Heavy rains flood valley

Flooding, the likes of which have not been seen in the Wichita River valley area since 1971, caused considerable damage to numerous homes and property over the weekend.

Few, if any, homes in Iowa Park reported water rising above their entrances. But at least one resident of a mobile home on Bell Road was assisted when water threatened.

Several streets were closed off to traffic when water covered them after a torrential rain fall early Thursday afternoon.

Rainfall measurements reported ranged from Virgil Woodfin's 5.45 inches at 201 S. Park to H.M. Nipper's 11.38 inches north of the city.

According to Phil Booth, who measures the levels of the two city lakes northwest of the city every Wednesday, Buffalo Lake rose four feet from the runoff and Lake Iowa Park was at capacity, 1036 feet, one foot above the previous reading.

However, another report on Lake Iowa Park was that it was 18 inches above the overflow spout Friday, and drained to its capacity level.

It was the overflow from Lake Iowa Park that contributed to closing of FM 367/368 west of Texoma Fertilizer and flooded a wide area along Buffalo Creek, which parallels 367 on the south.

Residents of FM 1814, which is the southern extension of Bell Road, south of 367 were warned to evacuate Thursday, and most did.

The old bridge over Buffalo Creek was being replaced and workers had constructed a solid dirt, low-level crossing beside it. That crossing was said responsible for the initial backing up of drainage, and then the water from the lake widened the flowing water.

The flooding extended to the west to take in homes in low areas of Coleman Park Road.

Further to the east from 1814, at least three residents at Horseshoe Lake were flooded.

Flooding caused by water from Beaver Creek, which flows into Big Wichita River, often closes Highway 25, between Kadane Corner and Electra, but last week it caused the closing of FM 368 north of the river bridge, and FM 369, also north of the bridge area.

Some old-time residents said the water crossed over 368 for the first time in that given area since 1941.

Chaparral Baptist Camp, on south Peterson Road, experienced heavy damage to recreation facilities in its low-lying area. Water rose almost to the buildings before the flooding ended.

The camp was expecting 300 boys for a five-day session to begin Monday, but fewer than 100 showed up, according to one report.

The camp's swimming pool was not only completely covered by the raging red waters, its bath house was halfway submerged. Wooden picnic tables were washed from their locations, but trapped in the east fence.

Residents north of US 287 said the city's storm drain that was installed on Johnson Road this year handled the runoff well.

However, those living on Douglas still had some flooding, but said it was runoff from the open field north of the housing area, rather than coming from Johnson Road, as had been the case in the past.

The school's drain system at Hawk Stadium functioned efficiently, draining the area sufficiently to allow the annual graduation ceremony to be held outside, rather than moving it into the auditorium.

Though some spotted harvesting of wheat was begun this week, most farmers say it will still be several days before they can get into the fields.

Wheat was showing signs of rust setting in over the weekend, and farmers point out that delayed harvesting will also allow weeds to grow above the head level to hinder cutting and also further reduce quality.

EVACUATION - At least three homes in the Horseshoe Lake housing area had to be evacuated Sunday because of high water. For more pictures during and resulting from last week's rain storms, see pages 6.

BILL PERRY AND SON WITH BOATS THEY WILL RACE SUNDAY

Boat racing Sunday at Lake Iowa Park

When boat racing returns to Lake Iowa Park Sunday, for the first time in over two decades, local fans will be pulling for the product of an Iowa Park home's livingroom.

Bill Perry, with the help of his wife and son, assembled his newest boat in his livingroom at 1002 Foley during the winter.

Using a basic kit, the glue, as he explained, cannot be applied effectively if the room temperature drops below 70 degrees. His garage isn't heated, so the family decided to begin putting the craft together in December inside the house, and completed it in the spring.

The 10-foot, six-inch hydroplane is propelled by a 25-horse power motor, which he explains is the most popular among his group of racers.

Mrs. Perry, an avid supporter of her husband's and son's racing hobby, said the clutter and mess was no big problem. She just waited until they were through with the project before cleaning.

"Besides," she added, "Bill had already promised me a new carpet."

The senior racer of the family is employed at Cryovac where he trains machinists, and the junior racer, who is entering his third year of competition, will be a freshman at Iowa Park High next fall.

Both will be entered in Sunday's competition, which is sponsored by the Iowa Park Athletic Alumni Association.

The event, sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association, is to get underway at 12:30 p.m. Admission will be $1 for all viewers 12 years of age and older, will be paid at the lake's entrance.

The south entrance, off US 287 access road, will be the only entry area used that day.

Perry said most of the racers, among whom will be at least eight former champions, will be at the lake Saturday to tune up their crafts and get a feel of the race course.

Only official boats will be allowed on the lake Sunday.

Receipts from admissions and concession stands will be used by the sponsoring organization to fund the Bertha McDonald Scholarship.

The race will have two "mores" than had been anticipated.

The first "more" is that there is more water in Lake Iowa Park than expected. In fact, the lake, until it dumped several acre feet of excess, was at its highest level since the dam was built.

Perry said the regulation course of one mile had not been laid out, because when the officials were here before the rains, there wasn't that much water there.

The second "more" is the number of racers expected.

A scheduled race in Louisiana was cancelled for this weekend, and many of the racers who had planned to go there have indicated they want to enter the local event.

Perry couldn't say, however, exactly how many would be entered.

Power boat racing is extremely popular from Oklahoma City north and Houston south, but there aren't any other races in between in Texas, he said. That was one reason why the racers were excited about one being established here.

Known champions entered include several father-son names.

City okays leasing of RAC, ball field

The Recreational Activities Center and Will Burnett Field may be leased to the Iowa Park Optimist Club.

Following a lengthy discussion during Monday's council meeting, in which comments, arguments, facts and opinions were exchanged by city fathers, members of the RAC board, Optimist members and others in the audience, the council directed lease agreements to be drawn.

City administrator James Barrington was directed to coordinate drafting of the leases with the aid of attorney Jay Cantrell, specifying that the duties of the RAC board not be altered so it would comply with United Way funding requirements, as far as the building was concerned, and the Little League's use of the ball field be its primary purpose.

The Optimist Club had earlier made a proposal to the city to purchase the RAC building.

Mrs. Vern Mikkelson, president of the RAC board, warned the council that if some other organization were to "come in and dictate how we run it" the United Way would cut off its funding of the facility.

Indicating her displeasure with the proposal of change and how it had come about, Mrs. Kenny Jones, a former RAC board member, said the "Optimists had used some tactics not showing maturity," and suggested more input and study was needed before the city took any action.

Allen Shewmake, speaking for the Optimists, explained the group's only reason for proposing taking over the two facilities was to improve them both, not necessarily to run them.

"It became apparent the United Way, RAC and city wasn't going to do it (fix up the RAC building), and we wanted to do something the community could be proud of," he said.

Mayor Tim Hunter asked if the Optimists would still be interested in leasing the building, knowing that the RAC operation might be moved to another structure sometime in the future.

Optimist president Mike Sellers said it would not change the club's thinking.

A length of time the building will be leased in the contract was not determined, but would be negotiated, and the cost would be $1 per year.

The motion to lease the baseball field included a five-year term, also at $1 per year.

Both leases must be approved by the involved parties and council, it was pointed out.

Voting on both leasing proposals was unanimous by the four aldermen present. Johnny Coker was absent.

Max Henderson, representing the Little League, made an appearance prior to the leasing discussion to ask that more care be given to the field and said his organization wants to work with anyone willing to take over the facility to improve it.

Another public appearance was made by Jack Womack, who explained he had started a lock and key business here and complained that the police department's practice of unlocking people's cars free of charge was hampering his business.

He asked that when stranded

Aldermen set goals

An aggressive set of goals was set by the Iowa Park city council during a retreat held Saturday at Lake Kickapoo.

While retreats such as the aldermen held are not considered official meetings and no voting takes place, such meetings are deemed valuable because informal discussions are held, it was explained.

A series of 10 goals to be reached during the 1987-88 fiscal year, which begins in October, was set.

They include:

1. Streets. Complete four major concrete street projects per year.

2. Waste Disposal. Continue to pursue incineration as our method of future waste disposal.

3. Water Treatment. Increase water treatment plant capacity to facilitate additional availability of treated water.

4. Activity Center. Complete the purchase and/or construction of Activity Center by end of calendar year 1987.

5. Police Station. Accomplish renovation of the Police Station facility by the end of calendar year 1987.

6. Baseball Complex. Construct a baseball complex on land next to Ken's Pizza by June 1, 1988.

7. Downtown Renovation. Continue downtown renovation to remove old buildings and clean up existing buildings, to include landscaping and potential fencing.

8. Lake Iowa Park. Lake Iowa Park beautification project completion date of June 1, 1988.

9. Economic Development. Pursue an aggressive land acquisition program to insure availability of land for future expansions and/or industries.

10. Library Grounds. Complete the Tom Burnett Memorial Library ground to provide a beautiful park environment.

Extensive discussions on each of the subjects were held, not only among council members but also with department heads.

During the department head presentations, plans for future projects, personnel and equipment needs as well as time schedules were brought out in order that the council can consider the presentations when planning future budgets.

The most aggressive planning of the city concerns the disposal of trash.

Already on notice from the state that a major change in the landfill operation is required, the city fathers are taking a long look into building an incinerator.

To comply with the state requirements for dumping into pits, Mike Price, city public works director, told the council a state-specified pit to handle one year's dumping would cost approximately $100,000. Such a pit would add approximately $10 on each household's monthly bill, he said.

While looking into incineration, the size of such a facility will depend on whether it will be used to handle only in-city trash, take in Cryovac's as well, or maybe even offer to take neighboring community's.

Aldermen were told a meeting with Cryovac officials will be held June 16, at which time the offer to sell steam to the industry, produced at the incinerator, will be discussed.

Price and Administrator James Barrington both told the council that existing municipalities using incineration with the greatest economy were selling steam to be used as energy, cutting the cost of operation and even offsetting construction cost.

The city must notify the state of its plan indications for disposing of trash by August, and be able to tell the state by October exactly how it will be accomplished.

Incineration plant construction costs ranged from $1.5-million to $2.5-million, according to the discussion Saturday.

Role models are important

Rev. Jerry Miller, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, gave an inspirational talk for the Evening Lioness Club Thursday.

He stressed the importance of adult women setting the right examples before the youth of the community. He said that they should be careful that their lives would inspire younger people to live happy, useful, Christian lives.

Rev. Miller used Naomi of the Old Testament to show how adults can help shape the lives of young people. She influenced her daughter-in-law, Ruth, to leave her country and to declare "thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

During the business, officers for 1987-88 were elected. These included Mmes. C.L. Thompson, president; Sam Hunter, vice president; Herb Adcock, secretary; V.I. Woodfin, treasurer; Sam Hill, Lioness tail twistress; W.E. Karstetter, Lioness tamer; Riley Thompson, Gerry Thurlo and D.O. James, directors.

The next meeting will be June 19 when John Kendrick, Lions district governor, will be a guest and install officers.

As I See It...

By BOB HAMILTON

Apparently none of our legislators ever served on, or knows anything about, school boards.

We've got a repeat of 1985.

School boards and administrators all over the state are having to stand on their heads until the legislators work out the state budget and let the educators know how much money they've got to work with.

Why is it so important?

Public schools are now in their budget-preparation periods. There is no way they can work on budgets without knowing the income they'll get to go with their expenditures.

Schools will start in only three months, in case those folks down in Austin hadn't figured it out.

I'll guarantee you, if it were them sitting in volunteer positions, trying to take care of their responsibilities, they'd not let a regular legislative session end without having a budget prepared.

The way the legislature works is to get all their programs passed, add those costs to the continuing costs, get a bottom line needed, and then pass a tax bill to fit the need.

What they need to do, as far as local school administrators are concerned, is to pass their tax bill first, and then fit their legislation to the amount of income anticipated.

That's a departure from the norm, but at least the folks back home wouldn't have to wait on a special session, that lasts right up to the eleventh hour, before being able to work on their own budgets.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and others who got HB 72 passed apparently were able to fight off changes concerning pupil-teacher ratios in upper elementary grades and also make some changes in the career ladder program.

These were two big disappointments of Supt. Glen Mitchell, who said yesterday that he had hoped the legislature would have cut off the 22-1 requirement above the second grade and changed the career ladder plan.

Mitchell said, and I definitely agree, that schools across the state are already hard-pressed for money, and no change in the two portions of HB 72 were going to aggravate the situation.

To meet the teacher-pupil ratio, as is laid out, millions and millions of additional dollars are going to be required to build more classrooms, or at least lease temporary structures, and hire more teachers.

There is no funding for the additional teachers required for the state-mandated ratio, nor was funding of the career ladder adequate.

The folks we elected, especially those in the leadership areas, are playing politics, the unpaid people back home are having to sweat out the time when they'll know their funding, and the taxpayers are having to foot the bill all the way.

And so far, we haven't got a thing to show for it!

No permits for new homes

Though no permits were issued by city hall during May for new construction, the permit total was still $40,652.

That brought the year's total to $549,704.

Permits issued during May included:

Rhue Thomas, 102 S. Victoria, addition, $5,040;

Burl McCormick, 1001 Lanelle, addition, $6,912;

Robert Kennedy, 707 E. Jefferson, addition, $300;

Racing

City, Kan, were 1986 winners in different divisions, and Barry holds the APBA 25 Modified Hydroplane five-mile speed record.

Rick and Richard Morris of Del City, Okla. and Leonard and Rick Miller of Grove, Okla. are also entered, as are Dudley Malone of Oklahoma City and Bobby Bray of Tulsa, Okla.

"Outboard boat racing is one of the fastest and most exciting of competitive events," Perry said. "Speeds of up to 100 miles per hour are recorded on a mile straight-away in the fastest of outboard modified hydroplane classes."

Outboard racing is done mainly as a hobby, as drivers and owners are seldom rewarded for their wins with enough to cover their traveling expenses for the weekend.

Investments are high with costs ranging from $500 to $10,000, which covers the initial price and does not include maintenance, replacement or repairs.

When the boats are racing, much of the time the propeller is the only part in the water, Perry said. Because of this, the driver's ability to prevent it from becoming airborne is a vital technique.

Safety is a major concern of the racing organization, and an emergency pickup boat is always available to assist a driver who might have lost control.

Races are expected to continue until 4 p.m. or later Sunday, Perry estimated.

motorists called for assistance, they be referred to him. The department's program "...is in direct conflict with my job and livelihood," he said.

The mayor told Womack the council would want to make a study of the request before responding, and said a response could be expected at the next meeting.

Four ordinances, all dealing with abandoning property adjoining the First Methodist Church property, were approved.

One abandonment included the southeast corner of the area which had always been considered property of the church, but in fact was not. It was laid out in the city's original plat as the site of the "Cameron Hotel" which was never built on city-owned land.

In the on-going discussion of the city's landfill operation, Mike Price, public works director, said the present operation was costing taxpayers $12.50 per ton.

However, he said if a landfill were to continue, and meet state requirements, that would eventually rise to $37.50.

He pointed out that the council's consideration of turning to incineration would be considerably cheaper.

In other business, Hunter said the city's 100th anniversary will be held in 1988, possibly to coincide with the school's annual homecoming; repairs of $4,950 for the sewer treatment plant were approved, and it was announced the council's next meeting will be held June 22.

Cook of the Week

The crowning touch to a dinner is a sumptuous dessert, and for many people that means something that calls for chocolate or cocoa as the main ingredient. Pamela (Mrs. Gary)Boyd shares her Fudge Pie recipe with the Leader readers this week, and it sounds like it would satisfy the "sweet tooth" craving at any season of the year.

There is scarcely a household in America today where chocolate and cocoa cannot be found on pantry shelves. Made from cacao (cocoa) beans, they are indeed the most important ingredients in cakes, pies, puddings and beverages. It seems that the English colonists introduced chocolate in America, first as a beverage.

A notice in the London newspaper in 1657 announced that a Frenchman was offering an excellent drink "jacolette" and chocolate houses sprang up where the delicacy was served.

Before that time, however, Cortez, the Spanish conquistador, was reported to be the first European to taste chocolate. He learned that the cocoa beans were used for money and he purchased some. Montezuma, the Aztec emperor, gave the big feast in Mexico and served "chocolati" to his guests in golden goblets.

The former Pamela Morgan was graduated from Wichita Falls High School and from Aladdin's Beauty College. She is presently working as a beauty operator at Pauline's Beauty Shop. She and Gary, who is fleet supervisor for National Linen, have three sons: Jeff, a high school student, and twins Jason and Joey, junior high school students.

A member of Faith Baptist Church, Pamela teaches the three-year-olds in Sunday School. She and Gary are active in 4-H work, and her hobbies are cooking, camping and interior decorating.

An invitation

On Friday, June 5, at 2:30 p.m., the Wichita Falls Waterfall will officially be turned on. As mayor of Wichita Falls, I would like to issue to each of you a personal invitation on behalf of the citizens of Wichita Falls to join us for this momentous occasion.

The people of your community make up an important part of this large North Texas, Southern Oklahoma area, so we think of this special event almost as a "family" reunion for the entire region -- and no one ever wants to miss a family reunion.

There are other events also planned.

The Sheraton Hotel is sponsoring a lawn party at 1 p.m. on that day for everyone interested in celebrating the Falls.

Then, immediately following the turn-on of the Falls, the gates to FallsFest will open at Lucy Park.

So join us. Help us celebrate the turn-on of the Falls and enjoy an exciting weekend.

Sincerely,
Charles Harper, Mayor

The Eyes of Texans

EYE GLASS IN 2 HOURS: FACT OR FANTASY?

In the past two years optical shops advertising glasses in two or even one hour have sprung up all over the USA. Can they do what they claim or is it another rip-off of the gullible public? Let's consider the facts: over 90% of glasses can be made in two hours or less. But even the best optical labs have about a 10% failure rate where the lenses have to be redone. Most people don'ts really need to have their specs made in two hours any more than they need "One Hour Cleaning." True, some folks with really "bad" eyes would need glasses in a hurry if they lost or broke their glasses but the higher lens corrections often can't be made in a couple of hours. The solution here would be to have--wait for it--an extra pair of glasses! Tis a mystery to me that many people who have two cars, two or more T.V.'s, etc. will resist getting an extra pair of glasses.

Another thing that the uninformed public is not aware of it that all glass lenses are required by law to be safety treated but the best way to do this is by chemically treating the lenses and this process takes 16 hours. Tempering the lenses by the "air treatment" method takes less time but is a more primaitive and less effective way to safety treat a lens.

The bottom line is, if you wear glasses and would be visually handicapped without them, do yourself a favor and buy an extra pair.

FAMILY HEALTH NOTES

Hot, muggy weather can kill

There are two conditions some people should watch out for during the hot, muggy days of summer - heat exhaustion and heat stroke. That applies particularly to elderly people and those with chronic diseases such as diabetes, high blood pressure, heart condition and infections. Certain drugs also tend to make [illegible] heat and humidity because

When severe heat and high humidity combine, a person's body tries to combat it by sweating. This places a burden on the body, and for those with chronic health problems, the extra burden can be dangerous. For instance, the heart has to work harder to maintain a normal 98.6 body temperature as it attempts to compensate by pushing the heat to the skin's surface where it evaporates by sweating. This is nature's way of cooling the body. When evaporation does not occur, the body's heat control mechanism can malfuntion and result in extremely high body temperatures, known as heat stroke.

Heat stroke is a medical emergency and a life-threatening condition. When air temperature exceeds the normal 98.6 temperature of the body, the body's temperature regulating mechanism may fail and cause sweating to stop -- resulting in a rapid rise in body temperature. The initial symptoms of heat stroke (sometimes called sun stroke) are headache, dizziness and fatigue.

One of the key things to watch out for is the absence of sweating. In addition, the patient is flushed and can have a pulse rate as high as 180. Breathing is rapid and the patient often is disoriented. If appropriate treatment is not started immediately, temperatures can soar, followed by unconsciousness, circulatory collapse and death. The idea is to get the person cooled down as quickly and safely as possible. This can be accomplished by application of ice packs.

Heat exhaustion (or heat prostration, as it is sometimes called) is also caused by excessive loss of body fluid through sweating. By contrast, though, this condition gives plenty of warning ahead of time, as opposed to heat stroke -- which gives little warning of that is happening.

The symptoms of heat exhaustion are tiredness, anxiety and drenching sweating --"just pouring off." Instead of rapid pulse, there is a slow, thready one, along with low blood pressure and a below normal temperature. While heat stroke is often dramatic and obvious, heat exhaustion might sometimes simulate diabetic shock, poisoning or loss of blood -- all of which make it a little more difficult to diagnose. The history will usually reveal excessive exposure to extreme heat and a failure to take enough fluids and salt. Heat exhaustion can usually be prevented by drinking plenty of water and replacing salt that is washed away with the sweat. Salt taken in food is generally enough, but sometimes a little extra is indicated, particularly in very hot weather.

One other condition that is apt to cause trouble because of excessive sweating during hot, muggy weather is heat cramps. This problem may acompany heat exhaustion. But usually it amounts to no more than cramps in the calves of the legs or the muscles of the arms or chest.

The elderly and those with chronic health problems should not only stay in air conditioned quarters during hot, muggy weather, but should reduce activity and drink plenty of liquids -- even if they don't want it. The idea is not to wait until you are thirsty.

Going for the record

The second of five series of events for "Summer In The Park," the "World of Records Day," will begin at 5:30 this afternoon with the brick throwing contest in the park behind city hall. Iowa Park Chief of Police, Allan Sheffield, will be the master of ceremonies.

Entries will be taken for the record setting events up to this evening.

Other than the brick throwing contest, other events will be, in this order, card throwing, frisbee throwing, bubble gum blowing, spitting contest, largest human pyramid and apple bobbing.

Also, knot tying, hot dog eating, marshmallow stuffing, most people in a Volkswagon and bathtub racing.

The length of each contest will vary depending on the number of entrants.

All events will be held at or in front of the pavilion, and Cash Street will be closed between North Wall and the post office during the contests.

The Iowa Park MuleSkinners will be set up near the pavilion serving barbecue brisket sandwiches and iced tea for $2.50 per person and the Kidwell P-TA will be selling homemade items.

A patriotic watermelon supper is the next program of the series to be held at 5:30 p.m. July 2. Included on the program are the Sheppard Air Force Base Blue Falcon Chorale and Drill Team, followed by "Hurray America," a program directed by Modern Music Study Club and presented by children and adults.

On August 6, a homemade ice cream contest will begin at 5 p.m., followed by the Summer Youth Theatre presentation of "The Wizard of Oz" at 7 p.m.

The last event of the season will be quilt show and music by the Friendly Door Band at 6 p.m. and the Red River Blue Grass Band at 7 on Sept. 3. There will also be a fiddler's contest and homemade pie will be sold by Friendly Door members.

Two arrested

Besides spending a lot of time checking streets for flooding and assisting stranded motorists, Iowa Park's police during the past week arrested two men.

One arrest, of Andres Dominegguez Martinez, 32, at 11:15 p.m. Wednesday at US 287 and Bell Road on a charge of unlawful carrying of a weapon. He was transported the next morning to county jail.

Friday evening when police responded to the scene of a two-vehicle accident, Clint Allen Owen, 25, was taken into custody on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Owen, who was driving a car that collided at the intersection of Wall and Ruby, with another operated by Richard Morath, was taken to Wichita General for X-rays and then turned over to county jail.

Police were informed by telephone Friday morning by Sherrie Collins, 605 W. Coleman, that $8,000 worth of jewelry she had reported missing the previous week had been recovered.

Robert Palmer, assistant superintendent of schools, reported Monday the theft of a tire and wheel from a school bus while it was parked over the weekend at the bus barn.

COUNCIL MEMBERS IN INFORMAL SESSION TO ESTABLISH GOALS

Worth Quoting

Last year Bonnie and I put up a hummingbird feeder in a cedar tree next to our front porch. Almost immediately the fiesty little birds darted in and we had them as company for the rest of the summer.

The other day I got out our feeder, put it up in the same place. Almost immediately one bird appeared, hovered for a moment and took off. That's the last bird we've seen.

I've talked to other people with feeders, and all tell me that they have had birds for some time.

Something was wrong, and I didn't figure out what until a couple days ago. I noticed a couple Blue Jays were spending a lot of time in the tree, and further inspection revealed a big nest.

Suddenly, I understood. I can't blame the hummingbirds for not wanting to drink with loud-mouth, irritable Blue Jays.

I moved the feeder to another part of the yard. I haven't seen any hummingbirds yet. Maybe it's still too close.

Police helpful

Dear Sir:

Too often we are quick to criticize our local police department. That is why I want to share with you an incident that happened Tuesday, May 26.

I had stopped at a local convenience store, jumped out of my car, locked it and...horrors! I had locked my keys in the car! Fortunately, Officer Cross of the Iowa Park Police Department came to my rescue.

Through many attempts in the rain and lightning, he was able to unlock my car and I, embarrassed, went on my way.

Please give my thanks and gratitude to Officer Cross. I also want to thank you for having such an honorable and concerned police department.

Sincerely
Jeanette Garrett

Mitchell gives program

Eighteen members of the Night BW of First Baptist Church and three guests, Kevin Mitchell, Mrs. Jessie Stone of Bonham and Mrs. O.S. McLemore, attended the meeting held Monday at the church.

Mrs. H.E. Cummings and Mrs. Elmer Singleton were the hostesses.

Kevin Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Mitchell and a student at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, presented the major part of the program taken from Royal Service, a monthly publication. The topic of the program was "Where Did Christian America Go?"

He said that since Christians are people who worship Christ perhaps America has never been a Christian nation in the truest sense of the word because of the religious pluralities which allow freedom of worship.

Kevin remarked that people came to America from other countries because they wanted to worship as they pleased, and the Constitution and Bill of Rights guarantee them that freedom. He said that America is not a Christian nation because today practically every kind of religion and cult worship can be found here.

Mrs. Glenn Mitchell closed the program by suggesting how Christians can operate in a religiously pluralistic world. She said that they can breathe deeply the air of religious freedom working hard to proclaim the gospel of Christ without becoming oppressive.

Mrs. Terrel Silvers conducted the business before the program when members voted to furnish Kool-Aid and cookies for the Vacation Bible School.

Mrs. E.T. Patterson read the names of missionaries on the birthday calendar for the day and their fields of service and offered prayer for them.

Kermit knocks Hawks out of playoffs

It was a long trip home Saturday evening from Abilene for the Hawks, who had dropped their area playoff game 6-10 to Kermit.

The season was cut short with a 16-10 record, but they had finished among the top 16 Class AAA teams in the state.

Besides not advancing to the regional level, their disappointment was the fact they had out-hit the Yellow Jackets 6-1, and held their opponents scoreless in four of the innings during which only 11 batters had been at the plate. Also, Iowa Park had left nine runners stranded on the bases to Kermit's six.

But the outcome of the game was determined in two innings, as well as the fact the young Hawks had committed two more errors than had the 'Jackets, 8-6.

The Hawks scored once in the first inning and added three more in the top of the fourth.

All nine Iowa Parkans batted in that frame, collecting two singles and being aided by three Kermit miscues.

But Kermit tied the score in the bottom of that inning, thanks to four walks and two errors.

Iowa Park re-took the lead in the fifth, scoring two more runs when Jeff Huff started off with a triple and Eric Whitman matched it for an RBI. Whitman scored on an error when Jim Nicholson hit the ball to the shortstop who made an error.

Billy Kenyon had given up only one hit before he was relieved in the fourth when the score was tied. He had issued four walks and the Hawks had committed two errors, so Robert Adams took over the mound with only one out and the bases loaded.

Two batters later Kermit was retired without scoring any more, and left three runners stranded.

In an unusual move in the sixth inning, Coach Daryl Frazier brought Kenyon back to the mound after Adams got in trouble by walking one, hitting another batter, and had two errors from his defense.

Reclaiming the mound with one out, two runners on bases and the score tied at 6-6, Kenyon gave up a couple of singles, struck out one, and got another to ground out in the infield, but an error on a bunt gave the Jackets their other two runs.

With two out in the top of the seventh, a glimmer of hope still was alive for Iowa Park when Whitman walked and Nicholson went to first after being hit by a pitch. But Duggins grounded out in the infield and the game was over.

Besides the triples of Huff and Whitman, singles were credited to Craig Rickman, Adams, Mike Williams and Nicholson.

The Hawks last year advanced to the bi-district level, after winning their first district title since 1975, where they lost 6-1 to Merkel.

Kermit's win was claimed as some sort of revenge for several of the Jackets on the team who had lost to the Hawks, 36-14, in the regional football game last fall.
