The club members and Scouts passed out handbills last Saturday, soliciting books and informing residents of the drive to be conducted this Saturday.

Red Cross Drive Opens

Gene Akers, Red Cross Fund Chairman, urges street and rural captains to start making their reports Friday so that some idea can be obtained about results of the first week's work.

Ochiltree County has a goal this year of $3,500 to continue the outstanding Red Cross activity carried on here. The county has never failed to reach its Red Cross Goal, Akers pointed out.

Last Saturday, Scouts of Troop 55 canvassed residents East of Main street. Harry Stumpf, Scout master, said that so many of the residents could not be contacted that he was sure that another effort should be made to give everyone a chance to support the Red Cross fund campaign.

Besides the money goal, a more important goal is being sought this year, Akers reported. The new objective is "an all-out

Woman Injured, Three Cars Are Damaged In Wreck

Mrs. Ray Moon of Perryton was injured and three vehicles were damaged in a collision which occurred Thursday evening, Feb. 26, on highway 83 near the county warehouse north of town.

City policeman E. E. Jones, who investigated the accident, said that Mrs. Moon, driving a 1940 Dodge, was going north on the highway, and that her car crossed the center stripe, meeting a truck and trailer driven by Sam Parris of Guymon.

The Moon car struck the truck, then veered into a 1952 Pontiac driven by Dickie Haar, following behind the truck.

Mrs. Moon was taken to the Sanford Hospital, where she was treated for lacerations and examined for possible internal injuries. Her three children, riding in the car at the time of the accident, were not injured.

Damage to the truck driven by Parris was estimated at $400; damage to the Pontiac driven by Haar was estimated at $300; and the Moon car was declared a total wreck.

None of the vehicles were traveling very fast, Jones said, which possibly avoided more serious consequences of the accident.

(Herald Staff Photo Engraving)

WORKING FOR RED CROSS—Charles Erickson, right, a member of Scout Troop 55, was one of the workers opening the Red Cross drive Saturday. He is shown calling on Mrs. H. C. Barlow, 302 S. Cedar. The Red Cross drive in Ochiltree county has a goal of $3,500 this year and the drive is expected to end on March 15.

First Game Scheduled for Friday Night

A number of local basketball fans are expected to travel with the Rangerettes to Canyon Friday to see them compete for honors in the Region 1-AA girls tournament. The Rangerettes are district 1-AA champions, defeating Dalhart last week for top honors.

The team is scheduled to play their first game in the tournament at 7:30 o'clock Friday night when they meet the winner of the Wellington-New Deal game.

There are six teams in the class A and AA bracket, including Panhandle, Tulia, Perryton, Dimmitt, Wellington and New Deal. The New Deal girls have the best season record, having won 32 and lost none.

The Rangerettes have a 20-3 season record and won first place trophies in the Perryton and Happy tournaments. They were second in the Dalhart tournament.

Coach Cecil Robison said Wednesday that he plans to take the full squad to the regional tournament. This includes Marilyn Richardson, Joan Johnson, Phyllis Vernon, Janice Miller, Arjean Clark, Kay Cayler, Ann Osborne, Patsy Halpain, Elaine Clack, Marion Egbert and Norma Rifenberg.

The Rangerettes will be handicapped in the regional tournament by the loss of Betty Dear, star forward for the past four years and leading scorer this season, who has been forced to quit the squad on doctor's orders. Her place will be filled by sophomore Phyllis Vernon.

There will be 13 girls teams in class B participating in the tournament, although the Rangerettes will compete only against A and AA teams.

Civic Groups to Investigate Plans for Wolf Creek Dam

A Chamber of Commerce committee has been appointed to work with the Lions Club committee and other interested groups to work for the rebuilding of the Lake Fryer dam.

These committees are to meet with the commissioners court in the near future to ascertain the necessary steps to be taken to get an estimate of the cost of rebuilding and to discuss plans for financing the project.

The dam at Lake Fryer washed out in 1947, ending the usefulness of Lake Fryer as an area recreation spot. Dedicated in 1940, the lake and the facilities for fishing, boating, and picnicking had been used by residents over the North Plains.

After the damage to the dam, several requests were submitted to the government to rebuild it, but no action was taken. Legislation was introduced in Congress by former Rep. Eugene Worley, but did not pass.

The government gave the county a 99-year lease to the property about two years ago and it has been operated locally since that time.

Considerable speculation has been made as to the possibility of rebuilding the dam, but this is the first positive step toward getting the project started.

R. T. Shindler and W. H. Lance of the Lions Club met with the Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night. Appointed to work with them from the Chamber of Commerce were Alton Witt, L. D. Stinson and Harold Hudson of the C. of C. board of directors.

Chamber Opens Annual Drive For Membership

The annual Chamber of Commerce membership drive opened Wednesday morning with a breakfast for workers at the Hotel Coffee Shop. Approximately 200 more members to the Chamber for 1953 are being sought by the organization.

John Sammons is chairman of the membership committee, which is composed of F. L. Gerard, co-chairman, Mrs. W. R. Cayler, Mrs. Ann Suitor, J. H. Woodward and Ellis Kelly.

This committee, plus the board of directors and other workers from the Chamber will conduct the drive. Workers are Sam Hergert, A. P. McCelvey, Glen McGibbon, J. H. Stephenson, Jr., Roy Orrill, Louis Bryan, Jess Russell, Phil Daley, F. B. Sumpter, I. R. Buchanan, Ted Lewis.

A total of 100 persons enrolled in the Ochiltree county community group during the Blue Cross enrollment which concluded last Saturday. This was considerably less than had been expected, although a number of persons were added to Blue Cross coverage through employed groups.

There were 95 families in the original Blue Cross community group. There were 32 of these that did not re-enroll and 37 more families were added to the community group, making a total of 100.

There are 37 other Blue Cross groups, covering approximately 350 families, making a total coverage for the county approximately 450 families under the Blue Cross hospital plan.

Enrollment was held during the week of February 23-28; with headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Farm Bureau Program Reduces Need for Subsidies, Exports

WACO—The decline in farm prices—considered the most serious problem facing the Eisenhower administration outside of the Korean War—eventually may give prominence to a proposed national farm program which originated here in Texas. The program would lessen the need for government subsidies and dependence upon exports, according to J. Walter Hammond, Tye, Tex. farmer, who authored the plan.

Hammond, president of the powerful Texas Farm Bureau Federation, returned last week from Washington where he had met with key farm leaders in an effort to find a solution to the diminishing exports of cotton and other surplus crops.

The state farm leader met Feb. 11 with representatives from other cotton-producing states in a meeting called by Allen Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Next day he attended an industry-wide meeting called by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to discuss stepping up export of cotton and mapping plans to forestall possible marketing quotas next year.

While in Washington, Hammond and other members of the AFBF board of directors were called to the White House to meet with President Eisenhower. This was the first time Farm Bureau leaders were welcomed to the executive mansion since the AFBF differed with former Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan over the ill-fated Brannan Plan in 1949.

The Hammond Plan is based on acreage control and price supports. The percentage of acres to be taken completely out of production would be based on the overall national overproduction of all agricultural commodities. This is in contrast to past acreage control program which allowed farmers to shift production when allotments were placed on certain crops. The result was continued surpluses.

According to the plan devised by Hammond, acreage taken out of production would leave only enough acres to produce needed supplies of all crops, leaving to the discretion of the individual farmer the crops to be planted on the acres allotted to the farm. To safeguard farmers who might overplant a single crop, support prices would be provided on all crops at a level high enough to tide formers over until production could be shifted to products in short supply.

In order for the plan to succeed, the acres taken out of production would have to lie dormant or be planted to soil-building crops. Under the Hammond Plan, good conservation practices on those idle acres could be encouraged by Soil Conservation payments.

The president of the Texas Farm Bureau devised his plan several years ago after having to contend with the problems brought on by surpluses of the Depression years. His plan was adopted by voting delegates to the Farm Bureau State convention in 1949. It was re-affirmed at TFBF's 19th annual meeting in November in San Antonio.

Hammond has already gained support for his proposed program from the AFBF board of directors. So far the plan has not been adopted by the voting delegates of the national farm organization.

TEXANS TESTIFY BEFORE U. S. SENATE INTERIOR COMMITTEE—Offering what they emphasized were sound reasons for state rather than federal ownership of submerged lands, these three Texans appeared before the senate interior committee last week. They are (left to right): Sen. Price Daniel, Texas Atty. Gen., John Ben Shepperd, and Tex. Land Com. Bascom Giles. Behind them is a map exhibited in the John Ben Shepperd, and Texas Land Commissioner Bascom Giles. Behind them is a map exhibited in the committee room. Witnesses said the committee was impressed with evidence offered to refute arguments by proponents of federal control, as well as by Freshman Senator Daniel's masterly presentation. (AP)

Q. To train under the Korean GI Bill, I understand that I need at least 90 days military service, unless I was discharged sooner for a disability. Must all the 90 days have occurred after the Korean fighting began?

A. Not necessarily. You could qualify provided any part of the required 90 days of your military service took place after June 27, 1950, the date of the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

Q. I'm taking institutional on-farm training under the World War II GI Bill. What happens if my annual income report isn't submitted to VA by the March 1 deadline?

A. If you don't send in your annual report on time, your GI subsistence allowance may be cut off as of March 31.

Q. I'm a World War I veteran and my U. S. Government Life Insurance permanent policy has just lapsed, through oversight on my part. When I reinstate, must I pay interest on the premiums in arrears?

A. You won't be required to pay interest if you reinstate within three months from the due date of the premium in default. If you wait longer than that, 4% interest compounded annually must be paid on the premiums in arrears.

Q. What is the deadline for getting a GI loan?

A. For World War II veterans, the deadline is July 25, 1957. For veterans eligible under the Korean GI Bill, the deadline is 10 years after the end of the current emergency period—a date not yet set.

Allies Get U. S. Planes

BRINDISI, Italy (AP)—This port on the lower Adriatic has become the gate of entry for a steady stream of U. S. warplanes destined to bolster the fighting strength of Italy, Greece and Turkey.

During the past year, 50 supply ships unloaded 360 planes and several thousand tons of other arms here at the southern end of the old Roman Appian way.

Supplies landed here are divided roughly in thirds for distribution to the three countries. At big rebuilt jet plane bases inland from the port, both Greece and Turkey maintain crews of assembly mechanics and ferry pilots.

'Mystery' Malady Solved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Robert B. Morris, his wife and 4-year-old son all got sick about the same time for two weeks recently. Thinking a change of climate might help, Morris moved his family here from San Mateo for six days. All promptly got better.

When they went back home, they all got sick again. Then his wife collapsed on the floor. A later checkup by the fire department revealed a furnace slowly spewing deadly carbon monoxide fumes into the house. The family did not require hospitalization.

Legion Promoting 'Korean Veteran Thanks Week'

The American Legion through its state community service chairman, Mayor R. C. Gusman of Bay City, is urging Texas civic, church and school organizations to join the American Legion and its more than 800 posts in observance of "Korean Veterans Appreciation Week," March 15 to 22.

Chambers of Commerce, Junior Chambers of Commerce, Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, Optimist, Exchange and Civitan Clubs were urged to join in showing the returned veterans of the Korean conflict an old fashioned outburst of Texas appreciation during the designated week. Likewise, schools and churches were urged by Mayor Gusman to do their part in the movement.

"Our Korean veterans have participated in a bloody and costly war but in the state and national consciousness we have taken that fact too much as a matter of course," Gusman declared. "We owe it to these tens of thousands of Texans to say 'thank you', and this will be a great opportunity."

Certificates of appreciation will be issued by the American Legion to returned Korean veterans. The certificates will be presented to the families of those who do not return.

UP GOES THE POWER OF EVERY BUICK— Special | Super and | Roadmaster!

World's newest V8

Television treat—the BUICK CIRCUS HOUR—every fourth Tuesday

IT'S more than pride that makes a man want a lot of horsepower beneath the hood of the car he owns.

For the real point in reaching record horsepowers and compression ratios goes beyond miles per hour. It steps up performance and economy in normal driving.

That's what Buick engineers did when they upped the power and compression of each 1953 Buick — SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER — to the highest figures in Buick's fifty-year history.

In the SUPER and ROADMASTER, they put a new kind of V8 Engine—first passenger-car V8 with 8.5 to 1 compression, and a long list of other major engineering advances.

For the SPECIAL, they redesigned the famed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine — gave it shorter flame travel, faster firing, higher horsepower and compression.

And to these spirited engines they coupled the new Twin-Turbine Dynaflow Drive* that adds flash-fast, quiet getaway to utter smoothness.

Just to give you an example of what all this means: The 1953 Buick SPECIAL with Dynaflow can beat the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER on getaway—can reach 30 mph (when the law allows) with a combined speed and jerk-free smoothness no other car can equal.

Of course, there's far more to these new Buicks for 1953 — some seven dozen new features alone.

But why not come in and see for yourself that these are the greatest Buicks—and the greatest values—in fifty great years.

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Seek Bids for Paving 8 Miles On Highway 70

The State Highway Depart- ment is publishing this week no- tice to contractors for construc- tion bids on state highway 70 south of Perryton.

There will be 8.835 miles of construction, leading from the north bank of the Canadian riv- er to 3.4 miles north of the Rob- erts county line, where the pres- ent pavement on highway 70 ends.

This will complete the paving from the junction with U. S. 83 six miles south of Perryton to the Canadian river, and approval has been granted for the paving of highway 70 from Pampa north to the Canadian river.

Approval has been made by the state highway commission for construction of the bridge across the Canadian, but no con- tract date has been set.

Bids for the 8.835 miles of pavement are to be in the state highway office in Austin by March 17.

Robert Goff Gets Shell Promotion

Promotion of Robert E. Goff to the position of Training Co-Ordinator for Shell Oil Company in New York was announced recently by Joe T. Dickerson, Vice President.

Goff was employed by Shell as Employment Interviewer in the Midland, Texas, Area Office in 1948. Since April 1949 he has served as Training Representative in that office, which supervises all exploration and production activties for the company in West Texas and New Mexico.

Goff received his grade school education in San Angelo, Texas, and received his B. A. degree from the University of Oklahoma in 1943. After serving two years in the United States Marines, Goff returned to the University of Chicago, where he received his M. A. degree in Personnel in 1947.

Goff's parents now reside in Perryton, Texas. He was accompanied on his move from Midland to New York by his wife, Betty, and two children, Robert, Jr., and Katherine.

State's Budget Tight As Any Citizens; Little Slack Left

(Note: Following up a discussion of his plan for raising the money to increase teachers' salaries, the Governor of Texas has prepared a brief article outlining the general revenue picture facing the 53rd Legislature, now in session.)

By ALLAN SHIVERS
Governor of Texas

Texas' budget is a billion-dollar baby.

But it doesn't have much spending money.

The State budget for the next two years is around a billion dollars.

But five out of every six dollars already have been promised one way on another.

The Legislature can spend only the money in the general revenue fund, or in sight during the next two years, which now is about $176 million. Because of decreasing oil production, it may drop sharply in the next few weeks.

What happened to the other millions?

They are either in special funds for special purposes, or already allocated for specific State services.

The trend in financing our State government is recent years has been toward the emphasis of the special funds and allocations, with the result that the general revenue fund has dwindled.

In a recent series of articles I discussed two of these special funds: (1) the available school fund, which is paid out to school districts on the basis of school-age population and (2) the Gilmer-Aiken or minimum foundation fund, which supplies enough money to guarantee every child in Texas a minimum standard of schooling.

There is an allocation of $35 million a year for assistance to the old people, the blind, and to dependent children.

Another $15 million goes into a special fund each year for farm-to-market roads under the Colson-Briscoe program.

We have a large—though not large enough—State highway fund.

The money for teachers' retirement also comes by special allocation.

So the general revenue fund has been shrinking in proportion to the State's total budget, because many allocations have first access to the tax money collected by the State.

Out of the present modest portion—$176 million or less—the Legislature must cover all general services of the State.

Higher education, including all State-supported colleges, universities, and junior colleges, must be paid for out of the general revenue fund.

The money for upkeep of State hospitals and special schools must come out of that same $176 million.

So must the funds for operation of the courts, from the district level on up.

The same is true of any capital improvements, such as State office buildings, prison system buildings, or additional State hospitals—that is, hospital building costs above the $5 million a year provided by a special tax.

Even the expenses of the Legislature must come from the general revenue fund.

The financial tasks of the Legislature are further complicated by the fact that the government of Texas is now operated on a strict pay-as-you-go basis. This policy rigidly limits appropriations to anticipated revenues.

The Texas Constitution, Section 49a, Article 3, sets forth this requirement in detail:

"It shall be the duty of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in advance of each regular session of the Legislature to prepare and submit to the Governor and to the Legislature upon its convening a statement under oath showing fully the financial condition of the State Treasury at the close of the last fiscal period and an estimate of the probable receipts and disbursements for the then current fiscal year. There shall also be contained in said statement an itemnized estimate of the anticipated revenue based on the laws then in effect that will be received by and for the State from all sources showing the fund accounts to be credited during the succeeding biennium."

The Constitution goes on to require that, "save in the case of emergency and imperative public necessity and with a four-fifths vote of the total membership of each house, no appropriation in excess of the cash and anticipated revenue of the funds from which such appropriations is to be made shall be valid."

When the Comptroller finds that an appropriation bill exceeds the estimated revenue he must return it to the house where it originated and in such a case the Constitution prescribes that "the necessary steps shall be taken to bring such appropriation to within the revenue, either by providing additional revenue or reducing the appropriation."

The Comptroller has estimated that there will be available, during the next biennium, about $176 million in the general revenue fund. The Legislature must bring all general service expenditures within this figure—or find more money.

That is why, when the public school teachers requested a $600-per-month increase that would cost the State approximately $67 million in the next biennium, I raised the question of where to find the money. That $67 million would represent nearly 40 per cent of the entire general revenue fund.

It is the Legislature's responsibility and prerogative to determine how much we shall spend for what, and who shall pay for it. It is the Governor's responsibility to recommend a program and a plan of financing it.

In my message to the 53rd Legislature when it convened January 14, I made these specific recommendations of expenditures: State departments—$41,618,484; higher education—$72,896,438; State hospitals—$44,313,692; the judiciary—$6,976,050.

I also suggested that funds in addition to those already earmarked for State hospital construction be provided, on an emergency basis, for a tuberculosis hospital building program costing $6,725,000.

At that time I pointed out that these items, totaling $172,529,664, plus legislative and other necessary expense, would virtually wipe out the general revenue fund.

Naturally there may be some inclination to cut these figures I have suggested—but my recommendations themselves represent a considerable paring from the amounts the agencies concerned would have liked to have.

The main source of the general revenue fund is the omnibus tax. Of it, the major portions are from production taxes on basic material like petroleum, natural gas, and sulphur, and from special sales taxes on automobiles, beer, liquor and cigarettes.

I have suggested that, if the Legislature decides to seek additional revenues to finance State government, it consider levying more taxes on "long-line" natural gas transmission lines.

The people of Texas have shown so much interest in the financial operations of the State that I thought a detailed report on some of the problems your Legislators and your Governor are facing would be of interest.

A fast-growing population, a rapidly expanding economy, and the general pressures of world and national events are challenging our State.

All of us, whether elected officials or private citizens must work together to meet these challenges and to live up to the great traditions of Texas.

The height of waves is increased when they flow into a channel the sides of which converge but decrease in expanding channels.

The Unique BLADE Cultivator

Outstanding Performance
IN CHANGING SOIL-CONDITIONS

Designed to handle ALL SOIL CONDITIONS easily, Noble Cultivator attachments can be supplied for any soil condition. No cultivator without attachments can suit all conditions. Even where a plow will not penetrate, as for after-harvest work in certain dry baked soils, the Noble straight blade attachment will usually penetrate and work satisfactorily.

For weeding and second stroke summerfallow work the weeder blade is readily interchangeable, going on the same frog as the regular shovel blade. This weeder assures a better weed kill than the ordinary blade and should be used wherever the ground is sufficiently loose that it will penetrate. It clears through, penetrates and withstands rocks where the ordinary rod weeder will not.

The Model M shown above is very popular for use with Noble squadron hitches, from two to seven in a unit, for large power.

Write for information, stating your soil type and tractor power.

Fifteen years' experience under all field conditions is behind this cultivator. We welcome comparison in field tests with any other tillage equipment.

For better penetration in extremely hard ground. For extra deep work.

Best for reasonably firm soils and most ordinary conditions.

For sandy soils and very loose-textured black soils, particularly where grassy patches occur.

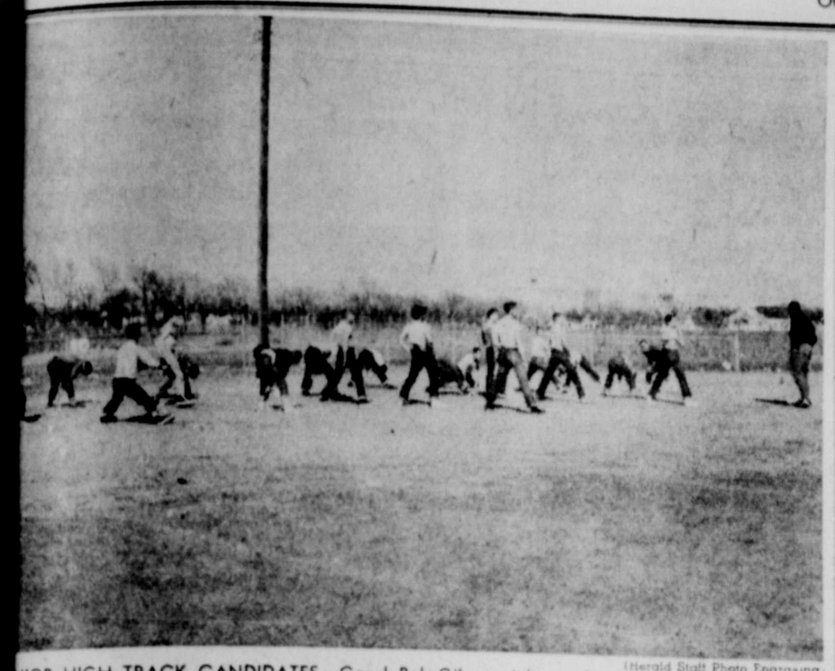

For all weeding and summerfallow work after the ground has first been loosened by the regular blade. Fits on the same frog as the regular blade.

'Never Wave at a WAC' Is Comedy of Femme Army Life

Rosalind Russell, Paul Douglas and Marie Wilson have top roles in "Never Wave at a WAC," said to be one of the season's funniest comedies. The picture comes to the Ellis Theatre on Tuesday-Thursday, March 10-12.

The story concerns a famous Washington hostess who joins the Women's Army Corps, thinking it will be but a stop-off en route to Paris to join her Army Colonel boyfriend. She finds that she must go through the usual eight weeks of basic training, during which time she is not an indulged VIP, but just another rookie. Her ex-husband, a textile manufacturer testing fabrics for water repellant qualities and tensile strength, adds to her fury when he includes her in a group of Waes who get snowed on, frozen, drenched with pelting rains, blown to bits with wind machines and made generally miserable by a combination of physical discomfort and emotional frustration.

In sharp contrast to the lovely socialite is a curvaceous cutie, portrayed by Marie Wilson, who has joined the Wacs in the innocent belief that she can escape wolf trouble, in an all-femme Army. What she doesn't know is that the soldiers' camp nearby has an entire enlistment of males . . . all highly susceptible to her calendar type of beauty.

Filmed largely at the Wac Training Center at Fort Lee, Va. with co-stars Miss Russell, who plays the recalcitrant Wac, Marie Wilson, who plays a former showgirl member of the same Wac company and Paul Douglas, who appears as the wealthy textile manufacturer and ex-husband of the Washington hostess, members of the company all spent several weeks at the historic Army post during the production.

Savage Drama In Full Color Comes Here Next Week

A savage drama of inter-tribal warfare among the Indian tribes before the white man came to America, a picture filmed in full natural color, will come Sunday and Monday to the Ellis Theatre.

The film is "Hiawatha," taken from the name of the handsome young Indian brave, an Ojibway, whose love for a girl of the Dacotah tribe, Minnehaha, sparks off a drama that affects hundreds of lives.

Vincent Edwards was chosen to play the title role and the girl is played by lovely, dark-eyed Yvette Dugay, who will be remembered for her role in "The Great Caruso,' and other big films.

The picture was made entirely on location in one of the great scenic areas of the California High Sierras, in a country exactly like the wooded lake region of which Longfellow wrote.

Ryan Portrays Deep Sea Diver

The adventurous life of deep sea divers is excitingly brought to the screen in "City Beneath the Sea," starring Robert Ryan, Mala Powers and Anthony Quinn which comes to the Ellis Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Backgrounded in the historic city of Port Roral, Jamaica which sank into the Caribbean in 1692 at the height of an earthquake, "City Beneath the Sea," tells the story of two deep-sea salvage experts who are trapped in the underseas city during a 20th century quake.

This is the first time that Hollywood has ever created an underseas earthquake for a movie.

Mrs. Brownell Displayed Early Stubborn Traits

GALVESTON (AP) — Galveston remembers Mrs. Herbert Brownell as a rugged individualist who was suspended from Texas State College for Women at Denton for smoking a cigarette.

They also remember that she won re-admission to TSCW, became president of her senior class—and walked out on the graduation exercises.

All this happened, of course, before the former Texas girl met and married the young lawyer who is serving as U. S. Attorney General under the Eisenhower administration.

Mrs. Julius Herman, one of her school chums here, describes Doris Brownell as "a rugged individualist, who would never sacrifice principle for popular opinion, or would be swayed by pressure."

She had freckles, bangs, big expressive eyes and a slightly up-tipped nose when she attended Ball High School in Galveston. Her individualistic ways did not always please her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McCarter, then Galveston residents.

It was while home for the holidays from TSCW that Doris decided she would have a try at the new fad—smoking a cigarette. It was a daring and bold step. And someone saw her. She was suspended from TSCW.

Friends persuaded school authorities to let her come back.

During her senior year in 1926, a new school president was named, and there was much turmoil in the school. As senior class president, Doris approached the new school head and suggested he refrain from mentioning the school's troubles in his commencement address. He promised.

But he did not keep his word and instead spoke at length of the school's troubles. Doris rose from her seat—the candidates for degrees sat in the front rows—and walked out. Her classmates followed.

The degrees were distributed later.

School Census Now In Progress

Parents of school age children are urged by superintendent Gilbert Mize to be sure that their children are enumerated on the school census, now in progress.

This census will continue through March, and the state per capita apportionment for school aid is based upon this sensus.

Children who become 6 years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1953 and those who do not pass their 18th birthday on or before Sept. 1, 1953 are included in the census.

Grid Coach on Merry-Go-Round

(AP) Newsfeatures

FORT WORTH, Texas—Being a champion can run into work. It isn't the unpleasant kind, to be sure, but it consumes a lot of time just the same.

L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, football coach of Texas Christian University, has gone through his busiest winter.

Meyer's team won the Southwest Conference championship, using a dazzling spread formation that had all the fans and coaches talking.

As a result Meyer has attended approximately 40 banquets and luncheons, had a team in the Cotton Bowl, received coach of the year trophies in two instances, signed to help make a movie of his life and started work on a 500,000-word book on his spread formation.

Then there was spring football training which ran three weeks, but Meyer was rather glad of that. He figured he could get some rest because he couldn't be making appearances all over the country while working his 1952 grid squad.

He said he hadn't been home long enough to change shirts until spring training started.

Turn On Light Before Taking Medicine Dose

AUSTIN, TEXAS—The careless or uninformed use of medicines cause much serious illness and even many deaths in Texas every year, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said today in a statement urging the public to use caution in self medication.

"It is never safe to take medicine in the dark," Dr. Cox warned. "Always read the label carefully to make sure the aspirin you expect to take is not a bichloride of mercury tablet or some other poison. As a matter of fact, poisons and medicines containing poisons should be kept together, well out of reach of children and marked in some distinctive manner. Another thing to remember is that medicines should always be taken exactly as directed by a doctor because many beneficial medicines can do untold harm if taken too frequently or in too large quantities. It is well to stop and think that you may be taking your own life in your hands when you take medicine casually."

The State Health Officer also warned of the danger in the inclination of many persons untrained to diagnose and treat their own ills. Such persons are apt to guess wrong he asserted, and while they may not take medicine that is actually harmful, they are nevertheless postponing an accurate diagnosis and the resulting proper treatment that could help their illness.

The safest rule is never to use medicine, internally or externally, that has not been prescribed by your doctor and for that particular illnss with which you are suffering.

Rangerettes Lose To Gruver Team

The Rangerettes lost a practice game Tuesday night to the district 1-B basketball champions of Gruver, going down by a 43-33 score.

The Perryton girls were tense and apparently missed the services of star forward Betty Dear, who has been lost for the remainder of the season.

It was a dull game for a while, with only three points scored in the first five minutes, when Gruver led, 2-1. The scoring picked up by halftime, when Gruver was ahead, 23-13.

The third quarter ended with the score 33-20 for Gruver, and late in the final period, Gruver reserves were sent into the game.

HAWAIIAN STATEHOOD: Although there has been very little progress in the Congress as a whole toward completing final action on the legislative backlog, the committees have been in almost continuous session for the past several weeks. One of the subcommittees of which I am a member has been holding the hearings on the bill that would admit Hawaii as a sister state.

These committee meetings have all been open to the public and many people from various walks of life have shown a great deal of interest in this legislation. There was one group at the meeting the other day that were not primarily interested in the Hawaiian statehood, but were more interested in the mechanics of the United States Congress.

These men came from Germany. The delegation was from the legislative body of Western Germany. The delegation consisted of Mr. Hans Trossmann, Director of the Bundestag (Lower House), Mr. Albert A. Pfitzer, Director of the Bundesrat (Upper House), and Mr. Frederich K. O. Schramm, Assistant to the Speaker of the House.

They found the proceedings most interesting and informative. At the time of their visit there was extended debate in the subcommittee concerning proposed amendments to the bill concerning the constitution that has already been adopted by Hawaii.

One point that was discussed at length was the possibility of a tidelands controversy should Hawaii be admitted to statehood. Incidentally, I warned the representatives of Hawaii to nail down their boundaries so that there could be no question should they be admitted as a state.

I called to their attention that Texas thought she had her boundaries fixed until some Federal bureaucrats decided they wanted the tidelands. During this discussion the former Attorney General of Hawaii, a Mr. Tavares, pointed out that there is practically no possibility of oil and gas along the shores of the Hawaiian Islands because of the fact that the islands consist of volcanic ash and coral deposits. He pointed out that in the Islands television beams go through the mountains, which of course indicates the lack of mineral deposits therein.

It was also pointed out in the hearings that should the water area between the islands be used as constituting a part of the islands, Texas might lose her place as the biggest state in the Union. The former Attorney General assured us that Hawaii would yield that position to the State of Texas.

THE TIDELANDS: You of course realize that nothing yet has been done on the tidelands bills. This legislation is presently before the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives and the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee in the Senate.

Frankly, I think that these committee hearings are wasted time because this is an issue that has been more thoroughly scrutinized than perhaps any other issue in the past two decades. Lengthy committee hearings have been had in both Houses of Congress and the reports are available for new members.

The present administration is committed to tidelands legislation, and I personally feel that no delay should be occasioned in returning the products of that attempted legalized theft to their respective states who rightfully own them. The new Secretary of Intrior stated before my committee in the House that he was for returning these tidelands to the States.

He has recently been quoted in the newspapers to the effect that these tidelands should be returned to the States, but that all properties outside thereof should be decreed to be in the Federal Government, indiciating that the states bordering on the ocean should have no interest in the continental shelf.

I believe that Secretary McKay was in some degree misquoted in this statement as it is my understanding that he favored the bill that passed the House of Representatives last year. This bill not only quitclaims the tidelands strips to the states, but goes into great detail to fix interests of those states in the continental shelf.

This issue has caused quite a bit of comment here and has prompted some of the news columnists to say that Texas and some of the other states now want to extend their boundaries several miles farther to the seaward. This certainly is not the case. Texas has always asked for what was rightfully hers and is not trying to encroach upon anybody. She is trying to keep from being encroached upon.

Incidentally, one of the leading newspapers in the East, the Washington Post, has carried several editorials underwriting Federal ownership. Further delay in considering the matter could serve no good purpose and the bills should be brought to the Floor for an immediate vote.

THE VOICE OF AMERICA: There are many people here in official Washington who have never been satisfied with the progress made by this arm of the State Department. In fact, many have constantly condemned it. The hearings in this Congress seem to be confirming a suspicion that I have long harbored, namely, that the voice is not that of America, but of some individual who makes a personal decision as to what Americanism is, or is not.

This is certainly brought out in the discovery that certain passages from Edna Ferber's book, "The Giant," were used in this broadcast. The excerpts reported to have been used on the Voice were to the effect that male Texans drink Bourbon by the gallon and that the women are all nitwits.

Any book containing such a statement is a disgrace to America, and the broadcasting of such a statement on the Voice of America is ample ground for abolishing the Voice altogether. My observation is that many people in this world could do themselves and their country a great service if they would follow the examples that have been set by Texans, especially those of our fine women.

VISITORS: When I stepped out of the committee room the other day, I thought that Amarillo had moved to Washington. Mayor Gene Klein, Frank Storm, Weldon Howell, William Q. Boyce, and Lee Bivins were all standing there to greet me. You have no idea how exhilarating it is to see good folks from the Panhandle here in Washington. Rumor has it that a delegation from Randall and Potter County, including Mrs. Clyde Warwick, Mrs. James A. Brannen, Mrs. Tom Knighton, Mrs. James R. Barnhill, Miss Wilida Neeley, and Mrs. William O'Brien, will be up for the meeting of the Daughters of The American Revolution. We are certainly looking forward to seeing these fine ladies, and know that they will have a good time. I also hear that the seniors at Follett High School are tampering with the idea of a Washington trip upon graduation. I know of nothing that would be of greater service to the high school graduating classes of the country, and I certainly hope that the dream of these fine Follett youngsters materializes. I just had a nice visit with James Kirby of Pampa, who is attending a Methodist young people's conference here in Washington.

Safety In Kite Flying Urged

The Community Public Service Company is distributing letters to local schools this week warning children of the danger of flying kites near electric lines.

As part of an annual effort on the part of the local power company to eliminate accidents involving kites and wires, the letters warn children not to fly kites near electric lines, not to use wire for gite strings, not to use wire or metal in kite tails, not to fly kites with wire string and not to attempt to dislodge kites caught in wires.

An advertisement in this week's issue of the Herald also lists the rules for safe kite flying and solicits the cooperation of parents in seeing that the rules are observed.

After supper, games, led by Mrs. O. J. Welch, Mrs. J. D. Humphrey and Mrs. Ernest Delk, were played by the group.

The devotional was led by Rev. O. J. Welch, who also presented the honored guests with beautiful leather bound testaments.

At the close of the program the group sang "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Miss "Brownie" Montcastle of Booker was a guest.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Glen McGibbon, Mrs. Dean Conner, Mrs. Dewey Allen, Mrs. C. L. Schell, Mrs. F. B. Sumpter, Mrs. Robert Thurman and Mrs. B. H. Peckenpaugh.

The honoree and members of the house party wore corsages.

Alternate hostesses received the guests. Miss Beulah Owens registered the guests.

The tea table was laid with a linen cut-work cloth and appointed with silver. An arrangement of pink gladioli and silvered fern in a silver bowl and pink candles in silver candelabra formed the centerpiece. Mrs. Rex Clark and Mrs. Lonnie Suitor presided alternately at a silver coffee service.

Approximately seventy-five guests called or sent gifts during the afternoon.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY

(AP) Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Price Daniel of Texas did a top-notch job selling the Senate Interior Committee on the special claims of his state in regard to the submerged lands issue.

That, in itself, was not surprising. He knew the subject, since it was his stepping stone to Congress. And most of the committee members long since have been persuaded to Texas' side because the case has been aired out time and again over the years.

So, the most noteworthy thing about Daniel's appearance before the committee was the unintentional job he did of selling himself.

A freshman member of the Senate and a newcomer to the Interior Committee itself, Daniel as an individual was as much a matter of interest as his subject when he sat down in the witness chair to speak in support of states ownership tidelands legislation.

He was on a spot, called on to disclose his capabilities. Arrayed up and down the long committee table in front of him were colleagues with many years experience. And, in this instance, they weren't all sympathetic.

Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM) teams up with Texans on most issues, but on this he is an advocate of federal ownership, and he's a sharp man at interrogation. He continually dug into documents to shoot a tough question at Daniel. He invariably got a swift repiy, almost always a documented explanation of a situation.

Naturally, Anderson referred to the Supreme Court 4 to 3 decision holding that the federal government has "paramount rights" over the submerged lands off the Texas coast.

Daniel was ready for that one. He cited the Texas annexation agreement, promulgated because the U. S. Senate back in 1845 didn't want to confirm a treaty providing for U. S. acquisition of Texas public lands at the expense of assuming the Texas Republic's 13 million dollar debt. Then, he cited numerous subsequent official U. S. actions, such as the 1848 U. S.-Mexican treaty acquiring California territory, in which Texas 3-league seaward boundaries specifically were recognized.

Daniel told them that because of technicalities in procedure he was never given an opportunity to present to the Supreme Court the evidence he had just recited. As Texas attorney general Daniel had fought the U. S. suit.

Texas' present Attorney General John Ben Shepperd and Land Commissioner Bascom Giles followed Daniel on the witness chair in support of states ownership legislation.

They urged that congress dispose of the continental shelf jurisdiction issue along with that involving the submerged lands within the states seaward boundaries.

Both supported provisions of a measure introduced by Daniel to give the states 37½ per cent of oil and gas revenues from developments in the continental shelf.

Around the Capital:

Governor Allan Shivers, up here to plug for states ownership submerged lands legislation, acknowledged that the issue was the deciding factor in the November presidential election.

Flying back to Texas, he left this account of what happened at his meeting last Aug. 23 in Springfield with Illinois Governor Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Shivers had visited Stevenson to sound the latter out on the tidelands question. After their conference Steyenson prepared a statement. It was too wishy-washy to suit Shivers. Stevenson took back the statement and with pencil wrote in this fateful sentence: "I agree therefore with the President's veto."

That clear statement of Stevenson's views made up Shivers' mind. He pocketed the statement which he still possesses, and we went back to lead Texas to an Eisenhower victory.

Here representing Texas at a Defense Bond Conference at the Treasury was Mrs. Jack Hopkins of Galveston. She was shown about the Capitol by Congressman Clark Thompson of Galveston and Mrs. Thompson.

Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City and Lubbock prefers his historic old high-back squeaky chair in the House Appropriations committee room to the new expensive leather covered chairs most members have. The old chair was used in Constitution Hall in 1921 at the ill-fated International Conference on the Limit-

So the People May Know

At the insistence of Texas Press Association, the 51st Legislature in 1949 passed the "Mandatory Publication Act."*

The act was passed because some city, county, and other local government officials had failed to comply with state regulations requiring them to publish in the newspapers facts concerning the financing and operation of their offices.

The mandatory publications act provides that "all public officers of the state, counties, cities and school districts who are required by law to publish legal notices or financial statements and who shall fail, refuse, or neglect to make such publications shall be guilty of malfeasance of office and subject to forfeiture of salary for the month in which such failure occurs. Such officers shall be subject to removal from office upon wilful continuance of such neglect of duty."

The act also provides that "suits to enjoin or recover payment of salary and for removal from office under law shall be instituted in the proper district court by the county or district attorney of the county in which the offending officer resides."

Further provisions of the publications act will be told in this series of articles.

Dusters Could Be Worse

Perhaps the less said about the dust storms a couple of weeks ago the better, but dust rolling into this area can hardly be ignored. The dust is disagreeable, depressing and no one wants the stuff.

However, blowing dirt is one of the trademarks of the Plains country, and hardly a year has gone by that the dust hasn't blown some time, especially during the late winter and early spring.

Better farming methods have done much to reduce the hazard of blowing dirt from wheat fields and it appears that the blowing will be controlled with a minimum damage, providing a little cooperation from the weatherman is received in the way of moisture.

While we like dust as little as anyone else, it is time to realize that no ideal location has ever been found, from a climate standpoint, despite Chamber of Commerce boasts to the contrary.

Some of our servicemen spent some time during the war in areas where it rains 30 to 40 days and nights during monsoon periods. In our northern states sub-zero weather remains for months on end. While floods rampaged down the Mississippi river last year, the Panhandle was high and dry, and even sent Red Cross contributions to help those unfortunates.

Cyclones, typhoons, volcanos, floods and freezes—all over the world, every day, we read of disasters, most of them worse than our dust storms.

The dust is disagreeable and depressing, but there are quite a few weather hazards that can be worse.

Food Is Cheaper

For several years, one of the chief complaints among consumers has been the "high cost of food." True, food is higher than it ever has been.

But it is still cheap.

A short time ago Dr. Earl L. Butz, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics of Purdue University addressed a meeting of the Farm Equipment Institute. He emphasized certain facts that should be far better known than is actually the case.

First of all, he said, "Food is not expensive. There is no country on the face of the earth today where the working man spends so small a portion of his working day earning the food he eats than in America—Food is cheap, and it is getting cheaper."

The reason is more production through machinery. America today has increased the total agricultural output in the last three decades 55 to 60 percent, on the same acreage.

In agriculture, as in industry, more and more mechanization has been the key to progress.

Expensive Lesson

Benjamin Franklin, who seems to have been wise beyond his day and generation, once declared the way to lose a friend was to do him two favors.

This seems to be the present situation concerning our European allies, so-called. For several years they have shared in our bounty to the extent of billions of dollars, the purpose being to restore their economy and put them back on their feet as going governments.

Now that the present administration has announced that the program is going to be tapered off and that Europe was expected to foot their own bills, a distinct coolness has been noticed.

Our Korean conflict has been criticized, the European defense program has practically stopped without U. S. dollars, countries are manifesting in scores of little ways that when the money ceases friendship ceases with America.

This has been an expensive lesson in foreign relations.

From the SIDELINE

with HAROLD HUDSON

We have had a few complaints from some farmer friends about the pictures in last week's Herald, showing blow dirt piled on fences and chisels working in fields to control blowing. "Not very good advertising," was the common complaint. While agreeing that this isn't "good advertising" for the "Wheatheart of the Nation," it is still a fact that we have had dirt in the air and that some of it has lodged on fence rows.

As far as "good advertising" goes, we doubt if you could classify a tornado, a fire, explosion or even a car wreck as "good advertising." But then, these events are news events and since this is a newspaper, we will continue to give them coverage.

Actually, the only reason we went out into the country to take these pictures was to show how neighborly cooperation in chiseling fields was meeting the blowing problem over a large area of Ochiltree county wheat fields. We must not have done a very good job in pointing this out, since no one has said anything about that, merely complained that dust pictures are not "good advertising."

Down at the Herald recently we lost an office machine customer to an out-of-town firm, which irked us, but what made matters worse was that about the time we lost the sale, our prospective customer assessed us for taxes. The firm that made the sale, of course, pays no taxes of any sort in Ochiltree county. It also has no payroll here and is unavailable when the time comes for donations to school activities or community projects.

We have no objection to losing a sale to an out-of-town peddler to a business firm, since it is that firm's money and if we can't make the sale, it's our fault. But we have had a long-standing dislike for tax-supported agencies buying their supplies out of town. Tax supported agencies don't owe any local business firms anything, perhaps, but local business firms should receive equal consideration with the out-of-towners when it comes to making purchases.

Of course, there are many items purchased by tax collection agencies that can't be bought locally. Then there are plenty of items that can be, but are not because it is apparently more convenient to order from a salesman than to pick up the phone and order from a local business house.

It has been pointed out to us that the reason more purchases aren't made locally is that local firms don't take the trouble to send salesmen around to solicit business. Of course they don't—it takes all hands and the cook working hard enough to pay the taxes that make the out-of-town purchases possible.

You may or may not know that we have a sort of walking blood bank in Perryton, where men are called every once in a while to one of the hospitals to give a pint of blood for some patient. This is done gladly enough, for free, and is a good program. But very little thanks is ever given the donors. We had one of these donors tell us that he received a "thank you" note from a person he had recently given a pint of blood—and this was the first "thank you" of any sort since he had started giving blood several years ago.

There has been a little speculation about what the Panhandle will do for fuel when the natural gas supply runs out, as some experts say it will do if the increasing amount of natural gas is piped to northern states. When we run out of gas, and go to coal, there will be quite an increase in the fuel bill, according to a story we clipped from an Illinois weekly newspaper this week.

This town has just recently hooked on to a gas line from Texas, and are quite pleased with the efficiency and cheapness of natural gas. One fellow, running a store, said he spent about $500 a year for coal and that his gas bill is running about $1.20 a day, making the total cost a lot less. A woman said her seven-room house cost $1 a day to heat with coal and she was heating and cooking with gas for 42 cents a day during the cold winter days.

All users pointed out that they liked the idea of heating without cleaning out ashes and throwing coal into the furnace. Most of us in Perryton are unfamiliar with coal-burning days although there are still a few around whose memories go back even beyond coal to the old cow-chip days.

One thing impresses us—these folks in Illinois are getting gas piped up there from Texas at very little more than it costs here in the Panhandle where the gas is produced.

And they say they have an assured supply of natural gas—they're piping it back into the ground for storage up there—maybe they'll send it back when we run out.

Wolf Creek Philosopher

Will Keep Farm Even at Loss

(Ed. Note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher is off on topics he doesn't know much about again this week, which is customary with him.)

Dear editar:

Last week in my letter to you I was talkin about the school teachers' problem, how there was a shortage of teachers in Texas due to the fact the profession apparently has been underpaid and is failin to attract enough young people, all the smart ones want to go into something that pays better, and how a lot of people believe the solution is to give the teachers an increase in pay.

This may be right, but I'm afraid the request comes anywhere from 15 to 30 years too late to help the present adult population.

You can look around you now and see that what this country needed 30 years ago, add or subtract a few years, was an increase in teachers' pay in order to attract a lot better class of teachers, that is, just judgin by the amount of education you and me and a lot of others I could name absorbed.

The argument for more teachers and better teachers and more money to attract em is pretty plain, when you examine the state of a lot of grown people's education. I ain't sayin if they'd paid my teachers more money they'd had any better luck with me, but I reckon I'm gettin close to sayin it.

But I didn't start out to discuss the teachers' problems, what I started out to say is everybody has problems. For example, before he had any notion of runnin for President, Eisenhower bought a farm up in Pennsylvania and the newspapers were full of his plans about it. He and a partner were goin to operate it and split the profits 50-50.

Well, the other day I noticed in a newspaper that up to now there haven't been any profits to split and that President Eisenhower has decided he hasn't got time to be president and look after a farm, too.

I know what he means. Runnin a farm is a full-time job and the day was never made with enough hours in it to run a farm and the Presidency too.

But I notice Eisenhower is holdin on to the place, and glad of it. Just because he don't show any profit is no on for sellin it. If it was, the estate people in this would get rich on com

State Heart Drive Extended

S. E. McCreless, state-wide campaign chairman for the 1953 Heart Fund during the month of February, has announced that the drive will be extended into March because many of the local heart associations got off to a late start in February. Texas' share of the $10 million national goal is $408,000.

"Although reports from over the state are encouraging, we have not raised enough money in Texas to help carry on the important research and educational work needed in battling heart disease," Mr. McCreless said, "and that is the reason why we have asked our volunteer workers to extend their efforts into March.

Mrs. Jack Tregellas and sons, Tim and Billy Mack, of Chickasha, Okla. visited in the W. M. McCartor and Earnest Tregellas homes and with other friends and relatives last week. Mr. Tregellas arrived Thursday and visited the remainder of the week and the family returned to their home Sunday.

Darrouzett School Speech Department Featured In Interscholastic Leaguer

The speech department of Darrouzett high school was featured in an article in the current issue of the Interscholastic Leaguer, official newspaper of the Texas Interscholastic League.

Mrs. Gladys L. Phillips, speech instructor at Darrouzett for the past 13 years, was paid high tribute for her outstanding work in that department.

Students at Darrouzett high school are encouraged to take one year of speech, preferably in either their freshman or sophomore year. It is felt that speech is a great help to them even though they do not try for a place on the speech team.

Mrs. Phillips began laying the groundwork for her future success several years ago. She opened an expression class for students from eight to twelve years of age. This class was, and is, offered two afternoons each week after school hours. The primary purpose of this class is to teach expression.

The majority of the students who later became debate, declamation, extemporaneous speech and one-act play champions started as members of the expression class when they were youngsters.

In addition to speech, Mrs. Mrs. Phillips is the school librarian, sponsors the senior class and directs the pep squad.

Here are some of the honors her students have won since 1947:

1947: Three firsts in declamation in district; one first in declamation in regional.

1948: Two firsts in declamation in district; two firsts in declamation in regional.

1949: Four firsts in declamation in district; one second in one-act play including all-star actor; two firsts in declamation in regional; one fourth in declamation in state meet.

1950: Two firsts in declamation in district; one first in debate in district; one second in district one-act play; one first in regional declamation; semi-finals in in state meet debate.

1951: Two firsts in district declamation; one first in district debate; one first in district one-act play, also all-star actor; one third in one-act play in area; one first in regional declamation; one first in regional debate; one second in state meet declamation; one first in state meet debate.

1952: Three firsts in district declamation; one first in district debate; one first in regional declamation; one first in regional extemporaneous speech; one first in regional debate; semi-finals in state meet debate; all-around speech championship at Class B in regional; Sweepstakes award at PAMC, Goodwell, speech meet and dramatic festival.

Rheumatic Fever Great Killer Among Youth

AUSTIN, Texas—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, commenting on the seriousness of rheumatic fever, today declared that this disease is recognized as one of the greatest killers of young people. Between the ages of 10 and 15, rheumatic fever causes more deaths than any other disease, the State Health Officer said, and in persons between the ages of 15 and 24, it is outranked only by tuberculosis.

Dr. Cox stressed the fact that deaths in childhood from rheumatic fever have not decreased in a satisfactory manner during the past decade, and warned the parents of children to pay particular attention to the care and treatment of such predisposing diseases as tonsilitis and other upper respiratory infections.

"The diagnosis in this disease is not always easy," Dr. Cox stated. "Any child with suspicious symptoms should be under the prolonged supervision of a physician since along with a general involvement of the body, the heart is practically always involved. The symptoms consist only of pallor, loss of weight, easy fatigue, unusual sweating, loss of appetite, and sometime fleeting muscular pain, and a little joint stiffness and a rapid beating of the heart. The more severe cases may show repeated nose bleeds, extreme nervousness, stiffness and pain in the joints, swelling of the joints, fever and pain over the heart."

According to Dr. Cox the majority of children who experience rheumatic fever suffer more than one attack and each may last months or even at times one to three years. The final result depends on the amount of heart damage incurred. Closely supervised bed rest throughout the entire period of infection is essential in order to minimize this danger.

Pistol Packin' Co-Eds Ready to Challenge Men

(AP Newsfeatures)

CORVALLIS, Ore.—Eleven co-eds at Oregon State College decided that Coach Wade Anderson had time to keep an eye on a women's pistol team. So they started one but now they're afraid there is no competition among U. S. colleges.

Anderson, a Texan who "grew up learning how to shoot a gun the right way," won't let that stop him. He's about ready to issue some challenges to men's college teams.

He sought to keep things in proper channels and wrote to the National Rifle Association. He tried to locate some collegiate women's pistol teams. The answer: There aren't any. It's a man's sport.

Girls, though. Anderson reports with some amazement, seem to advance "lots more quickly" than some of the men.

As a matter of fact, Marge Logan, a freshman from Arcata, Calif., is good enough right now to be on the men's team, he says. And the men's team here is the national collegiate champ.

Not all the girls can put holes in the targets with the skill of an Annie Oakley. The men generally score 95 or 96 out of a possible 100 while only a couple of girls can be counted on to break 90 now. A little more practice, though, Anderson says and the margin will be narrowed. A little more practice, too, and the challenge to men's teams will be readied.

Some of the girls find that firing at a target isn't much different from what they did at home; tamer, maybe, but calling for the same good eye and firm hand.

There's Cecile Schulmerich, for instance. A freshman from Beaver, Ore., she has grown up hunting and fishing with her dad, Wes Schulmerich, one-time National League outfielder who batted .334 in 97 games with the 1933 Phillies. Schulmerich now is a fishing guide on Oregon's Nestucca river.

The Beaver's female pistol team includes Beatrice Horner, a freshman from Honolulu, and Janette Anderson, a freshman from Seattle. The rest, from Oregon and California, are: Helen Rickey, junior from Estacada, Oregon; Linda Charias, junior from Portland; Beverly Berg, sophomore from Hermiston, Ore.; Diane Binkley, sophomore from Klamath Falls, Ore.; Carolyn Bass, freshman from Piedmont, Calif.; Carolyn Harris, freshman from Encinitas, Calif.; Nancy Gilmore, freshman from Oakland, Calif., and the misses Logan and Schulmerich.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nies, Sharon Kay and Fritz and E. C. Hooper were guests of Mr. Nies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Nies of Liberal, Kansas, Sunday.

AUSTIN, Texas — Abolishing gasoline tax refunds would provide for a perpetual farm-to-market highway fund and give $4 million a year more for schools.

Chairman E. H. Thornton Jr. of the Texas Highway Commission made that assertion as he prepared an analysis of the state's road situation for presentation to the Legislature.

Gasoline tax refunds go to those using the fuel for non-highway purposes. Last year refunds amounted to $15,367,000 of $120,244,000 collected. Most of the refunds go to farmers who use gasoline for farm vehicles and machines.

Thornton is asking for an additional $100 million per year to bring Texas highways up to the highest standard and maintain them for the next 10 years.

The highway commission has a new member, former Senator Marshall Formby of Hereford, who succeeds Fred Wimple of Midland. The third member is R. J. Potts of Harlingen.

The highway problem is a foremost one in the Legislature, and many proposals have been made to solve it. Governor Allan Shivers has asked the Legislature to add at least one cent a gallon to the gasoline tax to furnish additional money.

One cent per gallon would bring the state $25 million per year.

Another plan was put forward by Representative Charles Murphy of Houston, sponsor of a constitutional amendment requiring all highway user taxes to go for road building, maintenance, and policing.

Should the amendment be passed by the Legislature and ratified by the voters, the schools would lose their share of the gasoline tax revenue. They now get one-fourth of it.

Both houses of the Legislature struggled with the highly controversial auto inspection law—the one that requires you to have that little yellow sticker on the windshield of your car.

Senator Carlos Ashley of Llano typified opponents of the law who want it repealed. Ashley thinks the law is discriminatory in that it works a hardship on lower income brackets people who cannot afford extensive repairs on their cars.

Accidents, Ashley contends, are caused, not by defective automobiles primarily, but by drunk drivers and speeders.

The senator argued that poor people in his native hill country make a living hauling cedar posts in slow-moving trucks that wouldn't pass inspection in a junk yard.

"Why should they have to pass a windshield wiper inspection when they don't have windshields?" Ashley wanted to know.

Senator John Bell of Cuero, on the other hand, worked to retain the bill and modify it so that the safety sticker would not be a requisite to purchase of an automobile license.

Bell also would specify what particular parts of the car would have to be examined to get the inspection tag. Bell and others believe that the law, if retained, will cut down on highway deaths.

The chances that horse racing will return to Texas seem slight.

Representative Ed Sheridan of San Antonio introduced a bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting, but when the time came for a committee hearing on the measure, Sheridan said he was willing to postpone the whole thing.

Stout opposition to the bill had been gathering, and Sheridan said he wanted to "let it cool." Observers here doubted it would cool enough to let the bill pass.

Quick action was needed, Governor Shivers said, to provide for 900 tuberculosis patients who are now being treated at Weaver H. Baker Hospital at Mission.

The Air Force will take over the hospital on July 1.

Bills to provide for the patients passed the Senate, but moved slowly in the House.

What regulation should there be about home rule cities annexing adjacent areas?

In the legislative process is a bill by Senator Johnnie B. Rogers of Austin to restrict annexation. Such a law is needed, says its supporters, to prevent cities from taking in farms, pastures, and dairy lands.

Opponents of the bill from Houston and other cities say it would practically stop annexation and force cities to retain their present boundaries.

The Senate made up its mind about the five-day banking bill—and killed it. The bill, which had the support of some big city banks, would have permitted the financial institutions to operate on a five-day week basis.

Opponents were banks in smaller cities, where the rural people come to do their banking and shopping mostly on Saturdays.

Senators considered the question of whether we should have a preferential presidential primary in Texas—whether we should select delegates to national nominating conventions by vote of the people rather than at state party conventions.

We should, said Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, because "I have never seen anything go wrong with a secret election and a free ballot."

We should not, argued former Senator Joe Hill, because if delegates are elected only the very rich or the stooges of some pressure group could ever go to a convention.

Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe proposed a constitutional amendment to get money to build needed state office buildings from a two-cent property tax now going into a Confederate pension fund.

The fund now has a surplus of $5 million over what is needed to pay the pensions of two veterans and 500 widows of Confederates.

In the Senate is a bill, already passed by the House, that is intended to give stronger control over Communists. The bill would make it easier for officers to enter and search the homes of persons suspected of being subversive.

Opponents of the bill contend that it was a threat to civil rights.

The Senate and House met jointly to hear Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, ace of World War I, condemn the Roosevelt-Truman administration for a "weak and vacillating foreign and domestic policy."

This is how Rickenbacker would stop the Korean war: blockade the Chinese coast, cut the railroad between Manchuria and Indo-China, and use atom bombs behind the Korean front lines.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, says that in 1951 there were 1,062 automobile accidents in Texas caused by livestock roaming the highways. As a consequence, 12 persons were killed and 129 injured.

Morris Frank, Houston Chronicle sports columnist, who visited the capitol recently, advised the Legislators that he was the "only guy who ever went to Washington and returned empty handed."

And his wife lost her purse while he was addressing the Senate.

CLOAKROOM COMMENT: "Lobbyists are people who individually can do nothing, but collectively can agree that nothing can be done."

It costs a lot to be an American. But not too much.

The American principle of personal and economic liberty provides more opportunity and more good for more people than any other system devised by man. Privately owned and operated industry is the American principle at work.

In America, private industry pays its own way. Pays the lion's share of taxes necessary to support our government. Were it not for private, tax-paying industry your individual tax would be much greater—for the burden of government would rest entirely on your shoulders.

Paste this in your hat. And when you file your tax return, take off your hat to the American way of life.

Visit Berry Farm

Wayne and J. L. Bryan of Perryton recently visited Knott's Berry Farm and Ghost Town in Buena Park, Calif., according to a news release from that city.

They were among the thousands of visitors who have seen this favorite tourist spot of southern California.

Mrs. E. M. Allen of Boston, Texas arrived Friday for a two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. Anna F. Wilson, and other relatives.

LEGAL JAYWALKING WITH 3-WAY LIGHT CONTOL—El Paso police approve of this catty-corner and two-way crossing of pedestrians at the city's main intersections—only the driver of the car shown received a warning. Installation of a new 3-way light system allows pedestrians to walk only when vehicles wait, and vice versa. Of course, teaching old Texans new tricks wasn't easy, as this photo taken at Mesa and Texas avenues shows. (AP Photo)

GOD'S LIVING LETTERS

By Kirby Page
Sponsored by PERRYTON MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE

Can you name a man who rose higher from lower down than Booker T. Washington? His achievement was to climb from the cradle of a slave to the acclamation of a nation.

He was born about seven years before the Cival War ended. His father was a white man and his mother a mulatto slave woman. After emancipation he worked in salt furnace and coal mines. Early he developed a thirst for education, and finally was able to enter Hampton Institute, working as a janitor for his expenses. After teaching in West Virginia for three years, he was called back to Hampton as an instructor.

Two years later he became Principal of a normal school-to-be at Tuskegee, Alabama. No buildings had been erected, and no funds were in sight when Mr. Washington arrived on the spot. They began from a run-down shanty, with thirty pupils, some of them nearly forty years old. An abandoned farm of a thousand acres was bought for $500, half of the money being obtained through a loan. The economic conditions of the people, white and black, were pitiable, only sixteen years after the ending of the Civil War. Booker T. Washington saw that the only hope was in work, hard work, long continued on the part of liberated slaves who had been taught by their experiences to despise manual labor. He set the example as principal of the school by shouldering his axe and heading the procession of students who cleared the farm.

The years of struggle to keep the school alive, to keep out of the hands of the sheriff for debt, constitute a record of devotion and fortitude unbounded. Mr. Washington developed great gifts as an orator, an executive, and a money raiser. Today Tuskegee Institute is one of the foremost educational institutions of the United States, the lengthened shadow of a slave child grown to the heroic proportions of a great American.

In the first chapter of Genesis, man is referred to as the "image and likeness" of God—terminology which implies that man, like his Maker, is good. This is the view of Christian Science, as brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" which will be read in this Sunday's church services.

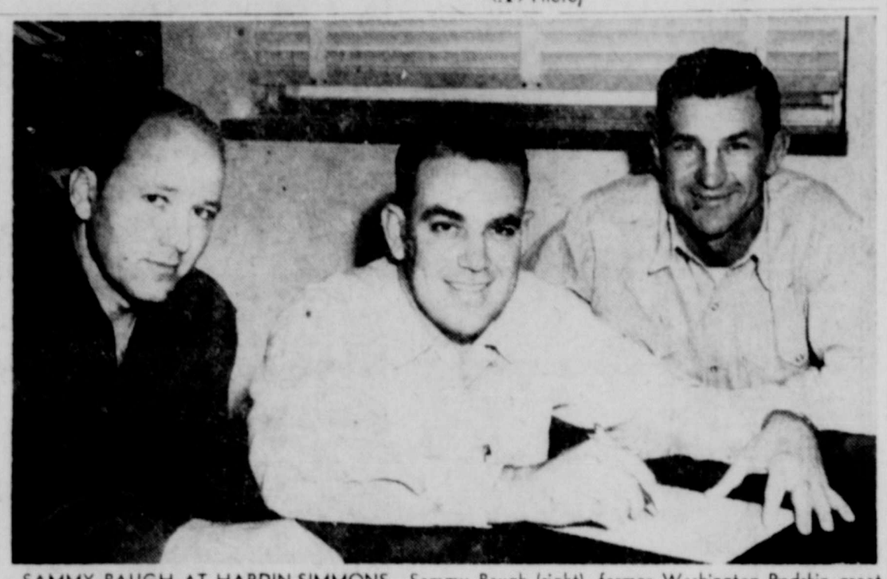

Several selections from the Bible emphasize that love of God and trust in Him bring out in human experience a greater measure of health, happiness, and success. This is the Golden Text from Psalms (84:4,12): "Blesesd are they that dwell in thy house: they will be still praising thee . . . O Lord of Hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee." Paul said, "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God."

The following will be read from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man reflects infinite Truth, Life, and Love. The nature of man, thus understood includes all that is implied by the terms 'image' and 'likeness' as used in Scriptures" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 94).
