Masked men riot through Medellin

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Bands of masked men with guns and firebombs rampaged Friday through Medellin, the home base of Colombia's largest cocaine cartel, and police said nine official vehicles were burned.

They did not report any injuries but said the gangs, suspected of being the cartel's hired thugs, stopped the official vehicles including trucks and vans and set them afire in sporadic attacks throughout the day.

There were these other developments:

■ The army said it had arrested a pilot, Nicolas Gonzalez Cardona, who flew cocaine to the United States for Pablo Escobar, Colombia's most notorious cocaine baron.

■ Police said one of Escobar's top aides was released because they had no arrest warrant or U.S. extradition request for the suspect. They reported that Luis Fernando Galeano Berrio was released from a Bogota jail Thursday.

■ A newspaper poll indicated more than 75 percent of Colombians support the government's 3-week-old war on drug traffickers but oppose the presence of foreign soldiers to help in the fight.

In a telephone interview with The Associated Press, police Col. Oscar Pelaez Carmona said Galeano was released because police holding him lacked the required legal papers, including an arrest warrant and an extradition request from the United States.

The missing paperwork was supposed to have accompanied Galeano when he was transferred from a Medellin army base to a Bogota jail.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Drug Enforcement Administration, Frank Shultz, said Galeano was not wanted in the United States and there were no charges against him there.

Pelaez said Galeano was arrested a month ago in Medellin and was held for three weeks at an army base in Medellin and brought last week to Bogota.

Galeano was captured days before the government began a nationwide drug crackdown, launched after terrorists assassinated on Aug. 18 Sen. Luis Carlos Galan, a presidential candidate and anti-drug crusader.

A U.S. official in Colombia said the crackdown on drugs had cut the cocaine trade by up to 50 percent, but that much of the $65 million worth of military airplanes and hardware donated by the United States was not suited to the job.

In response to a question, the official said the eight A-37 warplanes cannot be used to bomb cocaine labs and the only way to employ them may be to help force down suspected drug flights.

"All of this stuff came from stockpiles the military had. It is hard to take stuff out that stockpile and make it applicable" to anti-narcotics work, he said.

An early evening thunderstorm that roared through the Midland-Odessa area Friday greeted local football fans as they filed into Memorial Stadium for the Midland Lee-Killeen shootout. It was a bad night for the home team as Lee lost, 35-0. Please see game stories and photos, Page 1B.

At least two funnel clouds reported in Friday storm

By PATRICK CRIMMINS
Staff Writer

A rapidly-forming cluster of heavy thunderstorms generated by record-setting heat plowed through Midland-Odessa Friday evening, dumping more than an inch of rain in most areas. At least two funnel clouds were sighted and dozens of streets were flooded, but no injuries were reported.

The National Weather Service at Midland International Airport recorded 1.44 inches of rain from the storm, which moved through the area as thousands of area high school football fans prepared for the season's first games.

The rainy blast formed in the area between Pecos and Wink about 5 p.m., then rolled through west Odessa, bringing with it nickel-sized hail. The storm then hit Midland International Airport, slowing operations there, National Weather Service forecaster Patrick Tyra said.

A funnel cloud was reported in west Odessa near Interstate 20, and another near the intersection of Loop 250 and Andrews Highway, Tyra said.

Neither reported twister touched down, and no damage was reported, the forecaster said.

Gusts to 65 mph were reported at Odessa's Schlemeyer Field just before 6 p.m. An Odessa Fire Department station reported winds of between 60 and 70 mph with "a flagpole bent over to the ground," Tyra said.

"We didn't have any damage that we were able to determine," he said. "But some reports might come in later. I wouldn't think anybody escaped it."

In one 15-minute period, an inch and a quarter of rain fell at the intersection of 93rd and Rainbow Street in Odessa, the weather service reported. Blown-over trees and at least one downed power line was reported by Midland police near the intersection of Eisenhower Street and U.S. Highway 80.

Television cable lines blown loose by high winds were dangling above County Road 130 east of Midkiff Road, and had to be repaired, the Department of Public Safety reported.

The Midland Fire Department reported several telephone lines down. Pea-sized hail also fell in parts of west Midland, according to reports.

Friday's high of 100 degrees tied the record high for the date, which was set in 1984. The heat helped kick off the storms, Tyra said.

"We had the help of a trough that is sitting over the area," he noted. "Basically they were late summer afternoon thunderstorms spread through the area."

Lujan backs offshore oil ports

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan toured the nation's only offshore oil port Friday and said he is more convinced than ever that this is the way to move oil.

"The spills (from the offshore port) have been so minuscule you could measure it in a thimbleful per tanker," he said after an hour-long tour of the Louisiana Offshore Oil Port, located 18 miles off the Louisiana Coast about 100 miles south of New Orleans.

In eight years of operation, LOOP has unloaded more than 1.5 billion barrels of oil from supertankers and shipped it ashore by pipeline. Of that, officials said 850 barrels spilled.

The Exxon Valdez spilled 11 million gallons of crude into Alaska's Prince William Sound in March.

There are 42 gallons in a barrel.

Lujan said almost 90 percent of the imported oil comes into 11 major ports by tanker.

"There is no question about the serious environment problem," he said.

One of the major advantages of LOOP, Lujan said, is the water depth of 100 feet.

"Every major spill has involved tankers that have run aground," he said.

In addition, LOOP has a sophisticated vessel tracking system and employs mooring masters to guide ships to the port.

Lujan said vessel tracking systems could be the answer for monitoring smaller tankers calling at inland ports, but they would not help supertankers.

TIPRO calls for preservation of 'core supply' of energy

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association called for preservation of a domestic "core supply" of energy as the basis of a national energy strategy.

The group submitted its written testimony Friday to Energy Secretary James D. Watkins.

TIPRO, the largest state level organization representing independent oil and gas producers, said it believes that forming a core supply concept will force the nation to make decisions as to what forms of conservation to encourage, and what levels of energy imports to allow in the new energy policy.

"The strategy should consider the mix between energy consumption and energy conservation, the mix between domestic production and imports, and the mix among petroleum, nuclear, coal, solar and other forms of energy," said Stacey Smyre, chairman of TIPRO's national energy policy committee.

Hobbs man pleads guilty in drug case

By ED TODD

The 35-year-old New Mexico man who is charged with importing a cache of cocaine valued up to $60 million pleaded guilty Friday in federal court in Midland to conspiring to distribute about 900 pounds of the drug.

The man, David Ralph Parsons of Hobbs, is to be sentenced at noon Oct. 9 in Midland federal court by U.S. District Court Chief Judge Lucius D. Bunton. Parsons, jailed in Pecos, could be sentenced from 10 years to life in prison and fined up to $4 million.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Beery of Midland has described the cache as "the largest seizure of cocaine" in the Marfa Sector of the U.S. Border Patrol. That sector covers 77 counties in West Texas and 18 counties in Oklahoma, according to Sector Counsel Jan Hartung of Marfa. In Texas, the sector ranges from Presidio to Amarillo and from Van Horn to Sanderson.

The seized cocaine, estimated at 875 net pounds, has been valued by the U.S. Border Patrol at more than $29 million at the uncut retail tier — street level.

But when "cut" in concentration and thereby increased in bulk, the cocaine could "retail" on the streets at $60 million.

Shortly after Parsons' arrest, Ms. Hartung said the cocaine, apparently exported from Colombia, was wrapped in 350-kilogram packages. With packaging, the cocaine weighed 923 pounds.

Reagan has successful surgery for removal of fluid around brain

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Former President Reagan underwent successful brain surgery Friday afternoon for removal of fluid that apparently resulted from his horseback riding accident two months ago, his spokesman said.

"The president is in excellent and stable condition," spokesman Mark Weinberg said at a brief news conference Friday night following the hour-long surgery at St. Marys Hospital, which is part of the Mayo Clinic.

"President Reagan is conscious and recovering in his room, where he is comfortable and in good spirits," Weinberg said earlier.

Weinberg said the surgery, performed by a team of Mayo Clinic surgeons, went "without complications." The 78-year-old former president "will be carefully monitored, although no further treatment is anticipated," he said.

The fluid on the right side of the brain — old blood that had accumulated there — was found during a routine examination at the Mayo Clinic, Weinberg said. Fluid on the brain can cause pressure that can damage or kill brain cells.

Although Reagan "has not experienced any symptoms," physicians had advised the fluid be removed in a routine procedure, Weinberg said.

He said the surgeons made a "small burr hole" in Reagan's skull and drained a collection of fluid.

The operation, which was performed under general anesthesia, began about 4:15 p.m. and lasted just over an hour, Weinberg said at the news conference at the Kahler Hotel near the hospital.

The team of Mayo surgeons and nurses is "completely satisfied with the results of today's procedure and with President Reagan's recuperation so far," Weinberg said.

Weinberg said he did not know how long Reagan would be hospitalized. "He will go home when the physicians say he is ready," he said.

Mayo Clinic physicians said the former president is otherwise in excellent health, Weinberg said earlier. Reagan's wife, Nancy, who also underwent routine tests, was found to be in excellent health as well, he said.

Weinberg's description of the president's problem as a "subdural hematoma caused by President Reagan being thrown by a bucking horse in July" indicated the fluid had collected underneath the dura, a membrane that covers the brain inside the skull. A hematoma is a pool of blood, as in a bruise.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Chance of rain up statewide

Associated Press

The chance for scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms is expected to increase Saturday night and Sunday in the Panhandle and along the South Plains. The probability of thunderstorms moving across north Texas is also expected to increase.

The rain is expected to bring cooler daily temperatures into the Panhandle as skies remain partly cloudy. Slightly cooler temperatures are also predicted for the rest of Texas with daily highs reaching the mid-90s in most areas.

Southerly breezes are predicted throughout the state with southwest winds blowing across the Panhandle. Wind speeds will probably stay in the 10 to 20 mph range, with occasional gusts reaching 25 mph.

Scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms continued over the Texas coast and across the southeast part of the state Friday. A trough of low pressure that stretched from the northeast corner of the Panhandle through the South Plains brought more rain Friday.

Mid-afternoon temperatures Friday warmed into the 90s throughout most of the state. The extremes at 3 p.m. ranged from 72 degrees at Marfa to 100 degrees at McAllen.

NATION

Thunderstorms moved across the nation's midsection Friday, bringing heavy rains to already drenched areas of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri.

Showers and thunderstorms also increased along the Texas coastline, southwest Texas and near the east coast of Florida.

The season's first snowfall was reported Friday morning in the Big Horn mountains of north-central Wyoming. Burgess Junction, about 30 miles west of Sheridan, reported 2 inches of snow.

Thunderstorms over southeast Nebraska were part of a much larger area of showers and thunderstorms extending from northern Kansas and southern Nebraska, across southern Iowa and northern Missouri into central Indiana.

The area around Lincoln, Neb., where 3-5 inches of rain fell, was particularly hard hit. The Holmes Park area of Lincoln was drenched by over 8½ inches of rain Friday morning, causing flooding.

In Ottawa, Kan., a construction trailer was flipped over by strong winds during an isolated thunderstorm at the Ottawa Municipal Airport. A worker inside the trailer was bruised but escaped serious injury.

Abundant sunshine, hot temperatures and high humidity prevailed from the southern Plains and southern parts of Kansas and Missouri to the mid- and southeast Atlantic Coast.

The forecast for Saturday called for showers and thunderstorms from eastern sections of the central Plains to the Great Lakes and northern parts of the Ohio Valley; scattered showers and thunderstorms over the northern Rockies, northern Colorado and the northern Plains; and scattered thunderstorms over the central and eastern Gulf of Mexico coastline.

55 Norwegians die in plane crash

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — A chartered plane carrying Norwegian shipping company officials to a ship-christening in West Germany crashed in the sea Friday, killing all 55 people aboard, rescue officials said.

The twin-engine Convair 440 turboprop plane, belonging to the Norwegian airline Partnair, was en route from Oslo, Norway, to Hamburg, West Germany. It crashed in the Skagerrak Strait, a heavily traveled shipping route that borders Norway, Denmark and Sweden.

Rescue officials said 32 bodies have been recovered and helicopters and about 30 vessels, including a West German warship and fishing trawlers, were searching the 55-degree water for other victims.

"There are no survivors ... the plane disintegrated," said Kurt Rasmussen, an official at the Danish Sea Rescue Center at Karup, on Denmark's Jutland Peninsula. "We just found the main wheel floating and the nose cone."

There were 50 passengers and a crew of five aboard, Partnair's managing director Syvar Leivestad told reporters in Oslo.

The passengers, most of them top management and half the staff of the Wilhelmsen Lines shipping company, were chosen by lottery for a trip that was meant to be a reward, company officials said. All were Norwegian, the Norwegian NTB news agency said.

Rescuers said most of the bodies were found within a radius of a few hundred yards, which would appear to indicate the plane did not explode in air.

"It would be pure speculation to say what caused the crash but whatever it was it must have happened very suddenly," said Rolf Grimsrud, director of the Norwegian Civil Aviation technical division.

"It could have been an explosion, due to sabotage or something else or it could have lost a major surface, such as a wing or the tail," he said.

Grimsrud said the pilots did not send a distress signal even though the plane was flying at a high enough altitude that they normally would have had plenty of time even if the engines failed.

The plane, which took off from Oslo's Fornebu Airport, was flying at 23,000 feet when air controllers at Copenhagen's Kastrup Airport lost contact with it, Sweden's national news agency TT reported.

It went down 18½ miles north of Hirtshals, on Denmark's northern coast, according to the rescue center at Karup. The crash site is 190 miles northwest of Copenhagen.

It was the worst crash in Norwegian aviation history. Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland issued a condolence message and other party leaders suspended the campaign for Monday's general election.

A Norwegian commission will investigate the accident because it happened in international waters, said commission member Ragnar Rygnestad.

"We will try to recover the flight recorder which can tell us a lot about what happened right up until the accident," he said.

Wilhelmsen Lines owner Wilhelm Wilhemsen said no passenger list would be available until it was released by Danish authorities who are in charge of identifying the bodies.

The Norwegian news agency NTB reported a search vessel carrying 32 bodies arrived at Denmark's North Sea port of Hirtshals.

Wilhemsen said all of the passengers were employees of his firm, including 48 from the Wilhelmsen Lines headquarters that employs 110 people.

The plane, built by the General Dynamics, was 35 years old. Its engines were refitted about 20 years ago.

Partnair chief pilot Per Erik Ingjer said he brought the plane from Canada to Oslo one week ago where it had undergone a five-week comprehensive maintenance check, including an old-age inspection.

"I tested it and there were no problems," the pilot said. Leivestad said the plane had flown four or five trouble-free flights since then.

An official of Wilhelmsen said the company had chartered the flight for a christening in Hamburg, NTB reported. He was not identified by name.

The West German navy training ship Deutschland and the tender Werra picked up 14 of the bodies, according to the West German Naval Command in Gluecksburg. Other ships and rescue helicopters were at the scene around nightfall.

The crash site is near shipping lanes leading from the North Sea into the Baltic.

Leivestad said the pilots flying the charter flight were among the company's most experienced.

Parsons, who had been placed under surveillance by U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and by the U.S. Border Patrol the day before his arrest, was arrested by the Border Patrol on Aug. 3 just south of Marathon and north of Big Bend National Park and the Rio Grande.

Earlier, Parsons' pickup and trailer and a 1981 white Buick were spotted near the Texas-Mexico border.

"Typical narcotic trafficking characteristics were observed," a DEA agent had noted in a criminal complaint.

Parsons, a soft-drink truck driver, was driving a 1980 Chevrolet pickup truck, which was towing a Layton trailer ladened with the cocaine.

Parsons apparently was a "mule" — a courier hired to import the contraband, agents said.

"What we found surprising was that this fellow (Parsons) did not have an attorney at the end of a phone," Ms. Hartung said. She cited marijuana cases in which the defendant would have a "high-priced attorney" preparing his defense the day after the arrest.

Street-level cocaine usually is mixed with adulterants, such as talc or bicarbonate of soda, to make a 30-percent cocaine mixture for street sales.

At the wholesale level, 90-to-95-percent pure cocaine may command a $25,000 price per kilogram or 2.2 pounds, Beery said earlier.

"It's going to depend on the purity," Beery said of the price.

The $25,000-per-kilogram price reflects a cutback, since cocaine prices are dropping due to a "glut" in the underground marketplaces. Wholesale prices had been upward of $40,000 per kilogram.

"There's such a glut in the market that there is a drop in prices for people who put it (cocaine) up their nose — the ultimate users," said Beery.

Street-level cocaine at 30 percent purity sells for about $1,500 per ounce, he added.

RIOT

Gonzalez Cardona, a pilot who allegedly ferried cocaine to the United States, was being held in Medellin, the 4th Army Brigade in Medellin announced.

It said Gonzalez Cardona was "a pilot in the service of narcotics trafficer Pablo Escobar, making international flights on one of the Medellin cartel's main routes for distributing (cocaine) between Colombia and the cities of Miami and New York, among others."

The Medellin cartel is believed to supply 80 percent of the cocaine consumed in the United States.

Gonzalez Cardona was arrested in a roundup that followed the Aug. 17 assassination of Col. Waldemar Francklin Quintero, Medellin's top police official.

Escobar, who is in hiding, tops the list of drug figures wanted in the United States. He is said to head a $3 billion worldwide cocaine empire.

Colombia has offered a $250,000 reward for information leading to his capture.

The government of President Virgilio Barco began a nationwide crackdown following the assassination of Sen. Galan.

Barco declared a state of siege and said he would extradite drug figures wanted in the United States. Millions of dollars in possessions of drug lords have been seized and hundreds of people have been rounded up, but top drug lords remain at large.

The man who reputedly laundered hundreds of millions of dollars for cocaine cartels, Eduardo Martinez Romero, was the first person extradited to the United States under the current crackdown. He was being held under tight security in Atlanta pending a Monday hearing.

The poll by the Bogota newspaper El Tiempo, the Caracol radio network and a private consulting firm showed 75.8 percent of those questioned in four cities favored the government's actions and 24 percent opposed. The remainder had no opinion.

Colombians also were overwhelmingly in favor of extraditing drug figures and the seizure of their bank accounts and property.

But Colombians opposed 80 percent to 20 percent the presence of foreign military personnel in Colombia to aid with the crackdown.

The pollsters did not give their polling techniques or the poll's margin of error.

President Bush approved the special military aid for Colombia's anti-narcotics forces and sent transport planes, helicopters and fighter jets to Colombia last week.

The Pentagon said up to 200 U.S. military personnel would have to come to Colombia to set up the equipment and show Colombians how to use it.

REAGAN

The blood had collected on the top of the right side of the brain, Weinberg said.

President Bush tried to phone his predecessor from Air Force One en route from New Orleans to Washington, but Reagan had already entered surgery.

"I hope it's all right — pray it's all right," Bush told reporters.

Mary Ellen Landwehr, a Mayo Clinic spokeswoman, said that, at the Reagans' wish, the clinic would not announce the names of doctors who performed the operation.

However, Dr. Thoralf M. Sundt of the clinic told The Associated Press Friday night that he had led the surgical team. Sundt is an international leader in vascular surgery and the editor of Journal of Neurosurgery, a leading medical journal on neurology.

Henry Brem, a neurosurgeon at Johns Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore, characterized the operation was a fairly minor procedure.

"Patients usually do beautifully in something like this," said Brem.

In the case of subdural fluid, surgeons drill a series of holes and then use a saw to remove a piece of the skull, he said. The fluid is then drained, the dura stitched back together and the piece of skull replaced, Brem said.

The procedure normally takes one to four hours, he said, and usually requires a week's hospital stay.

Dr. Edward Laws, chairman of neurosurgery at George Washington University Hospital, said it would not be surprising if the jolt from a fall, particularly with an elderly person, would cause a collection of fluid on the brain.

OIL

He said a site has not been selected for building another superport. But it will have to be in an area not served by pipelines connected to LOOP. Pipelines from the superport supply crude oil to refineries in Louisiana and in the Midwest.

The secretary said private industry would have to build additional ports, perhaps with government incentives. Exxon will spend $1.5 billion to clean up the oil spilled in Prince William Sound, he said, which is two times the cost of LOOP.

Robert Thompson, president of LOOP Inc., said he couldn't speak for whether industry would be interested. Last year was the first time LOOP broke even after handling debt and operating costs.

LOOP is moving more oil this year than last, but officials said it may not generate a profit this year if its owners decide to pay down additional debt.

It was built to handle 1.4 million barrels a day but averaged less than 900,000 barrels a day last year.

"Ironically for LOOP, to be successful you have to import foreign oil," the secretary said. With U.S. drilling down, U.S. oil production has been declining and the difference has been made up by oil imports, which now provide more than half the U.S. oil supply.

Tankers, like the two moored near the LOOP platform Friday, carry about one million barrels of oil. Thompson said most of the incoming oil is from the Middle East.

RAIN

A chance of thunderstorms was forecast for Saturday, but a front approaching West Texas from the Pacific Northwest was expected to bring clearing skies and cooler temperatures, Tyra said.

Today will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. The high will be in the mid-90s, with southerly winds from 10 to 20 mph expected.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of evening thunderstorms. The low will be in the mid-60s, according to forecasters.

Sunday will be partly cloudy with a high in the upper 80s.

Friday's low of 70 was 17 degrees warmer than the record low of 53, which was set in 1956.

Fired worker awarded damages

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury has awarded $460,000 to a 35-year-old man who claimed Diamond Shamrock wrongfully fired him after accusing him of stealing about $2 worth of nails.

The state district court jury on Thursday awarded the money for lost wages to Three Rivers resident Roque Mendez, who filed the wrongful termination suit after losing his job and home.

Diamond Shamrock fired Mendez in September 1985 from the Three Rivers refining plant, alleging he intended to steal a handful of nails.

The suit alleged Mendez reported for work Sept. 4, 1985, on the night shift as supervisor of the computer control room that runs the refinery. He had to clean the work area because the maintenance crew failed to do so.

"He threw some nails into his lunch bag, and when the shift ended on Sept. 5, 1985, he left the lunch bag at the plant," the suit stated. "The next day he was called into the manager's office and was accused of stealing company property."

Mendez was fired on the spot.

"It ruined him financially," said Ruben Pena, a Weslaco attorney who represented Mendez, his cousin. "At the time, he was earning $14.60 an hour. He was the highest-paid hourly employee at the plant."

Pena said Mendez subsequently lost his home and has struggled to support his wife and three children, including an 8-month-old child. Mendez now works in the city's water treatment plant, earning just more than $6 an hour, according to Pena.

"Various times we asked Diamond Shamrock to take Roque back and reinstate him," Pena said. "They refused, even though the evidence had been very clear. Diamond Shamrock had not offered one cent to settle the case. Filing suit was the only remedy left for us."

Relative of Mexico's former president will face perjury charges

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The brother-in-law of Mexico's former president was ordered back to California Friday to face perjury charges in the investigation of the torture-slaying of a U.S. drug agent.

Ruben Zuno Arce, 59, was indicted Thursday on three counts of perjury by the California grand jury investigating the 1985 murder of Drug Enforcement Administration agent Enrique Camarena in Mexico.

Federal Magistrate John Primomo at a Friday arraignment in San Antonio ordered Zuno turned over to the U.S. Marshal's Office and held without bond pending his return to Los Angeles.

Zuno told the court he was not guilty of perjury.

He had been brought back to San Antonio, where he was detained last month, to face an immigration hearing.

At the federal court hearing, a warrant for Zuno's arrest was presented from the U.S. District Court of Central California.

If convicted of the perjury charges, Zuno could face five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count. The charges are in connection with his testimony to the grand jury investigating Camarena's death.

Zuno's sister is the wife of former Mexican President Luis Echeverria Alvarez.

Zuno told the federal grand jury in Los Angeles that he did not know two alleged Mexican drug figures charged in the killing of Camarena, Assistant U.S. Attorney Manuel Medrano said.

In his grand jury testimony, he apparently denied knowing Ernesto Fonseca Carrillo and Rafael Caro Quintero, who allegedly masterminded Camarena's slaying, Medrano said.

A Los Angeles judge on Tuesday ruled that Zuno was not a material witness in the murder case and ordered him released.

However, U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials said they wanted Zuno back in San Antonio on grounds that Zuno is an alleged drug trafficker.

Ray Dudley, spokesman for the immigration service here, said proceedings attempting to have Zuno excluded from the United States are on hold pending the outcome of the California case against Zuno.

Camarena and his pilot, Alfredo Zavala Avelar, were killed after the agent led a series of raids on marijuana plantations allegedly operated by Caro.

Camarena's body was found March 5, 1985, on a ranch 65 miles southeast of Guadalajara. He had been tortured before his death.

Authorities had wanted Zuno to testify in the upcoming trial of Juan Jose Bernabe Ramirez, a former Mexican state police officer charged in Camarena's killing.

Task force named to try and find ways to improve PUC

By JAMES CULLEN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A task force will consider ways to improve the Texas Public Utility Commission without second-guessing rate decisions, the task force chairman said Friday.

Rollins

But Moak Rollins, chairman of the task force, said changes are needed to restore confidence in the agency that regulates electrical and telephone utilities.

The task force organized Friday and elected Rep. Lena Guerrero, D-Austin, as its vice chair. It also set five hearings to seek public input on ways to improve the operation of the three-member commission without getting into the rate-making process.

Rollins, a former PUC member who now is a utility consultant, said the commission's national reputation "is not well-regarded," which he attributed to inconsistency in its rate decisions and well-publicized personality conflicts among commissioners.

That lack of confidence among potential investors costs ratepayers because utilities are forced to pay higher interest rates when they borrow money, he said.

"When a regulatory commission enjoys a good reputation, and members of the investment community feel the commission is consistent and predictable, then their investment managers are willing to commit funds," he said.

Otherwise, he said, lenders may require a higher interest rates.

"That ultimately comes back in rates," he said. "Every time you have a rate case the cost of funds is an issue."

Gov. Bill Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis created the task force this past spring to study public utility regulation after a controversial PUC decision in a GTE Southwest rate case. Clements named Rollins, a longtime friend, as chairman.

> "When a regulatory commission enjoys a good reputation, and members of the investment community feel the commission is consistent and predictable, then their investment managers are willing to commit funds."
>
> — Moak Rollins, task force comissioner

GTE officials threatened to cancel a corporate move to Irving after the PUC cut the company's rates by $59 million and ordered $128 million in refunds. A partner of Rollins had testified for GTE in the rate case and Rollins blasted the PUC decision.

But Rollins said the task force, which includes six legislators and three public members, would not focus on individual cases. "Those matters will be addressed in courts on appeals of that or any other case," he said. "We're not here to render second guesses on anything the commission has done."

The task force will avoid the rate-making process, he said. "This is not a full-blown sunset review," he said.

The task force will consider issues such as the commission's size, communication among the commissioners and relationships between the commission and its staff and the Office of Public Utility Counsel, which represents residential and small business ratepayers, he said.

Commissioners have complained that under the Open Meetings Act they cannot confer outside of public meetings, and Rollins said he agrees with a recent appellate court decision that the state Administrative Procedures Act allows such conferences. He compared them to conferences on a panel of judges.

At the request of some municipal officials, he said, the task force also will consider whether cities should keep their original jurisdiction over rate cases.

Rollins sees no conflict of interest as a former commissioner who now works as a utility consultant. "I'm only one member out of nine," he said. "I will not be in a position to dominate the issues which will be discussed before this task force."

The task force will hear from representatives of residential utility consumers and municipalities Sept. 19 and industrial consumers on Sept. 20. It will hear from electrical utilities Oct. 10, telephone utilities Oct. 11 and current and former PUC commissioners and staff Oct. 12. All the hearings are scheduled to start at 9 a.m. in the State Capitol.

While the three state officials gave the task force until Dec. 1 to submit its report, Rollins said he hoped to have the work done by the Nov. 14 start of the special session Clements plans to call to consider workers compensation reforms.

Rollins said he has known Clements 35 years and he expects the governor to make up his own mind about whether he would include PUC reform on the special session agenda.

Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, a task force member and chairman of the State Affairs Committee that would review any PUC reforms, said he looked forward to a "slow and deliberate" review of the commission operation. He doubted the task force would finish in time for legislative action in the monthlong special session.

Mauro starts fund-raiser for Odie

GALVESTON (AP) — Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro on Friday kicked off a fund-raising drive to help an infant sperm whale named Odie, saying the whale's mother probably became a victim of trash in the Gulf of Mexico.

The 1,200-pound whale, believed to be only about 2 weeks old, washed ashore last weekend on the Bolivar Peninsula and was taken to nearby Sea-Arama Marineworld in Galveston where volunteers and marine mammal experts are trying to keep it alive.

"I'm here to raise money," Mauro said. "The fact is, as good as it feels to see the whale back there, it costs a lot of money to feed Odie the whale. I'm here to urge Texans to help defray the costs."

Officials at the marine park estimate they are spending about $2,000 a day on the whale, which demands 24-hour-a-day attention from handlers who are trying to feed it and keep it swimming in a pool.

At the same time, handlers are excited at the presence of the whale, which rarely appears off the Texas coast and is a rarity in captivity.

"We're in a unique situation where we had this sperm whale wash ashore," Mauro said. "We've been given an opportunity to learn from it and have been given an opportunity to show our generosity. It's time for Texans who have taken so much from the Gulf to give something back.

"Sea-Arama is absorbing all the costs now. But Texans are generous, and once they find out Odie's plight, they'll respond very well."

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro kicks off a fund-raising drive Friday to help a baby sperm whale named Odie, which Sea-Arama Marineworld volunteers in Galveston have been trying to keep alive.

Mauro chipped in with what he said was $100 of his own money. "I can tell you we're going to raise more," he said.

Mauro, who for several years has pushed a statewide beach cleaning program, said Texas beaches are cleaner now, but speculated Odie's mother died after eating litter floating in the water.

"My guess is she was a victim of marine debris," he said. "If you look at marine mammals in general, the way they feed themselves, floating debris resembles a lot of characteristics of their natural foods. And they tend to ingest plastics and that causes death."

Rae Stone, a marine mammal veterinarian who was in the tank with the whale Friday, said the animal was holding its own but appeared to be having some trouble digesting a simulated formula it was being fed and may be suffering from an infection in its lungs. Antibiotics were being given, she said.

"Its milk is very different and a challenge to reproduce," she said. "Right now, our biggest concern is fluid so he doesn't get dehydrated. It's a challenge because there's so little we know. Our biggest burden is finding a formula and fighting infection."

The whale remained quiet, alert and responsive — "all very good signs," she said.

Handlers have been unable to rig up a simulated nurser and continue to feed the whale through a gastric tube inserted into its stomach.

"We're trying to build a nipple that resembles a sperm whale mammary gland, but it's difficult because we don't know what one looks like," Ms. Stone said.

At least two handlers constantly accompany the whale in about three feet of water, monitoring its breathing and activity.

"It's hard to see him but he's quite handsome," Ms. Stone said.

Sea-Arama officials have said they hoped to release the whale back into the Gulf of Mexico once he is able to feed himself whole foods, normally squid. That was not expected, however, for several months.

An adult male sperm whale is the largest of all toothed whales and can grow up to 60 feet in length with an average weight of 40 tons.

Donations to aid Odie were being handled through Galveston-based Moody National Bank.

Judge tells condo trial jurors to reconsider positions

By HOLDEN LEWIS

LUBBOCK (AP) — After 12 days of deliberation, the judge in the 7-month-old condo trial urged holdout jurors Friday to reconsider their positions after they indicated they could not reach a verdict.

U.S. District Judge Sam Cummings summoned the jury to the courtroom Friday morning for an Allen, or "dynamite," charge designed to persuade jurors to reach a consensus.

The jury is considering the fates of D.L. "Danny" Faulkner and six other defendants who are accused of cheating five savings and loans of $135 million in 1982 and 1983 through fraudulent real-estate deals on condominium-zoned land along Interstate 30 east of Dallas.

The jury did not indicate how it was split when it sent Cummings a note saying it had reached a stalemate, officials said.

The judge urged jurors in the minority to reconsider their position, said a member of the prosecution team who added that Allen charges are fairly common in criminal trials.

Jurors were released Friday afternoon for the weekend and will resume deliberations Monday.

Earlier this week, jurors had requested copies of depositions some of the defendants made before the trial. Cummings told jurors he would send them relevant portions of the depositions if they would specify exactly what they wanted to know.

Faulkner and fellow land developer James L. Toler are accused of masterminding a scheme in which the defendants allegedly defrauded savings and loans by wildly inflating land prices through phony appraisals and property sales among themselves. They are accused of pocketing the loan money for their own uses.

The defendants contended they were victims of both a collapsed real-estate market beginning in 1983 and of a key government witness, Clifford Sinclair, who is serving a 13-year sentence for a related bank-fraud conviction. The defendants say Sinclair lied on the stand to please prosecutors and get his sentence reduced.

Diplomats sue for release of documents

The suit ... is the latest salvo in a long-simmering conflict in which career diplomats often complain they are bypassed for ambassadorial posts in favor of political activists with dubious qualifications.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The union that represents career diplomats sued the State Department in federal court Friday, seeking to expose documents "that clearly demonstrate the lack of qualifications" of many Bush administration ambassadorial nominees.

The unusual move follows the nomination by the White House of a number of envoys who have come under sharp criticism on grounds that they have neither the diplomatic skills nor background knowledge of the countries where they are being sent.

Democratic senators have suggested many merely won favor with the administration through political contributions or their skill at raising funds for the Republican Party in the 1988 election campaign. Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., has called described some of the choices as "insulting."

But Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn., said that wealth should not disqualify anyone from being an ambassador but should be regarded as "a sign of considerable achievement."

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, is the latest salvo in a long-simmering conflict in which career diplomats often complain they are bypassed for ambassadorial posts in favor of political activists with dubious qualifications.

Among the nominees who have drawn the most complaints is Peter Secchia, who helped President Bush carry Michigan last year and was named ambassador to Italy. Many Italians were upset when he joked that the new Italian Navy has glass-bottom boats "so they can see the old Italian Navy."

The New York Times complained in a July editorial that Bush's nominee for Spain, Joseph Zappala, a Florida developer, has but one claim to the Madrid assignment — "a distinctively large contribution to the Republican Party, reportedly $126,000."

Senate confirmation of Zappala and two other nominess have been delayed because of doubts about their credentials.

The diplomats' union, formally known as the American Foreign Service Association (AFSA), filed the suit to obtain release of "Certificates of Competency" that the law requires the president to submit to the Senate on the qualifications of each nominee.

The Association said the State Department maintains the reports are confidential.

Since the information in the reports is not "classifiable," the association said, they are being withheld "only to avoid embarrassment because they so clearly demonstrate the lack of qualifications of many of the nominees."

Charles A. Schmitz, AFSA vice president, said that hiding certificates from public view is self-defeating because they routinely are made public after they reach the Senate, which must confirm ambassadorial appointees for them to become effecive.

"It just looks as though the department is trying to hide something it is ashamed of," Schmitz said.

State Department spokeswoman an Margeret Tutwiler, herself a political appointee, cited the example of a 1970 nomination to demonstrate the wisdom of some selections outside the Foreign Service.

She said that President Nixon chose a defeated candidate for the Senate to be his ambassador at the United Nations, over the strong objection of a "major news publication." The appointee's name: "George Herbert Walker Bush."

But it was during the Nixon administration that the most oft-quoted line about the campaign contributor-ambassadorial nominee was first uttered. Nixon's lawyer quoted a wealthy Republican contributor, Ruth Farkas, as asking: "Isn't $250,000 an awful lot for Costa Rica?"

Committee to cut insurance surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee agreed tentatively Friday to slash the surtax that finances catastrophic health insurance for retirees and to reduce coverage for prescriptions and doctors' fees.

The panel, under pressure from older Americans who don't like the new program, is still debating whether workers and their employers should pay higher taxes to help buy the insurance for retirees.

"I think we made major progress," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the committee chairman, told reporters after the panel worked behind closed doors to change the year-old program. "It's coming on along in a bipartisan way."

Bentsen indicated the committee may complete work on the program by the middle of next week. Although most members of the committee want to continue catastrophic insurance — as does the Bush administration — there are indications a stiff fight to kill the program will be waged on the House and Senate floors.

The program, aimed at ensuring that retirees are not wiped out financially by an illness requiring long-term hospitalization, was enacted with great fanfare as a logical expansion of Medicare. It was innovative in that the coverage would be paid for by the same group of citizens — retirees — who would reap the benefits.

Now, two groups of retirees are raising such a fuss about catastrophic insurance that major changes in the program are assured.

Most of the complaints are from the 40 percent of retirees with the highest incomes. They pay an income surtax of up to $800 a year to finance the program but want all taxpayers — not just retirees — to pay for catastrophic.

The second group of protesters includes federal retirees and others who already have catastrophic coverage through another government plan or a private "medigap" policy. They say the new program offers them nothing.

The law requires every person eligible for Medicare to pay for catastrophic coverage.

Bentsen said the Finance Committee reached a consensus on these major points:

■ The income surtax, which pays about two-thirds the cost of catastrophic coverage, will be reduced significantly, below the cost of a private medigap policy. The surtax rate, now 15 percent of a retiree's income tax liability over $150, will be reduced, as will the $800 maximum annual surtax.

■ The flat fee paid by almost all catastrophic beneficiaries, now $4 a month, will not be increased above current law.

■ The ceiling on the amount of doctors' fees a beneficiary must pay out of pocket before catastrophic coverage kicks in will be delayed a year, to 1991, and will be raised above the current ceiling of $1,370.

■ The share of out-of-pocket outlays for prescription drugs a beneficiary must bear before catastrophic coverage begins will be raised significantly. Present law puts the deductible at a level high enough that only 27 percent of the 33 million Medicare beneficiaries would qualify for reimbursement; the Finance Committee would reduce coverage so that no more than 16.8 percent would qualify.

They will formally vote on the provisions in later committee meetings.

Bentsen said the committee reached no consensus on whether retirees should be allowed to drop out of catastrophic coverage if they also agree to give up basic Medicare Part B coverage for doctors' fees.

Also, Bentsen said, it is not clear whether the committee wants non-retirees to share the costs of catastrophic coverage for retirees.

One option under consideration would raise to $60,000 the maximum amount of a worker's earnings that are subject to the 1.45-percent tax that finances basic Medicare hospitalization benefits. The present taxable limit is $48,000. The levy is collected as part of the Social Security payroll tax withheld from paychecks.

Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, a member of the committee, said he thinks the modifications would be acceptable to most senators. But the furor over the financing mechanism illustrates the difficulty lawmakers face in passing such legislation, he told reporters.

Rabin argues against U.S. visa for Arafat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin sought Friday to discourage the Bush administration from granting a visa to Yasser Arafat, the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Rabin, talking to reporters after a meeting with Secretary of State James A. Baker III, accused the PLO of escalating violence against Israel.

Arafat would need a visa to attend the U.N. General Assembly that opens Sept. 25 in New York. State Department officials have brushed aside questions about U.S. intentions as hyothetical, saying the PLO leader had not applied.

"Israel would see it very gravely," Rabin said after an hour-long session with Baker. He had met earlier in the day with Defense Secretary Richard Cheney and Brent Scowcroft, the national security adviser.

Rabin and Cheney signed a memorandum expanding defense cooperation between the United States and Israel.

Arafat was denied a U.S. visa last year to attend a special U.N. session on the Palestinian dispute with Israel. The session was moved to Geneva, Switzerland, to accommodate him.

Since then, the United States has begun diplomatic discussions with the PLO and accepted a statement by Arafat renouncing terrorism.

The State Department spokeswoman, Margaret D. Tutwiler, declined to provide an account of Rabin's session with Baker. She said no details were ever given about "one-on-one" meetings with foreign visitors.

Rabin's trip kicks off a series of visits by Israeli officials.

He will be followed by Deputy Foreign Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, Finance Minister Shimon Peres and, in November, by Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir. Foreign Minister Moshe Arens will attend the U.N. General Assembly session.

The main topic in the talks with U.S. officials is the proposal by Shamir to hold elections among Palestinians on the West Bank and in Gaza. The United States, which endorses the plan as a step toward peace talks, has been unable to sell the plan to the PLO.

"Without the coming out of a partner there is nothing more for the initiaitve," Rabin said. "Israel is going to stand on its initiative."

Gingrich tries to justify using staff for book

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Whip Newt Gingrich acknowledged Friday that his congressional staff had done clerical work on a book he wrote in 1984 but said that broke no House rules.

Gingrich, responding to allegations made by a former staff member in the October issue of the magazine Mother Jones, said some members of his congressional staff did copying, proofreading and other clerical tasks on his 1984 book, "Window of Opportunity."

But he said House rules permit such activity as long as the book deals with a public policy issue — which he said "Window of Opportunity" did — and the staffers work at least 40 hours a week on congressional duties.

Gingrich said his interpretation of the rules was supported by the report of Richard J. Phelan, the independent counsel the House ethics committee hired last year to investigate former Speaker Jim Wright.

House Democrats have filed a complaint with the ethics committee maintaining that Gingrich violated House rules and federal campaign laws by creating an unusual partnership to promote the book. But the complaint does not accuse Gingrich of any improprieties in the use of his staff to work on the book.

The committee has hired Phelan's law firm to review the complaint and recommend whether it should launch a formal investigation of Gingrich.

One of the allegations against Wright was that he had used members of his congressional staff to help put together his book, "Reflections of a Public Man." Gingrich said that "the one thing Phelan specifically exonerated Wright on was writing a book."

Gingrich, who filed the ethics complaint that led to the investigation and eventual resignation of Wright, disclosed last year that his former administrative assistant, Frank Gregorsky, had reviewed and edited the book for him.

But he said Friday that he has since discovered that Gregorsky had left his staff by the time he began working on the book. He said that, "to the best of my knowledge," the only work his congressional staff did on the book "was purely clerical stuff."

"I did the entire initial draft," he said. "We didn't delegate all that stuff."

Parents convicted in son's starvation

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — An unemployed couple were convicted of third-degree murder Friday for starving their 14-year-old son during a six-week fast the family endured while setting aside nearly $4,000 for God.

Larry and Leona Cottam held hands and showed no emotion when the verdicts were read. Jurors had deliberated 1¾ hours.

Eric Cottam died Jan. 3 after the family had not eaten since Nov. 22. The Cottams' 12-year-old daughter, Laura, recovered from malnourishment and is in foster care.

In addition to third-degree murder, which required a jury finding of malice on the part of Cottam, 39, and Mrs. Cottam, 38, the couple were found guilty of reckless endangerment and endangering the welfare of children.

The Cottams face a maximum 28 years in prison for the third-degree murder and the other charges. No sentencing date was set pending post-trial motions.

The Cottams didn't eat for six weeks beginning Nov. 22 despite $3,775 saved as a tithe, or offering, for God. Larry Cottam, a former Seventh-day Adventist pastor, believed using the money for food would have been akin to stealing.

Seventh-day Adventists generally give 10 percent of their earnings as a tithe, but a church official testified at the trial that tithing was not a requirement for membership in the church.

Al Flora, one of the couple's lawyers said during the two-week trial that the reclusive family went without food because they distrusted authorities and believed God would rescue them from their plight. They also believed their children would be taken away from them if they sought help, he said.

"I think it's tragedy. It was a situation where you had a family that, in a sense, lost touch with reality," Flora said, adding that the couple had not lost their religious faith.

Al Flora Jr., an attorney for the couple, said he planned to appeal.

"One of the major issues in this case, which we were not allowed to argue in front of the jury, was the children's constitutional rights to exercise their religious beliefs and whether that right exceeds the parental duty," Flora said.

Attorneys for both sides said the case set a legal precedent, but for different reasons.

"The issues in this case are so novel, from a constitutional point primarily, that this case is certainly not over. It's far from over," said Joseph Cosgrove, the Cottams' other court-appointed attorney.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Marsilio said previous convictions in starvation cases in Pennsylvania had never risen above involuntary manslaughter.

Judge Gifford S. Cappelini decided not to allow use of the children's First Amendment rights to religious freedom as a defense because they still lived in their parents' care.

"I think their parental duty is paramount," Cappellini told The Associated Press in an interview.

Decapitated bodies found near DEA base

WASHINGTON (AP) — American drug agents spotted about 20 decapitated bodies floating in a river near a Drug Enforcement Administration base in Peru, but authorities said Friday they don't know who the victims were or who committed the mutilations.

DEA spokesman Frank Shults said Friday the cadavers missing heads, hands and feet were seen Thursday in the Huallaga River near the DEA's base in Santa Lucia. The base is in the Upper Huallaga Valley that produces much of the world's supply of coca leaf, the raw material for cocaine.

He said it was not known whether the gruesome sight was meant as a message to the DEA base.

"We have no idea if this was meant to be a signal to anybody, to what purpose and to whom," Shults said. "There was no note, no messenger, no nothing. No one knows what to make of it."

He added, "It was an unfriendly message, to be sure."

The DEA this week resumed full operations at the base shared with representatives of the State Department's International Narcotics Matters office and Peru's Guardia Civil, which conducts seizures of cocaine laboratories and eradication of crops.

Operations in Peru were curtailed in February, soon after a contract pilot was wounded in the leg by a bullet shot through the bottom of his helicopter, Shults said.

The U.S. agents, who have spent the last six months building a more secure facility at Santa Lucia, are now working at the base during the day but are flying back to the capital city of Lima at night, according to Tom Leary, a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Lima.

Shults said he was unsure where the DEA agents were staying at night, but he noted that the State Department representatives overseeing eradication efforts have not resumed that work.

The bodies were observed by people stationed at the base, but no effort was made to get them from the river, he said.

U.S. economy must learn to function without massive defense spending

By STEWART M. POWELL
Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — As history buffs know, World War II turned out to be the economic engine that drove America out of the clutches of the Great Depression, transforming a stagnant economy into a robust arsenal of democracy thanks to more than $300 billion in defense spending in just five years.

The nation has relied ever since on a "preparedness economy," fueled in large part by more than $8 trillion in defense spending since the end of World War II.

Now, with the end of the Reagan era's $2.1 trillion defense buildup, the apparent waning of East-West tensions and rising public demands for spending in other areas, a number of economists and government officials are seeking to foster a second transformation of the world's mightiest economy to a "peacetime" mode.

"We must adjust," says Columbia University Prof. Seymour Melman. "The Cold War is concluding."

Melman is an advocate of reconversion who serves as chairman of the National Commission for Economic Conversion & Disarmament.

The Pentagon's role in the economy takes many forms. Although $300 billion-a-year in defense spending represents barely 6 percent of the nation's gross national product, the ripple effect reaches far and wide.

More than 6.6 million Americans work in defense or defense-related jobs. Their payrolls are counted upon by family members who together account for more than 10 percent of the population.

Pentagon purchasing of goods and services pumps more than $150 billion into the $5 trillion economy annually — the largest single injection of money in the nation.

Companies in every one of the 435 congressional districts do business with the Pentagon. Backers of military programs routinely lobby Congress with lists of contractors in their states as Northrop Corp. of Los Angeles did last month, showing that it has 156 contractors in 26 states and the District of Columbia.

Beyond that, research and development for Pentagon programs employs fully 30 percent of the nation's scientists and engineers. Their work also serves as the catalyst for research into commercial fields.

With the Pentagon slashing $364 billion from the defense blueprint through 1994 and prospects gaining for no-growth defense budgets into the 1990s, defense officials readily concede they cannot ease economic hardship alone.

The Pentagon office of economic adjustment, with 30 staffers and a $4 million annual budget, tries to help communities that are about to lose a base or a major contract.

"But we can't be seen as the savior," says director Robert Rauner. "To do that would call for changes in higher level macro-economic, monetary and fiscal policies."

Pressures are building for a conscious transformation of the economy.

"There are the makings of a political consensus, a bipartisan movement," says Leo J. Reddy, a career foreign service officer directing a project on arms control and economic adjustment at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. "It's just a question of getting our act together."

Potentially hundreds of thousands of jobs are at stake as communities face the impact of lost defense payrolls.

At this point, tens of thousands of such jobs are already shaky. Bush administration plans to curtail the $26 billion hybrid helicopter-airplane Osprey program underway in Fort Worth, Texas, threatens 2,500 jobs. Halting production of the carrier-based F-14 Tomcat fighter in New York may claim another 5,600 jobs. The closing of 86 military bases across the country over the next five years will claim more than 20,000 civilian and military jobs.

Rep. Tom Weiss, D-N.Y., supports economic-conversion legislation to ease localities' pain as an "indispensable part" of adjusting to the "new economic and military realities we face as a nation."

Others are taking a broader approach, trying to capitalize on the reduction of military spending to revamp American industry to make it more competitive overseas. Subsidies, tax incentives and relaxation of anti-trust regulations could help, contends Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., a sponsor of a bill to provide such help.

Says Reddy, whose pioneering project on economic adjustment is nearing completion: "We just have to pull up our socks and strengthen the industrial base."

Videogame set up to teach youngsters about AIDS

By MICHAEL GRACZYK

HOUSTON (AP) — "Blocky" is not going to threaten Nintendo's hold on the youth of America, but a couple of researchers from the University of Texas are hoping the videogame creature helps protect young people from the ravages of AIDS.

"Blocky" is the hero in "BLOCK-AIDS," a video game youngsters can play at the Houston Museum of Medical Science. Players score points by correctly answering questions about acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The game also allows players to look up AIDS information in the computer in the form of "hints" that allow them to answer the questions correctly but for a reduced number of points.

Some of the same questions may reappear later in the game, allowing the player to gain full points for a correct answer, and indicate to researchers that the remembering of the AIDS fact is having the desired effect of educating people.

"We decided on a game as opposed to other, more traditional methods of teaching, because we felt adolescents would be more receptive to a game," said Craig Johnson, associate professor of biomedical communications at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston.

"How many teen-agers are actually going to read the Surgeon General's reports on AIDS?"

Johnson and Bill Fetter, a fellow researcher and assistant professor, came up with the game idea, a kind of video tic-tac-toe. When a player gives a correct answer, "Blocky" zaps an evil AIDS virus who previously rested in the square. Completion of a row sends the player to a new screen and the opportunity to score more points.

Fetter said the tic-tac-toe concept was selected because kids already know how to play the game.

"If we created an entirely new design, we would spend more time teaching them how to play the game than teaching them about AIDS," Fetter said.

"It was apparent there is a strong need for AIDS education," Johnson said. "An entire generation could be at risk. There was a need to put this into a format that would grab and hold the attention of adolescents. We wanted to make a contribution."

On their own time and at their own expense, Fetter and Johnson and two school graduates assembled the game during evenings and on weekends.

"Our perception is it's the first game of its kind in AIDS education and the first to be based on the surgeon general's report on AIDS," Fetter said.

The game has been part of a hands-on display at the museum since March. The computer program, which also asks general demographic data like age, race and sex, is set up to record the answers of people who play it so researchers can analyze the data and identify those facets of the disease most misunderstood.

"At this point, we don't have a good handle on the impact," Johnson said. "We've just started collecting the data."

In coming up with the design, a block for the hero made sense "because we were looking at blocking AIDS," Fetter said. They also gave him boxing gloves and running shoes.

The villain AIDS virus, with bloodshot eyes and an evil toothy grimace, is not unlike a microscopic representation of the real AIDS virus, he said.

The 250 questions are pulled from the surgeon general's report on AIDS. Johnson, an educational psychologist, said repeating some of the questions promotes retention.

Typical of questions is whether AIDS is on the increase, or how does one contract AIDS, or is it possible to get AIDS by merely being in a tent with an AIDS carrier. (It is not.)

"One of the issues we're dealing with is that we felt there are a lot of myths about AIDS," Johnson said.

Although the museum game, powered by an IBM computer, is a one-of-a-kind now, he said it has the potential for use in school computers. It also is designed so new information about AIDS can be inserted easily.

"This is in a museum, but displays like this could be in lots of other plays, like shopping malls, convenience stores, military bases and school cafeterias," Johnson said. "They need to be put in places where people need the help most."

Rebels drilled 35-0

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Editor

First, Midland Lee had to wait out a tornado to open the 1989 football season Friday night at Memorial Stadium, but the real rub came when the Rebels found out that Kangaroos really do wear boxing gloves.

Well, if you want the real truth, Kangroos really wear track shoes. The fleet Roo feet rambled for a 35-0 whipping of the Rebels — and you left with the feeling that it could have been worse.

Put that Kangaroo back in the zoo. This one is a menace to society.

Killeen came into the game unranked by state polls, but please let us never see a ranked team if the Roos aren't deserving of such.

With the stroke of a 48-yard run by DJuan Haskins on Killeen's first possession and a weird flanker reverse pass from Brian Blair to Chann Chavis for 28 yards, the Kangaroos held a 14-0 first quarter lead. It was only downhill after that as the Lee offense never even threatened to score in the game.

It left Lee coach Earl Miller a bit bewildered by what he saw — and he took the blame for the results.

"I've never seen anything like that in my 11 years with Lee football," said Miller. "And that's our (coaches) fault. They are a good team, but we made them look twice as good. We went down the tubes in a hurry. Now we have to come back and see what kind of class we have."

Rain on the Plains ruins Bulldogs in opener

By BILL PRICE
Sports Writer

LUBBOCK — After a dismal first half that saw Midland High gain 10 yards in total offense and no first downs against Lubbock Monterey at Lowrey Field Friday, maybe the best thing that could have happened would have been a rain-out.

Rain and lightening delayed the start of the second half for 20 minutes, but the rain-out went uncalled as the Bulldogs bowed to Monterey 33-6 in the season opener for both teams.

Midland could never get untracked as the 'Dogs had a pair of first-quarter punts blocked deep in their own territory, setting up the Plainsmen's first 10 points, and were outgained offensively 183-76.

Both Bulldog quarterbacks, seniors Patrick Mowles and Jason Stone, were harassed by a Monterey defense that had not been scored upon in two preseason scrimmages.

The pair was held to a combined minus-three rushing total and completed 2-of-16 in the passing column. Stone was sacked twice and each signal callers were chased out of the pocket on virtually every passing attempt.

The Purple Pack defense, however, did hold the Plainsmen offense in check for most of the first three quarters. Midland forced Monterey to convert four potential touchdowns into field goals after the Plainsmen started drives at the Bulldog 39-, 25-, 10- and 11-yard lines. The 'Dogs also recovered three of four Plainsmen fumbles.

Bulldog Eric Hemphill ran back the second half kickoff 81 yards for an apparent touchdown, only to have it called back because of a clipping penalty. That mistake spelled doom for Midland, as the 'Dogs were held without a first down until the fourth period, when their first one came on a penalty.

"We just dug ourselves a hole early and couldn't get out of it," said Davis Corley, Bulldog head coach. "Every time we would get a little momentum going, something bad would happen."

"I think this a rebuilding year for Midland. They just don't have the same kids they did last year," said Bob Brown, Monterey head coach. "They did a lot of things right.

"It was just an outstanding defensive effort from our players," he said. "Our offense struggled and we just couldn't get anything to click. But it was a great win for us.

"Last year we went down there and got embarrassed (34-0) so this is a good feeling. It was probably the best defensive effort I seen at Monterey since I've been here," the second-year coach said.

"We can't take anything away from Monterey. They're a good team," Corley said. "But maybe if we had worked on the kicking game a little bit more we wouldn't have had those early mistakes.

"We only had one scrimmage and didn't work on the live kicking game much. That's my fault."

Plainsman halfback Brian Jefferson rushed for three TDs and, padded by a 70-yard touchdown in the final quarter, ended the game with 96 yards rushing. Casey Stovall, Monterey quarterback, finished the night 5-15 with no interceptions passing.

Leading the Midland attack was fullback Will Sowders, who rushed for 39 yards and caught a Mowles pass.

Graf, Navratilova return to finals

By ROBIN FINN
New York Times News Service

NEW YORK — One got there in revenge and the other got there in tears, but both of the last two women to be champions at the U.S. Open, Martina Navratilova in 1987 and Steffi Graf in 1988, survived their semifinal matches Friday and will contest the 1989 Open title Saturday.

Navratilova, a four-time Open champion who is as usual seeded second behind Graf, played artfully and aggressively in her 7-6, 6-2 dismissal of Zina Garrison, the player who knocked her out of contention last year, to earn her sixth trip to the finals.

Navratilova said she had no qualms about meeting Graf, a player who has consistently dealt her disappointment on the Grand Slam front in the last two years.

"I know what to expect," Navratilova said.

Graf advanced to her third consecutive Open final with an uneven performance against Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina. The 20-year-old defending champion defeated Sabatini in three sets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, then threw down her racquet and left the stadium court in tears.

Graf had been ashen-faced throughout the 1-hour, 56-minute match, and tournament physicians later said she had cramping in both thighs near the end of the final set.

US Open

Her face contorted, Graf seemed unmindful of her victory and paused only long enough to touch Sabatini's hand before she ran from the court to seek medical attention.

Graf had been in such discomfort during the change-over before she served for the match at 5-2 that she couldn't sit down and paced instead.

Dr. Gary Wadler, an internist who attended to Graf in the trainer's room after the match, said her condition was treated with an application of ice and fluids, and would presumably not affect her ability to play the final.

Graf was out of sorts in the first set, overhitting her crosscourt forehand and slicing her backhand into the net instead of over it. In contrast, Sabatini played a masterly set, placing her lilting topspin shots in the far corners of the court and pressuring Graf into losing her serve three times.

Well aware of Graf's preference for regimentation, Sabatini stalled between points, a tactic that annoyed her opponent.

"I think that I had an excellent first set; I tried to take my time between each point and think and concentrate about what it was that I was going to do," said Sabatini, who was angered by her inability to maintain her level of play in the second set.

"I started feeling physically very tired, and then maybe a little bit mentally. For me, it seemed that she was very beatable. If I was in perfect shape, I should have beaten her in two sets."

Sabatini fought off a break point to hold serve in the first game of the second set, but in the set's third game, she faltered, and her lapse became Graf's entree back into the match.

"That game was very important, when we were at 1-1," Sabatini said. "I didn't play with enough energy."

Graf stormed to a 4-0 lead in the third set, seemingly the fitter of the two as Sabatini chased down balls from corner to corner, her cheeks pulsing like bellows. Sabatini said she noticed Graf's deterioration but was too fatigued herself to capitalize on it.

Rozelle changes crowd noise rule

NEW YORK (AP) — NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle modified the league's new crowd-noise rule Friday, giving referees the power to penalize teams who fail to run plays after the noise lessens.

Rozelle, who also urged referees to be careful in their use of the new rule, made the change under his authority to interpret the playing rules. The new rule, adopted last March, was used in four of 59 exhibition games.

"If, after the referee has given his initial signal indicating disruptive crowd noise," the modification states, "he deems that the crowd has quieted sufficiently for the quarterback to run a play, the referee will warn a quarterback that he must attempt to do so.

"If, after such a warning, the crowd noise remains at a level that, in the referee's judgement, would allow the quarterback to run a play and he does not do so, the quarterback may be called for a delay-of-game foul (five-yard penalty). This procedure will be used only in extreme circumstances and where the referee is convinced that a play could be run.

"Referees are also being instructed to use discretion before forfeiting timeouts of the home team and special restraint before calling any delay-of-game fouls, offense or defense, and to enlist help of other officials, particularly the umpire.

And if Miller was bewildered, Killeen coach Bobby Etheridge was happily befuddled.

"I was the most surprised person in the neighborhood," said Etheridge. "I felt we would be really fortunate if we could come in here and get a win.

"I think two things helped us. We jumped on them early, and maybe, that deflated them. And secondly, we let (Farris) Strambler have a lot of yards, but we contained him pretty well. He didn't really hurt us."

Strambler, who had over 1,200 yards rushing last year, turned in 120 yards rushing, but he carried 24 times for a five-yard average, two yards below his career average. Only two other Lee backs carried the ball for a total of nine plays and 10 yards. It was a sad offensive display.

And if the Lee offense was sad, the defense didn't help much either. Lee gave up 252 yards rushing to Killeen, including 135 yards to Ryan Thomas. Killeen quarterback DJuan Haskins, who played a big role in last year's Killeen win over Lee, rushed for 72 yards and passed for 105. He scored on a 48-yard run and threw a 60-yard touchdown pass.

Lee also committed five turnovers (two fumbles and three interceptions). This is one of those scores that is deserving of the winner.

Defensively, Lee junior linebacker Derrick Turner turned in some big plays and Greg Rich had an interception. Linebacker Bennie Jones turned in some big hits, but there was far too little from anyone else.

It was the big play that hurt Lee. Haskins scored from 48 yards out from the shotgun. Blair's 28-yard TD pass to Chavis came after a Lee fumble. Thomas rambled for 53 yards and Haskins hit Chavis for a 60-yard pass play out of the shotgun. Kenton Davis' one-yard TD run in the fourth quarter was the shorty.

Lee fullback Farris Strambler turns the corner and breaks the tackle of Killeen defensive back Terry Johnson.

Killeen could be quickly in the state rankings with a victory like this. But if they don't make it this week, they could before they start District 14-5A play. The Roos play defending state champion Dallas Carter at home next week before meeting highly regarded Austin Reagan after that.

"It doesn't get any easier from here," said Etheridge.

Killeen now holds a 3-1 edge over Lee in the brief series between the two schools.

Miller held hope despite what he saw on the field.

"I'm just glad this happened to us now. Sometimes you can take this kind of thing and turn it in your favor," said Miller. "We've just got to go back to work. I still think we can find 11 players to play this game."

Lee travels from the bright lights of state-featured games next week for the border country of Del Rio. Miller is hoping it is a get well trip.

Bearkats overcome storm for 39-0 win over Forsan

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearkats overcame an electrical storm that delayed the game twice to blank the Forsan Buffaloes, 39-0, in non-district football action here Friday night.

The game was delayed twice in the first eight minutes of the first quarter, once for 10 minutes and again for eight minutes. Consequently, Garden City seemed to have trouble getting untracked against the Forsan team that only suited up 19 players.

The Bearkats were only able to outgain Forsan 140-117 in first half, but the Kats did get the only score they would need on a three-yard pass from Allen Hoelscher to tight end Wesley Glass with 10:29 left in the first half.

Garden Ciry coach Van Scott said the delays kept his team off guard the first half. "The delays were very much of a distraction. It just took away from the ballgame."

Scott downplayed the notion that his team might have taken Forsan lightly.

"We knew they had a better ballclub than people gave them credit for.

"We just started keying in and making adjustments to start executing well."

Forsan blew an opportunity to at least tie the game when Pat Bailey dropped a sure touchdown pass from Stephen East in the endzone on the Buffs second possession of the second quarter.

The Bearkats then added a score with five seconds left in the first half on a seven yard pass from backup quarterback Shae Scott to Glass.

That seemed to take away any momentum that Forsan might have had. Garden City held the Buffs to 30 yards of total offense in the second half while adding four touchdowns of their own.

Backup fullback Eric Seidenberger — a 220 pound sophomore — scored on runs of 4 and 16 yards and finished with 60 yards on only 9 carries. Brothers James and Chad Soles added the Bearkats other second half scores on runs of 11 and 1 yards, respectively.

Hoelscher led Garden City with 64 yards on nine carries while James Soles added 63 yards rushing and Chad Soles chipped in with 57 yards.

The Bearkats got a major boost from sophomore defensive back Richard Morales who recovered three Forsan fumbles and returned an intercepted pass 24 yards.

It was Morales' first high school game.

Forsan lost seven fumbles and the Buffaloes were whistled for 75 yards in penalties.

Garden City, 1-0, begins a stretch of three straight road games next weekend with a trip to Grandfalls-Royalty.

McCamey loses big

By DANNY BOBBITT

KERMIT — The Kermit Yellowjackets used a sporadic offense and a bend-but-don't-break defense to hand first-year head coach Larry Hudson a 40-7 victory over the McCamey Badgers here Friday night.

Kermit, the defending 4-3A champions, took the opening kickoff and marched 76 yards on 11 plays and grabbed a 6-0 lead when quarterback Curtis Hudson slipped in from 3 yards out with 6:30 remaining in the initial quarter. The extra point attempt by kicker Darrell Pando was wide.

Hudson scored two more times before halftime as the Yellowjackets built a 20-7 lead by intermission. Hudson scored when teammate Fidel Valdez blocked a Badger punt and scooped up the free ball and scooted in from 25 yards out. Hudson's third score of the half came when he slipped outside on an option play and outran the defense for a 42-yard tally. Hudson finished the night with 122 yards on 11 carries.

The Badger offense tallied over 250 yards, but the Kermit defense stiffened each time McCamey tried to secure the momentum.

McCamey was hampered by two lost fumbles, two interceptions and two blocked punts. The two punts and one of the interceptions were touchdowns for the Yellowjackets.

The Badger lone score was a punt that Joel Lashaway blocked and fell on in the end zone for a touchdown. The extra point kick by Shane Patrick was true as McCamey pulled within 13 points at 20-7 with 1:02 left in the first half.

The final scores by Kermit came when Tim Cravens fell on another blocked punt by Valdez in the end zone, Ray Gonzales swept in from the six and Ronnie Martinez returned an interception 55 yards.

McCamey faces another District 4-3A contender next week when they host the Golden Cranes from Crane.

Buffs draw blanks

From Staff Reports

SEAGRAVES — Stanton, defending District 5-2A champions, opened the 1989 season on a sour note Friday with a 20-0 loss to Seagraves. The Buffs could muster just 148 yards total offense in the blanking.

Seagraves spread its scoring out, scoring single touchdowns in the second, third and fourth quarters.

Fullback Steven Henderson ran the final two in on jaunts of three yards and 94 for the capper in the fourth.

Halfback David Gonzalez put the first Seagraves points on the board, a six yard run.

Stanton finished last season at 9-3; Seagraves closed out '88 with a 6-4 record.

Mitchell seeks to clear charges

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Attorneys say San Francisco Giants outfielder Kevin Mitchell may escape criminal charges of assault and battery if he completes a counseling program.

Meanwhile, Mitchell's former girlfriend is suing him for allegedly hitting her and threatening her with a gun.

Almost a year after the alleged altercation occurred, Debra Brice is suing Mitchell for unspecified damages for physical injuries and mental distress she said were caused during the incident at a Foster City residence near San Francisco.

Her attorney, Brian Hochvert, filed a civil complaint Tuesday in San Diego Superior Court. The incident occurred last Sept. 11 and Hochvert said he decided to file the complaint in San Diego because both Mitchell and Brice maintain residences in San Diego.

"The complaint was going to be coming because the statute was going to run out anyway on Sunday," Hochvert said. "There was no reasonable response from the other side, so we were left with no alternative, but to file it."

Asked if Brice had sought a settlement from Mitchell, Hochvert said, "They may have interpreted our conversations as that, but I wouldn't say that."

He declined to elaborate.

Brett reaches milestone as KC blanks Twins

From Staff Reports

Mark Gubicza pitched a five-hit shutout over seven innings and George Brett drove in two runs — one on the 2,500th hit of his career — as the Kansas City Royals beat the Minnesota Twins.

Danny Tartabull homered and doubled to drive in two runs and Bo Jackson hit his 31st home run behind Gubicza, 15-10.

Gubicza, who signed a new three-year contract before the game, has allowed just one earned run in his last 36 innings. He is 6-1 in his last eight starts.

The right-hander leads the majors with 244 innings and the American League with 33 starts.

Roy Smith, 10-6, took the loss despite striking out six and walking one in six innings.

Brett singled up the middle in the third inning to drive in Frank White and become the 65th major leaguer with 2,500 hits. He hit a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Tartabull hit his 16th homer to straightaway center with the bases empty in the fourth for a 2-0 Royals lead. Jackson homered to right in the seventh.

Kansas City added an unearned run in the fifth after Bob Boone singled leading off and scored from first on shortstop Greg Gagne's throwing error.

Indians 8, Blue Jays 3

Pete O'Brien hit a tie-breaking single in the eighth inning as the Cleveland Indians ended the Toronto Blue Jays' four-game winning streak.

The first-place Blue Jays began the night with a lead of 1½ games over Baltimore in the American League East. The loss was only their second in their last 11 games.

Cleveland's Jerry Browne hit a two-out double in the bottom of the eighth off reliever Jim Acker, 0-1, and went to third when catcher Ernie Whitt missed David Wells' first pitch for a passed ball. O'Brien followed with his game-winning bouncer to right.

Doug Jones, 7-8, got the win in relief.

Toronto's George Bell had tied it 4-4 with a leadoff home run off reliever Jesse Orosco in the top of the eighth, his 17th of the year. It gave him 179 for his career, tying him with Jesse Barfield — now with the New York Yankees — for the franchise record.

Tigers 7, White Sox 5

The Detroit Tigers posted their first seven-game winning streak since 1984 as Mike Brumley snapped a tie with a two-run single in a victory over the Chicago White Sox.

With the game tied at 2 in the sixth, Rick Schu and Kenny Williams each singled off Greg Hibbard, 4-7. Both moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Dave Bergman and scored on Brumley's liner to left.

Rangers 3, Orioles 1

Kevin Brown fired six-hit ball over 6 2/3 innings to halt a personal three-game losing streak before leaving the game with a shoulder injury and Ruben Sierra hit a two-run homer, sending the Texas Rangers over the Baltimore Orioles.

Brown, 12-9, equalled the Rangers' record for victories by a rookie, striking out a career-high eight as Texas snapped a four-game losing streak against Baltimore.

The Orioles wasted an opportunity to gain ground in the American League East. Division-leading Toronto lost to Cleveland 5-4, but the Blue Jays remained 1½ games ahead of second-place Baltimore.

Brown left the game in the seventh with strained right rotator cuff after walks put runners on first and second with two outs. Brown will be examined more extensively on Saturday.

Gary Mielke relieved Brown and gave up a single to Phil Bradley but Jamie Quirk was cut down at the plate on right fielder Sierra's one-hop throw to catcher Chad Kreuter.

Brown had been considered a strong rookie of the year candidate until he went 0-3 with a 10.29 earned run average over his previous four starts.

Jeff Russell pitched the last 1 1-3 innings for his 34th save.

Orioles rookie starter David Johnson, 4-4, went 7 1-3 innings, giving up two runs on six hits.

Rookie Ben McDonald, the No. 1 pick in this year's baseball draft, made his second major league appearance in the seventh, coming on with runners on first and second and two outs. McDonald got Sierra on a grounder to the mound. However, McDonald was later tagged for Pete Incaviglia's 17th homer in the eighth.

Sierra's two-out, two-run homer in the first following Harold Baines' double got the Rangers off to a fast start. Sierra's 26th homer glanced off the top of the right field wall and out of the stadium. It was Sierra's 69th extra base hit of the season, tying his own club record.

The Orioles broke up Brown's shutout bid in the sixth on Steve Finley's single and Cal Ripken's run-scoring double into the right field corner.

Baltimore had beaten Texas in eight of their previous nine meetings this season.

Cubs let six-run lead slip away

Associated Press

Pedro Guerrero's three-run, eighth-inning homer off Mitch Williams capped a comeback from a six-run deficit as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs.

St. Louis, which pulled to within a half-game of the NL East-leading Cubs, trailed 7-1 after four innings. But the Cardinals scored one run in the fifth, four in the seventh and five in the eighth.

Guerrero had four hits and drove in five runs, giving him 103 RBIs for the season, which equaled his career best.

Chicago led 8-6 when Vince Coleman singled with one out in the eighth. Paul Assenmacher walked Ozzie Smith and Williams, 4-4, relieved. Guerrero hit his first pitch into the right-field bleachers for his 14th home run, his second in two days.

Williams walked Tom Brunansky on four pitches and Terry Pendleton hit his 13th home run for a three-run lead. It was Williams' 10th blown save in 41 opportunities.

Cris Carpenter, 3-4, pitched the seventh and allowed an unearned run. Dan Quisenberry finished for his sixth save.

Chicago loaded the bases in the ninth on Ryne Sandberg's fourth hit, Mark Grace's walk and Doug Dascenzo's one-out single. Mitch Webster lined out to a leaping Smith at shortstop and Shawon Dunston flied to center for the final out.

Sandberg hit two home runs as Chicago built its lead, giving him 29 homers for the season. Sandberg had his fifth two-homer game this season and the 13th of his career.

Sandberg's first-inning homer gave the Cubs the lead but Tony Pena's RBI double tied it in the second. Joe Girardi's run-scoring single put Chicago ahead in the bottom of the inning and the Cubs made it 5-1 with three runs in the third on an RBI double by Grace, a run-scoring groundout by Lloyd McClendon and an RBI single by Girardi. A two-run homer by Sandberg gave Chicago a 7-1 lead in the fourth.

Coleman's second homer of the season made it 7-2 in the fifth and St. Louis pulled to within 7-6 in the seventh on Smith's RBI double, Guerrero's two-run single and Jose Oquendo's RBI single.

Vance Law's sacrifice fly in the eighth made it 8-6.

Paul Kilgus made his first start for the Cubs since July 31 and gave up five runs and 10 hits in six-plus innings. Cardinals starter Joe Magrane, seeking to become the NL's first 19-game winner, allowed eight hits and five runs in three innings.

Mets 7, Pirates 2

Slumping Kevin Elster drove in three runs and Bob Ojeda won for the fifth time in his last six decisions, leading the New York Mets past the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory moved the Mets within 2½ games of first-place Chicago in the National League East. The Cubs lost to St. Louis earlier in the day.

Elster gave the Mets a 3-1 lead with a two-run triple in the second inning off Doug Drabek, 12-11. He added a run-scoring single in a four-run fifth.

Elster, who began the game in a 5-for-34 rut, has 49 RBIs to tie Ed Bressoud's 1966 record for Mets shortstops in a season.

Ojeda, 11-10, allowed seven hits for his fifth complete game. Ojeda, who walked two and struck out three, is 10-4 lifetime against the Pirates.

Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Andy Van Slyke hit his ninth homer and first of the season against a left-hander.

Reds 5, Braves 1

Herm Winningham tripled and doubled twice and Luis Quinones extended his hitting streak to 16 games as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Atlanta Braves.

Quinones got three hits and drove in two runs. He has the Reds' top hitting streak this season and the longest active string in the majors.

Scott Scudder, 4-6, beat the Braves for the third time this seaon. He gave up one run on four hits in 5 2-3 innings and Rob Dibble and Norm Charlton combined for one-hit relief.

Winningham led off the Reds' first with a triple and scored on Quinones' single off Pete Smith, 5-14. In the third, Quinones walked, Eric Davis got an infield hit and Joe Oliver had a two-run single.

The Braves made it 3-1 in the sixth. Oddibe McDowell singled with one out, Lonnie Smith drew Scudder's first walk and Dale Murphy hit an RBI single. Murphy finished with three hits.

Phillies 4, Expos 3

Jason Grimsley pitched five innings and won his major-league debut and the Philadelphia Phillies beat Montreal, dropping the Expos into fourth place in the National League East.

The Expos stayed three games behind first-place Chicago. But New York moved ahead of Montreal, pulling within 2½ gameevin Gross, 11-10. Charlie Hayes led off with his eighth home run, Tommy Herr hit an RBI single and pinch hitter Curt Ford walked with the bases loaded.

Pinch hitter Randy Ready had a sacrifice fly in the seventh off Rich Thompson for a 4-1 lead.

Grimsley walked three straight batters with one out in the first, but escaped the bases-loaded jam by striking out Galarraga and getting Tom Foley on a grounder.

Astros 5, Giants 2

Pitcher Mark Portugal, Rafael Ramirez and Steve Lombardozzi hit home runs and the Houston Astros beat San Francisco, cutting the Giants' lead in the National League West to six games.

The Astros won the opener of a three-game series and sent San Francisco to just its second loss in nine games.

Portugal, 4-1, shut out the Giants until the seventh, when they chased him with two runs. Danny Darwin finished for his fifth save.

Portugal hit his first major-league home run and also singled. Darwin added an RBI single, making the Houston pitchers 3-for-3 at the plate.

Don Robinson, 12-10, gave up four runs on four hits in five innings.

Frenship stings Andrews Mustangs in opener

By GEORGE BRZEZINSKI
MRT Correspondent

ANDREWS — The Frenship Tigers spoiled Andrews'season opener, handing the Mustangs a 14-9 loss here Friday night. Tiger back David Renshaw capped an impressive night with a 23 yard touchdown run midway through the fourth quarter which proved to be the difference for Coach Bobby Davis's club.

The Mustangs poor showing left head coach W.T. Stapler with a bad taste in his mouth. "That was the poorest opening day I've seen in a long while, one team came to play and one didn't", complained Stapler. Andrew's wishbone offense was flat, gaining only 65 yards on the ground in the first half, while the defense seemed to fall asleep at times - evidenced by Renshaw's 63 yard run early in the third quarter. Stapler explained, "We were flat, our offense couldn't execute and our defense couldn't stop them."

Stapler surprised the tigers with with less than four minutes to play and the game slipping away, quarterback Rkobert Morris pitched to his fullback who spotted Robbie Seals downfield and completed a 26 yard pass. The play set up Andrews only touchdown, a 2 yard run by Corey Wilson.

The Mustangs find no relief in sight as they prepare to bring their wishbone offense to Midland next week for a showdown with the Midland High Bulldogs. Coach Stapler wouldn't make any predictions, "We can't worry about our opponents, we have to work on improving our own team." Stapler did say he feels the team will improve as the season progresses, mainly because his team is a young and inexperienced one. "We started nine new people on defense tonight and all our backs are new", he said. With a career record of 168-45-2, Mustang fans should not fret just yet.

Levelland nips Lamesa

From Staff Reports

LAMESA — Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes pulled off a furious 14-point fourth quarter rally here Friday night against Levelland, but still fell just short of victory, 19-14.

Levelland, a district champion last year while Lamesa was 4-5-1, took a 19-0 lead over the Tors as Curtis Hall scored on a 69-yard run late in the first quarter and then got two TD passes from quarterback Jimmy Payton of 26 yards to Anthony Dawn in the second period and 24 yards to Olondo Coursey in the third period.

But Lamesa roared back as quarterback Brock Cartwright scored on a one-yard keeper and passed to jason Blake for the two-point conversion. Then scored from five yards out to narrow the gap again.

Steers drive past Hobbs, 21-17

From Staff Reports

HOBBS, N.M. — The Big Spring Steers opened their bid for a District 4-4A championship Friday night with a 21-17 win over Hobbs. The loss was the 15th straight spanning three years for Hobbs.

Hobbs did take a 14-6 lead in the first quarter, but a second quarter field goal by Byron Stanfield would be all she wrote for the New Mexico team.

Steer quarterback Rance Thompson connected twice with wide receiver Neal Mayfield for two of Big Spring's three TDs.

Mayfield hauled in a 15-yarder in the first quarter. In the second quarter, it was a 41 yard bomb as Thompson finished with 139 yards passing, completing 8-of-17.

Mayfield also ran in the Steer's final touchdown, an eight-yarder with 7:19 left in the third quarter to ice the win.

Iraan nips Rankin 15-14

From Staff Reports

IRAAN — State quarterfinalist Rankin felt the heavy graduation losses it suffered last year, falling to the Iraan Braves, 15-14 in a season-opening thriller.

The Red Devils got on the board first when Kirk Kennedy ran in from one yard out to put Rankin up 6-0. The extra point attempt was blocked which ultimately provided the needed margin of victory for Iraan.

Both of Iraan's scores came in the second quarter. Jay Kent connected with wideout Casey Miller for a 38 yard scoring strike.

Kent followed up his scoring reception with a three-yard TD run. A two-point conversion pass was good to put the Braves up 15-6.

Tough Central Division sets pace for weak AFC

By BARRY WILNER
Sports Writer

Before worrying about breaking a five-year Super Bowl slump, the AFC has to find a champion. For the first time in nearly a decade, the race isn't particularly crowded.

Preview

Only four teams, three in the tough Central Division, seem likely to get to New Orleans next Jan. 28: Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Houston. Then, again, who would have mentioned the Bengals as a contender last year, coming off a 4-11 season?

The Bengals' turnaround, one of the most impressive in NFL history, should boost the hopes of every team in the conference, of course. Still, it's nearly impossible to argue the Steelers, Patriots, Colts, Jets, Dolphins and anybody in the West have the merits to mirror Cincinnati's surge.

"You look at what happened with the Bengals and you see it can happen for anyone," says Dan Marino, who might have to break every single-season passing record to get the Dolphins into contention. "Why not us?"

Because the Dolphins have almost no defense and, until Sammie Smith proves he can star in the pros and the line shows it can block for the run, no rushing game.

You also can write off the Jets, who are still in transition; the Colts, who don't have nearly enough to go with Eric Dickerson; New England, which is questionable in too many key areas, particularly quarterback and defensive line; and the Steelers, a team that is closing out the 80s in direct contrast to how they finished the 70s — champions then, tailenders now.

Eliminate the entire AFC West, which Seattle should win, probably around 9-7. The Seahawks have some strengths, but not nearly enough to be a Super Bowl team.

The rest of the West goes from the ridiculous (John Elway trying to beat teams by himself in Denver) to the more ridiculous (Jim McMahon making like Elway in San Diego.

That leaves the Bills, expecting and likely to get another runaway in the East, and the Central trio. One of them should be in the Superdome next January.

Here's the way it looks, division-by-division:

CENTRAL

It doesn't get any tougher than this. The Oilers, Bengals and Browns each have games they already can point to as being critical this year in what should be a rousing race. The Browns finish at Houston, the Bengals get the Oilers at home the previous week, and Cincinnati is at Cleveland Dec. 3. The head-to-head meetings of these teams probably will determine the order of finish.

And don't think winning the division isn't crucial if the two runners-up get wild-card berths. It happened last year and the Bengals, playing at home all the way, wound up in Miami — and 34 seconds from the championship. Houston knocked off Cleveland in the wild-card game, then lost at Buffalo.

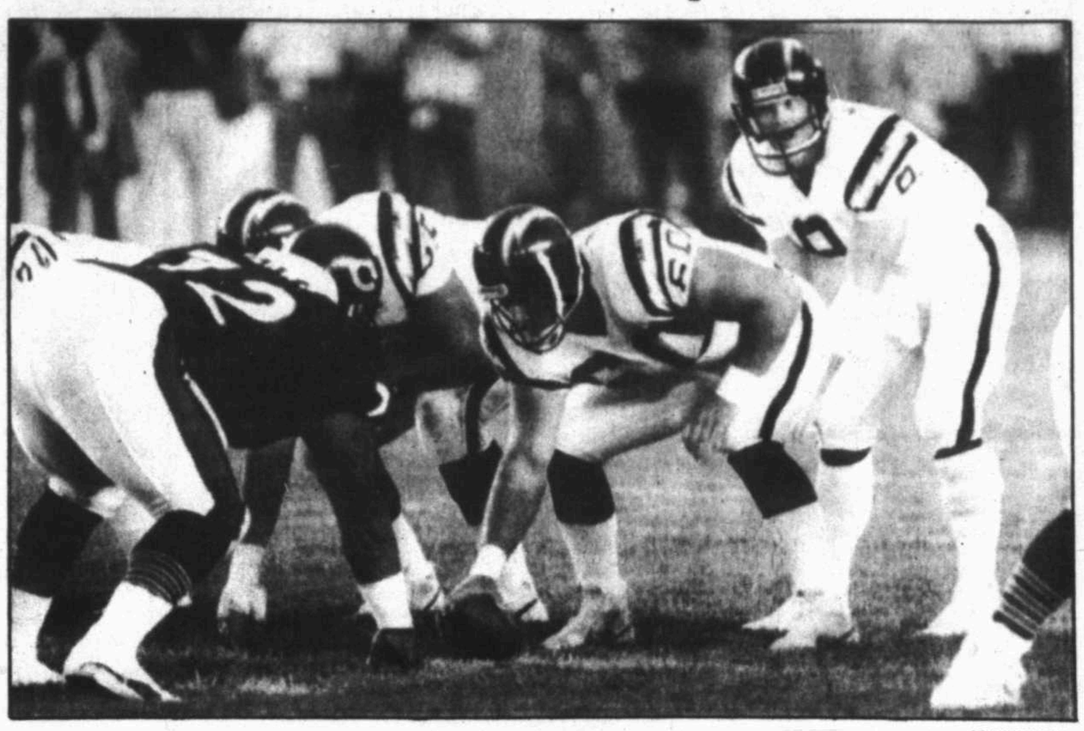
The feeling here is the Oilers are ready to jump to the top. Maturity might be the key.

"We've got to show we're ready for that big step," Warren Moon says. "We've had two years in the playoffs and we should be ready to take it another step."

The extra step, leading to the extra hit, has been a trademark and troublespot for the Oilers. They've gotten the reputation of a dirty team, something they argue — to a point.

"We're not going to lose our aggressiveness just because somebody doesn't like the way we hit," says linebacker John Grimsley, one of those heavy hitters.

If the Oilers can curb their penchant for silly penalties, they've got the talent to be a champion. Moon was third in AFC passing last year despite missing five games. In Drew Hill (72 catches, 1,141 yards, 10 TDs) and Ernest Givins (60, 976, 5), he has a pair of gamebreakers. In Mike Rozier (1,002 yards rushing, 10 TDs), Allen Pinkett, Alonzo Highsmith and Lorenzo White, he has the deepest backfield in football. And the line, led by Bruce Matthews and Mike Munchak, is solid.



AP Laserphoto

Jim McMahon defected to the AFC's San Diego Chargers after seven years of a less-than-happy relationship with Chicago coach Mike Ditka.

"We scored 424 last year," says Moon, who has the comfort of a $2 million-a-year contract. "We feel we can keep putting the ball into the end zone."

How well they keep it our of their end zone will be the deciding factor for the Oilers. They forced a conference-high 42 turnovers (20 interceptions, also an AFC high) and have a dangerous pass rush, led by Ray Childress, William Fuller and Sean Jones. The linebackers are active, but the secondary lost safety Keith Bostic and could be vulnerable on the corners.

"Of course we want people to look at us as a Super Bowl team," he says. "To do that, we've got to be near perfect."

The Bengals have an almost-perfect offense. The huge line, with All-Pro tackle Anthony Munoz, does well blocking for the run or pass. Eddie Brown and Tim McGee are excellent deep threats, Cris Collinsworthy and TE Rodney Holman the possession receivers.

Ickey Woods runs (1,006 yards, 5.3 average, 15 TDs) and blocks, James Brooks runs (931, 5.1, 8), catches (29, six scores) and blocks, Boomer Esiason —if his sore shoulder has healed — is one of the most accurate passers around.

Defensively, the Bengals came around in the playoffs. Of course, they played twice at home, where they won all eight regular-season games. But the defense was more aggressive in the playoffs than at any other time of the year and outplayed the 49ers' defense for much of the Super Bowl.

Safety David Fulcher, CB Eric Thomas and NT Tim Krumrie are the stars, but Krumrie comes off a broken leg sustained early in the Super Bowl. The linebacking is suspect, as is the pass rush, although Jim Skow had 9½ sacks.

"The mistake some teams make following a Super Bowl appearance is that of assuming a repeat," Coach Sam Wyche says. "It has to be earned every year."

The failure to earn a Super Bowl trip has irked Browns owner Art Modell so much that he has placed added emphasis on this season. In other words, Modell is telling new Coach Bud Carson and the players what Al Davis always has said — with an addendum:

"Just Win, Baby. Now."

The Browns might be able to do it if they don't lose Bernie Kosar for half the year, as happened in 1988, when they still finished 10-6. The running attack, in the wake of Kevin Mack's drug problems and the trading of Ernest Byner, is unstable. But rookies Eric Metcalf and Lawyer Tillman will boost an already fine lineup of receivers, led by Webster Slaughter, Reggie Langhorne and Ozzie Newsome, one of the all-time greatest tight ends.

Carson will get the defense back to its attacking style with lots of blitzes, stunts and substitutions. The further improvement of DL Michael Dean Perry, LB David Grayson and SS Brian Washington, combined with first-rate veterans Frank Minnifield, Clay Matthews and Felix Wright, gives Cleveland enough to be a contender.

Pittsburgh, which owned this division for nearly a decade, owns the worst opening schedule in the league — the Steelers play the Bengals and Browns twice each, Houston and Minnesota once apiece in the first seven weeks.

They'll do so with a Tattered Curtain defense lacking a pass rush and not much aerial offense. What a difference a decade makes!

WEST

The Seahawks have enough skilled performers — John Williams, Curt Warner, Dave Krieg, Steve Largent, Brian Blades, Norm Johnson, Bryan Millard — on offense to outscore the rest of the division. If their aging line holds together and they get anything from Brian Bosworth — it's time for "The Boz" to earn his millions — the defense will be the best of a weak lot.

Denver's defense, under new coordinator Wade Phillips, will be aggressive. It also will be porous, meaning Elway will have to put lots of points on the board to keep the Broncos near .500. Elway, often a magician, might need to be a miracle worker this year.

McMahon won't come up with any miracles in San Diego, but he's immeasurably better than his predecessors at quarterback. The Chargers are too young to contend, but veterans such as McMahon, Gary Anderson (1,119 yards rushing, 5.0 average), Billy Ray Smith, Lee Williams and Leslie O'Neal might keep them out of the cellar.

The Chiefs have good coaching with Marty Schottenheimer, who led Cleveland to four straight playoff appearances. They also have the best secondary in the AFC, starring All-Pro safety Deron Cherry, nose tackle Bill Maas and linebacker Dino Hackett. Schottenheimer will get the most out of them and rookie LB Derrick Thomas.

How much he gets from a so-so line and aging QBs Ron Jaworski (38) and Steve DeBerg (35) will determine how high they claim. But the Chiefs should move up.

The Raiders have Marcus Allen, Bo Jackson (for a half-season), Tim Brown, James Lofton and Todd Christensen, yet they don't score enough. Blame the horrid line.

Los Angeles also has holes all over the defense but might get some sacks with a healthy Howie Long, Bill Pickel, Otis Wilson and Greg Townsend.

EAST

By November last year, the Bills knew they were playoff-bound. Had they not blown late games to Tampa Bay and Indianapolis, they would have played the AFC title game at home, where they were 9-0. Instead, those slipups sent them to the Cincinnati jungle, where the Bengals were unbeaten, and Buffalo fell short of its first Super Bowl.

The Bills are a heavy favorite in this division thanks to a loaded defense.

"We're going to stop people," says All-Pro DE Bruce Smith. "We're going to pound on you, confuse you and stop you."

He's right. The Bills allowed a conference-low 237 points in 1988 and, in one four-week period, allowed a total of 15 points.

Smith is complemented by veterans Art Still and Fred Smerlas up front and has the support of superb linebackers Cornelius Bennett and Shane Conlan. Safety Mark Kelso is another all-star.

The main man is Bennett, a search-and-destroy type who finds what he's looking for and demolishes it. Bennett and Conlan give the Bills the best 1-2 punch at the position in the league.

If the Bills can find that kind of combo on offense, they'd be the overwhelming favorite in the entire NFL. But Coach Marv Levy keeps the shackles on Jim Kelly with his conservative approach.

"As long as we're winning, that's the way we'll do things," Levy says. "We're not that conservative, anyway. We have a lot of creative offensive plays."

Kelly played bombs-away in the USFL and has Andre Reed (72 catches), Trumaine Johnson and Chris Burkett with whom to do it here. More likely, he'll be throwing short and letting Thurman Thomas, Larry Kinnebrew and Robb Riddick run behind a good line led by center Kent Hull and tackle Joe Devlin.

Or he'll turn to accurate placekicker Scott Norwood.

Indianapolis also has an excellent kicker in Dean Biasucci and the league's best runner, Eric Dickerson. The defense is decent, with LB Duane Bickett the leader. But the Colts trail Buffalo in virtually ever area.

So does New England, which must settle on its passer and upgrade its pass rush. The Patriots have another fine runner, John Stephens, and top receiver Stanley Morgan will tutor first-round draftee Hart Lee Dykes.

The Patriots might have a winning record but they won't be in Buffalo's neighborhood.

The Jets already have quarterback injury problems, as they always seem to, with Pat Ryan out with a knee injury and Ken O'Brien nursing a broken toe and coming off a sore arm.

Sunday, a look at the National Football Conference.

Glanville, Burns say enough is enough with preseason

By MIKE NADEL

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Preseason wasn't very peaceful for Jerry Glanville.

"We major in major distractions," the Houston Oilers' coach said.

Training camp wasn't exactly tranquil for Minnesota Vikings coach Jerry Burns, either.

"All I know is I'm glad the season's here," he said.

After long contract holdouts by some of their stars, the Oilers and Vikings finally are all present and accounted for.

They'll meet Sunday at the Metrodome in an NFL game some are billing as a preview of the Super Bowl.

The Vikings (11-5 last year) are favored to win the National Conference. The Oilers (10-6) are co-favorites, along with the Buffalo Bills, to win the AFC.

Before they can get to the Super Bowl, however, they have to play 16 regular-season games and a couple of playoff games. And before that, they had to endure an often trying preseason.

Until this week, Houston was without running back Mike Rozier and wide receiver Drew Hill. Defensive end William Fuller and cornerback Richard Johnson were also holdouts.

Wide receiver Ernest Givins was in camp but unhappy.

Compounding Glanville's frustration, nose tackle Doug Smith and his backup, Richard Byrd, both missed time with injuries. Byrd is back, though not at full strength, but Smith is still out, meaning standout end Ray Childress will have to play nose Sunday.

"In the National Football League, distractions are there every week. Something's always going to distract you," Glanville said. "You just go on. Don't worry about the distractions."

The Vikings have had plenty of distractions of their own. When camp opened, three players were holding out for contract renegotiations and seven others were unsigned.

The players slowly dribbled in but weren't always happy about it. Most notable among the conscientious objectors are Joey Browner and Anthony Carter, who missed the first four weeks of camp and then, upon reporting, said they may not play as hard as they once did.

Carter, one of the league's most dangerous receivers, suggested just this week that Burns should bench him for Sunday's game because "I won't put my best foot forward," a statement he later retracted.

"In that case, I hope they bench him," Glanville said. "Tell Jerry he's got to bench him. That'd be great. Just for making the statement he should bench him."

No chance of that. Burns said all's been forgiven. He said Carter will start Sunday. So will Browner. And so will Steve Jordan, the Pro Bowl tight end who on Wednesday became the last Viking to sign.

The Vikings are operating at full strength. Still, Burns admitted, "I wish we had just a little more time to finely tune this operation."

Abilene's Estes one shot off B.C. pace

By WILLIAM KATES

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Keith Clearwater was left with a one-stroke lead Friday after an up-and-down second round at the $500,000 B.C. Open.

Clearwater, of Orem, Utah, shot a 3-under-par 68 at the En-Joie Golf Club for a 36-hole total of 9-under-par 133, but a poor start prevented him from adding to his two-stroke first-round lead.

But Clearwater's problems were much the same for those trying to catch him.

Abilene's Bob Estes, who last year played at Green Tree Country Club when the now-defunct ProGolf Tour stopped in Midland, joined Jim Gallagher Jr., Gil Morgan and Dave Eichelberger at 134 after two rounds of the 72-hole tournament. All had rounds tarnished by bogeys and near misses Friday.

Two strokes behind Clearwater were Jim Booros and Mike Hulbert, while Ed Dougherty, Nolan Henke and Fuzzy Zoeller were three away from the top spot, which carries a purse of $90,000.

"I really turned it around after playing poorly," said Clearwater, who was 2-over-par after seven holes but finished with five birdies on the last 11 holes to retain the lead.

ABILENE — Midland High No. 1 singles netter Harper Essex overwhelmed Keith Hicks, 6-0, 6-1, in action at the Abilene Tournament Friday.

The Bulldogs' second-ranked tennis player, Leo Oei, also won, defeating Robbie Scott of Tyler-Lee, 6-3, 6-2.

Overall, the Bulldogs lost 10 matches and won six. There were two yet to be played late Friday.

Elizabeth Ameel, the No. 1 ranked girl's single player, defeated Isahel Derosas, 6-0, 7-6. In doubles action, Ameel and partner Susan Johnson defeated Rhodes-Nikolic, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

In boy's doubles, George St. Clair and Lanny Temple teamed up to beat Hicks-Pyle, 6-2, 6-4.

The Abilene tournament features some of the top high school tennis programs in the state, including No. 2 ranked Tyler-Lee, No. 4 ranked San Antonio Marshall, and No. 6 ranked San Antonio Churchill. Host teams Abilene High and Abilene Cooper are also ranked in the Top 20.

Libertarians call for legalization of drugs

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Libertarian Party on Friday branded President Bush's proposed war on illegal drugs "futile" and called for the legalization of all drugs.

"Sending helicopters and so-called advisers to Colombia will drag our young men into the quicksand of another no-win was like Vietnam and Lebanon," said Gary Johnson, party spokesman.

"Even if all the Medellin drug lords were captured, more gangsters will always be ready to fill the management vacuum as long as obscene profits can be made because drugs are illegal," Johnson said.

The Libertarian official likened the war on drugs to Prohibition, when illegal sales and consumption of alcohol flourished.

Talk AND Listen

A pastor-grandfather had stopped to talk with some pre-school children on the playground. He knelt down to their eye-level—something he always did. "They can see your face rather than your legs," he'd say. He talked and listened for what seemed too long a time.

"Do you think they know or will remember what you talked about?" his son asked, somewhat skeptical of his use of time.

He smiled and then made a statement that should never be forgotten:

"It's not what you talk about that's important; what's important is that you talk and listen."

Having reared nine children successfully, perhaps he knew what he was talking about.

UNITED

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Word of Life presents guests

Word of Life Church will present two special guests in the upcoming weeks.

The Rev. Bertril A. Baird will speak at 10 a.m. Sunday. Then, the first Sunday in October at 10 a.m. Marvin Matthews will be the guest.

"Pastor Baird is a dynamic teacher who ministers the word with holy enthusiasm and is well respected for his ability to communicate with clarity and simplicity," says a release from the church.

Matthews, who graduated from Wayland Baptist University with a bachelor of arts in voice and pre-law, was voted by his peers and faculty as the senior displaying the highest Christian citizenship ideals and was presented the coveted Citizenship Award. He was a member of the International Choir and the Spirit of America Singers.

Following graduation, he began his professional concert career as a member of the Spurriows. He served as director and featured soloist.

"As a former minister of music and assistant pastor, Marvin has insight to the needs of the average church member," says the release from the church. "He has very strong ties to the local church and a deep sensitivity to the church staff and membership."

He has two albums to his credit — "Marvin" and the 1988 release on Diadem Music Inc. of Nashville, "Keep Sailing On."

For more information on either guest call Word of Life. The church is located on State Highway 191 east of FM 1788.

Church to have series

"Changing Lives" is the topic of a special series of lessons presented by Golf Course Road Church of Christ Sept. 17-19.

Jim Hackney of Fort Worth will be the speaker.

"The lessons are designed to demonstrate God's power in the lives of people by using Bible characters who overcame great spiritual flaws through a working faith in God," says a release from the church. "Application will be made to modern man by showing a formula for change."

Services will begin at 9 a.m. Sept. 17 with Hackney delivering three addresses entitled "Little Lives Teach Big Lessons," "You Can Change Lives" and "This Will Change Your Life."

The services will conclude at 11:45 a.m. for the day with no evening service planned.

Sept. 18, Hackney will speak on "How Change Begins," and on Sept. 19 he will talk on "The Life Changing Promise." These two evening services will be preceded by a pot luck dinner in the church's Family Center.

Hackney, has served as pulpit minister in several different Texas churches, and also in St. Louis. For the past 10 years he has preached in Fort Worth and conducts numerous evangelistic meetings throughout the country.

The public is invited to attend.

Hodges plans to speak

Zane C. Hodges who taught at Dallas Theological Seminary for 30 years, will be the featured speaker at a seminar sponsored by Midland Bible Church, 2800 N. A St.

The seminar deals with the topic "Lordship Salvation — Is It Biblical?"

The seminar parallels the release of his most recent book entitled "Absolutely Free" which addresses the most fundamental questions for the church, "What is the Gospel?"

Hodges is an accomplished scholar and articulate communicator of Biblical truth, and is especially adept at explaining difficult passages in thorough detail.

Among his other works are "The Hungry Inherit," "The Gospel Under Siege" and "Grace In Eclipse." And he was one of the chief forces behind the translation and development of the popular New King James Version of the Bible.

The format of the seminar will allow for questions and interaction on various related scriptures and topics.

"This is truly a great opportunity to learn under one of the brightest evangelical minds of our day," says a release from the church.

The seminar will be held Sept. 16 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. with a break for lunch.

Space limitations make it necessary to pre-register, although there is no admission charge. Call Midland Bible Church 684-9722.

Armstrong to preach

St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 North Main St., will have as guest preacher Sunday morning the Rev. W. L. Armstrong of Whitney.

Armstrong recently retired after many years of service in Indonesia. While there, one of his strongest ministries was the building of new churches and the training of young church leaders.

Armstrong is in Midland for this time of worship accompanying his wife, Faye Armstrong, who will address the district meeting of the United Methodist Women at the church at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Special music in both word and sign will be presented at the district meeting by Susie Anderson accompanied by Tony Lackland.

Emphasis of the meeting will be the UMW's studies for the year, "New Struggle to Hope," and "Songs for Our Time." Officers for the new year will be installed by Verna Mae Abel of St. Luke's U.M.C. of Midland.

Women from at least 19 of the 32 churches in the District are expected for the assembly.

Solutions to be discussed

Solutions to some of today's most pressing problems will be discussed by several area experts this fall at Fairmont Park Church of Christ, 3813 N. Midland Drive.

On Sept. 17, Scott Wright, manager of the "Straight Program," will speak at 9 a.m. to adults and parents. A graduate of the "Straight Program" will speak to grades 5 through 12.

Dr. Wayne Wylie, associate professor at Texas A&M, will conduct lessons on Sept. 23 at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wylie also will speak Sept. 24 at 9 and 10 a.m.

Marriage and family therapist, Dr. James Huggins, will speak at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 30, and again Oct. 1 at 9 a.m.

These speakers will address the subjects of drug and alcohol abuse, how to recognize the symptoms and solutions for the victims and their families.

For more details call 699-7064. These lessons are free to the public and no special contributions will be taken.

The public is invited to attend.

Church relay to be Sunday

The 3rd Annual First Presbyterian Church Relay, "The Last Crusade," is set for this weekend.

The Junior and Senior High Fellowships will meet at 7 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall on Sunday where the adventure begins. Ten teams will travel all over Midland in search of clues to solve "the mystery of the decade." This event will kick off the Youth Program of First Presbyterian for fall 1989.

Visitors are welcome. The church is located on the corner of Texas Avenue and A Street.

Homecoming planned

The Unitarian Universalist Church of Midland invites the public to attend Homecoming Sunday services Sunday to hear the new minister, the Rev. Clare Louise Petersberger.

The 28-year-old minister, a native of Washington, D.C., studied drama and literature at Middlebury College in Vermont and received her Master of Divinity degree at Harvard. She was ordained at Cedar Lane Unitarian Church in Bethesda, Md., in June.

This special service is entitled "A Basket of Summer, a Barrel of Fall" and is an intergenerational gathering to share memories of summer and hopes for the fall. There will be a brunch at 9:30 a.m. for visitors, members and children with the worship service starting at 11 a.m.

The Unitarian Universalist Church is located at the corner of Midkiff and Neely. Further information may be obtained by calling 694-4308.

Roberts conducting service

Jerry R. Roberts will conduct a missionary service at Calvary Assembly Of God, 908 S. Johnston, Sunday at 7 p.m.

Roberts was born in Oklahoma and grew up in New Mexico. He preached his first sermon at 14 years old and has been in full time Christian ministry since the age of 17.

He has served as an evangelist, a pastor and a district official for his denomination. He has served churches in Clayton, N.M., Plainview, Lubbock, and Tucson, Ariz., as well as serving as a member of the Foreign Missions Board of the Assemblies of God.

Roberts, his wife, Mamie, and their son, Dustin, will be Assemblies of God missionaries in Latin American where they will conduct crusades in strategic locations and will plan new churches. At the end of their itineration they will attend language school in San Jose, Costa Rica before assuming their responsibilities.

The church's pastor, Gayle Reeves, invites the public to attend.

'Norman' to be shown

"A Man Called Norman" will be shown Sept. 17 at 7 p.m. at Calvary Assembly of God Church, 908 S. Johnston.

This is the story of an uncommon friendship — of two men who triumph over their fears — of the unexpected rewards awaiting those who reach out to others.

"Catch a glimpse of God's heart as this humorous yet heartwarming family film shows you how to look past the surface — deep down to the inner beauty of your fellow man," says a release from the church. "You'll learn how God completely changed Mike Adkins' life through a man called Norman."

The film is produced by Focus on the Family Films.

For more information call the church at 682-8473.

The Rev. O.L. Taylor, pastor of Community First Missionary Baptist Church, invites the public to attend.

Rev. Godwin elected to Sunday school board

The Rev. Johnnie C. Godwin, son of John and Dimple Godwin of Midland, has been elected vice president for general publishing at the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board by trustees at their August semi-annual meeting in Glorieta, N.M.

Godwin

Godwin, a native of Texas, has been head of Holman Bible Publishers at the Sunday School Board since February of 1984. In his new position, he will oversee the areas of Holman, Broadman, Genovox, Church Information Systems and the Baptist Telecommunication Network.

"Johnnie Godwin's performance is his best recommendation," says Lloyd Elder, board president. "He has demonstrated hard work and stability during difficult times, and, more recently, creativity and momentum during highly productive days of Bible publishing."

Since Godwin assumed the leadership of Holman, sales have almost doubled from $5.4 million in 1983-84 to $9.4 million in 1987-88.

Godwin, 52, first came to the Sunday School Baord 19 years ago as an editor of youth Sunday school materials. He also worked in the Broadman division as supervisor of the books and music section and director of the products department prior to becoming head of Holman.

Before he moved to the board, he was pastor of Hewitt Baptist Church, Hewitt, for five years. He also was pastor of three other Texas churches.

He is a graduate of Baylor University, Waco, where he received a bachelor of arts degree in Greek and religion and a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Included among Godwin's writings are Volume 16 of the "Layman's Bible Book Commentary, Mark" and the 1982 January Bible Study book for youth, "James: A Faith That Works."

Godwin's election was part of a Sunday School Board internal reorganization where five employees were elected to new staff positions.

"The thrust of the reorganization is on product development, marketing and distribution," Elder told the trustees. "The role of the Sunday School Board is to structure itself, establish priorities and allocate resources in such a way that we impact results in local churches."

Church to get facelift

This Sunday morning's services will be unusual for Midland's First Presbyterian Church has its final Sunday services in its sanctuary before remodeling begins.

"We have worked hard to make Sunday a special day," says the Rev. Russ Ritchel, pastor of the congregation, "There will be special guests, special music including the Lone Star Brass, and we will be giving every person in attendance a gift as a reminder of their attendance."

During the renovation of the sanctuary, the church will be holding worship services in the fellowship hall.

The church will be completely renovating the sanctuary including providing a new 98-rank Moller pipe organ. The new organ will utilize 80 percent of the present organ which was purchased when the sanctuary was first built in 1962.

Several weeks ago one of the members of the church asked Ritchel in jest if the folding chairs in their fellowship hall would be padded for worship.

"The wheels just started turning," he says in a news release. "I wanted to have something to give to each person who came to church for our final service in the sanctuary. A stadium cushion seemed to be just the right thing. It's a fun gift, but it really fits what is happening."

Sunday morning at each of their services the church will be giving each worshipper a stadium cushion emblazoned with the church logo.

Israeli soldiers shoot Palestinian teen during protest

JERUSALEM (AP) — Soldiers fatally shot a 13-year-old Palestinian during a stone-throwing protest Friday, and three Arabs suspected of collaborating with Israeli authorities were found dead in the occupied territories.

The army said it had arrested four Arabs in the slaying of one of the alleged collaborators.

Also Friday, a Syrian-backed Palestinian faction claimed responsibility for firing rockets across the Jordanian border into Israel a day earlier.

In the Gaza Strip town of Khan Yunis, troops clashed with stone-throwers and Akran Zaki Hamdan, 13, was killed, the army and hospital officials said.

Hamdan's death brought to 560 the number of Palestinians killed by Israeli soldiers or civilians since the start of the uprising against Israeli occupation nearly 21 months ago. Thirty-nine Israelis have been killed.

The deaths of the suspected collaborators raised to 110 the number of Palestinians killed by fellow Arabs. Most have been accused of collaboration.

The slayings came despite an appeal by underground uprising leaders in their latest leaflet. They asked Palestinian activists not to be too quick to kill suspected collaborators.

Cocern about security on the usually quiet Israel-Jordan border rose this week following the rocket attack Thursday and a guerrilla attack five days earlier in which two Israeli soldiers were killed.

Israel radios and newspapers said military officials believed Syria was behind both attacks.

The first attack was claimed by the Syrian-based Taalat Yakoub faction of the Palestine Liberation Front. The rocket attack was claimed Friday in Damascus by the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, headed by George Habash.

Zeev Schiff, a military analyst for the Haaretz daily, said Syria may be using the border attacks to punish Jordan's King Hussein for allowing Iraq to move weapons through Jordan to Christian forces in Lebanon. The Christians are battling Syria's army.

Schiff also said the Syrians "are trying to stir up trouble" between Israel and Jordan.

In the occupied territories Friday, 14 Palestinians were shot and wounded in stone-throwing clashes with Israeli troops, including an 11-year-old boy hit with a bullet in the head in the West Bank village of Tubas, Arab reports said.

The army announced a raid on the village of Beit Dajan, also in the occupied West Bank, and said "a great number" of Palestinians were arrested when Israel used helicopters to block suspects from fleeing into surrounding hills.

The army said last month it would begin using helicopters in village raids aimed at rounding up activists in the uprising.

Late Friday, 30-year-old Ahmed Izat Imran was found beaten and stabbed to death under a tree near the village of Rujeib in the West Bank, Arab sources said.

Imran reportedly was abducted from his car Thursday night by masked youths. A search was launched by relatives who later found the body, reports said.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, the two alleged collaborators who were killed were identified as Niman Abu Hilal, 30, who was fatally beaten at his home in Rafah by masked youths, and Jasser Al Krinawi, 24, whose body was found stuffed in a well in the Magazi refugee camp.

The army said four Arabs were taken into custody in connection with the Krinawi case.

Tests to be done on bones of Mengele

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil will ship some of the bones of Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele to West Germany to compare their genetic code with that of Mengele's son, the head of Brazil's federal police said Friday.

Federal Police Chief Romeu Tuma said four teeth, three ribs and several other bones taken from Mengele's remains would be submitted to a deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) test in Frankfurt, West Germany.

The genetic code contained in the DNA "will be compared to that of Mengele's son Rolf, who has agreed to submit himself to the test by donating some of his blood," Tuma said.

Tuma, who was to fly to Germany on Saturday with the bones, said the DNA test was requested by Frankfurt's district attorney. The test is considered positive proof of identity.

Tuma said the test would confirm once and for all that the bones are those of the infamous "Angel of Death" of the Auschwitz death camp in Poland where hundreds of thousands of prisoners were killed during World War II.

"That should put to rest any lingering doubts that anyone may have that the remains are Mengele's," the police chief said.

He said he did not know when the test would be completed.

Mengele's remains were dug up on June 6, 1985, from a grave in the cemetery at Embu, 17 miles from Sao Paulo.

Witnesses said Mengele lived in Brazil for 18 years and drowned on Feb. 7, 1979, while swimming at a beach resort near Sao Paulo.

Immigration becoming hot issue in Norwegian national election

ARENDAL, Norway (AP) — A tide of refugees is forcing this insular country to cope with a backlash of racism as it heads toward a national election. It is one of the hottest issues of the campaign, but many candidates are reluctant to touch it.

Anti-immigrant sentiment is partly credited for the rising popularity of right-wing leader Carl I. Hagen, who has emerged as the main challenger to Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland and her Labor Party in the Sept. 11 vote.

Polls predict his Party of Progress may jump from two seats in the 157-seat Parliament to as many as 32 in the new 165-seat legislature.

Hagen says Norway cannot afford to support refugees, whose number swelled 10-fold in two years, peaking in 1987 at about 8,600.

In recent months, immigration centers and homes have been bombed or shot at. Two Pakistani immigrants were stabbed to death in July.

Those wanting to keep out refugees claim they burden the social welfare system, take jobs, bring more crime and drugs, have extremely large families and "steal" Norwegian women.

At the opposite pole are Norwegians who have disrupted anti-immigration rallies and sheltered refugees facing deportion.

The dispute has soured the taste of Western liberty for some newcomers.

"If we work, they say we take their jobs. If we don't, they say we take their benefits. What are we suposed to do?" said Walid Al-Kubaisi, a 31-year-old refugee from Iraq.

Voters listed immigration as a key election issue in an August poll by Opinion A/S, yet there has been little debate on it.

Picturesque Arendal, a south coast city of 12,000 with 200 refugees, brought the race issue into focus with a series of violent incidents. But when Mrs. Brundtland campaigned here she skirted the topic, saying she didn't want to provoke trouble.

"We politicans have become careful about opposing racism. I am afraid that politicians are ... worried about losing votes," said Reiulf Steen, a Labor Party candidate.

Isolated on the northern tip of Europe, Norway has remained a homogeneous country. More than 90 percent of its 4.2 million people belong to the state church. Non-members usually come from immigrant backgrounds.

Foreign citizens comprise 3 percent of the population, and 65 percent of them come from Scandinavia or other Western countries. Yet for the first time, some neigborhoods have more immigrants than natives.

Competition for jobs aggravates the problem in Arendal, which has an unemployment rate above the national average of 5 percent.

Arne Myrdal, of the People's Movement Against Immigration, distributes pamphlets calling anyone aiding refugees "a traitor." He is awaiting trial on a charge of conspiring to bomb a refugee center.

"We don't want them. This is our country," said Myrdal in an interview. "I tell youth to defend their jobs, country and women, using their fists when needed." Myrdal wants to put the issue up as a referendum.

Washington man dishes out salmon, cheescake for homeless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thanks to entrepreneur Robert Egger, residents of two women's shelters in a shabby Washington neighborhood will sit down tonight to feast on salmon, tenderloin of beef, leeks, Japanese mushrooms and new potatoes, with New York cheesecake for dessert.

Egger

"Nothing is too rich or exotic for the homeless," says Egger, who runs a non-profit food service for Washington's street people. "Salmon is a big hit. People love smoked fish and roast beef. Fresh strawberries are a big-ticket item. Their eyes really light up when they get strawberries."

Egger is founder and executive director of D.C. Central Kitchen, a two-man operation that collects unwanted leftover food from hotels, restaurants and catering firms every day and delivers it within 24 hours to homeless shelters, soup kitchens and churches around the city.

"We're the Federal Express of Washington food," says Egger.

Since his refrigerator-equipped van began plying the streets last January, Egger estimates he and his partner, Alex Tait, have picked up 15 tons of unwanted food worth about $60,000, and provided roughly 10,000 free meals to the poor, elderly and the homeless of the capital.

The salmon and roast beef leftovers that Egger picked up from a catered dinner party Wednesday night for 400 guests at the National Building Museum are standard gourmet fare on the Washington party circuit. But they are rarely found in the garbage cans that many street people rummage through in search of a meal.

Egger has gotten calls to pick up bags of coconut, pots of scallop creole, pans of Mexican beans and rice, bowls of pasta and octopus salad. He gets 20 to 40 leftover pizzas three times a week from one restaurant chain. When an ice cream store closed its doors near Dupont Circle, it gave him 48 five-gallon tubs of its frozen confections.

Nobody knows how many of the homeless are wandering the streets of Washington, but estimates range from 5,000 to 15,000 people. Egger says his operation serves about 30 feeding programs around the city, with generous support from churches, foundations, corporations and charities.

His lengthy list of food donors also includes corporate employee cafeterias, congressional offices on Capitol Hill, various Smithsonian museums and galleries, the National Academy of Sciences, a French bakery (where he gets day-old croissants) and scores of trade associations and lobbying groups that frequently wine and dine their clients.

Every gift of giveaway food is rewarded with a tax-deduction receipt.

Egger, 31, has been working in Washington restaurants, nightclubs and bars since he was graduated from high school.

He and his wife, Claudia, volunteered — reluctantly at first — for a church parish project, in collaboration with other Georgetown churches, to cook and deliver meals to people sleeping on steam grates in downtown Washington.

"Most people think their actions don't matter," Egger said, "but I realized that with a little bit of effort, you can make a difference in people's lives. It didn't hurt. In fact, I really enjoyed it."

After a while, Egger concluded it was a waste of money to feed the homeless "when so much food is being thrown away." He began soliciting local food establishments for their leftovers.

"Then it dawned on me," he said. "Why bother just to pick up and deliver food when there's this golden opportunity to train people? While we're feeding people who are waiting in line, we could train them so they can step out of the line."

Egger is busy renovating an abandoned neighborhood cafe in a row house shared with a women's shelter. It will be the permanent home for D.C. Central Kitchen.

San Francisco may seek 1992 convention

Hearst News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco officials must decide by Friday whether to submit a formal bid to host the 1992 Democratic National Convention.

San Francisco, which hosted the Democrats five years ago at Moscone Center, is among 17 U.S. communities that have requested applications from the Democratic National Committee, which will select its 1992 convention site next April.

Mayor Art Agnos has given tentative approval to enter the convention sweepstakes if his staff can put together a competitive bid package in the next few days, according to Deputy Mayor Claude Everhart.

"We have not made a final decision yet, but it won't take us long to put together the proposal if we make that decision," Everhart said Tuesday. "Believe it or not, a lot of the work has been done."

That's because much of the same information — detailing San Francisco's hotels, transportation and other support services — was gathered as part of the city's 1984 bid.

San Francisco was picked from among five finalists to host the 1984 party meeting, which drew some 25,000 people to the city. The event helped catapult Mayor Dianne Feinstein into the national limelight and may have played a part in Democratic nominee Walter Mondale's decision to consider her as a possible running mate.

Money would be one key issue in any convention bid, according to John O'Leary, a Washington, D.C., consultant to the Democratic National Committee who is organizing the site selection. San Francisco spent more than $7 million for convention preparations in 1984, and Atlanta committed more than twice that amount last year.

New York was the last city to host back-to-back Democratic conventions, staging both the 1976 and 1980 events at Madison Square Gardens.

Winemakers worry about quality of corks

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Sometime soon, that $35 bottle of cabernet sauvignon may come with a screw top. And peeling the seal from a $100 bottle of champagne may reveal plastic.

Some wine experts say these and other innovations may await the nation's wine drinkers because of problems with corks from Portugal, the industry's major source.

The Portuguese cork industry has been running low of virgin cork in recent years, forcing some winemakers to use poor quality stoppers that can ruin some wines, said Lisa Van de Water of The Wine Lab in Napa, Calif., a research center for the wine industry.

Cork is harvested by removing the bark from oak trees.

"The cork bark they are stripping now has a lot of moisture and is more conducive to the growth of mold," Ms. Van de Water said.

The molding, which is difficult to detect during bottling, can mix with chlorine used to sterilize corks and produce a chemical that can give wine an unpleasant odor and taste known as corkiness, she said.

Consumers either return the bottle or assume they purchased a lousy wine, she said.

Once nearly nonexistent, the problem now afflicts up to 6 percent of the nation's wine corks, Ms. Van de Water said.

"I think the problem is a lot worse than it used to be," said Clark Smith, executive winemaker for the R.H. Phillips Vineyard in Esparto, Calif.

But other experts in wine-producing regions like California and Washington state don't agree the problem is growing. And the exact cause of corkiness is uncertain.

"I can't say it's worse than before," said Bruce Scott of Scott Laboratories, another California-based wine industry research center. He contended that consumer awareness of corkiness is just greater.

Portugal, which sent $46 million worth of cork to the United States in 1988, does not acknowledge there is a problem, said Maria Bonifacio, product manager at the Portuguese Trade Commission in New York City.

But she said poor weather in recent years has reduced the size of the crop. New uses for cork, such as insulation, also have increased demand.

Some believe a resulting shortage, which raises prices, is the cause.

"It's a little more difficult every year to get quality corks," said Bob Betz, spokesman for Chateau Ste. Michelle, Washington's largest winery. "Quality is available, but it takes more time to get it."

Prices for top-quality corks have jumped from about 6 cents per cork five years ago to 10 cents per cork now, said Justin Davis, sales manager for Cork Supply International Inc., of Benicia, Calif., one of the nation's largest wine cork suppliers.

While large premium winemakers like Chateau Ste. Michelle can afford to pay higher prices, other winemakers cannot, he said.

Thus cost-conscious wineries are buying cheaper corks, for about 8 cents each, and finding more problems with mold, Davis said.

Cheaper corks have more holes for mold to develop, Davis said.

At The Wine Cellar in Yakima, which sells only premium wines, owner Lenore Lambert has been surprised by the return of three bottles by customers this year.

"It can be related to (cork) quality," she said.

Another theory for the new attention to the problem is that winemakers have become so skillful in recent years that other unpleasant odors and tastes have been eliminated, Davis said.

The most commonly mentioned solutions are using plastic corks, composite corks made of pressed cork parts, or screw tops.

To the tradition-bound premium wine industry, that is heresy.

"Plastic doesn't even come into our thinking," said Betz, of Chateau Ste. Michelle.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Doctors say disco music helps babies breathe

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Premature babies breathe easier to the disco beat, a Dutch doctor claimed Friday.

Preliminary results of an experiment at Amsterdam's University Hospital indicate that infants with respiratory problems need less oxygen in their incubators if soft disco music is played, said Dr. Heleen Loggers, the pediatrician.

Most premature babies suffer respiratory problems. Since early this year, about 24 such infants have had 90 minutes a day of disco music piped into their incubators, Ms. Loggers told The Associated Press.

"We sought a method to lower the oxygen content of the incubators because oxygen can damage the babies' corneas," said Ms. Logger. "When we played music in the incubator, more or less as a joke, we found that the children needed about 10 to 20 percent less additional oxygen."

At first, the children were treated to Perry Como.

"But when we changed that to disco music, the breathing rhythm also improved," said Ms. Logger. "The beat seems to pull them along."

She stressed that the findings were preliminary. Research is to continue for at least a year, she said.

Students killed in clash

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Rival groups of students clashed in two cities, and at least two students were killed and 50 were injured, police said Friday.

The clashes took place Thursday in Comilla, 55 miles east of Dhaka, and in Sailakupa, 80 miles west of the capital.

Police said an unidentified college student was killed when a bomb exploded during a clash between members of the Islamic Students' Forum and the Nationalist Students' Party fighting for the same rally site in Comilla.

At Sailakupa, fighting erupted when members of rival groups attacked a demonstration by the Nationalist Students' Party, killing one student, police said.

The groups all belong to political parties opposed to the government. They have been battling for control of their colleges.

Poisoning kills children

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — At least nine children died from food poisoning after eating biscuits produced by the same factory, and 10 children were hospitalized after eating the biscuits, a report said Friday.

The newspaper Kompas said seven children in South Sumatra and two in the neighboring province of Jambi died Wednesday.

Police arrested two distributors of the biscuits and ordered the factory that produces them closed, the newspaper said.

Ahmad Azof, head of the South Sumatra Health Office, told the newspaper the poisoning was caused by too much sodium nitrate, a preservative, in the biscuits.

Tea house set on fire

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Five men at a tea house who became angry when a waitress would not go out with them poured gasoline around the building and set it afire, killing seven people, police said Friday.

Four more people were injured in the fire that engulfed the three-story tea house in Taoyuan, 30 miles west of Taipei, police reported.

Police said the men bought the gasoline from a neighborhood gas station. They fled during the fire and were being sought.

The owner of the tea house, Su Mei-hsueh, was quoted as saying the men became angry when the waitress refused to go out with them.

Polish castle crumbling

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The walls of the medieval castle of Primda may have resisted many an invading knight centuries ago, but in the 20th century, they crumble at the sound of a human voice.

In July, debris from the crumbling castle in western Bohemia killed one boy and injured two. In reporting Friday on the cause of the accident, the state news agency CTK said chemical changes caused by polluted rain water have resulted in the castle walls having virtually no strength.

"When a group of young people spoke loudly inside the castle, the vault started trembling and one part of it fell down," a team of experts concluded, according to CTK.

It said the castle had been closed.

Typhoid kills 19 people

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Typhoid has killed 19 people in a village in northern Nepal, the Ministry of Health said Friday.

Most of the 19 were children who died in July in a village in Sindhupalchok, 25 miles north of Katmandu, the ministry said.

The deaths were reported when a medical team that was sent to the area to treat typhoid victims returned to Katmandu. Typhoid is endemic in rural Nepal.

Post office blown up

SILJAN, Norway (AP) — Thieves trying to break into a safe Friday misjudged the explosives needed and blew up a post office, the mail and much of the cash they wanted to steal, reports said.

No one was injured and police made no arrests after the break-in backfired in the Silja village post office in southern Norway, the state radio station NRK reported.

Silja District Sheriff Tormod Thorbjoernsen told the news agency NTB that charred currency and letters were strewn through the heavily damaged building. Police did not know if anything was stolen.

52 killed in accident

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Police said Friday that 52 people died when a truck filled with laborers plunged off a bridge and fell 50 feet into a rain swollen river.

Divers found six bodies and were searching for the other 46 victims. They said many of the missing were believed trapped in the wreckage of the truck, which crashed Thursday.

Twelve of the 63 mixed-race farmworkers and children aboard the truck survived.

Family squabbles over Austen's house

By MAGGIE JACKSON

LONDON (AP) — "One half of the world cannot understand the pleasures of the other," Jane Austen wrote in the village where she spent her last years. Her brother's descendants are living those words 175 years later, squabbling over a house she loved.

The writer was a keen observer of families, misunderstandings and money, and the tiff has thrown a bit of vintage Austen into the peaceful world of her devotees. One Austen scholar said she would have been amused.

On one side is Richard Knight, president of the 1,200-member Jane Austen Society and owner of the 50-room Chawton House inherited by Jane's brother from the Knight family, who had adopted him.

Richard Knight plans to offer Chawton House, where he was born, for sale next week on a leasehold of up to 90 years. The British system of leasehold permits the sale of property for a specified amount of time, after which it reverts to the original owner.

Henry Rice, a distant relative, and his supporters had hoped to make the house in the village of Chawton into the world's first research center on the author of "Emma" and "Pride and Prejudice."

They have raised nearly $1.5 million to buy the house, which Miss Austen visited from her nearby Chawton Cottage, but they say Knight refused to consider the offer.

Rice and his friends hope to collect $6.2 million more for repairs and other work but cannot meet Knight's price for the house of $2.3 million.

"We were very disappointed," said Rice, a retired farmer who is the great-great-great grandson of the author's niece and chairman of the Jane Austen Center Trust, formed to set up the research center.

"We had hoped, particularly as he's president of the Jane Austen Society, he would give serious thought to our offer," Rice said in a telephone interview.

Knight says he wants to keep the house in the family and does not mind the idea of the center but must sell because he cannot afford the upkeep. He said Rice's group did not make the offer until after the June 30 deadline he set.

"I have to bear two things in mind," he told The Associated Press. "I want to help Jane Austen and, on the other hand, I have to look after my house and my family."

Chawton Cottage, which Jane Austen's brother Edward gave her after inheriting it from the Knights, is a museum run by a private trust not connected with the family. The trust refused comment on the affair.

She lived in the cottage for most of the six years before her death in 1817, at age 42. There, she either wrote or rewrote her major novels, which combine witty insights into human nature and family life with social criticism and satire that sometimes is sharp.

Some contemporaries criticized her work as limited, but the Oxford Companion to English Literature says she has been venerated since 1870.

She was a minister's daughter, the sixth of seven children, and, the Companion says, "her life is notable for its lack of events." It notes that she never married and traveled little.

"She would be amused because she was amused by all sorts of mercenary matters, and doubly amused because it looks like a difference jn the family."
— Brian Southam, expert on Jane Austen's works

Most of her life was spent in Hampshire, the county southwest of London where Chawton is situated.

Brian Southam, an expert on her work and a member of the Jane Austen Center Trust, said he thought she would be entertained by the ruckus.

"She would be amused because she was amused by all sorts of mercenary matters, and doubly amused because it looks like a difference in the family," he said.

Rice also saw irony in the situation, but said he thought it would sadden Miss Austen, as it did him.

"I think she'd be disappointed to see her brother's descendents scrapping over the last piece of inheritance," he said, but then managed a laugh and added: "Maybe she'd write a good short story on the matter."

Katherine Anne Porter's childhood home for sale

AUSTIN (AP) — The childhood home of Katherine Anne Porter is up for sale, and the owner of the house says she hopes someone will buy it to preserve in memory of the writer.

The 100-year-old home is located in Kyle, a town of about 3,000 people approximately 12 miles south of Austin.

Miss Porter, who died at the age of 90 on Sept. 18, 1980, lived there from 1892 to 1902.

"Since she was 2 years old when she first moved in and almost 12 when she left, the home served as the place of her first memories and a springboard to some of her greatest stories," Austin American-Statesman columnist Billy Porterfield wrote in Friday's editions.

Bertie Maude Strawn, the widow who owns the seven-room house, has lived there for 43 years.

"I'll sell to anyone but I'm hoping some university or foundation takes it and preserves in (Miss Porter's) memory, like they did O. Henry's house in Austin and J. Frank Dobie's ranch on Barton Creek," she said.

Mrs. Strawn, who will be 80 in December, said she is selling because she wants to be nearer her daughters who live in Austin, Manor and Round Rock.

Clare McAdams, the real estate agent, is asking $43,000 for the house.

When Miss Porter lived there it was the home of her grandmother Catherine Anne Skaggs Porter, who became the archetype for Miss Porter's powerful heroine figures, Porterfield wrote.

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — Magazine mogul Malcomb Forbes and his hot air ballon went slightly astray on their way to the Bristol Lions Club, landing on the roof of a home across the street.

Forbes' was aiming his motorcycle-shaped balloon, The Capitalist Tool for the parking lot across the street from Hattie Sizemore's home when the balloon descended Thursday, banging its gondola into her little white frame house and tearing loose a gutter.

"The balloon just fell on the house," Mrs. Sizemore said. "He said I was a nice person to not get mad about it. Well, there was no use getting mad about it."

Forbes

The publisher of Forbes magazine wasn't injured.

"We're going to repair the rain gutter and express our appreciation to the lady of the house who couldn't have been nicer," Forbes said.

Mrs. Sizemore wished him well and warned him to watch out for the holly bush when he took off again.

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio and television talk show host Larry King told a magazine interviewer he wouldn't mind meeting the right woman and getting married again. And he did just that before the magazine hit the stands.

"I don't think I'm suited to marriage," he told Good Housekeeping in its October issue. "Sometimes I worry I'm too selfish to have a relationship. I'm not really."

But that invterview apparently was conducted before his engagement last month to Philadelphia businesswoman Julie Alexander, whom he plans to wed Oct. 7. He proposed after their first date Aug. 1.

King has been married three times — twice to the same woman.

King, seen on the CNN television network and heard on the Mutual radio network, told the magazine he thought he'd stay single for a while.

"Still, I only know I would have loved to have fallen asleep and then woken up this morning with my arms around a woman I love," he said. "I feel something is missing in my life ... some woman who would keep me excited about her, about us, about life.

"Yes, I'd love to find a woman who can do all that and at the same time still not bug me," he said with a laugh. "I think I'm going to be sleeping alone for a while, a long while."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dick Clark, whose TV dance show "American Bandstand" helped usher in the age of rock 'n' roll, is involved in a project to build a multimillion-dollar music theme park.

The center of the theme park along the Mississippi River is a pyramid-shaped arena scheduled to open in 1991, said Sidney Shlenker, who has contracts to run the $58 million pyramid and a nearby $63 million tourist park built by the city in 1983.

Clark

Shlenker said Friday that his plans to link the pyramid and tourist park are part of an overall project expected to be worth $200 million. Groundbreaking ceremonies for the pyramid are next Friday.

The pyramid-park development will have a music theme and Clark's involvement is expected in a music hall of fame in the pyramid, he said.

Paul Shefrin, Clark's publicist in Los Angeles, confirmed Clark's involvement but did not elaborate. Shlenker indicated Clark's involvement will be other than as a financial backer.

Shlenker, a former owner of the Denver Nuggets of the National Basketball Association, was instrumental in developing the Astrodome in Houston.

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Eugene Fodor, the concert violinist who rose to fame in 1974 with the silver medal at the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow, was absent Friday for a court hearing on drug charges.

Fodor, who was charged July 27 with cocaine trafficking, cocaine and heroin possession and breaking and entering, was at a drug rehabilitation clinic during the Dukes County District pretrial conference, a spokesman for the district attorney said.

Judge Brian Rowe continued the proceedings until Oct. 2 after consulting with defense attorney Michael Altman, whose office would not confirm where Fodor is being treated.

The 39-year-old violinist landed in jail on Martha's Vineyard after he allegedly broke into an unoccupied hotel room while on vacation, an incident which family members have said may be linked to his recent drug abuse.

Fodor, who was born in Denver and most recently has lived in New York City, began playing the violin at age 8. He rose to fame 15 years ago when he became the first American to claim at medal at the Tchaikovsky Violin Competition.

MUSIC LOVERS TEND TO BE RADIO ACTIVE

SCAN

They really can't help it. It's instinctive. The song fades away, the first few words of your commercial come on and-PUSH!-your message is history.

Unfortunately for advertisers, radio listeners are a push-button, station-hopping bunch. Because it's the music, not your message, that matters to them most.

And how could you be certain to reach them, anyway? Permian Basin adults have a choice of 18 "local" stations. Your ad dollars can only fall into the cracks of this extremely fragmented audience.

Newspaper advertising, however, is different. Newspapers let you show your product. Offer a coupon. And tell your story with no time restraints.

If you're currently advertising on radio, we'd like to change your tune. Call us at 682-5311 and discover the power of the printed word.

Judge reprimands woman for failing to report for jury duty

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

A prospective federal juror who had ignored three notices to report to federal court for jury duty was soundly reprimanded by the judge, who opted not to throw the 64-year-old Midland woman into jail or to fine her.

"I'm going to let you go this time," U.S. District Court Chief Judge Lucius D. Bunton told the woman, who repeatedly apologized to the judge for not opening her mail and for not responding to the summonses.

By law, the judge could have fined her up to $100 and ordered her to jail for three days for ignoring the summonses.

"I never understood the significance of it (jury duty) until I got here in court," said the woman, who minutes earlier had witnessed the judge pronounce several sentences Friday afternoon before he called her to stand before him at the lectern.

The woman, who is a housekeeper and a would-be author, failed to report for jury impanelment and jury selection on Aug. 1 and failed to appear for jury selection on Aug. 15 and again on Sept. 7, said John Neil, deputy-in-charge of the U.S. District Clerk's Office for the Midland-Odessa Division of the federal-court system's Western District of Texas.

The judge had ordered a deputy marshal to bring the woman to court to explain her non-appearances. But, as it turned out, Neil had tracked her down by telephone calls, and she agreed to report to the judge on Friday.

With her, she brought two unopened letters — summonses — from the U.S. District Court's Office.

"I did not open the mail," she told the judge, who was not smiling. "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to disregard this. I really apologize. I'm terrified."

The judge noted her concern.

"I think your fears are well taken," said Bunton. He forewarned the grey-haired woman: "If you continue to ignore me, I promise" to enforce punishment.

Bunton told the woman that she had "caused big problems" in the jury-selection process. "We tried to call you. We tried to reach you."

Bunton asked the woman how she would feel were she the judge and a prospector jury had ignored an order to appear in court.

"I would feel angry and offended," she said.

The judge said that's how he felt.

"I have the right to do either one or both (fine or jail) to people who ignore us," Bunton said. The judge warned the woman that this "old dog is not going to hunt anymore in my court" but would get down to serious business were another summons ignored.

"I understand the seriousness," the woman said. "I feel it's a real honor (to serve as a juror)."

The judge initially dismissed the woman, but changed his mind and suggested she remain in the courtroom until civil jurors had finished their deliberations on a case and rendered their verdict.

"I'd like for you to see them (jurors) — to see what sacrifices they have made," Bunton said.

The woman, obviously sobered by her courtroom experience, said she was "glad it happened.

"I hope and pray I will have the opportunity to serve on a jury."

Septemberfest to be held this weekend

From Staff Reports

The 20th annual Septemberfest '89 is set for today and Sunday at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave.

Presented by Las Manos, the museum's auxiliry organization, Septemberfest features 70 artists from across the United States who will display and sale their work. Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. today and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Participating artists are from Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Michigan. Dan and Lynne Carmichael, who are new this year, are traveling the greatest distance to the event. They live in Drayton Plains, Mich. He is a sculptor, and she makes jewelry.

Of the 25 new artists, five are from the Permian Basin. Those artists are Jo Dufo, Sharon Miller, Mavis Murphy and Cynthia Wolfe, all of Midland, and Nancy Dye of Odessa.

Another popular part of this event is Kinderfest, a carnival for children of all ages.

In addition, entertainment will be provided throughout the weekend, and booths will feature a variety of food for sale.

Acts performing today include Joseph and Teresa, 3 p.m.; Dennis Ross & the Axberg Brothers, 5 p.m.; and Mike Pritchard and Blue Thunder with the Lightening Horns, 6:30 p.m. Sunday's entertainment includes at 2 p.m. Ron Riley and at 3:30 p.m. The Chaparrals.

The following organizations are sponsoring food booths: Choir of First Christian Church, American Business Women's Association, Beta Delta, Development Disabilities Center, Xi Chi Xi, Midland Rape Crisis Center, Midland Morning Lions Club, Northside Lions Club, Psi Phi, Korean Mission, Mothers of Twins Club, Mad Dog Rugby and Ladies Policeman Auxiliary.

Tickets are priced at $3 for adults, $1 for children 3 to 16 years old and free to those under 3. During Septemberfest, there will be no admission charged at the Fredda Turner Durham Children's Museum.

Funds raised from the event go to the museum.

Demolition derby scheduled

Destruction strikes Twin Cities Speedway today when the final 1989 National Demolition Derby gets under way.

The evening's entertainment includes spectator drags, where the participants drive the car they drove to the track; and end-of-the-season championship races.

The speedway is located off Coors Road between Highway 80 and I-20 between Midland and Odessa.

Gates open at 5 p.m. today for the 8:30 p.m. event.

The derby, which is sponsored by the Midland Suburban Lions Club, pays cash to the top nine places and a race car trailer valued at $1,350 to 10th place. Trophies will be awarded to those in the Top 10. In addition, a prize will be given to the "Best Looking" derby car.

No heats will be run. All cars will compete at the same time. Thus, the team with the most cars entered will receive $500.

Entry fee for a derby car is $25 per car. Those sponsoring drivers may enter as many cars as they choose. The rules call for no reinforcements whatsoever to be made to a car except for the driver's car door inside in the interests of safety.

All glass must be removed. All doors and wagon gates must be strapped, wired or welded. Safety belts and helmets are required.

For more information call 563-5456.

The time machine

Are viewers using the Time Machine to zap your advertising?

Not if it's in newspapers. Newspaper readers regard ads as news about the marketplace —what's for sale, where, and for how much. 60% of readers "look forward" to the advertising in their newspapers—more than say that about advertising in TV, magazines, radio and mail combined:*

BUICK LeSABRE. THE MOST TROUBLE FREE CAR BUILT IN AMERICA.

Until now, this kind of quality was known to only an elite group, Le Sabre owners.

Great selections of New fully loaded LeSabres in stock now!

Prices starting at $15,295
(List $18,341, Stock #9237)

The latest J.D. Power and Associates Initial Quality Survey* states something Buick LeSabre owners can be proud to know and something all new-car buyers should know. The fact that Buick LeSabre is the most trouble free full-size car sold in America. Import or domestic.

The Initial Quality Survey, which measures things gone wrong with new vehicles during the first 90 days of ownership, marks an improvement in Buick quality for the third year in a row. And today, the Buick nameplate ranks as the most trouble free American brand. Higher than Lincoln. Higher than other prestige cars costing thousands more.

To our way of thinking, it all means that if you're looking for quality, you should just look down the Great American Road for the Buick tri-shield. The new symbol for quality. The sign of your Buick dealer.

*J.D. Power & Associates 1989 Initial Quality Survey covering November and December, 1988. Based upon owner-related problems during the first 90 days of ownership.
