Spring Turns Other Cheek: Dust, High Wind, A Freeze

Spring, tricky and deceitful—as very often she is—in her dealings with this part of the country, laid aside Tuesday the benign and lovely character she has been playing since her advent Sunday.

She whipped up a nasty dust storm, stirred up gusty winds of high force and jammed an icy finger into the thermometer to push the red down to a chilly 30 degrees.

The scope of her treachery is indicated in the 55 degree span between Tuesday's high of 85 and the early Wednesday reading of 30 degrees.

Naturally, there was no moisture—just dust, chill and wind. The U.S. Experiment Station said that the freezing weather lasted only an hour and did not occur until about daybreak today. Because it was so brief and the reading only two degrees under freezing, it is not anticipated any damage was done to fruit and shrubs.

The 30 degree reading did not set a record for March 22, but it came very near doing so. The all-time low for March 22 in the history of this county was in 1912 when the reading was 29 degrees.

In case any one is hoping this is the last cold spell of the year, the record books hold out little encouragement. The latest date that a killing freeze seems to have swept this county was April 27, 1947. The temperature dropped to 27 degrees then.

Van Runs Over, Kills Youngster

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—A three-year-old boy was killed Tuesday when a large moving van ran over him.

He was identified as Paul H. Phelps, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy F. Phelps of Sherman. Witnesses said the boy ran into the side of the van. The driver, Leonard Meyer, 42, of Wichita Falls, was hospitalized with shock. Meyer is a recent heart patient.

Crawford Martin Outlines Public Service Background

A candidate for attorney general of Texas, Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, paid a brief visit to Big Spring Tuesday, for a luncheon with a group of attorneys, public officials, and businessmen, and then moving on to other engagements with a promise to return before the campaign is over.

Martin, one of three men in what possibly will be the year's most spirited race for a state office, pointed out that polls currently show him to be a heavy favorite.

He spoke informally to the group here, mainly outlining his background of public service. As for problems ahead, he said he would carry on the state's present program for stricter law enforcement, would continue Waggoner Carr's Youth Conference on Crime, and would favor some modification and correction of the state's new criminal code.

Martin said he felt his career in public service merited support for the office of attorney general. He started out two decades ago as mayor of his native Hillsboro (he was born there just 50 years ago). Then he was elected to the state Senate seat once held by his father, the late Senator Will M. Martin.

The younger Martin served in the Senate for 14 years, holding major committee positions and sponsoring much significant legislation. He was named president pro tempore of the Senate in 1955.

Governor John Connally appointed Martin to the post of Secretary of State. He just recently resigned that post to make the current campaign.

Dust Settles Across Nearly Half Of State

By The Associated Press

Frost nipped the Texas Panhandle again today as dust still settled from the sky across nearly half the state and chilled air spread into all sections.

A cold front which started kicking up all the weather fuss the day before swept all the way to the coast but waited until after daylight to envelop the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

20 DEGREES

Early morning temperatures sank to 20 degrees at Dalhart and 23 at Amarillo in the Panhandle. At the same hour Brownsville, on the southern tip of the state and still south of the front, recorded 65 degrees. Winds up to 70 miles per hour—only a little short of hurricane force—in parts of West Texas whirled clouds of silt across the sky all the way from El Paso into the Fort Worth-Dallas area by late Tuesday.

It was still dusty early today around El Paso, Wink, Midland, San Angelo and Junction.

Occasional showers and thunderstorms ranged across North Central and Northeast Texas during the night, clearing the air of silt.

EBBING WINDS

Ebbing winds also permitted the dust to settle over much of the Panhandle-Plains sector by morning.

It was in the Panhandle also that snow flurries developed for a time after the new northerly swept past Tuesday. The white flakes flew briskly around Dumas, Dalhart, Perryton and Spearman but melted as they fell, yielding only traces of moisture.

Downstate, thunderstorms apparently were heaviest around Lake Texoma, on the Red River near Denison. Vicious winds pounded that area but there was no word of severe damage.

ONLY MOISTURE

And by this morning the only moisture being reported was in Southeast Texas, including the Lufkin vicinity, and from Victoria eastward along the middle Texas coast.

All parts of Texas were promised fair and colder weather tonight, with a little warming due in the west Thursday.

New long range forecasts, for the period through March 28, called for temperatures average 3 to 10 degrees below normal across the state, continued cold the rest of this week in southern areas and a new cold spell about the weekend in other sections.

A roaring spring blizzard whipped through the Plains states today, leaving behind deep snows which were whirled into drifts by biting winds.

Six deaths were attributed to the blizzard: three in Nebraska, two in Wyoming and one in South Dakota.

DEEP SNOW

Much of South Dakota's Black Hills had up to two feet of snow. Winds measured at 50 to 70 miles per hour whirled across Nebraska Tuesday and Tuesday night. All roads were treacherous and were impassable in central and western areas.

Twenty-nine children, a driver and a teacher spent the night huddled in blankets in a stalled school bus between Ord and Loup City in central Nebraska. At O'Neill in the same area, an expectant mother finally reached a hospital via a wrecker after two cars tried to get her to a hospital and both became stalled.

LINES DOWN

Many power and telephone lines were down in the central and northern areas as up to 10 inches of snow fell.

Dirigible Flyer In 1909 Says Jets 'Monotonous'

DALLAS (AP)—"Flying a jet can be monotonous as hell," said retired Maj. Gen. Benjamin Foulis, 86, who got into aviation 57 years ago.

He volunteers that appraisal from the vantage point of a man who started with 54 minutes of instruction from Wilbur Wright and estimates he crashed 25 to 30 times while teaching himself to keep a plane in the air.

Foulis, white haired and ramrod straight, now lives at Washington's Andrews Air Force Base. He talked to a reporter shortly after arriving Tuesday to be honor guest at a convention of the Air Force Association.

He was a first lieutenant who had been flying dirigibles in 1909 when Wilbur Wright taught him a few rudiments and the Army put Foulis in command

Red China Blasts Russian Invitation

TOKYO (AP)—Red China angrily rejected today a Soviet invitation to the Communist party congress in Moscow, charging the Russians slandered the Chinese by sending a letter to other parties "instigating them to join you in opposing China."

Shortly after Radio Peking made the announcement, the Albanian radio said Albania would boycott the congress and accused Soviet leaders of "insolence, big power chauvinism and anti-Semitism." Albania is Red China's sole ally in Europe.

Whether Red China would attend the Moscow congress opening next Tuesday had been a question. The terms of the rejection, dated Tuesday, seemed to say that the anti-Chinese letter the Russians sent to Communist parties throughout the world was the main factor in the decision.

The Soviet congress is expected to widen the split between the Soviet Union and Red China, although it is possible nothing will leak out until later. Outside Red China and Albania, most of the world's Communist parties are expected to be represented. The Chinese Communist Central Committee signed the rejection in answer to a Soviet invitation Feb. 24. The Soviet letter to other world parties, first disclosed last week by the U.S. Information Service radio in West Berlin, RIAS, and later published in textual form by the West German newspaper Die Welt.

According to the published version, the Russians accused China of trying to bring on a war between the Soviet Union and the United States, of blocking Soviet aid to North Viet Nam, and of provoking conflicts on the Chinese-Soviet border.

Rumblings By Anti-U.S. Bloc Heard

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—New antigovernment demonstrations erupted in Da Nang and Hue today, intensifying the political dispute between Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime and the Buddhist leadership. For the first time there were anti-American overtones.

Ten thousand persons milled about the city hall in Hue, the old imperial capital. Some carried banners attacking the United States for supporting Ky's military rule.

THANK AMERICANS

However, one knot of demonstrators carried banner saying: "We thank our American friends for helping us fight the Viet Cong."

American and Vietnamese employees at the nearby U.S. Information Service building hastily locked doors and hid equipment as rumors flew that the demonstrators might sack the center.

Two thousand persons attended an antigovernment rally in Da Nang amid another general strike that closed most shops in the northern military center.

MORE BODIES

The flurry of new agitation for ouster of the Saigon government took the spotlight from the fighting fronts. Another 100 bodies were found today by U.S. Marines at the scene of their battle with two Communist battalions about 70 miles south of Da Nang on Monday.

The dead brought the enemy toll claimed by the Leathernecks in their four-day Operation Texas in Quang Ngai Province, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, to 358 killed. The freshly dug graves were discovered in the village of Phon Dinh.

KILLED, CAPTURED

Another 99 Communists killed and 8 captured were reported by Marines in Operation Oregon, on the northern flank of the main Leatherneck push. This phase of operation was closed out today.

While the Marines hunted down the Reds in the coastal rice fields, U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and F4 Phantom jets returned to the Muga Pass in North Viet Nam, where the fighter-bombers caught a stalled convoy of 50 trucks Monday. On their return, the jets sighted another 20 camouflaged vehicles parked on Route 15 and dive-bombed them. There was no report of results.

STRATEGIC PASS

The strategic pass, 65 miles south of Vinh, lies at the convergence of Routes 7 and 15 and is a funnel into the Ho Chi Minh Trail in neighboring Laos.

LBJ Sees De Gaulle Move Periling West

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson warned the Atlantic Allies today that President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to reform their alliance could imperil the security of France and endanger the safety of the Western world.

While he expressed confidence that the United States and 13 allies will stick together to preserve NATO, without France if necessary, Johnson said:

"If our collective effort should falter—and our common determination be eroded—the foundations of the alliance's present stability would be shaken."

Johnson never mentioned De Gaulle by name in his first public response by him since the French president served notice three weeks ago that he intends to pull his military forces out of NATO, oust NATO military headquarters from France and recover control of U.S. and Allied NATO bases on French territory.

Johnson spoke at the State Department to an audience of Foreign Service officers. Twenty-four hours earlier he had sent a personal message to De Gaulle, responding to an earlier letter from De Gaulle setting forth De Gaulle's policies on the future of NATO.

The split between Johnson and De Gaulle on the NATO issue is complete. De Gaulle wants to dismantle the NATO military system and preserve only the Atlantic Alliance pledge of 15 allies to help each other in case of attack. Johnson said the military system is an essential part of deterring aggression.

Johnson said NATO reform should be accomplished by the Allies working together, seeking to improve rather than to dismantle the defense system.

"Consultation, not isolation, is the route to reform," he said. It was evident his reference to "isolation" was meant to apply to De Gaulle.

The chief executive said at the outset that "we do not believe there is any righteousness in standing pat" on NATO.

He added: "If any organization is alive and vital—if it is constituted a detailed reply to a message which De Gaulle sent him March 7. He gave a preliminary response at that time saying that the problems which De Gaulle had raised would have to be dealt with not by the United States and France alone but by the entire 15-nation alliance.

Subsequently De Gaulle sent word of his decision to other Allied governments and published a note in which he set forth his major plans—to remove France's two divisions and two air squadrons in Germany from NATO command and to establish French sovereignty over U.S. and other NATO air, sea and supply bases on French territory.

R. Garcia Dies Tuesday

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Reynaldo Garcia, 36, died suddenly Tuesday at his home in Colorado City, apparently of a heart attack. Garcia had been ill in a San Antonio Hospital for several weeks and had been dismissed Friday, and had returned home.

He was an employee of the Jarbit Construction Company, and had been working in San Antonio. He was born in Colorado City, Jan. 24, 1930, and married Paula Reyes in 1951. He was a member of St. Anne's Catholic Church and services will be held there Thursday at 10:30 a.m. Burial will be in the Mitchell County Cemetery under the direction of the Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Guerrero Garcia, Colorado City; his widow; one son, Reynaldo Jr.; two daughters, Ludivina and Laurencia, all of Colorado City; six brothers and three sisters.

CHAMP SPELLERS OF ST. MARY'S SCHOOL

St. Mary's Has School Champion

Paul Talbot, 9-year-old fourth grader at St. Mary's Episcopal Church School, is the first 1966 Howard County School Spelling Bee champion. Young Paul won his right to represent his school by out-spelling eight of his classmates.

Alternate spelling champion of St. Mary's is Beth Hungerford, 10, a classmate of Paul's. She dropped out in the elimination, and will now be the speller for her school in the eventuality that Paul cannot appear at the county spelling bee on April 16.

Paul is the son of Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Talbot, 1508 Dayton.

Beth is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Donald E. Hungerford, 901 Dallas. He is the rector of St. Mary's church. Paul will join school champions from all of the elementary schools and the two junior high schools of Big Spring, as well as the champions of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parochial School and of Midway school, in a try for the county title.

The county spelling bee, sponsored by the Big Spring Herald, will be held in the Big Spring High School cafeteria at 10 a.m. April 16. Winner gets a free trip to Lubbock, an engraved plaque for his victory, and a chance to try for the National Spelling Bee in Washington.

Salvationists To Meet Friday
More than 500 teenagers from 38 Texas cities will join 70 Salvation Army officers in San Antonio Friday for the 1966 annual Texas Youth Council. The council is sponsored by the Texas Salvation Army. Registration begins Friday afternoon in the Granada Hotel and meetings are scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

Attending from Big Spring will be Capt. William Thomas of the Salvation Army, Mary Lou Galindo, Mary Moore, Julie Delbosque, and Johnny Rodriguez. Youths attending the conference are Salvation Army corps cadets in the Army in their home towns.

'Little White House' Nearer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate over which Hubert H. Humphrey presides will decide the fate of a bill to provide an official residence for Humphrey and his successors as vice president. By a partisan vote of 197 to 184, the House passed a bill Tuesday calling for expenditure of $750,000 to build a "Little White House" on 10 acres of government-owned land on the grounds of the Naval Observatory.

Only six Republicans voted for the measure. The Senate passed last year a bill to create a commission to study the need for a vice presidential residence and report within 18 months its recommendations for a site.

BEFORE 1969
The House measure would permit construction of the home in time for Humphrey to occupy it before his term expires in January, 1969. He lives now in suburban Chevy Chase, Md. There was no indication of how the Senate would react to the House proposal. But House supporters said they believe the Senate might accept the House version and send the bill to President Johnson who requested its enactment.

There was no argument against the premise that the vice president ought to have an official home paid for and maintained by the government. "BAD TIMING"
But Republicans, led by Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, said the timing was bad. With the administration calling for reductions in school milk, military housing and education program, Republicans said, Congress should not embark on any nonessential spending projects.

The House bill would merely authorize the General Services Administration to go ahead with construction and furnishing of the home. Separate legislation would be required to put up the money to do the job and to provide for maintenance and upkeep of the residence after it is built.

Pakistan Shows Off Jets, Tanks From China

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan, technically a military ally of the United States, disclosed today that it is getting tanks and jet planes from Communist China.

The Pakistani army included five Chinese-made T59 medium tanks in the military hardware it rolled out for a Pakistan Day parade in Rawalpindi, the nation's capital, 1,000 miles north of Karachi.

A flier of modern jet planes included four Chinese-made MIG19 fighters.

It was the first time Pakistan had exhibited any Communist weapons. The bulk of its forces in the past have been equipped with American weapons received under aid agreements stemming from Pakistan's membership in the U.S.-backed Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) and Central Treaty Organization (CENTO).

A Pakistani military spokesman said the Chinese T59 is classed as a fast-medium tank. It carries a 100mm gun, he said.

Interstate Tax Plan Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr told the special subcommittee on state taxation of interstate commerce today that passage of the interstate taxation act would destroy taxpayers' confidence in the tax system.

The interstate taxation act would prohibit state taxation of interstate corporations unless the corporations own land in the state or have at least one employee who works solely in the state.

The act would permit states to participate in a cooperative administrative tax system, headed by the secretary of the treasury, whereby states can tax multistate corporations but only to the extent prescribed by federal law.

Carr said he opposes the bill for three main reasons: "It exempts certain subjects from taxation by states and is therefore an interference with the sovereignty of the state."

"The facts upon which the subcommittee has justified the introduction of the bill are insufficient to support the broad limitations of the bill."

"The means chosen by the subcommittee are inappropriate to accomplish the objectives of a fair and uniform tax system."

How You May Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon—becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine.

The new miracle substance—known medically as diocetyl sodium sulfosuccinate—works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moist and softens dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name Reaflow. It is safe — not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try Reaflow—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

Klan Chief Identified

HOUSTON (AP) — The new Texas chief of the Ku Klux Klan said Tuesday he "will not tolerate any violence" from members.

Jack Cannon of Beaumont was elected March 13 by about 60 Klansmen, it was disclosed, to complete the term of Royce McPhail of Crockett which expires Dec. 10.

McPhail resigned as grand dragon earlier this month, asserting the group was "bent on violence."

Cannon declared in an interview that McPhail's charge was "all politics." He said Klan members have not engaged in violence and will not do so in the future.

John Aspinwall of Houston, state grand klalif of the Klan, said Cannon's election was "sort of a fast deal—we had to get somebody in the driver's seat."

Both said the Klan's primary goal is battling communism. "We don't have anything against the colored race as long as they stay in their place," Cannon said, adding that Negroes "can have their rights, but we want some of our rights back too."

Connally Urges Better Libraries

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally said today that, in striving to build Texas' educational and cultural strength, "we have not given equal attention to one of our most important resources — public libraries."

Speaking to the First Governor's Conference on Libraries, Connally listed statistics to show what he meant:

—One-half million school children do not have a centralized library in their schools.

—Only 84 cents per person is spent annual on public library services.

—Public libraries offer less than one whole book per person.

"Briefly," Connally said, "our problems can be summarized as widespread substandard library services; too many small, poorly paid, inadequately trained staffs; impoverished book collections; library buildings that damage community pride; confused patterns of service in metropolitan areas and unevenly distributed expenditure for service."

He said Texas is so far behind the national standard for libraries that the Texas Library Association adopted "interim standards," but still couldn't find much about which to boast.

The governor said a partial solution is "cooperation through a linking of library units throughout the state."

He said the college coordinating board and public education committee are studying libraries' problems, and added:

"It is my sincere hope that this meeting today will mark the beginning of a new era in Texas library development."

Charity To Get Gifts Store Sent To Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A number of gifts called "Texas Scratch Pads" sent to Washington have been donated to charity and some have been returned to a San Antonio Department store.

The "scratch pads," a book of five new dollar bills which were sent to members of the White House staff, have been donated to charity, and those sent to the Washington press corps are being returned.

They were sent in appreciation of the selection of San Antonio as the base of operations for newsmen covering one of President Johnson's recent Texas trips.

The money, credit cards, and a letter were sent Washington newsmen by Frost Brothers, according to Deputy White House Press Secretary Robert H. Fleming.

NO DECISION

Fleming said Tuesday no official decision has been made to retain San Antonio as press headquarters or return the headquarters to Austin, where it had been for several years.

He said there had been some "discussion of providing office space in San Antonio for the President."

At least six members of the President's staff and 40 to 50 other newsmen received the cash, credit cards and letter from the San Antonio department store this week.

The accompanying letter voiced happiness that "the press, television and radio coverage of President Johnson has seen fit to honor San Antonio as a Texas home base."

TO CHARITY

Fleming said all six members of the White House staff donated their "scratch pads" to charity. He said he wrote the chairman of the board of the store saying he appreciated the thoughtfulness and generosity of the gift so he was going to be generous with the gift and donate it to charity.

It was reported that most of the members of the press corps mailed the money back to the sender.

The bidding was straightforward. Altho South's rebid of two spades designates a more or less minimum holding in high cards, North was willing to undertake a game contract, for his hand was worth 13 points in support. He, therefore, proceeded without further ado to four spades.

West opened the jack of hearts and South played the ace. A small spade was led at trick two and, when West followed with the four, the ten was put in from dummy—losing to East's king. A heart came back placing West on lead and the latter switched to the ten of clubs. South played North's ace.

The ace and king of diamonds were cashed, followed by a diamond ruff as East showed out. A spade to the ace put the dummy in to trump out West's remaining diamond and establish North's long card in that suit. If the spades had divided two-two, the seven of spades would have provided a late entry to cash the nine of diamonds for a much needed shift.

When West showed out on the second round of spades, declarer's hopes faded and there was no way to avoid the loss of two clubs and he went down to defeat.

North observed that, if his partner had led the queen of spades from his hand originally, dummy's ten is retained as a late entry to the diamond. East can frustrate this plan, however, by holding off the king of spades for one round.

South can assure his contract by going after the diamonds immediately. The ace and king are cashed, followed by a third round ruff as East shows out. The trump finesse may be tried next losing to the king. When North regains the lead with the ace of clubs, a second diamond ruff establishes the nine. Trumps are drawn with two more pulls ending up in dummy, and the good diamond provides South with his 10th trick.

LBJ Rejects Tax Increase At Present

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has firmly rejected suggestions for an immediate tax increase as a hedge against inflation.

But he left the door open for a possible tax boost later if his administration feels it is needed.

"NOT NOW" — "We don't want to act prematurely," Johnson told a news conference Tuesday. "We don't want to put the brakes too fast."

Johnson cited signs of a slowdown in the economy — including a 17 per cent drop in housing starts during February — and said the administration wants to assess the effects of the recently signed tax measure before taking any new anti-inflationary steps.

This measure, designed to raise about $6 billion over the next 15 months, reimposed excise taxes which were reduced last Jan. 1, and will speed collections of corporate and personal income taxes.

SPECIAL "AIDE" — In the impromptu news conference in his office, Johnson also:

— Named Robert W. Komer, formerly deputy special assistant to the president, as a special assistant on nonmilitary matters in Viet Nam. He will direct policies in such fields as education, medical care and social and economic reform.

— Said the United States is anxious for more contacts and exchanges with Red China but this won't occur until China's attitude changes.

— Remarked that the AFL-CIO has always been independent and should be. He was asked about the recent statements of George Meany, the AFL-CIO president, that the labor organization would ally itself in the future with neither major party.

CLAIMS "AMUSING" — Called amusing claims of Republican leaders that the GOP will make big gains in the November congressional election. The President said he would give his advice in the election campaign if it were solicited but he has no fixed dates for any campaigning.

— Announced that Ambassador John A. Gronouski, former postmaster general, will return to the United States from Warsaw within the next several weeks for consultation.

Wool Incentive Payments Almost Doubled By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's incentive payment rate on 1965 shorn wool will be almost twice as much as similar payments made in 1964, the Agriculture Department announced Tuesday.

Producers of 1965 wool will receive $31.60 in incentive payments for each 100 lbs. of wool made from the sale of such wool. The incentive program is designed to encourage production of more wool in the United States. The country now depends on imports for much of its wool needs.

The department also announced a payment rate of 60 cents per 100 pounds on unshorn lambs sold or slaughtered in 1965. The 1964 rate was 35 cents per hundredweight.

A similar incentive payment will go to producers of mohair, which is shorn from goats. A payment rate of 9.9 per cent will be made on returns growers made from the sale of mohair in 1965. The last mohair incentive payment was in 1962.

Future Holds Lady Priests?

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A world-renowned Roman Catholic theologian today foresaw the ordination of women in the Church.

The Rev. Bernard Haring of Germany said he believed it feasible "to ordain women as deaconesses."

After that the question could be raised whether they "can be called to the priesthood," he said. "I would not say yes, but I would not close the door to it."

The diaconate is a level of holy orders prior to the full priesthood that involves ordination.

SUBJECT ARISES

The subject, which touched off a lively exchange, arose Tuesday at an international conference at the University of Notre Dame on the long-range ramifications of Rome's historic Vatican Council II.

Sister Mary Ann Ida, president of Mundelein College at Chicago, interjected it was a great comfort that "at long last the Church is turning to consideration of the role of women in the Church."

Past barriers to them, she added, have been based on sociological and historical factors, rather than religious grounds.

Some Protestant churches, including Presbyterian, Methodist and the United Church of Christ, permit ordination of women, but relatively few are in that office. They are barred from it in most major churches, Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic.

Leading scholars of the various denominations are taking part in the meeting here.

EARLY CHRISTIANITY

Father Haring, one of Rome's most influential moral theologians, and now a visiting professor at Brown University, said there were deaconesses in early Christianity, and advocated that the office be restored.

"At present, I would advise them not to make claims on the episcopacy (the position of bishop or the papacy)," and added he feels they could meet the demands of holy orders as well or "better than men."

DEAR ABBY

Make Up Your Mind

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow contemplating marriage to a widower. He is affectionate, trustworthy, and thoughtful. He loves my children and they love him. He is a wonderful father to his own children. He cooks, cleans, washes, irons, and never complains. We couldn't help but have smooth sailing, and I do love him, but my problem is the strong objections my family has to this man. They don't like him because our backgrounds are so different. My parents are culture-conscious and somewhat snobbish. My friend is one of 15 children of a struggling Canadian farm family. His English is not very good, and he has not had the educational advantages I have had. If left alone, I'm sure we could overcome these differences, but I am very close to my family and they could make life unbearable for me if I were to marry this man. I've told him yes, but wonder if perhaps I should reverse my decision. Do you consider my parents' objections too great a stumbling block?

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Yes. Because apparently you do. When you are able to say, "I intend to live my own life with a man of my choice and . . . If my parents don't like it, they can lump it," I'll reverse my answer.

DEAR ABBY: The young bride's situation isn't hopeless. She can do several things if she feels certain that the only reason her "Lochinvar" married her was to keep from being drafted. She could make sure she doesn't have any children for a while. If this is distasteful or impossible, she can separate from her husband and notify his local draft board that he is no longer supporting a wife. Marriage is no longer keeping men out of the service. I know because I am 24, have been married for 3 years, have no children, have a college education, a fine professional position, and I am . . . BEING DRAFTED

Mullins Mother Authors Book For Youngsters

Mrs. Vera Cooper Mullins, mother of Curt Mullins, executive secretary of the YMCA, is author of a book of fiction for children, "Kala and the Sea Bird."

Mrs. Mullins, who describes herself as a housewife who likes to write, and her husband, Roy C. Mullins, live at 1605 Giddings, Wichita Falls. She has been writing since 1946, mostly for children. A number of her articles have appeared in "Children's Activities" and in church school literature.

"Kala and the Sea Bird" is under the imprint of Golden Gate Junior Books of San Carlos, Calif., and it is a handsome volume illustrated by Earl Tholander, a California artist. The Book Stall here is due to have copies of the book this weekend.

The story has to do with Kala, an orphan among a Haida tribe. He longs to prove himself a man and helps with the building of a giant canoe, the Sea Bird. In the climax, he faces great danger to save the fish catch for the native fishermen.

Spears Snipes At Opponents

KIRBYVILLE, Tex. (AP) — State Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, seeking the Democratic nomination for attorney general, told supporters in Kirbyville Tuesday he is a progressive Democrat independent of any pressure group.

"On the other hand," Spears said, "Crawford Martin is a do-nothing captive of the lobbyists and Galloway Calhoun is a reactionary who is not aware of the 20th Century, and has never supported a Democratic nominee for President of the United States."

Bomb In For Lengthy Study If Recovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The missing American hydrogen bomb will be dissected like a fish if the United States ever reels it up from the bottom of the sea off Spain.

Officials said today that once the bomb is recovered it will be dismantled and subjected to months — and some parts for years — of study.

This is to find out in all detail possible how the thermonuclear device was affected by an in-flight collision and months in the salt water of the Mediterranean where it ended up when a U.S. B52 jet and its refueling tanker collided six miles above the coast of Spain Jan. 17. It drifted by parachute into the sea.

Miniature submarines have been trying to maneuver the bomb into a favorable position for recovery the past several days. Officials say it might be days or weeks before the bomb is surfaced.

Once in hand, the gray, tubular device will be taken to an unspecified base of the Defense Atomic Support Agency (DASA), officials said. DASA builds the nation's nuclear hardware.

"You can rest assured it will get a thorough going-over," one spokesman said. "We bring nuclear bombs back to the shop if they're so much as scratched."

Dozens of experts will be called in for various examinations of the bomb's components. They have probed the intricacies of a few other nuclear weapons which were damaged in plane crashes or merely dented in transporting.

Getting into the bomb isn't a particularly complicated or ticklish matter. Its insides are bared by removal of bolted-on plates.

The scientists and technicians will be interested primarily in two things about the bomb: its safety features and structure.

Probably none of the weapon's parts will be used in another H-bomb.

Woman Decides To Drive Truck

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mrs. John Morgan, 43, is closing her one-woman girdle factory to become a truck driver.

"I've been fascinated by trucks since I was 12 when my brother George had one, and I've always loved driving," she said, explaining why she decided to change careers. She said she finds driving "even in traffic, very relaxing."

Mrs. Morgan is in the final week of a three-week truck driving course at Millville Airport in New Jersey.

wouldn't even suspect," she said.

Her instructor, Ernest Moran, who is no relation, said she's coming along just fine.

"She's built to handle the equipment and she doesn't complain as much as the men about handling the rigs. I think she keeps them on their toes," said the instructor.

Mrs. Morgan weighs 235 pounds.

The problems she faced including learning the intricate year shift and how to steer a big rig.

"My big problem now," she said, is backing up. But that comes with experience. You see, when you turn the wheels one way, the trailer goes the other. It can be very confusing."

Verwoerd Still Strong Power In S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — He rules with a hand of iron, but he has the innocent look of a well scrubbed schoolboy. His bulky 6-foot frame carries a high-pitched voice. He is often beaming.

As a politician, Hendrik Verwoerd had much to smile about. His Nationalist party has been in undisputed power 17 years. He has been prime minister for seven.

He can face the March 30 election with supreme confidence. His party won 65 per cent of contested seats in 1961's parliamentary elections, and Verwoerd has good reason to believe his party will do better this time.

BASIC ISSUE

Only white voters choose the all-white House of Assembly, and the basic issue of the election is how the government can best insure that the three million whites continue to dominate the nation with its 14 million nonwhites.

Verwoerd is the architect of his party's apartheid policy. He accepts personal responsibility for the country's foreign relations. He designs its broad economic policies. He tells the United States no Negro pilots from the aircraft carrier Independence can land at South African airports. His directing hand is everywhere.

His supporters say he stands out as one of the last great defenders of a privileged place for the white man in the African sun. They argue that recent military coups in independent African-ruled countries have undermined the fundamental wisdom of his white supremacy policy.

VERWOERD'S CLAIM

Verwoerd claims black rule here would bring swift regression to despotism and suffering for white and black alike, opening the way for Communists to step in and take over.

He believes that the good life in South Africa — black labor, African servants, glorious sunshine and the fruits of the land and the mineral wealth underneath — is the white man's by right. He sweeps aside any obstacle to white supremacy.

He in effect crushed the small Liberal party led by author Alan Paton. Recently his government had more than 3,500 political detainees under arrest. He insists on laws which make it almost impossible for Africans to advance in industry or politically. He has threatened churches which show liberal tendencies, warned the opposition press of possible action, intensified apartheid in sports and entertainments, and moved toward keeping African servants out of mainly white cities at night.

WHITES APPROVE

The bulk of the white population apparently approves. The two main white sectors, Afrikaans and English-speaking, have in a sense consolidated under Verwoerd's leadership.

Verwoerd presides over an industrial giant which for four years has enjoyed an economic boom.

His security forces, predominantly white and militantly dedicated to his principles, seem in no danger of internal black-inspired revolt.

South Africa can put 250,000 trained white soldiers into the field. It has 130,000 more in reserves. The country feels safe from invasion from the north. "We could finish off any of these black African states before breakfast," Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster has said.

Record City Budget Given Okay Tuesday

City commissioners approved a record-breaking $2,880,000 city budget last night at a meeting attended by only five interested citizens.

None of the five opposed any portion of the budget, but rather praised the commission for holding the tax line for so long before going to a raise.

NO COMPLAINT

"I see no major complaint to the budget," Robert W. Whipple, Herald publisher, said. "The fact that the tax line was held for so long is good, but extra money had to come from somewhere."

"I congratulate you on holding the budget as low as it is," W. J. Shepherd told commissioners.

Dr. G. E. Peacock predicted a need "within the next couple of years" for a city-county hospital.

"We're beginning Medicare in June," he said, "and the hospitals here are talking about not going along with it. The present facilities are taxed to their limit."

He cited figures showing that Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital admitted indigent patients to the tune of $40,000 last year; Howard County Hospital Foundation, $38,000; Medical Arts Clinic-Hospital, $20,000; and Cowper Clinic and Hospital, $67,500. He said the county reimbursed the hospitals this way: to Malone and Hogan, $586; Howard County Hospital, $580; Medical Arts, $15; and Cowper, $847.

BEGIN THINKING

"I know care of indigents is not the city's responsibility," he said, "but I feel you should be gin thinking about a city-county hospital."

The budget was passed unanimously. State National Bank was once again chosen as the city's bank depository for the fiscal year. The bid submitted by the bank showed varying interest rates on certificates of deposit, ranging from 5½ per cent on 270-365 day certificates to 4½ per cent on 90-day certificates. Other bidders were Security State Bank, offering interest payments of 4½ per cent; and the First National Bank, with a 4½ per cent offer.

The bid of Paddock of Texas for a new filter system for the City Park swimming pool, consisting of three filter tanks, a 20 horsepower pump and 8-inch connections, of $4,355, was accepted. It was low bid. Other bidders were Swinequip, Inc., $4,997.47; and Atlas Engineering Co., $4,975.

LESS COST
"Rehabilitation of the pool will cost several thousand dollars less than we had anticipated," Roy Anderson, assistant city manager, told commissioners, citing the low bids.

Continental Oil Co., and Gulf

Oil Corp. shared winning bids for lubricating oils and greases for city equipment. Gulf was low bidder on lubrication grease and hydraulic oil; and Continental was low on engine lubrication, diesel fuel and kerosene. Other bids were from Mobil, Standard Oil and Humble.

News Camera Man Fired

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bill Seymour was fired Thursday as a news camera man for Station KTVT in Fort Worth because he took pictures in the federal courthouse at Dallas.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes already had fined him $25 for contempt. Seymour disregarded a court ban on photos, later explaining he wanted to test the legal validity of this rule.

James L. Terrell, KTVT manager, said Seymour likewise violated instructions from his employers not to challenge the court order, imposed by federal judges in the Northern District of Texas.

Seymour acknowledged that he acted contrary to instructions.

He shot news film March 11 outside the fourth floor courtroom where Delbert H. Garmon Jr. was arraigned on a kidnapping charge. KTVT used the film on a telecast, news director Dave Naugle said.

Terrell said KTVT opposes the courthouse photography ban but nevertheless follows a policy of trying to work with the courts.

Mailed Paper Has Long Trip

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A December issue of the Joplin Globe addressed to Thomaston, Ga., missed a train somewhere and arrived in the state of Georgia in Turkey.

Two and a half months later in Thomaston, L.S. Baney got his paper — with a Turkish postmark and written instructions for routing it back to the United States.

Machines Reduce Farm Labor Slack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that machines appear to be taking up the slack in farm labor.

It referred in particular to work which in the past depended to a great extent on foreign workers. Programs permitting broad use of workers from Mexico ended last year, except in a few emergency cases.

Officials expressed optimism regarding farm labor supplies this year. However, some farm leaders have not been so sanguine. A number said that the present decline in unemployment could greatly reduce farm labor supplies this year.

CUTTING BACK

In fact, some delegates to a National Farmers Union convention at Denver, Colo., last week said some farmers are cutting back their own operations and taking non-farm work to supplement incomes. These delegates said there was need for higher farm product prices to encourage farmers to work the land.

The department reported that last year labor in fruit and vegetable harvesting increased its productivity and thus helped to offset a decline in numbers. Specifically, it increased an

Mrs. Wilmans Rites Slated

DALLAS (AP) — A Thursday funeral service has been announced for Mrs. Edith Wilmans, 83, first woman member of the Texas Legislature.

Services will be at 3 p.m. at Hillcrest-Brewer Funeral Home in Dallas. Mrs. Wilmans died Monday.

She was first elected to the House of Representatives in 1923, but was unsuccessful as a candidate for governor in 1924 and 1926.

Trustees Approve Moss School Plan

School trustees Tuesday night approved plans and specifications for Moss Elementary School at an estimated cost of $474,000.

Atmar Atkinson, school architect, presented the plans, and trustees voted to call for bids the afternoon of April 26.

Moss Elementary School will contain 12 classrooms, a library, and a service kitchen with a dining room that will seat 250. The school will be constructed in the College Park Addition, east of the city.

Trustees also approved the forthcoming sale of $500,000 in district bonds for Tuesday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. Carter Johnston, fiscal agent from Rauscher, Pierce & Co., Inc. San Antonio, said in a letter that he recommended putting a 20-year call on the issue making the bonds mature from 1987 through 1991, callable in 1986.

The school board reviewed the four classroom addition to Marcy Elementary School prior to the 7:30 p.m. meeting and accepted it from the contractor, subject to final approval of the architect.

Marcy Elementary School now has 24 classrooms. Cost of the Marcy-Kentwood construction is $279,000. The bid went to Rose Construction Co.

Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, director of instructional services, and Hugh Smith, administrative intern, presented a program on school art curriculum with five art teachers from the various schools.

Trustees approved a project of the Airport Elementary P-TA to install the words "Airport Elementary" on the outer wall of the school with funds from the P-TA at a cost of $170.

Another Woman's Assistance

When a bereaved family includes a young mother and children, the sympathy, understanding, and experience of another woman is often of great value. At such moments, the friendly assistance of our lady attendant is always available.

A Devotional For The Day

If God is for us, who is against us? (Roman 8:31, RSV)
PRAYER: "Against Thee, O God, have we sinned; to Thee we make our confession, and implore forgiveness. . . Spare us, we pray Thee, and vouchsafe pardon to our sins, and be pleased to extend to us Thy loving-kindness and Thy mercy." We ask these things in the name of Thy Son, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . Amen."
(From the 'Upper Room')

Can't Manage Prosperity

Yesterday's dream is becoming today's reality — and worry. The Employment Act of 1946 made it the nation's purpose in economic policy to achieve full employment.

The latest figures show the unemployment rate is down to 3.7 per cent, a 12-year low. The actual number of unemployed is now about 1 million. This is near the minimum, allowing for chronic unemployables, the transitions between jobs, statistical inaccuracies and the ever present difficulty of structural unemployment — that is, fitting suitable workers to available job openings.

Yet we have Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, worrying that the unemployment rate may be falling "too fast." Ackley sees two problems: Spot shortages in skilled employment and the inflationary threat of getting "pretty close to full employment." On the latter point he said:

"As we get close to full employment, the threat of inflation gets stronger. We've got to be prepared to move quickly on taxes if it becomes necessary."

Ackley's statement is modern classic economics. The nearer we get to full employment, theoretically an ideal condition, the greater the danger of inflation, a threat to the stability of the national economy and particularly to fixed income people.

This is an economic paradox that simply must be solved, and the "New Economists" simply have not solved it. We must learn how to operate at full plant capacity and full employment without triggering inflation that devalues the dollar, indirectly taxes the fixed-income American and sets in motion the reverse trend toward recession.

It is, of course, true we are now in what amounts to an unnatural war economy. But if we can learn to cure depressions, and to level our recession-recovery fluctuations, we should be able to learn how to live stably with prosperity, even when limited war is a difficult to weigh factor.

The Personal Touch

Texas Patriot Day has been proclaimed for March 26-27 under the auspices of the Jaycees. Businessmen and private citizens are asked to fly their flags Saturday, and numerous activities have been suggested as a means of reflecting support of fighting men in Viet Nam.

The work sheet suggests this as a sort of counter-demonstration to the "Beardos, Beatniks and Pinkniks" who reportedly were planning a demonstration at this particular time against United States participation in Viet Nam. This should be more than a conditioned reflex.

Manifestation of support for the nation are always in order, yet continuing concern for the country and its traditions of freedom and justice require personal dedication and service.

One way of translating this into practical experiences of the heart is the Jaycee effort to obtain the names of all servicemen from here who are now serving in Viet Nam. This will enable them to send these men a personal word of appreciation for all that they are doing. This is hand-to-hand and heart-to-heart support which will speak a more eloquent message than anything.

So while we display the colors and engage in other demonstrations of devotion, don't forget the personal touch. And having inaugurated that touch, keep it alive. When our fighting men hear from you, they know you care and that you are aware.

'Racial Balance' In Schools

WASHINGTON — Resentment and bitterness are emerging in different parts of the country — North as well as South — over the efforts of the federal government to impose "racial balance" in the public schools. Throughout the debate on the Civil Rights Act of 1964, assurance was given that no attempts would be made to achieve "racial balance" in education, and that the government's efforts would be confined to what the Supreme Court had ordered — namely, that public schools could not remain segregated on the basis of race and must admit students without regard to color.

BUT WHAT happens if not enough students of a particular race apply for admission to a school? The answer is that the federal government now is to step in and arbitrarily order a "racial balance." This objective has been denied by governmental authorities here, who insist they are not trying to fix racial proportions. The new "guidelines," however, which have just been promulgated by the U.S. Commissioner of Education reveal that certain percentages must nevertheless be attained if a school is to receive federal funds in the 1966-67 school year.

Under the original "guidelines" issued in April, 1965, many schools in the South adopted what are termed "free choice" plans. These were accepted by the Commissioner of Education as fulfilling the requirements of desegregation, but the new regulations now say:

"A FREE choice plan tends to place the burden of desegregation on Negro or other minority group students and their parents. Even when school authorities undertake good faith efforts to assure its fair operation, the very nature of a free choice plan and the effect of long-standing community attitudes often tend to preclude or inhibit the exercise of a truly free choice by or for minority group students."

"In districts with a sizable percentage of Negro or other minority group students, the Commissioner will, in general, be guided by the following criteria in scheduling free choice plans for review:

"1. IF A significant percentage of the students, such as 5 per cent or 9 per cent, transferred from segregated schools for the 1965-66 school year, total transfers on the order of at least twice that percentage would normally be expected.

"2. If a smaller percentage of the students, such as 4 per cent or 5 per cent, transferred from segregated schools for the 1965-66 school year, a substantial increase in transfers would normally be expected, such as would bring the total to at least triple the percentage for the 1965-66 school year."

THE REGULATIONS go on to set up various other percentages which would admittedly be used as "criteria in scheduling free choice plans for review." If, after "review," a particular plan is not found satisfactory, another plan can be imposed or federal funds withheld.

Yet the civil rights act of 1964 specifically defined the "desegregation" required in public education. It says:

"Desegregation" means the assignment of students to public schools and within such schools without regard to their race, color, religion, or national origin, but "desegregation" shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance."

SCHOOL AUTHORITIES now apparently are to be required by one means or another to influence more and more Negro parents to send their children to a particular school in order to achieve the approximate percentages set forth by the U.S. Office of Education. Otherwise, the schools may be denied federal funds.

Johnson Makes Best Of Unhappy Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is not the man to magnify in public any differences with individuals or groups so long as he thinks there may be a chance to persuade them to return to camp.

This does much to explain Johnson's easy manner Tuesday when a girl reporter at an impromptu news conference asked about the recent statement of George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

MEANY HAD said in the future the huge labor organization would not be allied with either Democrats or Republicans. Johnson told the questioner she was apparently more distressed about this than he was.

But there was something Johnson could hardly forget even as he tried to make the best of an unhappy situation by saying that in his view the AFL-CIO has always been independent and should be.

The labor organization backed him in the 1964 presidential race and the AFL-CIO backed Democratic presidential candidates in election after election for years.

THE AFL-CIO support is a very big and important help to the Democrats.

But now it is irritated with the Democrats and Meany is disenchanted with them, as he explained in a very emphatic and biting way. It was enough to give Democrats some chills about this year's congressional elections.

Meany blasted the Democrats for failing to deliver on promises and laid down political independence as a goal for the AFL-CIO although it has backed the Democratic party for more than a generation.

"It is quite obvious," he said, "that if we are looking around for a party to adopt and control that we don't want the Democratic party because they can't deliver."

"SO WE CAN'T buy either party. We don't work for any political party, whether it is Republican, Democrat, or anything else."

In recent years, besides 1964, the AFL-CIO endorsed the Democratic presidential candidate in 1932, 1956 and 1960.

But Meany suggested labor return to the policy of one of its early leaders, Samuel Gompers: supporting individual candidates on their voting records, regardless of party, rather than political parties.

AT THE moment labor has two big gripe:

1. That the Johnson administration didn't work hard enough to break the Senate filibuster which killed labor's attempt to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section lets states outlaw the union shop.

But Meany noted that the one who led the filibuster to keep section 14B in the law was the Republicans' Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. Meany called him the "new darling of the conservatives."

2. The attempt by the Johnson administration to limit wage increases to 3.2 per cent, which was the figure set down as a guideline by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

A Husband Looks Back

NEW YORK (AP)—Yep, nothing changes a girl like marriage.

She seems so sweet, simple and direct when a fellow is courting her. But after they agree to test the theory that two can live as cheaply as one, a great change comes over her.

HER MOODS vary swiftly. It is as if he were living with a stranger in the house, a stranger with a different personality and a whole new set of values.

For example: She used to hang on every word he said. Now she uses every word he utters in order to try to hang him.

Before marriage she looked like she had been poured into her clothes. After marriage, if he didn't tug and pull and zip, she'd never be able to get dressed.

There was a time when she thought he looked dashing in a bow tie. Now, if he dons one, she remarks witheringly, "Who do you think you are—Joe College?"

IT WAS easy in the old days for him to put his hands around her waist and lift her lightly over an old stone wall. Later, using both arms, he could barely budge her off her high heels.

They used to catch fireflies together on summer nights. What do they catch now together on winter days? Only the common cold.

Once she complimented him on how broad his shoulders were. Today all she can see is the dandruff on them.

In the dim past she could stay up half the night listening to him tell about his dreams and ambitions. Now she roasts him out of bed at dawn and says, "You'd better get to work early today or they'll probably fire you—not that I'd blame them."

WHEN HE used to take her out, all she wanted was a small hamburger. When he takes her out now, she makes the restaurant waiter bring her a second big expensive steak if the first one doesn't suit her.

Formerly, they laughed and ran up the hills together. But presently, they quarrel about the bills she runs up separately.

Before the ceremony she promised, "Our marriage won't turn out just like 99 per cent of marriages do." After the ceremony, he found out how right she was.

It turned out to be just like 99 per cent of other marriages. But nature apparently meant for man to be turned by the girl of his dreams into the prisoner of her schemes. That's living.

Cranky Gall Bladder Not The Whole Story

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a gall bladder operation several years ago but it didn't make me feel better. Now I find out that I have a hial hernia which was not told about then. I am enclosing 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "Hial Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It."

Also can one have too much acid in the system, and can one find it out? — MRS. J. C.

I have no doubt that your gall bladder trouble was real, and you needed the operation. That is why hospitals have "tissue committees," to study tissue that has been removed and make certain that it was faulty and needed removal.

However, one of the great problems in medical care is exposing the facts when two (or even more) problems are bothering the patient at the same time. When one ailment is identified, there is always the temptation to say, "Ah, we've found the trouble."

Consequently every doctor has to keep reminding himself: "Can there be something else, too?" Before surgery for gall bladder trouble, even when X-rays show gallstones, it is wise to study for him to put his hands around her waist and lift her lightly over an old stone wall. Later, using both arms, he could barely budge her off her high heels.

Around The Rim

A Few More Crumbs

How come the Great State of Texas can't do more about its parks, and to be more specific, about ours which embraces the Scenic Mountain Drive?

I'll grant you that this acreage does not have a lake or a flowing river nor a host of shade trees. But in its own way, it is picturesque and has considerable attraction.

I KNOW ALL the arguments about vandals, and nowhere is the mark of their ugly, wanton destruction more pronounced than at the State Park. It makes my blood boil just to think about it, but to give up on this account would be to let these uncouth characters run us out of the park. We're always going to have some of them, but I feel that if the State of Texas would put the Rangers or some other agent of the Department of Public Safety on their trail, there would be a lot less appetite for tearing up state property. Most of these brawlers don't relish looking a ranger in the eye, and the word would soon get around.

AMONG THE improvements which vandals wiped out were a number of picnic units. I don't see why they can't be restored and their number increased. The Texas Highway Department is doing a splendid job in providing permanent arbors, small picnic units, etc. at little roadside parks. How come the State Parks and Wildlife Commission do more of this? And at Scenic Mountain Park?

THERE ARE other things which could be done, such as a small area such as the City Park has set aside and developed for the convenience of tourists moving through the country in camping trailers.

For the benefit of the small fry, and some of us older fry, perhaps a nature trail could be set up in the basin on the back side of the ridges. Native shrubs and trees could be identified with signs, and others could be transplanted with flora of this general area.

THE DRIVE around the mountain is a popular hiking spot, and I venture that some foot trails about the slopes would add to this popularity. While on this subject, how about a bridle trail. The way it is now, only a burro could negotiate the terrain, but perhaps this area could be a place where people could come to ride.

AND FINALLY, why can't the Great State of Texas find enough muscle to put those big stones back in the places in the retaining wall of the driveway? Here again, I know the vandals knocked them out, but that's no reason to leave them lying there.

I don't advocate any lavish expenditure for our state park. All I want is just a few more crumbs so that more people can enjoy it.

Inflation Curbs Eyed

NEW YORK (AP)—Second thoughts on inflation are taking shape in the securities and money markets as the administration pushes hard its drive to control prices and wages by persuasion.

BOND PRICES have rallied, however temporarily. This could indicate that current yields and interest rates are considered about as high as the economic outlook justifies just now.

And government officials are urging banks and other lenders to turn more to avoiding marginal loans than to hiking interest rates as a curb on the inflation which many had seen either here or on the way.

STOCK PRICES have rallied a bit, too. Some traders believe that yields—that is, the relation of dividend payments to market price of stocks—are getting into a more realistic range.

At the other end of the scale, production of needed materials such as steel is rising. This is reassuring some businessmen that industry can and will produce the goods to avoid the classic inflation of too many dollars chasing too few goods.

THE ADMINISTRATION apparently has scored another victory in its drive to hold down or turn back price rises. This time it's the matter of cigarette prices. One agency of the government may be warning of smoking hazards but other agencies are more concerned with holding down the cost of living for smokers.

So smokers have joined copper and aluminum, and to some extent steel, in the ranks of materials whose prices the White House can influence.

IN SPITE OF all this, prices are continuing to rise in many fields, of course. One is foodstuffs. Here the government has less control. Although its stockpiles of grains is high, it does not stockpile meat. But food prices fluctuate with the season, and with farmers' production plans.

It's in the field of financing the economic expansion and of stimulating production of industrial materials or of battling shortages, that the government has been moving.

Fulbright's Picture Of China

WASHINGTON — There's a name for Senator Bill Fulbright's game. The Foreign Relations Chairman in his China Policy hearings is at a pastime you would have to call: "Pinning the Wings of a Dove On Red China."

At the end of last week's morning session with a pair of Harvard University Sinologists, Fulbright backed them to the wall and gave them, albeit politely, the old-fashioned police court third degree. Wasn't it true, he asked them, that the most-cited examples of Communist China's "aggressiveness" were no examples of aggression at all?

FIRST, CHINA'S intervention in the Korean War. Didn't the Harvard professors agree that the Chicomos went to battle only because they feared that the U.S.-led forces would violate the Yalu River boundary line?

Second, China's invasion of Tibet. Wasn't it true that Tibet was not an independent nation, but had been a virtual possession of China under several governments for several centuries?

Third, China's invasion of the Indian borderlands. Wasn't it a mere assertion of "nationalist" rights over disputed territories?

IN ALL three instances, Fulbright got enough of the desired answers to serve his purpose.

The Arkansas Senator was out to prove a thesis, which I ventured to state for him in a March 15 column: "War with China is in the making, but it can be averted if we stop fighting in Viet Nam."

By showing Red China to be more aggressive against us than we are, and by depicting her as a patient, peace-loving nation which only strikes when struck, Fulbright hopes to put the U.S.A. in the wrong. He intends to undermine public support of the war we are fighting in Viet Nam.

FULBRIGHT'S wishful portrait of Red China is not a modern one, but is drawn from the antique model of Early Century China — showing an introverted, sordid, ambitious giant who is mainly concerned with domestic problems and who wouldn't hurt a flea unless aroused by the torments of bothersome outsiders. The two witnesses of the day did provide some paint for Fulbright's picture, but only in splashes.

Dr. John Lindbeck, associate director of Harvard's East Asian Research Center, found that "China's leaders are preoccupied with Chinese domestic issues," but this was true only in a special Communist sense.

DR. BENJAMIN Schwartz, a Harvard professor of history and government, found Peking trying to build the U.S.A. into a foreign monster that resembled "Japan during the 40's," when that island empire was trying to conquer the mainland. But the total impression of the Sino-

American confrontation, as one reporter brought it from the hearing, came to a single, clear and present fact in Viet Nam. Both witnesses agreed that Viet Nam is the "test case" of whether or not Communist "wars of liberation" could succeed with America helping the Resistance and Red China helping the Aggression.

THE TRUE picture then, is not the one of Fulbright's mischievous caricature. It is not one of an inner-oriented, recumbent China-with-doves-wings. It is an action picture of two large bodies in a death struggle — devil take the loser.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Organized labor has threatened to declare all-out war on President Johnson unless he backs a campaign for massive increases in the minimum wage.

The President and his economic advisers have proposed a gradual increase from the present $1.25 an hour to $1.40 late this year and $1.60 possibly in 1968. Support for the President's plan is beginning to show up in Congress.

Big labor, on the other hand, wants $1.40 this year, $1.60 next year, and $1.75 the year after that.

Labor leaders' honeymoon in the White House appears to be ending. Guardedly at first, and now openly, labor chiefs express bitter disappointment over the way President Johnson handled—or mishandled, in their estimation—their campaign to get Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley law repealed. Practical politician that he is, the President saw no chance for repeal in this session of Congress, and the day of the showdown vote in the Senate found him in Honolulu, far from the field of battle.

The higher minimum wage, along with repeal of right-to-work laws, was numbered among the President's 1964 campaign promises. He now appears ready to make good on the minimum wage promise, but in moderation.

The President is squeezed between vote-wealthy labor on the one hand, and increasing inflationary pressures on the other. With an eye to the latter, he has established a "guideline" of 3.2 per cent per year wage and price increases.

Either wage-increase plan, the President's or organized labor's, would go far beyond those guidelines. Organized labor may indeed proceed to declare all-out war on the President, but such a declaration could well be perilous.

Labor, before declaring war, should make sure it isn't underestimating the consensus-minded commander in chief. —DALLAS NEWS

Three NBA Veterans Reach End Of Trail

NEW YORK (AP) — The old standards were played on the court as always. And out on the court three other old standbys also played — for the last time in Madison Square Garden.

But for player-coach Rich Guerin and Cliff Hagan of the St. Louis Hawks there still are the National Basketball Association playoffs before they finish their careers.

For Tom Gola of the New York Knickerbockers it was the end — the end of a brilliant individual chapter in basketball, one which saw the Philadelphia native make All-America three times in LaSalle, play on the NBA championship team and be named to five NBA All-Star teams.

Gola may be walking away from basketball but not from competition — he is seeking election as a Pennsylvania state representative on the Republican ticket.

"It's not bad now," the 10-year pro veteran said Tuesday night when asked how he felt, knowing that he had played his last game. The Knicks, last in the East, beat the Hawks 126-125 in the final regular season NBA game with rookie Dick Van Arsdale scoring 24 points and getting the key basket that put the Knicks ahead to stay, 122-121.

"When I first had to make up my mind to quit, I felt sad about it."

"I think the early years are the most exciting of a man's career," Gola continued. "As the years go on it becomes a job. Mentally it's tougher than physically. You can go out there and run around, but you don't get up for a game like you used to."

If the later years weren't too much fun for Gola, the early ones must have been a ball.

After guiding LaSalle to the NCAA championship as a junior in 1954, he joined the old Philadelphia Warriors for the 1955-56 season, and they won the NBA title — no one but the Boston Celtics has won one since.

Known more as a playmaker and a defensive player Gola was picked for an All-Star game for the first time in 1960 and followed that up by being chosen in the next four years.

Dodger Stars Outside Fold

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Wednesday he has concluded that the world champions will play this year without star pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale.

"Unless I'm naive and have been taken in, I have to believe they won't sign," E. J. (Buzze) Bavasi said after learning that Koufax and Drysdale had gone over his head by calling Dodger owner Walter O'Malley to discuss their contract problems.

"If the boys prefer doing business with O'Malley, it's perfectly agreeable with me," said the general manager. "It's O'Malley's money. But I'm disappointed that Don didn't call me first."

"My relations with Sandy have always been on a business basis, but with Drysdale it has been more personal."

"If they can make more money in the movies than they can in baseball I wish them the best of luck, but they can't act and pitch at the same time."

O'Malley led a news conference here Tuesday night to say that Koufax and Drysdale had awakened him late Monday night with a phone call from Los Angeles.

"We had a rather long and pleasant conversation," O'Malley said, "but I must say that I believe the situation is status quo."

Red-Hot Bengals Vanquish Yanks

By The Associated Press
Denny McLain was just one out away. Jim Bouton still has a long way to go.

McLain, a hard-throwing Detroit right-hander, worked 8 2-3 innings — longest stint by a pitcher this spring — as the Tigers mauled the New York Yankees 7-4 Tuesday for their sixth straight exhibition victory.

Bouton, a troubled Yankee right-hander, worked three innings and took his third straight pounding. He yielded all seven Detroit runs, including a grand slam homer by Willie Horton and bases-empty blasts by Don Demeter and Al Kaline.

McLain, a week short of his 22nd birthday, is coming off a 16-6 season and his future is rosy. Bouton, 27, is fighting for a job after last year's 4-15 collapse — and running out of tomorrow. Tuesday's drubbing rocketed his earned run average for the spring to 11.70.

Bobby Wine, Philadelphia's light-hitting shortstop, collected his first hit of the spring, a 12th-inning homer that gave the Phillies a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

California crushed Cleveland 11-0; Atlanta edged Kansas City 4-3; Houston topped Pittsburgh 5-3; St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 6-4; Washington nipped Boston 8-7; Baltimore beat the New York Mets 5-3; the Chicago White Sox downed Minnesota 5-4 in 10 innings, and the Chicago Cubs trimmed San Francisco 4-2.

McLain gave up a lead-off homer to Roy White in the first inning and then stopped the Yankees until the ninth. Two singles and two walks forced a run across and McLain gave way to Dave Wickersham, who walked another two runs in before getting Roger Maris on a bases-loaded fly for the last out.

Horton unloaded on Bouton in the first inning and Demeter followed with his solo shot. Kaline connected in the third, the sixth homer given up by Bouton in 10 innings.

Claude Osteen, ace of the Dodgers' staff in the absence of Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, blanked Philadelphia for six innings while Al Ferrara's two-run homer sent the world champions in front 2-0.

The Phils tied it in the seventh when Rich Allen and Jackie Brandt homered off Howie Reed. Wine's homer in the 12th saddled the Dodgers with their eighth loss in 10 starts.

Brownfield Cubs Tackle Abilene

BROWNFIELD — Brownfield rallied for three runs in the sixth and added one in the seventh to topple Abilene High, 6-5, here Tuesday.

The defeat was Abilene's sixth of the season, compared to five wins and a tie.

Abilene outlived the Cubs, 9-5. Abilene 000 203 0-5 9 5 Brownfield 001 103 1-6 5 5 Lane, Scott (7), Lightfoot (7) and Knight; Franco and Harrelson.

SNYDER — Left fielder Mark Withrow drove out a three-run home run off Snyder pitcher Roy Hunter in the first inning and Abilene Cooper went on to defeat Snyder's Tigers, 5-1, here Tuesday.

The win was the eighth in nine starts for the Cougars while Snyder is 5-5.

Bill Sharman Is Named San Francisco Mentor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bill Sharman, newly named coach of the San Francisco Warriors, prepared today to devote nearly all his time to the National Basketball Association team.

The former Boston Celtics backcourt star, named Tuesday to replace the fired Alex Hannum, must move his wife and family from Los Angeles to the San Francisco area. He has four children.

The move was the main stipulation in his agreement with Warriors owner Franklin E. Mieuli, who fired the veteran and non-resident Hannum because he wanted a 12-month coach. He hired Sharman 10 hours later.

The Warriors finished fourth in the Western Division this season.

Mieuli said the 39-year-old Sharman turned down two other pro offers to come to the Warriors.

Sharman never has coached in the NBA. But he holds the distinction of coaching the only American Basketball League champion. After retiring from the Celtics in 1961, Sharman became coach of the ABL Los Angeles Jets.

The Jets folded before the end of the ABL's first season. Sharman moved over to the Cleveland Pipers and won the title. The league itself went under two months into its second season.

Sharman, like Hannum, a graduate of the University of Southern California, then mentored at Los Angeles State for two years and did the telecasts of the St. Louis Hawks games for a season. He was a promotion representative for an oil company the past year.

During his playing days, Sharman made the all-NBA team four times. He played 10 years for the Celtics with Bob Cousy, his roommate.

In 1964-65 the Warriors set a new loss record with a 17-43 mark. They improved to 35-45 this season.

"Alex is a six-months coach who has a contracting business in Southern California," said Mieuli. "And, he doesn't want to move."

Hannum said his firing came "somewhat as a shock, even though the subject had been discussed earlier."

"I know the Warriors are headed for greatness in San Francisco," continued Hannum. "And I'm sorry I won't be around for the big pay day."

Monterey Edges Longhorns, 6-4

LUBBOCK — Max Martin clubbed a two-out sixth-inning home run with Randy Bowlin aboard to provide Lubbock Monterey with a wind-swept 6-4 victory over Big Spring here Tuesday afternoon.

The contest was called after six innings due to weather conditions.

Bowlin had reached base on a single but relief hurler Gary Mears had apparently worked his way out of trouble by forcing Byron Price to ground out and Mike Parker to pop to the shortstop. Then Martin came on to break up the game.

Big Spring had numerous chances to win the game but five barks were called against Doug Robinson, Big Spring's starting hurler.

The Longhorns collected seven hits, compared to only six for Monterey. Sammy Mims accounted for two of the Steers' safeties. Robinson and Berry King crashed out doubles for the Longhorns.

Big Spring started off with a three-run first inning. Rod Roberts, Dean Gilstrap and Jesse Zapata crossing the plate with the help of King's double.

Monterey never really untracked until the fifth, when it exploded for three runs with the aid of four barks called against Big Spring hurling.

Gilstrap scored again for Big Spring in the fifth on successive hits by Mims, Yogi Anderson and Zapata.

The defeat was Big Spring's fifth of the season, compared to five wins. The Longhorns return to play in the Andrews tournament Thursday, meeting Eunice, N. M., in first round competition. Eight teams are entered in the meet, which ends Saturday.

The tournament action winds up pre-district competition for Big Spring.

Sox Will Run Tight Ship, They Insist

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — The Boston Red Sox had a meeting in the early days of the spring training. They closed the doors on the manager and coaches. It was for players only. They called in Manager Billy Herman and his coaches.

"They asked me to approve their plan to police themselves on and off the field," said Herman. "I agreed. I think it a very healthy situation." The Red Sox did a little housecleaning during the winter. They traded Bill Monbouquette, a hard-working established regular pitcher, to Detroit for defensive strength in the infielder George Smith and outfielder George Thomas. They sent infielder Eddie Bressoud to the New York Mets for outfielder Joe Christopher.

League with 165 home runs and finished second in batting at .254, but were ninth in the standings 40 games out. It was their worst finish in history.

Herman remained as manager but Mike Higgins was fired as vice president in charge of player personnel and replaced by Haywood Sullivan. Dick O'Connell became general manager and Ted Williams a vice president.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
Ex-champion JOE LOUIS, discussing Cassius Clay's unpatriotic remarks about serving in the armed forces:

"He is an American; he earns his living here. Any man fit to be champion of the world is fit enough for military service. Lots of athletes' incomes were hurt in World War II. Ted Williams was hurt twice. He went back to Korea. Besides that, Clay has not earned any six million like he says ... I never had had any regrets about serving four years in the Army. You shouldn't have when your country is at war. It helped me. When I came out of the service I had learned to do things on my own ... to go places. When you are boxing, somebody is always doing everything for you ... making all the decisions ... Clay got off on the wrong foot. He got no help from his Louisville management. They stayed on one side of town and him on the other. He ran wild. Nobody told him how to talk to people. Now nobody can stop him. I was lucky. I had help ... good managers, John Roxborough, Julian Black, Marshall Miles and Manny Seamon."

BILL VEECK

MEADOWLARK LEMON, the Harlem Globetrotters' clown:
"When I was young I used to wonder if I could play in the NBA. Now I wonder if any of the NBA stars could make it with the Globetrotters. I don't think they could hold up to it."

BUZZI BAVASI, vice president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, discussing Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, the club's celebrated holdouts:

"They told me that they had invested well and really didn't have to play. I told them that this made me truly proud of baseball. It really does. When two young fellows about 30 years old have made enough money playing the game to retire, it makes me proud of the game."

JOHN BENINGTON, Michigan State coach, a one-time University of San Francisco cager:
"They retired my old number 6 jersey at USF. Funny thing, though, for some reason they waited until after a fellow named Bill Russell was through with it."

POLK ROBISON, athletic director at Texas Tech:
"Basketball has come a long way in the Southwest Conference lately. Conference teams, especially at the end of the season, can play with the best on a neutral court. In December we do not have a good record because a good many of our teams play mostly road games due to the money angle and play with two officials furnished by the home team instead of taking one with them. That costs a little extra money and most of the teams don't want to be out any more money."

Coach BO HAGAN of Rice University, on the trend in college toward 200-pound linebackers:

"Mobility is the thing nowadays. A 200-pounder may get whipped occasionally in the line, but he must have the speed and quickness to cover wide and protect against the pass."

Texas Aggie mentor GENE STALLINGS, on why Southwest Conference recruiting is more competitive than in the Southeastern Conference:

"Over there, often you'll just have two state schools involved, plus maybe one outside school. Over here, if the boy is a real good one, you'll be competing against at least nine other schools."

BILL VEECK, former owner of major league baseball teams:
"Baseball is the only game that is left for humans to play. In basketball you have to be 7-feet-6 tall and in football you've got to be that wide."

Clay-Chuvalo Bout Will Not Be Recognized

TORONTO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay now has a license here for a 15-round bout against Canadian champion George Chuvalo March 29 that won't be recognized in Ontario as a title fight.

But if the 28-year-old Canadian strongboy ever gets lucky and hands the 24-year-old Louisville Lip his first defeat, you can bet that Chuvalo will be recognized in most parts of the globe where the World Boxing Association doesn't have jurisdiction.

The betting odds against Chuvalo winning are 7-1 at the moment. Still Clay was a 7-1 underdog the night he stopped Sonny Liston in seven at Miami Beach 25 months ago to win the title.

But if an undefeated, fast young, 6-foot-3, 210-pounder was 7-1 against Liston then some experts say Chuvalo should be at least 10-1 considering that his last effort was a losing one to Eduardo Corlett, the Argentine unknown who now fights out of Italy.

Corlett was stopped in five rounds by Patterson — that is Ray Patterson, the ex-champ's kid brother and sparring partner — on Oct. 9, 1964.

Chuvalo's 12 defeats, however, wouldn't count against him if he scores the big upset. The WBA recognizes Ernie Terrell as its world champion and the Ontario Boxing Commission is a member of the WBA.

That's why Merv McKenzie, head of the commission and a former president of the WBA, won't permit title billing to the fight in the Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

Clay secured his Ontario license and passed his physical examination Tuesday. He signed the contract for the fight after a closed-door session with McKenzie.

With the fight only six days away, Chuvalo scaled 212 pounds, only three over what he plans to weigh for the fight, according to trainer Ted McWhorter. Clay, who hit the beam at 225 when he arrived here last Friday, reportedly is getting close to the 215 he wants to carry for the fight.

Forsan Wins Net Skirmish

FORSAN — Forsan defeated Water Valley, 15-9, 15-11, in the divisional finals of the district girls' volleyball playoffs here Tuesday night.

The Buffalo Queens now meet the southern division titlists for the district crown. Mary Simpson and Jody Dodd were leading scorers for Forsan.

Water Valley had qualified for the title match by turning back Robert Lee, 15-11, 15-7 earlier in the day.

Water Valley defeated Forsan, 3-15, 15-11, 15-8 in junior high boys' finals while Forsan won the junior high girls' championship by trouncing Water Valley, 15-2, 15-10.

Gussy has worn well since she appeared on Wimbledon's sacred center court in tight-fitting white panties with a sexy lace ruffle across the bottom.

She is about 20 pounds slimmer, her hair is close-cropped instead of in braids, reddish instead of coal black and she bustles with bounce and bon mots.

She is now tennis instructor at the swank Lake Encino Racquet Club in the San Fernando Valley in California, where some of her pupils are movie stars — Jane Russell, Alan Young, Dick and Jerry Van Dyke.

Gussy, who also has had a career as sports commentator and fashion designer, is here to do TV commentary Saturday on the final of Jack Kramer's $25,000 pro tennis tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Atom-Smasher Ogled By All Except One Of 6 Contenders

NEW YORK (AP) — Selection of one of six possible sites for a proposed $375-million atom smasher should be a Chamber of Commerce dream come true. And it is for all but one of the finalists, South Barrington, Ill., near Chicago, where the people wish the federal facility would go somewhere else.

Arthur Hogfelt, the village president, said: "We moved out for privacy and fresh air and that's about it. We don't want to move. You might say they're purely selfish reasons — but what else is there?"

SCIENTIFIC PLUM

The other finalists, including West, Ill., an alternate to South Barrington, are actively seeking the atom smasher. "It's the scientific plum of the century," said Arthur Theriault, president of West Village, which is 15 miles away from South Barrington.

A site selection committee of the National Academy of Sciences recommended six spots in six states Tuesday as possible locations for the 200-billion-electron-volt — BEV — accelerator designed to probe nature's innermost secrets.

In alphabetical order, they are: Ann Arbor, Mich.; Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, Long Island, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; Madison, Wis.; the Sierra foothills 20 miles east of Sacramento, Calif.; and South Barrington (or West), Ill.

LONGEST, COSTLIEST Congress has not approved construction of the atom smasher, but if and when it does, it will be the world's largest and it will be the costliest single scientific installation ever built.

A hundred communities had sought the facility, which would cost $60 million a year to run and would bring in 2,400 resident scientists. The lobbying for selection was almost unprecedented.

The final selection will be up to the Atomic Energy Commission.

At least two state legislatures are ready to meet to enhance their state's effort to get the facility. The Wisconsin Legislature, which meets in May, is reported ready to adopt whatever legislation may be necessary. It already has pledged up to $10 million in state funds to make any site improvements required by the AEC.

SPECIAL SESSION

Gene Graves, director of the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development, said in Springfield that Gov. Otto Kerner will call a special session of the legislature if one of the Illinois sites is selected so that money can be appropriated to buy land to donate.

Harlan Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, said he was "very pleased" that Ann Arbor was among the finalists. The presence of the accelerator, he said, would be "highly significant to education, science and research."

Ann Arbor Mayor Wendell Hulcher said he saw it as a mixed blessing that would bring a great economic influx to the community — and problems. "Some of our folks have not been particularly anxious to have it," he said, "but on the other hand it also has broad general support."

"LOGICAL SITE"

At Brookhaven Laboratory, 65 miles east of New York City, a spokesman said, "There is no publication here. The laboratory feels it should be one of the logical sites for the accelerator."

Gov. John A. Love of Colorado said the selection of the Denver site "was most gratifying. We will continue to emphasize all of the unique advantages we offer and we are confident that our case will be sufficiently persuasive to turn the tide in our favor."

Gov. Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin sounded a word of caution: "There is a long road to travel before this becomes a reality."

In California, Gov. Edmund

G. Brown said selection of the Sierra foothills site pleased him. "But I am not surprised," he said. California is a world leader in science and technology because of the heavy investment in higher education.

Canterbury Archbishop, Pope Meet

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Pope of the Roman Catholic Church and an Archbishop of Canterbury met officially today for the first time in more than five centuries, voiced hopes for Christian unity and world peace, and embraced.

"You rebuild a bridge which for centuries has lain fallen between the Church of Rome and the Church of Canterbury," Pope Paul VI told Dr. Michael Ramsey, primate of the world's 45 million Anglicans.

"GREAT DAY"

The Pope called the meeting in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel "a great day" in history and said it had meaning "for peace among the nations of the world and for promotion of Christian brotherhood among men."

"I have come with the longing in my heart, which I know to be in your heart also, that we may by our meeting together help in the fulfillment of the prayer of our divine Lord that all His disciples may come to unity in the truth," Dr. Ramsey said.

He said he was joining his voice to Pope Paul's to appeal for an end to war in the world.

It was the first official meeting between an Archbishop of Canterbury and a Pope since King Henry VIII separated the Church of England from Rome in 1534. Today's meeting was preceded by a brief courtesy call by Dr. Ramsey's predecessor, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, on Pope John XXIII five years ago.

GREAT DIFFERENCES In their official greetings both the Pope and the archbishop took note of the great differences that separate their churches. They made clear they expect no great changes to come immediately.

"But charity can, and must, from now on be exercised between us, and show forth its mysterious and prodigious strength," the Pope said.

"It is my hope, and the hope of Your Holiness, too, that there may be increasing dialogue," Dr. Ramsey said.

The two met in the 16th century chapel where the Pope was elected in June, 1963. It was the first time the pontiff had used the chapel to receive a visitor.

DEEP HUSH

There was a deep hush in the chapel, as the 68-year-old pontiff and the 61-year-old archbishop rose from their chairs, turned to each other and embraced.

Clerical and lay representatives of both churches filled the chapel for the first of the three meetings the two are having today and Thursday. Italian television broadcast the chapel meeting live.

At their second meeting late today, the Pope and the archbishop met alone for nearly two hours in the Pope's private studio.

Thursday the two will pray together in the Basilica of St. Paul's Outside the Walls, embrace with a symbolic kiss of peace and issue a joint statement.

BRINGS PROTEST

Before the meeting, two Protestant clergymen and a layman from Britain again protested the archbishop's visit during a church service conducted by Dr. Ramsey in the All Saints English Church in downtown Rome.

Italian police took the dissenters out of the church after they opened their coats to display white smocks bearing the words: "Archbishop Ramsey — traitor to Protestant Britain."

The three were the Rev. Brian Green, secretary of the British Committee of the International Council of Christian Churches; the Rev. Jack Glass of the Sovereign Grace Baptist Church in Glasgow, Scotland; and James McCarroll, a member of the City Council in Belfast, Northern Ireland.

IGNORES IT

Dr. Ramsey appeared not to notice the incident. The three men sat in the next to last row of the long church.

The three came on a jetliner from London with the archbishop Tuesday. Two others in their group — the Rev. John Wylie and the Rev. Ian Paisley, both Free Presbyterians from Northern Ireland — were refused admission to Italy and sent back to London aboard the plane.

Both bared identical protest signs on their smocks as police led them away.

Top Comediennes Together On Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV • Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In her CBS special program Tuesday night, Carol Burnett introduced guest star Lucille Ball as "my own personal idol." It was something of an occasion since it brought together two of the nation's best-loved comedienne in a number of sketches that, for a change, had both point and bright lines.

But if Miss Burnett had watched a little more closely and worshiped a little less, Miss Ball's disciplined performance could have been a sort of object lesson.

TOO FAR

Carol Burnett is a funny, uninhibited woman but she has a tendency to carry her clowning one fatal step beyond the funny into the grotesque. Miss Ball, also funny and uninhibited, knows exactly where to stop.

The sketch in which Carol and Zero Mostel played a bickering couple who had been wed 10 dreary years, was carefully built around the abrupt change in their attitude when they suddenly learned that they were not legally married after all. It would have been funnier if Carol's reaction had not been completely slapstick.

BEST NUMBER

Best number of the hour had the two feminine stars playing a couple of cleaning women in a show biz deals and casting million-dollar movies based on snippets of information gleaned from executive wastebaskets.

Zero Mostel, a rare television visitor, never had a chance to demonstrate the talents that have made him a Broadway comedy favorite.

Candidate Disqualified By Conviction In 1923

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 1923 felony conviction caused the State Election Board to remove the name of Labor Commissioner "W. T. Hughes from the ballot Tuesday.

Hughes, 76, was not available for comment after the board's decision. He said earlier that he would appeal to the courts if the board ruled against him.

A protest against Hughes was filed by John Sowers, another candidate for labor commissioner. Sowers claimed Hughes was a candidate for the office of state commissioner of labor.
