincinnati Redlegs don't heed the famous bromide of former baseball great Satchel Paige—don't look back, somebody might be gaining on you.

"The pressure has to be on them," Roberts said Friday night after doing his part to keep the pressure on with a six-hit 8-0 shoutout of the New York Mets and Tom Seaver. "They're the ones who have to look back to see if anyone is gaining on them."

But the one apparent flaw in Roberts' theory is the Redlegs aren't looking back. They're winning too and hold a 7-game bulge over the charging Astros after Friday night play.

Houston's new manager Leo Durocher, who is unbeaten in five starts since taking over for Harry "The Hat" Walker, is fully aware of the problem.

"The only thing we can do is win and then it's out of our hands," Durocher said. "We can't do anymore than that and they have to lose sometime."

Roberts and Seaver hooked up in a pitching duel through five innings Friday night before Houston finally got to the Mets ace with a five-hit three run barrage in the sixth.

A two-run single by Lee May and a single by Roger Metzger produced a 3-0 Houston lead in the sixth and the Astros continued the attack with two more against reliever Dan Frisella in the seventh.

Doug Rader scored on an error by second baseman Lute Barnes and Metzger stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a second wild pitch by Frisella. Frisella yielded three more runs in the eighth on a single by John Edwards, a double by Rader and sacrifice fly by Roberts.

A bases loaded double play by Houston in the seventh helped Roberts preserve his third shutout of the season.

Durocher has managed Houston through five games and after each game he's praised the Astros' spirit.

"Even when Seaver was striking all those guys out (he fanned eight before the sixth)," Durocher said, "they were saying 'stay with them Dave (Roberts), we'll get him."

And they did.

El Paso Claims Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

El Paso sewed up the Texas League West Division title Friday night, even though losing to lowly San Antonio 3-1 in an otherwise ho-hum game.

San Antonio pushed across its three runs one at a time in the first three innings, on a double from Dave Lindsey, singles by Jose Alcaide, Danny Thomas and Fred Moulder, and a sacrifice by Kent Jacobson.

In other TL action, Arkansas kept out of the East cellar by beating Memphis 6-5, Alexandria humbled Shreveport 6-1, and Amarillo and Midland split, the Giants taking the first contest 3-2 but losing the second 4-0.

Jim Dwyer's grand slam in the bottom of the ninth—his second of the year—brought the Arkansas Travelers from behind and made a winner of Rich Stonum and a loser of Al Withol.

In Alexandria, Dave Freisleben boosted his record to 17-9, the best in the league, as he held Shreveport batters to seven hits and one run.

The Amarillo Giants doubtless wish threatening rain clouds would have materialized before the second game of their doubleheader with Midland. Although Marty Waldeck picked up a win with the narrow first game victory, everything fell apart in the nightcap. The Cubs' Mark Thomas held the Giants to three hits and no runs. Three of the four Midland runs were unearned.

A Banner Night

(NEW YORK) — At 7:30 p.m. baseball fans with banners were told to assemble outside the park to line up for the annual banner parade at Shea Stadium. Nobody expected the first game to last 18 innings, but the Mets won it from the Phillies 3-2 and thousands carrying 3,912 banners—after waiting two and one-half hours outside center field—were permitted back into the park at 10:30 p.m. when the game ended. They had waited 11 innings.

Busceme, Valdez Are Top Boxers

By JOHN VINOCUR

MUNICH (AP) — If they argue at home, Jim Busceme and his kid agree to forget it in the gym. If there's a problem at their workout, they've promised each other not to carry it back to the house with them.

"It's the only way we can handle it — separate the father from the coach and make us four different people," Says James Busceme Jr. of Beaumont, Tex., who won his first Olympic lightweight fight Friday with his old man watching for once from the stands and not his corner.

Now the father, who has brought his boy through 125 fights since he's been eight years old, has to hold himself back while his son is competing at the place they always aimed for—the Olympics.

Tactful Jim Jr., everyone calls him Bubba—says it really doesn't make any difference because Bobby Lewis, the U.S. coach, "is such a sharp guy and he notices everything." His father just watches and aches.

Busceme is an old boxer who insists that he never pressured Bubba to start fighting.

"I swear on that," he says. "We lived across the street from a recreation center and I really didn't excourage him. One day he told me he was going to box. He was eight and his mother didn't like it a bit. He was 60 pounds and he lost his first four fights. He looked hopeless, but he didn't quit."

Busceme trained with the boy about two hours a day through high school, but avoided getting in the ring with Bubba after he passed 14. "Too mean a kid," Jim Sr. said.

Their arguments at home, the ones they don't take to the gym, are of the usual father-son variety. Those in the gym generally involve a comment to the effect that Bubba isn't working out as hard as he might.

"I tell him when he's loafing and he says I don't know what I'm talking about, it's that kind of thing," Busceme explained.

Jim, a junior at Lamar Tech University, advanced Friday with another Texan, Air Force Sgt. Jesse Valdez of Houston, who reached the welterweight quarter-finals with a victory over David Jackson of Uganda. Valdez goes next against a Russian he says is "slow but smart."

Jesse is all flash and moves and Jim admits "I'm not a crowd pleaser, but I hope a winner."

His father nods. When a reporter asks if he doesn't have a word for other parents who might be reticent about having their boys box because it seems more dangerous than football, he laughs out loud.

"You know what?" Jim Busceme says. "They're right."

Pretty Aussie Girl Has Poise

By KAROL STONGER

Associated Press Sports Writer

MUNICH (AP) — Shane Gould, who has rivaled Mark Spitz for attention in her quest for Olympic gold medals, was asked after winning her third in world record time to compare herself to the American ace.

"Well, he's a man and I'm a woman," quipped the pretty Australian swimmer in her down-under accent.

The flippant comment was rare for the 15-year-old, whose poise is in sharp contrast to that of the two giggly Californians of the same age she had just beaten Friday in the 200-meter freestyle.

Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley and Keena Rotherhammer of Santa Clara were full of typically teen-age tee-hee-hee's.

"If I'm supposed to race the next day, I calm down right away," said Miss Babashoff between giggles. "But right now I'm finished and I don't think I'll ever settle down."

Shirley, who earlier had anchored the U.S. team to a gold medal in the 400 freestyle and won a silver in the 100 freestyle, wound up her Olympic effort by winning a silver—and losing her world record to Miss Gould, who won in 2:03.56.

Keena, who still has the 800 freestyle with Shane on Sunday, said after winning her first medal of the games:

"I try my hardest to keep my mind on a race, but it's kind of hard after getting third place."

The two medals were the only ones for the American girls Friday. The gold in the 100 butterfly went to Mayumi Aoki of Japan, followed by Roswitha Beier of East Germany and Andrea Gyarmati of Hungary.

Deena Deardurff of Cincinnati, Dana Shrader of Fullerton, Calif., and Ellie Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., finished 45-6.

But U.S. men sparkled in the 400 freestyle, with Rick DeMont of San Rafael, Calif., capturing the gold in Olympic record time of 4:00.26. Brad Cooper of Australia took the silver and Steve Genter of Lakewood, Calif., the bronze.

Miss Aoki, a husky little teenager from Osaka, set a world record of 1:03.34 in the 100 butterfly and made Japan a dual gold medal winner in swimming for the first time since 1936. Nobutaka Taguchi swam the men's 100 breastroke in a world record time of 1:04.94 Wednesday.

Spitz will be back in action Saturday in the 100 freestyle semifinals. The finals, which could give him more gold medals than any other Olympic athlete in history, are set for Sunday. So far, He's five for five, shooting for six and possibly seven.

FOR UNITED STATES

Army Marksman Brings In Another Gold Medal

By BOB JOHNSON

Associated Press Sports Editor

MUNICH (AP) — Army Maj. Lones Wigger of Columbus, Ga., brought the United States its second gold medal in shooting by winning the free rifle competition today at the Olympic Games.

Wigger and Boris Melnyk of Russia each finished with 1,155 of a possible 1,200 points but the rules break a tie by giving first place to the man who had the superior last series. Lajos Pap of Hungary won the bronze with 1,149.

America's first gold in shooting came when John Writer of Chicago won the three-position rifle competition Wednesday.

Earlier Sat. New Zealand led all the way to beat the United States in the eight-oared final as American rowers made their worst showing in Olympic history.

The silver by the eight-oared crew, coxed by Paul Hoffman of the Virgin Islands, was the only U.S. medal in seven rowing events.

East Germany finished with seven medals, including three golds and a bronze in the eight-oared.

New Zealand covered the 2,000-meter course in 6 minutes, 8.94 seconds for a half-length victory over the Americans, timed in 6:11.61. East Germany was clocked in 6:11.57.

In the single sculls, Yuri Malishev of Russia won the singles sculls with a time of 7:10.12 as he upset Alberto DeMiddi of Argentina by a length. DeMiddi was timed in 7:11.53 and bronze medalist Wolfgang Gueldenpfenning of East Germany was timed in 7:14.45. Jim Dietz of New York was fifth in 7:24.81.

Russia got its second gold medal just before the eight-oared race, winning the double sculls, while in the previous race the East Germans picked up their third gold with a victory over New Zealand in the coxless fours.

Aleksandr Timoshinin and Gennadi Korshikov, who won gold medals in 1968, took the double sculls in 7:01.77. Norway was a half-length back in 7:02.58, and East Germany was third in 7:05.55.

The East German victory in the coxless fours was by a half length over New Zealand, with West Germany third. The winners were timed in 6:24.27 to 6:25.64 for New Zealand and 6:28.41 for West Germany.

In the first two finals on the busy rowing schedule, West Germany won a gold in the four with coxwain by defeating East Germany by half a length, with Czechoslovakia third, while East Germany beat Switzerland and Holland in the coxless pairs.

West Germany was timed in 6:31.85 while the winning East German pair of Siegfried Brietzke and Wolfgang Mager was clocked in 6:53.16.

The East Germans then picked up their second gold by winning the pairs with coxwain in 7:17.25. Czechoslovakia was second in 7:19.57 and Romania third in 7:21.36.

In swimming, Mark Spitz of Carmichael, Calif., suffered his first defeat of the Games but it did not affect his bid for seven gold medals. Spitz was clocked in 52.56 as he qualified for the men's 100-meter freestyle semifinals by finishing second to Mike Wenden of Australia, timed in 52.34.

John Murphy of Hinsdale, Ill., and Jerry Heidenreich of Dallas also qualified for the 100 freestyle by winning their heats. Murphy was timed in 53.07 and Heidenreich in 52.38.

Roland Matthes of East Germany led the qualifiers for the final of the men's 200-meter breaststroke by breaking the Olympic mark of 2:09.6 with a clocking of 2:06.62.

Mike Stam of San Diego, won his heat in 2:07.51 and Mitch Ivey of San Jose, Calif., took his in 2:09.32. Tim McKee of Newtown Square, Pa., also qualified by finishing second in his heat in 2:08.19.

John Hencken of Cupertino Calif., and Rick Colella of Seattle qualified for the final of the men's 200-meter breaststroke but Brian Job of Palo Alto, Calif., failed. Hencken was timed in 2:24.88, Colella in 2:25.40 and Job in 2:26.91. Nobutanka Taguchi of Japan led all qualifiers with an Olympic record 2:27.8.

Keena Rothammer of Santa Clara, Calif., set an Olympic record of 8:59.69 in qualifying for the women's 800-meter freestyle as Ann Simmons of Long Beach, Calif., 9:11.94, and world record holder Jo Harshberger of Bellevue, Wash., 9:14.46, also qualified. Triple gold medalist Shane Gould of Australia also qualified, in 9:10.84.

The big events in track today were the finals in the pole vault, the discus and the men's 400-meter intermediate hurdles and 800-meter run.

Three Americans qualified for the final of the men's javelin, although their best throws were far short of the top toss of 282 feet, 10½ inches by Klaus Wolfermann of West Germany.

Fred Luke of Seattle had a throw of 266-10½, Milt Sonsky of New York had one of 262-4 and William Schmidt of Muse, Pa., had a heave of 259-0½.

Mary Peters of Great Britain led the women's pentathlon of the first two events—the 100 meter hurdles, and the shot put. Miss Peters threw the shot 53-1¾ after running the hurdles in 13.29.

Jane Frederick of Boulder, Colo., and Gale Fitzgerald of New York were far back. Marilyn King of Hayward, Calif., State College student, withdrew from the pentathlon because of an injury.

In the women's 100-meter dash, an event the United States has won in three previous Olympics, Iris Davis of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Barbara Ferrell of Los Angeles qualified for the final.

Miss Davis was timed in 11.36 as she finished second to world record holder Renate Stecher of East Germany, timed in 11.18. Miss Ferrell was timed in 11.49 as she finished third in the semifinal won by Raelene Boyle of Australia, clocked in 11.32.

Misses 5th In Row

SETAUKET, N.Y. (AP) — Micheles Pride is the best harness horse Nick Balducci of Setauket has ever trained. After the 4-year-old mare missed winning her fifth straight race by less than one length, the 37-year-old trainer said: "She was the best horse in the race."

Micheles Pride suffered interference while running second with less than a half-mile to go in a $7,000 one-mile pace at Yonkers Raceway Aug. 1. Yet she was still battling the winner, even-money favorite Marty Dares, at the finish. In winning four straight at Roosevelt Raceway in July, Micheles Pride moved up in class each time. She now paces in Class A-3. She was bred and is owned by Stamford, Conn., contractor Michael Reppucci, who purchased the dam from Jimmy Cruise. In the last two years the mare has won more than $24,00.0.

Tempers Flare In Olympic Village

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

MUNICH (AP) — Charges of "arrogance" and "Gestapo tactics" flew back and forth Saturday in a breakout of tensions between the Americans and their West German hosts at the Olympic games.

Terming the behavior of some Yanks "arrogant," a highly placed official of the German Organizing Committee said:

"We are somewhat unhappy over various actions and reactions of our American friends."

Some U.S. newsmen, running into restrictions at the Olympic village, have termed the German security force "the Orange Gestapo."

The security men wear orange jackets.

Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, admitted that he had received a letter of complaint from Willi Daume, president of the organizing committee, and that he had replied with an apology.

The exchange involved a recent criticism by Bill Bowerman, the U.S. head track and field coach, on the lack of efficiency of the organizing committee.

For one thing, Bowerman said his team didn't have sufficient transport. "I came here thinking the Germans were very efficient," Bowerman said. "They haven't done anything they said they would do."

West Germans were upset, the organizing committee spokesman said, by the attempt of the Americans to pass the buck to the Germans when their two top sprinters, Eddie Hart and Ray Robinson, failed to report in time for quarter-final heats in the 100-meter race.

They were both disqualified and the race was won Friday by Valery Borzov, a Russian.

The Americans called a press conference at the Village, and sharply criticized the Germans for bad communications.

"That's one way out of it," a German spokesman said. "Why weren't all the other countries late?"

Chris Finds Fans Fickle

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — Chris Evert, last year's U.S. Open Tennis sweetheart, is finding out about the difference a year makes.

Miss Evert was 16 when she first competed in the tournament and swept the fans off their feet with upset wins. Now 17 and about to turn pro, she feels the fans haven't given her the cold shoulder, but the warmth just isn't there.

Following her 6-1, 6-1 victory over 16-year-old Laurie Tenny Thursday, Miss Evert said the spectators were rooting for her opponent. "I felt the crowd was definitely with Laurie. She's an upcoming junior and they would have liked to see her win.

"Last year they were behind me because I was upcoming, but now they expect me to at least reach a certain point and they're behind the younger players."

Dick Drago Gets "Purple Heart"

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski, who's won the Gold Glove for fielding and the silver bat for hitting, gave Dick Drago the Purple Heart for pitching Friday night.

The Kansas City righthander lived to tell about it, though, after Yastrzemski's line drive bounced off his face during the Boston Red Sox' 1-0 triumph.

"He was very fortunate, he got it on the right side of the jaw instead of flush," said Kansas City Manager Bob Lemon.

He managed to leave the game under his own power.

What followed was also painful for Drago. He wound up losing the game as Yastrzemski eventually scored on Rico Petrocelli's single.

Boston's victory kept things interesting in the zany American League East baseball race. The fourth-place Red Sox stayed within two games of first-place Baltimore after the Orioles beat the California Angels 3-2.

The New York Yankees stopped the Chicago White Sox 4-0 and moved into a second-place tie with Detroit after the Tigers were beaten 4-1 by the Oakland A's. Both New York and Detroit are 1½ games behind the Orioles.

Elsewhere, the Minnesota Twins beat the Cleveland Indians 5-4 and the Milwaukee Brewers blanked the Texas Rangers 3-0.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs bombed the San Diego Padres 14-3; the Houston Astros hammered the New York Mets 8-0; the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded the San Francisco Giants 10-6; the Cincinnati Reds tripped the Montreal Expos 1-0 in 12 innings; the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Atlanta Braves 11-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 11-5 and the Los Angeles Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals split a doubleheader—the Cardinals winning the first, 5-1 and the Dodgers the second, 2-1.

Dave McNally pitched a three-hitter and helped his cause with a bunt single to lead Baltimore over California. McNally's bunt off loser Clyde Wright loaded the bases and the Orioles then scored two runs on a sacrifice fly by Bobby Grich and Tommy Davis' bouncer. Andy Etchebarren's run-scoring single in the Baltimore eighth provided the eventual winning run.

Mel Stottlemyre blanked heavy-hitting Chicago on four hits and Charley Spikes, playing his first big league game, delivered singles in two New York rallies to pace the Yankee triumph.

Slump-saddled Joe Rudi hit a three-run homer in the third inning and Ken Holtzman notched his first victory in a month as Oakland beat Detroit and increased its American League West margin to 2½ games over the White Sox.

Rod Carew stole home with two out in the last of the 10th inning to give Minnesota its victory over Cleveland and Jim Colborn fired a three-hitter for Milwaukee.

Auditors Screen State Employes

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas auditors on the lookout for phantom state employes, closely screened House and Senate workers when they picked up their monthly paychecks Saturday.

Each employe also was told to fill out a questionnaire that asked his salary, working hours, actual duties and whether any of his relatives worked for the state.

Auditors carefully compared faces and signatures with the color photos and signatures on the workers' drivers' licenses.

Some checks were mailed, but only by registered mail with mandatory return receipts.

State Auditor George McNeil said the questionnaires and the close scrutiny of employes picking up checks was "a regular audit procedure to verify the presence and existence of employes."

Criminal charges were filed earlier this year against Rep. John Allen of Longview and former Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford. They allegedly put one another's children on the legislative payroll but required no work of them. Ratliff also hired some of his own relatives. He goes on trial here Oct. 30 on theft charges which allege he had someone cash two of his secretary's paychecks and turn the money over to him.

"We do it (the paycheck audits) whenever we feel the situation calls for it, and because of these rather unusual circumstances we thought we would do it with the Legislature," McNeil said.

"We do it from time to time without any unusual circumstances," he added.

McNeil said any evidence of embezzlement that might be found would be turned over to the attorney general, local district attorney and the presiding officers of the House and Senate.

He said if auditors have reason to doubt an endorsement on a check, "we would certainly check it.

Some Will Lose State Assistance

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texans receiving Social Security will get checks that are 20 per cent larger starting early in October, but these on welfare will lose state money. Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell said Friday.

Federal law required the state to include Social Security income when determining state welfare benefits, he said.

Vowell estimates that 20,000 persons will lose their eligibility for state Old Age Assistance, and another 110,000 will have benefits reduced.

He said the Welfare Department is attempting to hold down the number of persons whose state benefits are eliminated or decreased, and urged recipients who have "had any recent changes in need or other income" to contact local welfare offices.

Monokini Look More Popular

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — "Four years ago I was too hung up to go topless," said Kathy Malloy, as she spread her yellow blanket on the sandy beach "... But now, look at me."

The 24-year-old San Jose housewife is one of an increasing number of women who have been trying out the topless — or monokini — look at a small state-run public beach south of this popular coastal resort town.

"It seems natural to me not to wear a top," said Evie Espen, a 22-year-old San Jose college student. "Besides, bathing through tops is super-uncomfortable — they hurt just like bras."

The monokini — long popular on some European beaches — was introduced to Santa Cruz last summer by a young woman named Rikki Chalet, who bared her breasts on the city beach and was promptly arrested for disturbing the peace.

A judge said, however, she had committed no crime, and the district attorney dropped charges.

Now at Twin Lakes Beach, one can see anywhere from one to two dozen women in monokinis — some stretched out in pursuit of a tan unmarred by strap marks, others cavorting topless in the water.

"It depends on the daily temperature how many there'll be," said Tony Tregeiro, state director of beaches for the area. "But it's gaining momentum a little at a time."

Mrs. Malloy, the wife of a juvenile probation officer, said she began nude sunbathing in her backyard last year, and at first was apprehensive about the transition to a topless appearance in public.

"Now I don't even feel daring," she said.

Beware Of Phony Degrees

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I have been turned down for many jobs because they say I don't have enough education. I can't afford to quit my job at a gas station and go to college. I saw this notice, and am writing to see if you think by answering it, I could get a better job? Or, are diplomas you get by mail accepted by companies? (The advertisement enclosed with this letter was clipped from a business opportunity magazine: "University Degrees By Mail. Free Information. Write P.O Box --") — R.S., Tucson, Ariz.

In May this column discussed the growth of innovative educational programs to benefit the nontraditional student. Within the category of "New Degree Programs" are some 64 accredited institutions which do offer college credits through correspondence study. (For a booklet with particulars, "The Guide to Independent Study," send 75 cents to the National University Extension Assoc., 1 DuPont Circle, Washington, D.C. 20036.) However, the above advertisement sounds . . .

AS PHONY as cavities in false teeth. Ads such as these are typical of those placed by degree mills, also called diploma mills.

In view of today's vastly expanded educational opportunities, it's a little surprising that degree mills have not become extinct. The opposite is true. According to the U.S. Office of Education, the mills of the educational underground have tripled within the last decade; about 110 of them are now peddling quickie degrees not worth the paper they're printed on.

As a single example, two New York clergymen recently pleaded guilty in a Federal Court to mail-order fraud charges arising from their operation of a fictitious university, Marlow University. Students of Marlow paid $400 to $500 for degrees they never received.

DEGREE MILLS are institutions which do not require courses of instruction that all reputable schools require before conferring degrees. Prices for their sheepskins ("suitable for framing") range from $10 to $2,500. Few, if any, demands are made for academic preparation.

Buyers of these phony degrees are either unsophisticated, well-intentioned victims — or, chiselers themselves, who buy degrees with the intent of deceiving employers, clients, friends, or the public.

DR. LEE PORTER, in his new book, "Degrees For Sale" (Arco, 219 Park Ave. So., New York, N.Y. 10003, $5.95) gives a composite of degree mill characteristics:

"Most degree mills claim to have libraries, classrooms, and other essential facilities, but usually just have a desk or two and a telephone . . . their faculty is either untrained or nonexistent. Admission requirements for students don't exist and anyone who breathes can earn a doctorate (highest academic degree)."

Porter says that classrooms pictured in the mills' brochures are often filched from other institutions (one mill retouched a YMCA building photo!). Most use post office boxes for their correspondence. There is practically never a residence requirement for students. A favorite ploy of mills is to hide behind religious devotion, making themselves appear to be legitimate institutions.

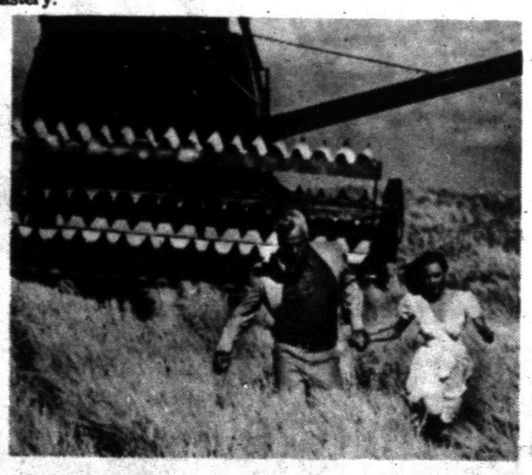

UPON CHECKING the testimonial letters supposedly written by former satisfied students, which appear in the mills' advertising literature, Porter found the testimonials to be fiction. Claims of accreditation were fabrication, or in some cases, the accrediting body proved to be a set-up controlled by mill operators. Nearly all the mills will sell you a degree on the installment plan with special reductions if you pay cash in full when you enroll.

Porter's book goes into considerable details, naming names of degree mills bilking the public today. Reading it will help you avoid baloney if you're seeking educational food for thought.

LETTER TO EDITOR

To The Daily News:

Sir, I believe, like God, that want should be wiped out. I am speaking of able bodied men too lazy to work wanting someone else to support them. As life becomes more complicated, the problems of life increase. All our concubine-loving forefathers promised the people of America was opportunity. Never did they intend for this nation to be divided by minority groups who shackle democracy with chains of hate and greed.

Democracy is not a fulfillment. It is a process of always advancing and it cannot advance unless it is free to do so. The wail of some people for independence is blasphemy. We are and have been dependent on each other since the day we were born. This nation is slowly killing something in people which deserves to live and this is being done by degraded politicians whose tactics of taxing the working people to support the able bodied men who won't work themselves. The people who need help should get it, but the talents and wealth of others should not be stolen through taxes to support people too lazy to work.

This nation has reached a point where children mistake the love and advice of their parents for bondage. Our courts have become a stumbling block for law enforcement officers. God Himself after the days of Noah decreed the death penalty for certain crimes and he never repealed it. Rebellion, murder and theft are rampant in America. We don't know where we are, or where we are going. We are in the same position as the man who is running for president---he don't either. There is a very faint ray of hope that Gressans Law of Politics may be wrong. Maybe the bad won't take over the good, maybe the courts will decide to protect the law-abiding citizens against the criminal. Maybe the sane may seek to overthrow the insane and some process of peace become a reality. Maybe we might start gathering rocks and dirt here on earth to find out how old the moon is, instead of spending billions to get 200 pounds of rock from the moon to find out how old the earth is. It could happen.

Baze Promoted By Jersey Standard

Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) has announced two changes in its management with the retirement of Thomas W. Moore as vice president-logistics, after 38 years of service with the Jersey organization, and the election of Roy A. Baze, vice president-producing, as his successor.

Baze will assume his new post Oct. 1. His successor as vice president-producing will be named later.

Moore, a native of Clinton, Ky., began his career with the Jersey company in 1934, joining the then Esso Standard Oil Company (now a part of Humble Oil & Refining Company) at its Bayway, N.J., refinery. After holding a number of positions in the Esso Standard Oil, Esso International and the parent company, Jersey Standard, he was elected a vice president of Humble in 1960. He returned to Esso International in 1963 and was elected executive vice president of that company in 1966. He was appointed transportation coordinator of Jersey Standard in 1967 and manager of Logistics planning in 1968. Moore was named vice president-logistics in May, 1970.

ROY A. BAZE

Baze, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, entered the Jersey organization in 1946, taking a position with Humble. In 1967 he transferred to Jersey Standard as executive assistant to the president. The following year he was named producing coordinator, and in May, 1970, was named to the post which he will leave to succeed Moore.

Baze is a native of Snyder and his mother, Mrs. A.B. Baze, lives at 2609 Thirty-sixth Street.

THE HARRELL HOUSE, originally located about five miles northeast of Snyder, is shown on its way to the Ranch Headquarters Museum on the Texas Tech campus in Lubbock. W.K. Bigham and Sons of Snyder moved the six-room structure in sections from a site in the V Bar Ranch pasture and across pasture roads which had to be widened to accommodate the wide load. (Photograph by The Ranch Headquarters).

Harrell House Is Moved To Museum

Make do with what you've got. Regardless of how homespun this adage might have been, it proved itself sound advice when the ranching industry's pioneers went "house-hunting" on the prairie. The results of the early ranchers' efforts to put a roof over their heads by "making do" proved them mighty imaginative as well as enterprising folks.

Proof is offered in the latest acquisition by the Ranch Headquarters, an outdoor living museum of authentic ranching history being developed on a site adjacent to the museum of Texas Tech University. The new addition is the Harrell House from Scurry County, donated by Myrtle and Fay Harrell, and it will depict elaboration on a relatively old theme — box and strip construction.

The Harrell House began as a one-room structure of stone built in 1883 by R.T. Mellard. He later added a wing of box and strip construction, along with a stone chimney and fireplace. Another box and strip wing, which now comprises the front or cross section of the T-shaped structure, was added between 1901 and 1912 by the Lon Smith family. The house also served as home to the P.W. Reynolds family before it was vacated more than 25 years ago.

Box and strip construction was used by early ranchers because of the cost of freighting lumber into this area. The floor was laid first on wooden posts or fieldstone supports. One by twelves were then placed vertically as close together as possible to form walls, with one by fours nailed over the gaps between the wider wall boards. Finally, a shingled roof was added to complete the structure.

The first box and strip house to be placed at Ranch Headquarters is a small three-room house from the West Camp of C.C. Slaughter's Long S Ranch. Members of the Snyder unit of Ranch Headquarters Association were instrumental in providing furnishings for it with Mrs. Edith McKanna serving as chairman of the furnishings committee. Misses Myrtle and Fay Harrell, who had restored the Harrell House in 1962 and have made a study of furnishings historically correct for houses of this period, set up a typical table in the shed room.

A free-standing kitchen cabinet was secured from Garza County, and a 1910 calendar was donated by a patent medicine company. The house was opened for tours early last spring and was visited by hundreds of school children who had never before seen a four-eyed kitchen range or a wood-burning heating stove or many other furnishings in the house.

"We were especially gratified to acquire the Harrell House because of its excellent condition and the valuable part it will play as part of the Ranch Headquarters collection," Duncan Muckleroy, research historian for the Headquarters, said. "The structure's significance is even greater due to the fact that the Misses Harrells also donated its complete six-room collection of furnishings."

LA Firm Buys LBJ Station

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Times Mirror Co. of Los Angeles has bought the Austin television station owned by the family of former President Lyndon Johnson.

The price for KTBC-TV was not disclosed.

The Times Mirror Co. owns the Los Angeles Times. It bought The Dallas Times Herald in 1969 and operates KDFW-TV in Dallas.

KTBC-TV grew out of KTBC radio, which Johnson's wife, Lady Bird, bought for $17,500 in 1943, when her husband was a young congressman representing the Austin district.

The radio station, now FM as well as AM, is not involved in the deal, station president J. C. Kellam said Friday.

KTBC has been the center of controversy many times with Johnson opponents charging the Federal Communications Commission with repeatedly making rulings that favored KTBC over competing stations during Johnson's years of power.

Friday's sale is subject to FCC approval, Kellam said, and under FCC rules, Texas Broadcasting Corp., owner of KTBC, must divest itself no later than Aug. 10, 1973, of either the television station or its stock interest in Capital Cable Co. of Austin.

"We welcome The Times Mirror Co. to Austin," said Mrs. Johnson, majority stockholder in Texas Broadcasting.

"I believe they will find Austin one of the nation's most wonderful cities, and we look forward to many years of pleasant associations with them in a town where most of our lives have been so happily involved."

Roman armies marching into Spain and Northern Europe took cats with them as pets.

Business Indicators Drop

AUSTIN (AP) — Major indicators of Texas Business activity dropped in July, but figures for 1972 show a large increase over the similar 1971 period, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

Among the drops from June to July were urban building permits issued, down 24 per cent; bank debits, down 8 per cent; and estimated personal income, down 3 per cent.

But during the first seven months of 1972, building permits rose 23 per cent; bank debits increased 14 per cent; and personal income was up 9 per cent, compared to the same period in 1971.

In addition, total electric power use climbed 20 per cent, and unemployment decreased 8 per cent in the January to July period.

Six Texas cities did better than the state as a whole during both July and the first seven months: Austin, Houston, Laredo, Texarkana, Tyler, and Wichita Falls.

Four cities fared worse that the state in both comparisons: Beaumont, Fort Worth, Galveston, and Port Arthur.
