'Harvey' Hops Into Playhouse

By LOUISE TAYLOR

With apprehension and some anxiety, I entered the Colorado City Playhouse for the opening night of "Harvey" and took my seat. It was the first time I had been to the Playhouse and I felt my nerves twitching a mite as I watched the few remaining seats being filled. And then the moment arrived...the play began. "Harvey" is a classical comedy about a man named Elwood P. Dowd and his rabbit, Kent Womack, well known to the Playhouse, portrays Dowd. Dowd's sister, Veta Simmons is played by Marie Jackson, another well known

Solar energy—a thing of the future or a reality of the here and now?

For Dr. Billy Bruce Bridgford, solar energy has become a reality with the construction of Mitchell County's first solar energy home.

Bridgford has been aware of solar energy since early childhood when his father designed a system to heat water in a mountain cabin in Colorado.

"I got the idea for a solar heating system when I decided to add on to my home," he said.

"With utilities threatening to double or triple within the coming year, I decided it would be a very practical thing to try," Bridgford commented.

"I knew about storm windows and insulation and borrowed the hot water idea from the mountain cabin my dad had," he said.

He explained he had studied the concept as he explored the realm of possibility of building an energy system, then he drew up a design.

"It all works on the premise that heat will rise," he stated. "I had an architect come in and design the addition to the house with the solar panels included," he said.

Basically, this design includes extra overhang on the roof, a 25 foot ceiling, wall-to-wall windows, dark stained concrete floors, a wood-burning fireplace, complete insulation, and four solar panels.

Bridgford stated the structure of the solar system begins with the additional room functioning as a passive solar collector.

The room is completely open with a 25 foot ceiling. The walls are six inches thick with large expanses of glass windows. The room measures 35 by 39 feet and converts the living area in the house from 2,200 square feet to 4,400 square feet.

The roof is designed with maximum overhang, allowing the sun to come in during the winter months when the sun is low and shadowing the glass in the summer when the sun is high.

By opening windows in the high ceiling and at floor level circulation is continual.

Dark concrete floors retain the days heat or cool. Four fiberglass solar panels three inches thick covering 128 square feet of space strategically placed on the roof. An average of one square foot of collector will heat one gallon of water on a bad day or two gallons on a good day, he said.

Bridgford indicated there is always some heat even on cloudy days.

Copper tubing runs from the solar collectors down to a 250 gallon storage tank buried two feet under ground and insulated with four inches of sprayed foam.

Two pumps circulate the water in a continual flow from the collectors, to the tank, to the fireplace, to the hot water heater or heating units.

These units work like car heaters, according to Bridgford. A fan is turned on for circulation and the hot water flows in front of the forced air. The fans work off separate thermostats.

Bridgford maintains the water in his hot water heater at about See SOLAR Page 8

County Commissioners Study Budget Revenues, Expenses

"Gentlemen, have you had any feedback?" Judge Bill Carter asked County Commissioners during Thursday's budget workshop, the third in a series.

The proposed budget for 1980 includes $1,331,485 in expenditures and only $978,700 in revenue, leaving a deficit $352,785. This deficit can be cut $160,000 by utilizing projected interest from invested funds, leaving a deficit of $192,785, Carter stated.

Because taxes can not be increased until the Board of Equalization convenes in July 1980, Commissioners are considering possible cuts in expenses in order to eliminate the deficit.

"Every department needs to do a good job for the people but if you don't have the money, you have to do the best you can with what you do have," Commissioner Marc Vest commented.

"It's not the need, we all know we have the need. It's the situation," Commissioner Johnny Shackelford stated.

Expenses are being considered, item by item, with department heads appearing before commissioners to offer suggestions and comments.

Major expenses such as the proposed farm-to-market road south of town, which will join State Highway 163 at Lake Colorado City with the San Angelo Highway at Lake Champion, are being considered for possible elimination.

This construction would require the purchase of 80 1/2 acres for right-of-way and relocation of pipe and fence lines. The budget reflects $50,000 allotted for this project. The highway department has estimated $78,975 as actual cost, Carter said.

Services of the County Trapper are being considered as another area where the budget could be cut.

County Trapper Jack Bowen is responsible for predatory animal control within the county. He currently has 20 contracts with ranchers and noted his duties are seasonal.

He indicated more than 400 sheep have been killed by coyotes this year and it is his responsibility to destroy only coyotes doing the killing. He stated he does not work within the city limits. In order to do that, he is required to go before the city council and have a city ordinance passed.

"The County trapper does an excellent job. With him around it's one less problem we have to worry about. It helps counties around us since the coyotes migrate north to south," County Extension Agent Bob Benson said.

"When we considered discontinuing his services before, ranchers objected. But he does serve a limited number of people in the community," Shackelford stated.

Carter noted that 60 per cent of the population resides in the city.

"It does appear to be a service for a select few," Commissioner Paul Hunter commented.

Miles traveled both in and out of county were considered by the Court. Exact figures for miles traveled were not available but Benson estimated at least 1,000 per month in his county pickup.

"The only way I can see to cut down any is on the stock shows you go to, although a lot of it is necessary we realize," Vest told Benson.

Benson pointed out that most of the trips were made in private vehicles with members hauling their own livestock.

"Can you cut any in-county travel?" Carter questioned.

"It is my job to spot check crops, but I'll cut down as much as I possibly can and still do a good job," Benson stated.

Commissioners also scrutinized their own travels through the precincts.

"Gentlemen, is there any way we can cut down the $125 a month budgeted for travel expenses for each of you?" Carter said.

"I travel 15,000 to 23,000 miles a year. The $125 is not half covering my expenses. Since we don't drive county vehicles that $125 has to cover gasoline, tires, oil and maintenance," Hunter said.

"I try to drive all the See COUNTY Page 8

By GARRY PEEBLES

There's a Hank Williams' song that says that everyone is waiting for something....for a rich uncle to die....for a chance at a big quiz show, etc.

Since last January, a large segment of the population of this country has been, with about the same intensity as a Baptist preacher waiting for the second coming, waiting for something else to begin....the football season.

It's been more than six months since they've been able to worship at the local mecca, the nearest football field or at the great high mecca, Texas Stadium where the Cowboys play. Even though it was only an exhibition game, I suspect that last weekend's Hall of Fame contest between Dallas and Oakland came just in time to keep some fans from going completely off the deep end. They were going around town with a kind of glazed, hopeless look as if this time of year would never roll around again.

It had been more than a half a year since they had seen Roger Staubach drop back for a pass, or Harvey Martin commit mayhem on a quarterback half his size or a wildly emotional Tom Landry drop to his knees and beat on the ground in a fit of temper.

It had also been more than six months since they had heard one of those terrifically intellectual pre or postgame interviews in which Joe quarterback or Head Coach John Brown is asked the same questions he was asked this time last year...."What do you think it's going to take to win this game?....Anything to the rumor that you're holding out for a 17 million dollar contract?....How come you threw 11 interceptions last week?...."

Of course last weekend's game was barely the beginning, not even that really. The really ardent fan can have a feast of millions of pro games in the next six months in addition to all the college and high school games.

It all culminates, of course, in the game of game-about the middle of next January in which the world stops turning and everything else ceases for three hours so that the Super Bowl can be played.

I forgot to mention that before Super Bowl afternoon comes around again, grid fans will have a few dozen opportunities to see and hear "Mr. Humble," Howard Cosell. That should be enough to keep anyone biting their nails in anticipation of the months ahead.

This column was inspired by a friend whose life has been dedicated to the Cowboys and who goes into deep mourning every time they lose (even after exhibition games).

Band Kicks Off Drive

Colorado High School Wolf Band will have their annual fund drive by selling subscriptions to the Colorado City Record Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

This will be the 18th consecutive year in which the band has conducted the drive which is the group's major money making project of the year.

By earning money on commissions and cash bonuses, the band finances educational trips, purchases special equipment and develops music projects.

For each subscription sold, the band gets a cash commission. Cash bonuses are awarded daily for volume sales. Individual students working in teams get cash bonuses for leading in daily sales.

In the 17 year period the band has been holding the subscription drive, the band has earned more than $17,500.

Last year, the band earned $1,088 in sales commissions and cash bonuses, the second highest total ever. Highest amount was in 1977 when the band earned $1,500 in the three-day period the drive was held.

Regular subscription rates are in effect for the band drive:

- $16 in-county residents.
- $12.50 annually for out-of-county addresses.
- $9 for a nine-month college subscription, Sept. 1-June 1.

Purchaser of a 12-month in-county subscription gets the paper delivered for less than half the cost of the newsstand price of 20¢ per issue, a savings of $10.80 for the 104 issues annually.

All subscriptions sold by the band become effective Sept. 1, allowing time to process and complete paperwork.

For those who are already subscribers, the year subscription purchased from the band will be added on to the end of the existing subscription.

Matthews Starts Adult Probation Education Meeting Recently — 30 Attend

Recently in Mitchell County Court Room at 7:30 p.m. the Mitchell County Probation Department held its first Adult Probation Education meeting with thirty persons in attendance.

Caddo Matthews, Mitchell County Adult Probation Officer started the session by stating the goals of the education meeting as being a tool to help the probationer adjust to society, within society after having a problem which brought about probation and make him or her an active, productive, well adjusted citizen in every area of his or her life.

The main objectives of the probation education meeting is to bring about a relationship between the probation officer and the probationer that will result in the probationer being open to the probation officer in giving information that will help the officer to assess needs and risks and to be able to get the proper help or assistance from community resources that will help the probationer meet the goals of the education meeting.

In general the education meeting is planned to help the probationer in an informal, personal, and professional way, in a relaxed and tension free setting.

Certain rules and guidelines are set down and will have to be strictly followed, such as:

1. No reports or payments for probation may be received at the education meeting.
2. No cases will be discussed.

3. No court or law enforcement personnel will be "run down" at the education meeting.

4. The meeting will be short, informal and general in nature so that all persons attending may be comfortable and profit from the material covered.

5. Attendance at the education meeting does not constitute a reporting time or interview.

6. A roll of persons attending the education meeting will be taken.

7. The adult probation officer will be responsible for the meeting.

After the opening remarks by Matthews, two films were shown. The first, "You Pack Your Own Chute", dealt with handling fears that all people have. Each of us packs his own chute everyday and jumps out of bed and into the day. Assumptions produce behaviors. If we have wholesome assumptions we will have healthier desirable behavior.

The second film, "Johnny Lingo", dealt with building self worth in others. The main character in the film, Mahana changed from self pity and a self negation opinion of herself to one of worth. Mahana changed because she came to see herself as a person of worth, rather than a worthless person. Someone cared for her and loved her.

The meeting closed with cookies and soft drinks being served. Chief Probation Officer, Noel Wofford and Mrs. Wofford; Probation Officer Richard Moffit and Mrs. Moffit; Office Manager Anne Kearney all of Sweetwater, and Teresa Reynaud, Office Manager of Mitchell County Probation Dept. attended the first meeting.

Matthews termed this first meeting a success.

The date for a second meeting was set for Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Mitchell County Court Room.

Tiller Reunion Sunday

The Tiller reunion will be held all day Sunday in the C. C. Thompson Room of the City National Bank annex.

TSTI Classes

The Sweetwater campus of Texas State Technical Institute has received a $7,000 grant from the Texas Department of Education to develop and hold classes in energy conservation and solar energy applications for members of rural electric cooperative.

Ron Freeman, chairman of the Air Conditioning - Refrigeration and Solar Energy departments at TSTI Sweetwater, will instruct the twenty-four hour courses.

Classes will be held for members of the Taylor Electric Cooperative at Merkel; the Midwest Electric Cooperative at Roby; the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative at Colorado City and the Stamford Electric Cooperative of Stamford. Dates have not yet been established, but the first programs should begin with the Roby group in August, with the other cooperatives following at a later date.

Freeman indicated that the course could be of great value to the cooperative members by exploring the unique conservation problems of rural residents, along with their possible solutions. Solar system installation and maintenance will also be a major part of the programs.

There is no cost for the classes for members of the cooperatives.

WTCC Opposes Windfall Profits Tax

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce in a position statement issued July 30 went on record as strongly opposing the assessment of a so-called windfall profits tax on domestically produced oil.

Edward H. Coltharp, WTCC Executive Vice President, stated that the regional chamber had contacted all members of the West Texas delegation in Washington informing them to the chamber's position. It is the opinion of the WTCC that the domestic oil and gas industry must be depended upon to help produce the country out of the current energy crisis.

In view of this, Coltharp stated that the WTCC stands opposed to the windfall profits tax which will serve only to place the federal government in the energy business and further hinder efforts by the oil and gas industry to adequately increase exploration and production.

In its five point position statement, the WTCC called for immediate steps to bring about full production of coal using conventional methods along with accelerated development of nuclear power, production of synthetic oil and gas from coal and the development of shale oil resources.

Exceptions

Rev. Jim Hill
Pastor
First Christian Church
(Colorado City)

I want us to look together at five statements of Jesus. Each of these statements has at least three things in common. (1) Jesus made them (2) They use the Word EXCEPT (3) They deal with salvation.

To begin with, we draw three conclusions: (1) Jesus is truthful (2) The world EXCEPT means - if not - To the exclusion of all else. (3) Salvation is our goal.

Now, let's look at the statements:

Matthew 5:20 - except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the Kingdom of Heaven.

Matthew 18:3 - except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven.

John 3:3 - except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God.

John 3:5 - except a man be born of water and the spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God.

John 6:44 - No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw Him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

At this point, I am tempted to give you my translation and conclusion of each statement and make some applications, but I will refrain. Instead, I suggest that we each be our own interpreter with the help of the Holy Spirit.

I leave you with only one dogmatic statement: except you accept the exceptions of the Lord, you shall neither see nor enter the kingdom of heaven nor be raised by Jesus in the last day.

performer on the Playhouse stage. She and her daughter, Myrtle Mae Simmons, played by Susan Samuelson, are upset because Dowd inherited the family's money and they are at his mercy for support. Susan is a newcomer to the stage.

The rabbit "Harvey" proves an embarrassment to Veta and Myrtle Mae and hampers Veta's efforts to get Myrtle Mae introduced to some nice young man and polite society.

A large crowd for opening night gave their approval of the performance with their laughter and applause. The cast received a standing ovation at its conclusion Thursday evening.

Giving his first performance at the Playhouse was David Galvan, although he has been involved in a number of local productions by operating lights and other activities. Other first performances at the Playhouse are Tammy Marcom portraying Mrs. Chumley, Paula Chastain playing Nurse Kelley and Fred McFarland as Dr. Sanderson. Peggy Ratliff is also a newcomer to the Playhouse portraying Mrs. Chauvenet.

One character is a taxi driver played by Carl Beery Moore, also well known and respected for his performances locally.

There is utter confusion as Dowd's case is taken to Chumley's Rest, just who is crazy and what is going on.

"Harvey" was made famous on the screen with Jimmy Stewart playing Dowd. The play has received both the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Critics Award.

Marsha Moore is the Director of the comedy and is also producer for the Colorado City Playhouse's 1979 season.

Others assisting in the production are Porter Richardson, set design and construction; Tandy Curlee, props; Lovess Curlee, shadow boxes; Jolyn Mikow, make-up; Mack Perkin and Leslie Perkin, concessions at the Red Dog Saloon and Donna McKinnon, reservations; Sue, Tracy and Richy Womack, sound and light operation; George Womack and Cecile Hubbard, sound recording; Kent Womack, grounds preparation; Ann Nobles and Donna McKinnon, house preparation and John Merritt, house manager.

Tickets are still available and are priced at $3.50 per person. You may phone 728-3491 between the hours of 1-5 p.m. Monday thru Wednesday. On Thursday thru Saturday box office will be open from 1 p.m. until curtain time.

If you have not been a member of the audience for "Harvey", I hope you will make reservations and attend this joyous comedy. It will fill your heart with delight and laughter. It was a pleasure to meet "Harvey".

Performances will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. roads once a week to check the work being done. I feel it is necessary," Shackelford stated.

"In order to do our jobs the best we can, it is necessary to know what is going on within the system daily to prevent problems and to correct the ones that already exist," Vest stated.

Each precinct is allotted $20,000 in the budget. These funds are used to purchase heavy equipment and pickups, according to Commissioners.

The budget is divided to allow 47 per cent of the funds allotted for precincts (roads and bridges), 20 per cent for office supplies, 1.5 per cent for jury funds, 22 per cent to general fund, 2.3 per cent to permanent improvements, 3.3 per cent for miscellaneous and 3.1 per cent for library.

Commissioners agreed to cut funds allotted to the jury funds from $1,500 to $750. Out-of-county travel was cut from $2,000 to $1,000 with the requirement of prior approval.

Office equipment was cut from $4,000 to $2,000.

Judge Association fees were cut from $500 to $100. Teletype expense was cut from $3,000 to $1,500.

Fire equipment was listed in revenue sharing for $14,000 and in the general fund for $14,000. Commissioners voted to delete the $14,000 from the general fund and operate only out of revenue sharing.

Dependent children funds were cut from $2,000 to $500 because the children who were wards of the county have all grown up.

Sheriff's Department radio maintenance fund was cut from $2,500 to $500.

Defense Attorney for the County Court fund was cut from $1,250 to $500.

These cuts totaled $23,900. Because of the attrition decision, not replacing retiring personnel, another $26,000 has been cut from the deficit.

"We hope to do more than just shuffle figures around on paper. If we don't, although the county is actually in good shape this year, by the end of next year we will have to ask for a much greater tax increase," Hunter stated.

Wolves Set To Begin Workouts

The Colorado High School Wolves, guided by Tom Ramsey in his first year as head coach, will hit the practice field bright and early Aug. 13 for their first grid workout of the season.

The two-a-day practices will last until school begins on Aug. 27.

Ramsey stated Friday that there would be a team meeting of all high school grid players at 5 p.m. Wednesday, at the Wolf Stadium Fieldhouse. Shoes, shorts, socks and athletic handbooks would be passed out at that time. Lockers will also be assigned at that meeting.

Ramsey said the coaching assignments for his staff had been made and that they are as follows: David Clapp, defensive tackles, inside linebackers and offensive line; Mel Gierhart, receivers and defensive secondary; Rick Robinson and Mike Hart, junior varsity teams.

Ramsey will coach the offensive backs, defensive ends and outside linebackers.

Raymond Zamarippa will be in charge of the seventh and eighth grade football teams and he will be assisted by Ronnie Gainey. The school is still in need of another coach for the seventh and eighth grade squads.

Martin said Friday that there would be a meeting of all high school volleyball girls and their parents at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 21 at the Colorado High School Gymnasium.

140 degrees. He stated he has held the water at a constant 185 degrees for a period of two hours.

During summer months windows are opened after sunset to allow cooler air to force hot air up and out the high windows. These windows are closed just after sun rise the next day.

"The room holds the coolness until afternoon. During the hottest times in July and August, auxiliary cooling may be required during the hottest parts of the afternoon," Bridgford said.

During winter months, Bridgford uses the fireplace to heat the home as well as produce hot water to circulate through the system. He estimated an effectiveness loss during the heat transfer of about 20 per cent.

Sunshine heats the room during daylight hours and the fireplace maintains the heat during the evening hours for most of the winter months. He noted auxiliary heat may be needed during the heavy winter months of December and January.

Bridgford burns mesquite wood from land cleared on his family ranch. He stated he used about eight cords of wood last winter.

The system has only been completed since April of this year. He started construction in January, 1978.

"The system seems to be working. It was my aim not to double the electric bill when I doubled the size of the house," he said.

"I can really see a savings in the electricity bill. It is already $134 less than last year's and the house is twice as large," he stated.

"Electrical rates on the REA have increased about 16 per cent in that period, too," he said.

The entire system cost Bridgford $3,000. One solar panel cost about $350, he stated. He said the same type system is available on the retail market for about twice what he paid to design and build his own.

"My brother in Abilene has a similar system, only his tank holds about 4,000 gallons of water. I know I am going to have to increase the size of mine but he has found his to be too large," Bridgford stated.

There is a lot of trial and error involved in this thing, but someone has to start it. The American people are going to have to accept change," he said.

"This system will be around for a long time. The water pipes will probably become obsolete very soon but the collectors will be effective. I am thinking of possible ways to utilize the wind here to generate electricity too," he said.

Bridgford has made application to the federal government for grant funds to pay for the entire system. He stated there were four steps in the grant and his application had evidently passed three of them. He hopes to hear something by the first part of August.

Bridgford is married to Judy Roming of Amarillo. They have three children and are expecting a fourth in November.

Bridgford is a native of Mitchell County. He graduated from high school here and went on to graduate from dental school at Oklahoma State University in 1962.

After a two year stay in the Air Force, he opened his practice here at 446 Walnut.

AARP Meets

The Mitchell County AARP met for their monthly meeting at the Wallace Center for a noon luncheon.

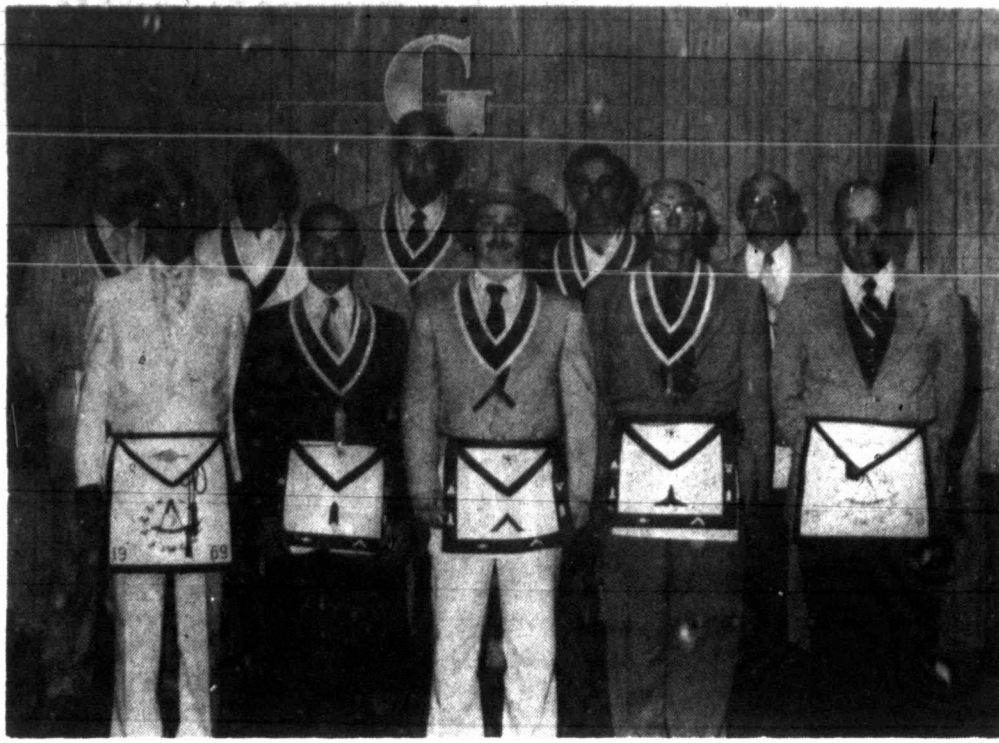

After the meal, Mrs. Loretta Small called the meeting to order. The pledge to the flag was led by Ben Costin. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and M. A. Stinson gave the legislative report. The legislature has passed a bill stating people over 65 may claim a homestead exemption on their school tax in 1979. This was a recommendation from AARP.

Frank Bassham provided music and singing for the program.

Mrs. Small announced that on the first Tuesday of each month there will be a board meeting.

There were 35 members attending the meeting.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, August 28 at noon at the Wallace Center.

Hints For Canning Green Beans

Do you have a surplus of green beans or can you buy them at a reasonably low cost? Try canning them so that you can have summer goodness in the middle of winter.

You haven't canned green beans before? Here is how.

Prepare the beans just as you would for cooking—by snapping or cutting them into 1 or 2 inch pieces—or you might leave them whole. Pack them tightly into clean jars to $\frac{1}{2}$ inch of the top of the jars while still raw. Cover them with boiling water leaving $\frac{1}{2}$ inch space at the top of the jar. If salt is desired, add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon for a pint and 1 teaspoon for a quart. Wipe off the sealing surface of the jars and close according to the type of lid being used, following the manufacturer's directions.

Place the closed jars of hot beans in a pressure canner, which has $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 inches of boiling water and a rack to hold the jars off the bottom of the cooker.

Place the lid on the canner and fasten securely. If the lid has clamps, tighten opposite clamps moderately at first. Then go back over the whole set to tighten each pair as much as possible, with your fingers only.

Leave the petcock open until the steam escapes steadily for 10 minutes so that no air is left in the cooker then close the petcock. If air is left in, it causes a vacuum and draws the liquid off the beans.

Count the processing time as soon as the pressure reaches 10 pounds. Keep a uniform pressure by adjusting the heat or by moving the canner carefully.

Process the snap beans 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts.

At the end of the processing time, remove the canner from the heat.

Allow the canner to cool until the gauge registers zero. Open the petcock gradually, and remove the cover. Leave the beans in the canner about 5 minutes. Take them out of the canner and place them right side up on a rack far enough apart to cool quickly. Do not place them in a draft or on a cold surface to prevent them from breaking.

Remember—no better beans will come out of the jars than went into them, so be sure to use good quality beans. If you do this and follow the directions carefully, you will come out with beans that are olive green in color and have the flavor of freshly cooked green beans.

Some of you may not know that there are 4 pressure canners in the Extension office for the use of those of you who don't have one. There is a one dollar charge per day for maintenance. They may be picked up from the Extension office.

If you want more information on canning, call or write Adele Morgan, your County Extension Agent, for a copy of B-194, Home Canning Fruits and Vegetables.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Keep Valuables Safe

Consider your baggage, and use good luggage which has something better than the flimsy locking devices found on most suitcases. Don't carry all your valuables and jewelry with you on a trip—leave them in a safety deposit box where they belong. If you must take jewelry with you, deposit it in the hotel safe and get a receipt.

Don't walk away leaving your luggage unattended in the lobby. If you are not ready to take your luggage with you when you leave, have the hotel store it for you. It's best that you do not carry large sums of money with you, but if you must—deposit most of it in the hotel vault and draw it out as you need it. Remember, you are better

New Homemaking Classes Scheduled To Begin This Fall At Colorado High

Students at Colorado High School will have the opportunity this year to take part in a program which mixes classroom education and on-the-job training in a variety of occupations which are home economics related.

Classes in Home Economics Cooperative Education have been added to the curriculum for junior and senior students, Charlie Useton, superintendent of schools announced.

Superintendent Useton said that practical work experience will be provided for students through part-time employment at cooperating businesses within the city.

The course is set up for one or two years and carries six credits each year, Mrs. Martha Matthews, teacher-coordinator of the program, said. Students will receive pay comparable to that paid beginning workers in the same occupations.

Mrs. Matthews said it was hoped that the program will enable a good portion of our students who desire to become occupationally competent to enter fulltime employment upon graduation from high school.

Mr. Useton said that an advisory committee of local business people will be established to assist Mrs. Matthews with the program.

"The addition of this type of program will do much to provide the youth of Colorado City with a well-rounded educational program that will fulfill the need for practical and useful training," said Mrs. Matthews.

Mrs. Matthews recently participated in a comprehensive one week workshop at the University of Texas which helped to prepare her to assume the responsibility for the selection and placement of students and the correlation of classroom and practical education.

Typical occupations in the program are art and craft aide, bridal consultant, child care aide, companion to the elderly, clothing assistant consumer aide, dietetic aide, fabric coordinator, fashion coordinator, floral designer, food caterer, food service employee, home furnishings aide, house-keeping management assistant and tester of foods, or tester of textiles.

Baker Attends Fireman's School

Tommy E. Baker, volunteer fireman on the Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department of Colorado City, attended the 50th Annual Texas Firemen's Training School July 22-27. The school, attended by nearly 1,820 students representing about 728 cities from more than 32 states, was held on the Texas A&M University campus this week.

Firemen choose their courses at the school from a list including Fire Fighting, Fire Prevention, Fire Department Officer Training, Fire Department Pump Maintenance, Specialized Fire Protection, and Disaster Rescue Training.

Fireman Baker was sponsored by Mitchell County Farm Bureau and Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies by contributing toward the cost of the school. Since volunteer firemen are interested in attending this school to help do a better job of fire fighting and fire prevention, 100 County Farm Bureaus and the Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies in the statewide program have sponsored 100 firemen at the school.

"The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies believe volunteer fire departments have been very effective in reducing the amount of loss involved by fire in rural areas," said President Carrol G. Chaloupka of Dalhart. "It is our hope in sponsoring this program that the fireman will help the Colorado City Volunteer Department to better serve the residents of Mitchell County."

Merket Competes In Bass Tourney

Bo Merket took first place recently in the Colorado City Bass Club tournament held at Hubbard Creek Lake near Breckenridge. Merket's bass weighed in at three pounds, six ounces. He also placed ninth in Radio Station KEAN's Invitational Bass Tournament held at the same lake. He entered his same three pound, six ounce catch. There were about 350 fishermen competing in KEAN invitational.

Bo Merket

For most of this century agriculture has been a depressed or subsidized sector of our economy. This situation has not occurred because of obsolescence, or poor management, or low productivity as has happened in other ailing industries. The reason that agriculture has been experiencing difficulties is because the farmer has been encouraged to produce to the point where he more than satisfies the needs of the market. The problem we have been facing most of this century is not shortages but surpluses. And with surpluses have come less expensive food and low farm income.

We are continually faced with the dual problem of providing for the world's nutritional needs and at the same time insuring and adequate return to our producers. One of the most successful programs that addresses both of these goals is the farm loan system and more recently the grain reserve. This program is administered by the Commodity Credit Corporation. Farmers can store their produce in government warehouses and receive a loan payment. If the market prices go above the loan rate, then the farmer can withdraw his crop in an orderly fashion and sell it in the marketplace. If the market price is below the loan rate for a sufficient period of time, then the loan expires and the produce becomes property of the government. This policy, when administered properly, as is the case recently, can provide a good return to producers and insure an adequate supply to the consumer at a fair price. The cost to the taxpayer is relatively low. Over the 40 year history of the loan program, for every dollar paid out by the government, 90c has been recovered from the market.

Currently the 1980 wheat program is being developed. The Secretary of Agriculture is considering a program which will call for all out production. I have written the Secretary outlining my proposals on this issue. I feel strongly that we should not provide for a zero set aside without adequate compensation to the farmer. Experience has taught us that too great a level of output will depress prices below the cost of production. I can still recall the effects of the 1974-75 program which encouraged the farmer to produce fencerow-to-fencerow, and from which we are just now recovering. I fear that just as the American grain farmer is beginning to enjoy relative prosperity, we will produce a record domestic crop which could wreck our market if foreign output increases. In response to this situation, I am calling for minimum loan prices on wheat of $2.43 per bushel, which will result in a trigger price of about $4.80 and a $6 call price. Also the target price should be set near the $4.20 bushel mark, which will allow all Americans to share the risk if we once again over-produce. Farmers have suffered greatly from the high cost and unavailability of diesel and I feel these price levels are justified if we are to ask our farmers for all our production.

Some voices will be raised to say that the prices I have outlined are excessive. But we must remember that in order for a person to stay in business he must receive a reasonable rate of compensation for the services he provides. Food is essential for our survival and the continued vitality of the agricultural industry is important to our economic and defense position in the world. If you eat you are involved in agriculture and agricultural policy.

Ballard Residence Burglarized Thursday

The Drew Ballard residence at 705 E. 8th Street was burglarized early Thursday afternoon.

Chamber To Meet Monday

A review of a trip to Fort Worth by members of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Team will highlight the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber Monday.

A special meeting to review by-laws will be held prior to the regular meeting, according to Chamber Manager Larry Winders.

Also scheduled on the agenda will be a review of monies taken in during the Chamber sponsored rodeo and fly-in held over the Fourth of July holidays.

The award for yard of the month will also be presented by Chamber members.

The incident was reported to the Colorado City Police Department at 3:52 p.m. Assistant Police Chief Jerry Cowin said that their investigation revealed that items valued at about $1,048 had been taken, including six rifles and shotguns and two television sets, one color and one black and white.

Cowin said that the department is still investigating the burglary but has no definite suspects at this time.

There was no damage to the house itself.
