Rumors Say Revolt Is On In Mexico

(By The United Press)

EL PASO, Sept. 18.—Airplanes, cavalry and infantry have been sent into southwestern Chihuahua following reports that supporters of Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan have risen in arms, Gen. Antonio Guerrero, commander of the 5th Mexican military zone, said today.

Guerrero said he had received "unconfirmed reports" that the "uprising" was led by Lt.-Col. Cruz Villalva, veteran revolutionary and an unsuccessful Almazan candidate for governor of Chihuahua.

Guerrero returned from Juarez, Mexico, to take personal charge of the investigation. He had been on the border inspecting and strengthening defenses.

300 Miles South Of Border

The group of armed men, reported to number about a hundred, were said to be near Santa Maria de Las Cuevas, about 90 miles southwest of Chihuahua City, capital of the state of Chihuahua. The place is about 300 miles south of the border.

General Guerrero said he had sent about 200 cavalrymen of the 33rd regiment and about 50 men of the 31st infantry battalion into the area.

Rumor Unconfirmed

"All we have is an unconfirmed rumor," Guerrero said. "Airplanes under my command have been reconnoitering the area and so far have found no sign whatever of any revolution."

Gen. Guerrero said he had talked this morning by telephone with the minister of defense in Mexico City "and he told me that everything is quiet throughout the republic."

British Have New And Secret Device For Downing German Planes; To Add Strength

LONDON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Britain is experimenting with a new method of bringing down German aircraft which already has proved successful in defending small vital areas, informed sources said tonight.

The nature of the device remains secret, but the informants said it was not a gun, not a ray and had nothing to do with balloons. It was said it had not yet been used in the London barrage.

The informants said that if the device could be developed it would add great strength to Britain's general defenses. They asserted it was comparatively easy to manufacture and required only a small force to operate because of its simple principles.

FDR's Return Will Speed Draft Moves

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 — Action to clear the way for operation of the nationwide conscription program commanded attention today as President Roosevelt returned to the capital and Congress made ready to resume sessions.

Before the United States can launch the undertaking which begins with registration of 16,500,000 men on Oct. 16, three essential preliminaries required disposition:

Must Give Regulations

1. President Roosevelt must promulgate the regulations governing the administration of the draft machinery, enrollment, classification and selection of trainees, their induction into service and kindred matters.

2. The director of the selective service system must be appointed by Mr. Roosevelt and confirmed by the Senate.

3. Congress must act on the $2,000,000,000 special defense appropriation request, which is to defray the expenses of registration and conscription.

President Roosevelt was expected to order into effect, possibly tomorrow, the first two of six volumes of regulations to cover all phases of the draft. These two sections define the nature and administrative procedure of the national and state organizations which will handle the Oct. 16 registration, and also set forth the rules for enrollment.

To Announce Choice

Mr. Roosevelt, who has been absent attending the funeral of the late Speaker Bankhead in Alabama, was expected to announce his choice in a few days for the position of draft director.

The House of Representatives, in recess for three days because of the death of Speaker Bankhead, has the conscription financing appropriation on committee calendar for consideration tomorrow.

Washington's most-talked-of possibility for the draft director post is Lieut. Col. Lewis B. Hershey. He is the executive officer of the joint army and navy selective service committee, which has been engaged for 14 years on draft plans, preparations and training.

Review Denied By High Court

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 18—The supreme court today refused to review a lower court decision permanently enjoining the board of control from ousting Dr. W. J. Johnson as superintendent of the San Antonio state hospital.

Without written opinion, the high tribunal refused to grant an application for writ of error filed in behalf of Harry Knox, chairman of the control board.

Appeals Court Upheld

Its action upheld the Austin court of civil appeals which declared the board did not have authority to discharge the superintendent or otherwise interfere with his duties.

Dr. Johnson several months ago was accused of making improper advances to a number of women employes at the institution and the control board conducted a hearing.

Meanwhile, declaring a conspiracy to oust him existed, the 56-year-old superintendent obtained an injunction, contending the board could not remove him before his term expires next August and that in any event he was entitled to a court trial which the board was powerless to conduct.

Sounds Like Double Talk In Hospital

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 18 (AP) — It sounds like double talk when the public address system at the Douglas county hospital sings out a call for "Dr. Docter."

It caused confusion for a while, but now the staff knows that Dr. A. W. Docter, the new resident physician, is wanted.

Third Term Sentiment Watched In Voting

Double Defeat Is Handed To Roosevelt Foe

Decisive Returns Not Available In Several Sections

(By The Associated Press)

The double defeat of former Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York in his congressional comeback bid and the strength shown by anti-administration Democrats in Wisconsin highspotted the Tuesday's primary elections.

O'Connor, whose defeat for the Democratic renomination was successfully advocated by administration forces in 1938, lost out in efforts to win both Republican and Democratic nominations in Manhattan's 16th congressional district.

Vote Not Conclusive

In Wisconsin, Democrats who have been critical of President Roosevelt were well out in front of an administration supporter for the party's nomination for U. S. senator. The gubernatorial contest was a nip-and-tuck affair. With a sizable portion of the state unreported, however, the vote was not conclusive.

A Roosevelt supporter took over the lead for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination after trailing a critic of the administration throughout the early count.

Decisive defeats blasted O'Connor's hopes in New York. William T. Pheiffer defeated him in the Republican primary, and in the Democratic contest he lost again to his victorious 1938 opponent, pro-New Deal Rep. James H. Fay.

Returns Are Slow

A delay in the count of New York's American Labor ballots slowed up returns on the intra-party strife between the so-called pro-Roosevelt right wing and the anti-term left wing. The outcome of this battle was watched closely for possible clues to sentiment on the third term for ALP votes added 275,000 to Mr. Roosevelt's state totals in 1936.

Early returns, all from New York and vicinity, gave a slight lead to the faction supporting Mr. Roosevelt.

Among congressional incumbents to win renomination in New York was Rep. Hamilton Fish, New Deal foe, who was again the Republican choice in the 26th district. The president's Hyde Park home is in the district.

Are Running One-Two

Available returns in Wisconsin showed James E. Finnegan, former state attorney general, and William D. Carroll, chairman of the party's state central committee, running one-two in the Democratic race for senator. Both supported the bid of Vice President Garner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In the party's gubernatorial contest, an administration critic, William R. Callahan, and Francis E. McGovern, former governor and a Roosevelt backer, were running neck and neck.

Wisconsin's Republican contests found Fred H. Clausen, holding a comfortable margin over a seven-man field for the U. S. Senate nomination. A considerable vote was cast for Dr. Glenn Frank, who

More Entries For Fair Are Received

Two more entries for the community agricultural exhibit department and one for the livestock department at the Panhandle-South Plains fair Sept. 30-Oct. 5 were received this morning.

The community exhibit entries were from Idalou, by Coleman Cowan, and New Deal, by Leo Meier. Cowan and Meier are vocational agriculture instructors.

The livestock entry came from Bruington brothers farms of Cameron, Ill., which advised that 16 head of milking shorthorns will be shipped here. Bruington brothers were among the top prize winners in that division last year.

Lunacy Complaint Is Filed Against Man

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18 (UP)—A lunacy complaint was filed today against Harold Snyder, 36, Arlington sign painter who admitted setting fire to 13 buildings at Arlington and Hico, besides causing his mother to burn to death 21 years ago in Illinois.

The lunacy complaint was based on a psychiatrist's report. Authorities said that if Snyder is declared insane, arson charges against him will be dismissed. He was arrested at Arlington early Sunday after a minor garment factory fire, which he claimed was the fifth he had set in that town.

TWENTY ARE KILLED

TOKYO, Sept. 18 (UP)— Twenty persons were killed and 100 injured today when an electric car bound for Tokyo collided with a car stalled by poor visibility during a typhoon in China prefecture.

The storm severely damaged crops in Boso peninsula, east of Tokyo bay.

Germans Send 300 Bombers To Deal Death

But RAF Fighters Attack Furiously To Break Waves

(By The Associated Press)

British RAF fighters clashed with 300 German warplanes in a terrific battle over the Thames estuary today and reportedly scattered the raiders to save London from one of the greatest mass assaults of the war.

Flying at 15,000 feet in three waves, the German bombers and fighters thundered across the Dover coast, plunged through a barrage of anti-aircraft fire and headed for London to rain fresh chaos on the smoke-hazed capital.

Sky Seemed Full

Associated Press observer on the channel coast said the sky seemed "full of planes" as the Germans passed overhead.

A few miles from London, RAF defense planes knifed into the three formations and broke them up into a series of whirling dogfights.

The battle came as London's millions underwent their fifth daylight air-raid alarm and capped a "night of hell" marking the longest raid of the war—nine hours and 54 minutes of terror from the skies.

Punishment Is Heavy

London military attaches and correspondents who weathered the blizzards of bombs which fell on Warsaw, Barcelona and Madrid said the British capital has already taken more punishment than any of Hitler's conquests, even Rotterdam.

But, they said, the German luftwaffe had failed to achieve its purpose—to smash or terrorize the city and its millions into a mood of surrender.

A Nazi spokesman in Berlin, however, indicated that Hitler may be planning a decisive blow.

London's sixth daylight raid alarm wailed just before dusk, making the capital's 101st alarm since the war began.

An official British communique said it was feared "casualties may be heavier than in recent nights."

Bomb Still Unexploded

A delayed-action bomb fell near the United States embassy in the heart of Mayfair, remaining still unexploded after daybreak, and a member of the embassy staff said wryly:

"We certainly had a hell of a night—they were popping all around us."

Nazis quarters in Berlin, describing the raids as aimed at London's aerial defense bases, said seven out of the British capital's 10 remaining airports have been badly damaged in the past 24 hours—some beyond

Thomas Blasts Roosevelt And Willkie Both

(By The United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, today scored Republican Candidate Wendell Willkie, President Roosevelt and conscription.

He said in an interview that Willkie had a better chance of winning the election before he started making speeches.

"Willkie has endorsed all the reforms which the Democrats took from the Socialists, but still says the country is going to hell under the Democrats," Thomas said.

"President Roosevelt," he added, "personally is likely to ruin Democracy. I think he wants to save the world, but so far he's doing very badly.

"The campaign is boiling down to a question of which man do you hate—Roosevelt or Willkie."

Hardboiled Egg Trips Indian Chief In His Court Hearing

(By The United Press)

HOUSTON, Sept. 18 — An egg — hardboiled — today clouded the culinary status of Chief White Feather, Sioux Indian, and lost his union a lawsuit.

The chief claimed among his accomplishments of Indian dancing, tom-tom beating, side circus and vaudeville experience, a 15-year background of cooking.

John Poulos, cafe owner, declared Little White Feather couldn't cook a lick and asked District Judge Kenneth McCalla to grant his petition for an anti-picketing injunction.

The chief and his union, the Culinary Alliance Local 803, said Poulos fired him after nine days as a cook because he had joined the union.

Poulos countered that the Indian quit after 10 minutes of work when a simple dish of ham-and-eggs baffled him.

Before deciding the case, Judge McCalla asked the Sioux how long it takes to hard-boil an egg.

"Let's see," pondered the

Schooner Safe After 8 Days Adrift At Sea

Craft's Captain And Member Of Crew Killed

(By The Associated Press)

GALVESTON, Sept. 18.—A graphic story of tragedy at sea was told here today by eight members of the fishing schooner William Hays of Pensacola, Fla., which drifted helplessly in the Gulf of Mexico for eight days after the captain and a member of the crew were killed by a crash of the mainsail.

With rations growing shorter hourly, the schooner managed with a makeshift sail to reach a point within two miles of the Galveston harbor north jetty early last night and was towed into port by a coast guard boat.

Crushed By Mainsail

Captain William Swim, 59, Pensacola, and Paul Hern, 31, Washington, D. C., a member of the crew, were killed Sept. 9 when, without warning, the mainsail toppled and crushed them.

Two coast guard patrol boats, the Woodbury of Galveston and Cartigan of Gulfport, Miss., and two coast guard seaplanes from Mobile, Ala., had searched a wide area of the gulf since Saturday night, attempting to locate the disabled schooner after a freighter had radioed that the fishing vessel was in need of assistance.

Engineer Jack Barnett narrowly escaped the fate which struck Captain Swim and Hern.

Heard Cracking Sound

"We were standing at the rail in the evening after the day's fishing when I suddenly heard a loud cracking sound," Barnett related. "I ducked, and as I did blood splattered in my face from Hern's forehead. I saw an awful look in his eyes as he looked up to see what was happening. The mast struck him square between the eyes."

It took the crew members an hour to extricate Captain Swim and Hern from the wreckage. Swim, conscious, lived for two hours.

Hern, who was unconscious, lived for 16 hours. The crew cleared the wreckage and after meeting the tanker Halsey Saturday night 190 miles southeast of Galveston, they waited for the arrival of a coast guard boat for 38 hours and then made toward Galveston with their makeshift sail, they said.

Fire Rages Through Stadium At Dallas

DALLAS, Sept. 18 (UP)—Five companies this afternoon fought a three-alarm blaze which threatened to consume Rebel stadium, home of the Dallas Texas league baseball team.

The intense heat generated by the fast-spreading fire brought a number of firemen close to the point of collapse. Steel poles supporting lighting equipment inside the park crumpled from the heat.

The blaze originated somewhere above the business office in the large steel and wooden structure. Much of the grandstand burned quickly and the fire spread to a shack across a parking lot and threatened a nearby filling station.

Legion Expenditures Heavy During 1940

BOSTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—The American Legion, speeding preparations for its 22nd national convention beginning Monday, reported today that it expended $4,493,918 in emergency aid for 454,495 needy children during 1940 in its nation-wide child welfare program.

Ed Morgenstern, of Salina, Kas., national child welfare chairman, reported $2,536,670 was raised directly by the Legion and its affiliated organizations. The balance was obtained from outside sources, such as government benefits.

Disaster For Italians Seen

(By The United Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 18—Al Misri, influential newspaper of the majority Egyptian Wafdist party, said today that "the western Egyptian desert is destined to become the burial ground for Fascism."

The Egyptian press generally predicted disaster for Italian troops invading Egypt and a communique of the British middle east command said that British bombing planes and advanced tank and artillery units had inflicted serious losses on two Italian columns advancing into Egypt along the Mediterranean coastal belt.

Operations Discussed

Discussing the Italian operations, Al Misri said:

"They have 400 miles of flat desert to cross before they reach the Nile. They are advancing in a country whose inhabitants have turned against them."

The newspaper described Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, commander of the Italian North African campaign, as "a little Napoleon" and said:

"He has to take into consideration a sudden attack from his rear, obstacles in obtaining food supplies and ammunition and the possible cutting of his line of retreat. Strong enemy forces face him; he can be shelled from the sea and the British can bomb his marching columns from the air."

Willkie Likely Will Visit Texas Again

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18 (UP) — Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, expects to make another stop in Texas before the November election, a local supporter said today as plans were made for a great Fort Worth-Dallas Willkie rally, possibly at Arlington Downs.

The plans were announced by Harold G. Neely, chairman of Tarrant county's no-third-term organization. Neely attended the Amarillo rally for Willkie yesterday, and said that Texas supporters were informed that their candidate intends to return to Texas before the voting in November.

Civil War Veteran Printed As Alien

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18 (UP) — A 105-year-old Civil war veteran who "never thought" to take out American citizenship was fingerprinted at the Cleveland postoffice today under the alien registration act.

Jacob Neble told officials he was born in Kassa, Hungary, in 1835 and came to the United States in 1864, serving in the Union army during the Civil war.

"I was just a greenhorn and didn't know anything about citizenship" and so he never thought about it.

Tiny Republic Still At War

(By The United Press)

SAN MARINO, Sept. 18 — The council of this tiny sovereign republic which has been at war with Germany since 1915 today took steps to make peace and declare war on Great Britain.

The 60 councilors had elected two new regents who will govern this oldest and smallest republic in the world for the coming six months. The new regents are Frederico Gozi and Salvatore Foschi, well known Italian sympathizers. They declared that the republic's position was "most embarrassing."

Still At War

The tiny republic in central Italy joined Italy in declaring war on Germany in 1915. But it was not represented at the Versailles peace conference, didn't sign the treaty, and therefore still is at war with Germany.

The 14,000 inhabitants wildly cheered the new regents when they announced from the balcony of the city hall that the army of 950 soldiers and 20 officers were in splendid fighting condition.

Brooklyn Navy Yard To Reduce Ship Construction By One-Third

Building Time Being Slashed

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (U.P.)—Battleship construction at the Brooklyn navy yard is expected to be reduced one-third, according to Capt. Joseph Broshek, industrial manager of the yard.

Original plans calling for an unprecedented output are being outstripped, Capt. Broshek said. There are 4,300 men working on the 35,000-ton battleship North Carolina; 1,300 on the 45,000-ton Iowa — a number which is being steadily increased, and the remainder of the force is at work in various shops of the yard and in repairing old destroyers. The keel of the 45,000-ton battleship Missouri is to be laid next January, but work is already under way on the materials to be used.

The navy yard already employing 15,475 men, still needs the services of skilled machinists, ship fitters and others for a building program which has been speeded up to break all previous records at the yard.

Workers in Civil Service

Skilled workmen, being hired daily, although not in as large numbers as could be used, are rated under the civil service as soon as they register with the navy yard's labor board. Men who visit the yard to apply are met by a Marine, one of those regularly assigned to guard duty, and are escorted through the gate to the labor board offices, just inside. No outsiders are permitted in the yard. Regular employes are required to wear identification badges, bearing their pictures, to gain entrance each day.

Until the present, the yard's highest peak of employment was during the world war, when 8,700 men were at work. Many others at that time also worked for the navy in shipyards throughout the third naval district. Today, of the 15,475 men employed, 800 are WPA workers and 645 are assigned to work outside the yard, although on the payroll.

Old Destroyers Overhauled

Part of the work consists of the routine overhauling of 13 old destroyers, of the type to be transferred to Great Britain. Capt. Broshek said he had not yet received official notification as to the dispositions of the destroyers.

Present plans call for extensive overhauling of the destroyers Lea, Phillips, Dahlgren, Twiggs, Little and Gregory. Seven others — the Leary, Ruben James, Butler, Sinnbrick, Swasey, Meade and Broome — have been checked over for a scheduled naval reserve cruise.

Capt. Broshek said he had not been informed whether more old destroyers would be turned over to the Brooklyn yard for overhauling.

SUBJECT IS DIGGING—Speedy and shovel methods of digging tank traps and other defense ditches appear doomed soon, that an earth borer such as this from the Buda plant at Harvey, Ill., has been introduced. It is designed for use in warfare also to facilitate the laying of land mines. The men are non-commissioned U. S. army officers testing operation.

More Enlistments Reported In City

Twenty-four more enlistments were reported Tuesday at the Lubbock army recruiting station.

The station under direction of Lieut. George T. Chrisman, recruiting officer enlisted its fifteenth recruit Monday — enough to form a peacetime regiment.

Among those enlisting Tuesday were J. C. Bentley of Levelland; Leon P. Lee of Milestone; Walton C. Poe of Plainview; Dwight E. Lusk of Seagraves; H. V. Sowder of Lubbock; William C. Sparks of Spur; Joe D. Rogers of Van Park, and; Boyd B. Smith of Cross Plains.

Dutch Colson Gets Liberty

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18 (U.P.)—"Dutch" Colsen, member of the notorious Charles Schultz gang which seized $1,000,000 from mail sacks at Toledo, O., in 1921, has been released from Alcatraz prison, the rock fortress in San Francisco bay, after 18 years' internment.

His freedom was obtained on a habeas corpus writ and he became the fourth man ever to leave "the rock" by that means.

His three predecessors all fared badly as a result of their freedom. Ray Lagomarsino died in a gun battle in Half Moon Bay, not far from San Francisco; James McNealy, Jacksonville, Fla., mail robber, is back in prison, and Harold Brest, from Philadelphia, is in Alcatraz again.

If Colson disappeared when he went into Alcatraz, he also disappeared when he came out.

An unidentified man went over on the prison launch to meet him upon his exit; also a veiled woman, believed to be Colson's sister.

Colson ducked and dodged behind his hat, as photographers snapped him at the government pier. On long, springy legs, he sprinted down the pier, jumped into a car, and was driven away.

Colson has served 18 years out of a total of 55 on various counts of robbery and holdup.

However, he contended that all were included in the one offense, and Federal Judge Walsh agreed with him. With time off for good behavior, he was free and the government declined to contest this claim.

Just enough was seen of him as he jumped from the prison launch and dashed for his car, believed to be that of his sister, to show that he looked 20 years older than his 53 years. Prison life had left him gaunt, sallow-faced and with the usual pallor, and little to indicate that he ever would be a terror again in American life.

Legislation Granting Debt Relief To Citizen Soldiers Is Urged

Speedy Action Being Sought

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Declaring that the "morale" of draftees and national guardsmen was involved, the war department urged Congress today to act as speedily as possible on legislation under which citizen soldiers in financial straits could be granted debt relief.

Major Edwin Barber of the general staff told the House military committee that the army wished quick action on a general revision of the 1918 soldiers and sailors civil relief act as a means of improving psychological conditions among the trainees.

Some Relief Granted

Draftees and guardsmen already have been granted an opportunity to obtain some relief under the terms of the conscription and national guard bills. This includes a prohibition against eviction of a draftee's or guardsman's family for non-payment of rent where the rent does not exceed $50 monthly, unless a court gives permission. The court is empowered to decide whether the family is hard-pressed or not.

Present law also prevents the repossession of purchased goods or the termination of a contract involving such a purchase, except through court action or unless a draftee or guardsmen and the concern from whom the purchase was made enter into a new contract during the draftee's military service.

Judgments can not be entered against any person who fails to make an appearance in court unless the plaintiff swears to a statement that the respondent is not in military service.

Grant Rent Relief

The war department-approved legislation would grant an opportunity for rent relief to those paying up to $80 monthly. It also grants possible relief from tax and insurance payments, similar to that provided in the 1918 act but not incorporated in the draft and guard laws.

War department officials have emphasized that the plan grants no automatic moratorium; that the courts or (in the case of insurance relief) the veterans administration are given wide discretion to treat each case on its merits; and that the conscript or guardsman is not freed of obligation to make good his debts after he returns to civil life.

GLAD THAT'S OVER—If Capt. Bror E. Torning (left) and Maj. Frank J. Burns smile, arriving in New York, they've good reason. They brought the U. S. Army Transport American Legion, loaded with royalty and American refugees, from Petsamo, Finland, through mine fields, encountered storms, sickness, averted shipboard clashes between pro-Nazis and anti-Germans.

Staggered Schedule Operating Smoothly

The "staggered" schedule of classes in Senior High school put into effect this year is beginning to operate smoothly, school officials said Tuesday.

During the first week the only adjustment which students and teachers had trouble making was their change in meal-time. Students who begin regular school work at 8 a. m. are out for lunch at 1 o'clock, while those who go at 12 o'clock noon to begin the afternoon schedule must eat lunch before that time. Most of the faculty members are assigned to one schedule or the other. Approximately 300 students are attending school on the morning schedule, 300 on the afternoon schedule, with the remaining 800 signed for a regular schedule.

Eire has had a record number of unusual drownings this year.

...BUT WHY COURT-MARTIAL THE WHOLE REGIMENT?

There are bound to be one or two bad soldiers in every regiment. But why court-martial the whole regiment?

The same applies to beer retailing. Out of hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retailers, there is bound to be a small minority who disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants even this small minority of undesirable retailers eliminated entirely. Beer is a refreshing, appetizing beverage — the beverage of moderation. We want every beer retail establishment to be as wholesome as beer itself.

To that end, we have instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program — now in operation in some states and being extended to others. We'd like to tell you about it in an interesting free booklet.

OUR COUNTRY

Eighth of 24 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and Lubbock Evening Journal by the nation's most famous authors.

BY JONATHAN DANIELS
Author of "A Southerner Discovers New England," and "A Southerner Discovers the South."

I CAN claim no credit because I come from a region where long ago men went about grumbling that it was a rich man's war and a poor man's fight but fought like the devil just the same.

I'm glad I'm a man of a land where a part of freedom has been to cuss the boss, damn the Republicans and denounce the Democrats, to stomp brogans in fury at town meeting, fuss about taxes, complain about the poor, blame the rich. We began to quarrel before we landed in the wilderness, we moved across the mountains and the prairies arguing among ourselves, sometimes with guns. We made the American unity in a bloody civil war.

Jonathan Daniels

Maybe we could have made a better job of America if we had always moved in disciplined agreement. I doubt it. Maybe this would be a stronger America now if we the people always spoke with the same voice, the same views. I am not sure. But I am sure that there is now as there has been an American unity stronger because it is the willing unity of individuals and not the docile or driven unity of the mass.

* * *

BUT America is different now, they tell me. We are not the homogeneous people once we were. We are the product now of a melting pot that did not melt.

It may be so, but sometimes as an old American I have felt almost rebuked in my own casual acceptance of my citizenship by the eager, passionate allegiance of new Americans to the meaning of this land.

Among the new and the old Americans undoubtedly there are traitors and grafters, profiteers, troublemakers and termites. The past did not lack them; the present should not be incapable of dealing with them.

But the world is different now, they tell me. You could wait for the growth of a fighting unity once; now it must be full-grown in an instant. It is true. But we made speed here. We have made it not only on wheels but on wires—without wires. Sometimes now we swoop in decision like a dive bomber. We may be quickly wrong, but that is not lack of unity. That is somebody's minority opinion. Maybe mine.

But today decision must not only be swift in emergency, it must be also continuous, implacable maintained. There was a continuity which ran 12 years from the election of Harding to the defeat of Hoover—a continuity in the American mind which ran at least from 1920 to the decision-making disaster in the fall of 1929. It has been eight years since the first electoral determination upon the New Deal. Now in almost unopposed unity, the decision upon military and naval security has been made. Who expects that mood to change soon?

* * *

AMERICA a babel, an ant hill overturned? I have heard some of the voices. As one of the ants I have met others in a good many different parts of the hill.

There are differences certainly between a man cutting pulp in a Maine woodlot and a man on an automobile assembly line in Dearborn. There may even be an anger between an old Yankee and an Irishman in Massachusetts, even blood between some southern white men and a Negro neighbor. We are a people ready with our epithets everywhere.

But America! That's different. We let the politicians and the professional patriots make the speeches about it. We don't want to go to war. Neither did grandfather in spite of all the things he said after he got back. We don't think about ourselves as heroes. We certainly don't think about ourselves as the saviors of civilization. We'd rather go to the movies than the war.

But we are Americans and all that that has ever meant in any American time. A little bit of honest history beside the current fears, I think, will show that we never faced or fought a war with anything like the unity which already is erected in this land.

It isn't in the newspapers, it does not come over the radio. But it is out there in the country. It is in the bank and the labor union. It's on the porches of the country clubs and in the pool rooms and the Sunday school classes. Not in one more than the others.

To hear it where it is, it often still sounds like a quarrel, as argumentative, individualistic, and dogmatic as the pioneers were, as the first patriots were. But those who hear only confusion in it have never heard America speaking.

Gladys Hasty Carroll tells what the American way of life means to her, and what she thinks it means to all of us, in the next article of this series on "Our Country."

Boys Club To Profit From Ticket Sales

Assurance that Lubbock Boys club inc. will receive 10 per cent of the proceeds of all strips of general admission tickets sold in Lubbock to the Panhandle-South Plains fair Sept. 30-Oct. 5 was given by fair association officials this morning.

Some people seemed to have gained the impression that the club which is sponsored by local civic luncheon clubs, will share only in those sold in a one-day campaign Friday. That impression was corrected by members of the general campaign committee of which S. E. Marbut is chairman and Dr. M. M. Ewing, Ray Farmer, Harry Morris and John Halsey are members. O. W. Ribble is general sales manager of Friday's drive.

Members of the committee emphasized, however, that attempt will be made to dispose of the bulk of the tickets in the one-day campaign, when the strips of four will be offered for $1—just one-half the amount to be charged at the gate during the fair. Participating in the campaign will be 15 or more representatives of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, American Business and Optimist clubs.

After the campaign, according to the announced plan, tickets will be placed on sale in central locations in the city and will remain available until 6 p. m. on Sept. 28. The committee of which Marbut is head is to arrange for those places of sale.

Ribble reminded that Friday's campaign will start immediately after a 9 o'clock breakfast in Hilton hotel.

London Has Taken Great Punishment

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Military attaches and correspondents who experienced the blizzards of bombs which fell on Warsaw, Barcelona and Madrid expressed belief today that London already had taken more punishment than any other city, even Rotterdam, in the past 11 days of intensive German air attacks.

Despite these attacks, however, the consensus of these experienced observers was that the German luftwaffe had failed to achieve the raids' two main purposes and that the prospects of invasion were diminished because of this failure.

The two prime objectives, they gave as (1) disorganization of London's communications so that supplies and reinforcements could not be sent to the areas where invasion is planned and (2) demoralization of civilian population.

Entire Sector Being Mined

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 18 — British bomber planes, striking at German invasion bases, bombed shipping concentrations, barges and communications in occupied territory during the night while other British planes were attacking "certain targets" in Germany, the air ministry said today.

The new British blow was struck as the weather cleared in the channel area and the storm which had dispersed countless German invasion craft gave way to a clear sky and a moderate sea.

Boats Said Returned

British leaders still took the view that an invasion might be started at any time.

A trustworthy Norwegian informant, however, asserted that Germany had started to return to Norwegian owners hundreds of small ships which had been requisitioned for an invasion attempt.

The statement came after British reports that many ships concentrated by Germany along the English channel had been scattered by a gale and an open challenge to Adolf Hitler by Sen. Sir Alan Brooke, commander in chief of the home forces, to send his hordes against Britain and have them thrown back into the sea.

Mines Being Laid

It followed also the disclosure by the air ministry that night after night the Royal Air Force bomber command had been laying mines in German occupied harbors and territorial waters all the way from the Norwegian coast to the Bay of Biscay.

More than 30 separate mine fields had been laid, the ministry said.

The Norwegian informant's statement was taken in some quarters to be an indication that the German plan for an invasion attempt had been postponed or altered.

Just arrived here by airplane from Stockholm, the informant said that the Germans had requisitioned almost every seaworthy craft in Norway during the last two months.

He said that after the seizures started, there was a period of intensive preparation and training for an invasion of Britain. Even cavalry was sent to Norway to train in disembarkation from ships for land operations, the informant said. He described German cavalry horses swimming to shore from ships.

Fishermen and other owners of vessels were astonished, the informant said, when last week German authorities began restoring their craft to them.

Sir Alan Brooke, in a press interview, invited Hitler to give the British army, navy and air force a chance to throw his army into the channel.

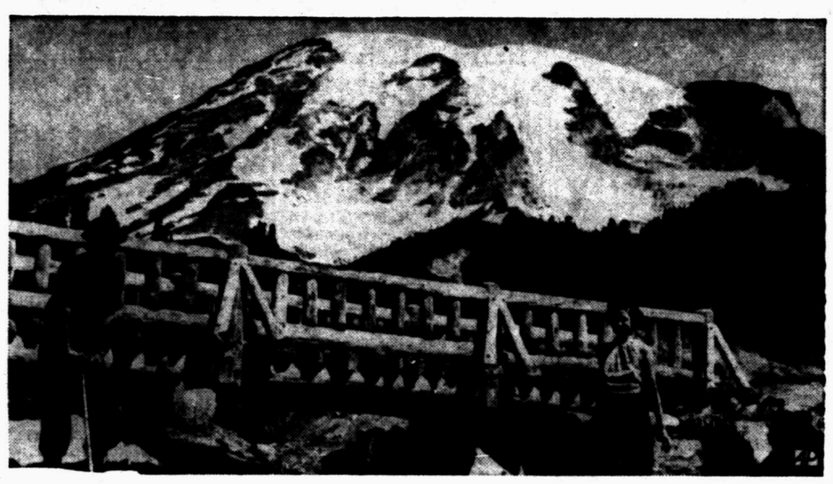

Would Welcome Attempt

"I would actually welcome an invasion," he said. "I would welcome the opportunity to throw them back into the sea. They have done it twice to us (in Norway and at Dunkirk) and it is about time we got some of our own back."

Military informants, discussing the invasion situation, said that it would be absolutely essential for German troops to have the support of armored forces. So far, they commented, nobody had produced an amphibian tank capable of swimming the channel.

These informants were about convinced that Hitler would not try an invasion unless he was convinced he could get big tanks across the channel, which is likely now to get rougher daily. Light tanks, admittedly, can be brought across by plane, and some heavy tanks, it was suggested, might be landed from barges at open beaches along the coasts, but the coasts are being more strongly defended daily.

The men directing British defense are now giving the armored forces consideration second only to that devoted to the air force. It is now hinted that Britain may be hiding a secret tank or a secret tank weapon.

New Kind Of Clause In Lease Is Found

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—A new kind of clause in an apartment lease—providing that one tenant cannot solicit registrations and votes among other tenants—was read today in renter's court.

Judge Nuncio J. Bonelli said the clause was unprecedented in his recollection and "probably unconstitutional."

John Theros said he overlooked the clause in renting an apartment from Mrs. Laura E. Jackson, who sued for possession upon expiration of the lease Aug. 31.

"I'm working for Roosevelt and she's against him—that's why she wants me out," Theros told the judge, who continued the case.

More Power and more miles per Gallon

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

YOU'LL like the size of this trim new Buick SPECIAL for '41—its room, its softer ride, its Permi-firm steering, its fresh smart style and all that.

But what you'll go for is what happens under that broad bonnet—the thrill and the thrift you get from that husky, big, 115-hp. Buick FIREBALL* Eight.

For in each flame-packed cylinder of that silk-smooth power plant a flaring ball of fire is set off with each spark-leap.

Packed to higher compression than ever before, fuel gives up more power and more mileage — power when you need it, economy throughout the whole driving range.

Indeed, so great is the power at your command that at 30 you use only one-eighth of the energy at your disposal. All the rest is there waiting for pick-up, hill-climb and sudden getaway.

Even at 50 you use less than one-quarter of your available power, and at 75 still have nearly half "on call" for emergency use.

More than that, to this engine you can likewise add Compound Carburetion—and step up both power output and your mileage. At 30 you'll get nearly one and one-half more miles per gallon, at 50 almost two, and at 70 an extra mile and one-fifth.

But that's just one side of the story—the facts side. Only one thing will give you the stirring feel of Buick's thrill-packed behavior on the road.

That's a demonstration — and it's yours for the asking. When will you be in to ask for it?

Detroit Tigers Back On Top In American League; Rowe And DiMaggio Ailing

Cleveland Back Half Game; 13 Games To Play

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The daily bulletins on the American league's feverish pennant fight are about as informative as those that hospitals give out on patients—like "condition unchanged" or "resting comfortably."

There is nothing anybody can do about it, though, because nobody in the world right now knows which of the American league patients are going to live and which are going to die.

Yankees End Losing Streak

The Detroit Tigers triumphed again yesterday and exchanged places at the top of the league with the Cleveland Indians, who lost. The New York Yankees ended a losing streak to move up 3 1-2 games from first place and the Chicago White Sox were idle.

Out of this jumble anything can happen. Here is the way they stand:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	GB	TP
Detroit	82	60	.577	...	12
Cleveland	82	61	.573	½	11
New York	78	63	.553	3½	13
Chicago	78	65	.545	4½	11

The victories of the Tigers and Yanks were somewhat marred, because Schoolboy Rowe, while getting credit for his 15th victory, developed shoulder trouble and retired before Detroit finished a 6-3 triumph over the Washington Senators, and Joe DiMaggio of the World champions hurt his game leg again as the champions walloped the St. Louis Browns 9-0.

Due To Face Difficulty

Rowe said his trouble wasn't serious and he would be able to go again after a few days rest. Others of the Tigers were less certain. Without the Schoolboy, Detroit is due to find a lot of difficulty on the pennant trail.

DiMaggio hoped to be ready to return to duty today, but wasn't sure.

All the American league contenders were booked for double-headers today.

Cleveland's only casualty was its 4-3 loss to the last place Philadelphia Athletics. Bill Beckman kept the Tribe checked on nine hits and the A's squeezed through with the same number of four Indian hurlers.

In the National league the Cincinnati Reds came within a single game of clinching their second straight pennant. Whitey Moore pitching five-hit ball they edged out the Phillies 2-1 to take an 11-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were shutout, 5-0 by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs put on a six-run uprising in the eighth inning and beat New York 9-8 to extend the Giants' losing streak to nine games.

Boston's Bees copped a free-hitting battle from the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5.

Meadowbrook Open Is Begun

Before dusk envelops Meadowbrook's new grass greens layout tonight, a field of near 90 linksmen is expeced to have posted qualifying scores in the club's annual Open tournament.

Match play will get under way Thursday. Finals are scheduled for Sunday, one contest a day leading up to the climaxing event. Final day for qualifying is set today.

And close observers are predicting that a repetition of the recent thrilling and highly successful City Open conducted at Lubbock Country club would be no surprise. Lofton Burnett, winner of the City Open

An Oscar For Oscar, Henry McLemore Says In Awarding Vitt Best Managerial Job

BY HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—This is the time of year when any sports writer worth his salt and hard up for an idea suddenly realizes the importance of selecting his baseball "bests" of the year, beginning with the managers and ending with the understudies for the bat boys.

In determining my stand-out manager of the year I gave each of the 16 major league bosses careful consideration. I wrote their names in red chalk on the living room wall—Terry's over the goldfish bowl, McCarthy's by the stuffed owl, McKechnie's directly over the horn of the gramaphone, Frisch's over the table which holds the stereopticon slide, Cronin's by the whatnot full of sea shells, Vitt's under the picture of Jesse James being shot in the back, and so on until all our lovely pieces had managers' names by them.

Vitt Showed The Winner

I scored each solely on his merits. Terry got a mark for beating out the Phillies, McCarthy two for losing two successive doubleheaders to the Browns, no mean feat; Cronin three marks for his optimism in referring to his pitchers as pitchers, and so on down the line.

The final tally showed Oscar Vitt the winner, the outstanding manager of the year, and if only for the benefit of Alva Bradley and Cy Slapnicka, I will explain why.

I gave him five big marks right off the bat for taking the job as manager of the Indians.

Resisted Temptation

He got three more for resisting the temptation to hit his pre-game fungoes toward the outfield instead of toward the Indians' dugout. But he didn't hold these three marks very long because, on second thought, I took them away from him for having resisted this temptation. Fungo! bungo! and another Redskin bit the dust.

Then, with a majestic sweep of my chalk that ruffled the feathers on the owl and made the goldfish swim like mad, I gave Vitt 22 merit marks which lifted him to victory.

I awarded them to him for pure managerial genius, and please don't try to tell me that he hasn't got it.

Good Bet To Win

His team has led the American league most of the year and today, only half a game out of first place, is a good bet to win the pennant.

He has accomplished this despite the fact that his team listens to only half of what he has to say, and obeys only about a tenth of his commands. Every other manager in baseball has the complete ear and obedience of his team, while Oscar has to depend upon a few desperate shouts of advice as he is being pushed out of his team's private meeting. What if the team had listened to him all of the time? It probably would have won the pennant by now and had a few weeks of leisure in which to cook up a dislike for next year's manager.

Speaking of the 1941 Cleveland manager, there is a report going around that despite Vitt's troubles this year there are many men who want the job. Could this be because of the conscription situation that men with dependent children are not going to be called for duty?

Oh, yes, before I forget it, my choice of manager of the year gets a prize. Last year Joe McCarthy was the lucky fellow and he got from me a request for two good box seats for the opening game of the World series. If Vitt wins the pennant this year he will get from me even a better prize—a request for three tickets.

But whether he wins it or not, I would like to say—

over Murrell Tripp in a thrill-saturated contest, thus far is leading the qualifiers with a two under par 69.

Tripp is just a stroke behind. It appears that the two aces intend to take their golfing feud right on through this tournament also.

Club officials expressed the belief that enough golfers would participate to arrange five full flights. Pairings will be made tonight, announced in Thursday morning's Avalanche. Approximately 100 linksmen competed in five flights of the City Open.

Finals Sunday

This tournament marks the first over Meadowbrook's new grass greens, open to the public early this month.

Two hot shots expected to threaten Burnett's low score today were Weldon Counts and Ed Doherty, veterans of Lubbock and West Texas golf wars.

Bowling Loops Open Season

Lubbock's "greater bowling season" now is in full swing.

Forty-six teams in four different leagues this week start the long grind over the 1940-41 season, and several more kegling machines will be rolled out from the college ranks.

Representatives of various college clubs and organizations planned to gather tonight to discuss plans for formation of their league.

All-Employee Loop Big

The leagues and number of teams participating in each thus far follow: Major league, 8 teams; Civic league, 6 teams; Ladies league, 8 teams; Service league, 8 teams; and All-Employee, 16 teams. The Major members opened the campaign Monday night, the Civic loop shoved off last night and the Service players will take over tonight.

Thursday night will see the huge All-Employee circuit dominating the alleys at Lubbock Bowling club, scene of the winter kegling under management of Jake Hancock. The Ladies put in an appearance Friday night.

Rice Southwest Conference Darkhorse?

Fred Wolcott May Be Spark On Gridiron

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Sept. 18 — Go no further than Rice institute for the Southwest conference dark horse.

New coaches, new methods, very new spirit and most important new thing of all—physical condition—comprise the unpredictable Rice football setup.

The general idea one gains around the Rice camp is that something is going to happen. Not that drawling Jess Neely, the Southern gentleman who left Clemson to take up Rice's broken football fortunes, is forecasting anything but trouble, because he isn't. Nevertheless, the talent is on hand.

Wolcott Is No Gag

To further becloud the issue, it appears that Freddie Wolcott, the world's greatest hurdler, is also a football player.

The Wolcott thing is no gag.

"Freddie has surprised us," admitted Neely. "He is catching on rapidly. I believe he is going to play quite a bit of football for us.

"He is good on pass defense, a pretty fair and sure tackler, a good safety man and he's trying hard."

Sees Considerable Service

Wolcott is no worse than the second string wingback — and sees considerable service with the first stringers. He impressed with one bit of maneuvering in a hard scrimmage.

On a deep reverse play he came tearing around to the opposite end. Veteran football men sat in the stands and wondered if he would attempt merely to outrun the enemy secondary and forget to pick his holes.

But Wolcott, seeing the end well guarded, suddenly cut back inside tackle with a smooth crossing of his famed legs and picked up 12 yards down the middle. Not once, but four times, he showed the same football sense. He got his chance to show his speed when he picked up a lateral pass and hurried 55 yards for a touchdown.

Wolcott will do.

Another Standout Seen

There is another fellow who could easily become a standout in his sophomore year — T. A. Weems, the six-foot, one-inch boy of 195 pounds who is a sensational punter and a very hard runner.

Coach Neely is searching for a capable signal selecter, would like to see the speed of his team improved and will concentrate on developing agility and coordination in his big line.

"So far I'm impressed with the spirit of the boys. I didn't think I'd ever have a bunch like that Clemson team of last year, but the same spirit prevails here at Rice.

Reserve Strength Is Good

"I don't see why we can't have a pretty fair team. We may not win a game, but we're going to battle hell out of 'em."

The reserve strength is so good that Neely hinted he might be in a position, later on, to substitute full teams and use the unit system.

Right now, the Rice lineup probably will be, on opening day against Centenary Oct. 5, Tipton and Dewoody, ends; Hartman and Kunetka, tackles; Goforth and Bassett, guards; Whitlow, center; Wolcott or Price, backs; McDougle, blocking back; Brumley, fullback and Weems, tailback.

Little Gene Keel, former Masonic Home favorite, is doing lots of tailbacking and could be another Rice surprise.

ANOTHER FIGHT SOUGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (U.P.)—Negotiations were underway today for a repeat non-title appearance of Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins in a Philadelphia ring next month, probably against Al Nettlow, Detroit welterweight.

Following his decision over Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia negro, Jenkins returned to New York but his manager, Hymie Caplin, remained here to talk terms with Promoter Herman Taylor and Al Weill, Nettlow's pilot.

Masonic Home Team Starts Ninth Season Friday Night As Giant-Killers In Texas

BY RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18—Four 120-pound boys will be in the Masonic Home team's line-up Friday night when the "biggest little football team" undertakes its ninth season as giant-killer in the Texas Interscholastic league.

The first opponent is Wichita Falls, rated one of the stronger teams in the state. The burly Wichita Falls team has every physical advantage, but is expecting one of the toughest battles of the year. On paper, the Masons could hardly beat a drum, but you can't ignore one of the most remarkable records in football.

Have Won Five District Titles

In eight seasons of first-flight Texas Interscholastic league competition under Coach H. N. (Rusty) Russell, the Masons have won 57 games, tied four, and lost 14. In five of the tight years, the harrupping lightweights have won the Fort Worth district championship. Their school has a student body of 150 while all other Fort Worth high schools have enrollments of 500 to 2,500. As a matter of fact, a special rule was necessary to allow the Masons to take part in class "AA" play.

Twice the "little rascals" have gone to the state finals, and once they lost a scoreless state championship game to Corsicana under a rule allowing decisions on penetrations of the 20-yard line.

School Has 80 Boys

Russell must choose from a student body of some 80 boys, about 30 of whom try out for football. This year he has an average squad that includes 14 players which Russell considers suitable material for the main team.

Ray Coulter, a very capable end, is the team's "big man" at 180 pounds. At the other end will be 130-pound Leonard Roach. Cecil Moseley, 130, plays guard and two 130-pounders, Basel Smith and Teague Roberts, are in the backfield. The line averages 150 pounds and the backfield 142 pounds.

Are A "Last Half" Team

Speed and forward passes make the Masons one of the most feared teams in Texas high school football. The wiry lightweights are among the hardest hitters in the state, and surprisingly are a "last-half" outfit. All this is despite the fact that the starting team must play almost full time against a heavier squad with better reserves.

Russell explains that Masonic Home youngsters "just love to play football. They never quit trying and make every play to win."

The "Masonic kids" also are the biggest box-office attraction among Texas high schools. Last fall about 75,000 persons saw them in 10 games.

This year's schedule seems almost insurmountable, as in previous years, but high school football followers will be out by the thousands to see the "biggest little team in football."

Ladies Day Program On At Country Club

Lubbock Country club today will be the scene of regular weekly "ladies day" golfing competition.

Pairings, in threesomes, as announced yesterday, follow:

Mesdames Charles Akey, C. L. Dean and Cliff Widener; M. M. Brown, Guy L. McAfee and Penner Tubbs; Wright Kerr, Tom Duggan and Bob Crawford, and W. F. Helwig, Buster Fluke and Miss Ruth Ford.

Pairings for others who report for the occasion will be made at the first tee.

PLAY TO TIE

HAVANA, Sept. 18 (U.P.)—Semi-pro baseball champions of Cuba and the United States played to an 11-inning, 2-2 tie yesterday.

Darkness forced a halt after Cuba had garnered two runs on eight hits and committed three errors. Carlon and Overmeyer pitched and Krywicki caught for the United States team which could collect only six hits off Hechevarria, who went the route for the Cubans. The Americans also made three misplays.

COAST TEAM WINNER

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 18 (U.P.)—The coast team of seven riflemen and one automatic rifleman today was posted as the winner, with a score of 560, of the national trophy infantry match at the National Rifle and Pistol championships here.

High ranking civilian team was the Missouri entry, which fired 527.

Jones-Powell Mat Feature

Arkansas' gift to the wrestling profession — unorthodox Farmer Jones—hoists his hefty frame, blue jeans, clod-hoppers, long locks and facial foliage through the hemp at the Sportarena tonight for a main event appearance against Chuck Powell, the "blah blah" boy of Birmingham.

In two short weeks now the Farmer has jumped from a special event spot, comparable to the prelim, to a main go—fast traveling in this circuit, but merited nevertheless.

Starts At 8:30

Tonight's show will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

The Farmer bowed in before the local tug and slug fans in a "special" against the "Flying Scot" two weeks ago. The crowds at the North College fightarena have been increasing since. Last week, Jones appeared again, pummeling Denton's "strong man," Dick Sampson, which had the large house of the summer in a constant uproar.

What happens tonight should be satisfying to a majority of the partisans—Chuck facing double trouble with no "ifs" nor "buts" about it.

Prince Omar Returns

Two hour time limit, two out of three falls determine the winner.

Trying something new in an effort to speed up the action, Promoter Sled Allen is bringing back something of the "old" schooi—handsome Prince Omar, who used to thrill the wresling conscious and feminine fans with his smooth style.

He tangles with Ed Gideon, the "flying Scot," in a 30-minute two out of three falls event. "They'll have to get a hustle on to win two falls in that period time," Allen explained.

Curtain raiser features the appearance of another performer of "back when," Joe Banaski, he of the peculiar but effective hold known as the "Banaski Special," meeting Abilene's Ace Abbott in the 20-minute opener in what promises to be a fast bout.

Beaumont Finally Wins From Buffs

BEAUMONT, Sept. 18 — Beaumont's baseball spirit was on the upswing today because the Exporters finally had managed to puncture the tough armor of the Houston Buffs in the Texas league play-off.

Houston had Beaumont two down yesterday when the Buffs rolled into town but the Shippers responded to the pleas of the home folks with an 8-3 decision that put them back in the running.

Beaumont depended on the slants of Les Mueller today for the fourth game. Houston nominated Ted Wilks for mound duty.

Virgil (Pire) Trucks kept ten Houston hits well-scattered in yesterday's victory while the Exporters were clubbing out eleven, with homers by Boyd Perry and Murray Franklin bringing in half the runs.

VOLS SEEK 18TH WIN

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18 (AP)—The Nashville Vols will be seeking their 18th victory tonight when they come to grips with Atlanta's Crackers in the second game of the final round of the Southern association Shaughnessy playoff.

The pennant-winning Vols found the Crackers easy pickings last night in the opener, grabbing a 12-4 decision as Atlanta's defense fell apart.

Huskies May Beat Anybody This Fall

SEATTLE, Sept. 18 (AP) — If a couple of potential All-Americans can keep up their iron man performances of 1939, the University of Washington Huskies should be able to beat anybody, if not everybody, in this fall's football frolics.

Last year Dean McAdams of Caldwell, Idaho, was the busiest halfback in the country, figuring in 397 plays. He ranked among the nation's best as a passer, punter, ball packer and pass receiver, and was his team's best blocker.

Rudy Mucha of Chicago was second only to All-American Johnny Schiechl of Santa Clara as the coast's best center, and he's a rocking, socking 60-minute man, especially potent on defense.

So if those boys can keep from getting hurt, the Huskies have a chance against anybody they play, and they play some tough ones, including Minnesota, Oregon State and Southern California.

Dean and Rudy spent the summer working for a mining company near the Matanuska colony at Palmer, Alaska. Dean returned weighing 200 even, and Mucha trimmed down from 232 to 218.

Washington has a large veteran squad and several beefy and capable linemen.

Coach Jimmy Phelan has some other lads who may take the play away from the "M boys."

There's swifty Ernie Steele, left halfback, who learned in spring practice how to make the sidelines run interference for him.

And there's Ray Frankowski, sturdy, 210-pound Polish boy from Hammond, Ind., the school's heavyweight wrestling champ who won a regular guard spot as a soph last year.

White Sox And Dykes Can't Be Laughed Off

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 18—James J. Dykes and his Chicago White Sox are coming through for a man who died believing he had built the nucelus for a pennant-contending team—"Uncle Lou" Comiskey.

"Uncle Lou" was J. Louis Comiskey, who died a little more than a year ago after directing for eight years the baseball club founded by his illustsious father, Charles A. (the Old Roman) Comiskey.

Had Love Of Game

Unlike his father, who was a famous player, Lou never competed on the diamond, but he had the family love of the game, plus a gambling instinct which prompted him to pay $150,000 for three players back in 1932. One of them was a third baseman named Dykes—and from that deal can be dated the upsurge of a club which now is playing an important part in the hectic American league race and is only 4 1-2 games out of the lead.

"We have a scrappy, interesting club now," said Lou one day late in 1937, when the White Sox finished third, "and someday soon I think the team will surprise everybody by taking the flag."

Team Drips With "Color"

Dykes, now in his seventh year as White Sox pilot, has done a remarkable job with his material. There isn't a single expensive piece of "ivory" on his club, yet the team plays the kind of ball which fairly drips "color." The White Sox pennant chance may be remote with only 11 games remaining, yet they can't be laughed off. Not in view of a two-weeks rush which saw the club win 15 of 19 games.

Last February, the probate court denied a request from the First National bank, executive of the Comiskey estate, for permission to sell the club on the ground that baseball was a "hazardous business." From Dykes on down to the bat boy, the White Sox all agree it's "hazardous" so far as a pennant is concerned.

From an attendance standpoint it hasn't been as risky this season. Right now the Sox home attendance matches the 600,000 figure hung up through the 1939 season.

IGLEHART VERSUS SMITH

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The only two active polo players who hold the highest possible rating of ten goals, Stewart Iglehart and Cecil Smith, will be on opposite sides today when Great Neck meets Texas in a semi-final match of the Monty Waterbury cup handicap tournament.

BETTY PRACTICES HARD

DEL MONTE, Calif., Sept. 18 (AP)—Betty Jameson is hard on the heels of her second straight National Women's Amateur golf championship, to glance at her practice program.

The San Antonio star plans several hours of practice daily on the Pebble Beach course, where she will begin defense of her title against a formidable field of 164 Monday.

Leaflets Extolling German "Master Race" Distributed In Berlin

Poles Suffer New Attacks

BERLIN, Sept. 18—Thousands of leaflets extolling the German "master race" and vilifying Poles as second-rate human beings were distributed to Berlin households today by the "Volksbund for Germandom Abroad."

The circulars bore a purple Roman-letter "P" against a yellow, diamond-shaped background and called attention to Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's order for all Polish laborers, both men and women, to wear such an insignia sewed on the right chest side of every garment.

Poles were called unfit for intermarriage or even comradeship with Germans.

Warning Sounded

"German living space of the future will contain many non-German elements," the Volksbund declared. "Therefore, it is important to educate our entire people up to the dangers lurking in such living together with foreign elements."

The conquered Poles were described as especially despicable, the leaflets said, "because the atrocities in Poland compelled the Fuehrer to protect our Germans there with our armed forces."

The leaflets then cite a series of alleged Polish atrocities, and exclaim:

"Fellow Germans! The Pole is never your comrade! He stands beneath every German on your farm or in your factory. Be just, as becomes a German, but never forget that you belong to the master race.

Get No Cash

"If anybody comes and tells you his Pole is decent, then counter with: 'Today apparently everybody knows one decent Pole, just as at another time he knew one decent Jew.'

"The obsequiousness shown by the Pole toward the German farmer is perfidy. His friendly demeanor is a lie. The greatest care is essential to prevent Poles from grouping together and possibly engaging in espionage."

Farmers and factory owners were warned not to permit Polish laborers to write long letters home lest they contain untrue statements about Germany. The Poles, moreover, are to be given no cash.

GOOD PROSPECTS

O'DONNELL.—Above average cotton crop prospects are reported for this territory by farmers and gin men. With favorable moisture a 20,000 bale cotton crop is anticipated. There are five gins here. It is estimated the feed crop will have 300 to 350 or more cars of heads to be moved out. Feed heading is under way.

America's Lost Musical Audience Large But Steps To Remedy Situation Taken

BY JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—America's "lost" musical audience numbers more than 15,000,000 people, a prominent musical authority has arded today.

It is "lost" through lack of opportunity to hear good music when it wants to, said Edward T. Ingle, director of the National Committee for Musical Appreciation, which is making great progress remedying the situation.

Unlike most committees with altruistic purposes, this one supports itself, and more, by selling phonograph records of great music at prices almost anybody out of the poor house can afford.

Lots Of Them Sold

It sells lots of them. In approximately a year a million homes have been reached by the committee's records of twelve great symphonies. This winter twelve great operas will be introduced in the same way.

On these two fronts alone, Ingle estimates that the committee has at least a five-year job. There are other fronts to be attacked.

Here are the odd things about the venture—

It not only pays its way, but as of August 31 this summer it had made outright contributions of $78,137.10 to a number of American symphony orchestras.

Distribution of the records is accomplished through paid agents, established in 50 cities so far.

Near Miracles

The committee has effected a couple of near miracles. It has persuaded a big record company to turn over records at cost, and it has persuaded some of the great orchestras and great artists to give their services to the cause of music for a fee which only covers expenses —no royalties.

It has proved that Americans do not, after all, buy music on the strength of "name" orchestras and "name" artists. The records carry no names of either, although four of the greatest American orchestras made them. People buy them because they really want to hear Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony, or perhaps the opera "Carmen." In some cases the cost of the records is less than that of cheap popular-music discs.

Finally (and Ingle's committee is much gratified by this) in cities where the records are being distributed, the bare announcement of one of the symphonies in the list has repeatedly sold out the house for the local symphony orchestra.

This was just what the committee hoped would happen.

With the exception of North Dakota, termintes have been found in every state in the Union.

"When I eat the wrong kind of food, or when my stomach turns sour, I often have the worst colic pains. And do I yell! But my mama is a smart mama and she gives me Teethina, because Teethina is a mild, gentle laxative. It cleanses my tiny bowels of irritating waste. This relieves my pain and relaxes me too, and I'm all set to go back to sleep. Teethina tastes good and you get twelve powders for only 10c. All little babies like me also need Teethina for temporary constipation and for loose bowels caused by a faulty diet." Give Teethina according to the directions in each package.

SHOW IS POSTPONED

LAMESA — A horse, mule and jack show, planned for the fourth annual Dawson county fair, Oct. 10-12, has been deferred, it is reported. The barn chosen for the location of the show is being used for cotton storage and is not available.

SLATON.—Maize harvest is under way here. The young feed is doing good and with recent moisture, will produce a fair crop.

TERRY RAINFALL

BROWNFIELD—Rainfall in 1940 to Sept. 1 amounts to 11.73 inches, with 2.96 inches being recorded in August. In March and July no rain was recorded. June had the heaviest, 3.84 inches.

Facts On Lubbock Compiled To Support Applications For Airlines

Complete Data To Be Offered

A 110-page compilation of facts and figures about Lubbock and its trade area has been completed and made available for submission to the federal Civil Aeronautics board in support of applications proposing to establish airline service through this city, according to information given at the chamber of commerce this morning.

Officials of Braniff airways who examined it termed it the "most complete" and "most nearly perfect" document of its kind they have examined

Supplies Are Available

Supplies of the bound volume have been made available to Braniff and Trans-Continental and Western airlines, both of which are applicants for permission to establish north-and-south airline service through Lubbock. Pre-hearings on their applications and others are set before the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington Friday.

Officials of both lines advised that the compilation will be included in their briefs supporting their applications.

Illustrated with large numbers of graphs, charts and maps, the document presents many thousands of facts relating to Lubbock and the territory bearing on the need for airline service and the support that might be expected for it.

Would Aid Defense

However, the first paragraph of the "formal request" comments that the "granting of such service will undeniably prove of material benefit to the national defense plans for this area."

That comment and supporting data, it was explained, takes cognizance of information that only those civil lines of value in the national defense structure are being considered by the federal authority at this time. In that connection, Lubbock's Municipal airport, its potentialities and the city's strategic location as a cross-roads in the national defense scheme are described extensively.

The bulk of the information contained in the 110 pages, however, supports the contention that airline service through Lubbock serving the South Plains should be a profitable venture. A typical comment reads:

Serves As Clearing Point

"Lubbock is the central drainage point for all business transacted in the South Plains area, and serves as a clearing point for a territory as large as the combined areas of the states of New Jersey and Delaware. For example, Lubbock county alone, with population of 51,490 had an annual volume of wholesale business totaling approximately $15,000,000 while Adams county, Penn., with a population of over 40,000, does an annual business totaling slightly more than $1,040,000."

The statistical and informative data concerning the city and area is enormous in volume. It relates to population, scholastic population, business volumes of various kinds, postal receipts, the racial composition of population, how the population is employed, express business, vital statistics, value of farm products, bank deposits, motor vehicle registrations, utilities, tax rates, paving, hotel facilities, churches, parks, federal agencies, climate, transportation facilities of all kinds, property valuations, payrolls, airmail tests, oil development and many others. In most instances, the statistical data covers periods of years in proof of the development that has continued steadily over a period of many years.

Landon Reply Offered Hull

(By The United Press)

TOPEKA, Kans., Sept. 18 — Alf M. Landon today turned back on Cordell Hull the chanrges of "ignorance of foreign affairs" which the secretary of state had leveled at Republican Presidential Candidate Wendell L. Willkie.

Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate, last night answered Hull's accusation that Willkie was "grossly ignorant of the history of the last few years" in blaming President Roosevelt for the Munich settlement.

Communication Denied

Hull denied that Mr. Roosevelt had communicated by telephone with Hitler or Mussolini and said that the president urged only that the nations reach a settlement according to the Kellogg peace pact).

Sumner Welles (under secretary of state) on Oct. 3, 1938, afraid lest the Roosevelt administration should not get full measure of credit for the part played by the president at Munich, made an address to the country in which he gave in great detail each step taken by the president, and undertook to show that it was really Mr. Roosevelt who inspired the Munich settlement," Landon said.

"QUIT THIRD TERM" — WILLKIE—Wendell Willkie, right, gets cheer from costumed girls at Amarillo Tuesday. Willkie got typical big-hatted, whooping reception as he told crowd of 40,000 that U. S. must choose between Democratic ticket and Democracy.

Stock Market

PRICES AGAIN ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Stock prices advanced today for the fourth consecutive market session.

The rise was fractional among most leaders and volume was limited but observers noted that the majority of transactions occurred on the rise and that selling periods drew little action. About 450,000 shares changed hands.

Final prices were largely a reflection of first hour quotations. In between the opening and close were about three hours of sagging quasi-stagnation.

Some marketmen said testing operations during the day had shown the path of least resistance to be upward.

There were two good reasons for this, they said, the continual stiffening of England's air defenses and a growing belief that the new federal excess profits tax would not be nearly as drastic as originally outlined.

Adding to market strength was the Pittsburgh luncheon speech of Irving S. Olds, chairman of United States Steel corp., who said the company was able, through the "flexibility" on the steel industry, to complete many of its government contracts far ahead of contract time and that also because of flexibility, there would be an ample supply of steel.

Best performers of the day included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Douglas, United Aircraft, Sperry, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Eastman, American Telephone, Western Union, Great Northern preferred.

Big Drive On London Fails

With today marking the start of the fourth month of daily air attacks on England, official reports put the total nation-wide toll at 13,000 casualties, including 3,333 deaths. In the first 15 days of September alone, Prime Minister Winston Churchill disclosed yesterday, 2,000 have been killed and 8,000 wounded.

Fierce Fights Raging

By mid-morning, sunshine drove off the mist and rain which had shrouded the English channel, and great numbers of German raiders, flying at more than 20,000 feet, crossed the southeast coast in the "Hell's Corner" region of Dover.

RAF defense planes swiftly roared up to meet them and fierce dogfights raged high in the clouds.

Yesterday's gale which scattered the German invasion armada along the French coast abated as the morning wore on, but a fresh breeze still chopped the waters and made it unlikely that the Germans would attempt to send their flat-bottomed troop barges across the channel today.

Plays Havoc With Balloons

The gale apparently dealt considerable havoc to the island kingdom's balloon defense system. Dispatches from Stockholm said 24 of the big floating "sky traps" used to snare German planes had drifted over Sweden and Denmark, disrupting power lines and damaging homes. Many electric trains in Sweden were delayed.

Hitler's high command reported that with clearing skies the 11-day old seige of London was being intensified. London's great airport at Croydon and other airdromes were bombed, the high command said, and Nazi raiders set new fires "everywhere." Glasgow and Liverpool also were reported attacked.

DNB, the official German news agency, asserted that last night's smashing blows had wiped out "entire blocks" in London and that one tremendous hit was scored on a subway.

Battle Is Spectacular

British RAF fighters clashed with a German bomber formation east of London shortly before the day's fifth alarm sounded at 12:43 p. m. (5:43 a. m., C.S.T.) and rooftop watchers in the heart of the capital could see a spectacular battle high in the skies.

Anti-aircraft "archies" along the Thames estuary gave the raiders a fiery welcome, and the follow-up attack by the RAF was reported to have driven the Germans back toward the channel.

On another battle, a large number of Nazi Messerschmitt 109's—fighting planes—met RAF Spitfires over the southeast coast, near Dover. Two German planes were listed destroyed.

While Hitler's bombers cracked down harder than ever on the stubbornly defending islanders, the RAF heaped new "large scale" destruction on the German invasion fleet, the British air ministry reported.

Barges Are Bombed

Barges and communications all along the Nazi-held coast were bombed, the air ministry said, and "certain targets" in Germany also felt the lash of explosive "sticks."

The air ministry disclosed, too, that RAF pilots, quietly and systematically, have sowed more than 30 different minefields in German-controlled waters from the Norwegian coast to the Bay of Biscay.

"It is known that thousands of tons of enemy shipping have been destroyed in these fields," the ministry said.

German bombs scored direct hits on three world-famed stores in Oxford street during the night, leaving wax dummies sprawled in the debris, and it was also disclosed that a bomb exploded on the lawn of 600-year-old Westminster abbey, close by the houses of parliament.

The overnight all clear signal did not sound until 6 a. m., and it was only an hour and 12 minutes later when the first daylight alarm was sounded.

Bombers Turned Back

Early in the night Royal Air Force fighters, streaking to the attack in winds said to have blown at times at 100 miles an hour, met great waves of Nazi bombers heading for London and were reported to have turned them back after bringing 17 of them down.

After that the weather abated slightly, the Germans swarmed back, keeping up their "death patrol" throughout the rest of the night.

The Berlin press outspokenly conjectured on how long the British population could stand up under the bombardment.

Berlin declared that British bombers crossing into Germany during the night were driven off by German pursuit planes.

Tax Debate Is Being Resumed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Senator Austin (R-Vt) opened fire today on a proposal to end all tax exemptions on government securities as a "revolutionary proposal and definite step towards national socialism."

As the Senate resumed debate on the excess profits tax bill, Austin sought to rally bipartisan opposition to the no-tax exemption rider proposed by Senator Brown (D-Mich).

Hits At Fundamentals

"This thing hits at the very fundamentals of our dual system of federal and state governments," Austin told reporters. "When you touch the purse strings of state and local governments, you have destroyed their powers to tax and to exist."

Two other controversial amendments also waited action. One by Senator Connally (D-Tex) would set up a stiff schedule of "war-time" income taxes to be effective when Congress declared war. The second by Senator Lee (D-Okla) proposed a broad system of "drafting wealth" in case of war.

La Follette Unopposed

Senator La Follette (Prog) was unopposed for renomination.

The Massachusetts primary's outstanding contest was for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and Attorney General Paul A. Dever won it handily over Francis E. Kelly, former lieutenant governor. For the U. S. Senate nomination, Senator Walsh, the incumbent, was unopposed on the Democratic ticket, and Henry Parkman, former Boston corporation counsel, was the unchallenged Republican choice.

The Republican state convention in Connecticut today faced the task of deciding a three-cornered contest for the U. S. senatorial nomination, as well as choosing a ticket for state offices. It was considered a foregone conclusion that Governor Raymond E. Baldwin and his associates on the victorious state slate of 1938 would be renominated.

"Eagle Squadron" Composed Of Americans To Battle For Britain Now Being Formed

LONDON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair announced today that Col. Charles Sweeney, American veteran of the World war Lafayette Escadrille, was organizing an "Eagle Squadron" which will be composed of American fliers who volunteer to fight for Britain.

The squadron, the minister told a luncheon gathering, will be similar to the Lafayette Escadrille which Sweeney helped organize during the World war when numerous Americans went to the aid of the Allies before United States participation in the conflict.

British Planes Strike Blows

ROME, Sept. 18 (U.P.) — British Royal Air Force planes, attacking behind the lines of Italian forces smashing eastward along the Egyptian coast, sank an Italian destroyer and a barge in the port of Benghasi, Libya, general headquarters said today.

Benghasi is a port on the Gulf of Sidra, Libya, and is a main base of supply for Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's North African campaign which, today's war communique said, already has taken his mechanized forces to Sidi Barrani.

The communique, describing the advance to Sidi Barani, said it was made against "tenacious British resistance" which had been "broken up."

Fought Over Desert

Dispatches from war correspondents with the Italian troops said that to reach Sidi Barrani Graziani's forces had to fight their way across a vast stretch of desert which the retiring British had transformed into a mine field. Because the British had destroyed water supplies, it was admitted, new wells had to be dug and water piped to Italian encampments.

Sidi Barrani, 75 miles inside Egypt from Libya, whence Graziani last week began his drive to cut off the Suez canal, puts the Italians at the head of an asphalt highway leading eastward along the coast to the big British base at Marsa Matruh and Alexandria, base of the British fleet in the eastern Mediterranean.

Rotary Chief Talks In City

"Let us not forget what has happened in Europe and what the situation is here . . . Shall we remain asleep" Frank S. Roberts of Breckenridge, district governor of Rotary International, declared in a talk before members of the Lubbock Rotary club in their luncheon program at Lubbock hotel today noon. "We are going to live in a changed world and America should be prepared."

"Begin a school of instruction around your own fireside . . . Call to the attention of the youth of this land the ideology of a free nation and free men," Roberts said . . . "There is a challenge facing us to defend Americanism, to resell Americanism, to resell the Declaration of Independence, to preach the principles of Americanism if we are to preserve this land of liberty of ours that our forefathers gave to us.

Select Least Hazardous

"The only right course for us left is to select that course which is the least hazardous in order to protect and maintain our security."

Roberts pointed to Rotary International's objectives and its program of engaging in the bringing about of a closer relationship, understanding and good will with South America and the Latin-American nations.

He declared "the ideology of Rotary must be a vital factor in the world of tomorrow in order that hatred that will be left after chaos shall be dissipated and Rotary's objectives will survive for years and years after we are gone."

Roberts was introduced to the club by President Overton Ribble. W. P. Clement presented a past president's pin to past President Charles J. Wagner prior to Roberts' talk.

Vivid Picture Of London's New Anti-Aircraft Barrage Is Given

Tons Of Steel Sent Into Sky

BY NED RUSSELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

ON THE THAMES ESTUARY, Near London, Sept. 18 — Big anti-aircraft guns guarding the airway to London belched yellow sheets of flame into the sky and a young officer looking up into the darkness said casually:

"There are about 45 tons of little pieces of steel up there now. God help anybody near them."

Give Vivid Picture

The roaring guns — seen at close range — give a vivid picture of how London's new type anti-aircraft barrage operates against German night bombers. To a ground observer it seemed as if curtains of splattering steel were being thrown into the night sky and, as I watched, at least one German thrust at the capital was smashed and turned back.

I stood with the gun operations officers who barked commands to the gun teams as seven blazing barrages were tossed into the air by 4.5 inch guns.

Shells Heard Bursting

Seconds after each blast the shells could be heard bursting high above the clouds, while scores of other guns blazed away in the distance.

Every battery in the area was throwing up heavy barrages, fired at a carefully predetermined spot in the sky thousands of yards away, where brigade headquarters knew by reports from the fighter command that German bombers were approaching.

Standing in the operations room we could sometimes hear the throbbing drone of a German bomber nearby. On a map before us crayon lines sketched the exact route and altitude of the plane, as well as of all other planes in the area.

When from the map it was known that no British fighter planes were in the battery's target area, brigade headquarters would suddenly snap telephone orders to operations room:

"Prepare for barrage number four." — Or three, or five, depending upon location of the raiders.

Then came orders sounding like a police broadcast: "Bearing, two eight one. Height, fourteen thousand. Fuse, one eight point one."

Guns were aimed, shell fuses set to explode 18.1 seconds after leaving the gun and the pieces loaded.

Brigade headquarters' order "fire!" was relayed to the gun crews by the battery officer. Four paralyzing cracks and a blinding flash were followed immediately by the sharp screech of the shells whining aloft.

"Reload!" — "Fire!" — Four more cracks, followed by the bursting "puff" as the explosives reached their target. Finally came the order, "cease fire."

After one particularly fierce barrage the operations room map showed that a threatened raid on London had been frustrated. The German raiders had crossed the southeast coast and headed for London, but a moment later they encountered the barrage line, thrown up as reports from observer corps guided the gunners, and made a sudden turn back across the channel.

These heavy shells, thousands of which are hurled into the air night and day during raids on the Thames estuary and London, are said to have a "hundred per cent destructive effect" when burst within 100 feet of a plane.

They are able to damage a plane severely within a radius of 500 feet. With scores of guns blazing away at a time, the batteries thus create a deadly mass of flying steel.

The men of this battery feel lucky if they get as much as two hours' undisturbed sleep at a time. Nevertheless they seem as keen and strong as they were two months ago when the opening of the aerial warfare put them on an almost constant alert. Most of the time they snatch their sleep in twenty-minute "cat naps" in tiny huts beside their guns.

Head Seemed Never To Cease Aching

His Work Was Almost Impossible Before Beginning Gly-Cas; Now Understands Why So Many Praise The Herbal Remedy

"Gly-Cas is one medicine of my experience that did not disappoint me," said Mr. W. E. Bell, 110 Fairmont St., Amarillo, Texas. "For the past five years I had been in a horrible condition from the effects of a stubborn case of constipation.

MR. W. E. BELL

Many times I was hardly able to work at all as my head seemed to never cease aching. My foods would not digest properly either and as sure as I ate, gas would form and crowd my heart until I could hardly get my breath. I tried my best to get relief from this miserable condition but met only with repeated failure . . . until I began Gly-Cas.

"I have taken only two boxes of this herbal Gly-Cas remedy and am feeling so much better," continued Mr. Bell. "I can now eat the foods I want and without fear of distressing effects following. I am not troubled with gas, bloating or heart palpitation now, am gaining in weight and strength and have had no more of those indescribable headaches. I really cannot praise Gly-Cas half enough for what it has done for me. I found it a deserving remedy and that is why I am so glad to recommend it to similar sufferers."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

Big Camporal Planned Here

Preparations will be made to enroll nearly 1,000 Boy Scouts in the annual South Plains council camporal on Texas Technological college campus Oct. 4-5, according to Jack O. Stone, council executive. The scouts will be guests at the Tech-Loyola of Los Angeles football game as the final event on their program.

Announcement that the Lions club of Lubbock would sponsor the event again this year was made Tuesday noon by Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, president. He named Vernice Ford chairman of the committee and Ford selected the following persons to assist him in preparations:

To Set Up "Tent City"

R. A. Burford and C. L. Minyard, equipment; Hurley Carpenter and Jim Kuykendall, tours and entertainment; J. W. Jackson, K. L. Riggs and J. R. Sanderson, camp marshals; Wayne Henly and R. B. McAlister, publicity, and R. L. Stovall and Walker Nichols, assistants.

Scouts from 20 counties will converge on the Tech campus Friday night, October 4, and set up a "tent city." The site will be directly across from the football field and Tech gym. An attractive program has been planned.

Saturday morning, field events will be held with 25 Lions club judges acting in 15 events. Scoring will be based on Scout craft, speed and accuracy in all events. Patrols scoring 1,700 to 2,000 points will gain "A" rating, 1,400 to 1,700 a "B" rating and 1,000 to 1,400 a "C" rating. Troops also will be rated.

At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon tours will be scheduled by bus to industrial points of the city. Picture shows will be offered as well as a visit to the Panhandle-South Plains fair on its final day's run.

At 6 o'clock, the Scouts will break camp and prepare to leave after the ball game. The leaders will accompany Scouts into the stadium.

Between halves of the game Scouts will stage their annual stunt aided by the Texas Tech band.

WASHINGTON Sept 18 (By Air Mail)—"What about Willkie?"

Well, maybe The Plainsman hasn't been talking to the right people, but he has yet to hear anyone say that the tousle-headed Indianan has much chance to be elected come November 7.

Even from this distance, we can hear the snorts of indignation on the part of both Republicans in Lubbock, and from the "economic royalists" and the "old line Democrats" who can't go for a third term or for the New Deal. But between Lubbock and Washington, and here in the capital, The Plainsman has talked to men and women from many places and in many walks of life and if present conditions continue until election day it'll be another four years for the gentleman from Hyde Park.

* * *

Don't misunderstand.

We have run into a number of people who are going to vote for Mr. Willkie and who hope he will win in November.

We have heard others say they don't know how they'll vote and that no matter which candidate is successful, the country will go right along all right.

But the vast majority are for Franklin Roosevelt—and whether for him, or not, forecast his election and the smashing of the third term precedent.

* * *

MANY angles enter into any prognostication of a Roosevelt victory, not the least of which center around European conditions and the immediate, apparent future of the conflict overseas.

Much Roosevelt support comes from the feeling that "we'd better not change horses in the middle of a turbulent stream."

Mr. Willkie, in the face of world-shaking news from London and Berlin, can't get a good press; a secondary headline on Page 1—even in the pro-Willkie papers—is the best his comments can draw. He definitely is "behind the 8 ball," through no fault of his own, when it comes to attracting attention. On the other hand, the Man in the White House is always top news, regardless of whom he may be.

Thus Mr. Willkie is under a terrific handicap with no indications of a let-up in conditions any time soon.

* * *

In order to keep in the papers and before the public, Mr. Willkie has been forced to make statements two or three times daily to the corps of correspondents who dog his every step.

Entertaining the press almost every hour of the day and night means many statements for publication—statements which must be changed from time to time as conditions change.

Thus Mr. Willkie frequently seems to be contradicting today what he said yesterday—a situation which makes the man in the street wonder if, after all, "the barefoot boy of Wall Street" really knows what the score is.

Willkie can't help all this—but it is hard on him, just the same.

* * *

THERE is no doubt that Mr. Willkie has slipped and slipped badly since his smashing, sensational kidnap of the GOP nomination in Philadelphia.

Some pundits, writing in the Washington papers, say that doesn't make any difference at the moment, because it still is too early for either candidate's campaign to strike a high pitch which would be difficult, or even impossible to hold until election day.

But regardless of opinions, the edge—by a big margin—continues to be Mr. Roosevelt's and unless Britain collapses, or, again to court the all but impossible, wins before election day, there's not much chance for a change of tenants in the $46,000,000 shanty at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue.

* * *

In addition to his other troubles, Mr. Willkie has aroused the ire privately expressed, of course, of the Republican party's bigwigs in the Congress.

Whether purposely or not, he has actively opposed, as the Republican presidential candidate, various pet policies of the GOPs on Capitol Hill, which makes for the party men supporting one thing and their candidate whooping it up for the opposite.

There is much grumbling among the Republicans in Congress and much cloak-room criticism of "that amateur who won't listen to anybody."

Consensus here is that Mr. Willkie would be much better off if he'd tie wise Joe Martin, of Massachusetts, the House Republican boss, to his arm and then do or say nothing not approved by Martin.

However, Mr. Willkie, like Andy Gump, says he wears no man's collar and he means it.

He's going to ride to victory—or to a fall—on his own hoss and nobody else's.

* * *

YESTERDAY, The Plainsman talked, off the record, to a Republican power in the House, and to a long-time GOP brass collar who was doing a little political conniving over here from nearby Maryland.

Neither was willing to say, even off the record, that Mr. Willkie is out of the running and that his defeat is a certainty.

Both, in fact, said the Indianan would run a good race—a much better one than Kansas' Landon in 1936—and would carry a good share of states.

But neither forecast his election and both gloomily wished the GOP standard-bearer would play a little more ball with the party.

* * *

On the train coming up here, The Plainsman talked with five different railroad men, all but one members of the brotherhood and the other a traffic executive of a major line.

All said Roosevelt would get the vast majority of railroad labor votes—perhaps as much as 80 per cent. They feel, too, that is an indication of labor's stand, in general.

Meeting in Washington at this time is the annual convention of the International Union of Teamsters, an AFL affiliate—not a CIO organization.

Every mention of the Roosevelt name has sent thunderous cheers ringing through Constitution Hall—which is a pretty good indication of the unlikelihood of any defection of labor at the polls.

Mr. Willkie has the overwhelming majority of the "economic royalists," but Mr. Roosevelt has the other folks—and they're in the majority!

* * *

MOST striking thing in connection with the presidential campaign is the evident fact that the scene has changed since the triumphant march of Willkie to the nomination in Philadelphia.

During and immediately after the convention, there was much discussion of Willkie, the man, his background, his talents and his abilities.

Then, his support seemed to be based upon Willkie as the man to bring order out of the economic chaos wrought by New Deal spending. A fine business man, an American of the old order, a fellow who had come up from nothing to a position of great power and trust, Willkie, according to his supporters, was the man to supplant the wild-eyed professors and parlor pinks with good, old Yankee business sense.

But the picture is different now.

Those whom The Plainsman has found supporting Willkie are supporting him on the basis that:

1. No President should have a third term.

2. Roosevelt is driving us into a morass of debt that we'll never creep out of until a change of political philosophy takes over.

3. Roosevelt is driving us into war because of his almost blind love for Britain, or,

4. Roosevelt has done away with many of the inherent rights of the American citizen and will seize more authority if re-elected.

In short most Willkie support is based upon a feeling of opposition to Roosevelt and his political and economic philosophies, rather than because of a belief that Willkie the man, is the best fitted for the job.

Pro-Willkieites to whom this writer has talked are first anti-Rooseveltians and would lend their support as quickly to one Roosevelt opponent as they would to another.

* * *

The railroad men, the waiters, the cab drivers, the politicians, the newspapermen, the members of Congress, the train passengers and the others to whom The Plainsman has talked seemed not one whit interested in party labels, indicating that party politics, as we've always known them, have all but disappeared in this campaign.

All four of the candidates, Willkie, Roosevelt, Wallace and McNary, have themselves crossed and re-crossed party lines and the rank and file don't seem to regret, or criticize the situation.

The campaign is pitched principally on New Deal and anti-New Deal and a wee bit upon Roosevelt, the humanitarian, or the national socialist who'd like to be dictator (depending upon the individual's view) and Willkie, the successful, hard-headed business man with the Horatio Alger background, or the fair-haired son of predatory corporations and giant utilities who would lead us back to the Harding-Coolidge era of might makes right.

* * *

IT'S nearly two months until election day and there are no accepted seers who can correctly forecast the future.

But if The Plainsman were a gambling man, he'd say it's Roosevelt, two-to-one at this writing.

And that's that.

Memory Of The Moon

YESTERDAY: Pedro inquires about John and John writes about Pedro. Constance feels she is being honest with neither of them. Reexamining her agreement with John she realizes what a spot she is in.

CHAPTER 23
"Try To Understand"

Even the fire, which had died to coals, blazed to new life with Pedro's return. Flames leaped with the draught from the door, to throw bronze lights on the dark face, to reflect flames in the dark eyes.

Constance ran an inquiring finger along the plane of his cheek and wondered if all things unattainable became increasingly precious.

"You can't borrow without security, Pedro," she chided.

"Michael hasn't anyone ever told you that you can't bargain with love? Child, there's no security in it, nothing but loneliness when you're away; loneliness and doubt and . . . Michael, how could I talk steer beef when I was thinking of you? I was afraid I'd try to sell some tough hombre on a lot with Irish eyes and skin that rated ninety-nine per cent cream."

He released her to build up the fire. The logs caught, blazed, filled the room with golden light, as Pedro's presence there seemed to fill it with life and vitality.

"What have you been doing while I've been away?" he demanded.

Constance remembered. "Thinking, Pedro."

"Too much of anything is dangerous," he chided, and leaned forward to study her—"what's wrong?"

Constance sat thinking, sat watching Pedro. She was distrusting John Rasckthorne as she had previously distrusted Pedro. Why? Was she so fickle, so vacillating, she swung to the man in whose presence she was?

Two months ago she had thought, "It is Pedersen and I against the Taylors and the Cabrillos, with John to back me." Now she thought, "It is Pedersen, Peter Senior and I, against John and the Cabrillos, with Pedro to back me."

Until she was sure she was not alone in this fight for El Cabrillo; until she knew, without question, who would back her to win, she couldn't speak; she couldn't risk disloyalty.

"I can't tell anyone, Pedro," she answered slowly.

"That's all right, providing it doesn't burden you too much. Why not tell me hypothetically?"

Constance wondered if she could break down the essentials and put them into a few words.

"Pedro," she asked, "what is victory? Attainment of a thing, a person, a condition, or what?"

"To me, the victory lies in the battle. No one can defeat you if you come out of the battle knowing you've given your best. You can lose every earthly possession, every earthly love, but as long as you know you have played the game to the best of your ability, you're not defeated."

In the deep sigh which came from Constance, came also her doubts and fears. "Thank you, Pedro." She stretched her hand to him. "That's what I needed to know."

"And I think," added Pedro, holding her hand tightly, "that Michael Mahoney wouldn't count a battle lost until he had been slammed into the bastile and the key was turned on him. Even then his luck might turn at the zero hour."

"Now let's talk business," suggested Constance. "I'll have Juliano serve dinner in here; provided he'll allow us to remain alone without a duenna. Poor Juliano, every time he sees me in slacks, he heads for the chapel to say a dozen prayers for my soul."

Pedro was home and all was right with the world.

Quickened Pace

All was right with John Rasckthorne. Constance wondered how she could have thought John, her friend, faithful, ever-patient John, would have taken advantage of their agreement. It was ludicrous. They'd find a way to keep the ranch in the hands of the Cabrillos. Now all effort must be concentrated on making it a success.

Pedro was home. He arrived just in time to save Constance from something, she was never sure just what it was. The last round-up threatened to be a funeral affair. Little brown men rode sadly out of El Cabrillo, herding the last beef cattle to market. Pedro rode with them. They all returned together, in high spirits.

Dolores, watching, shook her head. "Pedro," she sighed, "from his hand he can make them eat."

Life on El Cabrillo quickened its pace. False spring came and the fields were planted. The Dutch Belted heard moved into the first quarters, ready, and immediately started giving the ranch its first feeling of a dairy.

Truckloads of lowing, protesting cows came in from the south to stumble down the runways, look about with resigned eyes, then sniffing food, amble over to feed bins and accept El Cabrillo as home.

Even the Cabrillo men grew contented.

"Senorita," Francisco, a milker, called one evening, "look, Saint Channel Daisy, she iss give increase. Since I, Francessco, have fed thees Guernsey herds, they have grow in thees mielk and thees butter fat. Manuelo, he who hath thos Dotch Belted, he has not soch butter fat." And his brown face beamed with pride above the starched white collar of his uniform.

Now it remained only for the railroad to be completed so that they

SUPPORT THE GOOD WILL TRIPS!

There seems reason to doubt at times whether Lubbock fully appreciates the value of the good neighbor trips each year for the purpose of publicizing the annual Panhandle-South Plains fair.

As in the past several years, four such trips are included on this year's program. Three still lie ahead—including one Thursday of this week and two next week, on Tuesday and Thursday.

Programs are given in the public schools of practically every one of the more than 40 towns included on various itineraries. In many cases, downtown programs are given also. But in the schools, souvenirs are distributed and free tickets are left for children's days at the fair. In this manner, something like 25,000 children are contacted personally. Through them, news of the fair is carried into most of the homes. The only way to make possible a real appreciation of what that means to the fair would be to cancel the trips one year. We don't believe many Lubbock business men would want that to happen.

Furthermore, the trips have a value more lasting than to the fair alone. Every person attracted here for the fair is apt to come back again. It is apt to make a regular Lubbock visitor of him.

Therefore the trips are very much worth while. They are so much worth while that there should be no difficulty in filling out the roster of any of the trips that might be planned.

U. S. Seeks To Break Anglo-Dutch Rubbery Monopoly

Other Sources Combed In Defense Drive

By BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — Although it has been more or less lost sight of in the press of more spectacular happenings, the government's drive to re-establish the rubber - growing industry in Latin America may eventually rate as one of the most important events of the year.

Catton

Launched as part of the hemisphere defense program, the venture is really one which the Agriculture Department has been plugging for 20 years. If completed along the lines now projected, it would not merely mean a strategically safe source for U. S. rubber imports; it would break the Anglo-Dutch Far Eastern rubber monopoly and cut Uncle Sam's annual rubber bill in half.

Incidentally, it would probably mean more exports for the United States, by vastly increasing Latin America's purchasing power.

Perennial Request Granted

Every year, for a long time the Agriculture Department has been asking Congress to finance the experimental and research work which must be done before the industry can be re-established in the New World. Each year Congress has turned the request down.

This year, however, the request came up just after the conquest of Holland, when Congress was beginning to worry about the future of the Dutch East Indies and the Malay peninsula, whence 90 per cent of the U. S. rubber supply now comes. So $500,000 was voted, and the department went to work.

Three research expeditions are now in the field; one along the Amazon and two ranging from Columbia to Yucatan. Local governments are giving full co-operation and are chipping in to defray various local expenses. Reports from the field expeditions won't be ready until some time this winter.

If the war should choke off the existing rubber supply within the next year or so, none of this will be of any use in the emergency. What the experts have in mind is a long-range program which probably couldn't begin to have an effect on the world rubber market for eight or 10 years.

Cost Would Be Lowered

What it could do then, however, would be plenty.

British and Dutch growers, secure in their monopoly, have let themselves get stuck with what industry would call an obsolete plant. Production on their Far Eastern plantations generally runs between 200 and 400 pounds per acre. New strains giving much greater yields have been developed, but since it takes a good five years to get a new plantation into production, the Far Eastern growers have gone along with the old low-yield strains.

In the New World, however, the story would be different. Once the best soils and climates were found, and the proper disease-resistant varieties of rubber tree selected, the Latin American plantations could start from scratch with yields of around 1200 pounds per acre.

Best guess right now is that the Latins could sell profitably at 10 cents a pound—as compared with the current level of around 20 cents for the Far East.

A good deal of research of New World rubber possibilities has already been done—chiefly by Goodyear, with stations in Costa Rica and Panama, and by Ford, with a plantation in Brazil. Until June the Department of Agriculture could do little more than keep in touch with what these privately employed experts were doing; now, however, with plenty of money available, it is really getting to work.

It is estimated the United States will reach its population peak in 1980, with 158,335,000 persons.

Memory Of The Moon

could bring in the rest of the herds and start El Cabrillo Rancho on its road to security.

Meanwhile Constance and Pedro rode. The hills were no longer sear brown but the tender young green of new grass, and the canyons were filled with mauve mists. Purple rain clouds capped the peaks to shed silver streaks on the lowlands.

The poppies came like golden coins scattered by the careless hands of a Cabrillo, or heaped in mounds flanked by purple lupin.

Constance, watching the dark quiet man who rode beside her, found her own likeness to this land. Something new, tender and selfless was growing in her heart veiled from maturing by a promise given in the winter of a strange country.

"Who said the sands of time ran swiftly?" demanded Pedro, as they sat in the shelter of a live-oak while the spring shower peppered their retreat. "Michael, why three years?"

Constance spring up and walked to the edge of their shelter, then turned back. "Because I promised, Pedro. You said, that first day, 'how explain love to one who has never loved.' How did I know you couldn't bargain with love?"

He was beside her, was holding her arm tightly. "You made some such bargain when you were east," he stated. "Didn't you know then?"

"Oh, Pedro, how could I tell it wasn't an infatuation, some romantic dream, propinquity . . . Pedro, how do I know now that it isn't?"

"Don't you know?"

"I Didn't Think'

The rain droned on the trees and the rocks. Constance lifted clear eyes to Pedro's. "That night I came back; then when you returned from your trip; those two short times I spent in your arms, I didnt think. I didn't want to think, it was enough to be . . . to be there with you. That's why I asked you to promise there'd be 'no more of this.'"

"Love isn't a matter of the brain," Pedro protested. "Marriages that are thought out are loveless affairs. God knows, Michael, I didn't want to love you. I wanted El Cabrillo more than anything in the world, until I met you, and then I couldn't fight you to take it away from you.

"What I should do is lift you by this mop of blue-black hair, drag you to Beachport, fling you down before the magistrate and say—'come on, say the necessary. I want this woman bound to me so she won't be able to go out bargaining with love.' And then drag you home . . . to our home, Michael."

Constance knew in the next moment that was what she wished he could do. All of her independence fled; her desire to prove herself to the world; her responsibility to the family. Even El Cabrillo was no longer home. Anyplace with Pedro would be home.

He released her suddenly. "Damn civilization," he snapped, mounted, and waited for her.

She saw then it was no longer raining.

They rode silently down to the ranch, their horses lifting mincing feet from the puddles; the puddles giving the gold of the sun back with doubled radiance.

Constance was thinking, it's too late now. I can't sell out. I can't do anything. I'm tied for the three years. I owe that to everyone.

"Pedro," she rode close to him, "please try to understand."

Some of the sadness she had seen in his eyes, that first evening at Marias was there, disappointment?

"I am trying, Michael," he answered. "I have been, right along. I can't understand why, if you love me, you don't trust me enough to tell me everything.

"I won't ask you further. As I said, it's your battle. But from now on . . . it's up to you." He leaned forward to look down into the valley. "What's going on down there . . . at the ranch?"

Through a break in the willows Constance saw the sun glinting down on the wet hood of a car. Don's car. Behind it was her own little coupe.

"Oh dear," she breather, "it . . . it looks as though the family had arrived. Oh dear," she said again, and rode forward, leaving a completely puzzled Pedro following.

The Family had arrived. Constance knew it the moment she saw Juliano's face. It was radiant. He bestowed upon her a most superior lifting of eyebrows as he made the announcement.

"The Cabrillos," he said, loftily, "have come to their home . . . to live."

To live . . . the Cabrillos.

"Constance!"

John Raskthorne stepped out of the door and took Constance in his arms. "Darling, I couldn't stay away from you a minute longer, I—" He looked up, aware only then of Pedro.

Constance looked also. The contempt she saw in the eyes of young Peter Taylor seemed to paralyze her tongue.

Vigorous Flavor

BECAUSE IT'S MOUNTAIN GROWN!

Folger's comes from tropical mountains of Central America, "the world's coffee growing Paradise," where bright sunshine, air, and rich volcanic soil produce a miracle in coffee flavor. In fact, Folger's is so rich that thousands of women say you can use one-fourth less and actually enjoy full-flavored coffee. Serve Folger's for breakfast tomorrow and enjoy a vigorous flavor no lowland grown coffee can possibly match!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—When the Germans tell you that they have a great surprise in store for use against the British, and the British admit the peak of air war is not yet, it adds up, for the military expert, to the probable use of poison gas in the near future.

And you can bet one gas that's coming will be deadly, almost invisible phosgene.

If the Germans use it first—and they were the first to use chlorine in the World war—air experts expect they will drop it from the sky.

The purpose would not be to decimate the population as so many people seem to think, but to spread panic and fear when panic and fear are already taking hold of the civilian population.

Phosgene would be the favorite for this purpose for these reasons:

1. It is almost invisible, and therefore will have a terrifying effect on civilians subjected to the first attacks. People will appear to drop dead like flies for no apparent reason.

2. It is easy to store in bomb-like containers and drop from the air.

3. It is highly adaptable to use in the British Isles at this season, because the atmosphere is often hazy, almost foggy. The thin white cloud of the stuff will be invisible under these conditions.

(Phosgene is no good in very wet weather for water absorbs and dissipates it more rapidly than air.)

4. The Germans know that the British population has been lax in their use of gas masks.

I have it from well-informed military observers that both the Germans and the British have big stores of gases for use under desperate conditions—the Germans for the peak of their air attack against the islands, and the British to use against land invasion.

As protection, the British authorities have already distributed 30,000,000 gas masks among their people. They have rigged up thousands of underground anti-gas shelters. One gas-proof subway shelter in London can house 8,000 people.

Phosgene is ideal for the Germans to use at the peak of their air war because it has all deadly effects and mysterious presence attributed to war gases in popular fiction, and not because it is widely destructive of human life. It disappears too quickly to be of maximum value as a weapon against trained troops.

But as a panic producer among civilians it is highly effective. Some experts figure one bomb of phosgene would produce more panic and fear among civilians than 100 actual explosive bombs.

The stuff is a simple combination of chlorine—the purifier you get in drinking water in minute quantities—and carbon monoxide. It is easy to compress into a liquid, and upon release becomes a gas.

Slight concentrations smell like fresh-cut corn in a field. Heavy concentrations smell like a silo full of fermenting ensilage. When a man smokes a cigaret in the presence of phosgene, he experiences a sharp metallic taste in his mouth.

In an area as big as a room 10 feet square, a lethal dose of phosgene is one-third of an ounce, if the victim is exposed thirty minutes. In higher concentrations, of course, it is quickly fatal. Drops of watery material form in lung tissues, stop oxygen, and the victim suffocates.

It is well suited to use against civilian populations also because victims would be likely to run or exert themselves. The slightest exertion produces death almost immediately.

Phosgene is known to all military forces. The common gas mask is one hundred per cent effective against it.

Military experts point to recent statements of the German high command accusing the British of dropping poisonous material in grain fields. They suggest the Germans are preparing to use gas and are "justifying" its use in advance—just as Hitler "justified" wholesale raids on London in advance by accusing the British of barbarous bombing of civilian populations.

Lubbock Farm Has Plaited Carrots

A three-prong carrot that grew into a natural several-whorl plait was exhibited by Mrs. C. D. Ellison of route 1.

Another carrot, having five prongs, also showed a tendency to plait, but did not quite achieve it.

The Ellison farm is a mile and a half east of Lubbock, and all sorts of native truck are grown.

Much of the earth's crust is made up of materials which once lived upon the surface, in the form of animals and plants.

Booster Trip Set Thursday

Reservations were being received at the chamber of commerce this morning for the second of four trips Thursday to publicize the Panhandle-South Plains fair Sept. 30-Oct. 5, according to officials of the fair association.

The itinerary will include towns north, northeast and east of Lubbock, and will follow the general plan of similar trips of the past, according to George Dale and Ralph Trolinger, co-chairmen. Souvenirs and free tickets for children's days at the fair will be distributed and Wiley and Gene, radio team, will be featured on entertainment programs at each stop.

Reservations Urged

Those desiring to make the trip were asked to call their reservation to the chamber of commerce this afternoon if possible. If that is not convenient, they should be at the city hall before 7 o'clock Thursday morning and provision probably can be made for them.

Itinerary for the trip follows: leave Lubbock City hall 7 a. m.; Abernathy, 7:25 to 7:30; Hale Center, 8 to 8:15; Plainview, 8:40 to 9:05; Lockney, 9:30 to 9:50; Floydada 10:10 to 10:30; Matador, 11:30 to 1 p. m., lunch; Roaring Springs, 1:15 to 1:25; Dickens, 1:55 to 2:1; Spur 2:25 to 3 p. m.; Crosbyton, 4 to 4:15; Ralls, 4:30 to 4:45; Lorenzo, 5 to 5:15; Idalou, 5:30 to 5:45; return to Lubbock 6 p. m.

Drunk Driving Case Scheduled In Court

A drunk driving case, wherein J. P. Bowen stands charged by indictment, probably will be called this afternoon in 99th district court of Judge E. L. Pitts, it was announced at noon by court officials.

A jury will be selected.

There was no action tried this morning in that chamber. Bowen, it formerly had been announced, was to be tried before the court, but the state asked a jury.

A jury late Tuesday night hopelessly became deadlocked on the issue of guilt in the case of Minnie Freeman, charged with theft over $50, and was dismissed. It unofficially was said 11 members voted for conviction. The case probably will be reset for the week of Oct. 7, when several other criminal actions are to be heard.

Oil Merger Is Being Hinted

TULSA, Sept. 18 (AP) — A merger that would put Tide Water Associated Oil company into the "big ten" of the industry was reported being discussed today.

Reliable sources declared Skelly Oil company and other oil and gas interests controlled by J. Paul Getty might be consolidated with Tide Water.

Has Controlling Interest

Getty has the controlling interest in Mission corp., a holding company, and Pacific Western Oil corp. Mission controls Skelly and also owns 17 per cent of Tide Water's common.

While Skelly and Tide Water officials were answering queries with "no comment," Getty is known to favor a consolidation.

Skelly operates refineries in the mid-continent and its production division is active in the mid-continent, gulf coast and Rocky mountain areas.

Tide Water, operating refineries on the east and west coasts, needs more crude for its processing plants. W. G. Skelly of Tulsa heads both Skelly and Mission, while W. F. Humphreys of San Antonio is president of Tide Water.

Gasoline demand dropped off during the week, mid-continent refineries reported, but the seasonal call for heating oils was starting early.

One break showed in the crude oil price structure. The Root Petroleum company posted a reduction of 10 cents a barrel for oil in buys in nine South Arkansas pools. The company said sales of its refined products had declared approximately 20 cents a barrel.

Fine Is Paid Here By Brownfield Man

Police said this morning a 37-year-old Brownfield man paid a drunkenness fine and assumed costs of damages to cars owned by E. T. Daniell, 55, of Idalou and Bill Edwards of 1410 Avenue R.

The Daniell car was struck at noon Tuesday at Broadway and Texas avenue, causing it to be knocked against the Edwards car.

A charge of tampering with a motor vehicle may be lodged in county court against a young man, 17 or 18 years old, who figured in removal of a machine belonging to a man named Lemmons, who lives near Lubbock.

The sheriff's department erroneously gave the name of the owner as Simmons Tuesday, said Sheriff Tom Abel. The car was not stolen, but had been driven from the Lemmons garage to a pasture Lemmons owns nearby.

O. E. Welch of Slaton reported someone had stolen a guard off his automobile's bumper.

A missing 15-year-old girl was sought for Lamesa authorities. Information said she had "caught a ride" with a truck driver en route to Fort Worth.

A bicycle was recovered by night prowl car patrolmen of the police.

First Assembly For Junior High Held

First assembly program of the year was held at Junior High school this morning for the high seventh and the eighth grades. The program was composed of singing and band selections centering around the theme of patriotism.

As the assembly opened the students were led in the pledge of allegiance to the flag by Charlie Graham, Garlan Casey, Clifton Casey, and Bobby Williams, scouts of troop 11. Mrs. Isabel Garrison, teacher of Social Science gave a brief explanation of the technique of the salute to the flag, and the meaning of the pledge of allegiance to it.

Following a short concert by the Junior High band, under the direction of Joe Haddon, the students were led in the singing of patriotic songs by Mrs. E. E. Key, music teacher. Songs selected for the group singing were "God Bless America," "America," and "America The Beautiful."

Only three oceans now are generally recognized: Atlantic, Pacific and Indian.

Delay Puts Hitler In A Dangerous Spot

Vital Problem Will Be Faced

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Herr Hitler hasn't been deprived of his chance at invasion of England this year by the gale which turned the bad tempered channel into a rolling, pitching harbinger of the permanent bad weather to come, but his delay in striking certainly has maneuvered him into a dangerous position.

Yesterday I expressed the view that this wasn't the autumnal break which marked the end of good weather (as many Britons eagerly hoped) but that more fine days could be expected and that the fuehrer would attempt invasion if he saw an opening. Later British Premier Churchill emphasized a similar belief in addressing his House of Commons.

Faces Vital Problem

However, while the Nazi chief probably will get further smiling skies, his vital problem now that the fall weather is at hand will be to find enough of them to give him time to push one of the greatest military operations of history to a successful conclusion. It's like this:

Supposing for the sake of argument that Hitler has been able, in the face of violent resistance, to land a big army on English soil and establish bridge-heads for the clearance of supplies from the continent. That's only a start. You can't just toss an expeditionary force up through the surf onto the shore and then say:

"Well, gesundheit, men. Lots of luck. I'll see you later."

Mountains of supplies — equipment of all sorts, munitions and food — must pour in after these troops in a steady stream. So must reinforcements.

Might Be Stranded

But just as the big army has been got ashore there comes the final break in the weather. The fogs descend — the channel is standing on end. What happens to the vital Nazi communications with the continent?

In short, they are likely to be so badly disorganized as to leave a German army stranded under most inhospitable surroundings if I know the temper of Cedric the Saxon. That would mean catastrophe for Hitler.

Then too, there is much more to getting troops across the channel or the North sea than loading them on their little barges and pushing them out onto the deep. Those boats, packed with troops in full fighting kit, must run the gantlet of the British fleet, the Royal Air Force and English land batteries before they even arrive in the shallow, pitching waters under the sheer cliffs of Dover, or where will you.

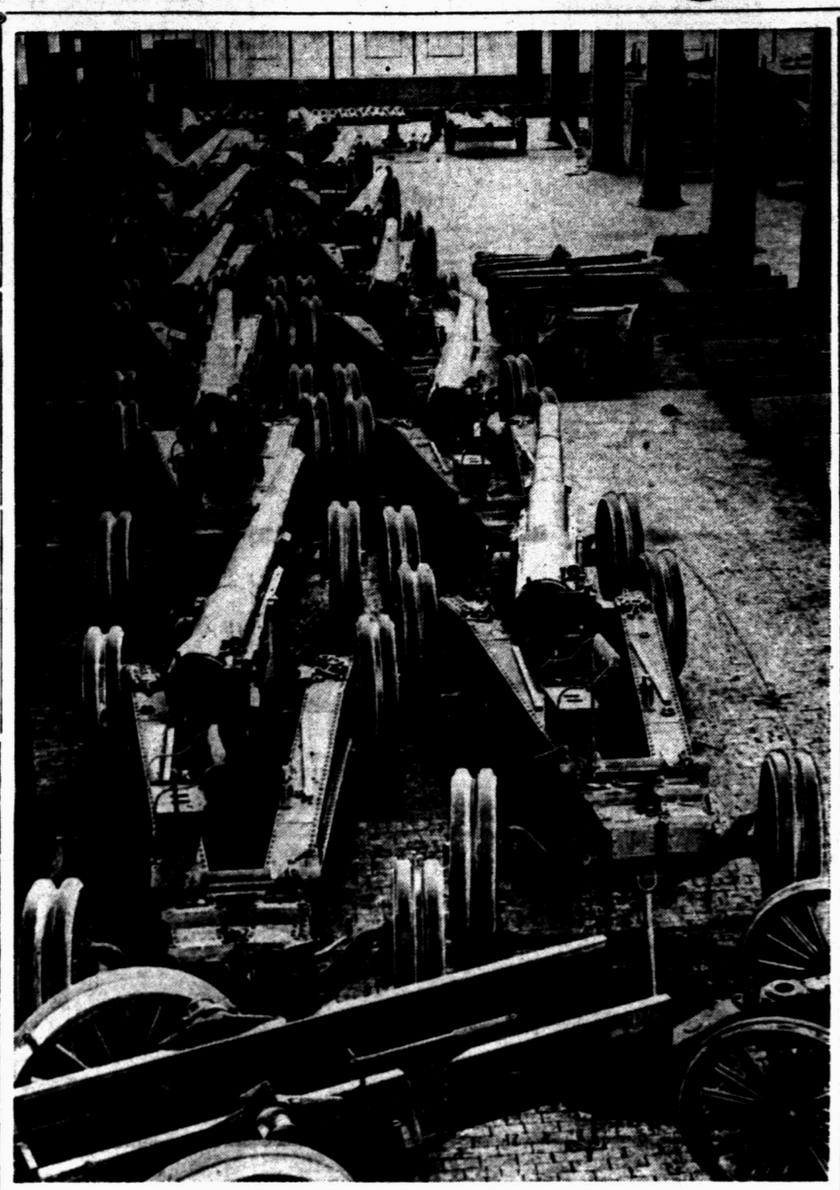

How About Seasickness?

That in itself presents a tough picture, but there is another almost fantastic aspect of this situation. Were you ever seasick? Weren't you wholly incapacitated and praying for death? Sure you were.

I've managed to be seasick on most of the seven seas, and I claim that one can get sicker quicker on the English channel than on most any other body of water. The racing tidal currents make a ship pitch and roll like a bucking bronco.

There is nothing more sure than that if Herr Hitler sends an army out onto those waves, great numbers of the men will arrive on the English shores in a near helpless condition.

The idea of sending a sea-sick army up against the British shore defenses must be giving the German high command one of their big worries.

CALLING UP THE RESERVES—Scores of Uncle Sam's big field guns, built too late to see service in the World War, may yet have their chance to speak up in defense of democracy. Hidden away in obscure depots since 1917-18, they are now being modernized as part of the national defense program. Above are pictured some of them at the Erie Ordnance Depot, near Port Clinton, Ohio. The reclaimed artillery, 155-mm. cannon and 240-mm howitzers, are now highly mobile, being mounted on new rubber-tired carriages designed to be drawn by speedy artillery trucks and tractors.

Land Accepted As Camp Site

An 80-acre tract of land 12 miles northeast of Silverton in Briscoe county was accepted by the executive board of South Plains Boy Scout council at a meeting here Tuesday night for development as a camp site.

The land was presented to the Scouts by John Haynes of Silverton in memory of his mother, Mamie Haynes and will be known as the "Mamie Haynes Boy Scout Camp."

Investigation Made

Abounding in water, timber and located in the big canyon just off the caprock, the camp offers an ideal site for the Scouts, a committee of three, including James M. Willson of Floydada, Jack O. Stone, council executive, and A. R. Nesbit, jr., of Plainview, reported to the board after an investigation.

Presided over by Dr. F. B. Malone, president, those present at the meeting included Clifford B. Jones, K. N. Clapp, Alex McDonald, Sam Henry, L. R. Grimes, E. C. Kuyk[illegible]dall, R. P. Vail, Isadore Garr[illegible] J. O. Ellsworth and George A. Sim[illegible]mons, all of Lubbock; J. Edd McLaughlin, of Ralls; John Jenkins and G. E. Welch, both of Slaton, P. O. Smith, of Whiteface, Bob Hooper, of Plainview, Nesbit and Stone.

Budget Is Approved

The executive board also approved the 1941 budget as submitted by Budget Committee Chairman McLaughlin. The district finance chairman will take the budget back to their respective towns to raise this fall.

Grimes reported on the council's activities, coming events including the camporal at Texas Tech Oct. 4-5 and the Boy Scout exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, Sept. 30-Oct. 5. The membership campaign was discussed by Clapp, who told the board that an increase of 41 per cent had been noted in the Cub ranks, 15 per cent in Scout ranks and 26 per cent in the leaders' ranks thus far this year.

Other reports included those on training by Henry, the Lubbock finance campaign by Simmons. Formal approval to employment of J. C. Grimes of Plainview, as new field executive was given.
