Barry Thinks Cohorts Have Done Him Damage

LITTLE GIRL ON A TALL HORSE—Gini Sealy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sealy, is shown as she practiced for the rodeo parade tomorrow. A number of riding clubs and sheriff's posses will participate in the parade which will start at 30th Street and El Paso Ave. at 4 p.m. The route will be east on 30th to Ave. Z; north on Z to 26th Street; east on 26th to the square where the entire parade will circle th square, leaving the square on Ave. S; up Ave. S to 30th Street; and then west to El Paso. Those taking part in the parade have been asked to assemble at 30th and El Paso Ave. at 3 p.m.

Seeking A Few Strays

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Driving his delegates toward a first-ballot nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater stopped along the way today to try to "put my rope" on a few strays. He also bemoaned the damage he thinks fellow Republicans have done him.

With no morning session in the GOP Convention, Goldwater dropped in on the Oregon delegation and told them that Democrats "can do no more damage to me than some Republicans have already done."

"Republicans," he added, "should have discussed the failing of the Johnson administration, not whether Goldwater wanted to drop a nuclear bomb."

The backers of Gov. William W. Scranton formed their faltering stop-Goldwater drive for one more try to stop the Goldwater bandwagon's swift flight toward the presidential nomination.

Scranton's backers plan to try to hammer three amendments into the carefully constructed platform bearing the Arizona conservative's endorsement.

It likely will be their last real stand before Wednesday night's balloting for the presidential nomination, and they pulled a surprise maneuver to try to crack Goldwater's iron grip on the convention proceedings.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., disclosed they had called on one of the party's elder statesman, former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, to offer the Scranton forces' version of a nuclear arms control amendment.

This proposal was aimed at Goldwater's statement that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander should have greater supervision over small, tactical nuclear weapons.

It proposed to put the party on record as reaffirming "the historical constitutional precept of civilian control over the military." It went on to say that "the authority to use America's nuclear weapons belongs only to the President of the United States."

An agreement was reached by convention officials to spend an hour on this and a proposed change in the civil rights plank approved by the Goldwater-dominated platform committee.

But Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a Scranton backer, thought so little of the prospects of success that he asked for only 10 minutes to offer a proposal to denounce "extremists."

The expected platform battle seemed likely to provide about the last gasp of the Scranton effort to head off Goldwater. The Arizona senator claimed 800 votes for a first-ballot nomination Wednesday. He needs only 655.

COPS FINANCE HER HEART SURGERY — Nadia Denis, 7, of Brussels, Belgium, underwent heart surgery at Houston's Texas Children's Hospital because of the generosity of police officers in two countries. Fellow officers of Belgium police Sgt. Gerard Denis, left, Nadia's father, raised money to send her to Houston for the surgery. The Houston Police Officers Assn. took up a collection to meet expenses. With Nadia and her father is Capt. Earl Maughmer Jr., of the Houston Police Officers Assn. (AP Wirephoto)

Texans Are Leaders In New Cheer

By GARTH JONES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Texas Republicans are teaching the party a new political cheer.

It goes "viva-ole."

Nobody knows exactly why or how. But it caught on the first day of the party's national convention and spread quickly throughout the mammoth convention barn called the Cow Palace.

Here's how it goes:

Some strong-lunged individual, usually a Texas delegate, shouts: "Viva," with the accent on the first syllable.

Then, everyone who wants to play shouts in return: "ole" which actually sounds like "o-lay" in the best Spanish bullfight manner.

Then everyone claps and whistles and stamps his feet.

When the excitement dies down, somebody else shouts: "Viva," and here we go again.

"It doesn't really mean anything," said Texas delegate Harry Trippet of Waco, who seemed a little hoarse after his first day's efforts. "I do know the cheer or whatever you call it started four years ago during a state convention in El Paso. I guess it was the result of a lot of delegates making a trip across the Rio Grande to Mexico the night before.

"It just means that everybody is happy and everything is going fine."

Other Texas delegates said they like the cheer because it arouses enthusiasm and is different. Still others, more academically inclined, noted that "viva" is a Mexican greeting similar to "hurrah" and "ole" is a bullfight compliment yelled when a matador completes a stylish maneuver the fans like.

The 56-member Texas delegation spent considerable time Monday delivering Republican "ole's" for three of their favorite state leaders. The impromptu demonstrations provided rare spots of enthusiasm during a long schedule of speeches and introductions.

First, the Texas delegates unexpectedly produced 56 large blue and gold campaign posters and waved them overhead when George Bush of Houston, candidate for the Senate, was introduced. The cheering and standing applause went on for several minutes.

The second Texas demonstration came at night when Rep. Ed Foreman, R-Tex., was introduced. There was a "viva-ole" series, blasts from an air horn in the nearby Georgia section, the organist played "The Eyes of Texas," and Harry Bass of Dallas proudly waved a large Texas flag on a long pole. Other delegations picked up the enthusiasm and gave Foreman applause for about five minutes.

Bass quickly furled the Texas flag and put it back under the chairs in the Texas section because convention etiquette says only the United States flag will be displayed on a staff while in session.

About an hour later the Texans did a repeat demonstration for Mrs. Ike Kampmann of San Antonio, national committeewoman and a member of the convention program committee. The performance left her giggling with delight during most of her presentation of a gavel to Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield, the keynote speaker.

"If you think those were demonstrations, just wait until (Sen.) John Tower gets up to second Barry Goldwater's nomination on Wednesday," promised a Texan.

Say Mikoyan Being Kicked Up Stairs

MOSCOW (AP)—Anastas I. Mikoyan, first deputy premier, is reported to be preparing to move into the Kremlin front office.

His appointment to the largely ceremonial post of president of the Soviet Union is to be announced this week during the session of the Soviet Parliament, according to uncontirmed reports in Moscow and Cairo.

The shift, apparently marking the final stage of the 68-year-old Bolshevik's public career, was expected to set off a chain reaction in the Kremlin hierarchy.

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, currently touted as Premier Khrushchev's heir apparent, would probably benefit from such a move.

Brezhnev, 57, is a member of the all-powerful Communist party Presidium and his role in party affairs was greatly enhanced in June 1963 by his appointment to the key Central Committee secretariat.

Giving up the presidency would free him from protocol duties to devote full time to building his position in the party organization, where the vital battles for the succession to Khrushchev will be fought some day.

Mikoyan's semiretirement probably would entail the transfer of two of his most important functions to other officials.

These are:

Assumption of the premier's duties during Khrushchev's increasingly frequent absences from Moscow.

And his unique role as Khrushchev's personal representative in diplomatic trouble spots.

First Deputy Premier Alexei Kosygin apparently has taken over the first of these jobs. He was pinch-hit government chief during two periods this summer when both Khrushchev and Mikoyan were out of the country.

At the same time, Brezhnev was reported to have taken over Khrushchev's chair as first secretary of the Communist party and to be working closely with Kosygin.

Kosygin, 60, a dour industrial management specialist, has been third man in the government lineup since 1960. He is a member of the Presidium but has little to do with everyday party affairs.

Mikoyan's move to the presidency, if it takes place, will probably be at his own request. Although he appears years younger than his age, he was seriously ill last year and was hospitalized twice.

But as Khrushchev's favorite crony, he is expected to continue to wield considerable influence.

INDIAN STYLE—10-year-old Jimmy Lewis, a full-blooded Navajo Indian, shows the style he'll use in the Rodeo Parade tomorrow. Jimmy, who lives in a children's home near Gallup, N. M., is spending the summer with the Van Meador family near Ira. Several floats will be competing for prizes in the parade, and in addition, the Big Spring Shrine Moforcade, sheriff's posses and riding clubs will all take part. Old cars, commercial entries, and the like will be welcome, G. B. Williams, parade marshall said, and should form at 3 o'clock with the rest of the parade.

URGES SINGLE BOARD

Education Panel Presents Report

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally's special committee on higher education recommended today a sweeping program to upgrade tax-supported teaching in Texas, including major increases in faculty salaries.

The committee concludes its year-long study with a briefing for reporters, who usually have been excluded from the body's secret deliberations.

The committee's central recommndation was for a strong coordinating board with powers both over senior and junior colleges, which now are governed by the Texas Education Agency.

The report proposed an increase in the appropriation for faculty salaries at senior colleges and universities from the present two-year total of $109 million to $193 million in the 1965-67 biennium.

"The most important element in the creation of excellence is the quality of the administrative and faculty staffs. Since staffs must be obtained in a nationwide competitive environment, significantly greater funds must be made immediately available for these purposes," the abstract of the committee's report said.

The committee's cost breakdown did not include all elements covered in the current $335.7 million higher education budget. Left out were dental schools, agricultural and engineering services and miscellaneous items.

Compared with $255 million currently allocated for central administration, senior colleges and universities, junior colleges and medical schools, the committee advocated spending of $420 million for these purposes in the 1965-67 biennium and 591 million the following biennium.

The committee made no recommendations for financing the proposed changes, other than doubling the tuition fees, now $50 a semester, at state colleges and universities.

The coordinating board, which has been included in the committee's discussions almost from the start of its work, would have 18 members with six-year staggered terms.

LBJ Is Unruffled By GOP Activity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mood and tempo at the White House was described officially today as calm—unruffled by the Republican festivities in San Francisco.

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked at his midday briefing for newsmen whether he expected "the languid atmosphere" to continue at the White House through the GOP National Convention.

Reedy immediately challenged the word "languid" and said he thought the status of affairs at the executive mansion might better be described as "calm."

The press secretary volunteered that President Johnson watched a television broadcast of the GOP proceedings very briefly Monday night.

Reedy said Johnson's viewing was limited to a broadcast of an interview with Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania on a controversial letter the governor had sent Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Reedy began his briefing by reading a lengthy report which pictured Johnson as putting in a busy, if unspectacular, day.

"The President late yesterday and this morning reviewed reports and plans in a number of fields with administration officials and congressional leaders on a broad variety of topics," Reedy reported. He added that the President also was looking at "the customary reports and summaries on the world situation" and was talking with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and others aout holding down federal spending and employment.

Reds Again Reject Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union again rejected today the U.S. proposal for gradual nuclear disarmament.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament talks the American concept is unacceptable to Russia and could not serve as a negotiating basis.

Tsarapkin insisted that planned talks by experts on how to reduce nuclear weapons carriers during disarmament must be based solely on the two-year-old proposal by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

"We cannot even consider the American concept, there can be no progress on this basis," the Soviet delegate said. "The West must agree with the principle outlined in the Gromyko proposal."

This calls for an elimination of the bulk of all nuclear delivery vehicles long before the end of the third disarmament phase.

Here Are Education Panel's Recommendations In Brief

AUSTIN (AP)—Here in brief are the recommendations of the governor's committee on higher education:

1. Establish 18-man coordinating board to guide junior and senior colleges, replacing the Texas Commission on Higher Education and assuming some functions of Texas Education Agency. Powers include:

A. Recommend, approve and initiate policy.

B. Rule on schools' requests to modify role and scope.

C. Classify schools into three groups: junior colleges, senior colleges, universities.

D. Rule on all major college construction plans before carried out.

E. Deny requests for classroom facilities if college refuses to make maximum use of facilities during summer sessions.

2. Encourage junior college vocational programs, provide adequate financing.

3. Coordinate state and private college programs.

A. Avoid state graudate programs which duplicate those in private colleges.

B. Establish policy of graduate fellowships to encourage students to take advantage of existing graduate programs in both public and private schools.

4. Recognize annually with awards outstanding educators for contributions to excellence in education beyond high school.

5. Study feasibility of developing educational television to serve all colleges.

6. Make more effort to attract sponsored research to Texas.

7. Create at least four prestige doctoral programs which would represent a standing of "first in the nation."

8. Financing:

A. Delay building programs until faculty salaries adequately increased.

B. Place colleges in priority category in state budget or create dedicated tax to assure adequate funds.

C. Double $50 per semester tuition.

D. Spending increases of from $225 to $591 million from present to 1969.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know how you feel about women who fall in love with married man, but I'm the exception. I have loved a professional man for six years. I work for him. He is married in name only, if you know what I mean. We have never been seen together in public as I wouldn't want to hurt his good name. He has children (three of them) and in nine years, his youngest will be 21. At that time he plans to divorce his wife, leave her comfortably provided for, and marry me. I am not a home wrecker, and have no desire to take a man away from his wife and family. He tells me every time we are together how much he loves and respects me for my patince and fairness. Perhaps this will give other women who share my situation an idea. Sign me—

PATIENT

DEAR PATIENT: Would you like a medal for "patiently" waiting until his children are grown, and his wife is entirely alone before taking him away? I am sure he's delighted with your "patience and fairness." It also means he won't have any static out of you for the next nine years. Get wise!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: When you write someone a letter, do you think that person has the right to send it to someone else? I have a mother - in - law who does this. She has sent ME letters she has received from others, and I know that she has sent MY letters to her friends and relatives. Not that I would ever write anything about anyone that might cause trouble, but it is difficult for me to write her a letter not knowing where it will end up. How can this be handled tactfully? Maybe if you print this, my problem will be solved. She reads your column.

"CHICKEN"

DEAR "CHICKEN": "Chickens" who object to having their letters sent on to others should say so — or they'll be gone geese.

DEAR ABBY: My husband married a girl when he was very young. Without first getting a divorce he moved to another state and married again. Again without getting a divorce, he married me — telling me only that he had been "married and divorced." When our baby was two years old, he got a summons for non - support from his second wife. I learned then that there had been two marriages and no divorces. He obtained a legal divorce from his second wife (but not from his first). Am I living in sin because of this? I am pregnant again and if my husband doesn't get this thing cleared up, I am going to end up in the pot house. Can you help me?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You need a lawyer to advise you of your rights. If you can't afford one, go to your LEGAL AID SOCIETY. Your husband is a bigamist and your lawyer had better see him before the DA does.

Scranton Backers Eye Three Planks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Backers of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton reach today for broader party support on three platform issues in a struggle to keep alive his bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

They were trying to start a convention floor fight on the party platform in hopes it would melt away some of the massive strength that has accumulated behind Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The Scranton forces filed three major amendments to the platform, which was written by a committee under firm control of Goldwater sympathizers. They will try to force votes on these late today when the statement of party positions comes before the rank and file delegates. The subjects are civil rights, control of nuclear weapons and political extremism.

The language proposed showed a willingness to give some ground on the chance of winning over Republicans not unalterably committed to either of the major contenders.

For example, the proposed civil rights amendment does not contain the flat declaration that the civil rights law is constitutional, a statement for which Scranton long contended. It does speak of constitutional rights and calls for a number of measures, such as strengthening the Justice Department's civil rights branch, cutting the congressional representation of states that deny citizens the vote and pressing for state legislation in behalf of civil rights.

Goldwater, who voted against the act, questioned constitutionality of two of its key provisions, but he promised to enforce the law as president.

The committee voted a plank, condemned by Scranton and others as inadequate, promising implementation and execution of the law. Scranton said execution might mean no more than signing it.

Another amendment would put the party on record as repudiating "the efforts of irresponsible, extremist groups, such as the John Birch Society and others" to try to infiltrate responsible party positions or attach themselves to GOP candidates. Goldwater has declined to disavow the support of Birch members, and the platform committee rejected any plank on extremism.

There were reports the Scranton strategists might delete the specific reference to the John Birch Society.

The Scranton amendment on nuclear weapons is aimed at Goldwater's statements that it might be desirable to give some leeway to the supreme military commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in the use of relatively small, tactical atomic weapons. Under present law and policy, no atomic weapon of any sort may be employed without specific authorization of the president.

The amendment would reaffirm "the historic constitutional precept of civilian control over the military" and declare that "the authority to use America's nuclear weapons belongs only to the president of the United States."

Snyder Girl At Convention

Gayle Browning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Browning of Snyder, is attending the Republican national convention in San Francisco.

Miss Browning is a member of the executive board of the Young Republicans Club at Texas Tech, and she and another member of the club went to the convention as spectators. They had no official capacity.

However, Miss Browning reported to her parents last night that she had been acting as a receptionist and hostess for the Texas delegation, and yesterday was appointed as an honorary sergeant-at-arms.

The honorary title grants her almost unlimited access to any area of the convention, including the convention floor.

Miss Browning also reported that Gene Dulaney, Snyder attorney and alternate delegate to the convention, was quite pleased over the reception given to Ed Foreman, U.S. Representative from Odessa, by the delegates. Dulaney said that Foreman's ovation was second only to that of Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois.

Hospital Gets Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service awarded a $1.4 million grant today to the M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston to help finance a $9.3 million expansion of its facilities.

South Vietnamese Change Tactics

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese government squads, generally operating in stealth at night, have begun a campaign of terror against Viet Cong officials in the Mekong River Delta.

Small teams of commandos, armed with exact intelligence and daggers, are moving into Viet Cong hamelts in critical provinces near Saigon, assassinating key Viet Cong leaders, and slipping away.

They are leaving calling cards on the bodies of their victims—an enormous white eye printed on a black slip of paper.

Officials say the idea is to fight the Viet Cong with Viet Cong tactics.

For years the Communists have terrorized rural government officials, often torturing and slaying their wives and children as well as the officials.

Officials hope ultimately to make Viet Cong-like squads the basic front - line militants against the Communists.

"Everything depends on exact and rapid intelligence in penetrating the Viet Cong secret infrastructure," a U.S. adviser said.

"We're using a lot of new tactics, and some are paying off. One is the use of census teams in provinces we're trying to pacify. After the names of each family in a hamlet have been listed, the census team requires that one member of the family come around to answer a questionnaire once every 15 days.

"The man or woman is asked: Do you have any complaints about local government administrators? Do you need anything in particular? And do you know anything about Viet Cong activity?"

Another American said he felt the campaign of terror against Communist officials was beginning to pay off.

He observed: "Some of the death squads have been finding a lot of empty beds. The Viet Cong leaders know that squads may come for them on any given night, and they never know when they may get a black eye pinned on themselves. So they're starting to sleep in different places every night and doing all the things our people have been forced to do for years. I don't think it's going to help enemy morale."

Lee Taking His Fight To Floor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An elderly Memphis Negro said he will take his battle for a seat on the Tennessee delegation to the Republican National Convention floor tonight.

George W. Lee, 67, made the statement after the credentials committee rejected by a vote of 66-19 his claim that Republicans in the state's 9th District have discriminated against him and arbitrarily changed the rules governing selection of GOP delegates.

Lee's appeal, if he makes it, will come tonight when the credentials committee makes its report to the convention.

Prior to the lengthy credentials committee hearing Monday, backers of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania sought a rule change to bar delegates chosen under conditions of racial discrimination. They cited Lee's case during the convention floor fight on that point.

The proposal was shouted down in what was viewed as a victory for Sen. Barry Goldwater's forces in their first convention clash with Scranton.

Lee, who has been a delegate to six previous GOP conventions, said he does not believe he received a fair hearing by the credentials committee.

He said the delegates chosen from his district—Lewis R. Donelson III and Robert B. James—"dropped out of the clear political skies" and set up their own Republican party machinery in Shelby County.

Spokesmen for the 28-vote Tennessee delegation—which has no Negroes this year—were pleased with the credentials committee decision, but said they regretted racial overtones surrounding the fight.

Say Success Depends On Trade Hike

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The success of the Alliance for Progress depends on increased trade and foreign investment in Latin America, the president of the program's interAmerican committee said Monday night.

Carlos Sanz de Santamaria of Colombia was speaking to a plenary meeting of the committee formed to seek ways of making the alliance more effective. The group opened its first conference Monday.

Sanz de Santamaria said the committee had been assured the full support of President Johnson.

The committee president proposed:

—Studies to attract and speed foreign investment in Latin America and establishment of a special commission to implement the findings of the studies.

—Formation of an international high-level group to draft a "code of international behavior" for foreign investors in Latin America.

Highway Mishaps Reported

The Texas Highway patrol investigated a number of mishaps on Scurry County highways over the weekend. None involved personal injuries.

At 11:35 a.m. Friday the patrol investigated a mishap four miles south of Snyder on US 84. Involved was a 1953 Ford truck driven by Sebern Denson Diver of Lubbock. Officers reported that the truck engine locked, throwing the truck into a skid and overturning.

At 3:45 a.m. Saturday one and one-half miles south of Snyder on Business Route 84 a 1962 Chevrolet driven by Lonnie Dean Tucker of Amarillo overturned when he failed to make the curve off of the by-pass onto the Snyder business route.

At 7:30 p.m. Saturday a flat tire on a 1958 Chevrolet driven by Robert Owen Geiger of Colorado City caused the car to go out of control six miles south of Snyder on the Colorado City highway. The car skidded into a mailbox causing minor damage.

At 4 a.m. Sunday four and one-half miles north of Snyder on the Lubbock Highway a 1958 Dodge driven by Domingo Fraga of Fluvanna went out of control. The auto crossed the railroad tracks, causing an undetermined amount of damage to the railroad's signals and equipment.

At 10:30 a.m. Monday the Highway Patrol investigated a mishap on Highway 84 near Hermleigh. A 1960 Chevrolet driven by Barbara Pfeiffer of Columbus, Ohio, and a 1959 Chevrolet driven by Martha Nell Ripple of Hermleigh were both going north and the two cars sideswiped. The Pfeiffer car was heavily damaged.

Two Cases Will Test Rights Act

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Two federal court cases involving the Civil Rights Act of 1964 give the U.S. government a prompt opportunity to settle any legal questions about the validity of the two-week-old law.

In one case, the owner of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, Moreton Rolleston, has sued the government, claiming the law is unconstitutional. This suit tests the legality of the law.

The other suit, brought by three Negroes against a restaurant owner whom they claim would not serve them, tests the enforcement of a key provision in the law—the public accommodations section.

The Justice Department filed a motion Monday asking to intervene in the Negroes' suit on their side. The Negroes want an injunction restraining the restaurant owner, Lester Maddox, from refusing to serve Negroes.

Gen. Taylor On New Job

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, who arrived one week ago, presented his credentials today to Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, South Vietnamese chief of state.

Taylor, dressed in white sharkskin suit, was accompanied by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of U.S. forces here, and deputy ambassador U. Alexis Johnson in the brief ceremony.

Taylor thus formally replaced Henry Cabot Lodge, who returned to Washington last month to campaign for Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's nomination as Republican presidential candidate.

The reddish oval object in the southern half of Jupiter was first observed in 1664 by British scientist Robert Hooke. When first seen, it was brick red. Since then its color has varied from salmon pink to greenish white. The marking disappeared in 1713 and reappeared in 1831.

Expansion Due At Port Arthur Plant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Koppers Co. disclosed plans today to increase by 25 per cent the capacity of its Port Arthur, Tex., plant to produce polyethylene plastic.

The expansion, expected to be completed by mid-1965, will center on modification and enlargement of one of the plant's production lines. No estimate of cost was announced. Low density polyethylene has a wide range of uses in agriculture, packaging, construction and the manufacture of housewares and toys.

Graduates Hold Class Reunion

The Snyder High School graduating class of 1944 held it's 20 year reunion here on July 10th - 11th. The first of a series of meetings was held at the barn in Towle Park on Friday night.

On Saturday the group held a family affair and included a barbecue supper prepared and served by Rex Miller and crew. Twenty - five class members and one teacher registered along with their families, bringing the total number present to 80. They report a grand time of fellowship and "remembering when".

On Saturday morning 23 class members and one teacher met for coffee in the community room of Snyder Savings and Loan. Many brought old pictures and some copies of the Tigers Tale of "way back when". These provided all the entertainment needed! After two hours of fun and fellowship the group dispersed with promises to meet again in the evening.

On Saturday night the group held an "adult only" dinner in the 66 dining room. Bill Eiland served as master of ceremonies for the 48 who attended. Pictures were taken. The group decided to meet again in five years, and four volunteers were obtained to make plans.

Following dinner most of the group went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eiland for coffee, cookies and more talk, as well as listening to records that were popular during high school days.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Stanfield were present for all three meetings. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver were present for the last part of the Saturday night meeting. Others attending some or all of the festivities were:

Mr. and Mrs. James L. True and family, Mr. and Mrs. Olan Moore and family, Mrs. W. L. Saultz, all of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCowen and family, Abilene; Mrs. Michal Rimar, Fort Worth; Mrs. Guy Baber, Hobbs, N.M; Mr. Joe Coy Tarter, Carlsbad, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Travis White and family of Georgetown; Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Trulock and family, Colorado City; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Harrison and family, Denver City; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Bruton and family; Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. John Minnick and family, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fuller, Ira; Mr. Jack Taylor and son of Arlington:

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Prince, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eiland, Mr. and Mrs. Doug McGlaun and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Thompson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Ainsworth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Howell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Ivison and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Sealy and family, Mr. S. O. Morrison, Jr., Mrs. Glen Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Erwin and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Headstream and family, and Mr. S. A. Taylor, Jr.

The group expressed thanks and appreciation to Beverly Ainsworth, Charlene Erwin, and Mary Ellen Headstream for planning a most enjoyable reunion.

ANNUAL VISIT—Georgia Woods of Marshall, right, President of the Rebekah Assembly IOOF of Texas, made her official visit to the Snyder chapter Friday night. She showed the local assembly some interesting films on homes for children and elderly people. A salad supper was held at 6:30 p.m. with 25 members attending. Joyce Meyers, Noble Grand of the Snyder IOOF Rebekah Lodge is pictured above with the president. This was her annual visit to District 18, which includes Snyder and the surrounding towns.

Green Peppers Stuffed With Corn And Bacon

Boiling water
6 medium green peppers
2½ teaspoons salt
9 ears fresh corn
3 strips bacon
1½ teaspoons flour
3 tablespoons diced pimiento
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Wash peppers; cut a slice from each top; remove seeds and cores. Parboil in boiling water to cover with 1 teaspoon of the salt — about 4 minutes; remove from water; turn upside down to drain. Husk corn; score kernels and cut from cobs; scrape to get all milky pulp. Fry bacon until crisp; drain and crumble; leave drippings in skillet. Mix corn with flour and remaining 1½ teaspoons salt; add to bacon drippings. Cook and stir until slightly thickened —about 3 minutes. Mix in crumbled bacon, pimiento and pepper. Fill peppers with corn mixture. Dot with butter. Place in a buttered 10 by 5 by 2 inch baking dish. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 30 minutes.

Use boiling water when you are cooking fresh tongue and add, along with a sliced onion and carrot, a few bay leaves, peppercorns, cloves and allspice

Ever add cumin seed instead of caraway seed to sauerkraut?

Silver Tea-Book Review Set For Wednesday

Martha Ann Woman's Club is sponsoring a Silver Tea and book review Wednesday, July 15, at the clubhouse. The silver tea will be held at 1:30 p.m., allowing plenty of time for persons attending to be free to go to the rodeo parade.

Mrs. James A. Rushing of Lubbock will review her book, "Walnut Grove". It is fiction about the territory between Snyder and Sweetwater.

Mrs. Rushing, a former resident of Scurry County, will be better remembered as Jane Gilmore Rushing. Mrs. Rushing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gilmore, was born and raised at Pyron, Texas. She attended Pyron High School and received her Bachelor of Arts and master degrees from Texas Tech. After receiving her degrees, Mrs. Rushing taught English in Snyder High School. While residing in Snyder, she also worked for the Snyder Daily News as a reporter, and was an active member of Beta Sigma Phi and the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Rushing and her family now reside in Lubbock, where Mrs. Rushing is a professor at Texas. Tech.

The Woman's Club extends a cordial invitation to all out of town guests and to the local public to attend the silver tea. Make your plans now to attend the tea and book review and spend a very enjoyable afternoon.

SCRANTON STRATEGY CONFERENCE—Former United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, left, and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, right, held strategy conference with Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton in the latter's suite in the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco. The three are making an attempt to keep presidential nomination from Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco's Cow Palace. (AP Wirephoto)

Says Research Scapegoat

WASHNGTON (AP)— President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation says farm officials of the present administration are attempting to make research and technology the scapegoats of a troublesome farm economic situation.

Writing in his organization's magazine, "The Nation's Agriculture," Shuman says declining farm prices reflect the "failure of control and price-fixing policies" pursued by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and his supporters.

Shuman said the administration must accept full responsibility for the farm situation because it has support from "an ample majority in Congress and certain minor farm organization leaders who endorse their every move, like puppets on a string."

Shuman and Freeman have been at odds on most farm legislation before Congress since 1961. The Farm Bureau leader wants less government intervention in agriculture, but the secretary of agriculture argues that strong farm programs are needed to assure farmers a fair income.

"It now appears," Shuman said, "that Freeman is preparing to blame our farm troubles on research and improved methods. Recently, he made the following statement, 'For far too many, changes brought about by scientific and technological advances have produced, not prosperity and greater well-being, but poverty and frustration.'

"The trouble with this statement," Shuman writes, "is that it is not true. . . . Research helps farmers cut costs and improve net farm income. While increased production is made possible by new technology, it is artificial stimulation by government programs —and not research—that brings on excessive production."

Shuman contends that all of the government control programs are in serious trouble wth market prices down and government surplus stocks growing rapidly.

Nervous Gunman Holds Up Store

ABILENE (AP) — A brazen but nervous gunman held up an Abilene grocery store Monday night and held three store employes at bay while cleaning out a cash register.

It was the second robbery this year for the store. The manager estimated the loss at $800 to $1,000.

Officers said the masked and gloved thug jammed a gun in the ribs of Jerry Stephens, 19, a clerk, soon after the store closed. He demanded money in all the registers but fled after getting receipts from only one machine.

Cliches Flow But Little Drama Seen At Convention

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller, chairman of the Republican National Committee, threw out the first cliche at 10:35 a.m.:

"Will the sergeant-at-arms please clear the aisles so we may commence our business?"

And so the political pageant began at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Television viewers started to savor the time-worn phrases that are hauled out every four years.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska was the first to offer the surefire chestnut: "We are here to nominate the next president of the United States."

Cliche piled on cliche as the Republican National Convention went about the business of getting organized. Fortunately for the television viewers, though not for the speakers, the three networks roved their cameras about the Cow Palace and the beehive hotels of San Francisco in search of more vital copy.

The pickings were lean. There was much ado about the letter which Gov. William W. Scranton sent to Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Scranton appeared on all three networks to deny he wrote it but accepted responsibility for it. There were recurring shots of CORE pickets outside the arena. Brief, abortive fights over convention rules and credentials failed to generate much drama.

The afternoon coverage featured a press conference by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who fielded pointed questions with his noted syntax. On one particularly obtuse question he drew laughter by replying with a convention device: "Pennsylvania passes."

The evening oratory offered two splendid examples of political style. First came Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who offered a tribute to Herbert Hoover and then read a message from the former president.

No man to attempt spellbinding an inattentive crowd, Dirksen waited for the maximum of silence he could expect in the cavernous pavilion. Then, his hair elegantly askew, he began intoning his speech in his familiar bass-viol voice.

The keynoter, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, used more modern techniques, if not phraseology. His opener: "We meet here to nominate the next president of the United States."

Hatfield, reportedly chosen to present a youthful image for the Republicans, fulfilled that function well. NBC's Chet Huntley termed him a "political Dr. Kildare." His partner, David Brinkley, thought Hatfield seemed more like the model in the magazine ads for 12-year-old brandy.

To this viewer, he appeared more like the hero of a television horse opera—rangy, boyish, cleanly handsome. He spoke forthrightly, glancing from one side to the other like a metronome, loosening his grasp on the podium for a finger-pointing gesture.

The television coverage of the first day did offer one poignant moment in an interview with Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, former speaker of the House and chairman of past Republican conventions. He was asked what he would advise on campaign strategy.

The political veteran, now merely a delegate to the convention, replied: "I'm not likely to be asked."

Scouters Keep Eyes Out For Rain

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—Boy Scout officials gazed skyward today and kept a sharp ear on their own weather station built in historic Valley Forge for the sixth national Scout Jamboree that starts officially Friday.

They're worried about rain.

An inch of rain fell Monday over the 1,900-acre encampment site but caused little damage to the area where 52,000 Scouts and their leaders will be living in 30,000 tents by the weekend, and cooking at 16,380 fires.

"Except for brief puddles and streams that backed up in low level areas there was hardly a complaint," said Robert Billington, Jamboree coordinator.

Steady rains for the next few days would turn the green rolling hills and valleys where Washingon's Revolutionary War army spent the winter of 1777-78 into a quagmire.

By dusk tonight 1,271 boys—arriving by bus, train, auto and plane—will be on the Jamboree site, joining more than 4,000 leaders and volunteers who have been handling preliminary arrangements.

Wednesday 24,043 are scheduled to arrive, with the remaining 23,303 on Thursday.

The travel bill, including the toting of 2,000 tons of baggage, is figured at $4 million by Kenneth Wells, in charge of Jamboree transportation.

Valachi Is Still Resting In D. C. Jail

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever happened to Joseph Valachi?

The talkative mobster who detailed for the federal government the inner workings of "La Cosa Nostra"—the multimillion-dollar organized crime empire—sits today where he has languished since testifying before a Senate subcommittee last fall—in the District of Columbia jail.

The government has no plans to move him, although a Justice Department official acknowledged that Valachi's storehouse of crime information has been pretty well milked dry.

At 61, Valachi was described by an official who knows him as "in top condition—down to his old fighting weight." In his secluded cell he continues daily calisthenics to keep in shape. He spends much time watching television.

Valachi does not mingle with other prisoners. During the weeks when his name was becoming a household word, the story got out that the underworld was offering $100,000 to anyone who would kill Valachi for breaking the secret oath of La Cosa Nostra.

He still gets some mail from strangers, a Justice Department official said. Occasionally there's a "crackpot letter" from someone who views him as a stoolpigeon—but never any serious threats.

An occasional agent wanders over to talk to him, and sometimes law enforcement officers from around the country drop in to see if he can shed new light on their local problems.

Valachi's life is largely the lonely one of a man serving a life term for murder.

Pleased with his brief moment in history, Valachi is described as "glad it's over."

All Crops Need Rain

AUSTIN (AP) — Hot, dry weather plagued dryland crops and pasture land for the third straight week last week, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says.

All dryland grain sorghum and cotton in the western half of the state need moisture, and continued dry weather is causing cotton, corn and sorghum in the blacklands and southward to mature faster than expected, the department said Monday in its weekly crop-weather report.

Grain sorghum harvest picked up, with 83 per cent of the lower valley acreage combined and 35 per cent of Coastal Bend fields. Harvest began in the blacklands.

Cotton prospects continue favorable, the department said, but lack of rain in the eastern half of Texas is causing fruit to shed.

Pastures started curing in most of the state, the report said, and areas missed by mid-June rains have browned with only a limited amount of grazing available.

Carrot seeding got underway in South Texas, and onion harvest was active in the Trans-Pecos and High Plains. Peaches, watermelons and cantaloups are in good supply in North, Central and East Texas, the report said.

Record Number Of Homers Hit In AL

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Home runs were flying over American League fences at a record clip but Al Lopez wasn't concerned—until one of them got lost on Charley Finley's pennant porch.

Then the White Sox pilot blew his top.

There were 25 homers hit in the AL Monday, four more than the previous mark for one league in a five-game schedule and one more than Lopez' count.

He's convinced that Wayne Causey's homer in the second game of a doubleheader, a three-run shot that led to an 8-7 Kansas City victory over the White Sox, was nothing more than a figment of Finley's runaway green-and-gold drawing board.

Chicago had taken the first game 8-6 and was leading 6-3 in the seventh inning of the nightcap when Causey's drive fell where a pole separates the shortened portion of Municipal Stadium from the high wall in center field.

The umpires ruled the ball had cleared the porch's low fence. Lopez contended it had hit the wall in center and was playable. Lopez lost the debate and was tossed out of the game when he resumed it an inning later.

Ron Hansen of the White Sox and the Athletics' Jim Gentile then matched eighth - inning homers before Causey's bases-loaded single in the ninth broke up the eight-homer slugfest.

The split cost Chicago a chance to gain 1½ games on league - leading - Baltimore, which dropped a 10-inning 4-3 decision to Detroit. The New York Yankees, however, gained a game on the Orioles with a 10-4 rout of Cleveland. Boston blanked Washington 7-0 in the other game scheduled.

San Francisco held its National League lead with a 5-3 victory over Houston while second place Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 3-2. St. Louis swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 5-4 in 12 innings and 12-5. Chicago clubbed Los Angeles 10-4 and the Cincinnati-New York game was rained out.

The Chicago-Kansas City twin bill produced 11 home runs. First game winner Gary Peters, 10-4, poked a three-run homer to pace the White Sox' 16-hit attack. George Alusik and Dick Green connected for the A's.

Peter Ward, Don Buford, Gene Stephens and Hansen homered for the Sox; Manny Jimenez, Ed Charles, Causey and Genfile for the A's in the nightcap. Green's single, a double by Ken Harrelson and an intentional pass set the stage for Causey's game-winning hit that snapped KC's six-game losing streak.

Jerry Lumpe's bases-loaded single in the 10th gave the Tigers their second straight one-run victory over Baltimore, which had won 21 of 23 one-run verdicts before Sunday.

Brooks Robinson's two-run ninth -inning homer sent the game into overtime after Don Demeter's solo shot in the second and two unearned runs in the sixth had given the Tigers a 3-1 bulge. Sam Bowens' homers accounted for the Orioles' first run.

The Yankees climbed to within 1½ games of Baltimore with their seventh straight victory over the Indians. Tom Tresh hit a pair of two-run homers—one from each side of the plate—and Mickey Mantle and Clete Boyer also homered, offsetting three Cleveland circuits.

Boston's Bill Monbouquette turned in the top pitching performance—a four-hit shutout—and the Red Sox twice struck for back-to-back homers. Dick Stuart and Lee Thomas connected in the five-run fourth inning and Felix Mantilla and Tony Conigliaro duplicated in the eighth.

Minnesota and Los Angeles were not scheduled.

Indians Defeat Yanks In Finale

The final curtain of the season came down on Little League play last night as the Indians defeated the Yankees 10-3. The victory gave the Indians undisputed possession of second place in the American League behind the Athletics. The Yankees ended up in third place.

Last night's affair was a makeup of a regular - season contest that was cancelled. It not only determined the 2nd and 3rd spots, but also the coach of the American all-stars. That spot now goes to Don Harless, manager of the Indians.

Wesley Bishop led the Indians in their victory, driving in 5 runs and scoring 2 himself on 2 home runs. Don Light tallied 3 runs and hit a double and a single. Richie Rogers and Merce Hernandez contributed 2 singles each and Stanley Bickel one single. Hernandez went all the way on the mound to pick up the victory, allowing just 3 hits. One of those was a 2-run homer by Stewart Sims.

Texas League Gets Back Into Action

By The Associated Press

The Texas League resumes operations tonight after taking a day off with the first division clubs whacking at the second division.

Leading San Antonio plays last place Fort Worth at Fort Worth. Second place Albuquerque meets fifth-place Austin at Austin and third place Tulsa takes on fourth place El Paso at Tulsa.

The race is tightening up again and there could be some changes made in the three-game series that start tonight. San Antonio is 2½ games ahead of Albuquerque, which is the same distance from Tulsa.

There's a seven-game span from Tulsa to El Paso at the top of the second division.

Goading Of Umpires Upheld By Court

NEW YORK (AP)—The action of American League President Joe Cronin in upholding umpire Jim Honochick Monday in the Vic Power spitting incident is in contrast to a decision last week by the North Carolina Supreme Court at Raleigh.

In her opinion Associate Justice Susie Sharp said that "for present day fans a goodly part of the sport in a baseball game is goading and denouncing the umpire when they do not concur in his decision and most feel that, without one or more rhubarbs, they have not received their money's worth."

The court thus upheld a lower court decision dismissing a suit by John H. Toone, a former umpire in the Carolina League, against the Raleigh Capitals and their manager, Kenneth Deal. Toone charged Deal incited the fans to assault him after a June 16, 1960, game.

Gold Jackets To Host Hamlin Tonight

The Snyder Gold Jackets will meet the Hamlin Rebels tonight at 8 in Winston Park. It will be a return match as the Gold Jackets won over the Rebels last week in Hamlin.

Jean Anderson is scheduled to start on the mound for the Gold Jackets, who have won 8 and lost one for the year.

IN THE SPIRIT OF THINGS—Sister John Gabriel, acting as the wicketkeeper, throws up her hands as John Kennedy is bowled out during cricket match at the St. Joseph's Junior School at Bradford, England. The co-educational school has no male staff so Sister John, a member of the Roman Catholic Cross and Passion Order, had to take the job of coaching the boys in cricket, Britain's summer game. She played for a girls' cricket team before becoming a nun. (AP Wirephoto)

Roderick's Loss Is Severe Blow

DALLAS (AP) —John Roderick, for whom great things had been planned in football at Southern Methodist, won't be be playing this fall.

He also won't be on the track team next year to defend his Southwest Conference sprint championships and spark a possible world's record in the 440-yard relay.

The colorful, happy-go-lucky athlete who beat Navy in football to furnish a major upset and who ran the 100-yard dash in 9.3, was found scholastically ineligible Monday.

He must now lay out of athletics a year while getting himself back in good standing scholastically. He says he plans to do that.

Coach Hayden Fry said "The loss of Roderick is a severe blow to our football prospects as we had planned to make the most use possible of his great speed."

Roderick played tailback and spread end last fall but planned to go to flanker this year where his pass-receiving talents could be utilized along with his great speed. This became evident when he caught two touchdown passes in the Sun Bowl game with Oregon.

It was in the Navy game that Roderick, a sophomore, first flamed across the gridiron horizon. He scored two touchdowns and led the charge that got another as Southern Methodist upset the Middies, then ranked No. 4 in the nation, 32-28. He gained 146 yards running with the ball that night.

He was the key man on SMU's fine 440-yard relay team that was a sensation at all the big relay meets and did 40.6 in the Southwest Conference meet.

It had been expected that Roderick might lead the quartet to a world's record next track season since most of them would be back. But when he was found ineligible it handed track coach Glen Gossett a blow to his chances of having a championship contending team next season.

Roderick missed a final examination in one of his subjects when he went out to the coast to run in the Coliseum Relays. Illness and the absence of the professor prevented him taking the exam until recently. He failed it.

Roderick had been hailed as a top prospect for the Olympics on the basis of his 9.3 in the 100 and 21.0 in the 220 but he never tried out, indicating that he was more concerned with football, which would come at the same time as the Olympics. He also cited his illness.

The loss of Roderick cut Southern Methodist's letterman roster to 20. Earl Beckett, a reserve fullback, was found scholastically ineligible the same time as Roderick.

Four From Area Among All-Stars

RANGER — The Texas All-Star basketball game will be played July 30, at 8 p.m. in Ranger Junior College's new gymnasium, in connection with the Texas State six-man, coaches school, which gets under way on the RJC campus, with the arrival of athletes and coaches, on Sunday, July 26.

All the college facilities; dormatories, cafeteria, football stadium and gym, will be available to the more than 100 athletes and 120 coaches who will be on hand for the week - long coaches school.

Among players on the 25-man roster are: Bill Nunnally of Gail, Bob Hart of Ira High School, Gene Rankin and Dave Wright of Highland High.

The coaches school will hold session in the new science building on the RJC campus.

Baseball's World Is A Zany One

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox owe Washington a player. Vic Power owes the American League $250. And Gaylord Perry owes the Houston Colts $3.98.

Such was the situation today in baseball's zany world after a hectic Monday that produced these developments:

—The Senators and White Sox completed a trade one month after the trading deadline with first baseman Bill (Moose) Skowron and pitcher Carl Bouldin going to Chicago in exchange for first baseman Joe Cunningham and a player to be named later.

—The American League denied a hearing to Vic Power of the Los Angeles Angels, who has been fined $250 and suspended for 10 days for allegedly spitting in an umpire's face.

—The National League acknowledged it had received a protest from the Colts because Perry, a San Francisco relief pitcher, broke one of Nellie Fox' bats. The Colts also said Perry was being billed for the cost of the bat.

The Senators-White Sox deal was called a double waiver transaction because they could not call it anyting else.

Under baseball law, player deals made after June 15 must be via the waiver route with a waiver price of $20,000 attached to each piece of merchandise.

Now, the White Sox will waive another player to the Senators in a week or 10 days to complete the transaction.

Power's actions in the first game of a doubleheader last Friday night against Chicago were reported to AL headquarters by Umpire Jim Honochick, who said Power 'bumped me three times and spit in my face deliberately and willfully."

Power said he hadn't

The American League, which never announces refusals to grant hearings, said through league publicist Joe McKenney:

"We refused a hearing. We felt that under the league constitution we did not have to grant a hearing and so we did not do so."

The Perry-Fox development was the latest to be brought out after Sunday's game at Houston in which San Francisco reliever Billy O'Dell was thrown out for arguing even before he had made one pitch and Perry sat down on the mound to change his shoes after getting a hurry-up call to replace O'Dell.

Fox, who previously had singled in the tying run for the Colts, drove in the winning run with a single in the ninth inning. Perry, in a rage, stormed off the mound, picked up Fox' bat and smashed it against the side of the Giants' dugout.

Jack Nicklaus' Troubles May Not Be Over Yet

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus traveled 10,000 miles, tied the St. Andrews course record, sat up all night worrying about a train wreck, lost his passport, had to talk his way back into the country, got a vaccination he didn't need and then had to switch airplanes when an engine conked out.

And he still didn't qualify for the World Series of Golf.

So this week Big Jack will try it in his own back yard.

The last of the Big Four golf titles—the PGA—opens Thursday here in the town where the 24-year-old Golden Bear grew up and learned to bash the ball farther than any other player.

It's Jack's last chance to get into the field in the World Series, which is played just up the road in Akron, and pays $50,000 to the winner. Nicklaus has won it both years it has been played.

Arnold Palmer won the Masters; Ken Venturi took the U.S. Open, and Tony Lema the British Open last week despite a great charge by Nicklaus.

They are here for the PGA plus such as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Sam Snead, but Nicklaus will have home cooking and home rooting going for him.

He was glad to get back to both after the British Open, where he shot a course record, equaling 66 and a 68 on the final day for the finest two rounds ever played in one day at hallowed St. Andrews.

Lema replied with 68 and 70, and won by five strokes.

But Nicklaus' troubles were only beginning. He and his wife, Barbara, decided to take the train from Scotland to London.

"I was up all night, worrying," he said. "I think the trains run on the wrong side over there anyway, it always sounded to be like we were going to crash everytime one came in the other direction.

"After all, I haven't been on a train since I was 12 years old. Then I lost the passports.

"Well, they let us get on the plane, and we talked our way into the country when we hit New York, but we had to get new vaccinations, and I think mine is going to take.

"Then we got on a private plane I borrowed, and just got in the air and one of the engines conked out, so we had to go back and get another plane. Quite a trip."

Phil Rodgers Leads French Open By 1

CHANTILLY, France (AP)—Phil Rodgers isn't enough of a veteran pro golfer to get into the United States PGA Championship but he looks good enough to take the French Open Tournament this week.

Going into the second round today, Rodgers, from La Jolla, Calif., leads the field with a course record 66—one stroke ahead of Britain's Tony Grubb.

Although a veteran of the U.S. pro circuit, Rodgers, 26, has served only three years of the required five-year apprenticeship to be eligible for the PGA title.

Teenagers In Tennis Spotlight

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (AP)—This may be the year the teenage set takes over the national girls' tennis spotlight.

The youthful set is making a big play for recognition at the 5th annual National Clay Court Tennis Championships which begins second round play today at the River Forest Tennis Club.

And four of the court darlings are 17 years old and under, which for all practical purposes, assures the amateur game a wealth of material for many years.

Heading the list of young hopefuls Monday surviving first round action was hard-hitting Jean Danilovich of Jackson, Calif. She was joined by Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., Patsy Rippy of Shawnee, Okla., and Paulette Verzin of La Mesa, Calif.

Peaches and Miss Verzin just turned 15, but Miss Rippy is a tennis veteran at 16.

Twenty first-round matches were to be completed today because of rain which washed them out Monday. Heading the list will be top-seeded Chuck McKinley's match against Frank LaMothe.

Golfer Mike Souchak used to pitch batting practice to Dick Groat of the St. Louis Cardinals at Duke University.

Bears Get Ready To Defend Title

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Bears are back at work, getting ready to defend their National Football League championship. First item of business for George Halas and his staff will be sharpening up the offense.

Rookies were in the majority Monday when the Bears' early camp opened at St. Joseph's College at Rensselaer, Ind., where the club has trained for 21 years.

Never one to fool around, Halas planned to get right down to heavy work immediately just as he did last year. The Bears play the College All-Stars Aug. 7 at Soldier Field in Chicago.

As early as the Bears were, they were not the first to take the field. The Los Angeles Rams, New York Giants, Dallas Cowboys, Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles all beat them to the punch with their rookie camps.

By next Monday all 14 NFL teams will have their camps open and some will have the veterans on hand, too.

The American Football League also is getting ready to swing into action with the New York Jets' rookies and the Denver Broncos due to open up Wednesday. The Jets will train at Peekskill, N.Y. and the Broncos at Fort Collins, Colo.

The first pre-season game is the Bears-All Stars at Chicago Friday, Aug. 7. The rest of the NFL teams, except Pittsburgh, and the AFL will get busy the same weekend. Pittsburgh's first game is Aug. 14. The regular season opens in both leagues the weekend of Sept. 12-13.

A TOUCH AND GO SITUATION

Businessmen See Continued Upswing In Current Trends

By SAM Dawson
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen making their own evaluation of the state of business are noting today three trends:

—The supply of money is expanding faster again after a slowdown earlier in the year.

—Inventories that had been rising fast have taken a tumble.

—Retail sales have eked out only a slim increase but still enough to set a high.

The larger money supply is expected to act as a spur to the economy. The inventory cut is considered as removing, at least for a time, a potential danger watched in any prolonged business upswing. And the retail sales advance, slim as it was in June, is dubbed a show of continuing confidence by the consuming public which can bolster the life expectancy of the business expansion.

Government officials and corporate executives have stressed other phases of the economy: record industrial production, employment and personal incomes; bullish sentiment in the stock market; and record earnings.

But the dollars and cents nature of inventories, sales and money supply effects the daily health of business and gives a glimpse of the future.

The Federal Reserve Board puts the money supply at $155.9 billion at the end of June, compared with $153.2 billion in December. The supply is arrived at by adding demand deposits and currency outside banks.

Under the board's fairly easy money policy for the last three years, the money supply had been going up steadily —by 3.7 per cent last year. The rate slowed this year, with May standing at $154.5 billion. The sizable increase in June brings the growth rate this year to around 3 per cent.

Some businessmen feel the June gain is due to an easier money policy of late, after a slight lessening of the ease a few months back.

The money supply greases the ways for consumer purchases, business spending, and gives the banks the lendable funds for expansion plans.

The business upswing, with its increased pressure on production schedules and sales programs, had increased inventories in the early months of the year. They kept well in the bounds of caution. But the growth was watched, since runaway stock building has usually been an early indicator of possible trouble ahead.

In April inventories gained $630 million. But in May they dropped $250 million. This was the biggest decline since the $590 million in March 1961, when the 1960-61 recession had hit bottom and the upswing was being born. The May decline left business inventories at $105.4 billion, and this was still $4 billion higher than a year ago.

Businessmen prefer stocks to be kept in line with production and sales. The May drop means that any easing of demand this summer needn't cause quick production cutbacks. It also means that any increased demand would quickly perk up production. That's good news for both workers and management.

The average at the end of May was a supply just under 1½ month's needs, about the same as a year ago, and considered a healthy ratio.

June retail sales, seasonally adjusted, topped $21.7 billion, and was $3 million higher than the previous record set in May, and 6 per cent larger than in June 1963.

Price changes, both retail and wholesale, apparently changed little on average.

Problems Of Machine Age Are Enough

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of life's little ordeals is the machine age.

While the more sophisticated members of the human race speak knowingly of the nuclear age and the challenge of the space age, most of the people on earth still have little or no knowledge of how to deal with the gadgets of the machine age.

This is true even in highly civilized countries. There are a surprising number of people to whom anything operating mechanically remains a lifelong mystery.

They may have a superior intelligence in other ways, but they simply are mentally allergic to gadgets, gears and wheels.

Degrees of mechanical ineptitude vary. Millions of Americans are unable to learn to drive an automobile. Others can't even drive a nail with a hammer.

Such people are more to be pitied than censured. At times—if they can just keep their ten thumbs out of the way—they may even manage to do good in the world.

My own existence has been one long struggle with the machine age. I was born too late to have to deal with the problem of harnessing horses, and too ignorant or too proud to cope with the problems of the gasoline engine and the electric motor.

I first realized what life held in store for me when I made a simple wooden bookrack in grammar school, and the blighted thing fell apart before I could get my handiwork home. If I planted a tree, the roots came up; the branches stayed underground.

When a fellow is this unhandy, his only salvation is to lean on others. He becomes a bystander in the machine age, not a participant. He spends most of his time feeling helpless.

But whatever a man's handicap is, he must do his best to overcome it.

In this respect I have not been wthout my victories. My wife doesn't let me play our three-speed phonograph or adjust the airconditioner. These instruments are too valuable for the tyro.

However, I have learned to turn on the gas stove without setting fire to our apartment—although the back burners still give me considerable trouble. My wife also lets me tune in the television set in her presence, but she always finds it necessary to go over later herself and sharpen the focus.

At long last I have also learned how, on some days, to work the electric toaster and the electric can opener. But I never plug them in without first offering up a mental prayer to Allah to save me from electrocution.

Junior Editors Quiz on Bolivia

QUESTION: Why does Bolivia have two capitals?

* * *

ANSWER: The country now called Bolivia was very important to the Spaniards who had conquered South America, for silver had been discovered there. They called this part of the continent Upper Peru. In 1824, the famous liberator, Simon Bolivar, with a great army, fought successfully against Spain. He helped the people of Upper Peru to establish an independent country, which they, in gratitude, called Bolivia. One of Bolivar's generals, Antonio Jose de Sucre, was elected as Bolivia's first president, and his name was given to the city which was the seat of the government and which had originally been established by the Spaniards as a center for the export of silver and for trading. Another city had been founded by the Spaniards in 1548, La Ciudad de Nuestra Senora de La Paz, or The City of Our Lady of Peace. After throwing off the Spaniards, Bolivians called this city La Paz. It was better situated than Sucre to be the seat of the government because transportation facilities centered there and it grew to be the focus of Bolivia's life. So, in 1898, all government offices except the Supreme Court were moved to La Paz, which became the actual capital, although Sucre remained as the official, or legal, capital.

FOR YOU TO DO: Get a library book about Bolivia and read about its interesting things, such as Lake Titicaca, which is 12,507 feet above sea level—higher than any large lake in the world. 7-14

Questioning Without A Lawyer Nixed

HOUSTON (AP) — A three-judge federal court in a far-reaching decision has ruled officers may not question Melvin Lane Powers, accused slayer of Jacques Mossler, unless a defense attorney is present.

The unanimous ruling came at Atlanta Monday when the appeals judges directed U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham to grant a temporary injunction barring further questioning of Powers unless counsel is present.

Judge Ingraham had refused such a request by Powers' attorneys, William F. Walsh and Percy Foreman, at a Houston hearing Thursday.

The attorneys then took their request to the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Atlanta decision came as an extradition hearing was ordered for 10 a. m. July 28 in Austin on moving Powers to Miami.

Powers, 27, now in the county jail, is charged in Florida with bludgeoning and stabbing Mossler to death in his Key Biscayne apartment on June 30.

The extradition hearing will be held in Austin before Crawford Martin, secretary of state.

Meanwhile in Houston, a search continued for Mrs. Candace Mossler, 45, who, along with the Mossler children, found her millionaire husband's body in the plush apartment early June 30.

She left a Houston hospital Saturday night and has been missing since.

A note was found at her home saying she was going to another hospital, but did not say where.

Miami authorities tried unsuccessfully to question Mrs. Mossler in the hospital last week. She said she was too sick to talk. She complained of chest pains and nervousness.

Servicemen Seek Vote

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An assistant state attorney general has told a federal court that servicemen's voting rights are restricted in Texas to prevent the military from taking over in areas where it outnumbers civilians.

The state restriction that allows military personnel to vote only in the county in which they enlisted is a "safeguard against saturation of military personnel in a particular area," argued Hawthorne Phillips before a three - judge court Monday.

But a lawyer for two servicemen testing the law said the provision was unconstitutional because it discriminates against military personnel because of their occupation.

Arthur Gochman, the lawyer for the men said they were home - owners and intended to remain in Bexar County."

Daily Crude Flow Rises

TULSA, Okla. (AP)— U.S. oil production climbed last week with Oklahoma and Kansas contributing the big increases, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The trade magazine survey showed average daily production last week of 7,501,610 barrels, up 15,910 a day over the previous week.

Oklahoma output rose 13,830 barrels a day to 537,430.

Figures for other states, with the previous week's output in parentheses, were: Arkansas 73,500 (73,500); Louisiana 1,504,000 (1,504,000); New Mexico 306,000 (306,000); Texas 2,585,950 (2,585,950).

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — A cautious day to everyone and I might as well be frank and tell you I'm worried about your health. How is your health and did you know that dizziness is a Symptom?

I just read a column by this doctor who has discovered a number of interesting things connected with the condition. He says that unfortunately dizziness is often haphazardly used to describe headaches, faintness, disturbances of vision and even tenderness of the scalp.

A close friend and colleague of mine, who is a witch doctor and lives in a tree down near Acapulco, recently told me virtually the same thing this doctor up in Civilization wrote about.

So to give you a clearer picture of how the thing works, let's look in on my friend, El Medico, for a moment.

A gentleman comes weaving up to the tree and manages to scramble to the third branch where the nurse receives patients. She listens carefully to this fellow and finally says, "Go on up to the fifth branch. The doctor will decide whether an operation is necessary."

So this fellow climbs up to the fifth branch holding his machete in his teeth and there he finds El Medico hanging on with his feet while he brews some Daisy Tea.

El Medico looks him over and asks professionally, "What's with you?"

The fellow says, "Dizziness. I'm alla time dizzy and sometimes I even fall outta the hammock during siestas."

El Medico replies, "Of course you realize dizziness is a symptom."

And the fellow asks, "What's a symptom?"

El Medico ignores the question (doctors are pretty much the same everywhere) and asks, "Have you noted any tenderness of the scalp?"

The fellow says, "Only after my wife belts me with a fence post."

Then El Medico says, "I realize these sensations are very distressing but in most instances they do not represent illnesses of sufficient severity to warrant the fears they induce."

And the fellow asks, "How-zat again, doc?"

El Medico sighs and says never mind and examines him thoroughly. Looks through one ear and sees daylight coming through the other. Raps his shins with a jade hammer to test reflexes. Looks down his throat and notes he had scrambled eggs and beans for breakfast.

Then he says, "Friend, if it were high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, Meniere's disease or some other inner disturbance we could treat it by limitation of salt intake, avoiding rapid changes of position or bat soup."

The fellow asks for a translation of this and El Medio replies, "What you got is nothing. You ain't even dizzy."

Of course the fellow is tremendously pleased and says for a fact, he all of a sudden never felt better. Then he asks how much?

"Ten pesos," says El Medico. "Feeling fine, huh?"

The fellow begins weaving and mumbles, "Like I'm gonna fall outta this tree that bill makes me so dizzy."

Of course, his impression of vertigo was possibly due to loose dandruff but YOUR dizziness may come from the type of TV programs you watch and you should see your doctor today.

He knows you best, if that means anything.

DO-SI-DO—Young and old alike joined in the square dancing Monday night on the Snyder Square. Pictured are children of the members of the Country Cousins Square Dance Club as they performed a square dance to "Puff, the Magic Dragon." Some 80 dancers joined in the squares as a crowd estimated at 1,500 looked on. Specialty acts and dances were performed by Pee Wee Sellars of Ira and a group of dancers from Colorado City.

Brazil Impresses Snyder Student

Margaret Zeck, Snyder's American Field Service student in Brazil this summer is impressed with that country, but no more so than with the AFS program itself.

In a letter to The Snyder Daily News, Miss Zeck particularly asked that the AFS chapter here be commended for its program of bringing foreign students to Snyder and sending Snyder students to other lands.

The text of Miss Zeck's letter follows:

To all the people of Snyder:

Saudacao! Thank you so very much for any help you gave to the AFS program! Though I have only truly been a member for one week, I firmly believe in the value of this organization. Of course I have aleady benefitted greatly from my experience, but what is more important, I feel sure Snyder will grow in its understanding of Brazil, one of America's most loyal brothers! They gave us a very warm greeting and have been very interested in seeing that we Americans understand all about their way of life. I hope that the 80 Americans in Brazil will be as successful ambassadors of our country as both the United States and Brazil expect us to be.

These people are very interested in America — not only in numerous material things, but they have stressed the fact that they fight for the same ideals that we do — Democracy, Peace, Fraternity, etc. However, Brazil is very Brazilian, too. They have their own individual beliefs and many charming customs. Oh, there is so much to tell you after only one week! Most of all, though, I wish to say "muito obrigada!" Thank you all very much!!

Very appreciatively,
Margaret Zeck

Convention Has Usual Array Of Events, But Little Fire

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—This Republican convention has all the usual—bands, singing, too many speeches—and no fire, thanks to the man with the extinguisher, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Two things looked certain before the delegates got here: that Goldwater had the presidential nomination locked up and Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton had no chance for it.

Every time Scranton tried to light a match it got squirted with silence, or near-silence, by the highly confident, well-oiled Goldwater organization.

The attitude and the strategy were obvious enough: Why get Scranton any more attention by arguing with him?

There's no sign Scranton has been able to inflame the delegates from the time he announced his opposition to Goldwater last June 12. On the contrary, his bid for the nomination so far has looked extremely inept and futile.

This is an example:

Sunday night, the convention eve, Goldwater received a letter over Scranton's signature in contemptuous language which the governor himself now says was "too strong." Goldwater was angry. But Goldwater's aides played it cool.

They sent a copy of the letter to every delegate and alternate delegate in the belief it would backfire against Scranton. They attached a note from Goldwater's campaign manager, Denison Kitchel, who said the letter "tragically" reflected on the party and the convention.

But Monday Scranton said he didn't compose the letter, and an aide said the governor hadn't seen it before it went to Goldwater. But Scranton said he is responsible for the letter, nevertheless.

By the time Scranton had decided to get into the contest in June, after wrestling with himself, Goldwater already had enormous delegate strength. He had been building it for 3½ years. Scranton had only about six weeks before the convention to undo it.

His main argument for getting into the race, of course, had to be that Goldwater was not the man for the nomination. To be convincing he would have had to show a vast difference between him and Goldwater or a real danger in Goldwater.

Instead, he started off politely, got impolite, got polite again. It was an on-and-off performance. It seemed uncertain. In short, what he waged was anything but a fierce, all-out fight. Finally, he worked up to calling Goldwater unfit for the presidency.

Meanwhile he put great reliance—or appeared to—in the hope that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower would work the necessary magic of swinging delegates to him by coming out in his support.

This kind of impression was further built up by Henry Cabot Lodge after a talk with Eisenhower. Lodge announced he had quit his job as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam to come home to help Scranton win.

The former president chilled all this by insisting he was staying neutral.

So Scranton lost what might have been his best bet for influencing the delegates. What good, if any, Lodge was ever able to do for Scranton isn't clear at this writing.

Just bedore the convention Scranton was so obviously not making progress in winning delegates for himself or weaning them away from Goldwater that he went out to Illinois and started shaking hands with commuters in a railroad station.

But most of the Illinois delegates had already lined up with Goldwater. So what was Scranton doing shaking hands with commuters? He explained it was to convince Illinois Republicans to put the heat on the delegates to join up with Scranton. It didn't work.

If Scranton still hoped that somehow Eisenhower might help him, he got his final disillusionment Monday as the convention opened, and Eisenhower held a news conference. He said he wouldn't endorse anyone.

Affidavit Search Ordered By Court

LUFKIN (AP) — Dist. Atty. Hulon Brown was under court orders today to search for five affidavits said to allege election fraud in the June 6 Democrat run-off primary for nomination as Angelina County sheriff.

Dist. Judge Jack Pierce issued the order Monday on motion of attorneys for Pete McBride, winner of the run-off by a margin of one vote out of 12,000 cast.

Pierce was named defendant in an election fraud suit filed by the incumbent sheriff, Leon Jones, the loser. The trial is eight days old.

Coin Shortage Prompts Bargain

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —The coin shortage is getting so severe in Albuquerque that one Albuquerque bank is advertising a bargain on the new Kennedy half dollar.

First National Bank of Albuquerque said it was selling the new 50 cent pieces for 49 cents each with a limit of six per customer.

The only catch was that the purchase price must be paid in pennies and nickles.
