Survived By Husband, Two Sons, Parents, And Two Sisters; All Relatives At Bedside At Death

WEAKENED through years of suffering, the slender thread of life drawn taut by complications of pneumonia which set in Monday, Mrs. Robert J. Murray, 36, wife of the president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, died last night at 11 o'clock at the family residence, 2215 Main street.

Funeral services are to be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Methodist church. Rev. H. L. Munger, pastor, officiating. He will be assisted by Dr. E. E. White, of Abilene, presiding elder of the Abilene district and former Lubbock pastor. Burial will be in the Slaton cemetery. The body will lie in state today at Rix-Sanders funeral home.

Several Years
Mrs. Murray had been ill for the past several years and contracted pneumonia three weeks ago. Her condition became grave Monday when pneumonia set in.

Born in Slaton
Born in Slaton, Grayson county, Texas, in 1894, Mrs. Murray was married 14 years ago, and has been a resident of Lubbock for the past five years, moving here with her family in 1925. She was a member of the First Methodist church and, up until the time her health failed, was a prominent worker of that organization.

Head of Slaton Bank
Her husband, R. J. Murray, also is president of a Slaton bank, where he lived for several years before moving to Lubbock. He is representative of the Santa Fe Railway company's land department in this section, is a former president of the

Near Fist Fight
Enlivens Session

Representatives Quinn and Cox almost came to blows in argument over prison closing by board.

AUSTIN, March 11.—(P)—A near fist fight in the house of representatives saved this from being a drab day in the Texas legislature.

Conference committees trying to adjust differences on prison reform and sulphur tax legislation had several meetings without result. While the house and senate ground away on comparatively uninteresting bills.

In Near Clash
Tense occasioned by the tightly-drawn lines between factions in the house over penitentiary reform precipitated a near-clash between Rep. O. J. Cox of Paris and B. E. Quinn of Beaumont.

Representative Quinn yesterday had inserted in the Journal a telegram from W. W. Covington of Beaumont, stating that he had delivered six prisoners in Houston for a transfer agent of the penitentiary system and they had been accepted.

Today Rep. Cox, Port of Dallas read a telegram from E. F. Harrell.

EASTLAND, March 11.—(P)—Raymond Mathers, 17, of Eastland, was convicted of attempted assault on a 12-year-old girl and sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary by a 7-2 jury which returned a verdict within an hour after receiving the case.

Mathers, who told officers he had escaped from a reform school in Michigan, made a plea of insanity. The jury found him sane.

He was alleged to have committed the offense near Ranger March 1.

Church Like Theater, Plan of Rev. Frank Norris of Fort Worth Fame

PORT WORTH, March 11.—(P)—Rev. Frank Norris, pastor of the Baptist church here, said today that the church is being built like a theater, and that the plan is to make it a place where people can see and hear the best of the world's great actors and actresses.

At His Feet
At his feet, a dozen yards away from the center of the church, stands an ancient and mighty oak. Through its leafless limbs, thrilling now with the stir of coming spring, the far lights of Washington gleam dimly toward that restful nook in Arlington National cemetery where he sleeps in eternal fellowship with other great dead.

Traffic Passes By
There is an old highway just below, where the busy traffic of the world passes. Beyond comes the wide, quiet sweep of the Potomac, and then the city where most of his life time of public service was spent.

Honors greater than have come to any American since the first president, who perhaps saw that sturdy oak in his youth, fell to the lot of this man whose last sleep is now sheltered. His countrymen made him president, almost against his will. Then again they called him to high service as chief justice.

Yet above and beyond all that was the love men bore him for those personal, homely virtues upon which friendships are founded that transcend political differences—loyalty, kindness and the saving "no time."

World Champion Bulldogger at Fort Worth Fat Stock Show Is Eliminated

PORT WORTH, March 11.—(P)—Rube Roberts, Fort Worth, world champion bulldogger, was practically eliminated as a contender in defense of his own title at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show today when he drew an unusually cunning and elusive steer and was forced to take "no time."

He registered the best time for the show Saturday night when he downed a steer in 3-5 seconds.

Wild broncs and steers had riders grabbing saddle horns and everything else in reach in an effort to stay on. Three were thrown by saddle broncs, four by bareback mounts and 10 steer riders took ungraceful dives.

Judging of the Hereford, Shorthorn and Aberdeen-Angus breeding classes started Tuesday. While Texas breeders failed to annex either of the grand champion honors, they won a number of first places in the class competition. The grand champion Hereford bull was the known show bull, Malador, owned by R. P. Lamont, Jr., of Larkspur, Colo.

Fort Worth Girl Selected "America's Sweetheart" at Miami Beauty Show

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(P)—A blonde beauty from Fort Worth, Texas, 20-year-old Janet Eastman, tonight won the crown of "America's Sweetheart" as seven judges named her as the winner among 44 contestants in the first annual international Beauty Pageant.

Alberta McKellop, 17, Los Angeles, bore the colors of California to a second place with 18-year-old Margaret Ekdahl, Tampa, bringing the state of Florida into third place.

Approximately 10,000 persons attended the selection of "America's Sweetheart" and the bathing beauty pageant that preceded it.

Miss Eastman, five feet, six inches tall and weighing 120 pounds, was crowned immediately after the selection with a gem studded coronet, and was presented with a giant loving cup. She will be given $2,500 as first prize in the pageant.

"America's Sweetheart," graduated a year ago from Central high school at Fort Worth, with the prize money she expects to enter Texas Christian university this year, she said.

Deficiency Appropriation Measure Reported By Senate Committee To Include Request Of President

Will Seek Passage
Bill Goes To Senate Today For Action; Additional Money Included For Aid To Flood Stricken Areas

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(P)—The first deficiency appropriation bill was reported by the Senate committee today with an additional $100,000,000 requested by President Hoover for the Federal Farm Board included in the total of $171,869,377 provided by the measure.

In all the committee added $123,627,814 to the $48,241,563 carried in the bill as it passed the house.

To Seek Passage
Chairman Jones, of the committee will seek passage of the bill by the senate tomorrow.

In addition to the $100,000,000 for the Farm Board's revolving fund the first appropriation for which was $150,000,000 the senate committee added $7,000,000 for seed loans to flood and drought stricken farmers of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Ohio, Oklahoma, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, New Mexico and Missouri.

Twelve million dollars were added for river and harbor work, $3,000,000 for loans to planters and for rebuilding and repairing school houses by the Porto Rican Hurricane Relief commission, $150,000 for the American delegation to the London naval conference, and $100,000 for reclamation service on the Upper Colorado river and the Columbia Basin irrigation project.

Today they joined the conservatives and successfully pushed through an amendment to the coal bill by 262 votes to 274.

Not to Resign
Immediately after the vote MacDonald made it plain that he had no intention of resigning until he was beaten on a major issue or a measure of importance. He said he intended to go on with the coal bill because the amendment carried by the opposition made no essential change in the main structure of the measure.

Former Prime Minister Baldwin, leader of the conservatives provoked MacDonald's comment.

The prime minister showed no signs of discomfiture after the defeat, and then asked the house to continue with its work. Debate upon another amendment then proceeded.

In fact, by challenging Mr. Baldwin to make his vote of censure general on Thursday, he neatly turned the tables on the opposition, and tonight it was said to be uncertain whether the conservative leader would push the censure motion he announced several days ago he would propose.

TENSION ALLAYED
Unrest Reported In Haiti Commission's Probe

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Mar. 11.—(P)—Tension was allayed here tonight following the Hoover Commission's statement that it was standing by its recommendation for a provisional government in Haiti.

Unrest had been caused by President Louis Borno's reported change of mind regarding the commission's plan. He had agreed to support it Sunday, but yesterday it was said to have issued a statement that he was still president of Haiti, that a new president would be selected April 14th by the council of state and that there would be no legislative elections until 1932.

By FRANK P. HILL, Avalanche Correspondent.

TAHOKA, March 11.—Mrs. Ester Turner, divorced daughter-in-law of Mrs. Mollie Turner, on trial here for the murder of her husband 10 years ago, sat on the witness stand practically the entire afternoon today and related her story of the killing of M. B. Turner by his wife at Wilson on October 2, 1920, while a crowd of spectators filled the courtroom to overflowing. Once during the trial today Judge Fritz B. She stated that she was raised in East Texas, married John Turner, son of the defendant, December 24, 1917, had two children, one born six weeks prior to the killing, was divorced on her own plea in 1925, and has since lived with her father near Post.

Dancel Showing Of Passion Play

Advertised Oberammergau
Production Substituted By
Booking Company, Says
Local Theater Manager

Scheduled showing of the advertised Oberammergau Passion Play, for Monday and Tuesday nights, was cancelled the last night through announcement of A. Roy Steed, local theater manager, who declared that the play had been substituted by a booking company without his knowledge, by a movie version of the life of Christ.

"Those persons holding reserved seat tickets, already purchased for the last evening's showing," Steed stated, "will have their money refunded at Bowen's Drug store upon producing the tickets they hold."

"I purchased the film version of the Oberammergau Passion Play, in color, from a Chicago concern, buying the showing rights for the entire state. Because of shortness of time there was no preview and I had no idea, prior to the first night, that I had not received what I ordered."

Steed said that he intended demanding retribution from the company releasing the rights.

Chicago Attorney Is Lions Speaker

C. R. Harbaugh, Father Of Tech Professor, Heard At
Weekly Luncheon Here
Tuesday At Noon

A Chicago attorney, G. R. Harbaugh, was the principal speaker before the regular weekly luncheon gathering of the Lubbock Lions club, held yesterday noon at Hilton Hotel. Mr. Harbaugh is the father of Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, of the animal husbandry department at Texas Technological college.

In his address the visitor spoke on the financial trouble of Chicago and of Cook county, Illinois, explaining that because of great inequalities of property tax values several concerns have been endeavoring for more than two years to make revaluations of all property in the county. No taxes have been collected since 1928. The county pays half or more of all taxes in the state of Illinois. Cause of the difficulty, he said, was that county officials had failed to adopt a budget system and live up to it.

Dr. F. G. Harbaugh was in charge of the program and another speaker was heard, H. L. Henney, assistant of agronomy at Texas Tech, who delivered "The Specialist."

Thrift Proves One's Ability to Rule Self, Says B. and P. W. Officer Here

"The habit of thrift proves your power to rule your own psychic self," said Miss Ruth McCormick, secretary-treasurer of the local Business and Professional Women's club.

"In this present age of master inventions and scientific discoveries," she said, "this day of talking movie pictures, automobiles, paved roads, fashionable pleasure resorts, golf clubs, beauty shops and the monthly installment it behooves us to understand the meaning of the word 'thrift.' We review each of these necessities and decide that there is not one of them that we can dispense with. Then how, we ask ourselves, those of us with limited financial resources, can we be thrifty?"

"The Thrift movement is an educational movement nation-wide in scope, the object of which is to help the individual and the family to think straight and act wisely in the use of money. From time immemorial economy has been practiced but never before until the present time has the word 'thrift' been so commercialized and the meaning of the word so thoroughly emphasized among all professions. The grocers and merchants advertising their merchandise for the 'thrift' housewives and for the thrifty shopper. The bankers advocate the saving of dollars for bank accounts, time deposits and saving accounts. The investment companies suggest good plans for conservative saving. The building and loan companies make it possible for one to own his own home. The insurance companies prove the advantage of thrift in protection. So if we budget our pay check well we should be able to enjoy the majority of these advantages."

Harry fired, and his chum slumped to the ground, the bullet lodged in his head. He was taken to a hospital.

Woman Prevents Jail Break

(Special to the Avantage)

SNYDER, March 11.—Following an attempt of three prisoners to escape, Mrs. Frank M. Brownfield, wife of the Scurry county sheriff, this morning marched two of them back to their cells and relieved her husband of danger. Her phlegm probably saved her husband from possible injury and prevented the break.

After unlocking a tier of cells in the upstairs jail room, where six men were confined, Sheriff Brownfield was attacked by three of the prisoners, two of whom fled through the open door during the scuffle. Hearing the commotion, Mrs. Brownfield armed herself with the pistol and met the men on the bottom floor and forced them to return to their cells.

Phillies Certain To Be Dangerous In National Chase

HOOKS AND SLIDES

CHAMPION MUST PAY
At the end of the uphill climb, there is nowhere to go but down. That is what it costs to be a champion.

Summer's soft breezes will hardly be stirring when the desperate battle to stay on top of the hill will begin. For some, it is going to be a bitter struggle. For men like Babe Ruth, Walter Hagen and Bill Tilden, who have been champions for years, the days are numbered.

To be brutal, it is decay. The champions feel the pangs of mortality last summer when ailing legs and back laid the great man away for weeks. Walter Hagen, dilly-dallying with a bored masochist through the winter tournaments, has felt the winter's sting. He is no longer the Walter who could appear at the course in full dress suit, early in the morning hours, without having been abed—and shoot a miraculous 35. Tilden, growing daily more irascible and strained as the heat of battle makes demands upon his physical assets that no longer can be paid, is another who is taking the strides downhill now. At the end of the summer, where will these three men be?

HOW THEY HAVE CONQUERED!
What great moments they have had! The Hale, 15 years ago, winning his first tournament! Babe Ruth, baseball's heroic and temperamental figure for the last decade! Tilden, blinding his way to his first crown in 1920! But now others are clamoring for room at the top. The word is, "Keep moving!"

The Babe got away slowly last year and, despite sickness and injuries, struggled past his rivals in the final drive. Can he do it again, at 26 years of age? He thinks he can. But the years between 35 and 40 are hard years for an athlete. The rapidly legs that upheld the great Ruthian frame have begun to buckle under the strain. I believe Babe will be passed this year in the home run race for the second time since he started his record career of banging them over the wall in 1919. The second time—and the last.

HAGEN'S CONFIDENCE WAXING
Walter Hagen's entry in the British open this year depends upon how his game goes in Australia and the Orient, where he has been on tour with Joe Kirkwood. In the tournaments on the Pacific, Hagen seemed bored with his game. When a man like Hagen loses confidence, it is tragic. That has been his guiding star, a world of courage and persistence under stress. To friends he intimates he might not play in the British open this year, but when the time rolls around the story may be different.

If Cochet, Lacoste and Borotra stay at home this summer, Tilden may retain his national championship. Cochet could come, however, and take it away from him, certainly, for the old speed and staying powers in Tilden have been playing trumps for 15 years. There comes a time when the legs will not stand it.

CHAMPIONS IN FULL BLOOM
Bobby Jones is still in youth's company, and there is just the chance that he may win four championships this year: two in Britain and two in America, a crowning achievement for the golf craftsman of all time.

There seems no one around to defeat Mrs. Helen Wills Moody. Glennis Colelet couldn't lose to anyone but Joyce Wethered, the Briton, and Joyce says she has put away her clubs. Henri Cochet can win almost anything he goes after in the tennis realm.

There are three stars, however, for whom this year may be the last at the hip-top. The Babe, Sir Walter, Big Bill—for these the down-hill trek will be swift and sure.

Westerners And Tigers Matched For Meet

Bats Packed With Dynamite In Burt Shotten's Outfit

Philadelphia Boss Promises Club Will Be Tough To Handle In 1930 Season; Pitchers Show Promise

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 11. (P)—The demeanor of Burt Shotten, one of baseball's real horse traders, gives the Phillies' baseball secret away. A year ago Burt thought his team had great possibilities but he was afraid to say so. To visiting newspaper men he played soft and low in his predictions and was more apt to shush than cheer.

Twelve months later it is different. "You can write a piece about the Phillies now, you won't have to take back," said the manager jubilantly. "No sir, if you say the Phillies are tough, you won't have to eat any crow."

Shotten Optimistic
No one could blame the shrewd Shotten for a measure of satisfaction at the performance of his team last year. And he has no reason to believe the players will not be even harder to subdue in 1930.

In 1929 the Phillies took their bats in hand and set six records, four by the club and two by individuals. Lefty O'Doul led the National league in hitting and his 254 hits made a new league record. Chuck Klein hit the most home runs, his mark of 43 breaking Rogers Hornsby's old record of 42. The club piled up a record for most total bases, most long hits, most extra bases and most home runs. The Phillies in a body made 153 home runs in 1929.

All the long distance hitters of yesterday are back with at least one new candidate for admission to the roster circle. Tripp Simpson slipped into the lineup late in the season and for his few games he hit for an average of .517, his hits including some extra long ones.

Club Tactics
Except for the addition of some much needed strength in the batteries and reserves, the club is intact. Don Hurst, Fred Thompson, Tommy Thevenow and Arthur Whitney, will be doing business at the same old infield stand.

John Shorlock, a youngster from the Mission club, who seems to be able to qualify as a hitter, will join Barney Pribeg to form the infield emergency corps. Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul will be two of the outfielders and Denny Southern, a right hander, may alternate with Sisman, who bats left handed in the other field. Cy Williams, 41 years old, but still a batting menace, will be an outfield replacement.

"Old Pete" Alexander, still a pitcher although he has celebrated his 43rd birthday may hold in his shrewd arm and keep pitching brain the hopes of the pitching staff. He will pitch and win some games for the Phillies, the club with which he started his major league career 19 years ago and he will tell the ambitious young pitchers all he knows of the tricks of the trade.

"I think he will win a lot of games for us," said Shotten. "And certainly he won't beat us any as he has been doing for St. Louis."

Alex Is Dead Or Staff
Alexander as the dean of pitchers, will not be seen on the mound so much as some of the younger men. Claude Wilkoughby, Phil Collins, Ray Benge, Harry Smythe, Lou Koupal and Les (Sugar) Ewelland will work often. They were on the club last year, as were Harold Elliott and Sam Dalley who will be given every chance to make good this year.

Among the promising new pitchers, Byron Spence from Indianapolis and Early Collier from Shreveport seem sure to stick. John Milligan who had a sore arm last year, thinks he has recovered. This is the confident position also of Benge who had trouble with his arm in 1929 after a great year in 1928.

Certain To Be Dangerous
The Phillies with their bats loaded with dynamite, are certain to be dangerous in the National league trail, Shotten summed it up. "They were glad to see us come a little while ago," he said. "Now they are glad to see us go." He was referring to the other National league clubs.

Shotten Picks Cubs
TO YORK PENNANT
NEW YORK, March 11. (P)—Max Bishop, convalescent second baseman of the Athletics, who checked in at Ft. Myers several days late, confided to his teammates today that the mystery of Al Simmons' swollen ankles was no mystery at all. Bishop, who remained an extra week at the resort because of blood poisoning, said Simmons' legs were in fine condition and that the hard-hitting outfielder would remain away until most of the A's exhibition games were over, as he dislikes southern playing fields.

Another pennant for the Cubs, with the Giants and Pirates fighting it out for runner-up position and the Phillies in a first division berth, is the way Burt Shotten, Phillies manager, sizes up the National league campaign. "Barring accidents or unusual happenings, there's no way to beat the Cubs," Shotten said at the Winter Haven, Fla., training camp. "They won last year with a great pitching staff

"BRAZOS KID" SHINES
WICHITA FALLS, March 11. (P)—The Spudders played their first practice game of the season today. Tony DeFate's nine defeating Howard Fitzgerald's combination, 5 to 2, in a six inning game.

Austin Thomas, self-styled Brazos Kid from the sandlots of Nacogdoches, who arrived in town with a great brace of confidence last week, proved his worth, jacking by knocking in two runs and doing creditable fielding for the basemen. Steve Stearns, Larry Bettenheim and Chick Gales, all from California, No. 10, were given chances today.

BUFFS MEET OWLS TODAY
HOUSTON, March 11. (P)—Flea Race, right-hand pitcher, will start for the Houston Buffs tonight against the Rice Owls. Manager Joe Schultz said today, Bob Morrow, veteran catcher, arrived today, and was out this afternoon. With Morrow and Hal Parnell in good shape, the Buffs should have an able receiving staff. Schultz announced the following batting order for the Buffs: Eddie Heck, 2b; Vernon Doerflinger, 1b; Carey Edgell, 3b; Sol Melchior, 1b; Geo. Blinn, 2b; Elaine Kupper, 2b; Punk, c; Ross and Brown, pitchers.

WACO SQUAD IS CUT
WACO, March 11. (P)—With the Cub squad cut to 20 men, there was only a light session for the Waco candidates today. The morning practice had to be called off because of a banquet tendered the Baltimore Orioles and the Cubs at the Raleigh Hotel at noon. Last night Pratt had deprived seven of his candidates of a meal ticket. The boys released had little or no professional experience and were hardly expected to make the grade.

STEER REGULARS WIN
DALLAS, March 11. (P)—Jacks Atz again split the Dallas Steers for an intra-club practice today and the "regulars" scored their second straight victory over the youngsters, 10 to 7.

Made to order weather favored the game, but in spite of this Manager Atz allowed them to let down a bit as most of the players were sore after the full nine inning tangle of Monday.

Hughie Williamson, young third sacker brought from Little Rock was the bright spot of today's game. It was his first workout here during the training season.

YANKS TRIM BRAVES
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11. (P)—Stuten will limit his stay in the New York Yankees on 5 to 6 victory over the Boston Braves in the third meeting of the spring exhibition series today.

Three Boston pitchers, Brown, Cantwell and Alonzo Smith, left for the Yankees' spring camp today. Their team's trip to the north. Manager Bob Shaver, used John on, Edwards and Rhodes on the mound, the latter holding the Braves hitless for the last three innings.

BROOKLYN HITS DETROIT
CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11. (P)—Brooklyn four direct hurlers for 10 hits, the Brooklyn Dodgers today defeated the Detroit Tigers 10 to 3. Clark, Vernon, Laque and Elliott held the American leaguers to 10 hits while the Robins were making easy work of the offering of Whitehill, Sorrell, Nelson and Page. Bresler and Thurston hit home runs for Brooklyn while Dale Alexander connected with a clutch clout for the Tigers.

TRIBE HURLES ARRIVE
SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (P)—Two pitchers arrived here Tuesday to join the Indians in spring training at Fort Sam Houston.

They are Leo (Boots) Alter, purchased from the Augusta, Ga. Sally League club, and Hugo Klamper, Fredericksburg, Tex. This brings the number in camp now up to 20, with Catcher Pete Lapan and Pitchers Jim Chaplin and Herman Sparks yet to arrive.

Manager George Burns put the players through their second workout today, which was of light order. By Thursday he expects to work a double shift, one from 10 to noon, and the other, from 2 to 4 p. m.

Former Fort Worth Speed Demon on Trojan Team

Guyer, Draper, Maurer and Wykoff (By Central Press)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 11.—To acquire a good relay man is a lucky break for any track-minded school, but to virtually inherit three-fourths of a national championship team is almost too good to be true. However, that's just what happened to the University of Southern California.

At the National A. A. U. championships in Denver last July, the Los Angeles Athletic club had the fastest sprint relay team—the Mercury quartet—in the country in three young flashes: Frank Wykoff, Milton Maurer and Maurice Guyer and the veteran, Charley Paddock. The team won the 440 and 880-yard relays.

Today, this same team, with the exception of Paddock, whose school days are over, is running for the University of Southern California. To take Paddock's place, Weidon Draper has been added to the lightning limbed trio of Wykoff, Maurer and Guyer.

Draper burned up the high school cinder paths in Texas while a student of Central high school in Ft. Worth.

In addition to possessing three of the champion relay runners, the same man who coached the flying Athletic club four, Dean Cromwell, is again coaching the team, this time for the Trojans.

As a relay coach Cromwell is rated as high as his success last year with the club team being in addition to his 1927 Trojan world's record holding team which traveled the 880 in one minute 25.8 seconds.

It begins to look as though there are big things ahead for the Trojans in the relay business.

Bracey to Enter Famed Relays at Pennsylvania U.
HOUSTON, March 11. (P)—Claude Bracey, Rice Institute's great sprinter, will compete in the famed Penn Relays games to be held April 25 and 26 at Philadelphia, Dr. Gaylord Johnson, business manager of Rice athletics announced today.

The Penn Relays, held annually by the University of Pennsylvania, are the standard of track and field events. In the meet Bracey will face the outstanding sprinter in the country.

Shallowater to Stage Festivity
Bronco "busting" gone rooping and baseball will feature an all-day celebration at Shallowater Saturday, it was announced last night by Fred Pike, secretary of the Shallowater chamber of commerce.

Sponsored by the Shallowater chamber, the rodeo events will be open to all contestants while the baseball exhibition will be between the "Pais" and "Leans" of that community only.

Starting time for the ball game is set for 3:30 Saturday afternoon.

Horton Smith Is Victim of Defeat
MIAMI, Fla., March 11. (P)—Horton Smith, sensational golfing youngster, took a 16-hole drubbing today as he and his partner, Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., were eliminated, one up, in quarter-final play of the $5,000 international four-ball matches.

Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie four on the lengthy 36th hole of Miami Country club course to advance himself and Harry Hampton, Chicago, to semi-finals.

Cyril Walker, Saddle River, N. J., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla., played consistent golf through the day to win 3 and 2 from Jack Collins, Dayton, Ohio, and Eddie Williams, Cleveland.

Today's rehearsal was again devoted largely to the art of base running.

Reserve Trackmen Of Two Teams To Meet On Tuesday

Slaton Second Will Come Here For Practice Affair; Idolous Speedsters Fail To Arrive Tuesday

Reserve members of the Lubbock and Slaton track squads will hold the spotlight on the Tech cinder path next Tuesday. It was announced last night by Coach E. J. Lowrey, following a telephone conversation with Paul Wright, Tiger mentor.

The practice dual event will give the numerous first and second-year candidates an opportunity to show their wares under fire and at the same time will give their coaches a line on their ability. The Lubbock coach last night attempted to arrange a meet with the Slaton tracksters today, but Coach Wright set Tuesday as the earliest possible day he will be able to bring his men here for the contest.

Members of the two teams that placed in the Snyder meet Saturday will be barred from competition in the practice affair here next week, it was announced. There is a possibility that the line will be drawn even closer than this.

The scheduled meet yesterday between the Westerners and the Idolous Wildcats was postponed indefinitely when the east-side team failed to appear. Efforts by Coach Lowrey to get in touch with Coach L. F. Swinney proved futile.

Ideal weather greeted both the high school and Tech thrills Tuesday afternoon, the tracksters going through a lengthy workout. The feature of the afternoon's session was an 880-yard relay between the two teams. A strong finish enabled the Matadors to take the race.

They were picked up for investigation last night, and officers learned of the charge said to be against Stowe while questioning the woman. WHEN WILL YOU BEGIN USING THIS NEW OIL?

It is being rumored (and truthfully) that no other American motor oil has been so speedily accepted by motorists. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil has smashed all precedents by its amazing reception... And this oil is as unusual as its introduction. Its superiorities are so apparent, that even before its announcement was well under way, literally thousands of new users were appearing at Red Triangle stations.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

Its name seems to intrigue motorists and much conversation has dwelt on the Germ Process, and the whys and wherefores... the story is this: Under exclusive Conoco-owned patent rights, a precious oily essence is added to a superbly fine paraffin base oil. This essence is lacking in all other oils, including the one you are now using. The Germ Process makes possible the metal-penetrating safety factor that we call "penetrative lubricity." And this oil, of all on the market, provides a safer, more positive motor protection, from the time you start the motor until you turn off the ignition.

So... when will you begin using this new oil? ... at the sign of the Red Triangle.

He that reproves a sinner getteth to himself shame; and he that rebuketh a wicked man getteth himself a blot.

Reprove not a sinner, lest he hate thee: rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee.—Proverbs, ix, 7, 8.

"SOME OF THESE DAYS"

The Morning Avalanche has ceased to become overly perturbed over Lubbock's possibilities of securing the long-promised federal building any time soon. Senators may write and congressmen may wire but this newspaper has adopted the "watchful waiting" policy, and will be content with chewing its cud until something like action appears on the horizon.

Every month or so our representatives in Washington, who really have very little to do with federal buildings and their construction, decide to strengthen their political fences out this way and forthwith dispatch letters and telegrams to local leaders of their forces forecasting action of some kind or another. Then the storm subsides, the daisies theoretically continue to blossom upon the building site and all remains quiet in the vicinity of the Yellowstone canyon.

Lubbock will get a postoffice. There is little, if any, doubt about that. But whether we or our children will ever derive any use from it continues to be a matter for retrospection and contemplation, communications from the "big shots" notwithstanding.

Several years ago some enterprising inhabitant of "Tin Pan Alley" penned a song hit entitled "Some of These Days." The Avalanche suggests the erection of a large sign upon the east side of the courthouse square and presenting to the world that hopeful phrase.

"Some of These Days" we'll have a postoffice worthy of the name!

TO SEE WHAT MAKES HIM BAD

In the Neurological Institute of Columbia university progress is an undertaking that may yield an interesting body of information if not immediate and direct results of so-called practical importance. A body of 50 scientific men have set themselves the task of determining the causes that perpetuate in society a criminal class.

It is a miraculous mixture that compounds the making of the ordinary man. He is supposed in some subtle, mysterious way to carry a certain residuum from all the processes and accumulations of his ancestors. And then his age and time shape him and make his contribution. He gets education and nourishment and discipline according to his surroundings and the setting into which his lot casts him, and according to the time-honored theory, he himself is held in some degree accountable for willing the uses that he makes of the materials the world hands him.

But sometimes out of this process of manufacture issues the abnormal man, the misfit, the defective, the anti-social, the dangerous man. What is the combination that occurs when such a product results? This is the question to be studied. It demands the co-operation of many skilled minds. The biologist, the neurologist, the anthropologist, the educator, and maybe the chemist and physical scientist all might contribute, for man is an animal, a bundle of nerves, a descendant, a pupil and, in a cruder way, a chemical compound and a mechanical device.

Such a study will not be finished in a day, but whatever results will be highly interesting.

"USE MORE DAIRY PRODUCTS"

Eighteen states, leaders in the dairy industry, are co-operating in a nation-wide movement to encourage the use of butter and milk and other dairy products. A campaign of publicity and education is to be promoted to prove to consumers that there is a good dollar's worth of food value in these wholesome foods at the present prices, and that in the interests of health a generous use of them is necessary no matter what the price.

It is an interesting phase of this instruction that is aimed to persuade the farming population itself to use more butter and milk. It is charged by those who permit themselves to be called farm experts, that the focus on the farm too frequently sell short on butter and milk, and feed themselves and their children on substitutes.

"If the farmers used as much as they should of their own dairy products," said a lecturer to farmers recently, "the present surplus of these commodities soon would be negligible."

WHEN SENATE PASSES TARIFF BILL
FIGHT WILL JUST BEGIN

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 11.—When comes the notion that the tariff fight will be over when the senate passes the tariff bill?

Then is when it will begin. The real fight will be between the senate and the house of representatives. The preliminaries, still in progress, signify nothing in particular. Betting on the main encounter's outcome is about 50-50. A draw is a distinct possibility.

That is to say, the two houses may fail to get together. In other words, perhaps no bill at all will go through. For nearly a year congress has been struggling with the tariff. It is at least as likely as not that the struggle will end with the tariff remaining just as it is now.

Beginning last spring, the supposition was that the tariff was to be changed principally for agriculture's benefit.

The farmers complained that the protection enjoyed by the manufacturers had made prices ungodly high on everything agriculture has to pay for, but that they themselves were so inadequately protected that prices stayed low on everything they had to sell.

They wanted to be protected equally with the industries—maybe not in quite the same way, but somehow or other.

This was what it was assumed the seventy-first congress was going to attend to when it met in extra session in April, 1929, soon after President Hoover had been inaugurated.

The representatives promptly got busy, inasmuch as theirs is the house in which all financial legislation must originate.

The result was far from what agriculture had expected. The representatives did, indeed, increase tariffs. They boosted them to the highest levels ever known in the world's history, but the advances almost all were on manufactured products. Such advances as agriculture did get were enormously more than offset by the industrial increases.

True, the new farm board was created, to do what it could for the distressed agrarians. However, in case the new board actually helped the farmers to make any more money, it was evident that the manufacturers' increased tariff advantage would enable the industrial magnates to take it away from them in less than no time.

The assertion that the tariff bill passed by the representatives was something fearful and wonderful can hardly be successfully disputed, considering that it even shocked some of the most unmitigated old protectionists in the senate, when it arrived at their end of the capitol building to be acted on.

To be sure, big business somehow missed gaining control of the senate at the 1928 election.

It gained control of the house of representatives, and for awhile it thought it was in control of the senate also, but as to the latter body one of its cogs slipped somewhere.

Accordingly the senators immediately began taking the representatives' bill apart and making it over again—decidedly less to the manufacturers' interest; decidedly more to agriculture's.

Naturally the representatives' leaders, who framed the bill, have gone almost delirious with indignation as they watched this performance. It accounts for the amount of jawing they have done concerning the time the senate was wasting. It is a fact the job took considerable time. It was a long bill, and nearly every line of it has been altered.

However, does it stand to reason that the representatives will acquiesce tamely when the bill gets back for them to express their opinion of?

The representatives passed a bill to help manufacturing at agriculture's expense. The senators plainly are preparing to pass a bill to help agriculture at manufacturing's expense.

A conference committee, representing both houses, will have to take the two bills and see if it can agree on a compromise.

It may succeed and it may not.

The representatives certainly will prefer the present law to the senators' bill and the senators certainly will prefer the present law to the representatives' bill.

President Hoover's attitude is much debated. Some folk say he never did like the house bill and is secretly pleased with the senate's work, though it generally is assumed that he and the leaders of the house majority are very friendly, while the senators responsible for disfiguring the house's tariff measure are opposed to him.

INCISION OF EAR DRUM ISN'T AS SERIOUS AS PEOPLE SUPPOSE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine

In the spring when infectious diseases are fairly common, when coughs, colds and sore throats are frequent, infections of the ear are also prevalent.

In most instances, the germs which set up inflammation in the ear with its resultant earache get into the ear from the nose and throat along the eustachian tube. This tube passes from the back of the nose cavity into the ear. It serves to equalize the pressure on both sides of the ear drum.

When the infection passes up this tube, it infects not only the tube but also all of the tissue inside the ear. In most instances the germ which causes this infection is a streptococcus, a germ of the type that it is also responsible for septic sore throat, scarlet fever, erysipelas and similar complaints.

In many instances the germ seems to have a special affinity for the ear and spreads so rapidly that it produces infection in the ear, breaking down the bony walls of the cavities and producing mastoiditis and infecting the tissue of the brain.

When the ear is infected, the first symptom is intense earache. When the physician illuminates the ear and looks at the ear drum, he finds it red and bulging. In most instances, he perforates the ear drum promptly so as to permit the infectious material to escape and thus to avoid the internal pressure that results in inflammation of the mastoid.

From the very first, the mastoid bone may be tender on pressure because of the swelling on the inside. Whenever pain is severe and there is fever, the physician knows that the infection is serious and he is likely to recommend immediate incision of the ear drum.

The operation is not difficult and, if performed soon enough, is likely to prevent the more serious complications that are mentioned.

People have strange notions about perforation of the ear drum, believing that this will interfere with hearing and cause other damage, whereas actually the ear drum heals promptly after the infection disappears and hearing is likely to be just as good as it was previously.

Gigi Berkeley, 15, who unaccountably sprinkles all guests Friday night from flask of perfume presented by Crosby to her mother.

Dick Berkeley, drunk Friday night; infuriated with Doris; had forced her to agree to meet him later Friday night, and known by Dundee to have been missing from his room.

Wickett, butler, formerly in employ of both Mrs. Lambert and Crosby.

Clorinda and Dick are first suspects. Strawn sends Dundee to find if Dick is in his room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX As Dundee let himself into the house by the front door, hoping to evade the hysterical questions of the servants, who must have noted the arrival of the police car, the door leading into the backstairs quarters was torn open and a young man in chauffeur's uniform lunged toward him, pausing only long enough to slam the door viciously in the face of a maid who was pressing forward inquisitively.

"Excuse me, sir," the chauffeur panted. "But will you tell me what's up? What are the police doing here? Della, the upstairs maid, told me Doris didn't sleep in her room last night. It's not true, is it? Nothing's happened to Doris? The police aren't here about her, are they, sir?"

He was almost sobbing, and one big freckled hand kept running distractedly through his curly, dark red hair.

When Dundee hesitated to answer, the chauffeur so far forgot himself as to seize the guest's arm and shake it frantically. "For God's sake, sir, why won't you tell me? I'm Arnold—Eugene Arnold, the Berkeley chauffeur, and I'm engaged to be married to Doris. I have a right to ask if anything's happened to her—"

"I'm sorry, Arnold," Dundee said slowly, "but I can't speak for the police. Will you please wait as quietly as possible in the servants' sitting room until Captain Strawn calls for you? And I think it would be wise for you not to talk—"

"Then it is Doris!" Arnold interrupted, his voice going heavy and dull with despair. Then apparently realization swept over him. His freckled, pleasant young face flamed with anger. "Did she elope with Dick Berkeley, sir? Is that what the row's about? For God's sake, tell me!"

"Sorry, but I'm afraid I can't tell you anything, Arnold," Dundee said quietly, and started up the stairs.

"Come! With that drunken rotter!" Arnold growled, and lurched blindly toward the back-hall door. But before his disappeared Dundee heard him vow, with terrible intensity, "I'll find him and kill him if I have to hunt all over the world for him!"

"A violent young man," Dundee commented wearily to himself, as he plodded upstairs. He hoped to gain the third floor without further interruption, but as he reached the second Clorinda Berkeley stepped forward. She had changed from bathing suit to a morning dress of dark-green jersey, a color which made her pallor quite ghastly.

"Why didn't you tell me that Doris had committed suicide?" she demanded coldly. "I imagine he would rather have had the news from you than from a policeman."

"Because I don't know that Doris committed suicide," Dundee answered, watching the beautiful, somber face keenly.

"Don't quibble with me!" she retorted, in a low, arrogant voice. "Gigi confessed to me on the way to the house that she recognized the 'mermaid' in the lake, and I watched from my window as you dived for the body and took it into the summerhouse."

"Where is Gigi now? Why aren't you with her?" Dundee asked sharply.

"You don't like me, do you?" Clorinda asked, with amazing irreverence. "So few people do."

Gigi preferred to be consoled by Mrs. Lambert, as I was busy being rather sick at my stomach. Doris was one of the few people who liked me, and I was very fond of Doris. I can't imagine why she should commit suicide, unless—"

She broke off abruptly, and Dundee saw a flicker of quickly controlled fear in her magnificent black eyes.

"I'm rather anxious to get into my clothes," Dundee excused himself curtly. Not for him, in Clorinda Berkeley's home, to probe the meaning of that "unless."

"By the way, Miss Berkeley, do your father and mother know yet?"

"No, I didn't fancy the task," Clorinda retorted coolly. "There's nothing Mother enjoys so much as a good fit of hysterics, and Father and I are not on confidential terms just now," she added, with bitter humor. "I see the police have arrived. They'll probably enjoy the sensation. I shouldn't."

Dundee proceeded up the stairs, grateful to Mrs. Lambert and Gigi for not bursting out upon him with questions he could not answer. Odd that Gigi should prefer Mrs. Lambert to her mother, though Dundee could not but be glad that it was the social secretary's gentle understanding which was now coping with the high-strung little girl's shocked nerves.

He went to his own room, thence, by way of the bathroom, to Dick Berkeley's. As he had expected and feared, the missing man had not returned. For the first time he tried the door leading into the hall. It was locked. Doubtless Dick had pocketed the key, to prevent his absence being discovered by anyone but Dundee, who had heard him make the rendezvous with Doris and who, he must have thought, could be depended upon not to give him away. But now, Dundee reflected grimly, it was no longer a

SHOT TO DEATH
GOLDTHWAITE, March 11. (AP)—Leonard Witt was shot and killed near Fridley today. Shortly after the shooting Leonard VanZandi was arrested and charged with murder in connection with Witt's death. Witt was reported to have fallen with a revolver in his hand, from which one cartridge had been fired. He was killed by a charge from a shotgun. Both were young married men and lived in the Fridley community.

Murder Backstairs

question of shielding a friend engaged in an intrigue with a pretty servant, Doris Matthews had been murdered, and the bonds of the law would have to be set upon Dick Berkeley's trail.

Ten minutes later, decently dressed and sketchily shaved, Dundee sped down the backstairs and out of the house. A frightened cook and housemaid had peeped out at him, but he had given them no time to question him.

The machinery of the law had been set in motion during his absence. Captain Strawn and the coroner, Dr. Price, (whom he had met during the investigation into the Rhodes House murders, were bending over the body of the dead girl, still stretched upon the curving bench of the summerhouse. The finger-print expert, Carraway, was already busy with his black powder and camera. Wickett, the butler, still stood outside the little arbor, but Seymour Crosby was missing from the gruesome picture. A knot of uniformed policemen and plainclothes detectives stood on the lake's edge, awaiting instructions from the chief of the homicide squad.

"Dick Berkeley has not returned," Dundee reported to Strawn, in a voice so low that Wickett could not hear. "Since he's still in dinner clothes, they're in his closet—I don't think he could have got far without being noticed."

Strawn turned his back on the corpse and jerked his head toward the immobile butler. "Got any reason to think the old boy's mixed up in this?" he whispered.

"None whatever!" Dundee answered sincerely.

"Then don't you think it might be a good idea to let him in on the secret of your official connection with the police?" Strawn suggested.

"If this thing isn't quickly cleared up by a confession from Dick Berkeley and developed into a first-class mystery, we'll need Wickett as an ally. No one knows as much about a family like this as its butler, and besides, he can keep the coast clear of other servants while you snoop around in the bedrooms and such—"

"Just a minute, chief!" Dundee interrupted. "I agree with you that I might be of infinitely more value as a trusted guest, rather than as a detective, but—hang it all, I am a guest here, and I simply can't do it—snoop around in the bedrooms as you suggest—"

"Resigning from the force, because a friend of yours is mixed up in this, Dundee?" Strawn asked, a sneer twisting his broad, thin mouth.

"I don't think you mean that Captain Strawn," Dundee answered quietly. "I want to be on the case, but I'd rather be open and above board about it."

"And jeopardize your future usefulness on the homicide squad? Your uncle, the police commissioner, and I agreed after the Rhodes House murders that you could serve us best by not getting yourself tagged as what the people call a 'common detective.' With the education and social advantages you've had you can move in circles not open to the rest of us—"

"I know the argument, and I've been willing to be of service in any way possible," Dundee interrupted, "but in this instance I can't bring myself to abuse hospitality so flagrantly. There's another thing too: as a guest, presumably under police surveillance, as much as any other person in the house, I should have little chance to be of any real use to you. I couldn't be secreted behind screens while you were conducting your investigation, as I was at the Rhodes House, and not even Wickett's connivance could long cover my snooping from servants or members of the family. But if you want my official connection with the homicide squad to be kept dark, I have a suggestion to make."

"Well?" Strawn growled. "Shoot! We've got to get busy."

"You can give out that I am an amateur criminologist, engaged in research work preparatory to writing books on the subject—which is strictly true, by the way; that I have studied Scotland Yard methods and that I was able to render you valuable aid in solving the Rhodes House murders. . . . Otherwise, Chief, I'll have to resign now—with deep regret."

An angry retort trembled on Strawn's lips, but he let it back, and considered grumpily.

"All right, Dundee! You know I need you, but I'm warning you now that I'm in charge of this case, and I won't have you getting too big for your breeches. . . . Wickett!"

And the hunt was on.

Wheat Tumbles to New Bottom Price

CHICAGO, March 11. (P)—Falling out of crop scare reports today did much to tumble wheat to new bottom prices for the current season. July and September contracts were much more depressed than March and May. Dust storms today in Nebraska and persistent dry weather in Kansas aroused more or less anxiety among traders, but no actual serious crop damage to wheat was reported.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy 3-8 @ 2 1-4 a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed off to 1c up, with oats varying from 1-8c decline to 1-8 @ 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged.

Lowest prices in the wheat market for the season so far, came before the close. To some extent setbacks were due to increased weakness of values at Winnipeg and Liverpool.

Cotton Active; Bulls Face Opposition

Prices Advanced Substantially In Tuesday Session

Market Closes At 11:30 In Morning Out Of Respect To Memory Of William Howard Taft

NEW ORLEANS, March 11. (P)—The cotton market was active today and prices advanced substantially due mainly to an improved technical position and a feeling that a rally was past due. May, after advancing to 14.98 eased off to 13.98 but later advanced to 14.18 up 20 points and closed at 14.17, or 28 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 20 to 28 points. The market closed at 11:30 a. m. instead of 2 p. m. out of respect to the memory of William Howard Taft.

Liverpool came in 8 to 9 points better than day and first trades here showed gains of 14 to 20 points. Prices advanced a little further after the start to 14.52 for May, 14.32 for July and 14.47 for October or 19 to 21 points above the previous close.

After easing off 10 to 13 points on realizing near the end of the first hour prices again rallied and made new highs right at the end of the short session with May at 14.18; July at 14.39 and October at 14.48 or 14 to 20 points up from the lows. The close was practically at the top showing net gains on the active months of 20 to 28 points.

Cotton Market Is Generally Firm

NEW YORK, March 11. (P)—The cotton market was generally firmer today. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular, but the market showed increased firmness in the late trading with May selling up to 14.17 and closing at 14.39. The general market was finally firm.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 to 22 points in response to the relatively firm Liverpool cables. March advanced to 14.18 and the old October contracts to 14.60. These prices presented net advances of about 24 to 31 points on the old contracts and the close was within a point or two of the best. New contracts were relatively easy but sold about 20 points net higher.

Cattle Receipts Lack in Variety

FORT WORTH, March 11. (P)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle receipts today were lacking in volume and variety, with receipts consisting of mixed butcher classes. Plainer slaughter yearlings and unattractive butcher cows. No slaughter steers included. Steady values prevailed.

Slaughter yearlings downward from 11.50 and a show sort sold up to 12.75. Common and medium butchers 7.00 to 9.00. Fat cows 7.00 and butcher cows 6.00 to 6.75. Low cutters 4.00 to 4.50. Sausage hogs 5.75 to 7.00.

Stock calves, top 12.00. Stock heifer calves 11.00 to 11.25. Heavy fat calves 11.00 to 11.50. Plumper grades of heavy slaughter calves 10.50 and cull sorts 8.00. Truck hogs the cents lower; 100 @ 240 pound truck hogs 9.30 to 9.40. Fat lambs steady to a quarter higher. Good woolled fat lambs 9.25. And fresh shorn aged fat lambs 8.40. Feeder lambs 7.00 to 7.50.

Richly endowed

In these qualities Taft of Ohio was richly endowed, and through all the splendor of tribute by the nation and the world as he was carried to his grave today, ran the thread of friendships he left among men of all parties and creeds, that he never lost in victory or adversity.

Over two decades ago William Taft entered the White House on a March day of bitter winds, cold and snow. Today another March day played the game of the vagaries as he passed on his last parade.

Cold, dreary rain beat upon the solitary escort. The lowering sudden clouds turned back thousands who otherwise would have crowded every point of vantage for that last scene.

Sometime Follows Rain

Yet, just at the end, as the triple rifle blast blazed its last salute and the clear tones of an army bugle sounded taps, the blue showed through above and a shaft of yellow sunshine poured a benediction upon the dripping canvas tented above that billows grave.

It bathed in beauty the great mound of dripping blossoms there beside the grave. It peered in beneath the canvas and cast a benediction upon the weeping widow.

It caught the trim line of troops, marines and sailors that lined the woodland half acre about as a frame, to touch sable blade and polished button with glinting lights, to wake the rain sudden coloring of flags and guidon to new and glowing life.

And it was thus they left their dead, those weeping women of his household, those many old, old friends of the most distinguished man in national life today who

NEGROES BURNED

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11. (AP)—L. T. Molton, 40 and I. G. Isaacs, 55, negroes, were burned to death today when a house was destroyed by fire. D. M. Kean, county investigator, said the negroes apparently set fire to the dwellings during a drunken brawl.

NEGRO GIVEN DEATH

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP)—A death sentence was passed today on Allen Bradford, negro, confessed assailant of Franklin C. Pershing, and attacker of Pershing's aged wife. Circuit Judge, Brown Harris pronounced sentence upon the recommendation of a jury he retained as "advisory counsel" when Bradford late yesterday pleaded guilty.

HELD WITHOUT BOND

GALVESTON, March 11. (AP)—Held to the grand jury without bond, John W. Adams, elderly special railway officer, was in jail today pending the outcome of habeas corpus proceedings instituted immediately after his preliminary hearing on charges of slaying Mrs. Marie Daugherty, shot to death last Thursday on the front porch of her home. No date had been set for the habeas corpus hearing.

APPEAL IS PLANNED

BOSTON, Tex. March 11. (AP)—Appeal to the higher courts was planned today by counsel for L. J. Ragland, 31, refused a new trial on his conviction and thirty year sentence for the murder of Jack Chilcote, 31, last December. The men had quarreled over a girl. Chilcote was shot four times in the back.

WRONG HIDING PLACE

TEXARKANA, Ark. March 11. (AP)—Selecting a police station in which to hide a roll of bills today had resulted in the arrest of Vic Stevens in connection with a filling station robbery. Stevens already was under a five-year suspended sentence. Stevens was at the station when the robbery was reported. He slipped into the next room and hid the money, and when it was discovered, was placed under arrest.

WORD AWAITED

TEXARKANA, Ark. March 11. (AP)—Authorities here today awaited word from Winston Salem, N. C. regarding disposal of the body of J. R. Bollins, about 30, fatally injured yesterday when his motorcycle overturned near Nashville, Ark. A letter addressed to the mayor of San Francisco, found in his clothes, led to the belief he was attempting a cross country speed record.

HYDE ON PROGRAM

WACO, March 11. (AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, will deliver the dedicatory address at the opening of the new Baylor University auditorium, $450,000 gift of citizens of Waco, here May 27.

YOUTH FACES CHARGES

DALLAS, March 11. (AP)—Ralph King, 16, faced charges of juvenile delinquency today as a result of the death of Howell Rowland, delivery boy, fatally stabbed. Rowland died yesterday.

HOBRECHT TO APPEAL

SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (AP)—Joe Hobrecht, sentenced to seven years imprisonment for the slaying of Charles Stevens, prohibition officer, in an ambush on a party of raiding officers, today prepared to appeal.

Two New Bridges Will Be Opened

SPUR, March 11. (Special)—Announcement has been made that two new bridges on Highway 18, between Spur and Dickens, will be open to the public within the next two weeks. The longest bridge is across Duck creek and is 288 feet long and will save a 12-mile detour. The short bridge is 143 feet long and is across Dokham creek at the edge of the Spur city limits. The long bridge will be opened Wednesday, March 13 and the short one Friday, March 21.

The bridges were built by Gaines and Yeakum, of Oklahoma City. This completes $100,000 worth of road work in this county by the state and federal governments within the past year. The grading and culvert work was done by a Plainsview contracting firm. The road is now ready for surfacing and it is hoped by the county officials to get this work started by the first of June.

TWENTY-TWO STRICKEN

Smallpox Claims Three In College Of Devotees

LONDON, March 11. (AP)—Although 22 persons in Mahatma Gandhi's college of devotees, at Sabaramati, near Ahmadabad, have been stricken with smallpox, and three are dead, Gandhi himself has not been deterred from his intention of beginning tomorrow the march to Jalapura which will inaugurate his civil disobedience campaign.

The correspondent of the London Daily Express visited the "Ashram" on Monday, and in a dispatch to his paper compared it to an army headquarters in war time with messengers coming and going and thousands of letters pouring in by every mail.

Gandhi himself was observing his weekly day of silence, but in its course visited the isolation tents where the smallpox patients were confined. He observed them, but conveyed his felicitations without speaking a word.
