$60,000 HUD Grant Approved For Space Antenna Company

Congressman Jack Hightower's office announced Monday morning, May 7, that it has received notification of a HUD grant in the amount of $60,000 to the City of Wellington.

This Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) is to aid in locating a manufacturing facility, (Space Antenna Company) a spokeswoman from Congressman Hightower's office told The Wellington Leader.

Private funds involved will be $191,469, while the HUD grant represents the sponsors part.

The 16.4-foot diameter, dish shaped antenna manufactured here will pick up television signals beamed to an earth-orbiting satellite and bounced back to earth at great distances from the signal's origin.

The Monday announcement brings one step nearer to reality the quarter-million dollar Space Antenna Co. plant that Hurshel Tyler of Olney told the people of Wellington on February 10, he will bring here.

Later Monday, David Jamerson of the Action Grant Program of HUD in Washington gave City Manager Glenn Taylor the same information.

He said that paper work on the grant will require about two weeks and the grant should be completed by the end of a month.

"We have one antenna ready to go on the pad this morning (Monday) and we will begin testing it," Hurshel Tyler said when The Wellington Leader contacted him with Hightower's announcement.

"The final testing will probably be completed by the middle of the week and then we're ready to start getting busy."

Tyler said one antenna mold has been completed and others will be built after the Wellington Plant is completed, with raw materials to be delivered here.

Billy Moseley, executive vice president of Wellington State Bank, said that the city can now go ahead with the purchase of land for the plant site, let the contract for the building and begin construction. He projected the work start within the next week.

Wellington State has had a major role in bringing the plant here.

Space Antenna Company is an outgrowth of Weather Scan, Inc., which Tyler established in Wellington and is now headquartered in Olney, where he and his family live.

Associated with him in the Wellington venture will be his older son, Bill Tyler. He is expected to continue living in Olney also.

Hurshel Tyler said Monday he has been discouraging orders for the new space antenna until production is under way, although large firms have been contacting him to talk in terms of taking his full production. He said the company was not ready for this yet.

Due to move here is Bob Terry, who will be in charge of production. Jim Green, engineer, will be here part-time. Both are technically skilled in space antenna production.

Completely new features are incorporated in the fiberglass antennas.

The Tylers will retain the traditional dish shape of space antennas, but their antenna will be made in sections. Bill Tyler, at the time of the announcement of the move here, said that because damage sometimes does occur to these antennas, their concept will allow for only the damage section to be replaced, instead of the entire antenna.

Moseley also had pointed out that many antennas are mounted on the top of tall buildings. All sections of Tyler's antenna can be carried to the top by two men. Those used presently require a crane to lift them to the rooftop.

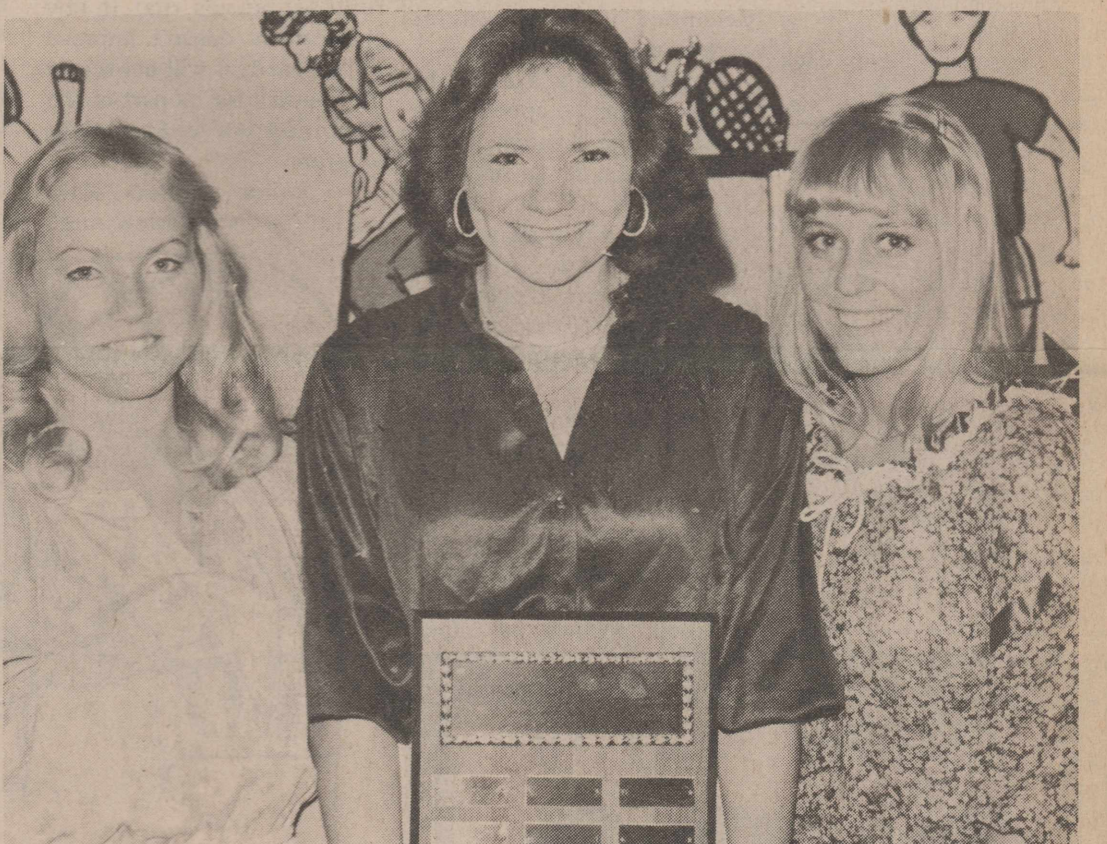

Monday, Tyler described the surface as a reflective film that is sandwiched in between fiberglass.

In simpler terms, the operation has been explained in this way: Television beams are broadcast in a small, direct line to an earth-orbiting satellite. On the satellite, the signal breaks up and returns to earth in a scatter-gun pattern, to many parts of the country, to be picked up by space antennas.

Among the biggest users of these antennas are the Christian broadcasting channels, with South America as one of the most rapidly expanding markets.

The antennas are not for the individual TV owner. A cable television system using a space antenna can pick up many more channels than are now possible, bringing them into viewer's homes.

There are still other uses, all aimed at bringing more television to larger audiences.

Street Repair Work Ordered

The city council has instructed City Manager Glen Taylor to begin street repair work immediately and to do no more custom work for the public, other than that already committed, until the city's work is finished. This action was taken in the regular meeting Monday night, May 7.

The body next expressed its dissatisfaction with operation of the combined law enforcement program, especially the practice of deputy sheriffs doing traffic patrol duties in the rural areas.

Councilman Wayne Cudd brought up the street situation, saying the city had been going to do the repair work for the last two months.

Taylor told the council the work will begin as soon as the present clean-up campaign ends, the last of this week or the first of next.

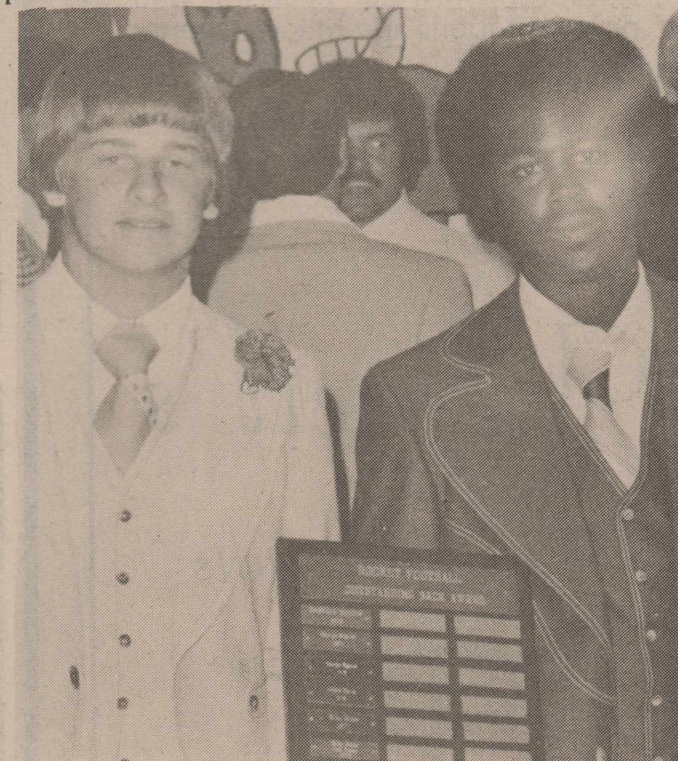

It was brought out in discussion that weather the last two winters has been the hardest on streets of any time in many years.

Willie Gragson, Highway Department employee, pointed out previously that repeated wet weather and freezing will damage roads and streets whether there is traffic over them or not.

The motion the council passed does not mention street repair but that is what it had in mind. It reads:

"A motion to do no more outside work until city work is caught up." Cudd made the motion and Ralph Owens seconded it. Tom Wilkins voted for the motion.

Gragson voted against the motion saying he opposed the wording and Lyndon Crelia voted against it, saying later he believes it may have a bearing on dirt work the city had planned to do for the new Space Antenna Co. plant.

Owens led the discussion on the law enforcement. He said his pickup was recently ticketed by a deputy west of town, and he feels this is the duty of the highway patrol to work the highways. He added that it is his feeling the deputies should be working to eliminate vandalism and other violations of laws the county has had.

Owens, one of the city's representatives on the combined law enforcement board, also has been the target of business vandalism. Other members of the council concurred with him, and it was noted that the city puts $48,000 into the program and furnishes a car. It has received $2,660.03 in fine money during the first 8 months of the fiscal year, Taylor said.

Owens and Crelia, the other representative on the law enforcement board, were authorized to tell the county's representatives that if law enforcement doesn't improve by August 1, it will not renew the contract for its part of the combined law enforcement program.

In other action City Secretary Nell McKinney swore in Mayor Bill Hatch and council members Ralph Owens and Tom Wilkins. All three were re-elected in the April 7 election.

Owens was elected mayor pro-tem.

The council tabled for further study a proposed liability insurance policy; signed an agreement with the county on the collection of delinquent taxes; and designated the week of May 14 through 19 as Kiwanis Golden Anniversary week.

Taylor told the group Motorola Co. is due to move the sheriff's department radio antenna from its present location north of the business district to a new site at the city landfill.

Wilkins small daughter, Julie, was a guest of the council.

School Board Accepts Three Resignations

Wellington School Board accepted the resignations of superintendent E.W. Clement, track coach Phil Bailey and band director Jamie Larson at special board meeting Monday, May 7.

The three resignations came after a controversy which resulted when a Wellington High School track team member was determined to have been scholastically ineligible when he ran in the district track meet.

The board also discussed the procedure it will follow in taking applications and interviewing candidates for the superintendents job. The board decided to advertise the opening in the Amarillo, Lubbock and Wichita Falls daily newspapers, and then to screen resumes before calling applicants in for interviews.

In other action the board entered into an agreement with Collingsworth County on collection of delinquent taxes.

Maria Langford Second in State Typing

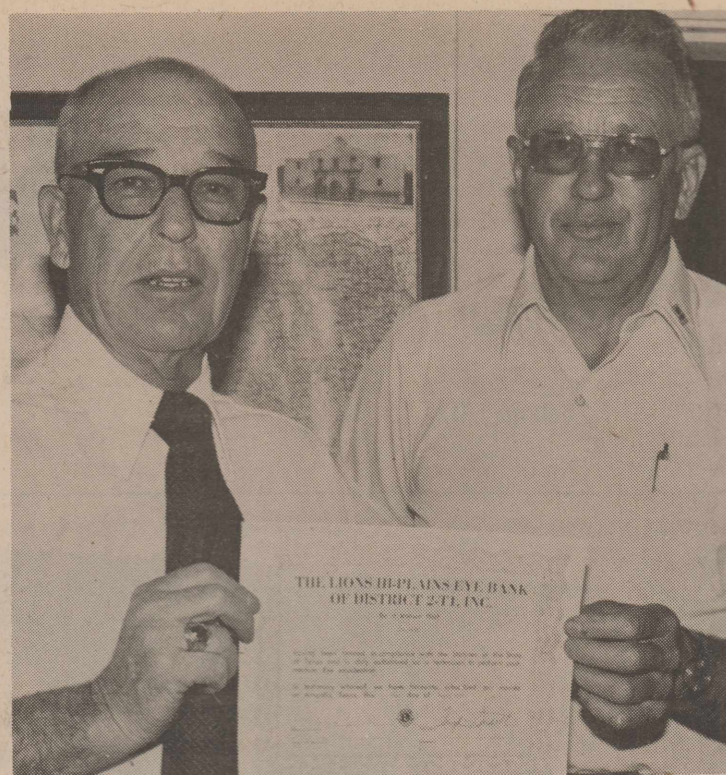

Maria Langford, Wellington High School sophomore, placed second in the state UIL typing contest at Austin Saturday, May 5.

Her instructor, Mrs. Rubye Hodges, said Maria had a perfect copy and had she not left out one line, her score would have been higher than any other has made.

Determined on percentage of accuracy and speed, Maria's score was 154.54.

She competed against 11 others for the Class A championship.

Maria is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Langford.

EYE BANK WORKERS

Progressive Organization Sets Banquet

The Men's Progressive Organization will hold its annual banquet at 8 p.m. Friday, May 11 in Bura Handley Community Center.

Two awards will be presented to people who have helped the black community during the past year, Jimmie Barber, one of those helping with arrangements, said this week.

Members and their wives and guests will attend.

morning.

Rev. Durham is district Director of Christian Education for the North Texas District, Assemblies of God, and he and his family live at Euless.

Guy Owens Attends Eye Bank Course

Guy Owens of Guy Owens Funeral Home recently completed a course in eye enucleation, sponsored by the Hi-Plains Eye Bank in Amarillo. He represented Wellington Lions Club.

This was given for morticians of the Panhandle who are now allowed under Texas law to remove eyes after death of those who donate their eyes to the eye bank, which is sponsored by Lions Clubs of District 2-T1.

Prior to passage of the law in 1977, only a doctor could perform an eye enucleation.

Four Amarillo physicians conducted the course.

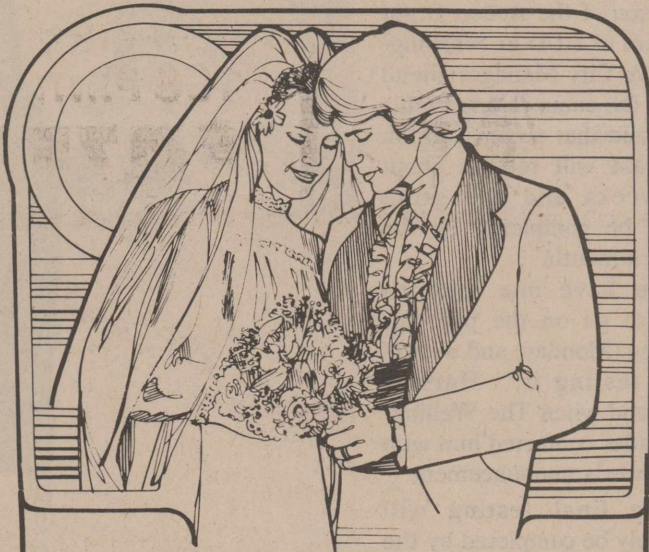

"Six people benefit from one pair of eyes," said Owens.

"The two corneas can be used for transplants; two scleras (white parts of the eye) can be used for ruptures; and the vitreous (fluid in the eye) can replace fluid lost in the patient's eye.

"All eyes can be used," he emphasized. "Quality of vision is immaterial."

Marshall Peters, president of Wellington Lions Club, said a majority of its members and members from some of their families have signed the documents which will permit giving of their eyes to the eye bank upon death.

Several years ago, a number from the Samnorwood Lions Club made the same arrangements.

Renewed Interest In Little League

A new effort is under way to have Little League Baseball in Wellington this summer.

Duane Campbell has accepted the presidency of the organization and has called an organizational meeting for Monday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Greenbelt Electric Co-op directors room.

"We urge that all parents of boys and girls ages 9 through 12 attend the meeting. If you are interested in coaching, umpiring or helping in any way, it is imperative that you be there," he said.

Tryouts have been set tentatively for Saturday, May 19, at 10:00 a.m. at the baseball park.

"Now that we do have a president, we must all get behind him and help in any way we can, said Mrs. Jim Ingram, who worked with the program last year and earlier this season.

Higher sales of real gold and silver jewelry and leather handbags over more inexpensive imitations indicates that consumers are increasingly seeking quality and value in fashion accessories, reports Becky Culp.

Commissioners, Judge Visit Caterpillar Plant

Commissioners court members from over the Panhandle and South Plains were guests of Caterpillar, Inc., at their Peoria, Ill., plant and those in other towns of northern Illinois.

Going from here were Judge Bob Watson, and commissioners John R. Henard, Joe F. Knoll, Bill Lowe and Raymond Neeley.

"We saw various pieces of equipment from the time they were a piece of iron to the finished equipment—tractors, bulldozers, cats and motor graders," said Judge Watson.

Of interest to the Collingsworth men were the computerized plants especially that in which the D10 Caterpillar, the world's largest bulldozer, is built.

Elm Valley Lease Draws $15 Per Acre

Morgas of Amarillo has leased a half-section of land on Elm Creek, in Elm Valley community, for $15.00 per acre, according to an oil and gas lease filed in the office of the county clerk Helen Gollighugh Wednesday, May 2. Owners of the land, the south half of section 88, block 12, are listed as Gordon Wattenbarger and Enna Walker of Wheeler County, Verda Bennet of Travis County, and Avie Crussell of Washington County, Tenn.

Several restrictions make this lease interesting.

It is to run for a three-year period rather than the five-year leasing period which is usual in this area.

If drilling has not started at the end of a one-year period, the rental paid shall be $10 per acre per year, or a total of $3,200, per year, according to the lease. The usual rental in this area is $1.00 per acre.

Also written into the lease is the provision that the lessors (landowners) shall receive 5/32 royalty rather than the standard 1/8 royalty generally called for.

"The oil and gas lease is specifically limited to production of oil, gas distillate, condensate and sulphur, and shall not include uranium, lignite or other hardrock minerals, the production of which would require the destruction of the surface" reads another insertion.

Another restriction is:

"The oil and gas lease shall be limited to a depth of 2,500 feet and is not included the production of any hydrocarbons below this depth."

This land, in the Wattenbarger family for many years, lies in the southern part of the field developed several years ago by El Paso Natural Gas. Maps indicate several wells have been drilled in this section earlier.

Other oil and gas instruments filed recently in the clerk's office include:

Supplement assignment of oil and gas lease: Ashland Exploration Inc., to Tema Oil Co. (Tenneco Oil Company, Houston, and Mesa Petroleum Co., Amarillo) interest in and under Section 91 to 94 inclusive, block 12; sections 7 through 12 and 17, block 13; and sections 100, 17, 1, 19, and 20, block 16.

Supplement assignment of oil and gas lease: Ashland Exploration, Inc., to Tema Oil Co.: section 8, block 13.

Oil and gas lease: Powell Cattle Co., Don Powell, president, to Hulen H. Lemon: NE/4 section 21, block 23.

Oil and gas lease: Powell Cattle Co., Don Powell, president, to Hulen H. Lemon: NW/4 section 22, block 23.

Police said a light mist was falling over the city and the streets were wet, but it is not known if that contributed to the accident.

Mrs. Renfro's daughter, Kandi LaShawn, who will be two later this month, was treated for minor cuts and bruises and released to the custody of relatives.

Mrs. Renfro was born in Wellington and attended Wellington Schools. She moved with her parents to Tulia in 1969. She was married to Kenneth Wayne Renfro in Clovis, N.M. in 1976. He died in 1978.

Forty or fifty years ago, the electric bill was most often called the "light bill". In thousands of homes, Mr. Edison's illuminating invention wasn't the only electrically powered appliance, but most people associated electricity with the most visible benefit — light.

Today, with the help of electrical energy and the appliances it powers, our tasks become easier and our lives more enjoyable. At West Texas Utilities we're working to provide you a continuing dependable source of electrical energy now and in the future.

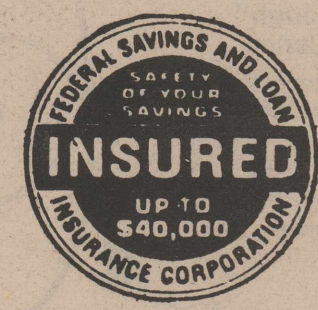

Remember Reddy supplies the energy, only you can use it wisely.

RALPH WORD

Word Named Harmon Teacher of Year

Ralph Word, former Wellington Junior High teacher, was named Harmon County's Teacher of the Year at the annual county Oklahoma Education Association banquet Monday, April 23.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Melvin Cardwell, Wellington Junior High counselor.

Word has taught at Arnett School 9 years, and his wife, Novella, presently teaches in the Wellington Schools.

He was introduced at the OEA meeting by Mrs. Hoyt Ellis, fellow teacher at Arnett. "Every successful person in life has had his life touched and guided by a teacher, like you or me, at an early age. It (teaching) may not pay very good, but I consider it a calling second only to the ministry," Word said in receiving his award.

Born at Friendship, Jackson County, and a graduate of its school, Word attended Cameron Junior College at Lawton and received his bachelor's degree in agriculture at Oklahoma State University in 1940. He received the masters degree in administration from West Texas State University in 1954.

He taught at Vinson, Hollis, Dodson and Wellington, before going to Arnett, where he coached the basketball team to the area tournament twice in his tenure.

Twice, he interrupted his teaching career to serve in the armed forces. The 31-year teaching veteran volunteered for service in World War II in 1941, completed Officer Candidate School in 1942 and was discharged as a lieutenant in 1946.

As a member of the 45th National Guard Division, which was mobilized in September 1950, he served in Korea, until the end of that war. He served as a captain in the National Guard.

Word and his wife, Novella, have one daughter, Janet, who is a teacher in the Martha, Okla., schools.

The theme of Mrs. Cardwell's talk was "Joys of Teaching," given a light and humorous touch by the stories and amusing incidents involving her students over the years.

"Even through all our days at school are not joyous, teaching is usually a joy for those who really love teaching," she said.

Three joys stand out in her own career. One comes in teaching

Cub Bike Rodeo, Safety Program Slated Saturday

Cub Scouts will hold their bike rodeo, along with a bike safety program, Saturday, May 12, at 2:00 p.m. in the National Guard Armory.

Under the direction of Cubmaster Vernon Day and a group of volunteers, the scouts bicycles will be checked for safety conditions and the boys will be instructed in bike maintenance.

Safe driving instructions will be given and traffic signs and rules of the road will be taught, Day said.

beginning students. "Seeing them learn their ABC's then suddenly discover that they can read is a joy; it is a tremendous experience to see their eyes light up when they realize they actually can read," she said.

A second joy comes in observing youngsters grow and mature intellectually and morally.

"It is a great delight to see a young person learn to face and overcome a moral dilemma on his own," she said.

A third joy of teaching cited by Mrs. Cardwell is to see former students accomplish important tasks after leaving one's classroom. That provides a feeling of accomplishment, she pointed out.

Each scout is to bring his or his parents social security number so it can be engraved on the bicycle as a precaution against theft.

The bike rodeo will be the competitive part of the day's activities. It will include skill tests such as circling, straight line riding, slalom test and a coasting and balancing test.

Races will be included in the competition.

Boys who are interested in becoming Cub Scouts next year are invited to come and watch the bike rodeo and maintenance program, Day said.

Due to the limited time, only Scouts will participate. Visitors must be accompanied by an adult. Boys interested in joining may also register for next fall.

Health forms will be available for Cub Scout Day Camp, which will be June 6-9 at Camp M.K. Brown near Mobeetie. The cost is $15 per scout.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Horton Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Horton, 805 Graham Street, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary while visiting their son, Mr. and Mrs. John Alvin Horton and John Edward in Arlington.

The John Hortons entertained with an anniversary dinner at Ports O'Call Restaurant on the 37th floor of Southland Life Insurance Building in Dallas. Special music was played in their honor.

Another high point was seeing their 6-year-old grandson play his first game of baseball.

Alvin Horton and the former Trudie King were married April 24, 1929, by the Rev. J.C. Clement, in his home at 1606 Dalhart Street, Wellington. The ceremony was at 7:30 in the evening.

They have lived in Collingsworth County these 50 years. They have the one son and grandson.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John King, Mrs. Horton was born and grew up at Paris, Lamar County, where her family was among the early settlers.

She was graduated from high school in Commerce and attended East Texas State Teachers College, now East Texas State University.

She came to Collingsworth County in 1927 to teach in the Lillie School. She was teaching there when she and Mr. Horton married.

Afterward, she served as office deputy for Sheriff Claude McKinney five years.

She remained active in the town's business life, having kept books for the Farmers Little Co-op Gin three years, while Ross Wilkerson was manager.

Mrs. Horton was a substitute teacher in the Wellington Schools 25 years, until only a few years ago.

She also worked as a saleslady and bookkeeper for H&A Furniture Store, where her husband was co-owner.

More recently, she was bookkeeper for Horton & Harwell Construction. Her husband still is in the construction business and she remains as bookkeeper.

Mr. Horton, the son of Annie Lee Reeves Horton and Will M. Horton, was born at Merkel, Taylor County. He came to Collingsworth County in 1914 with his family in a covered wagon. They settled in the Lillie Community and he attended school there and later in Wellington High School.

He owned and operated service stations several years before he quit to become a deputy for Sheriff Claude McKinney, a post he held for five or more years.

He was Wellington Chief of Police in 1937 and 1938. Since then he has been in the trucking and construction business.

He served two terms on the City Council and was vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce two terms and a director several additional years.

He was chairman of the Collingsworth County Voluntary Parole Board for 6 years and received a commendation from Governor Price Daniel. Presently he is a director of the Wellington Cemetery and a director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. In 1977, he received an award of appreciation from the latter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Horton are active members of First Baptist Church, where he is a deacon and presently the song leader for the Adult department. She is secretary-treasurer of the children's department, where she taught 15 years.

Ceiling fans continue to increase in popularity—not only because of "nostalgic" value but also for function, says Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

They move warm air from the ceiling down to the floor where air is cooler, she explains.

THE QUESTION OF CORSAGES

Some things never change. Florist say people still ask about a corsage, "Which way should I wear it? Flowers up or down?"

The answer is do as nature does—wear a corsage with the heads of the flowers up, the stems or ribbons down. The flowers most often requested for corsages are orchids, gardenias, camellias, carnations and daisies. And corsages are being worn on the wrist, the hair, or on a purse, as well as in that tried-and-true favorite spot, above the heart.

You can extend the life of an orchid corsage by placing it in a shallow dish of water in the least cold section of your refrigerator. Stems only, not the petals, should be in contact with the water.

Cover other kinds of corsage flowers with damp tissue paper or cotton, seal in a loose cover of foil and refrigerate. You should be able to enjoy a second or even third wearing of your corsage this way.

Volunteers

You hear a lot these days about volunteering. We see the First Lady of the land encouraging volunteers; we see governor's conferences designed to promote the idea of volunteer service; news releases, programs and projects abounding on the idea of volunteering.

And it's no wonder. Volunteers and their organizations can and do handle many jobs far more efficiently than government agencies.

Fifty years ago a group of men here in Wellington had the same idea. On April 30, 1929 the Wellington Kiwanis Club was chartered.

In the half century that's followed Kiwanis Club members have kept up the volunteer tradition with dozens of projects, most of which benefitted the young people of the community.

We don't know of any Kiwanis Club members who think they are going to reshape the world in their own image. But what they have done in the past, and continue to do today, is to enjoy each other's company each week and in some small ways to leave the world a better place than they found it. It's not bad philosophy.

Congratulations this week to Wellington Kiwanis Club Members for the volunteer spirit they've exemplified in the community for fifty years.

Welcome Home, Hurshel Tyler, Your Company is Valued Here

Announcement early Monday that HUD has approved a $60,000 grant assured Wellington that Hurshel Tyler's Space Antenna Co. will be a reality here.

Private funding for the remainder of the plant costs brings this to a quarter-million dollar addition to Wellington's industrial economy.

Hurshel Tyler first put his fertile and inventive mind to work in Wellington, to produce Weather Scan for cable television. His business became R.H. Tyler Co., now of Olney and his two sons, Bill and Mike are associated with him.

Construction of the building to house Space Antenna Co. could start as early as next week. Things will move quickly then. Material to be used in the plant will be delivered here.

With Tyler's announcement at the Chamber of Commerce Banquet in February that he would establish the company in Wellington, and the new announcement of funding, moves Wellington into a new era...one whose language we hardly understand, but whose meaning will soon become part of our day to day living. Space Antenna Co. is part of the new field of space communications, whose potential expands year by year. There is no way of knowing where its spin-off may lead.

We are glad that Hurshel Tyler has faith in Wellington, and we certainly have faith in him.

More Is Lost

The results of a killer-tornado are horrible and the after effects could last for years.

Besides the death and suffering, there is another immediate effect that few of us have ever thought about: The tax base for our schools, cities, counties and whatever else they might have.

I don't know the percentage of the tax base that was wiped out in Wichita Falls but it certainly is going to be large.

Unless aid comes from somewhere else, it's going to throw the operation of all public institutions in a mess.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Almost three weeks ago, Gov. Bill Clements said he saw no "compelling reason" to raise the state's interest rate ceiling and vowed to veto any legislation designed to do just that.

Luckily, the governor left his options open, saying he would keep his finger on the pulse of the housing industry and if he felt a drop off in activity, he wouldn't hesitate to call a special session if that was the action needed to remedy the situation.

When Clements arrived at his press conference this week, he had just received the news that the Federal National Mortgage Association—better known as Fannie Mae—was backing off from accepting low-interest VA and FHA home loans offered in Texas. Clements said he was numb from the news.

The effect of Fannie Mae's announcement—a tighter money market—was soberingly clear to the governor, lenders and people looking to buy or sell a home.

What Fannie Mae feared was purchasing VA and FHA loans in Texas that might exceed the state's legal interest rate of 10 percent. Home buyers had been turning to the cheaper VA and FHA loans after finding the conventional money market all but dried up.

Lenders normally add points (one percent of what is borrowed) to get VA and FHA interest rates up to conventional money market levels. But when VA and FHA interest rates went up last week to 10 percent that meant lenders charging points on those loans might be in violation of the state's usury law.

Later in the week, Clements met with Sen. Bill Meier of Eufess and Rep. Jerry Donaldson of Gatesville, the sponsors of legislation raising the usury limit from 10 to 12 percent, and said he was "reassessing and rethinking" what actions he might take in light of Fannie Mae's announcement.

After his meeting with Meier and Donaldson, Clements said he was evaluating a new twist to Meier's bill that would tie interest rates to those charged on long-term government loans. Twelve percent would still be the ceiling but lenders could let rates "float" up or down according to the conventional money market.

Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado, a long-time foe of bumping the usury limit, and Texas AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard felt it was just more than an odd coincidence that Fannie Mae's announcement came on the heels of Clements statement that he would veto a hike in interest rates unless something happened to change his mind.

Patman and Hubbard charged "collusion" between Fannie Mae and Texas lenders to "pressure the Legislature into raising the usury ceiling." FNMA officials vehemently denied such charges and said Fannie Mae's actions came as the result of vagueness over whether or not VA and FHA loans were exempt from state usury law penalties.

In the wake of Fannie Mae's announcement, it appeared that those with homes on the market were bearing the brunt of the tighter money market as lenders continued to offer VA and FHA loans with points charged not to the buyer, but the seller.

The Budget

While Clements was announcing his support this week for the repeal of the prevailing wage law, he was softening his stand on another key issue—teacher pay raises.

In the past, the governor has said flatly that he would veto any teacher pay hikes that exceeded 5.1 percent. But this week, Clements changed his tune, saying he had never pledged to veto pay raises of more than 5.1 percent.

The House appropriations bill bumps teacher salaries by seven percent in each of the next two years. Clements said that was unacceptable but believed it would be remedied in a conference committee. First though, the Senate must act.

Step One in that process was finished this week as the Senate Finance Committee completed work on its version of the 1980-81 state budget. That plan will cost the taxpayers $600 million more than the House appropriations bill.

Senate Debate

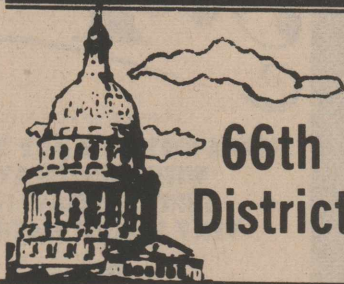

Senate debate on the state budget will begin this week. The Senate's spending plan would give teachers only the 5.1 percent increase in pay that Clements says he can support.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL
BY Foster Whaley
State Representative

Two gasohol bills have passed both the House and Senate in the Texas Legislature, H.B. 1803, by Rockdale Rep. Dan Kubiak, passed the House by a vote of 104-23. This bill would provide for loans would be made through the Texas Industrial Commission.

Fifteen million dollars was provided in the form of a 10 year loan. A group of individuals could obtain up to a half a million dollar loan, while an individual would be limited to a $25 thousand dollar loan.

H.B. 1986, by Somerville

Rep. Bill Keese, passed by a vote of 127-1. This bill cleared any legal aspects pertaining to the production of alcohol in Texas.

In recent testimony presented before the House Agriculture Committee, we learned that Brazil now produces close to half of the country's fuel needs in the form of alcohol. Brazil's goal is to supply its entire fuel need for moving vehicles within the next five years.

I supported these bills and I also supported the addition of $120 thousand dollars to the budget of Experiment Station for research on the production of alcohol as a fuel.

The price of gasoline has now escalated to a figure that makes production of gasohol feasible. As the price of gasoline continues to rise, the production of alcohol will look even better.

Presently we have thousands of acres of land standing idle because of government programs. Production of alcohol from these acres would greatly lessen our dependence on oil from the Middle East.

Considering our dependence on oil from that part of the world and the powder keg situation we have in that area, this gasohol legislation could prove to be the most important legislation we pass this session.

WTU Buys Site for Generating Plant

West Texas Utilities Co. Thursday announced the purchase of a site eight miles southeast of Vernon for construction of a new coal-fired electric generating plant.

The plant will be built on a 1920-acre tract purchased from the W.T. Waggoner Estate. Center of the site is about three miles southwest of Oklaunion and the same distance from the Fort Worth and Denver Railway.

The land purchase agreement was signed Thursday, April 12 at the Waggoner Building in Vernon by Jerry J. Johnson, WTU vice president and director of administrative services, and by Killen Moore, trustee of the W.T. Waggoner Estate. Other WTU representatives present were Walter Meller, manager of Systems Operations; J.B. Jordan, Jr., chief right-of-way agent; and Sherwyn McNair, director of Information Services, all from Abilene; and Sam Russell, the Company's local manager in Vernon.

Meller, whose responsibilities include general supervision of all WTU power plants, said the site near Oklaunion was chosen after an exhaustive study of possible locations by Tippet and Gee, an Abilene consulting engineering firm.

First indication that a power plant would be constructed somewhere in the Lake Kemp-Lake Diversion area came in December, 1976, when it was announced that WTU had contracted for water rights from the lake system. The contract with the City of Wichita Falls and the Wichita County Water Improvement District Number Two provides for WTU to use up to 20,000 acre feet of water per year for power generation. A permit also has been granted by the State Water Rights Commission.

West Texas Utilities is an investor-owned electric company which serves in a 53-county area extending from the Red River to the Rio Grande. General offices are in Abilene. Vernon is in the Company's Panhandle District, which is headquartered in Childress, with A.D. Green as district manager.

The new power plant will be operated by WTU, but is presently being considered as a joint project to be shared by other companies in the Central and South West System. Engineering design and construction of the new plant will be managed by CSW.

Central and South West Corp. is a utility holding company with headquarters in Dallas. Its operating companies are Public Service Co.

of Oklahoma, Tulsa; Southwestern Electric Power Co., Shreveport; Central Power and Light Co., Corpus Christi; and WTU.

No date has been set for actual beginning of construction, but Meller said preliminary environmental impact studies will start immediately.

Present plans call for an ultimate generating capability of about 2 million kilowatts. This would make it one of the largest power plants in the state, and by far the largest in WTU territory.

The plant will consist of three generating units, to be built successively, which means that construction work at the site possibly will be under way for about 15 years. Total cost is expected to exceed $1 billion.

The first of the generating units is expected to be in commercial operation by 1987.

Hospital Board And Doctor in Negotiation

Collingsworth General Hospital Board voted Monday, May 7 to enter into negotiations with Dr. Prasanna K.N. Kumar that might lead to the doctor opening a practice in Wellington.

Hospital administrator Morris Barcroft reported to the board that he had a telephone conversation with Dr. Kumar last week and that Kumar gave him an outline of what types of guarantees he would expect in order to leave his current practice and open one here. Barcroft said that a letter detailing those guarantees was expected this week.

Kumar visited in Wellington two weeks ago when he met with members of the medical community and attended a reception held for him.

Envelope Size Standards in Effect July 15

"Use up your small and undersized envelopes and cards before July 15," Postmaster L.B. Bratten reminds customers. That is the date when the Postal Service's new size standards become effective.

The Wellington postmaster said that after July 15, envelopes and cards measuring less than 3½ inches high or 5 inches long will be returned to the sender if mailed.

Postmaster Bratten said that because the envelope and greeting card industries have had more than three years to prepare for the new standards, few retailers should still be selling undersized pieces.

A Bit of County History In New Arrington Book

GEORGE WASHINGTON ARRINGTON, Civil War Spy, Texas Ranger, Sheriff and Rancher, A biography, by Jerry Sinise. Eakin Press. $6.95

A bit of the most fascinating history to involve Collingsworth County appears in a new book, the biography of G.W. (Cap) Arrington, by Panhandle magazine editor Jerry Sinise.

Cap Arrington -- he was a Captain in the Texas Rangers -- arrived on the Collingsworth scene to unwind the tangled affairs of the Rocking Chair Ranch.

"Not so well-known are the stories in connection with British ranching ventures in the Panhandle, and Sinise presents an amusing account of Arrington's trials as manager of the Rocking Chair Ranch, which previously had been royally mismanaged by members of the mobility," writes Mary Kate Tripp of the Amarillo Sunday News Globe staff in a review of the Sinise book.

"The fact that Arrington got the job done may tell as much about his character and ability as some of his more flamboyant exploits in law enforcement on the wild frontier."

"The experience tested qualities that later proved valuable in managing his own ranch near Canadian."

There are still living a few who were children at the time Arrington was in the county.

"...as a Texas Ranger captain and later as sheriff of Wheeler County, (he) helped bring law and order to the Panhandle, and the spare outlines of his career as lawman turn up in any regional history."

"It remained, however, for Amarillo Writer Jerry Sinise to flush out the outlines to produce the three-dimensional

Wellington Kiwanis Club was chartered April 30, 1929. For half a century the Club has served the community through a variety of projects which have helped to enrich all of our lives. For fifty years the Club has lived up to the Kiwanis motto, "We Build", by working for a better community.

During those fifty years Kiwanis Club members have hidden thousands of Easter Eggs, sacked thousands of Christmas fruit and candy sacks, cooked thousands of pounds of barbecue and sponsored dozens of other projects.

Today's members are proud to carry on one of Wellington's oldest traditions of fellowship and service---a tradition of having a good time while helping others.

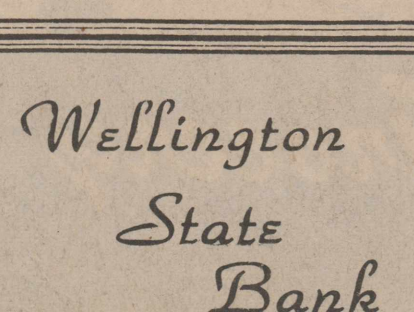

Kiwanis Club members feel a great deal of pride this week in being part of the celebration of the 50th Anniversary of Wellington's oldest service organization.

Service Important to Kiwanis Club Program

While plans for organizing the Wellington Kiwanis Club were still being formed, the president of Kiwanis International had told delegates to the annual convention in Canada that a Kiwanis Club will survive only to the extent that it renders service.

Certainly this club has made service an important part of its life.

James Sullivan, a 41-year member, has recalled projects that leave their mark on the community they serve.

One long-term project is the Christmas Kiddies Show, always held in cooperation with the Ritz Theatre, which is itself only a few weeks older than Wellington Kiwanis.

The other the Easter Egg Hunt.

Both have been Kiwanis projects for children of the Wellington trade area almost from the beginning.

Kiwanis not only sponsors this, but its members are present to do the work.

In the early years, the Easter Egg Hunt was held at the old Fair Grounds, located in the northeast part of town.

Sometimes there was a separate egg hunt for black children. That practice soon died away and everybody took part in the same hunt.

The only fund-raising project held by Kiwanis is the fall pancake supper, Sullivan points out.

Then the whole community comes by the school cafeteria to eat pancakes, sausage and bacon and watch Kiwanians flip pancakes and wait on tables.

Every Kiwanian has a part. The money raised goes into the club's activity fund.

Over the years, Kiwanis has supported Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Cub Scouts. For many years the club sponsored Boy scout Troop 31.

From the beginning, one of its major concerns has been the children of the community, especially those who were needy. A long term project has been the purchase of glasses for needy children youngsters with eye problems.

The first chairman of the needy children's committee was Dr. E.W. Jones, appointed only a few weeks after organization.

This was the spring of 1929 and conditions were buoyant in Wellington. But by the end of 1929, the depression had settled over the whole country and the Kiwanis needy children's committee in the next few years had an important role it had not dreamed of.

Kiwanis sponsors other community projects as they come up.

For several years, it contributed to building the picnic area of Ellison Park. More recently the club bought some of the playground equipment in Pioneer Park on Salt Fork.

Service to community remains one of the Wellington club's most important functions, although members seldom talk about this outside of meetings.

Wellington Kiwanis Club was organized by Hollis Kiwanians.

During the intervening time, the Wellington club has in turn helped to organize three other clubs: Shamrock, with Pampa and Wheeler as co-sponsors, September 12, 1967; Clarendon, with South Amarillo as co-sponsors, April 3, 1972; and Childress, with the Pampa club as co-sponsor.

Three Wellington members have served not only their own club, but as lieutenant governors: Howard Riggs in 1946; the late Cameron Beam in 1952 and John S. Coleman in 1962.

Present members of Wellington Kiwanis Club are Larry E. Adams, Sam Adams, Bill D. Beall, Paul Bell, John M.

Brown, Millard P. Brown, James Carroll, Bobo Castleberry, John S. Coleman, Lyman B. Daniel,

Joe F. Fickling, Elmer P. Hiatt, John Holton, Johnny E. Holton, Tommy R. Hudson, the Rev. Stanley Hughes, Jimmie Kelso, Hubert (Jake) Leach, Chet A Long, Wayne McClendon, Billy, F. Moseley, Herman D. Moseley, Charles R. Pendleton, David W. Pruitt, Don Reeves, Mack Saied, Jr., Jack W. Sanford, George Shadid, Bill Spillman, James Sullivan, the Rev. Thomas H. Thomson, Henry W. Wells and Adolf O. Schmidt.

Kiwanis Observes 50 Years

Co.; C.C. Bell, proprietor, City Bakery; Dr. J.W. Harper; Henry Holcomb, investments; W.O. Pettit, grain dealer; Lee Fortenberry, agent, Magnolia Petroleum Co.; Walter Ricketts, Whippet Motor Co., owner; and Ed Fox, manager Jitney Jungle Grocery.

The Wellington Club was sponsored by the Hollis Kiwanis Club, whose members attended the election meeting and banquet. The following week, Wellington members went to Hollis.

By the time of the Charter night banquet June 14, additional members were Jack Gibson and his father-in-law, E.A. Wells.

A large group of Hollis

Kiwanians were present to see the club they had sponsored received its charter.

J.W. Watson of the Hollis club presided and Ed Smith led the singing of "America". Rev. O.K. Webb of that city gave the invocation.

The banquet was held in the basement of First Methodist Church, and its women prepared the meal.

Many events of those early days have been forgotten, but what they ate that night is a matter of record: fruit cocktail, chicken a la king, new potatoes, fresh beans, sliced tomatoes, parker house rolls, assorted jellies, perfection salad, olives, pickles, ice cream, angel cake, coffee and iced tea.

Dr. Jones gave the address of welcome and E.L. Gardner of Hollis responded. Miss Tomazene Dukeminier sang "A Song of Love," visitors were introduced, and Raymond Barry of Hollis "delivered one of the most humorous and humanly interesting speeches of the evening."

At the climax, L.A. McDonald of Denton, governor of the Texas Oklahoma District, presented the club charter to Duvall.

Miss Greta Mae Cayton gave a reading, and O.K. Webb of Hollis presented the flag to Cayton, Wellington vice president.

By July 1, club membership had dropped two.

James Sullivan, a Kiwanian 41 years, has secured from Kiwanis International, Chicago, a list of all presidents and secretaries who have served the Wellington Club, a list of charter members, the first officers and other information.

He joined the club in 1938, and at the next election was chosen secretary.

Officers when the club had its 10th anniversary were: Logan C. Cummings, superintendent of schools, president; Dr. John W. Harper, immediate past president; A.B. Mears, vice president; Jimmie Kelso, treasurer; and Sullivan, secretary;

Hunter, A Charter Member Still Lives in Wellington

Earl Hunter, retired vice-president of Wellington State Bank, was a charter member and the first treasurer of the Kiwanis Club, something he had forgotten until he was reminded a few days ago.

He adds that he didn't keep the job very long before he resigned and withdrew from the club. He noted there were some things being done he didn't like, although he does not elaborate on these.

Files of The Wellington Leader also reveal that about the same time, he was promoted to cashier of the First National Bank, which later merged with the Wellington State. It can be guessed that his work load became heavier.

Whereas some members remember weightier projects carried out by the organization, Hunter recalls some of its lighter moments.

Like all clubs, Kiwanis needed money and to remedy this, staged a womanless wedding. It was presented at the Rialto Theatre, located about where Montgomery Ward now is, Hunter recalls. There was a great deal of rehearsing.

Hunter recalls that Jimmy Cochran, then a small boy, dropped by during dress rehearsals to look the situation over. He was puzzled.

"Is that a woman?" he pointed to one of the actors. He was assured it was.

Cochran's eyes traveled down to a pair of hairy legs and heavy shoes.

"Aw, that's not a woman," he announced.

Mrs. Hunter remembers the womanless wedding, too. She seldom went to the picture show in those years, considering it too expensive. But she did go to the Kiwanis production and recalls there was a large audience.

Wellington Kiwanis Club may have been nearly half a century ahead of its time.

Hunter also has memories of the member who wanted to admit women to the club, although the constitution and by-laws of Kiwanis International forbids this. The member gained some following before the proposal was voted down.

Kiwanis remains an all-male organization, and about as close as it gets to female membership is their sweetheart, a cute, talented high school pianist members pick each year to accompany their singing.

This year's sweetheart is Kathleen Reeves, daughter of President Don Reeves.

Hunter is the only charter member still living in Wellington. Another charter member, Stanley Larson, living in Oklahoma, visited here a few years ago.

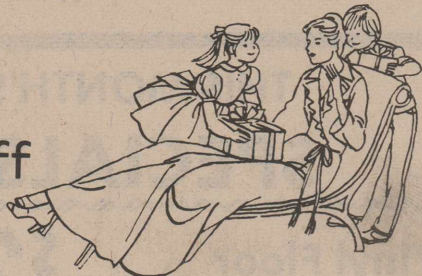

Some of the members, usually managers of companies or stores with out of town owners, remained in Wellington a few years and moved on to other assignments with their employers or went into other fields of work. Most dropped their contact with Wellington.

Part of the members, some living here, have died.

Hunter believes most of that charter group may no longer be living, as a number of them were already men in their middle years when the club was organized 50 years ago.
