Q. — Why can't the old theatre at the park be cleaned up?

A. — City officials note they have repeatedly directed owners of the property to cleanup the site and that these requests have resulted in action by the property owner. No recent requests have been made, however.

Two killed

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas (AP) — A spurned suitor who allegedly went on a shooting rampage that left two people dead and four injured — including a 3-week-old infant — is jailed without bond today on capital murder charges, officials say.

Tael Boon, 41, of Mineral Wells forced his way into a Cambodian family's home Tuesday night and let loose a volley of 33 semi-automatic rifle shots, said Veva Ford, Stephens County justice of the peace.

Boon, also a Cambodian native, was arrested soon after at the scene, charged with capital murder and was in the Stephens County jail today, she said.

2 fires damage homes

Two Snyder residences sustained extensive fire damage Wednesday evening.

The first was the Val Lapin residence — a mobile home located in the 500 Block of 27th St.

Firemen were called to that scene at 5 p.m. after smoke was seen coming out of the home. Damage there was heaviest to the living room and east bedroom of the residence.

Owner of the mobile home was listed as Albert Garcia.

The second blaze was reported at 8:05 p.m. in the 2000 Block of Ave. T.

Heavily damaged there was a small frame house owned by Robert Vera.

No injuries were reported to either firemen or residents in either fire.

HOUSE DAMAGED — Snyder firemen are pictured battling the fire which did extensive damage to the Robert Vera residence at 2000 Ave. T just after 8 p.m. Wednesday. It was one of two structural fires prompting fire calls in the city within a three-hour period. (SDN Staff Photo)

Two travel to state UIL

Two Snyder High School students will travel to state UIL competition in Austin beginning Thursday for literary contests.

Richard Lack won first at regional in the prose interpretation contest. In addition, Kirsten Miller is an alternate at state after winning fourth at regional in poetry interpretation.

City appointments gain judicial okay

A go-ahead for the appointment of two individuals to the Snyder city council has been received from U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward of Lubbock.

Woodward has granted an agreed order which clears the way for the appointments. Earlier, Woodward had granted an injunction request which prohibits further additions to the council until the lawsuit is settled which challenges the city's method of electing council members.

In his recent ruling, Woodward writes "(the court finds) the

WTC slates graduation rites

Western Texas College has scheduled commencement exercises for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Central Courtyard on campus. The public is invited to attend.

R.C. Patton, president of the WTC board of trustees, will give the welcome for the evening's program. Dr. Harry Krenek, interim chief executive officer, will introduce special guests.

Presentation of degrees and certificates will be made by Bettie McQueen, interim dean of education.

A group of honor graduates will deliver tributes and challenges, with a faculty response given by Ray Robbins, professor of law enforcement.

The Rev. David Harr, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, will give the invocation, and Rev. Sean Sweeney, pastor of Saint Elizabeth's Catholic Church, will give the benediction.

Processional and recessional music will be played by Jane Womack, assistant professor of music, on the carillon. Members of the campus chapter of Phi Theta Kappa will serve as ushers.

If unfavorable weather is present, the commencement program will be held in Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School.

Storm brews rainfall, hail

A spring storm provided some .70 of-an-inch of rain for the Snyder area Wednesday evening, a cloudburst which also dropped pea and marble-sized hail over large areas of the city.

There was an unconfirmed report of a funnel cloud reported to the police station shortly after 8 p.m., but it was not verified by either radar or local weather watchers.

The National Weather Service in Abilene also reported golf ball-sized hail in Scurry County and an indication that a roof was blown from a garage here.

Local law enforcement officials could not confirm the report Thursday morning, however. Wind gusts were reportedly clocked here at 8:20 p.m. at up to 52 mph.

Direct marketing by mail has become a multi-million dollar business. Daily, mail boxes are filled with third-class bulk mail pieces--each offering to sell something.

In the age of computers, such an approach to selling has its appeal because the seller can literally target his audience.

If you want your message to go to only college graduates over the age of 50, married, with two kids, who makes in excess of $30,000 per year and who is white protestant, then the computer has made that task easy.

There are drawbacks, however. Since so many folks have jumped onto the direct mail band wagon, the sheer volume of mail has caused much of it to be tossed into the circular file unopened.

A response of five percent would be considered terrific. Experts say two or three percent response is more likely from a direct-mail piece.

Because of the problem, much research is being done to make the "junk mail" item not look like direct mail. Just recently we received one of those instant winner deals.

Rather than looking like a come on to buy magazines or look at lakeside property, it looked like an unfriendly letter from the IRS.

Everybody opens letters from the IRS, so we tore into the envelope only to find an offer for a free TV--maybe a car--if only we would take a tour and listen to an hour sales pitch.

We were so relieved it wasn't from the IRS--we almost decided to celebrate and take a weekend trip to pick up the TV. Then we figured we'd just have to declare the winnings next year, and then we would get a real IRS brown envelope.

Guys with an idea to make a buck never quit trying. The art community is up in arms about two men who bought a signed Picasso print for $10,000.

The pair decided to cut the print into 500 pieces and sell them for $135 each by mail order. If it works, the pair will make a pretty nifty profit--despite the postage.

Paraplegic beaten here

A 25-year-old Snyder paraplegic was treated and released from Cogdell Memorial Hospital after he was apparently beaten and robbed Wednesday night.

Sheriff's investigators said Juan Hermosillo of 708 30th St. — who is paralysed from the waist down — was found lying in the ditch beside the Ennis Creek Road about 1 mile north of Huffman Ave. around 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Investigators report Hermosillo was apparently struck in the back of the head with a blunt instrument and dumped from a vehicle prior to his being found.

An undetermined amount of cash — estimated in excess of $200 — is thought to have been taken from his wallet.

Investigation of the incident was continuing.

Lawmen dispute Mattox's conclusions

AUSTIN (AP) — Law enforcement officials say they see little new information in a report from Attorney General Jim Mattox on numerous bogus confessions given lawmen by convicted killer Henry Lee Lucas.

Mattox on Wednesday released results of a year-long investigation, concluding that because law officers accepted dozens of phony confessions, cases wrongly have been closed and murderers remain free.

"There are murderers walking the streets today where evidence is getting much colder as a result of the unprofessional handling of the Lucas matter," Mattox said.

"Lucas was able to perpetrate a hoax on the criminal justice system. There were a very large number of the murders that were attributed to him — and that he confessed to — that he could not have committed," Mattox said.

He said that except for three cases, "there is a notable lack of physical evidence" to back up Lucas' confessions.

Lucas, a one-eyed drifter now on Texas' Death Row, once had confessed to more than 360 slayings. He since has recanted all but three, saying his repeated confessions were made to prove law enforcement inept.

"We have found information that would lead us to believe that some officials 'cleared cases' just to get them off the books," Mattox said.

However, he said, "We have found no evidence to prove that any members of law enforcement in Texas deliberately tried to bring about this scheme of deception."

Col. Jim Adams, head of the Department of Public Safety, said he knows of no case where murderers are free only because of a Lucas confession.

"There's no basis to any statement that killers are still running free because Lucas claimed he murdered someone. The killers are running free — if any are — because there has never been any evidence pointing to them or it has not been sufficient to bring charges," Adams said.

Adams said authorities were aware that Lucas lied when making some confessions and that proper precautions were taken. He noted that Lucas has been convicted in several cases and said Lucas remains a legitimate prime suspect in more than two dozen killings.

"Lucas has been convicted in 10 cases, receiving one death sentence, six life sentences, two 75-year sentences and one 60-year sentence, and there are prosecutions pending in 26 cases," Adams said.

"Little effort appears to have been made to explore and report on those many cases where the investigative agency involved still believes Lucas to be a prime suspect," he said.

Adams said the Texas Rangers assigned to the special Lucas task force repeatedly informed other officers that Lucas would lie.

"In my opinion, the task force, recognizing he was making some false confessions, did do something about it. They tried to make sure the police agencies involved were aware of it," Adams said.

Ed Walsh, the former Williamson County district attorney now seeking the Republican nomination to run against Mattox, attended Mattox's news conference. He challenged the Democratic attorney general's assessment.

As a prosecutor, Walsh obtained the only death sentence given to Lucas, in the 1979 slaying of an unidentified female hitchhiker near Georgetown.

Calling Mattox's news conference "a circus," Walsh said that if Mattox truly was concerned about certain cases, he should have dealt with prosecutors and law officers, not summoned the news media.

"Jim Mattox has given law enforcement a black eye and attacked the criminal justice system. He has indicted the law enforcement system of Texas as being a bunch of bunglers. We have an attorney general who does not want to play by the rules," Walsh said.

Mattox said it is impossible to know how many killings Lucas committed. But he said many cases should be reopened.

"I urge any jurisdiction with a case in which Henry Lee Lucas is a suspect to polygraph Lucas or conduct a sodium pentothal examination.

Dear Abby

Prospective Pet Owners Must Measure Up on Humane Scale

By Abigail Van Buren

1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I felt terrible when I read the letter from "Feeling Bad in Birmingham" (state unknown). She took her daughters, ages 2 and 5, to the Humane Society to adopt a kitten, and the people there wouldn't let her have it because the kitten cost $45 and she was $1.22 short! You called them insensitive and petty, and you were right.

Abby, I work at a Humane Society in Newport News, Va., and we certainly don't operate that way. We're not out for the money — we just want to make sure our pets are placed in good homes. We don't just let anybody who comes in off the street adopt one of our pets. They have to meet our requirements.

I'm sorry the Humane Society in Birmingham disappointed those people just because they were a little short. Everyone who works here is a true animal lover. We buy special treats and toys for the animals with our own money. We also make sure they get plenty of love and exercise while they're here.

Bless you, Abby, for offering to send the $1.22 to close the deal. Please let us know what happened.

LIZ LEVINE, ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR LIZ: Nothing happened because "Feeling Bad" did not include her name and address. I appreciate your generosity, but before you rush in to bless me, please read on:

DEAR ABBY: I nearly choked on my fur ball when I read your response to "Feeling Bad in Birmingham" — the woman who was upset with the Humane Society because she was $1.22 short in meeting the adoption fee for a kitten. You called the people at the Humane Society "insensitive and petty" for not giving her the kitten anyway.

[Abby, there may have been other reasons the adoption was denied.]

First of all, the mother said her daughters had just left the dentist's office "feeling glum" and she wanted to get them a pet to cheer them up. Pets are living creatures — not toys to be bought on an impulse to cheer up a child. Also, the children were 2 and 5. At our shelter we don't even consider adoption of small puppies and kittens to children under 6 years old. We've seen too many cases of pets (and children) being seriously injured.

Third, how were the people at the Humane Society to know whether the family could afford to care properly for the pet if they couldn't come up with the price of adoption? We've had pets returned to us because they were too expensive to care for. Some people don't realize that sick animals may need to be taken to the vet. And it costs something to feed them properly. Abby, put your claws back in. Give shelter workers some credit for knowing their job, and some thanks for being there to accept the responsibility of a heartbreaking job not too many of us would be willing to assume.

JANETTE BOEHM, HUMANE SOCIETY, KANSAS CITY, KAN.

DEAR ABBY: For a columnist who is usually fairly objective, you reinforced the popular stereotype of the chess player as an intellectual freak. You made the sweeping generalization that most chess players are "quiet, pensive, more introverted than extroverted, highly competitive, and slow to make decisions." Then you cap it with, "And they're not exactly a barrel of laughs!" That's like saying most sports fans are aggressive, beer guzzling loudmouths.

This may come as a shock to you, Abby, but chess is enjoyed by college professors, farmers, factory laborers, artists, doctors, lawyers, children, salesmen and people on welfare!

I think you owe chess players an apology.

CHESS PLAYER

DEAR CHESS PLAYER: Give me a break. In the last month I've managed to alienate the Texas oil tycoons, smokers, the American Donkey and Mule Society, Alaska, Canada and the Mormon Church. My apologies.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This may help a lot of young and old people get their high school diplomas (including me).

On June 7, 1985, my aunt, who lives in Wilbur, Wash., received her high school diploma. It was also her 85th birthday.

D. FOGARTY, CONNELL, WASH.

DEAR D.: Wonderful! If anyone says he's "too old" to go back to school, show him this.

In 1982, the U.S. government accused the Soviet Union of killing at least 3,000 persons in Afghanistan with poison gas and other chemical weapons.

It won't run away

By James Jacoby

West wasn't entirely sure that he could beat five clubs, but holding a minimum flat hand, he certainly didn't want his partner to bid five hearts. He led the queen of hearts, won by dummy's ace. The king of clubs was ducked all around, and declarer next played a club to his nine. West took the ace and played another club. South won in his hand, ruffed a heart in dummy and played the queen of diamonds. When West won the king of diamonds, he then played the spade ace to beat the contract only one trick. What went wrong?

Although it is not always true, there is a saying in this game that aces are meant to take kings. When you beat the air with an ace, you are not using it to maximum advantage. In defending today's hand, West should grab the ace of spades quickly only if declarer was short in spades, since they would be shed on dummy's long diamond suit. But West could well reason that his partner held five hearts for his raise to the four level without much in high cards. And West already knew that South held only four clubs originally. South therefore had to have length in both diamonds and spades. If that was true, eventually declarer would have to play the spade suit himself. It was therefore silly for West to impulsively lay down the ace. By patiently waiting, the defenders would collect 500 for a two-trick set. That would not fully compensate for their being deprived of a vulnerable heart game, but it would take away a bit of the pain.

Correcting a dropped bladder

DEAR DR. GOTT — The doctor says my bladder has dropped, but doesn't want to do anything about it yet. When the time comes, should I have surgery or should I have a ring inserted?

DEAR READER — A "dropped bladder" is common in older women who have had children. It can cause poor control of urine-flow, primarily incontinence. If you are experiencing difficulty, a gynecologist may advise surgery to resuspend the bladder in a more normal position. Some doctors use rings or pessaries, rather than surgery, for this purpose. I think the best approach in your case would be to obtain an opinion from a doctor whose judgment you trust. Either option may be appropriate for you, as may a leave-it-alone attitude.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Please settle an argument. A male member of my family says you can only be an alcoholic if you drink something that is 86 proof, such as vodka or whiskey. I tell him that beer and wine are just as bad. What do you think?

DEAR READER — I think you're right. Alcohol is alcohol; it does as much damage in the form of "light" beer as it does in the form of "white lightning," a virtually 100-percent alcohol beverage.

Alcoholism is a disease of denial; it's a disease that tells its victim that no problem exists. One of the alcoholic's favorite ploys is "controlled drinking," this may include substituting beer and wine for hard stuff. The chemical and health results are the same in a wine-alcoholic as they are in a patient addicted to liquor.

I hope the male member of your family is holding an opinion based on ignorance, rather than taking a position that sounds like a justification for continued drinking. Show him my response to your question; his reaction may tell you a lot.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Several years ago my grandmother got "sinus tablets." The prescription can be refilled whenever she wants and the doctor never checks to see if the pills are doing her any good. Could they be hurting her?

DEAR READER — Possibly. In my opinion, any patient on a prescription medication should be checked periodically. In my view, a doctor who fails to insist on regular followups is not a good physician. Frankly, I'm surprised that the pharmacist doesn't refuse to fill the prescription every year. In my experience, most reputable druggists require that the physician renew a long-term prescription annually.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a terrible allergic reaction to my sister-in-law's cats. Three days later I came down with a very bad arthritis attack that lasted two-and-a-half months. Could the allergic reaction have triggered this?

DEAR READER — Although the sequence of events you describe is possible, it would be very unusual. Many forms of arthritis appear to be caused by an auto-immune phenomenon; people seem to become allergic to their own tissues. Cross-reaction is an unlikely cause of your problem. Nonetheless, I cannot dismiss the relation out of hand. Allergies can provoke mysterious reactions.

Western competes for national berth at Tarleton Rodeo

STEPHENVILLE -- Western Texas College in the position to send both its men's and women's teams to the College National Finals Rodeo but they'll need some success - or some breaks - here this weekend.

Tarleton State University is holding the final Southwest Region NIRA rodeo of the season beginning tonight at 7:30. The rodeo continues nightly through Saturday with the finals slated for 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Western is currently in first place in the women's division and second place in the men's division. First and second place teams in the Southwest Region advance to the CNFR in June at Bozeman, Mont.

"The kids are ready to compete. Everybody we have on the teams is in pretty good condition," said Coach Bob Doty this morning.

Any number of college students can compete in the rodeo, but teams are designated - six to a men's team and three to a women's team. Only designated competitors can accumulate points for the team.

Western's men's team will be made up of Mike Carrillo, Tony Hecksher, Bliss Mayhan, Keith Hudson, Donnie Yorks and Paul Yorks. Its women's squad is Mistri Davis, Niki Moist and Shelly Eldridge.

"We've had some injuries but I think I have enough depth to be able to pick the teams. Hopefully we'll have some breaks and draw good," said Doty.

Western's women lead their division by a scant 10 points over Howard College, 690 to 680. Tarleton is third with 605 points. Total points are figured by adding each school's best five rodeos of the season. To improve on total points, a school must score higher than their lowest of the top five rodeos. For Western, that is 110; for Howard, 100.

Howard, for instance, would have to seore 100, plus the 10 they trail Western by, to tie for first place - providing, of course, that Western does not score above 110.

Tarleton leads the men's race with 1,510.83. Western is second with 1,425, followed by Odessa with 1,237.5 and Sul Ross State University with 1,176.66.

Western needs 336 points to over take Tarleton while Odessa needs 368 to overtake Western.

"Odessa hasn't scored that many points all season (355 is their best) but that doesn't mean they aren't capable," said Coach Doty. "We need to score over 250 points (WTC's lowest of the top five) and make it harder on them. We'd really like to catch Tarleton."

TCU not expected to appeal penalties

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas Christian University probably won't appeal the penalties that the NCAA has assessed against its football program, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

No official announcement outlining the penalties or the school's response was made Wednesday, but a TCU press conference is expected to be scheduled for Friday, the newspaper said.

The penalties had been adjusted somewhat from those previously discussed between TCU officials and the NCAA's Committee on Infractions, an unidentified source told the Star-Telegram.

But TCU officials disagree as to the public response they will make. Indications are that the adjustments were insignificant and that TCU sees the penalties as too harsh in light of its self-disclosure and self-disciplinary measures.

The investigation began after coach Jim Wacker permanently suspended seven players when he learned last September they had been taking illegal cash payments from boosters and had been illegally recruited.

Five were key figures, including All-America running back Kenneth Davis.

Previous reports said the original penalties involved a ban on television and bowl appearances for one year, a loss of 35 scholarships over a two-year period and a three-year probation.

The television ban could cost the school more than $340,000 based on last year's shared revenue in the Southwest Conference.

Ricky Peele of the Raycom Network, which has the rights to SWC football games, said Wednesday TCU was not included on the 1986 Raycom TV schedule on orders from the NCAA and the SWC. That schedule is to be finalized at the SWC spring meetings later this month.

"About a week ago, the NCAA called and said to leave TCU off the schedule in football," said Peele, who works in the network's programming department. "I've seen the final schedule and TCU is not on it."

SWC Commissioner Fred Jacoby said, "We're just trying to cover all eventualities."

TCU has 15 days to appeal the NCAA's decision.

Paul Pressey leads the way...

Milwaukee holds off 76ers, 113-108

By JEFF MAYERS
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP)—For the first time in the Eastern Conference semifinal playoff between Milwaukee and Philadelphia, the Bucks won without all-star guard Sidney Moncrief.

"That's a real confidence booster," Milwaukee forward Terry Cummings said after the Bucks defeated the 76ers 113-108 Wednesday night to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven NBA series. "We are on a roll right now and things are going our way."

Credit Bucks' 6-foot-5 swingman Paul Pressey, who took Moncrief's place in the backcourt and finished with 23 points, 16 assists and 10 rebounds, with the major share of the victory.

"I tried to be aggressive and take the ball to the basket," said Pressey, who scored 13 of his points in the fourth quarter. "It is my job to control the ball and share it with my teammates."

"He made a couple of incredible shots on the drive and got fouled," Philadelphia Coach Matt Guokas said of Pressey. "He took care of the ball, where as in the two games we won, he did not."

The Western Conference semifinals resume tonight with the Los Angeles Lakers at Dallas and Houston at Denver. In both games, the home team trails the best-of-seven series 3-2.

Boston beat Atlanta 132-99 with a 36-6 third period on Tuesday night to win that series 4-1. The Celtics will meet the winner of the Philadelphia-Milwaukee series in the Eastern Conference finals.

Game 6 is scheduled to be played in Philadelphia on Friday, with Game 7, if needed, in Milwaukee on Sunday.

"We can't count on the Bucks folding down the stretch anymore," Philadelphia guard Julius Erving said. "Whatever their problem was, they solved it."

Lakers-Mavericks

Dallas, which won a pair of two-point games at home in Games 3 and 4, returns to Reunion Arena determined to stay alive against defending champion Los Angeles.

"Maybe the homecourt advantage means that extra two to three points," Dallas center James Donaldson said. "It's certainly been the case so far. It'll be interesting to see what happens in Dallas."

"It will be difficult down there in Dallas," Lakers guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson said. "We did well there and made the games close, and this time, we hope to come out on the winning end."

Rockets-Nuggets

Denver hopes its history of playing well under adversity comes into play again in its series with Houston.

The Rockets outscored Denver 40-20 in the second quarter and went on to win Tuesday's game 131-103, but the Nuggets don't appear to have lost their confidence.

"That's the funny thing about this team," Nuggets Coach Doug Moe said. "We get killed, and we come back and play well. It has happened time and again. Losing by a big margin seems to make us play better the next game."

To come back against the Rockets, however, Denver will have to find a way to counteract Houston's Twin Towers front line of Akeem Olajuwon and Ralph Sampson.

The 7-foot Olajuwon had 36 points and 19 rebounds and Sampson 33 points and 17 rebounds in Game 4.

Mavericks hope to deadlock series with Lakers tonight

DALLAS, Texas (AP) - If the Los Angeles Lakers can silence the talky Dallas Mavericks tonight in raucus Reunion Arena, they'll be one step closer to overcoming the defending NBA champion jinx.

The Lakers own a 3-2 edge in their best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series. The current world champions are trying to become the first team since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics to successfully defend the title.

It hasn't been easy for the Lakers in Reunion. The 17,007 fans are among the loudest in the NBA and inspire the Mavs to exceptional shooting nights.

The Mavs, whose two playoff victories against the Lakers came at home, shot 74 per cent in the first quarter and tied an NBA record with 45 points in a victory Sunday.

"The homecourt advantage means two or three points," said the Mavs' James Donaldson. "We hope so."

Dallas Coach Dick Motta didn't let up on his war of words with the Lakers even after a 116-113 loss in Game 5 on Tuesday night, claiming the Mavs were outhustling the Lakers.

He said he wasn't "playing head games" when he said: "The series should be 4-1 right now in our favor."

Motta has claimed the Lakers are destined to succumb to the defending champion pox and added "We might as well be the team who beats them. Somebody will."

However, all the psychological warfare in the world won't help if the Mavs miss 13 free throws like they did Tuesday night.

"We just didn't hit our free throws. Period," Motta said.

Lakers' Coach Pat Riley used his own needle.

Riley said "I noticed the ball started getting heavy on the Mavericks on the free throw line. It's going to get heavier."

Motta now has an 0-16 career record in playoff games against the Lakers in the Forum

Mark Aguirre, who hit 3-of-6 free throws, said the missed free throws spread through the whole team.

"It just gets contagious missing free throws," he said. "It gets in your head."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers Tuesday night with 34 points, including a crucial hook shot with nine seconds remaining. He missed a hook shot at the buzzer which would have tied the game last Sunday in Dallas.

"He's the 'Captain,' and when the going got tough, he rose to the occasion," Riley said.

The Mavericks worked hard on their free throw shooting on Wednesday.

If the Mavericks win Thursday night, the series will switch back to the Forum on Saturday afternoon for Game 7.

If the Lakers win, they'll await the outcome of the Houston-Denver series to determine the opponent for the Western Conference championship.

In 1946, in a college football game, Citadel gained only 22 yards against Davidson but still won the game.

Despite recent draft...

Oilers' Moon still confident

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston quarterback Warren Moon has heard trade rumors and seen the Oilers draft Purdue quarterback Jim Everett in the first round of the NFL draft.

But he still places himself in the starting position with no dents in his confidence.

"I don't care who they bring in," Moon said. "They could bring in (Miami quarterback) Dan Marino or any quarterback they want, and I'd still feel like he'd have a hard time beating me out."

Moon resumed workouts at the Oiler facility Tuesday after trips to Hawaii, Los Angeles and Dallas. Moon left town thinking the Oilers were going to trade away their first-round pick and not take Everett.

"I probably should have tried to track Warren down to tell him that we'd decided to take Everett," Coach Jerry Glanville said. "We talked to a lot of teams and we didn't decide until late Monday night that we were going to take Everett."

Moon acknowleged he's heard trade rumors involving the Los Angeles Raiders and Seattle Seahawks.

"The Raiders are one of the teams I considered when I left Canada, but I chose to come to Houston," Moon said. "I hope the Oilers still want me, but every player is expendable.

"Ladd (Herzeg, general manager) told me it had nothing to do with me or the job I've done, and I've got to take him at his word."

Moon is in the third year of a five-year contract that pays him $1.1 million per year. Moon's first two seasons have not measured up to his expectations, but he's anticipating a good season.

"I've been working harder this off-season than I ever have," Moon said. "Taking a quarterback in the first round pushes you, but it doesn't make me any more fired up, because I was fired up before the draft.

"I feel like this is the year for me to do it, and it's time for us to make our mark around the league."

Most of the marks the Oilers have made in the past two seasons have been negative.

The Oiler defense has ranked 27th in total defense the past two seasons, and Oiler quarterbacks suffered 58 sacks last season.

Moon says youth has kept the Oilers from opening up their offense and using his abilities to the fullest.

"I've been kind of handcuffed. But you have to do those things until your team is ready and mature enough to open it up," Moon said.

"I think we will use my athletic abilities a little more this year, like getting me outside the pocket and forcing things to happen, a lot the way Denver is doing with John Elway."

Moon thinks the addition of Everett will help the Oilers improve on last season's 5-11 record.

"The good teams have two quarerbacks who can start in this league," Moon said. "When you draft a guy No. 3 overall, I would hope you believe he is good enough to start right away.

"If something happened to me, I'd hope Everett would be able to start and help this football team."

January, Littler pace field for Benson-Hedges tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Defending champion Don January and last week's Seniors tour winner Gene Littler will square off against 52 other professionals this weekend in the Benson & Hedges Invitational tournament.

All the big names in golfing on the senior tour will be playing for the $250,000 purse. First prize is $37,500, exceeding last year's first place by $7,500.

Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Miller Barber, Billy Casper and Orville Moody will be among the competitors. Also on the list is Seniors top money-winner Dale Douglass, who has earned $101,266 on the tour this year.

Second place Charles Owens, who has won $97,264, and third place Lee Elder with $95,964 also will compete.

January, who was Senior PGA Champion of 1985, won the Legends of Golf Tournament in Austin two weeks ago with Littler.

Littler captured the top prize last weekend in Albuquerque, N.M., in the Charley Pride Senior Golf Classic.

This year marks the second Benson & Hedges Invitational, held at the Dominion Country Club northwest of San Antonio. Competition in the 54-hole event begins Friday, sharing the first day with a pro-am tournament that was to begin today.

The Senior PGA Tour, which began in 1980, will host 30 events and pay out more than $6 million in prize money this year. The senior tour is for professional golfers at least 50 years old.

Two local restaurants offer special event

Two restaurants in Snyder have joined together to offer area mothers a special treat for Mother's Day.

The Shack presents "Just Right For Mom," a Snyder Showcase feature Friday at the Willow Park Inn. A candlelight steak dinner will be served at 7 p.m. and entertainment will begin at 7:30 p.m. Local talent to be featured include Cindy Hataway, Darrell Collins, the Praise Singers and Kay Hopper.

Seating is by reservation only and the event will be limited to 135 couples. However, groups are also welcome.

The cost is $25 per couple and reservations will be taken until 1 p.m. Friday.

Randy Perkins of the Shack said that the intent was to do a show that would showoff the local talent and give people from the surrounding area a chance to come to Snyder and see what is available in the way of entertainment. He said they wanted to show "a positive image of Snyder."

A series of gubernatorial elections will be held this summer and fall, some in states where the main opposition party, National Action, has shown strength in the past.

The agreed order was filed by both plaintiffs and defendants in the lawsuit which challenges the at-large method of voting.

Such a filing indicates no objection to the appointment process by plaintiffs in the case, which includes eight individuals filing the suit in conjunction with the San Antonio-based Southwest Voter Registration Education Project (SVREP).

Two vacancies have recently occurred on the council with the resignations of Mickey Nunley for place 2 and Truett Bryan for place 5.

Nuclear fire still smoldering

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper acknowledged today that a fire still was smoldering at the Chernobyl nuclear plant, 12 days after an explosion triggered a devastating accident. The official Yugoslav news agency said a third person died this morning as a result of the disaster.

Tanjug, the news agency, said a Soviet citizen died this morning in a Kiev hospital. Soviet officials have said two people died and 204 were injured.

In an editorial today, the government newspaper Izvestia lauded the bravery of those who "in conditions of risk are eliminating the consequences of the accident, who are extinguishing the still smoldering embers of this fire."

Until the Izvestia report, Soviet officials had not said whether the plant was still burning. Authorities have said a chemical explosion was probably responsible for the April 26 fire and resulting core meltdown of the No. 4 reactor at the plant 80 miles north of Kiev.

A senior Western diplomat in Moscow said today the town of Chernobyl apparently was not evacuated until at least seven days after the explosion. The town, which is about 12 miles from the power plant, has an estimated 30,000 residents.

"I don't think evacuation was ordered until after the premier (Nikolai I. Ryzhkov) visited" the plant on May 2, said the diplomat, who spoke on the condition of anonymity. "Our information is that at least in that town the evacuation was still going on two days ago."

Soviet authorities have said about 49,000 people from four settlements around the plant were evacuated. Officials said Tuesday that some 25,000 residents were removed from Pripyat more than 36 hours after the disaster. They have not identified the other communities from which people were evacuated.

In related developments:

—The head of the West German Atomic Forum, Thomas Roser, said a Soviet representative had sought information on how to prevent a "hot molten mass" from melting through the concrete foundation of a reactor building. West German nuclear scientists said they believe the radioactive core may be melting through the plant's floor.

—The daily newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya confirmed for the first time that the blaze that engulfed the reactor after a nonnuclear explosion on April 26 had spread to the roof of the building housing the No. 3 reactor. The paper did not say when the flames spread, or give any other details beyond saying that firefighters were able to extinguish the blaze on the roof. According to the newspaper, 17 firemen were injured as they worked in intense heat.

—The U.S. Embassy in Moscow said Wednesday that independent tests of radiation levels in the soil and air show there is no cause for concern in the Soviet capital.

3 minor traffic mishaps reported

Three minor traffic accidents were reported in Snyder Wednesday.

Involved in the first — reported at 3:52 p.m. in the 1400 Block of 26th St. — was a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Joel Patrick Smith of Rt. 1, Snyder which struck a parked 1984 Oldsmobile owned by Pat Mayo of 304 36th St.

The second accident was reported at 6:40 p.m. at the intersection of Eastridge Dr. and the Brick Plant Road.

Involved in it were a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Dana Kay Pennington of Ira and a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Clifton William Miller of Snyder.

A 1978 International tractor-trailer rig overturned on U.S. Highway 84 about one mile west of the College Ave. interchange at 8:19 p.m.

Driver of the truck — Glenn Eugene Burt of Waco — told police that high winds caused him to lose control of the truck which veered into the highway median and overturned.

Neither Burt nor any of the other drivers in Wednesday's accident were injured.

Auto damaged police report

Police are investigating a misdemeanor criminal mischief complaint filed Wednesday morning.

Ann Wright of 3000 Denison Ave. reported at 10:37 a.m. that the rear window louvers on her 1984 Chevrolet had been damaged sometime over night Tuesday.

Value of damage to the Wright car was estimated at $240.

City officers also took a stolen bicycle report Wednesday.

Eddie Whitehead of 215 36th Pl. called police at 8:14 p.m.

He told officers a 10-speed bicycle had been taken from outside his residence sometime during the day.

In other action, police jailed three misdemeanor offenders Wednesday including three for public intoxication and one for driving with a suspended license.

Soviets said to ask for huge food sale

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has asked the Common Market to sell it a huge amount of food because radiation has contaminated crops and cattle in the Ukraine, a British member of the European Parliament said today.

Richard Cottrell, a Conservative member of the European body, said in an interview with British Broadcasting Corp. radio the request was related to the nuclear disaster at Chernobyl.

Cottrell said the Soviets went through diplomatic channels to the Common Market headquarters in Brussels asking to buy "substantial quantities of surplus community (Common Market) food, including grain, butter, beef and skimmed milk powder.

"All these commodities would be purchased far in excess of the relatively modest amounts, in comparison, which we've sold to the Soviet Union in recent years," he said.

Cottrell did not disclose the source of his information. The British Foreign Office said it had no word about the reported Soviet request.

"The Ukraine is the breadbasket of the Soviet Union," Cottrell said. "There's no doubt that crops and indeed cattle have been contaminated by radioactive fallout.

Cottrell said the Soviets normally do not approach the Common Market headquarters in Brussels about buying food surpluses, and instead deal with food brokers in Paris.

The accident already has caused prices to rise on world commodity markets in anticipation of agricultural problems in the Soviet Union.

New negotiations

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A fresh round of negotiations for a new minimum wage was scheduled to resume Wednesday, the head of the National Minimum Wage Commission said.

Representatives of labor and business were set to meet again Tuesday but that session was put off for a day, said commission president Javier Bonilla Garcia.

Labor leaders are demanding a 35-percent pay hike so that their members can keep pace with the nation's soaring inflation rate.

Uses of resources must be limited Herzog says

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Treasury Secretary Jesus Silva Herzog said the Latin American economies were in a "deep state of deterioration" and their governments must limit the way they use their resources.

"It will not be possible to do all what we want but only what we can," he told a meeting of the Latin American Association of Financial Institutions for Development.

The economic crunch, he said, "forces us to channel the resources with a very strict sense of priorities. In these circumstances, it is not possible to indiscriminately satisfy all the needs."

At $97.6 billion, Mexico has the second highest foreign debt in the developing world after Brazil.

Its economy is expected to slip into a fresh recession this year, partly because of the sharp decline in prices on the international oil market. Government officials project that Mexico will lose an estimated $7 billion in oil revenues this year. It gained $13.3 billion in 1985.

Bill Burnett of Arkansas scored at least one touchdown in 23 consecutive games from Oct. 5, 1968, to Oct. 31, 1970. In all he scored 47 times during that period.
