Plainview Man Is Elevated To Position

D. A. Bandeen Is Re-Elected Secretary-Manager; Tom Connally Makes Speech

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, April 27—H. S. Hilburn, newspaper editor of Plainview, today was elected president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

During the last year Hilburn had been first vice-president and chairman of the important committee which outlines the work program of the chamber.

Succeeds Eastland Attorney

He succeeded Milburn McCarty, attorney of Eastland.

E. K. Fawcett of Del Rio was advanced from the second vice-presidency to be first vice president, and J. S. Bridwell of Wichita Falls was elected second vice president.

Malcolm Meek of Abilene was elected treasurer to succeed C. M. Francis of Stamford, and D. A. Bandeen of Abilene was re-elected secretary-manager.

Connally Makes Address

United States Senator Tom Connally addressing the convention said America must be prepared to defend herself against international outlaws and land-grabbing dictators. He asserted this country must have a navy capable of destroying an enemy before it reached our shoes and such a naval force was being planned.

The people have a solemn obligation to conserve human values and the institutions of democracy, he said, just as they have to conserve material resources.

Always Temptation

"In times of stress and emergency, there always is the temptation to take governmental short cuts to achieve desirable and urgent objectives," Connally said. "However, in the long run and over the span of years, experience and the history of the American republic have taught us that adherence to the processes of democracy is the safest course for the people of the United States.

"Today in several regions of the earth democracy is being defied and autocracy and imperialistic conquest are boldly and brazenly resurrecting the odious and tyrannical doctrines of absolutism.

Cites Other Systems

"In other regions, Communism, under the pretense of the peoples' rule has established a system that scorns private and personal rights and seeks to fuse into a conglomerate and chaotic mass the property,

Japanese Offer To Buy Oil Reported

MEXICO CITY, April 27 (AP)—Government sources said today Japan had offered to pay cash on the barrel head for $3,000,000 worth of gasoline.

It was said, however, that Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, general manager of the National Petroleum Export company, was hesitant to close the deal for fear of stirring up opposition from Mexican and United States labor.

The Confederation of Mexican Workers, with which the petroleum workers are affiliated, announced Saturday that two delegates returned from the United States with promise of support from CIO's John L. Lewis after they had pledged that oil would not be sold to "Fascist nations."

The government needs foreign markets for its surplus after nationalization of the foreign oil industry March 18.

LANDON'S FATHER DIES

KANSAS CITY, April 27 (AP)—John M. Landon, 81, father of Alf M. Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee, died here today of heart disease.

After Tornado Spread Death And Destruction In Lynn Area

The scenes below show the devastation which a tornadic wind spread through two Lynn county communities late Tuesday afternoon. Top photo is of the remains of a filling station in the OK community southwest of O'Donnell. The two pictures of the automobiles bear evidence of the ferocity of the wind, two men being killed in one of the machines which was tumbled over and over 17 times while another miraculously escaped death in the other. The baby girl shown below is Helen Irene McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKay of the Draw community, who is in Lubbock sanitarium with a fractured skull suffered when the wind blew her from her mother's arms as she ran for a storm cellar during the height of the storm. Storm scenes were made early today.

Low Ebb Of Industry, Trade Is Showing Effect In Texas

AUSTIN, April 27. (AP)—The low ebb of industry and trade in the country at large is showing the expected effect on Texas business, Dr. F. A. Buechel of the University of Texas bureau of business research said today.

"Although industry and trade in this state have thus far yielded grudgingly to depression influences, there are growing indications that the downward phase of the business cycle has not yet run its course in Texas," he said.

Texas' composite business index for March was 93.43, compared with 96.38 for March last year and 95.03 for February, 1938.

Texas Receives Largest Total Of Federal Farm Payments

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The Agricultural-Adjustment administration reported today it had pail out $169,767,047 in benefit payments to farmers and administrative expenses during the July-March period of the current fiscal year.

Texas received the largest amount, $18,496,755. Kansas was second with $10,707,717.

Lynn Family In Sanitarium Here Has No Home To Return To; Thankful For Narrow Escapes

A forlorn family group lay on beds this morning at Lubbock sanitarium, with no home to which to return.

The Louis McKay home was one of the residences near Draw community blown away by the storm.

Added to worry of four members of the family who occupied one room, was anxiety over condition of a 13-month-old infant member of the family, Irene McKay, who lay in a nearby room with a fractured skull.

"How are things down there?", W. F. Cook, father of Mrs. McKay, asked a newspaperman.

Creased With Worry

Cook's unshaved face was creased with lines of worry. "I want to go see how things are as soon as I can", he said.

Mr. and Mrs. McKay and son, Louise Daniel, and niece, LaVerne Standefer, were in the sanitarium, beside Irene.

None but Irene was considered in serious condition this morning. The niece was dismissed from the sanitarium late this morning.

Even in their tragedy, they were thankful for certain miraculous escapes.

For instance, Mrs. McKay ran from the house toward a storm cellar just before the tornado struck an infant twin clasped in each arm. The babies were torn from her clasp and she was knocked to the ground. Helen Irene was injured seriously, but the other twin, Evelyn Maurine, escaped with slight injuries. She was left in Draw community with a neighbor, Mrs. John Shirrel, and was to be treated by a physician who had gone to the storm scene.

Cook Home Untouched

The Cook home, located about two miles from the McKay home, was untouched by the storm. Mr. and Mrs. Cook were at the sanitarium this morning to be near their daughter and other injured. The McKay home was situated about a half mile north of Draw.

Five residents of the community who assisted in bringing some of the injured from the tornado area pieced together some of the facts of the storm. They were Mrs. John Berry, Mrs. C. C. Jackson, D. A. Cook, R. L. Pirtle, and E. P. Proctor.

Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Jackson and Cook sat in the x-ray room at the sanitarium Tuesday night as they told of their experiences. Lying unconscious on the table beneath the x-ray camera a few feet away was little Irene.

Seven Persons In House

The McKay home, they related, apparently was near the end of the path of the tornado, which they judged to have zig-zagged a total distance of approximately two miles. Seven members of the family were in the McKay house at the time. Mrs. Berry was informed. They included the parents, the twins, a son, Dan, 6, Mrs. Oleta Standefer, a sister of Mrs. McKay, and Mrs. Standefer's six-year old daughter.

The McKay family, Mrs. Berry said, apparently had no warning of danger until the tornado actually was upon them.

Mrs. Berry did not learn how far the babies were carried when torn from Mrs. McKay's arms, though apparently only a short distance. Mrs. McKay's face was described as being a mask of blood when assist-

Eerie Tales Are Told By Survivors

Two Are Killed As Car Rolls Over 17 Times; Downpour Of Rain Follows Tornadic Blow

BY TOM MILLER
Journal Staff Writer

TAHOKA, April 27 — Eerie tales of rendezvous with death, barren lots where once stood homes, miraculous escapes, and death to three were borne out in a careful investigation of a tornado that Tuesday night swept through approximately 30 miles in Lynn and Dawson counties.

More than a score of persons were admitted to hospitals in Lubbock and Lamesa and scores of others received first aid treatment after the twister struck about 6:40 Tuesday night in the Woody community 12 miles southeast of O'Donnell and continued in a general northwestward course to three miles northwest of Draw in Lynn county.

The dead:

Mrs. Vernon O. Caswell, 22, of one mile northeast of Draw.

John Walters, 15, son of Mack Walters of one mile north of Draw.

George Walters, 40, nephew of Mack Walters, of Austin.

Girl Is Thrown Clear

Death came to John and George Walters as they were returning to the Mack Walters home after taking a negro workman to his home less than a mile away. Mary Belle Walters, 7, sister of John, was also in the car but was thrown clear of the wreckage.

No one was able to accurately describe course of the car as it bounced more than 100 yards in a circular course. Starting on a "turn row", north of and parallel to the road, deep splotches in the soft plowed ground indicated the machine hit the ground 17 times.

Blown Along Ground

The boy's body was found 100 feet south of the wrecked car and inspection showed that he had been blown along the ground, picked up by the wind, and set down again for more than 50 yards. His pocketknife was found near his body.

George Walters remained in the car until it halted, suffering a broken neck. The machine was rolled into a veritable ball.

Relief Work Under Way

Upon instructions from the St. Louis headquarters of the American Red Cross, Robert T. Bridge, West Texas field representative, was on his way to the tornado area this morning to survey conditions and organize and assist chapters of that area in any necessary relief measures.

An appeal to the American headquarters was sent in a telegram from the Dawson county chapter. Bridge received instruction by telephone early this morning in Plainview and came through Lubbock en route to the stricken area.

Work Is Begun

Both Lynn and Dawson county chapters had begun work in the area, although extent of their active relief was not known here.

In telephone calls to T. L. Lockwood and Carl Griffing of Tahoka, Bridge obtained some information on conditions.

"The Red Cross will see that necessary steps are taken to provide assistance for storm sufferers who are unable to provide for their own need," said Bridge, one of the three field representatives in Texas.

No Instructions

Mrs. J. S. Johnson, former president of the Lubbock county chapter, said this morning the chapter here had received no instructions and had not taken any steps toward assistance.

Chapters in the immediate disaster areas ordinarily take the lead in emergency relief.

Bridge said he would notify the

Maybe So We're Not In Such A Bad Shape Over Here After All; English Taxes Are High

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Parliament talked today of millions for armament, for war time food caches and for running the government this year, but to the English housewife scurrying to the store this morning the figures were:

Eighteen cents a gallon tax for gasoline, if there's a family car.

The prospect of $7.71 income tax per month, if there's one child, and the master earns $208.30 per month. (The figures really would be pounds and pence to the English but the above figures get the idea into the American medium.)

The figures represented a 2 1-2 per cent income tax hike to a base of 27 1-2 per cent.

The budget was Britain's biggest in peacetime, and the income tax the highest in 17 years, since the 1921-22 peak with a 30 per cent base.

Three Are Killed, More Than Score Suffer Injuries

By Journal Staff Writers

O'DONNELL, April 27—A stunned and bewildered countryside still attempted unsuccessfully this morning to count the cost of a devastating tornado which twisted and bounced over rural areas in the vicinity of O'Donnell late Tuesday, spreading death and destruction.

Although the confusion and crippled communication facilities made impossible a definite check of losses, these were some of the facts and developments:

Three persons were killed, all in the vicinity of Draw community, 17 miles southeast of Tahoka, which seems to have been hit hardest.

They are Mrs. Vernon O. Caswell, 22; John Walters, 15, and George Walters, 40, all of Draw community. John Walters is the son and George Walters the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Walters.

Reports Not Confirmed

Rumors were that at least two others had been killed in the vicinity of OK, near Lamesa, but these reports were lacking in confirmation and were believed untrue.

Robert T. Bridge of St. Louis, Red Cross field representative for West Texas, reached the scene to observe the needs for relief, which obviously are most extreme.

Dozen Homes Struck

At least a dozen farm homes were wholly or almost wholly destroyed, in most cases leaving their occupants with only the clothing they wore.

Attempts to estimate how many may have been injured were no more than guess-work. However, 18

RELIEF WORK PLANNED

Relief measures for victims of the storm early this afternoon included:

Announcement by J. M. Waller, OK farmer, that the Red Cross will attempt to provide medical attention for the man not sufficiently injured to require hospitalization.

Announcement that Lamesa CCC enrollees commanded by Lt. Bradley will establish headquarters at OK school, and that enrollees will search the countryside for lost property. It will be concentrated at the school to await identification.

Announcement that committees of Lamesa and O'Donnell lumber firms and carpenters will investigate needs in the stricken area.

were hurt sufficiently to cause hospital records to be made of their cases.

The number receiving painful injuries attended by relatives and friends probably would not be short of 50. The exact number never will be known.

Five In Serious Condition

Of the 12 who actually remained in hospitals this morning condition of at least five was pronounced serious, although probabilities were said by attendants to favor their recovery. Of those still in hospitals, five were at Lubbock sanitarium, one was in West Texas hospital at Lubbock, four were in Loveless hospital at Lamesa and two were in Lamesa sanitarium.

In addition to those of whom records were made at the Lamesa hospitals, several others were given emergency treatment for painful, though not serious injuries. Practically every doctor and nurse in the city assisted in attending the injured.

Injuries Are Treated

The same was true at O'Donnell, where Dr. O. H. Sheppard and Dr. J. M. Bubany said they dressed the injuries of at least 10 persons. Some of them may have been taken later to hospitals, but most of them returned to the wrecked scene of their homes.

The bodies of the three dead were taken to Harris Funeral home at Tahoka. Services for all were tentatively planned for Thursday, although details were yet to be completed. Announcement was made earlier today that services for Mrs. Caswell would be held at Draw Methodist church at 5 p. m. today, but those arrangements were changed at the request of out of town relatives.

Bodies Were Mutilated

Bodies of all three were mutilated terribly. Mrs. Caswell, witnesses said, was swept a distance of several hundred feet in the splintered wreckage of the home she and Mr. Caswell occupied.

The two Walters were in an automobile returning to their home when the tornado caught them, overturning it many times. Perhaps the most remarkable escape from death of the storm victims was that of Mary Bell Walters, 7, sister of John, who was with them.

Girl Carried In Air

She was jerked from the car, carried at a height variously said to have been 20 or more feet for a distance of perhaps 200 feet, and finally was deposited on the ground suffering only from fright, shock and minor lacerations and bruises. She is at West Texas hospital, Lubbock, but plans are to discharge her Thursday so that she may attend the funeral of her brother and cousin.

No one seemed to know definitely where the tornado made its first appearance, nor what its progress from that point was.

Followed Zig-Zag Path

Most accounts, however, seem to agree that it probably swooped out of the southwestern sky in the vicinity of OK community six miles south and west of O'Donnell. From wherever it started, all accounts agree, it hopped, swerved and dipped along a zig-zag path which may have been as long as 30 miles until it finally struck its most devastating blows at the outskirts of the village of Draw.

Apparently one of the first hous-

Broadening Base Of Economic Participation Of Nation's Underprivileged Said Need

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 27 (AP)—William Allen White, editor of the Emporia (Kas.) Gazette, told a Yale audience today that the maintenance of democratic institutions depended on broadening the base of economic participation to include the underprivileged 10 or 15 per cent of the nation's population.

This underprivileged group, he said, holds the balance of power politically and "demagogues can swa: them."

The "Sage of Emporia," delivering the annual Daniel S. Lamont lecture, said the "economic problems of a swiftly changing world all over Christendom require rapid and intelligent action."

Mrs. Glassman, retiring president, was presented with a past president's pin and a set of pottery dishes. She in turn presented a white Bible to the auxiliary. The women presented a pottery vase to Mrs. J. B. Jones who acted as installing officer.

Mrs. W. G. Love, a member who has been away several months, was present. Mrs. Glassman was hostess during a refreshment hour.

Delegates to a department encampment in Waco, June 12-15, will be elected at the next meeting, May 10.

Club Women Are In Childress At Meet

Several Lubbock women are in Childress today to attend a seventh annual, two-day convention of the seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

Three women attended a district board meeting in Childress Tuesday night. They were Mr. W. P. Clement, chairman of the educational division; Mrs. Rex Tynes, chairman of the committee on safety in the homes; and Mrs. H. F. Godeke, who upon invitation was to present a motion before the board.

Mrs. Godeke is representing the county federation, as well as Twentieth Century club.

Others attending include Mrs. E. L. Banks, president of the City Federation, Mesdames Rufus Rush, Chester Elliott, F. A. Kleinschmidt, Willie Brown, and J. D. Sanders.

Election of officials this year will add interest to the convention.

Included on the program are two-minute reports from club delegates, awarding of prizes, addresses, music, a parliamentary school, club institute, and social events.

"Planning Today for Tomorrow" is the convention theme, Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview, district president, announced.

Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, past state president and a member of the board of directors of Texas Technological college, and Mrs. Volney Taylor of Brownsville, past president, spoke at the opening session. A luncheon today honored visiting state officers and members of the state board living in the district. A barbecue is scheduled at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Group meetings are being conducted this afternoon and a session will be held tonight, at which Mrs. R. J. Turrentine of Denton, state president, will offer greetings from the state organization.

Assembly Club Members To Be Guests Of Dallas Group

Members of the Assembly club, instead of giving an April dance, will attend a dance at 9:45 at Hotel Lubbock as guests of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce and Wholesale Merchants association.

The Dallas sponsors of the dance are inviting all members of Lubbock dancing clubs to be their guests at the dance and at the variety show which they are presenting at 8 p. m. in the Senior high school auditorium.

Approximately 20 attended.

Mrs. Winn also made an announcement at that meeting about the cleanup-paintup campaign.

Mrs. Granbery Is Reviewer In City

Review of Thomas Mann's book, "Joseph in Egypt," was given by Mrs. John C. Granberry before an audience at Senior High school Tuesday night.

The years of Joseph's servitude in the house of the King's favorite, where he was promoted from gardener to a place in the dining room, are told dramatically in the book, the speaker indicated. An atmosphere of splendor and magnificence dominated this period of Joseph's life as he sees the marvels of old Egypt, with all the ceremony and pomp of the life of the times.

It is here that he learns the state, solemnity, and dignity of the Egyptian race. Two dwarfs, one a keeper of the King's jewelry and the other a court entertainer, figure throughout his servancy. With the face of his good father always before him and his remembrance of his Christian God, Joseph is kept from all evil even though he is thrown in the pit for the second time for a wrong he did not do.

Outstanding Mind

Mrs. Granberry concluded her talk with an excerpt from the New York Times Book Review section which has said that Thomas Mann has "the most outstanding mind of the century" and that his book, which is called a novel for want of a better name, is "the greatest book of the last 30 years."

Mrs. S. B. Haynes, president of the City Parent-Teacher council which sponsored the review, introduced Mrs. Granberry who is visiting here from Georgetown.

Needle Guild Gives Shower To Mrs. Sidney Randals

A luncheon meeting of the 1937 Needle Guild was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Keith Smith, 1923 Twenty-seventh street. Mrs. R. U. Robinson was assistant hostess. A shower of handkerchiefs was presented to Mrs. Sidney Randals who is moving to Big Spring May 10.

In order that Mrs. Randals may be the next hostess to the club, the date was changed from May 10 to May 2. The meeting will be at 3:15 p. m. in the Randals home, 1515 Twenty-fourth street.

Children's games were played as a part of the luncheon program and the meal was served in paper bags in imitation of children's school lunches.

Mrs. Dick Walden was received as a member. Others attending were Mesdames Arch Harper, H. C. Bruckner, M. H. Porr, Charles Hayes, L. J. Shell, F. E. Shell, J. T. Stalcup, Renford Taylor and Jack Nelson.

Arnett-Benson Club Members Meet All Day For Quilting

Mesdames I. T. Mills and Tom Morris entertained the Arnett-Benson club all day Tuesday in the Mills home. The women quilted, and a covered dish lunch was served at noon. Nineteen members and three visitors were present.

Another all-day meeting will be held May 10 in the home of Mrs. C. R. Minor.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Gussie Gammill, 2305 Eighth street, has returned from an extended trip. She visited her son, Jimmie, in Jal, N. M., last week, went through Carlsbad Caverns Saturday, then went to Toyah Vale, near Balmorhea, where she visited another son, W. W., who is spending six weeks there in a United States army camp.

Mrs. Sam Ainsworth was presented with a prize for high score and Mrs. Donovan Stafford with one for second high.

Mrs. Stafford and Miss Snodgrass were special guests.

Members attending were Mrs. Raymond Cone, Mrs. Ainsworth, and Misses Lalla D'Spain, Winifred Hay, Opal McMahon and the hostess.

Box Supper To Be Given By Pythian Sisters Tonight

An old-fashioned box supper, instead of a fourth Wednesday meeting, will be held by the Pythian Sister Temple at 8 o'clock tonight at the Knights of Pythias hall. A short program will be presented and a prize will be given for the prettiest box.

The committee in charge has announced that wives, sisters, daughters and mothers of Knights of Pythias and sisters and mothers of Pythian Sisters are welcome to attend.

Lubbock Dancing Club Dance Is Attended By 60 Couples

Sixty couples attended a formal Lubbock Dancing club dance Tuesday night at the Hilton hotel. Ned Bradley's orchestra played.

It was announced that an open meeting of the club will be held at 10 a. m. Friday on the Hilton mezzanine. Officers will be elected.

LAMP SHADE PROTECTORS

It's a natural impulse to throw wide the windows for the first Spring breeze, but open windows admit dust as well as sunshine and balmy air. So it's a good time to slipcover the furniture and protect your lamp shades. Inexpensive transparent shade covers of a waterproof, washable material with elastic at the tops and bottoms fit neatly over the shades, do not detract from their beauty, and may be had in several sizes.

School Change Is Approved

Decision to re-district Lubbock independent school district so that pupils in the first to fifth grades may attend the school nearest their home was reached at the monthly meeting of the board of trustees in the office of Dr. J. T. Hutchinson at Lubbock sanitarium Tuesday night.

While details of the plan are yet to be worked out, members of the board announced, it will involve the establishment of first to fifth grade classes in each of the elementary schools of the district.

To Be Nearer Home

The plan, it was explained, will place pupils in those classes in the school building nearest to their home, resulting in a convenience to them, a lessening of their exposure to traffic dangers and a saving to district in transportation expenses.

Preliminary to putting the change into effect with the beginning of the 1938-39 session next September, officials said, it will be necessary to re-district the entire city.

The new system will apply to all elementary schools except Sanders, to which also may be assigned sixth and seventh grades additional to the first to fifth.

To Be Transferred

Pupils completing the fifth grade will be tranferred to Junior High school, and from there, to Senior High.

The board also elected three new members to the city faculty and approved plans for a summer school from May 30 through July 14.

New teachers elected were Miss Bella Altman, now of Levelland, to the commercial department in Senior High school; Floyd Leibetter, now in Morton schools, to the science department at Senior high; and Mrs. H. D. Woods, who formerly taught in the system, to the faculty of Guadalupe school.

Place where the summer school will be held is yet to be selected. Last summer, Senior High school building was used, but a change may be necessary this year.

Hockley County Judge Speaks At Pythian Banquet Tuesday

County Judge Alvin R. Allison of Levelland addressed the annual roll call of the Pythian lodge at a banquet in the hall here Tuesday night.

Rank of page was conferred on Grady E. Davis and N. H. Wood. The Lubbock lodge reported to the grand lodge a net gain of 50 members since January 1.

Pythian Sisters are to hold their annual supper at the lodge hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

New Yorker Says Mexico Will Not Align Herself With Japan

DALLAS, April 27 (AP) — Mexico will not align herself with Japan or any other foreign power, Dr. Hans Simons, member of the graduate faculty of the new school for social research, New York, said here last night in an address sponsored by the Institute of Public Affairs.

Doctor Simons, recently of Germany, recalled that Germany in 1917 made an effort to win over Mexico and involve her in the European struggle, that Mexico wisely rejected such overtures and would do the same thing again.

Post Honors Old Timers

POST, April 27. (Special)—Despite hail, rain and wind, approximately 200 persons attended the 13th annual reunion for old-timers here Tuesday night.

Sponsored by the Post Rotary club, the program had to be transferred from the high school athletic field because of the downpour.

Joe Smith Is Oldest

One hundred sixty-five persons had registered to give honor to old-timers. Joe Smith, 89, of Post was the oldest man to register. Other octogenarians were J. H. Babb and W. B. Hampton, both of Post and 88 years old; J. Wright Mooar, 86, reputed to have killed among the last buffalo in Scurry county, of Snyder; C. M. Buchanan, 85, of Post; "Doc" Knox, 82, of Post; D. K. Allison and Mrs. John B. Slaughter, both 80, of Post.

Dinner was served; an old time stage coach replica was hauled out for "joyrides," and there were speeches and toasts, dances and songs.

Welcome Is Extended

Dr. D. C. Williams of Post presided. Gilbert Gollehon, president of the Post Rotary club, welcomed old-timers. Response was by Dr. J. D. Davis, Roby physician and a brother of the noted "Cyclone" Davis. Music was played by the Kelley Kids, Lubbock string orchestra. Tribute was paid old-timers by Mr. Maxey of Post. Mrs. Jay B. Slaughter of Post sang "Empty Saddles." Mrs. Ashley Lawson was the accompanist.

Rev. and Mrs. Winston Borum of Midland sang, punned and played instrumental numbers on the piano and trombone.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of Avalanche-Journal publications, of Lubbock spoke.

Two Big Questions Faced By Wisconsin's Liberal Rally

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP) — The Wisconsin liberal rally called for Thursday by Governor Philip LaFollette, progressive, has two big questions posed for its consideration if it is to be made a springboard for the launching of a third party in 1940.

One question, promptly pointed out by Senator Norris, Nebraska independent, was whether President Roosevelt would under any circumstances seek a third term. Only the president could answer that and nobody expects him to for many months.

The other involves plans of John L. Lewis, mainspring of organized labor's most vigorous drive for direct political power. And there, also, it may take the November election this year to give any clear indication of just where the CIO political adventure is heading.

The Department of Commerce estimates that there are more than 9,300,000 miles of highways in the world—of which America alone has more than a third.

ONLY YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE

WANTED—At once—Good companion for entire Summer's motoring, to split expenses.

. . . You'll split your expenses all right by giving that job to Your Mileage Merchant. Real citizen. Too busy, of course, to come along in person. His Conoco Germ Processed oil, however, will stay right with you, clear up to "Full." Older cars especially prove it's all full of mileage, besides being the one way to OIL-PLATE your engine, so as to end "dry starting" and other rapid wear. Note the solid reasonable basis for making that statement about OIL-PLATING.

The patent papers legally describe how Germ Processing gives this oil its known power of attraction for metals. Thus Germ Processed oil really unites with inner engine surfaces to preserve them behind unbroken OIL-PLATING. Other oils must wait for the oil-pump, and try to worm through tiny oil-tubes, and hope to squeeze into thinnest little spaces, and even then these oils are always in a hurry to drain right down again.

While all that's going on, an engine gets starved for oil, but not your OIL-PLATED engine! All its parts are lastingly encased in rich slippy OIL-PLATING that can't drain down or come loose. Hence no "holes" in your lubrication—or in your pocket... WANTED—at once—your right Summer grade of Germ Processed oil, from Your Mileage Merchant only. Continental Oil Company

Gordon Again Heads Group

Dean James M. Gordon, dean of arts and science at Texas Technological college, was re-elected president of the El Paso Men-of-the-Church association at a dinner meeting last night which concluded the two-day program.

The dinner meeting preceded a joint meeting of the Presbytery and Presbyterial, at which Dr. J. K. Thompson delivered an address entitled "The Church in the Modern World."

Edouard Blitz played Lovesong by Kreisler and Julien Paul Blitz, head of the department of music at Texas Technological college, played Gavotte by Popper, as guests at the dinner. Mrs. Blitz accompanied them at the piano.

Dr. W. D. Black of Barstow was elected vice president and George Baker of Fort Stockton, secretary-treasurer.

The Church and the Modern World was theme of the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Men-of-the-Church. Black presided.

Devotional was by Rev. Fred Tyler of Barstow, moderator of the Presbytery. H. E. Blocker, acting secretary-treasurer in absence of Baker read brief reports.

Dean Gordon gave reports on the ministers' annuity fund and on the Men-of-the-Church organizations. Paul D. Thomas, El Paso attorney, originally scheduled for the reports was unable to attend.

Three phases of the theme were treated by four speakers at the afternoon session. Dr. S. S. McKay, professor of history at Texas Technological college, talked on The Modern World.

Kenneth J. Brough, professor at Eastern New Mexico Junior college, Portales, N. M., and Dr. Albert Barnett, professor of education at Tech, spoke on the program of the local church in the modern world. Rev. A. Thomas Dyal, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Fort Stockton, discussed The Minister in the Modern World.

Understanding Mayor's Plea

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, April 27.—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, addressing the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday appealed for a better understanding on economic questions in this country.

He said it was indisputable "conditions are not good in this country" and declared the quicker the people "get together" the better off they will be.

Should Understand Problems

The cities should understand problems of the country he said, and the agricultural areas should strive to understand the difficulties of the cities.

Discussing unemployment, he said millions could not find work and in such a situation "you can't say conditions are good."

"What we need is a wholesome exchange among various sections," he said.

LaGuardia said it had become "a fixed American policy not to permit any man, woman or child to die of starvation in this country."

Can't Halt Relief

The government relief program cannot be continued indefinitely, he continued, but it also cannot be cut off suddenly.

"We're in it," he said. "We can't shut it off. What we need is some intelligent thinking, and we can't afford to make a mistake."

He said "we have been conferenced to death."

There is no over-production in America, he went on, but only under-purchasing power.

There would be no permanent solution, he said, until there were uniform labor conditions throughout the country.

He decried long hours and low wages, saying this country was not built on that principle.

"This is no time for partisan advantage," he shouted. "The situation is more serious than in 1917. It is a war against poverty and misery."

Appealing again for business, labor and government to get together, he said "there is no Republican way. But there is an American way. There must be an American economy."

Nominations Made For Tech Offices

Nominations for officers of the student council of Texas Technological college were made this morning at convocation in the gym.

Nominations for president were Elmer Tarbox, junior arts and science student from Higgins; James Huffman, Grapevine senior agriculture student; and Clytus Parris, Wilson, junior engineer.

Nominations for vice president were Wayne Vaughn, junior engineer from Perryton, Merle Haynes, junior arts and science student from Hobbs, and Fred Day, Plainview sophpmore agriculture student.

Eron Gafford, Panhandle sophomore in arts and science, Mary Beth Whiteman, Brady junior arts and science, Lynn Bain, Plainview arts and science junior and Queenelle Sawyer, Brownfield arts and science, were nominated for secretary-treasurer.

For student representative to the Athletic council, A. B. Murphy, senior arts and science student from Caro, was the only nomination. Bill Parks, Pampa freshman, and Bill Bratton, Pampa junior engineer, were nominated as head yell leader.

Election will be held next Wednesday.

Revision of the student constitution made by the retiring student council, was approved by student vote.

Retiring officers are Maxine Fry, Floydada senior, president; Mary Howell, Knox City senior, secretary, Hugh McCullough, Waco senior, representative to the Athletic council, and James Forbis, Lubbock junior, head yell leader.

ance reached the scene.

"If there was any warning noise in advance of the cyclone, I did not hear it," Mrs. Berry related. "However, a terrific sandstorm had been blowing most of the afternoon and that would have kept us from hearing the storm's approach.

"For myself, I had been watching the southwestern sky, and when I saw it blacken, I lost no time in getting to my storm cellar. I've lived in that country 35 years, and I know the danger signs when I see them.

Remained In Cellar

"I remained in the cellar until the noise on the outside quietened, and not until I left it, did I realize that a cyclone had swept past. I, as did the other townspeople, hastened to the scene of the storm to do what we could for those in need of help.

"As best I could judge, the tornado dropped out of the southwestern sky from somewhere in the direction of O'Donnell. It followed an irregular path eastward for about a mile, then swung toward the northeast for about another mile and then swerved in a southeasterly direction. I don't know where it went from there.

"So far as we could learn, four homes were destroyed along that path. And when I say they were destrcyed, I mean just that. Not a splinter remained of some of the houses. The ground on which they had stood was swept as clean as if a broom had been used.

"Indicative of the fury of the tornado was what remained of an automobile we passed as we approached the storm's path. It could not have been twisted more had it been made of paper. The engine had been torn out of it and when I left for Lubbock it had not been found.

Were In Storm Cellar

"Allen Moore's home was the first to be struck and it was demolished. Mr. and Mrs. Moore and their two children were in their storm cellar and escaped injury. But all they had left was the clothing they wore.

"Next in the path was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Caswell, a young couple. Mrs. Caswell died of her injuries. Mr. Caswell was hurt, but I did not learn how seriously.

"The third house to be destroyed was a vacant residence belonging to Bill Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their family had made their home recently with his father, T. J. Williams. The two houses are located on the same section of land. The one destroyed is on the southeast corner and that of the father on the northwest corner.

Injured Taken To Draw

"The McKay home was the last in the immediate path of the storm.

"By time I reached the scene, the injured had been loaded in automobiles to be taken to Draw. Difficulties of the rescuers and the suffering of the injured were increased by the fact that rain and hail began falling violently almost immediately after the storm."

Members of the McKay family were taken to the home of Mr. Cobb, who operates a general store in Draw. He was in the store throughout the storm, he related, and did not know that the tornado had struck until after it had passed.

From there, they were brought to Lubbock.

Wanted Her Dog

Little Mary Belle Walters wanted her dog.

She did not know her brother, John, and her cousin, George Walters, were killed in a twist of the tornado that miraculously left her with only minor lacerations and bruises.

The seven-year-old girl had called for her dog when she was revived. A resident of the community told her that her dog was near, to quiet her, but it had not been found this morning.

Carried In Center Of Funnel

The grief-stricken mother, Mrs. Mack Walters, sat by the side of the West Texas hospital bed where Mary Belle was being treated this morning. The child had been picked up bodily by the twister after it struck the automobile in which she was riding with her cousin and brother. Apparently, according to witnesses, she was hurled to the center of the whirlwind funnel, and dropped to the group after having been carried 200 yards, when it "bounced" momentarily.

It had been announced the girl would be dismissed from the hospital Thursday, but a friend of the family said this morning she possibly would leave this afternoon in order to attend funeral services for her brother. The services probably will be conducted Thursday, although communication lines had been torn by the tornado until it was impossible to obtain full information from the devastated area.

Three Killed In Tornado

es in the path of the fury was the Standefer home two or three miles west of Grandview 12 miles southwest of O'Donnell. Mrs. Standefer and her two daughters, Mildred, 20 months old, and Claudine, 13, years, were alone in the house at the time.

Destruction Almost Complete

Destruction of the house was almost complete. The baby received a compound fracture of the thigh and a broken jaw. A jagged, three-inch plank was driven through the fleshy part of Claudine's arm, missing the bone. Had it hit the bone, witnesses said, her arm probably would have been carried away.

Mrs. Standefer suffered minor injuries. The husband and father was enroute home from a business trip to Lamesa at the time.

Played Freakish Pranks

From its beginning, the tornado played the freakish pranks usually left in the wake of twisters. It swerved from side to side, demolishing some homes while leaving others only a few yards away undamaged. It seemingly would select one home for complete destruction, then bounce squarely over another directly in its path, only to descend and continue its havoc. Thus it progressed through the OK community, in at least one case snatching away and splintering every structure comprising a home farming plant.

The tornado, however, seemed to have gained its most violent fury as it appeared in the distance approaching Draw community. There it descended about a mile north of the village and swept away the home of Allen Moore. Mrs. Moore fled to safety with their two children a few seconds before the twister arrived. Mr. Moore was in a field, outside the path. From there, the storm moved upon the Caswell residence, which also was demolished. Witnesses said that "not a splinter remained of the house."

Woman Swept Away

Caswell was outside and Mrs. Caswell inside the house at the moment. Mrs. Caswell was swept away in the wreckage, to die a horrifying death. Her body, according to informations today "was a solid mass of abrasions." Hundreds of splinters had been driven into her body.

Next in the path was a vacant residence belonging to the family of Bill Williams, who had moved not long before to the nearby home of his father, T. J. Williams. The son's house was demolished. The father's was not in the danger zone.

All Seven Are Injured

The Louis McKay home was next, and all of the seven persons sheltered there were injured. Irene McKay, 13 months old daughter, suffered a fractured skull. Mr. and Mrs. McKay, a son, Louis Daniel, 6, and a niece, LaVerne Standerfer, were taken to Lubbock sanitarium.

Witnesses agreed that a violent sandstorm preceding the tornado drowned the noise of the twister's approach and without doubt kept many from seeking shelter which was closely available.

Scattered Incidents Reported

Some of the scattered incidents reported as investigations into the catastrophe proceeded this morning included:

Reports from rural areas in the vicinity of O'Donnell that farm fields were cluttered with farm debris, included roofs, splintered planks, twisted tin and even the feathers of chickens.

The story related by C. E. Mason, manager of a filling station at OK, that an instant before he sought the safety of a storm cellar, he saw two rent houses, the porch of a house and outhouses belonging to L. H. Clark disappear with the wind. He said the storm struck between 5:30 and 5:45 p. m.

When Mason left the storm cellar he discovered that the ground where his own place of business had been was swept clean.

School Escapes Damages

The four-teacher school across the way from the filling station was filled with sand, but apparently escaped extensive damage. Nearby outhouses, however, were demolished.

The roof of the brick veneer home of T. H. Edwards 15 miles southwest of the school was blown away, some of the walls caved in, and a garage and tractor shed destroyed. Edwards built the home about 15 months ago.

The Clyde Edwards home a mile and one-half west was reported wrecked.

Eight or 10 persons were reported to have been injured three miles west of OK, and two were said to have been hurt two miles north of Woody school, which is eight miles southwest of OK. While the reports lacked confirmation, some of the injured were said to be members of the Long family. Also reported injured were an elderly man and his son, named Ras, a Mrs. T. F. Burleson and a Mrs. Cox, her mother.

Off the O'Donnell-Lamesa road three miles south of O'Donnell, seven-room and three-room houses belonging to Henry Gary were reported demolished and a woman and three children living on the place were reported injured.

A half mile east of the Gary place, the roof was said to have been torn from the E. Vandiver place. His car also was reported to have been wrecked.

Upper leather exports from the United States have an approximate annual value of more than $18,00,000.

Typical Co-Ed

Sue Allyn Stripling, above, is only 12 years old—yet she's a college freshman. Furthermore she's a typical coed, prominent in campus activities and is making the highest grades in her class at Trinity university, Waxahachie, Tex. Besides her obvious attractions, young Miss Stripling is a talented dancer, actress, golfer and—would you believe it—a ventriloquist.

BUILDING AT ANTON

ANTON, (Special)—J. R. Tucker living north of town, is adding two rooms and a basement to his farm home. He is installing also a bath. Ed Hart is also adding two rooms and a basement and is installing a hardwood floor. Albert Ellis has added a room to his home southwest of town and W. E. Vernon, west, has added two rooms and is stuccoing the entire building.

PLAN PARK OPENING

RALLS, (Special) — Plans are under way for formal opening of a city park being constructed at the intersection of highways 207 and 87, A. L. Winfrey, president of the chamber of commerce, named R. B. Loftin, Will Marr and T. H. Holmes a committee. Date will be in May.

Cooperation Pledged FDR

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 27.—A pledge by 16 top-ranking industrialists and financiers to cooperate with administration efforts to aid business created a dramatic prelude today for President Roosevelt's conference with Henry Ford.

Many observers predicted their promise of assistance in restoring "confidence and normal business conditions," apparently inspired by Mr. Roosevelt's recent "fireside chat," would help clear the way for a new period of teamwork between government and business.

Conference Is Expected

There was a prospect that Mr. Roosevelt would invite the signers, including Owen D. Young, General Electric chairman, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, to confer with him at an early date.

Ford, who has been at odds with administration policies more often than he has approved them, was scheduled to meet with the chief executive for an informal luncheon about noon central standard time.

Others In Conference

Also invited to the conference were Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Edsel Ford, son of the motor magnate and president of the Ford Motor company, and W. J. Cameron, public relations counsel for the company.

Mr. Roosevelt said they would discuss economics. It was generally understood that this broad topic included methods proposed by the president in an effort to end the recession.

Hopeful For Gesture

Administration leaders, hopeful for a gesture of friendliness and cooperation from Ford, made no secret of their pleasure over the statement of the 16 big business men. It was arranged through the initiative of John W. Hanes, securities commissioner and former Wall Street broker.

The statement advised that "legislation based upon untried social and economic theories should be avoided." It carried no obligation to support any specific white house proposals, but noted that in his radio speech of April 14 "the president stated the common need and aspiration of us all—the resumption of normal industry."

"We gather from the president's words," the 16 men agreed, "that he recognizes that we live under an industrial system in which there must be full opportunity for legitimate profits."

Detroit Man In Last Stages Of Fast To Cure Hay Fever

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, April 27—Weak and thin, but resolute, George McKenna entered upon the last stages today of a 40-day fast which he confidently expects to cure him of hay fever.

The 44-year-old garage man, a Syrian immigrant, reached today the 39th day of his period of abstinence from food. He said he hoped to prove the "self-curative powers" of the human body.

Gaunt and hollow of cheek from the foodless weeks, McKenna said "one more day" would "complete the cure." He said he could tell that by the color of his tongue.

"I can tell that by the way it is beginning to look," he said, explaining he originally had intended to fast for but 30 days but at the end of that time his tongue was "not the proper color."

When he began the fast March 20, he said, he weighed 150 pounds. Now he's a bare 90.

"I've convinced myself," he said, speaking slowly and with effort, "that the human body has self-curative powers, if given a chance. I believe one can rid himself of any disease if he gives his body a chance to act. That chance is to stop eating so the body is able to eliminate the impurities, and to cleanse it externally each day.

"Sometimes I feel awfully tired and it is a terrible effort for me to get out of bed, but I feel much stronger than I did a week after I started. Then I was all broken out with a rash, which I know was the impurities leaving my body."

Mc Kenna, who said he hadn't missed a day at work, added he drank "plenty of water" and slept 10 hours a night.

"I haven't even smoked or chewed gum," he said, "because that would spoil the fast."

The faster said he came to America in 1913 and was a graduate of Maryville college, Maryville, Tenn.

GRAIN IS STOLEN

ANTON, (Special) — The Doggett Grain Co. here has reported 7,000 pounds of threshed grain stolen from its storage place. A truck backed up to the door, which was forced open and the grain taken.

West Texas-New Mexico League Opens Season

Hubbers Are Playing In Clovis, N. M.

Hopeful of fair weather, the six clubs of the West Texas-New Mexico Professional Baseball league were scheduled to open championship operations on two New Mexico and one Texas front today.

One night game is tentatively on the card, Hobbs having planned to open tonight unless blessed with fair and quiet weather this afternoon. The Wink club, winner of the pennant last season, is opening at Hobbs.

The Lubbock Hubbers, competing as a farm club of the Chicago White Sox through the Dallas Steers, invade Clovis to play Josh Billings' new outfit. The game is to start at 3 o'clock, Clovis time, according to announcement here.

Big Spring At Midland

At Midland, where Fincher Withers is in charge and where the St. Louis Cardinals have a farm arrangement, the race gets under way with Big Spring's Barons the aggressors.

Friday will be another "opening day" in the league as the teams switch ball parks.

The Clovis club comes to Lubbock for a three-day stand, and Lubbock is hopeful of the biggest "opening day" show and attendance in the league. Largest crowd, however, is expected to turn out Saturday at the local park when Harry Faulkner's club is host to Texas Tech's Fiesta crowd. All high school athletes, seniors, faculty persons and bands attending the Fiesta will be free guests at the ball park for the second professional game played here in nearly ten years.

Hobbs and Wink go to the Wink park Friday, Big Spring and Midland to Big Spring's park.

League President Here

Milton Price, Dallas, president of the West Texas-New Mexico League, and three of his umpires arrived in Lubbock last night. Price, who is secretary of the Texas League, will attend opening day observance in Hobbs today, and return here for Lubbock's opener Friday.

With Price last night were half of the umpiring staff of six which will call 'em in the league this season. John Rowland, Earl Cartwright and Donald Fritz were here. Ned Pettigrew, veteran Western Leaguer from Oklahoma City who worked in this league last season, will team with Rowland to umpire the Lubbock-Clovis series at Clovis and Lubbock his week. Cartwright and Fritz have been assigned to the Hobbs-Wink series and C. A. Andrews and Buster Capps to the Midland-Big Spring battles.

Umpires will be switched around during the season, two of them working each game, but no one umpire staying with the same club. Fans in each league city will see every umpire in the league at work.

Of the six teams now comprising the league, only two finished the season last year—Hobbs and Wink. Other "starters" in the league were Roswell, Odessa, Midland and Mcnahans, Roswell and Monahans completing the season after withdrawals by Midland and Odessa.

Price Is Optimistic

At the start of plans for this season, the Monahans franchise was transfered to Big Spring, and the Roswell franchise was moved to Hobbs. Withers, who finished the season as manager at Hobbs, moved his franchise to Midland and secured Cardinal assistance.

Clovis, Big Spring and Lubbock are entirely new to the league.

Said President Price last night: "Things are shaping up mighty promisingly for the league this year. There is a better spirit and attitude every where. Regardless of the so-called 'business repression,' everybody seems to be in higher spirits. I think it is due to a desire on the part of everybody to see baseball flourish once again. The greatest spectator sport ever invented is spreading like a fire on a prairie, and I honestly believe we shall enjoy a profitable and entertaining season in this league. I have lots of faith in West Texas fans, and believe they'll stick by the teams to the last ditch as long as the teams hustle and put out their best."

Cooper High School's Pitcher Turns In Second No-Hitter

WOLFFORTH, April 27 — Lloyd Huckabee, pitcher for the Cooper High school team of the Lubbock County High school Baseball League, turned in his second no-hit hurling performance of the season here Tuesday as Cooper won from Frenship, 3 to 0.

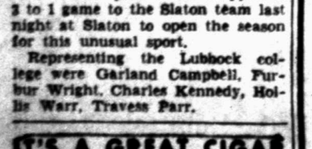

Huckabee and Richardson formed Cooper's battery. Brackeen pitched for Frenship and Jones caught.

All high school teams of the South Plains district are to be guests of the Lubbock Hubbers in Lubbock Saturday, after which a meeting will be held to discuss plans for the district tournament. The tourney is to be held on the Cooper diamond. Winning team is to represent the district in the state tourney at Dallas. Dates for the district tournament are May 5, 6 and 7.

LOSS TO SLATON

The Draughon's Business college roller skate polo team dropped a 3 to 1 game to the Slaton team last night at Slaton to open the season for this unusual sport.

Representing the Lubbock college were Garland Campbell, Furbur Wright, Charles Kennedy, Hollis Warr, Travess Parr.

Collapse Of Cards Causing Comment

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The amazing collapse of the St. Louis Cardinals at the outset of the National league race is causing more comment in the baseball dugouts than the failure of the Yankees to start off at their customary clip.

The players and managers have a strong hunch that the Yanks are due to start pouring it on the ball about tomorrow, when Joe DiMaggio likely will break into the line-up as a pinch-hitter. But they don't know about the Cardinals. They suspect that the departure of Dizzy Dean has taken a lot more out of the Birds, mentally and physically, than generally was thought.

Dizzy Furnished Spirit

Dizzy didn't get along with Manager Frankie Frisch, the rival players admit, yet they declare he put fight into the Cards and embodied more than any other member of the team the spirit of the "Gas-House gang." They say the Cards are going to miss more than Dizzy's pitching, and it begins to look like they're right.

Yesterday, with Slugger Joe Medwick still out of the line-up, the Cards dropped their seventh game in eight starts, a 10-inning, 8 to 7 decision to Cincinnati. And this, even after Curt Davis, the pitcher obtained from Chicago, hit a home run with three on in the fourth. The Reds scored all their runs in the last four frames, Jambasting Davis and his four successors impartially.

Pirates Lose First Game

The last of the undefeated teams went under as the Chicago Cubs bunched two triples and a single in the tenth to halt Pittsburgh's mad career, 5 to 3. Tex Carleton went the route for the winners, checking the Pirates with eight hits. Tony Lazzeri, ex-Yank, clouted a home-run.

Homeruns by Mel Ott and Jim Ripple featured the New York Giants 12 to 8 win over the Phillies. Each side used three pitchers and one was about as bad as the other. Carl Hubbell, whose turn it was to toil for the Giants, is laid up with a heavy cold.

Turner Wins Second

Jim Turner pitched his second smooth victory for the Boston Bees as they trimmed Brooklyn, 4 to 1, limiting the Dodgers to five hits.

The Yankees put on their first big inning of the season to even things with the Philadelphia Athletics by a score of 5 to 3.

Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators continues to chortle at his acquisition of Zeke Bonura. The hefty first baseman parked one in the stands in the seventh round, to beat Johnny Marcum of Boston, 6 to 4.

Cleveland won its sixth straight and took a firmer grip on first place in the American league by slugging the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 6, on 18 hits. Elden Auker of Detroit let the St. Louis Browns down with five hits and beat them, 7 to 1.

Jacobs And Gotham Look For Busiest Summer Season

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Mike Jacobs and New York looked forward today to the busiest and biggest summer fight season of many years, topped by the return match between Joe Louis and Max Sehmeling at Yankee stadium on the night of June 22.

Jacobs set the site for the bout yesterday after considering offers from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia. The summer program also will include the doings of Henry Armstrong, Barney Ross and Lou Ambers in their three-cornered dispute over the welterweight and light weight titles.

Uncle Mike has fond hopes of a crowd of 80,000 and a net gate of $1,000,000 or more for the second bout between the negro heavyweight champion and the German who punctured the Louis bubble in the same ring, June 19, 1936.

Seats will range in price from $3.50 for unreserved bleacher seats to $30 for ringside chairs. Mike expects to pick up an additional $100,000 from radio and picture rights to swell his net gate of a million or more.

Guldahl Says He'll Win Open Again

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP) — It is hardly the fashion for golf champions to go about predicting they'll win again. Boxers may growl, "I'll knock that bum out" and Dizzy Dean may mention 30 victories but not golfers. So when Ralph Guldahl, the stalwart Texan who holds the world's biggest golf title, the U. S. Open, says he'll do it again, it's news.

Guldahl swung off the winter circuit to a quiet berth at Braidburn Country club in Madison, N. J., where he is practicing and planning another putsch in this year's open. "My game is just as good as it was at Detroit last year," says Ralph, "and I certainly feel a lot better mentally, so why shouldn't I have a big chance."

He is going about the work of conditioning himself for the summer grind in his own way. He has a half-hour's practice session every day, which he thinks is plenty for a good player.

Battleship's Winning Grand National Carried Things Too Far; British Patient People

BY SCOTTY RESTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON, April 27.—The British are a patient people, but now, as the Irish say, "they've had their sufficient."

Bob Jones and Walter Hagen took their golf titles and they loved it. Don Budge rubbed it in last year by winning three Wimbledon titles and the Davis cup. Prior to this America had won the Ryder cup, the Walker cup, the Westchester cup, the Curtis cup and the America's cup.

Practically The End

All these Britain lost with rare equanimity, but when Battleship carried off the Grand National steeplechase trophy, it was practically the end.

Now only three of this season's British sporting classics remain in British hands—the Derby at Epsom, June 1; the British open golf championship at Deal, July 4-8, and the British Women's Golf championship at Burnham and Berrow, May 16-20.

With Henry Cotton and Pam Barton playing in top form, it is doubtful if America's limited challenge in the two golfing classics will have much chance.

May Win Derby

But some English critics are already seeing the possibility of the Derby going to an American-owned horse.

There are, at this early date, four horses owned by J. E. Widener and William Woodward entered in the derby. Widener has the fifth favorite, Unbreakable, at 14 to 1 and Silver Spear 11, at 25 to 1. Woodward has Olympus at 20 to 1 and Valerian III, an unknown quantity not listed in the early betting books.

Other Americans Favored

Americans are already favored to win the other four sporting features to be held in this country this summer.

Johnny Goodman and Johnny Fischer are being mentioned as the men to beat in the British amateur golf championship at Troon, Scotland, May 23-29.

The United States Walker cup team is favored to continue its undefeated record in Walker cup matches at St. Andrews, June 3-4.

Budge, Helen Jacobs and Alice Mable are expected to clean up the Wimbledon tennis titles, June 20-July 2; and the American Wightman cup team is conceded the edge in those matches June 10-11.

Colorful North Texas Teacher Track Stars In Philadelphia For Running Of Penn Delays

PHILADELPHIA, April 27. (AP)—The colorful North Texas State Teachers track team will work out today at Franklin field for the first time in preparation for the Penn relays Friday and Saturday.

The Southwesterners, who starred here last year, arrived late last night, completing a long auto trip from the Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Kan.

The Brown twins, Elmer and Delmer, along with Wayne and Blaine Rideout, were all set for a good workout. Elmer's slightly injured arch is much improved and he will be able to run, Coach Chock Sportsman said.

North Texas will race in five relays, the class "B" mile, 440, 880, distance medley and four miles. Last year the Denton, Tex., crew won the class B championships. They also finished first in the half mile, but were disqualified for illegal baton passing.

The Sports Roundup

BY SID FEDER
(Pinch Hitting For Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Congrats to the greatest right-hand batter the game has ever known. . . . He's Rogers Hornsby, in case you haven't heard, and he's 42 today. . . .

Pedro Montanez is 7 to 5 to take Frankie Wallace at the Hipp tonight. . . . Bill Brandt phones to tell us about the youngest stockholder in baseball — 15-month-old Charles Lewis Warneke. . . . His daddy, Lon of the Cards, gave him a share in the Hot Springs (Cotton States) club. . . . But Hot Springs isn't a Cardinal farm, and Pine Bluff, in the same loop, is . . . If this be treason—. . .

Don't look now, but there seems to be something stirring between Mike Jacobs and Seattle's Nate Druxman over who's going to get Al Hostak, the promising middleweight, to fight for him. . . .

Albert Muehlhaus, a Senators' fan from way back, writes: In Washington this year, you'll see a team every bit as good as the Yanks — except for pitching and home-run hitting. . . . Shh-h, Mr. Muehlhaus, that's what the Giants found out last October. . . .

• • •

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, the golf champ, packs a lot of what the boys on Jacobs' beach call Moxie. . . . In the recent Mid-South affair, she took 83-85 the first two rounds, then wound up with a 73 for second place. . . . And all the time she was carrying a temperature of 101 and her physician kept advising her to quit. . . . Jim McGalliard, Texas Christian two-miler, gave up Easter holidays to do heavy work around the campus so he could lose weight. . . . And when he was finished, he was heavier than when he started.

Favorites Courting Trouble In Second Round At Houston

HOUSTON, April 27 (AP) — Luck of the draw found favorites courting trouble in the second round of the Texas Women's Golf association tournament today.

Galleryites sensed a possible upset in the match between Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, medalist and Curtis cup team member, and Mrs. Otto Armstrong of El Paso, a putting master.

Mrs. Goldthwaite yesterday dropped Mrs. E. L. Rolfs of Houston, 5 and 3, but her game was none too stout on the first nine.

Mrs. Armstrong, meanwhile, was having a most amazing putting round to dispose of Mrs. Bryan Winter of Dallas, 7 and 5. Seven one-putt greens were on her card through the match and she finished the 18 holes with another flock of one-putters.

In Miss Hilda Urbantke of Austin, veteran of many tournaments, Miss Betty Jameson of San Antonio, trying for her third straight title, found another tartar.

Dean Is Seen As Factor In Texas Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Paul Dean, shipped to Houston by the St. Louis Cardinals when his arm seemed bad this spring, is going to be a factor in the Texas league pennant scramble this year—if the flopping Cards don't recall him.

He showed real form yesterday although dropping a 2-1 decision to Shreveport. The younger Dean allowed 10 hits but half of them were scratches. His mound rival, Junie Barnes, caused his downfall when he doubled in the sixth to drive in the winning run.

The league-leading Beaumont Exporters fell before San Antonio 4-3, when the Missions' rookie sensation, Berardino, doubled in the deciding run.

Ed Greer chunked Fort Worth to a 7-2 win over Tulsa and Prince of Oklahoma City shut out Dallas 3-0 on seven scattered hits.

Back to the top spot goes Dick Sampson tonight as he plods along for best two of three falls in the main event with Gorilla Pogi in a continuance of their feud begun last Wednesday night.

And the veteran Dutch Mantell, who has forgotten more about wrestling than most wrestlers ever learn but who remembers enough to get a swell job done, will be the third man in the ring to see that the fighters behave and do not commit murder upon each other. Mantell's refereeing last week and his method of handling the roughsters was more of a show than the wrestling, although Mantell does not "hog" the spotlight purposely, having had his share of it as a grappler.

A Draw Last Week

Sampson and Pogi wrestled colorfully for 30 minutes last week and wanted more. Pogi, a bit weak in the legs but plenty crafty, gave the Sampson lad quite a scrap. It waxed rough at times, but Mantell kept it fairly legal.

Soldier Thomas, the husky little fellow, comes back tonight for a second try in the local ring, meeting Bob Cummings in the semi-final. Thomas has displayed ability, and may be a fair match for the strong "I can take it" Cummings.

The new face on tonight's card belongs to one Billy Davis of Houston, and he's due to get a real breaking in. George Hartay, dethroned from his lofty perch by Andy Tremaine last week, drops to the preliminary slot tonight to "introduce" the newcomer from Houston.

Tyler Trojans Cling To Clear Record In East Texas Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Tyler clung to an unblemished record in the East Texas league today having hurdled the Texarkana Liners 1-0 last night. Tyler's lone tally came in the fifth, in the midst of a pitching duel between the Trojans' Mike Schroeder and the Liners' Lefty Davis.

Henderson and Kilgore were in a dead heat for second place after Kilgore defeated Jacksonville 10-8 and Henderson dropped one to Longview, 16-6.

Manager Abe Miller scattered 10 Marshall hits while his Palestine Pals pounded down two Marshall twirlers to take the game, 10-3.

Meet The Boys In Blue

By Collier Parris

THEY'RE OFF!

The Hubbers of Lubbock, the Pioneers of Clovis, the Barons of Big Spring, the Spudders of Wink, the Cardinals of Midland and the Boosters of Hobbs today begin the 125-day campaign to determine the champion of the West Texas-New Mexico professional baseball league.

The race gets under way without a really outstanding favorite in the pre-season wagering, which is an asset to begin with. Some say the Hubbers are best, some say Hobbs and Big Spring and Clovis will give us plenty of trub, and others say watch out for Wink and Midland.

So we'll wait and see.

League President Milton Price of Dallas will stick around and see the beginning, too. He's watching Hobbs and Wink play at Hobbs today, and will see Midland and Big Spring at Midland tomorrow. Then he'll be here Friday for Lubbock's "opening day" ceremonies.

The president came to Lubbock last night, accompanied by a bodyguard of league umpires who'll do the calling this season. And the three we saw last night seem to have pretty fair eyesight and enough heft and experience to get the job done.

Umpires are hired by the league office. There'll be two for every game, and they'll keep moving around the circuit.

Last night we met John Rowland, a large specimen and a fairly young man, who resides in Dallas; Earl Cartwright, tall and veteranish, from Heavener, Oklahoma, a high school coach and an ex-professional basketball player who saw service in the league last year, and young Donald Fritz, product of George Barrow's umpire school of Hot Springs, Ark., who is doing his first professional stint this season.

Rowland and the veteran Ned Pettigrew, former fiery leader of the Oklahoma City club in the old Western League and a veteran sportsman and umpire, will team to work the Lubbock-Clovis games this week. Cartwright and Fritz have been assigned to the Hobbs-Wink series, while C. A. Andrews, who worked in the Red River Valley league last season, and Buster Capps, Dallas, well recommended by Major League Umpire Lee Ballanfant, will call 'em for Big Spring and Midland. Umpires are assigned to different series, given a schedule to follow same as the clubs. President Price believes he has selected six capable boys to wear the blue.

in the Hubber camp this week. Harry Faulkner is taking his entire squad of 25 players to Clovis, but he'll cut down to about sixteen by the end of the week. He hasn't intimated who'll be kept and who'll be advised to wait around a season or two, and he's going to have some hard choices to make.

Three of the eight pitchers still in camp must go, one to make room for a newcomer, Charley Bryant, who pitched for Monahans and Odessa last year, winning 14 and losing 7. He's a husky righthander with something on the ball.

Big Casamir Kaliski and young Italio "Anagram" Angaran have been chosen to work the games at Clovis today and tomorrow, with Lefty Blanchard drawing opening day assignment here Friday and Vernon Wilson, a husky righthander, due to toe the rubber before Saturday's big crowd. That leaves "Bruno" Hoffman, Gramley, J. C. Vincent and Bryant as pitchers, and Faulkner can't carry but six chunkers at a time.

FOOTBALL AND WRESTLING are other sports attractions in the city this week . . . Gorilla Pogi and Dick Sampson provide the wrestling highlight tonight at the Auditorium, with Dutch Mantell getting in his share as the referee . . . The Lubbock Westerners of 1938 who have been in diligent spring training for many weeks will give a preview Thursday night at Tech Stadium, teaming against the Ex-Westerners . . . this is always a game worth watchting . . .

Texas Tech presents its preview Saturday night, featuring the Fiesta . . . Coaches and fans will look over every man on the squad as the Red Raiders battle the Sul Ross Loboes in a special exhibition . . . Tickets for tthe game, at a buck a throw, are on sale at the Hilton . . . but the supply is limited . . . Owing to the large congragation of free guests, there'll not be a lot of room for cash customers, so if you plan to go, better see a man named Bo about the tickets pretty quickly . . .

Oscar Vitt Sighing With Relief After Hemsley Is Back

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—Oscar Vitt, manager of the pennant-leading Cleveland Indians sighed with relief today.

Vitt was pleased because Rollicking Rollie Hemsley, "bad boy" of the team had returned to the fold with another promise to behave himself. No more looking at back bars lined with shiny bottles and glasses. Hemsley promised with a solemn face.

Hemsley, arriving by airplane from Cleveland, was in uniform but did not take his place behind the bat against the Chicago White Sox. Vitt said Hemsley might return to the game in a day or two.

Hemsley was suspended in Detroit Sunday night and fined $250 for violating training rules. He showed up at the hotel, after catching Bob Feller in the latter's triumph against the Tigers, wobbling a bit and bumped into Manager Vitt. Vitt ordered him to report to C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Indians, in Cleveland, while the rest of the team went on to Chicago.

In Cleveland Hemsley had a 35-minute conference with Slapnicka, during which he agreed to behave himself and Slapnicka levied no additional fine.

Hemsley, who lost $5,000 in payless suspensions for misdeeds while a member of the St. Louis Browns last season, admitted "having a couple of drinks" in Detroit Sunday night. Slapping a $250 fine on him made them cost $125 apiece.

This is the second rampage for Hemsley this season. During the training camp period at New Orleans he wobbled into the hotel with a black eye and a few lumps on his head. Hemsley was ordered back to his home to meditate until such time as he thought he could behave himself. He was absent from the club for a week.

Arizonan Will Give Address

Dr. Alfred Atkinson, president of the University of Arizona, will deliver the commencement address to the June graduating class at Texas technological college June 6 and Dr. Frank C. Brown, pastor of the Dallas First Presbyterian church, will deliver the baccalaureate address June 5.

Dr. Atkinson was recently inaugurated as president of the University of Arizona, although he began service there July 1, 1937. He formerly was president of Montana State college. He has had long experience in research in agriculture and as a college administrator. Last year he was president of the Association of land Grant colleges. He is a member of numerous scientific associations, professional and honorary, of the Rotary club, American Genetic association, and American Society of Agronomy. He has published more than 20 experiment station bulletins.

Has Worked Abroad

Dr. Brown, a graduate from Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., has done additional work at United Free Church college in Scotland and University of Oxford in England. He was assistant pastor of the Henry Drummond Memorial church at Glasgow, Scotland, one year. He has held various positions in the Presbyterian church and has been a teacher and trustee of Greenbrier college and Hampden-Sydney college. He is a member of Kiwanis club.

Announcement of speakers was made Tuesday by Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research and acting for the president of the college during Dr. Bradford Knapp's absence.

New Deal FFA Chapter Holds Parent-Son Banquet Tuesday

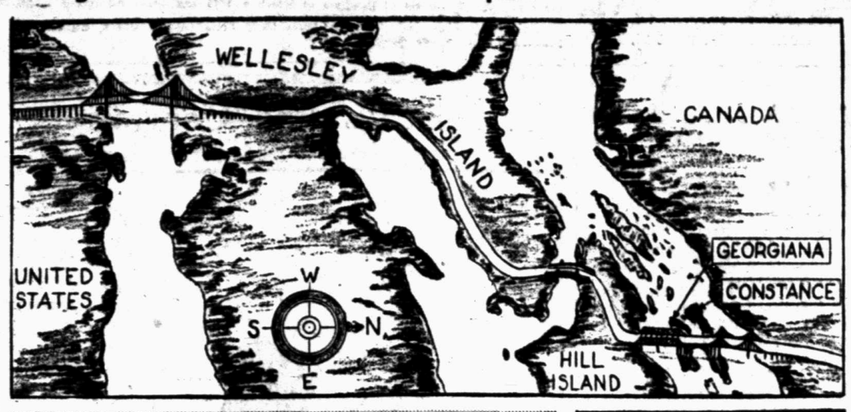

Parent-son banquet of New Deal chapter of Future Farmers of America attracted an attendance of 225 in the high school gymnasium Tuesday night.

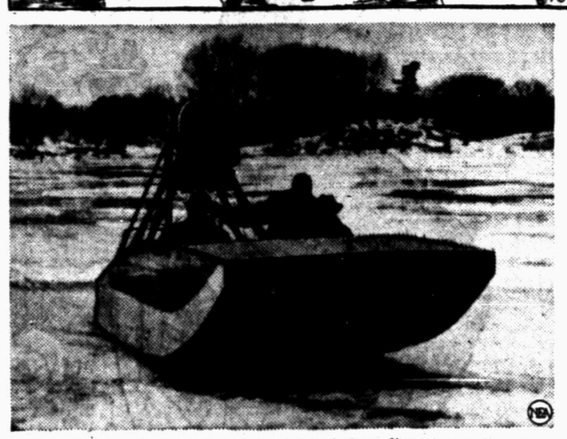

Principal speaker on the program, Ray C. Mowery, professor of animal husbandry at Texas Technological college, addressed the group on the future of agriculture on the Texas plains. J. R. Bertrand, president of the Gold Key club, spoke on alumni FFA. Several musical numbers were played by students with the group joining in singing.

The FFA chapter there has been organized only three years and has 15 teams taking part in community and state contests, having won high ranks in several. L. D. Shipman is vocational agriculture teacher there.

Among the 25 special guests those from Lubbock were: County Superintendent and Mrs. Joseph R. Griggs; Miss Ethel Bain, secretary to Griggs; Mowery; Fleda Harrell, ex-sweetheart of New Deal FFA and Tech student; Dean Harman and Claude Tucker, Tech students.

Linking U. S. And Canada With New Span

Cementing still more firmly traditional Canadian-American peace, workmen are hurrying to complete the $2,000,000 Thousand Islands bridge spanning the St. Lawrence river between New York state and Ontario provinces. As graphically depicted in the artist's sketch above, the project consists of five separate bridge spans, linked by strips of highway and connecting Collins Landing on the American side with Ivy Lea on the Canadian shore. The span shown at extreme left is a suspension bridge across the American channel to Wellesley Island. Actually linking the U. S. and Canada is the 90-foot arch over the International Rapids between Wellesley and Hill Islands. Three smaller arch and suspension bridges connect Georgiana Island, Constance Island and the Canadian mainland. The map at lower right shows highways leading to the project from large cities in each country. At left, below, Commissioner F. J. Martin and Secretary W. G. Mitchell of the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority, are shown during an inspection tour in an "ice scooter," flat-bottom vessel driven by an airplane propeller, which travels on either ice or water.

Lubbock Gets '41 Science Session

Lubbock was awarded the 1941 convention of the southwestern division scientists' convention in session at Albuquerque, N. M., Tuesday, according to an Associated Press dispatch to The Evening Journal.

Alpine, Texas will be host to the 1939 gathering and Tucson, Ariz., to that of 1940.

Dr. W. M. Craig of Texas Technological college addressed the physical sciences section of the southwest division of the American Association for Advancement of Science Tuesday.

"While the future will always probably find us largely interested in farming and cattle raising, we must not shut our eyes to the great development possible in the realm of manufacturing our own raw materials," Dr. Craig said.

"The southwest invites new capital for the development of its vast supply of natural resources, but it should be stated that the propositions are not bonanzas.

"They will require a wise program of investigation, both in scouting out the areas and in the engineering necessary in the manufacturing operations which will follow."

Freshman At Tech Is Contender Again For Scholarship

Already attending Texas Technological college on a Sears-Roebuck scholarship, Roger Lindsey, a freshman, now is a candidate for a sophomore agricultural scholarship offered by Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Scholarship foundation.

Should Lindsey be presented with a scholarship for the sophomore year, he will be one of 17 thus honored. The company intends to provide a sophomore scholarship in each of the 17 states in which educational institutions are participating in the program.

Grades Are Announced

According to Prof. Ray L. Chappelle's announcement, Lindsey made following grades the first semester: English and orientation, A's; botany, poultry husbandry and horticulture, B's; and animal husbandry and chemistry, C's. He is outstanding among nine other Sears-Roebuck scholars on the campus.

At conclusion of this semester, he will be judged for sophomore rating by a committee at Tech. In the examination, standard at each of the 17 institutions, 50 per cent of the grade will be based on scholastic attainment; 25 per cent on leadership; 15 per cent on personality; and 10 per cent on business acumen.

In the summer of 1939, students who will have received sophomore scholarships will be examined, and a junior and senior scholarship awarded to the one placing first and junior scholarship to second best student.

WHILE The Plainsman, personally, doesn't care much for the questions and answers referred to here as "brain twisters," a lot of readers evidently do. We haven't had any for a couple of days and as a result have received howls for more. So, here goes. Answers are near the end of today's stint.

Which word or phrase in each of the following statements will make the statement correct?

1. I cannot open the door because I have lost my (porte-cochere) (bonhommie) (passe partout) (feuilleton).

2. The lookout suddenly (decried) (descanted) (described) (excoriated) the funnels of a ship on the horizon.

3. Grandpa will be 100 on his next birthday, so he is still the (octonary) (nonagenarian) (octogenarian) (aggarian) in the family.

4. Look, there flies a (pack) (swarm) (herd) (bevy) of quail!

5. The sculptor has just finished (modeling) (cutting) (molding) (impressing) a figure in marble.

A broadminded person is one who holds to the same beliefs you do.

AS The Plainsman has noted on a number of occasions, he believes an American-Japanese war inevitable UNLESS certain eventualities occurr. Yet he does not believe there will be such a war, at least within the lifetime of the present generation.

The two statements taken together may sound inconsistent, but they aren't. It is his opinion that the above-mentioned "eventualities" will forestall such a conflict. Among the eventualities might be mentioned rebellion within the islands; or the unseating by more peaceful means of the small clique which has made Japan the most militaristic of all nations; or a Japanese war with some other nation—Russia or Great Britain, for example.

Yet The Plainsman realizes there is an ever-present danger of a clash. He realizes that every next hour may produce an occurrence so outrageous as to cause an explosion of national indignation which cannot be checked.

For that reason, he read with interest and re-assurance an article by Jim Marshall in the last issue of Collier's magazine, under the title, "Farewell to Aria."

MR. Marshall, as you may recall, is the newspaper correspondent who was critically wounded by the Japs when they sunk the United States gunboat, Panay, a few weeks ago. For that reason, he might be pardoned if he had become vitriolic in his denunciation of all things Japanese. But he did not. He seemed rather to lean backward, as a good reporter should, in his effort to treat the Japs fairly. Witness these statements:

"We must realize that, as Americans, we have fewer rights in Asia than the Japanese have on the North American continent. After all, there is just as much justice in Japan's cry of 'Asia for Asiatics' as there is in the American slogan of 'America for the Americans'."

However, he doesn't mince words in his discussion of the Panay incident. It was, he said, "nothing less than a cold-blooded, calculated action of deliberate warfare, designed to destroy the remnants of white prestige in Asia, and to demonstrate to all Asia that America and the British empire are afraid to fight Japan."

Mr. Marshall says that the Japs have succeeded in their purpose. He tells of white women being shoved off Chinese sidewalks by Jap soldiers 'while mobs of Chinese looked on—and laughed;' of Americans being permitted to visit a certain public portion of Shanghai on condition that on passing a Jap sentry they—the Americans, "must bow to the sentry, and must say 'good day'."

* * *

BUT let's get to some of his reassuring statements. Thus:

"As long as she is entangled in China, Japan's last wish is for war with America. A war with us would wreck her (Japan) in two months, and she knows it."

"It is from the fraction of one per cent of the Japanese—the power-drunk, war-mad militarists—that most Americans get their idea of the Japanese people. The great mass of the Nipponese people are kindly, courteous, industrious. They don't even make good soldiers, being almost helpless without leadership."

"Japan is, by the coldest military and naval calculation, no better than a third-class power."

"Japan in reality is a light heavyweight plug-ugly who, by picking setups for 50 years, has managed to win the reputation of a world-champion heavyweight."

"But if Japan doesn't stop tweaking the noses of one or two REAL heavyweights—Britain, Russia or America, for example—she and the world may find out some day that her bluff has been called. It is true we are all against a fight—now. But we can be pushed just so far."

A Tech co-ed heaved a sigh of relief when she reached her room in the dormitory.

"Whey!" she said to her roommate, "but that guy I had a date with sure was fresh."

"Why didn't you slap his face?" asked the room-mate.

"I did," was the answer, "and take my advice—never slap a guy when he's got a chew of tobacco in his mouth!"

That Man on Avenue Q says universal education may be all right, but don't forget that this country kept in pretty good shape before nearly everybody in it over 21 could boast of at least one college degree.

* * *

An American traveling in Czechoslovakia was surprised and delighted to run into an American girl slinging hash in a cafe.

"Gee, I'm glad to see you," he said. "Gimme a couple of how about the kind word?"

She returned in a few minutes and placed the eggs in front of him.

"Thanks," he said, "and now how about the kind word?"

The girl leaned over and whispered in his ear.

"Don't eat them eggs!"

HERE are the correct answers to the "brain twisters" offered in the earlier part of today's column. Bet you missed No. 1!

1. "I cannot open the door because I have lost my passe partout," is correct. A passe partout is a master key.

2. "The lookout suddenly described the funnels of a ship on the horizon," is correct. "Described" means "beheld."

3. "Grandpa will be 100 on his next birthday, so he is still the nonagenarian in the family," is correct. A nonagenarian is a person 90 years old, or between 90 and 100.

4. "Look, there flies a bevy of quail," is correct.

5. "The sculptor has just finished cutting a figure in marble," is correct.

About the best "pump priming" suggestion we can think of at the moment is for the government to start paying the "brain trusters" to quit thinking!

After a pause that seemed like a timeless void in which all sound and motion were suspended, Constance said, smiling with bright, unblinking eyes into Derek's white, blank face, "Greetings! How are you, Derek?" and Derek wet his lips and stammered with feverish cordiality, "Why, I'm—well, this is a surprise! Where did you drop from?"

Miss Wilcox's black eyes darted swiftly from one to the other of them; and Dr. Rogers' voice sounded unnaturally loud when he said, "Well—we'd better get down to business, hadn't we? I understand you're going to re-decorate our leading lady, Mr. Manthon."

Constance knew that Derek's hands were shaking as he worked, frowning, glancing from her to the pictured image of Camilla Wynne and back again—Dr. Rogers suggesting from time to time, "A little more of that black stuff on her lashes, don't you think, Manthon?" . . . "I wonder if the mouth's full enough?" And Miss Wilcox, "Of course her eyebrows should be plucked, but we haven't got all day."

So that was the way Derek had looked when he saw her. . . . That was what she had said to Derek. . . And that was what Derek had said to her.

Finally Dr. Rogers exclaimed, "Well, I guess that just about rings the bell. . . . Go grab yourself some sleep, Miss Wilcox. You may have a difficult day ahead of you. . . . Now, Miss Maidwell, if you're ready—"

With a swift, veiled glance at Derek's fair head, bent over the cosmetics he was replacing in the box, Constance followed the doctor into the corridor.

Just outside the sick room door he paused to say with a wry little smile, "By the way, you'd better call him 'Jo-jo' if you can bring yourself to it. It was Miss Wynne's playful little name for him, I understand. . . Aside from that, you'll have to be guided by whatever it is people mean when they talk about intuition."

Then they went into a large, cool, shadowy room.

The second nurse was hovering over a bed on which lay a slight figure. George Thorvald. Constance saw, was hardly taller than his sister, and not at all like her. Where Hildegarde was generously, if exquisitely, made—all golden tints, with blood coursing wormly, close under the skin—her brother was dark and slight, with crisp black hair, a pale olive skin, and sensitive, delicately chiseled features. . . . Ernest Thorvald's wife, Derek had written, had been a Spanish lady.

As the boy stirred restlessly, Mark Rogers said in a swift undertone, "Sit here, please," and Constance dropped into a chair by the side of the bed.

The boy moaned, cried out sharply, "Camilla—Cam, read? . . . Can't you move? . . . Oh, no—no, no!" and seemed about to open his eyes.

Dr. Rogers murmured, "Closer. He's had an opiate, and can't see very clearly."

Constance leaned forward, clasped her hands together on the edge of the bed, and breathed, "Yes, I'm here, Jo-jo."

The boy turned dark pain-hazed eyes toward the sound of her voice, shut them, shook his head slightly, and said incredulously, "They told me you'd be here, but I didn't believe them."

Constance reached out a warm hand and placed it over the restless fingers near her on the spread. Mark Rogers motioned the nurse away, and stepped back into the shadow.

The boy looked from the hand on his fingers to Constance's face and back again, peering as if through a fog.

"But I killed you," he protested in a bewildering whisper. "You were—dead. . . I saw you—lying there—in the light of the car. . . . I called you, but you didn't move or speak. . . . Then someone—came—and took you away."

"But, you silly boy," Constance said, making her voice sing, caressing each syllable with her lips as she had often watched Camilla Wynne read her lines in a close-up, "I'm here now, aren't I?"

"Why—yes. You seem to be here." The boy spoke slowly. "But you have before. . . . Only you always went away when I woke up. . . And those times your face was—bleeding—the way it was that night. . . . And never in that dress. . . . I've never seen you in that dress before anywhere."

It was a cue providentially handed her from one of Camilla Wynne's most popular roles; and the proper line came tripping to Constance's tongue.

"But, Jo-jo, dear"—she even remembered to laugh in that soft, caressing way that was one of Miss Wynne's most effective mannerisms—"don't you suppose I ever need a new dress? . . . And I wasn't hurt badly that night—just stunned for a few minutes—"she glanced for encouragement toward Dr. Rogers, who nodded from the background. "You can see for yourself that I'm all right, darling. . . But now you must rest. We'll talk some other time. I'll just sit here, very quietly now, while you go to sleep."

He seemed to think that over, frowning with the effort of concentration. His hand fumbled for her fingers.

"Yes," he said slowly. "I guess it's you all right—this time. Your hand is warm—and you smell sweet. . . . You never touched me any of those other times you came."

"That's because I never did come before—not really," Constance told him softly. "You dreamed all that, you know. But this time you're not going to dream—not about me, nor anything else—just sleep."

He sighed, a quivering little sigh, like a child who has cried himself out.

"You were nice to come," he said drowsily, "after—the other night. But you were—always a lot—sweeter to me than I—deserved. . . That's what I was—trying to tell you when we—met the truck—that I didn't deserve it, I mean—because I—don't seem to love you any more—not the way I used to . . . I"—he frowned faintly—"I didn't put it very well, I guess. . . . Men shouldn't have to—say things like that to—women . . . Women ought to—see it coming, and—make it easy."

"But I did understand," Constance said swiftly, "And you mustn't worry about that any more" . . . What, in heaven's name was she saying, she thought, in the voice of that woman the boy thought her to be?

She went on, "I'd have told you that night if we hadn't gone over the bank. . . I don't blame you. No one can help—not loving some one any longer. It's—" she broke off, startled by the ironic truth of her own childish phrase.

Suppose it had been she, in her own person, who had had to speak those words—to Derek?

The boy made a drowsy motion

TESTIFYING TO AVIATION'S PROGRESS

Significant of the progress of aviation was a news item which appeared under small heading in newspapers Tuesday morning.

The story related that an airliner had been forced down in the sea near the island of Jamaica and then added: "The 12 passengers and crew were rescued by a passing boat."

The very fact of the "play" of the story reflects the change in attitude toward aviation. It indicates that we have come to realize that the modern airplane under skilled control is able to cope with almost any condition.

That was not true a few years ago. Then, had a plane been forced down in the sea, its plunge to the bottom woud have been a matter of a very short while. Had there been a rescue, newspapers would have sought and published the details of a nerve-wracking experience.

Perhaps the forced landing near Jamaica did provide thrills for those aboard, but the remarkable fact is not that they were rescued. The extraordinary eventuality would have been that they came to harm.

A Thought . . .

These things have I spoken unto you in proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.—John 16:25.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 27—Deanna Durbin is an ingenue now—still very dewey, but headed for romance. It's all being planned with the utmost care.

Not since she went to work in Hollywood about 20 months ago has there been any real threat of a gangling, awkward interval in the enormously valuable young star's development. Indeed, so maturely graceful was she that the studio considered adding a couple of years to her age, which was 13. It is now 15.

"Anyway," she told me, "I'll not grow any more. I'm 5 feet 3 1-2 inches, and already the tallest female in our family."

She looked at the chops and baked potato on her luncheon plate and sighed. "I won't weigh any more either. I'm 112 now. I guess I'll have to start worrying about that."

Actually Miss Durbin doesn't seem to worry about much of anything. This by no means indicates childish irresponsibility. She is poised, confident and rigidly self-disciplined. In an interview she is inclined to be cool, but honest, answering questions with a "yes" or "no" until pressed. She never equivocates with a "perhaps" or a "maybe."

Hired by Universal at a salary of $150 a week, which she received during the production of "Three Smart Girls," Deanna is now earning $1250 weekly, mainly as a result of the efforts of her agent, Jack Sherrill. She holds a contract with six-month options calling for small increases. When she was singing over the air she was earning $400 a week for that job.

Every penny of her savings from the various sources has been going into a trust fund, so that her financial future will be secure. Sherrill, incidentally, is now being sued for an accounting by Mrs. Rita Stanwood Warner, who claims to be the "discoverer" of Deanna.

Maturity By Easy Steps

If Miss Durbin is not worrying about her future, her studio is taking every possible precaution for it. Universal's problem is to guide its singing prodigy through cinematic adolescence into young womanhood, with each successive picture leaning a bit more toward romance.

Besides her voice, which is said to be mature and safe from change or strain, the actress' charms are her healthy beauty and wholesome naturalness. She must not be arch or smarty or amorously precocious. Universal's council of elders has agreed that the faintest taint of these things would do her irreparable harm.

At the same time, her studio is anxious to bring her along as rapidly as possible. The visual transition for the screen will be merely a matter of taking away the hair ribbons and frilly dresses and flat-heeled shoes.

The film to go into production in a couple of weeks will be called "That Certain Age." In it, I was able to tell Miss Durbin, she will be a rich man's pampered daughter who awakens to certain realities and decides not to be a parasite. She will have two teenage suitors, a rich and a poor one. There will be no real love scenes, but audiences will know how she feels about the lucky boy.

After that the studio will come right out on the theater marques and announce Deanna Durbin in "First Love." The story has not yet been adapted, but the chances are that Deanna will get herself kissed. There also has been some secret discussion of buying Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" for her.

Future Looks Musical

Although these assignments seem essentially dramatic, with music sandwiched in, Miss Durbin considers them in the opposite light.

"I think of myself as a singer," she said. "The acting is just something that I have to do between songs."

I asked what she intended to do with her money. She said she will save it. If she were not working at anything, she would travel. She would like to make a concert tour, and perhaps appear in a musical on Broadway, but most of all she wants to join the Metropolitan Opera Company. Plenty of assurances have been given Miss Durbin that she will be welcome at the Met when she is ready.

No movies? "Yes," she said, "I'll do both. A season there, two pictures here. It has been done; look at Grace Moore and Lily Pons."

A Complicated Life

Miss Durbin does not expect to begin another regular radio program next fall. Her parents, her teachers and the studio are opposed to it. For the Cantor hour, Deanna has had two afternoon rehearsals each week, one evening dress rehearsal with an audience, and on the fourth day two broadcasts on a split network for the east and west.

These chores, together with her picture work, her schooling and her daily vocal lessons made her almost certainly the busiest actress in town. Several times Miss Durbin was on the verge of a breakdown from overwork.

Her voice has expanded in both upper and lower registers. "I can sustain C-sharp and touch F," she explained.

She ranks as a high school junior, and will graduate when she is 16. She expects to go right on studying languages, though—for opera.

Deanna isn't allowed dates, but she attends mixed parties and likes to dance. She doesn't anticipate any real romance in her life for a long, long time.

Cordell Hull Given Credit For New Attitude Of President Toward Business, Dutcher Says

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 27 — Secretary of State Cordell Hull is working quietly to keep the Democratic party from doing its threatened Humpty-Dumpty act. In the midst of inner-administration sniping, Hull seeks peace, compromise and a united administration front.

Rodney Dutcher

The soft, sweetly reasonable words in Roosevelt's recent fireside chat were more attributable to the influence of Hull than to any other. One of the ghost-writing collaborators on that document was Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Agustus Berle, the brilliant brain truster, who is working closely with Hull on the latter's sub rosa domestic conciliation program.

There were items in the "chat" for which Hull and Berle, with their strong desire to quiet administration critics, were not responsible. Roosevelt's assertion that taxes and government expenditure money "ultimately comes out of the labor of all the people," that government spending money should be distributed at the bottom as well as the top of the economic scale and that wage-hour legislation consequently should be promptly passed — that was much more in the spirit of the philosophy of David Cushman Coyle.

Nevertheless, to Hull and Berle goes most of the credit for the fact that the speech was, as Washington sees it, "well received."

Compromise In 1940?

Hull is a presidential possibility. More so in the minds of his friends and admirers than in the mind of Hull himself. But also in the minds of objective observers who see in him a possible compromise at the next Democratic convention as between the New Deal and pro-Roosevelt forces, on one hand, and the Farley machine forces and old line conservative forces on the other.

Hull might aptly be described as mildly liberal, mildly conservative or somewhere in between. But he is honest and courageous; his prestige in this administration has grown rather than diminished.

When Roosevelt chose between Hull and his then pet brain-truster, Raymond Moley, easing the latter from the State department lest Hull quit and cause a revolt among Southern conservatives, he was recognizing Hull's high stature among the important Southern conservative group.

The secretary's more radical acquaintances think he is way behind the times in his social-economic outlook. Nevertheless, when some of the most advanced liberals in Congress and the administration less than three years ago formed a group to study possibilities of a constitutional amendment which would curb the Supreme court, they could be found, meeting once a week in Hull's apartment.

Hull has cordial relationships with the Tugwell - Taussig - Berle "American Molasses" brain trust steered Owen D. Young, Tom Lamont, John L. Lewis into a "co-operation" conference with Roosevelt at the White House.

Berle Going Places?

Berle, an important original brain-truster and Roosevelt ghost-writer, quit the New Deal to brain-trust for Mayor LaGuardia in New York. When he came here recently as assistant secretary of state it was hoped that he could wangle Roosevelt's support for the governorship of New York. That hasn't worked out.

Most of the more influential administration figures — and there are conspicuous exceptions, such as Hull — distrust and dislike this brilliant young man and have ganged up to frustrate his always-ambitious plans. But Berle's ability surpasses even his arrogance — or so his friends say — and in team with Hull he may well be going many more places than his enemies intend.

"That's swell," he said. "Because I really—can't help it. . . . But it was—nasty—thinking I'd—killed you. . . Now I think, if you don't mind, I won't—talk any more—just now."

Mark Rogers opened the door, and as the nurse came quietly forward, Constance slipped outside the room. In the corridor he overtook her.

"That's more like it," he said with a relief that lifted the words from the prosaic. "He may really sleep now."

Then when he saw that her lashes were wet, his eyes danced wickedly for a moment.

"You're not spilling perfectly good tears over being jilted by proxy, are you? Don't you take your play-acting too seriously?"

Constance wondered what he would say if she told him that for a moment she had almost forgotten that it was play-acting. . . . Look at her probably, in that twinkling, quizzical way of hers, as if she were something new and interesting, wriggling on a slide, as if he were wondering just why the specimen wriggled the way it did; and just what combination of circumstances might make it wriggle differently . . . He was doing it now.

She was casting around for something scathing to say to him when he anticipated her.

How To Win and Hold the One You Love

Ask Dr. La Rose Ps. D.
Graduate Psychologist

To obtain your heart's desire, see the World's greatest Psychologist. Reader and Healer—gives advice on business and personal affairs. Tells what business or profession best adapted for, teaches mental science, personal magnetism, how to control, fascinate and get the desire of your heart; how to make a person at a distance think of you.

Tells you when and whom you will marry and how to win the man or woman you love even though miles away Settles lovers quarrels, reunites the separated. Has brought about more marriages, reunited more separated, than any other Psychologist in America

Auction Sale
TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

Buying continued at a fast and fully steady to strong pace on all cattle that we had in our yards this week. The sellers were the bosses in the cattle market. We had plenty of buyers, and could have sold twice as many cattle as we had this week, and all classes sold higher than any recent sale. Don't forget our Friday auction sale will begin promptly at 10:00 o'clock every Friday morning and our Tuesday sale will continue to start at 1:00 o'clock as usual.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—The stock market made a good take-off today but ran out of buying fuel later.

Near the fourth hour moderate gains ruled throughout the list. However, about all the market could do in face of apathetic speculation for the advance was to hold initial gains, ranging from fractions to more than 2 points in leading shares.

The opening buying spurt, which reversed the slow decline of the last few sessions, was ascribed partly to the pledge of cooperation with the administration on recovery measures by a group of prominent business men.

Rallying easily as buying expanded in a thin market were U. S. Steel, du Pont, U. S. Rubber Preferred, Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, International Harvester, Standard Oil of New Jersey and J. I. Case.

Corporate bonds also did better and most commodities pointed a little higher.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP) — Tumbles of Liverpool quotations led to material setbacks of wheat prices here early today. Cables said grain trade confidence abroad had been shaken by huge British government purchases of foodstuffs.

Opening ¾-1¼ down, May 80⅞-81, July 80-80⅛, Chicago wheat futures then steadied. Corn started ¼-⅜ off, May 58¼, July 60.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 2¼-2¾ lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 80¾-81, July 79, corn ¼ down, May 58¼, July 60-60⅛, and oats ¼-⅜ off.

Approval Of Lamesa Project By WPA Announced Today

Approval of a WPA-city project at Lamesa, involving the expenditure of over $10,900 was to be made today in San Antonio, it was announced this morning by J. O. Jones, district 17 director.

Project is a disposal plant, to cost $10,902, the city sponsors contributing $6,038 and the WPA $4,864. The city's part was taken care of by a bond issue voted several weeks ago. Jones said the project would use 29 men and that work will start May 4.

The project is one of 28 to be approved Wednesday. Of these 26 will be county projects and two state-wide. Federal aid will be $322,248 and sponsors aid, $218,712.

Five Steamships Are Reported In Trouble In North Atlantic

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Five steamships were in trouble today with one of them beached as the result of three accidents off the North Atlantic coast in a dense fog last night and early today.

The coastguard dispatched assistance to three of the vessels, but the other two, after reporting a collision, did not ask for help. In the most serious accident, the 2,686-ton Commercial Pioneer New York was in collision near the Delaware breakwater with the 2,677-ton York of Baltimore.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 27 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 1 to 6 points net higher here today due to trade buying and covering in expectation of an unfavorable weekly crop summary.

Foreign markets were disappointing but failed to affect the price trend in the early dealings. Contracts were scarce and after the initial buying movement subsided trading became quiet.

May opened at 8.85, July 8.98, Oct. 9.06, Dec. 9.09, Jan. 9.11 and March 9.15.

Near mid-session May contracts sold at 8.90, July at 9.00, Oct. 9.05 and Dec. 9.09, five to seven points above the previous close.

The turnover yesterday was 57,750 bales and open commitments 352,500 bales, a decrease of 6,800 bales from the previous day.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP) — Cotton futures opened 1 to 8 higher on firmer stock market. Only four May notices were issued. May 8.78, July 8.86, Oct. 8.96, Dec. 8.97b, Jan. 9.01, March 9.05.

The trade gave a constructive interpretation to Washington developments and some commission house buying appeared. July sold off from 8.89 to 8.83 and shortly after the first half hour was quoted at 8.85 with the list 3 to 9 points net higher.

After reacting partially the market rallied under some support attracted by the weekly weather report which said that April rainfall had been about twice the normal amount in considerable areas resulting in delayed planting.

July sold up from 8.83 to 8.87 with prices by midday 7 to 10 points net.

Open Meeting Will Be Held Tonight

Mrs. Rowena McCutcheon of San Antonio, missionary to Africa, will address a popular meeting of the Presbytery and Presbyterial woman's auxiliary to the presbytery at 8 o'clock tonight at the First Presbyterian church. The meeting will be public.

Opening the two meetings last night, Dr. J. K. Thompson, pastor of the Fort Worth First Presbyterian church gave an address entitled "The Church and the Modern World." More than 100 persons were present.

Committee reports were made this morning in business meetings of both groups and will continue this afternoon after a luncheon at the church.

In the Presbyterial meeting this morning, Rev. N. R. Hawkins of Itasca was principle speaker. Talks were given by Mrs. J. A. Pressley of Lubbock; Miss Virginia McLean, religious director of the Lubbock Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Noble Read of Coahoma.

Other talks given this morning in the women's group were by Mrs. W. A. Hadden of Fort Stockton, Miss Bertha Murry, president of the Mexican school at Taft, Mrs. Andrew Fasken of Midland, president of the synodical of home missions, Mrs. George Maley of Pecos; Mrs. C. E. Cantrell of Barstow; and Mrs. Jerold Riordan of Colorado. Different phases of mission work was the theme of the discussions.

Communion service was held at 11 o'clock Rev. W. F. Pruitt of Portales was in charge. Both Presbytery and Presbyterial representatives attended.

Officers were to be elected this afternoon and to be installed. Business meetings will conclude the Presbytery and Presbyterial before noon tomorrow.

Building Permit Total Moves Upward Again This Morning

Building permit totals moved to within less than $12,000 of the quarter-million dollar mark with authorization of new projects to cost a total of $11,085 this morning and Tuesday afternoon.

Permit total for the week was increased to $46,370, for the month to $194,439 and for the year to $738,405.

Permits issued this morning included: to A. A. Bratcher, owner, and C. H. Forson, contractor, frame residence at 2109 Twenty-fourth street, $3,750; Temple Abernathy, owner, and D. A. the citizenship and the activities and industries of all the people.

"Democracy stands between these detestable extremes. The United States stands before the world as a symbol of constitutional government and democratic institutions. They will resist aggression both from Fascism and from Communism. The United States is not going Fascist. The United States is not going Communistic.

Must Be Prepared

"While the United States and her people detest war and pray to the God of battles that we may never be engaged in armed conflict, yet President Roosevelt, the congress and the people of the United States realize that America must be prepared to defend itself against international outlaws and land-grabbing dictators.

"The United States is now preparing to build, over a period of years, a navy which, when completed, will be adequate to defend American soil from any lawless attack from without.

Can Be Resisted By Force

"As an apostle of peace, as a people devoted to idealism in international affairs, we sternly realize that those who disregard treaties, scorn the rights of other nations and peoples who lead their own lives, scorn the sovereignty of other governments, observe no code of international ethics or of international justice can be resisted successfully only by force, and by force alone.

"We, therefore, believe that in the true interest of peace and for the security of our people to live under free institutions and the processes of democracy, we must have a naval force, capable of destroying an enemy before he lands on our soil.

Involves No Ambition

"The building by the United States of an adequate navy involves no ambitions of conquest. It serves simply as a warning to arrogant, swash-buckling, defiant dictators and international outlaws, that in America we propose to live our own lives under the sanction of our own institutions and constitutional guarantees, and that we are prepared to defend those rights and our material resources and our resources of citizenship and democratic institutins against aggressors."

Conally reviewed government relief and other measures during the depression, declaring that as civilization becomes more complex there inevitably results a close relationship between business and government and a greater assertion of governmental authority and activity in matters of political and business economy.

Overflow Threats Subside In Major South Texas Streams

HOUSTON, April 27 (AP) — Overflow threats to South Texas subsided today as the major streams, flooded by recent heavy rains, stayed within their banks.

The Colorado river at Wharton was stationary and the Guadalupe at Victoria was below the serious overflow stage.

Countess Whose Mother Was American Weds Albanian King

TIRANA, Albania, April 27 (AP)—In a civil ceremony marked with mountaineer simplicity, Countess Geraldine Apponyi, whose mother was an American, became the first queen of the Albanians today when she was accepted in marriage by King Ahmed Zog.

A salvo of 101 guns, the tolling of church bells, and shouts of Mohammedan muezzins praying from minarets signalled the marriage. The ceremony was held in an atmosphere half Oriental, half Occidental.

Eerie Tales Are Related

deaths occurred, said he looked out of the window in time to see the dust clear and the Walters girl's body plummet out of the air.

"She must have fallen 10 or 15 feet after I saw her. I don't know how high she was thrown.

"She hit the ground running and crying. When I reached her, she sobbed:

Asked About Brother

"'Where's John?'"

Spruill said he took the girl into his house where he had covered his family with a blanket and lain on them during the storm. His young son notified Mack Walters.

Only after a search was the Walters boy found since it was on the opposite side of a terrace from the car. His heart continued to beat until he was taken home. George Walters evidently had died instantly.

The girl was treated at West Texas hospital in Lubbock. Walters, about 50, was reported suffering from shock at his home late early today. Mrs. Walters accompanied the girl to Lubbock.

Hail Started Falling

Sam Lewis, negro living on the Walters place, said hail had begun to fall when the three started for home. He had warned John to hurry home, he said.

"I heard roaring in the element and when I looked out the sand had turned everything dark. The right light on the car turned on, and I started running to it. George was dead when I got there and they had taken Johnny away."

Husband Is Saved

Mrs. Caswell was killed as a freak of fortune saved her husband.

Caswell said he had started into the house but had stopped to warn a neighbor that he would not be able to reach the storm cellar. When he turned to the door knob it was gone, so was the house. Mrs. Caswell's body had been hurled 250 yards in the splintered wreckage.

Bob Alexander, who had just driven into the Caswell yard when the storm hit, told of a wild ride with the wind. He said he held to the steering wheel until the car sumersaulted three times and did not know how he was extricated. The machine, a light sedan, was shorn to little more than the chassis.

Motor Blown 150 Yards

The motor of Caswell's light car was blown 150 yards from the house and the body 50 yards farther. The tornado passed over a tractor in its path, swooped down on the Caswell house, 50 feet away, then lifted over a junked truck.

Woodrow Brewer, son of W. E. Brewer of the Draw community, told of the twister taking every outhouse between their home and that of C. H. Tyler. The houses are back-to-back, 350 yards apart. Neither was touched.

Porch Carried Away

Front porch on the house of Houston Brewer, brother of Woodrow Brewer, on a corner of the section next to Caswell was blown away without damage to the house.

Allen Moore of the Draw community had been plowing previous to the tornado. On its approach, he ran to the house, leaving his tractor motor running, grabbed a child under each arm, left with his wife in pursuit, and looked back to see the house blown to bits.

A downpour of rain followed the strong wind leaving roads into most damaged communities flooded.

The road leading from Tahoka to the Draw community was covered with six to eight inches of water in places.

Rain hampered first aid parties 30 minutes after the tornado passed on.

Somber faces were noticeable in every group, as individuals pieced out stories of escape and near death to themselves. Many of them were homeless. They were cared for, however, in communities where they lived.

Complete destruction to buildings is shown in the case of a house owned by Bill Williams in the Draw community. Two "sucker rods" for windmills were only material left on the site of the house.

Only 10 feet of pipe could be found from a windmill blown down on the Spruill place.

So widespread was the damage no estimate could be ascertained on its extent. This was said to be second tornado of any importance on the South Plains. Another occurred near Ralls several years ago.

Only A Stove Standing

In the midst of the tornado-stricken area, a lone stove stood this morning where a residence was situated yesterday.

About it hovered a group of men, quietly sitting, awed by the tragedy that had stalked about them.

They unfolded a Morning Avalanche and one man read in a monotone to the others the first account they had received of extent of the storm.

The group of men had escaped personal injury, but they did not know who among their friends and relatives had been killed or injured. The scene was one of many filled with pathos that met the eye of visitors to the devastated area.

Shriners Day Is Planned

Program of a second annual South Plains Shrine day will include a parade, street stunts, dinner, and possibly a dance Thursday afternoon and night. Approximately 250 Nobles and women guests are expected.

All Shriners, irrespective of the temple they are affiliated with or whether they are "in good standing," are invited to attend, said L. D. Thomas, president of South Plains Shrine club.

Candidate For Ring

Proceedings will be enlivened by the ring campaign of N. W. "Bull" Durham, Memphis druggist who will arrive Thursday morning to begin his campaign. Thomas will conduct his publicity and otherwise manage his campaign.

The parade will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the dinner at 7:30 o'clock. The dance, if it is played, will begin directly after the dinner, said Thomas.

No ritual will be conducted, the spring ceremonial having been announced for May 24 at Amarillo.

H. S. Wilbur, Canadian banker and potentate of Khiva temple at Amarillo; Rolla V. Cartwright, past potentate, and J. S. Pittman, assistant recorder of Khiva temple, both of Amarillo, as well as members of the divan and of the patrol will attend.

Daily Output Is Increased

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., April 27—Increases in most of the major producing states gave the United States an average daily crude oil production of 3,427,898 barrels during the week ending April 23, an increase of 44,355 barrels daily over the week before, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

Oklahoma had a rise of 1,700 barrels daily for an average of 499,425. East Texas' increase was 1,053 barrels to 432,400 and the state of Texas increased 5,551 barrels to 1,339,551.

Louisiana declined 870 barrels to 262,485. California's production was up 9,150 barrels to 728,750 and Kansas jumped 31,975 barrels to 181,900.

Eastern states, including Michigan, had a decline of 226 barrels to 192,162. The Rocky Mountain section had a drop of 1,030 barrels to 64,030.

Mother And Children Drown As Car Plunges Off Bridge

PORT ARTHUR, April 27 (AP) — A mother and her two small children were drowned last night when the automobile in which they were riding plunged through an open bridge over a bayou connecting with the ship channel a few miles south of Port Arthur.

The dead are Mrs. R. P. McCoy, Groves; her three year old son, Mike, and her 10-year-old daughter, Doris, all of Groves, a Port Arthur suburb.

McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Holloway, of Port Neches, other occupants of the automobile, were thrown into the water but were pulled to safety.

Floydada Will Hold Banquet

FLOYDADA, April 27—Approximately 160 reservations have been made for tonight's annual banquet of Floydada Chamber of Commerce which already has been postponed twice. Andrews Ward school gymnasium will be the scene.

H. H. (Bill) Williamson, state director of the Texas Extension service, is to be the principal speaker. He is in Wichita Falls attending the West Texas chamber of commerce convention and will drive here Wednesday afternoon.

A number of towns over the South Plains have been invited to send delegations. Every community in Floyd county has been invited also.

Miss Ruth Grimes, the new home demonstration agent, will attend if she can make the trip. She is to report for work May 2.

MORTON IS GROWING

MORTON, (Special) — With four buildings now under construction, two just completed and some apartments just starting, Morton is still growing. Since the town was incorporated in 1934, population has doubled. The population is six times what it was in 1930.

Crete, Neb., boasts a lawn that resembles a zoo. V. J. Prucha of that town spends his spare time training red cedars to assume statuary forms in growth. His trees resemble dogs, peacocks, camels, elephants, eagles, horses, and rabbits.
