Kennedy Staff Sees Work Ahead...

Carter Leads Florida Caucus

MIAMI (AP)-President Carter holds a statewide lead in Florida's Democratic caucuses, but after all the hard work, hoopla and money, the tallying still isn't over. In one county, the contest has come down to the luck of the draw.

"I don't know if it'll be straws or cards or what," said Brevard County Democratic Chairwoman Monnie Yungkasns of Rockledge.

But, somehow, fate tonight will break a tie between two men who want to go to the Democratic State Convention for a non-binding presidential straw ballot Nov. 18 - George H. Canada, a Melbourne builder who favors President Carter, and Lee W. Rabb, a Merritt Island aerospace technician who supports Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

They are vying for one of the delegate slots that has not been officially determined from Saturday's caucuses. Final results from 65 of 67 counties, accounting for 65 percent of the delegates, showed 376 delegates for Carter, 119 for Kennedy, 51 for AFL-CIO slates and 27 uncommitted.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter was "very pleased" with his showing. Rain in populous parts of the state held Saturday's turnout far below the 50,000 expected.

New York Lawyer Harold Ickes Jr., a Kennedy supporter and political organizer who came to Miami for the caucuses, said results mean "that we now know we have an organization job to do here and the nucleus of an organization."

Canada and Rabb each received 462 votes for a seat in Brevard County's delegation to the convention in St. Petersburg. The winner will get to vote with 877 other delegates chosen Saturday and 839 non-elected delegates - party leaders, elected officials and their appointees.

The blocs still untallied were the 188-member delegation from Miami and Dade County, where Carter and Kennedy ran very close, and the 116-member delegation in Fort Lauderdale and Broward County, which Carter supporters conceded to the senator because the draft-Kennedy campaign and AFL-CIO ran identical slates.

Neither tally was expected before Tuesday, leaving the final total in doubt.

Depending upon the results in Dade, Carter could widen his lead and claim a "knockout punch" in the draft-Kennedy camp's base or Kennedy could narrow the gap. Carter seemed likely to get at least 34 Dade delegates who favored Carter but were on Carter and labor slates.

Even if Kennedy draws closer, however, Carter seems all but certain to win the straw ballot in November because of his unswerving support from Gov. Bob Graham and other members of the Florida establishment who will make up the "automatics."

The draft-Kennedy forces suffered a blow late Sunday when Palm Beach County, which they had hoped to carry, gave Kennedy only 16 of its 60 delegates. An AFL-CIO slate captured the other 44 slots, but 10 members were also on Carter's slate and two were on Kennedy's

The labor-Kennedy delegates ran strongest in the Palm Beach area.

Voting Set On 3 Amendments

Absentee voting will begin Wednesday for a Nov. 6 election in which Texas voters will cast ballots on three proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Absentee votes may be cast at the county clerk's office in the courthouse during regular business hours.

Any qualified voter who expects to be absent from the county of his residence on the date of the election is eligible to vote absentee.

Amendment No. 1 on the ballot would give the legislature authority of provide terms of office for notaries public of not less than two year and not more than four years. Also, it would provide that the secretary of state appoint notaries public for the state instead of for each county.

Amendment No. 2 would authorize the legislature to enact law establishing procedures for "legislative review" of state-agency rulemaking. It would prescribe conditions for agency rules to take effect and could provide for suspension, repeal or expiration of existing rules. Its purpose would be to reduce "rule-by-bureaucracy."

Amendment No. 3 would enable the legislature to establish a program of state-guaranteed loans to be used for the purchase of farm or ranch land. It would authorize $10 million in general obligation bonds, the proceeds of which would be administered by the commissioner of agriculture without appropriation for the purpose of guaranteeing loans by private lenders to individuals for purchasing farm or ranch land; acquiring mortgages or deeds of trust on lands purchased under a guaranteed loan; and advancing to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due on a guaranteed loan. Eligibility for such loans would be limited to Texas residents who have the necessary education in the type of farming or ranching they wish to pursue; have a net worth of less than $100,000 excluding homestead; and intend to use the land themselves for farming or ranching purposes.

Inmates Escape In Graham

GRAHAM (AP)-Two inmates have successfully executed the seventh escape in 16 months from the city-county jail, which has been criticized as poorly supervised and structurally defective.

"We've got people in there who are dangerous folks, and it seems as though they can just walk out of there at will," said District Attorney Boyd Richie.

"The taxpayers paid a bunch of money for a jail and it turns out to be a motel."

Harvard Profs Share Prize

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)-Two Harvard professors awarded the Nobel Prize for Physics today did their work in electromagnetic studies in an effort to understand the forces that hold matter together.

Reached at his Brookline home, recipient Sheldon Glashow, Higgins professor of physicis, explained: "Basically it's an intellectual, scientific challenge. It's not something that is apt to give some practical applications anytime soon."

"We suspect that there is at root a fundamental simplicity of nature," Glashow added.

The theory, he summarized, poses that "the particles of nature are held together by four different forces, of which one is gravity. That's what Einstein spent his life on. The other three are weak, strong and electromagnetic."

Referring to the other three, he said his work now is "to make them so they become three different facets of the same thing." In other words, he said, he believes that underlying all three is a single force, of which they are just expressions.

French Welcome China's Hua

PARIS (AP)-The French government rolled out an extra-long red carpet today to welcome Chinese Premier Hua Guofeng on the first visit to Western Europe of a Chinese Communist head of state.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing was to head the welcoming party for Hua's arrival from China for a three-week tour of France, West Germany, Britain and Italy. In addition to a longer-than-usual red carpet from the plane, another special carpet was laid in the airport Salon of Honor to Convey "exceptional warmth," according to one of the officials.

Gay Activists Lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP)-Texas supporters of homosexual rights planned to present their case to members of the state's congressional delegation today.

The lobbying effort followed a Sunday rally of thousands of homosexuals that filled the large, sloping field in front of the Washington Monument.

The rally and the lobbying was designed to encourage Congress to amend the Civil Rights Act to protect homosexuals against discrimination.

Tobacco Use Drops In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Per capita use of tobacco by Americans is at a 46-year low, an Agriculture Department report said today.

The decline has been led by reduced per capita smoking of cigarettes, but the use of chewing tobacco has shown modest increases in recent years.

Somoza Blames Carter, Vance

HOUSTON (AP)-Calling President Carter a "pitiful liar," the overthrown former president of Nicaragua says the United States is responsible for his country's takeover by Sandinista rebels.

"The U.S. put a gun at my head," Anastasio Somoza told Jack Cox in a copyright interview published Sunday in the Houston Chronicle.

He blamed Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance for his ouster.

White House officials declined comment on the interview.

Boston Bitter About Prices...

First Snowfall To Help 'Big Oil' Demonstration

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

Tom Corrigan was looking at the snow falling in Boston, the first snowfall of the year, gauging how it might influence his part of this week's 50-city citizen's protest against "Big Oil."

It could help the turnout, decided the New England field coordinator for Wednesday's "Campaign for Lower Energy Prices." October's early snow was a reminder of New England's heavy reliance on heating oil - a fuel whose price has almost doubled since the start of last winter.

"The price problem is really acute here," says Corrigan.

In Louisville, Ken Dupree has been helping local groups organize rallies, marches and demonstrations in cities throughout the South for the day of protest.

Local citizen groups are being encouraged to "do their own thing," and Dupree said he's been swamped.

"I'm frankly hard-pressed to deal with the tremendous response we've gotten. People all over are clearly very angry about the price of energy and have reached the point where they're going to demonstrate that anger," Dupree said.

Altogether, some 200 labor, citizen and consumer groups - as disparate as the Gray Panthers, the NFL Players' Association and the United Auto Workers - are participating in the nationwide protest.

"This is a vehicle for people locally to express their outrage in a way that will help counter the enormous influence of the oil lobby in Washington," said Bob Brandon of the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition, the organization spearheading the activities.

William Winpisinger, coalition chairman and president of the International Association of Machinists, calls the campaign a "national grassroots organizing effort" designed to force government action to lower energy prices.

Winpisinger is also coordinating a national effort to draft Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination and many of the positions advocated by the coalition are those which have been long espoused by the Massachusetts Democrat.

"It's true that Kennedy is supportive of almost everything we're doing, but there's very little direct coalition with his office," said Brandon.

The planned demonstrations include a march by senior citizens on the American Petroleum Institute headquarters in Washington and a protest rally in Chicago led by actress Jane Fonda and her activist husband Tom Hayden at the Standard Oil of Indiana Office.

Oil industry officials are either reluctant to comment on the activities or are issuing carefully worded statements.

'WKRP' Actor Stable After Jump Accident

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)-Actor Frank Bonner, who plays sales manager Herb Tarlek on CBS-TV's "WKRP in Cincinnati," was in stable condition early today after a parachute accident in the desert 50 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

Bonner, 37, fell about 2 feet when the "ascendancy parachute" from which he was hanging collapsed in a freak wind Sunday at El Mirage Dry Lake Recreational Area, said MTM Productions spokeswoman Josie Williams.

Bonner was being towed by a four-wheel drive vehicle when the accident occurred, she said.

The actor was taken first to Victor Valley Hospital and later transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Pasadena, Mrs. Williams said.

Doctors at Victor Valley said the actor may have suffered back and internal injuries. Further tests will be conducted today at St. Luke's Ms. Williams said.

"He's in stable condition now and resting comfortably," she said. "He was joking on and off when I saw him."

Ms. Williams said Bonner who lives with his wife and daughter in Beverly Hills, was with friends at the time of the accident.

Big Guns Leveled At Davis

FORT WORTH (AP)-Prosecutors leveled their big guns at Cullen Davis today, hinting they will play for jurors a tape recording they feel proves their murder-for-hire case against the millionaire industrialist.

Davis, 46, was on the stand Friday when the trial recessed for the weekend, having been the target of cross-examination by prosecutors that intensified steadily last week.

The recording was made through a body microphone the FBI attached to informant David McCrory on Aug. 18 when he and Davis discussed money and murder.

Chief prosecutor Jack Strickland has said the recordings are the heart of the state's case.

Davis is accused of trying to hire the killings of his former divorce judge, Joe Eidson, and others.

No one was harmed.

McCrory met with Davis on the parking lot of a Fort Worth restaurant.

Davis and McCrory discussed murder-for-hire, a fact that was uncontested during Davis' first trial on the charge at Houston earlier this year. That jury deadlocked at 8-4 for conviction, causing a mistrial.

Cable Cars In Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)-The shutdown of San Francisco's famed cable cars, halted in their tracks by serious safety problems, is giving the city's tourist industry gray hair.

"I think we're in trouble with the cable cars for a long time," said Robert Sullivan, general manager of the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau. "I don't know that this would be an advertising line, but we're just like any other city now."

Ask Us

Q--Why do Texas and Oklahoma Universities play their football game in Dallas every year instead of home-and-home on their own fields and how long has this series been going on?

A--There probably are a number of reasons for the game being played in Dallas, including tradition, money and exposure for recruiting. The series began back around 1912, but there have been some gaps. However, UT has tried to play a game in Dallas most years, and for half a dozen years in the 20s, the Longhorns played Vanderbilt rather than OU in Dallas.

Supreme Court Leaves Death Sentences Intact

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Supreme Court today left intact the convictions and death sentences of four convicted Texas murderers.

The justices refused to hear three separate appeals that raised a variety of constitutional issues. Each conviction and death sentence previously had been upheld by Texas courts.

The Supreme Court in 1976 ruled that Texas' capital punishment law is constitutional, as applied to convicted murderers.

The appeals turned down today included those from:

-Bobby McCormick and Billy McMahon, convicted in the June 19, 1976, contract murder of Earl Hammond, who was shot to death at his Center Texas, home.

-Harvey Earvin, sentenced to die for the Dec. 7, 1976, shot gun slaying of service station attendant Ertis Brock in Lufkin, Texas.

-Edward Corley, convicted of the rape and murder of Vicki Lynn Morris in Tyler, Texas on Sept. 14, 1974.

1st Spraying Postponed

The first spraying for boll weevil control in Scurry County cotton fields was delayed. Spraying was scheduled to begin this morning, but high winds and a conflict in schedule for state agriculture department personnel caused a postponement.

The first spraying probably will begin Tuesday morning, said officials of the Scurry County Producers Association.

Sales Tax Rebates For Month Decline

Snyder's city sales tax rebates for the period ending Sept. 29 totaled $17,448, the state comptroller's office reported. This represented a decline from $24,728 for the corresponding rebate last year, but ran the year's total to $403,715. Snyder thus remained well ahead of other area cities in its population bracket for the year.

The totals for other cities, with the past month and for the year, in order, include Levelland, $22,230 and $314,698; Sweetwater, $17,504 and $334,826; Brownfield, $15,072 and $241,761; Lamesa, $14,494 and $239,[illegible] Monahans, $11,830 [illegible]587; Post, $7,78[illegible]5; Colorado [illegible] and $93,890; [illegible]6,607 and $271,571; Rotan, $1,384 and $37,099.

Neither Roscoe nor Roby received a rebate this time, but for the year their totals are $18,874 and $7,510, respectively.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Saturday, 63 degrees; low, 55 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Sunday, 61 degrees. High Sunday, 83 degrees; low, 52 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 64 degrees; precipitation, .09; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 16.84.

no nukes unrealistic

In a talk made in Arlington recently before a group invited to visit the Comanche peak power station, Texas Electric Service Company president Bill Marquardt said that Texas residents are more realistic about the need for harnessing nuclear power and are far less prone to protest about it than people in other areas.

Recent developments prove him right. The no-nukes had a big time in New York City recently when an estimated 200,000 people massed to hear a star-studded array of musicians alternate high-voltage music with anti-nuclear rhetoric.

Concurrently, a battalion of demonstrators blocked the entrance to Vermont's controversial Yankee Nuclear Plant in efforts to interrupt the plant's annual refueling.

All things considered, it was probably a healthy enough exercise. For one thing, it effectively revised the currently popular notion that most American youths have copped out and enlisted in the "Me Generation," subordinating idealism to the desire to hack out a secure niche for themselves. For another, it gave thousands of Americans a chance to voice some valid and troubling concerns about the problems associated with nuclear power - problems which took on a new dimension with the crisis of Three Mile Island.

The only cloud on the horizon - and it is a sizeable one - is the question of how realistic the anti-nuclear demonstrators' demands are. If they are calling for a thorough-going reassessment of our commitment to nuclear power, that would be one thing. But what at least some of the leaders of the New York demonstration demanded was nothing less than a wholesale shutdown of the majority of America's nuclear power plants.

The idea has some appeal. After Three Mile Island, how many of us want a nuclear power plant operating in our neighborhood?

The fact is, like it or not, though, we are becoming increasingly dependent on the power generated by years to come, probably for centuries.

Solar power, the supreme destratum of the demonstrators, is a lovely idea - but its practical application in the large-scale generation of electrical power is still years away.

Coal creates environmental problems potentially more serious than those posed by nuclear power. energy, hydro-electric energy, total power - all are more attractive alternates which we must explore as quickly as possible.

But shut down the nuclear plants at this time? Perish the thought. It just is not to be - not unless we're willing to accept a sharp decline in our standard of living to pay for it.

If we respond to those demands, it's just a question of time before a lot of us, indeed, do freeze in the dark.

I don't like to think about the executive at ABC who decided to pit Pope John Paul II's Celebration Mass in Washington, D.C., against two pro football games and a major league baseball series last Sunday.

It was a gutsy go-for-broke decision that would either make him a hero to 75 million football widows or plummet him to obscurity. He has not been heard from in a week.

Some of you are not old enough to remember the last time a civilian show tried to buck television football. I'll never forget it. It was in November 1967. One of the networks cancelled out the football game between New York and Oakland to run a children's classic called "Heidi" in its place.

It not only set children's literature back 20 years, but the shock waves throughout this country are still being felt.

A football fan from San Jose broke into a library and slashed up copies of "Hans Brinker," "Alice in Wonderland," and "Little Women."

A bitter fan in Queens relinquished his citizenship and said, "This is not what I came to America for."

A drunk in a bar in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, had to be restrained when he threw a glass at the TV set and shouted, "I've been watching that stupid goat commercial for 20 minutes now. Where are the Raiders?"

The day after the telecast, I called my friend Marge. You may remember she's the woman who got sick and tired of her husband sitting around every weekend like a dead sponge, so she made a lamp out of him.

"What did Fred say when you tried to watch the Pope's Mass?"

"He didn't know the difference," she said. "He said the offense moved a little slow. Then he went to the kitchen for a snack and asked me to call him if anyone scored. I told him it wasn't a ball game. It was a Mass. He thought I said 'pass' and nearly broke his foot getting back into the room. Then he wanted to know who was calling signals and I told him it was His Excellency. He said that could be any one of 15 quarterbacks. What did your husband say?"

"I can only tell you the vote was NFL-4-Christians-1."

Sport enthusiasts just aren't ready for a pontifical experience . . . with the possible exceptions of Howard Cosell.

WASHINGTON (NEA)-If minor tinkering with the hideously complex federal regulatory process has been fairly successful, then a major overhaul would be even better. Right?

Wrong. There can be too much of a good thing, and a couple of the most talked-about regulatory "reform" proposals now floating around Washington easily could do more harm than the red-tape mess they would supposedly untangle.

The two with the most surface appeal also have the greatest potential for mischief - to wit, the legislative veto so beloved by the House of Representatives and a new presidential-intervention authority proposed by a commission of the American Bar Association.

Both are intended to insure that elected officials who are directly accountable to the voters have the final say on major federal regulations rather than leaving such decisions to the folks George Wallace used to call "pointy-headed bureaucrats."

That's a beguiling notion, of course. Nobody likes to think of some ivory-tower technocrat dictating rules with the force of law about car safety or pollution control or energy conservation or what have you, especially when those rules may add to product costs and hence fan the flames of inflation.

The alternatives, however, may be worse. Leave aside for another column the notion of letting the president modify regulations proposed by government agencies and commissions and consider just the wisdom, or lack thereof, of the so-called legislative veto.

This is a device that the House tries to write into all kinds of laws to make federal regulations subject to a veto by one or both houses of Congress. In theory, it allows elected representatives to prevent the bureaucrats from inflicting unwise or unnecessary regulation upon the populace.

In practice, however, the legislative veto offers an open invitation for special-interest lobbyists to descend upon Capitol Hill en masse anytime they don't like the scope or content of a proposed regulation.

It is true the normal federal rule-making process is both slow and cumbersome. But it is also fair. Agencies and commissions must follow procedures that guarantee that all interested parties have a chance to be heard, that no one gets a private crack at the decision makers and that the final determination is based on factors spelled out by law.

No such safeguards exist on Capitol Hill. Lobbyists can and do meet privately with legislators to plead their cases, with no notice to the opposing side that they are doing so. Campaign contributions can open doors. Carefully orchestrated phone calls and letters from influential constituents can help sway a congressman's opinion.

The beneficiaries of any proposed regulation tend to be only faintly aware, if at all, of the blessings they will reap whereas the targets of the rule are always acutely conscious of its inconvenience and-or cost. Car buyers, for example, won't storm Congress over proposed bumper-safety standards - but bumper manufacturers most assuredly will (and have).

Federal regulatory officials, for all their supposed failings, are nowhere near as susceptible to special-interest pressures as the Congress is.

Congress has no one to blame but itself if regulatory agencies and independent commissions occasionally seem to be overreaching. For years now, Congress has passed laws mandating sweeping government action (cleaning up the nation's hazards, etc) without spelling out how these objectives should be attained.

The details have been left to the agencies to deal with through regulation, but when the politicians don't like the rules that result from this process, they turn around and scream bloody murder.

Instead of trying to second-guess the regulators through a legislative veto, Congress would be well advised to do a better job of writing its laws in the first place. That would give the rule makers firmer policy guidance without providing special-interest lobbyists a chance to achieve through concentrated political pressure what they cannot win on the merits.

mysterious statement

NEW YORK (AP)— Those who fear that politics will weaken the anti-inflation drive are asking themselves what President Carter meant when he told union representatives, "I will not fight inflation with your jobs."

The mysterious statement seems at odds with Federal Reserve anti-inflation policy, with his own staff economic reports and those of many independent forecasters, and with his own earlier proclamations.

And with generally accepted economic thinking too, because nobody has yet figured out a way to shrink extreme price inflation without also shrinking the labor market. An anti-inflation policy costs jobs.

White House economists, as most economists who declare themselves publicly, have already projected job losses. Some of the nongovernment reports, in fact, foresee an unemployment rate of as much as 9 percent.

Carter's statement, made last Thursday at an AFL-CIO building and construction trades meeting in San Diego, wasn't the only suggestion he might not fight inflation with his previously announced dedication.

After having declared his firm support for the Federal Reserve's tight money policy just two days earlier, the president told delegates to the union meeting that "interest rates are too high."

Now, with a recession expected to coincide with the election process, some private-sector analysts are convinced the president might seek a tax cut, although he is on record as saying he isn't so inclined.

A tax cut would spur the economy by putting money into pocketbooks. It would create a feeling that the worst was over, even though its real affect might be to load the future with even worse problems.

It would present a credibility issue too, since Carter has stated repeatedly he would balance the budget. A tax cut would make balance unattainable. Not to cut might make the White House unattainable.

But jobs might be an even more delicate matter for Carter, since an idle head of household isn't likely to vote for the status quo.

An increase of three percentage points in the jobless rate would mean not just three million jobs but the potential loss of several million votes. And so the web of dilemma encircles the president.

That much is obvious from this recent comments, first supporting the Fed and then suggesting it was causing economic distress, and at one and the same time promising to fight inflation and save jobs.

That the president offered no blueprint of how he would achieve such a remarkable goal is significant, because so far nobody has yet figured how to do it. He can save jobs or lower prices, but hardly do both.

It is for these and other reasons that the economic literature from private-sector economists in banks, brokerage houses and universities is loaded with speculation about the political economy.

EAGLE FORUM SPEAKER-Jay Newsom spoke to the Eagle Form group at their recent meeting. The group will meet Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m. at the Snyder Junior High where Homer Duncan of Lubbock will speak on "Secular Humanism."

Newsom Speaks To Group

Snyder Eagle Forum met recently for their regular meeting with president Wanda Justice presiding. The meeting was opened with prayer, pledge to the U.S. Flag and the singing of "God Bless America."

Barbara McCormick presented a brief slide presentation of the International Year of the Child conference in Houston.

During the short business meeting a petition was circulated among those attending to be sent to TV Channel 13, Lubbock. The station aired the movie "Flesh and Blood," which concerns incest.

The group is participating in the day of prayer to be held today following the march on Washington, D.C. by homosexual organizations.

In concluding the business meeting Mrs. Justice announced that the Eagle Forum does not oppose Girl Scouts; but parents and leaders should be aware that national feminist leaders are involved in scouting at the national level.

Mrs. McCormick introduced Jay Newsom, the guest speaker. He referred to Ezekiel 33, saying that if one knows trouble is at hand, he is obliged to warn others. He quoted Edmund Burke, "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

Much of Newsom's information was from the book "None Dare Call It Conspiracy," by Gary Allen. He encouraged all to read the book.

According to Newsom, there is a relatively small clique of men, mostly from the upper social strata, who manipulate government monetary policy. They are able to continue their operations because they have convinced people that no such plan exists, he said. "This is easy to do," he added, "because Americans are reluctant to speak out for fear of ridicule from the liberal community, which helps perpetuate the conviction that there is no conspiracy."

In conclusion, Newsome encouraged the group to become informed and then involved, attend precinct meeting and speak out defending personal beliefs.

Mary Gill, past president, was presented a mother and child pendant, a gift of the organization in appreciation for her year as president.

The next meeting is set for Nov. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the junior high auditorium where Homer Duncan of Lubbock will speak on "Secular Humanism."

Oswald: "The British Popular Bridge runs a play problem contest each month. The problem involves finding the safest play for the contract."

Alan: "The bidding is also designed to get to the problem contract. I see that there is a sure-thing play for three notrump."

Oswald: "This time the sure-thing play is brilliant but one that any good rubber-bridge player could find instantly."

Alan: "At trick two, declarer must lead the king of diamonds from dummy. East's best defense is to duck. Then he wins the second diamond and leads a spade. South plays the nine to West's jack."

Oswald: "The defense has two tricks in but can only get one more. South has two entries to dummy — one to clear the diamonds the second to bring them in."

Alan: "Had South simply led a low diamond from dummy to his queen, East could duck and South would wind up with just one diamond trick instead of the four he scored."

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)- Firefighter Ralph Coons saved the day - and the life of a duck trapped in the shower of a burning house.

Abby Gets Pot Shots

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N Y News Synd Inc

DEAR ABBY: As a long-time reader and admirer, I was shocked at your advice to the parents of the 12-year-old boy who, with his parents, had visited relatives in another city. On returning home, he told his parents (in confidence) that his 15-year-old cousin had offered him some pot, but he refused.

The parents immediately phoned the cousin's parents to report it. Instead of being grateful for the information, they reacted angrily, saying their son had never smoked pot, and the younger boy must be lying. When the visiting parents asked if they were wrong to have called the other parents, you said yes. (You also said, "Children should not betray their peers.")

Abby, if the kids had stuck up a gas station, or shot someone, would you still have said, "Children should not betray their peers"?

I just can't believe you would advise parents not to tip off the parents of children who are breaking the law and doing harm to themselves.

If I misunderstood your answer, please explain.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: You did, and I will. If you had read the letter carefully, you would have noticed that the boy said his cousin had offered him some pot. He admitted that he never actually saw his cousin smoke pot.

It was my feeling that the older boy was only talking big to impress his young cousin. Had he actually smoked pot in the boy's presence, it would have been a different story. No pot was in evidence, and none was smoked!

I'm sorry I didn't make myself clear, and judging from the critical mail I received, I did not.

Marijuana is still illegal, and those who break the law should be reported and dealt with accordingly.

However, in this case, no law had been broken. I should have said, "When no law is broken, children should not betray their peers." And to have reported back to the parents with such flimsy evidence, thus creating a rift between the families, was uncalled for. (P.S. I hope the editor of the Rock Hill, S.C., Herald sees this. So incensed was he with my reply that he wrote an editorial about it.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widow for 11 years. My sister and my daughter still remember my wedding anniversary in a quiet way, which I feel is comforting.

However, my son (now married) never remembers my wedding anniversary.

Am I expecting too much of my son? What is proper?

HURT

DEAR HURT: It is not proper to offer congratulations on a wedding anniversary after one of the couple dies.

Perhaps your son remembers the date, but doesn't acknowledge it because he fears it might sadden or depress you. Let him know that you derive comfort from having those you love remember that day. Then if he forgets, you will have a legitimate reason to feel hurt.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.P IN MANKATO: "CPR" is Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation—a method of maintaining the oxygen supply and blood circulation for a person whose lungs and heart have stopped working. One who has stopped breathing will either die or suffer permanent brain damage within four minutes.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Thefts, Three Mishaps Keep Police Busy

Several thefts and traffic accidents were reported to city police this weekend.

Ruby Walker told police officer Tony Whittenburg Saturday morning that her wallet containing $200 was either lost or stolen at her 2405 Ave. I home.

Sunday, Cindy Alvarado, 607 32nd St., told officer Buddy Kinney someone stole three tires and rims valued at $400 from her.

The first mishap occurred shortly after 7 a.m. Saturday at the Pool Co. It involved a parked 1979 Ford pickup owned by Antonio Gonazles, of Colorado City and a vehicle which left the scene. It was investigated by Dale Burns.

Buddy Kinney worked a two car-collision at Gill's Fried Chicken Saturday at 7:35 p.m. Involved in it were a 1974 Ford driven by Billy Wayne Thompson and a 1974 Oldsmobile driven by Leonard Durst.

The final mishap of the weekend took place at the Dairy Queen on South College Ave. about 4 p.m. Sunday. There, a 1977 Ford driven by Juan Martinez and a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Jacquelyne Dee Pylant collided. That wreck was investigated by Greg Patterson.

Psychological impotence?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you have the answer to a very serious problem of mine. I lost my wife a few years ago from cancer. Now I've fallen in love with a wonderful woman and would like to make her my wife, but I'm impotent. I am 57 years old and used to be very virile, but now nothing happens even though my lady friend is the most sexy person alive.

I tried a second marriage a year and a half ago and had trouble with it. I put that down to incompatibility.

I've gone to a doctor and taken a series of shots that made me oversexed but unable to perform. The urologist says I'm just unlucky and that nothing can be done except to put a piece of plastic or something in my penis.

I have talked to my son about this extensively. He says it's because I loved my first wife who passed away so much and couldn't have sex with her during her terminal illness, so I just relieved myself. Also, rather than fight during my year-long marriage I did the same thing. He says that has caused me to be impotent and that if I didn't do it I'd be OK.

With all the advances in medicine today, there surely must be an answer. I cannot ask this wonderful girl to be my bride until I've solved my problem.

DEAR READER — Impotence is a symptom and it's a lot more common that many people think. It can be caused by many things. You've done the right thing by seeking medical advice. I'm just sorry that it hasn't been more successful for you.

Most hormone shots don't correct impotence unless you're talking about the rare person who has a significant decrease in the production of male normones. Sometimes if the person has confidence in the medicine — even if it has no real action — the confidence will result in a satisfactory performance.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-12, Impotence, to give you a better appreciation of this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It's true that some people have a guilt reaction to masturbation and that, in turn, can cause them to be impotent. That's only one of many psychological factors that can be involved. I should add immediately that there's no evidence, other than psychological reactions, that masturbation is in any way harmful to the body or to a person's sexual capacity.

The other point is that if you are able to have an erection when you "relieve yourself," your reproductive system is normal and able to function properly. That also means that you don't have a hormone deficiency or a disease problem. It is most likely caused by psychological factors.

For these reasons, I suggest that you see a psychiatrist and let him or her help you analyze your problem and guide you in solving it.

The psychiatrist might also want you to have a more complete medical examination to be sure that you do not have diabetes or some other disorder that can cause or contribute to impotence, but all those medical problems would cause you to be impotent regularly and not just when you are with your lady friend.

Reading, Writing, Job Training...

Bowen To Lead Schools Back To Basic Learning

AUSTIN (AP)—The outspoken Texas commissioner of education says public schools have a simple mission - teaching kids to read and write and giving them the training to get jobs.

"Give me a child who is literate and has a saleable skill, and we've done our job," said Alton O. Bowen, who replaced the retired Marlin Brockette as commissioner five weeks ago.

Echoing the "back to basics" cry of parents troubled by the direction of public education, Bowen, 63, insists he is speaking the language Texans want to hear.

"Get back to basics - that's what they're saying. I think it's time to gut up and get with the issues," Bowen said.

Bowen, a McKinney native who has served as superintendent in Josephine, Rosebud, Mexia and Bryan, set the pace of his administration when he banned beards and tieless employees in his agency.

And true to his words, the commissioner has not shied from controversy during his brief tenure in office.

Last week he infuriated Mexican-American leaders by saying bilingual education belonged in the home - not in the classroom.

Earlier this month Bowen angered Antioch University by imposing a moratorium on accepting degrees from the school's branches in Texas. He said he took the action because some teachers were earning the degrees - and qualifying for higher salaries - without having to attend class or take written tests.

But Bowen had to back down from that stance last week after the school filed a $1 million lawsuit. The moratorium was lifted but the controversy is not over.

He does not see a need for more college graduates in the future.

"Seventy percent of all the jobs available in tomorrow's market will require craftsmanship and manual skills," he said.

But he added, "We don't need more vocational education programs. We need better ones."

Bowen is not a bureaucrat who leans toward a middle-of-the-road stance. He's against casual attire in his agency, deadwood workers, federal intervention and cross-town busing, and favors spanking rowdy pupils to keep order in the classroom.

Some of his stands:

Clothes - "If you come to work like you're going fishing, you're probably going to act like that in your job."

Discipline - "We should not allow our teachers to be abused and the learning process to be disrupted by a few rowdies in the schools. We must have order." Even if it requires spanking some pupils? "Oh, gosh, yes."

Deadwood — "I don't know why a public service organization shouldn't be as responsive as free enterprise. There shouldn't be a single person without a functioning job, and they ought to be dedicated to fulfilling it as effectively as possible."

Federal programs - The newly authorized Department of Education will only "accentuate and proliferate an already bad situation."

DOOR PRIZE--Artist C. Warren Cullar is shown with the original watercolor he will be giving as a door prize at tonight's demonstration in the Scurry County Museum. Cullar has titled the painting "Back In the Saddle Again."

Program Tonight On Watercolor

C.Warren Cullar is an artist who enjoys his work, and he will be explaining the techniques of watercolor painting in a demonstration starting at 7 o'clock tonight in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Cullar developed his demonstration program five years ago and has found that it appeals to general audiences as well as to those persons interested in painting. He will be giving demonstrations in Arkansas, Arizona, Oklahoma and Louisiana in the coming year.

For many, the demonstrations are the first opportunity to see a work of art in progress, Cullar said, and he answers questions from the audience as he works.

The door prize at this evening's demonstration will be a half sheet original watercolor. There is no charge for admission and the public is invited to attend.

An exhibit including paintings and prints by Cullar and bronze sculptures by Jim Thomas of Amarillo is currently being featured in the museum.

Our customers ask us:

"WHAT'S THE HIGHEST PRICE YOU PAY FOR NATURAL GAS?"

Lone Star is paying slightly more than $2 per thousand cubic feet (MCF) of gas on some of its newer gas-supply contracts. This is about 10 times higher than the prices we were paying gas producers just six years ago.

The good news is that many of our older, long-term contracts are still supplying gas at much lower prices. And the price you pay us is based on our weighted average cost of gas.

Lone Star's average cost of gas in 1978 was $1.62 per MCF — lowest of any major intrastate gas purchaser in Texas.

We saved you money in 1978 by buying gas efficiently and delivering it at economical cost. And we plan to do it again. This year. Next year. Every year.

Gas. It's plentiful, efficient and right for the times.

Corn Harvest Lags Behind Year Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)- Farmers are lagging behind a year ago in this fall's corn harvest but are expected to pick up steam if the weather is favorable the next few weeks.

The Agriculture Department says that as of Oct. 7 about 13 percent of the corn acreage was harvested in the main corn production states, compared with 21 percent a year ago.

State figures varied widely from the average, however. In Georgia, for example, about 81 percent of the crop was harvested against 83 percent a year earlier, while in Minnesota only 2 percent was harvested against 16 percent by Oct. 7 of last year.

The big Iowa harvest was only 10 percent completed, compared with 21 percent a year ago, and in Illinois the comparative rates were 10 percent and 22 percent, respectively.

Looking at planting of winter wheat this fall for the 1980 harvest, officials said about 64 percent of the acreage was planted by Oct. 7. compared with 69 percent a year ago.

Kansas, the leading producer, reported plantings of 65 percent against 75 percent on Oct. 7. 1978.

Ex-Linebacker Homecoming Queen

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Roy Dowdell, a 6-foot, 200-pound former linebacker at Laurel Highlands High School, will be on the field Saturday in an only slightly less bruising role - homecoming queen.

"Hassle? I've been persecuted. I've had to face humiliation, degradation and slander just to stand up for what I believe in," the 18-year-old senior said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

Dowdell, who says he's an honor student, last week edged out 12 female candidates for the title at the school which is located about 50 miles southeast of Pittsburgh.

School officials were not amused and they immediately suggested that Dowdell resign.

Texas Lawmakers Get 'SO' Auto License Tags

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)-If you haven't seen your congressman or state legislator recently, start looking for the "SO" auto license plates.

There are 1,467 out there somewhere in Texas supposedly designating the driver of the car as part of the state and federal family of lawmakers and judiciary. Of course, since each lawmakers or judge gets two sets of license plates, the "SO" car may be driven by the wife or other family members.

The "SO" plates are just one of about 10 different special registration plates authorized for Texas car and other vehicles.

All were legalized by the Texas Legislature at the urging of special groups and interests.

By far the largest group are the 257,866 "exempt" plates. This means the vehicle is exempt from state and local registration fees and taxes because it is supposed to be used only for official business. This category includes cars driven by officials and employees of city, county, state and federal government including school districts and water districts.

Probably the second largest group of special registrations are those for "prestige" plates. Anyone can get a "prestige" plate by the regular registration fee plus a $10 bonus. These are the plates that say "Howdy," "Smile," "Aggie," "Hook Em," and such. No obscene words or initials are accepted. Some business firms get as many as 50 or 60 plates with an identifying name or letters followed by a number. Some groups, particularly backers of football teams, assign the numbered plates according to the size of contributions made to the team.

Two new sets of plates will be showing up on highways and streets this year, as a result of actions taken by the 1979 Legislature.

On Aug. 27, the state highway motor registrator division began issuing special plates for former prisoners of war. So far about 850 have been issued with an expected 4,000 as the final total. There is no charge for the plate.

Another new, and exclusive registration is for recipients of the nation's top medal awarded during wartime, the Congressional Medal of Honor. A total of 13 have been issued, at no cost, out of the possible 17 awarded to Texans.

In "SO" plates, the SO1 goes to the Texas governor and is the only free one. All others have to pay the regular registration fees. SO2 goes to the lieutenent governor, SO3 to the House speaker, SO4 to the attorney general, SO5 to the comptroller, SO6 to the treasurer, SO7 land commissioner, SO8 agriculture commissioner, and SO9 secretary of state.

Other special plates go to the Texas Railroad Commissioners, the Texas Supreme Court, and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Members of the Texas Senate get SO27-57 and the Texas House, SO58-207.

Big Game, As Always, Preceded By Big Binge

DALLAS (AP)—They are gone now - the hoardes that descended on Dallas like an orange and red plague, congesting the city's arteries with a druken weekend revelry.

The "Big Binge" always precedes the big game; headaches, heartbreak and a long drive generally follow for the losers.

The return was easier for the fourth-ranked Longhorns, who parlayed a wobbly pass and a stingy defense into a 16-7 win Saturday over No. 3-rated Oklahoma.

Bail bondsmen, ticket scalpers and harried innkeepers, however, are the real winners each October.

Dallas police arrested about 250 persons Friday night and early Saturday morning, intoxicated celebrants plucked from the ribbons of boisterous partisans that snaked their way along Commerce Street.

They emerged from the city lockup Saturday morning, hoarse, hung over and eager to rejoin the party.

"It sure looks different in the morning. It must have had a hell of a time last night," remarked one paroled, red-eyed fan.

The downtown rally is the traditional beginning of the weekend madness that accompanies the annual Texas-OU clash in Dallas.

Thousands of fans, their tonsils lubricated by a tide of whisky and beer, challenge each other with biting curses and stumble down Commerce chanting "Hook'em Horns" or "Boomer Sooner."

One plainclothes officer was injured by another policeman during the confusion, said police spokesman Bob Shaw. He said vice control officer D.R. Wilson was trying to make an arrest when the suspect's girlfriend hit him with a beer bottle. When Wilson tried to subdue the girl, a uniformed officer "put it on him," Shaw said.

Pickups, vans, cars and motorcycles decorated with streamers, paint and signs - in some cases with passengers hanging on for dear life - paraded down Commerce, blaring horns adding to the din of the celebration.

The rally came to an abrupt end early Saturday when city water trucks - called "four flushers" - rolled down Commerce, sending a few hundred stragglers scrambling around corners to avoid the spray.

Saturday morning weary fans, their hopes as high as their spirit, battled state fair crowds and traffic jams, rushing to reach "The Game" before kickoff.

Scalpers hawked their wares at the gates to the Cotton Bowl, offering luckless ticket pursuers another chance - at prices as high as $250 a seat.

By Sunday it was over. The Sooner faithful crowded highways headed north and the Longhorns began their southern migration with a new chant - "Beat Arkansas."

Texas, Alabama In Driver's Seat

By Herschel Nissenson
ap Sports Writer

Would you believe Alabama and Texas shooting it out for college football's national championship on New Year's Day in Dallas?

It could happen, and in the same arena--the Cotton Bowl where fourth-ranked Texas convincingly upended No. 3 Oklahoma 16-7 Saturday.

Those moans and groans and gnashing of teeth you hear are coming from the Sugar Bowl, which boasted last season's national championship match but sees another one easily slipping away.

For example, if Georgia, 2-3 overall but 2-0 in Southeastern Conference play after Saturday's 21-14 triumph over 13th-ranked Louisiana State, wins its remaining SEC games against Florida, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and Auburn, the Bulldogs will go to the Sugar Bowl no matter what Alabama does. And Georgia will go even if it loses non-league games to Virginia and Georgia Tech and finishes 6-5.

What the second-ranked Crimson Tide did Saturday was manhandle Florida 40-0 while top-rated Southern California was held to a 21-21 tie by Stanford, throwing the top spot in The Associated Press Ratings up for grabs.

Alabama, therefore, could wind up 11-0 with a 20-game winning streak and not represent the SEC in New Orleans. And if Texas also is 11-0 interesting, isn't it?

However, all the intriguing possibilities and all of Saturday's fireworks were overshadowed by the startling development in Tempe, Ariz., where Arizona State Coach Frank Kush was removed as coach after 23 years.

Comes Out Smoking...

Rams Stimulate Roger

By DENNE FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP)—There's something about the Los Angeles Rams that brings out the old firehorse in Roger Staubach.

Staubach came out smoking Sunday night, completing three touchdown passes and scrambling the Rams' dizzy with five runs for 44 yards.

He connected on his first nine passes and finished the evening 13 of 18 for 176 yards before he departed midway through the fourth quarter in the 30-6 rout.

"He had a great night," said Ram coach Ray Malavasi.

"I'm sure he has his bad days, too, but we caught him on one of his better days. With our defense hurt his receivers were open and he really zipped the ball in there."

The crippled Rams lost four more players. Safety Dave Elmendorf injured his back, cornerback Pat Thomas strained an achilles tendon, receiver Billy Waddy pulled a hamstring and backup quarterback Vince Ferragamo broke his right hand.

Los Angeles, now 4-3, went into the game without starting wide receiver Willie Miller and Ron Jessie, and guard Dennis Harrah.

Dallas is 6-1 and tied with the sizzling Philadelphia Eagles for the lead in the National Conference East.

"It was our best effort of the year," said Staubach. "We executed well and I threw the ball pretty well."

The 38-year-old Staubach completed touchdown passes of 18 yards to Tony Hill, 3 yards to Tony Dorsett and 23 yards to Jay Saldi. His second TD pass broke the club record of 136 established by the man Staubach replaced, Don Meridith, who was in the television booth at Texas Stadium.

Ram defensive end Jack Youngblood said, "It seemed like Roger was firing a rifle out there."

The Cowboys totally dominated, holding the ball for over 40 minutes and making 13 of 19 third-down situations.

"Roger was as sharp as I've seen him this year," said Cowboy coach Tom Landry.

Told Landry's remarks, Staubach asked, "Did Tom really say that?"

However, Landry wasn't overjoyed with Staubach running five times.

"It's dangerous for a quarterback to do that," said Landry. "But it was his night to do everything right."

Elmendorf said, "Roger threw well . . . they beat us every way they could."

The Cowboys also had their best pass rush of the season, sacking Pat Haden four times with defensive end Harvey Martin claiming two of the kills.

Haden completed only nine of 26 passes for 122 yards and was intercepted once before he gave way to the ill-fated Ferragamo, who was hurt on the Rams' final offensive possession.

Frank Corral kicked field goals of 42 and 41 yards for the only Ram points.

Dallas exploded for 17 points in the third quarter on Staubach's third TD pass, Rafael Septien's 32-yard field goal and Tony Dorsett's 1-yard run.

Dorsett had his third consecutive 100-yard game with 103 steps on 24 carries.

"We are just hoping to improve each time out right now, and we are playing well," said Landry. "Of course, so are Washington and Philadelphia. So we'll have to get better each week."

Hogs, Horns In Big Shootout

By Denne H. Freeman
AP Sports Writer

Just call it an old-fashioned Arkansas-Texas shootout.

Although it doesn't have quite the glamour of "Shootout I" when Arkansas and Texas met for the national championship in 1969 in Fayetteville, the collision of the Longhorns and Razorbacks Saturday in Little rock is the biggie of the Southwest Conference season.

Texas is unbeaten, fourth-ranked and sure to climb.

The Longhorns whipped third-ranked Oklahoma 16-7 Saturday and No. 2 rated Southern California was tied 17-all by Stanford.

Arkansas is unbeaten and ranked No. 12. The Razorbacks defeated Texas Tech 20-6 Saturday.

The game will be regionally televised, and all tickets are sold for the 3:10 p.m. kickoff in War Memorial Stadium.

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer had some advice for the Razorbacks: "I was very, very impressed with the entire Texas team. It's going to take a GOOD team in the Southwest Conference to beat Texas ... only a VERY, VERY GOOD team can move the football on the Texas defense."

There will be some important other SWC family feudin' Saturday.

Mustang Mania will try to survive at Houston where Southern Methodist has sprung some big upsets in the past on the Cougars.

SMU is 2-1 in league play while Houston and Arkansas lead the SWC ledger 2-0. Texas is 1-0 and Baylor 3-1.

Another loss would just about kill the Mustangs' title hopes.

Houston is unbeaten after surviving Texas A&M 17-14 Saturday while SMU lost 24-21 to Baylor.

In other SWC action, Texas Christian downed Rice 17-7.

Rice is at Texas Tech Saturday while Baylor visits Army and TCU is at Tulsa in non-conference games.

Arkansas hasn't defeated Texas since 1971 when the Razorbacks turned the trick 31-7 in Little Rock.

The Razorbacks lost 28-21 to the Longhorns last year and suffered a 13-9 defeat in Fayetteville in 1977.

In 1976 it was Texas 29-21, in 1975 Texas 24-18, in 1974 Texas 38-7, in 1973 Texas 34-6, and Texas 35-15 in 1972.

Arkansas has yet to defeat Texas since Lou Holtz has been coach.

Jr. Varsity Volleyballers Win Tourney

Coach Joyce Elrod's squad won the Plains Junior Varsity Volleyball Tournament over the weekend bringing the year's standing to a perfect 15-10.

Friday the team defeated Andrews ninth grade team 15-1 and 15-1. In that round, scoring for Snyder was Kathy Northcott, 12; Sherri Rich, 7; Kerstin Selmon, 3; Kelly Dryden, 3; Shana Koonsman, 2; Toni Elrod, 2; Ann Melton, 1.

In the second round Big Spring was downed 15-6 and 15-9. Scoring for Snyder in those games were, Miss Elrod, 7; Miss Koonsman, 6; Miss Dryden, 6; Miss Selmon, 4; Miss Rich 2; Miss Melton, 2.

Saturday saw Snyder in the semi finals against Kermit. Snyder won that match 15-11 and 15-11. Miss Rich had 11, Miss Northcott, 6; Miss Dryden, 5; Miss Elrod, 4; Miss Selmon, 2; Miss Melton 2.

In the final match against Andrews it was Snyder 15-10 and 15-12. Scoring was Miss Selmon, 13; Miss Rich, 7; Miss Elrod, 4; Miss Koonsman, 3; Miss Melton, 3.

A match against Colorado City is set here today at 6 p.m. A varsity game will follow. Tuesday the teams will travel to Denver City. The freshman play at 5 p.m., the JV at 6 and the varsity at 7.

Bumbling Steelers Help Cure Bengal Problems

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

And then there was one. Going into Sunday's National Football League games, the Cincinnati Bengals had been one of two teams still looking for a victory this season.

Thanks to the unbelievable generosity of the Pittsburgh Steelers, they got it.

Nine times the Steelers fumbled. Seven times the Bengals came up with the ball. And two times the fumbles were turned into instant touchdowns on runbacks ot 27 yards by Jim LeClair and 12 yards by rookie Howie Kurnick.

Two interceptions of Terry Bradshaw passes didn't hurt, either. Neither did Ken Anderson's two touchdown passes, to Dan Ross and Rick Walker. And Pete Johnson ran 1 yard for a score.

It all added up to a 34-10 romp for the Bengals.

That left the San Francisco 49ers as the only team with seven losses in seven games. New York Giants rookies Phil Simms and Earnest Gray made certain of that, hooking up on eight passes, two of them for touchdowns, that paved the way to the Giants' 32-16 victory.

Also on Sunday it was Oakland 50, Atlanta 19; New Orleans 42, Tampa Bay 14; Dallas 30, Los Angeles 6; San Diego 20, Seattle 10; New England 27, Chicago 7; Miami 17, Buffalo 7; Philladelphia 24, St. Louis 20; Washington 13, Cleveland 9; Denver 24, Kansas City 10; Houston 28, Baltimore 16, and Green Bay 24, Detroit 16.

Adversity Brings Out Best In Pirates Again

PITTSBURGH (AP)-The Pittsburgh Pirates have used the word adversity as a rallying cry all season, and they did it again Sunday to stay alive in the 1979 World Series.

The National League champion Pirates had trailed 1-3 in games to the American League champion Baltimore Orioles.

They went out and beat the Orioles 7-1, reduced their deficit in the Series to 2-3, and headed for Baltimore for a sixth game Tuesday night.

Pirates' manager Chuck Tanner was asked if he felt the victory switched the momentum.

"Well I hope it means momentum for us, because we have to win two and they have to win one," Tanner replied.

Baltimore manager Earl Weaver scoffed at the momentum theory.

You know what I think about momentum...If Jim Palmer goes out and pitches a good game... then there is no such thing as momentum."

It was a grim, saddened Pittsburgh team that took the field to attempt a feat accomplished by only three teams in the history of a best-of-seven game World Series - come back to take the championship.

Only hours earlier, Tanner learned his mother died in nearby Greenville, Pa.

Then, it was disclosed that Edgar Speer, a director on the Pirates' board and former chairman of the board of U.S. Steel had died Saturday night.

The Pirates had to start a pitcher, Jim Rooker, who was 4-7 in the regular season and twice had been on the disabled list with a sore elbow.

The Pirates, who had battled from behind all year to get where they are, went into Sunday's game faced with still another challenge, and they responded.

Shortshop Tim Foli, who had two hits, drove in a run and scored twice in what could have been the last game, said the scrambling bunch of Buccaneers had not been themselves in the World Series until Sunday.

"This is the first game they've seen the real Pittsburgh Pirates. You saw an imposter in the other four games. We played bad up until today." Foli said.

Tennis Team Defeated

Lubbock defeated the Snyder tennis team here Saturday, 10-8, in a dual match. Snyder had several top players out due to injuries and other activities. Sorely missed were Neal Paige, Jimmy Fowler, and Mark Cypert, who were attending a church-related function, while John Melott was in San Antonio due to the serious illness of his brother. Patti Clark and Cathey Cypert were not able to play at full strength due to injuries suffered during the past week.

Snyder Coach Bill Boles, expressed his appreciation to the players who filled in so ably, as well as to Mindy Aldridge and Kim Byrom who stood by in case they were needed to play.

The loss to Lubbock brought Snyder's season record to 5-1. Next action will be on Oct.27 when the Tigers travel to Odessa for a dual match with Odessa High School in the morning and one with Ft. Stockton in the afternoon on the Odessa courts.

In girls' singles with Lubbock, Donna McGee defeated Jennifer Smith, 6-1, 6-4; Kelly Scott lost to Shaun Hoffman, 4-6, 2-6; Cathey Cypert lost to Karen Smith, 2-6, 2-6; Diane Sentell lost to Lisa Doggett, 2-6, 0-6; Dee Gilbert was defeated by Sarah Williams, 4-6, 1-6; Pam Smith won over Charlotte Jones, 6-2, 6-1.

In girls' doubles McGee and Scott were defeated by Smith and Hoffman, 3-6, 3-6; Gilbert and Cypert defeated Doggett and Jones, 7-5, 6-4; Smith and Clark lost to Smith and Williams, 3-6, 5-7.

In boys' singles Jon Smith defeated George Rivers, 6-4, 6-4; Jeff Wesson won over Jim Butler, 7-5, 6-2; Richard Derrick defeated Greg Teeter, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3; Davey Brown lost to John Scott, 2-6, 5-7; Trey McWilliams lost to Steve Brito, 6-4, 4-6, 6-7; Mitch Stone lost to Mark Goss, 0-6, 6-7.

In boys' doubles Smith and Wesson won over Butler and Teeter, 6-4, 6-0; Stone and Brown lost to Rivers and Scott, 2-6, 0-6; Derrick and Fowler defeatd Brito and Goss, 2-6, 7-6, 6-2.

LULAC BANQUET---A district banquet sponsored by the local Council 4316 of the League of United Latin American Citizens was held Saturday night at Western Texas College. Plaques of recognition were presented to Mexican-American teachers and teachers' aides. Guest speaker was George Gonzales, a Houston attorney. (SDN Staff Photo)

Education Is LULAC Topic

Education was the topic of a district meeting of the League of United Latin American Citizens banquet held Saturday night at Western Texas College and sponsored through the local Council 4316.

Teachers honored at the banquet were Margie Martinez, Roland Herrera, Felix Garza, and Amanda Garza. Teachers' aides honored at the banquet were Mickey Carrasco, Nicky Becerra, Maria Ramirez, Vera Ubando, and Rosalinda Tovar. Awards were presented by Linda Ramos.

Guest speaker at the banquet was George Gonzales, a Houston attornev.

Citing the Corwen Memo, a demographic study made of the American Southwest several years ago, Gonzales said the memo recommended that Mexican-Americans either be totally integrated into the mainstream of American life or else maintained in separate facilities of their own. It recommended, he said, the government to pursue either course of action between now and the year 2000.

Gonzales lashed out at the memo and said what is needed is understanding among races.

Between now and the year 2000, he said, "It becomes important that we promote . . . mutual understanding among races." Beyond the year 2000, he added, Americans need to "forget inherited biases and prejudices."

Affirmative action and an equal opportunity are what is needed to help the Chicano in this country, he said. To ensure an equal chance is afforded to minority groups, he added, it is important that minorities become involved in politics.

Gonzales, a Democrat turned Republican, said, "The only answer I've found for myself is to be involved politically."

Political involvement plus "hard work and sacrifice" will enable the Chicano to achieve his rightful place in American Society, said Gonzales.

Master of ceremonies at the banquet was Martin Pena Jr. The invocation and benediction were made by Sammy Barrera. Approximately 50 persons attended.

Something has to give

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — Please give a concrete schedule to help organize a mother with three children at home so that she can take a paying job.

My other children have moved away, so the schedule should include time for correspondence with them and their families.

In addition, it should allow time for the family bookkeeping, medical and dental appointments, visiting out-of-town children and relatives, cleaning, laundry, cooking, shopping, church and personal care.

My children cannot help because they have jobs to earn money to buy cars. They all have to drive because we are so far away from everything.

And my husband won't raise a hand to do what he calls "woman's work." He would punch me out if I even asked for his help.

Don't suggest a cleaning lady. We don't have enough money for that.

I am an organized person, but I never seem to have any spare time. I hope you can help.

DEAR READER — There is only so much one person can do.

Even an efficiency expert could not make a schedule that would accommodate all the jobs you mentioned plus full-time work outside the home. Something has to give.

By merely considering trying to do it all, you are agreeing with your family that running the house should be your responsibility alone.

Do you want that kind of burden? That is the first question you must answer.

If you find yourself shouting a resounding "no," you will know you are ready to accept help.

It is clear from your letter that asking your husband for assistance would be tantamount to asking for a divorce — or a beating. But you can and should expect support from your children.

Sit down with them. Tell them you are planning to take a job. Mention that it will mean some sacrifices on their parts but that you are certain they will want to help since they are part of the family.

Then propose the following plan:

They must decide as a group whether to put $5 a week each into an account for a cleaning woman or to divide the housework among themselves and keep all their earnings for the cars they hope to buy.

If you also throw $5 into the pot, you should be able to hire someone to clean for six hours a week. That would be a big help.

The success of this family meeting will rest on your belief that you deserve their help.

They will probably try to make you feel guilty. Remember, they should have been helping with the housework all along. They have had it too easy.
