BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

It has been a problem the past few years for the cheese plant here to find enough grade A milk from which to make cheese. The problem is still at the forefront. Farmers have more or less quit milking cows for various reasons and the milk flow has just about stopped. This is especially true during the fall of the year when the rush of gathering crops is under way.

The directors are thinking of converting the plant into Grade A and distribute grade A milk throughout the area. There are several large producers of grade A milk that would prefer to sell to the local concern and if they can be lined up the directors will probably make the conversion. This will not mean that the plant will discontinue buying grade B milk, but will supplement it with the grade A business.

Grade A milk commands a much higher price than grade B and is more profitable to the farmers. Others farmers who are now producing grade B milk or no milk at all will likely become interested in the grade A business and boost the production of milk in this area.

The directors have another problem on their hands right now, selecting a manager.

By County Agent Joe Cowan. So many people have asked the county agent when the artificial breeding program is going to start for they are wanting the service of such program now. After talking with this group I find that they have not signed up their cows as yet. Many of us are always wanting our neighbors to do the work then afterward come into the program after started. We cannot form an organization until 1200 cows have been signed up.

Remember this program, if organized, will give you: 1. Service of proven bulls. 2. No danger of having a bull around the farm. 3. Control of certain breeding diseases. 4. Maintain breeding records of cows. 5. Save the feed bill of a bull. 6. This program is for the small farmer that cannot afford to pay a large sum of money for a bull.

Weekly Swing of Southwest Farm Markets

Most southwest farm products sold steady to strong during the past week, but some products brought lower prices, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

Cotton closed Monday 75 cents to $1 higher than a week earlier. Spot middling 15/16 inch brought 31.10 at Dallas.

Grain markets showed some strength during the week. Corn led the way with gains of 12 to 13 cents a bushel. Sorghums advanced 12 cents a hundred to sell Monday at $2.60 to $2.65.

Cooler weather stirred interest in eggs and poultry this week. Moulting flocks cut egg production, and top quality offerings cleared promptly. Poultry markets struck a firmer tone, with roasters and bakrs in especially good demand.

Cattle prices had their ups and downs during the week but Monday's strong markets resulted in net advances of mostly 50 cents to $2 a hundred pounds. Calves and weaners showed the most consistent gains. Medium and good calves ranged from $20 to $26 at Texas markets.

Sheep changed little at Texas markets but sold 50 cents to $1 or more higher at most other terminals. Cull ewes sold down to $6.50. Ewes ranged from $8.50 to $10.50 at most markets.

Slight gains on Monday's hog markets failed to overcome earlier losses which amounted to mainly 50 cents a hundred on butcher classes and stockers and feeders. Sows changed little. Stocker pigs sold from $26 down at Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hockaby and children of Albuquerque, N. M., were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sturdivant Friday.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

South Receives Wallace With Fury; CIO Pledges to Support President; Berlin Meetings May End Stalemate

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

WALLACE: Pure Hate

Henry Wallace claimed that his expansive love for his fellow men had not been diminished by his experiences in the South, but it stood as a fact that the ramparts of that abiding affection must have undergone a severe test.

As the Progressive party's presidential candidate Wallace had gallantly penetrated into the southern states to bring them his brand of enlightenment.

But the crusader was not appreciated. He was received in North Carolina by hostile audiences who showered him with invective, vilification, eggs and tomatoes.

His speeches were blanketed out by boos and catcalls in Winston-Salem, Durham, Burlington, Greensboro and Charlotte. N. C. Wallace was stunned with disbelief at what was happening to him.

In Burlington, where the full force of North Carolina's vituperative mood was unleashed, the former vice president was not even given a chance to talk. He was unable to do anything except dodge missiles and plead with the furious citizens closest to him that things like this were not supposed to happen in the United States.

It was an ugly display of bad taste that spread hysterically from town to town as Wallace's tour progressed. The egg and tomato tossing was severely criticized by top U. S. officials, including President Truman who called it "highly un-American business."

"Mr. Wallace is entitled to say his piece the same as any other American."

Nevertheless, in North Carolina Wallace's stay was confined for the most part to protestations against the treatment he was receiving. At Greensboro, with egg shells clinging to his head, he shouted:

"I don't mind being hit by eggs and tomatoes, but they would be more useful being fed to children."

"The faces I have seen distorted by hatred are of people for whom I have in my heart profound compassion, because most of them have not enough to eat."

The crowd laughed at him. And as Wallace left North Carolina to head into Alabama and Mississippi it looked as though he might be able to use some "profound compassion" for himself, for his racial views are opposed even more violently in those states.

BACKING: For Truman

For the two major presidential candidates prepared to swing their campaigns into full career in preparation for the November elections, some good news popped up for President Truman.

The CIO officially threw its support to the Democratic ticket and pledged the organization to work for his election.

That was the way the CIO had written itself on the political books this year, but the action left the organization simmering with internal discord.

Bitter protests of 12 left-wing union leaders had to be overcome before the CIO could cast its lot with Truman and Barkley. The dissenting unions wanted to support Wallace, and they had their way insofar as the resolution adopted by the group was an expression of criticism of the Progressive party's candidate.

GOP nominee Thomas E. Dewey, however, was condemned as "the candidate of big business." The Dixiecrats, headed by Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, were shrugged off in the resolution as a coalition of Democrats and "do-nothing Republicans" that has "steadfastly adhered to the philosophy of the National Association of Manufacturers."

The pro-Truman resolution by the CIO executive board did not necessarily mean total support for the President, however. Philip Murray, CIO president, said that the 12 dissenting unions are not bound by the majority decision to back Mr. Truman.

"Any union still may exercise its right to do what it wants," he said. That meant, apparently, that the leadership of at least 12 CIO unions, numbering more than a million members, would continue to labor in behalf of Wallace, while 20 other unions with about 5.5 million members would go to work for the Democratic party.

NO RELIEF TOMORROW

High Cost of Living Stays and Stays

There's that same old news again: There is no immediate relief from the high cost of living in sight, and it probably will continue to creep upwards throughout the election campaign this fall.

Committees of the labor, commerce and agriculture departments concur in the prediction that no break in prices is likely to come about before the November 2 election.

Crowd Fury

Henry Wallace, Progressive party candidate for President, has discovered that the penalty for espousing political ideas that differ sharply from the majority opinion is hatred. Speaking at Greensboro, N. C., he was pelted with eggs and vegetables—which probably is just another form of freedom of expression.

BERLIN: Some Talk

That sound of sabers rattling in Berlin meant this time that the disputants in the fight over control of the German capital were merely laying down their swords to get together and talk about it once more. Tension lifted almost visibly when the Big Four military governors of Germany met for the first time in more than five months to discuss a single currency for Berlin and the lifting of the Soviet blockade of the city.

The meeting was called in the first place to implement decisions reached by the American, British and French ambassadors with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow. At least the Moscow talks had accomplished that much.

Topping the list of items for discussion was the problem of what to do about the rival currencies in Berlin. At present both eastern and western zone marks are circulating in the city.

It was understood that the conferees in Moscow previously had agreed in principle that only the Soviet zone mark should circulate in Berlin, but that it should be under four-power control.

There were still conflicting attitudes as to what course the Berlin parties should take, however.

The Russians believed that an agreement on getting a single currency must be worked out before any final East-West agreement on Berlin can be possible.

In Washington the U. S. state department, backed by Great Britain and France, was insisting that the Soviets must lift the Berlin blockade before any discussion of the currency problem is held.

The whole situation was extremely complex and, actually, few persons outside of high official circles made any pretense of being able to understand it fully.

About as far as general understanding of the subject went, it was limited to the realization that unless an agreement were reached soon the tortured peace would become more dangerously strained.

Headliners

IN GARLAND, TEX. . . . A campaign-minded hatmaker was offering edible candy headgear (above) for reckless election bettors who vow to eat their hats if their candidate loses.

IN ROCHESTER, N. H. . . . Raymond Beaulieu, fined $73 in municipal court for operating an unregistered automobile, sold his car to raise money to pay the fine.

IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS. . . . Robert H. Smith was granted a divorce when he testified that his wife, enraged because he didn't know how to dance the polka, slapped and kicked him until his weight dropped from 165 pounds to 140.

GREEK CRISIS: Relieved

Few U. S. forays into the field of international aid have been so widely condemned and exoriated as the so-called "Truman doctrine" for economic help to Greece and Turkey.

Almost since its inception the "Truman doctrine" has been denounced as a fraud, a farce and a flop. Much of the denunciation, however, seemed to be based on opinion rather than fact. Actually, for a long time it was almost impossible to assess the condition of the Greek aid program.

Now the government has come out with a report to congress that states bluntly that American military and economic aid has removed the danger of Greece falling to communism.

"While not all the problems in Greece are solved, the crisis of 18 months ago has been averted," one official said. "The aid program in Greece is over the hump."

The report, submitted by President Truman and covering the first year of American efforts to keep Greece free, embodied virtually the first optimism anyone has expressed regarding the picture in Greece.

So far does this optimism extend that Greece now is accepted officially as the "bright spot" in American attempts to help other nations resist the onslaughts of communism. In Asia and other European countries the anti-communist battle is not considered won.

Government emphasis, of course, is on the fact that the task in Greece still is not done. Between 15,000 and 17,000 Greek guerrillas remain at large despite recent successes by government forces. And guerrilla action may continue for several years, depending on the amount of aid received by the rebels from Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

Briefly, the official success story of the Greek effort claims that the nation's wild inflation has been resisted, the cost of living is dropping, about 1,000 miles of key roads have been reconstructed and the vital Corinth canal is open to traffic.

Love in Bloom?

British tongues and heartstrings are vibrating with rumors of a romantic association (that's what it is when royalty is involved) between Princess Margaret Rose, youngest daughter of the king and queen, and the marquis of Blandford, a fair-haired young nobleman. Her parents have yet to pass judgment on him, however.

DEATH CAME: Charles E. Hughes

Regally bearded Charles Evans Hughes came within a whisker of being elected the 27th President of the United States in 1916.

At that time he was a crusty, unbending, academic man, and it was probably because of that temperament that he lost the presidential race to Woodrow Wilson in one of the closest elections in history—277 electoral votes to 254.

California's vote was the deciding factor in the final result and Hughes lost that when he incensed the California governor by failing to visit him while on a tour of the state.

But Charles E. Hughes was, nevertheless, as near to being a great man as most people ever get. And he mellowed with time.

He was the only American ever to be appointed twice to the U. S. supreme court—once in 1910 and again in 1930 when he returned to preside as chief justice.

He was twice governor of New York, his native state, resigning the position during his second term to become a supreme court associate justice.

In July, 1941, he retired from the supreme bench to withdraw into private life. Between that time and August of this year he made only one public appearance—to attend the funeral services of Harlan Fiske Stone, another chief justice, in April, 1946.

Late last month Charles Evans Hughes, 86 years old, died of congestive heart failure.

Lumber production in the U. S. this year probably will exceed the 1947 output by at least 5 per cent, the commerce department has estimated.

The department's lumber survey committee reported that this level would be attained if there is no slackening of demand. Lumber currently is flowing to markets in ample quantity to supply the record-breaking construction activity.

Threat to the World

THE ONLY PLACE for a red flag in the United States is over an open sewer. The red flag has traditionally become a symbol of danger in America—and there is nothing more dangerous in this or any other country than the red flag of Communism. If Communism meant nothing more here or elsewhere than just another political party, as most people view it, there would be no difficulty in dealing with it.

We could outlaw it, we could keep it off the ballots or it could die out of its own lack, as other political parties have withered and died.

The danger, however, of the red flag of Communism is that it is not merely a political party.

This column several months ago, and since, has pointed to the complacency here because the people generally have not understood that Communism is a religion, a political religion dedicated to eradicate other religions from the world—definitely anti-God, anti-spiritual.

With the Communist spy probes continuing here and anti-Communist legislation sure to be introduced in the next congress, it is significant that religious bodies now are recognizing the danger of the red flag and what Communism as an ideology actually means.

The hierarchy of the Anglican and associated churches which recently met in England, where ironically enough, Socialists are in power, have recognized the Communist fallacy.

The encyclical issued by the Lambeth conference points out the Communist doctrine that "man is a creature of the world only" and that as a consequence he begins and ends here; he comes out of nothing, goes back to nothing; he has no higher function, purpose or destiny than a tick or a horse; he is merely a soulless and destructible piece of flesh, living here for a time, satisfying his senses as much as he can, then dying to pass back into endless negation.

The Communist doctrine is that there is no God, hence no children of God, hence men are mere creatures of the state with no worth except blind obedience to the state; no nobility, no dignity, no spirit, no soul, no conscience, no guilt, no ultimate accountability, no virtue, no vice and no God, hence only one with the beasts of the field; if he can get away with it he can follow the law of the jungle, trampling down others, using his intelligence only for himself.

The World Church council, meeting at Amsterdam, has recognized this same Marxian or Communist precept. More than 145 church bodies representing 45 nations have adopted resolutions pointing to this Communist concept of man. It is the most representative church gathering in history of the Christian church.

The Catholic church for years has been conducting a campaign against Communism, condemning this pagan doctrine as anti-Christian, anti-democratic and anti-everything which free men hold dear.

The sooner the people of this country recognize Communism for what it is, the sooner they quit treating it as a political party and treat it as an ideology which would take away from us everything we have been taught to believe is sacred, the sooner we will end this danger, flying its red flag, which threatens to engulf the world.

Farm taxes moved up a notch last year, census bureau reports. Average per $100 of real value increased from 90 cents in 1945 and 1946 to 96 cents in 1947. This rate was still far below the national average of $1.30 per $100 in 1930. At the same time, land values still are rising. The July 1 index was 174, or 100 per cent above the 1935-39 average and 2 per cent above the 1930 peak. During the year ending July 1, the value increase was 18 per cent.

No Lack of Words

Whether you believe the 80th congress had a good record or a poor one, you will have to admit it never was at a loss for words. Records of the past congress filled 23,197 pages of the Congressional Record, with a total of more than 50 million words. The senate was in session 1,400 hours, the house 1,223 hours, a total of 2,623 hours. Thus, members talked at the rate of 18,600 words an hour or about 310 words a minute.

Washington Digest Spy Inquiry Should Not Ask Rejection of the Constitution

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—When a man has a strong constitution he doesn't have to think much about it.

It works about the same with a nation. Especially when both are young and vigorous. But as they get more mature, they may discover a few organs here and there which have to be mended or a few articles that have to be amended just because of a changing environment.

In any case it isn't a good idea to lock your constitution up and never take it out and dust it off and see if it is still there.

This is the month when what Ben Franklin referred to as "the grand Federal Constitution" was born in Philadelphia after more than four months debate by the constitutional convention. It was signed Monday, September 17, 1787. George Washington presided over the convention and presided as well as he had as head of the ragged Continentals.

When the document was signed by all but Gov. Edmund Randolph and Col. George Mason of Virginia and Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts.

"The business being thus closed," as Washington wrote in his diary, "the members adjourned to the City Tavern, dined together and took a cordial leave of each other . . ."

Many people at the time thought the Constitution was pretty good as it was, and yet the part which is probably most familiar to the present generation is the part which our founding fathers recognized as the first thing lacking in the original draft—the first amendment:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

This amendment and the nine which followed, making up the Bill of Rights, were all introduced in the first congress, as the Beards in their "Basic History of the United States" put it, "in response to a popular demand" but involving "no alteration in the form of government." Congress passed the Bill of Rights on to the states, which, in convention, ratified them by 1791. Establishment of these fundamental rights, says Carl Van Doren in "The Great Rehearsal," may be regarded as the "contribution of the people" to the Constitution.

They represent the crystallization of those desires for human dignity in the souls of civilized men—desires which reveal his innate possession of a spirituality that differentiates him from the beasts.

The maintenance of those rights, as opposed to the attainment and safeguarding of purely material possessions, has brought about the clash of ideologies which threatens a crisis in the world today.

Spies Probe Presses Point During the spy-ing investigations by the house un-American activities committee, there was much talk about the violation of the Bill of Rights. The President himself, when asked a categorical question on that subject, said he believed that this committee had, in the course of its hearings, infringed these rights. He did not specify which of the rights had been infringed but from his previous expressions it would seem he was referring to the fifth amendment which says in part:

"No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. . . ."

The President said some of the testimony made public had done irreparable harm to certain persons, had slandered a lot of people who didn't deserve it.

He explained that all the evidence of alleged guilt concerning these persons had already been presented to the grand jury and that the grand jury had not considered it sufficient grounds for indictment. The jury, protecting the rights of the individual, had not made the names public. But the un-American activities committee, presenting the same evidence, had made the names public and in so doing had, according to the implication of the President, infringed the Bill of Rights.

From the mail I got and the telephone calls I receive, I know that many people disagree with the criticisms of the committee, fully approving of its actions.

These people, I am sure, do not believe in the infringement of anyone's constitutional rights. They believe in the American legal principle that a person is innocent until he is proved guilty. But they appear to have convinced the accused in their own minds, feel they are guilty, and also have the feeling that anyone who objects to what the committee has done is guilty of taking sides with a traitorous person and, therefore, is himself indirectly guilty of treason.

Before me I have a letter. It is written in good English, emotional it is true, but obviously from an intelligent and educated person. It says in part:

"Why not be fair in your broadcast? It is scandalous and near criminal to murder a man's reputation on mere suspicion as is being done by certain committees investigating communism. . . . So far so good. With that start I expected a strong defense of the Bill of Rights to follow. But no indeed! Listen to this 'but'—

"You know perfectly well the necessity of the publicity against communism because there is no other way to arouse the electorate. You know there are Benedict Arnolds by the score in the administration's set up."

Wait a minute! Is it necessary to violate the Constitution to arouse the electorate? If you believe that, you believe in revolution. It's revolution if you do not use legal means in exercising your right to change the Constitution. But do you want to change the Constitution so the Bill of Rights is infringed? Not if you really mean what you say in the first paragraph of your letter.

Who's Selling U. S. Down the River? As to whether there are "Benedict Arnolds" in the government, I have no doubt there may be foreign spies in the government, and I would be in favor of dealing with them much more drastically than present laws permit. I hope stronger laws will be drafted. So does congress. The department of justice has been working on such a law for some time. But to say the government is full of traitors is either utter nonsense or else the FBI is a lot of morons. Now let's read further from my listener's letter:

"Canada has officials in their government who are loyal to the country and cleared out the rats on their own initiative. We have men who are selling us down the river night and day."

Well, as to Canada, no one was publicly accused until the court had decided there was legal proof of his guilt. The names of those who had been accused and declared innocent never were revealed.

As to men "selling us down the river night and day," I will take the word of General Eisenhower if, in a political year, the President's word can't be taken. The general said: "This country keeps its major secrets pretty well."

Now the writer of this letter is obviously sincere, believes, according to his own word, in the fifth amendment, on both legal and moral grounds. Yet on the same page, speaking with natural but illogical indignation he asks that the Bill of Rights be abrogated.

I understand this psychologically. I have found myself privately convicting at least one of the persons who was accused by a witness before the un-American activities committee although I know that investigation by the FBI and hearings by the grand jury failed to find this person guilty. Perhaps more evidence will be introduced with which the accused can be convicted under the law, but as long as we pretend to be loyal Americans, we have to hold our tempers and withhold our judgments.

Perhaps before forming opinions on this subject, certainly before expressing them, instead of just counting 10, it might be well to count the 10 amendments composing the Bill of Rights and while counting, read them over carefully.

And maybe, as a birthday present to the Constitution which has given us the best government we know about, read the rest of the document over, too. If enough people did that, there might be a happier birthday all around.

THE BABE GOES HOME

Whatever means as much as an "all-hot" is getting quite a play today in that Valhalla to which baseball folks go. The angels, we like to think, have set aside their wings and are in shirt sleeves. The babe has been let down somewhat. St. Peter is not so strict on the gate; those not quite eligible are permitted knotholes. Arguments are not frowned on and a little ribbing goes. For the first time, perhaps, it is all right up there to throw a pop bottle.

Diadems are a little tilted. The sun is shining at its brightest, there is the snap of flags in the breeze, the grass was never greener. George Herman Ruth has come home.

It is curious how many potatoes and great ones of the earth are in the bleachers and how many folks who were not great shakers when on earth have the box seats. It's very special. The scores have been kept with great care. Those who did it the hard way, who triumphed over handicaps, who came through against odds are being smiled on. There is an enormous section for loud sleep and predigal sons.

The harp are put aside for brassier instruments and for tin horns and super-noise makers. Gabriel himself leads a cheer and the Bambino enters. He is dazed and needs a few minutes to get things straight, to realize that the doctors are gone, the men with the stethoscopes and the tubes and the instruments, the nurses and the charts, the agonies and the darkness.

He rubs his eyes. "It's all right," a voice of infinite tenderness tells him. "What's all this? Where am I?" asks the Bambino, young and vital. "It would take too long to explain," says the Voice, "and you might not find it easy to understand. We're not too sure whether this is just the proper thing or not but we are scrambling up values, standards and the rules a little."

"But I don't rate all this," stammers the Babe. "I was a pretty tough one in my time. The reformatory type, remember?"

"And a bad actor in plenty of spots. There was that time when . . ."

"Shut up and come in," says a fellow with a great shock of hair. "And remember you never get anywhere talking back to me."

"Judge Landis!" exclaims the Babe.

"Get into action," says the Judge. "It's been levelly up here, but well, a little too quiet without you."

"Look, is this a dream? Did the doc give me too many doc pills last night?" pleads the Babe.

"Take it from us. This is all the real thing," comes from a trio of familiar voices.

"Colonel Huston! . . . Jake! . . . Miller Huggins!" cries the Bambino.

"Welcome!" says Colonel Reppert. "And no salary talk!"

The Babe looks himself over. He sees that he is a younger man, he observes that he is in the No. 3 uniform. He feels the old surge of power. But he still stands a little heady.

"Have a bat, pal!"

"Lou! . . . Lou! . . . Lou Gehrig!"

"Yeah, I've been expecting you, Babe."

Now the Babe hears such cheers as he never heard before, mighty cheers from the throats of old timers, departed buddies, the great host of kids who were called too soon, Brothers Matthias and Gilbert—all the great company of those who love a game better, a big hearted guy, a fellow whose chief mistakes came from being too human.

He's at the plate once more—and on such a ball field! The Bambino has come home!

THE FICTION CORNER

BACK SEAT SAX

By CATHERINE BARRETT

MY NAME is Joe, but the fellows in the orchestra call me Bunny. They're nice fellows all right and they don't do it to hurt my feelings, but I'm scared of audiences, see, and every time I get up in front of one my mouth starts to twitch and it makes my nose wiggle—like a rabbit's. I've seen myself in a mirror and I got to admit if I was one of the fellows I'd be calling me Bunny, too. You get what I mean.

Nine years I've been in Jake Little's orchestra playing the sax and the bassoon. First we went all over the country but now we've got a neat little spot in Hollywood. Jake likes me and he thinks I play the sweetest sax he ever heard, but a long time ago he quit passing me solo parts because sure as I ever wiggle like a rabbit's I'd get nervous and my darned mouth would start twitching and well, there I was.

I've had to sit back and watch plenty of other fellows come and go, getting the solos, getting the hands, getting the raises in pay, and getting new and bigger contracts some place else. Now it's Charley Welch.

I play better'n he does—oh, that ain't bragging—even Charley'll tell you that. Only Charley's got the personality. And he's good looking.

And Marge likes him. That's the rub. Marge is head usher here at the Zenobia. One of those cute little flashy-eyed girls in the satin uniforms. You've seen 'em. Brass buttons down the front and swallow-tails over their tight blue satin pants. You wouldn't think to look at Marge that she's like she is. Practical and hard working.

She's had a tough time, see. She's twenty-two but you'd never guess it. And she's got a kid five years old. The cutest little truck you ever saw. Vingie. Vingie likes me too. "Why do they call you Bunny?" she says to me, and she looks at my ears like she thinks maybe they'll grow out of my hair.

"Because I'm a rabbit, see," I tell her. Only I'm looking at her mother. Marge frowns and then she says, "That's what makes me so mad at you. Why do you let yourself be a rabbit?"

Marge is likd that. What she don't want to be, she won't let herself be. Marge got married when she was sixteen to some rich folks' kid. He run out on her before Vingie was born and ever since Marge has taken care of herself. She's got a nice little apartment and she dresses Vingie up clean and cute. Oh I tell you, Marge is smart.

She's too good for me. She ought to have a fellow that could do a lot for her. She says to me, "If you were only the sort who'd ever get ahead." And she looks at me cross. "I like you, Bunny," she'll say "better than any fellow I ever knew, but I don't want to get married to a backseat sax player who'll never be anything else."

Charley Welch has been making a play for Marge. I like Charley, only he's the darnedest guy about getting to work on time. Always the last one. Skating across the stage and freezing into position the very second the curtain starts up. We've kept telling him some time he'll miss it. He laughs and says he'll commence starting earlier. But he never does.

"Charley's fun," Marge says to me. "And he'll get ahead too."

"Honey," I says to her, "you're not going to marry Charley, are you?" "Well, I don't know," she says. "I could calm him down a little. And if he had a wife to see that he got started to work on time. . . ."

It gets me worried, see, and I begin to think that I want to get married to Marge so bad that maybe now I could handle a solo spot and not go twitchy and miff it. So I ask Jake Little to give me a try. And he does, on one of the matinees.

Do I go over big? No. I sit back there and I don't look at the audience but I know it's out front. All them eyes. I begin to sweat and my mouth goes to jumping. I signal Jake and he gets Charley to take over.

I don't even ask Marge to let me take her home, I just go on to my own place. And I think about out there. Charley's playin' his piece. I stand there and go through the motions. First thing I know I find myself lookin' down at that audience.

"You know, it's funny, but that's the first time I ever saw the people in an audience. It ain't an octopus any more. It's fellows and girls, and women that look like the woman that runs the restaurant where I eat, or the one who sits across the way on the bus. And what do you think I see. Why, right there in the front row is Vingie. With a grin all the way across her little pink face. And clear in the back is Marge, and she's watchin' me so hard her eyes are round and shiny.

Well, sir, my chest begins working again and I can breathe. My lips unfreeze. In a minute I'm standing there as easy as can be. Boy, is that a swell feeling!—Like sprouting wings.

I'm still feeling like a bird on the loose when the show's over and Marge comes back. She rushes right over to me, "Joe," she says "first time she's ever called me Joe. "Joe, you were wonderful. I knew you could do it." And she takes my arm and hugs it to her.

"Joe," she says, "you were wonderful. I knew you could do it." Vingie was there, too, dancing around and clapping hands."

Charley probably taking her home in his roadster. Charley'll laugh and say, "That poor Bunny."

Then comes the matinee when Charley don't show. His seat's empty and Jake is gettin' nervous and the fellows are saying like they always do, "Don't worry, he'll be here." But he don't come, and the buzzer sounds. . . . and Jake makes me come up and take Charley's place. He looks down at me like he's sore and he says, "You'll do the solo. Get it?"

So I'm stuck with it. And I tell myself, all right, you got to. You ain't going to be a rabbit all your life. Think of Vingie. And remember, Marge is out there.

I ain't begun to twitch because I got my lips held so tight they're moving my teeth back into my mouth.

I KNOW the part all right. I always know all the parts. And I can play 'em like a million dollars at home. I can even play 'em for Marge. It's the audience that gets me. All them eyes.

Okay, I tell myself, you do it this time, or you're through. And I mean through.

My time comes and I stand up. I start lifting my sax. I'm not twitching. . . . But my lips has frozen solid over my teeth. I try, and get out of breath and my chest collapses. But my sax is up. The cue comes.

And the sweetest music I ever heard comes floating in from the wings.

Kathleen Norris Says: Worry Is a Destroyer of People

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

"She's afraid that Linda's baby is being spoiled, and afraid that Linda's having another, and that Derrick never will be a money-maker."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

A WICHITA man is leaving his wife and going to live with his mother on her farm. Their only son, 17, is going away to college. Their only daughter, who is now 20, ran away and got married three years ago. The man, Bert Snow, says he has borne all he can bear and that his wife is driving him crazy.

"Mattie," said his letter, "is about the worst worrier I know. Lots of women worry, and bother their tired husbands at night with a lot of nonsensical complaints that they ought never to mention, but Mattie beats the lot. Everything she says is worrying. In the mornings it's the weather, the paper being late, the garden being dry, the house being in such a condition, the oven being slow getting hot, the coffee not being like the last pound, the teaspoon that has been missing for years, the napkins wearing out so fast.

Every word is worrying. Her face has a brown, dried, wrinkled look from worry. She's afraid that Linda's baby is being spoiled, and afraid that Linda's having another, and that Derrick never will be a money-maker. She calls up my son in the middle of a school morning to remind him of his cough pills. She worries when she telephones her friends and she worries when she doesn't.

Has Many Worries. "All this is about nothing. And with all this, she keeps up a constant undertone of paralyzing anxiety about real troubles, so that sometimes she actually cannot get a meal or speak for terror. Anything alarming that is said on the radio, about war, or bombs, or floods, or weather, any suspicion of epidemics or statement as to the prevalence of cancer or polio, statistics on highway or bathtub accidents, these throw her into a low nervous state in which she murmurs and trembles for hours. High prices, scarcities, unexpected charges by the dentist, plumber, doctor, everything is grist to poor Mattie's mill. I'm getting as bad as she is. I'm going home to Mamma."

This pathetic, desperate letter from a 50-year-old man describes a domestic condition that is only too common nowadays. Not that most worriers are as bad as Mattie. But we are all worriers, more or less, and worry is like mildew, or termites, or gangrene. It eats away our powers, it weakens our will, it darkens a hundred scenes that ought to be unclouded and happy.

The truth is that while worry is wasteful, unprofitable and uncomfortable for all concerned, there is no saying today that we have nothing to worry about. We have everything to worry about.

Thousands of inessential things are right with our civilization; but two or three supremely essential things have been so badly mismanaged and have been allowed so to harden into custom and usage, that do what we will we cannot balance or rationalize our problems. Life could be different, without wars, intemperance, unemployment, privation, and above all—without fear. We know it could, at one-tenth of the cost of war. We know all nations want to be friendly; all men and women want to sleep securely and safely in their own households. We know there is plenty of everything desirable in the world: Sunshine, homes, food, friendship.

New Hospital Color FORT WORTH, TEX.—Gloriously white hospital walls in hospital rooms may be a thing of the past. St. Joseph's hospital in Fort Worth now uses a soft shade of green for operating rooms. It is one of the first in the state to convert to the new color. The idea is to cut down on the glare.

The color scheme is carried over into the drapes, sheets, operating gowns, caps and masks. Authorities say it helps to relieve eye fatigue and strain.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When jelly or jam scorches, put into a clean kettle, add a cut-up raw potato and continue cooking. The potato will absorb the burned taste.

A paste of fuller's earth and water spread on marble and allowed to stand for a few days will remove many stains. Wash off and polish as usual.

Use leftover duck in a rice or macaroni salad with celery and sweet pickle relish; serve on lots of shredded salad greens.

If you are putting slipcovers on your furniture, clean the upholstery well first. Otherwise, they may hide and shelter moth larvae. And the moths may do a great deal of damage before you discover them.

Try using a gravy boat to fill jars and tumblers when canning jelly and preserves.

Combine maple sirup and marshmallow cream, using half a cup of the sirup to one-quarter cup of the cream, for an ice cream topping.

When packing cake in waxed paper, sprinkle the paper with powdered sugar first. This helps the frosting to stick to the cake and not to the paper.

When rags are too worn for household use, wash and store in a paper bag in the garage for the men to wipe their hands on when tinkering with the car.

Keep a stiff brush near the laundry tubs. Before putting garments into the wash, turn any pockets inside out and brush thoroughly. The brush will be handy also for brushing soapuds on soiled places, such as neckbands, collars and cuffs.

NO Harsh Laxatives are NOT necessary for most people

The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing on arising, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination.

No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair nutrition! Lemon in water is good for you! Generations of Americans have taken lemons for health—and generations of doctors have recommended them. They are rich in vitamin C, supply valuable amounts of B1 and P. They alkalize, aid digestion.

Not too sharp or sour, lemon in water has a refreshing tang—clears the mouth, wakes you up. It's not a purgative—simply helps your system regulate itself. Try it 10 days. USE CALIFORNIA SUNKIST LEMONS

Sparrows

Grace Noll Crowell

I LOVE the sparrows, bad though they may be, And you would love them, too, if you had laid Long hours with them alone for company, And if their friendliness had eased your pain. Gray days, gray skies, gray sparrows on bare trees, Yet something in their raucous song so true, I often think a sparrow's voice must please The Lord as much as larks' and thrushes' do.

Remember this—'Tis not two sparrows sold For one small farthing, yet not one may fall Without the Father sees it.' This I hold More close than any comforting at all. And fear ye not, therefore—'O little birds, Your accents bring the solace of these words.

Straight and Narrow—Walking a chalk line sounds easy to do, but not when you have to look through the small end of a pair of opera glasses while you're doing it. It's just another teen-taged gag that's guaranteed to be a party picnic.

Obstacle Races Next time your party shows signs of malnutrition along about the middle of the evening, nourish it along with either of these two gags. They're always good for a giggle.

Speed Station—Give every guest a bottle of pop and award a prize to the one who can drain it to the last drop first. Sounds easy, until we tell you that you put a baby bottle nipple over the top of each bottle first. The sight of all the Joes and Jills desperately pulling on their nipples bottles is enough to lift any party out of its doldrums!

A Much Better Way

One of our friends said the other day: "I've been wanting to pay a debt to a man who lives over in the next county. Guess I should drive over and pay him, but I'm very busy right now."

We talked him out of it. Not out of paying the debt, but of making the drive. We advised him to mail Mr. Blank a check. The whole transaction then cost only the price of a stamp. And when the check came back it acted as a receipt. You can't afford to crank up even a "Henry" and make a 24 mile drive when a stamp will do the work for you, and do it better.

Our Policy on PONTIAC Deliveries and Prices

Despite the fact that Pontiac has built over a half-million cars since the resumption of production after the war, demand still exceeds supply. In the face of this production record, those who place orders now will still experience some delay in delivery. If you are among the many people who feel that Pontiac represents an outstanding value—and wish to order a Pontiac for future delivery—you will be interested in the following policy on retail distribution which we, as Pontiac dealers, will observe:

WE WANT YOUR ORDER

And the sooner you place it, the sooner you will get delivery. So if you want a Pontiac, order it now.

WE WILL ESTIMATE DELIVERY DATE

Due to conditions beyond our control, we cannot give you an exact date of delivery. But based on anticipated future shipments from the factory, we will, when you place your order, give you an honest estimate of when you may expect your car. Such estimates will be reviewed any time on request.

ORDERS FILLED BY PRIORITY

A definite proportion of the cars we receive from the factory is set aside for preferential delivery to users whose work is in the public welfare and to others with certain occupational requirements. Otherwise, all orders will be filled on the basis of the time when they are received.

YOU PAY ONLY OUR ADVERTISED PRICE

Due to changing economic conditions, we cannot, when you place your order, tell you exactly how much the car will cost when delivered in the future. But, at the time of delivery you will be charged only our advertised price on your model—which will be shown in a published list of local prices.

YOU SPECIFY ACCESSORIES

While most of our customers order their cars equipped with accessories, we do not force accessories as a condition of sale. You specify what accessories you want when ordering your car, and these are the ones (and the only ones) it will carry when delivered. Some items may be lacking due to current shortages; but none will be added.

REGARDING TRADE-INS

Naturally, if you have a car to trade, we would like to have it in order to take care of our regular used car customers. Our appraisals are fair, based on current conditions. But if you do not have a car to turn in, we still want your order and will accept it for delivery based on the conditions outlined above.

Since this is our "home town", our business and its future is based on our good relations with the people of this community. We are most happy that so many people here—as all over the country—have made Pontiac their number one choice as a new car.

Nothing pleases us more than to turn over the keys of a new Pontiac to one of the many people whose orders we have, because we know they have chosen well—for Pontiac is always a thoroughly good car, and a thoroughly good value, this year, next year, any year.

For a Better City Lesson for September 19, 1948

FOR A BETTER CITY is a good slogan. No one would think of objecting to it. If the great city of Ephesus, capital and metropolis of the wealthiest and most thickly populated province of the Roman Empire, had had a chamber of commerce, no doubt they would all have been in favor of a Better City.

Basic Recipes 'IS THERE any simple way to learn how to be a good cook?' asks a young woman now starting out to keep house.

SCRIPTURE: Acts 19:28-41. DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 16:11-16.

For a Better City

Lesson for September 19, 1948

FOR A BETTER CITY is a good slogan. No one would think of objecting to it.

The question is: What makes a city better? Four different ideas on that line—two very bad ones and two good ones—can be seen in the story of Acts 19.

You should read the story itself before looking over these comments. Because we are beginning toward the end of the story, with the very lowest and silliest of the four ideas how to make a city better.

It is a very simple idea: Just "holler," yell, make a demonstration. Make it long, make it loud, and the city will be the better for it.

A curious thing, the mob-mind. If something is true, how can no one make it true? If a thing is a lie, how can all the shouting in the world make it respectable?

So that these full of fools wasted a good afternoon shouting a lie into the deaf blue heavens. It did Diana no good. She was as dead as Marley's ghost, she had never lived, in fact. It was no use drumming up the decibels.

Do you know people who think they can make your town better by shouting about it? It won't work. You can make a town or county famous if you shout long enough; but you won't make it better.

Making Money THE SILVERSMITHS there in Ephesus had another theory. The way they looked at it, the big thing is money.

They used to make money selling their little silver shrines. Now this fellow Paul had come along, persuading people that hand-made gods are no gods at all, and the trade in "sacred" trinkets had fallen off.

It looked like a bad year for the silversmiths. To make things better, they decided, they needed more money. More business! More production! The fact that what they produced was not only worthless but actually harmful, did not seem to bother them.

Do you know people like that today?

Abiding By the Law THE TOWN CLERK of Ephesus had a simple idea, vastly better than these other two. He saw no sense in the mass meeting, he seems not to have been taken in by the silversmiths' crocodile tears.

If anything was wrong in Ephesus, he said, the courts were open, and trials were open, and trials could be held. We have laws—let us live by them; that was the gist of his idea. That is not bad advice.

All honor to the honest servants of the public who now as then give their best efforts to seeing that good laws are made and well enforced.

Changing Lives SPEAKING OF LAWS, there are three kinds of people in the world. One kind will not obey the laws whatever they are.

These are the criminal classes. A second kind say "inside the law" but they never advance a step beyond them. A third kind, too rare, will go far beyond the law's requirements in personal living and in social helpfulness.

Now Paul had been in the city of Ephesus for some months, and he had nothing to do with the laws of that city. Yet what he was doing was more effective in making that city better than anything the courts could have done.

For what he was doing was nothing less than changing lives. "The trouble with people is that they're people," and the business of Christianity first of all is changing people. It is not hanging out the slogan "For a Better City" unless you are working for better people.

A tree is no healthier than its roots, and a community's roots are the characters of her people. And from St. Paul's day to this, the one and only organization which sets out to change people from the inside, is the Christian church.

Varying Basic Recipes Assures Interesting Meals (See recipes below)

Basic Recipes 'IS THERE any simple way to learn how to be a good cook?' asks a young woman now starting out to keep house.

The answer is simply yes. The method is to learn certain basic food preparations, then to vary these, and you certainly will have a good storehouse from which to select for meals of all kinds—for family and for guests.

The idea is to learn the basic recipes so well that it becomes as much a part of you as any simple habit. You'll memorize the ingredients if you repeat the recipe often enough, and the method is even easier to learn.

Then it's no trick at all to make an infinite variety of variations of the basic recipe.

Once you have learned a recipe in this way, you'll always remember it, no matter how rushed you are or in whose kitchen you are making it.

Perhaps you've heard that Mrs. Jones is the muffin maker of the community, especially because of her orange muffins. You can become famous for any one of several of your recipes just by learning to follow basic recipes, and trying out their variations.

HERE ARE SEVERAL good basic recipes with their appropriate variations which can form a good backbone to your collection:

Plain Muffins (Makes about 14) 2 cups sifted flour 3 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

2 cups sifted flour 3 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 tablespoons granulated sugar 1 egg, well beaten 1 cup milk 4 tablespoons melted shortening or salad oil

Sift together dry ingredients. Combine all remaining ingredients. Add all at once to flour mixture, stirring, not beating, quickly and vigorously until just mixed but still lumpy in appearance.

Fill greased or oiled muffin pans, one-half full, and bake in a hot (425-degree) oven about 25 minutes.

*WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS: Use above recipe, reducing flour to one-quarter cup, adding one cup unsifted whole wheat flour. Increase sugar to four tablespoons and use four teaspoons baking powder.

Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 35 minutes.

NUT MUFFINS: Use plain muffin recipe, adding one cup finely chopped nuts to other ingredients.

ORANGE MUFFINS: Use plain muffin recipe, increasing sugar to four tablespoons, reducing milk to three-quarters cup, and adding one-quarter cup orange juice and one-quarter cup grated orange rind.

CHEESE MUFFINS: Add one cup grated American cheese, lightly packed, to dry ingredients.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS: Mix three-quarters cup of fresh blueberries with one cup flour.

LYNN SAYS: Use Quickie Recipes For Short-Cut Meals Coarsely grated potatoes may be mixed with chopped onion and hamburger, skillet fried, to give you meat and potatoes all in one quick-to-fix dish.

Beef or calves' liver dipped in French dressing and bread crumbs is pan fried for just a few minutes to get done.

Korea's Isle of Amazons Lives on Ocean Harvest

As shallow-sea divers for pearls, shellfish, edible seaweed, and various items of commerce, women of Oriental coasts for centuries have outdone the men.

Those of Cheju, 50 miles off Korea's southern tip, have been notably adept. An estimated 10,000 today live by harvesting ocean areas, while their men in some cases tend the children and prepare the meals, notes the National Geographic Society.

From this feminine monopoly has grown the tradition of Cheju as an Amazon Isle. It took positive form in the West about 1900 when a traveler brought back the tale that the island until 1850 had been populated solely by women and young children in storied Amazon style.

In the 1946 census, Cheju counted 276,148 inhabitants, virtually all on the coasts of the 45-by-20-mile oval of land. There were 113 women to each 100 men on Cheju in 1946, whereas on the Korean mainland men outnumbered women.

Cheju port on the north coast is the island's capital and chief center, counting 30,000 inhabitants. They live largely in crude, thatched-roof huts of mud and stone. Ancient walls to defend against pirate attack still stand along the shore.

Life of Samuel Colt After being expelled from Amherst, Samuel Colt was sent to sea. The ship's paddle wheel gave him an idea for the revolving pistol cylinder.

At the age of 14 he whittled out a model and it worked. Later, he quit his father's dye plant to seek his fortune as "Dr. Coult".

In 1832 he sent his plan of a gun to the U. S. patent office, and was awarded a patent in 1836. After the original company failed, Colt invented the submarine "mine", while still in his twenties. He died wealthy at the age of 48.

KEYED TO BETTER LIVING -

Better Lighting

A LESSON TO REMEMBER - BETTER LIGHT PLUS BETTER SVANT EQUALS BETTER GRADES

Now that students are starting another school term, it is vitally important that they have enough of the right kind of light for easy seeing.

All lamps used by children for home study should have at least a 100-watt bulb - 150 watts in many cases - to provide good light to make their homework easier and to prevent undue eyestrain. Lamp shades, too, are important - they should be wide enough to spread the light evenly and keep glaring, unshaded light from striking the eyes.
